- b. The American Bar Association's Commentary to its Code of Judicial Conduct states that it is inappropriate for a judge to hold membership in any organization that invidiously discriminates on the basis of race, sex, or religion, or national origin. Indicate whether any of these organizations listed in response to 11a above currently discriminate or formerly discriminated on the basis of race, sex, religion or national origin either through formal membership requirements or the practical implementation of membership policies. If so, describe any action you have taken to change these policies and practices.

To the best of my knowledge, none of the organizations listed above currently discriminates or formerly discriminated on the basis of race, sex, religion or national origin, either through formal membership requirements or the practical implementation of membership policies.

12. Published Writings and Public Statements:

- a. List the titles, publishers, and dates of books, articles, reports, letters to the editor, editorial pieces, or other published material you have written or edited, including material published only on the Internet. Supply four (4) copies of all published material to the Committee.

Divorce Value: Standards Of Value For Professional Practices And Closely Held Businesses, published on the website of The American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers, posted September 9, 2010. Copy supplied.

Open Letter from Judge Biggs, "Thank You For Allowing Me To Serve", Winston-Salem Chronicle, July 7, 1994 (reprinted in multiple outlets). Copy supplied.

- b. Supply four (4) copies of any reports, memoranda or policy statements you prepared or contributed in the preparation of on behalf of any bar association, committee, conference, or organization of which you were or are a member. If you do not have a copy of a report, memorandum or policy statement, give the name and address of the organization that issued it, the date of the document, and a summary of its subject matter.

During the years that I served on the Winston-Salem State University Board of Trustees, from 1999 to 2001 and from 2005 to 2009, I participated in board meetings focused on matters pertaining to Winston-Salem State University's management and development. The board's role was to serve as an advisor to the North Carolina Board of Governors, which oversees all of the state's public colleges and universities. I have no notes, transcript, or recordings of these meetings, but the university's annual reports during this period summarized various measures on which I voted. The annual reports and publications that I have identified are available at: <http://www.wssu.edu/about/publications/annual-reports.aspx> and <http://www.wssu.edu/about/publications/archway-archive.aspx>.

- c. Supply four (4) copies of any testimony, official statements or other communications relating, in whole or in part, to matters of public policy or legal interpretation, that you have issued or provided or that others presented on your behalf to public bodies or public officials.

I have done my best to identify transcripts or recordings of all speeches or talks delivered, including through a review of my personal files and searches of publicly available electronic databases. Despite my searches, there may be other materials I have been unable to identify, find or remember. I have identified the following:

As an alternate appointee for Discretionary Member 1 on the North Carolina Innocence Inquiry Commission from 2007 to 2010, I participated in quarterly meetings focused on investigating and evaluating post-conviction claims of factual innocence. I have no notes, transcripts, or recordings of these meetings.

As a member of the North Carolina State Advisory Council on Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention from 1999 to 2000, I participated in meetings focused on North Carolina's juvenile justice system. The Council's role was to assist the Department of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention to improve the juvenile justice system in North Carolina. I have no notes, transcripts, or recordings of these meetings, but the Council's activities are summarized in the 2000 Annual Report, which I have supplied.

As a member of the Governor's Task Force on Youth Violence and School Safety from 1997 to 1999, I participated in meetings where we formulated recommendations designed to reduce youth violence and increase school safety. I have no notes, transcripts, or recording of these meetings. In addition, although I did not personally draft any recommendations, I did contribute to their creation. These recommendations were published in the Governor's Task Force on Youth Violence and School Safety Executive Summary Report in 1999, which I have supplied.

As a member of the Mayor's Violence Reduction Task Force for Winston-Salem from 1993 to 1995, I participated in meetings called by the mayor that focused on implementing programs and initiatives designed to reduce violence in the local community. I have no notes, transcripts, or recordings of these meetings.

As a member of the State Legislative Council to Revise the Juvenile Code in 1994, I participated in monthly meetings where we discussed and evaluated North Carolina's criminal statutes pertaining to juveniles. I have no notes, transcripts, or recordings of these meetings.

- d. Supply four (4) copies, transcripts or recordings of all speeches or talks delivered by you, including commencement speeches, remarks, lectures, panel discussions, conferences, political speeches, and question-and-answer sessions. Include the date and place where they were delivered, and readily available press reports about the speech or talk. If you do not have a copy of the speech or a transcript or recording of your remarks, give the name and address of the group before whom the speech was given, the date of the speech, and a summary of its subject matter.

If you did not speak from a prepared text, furnish a copy of any outline or notes from which you spoke.

During my legal career and particularly during my tenure as a state district court judge, federal prosecutor and court of appeals judge, I spoke frequently. After reviewing my files and public databases, I have provided information for all of the presentations that I can recall, although there may be events that have been omitted inadvertently.

13. Judicial Office: State (chronologically) any judicial offices you have held, including positions as an administrative law judge, whether such position was elected or appointed, and a description of the jurisdiction of each such court.

In 1987, I was appointed by Governor James G. Martin to fill the unexpired term for a retired judge on the North Carolina State District Court, 21st Judicial District. I was retained in elections to four-year terms in 1988 and 1992. I left the state court bench in 1994 to accept the appointment as an Assistant United States Attorney. The district courts have divisions that include civil, criminal, juvenile, and magistrate matters. This includes jurisdiction over civil cases involving matters with generally less than $10,000 in controversy and criminal cases involving misdemeanors, infractions, and probable cause hearings for felony cases. The district courts also have original jurisdiction over divorce, child custody, and child support cases. While in the court, I presided over cases from the civil (including child custody and child support matters), criminal, and juvenile divisions.

