Q. And you knew that at some later point in time portions of that offering memorandum would be registered?
A. Yes.
Q. In fact, you worked on the registration process in June, didn't you?
A. Yes.
Q. And you knew that as part of the registration process, Andersen would have to issue a consent?
A. Yes.
THE WITNESS: I need to get this faxed.

Page 266

MR. CLARE: Go off the video record.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We are now going off the video record. The time on the monitor is 3:39 p.m.
(Discussion held off the record.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We are now back on video record. The time on the monitor, 3:42 p.m.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Mr. Bornstein, after the last conversation that we discussed, the one where you informed the participants in the room that night that a decision had been made about the Recent Development section, did you work amicably with Mr. Tyree for the rest of the evening?
A. For the most part, yeah.
Q. There were no other issues, no other issues that you can recall as you sit here today that came up that night?
A. Three o'clock in the morning, they wanted to change the way that we put our debits and credits in the pro formas, and I said no. That was the only other issue I know that came up. It just never would have, you know, just never would have gotten done.
Q. Other than that, is there anything else that you remember?

Page 267

A. No.
Q. When you left the print shop that night, did you take with you a copy of the document CPH Exhibit 121 in that form, the buildup that was provided to you?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. And what, if anything, did you do with it after leaving the print shop?
A. I don't remember specifically what I did with it.
Q. Generally.
A. Put it in a file.
Q. Did you discuss it with anybody at Sunbeam?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Did you perform any additional procedures or testing on this document, CPH Exhibit 121?
A. No, not that I'm aware of.
Q. Putting aside the document, did you have any discussions with anybody from Sunbeam after you left the print shop about Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales?
MR. MARKOWSKI: Ever?
MR. CLARE: Between March 19th or 20th, 1998, and the end of the quarter.
THE WITNESS: Yeah.

Page 268

BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Who did you talk to?
A. Bob Gluck. I don't remember if it was before or after the end of the quarter, but before anything was released, Al LaFever, Lee Griffith, Russ Kersh. I believe counsel from Scadden Arps on the Coleman issue, extra two days of sales before the end of the quarter, a few people.
Q. Specifically in any of those conversations did you discuss your skepticism that Sunbeam would exceed its first quarter 1997 sales in the first quarter of 1998?
MR. MARKOWSKI: Can you read back the prior question and answer please for me? Sorry.
(Thereupon, a portion of the record was read by the reporter.)
MR. MARKOWSKI: Now your question was about Sunbeam. Mr. Bornstein gave you an answer that included people other than Sunbeam.
Your follow-up question concerns what now, Tom? Sunbeam conversations?
MR. CLARE: Yes. My follow-up question is any conversations between March 19th and the end of the first quarter with anyone from Sunbeam about Sunbeam's ability to exceed first quarter

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016810

1997 sales.
THE WITNESS: Not specifically that I can recall between that period of time.
The Coleman stuff we talked about. The sales were probably after March 31st.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. You are aware that Andersen issued a bring-down letter to Morgan Stanley, and the date of that was March 25th, 1998, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And you looked at that. At any point between the March 19, 1998, comfort letter and the March 25th, 1998 comfort letter, did you receive from any source information about Sunbeam's progress in making sales?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Do you remember receiving any?
A. I don't remember.
Q. And then I'll ask the same question between the time of the bring-down comfort letter and the end of the quarter, do you remember receiving any information about Sunbeam's progress and making sales in the first quarter?
A. No, not specifically.
Q. Generally?
A. I don't remember.

Page 270

Q. During that time period, again, before the end of the first quarter, in any of your conversations with Sunbeam, did you ever have them in words or in substance what was the basis for their expectation that was expressed in the press release about exceeding first quarter 1997 sales?
A. This was basically it at the time.
Q. That was your understanding as to what it was?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ask anybody from Sunbeam about that document, the document you just indicated, CPH Exhibit 121?
A. Specifically, no, but specifically about sales I know between -- you know, you asked specifically, but generally, you know, we were informed after this they were going to continue to do both bill and hold. So there was conversation about that and procedures that needed to be done to ensure that that was in accordance with the rules, and confirmations were going to be signed off, et cetera.
Q. And that the bill and hold sales that Sunbeam did would be accounted for properly?
A. Correct.
Q. But putting aside that question for a moment, any discussions with anyone from Sunbeam before the end of the quarter about the pace at which orders were coming in?

A. Not that I'm aware of, no.
Q. Or that shipments were being made?
A. Not that I'm aware of, no.
Q. So the next information that you had about that was not until after the end of the quarter and after the additional procedures were done by either of your colleagues to do the sales cutoff testing; is that right?
A. Sorry, can you repeat that? Losing my train of thought here.
(Thereupon, a portion of the record was read by the reporter.)
MR. MOSCATO: What do you mean by that? What is that?
MR. CLARE: About Sunbeam, about the amount of product that was being shipped by Sunbeam.
MR. MARKOWSKI: Tom, why don't you ask at this point a cohesive question so it's clear in the record what you're asking.
MR. CLARE: Sure.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. At any point after -- let me put it this way.

Page 272

At any point before the end of the first quarter, did you have any other information besides what is reflected here on CPH Exhibit 121 about actual or potential sales by Sunbeam in the first quarter?
A. I think we got information on the bill and hold sales that were going to take place prior to the end of the quarter.
Q. But other than the bill and hold sales, did you have any other information?
A. Not that I'm aware of.
Q. And when did you first learn that Sunbeam had not in fact exceeded its first quarter 1997 sales in the first quarter of 1998?
A. Wasn't there a second press release that was sent out? Does anyone have a copy of that?
Q. Yes, I can show it to you, but was that the first time you were informed?
A. I think it was and I believe that -- I don't believe that that press release was shown to Arthur Andersen either, to be honest with you, so I think that was the time that the company decided that they weren't going to -- I don't know what they said.
MR. MOSCATO: So in answer to his question, the April 3rd press release is the first time you learned that Sunbeam in fact was not going to exceed in first quarter 1998 its first quarter 1997 sales figures?

THE WITNESS: Yes.
MR. CLARE: Let's mark that press release.
(MS Exhibit No. 58 was marked for identification.)
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Mr. Bornstein, I'm showing you what's been marked as Exhibit 58. It's a multi-page document. I recognize the first page is a fax cover sheet that you probably have never seen before.
A. No. Can I read it, though?
Q. Sure.
A. I don't want to really read this whole thing, to be honest with you.
MR. MOSCATO: Just answer the question.
THE WITNESS: What was the question?
MR. MOSCATO: Quickly and succinctly, please.
MR. CLARE: Well, I do want a complete answer to my questions.
MR. MOSCATO: Well, succinctly does imply completeness.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Mr. Bornstein, I've handed you what's been marked as Morgan Stanley Exhibit 58. It's a fax cover sheet. Attached to it is an April 3rd, 1997 press release by Sunbeam. Have you seen that?

A. Yes.
Q. Have you ever seen this entire document before; in other words, with the cover sheet on it?
A. No.
Q. But you have seen the press release that's attached to it before?
A. I don't -- I remember -- I don't remember seeing the press release. I remember hearing or reading the first paragraph about it.
Q. What was your reaction to hearing that news?
A. That these guys were all a bunch of fucking morons. How's that?
Q. Which guys are you referring to?
A. Mostly the people from Sunbeam and their attorneys.
Q. Because they had issued the prior press release?
A. Right, and they did, they had the same moronic caveat again that we're not going to make this number, but they are still going to make this number.
Q. Was it your understanding that -- withdrawn.
The April 3rd press release reports that Sunbeam sales expected to be approximately 5 percent below first quarter of '97. Do you see that?

A. Yes.
Q. Did you think, did you have a reaction to that figure?
A. Yeah. I, I wasn't sure at that point in time if that was accurate or not.
Q. The five percent figure?
A. Yes.
Q. Why not?
A. Because they hadn't closed their books for March yet.
Q. Okay. Did you have a reaction as to whether or not you thought that Sunbeam would even be able to get that close to '97 numbers, given where they were on March 19th when you had these discussions with Mr. Tyree?
A. At what point in time? In April?
Q. Yes.
A. I didn't know, I didn't -- it was the same rationale and thought process. I wasn't sure until -- I wasn't sure whether or not they would or would not. Work was still being done.
Q. Did you ever get any information as to how close Sunbeam had come at the end of the first quarter to achieving first quarter 1997 sales?

A. At what point in time?
Q. In April of '97.
A. Eventually I did, yes.
Q. And do you recall in order of magnitude what percentage they were close to reaching first quarter '97 sales?
A. At that point in time, no.
Q. Mr. Bornstein, I'm handing you what we previously marked yesterday as Morgan Stanley Exhibit 42 and ask that you take a look at it.
Do you recognize this document?
A. No.
Q. Do you recognize this form of document?
A. No.
Q. Is the signature on the third page over engagement partner or manager, is that your signature?
A. Yes.
Q. So you don't recognize this document at all or this form of document, what it was used for at Andersen? That's going to be my question.
A. No, I believe it's a document that you sign after you had a document referenced. Any document where it was issued by Andersen that was needed to be referenced by an independent person to make sure that the form of the letter is in accordance with the rules and the numbers tie back, et cetera.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. And does this document, Morgan Stanley 42, appear to be the form for the documentation of those procedures for the comfort letter dated March 19, 1998?
A. Appears that way, yes.
Q. Do you recall that comfort letter being referenced in the manner that you described?
A. I don't remember specifically, no.
Q. Do you know who the person is whose initials appear on pages two and apparently performed these procedures?
A. Yes.
Q. Who is that?
A. Her name was Patricia Rich.
Q. And did you work with Miss Rich on the March 19th, '98 comfort letter?
A. She referenced it. I don't remember specifically working with her on it.
Q. And when you say she referenced it, can you describe for those not familiar with that procedure what that means?
A. You would read the document, make sure it's in accordance with the specific language that's required by -- I don't know what rules they are anymore, to be honest with you, and then to make sure that the numbers tie back to the supporting work papers at Andersen's work.

Q. And it was Miss Rich that performed those procedures for the March 19th comfort letter, to the best of your recollection?
A. Yes, what it says here.
Q. You don't have a recollection of working with her on that?
A. No.
Q. Do you have a recollection of Miss Rich raising any issues with you in her work done referencing the March 19th comfort letter?
A. I don't recall one way or the other.
Q. On the second page, item number four, procedure states that "If applicable, trace information regarding contingencies, litigation or uncertainties to the financial statements and to legal or management representation letters or other source documents in the working papers."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that one of the referencing procedures that you just described?
A. That's what it says here.
Q. What's a management representation letter?

Page 279

A. Those are the letters that we looked at earlier that were on Sunbeam letterhead issued to Arthur Andersen.
Q. And as part of Andersen's work on comfort letters, Andersen requests a management representation letter for the items that are discussed in the comfort letter; is that correct, at least some of them?
A. Some of them, yeah.
Q. And would Andersen be able to issue a comfort letter unless it had a management representation letter?
In other words, did Andersen procedures allow that, to your knowledge?
A. I don't believe so, but I'm not certain.
Q. Have you ever been involved in issuing a comfort letter where there wasn't a management representation letter that would back it up?
A. Not that I recall.
Q. What role does Andersen have in drafting management representation letters typically?
A. They draft quite a bit of it.
Q. So the initial draft of a management representation letter is done at Andersen, worked on, and then at some point provided to management for review, approval and signature?

Page 280

A. I don't know the procedure, but if it's at Andersen or at the client, but yeah.
Q. Do you recall that being done in connection with these comfort letters and these management representation letters that were in March of 1998 in connection with the bond offering?
A. I don't recall specifically, but I'm sure that that is what happened.
Q. I'm going to hand you the next document that was marked yesterday as Morgan Stanley Exhibit 43.
A. This is a good one.
MR. MOSCATO: I'll give you my copy.
THE WITNESS: Keep that for my files. Okay.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. I've handed you what's been marked as Morgan Stanley Exhibit 43, a document entitled Post Audit Review for Subsequent Material Transactions and Events After the Date of the Auditor's Report.
Do you see that title on the page?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you recognize the handwriting on the bottom of the first page to be yours?
A. For the most part, yeah. Phil Harlow, looks like he signed it also.
Q. So there is some handwriting and then there is a signature by you and a date?

A. Yeah, the handwriting is mine.
Q. And then there is a signature by Mr. Harlow?
A. Correct.
Q. And the writing there appears to be the date, is that a three, is that March '98?
A. Yes.
Q. What is this document and how is it used internally at Andersen?
A. It's a checklist that's done to go through their requirements to do a post audit review and allow Andersen to issue a consent to update their opinion.
Q. And a document like this and the procedures that are described in this document are used in connection with --
A. The registration statement, I think a 133 registration statement, or 33 Act registration statement.
Q. It was your understanding in March of '98 that the Sunbeam convertible debenture offering would be registered in that way?
A. Eventually, yes.
Q. And did you prepare or mark on this document in March of 1998 in anticipation of that work on the registration?

Page 282

A. No.
Q. The handwriting at the bottom of the first page, can you read that as best you can for me?
A. Says, "No consent required on section 144 offering; however, PAR," which means post audit review, "work and AP 187 work done in its entirety as the firm's name appears in the financial statements included with this document. Work done herein sufficient as if we were to issue our consent."
Q. What are you communicating here?
MR. MOSCATO: I object. It's perfectly clear.
Are you communicating anything other than what's written in the plain wording of this note?
THE WITNESS: No.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. And you wrote those words in March of 1998?
A. Yes.
Q. And you signed your name below those words in March of 1998?
A. Yes.
Q. And the date on the front of the document that discusses post audit review having been completed is March 16, 1998, do you see that?
A. Yes.

Q. Is that the date that you would have made that notation on the document?
A. I don't know what I, if I reviewed it the same day or not.
Q. Would this document have to be completed under Andersen's internal procedures before a comfort letter like the one on March 19th could be issued to Morgan Stanley?
A. The form might not necessarily have to be filled out, but the work should have been done.
Q. So that these procedures that are described here in Morgan Stanley Exhibit 43 would need to be completed in March of 1998 before the offering memorandum could be completed?
MR. MOSCATO: The offering memorandum or the comfort letter?
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Well, let's start with the comfort letter. Before the comfort letter could be issued?
A. Yes.
Q. And before the offering memorandum would be finalized?
A. I don't recall specifically about that.
Q. Your handwriting here indicates that the post audit work and AP187 work was done in its entirety as the firm's name appears in the F1.

Can you tell me what AP187 --
A. That's financial statements.
Q. Appears in the financial statements included with this document.
A. Yeah.
Q. Can you tell me what AP187 refers to?
A. This document. If you look on the bottom left-hand corner, it says AA & Company, AP187.
Q. I see. So you're stating here in the handwritten notation that the post audit work that was done by Andersen and the procedures that were performed that are described in Morgan Stanley Exhibit 43 were done as if Andersen would be issuing a formal consent for the inclusion of its audited financials in the financial offering memorandum; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. So the standard of care that Andersen used in going through its internal procedures was the same as if it were required to issue a formal consent?
A. Yes.
Q. That's what you're communicating here in March of 1998?
A. Yes.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We have to change the tape.

We are now going off video record on tape number three. We'll be back on tape number four. The time on the monitor, 4:09 p.m.
(Discussion held off the record.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We are now back on video record, tape number four. The time on the monitor is 4:10 p.m.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Mr. Bornstein, I want to have you turn over to the second page of Exhibit 43. And the first procedure, I'd like to ask you to read that, please, to yourself.
A. Okay.
Q. And this procedure requires that somebody from Andersen read the entire registration statement including the prospectus and perform certain procedures, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And it requires Andersen to cross reference amounts in the narrative section to similar amounts in the audited financials, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And ascertain that there are no inconsistencies or conflict between the narrative section and the audited financials, correct?

A. Yes.
Q. And your initials are listed to the right?
A. Yes.
Q. And did you perform those procedures with regard to the offering memorandum?
A. Yes.
Q. And you performed those procedures in March of 1998?
A. Yes.
Q. On March 19th, 1998, or before? In other words, before the offering memorandum was finalized or printed at Global Financial Press?
A. Before and during.
Q. Those procedures were not carried out any time after that evening at the printer?
A. They were performed after, but on different documents.
Q. Correct, but with respect to the offering memorandum, those procedures were performed before you left the printer that morning?
A. Yes.
Q. I'm going to hand you the next exhibit. That's Morgan Stanley Exhibit 44.
This is another copy of the March 16, 1998 management representation letter that you looked at this morning with Mr. Markowski.

A. Is it exactly the same or is it different?
Q. It's another copy.
A. Okay.
Q. And you see it's signed on page three by the same group of individuals that you discussed this morning.
A. Okay.
Q. What role did you personally play in drafting the management representation letters for the comfort letters that were issued to Morgan Stanley in the first quarter of 1998?
A. I don't remember specifically.
Q. Do you remember having seen drafts?
A. Yes.
Q. Before they were issued and commenting on them?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. Did you discuss as part of your work on the management representation letters with Sunbeam management the contents of the letter?
A. I don't remember specifically myself doing that.
Q. Who was working with you on the management representation letter?

A. I believe Dennis Pastrana.
Q. Did, as far as you know and can recall, did you have any discussions with Mr. Pastrana about what Sunbeam management would or would not be willing to represent in the management letter?
A. No.
Q. Did you have any conversations with anyone in Sunbeam management about what Sunbeam management would be willing or not willing to represent in a management letter?
A. Not that I recall.
Q. I hand you the next document, Morgan Stanley Exhibit 45. Just let me know when you're ready.
A. Okay.
Q. This is an undated draft, appears to be an undated draft of the management representation, of a management representation letter. Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. If you look in format and style, it's similar to the representation letter that we just looked at.
A. Okay.
Q. If you turn over and look at the second page of the document on item eight, there is a table of information there. Do you see that?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 289

A. Table of information?
Q. Well, there is net sales and net income information for two different time periods.
A. I'm sorry, what page?
Q. On the second page.
A. Right, okay.
Q. Okay? And you discussed with Mr. Markowski this morning that net income and loss information was one item that would be included in the management representation letter; do you see that?
A. Right.
Q. Are you able to place this draft of the management representation letter in time in any way by looking at this?
A. No.
Q. And you recall that there were two different management representation issues issued? There was one in connection with the first comfort letter and then a second one that was issued in connection with the bring-down letter?
Do you remember that from this morning?
A. Yes.
Q. Are you able to recognize this as a draft of the second management comfort letter?
MR. MOSCATO: One way or the other? Yes or no.

THE WITNESS: This is a draft of the second?
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Yes.
A. No, I can't.
Q. You can't tell which version it's a draft of?
MR. MARKOWSKI: I'm sorry, I missed the thread here. Are you asking whether this is a version of the March 25?
MR. CLARE: I'm asking if he can place it in time as to whether it's a draft of the initial March 16th management representation letter or whether it's a draft of the March 25 representation letter.
MR. MARKOWSKI: Actually I guess it's March 23. I'm sorry to mislead you. I think it was March 23.
THE WITNESS: I have no idea one way or the other.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Okay. If you turn to the last page of the document -- next-to-the-last page, page marked Bates number CPH 00441653, item ten.
A. Right.
Q. It states, "Despite the decrease in net sales described in the preceding paragraph, management believes that net sales for the first quarter of fiscal 1998 will exceed net sales of the first quarter of fiscal 1997."

Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And that's a similar statement to the one that was included in the press release?
A. Correct.
Q. Do you recall in your work on the management representation letter discussing that provision?
A. No, I don't. Sorry.
Q. Do you recall any discussion about whether Andersen wanted a representation, an affirmative representation from Sunbeam's management that it had that expectation?
A. It was already made in the press release. I don't believe so.
MR. MOSCATO: The answer is yes or no. It's getting late in the day.
THE WITNESS: I think the answer was no. Can you answer -- read the question again.
(Thereupon, a portion of the record was read by the reporter.)
THE WITNESS: I don't, I don't remember.

BY MR. CLARE:
Q. I'm going to hand you the next exhibit that's Morgan Stanley Exhibit 46. It appears to be another draft of the management representation letter. Do you see that?
A. Uh huh.
Q. And this document, Exhibit 46, has a fax line across the top of the page indicating it was faxed on March 23rd, 1998. Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recognize that fax number?
A. Yeah, I, it looks vaguely familiar. I don't know exactly where it is.
Q. It appears that this fax was sent by somebody on March 23rd, 1998.
Is this your handwriting on Morgan Stanley Exhibit 46?
A. On page one it is, but not on page four, I guess, on the top.
Q. So the edit that's made on the first page is an edit that you made, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And the edit that was made to paragraph ten, somebody else's handwriting?
A. Right.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. Do you know whose handwriting that is? Do you recognize it?
A. No.
Q. Again, on the last page. The edited paragraph ten.
A. No.
Q. I'd like you to keep that in front of you for just a minute while I hand you the next document, Morgan Stanley Exhibit 47, which is the March 23rd, 1998 management representation letter.
A. Okay.
Q. Now we've looked at a couple of drafts of representation letter, Exhibits 45 and 46, that included a paragraph --
A. Right.
Q. -- stating that management believed it would exceed first quarter sales in 1997. Correct?
A. I'm sorry, just give me one minute so I can get my bearing here. Say it again.
Q. The drafts that we've been looking at, Exhibits 45 and 46, have a paragraph ten that states an expectation by management regarding net sales in the first quarter of 1998 exceeding net sales in the first quarter of 1997.

Q. But that paragraph does not appear in the March 23rd, 1998 representation letter as it was finally signed.
Do you have any knowledge or information about how that paragraph got deleted?
A. Actually I, it's actually coming back to me what happened here.
I remember, I remember getting -- I do remember getting this fax and starting to review it.
Q. Okay. Just to be clear --
A. Fax, I remember getting the fax that's dated whatever it is, 3/23/98.
Q. Morgan Stanley Exhibit 46?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. I remember reading the first page, I read the first paragraph, and then basically just stopping and calling and saying we've already done a rep letter dated March 16th. You guys are pulling from the wrong file. I remember I stopped reviewing this.
Follow me?
There is a rep letter dated the 16th.
Q. Right.
A. We had updated the 23rd. So whoever started working on this pulled a different file to start updating.

Page 295

MR. MOSCATO: You mean this was -- what you wanted someone to do was do a draft of the bring-down, and they pulled the comfort instead?
THE WITNESS: No, no. What I'm saying is we did a rep letter, March 16th.
MR. MOSCATO: I'm sorry.
THE WITNESS: So I know we did a rep letter the 16th with the $2 billion on there, or whatever the number was.
And I remember reviewing this one and it showing 1.3 million, which was the original amount.
So after reading the first paragraph, I just said this is the wrong one. You must be updating the wrong file. And I never reviewed the rest of it.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Okay. Well, the March 16th rep letter that you have in front of you, which is Morgan Stanley Exhibit 44, as the final version also does not contain that paragraph that we were looking at in drafts.
A. Yeah, I never saw that paragraph before.
Q. So you don't have any information about who put it in?
A. No.

Q. Or why it was taken out?
A. No.
Q. Or why it does not appear in the March 16th version of the rep letter?
A. None whatsoever.
Q. Or the March 23rd version?
A. No.
Q. Now you worked on the 1997 audit?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you believe as you sit here today that Sunbeam withheld material information from you in connection with the 1997 audit?
A. As I sit here today? Yes.
Q. And now those subjects, the audit and the work that was done on the restatement were covered in detail in your prior depositions, and I'm not going to ask you to go through them in detail, but in general, do you believe that Sunbeam withheld material information from Andersen regarding its reserves?
MR. MOSCATO: I'm going to make an objection. Years ago in front of the SEC he gave exhaustive testimony about what he thought Sunbeam had misrepresented and concealed from him and what they didn't.
I really think it's unfair and really not terribly productive to get into it again now. There is a full, complete record of his testimony on that subject when it was a lot closer to the events.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

And my concern is any testimony he gives now will necessarily be incomplete. I don't believe he has reviewed any of that testimony, and it's been six years now.

MR. CLARE: Okay.

MR. MOSCATO: That's my objection. So, you know, I guess I'll let him answer, but under the caveat that I can't imagine he is capable of giving anything close to a complete answer at this time.

MR. CLARE: Okay, I will accept that, and as I mentioned to you at the outset of this questioning, I'm not going to belabor the point. I've read that prior testimony and I believe that it is a complete recount, recitation of your testimony in this regard, and I'm not intending to replow it and I'm not trying to play gotcha with you and identify other areas.

I'm just trying to understand the general subject areas, we talked about a number of them today, in connection with what information Morgan

Stanley asked about and what information we had when we, Morgan Stanley, were doing the due diligence.

BY MR. CLARE:

Q. So I guess let me just ask you this general question.

As you sit here today, do you have any reason to know that Morgan Stanley had more information than Andersen in the first quarter of 1998?

MR. MARKOWSKI: On what subject?

MR. CLARE: Well, on any subject.

THE WITNESS: I have no idea what they had or didn't have.

BY MR. CLARE:

Q. You felt, though, that Sunbeam had withheld material information from Andersen on a number of different areas, correct?

MR. MOSCATO: Objection, can you please pin down when he came to that frame of mind?

BY MR. CLARE:

Q. You worked on the restatement investigation, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And as part of the restatement investigation, you conducted interviews of Sunbeam employees?

Page 299

A. Yes.

Q. And you did a number of additional procedures?

A. Yes.

Q. And those interviews and those additional procedures resulted in you and Andersen having information about Sunbeam that it didn't have in connection with the 1997 audit; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. A lot more information?

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. And those interviews and those additional procedures also resulted in Andersen and you having information about Sunbeam that it didn't have in the first quarter of 1998?

A. Yes.

Q. And it was at that point that you concluded that Sunbeam had withheld material information from Andersen?

MR. MOSCATO: That point being during the restatement process?

MR. CLARE: During the restatement process.

THE WITNESS: For the most part, yes.

BY MR. CLARE:

Q. Is that a fair statement?

A. That made it pretty iron clad that that was the case, yes.

Q. Did you consider the information that was withheld by Sunbeam from Andersen to be material?

A. Yes.

Q. And as you sit here today, do you consider the information that was withheld by Sunbeam from Andersen to be important to an understanding of Sunbeam's business?

A. Yes.

Q. And as you sit here today, do you have any reason to believe as a result of your work on the restatement investigation that Morgan Stanley had information about Sunbeam that was withheld from Andersen?

A. I have no idea.

Q. Do you have any information that occurs to you today as a result of your work on the restatement investigation where you said Morgan Stanley knew x facts and we, Andersen, did not?

MR. MOSCATO: Larry, the question is do you have any information? So the answer is either yes, you do have information, or no, you don't have information.

THE WITNESS: I think there is information --

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 301

I've come to understand that there was information given to Morgan Stanley that wasn't given to Arthur Andersen. Is that your question?
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Sure. Now tell me what that information was.
A. Just reading the -- you know, I can't tell you if it's true or not. Reading the complaints.
Q. Oh, the complaints that were filed in this lawsuit?
A. Right.
Q. So putting aside the allegations that are made in the complaints that were filed in this lawsuit, and I want you to exclude them from your mind, because those are legal allegations that were made and have not been proven and there is no evidence has been submitted yet to support them, but based than your own personal knowledge and recollection of the events --
A. I think --
MR. MOSCATO: Let him finish.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Based on your own personal knowledge and events, involved in these events, are you aware of any information that Morgan Stanley had in 1997 or the first quarter of 1998 that Andersen did not?
A. I believe there were, there is correspondence and documentation of previous meetings with Coleman and Al Dunlap, and I recall specifically after going through all of the documents that were furnished to the SEC.

Q. I'm not sure I understand your answer.
A. Well, I believe that there were documents. I reviewed all the documents that were given to the SEC by everybody, all of Sunbeam, whatever, first, second, third phase.
And there was documentation on various meetings and conversations and initial meeting, conversation with Dunlap and representatives of Coleman. I don't remember specifically, but I believe there were also people from Morgan Stanley at those meetings.
Q. You're saying that these were documents that related to negotiations between Sunbeam and Coleman for the acquisition?
A. Before the contemplated acquisition in March, there was I think another series of conversations before the end of the year. That's all I can recall specifically.
Q. Okay. So putting aside information that related to the acquisition, and I want to focus on your work on the restatement investigation, you reviewed the restatement report that was issued by Andersen?

A. Yes.
Q. Are you generally familiar with the areas in which a restatement of Sunbeam's financial statements were done?
A. Generally, yes.
Q. Bill and hold transactions and reserves and supplier rebates, those type of areas?
A. Correct.
Q. In any of the areas that were covered by the restatement investigation and the subsequent restatement report, did you learn any information that Morgan Stanley had that was not available to Andersen?
A. I believe there were forecasts and detailed information that was given to Morgan Stanley that we didn't get copies of.
Q. Can you identify them?
A. Not specifically. I remember meetings with, having meetings with Lisa Galbarth, I think her name was, or I think the -- I forget the name of the other one, a number of documents to go through the forecast and as such to get ready for the bank syndicate.
So there were a lot of documents that we never saw, but that we knew were supplied to Morgan Stanley.

Q. What about information that related to the specific restatement items? Putting aside the fact that Andersen -- that Sunbeam may have provided documents that were different than the documents that were provided to Andersen, was there any information relevant to your restatement inquiry that Morgan Stanley had that Andersen did not?
A. I have no idea.
Q. You don't recall any as you sit here today?
A. No.
Q. As part of the work that you did on the restatement, did you discover any evidence or information that Morgan Stanley was involved in any of the accounting judgments that led to the restatement?
A. No.
Q. Or any of the individual transactions that are described in the restatement report?
A. I don't believe so, no.
Q. We've talked about a couple of them today, EPI and Encore and some of those. Did you uncover any information that Morgan Stanley was involved in any of those transactions?
A. No.
Q. As part of the work that you did on the restatement, you interviewed Sunbeam employees,

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

correct?
A. Some.
Q. And you participated in a number of those interviews?
A. Yes.
Q. You've seen more than 30 interviews. Can you estimate how many of those you participated in?
A. I don't know, six to twelve maybe.
Q. And those interviews were conducted in connection, in conjunction with the attorneys at Scadden Arps?
A. Among others, yes.
Q. And they were conducted after Al Dunlap had been fired?
A. Yes.
Q. And after Kersh was gone?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. This was after Mr. Levin had been installed as the CEO?
A. Yes.
Q. After Mr. Levin had instituted what became known as the amnesty program?
A. Yes.
Q. Are you familiar with the amnesty program that Mr. Levin instituted generally?

Page 306

A. I think I might have been the first one to let an employee know about it.
Q. But the --
A. Speak now or forever hold your peace type thing.
Q. The purpose was to encourage employees to be candid with Andersen and Scadden in conducting these interviews as part of the restatement?
A. Yes.
Q. Because Andersen wanted to get as much information as possible from Sunbeam about what was really going on?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you describe just generally what your role was in the restatement?
A. To help coordinate the efforts, to interview the people you mentioned, to do some additional work myself, to deal with Deloitte & Touche, Scadden Arps, the management team, and basically review and look for items, things that were withheld from Arthur Andersen.
Q. And you discovered items that were withheld from Arthur Andersen, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. How much time did you spend, roughly, on the restatement investigation?

Page 307

A. I don't know.
Q. We've seen reports in the production showing that you spent more than 1,000 hours on the restatement investigation. Does that sound about right?
A. Probably.
Q. And in addition to the interviews that we described, you did additional accounting procedures?
A. Yes.
Q. One of the interviews that you conducted was Deborah MacDonald?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you present for that interview?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. Do you recall Miss MacDonald telling you that the only contact that people from Sunbeam had with investment bankers was through Mr. Kersh and Mr. Goudis?
A. Sounds familiar, but I'm not 100 percent sure.
MR. CLARE: Mark this as the next exhibit, please.
(MS Exhibit No. 59 was marked for identification.)

Page 308

BY MR. CLARE:
Q. I've handed you what's been marked as Morgan Stanley Exhibit 60.
A. Okay.
Q. It's a July 24th, 1998, memo from Donald Denkhaus to the files, memorializing an interview conducted with Deborah MacDonald.
Have you seen this document before?
A. Yes.
Q. The document states in the first paragraph that "On July 21st, 1998, Larry Bornstein and Chris Malloy, attorney with Scadden Arps, and Mr. Denkhaus conducted an interview."
Do you recall being present in the interview with Miss MacDonald?
A. Yes.
Q. Flip to page five of the interview memo. Top of the page says, "MacDonald indicated that the only contact that the investment bankers, Morgan Stanley, had with the company was through Kersh and Goudis."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall Miss MacDonald telling you that?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016820

A. Not specifically, no.
Q. Do you recall generally her telling you that?
A. No.
Q. In the course of the work that you did on the restatement investigation, did you learn that Morgan Stanley had contact with Sunbeam employees other than Mr. Kersh and Mr. Goudis?
A. No, not specifically, no.
Q. Is what Miss MacDonald -- let me withdraw that.
It's reported here in the interview memo, Miss MacDonald's statement, that all the information for Morgan Stanley had to go through Mr. Kersh and Mr. Goudis.
Is that consistent -- well, I don't want to -- is that consistent with what you learned in the restatement investigation about how Sunbeam's management controlled information from outsiders?
MR. MARKOWSKI: Object to the form of the question.
MR. MOSCATO: I have to object.
THE WITNESS: Are you going to object?
MR. MOSCATO: I already did object.
THE WITNESS: Sorry about that.

Page 310

BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Here's my question. You testified before that material information had been withheld from Andersen during 1997 and the first quarter of 1998, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And that information was withheld from Andersen by members of Sunbeam management, right?
A. In some cases, yes.
Q. Okay. And information that was known to other employees at Sunbeam was shielded from Andersen, correct?
A. In some cases, yes.
Q. So you, as part of the restatement investigation, you concluded that Sunbeam employees had information that was not provided to Andersen. And what I'm asking is what Miss MacDonald is reporting here, that information had to be channeled through senior management to go to Morgan Stanley, is that consistent with what, the conclusion you formed about how Sunbeam controlled information from outsiders?
MR. MARKOWSKI: Object to the form of the question.
MR. MOSCATO: I have to object to it. I even object to -- I don't know, the memo itself is just so internally inconsistent, I'm not sure what generalizations you can make out of this document and I'm not sure how you can generalize the generalizations in this document to what happened with Andersen. I just think it's very confusing and I don't think it's a fair question as posed.

MR. CLARE: Well, I'm not trying to confuse. All I'm trying to get at is if this were in fact the case.
MR. MOSCATO: I'm sorry, what?
THE WITNESS: If it was the case.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Were you surprised, are you surprised to learn that Sunbeam employees thought that information they had was withheld from Morgan Stanley?
Does that surprise you based on what you heard in the restatement investigation?
MR. MARKOWSKI: Object to the form of the question.
MR. MOSCATO: You can answer that question.
THE WITNESS: No.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Why doesn't that surprise you?
A. Based on where we sit today, what happened.
Q. Okay. Is one of the reasons it doesn't surprise you is because information was also withheld from Andersen?

A. Yes.
Q. As part of the restatement investigation, did Andersen ultimately reach an opinion as to whether Sunbeam's internal controls were adequate in 1997 and the first quarter of 1998?
A. As part of the restatement? I believe they did.
Q. And do you recall what that opinion was?
A. Not specifically, no.
Q. And as part of the restatement investigation, did Andersen reach an opinion as to whether Sunbeam was able to produce accurate financial statements in 1997 and the first quarter of 1998?
A. I believe we did, yes.
Q. And do you know what that opinion was?
A. Which opinion is this?
Q. Regarding Sunbeam's ability to produce accurate financial statements in 1997, in the first quarter of --
A. I don't remember specifically what the opinion said.
Q. Isn't it true that Sunbeam concluded -- strike that.

Isn't it true that Andersen concluded at the conclusion of the restatement investigation that Sunbeam's internal controls were inadequate in 1997 and the first quarter of 1998?
A. I believe so, yes.
Q. And isn't it true that Andersen concluded at the end of the restatement investigation that Sunbeam was unable to produce accurate financial statements in 1997 and the first quarter of 1998?
MR. MARKOWSKI: Object to the form.
THE WITNESS: I'm not sure exactly if that's the way it -- I know there was a restatement, so I don't remember what the opinion says.
MR. CLARE: I'm going to hand you the next exhibit we'll mark as Morgan Stanley 61.
THE REPORTER: 60.
MR. MARKOWSKI: If that's right, you might want to adjust the numbering, because he was testifying about a document you were calling 60 already, so you might want to make this one 59 and that one 60.
THE WITNESS: The Deborah MacDonald document was 59.
MR. MARKOWSKI: But it was referred to in the transcript as 60.

Page 314

MR. MOSCATO: Why don't we just correct the transcript then.
MR. MARKOWSKI: Either one, one way or the other.
MR. CLARE: Let's mark this as 61.
(MS Exhibit No. 60 was marked for identification.)
MR. MARKOWSKI: What are we doing about the MacDonald exhibit?
MR. CLARE: We'll correct it in the transcript.
THE WITNESS: She put 60 on here.
MR. CLARE: Let's re-mark the October 16, 1998 management letter as Morgan Stanley Exhibit 61.
(Thereupon, the document was re-marked 61.)
THE REPORTER: So there is no 60?
MR. CLARE: Not yet. And let's re-mark the Deborah MacDonald interview memo as Exhibit 60 to conform with testimony.
(MS Exhibit No. 60 was marked for identification.)
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Mr. Bornstein, I'm handing you what has now been marked as Morgan Stanley Exhibit 61, a document, first page says Sunbeam Corporation Management Letter, October 16, 1998.
Have you seen this document before?
A. Yes.
Q. And if you turn to the third page of the exhibit, it's a letter dated October 16, 1998, from Andersen addressed to the board of directors, management of Sunbeam Corporation.
A. Yes.
Q. If you look at page two of the letter, which is Bates number CPH 0084409, second full paragraph, I ask you to read that to yourself.
A. Okay.
Q. The last sentence there expresses the opinion that "The company's design and effectiveness of its internal controls were inadequate to detect material misstatements in the preparation of the company's 1997 annual and quarterly financial statements."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. That was a conclusion that Andersen reached in October of 1998?
A. Yes, that's what it says here.
Q. Okay. This was at the conclusion of the restatement investigation?

A. I believe so.
Q. And did you share that conclusion in October 1998?
A. I don't specifically remember if I did or didn't, but I was part of the engagement team, so --
Q. In 1997 while you were working on the Sunbeam audit, did you have any reason based on the work that you performed to question the design or effectiveness of Sunbeam's internal controls?
A. In some areas, yes.
Q. Can you tell me what they were?
A. There was a draft of a management letter that was, I don't think it was ever issued, but given to people from Sunbeam that probably had several of these in there.
Q. This was provided to Sunbeam management in 19, in connection with the 1997 audit?
A. Yes.
Q. And did you believe that the conditions that were described in the draft management letter were material weaknesses as that term is defined in Morgan Stanley Exhibit 61?
A. Not at that time, no.
Q. At that time those were suggestions by Andersen on how internal control could be improved?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 317

A. Yes.
Q. But the conclusion that there was a material weakness was not reached by you or Andersen until October 1998; is that correct?
A. I don't know the specific date, but that's when the report was given.
Q. The report here identifies -- you can flip through it -- a number of areas that are identified as material weaknesses. Do you see that?
A. I do.
Q. Okay. Were any of the material weaknesses that are identified as material weaknesses in this report known to you in 1997?
A. Any of the material weaknesses known to me during when?
MR. MOSCATO: Any material weaknesses?
MR. CLARE: Correct.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. I'm asking you while you were working on the 1997 audit, were you aware of anything that rose to the level of a material weakness of Sunbeam's internal controls?
MR. MOSCATO: I thought he answered that.
MR. CLARE: The answer is no?
THE WITNESS: That's what I answered a few minutes ago.

BY MR. CLARE:
Q. In the first quarter of 1998, were you aware of any material weaknesses in Sunbeam's internal controls?
A. No.
Q. In 1997, did you believe that Andersen -- I'm sorry, did you believe that Sunbeam was incapable of producing reliable financial statements?
A. No.
Q. Did you believe that in the first quarter of 1998?
A. No.
Q. Did you have any reason in the first quarter of 1998 to believe that Sunbeam was incapable of producing reliable financial statements?
MR. MOSCATO: I object. I just don't see the difference between that question and one he just answered two minutes ago. I'm really, I have to object in the strongest terms of repeating the same thing over and over.
We're getting near the eight-hour limit, and I'd ask you to be just a little less repetitive in your questioning. And I do that in all respect. I think you're conducting a very professional examination. I just think it's a little repetitive.

MR. CLARE: This is my last question in this area and I plan to move on, so the objection took longer than the repetitive questioning.
MR. MOSCATO: I think it needs to be said, though, but go on.
MR. CLARE: Can you reread my question, please. We'll get an answer and move on to the next topic.
(Thereupon, a portion of the record was read by the reporter.)
THE WITNESS: No.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. In August of 1998 were you aware of a settlement between Sunbeam and MacAndrews & Forbes?
A. No.
Q. Did you have any involvement in --
A. Actually, say that again, in August of --
Q. 1998, were you aware of a settlement that took place in that time period between Sunbeam and MacAndrews & Forbes?
A. Generally I did, yeah.
Q. And this was a settlement whereby MacAndrews and Forbes received warrants to purchase additional shares of Sunbeam stock?

A. I believe so.
Q. Did you have any involvement or do any work on behalf of Sunbeam in connection with that settlement?
A. No.
Q. Did you have any involvement in valuing those warrants?
A. No.
Q. Or disclosing that settlement in Sunbeam's financial statements?
A. No.
Q. Have you ever seen any documents or reports relating to the valuation of those warrants?
A. No.
Q. You were involved in drafting the disclosures that were in the 1997 10K, weren't you, some of them?
A. Yes.
Q. And specifically you were involved in the drafting of disclosures in the 10K about Sunbeam's bill and hold sales?
A. I don't know about drafting, but recommending that something be put in there.
Q. Okay. At one of your prior depositions you said that you were involved in at least reviewing and commenting on the disclosures. Is that correct?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

A. Yeah, I think that's fair.
Q. And the deposition you indicated that you thought those disclosures were very good disclosures.
MR. MARKOWSKI: Object to the form of the question.
THE WITNESS: I don't know if they were very good, I don't remember what I said, very good or good, but --
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. But you thought they were either very good or good?
A. Well, they were reasonable.
Q. Okay. And at the time were you aware of any bill and hold transactions beyond those that had been disclosed in the 1997 10K?
A. No.
Q. And do you think that the disclosures that you reviewed and that ultimately ended up in the 1997 10K adequately informed investors that Sunbeam had engaged in hold sales?
MR. MARKOWSKI: Object to the form of the question.
THE WITNESS: Yes.

Page 322

BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Are you aware that the 1997 10K includes disclosures about Sunbeam's Early Buy program?
A. Yes.
Q. You were involved in drafting those disclosures, too?
A. I don't remember specifically.
Q. Did you play a similar role as you just described with regard to bill and hold?
A. I don't remember.
Q. This morning Mr. Markowski asked you some questions about the Early Buy program and the, what it means to accelerate sales from one quarter into an earlier quarter. Do you recall that?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall that that subject, the possibility of sales being advanced into an earlier quarter, was among the information contained in the disclosures?
MR. MARKOWSKI: Object to the form of the question, lack of foundation.
THE WITNESS: I'd have to look at it.
MR. CLARE: Let's look at what was previously marked as Morgan Stanley Exhibit 12.

Page 323

BY MR. CLARE:
Q. If you look at the document, the Bates number at the bottom, CPH 1409071.
A. Okay.
Q. The paragraph at the top of the page, carryover paragraph, if you just read that to yourself. My question is going to be whether you had any involvement in drafting this disclosure.
THE WITNESS: I don't remember having any specific involvement in that specific paragraph.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Do you recognize that paragraph as in part a disclosure of the Sunbeam's Early Buy program and the risks associated with the Early Buy program?
A. One of the risks.
Q. And that risk is that it increases the company's risk of collecting accounts receivable?
A. Correct.
Q. And this is, this disclosure is contained in the section labeled Cautionary Statements of the 10K?
A. Couldn't tell you. There is like eight different fonts here.
Q. If you look at the page before, page seven?
MR. MOSCATO: I object. You don't need Mr. Bornstein to say where in a publicly-filed document with the SEC a particular paragraph exists. This is really becoming abusive now.

Can you please ask him factual questions other than identifying that particular words exist in a particular document that's publicly filed.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Do you see on page seven it says the words Cautionary Statements?
A. Yes.
Q. So the disclosure that you just read appears in that section?
A. Yes.
Q. If you turn to the next page, two pages later, page nine of the 10K, the third bullet from the bottom, the bullet that begins "Sales of certain of the company's products," do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Read that bullet to yourself, and I'm going to ask you if you were involved in drafting that disclosure.
A. I don't remember having any involvement in drafting that.
Q. The discussion that you had with Mr. Markowski this morning about accelerating sales in one quarter or one financial period into an earlier period --

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 325

A. Yes.
Q. Is the paragraph that you just read on page nine of the 10K, is that a disclosure that, of that phenomena that you were describing?
A. I have no idea. I can read it 100 times. It's too late in the day to give you a conclusion on that.
Q. Well, this morning, in response to questions from Mr. Markowski, you testified that in looking at various iterations of the comfort letter --
A. The comfort letter?
Q. Yes. There was a discussion there about reasons for the shortfall --
A. Right, right.
Q. -- in January and February of 1998. Do you recall that?
A. Yes.
Q. And you testified this morning about the impact of an Early Buy program and how one of the reasons identified in the comfort letter was the acceleration of sales into an earlier time period.
Do you recall that?
A. Right.
Q. And my question is does this disclosure that we've just looked at in the middle of page nine, is that the same phenomena that you were discussing with Mr. Markowski this morning, to your knowledge?

MR. MARKOWSKI: Objection, asked and answered, and object to the form of the question.
THE WITNESS: It could be similar.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. The statement specifically that such a program, meaning the Early Buy program, could have a negative impact on future financial performance.
THE WITNESS: Yes, you can read that well. Same thing I read.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. You don't have a view one way or the other as to whether that's the same phenomena that you were describing with Mr. Markowski?
A. Similar.
Q. Similar. Did you ever have an in-person meeting with Morgan Stanley in the state of Florida?
A. No.
Q. The accounting due diligence call that you participated in, you participated in from New York?
A. Yes.
Q. Was Mr. Tyree with you physically at the printer during that due diligence call?

Page 327

A. I'm not sure about him. Mr. Lurie was.
Q. Mr. Lurie was also on the call?
A. He was physically present.
Q. And he was physically present with you in New York.
And the only in-person meeting that you had with Morgan Stanley was the one at Global Financial Press in New York?
A. Several meetings, yes.
Q. A series of meetings?
A. And Scadden Arps.
MR. CLARE: Let's take a two-minute break and I think we may be done or close to done.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We are now going off video record. The time on the monitor is 5:05 p.m.
(Thereupon, a recess was taken.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We are now back on video record. The time on the monitor, 5:11 p.m.
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Mr. Bornstein, I appreciate your patience. A few final items for now.
You discussed earlier in your testimony the decision by Sunbeam to extend first quarter of 1998, do you recall that?
A. Yes.

Page 328

Q. Did you have any discussions with Morgan Stanley on that subject?
A. Bob Lurie and I did, but not Morgan Stanley.
Q. And this conversation with Mr. Lurie, was that after Global Financial Press?
A. Yes.
Q. That issue didn't arise until closer to the end of the quarter?
A. Yes.
Q. And tell me about your conversation with Mr. Lurie.
A. I don't remember specifics about it, to be honest with you.
Q. Did you have an understanding one way or the other about whether Morgan Stanley had a position on extending the quarter?
A. No.
Q. You described this morning in response to questions from Mr. Markowski and again in response to questions by me this afternoon about the additional procedures, the sales cutoff testing that was done at your direction.
A. Yes.
Q. At the end of the first quarter. Do you recall that?

A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall either from the documents that we looked at today or from your recollection whether there were any inconsistencies or irregularities that were reported to you as a result of that cutoff testing?
A. Not, no irregularities. There was nothing that wasn't resolved.
Q. So the additional procedures that you asked to be performed were in fact performed?
A. Yes.
Q. To your satisfaction?
A. Yes.
Q. And Mr. Kistler or the other individuals that were informed in those procedures never advised you specifically of an issue with regard to the cutoff testing that led you to believe that Sunbeam's cutoff had been done improperly?
A. No.
MR. CLARE: Those are all the questions that I have for now.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
REDIRECT (Lawrence Bornstein)
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Mr. Bornstein, hopefully just a few brief items.

Do you have Morgan Stanley Exhibit 58 in front of you? It's the April 3 press release announcing the fact that Sunbeam had missed accomplishing first quarter 1997 sales levels.
MR. CLARE: Take this one, Larry.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Do you see the first paragraph purports that Sunbeam expected to be approximately five percent below 1997's first quarter net sales result?
A. Yes.
Q. And I think you testified that the books had been close at that point, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Do you recall that the actual shortfall was greater than five percent?
A. At that point, at the end of the day, you mean?
Q. At the end of the day do you recall that the actual shortfall was something greater than five percent?
A. It depend how it was defined.
Q. That's what I was going to get at next. Whatever the shortfall was, do you recall that Sunbeam in its first quarter 1998 net sales results was including Coleman Company sales?

A. Yes.
Q. For the three-day or two-day period at the end of the quarter after the closing of the Coleman transaction, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. So there was an amount of sales that didn't come from Sunbeam's business, but yet came from the business that Sunbeam had acquired Coleman Company, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Do you recall approximately how many millions of dollars that was?
A. No.
MR. CLARE: Objection, foundation.
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. But you recall that was part of what Sunbeam claimed at its first quarter sales results, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And that was as a result of extending the quarter?
A. Yes.
Q. And there were additional days of Sunbeam sales included first quarter results too, correct?

Page 332

A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall as you sit here today what the shortfall from 1997 first quarter results was if Sunbeam had not extended the quarter, thereby including Coleman Company sales and additional days of Sunbeam sales?
A. No.
Q. But the shortfall would be even greater as a result of that adjustment, correct?
A. I don't even know if it was a shortfall. I don't know what the numbers were.
Q. Well, this press release announces that there is a shortfall.
A. Five percent lower, yeah, right.
Q. Without waiving my objection to the questions that Mr. Clare asked on these subjects, you recall that he asked you questions concerning whether you had information indicating that Morgan Stanley had been involved in committing a fraud on my client.
Do you recall those questions?
A. Yes.
Q. With respect to that, do you have any knowledge, sir, concerning the statements that Morgan Stanley made to my client concerning the success of Sunbeam's turnaround?

Page 333

A. That Morgan Stanley -- can you read that back?
Q. Let me ask it again.
Do you have any knowledge, Mr. Bornstein, of the statements that were made by Morgan Stanley to my client concerning the success of Mr. Dunlap's turnaround of Sunbeam?
A. No.
Q. You don't have any knowledge of what Morgan Stanley said to my client on that subject, do you?
A. No.
Q. Do you have any knowledge of what Morgan Stanley said to my client on Sunbeam's performance in the first quarter of 1998?
A. No.
Q. Or that Sunbeam said to my client concerning its performance in the first quarter of 1998 in Morgan Stanley's presence?
A. No idea.
Q. Do you have any knowledge of the statements that were made by Morgan Stanley to my client about Sunbeam's prospects for 1998?
A. No.
Q. Do you have any knowledge of the statements made in Morgan Stanley's presence by Sunbeam concerning

Page 334

Sunbeam's prospects for the full fiscal year 1998?
A. No.
Q. When you left -- Mr. Clare asked you some questions about the statement that you made to Mr. Tyree that you hoped to God that Sunbeam at least accomplished sales equal to first quarter 1997 sales or otherwise people should expect to be sued.
Do you recall the questions on that, relating to this comment?
A. Yes.
Q. You did make a comment to that effect during the session at Global Financial Press on March 19, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And you made that comment to Mr. Tyree, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. When you made it, were you joking?
A. No.
Q. Was Mr. Tyree laughing?
A. No.
Q. Was it said in jest?
A. No.
Q. When you said it was an off-the-cuff statement, was it something that you didn't understand to be a real risk at that point in time?

A. No.
Q. And that's the way you meant it when you said it to Mr. Tyree, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. You said, sir, that you found it amazing that Morgan Stanley during the course of its communications with you or contacts with you didn't inquire about the status of Sunbeam's first quarter sales results.
Do you recall that testimony today?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you find it amazing that Morgan Stanley didn't make that inquiry during the various times it was in contact with you or others from Arthur Andersen?
A. Should have been the first question on the list.
Q. And why did you think that, sir?
A. Why did I think that?
Q. Why did you think it was the first question that Morgan Stanley should have been asking you?
A. Because they were selling bonds based on current and future performance.
Q. Now we're getting a document that I want to use for another question, sir.

Page 336

Mr. Clare asked you whether Morgan Stanley objected during, to your statement, during the session at the printer on March 19, to your statement that you intended to implement special procedures to monitor Sunbeam's end-of-the-quarter shipments.
Do you recall that?
A. That they objected?
MR. MOSCATO: I'm sorry, say that again?
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Do you recall that Mr. Clare asked you whether Morgan Stanley objected when you told Mr. Tyree that you intended to implement special procedures to monitor Sunbeam's shipments at the end of the first quarter? Do you recall that question?
MR. CLARE: I object to the form.
THE WITNESS: I remember the question, yes.
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Did Morgan Stanley say to you when you told Mr. Tyree -- strike that.
Did Mr. Tyree say to you when you told him that that was your intention that he thought that was a good idea and that you should for sure go ahead and do that?
A. No, they were silent.
Q. Did the lawyers from Davis Polk say that's a great idea, go ahead and do that?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016927

A. No. Silent.
Q. That list of, the sales buildup that you were shown for -- let me see if I can get it in front of me -- that you were provided at the printer on March 19th, the one-page list of potential sales, do you recall that?
MR. MOSCATO: Does he need it in front of him for this question?
THE WITNESS: I have it here.
MR. MARKOWSKI: Let me see if I can find it.
MR. MOSCATO: He's got it.
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Have you got it?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did -- one of the things you said you told Mr. Tyree was he should just do the math with respect to trying to determine whether this was a reasonable forecast of Sunbeam's sales expectations for the first quarter, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Mr. Clare asked you this morning or this afternoon questions concerning the fiscal capability of Sunbeam's facilities to ship a certain level of product per day.

Page 338

A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall those questions?
Did the fact that some substantial portion, approximately $86 million, as I read this chart, of these potential sales had not been booked as orders by this point in time have an effect on your thinking with respect to the feasibility of Sunbeam being able to accomplish this level of sales in the remaining days of the quarter?
MR. CLARE: Object to the form.
MR. MOSCATO: I object to that too.
THE WITNESS: I don't remember specifically if that was my thought process.
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Well, if the sales had all been in and recorded at that point in time, would you have had a -- strike that. Let me put it this way.
When you read this chart, did you understand that Sunbeam was going to be able to divide into equal daily segments the amount of product that needed to be shipped out each day in order to accomplish at least $254 million in sales?
MR. CLARE: I object to the form.
MR. MOSCATO: I object.
THE WITNESS: I did a straight line division, calculation in my head, yes.

BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Okay. Do you know whether that was in fact what Sunbeam would be able to do based on where it stood with respect to having booked orders for product? Did you know that one way or the other?
MR. MOSCATO: Objection.
THE WITNESS: No.
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. I don't think we need to mark this as an exhibit, sir, but I want to show you your, a transcript of your testimony before the, your prior testimony on October 13, 1999, in connection with related proceedings.
MR. MOSCATO: Counsel, for what purpose are you showing him the document?
MR. MARKOWSKI: There is just one question I want to show him to see if I can refresh his recollection to a particular aspect of the testimony.
MR. MOSCATO: If you can ask the question first.
MR. MARKOWSKI: It was asked. I'll ask it again.

BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Do you recall, sir, that Mr. Tyree, when you told him your views concerning whether the substance of the press release should be put in the offering memorandum, that Mr. Tyree said to you --
MR. MOSCATO: Wait, Larry, don't look at anything yet.
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. "You know, this is going in. I don't care what you say. This is going in."
A. As I sit here, I don't recall him saying that, but if I said that, if it's in the testimony from four or five years ago, it's a lot closer to the time.
Q. Let me give you a chance to take a look at that specific question and answer. It's on page 492 and 493, if you could just read.
MR. MOSCATO: You're asking him to refresh his recollection?
MR. MARKOWSKI: Right.
MR. MOSCATO: Okay.
MR. MARKOWSKI: Whether he recalls today Mr. Tyree in fact saying those words to him.
MR. MOSCATO: Read it, Larry, then close it up, and then testify as to whether or not that actually refreshes your recollection.

MR. CLARE: I'm sorry, what page are you asking him to read?
MR. MARKOWSKI: The questioning starts at 492, carries over onto 493 at the top.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
MR. MOSCATO: Wait for a question.
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Sir, does that refresh your recollection that in response to your objection to including the press release in the offering memorandum, the March 19 press release in the offering memorandum, that Mr. Tyree said to you, "You know, this is going in. I don't care what you say, this is going in."
A. It doesn't refresh my memory.
Q. Did I accurately read that statement from your prior testimony?
A. Yes.
Q. And that testimony was given at a point in time closer to the events than today, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you have any reason to believe your testimony at that time was inaccurate on that point?
A. No.
MR. MARKOWSKI: I don't have any further questions.

Page 342

RECROSS (LAWRENCE BORNSTEIN)
BY MR. CLARE:
Q. Mr. Bornstein, you responded to a question from Mr. Markowski about Morgan Stanley's due diligence. He asked you why you were amazed at Morgan Stanley's due diligence. Do you recall that?
A. Yes.
Q. Let me ask you the same question that he asked you with regard to inquiries from Nafco, MacAndrews and Forbes and Coleman (Parent) Holdings. And you told me earlier that you were surprised that you didn't receive any inquiries from Coleman (Parent) Holdings or its representatives in connection with the acquisition, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And was your statement that an inquiry about how the company was doing should have been the first question on the list, does that apply equally to inquiries that you would have expected to receive from Coleman (Parent) Holdings?
A. No.
Q. Would you have expected that to be unimportant question that you would receive?
A. That me personally would receive? I wasn't with them, so the answer is no.

Q. But my question is in terms of your surprise at not receiving any inquiries, would that question, how is the company doing, be among the inquiries that you would have expected to receive in connection with diligence that was done by Coleman (Parent) Holdings?
A. If any questions were asked, that would have been one of them that I would have believed should have been asked.
Q. It would have been on the list?
A. It would have been on the list.
Q. And it would have been an important question on the list?
A. Yes.
MR. CLARE: That's all I have.
MR. MARKOWSKI: One more question.
REDIRECT (LAWRENCE BORNSTEIN)
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Mr. Bornstein, do you know whether -- excuse me, do you know what my client, Coleman (Parent) Holdings, asked Sunbeam and asked Morgan Stanley on the subject of how Sunbeam was doing in the first quarter of 1998 and what my client was told by them?
A. No.
MR. MARKOWSKI: Thank you.

Subject: Due Diligence call with Morgan Stanley

On March 7, 1998, we were requested to participate on an oral due diligence call with Sunbeam's lead underwriter, Morgan Stanley "Morgan" as well as other representatives of the Project Laser team. We requested a standard release from the Company and Morgan who replied that it was not in accordance with their policy to sign such a letter and that they have recently worked with AA in New York with out such a letter. Phil Harlow, engagement partner discussed with Don Denkhaus, Audit Division Head that Morgan was unwilling to sign the release letter and Don stated it was not uncommon and to proceed with the meeting providing that the client was involved on the call.

On March 12, 1998, I participated in the conference call from New York, in addition the following were on the line or in attendance in New York. Phil Harlow, engagement partner, Larry Bornstein, engagement manager, Bob Gluck, Corporate Controller, Sunbeam, John Tyree, Morgan Stanley, Bob Lurie, Davis Polk, Andy Savari, Morgan Stanley, George Scott, First Union as well as a representative from Bank of America.

Attached is the agenda, as well as notes from that meeting Mr. Savori and Mr. Lurie asked the questions and Mr. Harlow provided responses.

The questions from the agenda were asked in their entirely and the responses were as follows:

REPORTED BY: CORINNE T. MARUT, C.S.R. No. 84-1968

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Good morning. We are going on the video record at 9:28 a.m.

My name is Marc Buhmann and I am a legal videographer in association with Esquire Video Services. My address is 155 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois. The Court Reporter today is Corey Marut of Esquire Deposition Services.

Here begins the videotaped deposition of Andrew Savarie taking place at Jenner & Block, One IBM Plaza, 40th floor, Chicago, Illinois.

Today's date is January 22, 2004. This deposition is being taken in the matter of Coleman Holdings, Inc. vs. Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., in the Circuit Court of the 15th Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County, Florida, Case No. CA 03-5045 IA.

Will counsel please state their names for the record.

MR. BRODY: Michael Brody and Suzanne Prysak on behalf of Coleman (Parent) Holdings.

MR. CLARE: And Thomas Clare, Kirkland & Ellis, LLP, on behalf of Defendant Morgan Stanley & Company and the witness.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Will the reporter now swear in the witness, please.

(WHEREUPON, the witness was duly sworn.)

MR. BRODY: All set?

ANDREW SAVARIE, called as a witness herein, having been previously duly sworn and having testified, was examined and testified further as follows:

EXAMINATION (Resumed)

BY MR. BRODY:

Q. Will you please state your name.
A. Andrew Savarie.
Q. And spell your last name for the Court Reporter.
A. S-a-v-a-r-i-e.
Q. Sir, you used to work at Morgan Stanley?
A. Correct.
Q. At the time you did was there anyone else at Morgan Stanley with your name?
A. Not that I'm aware of.
Q. Okay. Mr. Savarie, have you ever been deposed before?
A. No.
Q. Then let me go over a little bit of this procedure. I'm sure your counsel has told you.
You've just taken an oath, the same oath

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

you would take at trial. I'll be asking you questions and it's your obligations to answer them to the best of your ability.

If you don't understand any of my questions, I would ask you to ask me for a clarification and I will try to do so.

If you need to take a break at any time, just say so and we will do it although I'd prefer not to take a break with a question pending.

And the last thing, and this is more important for the Court Reporter than for you and me, is since she has to take down everything that you say, it's important that you wait for me to finish before you answer and I will try to do the same before I ask another question.

Fair enough?

A. Fair enough.

Q. Have you ever given any testimony under oath before?

A. No, not that I can recall.

Q. And, Mr. Savarie, you are here pursuant to subpoena?

A. Yes.

Q. A subpoena was served upon you?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have any documents responsive to the subpoena?

A. No.

Q. At the time you left Morgan Stanley did you have in your possession at home or outside of your office at Morgan Stanley any documents relating to the Sunbeam or Coleman matter?

A. No.

Q. Let me just lay out a couple of definitions just so we're clear.

I'm going to refer in this deposition to Sunbeam, and by that I mean the company that Al Dunlap headed and to which Morgan Stanley provided investment banking services. Correct?

A. Okay.

Q. And I'll refer to Morgan Stanley meaning the company you were once employed by and its affiliated companies. Is that acceptable?

A. Okay.

Q. I will also refer to Coleman; and by Coleman, I mean the publicly traded company, camping goods company, based in Wichita, Kansas.

A. Fair enough.

Q. Understand?

A. Yep.

Q. And my client, Coleman (Parent) Holdings, is an affiliate of MacAndrews & Forbes; and I may refer to them collectively as MAFCO. Is that acceptable?

A. Yes.

Q. In the Morgan Stanley documents I've seen references to Project Laser. Was "Laser" Sunbeam?

A. Laser was the name assigned to the project. So, I don't know if you would assign it to Sunbeam, but it was to the project.

Q. And that was the project by which Morgan Stanley provided services to Sunbeam?

A. Yeah, broadly, yes.

Q. Okay. And I also saw references to "Camper." Do you understand that to be Coleman?

A. I actually don't know.

Q. Okay.

A. If that -- I'm not as familiar with "Camper" as a name used associated with this transaction.

Q. Fair enough. We'll see if that pops up on any of the documents I show you today.

Mr. Savarie, you're represented by counsel today?

A. Yep.

Q. Mr. Clare is your lawyer?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you retain Mr. Clare?

A. I was introduced to Mr. Clare at the point where I received the subpoena and upon contacting Morgan Stanley to let them know that I had received the subpoena, they directed me to him.

Q. Who did you contact at Morgan Stanley?

A. It was Miss Lee, Soo Mi Lee.

Q. And then Morgan Stanley introduced you to Mr. Clare?

A. Correct.

Q. Is Morgan Stanley paying for Mr. Clare's representation of you today?

A. I'm not familiar with the details of who's -- who's paying what bills. But I would assume so.

Q. Are you paying?

A. No.

Q. Prior to receiving the subpoena, had you had any contact with Mr. Clare?

A. No.

Q. And prior to receiving the subpoena, were you aware that we were trying to arrange your deposition?

A. I had been made aware that it was potential that it might happen.
Q. And how did you learn that?
MR. CLARE: I would in answering the question instruct you, and I don't know how you're planning to answer the question, but to the extent that you had communications or discussions with members of my firm on that topic or with in-house attorneys for Morgan Stanley to not reveal the substance of the communications.
So, if you want to -- if you're able to answer the question subject to that limitation, you can answer.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I had been given an indication from Morgan Stanley.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Who at Morgan Stanley gave you that indication?
A. Soo Mi Lee.
Q. At the time Ms. Lee gave you that communication, did you work for Morgan Stanley?
A. No.
Q. What was it that she told you?

Page 10

MR. CLARE: I object and instruct the witness not to answer.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. I take it you're going to follow your lawyer's instruction?
A. Yep.
MR. BRODY: Can we have an understanding that I don't have to go through that ritual on further instructions?
MR. CLARE: Yes.
MR. BRODY: Thank you.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Do you know when it was that you learned that it was a possibility that you might be deposed in the case?
A. I don't recall specifically, but I would say several months ago.
Q. Prior to that contact from Ms. Lee were you aware that there was a lawsuit between MacAndrews & Forbes and Morgan Stanley arising out of the Sunbeam matter?
A. I was not aware.
Q. Mr. Savarie, what did you do to prepare for today's deposition?
A. A couple of phone calls with Tom to set up logistics and then some time spent just reviewing how this would be conducted today.

Q. When did you have that review?
A. Yesterday.
Q. How long did you meet?
A. I guess it was half day.
Q. In that meeting did you review any documents?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember any of them?
A. Some of them.
Q. Which ones did you review?
A. I don't recall all the documents that we looked at, but it was a number of documents relating to the transaction.
Q. Any that you remember in particular?
A. I think there was the offering memorandum, some of the internal documents prepared within Morgan Stanley, roadshow, and I can't -- a number of other documents. I can't remember specifically which -- which ones we looked at.
Q. And no other ones you recall?
A. Not specifically.
Q. Did you review any transcripts of testimony by other witnesses in this case or in other cases?

A. I don't believe I reviewed any of those.
Q. Are you aware of testimony given by others in this case or in other cases concerning the Sunbeam engagement?
A. I'm aware that others have provided testimony.
Q. Do you know the substance of any of their testimony?
A. I don't or at least not -- not specifically.
Q. Have you ever been, aside from communications with Morgan Stanley's counsel or with Mr. Clare and people in his office, have you ever been contacted by anyone else about the work that Morgan Stanley did for Sunbeam?
A. When you say "anyone else," my immediate answer to that would be no. And I'm trying to recall over the period of the last six years whether there's been any reference to any of that work in any way, shape or form. And I would say no in substance.
Q. Okay. Let me give you some specifics.
Have you been contacted by any regulators, for example --

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

A. No.
Q. -- with questions? Have you been contacted by lawyers for anyone else suing Morgan Stanley about the work Morgan Stanley did?
A. No, not that I can recall.
Q. Now, before we focus on the Sunbeam transaction and the work that you did, sir, I'd like to spend a little time on your background.
A. Okay.
Q. You attended college?
A. Correct.
Q. Where was that?
A. Duke University.
Q. Did you receive a degree from Duke?
A. Yes.
Q. What degree?
A. Bachelor of Science in engineering.
Q. Any particular field of engineering?
A. Electrical.
Q. When did you receive that degree?
A. 1986.
Q. After you received your Bachelor of Science Degree in education -- in electrical engineering, did you work?
A. Yeah.

Q. For whom?
A. I spent four years in the Air Force.
Q. Were you in an ROTC program?
A. Yes.
Q. What was your -- what were your duties within the Air Force?
A. Defense contract acquisition work.
Q. Where were you stationed?
A. Bedford, Massachusetts, Hanscomb Air Force Base.
Q. Were you a pilot?
A. No.
Q. Did you leave the Air Force in 1990?
A. Correct.
Q. What was the nature of your separation from the Air Force?
A. It was a four-year commitment. So, it was at the end of it.
Q. Did you receive an honorable discharge?
A. Yes.
Q. What did you do after you left the Air Force?
A. Went to business school.
Q. Where did you attend business school?
A. Northwestern.

Q. Is that the Kellogg School?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you have a particular area of study or expertise at Kellogg?
A. You know, I think there were majors, but I would say that doesn't really constitute much of a concentration.
Q. Did you have a major?
A. It will tell you how important it was. I'm not sure I remember what it was.
Q. Did you receive any honors or awards while at Kellogg?
A. I did.
Q. And what were those?
A. Beta Gamma Sigma and then I got an academic award for being top of the class.
Q. What was the name of that academic award?
A. I think it may have been a Kellogg academic achievement award or something, something like that.
Q. Okay. After -- you graduated from Kellogg in '92?
A. Correct.
Q. June of '92?

A. Yep.
Q. After leaving Kellogg did you go to work for Morgan Stanley?
A. Yes, and I had actually worked for Morgan Stanley during the summer between the two years.
Q. When you were in their summer program where were you stationed?
A. New York.
Q. In a particular division?
A. It was generalist pool.
Q. When you returned to Morgan Stanley after graduation in 1992 where did you work?
A. New York.
Q. In what area were you assigned?
A. Again, a generalist pool.
Q. You were with Morgan Stanley from 1992 until when?
A. Until the end of or November, I believe, of 2001.
Q. Where did you go after Morgan Stanley?
A. Bank of America Securities.
Q. Where?
A. Here in Chicago.
Q. Are you still with Bank of America

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0169

Page 17

Securities?
A. I am.
Q. What are your -- what's your position with Bank of America?
A. I run the automotive and transportation banking effort.
Q. What is the business of your automotive and transportation banking effort? What is it you do? Are you underwriting securities? Are you doing debt offerings? Are you doing --
A. Yes, all of that. It's the investment banking arm of the bank.
Q. You remain in Chicago?
A. Correct.
Q. What is your title?
A. Managing director.
Q. Is that the title you were hired to?
A. Yes.
Q. In your current position at Bank of America do you have current dealings with Morgan Stanley?
A. Occasionally, as an underwriter side by side on transactions or -- yes.
Q. Is the main business of Bank of America Securities the underwriting of -- of various types of securities offerings?

MR. CLARE: I object to the form.
You can answer if you understand.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. Is the -- in terms of what the main business is, it's really providing our clients with a broad array of financial services.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Can you estimate what percentage of the business of your automotive and transportation group is involved in the underwriting of securities?
A. That's a -- it's a number I don't have off the -- off the top of my head. I would say it's a meaningful portion of the business we do, but I couldn't tell you specifically what percentage it is of the business we do. And it varies by year by period, certainly by client.
Q. When you refer to automotive and transportation sector, that's the area of commerce that you work with?
A. Correct.
Q. Automotive I understand. Transportation, what types of businesses are involved in the transportation sector?

Page 19

A. I would say the bulk of my time is spent on the automotive space, but it does include logistics companies. Rail companies are generally under my responsibility and a few other logistics providers.
Q. Aviation?
A. Less so.
Q. Or is that separate?
A. Less so.
Q. And when you say "logistics providers," do you mean? Give me an example whether or not it's --
A. Trucking companies, a UPS, a Fed Ex, names like that.
Q. Got it. Since you left Morgan Stanley have you had any involvement with Sunbeam?
A. No.
Q. Or -- or its present form, American Household?
A. No.
Q. Now, let's focus on that roughly nine-year period that you were at Morgan Stanley.
A. Okay.
Q. You arrived at the company in the summer of 1992?

Page 20

A. Yes. Again, following -- having spent the summer there the year prior.
Q. Right.
A. Right.
Q. Focusing on the time --
A. Summer of '92.
Q. What was your first position?
A. It was an associate in the generalist pool.
Q. How long were you an associate in the generalist pool?
A. It was a two-year, sort of two-year program broadly. However, during the second year, you had the option to specialize; and I actually did spend some concentrated periods of times -- time in healthcare and in telecom.
Q. As a member of the generalist pool was your work in the investment banking area?
A. Yes.
Q. Any particular field within investment banking?
A. Very broad.
Q. Okay.
A. Included, you know, work on all kinds of projects.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. In 1994 did you take a new position?
A. In 1994, and I can't recall specifically when, I was asked to join the Chicago office. I believe it was 1994.
Q. And did you do so?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you remain in the Chicago office until you left in '92 -- excuse me -- in 2001?
A. Yes.
Q. What position did you move to the Chicago office to take?
A. It was an associate, again, mostly as a generalist.
Q. Just focusing on the titles, we'll talk about the responsibilities later, how long did you remain an associate?
A. I think in total four years.
Q. So, in about 1996 you took a new position, new title?
A. Yeah, that sounds right.
Q. And what was that?
A. Vice president.
Q. And how long were you vice president?
A. Three years.
Q. So, roughly '99?

Page 22

A. I think it was three years. Yeah.
Q. And then what position did you take?
A. Principal.
Q. Is that the position you held when you left?
A. Yeah, and they may have renamed it director at some point, but it was ostensibly principal.
Q. Is the step above principal managing director?
A. Correct.
Q. . Focusing on the work you did in the Chicago office, from '94 to 2001 how big was the Chicago office?
A. Well, it varied obviously over time, and I'm not certain of precisely how many folks there were. I would say anywhere from 15 to 20 professionals probably in total, investment banking professionals.
Q. And by "professionals," do you include associates?
A. Yeah.
Q. Analysts?
A. Yeah. It may have been as many as 25 at some points during that period.

Page 23

Q. Did the Chicago office have an area of specialization?
A. Generally no. It was an office designed for -- to provide generalist coverage and regional coverage.
Q. Who was in charge of the Chicago office during that time period?
A. Bill Strong.
Q. The entire period?
A. Yeah, and I guess Bill Strong and Frank English were the two senior members of the office. In terms of who was responsible for the office, it may have actually been Frank with Bill providing even more senior oversight.
Q. Did the Chicago office report to a particular division within Morgan Stanley?
A. In the investment banking division, although I'm not certain precisely how it reported in; and that tended to change with changes in the management structure.
Q. During your time in the Chicago office, to whom did you report?
A. Both Frank and Bill.
Q. Focusing on the period you were in the Chicago office, what were your duties and responsibilities as an associate?

A. As an associate, you would participate in the preparation of presentation materials for meetings, various items that you would work on or prepare in support of other senior members of a client team for execution of transactions, business development discussions, really any number of things related to the services we were providing those clients, oversee the analysts in terms of the work being done, the analysis being prepared.
Q. Would you do the analysis yourself?
A. At times, depending on the analysis, depending on the situation.
Q. As an associate was there an area within which you -- you worked?
A. What do you mean by that?
Q. Well, a substantive area, an area of commerce.
A. Meaning sort of an industry area?
Q. Yes.
A. Initially not much although over time I began to gravitate towards spending a portion of my time in the automotive space.
Q. As an associate, in addition to reporting to Mr. Strong, did you also report to members of Morgan Stanley's investment banking department in New York?

0169-1

A. No, not -- not directly. I mean, my reporting relationships were to the people that ran the office in Chicago.
Q. On particular projects did you work with people in New York?
A. Yes.
Q. How was it decided -- do you know how it was decided whether people from Chicago would become involved in a particular project?
A. Well, I can't tell you how it was in every case. It oftentimes was a function of either where the senior officer was involved, whether that senior officer happened to be in Chicago. It may be a project being driven out of New York but involving one of the professionals in Chicago, in which case I could have been involved.
And it may well have been an instance where the client had some relationship with or association with the Midwest region, which was oftentimes a -- a reason to have someone in the Chicago office involved.
Q. In 1996 you became a vice president?
A. Yes.

Page 26

Q. Did you --
A. As I recall, yeah.
Q. Or thereabouts?
A. Yeah, right.
Q. Did your responsibilities change?
A. They did.
Q. In what way?
A. In that you tend to play more significant roles in situations where you're involved. More oversight of, in that case, associates, including analysts, or associates in addition to analysts, beginning to development client relationships.
Q. Did your work focus in a particular industry as a vice president?
A. Again, it was a -- it continued that my focus or that an area of focus was automotive. So, I spent more -- more time developing my expertise in automotive.
Q. In roughly 1999 you were promoted to a principal or a director. How did your responsibilities change with that promotion?
A. I think similarly, just in, you know, subtle increases in independence and responsibility.

Q. Now, the work that Sunbeam did for -- excuse me.
The work that Morgan Stanley did for Sunbeam in the 1997-'98 time frame, you were a vice president at the time?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you do any work for Sunbeam when you were an associate?
A. No.
Q. And you're aware of the engagement Project Laser that Sunbeam did -- excuse me -- that Morgan Stanley did for Sunbeam. Did you work on any other Sunbeam projects other than Project Laser?
A. No.
Q. Aside from your M.B.A. from the Kellogg School, have you taken any further educational programs?
A. Other sort of continuing education. I think I took a few classes, you know, while I was in the Air Force. But no degrees.
Q. No course work toward a degree?
A. No. None -- none that were intended to achieve a degree, no. I took some other engineering classes because I was in the engineering part of the military service.

Q. I believe you testified you left Morgan Stanley in November of 2001?
A. Correct.
Q. Why was it you left?
A. I was dismissed.
Q. Did that have anything to do with work you did for Sunbeam?
A. No.
Q. To your knowledge?
A. Not to my knowledge.
Q. Mr. Savarie, when you were at Morgan Stanley, what did you understand the policy of the company regarding the retention of documents relating to client matters?
A. What did I understand the policy to be?
Q. Yes.
A. I think generally to retain the documents that you felt were important for you to retain.
Q. Did you ever see a formal written policy on document retention?
A. I can recall having reviewed one at -- at probably several points during my time at Morgan Stanley. But -- but just vaguely.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 29

Q. Do you remember anyone ever talking to you about documents to keep or documents to throw away?
A. In general or --
Q. In general.
A. Generally, no. It was not a topic that, you know, was sort of raised frequently or, you know, where there was a lot of focus on -- on that necessarily.
Q. Do you remember any discussion about whether to keep particular documents relating to the Sunbeam engagement?
A. I don't remember having any specific conversation about that.
Q. Sir, I'm going to show you what's previously been marked as Exhibit 6, and I'll just represent for the record that this is a portion of a document taken out of a document produced to us by Morgan Stanley.
Have you ever seen this before?
A. I don't recall having seen this document.
Q. At the beginning, it states that:
"Files should be kept lean and unnecessary material should be discarded on a regular basis."

Page 30

Do you remember any discussion about that?
A. No.
Q. When -- when an engagement closed, when a -- when a deal closed, what was your practice about going through your files and keeping or discarding documents?
A. As a practical matter, I would just go through and keep those documents that I thought were central to the transaction and perhaps something that I would need at some later date.
Q. Was it your practice to do that within a short period after the closing of a deal?
A. I would say that there was no standard practice, no, you know, particular sort of regimen that I followed consistently. It would depend on how big the file was, how much stuff I had in it that I thought I didn't need; and those would be the factors that would determine how quickly, for instance, I might do that.
Q. Focusing on the Sunbeam matter, do you remember going through your file on Sunbeam and keeping some things and not keeping other things?
A. Not specifically. I don't recall actually having accumulated a whole lot of paper as -- as a result of my limited role in the transaction.

Q. Do you remember at any point paring down your file on the Project Laser or Sunbeam matter?
A. I remember generally having thrown some things away, but I can't recall when I did it or what -- what I had that I didn't think I needed to keep.
Q. You earlier indicated that you, when you did that, when you went through a file, you kept things you thought you might need later or want to use later. Is that correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Would it be your practice to keep notes of telephone conversations with the client?
MR. CLARE: Again, are you asking generally now --
MR. BRODY: Yes.
MR. CLARE: -- or with regard to Sunbeam?
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I would say, you know, generally no; that it would be more likely that I would keep documents that, for instance, might be used to, you know, provide a framework or ideas or sort of a precedent for other transactions as opposed to things of that sort.

BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Was it your practice to keep drafts of documents, drafts of presentations or offering memoranda?
A. Generally, no. I mean, what -- what typically would be most useful would be the final version of a document that had been created.
Q. So, is it correct to say you would typically discard the predecessor drafts and keep the final?
MR. CLARE: I object to the form.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I mean, I would say that, you know, that final document is -- is the one that would be most helpful I think for me.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. When you were at Morgan Stanley, in the '97-'98 time frame, did you communicate with others using e-mail?
A. I'm sure I did.
Q. Do you know if in connection with the Morgan Stanley deal you communicated with people -- I keep saying Morgan Stanley when I mean Sunbeam.

016849

Page 33

Let me start over.
In connection with the work Morgan Stanley did for Sunbeam, did you communicate with people in other Morgan Stanley offices using e-mail?
A. While I can't specifically recall how much I did or when I did, I would suspect that e-mail was part of the means I used to communicate.
Q. Do you know if you communicated with people at Sunbeam using e-mail, people at the client?
A. I don't recall, but I also recall that e-mail was not the primary means of communication that it is, for instance, today. So, I suspect if it were used, it were -- it was substantially less than it would be today.
Q. Did you -- were you instructed to do anything to save or retain e-mails?
A. No.
Q. Do you know what happened with e-mails after you sent them? Do you know if they were saved or backed up in any manner?
A. I -- I don't know.
Q. Do you know what type of e-mail system you used when you were at Morgan Stanley?

Page 34

A. No, I wouldn't be -- I mean, I was a user, not a technician.
Q. I understand.
Did you use a Morgan Stanley system or was it an external system such as Bloomberg Mail or something like that?
A. To my recollection, it was a Morgan Stanley system, if I was using it at all.
Q. Okay. I think for the remainder of the deposition, sir, unless I say otherwise, I'm going to focus on the time period beginning in '97 and ending in '98 in which Project Laser took place. And at that time you were working in the Chicago office of Morgan Stanley?
A. Correct.
Q. And you were a vice president?
A. Correct. I assume. Yeah, thinking back to -- yeah, if the promotion took place before, and I don't know when this all started, but assuming that I had been promoted before it started, yes.
Q. Okay. At the time you were in the Chicago office reporting to Mr. Strong primarily?
A. Yep. In addition to the other managing directors.
Q. What other managing directors were there in the Chicago group?

A. Frank English, John Adams, I believe Frank Ulrich -- well, he may not have been an MD at that point. You know, maybe Frank Ulrich if he had been an MD at the point -- at that point in time.
Q. In that period, sir, you were assigned to work on the Morgan Stanley representation of Sunbeam, is that correct?
A. I was asked to participate in a portion of the work that Morgan Stanley had done for Sunbeam.
Q. What portion did you -- were you asked to participate in?
A. I was asked to join the team at the point where the financing plan had been determined and there was a need to add to the team to help with the execution of the financing.
Q. Can you place that in time? Do you know when it was?
A. I think it was, you know, in the early March time frame.
Q. Early March 1998?
A. Yes.
Q. If I were to tell you that the deals closed in late March, would that be consistent with your recollection --

Page 36

A. Yeah.
Q. -- that you started in early March?
A. Sounds right.
Q. Did you do any work on the Sunbeam engagement after the deals closed?
A. After the deal was closed?
Q. After the financing closed.
A. You know, my role, given that it was principally to help with the execution of the financing, was fairly limited thereafter.
Q. Who asked you to become involved in this project?
A. Bill Strong.
Q. Who did you work with, other Morgan Stanley professionals, in connection with this deal? Mr. Strong I assume?
A. With -- with Bill, and I'm not going to remember I'm sure all the -- the members of the team, but John Tyree.
Again, we had some -- there was obviously an M & A team who had done a lot of work prior to that, and I had some interface with them as well; and then as well we had a bank team that had been assembled as part of the financing project. And I can't -- I just can't recall all the names. It's been too long.

Q. I understand. In a bit I'll show you a working group list. That may help.
A. Sure.
Q. So, just to generalize, there was an M & A team, a bank team and then could we describe your group as a financing team?
A. Well, I would say that the financing team, broadly defined, you know, really included, you know, a combination of members from all sort of aspects of the transaction.
Q. The M & A team, was that a New York function?
MR. CLARE: I object to the form.
MR. BRODY: You're right. Bad question.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Were the people on the M & A team from the New York office?
A. Yes. Generally. I mean the majority of them were in New York.
Q. Who do you remember on -- on what you described as the M & A team?
A. Bob Kitts, Jim Stynes, Alex Fuchs were the three names that -- and I'm sure there were associates and analysts involved as well.

Q. Okay.
MR. BRODY: Please mark this as Exhibit 125.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked CPH Exhibit No. 125, for identification, as of 1/22/04.)
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Mr. Savarie, I've given you what's been marked as Exhibit 125.
A. Okay.
Q. Do you recognize this as a document circulated by Morgan Stanley?
A. Certainly looks like it.
Q. And the document is dated March 11 and in fact it bears a fax transmittal indicating it was faxed at 3:00 in the morning on March 11.
A. Okay.
Q. Do you recognize this document and its attachment to be a circulated working group list?
A. Yes.
Q. If you'd please turn to the page bearing the production number at the bottom right beginning with the number or ending with the number 4677.
A. Uh-huh.
Q. You see there is a reference to participants from Morgan Stanley?

Page 39

A. Yes.
Q. Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Okay. The first individual listed is Bruce Fiedorek. Did you work with Mr. Fiedorek?
A. I did not have a lot of direct contact with Mr. Fiedorek.
Q. Did you work with him on the Sunbeam deal?
A. No.
Q. Mr. Strong and yourself were -- are listed as the two individuals from the Chicago office?
A. That's correct.
Q. To your knowledge, did anyone else from the Chicago office work on this matter?
A. No.
Q. Do you know how it was the Chicago office was involved in the transaction?
MR. CLARE: Object to form and foundation.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I am not that familiar with all the background that led to the involvement other than a general knowledge of Bill's relationship as being part of the reason.

BY MR. BRODY:
Q. And he had a relationship with Mr. Dunlap?
A. Yes, that's my understanding, although I don't know a lot about the history or the substance of it.
Q. Did you ever talk to Mr. Strong about that relationship?
A. I would say, you know, generally, yes. When he asked me to be involved, I got, you know, some background on what -- what the transaction was, how it had come about, but it was very general.
Q. In connection with the work that you did on Project Laser, did you ever learn of what projects Mr. Strong had done with Mr. Dunlap in the past?
A. You know, at points later in the process, you know, as I sort of heard a little bit more about the history, I learned a little bit more about it, but never really had an in-depth discussion about it.
Q. What did you learn about his prior relationship with Mr. Dunlap or his companies?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 41

A. Just that he had known him from prior dealings with him, and I can't recall what specific dealings those were.
Q. The next set of individuals, sir, that begin on the bottom of page 4677 and continue to 4678 are identified from the M & A group?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. They were involved in this project before you became involved?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know what they were retained to do? Do you know what their assignment was?
A. I don't know, you know, at the initiation of this what all the details were and what they were asked to do. In retrospect I know obviously what the transaction entailed as it -- as it unfolded, but was not involved in any -- any -- well, don't know the details of precisely what they did and when they did it.
Q. Okay. At the time you became involved, had it already been decided that Sunbeam would acquire Coleman and two other companies?
A. Yes, as I recall, that -- that was the transaction as it was outlined to me was that the portion of the transaction I was being asked to participate in was the financing of that collection of acquisitions.

Q. Did you have anything to do with advising Sunbeam on whether to enter into the acquisition transactions?
A. No. As a matter of fact, you know, my involvement was really after, and I'm not sure technically when everything happened because I wasn't involved in the M & A process, so I don't know where they were precisely in those processes at that point. But I was not involved in advising Sunbeam on that aspect of the overall transaction.
Q. In the course of the work you did, did you go back and review any of the proposals that Morgan Stanley had made to Sunbeam or that Sunbeam had made to potential acquisition targets about performing these transactions?
A. I don't recall exactly what work I reviewed, but I know in the process of getting up to speed, getting some further background on what the transaction was, that I did review some of the presentations that Morgan Stanley had prepared.
Q. Do you know if you reviewed the presentation that Morgan Stanley made to MacAndrews & Forbes?

A. I don't specifically -- specifically recall that presentation.
Q. Did you review, to your recollection, the presentation that Morgan Stanley made to the Board of Directors of Sunbeam about going forward with these transactions?
A. Again, I don't specifically recall -- I don't specifically recall in general what documents I looked at, but know that I reviewed some that summarized sort of what this transaction was because without some of that general knowledge, to start work on the financing would have been more difficult.
Q. If you turn to the next page, sir, 4679, there's what's identified as the Client Services Group. What's the business of the Client Services Group?
A. Generally this is a group that is focused on execution of financings.
Q. So, their responsibility in this project was similar to yours?
A. I would -- in -- in many respects. I had been asked obviously as a member of the team to work closely with the members of this team involved in the transaction.

Q. Were there any other groups you were asked to work closely with?
A. No, it was really -- and to a degree, I had some peripheral involvement with the bank team and the bank process given the overlap.
Q. Could you turn to the next page, page 4680. There's a reference to Equity Capital Markets?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Is that the bank group?
A. No. This would be the group that would have been more focused on the equity financing.
Q. Did you work with the individuals listed here?
A. Yes.
Q. Let me -- in connection with the Sunbeam deal?
A. Yes.
And, again, I would say people are in buckets, they're in groups, but it's really a collective effort where the lines of responsibility are not that clearly defined between groups and who does what for what purpose.
Q. The next page, page 4681, refers to the credit group. Do you recall what their responsibility was on this project?

016851

A. Generally the credit team assists in any credit-related matters, which could relate to, you know, assessments of, you know, pro forma credit to, you know, elements of, you know, structure in any transaction or security that's being issued.
Q. Did you --
A. So, any credit-related matters, these folks might be sought for advice.
Q. It identifies two individuals. Mr. Whelan is a man, Chris Whelan?
A. Yes.
Q. And Mr. Kunreuther. Do you know what work they did on this deal?
A. It would be hard for me to -- to specifically identify what they did.
Q. Did you work with them?
A. Yes.
Q. What do you recall doing with them?
A. I remember having discussions with them about, you know, transaction structure and, you know, as is the case with -- with any instance where Morgan Stanley or anyone is getting involved as a lender, it's a -- there is a credit component to that decision-making process.

Page 46

Q. Were they shown drafts of memoranda to Morgan Stanley management about whether to go forward with the deal?
MR. CLARE: Objection; foundation.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. You know, I don't know exactly what they saw and what they didn't see.
Q. Okay.
A. You know, all I can speak to is sort of what dealings I had with them.
Q. Okay. Next page describes the Leverage Finance Group.
A. Okay.
Q. Is that the bank group?
A. That would be the team more directly responsible for the bank portion of the execution.
Q. Did you work with the individuals identified there?
A. Yes. Not necessarily all of them to the same degree, but yes.
Q. With whom did you work?
A. I would say Mike Hart was probably, you know, more a primary interface than others on the team.
Q. How did you --

Page 47

A. Tom Burchill too.
Q. I'm sorry. Tom Burchill as well?
A. Yes.
Q. On what matters did you interface with the Leverage Finance Group?
A. Again, given sort of the collective sort of team-oriented nature of the way we go about executing a transaction like this, there are a number of meetings where we would have -- we might have attended it together or we would have discussed certain issues together, we would have shared information for purposes of all the documents that get prepared as part of a transaction like this.
Q. Do you work -- excuse me.
Did you work with Mr. Smith, Bram Smith?
A. Yes. I mean, he was the senior member of the team. So, my contact with him would have been more limited.
Q. If you turn to the next page, sir, there are three additional groups, High Yield Research. Did you work with Mr. Foley at High Yield Research in connection with the Sunbeam matter?
A. I don't recall spending a lot of time with him.

Page 48

Q. Do you recall doing anything with him?
A. Not specifically.
Q. What about Equity Research, it identifies Andrew Conway and James Dormer. Did you do any work with them?
A. I recall having some contact with them but not -- not -- not substantial contact or contact with them.
Q. What contact do you recall having with them?
A. You know, again, I can't recall. You know, I can't give you a number of times that I -- that I talked to them six years ago. But it was, you know, an occasional conversation about, you know, the process, the company.
Q. What was the -- withdraw that.
Within Morgan Stanley what did Equity Research do?
A. Well, I think generally Equity Research provides equity research on companies.
Q. When Morgan Stanley provides coverage for an issued stock --
A. Correct.
Q. -- it's done by Equity Research?
A. Correct.

016853

Page 49

Q. Do you know if Morgan Stanley provided coverage of Sunbeam at any time?
A. I don't believe so.
Q. Was it discussed at the time of this transaction that Morgan Stanley would begin providing equity -- equity coverage for Sunbeam securities?
A. I don't recall specifically having conversations like that myself. But I'm generally aware that that I believe had been discussed, but I don't know in what context or to what degree.
Q. The last entry is for the Fixed Income Division. Did you work at all with the Fixed Income Division?
A. I don't even recognize that name. It was a big team obviously.
Q. I understand. You've identified some of the individuals you worked with, sir, and I believe you testified that your primary responsibility on the deal was to assist in executing the financing plan?
A. Correct.
Q. Within that general responsibility of executing the financing plan did you have particular responsibilities or things that you were responsible for?

A. Again, as part of the team, I was involved in reviewing documentation that would be used to execute the transaction to include the prospectus, reviewing materials that would be used by the company in a roadshow, and then in assembling documents that would be used for internal meetings and approvals that would take place as part of the execution.
Q. Did you have any involvement in preparing the selling memorandum?
A. As I recall, I would have had a role in reviewing it and perhaps preparing portions of it.
Q. Aside from those major areas of responsibility do you remember other areas that you were involved in?
A. You know, I participated in a lot of the general discussions at due diligence meetings that we would have to prepare a lot of these documents to ask the questions and get an understanding of the business that we needed to proceed with the execution of the transaction.
So, I would say, you know, a lot of general internal and discussions with the company relating to gathering information appropriate for the execution of the transaction.

Q. When you became involved in the deal in -- in early March, prior to that time you had no involvement in it, is that correct?
A. That's correct.
Q. Prior to that time were you even aware that the deal was going forward?
A. I may have been generally aware that, you know, Bill was working on something and -- but it would have been, you know, a bit or a piece here or there. Not enough to really understand the substance of the transaction.
Q. When you became involved in the transaction in I believe you said early March of 1998, what did you do to get up to speed on the deal?
A. Well, as I said, I reviewed some of the presentations that had been prepared by the rest of the team and then, you know, had conversations with members of the team just to sort of catch up on where things were and where the transaction stood.
Q. As you sit --
A. Including Bill.
Q. As you sit here do you remember any of those particular presentations that you looked at?

Page 52

A. I don't. I don't. I remember, you know, the presentations being summary in nature, summarizing the nature of the transaction, some of the analysis that may have been prepared. But I don't specifically remember which presentations or what analysis.
Q. When you were at Morgan Stanley, did you have to keep track of the hours you spent on particular matters or engagements?
A. I would say sort of broadly that we tried to do that, but it was not with the precision, for instance, that you guys do in the legal profession.
Q. How about that we guys like to do in the legal profession?
A. Right, right.
Q. If you turn to the working group list that I circulated earlier, if you look at the first page of the working group list, it describes the convertible debt and leverage finance. Do you see those words at the heading?
A. Which one is this?
Q. Go to any page of the working group list.
A. Oh, yeah, okay. Yeah.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 53

Q. And towards the top there is a reference to convertible debt and leverage finance?
A. Yeah.
Q. And then following that are some numbers, 0726-001 and 0726-002?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Are these numbers for these particular engagements?
A. Yes, those would be project numbers.
Q. Did you -- when you kept track of your time in the general way that you did, did you record it to those particular numbers?
A. That would have been the way to do it. I -- and whether I recorded all of it with one or the other or mixed the two might have depended on, you know, what I was doing.
Q. And the other individuals whose names we've looked at, do you know if they were supposed to record their time to those numbers as well?
A. Again, it -- I don't recall specifically how rigorously tracked, you know, that process was at that point in time and that sort of, you know, because it was really more an internal tracking tool than anything else.
Q. But I guess my question was --

Page 54

A. And I can't comment. I'm sure some people did a good job of doing it and some people didn't.
Q. Was it the practice of the Chicago office to keep track of time or was it a practice of Morgan Stanley to keep track of time?
A. I would say that it was not something only specific to Chicago.
Q. Did you ever see printouts or reports showing how much time had been spent on an engagement by a particular person or a particular group?
A. I don't recall specifically reviewing that nor can I recall a need to have done that.
Q. In connection with your work on any Morgan Stanley matter and perhaps as you grew more senior and moved into more management positions, do you know if Morgan Stanley had the ability to generate reports showing how much time was spent on a project and by whom?
A. You know, I think they did. But I can't recall many instances of having the need to see that because it didn't really -- was never particularly relevant.
Q. At the time, March of '98, thereabouts, did you keep a calendar or a diary or some other record showing what you did other than whatever time records you kept in the Morgan Stanley system?

A. I don't know. I mean we didn't -- I don't recall what I did.
Q. Okay.
A. And at that level of seniority I didn't have somebody tracking my time to the degree I might have had I been more senior or had -- to the degree I do today, for instance.
Q. Okay. You may be thinking -- I may be asking the question imprecisely, but I'm sure in business you've seen some people who are always keeping notes and writing down everything they possibly do and they have a notebook or so on describing the sorts of things they worked on.
Did you keep notes in that manner of the work that you were performing?
A. Not -- I mean, I had notebooks, but, you know, not to the extent that I would mark every day and have a page for every day. I did not keep those kinds of records or notes.
Q. What sorts of things did you keep in your notebooks?
A. I mean, it would be notes and it would be points that are relevant for -- from calls that I've had or to do lists, you know, summary of things that I need to follow up on from conversations with a variety of clients.

Q. Did you keep a spiral-bound notebook?
A. Yeah, I had had those.
Q. Is that what you used in the spring of 1998?
A. I don't recall whether I used a spiral or a -- something like the one you've got or -- or had something else that I kept, you know, whatever notes I, you know, made at the time.
Q. Did you retain those notes -- did you keep them?
A. Well, I kept those notes for some time, some period of time but, you know, don't have any of that stuff anymore and, you know, like I said, you know, wouldn't -- only kept those notes to the extent they were sort of timely and relevant to the -- to the extent I had done what I needed to do, the issues had been addressed, sort of old items, I'd throw it away.
Q. Okay. In answering one of the questions, sir, you indicated that you were involved to an extent in due diligence?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 57

A. Yep.
Q. Describe just generally what you mean by due diligence.
A. Participating in some of the broad meetings that took place where the company and others were giving presentations, summaries of the business, as well as, you know, calls, you know, with the company and others discussing the business; and then I would say participating in, you know, reviewing various drafts of the offering documents, you know.
My view of the due diligence process is one that is a collection of all of the teams' efforts throughout the -- the entirety of the process, the entirety of the transaction, and really a continuous and ongoing portion of the -- of the transaction execution.
Q. You indicated that you participated in calls with the company and others?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Did you ever go down to Sunbeam's offices in Florida?
A. Yes.
Q. How many times?
A. I'm sure, you know, you'd have records of it, but I don't know specifically how many times. I would say several times.

Q. I'll show you in a second a record I have of a particular visit. We'll see if you remember others.
Aside from visiting Sunbeam in Florida, did you visit any other Sunbeam locations?
A. I don't recall personally visiting any other locations, whether an office in New York or -- you know, I -- what I recall were most of the visits were in Florida, if not all of them.
Q. Aside from calls to Sunbeam, either in person or on the telephone, in the due diligence work that you did, did you speak with people from outside of the company?
A. Yes.
Q. Who?
A. The accountants.
Q. Aside from the accountants, anyone else?
A. Lawyers.
Q. Lawyers for the company?
A. Lawyers for the company, lawyers that we were working with, other banks. There were other banks involved in the process. There may have -- there may be others. I can't recall. I mean, obviously, other, you know, parties on the roadshow. I mean, there were other -- all kinds of people you come in contact with in that context.

Q. Did you ever speak to any of Sunbeam's customers?
A. I don't recall myself participating in those calls or any calls like that.
Q. Do you know of anyone who did?
A. I don't specifically recall, you know, when that happened, how that happened, whether that happened. I just -- I can't remember.
Q. Okay. Now, referring to the work that you did in executing the finance plan, you worked, among others, with the Client Services Group?
A. Correct.
Q. You worked with Mr. Tyree?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you work with Mr. Groeller? I'm referring to the players listed on page 4679.
A. Again, in looking at the names, yeah, I'm sure I did.
Q. Do you remember conversations or meetings with Mr. Groeller?
A. Generally I would -- yeah, I remember the names rings a bell. But, again, six years after the fact, I couldn't tell you --

Page 60

Q. Did you spend --
A. -- when specifically.
Q. -- more time working with Mr. Tyree or Mr. Groeller?
A. With Mr. Tyree.
Q. There are two analysts listed, Ms. Boone and Mr. Derito. Did you work with them?
A. Yes.
Q. And the managing director, Mr. Wright?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you work with him?
A. Yep.
Q. How was it that your involvement in this project was -- let me withdraw that.
How were your responsibilities allocated with members of other groups such as the Client Services Group or the bank group?
A. My responsibilities were to assist the team in general, much as the coverage function does in executing a transaction, meaning, you know, there are lots of roles to be played, there are lots of things to be done, including taking the client on the roadshow, which is something generally done by the coverage team on a transaction.

016856

And in this instance, you know, Bill added me to the team to assist in that function.
Q. By the coverage team, do you mean what's referenced here as the Client Services Group?
A. No, I would say that would be more accurately defined as the corporate finance function, which would have been Bill and myself.
Q. Bill Strong?
A. Bill Strong.
Q. Okay. So, you were assigned to take the client on the roadshow?
MR. CLARE: You have to answer verbally so the Court Reporter can take it down.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. Yeah. In addition to preparing for, you know, sort of participating in the preparation for the financing in general. But certainly one of the responsibilities was to accompany the client on the roadshow.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. You referred to this being a team effort. Was there a captain of the team, someone in charge?
A. Again, I think given the collection of senior members of the team, it was really a collaboration of, you know, a number of those senior members.

So, while I wouldn't say any one person was the, quote, "team captain," there was probably a committee of senior -- senior team members here that were leading the transaction and as a result were, you know, participating in a lot of these discussions and stages of the process along the way.
Q. On the particular matters that you worked on, were you assigned to those by Mr. Strong?
A. When you say assigned to -- assigned to -- what do you mean "assigned to"?
Q. For example, when you were asked to work in assembling the documents used internally to get approvals for the deal, was that something Mr. Strong asked you to do?
A. Well, I -- it wouldn't be explicit. I mean, having worked on a number of these transactions prior to this, I know what's involved, what roles I played in the past, what roles get played by the various parties, how we worked together.

So, it -- it wouldn't have required an explicit sort of direction, you will do this, this, this and nothing more. It was you're going to join the team and help with various aspects of what was going on.
Q. Did the team have regular team meetings?
A. Not that I recall, anything sort of formally on the calendar or a weekly basis, I don't recall having meetings like that.
Q. Did it meet occasionally?
A. I would say various subsets of the team were meeting regularly, discussing things regularly on the phone, in person. In my case, a lot by phone because I was in Chicago.
Q. During the time period that you worked on this project, basically March of '98 and then some follow-on work, what percentage of your time was spent on the Morgan Stanley engagement?
MR. CLARE: Objection to form. I think you misspoke. Sunbeam engagement?
MR. BRODY: Yes, on the Sunbeam engagement. Thank you, Tom.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I would say during that time frame I spent, and while I can't tell you what percentage it is and don't specifically recall what else was going on at the time, I know I had other projects that would have been taking place at the same time.

I spent a fair amount of time involved in this, and then certainly when I was on the roadshow with the client was out of pocket for ostensibly the whole roadshow process.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Okay.
A. So, it was -- it was an intensive process.
Q. You said you spent a fair amount of time. More than 50 percent of your time?
A. I would say on certain days, certain weeks, yes.
Q. Aside from the roadshow when it was 100 percent of your time, on other days did you spend more than 50 percent of your time on this project?
A. Well, certainly when there was a meeting somewhere that I needed to attend or if I was spending a lot of time either assisting or reviewing the document or iterating on a document with the team in New York, yes.
Q. Okay. Let's take a step back and talk about some of the particular things that you did. We've talked about due diligence, and I'd like to focus on the due diligence work done by you --

016857

A. Okay.

Q. -- and by others at Morgan Stanley.

Do you know what investigation Morgan Stanley did into the prior work at Scott Paper by Mr. Dunlap?

A. I do not know.

Q. You didn't work in that area?

A. I didn't. I did not work on that.

Q. And in connection with the work you did to get up to speed on the transaction, you didn't review any materials about Scott Paper?

A. No -- I don't have any specific recollection of looking at papers like that. I, you know, knew generally that that was something he had been involved in and had heard it from various people at various points along the way but never did an in-depth review of that.

Q. In connection with the work that you did at Morgan Stanley, did you ever hear anyone speak about whether the Scott Paper turnaround was successful, was not successful, was real, was illusory?

Page 66

MR. CLARE: Object to the form.

BY THE WITNESS:

A. I don't recall what specific conversations or comments were made by people on that specific topic.

BY MR. BRODY:

Q. You participated in the roadshow and Mr. Dunlap was on the roadshow?

A. Correct.

Q. Prior to the roadshow had you had any dealings with Mr. Dunlap?

A. No.

Q. Did you have any knowledge --

A. Well, aside from whatever participation there was in, you know, the meetings that took place prior to the roadshow.

Q. The preparatory meetings?

A. The preparatory, you know, meetings that we might have had with the company or had with the company in advance of the roadshow.

Q. Concerning the roadshow?

A. Well, concerning the financing.

Q. Okay. Prior to your being involved in this transaction had you ever done any work with Mr. Dunlap?

Page 67

A. No.

Q. Do you know if -- did Mr. Dunlap have a reputation for a particular type of business style?

MR. CLARE: Objection to form.

BY THE WITNESS:

A. I mean, I think he -- he was viewed as a -- he was certainly a high-profile personality.

BY MR. BRODY:

Q. At the time had you heard him referred to as "Chainsaw Al"?

A. Yes.

Q. Had he been described to you as someone who was difficult to deal with?

A. He had been described again as a, you know, a strong personality and he may have been described as, in one conversation or another, as, you know, potentially difficult.

Q. Did you have any understanding of what his reputation was for dealing with co-workers or other people in his companies?

A. Not specifically.

Q. Do you know if anyone at Morgan Stanley looked into that, looked into Mr. Dunlap's style and its effect on dealing with others in the company?

Page 68

MR. CLARE: Object to foundation.

You can answer.

BY THE WITNESS:

A. I don't know. I don't know to what degree, but I -- you know, the team obviously spent a lot of time working with him. So...

BY MR. BRODY:

Q. Did you do any investigation as part of due diligence into how Sunbeam developed its financial targets through the budgeting process?

A. I recall generally -- I mean, obviously, as part of this process there would have been a number of discussions about the business and the forecasts for the business. I don't specifically recall all the conversations that we had. But we would have had and I would have participated in conversations on that topic.

Q. So, you participated in conversations where the business' forecasts were brought to your attention?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you know if anyone at Morgan Stanley did any work into how those forecasts were derived?

A. I can't comment on what the collective group did, but I know that we did a lot of work to understand those forecasts. Much of that work certainly was done in the context of the M & A process, in testing the projections and what those projections were going to look like. So, yes.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. Do you know who did that work?
A. Again, a collective effort. I couldn't tell you who specifically on the team was responsible for any one piece of that.
Q. Okay. Do you know if any -- can you tell me who on the team looked into Sunbeam's development of its budget for 1998?
A. I don't recall who specifically, and I wouldn't say that any one person was necessarily tasked with that specific task to understand. That was something that a broad range of participants in the execution of the transaction team would have been involved in, whether it was the bank team understanding, you know, what that forecast looked like, the financing team, the M & A team, you know, all members of the team.
Q. But that's not an analysis you performed?
A. I don't specifically recall focusing on that analysis.
Q. Sunbeam had various earnings per share targets. Are you aware of those?

Page 70

A. I certainly can't recall them.
Q. I'm not asking you to recall what the numbers were, but you're aware that Sunbeam did have targets for earnings per share?
A. I would -- I would expect that they would have, yes.
Q. Do you know who at Morgan Stanley, if anyone, looked into how those targets were developed or derived?
A. Again, I think that would have been a collective process across the team.
Q. But as you sit here you can't tell me who I should talk to to determine how that was done?
A. I wouldn't be able -- I just don't recall who specifically had more or less of a role in that.
Q. Now, you've testified that you believe that Morgan Stanley did a lot of work regarding its forecasts, regarding Sunbeam's forecasts. What's the basis for that?
A. That as a part of this process, we are thorough in trying to understand the basis for the projections that the company has presented so that we can be comfortable with them and that -- it's principally for that reason.

Q. Okay.
A. Again, that's a comment I'd make sort of in general. But I -- I can't recall all the steps that were taken in the case of this transaction.
Q. Okay. So, is it correct to summarize that your testimony is based on your understanding of what Morgan Stanley typically does in a transaction?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. And typically in a transaction Morgan Stanley understands the company's budgeting process and the company's projections and the assumptions underlying them?
A. Yes.
Q. That's something that Morgan Stanley typically looks into?
A. Yeah, and I would say we -- we do that by having conversations with the company, upon whom we rely very heavily for the information they provide us, and the accountants and really sort of the team in its entirety to get an understanding of how those numbers have been put together and on what basis and -- and what they represent.

Page 72

Q. Now, are you aware that Sunbeam was describing itself as a turnaround success story?
A. Generally.
Q. And you're aware that after Mr. Dunlap came in, Sunbeam's fortunes were reported to have improved?
MR. CLARE: Object to the form.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't specifically recall sort of how -- how everything was being cast at the time.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Do you know what investigation or due diligence Morgan Stanley did into Sunbeam's turnaround story?
A. Again, I don't have any specific recollection of all the conversations and how those conversations focused.
Q. Okay. Are you familiar with an issue in Sunbeam's accounting and its financial reporting relating to bill and hold transactions?
A. I remember a reference to the terminology, but -- but nothing beyond that in terms of how big an issue it might have been. I just don't -- don't recall.
Q. Do you personally recall

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016856

participating -- let me withdraw that.
Do you personally recall participating in any trans -- in any discussions about bill and hold accounting at Sunbeam?
A. I don't recall any specific discussions, and I also don't recall it ever being raised as an issue of particular concern.
Q. Do you recall participating in any discussions with Morgan Stanley people, Sunbeam people or anyone else about whether Sunbeam had accelerated sales from one quarter or one year into a prior period in order to meet financial targets?
A. I don't -- again, my recollection of, you know, the conversations about, you know, topics like that are very vague.
I do recall some aspects of that being discussed, and I don't remember in what context and with whom. But, again, I don't -- I specifically recall that none of these issues appeared problematic.
Q. What do you recall being discussed about whether sales had been accelerated from one period into another in order to meet targets?
A. Well, I don't know that it was ever construed to be for that reason.

Page 74

Q. Okay.
A. And I don't recall in what context it was discussed. But I do recall, you know, discussions about certain, you know, selling practices I guess. But, again, not in any manner that had appeared problematic.
Q. Aside from the fact that selling practices were discussed, do you remember what was discussed in words or in substance about them?
A. I don't. And, again, that would have been in the normal context of understanding how they deal with their customers and how they do business.
Q. In the due diligence that you were aware of, did Morgan Stanley retain any experts or consultants to advise it on Sunbeam's business or the industry?
A. Not that I'm aware of, but that doesn't mean that it didn't happen without my knowledge.
Q. I understand. And are you aware of any person on the Sunbeam team, the Morgan Stanley team for Sunbeam, that had particular knowledge or experience in Sunbeam's consumer product area?
A. I don't know what the back -- what the specific background or experience of all the members of the team is. So, I can't -- I can't comment on that.

Q. We talked some about Mr. Dunlap, and you're aware that Mr. Dunlap wrote a book called "Mean Business"?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Have you read that book?
A. I have. I did.
Q. Did you read it at the time you were working on this engagement?
A. I did.
Q. Why?
A. Because I was -- I was alerted that he would have a particular interest in whether I had or not.
Q. He'd like to know that you had read it?
A. He'd like to know that I had read his book.
Q. Do you know if other people read the book, other people on the team read the book?
A. I don't recall who specifically did, but I'm sure that others did.
Q. Do you remember --
A. Or had.
Q. Do you remember giving the book to others, passing it out?

Page 76

A. Yeah. As a matter of fact, he -- he liked to pass them out at roadshows, at the roadshow.
Q. Do you remember if you passed them out at the roadshow?
A. Whether I physically passed them out?
Q. No, whether you got some in order to pass them out.
A. Yeah, we had -- we had books that we were using, you know, that were being passed out. That he was passing out. I mean, I wasn't really -- wasn't -- it wasn't my book.
Q. Okay.
MR. BRODY: Let's mark this 126. This is going to be 126, Tom.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked CPH Exhibit No. 126, for identification, as of 1/22/04.)
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Mr. Savarie, I've given you what's been marked as CPH 126. Do you recognize this as an expense report you prepared for the period February 13 it appears through March 19 --
A. Yeah.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 77

Q. -- of 1998?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. There are certain things I'm going to ask you about on here --
A. Sure.
Q. -- more just to refresh your recollection about when certain things happened.
But I'm like to turn you to a particular page, direct your attention to page, it appears to be 5558 at the bottom, bottom right; and then the following page, 5559.
Item referenced 17, 18 and 22 are receipts for the purchase of "Mean Business," Mr. Dunlap's book?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Do you know why you purchased so many copies of his book?
A. And I think at some point during the process we had run out.
Q. And, so, these were to use at the roadshow to hand to people at the roadshow?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. You can put that aside for now.
In response to a prior question about due diligence, I believe you indicated that you had conversations with accountants?

A. (Nodding head.)
Q. You recall that the accountants for Sunbeam were from Arthur Andersen?
A. I do recall that.
Q. What individuals do you recall discussing Sunbeam with from Arthur Andersen?
A. I don't -- I don't remember all the names.
Q. Do you remember any of the names?
A. I'm sure if I looked at a list, I could probably, you know, point to some of the names I do recall.
Q. Well, I'm going to direct you to a list, because I believe Arthur Andersen is on the working group list. If you turn to Exhibit 125, pages 4694 and 95.
Any of those names refresh your recollection of who you spoke with?
A. I remember the last name there, Larry Bornstein.
Q. Okay.
A. And vaguely Phil Harlow, but vaguely.
Q. And on the following page there are some people from Arthur Andersen's office in Miami. Do you remember discussing this matter with them?

A. I don't remember those names.
Q. Do you remember a Mr. Pruitt?
A. No.
Q. Mr. Pastrana?
A. No.
Q. Mr. Denkhaus?
A. No.
Q. What do you remember about your conversations with Mr. Harlow, if anything?
A. I don't remember the specifics of the conversations I had with these guys other than participating in some scheduled calls that we had with the accountants and the ongoing discussions that would have taken place at drafting sessions and other discussions about the business and the company and the transactions along the way.
But I couldn't tell you who was on any one of those calls or what specifically was discussed.
Q. Okay.
A. Now, having -- having trouble with six years in the --
Q. I understand.
A. -- of time passing.

Page 80

Q. I'm only asking you for your recollection, sir.
A. Yeah.
Q. You indicated you attended drafting sessions. Do you remember people from Arthur Andersen being present at drafting sessions?
A. I don't remember -- in some cases they may have been there and in other cases not. I couldn't tell you definitively whether they were or not.
Q. Okay. But as you sit here do you remember any conversations with Andersen people at drafting sessions?
A. I don't specifically remember discussions with them.
Q. Do you remember them generally?
A. I would expect to have had them, but I can't recall them specifically.
Q. Okay. And as for the scheduled calls, what scheduled calls do you remember?
A. Well, as -- as a part of our process, in addition to all the diligence that we do in the -- in the process of reviewing drafts of the documents and discussing the transaction in general, we also try to schedule a call with the accountants to review items that we feel either require further review or have not been reviewed in the context of the other discussions we've had with them. It's a fairly customary practice for the underwriters to have such a call.

16861

Q. Aside from the custom that Morgan Stanley typically followed, do you remember any particular conversations with the accountants, what you discussed or when?

A. I don't.

Q. In the discussions with the accountants, do you remember any conversations about Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 performance?

A. I don't. I don't specifically recall that topic.

MR. BRODY: Why don't we take a few minutes, Tom.

MR. CLARE: Okay.

MR. BRODY: We have been going for a while.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We are going off the video record at the end of Tape No. 1 at 11:02 a.m.

(WHEREUPON, a recess was had from 11:02 to 11:11 a.m.)

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We are going back on the video record at the start of Tape 2 at 11:11 a.m.

Page 82

BY MR. BRODY:

Q. Mr. Savarie, I'd like to return to the issue of due diligence.

What do you know, if anything, was done to preserve, that is, to keep in written form or some other recorded form, a record of the due diligence done by Morgan Stanley of Sunbeam?

A. I don't know what was kept by various members of the team at various points in the process.

Q. Was anything kept showing the due diligence done by you, to your knowledge?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you know --

A. Other than, you know, outlines that may have been used as a guide for some of the conversations or an outline to prompt certain topics to be discussed.

Q. Aside from outlines prompting topics to be discussed, are you aware of anything that was kept to reflect what actually was discussed, what the back-and-forth was?

A. Not that I'm aware of. Again, I only know what I may have kept and don't know what others kept.

Page 83

Q. Was there a person at Morgan Stanley designated as the contact person or responsible person for preserving what was done or what was not done in due diligence?

A. Not that I'm aware of.

Q. Do you know if Morgan Stanley when you were there had a system for filing and preserving records of due diligence that had been performed?

A. Again, I don't know what records were kept by various members of the team or whether within -- I was not aware of a policy.

Q. Okay. If any notes were made by you, do you know if those notes remain?

A. I don't know.

Q. At the time you left the company, what did you do with your files?

A. There -- I didn't take any files. I'm expressly prohibited from taking anything with me. So, I didn't take anything with me.

Q. I understand that. But whatever were files that you had created just remained there when you walked out the door?

A. No idea.

Q. You don't remember giving them to a particular person?

Page 84

A. No.

Q. At the time you were at Morgan Stanley where was your office in Chicago? Where was your Chicago office, what building?

A. It's in the same building it is now, 440 South LaSalle I think.

Q. During the tenure -- your tenure at Morgan Stanley, did you ever move from that location to another one?

A. No. That was where the office was the whole time. In Chicago.

Q. The same floor?

A. Yes.

Q. You may have answered this, but do you have any understanding of what Morgan Stanley's policy was in 1997-'98 about preserving records of due diligence?

A. I don't.

Q. Did you ever receive any training at Morgan Stanley on how to do due diligence?

A. What I recall are, you know, general and the nature of the business is to get -- have general training; but most of what you learn, you learn from other members of the team on prior transactions as a junior banker and in conducting diligence or continuously getting guidance from other members, other senior members of the team.

016862

Q. You referred to general training. In connection with whatever general training there was, do you remember due diligence being discussed or addressed?
A. I mean, again, I couldn't specifically tell you how it was addressed or in what context but other than to say that due diligence was clearly identified as an important part of a -- any transaction that you're involved in.
Q. Do you remember any manuals or procedures or guidelines for doing due diligence in a transaction?
A. I remember sort of -- I am generally aware of them, but I don't recall, you know, when I may have reviewed them in the past.
Q. What do you remember being aware of for Morgan Stanley?
A. Just that one existed.
Q. Do you know where it was kept?
A. No
Q. Okay.
A. I mean, again, there are copies of those documents. I mean, it -- I don't know what -- when you say where is it kept, what do you mean by where is it kept?

Q. In the Chicago office, for example, was there a repository for that sort of thing?
A. I think you probably could have found it in any number of people's offices on their shelf.
Q. Okay. Do you know what it was called?
A. I don't.
Q. Let me show you what's previously been marked as Exhibit 29.
And I'll state for the record -- Mr. Clare has heard this speech before -- that this is an excerpt from a larger document produced by Morgan Stanley and not necessarily continuous pages.
Do you recognize this as a portion of a manual prepared by Morgan Stanley relating to how to do a deal?
A. Yes.
Q. Had you seen this before?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did you see this at the time you were at Morgan Stanley?
A. Yes.
Q. Does this describe -- let me withdraw

that.
In what connection did you see this?
A. Probably on one of the initial transactions that I worked on, I reviewed it.
Q. And did this manual assist you in teaching you how to do due diligence?
A. Yes.
Q. If you turn -- as I said, this is not a continuously numbered document; but if you turn towards the end, there's a section that begins with page 80766, and it's a memorandum written by some lawyers, which is a portion of the manual that Morgan Stanley produced to us.
I was just wondering if that's part of the document that you remember seeing?
A. I don't recall seeing this portion of the document, if this is a portion of that document.
Q. Well, I -- it was produced to us as -- in conjunction with something else. It may not have been in that manner when you saw it.
Let me show you one additional document, sir, which has previously been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 5 or CPH Exhibit 5 and ask if that's a document you had seen before.

Page 88

A. I am not certain if I have seen this particular document.
Q. Okay. Well, then, you can put that one aside.
In connection with -- some of these I'm going to ask you, sir, I think I may have asked you portions of before and I apologize for repeating them.
But in connection with the work that Morgan Stanley did in due diligence in this matter, are you aware of any customers of Morgan Stanley that were contacted -- let me withdraw -- any customers of Sunbeam that Morgan Stanley contacted in its due diligence process?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Do you know if Morgan Stanley spoke to any commercial banks that lent money to Sunbeam prior to the deal?
A. I don't know that either. There are obviously other banks involved in the financing process, but I don't know whether they had been prior lenders or not to the company.
Q. Do you know if anyone at Morgan Stanley spoke with suppliers to Sunbeam, the companies that supplied it with goods or raw materials?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 89

A. Again, I don't recall whether those conversations took place or, if so, who had them.
Q. In the scheduled calls that you referred to with the auditors, did Morgan Stanley use a checklist of items to go over?
A. As I recall, and would be customary, we had a list of topics that is not necessarily intended to be all inclusive or comprehensive, but items that from a variety of people that contribute to a list like that are items to raise on a call.
But it's not a -- it's not a rigorous outline and one that, you know, couldn't be departed from during the course of the conversation and one that ultimately is intended to prompt the accountants to discuss the items that we think would be relevant and is oftentimes, you know, concluded by asking a question about whether there's anything else that we haven't asked or haven't discussed either on that call or otherwise that we need to be aware of.
Q. Do you recall in discussions with the auditors or with Sunbeam any conversations about the accuracy of Sunbeam's first quarter projections?
A. I don't recall any specific discussion of that.

Q. Okay. Now, Mr. Savarie, do you remember attending a due diligence session at Sunbeam's headquarters in Florida? I think you believe you --
A. I believe so. I think it was one of the first instances -- the first meetings I had with the company.
Q. And if you look at the document we've marked as Exhibit 126, your expense report, it's referenced on the first page but also referenced on page bearing the Bates No. 5554, a receipt for a hotel stay at the Ritz-Carlton in Palm Beach.
Do you see that?
A. That sounds right, yeah.
Q. So, you appeared to have traveled to Florida on or about the 4th of March?
A. Yeah.
Q. You stayed over one night?
A. Sounds right.
Q. Okay. Do you remember if that was a one-day meeting or a two-day meeting?
A. I don't remember specifically. I vaguely recall that it may have been a two-day meeting or there may have been some portion of it that spilled over into a second day.

Q. Aside from that visit to Florida, do you remember any other visits to Florida?
A. I don't specifically, but I -- I don't specifically recall whether I made another trip or not.
Q. If you did make another trip prior to the 19th of March of 1998, it would be on this expense report, wouldn't it?
A. It -- again, I don't know. Probably would be unless there were some reason that I didn't have the receipts or didn't include it. But...
Q. But as you sit here --
A. It ought to be.
Q. As you look at that report you don't see a second Florida trip on there, do you?
A. No.
Q. What do you remember about that visit to Florida in March of 1998?
A. I remember it being a large meeting that included all of the representatives as I recall from a lot of the participants in the financing, to include Morgan Stanley, other banks. I don't recall who from management, although I am certain the company was there. But whether accountants and lawyers were there, I don't -- I don't recall.

Q. Do you remember the substance of any conversations during that meeting?
A. I don't. I mean, I remember it being a very broad and high level review.
Q. Was it a broad and high level review of the financing transaction?
A. I would -- what I recall, which is not very clear, is that that was the topic being discussed. But whether it was a lot of time spent on the financing itself or the structure or the company, I don't recall.
Q. Do you remember who from Morgan Stanley was there?
A. I don't specifically. I mean, I -- I know that who logically from our team might have been there, but I don't know. I couldn't tell you who specifically was there.
Q. Referring to the people at the company, do you know if Mr. Dunlap participated?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Or Mr. Kersh?
A. I don't recall specifically. Again, I don't recall who specifically was there from the company or whether they stepped in for some portion of it and out for the rest. I just don't recall.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. Do you remember at that time that Sunbeam had a series of operating businesses or divisions?
A. It --
Q. For example, it had its outdoor cooking business and its health and home business; it had a variety of business lines?
A. I do recall that.
Q. Do you know how the management of those business lines was set up, do you remember?
A. I don't specifically recall, you know, how their management structure was set up around their business units.
Q. At the meeting you attended in March, that visit you were there on the night of the 4th, do you know if anyone from any of those operating businesses participated in the meeting?
A. Again, because I don't recall who from management was there, I can't -- can't tell you.
Q. Do you remember ever discussing the operations of Sunbeam with its internal audit people?
A. Ask that question again.

Page 94

Q. With its internal audit staff, the company's internal auditors.
A. Were they in attendance at this meeting?
Q. This meeting or any other.
A. I don't specifically recall.
Q. Now, at the meeting you attended in January -- excuse me -- in March, do you know if Sunbeam's January or February sales were discussed at all?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Aside from that visit, which I've referenced from the expense report, as you sit here do you remember any other face-to-face meeting you had in Florida with Sunbeam people?
A. I still don't remember any specific meetings.
Q. Okay. Let's talk a little more about meetings with Arthur Andersen. And you've identified a scheduled call, I believe you described it?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. As you sit here, do you remember more than one scheduled call?
A. I don't.
Q. Okay. Let me show you what we've previously marked, sir, as Exhibit 31.

Have you ever seen this before?
A. Yes.
Q. Prior to your preparation session had you seen this document?
A. I believe so.
Q. It shows that it was sent on March 7 to the Sunbeam financing team. At that time you were a member of the Sunbeam financing team?
A. Yes.
Q. And it -- the memo refers to an accounting due diligence conference call set for March 12, 1998, starting at 11:30, continuing to 1:00?
A. Yes.
Q. And it refers to four separate 30-minute sessions with each company's auditors?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Do you understand what four companies are being referenced here?
A. Yes.
Q. What four companies are?
A. The company and the three acquisitions that were involved.
Q. So, this conference call, accounting due diligence conference call, allotted 30 minutes to Arthur Andersen for Sunbeam and then 30 minutes for the auditors for Coleman, Signature Brands and First Alert, is that correct?

A. Yeah, at least as scheduled, yes.
Q. Do you have a recollection of the call taking more than the allotted time?
A. I don't specifically recall how long it took.
Q. Do you --
A. Or, for that matter, whether it actually happened that day. But I don't remember whether it fell under the allotted time or not.
Q. Sure. As you earlier testified, there -- you referred to a scheduled call. Is this one such scheduled call?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember other scheduled calls with the auditors besides this one?
A. I don't remember any other specifically scheduled calls.
Q. Do you remember who participated in this call -- let me withdraw that.
I'm going to focus on the portion of the call in which Arthur Andersen was on the line --

P-16865

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 97

A. Okay.
Q. -- as Sunbeam's auditors.
Do you remember who participated in the call either on behalf of Morgan Stanley, Sunbeam or Arthur Andersen?
A. I don't specifically recall.
Q. You did, is that right?
A. I did.
Q. Do you know if Mr. Tyree participated?
A. I don't know whether he participated in all of them or a portion of them.
Q. Do you know if the auditors were told in advance what they'd be asked on the call?
A. I recall that a list of, you know, topics to guide the conversation may have been prepared.
Q. Was that provided --
A. And I'm not sure that -- I'm not sure if that was for one or all of these calls.
Q. In the instance in which a list of topics was prepared, would it be sent to the auditors before the call?
A. In this instance I don't know specifically, but that would be typical.
Q. Okay. But you don't recall here specifically?

Page 98

A. I --
Q. Is that correct?
A. Yeah.
Q. Okay. As you sit here, do you remember any discussion in that call about Sunbeam's first quarter performance?
A. I don't. And nor do I recollect -- recall, you know, any of the detailed items that may have been discussed on these calls six years ago.
Q. Okay. Well, that was going to be my next question, but let me see if I can refresh your recollection, sir, by giving you what's been previously marked as Exhibit 32.
Next question -- and I will just state for the record Exhibit 32 appears to be the following pages of the fax. If you look at the fax tag line, they appear to be pages 3 and 4 of the same fax that Exhibit 31 is page 2 of. Do you agree?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you understand Exhibit 32 to reflect the accounting due diligence issues discussed in the conference call?

Page 99

A. I do, in reviewing this document, recall that this was a list prepared to guide the conversation but not necessarily a reflection of all the topics discussed on the call.
Q. As you sit here and using Exhibits 31 and 32 to refresh your recollection, if indeed they do, do you recall now anything that was discussed in the conference call with the auditors?
A. Nothing in particular.
Q. Do you know who wrote the questions that are in Exhibit 32?
A. I don't recall specifically who on the team prepared this.
Q. Did you?
A. I don't recall having done it myself. I may well have contributed to it in conversations with other team members, but I don't specifically recall it.
Q. In 1998 did you create documents, Word Perfect -- word processing documents?
A. I would suspect I did create some.
Q. Did you -- did you type your own or did other people do them for you, some of each?
A. Probably very few done myself. And whether I prepared them or whether someone in

Page 100

New York prepared them, I mean, I can't recall.
Q. Do you know if at the time Morgan Stanley's document management system for documents saved on its computers were networked so that people in New York and people in Chicago could access the same documents?
A. I don't recall. I -- I don't recall.
Q. That's not something you have a recollection of?
A. Again, I was a user, not a technician.
Q. I understand. In the conference call held on March 12, if indeed it was held on the date indicated in the memorandum, did you speak?
A. I'm sure that I did.
Q. Do you have a recollection of anything that you asked or said in that call?
A. No.
Q. And do you have a recollection of anything that the Arthur Andersen auditors for Sunbeam said or asked in that call?
A. No.
Q. Do you remember if bill and hold accounting practices were addressed in that call?
A. I don't know if they were specifically addressed in this call.

Page 101

Q. Do you remember if you took any notes of the call?
A. I don't.
Q. Item 8 on the list of questions is:
"How aggressive is the company in its accounting policies?"
Do you remember any discussions about that?
A. I don't, but it is a question that we regularly ask in the context of a call like this. And, certainly, if you get an answer that causes concern, it's something that would be either cause for further discussion or brought to someone's attention.
Q. But --
A. And I don't recall any -- any such concern being raised on any of these calls.
Q. Okay. But nor do you recall what was said or what was not said?
A. But I don't recall having participated in them and been troubled by what was discussed.
Q. Item 18:
"Anything not asked that should have been asked?"
Do you recall if -- specifically as you sit here, do you recall if that question was asked or not?

A. I don't specifically, but I know that that is a common practice, to make sure that to the extent this list is not inclusive or not all-inclusive and nor is it intended to be all-inclusive, that that provides the accountants an opportunity to raise issues that might not otherwise have been discussed.
Q. Returning to Question 8, the how aggressive is the company in its accounting practices -- policies, do you recall ever receiving an answer to that on a scale of 1 to 10?
A. No. I mean, I don't specifically. I mean, that question could be asked in lots of different ways and I don't specifically recall that.
MR. BRODY: Please mark this as 127.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked CPH Exhibit No. 127, for identification, as of 1/22/04.)
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Mr. Savarie, I've given you what's been marked as CPH Exhibit 127. Have you ever seen that before?

Page 103

A. Yes.
Q. When did you see it?
A. Yesterday.
Q. Prior to yesterday had you ever seen it before?
A. No.
Q. Do you understand this is a memorandum of -- written by Mr. Bornstein of the call that's referenced in Exhibits 31 and 32?
A. Say that again. Sorry.
Q. Do you understand that what we've marked as Exhibit 127 is Mr. Bornstein's memorandum referencing the call that was marked -- that is described in paragraph -- in the documents marked as Exhibits 31 and 32?
A. Yes, I do understand that. I have not reviewed the memo in its entirety. But --
Q. Okay.
A. -- that's what I understand it to be, yes.
Q. Please review the second paragraph of the letter and just tell me when you -- or the memorandum and tell me when you've had a chance to do it.
A. Okay.

Page 104

Okay. I've read it.
Q. Does that refresh your recollection as to who participated in the call?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you recall that Mr. Harlow and Mr. Bornstein were both on the call?
A. I don't recall, you know, who was doing the speaking at any point in time, but, again, they worked as a team. So, I'm not surprised to -- to know that they were both on the call.
Q. Do you recall Mr. Gluck being on the call?
A. I don't specifically recall that, but if -- you know, unless this is not an accurate depiction, he may well have been on the call.
Q. Is it customary to have a representative of the corporation on the call with the auditors?
MR. CLARE: Object to the form.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. The -- these calls obviously in each and every transaction, you know, are very different. Sometimes management participants. Sometimes they don't.
Q. More often than not, do they participate or not?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 105

A. I -- it's hard to say. I mean, I would say in some cases they don't and in some cases they do. It really depends on the circumstances.
Q. The paragraph continues that yourself and Mr. Tyree were participants in the call. Does this refresh your recollection that Mr. Tyree was on the call?
A. Yeah.
Q. And it also says Bob Lurie of Davis Polk was on the call. Do you know Mr. Lurie?
A. The name rings a bell. Again, you know, it won't have been -- it will have been six years since I have even seen the name. So. But it does.
Q. Do you know that Davis Polk represented Morgan Stanley in the deal?
A. Yes.
Q. Looking at the memorandum that's been marked as Exhibit 127, Item 8, which is on the second page, appears to correspond to Item 8 on the question list, how aggressive is the company in its accounting practices -- policies.
And in Exhibit 127 Mr. Bornstein writes:
"On a scale of 1 to 10 around a 5 or 6."
Does that refresh your recollection that that was the nature of the conversation?

Page 106

A. It does not remind me of having specifically had that discussion.
Q. Paragraph 3, which refers to whether there is anything peculiar to the company that is not generally the way the industry accounts for revenue recognition.
A. Which --
Q. I'm sorry. Let me take a step back.
I'm comparing the questions in Exhibit 32 to Mr. Bornstein's memo --
A. Okay.
Q. -- in Exhibit 127.
A. Okay.
Q. And 3-A on Exhibit 32 asks if there is anything peculiar to the company that's not generally the way the industry accounts for revenue recognition, to which Mr. Bornstein has written:
"As disclosed in the company's 10-K the company has engaged in a bill and hold policy reporting approximately 3 percent of gross sales."
Does that refresh your recollection of any discussion about bill and hold?

Page 107

A. Again, not -- not in specific reference to this call. It's -- it's been too long since I participated to remember specifically whether and how that was discussed.
Q. Mr. Bornstein's memorandum only goes up through 17. There is not a reference to the 18th question about anything not asked that should have been asked.
Does that refresh your recollection that, in fact, that issue was not addressed?
A. No. I mean, I -- I don't know how this was prepared or by whom or at what point. And as I indicated earlier, I don't know if that question was or was not asked but indicated that it would be customary to ask the accountants to identify any issue that had not been addressed that we should know about.
Q. I understand. We've now gone over some documents, sir, relating to a due diligence call in -- on March 12, 1998.
As you sit here, do you recall any other communications with the accountants about Sunbeam's accounting practices?
A. I don't specifically recall any further conversations that I was a part of. However, I can't comment on what conversations took place with other members of the team throughout the process.

Q. I understand. Okay. Now, putting the accountants behind for a while, did you ever attend any Board meetings of the Sunbeam Board?
A. No.
Q. Did you ever read any minutes of such meetings?
A. I don't recall.
Q. At the time you became involved in this transaction, in early March 1998, are you aware that the Board had already approved doing the transaction and the financing?
A. I don't know that I was ever specifically aware of precisely what had happened at the Board, and I don't remember whether I was aware of that or not.
Q. Okay. Mr. Savarie, did you participate in any due diligence of the acquisition targets starting with Coleman?
A. What I -- those calls that took place, my recollection is that I was on those calls with the accountants associated with those companies. But I was not involved in the diligence involved in the M & A process.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 109

Q. So, for example, you never visited Coleman's headquarters in Wichita?
A. I don't recall ever having visited any of the facilities for the other companies.
Q. And you said the -- let me withdraw that.
Who was involved in doing due diligence on those companies, to your knowledge?
A. I don't remember. I just don't remember who on the team would have been a part of that process or, for that matter, what that process entailed.
MR. BRODY: 128, please mark that as 128.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked CPH Exhibit No. 128, for identification, as of 1/22/04.)
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Mr. Savarie, I've given you what's been marked as Exhibit 128, a memorandum from Mr. Tyree and Ms. Boone dated March 9, 1998, with an attachment.
First, as you sit here, do you remember having seen that before?
A. I don't remember specifically, but I suspect, it having come to me, I did -- did see it.

