If any fundraising is involved or, to be safe, even any mention of fundraising is involved, the conversation should not occur on federal property (except in the White House residence). The same rule applies by definition therefore to the use of the White House phone -- no fundraising or mention of fundraising at all.

As to use of phones, FAXes, computers, and e-mail accounts in general, the policy will be that you should use separate equipment that will be paid for by the RNC for any communications that relate to specific campaign or election activity (for elections of others or re-election of the President). As for general political discussions outside of those specific categories (for example, developing a strategy to build public support for the President's policies), it is perfectly acceptable to engage in such conversations over White House phones.

We will have detailed written guidance on these issues circulated shortly. Please do not hesitate to call me with any questions. I am at 6-7984.

Can we call the RNC from the WH? also- if Andy were to do a political conference call and dial a 1-888-number, could he do it from the office?

I had a feeling that he may have to go to the RNC to do it.

I'll add this to our database...

The Associated Press State & Local Wire, 01/30/01:

Shanstrom takes senior status, leaving Molloy only full-time federal judge

Chief U.S. District Judge Jack Shanstrom announced he will assume senior status Tuesday, making District Judge Don Molloy of Missoula the only full-time federal judge in the state.

Shanstrom, 68, said he made his decision based on his health. He was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease two years ago. The disease can be aggravated by stress and his doctors asked him to cut back on his work, Shanstrom said.

In taking senior status, Shanstrom will gradually reduce the number of cases he takes, but he said he would continue to hear criminal cases until his successor is named.

Molloy, now the chief judge of the district, said he expects that process to take at least a year.

"Judge Shanstrom's decision to keep a criminal caseload is an absolute godsend," Molloy said. "But at some point it's going to be unfair for him to carry a full caseload."

There has been no federal district judge in the Great Falls-Helena division since June, when Judge Charles Lovell unexpectedly took senior status. He does not handle criminal cases.

Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., nominated Richard Anderson to succeed Lovell, but the U.S. Senate adjourned before taking any action on his nomination.

Anderson said he is still willing to accept a district judgeship, but nominees for federal judicial positions are traditionally forwarded to the president by the ranking Montanan of the same political party as the president. In this case, that would be Sen. Conrad Burns.

Burns praised Shanstrom's work on the bench.

"I followed Judge Shanstrom's court very closely, and it didn't matter if he was dealing with national parks or tribal issues, he was always fair and responsible," Burns said. "It will be difficult to find someone with Judge Shanstrom's qualifications to take his place, and I don't take on the responsibility lightly."

Burns spokesman Will Brooke said Burns has made the White House aware that two of the three judgeships in Montana are vacant, but he said it may take some time before the Bush administration has the people in place to handle judicial nominations.

Brooke said about a dozen people have expressed interest in the two vacancies, but he declined to release their names.

In the meantime, Montana may have to get senior judges from other states to come in to hear cases, if the jobs aren't filled quickly, Molloy said.

Because of speedy trial provisions in federal law, criminal cases take precedence over civil cases on the court calendar. That means that Shanstrom and Molloy are trying to fit criminal cases into the schedule, while most of the civil work will fall to three federal magistrates assigned to Billings, Great Falls and Missoula - if the parties involved agree.

Shanstrom, who has been a judge for 36 years, said his decreased work schedule will make it easier for him to try new medications for his Parkinson's, a degenerative neurological disorder that affects movement.

"It's been treated with real success," Shanstrom said. "All the symptoms are confined to the left hand."

If a non-federal-employee receives a gift paid for by the RNC, such as travel reimbursement, that does not implicate any federal laws or regulations. For those of you still having voice mail and computer problems, Vickers Meadows, Special Assistant for Management and Administration, told me yesterday that she would arrange to have the problems in Counsel,s Office corrected immediately. In addition to Vickers, I placed a separate call to Computer Services about printer repairs for Tim and Helgi. If your voice mail and/or computer problems are not corrected by Monday, please let me know.

I submitted furniture replacement, moving, and decorating requests in writing to White House Operations. There is a backlog of these requests so Ops could not tell me how long it will take to get around to Counsel,s Office. If you have something for which you absolutely cannot wait, please let me know and I will try raising it to another level.

White House Operations is limiting the number of cell phones issued. The Judge or Tim must justify the need for cell phones for Counsel,s Office staff. I have asked Libby to find out from one of them who, if anyone, should have a cell phone.

Tks.

Ann

Brett -

Al asked that we respond in writing to this request. Can you draft something short and sweet? Just email to me the draft and I'll take it from there.

I assume it would be from Al but if you think it should be signed by someone else just let me know.

FYI - that I have brought this to the attention of the press shop and will provide to them a copy of our response.

Thanks!

I have now received your inquiry on a proposed e-mail draft that you sent to Brent Greenfield. I can and will research this more fully this weekend if you can wait until Monday. (I apologize, but due to some confusion on this end, I did not know we had this urgent request from you until just now.) In any event, to be absolutely safe for now, our answer is conservative and is as follows:

It is fine for you to send out materials that summarize and promote the President's programs and policies. However, for now at least, you should not essentially draft a letter that would be sent from one outsider to others. Thus, I would ask that you delete the first two paragraphs and the last two sentences of the draft. You can e-mail the remainder -- which is merely a summary of the program -- to whomever you want, and they can certainly use it then as they see fit. And you can even encourage them to write letters to the editor and the like to express their support for the program. (What you definitely cannot do is urge anyone to contact Congress.) What is more debatable -- and what we are trying to sort out -- is whether you can essentially perform the functions of a private group by drafting materials for it that would be sent by it under its name to others. For now, we urge you NOT to do that.

Please call me at 6-7948 to confirm your understanding of this.

In reference to the voice mail I left for you around 1:30 PM today:

Alicia Peterson and I would like to schedule a meeting to discuss an e-mail distribution program that the Offices of Strategic Initiatives, Political Affairs and Public Liaison would like to begin. This would involve sending daily and weekly e-mails to opinion makers keeping them informed of the President's agenda, talking points, new initiatives, etc.
The e-mail content would only be information that's public knowledge.

Many of the people we'll be contacting are in databases generated before and updated during the campaign. We'd like to work with you to find out what lists we can use here at the White House, as well as what kind of content we can send.

Thank you for any help you can give us. If at all possible we'd appreciate a meeting this afternoon at your earliest convenience.

Yes, people may complete their SF 86 on their home computers.

Rolodexes, message logs, visitor logs, and the like are NOT presidential records for purposes of the Records Act.

I am unsure about the third question; I hate to give you run-around, but it should be directed to Ann Anderson (office director) and Tim Flanigan (Deputy Counsel) in our Counsel's office at 62632.

Subject: Some Questions from Larry Lindsey's Shop

Good afternoon! A couple of issues have come up for which Larry wanted to seek your advice.

1. May people complete their SF86 forms on their home computers?
2. Larry has an extensive rolodex. It includes more than addresses and phone/fax -- things like previous positions, family members, etc. If we obtained clearance to have the appropriate software installed on our WH computers, would the database become a presidential document?
3. Larry plans to hire a new Special Assistant to the President who, although American, is currently living in London. Is there a way to initiate her FBI background check so it can be underway prior to her leaving London?

Many, many thanks for your guidance.

Best regards,
Janet Walker

I have now received your inquiry on a proposed e-mail draft that you sent to Brent Greenfield. I can and will research this more fully this weekend if you can wait until Monday. (I apologize, but due to some confusion on this end, I did not know we had this urgent request from you until just now.) In any event, to be absolutely safe for now, our answer is conservative and is as follows:

It is fine for you to send out materials that summarize and promote the President's programs and policies. However, for now at least, you should not essentially draft a letter that would be sent from one outsider to others. Thus, I would ask that you delete the first two paragraphs and the last two sentences of the draft. You can e-mail the remainder -- which is merely a summary of the program -- to whomever you want, and they can certainly use it then as they see fit. And you can even encourage them to write letters to the editor and the like to express their support for the program. (What you definitely cannot do is urge anyone to contact Congress.) What is more debatable -- and what we are trying to sort out -- is whether you can essentially perform the functions of a private group by drafting materials for it that would be sent by it under its name to others. For now, we urge you NOT to do that.

Please call me at 6-7948 to confirm your understanding of this.

In my former life I worked some at the Reagan Library, which is how I know people like Don Wilson and Richard Norton Smith. They are serious historians, and they are very concerned about the National Archives interpretation of the statute. I hope I haven't in any way imposed on you guys. But I just wanted to make sure you guys were aware of the concerns of friendly historians.

Thanks again!

If any fundraising is involved or, to be safe, even any mention of fundraising is involved, the conversation should not occur on federal property (except in the White House residence). The same rule applies by definition therefore to the use of the White House phone -- no fundraising or mention of fundraising at all.

As to use of phones, FAXes, computers, and e-mail accounts in general, the policy will be that you should use separate equipment that will be paid for by the RNC for any communications that relate to specific campaign or election activity (for elections of others or re-election of the President). As for general political discussions outside of those specific categories (for example, developing a strategy to build public support for the President's policies), it is perfectly acceptable to engage in such conversations over White House phones.

I know this is not ALL THAT exciting, but I could use some help Tuesday morning answering the following question. There will be some kind of White House e-mail from the Rove shop to supporters and interested parties in the form of an electronic newsletter. Can that document include links to newspaper articles? In that regard, do any other public officials of agencies do so? (I have checked some in Congress and have not found any with links.)

I do not want to give sign off without being sure because I obviously do not want to lead Rove group into a negative press story/criticism. Any takers for helping on this project?

The events of the last few weeks with the Clintons likely mean that our gift policies and practices will be under even greater and more microscopic scrutiny in the years ahead. One immediate thought: With respect to one small piece of that -- widely attended events -- we should consider whether it would be safer to make the "interests of the agency" detrermination a formalized, written process that requires written sign-off by both the head of the unit (Political Affairs, Communications, etc.) and by the Counsel's office.

More broadly, what goes around around comes around and we can expect extraordinarily intense examination of the White House's gift receipt practices (as well as our written policies from this office). We need to be 100% prepared to explain publicly our handling of every gift and make sure everyone else can do so as well (Gift Unit, First Lady's office). In our written memo, for example, I would continue to stress -- as we have been orally -- that it is far easier and safer (i) to treat every arguably non-personal "gift" as government property and (ii) to pay for any arguably non-personal event or game or party that you are invited to by an outsider, absent written clearance from your supervisor and Counsel that it is in the interest of the agency for you to attend.

I have analyzed this and confirmed my answer to this today with the Office of Special Counsel, which is the independent government agency that enforces the Hatch Act.

An e-mail is like a local phone call in terms of cost; that is, the government incurs no extra costs as a result of such activity.
Therefore, under Hatch Act regulations, you may send this e-mail on your White House e-mail account.

This is entirely appropriate OPA activity. The costs associated with this (stamps, paper) probably should be paid by RNC, which will be easy to accomplish once the RNC equipment is installed.

Ken has asked me to touch base with you on the following: we're in the process of designing a newsletter we will email out periodically. plan on sending it to the following groups (for the most part) to keep them posted on our political world, get the message out, etc...

- state chairs
- governors
- finance chairs
- lt govs.
- state legislators
- R Congressmen and Senators and their chiefs of staff
- state parties
- political consultants we identify
- political reporters

can we do this and what do we have to be aware of? do you need anything from me? a sample of the letter when it's completed perhaps?

Subject: More on the ABA's role in judicial selection

Brett, I came across the following quotation in a D.C. Circuit decision on FACA: "[T]he ABA committee's role in advising administrations as to the qualifications of putative judges has over the years become more of an impediment (reflecting certain ABA institutional and, perhaps, political interests) than an aid to Presidents." 997 F.2d 898, 906 n.4 (D.C. Cir. 1993).

MEMORANDUM FOR ALL STAFF OF THE EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

On September 29, 2000, all Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

I am pleased to report that the problem has been resolved, and that steps have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all users may now delete messages which do not need to be maintained in their in or out boxes. E-mails that should be preserved locally as a record of office activities may be printed out with correspondence information (i.e. date, time, sender, recipient and subject of the message), and filed in the appropriate place. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency.

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

On September 29, 2000, all current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

The problem has been resolved, and steps now have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all affected users may now delete messages which do not need to be maintained in their in or out boxes. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency.

Accordingly, all users may now delete messages which do not need to be maintained in their in or out boxes. E-mails that should be preserved locally as a record of office activities may be printed out with correspondence information (i.e. date, time, sender, recipient and subject of the message), and filed in the appropriate place. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency.

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

The problem has been resolved, and steps now have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all affected users may now delete messages that do not need to be retained in their Lotus Notes account. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency. Each EOP office is responsible for maintaining appropriate records pertaining to its activities.

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

The problem has been resolved, and steps now have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all affected users may now delete messages that do not need to be retained in their Lotus Notes account. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency. Each EOP office is responsible for maintaining appropriate records pertaining to its activities.

Judge Gonzales has signed off, but he and I both have concerns that this memo may cause concern to those who started on January 20 and have been deleting e-mails since they started. By negative implication, the memo may be read to say that such people should have been preserving their e-mails. Is there any way to clarify -- or to send this memo by e-mail only to those who fall into the relevant category?

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

The problem has been resolved, and steps now have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all affected users may now delete messages that do not need to be retained in their Lotus Notes account. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency. Each EOP office is responsible for maintaining appropriate records pertaining to its activities.

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

The problem has been resolved, and steps now have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all affected users may now delete messages that do not need to be retained in their Lotus Notes account. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency. Each EOP office is responsible for maintaining appropriate records pertaining to its activities.

Tim asked me to relay the following message. A draft of the White House Policy Manual is currently being circulated to all of us. Everyone must review this manual and provide any comments that they have to Moose by Monday night. In particular, anyone that wrote a general guidance memo (e.g., on gifts, travel, ethics, use of government property, etc.) should pay close attention to the portions of the manual addressing that topic and ensure that the guidance memo and manual are consistent. Thanks.

Noel

Judge Gonzales has signed off, but he and I both have concerns that this memo may cause concern to those who started on January 20 and have been deleting e-mails since they started. By negative implication, the memo may be read to say that such people should have been preserving their e-mails. Is there any way to clarify -- or to send this memo by e-mail only to those who fall into the relevant category?