In 2001, I was appointed by Governor James B. Hunt, Jr., to serve as an associate judge on the North Carolina Court of Appeals, the state's intermediate appellate court. The seat on the court to which I was appointed was a newly created seat by the state legislature, which required that I run a state-wide race for election to the court in November 2002. I was not successful in my bid for election to the seat. The North Carolina Court of Appeals has jurisdiction over all civil and criminal cases appealed from the superior and district courts (state trial courts), except in capital murder cases where death is imposed, which go directly to the North Carolina Supreme Court. In addition, the North Carolina Court of Appeals also hears direct appeals from certain of the state's administrative agencies.

- a. Approximately how many cases have you presided over that have gone to verdict or judgment?

As a state district court judge I presided over hundreds of cases each month, depending on the case load in the court rotation to which I was assigned. Most of these cases were resolved by verdict, judgment, guilty pleas, or mediated settlements. Approximately one fourth of these cases required trials, most of which were bench trials. As a court of appeals judge, I did not preside over cases in the traditional sense.

- i. Of these, approximately what percent were:

jury trials:	10%
bench trials:	90%
civil proceedings:	50%
criminal proceedings:	50%

- b. Provide citations for all opinions you have written, including concurrences and dissents.

See attached list.

- c. For each of the 10 most significant cases over which you presided, provide: (1) a capsule summary of the nature the case; (2) the outcome of the case; (3) the name and contact information for counsel who had a significant role in the trial of the case; and (3) the citation of the case (if reported) or the docket number and a copy of the opinion or judgment (if not reported).

As a state district court judge I presided over hundreds of cases, none of which were transcribed except that the verdict, judgment, guilty plea or other resolution was written in the case file or file jacket. The files for these cases are kept at the Forsyth County clerk's office in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. When the clerk's office automated its files in 1998, the judge's name assigned to the case was not a required entry. The files are indexed by the names of litigants and file numbers. The clerk's office is unable to query by judge's name, which has precluded the identification of cases that I heard during the time I was in district court.

Although I did not preside over the trial of cases in the traditional sense as an appellate judge, I have provided information related to ten cases for which I wrote the opinion for the court and for which I sat on the panel that presided during oral argument of the appeal:

1. Durling v. King, 146 N.C. App. 483, 554 S.E.2d 1 (2001)

This case involved a lawsuit between contracting sales representatives and subcontracting sales representatives alleging claims that included breach of contract and unfair and deceptive trade practices under North Carolina's Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Statute. The defendant appealed from a jury verdict in superior court in favor of the plaintiff's breach of contract claim and the jury's finding that there was a basis for an unfair and deceptive trade practices claim. The plaintiff also appealed a denial by the trial court to award treble compensatory damages and attorney fees pursuant to the unfair and deceptive trade practices statute. I wrote the opinion for the court, affirming in part and reversing in part. We affirmed the jury verdict in favor of the plaintiff's breach of contract claim and the trial court's ruling in favor of the defendant that the evidence did not establish unfair or deceptive trade practices so as to justify an award of treble damages or attorney's fees. We reversed and vacated the jury's finding that there was a basis for unfair and deceptive trade practices.

2. Hobbs v. Clean Control Corp., 154 N.C. App. 433, 571 S.E.2d 860 (2002)

This case involved an appeal from an opinion of the North Carolina Industrial Commission denying the plaintiff's claim for worker's compensation and concluding that plaintiff failed to establish the requisite elements of a compensable occupational disease. Within eight months of starting work for her employer conducting sales demonstrations for customers, the plaintiff consulted a physician for arm and elbow pain. After surgery, the pain continued, and the plaintiff sought worker's compensation benefits. After the Commission denied her claim, the plaintiff appealed. I wrote the opinion for the court of appeals, which affirmed the judgment of the Commission, concluding that the Commission's findings were supported by competent evidence and the findings justified its conclusions.

3. In re Will of Allen, 148 N.C. App. 526, 559 S.E.2d 556 (2002)

This case involved a challenge to the validity of a holographic will. Upon Mr. Allen's death, a handwritten will was found among other papers in a wooden bowl on the kitchen counter. The will included phrases that appeared to be written with a different pen. Caveators alleged that the will was not a validly executed holographic will and moved for a directed verdict at the close of the propounder's evidence and again at the close of all the evidence. The motions were denied by the superior court and the issue of the validity of the will was submitted to the jury, which returned a verdict in favor of the propounders. Caveators argued on appeal that the superior court erred in its denial of their motion for a directed verdict. I wrote the opinion for the court. We affirmed the trial court, stating that the trial court's ruling on a directed verdict motion is addressed to the court's discretion, and will not be overturned absent an abuse of discretion. We concluded that the trial court properly submitted the case to the jury in that there were questions of fact to present to the jury related to the authorship of the will, whether the remainder of the will expressed Mr. Allen's intention irrespective of the phrases written with a different pen, and the location where the will was found.

4. North Carolina State Bar v. Talford, 147 N.C. App. 581, 556 S.E.2d 344 (2001)

This case involved a direct appeal from an Order of Disbarment by the North Carolina State Bar Disciplinary Hearing Commission. The commission had found that the attorney had violated North Carolina's Rules of Professional Conduct regarding maintenance of client funds and imposed the sanction of disbarment. I wrote the opinion for the court affirming in part and reversing and remanding in part. Because no issue of legal interpretation was raised on appeal, the standard of review applied by the appellate court was abuse of discretion. We held that the commission did not abuse its discretion in its finding that the defendant-appellant had violated the North Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct governing the attorney's maintenance of client's funds held in his trust account. We reversed the imposition of the sanction of disbarment finding that the commission-appellee had abused its discretion and remanded the case to the trial court with instructions to impose a sanction consistent with the court's opinion.