Page 110

Q. Okay. We've seen a couple of these documents that have your name at the top of the list?
A. Yeah.
Q. Do you know why that is?
A. I don't.
Q. In terms of seniority, are you senior to the people whose names fall below yours?
A. No.
Q. Was there a custom at Morgan Stanley on how you put people on a memorandum like this?
A. No, other than, you know, perhaps having done one that way, he did all the rest that way or because he and I were spending as much time working together on this as we were, that I was the first name on the list.
Q. Mr. Freed is listed on the memorandum. Do you know who Mr. Freed was, Todd Freed?
A. That name doesn't ring a bell.
Q. Do you know Alan Dean?
A. Yes.
Q. Who's Alan Dean?
A. He was one of the guys from Davis Polk.
Q. And Jake Foley?
A. Jake Foley is a member of

Page 111

Morgan Stanley. As I recall, he was a high yield analyst at the time.
Q. Was it customary or unusual in your experience to include the company's lawyers in due diligence calls such as the one described in this memorandum?
A. Ask that question again. The company's lawyers?
Q. Yes. No. Thank you. That wasn't the question I intended to ask.
Was it unusual or customary to include Morgan Stanley's lawyers in conference calls such as the one described?
A. I think generally, while I can't remember the specifics for why we did or didn't include them here, that it would be customary.
Q. If I were to tell you that Mr. Freed was a lawyer at Skadden, Arps which represented Sunbeam in this transaction, does that refresh your recollection as to who he was?
A. Not particularly.
Q. Was it customary to include the company's lawyers, in this case, Sunbeam's lawyers, in due diligence calls conducted by Morgan Stanley?
A. Yes, and -- and the reason is that the lawyers are in the process of drafting relevant documents and as a result, information that may be covered in a call like this would be used in that.

Q. Do you remember participating in the call described in Exhibit 128?
A. I don't specifically remember participating in this call.
Q. And if you look at the second page, Item 3 refers to "Financial Forecast Review." Do you see that?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Do you remember any discussions with Coleman or First Alert or Signature Brands about its financial forecasts?
A. I don't.
Q. And do you personally recall any discussions that you participated in with Sunbeam about its financial forecasts?
A. I generally recall having participated in conversations like that, but cannot specifically recall the content or nature or timing of the specific conversation.
Q. The due diligence agenda that's attached here, do you know if that's something you drafted?
A. I don't recall who drafted it. And, again, I don't recall whether I did or didn't participate in this, this particular discussion, if it took place. I just -- I don't remember.

D 6869

Q. Okay. You can put that document aside.
In answering a question about that document, sir, you indicated that you were spending a lot of time working with Mr. Tyree or words to that effect?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. What projects did you and Mr. Tyree work on together, among the projects that you worked on on this deal?
A. On this transaction?
Q. Yes.
A. Well, he in his role, you know, was very central to our internal team in terms of preparation of all the relevant documents and -- and documents that were used internally, reviewing documents prepared by the attorneys, really all the relevant steps in the execution of the transaction.
And given my role in assisting him as a team member in various parts of that transaction execution, he and I worked fairly closely together. More so on certain pieces than others.
Q. Are you aware that Mr. Tyree went to the printer on this deal?

A. I don't -- I suspect he did at some point, but I don't know how many times or precisely when he was at the printer.
Q. Did you accompany him on any of the visits to the printer?
A. I don't recall having been to the printer on this particular transaction, although it's possible that I was at some point.
Q. Do you recall Mr. Tyree --
A. In other words, I don't even know whether the draft -- all the drafting sessions were there or in lawyers' offices or where they all. I just don't remember where they took place.
Q. And when you refer to "drafting sessions," it's drafting of the offering memorandum?
A. Yes.
Q. Did Mr. Tyree ever have any discussions with you about things that had happened at the financial printer?
A. I don't recall any specific conversations like that. But I -- you know, I suspect we did talk about some things that happened --

Page 115

Q. As you --
A. -- during the course of the execution. I mean, just, you know -- it's a fairly elaborate process to get those documents, you know, together. The lawyers do a lot of work drafting them. We review them. All kinds of items, you know, are discussed on a fairly continuous basis throughout this process.
Q. Do you remember anything that Mr. Tyree told you about what happened or didn't happen at the printer?
A. No.
Q. Okay. In describing the projects that you had worked on in connection with the deal, one of the things you said was that you assisted in assembling documents used internally, and I'd like to return to that.
What documents used internally were you referencing?
A. We prepare documents or a document that is used to brief the Equity Commitment Committee on the transaction that the firm is contemplating participating in. That would certainly be one of the documents.
Q. Any other documents for internal use that you prepared?

A. You know, there may well have been others that I, you know -- I think there is a similar document that would have been prepared for the bank process.
Q. Were you involved in that?
A. I don't recall to what degree or on what pieces, but I suspect I reviewed it at -- at some point in the process.
Q. Any other documents that you recall being involved in the preparation of for internal purposes?
A. No, not specifically.
Q. Now, you referred to the Equity Commitment Committee?
A. Right.
Q. What was the Equity Commitment Committee?
A. Well, that's an internal process to review the transactions that the firm is involved in and assess the firm's participation in them, and it's an audience of senior members of the firm.
Q. Is there physically a meeting or is it done by circulation of memoranda?
A. Depends on the circumstances. Sometimes

016870

there's a -- a meeting. In my case, not having been in New York, I don't know how frequently it was a meeting versus everybody just being on the phone. But I think oftentimes there was a nucleus of people in a room somewhere.

Q. Did you --

A. Likely in New York.

Q. Did you attend a meeting or participate in a phone call about a meeting at which the Equity Commitment Committee letter was discussed?

A. I don't recall whether I did or didn't end up participating in a call.

Q. What portion of the transaction did the Equity Commitment Committee have authority to review?

A. Well, in terms of having authority, I mean, it -- it was a committee focused on the equity issuance, meaning the convertible issuance, component of the transaction.

Q. Because the securities were convertible into stock, they had to be reviewed by the Equity Committee?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, prior to the presentation to the -- to the Equity Committee, had Morgan Stanley issued a "Highly Confident" letter?

A. I was not party to -- to all the steps and all the sort of letters that may or may not have been developed or issued. So, I -- I'm aware of that having happened but was not directly involved in that.

Q. Was the "Highly Confident" letter issued before you were involved?

A. I don't -- I don't recall when it was issued.

Q. Did you have anything to do with the issuance of the "Highly Confident" letter?

A. No.

Q. What is a "Highly Confident" letter?

A. Well, it is -- and I'm not that familiar with what a "Highly Confident" letter is and have never actually prepared one myself, but it is generally to provide a view on the financing in the context of a transaction.

Q. Before the company issues a "Highly Confident" letter does there need to be some internal approval?

A. I don't know. I don't know what -- what approvals were required for that.

Q. Do you know if there are any approvals that are required?

A. I don't know what they are specifically, but I suspect someone has to decide or approve it. But I don't know if it's a committee. I don't know if it's an individual. I don't know who it was or is --

Q. Okay.

A. -- at Morgan Stanley.

Q. Now, in order to do the financing that was done here, Morgan Stanley needed to get the approval of the Equity Commitment Committee?

A. Correct.

Q. And also the Leverage Finance Committee?

A. Well, and for different pieces of the transaction.

Q. Did any other committees have to weigh in on this, to your knowledge?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. And I believe you've testified that you participated in the drafting of the equity letter. Aside from your participation in the drafting, did you have any other involvement in obtaining the approval of the committee?

A. I don't -- I don't remember specifically what role or what pieces of the commitment committee memo I did or would have drafted. But in terms of seeking or receiving the approval, it is -- that is the process.

The process is compiling the memo and then a member of the team -- I can't remember who did it in this instance -- presents it to the committee, the committee having reviewed the memo, and then that meeting takes place to arrive at the approval.

Q. Okay. I'm just trying to figure out the pieces of this process you were involved in. You were involved in helping to put together the letter, the memorandum to the committee?

A. Again, without knowing specifically what I did, I suspect that I was. It would have been a natural portion of the process for me to be involved in.

Q. Do you remember anything else in that process you were involved in?

A. I mean, I think we've talked about some of them, some -- reviewing drafts of the offering memorandum, reviewing the company's roadshow materials and then, you know, assisting in scheduling and logistics and then ultimately participating, you know, accompanying the company on --

Q. The roadshow?
A. On the roadshow.
MR. BRODY: I'm going to mark this as Exhibit 128.
THE REPORTER: It should be 129.
MR. BRODY: It should be 129? Thank you.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked CPH Exhibit No. 129, for identification, as of 1/22/04.)
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Sir, I've given you what's been marked as Exhibit 129. This is the letter to the Equity Commitment Committee, is it not?
A. Um-hmm. It appears to be that, yes.
Q. Does it appear to be the final form of the document?
A. Without reviewing it in detail, I don't know; and even if I did, I wouldn't know. But it looks like it.
Q. Okay. And you're listed as one of the people it's from, is that correct?
A. That's correct.
Q. Now, if you look at this list, there are quite a few people that it's from, probably about 20 names there.

Page 122

A. Um-hmm.
Q. Were you one of the principal drafters of this letter?
A. Again, I don't recall to what degree I was the drafter. I suspect that I was. I certainly would have reviewed it and been cleaning it up; but it may have been, you know, aggregating pieces written by different members of the team.
As is evidenced here, the team that contributes to the production of a memo like this is very broad and includes a lot of the members of the team.
Q. Was there one member of the team who was primarily responsible for shepherding this document through and getting it finished?
A. I would say that that generally would fall into a combination of my and the CSG group, their sort of collective responsibility.
Q. So, the letter would be the collective responsibility of yourself and then the group headed by Mr. Wright?
A. Yeah. More from a -- from the standpoint of actually assembling it, putting it together. But it was likely the junior team there that put it through word processing.

Q. As you sit here can you identify any portion of this that you had anything to do with?
A. Not specifically.
Q. Okay. If you look at the beginning of the second page, there is a reference to the "Highly Confident" letter.
Why is that reference relevant to the approval being sought here?
A. I mean, I think that in the case of a transaction that involved as many different bits and pieces, that simply providing a comprehensive summary of what the transaction is and what has happened at this point is what's intended by the "Background" section.
Q. In the next paragraph, the first full paragraph on the second page of the document, there is some references to the roadshow, and we'll talk about the roadshow in a moment, but the references to investor conference calls. Do you see that?
A. Yeah.
Q. Did those investor conference calls take place?
A. I don't specifically recall, but, you know, they could easily have been sort of woven into the schedule at various points where we had time for them.

Q. And --
A. And it's an efficient way to reach investors beyond the people you can see face to face.
Q. As you sit here do you recall any investor conference calls in that time frame?
A. I don't specifically recall.
Q. Okay. Turn to page 4 of the document, ending in No. 516, and I refer in particular to the "Restructuring" paragraph.
The second sentence of that paragraph says:
"The restructuring portion of the plan has been substantially completed with only the final 'refinement' stage remaining."
Did you write that?
A. I don't recall who wrote that. I don't know who wrote that. I don't recall writing it.
Q. Okay. The next page, page 5 of the document, refers to "Pre-Acquisition Strategy/Goals."
Please read that to yourself.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 125

A. Okay.
Q. Do you remember where that information came from?
A. I don't.
Q. Do you remember who wrote that?
A. I don't.
Q. Do you remember what work, if any, Morgan Stanley did to look into whether those goals were achievable?
A. I don't specifically, no.
Q. Turn to page 7 of the document. There's a transaction timeline and there is some references to due diligence.
Did you create or write this transaction timeline?
A. I don't recall. I don't recall doing it myself and I don't recall who did.
Q. There's a reference at March 5 to the "Sunbeam Business Due Diligence," and I believe you've testified that you were present in Florida for some meetings about that time, is that right?
A. That makes sense, yeah.
Q. And then at March 10 there's reference to the "Target Due Diligence," and we looked at a document marked as Exhibit 128 that shows some conference calls with the "Target."

Did that appear to refer to the same thing?
A. I assume so. I don't remember specifically, but, yeah, I assume so.
Q. And then at March 12 there's a reference to "Accounting Due Diligence," and we've looked at documents showing an accounting due diligence call on that day, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Do you recall any other due diligence that was done within the time frame of this transaction?
A. Again, the diligence process is an ongoing, continuous process conducted by the whole team in the context of a wide variety of meetings that take place around a transaction like this. So, it is not isolated to one call or two calls.
Q. But in describing the transaction to the senior management of the company, those are the only entries you identified, correct?
A. I think they are highlighted. It doesn't mean that they are the only -- nor is it implied that that's the only diligence that's taken place here.

Page 127

I think clearly all of the work done in the context of the M & A process was used to build upon for purposes of the comprehensive due diligence conducted here.
Q. That's not described in the document, though, is it, sir?
A. No. Not specifically in this -- this transaction timeline.
Q. Turn to page 11 of the document, "Equity Valuation."
There's some financial numbers contained in that box for Sunbeam and for a pro forma Sunbeam. Do you know where those came from?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Was there someone on the team tasked with putting together a pro forma estimate of earnings for 1998 and 1999?
A. I'm sure that there were various members of the team working on it based on projections that the company had provided us and I'm sure some refinements. But I don't know who in particular did them or when or how.
Q. When you refer to refinements, you mean -- do you mean refinements performed by Morgan Stanley?

Page 128

A. Potentially. It may have been the case. I don't know. I don't remember.
Q. Now, on this same page, the third bullet point refers to "expected synergies." Do you see that?
A. Sorry. Say it.
Q. The third bullet point.
A. Okay.
Q. That begins, "The Company's current trading levels"?
A. Okay.
Q. And it refers to "expected synergies." Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know where that came from?
A. I don't recall. I suspect that that came from a combination of the -- the company, the work that had been done by the team in the context of the M & A transaction.
Q. But as you sit here you don't remember -- you don't know where that number came from?
A. No.
Q. Are you aware of work done on this transaction by Coopers & Lybrand?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016873

A. Not in a -- I mean, I vaguely recall them being involved. I can't recall in what role, though, other than I recall generally in some sort of a consulting capacity.
Q. Do you know what they consulted about?
A. I think it had more to do with the M & A transaction. But I just -- I don't remember.
Q. Okay. If you turn a couple of pages further, page 13 of the document, the third item refers to "Realizable Synergies of 150 Million From Combination." Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And it refers to 100 million from combination with Coleman, 28 million from combination with First Alert and 25 million from combination with Signature Brands.
Did I read that correctly?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know where those numbers came from?
A. I don't. Again, I -- I would suspect they came from the work done by the team or, for that matter, some of the discussions with the other companies involved in the transaction.
Q. You didn't participate in any of those companies --

A. No.
Q. Excuse me.
Transaction -- conversations --
A. No.
Q. -- with the other companies?
A. No.
Q. It continues to refer to substantial functional redundancies and cost savings.
Is this part of the document something that you created?
A. I don't recall creating this.
Q. Do you know who did?
A. I don't.
Q. Turn to page 16 of the document. Item 7 refers to "Potential Investor Concerns." Is that a section you wrote?
A. Which page are we on?
Q. Page 16 of the document. It ends with production number 528.
A. Okay.
MR. CLARE: VII.
THE WITNESS: Okay.
MR. CLARE: That's what threw me.
BY MR. BRODY:

Q. Is that a section that you wrote or edited?
A. Again, I don't recall what portions of the document I specifically wrote, but I would likely have reviewed this or contributed to it.
Q. Turn to the next page. Item 5 discusses synergies again. I'm going to ask you if that's something you recall writing or reviewing.
A. I don't recall specifically.
Q. Does that reference refresh your recollection of what Coopers & Lybrand had to do with the deal?
A. Yeah, it does.
Q. What do you now recall?
A. That they functioned in a consulting capacity in assessing the transaction -- transactions.
Q. And they were consulting to Sunbeam, is that correct?
A. Well, that's what it says here. I --
Q. I'm asking if you recall that.
A. I don't -- I don't recall how that arrangement was in place.
Q. Fair enough.
Further down in the same paragraph, it states:

"Sunbeam management has expressed a high degree of confidence in their ability to achieve the stated synergies of approximately 150 million by the end of 1999."
Do you remember those conversations with Sunbeam management?
A. I don't specifically.
Q. Do you believe that they would have happened otherwise this wouldn't have been put in there?
MR. CLARE: Objection; calls for speculation.
You can answer if you can.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I mean, yeah, you know, I think in general those are numbers that, you know, would likely have come from the company. And certainly a statement like that would not have been made were that not the case.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Okay. Two sentences further on, it says:
"They," and I believe this is again referring to Sunbeam management, "informed the Sunbeam Board of Directors that the synergies are likely to be in the 225 million to 275 million pre-tax range."

Do you remember any discussions in which those numbers were mentioned?

A. I don't specifically recall those numbers.

Q. Do you remember any discussions with anyone at Sunbeam in which Sunbeam people put forward their numbers for expected synergies?

A. Again, beyond a general recollection of synergies being discussed, I don't recall any specific conversations.

Q. Do you recall any discussions about synergies being proposed or discussed by people from Coleman?

A. I don't because I -- I did not participate in any conversations where that would have been discussed. Or don't recall it anyway.

Q. If you'd turn, sir, to page 21 of the document. It appears to be Bates stamped 533. There is some pro forma Sunbeam financials.

Do you have a recollection of who on the team put together these financials?

A. Not specifically. Again, I think a lot of this work being done in concert with the financing and M & A team, I don't know who on the team would have done this.

Q. Okay. Now, this document was -- the document we've marked as Exhibit 129, was submitted to the senior management of Morgan Stanley in order to obtain Morgan Stanley's approval to go forward with the deal, is that right?

MR. CLARE: I object to the form of the question. Vague as to "deal."

BY MR. BRODY:

Q. Go forward with the Rule 144A zero coupon convertible offering of $500 million. Is that correct?

A. Again, this was a document prepared to get an internal approval for us to participate as an underwriter on the transaction.

Q. And that internal approval came from senior management, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And the internal approval was in fact obtained, it was received?

Page 135

A. And my recollection was -- again, not recalling how this meeting took place, whether this was the only discussion or not, I don't know. I don't know if there was a follow-up to this, if there were open items. I just -- I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Well, that was going to be my next item.

Do you know if there were any follow-up or subsequent letters?

A. I don't know.

Q. Approval was eventually obtained for this transaction, was it not?

A. Presumably. We wouldn't have proceeded otherwise.

Q. And the transaction was closed, Morgan Stanley went forward with the deal?

MR. CLARE: Same objection. Vague as to "deal."

BY MR. BRODY:

Q. With the deal that's referenced in this memorandum.

MR. CLARE: The financing.

MR. BRODY: Yes.

MR. CLARE: Okay.

BY THE WITNESS:

Page 136

A. Ask the question again, then.

BY MR. BRODY:

Q. Morgan Stanley in fact went forward with the financing --

A. Yes.

Q. -- that's described here?

A. Yes.

Q. In the ordinary course of obtaining approval within the company, is there some other document submitted to senior management to obtain approval of the Equity Committee other than a document in the form that's been marked as Exhibit 129?

A. There may well be other documents that various members of the committee review. Some may have reviewed the offering memorandum. Others may -- in whatever draft form it existed at the time.

I don't know what else other people on the committee review in addition to this, but this is intended to summarize the transaction for that committee.

Q. Did you hear any reports or feedback to you of discussions from the committee, what was discussed at the committee level?

Q. This memorandum is for a $500 million transaction. Do you know if the transaction was closed as a $500 million transaction?
A. I don't remember if -- the transaction may have been upsized. I don't remember, though. I don't remember specific -- what the specific result was at the end of the transaction.
Q. Did you learn that the amount of public debt, the convertible offering, was increased and the bank debt was decreased before the transaction concluded?
A. I don't remember specifically.
Q. Okay. Do you know if Mr. Tyree attended either in person or on the telephone a meeting of the Equity Commitment Committee?
A. Again, I don't know who either -- who would normally attend or who on the distribution list actually attended it and don't recall if I did. So, I don't know if he did.
Q. Do you know if the Equity Commitment Committee has minutes or notes reflecting what's discussed before it?
A. I don't know.
Q. Now, let me show you an additional document, sir, see if you were involved in this one. It was previously marked as Exhibit 100.

You've had a chance to look at Exhibit 100?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. And that's a document entitled a selling memorandum, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And the selling memorandum is prepared by Morgan Stanley to assist its -- let me withdraw that.
What's the purpose of this document?
A. It is to provide a summary of the transaction for the sales force who is engaged in the marketing of the transaction.
Q. To Morgan Stanley's sales force?
A. To Morgan Stanley's sales force.
Q. So, in connection with its role as underwriter, Morgan Stanley's attempting to sell these convertible debentures to -- to investors, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And this is the document given to the sales force to summarize the deal?
A. Right.

Q. What role did you have in reviewing or preparing this selling memorandum?
A. Again, I don't specifically recall what portions of this I may have created or contributed to, but I certainly would have been involved in reviewing and assembling this document, in many cases using materials that had been prepared in other documents, other internal documents like the Equity Commitment Committee memo.
Q. Do you know who else was involved in the preparation of the selling memorandum we've marked as Exhibit 100?
A. Again, I don't know who specifically did what on this document, but it would have been a group similar to the group assembling the Equity Commitment Committee memo.
Q. The document is dated March 12, 1998. Does this appear to be the final document to you?
A. Again, it's hard for me to know if it is. It looks to be complete; but whether a further draft was created at some point, I don't know.
Q. Looking at the list of contacts shown on the first page of Exhibit 100, are any of those individuals responsible for this document? Is it the responsibility of one of those people in particular?

A. Again, it is a document prepared as part of the, in this case, convertible financing and therefore the teams -- the members of the team most involved in the convertible financing would be most likely to be more involved in the creation of this document.
Again, taking -- the creation of this document at this stage is taking a lot of materials that have already been prepared for other purposes.
Q. I understand that. But was there a person or department that was primarily responsible for this rather than just saying it was the work of the team?
A. Well, and, again, I would say that given the role that CSG in general plays in the preparation of documents like this, CSG and the team in CSG would have been very central in preparing this document.
Q. I understand. Okay. If you turn to the third page of the exhibit, bears Bates No. 0062862, there's some financial information. Do you know the source of that information?
A. Not the specific source of it, no. I have -- again, I think it's a -- a set of numbers that have probably been, you know, refined, you know, throughout the process at this point.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. And if you look at the summary financial information.
A. Right.
Q. Earnings per share number in the far right column for 1998 estimated is $1.80 per share?
A. Okay.
Q. Do you know what the source of that was?
A. Again, I think it's the product of a range of discussions around projections provided by the company that have been reviewed and refined by, and I'm not sure who on the Morgan Stanley team to get -- to get to that number.
Q. Do you have any understanding or knowledge why that number is different than the pro forma 1998 estimated earnings contained in Exhibit 129?
I can refer you to a page if you want me to.
A. What page is that?
Q. Sure. It's page 11 of the document. Estimates pro forma Sunbeam of $2.34; whereas, here it's $1.80.
A. I don't know. I don't -- I don't recall what changes led to that change in the -- the numbers.

Page 142

Q. Okay. Is there any portion of this document, Exhibit 100, that you can identify today as something that you drafted or revised?
A. Not -- not specifically, no.
Q. Turn to page 22 of the document, bearing Bates No. 0062882. There's a further discussion of synergies.
I'll just state for the record that this is different than the description of synergies contained in Exhibit 129. I can refer you to that if you'd like.
A. Okay.
Q. Page 17 of that document.
Do you know why the description of synergies changed between the 10th and the 12th?
A. I haven't figured out what the changes were.
But, again, these documents are, in the case of the selling memo, being used for a different purpose. I don't know what transpired to lead to that change either.
Q. Okay. The last --
A. Whatever the change is. What is the change?

Q. Well, for example, the Exhibit 129 refers to the management advising the Board of Directors that synergies were likely to be in the 225 to $275 million range and that's not in Exhibit 100, the selling memorandum. Among other changes.
A. I -- yeah, again, I don't know. I know there's an element of conservatism that -- that oftentimes, you know, is adopted to varying degrees in these documents. So, I don't know if -- if that's part of the reason.
Q. Okay. The last sentence in that description of synergies in Exhibit 100, the selling memorandum, refers to work done by Andrew Conway modeling $150 million in synergies.
Do you know what that's referring to?
A. I don't specifically know what that's referring to. However, it -- you know, it may well have been that he became more involved at that point to provide some perspective on his thoughts.
Q. Okay. But you don't recall as you sit here what it was?
A. And I don't recall sort of what he had done or how much work he had done at this point in the process.

Q. Having looked at the document marked as Exhibit 100, do you recall any work that you personally did in reviewing or preparing the selling memorandum?
A. Again, I suspect that I reviewed it in its entirety but don't know where specifically I made changes, contributions or, you know, specifically contributed.
Q. Okay.

EXAMINATION (Resumed)

BY MR. BRODY:

Q. Mr. Savarie, you have mentioned a number of times that you were involved, among other things, in the roadshow?

A. Correct.

Q. I'd like to direct our attention to that.

What was your involvement in the roadshow presentation?

A. In the presentation?

Q. Well, in the roadshow process.

A. In the roadshow process?

I was involved in -- in the case of the scheduling, that's a process largely done by the capital markets team working with the desk and the various members of the sales force that had the relationships.

So, but there is a process surrounding getting the meeting set up, getting it scheduled, getting logistics in place, making sure that all that is coordinated with the company, that the participants from the company are available on the days when we intend to take them on the road.

There is a -- a roadshow presentation that is prepared to use for the presentations with accounts and, you know, I and other members of the team review that as it's being prepared and accompany -- ultimately accompany the members of the management team on the roadshow and in the context of these meetings, provide a brief introduction at the start of each of the sessions, whether it's a lunch session or a one-on-one.

Q. Just so we're talking about the same things, can you explain what is meant by a roadshow?

A. A roadshow would be the process where or during which the company takes their presentation out to give to the various institutional investors that are the prospective purchasers of the security. And that usually spans a period of, you know, four or five days, depends on the nature of the transaction.

Q. In this case, who drafted the roadshow

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0-16978

materials?
A. I don't specifically recall all of the details around who drafted, but I have a general recollection of it being largely prepared by the company, which is not uncommon given that it's ultimately the senior management of the company that's going to give it. So, they tend to be comfortable with pages they've either seen or pages they have gotten accustomed to and as a result will oftentimes develop talking points, a script to go with it, because it's again something that has to be internalized by the company given that they are giving the presentation.
Q. Whose word processing system was the presentation kept on?
A. I don't know, and it may have changed hands a couple of times at various points in the process. It's not uncommon for that to happen. I don't know whether or not -- I don't recall specifically, you know, where it started. It may have been an outline that led to a first draft.
Again, my general recollection, though, is that the bulk of the iterations were done on the company's computers. But it's -- again, that's not terribly clear.

Q. Well, let's see if we can firm that up a little bit.
Aside from yourself who was involved from Morgan Stanley in the roadshow?
A. In terms of the --
Q. People.
A. -- presentation preparation?
Q. Yeah, the whole process.
A. Again, it would have been, you know, members of the same team, whether it's, you know, the Equity Capital Markets team, members of that team, whether it's reviewing it, in some cases attending certain of the bigger meetings, you know, an analyst resource that would have accompanied me and it, you know, it may have varied depending on which day and who was available.
Q. Okay.
A. And there were other people who during the course of the roadshow accompanied me at various points along the way.
Q. Let's take this in steps.
The logistics of setting up the meeting, the various roadshow meetings.
A. Right.
Q. That was done by Morgan Stanley,

correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And Morgan Stanley set up meetings whereby members of company management could speak to potential investors?
A. Correct.
Q. And I believe you testified that the scheduling was largely done by the capital markets and the trading desk and sales force, is that correct?
A. Yeah, I mean in conjunction with we as sort of the logistical coordinators who had to make sure it was going to work for the company, make sure that, you know -- we could cover it and that all the, you know, all the pieces could come together to work on those particular days.
Q. Okay. Appearing at the presentation, you attended all the roadshows?
A. I attended I would say the majority of them, but not necessarily all of them. There would be instances where, and I don't remember specifically which -- which ones I was in and not in, but sometimes you have to step out, you know, coordinate sort of the next step in the process.
Sometimes accounts, you know, want to meet with the company without the bankers present. I don't remember how much of that took place on this particular roadshow. But in general I was tasked with sort of participating in as much of the roadshow as I could.

Q. Aside from yourself, who else attended?
A. Um.
Q. From the company -- I'm sorry. From your company, from Morgan Stanley.
A. From Morgan Stanley.
My recollection is that I had an analyst with me and I think just looking at the list, I think it was Boone for a good portion of the roadshow.
I don't recall -- well, I know Bill Strong was with me for a portion of it, Alex Fuchs for a -- what I recall is a very small portion of it.
And then I don't know at the bigger meetings who in addition to those people was in attendance. I know Ruth Porat was present at the New York roadshow. But, again, the fact that it's in New York, a big group, there may well have been many people there.
Q. Okay. In terms of preparing the text of the document, who from Morgan Stanley was involved in preparing or making comments or revising the presentation materials and the text of the speech?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

A. Again, I would say that -- that's a collection of myself, and I can't recall if -- if, you know, Bill Strong would have reviewed it at any point. He may have. A couple of members of the Equity Capital Markets team probably reviewed it at various points.
Q. Do you know who?
A. I mean, there are obviously -- I don't, not specifically I mean.
And my guess is Ruth had looked at it, Brooks Harris who was the convertible product specialist, Jill Woodworth I'm certain did. She was an associate I believe at the time.
And then it would have been the CSG team, again, sort of at the center of the -- the procedural aspects of executing the transaction.
Q. Okay. Before the presentation was given the first time did you rehearse it?
A. I don't recall whether we actually had a formal full-blown rehearsal or not.
Q. Did you have a pre-meeting where you sat down and talked through what you were going to do?

Page 154

A. I would suspect we did. I don't recall when that took place, but that would be typical to talk through the slides and understand who's doing what to whom and make sure that, you know, it is -- it is I think as everyone thinks it should be.
MR. BRODY: Please mark that as Exhibit 130.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked CPH Exhibit No. 130, for identification, as of 1/22/04.)
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Sir, I've given you what's been marked as Exhibit 130. I'd like you to flip through it and tell me if you have ever seen it before.
A. I'm sure -- I'm sure -- excuse me.
I'm sure I've seen this.
Q. Do you recognize that as the roadshow presentation?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you believe this is the final text that was used in the roadshow?
A. Again, I don't know for certain that this is the final text nor do I know that this wouldn't -- it may well have changed during the course of the roadshow. Oftentimes you will change a slide or two in the midst of it for one reason or another.

Q. Do you remember changes being made in the midst of the roadshow?
A. I don't specifically remember that.
Q. If you look down at the bottom of this page there is a word processing tag, F14\161901 and so on.
A. Right.
Q. That's a Morgan Stanley document tag, is it not?
A. I can't say for certain, but it appears to be.
Q. For example, if you were to look at Exhibit 129, which is the Equity Commitment Committee report, or Exhibit 100, which is the selling memorandum, or really most of the other documents we've marked today, that's a Morgan Stanley tag line, isn't it?
A. Again, it looks to be.
Q. Does that indicate to you --
A. I'm not -- I am not in any way indicating that it couldn't be. I'm just saying I don't know for certain that it is. But it looks to be.
Q. Well, does that indicate to you that this document was in fact maintained on the Morgan Stanley word processing system?

A. That's -- that's likely.
Q. Now, there is some handwriting on the first page. Who's is that?
A. I don't know.
Q. Is it yours?
A. No.
Q. Now, if you turn to the page bearing production number CPH 0251871, there's a slide and then a little bullet point underneath it?
A. Yep.
Q. Do you recognize the slide at the top as the portion that was exhibited to the attendees at the roadshow?
A. That looks familiar, yeah. That looks like the slide we would have used or something like that, yeah.
Q. And then the portion at the bottom, the bullet point that you see on that page and there are similar bullet points on other pages --
A. Right.
Q. -- that's not put up on the screen for the participants in the roadshow, is that correct?
A. Correct.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 157

Q. Instead, that's just a description for almost like a stage direction for someone else to read or to pay attention to?
A. That's correct.
Q. Does this reflect that someone from Morgan Stanley began the presentations by describing the deal and then by introducing the management?
A. Yes.
Q. And did you on occasion do that?
A. Yes.
Q. If you turn to page 3 of the document, it lists management, Mr. Dunlap, Mr. Kersh, Mr. Fannin and Mr. Goudis.
Did those four gentlemen attend all the roadshows?
A. They -- I'm not certain if they all attended all of the presentations, but by and large this was the management team tasked with the roadshow process.
Q. Do you know if Mr. Dunlap attended all of them?
A. I -- my recollection is that -- well, I can't recall when he didn't, but I'm not -- I can't say for certain.

Q. Turn to the next page, bearing document production number ending in 73, page 4.
A. Yep.
Q. There there's an extended bullet point.
Do you recognize those bullets as something that Mr. Dunlap or some other participant in the transaction would have read or spoken from in giving the comments when this slide was up on the screen?
A. I mean, again, I recognize this document as something that may have been prepared. Whether those bullet points were used on this page in any one of the presentations, I can't speak to, meaning I don't know how -- how strictly they adhered to this script, if you will, in each and every one of these meetings.
Q. Fair enough. Morgan Stanley reviewed the slides before they were presented, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And as we've discussed, it appears that they were kept on the Morgan Stanley word processing system?
A. Well, I think they may have ended up there. I'm not sure that at all points in their preparation that they were there.

Page 159

Q. Okay. When --
A. Again, that is a process where, you know, working with the company, I mean, it's oftentimes the case and most naturally the case that the company is preparing a presentation that they're going to give.
And at what point they put it on our system so that we could, you know, prepare the slides, do some of the logistics they don't want to do, that's ultimately what happens.
Q. Okay. But just for point of reference, we look down at our word processing code again, this document appears to have been edited on 3/13, March 13, 1998, at 3:40 in the afternoon?
A. Okay.
Q. So, at least at that point it's on the Morgan Stanley word processing system. Fair enough?
A. Yes.
Q. And when it goes on the Morgan Stanley word processing system, the slides go on and then the bullet points below are also something that you had on your system?
A. Yes, I would assume that, yeah.
Q. And the document was commented on by a variety of people at Morgan Stanley?

Page 160

A. Again, I don't know who had an opportunity to review it, but it would have been distributed to a variety of members of the team for input and comment.
Q. And when it was distributed for input and comment, the slides were distributed as well as the bullet point script or items underneath. That was also distributed, was it not?
A. It may be. It may have been that the slides were prepared before the rest of the script on the page and there may have been members of the team that reviewed just the slides and never saw the script.
Q. Okay. But you would agree with me before the first presentation was given, the slides and the script had been reviewed by Morgan Stanley, including yourself?
A. Yeah.
Q. Now, if you look at the page we were on, page 4 --
A. I would clarify that, though.
I'm not sure that we would have spent as much time on precisely the wording that the company was going to -- in other words, because this is not something that they read or that the format is something that, you know, suggests they're going to read this, we're more focusing on what are the slides there are going to appear in front of the investor.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. Well, if -- if the company, if Sunbeam, puts something in the text below the slides that you thought was incorrect, you wouldn't let it pass, would you?

A. We would certainly to the extent we could identify something we didn't believe to be the case, we would -- we would, you know, make a point of that and look to correct it.

Q. The second point here, second subbullet under the first bullet that references Mr. Perelman, do you know who wrote that?

A. No.

Q. Do you know if you made any comments on that or to that?

A. I don't recall any specific comments or changes to that.

Q. If you look at page 6 of the document, and the slide at the top is entitled "Dunlap Value Creation Model." Do you see that?

A. Um-hmm.

Page 162

Q. That's a -- let me withdraw that.

Do you know where that slide came from?

A. No.

Q. Turn to Exhibit 100, the selling memorandum, and its page 8, that slide is there, is it not?

A. Yeah, looks to be the same slide, yes.

Q. Aside from that Morgan Stanley document, have you seen that slide in other Morgan Stanley documents or presentations that you recall?

A. You know, again, I don't know if that was in other -- because these documents share a lot of content, I don't know if that appears in another internal Morgan Stanley document or not.

Q. Do you know who put together that document?

A. This document --

Q. I'm sorry.

A. You mean this slide?

Q. Thank you. Who put together the slide that's found in the selling memorandum and also found in the roadshow presentation?

A. I don't remember.

Q. In the bullet points under that slide there's a description of the restructuring effort.

Page 163

Do you remember making any comments on that?

A. I don't and my -- again, my general recollection is that most of the input for these bullet points came from the company.

Q. Right, but -- but you wouldn't allow it to pass if you thought it was incorrect, would you?

A. That's true.

Q. Do you know what investigation -- let me withdraw that.

Would it be Morgan Stanley's custom to allow something to go into the bullet point portion of a roadshow presentation that Morgan Stanley hadn't done any investigation into?

MR. CLARE: Objection to form and speculation.

BY THE WITNESS:

A. Again, while these are intended to be I think talking points or a guide for the company, they are oftentimes prepared by the company and will include information that the company very logically knows about their story that, you know, they are sharing with us and we are relying upon them as to its accuracy.

We don't necessarily have the ability to -- to know that everything that they've said is something we, you know, completely and fully understand, particularly in the context of an interactive roadshow discussion where they're talking about a business that they manage.

Q. You would agree with me, though, wouldn't you, sir, that the roadshow presentations were being given to potentially -- to people who could purchase large quantities of these debentures?

MR. CLARE: Objection to form.

BY THE WITNESS:

A. I mean, conceptually. I mean, it's being given to, you know, the institutional investor audience that are the potential buyers of the security.

BY MR. BRODY:

Q. So, the institutional investors you were speaking to were not people that were buying a few of these debentures; they would buy large quantities of them if they were interested?

A. Potentially.

Q. And you wouldn't want to make -- Morgan Stanley wouldn't want to participate in a presentation to them that was incorrect, would it?

A. We would certainly not intentionally do that. However, this is a presentation that the company is giving to those investors.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01623

Q. Turn to page 9 of the document. The last bullet point refers to the implementation of the comprehensive plan to improve the cost structure.
Do you know what investigation Morgan Stanley did to determine whether that was correct or not?
A. Again, I -- I don't know specifically what was done or which members of the team participated in a lot of the background work that had been done, you know, along the way as part of this transaction.
Q. Turn to the next page, page 10. The second bullet point refers to Sunbeam's improvement in bottom line margin, top and bottom line percentage improvements. And it concludes by saying:
"Most importantly, in the fourth quarter, we proved to ourselves that we could achieve a 20 percent operating margin."
Do you remember anything -- did you hear that statement made at any of the roadshows?

Page 166

A. I don't recall. I'm not -- I'm going to have a very difficult time recalling which statements were made specifically in a roadshow six years ago.
Q. Well, would you agree that operating margin is a pretty important statistic for a manufacturing company?
MR. CLARE: Objection to form.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I mean, I think obviously, you know, the -- the metrics of financial performance of the business would, you know, logically be one of the topics discussed and highlighted during a presentation like this.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. And operating margin is essentially a measure of the company's profit on its operations?
A. Yeah, certainly one of them.
Q. And that's an important thing for investors to know?
MR. CLARE: Objection to form and foundation.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. You know, I think so. I mean, this, in addition to this, a lot of this information is disclosed in the offering memorandum as well.

Page 167

BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Do you recall from looking at the documents that you did to familiarize yourself with this deal when you became assigned to it or the work that you did after that that there were references to Morgan Stanley's goal of reaching a 20 percent operating margin?
MR. CLARE: Objection.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Excuse me. Sunbeam's goal of reaching a 20 percent operating margin.
MR. BRODY: Sorry, Tom.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. Again, I don't specifically recall that topic.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Do you remember any work that Morgan Stanley did to determine whether that operating margin, 20 percent operating margin, was achievable by Sunbeam?
A. Again, I don't recall what was specifically done to investigate that.
Q. Okay. If you turn to page 13 of the presentation, it's a slide that has text in it that begins "Initial Synergies." Do you see that?

Page 168

A. Yes.
Q. And there are a number of items in the slide that compare the two -- excuse me -- the various companies and in the bullet points, the last one says:
"We have identified approximately $150 million of synergies."
Do you remember synergies being discussed at the roadshow?
A. You know, I generally do, but not in any great degree of specificity. I -- but it certainly would have been a logical topic to discuss on this page with -- without question, and in the case of a transaction involving acquisitions as this one did.
Q. Do you remember reviewing this text before the roadshow presentation was finalized?
A. Again, I don't have any specific recollection of how and when and whether it was in this form and -- and, again, I think the primary sort of responsibility for this was the -- the company and members of the company management team doing the speaking.
Q. But Morgan Stanley didn't -- Morgan Stanley wouldn't have permitted the company to make a presentation that it believed was false, would it?

016883

MR. CLARE: Objection; asked and answered.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. With regard to the synergies presentation. If you didn't think that that was correct or borne out by the work you did, you would have objected to that, wouldn't you?
A. Well, but I --
MR. CLARE: Objection to form and argumentative. You can answer.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. You know, the company is, you know, providing their own perspective on what they believe is achievable to the investors. This is their presentation.
But, you know, we clearly, you know, would have guided the company had we any reason to believe that this was not achievable.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Right. You wouldn't want the company making false statements to your good customers?
A. Right, certainly not intentionally and not to our knowledge.
Q. Okay. Turn to page 15. There's some handwriting. Do you recognize that?

Page 170

A. No.
Q. It appears to read "Lee Scot." Do you know a gentleman by the name of Lee Scot?
A. No.
Q. Maybe a woman by that name?
A. No.
Q. And it references in that bullet point that it's next to:
"When we talked with the president of Wal-Mart, he said, 'I love what you guys did,'" and continues.
Do you remember Mr. Dunlap or others stating in presentations what someone from Wal-Mart said about Sunbeam?
A. I don't.
Q. Do you know if anyone from Morgan Stanley ever went out and talked to anyone at Wal-Mart about Sunbeam?
A. I don't specifically recall whether we did or not or whether Morgan Stanley did or not.
Q. If you turn to page 16, down at the bottom, the bullet point refers to turning the presentation over to Mr. Kersh. Do you see that?
A. Yes.

Page 171

Q. Is it your understanding from here on Mr. Kersh is the one speaking in the presentation?
A. I can't recall how these guys ham-and-egged, but that certainly lends itself to it transitioning to -- to Mr. Kersh.
However, it's important to know that just because he is leading the discussion doesn't mean he's the only one speaking when that slide is -- is up.
Q. I understand. If you turn to page 19, a couple of pages later, again there is some handwriting. Do you recognize that handwriting?
A. I don't.
Q. There's a reference to flat sales, "With flat sales." Do you remember any discussion about whether sales were flat or would be flat?
A. No.
Q. When the presentation was over, when the Sunbeam people finished the last slide, did someone from Morgan Stanley get up and sum up or ask for questions?
A. You know, depends on the format.
Q. Were there occasions in which you did that?
A. I suspect in closing it out there may have been instances where I said, you know, unless there are any other questions we have to go to our next meeting.

Q. Do you --
A. But it would have been about that much given this was -- that was -- that was the role that we played in these presentations was just to introduce them and really let them go from there.
Q. Do you know Richard Goudis? Do you know Mr. Goudis?
A. Yeah.
Q. What was Mr. Goudis' position at Morgan Stanley -- excuse me -- at Sunbeam?
A. He was a member of the management team; and while I don't recall exactly what his title was, he was along for most, if not all, of the roadshow presentations and was really in an investor relations sort of capacity sort of generally.
Q. Okay. I was going to refer you -- if you needed to, to the roadshow slide that says he was the V.P. investor relations and corporate planning. Does that sound right?
A. Yeah, that sounds right.
Q. And his responsibilities as the V.P. for

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

investor relations and corporate planning, do you know what they involved, what his job was?
MR. CLARE: Objection. Objection; foundation.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. You can go ahead.
MR. CLARE: You can answer if you know.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. He -- I don't know exactly what his responsibilities were but only can comment on what his role was or at least his role as relates my involvement.
And he was, you know, one of the members of the team that was actively involved was preparing a lot of the materials that were either presented or provided to us as well as playing a major role in the preparation of these materials. He was sort of the primary interface from a company's standpoint.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. If you turn to your expense report, sir, which we've marked previously as Exhibit 126, and if you look on page bearing Bates No. 5550, I think it's the third page of the document, there's a reference to you having dinner with Mr. Goudis on the 15th of March at Maloney & Porcelli in

Page 174

New York. Do you see that?
A. Which page?
Q. Under "Entertainment Details."
A. Yes.
Q. Now, if you turn to page 5559, there's what appears to be the receipt for that dinner.
A. Okay.
Q. And I'm just wondering -- my first question is going to be let's see if we can straighten out the date. Up at the top is written in someone's handwriting "Laser 3/15." Is that your handwriting?
A. "Laser" is my handwriting.
Q. And then the 3 --
A. That's my signature and the names at the bottom.
Q. The "3/15" to the right of Laser, is that your handwriting also, with a circle around it?
A. It doesn't look like my handwriting.
Q. Okay. Now, if you look at the receipt from Maloney & Porcelli --
A. Um-hmm.
Q. -- the date appears to be March 18, 1999 -- 1998, is that correct?

Page 175

A. That's what it appears to be, yeah.
Q. So, if you go back to the date on the expense report, you had dinner with Mr. Goudis on the 18th or the 15th?
A. Well, I don't know what that discrepancy is, whether that's a problem with the credit card machine at the restaurant or -- I don't know what date that was in this process.
Q. Okay. We may come back to that when we get up to March 18 and see if you can place it in time.
A. Okay.
Q. But do you remember having dinner, just you and Mr. Goudis, at the Maloney & Porcelli restaurant in New York?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that during the roadshow?
A. Yes.
Q. What do you remember discussing?
A. You know, it was a fairly -- at that point I had spent, you know, several days with these guys on the road and it was a fairly personal discussion.
Q. It was just the two of you?
A. Just the two of us.

Page 176

Q. Do you remember discussing any aspects of Sunbeam's performance on that evening?
A. No.
Q. Did you discuss any aspects of Sunbeam's first quarter results?
A. No. I mean, again, it was not a discussion about, you know, Sunbeam. We were probably talking about how the roadshow's going, how the process is going. But it was not a due diligence discussion with him.
Q. Okay. Now, given that this was after you had spent a couple days on the roadshow already, it pretty much has to be the 18th, doesn't it, rather than the 15th?
A. Yeah, I don't remember when it started.
Q. We'll go through the schedule and establish that.
A. Okay.
Q. Once the roadshow started, do you know if any changes were made to the slides that were shown to the attendees at the roadshow?
A. I don't recall whether there were specifically any changes made, whether there were changes to the script made. There may have been changes. I don't recall. It would not be atypical for there to be slight changes made.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 177

Q. Okay.
MR. BRODY: I've lost track.
THE REPORTER: 131.
MR. BRODY: Please mark this as 131.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked CPH Exhibit No. 131, for identification, as of 1/22/04.)
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Sir, I've given you what's been marked as Exhibit 131, which is also a -- I was going to say it was a document produced by Morgan Stanley, but it was actually produced by Sunbeam.
Do you recognize that document as an information package prepared by Morgan Stanley for use in the roadshow?
A. Yes.
Q. And did you have any role in the preparation of this document marked as Exhibit 131?
A. Again, I would have had a role in certainly reviewing it as it was being prepared. But, you know, other members of the team would have been involved in actually putting it together.
Q. Okay. And if you look down at the bottom of really all the pages, it has that word processing code again from Morgan Stanley's system, is that correct?

A. Yes. Yeah.
Q. Look at the page ending with the words -- the numbers 93, 1893, identified as "Roadshow Participants."
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Is that consistent with your recollection as to the individuals who attended some or all of these presentations?
A. Yes. To -- you know, again, in addition to others who attended or who may have attended some of the luncheons where there is room to accommodate more than just a couple of people.
Q. Okay. If you turn to page 1896, there's a list of a variety of key roadshow contacts off the road.
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Those are all Morgan Stanley people, are they not?
A. Yes. Except for the travel -- I don't know about the travel people or --
Q. For example, travel emergency number?
A. Yeah, I guess they are. They look to be Morgan Stanley people.

Page 179

Q. Down at the bottom there is an entry for "Morgan Stanley Creative Services." Do you know what that is?
A. That would be graphics.
Q. Are they the ones who put together the slides?
A. Yes, likely that they would have. Or -- or handle projector setup or things of that nature potentially.
Q. Turn a couple of pages further to page 1898, and the several pages that follow through page 1901.
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Well, I'm sorry. I misspoke. Go a couple of pages beyond that. The detailed travel itinerary runs through page 1908.
Is that the itinerary that the participants in the roadshow followed?
A. Yes.
Q. Started in the West Coast and worked its way East?
A. And, again, I don't know if in all its detail whether all of these meetings ended up as they are depicted here, meaning sometimes the meetings get moved around, reordered, canceled, filled in with somebody else. I don't know if this was -- this was sort of the -- probably not the last iteration of this.

Q. Well, it's the last one I have seen. There may be other ones out there, but it's the last one I have seen. I have not seen any further ones.
MR. BRODY: Why don't we go off the record for a second. We need to change videotapes.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We are going off the video record at the end of Tape 2 at 1:46 p.m.
(WHEREUPON, a recess was had from 1:46 to 1:47 p.m.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We are going back on the video record at the start of Tape 3 at 1:47 p.m.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Before we broke to change the tape we were looking at the schedule and I just want to turn to the schedule that begins on page 1899.
If you look at the first day, Monday, March 16, that's the day the roadshow began?
A. Right.
Q. The first. And given that your dinner with Mr. Goudis was during the roadshow, it wasn't the 15th, is that?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 181

A. Right. It appears the 18th was the date of that dinner. So, there must have been a mistake in the expense report.
Q. I understand.
Now, in looking at this, there appear to be two different kinds of events listed. Some are described as one-on-one and some are described as R.S. can you explain the differences?
A. Well, the one-on-one is the -- is a meeting between the company and one, typically one investor, sometimes more than one, but generally one, in their offices, around a conference room table.
Whereas the -- and I don't know what the R.S. refers to specifically, but the lunch meetings tend to be in, you know, bigger rooms with more attendees. More likely to be a presentation from a podium with slides projected on a screen.
Q. In the presentations that were one-on-one, how were the slides displayed?
A. If I recall -- it would typically be a flip book and I don't recall that it would be -- there would have been anything other than that here.
Q. Do you know if participants were given a copy or attendees, rather, were given a copy?

A. I don't recall specifically. It -- as I do recall, it was the policy to take back all the presentations that were used, and that's fundamentally because we're not carrying enough of them around to give them out at each meeting.
Q. If you look at the first day, the California trip, for example, the 10:30 -- assuming the schedule happened as indicated here, 10:30 a.m., the meeting with Oak Tree Capital Management was a one-on-one meeting followed by a lunch meeting at which a presentation was made to a bigger group of potential investors?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, the meeting ended in San Mateo late in the day on Monday the 16th and began the next morning in Minneapolis at 7:30.
How did you get from one place to another?
A. We would get on an airplane.
Q. Private plane?
A. I think, as I recall, yes, that's the way we got around for this roadshow.

Page 183

Q. Did you travel on the same plane with Mr. Dunlap and Mr. Kersh and the other participants from Sunbeam?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you --
A. At least in most cases. I mean, there may have been instances where they went and we went later but some -- but for the most part, yes.
Q. Did you talk with them on the plane?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you talk about Sunbeam's business?
A. We tended not to focus on, you know, the business and the roadshow and tried to use that time to talk about other things simply because the, you know, the days were pretty consuming as it was.
Q. Do you remember any discussion during the roadshow but not at the roadshow presentations about Sunbeam's performance and its results from the first part of 1998?
A. No, I don't specifically recall discussing that.
Q. Looking at the first page here of the detailed itinerary, page 1899, are there any of those meetings identified on the schedule that you don't believe happened?

Page 184

A. I -- I don't remember. I just -- I don't have a clear enough recollection of, you know -- these meetings all blend together. So, I couldn't tell you if any one of these did or didn't happen.
Q. Okay. Now, Tuesday night -- let me withdraw that.
The Tuesday presentations on March 17 included a presentation in -- started with a presentation in Minneapolis, then the Milwaukee area, then the Chicago area, is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And then Wednesday morning began in New York?
A. Right. That's --
Q. Did you --
A. Yeah.
Q. Did you fly that evening from Chicago area to New York?
A. I would -- I would think that's what happened, yeah.
Q. Okay. If you -- there's a more detailed itinerary I think, sir, that shows where you're staying in particular days. If you turn to page 1904 to 1905.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 185

A. Right.
Q. You spent the evening on the night of the 17th in the Palace Hotel in New York?
A. Yes.
Q. And then the day began the next -- the next presentations began at 8:00 in the morning at Salomon Brothers in New York?
A. Yeah, that looks right, yeah. Again, I don't know if that's the last version of this or not.
Q. Okay.
A. But based on this, that -- that makes sense.
Q. Do you remember the -- any presentation to Salomon Brothers at the World Trade Center?
A. No.
Q. The next one shown is at New York Life Insurance Company on Madison Avenue. Do you remember that presentation?
A. That one in particular?
Q. Yes.
A. No.
Q. The next one is at Alliance Capital on Avenue of the Americas, also in New York. Do you remember that?

Page 186

A. I mean, I remember one-on-ones taking place as they would normally the morning -- you know, at all the stops along. But do not remember the specific meeting.
Q. Okay. The next item on the schedule is a lunch in New York at the St. Regis Hotel?
A. Um-hmm.
Q. Do you remember that lunch?
A. I do.
Q. What do you remember about that lunch?
A. You know, the New York lunch on these roadshows is always a big -- a big event. So, it's one of the things you would remember about the roadshow.
Q. When you say it's a big event, what do you mean?
A. You know, a big room, lots of people, you know, a more sort of formal presentation, sort of at the podium where candidly in my role of orchestrating logistics, you know, the logistics around making sure that that's set up the way it should be, that we're there when we need to be, that things happen the way they're supposed to is important.
Q. A lot of things can go wrong?

Page 187

A. Yes.
Q. Did you speak at the podium?
A. I don't believe at this one I did.
Q. Who did?
A. I don't remember, but it's common that, you know, at a -- at the larger presentations like this that one of the senior or even the most senior member of the Morgan Stanley team present would do the introduction. But I don't remember -- I just don't remember who it was.
Q. You don't remember, for example, if Mr. Strong were there?
A. I don't. Again, this is a room with probably 100 people in it. And it could have been, you know, a member of our Equity Capital Markets team. I just don't remember. I don't remember doing it myself.
Q. Do you remember being at podium or a -- excuse me -- a front table next to a podium, a dais kind of table? Do you remember where you sat?
A. No, definitely not. I may not have sat.
Q. Do you remember anything being mentioned during or after that lunch about the company's performance?
A. No, not to me, not to me.

Page 188

Q. Do you remember something being mentioned to someone else?
A. Well, I -- I was at one point made aware that something had been mentioned.
Q. What were you made aware and by whom?
A. I don't remember who or how I was made aware of it. But just that there had been -- that there were discussions taking place on an update, and I believe it was to Ruth Porat.
Q. So, let's just take a step back.
You became aware that there were some discussions going on?
A. Yeah.
Q. Do you remember how you became aware of those?
A. I don't. You know, it could have been that Ruth mentioned something to me. It could have been that a member of management had mentioned it to me. I don't specifically recall how I was generally made aware of it.
Q. And you said there were discussions of an update. Do you know what was being updated?
A. At the time I did not.
Q. Did you later come to learn what was being updated?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 189

A. Yes.
Q. What was that?
A. Well, that it was an updated sort of view of sales.
Q. When did you come to learn that there was an updated view of sales, that day?
A. I don't recall because I was not sort of at the center of any of these discussions. I was sort of on the periphery, again, with much more of a focus on everything else that was going on, you know, at this presentation and, candidly, the next steps we had to take to continue the roadshow that day. So, I was not centrally involved in that series of discussions.
Q. I believe you testified that the update was given to Ruth Porat, is that correct?
A. I'm not certain of that.
Q. Is that your understanding?
A. That's -- it's a vague recollection.
Q. Do you know what that's based upon?
A. That vague recollection?
Q. Yes.
A. A vague recollection.
Q. Okay. As you sit here do you remember who it was who gave the update to Ms. Porat?

Page 190

A. I don't remember that.
Q. And do you remember what the substance was?
A. I don't.
Q. Was it news that sales had improved?
A. Knowing what transpired after that, I doubt that was the case. At the time I really didn't have a lot of -- I didn't have a very good sense for what it was, the nature of it. Again, because I hadn't been party to the direct discussion, I didn't -- didn't have a good sense for it, certainly at that time.
Q. Do you remember anything else happening at the -- at the luncheon there in New York at the St. Regis Hotel concerning this update or potential update?
A. No, not in particular, no.
Q. Did the roadshow continue that afternoon?
A. Yes, yes.
Q. The next item shown here is meeting with Mackay Shields. Do you know if you attended that meeting?
A. I -- I would suspect I did, but I -- could have been one where I stepped out to do something, but I don't know specifically but I probably was there.

Q. And the next item is meeting with General Motors on Fifth Avenue in New York. Do you believe you did that?
A. I believe so.
Q. And then --
A. Again, I don't have specific recollection about each and every one of these meetings six years ago.
Q. Do you have a recollection of attending the meeting at The Travelers or not?
A. Same. I mean, I would expect that I did, although in New York there's a possibility that somebody else stepped in to -- to attend one or more of these so that I could do something else. I just don't know. I don't remember.
Q. On this day of the roadshow, on the 18th, when news of an update came to someone, perhaps Ms. Porat, were there discussions within Morgan Stanley that afternoon about the update?
A. I don't know. I mean, I was not party to them. I'm told that there were.
Q. By whom were you told that?
A. I think I was told by other colleagues at Morgan Stanley after the fact.

Page 192

Q. How long after the fact?
A. I think it was really the following day when I was more fully apprised of what had developed.
Q. What did you learn the following day about what happened?
A. Again, it was sort of a general discussion, and I don't remember specifically what I was told.
Q. Do you remember generally what the discussion was about or generally what was communicated?
A. That there was going to be, and at this point there had been a number of discussions already that had taken place to arrive at a course of action. So, it was an indication around a press release and the need for a press release.
Q. Do you recall what you were told the press release was going to say?
A. I don't specifically. I don't recall what I was told when I was made aware that this was happening.
Q. Do you recall in substance what was discussed in terms of the need for a press release?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 193

A. No, other than the view was that there was a need for a press release.
Q. Do you know who was involved in that decision to issue a press release?
A. I don't know all the detailed or all the details of who the participants were in that discussion. I know that it involved a number of Morgan Stanley -- my Morgan Stanley colleagues, but I don't know who specifically. Having not been on the calls, I don't know who was on the calls or who wasn't.
Q. Were the calls ever related to you, that is, did anyone ever describe to you what was said in the calls, in substance or in words?
A. Not in any great degree of detail simply because my views were not being sought centrally in the decision about what to do or how to -- or no one was seeking my input for those calls or for those discussions.
Q. Now, that evening you went to dinner with Mr. Goudis?
A. Correct.
Q. Was there any discussion with Mr. Goudis that night about the update, the press release or the need for a press release?

Page 194

A. We didn't discuss that. And we may well have discussed that there were conversations, but I'm not even certain that I was aware of that at the time.
Again, as I indicated, that was more of a -- as these tend to be, when you finally spend some personal time, you know, out of a presentation with these guys, you're not talking about the roadshow, you're not talking about the presentations.
Q. As the vice president for investor relations, was it Mr. Goudis' job to be involved in commenting on or making press releases to the investors?
A. Yes.
MR. CLARE: Objection; no foundation. You can answer.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. Well, I would say, you know, yes. He wouldn't be the only one involved, but that certainly would be a logical role for him to play.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. During your dinner with Mr. Goudis did he take any calls or was he called away to talk about press releases?

Page 195

A. I don't remember.
Q. If you look at the detailed schedule, sir, beginning at page 1906 and carrying on to 1907.
A. Okay.
Q. And you see there after going to Travelers, the schedule called for you to go from Teterboro, which is a private airport in the New York area, isn't it?
A. Small, yeah.
Q. To go from there to Boston Logan that evening on a private plane I assume?
A. On this --
Q. On this draft schedule.
A. Yeah.
Q. And you were to arrive at Logan at about 6:30. But as we've established, you were having dinner with Mr. Goudis that evening?
A. Yeah. Again, I don't know, to my comment earlier, I don't know if this schedule changed at some point along the way.
Q. Do you know if you made it to Boston the night of the 18th?
A. My recollection of that is that we flew that following morning.

Page 196

Q. When you flew the following morning, were the Sunbeam people along with you?
A. Yes.
Q. Mr. Dunlap and so on?
A. Yes, it was on -- I can't recall if I was alone. I think the analyst accompanying me was with us. But, yes, that was with -- with the management team.
Q. Do you have any recollection now with the review of this update to Ms. Porat and whatever discussions took place about the press release, does that refresh your recollection why the plane trip was put off for a day?
A. I don't recall that being the reason, but I don't remember what the reason was.
Q. That morning --
A. I mean, I do remember staying in New York, having dinner that night, but I don't remember at what point during the day it had been determined that that was going to be the change to the schedule.
Q. Returning to the schedule of visits, not the detailed schedule, but page 1900 shows some -- some roadshows in Boston. Do you know if there was an 8:00 or a 9:30 a.m. roadshow scheduled?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 197

A. I don't remember.
Q. Do you recall meeting with Putnam at 11:00?
A. Again, I don't remember what meetings took place that morning when we arrived. I just don't recall specifically.
Q. Do you recall the roadshow luncheon at the Boston Harbor?
A. Yes.
Q. That's a hotel there on Rowes Wharf?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that another big crowd?
A. Not as big as New York but -- but a big crowd, a bigger crowd, bigger than a one-on-one, I mean a lunch meeting.
Q. Sir, if you turn to Exhibit 126, your expense report.
A. Okay.
Q. And the page bearing No. 5568. It's one of the receipts.
A. 5568.
Okay.
Q. I may have read this wrong, and you're going to have to tell me if I'm right.
But at the top there, there's a cab receipt for a fare from -- it appears to be from Boston to Logan. Do you see that?

A. Um-hmm.
Q. Do you understand if that's a receipt going to the airport or from the airport or can you tell from that what time of day it is?
A. I can't, but -- I can't, but I suspect it was my cab ride back to the airport to fly back to Chicago when I was leaving.
Q. Then you can put that aside. Turning to the presentation at the Boston Harbor Hotel, do you recall if you were the person who introduced the roadshow that day?
A. In Boston?
Q. In Boston.
A. I know that day Bill Strong accompanied me, and I don't recall in one-on-ones whether he or I did the introduction. My recollection is he did the introduction, though, at the lunch. Again, for the reasons I stated earlier, that in the bigger, broader venues, it's customary for the senior-most member of the team to do the introduction.
Q. Do you recall anything being said differently in the presentation in Boston than had been said in prior presentations?

A. I definitely don't remember the specific discussions, you know, from any one of these meetings. Obviously, though, the nature of, you know, the press release must have been discussed.
Q. Do you recall what was said in words or in substance about the press release?
A. I don't.
Q. Returning to the detailed schedule once again, page 1906 to 1907, the schedule reflects that after the presentations in Boston, the group would return to New York for a dinner at Mr. K's on Lexington Avenue.
Do you know if you did that?
A. I don't recall doing that. I don't recall that happening.
Q. And if you turn to the next page, it reflects people are to stay at the Plaza Hotel once again, and you and Mr. Strong and others are listed.
MR. CLARE: The Palace Hotel?
MR. BRODY: Yes, the Palace. I'm sorry.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. Yeah, again, I don't -- I don't recall coming back to New York. I -- I don't recall coming back to New York personally, but I don't recall whether any member or any portion of the group did.

BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Okay. I think I'm pretty much done with that document, sir, but I'd ask you to go back to your expense report one last time.
A. Okay.
Q. Again, page 5568, the page that we saw the cab receipt for going to Logan.
A. Okay. Okay.
Q. Item 26 there identifies some tips at the Palace Hotel in New York?
A. Yeah.
Q. Does that refresh your recollection that you might have indeed gone back there?
A. Well, this was -- these tips were throughout the course of the roadshow. So, the Beverly Wiltshire would have been on the West Coast. The Marquette would have been in Minneapolis. So, this is not date-specific.
Q. Okay. So that --
A. I don't know -- again, I don't have a clear recollection of precisely how it ended. My -- my memory is that I took a cab back to the airport and flew back to Chicago.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 201

Q. Okay. Came back home?
A. Yeah.
Q. I'm going to show you, sir, what's been marked as an additional exhibit. It's previously been marked as Exhibit 75. And you'll see a great deal of similarity to the last two documents we've looked at.
Do you recognize the cover page of this to be a Morgan Stanley document cover page?
A. Yeah, I don't know what this is. But I don't know if this is a picture of a binder or what it is. But --
Q. And if you turn to -- I'm sorry, sir. I'm missing the page number. The numbers are a little hard to read but on the bottom it's 18231. There are various check marks next to some visits.
A. Okay.
Q. Do you recognize those as your own?
A. Those check marks?
Q. Yes.
A. No.
Q. Sometimes people have customary ways of doing things. I was wondering if that was yours. Okay.
Now, let's turn to the text of the document, sir. I'm interested in asking you about page SB 18225.

Do you recognize that handwriting?
MR. CLARE: I'm sorry. 225?
MR. BRODY: Yes.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. No.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Did you during the roadshow ever see a copy of someone's script marked up in this manner or in any manner?
A. I don't recall. I can recall looking at, you know, versions of this where -- but I don't recall looking at this.
Q. Do you recall after the press release was issued having discussions with anyone from Morgan Stanley or from Sunbeam about making changes to the roadshow presentation to reflect the press release?
A. No, I don't recall having done that myself.
Q. Do you recall hearing that that in fact happened?
A. Well, I -- no, I don't recall even being party to the discussion about what -- what to say, having not been particularly involved -- involved at all in really what ought to be said.

Q. Do you have any understanding as to who was involved in that discussion about what should be said or should not be said?
A. Again, not knowing who was on the call, I'm not sure who, you know, may have had a discussion with the company about how to add to or amend the discussion or the presentation they were going to give the next day.
Candidly, when Bill Strong arrived, I was being sort of overshadowed in terms of the company's interface with us anyway.
Q. Looking at the handwriting on page 18225, and I'm going to start about four lines down, after that line that goes through the middle. It appears to read or to be written, "As you may know."
Do you see where I'm reading?
A. Right.
Q. Now this is not your writing I understand, but I'm going to take a stab at reading it to you.
A. Okay.
Q. My question when I'm done is going to be do you remember these words or this concept in substance being discussed at the -- at the roadshow in Boston.

But it appears to read, at least to me to say:
"As you may know we issued a press release this morning regarding sales for the current quarter," and then it jumps down to the bottom, "whereby we announced that sales may be below street estimates but above last year's."
Can't quite read the rest but when you return to the middle of the text, it appears to say:
"In the absence of this offering, we would not have issued this release. This was" -- hard to read -- "cautionary."
Do you remember any discussion about those concepts?
A. I don't specifically recall what was said, you know, about the press release. I'm certain that the issue was addressed, but I'm not -- I can't recall what specifically was said.

Page 205

Q. Do you remember questions being raised by any members of the -- any participants or attendees at the roadshow about it?
A. Again, I'm sure there were questions, but I don't recall specifically what those questions were.
Q. Do you remember if --
A. Or where -- or where those questions were asked.
Q. I understand. Do you remember if any of the attendees at the earlier roadshows, that is, the ones before the press release, called Morgan Stanley and asked about it?
A. I have no knowledge of that.
Q. Do you know if anyone from Morgan Stanley called attendees at the earlier roadshows to discuss the press release?
A. Also have no knowledge of that nor would I have been involved in that.
Q. During this roadshow presentation, and in the off time, the breaks between roadshows, the cab rides here and there, the plane rides, the stays at the hotel and so on, did you have any discussions that you recall with Sunbeam people about Sunbeam's first quarter performance?

A. I did not and I do not recall having those conversations. Again, those were not conversations that were logically or naturally to happen with me at that point in this process.
Q. Between that visit, that last roadshow on the 19th of March, and the closing of the transaction at the end of March, did you have further conversations with people from Sunbeam, to your recollection?
So, after you said good-bye to the crowd from the roadshow and they went their way and you went -- you went yours, did you have any further discussions with the company?
A. I mean, I -- I don't recall any specific conversations. But, you know, could have had -- could have had a conversation. I just don't recall having it or what it may have been about.
Q. In connection with the work that you did on the deal, did you ever learn that Arthur Andersen had sent Morgan Stanley a copy of a comfort letter describing, among other things, the financial performance of Sunbeam in the first quarter of the year?
A. I don't recall being involved in the comfort letter and, as a result, you know, am not aware of sort of when it was delivered, to whom, by whom, at whatever point in the process. That logically would have been happening sort of away from what I was doing on the transaction at the time.

Q. Okay. Well, let me show you a document, sir, and this has previously been marked as CPH Exhibit 17 and my first question is: Have you ever seen this before?
A. Until yesterday I had not seen this document before.
Q. In connection with the work that you did in drafting sessions and facilitating the financing, getting the final documents done and so on, did you have any discussions about the comfort letter?
A. Not that I can recall.
Q. If you turn to the page -- the third page of the document, Item 5-B describes or, rather, compares Sunbeam's sales in two periods, December 30, '96 through February 2, '97, compared to December 29, '97 through February 1, '98 and the results are shown there.
Prior to the closing, sir, were you aware of those results, to your knowledge?

A. I don't recall to what degree I was aware of these, whether at some point someone made me aware in greater detail than I had gotten earlier. But I don't recall having reviewed this letter or these figures.
Q. Do you participate in any discussions within Morgan Stanley about whether to disclose to the public or to disclose to MacAndrews & Forbes the fact that results in these two periods were as indicated in this letter?
A. No, I don't recall participating in those discussions, any discussions like that.
Q. In connection with the work that you did, did you have any conversations with anyone from MacAndrews & Forbes?
A. Not that I'm aware of. I'm not sure if I would have known that they were. So, unknowingly perhaps, but I don't believe so.
Q. And do you recall any conversations with any people from Coleman or Coleman Parent?
A. Not specifically other than perhaps in one of these meetings again. I don't recall any specific conversations.
Q. I understand. And if you turn, please, to the fifth page of the letter, it begins with subparagraph C, in which Arthur Andersen reports to Morgan Stanley that net sales for the first two months of 1998 are roughly half net sales for the corresponding period for the prior year.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Do you know when you became aware of that decline in sales?

A. I don't recall when and whether I became aware of that. Again, I was not -- not centrally involved in review of this comfort letter.

Q. You may put that document aside, sir.

If you return -- I should have asked you this before. Return to the document with the Morgan Stanley cover.

A. Right.

Q. Exhibit 75, and I'm going to ask you about some pages toward the end.

Page 18285, about four or five pages from the end of the document, there is some handwriting. Do you recognize that handwriting?

A. No.

Q. The following page is a sheet with some customer names and numbers on it. Have you ever seen that before, excluding your preparation session with Mr. Clare?

A. No. I don't recall seeing this.

Page 210

Q. In this case I've seen other versions of this document. Have you seen similar documents -- documents that are similar to this but perhaps with different handwriting or slightly different numbers?

A. I don't specifically recall this page.

Q. Do you generally recall Sunbeam documents similar to this?

A. I really don't recall it. I may have seen it, but I don't recall when or in what context.

Q. Turn to the next page. Is that a document you recognize?

A. I can barely read it. I don't -- I don't recall having seen this.

Q. Okay. Then you can put that aside.

Did there come a time, sir, when you read the press release? Did you read the press release that had been issued on the 19th of March?

A. I'm sure that I did, but I don't recall -- I don't recall doing it, but I'm sure I did.

Q. Do you know if you read it before the roadshow completed, was completed?

A. I again suspect that I did, but don't recall specifically whether I did or when I did.

MR. BRODY: Why don't we take a five-minute break. I'm going to move on to another topic.

MR. CLARE: Okay.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Going off the video record at 2:26 p.m.

(WHEREUPON, a recess was had from 2:26 to 2:34 p.m.)

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We are going back on the video record at 2:34 p.m.

BY MR. BRODY:

Q. Ready?

A. Ready.

Q. Okay. Before the break we were talking about news that came in in the first quarter about first quarter sales performance. Do you remember any discussions before the closing of the financing relating to Sunbeam's first quarter earnings per share performance?

A. I don't specifically recall those conversations.

Q. In connection with the press release, the discussions around the press release, the roadshow, do you remember anyone saying anything, either by way of a question or as an answer, about what earnings per share looked like from the first quarter?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Okay. Now, after -- withdraw that.

We looked at the report sent to the Equity Committee to get approval to do a portion of this financing deal. There was also a report to the Leveraged Finance Commitment Committee, is that correct?

A. That would make sense, yeah.

Q. Okay. And as you sit here do you remember what your role was in that memorandum?

A. I don't specifically recall, much like the Equity Commitment Committee memo, but I -- my role would have likely been even less on that but for the fact that there -- that I would suspect the documents are, you know, largely similar.

Q. Okay. Well, let me show you what I believe is the document, sir, and we'll talk about it a little.

Giving you what's previously been marked as Exhibit 76. Do you recognize that as the memorandum to the Leveraged Finance Committee and a cover memorandum reflecting that there's to be a -- a conference call about it?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0016894

A. Yeah.
Q. Or a meeting?
A. That looks like the document, yeah.
Q. Starting with the cover page, bearing Bates No. 25829, it references a meeting of the Leveraged Finance Commitment Committee on March 20 at 7:30 a.m. and it gives some dial-in numbers.
As you sit here do you remember participating in that meeting?
A. I don't remember if I did or not.
Q. Do you think you did?
A. I might have, but I might not have and would not have been a critical participant.
Q. Who would have been a more critical participant?
A. I think it would likely have been the leveraged finance team.
Q. And in this deal who are they? Is that Mr. Smith's team?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, on the cover page of Exhibit 76, there's some handwriting. Do you recognize any of that handwriting?
A. No.
Q. There's some numbers down at the bottom.

285-295, 267-295. Do you recognize those numbers? Do you know what they represent?
A. No.
Q. And to the right, the number 21, 15, 10, 45?
A. No.
Q. Above the numbers I just referenced, there appears to be something that looks like maybe "5 percent/25." Do you know what that refers to?
A. I don't.
Q. And then above that, "112.5 short." Do you know what that references?
A. No.
Q. Turning to the next page of the document, this is the -- the memorandum to the committee itself, correct?
A. Yes, sure looks like it, yeah.
Q. And, again, there is some handwriting on the first page. Do you recognize that?
A. No.
Q. On the second page of the document, sir, some additional handwriting. Do you recognize that?
A. No.
Q. Looking at this document, is there any portion as you sit here today that you believe you drafted or revised?

A. Not that I'm aware of. Again, I think a lot of this was taken from prior documents prepared. But no.
Q. Turn to page 4 to 5 of the memorandum to the committee itself, there's a section on "Due Diligence."
A. Okay.
Q. Just read that to yourself and I'm going to ask you, first, if that's something you wrote.
A. I don't know who wrote that.
Q. You don't recall having done so?
A. No, I don't recall having written it.
Q. At the top of page 5, it is written:
"Additionally, comprehensive accounting due diligence was conducted with Sunbeam's and all the targets' auditors on March 12."
Do you understand that to refer to anything other than the four 30-minute phone calls we earlier talked about?
MR. CLARE: Objection; calls for speculation. You can answer.
BY MR. BRODY:

Q. Let me ask it differently.
Do you know of any due diligence that was done with Sunbeam's and the targets' auditors other than the four 30-minute phone calls you earlier testified about?
A. Well, again, I am not specifically aware, can't specifically cite when those conversations may have taken place.
However, the accountants were involved in other portions of the preparation process. So, to assume there were no conversations with them, I wouldn't assume there were no other conversations with them. But clearly what this is referring to is those scheduled conference calls.
Q. Aside from what we can assume or infer, are you aware of any conversations with the auditors other than those four conversations on the 12th?
A. I'm aware that other conversations took place, whether I was a part of them or not. I know that, you know, the accountants were working closely with the rest of the team in preparation of and review of the document, for one.
Q. And when you --
A. So, I would assume there were

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 217

conversations taking place while that was happening.
Q. And when you talk about review of the document, you mean the offering memorandum?
A. Yes.
Q. And the information from the accountants contained in the offering memorandum are the historical financial statements?
MR. CLARE: Objection; calls for --
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Is that correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection; lack of foundation.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. Ask that -- ask the question again.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Did the accountants provide information for the offering memorandum other than the historical financial statements of the companies?
MR. CLARE: Objection; lack of foundation. You can answer.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. The accountants review a lot of the facts and figures in the document in addition to the financial statements.
BY MR. BRODY:

Page 218

Q. Do you know what facts and figures they reviewed?
A. I don't specifically know what they reviewed, but it's customary for them to review and provide comfort on a lot of the figures beyond the financial statements in the document.
Q. Do you know if they did that in this case?
A. I, you know, may not have been the primary participant in those discussions, but I would assume that they had. But I don't -- I don't recall specifically what happened.
Q. Okay. I think that answers my question.
Do you know if you reviewed any drafts of this document before it was sent to the committee?
MR. CLARE: Now we're referring to --
MR. BRODY: I'm referring to Exhibit --
MR. CLARE: 76.
MR. BRODY: -- 76.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I don't recall specifically reviewing this document.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. I believe you testified you weren't certain whether you participated in this -- this meeting of the committee.

Page 219

A. Right.
Q. Was it reported to you anything that was said at the committee meeting?
A. I can't recall.
Q. Now, the meeting of the committee took place on the 20th of March, which is the day after the press release was issued.
Do you recall any discussion within the company of the impact of the press release on the deal or on approval by the Leveraged Finance Committee?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Do you know if the Leveraged Finance Committee letter was changed in any way to reflect the information contained in the press release?
A. I don't know.
Q. Aside from what you've testified about, do you remember anything else you did in connection with the preparation, circulation and consideration of the memo to the Leveraged Finance Committee that we've marked as Exhibit 76?
A. No.
Q. Now, between March 20, the date this committee meeting took place, and March 25, the day the deal closed, did you do any further work on the deal that you remember?

MR. CLARE: Object to form. I hate to be picky about this. You keep saying "the deal" and there were a number of financial transactions that closed on different dates.
MR. BRODY: The financing.
MR. CLARE: So, the financing.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. That's fine. The financing that you worked on.
A. I don't specifically recall what additional discussions or conversations I participated in during that period.
Q. After the press release came out, are you aware of anyone at Morgan Stanley who did any further investigation into the first quarter numbers, either sales or earnings per share?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Do you know of anyone from Morgan Stanley that investigated whether Sunbeam could make its sales projections, could achieve them?
A. Again, I don't remember.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 221

Q. During that time period do you know of anyone from Morgan Stanley that visited any Sunbeam locations, such as shipping docks or shipping facilities?
A. I don't know. And I might not -- you know, wouldn't necessarily know what other members of the team were doing.
Q. Not necessarily. I understand.
Do you know if Sunbeam did anything to monitor -- excuse me.
Do you know if Morgan Stanley did anything to monitor Sunbeam's sales after the press release?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you know if Morgan Stanley received or requested updates on actual sales during this time period?
A. I don't remember, and I -- I don't remember.
Q. Okay. Are you familiar with a Sunbeam document referred to as the "Daily Scorecard" or the "Daily Sales Report"?
A. No.
Q. Were you involved in a bring-down due diligence call on this matter?

Page 222

A. I don't recall being involved, but I'm aware that one took place.
Q. How are you aware one took place?
A. Because I remember -- I remember it happening. It's a typical, very customary part of the procedure, and I'm aware -- I remember that one happened.
Q. Do you remember who participated in that call?
A. I don't.
Q. And do you remember anything that was said in words or in substance?
A. No, and I don't recall being a part of it.
Q. Okay. Now, if you look at the exhibit we just marked as -- just used, rather, as Exhibit 76, and the description of the financial transaction includes a revolving credit facility and two term loans. Do you see that?
MR. CLARE: What page are you on?
BY THE WITNESS:
A. What page are we on?
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. I'm referring to the second page of the report to the Leveraged Finance Committee.

Page 223

A. Okay.
Q. The $2 billion facility is described here as consisting of a $500 million revolving credit plus two term loans, totaling 1.5 billion. Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And then in the paragraph above that box there is a reference to the 500 million zero coupon convertible subordinated debenture deal.
Do you know if when the deals closed, they closed in those amounts?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Are you aware that at some point after March 19 the amount of the subordinated debenture offering was increased by $250 million?
A. I vaguely -- I mean, I now at that suggestion remember that, yes.
Q. And at the same time the amount of the bank debt was decreased by 250 million?
A. Again, I -- I don't remember all the details. So, you may have the facts. I don't remember.
Q. Do you know why the amounts of the deals were changed?
A. Not specifically or how that determination was made, whether to increase the size of the deal and change the composition of the financing; but assuming there was a fixed need of financing, need for financing, that would make sense.

Q. Do you know who was involved in making that decision?
A. Not specifically.
Q. Do you have a recollection whether the subordinated debenture offering was oversubscribed?
A. I recall that it was, but I don't recall to what degree or the details.
Q. Now --
A. And they often are.
Q. Right. I'd like to focus on a different topic, sir; and, that is, your involvement in preparing the offering document.
A. Okay.
Q. In earlier testimony you think you once referred to the prospectus.
You're aware that there was an offering memorandum for the subordinated debenture offering?
A. Say that -- for the subordinated debenture offering?
Q. For the convertible.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016897

Page 225

A. For the convertible, yes, yes.
Q. And you were involved in working on that?
A. Yes.
Q. What was your involvement in working on the offering memorandum?
A. In reviewing the document that's principally prepared and authored by company and underwriters counsel but principally company counsel and the company.
Q. Okay. So, there are a number of parties that participate in the preparation of the document?
A. Yes, absolutely.
Q. Company's involved?
A. Yes.
Q. Company's counsel's involved?
A. Yes.
Q. Morgan Stanley was involved?
A. Yes.
Q. Morgan Stanley's counsel was involved?
A. Yes.
Q. Morgan Stanley and its counsel made suggestions on the document?
A. Yes.

Page 226

Q. Some of those suggestions went into the document?
A. I'm sure they did, yeah.
Q. Did you make any proposed changes, suggest any proposed changes to the document?
A. I'm sure I did.
Q. Do you recall any of the ones you made?
A. No, not specifically.
Q. In addition to -- withdraw that.
There were drafting sessions at which the document was discussed?
A. Yes.
Q. And in a drafting session representatives of Morgan Stanley as well as from the company and their lawyers were present?
A. I would say typically, yeah. Is that the case in each and every case? I don't know. In this case, I don't know. But --
Q. Do you remember if you were ever present at a drafting session?
A. I do believe I was.
Q. Do you remember where that took place?
A. No. I vaguely recollect that most of that happening in New York, but I don't -- don't recall.

Page 227

Q. Do you know if they ever took place at Morgan Stanley offices?
A. I don't remember.
Q. At --
A. That would be -- that would not be typical. They tend to be at the -- one of the attorney's offices or a printer.
Q. Or? I'm sorry?
A. Or a printer.
Q. Okay. Do you know if any of those meetings took place at the Davis Polk law firm?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Aside from commenting on the offering memorandum for the convertible debentures, did you offer comments on any of the other deal documents, financing documents?
A. To what document -- what document are you referring to?
Q. Well, in connection with a transaction of this type there are frequently a variety of documents, underwriting agreements, agreements among underwriters, offering memoranda, various other securities filings.
A. I don't remember if I made comments to some of those other documents. They would tend to be more mechanical and not something that I would have spent a lot of time with.

Q. Aside from yourself, sir, do you remember other representatives of Morgan Stanley making comments or suggestions to the offering document?
A. Yes.
Q. Who else?
A. John Tyree. That's all. That's the only other name that -- that I can recall or would specifically recall having made comments.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked CPH Exhibit No. 132, for identification, as of 1/22/04.)
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Sir, I've given you what's been marked as Exhibit 132, and it identifies a distribution list and I see your name on it.
Do you have a recollection of having received this document?
A. Not specifically.
Q. And in the -- the document is sent by Mr. Dietz and Mr. Freed who are counsel for Morgan Stanley -- excuse me -- counsel for Sunbeam, is that correct?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 229

A. I'm looking to see who --
Q. They're from Skadden, Arps, if that assists.
A. Yeah, okay.
Q. In the cover memo, the second sentence refers to riders proposed by Morgan Stanley, proposed riders prepared by Morgan Stanley.
Did you have anything to do with -- with drafting those proposed riders?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Do you remember them being discussed at the meeting on the 12th of March?
A. No, I don't remember this meeting, if I attended it.
Q. If you turn to the second page, the list of attendees, do you remember all of those individuals -- excuse me. I said attendees. I mean distribution list.
Do you remember whether all of those attendees for Morgan Stanley attended some of the drafting sessions?
A. Whether all of them?
Q. Well, you attended a drafting session, correct?
A. I -- I recall generally attending. I don't know if it was this one or another one.

Page 230

Q. Do you know if Mr. -- do you know if Mr. Yoo attended a drafting session, Y-o-o?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Do you know if Mr. Derito did?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Mr. Hart?
A. Similarly, don't remember. Don't remember if this one or another one.
Q. I mean any of them.
A. I don't remember.
Q. Okay. And, finally, Mr. Burchill?
A. Don't remember.
Q. After the final offering memorandum was completed, did you receive a copy?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that one of the documents that you kept about this deal?
A. It probably would have been one of the documents I kept.
Q. Do you believe there was anything in the offering -- offering memorandum that was false or misleading in any way?
MR. CLARE: Object to the form.
BY THE WITNESS:

Page 231

A. I mean, I wouldn't consider myself in a position to comment on the accuracy of every piece of information in that document.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. But as you --
A. There was nothing that I knew blatantly to be -- to be false.
Q. In connection with any of those drafting sessions, do you recall discussions with Morgan Stanley people, the counsel, Sunbeam people or any of the participants about making disclosures about Sunbeam's first quarter performance?
A. I don't specifically recall those conversations or any conversation like that.
MR. BRODY: I'm going to mark an additional document, sir.
(WHEREUPON, a certain document was marked CPH Exhibit No. 133, for identification, as of 1/22/04.)
MR. BRODY: 133. I think this will be brief, but I'm going to ask you anyway.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. I'm not going to ask you about this document, sir, other than the handwriting. Is any of that handwriting yours?

Page 232

A. No.
Q. And I'm going to refer to a couple of specific pages. The page bearing No. 59257.
MR. CLARE: 257?
MR. BRODY: Yes.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. There is nothing on that one.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. That's not yours?
A. There's nothing on it. 59257?
Q. 59257.
MR. CLARE: Here.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. No.
MR. CLARE: You are talking, Mike, about the number under the EBITDA line.
MR. BRODY: I am.
MR. CLARE: Okay.

A. No.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Okay. And I think you saw the page numbers on the cover up in the upper right corner. That's not yours?
A. No.

Q. Okay. Then put that aside.
Mr. Savarie, I'm handing you what's previously been marked as Exhibit 36. This is a press release issued by the company on April 3, 1997.
Have you ever seen that before?
A. Yeah, I saw it yesterday.
Q. Prior to yesterday had you seen it before?
A. I -- I may have seen this. I don't -- I don't recall specifically, though.
Q. In the cover memo from Mr. Fannin, he refers to the fact that Mr. Goudis was leaving the company.
Did you have conversations with Mr. Goudis about his departure from the company?
A. I don't believe I had conversations until after he had departed and I met with him once after he had gone to Rexall Sundown.
Q. What do you recall discussing with him at Rexall?
A. I was, as I recall, introducing a colleague of mine to him --
Q. Did you discuss --
A. -- and it was about Rexall Sundown.

Page 234

Q. Did you discuss at all his experience at Sunbeam?
A. No.
Q. Did you have --
A. Not that I can remember. I don't remember. I don't remember exactly what we talked about. But I don't remember it being focused around Sunbeam.
Q. I understand. The press release itself, do you recall seeing that before it was issued or being aware of it before it was issued?
A. I don't specifically recall whether and when I saw it.
Q. Do you have any recollection of having seen it prior to its issuance?
A. Not specifically.
Q. The press release refers to Mr. Uzzi's departure from the company. Were you advised prior to his departure that Mr. Uzzi was leaving the company?
A. No. Was I personally advised?
Q. Yes.
A. No, no.
Q. Did you ever have any dealings or conversations with Mr. Uzzi?

Page 235

A. I don't specifically recall any conversations. He may well have been in a meeting that I was in, but I don't specifically recall him personally.
Q. After April 3, the date of this press release, did you personally have any involvement in Morgan Stanley's work for Sunbeam that you recall as you sit here?
A. Yeah, I was still, if you will, in the wings to help Bill as needed. But can't specifically recall what it was I was doing or did.
Q. Do you recall anything that you did?
A. You know, later, I attended a presentation in New York. I remember sort of being part of a big group that attended a presentation in New York, and then Bill had me help him with some of the work.
There was a PR firm that got involved at some point, and I was, you know, helping them get some of the background information, et cetera.
Q. We'll turn to that briefly in a moment.
But were you involved in any effort of Morgan Stanley to syndicate its financing, to get other lenders to participate?
A. I was not directly involved in that, in that part of the process.

Page 236

Q. Did you have any indirect involvement?
A. Only to the extent I highlighted sort of the -- the cross-coordination between various members of the team sort of working together on all these projects in parallel.
Q. Okay. I'm not sure I understand what that means. Let me ask you a couple of questions.
A. Well, meaning that we -- we attended, in some cases, the bank team and the convertible team attended meetings together. There were memos obviously that shared a lot of content.
Q. I think I understand what you mean.
A. Right.
Q. Focusing on the time after the closing of the financing deals at the end of March, were you involved in efforts after that point to try to involve other bank participants in the syndication of --
A. Was I?
Q. Yes.
A. No, I was not -- you know, not involved in the bank syndication, at least to my recollection.
Q. Okay. At some point -- let me withdraw that.

Morgan Stanley's financial performance in the first quarter of 1998 did not meet its sales or earnings estimates on the street, did it?
MR. CLARE: Objection. I think, again, you misspoke.
MR. BRODY: I said Morgan Stanley?
MR. CLARE: Sunbeam.
MR. BRODY: Yeah.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Sunbeam's earnings and sales for the first quarter of 1998 did not meet street projections, did they?
A. Again, I don't recall all the specifics, but that's right.
Q. And isn't it also true that Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales fell short of its first quarter 1997 sales?
A. Again, I'm not familiar with the -- how all the numbers came out, but I recall that generally.
Q. And the -- do you know if the convertible debentures that you were involved in the financing of were ever paid?
A. Were ever --

Page 238

MR. CLARE: Object to the form.
BY MR. BRODY:
Q. Were they repaid by Sunbeam?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you know if the investors in those bonds have been made whole?
A. I don't know.
Q. Is that something you've participated in or followed?
A. No.
Q. Turning to the meeting with the analysts that you referred to, do you know why it was, sir, that you were involved in that presentation, that meeting?
A. Again, because I had been involved with the company, I had worked with Bill. I think Bill continued to maintain dialogue with the company. I vaguely recall he may have played a role in introducing them to the PR firm and asked me as a -- as a result of that to help him with certain aspects of that.
Q. Okay. So, you participated at the request of Mr. Strong?
A. Right.
Q. At the presentation -- well, let me withdraw that.

Page 239

There was ultimately a presentation given to analysts?
A. Yeah, I can't remember who the audience was but, yeah, there was a big presentation I remember in New York.
Q. Did you participate? Did you attend?
A. Yeah, I sat in the audience.
Q. You didn't speak?
A. No.
Q. Did you prepare any of the slides or materials used in the presentation?
A. I don't recall preparing any slides for that.
Q. Do you know if you reviewed slides that were presented at the presentation?
A. I may have. I may have or may have, you know, put things together, provided certain pieces of information that were used in those slides. I don't recall specifically, though, what I did.
Q. Okay.

A. Okay.
Q. You can look at as much of this as you want, but I'm going to focus on the beginning portions of it. So, let me know when you've had a chance to look at those.
A. Okay.
Q. The recipients of this -- of this memorandum, Sard, Verbinnen and Bailey, are they at the PR firm?
A. That's my recollection, yeah.
Q. Do you remember the name of the PR firm as you sit here?
A. I think it was Sard Verbinnen.
Q. Beginning -- do you remember receiving a copy of this memorandum from anyone?
A. I don't. I don't specifically. I saw it again yesterday, but I don't recall.
Q. At the beginning -- at the beginning Mr. Fannin says:
"Some slides are available from Morgan Stanley. You can call Bill Strong or Andy Savarie to get those."

Page 241

Do you recall receiving a call from anyone asking for slides for use in this presentation?
A. Again, I don't recall specifically a call. However, as I indicated, I -- I do generally remember being asked to provide materials that we may have had, whether they were slides or other things, for their use in helping to prepare these presumably.
Q. After you provided those slides, do you know if you were -- withdraw that.
After you provided the slides, did the PR firm edit them in any way?
MR. CLARE: Objection; lack of foundation.
BY THE WITNESS:
A. I mean, I don't remember specifically what was done with anything that I may or may not have provided.
Q. Okay.

Q. Sir, I've given you what's been marked as Exhibit 135.

Do you recognize these as the slides that were used in that presentation on May 11?
A. I don't recognize them because I haven't seen them in six years. But they look to be the slides used in that presentation.
Q. I'm going to ask you about several of the slides, and my question on all of them really is going to be did these come from Morgan Stanley and then, if so, we'll see what you remember about them.
And we'll start with the slide at page 63740, the "Chain Reaction" slide. Do you recall that slide?
A. No.
Q. Do you know if that slide came from Morgan Stanley?
A. I don't know where that slide came from.
Q. The next slide I'd like to ask you about is at page 63748, the "Cost Savings and Synergies" slide. Is that a slide that Morgan Stanley provided?
A. I don't know.
Q. That -- you don't recall that slide?
A. No, I don't recall that slide.
Q. The following page is an additional

Page 243

"Synergies" slide. Do you have a recollection of that or know its source?
A. No.
Q. Page 63751 entitled "Sources of Growth."
A. No, I don't recall -- recall this slide.
Q. A few pages further, page 63755, various savings summaries. Do you recognize that?
A. No.
Q. Having seen these slides, do they refresh your recollection at all as to the work done by Coopers & Lybrand for Sunbeam at the time?
A. Not particularly. Whether there was any work being done by them after the fact, I was not intimately involved in. And much after -- after the conclusion of the financing.
Q. Okay. And if you'd turn further, pretty far back in the document, to page 63790.
A. I don't recall this either.
Q. Okay. Okay. You can put that document aside, sir.
I think we're pretty much done. I just want to ask a couple follow-up things.
In 1997 and 1998 when you worked on this deal, by whom were you evaluated? How was your performance at the company evaluated?

Page 244

A. At Morgan Stanley?
Q. Yes.
A. It would be, you know, a combination of the managing directors that I worked for, Bill Strong, Frank English, John Adams and other people that were evaluating me.
Q. Did they fill out forms and send them in?
A. Yeah.
Q. Was there a self -- I'm sorry.
A. Yeah. I'd say in the -- in the sort of the normal process, yes.
Q. Was there a self-evaluation that you also had completed?
A. I'm sure there was. I don't -- at that point -- I don't know what we did at that stage six years ago, but -- so, I don't specifically remember if that year we had to do one or not.
Q. But there were years when you did one?
A. Yeah.
Q. At that time were you compensated with a base pay and a bonus?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know how the base pay was determined?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016902

Page 245

A. The base pay?
Q. Yes.
A. The base pay was pretty common across the bank based on seniority.
Q. So, that was more --
A. Level.
Q. -- a lockstep compensation?
A. Yes. The base pay.
Q. And the bonus, was that decided based on your performance at the company?
A. Yes, presumably, although I don't know how, but...
Q. In fact, many companies have bonuses where the employees have no idea how they work, which somewhat defeats their purpose but...
A. Right.
Q. In terms of relationship to your base pay, how did your bonus compare, in 1997?
A. I don't remember what I made in 1997, but I would -- and I'm speculating. I would guess it was, you know, probably two times, three times, perhaps what my base pay was.
Q. And in 1998, do you know if it was the same?
A. Probably about the same.

Page 246

Q. Was that customary for people at your level of seniority within the company, to have a bonus --
A. I don't know, candidly. Is it customary that it be a multiple of it? Yes. Is it the difference between two, three and four? Perhaps, and there's a range of compensation.
Q. Do you know who made the decision about what bonus to pay you?
A. No.
Q. Were you evaluated by anyone for your work on the Sunbeam engagement?
A. I'm sure that I was, but I don't specifically recall who.
Q. The next question --
A. I mean, I, you know -- it would have logically been something to have asked someone to -- not necessarily on that transaction, but it may well have been members of the team that I worked on that and other things with or during the course of the year.
Q. Do you recall if your base pay or bonus compensation were affected in any way by the work you did on Sunbeam?
A. I don't recall any specific reference to Sunbeam.
Q. Do you know if your departure from the company, from Morgan Stanley, had anything to do with your work for Sunbeam?
A. I don't think it did.
Q. Were you told why?
A. Why I departed?
Q. Yeah.
A. Yeah. It had more to do with at that point in my career spending a lot more time on automotive and how that was, you know, less a priority.
Q. You've answered more than I asked.
When you were told the reasons why you were leaving the company, was Sunbeam mentioned in any way?
A. No.
MR. BRODY: I don't have anything further. Thank you for your time.
MR. CLARE: I don't have any questions.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We are going off the video record at the end of Tape 3 at 3:19 p.m.

FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT

In March 1998, Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated ("MS & Co."), Morgan Stanley Senior Funding, Inc. ("MSSF"), and Morgan Stanley — in direct reliance on certified financial statements that were audited by Defendant Arthur Andersen LLP (an Illinois limited-liability partnership) ("Andersen") with the assistance of and in coordination with the other Defendants named in this Complaint[1] — underwrote a multi-million dollar offering of convertible notes and

[1] AWSC, Société Coopérative, en liquidation, a Swiss cooperative corporation ("Andersen-Worldwide") (formerly known as Andersen Worldwide, Société Coopérative), Arthur Andersen LLP (an Ontario limited liability partnership) ("Andersen-Canada"), Arthur Andersen & Co. (a provided a $680 million loan to Sunbeam Corporation, Inc., in connection with Sunbeam's acquisition of three companies. As Sunbeam's subsequent restatement of its financial results showed, these certified financial statements grossly misrepresented Sunbeam's true financial condition. Andersen and the other Defendants had full knowledge of these misstatements, and they intended that MS & Co. and MSSF would rely on these unqualified audit opinions. Plaintiffs — as a direct consequence of this deceit — have lost hundreds of millions of dollars. Accordingly, Plaintiffs bring this action and allege the following:

Nature of Action

1. In March 1998, Sunbeam announced the acquisition of The Coleman Company, Inc., Signature Brands USA, Inc., and First Alert, Inc. In order to finance these acquisitions, Sunbeam issued $750 million of convertible notes, which MS & Co. underwrote, and borrowed $1.2 billion in secured financing, including a loan of $680 million from MSSF.

2. In serving as an underwriter (which required MS & Co. to act as the initial purchaser of the convertible notes) and in agreeing to extend the loan, MS & Co. and MSSF relied on the accuracy of Sunbeam's financial statements, including its 1996 and 1997 financial statements that had been audited and certified by Andersen, as well as other representations made to them by Andersen. The Andersen-certified Sunbeam financial statements portrayed Sunbeam as a financially sound company in the midst of an extraordinary financial turnaround.

3. In reality, unbeknownst to Plaintiffs, Sunbeam's "turnaround" was an illusion facilitated by the Defendants. As became apparent in the summer of 1998 and as confirmed by Sunbeam's subsequent restatement of its financial results, the 1996 and 1997 statements that Andersen had certified — and upon which MS & Co. and MSSF had relied — did not, contrary to the representations that Andersen made to MS & Co. and MSSF, conform with generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). Andersen, with full knowledge of the material misstatements contained in Sunbeam's financial reports, issued unqualified audit opinions for both 1996 and 1997. In so doing, it failed to perform its audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards ("GAAS").

4. In fact, the statements that Andersen audited and certified as in compliance with GAAP and as representing Sunbeam's true financial condition, were replete with accounting improprieties. As a consequence, and contrary to the representations that Andersen made to MS & Co. and MSSF, Sunbeam's true financial condition was misstated by millions of dollars.

5. Andersen's fraud was knowingly caused by Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus. Harlow (the Sunbeam engagement partner) and Pruitt (the Sunbeam concurring partner) were senior partners of Andersen and members of Andersen-Worldwide and undertook direct responsibility for directing, managing, and approving the work that was done on the Sunbeam audits. Denkhaus, who also was a senior partner of Andersen and a member of Andersen-Worldwide, was the Audit Division Head and manager of Andersen's audit practice for the entire South Florida region and in this role undertook responsibility for supervising and monitoring the work performed at Harlow's and Pruitt's direction. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus each knew or recklessly disregarded the accounting violations contained in Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial statements. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus also knew or recklessly disregarded that the erroneous financial statements that they had caused Andersen to certify would be relied upon by MS & Co. in deciding to underwrite the convertible notes and by MSSF in deciding to loan Sunbeam hundreds of millions of dollars.

6. This fraud was also knowingly perpetrated by the foreign Andersen branches named in this complaint, Andersen-Canada, Andersen-Hong Kong, Andersen-Mexico, and Andersen-Venezuela (collectively, the "Foreign Andersen Branches"). Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches reviewed and audited financial statements prepared for Sunbeam's foreign subsidiaries for 1997, all of which contained significant accounting violations. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches knew of or recklessly disregarded the fact that the financial statements that they had reviewed and audited were not prepared in accordance with GAAP or reviewed in accordance with GAAS. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches also knew that the financial statements that they had audited would be incorporated into Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements and that lenders, such as MSSF, and underwriters, such as MS & Co., would rely on these financial statements.

7. The fraud was also knowingly perpetrated by Andersen-Worldwide through the actions of its members, including Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus, and its member firms, including Andersen and the Foreign Andersen Branches.

8. This fraud ultimately forced Sunbeam and several of its subsidiaries to seek relief under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code, in February 2001. As part of the bankruptcy court-approved reorganization plan, MSSF's $680 million loan to Sunbeam was discharged in full, and MSSF received Sunbeam stock valued at a fraction of the original loan. In addition, the convertible notes issued by Sunbeam and held by MS & Co. had been rendered substantially less valuable.

9. By this complaint, Plaintiffs seek compensatory damages of several hundreds of millions of dollars.

THE PARTIES AND OTHER RELEVANT ENTITIES

10. MS & Co. is a financial services firm that engages in underwriting, investment banking, financial advisory services, securities sales and trading, and research. In late 1997 and early 1998, MS & Co. assisted Sunbeam in identifying potential acquisition targets and served as Sunbeam's financial advisor with respect to certain aspects of Sunbeam's acquisitions of Coleman, Signature Brands, and First Alert. MS & Co. also served as the underwriter of a $750 million offering of convertible notes that Sunbeam used to finance these acquisitions. MS & Co. is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware, with its principal place of business in New York.

11. MSSF is a company that provides credit services to its clients. In 1998, MSSF entered into a credit agreement with Sunbeam under which MSSF agreed to provide a loan to Sunbeam in connection with Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman, Signature Brands, and First Alert. Pursuant to the credit agreement, Sunbeam borrowed $680 million from MSSF, with the borrowings used by Sunbeam to fund certain costs relating to the acquisitions. MSSF is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware, with its principal place of business in New York.

12. Morgan Stanley is a financial services company. It owns 100 percent of the stock of both MS & Co. and MSSF. Morgan Stanley is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware, with its principal place of business in New York.

13. Andersen was a member in or business unit of Andersen-Worldwide. Andersen is a partnership formed under the laws of the State of Illinois. Once one of the world's largest accounting firms, almost all of its partners have left the firm. Andersen participated in and coordinated the 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam and the 1998 restatement of the reports of those audits. In addition, Andersen's partners and employees provided consulting services to Sunbeam as part of due diligence work performed in conjunction with Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman, as well as on other projects.

14. Andersen-Worldwide is a cooperative corporation organized under the laws of Switzerland. Its members included more than 2,000 individuals from 390 offices in 84 countries. Various individuals who were members of Andersen-Worldwide participated in the 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam and the 1998 restatement of the reports of those audits. Andersen-Worldwide and Andersen dictated the policies and procedures to be used by Andersen members and affiliates throughout the world. Andersen and Andersen-Worldwide at all relevant times (a) held themselves out to the public as a single, integrated, full-service, professional business enterprise comprising "one firm" with "one voice" and "common values and vision," (b) completely dominated and controlled each other's assets, operations, policies, procedures, strategies, and tactics, (c) failed to observe corporate formalities, and (d) used and commingled the assets, facilities, employees, and business opportunities of each other, as if those assets, facilities, employees, and business opportunities were their own.

15. Andersen-Canada was a member in or part of Andersen-Worldwide. Andersen-Canada is a partnership organized under the laws of the province of Ontario, Canada. Andersen-Canada audited the 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam's Canadian subsidiary for inclusion in

016912

Andersen's 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements. It also participated in the 1998 restatement of the reports of those audits.

16. Andersen-Hong-Kong was a member in or part of Andersen-Worldwide. Andersen-Hong Kong is a partnership organized under the laws of Hong Kong. Andersen-Hong Kong audited the 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam's Hong Kong subsidiary for inclusion in Andersen's 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements. It also participated in the 1998 restatement of the reports of those audits.

17. Andersen-Mexico was a member in or part of Andersen-Worldwide. Andersen-Mexico is a partnership organized under the laws of Mexico. Andersen-Mexico audited the 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam's Mexican subsidiary for inclusion in Andersen's 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements. It also participated in the 1998 restatement of the reports of those audits.

18. Andersen-Venezuela was a member in or part of Andersen-Worldwide. Andersen-Venezuela is a partnership organized under the laws of Venezuela. Andersen-Venezuela audited the 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam's Venezuelan subsidiary for inclusion in Andersen's 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements. It also participated in the 1998 restatement of the reports of those audits.

19. Defendant Harlow is a resident of Florida and at all times material hereto was a partner in Andersen and a member in Andersen-Worldwide. He served as the engagement partner on the audits of Sunbeam's financial statements from 1993 to 1998. As engagement partner, Harlow undertook the primary responsibility for supervising the 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam, including directing and overseeing the activities with respect to the Sunbeam work performed by numerous persons at Andersen. Harlow also participated as a member of Sunbeam's due diligence team in connection with Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman.

20. Defendant Pruitt is a resident of Florida and at all times material hereto was a partner in Andersen and a member of Andersen-Worldwide. He served as the concurring partner on the Sunbeam audits for at least 1996 and 1997. As such, he undertook responsibility for independently reviewing the Sunbeam audit work that had been conducted under Harlow's supervision and ensuring that it complied with GAAP and GAAS.

21. Defendant Denkhaus is a resident of Florida and at all times material hereto was a partner in Andersen and a member of Andersen-Worldwide. Denkhaus was Audit Division Head and manager of Andersen's audit practice for the entire South Florida region. As such, Denkhaus undertook responsibility for ensuring that the audit work performed by Andersen in the South Florida region was conducted in accordance with GAAP and GAAS. Denkhaus also served as the engagement partner on Sunbeam's ultimate restatement of its financial statements.

22. At all times material hereto, Sunbeam Corporation was headquartered in Palm Beach County, Florida. Sunbeam Corporation, through its operating subsidiaries and affiliates, manufactured, marketed, and distributed durable household and outdoor leisure consumer products through mass-market and other consumer channels. On February 6, 2001, Sunbeam and several of its affiliates filed a petition for relief under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New York. Sunbeam has since emerged from bankruptcy and now operates under the name American Household.

23. The Coleman Company, Inc. was a leading manufacturer and marketer of consumer products for the worldwide outdoor recreation market. Coleman was a Delaware corporation, with its principal place of business in Kansas. Prior to March 30, 1998, Coleman (Parent)

Holdings Inc. ("Coleman-Parent") owned 44,067,520 shares (or approximately 82 percent) of Coleman. Coleman-Parent is a Delaware corporation, with its principal place of business in New York and is a wholly-owned subsidiary of MacAndrews and Forbes Holdings, Inc. ("MAFCO"). MAFCO is a global investment firm owned and operated by financier Ronald O. Perelman. Through its various subsidiaries and affiliates, MAFCO owns and/or controls a number of multi-billion dollar global corporations, including Revlon, Inc., the international consumer cosmetics company. MAFCO is a Delaware corporation, with its principal place of business in New York.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

24. This Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action pursuant to section 26.012(2)(a), Florida Statutes, because Plaintiff seeks damages in excess of $15,000 exclusive of interest, costs, and attorneys' fees.

25. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Andersen, Andersen-Worldwide, Andersen-Canada, Andersen-Hong Kong, Andersen-Mexico, and Andersen-Venezuela pursuant to section 48.193(1)(a), (b), and (f), Florida Statutes, because each of them, directly or through its partners, members, agents, or employees, (1) operated, conducted, engaged in, or carried on a business or business venture in Florida from which the acts and injuries complained of in this action arose, (2) committed within Florida the tortious acts complained of in this action, or (3) by an act or omission outside of Florida, caused the complained-of injuries to Plaintiffs to occur within Florida at or about the time that it was engaged in service activities in Florida or that its services were used or consumed within Florida in the ordinary course of commerce, trade, or use.

26. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendants Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus, because each of them is a resident of Florida.

27. Venue is proper in this Court pursuant to section 47.011, Florida Statutes, because Andersen maintained an office with more than 30 employees and partners in Palm Beach County, and the cause of action accrued in Palm Beach County.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Andersen's and Sunbeam's Fraudulent Scheme

28. In July 1996, to address its growing financial difficulties, Sunbeam hired Albert Dunlap as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. Dunlap was a well-known "turnaround" specialist who had a history of apparent success at other companies. He was nicknamed "Chainsaw Al" because of his practice of cutting staff and closing plants to achieve quick turnaround results.

29. Immediately after he was hired, Dunlap publicly predicted that, as a result of the Company's restructuring, Sunbeam would attain significant increases in its margins and sales. Dunlap replaced almost all of top management with his own selections, hiring Russell A. Kersh (Chief Financial Officer); Donald R. Uzzi (Vice President, Marketing and Product Development, and later Executive Vice President, Consumer Products Worldwide); Lee B. Griffith (Vice President, Sales); and Robert J. Gluck (Principal Accounting Officer).

30. Unbeknownst to the public and to Plaintiffs, Sunbeam's new senior management embarked upon a scheme designed to misrepresent Sunbeam's financial condition. Sunbeam's subsequent November 1998 restatement of its 1996 and 1997 financial statements revealed the plan that Sunbeam's management had adopted and Andersen facilitated. In 1996, Sunbeam's management, with Andersen's knowing assistance, caused Sunbeam to overstate its operating losses by at least $40 million, thereby establishing an overly bleak financial backdrop against which the company's performance in 1997 would be measured. In 1997, by contrast, management caused Sunbeam dramatically to overstate its earnings. When 1997 operating earnings were eventually corrected and restated, they were $95 million less than the earnings originally reported — and approximately half of the figure that Andersen had previously certified.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0116916

16div-025060

31. In order to convince the public that Sunbeam's turnaround was real, Sunbeam needed an outside auditor to validate its financial reports. Andersen — desperate to retain a valuable client — stood ready to assist Sunbeam in its scheme.

32. After Dunlap assumed control of Sunbeam, Andersen had reason to fear that its relationship with Sunbeam was in jeopardy. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus knew that Dunlap had employed Coopers & Lybrand, one of Andersen's major competitors, as a financial consultant and independent auditor in past turnaround assignments. In fact, Dunlap had already engaged Coopers & Lybrand to assist in planning Sunbeam's massive restructuring.

33. Andersen had a significant stake in retaining Sunbeam, a long-time major client. Being dropped by a high-profile client such as Sunbeam would have been a severe blow to Andersen's reputation. The company generated substantial income for Andersen's Florida office, paying over $1 million in fees for its 1995 audit alone and providing it with substantial income from lucrative consulting assignments. Indeed, Andersen was so eager to keep Sunbeam as its client that it agreed to a 30-percent reduction in its 1996 audit fees.

34. Andersen's fees were particularly important to Andersen's partners, whose incomes were dependent on the continued business from Sunbeam. Andersen tied part of its audit partners' compensation to the solicitation and marketing of non-audit consulting services, and created other revenue-sharing arrangements between audit and consulting partner groups.

016917

35. Andersen put tremendous pressure on partners to generate more fees. A "depth chart" was developed for each audit client based upon the level of services provided to that client. Partner compensation was determined based on the additional services sold, and the ability of an Andersen partner to increase his income depended directly upon the level of fees that the partner "controlled" or sold to his or her assigned clients. These pressures led directly to a conflict of interest for the auditors on the Sunbeam engagement and were a significant factor that caused Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus, as well as the Foreign Andersen Branches, to abandon their independence, objectivity, and integrity on the Sunbeam financial statement audits and reviews.

Andersen's Worldwide Operations

36. Andersen was formed in Illinois in 1913 as an accounting and consulting partnership under the name "Arthur Andersen & Co." In 1977, as Andersen increased its global presence, it created a new structure called the "Andersen Worldwide Organization." The Andersen Worldwide Organization was overseen by Andersen-Worldwide, which acted as an umbrella organization for the Andersen, the other Andersen Worldwide Organization member firms, the members and contract partners of Andersen-Worldwide, and the individual members and partners of the Andersen Worldwide Organization member firms. The model adopted by the Andersen Worldwide Organization was intended to preserve "The Heart of Partnership Culture," including income sharing among the member firms of the Andersen Worldwide Organization and a common governance model. Thus, partners (or equivalents) in the various branches of the Andersen Worldwide Organization were also members of Andersen-Worldwide, resulting in a global partnership of more than 2,000 individuals from 390 offices in 84 different countries. In addition to overlapping partners and members, Andersen-Worldwide and Andersen shared officers in common. For example, the former CEO and Managing Partner of Andersen-Worldwide, Joseph Berardino, was also the CEO and Managing Partner of Andersen.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016918

37. Andersen-Worldwide and Andersen also shared the same address. In its promotional literature, Andersen-Worldwide stated that its headquarters were located at 33 West Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603. That is the same address as the headquarters of Andersen.

38. Andersen-Worldwide set uniform professional standards for all its offices and required the members and partners in its international offices to agree to be bound by those professional standards and principles. Andersen-Worldwide coordinated the sharing of costs and allocation of revenues and profits among its members and partners and its offices around the world. Andersen-Worldwide operated under a worldwide tax structure. In addition, Andersen-Worldwide handled all borrowing on behalf of its international offices and maintained those offices' financial records, payroll, and employee health-benefits plans. All of Andersen's offices also shared global computer operations and training facilities.

39. The components of the Andersen Worldwide Organization ignored corporate formalities in referring to themselves and each other. For example, personnel affiliated with Andersen and Andersen-Worldwide regularly exchanged correspondence and e-mails that were labeled "Andersenwo" — short for "Andersen World Organization." Documents prepared by Andersen often bore the insignia and logos of Andersen-Worldwide, including "Andersen-Worldwide," "Andersen," and "Arthur Andersen." In its promotional literature, Andersen used the names "Andersen Worldwide," "Andersen," and "Arthur Andersen" interchangeably. In addition, Andersen sometimes used only the name "Andersen" when referring to all or part of the

016919

16div-025063

Andersen Worldwide Organization and did not differentiate between Andersen-Worldwide and its offices around the globe.

40. In promotional literature, Andersen, Andersen-Worldwide, and the member firms of the Andersen Worldwide Organization marketed themselves as "one firm," "a single worldwide operating structure," that "think[s] and act[s] as one."

41. News releases issued by Andersen, Andersen-Worldwide, and other member firms confirmed that the Andersen Worldwide Organization and Andersen operated as a single worldwide organization:

- Andersen referred to the brand identity adopted by the member firms of the Andersen "global client service network."
- "With world-class skills in assurance, tax, consulting and corporate finance, Arthur Andersen has more than 77,000 people in 84 countries who are united by a single worldwide operating structure that fosters inventiveness, knowledge sharing, and a focus on client success."
- "Arthur Andersen is significantly different from the other firms in structure, governance and culture — differences which can be pivotal in terms of the quality of service a client company receives. Important distinctions mark our firm from the rest. We have evolved a unique organizational culture that today unites the people of Andersen Worldwide. We are the only true global firm, sharing knowledge and doing business across borders, sharing costs which fund methodologies, research and development, lines and industry groups."
- Andersen spokesman David Tabolt stated: "We conduct more than 30,000 audits around the world every year."
- "AA is already much more integrated globally than the rest of the Big Five. As Mr. Berardino [Andersen-Worldwide's former CEO, who resigned in March 2002] points out, 'there is one name over the door. We're not an alphabet soup.' The cohesiveness of AA's culture has been a source of humor to outsiders, who have labeled its bean counters 'Androids.' While some rivals are still struggling with a complicated array of national partnerships, and thus different systems for sharing pay, AA partners enjoy a single, and possibly unique, system of remuneration: they receive a list of what each of them has earned in the past year."

- "Arthur Andersen is a global professional services organization consisting of over 100 member firms and more than 61,000 people united by a single worldwide operating structure and a common culture of innovation and knowledge sharing. This unique 'one-firm' approach qualifies the people of Arthur Andersen to serve clients by bringing together any of more than 40 competencies in a way that transcends geographic borders and organizational lines. Arthur Andersen's people provide effective business solutions to over 100,000 clients in 81 countries around the world. Since its beginning in 1913, Arthur Andersen has realized 85 years of uninterrupted growth. With revenues of more than US $6 billion, it stands today as a world leader in professional services. Arthur Andersen is a business unit of Andersen Worldwide."

The Andersen-Worldwide website (Andersen.com) confirmed that there was a single worldwide organization:

- "Our 390 offices may be scattered amid 84 different countries, but our voice is the same. No matter where you go, or who you talk to, we act with one vision. Without boundaries."
- "One world. One organization."

Andersen's recruiting brochures reflected that it was a single worldwide organization:

- "We will, in Arthur Andersen's own words, 'act as one firm and speak with one voice. It is a united family that operates across hierarchies, geographical boundaries, client groupings, service lines and competencies and feels the kinship of understanding and shared responsibility."

42. Andersen-Worldwide managed its operations by practice groups, as well as by geographical region. Each practice group was headed by a global practice director who oversaw, directed, and controlled the operations of each practice group worldwide. Regional practice directors (e.g., Denkhaus was the director of Andersen-Worldwide's audit practice in South Florida) reported to the global practice director and managed the practice group within their regions.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016921

43. As a result of the "one firm" approach, all actions taken by members of Andersen-Worldwide, as well as all actions taken by member firms of Andersen-Worldwide, may be attributed to Andersen-Worldwide.

44. Andersen applied the "one firm" approach in its work with Sunbeam. Top partners responsible for the Sunbeam audits and restatement were partners of Andersen and members of Andersen-Worldwide, including the engagement partner on the Sunbeam audits, Harlow, the concurring partner on those audits, Pruitt, and the Audit Division Head and manager of Andersen's audit practice for the entire South Florida region, Denkhaus.

45. In addition, various international offices of Andersen-Worldwide did substantial work for Sunbeam. Sunbeam was a multinational corporation with operations in Canada, Mexico, Venezuela, and Hong Kong. The Sunbeam engagement required the participation of auditors from each of those countries and numerous American cities. Harlow, on behalf of both Andersen and Andersen-Worldwide, developed work plans that he circulated to Andersen's branches in other countries, including the Foreign Andersen Branches. Those offices worked closely with Harlow and others within Andersen and Andersen-Worldwide to complete the tasks outlined in the plans. They sent their work product to Harlow for inclusion in an Andersen-Worldwide Management Letter, as well as for incorporation in Andersen's audit work.

The Fraudulent 1996 Financial Statements

46. In 1996, after Dunlap took control of Sunbeam, Andersen permitted Sunbeam management to employ numerous accounting practices that — as Sunbeam's November 1998 restatement of its 1996 financial statements and an SEC investigation later showed — did not comply with GAAP. The objective of these accounting violations was to set an artificially bleak financial backdrop against which Sunbeam's 1997 performance would be judged.

016922

47. Among other things, Sunbeam's 1996 financial statements, certified by Andersen, did not comply with the accounting principles of (1) reliability, Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") Statement of Financial Accounting Concepts No. 2, §§ 58-97; Accounting Principles Board ("APB") Statement No. 4, §§ 109, 138, 189; (2) completeness, FASB Statement of Financial Accounting Concepts No. 2, §§ 79, 80; APB Statement No. 4, § 94; (3) conservatism, FASB Statement of Financial Accounting Concepts No. 2, §§ 91-97; APB Statements No. 9, §§ 35, 71; (4) neutrality, FASB Statement of Financial Accounting Concepts No. 2, §§ 98-110; or (5) relevance, FASB Statement of Financial Accounting Concepts No. 2, §§ 47, 48.

48. Among the accounting frauds that Andersen knowingly allowed was the artificial inflation of Sunbeam's reserves. Because the reserves were charged as an expense against income, this accounting practice allowed Sunbeam to overstate the 1996 loss against which its 1997 financial results would be compared.

49. For example, Sunbeam created a $338 million reserve for "restructuring" charges. As the November 1998 restatement made clear, included in these charges were costs of redesigning product packaging; costs of relocating employees and equipment; bonuses to be paid to employees who were told that they were being laid off but were asked to stay on temporarily; advertising expenses; and certain consulting fees. Because these items benefited future activities, GAAP did not permit them to be classified as restructuring charges. Andersen also permitted Sunbeam to violate GAAP by creating a $12 million reserve for a lawsuit alleging that

016923

Sunbeam was liable for cleanup costs associated with a hazardous waste site, even though Sunbeam's estimated liability was, at best, half that amount.

50. Andersen also permitted Sunbeam improperly to write down its household products inventory in 1996. In connection with the restructuring, Sunbeam had decided to eliminate half of Sunbeam's product lines and to liquidate its inventory of those product lines. Although only half of Sunbeam's product lines were eliminated, Andersen allowed Sunbeam to apply, at year-end 1996, the special accounting treatment that it had accorded the eliminated lines to its entire inventory of household products. As a result, as the November 1998 financial restatement later showed, Sunbeam understated the balance sheet value of its inventory at year-end 1996 by approximately $2 million and overstated its 1996 loss by the same amount.

51. Andersen also allowed management improperly to recognize, as a 1996 expense, $2.3 million in 1997 advertising expenses and related costs. In addition, Andersen permitted Sunbeam to manipulate its 1996 liabilities for "cooperative advertising." It was Sunbeam's practice to fund a portion of its retailers' costs of running local promotions. As required by GAAP, Sunbeam accrued its estimated liabilities for this expense. At year-end 1996, Sunbeam set its cooperative advertising accrual at an inflated value of $21.8 million. According to the November 1998 restatement, this accrual was improper under GAAP because it was approximately 25 percent higher than the prior year's accrual amount, without a proportional increase in sales providing a basis for the increase. Ultimately, as the November 1998 restatement showed, $5.8 million of that excessive accrual was used (without disclosure) to inflate Sunbeam's 1997 income.

Andersen's 1996 Unqualified Audit Opinion

52. In the course of auditing Sunbeam's 1996 financial statements, Andersen became aware of these and other improper accounting practices. Indeed, an Andersen employee questioned a Sunbeam employee about the restructuring reserves and was told that the reserve included "everything but the kitchen sink." Harlow, the Andersen engagement partner, knew of this statement.

53. Harlow informed Kersh and Gluck, who were part of Sunbeam's senior management, that certain of the restructuring reserves that Sunbeam had established were not properly accounted for as restructuring costs under GAAP because they benefited Sunbeam's future operations. He proposed that Sunbeam reverse the accounting entries on its books and records reflecting the establishment of these reserves. However, when Kersh and Gluck refused to reverse these items, Harlow caused Andersen to acquiesce to Sunbeam's fraudulent accounting for the reserves.

54. In March 1997, Andersen issued an unqualified audit opinion regarding Sunbeam's 1996 financial statements and authorized the inclusion of its audit opinion in Sunbeam's 1996 Form 10-K filed with the SEC. A copy of the 1996 Audit Opinion is exhibit "A" attached hereto. Consistent with Andersen's internal procedures, the Audit Opinion was issued at the direction of Harlow and Pruitt. Denkhaus, as Audit Division Head and manager of Andersen's audit practice for the entire South Florida region, had undertaken responsibility for supervising the audit work performed in Andersen's South Florida region and thus also bore responsibility for the issuance of this opinion.

55. Despite its knowledge of the many improper accounting practices that Sunbeam's management had employed, Andersen's opinion stated:

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016925

> We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards.
>
> Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.
> In our opinion, the financial statements . . . present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Sunbeam Corporation and subsidiaries as of December 31, 1995 and December 29, 1996, and the results of their operations and their cash flows for each of the three fiscal years in the period ended December 29, 1996 in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

56. Andersen also knowingly provided false descriptions of certain of Sunbeam's specific accounting practices. For example, it characterized Sunbeam's treatment of its restructuring charges in Note 2 to the audited 1996 consolidated financial statements as follows:

> In conjunction with the implementation of the restructuring and growth plan, the Company recorded a pre-tax special charge to earnings of approximately $337.6 million in the fourth quarter of 1996. This amount is allocated as follows in the accompanying Consolidated Statement of Operations: $154.9 million to Restructuring, Impairment and Other Costs as further described below; $92.3 million to Cost of Goods Sold related principally to inventory write-downs from the reduction in SKUs and costs of inventory liquidation programs; $42.5 million to Selling, General and Administrative expenses principally for increases in environmental and litigation reserves (see Notes 12 and 13) and other reserve categories; and the estimated pre-tax loss on the divestiture of the Company's furniture business of approximately $47.9 million.

In fact, however, Andersen knew that Sunbeam had improperly inflated its restructuring costs by millions of dollars.

016926

57. Andersen's 1996 audit violated GAAS because, among other things, Andersen failed (1) to perform the audits with an attitude of professional skepticism as required by the Statement on Auditing Standards ("SAS") No. 53; (2) to conclude that there was a significant risk that Sunbeam management would intentionally distort the company's financial statements, in violation of American Institute of Certified Public Accountants Professional Standards, AU §§ 316.10 and 316.12; (3) to recognize that the accounting policies employed by Sunbeam were not acceptable in the circumstances, in violation of AU § 316.19; (4) to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter through inspection, observation, inquiries, and confirmations to afford a reasonable basis for its opinions regarding Sunbeam's financial statements, in violation of AU § 150.02; (5) to exercise due professional care in the performance of the audit, in violation of AU § 150.02; (6) to plan the work adequately to uncover the errors and irregularities in Sunbeam's accounting information, in violation of AU § 150.02; and (7) to obtain a sufficient understanding of Sunbeam's internal control structure to plan the audits and to determine the nature, timing, and extent of tests to be performed, in violation of AU § 150.02.

58. In addition, in conducting the 1996 audit, Andersen (1) improperly relied on management representations rather than applying the auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion on Sunbeam's financial statements, in violation of SAS No. 19 (AU § 333.02); (2) failed to recognize that misstatements resulting from misapplication of GAAP, departures from fact, and omissions of necessary information, in aggregate, caused Sunbeam's financial statements to be materially misstated, in violation of SAS No. 47 (AU § 312.04); (3) failed to issue a qualified or adverse opinion, in violation of SAS No. 47 (AU § 312.31); and (4) improperly concluded that the accounting principles applied by Sunbeam were appropriate in the circumstances and that Sunbeam's financial statements were informative of matters that could affect their use, understanding, and interpretation, in violation of SAS No. 69 (AU § 411.04(b) and (c)).

59. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus knew of or recklessly disregarded numerous red flags that should have caused them to prevent Andersen from certifying Sunbeam's 1996 financial statements. However, they did nothing to stop Andersen's unqualified 1996 audit opinion from being included in Sunbeam's Form 10-K filing with the SEC, despite the fact that they knew or were reckless in not knowing that the financial statements that Andersen had certified were materially misleading. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus also knew that the false financial statements that they had caused Andersen to issue would be incorporated into Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements and that lenders, such as MSSF, and underwriters, such as MS & Co., would rely on these financial statements.

60. In all, the 1996 financial statements audited by Andersen were materially false and misleading and overstated Sunbeam's operating losses for 1996 by at least $40 million. Moreover, Andersen's unqualified audit opinion was false in at least two material respects. First, the financial statements that Andersen audited did not "fairly" present Sunbeam's financial position in conformity with GAAP, as it represented. Second, Andersen had not, as it claimed, conducted its audit in accordance with GAAS.

The Fraudulent 1997 Financial Statements

61. The accounting frauds in which Andersen permitted Sunbeam to engage in 1997 were aimed at inflating the company's earnings. To accomplish this — as the November 1998 restatement and an SEC investigation subsequently showed — Andersen allowed Sunbeam to record fraudulent sales, to account improperly for one-time events, and improperly to use "cookie-jar" reserves, all in violation of GAAP.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016928

62. Among other things, Sunbeam's 1997 financial statements, certified by Andersen, did not comply with the accounting principles of (1) reliability, FASB Statement of Financial Accounting Concepts No. 2, §§ 58-97; APB Statement No. 4, §§ 109, 138, 189; (2) completeness, FASB Statement of Financial Accounting Concepts No. 2, §§ 79, 80; APB Statement No. 4, § 94; (3) conservatism, FASB Statement of Financial Accounting Concepts No. 2, §§ 91-97; APB Statements No. 9, §§ 35, 71; (4) neutrality, FASB Statement of Financial Accounting Concepts No. 2, §§ 98-110; or (5) relevance, FASB Statement of Financial Accounting Concepts No. 2, §§ 47, 48.

63. One of the revenue inflation tactics permitted by Andersen in 1997 was improper accounting for "bill-and-hold" sales. A bill-and-hold sale occurs when a seller bills a customer for a purchase while retaining the merchandise for later delivery. During 1997, Dunlap's management team offered financial incentives to various customers to purchase products. Under GAAP, revenue under bill-and-hold transactions may be recognized only if, among other things, the buyer — not the seller — requests a sale on that basis. As Andersen subsequently learned in the course of its 1997 audit, the purported bill-and-hold customers had not requested that treatment, and, in numerous cases, the risks of ownership and legal title were never passed to the customer. Sunbeam added more than $29 million to its 1997 sales and $4.5 million to income by improperly accounting for these transactions.

64. Another income-boosting tactic that Andersen sanctioned was Sunbeam's improper use of its inflated 1996 reserves, which artificially increased the company's 1997 income by almost $5 million. Andersen also let Sunbeam improperly treat $19 million that it received from the sale of discounted and obsolete inventory as ordinary income. Although the recognition of that revenue was permitted under GAAP, Sunbeam was required to disclose that revenue as a non-recurring event. Sunbeam failed to do so, again with Andersen's blessing.

016929

65. In addition, Andersen and Andersen-Hong Kong allowed Sunbeam's Hong Kong subsidiary to book sales that violated applicable accounting principles because they included an unlimited right to return unsold merchandise and because the amount of future returns on such sales could not reasonably be estimated. On Andersen's and Andersen-Hong Kong's watch, Sunbeam's Hong Kong subsidiary improperly recorded sales revenue of $8.6 million from various sales made during the fourth quarter of 1997. Andersen and Andersen-Hong Kong also permitted Sunbeam's Hong Kong subsidiary to under-provide for warranty and product liability expenses; improperly to include in 1997 net sales of $0.5 million of goods that were not shipped until 1998; and improperly to defer 1997 advertising costs to future periods.

66. Andersen and Andersen-Canada also permitted Sunbeam's Canadian subsidiary improperly to book sales that did not meet the applicable sales recognition criteria because they included an unlimited right to return unsold merchandise and because the amount of future returns on such sales could not reasonably be estimated.

67. Andersen and Andersen-Mexico also permitted Sunbeam to employ several improper accounting tricks with respect to its Mexican subsidiary. Sunbeam's Mexican subsidiary engaged in $900,000 in bill-and-hold transactions in 1997 that should not have been recognized as income until 1998. In addition, the subsidiary's inventory was overvalued by $2 million, and the financial statements for Sunbeam's Mexico operations failed to include a $3 million expense for the profit-sharing obligations of that business.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016930

68. Andersen and Andersen-Venezuela also permitted Sunbeam's Venezuela subsidiary improperly to value its inventory of raw materials. Its books reflected purchases of raw materials that were held at various suppliers. Andersen failed to confirm that the booked amounts represented materials that were actually in the possession of suppliers. Had it done so, it would have discovered that the materials did not exist.

69. One of the most egregious accounting abuses that Andersen permitted in 1997 was to allow Sunbeam to record a profit on a sham sale of its warranty and spare parts business to its spare parts provider, EPI Printers, Inc. Prior to 1997, EPI satisfied spare parts and warranty requests of Sunbeam customers on a fee basis. To raise additional revenue at year-end 1997, however, Sunbeam entered into a sham "sale" of the warranty and spare parts inventories already in EPI's warehouse. As a result of the transaction, management fraudulently recognized millions of dollars of bogus sales and profits in 1997.

70. The problem with the EPI transaction was that the transaction was not a sale at all, for at least three reasons. First, there was never a final agreement between Sunbeam and EPI. The closest the parties ever came to a meeting of the minds was the execution of a mere "agreement to agree." Second, by its terms, the proposed sale was to terminate on January 23, 1998, with no payment obligation on the part of EPI, absent a subsequent agreement between Sunbeam and EPI on the value of the inventory. In other words, the sale could be completely unwound just after year-end without EPI ever having paid a cent. Third, Sunbeam had agreed as part of the proposed sale to pay certain fees to EPI and to guarantee a 5-percent profit to EPI on the eventual resale of the inventory. In essence, even after the proposed sale, EPI remained a contractor compensated by Sunbeam on a fee basis for its services. In sum, the relationship between EPI and Sunbeam was not materially altered by the purported "sale."

71. As a result of these and other violations of accounting standards, in 1997, Sunbeam reported $186 million in income, much of which was, according to the November 1998 restatement, improper under GAAP. In all, the overstatements included over $90 million of improper net income, including approximately $10 million from a sham sale of inventory to a contractor, approximately $4.5 million from non-GAAP bill-and-hold sales, approximately $35 million in income derived from the use of non-GAAP reserves and accruals taken at year-end 1996, and approximately $6 million from improper revenue recognition.

Sunbeam's Purchase of Coleman

72. Toward the end of 1997, Sunbeam engaged MS & Co. to advise it with respect to the possible sale of its core businesses and/or the initiation of one or more major acquisitions. Ultimately, Coleman, Signature Brands, and First Alert were identified as three companies interested in being acquired by Sunbeam.

73. On January 28, 1998, Sunbeam announced its financial results for 1997, reporting total revenues of $1.168 billion, and total earnings from continuing operations of $189 million (or $1.41 per share).

74. On February 3, 1998, Harlow met with key officers of Sunbeam to discuss the acquisition of Coleman and its financial impact on Sunbeam. By that time, as a result of reviewing Sunbeam's 1997 financial statements in the course of its audit, Harlow and Andersen knew that Sunbeam's 1997 results were false.

75. On February 20, 1998, Andersen agreed to act as a Sunbeam financial advisor and perform financial due diligence in connection with Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman, First Alert, and Signature Brands, further compromising Andersen's duty as an auditor to maintain its independence from its client. In agreeing to undertake that assignment, Andersen became an active member of the team working to assist Sunbeam in its acquisitions. Harlow and other Andersen employees who worked on Sunbeam's audit also served as members of Sunbeam's due diligence team.

76. On February 27, 1998, Sunbeam's Board of Directors met in New York to discuss Sunbeam's possible purchase of Coleman. During the February 27, 1998 meeting, MS & Co. provided Sunbeam's Board of Directors with a written "fairness" opinion regarding the fair acquisition price of Coleman. The opinion made clear that, even in the context of issuing a fairness opinion on the Coleman acquisition price, MS & Co. had relied upon Andersen's representations regarding Sunbeam's financial health. The fairness opinion explicitly stated that MS & Co. had reviewed "certain publicly available financial statements and other information" of Sunbeam. The opinion advised that MS & Co. had "assumed and relied upon without independent verification the accuracy and completeness of the information reviewed by us for the purposes of this opinion."

77. The Sunbeam Board of Directors approved the Coleman acquisition. That same day, Coleman-Parent — the 82-percent shareholder of Coleman — agreed to sell Coleman to Sunbeam for a purchase price of $2.2 billion. Sunbeam agreed to provide Coleman-Parent with $160 million in cash, to assume $584 million in Coleman-related debt, and to provide Coleman-Parent with 14,099,749 shares of Sunbeam stock. Sunbeam also agreed to purchase Signature Brands and First Alert for approximately $300 million.

Andersen's 1997 Unqualified Audit Opinion

78. In the first week of March 1998, shortly after the agreement for Sunbeam's purchase of Coleman was signed, but before the transaction closed, Andersen rendered an unqualified audit opinion for Sunbeam's 1997 financial statements. With Andersen's express consent, management included that opinion in Sunbeam's 1997 Form 10-K filed with the SEC on March 6, 1998.

79. Andersen was well aware of the potential for fraud in Sunbeam's 1997 books, including the risk that Sunbeam management would attempt to claim profits and revenue on transactions before the earnings process was completed. Harlow had specifically advised Andersen's foreign offices (including Andersen-Canada, Andersen-Hong Kong, Andersen-Mexico, and Andersen-Venezuela), for example, that Dunlap had made promises to the public regarding earnings-per-share to be attained in 1997, and that management had a vested interest in achieving the promised earnings levels because management's primary form of compensation was based on the company's stock price. Harlow had also noted the presence of the possibility of a third-party purchase of the company's stock or assets.

80. In the course of its audit of Sunbeam's 1997 financial records, Andersen learned that Harlow's concerns were well-founded. It discovered that Sunbeam had improperly accounted for certain bill-and-hold sales, had misused its reserves, and had overvalued its inventories. Harlow discussed these problems with Sunbeam's senior management and proposed that Sunbeam reverse these improper entries.

81. For example, as part of Andersen's 1997 year-end audit, Harlow raised with Sunbeam's management the improper accounting treatment accorded to the EPI transaction. He proposed that Sunbeam reverse the accounting entries reflecting the revenue recognition for that transaction, pointing out that the profit guarantee and the indeterminate value of the contract rendered revenue recognition inconsistent with GAAP. Kersh and Gluck refused to reverse the transaction. Harlow caused Andersen to acquiesce in management's actions. As a result, Sunbeam's 1997 audited financial statements reflect almost $10 million of false profit on the sham EPI transaction.

016934

82. Harlow also raised with Kersh and Gluck Sunbeam's inappropriate use of reserves and recorded the full $4.9 million of costs that Sunbeam had improperly offset against reserves on the list of proposed audit adjustments. Kersh and Gluck, however, refused to make the proposed adjustments. Harlow again failed to insist on honest, accurate accounting. Instead, he caused Andersen to acquiesce in Sunbeam's refusal to reverse these improper reductions in current-period costs, although he knew or recklessly disregarded facts indicating that this improper accounting would materially distort Sunbeam's reported results of operations. In fact, this use of reserves increased 1997 fourth-quarter income by almost 8 percent.