Thanks. Phil Larsen has received the draft and will be coordinating it with Hector Irastorza, Deputy Assistant to the President for Management and Administration. As a matter of protocol, he wants to make sure that the Counsel to the President has seen and supports this draft first. It would be great if you can confirm that Judge Gonzales concurs so Phil can move this forward. It would also be helpful if you could relate any views Judge Gonzales has on who should sign, or confirm that your views on that represent those of the Counsel. Adam, 5-1268

MEMORANDUM FOR ALL STAFF OF THE EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

The problem has been resolved, and steps now have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all affected users may now delete messages that do not need to be retained in their Lotus Notes account. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency. Each EOP office is responsible for maintaining appropriate records pertaining to its activities.

Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

I am pleased to report that the problem has been resolved, and that steps have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all users may now delete messages which do not need to be maintained in their in or out boxes. E-mails that should be preserved locally as a record of office activities may be printed out with correspondence information (i.e. date, time, sender, recipient and subject of the message), and filed in the appropriate place. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency.

Subject: Release of northeast oil reserves?

Just got a call from a person named Jill Holtzman, in DOE GC's office, asking about legal documents the President and the Secretary of Energy are supposedly going to sign in the very near future (scheduled for today but pushed back temporarily) to execute the release of northeast oil reserves. She was calling to ask whether all the legal documentation had been "taken care of" on our end . . .

This is the first I've heard of this. Is anybody out there working on this? If so, please call Jill at 202.586.3410.

Can we change the date in the new sentence to on or after January 20? Some people who came on board after September 30 may have heard of the order internally (even though they were unaffected), and would need to know. However, I think this is much less likely for folks who came on with the transition. Also, is "disregard" or "ignore" better?

I've taken a stab at some clarifying language with a new sentence in the second paragraph. As for sending it only to those in the relevant category, my sense is that while that may be possible, it would probably take time we don't have, with a greater chance that some people may be missed. It would be great if you and Judge Gonalez can take a look and see if we're there.

Judge Gonzales has signed off, but he and I both have concerns that this memo may cause concern to those who started on January 20 and have been deleting e-mails since they started. By negative implication, the memo may be read to say that such people should have been preserving their e-mails. Is there any way to clarify -- or to send this memo by e-mail only to those who fall into the relevant category?

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

You may disregard this memorandum if you began your employment in the Executive Office of the President on or after January 20, 2001.

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

The problem has been resolved, and steps now have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all affected users may now delete messages that do not need to be retained in their Lotus Notes account. Staff members who began work at the EOP on or after January 20, 2001 as part of the change of administration were not affected by this problem, and were not covered by the September 29, 2000 order. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency. Each EOP office is responsible for maintaining appropriate records pertaining to its activities.

Staff members who began work at the EOP on or after January 20, 2001 as part of the change of administration were not affected by this problem, and were not covered by the September 29, 2000 order. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency. Each EOP office is responsible for maintaining appropriate records pertaining to its activities.

MEMORANDUM FOR ALL STAFF OF THE EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

The problem has been resolved, and steps now have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all affected users may now delete messages that do not need to be retained in their Lotus Notes account. Staff members who began work at the EOP on or after January 20, 2001 as part of the change of administration were not affected by this problem, and were not covered by the September 29, 2000 order. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency. Can we change the date in the new sentence to on or after January 20? Some people who came on board after September 30 may have heard of the order internally (even though they were unaffected), and would need to know. However, I think this is much less likely for folks who came on with the transition. Also, is "disregard" or "ignore" better?

Brett--As a follow up, I have asked Leanna about sending the memo only to those who did not start on or after January 20. I've taken a stab at some clarifying language with a new sentence in the second paragraph. As for sending it only to those in the relevant category, my sense is that while that may be possible, it would probably take time we don't have, with a greater chance that some people may be missed. It would be great if you and Judge Gonalez can take a look and see if we're there.

Judge Gonzales has signed off, but he and I both have concerns that this memo may cause concern to those who started on January 20 and have been deleting e-mails since they started. By negative implication, the memo may be read to say that such people should have been preserving their e-mails. Is there any way to clarify -- or to send this memo by e-mail only to those who fall into the relevant category?

It would be great if you can confirm that Judge Gonzales concurs so Phil can move this forward. MEMORANDUM FOR ALL STAFF OF THE EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

You may disregard this memorandum if you began your employment in the Executive Office of the President on or after January 20, 2001.

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

Thanks. Phil Larsen has received the draft and will be coordinating it with Hector Irastorza, Deputy Assistant to the President for Management and Administration. As a matter of protocol, he wants to make sure that the Counsel to the President has seen and supports this draft first. It would be great if you can confirm that Judge Gonzales concurs so Phil can move this forward. It would also be helpful if you could relate any views Judge Gonzales has on who should sign, or confirm that your views on that represent those of the Counsel. Adam, 5-1268

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

Can we change the date in the new sentence to on or after January 20? Some people who came on board after September 30 may have heard of the order internally (even though they were unaffected), and would need to know. However, I think this is much less likely for folks who came on with the transition. Also, is "disregard" or "ignore" better?

Judge Gonzales has signed off, but he and I both have concerns that this memo may cause concern to those who started on January 20 and have been deleting e-mails since they started. By negative implication, the memo may be read to say that such people should have been preserving their e-mails. Is there any way to clarify -- or to send this memo by e-mail only to those who fall into the relevant category?

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

You may ignore this memorandum if you began your employment in the Executive Office of the President after September 30, 2000.

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

Can we change the date in the new sentence to on or after January 20? Some people who came on board after September 30 may have heard of the order internally (even though they were unaffected), and would need to know. However, I think this is much less likely for folks who came on with the transition. Also, is "disregard" or "ignore" better?

Brett--As a follow up, I have asked Leanna about sending the memo only to those who did not start on or after January 20. She thinks this is possible, but is looking into it to see if there might be any problems. In any case, I hope the clarifying language I've added helps. It would be great if we can wrap this up ASAP. I've taken a stab at some clarifying language with a new sentence in the second paragraph. As for sending it only to those in the relevant category, my sense is that while that may be possible, it would probably take time we don't have, with a greater chance that some people may be missed. It would be great if you and Judge Gonalez can take a look and see if we're there.

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

You may disregard this memorandum if you began your employment in the Executive Office of the President on or after January 20, 2001.

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

Accordingly, all users may now delete messages which do not need to be maintained in their in or out boxes. Can we change the date in the new sentence to on or after January 20? Some people who came on board after September 30 may have heard of the order internally (even though they were unaffected), and would need to know. However, I think this is much less likely for folks who came on with the transition. Also, is "disregard" or "ignore" better?

Brett--As a follow up, I have asked Leanna about sending the memo only to those who did not start on or after January 20. She thinks this is possible, but is looking into it to see if there might be any problems. In any case, I hope the clarifying language I've added helps. It would be great if we can wrap this up ASAP. I've taken a stab at some clarifying language with a new sentence in the second paragraph. As for sending it only to those in the relevant category, my sense is that while that may be possible, it would probably take time we don't have, with a greater chance that some people may be missed. It would be great if you and Judge Gonalez can take a look and see if we're there.

Judge Gonzales has signed off, but he and I both have concerns that this memo may cause concern to those who started on January 20 and have been deleting e-mails since they started. By negative implication, the memo may be read to say that such people should have been preserving their e-mails. Is there any way to clarify -- or to send this memo by e-mail only to those who fall into the relevant category?

Thanks. Phil Larsen has received the draft and will be coordinating it with Hector Irastorza, Deputy Assistant to the President for Management and Administration. As a matter of protocol, he wants to make sure that the Counsel to the President has seen and supports this draft first. It would be great if you can confirm that Judge Gonzales concurs so Phil can move this forward. It would also be helpful if you could relate any views Judge Gonzales has on who should sign, or confirm that your views on that represent those of the Counsel. Adam, 5-1268

This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

The problem has been resolved, and steps now have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all affected users may now delete messages which do not need to be maintained in their in or out boxes. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency.

FROM: _____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

On September 29, 2000, all Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

I am pleased to report that the problem has been resolved, and that steps have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all users may now delete messages which do not need to be maintained in their in or out boxes. E-mails that should be preserved locally as a record of office activities may be printed out with correspondence information (i.e. date, time, sender, recipient and subject of the message), and filed in the appropriate place. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency.

Can we change the date in the new sentence to on or after January 20? However, I think this is much less likely for folks who came on with the transition. Also, is "disregard" or "ignore" better?

I've taken a stab at some clarifying language with a new sentence in the second paragraph. As for sending it only to those in the relevant category, my sense is that while that may be possible, it would probably take time we don't have, with a greater chance that some people may be missed. It would be great if you and Judge Gonalez can take a look and see if we're there.

Judge Gonzales has signed off, but he and I both have concerns that this memo may cause concern to those who started on January 20 and have been deleting e-mails since they started. By negative implication, the memo may be read to say that such people should have been preserving their e-mails. Is there any way to clarify -- or to send this memo by e-mail only to those who fall into the relevant category?

It would be great if you can confirm that Judge Gonzales concurs so Phil can move this forward. MEMORANDUM FOR ALL STAFF OF THE EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

FROM: _____
_____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

You may disregard this memorandum if you began your employment in the Executive Office of the President on or after January 20, 2001.

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

The problem has been resolved, and steps now have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all affected users may now delete messages that do not need to be retained in their Lotus Notes account. Staff members who began work at the EOP on or after January 20, 2001 as part of the change of administration were not affected by this problem, and were not covered by the September 29, 2000 order. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency. Each EOP office is responsible for maintaining appropriate records pertaining to its activities.

Phil--Here is the language on the memo to staff. Brett has coordinated this language with Judge Gonzales.

Brett--FYI, I have spoken to Leanna on sending this only to those who were here before Jan. 20, and there are concerns that some people may be missed. I understand that right now OA is proceeding on the assumption that the memo will go to all staff. However, I think the qualifying language we have is right on point, and I want to thank you and Judge Gonzales for helping us work this out.

FROM: _____
_____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

You may disregard this memorandum if you began your employment in the Executive Office of the President on or after January 20, 2001.

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

The problem has been resolved, and steps now have been taken to preserve messages that may have been affected by this malfunction. Accordingly, all affected users may now delete messages that do not need to be retained in their Lotus Notes account. Staff members who began work at the EOP on or after January 20, 2001 as part of the change of administration were not affected by this problem, and were not covered by the September 29, 2000 order. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency. Each EOP office is responsible for maintaining appropriate records pertaining to its activities.

Phil--Here is the language on the memo to staff. Brett has coordinated this language with Judge Gonzales.

Brett--FYI, I have spoken to Leanna on sending this only to those who were here before Jan. 20, and there are concerns that some people may be missed. I understand that right now OA is proceeding on the assumption that the memo will go to all staff. However, I think the qualifying language we have is right on point, and I want to thank you and Judge Gonzales for helping us work this out.

Can we change the date in the new sentence to on or after January 20? Some people who came on board after September 30 may have heard of the order internally (even though they were unaffected), and would need to know. However, I think this is much less likely for folks who came on with the transition. Also, is "disregard" or "ignore" better?

Phil--FYI. I think we're almost there, but I'm guessing that Brett may need more time to coordinate this with his office since he has not been able to respond to this last message yet. Here's the latest draft:

I'll let you know as soon as we close the loop. In the meantime, you may want to review Brett's comments below regarding the issue of who should sign. Adam, 5-1268

Thanks. As a follow up, I made a few changes to the second paragraph, and added a new sentence at the end.

In terms of our shop signing, do you mean that any appropriate OA or other EOP management official would be okay, or do you think that it should come from counsel?

Brett--As a follow-up to my message this morning, here is a revised draft on the e-mail issue. I have also given this draft to Leanna Terrell, Associate Director for IS&T, to review to ensure technical accuracy. In case you did not receive my voice-mail, we have been given until COB today to produce a draft informing staff members of the resolution of the problem. Please call me ASAP to discuss. MEMORANDUM FOR ALL STAFF OF THE EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

FROM: _____
_____

SUBJECT: Resolution of Technical Anomaly Affecting E-mail

You may disregard this memorandum if you began your employment in the Executive Office of the President on or after January 20, 2001.

On September 29, 2000, all then-current Executive Office of the President (EOP) employees were directed to refrain from deleting any e-mail message on their computers, with the exception of purely personal messages. This was due to a technical problem that affected the Automated Records Management System ("ARMS"), which captures Lotus Notes messages at the time they are sent or received (with the exception of messages that do not qualify as official records when the EOP sender designates the message as a "non-record"). Because the problem was present from approximately April 15, 2000 to September 30, 2000, staff members who began work after that period were not affected.

Accordingly, all users may now delete messages which do not need to be maintained in their in or out boxes. E-mails that should be preserved locally as a record of office activities may be printed out with correspondence information (i.e. date, time, sender, recipient and subject of the message), and filed in the appropriate place. Any questions on your obligation to preserve records in your possession should be directed to the records management office for your office or agency.

On balance, I guess I do not believe we should include the summary political section in your comprehensive ethics memo. The problem is that this is a critical issue for Office of Political Affairs, and we have a 6-page draft memo prepared now that delineates all of this in some minute detail. I worry that those folks will never read that (and they NEED to) if they get an earlier summary, and I also worry that the summary simply cannot capture all the ins and outs (and there are many) of this issue.

I thus would probably would just flag the separate political issues in your comprehensive memo and then circulate the political/official memo separately. But let me know.

Thoughts?

FYI on same issue: The Leg Affairs guys here told us last week that they thought there was virtually no chance of anything but a Democratic appointment by Gov. Hodges in the event something happens to
Sen. Thurmond -- and that suggestions to the contrary coming from South Carolina are likely "inoperative."

as i said, first place to go would be the original printer. if you can't do that, let me know -- i have a stationer that i use alot who does these laser-printed invites and i know them well. this can be easily fixed, really, and is no big deal at all. just let me know if i can help.

as i said, first place to go would be the original printer. if you can't do that, let me know -- i have a stationer that i use alot who does these laser-printed invites and i know them well. this can be easily fixed, really, and is no big deal at all. just let me know if i can help.

I'm trying to track down the response, if any, that we sent to Senator Leahy's letter on pardon policy. He complained loudly on Friday to Leg Affairs that he hasn't heard back. Was this staffed out to anyone for response? If so, has any response been prepared or sent?

Prescott Caballero is looking for a sign-off on his web privacy policy as soon as possible. Basic questions are:
If someone sends an e-mail to the White House, can we say we won't share it. Seems to me the answer to that is No: it will be disclosed just like all other Presidential records 12 years following the end of the Administration.
The second question relates to e-mail addresses submitted through the website for purposes of receiving regular news updates from the WH. Is the e-mail address itself a record subject to the Act?

Note that a lot of the judges (this is a panel of 7) who are likely to vote his way on liability are being silent. (Also, the Section 2 issue is his strongest liability issue and that issue is being argued tomorrow.) Very interesting. Sentelle seems to be swing vote.