5. Occaneechi Band of Saponi Nation v. North Carolina Commission of Indian Affairs, 145 N.C. App. 649, 551 S.E.2d 535 (2001)

This case arose from a petition by the Eno Occaneechi Indian Association to the North Carolina Commission of Indian Affairs requesting recognition as a North Carolina Indian Tribe. Although the administrative law judge initially recommended that the tribe be granted recognition, the commission denied tribal recognition. On appeal to the trial court, the petitioner argued that because the commission had not rendered its decision within the statutorily-prescribed time, the administrative law judge's decision was the operative decision. In affirming the commission's decision, even though it was outside of the statutory period, the trial court stated that the time limit was intended to be presumptive, not absolute, and thus if the agency could demonstrate reasonableness in the delay, the statute did not apply. I wrote the opinion for the court, wherein we reversed and remanded the case to the trial court. We concluded that the commission-appellee did not issue its final decision in accordance with the statutory requirements, and that by operation of the statute the recommended decision by the administrative law judge became the final decision.

6. Prior v. Pruett, 143 N.C. App. 612, 550 S.E.2d 166 (2001)

This case involved a wrongful death claim brought by the administrators of a shooting victim's estate pursuant to §1983 for a violation of the plaintiff-decedent's civil rights and a claim for relief under North Carolina common law for wrongful death. The case was initially brought in the superior court of Burke County and was subsequently removed to federal court by the estate administrators. The federal district court granted defendants' motion for summary judgment on the §1983 action, declined to exercise supplemental jurisdiction over the state claims, and remanded the state claims to superior court. On remand, the superior court denied the defendants' motion for judgment on the pleadings. Defendants appealed, and the court of appeals affirmed the superior court. On remand the defendant-appellees moved for summary judgment on the state claim of negligence and contributory negligence, which the superior court granted, and it is this decision that was the subject of this appeal. I wrote the opinion of the court, wherein we reversed the grant of summary judgment on the claims of negligence and contributory negligence by the superior court. We held that the trial court erred in granting summary judgment in favor of the defendants in that there existed genuine issues of fact precluding summary judgment.

7. State v. Johnson, 143 N.C. App. 307, 547 S.E.2d 445 (2002)

This case involved the conviction of a defendant in superior court for felonious possession with intent to sell and deliver cocaine and maintaining a dwelling for keeping and selling cocaine. The trial court denied the defendant's motion to suppress physical evidence seized pursuant to a search warrant. The defendant then entered a guilty plea, reserving the right to appeal the validity of the strip search conducted by the officer. The defendant appealed the denial of the motion to suppress, contending that the strip search performed by the officer violated his rights under the Fourth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution and under Article 1 of the North Carolina Constitution. I wrote the opinion for the court. We affirmed defendant-appellant's conviction and sentence, holding that the strip search did not exceed the scope of the warrant and that the search was not unreasonable under the circumstances.

8. State v. Tarlton, 146 N.C. App. 417, 553 S.E.2d 50 (2001)

This case involved the defendant's stop at a driving-while-impaired checkpoint. The defendant filed a motion to suppress alleging the stop was unconstitutional. The district court denied the motion. After being convicted in district court, the defendant appealed the denial of his motion to suppress to superior court. The superior court denied his motion to suppress once again. I wrote the opinion for this court. We affirmed the defendant-appellant's conviction holding that the stop was constitutionally permissible under the Fourth Amendment.

9. Town of Ayden v. Town of Winterville, 143 N.C. App. 136, 544 S.E.2d 821 (2001)

This case involved issues of annexation. With the consent of the neighborhood in question, the Town of Winterville (“Winterville”) had annexed an adjoining neighborhood in the Town of Ayden (“Ayden”). Ayden filed suit for a declaratory judgment invalidating the annexation ordinance. The trial court granted Winterville’s motion for dismissal, and Ayden appealed. I wrote the opinion for the court of appeals. We affirmed the trial court’s holding that Ayden-appellant did not have standing to challenge the annexation and that there was no justiciable controversy between the towns.

10. Zimmerman v. Appalachian State University, 149 N.C. App. 121, 560 S.E.2d 374 (2002)

This case involved a faculty member at Appalachian State University who petitioned Appalachian State University's chancellor and trustees to be reappointed to the faculty. The administration denied the petition, and the petitioner appealed to the board of governors. The board of governors denied the petition, and the petitioner appealed to the superior court. The trial court held that the board of governors' decision was arbitrary and ordered that petitioner be reinstated. Respondents appealed to the court of appeals. I wrote the opinion of the court, which reversed the trial court's ruling, holding that the university administrators had the authority and the power to overrule the dean's recommendation of the faculty member's reappointment and further that there was insufficient evidence to support faculty member's allegations that decisions by university administrators to not reappoint him were wrongful.

- e. Provide a list of all cases in which certiorari was requested or granted.

State v. Johnson, No. COA00–1336, 2002 WL 276219 (N.C. App. Feb. 5, 2002), cert. denied, 537 U.S. 838 (2002).

- f. Provide a brief summary of and citations for all of your opinions where your decisions were reversed by a reviewing court or where your judgment was affirmed with significant criticism of your substantive or procedural rulings. If any of the opinions listed were not officially reported, provide copies of the opinions.

Goodwin v. Webb, 152 N.C. App. 650, 568 S.E.2d 311 (2002), rev'd, 357 N.C. 40, 577 S.E.2d 621 (2003), rev'd, 357 N.C. 40, 577 S.E.2d 621 (2003).

Writing for the majority in Goodwin, I reversed the trial court's entry of summary judgment for decedent's estate, holding that a genuine issue of material fact as to whether the decedent's wife had ratified a separation agreement precluded summary judgment. Judge Greene dissented, stating that he did not believe that a genuine issue of fact existed as to ratification because the plaintiff had accepted all the benefits under the agreement and was not under duress at the time she accepted those benefits. The North Carolina Supreme Court reversed the majority opinion for the reasons stated by Judge Greene's dissent.