83. Harlow also proposed adjustments to reverse $2.9 million related to Sunbeam's inventory overvaluation by its Mexican subsidiary and $563,000 related to various miscellaneous terms. Kersh and Gluck refused to make appropriate adjustments, and Harlow again caused Andersen to acquiesce in their refusal to reverse these errors — despite the fact that these items added over 5.4 percent to Sunbeam's reported earnings for the fourth quarter and contributed to the larger misstatement of Sunbeam's reported results of operations stemming from the fraudulent conduct of Sunbeam's management.

84. These improper accounting techniques raised clear red flags that should have — and must have — alerted Andersen to the need for greater scrutiny regarding all of Sunbeam's revenue recognition decisions. At a minimum, Andersen should have been on guard as to all of the proposed audit adjustments that Harlow initially proposed but later rejected, and any previously recognized improper items that were ultimately dismissed as "immaterial."

016935

85. Despite these clear red flags, Andersen once again gave Sunbeam a clean bill of financial health, issuing an unqualified audit opinion regarding Sunbeam's 1997 financial statements and authorized the inclusion of its audit opinion in Sunbeam's 1997 Form 10-K filed with the SEC. A copy of the 1997 Audit Opinion is exhibit "B" attached hereto. The Audit Opinion is signed by Andersen. Consistent with Andersen's internal procedures, the Audit Opinion was issued at the direction of Harlow and Pruitt. Denkhaus, as Audit Division Head and manager of Andersen's audit practice for the entire South Florida region, had undertaken responsibility for supervising the audit work performed in Andersen's South Florida region and thus also bore responsibility for the issuance of this opinion.

86. In this opinion, Andersen stated:

> We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.
> In our opinion, the financial statements . . . , present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Sunbeam Corporation and subsidiaries as of December 29, 1996 and December 28, 1997, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for each of the three fiscal years in the period ended December 28, 1997 in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

87. In fact, Andersen's 1997 audit violated GAAS because, among other things, Andersen had failed (1) to perform the audits with an attitude of professional skepticism as required by SAS No. 53; (2) to reach a conclusion that there existed a significant risk of intentional distortion of financial statements by Sunbeam management, in violation of AU §§ 316.10 and 316.12; (3) to recognize that the accounting policies employed by Sunbeam were not acceptable in the circumstances, in violation of AU § 316.19; (4) to obtain sufficient competent evidential matter through inspection, observation, inquiries, and confirmations to afford a reasonable basis for its opinions regarding Sunbeam's financial statements, in violation of AU § 150.02; (5) to exercise due professional care in the performance of the audit, in violation of AU § 150.02; (6) to plan the work adequately to uncover the errors and irregularities in Sunbeam's accounting information, in violation of AU § 150.02; and (7) to obtain a sufficient understanding of Sunbeam's internal control structure to plan the audits and to determine the nature, timing, and extent of tests to be performed, in violation of AU § 150.02.

016936

88. In addition, in conducting the 1997 audit, Andersen (1) improperly relied on management representations rather than applying the auditing procedures necessary to afford a reasonable basis for an opinion on Sunbeam's financial statements, in violation of SAS No. 19 (AU § 333.02); (2) failed to recognize that misstatements resulting from misapplication of GAAP, departures from fact and omissions of necessary information, in aggregate, caused Sunbeam's financial statements to be materially misstated, in violation of SAS No. 47 (AU § 312.04); (3) failed to issue a qualified or adverse opinion, in violation of SAS No. 47 (AU § 312.31); (4) improperly concluded that the accounting principles applied by Sunbeam were appropriate in the circumstances and that Sunbeam's financial statements were informative of matters that could affect their use, understanding and interpretation, in violation of SAS No. 69 (AU § 411.04(b) and (c)); and (5) failed to report that a change in the application of accounting principles in Sunbeam's 1997 financial statements had materially affected their comparability with the financial statements for prior periods, especially 1996, due to a different treatment of sales and reserves in those periods, in violation of SAS Nos. 1 and 43 (AU § 420.02).

016937

89. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus knew of or recklessly disregarded numerous red flags that should have caused them to withhold Andersen's unqualified certification of Sunbeam's 1997 financial statements. However, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus did nothing to stop Andersen's unqualified 1997 audit opinion from being included in Sunbeam's Form 10-K filing with the SEC, despite the fact that they knew or were reckless in not knowing that the financial statements that Andersen had certified were materially misleading. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus also knew that the false financial statements that they had caused Andersen to issue would be incorporated into Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements and that MSSF, as a lender, and MS & Co., as an underwriter, would rely on these financial statements.

90. The Foreign Andersen Branches also knew of or recklessly disregarded the fact that the financial statements of Sunbeam's foreign subsidiaries, which they had reviewed and audited, were not prepared in accordance with GAAP or reviewed in accordance with GAAS. The Foreign Andersen Branches nevertheless certified that their audit work complied with GAAP and GAAS. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches also knew that the false financial statements that they had audited would be incorporated into Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements and that lenders, such as MSSF, and underwriters, such as MS & Co., would rely on these financial statements.

91. In all, the 1997 financial statements audited by Andersen reported operating income of $186 million — an overstatement of at least 50 percent. Like its 1996 unqualified audit opinion, Andersen's 1997 opinion was false in two material respects. First, the financial statements Andersen audited did not "fairly" present Sunbeam's financial position in conformity with GAAP, as it represented. Second, Andersen had not, as it claimed, conducted its audit in accordance with GAAS.

016938

Reliance by Plaintiffs on Andersen's Unqualified Audit Opinions

92. After it agreed to acquire Coleman, First Alert, and Signature Brands, Sunbeam needed to raise approximately $2.3 billion to refinance existing debt and to fund these acquisitions. To accomplish these financing objectives, Sunbeam's management elected to issue $500 million in subordinated convertible notes (an amount later increased to $750 million) (the "Convertible Note Offering") and to enter into a new $2 billion senior credit agreement (later reduced to $1.7 billion) with secured lenders (the "Bank Facility"). MS & Co. served as the lead underwriter for the Convertible Note Offering. MSSF served as the Syndication Agent for the Bank Facility and coordinated the Bank Facility with First Union and Bank of America, Sunbeam's other secured lenders.

93. Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus knew of these proposed financing arrangements. Specifically, they knew that the Coleman and other acquisitions would not close unless Sunbeam secured the financing necessary to cover the acquisition prices. They knew that MS & Co. would underwrite a notes offering that Sunbeam would use to finance the transaction. Moreover, they knew that MSSF was a principal participant in the Bank Facility, and that MSSF would be relying on the representations Andersen made regarding Sunbeam's financial condition.

94. In addition, Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus knew that documents issued in connection with the Convertible Note Offering clearly stated that "[Sunbeam] is currently negotiating the terms of the New Credit Facility with a group of banks which [Sunbeam] expects will provide for borrowings by [Sunbeam] or one or more of its subsidiaries in the aggregate principal amount of $2.0 billion. The New Credit Facility is being arranged by an affiliate of [Morgan Stanley]." Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus knew that the affiliate referred to in this document was MSSF.

016939

95. In addition to their knowledge of MS & Co.'s and MSSF's roles in Sunbeam's acquisitions, Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus had many reasons to know that MS & Co. and MSSF would rely on Sunbeam's audited financial statements. To begin with, Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus, in their substantial experience working on multi-billion dollar mergers and acquisitions, understood that Sunbeam's lenders and underwriters would rely on an auditor's certification of Sunbeam's financial condition. As would any lender engaged in a deal of this scale, MSSF looked to the financial statements provided by Sunbeam and audited by Andersen to evaluate annual cash flow and to assess Sunbeam's ability, following the acquisition, to promptly and comfortably pay interest and, ultimately, pay back the loan. Indeed, reasonable and professional lenders such as MSSF, Bank of America, and First Union would not have loaned over $1 billion dollars to any person or entity without strong assurance that their money would be returned. Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus knew that MS & Co., the underwriter of the Convertible Note Offering, would similarly refuse to underwrite a $750 million offering without strong assurance that Sunbeam's financial condition was sound.

96. Not only were Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus aware that any prudent business in MS & Co.'s or MSSF's position would rely on Andersen's financial statements, but they also knew that MS & Co. and MSSF were specifically relying on Andersen's certifications. In a letter dated March 11, 1998, MS & Co. wrote a letter to Andersen — to the attention of

016940

Harlow — notifying Andersen that MS & Co. would be "reviewing certain information relating to Sunbeam that will be included in the Offering Memorandum." MS & Co. requested that Andersen deliver to it a "'comfort' letter concerning the financial statements" of Sunbeam.

97. In response to this request, Andersen expressly represented to MS & Co. that Sunbeam's financial statements were truthful and that Andersen's unqualified audit opinions were reliable. On March 19, 1998, Andersen sent MS & Co. a "comfort" letter stating that, in Andersen's opinion, "the consolidated financial statements [for 1996 and 1997] audited by [Andersen] and included in the Offering Memorandum comply as to form in all material respects with the applicable accounting requirements of the [Securities Act of 1933] and the related published rules and regulations." Andersen knew that MS & Co. would rely on the comfort letters in deciding to underwrite the Convertible Note Offering. Andersen also knew that Sunbeam's acquisitions were contingent on Sunbeam's obtaining the necessary financing for the transactions, including the underwriting of the convertible notes. Andersen knew that, absent its representations, MS & Co. would not have underwritten the notes, and therefore the financing, including MSSF's loan to Sunbeam, would not have gone forward. A copy of the March 19, 1998 letter is exhibit "C" attached hereto.

98. Harlow and Pruitt authorized the issuance of the March 19, 1998 comfort letter, which was signed by Andersen. Upon information and belief, Denkhaus knew of this letter and did nothing to stop its issuance.

99. In a follow-up letter to MS & Co. dated March 25, 1998, Andersen reaffirmed its previous representation, stating that it "reaffirm[ed] as of the date hereof (and as though made on the date hereof) all statements made in that letter." Again, Andersen knew that MS & Co. would rely on the comfort letters in deciding to underwrite the Convertible Note Offering and that, absent its representations, the financing, including MSSF's loan to Sunbeam, would not have gone forward. A copy of the March 25, 1998 letter is exhibit "D" attached hereto.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016910

100. Again, Harlow and Pruitt authorized the issuance of this letter, which was likewise signed by Andersen. Upon information and belief, Denkhaus also knew of this letter and did nothing to stop its issuance.

101. In addition to Andersen's written representations regarding Sunbeam's financial condition, Andersen partners and employees, including Harlow, participated in meetings and telephone calls in which they represented to MS & Co. and MSSF that Sunbeam's audited financial statements were accurate. For example, on March 12, 1998, representatives of MS & Co. participated in a conference call with Harlow and another Andersen employee to discuss Sunbeam's financial statements. In this call, Harlow assured MS & Co.'s representatives that there were no material inaccuracies in Sunbeam's financial statements. Upon information and belief, Harlow made these statements with the knowledge and approval of Pruitt and Denkhaus.

102. Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus also knew that MS & Co. had stated in a February 27, 1998 "fairness" opinion that MS & Co. had presented to Sunbeam's Board of Directors that MS & Co. had assumed and relied upon the accuracy and completeness of Sunbeam's audited financial statements that were available at that time.

103. In addition, Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus knew that Sunbeam had expressly represented, in loan negotiations with MSSF, that Andersen's audit opinions were accurate. Specifically, Andersen knew that, in the Sunbeam-MSSF credit agreement, Sunbeam had warranted that it had provided MSSF with accurate information regarding Sunbeam's consolidated statements of operations, stockholders' equity and cash flows, as well as its consolidated balance sheets. According to Sunbeam, its financial statements — certified by

0169142

Andersen — "present[ed] fairly, in all material respects, the financial position and results of operations and cash flows . . . in accordance with GAAP."

104. Similarly, Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus knew that, in connection with the Convertible Note Offering, Sunbeam had included its 1996 and 1997 audited financial statements in its March 19, 1998, offering memorandum and had represented to MS & Co. that its audited financial statements were reliable.

105. Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus also knew that, as part of the Coleman merger agreement executed on February 27, 1998, Sunbeam had represented and warranted that all of its filings with the SEC, which included the 1996 financial statements audited by Andersen, were accurate and not misleading, and that they would continue to be accurate and not misleading as of the transaction's closing date. Sunbeam further represented that its audited financial statements were prepared in accordance with GAAP, and that at the time of the closing of the transaction, that representation would continue to be true and correct.

106. Although it knew that MS & Co. and MSSF had based multi-million dollar financing decisions on its representations, Andersen did not tell Plaintiffs' of the accounting concerns that it had raised with Sunbeam management in the course of its 1996 and 1997 audits or that Sunbeam's financial statements had not been fairly stated in 1996 and 1997.

107. On March 25, 1998, the $750 million Convertible Note Offering closed. In justifiable reliance on Andersen's 1996 and 1997 unqualified audit opinions, on Andersen's March 19, 1998, and March 25, 1998, "comfort" letters, and on the oral representations made by Harlow and other partners, members or employees of Andersen and Andersen-Worldwide, MS & Co. underwrote this offering to finance Sunbeam's acquisitions of Coleman, Signature Brands, and First Alert.

016943

108. Sunbeam closed its acquisition of Coleman on March 30, 1998. On that date, Sunbeam, through a wholly owned subsidiary, acquired approximately 81 percent of the then-outstanding shares of Coleman common stock. These shares were acquired by Sunbeam in exchange for 14,099,749 shares of Sunbeam's common stock and approximately $160,000,000 in cash. In addition, Sunbeam assumed or repaid approximately $1,016,000,000 in debt belonging to Coleman and Coleman-Parent. Included in the repaid debt portion of the transaction was an immediate cash payment by Sunbeam to Coleman-Parent of $590 million.

109. MSSF and Sunbeam closed the Bank Facility on March 31, 1998. In accordance with the terms of the Bank Facility, MSSF — unaware of the falsity of Sunbeam's financial statements and Andersen's audit reports and in justifiable reliance on Andersen's representations — loaned Sunbeam $680 million in immediately available funds to be used for the acquisitions. First Union, which served as the Administrative Agent for the Bank Facility, loaned Sunbeam an additional $510 million. Bank of America, which served as the Documentation Agent for the Bank Facility, loaned Sunbeam an additional $510 million.

110. As Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus knew, MS & Co. had relied on Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial statements in deciding to underwrite the Convertible Note Offering. Andersen, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus further knew that MSSF had relied on Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial statements in deciding to loan Sunbeam $680 million. Moreover, they knew that the Sunbeam-MSSF credit agreement provided that a condition precedent to MSSF's obligations under the agreement was the absence of any event, change, or development that would have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operation, or financial condition of Sunbeam. Andersen knew that an additional condition precedent to

0169114

MSSF's obligations was the absence of any material misrepresentation or omissions in Sunbeam's SEC filings, including Andersen's 1996 and 1997 audit reports in the Form 10-Ks.

111. But for Andersen's fraud and its failure to issue qualified or adverse reports exposing the falsity of Sunbeam's financial statements, MS & Co. and MSSF would have had notice of an adverse material change affecting Sunbeam before funding, and of a material misstatement in Sunbeam's SEC filings. Not only would MS & Co. never have agreed to underwrite the Convertible Note Offering, but MSSF's obligation to loan Sunbeam $680 million also would have been discharged by the failure of conditions precedent to its obligations under the credit agreement. Andersen's fraud directly caused the extensive losses that Plaintiffs suffered.

112. Andersen's fraud was knowingly caused by Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus. Harlow, as engagement partner, and Pruitt, as concurring partner, had direct responsibility for directing, managing, and approving of the work that was done on the Sunbeam audits. They caused Andersen to represent to MS & Co. and MSSF that Sunbeam's financial statements were reliable. Denkhaus, who was a senior partner of Andersen and a member of Andersen-Worldwide, as well as the Audit Division Head and manager of Andersen's audit practice for the entire South Florida region, had undertaken responsibility for supervising and monitoring the work that was performed at Harlow's and Pruitt's direction. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus each knew of or recklessly disregarded the accounting violations contained in Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial statements. They each also knew that the financial statements that they had caused Andersen to certify would be relied upon by MS & Co. in deciding to underwrite the Convertible Note Offering and by MSSF in deciding to loan Sunbeam hundreds of millions of dollars.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016945

113. This fraud was also knowingly perpetrated by the Foreign Andersen Branches. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches reviewed and audited financial statements prepared for Sunbeam's foreign subsidiaries for 1997, all of which contained significant accounting violations. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches knew of or recklessly disregarded the fact that the financial statements that they had reviewed and audited were not prepared in accordance with GAAP or reviewed in accordance with GAAS, but nevertheless certified that their audit work complied with these standards. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches also knew that the financial statements that they had audited would be incorporated into Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements and that lenders, such as MSSF, and underwriters, such as MS & Co., would rely on these financial statements.

114. The fraud was also knowingly perpetrated by Andersen-Worldwide through the actions of its members, including Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus, and its member firms, including Andersen and the Foreign Andersen Branches.

Andersen's Improper Accounting and Misrepresentations Are Revealed

115. In an April 3, 1998 conference call with securities analysts, Sunbeam revealed that sales for the first quarter of 1998 were 5 percent below reported sales for the same period of the prior year.

116. On April 22, 1998, a class of Sunbeam shareholders sued Sunbeam and its senior officers in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida, alleging that the company had violated the securities laws by issuing materially false and misleading statements regarding Sunbeam's financial condition. Andersen was subsequently added as a defendant in that lawsuit.

117. On June 8, 1998, an article was published in Barron's that raised serious questions regarding Sunbeam's apparent success under Dunlap, suggesting that it was the result of "accounting gimmickry." On June 15, 1998, Sunbeam's Board announced that it had removed Dunlap as Chairman and CEO. On June 17, 1998, Sunbeam received a letter from the SEC informing it that the SEC had initiated an investigation into the company.

118. Andersen continued to stand behind its fraudulent audit opinions. On June 15, 1998, Andersen allowed Sunbeam's Board of Directors to assert that Andersen had "assured the Board that Sunbeam's audited financial statements [were] accurate in all material respects." Andersen made this statement knowing that it was false. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus likewise knew the statement was false, but caused Andersen to make this statement. It was not until June 25, 1998 — when Andersen withheld its consent for use of its 1997 audit opinion in a registration statement that was to have been filed with the SEC — that Andersen gave any hint that its unqualified audit opinions were unreliable.

119. On June 30, 1998, Sunbeam announced that the Audit Committee of its Board of Directors would conduct an inquiry into the accuracy of its 1997 financial statements. The Audit Committee subsequently retained Deloitte & Touche LLP to assist in the review, in addition to Andersen. Sunbeam stated that "pending the completion of the review, its 1997 financial statements and the report of Arthur Andersen LLP should not be relied upon." Sunbeam added that the review "could result in a restatement of the 1997 financial statements and the first quarter 1998 Form 10-Q."

120. On August 6, 1998, Sunbeam announced that its Audit Committee had determined that Sunbeam would be required to restate its audited financial statements for 1997 and possibly for 1996, as well as its unaudited financial statements for the first quarter of 1998. On

016947

October 20, 1998, Sunbeam and Andersen announced a restatement of its 1996 and 1997 financial statements.

121. Holders of the convertible notes sued Sunbeam on October 30, 1998, and Andersen was later named as a defendant in that suit.

122. On November 12, 1998, Sunbeam released its restated 1996 and 1997 financial results, again audited by Andersen. The restated 1996 financial statements reported operating losses for 1996 that were approximately $40 million less than originally reported, losses from continuing operations that were approximately $26 million less than previously reported and net losses that were approximately $20 million less than previously reported.

123. For 1997, the restated financial statements reported operating earnings that were approximately $95 million less than originally reported, earnings from continuing operations that were approximately $70 million less than previously reported and net earnings that were approximately $70 million less than previously reported. The new operating income figure for 1997 was approximately half the amount that Andersen had previously certified.

Sunbeam Declares Bankruptcy

124. On February 6, 2001, as a direct result of the deceit that Andersen had committed, with the knowledge and assistance of the other Defendants named in this Complaint, Sunbeam and several of its subsidiaries were forced to seek relief under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New York. As part of the bankruptcy court-approved reorganization plan, MSSF's $680 million loan to Sunbeam was discharged in full, and MSSF received Sunbeam stock valued at a fraction of the original loan. In addition, as a result of Andersen's actions, the convertible notes issued by Sunbeam and held by MS & Co. had been rendered substantially less valuable. The shareholders of Sunbeam saw the value of their stock decline by over $5 billion from its peak in early March 1998 to February 5, 2001.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016948

Subsequent Censure of Andersen's Conduct

125. Both courts and regulators have scrutinized Andersen's facilitation of Sunbeam's fraud. In their judgments against the firm and Harlow, they have denounced Andersen's conduct.

126. In December 1999, for example, the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida, which presided over the Sunbeam shareholders' class action securities fraud lawsuit, refused to dismiss any claims against Andersen. The court found that the plaintiff class had, by alleging the material misstatements made by Andersen in its unqualified audit opinions, describing the violations of GAAP and GAAS that had occurred, and setting forth why the statements in the audit opinions were false and misleading, pled fraud against Andersen with sufficient particularity to satisfy Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 9(b)'s pleading requirements. See In re Sunbeam Sec. Litig., 89 F. Supp. 2d 1326, 1344 n.11 (S.D. Fla. 1999).

127. The In re Sunbeam court also rejected Andersen's argument that the plaintiffs had merely alleged that Andersen violated GAAP and GAAS and had not set forth facts sufficient to show that it acted with knowing fraudulent intent or recklessness. The court ruled that Andersen's arguments "fail[ed] to appreciate the breadth" of the plaintiffs' allegations, which described much more than "innocent auditing and accounting slip-ups." In re Sunbeam Sec. Litig., 89 F. Supp. 2d at 1344. The court concluded (id. at 1344-45) that the following facts established that Andersen had acted with requisite scienter:

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016949

- Andersen violated a GAAS requirement that it have a sufficient understanding of Sunbeam's internal control structure;
- Andersen failed to adhere to GAAS by not identifying numerous fraud risk factors suggesting that there was a significant risk that Sunbeam had fraudulently misstated its financials;
- Andersen was alerted by Sunbeam employees to material misstatements in Sunbeam's financial statements;
- Andersen failed to stop Sunbeam from recognizing, in violation of GAAP, revenues from guaranteed sales and consignment transactions, with the result that its sales were substantially overstated;
- Andersen ignored a June 8, 1998, Barron's article that accused Sunbeam of accounting improprieties, continued to stand behind its audit opinions, and did not given any hint that its unqualified audit opinions were unreliable until June 25, 1998, when it withheld consent to the use of its audit opinion in an SEC registration statement; and
- The sheer magnitude of the restatements of Sunbeam's financial statements indicated that Andersen was at least severely reckless not to know that its unqualified audit opinions were misleading.

128. The United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida concluded that these facts were sufficient to "demonstrate that Arthur Andersen acted with severe recklessness in issuing its misleading Unqualified Audit Opinion," and therefore supported a valid federal securities law fraud claim. In re Sunbeam Sec. Litig., 89 F. Supp. 2d at 1344. Andersen subsequently settled this lawsuit in 2001 for $110 million.

129. On May 15, 2001, the SEC filed a civil action in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida against five former Sunbeam officers and Harlow, Andersen's engagement partner. The SEC alleged that Harlow, by causing Andersen to issue materially incorrect audit opinions, had engaged in fraud in violation of the federal securities laws.

130. In January 2003, Harlow consented to an injunction and agreed not to contest the SEC's charges against him. In the SEC's consent order, it made numerous factual findings regarding Harlow's improper conduct. It concluded that Harlow had proposed, on many occasions, adjustments to rectify Sunbeam's false financial statements. After management refused to make these adjustments, Harlow improperly acceded to that decision. In re Phillip E. Harlow, Rel. No. 34-47261, 2003 WL 169818, at *1-*3 (SEC Rel. Jan. 27, 2003).

016950

131. The SEC's assessment of Harlow's conduct was damning. Among many other things, it concluded that Harlow (1) "failed to exercise professional skepticism when performing audit procedures and gathering and analyzing audit evidence," (2) "accepted uncorroborated representations of Sunbeam's management in lieu of performing appropriate audit procedures," (3) "failed to exercise due professional care in performing the audit and preparing the audit report," (4) "failed to perform sufficient audit procedures to determine whether the financial statements were in conformity with GAAP," even after he had "identified a number of audit risks and accounting issues associated with the Sunbeam engagement," and (5) "failed to obtain sufficient competent evidential matters through inspection, observation, inquiries, and confirmation to afford a reasonable basis for an audit opinion." Id. at *4. Based on these factual findings, the Commission concluded that the 1996 and 1997 financial statements that Harlow had audited were not in conformity with GAAP, and the audit was not performed in accordance with GAAS. Id. (citing AU §§ 410, 411, 508.07).

132. Other participants in the Coleman acquisition have also sued Andersen for its fraudulent conduct. On June 8, 2001, Coleman-Parent sued Andersen and Harlow for fraudulent misrepresentation, fraudulent inducement to contract (conspiracy and concerted action), and negligent misrepresentation. See Coleman (Parent) Holdings, Inc. v. Arthur Andersen LLP, No. 502001CA006062XXOCAN (Fla. 15th Cir. Ct., filed June 8, 2001). That case was assigned to Judge Stephen A. Rapp. Andersen and Harlow moved to dismiss. However, after an October 29, 2001, hearing on their motion, Andersen and Harlow answered Coleman-Parent's complaint. On March 15, 2002, the complaint in this matter was amended to add Andersen-Worldwide, Andersen-Canada, Andersen-Hong Kong, Andersen-Mexico, Andersen-Venezuela, and Andersen's United Kingdom branch as defendants. See Amended Complaint, CPH v. Andersen (filed Mar. 15, 2002). The Court denied Andersen-Worldwide's Motion To Dismiss on June 19, 2002, and the matter was voluntarily dismissed on January 28, 2003, after the parties had settled for an undisclosed amount.

Tolling Agreements

133. On March 8, 2001, Morgan Stanley, MSSF, and all of "their respective successors, predecessors, subsidiaries, affiliates, and assigns" executed the first of a series of tolling agreements with the Defendants. Additional tolling agreements were executed on April 4, 2001, April 19, 2001, April 24, 2001, April 23, 2002, October 16, 2002, April 10, 2003, and October 21, 2003. Copies of these Tolling Agreements are exhibits "E" through "L" attached hereto.

134. These agreements were signed by Andersen. The individuals that signed the agreements on behalf of Andersen represented that they had the "authority to bind and act on behalf of" Andersen and all of its "successors, predecessors, subsidiaries, affiliates, assigns, partners, employees, agents, officers, or directors."

135. Taken together, these agreements show that, in consideration for forbearance from commencing an action against the Defendants, Andersen agreed to toll from March 8, 2001, to March 1, 2004, the statute of limitations on all Morgan Stanley entities' claims against Andersen, its partners and agents (including Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus), and its affiliates (including Andersen-Worldwide and the Foreign Andersen Branches) that arose out of Andersen's audits of Sunbeam's financial statements.

COUNT I

Fraudulent Misrepresentation

136. Paragraphs 1 through 135 are repeated and realleged as if set forth herein.

137. Andersen consented to the publication of its audit reports to the public and business world by permitting Sunbeam to include them in Sunbeam's SEC filings. Given that publication, Andersen knew and intended that the public — including MS & Co. and MSSF — would rely on Andersen's representations.

138. Andersen knew of Sunbeam's proposed financing arrangements and of MS & Co.'s and MSSF's roles in Sunbeam's acquisitions. Andersen also knew that MS & Co. and MSSF would rely and had relied upon Andersen's 1996 and 1997 unqualified audit opinions for the particular purpose of determining whether to underwrite the Convertible Note Offering and to provide Sunbeam with a loan for $680 million.

139. Andersen itself invited MS & Co to rely on its unqualified audit opinions, expressly representing to MS & Co., in letters dated March 19, 1998, and March 25, 1998, that Sunbeam's financial statements were truthful and that Andersen's unqualified audit opinions were reliable. Andersen knew that, absent its representations, MS & Co. would not have underwritten the notes, and therefore the financing, including MSSF's loan to Sunbeam, would not have gone forward. In addition, Andersen's and Andersen-Worldwide's members, partners, and employees, including Harlow, participated in meetings and telephone calls in which they represented to MS & Co. and MSSF that Sunbeam's audited financial statements were accurate.

140. Andersen knew that Sunbeam's financial statements were replete with accounting irregularities and that the information in Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial statements and in Andersen's 1996 and 1997 unqualified audit opinions was materially false and misleading.

141. Although Andersen knew that MS & Co. and MSSF would rely and had relied on its false statements, it did not inform MS & Co. or MSSF that the unqualified audit opinions it had provided were materially false or that Sunbeam's financial statements contained numerous misstatements of material facts.

142. Andersen made its materially false representations regarding its unqualified audit opinions and the accuracy of Sunbeam's financial statements with the intent to deceive Plaintiffs.

143. Andersen knew that the false information that had been provided to Plaintiffs would be critical to Plaintiffs' decisions to participate in the financing of Sunbeam's acquisitions. But for Andersen's fraudulent representations, MS & Co. would not have underwritten the Convertible Note Offering, nor would MSSF have loaned Sunbeam $680 million.

144. Andersen's fraud was knowingly caused by Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus. Harlow, as engagement partner, and Pruitt, as concurring partner had direct responsibility for directing, managing, and approving of the work that was done on the Sunbeam audits. Denkhaus, who was a senior partner of Andersen and a member of Andersen-Worldwide, as well as the Audit Division Head and manager of Andersen's audit practice for the entire South Florida region, had undertaken responsibility for supervising and monitoring the work performed at Harlow's and Pruitt's direction. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus each knew of or recklessly disregarded the accounting violations contained in Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial statements. They each also knew that the financial statements that they had caused Andersen to certify would be relied upon by MS & Co. in deciding to underwrite the Convertible Note Offering and by MSSF in deciding to loan Sunbeam hundreds of millions of dollars.

145. This fraud was also knowingly perpetrated by the Foreign Andersen Branches. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches reviewed and audited financial statements prepared for Sunbeam's foreign subsidiaries for 1997, all of which contained significant accounting violations. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches knew or recklessly disregarded the fact that the financial statements that they had reviewed and audited were not prepared in accordance with GAAP or reviewed in accordance with GAAS, but nevertheless certified their audit work as in compliance with these standards. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches also knew that the financial statements that they had audited would be incorporated into Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements and that lenders, such as MSSF, and underwriters, such as MS & Co., would rely on these financial statements.

146. The fraud was also knowingly perpetrated by Andersen-Worldwide through the actions of its members, including Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus, and its member firms, including Andersen and the Foreign Andersen Branches.

147. As a direct result of this fraud, MS & Co., MSSF, and Morgan Stanley have collectively suffered hundreds of millions of dollars in damages.

COUNT II

(Conspiracy to Defraud)

148. Paragraphs 1 through 135 are repeated and realleged as if set forth herein.

149. Andersen, Andersen-Worldwide, the Foreign Andersen Branches, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus acted in concert and wrongfully conspired with Dunlap, Kersh, Gluck, and other senior Sunbeam executives to create the appearance that Sunbeam was performing at a high level. The purpose of this conspiracy was artificially to inflate the stock price of Sunbeam and thereby to induce MS & Co. to underwrite the Convertible Note Offering and MSSF into loaning Sunbeam $680 million to finance Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman, First Alert, and Signature Brands. Andersen, Andersen-Worldwide, the Foreign Andersen Branches, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus agreed to become part of the conspiracy to defraud Plaintiffs and committed overt acts in furtherance of this fraudulent scheme.

16div-025099

150. In furtherance of the conspiracy, Dunlap, Kersh, Gluck, and the other Sunbeam executives agreed to misstate Sunbeam's true financial condition by millions of dollars in order to create the illusion that Sunbeam had undergone a radical financial turnaround. Pursuant to this scheme, Dunlap, Kersh, Gluck, and other Sunbeam executives caused Sunbeam, in 1996, to overstate its operating losses by at least $40 million, thereby establishing an overly bleak financial backdrop against which the company's performance in 1997 would be measured. In 1997, by contrast, Dunlap, Kersh, Gluck, and the other Sunbeam executives caused Sunbeam dramatically to overstate its earnings.

151. In late 1997 to early 1998, in furtherance of the conspiracy, Dunlap, Kersh, Gluck, and the other Sunbeam executives decided to acquire Coleman, First Alert, and Signature Brands. They communicated this decision to Andersen and Harlow. Thereafter, Andersen, Andersen-Worldwide, the Foreign Andersen Branches, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus agreed to become part of the conspiracy to defraud Plaintiffs.

152. In March 1998, in furtherance of the conspiracy, Andersen and Andersen-Worldwide, through their partners/members Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus, committed overt acts in furtherance of the conspiracy, including, but not limited to, issuing Andersen's false and misleading 1997 unqualified audit opinion with respect to Sunbeam's 1997 financial statements and consenting to its publication to the SEC as part of Sunbeam's Form 10-K filing on March 6, 1998.

153. The members of the conspiracy all knew or recklessly disregarded the fact that Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial statements and Andersen's audit opinions concerning those financial statements contained false statements of material fact. All of the co-conspirators that the representations regarding Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial statements were false when made and/or made these representations with reckless disregard as to their truth.

154. In furtherance of the conspiracy, and to induce MS & Co. into underwriting the Convertible Note Offering and MSSF into loaning Sunbeam $680 million, Andersen and Sunbeam represented to MS & Co. and MSSF that Sunbeam's audited financial statements and Andersen's audit opinions were accurate and not misleading. The co-conspirators invited MS & Co. and MSSF to rely on Andersen's unqualified audit opinions. In furtherance of the conspiracy, Andersen expressly represented to MS & Co., in letters dated March 19, 1998, and March 25, 1998, that Sunbeam's financial statements were truthful and that Andersen's unqualified audit opinions were reliable.

155. In furtherance of the conspiracy, Andersen, Harlow, other Andersen-Worldwide members and employees, and Sunbeam employees participated in meetings and telephone calls in which they represented to employees of MS & Co. and MSSF that Sunbeam's audited financial statements were accurate.

156. In furtherance of the conspiracy, Sunbeam's senior management caused Sunbeam expressly to represent, in loan negotiations with MSSF, that Andersen's audit opinions were accurate. They caused Sunbeam to warrant, in the Sunbeam-MSSF credit agreement, that it had provided MSSF with accurate information regarding its consolidated statements of operations, stockholders' equity and cash flows, as well as its consolidated balance sheets. They caused Sunbeam to include its 1996 and 1997 audited financial statements in its March 19, 1998, offering memorandum and to represent to MS & Co. that its audited financial statements were reliable. As part of the Coleman merger agreement executed on February 27, 1998, they caused Sunbeam to represent and warrant that all of Sunbeam's filings with the SEC, which included the 1996 financial statements audited by Andersen, were accurate, not misleading, and prepared in accordance with GAAP, and that they would continue to be accurate and not misleading as of the transaction's closing date. Andersen and the other Defendants named in this Complaint had full knowledge and approved of these false representations.

157. In reasonable and justifiable reliance on the co-conspirators' representations that Sunbeam's financial statements and Andersen's audit reports were accurate and truthful, MS & Co. agreed to underwrite the Convertible Note Offering, and MSSF agreed to loan Sunbeam $680 million to finance Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman. But for the co-conspirators' fraudulent representations, MS & Co. would not have underwritten the Convertible Note Offering, nor would MSSF have loaned Sunbeam $680 million.

158. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus had full knowledge of and participated in this conspiracy. Harlow, as engagement partner, and Pruitt, as concurring partner, had direct responsibility for directing, managing, and approving of the work that was done on the Sunbeam audits. Denkhaus, who was a senior partner of Andersen and a member of Andersen-Worldwide, as well as the Audit Division Head and manager of Andersen's audit practice for the entire South Florida region, had undertaken responsibility for supervising and monitoring the work performed at Harlow's and Pruitt's direction. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus each knew of or recklessly disregarded the accounting violations contained in Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial statements. They each also knew that the financial statements that they had caused Andersen to certify would be relied upon by MS & Co. in deciding to underwrite the Convertible Note Offering and by MSSF in deciding to loan Sunbeam hundreds of millions of dollars.

159. The Foreign Andersen Branches also knowingly participated in this scheme. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches reviewed and audited financial statements prepared for Sunbeam's foreign subsidiaries for 1997, all of which contained significant accounting violations. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches knew or recklessly disregarded the fact that the financial statements that they had reviewed and audited were not prepared in accordance with GAAP or reviewed in accordance with GAAS, but nevertheless certified their audit work as in compliance with these standards. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches also knew that the financial statements that they had audited would be incorporated into Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements and that lenders, such as MSSF, and underwriters, such as MS & Co., would rely on these financial statements.

160. Andersen-Worldwide also participated in this conspiracy through the actions of its members, including Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus, and its member firms, including Andersen and the Foreign Andersen Branches.

161. As a direct result of this conspiracy of fraudulent inducement, Plaintiffs have collectively suffered hundreds of millions of dollars in damages.

COUNT III

Aiding and Abetting Fraud

162. Paragraphs 1 through 135 are repeated and alleged as if set forth herein.

163. To induce MSSF into loaning Sunbeam $680 million to finance its acquisition of Coleman, First Alert, and Signature Brands, Sunbeam represented to MSSF in loan negotiations that Sunbeam's audited financial statements were accurate and not misleading. In the Sunbeam-MSSF credit agreement, Sunbeam warranted that it had provided MSSF with accurate information regarding its consolidated statements of operations, stockholders' equity and cash flows, as well as its consolidated balance sheets. Sunbeam included its 1996 and 1997 audited financial statements in its March 19, 1998, offering memorandum and represented to MS & Co. and MSSF that its audited financial statements were reliable.

164. As part of the Coleman merger agreement executed on February 27, 1998, Sunbeam expressly represented and warranted that all of its filings with the SEC, which included the 1996 financial statements audited by Andersen, were accurate, not misleading, and prepared in accordance with GAAP, and that they would continue to be accurate and not misleading as of the transaction's closing date. Sunbeam knew that its many representations regarding its 1996 and 1997 financial statements were materially false when made and/or made these representations with reckless disregard as to their truth. It also knew that Andersen's 1996 and 1997 unqualified audit opinions were materially false and misleading.

165. Sunbeam knew that MS & Co. would rely on Sunbeam's representations in determining whether to act as Sunbeam's underwriter and that MSSF would rely on its representations in deciding to loan Sunbeam $680 million to finance its acquisitions. Although Sunbeam knew that MS & Co. and MSSF would rely and had relied on its false statements, it did not inform them that the unqualified audit opinions it had provided were materially false or that Sunbeam's financial statements contained numerous misstatements of material facts.

166. Sunbeam made its materially false representations regarding its financial statements and Andersen's unqualified audit opinions with the intent to deceive MS & Co. and MSSF and to induce them to participate in the financing of Sunbeam's acquisitions.

167. Sunbeam knew that the false information that it had provided to MS & Co. and MSSF, and its intentional failure to correct the misrepresentations contained in Sunbeam's financial statements, would be critical to their decision to participate in the financing of Sunbeam's acquisitions. But for Sunbeam's fraudulent representations, MS & Co. would not have underwritten the Convertible Note Offering, nor would MSSF have loaned Sunbeam $680 million.

168. Andersen and Andersen-Worldwide, through their partners/members Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus, knowingly and substantially assisted Sunbeam in its fraud. Andersen itself expressly represented to MS & Co., in letters dated March 19, 1998, and March 25, 1998, that Sunbeam's financial statements were truthful and that Andersen's unqualified audit opinions were reliable. In addition, employees, partners, and members of Andersen and Andersen-Worldwide, including Harlow, participated in meetings and telephone calls in which they represented to MS & Co. and MSSF that Sunbeam's audited financial statements were accurate.

169. Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus substantially and knowingly assisted Sunbeam's fraud. They each knew of or recklessly disregarded the accounting violations contained in Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial statements. They each also knew that the financial statements that they had caused Andersen to certify would be relied upon by MS & Co. in deciding to underwrite the Convertible Note Offering and by MSSF in deciding to loan Sunbeam hundreds of millions of dollars.

170. The Foreign Andersen Branches substantially and knowingly assisted Sunbeam's fraud. They each reviewed and audited financial statements prepared for Sunbeam's foreign subsidiaries for 1997, all of which contained significant accounting violations. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches knew of or recklessly disregarded the fact that the financial statements that they had reviewed and audited were not prepared in accordance with GAAP or reviewed in accordance with GAAS, but nevertheless certified their audit work as in compliance with these standards. Each of the Foreign Andersen Branches also knew that the financial statements that they had audited would be incorporated into Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements and that lenders, such as MSSF, and underwriters, such as MS & Co., would rely on these financial statements.

171. As a direct result of Sunbeam's fraud, aided and abetted by Andersen, Andersen-Worldwide, the Foreign Andersen Branches, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus, MS & Co., MSSF, and Morgan Stanley collectively have suffered hundreds of millions of dollars in damages.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs, MS & Co., MSSF, and Morgan Stanley, demand judgment against Andersen, Andersen-Worldwide, Andersen-Canada, Andersen-Hong Kong, Andersen-Mexico, Andersen-Venezuela, Harlow, Pruitt, and Denkhaus, jointly and severally, for:

(A) compensatory damages;

(B) prejudgment interest;

(C) attorneys' fees and costs; and

(D) such other relief as may be just and appropriate.

Plaintiffs reserve the right to amend their complaint pursuant to section 768.72, Florida Statutes, to assert claims for punitive damages in excess of $1.2 billion as allowed by law.

Gentlemen:

We have audited the consolidated balance sheets of Sunbeam Corporation and subsidiaries (the "Company") as of December 28, 1997 and December 29, 1996 and the related consolidated statements of operations, shareholders' equity and cash flows for each of the three fiscal years in the period ended December 28, 1997 included in the offering memorandum for the $2,014,000,000 Sunbeam Corporation Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018; our report with respect thereto is also included in the offering memorandum. The offering memorandum dated March 19, 1998 is herein referred to as the Offering Memorandum.

This letter is being furnished in reliance upon your representation to us that –

a. You are knowledgeable with respect to the due diligence review process that would be performed if this placement of securities were being registered pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933 (the Act).

b. In connection with the Offering Memorandum, the review process you have performed is substantially consistent with the due diligence review process that you would have performed if this placement of securities were being registered pursuant to the Act.

DEPOSITION EXHIBIT CP1417

016966

In connection with the Offering Memorandum—

1. We are independent certified public accountants with respect to the Company under rule 101 of the AICPA's Code of Professional Conduct, and its interpretations and rulings.

2. In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements audited by us and included in the Offering Memorandum comply as to form in all material respects with the applicable accounting requirements of the Act and the related published rules and regulations.

3. We have not audited any financial statements of the Company as of any date or for any period subsequent to December 28, 1997; although we have conducted an audit for the fiscal year ended December 28, 1997, the purpose (and therefore the scope) of the audit was to enable us to express our opinion on the consolidated financial statements as of December 28, 1997, and for the fiscal year then ended, but not on the financial statements for any interim period within that year. Therefore, we are unable to and do not express any opinion on the financial position, results of operations or cash flows as of any date or for any period subsequent to December 28, 1997.

4. For purposes of this letter, we have read the minutes of meetings of the Board of Directors of the Company and its subsidiaries as set forth in the minute books at March 16, 1998, except for the meetings of the Board of Directors which took place on February 3, 1998 and February 28, 1998, for which we have read the agendas. Officials of the Company have advised us that these constitute a complete record of minutes of all such meetings through March 16, 1998. We have carried out other procedures to March 16, 1998, as follows (our work did not extend to the period from March 17, 1998, to March 19, 1998, inclusive):

   a. With respect to the period from December 29, 1997 to February 1, 1998, we have

      (i) Read the unaudited consolidated financial statements of the Company and its subsidiaries for the period from December 29, 1997 to February 1, 1998 furnished us by the Company, officials of the Company having advised us that no such financial statements as of any date or for any period subsequent to February 1, 1998, were available. The financial information for the period from December 29, 1997 to February 1, 1998 is incomplete in that it omits the statements of cash flows and other disclosures.

      (ii) Inquired of certain officials of the Company who have responsibility for financial and accounting matters whether the unaudited consolidated financial statements referred to in a(i) are stated on a basis substantially consistent with that of the audited consolidated financial statements included in the Offering Memorandum.

The foregoing procedures do not constitute an audit conducted in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Also, they would not necessarily reveal matters of significance with respect to the comments in the following paragraph. Accordingly, we make no representations regarding the sufficiency of the foregoing procedures for your purposes.

5. Nothing came to our attention as a result of the foregoing procedures, however, that caused us to believe that –

   a. At February 1, 1998, there was any change in the capital stock, increase in long-term debt or any decrease in consolidated net current assets or consolidated shareholders' equity of the Company as compared with amounts shown in the December 28, 1997, audited consolidated balance sheet included in the Offering Memorandum, except as follows (in thousands):

	December 28, 1997	February 1, 1998
Long-term debt	$ 194,580	$ 219,449
Shareholders' Equity	531,937	525,913

   b. For the period from December 29, 1997, to February 1, 1998, there were any decreases, as compared with the corresponding period in the preceding year, in consolidated net sales or in net income (loss), except in all instances for changes, increases, or decreases that the Offering Memorandum discloses have occurred or may occur, and except as follows (in thousands):

	The Period
	December 30, 1996 Through February 2, 1997	December 29, 1997 through February 1, 1998
Net sales	$ 72,945	$ 28,984
Net income (loss)	4,786	(9,510)

6. As mentioned in 4(a), Company officials have advised us that no consolidated financial statements as of any date or for any period subsequent to February 1, 1998, are available; accordingly, the procedures carried out by us with respect to changes in financial statement items after February 1, 1998 have been, of necessity, even more limited than those with respect to the periods referred to in 4. We have inquired of certain officials of the Company who have responsibility for financial and accounting matters whether (a) at March 16, 1998, there was any change in the capital stock, increase in long-term debt or any decreases in consolidated net current assets or shareholders' equity of the consolidated companies as compared with amounts shown on the December 28, 1997, audited consolidated balance sheet included in the Offering Memorandum; or (b) for the period from December 29, 1997, to March 16, 1998, there were any decreases, as compared with the corresponding period in the preceding year, in consolidated net sales or in the amount of net income. On the basis of these inquiries and our reading of the minutes and meeting agendas described in 4, nothing came to our attention that caused us to believe that there was any such change, increase, or decrease, except in all instances for changes, increases, or decreases that the Offering Memorandum discloses have occurred or may occur, and except as follows:

   a. Between December 29, 1997 and March 16, 1998, (i) capital stock increased primarily due to stock issued in connection with stock option exercises, (ii) long-term debt has increased from $194,580,000 to $299,580,000 as a result of drawings on the Company's credit facility and (iii) consolidated shareholders' equity has decreased primarily because of net losses during the period offset, in part, by contributions received for stock option exercises.

   b. For the period from December 29, 1997 through March 16, 1998, consolidated net sales decreased as compared to the corresponding period of the preceding year primarily due to the Company's new early-buy program for outdoor grills which accelerated outdoor grill sales into the fourth quarter of fiscal 1997. Additionally, the decrease in consolidated net sales during the period as compared to the corresponding period of the preceding year results, in part, from a non-recurring sale in January 1997 of discontinued stock keeping units and excess and obsolete inventory in connection with the Company's November 1996 restructuring. Net income decreased primarily due to the aforementioned sales decrease and a first quarter compensation charge from restricted stock issued in connection with new employment agreements for key officers.

c. Although the Company has not provided us with any financial statements as of any date or for any period subsequent to February 1, 1998, management has provided net sales from December 29, 1997 through March 1, 1998, which were $72,018,000 as compared to $143,499,000 for the corresponding period of the preceding year.

7. At your request, we have –

a. Read the unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated balance sheet as of December 28, 1997, and the unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated statement of operations for the fiscal year ended December 28, 1997 included in the Offering Memorandum.

b. Inquired of certain officials of the Company who have responsibility for financial and accounting matters about –

(i) The basis for their determination of the pro forma adjustments, and

(ii) Whether the unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements referred to in 7a comply as to form in all material respects with the applicable accounting requirements of rule 11-02 of Regulation S-X.

c. Proved the arithmetic accuracy of the application of the pro forma adjustments to the historical amounts in the unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements.

The foregoing procedures are substantially less in scope than an examination, the objective of which is the expression of an opinion on management's assumptions, the pro forma adjustments, and the application of those adjustments to historical financial information. Accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The foregoing procedures would not necessarily reveal matters of significance with respect to the comments in the following paragraph. Accordingly, we make no representation about the sufficiency of such procedures for your purposes.

8. Nothing came to our attention as a result of the procedures specified in paragraph 7, however, that caused us to believe that the unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements referred to in 7a included in the Offering Memorandum do not comply as to form in all material respects with the applicable accounting requirements of rule 11-02 of Regulation S-X and that the pro forma adjustments have not been properly applied to the historical amounts in the compilation of those statements. Had we performed additional procedures or had we made an examination of the pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements, other matters might have come to our attention that would have been reported to you.

9. Our audit of the consolidated financial statements for periods referred to in the introductory paragraph of this letter was comprised of audit tests and procedures deemed necessary for the purpose of expressing an opinion on such financial statements taken as a whole. For none of the periods referred to therein, or any other period, did we perform audit tests for the purpose of expressing an opinion on individual balances of accounts or summaries of selected transactions such as those enumerated above, and, accordingly, we express no opinion thereon.

10. We compared the information included under the heading "Selected Historical Financial Data" with the requirements of item 301 of Regulation S-K. We also inquired of certain officials of the Company who have responsibility for financial and accounting matters whether this information conforms in all material respects with the disclosure requirements of item 301 of Regulation S-K. Nothing came to our attention as a result of the foregoing procedures that caused us to believe that this information does not conform in all material respects with the disclosure requirements of item 301 of Regulation S-K.

11. For purposes of this letter, we have also read the items identified by you on the attached copy of the Offering Memorandum, and have performed the following procedures, which were applied as indicated with respect to the symbols explained below:

    ✓ Compared to corresponding amounts appearing in the Company's audited consolidated financial statements and notes thereto for the period indicated contained in the Offering Memorandum and found them to be in agreement.

    A Recomputed from corresponding amounts appearing in the Company's audited consolidated financial statements and notes thereto for the period indicated contained in the Offering Memorandum and found them to be in agreement.

✓ Compared to, or recomputed from, amounts included in an unaudited schedule or report prepared by the Company, which we were informed by officers of the Company responsible for accounting matters, were derived from the accounting records of the Company, and found them to be in agreement. We confirmed the mathematical accuracy of the schedule or report and found it to be mathematically accurate. We make no representations regarding the completeness or accuracy of the Company's assumptions underlying such schedule or report.

✓ Compared to, or recomputed from, the accounting records of the Company and noted agreement.

✓ Compared to, or recomputed from, corresponding amounts appearing in the Company's unaudited proforma condensed combined financial statements included in the Offering Memorandum and found them to be in agreement.

12. It should be understood that we make no representations regarding questions of legal interpretation or regarding the sufficiency for your purposes of the procedures enumerated in the preceding paragraph; also, such procedures would not necessarily reveal any material misstatement of amounts reflected in the Offering Memorandum. Further, we have addressed ourselves solely to the foregoing data as set forth in the Offering Memorandum and make no representations regarding the adequacy of disclosures or regarding whether any material facts have been omitted.

13. This letter is solely for the information of the addressees and to assist the underwriters in conducting and documenting their investigation of the affairs of the Company in connection with the offering of securities covered by the Offering Memorandum, and it is not to be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to within or without the underwriting group for any purpose, including but not limited to the registration, purchase or sale of securities, nor is it to be filed with or referred to in whole or in part in the Offering Memorandum or any other document, except that reference may be made to it in the purchase agreement or in any list of closing documents pertaining to the offering of securities covered by the Offering Memorandum.

Very truly yours,

Arthur Andersen L.L.P.

Davis Polk & Wardwell
Chronology Prepared in Response to June 30, 2000 Subpoena
Sunbeam Securities Litigation

The chronology below was prepared in August 2000 in accordance with discussions among counsel concerning the response by Davis Polk & Wardwell to a subpoena dated June 30, 2000, served by Arthur Andersen in the Sunbeam securities litigation pending in the Southern District of Florida. It is based on a review of Davis Polk & Wardwell ("DPW") time records and file documents. The time records were in most cases very general in their descriptions of activities and did not provide sufficient detail to identify with greater particularity timing, place, or attendance. Moreover, the time records may not reflect all meetings and conversations that may have occurred during the relevant period. Similarly, the files may not contain copies of all documents, transmittal letters, memoranda, etc., that may have existed at the time. Consequently, the chronology is only a best efforts attempt to reconstruct events based on available information and may be incomplete or inaccurate to the extent events occurred differently than reflected in the time records and documents that were retained in the file.

Pursuant to the understandings reached among counsel, the chronology covers the period from the inception of DPW's work on the issuance of Sunbeam's zero coupon convertible debentures at the end of February 1998 through April 15, 1998. It identifies communications between DPW and Sunbeam, Arthur Andersen, or debenture purchasers during that time.

In addition to the events specifically listed below, the time records indicate numerous phone calls and document reviews, as to which details do not exist, but many of which may have involved communications between DPW and Sunbeam and its counsel, or Arthur Andersen. Because no detail exists, however, it is impossible at this time to provide specific times and dates for such communications other than to say that such communications took place on a regular basis throughout the period.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: This is tape number one of the videotaped deposition of Mr. Alan Dean in the matter Coleman Holdings, Inc., plaintiff, versus Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., defendant, in the 15th Judicial Court in and for Palm Beach County, Florida.

This deposition is being held at 450 Lexington Avenue, New York, New York on June 3, 2004 at approximately 9:51 a.m.

My name is Victor Disla. I am from the firm of Esquire Video Services. I am the legal video specialist.

The court reporter is Mr. Steve Cohen in association with Esquire Deposition Services.

Will counsel please introduce themselves for the record?

MR. CLARE: Tom Clare from Kirkland & Ellis here for Morgan Stanley & Company.

MR. WISE: Bob Wise of Davis Polk & Wardwell representing Mr. Dean.

ALAN DEAN,

called as a witness by the Plaintiff, having been duly sworn, testified as follows:

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Dean. Would you please state your full name for the record?

A. My name is Alan Dean.

Q. Could you give your address please?

A. My address is 30 Hampton Road, Scarsdale, New York.

Q. Mr. Dean, have you ever given a deposition before?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. On how many occasions?

A. Twice.

Q. When was the most recent of those occasions?

Dean

A. I can't remember. It was several years ago.

Q. How about the first of the occasions?

A. It was more than ten years ago.

Q. Were both of those depositions given concerning your work as an attorney for Davis Polk?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. What matters were involved in those depositions?

A. Well, the matters that -- the matter that the depositions emerged out of was a representation of Morgan Stanley in connection with a Bank of New England -- Bank of New England debt offering.

MR. WISE: Let's stop for a minute. The reporter has asked that we switch mics.

(Pause)

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Mr. Dean, before the brief interruption you indicated that your, was it the most recent deposition, was in connection with a Morgan Stanley matter concerning a Bank of New England debt offering; is that correct?

Dean

A. That's correct.

Q. What was the other deposition?

A. The depositions both arose out of the same transaction.

Q. Was that civil litigation?

A. Yes, it was civil litigation.

Q. Was it litigation brought by purchasers of the debt?

A. One of the lawsuits was brought by purchasers of the debt.

Q. What was the nature of the allegations in that matter?

MR. WISE: If you want to find that out you can go look at the court records. That is wasting his time.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Can you go ahead and answer?

A. The case involved allegations that there had been material misstatements and omissions in a prospectus relating to a debt offering for the Bank of New England

Dean

Corporation.

Q. Did those depositions occur in the 1990s?

A. May have occurred in the 1980s and there was -- the depositions occurred in a different lawsuit arising out of the same facts sometime in the '90s, I think. I can't remember the precise dates. It was years and years ago.

Q. One of the lawsuits was brought by investors?

A. I am sure that one of the lawsuits was brought by investors. I have forgotten whether or not the other lawsuit was also brought by investors.

There may have been a different party -- a different defendant involved in the second lawsuit.

Q. You as a Davis Polk attorney were counsel to Morgan Stanley, the underwriter for the Bank of New England debt offering; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Who from Morgan Stanley was

016981

Dean

involved in that debt offering?
MR. WISE: I am going to object to that and direct him not to answer.
MR. JOHNSON: The basis for that instruction?
MR. WISE: It is totally irrelevant. It is not what he is here to testify about today.
We are not going to have a rehash of the Bank of New England matter.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Was Ruth Porat involved in the Bank of New England debt offering?
A. No, she was not.
Q. Was John Tyree?
A. No, he was not.
Q. Was Brooks Harris?
A. No, he was not.
Q. Is it fair to say, Mr. Dean, you are familiar with the deposition process?
A. I haven't given very many depositions so I would say that I am not as familiar with the process as you are.
Q. If you don't understand any of my questions let me know and I will try to rephrase them.

Dean

If you want to take a break at any time let me know that and we will try to accommodate your request.
The court reporter is obviously taking down what everyone says. As a result, your responses to my questions need to be stated out loud rather than a nod of the head or shrug of the shoulders, that sort of thing.
Are you represented by counsel today?
A. Yes, I am represented by counsel today.
Q. Who is your counsel?
A. Robert Wise is my counsel.
Q. Mr. Clare is not your counsel?
A. No, Mr. Clare is not my counsel.
Q. Have you testified in any judicial proceedings?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Any arbitrations?
A. No, I have not.

Dean

Q. What did you do to prepare for the deposition today?
A. There was a meeting that I had on Monday with Mr. Wise and a brief meeting that I had with Mr. Wise this morning.
Q. How long did you meet with Mr. Wise on Monday?
A. I believe it was for about two-and-a-half hours.
Q. This morning?
A. Less than half an hour.
Q. When was the first time you met Mr. Clare?
A. On Monday.
Q. Did he attend the meeting with you and Mr. Wise?
A. He attended the Monday meeting with Mr. Wise and myself.
Q. Was he present at the meeting this morning?
A. No, he was not.
Q. Other than Mr. Wise have you spoken with any attorneys concerning this deposition?

Dean

A. No, I have not.
Q. No in-house lawyers for Morgan Stanley?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Did you sign a protective order in this litigation?
A. I did sign a protective order. I don't know if it is the one that you are referring to but I was furnished a copy of an order by Mr. Clare on Monday which I signed.
Q. Do you know what other Morgan Stanley lawyers -- strike that.
What other Davis Polk lawyers have signed that protective order?
A. I am unaware of which lawyers have signed it.
Q. Do you know whether Mr. Wise has signed the protective order?
A. I don't know.
Q. Is Morgan Stanley compensating you or Mr. Wise for your time spent in connection with this deposition?
A. I don't know whether or not they

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Dean

will be or not.

MR. WISE: That is an excellent question. I would like to know the answer to that question.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. So as far as you know there is no understanding with Morgan Stanley concerning Davis Polk's efforts in connection with this litigation?

A. There is no -- there are no compensation arrangements that I am aware of in connection with this deposition.

MR. WISE: We are not saying that we will not have discussions with the client about --

MR. JOHNSON: I will not stop you from that. That is between you and Mr. Clare.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Did you review any materials that refreshed your memory concerning the Sunbeam transaction?

A. I was furnished two documents I believe on Monday to try to refresh my recollection about Sunbeam.

Dean

I was also furnished a closing binder of the closing documents relating to Sunbeam but I didn't look at those very -- in any depth at all.

Q. You didn't look at any of those materials in any depth or the closing binder?

A. The closing binder I did not look at in depth nor did I really study the other documents that had been furnished to me.

Q. Did those documents refresh your memory in any way concerning the events of March of 1998?

A. They -- I don't think that they did.

Q. Do you have an understanding as to who has been deposed in the litigation that brings us here today?

A. I don't know who has been deposed in this -- in this matter today.

Q. You are not aware of any Morgan Stanley witness who has been deposed so far in this litigation?

Dean

A. I am not specifically aware of any Morgan Stanley person that has been deposed.

Q. Do you have any general awareness of who has been deposed so far?

A. I have been told that Heather Stack and James Lurie may have been noticed for depositions and I was told by Mr. Wise that Heather Stack had given her deposition.

Q. Did he describe any of her testimony?

A. No, he did not.

Q. How about Arthur Andersen personnel; do you know of any Andersen personnel that have been deposed?

A. I am unaware of any depositions that have been taken in this case except my own.

Q. Among the Davis Polk attorneys who worked on the Sunbeam subordinated debt offering do you think you are the most knowledgeable person concerning Davis

Dean

Polk's work?

A. Well, I was the partner in charge of the matter. That does not necessarily mean that I was knowledgeable about all aspects of the transaction.

There is delegation that goes on in any transaction.

Q. Did you have a team of lawyers working on the subordinated debt offering?

A. Yes. There was a Davis Polk team that was working on the subordinated debt offering.

Q. Who was on the team?

A. I was on the team. James Lurie was on the team. Heather Stack was on the team. There was another woman, an associate who has left the firm, whose name I have forgotten now.

Q. Nicole Duncan?

A. Yes, that is Nicole Duncan.

Q. Anybody else?

A. I can't recall anybody else. I mean, there may have been paralegals involved in it.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016983

Dean

It has been a long time since the transaction occurred. The names that we have just gone over are the ones that I recall at this time.

MR. JOHNSON: Let's mark this as CPH Exhibit 213.

(CPH Exhibit 213 marked for identification)

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Mr. Dean, I have given you a document we have marked as CPH Exhibit 213 which has the Bates stamp Morgan Stanley confidential 0029159 through 162.

Have you ever seen this document before?

A. I can't recall whether or not I have seen this document before.

Q. Feel free to consult any portion of Exhibit 213 but I would like to call your attention particularly to the last paragraph on the first page carrying over to the top of page 2 and ask whether the information set forth there refreshes your recollection as to which Davis Polk lawyers were in fact working on the subordinated debt offering?

A. The list of lawyers, I think, on the top of page 2 is consistent with what we were talking about.

Mr. Megevick had been consulted. I can't recall whether Ms. Fassberg and Mr. Hall and Mr. Morrison and Mr. Small were consulted.

Q. Mr. Morrison and Mr. Small were consulted in connection with the press release; is that correct?

A. That may be an area of privilege. I am not sure whether or not --

MR. WISE: Certainly what is in the letter I think we do not disagree with.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. The question is whether that is a correct statement. Mr. Wise has already answered that but if you would answer it as well I would appreciate it.

A. Yes, they were consulted in connection with the proposed press release.

Dean

Q. What was the division of responsibility among the team that is set forth here at the top of page 2 of Exhibit 213?

A. Well, I can't -- it has been a long time since the transaction happened so it is hard for me to precisely say who was responsible for what.

In general terms Heather Stack and Nicole were responsible for the documentary due diligence in connection with the transaction.

Mr. Lurie was involved in drafting the convertible -- the documents underlying the convertible security.

All of us were involved in disclosure matters and reviewing the offering memorandum.

Q. Did any other Davis Polk lawyers work on any Sunbeam related issues to your knowledge?

A. What Sunbeam issues? I am not sure I understand the question.

Q. Let me just ask it more

Dean

specifically.

Are you aware of any Davis Polk attorneys representing any officers of Sunbeam Corporation at any time?

A. I am not aware of any Davis Polk lawyers who would have represented any Sunbeam officers at the time they were Sunbeam officers.

Q. Are you aware of anyone's representation of Janet Kelley?

A. I think that Ms. Kelley may have been represented by Dennis Glazer of Davis Polk.

Q. Did you have any conversations with Mr. Glazer concerning that representation?

A. I don't recall whether or not I did or not. He may have consulted me. I don't remember at this time.

Q. At the time that the subordinated debt offering was proceeding Sunbeam was also looking to syndicate a credit facility; is that correct?

A. Yes, that is correct.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016984

Dean

Q. Was Davis Polk involved in that work as well?

A. Yes. Davis Polk was involved in that work as well representing Morgan Stanley and the syndicate of banks.

Q. Was there a partner in charge, so to speak, of that aspect of the work?

A. I believe it was Peter Levin that was in charge of that work.

Q. Was there any protocol in place to share information among Mr. Levin's team and your team?

A. No, there was not.

Q. Let's back up. We will come back to this. Let's back up to a little more background if we could.

I would like you to describe your educational background for me.

A. Starting from when?

Q. Graduation from high school.

A. I graduated from Stuyvesant High School in New York City.

I then attended Harvard College and received an undergraduate degree there.

Dean

Then I went to the University of California at Berkeley where I received a Master's degree in mathematics, and then I received a law degree at Harvard Law School.

Q. Would you kindly put years on each of these degrees for me?

A. I graduated from high school in 1969. I graduated from college in 1973. I received a Master's degree from Berkeley in 1974 and I received my law degree from Harvard in 1978.

Q. Have you been with Davis Polk your entire legal career?

A. Yes, I have been, since graduating from Harvard Law School.

Q. At some point you became a partner at Davis Polk?

A. I did.

Q. When was that?

A. In 1986.

Q. Is it your view that Davis Polk is one of the premier law firms in the world in the area of corporate securities work?

A. Davis Polk has a world reputation for doing securities work.

Q. I assume you are proud of that reputation?

A. Yes, I am proud of that reputation.

Q. Do you have any particular areas of expertise in corporate and securities law?

A. Well, I give general corporate advice to corporations. I have a specialization in providing advice in doing securities offerings both for issuers and for underwriters.

Q. Do you view most of your clients as highly sophisticated?

A. Most of my clients are very sophisticated.

Q. Morgan Stanley is a sophisticated client, isn't it?

A. Yes, I believe Morgan Stanley is a sophisticated client.

Q. How many securities offerings have you been involved in either for the issuer or underwriter?

Dean

A. I can't count. I mean, it is scores, probably 100 offerings.

Q. Over the past 25 years?

A. Yes, for the past 25 years.

Q. Tell me about Davis Polk's relationship with Morgan Stanley.

A. Davis Polk is one of the counsel that Morgan Stanley routinely uses in connection with public offering work and Davis Polk also counsels Morgan Stanley on other legal matters as well.

Q. How long has Davis Polk been a counsel of choice for Morgan Stanley?

A. I don't know. I think that our relationship with Morgan Stanley extends back to when Morgan Stanley was founded.

Morgan Stanley has used many counsel over the years and I wouldn't necessarily characterize Davis Polk as being Morgan Stanley's exclusive counsel of choice.

Q. When you joined Davis Polk in

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016985

Dean

1978 Morgan Stanley was a client of the firm?

A. Yes. Morgan Stanley was a client of the firm in 1978.

Q. And has been a client continuously since then?

A. Yes, it has been.

Q. Have you worked on Morgan Stanley matters your entire tenure at Davis Polk?

A. I don't remember which was the first Morgan Stanley transaction that I worked on but certainly -- I don't remember whether or not my first year as an associate, whether or not I worked on -- on a Morgan Stanley transaction but I certainly began working on Morgan Stanley transactions shortly after I joined the firm.

Q. You personally have worked on Morgan Stanley matters for upwards of 20 years?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you consider Morgan Stanley a major client of Davis Polk?

Dean

A. Morgan Stanley is a -- I don't know what you mean by "major client." It is -- we represent Morgan Stanley in many matters.

Q. In terms of fees are they in the top ten percent of clients for Davis Polk?

A. Yes. Morgan Stanley would be in the top ten percent.

Q. As an approximate matter how much in fees does Davis Polk collect from Morgan Stanley on an annual basis?

MR. WISE: I am going to object and direct him not to answer that.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. I assume that it exceeds $10 million a year?

A. I assume that it does. I am not -- I am frankly -- I don't know what the exact number is.

Q. Within Davis Polk how is the fee credit for Morgan Stanley apportioned?

A. There is no fee credit allocation among the partners.

Q. Is there any evaluation of the partners at Davis Polk on an annual basis or not?

Dean

A. Yes, there is an evaluation.

Q. Tell me about that process.

A. The evaluation process involves questionnaires today sent out to the partners of the firm where each partner is allowed to evaluate their own work at the firm and then to comment on other partners.

Q. That is done on an annual basis?

A. That is done on an annual basis.

Q. Did your 1998 self-evaluation reference the Sunbeam transaction in any way?

A. I don't believe that at the time we had a -- I don't remember that. I don't remember whether or not my evaluation in that year involved the Sunbeam transaction.

Q. Have you ever mentioned Sunbeam in any of your evaluations?

A. I don't remember doing so.

Q. Do you know whether any of your partners discussed your work on the Sunbeam transaction in evaluating you?

Dean

A. I am not aware of it.

Q. As you sit here today do you think there is anything noteworthy about the Sunbeam transaction you worked on?

MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question.

THE WITNESS: I don't know what "noteworthy" means.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Was there anything particularly challenging about that transaction?

A. All transactions are challenging in their own way.

Q. That is why I said "particularly."

Was there anything distinctive about the transaction?

A. Well, I think the fact that lawsuits were brought in connection with the transaction is significant and noteworthy.

Q. Were you ever interviewed by anyone in relation to those lawsuits?

A. A reporter attempted to interview

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

986910

Dean

me but our standard firm policy is not to comment on matters that involve client representation.

Q. Who was the reporter?

A. I have forgotten his name. I believe it was -- I think it was a reporter for Business Week but I have forgotten.

Q. Did you view the time frame for completing the offering to be unreasonably short?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Was it a fairly standard time frame?

A. Yes, it was a fairly standard time frame.

Q. Did the fact that the offering you were working on was made in connection with the acquisition of three companies by Sunbeam present any complexity?

A. Since the transaction did involve the acquisition of three companies and the three companies were going to be part of the new combined Sunbeam entity there was -- there were due diligence efforts that needed to be done in connection with those three companies.

Dean

Q. It was not simply the preacquisition issuer that needed diligence; it was the three targets as well?

A. That is correct.

Q. Did you view the offering as successful for Morgan Stanley?

A. I don't know how Morgan Stanley views success in characterizing transactions.

The transaction was successfully placed by Morgan Stanley.

Q. Morgan Stanley made a lot of money on the transaction?

MR. CLARE: I object to the form of the question.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Is that a fair statement?

A. I don't know how much money Morgan Stanley made on the transaction.

There was a difference between the price that Morgan Stanley paid for the securities and the price at which they sold them but in the overall scheme of things -- I mean, they could have lost money in connection with the transaction even though the securities were purchased at a price that was lower than the public offering price.

Dean

It really depends on how the transaction went.

Q. Do you have any basis to state that Morgan Stanley & Company lost money on the transaction?

A. I have no basis to know how much money Morgan Stanley made on the transaction.

I can state what -- if I looked at the cover page of the prospectus I can tell what you the spread was on the underwriting transaction.

Q. They made that spread to your knowledge?

A. I have no basis to conclude one way or the other. I assume that they did.

Q. Do you have any basis to conclude that Morgan Stanley & Co. lost money on the transaction?

Dean

A. No, I have no basis.

Q. Morgan Stanley & Company was your client in this transaction, wasn't it?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. Is it fair to assume you would have heard about it if they lost money on this transaction?

MR. CLARE: Object to the form; calls for speculation.

THE WITNESS: I am not sure -- that -- Morgan Stanley does not necessarily share information about how much money they make on transactions with me on a routine basis after a transaction.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Have you been involved in any Morgan Stanley matter where Morgan Stanley lost money on the transaction?

A. I mean, I am not aware of any but I am not -- at the same time I am not aware of whether or not a transaction is profitable to Morgan Stanley.

Q. Was the transaction successful from Davis Polk's perspective?
A. I don't know what you mean by "successful."
We were able to -- we gave advice to Morgan Stanley in connection with the transaction. We sent a fee for our services in connection with the transaction.
That is what we did in connection with the transaction.
Q. I assume you collected the fee?
A. Yes, we did collect the fee.
Q. What was the fee on this transaction?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Can you give me an estimate?
A. I just don't have any idea. I am sure if we looked at our billing records we could figure out what the fee was.
Q. Based on your experience in transactions of this sort do you have a sense of whether a million dollars would be a fee typical in this sort of transaction?

Page 35

Dean

A. A fee charged by Davis Polk in this transaction?
Q. Right.
A. For the subordinated debt offering, that would be very high.
Q. You mentioned that one potentially noteworthy thing about this transaction was the lawsuits that were brought concerning it.
When did you first hear about those lawsuits?
A. I don't remember when I heard about them. I assume that was shortly after the lawsuits were brought.
Q. Do you know when the lawsuits were brought?
A. I don't have any recollection of that now. I mean, I would have at the time but I don't now.
Q. Did you ever read any of the lawsuits that -- complaints that were filed?
A. Yes. I have read complaints. I don't remember which complaints I have read but I know that I have read the complaints -- a complaint.

Page 36

Dean

Q. Was it a complaint of the bondholders or was it an equity holder complaint?
A. I don't remember.
Q. How did you come to read a copy of one of those complaints?
A. I don't know how I -- I don't know who furnished me a copy of the complaint. I just don't know. I don't remember right now.
Q. Based on your work on the transaction did you have any opinion as to the accuracy of the allegations in the complaint?
A. Well, I can't -- I don't remember what the allegations in the complaint were at this time so I would have to take a look at the complaint and then -- I am sure that my opinion would have been that the allegations were false at least insofar as Morgan Stanley was concerned.

Page 37

Dean

Q. Can you explain that qualification for me?
A. I don't know who the lawsuits were brought against and my only knowledge about the transaction relates to my representation of Morgan Stanley and no one else.
Q. As you sit here today do you have an opinion as to whether the offering memorandum for this offering was materially false and misleading?
A. I think that at the time that the offering memorandum was issued we believed that it -- that it did not contain any material misstatements or omissions.
Q. Would you acknowledge as you sit here today and with the benefit of hindsight that it does contain materially false and misleading information?
A. If the allegations against the company are correct, yes, it does contain -- one could allege that it contains material misstatements or omissions.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Dean

Q. Are you saying you have no opinion as to whether there was a fraud at Sunbeam?

A. From -- from what I have read in the newspapers and -- it does appear there was a fraud at Sunbeam.

Q. That was a fraud that came to light within months of the debt offering; isn't that correct?

A. The allegations -- the facts surrounding that fraud became -- began coming out after the offering.

Q. Do you regret Davis Polk's involvement in the offering?

A. No, I don't. I think that we did the job we were asked to do in the connection with the offering.

Q. What was the job that you were asked to do?

A. To assist Morgan Stanley in reviewing the offering memorandum and to render an opinion to Morgan Stanley about -- that the securities were validly issued and that the offering memorandum in our opinion did not contain any material misstatements or omissions.

Dean

Q. Did anyone at Sunbeam provide false information to you, meaning Davis Polk, or Morgan Stanley?

A. I think, viewed in hindsight, it appears that people at Sunbeam did not -- were not, did not provide accurate information to us at the time.

Q. Any particular Sunbeam personnel do you think provided you false information?

A. I mean, I know I can't speak to the frame of mind of the Sunbeam personnel who provided the information and whether or not they in fact believed it to be true at the time.

We were certainly -- we were given assurances by them and we believed them, that the statements that they gave us at the time of the preparation of the offering memorandum were accurate.

Q. Who in particular gave you assurances?

Dean

A. Well, I think that the financial officers at Sunbeam did. I don't remember their names.

Q. Russ Kersh, does that ring a bell?

A. Yes.

Q. He is the CFO; is that right?

A. The CFO. There was a -- I don't remember. There was a treasurer or controller.

Q. Bob Gluck; is that right?

A. Bob Gluck, yes, that is right.

Q. Anyone else?

A. I have forgotten -- there was also a legal vice chairman or legal officer.

Q. David Fannin?

A. That name doesn't ring a bell.

There were a number of Sunbeam personnel who were involved in conversations relating to the offering and I can't call up all of their names at this time.

Q. We will get to that in a little more detail shortly.

Dean

Did Davis Polk have any responsibility for determining what diligence would be appropriate in connection with the offering?

A. Due diligence is a team effort in connection with an offering and the advice that we would give about the scope of diligence is probably a privileged matter. I think.

MR. WISE: He hasn't asked you for the advice.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Whether you gave advice on the scope is all I am asking. That is a yes or no question.

A. Yes, we did.

Q. Did Davis Polk perform diligence on the transaction as well as advising on the scope of diligence?

A. Yes, we were assigned tasks to perform in connection with the diligence investigation.

Q. Did Morgan Stanley provide you

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016989

Dean

with a due diligence plan for your review?
MR. WISE: Answer that yes or no.
THE WITNESS: I don't remember whether or not they did or not.
MR. JOHNSON: You have to answer yes or no.
THE WITNESS: I don't remember. It would have been -- in many transactions it is customary for Morgan Stanley to prepare questions for due diligence that we might review.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. You just don't recall whether that happened in this transaction or not?
A. I just don't recall. There are so many transactions. Some transactions it happens and some transactions it doesn't.
Q. Have you ever been involved in an offering by a consumer products company other than Sunbeam?
A. I can't remember whether or not I had or not. I have done offerings in a very wide range of industries.
Q. No consumer products companies come immediately to mind?

Dean

A. There may well have been but I just don't remember any right now.
Q. Is it fair to say that the industry sector of the issuer is a consideration that informs what due diligence might be appropriate?
A. Yes, it is.
Q. You mentioned that Davis Polk's job in the transaction was to assist Morgan Stanley in reviewing the offering memorandum?
A. Yes.
Q. Did Davis Polk have any other responsibilities in connection with the transaction?
A. We were assigned the responsibility of doing diligence on reviewing legal documents at Sunbeam and at the three acquired companies.
Q. Did Davis Polk negotiate or draft any ancillary contracts in connection with the offering?
A. We would have drafted the

Dean

purchase agreement between Morgan Stanley and Sunbeam.
We also drafted the indenture that set forth the terms of the subordinated notes that were issued and there were -- we would have been -- we would have also drafted a closing memorandum for the transaction.
Q. Lockup agreements to draft those?
A. That would be part of the purchase agreement.
Q. What is the purpose of due diligence?
A. The purpose of due diligence is to provide a basis upon which the underwriter -- the underwriters in connection with the securities offering have liability in connection with the offering unless they are able to establish a due diligence defense.
The purpose of diligence is to -- both to provide a basis for establishing the due diligence defense but also as well to prevent misstatements from occurring.

Dean

Q. So it is to, to a reasonable degree, confirm that the offering memorandum is fair and accurate?
A. That is correct.
Q. Would you say it is typical in due diligence to talk to an issuer's customers?
A. It depends on the -- it depends on the issuer and the business they are in.
Q. How about for a consumer products company? Don't you think that would be appropriate due diligence?
A. Depends on the concentration of -- depends on whether or not there was a concentration of clients or not.
Q. How would that circumstance inform whether talking to customers would be appropriate?
A. The materiality of the customers to a company's revenues would be a factor in determining whether or not customer due diligence was appropriate.
Q. If an issuer had sales concentrated in five or six major companies

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016990

Page 46

Dean

such as Wal-Mart, Home Depot, et cetera, it would make sense to talk to those customers?

A. Yes, it might make sense in those particular companies.

I think one of the other issues is that many of those companies have arrangements where they won't talk to third parties or -- and it is also widely known in the industry that they do not necessarily serve -- tell people what their purchase commitments are.

Q. Are you, as you sit here today, aware of any policy within Home Depot that prevents Home Depot from advising an underwriter as to, say, the amount of inventory it has on hand?

A. I am not aware of any policy that Home Depot has.

I have certainly been told that Home Depot, in particular, may have policies against that.

Q. But you are not aware of any?

A. No.

Page 47

Dean

Q. How about Wal-Mart?

A. The same answer would -- as to Wal-Mart, I don't think that I have ever heard specific information about Wal-Mart but it wouldn't surprise me if they had some more policies.

Q. You are not aware of a policy?

A. No.

Q. How about Target?

A. The same answer as for Wal-Mart.

Q. K-Mart?

A. Same answer.

Q. Is it correct that the underwriter should not take senior management of the issuer at its word?

MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question.

THE WITNESS: The case law says that it is -- independent verification is the standard in Section 11 cases.

I have forgotten whether or not this transaction involved a registered offering or whether or not it was done on a Rule 144A basis.

Page 48

Dean

Q. Does that, putting aside what the case law says and whether this was a 144A offering or not, do you believe that the underwriter should obtain independent verification of senior management's statements concerning the company and its prospects?

MR. CLARE: I object to the form; an incomplete hypothetical.

THE WITNESS: Could you clarify that question for me?

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Sure.

Putting aside what -- whether it is a registered offering or not should an underwriter obtain independent verification of senior management's representations concerning the health of the issuer?

A. It depends on the statements that are made and whether or not an investigation is one that would be reasonable under those circumstances so I don't think that there is a rigid answer to that question.

Page 49

Dean

Q. Would independent verification be particularly appropriate when the underwriter comes across negative or -- negative information or information contrary to what management is contending?

MR. CLARE: Same objections.

THE WITNESS: I think it is impossible to generalize and give a yes or no answer to a question like that.

It really depends on the particular facts and circumstances of the situation.

MR. WISE: I would add that we have produced Mr. Dean here today as a fact witness in a case.

If you are interested in hiring Davis Polk to be an expert witness in the case so that you may ask hypothetical questions we could discuss that but I think we would be unable to do that given our continuing representation of Morgan Stanley so I would appreciate it if we can move to the fact issues rather than hypotheticals.

016991

MR. JOHNSON: We are moving there shortly. I am trying to get a basis of this witness' understanding of the requirements which we will then put in the context of what happened in this transaction.
MR. WISE: I think you can assume Mr. Dean, based upon the testimony you have already elicited, is an experienced practitioner in the area of securities transactions of this type so I think you probably can skip some of this and move to the facts.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. I will take that advice.
Did Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk ever talk to a Sunbeam customer?
MR. CLARE: Objection; calls for speculation.
THE WITNESS: I am not aware of -- I can't recall at this time whether or not we were involved in any conversations with -- whether or not Davis Polk was involved in any conversations with the Sunbeam customer, and I don't recall at this time.

I can't say for sure whether or not Morgan Stanley did or did not talk to a Sunbeam customer.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. As you sit here today you can't identify any customers that either Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley spoke with?
A. I can't identify any right now and I don't remember any.
Q. Can you name for me all of the Sunbeam personnel that Morgan Stanley and Davis Polk spoke with in connection with diligence?
A. No, I can't. I mean, there were a host of individuals.
Q. Name as many as you can for me.
A. I think that we talked about Russell Kersh, we talked about Bob Gluck. I think that -- I was told that there was a conversation with the CEO of Sunbeam,

Mr. Dunlap. Janet Kelley was involved. There was a sales manager at Sunbeam whose name I can't recall was involved.
Q. Don Uzzi?
A. Yes.
I am sure there must have been others. It is six years ago and I have met a lot of people in transactions since then.
Q. When you say you are sure there must be others, why do you say that?
A. It -- just in the context of the offering process. You wind up consulting with many people during an offering.
Q. You mentioned Mr. Dunlap. Did Davis Polk ever have any communications with Mr. Dunlap?
A. I don't remember any direct communications that anybody at Davis Polk had with Mr. Dunlap.
Q. Apparently you would remember them if you had them?
A. I don't know.
Q. In seriousness, had you heard anything about Mr. Dunlap's reputation?

A. I don't know whether or not I knew it at the time of the transaction or whether or not it was after the transaction but he was regarded to be a very hard taskmaster.
Q. Did Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley investigate his business background prior to Sunbeam?
A. I think -- I don't recall whether or not Davis Polk did any investigation into his background.
I think I was aware of the fact that he had been involved in a turnaround situation, I think it was Scott Paper. I have forgotten what the name of the company was.
I don't know to what extent Morgan Stanley did an independent investigation.
Q. Other than what we have already talked about can you tell me any other due diligence that Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk performed on Sunbeam?
A. We would have read the minutes at

016992

Page 54

Dean
Sunbeam and I believe that we would have read them at the acquired companies. I am not certain at this time.
Other things -- I just don't remember right now but I would have remembered back at the time what we had looked at.
Accountants management letters would have been an area that we would have looked at. I am sure we did it but, you know, I can't say that I positively sort of remember doing that right now.
It would have been our routine practice to do it.
Q. Anything else?
A. We probably reviewed the acquisition agreements.
Again, there are many documents that we would review in connection with an offering and I would remember exactly which documents we had looked at if we had been closer in time to the transaction but we would have done the -- we would have done the -- we would have reviewed the documents that in our professional opinion would have been required to be reviewed in connection with an offering of this sort.

Page 55

Dean
Q. What work did you do concerning the company's business projections?
A. That is primarily a financial sort of analysis and so that part of the due diligence would fall more on Morgan Stanley's shoulders and they would not really rely upon a law firm to do that.
Q. Do you know what work Morgan Stanley did in that regard?
A. No.
Can we take a brief break to get some water?
MR. JOHNSON: Sure.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 10:41 a.m. We are going off the video record.
(Recess)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 10:58 a.m. We are back on the video record.
BY MR. JOHNSON:

Page 56

Dean
Q. Mr. Dean, how is it that you first got involved in the Sunbeam transaction that we are talking about today?
A. I have forgotten who assigned the Sunbeam matter to me. Somebody came to my office and said that Davis Polk had been retained to represent Morgan Stanley in connection with a new offering.
I don't remember who did that.
Q. It was one of your law partners?
A. Yes.
Q. When did that occur?
A. I don't know right now. I assume shortly -- I just don't have any recollection of that. I mean, it was just a long time ago.
We could take a look at our time records and the time records might indicate that.
Q. I have something that maybe is a little more concise than your time records that may refresh your memory.
This is a document that has been previously marked as Exhibit 24. Have you ever seen Exhibit 24 previously?

Page 57

Dean
A. I have seen it before. I don't know if I have -- I have seen a version of this document before.
I don't know whether or not I have seen this exact document.
Q. When did you see a version of this document, Exhibit 24?
A. I saw it on Monday, I think, in connection with the deposition preparation. I may have seen it before when it was prepared.
Q. You weren't involved in preparing it in August of 2000?
A. No, I was not.
Q. This -- this is a chronology prepared by Davis Polk; is that correct?
A. The document says that it was prepared by Davis Polk. I assume that it was.
Q. The chronology prepared here has as its first date February 25, 1998.
Is that when you first became

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Dean

involved in this matter?
A. I still don't have any specific recollection as to whether or not that was the date.
Q. Do any of the other dates listed in Exhibit 24 appear to be more likely your first involvement in the matter?
A. No. There is no other date that is more likely than not.
It could well be that my -- it really depends on what the time records show. It is just so long ago.
Q. Did you have any role in connection with the public announcement of the acquisitions?
A. No, I did not.
Q. Did anyone at Davis Polk?
A. I am not aware of anyone. Somebody at Davis Polk might have been but I am not aware of anyone.
Q. Did you attend the press conference where the acquisitions were announced?
A. No, I did not.

Dean

By "the acquisitions," I assume that you are talking about the three acquisitions.
Q. That's correct.
A. That were disclosed in the offering memorandum?
Q. Correct.
Did anyone from Davis Polk play any role in the question and answer script to be used at the press conference?
A. Not that I am aware of.
Q. You didn't personally?
A. No, I did not.
Q. I am going to focus on the first half of March, if I can, prior to March 15.
At any time prior to March 15 did Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk inquire of Sunbeam concerning how its first quarter of 1998 was looking?
A. Yes.
Q. Tell me about those inquiries.
A. Well, my recollection would be that the first inquiry probably would have been made in connection with the due diligence investigations, due diligence meeting in Florida, and I don't remember what date that meeting occurred on.

Dean

That would have been a routine question that would have been asked in the context of doing an offering like this and so I assume that it was asked at that meeting.
I don't have any specific recollection that the question was actually asked.
Q. Were you at that meeting?
A. Yes, I was.
Q. That was your only trip to Florida in connection with this transaction?
A. Yes, it was.
Q. That was in the first half of March?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know what date it was?
A. No, I don't recall what date it was. Again, it is six years ago.
Q. I certainly don't see a reference to a trip to Florida in Exhibit 24.

Dean

Does one of those meetings refer to a meeting in Florida?
A. No. There doesn't seem to be any reference to a Florida meeting.
Q. You recall one?
A. Yes.
Q. Who attended the Florida meeting?
A. From Davis Polk, I attended it, Mr. Lurie attended it. I don't remember whether or not Heather Stack or Nicole Duncan, whether or not they attended it, but those would be the two other people who might have attended it.
Q. Who from Morgan Stanley was present?
A. Well, I will try to remember. Some of the names based on the names that we have talked about earlier this morning.
John Tyree was definitely there. I don't remember whether or not Andy Savarie was there.
Bram Smith who was in charge of the lending effort at Morgan Stanley

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Dean

attended that meeting.
I can't recall the other names.
Q. Was Lily Rafii, does that name ring a bell?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Gene Yoo?
A. Again, I don't remember.
Q. Tyrone Chang?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Michael Hart?
A. I don't remember.
Q. This was a meeting at Sunbeam's headquarters in Del Ray Beach, Florida?
A. Yes.
Q. How long did the meeting last?
A. I have forgotten. It was a day meeting in Florida.
I can't -- well, I don't actually remember whether or not we flew down the night before or we flew down the day of. It was just a single-day meeting.
Q. With whom did you meet, the Davis Polk -- the Morgan Stanley contingent?
A. We met with representatives of

Dean

Sunbeam. I don't remember whether or not Arthur Andersen, the accountants to Sunbeam, were there or not. They may have been there for a portion of the meeting. I would have known back then but I don't now.
There were also representatives of some of the other lending institutions. I just don't remember.
It was a meeting that was attended by a very large number of people.
Q. As best as you can recall who were the Sunbeam representatives?
A. Bob Gluck was certainly there. I think Janet Kelley came in and out. I don't -- there were other representatives of Sunbeam that came into the session. I don't recall their names.
Q. What was said about Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 results?
A. I don't recall what exactly was said at the time.
The standard questions that would have been asked at the time would have been whether or not Sunbeam's current outlook was consistent with Wall Street's expectations about the first quarter performance.

Dean

Q. You don't remember what Sunbeam said in response to that question?
A. No. I assume what Sunbeam said in response to the question was that, yes, they were on track to meet expectations.
Q. Do you assume that because you don't remember any alarming information coming out of the meeting?
A. Well, I don't remember anything eventful coming out of the meeting. I don't know if "alarming" is -- I don't know what you mean by "alarming." It was a routine meeting.
Q. Why is it customary to ask whether the current outlook is consistent with Wall Street estimates?
A. It is customary because investors would find it -- might find it to be a material fact if in fact the company believed that its results were not going to be in line with expectations of research analysts.

Dean

Q. So it would be information that would need to be disclosed?
A. Yes. Normally that would be information that would be disclosed.
Q. Other than the participants and the length of the meeting in Florida what else do you recall about that trip?
A. I don't have any other specific recollections about the trip.
Q. You left that meeting without any concerns about Sunbeam's performance?
A. I don't remember having any concerns about Sunbeam's performance after leaving that meeting.
Q. Did you have a primary contact at Morgan Stanley?
A. There -- the primary transaction person would have been -- I guess it was John Tyree and maybe Andy Savarie were contacts on the transaction.
In different parts of the transaction we would have contact with different people at Morgan Stanley

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0169955

Dean

depending what part of the transaction was involved.

Q. Did you ever talk to Bill Strong in connection with this transaction?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. On how many occasions?

A. I can't recall.

Q. Numerous occasions?

A. No, a handful occasions. I mean I don't remember how many times I talked to him. I don't remember whether or not I had any direct conversations with him or whether or not it was in the context of conference calls that he participated in.

Q. Did you have any contact with Bob Kitts in connection with this transaction?

A. No, not that I am aware of.

Q. Alex Fuchs?

A. No. I may have. I mean, in the course of a transaction you wind up talking to a lot of people.

Q. How about Jim Stynes?

A. I don't remember talking to Mr. Stynes. Again, it was a long time ago and I could well have spoken to any one of these individuals.

Dean

Q. When did you first become aware of problems with Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 results?

MR. CLARE: I object to the form of the question.

THE WITNESS: I first became aware of the fact that Sunbeam's revenues might not be -- first quarter revenues for 1998 might not be consistent with Street estimates sometime in March.

I think it was the day before the offering memorandum was finalized.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Looking at Exhibit 24, the Davis Polk chronology, that would be March 18, 1998?

A. Yes, yes. Looking at the chronology the date appears to be March 18.

Q. Prior to March 18 then to your knowledge neither Davis Polk nor Morgan Stanley had any inkling of any sales shortfall at Sunbeam?

Dean

A. That's correct. I can only speak to Davis Polk.

I mean, I assume that Morgan Stanley would have informed us, yes.

Q. Why do you say that?

A. Because it -- one would have had to evaluate whether or not it was a material fact that needed to be disclosed.

Q. Prior to March 18 Morgan Stanley had on at least one occasion asked how Sunbeam's first quarter looked?

A. Yes.

Q. That was the meeting in Florida?

A. I don't have a specific recollection as to whether or not the question was asked. That would be a standard forum in which that question would be aired and there might be other opportunities as well.

Q. We are going to come back to March 18 but I want to back up again just for a few minutes.

Were you aware that Morgan

Dean

Stanley signed -- strike that.

Are you familiar with the term "a highly confident letter?"

A. Yes, I am familiar with the term "highly confident letter."

Q. Are you aware that Morgan Stanley provided Sunbeam a highly confident letter in connection with financing the acquisitions?

A. I would have known at the time. I don't recall now.

It wouldn't surprise me if Morgan Stanley furnished a highly confident letter.

Q. Were you involved in -- let me show it to you.

Do you recall being involved in issuing this?

Counsel, I apologize. I only have one copy of this which -- if you could look at what has been previously marked as Exhibit 74 and tell me whether you recognize that?

A. I don't recognize it. I don't

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

966910

Dean

know what the question is.

Do I recognize it in what context?

Q. Let me ask it a little differently.

Does that letter, Exhibit 74, refresh your recollection of your role, if any, in preparing the highly confident letter?

A. The letter does not refresh my recollection and as far as I am aware I was not involved in preparing the highly confident letter.

Q. In connection with this transaction did you have any communications with anyone from MacAndrews & Forbes Holding?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you know whether anyone from Davis Polk had any communications with anyone from MacAndrews & Forbes?

A. As far as I know no one had had any contact with MacAndrews & Forbes.

Q. At some point during the due diligence process did you speak with anyone from Arthur Andersen?

Dean

A. Yes.

Q. When was that?

A. I don't recall exactly when. We talked to Arthur Andersen.

Q. Was it on more than one occasion?

A. I can't recall how many occasions I personally talked to Arthur Andersen.

Q. Do you know how many Davis Polk -- how many conversations attorneys from Davis Polk had with auditors from Arthur Andersen?

A. No. I am sure that we had several conversations with Arthur Andersen during the course of the transaction.

Q. This has been marked as Exhibit 31 previously.

Mr. Dean, I have handed you Exhibit CPH31 which appears to be a memo from John Tyree to the Sunbeam financing team scheduling an accounting due diligence call for March 12, 1998.

Did you participate in that call?

Dean

A. I can't recall which of these conference calls I participated in. My recollection is that Mr. Lurie who also worked on the transaction with me and the rest of the Davis Polk team, that we split up these conference calls.

Q. So as you sit here today you have no idea what was discussed on the March 12 accounting due diligence call?

A. I can't -- I don't have any specific recollection as to what was discussed.

Q. Do you have a general idea?

A. I don't even know -- I am not positive I actually participated in that due diligence phone call.

Q. Would it be expected that Mr. Lurie or Ms. Stack would report to you the events of the call?

A. Yes.

Q. Based on your own participation and that of other Davis Polk lawyers do you know what happened during the March 12 accounting due diligence conference call?

Dean

A. Well, I don't remember anything out of the ordinary being raised in the accounting due diligence phone calls.

Q. Do you remember ever speaking to Larry Bornstein, the Andersen auditor listed on the conference call schedule?

A. The name is familiar but I don't personally remember whether or not I actually spoke to Mr. Bornstein or not. I could well have spoken to him during the course of the transaction.

Q. Can you say with certainty that you spoke with any Andersen auditor?

A. I don't recall now whether or not I did or not.

Q. I thought you testified there were several conversations with Andersen.

A. Yes.

Q. What is your basis for that testimony?

A. In the course of preparing the comfort letter for the transaction there would have been numerous phone calls with Andersen and the fact that there was --

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016997

Dean

that there was a due diligence phone call with the accountants, and in the ordinary course of doing a transaction like this from time to time I would -- I could easily be involved in the phone call with one of the accountants.

Q. You say in the course of preparing the comfort letter you would expect multiple conversations?

A. Yes.

Q. Why do you say that?

A. There is just give and take in first scoping out what the comfort letter covers and then reviewing the letter as -- through its drafts until it becomes finalized.

Q. It is kind of an ongoing process between counsel and the auditor?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Do you have a sense of how many drafts are ordinarily provided during the process?

MR. CLARE: Object to form; an incomplete hypothetical.

Dean

THE WITNESS: It depends on the transaction. I don't think that there is a standard number of drafts.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. This can occur over a several-day period?

MR. CLARE: Same objections.

THE WITNESS: It can occur over a several-day period or several-week period depending on the course of the transaction.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. I apologize if I have already asked this.

The conversations with Andersen in March of 1998, you can't recall specifically your own involvement in any of those telephone calls?

A. I can't but I have been involved in scores of accounting due diligence phone calls since then.

If we had asked this question in 1998, I mean, I probably would remember whether or not I did or not.

Dean

Q. You may have, you just don't remember?

A. I just don't remember.

Q. You don't remember any reports from your Davis Polk colleagues about any conversations with Andersen?

A. I don't recall any specific conversations. It would have been my ordinary course to sit down with other Davis Polk people who had the conversations to make -- to review what was discussed on the conference calls.

Mr. Lurie was a very senior lawyer at the time and that was a task that could be delegated to Mr. Lurie.

Q. Do you remember Mr. Lurie conveying to you any information that he learned from the auditors?

A. I don't remember his -- I am sure that we sat down and reviewed what occurred during those conversations.

I don't have any specific recollection of what was communicated in those conversations.

Dean

Q. Do you have any recollection of what occurred during any of those conference calls?

A. I don't have a -- I don't have any specific recollection of what occurred during those conference calls.

Q. Do you have any recollection whatsoever as to what occurred?

A. I don't have. At the time, I mean, as I have said before, there have been probably hundreds of these due diligence phone calls that I have been on.

Q. Is half an hour in your view a typical time for speaking with an issuer's auditors in an accounting due diligence call?

MR. CLARE: Objection to form; incomplete hypothetical.

THE WITNESS: I think that there is no set period of time that is -- that one can say is a normal period of time that an accounting due diligence phone call would take.

A half an hour would not be

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

866910

Dean

unusual. It depends on the circumstances of the transaction and it would not necessarily be the only opportunity that you would have a chance to talk to the accountants about issues in connection with the transaction.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. So even time less than a half hour might be appropriate is what you are saying?

MR. CLARE: Same objections.

THE WITNESS: It depends on the transaction.

Yes, it might be.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. With respect to Sunbeam does half an hour strike you as appropriate with the benefit of hindsight?

MR. CLARE: Same objection.

THE WITNESS: I don't know. I can only speak as to what we did at that time and I think that we concluded that what we did at the time was a reasonable amount of time.

Dean

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. At any point in your conversations with Arthur Andersen did you learn that Sunbeam engaged in bill and hold transactions?

A. I don't remember now. I would have remembered when we did this transaction in 1998.

Q. You would have remembered because that is something out of the ordinary?

A. No. I mean, I think that I just would have been closer to the transaction and remembered things.

Q. Bill and hold doesn't have any negative connotation with you?

A. It depends on the nature of the bill and hold transaction.

The bill and hold is used in reference to transactions that -- where revenue recognition is inappropriate but there may also be situations where a bill and hold situation is a situation where revenue can be recognized, I believe.

Dean

Q. Putting aside the accounting treatment and complexity of bill and hold, is there any business concern associated with bill and hold?

A. Well, I think you would have to describe the nature of the bill and hold transaction.

There can be situations where bill and hold may raise concerns.

Q. Channel stuffing concerns?

A. Yes. Channel stuffing would be a concern in bill and hold transactions.

Q. Did Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk investigate whether Sunbeam engaged -- had engaged in any channel stuffing?

A. I don't recall whether or not we specifically asked about channel stuffing.

We would have -- Davis Polk and Morgan Stanley would have been involved in making sure -- well, in making a reasonable investigation into whether or not Sunbeam's revenue recognition practices were appropriate.

Q. Putting aside revenue recognition practices and focusing specifically on channel stuffing, can you tell me anything that Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk did to determine whether Sunbeam had stuffed its channels?

Dean

A. No. I don't remember at this time what specific inquiry if any we made at the time.

I think, again, in 1998 I could have been much more specific about it. Six years has gone by and I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember any specific inquiry. Do you remember any effort undertaken whatsoever on the issue of whether Sunbeam's channels were stuffed?

A. Well, I don't remember one way or the other. That is six years that has elapsed.

Q. Did Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley suggest to Sunbeam any revisions to the offering memorandum?

A. Yes. We did suggest a revision to the preliminary offering memorandum.

Q. What was the nature of that

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016999

Dean

revision?

A. We suggested many revisions to the document. I am sure the one that comes to mind that was of some controversy was to add disclosure in the offering memorandum with respect to Sunbeam's expected first quarter 1998 results.

Q. We are going to get that one.

Prior to that one, let's say prior to March 15, can you think of any particular changes that Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk proposed to Sunbeam?

A. I am sure that we -- in the ordinary course of a transaction, reviewing the documents, we would -- Morgan Stanley and/or Davis Polk might make suggestions to an offering document.

I don't have any specific recollection of what suggestions we might have made other than the one that we have just discussed.

Q. Let's look at what has been marked previously as Exhibit 11.

Mr. Dean, CPH Exhibit 11 appears to be a memo from John Tyree to Ms. Kelley, Mr. Gluck, you and Mr. Fernicola.

Dean

Does that document Exhibit 11 refresh your memory as to any changes that Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk proposed to the offering memorandum?

A. Well, the memorandum on its face contains a number of riders, suggested riders to the offering memorandum.

It does reflect -- refresh my recollection that a memorandum like this was presented in the course of the drafting process.

Q. We have already spoken about Ms. Kelley and Mr. Gluck.

Who is Mr. Fernicola?

A. Mr. Fernicola is a partner at Skadden, Arps who represented Sunbeam.

Q. Did -- this is a yes or no question.

Did you have any conversations with Mr. Tyree as to the appropriateness of these revisions?

A. I don't recall whether or not we spoke about the appropriateness of these revisions.

Dean

Q. Did you -- again, a yes or no question.

Did you speak with him as to the factual predicate of the revisions that he was proposing?

A. I don't remember having conversations about these revisions. I may have. I may not have.

I just don't have any specific recollection six years after these facts occurred.

Q. With respect to rider 1 Mr. Tyree states that the addition is proposed in order to "communicate to the investor the recent restructuring success of the management team."

Do you see that?

A. Yes, I see that reference in the exhibit.

Q. Did Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley satisfy itself that the restructuring of Sunbeam was authentic?

Dean

A. I can't -- I don't know what the term "authentic" means in this context.

I mean, Davis Polk and Morgan Stanley -- I can speak to Davis Polk.

I mean, we did the normal investigation that we would do in connection with preparing -- assisting Morgan Stanley in preparing an offering memorandum and we concluded at the time that there were no material misstatements or omissions.

Q. Were you aware in March of 1998 of Morgan Stanley's investment banking work for Sunbeam in the months leading up to the announcement of Sunbeam's acquisitions?

A. Well, I knew that Morgan Stanley was involved as a financial adviser to Sunbeam in connection with the acquisition transactions in the context of doing the subordinated debt offering and I also knew that Morgan Stanley was involved in providing bank lending to finance these transactions.

Q. Do you know how long Morgan

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01/000

Dean

Stanley had been a financial adviser to Sunbeam?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Did you ever learn that Morgan Stanley was initially hired to sell Sunbeam to another party?

A. I don't have any firm recollection of that.

I mean, now that you mention it, I may have been aware that one of the assignments was to sell Sunbeam but I wouldn't have had any recollection of that without being refreshed by you.

Q. Referring again to Exhibit 11, was there any hesitation on the part of Sunbeam or Skadden to include the riders that are set forth in Exhibit 11?

A. There may have been. I just don't have any recollection again because it was six years ago.

Q. Did anyone from Morgan Stanley propose to tone down the offering memorandum as far as the reports of Sunbeam's success?

Dean

MR. CLARE: Object to the form.

THE WITNESS: I don't know what "tone down" means but Morgan Stanley -- Davis Polk did review the offering memorandum and we concluded that did it not contain any material misstatements or omissions.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. It was fair and accurate in all material respects?

A. Insofar as we knew at the time.

Q. You said a few minutes ago that it is customary to receive drafts of the comfort letter and have a dialogue with the auditor in the course of finalizing an offering memorandum; is that correct?

A. Yes, that is correct.

Q. Do you recall receiving drafts of any of the comfort letters prepared by Arthur Andersen in connection with this offering?

A. I don't have any specific recollection of drafts that I did review. I know that I did take a look at the -- I know that I did take a look at the comfort letter that was delivered in connection with the pricing of the transaction and I could well have looked at drafts of the comfort letters prepared before.

Dean

I don't have any -- I just don't have any specific recollection.

And the nature of the process is, a lot of times you get these things at the last minute.

Q. I will provide what has been marked previously as CPH Exhibit 110.

Mr. Dean, CPH Exhibit 110 has been marked previously and appears to be a draft of the comfort letter from Arthur Andersen to Morgan Stanley.

The letter is dated March 19, 1998. It bears a fax header of March 17, 1998. Do you see that?

A. I do.

Q. Does this document refresh your recollection in any way as to whether or when you saw drafts of Andersen's comfort letter related to the Sunbeam offering?

Dean

A. No, it doesn't.

Q. The top of the first page bears a header. In fact each of the pages bears a header Preliminary and Tentative for Discussion Purposes Only.

A. Yes, I see that.

Q. That is discussion between Andersen and Morgan Stanley?

MR. CLARE: Objection; calls for speculation.

MR. WISE: There is no indication that this witness knows who wrote this or what the person who wrote it intended by that.

THE WITNESS: I don't know who wrote it and I don't know what was intended by it.

MR. JOHNSON: Nice coach.

MR. WISE: You wouldn't have gotten the question anyway because it is an improper question.

THE WITNESS: I can say that the language that appears at the legend, and I have not studied the legend, is a standard legend that accounting firms place on drafts of comfort letters.

Cont 912

Dean

Whether or not this draft was delivered -- I mean, this could have been an internal draft prepared by Arthur Andersen prior to being submitted for -- to review by the underwriters.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. If you would look at page 3 of the letter which has the Bates stamp CPH38672, there is handwriting at the bottom of that page that states, "We had fire sale of inventory."

Do you know what that refers to?

A. No. I don't have -- I don't know what that refers to.

Q. During the course of your work on the Sunbeam transaction did you ever hear that Sunbeam had had a fire sale of inventory?

A. No. I don't recall that.

I know that he had engaged in some transactions where they, at the end of a quarter, they would discount some of the merchandise to make sure that sales occurred by the end of the quarter; not an unusual practice for any manufacturer.

Dean

Q. You mentioned that you first became aware of a potential sale shortfall at Sunbeam on March 18.

Was that in connection with reviewing drafts of the comfort letter?

A. No, it was not.

Q. Was that information communicated to you by Morgan Stanley?

A. Yes. I think I was alerted to it by Morgan Stanley.

Q. Prior to that time you hadn't seen any numbers depicting the shortfall?

A. No, we had not, none that I recall at this time.

Q. If you would look at paragraph 6B for me, you have it already, 5B, I think, is a necessary predicate of 6B.

If you would look at those two paragraphs for me?

Prior to March 18 had you heard that the company had accelerated sales into the fourth quarter of 1997?

Dean

A. I don't recall when I learned that.

Q. You did learn it at some point?

A. Yes.

Q. Were you aware of that information prior to the March 19 press release?

A. I can't recall. I assume that I was but I can't recall when exactly I learned about it.

Q. You were aware of it by the time the offering memorandum was finalized?

A. When the final offering memorandum was being prepared.

Q. Did you have any reaction to that information?

A. Reaction to what information? The fact that there was --

Q. There was acceleration of sales into 1997.

A. It is a timing issue about recognition of sales and it might impact upon what the first quarter sales would be so it would be an area of interest.

Dean

Q. Did Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk investigate the extent to which sales had been accelerated into the fourth quarter of 1997?

A. I don't recall now what investigations were done. We did the investigations that we thought were appropriate at the time.

I don't have any specific recollection of what exactly we did then.

Q. On what basis do you say that you did do some investigation?

A. I am not -- I can't -- I think that in the context of doing an offering of this sort we did the level of investigation that was appropriate to ensure that there were no material misstatements or omissions and can I point to a specific investigation that we did? I can't now.

Q. You are saying you did what you viewed to be appropriate but you can't tell me what you did?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017002

Dean

A. I am saying that I don't remember what was done because it was six years ago.
Q. You do remember that it was appropriate?
A. Yes.
Q. How do you remember that?
A. I think that to the extent that we were comfortable in delivering a legal opinion in connection with the offering memorandum I didn't contend any material misstatements or omission -- one of the predicates to that in our professional responsibility is to have concluded that a reasonable investigation was made.
Q. Let's talk about March 18. You testified that you learned from Morgan Stanley that there was a potential shortfall in Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 results; is that correct?
A. In its revenues.
Q. Revenue.
Who from Morgan Stanley conveyed that information to you?
A. I don't recall at this time who called me to alert me to that possibility.

Dean

Q. What did you or Morgan Stanley do as a result of that possibility?
A. Another telephone conference call, due diligence phone call was established to have Sunbeam review its first quarter results.
Q. That call was also on March 18?
A. Yes, it was.
Q. The first call where you were alerted to the possibility of a shortfall, it is your testimony that you don't remember who conveyed that information to you?
A. That's correct.
Q. Do you know who else was on that call?
A. The phone call where the information was communicated to me?
Q. Correct.
A. I don't have any -- I don't have any specific recollection.
Q. Presumably that information came from Sunbeam originally; is that fair to say?

Dean

MR. WISE: That is your assumption.
MR. JOHNSON: That is a question.
THE WITNESS: I have no basis upon which to know where the information came from.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. The second phone call that you mentioned on March 18, who was involved in that phone call?
A. Representatives of Morgan Stanley, representatives of Sunbeam, representatives from Skadden, Arps, and those are the parties that I remember being on the phone call. And did I mention representatives of Davis Polk?
Q. I assumed at least you were on.
Was there anyone from Davis Polk other than you on that phone call?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was that?
A. James Lurie was on the phone call. I believe Heather Stack was in the room as well and at some point. I don't know whether or not it was this phone call or another phone call. Jeffrey Small and Frank Morrison were in the room.

Dean

Q. Were there more than two phone calls concerning Sunbeam's first quarter results on March 18?
A. Yes.
Q. How many calls were there?
A. I can't recall how many. I don't remember all of the participants. Some of them may have been -- I am certain there were many phone calls that just involved Davis Polk and Morgan Stanley.
Q. He won't let me ask about those probably.
We will see about that.
Who were the Morgan Stanley representatives on the all-hands phone call, for lack of a better term?
A. Ruth Porat, Brooks Harris. I don't remember specifically whether or not John Tyree and/or Andy Savarie were involved in that phone call but they could

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01/7003

Dean

well have attended.

I am certain -- my recollection right now is I am certain that Ruth Porat and Brooks Harris were on that phone call.

Q. On March 18 did you have conversations with Mr. Tyree concerning Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 revenue situation?

MR. WISE: You can answer that yes or no.

THE WITNESS: I don't remember. I think I must have had phone calls with him about the subject.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. How about Mr. Savarie?

A. Again, I don't remember specific conversations but I could well have had conversations with Mr. Savarie directly.

Q. How about Bill Strong?

A. I think I did have -- I think I was involved in the conference call with Mr. Strong but I am not positive again.

MR. JOHNSON: Why don't we change the tape?

Dean

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 11:53 a.m. and this completes tape number one.

(Pause)

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 11:55 a.m. and this begins tape number two.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Mr. Dean, referring again to the all-hands meeting on March 18, that was a meeting that took place by telephone?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. You have already identified, I believe, the Morgan Stanley participants and the Davis Polk participants.

Could you tell me please the Sunbeam and Skadden participants?

A. Well, that will tax my memory. I mean, I can't say for certain but I think Gluck must have been on the phone call.

There was a salesperson who was on that phone call so I suspect that was Mr. Uzzi and I think Mr. Kersh was on the phone call as well.

Dean

Q. How about Skadden, Arps?

A. Skadden, Arps, I am aware that Finn Fogg and Greg Fernicola were on the phone call.

I can't say whether or not they were on the phone call for the entire duration of it or not.

Q. When you say you are aware they were on the phone call, do you remember that or was your memory refreshed?

A. No. I remember that they were on that phone call.

Q. This phone call strikes me as more memorable than some of the events from that time period. How long did that telephone call last?

MR. CLARE: I move to strike the preamble to the question.

THE WITNESS: I don't have a recollection of how long the phone call lasted.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Was it minutes, hours?

Dean

A. It was not minutes. It was also not two or three hours. Somewhere in between.

I don't have a specific recollection as to exactly how long it lasted.

Q. Tell me about what you can remember about the substance of the conversation.

A. I remember that the purpose of the phone call was to review Sunbeam's first quarter results and to get an update from Sunbeam with respect to what their expectations were with respect to first quarter.

I believe it was at that phone call where Sunbeam led the group through what their current expectations were for the first quarter of 1998 on the revenue side.

Q. Was there any discussion during that call concerning the earnings side for the quarter?

A. I don't have any specific

01/0014

Dean

recollection of whether or not we talked about earnings. I do remember that -- being told --

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 11:58 and we are going off the video record.

(Discussion off the record)

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 11:59 a.m. and we are back on the video record.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Mr. Dean, before the slight interruption I posed a question which I will ask the court reporter to read back for you.

(Record read)

THE WITNESS: Let's start over again.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Okay.

A. I don't have any specific recollection of whether or not we discussed earnings in that telephone conference.

I do remember being aware during the phone conversation that Sunbeam was really valued in the marketplace on the basis of its revenues and that it was a so-called momentum play and that revenues were more significant than that income.

Dean

Q. Can you explain to me why you -- why Sunbeam was viewed as being -- strike that.

Can you explain to me why Sunbeam revenue was viewed as more significant to the market than Sunbeam earnings?

A. I don't know -- there are some companies in the marketplace who -- whose valuation really depends on a forecast of increasing revenues over time and that the marketplace is less sensitive to net income for those types of companies.

Sunbeam was one of those companies that was measured more on revenues than on net income.

Q. On revenue growth more specifically?

A. Revenue growth.

Q. So you viewed it was significant information that Sunbeam's revenue appeared not to be growing in the first quarter of 1998?

Dean

A. It was significant information to know that Sunbeam's revenues were going to not grow at the pace that research analysts expected them to grow.

Q. Or perhaps not grow at all?

A. Or not grow at all.

Q. That was a possibility that you learned during the all-hands call on March 18?

MR. CLARE: Object to the form. You asked him multiple questions and now you are asking what that was a possibility.

It is unclear to me at least what you are referring to.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Did you know what I was referring to?

A. No. Could you restate the question?

Q. If you don't understand at any time let me know.

Dean

The possibility that Sunbeam would have a decline in revenues as opposed to a growth in revenues was something that was recognized during the all-hands telephone call on March 18?

A. I don't have a specific recollection. I would have to sort of refresh my recollection in taking a look at the press release and what the numbers actually showed, but my recollection is that it was news to the group that Sunbeam was not going -- that its revenues were not going to grow at the rate that the Wall Street research analysts expected it to grow.

Q. Did you look at the press release this week to prepare for your deposition?

A. I don't remember looking at the press release. I may have.

Q. I am going to hand you what has been marked previously as Exhibit 16.

Mr. Dean, can you identify Exhibit 16 for me?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01/2005

Page 106

Dean

A. Exhibit 16 appears to be a document that was prepared by Sunbeam with net sales numbers for January, February and March.

And it is -- I can't -- since it is six years from when these events occurred we discussed a similar sheet of information on the conference call, the all-hands conference call on March 18.

Q. It could have been this sheet, Exhibit 16, or a document like it is what you are saying?

A. That's correct.

Q. Is that your fax number written in the -- written by hand in the upper right-hand corner?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Do you see the handwriting in the center of the page, I guess, center right of the page? It says Porat sees this or Porat sees through.

Do you know what that refers to?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Do you know whose handwriting

Page 107

Dean

this is?

A. No, I do not.

Q. It was a document, either Exhibit 16 or a document like Exhibit 16, that was used during the course of the all-hands conference call?

A. That's correct.

Q. What was said about this document?

A. Well, the subject of the conference call was to try to have an update on Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 results on the revenue side.

This sheet was a breakdown of what Sunbeam's forecasts were for its revenues at the time.

Q. The primary listing here is of potential orders. Do you see that?

MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Let me strike that. That is a fair objection.

Do you see the column for

Page 108

Dean

"potential orders?"

A. Yes, I see a column with potential orders.

Q. That shows potential orders of $86 million?

A. It shows 86. I assume that it is 86 million.

Q. This document also shows international sales forecasts in the second half of March of 1998 of $39.5 million, do you see that?

A. Yes, I do see that.

Q. Let's start with the international number.

What was said during the conference call about the feasibility of selling $39.5 million of product in the last two weeks of March?

A. I don't have any specific recollection of a discussion about the international sales, the achievability of the international sales.

At the time, immediately after this phone call, I would have had a recollection but I don't now.

Page 109

Dean

Q. Did Mr. -- strike that.

Did anyone from Sunbeam during this conference call assure you that Sunbeam could achieve $39.5 million in international sales in the last two weeks of March?

A. I don't remember any specific assurances with respect to the international sales.

There were assurances that the numbers -- the revenue numbers that we were shown during the course of the meeting were completely achievable.

Q. There were assurances that they were achievable. Were there any assurances that they would be achieved?

MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question.

THE WITNESS: There were assurances during the course of the conference -- during the course of the conference call that the revenue numbers would be achieved.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Dean
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. To the best of your recollection who provided those assurances that the numbers would be achieved?
A. All of the representatives of Sunbeam who participated in that phone call.
Q. Did Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley do anything to confirm those assurances?
A. I don't have any specific recollection of anything that Davis Polk did at the time. I can't say what Morgan Stanley did.
Q. You know as you sit here today that these numbers were not achieved, don't you?
A. Yes, I do know that these numbers were not achieved.
Q. So is it your view that Sunbeam lied to you during this conference call?
A. I think that Sunbeam assured us that these numbers would be achieved.
Whether or not they believed -- whether or not they knew they couldn't be achieved at the time, I guess that is a question that you have to ask people from Sunbeam.

Dean
We certainly felt as if we had been misled.
Q. Going back to the potential orders column for a minute, that shows $86 million in sales?
A. Yes, I see a total for that column to 86.
Q. That is of possible orders, potential orders, right?
A. The column is labeled Potential Orders and we were probably given assurances that these potential orders had a very high probability of being consummated.
Q. You say you were probably given assurances of a very high probability that the potential orders would be consummated. Why do you say that?
A. We must have been given assurances to that effect because we crafted disclosure that we later became comfortable with to place in the final offering memorandum.

Dean
Q. The -- in the right column towards the bottom there is a --
A. Let me correct myself.
We did not craft the disclosure that finally appeared in the disclosure document but we reviewed the disclosure that was prepared by Sunbeam.
Q. Okay.
Who -- so Sunbeam crafted the disclosure in the offering memorandum?
A. Yes, they did.
Q. Did --
A. Sunbeam and their representatives. I don't know who.
Q. That would be Skadden, Arps, wouldn't it?
A. Yes.
Q. That is the same -- the disclosure you are referring to is the same disclosure that appeared in the press release; is that correct?
A. That is correct.

Dean
Q. Did Davis Polk have any role in preparing the press release?
A. No. We may have been furnished copies of the press release and given an opportunity to review it. I don't know whether or not -- I can't recall at this time whether or not we were given the opportunity to propose revisions to it.
Q. Did you have any revisions to it?
A. I don't recall at the time, at this time.
Q. We will get to the press release itself in a little more detail in a minute.
Exhibit 16 shows at the bottom right, prior year Q1-97, $253.5 million.
Do you see that?
A. Yes, I do.
Q. That was Sunbeam's revenue for the first quarter of 1997?
A. I haven't verified it but I assume that is true.
Q. So the -- I assume -- strike that.
Were there discussions on the

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

March 18 all-hands call concerning whether the prior year first quarter results would be met or exceeded in the first quarter of 1998?

A. Yes. I think that what we discussed during the conference call was what the first quarter 1998 revenue results would be and then there is a question as to how that would compare with historical performance.

Q. This shows that if all of the potential orders are made and recognized prior to the end of the quarter and the international sales forecast is accurate that Sunbeam would exceed the prior year's quarter by just over a million dollars?

A. If these numbers are accurate, yes.

The sheet may not reflect all of the sales possibilities that were possible at Sunbeam but simply the ones that had the highest probability of being achieved.

Q. Did anyone from Sunbeam explain on an account-by-account basis why each of these potential orders was highly probable to be consummated?

Page 115

Dean

A. I don't have any specific memory of that but Uzzi could well have done that during the phone call and it would be customary for a salesperson to do this in the context of reviewing a sheet like this.

Q. But, again, you are not aware of anyone verifying what Home Depot, for example -- what Home Depot's order plans were for the last two weeks of March of 1998?

A. I am not aware of anyone at Davis Polk who verified that.

Q. Are you aware of anyone verifying that?

A. No, I am not aware.

Q. During the all-hands call was the possibility of issuing a press release discussed?

A. My memory is that, yes, the possibility of issuing a press release was discussed in the context of that conference call.

Page 116

Dean

Q. Who discussed that possibility?

A. Well, I certainly raised that possibility as a way of disseminating the information out in the marketplace.

I think I was the one who actually raised the issue during the conference call.

Q. Other than what is set forth in Exhibit 16 did you have any other information that caused you to raise the idea of a press release?

A. No. I don't recall of any other information.

Q. What was the reaction to the idea that you raised?

A. Sunbeam was opposed to it as well as their counsel, Skadden, Arps, who flatly rejected it as being inappropriate.

Q. That is Finn Fogg and Greg Fernicola?

A. That is correct.

Q. When -- did anyone give any explanation as to why a press release would be unnecessary or inappropriate?

Page 117

Dean

A. The best recollection I have is that somebody from Skadden said it was very unusual within a quarter to announce intraquarter results and that there was no -- in light of the fact that the company felt that it was comfortable that it was going to make these numbers, that they didn't think it was appropriate to put a press release out at this time.

Q. Obviously the company was dissuaded from that position. How did that happen?

A. I don't know when that happened. I mean, after the end of this all-hands conference call -- I mean we were at a stalemate about the issue and then I was later informed that Bill Strong had had a conversation with Al Dunlap and Dunlap agreed -- acceded to having the disclosure appear.

Q. How were you later informed of that conversation between Strong and Dunlap?

A. I don't know who at Morgan

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 118

Dean

Stanley called me to inform me of that.
Q. Someone from Morgan Stanley called you?
A. Someone from Morgan Stanley then called me up and told me.
Q. If I understand your testimony Sunbeam had been telling you in the first two weeks of March of 1998 that they were on target with Street estimates for the first quarter results; is that correct?
A. That is correct.
Q. Then you received this sheet on March 18 which showed that they would need to strive to beat first quarter 1997 results; is that correct?
MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question, the characterization of the document.
You can answer.
THE WITNESS: Can you repeat -- now that I have been interrupted can I hear the question again?
MR. JOHNSON: Sure.
Could you read that for us?

Page 119

Dean

(Record read)
MR. CLARE: Same objection.
THE WITNESS: I am not sure what the question is.
The question -- did we receive a sheet that showed that their revenue outlook was now comparable to what they achieved in the first quarter of 1997.
Yes, that is the document we received on March 18.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. What I am getting at is: Isn't Exhibit 16 contrary to what the company had been telling you just a week or two weeks before concerning it being on target with Street estimates?
A. Yes, it was.
Q. Didn't that cause you concern about the veracity of Sunbeam management?
A. Well, not necessarily.
I mean, there is obviously skepticism about the numbers but it is not uncommon for manufacturers to make a lot of their sales in the last two weeks of a quarter or the last week of a quarter, frankly, and so it is quite possible that Sunbeam didn't have visibility about this.

Page 120

Dean

Q. Did you have any sense of whether as a physical matter Sunbeam could ship the amount of product necessary for it to meet first quarter 1997 results in the last two weeks of March of 1998?
A. I was not aware of Sunbeam's physical capacity to ship product.
Q. Did anyone ask that question during the all-hands conference call?
A. I don't have any specific recollection, no, as to whether that question was asked.
Again it was six years ago. It could have been asked. I just don't have any memory of it now.
Q. What was Morgan Stanley's view as to whether a press release would be appropriate?
A. Morgan Stanley's view was that it was appropriate to issue a press release if there was uncertainty with respect to whether or not Sunbeam would achieve its revenue results.

Page 121

Dean

Q. Was there any concern about the press release and the effect it would have on pricing the debt offering?
A. I wouldn't characterize it as concern. I think that Morgan Stanley felt that it was important to have this news out in the marketplace so that the marketplace could digest it before a pricing of the offering.
Q. Was there any concern that Sunbeam's first quarter results could constitute a materially adverse change prior to the closing of the acquisitions?
A. There was a concern, in the context of doing the subordinated debt offering, disclosing this information might have an impact on the stock price of Sunbeam and as a result of that Morgan Stanley and we felt that disclosure was appropriate.
Q. The disclosure that was made in the press release in fact did have some

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01/09

Dean

impact on Sunbeam's equity trading price; is that correct?

A. Yes, it did. I am not familiar -- I can't recall now what impact it did have but it did have a depressing impact on the price of Sunbeam's stock.

Q. In relation to -- you are aware that Sunbeam also issued a press release after the first quarter detailing its first quarter 1998 results?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Are you aware that that press release had a substantially more severe depressive impact on Sunbeam's trading price as compared to the March 19 press release?

MR. CLARE: Object to the form.

THE WITNESS: I am aware there was a subsequent press release that was put out after the first quarter results were recorded at Sunbeam and that Sunbeam actually recorded revenues that were lower than the 254.7 that was covered in the press release and as a result the stock price of Sunbeam fell even more.

Dean

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Sunbeam, in fact, showed a loss for the first quarter of 1998; isn't that correct?

A. I don't remember. We could take a look at the press release. That could well have been the case.

Q. The April press release, do you know how many days after the March 19 press release that one issued?

A. No, I don't know.

Q. After the all-hands telephone call -- by the way, can you remember anything else about that phone call that we haven't already talked about?

A. I don't have any other specific recollections of that phone call.

Q. Was it combative in any way? Was the discussion heated?

A. It was heated on the disclosure question.

Sunbeam was clearly resisting

Dean

disclosure and quite adamant that they felt as if -- that they were going to achieve these numbers and the fact that there was a discount from these numbers versus the Street estimates, they did not think that that was appropriate to put out in the marketplace.

They probably made the argument but I don't recall whether or not they did or not that they -- that maybe they could still make their numbers.

I am just not certain whether or not they made that argument or not but that would be the kind of argument that I would expect them to make.

Q. You can't recall them actually saying that they would still possibly make the Street estimates?

A. I don't have a specific recollection of that but that could well have been something that they said on that phone call.

Q. Based on Exhibit 16 was there any information that would lead you to believe that Sunbeam could still make the Street estimates?

Dean

A. What Exhibit -- again, this was six years ago but I think what Exhibit 16 -- the case that it laid out was a -- the confidence that Sunbeam had that they would actually make the 254.7 number at least.

Q. So that they would beat first quarter 1997?

A. I forget what the words were that were used in the press release that was issued after we reviewed this information but it was language along the lines that they expected revenues to be comparable, I think, to the first quarter of 1997 revenues. I just don't remember the language.

Q. Was there any basis to believe that Sunbeam could still make Street estimates for the first quarter of 1998?

A. I don't recall whether or not they presented a case that Sunbeam could still make its numbers.

Q. Was there -- during the all-hands phone call was there any discussion about possibly delaying the subordinated debt offering?

A. I don't remember whether or not that subject came up. It may have. I don't have any specific recollection of it.

Q. Was there any procedure installed to closely monitor Sunbeam's sales for the remainder of the quarter?

A. Well, there were -- as part of the normal sort of closing process for the transaction we would have had another bring down -- we did have another bring-down conference to discuss the numbers again and make sure they were comfortable.

That would have been six days after the pricing of the offering.

Q. Again, that would be a call with Gluck, Kersh or Uzzi?

A. Some combination of those people.

Q. Other than a subsequent telephone call did Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley do anything else to monitor Sunbeam's sale situation after March 19?

Page 127

A. I am not aware of any efforts that were made. I think that during the course of an offering like this there are day-to-day contacts between Morgan Stanley and Sunbeam officials and so that could well have been something that they did on a day-to-day basis.

Q. You are not aware of it actually?

A. I am not aware of that actually occurring.

Q. Did you look at a draft of the March 19 press release before it was issued?

A. I don't remember whether or not we were furnished a draft of it before or whether or not we were told what the contents would be and whether or not it was read to us over the telephone and then it was issued.

I don't have any specific recollection as to what protocol was followed there.

Q. Do you have any recollection of being troubled by anything in the press release?

Page 128

Dean

A. No. I -- my recollection is that we reviewed the press release in light of the facts that were disclosed in the conference call and were comfortable that it was consistent with what we had learned.

Q. Andersen, to your knowledge, was not consulted in any way in connection with the issuance of the press release?

A. I don't know whether or not Andersen was consulted or not in connection with the press release.

Q. You mentioned two of your partners who were involved in the press release.

If you look at Exhibit 213, your attorney over here says, "Two other partners, Frank Morrison and Jeff Small, did not work on the offering generally but appeared to have been consulted briefly on March 18, 1998 in connection with the proposed March 19, 1998 press release by Sunbeam."

Page 129

Dean

Can you tell me again who Messrs. Morrison and Small are?

A. Mr. Morrison and Small are two of my partners who also practice in the securities area.

Q. Were they on any of the phone calls with anyone from Sunbeam or Skadden?

A. They -- I don't know how -- whether or not they participated in the phone calls from the very beginning of the phone call, whether or not they joined in late as the phone call was in process after having received an update as to what was being discussed.

Q. At some point they were on some portion of calls with Skadden and/or Sunbeam?

A. That's correct.

Q. What were their positions on those calls?

A. I remember -- I don't remember anything about Frank Morrison saying anything on the phone call.

I do remember that Jeff Small was also -- had echoed my position that we felt that disclosure was appropriate here.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. You testified a few minutes ago that Skadden and Sunbeam were very resistant to doing a press release.

Did that fact in and of itself cause you any concern about what was going on at the company?

A. No. I thought it was consistent with the aggressive style of representation that Skadden adopts with its clients and its client, Sunbeam, clearly did not want to have the disclosure made and Skadden presented the best possible case as to why disclosure was not appropriate.

Q. Let's put Skadden aside then.

How about Sunbeam? Sunbeam's strong reluctance to do a press release, did that in and of itself cause you any concern about your dealings with this company?

A. No. I think at the time -- I mean, there was still a high degree of confidence in the management at Sunbeam, that they would make statements that were truthful and that they would not make assurances if they didn't feel as if the statements had no basis.

Dean

Q. During the all-hands phone call did anyone ask anyone from Sunbeam whether they would guarantee that the first quarter 1998 results would exceed first quarter 1997 results?

A. I don't recall that question being asked but the level of certainty that one would want to have from management with respect to revenue numbers of this sort is at the level of a guarantee.

Q. I think you said earlier that assurances were made that the numbers would be achieved; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. After this phone call -- let's back up.

I will probably end up asking this question several times.

MR. WISE: I hope not.

MR. JOHNSON: At different points

Dean

throughout the day, Bob.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Having now talked about the heated nature of this conference call and Sunbeam's reluctance, can you remember anything else at all about that conference call, and that two of your partners also participated in portions of it?

A. No. I don't recall any specific details.

We may well have gone into the reasons why some comparison of January and February of 1998 versus January and February of 1997, the reasons behind why there was a shortfall compared to the prior year.

Q. Was there any discussion on the all-hands call as to what the press release should say?

A. There was -- there was a discussion about the level of detail that should be in the press release.

I think that there was -- I think I may have proposed that we disclose what

Dean

January and February sales actually were so that one would have a sense of how much -- what sales would have to be achieved in March and that was soundly rejected by Skadden and by Sunbeam.

Q. Tell me again why you thought it might be appropriate to give the actual numbers for January and February.

A. To put the numbers in context.

Q. Was there any discussion of the possibility of putting earnings information in the press release?

A. I don't recall whether or not we discussed earnings as a possibility or not.

Q. Why did Skadden and/or Sunbeam strongly reject your idea of putting in January and February sales numbers?

A. Because it was not -- it was not standard practice for a public company to begin disclosing monthly performance results.

Q. Didn't anyone have a concern that the numbers in and of themselves show a dramatic shortfall?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017012

Dean

MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question.

THE WITNESS: I don't recall whether or not anyone on the phone call raised the question as to whether or not it would be appropriate -- the appropriateness of disclosing the actual January and February results.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Didn't you just say that you raised the idea that it would be appropriate to disclose that?

A. I raised the issue but I don't recall whether or not anybody else on the phone call other than Skadden who rejected the idea -- whether or not anyone else on the phone call supported disclosure of January and February.

Q. Skadden's stated reason for opposing that is because it would put the company in the position of releasing monthly results?

A. That is my recollection.

Q. They weren't concerned that the numbers themselves were too negative to put in the press release?

Dean

A. No. That is -- I don't have any recollection as to that, to that effect.

Q. How about a discussion of, during the all-hands call, as to whether the press release should identify reasons for the poor revenue performance?

A. I don't have a specific recollection as to whether or not -- what reasons, if any, would be stated in the press release for the revenue shortfall.

Q. You didn't, for example, propose that the press release state that this shortfall resulted in part from acceleration of sales into 1997?

A. I don't have any recollection of that.

Q. You don't remember anyone discussing whether the press release should identify a reason for the shortfall?

A. I don't have any specific recollection now. I would have six years ago but I just don't now.

Dean

Q. During the all-hands call was there any discussion as to the impact of the first quarter 1998 on the remainder of the year?

A. I don't remember at this time whether or not there was a discussion of that.

Q. That was -- it was after this call that the size of the subordinated debt offering rose from 500 million to 750 million?

A. My recollection was that there was an increase in the size of the offering and I don't know the specific amount and it would have happened between the time that the preliminary was prepared and the deal was actually priced.

Q. Didn't it, in fact, happen after the conference call concerning Sunbeam's sales situation?

A. I can't say for certain. That would not be unusual.

It is frequently a tactic in doing securities offerings to go out with an offering that is smaller than the one you would like to achieve rather than going out with the full size offering and then failing to achieve that.

Dean

Q. The ability to increase the size of the offering is contingent upon the market's excitement about the offering?

A. Excitement? I don't know if "excitement" is the right word.

Q. Debt offerings are almost never exciting.

A. This was a convertible debt offering.

Q. You can take the top down?

A. There is an equity component associated with it. You clearly cannot increase the size of an offering without having investor demand for the securities.

Q. There was high demand for these?

A. There was demand for the securities sufficient to allow Morgan Stanley to raise the size of the offering.

Q. By 50 percent?

A. I don't know if 50 percent is the

011013

Dean

right number or not but to raise the offering.

Q. By the way, did the amount of money that Morgan Stanley would make on this transaction depend on the size of the debt offering?

A. The gross spread that they would earn from doing an underwriting transaction on the convertible bond would vary directly with the size of the convertible debt offering.

Q. The bigger the offering the more money Morgan Stanley makes?

A. Yes. The percentage would be fixed but -- since the spread is calculated as a percentage of the offering size.

Q. Morgan Stanley also was leading a bank facility in connection with financing the acquisitions; is that correct?

A. Yes. There was a concurrent bank financing that was going on.

Q. That was senior to the debt offering you were working on?

A. I can't say for sure but I think that was the case.

Dean

Q. So by increasing the size of the debt offering Morgan Stanley also reduces its exposure on its own loans to Sunbeam; is that correct?

MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question.

THE WITNESS: I would say that there was a specific dollar amount that Sunbeam needed to raise in order to consummate the acquisition transactions.

How that money was raised and divided up among the various pieces really was a function of which piece, the size of the individual pieces of the debt offering and the bank loan.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. So if the subordinated debt offering were increased to $750 million, doesn't that mean that the secured loan is reduced by $250 million?

A. I think it is just a mathematical calculation.

Dean

To the extent that you increase the amount that was raised by the subordinated financing it reduces the funding need from other sources and if the other funding source was a bank loan, yes, that is the case.

It is also the case that Sunbeam would find the convertible financing more attractive to itself because it was subordinated financing and not subject to the covenants that a senior facility would provide.

Q. How did you learn that the size of the debt offering, convertible debt offering, would be increased?

A. I don't recall at this time. Somebody at Morgan Stanley must have told us or told somebody at Davis Polk who later communicated it to me.

Q. That is a decision that Morgan Stanley would make independent of your counsel?

A. Yes. I don't think that we have great insight into market demand for securities.

Dean

Q. I will give what you has been marked previously as Exhibit 14.

You got page 2 this time.

MR. CLARE: You know that is my issue. It is about time.

MR. JOHNSON: That is all you got.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Mr. Dean, is Exhibit 14 the March 19, 1998 Sunbeam press release we have been speaking about?

A. Yes. It appears to be a copy of the press release that was issued.

Q. This press release leaves open the possibility that Sunbeam would still meet the range of analyst estimates for the first quarter of 1998; is that correct?

A. Let me read the release.

Q. Sure.

A. I think the release doesn't really answer the question. I think the release -- the words of the release say that it may be lower than the range of Wall

017014

Dean

Street analyst estimates.

By its terms it leaves open the possibility that they still may achieve it.

Q. It further says, "A shortfall from estimates, if any, would be due to changes in inventory management and order patterns at certain of the companies major retail customers."

Do you see that?

A. Yes, I do see those words.

Q. Did you have any discussion with anyone from Sunbeam or Skadden concerning this stated reason for the potential shortfall from analyst estimates?