One caution from your event meeting was the biPartisianship of the congressional delegation. I would run by Brett Kavanaugh or whomever you have been working with in Legal to be sure the co del make up and the fact that some may be flying in AF 1 as well as whether they were invited or just attending. This would be simply to ensure that the delegation doesn't impact in any way the distinction of this event as official travel. I would also review this at the 3 pm countdown meeting as OA can also provide guidance (at which OA, MnA, WHMO, WHCA, USSS should all be attending).

Brett-
I work in the office of political affairs and we are sending out a newsletter about the President's tax plan. We were wondering whether or not it is legal to ask people to write a letter to their editor or an op-ed piece. Thanks a lot.

REAL TAX RELIEF FOR REAL FAMILIES

White House Office of Political Affairs (202) 456-6257
EEOB Room 100 Tuesday, February 27, 2001

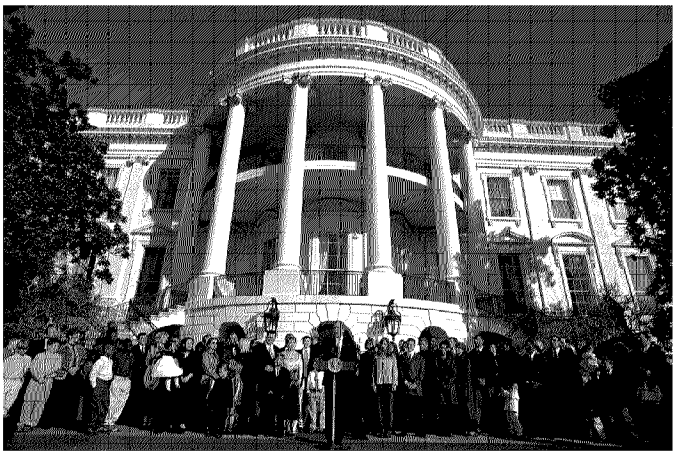
"These are the basic ideas that guide my tax policy: lower income taxes for all, with the greatest help for those most in need. Everyone who pays income taxes benefits—while the highest percentage tax cuts go to the lowest income Americans. I believe this is a formula for continuing the prosperity we've enjoyed, but also expanding it in ways we have yet to discover. It is an economics of inclusion. It is the agenda of a government that knows its limits and shows its heart."

-President George W. Bush



President with the Tax Families at the White House on February 7.

President Bush's Tax Plan:

- Preserves Prosperity
- Reduces the Marriage Penalty
- Ends the Death Tax
- Lowers the High Tax Burden on Families
- Gives a Fair and Balanced Tax Cut
- Promotes Charitable Giving

What You Can Do…

- Visit the President's Agenda for Tax Relief at: http://www.whitehouse.gov/news/reports/taxplan.html
- E-mail the President's proposal to friends and colleagues to help gain support.
- Hold a press conference with your state leadership
- Call a radio program to educate listeners about the President's tax relief agenda
- Write an op-ed piece or a letter to the editor of your local newspaper to bolster support. Attached is a sample op-ed piece and if you get published fax us a copy of your article. We would love to hear from you.

Subject: Tuesday morning meeting on clearance and confirmation process

We are in the process of setting up a meeting for 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday to bring together all the parties within the White House and DOJ who will have a role in shepherding nominees through the clearance and confirmation process. The goal of the meeting is to develop clear procedures and lines of authority for ensuring speedy and thorough accomplishment of all the tasks necessary to clear and confirm the president's judicial nominees.

Save the time on your calendars if you wish to attend. This is not a command performance -- I will communicate whatever happens to everyone in our office -- but anyone who wishes to attend is more than welcome. I will notify you as soon as Ansley has lined up a location for us.

Maybe this is overkill, but because this meeting is our first with the President and because our anxiety levels therefore likely will be high, I would recommend that we have a dry run rehearsal earlier in the afternoon Monday (say 1:00) and then another meeting at 4:30 or so. That way, if the Judge/Tim have comments about/changes to our oral presentations, we will have meaningful time to adjust our presentations, relax, etc. I would not want anyone to be winging it or trying something out for the first time in the meeting with the President, so an earlier session may help iron out any kinks.

Just a thought.

Terry - any word when Archives can come and mark the boxes in SB229? The boxes are starting to build up. I know you were waiting on word from Archives, but I thought I would keep in touch with you to let you know the status from our end. There is a Director's Meeting tomorrow morning and I thought I would let the Director's know about this service. I don't think First Lady's, Special Projects, or Student Mail is on the pick up list at this point. I will talk to them and tell them the process.

Brett:

As we discussed yesterday, we are interested in working with the Republican National Committee to bring interns to Washington through their Eisenhower Intern Program. This program would pay interns a monthly stipend from the RNC. Interns would work full-time, however, they would split their time between the RNC and the White House.

Michael Toner is confident that this has been done in the past. It is particularly good for our office since it would give us an opportunity to bring in talented political kids from around the country.

Thanks for looking into this. If you need more information, please feel free to call me: 60344.

It spelled the Judge's last name wrong -- I am sure the judge does not care but somewhat embarrassing for them. Perhaps someone should discreetly let Cox's or Portman's assistant know??

which it is not, any solicitation on Gov't property would be an issue.
Alcohol, to be served, requires a waiver of general prohibitions of alcohol use in GSA controlled space. Since Wine and Beer will be served, Ansley has been instructed to pursue the noble end of getting the necessary waiver from the building manager.

Subject: Regulatory Reform meeting

Please join us tomorrow afternoon, at 4:30 PM in Mitch Daniels' office, for a meeting to discuss the status of the various rules that are affected by Secretary Card's "Regulatory Review Plan" letter .

For many of these rules, the clock is ticking quickly and if we want to ask the agencies to take any specific actions, we need to act promptly.

thanks

Brett,

Starting this week, I will ask my associate directors to prepare weekly reports. I would like the reports to contain the following information:

1. Hot issues in states
2. Redistricting update
3. Grassroots activity on behalf of the President's program
4. Election 2002-- Candidate recruitment, polls, other developments

Is this appropriate for a weekly report? Is it appropriate to use official computers for these, or should be use our RNC computers?

What's the deal with the yellow binoculars from Animal Planet, and (Moose) should we send them back? Judging from their effectiveness, I would guess that the binoculars are either: a) worth less than $20; or b) an item of no intrinsic value.

I have dealt with her on payments for cell phones. She is very conservative on these issues.

My research so far:

The travel cost answers are confirmed and are the same as yesterday.

I have learned that the practice of billing government staffers (but only staffers) for meals on Air Force 1 has been around for at least 8 years. I am gaining more information on past practices in Reagan and Bush.

I am still waiting on more Camp David info from Military Office.

March __, 2001

Dear [Senator Leahy][Senator Schumer]:

On behalf of the President, I write in response to your letter of March 16, 2001, regarding the appropriate role of the American Bar Association (ABA) in the President's judicial selection process. The President has asked me to inform you that the Administration will not notify the ABA of proposed judicial nominations before such nominations are submitted to the Senate and announced to the public generally. I have attached my letter to the ABA, which outlines our reasons for proceeding in this manner.

W e do not think that treating the ABA on the same basis as other groups should in any way delay the process of Senate confirmation. We are confident that, after the President's nomination of a judicial candidate, the ABA can expeditiously evaluate the President's nominees if it chooses to do so. Nor do we believe that even-handed treatment of the ABA and other groups will produce judicial nominees of lower quality. President Bush is firmly committed to maintaining the highest standards of intellect, integrity, and professional qualification among his judicial nominees.

Thank you very much for your letter. I look forward to working closely with you in the months ahead as the President and the Senate work together to fill the numerous vacancies on the federal bench.

March 22, 2001

Dear Ms. Barnett:

Thank you for taking the time to meet with Attorney General Ashcroft and me on March 19. We very much appreciated the opportunity to visit with you and benefited from your perspective on the judicial selection process. In addition to hearing from you, we have carefully studied and considered the history and practice of American Bar Association involvement in judicial selection. Although the President welcomes the ABA's suggestions concerning judicial nominees, the Administration will not notify the ABA of the identity of a nominee before the nomination is submitted to the Senate and announced to the public.

There is a long tradition by which Members of Congress, interest groups, and individual citizens provide suggestions to the President about potential judges. We will continue to welcome such suggestions from all sources, including the ABA. The issue at hand, however, is quite different: whether the ABA alone -- out of the literally dozens of groups and many individuals who have a strong interest in the composition of the federal courts -- should receive advance notice of the identities of potential nominees in order to render pre-nomination opinions on their fitness for judicial service. In our view, granting any single group such a preferential, quasi-official role in the nomination process would be unfair to the other groups that also have strong interests in judicial selection. As Senator Biden asked in 1994, "Why the ABA and not the National Bar Association?" The same question could be asked with respect to numerous other groups.

The question, in sum, is not whether the ABA's voice should be heard in the judicial selection process. Rather, the question is whether the ABA should play a unique, quasi-official role and thereby have its voice heard before and above all others. We do not think that kind of preferential arrangement is either appropriate or fair.

It would be particularly inappropriate, in our view, to grant a preferential, quasi-official role to a group, such as the ABA, that takes public positions on divisive political, legal, and social issues that come before the courts. This is not to suggest that the ABA should not adopt policy positions or express its views. But considerations of sound constitutional government suggest that the President not grant a preferential, quasi-official role in the judicial selection process to a politically active group.

Our decision to treat the ABA in the same manner as all other interested parties mirrors the approach taken in recent decades by Presidents of both parties with respect to Supreme Court nominees, as well as the approach taken by the Senate Judiciary Committee in 1997 when it ended the ABA's quasi-official role in the Senate confirmation process. As Chairman Hatch explained at that time, "[p]ermitting a political interest group to be elevated to an officially sanctioned role in the confirmation process not only debases that process, but, in my view, ultimately detracts from the moral authority of the courts themselves."

Finally, let me reiterate that the Administration fully welcomes the ABA, like other interested parties, to provide suggestions regarding potential judges. Similarly, once the President submits a nomination to the Senate, the ABA like every other interested party is free to evaluate and express its views concerning the President's nominee.

Thank you again for your time and your views, as well as for your service to the ABA and the profession. The Administration looks forward to working with you in the months ahead on issues of concern to the legal profession.

Sincerely yours,

Alberto R. Gonzales

March 22, 2001

Dear Senators Leahy and Schumer:

On behalf of the President, I write in response to your letter of March 16, 2001, regarding the role of the American Bar Association in the President's judicial selection process. Although the President welcomes the ABA's suggestions concerning judicial nominees, the Administration will not notify the ABA of the identity of a nominee before the nomination is submitted to the Senate and announced to the public. A copy of my letter to the President of the ABA informing her of this decision is enclosed.

We are confident that this procedure, in which the President will welcome and receive input from a variety of interested and diverse parties, will enable the President to nominate candidates of the highest intellect, integrity, and professional qualification. Of course, we appreciate that individual members of the Senate Judiciary Committee may choose to seek the ABA's views on judicial nominees. Based on the ABA's representation to me that it can complete an evaluation in every case in 20 to 30 days, I am confident that any post-nomination ABA evaluation would not delay the Committee's timely consideration of the President's nominees.

Thank you very much for your letter. The Administration looks forward to working closely with you in the months ahead as the President and the Senate work together to fill the numerous vacancies on the federal bench.

Sincerely yours,

Alberto R. Gonzales

FYI - each of you has a meeting on the Hill with ARG on Thursday. Below are the departure and return times I am scheduling for ARG.

10:30 Drive WH to Russell
12:45 Drive Hill/Dirksen to WH

If you plan to go over with him and return with him that is great by me.
If not you might want to confirm the shuttle schedule or put in a transpo request.

Thanks!

The brief for the United States as respondent would be due Monday, June 11, absent extensions. It is standard for the SG to be able to obtain an extension.

But one problem is that the petitioner's brief is due May 10. If there were to be a reversal of position, it is unclear to me whether the SG's brief also would be due by May 10.

The brief for the United States as respondent would be due Monday, June 11, absent extensions. It is standard for the SG to be able to obtain an extension.

But one problem is that the petitioner's brief is due May 10. If there were to be a reversal of position, it is unclear to me whether the SG's brief also would be due by May 10.

the cos will travel to boston next week for a republican eagles fundraiser and return the same day. does he have to provide his own transportation from WH to airport and the same when he returns? even if his driver is dedicated specifically to him and cannot be used as part of the standard carpet service (i.e., he's not a using a resource that would otherwise be used to serve the public)?

sorry to bug you about this, but AHC wanted to get some clarification after last week's recommendation that he provide his own transportation from the WH to a fundraiser.

thanks,

Judges availability for interviews:

Wednesday 1-3pm and 5-7pm
Thursday 1-2:15pm, 4-5pm, 6-7 pm
Friday 11am-2pm and 2:30-6pm

The policy has been that, absent security issues, either (i) government cars should not be used for transportation to purely political events or (ii) the political committee must reimburse the government for the costs of the transportation. The governing principle is that additional, non-security-related costs incurred by the government as a result of political activity should not be borne by the government. In this case, that would be the cost of the use of the car between the White House and the airport (and perhaps also the extra costs associated with the driver if he gets paid by the hour or receives overtime). I recommend that it would be simpler for the RNC to provide transportation in situations like the one you describe here (unless there is a security issue). Staff from the Senatorial Committee asked me to work with them to enhance their donor list with the coal related folks we cultivated during the campaign. While I am all for helping to elect more GOP senators, I am wary of doing anything that may result in turning off our core group in terms of political involvement and donations. It is apparent these folks (Senatorial) are not in tune with the issues this group feels is important. I am also concerned that their standard MO for soliciting donations, which works with the "inside the beltway" corporate energy guys, will not work and may, in fact, hurt us when we go back to them for our needs. Their request, however, did make me think about how we continue to include (and expand) this group for policy input and future financial support.

My gut tells me not to give up our strategy and contacts for the energy group. I am happy to engage in a vague fashion but, unless I hear otherwise from you, I'm not giving them a roadmap. Please advise.

Secondly, let's confer on the issue of keeping our energy group together and keeping them engaged in a meaningful fashion - for both policy development and financial support (Duncan should probably be in on this).

Perhaps you guys are already on top of this - if so, sorry to take up your time. Otherwise, we need to find time to address this.

McCutch

On the meeting, I am available anytime this week except on Wednesday from roughly 3:30 - 5:00 p.m. and on Friday from 12:30 - 2:30 p.m. I think Brett should join us -- since he is the office expert on designating things political versus official.