City of New Bern v. Carteret-Craven Elec. Membership Corp., 145 N.C. App. 140, 548 S.E.2d 845 (2001), rev'd, 356 N.C. 123, 567 S.E.2d 131 (2002).

Writing for the court in City of New Bern, I affirmed the trial court's entry of partial summary judgment for the municipal electric company ("plaintiff"), entitling it to permanent injunctive relief and damages from the electric membership corporation (“defendant”), and held that the plaintiff had an exclusive statutory right to serve the animal hospital’s new building, based on an interpretation of the word “premises” under North Carolina law. The North Carolina Supreme Court reversed the decision, concluding that the new animal hospital buildings constituted separate premises under the statutes, and thus plaintiff did not have an exclusive right to service the new building.

Campbell v. N. Carolina Dep’t. of Human Res., 153 N.C. App. 305, 569 S.E.2d 670 (2002), abrogation recognized by Wos v. E.M.A. ex rel. Johnson, 133 S. Ct. 1391 (2013).

Writing for the court in Campbell, I affirmed the trial court’s order directing the minor (“plaintiff”) to reimburse the Department of Human Resources, Division of Medical Assistance for medical assistance benefits it paid to the plaintiff’s medical providers for services rendered to plaintiff following an automobile accident. We agreed with the trial court’s finding that plaintiff was a beneficiary and recipient under N.C. Gen. Stat. §§ 108A-57 and 108A-59, respectively. In Wos v. E.M.A. ex rel. Johnson, 133 S. Ct. 1391 (2013), the United States Supreme Court held that the federal Medicaid anti-lien statute, 42 U.S.C. § 1396p(a)(1), preempts N.C. Gen. Stat. §108A-57. In explaining its decision in Wos, the United States Supreme Court used Campbell and other North Carolina cases to illustrate how North Carolina cases had interpreted its statute to allow for Medicaid reimbursement in a way that the Supreme Court later found inconsistent with federal law.

- g. Provide a description of the number and percentage of your decisions in which you issued an unpublished opinion and the manner in which those unpublished opinions are filed and/or stored.

None of my opinions as a district court judge were published. They were not transcribed and are housed in the Office of the Clerk of Superior Court of Forsyth County. When the cases were automated in 1998, the judge’s name was not a required entry. As a result, the opinions are not searchable by judge.

Approximately half of the court of appeals opinions, concurrences, and dissents written by me (65 of 126 opinions) are unpublished. The disposition in the unpublished decisions appears in a reporter table in the North Carolina Court of Appeals Reporters. The full opinions of these unpublished decisions are available on Westlaw and LexisNexis.

- h. Provide citations for significant opinions on federal or state constitutional issues, together with the citation to appellate court rulings on such opinions. If any of the opinions listed were not officially reported, provide copies of the opinions.

State v. Carter, No. COA01-1230, 2002 WL 31056696 (N.C. App. Sept. 17, 2002).

State v. Colbert, 146 N.C. App. 506, 553 S.E.2d 221 (2001).

State v. Covington, No. COA02-131, 2002 WL 1797084 (N.C. App. Aug. 6, 2002).

State v. Davenport, No. COA01-163, 2002 WL 1013527 (N.C. App. May 21, 2002).

Holcomb v. Holcomb, No. COA01-59, 2002 WL 416985 (N.C. App. March 19, 2002).

State v. Johnson, 143 N.C. App. 307, 547 S.E.2d 445 (2001).

State v. Kinlock, 152 N.C. App. 84, 566 S.E.2d 738, (2002) aff'd, 357 N.C. 48, 577 S.E.2d 620 (2003) (dissenting opinion).

State v. Quick, No. COA01-192, 2002 WL 485371 (N.C. App. April 2, 2002).

State v. Sutton, No. COA01-760, 2002 WL 1542816 (N.C. App. July 16, 2002).

State v. Tarlton, 146 N.C. App. 417, 553 S.E.2d 50 (2001).

- i. Provide citations to all cases in which you sat by designation on a federal court of appeals, including a brief summary of any opinions you authored, whether majority, dissenting, or concurring, and any dissenting opinions you joined.

I have never sat by designation on a federal court of appeals.

14. Recusal: If you are or have been a judge, identify the basis by which you have assessed the necessity or propriety of recusal (If your court employs an "automatic" recusal system by which you may be recused without your knowledge, please include a general description of that system.) Provide a list of any cases, motions or matters that have come before you in which a litigant or party has requested that you recuse yourself due to an asserted conflict of interest or in which you have recused yourself sua sponte. Identify each such case, and for each provide the following information:

- a. whether your recusal was requested by a motion or other suggestion by a litigant or a party to the proceeding or by any other person or interested party; or if you recused yourself sua sponte;
- b. a brief description of the asserted conflict of interest or other ground for recusal;
- c. the procedure you followed in determining whether or not to recuse yourself;

- d. your reason for recusing or declining to recuse yourself, including any action taken to remove the real, apparent or asserted conflict of interest or to cure any other ground for recusal.

I do not recall ever recusing myself from a case or being asked to recuse myself. In the jurisdiction in which I presided, recusal determinations are made on a case-by-case basis with the presiding judge making his/her own decision as to whether a recusal should occur.

15. Public Office, Political Activities and Affiliations:

- a. List chronologically any public offices you have held, other than judicial offices, including the terms of service and whether such positions were elected or appointed. If appointed, please include the name of the individual who appointed you. Also, state chronologically any unsuccessful candidacies you have had for elective office or unsuccessful nominations for appointed office.

From 2007 to 2010, I served on the North Carolina Innocence Inquiry Commission after being appointed by Governor Michael F. Easley.