A. I don't recall now. I mean, we must have had conversations at the time to make ourselves comfortable that the press release was consistent with what we had been told by Sunbeam and what we could confirm independently.

Q. Didn't Andersen say that the sales decline was the result of acceleration of sales into 1997?

A. Is that what was in -- I don't remember whether or not that was in the comfort letter, the final comfort letter that was delivered.

Dean

If it was, I mean, that would be consistent with the press release.

Q. It is your testimony that this press release fairly discloses that the reason for the shortfall in sales was because Sunbeam accelerated sales into the fourth quarter of 1997?

A. My testimony is that based on what we knew at the time we felt comfortable with the substance of the press release.

I can't recall right now all of the constellation of facts that we took into account when we made that determination but I would not have felt comfortable proceeding with the offering unless I felt that the disclosure in the press release was consistent with what we had learned.

Q. It is possible you may have learned of Andersen's stated reason for the shortfall after the press release?

A. Well, it is -- I am aware of the fact that there was information in the Andersen comfort letter about a shortfall.

I am not aware of when during the process I became aware of that, whether or not that was in the context of the all-hands meeting or not. I just don't have a specific recollection.

Q. But it is your testimony that even if you were aware of Andersen's stated reason for the shortfall prior to the press release you would still be comfortable with the press release?

A. It depends on the Andersen statements and whether or not they were consistent with the -- with the substance of the press release.

If they were consistent I would have felt comfortable with it.

Q. I guess that is the question. Is it your view that the Andersen statement that we looked at is consistent with the press release?

Dean

A. I don't know whether or not this Andersen statement was one that we saw prior to the issuance of the press release.

Q. I understand that.

A. So let me take a look at the Andersen draft.

Q. Paragraph 6B, I believe; maybe 6C?

MR. WISE: 6B.

THE WITNESS: If the language in paragraph 6B of Exhibit -- what exhibit number is this?

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. 110.

A. 110, that statement appears to be consistent with the disclosure that is in the press release.

Q. You think it fairly discloses the acceleration of sales into 1997?

A. I think that the disclosure is consistent with the Andersen accounts.

I mean, there frequently -- there can be variations between what is disclosed and more detail.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017015

Page 146

Dean

Q. It is consistent with -- the statements are consistent with one another is your testimony?
A. Yes.
Q. You testified already that you favored putting January and February sales information in the press release?
A. Well, I -- what I did was I suggested that as a course of action that the group might consider.
I was not wedded to having the January and February numbers being disclosed.
Q. That information though would be more specific and less subjective than the information that ultimately ended up in the press release concerning sales results?
A. It would -- if we had reported January and February numbers, yes, that would have been more specific.
Q. Would you agree that Andersen's statement for the reason for the shortfall is more specific than the statement that ended up in the press release concerning the reasons for the shortfall?

Page 147

Dean

A. Yes. I would say there is more detail in the Andersen sort of explanation than what appeared in the press release.
Q. The press release obviously doesn't call into question the quality of Sunbeam's 1997 results, does it?
MR. WISE: Are you going to argue with him about it? Is that a fact question?
MR. JOHNSON: That was a question.
MR. CLARE: I object to the question on form and foundation.
MR. JOHNSON: Let me state it slightly differently.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. The Andersen draft, Exhibit 110, has the potential to call into question the quality of Sunbeam's 1997 results, doesn't it?
A. I don't know what you mean by "the quality of 1997 results."
I mean, it -- the Andersen letter

Page 148

Dean

does state that some of the revenues could have been accelerated into 1997.
Q. The press release doesn't refer in any way to 1997 results, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection. That misstates the document.
THE WITNESS: Could you repeat the question?
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Yes.
The press release doesn't indicate in any way that sales were accelerated into 19 -- the fourth quarter of 1997, does it?
A. I think that it is -- what the press release -- the language in the press release could be construed to capture that, the 1997 increases in sales under the words due to changes in the inventory management and order patterns.
It is not -- it is not specific as to what happened in 1997.
Q. You are not suggesting, are you, that that sentence would be sufficient to put investors on notice that sales had been accelerated into 1997?

Page 149

Dean

MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
THE WITNESS: I think that the press release does not specifically state that there was an early buy program in effect for 1997 and it does talk about inventory management and ordering patterns at the major retail customers which could encompass that behavior.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. You are not aware of any market reaction or analyst reaction to the press release that called into question the validity of 1997 results, are you?
A. I am not aware of anything at this time.
MR. JOHNSON: We will mark this as CPH Exhibit 214.

Q. Mr. Dean, I have given you a document we have marked as CPH1257359.

Can you identify that document for us?

A. It appears to be a memorandum prepared by Morgan Stanley from John Tyree and Ben Derito to Bob Gluck, myself and Ben Fernicola.

Q. Who is Ben Derito?

A. I don't know. I assume he was a Morgan Stanley person, an employee of Morgan Stanley at the time.

Q. How about the name at the bottom, Shani Boone; do you know who that is?

A. She was also -- I forget what her position was, whether or not she was also an employee of Morgan Stanley at the time of the Sunbeam transaction.

Q. This memo schedules a conference call, a bring-down due diligence conference call for March 19, 1998.

Do you see that?

A. I do.

Q. Did that call go forward?

Dean

A. I don't have any recollection as to whether or not it did or not.

Q. I ask because the Davis Polk chronology, Exhibit 24, doesn't appear to list that conference call if you look at Exhibit 24.

A. My time records would not necessarily have sufficient detail to identify whether or not my time related to a particular conference call or not.

Q. It is your testimony as I understand it that as of the date of this memo, March 17, 1998, you had no inkling that there were any problems with Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 results?

A. That's right. I mean, the first inkling that I had was on March 18.

Q. That was the same day as the New York road show for the debt offering?

A. I don't know when the New York road show was. If it was on March 18, yes.

Q. Did you attend the New York road show?

A. No, I did not.

Dean

Q. Did anyone from Davis Polk?

A. Not that I am aware of.

Q. Do you have any knowledge as to what happened at the road show?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Did you or anyone from Davis Polk attend any road shows?

A. I did not attend any road shows. I don't think anybody else from Davis Polk did either.

Q. Did you ever hear what happened at any of the road shows?

A. I don't remember hearing about what happened at the road shows.

Q. Did you ever hear that Sunbeam talked about the March 19 press release at any of the road shows?

A. I don't remember whether or not they -- I have no recollection as to whether or not they did or not.

I assume they had to address it after the press release was issued.

Q. Would it concern you if Sunbeam downplayed the press release in any way?

Dean

A. I think that the press release speaks for itself. How Sunbeam responded to it, I really can't sort of say what would be in Sunbeam's minds.

Q. If you had heard that Sunbeam said that they issued the press release only because the lawyers made them do it, would that give you any concern?

A. I think that the press release speaks for itself and that the marketplace would evaluate it on that basis and then the marketplace could evaluate what Sunbeam said at the same time.

Q. I take that as a no.

MR. WISE: No. You take that as the answer that he gave.

You -- actually, you can take it any way you want. I don't care how you take it. His answer stands the way he gave it.

Q. Let me try it again slightly differently and see if I can get a direct answer.

MR. WISE: I object to that. You got a direct answer. You just didn't like it.

MR. JOHNSON: He didn't like it.

MR. WISE: I said you got a direct answer. You just didn't like it.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Would you be concerned in any way if you had learned that Sunbeam tried to downplay the significance of the press release after its issuance?

A. I would be concerned if Sunbeam said something inconsistent with the press release.

How Sunbeam decided how to characterize the press release would be -- I didn't represent Sunbeam so I don't know how they were advised.

I think that the press release that Sunbeam put out speaks for itself and any comments that Sunbeam made in connection with the press release would be absorbed by the marketplace in whatever fashion the marketplace -- whatever weight the marketplace wanted to put on it.

Dean

Q. Don't you as counsel to the underwriter have concern with the candor of issuer management?

A. Yes, we do.

MR. JOHNSON: Do you want to take your lunch break?

MR. WISE: Sure. Let's do that.

THE WITNESS: If it is another 15, 20 minutes --

MR. JOHNSON: It is not. I don't think it is more than another 90 minutes or so but -- so you guys do what you want to do. I do need to use the restroom.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Mr. Dean, before lunch we were talking about the press release and the telephone conferences leading up to the press release. Do you recall that testimony?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Did Davis Polk and Morgan Stanley's diligence work continue after the press release issued after March 19?

A. Yes, it did.

Q. I assume you had telephone conferences with somebody in management in connection with that due diligence?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ask them how the first quarter was progressing?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. Did you ask them how the first half of 1998 was progressing?

Dean

A. I don't remember. That would have been a natural question to ask.

Q. How about 1998 as a whole, did you ask them how that was looking?

A. I don't recall whether or not that was the subject of any of the conversations.

Q. When you say that asking about the first half of 1998 would be a natural question what do you mean by that?

A. I think that in the -- at Sunbeam generally there were Street estimates out with respect to the full year or the first half and that would have been a natural series of questions to ask as well.

Q. Did you have any concern that Sunbeam was stretching to make first quarter numbers with the result that the second quarter would be severely impacted?

A. I had -- I had no recollection as to any specific conversations we had about the second quarter and so I wouldn't have any comment about whether or not they were

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017018

Page 158

Dean

trying to stretch -- whether or not they would need to stretch to get the second quarter results.

Q. I guess the question is a little different.

Did you have any concern that the push to make numbers in the first quarter of 1998 would have a negative impact on Sunbeam's performance in the second quarter of 1998?

A. I don't recall any concern about that.

Q. Let me show you what was marked previously as Exhibit 35. Actually that is Exhibit 33, believe it or not. That is a poor copy. I will represent to you that is 33.

Exhibit 33 is a memo from John Tyree and Johannes Groeller to you among others; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. I think Johannes Groeller will be a new name for us today.

Who is Johannes Groeller?

Page 159

Dean

A. Since this is a Morgan Stanley memorandum I assume that Johannes Groeller is another employee of Morgan Stanley who worked on the financing team.

Q. I take it from your answer though you don't recall ever dealing with him?

A. I don't remember dealing with him.

Q. This memo is dated March 19, the same day as the press release, do you see that?

A. I do see that.

Q. That is also the day of the pricing of the debt offering, isn't it?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. The first agenda item provides top and bottom line outlook for first quarter first half of the year, do you see that?

A. I do see that.

Q. Do you recall any conversation on that topic during this telephone call?

A. I don't have any recollection now since the events were six years ago. These are -- these would be typical sort of areas of review in the due diligence phone call.

Page 160

Dean

Q. By "top and bottom line" that refers to revenue and earnings?

A. Yes. Some sort of bottom line would refer to some sort of earnings measure.

Q. The third bullet refers to any significant customer account, wins, losses.

During any of the conference calls you had after the press release issued do you recall any customer account wins or losses identified by Sunbeam?

A. I don't recall any at this time.

Q. Do you recall that question being discussed?

A. I don't recall it being discussed and based on this memorandum it looks like it was one of the issues that was discussed and I would have been able to comment on it closer to the 1998 time frame than now.

Q. Now you just don't remember?

A. I just don't remember now.

Q. The sixth bullet point states,

Page 161

Dean

"Are the expected synergy estimates for the three acquisitions still up to date."

What does that refer to?

A. Well, I can't read into the minds of the person who wrote this memorandum but what I would interpret that question to revolve around is whether or not the -- after the closing of the acquisitions whether or not there would be any efficiencies realized by eliminating some of the duplicative functions.

Q. Did you or anyone at Davis Polk do any analysis of synergies to be achieved from the acquisitions?

A. It would not have been our role to do a financial analysis into a synergy -- into a synergy analysis. In the course of the offering we might well have reviewed the pro forma financial statements.

Q. Did you, in fact, review the pro forma financial statements?

A. I can't -- I am sure that I did because it would be part of a normal sort

017019

Page 162

Dean

of process of preparing the offering memorandum but I can't -- I can't say that I remember positively doing it.

Q. Can you recall any revisions to the pro formas during the course of March of 1998?

A. I don't recall any revisions. There might have been some.

Q. The phrase "the expected synergy estimates," who had made synergy estimates on this transaction?

A. I don't know who made the synergy estimates. Typically the acquirer, Sunbeam, would have synergy estimates prepared in order to evaluate the financial aspects of the acquisition transaction.

Q. Let me give you what we marked previously as Exhibit 111.

Mr. Dean, Exhibit CPH111 is another draft of the comfort letter. This draft has a fax header From Global Financial Press New York at about 11:48 in the evening of March 19. Do you see that?

A. I do see that.

Page 163

Dean

Q. Did you receive this draft?

A. I don't recall at this time whether or not I have seen -- whether or not I saw the draft.

Q. What is Global Financial Press?

A. Global Financial Press is a financial printing firm.

Q. Located here in New York?

A. Located in New York City.

Q. Have you ever been to Global Financial Press?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Did you go to Global Financial Press in connection with the Sunbeam transaction?

A. I did go at least once to Global Financial Press in connection with Sunbeam.

Q. Do you know on how many different occasions Davis Polk lawyers attended drafting sessions at Global Financial Press?

A. I believe we attended drafting sessions twice at Global Financial Press.

Q. Did you attend the first or the

Page 164

Dean

second or you don't recall?

A. I attended the first.

Q. The first session, that was not the session on March 19; is that correct?

A. That's correct. The first session would have been to prepare the preliminary prospectus.

Q. Who was at the first session?

A. From Davis Polk?

Q. I want to know everyone who was at the first session.

A. Again, since the events were six years ago I will try to remember as many as I can but I may not get them all.

I attended that meeting from Davis Polk. Heather Stack also attended that meeting.

I know that Jim Lurie from Davis Polk did not attend that meeting because we decided to split up attendance at the printing sessions.

There was a representative of Skadden, Arps there. I can't recall who it was.

Page 165

Dean

I don't remember whether or not any Sunbeam personnel came up for the meeting. There may have been an Arthur Andersen representative there but I can't recall for sure. That would have been Mr. Bornstein who we talked about earlier today.

Q. Right.

Other than Mr. Bornstein did you ever deal with anyone else from Andersen in connection with the Sunbeam transaction?

A. I don't recall whether or not I did or not. There may have been conference calls I participated in but Mr. Bornstein is the only one that I have a definitive recollection of today.

Q. Can you visualize Mr. Bornstein?

A. No. I don't think so. There have been many accountants since Mr. Bornstein.

Q. They all seem to run together.

The CPH Exhibit 111 differs from the earlier comfort letter draft that we looked at in several respects. One is the addition of paragraph 6C on page 5.

017020

Dean

A. Yes, I see paragraph 6C.
Q. This draft was circulated apparently after the press release issued?
A. It appears to have -- it appears to have been faxed after the press release was issued.
I don't know who it was faxed to. It appears to have been faxed from the printer.
Q. Do you know whether Morgan Stanley saw this draft?
A. I don't know whether or not Morgan Stanley saw it or not. It would be our normal practice at Davis Polk if we had received a copy of this to forward it on to Morgan Stanley.
Q. Did Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley receive any information after the press release was issued that they thought needed to be enclosed in the offering memorandum?
A. Not that I am aware of.
Q. Did you have any discussions with any Davis Polk personnel the night of March

Dean

19?
A. I don't recall. I probably did.
Q. Who from Davis Polk was at the printer on March 19?
A. Jim Lurie was at the printer and I don't know whether or not Heather Stack went to the printer that evening or not.
Q. Do you recall any discussion with Mr. Lurie calling you either at the office or at home from the printer?
A. I don't remember a phone call. He very well could have made a phone call to me in the course of the transaction.
Q. Nothing stands out to you today as a phone call occurring from the printer?
A. I don't recall a phone call at this time but again it was six years ago. Lots of phone calls from the printer since then.
Q. Did you ever talk to Mr. Lurie or anyone else about what happened at the printer?
A. I don't remember any specifics -- specific conversation with Mr. Lurie about what happened at the printer.

Dean

He could have well reviewed what happened at the printer but I don't have any specific memory of that.
Q. He didn't convey to you any disagreements or heated discussions that occurred at the printer?
A. I don't recall. Nothing that I recall at this time.
Q. You don't recall Mr. Lurie telling you that Mr. Bornstein said that everybody in the room would get sued if Sunbeam didn't beat the first quarter 1997 number?
A. No. I don't recall that having been said.
Q. Did Mr. Lurie tell you that Mr. Bornstein advised skepticism as to Sunbeam's ability to beat the first quarter 1997 number?
A. I don't recall such a conversation. Having said that, this was six years ago.
Q. Did you have any discussion with anyone from Skadden or Sunbeam as to whether the full text of the press release should be contained in the recent developments section of the offering memorandum?

Dean

A. Yes, we did have discussions with Skadden about whether or not the substance of the press release should be in the offering memorandum.
Q. What was Skadden's position on that?
A. I don't remember what Skadden's position on it was.
Our position was that it should be in the document.
Q. Was there any discussion about changing the substance of the press release?
A. I don't recall any discussion about that, that I was involved in.
Q. This has been marked previously as Exhibit 17.
Mr. Dean, Exhibit 17 is a letter from Arthur Andersen to Morgan Stanley

017021

Dean

dated March 19, 1998.

Have you ever seen that letter before?

A. I can't say for certain whether or not I have seen exactly a copy of this letter.

This letter seems to be the comfort letter that was issued to Morgan Stanley upon the pricing of the offering and I would have reviewed this letter.

Q. It would be your practice to review a comfort letter issued in connection with any securities that you are involved --

A. That would be my general practice unless I had somebody that I delegated the task to.

Q. Did you have any reaction or do you recall having any reaction upon reading this comfort letter?

A. I remember that -- one of my focuses was to make sure that the comfort letter was consistent with the disclosures that had gone into the press release and what would have been told by Sunbeam in connection with our due diligence sessions on the 18th and any followup due diligence sessions we had after the 18th.

Dean

Q. Upon reading the comfort letter you were satisfied with that?

A. At the time I was comfortable that it was consistent with the disclosure that had been made.

Q. Did you still have the view that you would have preferred the inclusion of the actual January and February sales numbers in the press release?

A. I think that I was comfortable having the press release go out in the form that it went out without mentioning the January and February results.

Q. You testified previously that you had raised the possibility of including that?

A. Yes. I had raised that possibility.

Q. The comfort letter didn't change your view as to whether that information should be included in the offering memorandum?

Dean

A. No, it did not, and I might have been aware of the January-February -- the amounts of the January-February revenue results before they appeared in the comfort letter that I had reviewed.

Q. Did you ask upon receipt of this press release how the quarter looked for earnings for Sunbeam?

A. I don't recall whether or not I did or not. The focus from a materiality perspective was really the revenues.

Q. After this -- after this comfort letter was issued late on the 19th or early on the 20th of March what did you do on the Sunbeam transaction after that?

A. We prepared for the closing of the transaction, we delivered a legal opinion at the closing to Morgan Stanley and we also conducted bring down due diligence.

Q. What is bring down due diligence?

A. It would be a due diligence conference call with the -- with Sunbeam and -- with Sunbeam.

Dean

Q. In terms of diligence that consisted of a phone call with Sunbeam after the March 19 comfort letter?

A. Those are, at this point, six years after the events, those are the events that I recall.

There could have been additional diligence procedures that we participated in.

Q. This may help you remember.

Here is what has been marked previously as Exhibit 34. Exhibit 34 is a March 20 memo from Ruth Porat and others at Morgan Stanley to you, among other individuals.

A. Yes, I see that.

Q. Is this the due diligence -- bring down due diligence call you are referring to or were there several calls?

A. It is consistent with what would be covered in the bring down due diligence call immediately before the closing of the

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017022

Dean

transaction.

Q. If you look back at Exhibit 33 that we looked at which was also a bring down due diligence agenda, Exhibit 33 refers to results for the first quarter, the first half and the year whereas Exhibit 34 refers only to the first quarter revenues and earnings.

Do you know why that is?

A. No, I don't, but we could well have covered the first half of the year in the conference call.

Q. Do you have any recollection of doing that?

A. I don't have any recollection now. I would have back then. It strikes me as it is a standard thing that would have been done.

Q. You have no idea why the agenda that is Exhibit 34 doesn't refer to the first half of 1998?

A. No.

Q. This has been marked previously as Exhibit 35.

Dean

Exhibit 35 appears to be another due diligence agenda from a slightly different set of authors and slightly different set of recipients although you are a recipient on Exhibit 35 as well.

A. Yes, I see that.

Q. Exhibit 35 is a March 23, 1998 memo. Do you see that?

A. I do see that.

Q. Like Exhibit 34, Exhibit 35 refers to the first quarter revenues and earnings but not the first half of 1998 results. Do you see that?

A. Yes, I do see that.

Q. What was -- on March 23, what was Sunbeam saying about its first quarter earnings and -- revenue and earnings?

A. I don't have a specific recollection as to what they said. I am sure that they confirmed the matters that they had assured us would occur in the March 18 bring down phone call.

Q. Did they tell you that as of March 23 Sunbeam was showing a loss for the quarter?

Dean

A. No, they did not. I can't -- that is something that I would have remembered.

Q. Why do you say that?

A. Because Sunbeam had been projected to earn money during the first quarter.

Q. You would have been surprised by a loss as of that point in the quarter?

A. Yes, I would have been surprised. It would have been inconsistent with the information that we just received on the 18th.

Q. You think on the 23rd they were telling you that they were going to show a profit for the quarter?

A. Well, I can't recall at this time, six years down the road but that must have been what they said, otherwise, we would not have felt comfortable closing the transaction given the disclosure that was in the marketplace.

Q. I will show you what has been marked previously as Exhibit 112.

Dean

Can you identify Exhibit 112 for the record, Mr. Dean?

A. Exhibit 112 appears to be a bring down comfort letter delivered at the closing of the subordinated debt offering reconfirming the matters in the comfort letter, earlier comfort letter delivered on the pricing date of the offering.

Q. The bring down letter includes, doesn't it, a paragraph -- at paragraph E a revision to the sales and income statement set forth in the March 19 comfort letter?

A. I would have to see where -- which revision are you referring to?

Q. The bring down comfort letter has sales and income figures through March 1 whereas the comfort letter had sales and incomes through February 1 and sales through March 1?

A. Could you repeat that? I will sort of double-check.

Q. I am not trying to be tricky here.

A. I understand.
Q. I want to highlight a comparison.
A. I haven't looked at these documents in a while. So --
Q. Sure.
Exhibit 17 which is the March 19 comfort letter --
A. Yes.
Q. -- at paragraph 5B includes a table for sales and income through February 1, 1998?
A. Right.
Q. The bring down letter includes at paragraph E an update on that table through March 1?
A. Yes.
Q. It shows through March 1 a loss of $41 million for Sunbeam, do you see that?
A. I do see that.
Q. Did Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley do anything in reaction to that information?
A. I don't remember doing anything in reaction to that information.

Page 179

Dean

It would have been -- I just don't have any recollection at this time. It may have been consistent with the sales shortfall relative to the prior year period.
Q. Did you ask what earnings looked like as of March 25 as opposed to as of March 1?
A. I don't recall whether or not we would have. It would not be a question that we would address to Arthur Andersen if the cutoff of this letter was March 1.
Q. Did you ask Sunbeam?
A. We may -- we may well have asked Sunbeam that question. I assume we did ask Sunbeam that question.
Q. But you can't recall who asked whom?
A. No, I can't recall who asked whom.
Q. Your testimony is that as of late March the Street was still expecting Sunbeam to show a profit for the first quarter of 1998?

Page 180

Dean

A. That is my recollection. This comfort letter also -- this bring down comfort letter also tries to explain the magnitude of the $41 million loss by saying there was a one time $30.2 million item.
Q. Excluding that, it is a little over a $11 million shortfall?
A. Right. Just taking a look at the sales, shortfalls, it would not be -- it wouldn't be -- it would not have been surprising to see a loss for the first two months.
Q. Sales were running about half of the prior year period?
A. Right.
Q. The bring down comfort letter is delivered in connection with the closing of the debt offering; is that correct?
A. That's correct.
Q. After the debt offering closed, what, if anything, did you do in connection with the Sunbeam transaction?
A. Probably filed my documents away and I don't think that I paid -- I didn't do any substantive work on Sunbeam immediately after the closing.

Page 181

Dean

Q. Did you track the company in any way or keep an eye out for Sunbeam news?
A. I don't remember doing that. I may have at the time. I don't recall at this time whether or not I did or not.
Q. I believe you testified already today that you recall an early April press release with the actual first quarter 1998 results?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you get that on or about the time that it was issued?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. If I can find my copy of it. This has been marked as Exhibit 36 previously.
How did you -- let me -- I will identify it for the record.
Exhibit 36 is the April 3, it says, 1997 but it is in fact a 1998, press release.

It also has a fax cover sheet from David Fannin to four Morgan Stanley personnel and two Skadden personnel.
A. Yes, I see that.
Q. How did you come to see the April 3 press release?
A. I can't recall how I got a copy of this press release, whether or not Morgan Stanley gave it to me or who notified me about it.
Q. Did you talk to anyone with Morgan Stanley about the substance of the press release?
A. After the press release was issued? I don't recall any specific conversations now.
I must have had conversations with personnel from Morgan Stanley about it.
Q. How about before the press release was issued did you know this press release was coming out?
A. No, I did not.
Q. Did you know that Sunbeam would

Page 183

Dean
issue a press release with its first quarter results in it?
A. Sunbeam would be required to issue a release with its first quarter results in it.
I wasn't aware of what the timing of that would be.
Q. That is what I am getting at.
Did you have any reaction to the press release?
A. I was surprised when I saw the press release.
Q. Did you -- I take it then you didn't have an opportunity to review or comment on the April 3 press release?
A. No, I did not.
Q. Did you call anyone at Skadden concerning this press release?
A. I don't remember whether or not I did or not.
Q. Did you continue to follow Sunbeam after the April 3 press release?
A. I don't recall now whether or not I did. I know that I read press reports

Page 184

Dean
about what happened to Sunbeam after this press release was issued.
Q. Let's mark this as 215.
(CPH Exhibit 215 marked for identification)
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Mr. Dean, what is Exhibit 215?
A. Exhibit 215 appears to be a fax cover sheet to Donald Uzzi from me attaching -- faxing a copy of a lockup agreement that Mr. Uzzi signed in connection with the offering.
Q. The fax cover sheet is dated April 2, 1998, 7:00 p.m.
A. Yes, it is.
Q. The lockup agreement restricts Mr. Uzzi's ability to sell Sunbeam's securities?
A. Yes, it does.
Q. Did you have any concerns about Mr. Uzzi's request for a copy of his lockup agreement on April 2?
A. I don't recall any concerns at the time. I don't even recall sending this

Page 185

Dean
fax out.
Q. Did you have any conversations with anyone in connection with sending this out?
A. Well, the fax cover sheet suggests that I must have had conversations with John Tyree because it is at his request that I was faxing Mr. Uzzi a copy of the lockup agreement.
Q. Other than what is on the face of the fax cover sheet you don't have any memory of talking to John Tyree?
A. I don't have any specific recollection of it, no. Again, it was six years ago. Many phone calls since then.
Q. This is the day before Mr. Uzzi is terminated as well; is that correct?
A. I am not aware of the date that Mr. Uzzi was terminated.
Q. I want to change gears just slightly and talk for a few moments about the purchase agreement between Morgan Stanley and Sunbeam.
I believe you have already

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Dean
testified today that Davis Polk counseled Morgan Stanley in connection with the negotiation and drafting of that agreement?
A. Yes, we did.
Q. Do you remember as you sit here the negotiation points that were in dispute with Sunbeam or Skadden, Arps?
A. Sitting here I don't remember, nor do I recall any specific negotiations that I may have participated in in connection with the purchase agreement.
Q. Let me see if I can refresh your memory a little bit.
This would be 216.
(CPH Exhibit 216 marked for identification)
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Mr. Dean, I recognize I have given you a fairly voluminous exhibit. I will call your attention just to one provision in particular but feel free to look at any of the document.
As an initial matter, can you identify for the record what we have marked

Dean
as CPH Exhibit 216?
A. Yes, it appears to be a memorandum from Skadden, Arps to Davis Polk and to John Tyree at Morgan Stanley attaching comments on a draft of the purchase agreement.
Q. These would be Sunbeam's comments on the draft purchase agreement?
A. Yes, Sunbeam's comments and Skadden's comments.
Q. Looking at page 4 of the draft which has the Bates stamp CPH0632913 --
A. It is the page that has page 4 on it?
Q. Correct.
A. 7729, the Skadden, Arps Bates stamping?
Q. That is exactly right.
Paragraph L has a proposed revision that I want to ask you about. If you would read that for me?
A. Yes, I can see the proposed revision.
Q. Did Sunbeam articulate or did

Dean
Skadden articulate why that change was desired?
A. I don't remember negotiating this point. This is a standard comment that is received in negotiating purchase agreements.
Q. Sorry. You say it is a standard comment?
A. It is a standard comment that an issuer's counsel would raise in connection with negotiating a purchase agreement, crossing out the words or any development involving a prospective material adverse change.
Q. Did that proposed revision give you any concerns?
A. Well, I don't know if I -- I was copied on this memorandum. I don't know if I reviewed this specifically.
I can't recall at the time whether or not it would have raised any concern today looking at it again in the context of standard practices and negotiating purchase agreements, an issuer requesting this change, this would not set off any concern on my part.

Dean
Q. If this deal were to close -- strike that.
Were there any discussions with Skadden or Sunbeam concerning whether Sunbeam's deteriorating financial condition in the first quarter of 1998 constituted a material adverse change?
A. The condition in the underwriting contract would have been a condition that applied after the underwriting agreement was signed and before the transaction closed and typically this kind of representation has an exception for disclosures made in the final offering memorandum.
Q. The final offering memorandum does not disclose that Sunbeam would likely show a loss for the first quarter of 1998?
A. The Sunbeam offering -- the final Sunbeam offering memorandum did not disclose that there might be a loss.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Mr. Dean, I am going to show you another draft of the purchase agreement if I can. This was marked previously as CPH Exhibit 211.

Exhibit 211 includes a fax cover sheet from Nicole Duncan to Lurie, Stack and Dietz at Global Financial Press.

Then behind the fax cover sheet is a memorandum on which you are copied with an attachment which includes a draft of the purchase agreement.

Do you see that?

A. I do see that.

Q. Do you recall reviewing this draft?

Dean

A. I don't recall at this time whether or not I reviewed this draft or not.

Q. I want to call your attention again to paragraph L. That would be 1L.

A. Is that the page that is identified 019?

Q. Correct. On the CPH Bates stamp it is 633019.

A. Yes, I see that.

Q. Do you see the proposed revisions there?

A. I see a -- an L and addition at the end of the paragraph.

Q. How did that proposed revision come to be?

A. I can't say with accuracy why. It occurred back six years ago.

Looking at it now it is clearly understandable why that was put in. It is because this material adverse change clause applied to the disclosures that were in the preliminary memorandum.

There was a subsequent press

Dean

release that was issued that contained additional information and Sunbeam wanted to make it clear that the material adverse change condition did not apply to the disclosures that had already been made and had been absorbed by the marketplace and there may have been an argument that could have been made that that disclosure could have constituted a material adverse change.

Q. The phrase that is proposed says, "The press release shall not in and of itself constitute a material adverse change or prospective material adverse change."

Do you know why that phrasing is used?

A. No. I have no insight to add on that.

Q. Did you ever hear from any source that Arthur Andersen sent personnel to monitor Sunbeam's shipping docks at the end of the first quarter of 1998?

A. I am not aware of that.

Q. Other than having to give a deposition in this matter do you have any regrets concerning the Sunbeam transaction?

Dean

MR. CLARE: I object to the form of the question.

THE WITNESS: I have no regrets about the Sunbeam transaction.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. You do feel that Sunbeam lied to you?

A. We -- Sunbeam -- the document, with the benefit of hindsight, I don't know -- I can't say what was in the minds of the Sunbeam people once -- when they disclosed what they disclosed to us on the eve of the offering.

I don't know, I can't say whether or not they in good conscience really believed and we were convinced that they were going to make the numbers.

Q. Do you wish that Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk had done more to verify the assurances that Sunbeam management gave you?

A. No. I think we did what was reasonable at the time and that in our

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017027

Dean

professional judgment that enabled us -- enabled Davis Polk to render an opinion that there were no material misstatements or omissions based on our investigation at the time.

Q. That investigation consisted of one or more telephone conferences with Sunbeam management?

A. The investigations included those conference calls. I can't recall all of the other things that Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley may have done.

Q. Again, focusing specifically on the representations made to you on March 18 by Sunbeam management, what else did Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk do to confirm the accuracy of the assurances that Sunbeam management gave?

A. We -- apart from the conference calls?

Q. Correct.

A. Davis Polk did not do anything more than those assurances.

We also reviewed the Arthur

Dean

Andersen comfort letters which were consistent with the disclosures and I can't say what else Morgan Stanley did apart from the conference calls that I participated in.

Q. You can't say because you don't know?

A. Because I don't know.

MR. JOHNSON: That is all I have got.

MR. CLARE: I don't have any questions.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 3:03 p.m. This completes tape three and also the videotaped deposition of Mr. Alan Dean.

EXAMINATION BY
MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Good morning, Mr. Lurie.

A. Good morning.

Q. Would you please state your full name for the record.

A. James Michael Lurie.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

Q. And where do you reside?
A. Hewlett, Long Island, 130 Cedar Avenue, H-E-W-L-E-T-T.
Q. And you've given a deposition before; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. On how many occasions?
A. Once.
Q. About how long ago was that?
A. Ten, twelve years ago, I think.
Q. And what -- that was the Avon matter; is that correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Have you testified in any kind of court proceeding?
A. No.
Q. Arbitration, any type of --
A. No.
Q. -- judicial proceeding?
A. No. The reason I stuttered, I was called before a -- you know, a jury. And they asked me questions. But that wasn't really testifying --
Q. So you've been voir dired but not testified?

Lurie

A. Yes.
Q. Well, as Mr. Wise has probably told you, as you will recall from your prior experience --
MR. JOHNSON: Let's take a short break here for one second. We'll go off the record.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: We're going off the record. The time is 9:53.
(Discussion off the record.)
(Whereupon, Mr. Marmer joined the deposition.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 9:54. We're back on the record.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Mr. Lurie, before the break, I was explaining some of the ground rules of the deposition. Obviously, if you don't understand one of my questions, let me know, and I'll try to rephrase it. If you need to take a break, let me know that, and we can try to accommodate it.
The Avon matter where you were previously deposed, that was a matter where

Lurie

Morgan Stanley represented Avon; is that correct?
A. That's correct.
Q. What do you recall about the Avon litigation?
A. It had to do -- with my recollection, it had to do with some language that was in the certificate of designations for the security, which was called a percs security, and what certain language meant is my recollection what this suit was about.
Q. And it was a securities fraud case?
A. I don't remember what the claim in this case was.
Q. Was Morgan Stanley a defendant in that case?
A. I believe so. But what was that? Ten, twelve years ago?
Q. Do you know how that case was resolved?
A. Actually, I don't.
Q. Have you served as an expert witness?
A. No.
Q. Why don't you take me briefly through your educational background from graduation of college to the present.

Lurie

A. Graduated Washington University in St. Louis in 1974. I spent two years working at Irving Trust, in the bank there. Then I went to law school. I went to Rutgers Camden, the Camden campus, graduated in '77, spent two years as a law clerk to Henry Bramwell in the Eastern District of New York.
During that period while as a law clerk, I started going to NYU for an LLM. I started at Davis Polk in 1979, I believe. Yeah, 1979. I was at Davis Polk through May of -- through April of 1998; then went to O'Sullivan Graev & Karabell, which, in 2002, merged with O'Melveny & Meyers. So I was with O'Melveny & Meyers through about -- just about a year ago and joined Holland & Knight a year ago, the end of this June, and got my L.L.M. from NYU. I think it was 1986.
Q. What was the area of specialty, if any, for your L.L.M.
A. Corporate.
Q. So you have -- is it a B.A. or B.S. from Washington?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

A. B.A., A.B., whatever.
Q. And a J.D.?
A. And a J.D. and an L.L.M.
Q. Any other degrees?
A. No.
Q. Do you have any professional certifications of any sort?
A. No.
MR. WISE: He's member of the bar, I suppose.
A. Yeah. Well, that's a professional. Yes. Thank you.
MR. JOHNSON: We'll have you raise your right hand as well.
MR. WISE: Just trying to be helpful.
A. No. That would be a professional certification.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. What titles did you hold at Davis Polk?
A. I was an associate. When I left, I was a senior attorney.
Q. And you went to O'Sullivan as a partner?

Lurie

A. Correct.
Q. Why did you leave Davis Polk?
A. I got a great opportunity at O'Sullivan.
Q. Why was it a great opportunity?
A. I got to go head their corporate securities, SEC practice. It was a niche firm specializing in private equity and needed to build up their securities practice.
Q. What did you do to prepare for your deposition today?
A. Really just was yesterday. I came over, met with Bob and Tom, and just sort of reviewed what the deposition was going to be. They --
MR. WISE: Well, let's not discuss what the substance of our discussions were.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. So you met with Mr. Wise and Mr. Clare?
A. (Indicating.)
Q. What else did you do?
A. To prepare? Nothing.

Lurie

Q. Did you review any documents?
A. Yes. Yesterday I was shown some documents.
Q. Did those help your memory on the events in question?
A. No.
Q. Do you have an understanding of who's given depositions in this law suit so far?
A. I was told that some of my former colleagues -- two of my former colleagues at Davis Polk had given depositions and that there had been others. I don't recall -- if you told me who the other ones were --
Q. And which colleagues from Davis Polk?
A. Alan Dean.
Q. Right.
A. Heather Stack.
Q. And did you get a sense of what their testimony was in their depositions?
A. No.
Q. Have you spoken with anyone from Morgan Stanley about this deposition?
A. No.
Q. How is it that you learned you were going to be deposed in this matter?

Lurie

A. James Murray from Davis Polk called -- I don't know -- three, four months ago and said it was possible and then called again about six, eight weeks ago and asked if we could schedule something. And here I am.
Q. Since you left Davis Polk, have you done any legal work for Morgan Stanley?
A. They may have been involved in one or more transactions deals that I have done. I'd have to go back and look. I don't recall specifically.
Q. Have you represented Morgan Stanley since leaving Davis Polk?
A. No. Not directly, no.
Q. What do you mean by that?
A. They could have been an underwriting syndicate. They could have been a colead manager in an offering.
Q. But as you sit here, you can't think of any transaction --
A. Not specifically, no.
Q. Since leaving --
A. There actually was one.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0-7032

Lurie

Q. Okay.
A. We were representing a client -- and I can't think of the name of the client right now -- in a high-yield offering. Morgan Stanley was the -- was going to be the lead underwriter.
Q. And you represented the issuer?
A. Yes.
Q. Was that at Holland & Knight or O'Melveny or O'Sullivan --
A. It was O'Sullivan.
Q. A high-yield offering, a junk bond offering?
A. High yield.
Q. Those are different terms?
A. I like high yield.
Q. Who was that issuer?
A. It could have been one of a couple of different ones. I'd have to go back and look to see which one it was.
Q. And so is that transaction the last time you've had any interaction with anyone from Morgan Stanley?
A. On a business level, yes. I mean, I know some people from other places, you know, through personal associations.

Lurie

Q. So you've had personal contacts with Morgan Stanley personnel?
A. Absolutely. Yes.
Q. Okay. And which Morgan Stanley personnel?
A. I'm literally dealing with one on another matter at Holland & Knight.
Q. And who is that?
A. Fred Whittemore (phonetic).
Q. But that's not in his capacity as a Morgan Stanley --
A. No.
Q. -- employee?
A. No -- well, he is a Morgan Stanley employee, but he's a director of another company we're representing.
Q. Since leaving Davis Polk, have you had any contact of any sort with Ruth Porat?
A. No.
Q. John Tyree?
A. No.
Q. Bill Strong?
A. No.

Lurie

Q. Andy Savare?
A. No.
Q. Bob Kitts?
A. No.
Q. Jim Stynes?
A. No. I presume these are all Morgan Stanley people, but the answer is still no.
Q. How about Alex Fuchs?
A. No.
Q. And other than Mr. Wise and Mr. Clare, have you spoken to anyone about the fact that you're giving a deposition today?
MR. WISE: James Murphy, my office.
A. Right. And I advised a couple of my partners that I would be out this morning because I was being deposed.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Anyone else?
A. Not that I can recall. My wife.
Q. When you were at Davis Polk -- and the remainder of the day, there are going to be questions focused on your time at Davis Polk -- is it fair to say that Morgan Stanley was a major client of the firm?

Lurie

A. Yes.
Q. And you personally had worked on numerous matters for Morgan Stanley?
A. Yes.
Q. We talked about the Avon matter already. Obviously, there's the Sunbeam matter.
A. Yes.
Q. Can you think of any other matters that you handled for Morgan Stanley?
A. Well, not for Morgan Stanley. I believe Morgan Stanley was the lead underwriter on the Irvine Apartment Communities offering that we represented Irvine Apartment Communities; Morgan Stanley was the lead underwriter. We represented them in the IPO of an entity called TIG, T-I-G.
Q. Was that a Transamerica entity --
A. Yeah. It was a Transamerica spin-off of their P&C company. Those are the ones that come quickly to mind. There are enumerable others. I did a lot of work for Morgan Stanley in the swap area.
Q. So your work for Morgan Stanley was not limited to public offerings. It was M&A work

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

as well?
A. I didn't do a great deal of M&A work here at Davis Polk.
Q. I take that to mean that you did some?
A. Yes, I did some.
Q. Can you estimate for me the number of public offerings that you worked on while at Davis Polk.
A. Any kind of public offering?
Q. Yes.
A. Registered with the SEC?
Q. Yes.
A. Seventy-five, a hundred -- I don't know. Seventy-five. Pick a number.
Q. How is it that you came to work on the Sunbeam transaction?
A. This is -- it's six years ago. Someone would have come in and said, You've got some time to work on this matter.
Q. You didn't receive a call from Morgan Stanley?
A. I have no recollection six years later how I specifically got involved.

Lurie

Q. You recall it was in the late February, early March '98 time frame?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you have any more specific recollection on when you started your work?
A. Not specifically other than having been told it started around February 25th, seeing it in a letter, I guess, that we looked at yesterday.
Q. That was a Davis Polk chronology?
A. Yes.
Q. So that document refreshed your memory --
A. It didn't refresh it. That's the date it said. I still have no specific recollection of when I actually would have begun.
Q. But that's not inconsistent with whatever recollection you had?
A. It's not inconsistent with the lack of recollection when specifically, but that would be the time frame about when. Whether it was February or January or early February, I couldn't tell you.
Q. And when you initially got involved,

Lurie

what did you understand Davis Polk's assignment to be?
A. We were underwriter's counsel.
Q. Did you have a sense of the nature of the offering contemplated?
A. I -- absolute -- I mean, I would have had to have had. We were doing a convertible -- zero coupon convertible debt offering.
Q. I guess what I'm asking is, Did, to your knowledge, Davis Polk advise Morgan Stanley on the nature of the offering; or was Davis Polk advised of the nature of the offering and --
A. You need to explain to me what you mean by nature of the offering.
Q. Sure. Sure. When Davis Polk was first assigned, it was already decided that there would be a convertible debt offering; is that correct?
A. I presume so. I have no recollection of the timing of the assignment and what we were told.
Q. So you don't recall any discussion about how Sunbeam ought to finance the acquisition in question?

Lurie

A. I don't recall any specific discussions.
Q. So, to your knowledge, the issue of how the financing would operate had already been decided?
A. I don't recall any specific discussions. So I can't tell you six years later how the decision was made to determine it would be a convertible debt offering and who was involved and who made those decisions.
Q. But you don't recall Davis Polk being involved in those decisions?
A. I don't have any recollection personally of being involved in those decisions.
Q. Who from Davis Polk was on the convertible debt offering team?
A. The only one I know specifically remember being on it was Alan Dean. I understand that Heather Stack was involved. But to be honest, I don't recall her involvement at this point.
Q. How about Nicole Duncan? Do you recall her involvement?
A. I don't recall.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01-1034

Lurie

Q. Do you know who she is?
A. I don't even remember the name. I apologize.
Q. Do you remember the name Heather Stack?
A. I remember the name Heather Stack. I know Heather Stack. I've had dealings with Heather Stack since she's been at Goldman.
Q. Have you spoken with her about this deposition?
A. No.
Q. Have you spoken with her about Sunbeam at all?
A. No.
Q. Alan Dean was the head of the convertible team; is that correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And did you have an understanding of Morgan Stanley's responsibilities in connection with the convertible debt offering?
A. If you simply mean were they the lead underwriter, the sole underwriter, yes. I don't know quite what you mean by an understanding of their responsibilities.

Lurie

Q. As lead or sole underwriter, what were they supposed to do in order to make the convertible debt offering happen?
A. They were going to market. We were going to do the necessary due diligence with them, prepare an offering memo. They would then potentially do a road show, market the security, sell it, close it.
Q. And Davis Polk was to provide legal advice along the way --
A. Yes.
Q. -- is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Did -- and this is a yes-or-no question.
Did Davis Polk comment on the scope of the due diligence that would be appropriate in connection with this transaction?
A. I don't -- when you say "comment on the scope," we did due diligence.
Q. Davis Polk did due diligence?
A. Davis Polk did due diligence.
Q. And, again, yes or no: Did you advise Morgan Stanley as to what due diligence they should conduct?

Lurie

A. I do not recall now six years later what specific advice on this transaction we might have given to anyone at Morgan Stanley.
Q. In your prior dealings with Morgan Stanley, was it customary for you to comment on or provide advice in connection with what due diligence would be performed?
A. Generally, you would discuss with the people from the underwriters, whether it was Morgan Stanley or another underwriter, the scope, the level, who would do what, who would be involved.
Q. But you don't have a recollection of that happening in this transaction?
A. No specific recollection, though, again, it -- since it's general practice to talk to them about that.
Q. So you assume that you did, but you just don't remember?
A. Correct.
Q. And who was your primary contact, if you had one, at Morgan Stanley in this transaction?

Lurie

A. Simply because I remember the name, it would be -- John Tyree would be the name that I remember the best out of the transaction. So I'm assuming my recollection is that he was sort of the lead corporate finance guy from Morgan Stanley. So my dealings would have been often with him.
Q. Did you -- as you sit here, can you give me the names of any other Morgan Stanley personnel who you dealt with?
A. Who I dealt with? I mean, the only other name that comes to mind, as you mentioned a second ago, was Ruth Porat. But I don't remember any specific dealings that I individually just had with Ruth on the transaction. You mentioned a bunch of other names a few minutes ago. And several of them, the names rang a bell, but a lot of them didn't. And I don't remember any specific dealings with any of them.
Q. Your answer now, you just said -- you gave a qualification, any individual dealings with --
A. Right.
Q. -- Let's put aside a one-on-one type

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

dealing.

What kind of meetings or telephone conferences did you have -- strike that.

Give me the names of Morgan Stanley personnel with whom you had telephone conferences or other meetings.

A. I do not recall today who was at any specific due diligence meetings, organizational meetings or conference calls from Morgan Stanley. The only call I do recall was one on the night of, I believe, March 18th. And Ruth -- at least Ruth Porat I know was on the phone.

Q. Did you have any dealings with Shani Boone?

A. Would you repeat that name.

Q. Shani Boone?

A. The name doesn't even ring a bell.

Q. Jean Ewe (phonetic)?

A. The name doesn't ring a bell.

Q. Lily Rafii?

A. No.

Q. You mentioned one of Morgan Stanley's responsibilities was to prepare an offering memorandum for the convertible offering?

Lurie

A. Correct.

Q. Did Morgan Stanley have any responsibility to determine that the offering memorandum was fair and accurate?

A. Under the '33 Act, they have a due diligence obligation, yes.

Q. And what did you understand that to be?

A. To undertake a reasonable investigation.

Q. A reasonable investigation into what?

A. The affairs of the company.

Q. In order to determine that the offering memorandum is fair and accurate?

A. That's a fair way to put it.

Q. To your knowledge, was there anything secret or confidential about the fact that Morgan Stanley was contemplating a convertible debt offering?

Let me give you a better question.

To your knowledge, was there anything secret or confidential about the fact that Sunbeam was contemplating a convertible debt offering?

Lurie

A. I don't recall today anything being secret or confidential.

Q. And at some point, they would obviously try to sell it?

A. Yes. Other than it was a 144A offering. So you can't do a general solicitation. So there were those Security Act obligations.

Q. When you first began working on the Sunbeam transaction, did you gain any understanding of Morgan Stanley's existing relationship with Sunbeam?

A. I don't recall those -- any discussions along those lines. I have no specific knowledge at this point. I may have at an earlier date, but certainly not now.

Q. Did you understand that Morgan Stanley had been Sunbeam's representative in connection with the acquisitions that were to be financed?

A. I recall that they were financial advisor to Sunbeam.

Q. And when I refer to the acquisitions --

Lurie

A. There were three.

Q. And those were?

A. Coleman, Signature Brands and --

Q. -- First Alert?

A. First Alert. Thank you.

Q. Did you gain any understanding about how long Morgan Stanley had been working with Sunbeam?

A. Today, I don't recall that specific discussions or understanding. Again, I may have known something back then about how long the relationships were, but I do not recall anything today.

Q. Would the length of the relationship between Morgan Stanley and Sunbeam be significant to you in connection with your work on the convertible offering?

A. Not necessarily. It all depends. That's one fact that may be relevant, given a whole bunch of other facts in any individual situation and depending upon what you're doing. But that one fact would not today raise an issue in my mind, and I do not think it would have raised an issue in my mind.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

Q. Well, would you take any comfort in the fact that Morgan Stanley was familiar with the company's operations having worked with it in the M&A context?

A. I might have. I don't know again what I thought back then.

Q. Did you have any understanding as to how Morgan Stanley was to be compensated in connection with the convertible debt offering?

A. I do not recall anything specific today. Normally -- and you can confirm -- there would be an underwriting fee that they would receive in a 144A offering. That would be standard. And I -- without having gone back and looked, that is what I'm assuming they received here.

Q. That fee would be contingent upon closing the convertible offering?

A. Generally, it would be.

Q. Did you have any understanding as to how Morgan Stanley was compensated in connection with the M&A work it did for Sunbeam?

A. Again, today I don't have any recollection. Normally, they would have received a financial advisory fee. That would be a standard market practice.

Lurie

Q. And that would be contingent upon closing?

A. Again, it depends. And I don't recall how it might have been structured here.

Q. Do you think you had some knowledge about the fee arrangement six years ago?

A. I probably back then would have, but today I don't recall. It might have been described in the offering memo.

Q. Did you understand that Morgan Stanley had attempted to sell Sunbeam to a third party in connection with its M&A work?

A. I do not today recall that being discussed. It may have been. But it's six years later. I don't remember what the background to the offering at this point was.

Q. Would Morgan Stanley's fee arrangements inform in any way the due diligence that Davis Polk performed?

A. No.

Q. Would the fact that Morgan Stanley had unsuccessfully tried to sell Sunbeam inform what due diligence might be appropriate for the convertible offering?

Lurie

A. I don't believe it would have. We were doing a convertible offering.

Q. Did you, when you initially began working on the Sunbeam transaction, know who Al Dunlap was?

A. I knew the name.

Q. How did you know the name?

A. His name was well known.

Q. He had a reputation at the time?

A. I believe he still had the reputation back then, yes.

Q. What's the reputation?

A. Well, he had some nicknames, "Chain Saw Al."

Q. Do you know what the basis of that nickname was?

A. I believe it was he came into some other companies and fired a lot of people very quickly, very rapidly, very harshly, cut expenses very quickly. A chain saw.

Q. So he was known as a turnaround specialist?

Lurie

A. I think that's correct, yes.

Q. When you began working on the Sunbeam convertible offering, did you investigate Mr. Dunlap's background in any way?

A. I do not recall doing any investigation. We -- it may have -- I just -- but six years later, I just don't recall what we may have looked into his background or if anybody else did.

Q. But do you think that would be an appropriate due diligence step?

A. Under certain aspects, certain transactions, yes. If there are questions, you might look into whether at the time we thought there was an issue we should look into. I just do not recall at this point.

Q. What do you mean, "if there are questions"?

A. I'm not focusing specifically on the Sunbeam transaction. But if there are in general reasons that give rise to questionable practices in the past, it often might be an appropriate due diligence investigation to check into the history of a senior officer.

Q. So if there were questions about the --

A. Again, I don't recall us ever having that concern -- I don't recall today having that concern that we would have done that.

Q. You may have; you just don't recall?

A. I do not recall doing anything.

Q. If there were questions about the authenticity of Mr. Dunlap's turnaround at other companies, would you look into those questions?

A. I would have investigated -- I think we might have investigated if there were questions. I do not recall there ever having been any questions.

Q. How would you determine if there were questions?

A. At this point, I have no recollection. I have no idea how I might necessarily determine that. If there was another company, and there were issues, you may have read something in the newspaper. There are a lot of possible ways.

Q. Business Week, something like that?

A. Possibly.

Page 35

Lurie

Q. Did you gain an understanding about the structure of the acquisitions? And by that I mean, how it was as a legal matter Sunbeam was going to acquire the three companies.

A. We would have at the time, because it would have had to have been described in the offering circular.

Q. And would you look at the source documents of the description and the offering memorandum?

A. We would have looked at the acquisition agreements, if that's what you mean by the "source documents."

Q. Merger agreement?

A. Merger agreement, whatever. If it were a merger, it could have been a cash purchase of stock. I just don't remember what the agreements were.

Q. Were you involved in the public announcement of the acquisitions?

A. Not -- Jim Lurie -- when you say "you," you mean Jim Lurie?

Q. We'll start there.

A. Yeah. I do not recall being involved in the public announcements.

Page 36

Lurie

Q. Do you, Jim Lurie, recall being involved before the acquisitions were publicly announced?

A. I don't recall when the acquisitions were publicly announced. So I can't answer when, whether it was before or after.

Q. I'll tell you it's March 2, 1998.

A. March 2nd is when the three acquisitions were publicly announced, right.

Q. Does that help you recall whether you were involved before or after the announcement?

A. Only through having seen Mr. Wise's letter saying the process started before that.

Q. So the chronology you're referring to, does that help you recall that you probably were involved prior to the public announcement?

A. It indicates. I do not recall when I started.

Q. Did you understand that Hill & Knowlton was helping with the publicity surrounding the acquisitions?

A. I have no recollection today of that.

Q. You may have known it then?

Page 37

Lurie

A. I may have known it then, but it's six years. I don't remember who else was involved.

Q. Have you worked with Hill and Knowlton in the public announcement of transactions in the past?

A. From time to time, yes.

Q. You don't recall doing it here?

A. Not in this deal, no.

Q. And, again, this is a question you're going to hear a lot today: Does that mean it didn't happen or that it may have happened; you just don't remember?

A. That Hill and Knowlton was involved? I do not recall. Did I have any contact with Hill and Knowlton? I do not recall.

Q. Let me see if I can show you some documents that would help you recall. This has been marked previously as Exhibit 140.

MR. JOHNSON: For the record, Exhibit 140 is marked CPH 0483399 through '407.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Mr. Lurie, does this document look familiar to you at all?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

070038

Lurie

A. No, it does not.
Q. Does this look like a script that Davis Polk may have prepared?
A. That's too speculative. I mean, a script that Davis Polk may have prepared? It's a script that anyone could have prepared.
Q. So you have no recollection of who prepared this?
A. None whatsoever. I don't even recall this document.
Q. Did you or anyone at Davis Polk have any discussions with Morgan Stanley or anyone else concerning what statements should or should not be made at the public announcement of the acquisitions?
A. I do not recall any specific discussions, any general discussions regarding those matters six years -- today. I just don't recall anything specific.
Q. And so you don't know whether those discussions occurred or not?
A. I do not recall whether they occurred or not.
Q. Is that different from my question?

Lurie

A. I don't recall. Something may have happened. I may have known something closer to 1998 or remembered something in '98, '99, 2000 that I just don't know today. So I'm using the word, I don't recall those discussions.
Q. Well, let give you something a little more specific.
Do you recall any discussions in your first days on the Sunbeam transaction concerning Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 performance?
A. I again don't recall any specific discussions relating to first quarter or year numbers estimates at that point in time or later on. We generally would have had those kind of discussions, though that would be part of the normal due diligence investigation in any offering.
Q. So while you don't recall those discussions today, you believe that you would have had those discussions in this transaction?
A. I believe that is correct.
Q. Would that be an ongoing discussion or subject of inquiry during the course of the transaction?

Lurie

A. Yes.
Q. So you would expect to ask about the first quarter as one of your first questions on the transaction?
A. I would expect to ask about it many times to get updates during the course of it. I wouldn't necessarily say it's one of the first questions.
Q. Early and often?
A. Early and often is fair.
Q. And did Sunbeam give you answers to those questions?
A. I presume they gave us answers to whatever questions we would ask -- we would have asked.
Q. Was it your custom to ask specific questions about what the numbers were or more general trends or both?
A. Both. As a general matter, it would be both.
Q. And in the specific context of this transaction, do you have any reason to believe that you didn't ask both specific numbers and trends?

Lurie

A. I believe we would have asked both.
Q. Did you make any trips to Florida?
A. I don't recall making. I may have. I just don't recall where the due diligence -- where the organizational meeting was, which often might have been at the issuer in Florida.
Q. It was still late winter in New York, and you don't remember a trip to South Florida?
A. Not now, not six years later.
Q. So, again, that may have happened; you just don't remember?
A. It might happened. I do not recall today where those meetings took place.
Q. But you did have organizational meetings early in the assignment?
A. Organizational meeting, yes, would have been the first thing in the assignment. And then there would have been other meetings throughout the process.
Q. And the organizational meeting would be among Davis Polk, Morgan Stanley, Sunbeam and Skadden Arps. Is that --
A. Correct. And their accountants.
Q. So Arthur Andersen would be at the

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01703

Lurie

organizational meeting?
A. Again, I do not recall who was at an organizational meeting. It would be very common to have the accountants in any transaction at an organizational meeting.
Q. So, again, Andersen may have been there; they may not. You just don't remember?
A. That's correct.
Q. While we're on the organizational meeting, I want to show you a document. This has been marked previously as CPH 207.
Mr. Lurie, if you can just flip through that, and then I'm going to ask you a handful of specific questions.
A. Sure. Okay.
Q. Does this appear to be the organizational materials relating to the Sunbeam transaction?
A. It looks like an organizational meeting's document that Morgan Stanley would have prepared. Whether this is the one we had at the meeting, I don't recall.
Q. Would Davis Polk have been involved in commenting on these materials before they were circulated?

Lurie

A. It varies from transaction to transaction. Sometimes we would have been asked to review it, give comments. Sometimes we just got them.
Q. And in this transaction --
A. I do not -- I do not recall what involvement we had, if any, in the preparation of this (indicating).
Q. I want to call your attention to the last page of this document first.
A. The initial information requirement page?
Q. Exactly. And there's a text box which I will read for the record. It states: "To prepare a 144A offering memorandum and senior credit facility's information memorandum on an accelerated basis, the following information must be supplied within the first two weeks of drafting."
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Was the Sunbeam transaction one that was occurring on an accelerated basis?

Lurie

A. I don't recall if it was -- if it was accelerated or if it was considered an accelerated basis at this point. I mean, I see the language, but I don't have any recollection.
Q. Do you have any basis to disagree with the language and the text that we just looked at?
A. I don't have any reason to disagree. I don't have any reason to agree.
Q. Let me put it more generally -- well, let me strike that. If you look at the calendar at Pages -- it's Pages 9 and 10 of the original numbering.
A. Uh-huh.
Q. This suggests that closing would occur on the convertible transaction 24 days after the organizational meeting?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. Does that strike you as an accelerated schedule?
A. I've done deals faster. I've done deals slower. I've done deals about the same time frame. I would not necessarily consider that fast, slow; just the time frame we got it done in.

Q. So you didn't, as a result of that time frame, view this as an accelerated transaction?
A. Not today. To my recollection, I don't. I didn't then. I don't know what I thought then.
Q. If you could look at Page 3 of the original numbering. And for the record, that's Bates Page CPH 0471617.
Do you see there are two columns there?
A. Yeah.
Q. One for the convertible and one for the senior credit?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have any responsibility for the senior credit facilities?
A. I don't believe so, but I don't recall. Responsibility in drafting, no. That would have been handled by other people. To the extent it needed to be described in the offering memo, I probably was looking at other documents.
Q. Were other Davis Polk lawyers, to 0471704

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

your knowledge, working on that side of the deal?
A. I believe they were, yes.
Q. Do you know within Morgan Stanley whether a different group of Morgan Stanley personnel were working on the senior credit facilities?
A. I don't specifically today recall if there was. Generally, it would have been a different group.
Q. Would you expect any interface, so to speak, between the different teams at Davis Polk or at Morgan Stanley?
A. Interface amongst the Davis Polk teams and amongst the Morgan Stanley teams or cross --
Q. The first.
A. Yes. I can't speak for Morgan Stanley, but I think there would be interface between the offering side at Davis Polk and the debt -- the credit facility side. We had to work together to -- so they would have to give me description of documents or review the description in an offering memo of the credit facilities, or I would have potentially drafted it. I don't recall what I did. And they would have reviewed it.

Lurie

Q. But you can't speak to what Morgan Stanley did as far as interaction between the senior credit and the debt --
A. I can't speak to what they did. Generally, in a deal, any deal, there would have been interaction between the underwriting providing part of the bank and the credit facility provider part of the bank.
Q. Why do you say that?
A. Practice.
Q. Just experience?
A. Experience and practice.
Q. If you could look under the zero coupon convertible column again on Page 3 of Exhibit CPH 207. There's an Item D that states, "next quarterly earnings announcement."
What does that refer to?
A. The next announcement that the company would make regarding quarterly earnings.
Q. Okay. And as I read this list of Items A through J, that is arranged in roughly chronological order of events; is that correct?

Lurie

A. A through J?
Q. Correct.
A. Yeah. That's pretty close, yes.
Q. So it was contemplated, at least as of March 3, 1998, that Sunbeam would make a quarterly earnings announcement during the process of writing the convertible?
A. It looks like that way.
Q. Do you know whether that earnings announcement occurred?
A. Well, there was -- my recollection is there was an announcement. It was pre the end of the quarter. I believe they were a March 30 or a March 28th, 29, whatever the last Friday of March was. So their quarterly earnings announcement normally would have been after that.
Q. When you say you recall something before the end of the quarter --
A. Yes.
Q. -- what are you referring to?
A. The press release that went out the 18th or 19th of March regarding expectations, estimates, forecasts for the quarter.
Q. That press release did not refer to earnings in any way, did it?

Lurie

A. I don't believe -- I don't recall. But I don't believe it did. I'd have to look at it to remember exactly what it covered.
Q. So that certainly is not the quarterly earnings announcement referenced by Item D on Page 3?
A. Probably not. This was probably talking about a later postquarter announcement.
Q. So at least as of March 3, it was contemplated there would be a quarterly earnings announcement before the close of the convertible?
A. It looks that way, yeah. I mean, to be fair, you can look at this, and they could just have been asking the question, When would be the next earnings quarterly announcement? And someone might have said, depending when we close, it could be before or after. I mean, it's in here on the list. But they might have just wanted to know when the next announcement was to be able to take it into consideration.
Q. Didn't you tell me, though, that Items A through J are in roughly chronological order?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 50

Lurie

A. They are. But it doesn't necessarily mean to me, just looking at it -- yes, you can look and see there might have been. But whether that would have been before rating agency presentations and before sales force presentations -- I wouldn't necessarily say just because D is there that that means that would be chronologically before that. It may have been simply that this would occur.

Q. Although you mentioned the rating agency presentation as an example.

Do you see the parenthetical after that?

A. It says, "none?"

Q. Exactly. I don't see any question concerning whether Item D would occur.

Do you recall any question about that issue?

A. I don't recall specifically discussing the issue.

Q. Now, under the title on the same Page 3 of Exhibit 207, there is a section called "Composition of Working Group."

Do you see that?

Page 51

Lurie

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Item C in the left column, the initial purchaser is Morgan Stanley?

A. Correct.

Q. And D, initial purchaser's counsel, that's Davis Polk?

A. Correct.

Q. If you would flip back to the calendar that we looked at briefly, which is on Page 9 continuing on to 10 of Exhibit 207. The timetable entry for March 5th provides "business due diligence, including projections."

Do you see that?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. And Davis Polk is listed among those having responsibility?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. For that item?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And Morgan Stanley is as well?

A. Yes.

MR. WISE: So is Skadden --

A. And so is Skadden.

MR. WISE: I mean, we can all read

Page 52

Lurie

this document.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Sure. Sure. Why was --

A. I mean, you also used the word "responsibility." And I know the word "responsibility" is there. This probably just means who would be attending the business due diligence, not necessarily who had responsibility for preparing projections.

Q. Well, let's focus on that.

Did Morgan Stanley have any responsibility for business due diligence on Sunbeam's projections?

A. Yes.

Q. And did Davis Polk?

A. Yes.

Q. Why is due diligence performed on projections?

A. Well, due diligence is performed on a lot of different things. And you sit and you ask questions. You understand the assumptions used. You try to get a feeling for the basis upon which the projections are prepared.

Q. And the reason you do those things?

Page 53

Lurie

A. As part of your due diligence for your offering.

Q. And that is, with respect to projections in particular, to determine that the projections are well-grounded, in fact?

A. That they're fair, reasonable projections.

Q. What specifically did Morgan Stanley do in terms of due diligence on projections?

A. I have today, six years later, no recollection to date of any discussion regarding the projections, what we might have done, who we might have spoken to.

Q. Do you remember anybody from Sunbeam who worked with Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk on due diligence?

A. No one specific. There were people from Sunbeam, obviously, involved.

Q. Do you remember Al Dunlap?

A. I do not recall ever speaking to or meeting or being in a meeting with Mr. Dunlap on the phone or at present.

Q. How about Russ Kersh?

A. The name rings a bell. I assume --

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017012

Lurie

and he was on a number of meetings and phone calls. But I could not today tell you which ones.

Q. He was the CFO of the company?

A. I believe so.

Q. You would expect to have multiple conversations with the CFO of the company?

A. Absolutely.

Q. How about Bob Gluck, the controller?

A. The name doesn't ring a bell. But, again, it would be very normal to have the controller involved throughout the process.

Q. Do those names trigger the memory of any other names from Sunbeam?

A. I want to say Hennesy, but I can't recall. I may be confusing deals at this point.

Q. Did you deal with Janet Kelly?

A. The name does not ring a bell.

Q. David Fanin?

A. That names rings a bell. He would have been involved. I don't recall what his tile was. But it's a name that came up and, I think, would have been involved.

Q. I'll tell you, he was the general counsel of the company.

Lurie

A. Okay.

Q. And, again, you would expect multiple conversations with the general counsel of the issuer?

A. I would have expected he would have been involved in a variety of different aspects of the transaction.

Q. Can you recall any communications that, in fact, occurred with Mr. Fanin?

A. Not today.

Q. How about Don Uzzi? Do you remember that name?

A. That name does ring a bell.

Q. Do you remember who Mr. Uzzi was?

A. Fairly senior -- the name rings a bell. He was a fairly senior -- I don't know -- marketing guy, maybe, or something.

Q. He was the VP of sales.

Does that help you remember whether you had any conversations with him --

A. He would have certainly been involved throughout the process on the due diligence process.

Lurie

Q. You mentioned that Mr. Uzzi was a senior executive.

Is it fair to say that Morgan Stanley talked to personnel other than senior executives?

A. They generally would talk to a variety of different people.

Q. Do you know whether Morgan Stanley did so in this transaction?

A. I have no -- have recollection today of who they would have spoken to back then.

Q. So as you sit here, you have no basis to -- strike that.

As you sit here, you have no basis to believe that Morgan Stanley did not talk to low-level employees of the company?

A. Could you repeat that? There were a couple of double-negatives there. So I have no recollection today whether they spoke to or did not speak to junior people. Or you used "lower-level employees."

Q. But you would expect those conversations to occur as part of due diligence?

A. Well, in part. It sort of means -- what do you mean by lower level and junior level employees? I mean, they would not necessarily have spoken to someone in a factory.

Lurie

Q. But they wouldn't limit their communications to senior management?

A. There would have been communications to a variety of people.

Q. But, again, you don't know any specifics?

A. Correct. I don't recall anything specific.

Q. Going back again to Page 9 of Exhibit 207. The entry on March 9th includes an item indicating that Davis Polk would receive drafts of auditors' comfort letters.

Do you see that?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Did you, in fact, receive drafts of the auditors' comfort letters?

A. I would have certainly during the course received one or more drafts. Whether I received one on May -- excuse me -- March 9, I could not tell you. But I would have received drafts and reviewed drafts during the course.

Q. This timetable here on Page 9 and 10

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0 1 7 0 4 3

Lurie

provides that you would receive drafts exactly two weeks before the pricing of the convertible transaction.

Do you see that?

A. I see the 9th. And the pricing two weeks is 23.

Q. So is that two weeks time frame customary as far as when you would start receiving drafts of the comfort letter?

A. Customary is a very broad term. I've received them three months in advance. I've received them 48 hours in advance. I've received them two weeks in advance on various deals.

Q. Is there any reason why you would expect to receive a draft two weeks in advance of a closing?

A. That's just when it was on here. I have no reason -- no recollection of why they picked that date for the first draft, even if it was received that date.

Q. You say that sometimes you receive a draft as late 48 hours before a pricing?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Is that the shortest time period

Lurie

you've ever had on a draft?

A. Yeah. Maybe I may have had one the day before pricing. Different kind of deals, you get different kind of things.

Q. How about this convertible offering? Is that -- does that inform how soon --

A. Two weeks doesn't say a lot to me. I mean, it doesn't mean anything that I got it two weeks. If I had gotten it in the week before, we would have still gone through the same process.

Q. So the nature of the transaction doesn't give you an idea of how far in advance of pricing you would get a draft?

A. No.

Q. I note here that the responsibility for receiving drafts of the auditors' comfort letter rests with Andersen, Davis Polk and Skadden.

Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you share drafts, if you received them, with Morgan Stanley?

A. Would I?

Q. If you received drafts of the comfort letter, would you share that with Morgan Stanley?

Lurie

A. I would have sent them a copy. That would be my practice.

Q. And you have no reason to believe that you deviated from your practice in the context of the Sunbeam transaction?

A. Correct. Again -- but I don't recall having sent it to them. But that would have been my practice.

Q. Did Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley provide any content or revisions to the offering memorandum?

A. We would have clearly reviewed the offering memorandum. We would have given components on the offering memorandum. We would potentially have provided suggested revisions, riders. We would have received comments and looked at comments from Skadden, from the company, from the accountants, from whoever else might have been involved.

There was probably descriptions of the three companies being acquired. We might have received comments from those management -- the management of those companies on their sections.

Q. But Skadden or Sunbeam was the keeper, so to speak, of the offering memorandum?

A. I believe Skadden was sort of. It was their master.

Q. But you had opportunity to comment on the offering memorandum?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall, as you sit here, any of the revisions or suggestions you had on the offering memorandum?

A. I couldn't tell you six years later what my comments were.

Q. Let's see if I can refresh your memory a little bit.

MR. JOHNSON: We're going to mark this as CPH Exhibit 230.

(CPH Exhibit 230, 3/10/98 memo re: Draft Customer Concentration Risk Factor, Bates-stamped CPH 0635890 through CPH 0635891, marked for identification, as of this date.)

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Mr. Lurie, we've given you what we've marked CPH Exhibit 230, which, for the record, has the Bates stamp CPH 0635890 through '891. I'd ask you just to review that for me.

Page 62

Lurie

A. Okay.

Q. Does this Exhibit 230 refresh your memory about a proposed revision that you had on the offering memorandum?

A. Other than it's got my name (indicating), it seems to -- appears to be something that I would have sent out. I have no recollection of this memo or specifically drafting this proposed rider insert.

Q. And this is a customer concentration risk factor insert?

A. That's what it says.

Q. Do you have any recollection as to why you would propose this revision?

A. In this specific transaction, Sunbeam's transaction, I have no recollection of how this came up or why we decided to put this in. I will tell you, generally risk factors or paragraphs like that are very common in public offerings, in 144A offering memos.

Q. Did you view -- based on your investigation of Sunbeam, did you view customer concentration as a genuine risk with Sunbeam?

Page 63

Lurie

A. I can't tell you today what my thoughts were about risks back then. I have no specific recollection regarding what the thinking was or why we would have proposed this.

Q. Had you in your practice had experience with customer concentration problems?

A. Yes.

Q. And can you recall a specific example of that?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was the issuer in that transaction?

A. MiniScribe.

Q. Why are you laughing?

A. It's a long story.

Q. In the MiniScribe transaction, did you represent Morgan Stanley?

A. Yes. I believe it was, actually.

Q. Was that a public offering?

A. It was an IPO.

Q. And MiniScribe, did they go bankrupt after their IPO?

Page 64

Lurie

A. They went bankrupt. It was after their IPO. It was after at least one other, possibly two other offerings after their IPO. But they did, I believe, ultimately go bankrupt.

Q. Did Morgan Stanley get sued in connection with their IPOs?

A. I believe they did get sued --

MR. WISE: Not in connection with the IPO.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Do you recall, based on Mr. Wise's testimony --

A. I recall they got sued. I do not -- I believe from what Bob said, it would not have been in connection with the IPO.

Q. Other than what Bob said, do you have any basis for believing it was not in connection with the IPO --

A. I have no recollection. That was literally 1981 or '82, '83, maybe.

Q. If you look at the last sentence of your proposed revision in Exhibit 230. And if you would be good enough to read that for the record, I'd appreciate that.

Page 65

Lurie

A. The last sentence?

Q. Yes.

A. "If any of these customers or any of the company's other significant customers were to substantially reduce their orders or cease buying from the company, such an occurrence would have a material adverse effect on the company's business should the company be unable to replace that business with other customers."

Q. Was there any discussion about that sentence in particular in connection with your circulation of this proposed revision?

A. Today, I don't recall -- again, I don't recall drafting this (indicating). I don't recall any specific discussions on this sentence (indicating) or any other sentence. I don't recall if this was actually drafted by me or someone else, that I reviewed that and we just attached to a memo that appears to be under my signature, that I would have sent out.

Q. Do you have any reason to believe that last sentence that you just read for the record there was not an accurate statement?

A. It was not an accurate statement?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01705

Lurie

Q. Correct.
A. It seems that that would be the normal conclusion. "You might have in this kind of risk factor" is the way I phrased it.
Q. I'll represent to you that sentence does not appear in the offering memorandum.
A. Okay.
Q. Do you have any idea why that is?
A. I have no recollection regarding any discussions about putting this in or why that might have been deleted.
Q. I'll also represent to you -- and this is just to save time. If you want to see the offering memorandum, I'm happy to show it to you.
A. Okay. No.
Q. The title of the risk factor as it appears in the offering memorandum is "no long term contracts" as opposed to what you have here --
A. -- "customer concentrations."
Q. Do you have any idea why that change was made?
A. This is six years later. I don't recall. That to me is no big deal to change the heading.

Lurie

Q. When there is customer concentration, is it appropriate to diligence the customers to determine what their plans are?
MR. CLARE: Objection to form; incomplete; hypothetical.
You can answer.
A. Can you now repeat the question.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Sure.
When there is a risk associated with customer concentration, is it appropriate to diligence the customers?
A. It would generally be the case that there would be calls with major customers. If there's specific concentrations in any transaction with any issuer, you would obviously want to call the top ones.
Now, there is concentration here -- I don't know if these are the right numbers. But ten customers accounting for 35 percent, according to this draft, it would be normal to call -- for the underwriter, possibly the underwriter's counsel, to be on the phone, to call customers. It would be also customary probably to call suppliers.

Q. To determine what inventory they have on hand and what their buying expectations are?
A. Generally. Or to find out what the relationship is, how the relationship is going, what do they think of the company.
Q. And did that happen in connection with the Sunbeam transaction?
A. I today, 2004, don't have any recollection of what -- who or what calls may have occurred and who would have made them and who would have been on them.
Q. Do you have any reason to believe those calls didn't occur?
A. I have no reason to believe they did not occur, no reason at this point to recollect whether they did occur.
Q. If you look at the first page of Exhibit 230 --
A. Which is this, this one (indicating)?
Q. Correct.

Lurie

A. Okay.
Q. The memorandum is addressed to Janet Kelly, who we've already mentioned today?
A. It still doesn't ring a bell who it is.
Q. In case you're curious --
A. Who is it?
Q. She was an assistant general counsel at Sunbeam at the time.
A. Okay.
Q. Do you know who Greg Fernicola is?
A. He was the partner at Skadden.
Q. And Todd Freed?
A. He was an associate at Skadden.
Q. Having looked at that proposed revision, do you recall any other revisions that Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley proposed to the offering memorandum?
A. No.
Q. I'm going to give you what we marked previously as CPH Exhibit 11 (handing).
A. Do you want me to read each of these?
Q. That won't be necessary. I'm going to ask you about just the first rider --

A. Rider 1?
Q. Correct.
A. "Certain" something.
Q. "Certain refinements."
A. Okay.
Q. Having looked at Rider 1 and the cover memo contained in CPH Exhibit 11, does that refresh your memory as to revisions proposed by John Tyree to the offering memorandum?
A. Other than this says it's a memo from him to a variety of people, I have no recollection of him proposing this. But I see what it says.
Q. Rider 1 is directed to the successful restructuring of Sunbeam; is that correct?
A. That's correct.
Q. And is it the case that Morgan Stanley would need to satisfy itself that the company had, in fact, been successfully restructured?
A. They would have looked into the restructuring and what transpired and what the results appear to be, yes.

Page 71

Lurie

Q. And this memo that we're looking at, CPH Exhibit 11, is dated March 9, 1998?
A. Correct.
Q. Do you know how long Mr. Tyree had been working on this transaction as of March 9?
A. I have absolutely no idea.
Q. Do you know what Mr. Tyree had done to satisfy himself as to the validity of the turnaround by March 9?
A. I have no recollection today what anyone did relating to this paragraph.
Q. Is it fair to say that the restructuring of Sunbeam was an important part of the story for the street concerning Sunbeam?
A. I'm going to assume today that it might have been. But I have no recollection today what the thinking behind putting together the offering circular was back in 1998.
This kind of disclosure would be disclosure you would normally see. They're SEC requirements actually to put in restructuring information.
Q. The last paragraph of Rider 1 indicates percentages of --

Page 72

Lurie

A. Okay.
Q. If you can read it to yourself, and then I'm going to have a few questions.
A. The last paragraph?
Q. Correct. Beginning the restructuring resulted.
Do you see that?
A. Zero point 2 percent. Okay. What's the word after --
Q. Operation -- excuse me. Operating margins reaching 20 percent?
A. Okay.
Q. And I apologize for the copy.
A. Don't worry.
Q. Did Morgan Stanley have any responsibility to determine the sustainability of this growth rate or the operating margins?
A. They had a due diligence obligation to review. They had a due diligence obligation to consider trends. They had a due diligence obligation generally with respect to the transaction.
I don't want to put words in anyone's mouth about specific obligations, but they would have certainly -- I mean, this information could have been in the company's 10(k) for all I know. And he could have just taken it out of that.

Page 73

Lurie

Q. Other than taking it out of the 10(k), would there be any other --
A. You would have still due-diligenced it, but --
Q. And to determine its sustainability?
A. To look into sustainability, to look into a whole variety of things. Would it grow? Would it stay the same? Would it decrease a little bit?
Q. And as you sit here today, you have no reason to believe that Mr. Tyree did not undertake that due diligence?
A. I have no reason to believe he did not do that due diligence. But I don't recall what due diligence he or I or anyone else did on this -- on this paragraph -- paragraphs.
Q. So you assume that he did it, but you don't know what he did?
A. I assume something might have occurred, but I don't know if it did occur.
Q. Now, you participated on an accounting due diligence call in this transaction; is that correct?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01704

A. I assume I did.

Q. Why do you assume?

A. Because I don't have any recollections from today what I did in 1998.

Q. But in that time frame --

A. It would have been normal. And I assume I did participate in one or more calls with the accountants.

Q. When you say "one or more," is it typical, is it customary to have more than one phone call?

A. Oh, God, yeah. It's more than just calls. There could have been drafting sessions. You could have been discussing MD&A and financials with them. You could have called them on those things. You could have questions. You could get phone calls to discuss comfort letters, to give comments on comfort letters, to ask for additions to comfort letters. There's a myriad of reasons to be talking with accountants.

Q. So it's customary to be in frequent communications with the accountants?

Page 75

Lurie

A. Yes.

Q. We're going to deal with some of this stuff in more detail, but I want to see what you can specifically remember as to your dealings with the accountants in this case. We talked about the accountant due diligence call. And your testimony is you assume you participated in at least one call, but you don't remember; is that correct?

A. That's right.

Q. What other interactions did you have with Sunbeam's accountants in connection with this transaction?

A. As I said just a minute ago, it could have been a whole myriad of them.

Q. I don't want to interrupt. Let's put the could-have-beens aside for a second.

Do you remember any other meetings with any other accountants?

A. I remember the accountants. I don't remember who being at the printers the night we printed. I recall generic -- I recall speaking to them. I couldn't tell you which ones I spoke to. I couldn't tell you today what the substance of the conversations were. It could have been -- it would have been on a variety of different issues relating to the offering.

Lurie

Q. We've already mentioned that Arthur Andersen was the auditor of Sunbeam.

Do you recall that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember the names of any of the auditors from Andersen?

A. Other than I was reminded the names yesterday, I'm not even sure I remember today what their names were, but I remember there were three -- there were two people principally -- they were managers, I believe their title was -- and there was a partner.

Q. So you had dealings with three folks from Andersen?

A. Probably all three, yeah.

Q. Did you learn at any point prior to the closing of the convertible offering that Sunbeam had bill-and-hold sales?

A. That rings a bell. But I don't remember specifically what was going on at that point in time.

Page 77

Lurie

Q. Are you familiar with the term "bill-and-hold sales"?

A. Yeah.

Q. And so your testimony is you may have been aware of bill-and-hold sales, but you don't remember?

A. That's correct.

Q. Do bill-and-hold sales have any negative connotation with you?

A. Well, you want to understand what they are, why -- who the parties are, why they're set up that way. The accountants would usually have some issues relating to those.

Q. Is there a concern with channel stuffing when you hear about bill-and-hold sales?

A. It raises a question about channel stuffing.

Q. As you sit here today, can you tell me anything that Davis Polk did or Morgan Stanley did to determine whether Sunbeam had engaged in channel stuffing?

A. I don't recall any specific discussions or investigations from 1998 that we would have done regarding channel stuffing, bill-and-hold sales, customer concentrations.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 78

Q. Did you in March 1998 gain any sense as to whether Sunbeam was aggressive in its accounting practices?
A. I don't recall what my thinking was back then. We would have asked questions of the accountants. As a general practice, you would ask questions of the accountants regarding the accounting policies, procedures that are used by an issuer, whether Sunbeam or any other. You often ask the accountants whether, in their mind, they consider it conservative or nonconservative, whether they had suggested any alternative accounting practices, GAP requirements that the company -- alternatives that the company could be doing.
Q. And why does the underwriter ask those questions?
A. It's part of their due diligence investigation. And when you say "the underwriter," it could have been equally me.
Q. And I take it, the answers to those questions could inform what other due diligence may be required?

Page 79

Lurie

A. Absolutely.
Q. Did there come a point that you learned of a potential sales shortfall at Sunbeam in the first quarter of 1998?
A. I'm sorry. Did I learn of a potential --
Q. -- sales shortfall?
A. At some point we must have learned about some questions and issues regarding potential shortfalls, yes.
Q. And how did you learn about the potential sales shortfall?
A. I have no recollection today of how in 1998 it came up in the course, either of the transaction to me specifically or to -- within Davis Polk or to Morgan Stanley.
Q. Do you have any idea when, in the process of underwriting, Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley learned of the sales shortfall?
A. I don't know when we would have learned -- I mean, I do recall right around the 18th of March -- 19th of March there were meetings and discussions regarding potential sales for the quarter.

Page 80

Lurie

My Blackberry is going crazy.
Q. Actually, do you want to take a break?
A. No. Let's continue.
Q. Did you learn of a potential sales shortfall through receiving drafts of the comfort letter?
A. I apologize. Again, I do not recall how I or anyone else may have learned about a potential, you know, shortfall. I'm sure shortly after the transaction and for a year or so, I probably would have remembered, but I just don't remember today.
Q. By the way, let me jump back for a second. I apologize. I see a note to myself --
A. Go right ahead.
Q. Was someone from Sunbeam management on the accounting due diligence call?
A. I don't recall whether anyone was. It is often the case that at least for a portion of the phone call someone from management would be on the phone. Often, though, and generally, we would recommend that an underwriter have an executive session, so to speak, just with the accountants, without management.

Page 81

Lurie

So whether they were -- if they were, they would have been asked to step off the phone or if it was a meeting, to step out of the meeting. Again, I don't remember if it was a phone call or a meeting.
Q. So you view it a good practice to have a session between strictly the underwriter and the auditor?
A. Correct.
Q. Why is that?
A. Just because sometimes the auditors will be a little more forthcoming without management there. They may be willing to say things -- they often do say things in slightly different way without management being in the room.
Q. And in connection with the accounting due diligence call with Sunbeam, do you have any idea whether management was or was not on the call?
A. Again, I don't recall whether they were -- whether it was a call or meeting. I'm assuming -- you're saying it was a call. So I'll assume it was a call. I don't recall if they were on that phone call today. If they were, I don't recall if they were asked to step off.

017019

Lurie

Q. I take it, the accounting due diligence call session is a fairly involved undertaking?

A. Fairly involved? I mean, it's an important session. I don't know what you mean by "fairly involved."

Q. Well, do you have any sense of how long it should take or how much time you should spend with the auditor?

A. It varies from transaction to transaction. You know, fifteen minutes would be short. Three hours might be long. In IPOs, it might be four or five hours. I mean, it varies.

Q. Do you have any recollection of the length you spent -- length of time you spent on the accounting due diligence call with Sunbeam's auditors?

A. Not today.

Q. I take it, the length of the call turns on the complexity of the issuer?

A. The complexity of the issuer, the familiarity that the underwriter and the underwriter's counsel might have with the issuer, whether it was the first or second, third or fourth offering. It varies.

Lurie

Q. You said fifteen minutes is short. Have you ever had a fifteen-minute accounting due diligence phone call?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that a common occurrence?

A. That's fairly rare that it's that short.

Q. Jumping back to the sales shortfall issue --

A. Go right ahead.

Q. -- you told me earlier today that you were having early and often conversations with Sunbeam concerning how it was doing in the first quarter?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. And you also testified that those conversations would be specific as to numbers and general as to trends. Do you recall that?

A. I recall that, yeah. I recall saying that. I don't remember what the --

Lurie

Q. Okay. Does that testimony in any way inform when you would have learned of the sales shortfall at Sunbeam?

A. No.

Q. Is it safe to assume that you learned of it as it was happening?

A. I don't even want to venture a guess. Safe to assume? I can't tell you today in 2004 when I learned of potential sales shortfalls in 1998 in the first quarter in the midst of an offering. It could have been at any point in time, and it could have come from a variety of different people.

Q. Do you think that anyone at Sunbeam gave you false numbers as to sales in the first quarter of 1998?

A. I don't -- I don't have any thoughts about false numbers today. I didn't think they were false back then, certainly.

Q. Prior to mid-March, did the company say anything in general terms other than that it was doing fine?

A. To who?

Lurie

Q. To Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk?

A. I don't recall any specific comments that the company made back in 1998 regarding their first quarter and how they were doing.

Q. So you may have known then, in March 1998, that the company was expecting a loss for the quarter?

A. I may have known a lot of different things. I may have known that it was not a loss. But there could have been other reasons that it would have been a flat quarter in earnings. There could have been offsetting adjustments. Expenses could have gone down even though sales had gone down. There could have been a lot of different things.

Q. Did anything happen in the first quarter of '98 that caused you to question the candor of Sunbeam's management?

A. There was discussions regarding the first quarter. I don't know if we were thinking there were questions. I don't recall any questions we had about the candor of Sunbeam's management. I don't recall what I thought back then about the candor of Sunbeam's management.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0-1052

Lurie

We just inquired regarding the quarter and the full year.

Q. And those questions -- the answers to those questions didn't cause you any concern about whether Sunbeam management was being candid?

A. I don't recall any concerns today that I might have had back then.

Q. Is it fair to say the underwriter is supposed to have skepticism in dealing with management?

A. Absolutely.

Q. Since March of 1998, have you formed any opinion about the candor of Sunbeam's management you were dealing with?

A. To be honest, other than being told, I haven't thought about Sunbeam too much and Sunbeam's management.

Q. You did learn that the SEC had sued Al Dunlap and Ron Kersh?

A. Absolutely. I had not thought about it.

Q. You followed the Wall Street Journal articles --

Lurie

A. Uh-huh.

Q. -- on the demise of Sunbeam?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Did that cause you to question anything that you were told in March of 1998?

A. I don't recall what I would have thought when I read those articles. I probably looked at the articles and went "wow" and knew that there was a problem. I don't recall it doing anything to my thinking about candor at the time of the offering.

Q. When you say you've read the articles and knew there was a problem, what do you mean by that?

A. Well, whatever was in the articles about the problems -- I think you mentioned the word "channel stuffing" before. I think that became a really significant issue. I think there was clearly some revenue -- my recollection is there were revenue recognition issues with Sunbeam. There may have been others. I remember there were questions about Mr. Dunlap's resume.

Q. And reading that information didn't cause you to rethink any of the work that you performed?

A. It may have. I do not recall what it caused me to rethink about what I had done back in 1998.

Q. Did you learn any lessons from Sunbeam that have informed your practice today?

A. That despite as good a due diligence as you think you can do -- you don't necessarily find out -- you do the best you can, but you don't always find out everything that occurred. And sometimes bad things do occur.

Q. And so I take it from your testimony then that you believe Morgan Stanley did the best due diligence they could on this transaction?

A. I would think with Davis Polk and Morgan Stanley doing it, it would have been-- our due diligence would have been appropriate.

Q. By "appropriate," do you mean thorough?

A. Thorough, complete.

Q. We've already touched on briefly today the press release that issued on March 19th?

A. Okay.

Lurie

Q. And I want to focus for a few minutes on the events that led to the issuance of that press release.

A. Okay.

Q. Why don't you tell me how it came to pass that Sunbeam issued a press release on March 19th.

A. I can't today remember exactly what -- this exact time frame of when and who proposed the press release and how it was put together. There was -- there were phone calls the night of the 18th regarding the quarter -- the sales quarter, how they were, and if they were going to be able to meet their earnings or their revenues, I guess.

At some point in time, someone prepared a draft of a press release. I don't recall today if that was prepared by Skadden, by the company, by Morgan Stanley or by us. It most likely have been -- the first draft would have come from Skadden, but I don't recall if they did.

Q. But the issuance of the press release would be a joint effort?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01705I

Lurie

A. It would have been a joint discussion of the press release and what should be in the press release, because then you'd have to consider whether the press release -- how it would impact the offering and the offering memo.

Q. So Morgan Stanley and Davis Polk had an opportunity to comment on the press release before its issuance --

A. I assume we did, yes. I don't recall any comments that we may have made or when we would have been given the press release to comment on.

Q. You said that there were phone calls on the night of March 18th?

A. Correct.

Q. What event animated the phone calls?

A. What event? I have -- there was --

Q. Let me phrase it slightly different.

Did any event or information cause those phone calls to occur?

A. I think it just related to the issue of what the first quarter revenues were going to be. I don't know what event precipitated a specific phone call occurring or what piece of information we might have had at any point in time that would have caused us to make a phone call in 1990 -- or have a conference call in 1998.

Lurie

Q. So you don't know why it was the 18th as opposed to the 13th --

A. I don't know. I couldn't tell you.

Q. Do you know how many calls there were on the 18th on the issue of the potential sales shortfall?

A. It was one or more. And I say one or more because I don't know if we -- I don't recall today whether it was we had first phone calls with Morgan Stanley or first phone calls with Sunbeam, and then they may have dropped; or first Morgan Stanley, and then maybe Sunbeam hooked in and Skadden hooked in, or whether it was a series of phone calls. It was just one or more phone calls that a variety of people were involved in.

Q. Let's try and get more specific on who was involved in the phone calls.

Who from Davis Polk was involved in the March 18th phone calls?

A. Myself, Alan Dean. It was in Jeff

Lurie

Small's office, at least the specific phone call I'm recollecting right now. Jeff Small. I believe Frank Morrison was in that office. Maybe Rich Sandler was in. I just don't specifically recall him, but maybe he was there.

Q. We haven't heard Mr. Small's name yet today.

A. Okay.

Q. He is a Davis Polk partner?

A. Yes.

Q. And does he have an area of expertise?

A. Corporate and securities.

Q. How about Frank Morrison?

A. He was managing partner at the time, right? In corporate and securities? Wasn't he managing partner back then?

MR. WISE: I don't remember.

A. I think he may have been managing partner back then, but he was also corporate securities expert.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. And prior to March 18th, Mr. Small and Mr. Morrison had no involvement in this

Lurie

transaction --

A. I have no recollection of whether they would have been involved earlier.

Q. And you don't have any recollection of them, in fact, being involved earlier?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Are Mr. Small and Morrison senior to Mr. Dean?

A. Yes.

Q. And they were on calls with Sunbeam and Skadden as well?

A. Again, the phone call or the meeting in Mr. Small's office, I don't recall if it was one phone call -- one long phone call that people kept coming in and out of the multiple phone calls. But my recollection, there would have been a variety of different people at different points in time on one or more phone calls.

Q. Was Heather Stack or Nicole Duncan on any of the phone calls?

A. I do not recall whether Heather and Nicole were involved in those phone calls.

Q. How about from Morgan Stanley? Who from Morgan Stanley was involved in the March

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017053

Lurie

18th phone calls?
A. The only one -- again, the one I'm thinking of in Mr. Small's office, I know Ruth Porat was on the phone. I do not recall who else. I can presume who might have been. John Tyree, I'm sure, would have been involved, but I don't recall.
Q. How about from Sunbeam?
A. There would probably have been a variety of people from Sunbeam, some of the people that you mentioned earlier.
Q. But not Dunlap?
A. I do not ever recall having been on a phone call with Mr. Dunlap, having met Mr. Dunlap or heard Mr. Dunlap's voice.
Q. But Kersh?
A. Kersh, Fanin.
Q. Gluck?
A. Gluck's name -- I think you said he was controller?
Q. Right.
A. I don't recall him. He likely might have been. Kersh, Fanin. Uzzi. I think you named another name that would have been on those phone calls.

Lurie

Q. How about from Skadden?
A. Greg Fernicola would have been on as the partner. Probably Tod Freed. But I don't specifically recall. But if you asked who from their shop would have likely been involved, it would have been at least those two.
Q. Was Andersen on any of those calls?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Anyone else besides the parties we've mentioned?
A. Davis Polk, Skadden, Sunbeam and Morgan Stanley --
Q. Correct.
A. And possibly Andersen. I can't think of anyone else who might have been on those phone calls.
Q. And tell me in as much detail as you can the substance of those calls.
MR. WISE: I'm going to caution the witness that with respect to any calls that were between Davis Polk and Morgan Stanley, that he should be careful not to reveal privileged communications. Morgan Stanley has maintained the privilege. So to the extent that there were phone calls that he can recall where people from Sunbeam were present or other third parties, obviously, he can respond to your question.

A. Could you repeat your question? It was specifically with Morgan Stanley, or was it just generically?
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Subject to Mr. Wise's instruction, I'm trying to get you to tell me as much information as you can about what was said on the March 18th phone calls.
A. I do not today in 2004 recollect what the specific substance of the discussions were with anyone, whether it was with Morgan Stanley or with Sunbeam or with -- who am I missing? -- Skadden or Arthur Andersen relating to any phone calls that occurred March 18th. I think the general scope of the discussions related to first quarter revenues.
Q. Was it a crisis situation in any way?
A. It was issues. I don't want to necessarily use the term "crisis." But, obviously, when you're having a phone call like that there were concerns that people wanted to understand what was going on and what had transpired and what the first quarter numbers were going to be.

Lurie

Q. Why would people be interested in what the first quarter numbers were?
A. Well, again, we may have had some disclosure in the prospectus on expectations.
There was clearly -- a public company would have forecast -- there would be forecast out on the street of what their first quarter numbers were going to be. Whether it was earnings or revenue estimates, I don't know. This was a convertible debt offering. So, obviously, the common stock and where the common stock was trading, what the value of it is, what the future expectations for the growth and the share value of the common stock were obviously issues that everyone would have considered, if the expectations out on the street were significantly different than what possibly would be happening that quarter or for the year. Those are things underwriters -- underwriters' counsel,

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

the company would be considering.
Q. That information could have a negative impact on the ability to complete the transaction?
A. Possibly.
Q. Was that possibility discussed?
A. I do not recall any discussions today about not completing the transactions. They may have occurred; they may have not occurred. I do not recall.
Q. Was there any discussion concerning the impact of first quarter performance on Sunbeam's ability to close the acquisitions?
A. Again, I don't recall whether those discussions occurred or did not occur.
Q. Would you be surprised if they did occur?
A. I'm not sure I would be surprised or not surprised. If they occurred, they occurred; if they didn't occur, they didn't occur.
Q. But the sales situation was sufficiently significant to be a material event?
MR. CLARE: Object to form.
You can answer.

Lurie

A. It was. Obviously, as I said earlier, the first quarter and full year expectations are areas of -- that underwriters and underwriters' counsel will be reviewing through the entire process of an offering. So, yes, changes in expectations, changes in company forecasts are things that underwriters want to understand the reasons for.
Q. And that's --
A. If it's a half a penny change versus a ten cent change, you know, some things are material, the size of the company, than others. I mean, if they're going to be within a range that's out on the street, what can I say?
Q. But, in essence, you would agree it's important information?
A. Absolutely. Underwriters are interested in.
Q. Whose idea was it to issue a press release?
A. I have no recollection from today back in 1998 who said to issue a press release or who wanted to or who didn't want to.
Q. So you don't recall any resistance to the idea?

Lurie

A. I don't recall any resistance. I don't recall any train to say, let's issue it.
Q. I assume, given these discussions, it was something that was discussed at some length?
A. I would presume there were discussions regarding a press release. I know we did issue a press release --
Q. Did you later learn that there was resistance to the press release?
A. Did I later learn? I don't recall that there was. I mean, I've been now advised there may have been resistance.
Q. Who advised you of that?
A. I think it was in conversations yesterday that there may have been some, but I'm not sure. I was talking to Bob and Tom, but I don't think I should go any further.
Q. But you never learned from Morgan Stanley and Sunbeam --
A. I haven't spoken to Morgan Stanley in years regarding this transaction.
Q. Let's put aside the years --
A. Okay.

Lurie

Q. In the days following --
A. In the time frame of 1998.
Q. We're starting to talk over each other. So the Court Reporter is going to wince, if she hasn't already.
In the days following the issuance of the press release, did you ever learn that Sunbeam was upset about having to issue the press release?
A. I don't recall ever having heard or been told by anyone that they were upset.
Q. Would that fact be of any significance to you?
MR. WISE: What fact?
A. That they were upset?
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Yes.
A. It might have. I might have raised an eyebrow and tried to understand why they were upset. But I don't know what my thinking was back then. It's one fact in a myriad of things that are going on in an offering that you have to weigh and consider. So how I would have reacted? I can't tell you.

Q. But it would have been in the mix?
A. It would have been in the mix.
Q. Do you recall reviewing any documents during the course of the March 18th phone call?
A. I recall that there was a sheet of paper, maybe a couple of sheets of paper, that we all had that was sort of the basis on which we were discussing the first quarter numbers.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: I'm going to change tape.
MR. JOHNSON: Sure.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: This is 11:45. This completes tape number one.
(Recess taken.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 12 p.m. We're back on the record. This begins tape number two.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Before the break, we were talking about the March 18th phone calls. And I want to return to that subject.
Was there any discussion during the course of those calls concerning Sunbeam's earnings situation for the first quarter of 1998?

Page 103

Lurie

A. Again, I don't recall any specific discussions that were had that evening. It would have been generally about the first quarter, probably discussions also about the year estimate forecasts.
Q. When you say "about the first quarter," do you mean revenue or earnings or one or the other?
A. It could have been both.
Q. You don't remember?
A. I do not recall today.
Q. Did you know what Sunbeam's earnings situation was as of March 18th for the first quarter?
A. Did I know then? I probably had an idea what their earnings for 2002 were -- or excuse me -- 1997. I probably had an idea then what their expectations for both 2000 -- or 1998 the full year and probably the first quarter. I have no recollection today what those were.
Q. Was there any discussion during any of the March 18th phone calls concerning whether Sunbeam's actual sales through the first two months of 1998 should be included in the press release?

Page 104

Lurie

A. I'm sorry. Could you repeat that question.
Q. Sure. Was there any discussion during any of the March 18th phone calls concerning whether the press release should include Sunbeam's actual sales figures for January and February?
A. I do not recall any discussion today regarding whether -- about what should be included in the press release, whether it related to the first two months of 1998 or otherwise.
Q. As you sit here today, do you have any negative reaction or an idea as to why that information would not be included in the press release?
A. Often you don't want to include just interim monthly numbers, because it doesn't necessarily represent what a full quarter is going to be. Sometimes, depending upon the facts of a given situation, you might include interim by interim, I mean, part of month sales numbers.
Q. Or part of quarter sales --
A. Excuse me. Part of quarter sales

Page 105

Lurie

numbers.
Q. So it just depends on the particular circumstances?
A. And the facts and everything else that's going on in the company.
Q. Can you think of any facts, as you sit here today, indicating that it would be inappropriate to give interim quarter sales information in the March 19th press release?
A. I'm sorry. Can you repeat that question again.
Q. Sure.
A. It was a little convoluted at the beginning to the end.
Q. I apologize. These questions are getting longer.
Can you think of any reason why Sunbeam did not include January and February sales information in the March 19th press release?
A. Can I recall any reasons why we did not include it?
Q. Correct.
A. I today don't recall what we said or

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017055

Lurie

what the thinking was or the reasons for how the ultimate press release came out or any specific discussions regarding what should or should not be included in 2004. I don't recall what we were thinking back in 1998.

Q. I guess here's what I'm getting at. You testified that it may be appropriate to give interim results depending on the circumstance. What I'm getting at, Were there any circumstances that indicated it would be inappropriate to give that information in this press release?

A. I don't recall, truthfully, what the other circumstances going around the time in March of 1998, middle of March 1998, were of what the thinking would have been and whether we even discussed the question of including the first two -- the specific numbers for the first two months.

Q. So is it fair to say, then, as you sit here today, you can't think of any reason why that information was not included?

A. I can't think of any information today why we would not have included it.

Lurie

Q. Why doesn't the press release refer to the earnings situation at Sunbeam?

A. It doesn't? I don't recall. I have no -- again, the thinking of what we were going to say in the press release and why we decided to say what was said and who made the ultimate decision to say what was said or that we all agreed upon, I don't recall why it was made the way it was today. I'm sure back in 1998 and '99, maybe even 2000, I could have told you more. But six years later, the specific thinking is just beyond me at this point. I don't recall.

Q. As you sit here today, can you think of any reason why it would be inappropriate to give interim earnings information in the March 19th press release?

A. In general? Specifically related to Sunbeam? Specifically related to -- I mean, there are a lot of companies that do 85 percent of their sales in the last two weeks of the quarter.

Q. Do you know whether that's the situation --

A. I have no recollection of how

Lurie

Sunbeam's sales in 1998 were staggered during the quarter.

Q. Well, why was a press release issued at all?

A. I --

MR. WISE: To the extent that you know.

A. I'm trying to recollect. And it's more surmising at this point why it might have been issued.

I think there were questions about whether they would meet it -- let me phrase that differently -- whether they would meet the analysts' expectations what was out on the street. And I think there was a feeling if they were not going to be within the range. And analysts generally have ranges, first call numbers where what people would look at for earnings or revenues, whatever was out on the street. And if they were not, there was probably a feeling, one, maybe the offering memo needed to include it. And if we wanted to include the information in an offering memo, which was in a 144A, in effect, private placement, we had to get similar information out to the street in general.

So to the extent you were going to be putting it in an offering memo, you would also be issuing a press release. That very likely could have been the thinking. I just don't recall specifically what it was.

Q. So you don't know as a matter of fact whether inclusion of the offering memorandum motivated the issuance of the press release?

A. I don't recall which way, whether it was the issuance of the press release motivated putting it in the offering memo or whether we felt we needed to put something in the offering memo and therefore motivated the press release --

Q. And to the extent --

A. -- or whether something else even motivated it.

Q. To the extent Sunbeam was not going to make analysts' estimates on earnings, that would also be information that should be in the press release?

A. If they didn't think they were going to make the earnings, that might be something you would also include. Again, I don't remember what estimates were out on the street. I think we were focused on revenues. But whether we also had earnings estimates for the quarter and for the year, I just don't recall.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

Q. Can you think of any reason why you would advise the street that revenue estimates would not be met but not advise them that earnings estimates would not be met?

A. I'm sure there are a variety of scenarios where you know what's going to happen with revenues but you're not sure what's going to happen with earnings. There could be expense reductions. There could be other things going on.

Q. But if you know that earnings estimates are not going to be met, why wouldn't you include that in the same press release?

A. If you know. I don't recall what we knew.

Q. Did you know that the street was expecting Sunbeam to have a profit for the first quarter?

A. What I knew back then I can't tell you. I don't recall what we thought, what I knew back then of what the expectations on the street for the first quarter of 1998 were.

Lurie

Q. I want to show you what's been marked previously as Exhibit 16, Mr. Lurie, Exhibit 16, the document that you mentioned that was discussed during the March 18th phone call.

A. This looks like the document. It seems to be the document, but I don't recall specifically today what was on the document. But this does look like something we would have looked at.

Q. And do you see the handwriting in the upper right corner: "Ruth," "Alan," "David"?

A. "Ruth," "Alan," "David," okay.

Q. Do you know who those are?

A. Ruth, I presume, is Ruth Porat. Allen, I presume, is Alan Dean. Because that's his phone number. And David -- I'm not sure who David is.

You're not going to tell me?

Q. It's David Fanin.

A. Okay.

Q. What did you understand this document to represent?

Lurie

A. I can tell you what I think this represents looking at it today. I can't remember exactly what I might have thought this represented back then, but this looks like an estimate of actual sales for the first two months of 1998. It says, "January consolidated, February consolidated net sales actual." And then there appears to be some interim international sale numbers for the first 15 days of March and some forecasted international sales through the rest of March, actual domestic sales for the first 17 days of March. And then I guess open orders is probably forecasted sales for the remainder of March or through -- I guess the remainder of March.

Q. What does the potential orders represent?

A. Those look like to me would mean they were orders that are possibly coming in but haven't yet been booked by the company. They haven't received a formal sales order yet from any of these listed companies.

Q. When you say they haven't received the formal sales order, do you know whether there's been any discussion with respect to any of these accounts with respect to any orders in the last 12 days of the quarter?

Lurie

A. I'm sorry. Can you repeat the question again? Because --

Q. Sure. Actually, I'll have her read this one.

(Record read.)

(Interruption at the door.)

(Record read.)

A. Are you asking me did I have any discussions regarding these accounts? Did I speak to these accounts? Did anyone speak to these accounts?

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. All of those questions.

A. I do not recall any specific discussions that I had or that anyone else had with any of these, let's say, 15, 18 companies (indicating). I don't recall any specific discussions we had on the phone in March 18th of 1998 regarding any of these specific companies and order numbers that are listed under potential

017057

Page 114

Lurie

orders.

I do know we were discussing them, but I don't recall what was said. I don't know whether there were ever any actual calls in the last 12 days of the quarter with any of these entities by -- certainly, I do not recall having those phone calls. I don't believe anyone, to my knowledge, from Davis Polk had them. Whether Morgan Stanley in the last 12 days of the quarter spoke to any of these companies, I don't know if they did. I don't know if Sunbeam spoke to any of these companies. I don't recall.

Q. Do you have any view as to whether it would be appropriate to contact those customers to see what their plans would be for the last 12 days of the quarter?

A. It's something that would often be done. But, again, it really depends on facts of a given situation. For example -- I mean, we could have been told or we could have known through prior other due diligence that Home Depot puts in their biggest order in the last 12 days of the quarter. And we might have had evidence. I don't know if we had any of this. But there are a myriad of facts with every one of these that would lead us to make one decision versus another decision. I just don't recall what transpired during these phone calls or in the days after the phone calls or the days before the phone calls with regard to these companies and these potential orders.

Q. This sheet is designed to show how the company can make $254.7 million in revenues for the first quarter?

A. Uh-huh. That's what it looks like. That's the subtotal, I presume.

Q. And that was below the street estimates, wasn't it?

A. If the next lines down appear to be where it says -- the handwriting looks like it says, "low and high." Those look like the street estimates between 167 and 193 for revenues --

MR. WISE: 267 and 293.

THE WITNESS: What did I say?

A. 267 and 293. And then the last line looks like what the first quarter of 1997 was, which says 253.5.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Page 116

Lurie

Q. So this sheet would indicate that if all of the potential orders are obtained, and if the international net sales forecast is met, the company would beat the first quarter of '97?

A. Would be slightly above the first quarter of '97, it looks like.

Q. But would be below the street estimates?

A. Correct.

Q. Was there any discussion on March 18 concerning whether the company could, in fact, still beat the street estimates in the first quarter of '98?

A. There may have been in 2004. I don't today recall what those discussions -- I wish I could give you more, but I just don't recall what those discussions in 1998, March 18th or 17th or 22nd, regarding first quarter numbers.

Q. But you would agree with me that Exhibit 16 does not illustrate any way for the company to meet street estimates for the first quarter of '98?

A. It clearly -- based on the buildup to the 254.7, it's clearly below the low. So it would look like there was nothing on this sheet that would indicate they could beat it. Whether there was other information provided us in 1998 that led us to believe that 254.7 was low, I don't recall. There may have been.

Page 117

Lurie

Q. You just don't know?

A. I just don't recall.

Q. Was there any discussion on March 18th concerning the company's ability to obtain orders and ship product in the amount of $86 million in the last 12 days of the quarter?

A. Again, there may have been; there may not have been. I don't recall the substance of the discussions that related to this (indicating), which, I believe, was the subject of the March 18th phone call in Mr. Small's office that we were talking about before. But I don't remember the specifics of who said what, what questions were asked. I'm sure there were a lot of questions that were asked. I just don't recall what they were.

Q. So you don't recall whether there was any discussion about the company's physical ability to ship this much product in this time period?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01705

Lurie

A. I do not recall if we had those. We may have. We may have looked into a variety of different questions. I don't know if it's a shipping issue, a manufacturing issue. It could have been a variety of issues.
Q. The last item in the potential buildup shows $10.4 million for "other"?
A. Yup.
Q. Was there any discussion about entities that would comprise the "other" category?
A. I do not recall what we discussed regarding the "other" category.
Q. Was there any discussion or skepticism as to whether the "other" category would exceed Wal-Mart's purchases?
A. Would exceed the 10.4 -- where is Wal-Mart? Oh, it's up -- the 9.4? I don't recall any relationship between Wal-Mart and the other category. There may be; there may not be.
Q. You don't remember any skepticism on that issue?
A. I don't remember the specifics of the phone call. I mean, we would have had a long discussion. What we would have discussed and responses that the company gave, whatever they were got us comfortable.

Lurie

Q. At any point in the first quarter of '98, did Morgan Stanley share Sunbeam's sales information with any other banks?
A. I have no idea. I have no recollection of that. I wouldn't necessarily know. When you say "other banks," you mean another investment bank or --
Q. Well, I'll give you a more specific question.
Did you understand that other banks were participating in the senior credit facility?
A. I think I was told, yeah. I mean, senior credit facility, I don't recollect that, that Morgan Stanley was providing the whole thing. So there may have been other banks --
Q. I'll tell you, it was First Union and Bank of America.
A. Okay.
Q. Do you have any reason to believe that Morgan Stanley shared any information concerning Sunbeam's first quarter sales situation with either of those banks?

Lurie

A. I don't know what -- I presume they did. But I have no knowledge of what sharing and what information and what discussions transpired between Morgan Stanley and the other two banks that you mentioned.
Q. Why do you assume that they did?
A. Because they were normal discussions that would go on between an arranger and the other banks. I mean, there is an information flow between them, just like there's an information flow if you have comanagers of an offering.
Q. So any important information would be shared?
A. Normally, yeah.
Q. Do you recall how the street reacted to the March 19th press release?
A. I do not recall today how the street reacted.
Q. Obviously, the reaction was not significant enough to impair the closing of the convertible offering; is that correct?

Lurie

A. I'm sorry. The market reaction was not --
Q. -- sufficiently dramatic to impair your ability to close the convertible offering?
A. I don't know if there's a necessary relationship between the two, but we closed the offering.
Q. You didn't delay the offering, even?
A. I don't believe we delayed the offering.
Q. Was the subject of delaying the offering discussed at any point?
A. Today, I cannot recall any discussions on that. There may have been. I don't recall today.
Q. When you say "there may have been" --
A. Well, there may have been or there may not have been. I just don't recall.
Q. I'll show you what's been marked as Exhibit 14 previously.
A. Okay.
Q. Exhibit 14 is the March 19th press release that we've been discussing?
A. It appears to be, yeah.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017059

Lurie

Q. You would agree with me that the press release indicates that Sunbeam may still meet first quarter '98 street estimates in revenue?

A. May still?

Q. Correct.

A. Well, it's expected to be lower. So I guess there's -- it's possible the net sales would be lower. So, yeah, they could maybe still meet it. But they're saying their reading is it's going to be lower than the estimates that were on the street.

Q. Well, if you look at midway through the first paragraph it says, "the shortfall from analysts' estimates, if any, would be due to" --

A. Yeah. I mean, there is still a possibility they'll be within the range.

Q. What's the basis for that statement?

A. Today, I recall nothing about the discussions that would have led to that statement or how the statement -- this press release got prepared. I'm sure we had a basis for belief back then. This, I believe, did go into the offering memo. We would have wanted to be comfortable with the statements. So we would have done due diligence. That was probably part of the phone call.

I mean, I'm looking at the language here. I'm assuming there were discussions in the phone call that led us to be comfortable with the inventory management and other pattern issues that this was the statement we were comfortable in disclosing and putting in an offering memo. But today I can't tell you what the basis was from what we knew in 1998.

Q. Can you tell me what diligence was performed to get comfortable with those statements?

A. Today, no. Other than I know we had at least one or more phone calls on the night of the 18th. There were probably a variety of other things going on, phone calls, discussions, either internally with the company. There may have been other pieces of information that we had that back this up that I don't recall today (indicating).

Q. But other than a conversation with senior management, you can't tell me any specific diligence that was performed?

Lurie

A. Again, as I said before, I do not recall anyone calling these customers. That may have been done; they may not have been done. We may have been able to see the -- what their earlier patterns of buying were, but I don't recall what we did in 1998.

Q. Was there any -- strike that.

Does this press release indicate -- strike that too.

Did you have drafts of comfort letters from Andersen when this press release was issued?

A. I resume we did. But I don't recall when we received the drafts. I mean, there was an indication, I believe, in the letter earlier that I was supposed to get a draft on March 9, I think it said. I don't remember if I actually received one March 9.

Q. I'm going to give you something we marked previously as CPH 110.

Does Exhibit 110 appear to be a draft comfort letter to Morgan Stanley in connection with the convertible debt offering?

A. It appears to be a draft of a comfort letter addressed to Morgan Stanley.

Lurie

Q. And the fax header shows a date of March 17, 1998.

Do you see that?

A. I do see that.

Q. Does that refresh your memory in any way as to when you received the drafts of the comfort letter?

A. No, it doesn't at all. But if you look -- continue, it's a 561 fax. I don't know who this came to. I don't know if I received this. 561 is South Florida. So I presume it's either Sunbeam's or Arthur Andersen's office down there. Whether it was sent to me, I can't tell. Whether I saw this specific draft, I have no idea.

Q. This is sent, as it notes at the top, "for discussion purposes only."

Do you see that?

A. Yup.

Q. Is that a customary header for draft cover letters?

A. Some don't put the bold headings. Some just have the draft paragraph. Accountants

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017060

Lurie

have different ways they handle it. Some say for what this says; others don't.

Q. So your testimony is that while you think you had a draft of the comfort letter before the press release, you don't know that for sure; and you don't know when you had this draft, Exhibit 110. Is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. If you look at the third page of the comfort letter, the draft comfort letter, Exhibit CPH 110, there is handwriting at the bottom that says, "we had fire sale of inventory"?

A. Yup.

Q. Do you know what that refers to?

A. I can guess. I have no idea. At some point in time, there was an inventory fire sale that means.

Q. Is that an explanation as to why first quarter '98 revenues were low?

A. It could. I have absolutely no idea who wrote this or what their reasons for it. Maybe that there was sales were made in the first quarter as part --

MR. WISE: You don't need to

Lurie

speculate. You testified you don't know what they meant.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. I wonder if you could look at the Paragraph 6(b) for me, which is on Page 4 of the draft comfort letter.

A. Uh-huh.

Q. 6(b) indicates that revenues in the first quarter of '98 decreased primarily due to a program that accelerated sales in the fourth quarter of '97.

Do you see that?

A. Yup.

Q. Was that news to you when you received a draft comfort letter?

MR. WISE: He hasn't testified that he received this draft comfort letter.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. When was the first time, if ever, that you heard that Sunbeam had accelerated sales into the fourth quarter of '97?

A. I believe there was disclosure in the prospectus about their early buy programs and the potential effect of early buy programs. When I first heard of the concept of early buy programs in the course of the offering, I have no recollection today.

Lurie

Q. Was there any discussion about including in the March 19th press release that sales had been accelerated into the fourth quarter of 1997?

A. Again, I do not recall what the discussions relating to including or excluding information in that press release were. I don't recall today what those discussions in '98 were.

Q. Does the acceleration of sales into the fourth quarter of '97 raise any concerns about the quality of 1997 earnings or revenue?

A. The quality of 1997?

Q. Correct.

A. I'm not even quite sure what you're getting at. But I can't -- I don't know how to respond to that.

Q. Let me try and rephrase it, then.

Does information indicating sales had been accelerated into the fourth quarter of '97 raise any concerns about the sustainability of the company's revenue performance?

Lurie

A. It raises due diligence questions that you're going to ask, sure. If you have early buy programs, what the meaning of it is how they're impacted, what impact they may have had in previous early buy programs on revenues. I mean, again, it's one issue in the overall context that you have to take into account.

Q. So you would say it's a potentially significant fact?

A. A potential fact that I'd certainly want to -- I'm not going to try to quantify it. I'm just going to say it's something you certainly might want to look into and have further discussions on it.

Q. By the way, the last page of the press release --

A. Of the press release?

Q. -- Exhibit 14, indicates that statements in the press release -- certain statements are forward-looking statements.

What's the significance of that?

A. Of, well, the significance of the word "forward-looking statements," whatever?

017061

Page 130

Lurie

Q. The significance of forward-looking statement.

A. Because it's in the middle of a quarter, you're giving estimates about what your expectations are for a quarter. It is for the full quarter. That is a forward-looking statement.

Q. Does that relieve any obligation to provide fair and accurate information?

A. No.

Q. Did -- in the days following the issuance of the press release, Exhibit 14, did you ever hear any comments to the effect that lawyers made the company do it?

A. I don't recall ever hearing those comments, but I don't recall any comments regarding the press release after it was issued.

Q. You never heard any effort by Sunbeam to downplay the significance of the press release?

A. I don't recall any efforts by anyone, Sunbeam or otherwise, the downplay, up-play of the press release.

Q. Would the efforts by the company to downplay the significance of the press release concern you in any way?

Page 131

Lurie

A. I guess I might have wanted to understand what their thinking was and what they were doing. I mean, I don't know how they were downplaying the significance of the press release. I don't know what they did or didn't do.

Q. But, again, depending on the circumstances, that may be an issue that concerns you?

A. Of all the facts that we had at the time, it's something that we might have looked into or tried to understand.

Q. This has been marked previously as Exhibit 17. Mr. Lurie, Exhibit 17 is the March 19th comfort letter that was presented to you; is that correct?

A. This is -- appears to be a signed copy of the final comfort letter provided by Arthur Andersen to Morgan Stanley. Whether this was, quote, presented to me, an actual signed copy, I don't recall.

Q. So you don't have any recollection of the final letter being signed and delivered to you by hand?

Page 132

Lurie

A. No, I do not. It may have been. But I don't recall if it did or whether it didn't.

Q. Or when it did, for that matter?

A. When -- no. I don't recall. Generally, it would have been the day of pricing.

Q. And that was March 19th?

A. That's my recollection. Correct.

Q. I assume you've seen many comfort letters in your career?

A. Yes.

Q. Is there anything about this comfort letter that is out of the ordinary?

A. Are you going to give me 10, 15 minutes to review it?

Q. Sure.

A. Do you want to point me to anything?

Q. I'm asking: Based on your experience, is there anything about it that is out of the ordinary?

A. The Page 3 at the top, I wouldn't necessarily say out of the ordinary, but there were notations of it, an interim period, shareholder's equity had decreased as well as long term debt having increased.

Page 133

Lurie

The next paragraph, 5(a), the numbers in 5(a). Then in 5(b), there is an indication that net sales for the two months of 1998 were below the period -- the corresponding period of 1997 as well as a net income going from a gain, a net income from last year to a net loss this year.

So those are clearly -- you know, those are clearly somewhat out of the ordinary disclosures that you would be looking into.

Do you want me to continue? Is there anything further?

Q. Let's focus on 6(b). We looked at an earlier draft of that?

A. 6(b)?

Q. Correct.

A. Okay. That's the next page.

Q. Is there anything out of the ordinary about Paragraph 6(b)?

A. It's an explanation. I can't tell you today if I thought it was out of the ordinary. There is the early buy program reference. I don't recall if the next sentence was in the earlier version of the document that you showed me before -- of this document that you showed me before.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 134

Lurie

Okay. There is this additional sentence regarding -- somewhat out of the ordinary, I'm using that -- nonrecurring January of 1997 sales of excess inventory.

And then there is the compensation charge discussion. Again, I'd have to go back and look to see if it was in the earlier version.

Q. And I'm going to ask the same question about 6(c).

A. 6(c)? It's showing that now throughout the first two full months of '97, that net sales continue to be down, I guess, the first.

Q. So 6(c) says that through the first two months of '98, the company's sales are at half of what they were in the prior period?

A. Correct.

Q. Was that an out-of-the-ordinary revelation to you?

A. I have no recollection today of what

Page 135

Lurie

-- when I first would have received this. But if this came the 19th, this (indicating) is subsequent to having had conversations regarding Exhibit 16 (indicating). So I -- at least if the timing of these came in accordance with what we have been discussing, that this was the 18th and this was the 19th (indicating), we would have had more detailed information based on what Exhibit 16 and the discussions that related to that.

And I believe -- I'm just curious -- the 72 million is what is shown for this list (indicating) is what actually occurred. So this is a more recent version.

Q. So it was not news to you that Sunbeam's sales were running at half for the first two months of '98 over '97?

A. I'm assuming, given the timing, that by the time I had received this, we had already received that (indicating). So we knew there were some discussions that we had the night before regarding first quarter sales. So getting this delivered to me, if it was delivered to me, or seeing a copy of this on the 19th would not necessarily have surprised me, given what we knew from the days beforehand.

Lurie

Q. So you can't recall any specific reaction to the comfort letters --

A. Yes.

Q. -- as opposed to other information?

A. I cannot recall any specific reaction to this comfort letter (indicating).

Q. This letter is addressed to Morgan Stanley.

Why is that?

A. The underwriter -- the comfort letter is always addressed to the underwriter.

Q. Why is it always addressed to the underwriter?

A. That's what FAS, now 110, says. It's FAS 72. It's addressed to someone with a due diligence obligation. Morgan Stanley had to give them a representation letter. They had a due diligence obligation. So...

Q. And did Morgan Stanley give this letter -- this comfort letter, Exhibit 17, to anyone besides Davis Polk?

A. I have no idea who Morgan Stanley would have given this to. I have no recall of any discussion of who they should or should not have given it to. I don't recall giving it to anyone. I don't remember if Morgan Stanley gave it to me or I gave it Morgan Stanley. A signed copy is what I'm getting at.

Page 137

Lurie

Q. Well, you have no reason to believe that Morgan Stanley and Davis Polk lacked copies of the signed comfort letter?

A. I have no reason to believe that we did not have a signed comfort letter.

Q. The first page of the comfort letter, Exhibit 17, indicates the offering memorandum is for --

A. -- two billion.

Q. -- two billion, fourteen million.

Did the size of that offering increase at any point in time?

A. Apparently it did. I had forgotten that. But when I saw the original offering memo and the final, it had increased. Yes, there had been an increase in the offering size.

Q. How did that come about?

A. I have no -- I apologize. I have no recollection today of when we were advised, how

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0 7 0 6 3

Lurie

or why we were advised it was increasing.
Q. Do you recall the convertible portion of the offering increased while the senior credit facility decreased?
A. I have no recollection of the two being tied or how that all transpired.
Q. Or when it transpired?
A. Or when it transpired.
Q. Or why it transpired?
A. Or why it transpired.
Q. You mentioned already today that you were at the printer for the final printing of the offering memorandum?
A. Yes.
Q. And that was on March 19th?
A. I believe so. That's correct.
Q. Who was at the printer?
A. I have to be honest. I don't recall. I remember one or two people from Arthur Andersen were there. At some point there must have been one or more people from Skadden. I don't remember who it was.
Morgan Stanley would have either been there in the beginning, or someone from Morgan

Lurie

Stanley, most likely John Tyree or someone else, would have been there at some point during the evening. When they actually got there, I do not recall. They would have normally always been at the printer. So that's four main players. I do not recall that anyone from Sunbeam, you know, the management themselves, were at the printer.
Q. And other than you being there yourself, you can't specifically identify any other person who was there?
A. I can't remember if Alan Dean or Heather Stack from Davis Polk were there. I know I was there.
Q. And I think you said a couple of people from Andersen?
A. I have a vague recollection there were two people from Arthur Andersen that were there.
Q. Males or females?
A. I think there were only males on the transaction. So I'm going to say males.
Q. How about Skadden? How many people from Skadden?
A. I don't recall. I'm sorry. I don't recall.

Lurie

Q. And Morgan Stanley?
A. I don't recall how many.
Q. And this was on the evening of March 19th; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And was there any decision about whether the March 19th press release should be included verbatim in the offering memorandum?
A. At the printers?
Q. Yes.
A. I have no recollection of any discussions relating to that.
Q. Did anyone from Andersen advise you, or anyone from Morgan Stanley, that the press release should not be included verbatim in the offering memorandum?
A. I have no recollection of any discussions relating to the press release at all at the printers the night of the 19th.
Q. The press release did end up verbatim in the offering memorandum?
A. That's my recollection, yes.
Q. How did that come to pass?

Lurie

A. I -- was agreed to be put in. I don't remember who we discussed it with, how it was discussed, but there was a consensus and a general understanding it would go in the offering memo.
Q. So there was a consensus. You don't recall any dissent?
A. Absolutely, no. I don't recall any dissent by anyone.
Q. Was there any heated discussion of any nature at the printer?
A. Heated discussion?
Q. Yes.
A. Absolutely not. Not that I recall. It was, to my recollection, a very -- it was a very normal, uneventful evening at the printers until you were there between 2 and 5 a.m. in the morning.
Q. There was nothing uneventful about this printing?
A. Nothing eventful. It was totally uneventful.
Q. Totally uneventful, okay.
Did anyone use any profanity?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

011064

Lurie

A. Profanity?
Q. Yes.
A. Not that I recall.
Q. Did Mr. Tyree get upset about anything?
A. Not that I recall.
Q. Did you?
A. Not that I recall.
Q. Was anyone upset about anything?
A. If there was someone upset, I think I would -- or if there was profanity being used or if it was an eventful evening, I think I would have remembered. This was a very -- to my recollection, it was very uneventful. I don't remember anything going on other than making sure the numbers got in and it got printed properly.
Q. So you have no recollection of anyone from Andersen saying that everyone in the room would get sued if Sunbeam didn't make its numbers in the first quarter?
A. I have no recollection of that comment. Someone from Andersen saying that or anyone else saying that, I don't remember.
Q. Did anyone voice skepticism about whether Dunlap had truly turned Sunbeam around?

Lurie

A. I do not recall any discussions about that back in March 19th or 18th or 22nd of 1998.
Q. Did anyone from Andersen indicate that Andersen was going to send personnel to all of Sunbeam's shipping docks to monitor the quarter close?
A. No. I don't recall that anyone -- I don't recall ever being told that Andersen was going to do that.
Q. Did anyone explain that certain personnel within Sunbeam objected to the inclusion of the press release in the offering memorandum?
A. Did anyone from Andersen say that people from Sunbeam --
Q. Let's start even broader than that.
A. Okay.
Q. Did you hear from anyone at the printer that there were Sunbeam personnel who objected to the inclusion of the press release in the offering memorandum?
A. I do not recall any discussions relating to anyone objecting or anyone questioning putting the press release into the offering memo. There was probably just someone said it's going in the offering memo.

Lurie

Q. Did anyone voice skepticism about the company's ability to exceed first quarter '97 revenue results?
A. I do not recall any discussions relating to that at the printer that night.
Q. If Andersen told you that it was skeptical that the company could make the first quarter '97 numbers in the first quarter of '98, would that cause you any concern?
A. If they had told me that, it was certainly something that I would have questioned them further on to see what information and what concerns they had. It probably -- if it was serious enough from their mind, I probably would have picked up the call [sic] and called Alan Dean or other people at Davis Polk. But I don't recall any discussions, anyone saying anything like that. But, again, in the whole mix of things, yeah, that might be something that you would look into.
Q. How about if you heard that certain

Lurie

Sunbeam personnel objected to including the press release in the offering memorandum? Is that something that would have been significant to you?
A. It depends upon why, the reason for the objection, what their concern was. I mean, again, yes, as an individual, it's something that I might have questioned. But you have to give me more of the facts that relate to what was going on the night of the 19th or the evening of the 18th, I guess, whatever day it was.
Q. And if you had heard that Andersen doubted whether Dunlap had really turned Sunbeam around, if you had heard that at the printer, would that be something that you would want to investigate further?
A. Again, it depends what the context was, what they were saying with those words. You're asking me to speculate what we were all thinking and what we all knew at the time and what due diligence we had done to get comfortable.
Q. So it's possible, if Andersen told you they didn't believe the turnaround was

CD 16 95

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

authentic, that wouldn't have mattered to you?
A. Using those words, it's probably something that would have raised some eyebrows. And I might have asked some more questions and looked into it. Depending on who said it, I might have wanted to speak to more senior people or have Alan or others at Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley speak to more senior people. There's a lot of things that I can speculate today of what I might have done, but I just don't recall any of this occurring.
Q. In connection with either the press release or the offering memorandum, was there any discussion about issuing a release that simply stated that the company would not meet the street estimates for the company revenue?
A. There nay have been -- again, I apologize. I do not recall the specific discussions relating to the content or what the wording of the press release would be. All I can tell you, you showed me what appears to be the press release. I assume it's the press release. We somehow reached the conclusion as a group that this would be the press release. The basis for determining the words in there, I can't tell you today.

Q. Although Andersen was not involved in the press release issuance?
A. I have absolutely no idea if that's the case. They may have been involved. They may have seen it early. The more senior people at Andersen -- I forgot the name of the gentlemen you mentioned before -- may have seen it before. Whether the two younger people from Andersen had seen it, I just don't know.
Q. Can you remember anything that happened at the press release that is a specific event -- excuse me -- anything that happened at the printer that is a specific event?
A. Anything that happened at the printer that's a specific event? No. I mean, it was an uneventful evening.
Q. So as you sit here today, you don't remember nothing out of the ordinary?
A. Nothing out of the ordinary.
Q. Does that mean that nothing out of the ordinary happened or that you can't remember anything out of the ordinary?

Lurie

A. That I can't remember anything out of the ordinary. But that likely means that if something out of the ordinary happened, that I probably would have remembered it.

EXAMINATION (Cont'd.) BY
MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Mr. Lurie, on our break I gave you an exhibit marked CPH Exhibit 114 to review.

Lurie

Have you had a chance to look at that?
A. Yes.
Q. And this is a letter from Lawrence Bornstein to the files dated March 31, 1998.
Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And this memorandum concerns events at the printer on March 19, 1998; is that correct?
A. That's what it purports to discuss.
Q. Does this memorandum, Exhibit 114, refresh your memory in any way about any of the events that happened at the printer?
A. What's in here does not refresh my recollection, and what's in here is news to me.
Q. What's in Exhibit 114, is it inconsistent with your recollection?
A. My recollection, it was a very uneventful meeting at the printer. I do not remember any of -- no specific recollection of any of the discussions that he refers to here in this memo. I -- he says, "Mr. Tyree and Mr.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 150

Lurie

Lurie were very upset." I have no recollection of there being any upset. It being uneventful and cordial is my recollection of the meeting at the printers.

Q. Is it possible that your recollection six years later is mistaken?

A. I don't want to say it's mistaken. I would think, if this was an event, something transpired that would have suggested that I was upset, it is probably something that I would have remembered.

Q. So are you saying that Mr. Bornstein's memo prepared or dated 12 days or so after the event is incorrect?

A. I have no recollection of any of what he says here occurring. And I certainly do not remember any discussions about or me being upset. I have no knowledge of him talking to any of these other people. But I've read the memo, and it was interesting reading in places, but --

Q. Is it possible that the memo is correct?

A. I have no way of knowing what his thinking of what transpired that evening were or what his recollection was or what he thought was going on that night.

Page 151

Lurie

Q. So it is possible that this is Mr. Bornstein's recollection?

A. This is obviously what he wrote down. That is all I can tell you. This is words that he put on this piece of paper. I don't know what his thinking was or why he phrased it the way he did.

Q. And you have no reason to believe that Mr. Bornstein was making this up?

A. I don't want to criticize Mr. Bornstein at all. I don't want to question Mr. Bornstein at all. There are things in here that I just have no recollection. And I think I would. It didn't happen.

Q. Were you involved in preparing the purchase agreement whereby Morgan Stanley purchased the convertible offering from Sunbeam?

A. I would have probably -- I think I was the primary draftsman of the purchase agreement, correct.

Q. I want to show you a draft of that, if I could, previously marked as Exhibit 216.

Page 152

Lurie

Can you identify Exhibit 216 for the record.

A. It's a letter from, it looks like -- who's it from? -- from Adrian Deitz, who is an attorney at Skadden, to Alan Dean, myself, the Davis Polk team, John Tyree of Morgan Stanley, attaching the draft of a purchase agreement with their comments, "their" being Skadden and Sunbeam's comments on the purchase agreement.

Q. I wonder if you could look at subparagraph (l), which appears on Page 4 of the draft. And that's the Bates page CPH 0632913.

A. Page 4, you said, correct?

Q. Correct.

A. Okay.

Q. In subparagraph (l), there is a handwritten notation deleting the phrase "or any development involving a prospective material adverse change."

Do you see that?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Do you have any understanding as to why Sunbeam or Skadden was proposing deleting that phrase?

Page 153

Lurie

A. Because every issuer and every issuer's counsel proposes to delete that phrase.

Q. And why is that?

A. It's prospective, forward-looking, and they think it's too generic. And there may be other references in this document to prospects and prospective. What does that mean? It is a standard comment from underwriters -- to underwriters' counsel from issuers and their counsel.

Q. And there is obviously a bit of humor associated with that?

A. I saw it crossed out. And you asked me about it. I'm just chuckling, because it's always crossed out.

Q. Were there any discussions concerning the applicability of that clause to this transaction?

A. I would have -- I have absolutely no recollection of any discussions on the underwriting agreement, generically or on this clause in particular, with either Morgan Stanley, Skadden or the company.

Q. Was there any discussion to the effect that Sunbeam's deteriorating first quarter might be a prospective material adverse change?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

A. I do not recall having those discussions in 1998 at this point.

Q. Does that mean those discussions could have occurred?

A. It means they could have occurred. It means they could not have occurred. I just have no recollection in 2004 of what was discussed in 1998.

Q. Is the fact that Sunbeam's sales through the first two months of the first quarter of '98, those sales running at half of the prior year period, is that a potential prospective material adverse change?

A. In certain context it could be, absolutely. Again, you need to look at the entire situation.

Q. Did you work on this purchase agreement at the printer?

A. I have no recollection if this was worked on at the printer. What's the date of the memo? The 17th. So this would have been two days before the printers, right? Three days before the printers? Somewhere in the interim I probably worked on it.

Lurie

Q. Let me show you what we've marked as 211.

MR. JOHNSON: And I'm going to have to ask you guys to share. For some reason I don't have a spare.

A. Okay.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Exhibit 211 is a markup of the purchase agreement and fax cover sheet; is that correct?

A. It's a fax cover sheet. It's a cover memo from Nicole Duncan addressed to Adrian Deitz with cc's to me and other people with a, quote, marked copy of the purchase agreement. It's dated two days later. I have no recollection whether there were interim versions between the one we just looked at and this one.

Q. And it's faxed to you, among others, at the printer?

A. Yes.

Q. I wonder if you could look at subparagraph (l) again for me. This time it's on

Lurie

Page 5.

A. Okay.

Q. Do you see the change reflected in Paragraph (l)?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell me why that revision was proposed.

A. I have no recollection of who proposed it, why it was proposed. I can speculate, but I don't recall any discussions relating to it.

Q. There's a particular part of the revision that I want to focus on. The revision states that "The press release shall not in and of itself constitute a material adverse change or prospective material adverse change."

Do you see that?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. What's the significance of the "in and of itself" phrase?

A. You want me to speculate now what I think the wording was intended to mean? I do not recall why those words were put in or the discussions that may have been around the use of those words today. I don't remember what we discussed in 2004 --

Lurie

MR. WISE: In 1998.

A. -- in 1998. Excuse me. And I can read them and try to come up with reasons why I think they're there. But I'm speculating now. It's not what I know from before.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Have you seen that phrase in other purchase agreements?

A. Yes, I've seen the term "in and of itself."

Q. What's its significance in other context?

A. That it could be one of many things. It would be considered as part of something that might lead to a conclusion that a material adverse change in the financial condition or results of operations, earnings, business or prospects of the company had occurred.