On the billing issue, the Judge has recommended a policy that would allow you pay the bills directly from the travel funds, unless the employee received a full per diem on the day of the travel. If the employee received a per diem to cover meals, he or she must pay for the meals eaten on Air Force One. So for past bills, where per diems were already given, staff member need to pay. But going forward, the recommended policy would allow you to institute a procedure whereby staff members receive a reduced per diem and then are not required to pay for meals on AFO.

Last I recall, we were trying to get a meeting together on this subject and some related matters. Can we try again for this week? I think the attendees were you, me, Jim Daniel with FMD and possibly Brett.

Also - think we have touched on this issue - I have the Airlift Ops bills for food on Air Force One. Are we still determining whether the staff bill can be paid for by Travel funds, or do the individuals have to reimburse directly. FMDs recommendation is that it may be paid from Travel Funds. Any thoughts?

As a result of the withdrawal of the demand letter, there is now no need for the OMB Director to send the certification letter.

Brett:

I have been invited to speak at the Muskegon County (MI) Lincoln Day Dinner in the middle of April. While traveling to MI, I would like to spend an extra day meeting with the state party, potential senate candidates, etc.

The Muskegon Party has offered to pay my expenses. If possible I would like the RNC to pay my expenses, which would offer me more flexibility while saving a county party the expense. Most of what I will be doing is political, but there will be some "official" meetings. How do I have to pay for this travel?

Thanks,
Sara

VOTE

Bill Shuster

for Congress.

Right now, President George W. Bush is trying to help every Central Pennsylvania family by cutting taxes, improving education, and restoring our nation's values.

But he can't do these things without the help of Congressmen who believe in his plans.

That's why we need to elect Bill Shuster as our next Congressman on May 15th.

Bill Shuster will support President Bush's efforts to cut our taxes.

He will vote "yes" to reforming our education system with accountability.

He will bring conservative values to our nation's capitol.

And Bill Shuster will always put Central Pennsylvania's families first.

Republican Laws Need Qualified Judges to Enforce Them. Vote for your Endorsed Republican Judges on May 15th.

This year, our Republican Party has endorsed three highly-qualified people for Superior Court: Mary Jane Bowes, Judge Richard Klein and Judge Palmer Dolbin.

Unfortunately, a fourth candidate — not endorsed by our Republican Party — will also appear on your ballot. That means you must pay careful attention when casting your three votes. Here's who to look for and vote for on your ballot...

Superior Court (Pick Three)

✓ Mary Jane Bowes	YES - Endorsed & Qualified
✗ John Bender	NO - Not Endorsed
✓ Judge Richard Klein	YES - Endorsed & Qualified
✓ Judge Palmer Dolbin	YES - Endorsed & Qualified

Absentee Voting...

It's Easier Than Ever Before.

You can cast an absentee ballot if you think that you may be out of town on Election Day, May 15th, or if your health makes it difficult or impossible for you to get to the polls.

Simply detached the enclosed absentee ballot request form, complete the information requested, attach a 34 cent postage stamp and mail it.

Your form must be received by the county by May 8th. You will receive a paper ballot in the mail that you must complete and mail back to the county. Ballots must be received by the county by May 11th. The secrecy of your ballot is guaranteed.

We do letters from the President congratulating people for years of service (30 years being a fireman, nurse, etc.). Can we provide messages for those who have worked for the same company for a number of years, i.e., 35 years with Bloomingdales, etc.? Not sure if we want to name the company. Is that okay?

Brett:

I have been invited to speak at the Muskegon County (MI) Lincoln Day Dinner in the middle of April. While traveling to MI, I would like to spend an extra day meeting with the state party, potential senate candidates, etc.

The Muskegon Party has offered to pay my expenses. If possible I would like the RNC to pay my expenses, which would offer me more flexibility while saving a county party the expense. Most of what I will be doing is political, but there will be some "official" meetings. How do I have to pay for this travel?

Thanks,
Sara

The RNC can pay for Mrs. Abraham to travel to a political event if the RNC approves that expense. Same rule with advance people. This strikes me as not a legal question, but as an RNC policy question.

Need some guidance from you:
In the past the RNC has paid for advance guys to go ahead of the Secretary on political events. Basically I understand that this is not the case. Can you let me know? Mrs. Abraham is very interested in traveling with Abraham and I am not sure how that will be paid for. Can you help?

We have met with Vickers on this. Political travel generally involves (i) travel for the purpose of attending a political party event or a campaign/election event or (ii) travel to otherwise contribute to the success of the Republican party. In the past, there has been a presumption that travel by personnel of the Office of Political Affairs is political travel. There is a large gray area and a lot of flexibility here as a purely legal matter, but consistent with the practices of past Administrations, you should presume that your own travel is political on trips such as the Florida trip. As always, I am happy to answer specific questions, however, and that is the safest course when you have any questions whatsoever.

For the Florida trip, note that there is a separate White House policy regarding travel on corporate aircraft. Moose Cobb can provide guidance on that. That policy applies to you even when you are traveling in a political capacity, as I understand the policy.

I wanted to alert you to something re State Place. Several of us are having trouble getting spots at 8:15 a.m. and thus are forced to park outside the complex and pay for parking garages. The officers claim that the number of passes has been doubled. I hate to be a complainer, but thought I would ask. Should we just get here earlier? Or is there some other solution?

HEADLINE: Young to influence judicial jobs

BYLINE: GRAHAM BRINK

BODY:
Usually, a senator works with the nominating committee, but both of Florida's are Democrats now.
In a peculiarity of the November elections, the already powerful Rep. C.W. Bill Young has inherited another influential task.

The Republican chairman of the House Appropriations Committee will be one of three officials responsible for determining whom the president considers for federal judgeships and the three U.S. attorney jobs in Florida.

Normally, the state's senior senator from the president's party works with a nominating committee to come up with candidates. This year, Florida's two senators, Bill Nelson and Bob Graham, are both Democrats. That leaves the job to Young, Rep. Clay Shaw, R-Fort Lauderdale, and Gov. Jeb Bush.

An elections quirk may have given them the job, but it's one that could allow them to leave a lasting legacy on the state's federal judiciary.

It's no secret that President Bush wants more conservative nominees, especially in light of how politicized the judiciary became during the November elections, said Susan McManus, a political analyst and professor at the University of South Florida.

"In Florida, Young and the others will set that agenda," McManus said.

Young could not be reached for comment.

The last time both Florida senators were from the opposite party of the president was 1974 to 1976, under President Gerald Ford. Democrats Richard B. Stone and Lawton Chiles represented Florida.

In those circumstances, the nomination duties fall to the senior congressman who belongs to the same party as the president: in the latest case, Young.

At the president's behest, Young, R-Largo, will work with Shaw and the governor.

McManus said the Florida congressional delegation usually gets along well and it only makes sense to add Gov. Bush to the mix since he already has the president's ear.

"He doesn't have much trouble getting his phone calls answered," she said.

Three federal judicial nominating committees, announced last week, will create a short list for any job that is open in Florida. The two Democratic senators, Graham and Nelson, will interview the candidates, but more as a courtesy. They will likely have little official say in which candidates get the nod.

That will be left up to Young, Shaw and Gov. Bush, who will forward their picks to President Bush. The Senate then has to confirm the president's selections. The process can take months and in some cases years.

The nominating committees soon will start taking applications for the U.S. Attorney job in the Middle District, which includes the Tampa Bay area. Donna Bucella announced last month that she would resign effective May 1.

The nation's 93 U.S. attorneys serve at the pleasure of the president. Often, only a handful keep their jobs when a new party takes over the White House.

In January, Gov. Bush endorsed Tampa lawyer Jack Rudy, making him a front-runner for the job. Rudy worked as Hillsborough's interim state attorney for five months after Harry Lee Coe III committed suicide last summer.

The more lasting legacy will likely come from appointing the federal judges, who serve for life.

In 1999, Young and other members of Florida's delegation worked to secure four new federal judgeships to relieve overburdened courts in the Middle District.

One of those positions remains open, along with two others in the Southern District. A total of 66 district judge jobs need filling throughout the country, according to the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts.

Former President Bill Clinton was criticized in some circles for not acting fast enough to fill open federal judge positions, neglecting an opportunity to counter the conservative legacy of Presidents Ronald Reagan and George Bush by appointing judges with a more liberal outlook.

Others blamed the Republican-controlled Senate for delaying or denying confirmation of Clinton's nominees.

The Bush administration is likely to act quickly to avoid a similar fate. The Senate is split 50-50, with Republican Vice President Dick Cheney casting the tie-breaking vote.

But that balance could shift if a senator dies or retires.

And many districts complain of overworked judges with ballooning case loads. Filling the open positions would help alleviate that pressure and ward off calls to expand the judiciary.

The meeting with the Senate Judiciary Committee staff has been changed to next Wednesday, April 18, at 10:30 a.m. in my office. Attendees from the Senate side will be Sharon Prost, Makan Delrahim, and the Committee's Chief Investigator. On our side, so far it is me and Kyle, with Brett and Tim attending if they wish.

If this changed time does not work for anyone, please "Reply All" on this e-mail as soon as possible, so we can search for another time with Sharon.

Heather, if you do not receive an e-mail by the end of this afternoon indicating that the time doesn't work, then please call, or have Allison call, Sharon Prost at 224-5225 to make the necessary arrangements to get her people into the complex.

Thanks.

Someone might want to send them a copy of Shaw v. Reno/Miller v. Johnson.

RICHMOND, April 10 -- Republican leaders today proposed creating the first legislative district in Virginia without a majority of either whites or blacks, linking fast-growing Latino and Asian American communities in Arlington, Alexandria and the Baileys Crossroads section of Fairfax.

The move could strengthen the political clout of the immigrant communities that are emerging throughout the Washington suburbs but are not dense or large enough to command legislative districts of their own. Republicans say the proposed House district would be 42 percent Latino, 20 percent black and 10 percent Asian American. It would have no incumbent, increasing the chances for non-white candidates to emerge.

The announcement came as Republicans, in control of the once-a-decade redistricting process for the first time, fine-tuned a plan that is headed to the first round of floor votes in both the House and Senate on Wednesday. Party leaders fought off most suggestions from the out-of-power Democrats today, but took seriously a letter from the NAACP urging a new legislative district in Northern Virginia with strong minority representation.

Someone might want to send them a copy of Shaw v. Reno/Miller v. Johnson.

RICHMOND, April 10 -- Republican leaders today proposed creating the first legislative district in Virginia without a majority of either whites or blacks, linking fast-growing Latino and Asian American communities in Arlington, Alexandria and the Baileys Crossroads section of Fairfax.

The move could strengthen the political clout of the immigrant communities that are emerging throughout the Washington suburbs but are not dense or large enough to command legislative districts of their own. Republicans say the proposed House district would be 42 percent Latino, 20 percent black and 10 percent Asian American. It would have no incumbent, increasing the chances for non-white candidates to emerge.

The announcement came as Republicans, in control of the once-a-decade redistricting process for the first time, fine-tuned a plan that is headed to the first round of floor votes in both the House and Senate on Wednesday. comments by President today on Jefferson were quite candid:

Our world echoes with Jefferson's ideals, even though Jefferson did not always act as if they were true. The same Thomas Jefferson who wrote the original ordinance banning slavery in the Northwest Territories lived on the labor of slaves. The same Jefferson who denied racial equality spoke ringing words of equal rights. He doubted the existence of the Christian God, but he trembled for his country when he remembered that the God he doubted was just.

No wonder America sees itself in Thomas Jefferson. He was what we are: marked with faults, inspired by strong ideals. Thomas Jefferson still inspires us. He believed that education was the key to human potential. We must be committed to educating every single child in America.

Ken,

Ben Ginsburg contacted me to discuss the manner in which the three major Republican campaign committees may use the President and/or the White House in connection with fundraising letters. He suggested that an appropriate first step would be for Judge Gonzales to meet with the executive directors of the committees and their attorneys, so that they could explain to us the various ways they wish to reference the President and White House in such letters. This would then help us formulate an overall policy. If you agree that this is a good idea, would you advise us on how we should go about setting up this meeting? Thanks.

sorry he bothered you with this. they need to work with our office on these letters, and ben should not be setting up such a meeting. i will follow up with him. we need to coordinate this in a smart way (which we are doing) or they will all start competing. accordingly, such a meeting should not occur at this time.

FYI. Two Supreme Court decisions were issued today; both were 9-0 and neither was of much broad import. One was a very technical tax case.
The other was a due process case involving California's procedures for resolving contract disputes between the state and its contractors. The opinions will be summarized in the weekly SG memo that I will circulate, but they need no further elaboration or notice within the White House.

Noel asked if he could obtain one of the wooden easter eggs that were to be handed out to the children who participated in the roll. The answer is yes; the Visitors Office is planning on giving one egg to each WH staff member.

On a related note, I was demoralized to see that ebay already has 20+ listings for 2001 WH Easter Egg souvenirs -- some eggs now bidding for as much as $51 each. This was precisely the commercialization we hoped to avoid by not selling eggs this year; but perhaps we just created a black market. In any event, I hope that no WH staff member decides to make a buck by selling his or her egg on the Internet.

Brett:
Thanks for handling our ealier question.
This one involves my own time with a charity event. When you have a moment, let me know your advice -

One of my best friends from high school. Mark Ferris, passed away from a diabetes-related heart attack last year. Several other classmates and I established a scholarship fund in his honor at our school, Landon.

To give the fund a boost, we have been talking through plans to hold a 10K run in Mark's honor next year at the school. Proceeds from the run would benefit Mark's fund, as well as the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation (JDF), who has become a willing partner in planning and executing the event. The dynamics of my relationship with Mark, my classmates, and the school, have led to me being asked to Chair the event, as well as the scholarship fund.

I know there are sometimes constraints on charitable activity when working in the White House. So you know:
- I would be working on this event in my free, non-work, time.
- My role in the event would be as a private citizen, not a White House Employee.
- I would not use any government equipment to undertake my duties as chair of the event or fund
- My official job at the WH does not involve any type of contact with the Juvenile Diabetes Fund or the Landon School.

Thanks very much Brett -

Coddy

Subject: Question...

Brent Greenfield said you might be able to answer this question.

We have a two cd-roms full of communications files from the campaign that would be useful for some of the communications people at cabinet agencies. These discs include -- among other things -- press releases, fact sheets, talking points, and speeches from the campaign. If we were to have the RNC make a few copies of this CD to share with agency press people is this kosher?

Brett:

I am writing to follow up on your conversation with Ken re. political events and the Secretaries of the Cabinet.