In 2006, I was appointed to the Commission for Judicial Campaign Finance Reform by Governor Michael F. Easley. The Commission was never convened.

From 2000 to 2006, I served on the Military Academy Selection Board for the Fifth Congressional District after being appointed by then-Congressman Richard M. Burr (now Senator Richard M. Burr).

From 1999 to 2000, I served on the North Carolina State Advisory Council on Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention after being appointed by Governor James B. Hunt.

From 1997 to 1999, I served on the Governor's Task Force on Youth Violence and Community Safety after being appointed by Governor James B. Hunt.

From 1993 to 1995, I served on the Mayor's Violence Reduction Task Force for the City Of Winston-Salem, after being appointed by Mayor Martha Wood.

In February 1994, I was appointed to serve on the State Legislative Council to Revise the Juvenile Code by Daniel T. Blue, Jr., the Speaker of the North Carolina House of Representatives. I resigned from the Council upon my appointment as an Assistant United States Attorney later that year.

In 2002, I ran unsuccessfully to retain my seat on the North Carolina Court of Appeals.

- b. List all memberships and offices held in and services rendered, whether compensated or not, to any political party or election committee. If you have ever held a position or played a role in a political campaign, identify the particulars of the campaign, including the candidate, dates of the campaign, your title and responsibilities.

In 2014, I endorsed Judge Mark Davis in his bid to retain his seat on the North Carolina Court of Appeals and Judge Robin Hudson in her bid to retain her seat on the North Carolina Supreme Court. On August 29, 2013, I co-hosted a fundraiser for Senator Kay Hagan in her reelection campaign to retain her U.S Senate seat. In 2010, I endorsed North Carolina Court of Appeals Judge Bob C. Hunter in his bid to become a North Carolina Supreme Court Justice. In 2008, I endorsed Professor Suzanne Reynolds in her bid to become a North Carolina Supreme Court Justice. In September 2006, I hosted a fundraiser for former North Carolina Supreme Court Justice Patricia Timmons-Goodson, who was running to retain her seat on the court.

16. Legal Career: Answer each part separately.

- a. Describe chronologically your law practice and legal experience after graduation from law school including:
- i. whether you served as clerk to a judge, and if so, the name of the judge, the court and the dates of the period you were a clerk;
 - ii. whether you practiced alone, and if so, the addresses and dates;
 - iii. the dates, names and addresses of law firms or offices, companies or governmental agencies with which you have been affiliated, and the nature of your affiliation with each.

- iv. whether you served as a mediator or arbitrator in alternative dispute resolution proceedings and, if so, a description of the 10 most significant matters with which you were involved in that capacity.

I have not served as a mediator or arbitrator in any dispute resolution proceeding.

b. Describe:

- i. the general character of your law practice and indicate by date when its character has changed over the years.

I began my law career in 1979 as in-house counsel for the General Counsel's office of The Coca-Cola Company headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia. As a new attorney, I was assigned to do research and write briefs and legal memoranda. During my tenure at the company, I was assigned to work with the Products Liability and Securities' Counsel on the merger of the company with Minute Maid Orange Juice, Inc., which required that I review contracts, research pertinent industry information, and review and draft filings to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Following my move to North Carolina in 1984, I became an Assistant District Attorney in Forsyth County, North Carolina, from 1984 to 1987. For the first two years as an Assistant District Attorney, I litigated misdemeanor criminal offenses, traffic cases, and juvenile cases as the representative for the State of North Carolina. I was in court daily and tried hundreds of cases. In my third year, I was assigned to the superior court rotation to handle all child sex related crimes, many of which were tried before a jury.

After serving as a state district court judge from 1987 to 1994, I became an Assistant United States Attorney and then an Executive Assistant United States Attorney for the Middle District of North Carolina from 1994 to 2001. I oversaw the planning and coordination of the office's violence reduction strategy in the 24-county area that makes up the Middle District of North Carolina. I developed the model for the Juvenile Crime Prevention Councils which has been institutionalized by the Governor in all 100 counties in North Carolina. I also handled certain criminal prosecutions that were directly related to the communities where we engaged in crime prevention and violence reduction strategies.

After serving on the North Carolina Court of Appeals from 2001 to 2003, I joined Davis Harwell & Biggs, P.A., and became the managing shareholder of the law firm. My practice includes primarily litigation of complex family law cases; however, we also engage in mediation and arbitration. My cases often involve commercial litigation, business valuations, and in-depth financial analysis in high asset equitable distribution, alimony, and child support cases. I also litigate interstate and international child custody cases. I either handle or assist with all appellate work done by my firm to include brief writing and oral argument before the North Carolina appellate courts. In 2014, Davis Harwell & Biggs, P.A., merged with Allman Spry Leggett & Crumpler, P.A., where I have continued my family law practice.

- ii. your typical clients and the areas at each period of your legal career, if any, in which you have specialized.

My sole client during the time I worked for Coca-Cola was the company. My client during my tenure as an Assistant District Attorney was the State of North Carolina. My client during my tenure with the United States Attorney's Office was the United States of America and its agencies. My clients during my tenure with Davis Harwell & Biggs, P.A. and now Allman Spry Davis Leggett & Crumpler, P.A., have generally been individuals.

- c. Describe the percentage of your practice that has been in litigation and whether you appeared in court frequently, occasionally, or not at all. If the frequency of your appearances in court varied, describe such variance, providing dates.