Q. Is this revision designed to avoid any dispute about whether the press release constituted a material adverse change?

A. I can speculate that that may have

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017068

Lurie

been suggested why this should be put in, so it could not be debated.

Q. Because, otherwise, it might have been debated?

A. It might have been a debate.

Q. Did Morgan Stanley keep track of Sunbeam's sales buildup after March 19th?

A. I today do not know exactly -- do not recall what Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk would have been doing on the 19th, 20th through the end of the quarter or actually through, I guess, the closing on the sales buildup. What we might have done, I just do not recall.

Q. Do you have any expectation about what would be done?

A. Do I have any expectation?

Q. Sure.

A. I could guess about things you might want to do. But I don't know what we thought about back then or what we advised to do. I don't recall any discussions relating to it.

Q. What did Morgan Stanley do on this transaction after March 19th?

A. I have no recollection of what Morgan

Lurie

Stanley did with regard to the sales buildup, because I think we're still premised that's the question.

Q. I'm asking more generally now.

Putting aside the sales buildup, what, if anything, did Morgan Stanley do in connection with the convertible debt offering after March 19th?

A. There would have been a closing. They would have had to fund. They would have had to distribute the preliminary prospectus to the purchasers and the offering. There would have been a bring down due diligence phone call. There would have been a bring down comfort letter. There would have potentially been calls with the company on a variety of different matters. I mean, you know.

Q. But as you sit here today, you don't know which of those events occurred?

A. Well, I mean, there was a closing.

Q. Right.

A. There was a bring down due diligence phone call. There would have been that. There would have been Morgan Stanley distributing the preliminary -- I mean, the final prospectus or offering memo. I mean, there would have been virtually all of those things.

Lurie

Q. The bring down due diligence phone call, did you participate in that?

A. I believe I did, but I don't know specifically recall. Again, it would have been normal for me to participate in that phone call. So I'm assuming I did.

Q. Do you have any recollection of when that occurred?

A. Well, if the closing was the 25th, if I recall we discussed before, then it would probably have been the morning of the 25th or more possibly the evening before.

Q. Was there any discussion about Sunbeam's sales situation in the first quarter as part of the bring-down call?

A. I apologize. But I don't remember the specifics of that 1998 March 23rd, 24th, whatever day it was, phone call.

Q. This has been marked as Exhibit 35 previously.

Does Exhibit 35 refresh your memory in any way concerning the subjects of the bring down due diligence calls?

Lurie

A. Other than reading and seeing this is what they would have liked to discuss, it doesn't make me any more recollect what actually transpired on that phone call.

Q. Do you have any reason to believe that buildup of first quarter revenues was not a subject?

A. I have no reason to believe it was not a subject. I would assume it was a subject.

Q. So is it fair to say that Morgan Stanley knew as of the last week of March where Sunbeam was with its first quarter sales?

A. They would have known through the date of the bring down comfort letter, which would have brought through a date prior to that date of that comfort letter.

Generally, I think back then -- I think it was maybe two days, that the accountants would have been able to confirm -- there would have been discussions with the company. So they would have known through the date of the phone call, which may again, as we were looking at before, may be actually more information than would be in the bring down comfort letter. They would have, obviously, a better sense March 23rd, 24th what the quarter was than March 19th or 18th.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 162

Lurie

Q. Do you recall learning that Sunbeam was $75 million below first quarter '97 numbers during the bring-down call?

A. I have no recollection of that discussion during the bring-down call.

Q. Would that information warrant an additional press release?

A. Again, I can't tell you what other discussions went on. I see this piece of paper (indicating). Whether there were other pieces of paper that had more detailed information, for example, similar to the buildup numbers page we had before -- again, I just have no specific recollection. And for you to just simply say it was 75 million, I don't know what else we knew back in 1998 when those calls were occurring.

Q. So simply knowing that with less than a week to go in the quarter Sunbeam was $75 million behind in revenue to make the first quarter '97 number, that alone is insufficient for you to determine whether that is material that needs to be disclosed?

Page 163

Lurie

MR. WISE: He says he doesn't know where the 75 million -- I don't know whether you're testifying or on what basis you are presenting that to him, but he's already told you he doesn't recognize that number. The question is, at best, hypothetical, assuming that your information is correct.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Can you answer the question?

A. I'm not sure what the question is at this point. Because, again, where is the 75 million? How do we get that information?

Q. If Sunbeam advised you that it was $75 million below first quarter '97 numbers as of March 24, would information, in and of itself, be sufficient for you to determine that it needed to be disclosed?

A. It would have certainly raised at March 23rd, 24th, with seven days left in the quarter, questions about further due diligence on the quarterly numbers, and it would have potentially raised issues about a new press release. It could have raised issues about stickering the offering memo, because this is now after the final offering memo had been printed. But, again, I don't know what other information we had. And I don't know where the 75 million number comes from.

Page 164

Lurie

Q. And you don't know whether any additional due diligence was performed after March 24th?

A. After March 24th?

Q. Correct.

A. We closed the next morning, I recall. So I'm not sure what more due diligence would have been done between the night of -- assuming it was the evening of the 24th, when the bring-down call occurred, and 10 o'clock the next morning, when the underwriters like to close, or 9 o'clock, whatever.

Q. Aside from the bring down due diligence phone call on the 24th or 25th, did Morgan Stanley do any other diligence activities between March 19th and the bring-down call?

A. Again, I do not recall today what other work either Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley did back in the March 1998, between the dates, the 19th and the 23rd, 24th, what we would have done, what we did back then.

Page 165

Lurie

Q. Were there any discussions in March 1998 concerning the impact on Sunbeam's second quarter of its efforts to make first quarter numbers?

A. I don't again recall any specific questions today that were discussed back in 1998 relating to impact on second quarter of first quarter.

Q. Would you expect that to be an area of inquiry?

A. Well, it's just part of the whole issue that we were talking about earlier on that was in the offering memo about what one of the earlier sales programs, whatever they were called. I mean, it would be issues and questions that you would be looking into as part of the whole process.

Q. I'm going to give you what we've marked previously as Exhibit 33. Exhibit 33 is another bring down due diligence call agenda; is that correct?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

A. Yeah. From -- dated previous, it looks like. This is dated March 19th. The earlier memo is dated four days later, March 23rd.
Q. And the first bullet point in Exhibit 33 refers to the top and bottom line outlook for first quarter, first half and the year?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. That doesn't appear in Exhibit 35?
A. That was the other one?
Q. Correct.
A. Those specific words obviously don't appear in 35.
Q. Why is that?
A. Why? I don't know. I can't recall why it got changed, why it was different. I mean, the concepts are in the Exhibit 35: Are you still comfortable with 1998 earning estimates? So that's a bottom-line number for a full fiscal year.
Q. So you don't recall any discussions concerning revisions to the bring down due diligence call agenda?

Lurie

MR. WISE: Besides which, if he did, I would tell him not to answer.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Looking again at Exhibit 35, the March 23 agenda, the first bullet provides, "Please update us on the build up of first quarter revenue and earnings"?
A. Uh-huh.
Q. What did you hear about Sunbeam's earnings in that bring down due diligence call?
A. I don't recall any specific discussions in that bring-down call regarding earnings.
Q. Do you think you would recall if you learned that Sunbeam was showing a loss?
A. Well, again, it depends. I mean, what we knew, when we knew -- I mean, if that was the first time I had heard of a loss, yes, it might have caused me to be surprised. But I don't remember when in the whole process we knew what was going on and what the issues were. So I can't tell you if I was surprised --
Q. But you don't recall anything out of the ordinary?

Lurie

A. No.
Q. Did you ever learn that Sunbeam was extending the ending date of its first quarter?
A. I do not recall ever being told that or hearing that or learning that.
Q. So you had no discussions with Andersen about whether the first quarter time frame would be extended?
A. I have no recollection. That would be very surprising to me.
Q. Surprising that the quarter would be extended or surprising that you had the discussions, or both?
A. Certainly extending the quarter would have surprised me.
Q. Why do you say that?
A. Because you can't do that.
Q. So if you had known that, that would be something that would cause you to make further inquiry?
A. I would have inquired, How can you do that under the accounting rules?
Q. Do you know how much bill-and-hold revenue Sunbeam recognized in the first quarter of '98?

Lurie

A. Absolutely no recollection.
Q. Did you make any inquiry as to how much bill-and-hold revenue was being recognized in the first quarter of 1998?
A. I have no recollection of any discussions -- any specific discussions on that subject at this point.
Q. Would the amount of the bill-and-hold revenue in the first quarter be an area of inquiry or concern?
A. Again, depends on the context of all the other pieces of information you have at the point in time. You can't necessarily just take one fact and say that's -- it may change the mix of facts that are going to have you do certain things because of that.
Q. So if you had known there was $30 million of bill-and-hold revenue in the first quarter, that fact by itself wouldn't cause you any concern?
A. Depends on what bill and hold were in the prior quarter. It depends on what we had heard about why there was going to be that amount

017071

Lurie

of bill and hold and if that was a large amount. I don't recall any of that.

Q. Did you receive a bring-down letter from Andersen?

A. We would have received a bring-down comfort letter.

Q. Do you recall, in fact, receiving it in this case?

A. I don't recall specifically, but practice with Morgan Stanley and other underwriters would be to receive a bring-down comfort letter.

Q. But you don't remember how you got it or where you were when you first received a copy?

A. It would have been delivered at the closing, often coming in by fax. Whether that's how it was delivered in this. But that's often how it's handled.

Q. I'm going to show you Exhibit 112. Does this appear to be the bring-down comfort letter delivered to Morgan Stanley?

A. Yes, it does.

Q. Do you recall anyone from Davis Polk or Morgan Stanley having any reaction to the information in this letter?

Lurie

A. I have no recollection of anyone's reaction, positive or negative, to this letter.

Q. You don't recall anyone being surprised by it?

A. I don't recall anyone being surprised by it.

Q. Were there any discussions at all surrounding its contents?

A. I don't recall any specific discussions relating to the contents of this or the drafts that we had most likely received beforehand.

Q. And you don't recall any shock over the loss of $40 million in the first two months of 1998?

A. No. I'd have to go back also and look at what the earlier March 19th one said. Again, this is through -- the period that they're covering is through March 1 of '98. The buildup that we talked about is from the April -- excuse me -- from the March 18th meeting had more updated information. The bring down due diligence call would have had more updated information that we would have had. Their procedures and work actually is only through the 23rd. That's back in paragraph (c). So we actually had potentially more updated information than was in here.

Q. So this information didn't cause you any shock?

A. Again, I don't recall it causing any shock, annoyance or surprise.

Q. Did Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk share this information in the comfort letter with anyone?

A. I mean, I would have obviously given a copy to Alan and probably the other people on our team. Morgan Stanley would have probably given it around in-house. Whoever else they might have shared it with, I have no knowledge. I don't think we would have shared it with anyone.

Q. Why do you say that?

A. Because it wouldn't be our practice to share a comfort letter with anyone else. I mean, if there were other underwriters that weren't in this offering, they would have received copies, but --

Lurie

Q. But, otherwise, it's for underwriters?

A. Yeah.

Q. At any point during your work on the Sunbeam transaction, did you have any dealings of any sort with anyone from MacAndrews & Forbes?

A. I don't recall speaking to anyone from Andrews [sic] & Forbes. There may have been -- they may have been on the phone at some point in time, but I don't recall today.

Q. You can't tell me the name of any MacAndrews & Forbes person who was on any phone call with you?

A. Not that I recall today, no. I'm sorry.

Q. How about Wachtel Lipton? Did you have any dealings with them in connection with the Sunbeam transaction?

A. Not to my recollection.

Q. How about Credit Suisse First Boston?

A. Today, not to my recollection. We may have, but I know that they represented.

Q. Anyone associated with the Coleman

0172

Page 174

Lurie

company? Did you have any dealings with anyone from Coleman?

A. Well, at some point in time during the due diligence process, we would have done due diligence. And we would have had phone calls with management of Coleman, First Alert and -- what's the --

MR. WISE: Signature Brands.

A. -- Signature Brands. We would have done due diligence on those companies. There would have been someone from management of those companies on the phone that we would have spoken to. So, yes, at some point, I presume we had conversations with people from Coleman.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. But as you sit here today --

A. I don't recall specifically who it would have been.

Q. Or even if it, in fact, occurred?

A. I'm only assuming. And knowing the practice and the process for an offering related to three acquisitions, or even one acquisition that's described, we would have spent time with the management, with the accountants of the acquired target company.

Lurie

Q. Are you aware of anyone outside of Morgan Stanley, Skadden Arps, Davis Polk or Sunbeam who was aware of -- and Andersen -- who was aware of the sales shortfall during the first quarter of 1998?

MR. WISE: You said there was a press release that went out. Assuming anyone read that press release.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Let me phrase the question differently.

Do you know of anyone outside of Andersen, Skadden, Sunbeam, Morgan Stanley and Davis Polk who was aware of the fact through the first two months of '98 sales were running at half of the prior year period?

A. I have no knowledge of who else might have been advised or been told of those facts.

Q. But, to your knowledge, Davis Polk and Morgan Stanley didn't advise anyone of those facts?

A. I do not recall advising anyone. I cannot tell you what Morgan Stanley might have done, whether they advised the other bank syndicate members. Often, they probably would have. But I can't tell you, because I don't know what they did and have no recollection of what they might have done.

Page 176

Lurie

Q. From your perspective, was the Sunbeam convertible offering a successful one for Morgan Stanley?

A. At the time I thought it was.

Q. How about today?

A. Today, knowing what happened, probably wasn't so successful for them.

Q. Why do you say that?

A. I have a sneaking suspicion they may have had to buy back a good portion of the bonds.

Q. What's your basis for that suspicion?

A. Just word of mouth and understanding what often happens in failed deals. In failed deals, in the sense that the company does not meet its expectations.

Q. This was a failed deal, it's safe to say?

A. Ultimately, you could say that Sunbeam did not meet its expectations. And, therefore, there might have been some significant issues. And Morgan Stanley, I'm assuming, had to buy back a number of bonds.

Page 177

Lurie

Q. When you say you're assuming that, do you actually know one way or the other whether Morgan Stanley did buy back bonds?

A. I do not know as a fact, just word of mouth, understanding this may have occurred.

Q. When you say word of mouth, understanding that this may have occurred, can you tell me in any more detail?

A. Generally in the market, I could have been -- by the time that might have occurred, I was no longer at Davis Polk. I might have heard it through other underwriters -- other investment banks. Excuse me. And I don't recall how I heard. But that's just what my understanding is, that that's what happened.

Q. That it did happen or -- are you assuming that it happened, or did you hear that it happened?

A. Well, that is semantics. I'm assuming it happened, because that's what I understood happened. So I don't know as a fact,

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Lurie

because I was not at Morgan Stanley, hearing them specifically tell me they bought back X dollars of those bonds.

Q. But you heard that happened?

A. That is -- I heard that happened.

Q. Do you know when that happened?

A. I don't know. I don't recall. I presume it was within the first few months after -- three to six months after the offering.

Q. And can you give me any more detail on the word of mouth or from whom you heard it?

A. I apologize. This is 2004. This is a long time ago. I don't recall.

Q. Do you know one way or the other whether Morgan Stanley & Company lost money on the Sunbeam transaction?

A. I have no -- I have no knowledge of those facts. I don't know if they made money, lost money, whatever.

Q. To your knowledge, was Morgan Stanley or Davis Polk denied access to any information or personnel at Sunbeam?

A. Not to my knowledge. I have no recollection of being denied access to anyone.

Lurie

And if I was, it would certainly have raised a question in my mind. But I have no recollection of having that concern.

Q. Have you formed the view, with hindsight, that Sunbeam lied to Morgan Stanley, though?

A. I really haven't thought about whether they were lying or whether they just missed their sales expectations. I know there were issues later on with channel stuffing and revenue recognition and potentially sales that didn't occur or that were empty boxes, sort of, but I don't know when those -- I don't recall today when those occurred, whether they were in connection with the offering -- or in connection with the first quarter, not saying in connection with the offering. It's just a long time ago. And I don't remember the specifics of the time frame.

Q. So as you sit here, you are not in a position to say that Sunbeam lied to Morgan Stanley?

A. At the time I didn't -- not think they were lying. I don't know again what all the transactions were and when all the questionable practices occurred. I don't recall, at least.

Lurie

Q. And you were nodding your head "no," which the Court Reporter can't pick up.

A. Oh, I'm sorry.

Q. You left Davis Polk in April of '98?

A. End of April.

Q. Were you negotiating with O'Sullivan while you were -- during March of '98?

A. I had agreed -- I think I told people that I was leaving back in February. I think it was like two months before. In fact, Sunbeam was the last real deal I did at Davis Polk.

Q. So you had already given notice before you worked on the transaction?

A. Yeah. Yeah.

Q. But you were still at Davis Polk when the April 3 press release came out; is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. That was the press release -- well, let me just show it to you.

This was marked previously as Exhibit 36.

Lurie

A. Do you want me to read this whole thing?

Q. If you could. Thanks.

A. Okay.

Q. Did you see this press release at around the time it was issued?

A. I have absolutely no recollection of seeing this press release.

Q. Do you have any recollection, then, of being surprised by Sunbeam's first quarter '98 results when they were announced?

A. I do not today -- recall today when I heard about the first quarter or this press release or anything else about the Sunbeam.

Q. So it's safe to say, then, that you don't recall any surprise about hearing the results?

A. That's correct. I don't remember any surprise.

Q. I want to ask you about one sentence which is on -- in the second paragraph of the release itself.

A. Okay.

Q. Towards the middle there is a

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017074

Page 182

Lurie

sentence that states, "We were offered opportunities to sell additional product at margins which we felt were unacceptable and we rejected that business."

Had you heard anything like that during the course of your diligence?

A. I don't recall any discussion relating to that.

Q. How about the next sentence and, in particular, the phrase that "Sunbeam felt it was important to preserve the integrity of our brands and not to sacrifice the future of our business for short term results."

Do you see that?

A. Yeah.

Q. At any time in March of 1998 did you have any discussions concerning Sunbeam's long-term performance as opposed to its short-term results?

A. Well, we obviously talked about, as I said earlier, the full year expectations versus quarterly expectations. We very well may have seen projections for 1999 during the course of the due diligence process. So you're always looking at both short-term projections and long-term forecast projections.

Lurie

Q. Did you satisfy yourself that Sunbeam was -- strike that.

Did you determine whether Sunbeam was a company being run on a short-term basis?

A. I don't remember making -- I don't remember what determination or conclusions we reached back in 1998.

Q. Did you have any discussions with anyone at Davis Polk after the convertible offering closed concerning Sunbeam, excluding the past few months?

A. I don't recall any discussions. I mean, the last month I was pretty much packing up my office, passing on other transactions, other clients I had been working on. I don't remember really today anything that might have happened regarding Sunbeam during my last month at Davis Polk.

Q. So you don't recall any discussions with, say, Mr. Dean after the first quarter closed?

A. I do not recall any discussions with

Page 184

Lurie

Mr. Dean.

Q. Did Davis Polk do any kind of postmortem on the convertible offering?

A. Not to my recollection. I'm also -- I'm not sure what you mean by "postmortem." But I'll assume -- I don't remember anything out of the ordinary. Let's put it that way.

Q. You testified earlier today that you looked at the acquisition documents to get a sense of -- the merger documents to get a sense of how they were described in the offering memorandum?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. I'm going to show you one of those, if I could.

A. Sure.

Q. It's been marked previously as MS 117. And, obviously, it's a lengthy document. So we're not going to have you read the whole thing now.

A. Thank you. Thank you.

Q. Does this look to be the merger agreement between Sunbeam and Coleman?

A. It looks to be the merger agreement between Sunbeam and Coleman, yes.

Page 185

Lurie

Q. And this would be the document that you reviewed in March of '98?

A. Well, again, I can't tell you specifically that I actually looked at that agreement. It could have been looked at by Heather or someone else at Davis Polk. And they may have summarized any provisions to me. I don't recall when I specifically read this document. It varies from deal to deal and transaction to transaction of what I do or someone else may do.

Q. But it would be at least subject for discussion within Davis Polk?

A. It would have been reviewed as part of the due diligence process. Whether it would have been a subject of discussion is another question, but it clearly would have been reviewed.

Q. I wonder if you could look at paragraph -- excuse me -- Section 7.3, which is on Page 29 --

A. Uh-huh.

Q. -- and, in particular, 7.3(b) and

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017075

Lurie
read that for me.
A. You want me to read it out loud?
Q. Just read it to yourself.
A. Oh. Okay.
Q. Laser --
A. I was just going to look back. Laser, I presume, is Sunbeam?
MR. WISE: If you look on the first page, Laser is Sunbeam. The company is the Coleman company.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. As long as we're looking at definitions, I want to call your attention to the definition of information statement, which is on Page 4.
A. Okay.
Q. And, of course, that refers you to another section?
A. 4.9.
Q. 4.9.
A. Why should it be any different than any other merger agreement? Uh-huh.
Q. Do you see the definition of information statement in 4.9?

Lurie
A. Uh-huh.
Q. And that's the information statement referred to in 7.3(b)?
A. I have to go back and look. I don't see (b). Is there a reference -- oh, there it is. Yeah. That would be the same definition.
Q. Based on the definition of information statement in 4.9, do you have a sense of what that document is?
A. It would be the information statement that was distributed in connection with the merger. They must have needed shareholder approval of the merger. So there was some information statement that was being delivered. That appears to be, on a quick reading, what's being referred to. I guess 13(e)(3) is a going private provision of the securities law. So there must have been -- the Coleman transaction must have constituted going private transaction.
Were they a public company? I don't even recall beforehand.
Q. If you look at Section 4.9, it also refers to a Section 14F, "Notice."
Do you see that?

Lurie
A. Yes, I do.
Q. That's a different document than the information statement?
A. Yes.
Q. I want to mark a document, if I could. This will be CPH 231.
(CPH Exhibit 231, Coleman Company, Inc. Notice of Merger and Appraisal Rights and Information Sheet, Bates-stamped CPH 1398266 through CPH 1398501, marked for identification, as of this date.)
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Exhibit 231, for the record, is entitled "Coleman Company, Inc. Notice of Merger and Appraisal Rights and Information Statement." And it has the Bates stamp CPH 1398266 through '501. And I recognize this too is a lengthy document.
Does this appear to be the information statement referred to in 7.3(b) of the agreement and plan of merger?
MR. CLARE: I object to the form of the question, and foundation, as it relates to Mr. Lurie's involvement. He has already testified he didn't have any involvement in the merger agreement. So I think it's improper for you to ask him any questions.

Lurie
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. You can answer.
A. It appears to be the information statement registration statement S4 that's being referred to, or whatever in this other document, in the merger agreement.
Q. In 7.3(b) of the merger agreement?
A. 4.9.
Q. Actually both.
MR. WISE: Okay. If you're testifying, then we can all leave --
MR. JOHNSON: No, no, no.
MR. WISE: And since you know the answers to the questions --
MR. JOHNSON: I'm trying --
MR. WISE: I'm sorry. I'm talking. Since you seem to know the answers to the questions, there's no sense in, you know, holding us here. So maybe we could wrap it up, then, since you already know the answers.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01076

Lurie

MR. JOHNSON: It's exactly my effort to move things along.

MR. WISE: Why don't we get to a question that this witness can answer.

BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Okay. Does Exhibit CPH 231 appear to be the information statement referenced in Section 4.9 of the agreement and plan of merger?

MR. CLARE: If you know.

A. It looks like an information statement. I do not recall ever seeing this. I do not recall any involvement in this. I'm just looking at what the words are. And it appears to be the document.

MR. WISE: What's the question?

MR. JOHNSON: He answered.

MR. WISE: I understand. He doesn't know what it is. So go ahead. What's the question that you want to get at? Because this is obviously prefatory.

MR. JOHNSON: No, it's not.

If you want to take a break, I may, in fact, be done.

MR. WISE: Sure. I'm always in favor

Lurie

of that.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 2:35. This completes tape number two.

(Recess taken.)

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 2:44. We're back on the record. This begins tape number three.

MR. JOHNSON: I have no questions.

MR. CLARE: Mr. Lurie, I just have a few questions for you.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

EXAMINATION BY

MR. CLARE:

Q. Did you work on any aspect of the merger and acquisition part of the transaction between Coleman and Sunbeam?

A. No, not to my recollection. I had no involvement in that part of the transaction.

Q. Did you ever represent Coleman in any portion of this transaction?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. Are you aware of what, if any, filings Coleman made with the SEC related to that transaction?

Lurie

A. I have no recollection of what filings they made or may have had to made or what they did make. I just don't know.

Q. Mr. Johnson showed you an exhibit, CPH Exhibit 231. As you sit here today, do you have any understanding or knowledge what, if any, other mailings may have been --

A. Any other what?

Q. -- mailings or filings were made by Coleman in connection with the transaction?

A. None whatsoever. I just note, this is a date of 2000 it's talking about, which is January, which is 18 months after my involvement.

Q. Are you aware one way or the other whether other filings or mailings were made by Coleman?

A. I have no idea.

MR. CLARE: Those are all the questions I have.

MR. JOHNSON: I have just a few follow-up, naturally.

FURTHER EXAMINATION BY

MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Do you have any understanding as to why Exhibit 231 is dated, as you say, about 18 months after the transaction?

Lurie

A. I do not ever recall seeing this document. I'd have to go through and figure out what this is all. I'm assuming this is the information memo.

Q. Did you learn at some point that Arthur Andersen withheld its consent to the filing of the registration statement on the convertible offering?

A. On the registration statement on the -- on the convertible offering?

Q. Yes.

A. It was a 144A. I don't recall there being a registration related to it.

Q. You don't recall any subsequent registration?

A. I don't recall any subsequent registration.

Q. Do you recall more generally Andersen withholding its consent to any SEC filings for Sunbeam?

A. I don't recall anything. This is, to my knowledge, the first I've heard that they

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

011077

Lurie

withheld their consent.
Q. As you sit here today, do you have an opinion as to whether the offering memorandum that you worked on was materially false and misleading at the time it was issued?
A. I'm sorry. Could you repeat the question.
Q. As you sit here today, with the benefit of hindsight, do you have opinion as to whether, when it issued, the offering memorandum was materially false and misleading?
A. I haven't really thought about it. There are obviously questions I might want to reconsider today, but I haven't really thought about it. It depends on what we knew and what we felt at the time we issued the offering memorandum that was issued that we had done the appropriate, necessary thorough due diligence, and we thought it was an appropriate offering memo.
Q. But with the benefit of hindsight, you now acknowledge it may not have been an accurate offering memorandum?
A. I don't want to acknowledge anything.

Lurie

I mean, again, I'd have to go back and understand what the issues related to Sunbeam's actual problems were, which I don't specifically recall today, what the related SEC concerns and investigations were, have to tie it back to what was in the offering memo and what we may have known at the time. And I just haven't spent any time, to be honest, thinking about those.
Q. So, as you sit here today, you don't have an opinion as to whether there was, in fact, a massive fraud at Sunbeam?
A. I understand there was significant fraud at Sunbeam through the papers, through the SEC proceeding, that there was fraud related to Sunbeam. I do not recall today where and how and what period that fraud related to or specifically how it might have related to the audited financials that were in our offering memo. I'd have to go back and review all of that if you want a specific answer.
Q. And so you don't have a recollection of Sunbeam unraveling within months of the offering memorandum?
MR. WISE: That's not what he said, and that's not a fair way to put the question. And you've gone way beyond the questions that Mr. Clare had asked. So I would suggest you wrap it up.

Lurie

BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. Can you answer the question?
DI MR. WISE: No. I'm going to direct him not to answer that.
BY MR. JOHNSON:
Q. As you sit here today, you don't know where the Sunbeam fraud fits in relation to the work that you did for Sunbeam?
MR. WISE: He just said that. That's repetitive. I object and direct him not to answer.
Do you have some new questions for this witness?
MR. JOHNSON: No, I don't. And if --
DI MR. WISE: Then if you don't, we're finished. I direct him not to answer. It's repetitive. He answered that. It's in the transcript. You already have that answer.
MR. JOHNSON: Okay. No further questions.

Lurie

MR. WISE: Thank you.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 2:49 p.m. This completes the videotaped deposition of Mr. James Lurie.

MR. MARKOWSKI: And also with us today is Steven Fasman from MacAndrews & Forbes.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Will the court reporter please swear in the witness.

RUTH PORAT, called as a witness, having been duly sworn by a Notary Public, was examined and testified as follows:

EXAMINATION BY MR. MARKOWSKI:

Q. Would you please state your full name for the record?

A. Ruth Porat.

Q. And again I ask you for your home address.

A. 1 West 72nd Street, New York, New York 10023.

Q. And who is your current employer today, Ms. Porat?

A. Morgan Stanley.

Q. Are you represented by counsel today?

A. Yes.

Q. Who is that?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

A. The two gentlemen here.
Q. Did you have an opportunity to prepare for your deposition today?
A. Briefly.
Q. How did you do that?
A. Spent time with counsel and looked at a couple of documents from a prior deposition.
Q. Did you review your prior deposition transcript?
A. Yes.
Q. Let me show you that.
MR. MARKOWSKI: Can you mark that as Coleman (Parent) Holdings Exhibit 342.
(Coleman (Parent) Holdings Exhibit 342, transcript of Ruth Porat's deposition of February 6, 2001, marked for identification, as of this date.)
Q. Do you have Exhibit 342 in front of you?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell me what it is?
A. From my deposition from February 6, 2001.
Q. In the case of Camden Asset Management versus Sunbeam, correct?
A. Correct.

Q. And this is the testimony you gave in that litigation?
A. I believe so from the cover.
Q. And you gave this testimony under oath, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And you read this deposition transcript prior to coming here today to prepare?
A. Is this the one I -- yes.
Q. In reading -- how recently did you read it?
A. Yesterday.
Q. In reading it, did you come across any testimony that you gave that you believe to be inaccurate today?
A. No.
Q. In reading it, did you recall things today that you did not recall at the time you testified in February of 2001?
A. No.
Q. Did reviewing this transcript refresh your recollection as to certain things?
A. Yes.
Q. When did you first meet with counsel to prepare for today?

A. Last Thursday or Friday. I don't remember exactly. It was last week.
Q. Where was that?
A. In my office.
Q. With whom did you meet?
A. Tom and Jim.
Q. Mr. Clare and Mr. Doyle?
A. Yes.
Q. Anyone else?
A. No.
Q. In addition to the testimony that you gave in the Camden Asset litigation in February of 2001, Ms. Porat, you have been deposed on other occasions; is that correct?
A. Yes.
Q. How many others?
A. I am guessing, but not very many, maybe a handful. I am not sure.
Q. How would you define "a handful" in this context?
A. I am completely guessing here, but maybe five times.
Q. Can you recall any of the matters in which you were deposed?
A. I was deposed on regarding a company called Perrigo and on Sunbeam a couple of times, it feels like at this point. And once on Martha Stewart, and that's all I can recall. There may be more, but that's all I can recall.

Q. The Perrigo matter involved litigation against Morgan Stanley, correct?
A. I don't remember. It was a long time ago.
Q. It involved a transaction in which you were involved while you were employed at Morgan Stanley in the early 1990s, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. The Martha Stewart matter in which you testified, what did that litigation involve?
A. That was more background around the case of Morgan Stanley. It wasn't -- I don't think there was -- there was no case against Morgan Stanley that I recall.
Q. Did it relate to Ms. Stewart's recent criminal prosecution?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you testify in the criminal case?
A. No.
Q. What was the nature of the proceeding in which you testified?

THE WITNESS: Can I just ask something? Is it okay to talk about other cases?
MR. CLARE: Within reason.
THE WITNESS: It's a little uncomfortable.
MR. CLARE: You can describe generally the substance.
A. The U.S. Attorney's office had me come down and talk about events around the trade that was the subject of the litigation.
Q. Was this before the grand jury?
A. No. It was just it was in their office. It was the U.S. Attorney and I came with a couple of other people there and it was background. It lasted, as I recall, maybe an hour. It was pretty short. There wasn't much that was relevant.
Q. Did you have any personal knowledge relating to the facts concerning Ms. Stewart's situation?
A. No. That's why it was so short.
Q. One of the things we will try to do today is not talk at the same time. It's a little tricky at times because the court reporter can only record -- I am sure she will do well, but it's easier for her if only one of us speaks at the same time. So I will wait until you finish your answer and I would appreciate if you try to pause and wait till I finish my questions, so we will go more smoothly.

Is there any reason today, Ms. Porat, why you would have difficulty testifying truthfully or accurately?
A. No.
Q. Are you taking any medications that might affect your testimony in any way?
A. I don't know whether it would affect my testimony, but yes.
Q. You believe that you may be taking medications currently that could have an affect on your ability to testify today?
A. I am taking an oral chemotherapy and it may or may not affect my memory.
Q. Have you been told that?
A. I was told when I was on chemo, on the big dose, that it could and I don't know if it does.
Q. Have you noticed that occurring to you?
A. That my memory is not as good? I have been told it's not as good. I don't think it is. I will do my best and tell you if I have problems.

Page 12

Q. Are you currently working?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you currently have client responsibilities?
A. Yes.
Q. Would you characterize your current client responsibilities for Morgan Stanley clients as involving financially significant transactions?
A. Yes.
Q. Has the firm modified your work-related responsibilities at all as a result of your current medical condition?
A. They have been, I think, very supportive and said I should handle as much as I can handle, which is what I am doing.
Q. But they haven't taken away responsibility for client matters?
A. No.
Q. Are you currently responsible for supervising the activities of others at Morgan Stanley?
A. Yes.
Q. What's the general nature of that?
A. On any client matter we have a team that works on it and I am generally responsible for the team that works on those situations.

Q. What's your current work schedule?
A. In around -- I mean, hours?
Q. Daily schedule, yes.
A. In around 7:30 or 8, out around 7. Oftentimes I have something in the evening.
Q. So your normal workday would be from 7 in the morning until 7 at night and then you might have further responsibilities outside the office?
A. Give or take.
Q. Is that every day of the week?
A. It varies, but that's a reasonable estimate.
Q. What's your current position at Morgan Stanley?
A. Vice chairman of investment banking.
Q. To whom do you report?
A. Terry Meguid, who is the head of investment banking.
Q. What do you think of Mr. Meguid?
MR. CLARE: Objection to form.
Q. What do you think of him?
A. What do you mean by that?
Q. What do you think of him professionally, what's your opinion of him?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

A. I think he is a very strong professional.
Q. What do you think of him as a manager?
MR. CLARE: Same objection.
A. I think he is a very good manager.
Q. What do you think of him as a judge of other people at the firm?
MR. CLARE: Same objection.
A. I think highly of him.
Q. Do you think he is capable of judging other Morgan Stanley personnel well?
MR. CLARE: Same objection.
A. Yes.
Q. The position of vice chairman of investment banking, Ms. Porat, what responsibilities does that entail?
A. It implies a certain role on -- with respect to clients, and I am involved in other matters for the division, like involved in the year-end review process and other areas that could be helpful in running the division, basically supporting Terry Meguid's efforts.
Q. Is Mr. Meguid's title --
A. Meguid.
Q. I'm sorry?

A. Meguid.
Q. Is Mr. Meguid's title chairman of investment banking?
A. No.
Q. What is his title?
A. I think it's head of investment banking. I am not sure.
Q. Is there more than one vice chairman of investment banking at Morgan Stanley today?
A. Yes.
Q. How many are there?
A. Approximately a dozen. I am not sure exactly.
Q. Are there any administrative responsibilities associated with that position?
A. Other than what I just described?
Q. Yes.
A. No.
Q. Can you briefly give me an overview of the kinds of client-related matters for which you are currently responsible?
A. It varies across M&A equity and debt. That's basically whatever issues a client is trying to solve.
Q. What's the general nature of the role you play in those client transactions?

A. Trying to understand what the issues are, support clients, and then making sure we have the right Morgan Stanley colleagues involved, and who are most proficient in the relevant area, focused on the problem.
Q. Do you have any responsibility for business investment?
A. Yes.
Q. What is the nature of that?
A. Well, that's when I said trying to understand clients' problems. To me, that's what business investment is. It's meeting with clients, trying to understand what their issues are and trying to -- you can call it business investment, trying to understand their for -- what business is most relevant for them.
Q. Do you have responsibility for trying to obtain engagements for Morgan Stanley?
A. Yes.
Q. How do you go about doing that?
A. Meet with clients and, feeling a little repetitive, but trying to understand what the issues are that are most important to them.
Q. And make presentations about Morgan

Stanley capabilities?
A. Yes, at times.
Q. Are you currently doing that?
A. Yes.
Q. You graduated from business school in 1987?
A. Correct.
Q. And you went to work directly after business school with Morgan Stanley, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And you remained with Morgan Stanley until 1993?
A. Correct.
Q. Can you give me an overview of your responsibilities between 1987 and 1993 while you were employed at Morgan Stanley?
A. In 1987 when I joined Morgan Stanley, I was in the M&A department and then in approximately 1990 I moved to the corporate finance department.
Q. What kinds of matters were you involved in while you were in the corporate finance department in the early '90s with Morgan Stanley?
A. I spent most of my time covering what is now called financial sponsors, leveraged buyout firms, looking for acquisitions for them, and helping with equity offerings.

011705

Page 18

Q. During your employment at Morgan Stanley from '87 through 1993, you became very experienced in conducting due diligence associated with mergers and acquisitions, did you not?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. I was involved in due diligence.
Q. You became very familiar with that process in that six-year period, did you not?
A. I became familiar. I am not sure where you are going with "very experienced." I don't know how you calibrate that, but I was involved in diligence processes.
Q. I'm sorry, I didn't mean to interrupt. On a regular basis?
A. Yes.
Q. And you had due diligence responsibilities yourself during that time period, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. I think one of the things you -- in fact, one of the things you testified about in the Perrigo litigation related to due diligence that Morgan Stanley conducted, correct?

Page 19

A. Yes.
Q. You left Morgan Stanley in 1993 and went to work for Smith Barney, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And you stayed at Smith Barney until 1996?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you leave Morgan Stanley?
A. Two of the people I worked with closely went to Smith Barney and I went with them.
Q. Who were they?
A. Bob Greenhill and Bob Lessom.
Q. What did you do while you were at Smith Barney?
A. I similarly focused on the financial sponsors of the OBO firm and in the corporate finance department.
Q. And you left Smith Barney in '96 and returned to Morgan Stanley, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. How did that come about?
A. What do you mean by how did that come about?
Q. How did it happen that you left Smith Barney and went to work for Morgan Stanley again?

Page 20

A. I indicated to a couple of people at Morgan Stanley I would be interested in returning if I had the opportunity. And in 1996 a friend called and said if you are interested in talking about coming back, and I did and reinterviewed with a number of people and returned to the firm.
Q. Who called you?
A. Someone by the name of John Adams.
Q. What was the position you were when you rejoined Morgan Stanley in 1996, what was your position?
A. Principal.
Q. In what department did you work?
A. I rejoined in the equity capital markets.
Q. What's the nature of the business that the equity capital markets department in Morgan Stanley conducts?
A. There are a number of different roles. Equity capital markets is a joint venture between investment banking and the equity division, so it is involved in a number of steps related to equity offering. I was on the side that was more of what's called coverage business investment, meeting with clients in the earlier stages of a transaction. And then there is another part of the business that is called syndicate. That's more involved in the execution base of the business.

Q. What kind of transactions does equity capital markets assist Morgan Stanley clients in effectuating?
A. Many different equity and equity-linked transactions, so IPOs, secondary sales of common stock convertible securities.
Q. How long did you remain a principal?
A. I think until 1997, but I am not sure.
Q. You were promoted to a managing director after that?
A. Yes.
Q. At least by the time of the events that we are going to be talking about today in 1997, 1998, when you were involved in work for Sunbeam, you were a managing director for Morgan Stanley, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. What does the title managing director at Morgan Stanley mean, Ms. Porat?
MR. CLARE: I object to the form of the question.
A. I am not exactly sure what you mean by the question.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 22

Q. What's the significance of the title managing director?
A. Managing director is the title that you -- it is -- it's essentially about the highest title you can have.
Q. I have sometimes heard Morgan Stanley managing directors refer to other Morgan Stanley managing directors as their partners?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that a term that you use sometimes to refer to other managing directors?
A. Yes.
Q. Was a managing director in your mind equivalent to a partner in a law firm partnership, for example?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. Never worked in a law firm, so.
Q. Or partner in any partnership?
A. I use the term "partner" to refer to my colleagues who are managing directors.
Q. You are using that in the context of a partner in a partnership?
A. I am using it to connote someone who is very senior in an organization and for whom we collectively feel a responsibility.

Q. Equivalent to an owner in a business?
MR. CLARE: Same objection.
A. Perhaps in a way. Not quite sure where you are going with it, so.
Q. When you returned to Morgan Stanley, Ms. Porat, in 1996 you became involved in doing IPO work, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. That was a fairly significant part of the work that you were engaged in during the late 1990s, correct?
A. Correct, from the equity capital markets group.
Q. And a great deal of your work in 1998 involved IPOs, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. A lot of the IPOs in which you were engaged in 1998 involved Internet companies, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Morgan Stanley in the late 1990s did more Internet IPOs than any other major investment bank, correct?

Page 24

A. No, not correct.
Q. Who did more?
A. Well, I am guessing here, but when we looked, as I recall, when we looked at the numbers, we actually didn't do as many as others like first Boston, as I recall, at certain points, and some others. Wouldn't necessarily do the largest number.
Q. Is it the case that there were various points where Morgan Stanley believed it was more -- doing more IPOs for Internet companies than any other major investment bank?
MR. CLARE: Objection, foundation.
A. I don't know.
Q. Let me put it this way. Were there times that you believed that Morgan Stanley was doing more Internet IPO transactional work than any other investment bank?
A. Well, as I recall, we were doing more technology underwriting, which is different than Internet, so I am not -- are you asking specifically about Internet IPOs?
Q. Yes.
A. I don't recall that we -- the reason I asked the technology question is we were, as I recall, doing more technology underwriting.

Q. In any event, Morgan Stanley was doing a significant number of Internet IPOs in the late 1990s, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And you were involved in those, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you involved in all the Internet IPO transaction work that Morgan Stanley was doing in the late 1990s?
A. In all likelihood I was involved. I was involved, if not all, with a lot of it.
Q. You were considered a key member of that Morgan Stanley team for that kind of work, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. Yes.
Q. You considered yourself a key member of the Morgan Stanley team doing IPO transactional work for Internet companies in the late 1990s, correct, Ms. Porat?
A. Yes.
Q. You worked extensively with Mary Meeker?
A. Yes.
Q. Who is Mary Meeker?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

A. Mary Meeker is a research analyst who covers -- has covered the technology sector for many years and covers the Internet sector.
Q. She is a managing director at Morgan Stanley?
A. Yes.
Q. What was her position in the late 1990s?
A. I don't know when she was promoted to managing director, but at some point in that period she was promoted to managing director and I think by the end of -- she became managing director by the end of the '90s.
Q. Can you describe for me the nature of your working relationship with Mary Meeker in the late 1990s?
MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question and object to this line of questioning as irrelevant to issues related to this lawsuit and a waste of time.
Q. The nature of your working relationship with Mary Meeker in the late 1990s?
MR. CLARE: And to form.
A. Can you be more specific?
Q. Sure. In what way in the transactions that you were involved in relating to Internet IPOs in the late 1990s at Morgan Stanley did you work with Mary Meeker?

A. Well, she was in the research department and would have a point of view about various companies and their prospects and whether they were the type of company that she would, you know, feel confident researching and following and so there was typically a team that included equity capital markets, corporate finance, and research, and we would meet the company, assess the prospects and determine collectively whether it was a company that we would bank or not bank.
Q. In the late 1990s you were involved in attempting to obtain engagements for Morgan Stanley involving IPO transactions for Internet companies, correct?
MR. CLARE: I am going to renew my objection. This has absolutely nothing to do with Sunbeam and it's a complete waste of the witness's time. And I object to the form of your question.
Q. Do you recall the question, ma'am?
A. No.
MR. MARKOWSKI: Can you read the question back.

(Record read.)
A. Yes.
Q. And you worked with Mary Meeker in that effort, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Has Morgan Stanley been sued in any of the Internet IPO deals in which you worked with Mary Meeker?
A. I believe so.
Q. Can you tell me the transactions that it involved, that have resulted in litigation -- excuse me.
Can you identify for me the IPO transactions that have resulted in litigation against Morgan Stanley?
A. No, I can't.
Q. Do you believe it's more than one?
A. I would be completely guessing. I don't know.
Q. But you know there has been litigation filed against Morgan Stanley in at least one Internet IPO that you and Mary Meeker worked on together?
A. I assume so, yes.
Q. Have you been deposed in any of those cases?

A. If I have, I don't recall.
Q. You have been described in the financial press as a "rainmaker" at Morgan Stanley, Ms. Porat, are you aware of that?
A. Yes.
Q. You think that's a fair characterization of at least one aspect of what you bring to Morgan Stanley?
A. How are you defining --
Q. Are you familiar with the term "rainmaker"?
A. I just want to make sure I understand how you are understanding it.
Q. Let work with your definition. Are you familiar with the term?
A. Yes.
Q. What do you understand it to mean in the context of the investment banking business?
A. Bringing in business.
Q. Do you think that's a fair characterization of the value that you bring to Morgan Stanley?
A. Yes.
Q. Have you heard the term "rainmaker" used at Morgan Stanley?

A. Not very often.
Q. Do you know Bill Strong?
A. Yes.
Q. Who is Bill Strong?
A. He is a managing director based in our Chicago office.
Q. You worked with Mr. Strong in connection with the Sunbeam transactions, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. In the late 1990s, did you consider Mr. Strong to be a rainmaker at Morgan Stanley?
A. Yes.
Q. Mr. Strong was well known for his ability to bring in business, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.
You can answer.
A. Yes.
Q. I have seen an indication in the financial press, Ms. Porat, that in the spring of 2002 there was speculation that you might be leaving Morgan Stanley to go to work at UBS Warburg. Have you ever seen -- well, let me strike that question.

Was there a time in the spring of 2002 that you considered leaving Morgan Stanley?
A. Yes.
Q. And did you consider going to UBS Warburg?
A. Yes.
Q. Why did you consider leaving Morgan Stanley at that time?
MR. CLARE: I want to renew my objection to this whole line of questioning as irrelevant to anything related to Sunbeam, as a complete waste of time.
You can answer.
A. I was someone -- I had known for years that people at UBS had been trying to recruit me there for some time.
Q. Was there any particular reason why you were considering leaving Morgan Stanley?
A. The opportunity at UBS I thought might be more interesting.
Q. Is there anything about your work environment at Morgan Stanley that you were unhappy with at that time?
A. It was really the -- what I thought might be the relative comparison.

Q. Did Morgan Stanley take any steps to keep you?
A. I spoke to a number of people at Morgan Stanley and concluded that, actually, I would prefer to stay.
Q. Did they offer you any inducements to stay?
A. What do you mean by "inducements"?
Q. Additional compensation, a change in job responsibility, a change in work environment, something that would induce you to stay at Morgan Stanley and not leave to go to a competitor?
A. They had me -- they made up an error in the compensation decision, but that was it. It wasn't an inducement. It wasn't -- they didn't -- it wasn't more than that.
Q. You had some complaint about a compensation decision that had been made?
A. Yes.
Q. And that was rectified?
A. Correct.
Q. How much money did that involve?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Was it significant, in your mind?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.

A. It was more about a promise.
Q. What was the nature of the promise?
A. Just an expectation on what compensation would have been.
Q. Who made the promise?
A. I don't even actually recall.
Q. And you felt that someone had reneged on that promise?
A. Yes.
Q. And who rectified it for you?
A. It was -- I wouldn't know one person to name. It was just whoever the group was.
Q. Was Mr. Meguid involved in that?
A. Yes.
Q. Was he the person who reneged on the promise?
A. Again, I don't think it's one person. It was just a process.
Q. Did you blame him for it?
A. I don't think I understand "blame."
Q. Did you think he was responsible in some way for the disappointment that you realized when this promise wasn't fulfilled related to your compensation?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

017089

Page 34

A. I think he was part of it.
Q. Was he involved in rectifying it?
A. He was part of it.
Q. Was there someone more senior to Mr. Meguid that was involved in rectifying it?
A. I don't know who else was involved at the end of the day in making the decision.
Q. Do you know anyone who was involved?
A. What do you mean?
Q. In rectifying the complaint that you had about the promise that was unmet relating to your compensation, do you know anybody other than Mr. Meguid who was involved in rectifying that situation to your satisfaction?
A. Probably Joe Perella. I am not sure who else made the decision.
Q. How was compensation set at Morgan Stanley?
MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question.
Q. Let me rephrase the question. How was compensation for managing directors set at Morgan Stanley?
A. I actually don't fully know the answer to that, but...

Page 35

Q. What's your understanding?
A. A group of people review it to see whether it's appropriate.
Q. How do they gather information?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation, no foundation.
Q. Your understanding?
A. My understanding is a lot of it is tied to what we call a 360 process, where people are reviewed by colleagues, that are reviewed by people that work for them, reviewed by people in different departments, different geographies.
Q. Is that the same -- is that the situation that you are describing today?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it the same in the late 1990s?
A. Essentially the same.
Q. The review process that you referred to as the 360 degree review process --
A. Yes.
Q. -- what does that refer to?
A. That people all around you, upwards, downwards, sideways, review you.
Q. And in the late 1990s you were a managing director at Morgan Stanley, correct,

Page 36

Ms. Porat?
A. Yes.
Q. Was it your understanding at the time that the 360 review process was significant with respect to the process by which compensation would be set for you?
A. Yes.
Q. Other than meeting with Mr. Clare and Mr. Doyle, Ms. Porat, did you discuss the fact that you would be -- strike that?
Other than your conversations with Mr. Doyle and Mr. Clare, have you discussed with anyone else the fact that you would be deposed today?
A. No.
Q. Have you had any conversations with Mr. Strong relating to the Sunbeam litigation?
A. No.
Q. Have you had any discussions with any of your colleagues at Morgan Stanley relating to the lawsuit that my client, Coleman (Parent) Holdings, has filed against Morgan Stanley?
A. No.
Q. Other than Mr. Doyle, I assume?
A. I'm sorry, I thought that was the exception. Yes.

Page 37

Q. Ms. Porat, you are aware that Morgan Stanley began performing work for Sunbeam in the spring of 1997, correct?
A. I'm sorry, can you repeat that?
Q. Are you aware that Morgan Stanley began performing work for Sunbeam in the spring of 1997?
A. I have been told that. I don't know when they actually began doing work.
Q. Who were you told that by?
A. I think it came out in a deposition or somewhere else.
Q. You are aware that Mr. Strong was instrumental in helping Morgan Stanley obtain the Sunbeam engagement, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question and lack of foundation.
A. That's what I have been told, but I don't have personal knowledge of it.
Q. When you began working on the Sunbeam transaction, you had an understanding that Mr. Strong was involved in obtaining that engagement for Morgan Stanley, correct?
A. Mr. Strong and some others, yes.
Q. That was your understanding at that time, correct?

A. Yes.
Q. Who else other than Mr. Strong was involved in obtaining that engagement, to your understanding?
A. As I recall, Bob Kitts, who was in -- I think, I am not sure actually what he was doing at the time.
Q. You know that Mr. Strong had had a prior working relationship with Mr. Dunlap, correct?
MR. CLARE: You are asking whether she knew that at the time --
MR. MARKOWSKI: Yes.
MR. CLARE: -- or knows it today?
A. I don't recall.
Q. When you were working on the transaction, did you know that Mr. Strong had a prior working relationship with Mr. Dunlap when Mr. Dunlap was at other firms?
A. Sitting here today, I don't remember if it was with Mr. Dunlap or other people at Sunbeam.
Q. You had an understanding that he had a prior relationship with someone in Sunbeam management?
A. Yes.

Page 39

Q. And as you sit here today you are not certain if that was Mr. Dunlap or Mr. Kersh or someone else?
A. I can't recall if it was Mr. Dunlap or Mr. Fannin. I can't remember.
Q. Let me show you what we have previously marked as CPH Exhibit 129. It's a March 10, 1998 memorandum to the equity commitment committee from a number of individuals at Morgan Stanley, including you. I would like you to take a moment to read the first paragraph under "Background." We are going to spend more time with this document later, but can you tell me to start with what this memorandum is, Ms. Porat?
A. This is a memo that goes before what's called the equity commitment committee to determine whether we -- whether Morgan Stanley wants to underwrite whatever that particular security is, in this case a convertible offering.
Q. This memorandum relates directly to the project in which you were involved in connection with the work that Morgan Stanley was doing for Sunbeam, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Were you involved in preparing this memorandum for the equity commitment committee?

Page 40

A. I don't recall if I was.
Q. Did you at least read it before it was presented to the equity commitment committee?
A. I assume I did.
Q. It states in the first paragraph that Bill Strong had a prior working relationship with Mr. Dunlap, doesn't it?
A. Yes.
Q. And that Mr. Strong first met Mr. Dunlap in 1986 when Mr. Dunlap was working for Sir James Goldsmith?
A. Yes.
Q. And that Mr. Strong had been involved with three transactions for Mr. Dunlap in Sir James Goldsmith, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And that the most recent of those was a $275 million regulation S sale of New Mining common stock in 1993 and successfully executed by Morgan Stanley, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. So you were aware of those facts at the time that you were working on the Sunbeam transactions for Morgan Stanley, correct?

Page 41

A. Yes.
Q. Does this refresh your recollection of that?
A. Well, having just read it.
Q. Do you recall being aware, Ms. Porat, that Morgan Stanley's initial efforts for Sunbeam were directed at trying to find a company to buy Sunbeam?
A. I only recall that from reading the deposition, where I was asked that last time.
Q. Did you have that understanding in 1997 and 1998 when you were working on Sunbeam work?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Let me show you a document that's previously been marked CPH Exhibit Number 11, Ms. Porat. It's an October 22, 1997 interoffice memorandum from the Sunbeam Corporation team to Morgan Stanley Worldwide IBD professionals.
I think we have given you the wrong exhibit. Let me see if I can find the correct one.
Let me show you what we have previously marked as CPH Exhibit 71. It's an October 23, 1997 -- excuse me -- an October 22, 1997 memorandum from the Sunbeam Corporation team to Morgan Stanley Worldwide IBD professionals and the subject is Sunbeam Corporation strategic advisory assignment. I would like you to take a moment, Ms. Porat, and review the document and tell me if you recall seeing it?

A. I don't recall seeing it.

Q. The distribution of Worldwide IBD professionals, Ms. Porat, who would that have included in October of 1997?

A. I believe that would include everybody from analyst through managing director in investment banking worldwide.

Q. Would you have been in that group in October of 1997?

A. Yes.

Q. So this as a memorandum that in the ordinary course would have come to you, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And this memorandum advises that Morgan Stanley -- there has been a public announcement that Morgan Stanley has been engaged to represent Sunbeam Company, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And that that engagement involves either looking for a company to acquire Sunbeam or looking for potential acquisition candidates, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And this is something you would have been advised of in October of 1997 when you received this memorandum, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Ms. Porat, did you -- were you told at any point during the work that you performed for Sunbeam in 1997 and 1998 that Morgan Stanley had attempted, but had been unable to find a company to acquire Sunbeam?

A. I don't recall that other than, again, reading it in the prior deposition where I was asked that question.

Q. Were you aware that Mr. -- referring back to the time period you were working on the engagement in 1997 and 1998, being advised that Mr. Dunlap was unhappy with Morgan Stanley's inability to find a company to acquire Sunbeam?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. In any event, Morgan Stanley assisted Sunbeam in connection with acquisitions, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Sunbeam, in fact, acquired three companies in the first quarter of 1998, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Coleman Company, Signature Brands and First Alert, correct?

A. Right.

Q. And you were involved in assisting Sunbeam in arranging the financing necessary to effect those acquisitions, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. You understand that I represent Coleman (Parent) Holdings, correct, Ms. Porat?

A. Yes.

Q. Coleman (Parent) Holdings owned approximately 82 percent of Coleman Company stock at that time.

MR. CLARE: Objection, lack of foundation.

A. I don't recall that.

Q. You are aware that my client owned a controlling interest in Coleman Company at the time of Sunbeam's acquisition?

MR. CLARE: Same objection.

A. I'm sorry, what is the question?

Q. You are aware that Coleman Company owned a controlling interest in Coleman (Parent) at the time Coleman Company -- at the time of Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman Company in 1998?

A. I don't recall the year.

Q. Did you know who Sunbeam was acquiring Coleman Company from?

A. I am guessing, but I would have assumed MacAndrews & Forbes.

Q. You understand that MacAndrews & Forbes had a controlling interest in Coleman Company at that time, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Just so it's clear to you today, Ms. Porat, I will represent to you that MacAndrews & Forbes owns Coleman (Parent) Holdings --

A. Okay.

Q. -- the plaintiff in this litigation against Morgan Stanley.

Ms. Porat, let me refer you to the attachments to CPH Exhibit 71, in particular the third page, that's entitled "Sunbeam Corporation Investment Rationale." Do you have that page in front of you?

A. Yes.

Q. Take a moment to read it.

Did you understand when you began your work for Sunbeam in connection with the financing of the acquisitions at Sunbeam completed in the first quarter of 1998, that Sunbeam was representing itself to the public as having undergone a profound transformation since the arrival of Mr. Dunlap?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 46

A. Vaguely, yes.
Q. That was the story that Morgan Stanley used to assist in selling the debenture, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection, lack of foundation.
A. Well, it was the combination of work that had been done and the acquisitions.
Q. But a big part of the selling story that Morgan Stanley used in selling the debentures to -- was to promote the success that Mr. Dunlap had had in turning Sunbeam around, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection to form and foundation.
A. Again, as I recall, it was the combination that work had been done and the acquisitions would be -- would add to the story.
Q. And the work that had been done was that Mr. Dunlap was -- had completed a successful turnaround at Sunbeam, correct?
A. You keep asking the same thing. As I recall, I don't know, I can't remember how much -- how that the work that had been done was characterized. As I recall sitting here today, there had been successful steps done to Sunbeam when he got there and he was going to add to the story with the acquisitions.

Q. When you got this memorandum in October of 1997, Ms. Porat, you understood that this attachment represented the information, the selling themes that Morgan Stanley was attempting to promote with respect to either finding a company to buy Sunbeam or finding companies that might be willing to merge themselves with Sunbeam, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation and there is no foundation that she ever saw the document. She already testified to that.
You can answer if you can.
A. That's what I was going to say. I already told you I don't recall receiving the document.
Q. But you would have received it, you indicated, as a member of the worldwide IBD professional group?
A. I should have received it.
Q. You don't have any reason to dispute that, do you?

Page 48

A. No, but you are asking what I recall when I received it, and I don't recall receiving it. I don't recall one way or the other.
Q. Looking at the document today, Ms. Porat, as somebody that's worked at Morgan Stanley since 1987, with the exception of a three-year period of time, would you agree with me that the reason this information is attached to the exhibit is to identify for others within the investment banking group themes that the Morgan Stanley Sunbeam team wanted to share with other professionals at Morgan Stanley relating to the Sunbeam story?
MR. CLARE: Same objection, calls for speculation.
A. I don't recall seeing documents where it's a press release and then things attached like this. It would be logical to assume if, in fact, this was circulated stapled as you have given it to me today, there was a reason someone wanted to do that and that would be to expand upon the themes, but I am completely speculating. I am trusting that it was all circulated and stapled. I don't recall getting it, but that's a logical conclusion if, in fact, it was circulated like this.

Q. Given that assumption, can you answer my question?
A. I thought I just did.
Q. That these are the themes that Morgan Stanley Sunbeam team wanted to communicate to other professionals at Morgan Stanley relating to Sunbeam?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.
A. Well, I thought I answered the question because, as I said, I don't recall seeing something like this stapled all together. If, in fact, it was stapled together, it would be logical to assume that somebody wanted other bankers to read the investment rationale and do something with it, but I am just responding to you handing me a stapled document and asking me why would you put the front part with the back part, so a little uncomfortable doing that.
Q. Focus on the bullet points in the third page. See the first line, it states, "Sunbeam represents an attractive growth story and investment opportunity"; do you see that?
A. Yes.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. The second major bullet point, "Sunbeam has undergone a profound transformation since the arrival of new management in July 1996"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Third major bullet point, "Tremendous intrinsic value in the company"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And the last major bullet point, "Valuable opportunity to penetrate and become a global market leader of branded consumer devices"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Are those four selling themes or investment rationales consistent with the themes that Morgan Stanley presented in the marketing of the debentures that you were involved in in the first quarter of 1998?
MR. CLARE: Objection, lack of foundation.
A. I think generally, as I recall, that would have been consistent, but I am not sure. I need to look at the selling document that was used during marketing the debenture to tell you whether it was exactly the same or how similar it was or if it was modified.

Q. We will get a chance to go through those documents, but as you sit here at the moment, these things are consistent in your mind with the Sunbeam Morgan Stanley selling story for the Sunbeam debentures in the first quarter of 1998, correct?
MR. CLARE: I renew my objection.
A. Well, as I just said, generally yes, and I would be concerned about stating more than that.
MR. CLARE: Bob, we have been going for about an hour. Do you mind if we take a short break?
MR. MARKOWSKI: We can do that.
Before we go off the record, if at any time this morning you would like to take a break, indicate that to me and as long as there is not a pending question I will be happy to accommodate you.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 9:03 a.m. We are going off the record.

BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Let me show you what we have previously marked as Coleman (Parent) Holdings Exhibit 151. It's a document dated August 8, 1997, on Morgan Stanley letterhead, entitled "Project Laser Discussion Materials."

Have you seen this document before?
A. I don't recall seeing it.
Q. "Project Laser" is the term that Morgan Stanley used for the work it was doing for Sunbeam; is that correct?
A. Is that a statement or question?
Q. It's a question.
A. I don't recall.
Q. Let me direct your attention to a page fairly far into the document that you will look -- there are what we refer to as Bates numbers in the bottom corner of the document and the number that I would like you to page to is Morgan Stanley Confidential 65772. Do you see that page?
A. I do.
Q. It's entitled "Project Laser, the Morgan Stanley Team"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And at the top in the center, "For Management," there is a box entitled "Firm for Management" and the name Bruce Fiedorek appears.

A. Yes.
Q. Am I pronouncing Mr. Fiedorek's name correctly?
A. No.
Q. How it is pronounced?
A. Fiedorek.
Q. What was Mr. Fiedorek in 1997, what responsibilities did he have at Morgan Stanley?
A. I don't recall what his responsibilities were, but he had always been firm management, either one of the senior people in the M&A department or running the M&A department. I don't know what he was doing in 1997.
Q. He was a very senior person in the Morgan Stanley mergers and acquisitions department at that time, correct?
A. I believe so.
Q. And in the left-hand corner, "Corporate Finance," there is a box entitled "Corporate Finance"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And Bill Strong's name appears there, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. What's the relationship of the corporate finance department at Morgan Stanley to the mergers and acquisitions group?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0709

MR. CLARE: In 1997 or '8?
MR. MARKOWSKI: Correct.
A. The mergers and acquisitions group is a group that focuses almost primarily on helping clients do either mergers and acquisitions, divestitures, and it's more what you can refer to as a product group. Corporate finance will cover companies as well as be involved in execution of transactions.
Q. So corporate finance people are also involved in mergers and acquisitions, correct?
A. Yes, but not as deeply in the execution as mergers and acquisitions people usually.
Q. And then in the right-hand corner at the top of this page there is another box entitled "Equity Capital Markets"; correct?
A. Yes.
Q. That's the group you were working in in 1997 and 1998, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And your name appears there, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And Scott Sipprelle's name appears there also?

A. Yes.
Q. What was Scott Sipprelle's responsibility in the equity capital markets group in 1997?
A. He was responsible for the other part of equity capital markets that I described previously, that I referred to as syndicate, which was more of the execution function.
Q. How did it come to be that you were assigned to the Morgan Stanley Project Laser team in August 1997?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Do you remember being asked to participate in the Sunbeam assignment in August of 1997 or at some time before that?
A. No.
Q. Do you know who would have been responsible as an organizational matter for making that assignment in August of 1997?
A. No.
Q. Would it have been Mr. Strong's responsibility to do that?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation, no foundation.

Q. Let me rephrase the question. Would Mr. Strong have had the ability to assign you as a member of the equity capital markets group to the Morgan Stanley team for the Sunbeam engagement?
A. I am not sure that he would have. He may have gone in to the person that was running it, running equity capital markets at the time. I don't recall how it would get assigned because it wasn't necessarily an industry group, so I don't know how it was assigned.
Q. Did you have a prior working relationship with Mr. Strong?
A. I had worked with him on some deals previously.
Q. Do you know if Mr. Strong personally asked that you become involved at some point in the work that Morgan Stanley was doing for Sunbeam?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Did Mr. Strong speak to you at some time, Ms. Porat, about whether you would be in a position to assist him in connection with the Sunbeam engagement?
A. I don't recall.
Q. What was your responsibility as a member of the Morgan Stanley team working on the Sunbeam engagement?

A. As I recall when I was brought in, and I don't recall this document in front of me, as I recall, is much later the question was, how would the acquisitions be financed and what were the various financing options.
Q. When did you recall -- when do you first recall being consulted with respect to Morgan Stanley work for Sunbeam?
A. I don't recall the date but, as I recall, it was at the point where Sunbeam had identified the acquisition targets and so the question was how were those acquisitions going to be financed.
Q. So your first recollection of being consulted with respect to Sunbeam was at the point in time where Sunbeam had identified Coleman Company, First Alert and Signature Brands as acquisition targets?
A. That's all that I remember sitting here today, yes.
Q. You don't remember being consulted previously?
A. I don't remember that I wasn't. I just don't remember.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 58

Q. Do you recall doing any more general work with respect to the Sunbeam engagement and before that point in time in which you assessed Sunbeam's ability to raise capital or borrow money to finance potential acquisitions?
A. Are you asking prior to the identification of the three acquisitions that you just --
Q. Right. I am asking whether you identified a point in time where you were consulted with respect to the alternatives available to Sunbeam with respect to the financing the specific acquisitions that Sunbeam made in the first quarter of 1998, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. That is something you have in mind today?
A. Right.
Q. I am asking you whether if prior to that point in time, you can recall being consulted more generally with respect to providing input to the Sunbeam -- either to Sunbeam or to the Morgan Stanley team engaged in working for Sunbeam, concerning Sunbeam's ability to raise capital for acquisitions generally or to borrow funds to acquire other companies?

A. I don't recall anything prior to any of those acquisitions.
Q. So your first recollection as you sit here today, it's your recollection that your first involvement in performing services relating to Sunbeam occurred at a point in time after Sunbeam had identified the companies it acquired in the first quarter of 1998, correct?
A. Correct, as I sit here today that's what I recall.
Q. Do you recall if at that point in time Sunbeam had identified all three acquisition candidates?
A. I believe so. I am not sure, though.
Q. Do you know for sure that Sunbeam had at least identified the Coleman Company?
A. I think so.
Q. Coleman Company was the largest of the three acquisitions, correct?
A. Yes, correct.
Q. Do you know whether Sunbeam had entered into an agreement to acquire those three companies at the point in time where you first became involved?

Page 60

A. I can't recall if they had identified them and had entered into agreements or were about to, but it was around -- I recall they were trying to figure out how to finance the acquisition. Whether they were acquisitions that had been agreed to or were going to be agreed to if they can finance it, I don't recall.
Q. Do you recall that you attended the February 27th meeting of the Sunbeam board of directors, where the Sunbeam board voted to approve the three acquisitions?
A. I recall attending a board meeting at which I was asked to comment on the financing. I don't know when it was and I don't recall that that was the board meeting in which they voted on the acquisitions.
Q. I am going to show you the minutes of the February 27th Sunbeam board meeting to see if that refreshes your recollection.
A. Okay.
Q. Let me show you what we previously marked as CPH Exhibit 206. It's a document entitled "Meeting Minutes of a Special Meeting of the Board of Directors of Sunbeam Corporation, February 27, 1998." Have you seen that, this document, before today?

A. I don't recall seeing it.
Q. Let me direct your attention to the second paragraph, where it lists participants in the board meeting; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. It indicates the entire board attended, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And then at the bottom it identifies several Morgan Stanley participants, William Strong, James Stynes, Robert Kitts, Alexander Fuchs, Michael Hart, Bron Smith and Ruth Porat, correct?
MR. CLARE: I object to the characterization of the document; you identified them as participants. The document describes them as attendees.
Q. With that correction, human beings were in the room while the meeting was occurring, do you see that?
A. It indicates that I was in attendance, yes.
Q. I am not going to ask you to read the minutes. I will represent to you that this is the meeting where the Sunbeam board voted to approve the acquisition of the Coleman Company.

Do you recall how long in advance of this board meeting you first became involved in providing services in connection with the Sunbeam engagement?

A. I don't.

Q. Do you recall if it was a matter of days?

A. I don't. I don't recall.

Q. Do you recall how you came to be one of the attendees at the meeting?

A. Well, as I mentioned previously, I was asked to help think through the financing alternatives for the various acquisitions and, as part of that, was asked to attend a board meeting to review the recommendation.

Q. Did you speak at the February 27th board meeting, ma'am?

A. I can't recall if I did.

Q. What work did you do in advance of the board meeting that you attended to assess Sunbeam's options with respect to funding the acquisitions that it was undertaking in the first quarter of 1998?

Page 63

A. I don't actually recall.

Q. You say looking at options; what options would you have -- strike that.

When you say looking at options, what options did you consider in connection with that assignment prior to the Sunbeam board meeting?

A. I think the question was common stock or a convertible, I think.

Q. You were asked to focus on equity alternatives?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have any involvement in assessing Sunbeam's abilities to borrow funds?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Can you explain to me in more detail the nature of the options that you personally were evaluating?

A. What do you mean by that?

Q. The nature of the securities that would be involved in raising funds for Sunbeam's acquisitions?

A. Well, in the equity capital markets area, this would be either a straight common stock or a convertible security, which converts into common stock.

Page 64

Q. Do you recall evaluating whether Sunbeam could make a stock offering in connection with raising the funds?

A. I don't specifically recall that.

Q. I'm sorry, is that actually something you considered evaluating?

A. I don't, sitting here today, I don't recall.

Q. Did you limit your evaluation of Sunbeam's equity alternatives to various forms of convertible securities?

A. I don't recall.

Q. What's a convertible security?

A. Generally, it can be structured in a number of different ways, but it's a security that if the stock performs at a certain level will convert into common stock. So it's a debenture until the stock performs, at which point it converts and it can or cannot pay a cash coupon.

Q. What's a debenture, can you explain that?

A. Essentially a debt-like instrument.

Q. What various forms of convertible securities do you recall evaluating in connection with the work that you did for Sunbeam in the first quarter of '98?

A. I don't actually recall which ones were considered.

Q. Was there a point where you came to the conclusion that Sunbeam could raise funds associated with the three acquisitions in the first quarter of 1998 through some form of convertible security?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall if you had come to that conclusion by the time of the February 27th board meeting that you attended?

A. I think that was right.

Q. So you believe by the time you attended that Sunbeam February 27th board meeting you had come to the conclusion that Sunbeam would be able to raise at least some amount of money to finance the three acquisitions that it was undertaking through the issuance of some form of convertible debt security, correct?

A. Yes, but just to clarify one thing. You keep saying you had identified. We have a group that focuses on convertible securities and my role would have been to work closely with the convertible group that would have had to assess a lot of different aspects of pricing and structuring, et cetera, so I just want to clarify the word "you."

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. I would like to understand this a little bit better if I could. Are there two groups involved in assessing -- two groups at Morgan Stanley involved in assessing the options available to Sunbeam with respect to raising funds through the issuance of some form of convertible debt security?
A. What do you mean?
Q. Well, you referred to a convertibles group, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Is that the title those people have or is there a specific terminology used at Morgan Stanley to describe that group or function at the firm in the first quarter of 1998?
A. I think it may have been called the convertibles desk, but essentially it was a group of professionals who focused exclusively on convertible securities.
Q. When you say focused on exclusively on convertible securities, what do you mean, buying and selling them, or structuring them and issuing them, or both?

A. Well, that's a good question. There are within equity capital markets, the convertibles desk would be responsible for structuring and setting what they thought were indicative terms, relevant terms, or terms in which the securities could be sold. The actual marketing and sales of it went to yet another group in the institutional equities division, which was the convertibles sales force.
Q. I'm sorry, the sales group would be -- they were entitled what, institutional?
A. The convertible sales group worked in the institutional equities division, so that was yet another group of professionals.
Q. Those are the people that would be involved in actually assisting Sunbeam in marketing the debentures ultimately?
A. The convert -- the number of people would be involved in creating the marketing materials, but the people who actually met with accounts were in the institutional equities division. That was the sales group.
Q. So that's another service that Morgan Stanley provided to Sunbeam in connection with this, correct?

Page 68

A. Correct.
Q. Determining whether the convertible securities could be effectively structured and then also assisting Sunbeam in actually selling the debenture to investors, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And in the scheme of those activities, what was your involvement?
MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question.
A. I actually, what is -- I don't understand the question.
Q. Well, you described a number of activities that Morgan Stanley was engaged in with respect to the process of evaluating the option of some form of convertible securities for Sunbeam --
A. Right.
Q. -- up to and including the actual sale of those securities to investors.
What I am trying to understand at the moment is your personal involvement in those activities, where did Ruth Porat fit in this -- that process?
A. So I was, as I indicated previously, on the coverage side in equity capital markets, so I would work with the convertible professionals in equity capital markets to think about the alternative approaches to the convertible security and they would come up with the pricing and structuring.

Q. Would you be the person responsible for making, within Morgan Stanley, making the judgment concerning the best alternatives to recommend to Sunbeam?
A. Anything like that would be a group decision. It wasn't -- I didn't unilaterally conclude that, as I recall, that one form is the right form.
Q. Who did you -- did you make recommendations within Morgan Stanley to the best form of security Sunbeam could issue?
A. Internally?
Q. Yes.
A. I would guess so.
Q. Do you recall to whom on this transaction you made those recommendations at Morgan Stanley?
A. No.
Q. Did you have discussions with Mr. Strong

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 70

on that subject?
A. I would be guessing. I would assume so, but I don't know. I don't know.
Q. What was your understanding of the nature of Mr. Strong's responsibility for the Sunbeam engagement?
A. As the person in -- senior person in corporate finance, he would be basically the relationship account manager.
Q. Was Sunbeam considered Mr. Strong's client in this transaction?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.
A. I don't recall.
Q. Was there a particular person at Morgan Stanley that you understood to be the -- strike that.
Did you consider Sunbeam to be someone other than Mr. Strong's client in connection with the work that Sunbeam was doing in the first quarter of 1998?
A. As I indicated previously, I remember Bob Kitts was very involved.
Q. Do you know whether Mr. Strong or Mr. Kitts claimed credit as the originating managing director for the Sunbeam engagement?

Page 71

A. I don't recall that.
Q. Now the security that Sunbeam ultimately issued in connection with the financing was a zero coupon convertible debenture, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. What are the characteristics of a zero coupon convertible debenture of the sort that Sunbeam issued in the first quarter of 1998?
A. Generally it creates, instead of paying a cash dividend, it increases in value -- increases in value over a certain time, and if the stock price hits a certain level, the debenture will convert to common stock.
Q. Was it preferable from Sunbeam's perspective, in your view, to be able to finance some aspect of the three acquisitions through the issuance of a convertible debenture, as opposed to having to borrow the funds from lenders?
MR. CLARE: Objection, speculation.
A. I don't recall the comparative analysis.
Q. Were you involved in that evaluation, recommending to Sunbeam this security as opposed to increased direct borrowing?
A. I don't recall that.

Page 72

Q. Is that part of work that you would have been responsible for?
A. Not necessarily.
Q. Who would have been responsible for that evaluation?
A. Corporate finance or credit.
Q. Are there advantages to a company associated with the issuance of a convertible debenture of the sort that Sunbeam issued in the first quarter of 1998 generally over the issuance or borrowing of funds directly?
MR. CLARE: Objection, incomplete hypothetical.
You can answer.
Q. Let me rephrase the question. In general are there advantages that a convertible debenture offering offers companies over debt borrowings?
A. For certain issuers, yes.
Q. And what are those?
A. Well, if you are confident, I guess if you are confident about your stock price, then the debenture converts to equity.
Q. And in this case, the debt security, the debenture portion of the security is a zero coupon debenture, correct?

Page 73

A. Correct.
Q. Which means Sunbeam had no current cash payment obligations, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Is that another advantage over direct borrowing this form of security offers companies?
A. Yes.
Q. You were also involved in activities relating to the Sunbeam road show to market the debentures, correct?
A. Certain of the activities.
Q. What are those?
A. Well, again it would have been a group including the sales force and the convertibles desk, but how long the road show would be, what cities to go to, things along those lines.
Q. What do you recall about those discussions?
A. Actually don't recall much about those discussions.
Q. Do you recall with whom you worked on that aspect of things?
A. As I recall, the person in the convertibles desk in equity capital markets was one -- someone by the name of Brooks Harris.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. Were you involved in making recommendations concerning the specific investors to be invited to participate or receive the road show presentations?
A. I doubt it.
Q. Do you recall anything about the timing of Sunbeam's road show relating to the debenture offering?
A. I'm sorry, what do you mean?
Q. The timing, how long it would last, what cities?
A. No, I don't.
Q. When it had to be accomplished by?
A. I don't -- I remember it was in New York and Boston, but other than that I don't remember.
Q. Do you remember that there was a need to complete the road show by a certain point in time?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Were you involved in preparing the materials that were used in connection with the road show?
A. I recall discussing the potential questions that the investors might ask, but that was it, not the actual road I don't recall being involved in preparing the road show presentation.

Q. Did you review the road show presentation?
A. I don't recall if I did.
Q. Who do you believe was responsible for preparing the road show presentation materials within Morgan Stanley?
A. I would be guessing if I said.
Q. You don't have a current recollection of that?
A. No.
Q. You knew at the time, though, correct?
A. I assume I knew at the time, right.
Q. I am going to show you again CPH Exhibit 129. It's the document you looked at previously, the March 10, 1998 memorandum to the commitment committee. Do you have that in front of you?
A. I do.
Q. And as you indicated to me previously, this was the document that was presented to the equity commitment committee to obtain approval for Morgan Stanley to underwrite the debenture offering, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. Let me direct your attention to the page that bears the Bates number Morgan Stanley Confidential 0000524 in the bottom corner. Do you have that in front of you?

A. I did.
Q. Do you see towards the bottom an expected time table?
A. Yes.
Q. And the expected time table is a Monday, March 16th launch transaction presentation, and the sales force distribute preliminary offering memoranda; do you see that?
A. I do.
Q. And then the road show schedule set forth here is Wednesday through Monday, March 18th through the 23rd; do you see that?
A. I do.
Q. With a pricing on March 23rd; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And closing on March 27th --
A. Yes.
Q. -- correct?
Do you know how those dates were set?
A. I don't.
Q. Were you involved in that?

A. I don't recall if I was.
Q. Do you know that -- you are aware that that schedule changed, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. It was accelerated, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. How did that come about?
A. I don't know. I can only answer the question because I know the relevant dates were, I think, priced the 19th or thereabouts.
Q. The road show was completed by March 19th, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And the pricing happened on March 19th or the night of March 19th?
A. I think that's correct.
Q. It's four days earlier than the schedule set forth here, correct?
A. Right.
Q. Did Sunbeam change that schedule or did Morgan Stanley change that schedule?
A. I have no recollection of the schedule being moved up or changed.
Q. Do you recall that Sunbeam was particularly anxious to close the three acquisitions?

0171

Page 78

MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question.
A. I don't recall that.
Q. Did anyone at Morgan Stanley say to you that the marketing of the debentures needed to be accelerated in order to permit Sunbeam to complete the closing of the three acquisitions within the first quarter of 1998?
A. I don't recall anyone saying that to me.
Q. Did anyone at Sunbeam say that to you?
A. I don't recall anyone at Sunbeam saying that.
Q. How did the period of this road show, in your view, compare generally to road shows of this sort, four-day road show; is that typical or is that short?
A. For a convertible offering, it's actually pretty typical.
Q. Was the timing on this typical, a March 10th presentation to the equity commitment committee for approval of the underwriting and a March 19th pricing date, closing March 25th?
A. I'm sorry, are you asking was it typical to go to the commitment committee?

Q. To closing within about two weeks?
A. Well, you would usually get a commitment committee very shortly before launching a transaction, so I don't -- I don't see anything odd in that. And then the closing is whatever the rules were at the time. T plus 1, T plus 3, I don't know what they were at the time. But those are very standard closing dates and this doesn't seem unusual.
Q. So the timing of this March 10th presentation to the equity commitment committee and a March 25th closing offering on the debenture offering doesn't seem to you to be unusual?
A. I'm sorry, are you asking the gap between March, the date of the commitment committee, and the launch of the road show; is that the question?
Q. No. The period between the presentation to the equity commitment committee for approval of the underwriting and a closing approximately two weeks later of the offering; is that an unusually short period of time?
A. I don't think it is. I am just basing it on the date of the committee memo shortly preceding the launch of the transaction, and then the time line for the transaction and closing just falls out of the launch date from the transaction.

Q. You made reference in one of your earlier answers to something about a T-1 and T-2, T-3, something of that sort?
A. Yes.
Q. What was that a reference to?
A. There are some standard rules and I can't actually tell you what they are, about the normal period between pricing a transaction and closing, and I think as of 1998 you would close within one to three days of pricing.
Q. And does pricing typically occur on the very last day of the road show?
A. Yes.
Q. Ms. Porat, in addition to the responsibilities that you have identified for us in connection with the Sunbeam debenture offering, you also had lead due diligence responsibility with respect to the debenture offering from the equity capital markets perspective; is that correct.
MR. CLARE: I object to the form of the question.
Q. Sorry; is that correct?
A. Well, it's an odd question because equity capital markets doesn't actually lead due diligence.

Page 81

Q. I'm sorry, I am not sure I heard you. Equity capital markets does not lead due diligence, is that what you said?
A. Well, equity capital markets actually isn't involved in due diligence, so I object to the characterization.
Q. Well, Mr. Strong has testified that you had lead due diligence responsibility with respect to the debenture offering, from the equity capital markets perspective. Do you understand what he meant by that?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation and also to the extent it mischaracterizes or takes out of the context the prior testimony.
You can answer if you are able.
A. I would be guessing if I answered.
Q. Do you have an understanding about what he said with respect to Ruth Porat had the lead due diligence responsibility with respect to the debenture offering from an equity capital markets perspective?
A. As I said, I would be guessing if I

EXHIBIT 7101

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 82

interpreted what those words meant. I don't know.
Q. Excuse me, I didn't mean to interrupt you.
Do you agree with that statement?
A. Well, I previously said that it wasn't the responsibility of equity capital markets to lead the due diligence.
Q. Did equity capital markets have a responsibility for any aspect of the due diligence relating to the Sunbeam debenture offering or any other aspect of the work that Morgan Stanley was doing for Sunbeam?
A. I'm sorry, can you repeat that?
Q. Sure. Did equity capital markets have any due diligence responsibility with respect to the debenture offering that Sunbeam was undertaking or with respect to any other aspect of the work that Morgan Stanley was doing for Sunbeam in the first quarter of 1998?
A. Corporate finance team ran the due diligence process and in my role in equity capital markets, one of the key questions that I would typically ask is are we comfortable on due diligence, you know, is due diligence done, are we comfortable on due diligence.

Q. Other than asking the question whether others are comfortable with the due diligence that had been performed, did you have any due diligence responsibility with respect to any aspect of the work that Morgan Stanley did for Sunbeam?
A. Well, I'm sorry, repeat that again.
MR. MARKOWSKI: Can you read that back?
(Record read.)
A. There, I think you will probably get to this. The due diligence was led by the corporate finance team, but at a certain point when there was concern expressed about the estimates for -- the Wall Street research estimates for the first quarter, then I became involved. But up to that point, the corporate finance team, as it's typical, had led the due diligence.
Q. We will get to that in some depth. But what I am trying to understand initially is your general responsibility in connection with the engagement, before we get to that moment in the process.
Did you review or have any responsibility, in your own mind, for the due diligence that Morgan Stanley was doing with respect to either the Sunbeam debenture offering or any other aspect of the work that Morgan Stanley was doing for Sunbeam in the first quarter of 1998?

A. Not directly. As I said, I wasn't running the due diligence or in the due diligence sessions.
Q. When you say "not directly," what do you mean by that? Did you have some indirect responsibility for the due diligence that Morgan Stanley was performing for Sunbeam?
A. Well, I think I am being a little repetitive, but as I said, I would ask the corporate finance team who was responsible for due diligence if the due diligence was completed, was acceptable, was complete, et cetera.
Q. So you would inquire whether people had done their due diligence and whether they are comfortable with it, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Other than that, did you, Ruth Porat, believe that you had any responsibility for the conduct -- the execution of Morgan Stanley's due diligence?
A. No.
Q. So if Mr. Strong said you had lead due diligence responsibility with respect to the debenture offering, in the equity capital markets perspective, you don't understand what he means by that, correct?

Page 85

MR. CLARE: I renew my prior objection.
A. I understand what those words are.
Q. You didn't think you had such responsibility, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection. That misstates her testimony.
A. I'm sorry, was there a question?
Q. The question was you didn't think you had such responsibility, did you?
A. To conduct due diligence for the transaction?
Q. You didn't think you had lead due diligence responsibility with respect to the debenture offering, from the equity capital markets perspective, as Mr. Strong has stated?
A. I think the -- well, I would be reading things into -- I don't know the context in which that was said, but in terms of the due diligence that -- the customary due diligence that's conducted, it is conducted by the corporate finance department.
Q. And you weren't responsible for that,

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

011710

Page 86

correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Would you -- would it be fair to characterize the due diligence done by Morgan Stanley with respect to the debenture offering as piggyback due diligence?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. I'm sorry, what do you mean?
Q. Are you familiar with the term "piggyback due diligence"?
A. Yes.
Q. That's one of the things you have testified about in the Perrigo litigation, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. In your mind, what does the term "piggyback due diligence" mean?
A. Well, if you have done due diligence previously, you can just build off of that due diligence in another setting, but I think the meaning -- well, that's what it means.
Q. Was that the case in connection with the due diligence on the debenture offering, was it piggyback due diligence, in your view?
A. No, but it was an ongoing process, which is the key point, but there was no prior transaction to piggyback on, if that's what you are trying to ask.

Q. So you don't think that would be a correct reference to use in connection with the due diligence done on the debenture offering, correct, piggyback due diligence?
A. Correct.
Q. It's not a term that you would have used at the time to describe the due diligence done on the debenture offering?
A. I don't think so.
Q. Do you recall if you ever did use that term to describe the debenture offering due diligence that Morgan Stanley did?
A. I mean, maybe I did because it was, you know, in conjunction with acquisitions, you can say we are piggybacking on that, but I don't know if I did, so I don't have -- I don't want to have a declarative answer given that it may have been tied to M&A diligence, but I am guessing here.
Q. So you don't rule out that you may have referred to the due diligence on the debenture offering as piggyback due diligence?
A. I may have. I don't recall if I did.

Page 88

Q. Ms. Porat, let me show you what we previously marked at Coleman (Parent) Holdings Exhibit 100. It's a document dated March 12, 1998. It's entitled "Confidential, for Internal Use Only, Sunbeam 500 Million, Rule 140 A, Zero Coupon Convertible Subordinated Debt Offering Selling Memorandum." Take a moment to look at the document for me at least sufficiently and tell me if you have seen it before.
A. I believe I have.
Q. Can you tell me what this is?
A. It's what we call a selling memorandum, it's indicated on the cover, which would be used to take the sales force, the convertible sales force, through everything that's listed here in the table of contents.
Q. And you are identified as one of the Morgan Stanley contacts with respect to this transaction, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. What would the purpose of that be, identifying you as a contact person?
A. In case somebody had a question.
Q. A salesman?
A. Well, salesman -- usually it was just convention to put the team that was involved in this on the cover, but the sales force usually coordinated mostly with the convertibles professionals.

Page 89

Q. Did you have any role in helping to prepare this document for the sales force?
A. I don't recall if I did.
Q. Do you know who did prepare this?
A. No.
Q. Did you read it at the time?
A. I would assume I did, but I don't specifically recall.
Q. Let me direct your attention to page 15, the section entitled "Key Selling Points." Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And the first major bullet point is "Successful restructuring, creation of a growth company"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And the second major bullet point is "Experienced and committed management team"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Underneath {Successful restructuring,"

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

the first sub-point states that "During 1997 Sunbeam completed its restructuring program and initiated a growth strategy which resulted in double-digit sales growth with operating margins reaching 20 percent in 4Q '97, up from .2 percent before the term." Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. You understood that to be one of the key selling themes with respect to the debenture offering, correct?

A. That would make sense from this document.

Q. It's the very first point listed, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Let me show you, Ms. Porat, what we previously marked at CPH Exhibit 11. It's a document dated March 9, 1998, from John Tyree to Janet Kelly, Bob Gluck, Alan Dean and Gregory Fernicola; subject: Writers offering memorandum. Take a moment to look to see Exhibit 11.

A. I'm sorry, what was that, read the document?

Q. Take a moment, please.

A. It's hard to read this document.

Q. Actually, I am going to limit my questions to the first two pages, so to ease your burden.

A. No, I mean it's poorly copied, so you can't actually see the words, but go ahead.

Q. Can you tell me what John Tyree was in connection with the Sunbeam transaction?

A. John Tyree, as I recall, is one of the key corporate finance people involved in the execution.

Q. Did you have contact with Mr. Tyree in connection with the work that you were doing --

A. Yes.

Q. -- for Sunbeam?

A. Yes.

Q. You worked with Mr. Tyree in connection with aspects of the debenture offering?

A. Yes.

Q. And in connection with the debenture offering, Morgan Stanley prepared an offering memorandum for the debentures, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And let me ask an initial question, ma'am. Have you seen this document before?

A. I don't think I ever have.

Q. Mr. Tyree is -- do you know who Janet Kelly, Bob Gluck, Alan Dean and Gregory Fernicola are?

A. I know who Alan Dean is. I don't know the other people.

Q. Alan Dean is a lawyer at Davis Polk, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Mr. Fernicola, do you know that Mr. Fernicola is with Skadden Arps?

A. No, I did not know that.

Q. Ms. Kelly and Mr. Gluck were Sunbeam -- were in 1998 Sunbeam executives; is that correct?

A. I didn't know that.

Q. Mr. Tyree is transmitting proposed inserts for the debenture offering memorandum, in connection with this memorandum; is that correct?

A. That's what this says in the first sentence.

Q. Were you involved in assisting in the preparation of these inserts?

A. I don't believe I was.

Q. Let me read to you the description that Mr. Tyree provides for the first rider, on the first page. Follow along with me and correct me if I misread it.

"We would propose inserting this rider into the summary section directly following the company's strength section, and before the acquisition section, to communicate to the investor the recent restructuring success of the management team." Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there any point where you suggested to Mr. Tyree or to anyone else in connection with the debenture offering that Sunbeam should do more in the text of the offering memorandum to emphasize the success of the company's turnaround?

A. I don't recall if I did.

Q. Did you have any discussion with anyone concerning the need or desirability of emphasizing that theme in connection with the debenture offering?

A. I don't recall if I did.

Q. Let me try to break the question into two pieces, Ms. Porat.

Did anyone say to you that it's important in connection with the debenture offering for Morgan Stanley to emphasize the success of Sunbeam's turnaround?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

A. I don't recall someone saying that.
Q. Did you say to anyone in connection with marketing the debenture offering or in pricing it in an optimum way, that it's important for us, or for Sunbeam, to emphasize the success of Sunbeam's turnaround?
A. I don't recall saying that.
Q. Do you recall that being discussed at Morgan Stanley?
A. I don't recall. I don't recall it being discussed.
Q. But that is the theme that we have just seen in the sales memorandum that was prepared for internal use by the Morgan Stanley sales force, correct?
A. That was one of the things, correct.
Q. In March of 1998, Ms. Porat, did you know the total revenue that Morgan Stanley expected to earn on the various aspects of the work that was associated with the three acquisitions that Sunbeam was executing in the first quarter or the associated financing?
A. I don't know of any of the total fees from the various components of the deal, but I assume I would have known the equity fees.

Q. Did you know that the total fees that Morgan Stanley expected to earn on the work that it was doing for Sunbeam in the first quarter of 1998 exceeded $40 million?
A. I don't know if I knew that then. It's news to me now.
Q. There were three things essentially that Morgan Stanley was doing for Sunbeam in 1998, that it was providing M&A services, it was providing services in connection with the debenture offering, and it was also participating in a senior loan to Sunbeam, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. And it was earning fees on all three aspects of that, correct?
A. I would assume so.
Q. Was there ever a point in time, Ms. Porat, where you said to anyone at Sunbeam in connection with the debenture offering, that it was important to the success of that offering that Sunbeam continued to hit its numbers?
A. I don't specifically recall saying that.
Q. Are you familiar with the phrase "hit your numbers" in this context?
A. Yes.

Q. What does that mean?
A. That means if the Wall Street research analysts are expecting a certain level of performance, certain earnings level, that you should meet or exceed those numbers.
Q. You advised Sunbeam management, did you not, that in connection with the debenture offering it was important for the company to continue to hit its numbers?
MR. CLARE: Objection, asked and answered.
A. Yes, I don't recall specifically saying that, as I said.
Q. Is that something that you think you may have said?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. I would be speculating. As I said, I don't recall specifically saying that.
Q. Is it your, in your view -- strike that.
Was it, in your view, important in connection with contemplating the debenture offering, that Sunbeam continue to hit its numbers?
A. Yes.
MR. MARKOWSKI: We are going to take a break while we change the tape.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 10:09 a.m. and this completes tape number 1.
(Recess taken.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 10:21 a.m. This begins tape number 2.
BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Ms. Porat, the disappointment that you referred to earlier in relating to your compensation, that you said was ultimately rectified, did that have anything to do with work that you did for Sunbeam?
A. No.
Q. Let me show you what we previously marked as CPH Exhibit 146. Ms. Porat, it's a Morgan Stanley invoice and some attached documents. The invoice is dated March 31, 1998 and it's to Sunbeam Corporation. Bears Bates number Morgan Stanley Confidential 80325. Take a moment to look at these pages, Ms. Porat, and tell me if you have seen any or all of them.
A. I don't think I have ever seen them.
Q. Let me direct your attention to the page that bears Bates number 80328, fourth page in the document. "Project Laser fee calculation"; do you see that?

017505

A. Yes.
Q. And the client file, written in handwriting in the upper right-hand corner, is Sunbeam; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And this fee calculation document breaks fees out into three major categories, coupon convertible financing, fee financing, and it's broken off in that left-hand column, but I believe this is financing related to the senior loan, and the bottom is mergers and acquisitions for Coleman (Parent), Signatures Brand and First Alert; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And there is a column entitled "Fees to Morgan Stanley."
A. Yes.
Q. And there are three columns under that heading, "Gross," "Credit" and "Net"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And the total under net fees to Morgan Stanley is 42,644,443; do you see that?
A. Yes.

Q. Does that refresh your recollection that the total fees that Morgan Stanley expected to make on the Sunbeam transactions that it was engaged in in the first quarter of 1998 exceeded $42 million?
A. This exhibit summarizes that it did, but I don't recall ever seeing this exhibit before sitting here today.
Q. But does it refresh your recollection as you sit here today that Morgan Stanley expected in the first quarter of 1998 to earn somewhere in the neighborhood of $40 million on the work it was doing for Sunbeam?
A. Well, as I said, it's not refreshing my memory because I am not sure if I ever saw it, but it presents it, sitting here today.
Q. Do you have any reason to dispute the figures set forth here as Morgan Stanley's expectations in the first quarter of 1998?
A. No reason to dispute it here.
Q. There is nothing in here that you see that jumps out at you as somehow incorrectly setting forth Morgan Stanley's expectations in the first quarter of 1998 with respect to fees from Sunbeam?
A. I would -- sorry, I would have no idea what the debt or M&A fees would be because I am just reading the document that you presented to me.

Q. There is nothing that you know that would enable you to tell me that those numbers are inaccurate, though?
A. No, nor to tell you that they are accurate.
Q. You are familiar with the convertible fee, correct?
A. Correct, a portion of it.
Q. The fee is set forth here as being a two-piece, it's gross and a $3,750,000 credit; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know what that refers to?
A. That's why -- no, actually, I don't recall what the credit was. When I said I am familiar with the convertible fee, a portion of it, that's what I meant. The 3 percent gross spread on a convertible is basically a standard fee. And I don't recall the credit.
Q. So the standard fee that Morgan Stanley would charge in connection with a debenture offering of the sort that it assisted Sunbeam in executing was 3 percent of the proceeds?

A. Typically right around there.
Q. Here in this chart, the transaction value, there is a heading, "Transaction Value"; do you see that in the second column?
A. Yes.
Q. The transaction value, next to convertible coupon convertible financing fee, is $750,744,020; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you understand what that figure relates to?
A. The size of the convertible offering.
Q. Does that figure represent the total gross proceeds that were raised in connection with the debenture offering?
A. I would think so, but I couldn't tell you definitively.
Q. Is that the figure against which the fee would be typically calculated?
A. I would think so.
Q. As you sit here, you are not -- you don't recall there being a half of a percent credit against that fee to Sunbeam?
A. I don't recall one way or the other.
Q. At 3 percent, the fee payable to Morgan

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

011706

Page 102

Stanley for the transaction in which you were engaged is about 22 and a half million dollars, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Did you get personal credit of any sort for that fee?
A. I don't understand. What do you mean?
Q. Does Morgan Stanley award fee credits in connection with transactions?
A. I don't think so. I mean basically you monitor the transactions in which you are involved and the fees generated on an annual basis, but I don't believe you are paid -- it's not -- you are not -- I am not -- I wasn't paid a percentage of that.
Q. Well, in terms of your evaluation for the year 1998, would that 22 and a half million dollars fee have any bearing on your 360 degree evaluation that year?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.
You can answer.
A. I don't know that it would or wouldn't. The 360 degrees is what -- how people evaluate the work that you have done. It's not a revenue sheet.

Page 103

A revenue sheet is different.
Q. What's a revenue sheet?
A. I mean what you are asking is something that summarizes the deals that you have worked on and the case you have been involved with, but that's not, as far as I know, it may be, but I don't know that it is part of 360, which is just what others think of how you performed.
Q. Would you have been given credit somehow in the Morgan Stanley evaluation process for originating the convertible debenture offering?
MR. CLARE: Same objection.
Q. By originating, I mean obtaining that business for Morgan Stanley?
A. I don't know if I would have been given credit for originating it.
Q. Do you know if anybody was?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you know if Mr. Strong took credit for it --
A. I don't know. I would be guessing.
Q. -- as obtaining that business for Morgan Stanley?
A. I would be guessing. I can't answer that.

Page 104

Q. Did anyone ever tell you that Bill Strong has taken credit for the convertible offering fee, for originating that transaction?
A. I don't recall. They may have. I don't know.
Q. Let me direct your attention to -- let's see if I can get the page. I think the very next page of the document. There is some handwriting at the bottom of the page; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. It reads, "Client paid fee 5,619,429" and then there is a notation, "$3,750,000 unpaid"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And beneath that there is handwriting that reads "B Strong," the letter B Strong, "M&A should receive 3,750,000 from ECMS for unpaid portion of bill."
And then to the right of that there is some further handwriting and in a circle that reads, "Okay, R. Porat"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Does this bring back any recollection on your part with respect to there being an issue with respect to either a credit to Sunbeam for $3,750,000 or some sort of issue with respect to the allocation of that portion of the underwriting fee?

Page 105

A. It doesn't refresh my memory, any memory. Doesn't bring back a recollection of what that was, other than reading the words.
Q. Do you have any memory of there being an issue where the M&A group wanted some portion of the fee revenue that was generated as a result of the convertible to the debenture offering?
A. I don't remember that.
Q. Why would that be relevant?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question. Calls for speculation.
Q. Do you know?
MR. CLARE: Relevant to what?
A. I actually don't understand the question.
Q. Well, is it relevant in any way, from an internal accounting perspective at Morgan Stanley, whether a fee credit is realized by the equity capital marks group or by the M&A group?
MR. CLARE: Objection, no foundation.
A. That, I would be speculating.
Q. ECMS in this reference is a reference to

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

equity capital markets, correct, that's your understanding of those initials here?
A. Yes.
Q. Are there separate financial statements or fee records kept for equity capital markets versus the M&A group at Morgan Stanley?
A. I would be guessing. I haven't seen any financial statements in this period. I don't know.
Q. Have you ever been involved in a situation where there was some disagreement over -- or let me start, there some disagreement over a fee credit and whether it should go to equity capital markets or some other group, such as the M&A group, at Morgan Stanley?
A. I can't think of one, although I can't say that there wasn't one.
Q. Bill Strong was assigned to the corporate finance department at Morgan Stanley in 1998, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. How would it matter to Mr. Strong, from an internal perspective at Morgan Stanley, whether fee credit on the Sunbeam work was allocated more heavily to the M&A group and less heavily to your group equity capital markets group?

Page 107

MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.
A. I don't know why. I would be guessing if I said it would.
Q. You don't have a understanding of why that would be the case?
A. I don't know why it would be -- why that would make a difference.
Q. You don't recall being consulted about whether it was -- whether equity capital markets was in agreement that $3.75 million of its fee be allocated to the M&A group?
A. Other than seeing this document, I don't recall it, no.
Q. Have you ever negotiated with another group within Morgan Stanley over the issue of fee credits?
A. You know, I may have. I just said I don't recall if I have.
Q. You don't recall doing that in connection with Sunbeam?
A. I don't recall, actually.
Q. Did you find Mr. Strong to be somebody who was particularly focused on issues relating to fee credits back in 1998?

Page 108

A. I don't recall that I did.
Q. Ms. Porat, let me show you what we are going to mark as Coleman (Parent) Exhibit Number 343. It's a document entitled "Morgan Stanley Written Responses to Rule 1.310 Topics."
(Coleman (Parent) Exhibit 343, Morgan Stanley Written Responses to Rule 1.310 Topics," marked for identification, as of this date.)
Q. I would also like to keep next to you CPH Exhibit 146, Ms. Porat. It's the March 31st invoice. Do you have that? And go to the page that says "Project Laser Fee Calculation." Just keep that page handy.
Let me direct your attention to page 3 of CPH Exhibit 343. There is a section entitled "Underwriting Revenues"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. I would like you to read those two paragraphs to yourself. I have some questions for you about them.
Have you done that?
A. Yes.
Q. Referring back to Exhibit 146, the fee calculation sheet, it's this document.

Page 109

A. Yes.
Q. There is the gross fee of 3 percent, or there is the gross fee 3 percent of gross proceeds; do you see that number on there, $22.5 million?
A. Yes.
Q. How does that gross fee relate to the figures set forth on page 3 of Exhibit 343 for the underwriting revenues Morgan Stanley realized on the debenture offering?
MR. CLARE: Objection, no foundation.
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you know if that $22 million relates to the gross selling concessions, is that the terminology that would be used to describe the 3 percent gross proceeds on the debenture offering?
A. I would assume so.
Q. Did Morgan Stanley, in addition to the $22 million fee set forth in CPH Exhibit 146 for the debenture offering, realize fees over and above that for other services provided to Sunbeam in connection with the debenture offering?
A. I'm sorry, can you repeat that?
Q. Over and above the 3 percent of gross proceeds that Morgan Stanley charged Sunbeam with respect to the debenture offering set forth in the fee calculation in Exhibit 146, the 22 and a half million dollars fee, or the $18.75 million net fee, did Morgan Stanley realize other revenues in connection with the debenture offering?

A. Not that I recall. I mean other than, not that I recall.
Q. I don't mean to confuse you referring you back and forth between the two documents, but let me direct you to Exhibit 343, Page 3 of Exhibit 343. Do you understand, as you sit here today, what the reference to management fees relating to the underwriting offering relates to?
A. I know how the term is generally used, but I have never seen this document before.
Q. I am asking generally what does the term "management fees" mean in connection with a transaction like the Sunbeam zero coupon convertible debenture offering?
A. Very generally the -- a gross spread, the commission paid is broken into management fee and underwriting fee and a selling concession, and I don't know how they are split, but they are split up in this table, similarly splitting them into the three components.
Q. So it's your understanding that the 3 percent gross spread includes these elements?

A. Again I don't know who created this document or what -- I am talking about generally in the equity sense there is a split of the selling -- of the gross spread into three components.
Q. Does this relate to a split within Morgan Stanley organizationally or what components of the Morgan Stanley organization received credit for some part of the fees generated by the convertible debenture offering?
A. No. What I was characterizing as the split of the gross spread into three parts is the industry terminology.
Q. This doesn't relate to some internal allocation of the fee revenue among various components of the firm?
A. I hate doing this, but I am guessing at what this is. Those terms are used in breaking up a gross spread dollar on equity deals. If there was another reason for this or -- I would be guessing. I don't know of one.
Q. Do you know if the agreement with -- if Sunbeam allocated fees into these different categories or whether the Sunbeam fee agreement simply specifies that Morgan Stanley will receive a certain percentage after the gross proceeds?

A. I don't know.
Q. In connection with your work at Morgan Stanley, Ms. Porat, have you ever had discussion with any of your superiors or managers concerning your compensation in which the subject of revenue sheets arose?
A. I'm sorry, what's the question?
Q. In connection with your compensation, have you ever had discussion with any of your superiors at Morgan Stanley concerning the subject of revenue sheets?
A. I don't think so. I don't -- revenue sheets are put together. I don't, frankly, I don't recall ever linking compensation to a revenue sheet. I don't actually think it's done that way, but I am guessing.
Q. You have never had a discussion with any of your managers where you have made a case for your compensation by pointing to the fee revenue that you have been involved in assisting a firm in realizing?
A. I don't know that I have. I mean in the year-end review, self-evaluation, maybe I referenced it, but I don't recall having a conversation, if that's the question.

Q. Did anyone ever tell you in connection with his 1998 self-evaluation Bill Strong took credit for originating all of the fees on the Sunbeam engagement, including the M&A fees, the debenture offering fees, and the senior financing fees?
A. I don't recall hearing that.
Q. Do you think that would have been inappropriate for Mr. Strong to take that position?
MR. CLARE: Objection to form and foundation.
A. I need -- I don't have any basis, I don't know that he did it.
Q. I am just asking you whether, as you sit here today, you believe it would be inappropriate for Mr. Strong to have taken the position that he should receive credit for originating all of the fees that Morgan Stanley realized on the work that it was doing for Sunbeam in the first quarter of 1998, including the M&A fee, the debenture offering fee, and the senior financing fee?
MR. CLARE: Same objection.
A. Sorry, I lost you. Whether it's -- it was problematic if Bill Strong did that?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0117

Page 114

Q. Yes. Do you think that would be inappropriate?
A. I don't really have a view on it.
Q. Do you think that would have been overreaching on Mr. Strong's part?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. I think a number of people could work on any transaction and I don't see a problem.
Q. With Mr. Strong claiming credit for the entire fee that Morgan Stanley realized as a result of the work being done in -- for Sunbeam in the first quarter of '98?
A. I am hesitant only because I don't -- you are asking me to speculate about what he did or didn't say.
Q. No, I am not. I am asking you if he did it, do you think it would have been inappropriate for Mr. Strong, based on your involvement in this transaction, to have taken credit for all of the fee revenue that Morgan Stanley realized on all of the aspects of its work for Sunbeam, including the M&A work, the convertible debenture offering work, and the senior loan work?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question and move to strike the preamble.

You can answer if you can.
A. I don't see an issue because I don't think he would be the only one who was working on the transaction, so I don't see an issue.
Q. You think that would be -- you think that would not have been inappropriate for Mr. Strong to have claimed credit for all those fees?
A. Probably not. I am guessing, but...
Q. I am just asking from your personal point of view.
A. So I have answered.
Q. And so from your personal point of view, you don't think that would have been inappropriate?
MR. CLARE: Objection, asked and answered.
You can answer again.
THE WITNESS: I am supposed to answer again?
MR. CLARE: Yes.
A. As I said, I don't think it would be inappropriate.
Q. What was Bill Strong's involvement, from your perspective, in the various aspects of the work that Morgan Stanley was doing for Sunbeam in the first quarter of '98?

A. I'm sorry, can you ask that again?
Q. From your perspective, what was Mr. Strong's involvement in the various aspects of the work that Morgan Stanley was doing for Sunbeam in the first quarter of '98?
A. Well, as a managing director responsible for the relationship, he would be responsible for bringing in whoever was appropriate to deal with whatever issue needed to be addressed.
Q. So he would be responsible for making sure that Morgan Stanley had the right people working in the assignment?
A. Yes.
Q. Anything else that Mr. Strong was responsible for?
A. Well, to clarify, I don't want to make it -- nothing is a solo act, so he -- that would be part of a team ensuring that we get the right people, but he wouldn't be doing that alone, and he would be responsible for being involved in parts of the transaction.
Q. What did you observe Mr. Strong doing in connection with providing services to Sunbeam or assisting the Morgan Stanley team in that regard?

A. I saw him on different calls, but I can't specifically say what he was doing throughout the transaction.
Q. Was Mr. Strong providing direction to the Morgan Stanley personnel involved in the projects?
A. I don't specifically recall what he was doing with the various teams. There were different teams working on different things.
Q. Did he give you on any direction on any points?
A. I don't recall getting direction from him. I don't recall not getting direction from him.
Q. What do you recall Mr. Strong doing, if anything, in connection with the convertible debenture offering?
A. The one thing I remember most clearly is when we were involved in additional diligence regarding the company's performance, that he was involved in those discussions.
Q. We'll get to that in some detail. Anything else that you recall?
A. No, not that I don't recall, I mean not

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0-7110

that I recall he didn't do things. I just don't know what people were doing along the way.
Q. I am focusing right now to make sure we are clear on the activities involved in the convertible debenture offering. The only thing you can recall, sitting here today, that Mr. Strong was specifically involved in providing services to Sunbeam or working with the Morgan Stanley team on that project related to the issues relating to Sunbeam's first quarter sales that arose in mid-March, correct?
A. That's the only specific event, although I recall he was constantly around. I don't -- I can't give you specific events.
Q. You recall that he was extensively involved in communicating with people in connection with the deal, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. I recall that he was constantly involved, but I am not sure what you mean by saying constantly communicating, so he was involved, I would speak to him, he would speak to others, but I can't remember specific conversations. I remember he was visible.

Page 119

Q. He was keeping track of the work your team was doing on the convertible debenture offering, correct?
A. Again, I feel like you are putting words in my mouth, so I am trying to answer as clearly as I can.
Q. Go ahead. I don't mean to interrupt.
A. As I said, I am trying to answer as clearly as I can. I remember him being present. I can't remember exactly what he was doing.
Q. Do you recall that Mr. Strong was keeping track of the progress with respect to the convertible debenture offering so that he can communicate with Sunbeam related to that?
A. I don't recall that.
Q. Do you recall that Mr. Strong --
A. And just to clarify, I don't recall that he did or didn't. I am being very specific about what he did and, as I said, I recall generally that he was there. I can't recall generally what he was doing and that's the only reason I am saying I don't recall whether you characterized it correctly or incorrectly.
Q. So Mr. Strong may have been keeping track with you or others on the progress of the convertible debenture offering, you just don't recall as you sit here today?

A. Correct.
Q. You said that you had worked with Mr. Strong previously, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. In 1998, were you aware of Mr. Strong's reputation for honesty and candor with his fellow colleagues at Morgan Stanley?
A. I personally viewed him that way. I can't speak to a big group of colleagues, but personally, yes.
Q. I am asking if you are aware of his reputation within Morgan Stanley for honesty and candor in dealing with his colleagues within the firm?
A. That was my understanding of him, but again, that's the way I viewed him.
Q. I am not quite sure you are tracking my question. Let me put it to you again.
I am asking you whether you were aware of Mr. Strong's reputation within Morgan Stanley in 1997, first part 1998, among his colleagues for his reputation for honesty and candor in dealing with others at Morgan Stanley?

Page 121

MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question, and move to strike the preamble, and calls for speculation with regard to other colleagues.
You can answer if you can.
A. My view as to his reputation in my dealings with him is that he was candid and operated with integrity.
Q. Do you know what views others had of him? Did you hear from others about their views on that subject?
A. I don't recall hearing anything differently.
Q. Were you warned in connection with the work that you were doing in the first quarter of 1998 in connection with the Sunbeam convertible debenture offering, that senior Morgan Stanley executives were concerned about Mr. Strong's lack of candor in dealing with his colleagues at Morgan Stanley?
A. I never heard that.
Q. Nobody at Morgan Stanley management alerted you to those concerns?
A. No.
Q. No one at Morgan Stanley senior management advised you that numerous people within Morgan Stanley had raised concerns about Mr. Strong's lack of candor in dealing with his colleagues?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question. Mischaracterizes the evidence.

You can answer.

A. I don't recall hearing that.

Q. Did anyone at Morgan Stanley management alert you to the fact that Mr. Strong was viewed by fellow managing directors and senior members of Morgan Stanley management as having questionable judgment?

MR. CLARE: Same objection.

A. I don't recall hearing that.

Q. As being overly ambitious?

MR. CLARE: Same objection.

A. I don't recall hearing that.

Q. Did Mr. Strong ever tell you that he had ambitions to become a member of Morgan Stanley's board of directors?

A. I don't recall hearing that.

Q. Do you know how many insiders at Morgan Stanley are on the Morgan Stanley board of directors?

Page 123

A. No. I should, but I don't.

Q. You don't know that it's just two?

A. I was going to guess two, but that would have been a guess. I don't know.

Q. Did Mr. Strong ever tell you that he believed senior management at Morgan Stanley had failed to recognize his management capabilities?

A. I don't recall hearing him say that.

Q. You know Terry Meguid, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. You have told us that Mr. Meguid is a very senior person within the mergers and acquisitions group at Morgan Stanley, correct?

A. No.

Q. All right, I misunderstood that. What is Mr. Meguid's current responsibility at Morgan Stanley?

A. Head of investment banking.

Q. Head of investment banking, I'm sorry.

Do you recall that in the first part of 1998, Mr. Meguid was vice chairman of the M&A group?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. Maybe I misspoke. Vice chair of investment banking?

Page 124

A. That's sounds right.

Q. You recall he was the number 2 person at that point in investment banking?

A. At one point he held that role. Very well could have been 1998.

Q. And then he became the head of investment banking; is that, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. It was around that time frame, correct?

A. Somewhere around there.

Q. Did Mr. Meguid ever tell you that he had concluded that Mr. Strong makes some judgments that are sometimes very close or if not over the line?

A. I don't recall hearing that.

Q. Did Mr. Meguid ever tell you that as of 1997, first part of 1998, that Mr. Meguid had concluded that Mr. Strong continues to suffer the consequences of a less-than-straightforward approach in dealing with his colleagues at Morgan Stanley?

A. I don't recall hearing that.

Q. Did Mr. Meguid warn you in connection with the work you were doing on the convertible debenture offering that Mr. Strong gave people, including himself, the impression that he is not completely upfront?

MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.

A. I don't recall hearing that.

Q. From Mr. Meguid?

A. Correct.

Q. You know Joseph Perella, do you not?

A. Yes.

Q. What is Mr. Perella's responsibility at Morgan Stanley today?

A. He is chairman of investment banking and institutional securities.

Q. It's a very senior position within the firm, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you recall what Mr. Perella's responsibilities were in 1997, first part of 1998?

A. I think at that point he was head of investment banking.

Q. Did Mr. Perella warn you in connection with the work you were doing on the convertible debenture offering that the problem that Mr. Perella continued to have with Mr. Strong is that you never seemed to get the whole story from him unless you probe very hard?

017112

A. I don't recall hearing that.
Q. Did anyone within Morgan Stanley senior management warn you, Ms. Porat, in connection with the work that you were doing on the convertible debenture offering that the Morgan Stanley firm management had concluded that Mr. Strong had a problem with straightforwardness and he gave people the impression that he is not completely upfront with them?
A. I don't recall hearing that.
Q. Did anyone within Morgan Stanley senior management, Ms. Porat, warn you that firm management had concluded with respect to Mr. Strong, as of the time that you were doing the debenture offering work, that Mr. Strong needed to become more open and transparent in dealing with his colleagues at Morgan Stanley?
A. I don't recall hearing that.
Q. So nobody told you any of the things along the lines that I asked you about with respect to Mr. Strong?
A. As I said, I don't recall hearing these things.
Q. Did you at any point in connection with the work you were doing in the first quarter of 1998, Ms. Porat, develop any concerns with respect to Mr. Strong's candor dealing with you?

Page 127

A. I don't recall that I did.
Q. If senior official management at Morgan Stanley had reached the conclusions relating to Mr. Strong of the sort that I just outlined for you in my questions, are those things that you would have wanted to know in connection with your dealings with Mr. Strong in connection with the work you were doing on the convertible debenture offering?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the incomplete hypothetical and one that assumes facts not in evidence.
You can answer.
A. I assume you are asking me to speculate.
Q. No. I am asking you whether, if Morgan Stanley senior management had come to the conclusions relating to Mr. Strong and his lack of candor in dealing with colleagues at Morgan Stanley, are those things that you would have wanted to know in connection with the work that you were doing in the first quarter of 1998 in connection with the Sunbeam convertible debenture offering?

Page 128

MR. CLARE: I renew my objection.
A. I guess it would be nice to know, but there were a lot of people who were working on the transaction.
Q. Ms. Porat, do you recall that the convertible debenture offering was originally expected to raise proceeds of about $500 million? That was the original structure of that deal?
A. Yes.
Q. And that was later increased to $750 million, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Why?
A. Well, as I recall, it was a lot of demand for -- investor demand for the security.
Q. What was the investor demand driven by, in your view; do you have an understanding of it?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.
A. Investors' generally demand is driven by a whole list of different factors during marketing, what's discussed about the company.
Q. In connection with the Sunbeam offering in particular, do you have any understanding why demand for the Sunbeam debenture was, as you characterized it, strong?

A. I'm sorry, also the pricing in terms of the securities, that was the -- what you are getting and what price you are paying for it. I'm sorry, your question?
Q. Let me take a step back. Originally it contemplated that the debenture offering would raise about $500 million for Sunbeam, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Ultimately Sunbeam raised about $750 million, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And a conscious decision was made at Sunbeam at some point in the process to increase the amount of the offering to raise an additional $250 million, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Is it fair to say that the reason from -- in your view, that that decision was made was primarily driven by the demand that was experienced for the debentures?
A. I would assume so.
Q. From Sunbeam's perspective, was there a reason why it would be preferable for Sunbeam to issue $250 million more in convertible debentures and to reduce its borrowing in a senior loan facility by $250 million?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

MR. CLARE: Objection, foundation and calls for speculation as to Sunbeam.
A. I don't actually recall the discussion about increasing the size of the offering, so I can't answer that.
Q. As you sit here today, though, do you have an opinion concerning whether, from Sunbeam's perspective, it would be preferable for Sunbeam to borrow $250 million less and raise an additional $250 million through the convertible offering?
MR. CLARE: Same objection and incomplete hypothetical.
A. No.
Q. Did you offer Sunbeam any views on that subject in connection with the ultimate decision to increase the amount of the debenture offering?
A. I don't recall any conversations. I assume there were some, but I don't recall.
Q. You have indicated, correct me if I am wrong, that your perception was demand for the debenture was strong, correct?
A. By virtue of you reminding me that the offering was increased from 500 to 750, I am saying the demand for the debentures was strong.

Q. In this particular case in connection with Sunbeam's convertible debenture offerings, do you have any understanding as you sit here concerning what factors caused there to be strong demand for the convertible debentures Sunbeam was selling?
A. I don't specifically recall, so I would be guessing.
Q. Let me show you what we have previously marked as CPH Deposition Exhibit Number 74. It's a Morgan Stanley letter dated March 5, 1998, signed by R. Bron Smith, managing director, and it is directed to Sunbeam Corporation, attention: Russell A. Kersh, vice chairman and chief financial officer. Have you seen that document before, Ms. Porat?
A. I may have. I don't recall seeing it.
Q. Are you familiar with the term "highly confident letter"?
A. Yes.
Q. Does this appear to be a highly confident letter written by Morgan Stanley to Sunbeam in Marhc 5, 1998 relating to the financing of the Sunbeam acquisitions in the first quarter of 1998?

A. Just reading the document, on page 12 it says, "We are highly confident," but I have just taken a quick scan of it, so I don't know if there are caveats.
Q. Take a moment to look at it.
A. It looks like one.
Q. Does this letter have any relationship to the convertible debenture offering?
A. I'm sorry, I am looking to see if it refers to a convertible being done. I don't see it. I don't think this has anything to do with the convertible.
Q. Do you know if Sunbeam received a highly confident letter from Morgan Stanley in connection with the debenture offering?
MR. CLARE: Objection, no foundation.
A. I don't know that they did.
Q. Would that be something that would be typical to provide in connection with a convertible debenture offering?
MR. CLARE: Same objection and incomplete hypothetical.
Q. In your experience with Morgan Stanley?
A. I don't know. There was some kind of letter like this. Maybe. I don't know.

Page 133

Q. In connection with work you have done in the equity capital markets group within Morgan Stanley, have you been involved in transactions where the firm had provided highly confident letters with respect to convertible debt offerings?
A. In my experience, letters related to any equity-linked security would be very different from a highly confident letter for a debt issuance.
Q. Were you ever advised, Ms. Porat, that Morgan Stanley had committed to Sunbeam that it would provide the necessary financing for Sunbeam's three acquisitions even if the convertible debenture offering was not executed?
A. I don't remember one way or the other.
Q. Do you know if Morgan Stanley, as you sit here today, had any obligation to provide Sunbeam of the financing necessary to complete the three first quarter 1998 acquisitions, even if Morgan Stanley did not proceed with the underwriting of the convertible debenture offering?
A. As I just said, I don't, sitting here today, I don't recall if there was ever such a conversation.
Q. Did you ever hear anyone at Sunbeam say that Morgan Stanley had an obligation to provide all of the financing that Sunbeam needed to complete the three first quarter 1998 acquisitions, even if Morgan Stanley did not proceed with the debenture offering?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

A. Listening to the question, I think I have answered it. I don't recall hearing anything about Morgan Stanley being required to fund everything if the convertible couldn't be sold type of thing.

Q. I was asking two slightly different questions, so I want to make sure you understood the distinction I was trying to draw.

I was asking first whether you understand whether Morgan Stanley had an obligation to provide the financing necessary for Sunbeam to complete the three first quarter acquisitions, even if it did not proceed with the debenture offering?

A. I don't recall any conversation like that.

Q. And my second question is whether, regardless of whether you understood Morgan Stanley to have such an obligation, did you ever hear someone from Sunbeam take that position?

A. I don't remember hearing that statement.

Page 135

Q. Did Mr. Strong ever say to you at any point that the firm was committed to providing the necessary financing to complete the acquisitions, even if Morgan Stanley did not proceed with the underwriting of the debenture offering?

A. I don't remember hearing that.

Q. The decision to increase the debenture offering from 500 million to $750 million occurred at the very end of the road show, correct?

A. I would assume so.

Q. It occurred at the time of the pricing, correct?

A. It usually does. I don't recall in this instance.

Q. I can get it back out for you if you like, but the March 10th memo to the equity commitment committee for approval to proceed with the underwriting sought approval to underwrite a $500 million convertible offering; do you recall that?

A. Yes.

Q. Did anyone go back to the equity commitment committee to advise it in any way that Morgan Stanley was increasing the amount of the debt offering from $500 million to $750 million prior to the implementation of that change?

A. Specifically reconvening the committee?

Q. Communicating in any way?

A. Well, what would be customary is a number of people on the committee are involved throughout the marketing, so it's not a formal reconvening of the committee. But there is a broader group that's familiar with what's -- whether the market demand supports a change in terms of the commitment committee goes to whether we are comfortable underwriting and the indicative terms. So the answer is it is not atypical to increase or decrease, depending on demand, the size of an offering relative to what was discussed with the commitment committee.

Q. Who has authority at Morgan Stanley, and the position, to approve a decision? Who within Morgan Stanley has authority to approve an increase in, in this case, a convertible debenture offering above the level approved by the equity commitment committee initially?

MR. CLARE: Objection, lack of foundation.

A. I don't know the answer to that question.

Q. Was approval sought from anyone within Morgan Stanley with respect to the decision in this case to increase the convertible debenture offering by 50 percent?

A. I don't recall the specific pricing size and discussion. This -- what is usually -- what usually happens is that there is a pretty broad group of people involved in the ultimate pricing and allocation and it's based, as I just said, on how much demand there is and whether that fairly large group believes it could be increased or should be decreased.

Q. In this case, did the Morgan Stanley team working on the Sunbeam transaction, itself have authority to implement a 50 percent increase in the debenture offering above the level initially approved by the equity commitment committee?

MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question and foundation.

A. Can you repeat the question?

Q. Sure. Did the individuals working at Morgan Stanley, as part of the Sunbeam working team, themselves have authority to cause the firm to increase the size of the convertible debenture offering by $250 million, or 50 percent above the level initially approved by the equity commitment committee, or do they need to go to someone else within the firm to obtain that authority?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

MR. CLARE: Same objection.
A. Well, anyone who -- anyone would need to go to, they would have, I believe, have gone to. It's not just -- it's not the corporate finance team that is involved in those kind of decisions, I would say, so my guess would be the answer is yes.
Q. Your guess -- I am not sure what question you have answered at this point, so let me rephrase it.
Let me ask a factual question first. To your knowledge, did anyone on the Morgan Stanley team working on the Sunbeam transaction seek approval from the equity commitment committee to increase the size of the convertible debenture offering by 50 percent?
A. As I think I said, I don't recall the specifics or the process of increasing the size of the offering.
Q. So you don't know whether that happened or not?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Was it required by Morgan Stanley procedures for that to occur?

Page 139

A. To go back to the formal commitment committee, no.
Q. Was it required that authority be obtained from someone within Morgan Stanley's firm management before, in this case, the debenture offering was increased by 50 percent?
MR. CLARE: Objection, lack of foundation.
You can answer.
A. I am only hesitating because it was -- I don't recall exactly what was required, but it was always a broad group that was involved, many people of whom were on the commitment committee. So I don't -- I am hesitant because I don't know exactly what the procedures were back then.
Q. Did you personally have authority to authorize the firm to increase the size of the debenture offering by 50 percent?
A. I may have, but I wouldn't have done it alone.
Q. Did Mr. Strong have that authority?
A. I would doubt it. He wasn't on the -- in the equity part of the firm.
Q. Is there anybody else on the Morgan

Page 140

Stanley Sunbeam working team that you think individually had that authority?
A. On one of the memos you showed me, the selling memo, you have Richard Kauffman, who was the head of equity capital markets at the time. He would have and, based on this team, I don't think anybody else would have.
Q. Do you know if Mr. Kauffman -- do you know if the Sunbeam team sought Mr. Kauffman's approval for the 50 percent increase in the debenture offering?
A. I don't know.
Q. Ms. Porat, when did you first --
A. I'm sorry. Just to add, another document you showed me had Scott Sipprelle on it. I can't recall which document it was. He would be another person who would have an important vote.
Q. Do you know if his approval was sought?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Ms. Porat, when did you first learn that Sunbeam was having problems with its first quarter 1998 performance?
A. I don't recall precisely when, but it was somewhere in that -- towards the end of the road show, which you have reminded me is around

Page 141

March 17th, 18th, 19th, somewhere in there.
MR. CLARE: If you are turning to a different area, this might be a good place for another short break. We are going for about an hour.

BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. You knew that as part of the due diligence that Mr. Tyree was conducting, that he was interviewing Sunbeam's outside accounting firm, correct?
A. I believe so.
Q. And that was Arthur Andersen?
A. Correct.
Q. Let me show you a copy of a memorandum dated March 7, 1998 from Mr. Tyree to the Sunbeam financing team, subject: Accounting due diligence call. It's previously been marked as CPH Exhibit Number 31. Have you seen that document before?
A. I don't remember seeing it.
Q. Were you part of the Sunbeam financing team?

A. I am not sure what he meant by that, whether that was the corporate finance financing team. I don't recall seeing this document.
Q. The financing that does due diligence relates to a convertible debenture offering, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.
A. I don't know.
Q. Did Mr. Tyree -- did you participate in the accounting due diligence call with Arthur Andersen?
A. No.
Q. Why is that?
A. In my role on the equity capital markets desk, it would have been extremely unusual. I am not sure if I have ever done, in that capacity, an accounting due diligence call.
Q. Did Mr. Tyree brief you on the results of his conversation with Arthur Andersen?
A. As I recall, yes.
Q. Did Mr. Tyree tell you that during the due diligence call with Arthur Andersen on March 12, 1998, that Arthur Andersen had advised

Page 143

Morgan Stanley that, in Arthur Andersen's view, Sunbeam had used a number of aggressive techniques to enhance its 1990 sales revenue?
A. I don't recall hearing that.
Q. Do you think that Mr. Tyree -- is it your testimony that Mr. Tyree failed to tell you that?
A. No. It's my testimony that I don't recall that he told me that.
Q. So you don't rule it out. You think Mr. Tyree may have told you that Andersen has advised us that, in Andersen's view, Sunbeam have used a number of aggressive techniques to enhance its 1997 sales results?
A. As I said, I don't remember any such conversation.
Q. I am asking whether you are ruling it out or whether you just don't remember one way or the other?
A. I am saying I don't remember one way or the other.
Q. So you don't rule it out?
MR. CLARE: Objection, asked and answered.
Q. Did Mr. Tyree advise you that one of the aggressive techniques that Sunbeam used to enhance its 1997 sales results was the use of bill-and-hold accounting transactions?

A. I don't remember a discussion about bill-and-hold.
Q. Did Mr. Tyree advise you that Arthur Andersen informed Morgan Stanley during the course of the March 12th due diligence call that Sunbeam in 1997 had booked as sales transactions where the customer had a 100 percent right of return of the product?
A. I don't remember hearing that.
Q. Did Mr. Tyree advise you that Arthur Andersen, in the course of a March 12th call, informed Morgan Stanley that Sunbeam had engaged in a transaction with EPI Printers that Arthur Andersen viewed as bogus, in order to enhance its 1997 sales results?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. I don't recall ever hearing anything about an EPI Printer.
Q. Do you remember hearing about any reports of bogus transactions?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.

Page 145

A. No. As I recall, John and I spoke and he didn't -- I don't recall him saying there were any issues that came out of the accounting diligence.
Q. So your recollection is Mr. Tyree's report to you was basically simply the conclusion that the accounting due diligence call went fine?
A. That's all I remember.
Q. As you sit here, you don't recall him flagging for your attention any concerns that Arthur Andersen raised about Sunbeam's efforts to enhance its 1997 revenues?
A. I don't recall any problems raised, no.
Q. Would you have expected Mr. Tyree to inform you of such things if Arthur Andersen raised issues of that sort during the accounting due diligence call?
MR. CLARE: Objection, incomplete hypothetical.
A. As I said, I recall that we discussed the accounting due diligence call and his summary was that -- I don't recall him raising any issue in the -- in his summary of that call.
Q. Who was responsible for determining whether or not any of the information that Arthur Andersen provided during that accounting due diligence call is significant? Mr. Tyree, or was he responsible for informing someone else, who would make that judgment?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 146

A. If he would have any concerns, I would have assumed he would raise that, raise those concerns. I don't recall any concerns being raised.

Q. Would your expectation have been that he would have raised those concerns with you or with someone else?

A. It could have been either. Either or both.

Q. So it's your testimony, Ms. Porat, that nothing that occurred as part of the accounting due diligence that Mr. Tyree conducted caused you to suspect that Sunbeam had taken steps to inflate its 1997 sales revenue at the expense of results from the first quarter of 1998?

A. No.

Q. Just before we broke, I asked you when you recall first hearing indications that Sunbeam was having problems with its first quarter 1998 performance, and you indicated it was at the end of the road show.

A. As I recall, I think it was towards the end.

Q. Do you recall a specific point in time where that was first brought to your attention?

A. No.

Q. What do you recall?

A. About -- I'm sorry?

Q. When it was first brought to your attention that Sunbeam was having difficulty in its first quarter 1997 -- excuse me, let me start over.

When did you recall that it was first brought to your attention that Sunbeam was having problems with its first quarter 1998 performance?

A. I can't -- I don't know if I recall this or it was in the prior deposition, in reviewing that, but I believe it was at a road show, at the New York road show lunch, that somebody raised a concern that first quarter sales may not be as strong as expected.

Q. The road show was scheduled to end on March 19th, correct, at that point?

A. I don't remember that, but sounds right from everything we have gone through this morning.

Q. Do you recall that it was that New York was the second-to-last stop?

A. I think that sounds right.

Q. The New York road show was on March 18th and the road show was concluding in Boston on the following day?

A. Right.

Q. And you attended the luncheon in New York on the 18th?

A. Yes.

Q. Had you attended any of the other road show presentations that day in New York?

A. I don't believe I did.

Q. There were a series that day, correct?

A. There would have been a number of what are called one-on-one meetings, meetings of one institution, and I don't believe I attended any of those.

Q. Did you attend any of the road show events on any of the other days of the road show, whether one-on-one presentations or luncheons or dinners?

A. No. Nor would it have been customary for the equity capital markets desk to do that.

Q. Why did you attend on the 18th the luncheon?

Page 149

A. Because that's the customary thing is when you are on the equity capital markets desk you go to the New York luncheon. It's one big event and it's a good time to catch up with management at the end of the day at a point in the road show, whether it's the beginning or the end.

Q. Who was there that day from Morgan Stanley?

A. For some reason, all I can remember is Jim Stynes. I don't remember if more people were there.

Q. Do you remember John Tyree being there?

A. I don't remember if he was or wasn't. I don't know.

Q. Who did you sit with?

A. No recollection.

Q. Did you sit with Mr. Stynes?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Who spoke that day at the presentation?

A. I don't recall the presentation.

Q. Do you recall if Mr. Dunlap spoke?

A. The structure, I remember the structure of the presentation was he would speak a lot, but whether he was the only one who spoke, I don't know.

Page 150

Q. Do you know who from Morgan Stanley spoke?
A. I don't.
Q. I take it it wasn't you?
A. I was waiting for you to tell me it was. I don't remember. It would have been a brief introduction.
Q. But somebody from Morgan Stanley introduced the company that day, correct?
A. Usually would. I don't remember if someone did.
Q. I know you don't recall the specifics of the presentation that day. Do you remember the company in the course of its presentation announcing any bad news?
A. No, I don't believe so.
Q. Is it fair to say that the take-away you had that day was that the company's presentation remained bullish with respect to its prospects?
MR. CLARE: Object to the form of the question.
A. I don't remember what the presentation said.
Q. You said that at some point during the events at the luncheon, someone came up to you and said first quarter sales might not be as strong as expected?

A. There was something was said, as I recall, that I don't believe it was as definitive as you just summarized it, but it was something that was said that led us to say, well, let's look further into the sales patterns of the quarter.
Q. What's your best recollection of the words that were expressed to you?
A. I don't remember the words, other than the conclusion from the words, which was we should revisit the financial performance for the first quarter.
Q. This wasn't a general announcement that was made in the course of the company's presentation?
A. No.
Q. It was a private conversation of some sort?
A. Some sort.
Q. Do you remember whether it was a conversation you had -- let me take a step back.
Do you remember anyone other than yourself participating in this conversation?
A. For some reason, I think Jim Stynes was involved, but I can't specifically say why, whether he told me -- I don't. I just remember him as part of the conversation, but I don't know why.

Q. Who do you recall being the source of the comment?
A. I don't recall the source.
Q. Was it someone else at Morgan Stanley?
A. I don't know. As I am saying, I don't know whether Jim Stynes was relating a conversation, if he was part of a conversation that I had with some of the company. I can't remember. But I remember there was something that was said at that lunch that resulted in additional due diligence.
Q. Did the comment that was made to you relating to the company's first quarter performance cause you concern?
A. To the extent that it encouraged us to do additional due diligence.
Q. So it caused you some concern; is that correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection. That misstates her testimony.
A. No. I mean the reason I am hesitating is the company was consistently of the view that there was not a problem with the first quarter, and but there was something that was said, and again I don't recall precisely what it was, that led us to conclude that it made sense to do additional due diligence.

Q. Do you remember anything else happening while you were still at the road show luncheon on this subject?
A. No.
Q. Did you say anything to anyone else while you were at the luncheon relating to the information that had been imparted to you?
A. I don't remember if I did.
Q. Did you call anyone from the road show?
A. I don't recall if I did.
Q. Did you go around to other Morgan Stanley people who were present at the road show and say, we have got to get back to the office to discuss this?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Did you say that to Mr. Stynes?
A. I don't recall specifics of a conversation other than to say that we eventually later that day did do more due diligence on the first quarter.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. What did you do after the road show luncheon ended -- let me take a step back.
Did you stay for the conclusion of the road show luncheon?
A. I can't recall if I did.
Q. Do you recall if this comment caused you to leave early?
A. I don't recall.
Q. What do you recall doing after you left the luncheon?
A. I don't recall the specifics other than when you get later in the day, I do recall being on a rather lengthy conference call with the company and a number of other people to talk about the quarter, but I wish I can remember more details between the lunch and that and I don't.
Q. You called Mr. Strong in San Francisco after lunch, didn't you?
A. I don't recall calling him in San Francisco. I don't recall him being in San Francisco. But I do know he was in on a call later that day with the company.
Q. Before that before the call involving the company, you called Mr. Strong, who was not in New York, and alerted him to the information that you received at the luncheon on this subject, correct?

A. I don't recall that. I don't recall not doing it. I don't recall doing it.
Q. You don't recall calling Mr. Strong, making an effort to reach him in California and having him return your telephone message?
A. I don't recall.
MR. CLARE: Objection, asked and answered.
Q. What do you recall happening when you went back to the office?
A. I am feeling quite repetitive, but I don't recall the details leading up to a conference call that included quite a number of different people to review performance in the quarter.
Q. Is it fair to say that you devoted the rest of the day to this subject?
A. As I recall, it was a pretty long period of time that day, yes.
Q. This was after you got back to your office, this was the focus of your attention for the rest of that day?
A. I can't say if it was exclusively, but I remember spending a lot of time on it.