I'm taking the lead on this project for Political Affairs, and I just wanted to touch base.

I know you all are working on a memo to give official guidelines for Secretaries' participation, role, involvement, etc. I understand that this memo will be completed Monday. In your work on it, one thought to include, perhaps, is the role of White House Liaisons. We'd like for them to be able to coordinate political events for their respective agencies' Secretaries.

I think the rest of what the memo should include has been covered in your conversations with Ken. If you have any questions or concerns, though, please don't hesitate to let me know, and I'll follow up?

thanks again Brett - you are, as always, the man -

Coddy

Brent Greenfield said you might be able to answer this question.

We have a two cd-roms full of communications files from the campaign that would be useful for some of the communications people at cabinet agencies. These discs include -- among other things -- press releases, fact sheets, talking points, and speeches from the campaign. If we were to have the RNC make a few copies of this CD to share with agency press people is this kosher?

Is it worth correcting the NYT editorial writers, who say that the WHSJC is comprised "largely" of Thomas clerks, Scalia clerks, and Starr "alumni?" This is a real exaggeration that allows the media to give the Committee a much "scarier" cast than it really has: there is 1 Thomas clerk, 1 Scalia clerk, and 1 ex-Starr lawyers. That's 3 people out of a committee that has from 15-20 members, and it's less than a third of even our office. Maybe this is not worth the candle but this is simply inaccurate and it bothers me.

Matt Schlapp wanted me to check in with you both to get guidance on correspondence record management requirements. When a staff person sends out a typed or written note, does a copy need to be made within our office and kept on file, or does someone in Record Management do this before it is mailed out? Schlapp wants to make sure everyone in OPA meets the legal requirements for record mangagement.

Consistent with the Clinton policy, Moose Cobb of our Office has advised me that our policy now is that White House and Cabinet officials may not travel on corporate aircraft if the company is regulated by or doing business with the agency. This policy applies to all travel -- official, political, and personal. And these restrictions apply regardless whether there would be reimbursement to the company for the costs of the travel.

ARG will need to depart at 4:45 tomorrow so he is in Feinstein's office (Hart 331) for a 5:00-5:30 meeting. Parskey had apparently called Feinstein's office also so he will be in on this same meeting. I am awaiting a final confirmation call but I think we are good to go.

You will need to move ARG quickly to the Leahy meeting (Russell 433) for his 5:30-6:00 meeting. They were expecting you as early as 5:15 but the official start time is 5:30.

Heather - I don't know if Tim was planning to attend either of these meetings so FYI just in case.

Sorry for the delay on this. You asked about how to respond to Christie Fox. I think a standard response letter from you or from correspondence is appropriate. There is not much else to do with something like that. Thanks and please follow up with any additional questions.

Ken asked me to run this by you -

He has been asked to speak to a Lincoln Day Dinner in Tennessee - can he arrange to have the RNC pay for his flight and hotel. Or is there a legal hoop we need to jump through first?

Let me know and thanks.

Brett -

Ken asked me to run this by you -

He has been asked to speak to a Lincoln Day Dinner in Tennessee - can he arrange to have the RNC pay for his flight and hotel. Or is there a legal hoop we need to jump through first?

Let me know and thanks.

Michael

Good morning. I just wanted to let everyone know that I am enjoying my job here and am very pleased to be a part of the White House Counsel team. If there is anything that I can do to help make your job easier, please feel free to rely on me. Allison is providing me with samples of correspondence and other items so that I can efficiently assist you during this transition period. I am eager to work and learn new things so don't be afraid to challenge me (I'll probably regret saying that). Thanks for making me feel welcome and have a good day.

DISPUTE OVER JUDICIAL NOMINEES PROMPTS DEMOCRATIC WALK-OUT

By Amy Fagan, CQ Staff Writer

May 3, 2001 - Democrats walked out of a Senate Judiciary Committee meeting this morning over a dispute concerning the committee's handling of judicial nominees. Their action again delayed a vote on nominees to top positions in the Justice Department, including Theodore Olson to be solicitor general. The agency nominations are not directly affected by the partisan dispute but are stalled while it continues. Democrats say either senator from a state should be able to effectively block action on a judicial nominee who would hear cases in that state. "What they're asking for is that any Democrat or Republican can kill a presidential nominee," Chairman Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, said. "I'm not going to give them that." Democrats say they merely seek a continuation of the procedure Hatch followed during the Clinton administration, but Republicans dispute their interpretation of that procedure. Democrats will decide later today whether they will return at about 4:45 p.m. to vote on the Justice Department nominees.

Subject: HOUSTON, WE HAVE ANOTHER PROBLEM

This time in Texas. FBI needs to do more interviews. Issue sort of similar to our issue in North Carolina from earlier today. Hopefully this is the issue that's already been aired out in public; if so, we're o.k. Newstead will keep us advised. FBI trying to wrap this up tomorrow.

This time in Texas. FBI needs to do more interviews. Issue sort of similar to our issue in North Carolina from earlier today. Hopefully this is the issue that's already been aired out in public; if so, we're o.k. Newstead will keep us advised. FBI trying to wrap this up tomorrow.

Tim, Courtney and Brett: Decision of interest --

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit held today that the Department of the Army could not contractually bind itself not to report an alleged criminal violation to law enforcement authorities in Germany. Fomby-Denson v. Dept. of the Army, No. 00-3112 (Fed. Cir. May 3, 2001).

Ms. Fomby-Denson, a civilian Army employee, was the Army Family Advocacy Program Coordinator at a U.S. Army facility in Germany. She was found to be responsible for an act of child neglect, and the Army initiated the process of removing her from Federal service. In the course of the process, the Army discovered an Army document bearing her supervisor's signature that extended her assignment in Germany, concluded that she had forged the signature, added that to the formal reasons for her removal, and removed her.

She appealed her termination to the Merit Systems Protection Board (MSPB) and filed a separate complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Ten months later, she and the Army entered into a settlement agreement under which (1) the Army agreed to reinstate her, (2) the Army agreed to pay her a lump sum of $85,000, of which $50,000 was for attorney fees and costs, (3) she agreed to resign voluntarily immediately after reinstatement, (4) the Army agreed to remove from her Official Personnel Folder "all reference to the removal action and to the charges that were the basis for the action," (5) the agreement stated that it was "a full, complete and final settlement of all differences and controversies between the parties in connection with the appeal . . . to the Merit Systems Protection Board . . .," and (6) the agreement stated that the parties "agree that the terms of this agreement shall not be publicized or divulged in any manner, except as is reasonably necessary to administer its terms."

Two weeks after the settlement agreement was signed by both parties, counsel for the Army referred the allegation against Ms. Fomby-Denson of the forgery of the supervisor's signature on the Army document to local German law enforcement authorities for investigation and possible prosecution. She then filed a petition with the MSPB to enforce the settlement agreement, alleging that the Army had breached it. The MSPB denied the petition and she appealed to the Federal Circuit.

The Federal Circuit held that (1) general principles of contract law applied to interpretation of the settlement agreement, (2) under those general principles, a court would not enforce a contract that is contrary to public policy, and (3) "the public policy interest at stake -- the reporting of possible crimes to authorities -- is one of the highest order and is indisputably 'well defined and dominant' in the jurisprudence of contract law." (citation omitted). The court concluded: "The question presented is whether the United States can contractually bind itself to not refer such alleged misconduct and therefore place in the hands of the alleged wrongdoer the ability to decide whether to make such referrals. We conclude that the United States may not do so."

Brett & Tim,
Matt Schlapp wanted me to forward you the details on some of the calls/meetings this week where WH Counsel's presence would be appreciated. He would like to know if it is ok to give these groups a heads-up before the Wed.'s announcements and if so, when it is ok to let them know -- can one of you contact Matt at your convenience before tonight's 5:00 Social Conservatitves Call? He would also be interested in knowing if someone from WH Counsel's office could participate in the events.

Here are the details for the events and I am trying to track down remaining details on some of the events and will forward them ASAP.
Monday (today 5/7)
5:00 PM Social Conservatives Conf. Call 888-769-8759

Wednesday
10:00 AM -- Norquist Meeting -- (probably could get on agenda anytime between 10:00 and 12:00) -- will get location to you later on.

Wednesday
12:00 PM Weyrich Lunch Free Congress Foundation (717 2nd St. N.E.) -- on first floor proceed to the Krieble Center

Thursday
11:00 AM Catholics Conf. Call -- number not set yet will forward ASAP.

I love her but recommend against this. The Judge should do the really high-brow shows, I would think.

Subject: radio talk show request

Kevin Delaney from the Laura Ingram Show called yesterday wanting the Judge on Thursday or Friday for a 7-10 pm live show.

Ms. Ingram apparently clerked with Brett and Brad from our office at the Supreme Court.

ARG is in Texas Thursday-Sunday so I am not inclined to add this to his schedule.

Their number is PRA 6.

Do with this what you will.

Thanks!

Dear Ms. Fox:

Thank you very much for your letter. Please accept my apologies for the delay in my response. It sounds as if you have had a difficult time in recent years. Please know that President Bush is dedicated to doing everything he can to raise the future prospects and standard of living for all Americans.

I understand your concerns and the challenges you are facing. Without complete information however, it is difficult for me to address the details of your specific situation. In addition, there are restrictions on me prohibiting me from making inquiries on behalf of an individual before a federal agency. However, I would recommend that you alert your Member of Congress or U.S. Senator about your concerns regarding the Department of Education. They may be able to assist you.

Sincerely,

Lawrence B. Lindsey
Assistant to the President for Economic Policy

We would like to have 2 conference calls this week with the Vice President in order to discuss the energy plan. Can the RNC pay for this conference call? I ask b/c the WH capabilities are cumbersome (7 people per phone number, thus 8 phone numbers for a call of 50 people).

The basic answer to this is that it can be done in a number of ways. It is analogous to a meeting with an outside group. The meeting can be hosted off site or be hosted at the White House. If a meeting were off site, of course, the host would pay any incidental expenses. The same principle applies to a telephone call. So in this case the RNC (if there are RNC personnel on the call) or some other outside group on the call can arrange the call and pay for it, or the White House can do so. This is an area where neither approach would represent an augmentation of appropriations or government money paying for non-governmental work. The key is that this is a call between governmental and non-governmental officials. If the meeting were solely among governmental officials, then that would be a different issue.

Please follow up with me if this is confusing. Thanks.

There are two kinds of activity they were asking about:
1) Listening sessions.
This involves bringing in people from a defined sector, i.e., high-tech for a one-time group meeting. OPL first briefs them on the Pres's agenda re high-tech, then holds a listening sessions where everyone present can spout off their personal views (no FACA problem here, don't worry), then OPL would like to end the meeting by saying that we really need their help advancing the Pres's agenda, etc. What OPL really wants to know is whether there's a way to encourage people to contact Congress without implicating the anti-lobbying act. For example, can they just say "contact your congressman" without giving the congressman's name? Is there a distinction between encouraging people to meet with members of Congress, as opposed to encouraging them to send letters or postcards,? Etc.

2) Coalition-building.
This involves a group of people in a defined sector (again, e.g., high tech) getting together and forming a coalition to further the President's agenda on an ongoing basis. OPL consults with them along the way, mostly briefing them on the Pres's agenda. Coalition members are often high-powered people/groups that are lobbying Congress anyway. Can OPL encourage them to press Congress on a particular policy issue?

The basic answer to this is that it can be done in a number of ways. It is analogous to a meeting with an outside group. The meeting can be hosted off site or be hosted at the White House. If a meeting were off site, of course, the host would pay any incidental expenses. The same principle applies to a telephone call. So in this case the RNC (if there are RNC personnel on the call) or some other outside group on the call can arrange the call and pay for it, or the White House can do so. This is an area where neither approach would represent an augmentation of appropriations or government money paying for non-governmental work. The key is that this is a call between governmental and non-governmental officials. If the meeting were solely among governmental officials, then that would be a different issue.

Please follow up with me if this is confusing. Thanks.

We would like to have 2 conference calls this week with the Vice President in order to discuss the energy plan. Can the RNC pay for this conference call? I ask b/c the WH capabilities are cumbersome (7 people per phone number, thus 8 phone numbers for a call of 50 people).

Thanks.

In case you guys did not see . . .

SECTION: Editorial; Pg. 12; ZONE: N

LENGTH: 541 words

HEADLINE: Bush de-escalates on judges . . .

BODY:
Judicial nominations have been a prime partisan and ideological battleground at least since 1987, when President Reagan's selection of Robert Bork for the Supreme Court fell victim to a barrage of fire from liberals. As the courts have played an increasingly large role in settling policy disputes, both Republicans and Democrats have come to see judicial appointments as just another form of political warfare.

George W. Bush wants to de-escalate the fighting, as he made clear with his first set of judicial nominations last week. Urging a "return of civility and dignity to the confirmation process," he asked Democrats to "rise above the bitterness of the past" and vote promptly on his choices.

He also gave them the chance to meet him halfway. The slate of 11 appellate court nominations suggests an effort not only to satisfy Republicans in Congress but to mollify Democrats who figured his ideal judge would fall well to the right of Roy Bean--even though Bush's record in Texas didn't support that suspicion.

The group includes three women, two African-Americans and one Hispanic. Two of the nominees are district judges appointed to the bench by Bill Clinton. Three potential candidates who had already provoked criticism from Democrats were not chosen.

And the true-blue conservatives chosen by Bush are not party hacks or ideological hit men. They are top-flight lawyers. John G. Roberts Jr. is a former deputy solicitor general who has argued dozens of cases before the Supreme Court.

University of Utah professor Michael McConnell, previously a mainstay of the University of Chicago law faculty, is the nation's leading scholar on church-state jurisprudence. Although he takes issue with the "wall of separation" doctrine extolled by civil libertarians, he wins praise even from liberal sparring partners like Harvard's Laurence Tribe.

The only choice certain to provoke a fight is Terrence Boyle, a district judge in North Carolina who has drawn opposition from the state's Democratic senator, John Edwards. But other Democrats largely refrained from criticism of the selections, at least for the moment.

That's no guarantee that Bush will get the speedy votes he requested. Speedy votes, after all, have only recently become a favorite cause of Senate Republicans, many of whom spent the last eight years blocking President Bill Clinton's judicial nominations. Democrats who bridled when their colleagues refused to confirm nominees for vacant seats on the bench are now in the unaccustomed position of insisting that the Senate carefully examine each selection.

Examine it should, but the Senate should also act promptly on the information it gathers. Barring serious misjudgments, presidents of either party should be given deference in their choices for the judiciary--including those choices whose political and judicial philosophies conflict with those of the opposition party.