Overall, approximately 40% of my practice has been in litigation. While working at Coca-Cola, I served as in-house counsel and managed outside counsel representing the company in various litigation matters involving the company. Although I did not personally try any cases while I worked for the company, I reviewed, evaluated, and edited pleadings and other documents to be filed on behalf of the Coca-Cola Company. As an Assistant District Attorney from 1984 to 1987, my practice involved daily litigation. From 1994 to 2001 as an Assistant United States Attorney and Executive Assistant United States Attorney, approximately 5% of my work involved litigation activities, including involvement in the investigative stage through indictment, pretrial, and plea bargain. I appeared in court, on occasion, to handle guilty pleas and conduct detention hearings principally related to select cases that were a part of the office's violence reduction strategies. From 2003 to the present, I have been actively engaged in civil litigation and appeals related to cases handled in my practice. I am in court regularly as a part of my practice.

i. Indicate the percentage of your practice in:

- | | |
|-----------------------------|-----|
| 1. federal courts: | 5% |
| 2. state courts of record: | 95% |
| 3. other courts: | 0% |
| 4. administrative agencies: | 0% |

ii. Indicate the percentage of your practice in:

- | | |
|--------------------------|-----|
| 1. civil proceedings: | 50% |
| 2. criminal proceedings: | 50% |

d. State the number of cases in courts of record, including cases before administrative law judges, you tried to verdict, judgment or final decision (rather than settled), indicating whether you were sole counsel, chief counsel, or associate counsel.

As an Assistant District Attorney, I tried more than 100 cases to verdict or judgment. As an Assistant United States Attorney I handled guilty pleas in select cases that resulted from the violence reduction strategies that I coordinated for the United States Attorney's Office. In my current practice, I have tried more than 50 cases to final judgment or decision.

i. What percentage of these trials were:

- | | |
|--------------|-----|
| 1. jury: | 10% |
| 2. non-jury: | 90% |

e. Describe your practice, if any, before the Supreme Court of the United States. Supply four (4) copies of any briefs, amicus or otherwise, and, if applicable, any oral argument transcripts before the Supreme Court in connection with your practice.

None.

17. Litigation: Describe the ten (10) most significant litigated matters which you personally handled, whether or not you were the attorney of record. Give the citations, if the cases were reported, and the docket number and date if unreported. Give a capsule summary of the substance of each case. Identify the party or parties whom you represented; describe in detail the nature of your participation in the litigation and the final disposition of the case. Also state as to each case:

- a. the date of representation;
- b. the name of the court and the name of the judge or judges before whom the case was litigated; and
- c. the individual name, addresses, and telephone numbers of co-counsel and of principal counsel for each of the other parties.

1. Austin v. Austin, 13 CVD 2128, Forsyth County District Court, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

This case involves the parties' respective claims for equitable distribution. The parties are 87 and 88 years of age. Over the years, the defendant, whom I represent, amassed an estate valued at more than $15 million. The defendant preserved these assets for his family by creating revocable and irrevocable trusts, as well as a limited liability partnership that held substantial beach property. One of the first issues to be addressed was the parties' date of separation. The issue of the parties' date of separation involved a week-long trial with the plaintiff asserting that the date of separation occurred in 2008 and the defendant asserting that the date of separation occurred in 2013. The court agreed with the defendant that the parties' date of separation occurred in 2013. This determination may determine whether the marital estate is valued at approximately $4 million, or a substantially greater valuation as contended by the plaintiff. The case involves substantial appraisals of property to include the trust and the parties' limited liability partnership. The case is ongoing.

2. Wright v. Wright, 08 CVD 1835, Cabarrus County, North Carolina.

This case involved issues of equitable distribution, child custody, child support, post-separation support, and alimony. I represented the defendant-wife throughout the litigation. The husband was an NFL player with the New York Giants when the case began, and the case involved a total estate valued at $1.5 million. The three-day equitable trial involved the valuation of retirement, pension, and disability benefits. The plaintiff-husband appealed the equitable distribution judgment and was successful on one of the issues involving the characterization of certain disability benefits as his separate property. On behalf of the defendant-wife I obtained a post-separation support and child support award totaling $25,000 per month. Following the appeal of the equitable distribution judgment, the parties resolved all issues by consent order.

3. Dickman v. Dickman, 09 CVD 645, Davie County District Court, 140 South Main Street, Mocksville, North Carolina 27028

The case involved a 27-year marriage and was litigated for more than three years. I represented the defendant-wife. The issues involved a contested divorce, and claims of post-separation support, alimony, and equitable distribution. The parties had a net marital estate valued in excess of $1 million. Plaintiff initially moved for a summary judgment divorce based on one year of separation as required by North Carolina law, alleging that his move to another state for employment constituted a separation as contemplated by the North Carolina divorce statutes. The Honorable Jimmy Myers heard and denied the plaintiff's motion after several hours of argument by counsel. A second contested issue involved the parties' date of separation, which was tried over two days before the Honorable Carlton Terry. Following the court's determination of the parties' date of separation, a trial on equitable distribution began. Midway through the trial the parties resolved each party's claim for equitable distribution by consent order.

4. France v. France, 08 CVD 28389 and 08 CVD 20661, Mecklenburg County District Court, Charlotte, North Carolina.

This case involved a confidentiality provision in the parties' contract of separation, property settlement, child support, child custody and alimony agreement. The litigants were a NASCAR CEO and his former wife. I was co-counsel for the defendant-wife. In the trial court, the plaintiff sought to have the parties' custody and child support litigation heard in a courtroom closed to the public. The trial court denied the plaintiff's motion to seal the courtroom and the plaintiff appealed. In this first appeal, which is reported in France v. France, 209 N.C. App. 406, 705 S.E.2d 399 (2011), the issue was whether the parties' custody and child support case would be heard in an open or closed courtroom. The appeal raised significant constitutional issues related to the appropriate balance between public access to civil court proceedings and individuals' rights to contract. The appellate court affirmed the trial court's ruling that the case would be heard in an open courtroom and remanded to the trial court for the parties' issues to be litigated in an open courtroom. On remand, the district court conducted a hearing on The Charlotte Observer's request that all records and pleadings be unsealed. The trial court allowed the newspaper's motion, and the plaintiff once again appealed. In the second appeal, which is reported in France v. France, 738 S.E.2d 180 (2012), the North Carolina Court of Appeals once again affirmed the trial court and remanded the case back to the trial court for a hearing on the merits. The plaintiff then petitioned the North Carolina Supreme Court for discretionary review, which was denied. I wrote the briefs for both appeals and argued before the North Carolina Court of Appeals on both occasions. The parties have now resolved all custody and child support issues with a confidential settlement agreement.