Q. Prior to -- well, let me take a step back. Do you remember speaking to Davis Polk that day about the subject?
MR. CLARE: Let me just instruct the witness for now that's a yes or no answer.
A. What's the question?
Q. Do you remember speaking with Davis Polk relating to this subject?
A. At any point?
Q. During the day on March 18th after you came back from the road show?
A. Yes.
Q. With whom?
A. I think it was Alan Dean.
Q. When did you first speak with Mr. Dean that day?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Was it a private conversation or were there representatives of the company on the phone?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Did you speak with anyone else at Davis Polk that day, other than Mr. Dean?
A. I may have, but I don't recall.
Q. Who are the other possibilities in your mind?

A. I don't have a recollection.
Q. Do you recall Mr. Lurie working on the transaction?
A. No, I don't recall one way or the other.
Q. Ms. Porat, if Mr. Strong stated that he did receive a call from you that day after the road show, and that you expressed concern about the information that you received and that you wanted to report that information to him, do you have any reason to dispute that description of the events?
A. Given we ended up on a conference call to go through it, I have no reason to dispute it. I don't specifically remember the conversation.
Q. You knew that if Sunbeam was not doing well in the first quarter, that was a potential problem, right?
A. Depending on the issue.
Q. But that was a potential problem is my question?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. I knew that I wanted to understand what the issue was.
Q. And if Sunbeam sales weren't performing as expected in the first quarter of 1998, that was a potential problem?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01-20

A. As I said, it depended on all of the issues around the question and what the performance was.
Q. I am simply asking whether you understood that if Sunbeam wasn't doing well with respect to its sales or as expected with respect to its sales in the first quarter of 1998, you knew that was a potential problem?
MR. CLARE: Asked and answered.
A. It depended on what the performance was, what the issues were, and if there was -- and it was important to understand that there was a real deviation from what the consensus of Wall Street was expecting.
Q. I am simply asking, Ms. Porat, whether you understood when you received this information about Sunbeam, there being an issue with respect to Sunbeam's first quarter sales, those circumstances might be a problem with respect to the transaction in which you were engaged?
MR. CLARE: Same objection.
A. I feel like I answered this a couple of times. I understood if anybody was raising an issue, I wanted to understand what the issue was, to understand if there was a problem.

Page 159

Q. And you previously told me that you knew it was important that Sunbeam continued to hit its numbers in the first quarter of '98, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Let me show you a document that we previously marked as Coleman (Parent) Holding Exhibit Number 12. It's a letter dated March 11, 1998, to Arthur Andersen from Morgan Stanley, and it's signed by John D. Tyree.
Have you had a chance to read Exhibit 12?
A. Quickly, yes.
Q. Do you know what it is?
A. In reading it. It says it's a request to deliver a comfort letter.
Q. And this request for a comfort letter relates to the convertible debenture offering, correct, that you were involved in performing for Sunbeam?
A. Yes.
Q. What's the purpose of a -- let me take a step back.
Do you know that Mr. Tyree had written to Arthur Andersen and requested a comfort letter in connection with the convertible debenture offering?

A. I don't think I have ever seen this letter.
Q. But did you know that he had written to Arthur Andersen in a request for a comfort letter?
A. No, but I assume, you know, his standard to get a comfort level letter in conjunction with a transaction.
Q. That's something that you knew that would be occurring in connection with the debenture offering due diligence, correct?
A. I could have assumed that at the time.
Q. And one purpose for the comfort letter is to obtain information from the company's outside accounting firm with respect to the current period financial performance of the company, correct?
A. It make sure that anything -- in my understanding of it is to make sure that anything that's in the offering document, the accountants can give you comfort is accurate.
Q. Do you understand that the comfort letter also requests that the auditor provide information with respect to the financial performance of the company since the date of the company's last publicly reported financial reports?

A. I remember seeing the form of the comfort letter that provided a bit of an update.
Q. In connection with the Sunbeam transaction?
A. Correct.
Q. And that update was more current financial information with respect to Sunbeam's first quarter performance, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Now when this issue arose at the road show luncheon with respect to Sunbeam's first quarter sales results, did you ask anyone at that point whether Morgan Stanley had received the comfort letter that had been requested from Arthur Andersen?
A. I don't recall one way or the other.
Q. So you don't rule that out, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Did Davis Polk at any point in the day on March 18th report to you that it had received a copy of the Arthur Andersen comfort letter?
MR. CLARE: I am going to object to the question and instruct the witness to limit your answer in this way. Mr. Markowski has asked you whether Davis Polk attorneys, representing Morgan Stanley, communicated certain information to you. That's a legitimate question for him to ask only if in that communication there were other people who were present, people from Sunbeam or other people outside of Morgan Stanley.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

If the answer to your question would require you to disclose information just in a private conversation with Morgan Stanley people and Davis Polk, I will instruct you not to answer; but if you can answer his question without disclosing that attorney-client privileged communication, you are free to answer.

A. Kind of an easy answer. I don't recall any conversation to -- about the comfort letter.

MR. MARKOWSKI: I disagree with Mr. Clare's limitations on your answer. I think I am entitled to know the answer to that question regardless of whether it's a private conversation or not.

A. The answer doesn't change.

Q. At any point of the day on March 18th did you learn that Davis Polk had a copy of the

Page 163

Arthur Andersen comfort letter?

A. I don't recall one way or the other.

Q. On March 18th did you see a draft of the comfort letter?

A. I don't believe so.

Q. Do you rule it out?

A. I don't recall seeing a copy of a comfort letter.

Q. But I just want to understand -- I am trying to be fair really -- whether that's something that you say did not happen or whether it's something that you can't recall one way or the other?

A. I don't think it happened, but I wouldn't rule it out. A long time ago.

Q. I am going to show you a copy of a document that's been produced to us in this litigation by Davis Polk. It's an excerpt from a Davis Polk time entry for March 18, 1998 and the attorney whose time entry this relates to is James Lurie at Davis Polk. We are going to mark this as Coleman (Parent) Exhibit 344.

(Coleman (Parent) Exhibit 344, time excerpt from James Lurie at Davis Polk for March 18, 1998, marked for identification, as of this date.)

Q. I am just going to read the time entry into the record, Ms. Porat.

"Review AA and KPMG comfort letters. Calls Bernstein," I think that's a typographical error for Borenstein, "MS and Skadden. Conference calls with same re various matters. Conference call with," excuse me, "conference call re PA changes. Call with other accounts re comfort. Conference calls re Q/W/Co. meetings with FJM, AD and JS."

Does reviewing this time record, Ms. Porat, refresh your memory concerning any communications you had with Davis Polk relating to the Andersen comfort letter?

A. No.

Q. Does it refresh your recollection concerning your having seen or been advised of the contents of the comfort letter on March 18th?

A. No.

Q. Does this refresh your recollection relating to James Lurie's participation in conversations on March 18th relating to the events of the first quarter?

A. No.

Page 165

Q. Do you see the initials FJM, AD and JS at the end of that time entry?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have any conversations that day with, I believe it's Mr. Morris or Mr. Small at Davis Polk relating to disclosure issues or Morrison?

A. I don't recall if I did.

Q. Do you know who those individuals are at Davis Polk?

A. I know Jeffrey Small.

Q. Do you recall having any communication with him relating to Sunbeam?

A. I don't recall having conversations with him.

Q. Do you know Mr. Morrison?

A. I don't think I do.

Q. Mr. Small is a senior securities lawyer at Davis Polk?

A. Yes.

Q. Was he otherwise involved at any time in the Sunbeam transaction, other than with respect to -- well, let me strike that. And if I just asked this a moment ago, I apologize.

Do you recall if Mr. Small was brought in to provide advice with respect to the issues that were being discussed on March 18th?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

A. I don't recall one way or the other.
Q. You don't recall being on the phone with him at all that day?
A. No. I worked on other deals with him, which is how I know him. I don't know if he was involved.
Q. You don't recall meeting with him that day?
A. No, I don't recall.
Q. Let me show you a copy of what we have previously marked CPH Exhibit 17. It's a copy of a March 19, 1998 letter from Arthur Andersen to Morgan Stanley & Company.
Can you tell me what this is, ma'am?
A. A letter from Arthur Andersen to Morgan Stanley.
Q. It relates to the Sunbeam transaction, correct?
A. Yes.
Q. This is the comfort letter that Mr. Tyree requested in his March 7th letter to Arthur Andersen, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection, no foundation.

Page 167

A. I have no idea.
Q. You can't tell from this document whether this was the letter that Mr. Tyree requested Arthur Andersen provide?
A. No, I can't.
Q. When did you first see this document?
A. I think I first saw it in a prior deposition.
Q. Is it your testimony that you did not see this back in 1998?
A. I don't recall seeing it in 1998. I may have, but I don't recall.
Q. Let me direct your attention to the fourth page of the exhibit.
A. Page 378.
Q. Actually, it's page 5, I'm sorry.
A. Page 379.
Q. Correct. Actually, there is a page number on the top too. It says page 5. I would like you to read out loud paragraph C at the top.
A. Paragraph C reads "Although the company has not provided us with any financial statements as of any date or for any period subsequent to February 1, 1998, management has provided net sales from December 29, 1997 through March 1, 1998, which were $72,018,000, as compared to $43,499,000 for the corresponding period of the preceding year.

Q. In this letter dated March 19, 1998 Arthur Andersen advises Morgan Stanley that Sunbeam's sales for the first two months of 1998 are approximately half of Sunbeam's sales for the comparable period in 1997, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. I direct your attention to the prior page. I would like you to read the first sentence in paragraph B at the bottom.
A. Paragraph B, "From the period of December 29, 1997 through March 16, 1998 consolidated net sales decreased as compared to the corresponding period of the preceding year, primarily due to the company's new early buy program for outdoor grills, which accelerated outdoor grill sales into the fourth quarter of fiscal 1997."
Q. So that statement advises Morgan Stanley that the primary reason for the decline in -- 50 percent decline in Sunbeam's net sales in the comparable period 1997 is due to the fact that the company had accelerated its sales into the fourth quarter of 1997, correct?

Page 169

MR. CLARE: Objection, that mischaracterizes the document.
A. I'm sorry, can you repeat your question?
Q. The statement advises Morgan Stanley that the primary reason why Sunbeam's sales in the first two months of 1998 have declined by 50 percent from the level of the comparable period in 1997 is due to the fact that the company had accelerated the outdoor grill sales into the fourth quarter of fiscal 1997, correct?
A. Well it says primarily due to.
Q. Correct. That's the primary cause of the 50 percent decline in sales from the comparable period in 1997, correct?
A. That's what the document says.
Q. Morgan Stanley knew that at least as of March 1998, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection, no foundation.
A. As I indicated, I don't recall seeing this letter.
Q. After you came back from the road show luncheon, what events do you recall?
A. I recall a series of conference calls to go into a lot of detail about the sales for the first quarter and the pipeline for the balance of the quarter.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

071123

Page 170

Q. Tell me what you can recall about that. Is there anything, any more detail that you can recall?
A. Well, the main thing is just a fairly detailed line-by-line discussion of sales and expected sales globally, with the company expressing a very high level of confidence that their sales for the quarter would not, in fact, deviate from the street's expectations.
Q. Who do you recall being involved in those discussions?
A. From the company?
Q. Well, let me ask a background question before we get to that.
Can you separate in your mind any of the phone conversations or meetings that you had that day into separate and distinct discussions?
A. Well, as I recall, there were some kind of internal Morgan Stanley names pulled from the conversations, and I don't remember how many or the sequence. The main thing I remember is a fairly large call with Morgan Stanley, the company, Skadden and Davis Polk, and I don't know who else was on the call, and a lot of back-and-forth throughout the -- throughout the evening.

Q. And those conversations led to a discussion with Mr. Dunlap at the end of the evening, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Do you recall being a participant in that conversation?
A. I can't remember if I was actually on the call with him or was subsequently told of the contents of it. I can't remember who was on it when.
Q. So you can distinguish -- let me rephrase it.
Is it fair to say that you recall three sets of the conversations, some initial back-and-forth conversations between Morgan Stanley personnel and people at Davis Polk; the second set of conversations is with the company, Davis Polk, Skadden, and Morgan Stanley personnel; and then there being at least a conversation with Mr. Dunlap after that?
A. My only concern on what you said is that you packaged it a little too neatly. What I remember is a whole series of conversations that at one point enlarged the group of participants from the company to get more information. So it was as opposed to three discrete events, it was much more of an iterative, if we need more information.

I remember at one point we hooked somebody in from the company from Florida, to get more information. So this was an ongoing couple of hours or -- I can't remember how long, but it was a long series of discussions and, again, the only thing I am objecting to is it wasn't as neatly packaged as you spoke to Davis Polk, then you spoke to the company, then you spoke to Mr. Dunlap. As I recall, we were on and off and on and off with different people, so as we were getting the information.
Q. Well, do you recall that before you became -- before you first started speaking to people at the company, you did have some internal discussion about what you learned at the road show initially?
A. I don't specifically recall the internal discussions, other than something that got us onto this conference call with the company, but I don't recall what it was.
Q. Do you recall before you got involved in that conference call with the company, you also had some communications with Davis Polk?

Page 173

MR. CLARE: That's a yes or no answer.
A. No, I don't recall that. I don't recall one way or the other.
Q. Once the company became involved in the conversations, can you separate in your mind today those communications into separate telephone calls of any sort, separate events, so that we can deal with them one at a time?
A. No.
Q. Who do you recall internally at Morgan Stanley being involved in any of these conversations that day?
A. I remember Bill Strong and John Tyree were involved and I don't know who else was.
Q. Who do you remember at Skadden being involved in any of the conversations that day?
A. You are going to have to help me with names.
Q. Can you remember anybody by name?
A. I could if you gave me some names. I can't remember names.
Q. Do you recall Blaine Fogg being involved?
A. Yes, I believe he was involved.

01214

Page 174

Q. Is there anyone else at Skadden that you recall participating on the phone call -- any of the phone calls that day?
A. I can't, but if you --
Q. Did you think there were other people from Skadden involved?
A. I -- if you give me some names, I can probably tell you if I remember them, but I don't recall any other names. There may have been.
Q. Let me simply ask this question. Do you recall whether, in addition to Mr. Fogg, there was anyone else from Skadden Arps involved in conversations that day, whether you can remember their names or not?
A. I can't remember.
Q. Who do you remember from the company being involved?
A. I think -- I think it was Fannin, Kersh, and Uzzi, but I am not sure why I remember those names. I think I have those names right.
Q. Mr. Fannin was the general counsel, correct?
A. Right.
Q. Mr. Kersh was the CFO?
A. Correct.

Page 175

Q. Do you remember Mr. Uzzi's job responsibility or was it described to you?
A. As I remember, it was something to do with sales. I don't know what his job was.
Q. Who do you remember from Davis Polk being involved that day in any of the conversations, whether it's your separate side conversations with them or these larger group conversations?
MR. CLARE: He is just asking you to identify them by name.
A. No, I understood. I think the only one I think I can remember is Alan Dean.
Q. Who from Morgan Stanley was taking the lead with respect to obtaining information from Sunbeam on the subject of its first quarter sales?
A. Well, I remember, as I recall, I was playing a pretty lead role in those calls on that day and as I recall, Bill was similarly quite actively involved in parts of the conversation.
Q. Was Mr. Strong involved in the conversations when the company was presenting facts relating to its first quarter sales situation?
A. I can't remember specifically.
Q. Do you know if he was on the phone when

Page 176

Mr. Uzzi was making his presentation?
A. I can't remember.
Q. How did it come that you were -- come to be that you were playing lead role for Morgan Stanley in connection with obtaining these facts?
A. Well, John Tyree had been running a lot of the due diligence and then as we were coming up to the completion of the offering and we became concerned that maybe there were some other issues, as we previously discussed, I just kind of asserted myself.
Q. So no one gave you that assignment?
A. No, I can't recall anyone asking me to do it.
Q. You don't recall Mr. Strong saying, Ruth, I want you to be the person responsible for obtaining all the facts for me?
A. I don't remember him saying that.
Q. You just took it upon yourself to do it?
A. That's my recollection of it.
Q. Let me show you, Ms. Porat, what we have previously marked as CPH Deposition Exhibit 16. It's a one-page document Bates labelled Morgan Stanley Confidential 28858. Can you identify this for me?

Page 177

A. It looks like something we went over that afternoon that the company prepared, and that we reviewed by line to support the company's repeated assertion that there was no risk about the strength for their supporting numbers.
Q. Do you recall the company sent to you something in writing on that subject?
A. Yes.
Q. And is it your best recollection that this is that document?
MR. CLARE: Without the handwriting?
A. Without the handwriting. I don't -- I got a clean document, no handwriting, that looks something like that, so very well could have been this.
Q. Do you believe this to be the document?
A. I think so.
Q. Do you see the note "Porat sees this"?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know whose handwriting this is?
A. No.
Q. Do you see a set of three fax numbers at the top of the page?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that fax number in the first line

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 178

your fax number, where it says next to the words "Ruth fax"?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you see beneath that the word "Alan"?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know that to be Mr. Dean's fax number?
A. I don't, but 450 is a Davis Polk prefix. Could be.
Q. And do you see the word "David"?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know if the 212-735 number listed next to the word "David" is Mr. Fogg's fax number?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you know if 735 is the Skadden Arps exchange?
A. I think it's the Skadden Arps exchange. I am not sure.
Q. Tell me what you were told about this document during the course of the conversations you had that day with the company.
A. Well, the company, as I recall, used this document as support that, in their view, it was absolutely no risk to the company hitting the first quarter numbers.

Q. Do you remember anything else the company said about it?
A. The thing I remember most was they were extremely strident that it provided the detail behind the buildup to the first quarter, and I remember them going through literally every line item on it.
Q. Do you remember that at this point in time the street -- Wall Street analysts were expecting the company to achieve sales from 285 to 295 million dollars?
A. I don't recall that.
Q. Jumping ahead a little bit, but let me show you a copy of what we marked previously as CPH Exhibit 14. It's a document that bears Morgan Stanley Bates numbers 16944 through 945, and it's entitled "Sunbeam states that first quarter revenues may be lower than street estimates," and it's dated March 19, 1998.
Do you see that the first sentence in this document, Ms. Porat, states that Sunbeam's -- excuse me, states that the range of Wall Street estimates of 285 million to 295 million are the -- were the then current Wall Street expectations for

Sunbeam's first quarter sales?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember anything else that you were told about Exhibit 16, the one-page -- sheet information you received that day from the company?
A. I can give you some pretty general categories. Those are categories that I remember.
Q. But do you remember anything else factually that you were told by the company?
A. I am not sure what you are asking. I don't think so.
Q. You told me the company was very strident in saying they are going to achieve Wall Street expectations and that you went through on an item-by-item basis some of the information on here, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Is there anything else you can recall the company sharing with you relating to the substance of the information set forth on this page?
A. I think we went through how do they, you know, the process by -- of putting this page together and who put it together and what it meant, all the process issues around it. But I think other than that, no, I don't recall anything else.

Q. Let's go through the document for a moment. You see that it states on the first line that January consolidated net sales for $29 million; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And do you see that it states that February consolidated net sales actual for $43 million?
A. Yes.
Q. So the total that this document tells you is that Sunbeam has realized in net sales for January and February were $72 million, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And we have just seen that Wall Street's expectations for the first quarter were 285 million to 295 million, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. So you knew as of the time that you were looking at this document that Sunbeam for the first two months of 1998 had achieved sales that represented only about 25 percent of Wall Street's expectations for the first quarter of 1998, correct?
A. Correct.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. You knew the third line of this document indicates that March -- international sales through March 15th were $6.9 million; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. And March international -- domestic sales through --excuse me, March domestic net sales through March 17th were $22.7 million?
A. Yes.
Q. So if you add up the actual sales that Sunbeam had realized through the first two and a half months of 1998, the total is approximately $101 million, 72 plus 6.9 plus 22.7?
A. Right.
Q. And you understood that from looking at this document, when you were speaking with the company that day, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. So $101.2 million is about 35 percent of Wall Street's expectations at that point, right?
A. About.
Q. With about two weeks or less to go in the quarter, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And the company was telling you at that point not to worry, we are going to get to 285 to 295 million dollars, correct?

A. Correct.
Q. You didn't believe them, did you?
MR. CLARE: Objection, argumentative.
A. I certainly wanted to have them explain the -- why they remained so confident in the forecast for the first quarter.
Q. I am simply asking you whether you believed that they were, in fact, with two months to go -- two weeks to go in the quarter, or less, having achieved only $100 million in sales, going to reach a level of 285 to 295 million dollars in the next 12 days?
A. I wanted to understand, as I said, the basis for that type of forecast for the year, because there can be reasons that there are -- that sales are front-end loaded, back-end loaded, you know, proportionate throughout the quarter, and wanted them -- to have them explain the buildup. I thought it was proper due diligence to go back through what they asserted was, they were so comfortable they would obtain.
Q. Did you believe the story?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.

A. At the end of the evening, when they went through all of the sales, collectively our view was that we were concerned that they would not -- there was risk they would not hit the numbers, and therefore wanted -- felt it was appropriate for them to issue a press release, which they continued to maintain was completely unnecessary.
Q. I am asking you personally?
A. And I answered you.
Q. No. You referred to "we" and I am asking you personally. You personally, Ruth Porat, didn't believe management's claim that they were going to release in the last two weeks, 12 days of the first quarter of 1998, sufficient sales to achieve Wall Street's estimates of 285 to 295 million dollars, did you?
MR. CLARE: Objection, argumentative. Asked and answered.
A. As I said, after going through hours of review, my concern was they could be a bit lighter than the 285 than 295, and the importance is that nuance of how far off would they be relative to the street, what was the risk that they would not hit the street's numbers, and if they didn't, what -- how far off could they be.

Q. So your testimony is that your personal belief at the end of that evening was that, at worst, Sunbeam might be a bit lower at the end of the quarter than Wall Street's estimates of 285 to 295 million dollars in sales?
MR. CLARE: Objection, misstates the testimony.
A. As I said, I thought there was a risk that they could not hit it, and if they did the press release that they drafted from the discussion that had occurred, seemed to provide ample guidance in and some cushion relative to the expectation for the first quarter.
Q. At any point during the conversations you had with the company that day, Ms. Porat, did the company state that in the past it had accomplished anything like $180 million in sales in the last 12 days of any quarter in the company's history?
A. I don't recall.

BY MR. MARKOWSKI:
Q. Is there anything else you can remember about the conversations you had during the course of March 19th with Sunbeam relating to its first quarter 1998 performance?
A. I don't think so.
Q. Is there anything else you can recall about the conversations you had within Morgan Stanley relating to that subject?
A. Well, I gave you fairly broad categories and I think that accurately reflects it.
Q. Is there any more detail that you have relating to the conversations that you had within Morgan Stanley relating to the circumstances of Sunbeam's first quarter in 1998 performance which you haven't testified to yet?
A. I don't think so.
Q. Is there anything else you remember about your conversations with Mr. Strong on March 18th that you haven't testified to?
A. I just recall that the company, as I have said previously, was very much of the view that a press release was completely unnecessary, was -- I don't know if they used it, but the tone was it was belt-and-suspenders Morgan Stanley being overly concerned, and it was -- in fact, would lead people to the wrong conclusion because they remained so confident in the numbers. And towards the end of the evening Bill was very active with the company in persuading them that some form of press release had to go out.

Q. That's the decision that was made that night, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And there was a call with Mr. Dunlap, and you are not sure if you were on it or not, where that was the conclusion, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And then after that telephone call, a press release was drafted, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And you were involved in that process, right?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. The company drafted the press release and then, as I recall, they sent it to -- they sent the draft press release to us before the final was actually issued.

Q. You received a copy of the press release in draft form, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. And you made comments on it, correct?
A. I don't recall if I did actually.
Q. Well, isn't it the case that you, in fact, believed that you made comments on the press release?
A. As I just said, I don't recall if I did.
Q. Let me direct you to page 49 of the transcript that you -- of your deposition in February of 2001 in the Camden asset litigation. We previously marked it as CPH Number 342. Do you have page 49 --
A. Yes.
Q. -- in front of you?
Have you had an opportunity to read that?
A. Yes.
Q. Does that refresh your recollection that, in fact, you believed that at least of the time of your testimony in February 2001, that you had, in fact, made comments on the draft press release?

Page 189

A. Well, it's fairly fuzzy to me. I said I believe so, but I don't actually recall. And when asked what my comments were, I don't recall. Just as I said today, I remember getting it, but I don't recall comments on it.
The thing I remember most about it was that the first time we had seen a number of, you know, the company had quantified a number that would be the floor to where the first quarter sales guidance could be.
Q. Just so the record is clear, in your February 2001 testimony in the Camden asset litigation, you were asked these questions and did you give these answers?
"Question: Did you have a role in drafting any of the contents of the press release?
"Answer: As I recall, I saw it at some point before it went out, but I don't recall who drafted it.
"Question: Did you comment on it to anyone?
"Answer: I believe so, but I don't actually recall."
That was your testimony in February 2001.

A. Yes.
Q. Let me show you an exhibit that we previously marked as CPH Exhibit 13. Let me show you what we have previously marked as CPH Exhibit 13, Ms. Porat. It's a fax cover sheet from Skadden Arps to John Tyree dated March 18, 1998, and the text of the message on the cover page reads "Under no circumstances should this press release be disseminated prior to its signoff by Albert J. Dunlap and/or David C. Fannin." Do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Is this consistent with your recollection that Morgan Stanley was provided with a draft of the Sunbeam press release?
A. I guess so.
Q. Do you remember if the original draft for the press release that you saw was different in any respect from the press release that was ultimately issued by the company the next morning?
A. I don't recall.
Q. I direct your attention to CPH 14. Do you have that?
A. Yes.
Q. I would like you to take a moment to read it. That's -- stop there. Take a moment to read it.

Page 191

This is the press release that Sunbeam issued on March 19; is that correct?
A. It looks like it.
Q. As far as you can tell?
A. As far as I can tell.
Q. Looking at the press -- Exhibit CPH 14, do you recall anything in any of the earlier drafts that you received of the press release that differed in any way, any respect, with respect to the statements contained in this document?
A. I don't remember any difference of any prior -- any draft that was different from this.
Q. Do you remember any drafts that had more information than we see here on CPH Exhibit 14?
A. I don't.
Q. Do you remember seeing any drafts that had less?
A. I don't. I don't remember the different drafts.
Q. In the course of -- you have indicated, Ms. Porat, that you took it upon yourself to take the lead on March 18th to obtain additional information from Sunbeam relating to its first quarter sales situation.

In the course of your efforts that day, did you consult with any senior Morgan Stanley personnel relating -- who were not directly involved in the Sunbeam deal, concerning what you were learning and what you should do?
A. Yes.
Q. Who did you consult with?
A. I remember talking to Richard Kauffman, who was the head of equity capital markets.
Q. When did you speak to Mr. Kauffman?
A. Sometime that night.
Q. At what point in the process do you recall that happening in relationship to the other events that you testified about?
A. I don't recall exactly, but it had to have been after we had done quite a bit of due diligence and indicated to the company that we believed that some kind of press release was needed because the substance of the conversations I recall was something along the lines of without some kind of press release, I didn't feel comfortable recommending that we would proceed with the transaction.
Q. What did you tell Mr. Kauffman?

Page 193

A. Essentially something along those lines. I don't remember more specifics, and just wanted to ensure he agreed that if there was no press release, we would not be pricing the transaction.
Q. Did you advise Mr. Kauffman of the information you had obtained relating to the status of Sunbeam's first quarter sales?
A. I can't remember the specifics. If anything, it would have been general terms or conclusions.
Q. Did you tell him where Sunbeam stood at that point in terms of its actual sales through the first two and a half months of the quarter?
A. I don't recall the details.
Q. Do you think you did?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Did you tell him that Sunbeam needed to realize $180 million in sales to accomplish the street's expectations for the quarter?
A. As I said, I don't recall the specifics of the conversation.
Q. Do you think you told him that?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Did you tell him what the actual sales results for any of the time period were during the first two and a half months of Sunbeam's first quarter?

017129

Page 194

A. As I said, I don't recall the specifics other than the conclusions. Just the conclusions.
Q. Did you tell him what the reasons were why Sunbeam's sales for the first two months of 1998 were so far below its sales for the first two months of 1997?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. I don't recall.
Q. Did you tell him what the press release would state?
A. I don't recall how specific we were in that conversation about what would or would not be in the press release.
Q. Did you ask him his advice about what should go in the press release?
A. I don't recall the specific conversation, specific details of the conversation.
Q. Did you call him in order to obtain advice from him about what the press release should say, if there was going to be a press release?
A. As I recall, I called him because if there was any concern that the company may miss their first quarter numbers, in my judgment it was appropriate to indicate that to investors before pricing a transaction, and if the company didn't want to do that, I wanted to see if he was in agreement that we then shouldn't price the transaction.

Q. My question is a little bit different. It was whether you asked him for advice concerning what information should be included in the press release to potential investors, advising them of the circumstances of Sunbeam's first quarter performance?
A. Well, there was from -- I don't recall that and the reason I am answering it the way I did is it's the company's press release.
The big issue that I was focused on was some indication that the company may not hit their numbers, which was our concern. That appropriately reflected all of the prior conversations that evening and that was -- I didn't -- I don't recall asking him how the press release should be drafted because it wasn't ours to draft.
Q. I'm sorry, were you finished?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you ask him for any advice concerning what the press release would have to say before Morgan Stanley would be prepared to proceed with the underwriting of the debenture offering?

Page 196

A. I don't recall.
Q. Was there any -- I am limiting myself to people who were not working directly on the Sunbeam transaction. Did you have any other conversations that day with any Morgan Stanley personnel not working directly on the Sunbeam transaction, where you did seek advice concerning what the press release should say?
A. I don't recall if I did.
Q. Did you speak with Mr. Fiedorek with respect to that?
A. I don't believe I would have.
Q. Did you speak with Mr. Perella?
A. I don't know if I did.
Q. Is it possible, in your mind?
A. I may have. I don't recall speaking to him.
Q. Is he someone you think would be a good source, in circumstances like this, for advice with respect to what an appropriate disclosure would have to be under these circumstances?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question and incomplete hypothetical.

A. The only reason I distinguish my answer about Bruce Fiedorek from Joe Perella is that Bruce Fiedorek is really more on the M&A side, so I can't say any reason why I would have called him, and I just honestly have no idea whether I spoke to Mr. Perella.
Q. What about Terry Meguid, did you speak to him that night or any time that day for any advice concerning, if there was going to be a Sunbeam press release, what facts should be contained in it?
A. I don't recall if there was any conversation.
Q. Can you think of anyone, other than people working on the Sunbeam team, that you did discuss, that you had any discussions with that night concerning what the press release should say?
A. No. I mean, just to clarify, I think if there had been a conversation, I am completely -- forget it, I am completely speculating. I can't answer your question about having a conversation with him.
Q. Or anyone else, correct?
A. No.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. Concerning what the press release should say?
A. No.
Q. Did Mr. Strong at any point tell you what he wanted the press release to say?
A. I don't recall him telling me what he thought the press release should say.
Q. During the course of the evening when the press release was being prepared, did you speak with Mr. Strong to advise him of what the press release in draft form did say?
A. Well, as I indicated previously, I remember when we got, I guess it was a faxed copy, we got a copy of the press release somehow and at some point discussed it. I don't know if he had a copy of it as well. I can't remember the details of that.
Q. Are you referring now to a conversation with Mr. Strong?
A. Correct.
Q. That was before the press release was released to the public, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Do you know if it was that night or the following morning?

A. What was that night or the following morning?
Q. This conversation with Mr. Strong?
A. That night.
Q. It was that night? What do you remember about that conversation?
A. I think the main thing I remember is two issues: One, would they actually release the press release; and two, the way they chose to word the first sentence, just in terms of the guidance it gave with respect to where sales might be for the first quarter.
Q. What do you remember on that subject being discussed between you and Mr. Strong that night?
A. That their conclusion was that if they were going to issue a press release, they might as well, the way they characterize it, build in a bit of cushion. They didn't think it needed to go out and yet they indicated that sales were expected to exceed first quarter net sales of 253.4.
Q. Did Mr. Strong indicate that he thought that was a good thing to include or a bad thing?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.

A. I don't remember. It was more an observation than a judgment. I don't remember the judgment.
Q. Did you have an opinion on that, whether it was a good or bad thing to include in the press release?
A. It seemed, given how confident they were in the 285 to 295, that it gave them a little more room, which is better than not having room.
Q. You thought it was a good thing?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question, argumentative.
Q. Did you think it was -- you thought it was good thing, correct?
A. I thought it was helpful.
Q. Ms. Porat, did you consider yourself to be sophisticated in public offerings as of March of 1998, public stock offerings?
A. What do you mean by "sophisticated"?
Q. Is "sophisticated" a word you don't understand?
A. I am not sure what you mean by it.
Q. Did you consider yourself an experienced investment banker in terms of significant public offerings of stock or other similar investments as of March 1998?

A. I viewed myself as having experience in equity offerings.
Q. It's what you had been doing for most of your career, correct?
A. I was -- I joined the equity capital markets group in 1996.
Q. You knew in March 18th -- March 19, 1998 that the Sunbeam press release that was issued was materially inaccurate, didn't you?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question and argumentative.
You can answer.
A. Absolutely not.
Q. The Sunbeam press release that was issued on March 19, 1998 didn't include any information with respect to Sunbeam's sales for January that quarter, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Didn't include any information with respect to sunbeam's sales for February of that quarter, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Didn't include any information relating to Sunbeam's sales for the first 15 to 17 days of

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

March, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Didn't advise investors that Sunbeam's sales for the first two months of 1998 were about half of what they had been for the first two months of 1997, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. Correct.
Q. Didn't advise anyone reading it that the primary reason for that, according to the company's public accounting firm, was that the company had accelerated sales from the first quarter 1998 into the fourth quarter of 1997, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection to form.
A. I think the press release speaks to itself.
Q. Doesn't disclose that, right?
That the reason why for -- first of all, it doesn't disclose that there has been a sales shortfall, but it doesn't disclose anything about the fact that Sunbeam has accelerated sales from the first quarter of 1998 into the fourth quarter of 1997, and that was having at that point of time a significant adverse effect on Sunbeam's first quarter performance, correct?

MR. CLARE: Objection to form, compound question.
A. It included a sentence that says the shortfall, from analysts' estimates, if any, would be due to changes in inventory management. It didn't specifically include the language that you just cited.
Q. It didn't advise the public about where Sunbeam stood with respect to its first quarter earnings either, did it?
A. No.
Q. Doesn't make any mention of the possibility that Sunbeam may fall short of Wall Street's expectations that Sunbeam would earn $.28 to $.30 per share in their quarter, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. Didn't include any indication that Sunbeam needed to sell and book in the first quarter of 1998 about $180 million in sales to achieve Wall Street's expectations for first quarter, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. You knew all of those things, didn't you, as of the time the press release was issued?

Page 204

A. I also know a lot more than that, which was the buildup that they had account by account that got them to continue to maintain hour after hour that there was no risk to their numbers. Notwithstanding that, they insisted on the very unusual act of putting out something that said that they could because there was concern. Notwithstanding a lot more detail provided by accounts.
Q. But you knew the things that I have just identified that were not included in the press release too, right?
MR. CLARE: Objection, asked and answered.
Q. On March 18, 1998, when you were involved in reviewing the draft press release that's now been prepared?
A. Correct. Which led to the conclusion that a press release was needed that encapsulated the key points.
Q. A press release that omitted all of the factual information about Sunbeam's sales for January, February and the first two weeks of March, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection, argumentative.

Page 205

A. That summarized the conclusions.
Q. That omitted the facts relating to Sunbeam's actual results for January, February and the first two weeks of March, correct?
MR. CLARE: Asked and answered and argumentative.
Q. Correct?
A. You made your speech.
Q. No. That's a question.
MR. CLARE: Well, you have asked the same question again and again, and she has answered it several times.
Q. Are you declining to answer the question?
A. I am telling you that it had the summary, it didn't have all of the detail behind it.
Q. Didn't have any of the detail, did it?
MR. CLARE: Objection, argumentative and to form.
A. It had the summary. It did not have the detail by account, by month.
Q. It didn't have any information relating to -- that would advise investors what Sunbeam needed to do in the final 12 days of the first quarter of 1998 to achieve the results, either that Wall Street was then expecting, or that the company said it would certainly exceed, correct?

MR. CLARE: Objection to form.
A. It did not have all of the detail. It had, we thought, the important message about a potential risk to sales.
Q. Morgan Stanley was happy with the press release?
MR. CLARE: Objection to form and foundation.
A. I am not going to comment on or speak for Morgan Stanley. My view was that it was important to let investors know there was a risk.
Q. Do you know if Mr. Strong was happy with the form of the press release?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.
A. I don't know.
Q. At any point during the preparation of the press release, Ms. Porat, did you suggest to anyone internally at Morgan Stanley, to Sunbeam, to Sunbeam's counsel, Skadden Arps, that the press release should include actual information relating to Sunbeam's sales results for the first two and a half months of the quarter?

A. I don't recall suggesting it should.
Q. At any point during the discussions that day, did you suggest to anyone that the press release should include a warning with respect to earnings?
A. I don't recall discussing it.
Q. At any point during the discussions that day with Ms. Porat, did anyone, in your presence or to your knowledge, suggest that the press release should include information relating to Sunbeam's actual sales results for any period of time in March -- excuse me, in the first quarter of 1998?
A. As I just said, I don't recall that.
Q. My first questions were did you suggest it to anyone, and now I am asking you do you recall if anyone made that suggestion?
A. I don't recall if anyone did.
Q. Did anyone suggest to you that the press release should include earnings, an earnings warning?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Did anyone suggest that the press release should disclose in a straightforward way the reasons that Arthur Andersen had identified as the primary cause for the sales shortfall that the company was experiencing in the first quarter of 1998?

MR. CLARE: Objection to form.
A. Can you repeat the question?
Q. Sure. Did anyone, whether it's you or anyone else, during the course of the conversations on March 18th relating to the draft press release suggest that the press release should disclose in a straightforward way the reason that Arthur Andersen had identified as the primary cause for the sales shortfall that Sunbeam was experiencing in the first two months of 1998?
MR. CLARE: Repeat my objection.
A. I don't recall any discussion.
Q. Do you agree with me, Ms. Porat, that a reader of the March 19th press release that Sunbeam issued could reasonably conclude that it was still possible that Sunbeam would achieve Wall Street expectations of 285 million to 295 million in sales for the first quarter of 1998?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.
A. Theoretically, I don't know.
Q. It doesn't -- the press release doesn't state that Sunbeam is going to miss its first quarter 1998 expected results for net sales, does it?

Page 209

A. The company believes that this was an overstatement, that there was no risk that they were going to miss the numbers.
Q. I am simply asking what the press release said. A reasonable reader of this press release could conclude that was still possible as of March 19, 1998, that Sunbeam could still achieve first quarter results of $285 million to $295 million, correct?
MR. CLARE: Objection to form and move to strike the preamble to the question.
A. A press release like this right before pricing a transaction looks like, if there was a possibility, it was a low possibility in particular with guidance that says sales -- the only guidance on the floor is that sales are expected to exceed 253.4, so somewhere between 253.4 and 295.
Q. Do you agree in this press release that Sunbeam was not being upfront with the public regarding the state of its first quarter 1998 performance?
MR. CLARE: Objection to form.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 210

A. At the time that they drafted the press release, based on the guidance of the various calls that we had with a number of people at Sunbeam, our view at the time was that -- or my view at the time was that they were being upfront.
Q. Is your view different now?
A. Well, having missed their numbers, I think there was -- it was a problem with the company somewhere.
Q. The text of the first paragraph in the March 19th press release, Ms. Porat, is included in the offering memorandum for the debentures; are you aware of that?
A. I'm sorry, what? First paragraph?
Q. The first paragraph of CPH Exhibit 14, the March 19th press release, that text is included verbatim in the debenture offering memorandum; are you aware of that?
A. No.
Q. Let me show you what we have previously marked as CPH Exhibit 10. It's a document dated March 19, 1998 and it's encaptioned "Offering Memorandum, $2,014,000,000 Sunbeam zero coupon, convertible senior subordinated debentures due 2018," and at the bottom it bears the legend

Page 211

"Morgan Stanley, Dean Witter."
Do you recognize this document, Ms. Porat?
A. Yes.
Q. What is it?
A. The operating memorandum for the convertible debenture we have been discussing.
Q. What's the purpose of this document? Do you know?
A. To summarize pertinent issues for investors about the security in the company.
Q. So people can make decisions about whether to purchase the debentures that Morgan Stanley is selling?
A. Yes.
Q. Let me direct your attention to page 8. There is a section at the bottom entitled "Recent Announcement"; do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. Take a moment to read that to yourself? Have you read it?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know how it came to be that the text of the press release, CPH Exhibit 14, that Sunbeam issued on March 19th was repeated in the debenture offering memorandum?

Page 212

A. No.
Q. Did you recommend to anyone that the press release text be repeated in the debenture offering memorandum?
A. I don't recall if I did.
Q. Did you have a role with respect to reviewing the debenture offering memorandum before it was finalized?
A. I don't believe I did.
Q. Mr. Tyree was involved in that process, was he not?
A. I don't believe he was.
Q. Are you aware that the debenture offering memorandum was being finalized at the printer on the evening of March 19th?
A. I don't recall.
Q. Would that be typical after the pricing decision is made by the company, that the debenture offering memorandum would then be promptly finalized and issued?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
A. Just to make sure my date is straight, March 19th is the date of the pricing.

Page 213

Q. It's the last day of the road show, the day of the press release, and the Boston road show is that day.
A. So the press release went out in the morning and then the document is finalized.
Q. I am asking you if it's typical, putting aside the dates for a moment, is it typical that the debenture offering memorandum for a transaction, or the offering memorandum for a transaction is finalized promptly after the pricing decisions are made?
A. Yes.
Q. Did anyone, Ms. Porat, advise you that during the course of the events of the printer where this document was finalized, that Arthur Andersen objected strongly to including the text of the press release?
A. I don't recall anyone telling me that there was any objection from Arthur Andersen.
Q. Did anyone report to you at any time up until today that the printer, when the offering memorandum was being finalized for the Sunbeam debenture offering, Arthur Andersen representatives present that night said that that the press release statement should not be included in the offering memorandum?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 214

A. That it should not be included, no.
Q. Did anyone advise you that Arthur Andersen took the position that the March 19th press release was materially misleading?
A. No.
Q. Mr. Tyree didn't report that to you?
A. No.
Q. What can you recall, Ms. Porat, about the -- let me ask a foundational question. Did you participate in the conversations with management at the conclusion of the road show relating to pricing the debentures?
A. I believe I did, but I can't remember the specific conversations.
Q. Do you recall that Mr. Kersh and Mr. Dunlap and Mr. Strong spoke to you the evening of March 19th at the conclusion of the Boston road show meetings, from Morgan Stanley's Boston office, relating to pricing the transaction?
A. I remember having one conversation that Mr. Dunlap was on on that day, but I don't recall if it was the pricing. I thought it was actually earlier in the day. I don't recall which one it was.

Q. Do you have any recollection of the discussion with Mr. Strong and Mr. Dunlap relating to pricing after the conclusion of the Boston road show?
A. No, unless it was the same conversation. The only conversation I remember was one in which Mr. Dunlap was furious about the impact that the press release had on the stock price, but I don't know if that was the same call. That's the only call I remember.
Q. The press release caused the stock price to drop?
A. Correct.
Q. At least that was Mr. Dunlap's perception?
A. Correct.
Q. Why was that bad?
MR. CLARE: Objection to the form of the question.
Q. From Mr. Dunlap's perspective, why was he raising that issue?
MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.
Q. Did he articulate a reason?
A. His view was that any -- all I remember is him yelling about the stock price going down and he wasn't happy about it.

Page 216

Q. The stock price going down had an effect on the stock price of the debenture offering, right?
A. Correct.
Q. It made the deal less attractive, from Sunbeam's perspective?
MR. CLARE: I object to the form of the question and calls for speculation with respect to Sunbeam.
A. I believe so.
Q. Essentially became more expensive for Sunbeam, correct?
A. Correct.
Q. If the stock price had dropped even further that day, would the debenture offering have become even more expensive to Sunbeam?
A. Taking the logical extent.
Q. I am trying to understand. I am not the expert in this area, but the farther the stock price drops, the more expensive the debenture price becomes to Sunbeam? Is that the way this works?
A. Effectively.
MR. MARKOWSKI: This is a -- if we are going to be breaking around now, this is the end of a line of questions for me.

MR. CLARE: Just say for the record that we are going to be breaking for the day and while I appreciate your accommodation of Ms. Porat, you know we are disappointed that we wasted so much time this morning on matters unrelated to Sunbeam. I sent you a letter about dates for resumption of the deposition and we will communicate offline about that.
MR. MARKOWSKI: If we are going to start plastering on the record with respect to the circumstances here, I suppose I should go into what happened with respect to scheduling.
MR. CLARE: There is no reason to do that, Bob.
MR. MARKOWSKI: The implicit is I should have gotten this done and it's my problem that this has to be continued. I don't feel that way. I think I have done my best to conduct the examination appropriately, much more appropriately than Mr. Beamus did with Mr. Pearlman, for example, and if we want to spend time now trying to find out why Ms. Porat isn't available on the dates that she promised she would be available, and we spoke last weak about that, we can do that. Otherwise, we can about talk about rescheduling off the record.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

MR. CLARE: I already stated what I want to state on the record. I think to the extent that anyone was posturing, what that last speech was, but it's unnecessary because we are bringing Ms. Porat back. I already sent you a letter on it. It went out last night. And we are done for the day.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 1:24 p.m. and we are now off the record.

MATERIAL REDACTED WITHOUT PRIOR DETERMINATION OF PROTECTABILITY BY COURT

COLEMAN (PARENT) HOLDINGS INC.'S MOTION TO COMPEL ADEQUATE ANSWERS TO MORGAN STANLEY'S SUPPLEMENTAL RESPONSES TO CPH'S FIRST SET OF INTERROGATORIES

Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. ("CPH"), by its attorneys, respectfully requests that this Court enter an order directing Morgan Stanley to provide sufficient supplemental responses to Interrogatory Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 10 in CPH's First Set of Interrogatories. See Ex. A (Morgan Stanley's responses); Ex. B (CPH's interrogatories).[1]

Introduction

This motion arises because of significant inadequacies in the supplemental interrogatory responses that Morgan Stanley served on December 23, 2004. The interrogatories at issue seek information about important matters such as Morgan Stanley's due diligence of Sunbeam and Coleman, Morgan Stanley's communications about Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales prior to the March 30, 1998 closing on Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman, the identity of the Morgan Stanley employees who received and commented on the March 19, 1998 press release prior to its issuance, and Morgan Stanley's contacts with representatives of Sunbeam in the State of Florida. Despite the fact that CPH's interrogatories seek relevant information within the knowledge of 019070

[1] CPH has been required to file this motion under seal because Morgan Stanley designated its responses as Confidential.

493

Morgan Stanley's own employees, over and over again in its supplemental response, Morgan Stanley has failed to identify by name the persons who participated in the "communications" that Morgan Stanley includes in its answers — referring instead to [redacted] Morgan Stanley's answers also hedge and fudge on a '[redacted]

The inadequate interrogatory responses — which are attached as Exhibit A with the deficient passages underlined — are addressed below:

Interrogatory No. 1: Identify each individual who conducted due diligence of Sunbeam or is knowledgeable about the due diligence conducted of Sunbeam by or on behalf of Morgan Stanley or MSSF. For each individual, identify his or her role and/or the basis and substance of his or her knowledge.

Morgan Stanley's supplemental response to this interrogatory is deficient in multiple respects:

First, the response repeatedly refers to [redacted] See Ex. A at 3-9. To take just one of many examples, the response states that [redacted] That is insufficient. [redacted]

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019071

[redacted] If a communication or contact is cited, the individuals involved in the contact must be identified with specificity, along with the other details of the contact or communication.

Second, the response repeatedly refers to '[redacted]. See id. at 4-9. For example, the response states that [redacted] CPH is entitled to know the participants in and the details of these and the other communications that Morgan Stanley has identified in only the vaguest way.

Third, the response also refers to [redacted] See id. at 7-9 (emphasis added). For example, [redacted] Id. at 9. That is insufficient. CPH is entitled to know which contacts in fact formed the basis for identified employees' knowledge regarding the due diligence of Sunbeam along with the details of those contacts.

Fourth, the response refers to [redacted] See id. at 7-9 (emphasis added). [redacted]

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019072

[redacted] Id. at 9. Again, that is insufficient. CPH is entitled to the identity of all individuals involved in the pertinent conferences and meetings.

Interrogatory No. 2: Identify each individual who conducted due diligence of Coleman or is knowledgeable about the due diligence conducted of Coleman by or on behalf of Morgan Stanley or MSSF. For each individual, identify his or her role and/or the basis and substance of his or her knowledge.

Morgan Stanley's interrogatory response suffers from several similar defects:

First, the response fails to identify the individuals with whom the named Morgan Stanley employees had contacts. Instead, the response repeatedly states that [redacted] See id. at 10-15. For example, Morgan Stanley's response identifies [redacted] Id. at 10. But Morgan Stanley [redacted]

Second, as in the response to Interrogatory No. 1, the response to Interrogatory No. 2 refers to [redacted] Id. at 10-11. Thus, for example, the response states that [redacted] Id. at 10. Vague responses such as that are insufficient.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019073

Third, the response once again [redacted]

[redacted] See id. at 12-13. [redacted]

[redacted] (id. at 12):

[redacted]

Such [redacted] responses are insufficient.

Fourth, the response refers to [redacted]

[redacted] See id. at 12. The multiple vagaries in this response render it inadequate.

Fifth, the response also contains [redacted]

[redacted] See id. at 12-13. For example, [redacted]

[redacted] Id. at 12. Such responses are inadequate. CPH is entitled to the identification of all individuals involved in the communications identified in the response.

Interrogatory No. 3: Identify each discussion, telephone conference, meeting, document, or other communication any Morgan Stanley employee or other representative (including attorneys) had or received prior to March 30, 1998 concerning Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales/or profits and, for each such communication, identify the individuals participating in the communication, the date of the communication, and state the substance of the communication.

Morgan Stanley's response to this interrogatory also is too vague to pass muster:

First, Morgan Stanley once again [redacted]

[redacted] For example, Morgan Stanley [redacted]

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019074

[redacted] See id. at 13-17. That is insufficient.

Second, the response also [redacted] Id. In a similar vein, in referring to [redacted]. Failing to identify the participants in the communications, and lumping multiple communications together, are insufficient responses to CPH's interrogatory.

Third, the response to Interrogatory No. 3 fails to provide [redacted] For example, the response [redacted] Finally, the response fails to [redacted] See id. at 13-17. This information clearly is within Morgan Stanley's knowledge, and given the importance of the communications to the issues in this case, there is no basis for Morgan Stanley's failure to provide a forthright response.

Fourth, Morgan Stanley's response also refers to [redacted] Id. at 14-16. CPH is entitled to the specific identity of the documents and the details concerning any additional communications responsive to Interrogatory No. 3.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019075

Interrogatory No. 4: Identify each Morgan Stanley employee or representative (including attorneys) who received, reviewed, discussed, and/or commented upon Sunbeam's March 19, 1998 Press Release (or any drafts thereof) prior to its issuance by Sunbeam on March 19, 1998.

Morgan Stanley's response to this interrogatory is deficient in several respects:

First, Morgan Stanley [redacted] See id. at 17. This limitation is as improper as it is arbitrary. Morgan Stanley should be required to identify all Morgan Stanley employees or representatives who received a draft of the press release before it was issued.

Second, [redacted] Id. at 17. That answer is insufficient. CPH is entitled to know who in fact received, reviewed, discussed, and/or commented on the press release prior to its issuance.

Third, the response is inadequate for the additional reason that it [redacted] See id. at 18. There is no basis for Morgan Stanley's refusal to [redacted]

Interrogatory No. 5: Identify each Morgan Stanley employee or representative (including attorneys) who communicated with John Tyree on or after March 19, 1998 concerning, in any way, Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales and/or Sunbeam's March 19, 1998 Press Release.

Morgan Stanley's response merely [redacted] See id. at 18. That is insufficient for the reasons discussed above in connection with Interrogatory Nos. 3 and 4. To take one example, in Morgan Stanley's answer to Interrogatory No. 3, [redacted]

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019076

[redacted] Id. at 17. But that answer [redacted]

[redacted] Interrogatory No. 5, like Interrogatory Nos. 3 and 4, should be answered meaningfully.

Interrogatory No. 10: Identify each instance in which Morgan Stanley employees or representatives (including attorneys) communicated by telephone, in writing, by email, telecopy, or overnight courier with individuals in Florida in connection with Morgan Stanley's work for Sunbeam and, for each instance, identify the Morgan Stanley employees or representatives who participated in the communication and the substance and date of the communication.

[redacted] See id. at 23-24. [redacted]s improper — especially given Morgan Stanley's continuing and baseless pursuit of its forum non conveniens appeal in the Appellate Court and the important choice of law issues remaining in this Court. If Morgan Stanley is going to continue to insist that New York law applies to all of CPH's claims, purportedly because Florida has no connection to this case, then Morgan Stanley should be required to disclose the facts necessary to rebut those assertions.

For the foregoing reasons, CPH respectfully requests that Morgan Stanley be required to provide more specific supplemental answers to Interrogatory Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 10 in CPH's First Set of Interrogatories, within seven days.

3. "Coleman Transaction" means the transaction by which Sunbeam acquired CPH's interest in The Coleman Company, Inc.

4. "Morgan Stanley" means Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc. and any of its present and former employees, representatives, agents, attorneys, accountants, and advisors.

5. "MSSF" means Morgan Stanley Senior Funding, Inc. and any of its present and former employees, representatives, agents, attorneys, accountants, and advisors.

6. "Subordinated Debenture Offering" means the offering of Sunbeam's Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures Due 2018.

7. "Sunbeam" means Sunbeam Corporation.

INSTRUCTIONS

8. The connectives "and" and "or" shall be construed either disjunctively or conjunctively as necessary to bring within the scope of each Interrogatory all responses that might otherwise be construed to be outside the scope.

9. The use of the singular form of any word includes the plural and vice versa.

INTERROGATORIES

INTERROGATORY NO. 1: Identify each individual who conducted due diligence of Sunbeam or is knowledgeable about the due diligence conducted of Sunbeam by or on behalf of Morgan Stanley or MSSF. For each individual, identify his or her role and/or the basis and substance of his or her knowledge.

INTERROGATORY NO. 6: State with particularity all actions Morgan Stanley took to "perform[] all of [Morgan Stanley's] obligations as an underwriter of Sunbeam securities" as alleged in Morgan Stanley's answer to paragraphs 58, 59, and 87 of the complaint in this action.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019085

INTERROGATORY NO. 7: Itemize the fees, expenses, payments, and any other cash or non-cash compensation Morgan Stanley received from Sunbeam for any project, including but not limited to Sunbeam's acquisition of The Coleman Company, Inc.; Sunbeam's acquisition of Signature Brands USA; Sunbeam's acquisition of First Alert, Inc.; the Subordinated Debenture Offering; the tender offer for Signature Brands USA; the tender offer for First Alert, Inc.; and any other project for Sunbeam for which Morgan Stanley received compensation of any kind from Sunbeam.

INTERROGATORY NO. 8: Identify all claims that have been threatened, communicated, or otherwise asserted against Morgan Stanley involving allegations that Morgan Stanley failed to conduct due diligence properly in a public or private offering or in any transaction where a portion of the consideration for the transaction consisted of stock.

INTERROGATORY NO. 9: Identify each instance on which Morgan Stanley employees or representatives (including attorneys) traveled to Florida in connection with Morgan Stanley's work for Sunbeam and, for each such instance, identify the Morgan Stanley employees or representatives who traveled to Florida and the purpose, date, and duration of the trip.

COLEMAN (PARENT) HOLDINGS INC.'S MOTION TO EXTEND THE TIME FOR SUBMISSION OF THE REBUTTAL EXPERT REPORT OF SAMUEL KURSH

Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. ("CPH"), by its attorneys, respectfully requests that this Court extend the time for the submission of the rebuttal expert report of Samuel Kursh. In support of this motion, CPH states as follows:

1. This motion arises because of Morgan Stanley's refusal to extend the time in which Samuel Kursh, one of CPH's damages experts, has to prepare and submit his rebuttal expert report. Following his timely submission of his initial expert report on December 7, Mr. Kursh was advised by his doctor that he had to have open heart surgery as soon as possible. Mr. Kursh had that surgery two weeks ago today, on December 21.

2. Once CPH learned of Mr. Kursh's condition and the need for surgery, CPH promptly notified counsel for Morgan Stanley, and indicated that an extension of the rebuttal expert deadline may be necessary with respect to Mr. Kursh's report. Morgan Stanley thereafter contacted CPH and requested an extra week, to January 4, 2005, for one of its own rebuttal expert reports. The stated reason for the requested extension of time was an undisclosed medical problem involving one of the family members of Morgan Stanley's expert. CPH consented to that extension, and subsequently, Morgan Stanley stated that it would not object to an extension to January 4, 2005 for the submission of the rebuttal expert report of Mr. Kursh.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019096

986

3. Since Mr. Kursh underwent open heart surgery on December 21, he has not been cleared by his doctor to do any work. As a result, on January 3, CPH wrote to Morgan Stanley requesting a further extension of time for Mr. Kursh's rebuttal expert report. Today, January 4, 2005, Morgan Stanley wrote refusing to provide any further extensions.

4. Because of Morgan Stanley's unreasonable refusal to accommodate Mr. Kursh's serious and unavoidable medical condition, CPH respectfully requests that this Court extend the time for Mr. Kursh to submit his rebuttal expert report.

INTRODUCTION 1

ARGUMENT 3

I. MORGAN STANLEY IS ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT ON COUNT IV OF THE COMPLAINT (NEGLIGENT MISREPRESENTATION) 3

A. The Absence Of A Special Relationship Between CPH And Morgan Stanley Is A Legal Matter Subject To Summary Adjudication. 3

B. Based On The Undisputed Facts, Morgan Stanley Is Entitled To Summary Judgment On The Negligent Misrepresentation Claim. 6

C. CPH's Contrary Arguments Are Unavailing. 8

1. CPH's "Prior Relationship" With Morgan Stanley Does Not Create A "Special Relationship" With Respect To This Transaction. 8

2. CPH's "Extensive Contacts" With Morgan Stanley During The Course Of This Transaction Do Not Create A "Special Relationship." 11

II. MORGAN STANLEY IS ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT ON COUNT I OF THE COMPLAINT (FRAUDULENT MISREPRESENTATION) 14

A. The Undisputed Facts Demonstrate That CPH Was Not Justified In Relying On Morgan Stanley's Supposed Misrepresentations As A Matter Of Law. 14

1. CPH's Admitted Failure To Inspect Sunbeam's Books And Records Negates Justifiable Reliance On Misrepresentations Or Omissions By Morgan Stanley As A Matter Of Law. 15

2. CPH's Express Disclaimer Of Reliance On Any "Evaluation Material" Furnished By Morgan Stanley Estops It, As A Matter Of Law, From Asserting Justifiable Reliance On Any Statements Made By Morgan Stanley During The Course Of The Parties' Engagement 19

B. CPH Cannot Establish Morgan Stanley's Scienter As A Matter Of Law 24

III. MORGAN STANLEY IS ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT ON COUNT II OF THE COMPLAINT (AIDING AND ABETTING FRAUD) 27

INTRODUCTION

Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. ("CPH") predictably opposes summary judgment by trying to bury the simple and clear legal issues presented under an avalanche of irrelevant facts. But Florida law is well settled that a party cannot avoid summary judgment by simply throwing out facts; rather, summary judgment is appropriate if "'there is no genuine issue as to any material fact.'" Dec. 10, 2004 Mem. In Supp. of MS Mot. for Summ. J. 12 ("MS Br.") (emphasis added) (quoting Fla. R. Civ. P. 1.510(c); citing Poe & Assoc., Inc. v. Estate of Vogler, 559 So. 2d 1235, 1236 (Fla. 3d DCA 1990)); see also, e.g., St. Lucie Harvesting & Caretaking Corp. v. Cervantes, 639 So. 2d 37, 40 (Fla. 4th DCA 1994) (citing Skow v. Department of Transp., 468 So. 2d 422, 424 (Fla. 1st DCA 1985)). The problem for CPH is that the material facts here are not in dispute, and CPH's unprecedented attempt to impose liability on the financial advisor to its counterparty in a corporate transaction fails as a matter of law. Thus, as explained below, summary judgment is appropriate, and indeed has routinely been granted even in cases where the record was far less compelling than here.

Nor can CPH avoid summary judgment by simply insisting throughout its brief that Morgan Stanley, as the movant, bears the burden of proof at this stage. That argument is a straw man. Morgan Stanley has never argued to the contrary; rather, in setting forth the legal standard, Morgan Stanley explained that summary judgment is appropriate here because "the material facts in this case are undisputed." MS Br. 12. Where, as here, the material facts are undisputed, saying that the movant has conclusively established those facts or that the non-movant has failed to dispute those facts is saying the same thing. Either way, the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law, and there is no basis for allowing the non-movant to proceed to trial. See MS Br. at 12-13 (citing Palm Beach County v. Trinity Indus., 661 So. 2d 942, 944 (Fla. 4th DCA 1995)).

Notwithstanding CPH's lengthy brief, the only facts necessary to decide this motion (i.e., the only legally "material" facts) stand uncontradicted in the record:

- CPH is a sophisticated investor, represented by its own team of expert legal and financial advisors, that sat across the negotiating table from Morgan Stanley in this transaction, Findings ¶¶ 1, 6, 20-43;

- CPH had a contractual right of access to all of the same Sunbeam information to which Morgan Stanley had access, but failed to exercise that access, even though CPH's own expert Levin raised red flags about Sunbeam's operating results in 1998 and its business plan for the next three years, Findings ¶¶ 214-15, 219-36, 180-81, 184;

- If CPH had exercised its contractual right of access to Sunbeam information, it would have discovered everything that it now accuses Morgan Stanley of fraudulently misrepresenting or omitting, Findings ¶¶ 219-35, 240-44, 247, 262-63, 273-75, 280, 295-96, 319-21;

- CPH expressly disclaimed reliance on any statements by Morgan Stanley, Findings ¶¶ 201-03, 213;

- Morgan Stanley's participation in the alleged fraud would have been economically irrational, Findings ¶¶ 18-19, 299-302, 331-32;

- Morgan Stanley did not know that Sunbeam had engaged in accounting fraud, and hence could not have agreed to participate in such fraud, See infra Section III.A;

- Sunbeam, not Morgan Stanley, proximately caused the injury of which CPH complains, Findings ¶¶ 116-21, 163-67, 195-206, 240-41, 249-50, 310-11, 323-24, 326-30.

At bottom, this case is nothing more than a legally untenable attempt to hold a financial advisor liable for its client's accounting irregularities (which occurred long before Morgan Stanley arrived on the scene), now that (and only after) both the client (Sunbeam) and the client's accounting firm (Arthur Andersen) have collapsed. What CPH is trying to do, in other words, is to conflate the underlying accounting fraud by Sunbeam with alleged fraud in the Coleman transaction by Morgan Stanley. Needless to say, this attempt to establish guilt by association is foreign to our legal system. Accordingly, as explained below, Morgan Stanley is entitled to summary judgment.

ARGUMENT

I. MORGAN STANLEY IS ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT ON COUNT IV OF THE COMPLAINT (NEGLIGENT MISREPRESENTATION)

A. The Absence Of A Special Relationship Between CPH And Morgan Stanley Is A Legal Matter Subject To Summary Adjudication.

CPH acknowledges, as it must, that a negligent misrepresentation claim under New York law requires a "special relationship" between the plaintiff and the defendant, but asserts that "courts applying New York law almost uniformly consider the existence of a special relationship ... to be one of fact that must be left for trial." Dec. 23, 2004 CPH's Resp. in Opp. to MS's Mot. for Summ. J. 37, 38 ("CPH Br."). That assertion is simply incorrect.

As this Court noted in its choice-of-law ruling, New York's law of negligent misrepresentation "circumscribes a tight[] circle of potential claimants, engrafting a requirement that the information's recipient be in a position of trust or confidence to its publisher." Aug. 11, 2004 Order at 4 (citing cases). This Court anticipated that the application of this strict legal standard to CPH's negligent misrepresentation claim might be "outcome determinative," id., and it is. Courts applying New York law routinely resolve misrepresentation claims on dispositive motions—often finding as a matter of law that the undisputed facts demonstrate the absence of any special relationship between the parties, the plaintiff's lack of legally justifiable reliance on any purported misrepresentations, or both.[1] Indeed, during the past two years alone, such courts have dismissed no fewer than 17 negligent misrepresentation actions at the summary judgment stage, as a matter of law, on those grounds. See Dallas Aerospace, Inc. v. CIS Air Corp., 352 F.3d 775, 778-79 (2d Cir. 2003) (no special relationship or justifiable reliance); Sofia v. Massachusetts Mut. Life Ins. Co., No. 02-CV-6088T, 2004 WL 1792441, at *3 (W.D.N.Y. Aug.

Thus, contrary to CPH's assertion, it is simply not true that "New York courts almost uniformly consider the special relationship question to be one of fact that must be left for trial." CPH Br. 38. As highlighted by the foregoing cases, negligent misrepresentation claims under New York law are especially amenable to summary adjudication.

B. Based On The Undisputed Facts, Morgan Stanley Is Entitled To Summary Judgment On The Negligent Misrepresentation Claim.

Summary judgment is appropriate here, as Morgan Stanley explained in its opening brief, because the material facts are undisputed. In short, the record conclusively demonstrates, and CPH does not contest, that:

- CPH is a sophisticated business entity, controlled by a savvy and sophisticated businessman (Ronald O. Perelman), who retained world-class financial and legal advisors to provide advice in connection with his acquisition of hundreds of millions of dollars in stock as part of a complex commercial transaction conducted at arm's-length between unrelated parties—precisely the kind of transaction that has made Mr. Perelman a veritable superstar of the global financial community, Findings ¶¶ 1-14, 20-43;
- CPH had a contractual right to "full access … to all of [Sunbeam's] books, records, properties, plants, and personnel," and, had it chosen to take advantage of such access, it would have discovered everything that it now accuses Morgan Stanley of fraudulently misrepresenting or omitting, Findings ¶¶ 214-15; see also Findings ¶¶ 201-05, 219-36; and
- CPH's merger agreement with Sunbeam contained an integration clause that expressly incorporated a specific disclaimer of reliance, which remained "in full force and effect" well beyond the date of the parties' merger, Findings ¶ 213.

Given that CPH is a sophisticated party that sat across the negotiating table from Morgan Stanley, CPH cannot claim that it enjoyed a "special relationship" with Morgan Stanley in this transaction as a matter of law, and hence CPH cannot establish that Morgan Stanley had a duty to exercise "reasonable care" in its statements to CPH. See, e.g., American Protein Corp. v. AB Volvo, 844 F.2d 56, 64 (2d Cir. 1988) ("Since [the plaintiff] alleges nothing more than ordinary arm's length negotiations, its negligent misrepresentation claim fails as a matter of law."); In re AHT Corp., 292 B.R. at 747 (relationship of negotiating adversaries in a business transaction is the very "antithesis of a relationship of special trust and confidence") (emphasis added; internal quotations omitted); Struna v. Wolf, 484 N.Y.S.2d 392, 397 (Sup. Ct. 1985) ("[P]laintiff was acting at arm's length in attempting to achieve a sale .... This relationship between the parties thus appears to be the very antithesis of the 'special relationship' ordinarily required which would support holding the defendant to a higher duty of care than is otherwise required.") (emphasis added). Indeed, the whole point of the "special relationship" doctrine is to prevent sophisticated parties from claiming that they entered into business deals based on allegedly careless remarks by their negotiating counterparties. See, e.g., St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Health Fielding Ins. Broking Ltd., 976 F. Supp. 198, 203 (S.D.N.Y. 1996) ("Something more than the trust and reliance between an ordinary buyer and seller must be established."). If Ron Perelman, armed with an army of investment bankers and lawyers, can claim a "special relationship" with the financial advisor to his counterparty in this transaction, the "special relationship" test has no bounds and no meaning.

Accordingly, CPH's startling assertion that "[t]he fact that CPH is a so-called sophisticated investor that sat across the negotiating table from Morgan Stanley makes no difference," CPH Br. 39 (emphasis added), is demonstrably false. To the contrary, under settled New York law, these facts conclusively negate the existence of a "special relationship" between Morgan Stanley and CPH in connection with this transaction and are legally dispositive of CPH's negligent misrepresentation claim. See, e.g., WIT Holding Corp. v. Klein, 724 N.Y.S.2d 66, 67-68 (App. Div. 2001).

C. CPH's Contrary Arguments Are Unavailing.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, CPH insists that "there exists a jury question as to whether a special relationship existed between CPH and Morgan Stanley" on two grounds: "[1] Morgan Stanley's prior relationship with CPH and [2] its continuing contacts with CPH throughout the transaction at issue." CPH Br. 40. Both grounds are meritless.

1. CPH's "Prior Relationship" With Morgan Stanley Does Not Create A "Special Relationship" With Respect To This Transaction.

CPH first contends that it had a "special relationship" with Morgan Stanley with respect to the Sunbeam transaction because "Morgan Stanley and CPH had a longstanding prior relationship." CPH Br. 40 (capitalization modified). That contention is both factually and legally baseless.

As a factual matter, the record is undisputed that Morgan Stanley never worked with CPH before the transaction at issue in this litigation. Indeed, in CPH's Responses and Objections to Morgan Stanley's Fifth Set of Interrogatories—which CPH actually cites to support its allegation of a longstanding prior relationship, see CPH Br. 41 ("listing 23 transactions")—CPH fails to identify even one transaction in which it was involved with Morgan Stanley. Instead, CPH identifies transactions in which Morgan Stanley worked with other companies in the Perelman empire that are not parties to this lawsuit, including Pantry Pride, Inc., National Health Laboratories, National Health Care Group, Revlon, Marvel III Holdings, National Health Laboratories Intermediate Holdings Corp. II, New World Communications Group, Toy Biz, Consolidated Cigar Holdings, Mafco Consolidated Group, MAFCO, and The Coleman Company. Thus, CPH's repeated references to "Morgan Stanley's prior relationship with CPH" are misleading at best. CPH Br. 40 (emphasis added); see also CPH Br. 40 ("Morgan Stanley's prior dealings with CPH") (emphasis added); CPH Br. 41 ("the parties had developed a 'very close' working relationship"); CPH Br. 42 ("Morgan Stanley's extensive prior dealings with CPH"). Particularly given that CPH insists on corporate formalities to argue (erroneously) that it is not bound by the Confidentiality Agreements, CPH cannot simply ignore its own corporate identity to allege a "special relationship" with Morgan Stanley based on a "prior relationship" that never existed. See, e.g., Atkins Nutritionals, Inc. v. Ernst & Young, LLP, 754 N.Y.S.2d 320, 322 (App. Div. 2003) ("The fact that E&Y performed personal accounting services for Dr. Atkins did not give rise to a fiduciary relationship with Atkins, the corporate entity.").

In any event, above and beyond this indisputable factual point, any "prior relationship" between Morgan Stanley and other companies in Perelman's empire is irrelevant as a legal matter because any such "prior relationship" had nothing to do with the transaction at issue here. CPH's suggestion that a relationship of trust and confidence with respect to any transaction translates into a relationship of trust and confidence with respect to every transaction has no basis in law or common sense. See, e.g., Murphy v. Kuhn, 90 N.Y.2d 266, 271 (1997) (holding that without regard to the parties' longstanding professional relationship "over an extended period of time," no "special relationship" arose in the context of an ordinary arm's-length insurance transaction). With respect to the transaction at issue here, Morgan Stanley sat across the negotiating table from CPH as Sunbeam's financial advisor, and CPH had its own financial advisor, Credit Suisse First Boston ("CSFB"). The notion that, under these circumstances, a sophisticated party like CPH was in a "special relationship" with Morgan Stanley (akin to a fiduciary) makes no sense. CPH certainly never suggested that Morgan Stanley's presence on the other side of the negotiating table presented a conflict of interest, and CPH was under no illusion that Morgan Stanley was looking after CPH's interests with respect to this transaction.

019136

CPH insists, however, that it had a "very close" working relationship with William Reid, a Morgan Stanley employee whom Perelman considered to be "very smart" and "very nice." CPH Br. 41. But the alleged misrepresentations at issue in this case were not made by Reid. Rather, by CPH's own account, Reid's only involvement in this transaction was "to revive the negotiations" at a point in time when they had broken down. CPH Br. 42; see also Nov. 22, 2003 Dec. of William Reid.[3] The act of reviving negotiations, without more, does not give rise to a "special relationship" in those negotiations; even the bitterest enemy can seek to revive negotiations. The allegation that Reid helped to revive the negotiations, thus, in no way establishes that Morgan Stanley had a "special relationship" with CPH in connection with this transaction. Indeed, CPH has never even sought to take Reid's deposition in this case and it cannot compel his attendance at trial—thus underscoring the make-weight nature of CPH's current suggestion that Reid stands at the core of their negligent misrepresentation claim.

The cases on which CPH relies are not to the contrary. In Gordon P. Getty Family Trust v. Peltz, No. 93 Civ. 3162(DAB), 1998 WL 148425 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 27, 1998), the alleged negligent misrepresentations were made in the entirely different context of a run-of-the-mill investment decision, not a intensely negotiated corporate transaction between sophisticated parties. Indeed, Getty emphasized that its approach would not apply in "a strictly arms-length commercial transaction." 1998 WL 148425, at *8 (citing Banque Arabe et Internationale d'Investissement v. Maryland Nat'l Bank, 57 F.3d 146, 158 (2d Cir. 1995) (finding no special relationship as a matter of law where negotiations were at arms-length, agreement disclaimed reliance, and buyer's due diligence would have provided access to allegedly concealed information)). Moreover, the individual who made the alleged misrepresentations in Getty was

[3] Documents and testimony not submitted with Morgan Stanley's December 10, 2004 Summary

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019137 uniquely aware that the plaintiff's investment strategy would lead it to rely on his representations. He knew that:

> the [plaintiff] preferred transactions where its investment would be "co-extensive with that of another investor having comparable financial resources but also having the investment banking and other financial resources to evaluate the investment in detail," as the [plaintiff] would "rely heavily on that other investor and its advisors" since their interests were aligned.

Id. at *2 (quoting the plaintiff's filings) (emphasis added). Here, there is no evidence of any such unique knowledge; to the contrary, given Perelman's financial sophistication and that of his in-house brain trust—not to mention the millions he spent securing Credit Suisse's "advice and/or assistance to CPH in connection with the [Sunbeam] transaction," Findings ¶ 35—no reasonable jury could conclude that CPH needed to rely (or, indeed, that it would rely) on Morgan Stanley's evaluation of Sunbeam—much less that the Morgan Stanley advisors working on the deal were personally aware of any such reliance.

CPH's reliance on Morse v. Swank, 459 F. Supp. 660 (S.D.N.Y. 1978), is similarly misplaced. The plaintiff there (an unsophisticated businessman unrepresented by counsel) had a longstanding relationship with the defendant involving the sale of Pierre Cardin lighters, and the alleged negligent misrepresentations related to that very relationship. Id. at 662-63. Here, in contrast, CPH (the ultimate sophisticated party represented by counsel) had no prior dealings with Morgan Stanley, and even the other entities in Perelman's empire had no prior dealings with Morgan Stanley relating to this transaction.

2. CPH's "Extensive Contacts" With Morgan Stanley During The Course Of This Transaction Do Not Create A "Special Relationship."

CPH next argues that Morgan Stanley's "extensive contacts with CPH throughout the course of the Sunbeam transaction" give rise to a special relationship. CPH Br. 43. That argument again defies both law and logic. The bitterest enemies may have "extensive contacts" sitting across the negotiating table from each other, but that fact alone in no way supports an inference that they have developed a "special relationship of trust and confidence" in connection with that transaction. Were that the law, New York's "special relationship" requirement would have utterly no meaning, because a special relationship could always be derived from the very negotiating adversity that refutes a special relationship in the first place. Not surprisingly, thus, cases too numerous to cite have dismissed negligent misrepresentation claims notwithstanding the (all too common) existence of lengthy transactional engagements between sophisticated parties to complex deals. See, e.g., Hydro Investors Inc. v. Trafalgar Power Inc., 227 F.3d 8, 12 (2d Cir. 2000) (transactional engagement at least two years); Grumman Allied Indus., Inc. v. Rohr Indus., Inc., 748 F.2d 729, 730-31 (2d Cir. 1984) (transactional engagement at least eighteenth months); PPI Enters. (U.S.), Inc. v. Del Monte Foods Co., No. 99 Civ. 3794(BSJ), 2003 WL 22118977 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 11, 2003) (transactional engagement at least sixteen months); In re AHT Corp., 292 B.R. at 737-40 (transactional engagement about one year). Indeed, CPH's argument in this regard is totally circular: it argues that it was entitled to rely on Morgan Stanley's statements because it did rely on Morgan Stanley's statements. CPH Br. 45. The whole point of the "special relationship" requirement, however, is that a party cannot rely on the statements of its negotiating counterpart.

Once again, the cases on which CPH relies are inapposite. In DIMON Inc. v. Folium, Inc., 48 F. Supp. 2d 359 (S.D.N.Y. 1999), the individuals who made the alleged misrepresentations had access to superior information, as the transaction details undergirding the fraud they helped to orchestrate were concealed, off-the-books, in secret computer data files "inaccessible without special access codes," and discoverable only after DIMON hired the software consultant responsible for servicing the defendant's computer system to engineer a complicated backdoor software restoration of these "audited-off" accounting entries. Id. at 370. And, under the terms of the negotiated deal, the individuals responsible for making the negligent misrepresentations were to "receive[] positions of trust within DIMON, thus establishing a continued relationship ...." Id. at 374. Here, as explained in detail below, CPH had unfettered (albeit unexercised) access to the very information that it now accuses Morgan Stanley of misrepresenting or omitting. DIMON in no way stands for the proposition that "extensive contacts" between negotiating adversaries can, in themselves, create a special relationship as a matter of law.

CPH's appeal to Polycast Technology Corporation v. Uniroyal, Inc., 792 F. Supp. 244 (S.D.N.Y. 1992), is equally unavailing. CPH bases its argument solely on the following passage, which does not even rise to the level of dicta:

> [D]uring an extended negotiation period, defendants repeatedly vouched for their projections of Plastics' earnings, knowing that such earnings were critical to Polycast's willingness to consummate the transaction.... Further, Polycast has alleged that defendants had superior information about Plastics throughout the negotiation period, and that it only gained complete access to the books after the deal was consummated.

Id. at 270. This passing reference to the length of the parties' negotiations hardly amounts to a holding that extended negotiations alone can support the existence of a special relationship between the parties. Instead, the court's legal analysis focused purely on the defendants' exploitation of its superior information to induce reliance. Again, as explained in detail below, it is undisputed here that CPH had unfettered (albeit unexercised) access to the very information that it now accuses Morgan Stanley of misrepresenting or omitting.

Because the undisputed facts conclusively establish that Morgan Stanley and CPH were not in a special relationship with respect to the Coleman transaction, Morgan Stanley is entitled to summary judgment on CPH's negligent misrepresentation claim. Indeed, allowing this claim to proceed to trial would render New York's special relationship requirement meaningless.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019140

II. MORGAN STANLEY IS ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT ON COUNT I OF THE COMPLAINT (FRAUDULENT MISREPRESENTATION)

CPH next acknowledges, as it must, that a fraudulent misrepresentation claim under New York law requires, among other things, (1) justifiable reliance by the plaintiff on the defendant's alleged misrepresentation, and (2) scienter, or intent to defraud, by the defendant, but asserts that both these issues are "fact-intensive," and hence not amenable to resolution on summary judgment. See CPH Br. 47, 63-64. CPH is wrong on both scores.

A. The Undisputed Facts Demonstrate That CPH Was Not Justified In Relying On Morgan Stanley's Supposed Misrepresentations As A Matter Of Law.

As this Court noted in its choice-of-law ruling, under New York law, "a sophisticated investor may not claim it was fraudulently induced to enter into a transaction if it failed to use the means available to test the representations." Aug. 11, 2004 Order at 5 (citing UST Private Equity Investors Fund, Inc. v. Salomon Smith Barney, 733 N.Y.S.2d 385, 386 (App. Div. 2001)). Again, this Court anticipated that the application of this strict legal standard to CPH's fraudulent misrepresentation claim might be "outcome determinative," id. at 4, and it is. Courts applying New York law routinely resolve such claims on dispositive motions—often finding as a matter of law that the undisputed facts entitle the defendant to judgment as a matter of law. See supra Section I.A.

In this regard, it is critical to keep in mind that the defendant here is Morgan Stanley, not Sunbeam, and hence the issue here is whether Morgan Stanley committed fraud by allegedly failing to alert CPH to information that cast Sunbeam's financial health in a less positive light, not whether Sunbeam committed underlying accounting fraud. Accordingly, the first five pages of CPH's discussion of fraudulent misrepresentation—in which CPH insists that it "conducted a reasonable investigation into Sunbeam's finances," CPH Br. 48 (capitalization modified), but failed to uncover the accounting fraud—are beside the point. Morgan Stanley did not uncover that fraud either, and was in fact victimized by that fraud, which is why Morgan Stanley is suing Arthur Andersen. The key point here is that CPH cannot maintain a fraud claim against Morgan Stanley because it cannot establish justifiable reliance on any statements or omissions by Morgan Stanley for two separate and independent reasons: (1) CPH had unfettered access to all of the same information, including interim financial information, that it now accuses Morgan Stanley of fraudulently misrepresenting or omitting, and (2) in any event, CPH expressly disclaimed reliance on any statements by Morgan Stanley. These reasons are discussed in turn below.

019141

1. CPH's Admitted Failure To Inspect Sunbeam's Books And Records Negates Justifiable Reliance On Misrepresentations Or Omissions By Morgan Stanley As A Matter Of Law.

As noted above, this Court already has acknowledged the key legal point that disposes of CPH's fraudulent misrepresentation claim as a matter of law: "a sophisticated investor may not claim it was fraudulently induced to enter into a transaction if it failed to use the means available to test the representations." Aug. 11, 2004 Order at 5 (citing UST, 733 N.Y.S.2d at 386). This Court's reliance on UST was prescient, because the court there granted summary judgment in the defendant's favor on the ground that, "[a]s a matter of law, a sophisticated plaintiff cannot establish that it entered into an arm's length transaction in justifiable reliance on an alleged misrepresentation if that plaintiff failed to make use of the means of verification that were available to it, such as reviewing the files of other parties." UST, 733 N.Y.S.2d at 386.

As Morgan Stanley explained in its initial brief, New York courts routinely grant summary judgment on fraudulent misrepresentation claims under these circumstances. See MS Br. 18-21; see also Waksman v. Cohen, No. 00 Civ. 9005(WK), 2002 WL 31466417, at *6

019142

(S.D.N.Y. Nov. 4, 2002) (granting summary judgment on ground that "New York courts have repeatedly found that reasonable reliance was absent where a party failed to review available records or secure available documentation which would have otherwise armed it with the truth."); Compania Sud-Americana de Vapores v. IBJ Schroder Bank & Trust Co., 785 F. Supp. 411, 419 (S.D.N.Y. 1992) (granting summary judgment on ground that "there is no basis to dispute that [plaintiff] had access to the critical information underlying its fraud claim and, had it exercised ordinary intelligence or made simple inquiries, [plaintiff] would have been able to discover the alleged misrepresentations."); Congress Fin. Corp. v. John Morrell & Co., 790 F. Supp. 459, 471-72 (S.D.N.Y. 1992) (granting summary judgment in part on ground that "[t]he undisputed evidence … shows that [cross-plaintiff] is a sophisticated entity which possessed the ability and expertise to make effective use of [its] access" to cross-defendant's financial records); Marine Midland Bank v. Palm Beach Moorings, Inc., 403 N.Y.S.2d 15, 17 (App. Div. 1978) (holding that a claim of justifiable reliance could not be sustained because the plaintiff indisputably "had the opportunity to examine the corporate records before assuming the obligations"), appeal denied, 44 N.Y.S.2d 644 (1978).

Here, CPH freely admits that it bargained for unfettered access to Sunbeam's books, records, properties, plants, and personnel—at least the same access available to Morgan Stanley—and that CPH not only failed to exercise that right, but "never contemplated" doing so, and "would never have asked for that kind of access." CPH Br. 58 (quoting June 8, 2004 Shapiro Dep. at 132). That undisputed point alone, under settled New York law, is the beginning and the end of CPH's fraudulent misrepresentation claim against Morgan Stanley. Regardless of whether CPH "conducted a reasonable investigation into Sunbeam's finances," CPH Br. 48-52 (capitalization modified); regardless of whether Morgan Stanley's impeccable record of integrity might have led CPH to "assume" the companies Morgan Stanley represents are better than "Schlock, Inc.," CPH Br. 53-54; regardless of whether it is "customary" for companies to forego an inspection of a target company's books and records prior to the close of a merger and to blindly rely on assertions made by financial advisors to their transaction counterparts, CPH Br. 54-55; the inescapable fact—and the only fact that matters—is that New York law does not allow a sophisticated plaintiff to pursue a fraudulent misrepresentation claim if it failed to avail itself of access to the very information that it accuses the defendant of misrepresenting or omitting. CPH's assertion that it did not have a contractual "duty to inquire into or discover material adverse changes," CPH Br. 52 (capitalization modified), because Sunbeam was supposed to notify CPH of such changes thus misses the point: whether Sunbeam breached its duty under the contract in no way relieves CPH of its common-law duty under New York law to exercise its contractual right of access to information to preserve a fraudulent misrepresentation claim against Morgan Stanley.

There is no question here that if CPH had availed itself of its unfettered contractual "access to truth-revealing information," Winnick, 2004 WL 1418197, at *14—and it had every incentive to do so[4]—it would have discovered everything that it now accuses Morgan Stanley of fraudulently misrepresenting or omitting. After all, CPH's claim that Morgan Stanley had knowledge of the true state of Sunbeam's financial health is based on the fact that:

019144

[4] Indeed, CPH was equally (if not more) incentivized than Morgan Stanley to examine Sunbeam's books and records, especially after (1) Sunbeam's publicly reported miss of 4Q1997 estimates, Findings ¶¶ 116-21; (2) the warnings about "sales slow" during the February 23 meeting, Findings ¶¶ 161-69; (3) the disclosures in the publicly filed 10-K on March 6, 1998, Findings ¶¶ 240-44; and (4) the March 19 press release, Findings ¶¶ 249-75. After all, once the acquisition closed, CPH would own 14.1 million shares of Sunbeam. Findings ¶ 307. And, as CPH knew, Morgan Stanley would only be a creditor of Sunbeam going forward, and would not have an equity stake in the future performance of the company.

- Morgan Stanley sent its "representatives to Sunbeam's headquarters" to perform due diligence, CPH Br. 55; cf. MS 93 § 6.7 (Feb. 27, 1998 CLN Merger Agreement) (providing CPH and its world-class team of legal, investment, and accounting experts "full access …to all of [Sunbeam's] … properties, plants");

- William Strong repeatedly "spoke with [Albert] Dunlap and/or [Russell] Kersh," CPH Br. 55; cf. MS 93 § 6.7 (CLN Merger Agreement) (providing CPH and its world-class team of legal, investment, and accounting experts "full access … to all of [Sunbeam's] … personnel"); and

- Morgan Stanley was informed by Sunbeam's accountants that their review of Sunbeam's financial dealings revealed that the company "engaged in aggressive revenue recognition practices" and that those practices were responsible for a projected first quarter sales shortfall, as reflected by, inter alia, "Mr. Uzzi's sales chart." CPH Br. 55-56; cf. MS 93 § 6.7 (CLN Merger Agreement) (providing CPH and its world-class team of legal, investment, and accounting experts "full access … to all of [Sunbeam's] books, records").

Accordingly, it is simply not true that "[t]he fraud was peculiarly within the knowledge of Morgan Stanley." CPH Br. 55 (capitalization modified). CPH's conceded failure to exercise its contractually-guaranteed right of "full access … to all of [Sunbeam's] books, records, properties, plants and personnel," MS 93 § 6.7 (CLN Merger Agreement), does not mean that the information was somehow beyond CPH's reach. Indeed, CPH never even alleges that it would not have discovered the truth had it actually exercised its contractual right of access. See, e.g., McManus v. Moise, 691 N.Y.S.2d 166, 167-68 (App. Div. 1999) (granting summary judgment on fraud claim against plaintiffs who failed to inspect for termites behind drywall when purchasing a house because "[i]t was their own lack of diligence that is responsible for their current predicament").

None of the cases CPH cites is to the contrary. CPH begins by once again relying on Winnick. But, contrary to CPH's assertion, Winnick does not contradict the general rule that sophisticated entities must avail themselves of their bargained-for access to books and records; it merely recognizes that a failure to exercise that right can be excused in the limited circumstances where taking advantage of such access would not have revealed the alleged fraud. Winnick, 2004 WL 1418197, at *14 (holding, in light of an allegation that the defendant's fraud was so well concealed that access would not have led to its discovery, that "the obligation to exercise the right of inspection must be understood as contingent on either 'indisputable access to truth-revealing information,' or some suspicious event or information triggering the duty to inquire. The mere existence of the right to inquire, without more, is not dispositive.") (citation and alteration omitted). DIMON, described in detail above at pages 12-13, is little more than another example of that unremarkable principle at work. And Alexander v. Evans, No. 88 Civ. 5309(MJL), 1993 WL 427409 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 15, 1993), simply has nothing to do with a sophisticated party's contractually-secured-but-unexercised access to otherwise confidential, non-public information, including a company's records and books, its facilities, and its personnel; it merely addresses a run-of-the-mill shareholder suit based on misrepresentations contained in prospectuses and SEC filings, where such rights were neither bargained nor otherwise provided for.

Here, where CPH secured a contractual right of full access to information that would have led it to discover everything it now accuses Morgan Stanley of fraudulently misrepresenting or omitting, CPH cannot, as a matter of well-settled law, demonstrate that it justifiably relied on any misrepresentations or omissions by Morgan Stanley.

2. CPH's Express Disclaimer Of Reliance On Any "Evaluation Material" Furnished By Morgan Stanley Estops It, As A Matter Of Law, From Asserting Justifiable Reliance On Any Statements Made By Morgan Stanley During The Course Of The Parties' Engagement.

As an independent and alternative reason why CPH cannot establish justifiable reliance as a matter of law, CPH expressly disclaimed reliance on all information provided to it by Morgan Stanley in connection with the transaction at issue in this litigation. See MS 93 §§ 6.7, 12.5 (CLN Merger Agreement). CPH concedes, as it must, that the February 23 Confidentiality

0191h6

Agreement contained "provisions stating that no reliance is being placed on evaluation materials that are being supplied ...." CPH Br. 61; see also MS 134 (Feb. 23, 1998 Confidentiality Agreement) (defining "Evaluation Material" to include "all information ... which [Sunbeam] or any ... representatives (including ... bankers and financial advisors) ... of [Sunbeam] furnishes to you ....") (emphasis added). CPH argues, however, that this disclaimer is irrelevant here, on the ground that CPH "is not identified as a party in" that agreement. CPH Br. 61. That argument is misleading at best. Though delivered to Coleman, the opening paragraph of the February 23 Agreement states that "[t]he term 'you' is, for all purposes of this Agreement, deemed to include all of your affiliates that are involved in the possible Transaction." MS 134 (emphasis added). Nor can CPH avoid the February 23 Agreement by asserting that "Coleman never signed the document and thus never became bound by it." CPH Br. 61. Again, that argument is misleading at best in light of the indisputable (and undisputed) fact that the CLN Merger Agreement between CPH and Sunbeam expressly referenced the February 23 Agreement, and provided that it shall "remain in full force and effect" for its term. MS 93 § 12.5 (CLN Merger Agreement) (emphasis added). Needless to say, this express ratification of the Agreement by CPH would make no sense if, as CPH now suggests, the February 23 Agreement is invalid on the ground that it was never signed by Coleman in the first place.

Nor can CPH avoid the February 23 Agreement by arguing that Morgan Stanley was not a party to that Agreement. That argument is a red herring. Morgan Stanley is neither suing CPH here nor trying to assert any rights under the Agreement. Rather, Morgan Stanley is simply trying to defend itself against CPH's lawsuit by pointing out that CPH cannot have justifiably relied on any statements by Morgan Stanley when CPH expressly disclaimed such reliance in a contract. Under these circumstances, it makes no difference that Morgan Stanley is not a party to the contract; CPH could have expressly disclaimed such reliance in a message trailing from an airplane in the sky, and, under New York law, the point would be the same. Regardless of the forum in which CPH expressly disclaimed reliance on Morgan Stanley's statements, the fact that CPH unequivocally did so now estops CPH from claiming justifiable reliance on such statements as a matter of law. See, e.g., Wells Fargo Bank Northwest, N.A. v. TACA Int'l Airlines, S.A., 247 F. Supp. 2d 352, 370 (S.D.N.Y. 2002) ("Defendants cannot plead that they reasonably relied on representations from C-S Aviation, Wells Fargo's agent and trust beneficiary, in entering the Leases with Wells Fargo that specifically disclaim having received or relied on precisely such representations. It is irrelevant that C-S Aviation was not a signatory to the contract in which Defendants disclaimed the reliance it now says it placed.") (internal citation omitted; emphasis added); General Motors Corp. v. Villa Martin Chevrolet, Inc., Nos. 98-CV-5206, 5208, 6167 & 99-CV-3750, 2000 WL 271965, at *31 n.34 (E.D.N.Y. March 7, 2000) ("As it is unreasonable, as a matter of law, for a party to claim that it was fraudulently induced to enter into a contract by a prior representation of another party where reliance was specifically disclaimed in the agreement, it is unreasonable, a fortiori, to claim reliance on a non-party to that agreement.") (internal citation omitted); see also Danann Realty Corp. v. Harris, 5 N.Y.2d 317, 323 (1959) ("If the language here used is not sufficient to estop a party from claiming that he entered the contract because of fraudulent representations, then no language can accomplish that purpose. To hold otherwise would be to say that it is impossible for two businessmen dealing at arm's length to agree that the buyer is not buying in reliance on any representations of the seller as to a particular fact.") (emphasis added).[5]

0191147

[5] Not surprisingly, the cases relied upon by CPH are materially distinguishable. Cohan v. Sicular, 625 N.Y.S.2d 278, 280 (App. Div. 1995), rested its conclusion on grounds that the non-party seeking to invoke the disclaimer had separately "established a contractual relationship"

Because CPH expressly disclaimed reliance on any statements by Morgan Stanley, CPH now sets up a straw man by arguing that the CLN Merger Agreement's integration clause, by itself, would not defeat CPH's claims. See CPH Br. 62. Here, the integration clause is not by itself; it specifically references and ratifies the February 23 Confidentiality Agreement that expressly disclaims reliance. CPH's reliance on Manufacturers' Hanover Trust Co. v. Yanakas, 7 F.3d 310 (2d Cir. 1993) ("MHT") is thus misplaced. The integration clause at issue in MHT "contain[ed] no disclaimer of the existence of or reliance upon representations by MHT," the party seeking to invoke the clause. Id. at 317. Here, in contrast, the integration clause in the CLN Merger Agreement signed by CPH expressly incorporates an explicit disclaimer immunizing representations by "financial advisors."

Second, MHT addressed a boilerplate personal guarantee. Id. ("[T]here is no indication that the [clause], which is in a preprinted form, is anything but a generalized boilerplate exclusion. The form was one that MHT apparently used routinely.... There was no evidence that the scope or character of the [clause] was the product of any negotiations between the parties."). Here, the terms of the integration clause were hardly boilerplate—indeed, the fact that the integration clause in the CLN Merger Agreement, which was signed by CPH, expressly ratifies the Confidentiality Agreement, while the Coleman Merger Agreement, which was not signed by CPH, only implicitly ratifies the terms of the Confidentiality Agreement, indicates that the CLN Merger Agreement's integration clause was carefully and conscientiously drafted and with the plaintiff, thus giving rise to a duty of care not present here. Equally far afield, Diodato v. Eastchester Dev. Corp., 489 N.Y.S.2d 293, 294 (App. Div. 1985), involved a putative disclaimer so ambiguous the court held it could "be reasonably interpreted to allow such reliance instead of prohibiting it." (Emphasis added). The court's unreasoned afterthought that "the purported disclaimer would not inure to the benefit of defendant L'Hommedieu as he was not a party to the contract," id., thus constitutes pure dicta; and it, in any event, may simply have that CPH quite deliberately disclaimed reliance on any representations made by Morgan Stanley. Compare MS 93 § 12.5 (CLN Merger Agreement) ("This Agreement (including all Schedules and Exhibits hereto) contains the entire agreement among the parties hereto with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior agreements and understanding, oral or written, with respect to such matters, except for the Confidentiality Agreements which will remain in full force and effect for the term provided therein.") (emphasis added); with MS 117 § 10.4 (Feb. 27, 1998 Coleman Merger Agreement) ("This Agreement (including the Exhibits, Disclosure Schedules and other documents and instruments referred to herein) (a) constitutes the entire agreement and supersedes all prior understandings, both written and oral, among the parties or any of them, with respect to the subject matter hereof ...").

In a last-ditch effort to escape the consequences of the Merger Agreement's integration clause, CPH argues that "a party cannot enter into a contract that would relieve it of the consequences of its fraud." CPH Br. 63. That argument is simply inconsistent with the reams of New York case law, cited in Morgan Stanley's opening brief and above, squarely holding that a party (particularly a sophisticated party) is free to disclaim reliance on the statements of another, and, if it does so, cannot turn around and claim reliance on such statements. It is not suprising, thus, that CPH's only authority for this anomalous argument is a sixty-year old trial-court case. See Pearce v. Knepper, 53 N.Y.S.2d 845, 846 (Sup. Ct. 1945). Regardless of whether that was ever the law in New York, it is certainly not the law now. See, e.g., Danann Realty, 5 N.Y.2d at 319, 323 ("accept[ing] as true plaintiff's statements that during the course of negotiations defendants misrepresented the operating expenses and profits," but holding "plaintiff made a representation in the contract that it was not relying on specific representations not embodied [therein], while, it now asserts, it was in fact relying on such oral representations. Plaintiff admits then that it is guilty of deliberately misrepresenting to the seller its true intention. To condone this fraud would place the purchaser in a favored position.... If the plaintiff has made a bad bargain he cannot avoid it in this manner.") (citation omitted; emphasis added).[6]

At bottom, this Court should reject CPH's attempt to escape the consequences of the contractual clauses to which it agreed. To do otherwise "would in effect condone [CPH's] own fraud in deliberately misrepresenting [its] true intention when putting [its] signature[] to [the Merger Agreement]." Citibank, N.A. v. Plapinger, 66 N.Y.2d 90, 95 (Ct. App. 1985) (internal citation and quotations omitted).

B. CPH Cannot Establish Morgan Stanley's Scienter As A Matter Of Law.

Above and beyond CPH's legal inability to demonstrate justifiable reliance on Morgan Stanley's representations, summary judgment is also warranted on the fraudulent misrepresentation claim in light of CPH's legal inability to demonstrate Morgan Stanley's scienter, or intent to defraud. Yet again, however, CPH insists that "a triable issue of fact exists" on this issue. CPH Br. 63 (capitalization modified). But the only such issue CPH identifies is whether Morgan Stanley's compensation for its services rendered to Sunbeam was "ordinary." CPH Br. 65. That is nothing more than a word game.

not identify whose statements could not (or, as the court held, perhaps could) be relied upon.

[6] CPH's tack-on citation to AES Corp. v. Dow Chemical Co., 325 F.3d 174 (3d Cir. 2003), is even more revealing. Not only is AES a Third Circuit case that does not address or apply New York law, id. at 179-80; and not only does it hold that "cases involving a non-reliance clause in a negotiated contract between sophisticated parties will often be appropriate candidates for resolution at the summary judgment stage," id. at 181 (emphasis added); it rejects the Second Circuit's decision in Harsco Corp. v. Segui, 91 F.3d 337 (2d Cir. 1996), see AES, 325 F.3d at 182-83, which, relying heavily on the sophisticated nature of the parties' contacts, 91 F.3d at 344, 345, 346, holds that non-reliance clauses can work to preclude both federal securities claims and also state law misrepresentation claims—the particular state law being New York's.

Settled New York law presumes that companies are in business to make money, and instructs that a desire to make money is not evidence of intent to defraud. See, e.g., Shields v. Citytrust Bancorp, Inc., 25 F.3d 1124, 1130 (2d Cir. 1994) ("In looking for a sufficient allegation of motive, [courts] assume that the defendant is acting in his or her informed economic self-interest."); In re Philip Servs. Corp. Sec. Litig., No. 98 Civ. 0835(MBM), 2004 WL 1152501, at *5 (S.D.N.Y. May 24, 2004) ("[A] generalized economic interest in professional fees is insufficient to establish ... motive to commit fraud."); Nairobi Holdings Ltd. v. Brown Bros. Harriman & Co., No. 02 Civ. 1230(LMM), 2003 WL 21088506, at *6 (S.D.N.Y. May 14, 2003) ("[C]ourts in this district have consistently held that a defendant's desire to artificially inflate stock in order to realize greater transaction fees alone cannot show an improper motive.") (citing, inter alia, In re Indep. Energy Holdings PLC Sec. Litig., 154 F. Supp. 2d 741, 765-66 (S.D.N.Y. 2001); Vogel v. Sands Bros. & Co., 126 F. Supp. 2d 730, 739 (S.D.N.Y. 2001); Schnell v. Conseco, Inc., 43 F. Supp. 2d 438, 449 (S.D.N.Y. 1999)); Cromer Fin. Ltd. v. Berger, 137 F. Supp. 2d 452, 495 (S.D.N.Y. 2001) ("Ordinary economic motive ... is insufficient...."); THC Holdings Corp. v. Chinn, No. 95 Civ. 4422(KMW), 1998 WL 50202, at *9 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 6, 1998) ("[T]hat defendant was in a position to receive normal compensation for professional services rendered is not sufficient to support a showing of motive in the fraud scienter analysis.") (citing inter alia, Friedman v. Arizona World Nurseries Ltd. P'ship, 730 F. Supp. 521, 532 (S.D.N.Y. 1990) (dismissing fraud-based claim on ground that incentive of receiving fee for professional services is insufficient to allege scienter), aff'd, 927 F.2d 594 (2d Cir. 1991)).

CPH tries to get around these cases by conflating "ordinary economic motive" with "economic motive to earn ordinary fees." The issue here is not whether the particular fees are "ordinary" or not; the issue is that a firm's ordinary (i.e., presumptive) desire to earn fees cannot substitute for intent to defraud. CPH cannot manufacture a triable issue by simply challenging the amount of Morgan Stanley's fees; that approach would allow the exception to swallow the rule. It is telling, in this regard, that CPH fails to cite even a single case in support of its approach. See CPH Br. 65.[7]

01915152

Finally, CPH does not dispute that summary judgment is appropriate on a fraud claim "[w]here plaintiff's view of the facts defies economic reason," Kalnit v. Eichler, 99 F. Supp. 2d 327, 343 (S.D.N.Y. 2000), aff'd, 264 F.3d 131 (2d Cir. 2001), or that the alleged fraud here defies economic reason. Instead, CPH argues that "it is an unfortunate matter of public record that banks do indeed lend money to companies that the banks know are misrepresenting their true financial conditions," even if the banks themselves thereby lose money, and cites a number of news articles regarding settlements paid by banks in connection with the collapse of Enron and WorldCom. CPH Br. 66. That argument (based on material outside the record) is a complete non sequitur. Whatever may have led the defendant banks to settle whatever charges were leveled against them with respect to Enron and WorldCom does not change the fact that New York law does not allow a common-law fraud claim to proceed when the alleged fraud would have been economically irrational for the defendant. Indeed, it is telling that CPH fails to cite a single case (as opposed to news accounts of settlements) suggesting that a civil plaintiff can establish a common-law fraud claim against a defendant for allegedly perpetrating a fraud of which it was one of the primary victims.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019153

[7] CPH's aiding and abetting fraud claim, discussed infra at § III, necessarily fails for the same reason. See In re AHT Corp., 292 B.R. 734, 746 (S.D.N.Y. 2003) ("[T]he fact that [defendant] had his own economic interests in mind is not sufficient to satisfy the scienter requirement. Ordinary economic motives are insufficient to support the scienter element of an aiding and abetting claim.") (citation and quotations omitted).

III. MORGAN STANLEY IS ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT ON COUNT II OF THE COMPLAINT (AIDING AND ABETTING FRAUD)

A. There Is No Record Evidence Showing Morgan Stanley Had Actual Knowledge Of Fraud At Sunbeam And All Testimony Is To The Contrary.

CPH acknowledges, as it must, that an aiding and abetting fraud claim under either New York or Florida law requires the plaintiff to prove that the defendant actually knew of the fraud, but asserts that it is "inconceivable" that Morgan Stanley did not know of the fraud at Sunbeam. CPH Br. 77-78.[8] However, CPH's factual citations establish only that Morgan Stanley carried out the normal business of a financial advisor and underwriter. Indeed, CPH not only ignores abundant and uncontradicted testimony that Morgan Stanley personnel had no knowledge of fraud at Sunbeam; its inferential bases for ascribing knowledge to Morgan Stanley are flatly contradicted by the record. Because the evidence conclusively demonstrates that Morgan Stanley was unaware of fraud at Sunbeam prior to when the transaction closed, summary judgment on Count II is appropriate. See, e.g., Peoples Gas Sys., Inc. v. Acme Gas Corp., 689 So. 2d 292, 299 (Fla. 3d DCA 1997) ("[B]are self-serving assertions ... are insufficient to defeat a summary judgment."); Bryant v. Shands Teaching Hosp. & Clinics, Inc., 479 So. 2d 165, 168 (Fla. 1st DCA 1985) ("[A] summary judgment motion supported by appropriate proof may not rely on bare, conclusory assertions found in the pleadings to create an issue and thus avoid summary judgment.").

[8] For some unknown reason, CPH spends no fewer than eight pages arguing that Florida, not New York, law should govern the aiding and abetting claim, see CPH Br. 67-75, even though CPH ultimately concludes that the choice of law issue makes no difference for purposes of this motion, see CPH Br. 75. Why CPH believes that the same acts that require application of New York law with respect to the negligent and fraudulent misrepresentation claims suddenly require application of Florida law when an "aiding and abetting" (or, for that matter, conspiracy) label is slapped on them is a mystery, but it is a mystery that both sides now agree need not be solved to resolve this motion.

While CPH cites the testimony of Morgan Stanley personnel for the unremarkable proposition that Morgan Stanley conducted due diligence of Sunbeam, see CPH Br. 78, CPH ignores the testimony by those same individuals (and others) that they were unaware of the underlying accounting fraud. For example, Gene Yoo, an associate who participated in onsite due diligence for Morgan Stanley, testified that "[t]here was nothing in anything that we had seen [during due diligence] that indicated that there was any kind of fraud or anything else going on that was out of the ordinary," June 16, 2004 Yoo Dep. at 174:19-175:1 (emphasis added)—which is hardly surprising, given Arthur Andersen's clear opinion on Sunbeam's financial statements. All the other testimony is to the same effect:

- Shani Boone, a then-Morgan Stanley analyst who went to Florida for due diligence, testified that she did not learn of any problems at Sunbeam until "after the deal had closed and … when it was publicized in the Journal." Apr. 22, 2004 Boone Dep. at 17:2-8;

- Tyrone Chang, a then-Morgan Stanley analyst working on the transaction models, testified that he did not recall learning of accelerated sales at Sunbeam, and first heard of Sunbeam's bill and hold practice after the deal closed and he had left Morgan Stanley. Jan. 8, 2004 Chang Dep. at 139:11-140:10;

- Andrew Conway, a then-Morgan Stanley principal, felt that Sunbeam officials lied to him regarding Sunbeam's revenues and growth story, and also testified that he would have stopped the process if he felt that there was an "inkling" of impropriety at Sunbeam during the actual transaction. June 4, 2004 Conway Dep. at 42:9-43:12;

- Karen Eltrich, a then-Morgan Stanley analyst, testified that she was unaware that Sunbeam accelerated sales into 1997 during 1998 until sometime in June 1998 because it "took us a while to figure out exactly what they [Sunbeam's management] had done." Oct. 15, 2004 Eltrich Dep. at 198:4-22;

- Alexandre Fuchs, a then-Morgan Stanley vice president, testified that, during the course of his onsite due diligence in Florida, he never once had the impression "that the company was being managed to an inordinate degree to earnings per share calculations." Feb. 13, 2004 Fuchs Dep. at 201:21-25. Further, he only learned of a possible sales shortfall by reading Sunbeam's March 19, 1998 press release. Fuchs Dep. at 170:11-171:7. When word of Dunlap's termination came out, Fuchs recalled being disappointed to learn "that many of the things [he] had heard were not as they appear to be." Fuchs Dep. at 58:13-59:12;

- Johannes Groeller, a then-Morgan Stanley associate, testified that he did not hear about Sunbeam's poor financial performance in the first quarter 1998 until the results were publicly announced by Sunbeam. Nov. 17, 2004 Groeller Dep. at 50:13-23;

- Brooks Harris, a then-Morgan Stanley principal, did not know that Sunbeam had engaged in bill and hold sales while working on the transaction. Oct. 26, 2004 Harris Dep. at 91:6-9;

- Michael Hart, a then-Morgan Stanley vice president, believed that Sunbeam's management had misled Morgan Stanley regarding its financial performance in first quarter 1998, and testified that he did not become aware of the misstatements until after the first quarter ended. May 19, 2004 Hart Dep. at 258:16-259:11;

- Robert Kitts, a then-Morgan Stanley managing director who CPH cites as a participant in Morgan Stanley's visits to Sunbeam in Florida, testified that Sunbeam "misled" him regarding its sales and he "didn't fully understand or appreciate the magnitude of what was going on at the company" before the transaction closed. Feb. 12, 2004 Kitts Dep. at 150:12-22, 164:6-9. He was "surprised" by the financial information in the April 3, 1998 press release. Kitts Dep. at 149:18-25;

- William Kourakos, a Morgan Stanley managing director, did not learn that Sunbeam had accelerated sales into 1997 from 1998 until after the Coleman transaction closed and Sunbeam's problems became known to the public. Oct. 29, 2004 Kourakos Dep. at 38:10-23;

- Ruth Porat, a Morgan Stanley managing director, testified that she first learned that first quarter 1998 sales were slow for Sunbeam on March 18, 1998 during a debenture road show. Nov. 23, 2004 & Dec. 10, 2004 Porat Dep. at 147:12-20, 247:15-248:2. She was "very surprised" by the bad news in the April 3, 1998 press release based on her knowledge of Sunbeam. Porat Dep. at 284:24-285:11;

- Lilly Rafii, a then-Morgan Stanley analyst, was not aware of Sunbeam's financial performance at any point during first quarter 1998 and did not recall hearing sales were slow. Apr. 2, 2004 Rafii Dep. at 153:13-17, 160:22-25;

- Andrew Savarie, a then-Morgan Stanley vice president, testified that he was not aware of Sunbeam's interim first quarter results before the closing and did not recall conversations about Sunbeam's earnings. Jan. 22, 2004 Savarie Dep. at 207:18-208:5, 211:14-212:3;

- Ishaan Seth, a then-Morgan Stanley analyst, testified that the information about Sunbeam's finances and accounting practices in the June 1998 Barron's Article "represented a fairly significant change in information that had previously been provided to us by [Sunbeam] management" July 30, 2004 Seth Dep. at 109:2-8;

- Bram Smith, a then-Morgan Stanley managing director, testified that Morgan Stanley had been "misled" as to the financial condition of Sunbeam through representations by Sunbeam management. Feb. 24, 2004 Smith Dep. at 52:8-53:15. He also testified that he had not learned anything that would give him a reason to doubt Dunlap's claims of Sunbeam's turnaround during the first quarter of 1998. Smith Dep. at 119:15-20;

- Bill Strong, a Morgan Stanley managing director, testified that, during the 50 to 100 phone calls CPH cites in its brief, Dunlap did not inform him that Sunbeam was accelerating sales into fourth quarter 1997 at the expense of 1998, or that net sales for January and February 1998 were running behind January and February 1997. Dec. 4, 2003 Strong Dep. at 231:11-232:4. He also testified that the knowledge Morgan Stanley had during first quarter 1998 was based on Sunbeam's insistence that it would make the street estimate for sales, and he was "disappoint[ed], ang[ry], and shock[ed]," when he learned from Sunbeam's April 3, 1998 press release that Sunbeam's sales would be short for the entire first quarter because it was contrary to what he had been told. Strong Dep. at 249:10-23, 342:11-343:2;

- Jim Stynes, a then-Morgan Stanley managing director, testified that he did not come across or hear any information suggesting that Sunbeam had not undergone a profound transformation, that Sunbeam had inappropriately used bill and hold sales, or that Sunbeam had engaged in channel stuffing before the transaction closed. July 13, 2004 Stynes Dep. at 89:15-90:5, 96:14-20, 130:3-20. He also had not seen evidence of "inappropriate accounting behavior" while working of the Sunbeam transaction, and was surprised that Sunbeam missed its first quarter numbers. Stynes Dep. at 122:14-20, 127:10-22;

- John Tyree, a then-Morgan Stanley associate who CPH claims should have known of the fraud, testified that he was not aware of any fraud at Sunbeam until "well after the closing of the Sunbeam convertible notes offering." Sept. 15, 2003 Tyree Dep. at 141:20-142:18;

- Josh Webber, a then-Morgan Stanley associate, testified that he did not "uncover any bad news about Sunbeam" during his time on the Morgan Stanley team. May 18, 2004 Webber Dep. at 68:16-20.

Needless to say, this uncontradicted record evidence—particularly when measured against CPH's unadulterated speculation and innuendo—conclusively refutes CPH's allegation that Morgan Stanley personnel had actual knowledge of the fraud at Sunbeam. See, e.g., Peoples Gas, 689 So. 2d at 299; Bryant, 479 So. 2d at 168; see also Stepp v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co., 656 So. 2d 494, 496 (Fla. 1st DCA 1995) (holding that "inferences ... based impermissibly on speculation and conjecture" are insufficient to overcome contrary deposition testimony).

019157

Neither of CPH's inferential bases for alleging that Morgan Stanley had to have known about Sunbeam's fraud bears weight in light of the undisputed evidence. First, CPH's allegation that Morgan Stanley "knew about Sunbeam's fraud" because Arthur Andersen "warned" Morgan Stanley of Sunbeam's "aggressive revenue recognition practices" during the March 12, 1998 due-diligence conference call, CPH Br. 78, conveniently ignores the undisputed fact that the memo on which CPH relies (even assuming its questionable authenticity) states that Morgan Stanley asked "How aggressive is the Company in its accounting policies?" and that Andersen then rated the practices only 5 or 6 on a scale from 1 to 10. CPH 123 at 3 (July 2, 1998 Due Diligence call with Morgan Stanley, authenticated at Jan. 15, 2004 Bornstein Dep. at 100:3-16). Moreover, the memo (drafted months after the call) states that Andersen informed Morgan Stanley that, as reported publicly on March 6, 1998 in Sunbeam's 1997 10-K, Sunbeam's bill and hold transactions accounted for only 3 percent of gross sales. CPH 123 at 1. Significantly, CPH likewise fails to inform the Court that the memo also states that, during the same call, Morgan Stanley directly asked if there were "[a]ny claims, rumors of fraud, misconduct, [or] illegal acts" at Sunbeam, and that fresh off its audit of Sunbeam's 1997 results, Andersen replied in the negative. CPH 123 at 3. CPH's misleading description of the memo thus provides no basis for refusing to credit the unequivocal testimony cited above.

Second, the record similarly belies CPH's pure speculation that Morgan Stanley removed a question about Sunbeam's second quarter 1998 performance from its late-March "bring down" due diligence call agenda "because it knew Sunbeam would try to accelerate second quarter sales to obscure its first quarter collapse." CPH Br. 79. In fact, John Tyree, the Morgan Stanley associate who conducted the "bring down" call, testified that a different question on the agenda incorporated a discussion of Sunbeam's second quarter performance. Nov. 14, 2003 Tyree Dep.

at 543:10-19 ("Q. Do you see anything on CPH Exhibit Number 35, the March 23 version of the list of bring-down due diligence topics, relating to Sunbeam's views of its prospects for the second quarter of 1998? A. No. But I would make the point that on this document, you have the comment 'Are you still comfortable with your '98 earnings estimate of $1.80?' which, obviously, would have to incorporate into it a view on the second quarter."). Moreover, Morgan Stanley specifically asked, "Are you comfortable with the market update in the March 19 press release?" Further, Morgan Stanley's "bring down" due diligence agenda included a "catch-all" question asking Sunbeam if there were "[a]ny other material developments that [Morgan Stanley] should be aware of." MS 35 (March 23, 1998 Sunbeam Bring-down due diligence, authenticated at Nov. 22, 2004 MS's Resps. & Objs. to CPH's 6th Set of Reqs. for Admiss., Req. 1). CPH's unadulterated speculation and unfounded innuendo cannot be squared with this clear and conclusive record evidence.

In addition to the direct testimony by Morgan Stanley personnel, the testimony of Blaine Fogg, Sunbeam's outside counsel at Skadden Arps Meagher Flom LLP ("Skadden"), undercuts CPH's speculative assertion that Morgan Stanley must have been aware of the fraud by virtue of the information provided by Sunbeam and Arthur Andersen on March 18-19, 1998. It is undisputed that Fogg participated on the March 18, 1998 conference call where Sunbeam personnel explained that Sunbeam's sales for the first quarter 1998 were lower than the previous year's first quarter and presented a detailed explanation of Sunbeam's projected performance over the remaining days in the quarter. Dec. 16-17, 2004 Fogg Dep. at 111:23-118:22. It is undisputed that, immediately following Sunbeam's presentation, Fogg helped David Fannin, Sunbeam's General Counsel, draft the March 19, 1998 press release in Fogg's office. Fogg Dep. at 119:3-120:8. Based on the information provided during the March 18, 1998 conference call,

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0191159

Fogg testified that he believed, "as [Sunbeam's] legal counsel, that the press release was accurate." Fogg Dep. at 130:6-12.

Further, Skadden produced from its own records a binder of closing documents for the subordinated debentures that included both comfort letters prepared by Arthur Andersen. MS 530 at CPH0628848-58 (March 25, 1998 Closing Binder). CPH boldly proclaims that anyone reading these letters would recognize Sunbeam's fraudulent prognostication of first quarter 1998 sales—indeed, that the falsity of the projections was "indisputably clear." CPH Br. 78-79. Yet it is undisputed that Skadden's March 25, 1998 opinion letter to Morgan Stanley found there to be no basis for concern about the offering memorandum's veracity, notwithstanding Skadden's possession of those letters and awareness that the offering memorandum included the March 19, 1998 press release. See MS 530 at CPH0628958; see also Fogg Dep. at 151:21-154:8.

At bottom, the undisputed record conclusively demonstrates that the information provided by Sunbeam and Arthur Andersen did not "foreshadow[]" Sunbeam's poor first quarter performance, Fogg Dep. at 177:7-15, and that actual knowledge of fraud at Sunbeam could not have been gleaned through the events comprising CPH's allegations. Summary judgment on CPH's aiding and abetting claim is clearly appropriate in these circumstances. See, e.g., Peoples Gas, 689 So. 2d at 299; Bryant, 479 So. 2d at 168; Stepp, 656 So. 2d at 496.

B. CPH Cannot Demonstrate Substantial Assistance As A Matter Of Law.

Morgan Stanley is also entitled to summary judgment on the aiding and abetting claim for the separate and independent reason that the undisputed evidence establishes that Morgan Stanley did not provide "substantial assistance" to Sunbeam in carrying out the alleged fraud.[9]

[9] Again, both New York and Florida law require a plaintiff to prove "substantial assistance" to prove an aiding and abetting claim, so the choice of law issue is beside the point for present purposes.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0191160

As Morgan Stanley explained, and CPH's response ignores, "[s]ubstantial assistance requires the plaintiff to [demonstrate] that the actions of the aider/abettor proximately caused the harm on which the primary liability is predicated. ... 'But-for' causation is insufficient; aider and abettor liability requires the injury to be a direct or reasonably foreseeable result of the conduct." Cromer Fin. Ltd. v. Berger, 137 F. Supp. 2d 452, 470 (S.D.N.Y. 2001) (emphasis added).

The actions on which CPH bases its aiding and abetting claim against Morgan Stanley do not amount to "substantial assistance" under this stringent legal standard. As an initial matter, the "substantial assistance" alleged by CPH is nothing more than the ordinary business practices of a financial advisor and underwriter. See, e.g., CPH Br. 81 (claiming simply that Morgan Stanley assisted Sunbeam in closing the transaction by providing a loan to Sunbeam, but adding that the loan was necessary to "conceal Sunbeam's dire financial situation."). Needless to say, such unremarkable actions by Morgan Stanley cannot remotely be characterized as the proximate cause (as opposed to, at most, the "but for" cause) of CPH's alleged injuries. See, e.g., Cromer, 137 F. Supp. 2d at 470.

Further, CPH cannot legally establish the requisite causal connection between Morgan Stanley's supposed provision of false information to CPH during the course of negotiations and the injuries CPH asserts because it is undisputed that CPH had exactly the same access as Morgan Stanley to Sunbeam's "books, records, properties, plants, and personnel." Findings ¶¶ 214-15. Likewise, it is undisputed that CPH had at its disposal its own army of legal and financial experts to comb through those records to independently assess Sunbeam's financial status. See Findings ¶¶ 26-41. Morgan Stanley's disclaimed representations cannot serve as the proximate cause of CPH's harm when CPH, itself, chose to ignore its own internal experts, and forego review of Sunbeam's records before consummating the transaction. See Findings ¶¶ 135-60, 170, 175-79, 183, 219-35, 240-44, 256-75, 279-80, 286-96.

IV. MORGAN STANLEY IS ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT ON COUNT III OF THE COMPLAINT (CONSPIRACY)

Finally, CPH acknowledges that its conspiracy claim requires proof of an actual agreement between Morgan Stanley and Sunbeam to defraud CPH, see CPH Br. 83-85, but argues that summary judgment is unwarranted on that claim on the ground that "there is ample evidence from which the trier of fact" could find such an agreement, CPH Br. 83. Once again, CPH is wrong.

As a threshold matter, CPH's conspiracy claim against Morgan Stanley fails for the simple reason that (as described above) its underlying claims against Morgan Stanley fail. It is elementary, under both New York and Florida law, that conspiracy is not an independent tort, so that "[a]n act which does not constitute a basis for an action cannot serve [as] the basis for a conspiracy claim." Czarnecki v. Roller, 726 F. Supp. 832, 840 (S.D. Fla. 1989); see also Diamond State Ins. Co. v. Worldwide Weather Trading LLC., No. 02 Civ. 2900 LMM GNG, 2002 WL 31819217 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 16, 2002); American Baptist Churches of Metro N.Y. v. Galloway, 710 N.Y.S.2d 12 (App. Div. 2000). Because the acts challenged in CPH's conspiracy claim, see Compl. ¶ 91, "do[] not constitute the basis for an action," Czarnecki, 726 F. Supp. at 840, they cannot serve as the basis for a conspiracy claim, see id. ("Inasmuch as Count I fails to state a claim against [the defendant] for fraudulent misrepresentation, [the conspiracy claim] must be dismissed to that extent."); Linden v. Lloyd's Planning Serv. Inc., 750 N.Y.S.2d 20, 21 (App. Div. 2002) ("[S]ince plaintiff has no viable underlying claim for fraud or any other tort, her civil conspiracy claim was properly dismissed.").

019162

Even if there were a basis for stating a conspiracy claim here, moreover, CPH has failed to do so because there is absolutely no evidence of an agreement between Morgan Stanley and Sunbeam to defraud CPH. In this regard, it is worth noting that CPH misrepresents the summary judgment standard for civil conspiracy claims. According to CPH, "[i]t is not CPH's burden to come forward with evidence of an actual agreement"; rather, "Morgan Stanley ... must prove a negative, i.e., the non-existence of a genuine issue of material fact." CPH Br. 83 (internal quotation and brackets omitted). That is incorrect; rather, "[s]ome proof of knowledge of a conspiracy, and participation in it by the alleged tortfeasor, must be shown in order to survive a motion for summary judgment." Menendez v. Beech Acceptance Corp., 521 So. 2d 178, 180 (Fla. 3d DCA 1988) (citing Karnegis v. Oakes, 296 So. 2d 657, 659 (Fla. 3d DCA 1974) ("[P]laintiff has no evidence to overcome [defendant's] testimony that he knew nothing of the project. To speculate that he may have participated because he might ultimately have received some benefit from the [enterprise] is not sufficient."), cert. denied, 307 So. 2d 450 (Fla. 1975)).

In addition, although CPH tacitly concedes that there is no evidence of an actual agreement to defraud CPH between Sunbeam and Morgan Stanley, CPH nonetheless argues that it is entitled to pursue a conspiracy claim because "'[t]he existence of a conspiracy and an individual's participation may be inferred from circumstantial evidence.'" CPH Br. 83 (emphasis added) (quoting Donofrio v. Matassini, 503 So. 2d 1278, 1281 (Fla. 2d DCA 1987), and citing Borden, Inc. v. Spoor Behrins Campbell & Young, Inc., 828 F. Supp. 216, 225 (S.D.N.Y. 1993)). Fair enough—but, as the Fourth DCA has explained:

> [C]ircumstantial evidence is sufficient, if it meets the standards required in civil cases generally, to sustain a verdict for a plaintiff in an action for damages arising out of an alleged conspiracy. However, in a civil case, a fact may be established by circumstantial evidence alone only when the inference sought to be created by such circumstantial evidence outweighs all reasonable inferences to the contrary.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019163

Diamond v. Rosenfeld, 511 So. 2d 1031, 1034 (Fla. 4th DCA 1987) (emphasis added; internal quotations and citations omitted); see also Parts Depot Co., L.P. v. Florida Auto Supply, Inc., 669 So. 2d 321, 324-25 (Fla. 4th DCA 1996) (rejecting conspiracy claim based on legally untenable and speculative inferences).

Here, the circumstantial "evidence" offered by CPH to bolster its conspiracy claim does not remotely satisfy this standard. Contrary to CPH's assertion, "Morgan Stanley's initial agreement to work with Sunbeam toward a common goal that led to the Coleman transaction" hardly constitutes "strong evidence of an actual agreement between Morgan Stanley and Sunbeam to accomplish a common tortious objective." CPH Br. 85. Instead, it is merely a description of what financial advisors do. None of the other conduct cited by CPH provides competent evidence of an actual agreement to defraud CPH. Again, it consists only of perfectly lawful cooperation between a financial advisor and its client, and plainly fails to "outweigh[] all reasonable inferences to the contrary." Diamond, 511 So. 2d at 1034. Of course Morgan Stanley was Sunbeam's financial advisor with respect to the challenged transaction. Of course Morgan Stanley acted in concert with Sunbeam to that extent. But that fact alone is not enough to establish a conspiracy; or else every financial advisor (or attorney, or other service provider) would be potentially liable for "conspiracy" based on the wrongful acts of its client. Under settled law, merely asserting a relationship between two parties will not give rise to an inference that the parties conspired to engage in wrongdoing. See, e.g., Soule v. Norton, 750 N.Y.S.2d 692, 695 (App. Div. 2002); First Nationwide Bank v. 965 Amsterdam, Inc., 623 N.Y.S.2d 200, 202 (App. Div. 1995); Home Town Muffler Inc. v. Cole Muffler Inc., 608 N.Y.S.2d 735, 737 (App. Div. 1994); Abrahami v. UPC Constr. Co., 574 N.Y.S.2d 52, 53 (App. Div. 1991); Raimi v. Furlong, 702 So. 2d 1273,1285 (Fla. 3d DCA 1997) (citing Menendez, 521 So. 2d at 180).

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0191644

What CPH essentially seeks to do here, thus, is to hold Morgan Stanley vicariously liable for Sunbeam's conduct, and the law of conspiracy provides no basis to take that radical step.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, this Court should grant Morgan Stanley's motion for summary judgment.

COLEMAN (PARENT) HOLDINGS INC.,	2003 CA 005045 AI
Plaintiff,	Case No. _____
v.	JURY TRIAL DEMANDED
MORGAN STANLEY & CO., INC.,
Defendant.

DCY

COMPLAINT

Plaintiff Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. ("CPH") alleges the following against Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc. ("Morgan Stanley"):

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. This action arises from Morgan Stanley's participation in a massive fraud centered on Florida-based Sunbeam Corporation ("Sunbeam"). As a direct result of that fraud, CPH was induced to accept 14.1 million shares of Sunbeam stock when CPH sold its 82% interest in The Coleman Company, Inc. ("Coleman") to Sunbeam on March 30, 1998. Morgan Stanley misrepresented Sunbeam's financial condition and assisted Sunbeam's CEO, Albert Dunlap, in concealing Sunbeam's true financial condition so that Sunbeam could complete the purchase of Coleman on March 30, 1998.

2. In April 1997, Morgan Stanley began serving as Sunbeam's investment banker. Morgan Stanley originally attempted to find someone to buy Sunbeam. When Morgan Stanley was unable to find a buyer, Morgan Stanley developed a strategy for Sunbeam to use its consideration; and (h) underwriting the $750 million convertible debenture offering, proceeds from which were used to fund Sunbeam's purchase of Coleman.

88. As a result of Morgan Stanley's misconduct, CPH has suffered damages in excess of $485 million.

COUNT III

Conspiracy

89. CPH repeats and realleges the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 77 above as if set forth fully herein.

90. As detailed above, Morgan Stanley conspired with Dunlap and other senior Sunbeam executives to conceal the truth about Sunbeam's financial performance and business operations.

91. As detailed above, Morgan Stanley committed overt acts in furtherance of the conspiracy, including: (a) concealing Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales collapse; (b) assisting with the false March 19, 1998 press release; (c) arranging road shows and meetings with prospective debenture purchasers at which Morgan Stanley, Dunlap, and others made false statements concerning Sunbeam's financial condition and business operations; (d) preparing and disseminating the preliminary and final offering memoranda for the subordinated debenture offering, both of which contained false information concerning Sunbeam's financial condition and business operations; (e) providing CPH with false financial and business information concerning Sunbeam; (f) scripting Dunlap's false public statements concerning Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman; (g) persuading CPH to sell its interest in Coleman and to accept 14.1 million shares of Sunbeam stock and other consideration; and (h) underwriting the $750 million convertible debenture offering, proceeds from which were used to fund Sunbeam's purchase of Coleman.

92. As a result of Morgan Stanley's misconduct, CPH has suffered damages in excess of $485 million.

COUNT IV

Negligent Misrepresentation

93. CPH repeats and realleges the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 77 above as if set forth fully herein.

94. As detailed above, Morgan Stanley negotiated directly with CPH concerning the transfer of CPH's 82% interest in Coleman to Sunbeam. During the course of Morgan Stanley's dealings with CPH, Morgan Stanley provided CPH with information concerning Sunbeam, which, in the exercise of reasonable care, Morgan Stanley would have known was materially false and misleading. Morgan Stanley failed to use reasonable care in providing CPH with truthful and accurate information concerning Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial performance, Sunbeam's business operations, the value of Sunbeam's stock, and Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 performance.

95. As detailed above, Morgan Stanley intended for CPH to rely, and CPH justifiably relied, on the information provided by Morgan Stanley.

96. As a result of Morgan Stanley's negligence, CPH has suffered damages in excess of $485 million.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. demands judgment against defendant Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc. as follows:

MORGAN STANLEY & CO. INCORPORATED'S RESPONSES AND OBJECTIONS TO COLEMAN (PARENT) HOLDINGS INC.'S SIXTH SET OF REQUESTS FOR ADMISSION

Defendant Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated ("MS & Co."), by its attorneys and pursuant to Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.370, hereby responds and objects to Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc.'s ("CPH") Sixth Set of Requests for Admission.

INITIAL OBJECTIONS

1. MS & Co. objects to CPH's Sixth Set of Requests for Admission, including all Definitions, to the extent that they purport to impose upon MS & Co. any requirements that exceed or are otherwise inconsistent with the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure or any other applicable rule or court order.

2. MS & Co. objects to CPH's Sixth Set of Requests for Admission to the extent that they seek information protected from disclosure by the attorney-client privilege, the work product doctrine, or any other applicable privilege, doctrine, immunity or rule.

3. MS & Co. objects to the definition of "Morgan Stanley" to the extent that it includes MS & Co.'s counsel in this litigation and entities not a party to this action. Specifically, MS & Co. interprets these definitions to exclude Kirkland & Ellis LLP, Carlton Fields, P.A.,

Kellogg Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC and affiliates, parents, and others not a party to this action.

4. MS & Co. objects to the Requests for Admission as unduly burdensome, abusive, and vexatious, since many of them are duplicative and constitute an unnecessary waste of time and concern factual allegations uniquely within the possession of CPH, MAFCO, or third parties, which could be confirmed with less expense and burden on the parties through other techniques of discovery

5. In the instances where Morgan Stanley admits to Request One and Request Eight for a document, Morgan Stanley objects to the remaining Requests related to the same document because such Requests are redundant, unduly burdensome, and harassing.

6. In the instances where Morgan Stanley has noted that a document is incomplete, the responses below pertain only to the portion of the document identified in the respective Requests and Morgan Stanley reserves all other objections.

7. MS & Co. incorporates, as though fully set forth therein, these General Objections into each of the Responses set forth below.

RESPONSES

1. Admit that the documents listed in the attached Exhibits A and B are what they purport to be or are otherwise true and authentic copies of original documents within the meaning of Florida Evidence Code § 90.901.

RESPONSE: See the attached Table A. In the instances where there is a notation that the document bears handwritten marginalia ["HW"], Morgan Stanley is without sufficient information to make any admission and therefore denies the Request with respect to the handwritten marginalia.

2. Admit that the documents listed in the attached Exhibits A and B were made by Morgan Stanley at or near the time of the event recorded within the meaning of Florida Evidence Code § 90.803(6)(a).

RESPONSE: See the attached Table A. In the instances where there is a notation that the document bears handwritten marginalia, Morgan Stanley is without sufficient information to make any admission and therefore denies the Request with respect to the handwritten marginalia.

3. Admit that the documents listed in the attached Exhibits A and B were made by Morgan Stanley by or from information transmitted by a person with knowledge within the meaning of Florida Evidence Code § 90.803(6)(a).

RESPONSE: See the attached Table A. In the instances where there is a notation that the document bears handwritten marginalia, Morgan Stanley is without sufficient information to make any admission and therefore denies the Request with respect to the handwritten marginalia.

4. Admit that the documents listed in the attached Exhibits A and B were kept by Morgan Stanley in the course of a regularly conducted business activity within the meaning of Florida Evidence Code § 90.803(6)(a).

RESPONSE: See the attached Table A. In the instances where there is a notation that the document bears handwritten marginalia, Morgan Stanley is without sufficient information to make any admission and therefore denies the Request with respect to the handwritten marginalia.

5. Admit that it was Morgan Stanley's regular practice to make the documents listed in the attached Exhibits A and B within the meaning of Florida Evidence Code § 90.803(6)(a).

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

RESPONSE: See the attached Table A. In the instances where there is a notation that the document bears handwritten marginalia, Morgan Stanley is without sufficient information to make any admission and therefore denies the Request with respect to the handwritten marginalia.

6. Admit that the documents being [sic] Bates numbers Morgan Stanley Confidential 0084771 through 0085783, and Morgan Stanley Confidential 0094003 through 0094032 were made by Morgan Stanley at or near the time of the event recorded within the meaning of Florida Evidence Code § 90.803(6)(a).

RESPONSE: See the attached Table B.

7. Admit that the documents bearing Bates numbers Morgan Stanley Confidential 0084771 through 0085783, and Morgan Stanley Confidential 0094003 through 0094032 were made by Morgan Stanley by or from information transmitted by a person with knowledge within the meaning of Florida Evidence Code § 90.803(6)(a).

RESPONSE: See the attached Table B.

8. Admit that Morgan Stanley authored the documents listed in the attached Exhibit B.

RESPONSE: See the attached Table A. In the instances where there is a notation that the document bears handwritten marginalia, Morgan Stanley is without sufficient information to make any admission and therefore denies the Request with respect to the handwritten marginalia. Morgan Stanley denies that it "authored" CPH Exhibits 9 and 138 and MS Exhibits 85 and 238 {and any other version of the February 1998 Discussion Materials provided to CPH on February 23, 1998}. Morgan Stanley admits that Sunbeam provided Morgan Stanley certain information contained in those exhibits, that other information in those exhibits was obtained from public records, and that Morgan Stanley assisted Sunbeam in the formatting and organization of such information. For MS Exhibit 183 and CPH Exhibit 278, Morgan Stanley admits that one of its employees "authored" the handwritten notations on that document, but denies that Morgan Stanley authored the underlying printed text.

The Board of Directors of the Issuer adopted resolutions authorizing, among other things, (a) the issuance by the Issuer of the Securities, (b) a committee to determine, the terms of the Securities, the price at which such Securities are to be sold to the Initial Purchaser and the Initial Purchasers to be used in connection with any such sale, (c) the forms of the Indenture, the Registration Rights Agreement and the Purchase Agreement, (d) certain designated officers to sign and deliver an indenture, registration rights agreement and purchase agreement substantially in the forms approved, (e) the registration or qualification of any Securities under state securities or blue sky laws and (f) any other action necessary in connection with the issuance and sale of any Securities.

2. On the Offering Date, the committee designated by the Board of Directors determined the terms of the Securities, the price at which the Securities are to be sold to any Initial Purchaser and the Initial Purchaser to be used in connection with any such sale.

B. Offering

1. Prior to the Offering Date, the Issuer prepared a Preliminary Offering Memorandum relating to the Securities and distributed it to prospective purchasers.

2. On the Offering Date:

(a) the Initial Purchaser and the Issuer signed the Purchase Agreement;

(b) the Issuer prepared the Offering Memorandum; and

(c) the offering of the Securities began.

C. Listing on the Exchange

The Issuer filed with the Exchange a preliminary listing application relating to the shares of Common Stock of the Issuer issuable upon conversion of the Securities.

D. Actions Taken to Prepare for the Closing

1. The Initial Purchaser notified the Trustee of the names and denominations in which the Securities were to be registered.

2. The Trustee made available for inspection by the Initial Purchaser certificates for the Securities registered in the names and in the denominations requested by the Initial Purchaser.