The Senate should demand solid qualifications, good legal minds and a respect for the law and the Constitution. But it shouldn't demand nominees who will vote a certain way on a particular issue. The Senate has a constitutional charge to advise and consent on judicial appointments. It should do so on these without undue delay.

Mornin' Brett-- Just wanted to confirm that you received a couple Blue Sheets via interoffice mail for trinket reimbursement. I think those are the only outstanding ones. If you will give those to VBM when you meet with her today, I'd appreciate it.

Thanks,
Merrill

Libby --

There is a chance that President and Mrs. Bush (41) may get on the First Lady's plane in Boston on Friday, June1 to go with her to Camp David for the weekend. Before we move forward, we want to make sure that they won't be billed for the trip. Are the considered immediate family -- or is that only Barbara and Jenna? Could you get some clarification for me? Thanks.

Quincy

Subject: Autographed picture restrictions

Brett, Janet Walker suggested that I contact you. Larry Lindsey has had several requests for signed photographs. In one case, the person intends to put the photo in a museum. Are there any restrictions on sending autographed photos for a "commercial" enterprise such as a museum?

Thanks for your help.

Using Vice President Dick Cheney,s official residence as a calling card, the Republican National Committee is gearing up for a round of fund-raising this week that party officials hope will rake in more than $20 million in soft money for next year,s election campaign.

THE ACTIVITY kicks off Monday night, NEWSWEEK has learned, with an unpublicized dinner reception for top party donors hosted by Cheney and his wife, Lynne, at the vice presidential residence. It culminates the next evening with a glittering &Presidential Gala8 at the National Guard Armory featuring appearances by President Bush and members of his Cabinet.