5. Bramblett v. Bramblett, 09 CVD 8611, Forsyth County District Court, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

This case involved issues of child custody and child support involving two severely disabled children. The children required constant care, numerous medications, treatments, equipment, and very expensive diets. I represented the plaintiff-mother in the state district court case and the appeal that followed. The trial court determined that the motion for custody by the defendant-father was frivolous because he had been out of the children's lives, did not know how to care for them, and had put little effort into providing proper documentation to the mother during discovery. The defendant-father refused to reimburse the plaintiff-mother for the substantial costs she incurred in caring for the children. The court awarded $30,000 in attorney's fees to the plaintiff-mother. On appeal, the North Carolina Court of Appeals affirmed the trial court's award of attorney's fees. The appeal is reported in Bramblett v. Bramblett, No. COA11-970, 2012 WL 381767 (N.C. App. Feb. 7, 2012).

6. Manca v. Pujol, 05 CVD 9838, Guilford County District Court, Greensboro, North Carolina.

This case implicated the Hague Convention and involved the registration and enforcement of an Italian custody order awarding exclusive custody of the minor child to my client, the defendant-father. We first sought registration of the Italian order. On September 23, 2008, the district court, following a contested hearing, entered an order registering and confirming the Italian custody order. Immediately following the entry of the order, I filed a petition for expedited enforcement of the child custody determination and requesting immediate physical custody of the minor child. On September 25, 2008, a second contested hearing was held on the defendant-father's motion for expedited enforcement. The court granted this motion and ordered that the defendant-father take immediate physical custody of the minor child. The order registering the custody order was appealed, which was later dismissed by the plaintiff-mother.

7. K. Williams and C. Williams, Petitioners for the Adoption of A. Williams) v. Carlson, Intervener, 06 SP 1888 (2006), Forsyth County District Court, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

This case involved a challenge to an adoption. I represented the biological father of the minor child, and the intervener in the adoption. My client moved to dismiss the adoption, asserting that the form purporting to relinquish his rights to his child was procedurally defective and therefore void, or, in the alternative, that he had properly and timely executed a revocation of the relinquishment. Based on my client's challenge to the adoption, the matter was moved from the superior court to the district court. Numerous depositions were taken, and, after a two-day trial, the court entered an order dismissing and setting aside the petition for adoption. In a separate action, I filed a complaint for exclusive custody of the minor child on behalf of the intervener-father, which the district court granted.

8. Steffen v. Steffen, 04 CVD 900, Forsyth County District Court, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

The case began as a child custody, child support, and equitable distribution case with claims that the defendant-mother intended to remove the minor child from the jurisdiction of the court to England. I represented the plaintiff-father and immediately sought an order prohibiting the removal of the child from the United States. The parties initially resolved their outstanding claims by consent order. Several years later, the defendant-mother developed a brain tumor and her parents, who lived in England, sought to intervene in the original custody action, requesting that the court give them custody of the minor child. The trial court allowed the grandparents to intervene but denied them custody of the minor child. The court did, however, allow the child to travel to England for visits, which required that a mirror order through the Hague Convention be obtained in England to ensure that the Forsyth County trial court's order would be recognized while the child was in England. My client and I consulted with counsel in England, who obtained a mirror order on my client's behalf.

9. Reid v. Reid, 07 CVD 6721, Forsyth County District Court, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

This case arose from the defendant-father's motion in the cause for reduction of child support involving four minor children. I represented the plaintiff-mother. The original order was entered in another state years before this litigation when the defendant-father earned approximately $40,000 per month. The determination of his income in this litigation was complicated by the fact that the father owned closely held businesses in which there was significant manipulation of his ownership interest during the course of litigation. After a six-day trial, the judge granted a reduction in child support.

10. United States v. Lassiter, No. 94-5626, 1995 WL 86423 (4th Cir. March 3, 1995).

The defendant appealed the sentence the district court imposed after revoking his probation. His attorney filed a brief in accordance with Anders v. California, 386 U.S. 738 (1967), raising one sentencing issue, but asserting that there were no meritorious issues for appeal. On appeal, I, along with co-counsel, submitted a brief on behalf of the United States arguing that the district court's determination of an individual's sentence within the properly calculated guideline range is not subject to appellate review, and because the defendant did not challenge the calculation of the guideline range, his challenge did not state an appealable question. The Fourth Circuit agreed that there were no meritorious issues for appeal and affirmed defendant's sentence. This prosecution was a part of a greater violence reduction strategy by the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Middle District of North Carolina. My role was to assist in identifying relevant prosecutions, assist in the investigation of the defendant, assist with the indictment as well as the trial or guilty plea of the defendant, and further to assist with preparation of the brief on appeal.

18. Legal Activities: Describe the most significant legal activities you have pursued, including significant litigation which did not progress to trial or legal matters that did not involve litigation. Describe fully the nature of your participation in these activities. List any client(s) or organization(s) for whom you performed lobbying activities and describe the lobbying activities you performed on behalf of such client(s) or organizations(s). (Note: As to any facts requested in this question, please omit any information protected by the attorney-client privilege.)