3. A preliminary closing was held at the offices of the Initial Purchaser's Counsel, 450 Lexington Avenue, New York, New York, at 4:00 P.M. (local time) on the business day prior to the Closing Date for the presentation and examination of the closing documents listed in the attached Schedule B. All documents deemed satisfactory were held in escrow until the closing.

II.

THE CLOSING

The closing was held at the offices of the Initial Purchaser's Counsel, 450 Lexington Avenue, New York, New York, at 9:00 A.M. (local time) on the Closing Date. All of the transactions at the closing were considered to have taken place simultaneously, and no delivery or payment was considered to have been made until all transactions to be taken at the closing had been completed. The documents delivered in connection with the closing are listed in the attached Schedule B. Such documents were dated the Closing Date unless otherwise specified or indicated by the context. The persons listed on Schedule A were present at the closing.

Secretary's Certificate

I, David C. Fannin, Secretary of Sunbeam Corporation, a Delaware corporation (the "Issuer"), do hereby certify as follows:

1. No amendment to the Issuer's restated certificate of incorporation has been approved by the Board of Directors or stockholders of the Issuer or filed with the Delaware Secretary of State, since the Issuer filed its restated certificate of incorporation on July 11, 1996.

2. No proceeding for the dissolution, merger, consolidation or liquidation of the Issuer or for the sale of all or substantially all of its assets is pending or, to the best of my knowledge, threatened, and no such proceeding is contemplated by the Issuer.

3. Attached hereto as Exhibit A is a true, correct and complete copy of the bylaws of the Issuer as in effect at the date hereof and at all times since January 1, 1998

4. Attached hereto as Exhibits B-1 and B-2, are true, correct and complete copies of resolutions duly adopted by (i) the Board of Directors of the Issuer on March 19, 1998 and (ii) the committee designated by the Board of Directors on March 19, 1998. Such resolutions have not been amended or modified, are in full force and effect in the form adopted and are the only resolutions adopted by the Board of Directors or by any committee of, or designated by, the Board of Directors relating to the offering of the Issuer's Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the "Securities").

5. Attached hereto as Exhibit C is a true, correct and complete specimen of the certificates representing the Securities. The facsimile signature of each of the officers of the Issuer appearing thereon is the genuine facsimile signature of such officer, who was duly elected or appointed, qualified and acting as such officer on the date hereof.

Gentlemen:

We have audited the consolidated balance sheets of Sunbeam Corporation and subsidiaries (the "Company") as of December 28, 1997 and December 29, 1996 and the related consolidated statements of operations, shareholders' equity and cash flows for each of the three fiscal years in the period ended December 28, 1997 included in the offering memorandum for the $2,014,000,000 Sunbeam Corporation Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018; our report with respect thereto is also included in the offering memorandum. The offering memorandum dated March 19, 1998 is herein referred to as the Offering Memorandum.

This letter is being furnished in reliance upon your representation to us that –

a. You are knowledgeable with respect to the due diligence review process that would be performed if this placement of securities were being registered pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933 (the Act).

b. In connection with the Offering Memorandum, the review process you have performed is substantially consistent with the due diligence review process that you would have performed if this placement of securities were being registered pursuant to the Act.

In connection with the Offering Memorandum—

1. We are independent certified public accountants with respect to the Company under rule 101 of the AICPA's Code of Professional Conduct, and its interpretations and rulings.

2. In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements audited by us and included in the Offering Memorandum comply as to form in all material respects with the applicable accounting requirements of the Act and the related published rules and regulations.

3. We have not audited any financial statements of the Company as of any date or for any period subsequent to December 28, 1997; although we have conducted an audit for the fiscal year ended December 28, 1997, the purpose (and therefore the scope) of the audit was to enable us to express our opinion on the consolidated financial statements as of December 28, 1997, and for the fiscal year then ended, but not on the financial statements for any interim period within that year. Therefore, we are unable to and do not express any opinion on the financial position, results of operations or cash flows as of any date or for any period subsequent to December 28, 1997.

4. For purposes of this letter, we have read the minutes of meetings of the Board of Directors of the Company and its subsidiaries as set forth in the minute books at March 16, 1998, except for the meetings of the Board of Directors which took place on February 3, 1998 and February 28, 1998, for which we have read the agendas. Officials of the Company have advised us that these constitute a complete record of minutes of all such meetings through March 16, 1998. We have carried out other procedures to March 16, 1998, as follows (our work did not extend to the period from March 17, 1998, to March 19, 1998, inclusive):

   a. With respect to the period from December 29, 1997 to February 1, 1998, we have

      (i) Read the unaudited consolidated financial statements of the Company and its subsidiaries for the period from December 29, 1997 to February 1, 1998 furnished us by the Company, officials of the Company having advised us that no such financial statements as of any date or for any period subsequent to February 1, 1998, were available. The financial information for the period from December 29, 1997 to February 1, 1998 is incomplete in that it omits the statements of cash flows and other disclosures.

      (ii) Inquired of certain officials of the Company who have responsibility for financial and accounting matters whether the unaudited consolidated financial statements referred to in a(i) are stated on a basis substantially consistent with that of the audited consolidated financial statements included in the Offering Memorandum.

The foregoing procedures do not constitute an audit conducted in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Also, they would not necessarily reveal matters of significance with respect to the comments in the following paragraph. Accordingly, we make no representations regarding the sufficiency of the foregoing procedures for your purposes.

5. Nothing came to our attention as a result of the foregoing procedures, however, that caused us to believe that –

   a. At February 1, 1998, there was any change in the capital stock, increase in long-term debt or any decrease in consolidated net current assets or consolidated shareholders' equity of the Company as compared with amounts shown in the December 28, 1997, audited consolidated balance sheet included in the Offering Memorandum, except as follows (in thousands):

	December 28, 1997	February 1, 1998
Long-term debt	$ 194,580	$ 219,449
Shareholders' Equity	531,937	525,913

   b. For the period from December 29, 1997, to February 1, 1998, there were any decreases, as compared with the corresponding period in the preceding year, in consolidated net sales or in net income (loss), except in all instances for changes, increases, or decreases that the Offering Memorandum discloses have occurred or may occur, and except as follows (in thousands):

	The Period
	December 30, 1996 Through February 2, 1997	December 29, 1997 through February 1, 1998
Net sales	$ 72,945	$ 28,984
Net income (loss)	4,786	(9,510)

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

6. As mentioned in 4(a), Company officials have advised us that no consolidated financial statements as of any date or for any period subsequent to February 1, 1998, are available; accordingly, the procedures carried out by us with respect to changes in financial statement items after February 1, 1998 have been, of necessity, even more limited than those with respect to the periods referred to in 4. We have inquired of certain officials of the Company who have responsibility for financial and accounting matters whether (a) at March 16, 1998, there was any change in the capital stock, increase in long-term debt or any decreases in consolidated net current assets or shareholders' equity of the consolidated companies as compared with amounts shown on the December 28, 1997, audited consolidated balance sheet included in the Offering Memorandum; or (b) for the period from December 29, 1997, to March 16, 1998, there were any decreases, as compared with the corresponding period in the preceding year, in consolidated net sales or in the amount of net income. On the basis of these inquiries and our reading of the minutes and meeting agendas described in 4, nothing came to our attention that caused us to believe that there was any such change, increase, or decrease, except in all instances for changes, increases, or decreases that the Offering Memorandum discloses have occurred or may occur, and except as follows:

   a. Between December 29, 1997 and March 16, 1998, (i) capital stock increased primarily due to stock issued in connection with stock option exercises, (ii) long-term debt has increased from $194,580,000 to $299,580,000 as a result of drawings on the Company's credit facility and (iii) consolidated shareholders' equity has decreased primarily because of net losses during the period offset, in part, by contributions received for stock option exercises.

   b. For the period from December 29, 1997 through March 16, 1998, consolidated net sales decreased as compared to the corresponding period of the preceding year primarily due to the Company's new early-buy program for outdoor grills which accelerated outdoor grill sales into the fourth quarter of fiscal 1997. Additionally, the decrease in consolidated net sales during the period as compared to the corresponding period of the preceding year results, in part, from a non-recurring sale in January 1997 of discontinued stock keeping units and excess and obsolete inventory in connection with the Company's November 1996 restructuring. Net income decreased primarily due to the aforementioned sales decrease and a first quarter compensation charge from restricted stock issued in connection with new employment agreements for key officers.

c. Although the Company has not provided us with any financial statements as of any date or for any period subsequent to February 1, 1998, management has provided net sales from December 29, 1997 through March 1, 1998, which were $72,018,000 as compared to $143,499,000 for the corresponding period of the preceding year.

7. At your request, we have –

a. Read the unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated balance sheet as of December 28, 1997, and the unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated statement of operations for the fiscal year ended December 28, 1997 included in the Offering Memorandum.

b. Inquired of certain officials of the Company who have responsibility for financial and accounting matters about –

(i) The basis for their determination of the pro forma adjustments, and

(ii) Whether the unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements referred to in 7a comply as to form in all material respects with the applicable accounting requirements of rule 11-02 of Regulation S-X.

c. Proved the arithmetic accuracy of the application of the pro forma adjustments to the historical amounts in the unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements.

The foregoing procedures are substantially less in scope than an examination, the objective of which is the expression of an opinion on management's assumptions, the pro forma adjustments, and the application of those adjustments to historical financial information. Accordingly, we do not express such an opinion. The foregoing procedures would not necessarily reveal matters of significance with respect to the comments in the following paragraph. Accordingly, we make no representation about the sufficiency of such procedures for your purposes.

8. Nothing came to our attention as a result of the procedures specified in paragraph 7, however, that caused us to believe that the unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements referred to in 7a included in the Offering Memorandum do not comply as to form in all material respects with the applicable accounting requirements of rule 11-02 of Regulation S-X and that the pro forma adjustments have not been properly applied to the historical amounts in the compilation of those statements. Had we performed additional procedures or had we made an examination of the pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements, other matters might have come to our attention that would have been reported to you.

9. Our audit of the consolidated financial statements for periods referred to in the introductory paragraph of this letter was comprised of audit tests and procedures deemed necessary for the purpose of expressing an opinion on such financial statements taken as a whole. For none of the periods referred to therein, or any other period, did we perform audit tests for the purpose of expressing an opinion on individual balances of accounts or summaries of selected transactions such as those enumerated above, and, accordingly, we express no opinion thereon.

10. We compared the information included under the heading "Selected Historical Financial Data" with the requirements of item 301 of Regulation S-K. We also inquired of certain officials of the Company who have responsibility for financial and accounting matters whether this information conforms in all material respects with the disclosure requirements of item 301 of Regulation S-K. Nothing came to our attention as a result of the foregoing procedures that caused us to believe that this information does not conform in all material respects with the disclosure requirements of item 301 of Regulation S-K.

11. For purposes of this letter, we have also read the items identified by you on the attached copy of the Offering Memorandum, and have performed the following procedures, which were applied as indicated with respect to the symbols explained below:

✓ Compared to corresponding amounts appearing in the Company's audited consolidated financial statements and notes thereto for the period indicated contained in the Offering Memorandum and found them to be in agreement.

A Recomputed from corresponding amounts appearing in the Company's audited consolidated financial statements and notes thereto for the period indicated contained in the Offering Memorandum and found them to be in agreement.

☑ Compared to, or recomputed from, amounts included in an unaudited schedule or report prepared by the Company, which we were informed by officers of the Company responsible for accounting matters, were derived from the accounting records of the Company, and found them to be in agreement. We confirmed the mathematical accuracy of the schedule or report and found it to be mathematically accurate. We make no representations regarding the completeness or accuracy of the Company's assumptions underlying such schedule or report.

N Compared to, or recomputed from, the accounting records of the Company and noted agreement.

✓ Compared to, or recomputed from, corresponding amounts appearing in the Company's unaudited proforma condensed combined financial statements included in the Offering Memorandum and found them to be in agreement.

12. It should be understood that we make no representations regarding questions of legal interpretation or regarding the sufficiency for your purposes of the procedures enumerated in the preceding paragraph; also, such procedures would not necessarily reveal any material misstatement of amounts reflected in the Offering Memorandum. Further, we have addressed ourselves solely to the foregoing data as set forth in the Offering Memorandum and make no representations regarding the adequacy of disclosures or regarding whether any material facts have been omitted.

13. This letter is solely for the information of the addressees and to assist the underwriters in conducting and documenting their investigation of the affairs of the Company in connection with the offering of securities covered by the Offering Memorandum, and it is not to be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to within or without the underwriting group for any purpose, including but not limited to the registration, purchase or sale of securities, nor is it to be filed with or referred to in whole or in part in the Offering Memorandum or any other document, except that reference may be made to it in the purchase agreement or in any list of closing documents pertaining to the offering of securities covered by the Offering Memorandum.

Very truly yours,

Arthur Andersen L.L.P.

Gentlemen:

We refer to our letter of March 19, 1998, relating to the offering memorandum for the sale of $2,014,000,000 of Sunbeam Corporation Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the "Offering Memorandum"). We reaffirm as of the date hereof (and as though made on the date hereof) all statements made in that letter except that, for the purposes of this letter –

a. The Offering Memorandum to which this letter relates is as amended on March 25, 1998.

b. The reading of minutes described in paragraph 4 of that letter has been carried out through March 23, 1998.

c. The procedures and inquiries covered in paragraph 4 of that letter were carried out to March 23, 1998 (our work did not extend to the period from March 23, 1998, to March 25, 1998, inclusive).

d. The period covered in paragraph 4a of that letter is changed to the period from December 29, 1997 to March 1, 1998, officials of the Company having advised us that no such financial statements as of any date or for any period subsequent to March 1, 1998, were available.

e. The references to February 1, 1998, in paragraph 5 of that letter are changed to March 1, 1998, and the tables included in that paragraph are modified as follows:

Table in paragraph 5a (in thousands) –

	December 28, 1997	March 1, 1998
Common stock	$ 900	$ 913
Long-term debt	194,580	279,580
Shareholders' equity	531,937	522,843

Table in paragraph 5b (in thousands) –

	For the Period
	December 30, 1996 through March 2, 1997	December 29, 1997 Through March 1, 1998
Net sales	$ 143,499	$ 72,018
Net income (loss)	9,765	(41,190)

The net loss for the period from December 29, 1997 through March 1, 1998 includes a compensation charge of approximately $30.2 million recorded in February 1998 from restricted stock issued in connection with new employment agreements with key officers.

f. The references to February 1, 1998, and March 16, 1998, in paragraph 6 of that letter are changed to March 1, 1998, and March 23, 1998, respectively. Paragraph 6a has been modified to read as follows:

Between December 29, 1997 and March 23, 1998, (i) capital stock increased primarily due to stock issued in connection with stock option exercises, (ii) long-term debt has increased from $194,580,000 to $ 309,580,000 as a result of drawings on the Company's credit facility and (iii) consolidated shareholders' equity has decreased primarily because of net losses during the period offset, in part, by contributions received for stock option exercises.

g. This letter is solely for the information of the addressees and to assist the underwriters in conducting and documenting their investigation of the affairs of the Company in connection with the offering of securities covered by the Offering Memorandum, and it is not to be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to within or without the underwriting group for any purpose, including but not limited to the registration, purchase or sale of securities, nor is it to be filed with or referred to in whole or in part in the Offering Memorandum or any other document, except that reference may be made to it in the purchase agreement or in any list of closing documents pertaining to the offering of securities covered by the Offering Memorandum.

CLN Holdings, Inc.
and
Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated
1585 Broadway
New York, NY 10036

Dear Sirs:

We have audited the consolidated balance sheets of CLN Holdings, Inc. and subsidiaries (the Company) as of December 31, 1997 and 1996, and the consolidated statements of operations, stockholder's deficit, and cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 1997, included in the Offering Memorandum for $2,014,000,000 of Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the Debentures) to be issued by Sunbeam Corporation. Our report with respect thereto is included in the Offering Memorandum dated March 19, 1998 (the Offering Memorandum).

This letter is being furnished in reliance upon your representation to us that:

a. You are knowledgeable with respect to the due diligence review process that would be performed if this placement of securities were being registered pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933 (the Act).

b. In connection with the Offering Memorandum, the review process you have performed is substantially consistent with the due diligence review process that you would have performed if this placement of securities were being registered pursuant to the Act.

In connection with the Offering Memorandum:

1. We are independent auditors with respect to the Company under Rule 101 of the AICPA's Code of Professional Conduct, and its interpretations and rulings.

2. In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements audited by us and included in the Offering Memorandum comply as to form in all material respects with the applicable accounting requirements of the Act and the related published rules and regulations thereunder.

3. We have not audited any financial statements of the Company as of any date or for any period subsequent to December 31, 1997. The purpose (and therefore the scope) of our audits was to enable us to express our opinion on the consolidated financial statements as of December 31, 1997 and 1996, and for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 1997, but not on the financial statements for any interim period within these years. Therefore, we are unable to and do not express any opinion on the financial position, results of operations, or cash flows as of any other date or for any period subsequent to December 31, 1997.

4. For purposes of this letter we have obtained a summary of topics discussed during the 1998 meetings of the Board of Directors of the Company, for which minutes have not been approved.

5. The Company's officials have advised us that no financial statements as of any date or for any period subsequent to December 31, 1997 are available; accordingly, the procedures carried out by us with respect to changes in financial statement items after December 31, 1997 have, of necessity, been even more limited than those with respect to the periods referred to in 3. above. We have inquired of Company officials who have responsibility for financial and accounting matters as to whether: (i) at March 18, 1998 there was any increase in long-term debt or any decrease in net current assets of the Company as compared with the amounts shown on the December 31, 1997, audited balance sheet included in the Offering Memorandum, or (ii) for the period from January 1, 1998, to March 18, 1998, there was any decrease, as compared with the corresponding period in the preceding year, in total operating revenues, income from operations or increase in net loss. On the basis of these inquiries and our summary of the minutes as described in 3. above, nothing came to our attention that caused us to believe that there was any such increase or decrease, except for approximately $60 million additional long term borrowing under the revolving credit facility and in all other instances for increases or decreases which the Offering Memorandum discloses have occurred or may occur.

6. At your request, we have read the items identified by you on the attached copies of certain pages of the Offering Memorandum, and have performed the following procedures, which were applied as indicated with respect to the symbols explained below:

   A Compared the dollar amounts to the amounts in the audited consolidated financial statements described in the introductory paragraph of this letter to the extent such amounts are included in or can be derived from such statements and found them to be in agreement.

   B Compared the dollar and other amounts not derived directly from the audited consolidated financial statements, or that could not be compared directly to the Company's accounting records, to amounts in analyses prepared by the Company from its accounting records and found them to be in agreement. In addition, proved the arithmetic accuracy of analyses prepared by the Company.

C Proved the arithmetic accuracy of the percentages or amounts based on the data in the above-mentioned financial statements, accounting records, and analyses.

7. Our audits of the consolidated financial statements for the periods referred to in the introductory paragraph of this letter were comprised of audit tests and procedures deemed necessary for the purpose of expressing an opinion on such financial statements taken as a whole. For neither the periods referred to therein nor any other period did we perform audit tests for the purpose of expressing an opinion on individual balances of accounts or summaries of selected transactions such as those enumerated above and, accordingly, we do not express an opinion thereon.

8. It should be understood that we make no representations as to questions of legal interpretation or as to the sufficiency for your purposes of the procedures enumerated in the preceding paragraph; also, such procedures would not necessarily reveal any material misstatement of the information identified in 6. above. Further, we have addressed ourselves solely to the foregoing data as set forth in the Offering Memorandum and make no representations as to the adequacy of disclosure or as to whether any material facts have been omitted.

9. This letter is solely for the information of the addressees and to assist the underwriters in conducting and documenting their investigation of the affairs of the Company in connection with the offering of securities covered by the Offering Memorandum, and it is not to be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to for any purpose, including but not limited to the purchase or sale of securities, nor is it to be filed with or referred to in whole or in part in the Offering Memorandum or any other document, except that reference may be made to it in the purchase agreement or in any list of closing documents pertaining to the offering of securities covered by the Offering Memorandum.

distribution with a number of major retailers while increasing its penetration of existing accounts. In 1997, the Company sold products to virtually all of the top 100 U.S. retailers, including Wal-Mart, Price Costco, Kmart, Target Stores, Home Depot and Sears.

Restructuring and Growth Plan

In the fall of 1996, Sunbeam announced a major restructuring and growth plan under newly appointed Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Albert Dunlap. The restructuring, which was recently completed, included the redefinition of Sunbeam's core products, divestiture of non-core businesses, assembling a new management team, and the closing of 18 factories, 43 warehouses and 5 headquarters offices. The Company also consolidated all purchasing functions, reduced the number of stock keeping units ("SKU's") from approximately 11,400 to 2,000 and outsourced certain of the administrative, manufacturing and distribution activities. These actions led to a reduction of nearly half the work force (approximately 6,000 jobs). In 1997, net sales grew 18.7% and operating margin improved to 17.1% from 0.5% (excluding the impact of special charges) in 1996, with operating margins reaching 20% in the fourth quarter of 1997.

The Acquisitions

Following the successful restructuring of the Company, the management team has extended its strategic focus to identify underperforming companies with strong brand names. The Company intends to capitalize on its proven capability in cost containment and operational improvement by acquiring such companies and their premier brand names, thereby broadening the Sunbeam product offering spectrum and presenting opportunities to eliminate redundant or inefficient operations.

On March 2, 1998, the Company announced that it had entered into separate agreements to acquire Coleman, Signature Brands and First Alert (collectively, the "Acquisitions"). The Company is acquiring these companies primarily due to their strong and established brand names, the potential opportunity to streamline operations, the diversification they provide to the Company's product base and the potential for revenue and operational synergies. In addition, the Company believes that its existing international geographic marketing and distribution strengths and those of the acquired companies will significantly complement each other. The Company's management team believes that these Acquisitions will give the Company a platform from which to capitalize on the fragmentation and potential consolidation of the durable household consumer products sector.

Coleman. With 1997 net revenues of approximately $1,154 million, Coleman is a leading manufacturer and marketer of consumer products for the worldwide outdoor recreation market. Its products have been sold domestically and internationally under the Coleman brand name since the 1920s. Coleman attributes its leading market position to the strength of its brand name, the breadth of products sold, product quality and innovation, marketing, distribution and manufacturing expertise.

- Outdoor Recreation: This product category includes lanterns and stoves, propane and butane fuel, coolers and jugs, recreational soft goods (including tents, sleeping bags, backpacks and duffle bags), outdoor furniture, electric lights, spas and camping accessories. Coleman believes it is the leading worldwide manufacturer of lanterns and stoves for outdoor recreational use and a leading supplier to the worldwide camping and outdoor recreation market of propane and butane cartridges and camping fuel. Coleman's products are marketed under the brand names Coleman®, Camping Gaz® and East Pak®.
- Hardware: This product category includes portable generators and air compressors marketed under the Powermate® brand name. Coleman is a leading worldwide manufacturer and distributor of portable generators. These products are distributed predominantly through mass merchandisers and home center chains.

Based on the assumption that all presently exercisable Coleman options will be exercised prior to the closing of the Coleman acquisition, the Company expects to issue and deliver approximately 21.3 million shares of Common Stock (with an aggregate value of approximately $1 billion based on current market prices) and to pay an aggregate of $221 million in cash in connection with the Coleman acquisition. On such basis, the Coleman acquisition is valued at approximately $2.2 billion (including the assumption of approximately $976 million of indebtedness). If none of the presently exercisable Coleman options are exercised prior to closing of the Coleman acquisition, the Company would expect to issue and deliver approximately 19.4 million shares of Common Stock and pay aggregate cash consideration of $261 million in connection with the Coleman acquisition.

Signature Brands. With net sales of approximately $276 million for its fiscal year ended September 28, 1997, Signature Brands is a leading manufacturer of a comprehensive line of consumer and professional products. Signature Brands attributes its leading market position to its strong brand name recognition, distribution

On March 2, 1998, the Company announced the signing of separate definitive agreements to acquire Coleman, Signature Brands and First Alert. The three transactions are subject to customary conditions, including the receipt of required regulatory approvals, and are expected to close early this spring of 1998.

The Company is acquiring these companies primarily due to their strong and established brand names, the potential opportunity to streamline operations, the diversification they provide to the Company's product base and the potential for revenue and operational synergies. In addition, the Company believes that its existing international geographic marketing and distribution strengths and those of the acquired companies will significantly complement each other. The Company's management team believes that these Acquisitions give the Company a platform from which to capitalize on the fragmentation and potential consolidation of the durable household consumer products sector.

Coleman

With 1997 net revenues of approximately $1,154 million, Coleman is a leading manufacturer and marketer of consumer products for the worldwide outdoor recreation market. Its products have been sold domestically and internationally under the Coleman brand name since the 1920s. Coleman attributes its leading market position to the strength of its brand name, and breadth of products sold, product quality and innovation, marketing, distribution and manufacturing expertise.

- Outdoor Recreation: This product category includes lanterns and stoves, propane and butane fuel, coolers and jugs, recreational soft goods (including tents, sleeping bags, backpacks and duffle bags), outdoor furniture, electric lights, spas and camping accessories. Coleman believes it is the leading worldwide manufacturer of lanterns and stoves for outdoor recreational use and is a leading supplier to the worldwide camping and outdoor recreation market of propane and butane cartridges and camping fuel. Coleman's products are marketed under the brand names Coleman®, Camping Gaz® and East Pak®.
- Hardware: Following the divestiture of the safety and security products business anticipated in March 1998, this product category will include portable generators and air compressors marketed under the Powermate® brand name. Coleman is a leading worldwide manufacturer and distributor of portable generators. These products are distributed predominantly through mass merchandisers and home center chains.

The following table summarizes Coleman's net revenues for the year ended December 31, 1997 by product category and geographic area (in millions):

Product Category	Amount	%	Geographic Area	Amount	%
Outdoor Recreation	$ 859.7	74.5%	Domestic	$ 933.5	80.9%

Signature Brands

With net sales of approximately $276 million for its fiscal year ended September 28, 1997, Signature Brands is a leading manufacturer of a comprehensive line of consumer and professional products. Signature Brands attributes its leading market position to its strong brand name recognition, distribution in major domestic high volume retail outlets, marketing and sales promotion efforts, electronic data interchange capabilities, merchandise flow systems and established relationships with its retail customers. Signature Brands, founded in 1919, is one of the oldest and largest domestic manufacturers of scales for home and medical use.

- Consumer Products: Signature Brands markets its consumer products under the Mr. Coffee®, Health o meter®, Counselor® and Borg® brand names. Signature Brands produces and markets an extensive line of

UNAUDITED PRO FORMA CONDENSED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

The following unaudited pro forma condensed balance sheet as of December 28, 1997 was prepared to illustrate the estimated effects of (i) the Acquisitions, accounted for under the purchase method of accounting, (ii) the Bank Financing, (iii) the Offering and (iv) the use of net proceeds from the Offering and from the Bank Financing as described under "Financing Plan and Use of Proceeds" (collectively, the "Pro Forma Transactions"), as if the Pro Forma Transactions had occurred on December 28, 1997. The following unaudited pro forma statement of operations for the year ended December 28, 1997 was prepared to illustrate the estimated effects of the Pro Forma Transactions as if they had occurred as of December 30, 1996.

The fiscal year of the Company ended on December 28, 1997 and the fiscal years of CLN Holdings and First Alert ended on December 31, 1997. The fiscal year of Signature Brands ended on September 28, 1997. The unaudited pro forma condensed financial statements have been derived from the audited financial statements of the Company as of and for the year ended December 28, 1997, the audited financial statements of CLN Holdings and First Alert as of and for the year ended December 31, 1997 and the unaudited financial statements of Signature Brands as of and for the year ended December 31, 1997. The unaudited statement of operations of Signature Brands for the year ended December 31, 1997 has been derived from the audited statement of operations for the year ended September 28, 1997 and the unaudited statements of operations from the thirteen weeks ended December 31, 1997 and December 31, 1996 in order to present Signature Brands operating results on a basis consistent with the Company's fiscal year.

The pro forma condensed financial statements were prepared utilizing the accounting principles of the respective entities as outlined in each entity's historical financial statements. Certain reclassifications were made to sales, cost of sales and selling, general and administrative expenses as reported in the historical financial statements of CLN Holdings, First Alert and Signature Brands to conform to the classifications of the Company as follows:

	Decrease
	Sales	Cost of Sales	Selling, General and Administrative (in thousands)
CLN Holdings	$(71,488)	$(63,886)	$(7,602)
First Alert	(9,902)	(4,760)	(5,142)
Signature Brands	(23,171)	(3,725)	(19,446)

(A) Included in the historical Statement of Operations of CLN Holdings are cash and non-cash restructuring and other charges totaling $36.4 million and related tax benefits of $13.9 million. These costs have been allocated to cost of goods sold and selling, general and administration expense in the amounts of $19.5 million and $16.9 million, respectively. These costs primarily relate to closing and relocating certain administrative and sales offices, closing several manufacturing facilities, write-down of inventory and fixed assets, as well as severance costs. Additionally, the expense of the early extinguishment of debt of $15.2 million shown on the CLN Holdings' historical statement of operations has been excluded from the unaudited pro forma condensed statement of operations.

The pro forma adjustments are based upon available information and certain assumptions that the Company believes are reasonable under the circumstances. For purposes of developing the unaudited pro forma condensed financial statements, the assets and liabilities of CLN Holdings, First Alert and Signature Brands have been recorded at historical cost. The allocation of purchase price for the Acquisitions will be revised when additional information concerning asset and liability valuations is obtained. Adjustments, which could be significant, will be made during the allocation period based on detailed reviews of the fair values of assets acquired and liabilities assumed and could result in a substantial increase in goodwill. The pro forma condensed financial statements do not include a one-time after-tax $30 million first quarter 1998 charge by the Company related to the execution of new employment contracts with the Company's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other senior officers of the Company as further discussed in Note 14 of the Company's audited financial statements for the year ended December 28, 1997 or any adjustments for potential synergies or cost savings as a result of the Acquisitions.

The unaudited pro forma financial statements should be read in conjunction with "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations," the financial statements of each of the Company, CLN Holdings, First Alert and Signature Brands and the notes thereto, and the other financial information included elsewhere or incorporated by reference in this Offering Memorandum. This pro forma financial information is provided for informational purposes only and does not purport to be indicative of the results of operations or financial position which would have been obtained had the Pro Forma Transactions been completed on the dates indicated or the financial condition or results of operations for any future date or period.

Dear Sirs:

We have audited the consolidated balance sheets of CLN Holdings, Inc. and subsidiaries (the Company) as of December 31, 1997 and 1996, and the consolidated statements of operations, stockholder's deficit, and cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 1997, included in the Offering Memorandum for $2,014,000,000 of Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the Debentures) to be issued by Sunbeam Corporation. Our report with respect thereto is included in the Offering Memorandum dated March 19, 1998 (the Offering Memorandum).

This letter is being furnished in reliance upon your representation to us that:

a. You are knowledgeable with respect to the due diligence review process that would be performed if this placement of securities were being registered pursuant to the Securities Act of 1933 (the Act).

b. In connection with the Offering Memorandum, the review process you have performed is substantially consistent with the due diligence review process that you would have performed if this placement of securities were being registered pursuant to the Act.

In connection with the Offering Memorandum:

1. We are independent auditors with respect to the Company under Rule 101 of the AICPA's Code of Professional Conduct, and its interpretations and rulings.

2. In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements audited by us and included in the Offering Memorandum comply as to form in all material respects with the applicable accounting requirements of the Act and the related published rules and regulations thereunder.

Ernst & Young LLP is a member of Ernst & Young International, Ltd.

3. We have not audited any financial statements of the Company as of any date or for any period subsequent to December 31, 1997. The purpose (and therefore the scope) of our audits was to enable us to express our opinion on the consolidated financial statements as of December 31, 1997 and 1996, and for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 1997, but not on the financial statements for any interim period within these years. Therefore, we are unable to and do not express any opinion on the financial position, results of operations, or cash flows as of any other date or for any period subsequent to December 31, 1997.

4. For purposes of this letter we have obtained a summary of topics discussed during the 1998 meetings of the Board of Directors of the Company, for which minutes have not been approved.

5. The Company's officials have advised us that no financial statements as of any date or for any period subsequent to December 31, 1997 are available; accordingly, the procedures carried out by us with respect to changes in financial statement items after December 31, 1997 have, of necessity, been even more limited than those with respect to the periods referred to in 3. above. We have inquired of Company officials who have responsibility for financial and accounting matters as to whether: (i) at March 25, 1998 there was any increase in long-term debt or any decrease in net current assets of the Company as compared with the amounts shown on the December 31, 1997, audited balance sheet included in the Offering Memorandum, or (ii) for the period from January 1, 1998, to March 25, 1998, there was any decrease, as compared with the corresponding period in the preceding year, in total operating revenues, income from operations or increase in net loss. On the basis of these inquiries and our summary of the minutes as described in 3. above, nothing came to our attention that caused us to believe that there was any such increase or decrease, except for approximately $60 million additional long term borrowing under the revolving credit facility and management has advised us net revenues for the quarter ended March 31, 1998, are anticipated to be no more than $10 million less than the corresponding quarter of the prior year and there may be some related impact on operating results, and in all other instances for increases or decreases which the Offering Memorandum discloses have occurred or may occur.

6. At your request, we have read the items identified by you on the attached copies of certain pages of the Offering Memorandum, and have performed the following procedures, which were applied as indicated with respect to the symbols explained below:

   A Compared the dollar amounts to the amounts in the audited consolidated financial statements described in the introductory paragraph of this letter to the extent such amounts are included in or can be derived from such statements and found them to be in agreement.

B Compared the dollar and other amounts not derived directly from the audited consolidated financial statements, or that could not be compared directly to the Company's accounting records, to amounts in analyses prepared by the Company from its accounting records and found them to be in agreement. In addition, proved the arithmetic accuracy of analyses prepared by the Company.

C Proved the arithmetic accuracy of the percentages or amounts based on the data in the above-mentioned financial statements, accounting records, and analyses.

7. Our audits of the consolidated financial statements for the periods referred to in the introductory paragraph of this letter were comprised of audit tests and procedures deemed necessary for the purpose of expressing an opinion on such financial statements taken as a whole. For neither the periods referred to therein nor any other period did we perform audit tests for the purpose of expressing an opinion on individual balances of accounts or summaries of selected transactions such as those enumerated above and, accordingly, we do not express an opinion thereon.

8. It should be understood that we make no representations as to questions of legal interpretation or as to the sufficiency for your purposes of the procedures enumerated in the preceding paragraph; also, such procedures would not necessarily reveal any material misstatement of the information identified in 6. above. Further, we have addressed ourselves solely to the foregoing data as set forth in the Offering Memorandum and make no representations as to the adequacy of disclosure or as to whether any material facts have been omitted.

9. This letter is solely for the information of the addressees and to assist the underwriters in conducting and documenting their investigation of the affairs of the Company in connection with the offering of securities covered by the Offering Memorandum, and it is not to be used, circulated, quoted, or otherwise referred to for any purpose, including but not limited to the purchase or sale of securities, nor is it to be filed with or referred to in whole or in part in the Offering Memorandum or any other document, except that reference may be made to it in the purchase agreement or in any list of closing documents pertaining to the offering of securities covered by the Offering Memorandum.

Re: Sunbeam Corporation -
Zero Coupon Convertible Senior
Subordinated Debentures due 2018

Ladies and Gentlemen:

We have acted as special counsel for Sunbeam Corporation, a Delaware corporation (the "Company"), in connection with the Purchase Agreement, dated March 19, 1998 (the "Purchase Agreement"), between the Company and you (the "Initial Purchaser"), relating to the sale by the Company to you of $2,014,000,000 aggregate principal amount at maturity of its Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the "Securities") to be issued under an indenture, dated as of March 25, 1998 (the "Indenture"), between the Company and The Bank of New York, as trustee (the "Trustee").

This opinion is being furnished to you pursuant to Section 5(c) of the Purchase Agreement. Capitalized terms used and not otherwise defined herein shall have the respective meanings set forth in the Purchase Agreement.

In connection with this opinion, we have examined originals or copies (including facsimile transmissions), certified or otherwise identified to our satisfaction, of (i) the final offering memorandum, dated March 19, 1998, relating to the Securities (including the document incorporated by reference therein, the "Offering Memorandum"); (ii) an executed copy of the Purchase Agreement; (iii) the form of the Securities and a specimen certificate thereof and a specimen certificate evidencing the Company's common stock, par value $0.01 per share (the "Common Stock"); (iv) an executed copy of the Indenture; (v) an executed copy of the Registration Rights Agreement, dated March 25, 1998, between the Company and the Initial Purchaser (the "Registration Rights Agreement");(vi) the Certificate of Incorporation of the Company, as currently in effect (the "Certificate of Incorporation"); (vii) the By-laws of the Company, as currently in effect (the "By-laws"); and (viii) certain resolutions of the Board of Directors of the Company and of a Pricing Committee established by the Board of Directors of the Company. We have also examined originals or copies, certified or otherwise identified to our satisfaction, of such records of the Company and such agreements, certificates or receipts of public officials, certificates of officers or other representatives of the Company, and such other documents, certificates and records as we have deemed necessary or appropriate as a basis for the opinions set forth herein. The Purchase Agreement, the Indenture and the Registration Rights Agreement are hereinafter referred to collectively as the "Transaction Documents."

In our examination, we have assumed the legal capacity of all natural persons, the genuineness of all signatures, the authenticity of all documents submitted to us as originals, the conformity to original documents of all documents submitted to us as certified, conformed, facsimile or photostatic copies, and the authenticity of the originals of such copies. In making our examination of documents executed or to be executed by parties other than the Company, we have assumed that such parties had the power, corporate or other, to enter into and perform all obligations thereunder and have also assumed the due authorization by all requisite action, corporate or other, and execution and delivery by such parties of such documents and that such documents constitute the valid and binding obligations of such parties. As to any facts material to the opinions expressed herein which we did not independently establish or verify, we have relied upon oral or written statements and representations of officers and other representatives of the Company and others.

For the purposes of this opinion, the term (i) "Applicable Laws" means the Delaware General Corporation Law (the "DGCL") and those laws, rules and regulations of the State of New York and the United States of America, in each case, which, in our experience, are normally applicable to transactions of the type contemplated by the Transaction Documents (other than the United States federal securities laws, state securities or Blue Sky laws, antifraud laws and the rules and regulations of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc.), but without our having made any special investigation with respect to any other laws, rules or regulations; (ii) "Applicable Contracts" means those agreements and instruments listed on Schedule I hereto; (iii) "Applicable Orders" means those judgments, orders or decrees of any Governmental Authorities specifically identified to us by the Company to be applicable to the Company or any of its subsidiaries, as identified on Schedule II hereto; (iv) "Governmental Approval" means any consent, approval, license, authorization or validation of, or filing, recording or registration with, any Governmental Authority required under Applicable Laws, other than any consent, approval or authorization which may have become applicable as a result of your involvement in the transactions contemplated by the Purchase Agreement or because of your legal or regulatory status or because of any other facts specifically pertaining to you; and (v) "Governmental Authorities" means any court, regulatory body, administrative agency, or governmental body of the State of New York or the United States of America having jurisdiction over the Company or any of its subsidiaries under Applicable Laws.

Members of our firm are admitted to the bar in the State of New York, and we do not express any opinion as to the laws of any other jurisdiction other than the DGCL and the federal laws of the United States to the extent specifically referred to herein.

Based upon and subject to the limitations, qualifications, exceptions and assumptions set forth herein, we are of the opinion that:

1. The Company has been duly incorporated, and is validly existing and in good standing under the laws of the State of Delaware. The opinion set forth in this paragraph 1 with respect to the valid existence and good standing of the Company is based solely upon a certificate and telegram from the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware.

2. The Company has the corporate power and authority to own its properties and to conduct its business as described in the Offering Memorandum.

3. The Purchase Agreement has been duly authorized, executed and delivered by the Company.

4. The authorized capital stock of the Company conforms as to legal matters to the description thereof contained in the Offering Memorandum.

5. The Indenture has been duly authorized, executed and delivered by the Company and is a valid and binding agreement of the Company, enforceable against the Company in accordance with its terms, except to the extent that enforcement thereof may be limited by (i) bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, moratorium, fraudulent conveyance or other similar laws now or hereafter in effect relating to creditors' rights generally and (ii) general principles of equity (regardless of whether enforceability is considered in a proceeding at law or in equity).

6. The Registration Rights Agreement has been duly authorized, executed and delivered by the Company is a valid and binding agreement of the Company, enforceable against the Company in accordance with its terms, except to the extent that (a) enforcement thereof may be limited by (i) bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, moratorium, fraudulent conveyance or other similar laws now or hereafter in effect relating to creditors' rights generally, and (ii) general principles of equity (regardless of whether enforcement is considered in a proceeding at law or in equity), and (b) the enforceability of indemnification and contribution provisions may be limited by Federal and state securities laws or the public policies underlying such laws.

7. The issuance and sale of the Securities have been duly authorized by the Company, and the Securities, when executed and authenticated in accordance with the terms of the Indenture and delivered to and paid for by you in accordance with the terms of the Purchase Agreement, will be valid and binding obligations of the Company entitled to the benefits of the Indenture and enforceable against the Company in accordance with their terms, except to the extent that enforcement thereof may be limited by (i) bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, moratorium, fraudulent conveyance or other similar laws now or hereafter in effect relating to creditors' rights generally and (ii) general principles of equity (regardless of whether enforceability is considered in a proceeding at law or in equity).

8. The Common Stock initially issuable upon conversion of the Securities has been duly authorized and reserved for issuance by the Company and (assuming payment for the Securities by you in accordance with the Purchase Agreement), when issued upon conversion of the Securities in accordance with the terms of the Securities and the Indenture, will be validly issued, fully paid and non-assessable and will not be subject to any preemptive or similar rights arising under the DGCL or the Certificate of Incorporation or By-laws. In rendering the opinion set forth in this paragraph 8, we have assumed that the stock certificate evidencing the shares of Common Stock issuable upon conversion of the Debentures will conform to the specimen certificate examined by us and that the transfer agent and registrar for the Common Stock will duly counter sign such stock certificates and register such shares in the share register.

9. The statements in the Offering Memorandum under the captions "The Acquisitions - Acquisition Structure and Agreements", "Description of Debentures", "Registration Rights" and "Plan of Distribution" insofar as such statements purport to summarize the provisions of documents referred to therein, fairly summarize such provisions in all material respects.

10. Although the discussion set forth in the Offering Memorandum under the caption "Certain United States Federal Income Tax Considerations" does not purport to discuss all possible United States federal income tax consequences of the purchase, ownership, conversion and disposition of Securities, such discussion constitutes, in all material respects, a fair summary of the United States federal income tax consequences of the purchase, ownership, conversion and disposition of Securities under current law.

11. The execution and delivery by the Company of, and the consummation by the Company of the transactions contemplated by the Transaction Documents and the Securities will not contravene (i) the Certificate of Incorporation or By-laws, (ii) any Applicable Laws, (iii) any Applicable Contracts or (iv) any Applicable Orders.

12. No Governmental Approval is required for the consummation by the Company of the transactions contemplated by the Transaction Documents or the Securities.

13. The Company is not and, after giving effect to the offering and sale of the Securities and the application of the proceeds as described in the Offering Memorandum, will not be an "investment company" as such term is defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended.

14. Assuming (i) the accuracy of the representations and warranties of the Company set forth in Sections 1(q) and 1(s) of the Purchase Agreement and of your representations and warranties set forth in Section 7 of the Purchase Agreement, (ii) the due performance by the Company of the covenants and agreements set forth in Sections 6(f) and 6(g) of the Purchase Agreement and the due performance by you of the covenants and agreements set forth in Section 7 of the Purchase Agreement, (iii) your compliance with the offering and transfer procedures and restrictions described in the Offering Memorandum, (iv) the accuracy of the representations and warranties made in accordance with the Purchase Agreement and the Offering Memorandum by purchasers to whom you initially resell Securities and (v) that purchasers (other than qualified institutional buyers, as defined in Rule 144A under the Securities Act of 1933 (the "Securities Act")) to whom you initially resell Securities duly execute and deliver to you and the Company an investor letter in the form set forth as Appendix A to the Offering Memorandum, the offer, sale and delivery of the Securities to you in the manner contemplated by the Purchase Agreement and the Offering Memorandum, and the initial resale of the Securities by you in the manner contemplated in the Offering Memorandum and the Purchase Agreement, do not require registration under the Securities Act, and the Indenture does not require qualification under the Trust Indenture Act of 1939, as amended, it being understood that we do not express any opinion as to any subsequent resale of any Security or any shares of Common Stock issuable on conversion thereof.

With your consent, we do not express any opinion as to the effect on the opinions set forth above of any possible violation of or default under the Guaranty Agreement dated as of June 1, 1994 (the "Guaranty") between Sunbeam-Oster Company, Inc., as guarantor, and Continental Bank, National Association, as trustee, relating to the Industrial Revenue Development Notes due 2009 (the "IRD Notes") issued by the Mississippi Business Finance Corporation or any possible cross default to the Credit Agreement dated as of September 16, 1996 among the Company, The Chase Manhattan Bank and the lenders named therein, as amended (the "Credit Agreement"); however, we understand that the Company has irrevocably deposited with the trustee for the IRD Notes all amounts due in respect of the Guaranty and has given appropriate notice of repayment to the issuer of the IRD Notes and we also understand that the Company has delivered to you a certificate to the effect that it will repay all amounts outstanding under the Credit Facility to the lenders thereunder as soon as is reasonably practicable.

In addition, we have participated in conferences with officers and other representatives of the Company and the Targets, representatives of the independent accountants of the Company and your representatives and counsel at which the contents of the Offering Memorandum and related matters were discussed. We did not participate in the preparation of the documents incorporated by reference in the Offering Memorandum but have, however, reviewed such documents and discussed the business of the Company with representatives of the Company. Although we are not passing upon, and do not assume any responsibility for, the accuracy, completeness or fairness of the statements contained in the Offering Memorandum and have made no independent check or verification thereof (other than to the extent specified in paragraphs 9 and 10 above), on the basis of the foregoing, no facts have come to our attention that have led us to believe that the Offering Memorandum, as of its date and as of the date hereof, contained or contains an untrue statement of a material fact or omitted or omits to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading, except that we express no opinion or belief with respect to the financial statements, schedules and other financial and statistical data included therein or excluded therefrom.

In rendering the opinions set forth in paragraphs 5 through 7 above, we have also assumed that the execution and delivery by the Company of the Transaction Documents and the Securities and the consummation of the transactions contemplated thereby do not and will not violate, conflict with or constitute a default under (i) any agreement or instrument to which the Company or its properties is subject (except that we do not make the assumption set forth in this clause (i) with respect to the Certificate of Incorporation, the By-laws or the Applicable Contracts), (ii) any law, rule, or regulation to which the Company is subject (except that we do not make the assumption set forth in this clause (ii) with respect to Applicable Laws), (iii) any judicial or regulatory order or decree of any governmental authority (except that we do not make this assumption with respect to Applicable Orders) or (iv) any consent, approval, license, authorization or validation of, or filing, recording or registration with any governmental authority (except that we do not make this assumption with respect to Governmental Approvals). With respect to the foregoing clause (i) we note that the issuance of the Securities may result in a possible violation of or default under the Guaranty and a possible cross default to the Credit Agreement; however, we understand that the Company has irrevocably deposited with the trustee under the IRD Notes all amounts due in respect of the Guaranty and has given appropriate notice of repayment to the issuer of the IRD Notes and we also understand that the Company has delivered to you a certificate to the effect that it will repay all amounts outstanding under the Credit Facility to the lenders thereunder as soon as is reasonably practicable.

This opinion is furnished to you solely for your benefit in connection with the closing under the Purchase Agreement occurring today and is not to be used, circulated, quoted or otherwise referred to for any other purpose or relied upon by any other person without our express prior written consent.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am the Vice President, Associate General Counsel of Sunbeam Corporation, a Delaware corporation (the "Company"), and have acted in such capacity in connection with the Purchase Agreement, dated March 19, 1998 (the "Purchase Agreement"), between the Company and you (the "Initial Purchaser"), relating to the sale by the Company to you of $2,014,000,000 aggregate principal amount at maturity of its Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the "Securities") to be issued under an indenture, dated as of March 25, 1998 (the "Indenture"), between the Company and The Bank of New York, as trustee (the "Trustee").

This opinion is being furnished to you pursuant to Section 5(c) of the Purchase Agreement. Capitalized terms used and not otherwise defined herein shall have the respective meanings set forth in the Purchase Agreement.

In connection with this opinion, I have examined originals or copies (including facsimile transmissions), certified or otherwise identified to my satisfaction, of (i) the final offering memorandum, dated March 19, 1998, relating to the Securities (including the documents incorporated by reference therein, the "Offering Memorandum"); (ii) an executed copy of the Purchase Agreement; (iii) the form of the Securities and a specimen certificate thereof and a specimen certificate evidencing the Company's common stock, par value $0.01 per share (the "Common Stock"); (iv) an executed copy of the

I have also examined originals or copies, certified or otherwise identified to my satisfaction, of such records of the Company and such agreements, certificates or receipts of public officials, certificates of officers or other representatives of the Company, and such other documents, certificates and records I have deemed necessary or appropriate as a basis for the opinions set forth herein. The Purchase Agreement, the Indenture and the Registration Rights Agreement are hereinafter referred to collectively as the "Transaction Documents."

In my examination, I have assumed the legal capacity of all natural persons, the genuineness of all signatures, the authenticity of all documents submitted to me as originals, the conformity to original documents of all documents submitted to me as certified, conformed, facsimile or photostatic copies, and the authenticity of the originals of such copies. In making my examination of documents executed or to be executed by parties other than the Company, I have assumed that such parties had the power, corporate or other, to enter into and perform all obligations thereunder and have also assumed the due authorization by all requisite action, corporate or other, and execution and delivery by such parties of such documents and that such documents constitute the valid and binding obligations of such parties. As to any facts material to the opinions expressed herein which I did not independently establish or verify, I have relied upon oral or written statements and representations of officers and other representatives of the Company and others.

As used herein, the term "Applicable Laws" means the Delaware General Corporation Law (the "DGCL") and those laws, rules and regulations of the State of New York and the United States of America, in each case, which, in my experience, are normally applicable to transactions of the type contemplated by the Transaction Documents (other than the United States federal securities laws, state securities or Blue Sky laws, antifraud laws and the rules and regulations of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc.), but without my having made any special investigation with respect to any other laws, rules or regulations.

In rendering the opinion set forth in paragraph 6 below, I note that the issuance of the Securities may result in a possible violation of or default under the Guaranty Agreement dated as of June 1, 1994 (the "Guaranty") between Sunbeam-Oster Company, Inc., as guarantor, and Continental Bank, National Association, as trustee, relating to the Industrial Revenue Development Notes due 2009 (the "IRD Notes") issued by the Mississippi Business Finance Corporation and a possible cross default to the Credit Agreement dated September 16, 1996, among the Company, The Chase Manhattan Bank and the Lenders named therein, as amended (the "Credit Agreement"); however, the Company has irrevocably deposited with the Trustee thereunder all amounts due in respect of the Guaranty and has given appropriate notice of repayment to the issuer of the IRD Notes and I also understand that the Company has delivered to you a certificate to the effect that it will repay all amounts outstanding under the Credit Agreement to the Lenders thereunder as soon as is reasonably practicable.

I am admitted to the bar in the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and I do not express any opinion as to the laws of any other jurisdiction other than the DGCL and laws of the State of New York and the federal laws of the United States to the extent specifically referred to herein.

Based upon and subject to the limitations, qualifications, exceptions and assumptions set forth herein, I am of the opinion that:

1. The Company has been duly incorporated, and is validly existing as a corporation in good standing under the laws of the jurisdiction of its incorporation, has the corporate power and authority to own its property and to conduct its business as described in the Offering

2. Each Significant Subsidiary of the Company has been duly incorporated, and is validly existing as a corporation in good standing under the laws of the jurisdiction of its incorporation, has the corporate power and authority to own its property and to conduct its business as described in the Offering Memorandum and is duly qualified to transact business and is in good standing in each jurisdiction in which the conduct of its business or its ownership or leasing of property requires such qualification, (except for jurisdictions not recognizing the legal concept of good standing), except to the extent that the failure to be so qualified or be in good standing would not have a material adverse effect on the Company and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole; all of the issued shares of capital stock of each Significant Subsidiary of the Company have been duly and validly authorized and issued, are fully paid and non-assessable, and are owned directly, by the Company, free and clear of all liens, encumbrances, equities or claims (collectively, "Liens"), except for, as disclosed in the Offering Memorandum, Liens contemplated by the New Credit Facility.

3. The Purchase Agreement has been duly authorized, executed and delivered by the Company.

4. The authorized capital stock of the Company conforms as to legal matters to the description thereof contained in the Offering Memorandum.

5. The shares of Common Stock outstanding on the date hereof have been duly authorized and are validly issued, fully paid and non-assessable.

6. The execution and delivery by the Company of, and the performance by the Company of its obliga tions under, the Transaction Documents and the Securities will not contravene any provision of Applicable Law or the Certificate of Incorporation or By-laws or, to the best of my knowledge, any agreement or other instrument binding upon the Company or any of its subsidiaries that is material to the Company and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole, or, to the best of my knowledge, any judgment, order or decree of any governmental body, agency or court having jurisdiction over the Company or any subsidiary, and no consent, approval, authorization or order of, or qualification with, any governmental body or agency is required for the performance by the Company of its obligations under the Transaction Documents or the Securities, except such as may be required by the securities or Blue Sky laws of the various states in connection with the offer and sale of the Securities and by Federal and state securities laws with respect to the Company's obligations under the Registration Rights Agreement. Although I have had discussions with the Company with respect to the financial covenants contained in the agreements and instruments referred to in this paragraph 6, I do not express any opinion, however, as to whether the execution and delivery by the Company of, and the performance by the Company of its obligations under the Transaction Documents and the Securities will constitute a violation of or a default under any covenant, restriction or provision with respect to financial ratios or tests or any aspect of the financial condition or results of operations of the Company; I understand that the Company has delivered to you a certificate dated the date hereof with respect to such matters.

7. I do not know of any legal or governmental proceedings pending or threatened to which the Company or any of its subsidiaries is a party or to which any of the properties of the Company or any of its subsidiaries is subject other than proceedings fairly summarized in all material respects in the Offering Memorandum and proceeding which I believe are not likely to have a material adverse effect on the Company and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole, or on the power or ability of the Company to perform its obligations under the Transaction Documents or the Securities or to consummate

8. The Company and its Significant Subsidiaries (i) are in compliance with any and all applicable foreign, federal, state and local laws and regulations relating to the protection of human health and safety, the environment or hazardous or toxic substances or wastes, pollutants or contaminants ("Environmental Laws"), (ii) have received all permits, licenses or other approvals required of them under applicable Environmental Laws to conduct their respective businesses and (iii) are in compliance with all terms and conditions of any such permit, license or approval, except as described in the Offering Memorandum or where such noncompliance with Environmental Laws, failure to receive required permits, licenses or other approvals or failure to comply with the terms and conditions of such permits, licenses or approvals would not, singly or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on the Company and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole.

9. The statements in the Offering Memorandum under the captions "The Acquisitions-Acquisition Structures and Agreements", "Management-New Employment Contracts", "Description of Capital Stock", in "Item 1-Business-Environmental Matters" of the Company's most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K and in "Item 3-Legal Proceedings" of the Company's most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K, insofar as such statements constitute summaries of the legal matters, documents or proceedings referred to therein, fairly summarize the matters referred to therein in all material respects.

10. Each document incorporated by reference in the Offering Memorandum (except for financial statements and schedules and other financial and statistical data included therein as to which I do not express any opinion), complied as to form when filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission in all material respects with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission thereunder.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Reference is made to the indenture, dated as of March 25, 1998, between Sunbeam Corporation (the "Company") and The Bank of New York, as trustee (the "Trustee"), relating to the issuance of $2,014,000,000 aggregate principal amount at maturity of the Company's Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures Due 2018.

Attached hereto is an opinion letter of this firm, dated the date hereof, addressed to Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated (the "Initial Purchaser"), pursuant to Section 5(b) of the Purchase Agreement, dated March 19, 1998 (the "Purchase Agreement"), among the Company and the Initial Purchaser. In your capacity as Trustee, you are hereby authorized to rely on the opinions set forth in paragraphs 1, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 14 of such opinion letter as though addressed to you, subject to the limitations, qualifications, exceptions and assumptions set forth in such opinion letter.

This letter is furnished to you solely for your benefit in connection with the closing under the Purchase Agreement occurring today, and is not to be used, circulated, quoted or otherwise referred to for any other reason without our express prior written consent.

Very truly yours,

Re: Sunbeam Corporation Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018

Ladies and Gentlemen:

We have acted as special counsel for Sunbeam Corporation, a Delaware corporation (the "Company"), in connection with the sale by the Company of $2,014,000,000 aggregate principal amount at maturity of its Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the "Securities") to be issued under an indenture, dated as of March 25, 1998 (the "Indenture"), between the Company and you, as trustee (the "Trustee").

This opinion is being rendered to you pursuant to Section 12.04 of the Indenture.

In connection with this opinion, we have examined originals or copies (including facsimile transmissions) of (i) an executed copy of the Indenture, (ii) an Officers' Certificate (the "Officers' Certificate") pursuant to Sections 12.04 and 12.05 of the Indenture and (iii) an authentication order (the "Company Order") pursuant to Section 2.02 of the Indenture. We have also examined originals or copies (including facsimile transmissions), certified or otherwise identified to our satisfaction, of such other documents, certificates and records as we have deemed necessary for the opinion set forth in this letter.

In our examination, we have assumed the legal capacity of all natural persons, the genuineness of all signatures, the authenticity of all documents submitted to us as originals, the conformity to original documents of all documents submitted to us as certified, conformed, facsimile or photostatic copies, and the authenticity of the originals of such copies. As to any facts material to the opinions expressed herein which we did not independently establish or verify, we have relied upon oral or written statements and representations of officers and other representatives of the Company and others. We have also assumed that you have received the Officers' Certificate and the Company Order.

Members of our firm are admitted to the Bar in the State of New York and we do not express any opinion as to the laws of any jurisdiction other than the laws of the State of New York.

Based upon the foregoing and subject to the assumptions set forth herein, we are of the opinion that all conditions precedent under the Indenture to the issuance and authentication of the Securities have been complied with.

This opinion is given to you solely for your benefit as Trustee under the Indenture and is not to be used, circulated, quoted or otherwise referred to for any other purpose or relied upon by any other person without our express prior written consent.

New York, New York 10036

Ladies and Gentlemen:

We are delivering this letter in connection with an offering by Sunbeam Corporation (the "Company") of its Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the "Debentures"), which are convertible into shares of the Company's common stock, $0.01 par value per share (the "Common Stock"), all as described in the Offering Memorandum (the "Offering Memorandum") relating to the Offering. We hereby confirm that:

(i) we are an "accredited investor" within the meaning of Rule 501(a)(1), (2), (3) or (7) under the Securities Act of 1933 (the "Securities Act") or an entity in which all of the equity owners are accredited investors within the meaning of Rule 501(a)(1), (2), (3) or (7) under the Securities Act (an "Institutional Accredited Investor") able to bear the economic risk of an investment in the Debentures;

(ii) (A) any purchase of Debentures by us will be for our own account or for the account of one or more other Institutional Accredited Investors for each of which we exercise sole investment discretion (and have authority to make, and do make, the statements contained in this letter) or as fiduciary for the accounts of one or more trusts, each of which is an "accredited investor" within the meaning of Rule 501(a)(7) under the Securities Act and for each of which we exercise sole investment discretion or (B) we are a "bank," within the meaning of Section 3(a)(2) of the Securities Act, or a "savings and loan association" or other institution described in Section 3(a)(5)(A) of the Securities Act that is acquiring Debentures as fiduciary for the account of one or more institutions for which we exercise sole investment discretion;

(iii) in the event that we purchase any Debentures, we will acquire Debentures having a minimum purchase price of not less than $100,000 for our own account or for any separate account for which we are acting;

(iv) we have such knowledge and experience in financial and business matters that we are capable of evaluating the merits and risks of purchasing Debentures;

(v) we are not acquiring Debentures with a view to distribution thereof or with any present intention of offering or selling Debentures or the Common Stock issuable upon conversion thereof, except as permitted below; provided that the disposition of our property and property of any accounts for which we are acting as fiduciary shall remain at all times within our control; and

(vi) we have received a copy of the Offering Memorandum and acknowledge that we have had access to such financial and other information, and have been offered the opportunity to ask such questions of representatives of the Company and receive answers thereto, as we deem necessary in connection with our decision to purchase Debentures.

We understand that the Debentures are being offered in a transaction not involving any public offering within the meaning of the Securities Act and that the Debentures and the Common Stock issuable upon conversion thereof have not been registered under the Securities Act, and we agree, on our own behalf and on behalf of each account for which we acquire any Debentures, that if in the future we decide to resell or otherwise transfer such Debentures or the Common Stock issuable upon conversion thereof, such Debentures or Common Stock may be resold or otherwise transferred within the United States or to, or for the account or benefit of, U.S. persons only (i) to the Company or any subsidiary thereof, (ii) to a person who is a "qualified institutional buyer" (as defined in Rule 144A under the Securities Act) in a transaction meeting the requirements of Rule 144A, (iii) to an Institutional Accredited Investor that, prior to such transfer, furnishes to the Trustee for the Debentures (or in the case of Common Stock, the transfer agent thereof) a signed letter containing certain representations and agreements relating to the restrictions on transfer of such securities (the form of which letter can be obtained from the Trustee or transfer agent, as the case may be), (iv) pursuant to an exemption from registration provided by Rule 144 under the Securities Act (if available) or (v) pursuant to a registration statement that has been declared effective under the Securities Act (and which continues to be effective at the time of such transfer), and in each case, in accordance with any applicable securities laws of any State of the United States or any other applicable jurisdiction and in accordance with the legends set forth on the Debentures and any Common Stock, as the case may be. We further agree to provide to any person purchasing any of the Debentures or the Common Stock issuable upon conversion thereof (other than pursuant to clause (v) above) from us a notice advising such purchaser that resales of such securities are restricted as stated herein. We understand that the registrar and transfer agents for the Debentures and the Common Stock will not be required to accept for registration of transfer any Debentures or any Common Stock issued upon conversion of the Debentures, except upon presentation of evidence satisfactory to the Company that the foregoing restrictions on transfer have been complied with. We further understand that any Debentures and any Common Stock issued upon conversion of the Debentures will be in the form of definitive physical certificates and that such certificates will bear a legend reflecting the substance of this paragraph other than pursuant to clause (v) above.

We acknowledge that the Company, others and you will rely upon our confirmations, acknowledgments and agreements set forth herein, and we agree to notify you promptly in writing if any of our representations or warranties herein ceases to be accurate and complete.

DECLARATION OF WILLIAM REID

1. I am William Reid. I was employed by Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated from 1993 to 2003. In that capacity, I have personal knowledge of the matters set forth herein.

2. I am a citizen and resident of the State of New York. I do not own or maintain a residence in the State of Florida, nor do I transact business in person in Florida.

3. I know Ronald O. Perelman. I had one telephone conversation with Mr. Perelman about a potential acquisition transaction involving Sunbeam and Coleman. That conversation occurred in mid-to-late January 1998. I cannot recall any other conversations about the transaction with Mr. Perelman (or any other employee or agent of Coleman, MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings Inc. or any of their affiliated companies) before the closing of the acquisition on March 30, 1998.

4. I called Mr. Perelman in January 1998 to determine whether Mr. Perelman had any interest in restarting discussions with Sunbeam concerning a possible acquisition transaction between Sunbeam and Coleman. Sunbeam and Mr. Perelman had discussed a possible acquisition on December 18, 1997, but those discussions ended on that date.

5. During the January 1998 telephone call, I told Mr. Perelman that Morgan Stanley had been retained by Sunbeam in connection with the proposed acquisition transaction, and that I was calling on Sunbeam's behalf. Any claim that I (or Morgan Stanley) established any relationship with Coleman, MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings Inc., or any of their affiliated companies in connection with the negotiation of the Sunbeam / Coleman transaction would be false.

6. At no time during the January 1998 telephone call did I give Mr. Perelman financial or other advice about the potential acquisition transaction between Sunbeam and Coleman.

7. During the January 1998 telephone call, the only information I gave Mr. Perelman is accurately described on page 2 of Exhibit A to the attached March 30, 1998 letter from Wachtell, Lipton Rosen & Katz.

UNDER PENALTY OF PERJURY, I HEREBY DECLARE THAT THE FOREGOING IS TRUE AND CORRECT.

Re: Trading in the Securities of Coleman Co., Inc., Signature Brands USA, Inc. and First Alert, Inc. (MD-1200)

Dear Ms. Youn:

We are counsel to The Coleman Company, Inc. ("Coleman" or the "Company"). This letter is in response to your letter of March 3, 1998, requesting that Coleman voluntarily provide to the Commission certain information relating to the March 2, 1998 announcement concerning Sunbeam Corporation and Coleman.

The information herein and provided herewith represents a reconstruction of events and was compiled based upon a reasonable review of the documents in the possession of Coleman and reasonable inquiries made by Coleman of its personnel and certain of its legal and other advisors and representatives. The information is based in substantial part on the recollection of the individuals involved, as many of the events leading up to the March 2 announcement were not documented. In addition, although the Company of course seeks to provide the SEC with accurate information, the information included herein and provided herewith was collected on an expedited basis and it is possible that supplementation, correction and/or modification by the Company may be needed in the future.

A chronology of events leading up to the March 2, 1998 announcement is attached hereto as Exhibit A. A list of individuals known to Coleman who had knowledge of a potential transaction between Coleman and Sunbeam prior to the March 2 announcement (other than those already identified in the Chronology) is attached hereto as Exhibit B. In response to your request for the identity of persons from whom the Company received inquiries regarding the acquisition prior to the March 2 announcement:

(i) during a February 27, 1998 telephone conversation between Jerry W. Levin, the Chairman of Coleman, and Timothy B. Horne, the Chief Executive Officer of the Charbroil Division of W.C. Bradley Co., Mr. Horne told Mr. Levin he had heard rumors that Coleman was contemplating a transaction with Sunbeam. Mr. Levin did not respond.

(ii) Marc Shiffman, the person principally responsible for investor relations at Coleman, received several calls from buy- and sell-side analysts, equity holders and bondholders in February 1998, particularly following the February 19 release of Coleman's financial results. During the course of some of those discussions, inquiries were made of Mr. Shiffman regarding the possibility of a transaction with Sunbeam. Mr. Shiffman, who at that time was not aware that any discussion had taken place between Coleman and Sunbeam, does not recall which specific individuals made such inquiries. Mr. Schiffman responded to all such inquiries by stating that it is Coleman's policy not to comment on rumors.

The materials attached hereto bear Bates numbers COLEMAN 00001-COLEMAN 00007, and are marked "confidential." We request confidential treatment for this letter and the accompanying materials pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 1905, 17 C.F.R. § 200.83, and other applicable laws and regulations and further request that these materials not be made part of any public record and not be disclosed to any person.

The information contained in this letter and the accompanying materials is maintained in confidence and is not available to competitors or other parties. In addition, the information has been provided voluntarily in connection with the above-referenced inquiry. We believe that the disclosure of this information could have adverse affects on our client's competitive position and/or would constitute an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Accordingly, such documents are exempt from mandatory disclosure pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(3), (b)(4), (b)(6) and (b)(7), and disclosure is prohibited pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 1905.

If any person (including any government employee who is not an employee of the Securities and Exchange Commission) should request an opportunity to inspect or copy this letter or the accompanying materials, we request that we be immediately notified of any such request, be furnished with a copy of all documents pertaining to such requests (including, but not limited to, the request itself or any agency determinations with respect to such request) and be given advance notice of any intended release so that we may, if deemed necessary or appropriate, pursue any remedies available. If the Securities and Exchange Commission is not satisfied that the information set forth in this letter and the accompanying materials is exempt (or protected) from disclosure pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act, we stand ready to supply further particulars, and we would request in such event a hearing on this claim of exemption.

The requests set forth in the preceding paragraphs also apply to any memoranda, notes, transcripts or other writings of any such whatsoever which are made by or at the direction of any employee of the Securities and Exchange Commission (or any other governmental agency) which incorporate, include or relate to any of the confidential information contained in this letter or the accompanying materials.

If you have any questions about the foregoing, please contact the undersigned at 212-403-1000.

Very truly yours,

Exhibit A

Early Dec. 1997	Albert J. Dunlap (Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Sunbeam), called Ronald O. Perelman (Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Mafco Holdings Inc. ("MacAndrews"), indirectly the largest stockholder of The Coleman Company ("Coleman"), with an interest of in excess of 80%, and a director of Coleman) to talk about a possible transaction involving Sunbeam and Coleman.
Dec. 12, 1997	Jerry Levin (Chairman, Coleman), Paul E. Shapiro (Executive Vice President and General Counsel, Coleman) and Joseph P. Page (Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, Coleman) gave a presentation to David C. Fannin (Executive Vice President, General Counsel and Secretary, Sunbeam Corporation ("Sunbeam")), Russell A. Kersch (Vice Chairman and Chief Financial Officer, Sunbeam) and Peter A. Langerman (a director of Sunbeam) on Coleman's business and potential synergies that could result from a combination of Sunbeam and Coleman. Later that day, Mr. Perelman met with Howard Gittis (Vice Chairman of MacAndrews), James R. Maher (also of MacAndrews), Gordon Rich (of Credit Suisse First Boston ("CSFB")) and Mr. Levin and discussed a potential transaction involving Coleman and Sunbeam. Coleman retained CSFB to act as financial advisor in connection with a potential transaction between Sunbeam and Coleman.
Dec. 16, 1997	Messrs. Perelman, Maher, Gittis, Levin and Shapiro, and William G. Nesbitt and Norman J. Ginstling (both of MacAndrews), Donald G. Drapkin (a director of Coleman and an officer of MacAndrews) and Gordon Rich, Robert Duffy and Stephen Geller (all from CSFB) met and discussed a potential transaction involving Coleman and Sunbeam.
Dec. 17, 1997	Messrs. Perelman, Maher, Gittis, Shapiro, Nesbitt, Drapkin, Rich, Duffy and Geller met and discussed a potential transaction involving Coleman and Sunbeam.

Dec. 18, 1997	Messrs. Perelman, Dunlap and Michael Price (President of Franklin Mutual Advisors, Inc., the largest holder of Sunbeam stock) met in Florida to discuss a potential transaction between Coleman and Sunbeam. Mr. Dunlap indicated an interest in acquiring Coleman in a transaction valued in the range of $18-22 per Coleman share. Mr. Perelman advised Mr. Dunlap that the price was too low and indicated that he would not be prepared to support a transaction at that price.
Week of Dec. 22, 1997	Mr. Price called Mr. Gittis and indicated that Sunbeam might be willing to consider a transaction valued as high as $25 per Coleman share. Mr. Gittis indicated that a proposal at that level would not be of interest.
Early Jan.1998	William Reid (a Managing Director of Morgan Stanley, Sunbeam's financial advisor) called Mr. Perelman and advised him that Sunbeam still had interest in a potential transaction with Coleman. Mr. Reid further advised Mr. Perelman that Sunbeam would consider a proposal that involved the payment by Sunbeam of both cash and stock, and that Sunbeam might be prepared to make an offer valued in excess of $25 per share. Mr. Perelman advised Mr. Reid that he would be willing to discuss supporting a transaction at $30 per share.
Jan. 23, 1998	Mr. Nesbitt met with James B. Stynes, Alexandre J. Fuchs and Tyrone Chang (each from Morgan Stanley) to discuss a potential transaction involving Sunbeam and Coleman.
Jan. 28, 1998	Wachtell, Lipton, Rosen & Katz ("Wachtell Lipton") is retained as special counsel to Coleman.
Jan. 29, 1998	Barry F. Schwartz of MacAndrews telephoned Wachtell Lipton to indicate that a form of confidentiality agreement to be proposed to Sunbeam in connection with the provision of confidential information to Sunbeam will be faxed to Wachtell Lipton for review. Joram C. Salig of MacAndrews faxed the confidentiality agreement to Wachtell Lipton and Paul Shapiro, General Counsel of Coleman, for their respective review. Messrs. Stynes, Fuchs, Chang, Fannin and Kersch met with Messrs. Levin, Page, Shapiro, Maher, Nesbitt and Rich discussed potential synergies that could be created by a combination of Coleman and Sunbeam. They further discussed how the companies might proceed with due diligence and related matters if Sunbeam made an acceptable proposal.

Feb. 4, 1998	Sunbeam entered into a confidentiality agreement with Coleman.
Feb. 6, 1998	Messrs. Stynes, Fuchs, Chang and Robert Kitts of Morgan Stanley met with Messrs. Maher, Nesbitt, Rich and Duffy in New York. The representatives of Morgan Stanley made a presentation reflecting a transaction in which Coleman would be acquired by Sunbeam for consideration of .6017 Sunbeam shares per Coleman share (which was approximately $22 per share), plus warrants that Morgan Stanley valued at $4 per share. Mr. Maher indicated that MacAndrews would not be prepared to support such a proposal and advised Morgan Stanley that only an all-stock transaction that valued Coleman's stock at $30 per share, or an amount slightly lower than $30 per share if the transaction involved a combination of stock and cash, would be of interest.
Feb. 13, 1998	Messrs. Stynes and Kitts called Mr. Maher and said they were making a "best and final" proposal of .65116 shares of Sunbeam stock per share of Coleman (which was approximately $24.50 per share). Mr. Maher again indicated that the proposal was not of interest.
Feb. 18, 1998	During a telephone conversation between Messrs. Maher and Kitts, Mr. Kitts invited a counter-proposal.
Feb. 19, 1998	Following discussion among Messrs. Perelman and Maher, Mr. Maher conveyed to Mr. Kitts by telephone that management and MacAndrews would be willing to recommend a proposal of .789 Sunbeam shares per Coleman share (which was approximately $30 per share). Mr. Kitts called Mr. Maher later that day and proposed .711 Sunbeam shares per share of Coleman stock (which was approximately $26.90 per share). Mr. Maher indicated that he believed that Coleman would be prepared to consider an exchange ratio of .745 shares of Sunbeam stock per share of Coleman stock (which was approximately $28.20 per share).
Feb. 23, 1998	Messrs. Nesbitt, Page, Levin, Shapiro, Duffy and Geller met with Messrs. Stynes, Fuchs and Richard Goudis (Vice President, Finance and Investor Relations of Sunbeam) in New York to conduct due diligence. Later that day, Messrs. Maher, Nesbitt, Duffy and Chuck Ward (of CSFB) met to discuss the potential transaction.

That night, Messrs. Nesbitt, Shapiro, Levin, Page, Maher, Duffy and Steven R. Isko (Vice President - Legal of Coleman) and Messrs. Fannin, Kersch, Kitts, Stynes, Fuchs, Chang and Goudis met at Morgan Stanley's offices. Sunbeam made a presentation regarding its 1998 operating projections.

Feb. 24-27, 1998 — Coleman and Sunbeam, and their respective advisors, negotiated the structure of the transaction, conducted due diligence, and drafted the necessary documentation.

Feb. 24, 1998 — Mr. Levin called the Coleman directors and advised them of the proposed transaction, described the principal terms of the deal, and notified them of a board meeting to be held the following day. Mr. Levin reached all of the directors except Lawrence M. Jones.

Representatives of Coopers & Lybrand visited Coleman's headquarters in Wichita, Kansas on behalf of Sunbeam in order to tour the Wichita plant facility. They were accompanied by Messrs. David Ramone and Joseph Nold, two senior Coleman executives.

Feb. 25, 1998 — By February 25, the negotiations had resulted in a proposed transaction in which each share of Coleman common stock would be converted into the right to receive (A) 0.6258 shares of Sunbeam common stock and (B) $4.40 in cash. The Board of Directors of Coleman met. The meeting was attended by directors Jerry W. Levin, Donald G. Drapkin, Frank Gifford, Ann D. Jordan, John A. Moran (by telephone), Ronald O. Perelman, Bruce Slovin and William H. Spoor (by telephone); representatives of Coleman (Joseph P. Page, Paul E. Shapiro and Steven R. Isko); representatives of MacAndrews (Howard Gittis, Barry F. Schwartz, James R. Maher, William G. Nesbitt); representatives of Wachtell Lipton (Adam O. Emmerich, Paul K. Rowe, Michael S. Katzke); and representatives of CSFB (Gordon Rich, Robert Duffy). Directors Lawrence M. Jones and James D. Robinson III did not attend the meeting. Messrs. Levin and Maher and the outside advisers advised the Board of the history of the negotiations, the structure of the transaction, and various legal and financial issues regarding the proposal. The meeting adjourned with the expectation that the directors would meet again on February 27, 1998 to discuss the transaction further.

Feb. 27, 1998	The Board of Directors of Coleman met to consider the proposed transaction. The meeting was attended by directors Levin, Drapkin, Gifford, Jones, Jordon, Moran (by telephone), Perelman, Robinson, Slovin, Spoor (by telephone); representatives of Coleman (Messrs. Page, Shapiro, Isko); representatives of MacAndrews (Messrs. Gittis, Maher and Nesbitt); representatives of Wachtell Lipton (Messrs. Emmerich, Rowe and Katzke); and representatives of CSFB (Messrs. Rich and Duffy). The directors were updated on the status of the transaction, and were advised that that transaction contemplated that each share of Coleman common stock would be converted into the right to receive (A) 0.5677 shares of Sunbeam common stock and (B) $6.44 in cash. The Board heard presentations from Mr. Levin and the outside advisers regarding the structure and terms of the transaction and related financial and legal matters, and the Board approved the transaction.
Feb. 28, 1998	Coleman and Sunbeam executed a final agreement early Saturday morning.
March 2, 1998	Coleman and Sunbeam publicly announced the transaction prior to the opening of the securities markets.

Q. Sure.

A. Okay.

Q. Can you identify it for me, sir.

A. It was a memorandum that I put together to document the due diligence call from, I guess it's March 12th. Looks like -- I have noted here the request is March 7th, so these dates coincide with the previous exhibit.

Q. Right. The March 7th -- your memorandum indicates, CPH Exhibit Number 123 indicates that Andersen was requested on March 7 to participate in a due diligence call with Morgan Stanley, correct?

A. Right.

Q. And we were just looking at CPH Exhibit Number 31 that set up a date for that call to occur on March 12, correct?

Q Did you do any investigation into Sunbeam's bill and hold practices?

A I don't remember.

Q Have you heard anything about bill and hold in connection with your work for Sunbeam?

A Not during, no.

Q When did you hear of it?

A Afterwards as I was reading in business school.

13:11 Q Okay. What did you read about this --

Did you read anything about the Sunbeam case in business school?

A I read the book. There wasn't a case specifically, but I read his book.

Q Okay. Meaning Mr. Dunlap's book?

A Yes, Mr. Dunlap's book.

Q Did you follow what had happened to Sunbeam after you left Morgan Stanley?

A I saw it in the news, but it wasn't like an intentional effort to follow anything.

Q In connection with the due diligence of Sunbeam that you did, what, if anything, did you discover about 13:12 Sunbeam's treatment of its restructuring reserves?

A I don't remember.

A. No.

MR. CLARE: Same objection.

Q. You've already testified that an analyst's reputation is of critical importance, correct?

A. Um-hm.

Q. Okay, with the benefit of hindsight, you wish your name hadn't been associated in any way with the convertible offering?

A. No, but -- but -- but with the benefit of hindsight, you know, if -- if I felt there was any impropriety or any issue in the numbers, the cash flow, the story, you know, as an equity analyst and a senior one, had I had an inkling that, you know, what was told to me by Sunbeam's management was, you know, an outright falsehood, I would have stopped the process right there.

A. Well, the -- the -- the postmortem is that the revenues and the growth story did not materialize.

Q. Right. So that's the basis of your belief that you were lied to.

A. Yes.

Q. Okay. You said a few minutes ago that the convertible sold very well, so you as a result didn't need to talk to a lot of institutional investors to try and help sell the convertibles; is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Okay. Do you recall the size of the convertible offering initially or -- or as it closed?

A. I don't.

about the events of March 18th?

A. Yes.

Q. Is this the same document that you testified to in your deposition in August -- excuse me -- June of 2000 that you had in front of you when you spoke to Mr. Uzzi on this conference call?

A. I don't remember that testimony, but --

Q. It's not a trick question. It wasn't identified in your transcript and that's why I ask you. Let me try it a different way.

Do you recall receiving only one document from Mr. Uzzi on the -- on March 18th?

A. I don't remember. I think so, but I'm not -- I couldn't be 100 percent sure.

Q. All right. Is any of the handwriting on Exhibit MS 411 yours?

A. Doesn't appear to be, no, none of it.

Q. All right. Could you, as best you can, take me through the conference -- the conference call with Mr. Uzzi which we've identified as the third conference call.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0019324

A. Well, again, I'm not sure I can give you a who said what in any great specifics. But the focus of the call was, okay, what sales are already in -- have been booked? What do those add up to? What sales are in the works that probably will be booked? And where does that leave Sunbeam for the quarter compared with the analyst estimates and with the first quarter of 1997?

And we discussed all of that at great length. A large part of the call related to going down this list of potential orders and hearing from Uzzi primarily -- McDonald didn't say much, as I recall -- from Uzzi why he thought these orders were going to be booked for each of these major accounts.

And he was very optimistic they would be booked. He said he talked to the people out in the field, the sales force. And he was just very confident that this was going to happen.

And he was pretty optimistic that this was going to come within the range of analyst expectations and ahead of last year's -- first quarter of 1997.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q. Did I hear you say -- sorry.

A. And all us questioned him on each of these items. And what makes you so sure of this and that and the other thing, at great length. I don't know how long the call went on, but it was quite a while.

And the Morgan Stanley people asked questions, the Davis Polk people asked questions. I asked questions, Fannin asked questions. And that was it.

Q. Did anyone from Morgan Stanley ask questions?

A. I just said so, yes.

Q. Who on behalf of Morgan Stanley asked -- asked questions?

A. I believe both -- I recall both Bill Strong and Ruth Porat asking questions, saying things on the call. I can't, as I indicated earlier, give you a who said what, when. I just can't do that after six years or six and a half years.

Q. Was Mr. -- strike that.

Did Mr. Uzzi express confidence that he -- that he -- withdrawn.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01932G

Was -- withdrawn.

Did Mr. Uzzi express confidence in this third call that Sunbeam would meet analyst expectations for Sunbeam sales in the first quarter of 1998?

A. He did.

Q. Did he express even more confidence that Sunbeam would meet, at least, sales for Sunbeam's first quarter of 1997?

A. I'm -- I'm not sure about my earlier answer. I think he was quite confident they were going to beat the first quarter of 1997. I don't know -- and he was very confident on that basis, on that.

I'm not sure that he was -- how confident he was about the analyst expect -- estimates, meeting those or beating those. But I think he was -- felt there was a good shot at doing so.

Q. How would you describe Ms. Porat's questioning?

MR. MARKOWSKI: Object to the form.

A. As I sit here today, I can't -- I can't really characterize what she said, as opposed to what I said, as opposed to what --

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

0193271

I don't recall who said what.

But everyone on the call who was sitting in my office, as well as the Morgan Stanley people and the Davis Polk people, asked a lot of questions. They were, you know, challenging questions, probing questions. How can you possibly think that, this, so forth?

Q. You described in your earlier deposition Ms. Porat, in effect, quote, hammering at a point. Do you recall that testimony?

MR. MARKOWSKI: Object to the form.

A. I don't really recall that testimony, but it sounds like her.

Q. Why do you say that?

A. She's -- she's a strong person.

Q. Well, in your deposition on June 16th, 2000, you were asked the following questions and gave the following answers. And this is on page 73, sir, line 12 through 24:

"Q. When Uzzi was going through the numbers on your summary report, did anyone voice the opinion that they didn't believe those numbers?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019328

"A. Well, I think that Morgan Stanley's people, especially Ruth Porat, was of the view that this is all very good, Mr. Uzzi, but there is a real chance you are not going to make these high end numbers the analysts are projecting, isn't there?

She was hammering at that point. He finally had to admit yes. He was trying to convince us that all he was -- all he was going to do to make the numbers."

Was that testimony accurate at the time you gave it, sir?

MR. MARKOWSKI: Object to the form.

A. When I testified under oath, what I say is what I believe, so the answer is yes.

Q. And your -- your description of -- strike that.

I think you described Ms. Porat as a strong person?

A. Very strong person, yes, capable person.

Q. Have you dealt with her -- had you dealt with her before this phone call with Mr. Uzzi?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019329

A. No, no.
Q. Do you recall anything --
A. I'm sorry. I had.
Q. And what was that?
A. I think she was involved, at the time of the Sunbeam board meeting, when the merger -- the Coleman and the other two acquisitions were approved and the financing of them was discussed, I believe. I'm not sure, but I believe.
Q. Do you recall anything that Mr. Strong said?
A. Not specifically, no.
Q. Do you recall anything that Mr. Fannin said?
A. I'll say it again. I don't recall who said what specifically and when. I just recall the gist of the whole thing.
Q. Sometimes when you talk through these things, some things come back. And that's why I'm asking. I'm not trying to make it any longer, but occasionally you do remember something.
Is it -- how was the telephone -- the third telephone conference left on

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019330

March 18th after you went through the items on MS 411?

A. Well, the bottom line was that we weren't confident that there was 100 percent sure we were going to make the analyst estimates. Pretty -- we were pretty confident that we were going beat the first quarter of '97. But since the analysts' estimates were out there and since probably the analysts had reached their estimates based on company information, that we ought to correct it, better put out a press release that accurately gives the best picture of where we are.

So, a public disclosure of some kind was -- was decided upon. And --

Q. Was there any dissent -- I interrupted you. I apologize.

Was there any dissent at the conference call amongst those who were in your office or in the Morgan Stanley locations about the wisdom of issuing a press release?

A. No dissent.

Q. Was the issue of issuing a press release discussed directly with Mr. Uzzi in this phone call?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019231

A. I don't recall -- I really don't recall.

Q. Given the consensus that a press release should be issued, was someone assigned the task of taking pen to paper and drafting a press release?

A. Yes.

Q. Who?

A. Well, it was not so much an assignment, but Fannin, I guess, grabbed a yellow pad in my office and started writing. He produced a draft. We had it typed. People in my office looked at it. I don't recall the specifics of what it said versus what the final thing said.

And I believe we circulated it to the other people who were on the previous call and discussed it with them. Except I don't think -- I don't think I ever called any -- I had any other discussion with Uzzi or McDonald on this subject.

I do recall discussing the press release with the Morgan Stanley people and the Davis Polk people. I'm not sure if we faxed it to them or read it to them or what, but we did discuss it.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019332

Q. Stepping back, Mr. Fannin then -- Mr. Fannin started the drafting process, as you remember it?

A. Yes.

Q. And then you -- your office had the press release typed up; is that fair?

A. Yes.

Q. I will now hand you what has previously been marked as Morgan Stanley Exhibit 504. Do you have that in front of you, sir?

A. I do.

Q. If you care to, please, take a moment and look at it. And, please, look at the footers on the document and in particular --

A. Yes.

Q. Is this document, Morgan Stanley Exhibit 504, a draft of the March 18th press -- or March 19th press release?

A. Yes, that's what it appears to be.

Q. And on the lower right-hand corner of both pages, it has draft March 18, 1998. And I believe it says 11:12 p.m.; is that

In these conferences and face-to-face meetings as you've described them for us, you -- you were acting as legal counsel to Sunbeam, correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you believe at the time, as their legal counsel, that the press release was accurate?

A. Yes.

Q. Based on the information that you had at the time?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there anyone, other than Mr. Dunlap -- withdrawn.

Did you ever speak to Mr. Goudis before the press release was issued about the subject of the press release?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Do you recall sending Mr. Goudis a copy of the press release by facsimile?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Was there anyone on the Skadden Arps team that reviewed the press release, and you've identified Mr. Fernicola and Mr. Shehan as well as yourself, that echoed -- or I letter which we identified in MS 530 as of the date of the closing, March 25, 1998?

A. No reason to believe one way or the other.

Q. Is it customary as -- is it customary to prepare closing binders for something as -- like a debenture offering of a $2 billion face amount of securities?

A. Yes.

Q. Is it customary for your law firm to prepare the closing binder in the manner -- with the indexes such as we have looked at in MS 530?

A. Yes.

Q. Is it customary in a closing binder for a debenture offering, in which auditors issue comfort letters, to include the comfort letters within the closing binder?

A. I don't know, since I don't work on those kinds of things, but I would think so.

Q. Would you, please, look at the pages identified with the Bates numbers ending -- well, I'll tell you what. I'll use the Skadden Bates numbers. They will be a little shorter. Please look at the page beginning with the Skadden Arps Bates number 03767.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

A. 03767, yes.

Q. 03767. Are you there?

A. Yes.

Q. If you'll turn to the -- this -- this is a letter to Morgan Stanley addressed to Morgan Stanley in Skadden's capacity as special counsel to Sunbeam, right?

A. Yes, it's an opinion letter.

Q. It's an opinion letter, right?

A. Yes.

Q. And it's signed at the end, and the last page I see is 03775.

A. Yes.

Q. I have to confess the photocopy is pretty bad here, but is that signed Skadden Arps, just the firm's name? Is that how it's signed?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that the traditional manner in which your opinion letters are provided?

A. I believe so, yes.

Q. Now, according to -- who would have been responsible for preparing this opinion letter to Morgan Stanley?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019336

A. Greg Fernicola and his team.
Q. Okay. Would you ever view this letter before it was signed by Skadden Arps?
A. I might have, but I don't recall.
Q. Please turn to the page marked 03774, again, using the Skadden Arps Bates numbers.
A. Yes.
Q. If you'll look at the first -- the first paragraph, not the first full paragraph, but the --
A. Yes.
Q. Is -- there is language midway down that begins, "No facts." Would you please turn your attention to that.
A. Yes.
Q. Now, that language reads as follows: No facts have come to our attention that have led us to believe that the offering memorandum as of its date and as of the date hereof contained or contains an untrue statement of material fact or omitted or omits to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements therein, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading, except that we express no opinion or belief with respect to the financial statements, schedules or other financial information -- excuse me -- financial and statistical data included therein or excluded therefrom.

Do you see that language?

A. I do.

Q. Is that language a customary language for an opinion letter of this type, assuming that nothing has come to your attention?

A. In my limited experience, yes. It's known as a 10(b)(5) opinion.

Q. That was my next question. Thank you.

All right. You may set this aside.

the original question.

Were you surprised by the events that unfolded after the acquisition transactions were announced?

MR. CLARE: Objection to form.

A. When after?

Q. Well, Mr. Clare has given you a good hint at -- let's be specific about the events.

A. I would have answered the same way.

Q. Were you surprised when Mr. Dunlap was removed from office?

A. I believe I said yes, and let me frame it. We worked for the better part of a year based upon, as I described, a number of interactions with the company, a number of interactions with external sources of information such as reading the public record of newspaper articles and newspaper accounts, very laudatory public investment research, a number of successful large important institutional investors such as Michael Price and others invested in the stock, you know, interaction with the firm and its executives. So it was a surprise when at the end of that overall process, if you want, by the time you find out many months after our direct involvement in the transaction gets -- is terminated, to find out that many of the things you had heard were not as they appear to be, was a surprise and disappointing, which is why I use the word disappointing and I don't say surprise at all.

Q. And again at Mr. Clare's suggestion I want to be specific about the events after your involvement.

A. Sure.

Q. Other than the termination of Mr. Dunlap, were there any other events after your involvement was over that you found surprising?

A. I don't recall. I don't recall both the events and my reaction.

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whose handwriting that is?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you know what any of those numbers signify?

A. I can read Don Uzzi, VP sales. No.

Q. And again, the first you learned of any sales shortfall at Sunbeam was upon the issuance of the March 19 press release, is that correct?

A. I don't remember what a press release says and I'm not sure whether it's a sales shortfall, or even whether the press release that you mention is the one which happened after the launching of the convertible debt, but prior to the closing of the convertible debt. To restate what I said before, I remember there being a press release between those two dates, between the beginning and the end of the convertible debt that talked about something related to the sales, which was -- to describe the way you described it before, lower than generally accepted expectations.

Q. And that's the first you'd heard of that issue?

A. Yes.

(Recess taken.)

FURTHER EXAMINATION BY MR. JOHNSON:

Q. Mr. Fuchs, directing your attention again to CPH Exhibit 76, the cover memorandum refers to a leveraged finance committee meeting to occur on March 20. Did you attend that meeting?

A. I don't believe I did.

Q. Mr. Fuchs, I give you a document that we marked previously as CPH Exhibit 145. I believe you will see and I will represent for the record that Exhibit 145 is the same printed matter as is contained on Exhibit 76. But there is different handwriting. Do you see that?

A. That is in substance my recollection, yes.

Q. And that was time spent at the Del Rey Beach headquarters of Sunbeam?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you form any opinion as to the work environment at that headquarters?

A. Can you define work environment?

Q. Sure. Did the work environment appear to you to be inordinately high pressure?

Q. When you became aware that Sunbeam had failed to achieve the sales results that the March 19 press release had predicted, did you have any -- did you come to the conclusion that you had been, in any way, misled in the communications between Sunbeam and Morgan Stanley?

A. Bob, could you repeat the middle part of that, please.

Q. When you learned that Sunbeam had failed to achieve the first quarter's sales results that the March 19 press release predicted, did you have any sense that Morgan Stanley & Company had been misled, in any way, by Sunbeam with respect to those matters?

A. I don't recall, at that time, drawing that conclusion, given that set of circumstances.

Q. Have you subsequently come to that conclusion with respect to statements that Sunbeam made to Morgan Stanley relating to its first quarter sales performance, that Sunbeam mislead Morgan Stanley?

A. I think it's fair to say, perhaps, moving away from first quarter, but, in general, we had been mislead by Sunbeam management.

Q. I'm focusing on the first quarter situation.

A. Today, I would believe that we had been mislead.

Q. And on what do you base that?

A. Overall, the things that have occurred subsequent to that.

Q. You didn't have any communications with Sunbeam yourself relating to Sunbeam's first quarter sales performance; is that -- is that correct?

A. Not that I recall, no.

Q. Now, the -- I believe I'm correct about this, Mr. Hart, but my understanding is that the last stop on the Sunbeam convertible debenture road show was in Boston.

MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.

A. I can only go based on what is written or typed here, that I wanted to give you a heads-up, so I take this to mean that I received it either shortly before or at the time of public dissemination.

A. No, I don't remember.

Q. Did you have any reaction when you read the press release?

When did you recall that it was first brought to your attention that Sunbeam was having problems with its first quarter 1998 performance?

A. I can't -- I don't know if I recall this or it was in the prior deposition, in reviewing that, but I believe it was at a road show, at the New York road show lunch, that somebody raised a concern that first quarter sales may not be as strong as expected.

MR. CLARE: Objection to form. You can answer.

A. Correct.

Q. So if in fact you were an attendee at the March 10 1998 Equity Commitment Committee meeting, or whatever date that meeting took place concerning the Sunbeam convertible debenture offering, you didn't hear anyone advise the participants in that meeting that there was a problem with respect to Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales, correct?

A. If I was there, I didn't hear it.

Q. Take a brief look, Ms. Porat, at the written report that was provided to the committee. Let me ask this question. You've testified that you didn't learn that there was a problem with respect to Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales until sometime significantly after March 10, correct?

A. It was -- just to make sure I'm clear on what "significantly" means -- it was in that couple of days prior to pricing, so it was within a week that it was -- I don't

Q. You first heard it, according to the testimony you gave at your last deposition session, at the end of the road show, correct?

A. Right.

Q. And the Equity Commitment Committee meeting occurred before the beginning of the road show, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. And you didn't have any knowledge before the road show began that there was a problem with respect to Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Based on that, are you comfortable saying that there is nothing in this March 10 report that alerts any reader of it to a problem with respect to Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales, or would you like to take a moment to look at it?

Q. And it also indicates that the company now expects to realize a loss in the first quarter of 1998. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know what analysts' expectations were as of March 31, 1998 for Sunbeam's first quarter earnings?

A. I don't recall.

Q. That's something you would have been aware of at the time correct?

A. Probably.

Q. You testified previously that it was important to the debenture offering that Sunbeam continued to hit its numbers in the first quarter correct?

disappointment, anger, shock.

Q. Who did you have that initial communication with?

A. I simply recall receiving a fax -- I believe a fax. I believe it was from Mr. Fannin.

Q. What did you do after receiving notice that Sunbeam had failed to meet Wall Street's expectations for net sales for the first quarter?

A. My recollection was I spoke with team members. I don't recall who. I probably spoke with Ms. Porat and I may have spoke with Mr. Fannin as well, but I don't recall specifically.

Q. Was anybody at Morgan Stanley criticized in any way for their performance in connection with work done for Sunbeam in connection with any of the three acquisitions or the financings?

A. Not to my knowledge, no.

Q. One of the things you did after Sunbeam announced that it had failed to meet Wall Street's expectations for first quarter sales was assist Sunbeam in obtaining a new public relations firm, correct?

that what has been accomplished to date has been remarkable and there is room for further improvement. In fact, there are a number of analysts' comments on page 295 that talk about some of these points here and the rationale.

Q. So, you are suggesting that the, one of the bases for the bullet point we were discussing is what other analysts were saying about the company?

A. That could be one of the bases, yes, just reading the book.

Q. Okay.

Can you think of any other bases?

A. Not off the top of my head.

Q. At any point during or prior to February, 1998, did you come across or hear any information suggesting that Sunbeam, in fact, had not undergone a profound transformation?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. As far as you can recall, Sunbeam had a -- an entirely upbeat story through February of 1998?

MR. CLARE: Objection to form.

A. As far as I can recall, I don't remember anything that would suggest anything to the contrary.

And, as I said, there seemed to be evidence in the marketplace that would support that.

Q. Was anyone within Morgan Stanley skeptical about Sunbeam's margins?

A. No.

MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Did you ever hear any skepticism about Sunbeam's projected growth rate?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. Do you recall any meetings with any Coleman or Mafco representatives at Morgan Stanley's offices?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you recall, more specifically, any nighttime meetings with anyone from Coleman or Mafco?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you recall attending any meetings where Mr. Kersh or Mr. Goudis gave any kind of a presentation about Sunbeam's strategic plan?

late February of 1998?

MR. CLARE: Objection, calls for speculation.

A. I don't recall.

Q. You, personally?

A. Not that I remember.

Q. I think we covered this already. You don't have an opinion on whether that is something that typically would be known to Morgan Stanley?

A. Well, as I said, every situation is different. We may or may not have asked that question.

Q. Do you recall anyone discussing whether Sunbeam had engaged in channel stuffing?

A. No, I don't recall that.

Q. Would you recall any discussion concerning Sunbeam's bill-and-hold practices?

A. No.

Q. Prior to the road show, had you heard anything less than fully optimistic about Sunbeam's results?

MR. CLARE: Objection to form.

A. Honestly, I don't recall what I

MR. JOHNSON: This has been marked previously as Exhibit 16.

Q. Other than in a deposition, have you ever seen that document before?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever had any discussions with anyone concerning the document?

A. No. Not that I recall.

Q. Did you ever learn, at any point in the first quarter of 1998, that Sunbeam had accelerated sales from the first quarter of 1998 into the fourth quarter of 1997?

A. No, I don't recall that.

Q. Is that information that would surprise you in any way?

MR. CLARE: Objection to form.

A. I had never seen any evidence at Sunbeam of inappropriate accounting behavior; so -- that is not something that I would have expected.

Q. If you had been told that Sunbeam was accelerating sales from one period into a prior period, is that something that you would want to know more about?

say it more precisely: The focus of activity was on the financing side; and so, I was doing very little, because very little was required.

Q. Did you have a reaction to the press release, upon reviewing it?

A. Um, well -- obviously, announcing that sales were down, um, it is not positive. So, I guess, my reaction was, ah, I was not happy with it.

Q. This press release indicates the company would show a loss for the quarter. Did that component of the press release trouble you?

A. Well, I don't remember what I knew at that time, whether, for example, I already knew that prior to the press release or whether I was finding out from the press release, but obviously announcing that they were going to show a loss, whatever -- that would be troubling.

Q. And surprising?

A. Yes.

Q. After the close of the first quarter of 1998, did you discuss Sunbeam's first quarter results with anyone at Morgan Stanley?

transaction was?

A. No. I just don't remember.

Q. Did you ever form the opinion that Sunbeam management had lied to you?

A. I would say, much after the fact, as I learned about some of the things that happened, I certainly felt that they did not tell us all of the information that they should have.

And the two things that you cited, ah, the idea of -- I don't know the name --

Q. Channel stuffing?

A. Channel stuffing. If that were the case, then that was something that they never told us about.

Q. You say "much after the fact." Is that in connection with media?

A. Yes. As things came out and I read about them, my reaction was that they hadn't told us about it.

Q. Is there any particular member of Sunbeam management that you think was not forthcoming?

A. Well, you know -- no. I guess any one of them could have been forthcoming.

Q. Do you recall that Mr. Dunlap was terminated by the Sunbeam board in June of 1998?

A. I recall him being terminated. I don't recall the date at which he was terminated.

Q. All right, can you place the time when you first began personally to have concerns about the accuracy of these statements in relationship to Mr. Dunlap's termination?

A. Well, first, I never had any concern about the accuracy of these statements because I have just seen them. So are you asking a different question?

Q. Well, I'm asking you, you see these statements?

A. Yes.

Q. I'm asking you if there came a time when information came into your possession that would have caused you to doubt the accuracy of the statements here, and you've indicated that the answer to that is yes because at some time information came to your attention that caused you to believe that the Sunbeam management team may have committed fraud, is that correct?

MR. CLARE: Objection. Misstates the prior testimony. Incomplete and out of context. You can answer the question if you understand it.

A. That is not how I would characterize it, so I'll try and characterize it. Over a period of time, I became aware that it appeared that the Sunbeam management team had engaged in fraud. That period of time was sometime well after the closing of the Sunbeam convertible notes offering. I can't define for you one point in time when I came to that conclusion. It came over a period of time.

Q. Did that process begin before Mr. Dunlap was terminated?

A. I don't remember when it began.

Q. So you can't relate your first concerns about the truthfulness or the accuracy of these statements to the time when Mr. Dunlap was terminated?

Do you see anything on CPH Exhibit Number 35, the March 23 version of the list of bring-down due diligence topics, relating to Sunbeam's views of its prospects for the second quarter of 1998?

A. No. But I would make the point that on this document, you have the comment "Are you still comfortable with your '98 earnings estimate of 180?" which, obviously, would have to incorporate into it a view on the second quarter.

Q. I'm asking specifically about the second quarter.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: This is tape number one of the videotaped deposition of Mr. Barry F. Schwartz in the matter of Coleman Holdings, Inc. versus Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., defendants, in the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County, Florida.

This deposition is being held at 153 East 53rd Street, New York, New York on June 25, 2004 at approximately 9:37 a.m.

My name is Victor Disla from the firm of Esquire Deposition Services and I'm the legal video specialist. The court reporter is Adrienne Mignano in association with Esquire Deposition Services.

Will counsel please introduce themselves for the record.

MR. BEMIS: Lawrence Bemis on behalf of Morgan Stanley.

MS. PAULE-CARRES: Larissa Paule-Carres also on behalf of Morgan Stanley.

MR. MARMER: Ronald Marmer on behalf of CPH, and also with me is Steven Fasman from Coleman.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Will the court reporter please swear the witness.

BARRY SCHWARTZ, called as a witness, having been duly sworn by a Notary Public was examined and testified as follows:

EXAMINATION BY MR. BEMIS:

Q Good morning, Mr. Schwartz. My name is Larry Bemis and I'll be asking you some questions today.

Would you tell the jury your full name including your middle name?

A My name is Barry Frederick Schwartz.

Q How old are you, Mr. Schwartz?

A 55.

Q What is your date of birth?

A April 16, 1949.

Q Are you represented by Mr. Marmer here as your counsel?

A I am.

Q Where do you live?

A I live at 16 Brookside Park in Greenwich, Connecticut.

Q What is your zip code there?

A 06831.

Q And how long have you lived there?

A Since 1999.

Q Do you have any present intention to move from there?

A No, sir.

Q Do you have a listed telephone number in your home?

A I don't know the answer to that. I'm happy to tell you the number.

Q Go ahead.

A It's (203)629-8405.

Q Are you married?

A I am.

Q Does your spouse live with you at that address?

A She does.

Q Are you currently working for MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings, Inc.?

A Yes, sir.

Q What is your title there?

A Executive vice-president, general counsel.

Q How long have you had those titles at MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings, Inc.?

A Since roughly 1992, I believe.

Q When did you start work there?

A In October of 1989.

Q Do you hold any positions in any other companies affiliated with Ronald O. Perelman and the companies that he owns directly or indirectly?

A Yes.

Q What other companies do you hold positions in today?

A The list is too long for me to recall. The position is the position that I articulated that I have at MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings, that is executive vice-president and general counsel.

Q So in all of the companies that you hold a position, that position is executive vice-president and general counsel?

A Yes, but if I'm remembering your question, I think you used the word affiliated, did you say?

019820

Page 9

Q Yes.
A We have an interest, that is MacAndrews & Forbes has an interest in a company called Scientific Games, and that company I am not an officer but I am a director.
Q As you sit here today, are you the executive vice-president and general counsel of Coleman (Parent) Holding, Inc., one of the parties to this litigation?
A I believe so, yes, sir.
Q What is your office address today?
A 35 East 62nd Street, New York, New York 10021.
Q I understand your office is just down the hall from the offices of Mr. Drapkin; is that correct?
A Yes, sir, it's the third floor of a five-story building.
Q Did Mr. Shapiro have an office on that floor at one time?
A No, sir.
Q Mr. Slovin?
A Yes, I believe he did.
Q Mr. Gittis?

Page 10

A No, he did not.
Q Mr. Maher?
A Yes, I think he did, yes.
Q Does Mr. Perelman have an office on that floor?
A No, he does not.
Q Is he in the same building?
A Yes.
Q Is he above those floors?
A No, he is on the second floor.
Q Do you see Mr. Perelman on a regular basis?
A I do.
Q Every day, if he is in the office?
A Virtually every day if he is in the office.
Q Do you see Mr. Maher on a regular basis if he is in the office?
A When he was with us, if he was in the office, likely I would see him.
Q When did Mr. Maher leave us, as you put it?
A I meant to say MacAndrews & Forbes, sorry. I'm not certain, but I think it was at least three years ago.

Page 11

Q Where is he today?
A I don't know the answer to that.
Q Where is the last place you knew he was?
A He was at a private equity fund, the name of which I don't remember, which was located here in New York on Park Avenue.
Q Is Mr. Nesbitt still with MacAndrews & Forbes?
A No, he is not.
Q Where is he today?
A I don't know the answer to that.
Q Where is the last place you recall him working?
A He was working with Mr. Maher at that same Park Avenue address.
Q And did Mr. Nesbitt and Mr. Maher leave MacAndrews & Forbes at about the same time, three years ago?
A At or about the same time, although my recollection is that Mr. Nesbitt left earlier than Mr. Maher.
Q Have you ever had your deposition taken before?
A Yes, I have.

Page 12

Q So you understand that you're being videotaped, correct?
A Yes.
Q And you understand that your videotape can be played back to the jury?
A Yes.
Q And you understand too that you are under oath and that oath you took this morning has the same force and effect as if you were testifying in court?
A Yes, sir.
Q Is there any reason you can think of today that you cannot testify truthfully?
A No.
Q Any medication that might affect your memory?
A I read that Lipitor might affect your memory.
Q I'm taking it too.
A We'll both joust with memory.
Q Anything else?
A No, sir.
Q Did you have an opportunity to consult with Mr. Marmer before you came here this morning?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019821

A Sure.
Q Now, you're a lawyer, aren't you?
A I am.
Q And I understand you graduated from Georgetown Law Center 1974; is that right?
A That's right.
Q Where are you licensed to practice today?
A I'm licensed in the state of Illinois, the state of Pennsylvania and the state of New York.
Q When were you licensed to practice in Illinois?
A 1974.
Q And Pennsylvania, the same year?
A Yes, sir.
Q And when were you licensed to practice in New York?
A 1991, '92, I'm not certain.
Q Are you licensed to practice in all of those states today?
A I'm not sure of the answer to that. I think I maintain a current license but I'm not sure about active versus inactive status and what that means with regard to being able to practice.

Q Are you allowed to practice actively in New York today?
A Yes, sir.
Q I asked you earlier if you had an opportunity to meet with Mr. Marmer and you were kind enough to tell me that you had.
How long did you have a chance that meet with him?
A This morning?
Q Either this morning or before in preparation of your deposition?
A I was mindful of the question when you asked me this morning, about five minutes this morning. I have met with Mr. Marmer numerous times over the years that we have worked together.
Q I'm focusing on your deposition today, whether it be at an earlier session that we didn't make because of inclement weather or other reasons, how much time did you spend preparing for your testimony?
A We met on two occasions, and the total number of hours, given the interruptions that I forced upon Mr. Marmer, is somewhere between three and four.

Q Did you review documents with Mr. Marmer?
A There were some documents that we looked at, yes.
Q What documents did you look at to prepare for your deposition?
A I recall the complaint in this matter, a complaint that was filed by Morgan Stanley.
Q The Senior Funding case?
A I'm not certain of the caption.
Q Okay. Go ahead.
A A comfort letter, two comfort letters from Arthur Anderson addressed to Morgan Stanley and a press release of March 19th. There may have been some other documents I'm not recalling them now. If I do recall them as we sit here today, I'll try and supplement my answer.
Q Have you seen the comfort letters --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q Let me show you two comfort letters and then I will ask you a couple of brief questions about them.

A Sure.
MR. BEMIS: May I see MS 9 and MS 10, please.
Q I'll show you first Morgan Stanley Exhibit 9, which was previously marked at a deposition earlier in the case and this letter is dated March 19, 1998.
Is this one of the comfort letters that you saw in your deposition preparation?
A Yes, sir.
Q I'm going to show you now --
A It didn't have this nice stamp on it, I don't remember, but this is a copy of what I did see, yes.
MR. BEMIS: Just for the record, all of us being lawyers know that what you are referring to is just the deposition exhibit sticker that were placed on after the document was produced.
Q I'll show you what was previously marked as Morgan Stanley 10.. Do you have that in front of you?

A I do.
Q That is a letter dated March 25, 1998 from Arthur Anderson and addressed to Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc.
Is this one of the two comfort letters that you saw?
A Yes, sir.
Q You may set those aside for now.
In fact, why don't you return them to me and I'll give them back to you at a later point when we talk about them in detail.
A Thank you.
MR. BEMIS: Let me see the press release, MS 39, I think.
Q I'm going to hand you what has been previously marked as MS 39, which has been identified as a copy of a Sunbeam press release dated March 19, 1998.
Is that the press release that you saw?
A Yes, it is.
Q You may hand that back to me.
Have you given testimony in any litigation related to the Sunbeam Coleman acquisition, whether it be in an administrative proceeding such as before the SEC or in a shareholder litigation, bankruptcy proceeding, anything at all?

A No.
Q So this is the first time you have been under oath since 1998 in all of these cases?
A First time I have been asked.
Q First time you have been asked the question?
A Yes.
Q So this is the first testimony that you have given under oath concerning the Sunbeam Coleman acquisition in any of the litigation that has ensued therefrom?
A Yes, sir.
Q Well, let's get to the merits then.
You attended the board of directors meetings of The Coleman Company, Inc. in 1998 when the merger documents were considered and eventually approved, did you not?
A I don't have a very clear

recollection, but I did attend a meeting of the Coleman board in connection with this transaction, yes.
Q Let me show you first what's been marked as Morgan Stanley 88. These are the minutes of the board of directors previously marked for The Coleman Company, Inc. on February 25, 1998.
Do you have those in front of you?
A I do.
Q Did you attend this meeting as shown on the first page of the minutes?
A The first page reflects me being in attendance. And as I say, I recall attending one meeting of the Coleman board and this, perhaps, was it.
Q Would you please take a minute or whatever time is appropriate, skim through the minutes until you're satisfied that you're comfortable with them, and tell me if this refreshes your recollection whether this meeting was the one that you remember attending?
A Thank you.
Q Having reviewed those minutes, are those the minutes of the board of directors meeting of The Coleman Company, Inc. that you attended in February of 1998?

Page 20

A They purport to be minutes of a Coleman board meeting, and I believe that this is the meeting that I attended, yes.
Q And in what capacity did you attend the meeting?
A I attended in my role as an officer of MacAndrews & Forbes and Coleman Holdings.
Q Coleman Holdings, CLN Holdings?
A Coleman (Parent) Holdings, the ultimate Coleman holding company.
Q You didn't have any position with The Coleman Company, Inc., did you?
A I did not.
Q Did you have a position with Coleman Worldwide Corporation?
A I don't think so but I'm not certain.
Q And you did have a position with CLN Holdings, Inc., correct?
A It's probably right, yes.
Q And going upstream, then you also had the position as general counsel and executive vice-president with Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc.?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019823

A That's probably also correct.
Q Did you regularly attend Coleman company board meetings about this time, say, 1997, 1998?
A Probably not, as I think some of these meetings were in that period held in either Wichita, Kansas or some earlier period in Colorado.
Q Where was this meeting held other than I know it was in New York City?
A According to these minutes and my recollection, it is not inconsistent with these minutes at 35 East 62nd Street.
Q And whose offices were they held in?
A 35 East 62nd Street is the corporate headquarters of MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings.
Q Just out of curiosity more than anything, is this the second floor, third floor, where?
A This is the first floor. And if you're really curious, I'll tell you, it's a board room that we have there. The building used to be a school. It was called the Flemming School and the building was acquired in '91. It was converted. And that board room is the former gym of the school, which you would know because of the very high ceilings in the room.

Q Let me show you a document that we will mark as 273.
(Morgan Stanley Exhibit 273 marked for identification as of this date.)
Q Do you have Morgan Stanley Exhibit 273 in front of you?
A I do.
Q And do you recognize these documents?
A I do not.
Q In your position as executive vice-president and general counsel of CLN Holdings Inc. in February of 1998, did you have responsibility for preparing the resolutions for the board of directors of CLN Holdings?
A I guess I can say ultimately the resolutions are my responsibility but I did not prepare these or typically did I prepare corporate resolutions for any of our companies.

Q Who would have prepared MS 273 in the ordinary course of the operation of your legal affairs as you have described them?
A I don't know the answer but it is likely to have been a lawyer working for me within MacAndrews & Forbes, Coleman, CLN Holdings Inc. or outside counsel in this case, Wachtell, Lipton.
Q Based on these documents which have been produced in the litigation, have you had a brief opportunity to review them?
A I just looked at them as you requested.
Q And based on your position as being the general counsel and executive vice-president of CLN Holdings Inc. at the time, these resolutions are dated and the consent attached thereto on the first page, do these appear to be true and correct copies of all of the resolutions dated as of February 27, 1998?

Page 24

A I can't answer that for you. I can identify the signatures if you like.
Q Okay.
Whose signatures are they?
A I recognize Mr. Perelman's signature and Mr. Gittis' signature as members of the board.
Q Who were the members of the board of directors as of February 27, 1998 of CLN Holdings?
A According to this unanimous written consent, which I have no reason to doubt, Mr. Perelman and Mr. Guinness were all the members of the board of CLN Holdings.
Q Do you have any reason to doubt the authenticity of these resolutions and the unanimous written consent as they have been produced in this litigation?
A No, sir.
Q Now, having reviewed --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q Having reviewed the documents, MS 273, are these resolutions approving the CLN merger agreement with Sunbeam Corporation?

019824

Page 25

And I'll hand you a copy of the agreement and that may help you.
MR. BEMIS: Can I have MS 93, please.
A May I have your question again?
Q You should have now in front of you MS 93, which is the agreement and plan of merger among Sunbeam Corporation, Laser Acquisition Corporation, CLN Holdings Inc. and Coleman (Parent) Holding, Inc., dated as of February 27, 1998.
A It appears to be yes, sir.
Q Would you please look at --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q Please look at MS 93, which you may refer to as the holdings merger agreement for shorthand because that's the way it's been referred to in the past, and look at the signature pages which appear, and I'm going to refer to the Bates numbers at the bottom of the document, sir, and the Bates number is 7984.
A Okay.
Q Is that your signature, sir, that appears below the heading CLN Holdings Inc.?

Page 26

A Yes, it is.
Q And did you place your signature there on or about February 28, 1998?
A I have no clear recollection of that, but this document suggests that I did and I have no reason to doubt it.
Q And the next signature block is for Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc.
Is that your signature that appears there?
A It is my signature.
Q And did you sign on behalf of Coleman (Parent) Holding, Inc. on or about February 28, 1998?
A It certainly looks like I did.
Where are you getting this February 28th date?
Q I think the documents are drafted as of the 27th but they were signed on the morning of Saturday, February 28th, but if I'm incorrect in that, you can tell me.
A I can't tell if you're incorrect. Is there something in the documents that tells you that?
Q There is other testimony that they were dated on a Saturday.

Page 27

A I did see that as of February 27th.
Q If you think it's a different date, you let me know. The most important thing is that is your signature, right?
A Yes.
Q In both instances you signed MS 93 and you were acting in your official capacity as executive vice-president of Coleman, Inc.?
A Yes, sir.
Q Were you acting as general counsel as well?
A I was general counsel as well.
Q Did you read the merger agreement, MS 93, before you signed it?
A I'm sure that I did but I don't have a memory of that now.
Q If you had any questions after you read it, MS 93, and before you signed it, would it have been your practice to ask your legal counsel, outside legal counsel your questions and obtain answers?
A Either I would have asked

questions or lawyers working for me would have asked questions or we would have talked about issues amongst ourselves as drafts of this document were prepared. But I'm certain at the time when I signed this document on behalf of those two entities, any issues that we had with respect to the document had been resolved.
Q To your knowledge, were there any face to face meetings of the CLN board of directors in connection with MS 93? And again, face to face meetings as opposed to meetings by written consent, such as we have discussed in Exhibit MS 273.
MR. MARMER: You mean CLN Holdings board?
Q I thought that's what I said. I meant the CLN Holdings board.
Let me put the question to you again. It might be confusing later when we read it back.
Are you aware of any face to face meetings of the CLN Holdings board in connection with the approval of MS 93, the merger agreement?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019828

Page 29

A As we said to each other a few minutes ago, the CLN Holdings board was Mr. Perelman and Mr. Gittis. They both have offices on the second floor of 35 East 62nd Street. They meet and confer with each other on a daily, sometimes seemingly continuous basis.

And to the extent that they had a conversation, discussion about this document, one might consider that to be a meeting.

If you're looking for a meeting that had minutes attached to it, I'm not recalling any such meeting. If you show me the minutes, it might refresh me.

(Morgan Stanley Exhibit MS 274 - Document dated 2-27-98 marked for identification as of this date.)

Q Let me show you now what's been marked by the reporter as MS 274.

I've handed you now what the reporter has marked as MS 274, which is entitled Resolutions of the Board of Directors Coleman Worldwide Corporation approving proposed merger transactions and related agreements dated February 27, 1998.

Do you have that in front of you?

A I do.

Q Now, at the time of this document --

MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.

Q As of February 27, 1998, as I recall your testimony, you thought you were the executive vice-president and general counsel of Coleman Worldwide Corporation but you weren't sure.

Do I have that right?

A Yes, likely I was but I'm not remembering it.

Q The copy of the minutes that I have -- excuse me, the resolution that I have provided to you, do not have attached to it a cover page similar to MS 273, which was the approval by the directors without a meeting.

Were these resolutions of Coleman Worldwide Corporation approved by the board of directors of Coleman Worldwide?

A I'm certain that they would have been, sure.

Page 31

Q Who were the directors of Coleman Worldwide Corporation on February 27, 1998?

A I don't remember specifically.

Q When you -- now I lost my train of thought.

A Sorry.

Q That's okay.

How many directors were there of Coleman Worldwide Corporation at this time, February of 1998?

A I don't know.

Q Would it be similar to CLN Holdings Inc., just a couple of directors?

A It could be but I don't know.

Q Let me show you a document previously marked as MS 119, please. This is a document that was filed in a lawsuit by Coleman (Parent) holdings Inc. against Arthur Anderson LLP and Phillip E. Harlow.

Have you seen this document before?

A Not that I recall, no.

Q Did you as the general counsel and executive vice-president of Coleman (Parent) Holdings at the time that this document was dated, which is January 2, 2002, did you review filings that were submitted to the court in this action against Arthur Anderson and on behalf of Coleman (Parent) Holdings?

A Yes, but not all.

Q Did you review these documents?

A I don't recall that I did.

Q Turn to page four of the document which is Bates numbered CPH 1315402.

Are you there?

A Yes, sir.

Q Read paragraph seven to yourself, please?

A Okay.

Q Before I ask you a question about that paragraph, this document is signed by Mr. Jack Scarola or John Scarola, if you will, on page nine; do you see that?

A I do.

Q Do you know Mr. Scarola?

A Yes, I do.

Q Is he an attorney retained by Coleman (Parent) Holdings in the matter that Coleman (Parent) Holdings brought against Arthur Anderson LLP and Phillip E. Harlow?

928610

Page 33

A He was.
Q He was authorized to speak on behalf of Coleman (Parent) Holdings in court?
A He was.
Q Focus please beginning with the third sentence starting with "this case," do you see that?
A Yes, sir.
Q That sentence reads as follows: "This case involves a transaction negotiated at arm's length by two large sophisticated and publicly traded corporations. Each side was represented by prominent highly paid advisors, Morgan Stanley, Skadden, Arps and Arthur Anderson for Sunbeam and CS First Boston by Wachtell, Lipton. Sunbeam conducted due diligence just like any third-party buyer would do."
Based on your positions in the MacAndrews & Forbes companies, are those true statements?
A Yes, they are true statements.
Q You can set that document aside.
Now, in terms of the advisors to

Page 34

The Coleman Company or --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q In terms of the advisors to those parties relying with the MacAndrews & Forbes group of companies in the Sunbeam-Coleman transaction, did you have any involvement in retaining the law firm of Wachtell, Lipton?
A Yes.
Q What was your involvement?
A I retained them.
Q And did anyone direct you to retain Wachtell, Lipton?
A No one directed me to retain Wachtell, Lipton. I'm certain, although I'm not recalling it, a conversation would have been had with people at MacAndrews and Coleman as to appropriate counsel for the transaction. A conclusion was reached that Wachtell, if they could do it, would be that counsel and I made the phone call.
Q And who did you call at Wachtell, Lipton?
A I called a partner there named Adam Emmerich, E-M-M-E-R-I-C-H.
Q Did the MacAndrews & Forbes side of this transaction, that is the Sunbeam-Coleman transaction, which we will be talking about, retain an investment banking firm?

A Can you repeat that?
Q Did the MacAndrews & Forbes side of the transaction retain an investment banking firm?
A Not that I recall, no.
Q Do you recall the firm Credit Suisse First Boston being involved in this transaction?
A I do.
Q Who retained them?
A I believe ultimately they were retained by The Coleman Company.
Q What were they retained to do?
A I did not retain them. I don't know what, if anything, is stated in an engagement letter, if there is one, but I do recall from the minutes that you showed me this morning, that they did present at the board of directors' meeting on February 25th, if I'm recalling the date correctly, to the Coleman board.

Page 36

Q They presented what?
A They presented an analysis of this transaction.
Q Did you have any role in the drafting of the engagement letter between Credit Suisse First Boston and The Coleman Company, Inc.?
A I don't think so.
Q Did you have to approve it?
A If I did, I'm not remembering it, but I doubt it.
Q If I am mistaken, my recollection is Mr. Shapiro was the executive vice-president and general counsel of The Coleman Company, Inc. in 1998?
A Indeed he was.
Q On legal matters did he report up through you?
A On legal matters involving The Coleman Company. Ultimately he reported to the CEO of The Coleman Company with regard to our interaction with Coleman, yes, I would have conversations with and deal with Paul.
Q In terms of the MacAndrews &

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019827

Page 37

Forbes side of the same transaction, did anyone on that side have an accounting representative or advisor would be a better term?
A I'm not sure I understand the question.
Q Fair enough. It was probably poorly phrased.
On your side, that is the MacAndrews & Forbes side of the Sunbeam transaction, was there an accounting firm retained to provide financial or accounting advice for the transaction?
A I don't think so.
Q Did The Coleman Company have as their auditors at the time of the transaction Ernst & Young LLP?
A I believe so.
Q And they did annual audits of the company's financial statements?
A Yes, sir.
Q And who is responsible for the public filings of The Coleman Company, Inc. in 1997, such as, for example, a 10-K or a 10-Q or an 8-K? Who would do that?

Page 38

A The Coleman Company.
Q And would that be Mr. Shapiro's responsibility as the general counsel and executive vice-president?
A Well, he certainly played a role, as did the chief financial officer of The Coleman Company. And in connection with audited financials included in any public filing, the outside auditor would have played a role, and then, of course, the board.
Q And my question may not have been clear and let me try it one more time.
In terms of public filings, given the MacAndrews & Forbes organization that you at least partially laid out for me, were the public filings for The Coleman Company, which was a public company, were they handled executively within The Coleman Company or did they also utilize the services of other people within the MacAndrews & Forbes chain of companies?
A I think it would only be fair to say that they utilized the services. Although we participated from time to time in dealing with issues. There would be issues. We would review public filing. We were 80 or 81 percent shareholder of the company, so we had a keen interest in the company and various offices, directors of MacAndrews & Forbes were also directors of The Coleman Company.

Q I'll take just one example and we'll move on to a different topic.
The Coleman Company, Inc. would file annual reports on form 10-K each year, correct?
A Yes, sir.
Q Taking the year 1997 just as an example, would the 10-K for The Coleman Company before it was filed, would it be reviewed outside of The Coleman Company, Inc. by someone higher up within the MacAndrews & Forbes organization?
A Well, I'll take issue with the higher up part. The answer is that there were directors at The Coleman Company who would be responsible for that 10-K at MacAndrews & Forbes.
And as a result, we paid, I paid from time to time attention to public filings before they were filed, yes, sir. Whether I paid attention to that particular public filing which you used in your example, I'm not recalling.

Q Let me ask you something, just kind of some general questions about Morgan Stanley, and I'm going to limit myself to a very particular time frame and it will be after February 27, 1998 up until the closing of the CLN Holdings transaction, which the record established is March 30th of 1998.
Do you recall the closing?
A I don't recall the closing. I have a date in mind, yes.
Q Did you have any meeting with Morgan Stanley between February 27, 1998 and March 30th?
A I don't think so, no.
Q Any correspondence with Morgan Stanley during that same time period?
A None that I remember, no.
Q Did you participate in any conference calls with Morgan Stanley in that same time period, February 27th to March 30,

928610

Page 41

1998?
A I think not.
Q Did you use e-mail during this time period of 1998?
A I don't know. It may be a little early for me.
Q Do you recall receiving any e-mails between yourself or among yourself and others at Morgan Stanley between February 27th and March 30, 1998?
A No, I do not recall.
Q Let's go forward after the closing. March 30, 1998 -- let's go up to, say, July 1st of 1998.
Did you have any communications of any kind with Morgan Stanley, and I'll include in that documents, telephone calls, conference calls, e-mails, facsimiles; anything that you can remember?
A No, but as I'm sitting here now, I did from time to time see in our offices and, therefore, would have had conversation with Bill Reid from Morgan Stanley. Whether I did at that time, that earlier time frame and the current time frame we're talking about, I don't remember.

Q Were any of these conversations with Mr. Reid that you had, did they involve the Coleman-Sunbeam transaction?
A None that I remember, no.
Q Now, I've asked you some questions about Morgan Stanley now and I probably should have been clear. I wasn't speaking of Morgan Stanley & Co., Incorporated. And I want to ask you some questions now about Morgan Stanley Senior Funding.
Would your answer be the same with regard to Morgan Stanley Senior Funding, and that is that you didn't have any communication with them at any time between February 27, 1998 and March 30, 1998?
A Yes, sir.
Q Okay.
A May I take one of your waters?
Q You may at any time.
MR. BEMIS: Let's take a five-minute break.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 10:30 a.m. and we're going off the video record.

Page 43

(Recess.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 10:38 a.m. and we're back on the video record.
BY MR. BEMIS:
Q I want to ask you a couple of questions about your background before I get into some more specifics on the merger agreement.
I know you told me that you graduated from Georgetown and when you started practicing in Illinois.
Were you in private practice before you went to MacAndrews & Forbes?
A Yes.
Q Who were you with?
A I was a partner in a law firm in Philadelphia known as Wolf Block Schorr & Solis-Cohen.
Q When was that, sir?
A I was at Wolf Block from 1976 until October of 1989.
Q Did you practice between 1974 and 1976?
A Yes, sir.

Page 44

Q Where did you practice?
A I practiced in Chicago, Illinois, the firm at that time was known as Straknof, Schraeger, Jones and Weaver.
Q You and I took the bar exam at the same time at, I bet, Loyola University?
A I took it at a hotel downtown.
Q The old Anderson Hotel?
A Yes.
Q You and I took it together. Congratulations to both of us.
A I flew back to Pennsylvania to take the bar in Pennsylvania the same summer because the multi state was right in the middle.
Q Small world.
When you practiced at Wolf Block, did you specialize in any particular area of law?
A I was a partner in the litigation department.
Q Did you try any cases?
A Yes.
Q What kind of cases did you try?
A An antitrust case involving the price fixing of a product known as consumer bags.

019829

Page 45

Q Did you do -- did you exclusively do litigation work while you were with Wolf Block and Schorr?
A For the most part, although I did, I was involved in matters which were outside of the litigation department for clients of mine. But typically I worked with partners in the firm who had expertise and the disciplines that were called upon.
Q Did you do corporate work?
A Not really.
Q Mergers and acquisitions?
A No.
Q How is it that you came to come to MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings, Inc. in 1989 from Wolf Block?
A In 1984 or '85, one of the senior partners at Wolf Block left the firm to become the vice chairman of MacAndrews & Forbes. That was Howard Gittis.
From roughly that time until I joined MacAndrews & Forbes, I would from time to time be retained by MacAndrews &

Page 46

Forbes in various different matters. As a result of that, and as a result of the perceived need by MacAndrews & Forbes, they approached me in 1989 to join them and to leave Philadelphia and to relocate to New York. And ultimately I did.
Q How would you describe your job today --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q Once you got promoted to the position you have today, which is executive vice-president and general counsel, which is, I believe you said, two years after you came to MacAndrews & Forbes, do I have that right?
A '91, '92, yes.
Q How would you describe your job during this, say, 12 to 13 year period?
A Varied, quite interesting, energizing, exciting. I get to work with a fine group of people, a fine group of outside lawyers on very interesting matters. And I'm one of the few lawyers I know that's happy being a lawyer.
Q Don't include me in the unhappy ones, okay, I'm very happy.

A I don't know you.
Q Fair enough.
I appreciate that you enjoy your job and you work with interesting people.
Can you give me a description of what you do in your job?
A Sure.
I am the chief legal officer at MacAndrews & Forbes and I'm ultimately responsible for legal matters at MacAndrews & Forbes. And in that regard, I pay attention to legal matters and issues concerning the holding company as well as legal matters and issues that relate to the operating businesses in which we have an interest.
Q Do you have ultimately responsibility in-house, if you will, for legal matters related to the holding companies?
A Yes, sir.
Q And do you have legal responsibility in-house for Malcolm & Forbes -- MacAndrews & Forbes' interests in companies that you do not own one hundred percent but own some interest in?

Page 48

A From the point of MacAndrews & Forbes, yes.
Q That was my question.
A Yes.
Q I'd like to show you a chart. It's in a document that was previously marked as 279. I just want to ask if you can confirm the organizational chart that's in this public filing.
I'm going to hand you now what's previously been marked as MS 279, and I'll have to give you the page number, so just one second.
Turn to page 69.
Tell me when you're there.
A I'm there.
Q Sir, this chart is in a document marked as Morgan Stanley 279, which is entitled Coleman Company, Inc. Notice of Merger and Appraisal Rights Information Statements; and below that, Sunbeam Corporation Prospectus.
On page 69 there is a chart or

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019830

Page 49

stating ownership structure before the M&F with an ampersand transaction; do you see the chart?
A I do.
Q And it begins at the top with Mafco Holdings and concludes at the bottom with Coleman Company, Inc.
Do you see that?
A I do.
Q Is that a correct representation of the structure of the holding of The Coleman Company, Inc. immediately before the closing of the CLN merger on March 30, 1998?
A It is.
Q And just directly above Mafco Holdings, if we were to add one more box, would that Mr. Perelman?
A Mr. Perelman, Ronald O. Perelman is the sole shareholder of Mafco Holdings.
Q Then the transaction you worked for then, the next company, MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings, Inc., correct?
A When you say I worked for --
Q You worked for, that's the name on your card?

Page 50

A I'm also an officer of Mafco Holdings and its general counsel as well.
Q And then if we move down to -- was that true in 1998 as well as today?
A It's been true since Mafco Holdings was formed.
Q When was Mafco Holdings formed?
A I knew you were going to ask me that. I don't remember.
Q Then below MacAndrews we have Coleman (Parent) Holding, Inc., one of the parties to this action, and you told us you were an officer of that company as well, correct?
A Yes, sir.
Q And that directors that we identified were Mr. Perelman and Mr. Gettis, correct? Excuse me, that was for CLN Holdings. I misspoke.
A That's right.
Q As I recall, you did not recall who the directors were of Coleman (Parent) Holding, Inc. in 1998; is that right?
A That's what I said, yes, sir.
Q CLN Holdings Inc., we identified

Page 51

the directors, Mr. Perelman and Mr. Gittis in 1998?
A As reflected in that resolution, yes.
Q Moving down to Coleman Worldwide Corporation, that was one hundred percent as it is shown owned by CLN Holdings Inc., right?
A Yes, sir.
Q And then as I remember, you were unsure who the directors were of Coleman Worldwide Corporation, correct?
A That's correct.
Q And according to this chart, Coleman Worldwide Corporation owned 81 percent approximately of the shares of The Coleman Company, Inc., correct?
A Yes, sir.
Q And then the balance of the shares, according to this chart, were owned by what are labeled minority stockholders?
A Yes, sir.
Q And setting aside the Coleman Worldwide holdings, these would be for lack of a better term, public shareholders?

Page 52

A Yes, that's right.
Q Now, is the -- the offices of Mafco Holdings are in New York City at the offices where your offices are today, correct?
A That's correct.
Q And the offices of MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings, Inc., those offices were in New York as of 1998, correct?
A That's right.
Q And Coleman (Parent) Holdings offices, they were in New York as well in 1998, correct?
A I was certainly in New York but I think either Coleman (Parent) or CLN Holdings or maybe both also had an office in Florida.
Q Where was -- did Coleman (Parent) Holdings have an office in both Florida and New York?
A If mail were sent to Coleman (Parent) Holdings in New York, it wouldn't be sent back.
Q Okay, how about if mail was sent to CLN Holdings in New York, would it be sent back?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019831

Page 53

A I'm not sure.
Q Tell me what the business of CLN Holdings Inc. was in 1998 immediately before the merger?
A It certainly owned the ownership interest in Coleman Worldwide as reflected on this chart. Beyond that, I can't tell you as I sit here today what it was.
Q To your knowledge, did it have any operating assets?
A I don't know the answer as we sit here today.
Q Did it have any employees other than offices?
A There were a few employees of either Coleman (Parent) or CLN Holdings, I believe. I'm not sure which. They may have been both in Florida, one by the name of Howard Gordon and I think the other was Dave Cook. And there may have been a few others.
Q What did Mr. Howard Gordon do for CLN Holdings?
A He was a lawyer. From time to time he was asked to do things that lawyers are asked to do. And I can't remember any specific tasks in regard to CLN Holdings or for that matter Coleman (Parent) Holdings.

Q Where did he have his office in Florida?
A He was located in the same building as our cigar business, which at the time I think was called Consolidated Cigar.
Q And Mr. David Cook, what was his job? Was it for CLN or Coleman (Parent), whichever he was employed by?
A His function was an accounting/tax function. And I'm not going to be able to help you as to what, if anything, he did for either of those entities at the time.
Q Did Mr. Howard Gordon also work for Consolidated Cigar?
A I don't think so, no.
Q Did he work for any other company affiliated with Mr. Perelman's companies?
A There was a time when Harold Gordon was employed by Pantry Pride, a company acquired by ultimately Mr. Perelman.
Frankly, I don't remember if Cook worked for Pantry Pride as well. He may have.

Q Can you identify any other employees in Florida other than Mr. Gordon and Mr. Cook who may have worked for CLN Holdings Inc. at the time of the merger?
A There may have been an administrative assistant or two and I'm not recalling, if so, and I certainly don't recall the name of such a person or persons.
Q What was the address of either starting with Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. in Florida, what was the address in Florida, I'm sorry, of their office?
A I think it's a Fort Lauderdale address. After that I can't help you.
Q Just take a look at MS 93 and if you'll turn to page -- I'll give it to you, it's in the notice section, page 30, sir, you'll see an office address of CLN Holdings Inc. 5900 North Andrews Avenue, Suite number 700-A, Fort Lauderdale, Florida, 33309 and then a fax number followed by attention: General counsel.
Do you see that?
A Yes, I do.

Page 56

Q Is that the address of the CLN Holdings?
A The North Andrews Avenue address?
Q Yes.
A I believe so, yes.
Q Is that where Mr. Gordon worked?
A I believe so, yes.
Q Mr. Cook?
A Yes, sir.
Q Isn't that also the offices where the Consolidated Cigar had its operations in New York?
MR. MARMER: Excuse me, I think you misspoke.
MR. BEMIS: May I have that question back.
(Record read.)
MR. BEMIS: I misspoke. Withdrawn.
Q Is that the address that Consolidated Cigar had for its offices in Florida?
A I think so. I'm not sure about the Suite 700-A part, but I think it's the same location as I said. Either CLN

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 57

Holdings or Coleman (Parent) or both had space within the Consolidated Cigar space.
Q Isn't it also true that one of the Revlon entities had an office at that address in Fort Lauderdale, Florida; your international operations for Revlon for Latin America?
MR. BEMIS: Let me withdraw that.
Q Did Revlon's international operations as they pertain to Latin American maintain an address at this same suite?
A I don't know.
Q Was there a general counsel resident at 5900 North Andrews Avenue?
A I don't know unless Howard was called from time to time general counsel but I don't know.
Q Did you have a phone number there other than a fax number for CLN Holdings?
A I'm virtually certain we did but I don't remember the number, but there was a number to call Howard Gordon.
Q Did you have a phone listing in the telephone book?
A I don't know.