Anxious to avoid comparisons with the widely criticized fund-raising activity of the Clinton White House, Republican officials insist that the kick off dinner at Cheney,s government residence-expected to draw a crowd of over 400*is ¬ a fund-raiser.8
But in explaining why not,
RNC officials inadvertently mimicked some of the same language used by
```

Clinton aides five years ago when pressed about why presidential coffees for wealthy donors and Lincoln Bedroom sleepovers were not an improper use of the White House for fund-raising purposes. The Cheney dinner event is for &friends and supporters of the vice president,8 said one RNC official who asked not to be identified. Another argued that the dinner didn,t qualify as a fund-raiser because no tickets were being sold. &There,s no payment to get in there,8 said the RNC official.

Then how was the guest list compiled? Party sources tell NEWSWEEK that the entire event is being sponsored and paid for by the RNC and the bulk of the guest list (which party officials declined to release) was culled from members of the GOP,s Team 100*an elite group of high roller donors who have contributed over $100,000 in soft money to the party. As part of an effort to attract more donors to the May 22 & Presidential Gala8*and to enliven the opportunities for those donors who had already agreed to come*the RNC arranged for the May 21 dinner at Cheney,s house, thereby giving its wealthiest contributors a chance to rub elbows with the man widely regarded as the most powerful vice president in history, the sources say.

Word that the Republicans were using the official vice-presidential residence for fund-raising purposes was quickly pounced on by Democrats. &This is rank with hypocrisy,8 says Jenny Backus, chief spokeswoman for Democratic National Committee chair Terry McAuliffe, who had helped create many of the more controversial fund-raising practices of the Clinton White House. &We always knew that special interests would feel at home in this administration.8

While the guest list for Cheney,s house remains a state secret, a copy of the official program for the next evening,s &Presidential Gala8*obtained by NEWSWEEK*shows that a &who,s who8 of Washington lobbyists and interest groups have committed to raising a sizable chunk of the party,s funds. Among those entities listed as &vice chairmen8 of the event*an honorific that requires a commitment to raise or donate at least $250,000*
are Philip Morris, the country,s largest tobacco company; Tom Loeffler, a former Texas congressman who now lobbies for the chief trade association of nuclear power companies, and Cassidy & Associates, a powerful Washington lobbying firm whose top clients include the private institute that represents the interests of the government of Taiwan.

Listed as either &deputy chairmen8 (requiring a commitment to raise or donate $100,000) or members of the &dinner committee8 (requiring a commitment of $50,000) are AT&T; Bristol-Myers Squib; Sig Rogich, a veteran Republican consultant who represents Nevada
gambling interests; Carol Hallett, president of the Air Transportation

Association, the lobbying arm for commercial airlines; Red Cavaney, president of the American Petroleum Institute, and Ed Gillespie, a Washington lobbyist whose burgeoning client list includes Microsoft and energy giant Enron.

I'm your man. He can't Schedule C the guy into DOJ for the purpose of then detailing him here. If it's a specific individual, not currently in government, that he wants, he needs to either make him an assignee or a volunteer. Different rules apply to each category. You should have him give me a call, although I may have difficulty providing the necessary advice before I leave given the schedule.

Rallying America's Armies of Compassion

Presidential Action:

- In a commencement address yesterday at Notre Dame, President Bush issued a challenge to revive America's spirit of citizenship to help address poverty by bringing government and charities together to address some of our toughest social challenges.

- The President also announced two new policy initiatives:

  - ✓ A tripling of funding next year to allow more low-income Americans to enjoy the benefits of homeownership through self-help programs like Habitat for Humanity. The President proposed increasing the Department of Housing and Urban Development's funding for such programs from roughly $25 million to more than $75 million.
  - ✓ A goal of closing the treatment gap between the 5 million Americans who need drug treatment and the 2 million Americans who currently have access to it. The President has proposed $1.6 billion in new funds for drug treatment, and has proposed making more of these funds available to faith- and community-based providers.

- The President also challenged corporate America and philanthropic organizations to provide more resources to charities, and also to eliminate private-sector barriers to support for faith- and community-based organizations. The President announced his plans to hold a summit of corporate and philanthropic leaders in the fall to explore ways to generate more support for secular and faith-based charities.

Key Elements of the President's Effort to Rally America's Armies of Compassion:

- Stimulating an outpouring of private giving to nonprofits, faith-based programs, and community groups by expanding tax deductions and other initiatives:
  - ✓ Granting a charitable tax deduction for non-itemizers
  - ✓ Promoting corporate in-kind donations such as equipment, facilities and vehicles
  - ✓ Permitting charitable contributions from IRAs without penalty
  - ✓ Creating a Compassion Capital Fund to help match private giving with federal dollars and strengthen model programs

- Pioneering a new model of cooperation with local organizations to expand the involvement of faith and community groups in transforming lives:
  - ✓ Helping the estimated 2+ million children of prisoners who suffer disproportionate rates of severe social problems
  - ✓ Improving rehabilitation for inmates nearing release
  - ✓ Expanding eligibility for drug treatment funding
  - ✓ Widening after-school programs for low-income children
  - ✓ Provide structured "second chance" homes for unwed teen mothers
  - ✓ Strengthening responsible fatherhood and combating father absence

- Eliminating federal barriers to effective faith-based and community-serving programs through legislative, regulatory, and programmatic reforms:
  - ✓ Expanding Charitable Choice to enable private, charitable and religious organizations to compete for federal funds
  - ✓ Creating the White House Office of Faith-Based & Community Initiatives.
  - ✓ Creating Centers for Faith-Based & Community Initiatives at the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, HUD, Justice and Education to spearhead efforts to eliminate barriers impeding the vital work of neighborhood charities.
  - ✓ Encouraging states to create their own faith-based and community initiatives programs with start-up funds.

Rallying America's Armies of Compassion

Presidential Action:

- In a commencement address yesterday at Notre Dame, President Bush issued a challenge to revive America's spirit of citizenship to help address poverty by bringing government and charities together to address some of our toughest social challenges.

- The President also announced two new policy initiatives:

  - ✓ A tripling of funding next year to allow more low-income Americans to enjoy the benefits of homeownership through self-help programs like Habitat for Humanity. The President proposed increasing the Department of Housing and Urban Development's funding for such programs from roughly $25 million to more than $75 million.
  - ✓ A goal of closing the treatment gap between the 5 million Americans who need drug treatment and the 2 million Americans who currently have access to it. The President has proposed $1.6 billion in new funds for drug treatment, and has proposed making more of these funds available to faith- and community-based providers.

- The President also challenged corporate America and philanthropic organizations to provide more resources to charities, and also to eliminate private-sector barriers to support for faith- and community-based organizations. The President announced his plans to hold a summit of corporate and philanthropic leaders in the fall to explore ways to generate more support for secular and faith-based charities.

Key Elements of the President's Effort to Rally America's Armies of Compassion:

- Stimulating an outpouring of private giving to nonprofits, faith-based programs, and community groups by expanding tax deductions and other initiatives:
  - ✓ Granting a charitable tax deduction for non-itemizers
  - ✓ Promoting corporate in-kind donations such as equipment, facilities and vehicles
  - ✓ Permitting charitable contributions from IRAs without penalty
  - ✓ Creating a Compassion Capital Fund to help match private giving with federal dollars and strengthen model programs

- Pioneering a new model of cooperation with local organizations to expand the involvement of faith and community groups in transforming lives:
  - ✓ Helping the estimated 2+ million children of prisoners who suffer disproportionate rates of severe social problems
  - ✓ Improving rehabilitation for inmates nearing release
  - ✓ Expanding eligibility for drug treatment funding
  - ✓ Widening after-school programs for low-income children
  - ✓ Provide structured "second chance" homes for unwed teen mothers
  - ✓ Strengthening responsible fatherhood and combating father absence

- Eliminating federal barriers to effective faith-based and community-serving programs through legislative, regulatory, and programmatic reforms:
  - ✓ Expanding Charitable Choice to enable private, charitable and religious organizations to compete for federal funds
  - ✓ Creating the White House Office of Faith-Based & Community Initiatives.
  - ✓ Creating Centers for Faith-Based & Community Initiatives at the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, HUD, Justice and Education to spearhead efforts to eliminate barriers impeding the vital work of neighborhood charities.
  - ✓ Encouraging states to create their own faith-based and community initiatives programs with start-up funds.

Congressional Action on the President's Education Reform Agenda

- The House and Senate are making historic progress toward a final education reform plan that closely tracks President Bush's education reform agenda to leave no child behind. These reforms would represent the most significant changes in federal education policy in more than 35 years. The President's education proposal rests on four principles.

  - Accountability: Requiring states to test students and measure progress in grades 3-8. Rewarding states and schools that improve children's education and taking corrective steps where needed.
  - Flexibility and Local Control: Reducing federal red tape and giving states and local schools unprecedented flexibility in using federal education funds to produce results.
  - Funding What Works: Tying federal funding to results. To qualify for federal funding, states should demonstrate performance in improving the education of all children to ensure that no child is left behind.
  - Parental Empowerment: Empowering parents to make more informed educational choices for their children by giving them more information about their schools and more choices when their kids are trapped in failing schools.

The House and Senate Bills Contain the Vast Majority of the President's Education Reforms

- Accountability for results through high standards, assessments, and consequences for failure. States will administer state tests in reading and math to every child in grades 3-8 annually. States will be held accountable to ensure that schools are making adequate academic progress for all students. And, while failing schools get help under the President's plan, they will face serious consequences for persistent failure.

- Maximum Local Control and Reduced Federal Red Tape and Bureaucracy: To reduce duplicative education programs and focus federal efforts on critical education needs, most federal elementary and secondary programs will be consolidated into a few flexible performance-based grants focused on improving student academic achievement. States and local districts will be given unprecedented flexibility with federal education dollars.

- Funding Proven Education Approaches That Work: To ensure progress, states and schools must demonstrate results with federal education funds. For the first time, historic increases in federal education funding will be directly tied to school performance. And, the federal government will help states to implement proven, scientifically-based approaches to provide kids with basic skills, including new initiatives such as Reading First and Early Childhood Reading Instruction.

- Empowering Parents to Make Informed Educational Choices: For the first time, Republicans and Democrats have agreed that real reform requires that parents must have more options and more control over their children's education. Parents and the public will have access to detailed school-by-school "report cards" on the performance of their schools. Parents will be able to choose to transfer their child from a failing public school to an effective public school with transportation provided or to redirect their child's share of federal funds toward tutoring or after-school academic services. And, parents will be given the option to transfer their child out of a persistently unsafe public school to another public school of their choice.

- The House and Senate are making historic progress toward a final education reform plan that closely tracks President Bush's education reform agenda to leave no child behind. These reforms would represent the most significant changes in federal education policy in more than 35 years. The President's education proposal rests on four principles.

  - Accountability: Requiring states to test students and measure progress in grades 3-8. Rewarding states and schools that improve children's education and taking corrective steps where needed.
  - Flexibility and Local Control: Reducing federal red tape and giving states and local schools unprecedented flexibility in using federal education funds to produce results.
  - Funding What Works: Tying federal funding to results. To qualify for federal funding, states should demonstrate performance in improving the education of all children to ensure that no child is left behind.
  - Parental Empowerment: Empowering parents to make more informed educational choices for their children by giving them more information about their schools and more choices when their kids are trapped in failing schools.

The House and Senate Bills Contain the Vast Majority of the President's Education Reforms

- Accountability for results through high standards, assessments, and consequences for failure. States will administer state tests in reading and math to every child in grades 3-8 annually. States will be held accountable to ensure that schools are making adequate academic progress for all students. And, while failing schools get help under the President's plan, they will face serious consequences for persistent failure.

- Maximum Local Control and Reduced Federal Red Tape and Bureaucracy: To reduce duplicative education programs and focus federal efforts on critical education needs, most federal elementary and secondary programs will be consolidated into a few flexible performance-based grants focused on improving student academic achievement. States and local districts will be given unprecedented flexibility with federal education dollars.

- Funding Proven Education Approaches That Work: To ensure progress, states and schools must demonstrate results with federal education funds. For the first time, historic increases in federal education funding will be directly tied to school performance. And, the federal government will help states to implement proven, scientifically-based approaches to provide kids with basic skills, including new initiatives such as Reading First and Early Childhood Reading Instruction.

- Empowering Parents to Make Informed Educational Choices: For the first time, Republicans and Democrats have agreed that real reform requires that parents must have more options and more control over their children's education. Parents and the public will have access to detailed school-by-school "report cards" on the performance of their schools. Parents will be able to choose to transfer their child from a failing public school to an effective public school with transportation provided or to redirect their child's share of federal funds toward tutoring or after-school academic services. And, parents will be given the option to transfer their child out of a persistently unsafe public school to another public school of their choice.

To confirm: As a general matter, attendance at a widely attended political event triggers several different exceptions to the ordinary gift rules, including exceptions for political events and for widely attended gatherings. Specific situations can sometimes present additional questions; therefore, in order to be especially careful, each event likely should be approved by the relevant agency counsel.

brett:

related to the question that came up at our recent agency chiefs of staff mtg.... did you ever confirm that it was okay for senior agency staff (not the secretary) to attend the rnc gala and like events...if invited to sit at a table of a corporation that purchased the table for the event? also, how about white house staff? e.g, commissioned officers like myself... i was invited last week to attend the rnc gala ...to sit at the burger king corporation table (a friend of mine is their consultant in town invited me on their behalf.) burger king is also a former client of my old lobbying consulting firm (i don't think they are currently a client) and i never worked on the burger king account. please advise.

thanks,

CNN just reported that JEffords has called a press conference for tomorrow morning and that Sen. Reid has offered to give his chairmanship up to Jeffords and that Jeffords accepted. Official line from Jeffords still that he hasn't made up his mind.

The National Association of Republican Campaign Professionals have asked for a meeting here at the White House in the last two weeks of June. Ken and Karl have discussed, and they will do it. Ken said to try to get Karl, Tucker, and Ken to speak, as well as Tony Feather and Jack. I figured we should set the date according to KR's schedule. Do you have a good time in the last two weeks of June? I will get the room and then set everything else up... thanks the following is a memo I put together with reagrds to the event. As you can see we are trying to do this sometime the last couple of weeks of June. Take a look at this and let me know if you need any addiational info.

I would liekt o get Ken's help in getting speakers like Karen Hughes, Josh Bolton, Karl, Tony Feather (I can do that one), Ari, Mark McKinnon and anyone else he thinks would be good.

We would like to do it from 3-5 and then have a reception immediatly following.

RE: National Association of Republican Campaign Professionals

The National Association of Republican Campaign Professionals (NARCP) is a fraternal organization of Republican Campaign Professionals. The purpose of the organization is to share ideas, discuss new and innovative campaign techniques and talk about how we can elect more Republicans. Membership costs $100 per year and is limited to those people who have worked in a political campaign for at least two cycles. We currently have about 120 members.

Board Members include Bill Lee(President), Chalie Black, Eddie Mahe, Ben Ginsberg, Kim Alfano, Randy Enwright, Ed Brookover, Paul Ellington, Bill Greener, along with others

Certainly the last Presidential race was one that our membership is very interested in learning more about. What worked, what didn't? What new and innovative approaches did the campaign implement both from a strategic and tactical level.

Request:

We would like to hold a conference with our membership and get an insider view of the 2000 Presidential race. It would include briefings from the strategic, political, communications (both earned and paid media) and policy groups of the campaign.

We would hold the conference to an hour and half. We would like your help in lining up the principles that were involved in the strategic and tactical elements from each of the groups mentioned and others if you think it is appropriate.

In addition we would like to hear from you/Karl on the Presidents agenda in the coming months and how our group can help deliver the message. Our membership will be very involved in races around the country in 2001 and 2002 and can help deliver the Presidents message.

Finally we would like to hold a reception following the briefings which we would pay for.

Time and Place:

We would like to hold this event the last two weeks of June at the White House.

Attendance:

Would be limited to the Members of the NARCP. We would anticipate the attendance to be anywhere from 75-150 people.

Response:

Please call Jeff Larson PRA 6 or Bill Lee PRA 6 if you have any questions or need additional information. For our planning purposes we'd like to begin pulling together an agenda and announce the event to our members in the next week or so. Let me know your thoughts on this thanks again.

Wynn gets second chance at seat on court

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RALEIGH

N.C. Court of Appeals Judge James A. Wynn was nominated by President Clinton to a federal appeals-court seat in 1999, only to have Republican Sen. Jesse Helms block the nomination from consideration.

Now Wynn is getting a rare second chance.

President Bush is considering nominating Wynn again for a seat on the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals or to a federal district judgeship in Raleigh.

Wynn, a Democrat, had his first interview Monday and made it clear during a meeting with White House Counsel Al Gonzales that he's more interested in the 4th Circuit job. Wynn said he told Gonzales that his legal background and judicial philosophy would make him a good fit as a federal judge.

"I told them I follow the law, that I will interpret the law as it is written by the legislature or the Congress," said Wynn, an 11-year veteran of the state Court of Appeals. "I will not bring an agenda to the courtroom."

Wynn said he met for more than an hour with Gonzales and one of his deputies, who are advising Bush on nominations to dozens of vacant federal judgeships.

"I thought it went well," Wynn said. "It was a very frank, straightforward conversation. They didn't seem to have their minds made up. I think at this point it's just a question of whether the president wants to go forward."

Wynn's nomination may come down to a battle over partisanship between Helms and Sen. John Edwards, a Democrat.

Edwards has said he will oppose Senate confirmation of Republican federal Judge Terrence Boyle to the 4th Circuit unless Bush also nominates Wynn or another Democrat.

North Carolina, the largest of five states in the 4th Circuit, has no judges on the 15-member court.

Phil,
The Committee asked for the designation of the trip (official/political). Our reponse includes the official costs and the official portion of the political trips. Since the DOD pays for the fuel for the personal trips, the White House does not pay any of the costs associated with the personal trips and therefore, the personal trips for the First Lady were not included.