As an Executive Assistant United States Attorney, I oversaw the planning and coordination of all violence reduction strategies for the Middle District of North Carolina which included a 24-county area. In 1995, I, along with others, initiated crime and violence reduction strategies in a number of crime ridden and drug infested neighborhoods. The strategy included bringing all the stakeholders to the table to develop comprehensive violence reduction strategies. The stakeholders included federal law enforcement, local law enforcement, city leaders, school officials, community organizations, and clergy that assisted with planning. In various communities, agreements were reached with property management and the Department of Housing and Urban Development to correct deficient living circumstances. In addition, the major criminal actors in the communities were identified using crime data and were prosecuted and removed from the communities. I also participated in several of those prosecutions.

During my tenure at the Coca-Cola Company, the completion of the merger between the company and Minute Maid Orange Juice required substantial research, drafting briefs and legal memoranda, drafting contracts, and preparing Securities and Exchange Commission filings.

I have never performed lobbying activities.

19. Teaching: What courses have you taught? For each course, state the title, the institution at which you taught the course, the years in which you taught the course, and describe briefly the subject matter of the course and the major topics taught. If you have a syllabus of each course, provide four (4) copies to the committee.

From 1984 to 1987, I served as an Adjunct Professor for the Wake Forest Clinic Litigation Program tutoring students in litigation skills and practices. No syllabus available.

20. Deferred Income/ Future Benefits: List the sources, amounts and dates of all anticipated receipts from deferred income arrangements, stock, options, uncompleted contracts and other future benefits which you expect to derive from previous business relationships, professional services, firm memberships, former employers, clients or customers. Describe the arrangements you have made to be compensated in the future for any financial or business interest.

None.

21. Outside Commitments During Court Service: Do you have any plans, commitments, or agreements to pursue outside employment, with or without compensation, during your service with the court? If so, explain.

If confirmed, I have no plans to pursue outside employment.

22. Sources of Income: List sources and amounts of all income received during the calendar year preceding your nomination and for the current calendar year, including all salaries, fees, dividends, interest, gifts, rents, royalties, licensing fees, honoraria, and other items exceeding $500 or more (if you prefer to do so, copies of the financial disclosure report, required by the Ethics in Government Act of 1978, may be substituted here).

See attached Financial Disclosure Report.

23. Statement of Net Worth: Please complete the attached financial net worth statement in detail (add schedules as called for).

See attached Net Worth Statement

24. Potential Conflicts of Interest:

- a. Identify the family members or other persons, parties, categories of litigation, and financial arrangements that are likely to present potential conflicts-of-interest when you first assume the position to which you have been nominated. Explain how you would address any such conflict if it were to arise.

I am not aware of any family members or other persons, parties, categories of litigation, or financial arrangements that are likely to present potential conflicts-of-interest. If a conflict did present itself I would immediately request that the case presenting the conflict be reassigned. If it is unclear whether a conflict actually exists, I will consult the Code of Conduct for United States Judges and all relevant statutes, canons, and rules to determine whether recusal is the appropriate course of action.

- b. Explain how you will resolve any potential conflict of interest, including the procedure you will follow in determining these areas of concern.

If confirmed, I would refer to 28 U.S.C. § 455, the Code of Conduct for United States Judges and the Advisory Opinions of the Committee on Codes of Conduct, and all other applicable rules.

25. Pro Bono Work: An ethical consideration under Canon 2 of the American Bar Association's Code of Professional Responsibility calls for "every lawyer, regardless of professional prominence or professional workload, to find some time to participate in serving the disadvantaged." Describe what you have done to fulfill these responsibilities, listing specific instances and the amount of time devoted to each.

Over the years, I have provided legal advice at reduced rates for those who could not afford my fees. For example, in the case of Bramblett v. Bramblett, 09 CVD 8611, Forsyth County, North Carolina, I devoted over 300 hours to representing a mother of two in a custody and child support case in litigation that lasted nearly two years. The case also involved an appeal. Though the court awarded attorney's fees, it was less than one-third of the actual time and resources spent on the case.

I also regularly participate in community outreach programs, including speaking at churches, civic and community organizations, and schools regarding selective legal topics. Each year, I participate in the Ask A Lawyer program with the Winston-Salem Bar Association, in which we visit churches in the area and give free legal advice.

26. Selection Process:

- a. Please describe your experience in the entire judicial selection process, from beginning to end (including the circumstances which led to your nomination and the interviews in which you participated). Is there a selection commission in your jurisdiction to recommend candidates for nomination to the federal courts? If so, please include that process in your description, as well as whether the commission recommended your nomination. List the dates of all interviews or communications you had with the White House staff or the Justice Department regarding this nomination. Do not include any contacts with Federal Bureau of Investigation personnel concerning your nomination.

On February 26, 2014, I submitted a letter of interest to Senator Kay Hagan and Senator Richard Burr. On March 19, 2014, I interviewed with Senator Hagan's chief of staff in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, and, on April 15, 2014, I interviewed with a staffer from Senator Burr's office in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. On June 27, 2014, I received a call from Senator Hagan's chief of staff informing me that the Senators intended to recommend me to the President. On June 30, 2014, I received a call from a staffer in Senator Burr's Office informing me of this as well. Since July 1, 2014, I have been in contact with officials from the Office of Legal Policy at the Department of Justice. On August 12, 2014, I interviewed with attorneys from the White House Counsel's Office and the Department of Justice in Washington, D.C. On September 18, 2014, the President submitted my nomination to the Senate.

- b. Has anyone involved in the process of selecting you as a judicial nominee discussed with you any currently pending or specific case, legal issue or question in a manner that could reasonably be interpreted as seeking any express or implied assurances concerning your position on such case, issue, or question? If so, explain fully.

No.