Please call me if you have any questions or comments.

Phil,
The Committee asked for the designation of the trip (official/political). Our reponse includes the official costs and the official portion of the political trips. Since the DOD pays for the fuel for the personal trips, the White House does not pay any of the costs associated with the personal trips and therefore, the personal trips for the First Lady were not included.

Please call me if you have any questions or comments.

Brett,

Partick brings up a good point about the AP photos of the judicial nominees. Can we request a copy of a group shot photo from the photo office? Those are government photos, not AP.

These pictures are presumably under copyright by AP. Is there a press pack anywhere with their photos or should contact each person's office individually?

FYI:
Clement agrees with you that it would be surprising if the Ct called for the SG's views in Hopwood.

Subject: funding of events

The Visitors Office would like to host the tour coordinators at the capitol to a "tea" at the White House. Unfortunately, it can not be funded from the WH. Cathy Fenton suggested I contact you to ask if this is something we would like the RNC to sponsor? Gary Walters estimates it would cost about $3500 for tea and sweets. If the RNC is not a direction you want to go we can drop the tea and simply do a tour, but we thought the tea would be a nice bonus.

Please let me know. We are looking at 6/22 for a date and would like to get memos/invites out soon. Thanks.

attached find a media advisory regarding today's 1 pm press conference launching the 21st Century Energy Project, of which I am executive director.
the groups at today's event at the nat'l press club include ATR, CSE, ACU, 60+, Frontiers of Freedom and others. if you plan on attending, skip the red meat at lunch.

we have a full page ad in the fresno bee today to support the president's visit, a fax copy of which is attached. john peschong helpfully got copies to the filing center. it will also be in roll call tomorrow, and we'll start

more ads when congress returns.

my draft opening statement is also attached. it's a good example of the tone we've been trying to change!

best, ed g.

Thank you for coming.

The organizations assembled here today have agreed to work together on the 21st Century Energy Project to provide a counterbalance to the scathing, misleading assault on the first effort we have seen in this country in 20 years to enact a balanced energy policy.

Often flying under the false banner of environmental protection or conservation, groups like the Sierra Club and the National Resources Defense Council--not to mention Greenpeace--have become little more than outside resources for the Democratic National Committee. They were poised to echo the attacks of the DNC and congressional Democrats they supported in the last campaign weeks before the Bush Administration even unveiled its energy initiative. Ultimately, 40 of the plan's 105 recommendations ended up focusing on increasing conservation, but they did not let that fact change their plan.

They reflexively oppose any plan that would increase traditional forms of energy production as a means by which to restore the imbalance between our nation's demand for energy and its supply. They do so in the most cynical political fashion, branding every abundant and affordable source of energy as a threat to clean air or clean water in order to frighten policy makers by frightening suburban women swing voters.

Rarely do these groups acknowledge--nor are they asked--how they would meet the demand necessary for Americans to maintain higher standards of living over the next 20 years in the absence of greater domestic production. The answer is that they would not. They would instead reduce demand by government fiat.

Their agenda includes:

higher energy prices (which former Vice President Al Gore touted in his book and which the Democratic congress voted for in the form of a BTU tax), excessive regulations that have prohibited construction of an oil refinery in the United States for nearly 25 years and no major new generating plant in California in a decade,

government control of existing power lines and energy plants,

and artificial price caps that can only result in government rationing of energy usage--just as it did in the '70s under Jimmy Carter.

These liberal elites chide us on the need to mandate people into smaller, less safe "more fuel-efficient cars" as Dick Gephardt railed at a press conference earlier this month--a press conference at which he arrived in his Chevy Suburban.

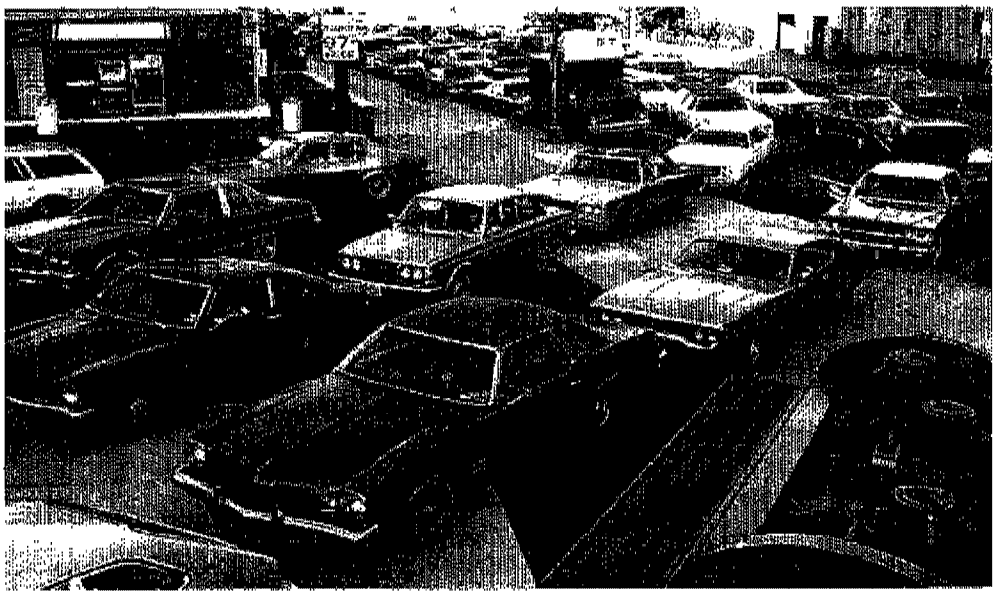
They believe oil, gas, coal and nuclear energy are inherently bad, and that working Americans are the problem here because we use too much of it. Theirs is a world view of scarcity, where innovations in clean coal technology, precision drilling and advancements in nuclear energy and safety simply never happened. They are stuck in a time warp, waiting with baited breath for Jackson Brown and Bonnie Raitt to hold their next No Nukes rally.

"That '70s Show" is entertaining on television every Tuesday night, but a little tired on the floor of the House of Representatives every weekday morning.

We believe in conservation. It makes a lot of sense. It's good economics. But conservation alone won't keep the lights on. California ranks second in the nation in energy conservation, but its consumption has risen 11.3% over the past decade while its production has declined 1.7%. Without a balanced approach, supply will drop and prices will rise. Seniors on fixed incomes will be forced to limit their energy use. Blackouts will continue to roll. And all of us will feel the decline in a quality of life that is directly tied to our quantity of energy.

In the coming months, the 21st Century Energy Project will serve as a clearinghouse for information on energy policy from a market-oriented approach and an understanding that higher levels of domestic production and environmental sensitivity are not mutually exclusive in the 21stCentury.

REMEMBER THE '70s?



Gas Lines were long, rationing was in, Jimmy Carter was President and he told us to wear a sweater.

Liberal elites think that's still the answer.

The last time we faced an energy crisis Jimmy Carter was President. Two decades ago, over-dependence on foreign oil created a shortage and drove prices up. The solution was rationing. It was a bad idea.

Today, we are again becoming too dependent on foreign oil when demand for oil and electricity consumption is increasing. This is simple Economics 101: when demand increases faster than supply, prices go up.

Liberal groups and some politicians believe rationing, price caps, higher taxes and excessive regulations will solve the problem. We disagree.

Their policies will only decrease supply and further increase prices. That hurts lower and middle class families the most. In fact, if some on the left have their way, "soccer moms" will be forced to sell their mini-vans – they'll become a luxury only the elite can afford.

Conservation alone won't keep the lights on.

California ranks as the second best state in energy conservation. If conservation alone could solve the problem, California wouldn't be facing high rates and rolling blackouts.

The 21st Century Energy Project rejects the premise that we can conserve our way out of this energy shortage. A balance between conservation and increased supply is the only solution. We support an energy policy based on sound science and a rational, balanced, market-oriented approach that will ensure affordable energy for all Americans.

That's why we applaud President Bush's approach - a balanced, comprehensive 105-point plan that includes over 40 recommendations that increase conservation, as well as a diversified proposal to reduce dependence on foreign oil while using 21st Century technology to produce clean, abundant and affordable energy.

21st Century Energy Project to Launch Wednesday

New Project Will Educate Public on Domestic Energy Proposals

WASHINGTON, D.C. – In response to the national energy policy debate, a new coalition will be launched Wednesday. The 21st Century Energy Project (21CEP) will educate the public on the impact various energy policies will have on Americans' quality of life.

The 21st Century Energy Project seeks to coordinate the resources of organizations committed to striking a balance between our nation's energy supply and demand. Member organizations are devoted to finding a sensible approach to the energy policy debate that protects America's future and security, and exposing the negative impact of the liberal energy agenda.

The 21CEP will serve as a counterbalance to the liberal groups who oppose increased energy production and seek government-mandated reductions in energy consumption.

At the launch event, an ad campaign will be unveiled.

We have enough judges to schedule a separate meeting with the President. I would shoot for Monday, June 11.

attached find a media advisory regarding today's 1 pm press conference launching the 21st Century Energy Project, of which I am executive director.
the groups at today's event at the nat'l press club include ATR, CSE, ACU, 60+, Frontiers of Freedom and others. if you plan on attending, skip the red meat at lunch.

we have a full page ad in the fresno bee today to support the president's visit, a fax copy of which is attached. john peschong helpfully got copies to the filing center. it will also be in roll call tomorrow, and we'll start

more ads when congress returns.

my draft opening statement is also attached. it's a good example of the tone we've been trying to change!

best, ed g.

TO:Anne Trenolone (CN=Anne Trenolone/OU=WHO/O=EOP [WHO])

Thank you for coming.

The organizations assembled here today have agreed to work together on the 21st Century Energy Project to provide a counterbalance to the scathing, misleading assault on the first effort we have seen in this country in 20 years to enact a balanced energy policy.

Often flying under the false banner of environmental protection or conservation, groups like the Sierra Club and the National Resources Defense Council--not to mention Greenpeace--have become little more than outside resources for the Democratic National Committee. They were poised to echo the attacks of the DNC and congressional Democrats they supported in the last campaign weeks before the Bush Administration even unveiled its energy initiative. Ultimately, 40 of the plan's 105 recommendations ended up focusing on increasing conservation, but they did not let that fact change their plan.

They reflexively oppose any plan that would increase traditional forms of energy production as a means by which to restore the imbalance between our nation's demand for energy and its supply. They do so in the most cynical political fashion, branding every abundant and affordable source of energy as a threat to clean air or clean water in order to frighten policy makers by frightening suburban women swing voters.

Rarely do these groups acknowledge--nor are they asked--how they would meet the demand necessary for Americans to maintain higher standards of living over the next 20 years in the absence of greater domestic production. The answer is that they would not. They would instead reduce demand by government fiat.

Their agenda includes:

higher energy prices (which former Vice President Al Gore touted in his book and which the Democratic congress voted for in the form of a BTU tax),

excessive regulations that have prohibited construction of an oil refinery in the United States for nearly 25 years and no major new generating plant in California in a decade,

government control of existing power lines and energy plants,

and artificial price caps that can only result in government rationing of energy usage--just as it did in the '70s under Jimmy Carter.

These liberal elites chide us on the need to mandate people into smaller, less safe "more fuel-efficient cars" as Dick Gephardt railed at a press conference earlier this month--a press conference at which he arrived in his Chevy Suburban.

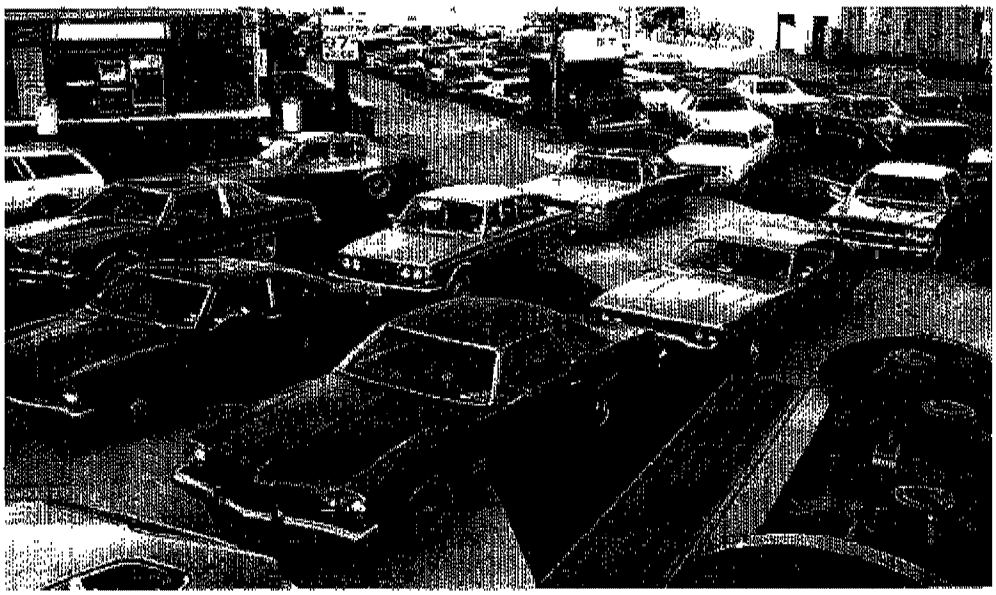
They believe oil, gas, coal and nuclear energy are inherently bad, and that working Americans are the problem here because we use too much of it. Theirs is a world view of scarcity, where innovations in clean coal technology, precision drilling and advancements in nuclear energy and safety simply never happened. They are stuck in a time warp, waiting with baited breath for Jackson Brown and Bonnie Raitt to hold their next No Nukes rally.

"That '70s Show" is entertaining on television every Tuesday night, but a little tired on the floor of the House of Representatives every weekday morning.

We believe in conservation. It makes a lot of sense. It's good economics. But conservation alone won't keep the lights on. California ranks second in the nation in energy conservation, but its consumption has risen 11.3% over the past decade while its production has declined 1.7%. Without a balanced approach, supply will drop and prices will rise. Seniors on fixed incomes will be forced to limit their energy use. Blackouts will continue to roll. And all of us will feel the decline in a quality of life that is directly tied to our quantity of energy.

In the coming months, the 21st Century Energy Project will serve as a clearinghouse for information on energy policy from a market-oriented approach and an understanding that higher levels of domestic production and environmental sensitivity are not mutually exclusive in the 21stCentury.

REMEMBER THE '70s?



Gas Lines were long, rationing was in, Jimmy Carter was President and he told us to wear a sweater.

Liberal elites think that's still the answer.

The last time we faced an energy crisis Jimmy Carter was President. Two decades ago, over-dependence on foreign oil created a shortage and drove prices up. The solution was rationing. It was a bad idea.

Today, we are again becoming too dependent on foreign oil when demand for oil and electricity consumption is increasing. This is simple Economics 101: when demand increases faster than supply, prices go up.

Liberal groups and some politicians believe rationing, price caps, higher taxes and excessive regulations will solve the problem. We disagree.

Their policies will only decrease supply and further increase prices. That hurts lower and middle class families the most. In fact, if some on the left have their way, "soccer moms" will be forced to sell their mini-vans – they'll become a luxury only the elite can afford.

Conservation alone won't keep the lights on.

California ranks as the second best state in energy conservation. If conservation alone could solve the problem, California wouldn't be facing high rates and rolling blackouts.

The 21st Century Energy Project rejects the premise that we can conserve our way out of this energy shortage. A balance between conservation and increased supply is the only solution. We support an energy policy based on sound science and a rational, balanced, market-oriented approach that will ensure affordable energy for all Americans.

That's why we applaud President Bush's approach - a balanced, comprehensive 105-point plan that includes over 40 recommendations that increase conservation, as well as a diversified proposal to reduce dependence on foreign oil while using 21st Century technology to produce clean, abundant and affordable energy.

21st Century Energy Project to Launch Wednesday

New Project Will Educate Public on Domestic Energy Proposals

WASHINGTON, D.C. – In response to the national energy policy debate, a new coalition will be launched Wednesday. The 21st Century Energy Project (21CEP) will educate the public on the impact various energy policies will have on Americans' quality of life.

The 21st Century Energy Project seeks to coordinate the resources of organizations committed to striking a balance between our nation's energy supply and demand. Member organizations are devoted to finding a sensible approach to the energy policy debate that protects America's future and security, and exposing the negative impact of the liberal energy agenda.

The 21CEP will serve as a counterbalance to the liberal groups who oppose increased energy production and seek government-mandated reductions in energy consumption.

At the launch event, an ad campaign will be unveiled.

attached find a media advisory regarding today's 1 pm press conference launching the 21st Century Energy Project, of which I am executive director.
the groups at today's event at the nat'l press club include ATR, CSE, ACU, 60+, Frontiers of Freedom and others. if you plan on attending, skip the red meat at lunch.

we have a full page ad in the fresno bee today to support the president's visit, a fax copy of which is attached. john peschong helpfully got copies to the filing center. it will also be in roll call tomorrow, and we'll start

more ads when congress returns.

my draft opening statement is also attached. it's a good example of the tone we've been trying to change!

Thank you for coming.

The organizations assembled here today have agreed to work together on the 21st Century Energy Project to provide a counterbalance to the scathing, misleading assault on the first effort we have seen in this country in 20 years to enact a balanced energy policy.

Often flying under the false banner of environmental protection or conservation, groups like the Sierra Club and the National Resources Defense Council--not to mention Greenpeace--have become little more than outside resources for the Democratic National Committee. They were poised to echo the attacks of the DNC and congressional Democrats they supported in the last campaign weeks before the Bush Administration even unveiled its energy initiative. Ultimately, 40 of the plan's 105 recommendations ended up focusing on increasing conservation, but they did not let that fact change their plan.

They reflexively oppose any plan that would increase traditional forms of energy production as a means by which to restore the imbalance between our nation's demand for energy and its supply. They do so in the most cynical political fashion, branding every abundant and affordable source of energy as a threat to clean air or clean water in order to frighten policy makers by frightening suburban women swing voters.

Rarely do these groups acknowledge--nor are they asked--how they would meet the demand necessary for Americans to maintain higher standards of living over the next 20 years in the absence of greater domestic production. The answer is that they would not. They would instead reduce demand by government fiat.

Their agenda includes:

higher energy prices (which former Vice President Al Gore touted in his book and which the Democratic congress voted for in the form of a BTU tax),

excessive regulations that have prohibited construction of an oil refinery in the United States for nearly 25 years and no major new generating plant in California in a decade,

government control of existing power lines and energy plants,

and artificial price caps that can only result in government rationing of energy usage--just as it did in the '70s under Jimmy Carter.

These liberal elites chide us on the need to mandate people into smaller, less safe "more fuel-efficient cars" as Dick Gephardt railed at a press conference earlier this month--a press conference at which he arrived in his Chevy Suburban.

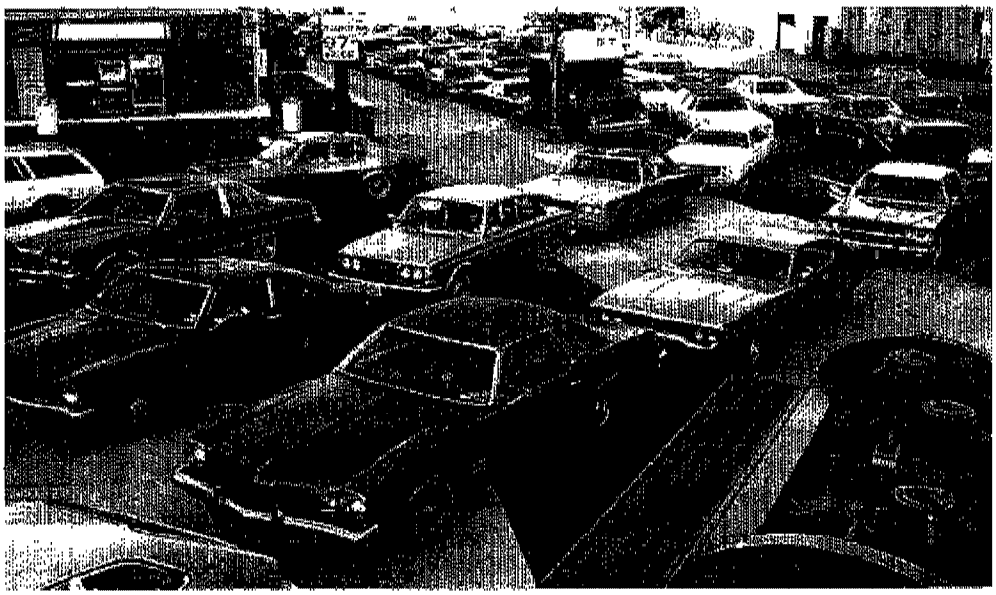
They believe oil, gas, coal and nuclear energy are inherently bad, and that working Americans are the problem here because we use too much of it. Theirs is a world view of scarcity, where innovations in clean coal technology, precision drilling and advancements in nuclear energy and safety simply never happened. They are stuck in a time warp, waiting with baited breath for Jackson Brown and Bonnie Raitt to hold their next No Nukes rally.

"That '70s Show" is entertaining on television every Tuesday night, but a little tired on the floor of the House of Representatives every weekday morning.

We believe in conservation. It makes a lot of sense. It's good economics. But conservation alone won't keep the lights on. California ranks second in the nation in energy conservation, but its consumption has risen 11.3% over the past decade while its production has declined 1.7%. Without a balanced approach, supply will drop and prices will rise. Seniors on fixed incomes will be forced to limit their energy use. Blackouts will continue to roll. And all of us will feel the decline in a quality of life that is directly tied to our quantity of energy.

In the coming months, the 21st Century Energy Project will serve as a clearinghouse for information on energy policy from a market-oriented approach and an understanding that higher levels of domestic production and environmental sensitivity are not mutually exclusive in the 21stCentury.

REMEMBER THE '70s?



Gas Lines were long, rationing was in, Jimmy Carter was President and he told us to wear a sweater.

Liberal elites think that's still the answer.

The last time we faced an energy crisis Jimmy Carter was President. Two decades ago, over-dependence on foreign oil created a shortage and drove prices up. The solution was rationing. It was a bad idea.

Today, we are again becoming too dependent on foreign oil when demand for oil and electricity consumption is increasing. This is simple Economics 101: when demand increases faster than supply, prices go up.

Liberal groups and some politicians believe rationing, price caps, higher taxes and excessive regulations will solve the problem. We disagree.

Their policies will only decrease supply and further increase prices. That hurts lower and middle class families the most. In fact, if some on the left have their way, "soccer moms" will be forced to sell their mini-vans – they'll become a luxury only the elite can afford.

Conservation alone won't keep the lights on.

California ranks as the second best state in energy conservation. If conservation alone could solve the problem, California wouldn't be facing high rates and rolling blackouts.

The 21st Century Energy Project rejects the premise that we can conserve our way out of this energy shortage. A balance between conservation and increased supply is the only solution. We support an energy policy based on sound science and a rational, balanced, market-oriented approach that will ensure affordable energy for all Americans.

That's why we applaud President Bush's approach - a balanced, comprehensive 105-point plan that includes over 40 recommendations that increase conservation, as well as a diversified proposal to reduce dependence on foreign oil while using 21st Century technology to produce clean, abundant and affordable energy.

21st Century Energy Project to Launch Wednesday

New Project Will Educate Public on Domestic Energy Proposals

WASHINGTON, D.C. – In response to the national energy policy debate, a new coalition will be launched Wednesday. The 21st Century Energy Project (21CEP) will educate the public on the impact various energy policies will have on Americans' quality of life.

The 21st Century Energy Project seeks to coordinate the resources of organizations committed to striking a balance between our nation's energy supply and demand. Member organizations are devoted to finding a sensible approach to the energy policy debate that protects America's future and security, and exposing the negative impact of the liberal energy agenda.

The 21CEP will serve as a counterbalance to the liberal groups who oppose increased energy production and seek government-mandated reductions in energy consumption.

At the launch event, an ad campaign will be unveiled.