Page 58

Q Did you have a business occupancy license for CLN Holdings in Florida?
A I don't know.
Q Who would know those things?
A Howard, Dave Cook or, perhaps, some people within our accounting function.
Q Where is Mr. Gordon today?
A I think he is still in Florida.
Q And does he still work for MacAndrews & Forbes?
A No, I think he is retired.
Q Did he work for a law firm as well as for CLN Holdings?
A I don't know but I don't think so.
Q Do you know where he is retired in Florida?
A I would just be guessing. I don't know.
Q Realizing you may not know, what's your best guess as to where he might be in Florida? If he is not there, we won't find him. If he is, it may be helpful.
A I think he is in Florida. I don't have a best guess as to where in Florida he is.

Page 59

Q Where is the last place that you knew him to be resident?
A I don't think I ever knew where he resided.
Q How about David Cook, is he still an employee of any of the MacAndrews & Forbes companies?
A I don't believe so, no.
Q Is he still alive?
A I don't know.
Q Do you know where he --
MR. BEMIS: Strike that.
Q When did he cease working for one of the MacAndrews & Forbes companies?
A Sometime after -- I think after 1999, but I'm not sure when.
Q Do you know what he did after he left MacAndrews & Forbes?
A No, I don't.
Q Did Gordon go to Faller White in Miami, the law firm Faller White?
A I don't know.
Q Is the last place of residence that you -- excuse me, the last place that you could associate with Mr. Cook is in the

Page 60

Fort Lauderdale office address that you gave us?
A Yes.
Q Do you know why Mr. Cook left sometime after 1999?
A No.
Q Can you tell me any other --
MR. BEMIS: Strike that.
Q Other than Mr. Gordon and Mr. Cook and, perhaps, an administrative assistant, do you recall any other employees at any time of CLN Holdings Inc., employees now not directors and not an officer such as yourself, if you were an officer?
A No.
Q And as I understand your testimony, the only asset you can think of that was held by CLN Holdings was Coleman stock, and if there were others, you don't remember them; is that right?
A If there are others, I don't remember them. That's correct.
Q Did CLN Holdings ever go by another name such as Coleman Escrow Corporation?

Page 61

A I don't know.
Q Do you know Mr. Joram Salig, S-A-L-I-G?
A Yes.
Q Did I pronounce his name right?
A No.
Q How do you pronounce it?
A Joram Salig.
Q Is Mr. Joram Salig still employed by one of the MacAndrews & Forbes companies?
A He is not.
Q Is he retired?
A He retired from MacAndrews & Forbes. What he is doing today, I'm not certain.
Q When did he leave MacAndrews & Forbes?
A I want to say three or four years ago. It might have been five years ago.
Q What was his position within the organization?
A He was a member of my legal staff.
Q Was he terminated or did he resign?
A We had a reduction in force and

Page 62

Joram was not unhappy about being part of that reduction in force at the time.
Q What was his title when he left the MacAndrews & Forbes group of companies in this reduction of force?
A He was vice-president in law, I believe.
Q Was he also the assistant secretary of CLN Holdings Inc.?
A He may have been.
Q Was he always stationed, was his office always in New York for CLN Holdings?
A He had an office in New York. Whether he had space available to him in Florida, I don't know.
Q Can you identify any specific business of CLN Holdings Inc. that was conducted out of the office at I think it's 5900 North Andrews Avenue in Fort Lauderdale?
A Well, I think the books and records of CLN Holdings were maintain there, and I think various reports and filings and whatnot that had to be prepared and maintained by CLN Holdings either were prepared there or drafts prepared there. And from time to time odd matters that would come up regarding CLN Holdings would have been dealt with down there.

Q Did you ever go to those offices?
A Yes, sir.
Q And did you ever conduct any business of CLN Holdings there?
A That I can't remember.
Q Were there ever any board of directors meetings for CLN Holdings held in Florida that you remember?
A None that I remember, no.
Q And your testimony is that -- who was the secretary of CLN Holdings Inc. in 1998?
A I don't know but I wouldn't be surprised if it was Glenn Dickes.
Q Mr. Dickes has offices in New York?
A He had an office in New York.
Q His central office was in New York?
A Absolutely, yes.
Q Was he on the third floor with you?

Page 64

A No, he was in a different building.
Q Different building?
A Yes.
Q And as secretary, Mr. Dickes was responsible for maintaining the corporate books of CLN Holdings?
A I considered Mr. Dickes to be ultimately responsible for that.
Q When we say "books," we're talking about the minute books, resolutions?
A Right, yes, sir.
Q So did Mr. Dickes prepare the corporate records of CLN Holdings in New York and then fly them down or ship them down to Florida for storage?
A I don't know if he shipped them down for storage. I don't know if they were stored there. I don't know if drafts were not prepared in Florida of books and records from time to time.
Q Was Mr. Dickes a lawyer?
A He is.
Q And did he report to you?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 65

A He did.
Q And is he still with the company?
A He is not.
Q Where is he today?
A He is happily retired.
Q Do you know where he lives today?
A I did but I don't know anymore.
He has just moved, I'm told.
Q Where is the last place that he lived before he moved?
A In New York City.
Q Do you know where he has moved to?
A Out of New York City.
Q That's a big area.
A I don't know. It's a town in New York State.
Q But he is in New York State?
A He is in New York State but I don't know the name.
Q Was CLN Holdings Inc. incorporated in Florida?
A I don't know. Would this document tell me?
Q I don't think -- I don't know if it is in there or not. I don't know. Let me look real fast. Fair question.

A I don't mean to hold this up to go look for that. I don't know the answer.
Q Now I'm curious.
It says CLN Holdings is a Delaware Corporation.
A Okay.
Q Did CLN Holdings file a --
MR. BEMIS: Strike that.
Q Was CLN Holdings Inc. authorized to do business in Florida in 1998?
A I think so.
Q So if someone filed the appropriate documentation with the secretary of state, it would be Ms. Harris at that time, that would have been handled, would that have been handled by Mr. Dickes, the secretary of the corporation?
A Probably by Gordon or Cook.
Q Did CLN Holdings pay its corporate franchise taxes in New York in 1998?
A I don't know.
Q And would that be Mr. Dickes or Mr. Gordon that would know that?
A Or Mr. Cook.

Page 67

Q Did CLN Holdings --
MR. BEMIS: Strike that.
Q Coleman Worldwide Corporation actually held 82 percent or so interest in The Coleman Company, Inc., correct according to that organizational chart we looked at?
A I think that's right, yes.
Q And did Coleman Worldwide have actual stock certificates representing the 82 percent interest, which I think was about 44.1 million shares, if my memory serves me correctly?
A I don't know the answer to that.
Q Well, if there were stock certificates, where were they held, New York, Florida, someplace else?
A I don't know.
Q Don't know?
A I don't know the answer to that.
Q Where the CLN Holdings Inc. being one hundred percent owner of Coleman Worldwide, did it hold stock certificates in Coleman Worldwide?
A Can I have that again, sir?
Q Yes, sir.

Page 68

Did CLN Holdings Inc. as the one hundred percent owner of Coleman Worldwide Corporation have stock certificates representing that ownership?
A I'm sure there was a stock book. Where the stock book was kept, I can't tell you.
Q Where do you think it was kept?
A I don't know the answer.
Q Do you think it was in Florida?
A Could be.
Q It could be Wichita too.
Do you think it was there, do you think it is in Wichita?
A I think it is unlikely to have been in Wichita.
Q Do you think it is unlikely it could be in Florida?
A No, I think it is likely to be in Florida or New York.
Q Who would know if you don't know?
A I don't know.
Q Who does know in the organization?
A I think it was Mr. Gordon, Mr. Cook or Mr. Dickes.

Q None of those people work for you any more, so who would know today, if anyone, in your organization?
A I don't know if anyone today would know if the corporate minute book for CLN Holdings was kept in or about 1998 in the offices of, CLN Holdings offices in Florida.
Q Just going down the list of the companies on that organization chart, I think you still have it open.
A Page 69?
Q Yes.
A Just a couple of more quick questions on that.
Mafco Holdings, did it have any operating businesses or was it just a holding company?
I believe it was just a holding company.
Q And its principal office address was where your office is located today, correct?
A That's right.
Q And was Mr. Perelman in 1998 -- I'm going to try to focus my questions around the time of the merger for you.

Was he the chief executive officer, if you will, of Mafco Holdings?
A Certainly chairman of the board. I don't know if he had the title of CEO.
Q Did anyone have that title?
A I don't remember.
Q Do you know who the directors were in 1998 again, Mafco Holdings?
A I don't remember.
Q Do you know how many there were?
A I think there were four or five.
Q Do you know any of the directors at that time, 1998?
A Ronald O. Perelman, Howard Gittis, Donald Drapkin, probably Bruce Slovin, and possibly either Jim Maher or Irwin Engleman, E-N-G-L-E-M-A-N.
Q Did Mafco Holdings have any employees other than its officers?
A When you say "employees," you mean on a payroll?
Q Yes, sir.
A I don't think so.
Q By the way, who pays you today?

A I'm not sure since it's a direct deposit.
Q You know, you're the second person if not the third who says I don't know because it's direct deposit.
Let me ask you another question. At the end of the year, do you get a statement that you can submit with your federal income taxes that shows the income that you have been paid by your employer?
A I do, indeed.
Q Whose name is on that form?
A Certainly the names MacAndrews & Forbes are on the form. After that I'm not sure if it says Holdings or Group.
Q I have to ask, I'm embarrassed but I have forgotten the MacAndrews Group is above MacAndrews?
A Mafco Holdings is the top tier holding company.
Q When you said "Holdings," you were referring to Mafco Holdings?
A I'm not sure if I was. I don't know the context of the question.
Q Where your income is.

A MacAndrews & Forbes Holding, Inc. or MacAndrews & Forbes Group when you were asking about my W-2.
Q Where does MacAndrews & Forbes Group -- is that the name of the entity?
A Yes, MacAndrews & Forbes Group.
Q Inc., Co.?
A I think it's Inc.
Don't ask me about the comma.
Q I deserve that. Fair enough.
Where does that the "Group" fit within the chart that appears on page 69?
A It's not on the chart. I think it's below Holdings. MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings, Inc.
Q Did it exist before 1998?
A I don't remember.
Q I'm going to take a second and make a note so I don't forget this, because it's something that I wanted to ask you again.
So as you recall, it is the name is MacAndrews & Forbes Group; is that right?
A Yes.
Q And you believe it's between Mafco

Holdings and MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings?
A It may be off to the side of one of those. I can certainly find out for you.
Q Is it an ampersand?
A Yes, sir.
Q What is the business of MacAndrews & Forbes Group?
A I don't know if it has an operating business, which it has an interest.
Q Are you an officer -- excuse me, are you the executive vice-president and general counsel of Group?
A Likely that I am, yes.
Q Are you a director?
A No.
Q Do you know who the directors are?
A No.
Q Let me turn now to MacAndrews & Forbes Holding, Inc.
In 1988 --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q In 1998, did MacAndrews & Forbes Holding, Inc. have any operating business?
A It certainly had ownership

interest.
Q If we could, I'll try to separate that out. When I ask for operating business I mean something that you make, something you're selling, some goods, something like that as opposed to holding an interest in stock in another company.
A It had interest in other companies and its employees, me being -- one part of our responsibilities are to oversee those operating companies and our interests in those operating companies. And from time to time, MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings makes investment on its own and not necessarily controlling interests of various companies.
Q Did it own any manufacturing facilities in 1998?
A When you say did it own --
Q I don't mean to stock, ownership. I own stock in General Motors but I don't own any of their plants or facilities.
A But General Motors does.
Q I understand.
A No, we had no factory.
Q Did you buy and sell any products?

Page 75

A MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings did not.
Q Did you have any offices outside of your offices in New York at 35 East 62nd Street?
A Yes, I believe I had an office in California, in Los Angeles.
Q Where was that in Los Angeles?
A In 1998 it was in Beverly Hills, but I'm not exactly sure of the street address.
Q Did they have employees there in that office?
A I believe that it had one employee in that office.
Q What did the employee do?
A It was an administrative assistant.
Q Is it an administrative assistant for Mr. Perelman?
A For whomever from MacAndrews & Forbes was utilizing an office from time to time.
Q Did the company have a chief executive officer in 1998?

Page 76

A I don't know.
Q Did it have directors on its board of directors?
A Oh, sure.
Q Do you know who they were?
A No.
Q Do you know how many there were?
A Somewhere between three and five.
Q Do you know who -- was Mr. Perelman one of the directors?
A I'm sure he was.
Q Any of the others you can identify?
A Gittis and Drapkin.
Q Did the company have any employees outside of this administrative assistant in Beverly Hills that you identified for me?
A No.
Q Can you identify any offices of the company, whatever their titles?
A I'm one.
Q That's right, you are one. Sorry. Other than yourself, sir.
A I think that some of the people that you have identified here today were officers, not executive officers but officers, Dickes, Salig.

Q Let me turn now to Coleman (Parent) Holdings and again go back to 1998 before the merger.

You have explained to me that that company was one hundred percent owned by MacAndrews & Forbes Holding, correct?

A Yes.

Q Did CPH have any operating businesses?

A No.

Q What was its business?

A They owned the shares of Coleman Holdings, CLN Holdings.

Q And, indeed, did it have any other material assets other than --

MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.

Q Did it have any employees in 1998?

A I don't know.

Q Did it have any officers other than yourself, because I think you said you thought you were executive vice-president and general counsel?

A Yeah, I'm not recalling exactly today except by and large the slate of officers that we have for our various holding companies is consistent throughout.

Q Without holding you to it because I understand you don't have all the paperwork in front of you, in general, are the slate of directors down the chain of companies going to be the same?

A At the holding company level, yes, sir.

Q Once we get to the operating company like Coleman, that's a different story entirely?

A Absolutely.

Q Now we've talked about CLN Holdings, you were the executive vice-president and general counsel when the company was formed, were you not, that would be CLN Holdings?

A I don't have an independent recollection of that. I'm assuming so, yes.

Q Do you recall why the company was formed?

A The particular reason why on a particular day we formed CLN Holdings?

Q I'm not trying to get you down to a particular date but a reason why the company was organized.

A I don't have a recollection of that, no.

Q Do you remember that it issued something called senior secured first priority discount notes?

A Do I remember that? No.

Q Other than yourself, are you aware of any employees that CLN Holdings had in 1998, and I guess I should add to the people Mr. Gordon and I think was it Mr. Cook was the other person?

A Right.

Q Other than those people.

A Look, as I said earlier, I don't know if CLN Holdings had employees in the sense of a payroll, but it had officers and it had directors. We talked about that and there may have been one or more people in a CLN Holdings payroll, I just don't know.

Q Have we even asked about the people you believe were employees of CLN Holdings? As we sit here today, you don't know if they were paid by CLN Holdings as opposed to some other company within MacAndrews & Forbes?

A I'm assuming that Gordon and Cook were but I don't know that. I can find that out for you but I don't know that.

Q I appreciate that. Let's turn to Coleman Worldwide Corporation first.

Did Coleman Worldwide Corporation have any business other than its ownership of The Coleman Company, Inc. common stock?

A Coleman Worldwide was the issuer, was it not, of the Liquid Yield Option Notes?

Q I believe it was.

A Certainly did that and owned the shares of -- certainly did that.

Q Did Coleman Worldwide Corporation have any operating business, as we have been using that term?

A No.

Q And if I asked you this, I apologize. Where was its principal office address?

A That, I don't know.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019838

Q Did it have any employees that you know of?
A I don't know.
Q And did it have a payroll, if you know?
A It may have but I don't know.
Q Of all the companies in the chain that you have on page 69 of MS 279, which you have in front of you, on the top chart the only operating company in that chain that is some big company that we described as operating company is The Coleman Company, correct?
A Yes.
Q How many mergers and acquisition transactions have you been involved with since 1987 when you joined MacAndrews & Forbes in your initial position?
A I joined in '89.
Q Did you say '87 earlier?
A Yes.
Q I misspoke. I apologize it was '89. You got promoted two years later. I subtracted those years.
A There have been a number of transactions, acquisitions, divestitures, mergers that I played some role in from time to time over that period of time.

Q Can you give me your best estimate of how many?
A No.
Q Acquisitions, divestitures, mergers?
A No.
Q No estimate at all?
A A number of transactions.
Q Were you involved in -- you were involved in the Coleman transaction because you signed the merger documents, right?
A Yes.
Q Did you have any other involvement in the transaction other than just signing the document?
A During the course of the negotiations, I am certain that I was involved in discussions about various issues that would arise. I'm certain that there were drafts of the agreements that I signed that I did see. Otherwise, I was available for counsel, if sought.

I became much more involved after the transaction was consummated
Q Is the -- when Mr. Perelman's entities engage in acquisitions, divestitures, mergers or other forms of corporate transactions, are you the chief in-house legal officer who one would go to for legal advice?
A The answer is I'm the chief legal officer, yes.
Q The reason I ask is given the size and number of the companies that you are involved with, is there any other legal officer at your parallel level with you within the company, Mr. Perelman's companies?
A There are other enormously talented lawyers at MacAndrews & Forbes now and then who are available to give counsel, but there is only one general counsel. And that in the period of time we're talking about and today is me.
Q How many lawyers in 1998 did you supervise within your responsibilities at Mr. Perelman's companies?

A Somewhere between six and eight. I'm just not certain of the number because I'm just not certain of changes over the period of time, and I'm focused on your year of 1997/'98.
Q You identified Joram Salig, right?
A Yes.
Q You identified that gentleman. What other lawyers were in your group that you supervised during this period, 1997, 1998?
A Glenn Dickes, D-I-C-K-E-S.
Q Is there one "N" or two in Glenn?
A There is one.
I stand corrected. There is two.
Q Who else?
A Steven Fasman, who is here today. A lawyer named Gary Leshko, L-E-S-H-K-O. A lawyer named Lorelei Borland.
Q How do you spell Lorelei?
A L-O-R-E-L-E-I.
Q What was her last name again?
A B-O-R-L-A-N-D.
Q Borland?
A Yes.

Page 85

Q Anyone else?
A A lawyer named Dexter Kenfield.
Q K-E-N-F-I-E-L-D?
A Yes.
Q Anyone else?
A I think that's it.
Q During this time period 1997, '98, what was Mr. Dickes' primary area of responsibilities?
A He was corporate secretary for most of the companies. And I would say he was our principal corporate lawyer assisted by Mr. Salig.
Q Did Mr. Salig also acted for some companies as a corporate secretary, as I recall?
A Either secretary or assistant secretary.
Q Fair enough.
Did Mr. Salig report up to Mr. Dickes or were they on parallel within the organization?
A I consider them to be parallel.
Q What did Mr. Fasman do during this time?

Page 86

A His principal area of expertise was litigation, but he is a Jack of many trades.
Q Mr. Leshko, what was his principal area of responsibility?
A Litigation matters.
Q Ms. Borland -- anything else?
A We all do other things than our principal focus as we're called upon from time to time to do that. It's a small group and the legal issues are not small.
Q Ms. Borland, what did she do?
A Her principal area of expertise was environmental.
Q And Mr. Dexter Kenfield, what did he do?
A Litigation, but principally he managed the asbestos docket for a company called Pneumo Abex.
Q So in terms of corporate law, two principal people beside yourself if someone were called upon in-house were Mr. Dickes and Mr. Salig?
A That's right.
MR. BEMIS: Why don't we take a break here so we can change the tapes.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 11:39 a.m. and this completes tape number one.
(Recess was taken.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 11:51 a.m. and this begins tape number two.
MR. BEMIS: We're back on the record.
Q In terms of the Coleman Sunbeam transaction, I wanted to ask you what involvement certain people had in the transaction, if any. And to the extent that you can answer the question, please do so. If you don't know, just tell me.
Let's start with Mr. Perelman. What was his involvement with the Sunbeam-Coleman transaction?
A I'll start backwards. He is certainly a director of The Coleman Company and attended the meetings of the Coleman board. And determined to go forward with the transaction, I believe his involvement began with the approach made either directly to him or indirectly to him or someone else at the company at MacAndrews & Forbes by Morgan Stanley about the prospect of Sunbeam buying Coleman.

I'm aware of the meeting that Mr. Perelman attended, Mr. Dunlap, the CEO of Sunbeam, sometime in December, I believe of 1997.
Q Is this the meeting where Mr. Dunlap is reputed to have stormed out of the meeting?
A That's what I heard too.
Q Go ahead.
A And in between that meeting, the Dunlap meeting and the Coleman board meeting, I'm certain Mr. Perelman was kept apprised by the people negotiating the transaction as to what was occurring.
Q Has Mr. Perelman, to your knowledge, ever given a deposition in any proceedings related to the Coleman-Sunbeam acquisition or the lawsuits that resulted therefrom?
A I don't believe he has.
Q Mr. Howard Gittis --

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 89

A G-I-T-T-E-S.
Q What was his involvement?
MR. MARMER: We are at a level that's relatively innocuous but we are dealing with the general counsel so we always have the problem that he could have learned certain information in his capacity as counsel, since that's what he does full time there.
So I just want to admonish the witness to the extent that he can give general answers that are responsive he should do so, but if as he is thinking about information, he has information that he learned by virtue of his role as the general counsel, he should be cautious not to disclose anything that might intrude into the attorney-client privilege.
That's a pretty vague instruction but I'll try to help you with specifics as we go.
I don't want to foreclose his entire inquiry but I want to be careful.
Q I'm not asking you about any particular conversation with anyone, a more generalized issue of what people's involvement was in the transaction and we may go into detail later.

And if that helps at all and your counsel can, of course, object and deal with it as appropriate, let's go back to Mr. Gittis.
What, if any, involvement did he have in the Sunbeam-Coleman merger transaction?
A I think he attended the same meeting with Mr. Dunlap that Mr. Perelman participated, which as I say was in December of '97 in the state of Florida.
Thereafter, I'm not certain what involvement, if any, Mr. Gittis had, as he was not a director of The Coleman Company.
Q Before I forget to ask you this, Mr. Drapkin told us yesterday that he had frequently, when he is in town and Mr. Perelman when he is in town, has breakfast with Mr. Perelman at his townhouse I believe at 8:30 a.m., do you ever attend those breakfast meetings?

Page 91

A I do.
Q Regularly?
A Regularly.
Q And Mr. Drapkin also told us that he often has lunch and dinner with Mr. Perelman, if, obviously, they are both in town; do you likewise do that?
A Not regularly.
Q So your regular attendance at the meal meetings, and I'm not trying to be pejorative about it, but you do attend the breakfast meetings when you are in town?
A I attend the breakfast meetings when I am in town. From time to time I attend luncheon meetings or dinner meetings. And they are not meal meetings, as you say, they are substantive discussions which occur around a meal.
Q They are business meetings where you eat over your food, like so many of us have to do sometimes.
A I believe there was a board of directors meetings this morning at MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings along with breakfast.

Page 92

Q What was your -- how would you describe your specific role in the Coleman-Sunbeam merger transaction up to the closing, recognizing I know you had a little different involvement afterwards; how would you describe your involvement?
A I describe it as general oversight and not very hands on. Most of my conversations with regard to the transaction were with either Wachtell, Lipton or probably lawyers on my staff in-house.
Q And Wachtell, Lipton at this time was your outside counsel in the transaction, correct?
A Wachtell, Lipton represented, I'll call it, the sell side of the transaction.
Q And was your primary point of contact Adam Emmerich?
A Yes.
Q And the next person I would like to ask about is James Maher, M-A-H-E-R.
What was his involvement in the Coleman-Sunbeam transaction?
A I think Jim was the principal negotiator of the transaction for MacAndrews

Page 93

& Forbes.
Q Did he then report directly to Mr. Ronald O. Perelman?
A I'm not sure I know what you mean. Did he report every step of the way to Mr. Perelman?
Q I'm suggesting --
A Or a chain of command?
Q In the chain of command sense?
A In the chain of command sense, we all report to Mr. Perelman.
Q Did Mr. Perelman have the final say so with regard to whether the merger agreement between Sunbeam and CLN Holdings Inc. and Coleman (Parent) Holding, Inc. would be entered into?
A He had the final say so as to the disposing of his shares of Coleman. That's for sure. If that's what you mean, and I think that's what you meant, the answer is yes.
Q What involvements did Mr. William Nesbitt have in the Coleman-Sunbeam transaction?
A He assisted Mr. Maher. And I think they both worked with the Coleman folks involved in the transaction.

Page 94

Q Who was the --
MR. BEMIS: Strike that.
Q Do you know Lenny, I'm going to pronounce it wrong, so I'll spell it, A-J-Z-E-M-A-N-N?
A Lenny Ajzenman.
Q Ajzenman.
What involvement did he have in the Coleman-Sunbeam transaction?
A I don't know.
Q Jerry Levin?
A If you're referring to the chairman --
Q I am.
A -- of the board of The Coleman Company --
Q Yes.
A -- he pronounces his name Jerry Levin because there is a Jerry Levin.
Q I know a Paul Shapiro too, but it's Shapiro in this case. I apologize in his absence.
What was Jerry Levin's

responsibility with regard to the Coleman transaction, as you understood it?
A He was the CEO of The Coleman Company and was very much involved along with others at the Coleman Company and Maher and Nesbitt.
Q Did you ever attend any breakfast meetings with Mr. Perelman and Mr. Levin was present and the transaction with Sunbeam was discussed?
A I attended breakfast meetings and if Jerry Levin was there and if this topic came up, the answer is yes. I don't have a specific recollection of breakfast meetings with Levin present. And we're talking about this transaction?
Q Did Mr. Levin ever express to you his views about Mr. Dunlap before the merger?
A I don't think so, no.
Q What was Norman Ginstling's responsibilities with regard to the merger transaction?
A I don't know if he had any. Norman has been the principal player advisor with regard to tax issues at MacAndrews & Forbes and is often consulted about tax issues by the operating companies in which we have an economic interest.

Q What was Glenn Dickes' responsibilities in connection with the merger transaction?
A I don't recall what his responsibilities were, if he had any. I'm remembering vaguely that Joram Salig was involved in the transaction.
Q Let's then turn to Joram Salig.
Would you please tell me what his responsibilities were in connection with the transaction?
A He was a lawyer at MacAndrews who from time to time would interface with Wachtell, Lipton and, perhaps, others.
Q Did he have any particular area of responsibility in the Sunbeam transaction where he interfaced with Wachtell, Lipton?
A I don't think so.
Q Did Steven Isko, I-S-K-O, have any responsibilities with regard to the Sunbeam Coleman transaction?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

016042

Page 97

A I think he was a lawyer at Coleman.
Q And did he report to Mr. Shapiro?
A He would have reported to Paul Shapiro, the general counsel of Coleman, correct.
Q What responsibilities did Anthony, I think it's Ian, I-A-N, have with regard to the transaction?
A I don't know if he had any.
Q What responsibilities did Marvin Schaffer have?
A I don't know.
Q I'm handing you, sir, what has been marked in a previous deposition as MS 69. It is entitled MacAndrews & Forbes/Project Laser Working Group List and below there is a table of contents.
Do you have that document in front of you?
A I do.
Q And there is a date at the top of the document. And it is, I believe, it's February 27, '98, but there is also a date at the bottom of the document, it may be a print date, I'm not certain, of 3-6-98.

Page 98

Have you seen this document before?
A I don't know.
Q I see that this is -- you are listed on page two, are you not?
A I am.
Q Was this document prepared by MacAndrews & Forbes or any of its companies or is it prepared by outside counsel?
A I don't know if it was prepared by either MacAndrews & Forbes or outside counsel. It could have been prepared by an investment banker. It might have been prepared by Sunbeam, their banker, Morgan Stanley. It might have been prepared by Coleman, I don't know.
Q All the names on this list --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q Turn to page 11 of the document. There is an address for someone's home for Joseph Page, and there is 277 Forrester Drive, Los Angeles, California; do you see that?
A I do.

Page 99

Q Did Mr. Page work at the address of the office in California which is to the left, 10880 Wilshire Boulevard, Suite 1400?
A There came a time when he had an office on Wilshire Boulevard. I'm not certain of the address.
Q Is that the address of the California entity that you were thinking of? You said it was in Beverly Hills but that address is on the foot hill of Beverly Hills. I know exactly where it is at only because I live very close to that.
A No, it's a different address.
Q Okay.
A It's not in the table of contents. Can I look at this for a minute?
Q Sure. You're free to look at any of the documents.
A I don't know who prepared this as I look through it now.
Q Do you see any addresses for any --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q Did you see any addresses in Florida for MacAndrews & Forbes in here?

Page 100

There are Florida addresses for Arthur Anderson and Sunbeam, but I don't see any Florida addresses for anyone at MacAndrews & Forbes. Perhaps I missed them and I ask you to let me know if I missed something?
A There is a residence address for Howard Gittis on page two in Palm Beach, Florida.
Q What's under the heading "weekends" as I see it?
A Yes. Mr. Perelman, likewise, has a house in Florida where that meeting that you described with Mr. Dunlap took place as it was told to me.
Q In fairness, I was repeating a description. I wasn't there either. We both know of what you speak.
A Okay.
With regard to MacAndrews & Forbes, other than what I just said to you, that's all that I see.
MR. BEMIS: Let me see MS 70 please.
Q I'm going to hand you what has previously been marked as MS 70, which is another project laser working group list under the heading MacAndrews & Forbes.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 101

This one is for your assistance. I offer this the date on the upper right-hand corner appears to be 5-21-98. There is also a print date at the bottom which appears to be August 14th of 1998.
Have you seen this document before?
A I don't think so.
Q Under MacAndrews & Forbes, other than a weekend address, which you pointed out, there is a handwritten note to a Florida phone I think under Mr. Shapiro's name. Do you see any other Florida addresses for anyone in the MacAndrews group?
A Shapiro had a Florida residence too, which I assume that number on page 3 relates, but I don't know.
The answer to your question is no.
Q On either list under any heading I did not see Mr. Gordon's name, for example. I did not see his name. Did you see it anyplace?

Page 102

A I did not see it in the table of contents.
Q Or Coleman (Parent) Holdings, I didn't see that?
A Neither did I.
Q I didn't see Mr. David Cook's name anywhere either, did you?
A No.
Q What was your very first involvement in the Sunbeam-Coleman transaction that you can recall today?
MR. BEMIS: Let me withdraw the question.
Q What was your first involvement with the Coleman-Sunbeam transaction?
A Should I confer with you before I answer this question?
My involvement was as a lawyer, that's for sure.
Q When was it, let's start with when?
A It was sometime before that meeting that took place in Florida with Mr. Dunlap, Mr. Gittis, Mr. Perelman and, perhaps, Michael Price.

Page 103

Q Just so the jury would know, who is Michael Price?
A Michael Price at the time I believe was still running a mutual fund called Mutual Series Fund, which was the largest single shareholder of Sunbeam.
Q Anyone from Morgan Stanley present?
A I don't know. And what I said to you about Price is just based upon a recollection of what someone may have said to me.
Q But Mr. Price was at the meeting?
A I don't know.
Q Was Mr. Dunlap at the meeting?
MR. MARMER: I think there is a confusion here between which meeting you're asking him about.
Q I think that may be true. I think this is a meeting where Sir Dunlap wasn't present, am I correct?
A I don't know.
Q Let me try it again.
Your first contact before the meeting in Palm Beach where Mr. Perelman,

Page 104

Mr. Gittis and Mr. Dunlap met and departed in the fashion we've described?
A Yes.
Q Who was present at this very first meeting?
A I don't know who was present. I was told that it certainly was Dunlap, Perelman and Gittis.
Q Did you attend this --
A I did not.
Q My question, it may not have been clear, I'm looking now to find out when you first became involved as opposed to hearing something right now.
When did you first become involved in doing something in connection with the Sunbeam-Coleman transaction?
A I think the first thing I did is engage Wachtell, Lipton.
Q In the course of preparing for your deposition, did you look at a chronology that was prepared by Wachtell, Lipton, and it has an Exhibit A attached to it which describes various meetings, attendees, subject matters of meetings; did you look at that?

019844

Page 105

A The answer is yes, I did.
Q Did that refresh your recollection about events or would you have to look at it again to truthfully answer questions about dates and who was present at meetings?
A I would have to look at it again.
Q I'm going to let you look at it to see if it will assist you with your testimony.
I take it it will assist you with your testimony if I give it to you?
A I think so.
Q Okay, I'll give a copy to your counsel and I'll show you MS 75, which has been previously marked.
Do you have MS 75 in front of you?
A I do.
Q Would you just confirm for me, sir, this document was reviewed by you in preparation for your deposition today?
A I did look at it in connection with this deposition here today, yes, sir.
Q Did you see the whole document or just Exhibit A which begins on the fourth

page?
A I don't remember. I think it was the whole document.
Q Did you see MS 75 before it was sent to the Securities & Exchange Commission?
A Yes, sir.
Q Did you approve its sending?
A I don't know if I was asked to approve it or not. I did see it.
Q Did you make any changes to it after you saw it?
A I don't remember.
Q Wachtell, Lipton at the time of this letter, March 30, 1998 was your counsel -- excuse me, was counsel for The Coleman Company, Inc., correct?
A Yes.
Q And this is also the same firm that Mr. Emmerich worked for and with whom you communicated on behalf of the MacAndrews & Forbes companies in the transaction?
A Yeah, and there is a lot of information here that relates to what MacAndrews folks did, and I'm certain that I was consulted about that.

Q Now, at the time this letter was written, March 30, 1998, which happens to be the closing date of the transaction, did you consider, you, Mr. Schwartz consider Wachtell, Lipton to be your legal counsel?
MR. MARMER: Objection. Asked and answered.
MR. BEMIS: If I have, I apologize. I'm not trying to do it again. I want to know if it was his legal counsel, and his in the sense of MacAndrews & Forbes as opposed to The Coleman Company, Inc.?
MR. MARMER: Same objection.
A With regard to this letter and this chronology, I think Wachtell was counsel for The Coleman Company who has been asked to respond to this, which is the SEC's inquiry.
Q But you were the one, as I remember your earlier testimony, you were the one who retained Wachtell, correct?
A Yes, Wachtell was retained on the sell side of the transaction. The sell side of the transaction was Coleman and we as principal shareholder of Coleman because this was a two-step transaction, as you know.

Q The first entry that I identified for you is January 29, 1998, which is on page 2 of Exhibit A of MS 75. Would you turn there, please?
A Yes, I see it.
Q Now, did you -- is this accurate in terms of your first involvement because I do not --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q I do not see your name appearing anywhere before January 29, 1998 in the chronology.
A Yes, I see that.
Q Did you have any direct involvement as opposed to hearing something about the transaction before January 29, 1998?
A I did not.
Q Now, I note that on January 20, 1998 Wachtell, Lipton writes that they were retained as special counsel to Coleman; do you see that?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019845

Page 109

A Yes, I do.
Q You are the one who made that retention?
A As I see this, I may be mistaken. It may be that Shapiro called them on the 28th and I spoke to them on the 29th about this confidentiality agreement.
Q Let's turn to the --
A But Wachtell and Emmerich are no strangers to me with regard to this transaction. I don't want to mislead you.
Q I'm not suggesting you are. I just want to get to the beginning and take you back so we get done fast.
We're at January 29th and my understanding then is according to this chronology, that you telephoned Wachtell, Lipton and said that a form of confidentiality agreement to be proposed to Sunbeam in connection with the provision of confidential information to Sunbeam was going to be faxed to Wachtell for their review; is that correct?
A That's what it says and I have such a vague memory of such a call.

Q Now, did you -- did someone at MacAndrews & Forbes prepare a draft confidentiality agreement and send it to Wachtell?
A I don't know.
Q Let me show you what's been previously marked as MS 133?
A Yes.
Q First of all, have you seen this document before, MS 133?
A Not that I remember, no.
Q Looking at the document, and in particular the print of the document, do you recognize whether the document was prepared by MacAndrews?
A We literally look at scores of confidentiality letters like this from year to year. I can't tell you based upon the type who or where it was prepared. I see the address says 625 Madison Avenue on the letterhead of The Coleman Company, which is where I think Levin and Shapiro and Isko had offices at that time, but I can't tell you whether it's a document that we would have sent by way of a form to them or to Wachtell, but the type doesn't look like McAndrews's & Forbes type.

Q Does it look like something that was typed by the Coleman Company at their Madison Avenue address?
A I can't determine that.
Q Well, in any event, is it based on the chronology and your review of events? Did someone at MacAndrews prepare this confidentiality agreement which was ultimately sent to Sunbeam?
A I don't know.
Q Well, according to the next entry under January 29, it provides that Norm G is a colleague of MacAndrews faxed the confidentiality agreement to Wachtell, Lipton, Paul Shapiro general counsel of Coleman for their respective review; do you see that?
A I do.
Q Is that what happened?
A I don't know.
Q Well, let's step back then. Did you tell Wachtell, Lipton that a form of confidentiality agreement was going to be faxed to Wachtell for review?

A I have no reason to doubt that that's what is reflected on this chronology.
Q And do you have in your documentation, your forms, if you will or precedent at MacAndrews & Forbes forms of confidentiality agreement that you have used in the past when you are operating on, in this case I think you called it the sell side?
A As I said, we receive literally scores of confidentiality agreements in the course of a year. We send out confidentiality agreements, we get more than we send out. And I don't know if someone maintains a form file with forms of confidentiality agreements.
Q Have you seen agreements used by MacAndrews & Forbes on either the buy or sell side where they have used the term "evaluation material" as set forth in the second paragraph of MS 133?
A It's -- the term evaluation material is quite common to letters like this. Definition of evaluation material is often very different in confidentiality letters.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q Is there anything in this confidentiality agreement which previously identified as having actually been executed by Mr. Shapiro and counter executed by Mr. Fannin that appears to you to be out of the ordinary, if you will, from the scores of such letters that you have either received or sent in the course of your business at MacAndrews & Forbes?
A I haven't read it before, at least that I can recall, and I haven't read it now. If you want me to, I will. The one thing I will note is that it seems longer than most.
Q Why don't you take a look at it. I would like you to read it to see if you can answer my question. I apologize that it is going to take some time. If you want to step outside so nobody is watching you while you read, feel free to do so.
A Other than what I said to you about its length I'm not sure I can help you with this question, but I'm happy to go through it for you.

Q I would appreciate that.
(Pause)
A Okay, I have gone through it.
Q Okay, would you like my question re-read?
A Yes.
(Record read.)
A No.
Q I note that in the merger agreement, MS 93, you might want to take it out of the pile in front of you, it's the merger agreement, turn to page 5.
A Okay.
Q Do you see the definition of Morgan Stanley about five six lines down by underscoring?
A Yes.
Q And therein, as you signed this document, it refers to Morgan Stanley as meaning Morgan Stanley Co., Incorporated, Laser's financial advisor, correct?
A Yes.
Q And Laser is Sunbeam, right?

Page 115

A It was referred to as Laser in this transaction.
Q Now, financial advisor is a term that is also used in MS 133 in the second paragraph under evaluation materials; do you see that?
A Right, but MS 133 is between Sunbeam and Coleman.
Q I understand that. I'm asking you to look at financial advisor.
A Where is that?
Q It's the second paragraph under evaluation materials.
A Is that page 2?
Q It's page 1, sir, the second paragraph as used herein.
A Yes.
Q You use that as The Coleman Company uses the term financial advisors?
A At which the company, the company being Coleman, in this February 4th letter?
Q Right.
A So the words financial advisors appears.
Q Now, my question is not whether the term financial advisor, recognizing that this went the other way, but financial advisor includes investment banking firm such as Morgan Stanley or Credit Suisse First Boston in the case of the Coleman Company?

Page 116

A I think it would include Credit Suisse First Boston for The Coleman Company.
Q If there is a cross comfort letter that is going in the other direction that became the identical term financial advisors in its definition, that would include Morgan Stanley in definition of financial advisor, would it not, sir?
MR. MARMER: I object to the form of the question. I think you ought to have it read back. I think you may have misspoken.
Q Let me just ask another question.
The term financial advisor as a generic term does include investment bankers when describing evaluation materials, does it not?
A It can.
Q Well, it does in this letter, MS

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019847

Page 117

133?
A I have seen letters that use financial advisor also refer to investment bankers, separate term.
Q Well, in this case let's focus not on this letter, not other cases, in this letter, as in MS 133, did the determine financial advisor include here let's say Credit Suisse First Boston?
A I don't know if The Coleman Company intended that or not.
Q Well, let's look at the -- let's see if we can look at the agreement that you signed, MS 93 on page 3. Look at the definition of Credit Suisse First Boston.
A Page three?
Q Yes, sir, line underscore 4.
A Okay.
Q You see Credit Suisse First Boston, Credit Suisse First Boston Corporation, the company's financial advisor?
A Yes, I see that.
Q And company's refers to the Coleman Company, does it not?

Page 118

A Yes, it does.
Q And in the context --
A Excuse me, one second.
Q It's up on the front page.
A Yes, I see it. Thank you. It does.
Q And, indeed, so in the context of MS 93, at least with regard to The Coleman Company, financial advisor as that term is used in MS 133 included the investment banking firm of Credit Suisse First Boston?
MR. MARMER: Objection to the form.
A If the definitions as included in this definition agreement plan and merger, Exhibit 93, that I signed are the definitions intended in this February 4, 1998 letter Sunbeam and Coleman that I didn't sign, the answer is yes.
Q All right. Let's make sure that you intended to incorporate -- did you intend to incorporate within to the merger agreement, MS 93, the terms in MS 133?
A Like I say, MS 133 is a letter between Sunbeam and Coleman wheres this merger agreement is between Sunbeam and Coleman Holdings and Coleman (Parent) Holdings. Is there a confidentiality letter between these entities, that is the entities subject to Exhibit 93?

Q Are you asking me a question?
A Yes, because I think that's the piece that's missing.
Q Well, let me ask you then to turn to -- let's do it a different way.
Turn to page 18 of the merger agreement, MS 93?
A Okay.
Q And, again, now so the jury understands, MS 93 you did sign in two capacities, right?
A I did. I signed --
Q Read section 6 -- I didn't mean to interrupt you.
A I just want to go back to the signature line. I think I signed as an officer of CLN Holdings and also Coleman (Parent) Holdings.
Q Yes, sir, you did.
Look at 6.7 and you might want to read over to the next page.

Page 120

A Okay. Okay.
Q Am I correct, sir, that there is a reference in that paragraph, Section 6.7 of MS 93 to a February 4, 1998 confidentiality agreement?
A There is reference in 6.7 to confidentiality agreements with an "S".
Q Well, that's true. There are two of them. We're talking about one of them right now, the February 4th one which you have as MS 143.
A That is referenced in 6.7.
Q And MS 133 was the document that you were referring to when you read this agreement, MS 93, and before you signed it in the two capacities that you did so, correct?
A If you're asking me to remember that, the answer is I don't. If you're asking me based upon what I just read 6.7, like I say, there is reference to two agreements, one of which you showed me one of which I haven't seen.
Q Let's talk about the February 4th

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

16div-025630

agreement. You have an agreement of February 4th. It is a confidentiality agreement, is it not?
A I have read it.
Q Is it the same agreement that you were identifying as a February 4, 1998 agreement at MS 93 at paragraph 6.7?
A I don't want to fence with you. I don't know. I'm assuming so.
Q Do you know of any other February 4, 1998 agreement?
A I didn't know of this one until you showed it to me.
Q I'm not trying to hide anything from you.
A I didn't suggest you were.
Q Oh, okay.
And the company which is in MS 133 is The Coleman Company, correct, that's defined Capital C Company?
A The Coleman Company, Inc. together with its subsidiaries, collectively The Company, that's correct.
Q The conditions used in MS 93 and the definitional section on page 2 means again, The Coleman Company, Inc., right?

Page 122

A That is correct.
Q Now, in terms of the February 4th agreement, am I correct that under the provisions which appear on page 4, if you will, beginning of the paragraph you understand, refers to representations and warranties concerning evaluation materials.
A Yes, provided by the company, right.
Q That is correct. In this case, The Coleman Company or its representatives, correct?
A That's what it says, yes.
Q And representatives includes its financial advisors, right, sir, as set forth on the definition on page 1?
A I'm going back to look.
Q Fair enough.
A Representatives includes financial advisors.
Q Such as Credit Suisse First Boston, as you have identified?
A Yes.
Q According to this agreement, was sent to Sunbeam, Sunbeam was required to agree if they signed this, you, being Sunbeam, "agree that any liability to you or any representatives resulting from the use of -- I misspoke.

Page 123

MR. BEMIS: I withdraw that.
Q According to this agreement, if you look at the first sentence of that paragraph of page 4, Sunbeam agreed in the following language "you understand that except as may otherwise be agreed in writing, neither the company, meaning Coleman, nor its representatives, which includes Credit Suisse First Boston, make any representation or warranty as to the accuracy or completeness of the capital E, evaluation, capital M, material."
Did I read that correctly?
A That's what's set forth in this February 4, 1998 letter. You read it correctly.
Q You intended then that would be incorporated into the merger agreement at paragraph 6.7 by virtue of the incorporation of the agreement of February 4, 1998, correct, sir?

Page 124

A I don't read it that way.
Q Okay. I won't argue with you about it.
A Okay.
Q Now, sir, is it customary in transactions on a buy/sell transaction such as the Coleman-Sunbeam transaction to get cross confidentiality agreements?
A I don't know about it being customary. I'm not surprised to hear there is reference to two agreements.
Q When you signed the agreement, you saw the reference to the February 23, 1998 confidentiality agreement, right?
A I saw that, yes.
Q Did you ask to see it before you signed the agreement?
A I don't remember that. I wouldn't mind seeing it now.
Q You're going to see it in a minute.
Did you have someone at the closing who was responsible for checking off the documentations and making sure everybody had signed as required by the merger agreements, sometimes called a closing checklist, they even put them on plasma screens nowadays?

019849

A I don't know if Wachtell had a closing checklist at a closing or not.
Q Who was -- Mr. Joram Salig, was he the one responsible for handling the exchange of confidentiality agreements between the parties?
A I don't remember that. I do see the reference in the chronology you showed to me. To Salig sending a form of confidentiality agreement to Wachtell on the 29th.
What happened to that form after that, I don't know.
Q Let me show you what's been marked as -- I have one more question on MS 133.
A By the way, I don't know if he sent what ultimately moved into the Sunbeam-Coleman letter or something else and I can't get much help from the chronology either.
Q Would you look at MS 133 one more time, please, and in particular if you turn to page 7 and the last paragraph beginning "this agreement."

A Yes.
Q And the sentence begins "this agreement will be governed by and construed with the laws of the State of New York without regard to the principles of conflicts of law."
Do you see that?
A Yes.
Q Have you associated other provisions --
MR. BEMIS: Strike that.
Q Have you used language like this in other confidentiality agreements that MacAndrews & Forbes or any of its affiliated entities have executed confidentiality agreements?
A I don't know.
Q Who would know?
A You have to check the agreements.
Q Well, in the scores of agreements that you told me about, that you both received and have sent out, do you customarily, that is in your case, have a provision providing that New York law controls?

A No, there is no customary provision.
Q Do you know where this language came from that apparently you sent to Mr. Fannin?
MR. MARMER: Objection. Mischaracterizes the record.
A So I'm clear at least, this February 4th confidentiality letter is a document by and between The Coleman Company signed off by its general counsel, Paul Shapiro.
Q Fair enough.
A Sunbeam signed off by David Fannin.
MR. BEMIS: I withdraw the question.

Q Did you have any follow up at your call to Wachtell about the confidentiality agreement in which you discuss with Wachtell or any attorney there, whether the confidentiality agreements referred to in the January 29 entry of MS 75 had, indeed, been prepared, sent out and executed by both parties?

MR. MARMER: Let me just caution you here. It's possible to answer this question, I think, without revealing attorney-client privileges, but you want to stay focused on that in forming your answer not to stray into anything else, not that you would, but just a little caution.
A I can't help you based on my recollection, Mr. Bemis, but in looking at the chronology that you showed to me, the reference to January 29th is to me phoning Wachtell to indicate that a form of confidentiality agreement to be proposed to Sunbeam, an agreement to Sunbeam in connection with the provision of confidential information to Sunbeam would be sent over.
Q And my question is: Did you do any follow up to see whether, indeed, that happened?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 129

A That a document was sent over to Wachtell?
Q Yes, sir.
A No.
Q Were you interviewed by Wachtell for this fact entry on January 29th?
A I don't know if Wachtell was the source of the entry or we were, that is, I was.
Q Do you recall any confidentiality agreements being sent to MacAndrews & Forbes that were drafted by Wachtell, Lipton as opposed to MacAndrews & Forbes drafting the confidentiality agreement?
A No, but I'm highly suspect that this document, MS 133, is a MacAndrews & Forbes drafted document.
Q Why do you think that?
A As I say, it's very long. It includes every possible term and provision one may see in a confidentiality agreement. And I doubt very much that this is the complete work product of what Salig said but it could be.
Q If it wasn't Mr. Salig's complete work product, would you believe based on your work of the transaction that it was revised and edited by Wachtell?

A It could have been revised and edited by Wachtell, by Salig, by Shapiro. And I don't know whether it went back and forth to Fannin, frankly, for his edits.
Q I can't help you there.
A I can't help you and I'm sorry.
Q I want to now focus you on the February --
MR. MARMER: Just find a convenient lunch break. It doesn't have to be this second.
Q Let me show you the February 23rd --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q I want you to look at MS 93 again, the February -- please look at MS 93 and tell me when you're at Section 6.7 again.
A Okay, page 18.
Q You see a reference to the February 23, 1998 confidentiality agreement, correct?
A Yes, I do.

Page 131

Q Was it your understanding at the time that you signed this document, that is MS 93, that there was indeed a confidentiality agreement between Laser, that is Sunbeam, and The Coleman Company, Inc. dated as of February 23, 1998?
A And I can't answer that. I have no recollection of my understanding at that time as to --
Q Reading it now as the chief legal officer of the company, is it your belief that when you signed it that that is what you understood?
MR. MARMER: I object to the form.
A I can't answer that. You're asking me to speculate about a point in time six years ago.
Q Well, seeing what it says and being you, that is, you, the person that signed the document, that is MS 93, and you told me you read it before you signed it, when you read it, did you assume that there was such a confidentiality agreement dated February 23, 1998 in place between Laser and The Coleman Company as recited here?

MR. MARMER: Objection, asked and answered.
A And what I said to you was that I was certain that various drafts of this document provisions of this document had been reviewed by me over the course of the negotiations and the drafting of this document. And I am certain, I am certain that among the lawyers working on our behalf, people inside MacAndrews & Forbes, people inside Coleman and people at Wachtell that the document in this form that I saw it was appropriate for me to sign.
Now you're asking me to go to 6.7 and you're asking for my specific memory and I don't have it. I see what it says. The document referenced two confidentiality agreements.
Q And you knew that at the time that you signed MS 93, at the time you signed it because you read it?
A I don't remember if I read 6.7 at the time I signed it or not.
Q Even if you don't remember you read it, you took responsibility for having

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 133

read it because you put your name on it?
A I'll take responsibility for the party on whose behalf I signed as being bound by this document.
Q That's all I can ask you, I guess.
Let me show you what's marked as MS 134. You may want to keep open Section 6.7 of the merger agreement, MS 93.
A Okay.
Q I'm handing you what's been previously marked as MS 134, which was produced to Morgan Stanley as shown by the CPH Bates numbers on the bottom of the documents; do you see those?
A I see the Bates numbers, yes, sir.
Q All right.
Have you ever seen this document before in any form? This one is not -- I will tell you it is not signed. Have you seen this document before?
A No.
Q Do you know who prepared it?
A No. It's on a Sunbeam letterhead or seeming Sunbeam letterhead.
Q It says "Sunbeam" on the top and no emblem.

Page 134

A Fair point.
Q And if you look at the type on MS 133 and 134 and one having been copied more than one time, would you agree with me that they are identical in terms of language in the first couple of paragraphs?
A Are you asking me about typeface?
Q Let's start with typeface.
A I'm not a type face expert.
Q I don't know what that is, but we have enough common sense --
A They look different to me.
Q Is the language virtually identical on the first page? It's not perfect, I'll give you that.
A If you represent to me it's virtually identical, I'll accept that representation.
Q I will.
So let me show you another document which is marked as MS 134 or 133.
A Is there a final version of 134? I withdraw the question. I apologize.
Q I show you what's been identified previously as Morgan Stanley 101, and here is a copy for you, sir.

Page 135

Do you have MS 101 in front of you, sir?
A I do.
Q And have you seen this document before?
A No, sir.
Q Now, the fax number that appears at the top (212)527-5888 MacAndrews & Forbes, do you recognize that fax number?
A I do not.
Q Look at the working list if you would which we showed you earlier?
A Okay.
Q 69, I think it is. Look at 69 and look at Joram Salig's fax number and just confirm for me that's his number?
A Okay, what page is that on?
A The fax number for Salig at 625 Madison Avenue is the fax number reflected on Morgan Stanley 101.
Q There is a fax header on this document on all pages; do you see it?

Page 136

A What do you mean by header?
Q A banner. I should have said banner is probably a better term. Look at 101 there should be a banner. It says MacAndrews & Forbes with a fax number.
A I see it, okay.
Q Is that MacAndrews & Forbes' fax banner?
A I can't identify it as such.
Q Do you know whose it is?
A It says MacAndrews & Forbes.
Q You said you can't identify it?
A I can read the words. You asked me about the banner. I'm not sure what a banner is. It's MacAndrews & Forbes', absolutely.
Q Does that machine it came from, MacAndrews & Forbes fax machine it was sent and received from MacAndrews & Forbes' fax machine?
A Probably so.
Q Was Mr. Salig at the time that is recorded on the fax banner, February 23, 1998 at 4:37 p.m., was he still employed by MacAndrews & Forbes?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 137

A Absolutely.
Q And he was the person to whom you directed the first request with regard to a confidentiality agreement between The Coleman Company and Sunbeam that we identified as MS 133, right?
A Yes, sir.
Q And did Mr. Salig have the responsibility within MacAndrews & Forbes for the execution of the confidentiality agreements which are referenced in paragraph 6.7 of MS 97?
A I don't think anybody had a particular responsibility. If you're asking me could he have signed such a document --
Q I'm asking did he have the responsibility for preparing and signing as set forth -- and, again, I'm referring to the confidentiality agreements that you executed and signed off on on MS 93?
MR. MARMER: I object to the form. It misstates the record.
A Is there a confidentiality agreement that I signed? You didn't show me that.

Page 138

Q I'm not saying you signed it.
A Sorry, sorry.
Q You're not being quarrelsome. It's all right.
Was Mr. Salig responsible for the preparation of the two confidentiality agreements which are identified in MS 93 at Section 6.7?
A I don't know.
Q If not him, who at MacAndrews & Forbes, who else?
A From the chronology you showed me, Salig sent a form of confidentiality agreement whether it's something like these two documents or three documents you have shown me or something else, I don't know, to Wachtell.
What happened after that then gave rise to two or three exhibits you have shown me. I can't answer for you.
Q Did you make any inquiry of anyone at or before the closing whether the two confidentiality agreements which are specifically referenced in Section 6.7 had indeed been executed by the parties as of the dates referred to in Section 6.7 of MS 93?

A Not that I recall.
Q Please take a look now, one more question on this and we'll break for lunch.
Take a look at MS 101, the one with the fax banner on it and read through it real quickly. Read through it at whatever pace you would like.
I will tell you that it is virtually identical to the other one. You're not going to see any changes. And I'll have one question or two for you and then we'll break.
A I'll accept your representation to me.
Q All right.
Would it be fair to say then given what you read in MS 133 that what you find in MS 101 are confidentiality provisions which are customary in buy and sell agreements such as the Coleman-Sunbeam merger?
A Like I said, none of this here strikes me as being unusual except that there is so much of it.

Page 140

Q And when you said "this," are you referring to Exhibit MS 101 in front of you?
A The various terms and conditions in these confidentiality agreements.
Q When you're talking about the agreements, you're talking about MS 101 and MS 133, which was the first one we're looking at, right?
A I'm talking about 134 too.
Q The answer is yes.
MR. BEMIS: And we'll break for lunch.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 1:09 p.m. and we're going off the video record.
(Luncheon recess.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 2:20 p.m. and we're back on the video record.
BY MR. BEMIS:
Q Good afternoon, Mr. Schwartz.
A Good afternoon, Mr. Bemis.
Q Let's pick up where we left off.
We were at January 28th or 29th of

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Page 141

1998, which you identified as pretty much your first actual hands on with the transaction; is that correct?
A Yes, sir.
Q Did you going forward from the date of January 28th have any responsibility for the due diligence on the seller's side?
A I did not participate in any of the due diligence on our side of the transaction, no.
Q Was there one person on the seller's side that did have responsibility for due diligence either coordinating it or doing it?
A I don't know the answer to that. As I said, Maher was sort of leading the charge. We had Wachtell and CFSB and I'm certainly determined to do whatever they thought was appropriate to do in connection with the transaction.
Q As you're sitting here today, you don't know, for example, what Mr. Maher did with respect to due diligence?
A I do not.
Q And with respect to Wachtell to the extent that they did something, you don't have any firsthand knowledge of it?

Page 142

A That's right.
Q Would the same be true for CFSB?
A We all had the benefit and I did look at some of the publicly filed documents from Sunbeam.
Q Were those documents that were assembled for you by CFSB?
A I don't know.
Q Let me show you, there is a package of documents that CFSB did prepare and I'll show you that and see if that's what you recall.
A Okay.
Q Is this the package -- have you seen this package of materials before?
A I don't know.
Q Look at the index, there is a series of publicly filed documents.
A It's possible but I'm not recalling it particularly now.
Q Did you look at any analysts' reports for Sunbeam?
A I think in the course of the two or three months from beginning to end of this negotiation and ultimate signing and closing I did, but I'm not recalling which analysts or when.

Q In the course of your due diligence, did you look at any of the audited financial statements of Sunbeam that were, perhaps, attached to the publicly filed reports?
A I suspect so. I'm not recalling with any specificity that I did.
Q According to MS 75, which you should have in the pile in front of you, if you please look at the dates of February 24th through the 27th, page four, tell me when you're there.
A Yes.
Q Wachtell writes to the right of that date "Coleman and Sunbeam, and their respective advisors, negotiated the structure of the transaction, conducted due diligence, and drafted the necessary documentation."
Do you see that paragraph?
A I do.

Page 144

Q Do you recall any specific due diligence done by Coleman before February 24th?
A There were, and I think these documents referenced various meetings that took place by and between Coleman, Sunbeam Morgan Stanley. And to the extent that information was exchanged at those meetings, I think I would call that fitting under due diligence.
Q You have no specific knowledge --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q Do you have any specific knowledge of whatever due diligence was done before the 24th of February 1998?
A No, nor do I have specific knowledge as to what occurred between February 24th and 27th as reflected on Exhibit 75.
Q Let's go forward from February 27th between February 28th and the closing, do you have any knowledge of any due diligence that were done on the buyer's side, excuse me, on the seller's side of the transaction on behalf of MacAndrews & Forbes and various entities involved here?

019854

Page 145

A I think there were analysts' reports to look at. There may have been road show presentations to observe. Beyond that, no.
Q Did you attend any road shows?
A I did not.
Q These road shows in connection with the underwriting of the two billion fourteen million dollars of zero coupon subordinated convertible debentures?
A I thought it was 750 million.
Q That is the amount, roughly, that was received for the sale I was speaking of, the face amount of the debentures zero coupons therefore discounted.
A Same bonds.
Q Did you attend any of the road shows?
A I did not but I recall that one or more people from our side did.
Q Who?
A I'm recalling Will Nesbitt did.
Q Anyone else?
A I don't know but I don't think he went alone. I could be mistaken.

Page 146

Q Did Mr. Nesbitt make any reports to you about the road shows?
A He made no reports to me. Whether we had any conversations about what he heard or what he observed, it's possible, but I'm not remembering any.
Q Did anyone from the MacAndrews & Forbes entity purchase any of these zero coupon debentures we have been speaking of?
A As far as I know, no. That is to say no purchases remain.
Q Let's focus on the events of February 27th. You identified the road show and you looked at some analyst reports, I think. What analyst reports are you referring to?
A I have no specific analyst or report in mind. I do have a vague recollection of seeing some analyst reports and having seen them, I probably read them.
Q Are these analyst reports prepared by someone such as Andrew Schorr, a name that's come up frequently?
A Could be.

Page 147

Q Did you review any materials after February 27th that were prepared by Morgan Stanley?
Let me rephrase the question.
Between February 27th and the closing on December 30th, did you review any type of reports prepared by Morgan Stanley?
MR. BEMIS: I'm going to withdraw the question. I already asked you that earlier this morning.
Q Other than the road shows and the analyst reports now, can you think of any other due diligence activity between February 27th and the closing on December 30th that was undertaken on the seller's side?
A I think a number of people -- I certainly did read the press release that was put out on March 19th.
Q Anything other than the press release and other things that you told me about?
A Whatever public filings would have been available I'm confident that our side would have looked at those things.

Page 148

Q For example, you would have read the Sunbeam form 10-K for the year ending December 31, 1997, right?
A Yes. Whether I read it at the time it was disseminated by Sunbeam, that is early in March or not, I'm not recalling.
Q It was available for the closing?
A Indeed.
Q Is there anything else that you can identify that you looked at that you might consider, you personally would consider to be due diligence after February 27th before the closing other than what you have identified, which is somebody attended a road show, perhaps, Mr. Nesbitt and you saw the March 19th press release and, perhaps, public filings, one of which we identified as the Sunbeam 10-K for 1997?
A If there was something put out in connection with the closing of the bond deal, I'd have read that too.
Q Like the offering memorandum, is that what you're referring to?
A Perhaps that but I think the bond deal closed on the 25th of March.

019855

Page 149

Q Yes, it did, the actual purchase.
A There was some sort of announcement surrounding that.
Q Did you look at the purchase agreement itself between Sunbeam and Morgan Stanley?
A I don't think I have, no.
Q Did you look at the offering memorandum that was prepared in connection with the offering?
A I'm not certain that I did. I don't think that I did then but I think if it was available to us, I assume that we did.
Q So if it was available, for example, at or about the time of the road shows and it was available, you would have looked at it; is that what you're saying?
A I may have. I'm not remembering that ID.
Q To your knowledge, did anyone on behalf of the sell side make any investigation of Sunbeam's interim financial performance that is the end of the year, 12-31-97 and March of 1998?

Page 150

A I don't know what was discussed at these various meetings that took place with Sunbeam representatives and Coleman representatives and Morgan Stanley. I did not.
Q Are you aware of any -- are you aware of the sell side --
A You can call it the Coleman side.
Q Okay if we can use that, that's fine.
Are you aware of anyone on the Coleman side interviewing any of, for example, the middle management of Sunbeam to assess anything about their operations or financial performance?
A I'm not aware, no.
Q Are you aware of anyone on Coleman's side visiting, for example, Sunbeam plants anywhere in the United States to see how they were doing in a larger sense?
A You mean how they manufactured what they sold?
Q Yes, we'll start there.
A I don't know if anyone did or not.

Page 151

Q Do you know if anyone from the Coleman side visited any Sunbeam plants to see what their inventory situation was?
A You mean to take the inventory?
Q Just to see what the inventory build up was, for example, at a plant they have warehouses of unsold goods?
A I don't know who, if anyone, did that.
Q Do you know if anyone on the Coleman side contacted any of the major customers of Sunbeam such as Walmart, for example, to see what their order situation was or their inventory situation was during this interim period from the end of 1997 and the closing, March 30th?
A I don't know, no.
Q After the signing of the agreements and up to March 30th, did anyone from the Coleman side meet with any analysts about Sunbeam, for example, Mr. Schorr or any of the other analysts that were following Sunbeam?
A I don't know. The analysts liked Sunbeam, as I remember.

Page 152

Q Did anyone from the Coleman side at any time between your first involvement in January of 1998 and up to the closing interview any of the auditors at Sunbeam on the subject matter of Sunbeam's financial statements?
A The outside auditors, Arthur Anderson?
Q Yes, sir.
A I'm not aware of any such interview.
Q Did you attend the closing, the actual physical closing on March 30, 1998 where, shall we say, the money changed hands and the stock changed hands?
A I did not.
Q Was there an actual physical closing anywhere?
A I don't know.
Q Did you sign any document -- do you know where you were on March 30, 1998?
A No.
Q For example, skiing, off in Italy?
A Not likely I was skiing or off in Italy.

Page 153

Q Wasn't trying to be facetious, but I know some people were out of the country.
A I have two children both of whom are in the public schools. Both of their vacation time is March 30th. Most likely I was home and in the office.
Q Did you review any documents before the closing and up to the closing after you signed MS 93, the merger agreement?
A The February 27th agreement?
Q Yes, sir.
A When you say documents, you mean documents in connection with the transaction?
Q Yes, that's what I'm referring to.
A I don't think so.
Q As I understand it, the last time that you affixed your signature to any of the legal documents, if you will, that covered this transaction would have been as of the February 27, 1998 agreement, which we marked as MS 93 today?
A I think that's right but I'm happy for you to show me my signature on a subsequent document, if there is such a thing.

Q I'm not trying to trap you. I'm trying to find out if there was anything.
Did you at the time of the signing of the merger agreement, February 27, 1998, did you own any Coleman stock?
A I don't think so.
Q Did you have any Coleman options?
A No, never had, and I own none of the Worldwide bonds.
Q The LYONS?
A The LYONS.
Q Was there anyone on the Coleman side that you can identify that you assigned the responsibility for the physical closing of the transaction on March 30th?
A I'm not remembering who that was.
Q Even if you don't remember who it was, was there someone who was assigned that task?
A If it was necessary for someone to have been assigned that task, I'm sure I don't know whether it was necessary.
Q Well at some point, Sunbeam paid the Coleman side approximately 160 million dollars in cash on March 30th or by immediately available funds in New York City, right?

Page 155

A I don't know if that was by tendering a check or by wire.
Q If you looked in the agreements, it was to be by wire transfer but I could be wrong.
A Okay.
Q If someone was responsible for giving wire instructions or sending a check, who was that person, who was the person that was doing that?
A There are a number of people who it could have been. I don't know who it was.
Q Are these people inside the Coleman Group or are they the Wachtell law firm that were handling all these details?
A It could have been Wachtell, it could have been people at MacAndrews, it could have been a combination of all of them, somebody at the bank. It wasn't me.
Q Let's focus on CFSB a little bit and getting up to the board meeting.

Page 156

Other than the presentation that is identified in the board minutes by CFSB, and I think you were at a meeting where they spoke on February 25, 1998?
A Yes.
Q Did you have any e-mails with CFSB about the Sunbeam-Coleman transaction?
A I don't think so, no.
Q Is it fair to say that your sole involvement, if you will, even with CFSB was listening to their presentation on February 25, 1998?
A That's probably right. The lead presenter, as I'm recalling it, is Gordon Rich, an investment banker, who I knew. I could have had conversation with Gordon as the transaction proceeded.
Q Did you know Gordon Rich as a result of his employment with CSFB?
A Yes.
Q And had MacAndrews & Forbes done business with CFSB before?
A Yes.
Q And was it in their capacity as

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019867

Page 157

financial advisors?
A Could have been. Investment banks often come in to -- I don't mean this in a disparaging way, to pitch transactions. CFSB would do that, Morgan Stanley, Goldman Sachs. I knew Gordon Rich.
Q And when you said --
MR. BEMIS: Can you read that back, please.
(Record read.)
Q When you say "pitch transactions," would you consider the first contact between Morgan Stanley that you're aware of and the Coleman side to be pitching a transaction?
A I wasn't there, but what I have heard of it, yeah, sure.
Q And you don't consider that in any way to be untoward or dishonest in and of itself?
A Not at all.
Q In fact, one of businesses in a broader sense is that you do deals?
A Indeed we do.
Q And one of the ways you get deals is deals are brought to you?

Page 158

A That's absolutely correct.
Q And one of the sources for deals being brought to you at MacAndrews & Forbes is through companies like Credit Suisse First Boston or Morgan Stanley, right?
A We try and deal with investment banks that we know and that we believe have credibility and we like to see involved in the transaction because of that.
Q How many deals, mergers, acquisitions, divestitures other corporate combinations has MacAndrews & Forbes used CFSB in the past, the past being before the Coleman-Sunbeam transaction?
A I don't know the number but deals include finance, not just financings with acquisitions but financings in the course of an acquisition. That is, as you own a company, you do various different structuring and financings to buy things within the company.
CFSB could have been involved in those, in other acquisitions, divestitures. They were and are an investment bank that we have an ongoing relationship.

Page 159

Q Would you consider it a substantial relationship?
A I don't know what you mean by substantial.
Q I'm kind of asking you what you mean. I'm asking you the question. It's not a trick question, you answer it how you deem appropriate.
A I think we have an ongoing business relationship with CFSB.
Q Could you put a dollar figure on your ongoing relationship with CFSB?
A No.
Q My understanding is that in this transaction on the Coleman side that approximately four million dollars was paid to CFSB; is that correct?
A I don't know.
Q Does that sound --
MR. BEMIS: Strike that.
Q What other --
MR. BEMIS: Strike that.
Q Have you used CFSB on any of your financing transactions in the last, say --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.

Page 160

Q Let me put a time period on it.
Did you use CFSB, the MacAndrews & Forbes companies, in any financing transactions before 1998? By financing, for example, an underwriting of LYONS, subordinated senior notes, first subordinated senior notes, debentures, whatever the name given to the debt instrument?
A It could very well be. I would have to go back and look at records to determine that.
Q You don't recall any as you sit here today?
A I don't.
Q Have you participated on the legal side for underwriting debt instruments issued by the MacAndrews & Forbes Company such as the LYONS, and I'm not suggesting that that's the only one; have you done that?
A With the LYONS, I'm not going to shirk the ultimate responsibility, it's mine, but most of that involvement on the legal side from my group was with Glenn

019853

Page 161

Dickes.
Q But you're familiar with, even if you didn't have the first chair responsibility, if you will, in terms of day-to-day work, are you familiar with underwriting debt instruments when the instruments are securities under the 33 Act?
A I become familiar, as I have to, sure.
Q Well, you used the word earlier in your deposition when I asked you what documents you referred to, you said you looked at comfort letters.
Do you recall telling me that?
You said you looked at two comfort letters.
A In connection with my preparation here?
Q Yes.
A Right.
Q What is a comfort letter?
A An example of a comfort letter are the two documents that I showed to you. I never prepared a comfort letter. I never had a comfort letter addressed to me. Those two documents were described to me as comfort letters.

Q Who told you they were comfort letters?
A Probably one of my lawyers.
Q You didn't know what they were when you looked at them?
A I didn't put a title on it. It was given to me as a comfort letter.
Q Did you know what they were issued in connection with?
A I think they speak for themselves. You can turn to them.
Q It's not a test.
A They say what they are issued in connection with.
Q They are issued in connection with the underwriting of the zero coupon subordinated debentures that raised some of the cash that was used to pay the Coleman side at the closing on March 30th, right?
A They were two letters written to Morgan Stanley in connection with Morgan Stanley's firm underwriting what I remember to be the ultimately 750 million dollars worth of bonds, that's right.

Page 163

Q They were not bonds, they were debentures.
A Okay. To me it's the same thing.
Q It is the same thing to you?
A It's an IOU.
Q Let me go back to the question.
Have you ever seen in connection with any debt securities that were issued by MacAndrews & Forbes comfort letters from auditors?
A I don't think so.
Q Had you ever requested that your auditors issue to the underwriters comfort letters to the underwriter in connection with an underwriting of debt securities under the 33 Act?
A Not that I remember, no.
Q Did you ever have any specific discussions with Gordon Rich about the Coleman-Sunbeam transaction other than listening to him at the board meeting? Let me exclude those.
A I think I answered that by saying we may have because I may have seen him at the building around that time, and since I knew Gordon Rich, we may have had a conversation about it. I don't recall any specific conversation.

Q Same question with a man by the name of Steven Geller?
A I don't know Steven Geller.
Q Do you know Robert Duffy?
A I think I met Rob Duffy but I don't recall any conversation with him about anything.
Q I think you told me that you had nothing to do with the engagement letter of CFSB on behalf of The Coleman Company; is that correct?
A Not that I recall, that is correct.
Q Did you see it in preparation for your deposition here today?
A I did not. At least I don't remember but I don't think I did.
Q I'm going to show you MS 84. I have handed you what's been previously marked as Morgan Stanley 84.
Do you have that in front of you?
A I do.

Page 165

Q Have you ever seen that document before?
A I don't think so.
Q There was a meeting, according to the chronology, prepared by Wachtell on February 23, 1998 in the evening. If you need to turn to the chronology, please do so, but my question is: Did you attend that meeting?
A No.
Q Did you see any documents that were used at that meeting?
A Not that I recall, no.
Q Please turn to --
A There are a bunch of notes on this, you're aware of that?
Q That's what I'm going to ask you about.
Turn to the first page, which I believe is CPH 1324959, if I'm wrong we'll have to go back, but I think that's right.
I am wrong. The first page I think the notes appear at CPH 1324759. Please turn to that. It's entitled Number 2 Strength Sunbeam and Oster Brands Globally; are you there?

Page 166

A Yes, sir.
Q Do you recognize the handwriting?
A I do not.
Q Any idea whose it is?
A No.
Q Look through the rest of the document, I guess there is handwriting throughout and it appears it's the same, and see if there is any handwriting that you can identify. Or if you look at the rest of the document, see if it brings to mind who might be the author of the writing?
A I don't recognize any of the handwriting, and none of the words suggest to me whose handwriting it might be.
Q One last question on this document and we'll stop and change the tapes. If you'll turn to CPH 1324771. Look for the last two digits 71. Long Range Strategic Objectives. Tell me when you're there.
A I'm there.
Q There is next to the line entry for net sales initial caps the handwriting J and JAN and then February; do you see that?

Page 167

A I do.
Q Did you ever hear in either February or --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q Did you hear at any time in February of 1998 that Sunbeam's net sales were slow in January?
A No.
Q Did you hear that they were slow in February from any source?
A I did, but that was in March.
Q I'm asking you about February. We'll go to March in a second.
A No.
Q When did you hear in March that sales for Sunbeam were slow for either January or February?
A The press release from March 19th.
Q Any time before the press release, did you hear that information?
A No.
MR. BEMIS: Let's stop here and change the tape.
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 2:57 p.m. and this completes tape number two.

(Recess.)
THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 3:03 p.m. and this begins tape number three.
MR. BEMIS: Ms. Reporter, will you mark as MS 182 a document entitled Sunbeam Long Range Strategic Plan.
(Morgan Stanley 182 - Sunbeam long range strategic plan marked for identification as of this date.)
Q Would you please take a look at this document. This is textually the same document as the one you looked at before the break.
What I would like you to do is look at the handwriting on it and tell me whether you can identify the handwriting, and even if you're not sure, if you have any idea who it might be to please tell me.
Most of the handwriting, and there isn't a lot, is at the very end of the document.
A The only handwriting that I have observed is on the cover page. There is the date 2-23, I don't recognize that. And I see some handwritten notes on the last page of this document, and I can't recognize that handwriting either.

Q All right.
You may set that document aside.
MR. BEMIS: Now, we'll have the court reporter mark as MS 183 another copy of the documents we have been looking at. This one, however, has a cover page on it as well.
Ms. Reporter, would you please mark that.
(Morgan Stanley 183 - Document with cover letter marked for identification as of this date.)
Q Do you have MS 183 in front of you, sir?
A I do.
Q And by looking at either the cover page and you should also look on the inside of the document, identify any of the handwriting. And, again, even if you are not sure, if you have any judgments that you can make, tell us who you think it might be, please do so.

Page 170

A Sorry. I don't recognize any of the handwriting on the cover page or any of the handwriting on the document itself.
Q Do you know who Karen is on the front page of the document?
A No.
Q And do you know who the from is, and it's Isaiah, is that -- Mr. Fasman is shaking his head like I can't read, so I must have read it wrong. Isian Seth my colleague tells me.
Do you know who that is?
A I don't know these names and I don't know the people. Are they in the contact list?
Q They may well be but let's not take your time to go through them again. I'm more interested in the handwriting, and I don't know if the top page is the same as the bottom. That's why we're asking you.
A I can't help you.
Q Let me show you now what the court reporter will mark as MS 184.
(Morgan Stanley 184 - Document marked for identification as of this date.)

Page 171

Q Do you have that in front of you?
A I do.
Q I'd like you to look at the handwriting on that document, and if you can identify that or give me your best understanding as to who it might be, please do. It's awful small.
A I don't recognize the handwriting.
Q You may set that aside.
A I have looked at several copies of these. I may have seen this in the '98 time frame.
Q When you say "this," you're referring to the long range strategic plan?
A Yes, sir.
Q And any one of the multiple versions.
Did you see it without handwriting, with handwriting?
A I don't remember that. I guess it was without handwriting.
Q Did you see it in connection with gathering documents for this litigation?

Page 172

A No.
Q Do you know the circumstances under which you saw it, if you did?
A No, I just, having gone through it about five times it's coming back to me, maybe I have seen this before.
Q Let's see if the sixth time does it for you.
MS 185, another copy of this document.
(Morgan Stanley 186 - Document marked for identification as of this date.)
Q Please look at the handwriting. It starts at the top -- excuse me, it starts on the first page with sales '96, it looks like, eliminated 40-50 and there is some other writing on the far right side.
A Sorry, I don't recognize the handwritten notes.
Q And when you say you don't recognize, just so we're clear, you don't have even the faintest idea of who they might be?
A Not even a suspicion.

Q Fair enough. If you don't you don't.
Put that aside.
I hand you what has previously been marked as MS 186. Do you have that in front of you, sir?
A I do.
Q Just take a moment and look at them and tell me whether you have ever seen the document before?
A I'm going to remove this clip, all right?
Q Sure, sure.
A I just quickly turned the pages. I don't believe I have ever seen this before.
Q All right. There is initials in the upper right-hand corner on the front page, I think it's RSE.
A R what?
Q I thought it was "S," but I could be mistaken.
A I don't know.
Q Do you know whose initials those are?

A No.
Q What was Mr. Engleman's first name or Engleman --
A Irwin Engleman.
Q With an "E" or an "I"?
A With an "I".
Q Have you ever seen any documents that purport to summarize the due diligence that the Coleman side of the transaction did before the signing of the merger agreements as of February 27, 1998?
A No.
Q Have you seen any documents that in any way summarize, itemize the due diligence, if any, conducted by the Coleman side of this transaction after February 27, 1998 and up into the closing of April 30, 1998?
A No.
Q Sunbeam maintained a room of materials concerning their business operations at the Skadden, Arps law firm.
Are you aware of anyone from the Coleman side going over to the Skadden, Arps firm to look at the materials that had been assembled about Sunbeam and its business?

A I'm not aware.
Q Do you know that that room even existed, the room of materials, excuse me?
A I'm trying to remember if I knew it six years ago and I don't recall if I did know it six years ago.
Q Did you know it now before I said it to you?
A No. Is it still there?
Q You did not attend the February 27, 1998 board meeting of The Coleman Company, correct? You're not shown as on the attendee list.
Let me rephrase the question because it's awkwardly put to you.
Did you attend the February 27, 1998 Coleman Company board of directors meeting when the board actually voted to approve the --
A I don't remember.
Q If you had attended, you should have been included in the minutes, correct, as being in attendance?
A I would think so, although I may have attended for a short period of time and maybe by the time whoever was the keeper of the minutes listed the attendees, I was gone. I have no specific memory of being present, however.

Q Who was the keeper of the minutes for The Coleman Company, Inc. at the February 25th board meeting that you did attend?
A If I looked at the minutes it might refresh me, but I'm not certain.
Q Why don't you take a look at the minutes. I think it's MS 118, I'm not positive. I think it's MS 88, I misspoke.
A MS 88?
Q I think so, sir.
That should be it.
A It looks like it was Steve Isko.
Q And Mr. Isko is the same Mr. Isko that you identified for us earlier today?
A Yes, sir.
Q And would Mr. Isko then actually cause the minutes to be prepared in the typed form that you reviewed them in, MS 88?
A I don't know. I assume so.

Q Let me show you what's been marked as MS 237.
For the record, MS 237 was marked in an earlier deposition. This is a press release of three pages dated March 2, 1998 entitled "Sunbeam Acquires Three Publicly Traded Consumer Product Companies, Coleman, Signature Brand and First Alert."
Do you see that, sir?
A I do.
Q Have you seen this press release before?
A I don't know.
Q Did you have any input into the drafting of this press release and in particular Mr. Perelman's remarks as they are attributed to him on page two in the second from the last paragraph?
A Can I take a minute and read it now, sir?
Q You may, sir, at any time.
A Okay, I've read it. I had no participation in the preparation of this document.
Q You may set it aside. Look at MS

Page 178

93 again, which is the merger agreement, if you would put that in front of you, please.
Thank you, sir. If you would look at Article 5 entitled Representations and Warranties of Laser.
A Okay.
Q First of all, Laser, as we said, is Sunbeam Corporation, correct?
A Yes, sir.
Q There are three representations -- excuse me, four representations in warranties on behalf of this section, 5.1 through 5.4?
A I guess there is really five. The first paragraph is not numbered, but that's where Laser makes the same representations on warranties, parent holdings as it made to the company in the company agreement.
Q Fair enough. So there are five, four of which --
A I don't know if there are within each paragraph more numbered representations than warranties, but yes, there seems to be five at least.
Q Are you aware of any amendments to

Page 179

MS 93 with regard to the representations and warranties of Sunbeam Corporation a/k/a Laser in this document, MS 93?
A I am not, no.
Q Let's identify the representations and warranties in the company merger agreement which was previously marked as MS 117, which I will have to give to you.
Do you have MS 117 in front of you?
A I do, sir.
Q This, if you will accept my representation, if not, you can check it, is the company merger agreement that is identified in the precatory paragraph that you pointed out for me in Article 5 of MS 93, fair enough?
A I accept that, sir.
Q I would like you now turn to section -- excuse me, Article 5, which is entitled Representation and Warranties of Laser and Merger Sub, S-U-B.
Tell me when you're there.
A It starts with page 21 on there.
Q After February 27, 1998, are you aware of any representations of or warranties of Laser and Merger Sub that are in addition to these set forth in Article 5 of MS 117?

A I am not.
Q Are you aware of any amendment or modifications of the provisions of MS 117 at least up to March 30, 1998?
A No, sir.
Q You may set that aside.
Are you as the chief legal officer of MacAndrews & Forbes aware of any contractual arrangements between MacAndrews & Forbes on behalf of the Coleman side of the transaction in Morgan Stanley, my clients?
A Any contractual arrangements between MacAndrews & Forbes and Morgan Stanley with regard to this transaction?
Q Yes, sir.
A I'm not aware.
Q Are you aware of any written representations and warranties --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q Are you aware of any written representations and warranties by my client, Morgan Stanley to MacAndrews & Forbes, as we have put it, the Coleman side of this transaction?

019863

Page 181

A I'm not aware of any such writing, sir.
Q Are you aware of any confidentiality agreements, signed or unsigned, other than the three we looked at today, which are identified as MS 101, MS 133 and 134, one of which is dated February 4, 1998 and signed by both parties, and then the other two, which is MS 134 and MS 101 which are unsigned; are you aware of any other confidentiality agreements signed or unsigned between the Coleman side of the transaction or the Sunbeam side of the transaction?
A No.
Q Are you aware of any agreements that make reference to the confidentiality agreements dated February 4th and February 23, 1998, whether signed or unsigned other than the references that appear in MS 93, for example, and also in MS 117 at Section 7.2?

Page 182

A What is 117?
Q That is the merger agreement between the Coleman company, the company merger agreement.
A This one right here?
Q Yes, it is.
A Can I have the question back?
Q Let me have that back, let me look.
A No, I'm not.
Q Thank you. You can set that aside.
A You know, with regard to your earlier question with regard to an agreement with Morgan Stanley, a writing with Morgan Stanley and MacAndrews, there is no such writing that I'm aware of. But I do believe that Morgan Stanley was aware of both of these merger agreements.
Q So they would be aware of the confidentiality agreements that you identified as having been signed by the parties, correct?
A They were aware of everything in the document, including that particular paragraph.

Page 183

Q Thank you, sir. Let's talk about the March 19th press release. You have been waiting for me to get there, MS 39, it's probably the very first document in your pile. I'll give you this one.
Do you have MS 39 in front of you, sir?
A I do.
Q All right, and we've previously identified that as the press release that you reviewed in preparation for your deposition, correct?
A I read it, yes.
Q And my understanding of your earlier testimony, and just to put this in context is that you think you saw it at or about the time that it was -- it is dated March 19th of 1998; is that correct?
A Yes, sir.
Q And if I asked you this I do apologize but it's been hours since we talked about it.
Did you receive it from someone at

Page 184

MacAndrews & Forbes, did you pick it up off a wire service or receive it in some other fashion?
A I don't know.
Q When you received the press release, did you read it?
A I think so.
Q When you received it, were you alone or were you with someone else, for example, Mr. Maher or Mr. Nesbitt or Mr. Perelman in which you had it and you had a discussion about the contents of the press release?
A I don't remember if I was with anyone.
Q Well, did you consider the information in the press release to be a material event?
A I consider the information to be material, yes.
Q Now, you are aware, are you not, sir, that the following day, that is the day following the March 19th issuance of the press release, that Sunbeam's stock as it traded on the New York Stock Exchange fell approximately 9.4 percent in value?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

019864

Page 185

A I'm not aware of that.
Q Were you aware of that without trying to pin you to the exact percentage to a tenth of a point, were you aware that the stock dropped, Sunbeam stock?
A Yeah, I think the stock dropped and I think it came back up after the analysts wrote their reports about the significance of this, what's in this press release.
Q When you received this press --
MR. BEMIS: Strike that.
Q Following this press release, did you or anyone on the Coleman side of the transaction contact Sunbeam and ask for more specific information about sales during the first quarter of 1998?
A I did not.
Q Do you know of anyone on the Coleman side that did?
A I think there were communications between the Coleman side and the Sunbeam side about what is set forth in this press release.

Page 186

Q And who are the people on the Coleman side that you believe had these communications with people on the Sunbeam side?
A I'm not certain about this, but either Maher, Nesbitt, and it's possible that there was conversations initiated by the Sunbeam side to the Coleman side.
Q I don't mean to be brusk, setting aside possibilities today, let's try to focus if we can on what you know.
Do you know of any people on the Sunbeam side that were in communication with the Coleman side about the sales figures for the first quarter of 1998, again, after March 19th press release was issued?
A I have a vague and uncertain memory, sir, of either Mr. Kirsch or Mr. Dunlap calling from the Sunbeam side about what's set forth in this release.
Q Do you have any recollection --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q Just so the jury is clear, if they don't by the time they hear this testimony, Mr. Kirsch worked for Sunbeam, correct?

Page 187

A Yes, sir, he was the chief financial officer, I believe.
Q And Mr. Dunlap was the chief executive officer and chairman of the board of Sunbeam at this time, correct?
A I certainly knew him to be the CEO. I didn't know he was the chairman of the board.
Q Did anyone on the Coleman side of the transaction to your knowledge have any communications with anyone at Morgan Stanley after March 19th and before March 30, 1998 on the subject matter of Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales?
A I don't know that.
Q Did anyone on the Coleman side of this transaction after March 19th ask Sunbeam for daily sales numbers for the first quarter of 1998 as the deal approached the closing on March 30th?
A I don't think anybody did and I don't think there was a reason to do so.
Q Did anyone on the Coleman side of the transaction after March 19th ask anyone at Sunbeam for an update on the figures in the press release?

Page 188

A I don't know.
Q Did anyone on the Coleman side of the transaction ask anyone at CSFB for an update on the information in the March 19th press release with regard to Sunbeam's first quarter 1998 sales?
A Can I have that again?
(Record read.)
A I don't know.
Q Did anyone on the Coleman side ask Morgan Stanley for an update on the information on Sunbeam's first quarter sales in 1998 as set forth in the March 19th press release?
A I don't know.
Q Did anyone on the Coleman side after March 19th and before the closing on March 30th ask Arthur Anderson, Sunbeam's accountants for an update on the sales figures in the --
MR. BEMIS: Let me ask the whole question again.
Q Did anyone on the Coleman side of the transaction ask Arthur Anderson after

Page 189

March 19th and before March 30th for an update on the sales figures in the press release of March 19th?
A I don't know. The only request to Anderson about that that I'm aware of is made by Morgan Stanley.
Q Sir, do you have any documents showing Morgan Stanley made that request of Anderson as a request to Sunbeam?
A I recall a letter of March 25th addressed to Morgan Stanley.
Q You may recall a letter being addressed. Do you know how that letter got to Morgan Stanley, who requested it?
A May I see it again?
Q Sure, it's MS 9 and MS 10.
A Is it in this pile?
Q Sure, it should be. If it's not, I can pull it out for you.
A I don't see it in this pile.
Q We may have picked them up. It's possible that they are in this pile and we picked them up.
I'll hand you MS 9 and MS 10. There you go, sir.

Page 190

A The letter to which I just referred of March 25th is addressed to Morgan Stanley and addresses Morgan Stanley as "gentlemen," and refers the gentlemen back to Arthur Anderson's letter, again, to Morgan Stanley to March 19th again to Arthur Anderson, again to Morgan Stanley in connection with the offering memorandum that Morgan Stanley was the underwriter for.
Q That wasn't my question.
The question was: Who requested that Arthur Anderson send the letter to Morgan Stanley, not to whom it was addressed eventually?
A I gave you the best answer I can.
Q The answer is you don't know, right?
A I gave you the best answer I can.
Q But you don't know who requested the letter be sent to Morgan Stanley; do you or don't you know?
A Whether there was a conversation --
MR. MARMER: Objection.
Q I didn't mean to interrupt you.

Page 191

If you're not finished, go ahead and answer.
A The letters of March 19th and 25th are direct to Morgan Stanley from Arthur Anderson, no copies shown to anyone else.
Q My question to you, if you can't answer, we'll go on, do you know who requested Arthur Anderson to send the letter to Morgan Stanley?
A I don't know if anyone did.
Q Sir, just between the LYONS, L-Y-O-N-S, and the Senior Secured, I think they are priority notes and then the --
MR. BEMIS: Let me withdraw the question. Let me make sure I get the name of the debt instruments correct.
Q Sir, I hand you what has been marked as Morgan Stanley Exhibit 241. Do you have that in front of you?
A Yes, I do.
Q Now, do you recognize this offering memoranda by Coleman Escrow Corporation for $600,475,000 senior secured first priority discount notes through 2001 and $131,560,000 senior secured second priority discount notes through 2001?

Page 192

A That's what the offering memorandum is. Do I recognize it? I'm not remembering seeing this. I'm sure I did.
Q This date of the offering memorandum is May 15, 1997, correct?
A That's what it says, yes, sir.
Q And Credit Suisse First Boston as well as Bear Stearns & Co., Inc. and Chase Securities, Inc. are underwriters of this offering, are they not?
A They are indeed.
Q And not to be flip about the matter, but do you consider $732,035,000 in offerings to be a material amount of money in an underwriting?
A That's a lot of money, sure.
Q And, indeed, prior to this offering memoranda -- by the way, this offering memorandum did go forward and these notes were, indeed, issued, were they not?
A Absolutely.
Q And the Coleman Escrow Corporation which at this time was in the Coleman chain that we discussed earlier today when looked at Exhibit 279 at page 669, was a company owned by Mr. Perelman, right?

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

A Was Coleman Escrow on that list we had?
Q Coleman changed its name to CLN Holdings Inc.
A Right, that was on the list we had?
Q Right.
In addition to this $732,035,000 that had been issued before this time by a company called Coleman Holdings, the -- excuse me, I misspoke.
Before this offering memorandum, MS 241, Coleman Worldwide Corporation had issued approximately $561,553,000 of the so-called LYONS, correct?
A I accept what you say. I would have to go back and look.
Q I'm reading right off the offering memoranda.
A A document I have not read recently, but I accept what you say.
Q Would you consider $561,553,000 to be a material amount of money?
A That's a lot of money.

Page 194

Q And that money was, indeed, raised through the issuing of the LYONS, was it not?
A Yes, sir.
Q And it was underwritten by investment banking houses, was it not?
A I recall Merrill Lynch to be involved. I don't recall if there are others.
Q But Merrill Lynch was acting in its capacity as an investment banking house doing the underwriting, correct?
A Yes, sir.
Q And did a firm underwriting, as I recall it; isn't that right?
A I'm not recalling but I can't quarrel with you about it.
Q In connection with these offerings which total over 1.2 billion dollars by the Coleman related entities, Coleman Worldwide and Coleman Escrow Corporation, did the underwriters request of The Coleman Company comfort letters in advance of the purchase of the debt securities they were underwriting?

Page 195

A I don't know.
Q You have no idea?
A We went through this this morning, I think.
Q Not with these we didn't.
A We didn't focus on these specifically?
Q That's what we're focusing on, 1.2 billion dollars of debt by the companies that you were either an executive vice-president, general counsel or director.
My question is: Did those underwriters request comfort letters from The Coleman Company, the Coleman Escrow Corporation or in this case, Coleman Worldwide before they purchased this debt securities?
A These notes, the LYONS were issued, interest was paid, the notes were paid in full, you know that. I don't know, I don't know, sir, if comfort letters were requested.
Q In your experience, in all the years you have been doing deals for Mr. Perelman's companies, are you familiar with any underwriting of securities that are defined as securities under the 1933 Act, which are underwritten by an investment banking firm where that firm did not request a comfort letter from the auditors prior to the effective date of the registration statements for the securities?

A Sir, I'm not aware. My focus with you on these comfort letters are letters addressed to your client, Morgan Stanley, and a press release that came and --
Q Would you answer my question?
A I did. I'm not aware.
Q You're not aware of any comfort letters being issues?
MR. MARMER: Excuse me.
A That's not the question you asked.
MR. MARMER: If you want, you can have the last question read back.
(Record read.)
Q Please answer that question.
A It's the answer I gave you, I'm not aware.
Q Is there any reason, sir, you didn't ask Morgan Stanley if they had received a comfort letter from Arthur Anderson in connection with the offering of the zero coupon subordinated debentures that had closed on March 25, 1998?

019867

A There was no reason to ask for it since we closed the deal.
Q I didn't ask you if there was a reason.
A That's exactly what you asked me. You want to read it back?
Q Let me try again and I'll ask it a different way to make it easier for you.
A I didn't have difficulty with that question.
Q Let's not get quarrelsome, it's getting late in the day.
A I'm not getting quarrelsome. I'm answering the questions you're putting to me.
Q The jury will decide that later.
Are you aware of any requests by anyone on the Coleman side to Sunbeam, let's start with Sunbeam, for a copy of any comfort letter or letters issued by Arthur Anderson to Morgan Stanley in connection with the debenture offerings which closed on March 25, 1998?

A I think you have asked me this and the answer is I'm not aware.
Q Are you aware of anyone on the Coleman side asking Anderson directly for a copy of the comfort letters that were issued in connection with the March 25th closing of the debenture offering?
A You asked me this before because we quarreled about whether Morgan Stanley asked for the letter. Same answer as before.
Q What was your answer before?
A I said I'm not aware other than Morgan Stanley.
Q Are you aware of Anderson declining under any circumstances to provide a copy of the comfort letters which were marked as MS 9 and MS 10 to the Coleman side of the transaction, if such letters had been requested?
A I don't know how I can answer that. I'm not aware of requests being made so I can't be aware if Arthur Anderson declined a request of which I'm not aware.

Q Now, let's assume, I want you to assume that you received a comfort letter, and it could be either MS 9 or MS 10 or both of them.
Would you have closed, that is the Coleman side have closed the merger agreement MS 93?
A I think not.
Q Please tell me what provision you would have relied upon in MS 93 if you had not proceeded with the closing?
A I believe that those comfort letters demonstrated a material adverse change at the Sunbeam Company, and I believe in those documents there was the ability in the face of a material adverse change to which you received notice, which we did not, to close.
Q Tell me where those provisions are in the agreement?
A Offhand, I don't know.
Q Would you be so kind as to take the agreement, and being the man that signed them, please point out the provisions that you are relying upon for not closing?

Page 200

A We did close, however.
Q Oh, I know you closed.
A Because we didn't have notice of the comfort letters.
Q That will be for the jury to decide that. We'll let the jury decide about the letters.
I would like you to look at MS 93, which is the document that closed on March 30th.
A Okay.
Q Do you have my question in mind or should I ask it again?
A I'm not as currently familiar with this document as you, so you have to be patient as I go through it.
Q I'll give you as much time as you need. That's why I offered you the courtesy of repeating the questions, otherwise I'll let you answer.
A When I find what I'm looking for, if I need the question, I'll ask for it.
Q I appreciate that and I'll sit and wait patiently.

A Thank you.
MR. MARMER: Is there a particular reason we're going through this since you and I know both know the sections? Wouldn't it be easier to point him to the sections?
THE WITNESS: It would be, it would help me.
Q I'll be happy to help you out.
I think the sections you're going to want to start with are Section 8.2 but I leave that up to you. I think the other two sections you're looking at are in Artificial 6?
A Okay.
Q I didn't draft the agreement and I didn't sign it, so I don't want to suggest to you that I know the document better than you.
A Do you have a question?
Q I thought you might ask me again. Tell me the section that is the Coleman side of the transaction would not have closed had it had the information in the comfort letter MS 9 or MS 10?

Page 202

A I think 8.2 provides for a Laser material adverse affect and it's a condition of closing.
Q Is it a condition of termination?
A Should I turn to the termination section?
Q If you look to Section 11 -- this is from memory. I think it's Section 11. It is.
A Well, we didn't close on August 31st, it comes and goes, the agreement terminates, and with a material adverse change we went on and with the material adverse change, we weren't obligated to close and we would not have.
Q And at the time of the closing on March of --
MR. BEMIS: Strike that.
Q Can you tell me is there any provision other than the provision for passage of time in Section 11.1, I believe it is (b) that you're relying upon to terminate the merger agreement --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn. Terrible question.

Page 203

Q Other than Section 11.1(b), which I believe is the passage of time provision, is there any other provision in termination that you were relying upon for stating that you would not have closed and you would have terminated the agreement?
A Maybe (d) too. I think the critical point is not closing as opposed to terminating the agreement.
Q Well, you did close. You did close. You did close with knowledge of the March 19th press release and you did accept the consideration under the merger agreement, did you not, the Coleman side did?
A We closed with that knowledge and without the knowledge of the two comfort letters, that's correct.
Q And you closed when you closed --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q Is there any provision in the merger agreement, MS 93, which requires Morgan Stanley to send to anyone on the Coleman side or provide any notice on the Coleman side of the transaction of the comfort letters that Morgan Stanley receives in connection with its duties as an underwriter of the zero coupon debentures that closed on March 25, 1998?

A Morgan Stanley had an absolute obligation to us and to the bond holders who sold the bond --
Q Sir, you didn't buy any bond.
MR. MARMER: Just a moment.
Q I didn't mean to interrupt you.
A But you did.
Q I apologize.
A I think Morgan Stanley had an absolute obligation to us and the bond holders to whom it sold the bonds to disclose the existence of the facts contained in these comfort letters, if not the letters themselves.
Q Now, setting aside the bond holders because you didn't buy any bonds, you're not a bond holder, right?
A I'm not a bond holder.
Q No one on the Coleman side is a bond holder?
A As best I know.

Q Let me ask you to focus on the merger document, Article, excuse me, MS 93, are you there, MS 93?
A Morgan Stanley is not a party to this agreement.
Q Just answer my question. Are you focused on MS 93?
A I am now.
Q Is Morgan Stanley a party to the agreement?
A No, sir.
Q Is there any provision in this agreement that you can identify that provides that Morgan Stanley is an underwriter, is obligated to provide the Coleman side of the transaction copies of documents it received from Anderson in its capacity as underwriting for the debenture offering for which you weren't a purchaser?
MR. MARMER: I object to the form of the question.
A There is nothing in this document that gives Morgan Stanley the right to assist anyone, including Sunbeam or Arthur Anderson, in a fraud.

Page 206

Q You can make that speech to the jury.
MR. BEMIS: I move to strike your answer. Repeat my question, please to the witness.
MR. MARMER: Move to strike the gratuitous comments of counsel. The witness has answered the question.
Please put the next question.
MR. BEMIS: I'm putting the question to the witness. He did not answer the question. He made a speech.
I move to strike his answer.
Please repeat the question, Ms. Reporter.
(Record read.)
MR. MARMER: Same objection.
A I stand by my answer, sir.
MR. BEMIS: Repeat the question to him.
A I've heard the question. This would be the third time.
Q Why don't you answer it one of the three times?
A I did answer it.

Page 207

MR. MARMER: That will end our colloquy on it. Mr. Bemis made his record. We made ours. If he has anything further to ask you, he will otherwise we'll conclude.
MR. BEMIS: Fair enough. We'll let the judge decide whether you have to answer the question, and I guarantee you I am going to ask the judge to have you come back to answer the question.
Let's take a break, and we'll come back for the last hour.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 4:16 p.m. and we're back on the video record.
Q Sir, can you tell me by how much Sunbeam missed its projections with regard to its sales in the first quarter of 1998 as referenced in the press release of March 19th, which we marked as MS 39?

MR. MARMER: I object to the form of the question.
A It was fairly wide at that point. I can't -- I don't remember.
Q It was fairly wide?
A I think so.
Q What does wide mean to you, so the jury knows what you're talking about, 20 million, 30 million, 50 million, 100 million; what are we talking about?
A Do you have the release?
Q I can give you MS 39. I think it is in the papers that you have in front of you. I don't have my copy.
Did you find it? Otherwise I'll give you mine. There you go.
A Well, in the release of March 19th they say that the revenues may be lower and they say that it is possible the net sales will be lower than the range for analysts, as they say between 285 million and 295 million but the net sales for the quarter are expected to exceed last year, which was

019870

Page 209

253.
Q Point 4?
A Point 4.
Q My question is: Do you know what Sunbeam reported, and this is not a trick question, we're going to do this for both the original reporting and so-called restated reporting at a later time.
Let's just right now on the original reporting, do you know how much Sunbeam missed its estimate of 253.4 million dollars?
A No, but your earlier question was at this point in time and the comfort letter at this point in time demonstrated a wide gap between where they wanted to be and where they were. We're now talking about the end of the quarter the actual results?
Q Yes, sir, the actual results. These are forward looking statements in the press release, are they not?
MR. MARMER: Just a moment. So the question is are these forward looking statements in the press release? That's the only pending question, correct?

MR. BEMIS: I think so.
Q The statements in the press release are forward looking statements?
A Some statements can be forward looking, some statements can be outright misrepresentations.
Q Are those statements in the press release stated to be forward looking statements?
A They are indeed.
Q My question is: Do you know going forward from March 19th to the closing on March 30, 1997 of that period for the first quarter what Sunbeam then actually reported as its first quarter 1998 sales before the restatement; do you know what it reported?
A I'm remembering on an apples to apples basis that it was off by more than ten percent.
Q Let me show you what's been marked as Exhibit 281, which is the form 10-Q that Sunbeam Corporation filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on or about I believe it's May. I think it would be May 11, 1998?

A Okay.
Q Turn to page two of the financial statement.
A Okay.
Q Now, do you see that the March 31, 1998 reported sales were $244,296,000?
A That's what it says.
Q And the March 30, 1997 is $253,450,000, which is the same figure that's set forth in the press release, MS 39, right?
A That's the reported sales figure for 1997, that's correct.
Q So the difference, there is just slightly under nine million dollars; is it not? The difference between the two numbers is over nine million dollars?
A The math is correct.
Q So I don't want to be accused of misleading you, the auditors did go back and later in a restatement was done for both the first quarter of 1997 -- excuse me, for the March 30, 199 --
MR. BEMIS: Let me withdraw that

Page 212

and start all over again.
Q There was a restatement of certain of Sunbeam's financial statements in 1998, correct?
A There was a restatement and I don't recall whether it was in '99 or '98. It was finally done.
Q Well, without quarelling with you, it's 1998, but I don't want to get bogged down in that. By the period of October of 1998, Mr. Perelman's representatives were, indeed, running The Company Inc., were they not, sir?
A Jerry Levin was running The Coleman Company, Inc. In fact, I take it back. Jerry Levin was running Sunbeam. Sunbeam controlled Coleman. Coleman had its own management and he was CEO and he was there because the Sunbeam board of directors asked him to be there.
Q And they asked Mr. Perelman to ask Mr. Levin to come back and run the company, did they not at a board meeting on June 15th or 16th of 1998?
A It was about that time. I didn't know it was at a board meeting.

019871

Q And in addition to Mr. Levin, Mr. Shapiro was asked to go to Sunbeam from one of Mr. Perelman's companies or after he just recently left one of Mr. Perelman's companies, correct?
A Yes.
Q And Mr. Steven Isko went as well, did he not?
A Yes.
Q And Mr. Gittis, I believe, went on the board of directors of Sunbeam; is that correct?
A Mr. Gittis?
Q I keep mispronouncing it. I mean no offense.
A He was on the board of Sunbeam.
Q There were other representatives of Mr. Perelman's company who were also on Sunbeam's board of directors on or about the middle of June of 1998 when there was the management change at Sunbeam, correct?
A I don't think that was correct.
Q We'll set that issue aside.
In any event, let me show you

Page 214

what's been marked as MS 282, and the court reporter was gracious enough to mark that during the recess, so you have that in front of you?
A This Q that you have shown me, you said it was filed in or about May of 1998?
Q Yes, sir, I think May 11th is the date and it is the one before the restatement. I think I told you that so that you there would be no confusion later.
A And these sales figure for 1998 include at least two days of the Coleman Company sales figures, sir?
Q I'm not the auditor. I'm just asking you what they show. If you say that they do, I'll take your word for it?
A Okay, all right. You want me to look at what now, sir?
Q I want you to look at MS 282, do you have that in front of you?
A I do.
Q And this is a form 10-QA, is it not?
A That's what it purports to be.
Q And it was filed as of November

Page 215

25, 1998 for Sunbeam Corporation, correct?
A Do you want to show the date you're looking at for filing?
Q It's actually right on the very -- it's right on the very first page printed off of Edgar. You know what Edgar is, right?
A I do.
Q The SEC filing system.
Very top file date November 25, 1998.
A Okay.
Q Does that answer your question?
A It tells me where you got the date, yes, sir.
Q Now, this is a form 10-QA and you know what that is, right?
A Yes, sir.
Q What is it, tell the jury what it is?
A It's an amended 10-Q.
Q So does this form, which is form 10-QA, MS 282, does it amend Exhibit MS 281, which was the original Sunbeam 10-Q that was filed on or about May 11, 1998?

Page 216

A It amends the 10-Q for the period ended March 31, 1998. That's what this document is and that is what Exhibit 281 is and that's what it does, yes, sir.
Q All right. Now, let's look at this document. If you'll turn to the very back of the document it could be page 28 on the signatures, it is signed by Bobby G. Jenkins, the executive vice-president and chief financial officer, or excuse me principal financial officer of Sunbeam Corporation, correct?
A He is identified, sir, as the chief financial officer and as the principal financial officer.
Q You're right, I misspoke. Thank you for correcting me. We got it right, we now who he is now?
A Yes, sir.
Q Mr. Levin, he was still the chief operating officer, if you will, of Sunbeam at the time the 10-QA was filed, correct?
A I don't think so. I think he was the chief executive officer. I don't recall if they had a chief operating officer.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

Q I didn't know if he was CEO or COO. He was the man running Sunbeam subject to the board of the directors, correct?
A I believe he was the CEO.
Q CEO meaning chief executive officer?
A Yes.
Q Which means he was running the company subject to the board of directors?
A He is running the company and the board discharges its function of oversight, yes, sir.
Q Now, please turn to page two of the document MS 282 and look at the restated figures for net sales for Sunbeam for the first -- the period March 30, 1997.
Do you see that?
A Yes, sir.
Q Now, according to this, the net sales for the period ending March 30, 1997, which would be the first quarter of 1997 were $252,488,000, right?
A Right.
Q And even looking at the press release, MS 39, Sunbeam had reported 253.4

Page 218

million, approximately one million difference that's shown on the restated 10-Q, correct?
A The numbers are what they are, right, sure.
Q Right. Just so we're clear, it's a one million dollar difference, isn't there?
A There is a one million dollar difference between this restated March 30, 1997 figure and the earlier stated 1997 figure as reflected in the document that you marked as MS 281.
Q And according to the restated 10-Q, which was filed by Sunbeam while Mr. Levin and Mr. Shapiro were officers of Sunbeam shows that the March 31, 1998 first quarter sales as restated are $247,601,000, right?
A Right, and the document also shows for the period March 30, 1997 operating earnings of 17 million. The earlier shown document to me showed operating earnings of 34 million and in point of fact, there is a loss in this restatement of 37.3 million.

Page 219

Q I'm only focusing right now on the net sales?
A As I say, the numbers are what they are.
Q And the numbers are just slightly under five million dollars difference between March 30, 1997 first quarter sales and March 31, 1998 first quarter sales as restated by Sunbeam after the extensive audits that were done by Arthur Anderson and Deloitte & Touche.
Let me rephrase the question.
The restatement was done after an extensive period of audit work by both Arthur Anderson and Deloitte & Touche, correct?
A I don't know that, sir.
Q You don't know that?
Well, I can do the math and I think you can do the math. The difference in net sales is not even five million dollars on a restated basis, is it?
A These numbers are dramatically different than the numbers stated in in the comfort letters.

Page 220

Q They are dramatically different for the net sales figures?
A For which year?
Q Let me just focus you on the press release. Set aside the comfort letters, comfort letters written on March 19th before the quarter is over, correct, and they are projections before the financial statements are finalized even on an unaudited basis for the month; isn't that right?
MR. MARMER: Objection to the question.
Q If you take your hand out of your mouth, it will be easier on the videotape.
A I'm trying to listen to your question. I don't remember projections in the comfort letter.
Q The press release is issued on March 19th as a forward looking statement for results that are expected as of the end of a period; is that not true?
A You keep mixing and matching the press release and the comfort letter.
Q I didn't even refer to the comfort letter on the press release.

019873

Page 221

The press release is a forward looking statement for results anticipated at the end of the period, which is March 30, 1998, is that true or is that wrong

A The press release is a document that speaks for itself.

Q I don't know talking documents.

A Fine. You want me to read it to you?

Q You want to tell me, if you would like to read the document, read any portion you want. I'd like you to answer my question.

The document is dated March 19, 1998 the press release. It is referring to a forward looking results as of a period ending March 30, 1998 which is at least 11 days hence into the future, is it not, sir?

MR. MARMER: I object to the form of the question. Argumentative. I object to the form of the question, essentially asked and answered.

Q Can you answer the question, sir?

A The press release begins with a headline that states "Sunbeam's revenues may be lower than street estimates."

That's how it begins. It has a first and only substantive paragraph that says that "Sunbeam said today that it is possible that its net sales for the first quarter of '98 may be lower than the range of Wall Street analyst estimates, that is 285 to 295 million, but net sales are expected to exceed 1997 first quarter net sales of 253.4 million."

That's the first sentence. The second sentence says, "The company stressed that the sales of its products at retail remains very strong."

The next sentence, "The shortfall from analysts' estimates, if any, would be due to changes in inventory management and order patterns of certain of the company's major retail customers. The company further stated that based on the strength of its new product offerings and powerful brand names, it remains highly confident about the overall sales outlet for its product for the entire year."

There then is a paragraph that describes Sunbeam, which I'll call boiler plate. And there is a paragraph called cautionary statements, and it says, "Statements contained in this press release including statements relating to the company's expectations regarding anticipated performance in the future are forward looking statements as such term is defined in the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995."

That's what it says.

Q That wasn't my question.

A That's my answer.

Q I'm not looking to quarrel with you.

MR. BEMIS: Can you find my question and reread it?

(Record read.)

Q Can you answer that question?

A Like I said, the press release says what it says and I just read it.

Q Can you answer my question?

A I did the best I can, sir.

Q Can you answer my question? If not, tell me you're not going to answer

Page 224

it --

A I did the best I can, sir.

Q You may say that but I don't believe you have answered my question.

MR. BEMIS: I'll move to strike your answer.

Q I would like you to answer the question.

MR. MARMER: You can take that to Judge Maas because you made your record and we have made ours. Let's continue.

MR. BEMIS: You're not instructing him not to answer, are you?

MR. MARMER: No, I'm advising you that we have only a little bit of time left. It makes more sense to get whatever information you want to get.

Q Now, if the sales shortfall had been as reported in MS 281, we'll start there of nine million dollars roughly between the first quarter of 1997 and the first quarter of 1998, would the Coleman side of the transaction close the transaction?

A Sir, this document, 281 is a document filed in May, filed in May. The transaction was closed in March. The information that was not available that reflected a material adverse change was reflected in the comfort letter of March 19, and March 25th, before March 30th.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

01987h

With that information in hand, The Coleman Company would not have closed.

Q My question is different, and I would like you to listen to it, and if you don't want to answer it, we'll deal with the judge with you later, as your counsel suggested.

If the sales shortfall for net sales had been nine million dollars plus or minus $100,000 between the first quarter of 1997 and the first quarter of 1998, would you have closed the transaction?

A I think you're asking me to speculate and I'm not going to.

Q Oh, but you'll speculate that if you had received a comfort letter, you wouldn't have closed?

MR. MARMER: I'm going to instruct you not to answer that question.

Page 226

MR. BEMIS: On what grounds?

MR. MARMER: The question is clearly argumentative, and I think after you have had a chance to reread it after things quiet down, that you probably will not want to endorse the question.

Q Sir, is it your testimony, is it your testimony --

MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.

Q Sir, if you had had the restated sales figures for the first quarter of 1997 and 1998 as reflected in the form 10-QA, MS 282, at the time of the closing on March 30th, would you have closed the transaction?

MR. MARMER: Objection to the form. Complete hypothetical.

A You just want to focus on the sales figures. You have to look at the sales figures and the earnings per share figures.

Q There are only sales figures in the press release. There are no earnings per share.

A The comfort letter addresses both earnings per share as well as sales figures.

Page 227

We did have the benefit of the press release, yes, sir, we did.

Q There are no reference to earnings per share in the press release, are there?

A That is correct.

Q You made no inquiry, that is the Coleman side of the transaction, of Arthur Anderson, of Morgan Stanley, of Sunbeam, of Credit Suisse First Boston, of your attorneys at Wachtell, Lipton or, indeed, anyone of what Sunbeam's projected earnings per share would be in light of the March 19th press release?

MR. MARMER: I object to the form of the question; asked and answered I object to the form of the question; argumentative. I object to the form of the question; compound.

Q I can do it for all of the companies. If you look --

A We have been through this. I'm going to give you the answer again. You didn't like it the first time.

Q Don't tell me what I like and don't like. Just answer --

Page 228

A Mr. Bemis, you're getting a little testy.

Q I apologize if you think that's the case. Trust me, I don't get testy. We will let the jury decide who is testy.

I'll ask it five different ways from Sunday for you.

A I'll give you the same answer. We had no reason to ask those questions based upon the press release, sir. We would have asked those questions based upon the comfort letter that we did not have the benefit of seeing.

Q The comfort letter that you didn't ask anyone for, right?

A The two comfort letters of March 19th and March 25th addressed to Morgan Stanley which we never saw.

Q I understand that you didn't ask for a copy of the comfort letter though from any source, right? The Coleman side -- you didn't ask for a copy of the comfort letter from anyone, whether it be on the Coleman side or whether it be on the Sunbeam side, you didn't ask for a copy of the comfort letters?

019815

A Sir, those comfort letters, as you know, were issued to Morgan Stanley in connection with an underwriting that Morgan Stanley did for debentures for a material amount. And you would agree with me that Morgan Stanley closed that transaction and there was no reason for anyone to think on the Morgan Stanley side what they said there was a material adverse change in the Sunbeam Company.
Q You didn't read it at the time of the offering, did you?
A I think I told you I don't recall.
Q Are you aware that March 19th was included in the offering memorandum?
A The press release?
Q Yes, the March 19th press release.
A I don't know if it was or wasn't. I don't recall seeing the March 19th press release.
Q My understanding, sir, is that after the closing of the deal, that you, that is the Coleman side of the transaction, you sued Arthur Anderson, the accountants, for Sunbeam, correct?

Page 230

A There came a time when a lawsuit was initiated against Arthur Anderson, yes, sir.
Q And you recovered from Arthur Anderson 70 million dollars; is that correct?
A The case was resolved and Arthur Anderson paid 70 million dollars.
MR. MARMER: I'm designating at least this portion of the transcript confidential.
MR. BEMIS: I don't object to you doing that for the time being, but I'm not, so we're clear, I'm not agreeing that the rest of the transcript is subject to confidentiality, just so we're clear what we're both speaking of.
Q Now, in addition to the 70 million dollars that -- and you -- excuse me, the theory under which the Coleman side sued Arthur Anderson was that Arthur Anderson had conducted the audits of Sunbeam in a negligent manner, that was one theory, correct?

Page 231

A There was a complaint we filed, if you want to show it to me to refresh me, you can.
Q If you don't know, just tell me. If you don't know what the theories are, I don't want to take the time to force you to read this late in the day.
A I haven't reviewed that complaint in a long time.
Q So we'll set that aside. Whatever the allegations are in the complaint are the allegations that you would respond to if I showed it to you as being the allegations made against Anderson?
A If those, in fact, were the allegations, yes, sir.
Q If you accused Arthur Anderson of fraud in that case, that would be one of the allegations that the Coleman side made against Arthur Anderson, right?
A Yes, sir.
Q And when you sued Arthur Anderson, you didn't at that time bring any claims against Morgan Stanley for defrauding the Coleman side of the transaction, did you?

Page 232

A That complaint was limited to claims against Arthur Anderson, that's right.
Q And then in addition to suing Arthur Anderson, you, that is the Coleman side of the transaction, threatened to sue Sunbeam, did you not, again the Coleman side?
A There were discussions with Sunbeam in the summer of 1998 well before any lawsuit was initiated against Arthur Anderson about claims that certainly Coleman (Parent) Holdings felt it had against Sunbeam, yes, sir.
Q And eventually the claims that were asserted by the Coleman side against Sunbeam were settled, were they not?
A Correct.
Q Those claims were settled on agreement dated August 12, 1998, correct?
A It's an agreement of the summer of 1998. It could very well be August 12th did you say?
Q August 12, 1998.
A Could very well be.

Do have you that document in front of you?

A I do.

Q And is this a copy of the settlement agreement?

A It appears to be.

Q And did you sign the settlement agreement as it appears on page 15 under the heading Barry F. Schwartz, executive vice-president and general counsel?

A I recognize my signature.

Q And this settlement agreement, was this settlement agreement subject to court approval?

A There was no pending court case that I'm recalling back then.

Q You're right, I misspoke. I'm sorry, I was thinking of something else.

Page 234

The warrants that were issued in this case, was a value ever placed on those warrants as of the date of the settlement?

A I'm not aware of any value being placed on the warrants.

Q Let me show you what's been marked as MS 260.

A Of course you know there were warrants to buy shares of Sunbeam, right?

Q There is no question pending right at the moment.

A I want to make sure we're talking about the same warrants.

Q I'm talking about the warrants there in the settlement agreement. Does that help?

A Sunbeam warrants, right.

Q Are we clear what we're talking about?

A Yes, sir.

Q Would you mark this as Exhibit 260.

(Morgan Stanley Exhibit 260 marked for identification as of this date.)

Q Do you have Exhibit MS 260 in front of you?

Page 235

A Yes.

Q And this purports to be an agenda for the audit committee meeting of Sunbeam December 14, 1998 with a copy to Mr. Jerry W. Levin, who you have identified as the -- you said he was the chief executive officer of Sunbeam at this time, correct?

A Levin was the CEO. I have never seen this before, and one of the pages in the document you have given me, it's the third page, appears to be an agenda for an audit committee meeting at Sunbeam.

Q If you turn to CPH 1039848, you will see that there is a specific reference to the valuation of warrants with Mafco of 70 million dollars; can you see that?

A I see that, yes.

Q Did Coleman (Parent) Holdings ever place a value, as of the time of the settlement, which was September 12, 1998, on the Sunbeam warrants that were issued pursuant to the terms of the settlement agreement, MS 96?

A I suspect so.

Page 236

Q What was that value?

A I don't know.

Q Who would know?

A Our auditors would know. Our internal financial people would know.

Q Well, can you give me a name because I'm not looking for a descriptor, I'm looking for --

A Our auditors are Ernst & Young.

Q So Ernst & Young would know the valuation placed upon the warrants as of September 12th?

A Ernst & Young would know and our chief financial officer at the time or one of the people in our accounting function, the chief financial officer at the time was either Engleman or Slotkin and the accounting person that comes to my mind is either Larry Winoker, probably Larry Winoker.

Q Could you spell Larry's last name?

A W-I-N-O-K-E-R.

Q You can set that aside for the time being.

Did you give a deposition in the Monica Lewinsky investigation by the office of the special prosecutor?

A I was interviewed. I don't think I gave a deposition.
Q The interview, was it under oath?
A I don't think so. I'm not sure.
Q When did you do that?
A Sometime after that investigation began.
Q Well, I'm not quite sure what you mean by when the investigation began. By point of reference, I can tell you that my understanding based on researching the issue is that the story about Ms. Lewinsky and any connection to Revlon began by a disclosure in the Washington Post and the L.A. Times on January 21 of 1998. Is that square with your recollection?
A Sometime early '98, sure.
Q And as the chief legal officer of MacAndrews & Forbes, did you have any responsibility for handling any legal matters that arose out of the Monica Lewinsky investigation by the office of the special prosecutor?

Page 238

A Sure.
Q What were your responsibilities in a generalized sense for the jury?
A I dealt with an outside law firm that represented various different MacAndrews & Forbes, and I think in a few instances Revlon employees, who were summoned by agents for the office of the special prosecutor.
Q In addition to yourself being interviewed, Mr. Perelman, indeed, was deposed, was he not, by the office of the special prosecutor?
A I believe that's correct.
Q Were you present during the deposition?
A I don't think so.
Q And who is the outside law firm that represented you in this investigation?
A Stillman & Friedman.
Q And the investigation involving Miss Lewinsky which was first disclosed on or about January 21st of 1998 continued all the way through the closing of the Coleman-Sunbeam transaction, did it not?

Page 239

A I don't know. There were interviews that took place during that period of time.
Q If it's of any assistance, we can go on the internet to check these things, the prior report by the office of the special prosecutor.
Mr. Perelman was deposed on April 28, 1998. Is that consistent with your recollection?
A You asked me if I knew how long the investigation went on. I don't know how long the investigation went on. I do know that there were various people, including Mr. Perelman, who were interviewed or deposed and that happened during that period, yes, sir.
Q And that period it occurred during that period between February 27, 1998 when the merger agreements were signed, like MS 93, MS 117 and the date of the closing of March 30th of 1998, correct?
A Yeah, and beyond. You just told me that Perelman was deposed in April.
Q I did tell you that. Based on the records I have seen, he was deposed on April 23rd.

Page 240

A I don't doubt it.
Q And during this time when the Lewinsky investigation was going on involving Revlon and the subpoena to -- excuse me.
During this period, Mr. Perelman actually received a subpoena from the special prosecutor in the Lewinsky investigation, did he not?
MR. MARMER: You're talking about from your partner?
MR. BEMIS: I think that is inappropriate. I'm not even going to comment on that.
Q Did Mr. Perelman not receive a subpoena from the special prosecutor?
A We were asked to gather documents. I don't remember if there was a subpoena directed to any person. Frankly, I don't remember if we received a subpoena. We did gather documents and they were turned over to Stillman and they, in turn, were turned over to investigators for the special prosecutor.

Q Again, this was during the --
MR. BEMIS: Withdrawn.
Q The subpoena that you're referring to, this was issued and responded to during the time the Coleman transaction was pending closing, correct?
A I don't remember. My guess is yes.
Q And at the time -- also during this time, Mr. Jordan --
MR. BEMIS: Strike that.
Q Before the closing on March 30th, Mr. Vernon Jordan also testified before the grand jury that was investigating the matter, did he not?
A I remember that. I don't know when I learned that.
Q Well, is it fair to say that you as chief legal officer of MacAndrews & Forbes was monitoring closely the Lewinsky investigation to the extent that it implicated or involved Mr. Perelman or the Revlon -- or Revlon, of which he owns a substantial interest?

Page 242

A It's fair to say that I paid attention to the matter and it's fair to say that I relied heavily on the Stillman & Friedman firm in connection with that matter.
Q Was there anybody else in your legal department who was tasked with monitoring the Lewinsky investigation and the inquiries that were being made by the special prosecutor by Mr. Perelman and Revlon officials and, indeed, yourself, as you said, you were interviewed other than yourself --
MR. BEMIS: That is a terrible question. Let me try that again.
A There was another lawyer who worked with us then who I don't think I identified for you earlier this morning. His name is Eric Golden. He may have also been dealing with the Stillman firm.
Q Golden just like it sounds, G-O-L-D-E-N?
A Yes.
Q Eric, E-R-I-C?
A Yes.

Page 243

Q Does he work for MacAndrews & Forbes now?
A He does not.
Q And do you know where is he today? And in that, obviously, not this exact moment but where he lives today.
A He lives in Santa Monica, California.
Q And what does he do there?
A He is the general counsel of a public company called Panavision.
Q Panavision, a company that is owned by Mr. Perelman, correct, at least in part?
A A company in which we have a substantial ownership interest in.
Q You have more than a majority interest but it is more than 50 percent?
A It is.
Q Something like 78 percent?
A It's closer to 86 percent.
Q I apologize for my math errors. My memory does not serve me well on all your companies.
Was he then -- did he move to -- did he move to Panavision after the Lewinsky investigation?

MR. MARMER: You mean directly after?
Q Temporally after?
A Our involvement with the inquiry about --
Q Can I ask -- your counsel --
A Can I answer your question?
Q He has a good point. The question is really so poorly framed timewise I don't know how you can answer it fairly.
Assuming Mr. Perelman was deposed on the date that I said, April 23rd of 1998, did Mr. Goldman go to Panavision after that date?
A Yes, substantially after that date. He left us to become the general counsel of the Washington Redskins. And after he was at the Washington Redskins, he was determined to leave that position and we offered him a job at Panavision. I believe that was calendar 2002.
Q I have to give that one some thought because I think I know what you're talking about but it's not important for us right now so we'll let it go.

A You asked me if it was close in time.

Q I'm not quarelling with you. I was thinking of something else trying to put a date in my mind and I couldn't do it.

MR. BEMIS: Why don't you give me five minutes alone and we might be done. Kind of stay close.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 5:05 p.m. and we're going off the video record.

(Recess)

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 5:10 p.m. and we're back on the video record.

MR. BEMIS: We have no further questions at this time.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

MR. BEMIS: We thank you for your courtesy for appearing here today and it's a pleasure to meet you, sir.

THE WITNESS: Likewise.

THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is 5:10 p.m.

This completes tape three and also the videotaped deposition of Mr. Barry Schwartz.

Information Statement Pursuant to Section 14(f) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and Rule 14f-1 thereunder

---

This Information Statement is being mailed on or about March __, 1998 to holders of record as of March __, 1998 of shares of Common Stock, par value $.01 per share ("Company Common Stock" or "Coleman Common Stock"), of The Coleman Company, Inc., a Delaware corporation (the "Company" or "Coleman"), in connection with (i) the election of persons designated by Sunbeam Corporation, a Delaware corporation ("Sunbeam"), as directors of the Company otherwise than at a meeting of the stockholders of the Company and (ii) the resignation of the current directors of the Company, in each case, pursuant to an Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of February 27, 1998 (the "Holdings Merger Agreement"), among Sunbeam, Laser Acquisition Corp., a Delaware corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of Sunbeam ("LAC"), Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc., a Delaware corporation ("Parent Holdings"), and CLN Holdings Inc., a Delaware corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of Parent Holdings ("CLN Holdings"). CLN Holdings is an indirect wholly owned subsidiary of Mafco Holdings Inc., a corporation wholly owned by Ronald O. Perelman ("Mafco"), and is the indirect beneficial owner of 44,067,520 shares of Company Common Stock, representing approximately 82.4% of the total number of outstanding shares.

Pursuant to the Holdings Merger Agreement, LAC will be merged with CLN Holdings (the "Holdings Merger"). In the Holdings Merger, all of the outstanding shares of capital stock of CLN Holdings will be converted into the right to receive (i) 14,099,749 fully paid nonassessable shares of common stock, par value $.01 per share, of Sunbeam ("Sunbeam Common Stock") and (ii) $159,956,756 in cash, without interest thereon. As a result of the Holdings Merger, CLN Holdings will become a wholly owned subsidiary of Sunbeam and Sunbeam will become the indirect owner of approximately 82.4% of the outstanding Company Common Stock.

At the same time that it entered into the Holdings Merger Agreement, Sunbeam also entered into an Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of February 27, 1998 (the "Company Merger Agreement"), with the Company and Camper Acquisition Corp., a Delaware corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of Sunbeam ("CAC"). Pursuant to the Company Merger Agreement, following the consummation of the Holdings Merger, CAC will be merged with the Company (the "Company Merger"). In the Company Merger, each outstanding share of Company Common Stock (other than shares held indirectly by Sunbeam and dissenting shares, if any) will be converted into the right to receive (i) 0.5677 of a share of Sunbeam Common Stock and (ii) $6.44 in cash, without interest thereon. Upon consummation of the Company Merger, the Company will become a wholly owned subsidiary of Sunbeam.

Consummation of the Holdings Merger is subject to the expiration of the applicable waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended, and the satisfaction of certain other customary conditions. It is currently anticipated that the Holdings Merger will be completed later this month or early next month. Consummation of the Company Merger is subject to the completion of the Holdings Merger and the preparation and filing of definitive documents with the Securities and Exchange Commission. It is anticipated that the Company Merger will be consummated later this Spring. Neither the Holdings Merger nor the Company Merger requires the approval of Sunbeam's or the Company's stockholders.

Additional information with respect to the Holdings Merger and the Company Merger and the shares of Sunbeam Common Stock to be received by the Company's stockholders in the Company Merger will be contained in an Information Statement and Prospectus to be mailed to all holders of the Company Common Stock prior to the consummation of the Company Merger.

Pursuant to the Holdings Merger Agreement, all current members of the Company's board of directors will remain as directors until the consummation of the Holdings Merger, at which time they will resign from their positions as directors of the Company, and up to six individuals designated by Sunbeam will become directors of the Company. Sunbeam has elected to designate five individuals to become directors of the Company (the "Sunbeam Designees"), and information with respect to the Sunbeam Designees is set forth below.

No action is required on the part of the stockholders of the Company in order to effect the election of the Sunbeam Designees. Nevertheless, Section 14(f) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"), requires the mailing to the Company's stockholders of the information set forth in this Information Statement at least ten days prior to a change in a majority of the Company's directors otherwise than at a meeting of the Company's stockholders.

The information contained in this Information Statement concerning the Sunbeam Designees and the information set forth in the section entitled "Source and Amount of Funds for Change in Control" has been furnished to the Company by Sunbeam and the Company assumes no responsibility for such information. The principal executive offices of the Company are located at 2111 East 37th Street North, Wichita, Kansas 67219, and the principal executive offices of Sunbeam are located at 1615 South Congress Avenue, Suite 200, Delray Beach, Florida, 33445.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS AND ITS COMMITTEES

During 1997, the Board met five times. The average attendance of all directors at Board and Committee meetings during 1997 was 95%. During 1997, Mr. Hammes missed the one board meeting held while he was still a director.

The Committees established by the Board to assist it in the discharge of its responsibilities are the Executive Committee, the Audit Committee, and the Management Compensation and Stock Option Committee, all of which are described below. The Company does not have a Nominating Committee.

The Executive Committee consists of four members, Messrs. Perelman, Drapkin, Levin, and Slovin. The Executive Committee is authorized and empowered to act on behalf of and in place of the Board of Directors to exercise all the power and authority of the Board of Directors consistent with the Certificate of Incorporation and Bylaws of the Company and the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware. The Executive Committee took action by unanimous written consent seven times during 1997, and did not meet during 1997.

The Audit Committee consists of three members, Messrs. Moran, Jones, and Spoor, all of whom are directors who are not receiving compensation as employees of the Company or its affiliates. The Audit Committee provides assistance to the Board in fulfilling its responsibilities to the stockholders, potential stockholders, and the investment community relating to corporate accounting and reporting practices, and the quality and integrity of the financial reports. In carrying out these responsibilities, the Audit Committee reviews and recommends the selection of the Company's independent public accountants to the Board, meets with the independent public accountants and management to review proposed audits, reviews adequacy and effectiveness of accounting and financial controls of the Company, and gives recommendations for the improvement of such internal control procedures. The Audit Committee met five times during 1997.

The Management Compensation and Stock Option Committee (the "Compensation Committee") consists of four members, Ms. Jordan and Messrs. Robinson, Drapkin, and Slovin, none of whom is an officer or employee of the Company and each of whom is ineligible to participate in any of the Company's executive compensation plans. The Compensation Committee's responsibilities include approving compensation policies and determining compensation for all of the Company's Board-elected officers, except junior officers; determining the eligibility of participants and the amount of all stock options and/or stock appreciation rights granted to any employee of the Company pursuant to the terms of the Company's stock option plans, as well as administering and interpreting those plans; and administering and overseeing The Coleman Company, Inc. Executive Annual Incentive Plan (the "Incentive Plan"). The Compensation Committee took action by unanimous written consent four times and met seven times during 1997.

COMPENSATION OF DIRECTORS

Directors who are not currently receiving compensation as employees of the Company or any of its affiliates are paid an annual retainer fee of $25,000 and are reimbursed for reasonable out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with Company business. In addition, such directors receive a fee of $1,000 for each meeting of the Board of Directors or any committee meeting that they attend.

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENTS AND TERMINATION OF EMPLOYMENT ARRANGEMENTS

The Company has an employment agreement with Mr. Levin effective for the term October 1, 1997 through December 31, 2000. In connection with the Company Merger Agreement with Sunbeam Corporation, the Company will not have any responsibility for the Company's obligations under Mr. Levin's employment agreement following consummation of the Holdings Merger, except for payment of the transaction bonus described below. Pursuant to the employment agreement, Mr. Levin is entitled to a transaction bonus equal to 1.5% of the enterprise value of certain divestitures, up to a maximum aggregate amount of $1.5 million. The consummation of the sale of Coleman Safety & Security Products, Inc. would result in a transaction bonus payable to Mr. Levin of $1.5 million.

The Company has an employment agreement with Mr. Shapiro effective for the term July 1, 1997 through June 30, 2000. In connection with the Company Merger Agreement with Sunbeam, the Company will not have any responsibility for the Company's obligations under Mr. Shapiro's employment agreement following consummation of the Holdings Merger.

The Company has an employment agreement with Mr. McEvoy effective for the term January 1, 1996 through December 31, 1998. Pursuant to the employment agreement, Mr. McEvoy is paid a base salary of $200,000 per annum, and is entitled to participate in the Company's Management Incentive Plan with a 70% target bonus opportunity. The employment agreement with Mr. McEvoy also provides for, among other things, participation in the Company's other benefit plans and payments upon death, disability, termination without cause and, subject to certain conditions, change of control of the Company. Upon a termination of employment without cause, or termination of employment upon a change of control, Mr. McEvoy would be entitled to, for two years, among other things, to receive payments equal to base salary and target bonus and to participate in the Company's medical plans. In addition, Mr. McEvoy's employment agreement provides for a gross-up for certain excise taxes resulting from payments and benefits under the employment agreement. In addition, in connection with the sale of Coleman Safety & Security Products, Inc., the Company and Mr. McEvoy entered into a retention agreement. Pursuant to such retention agreement, Mr. McEvoy will receive, among other things, a special bonus for one year in an amount equal to Mr. McEvoy's base salary, provided that if Mr. McEvoy becomes entitled to severance payments under his employment contract as a result of a termination of employment within three months of a sale of Coleman Safety & Security Products, Inc., the severance payments to Mr. McEvoy under his employment agreement will be reduced by the payments of the special bonus.

Mr. Goldman had two employment agreements with the Company which became effective November 1, 1994 and terminated December 31, 1997. Under the agreements, which have identical material terms, Mr. Goldman's base salary was $250,000 per year, and Mr. Goldman was is eligible for a discretionary incentive payment each year.

Mr. Hammes had an employment agreement with the Company effective January 1, 1996, which provided for, among other things, a base salary of $700,000 per annum. Mr. Hammes' employment was terminated February 28, 1997. Effective such date, Mr. Hammes' entered into a severance agreement with the Company having a severance period of two years. Pursuant to the severance agreement, Mr. Hammes is entitled to, among other things, severance payments during the severance period at the rate of $700,000 per annum, and continued participation in the Company's medical plans during the severance period, and is entitled to certain pension payments beginning March 1, 1999. In addition, pursuant to the severance agreement, Mr. Hammes was paid a lump sum payment during 1997 of $450,000 and is entitled to another $450,000 lump sum payment at the end of the severance period.

Mr. van den Bergh had an employment agreement with the Company effective as of May 1, 1996, which provided for, among other things, a base salary of $500,000 per annum. Mr. van den Bergh's employment was terminated effective June 30, 1997. Effective such date, Mr. van den Bergh entered into a severance agreement with the Company having a severance period of one year. Pursuant to the severance agreement, Mr. van den Bergh is entitled to, among other things, severance payments during the severance period at the rate of $500,000 per annum, and continued participation in the Company's medical plans during the severance period. In addition, pursuant to the severance agreement, Mr. van den Bergh was paid two lump sum payment during 1997 totaling $550,000.

Mr. Kaplan had an employment agreement with the Company effective as of August 1, 1996, which provided for, among other things, a base salary of $280,000 per annum. Mr. Kaplan's employment was terminated effective August 1, 1997. Effective such date Mr. Kaplan entered into a severance agreement with the Company having a severance period of two years. Pursuant to the severance agreement, Mr. Kaplan is entitled to, among other things, severance payments during the severance period at the rate of $426,000 per annum, and continued participation in the Company's medical plans during the severance period.

REPORT ON EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION BY THE COMPENSATION COMMITTEE*

The Compensation Committee is comprised entirely of directors who are not officers or employees of the Company. The Compensation Committee is composed of Messrs. Robinson (Chairman), Drapkin and Slovin, and Ms. Jordan. The Compensation Committee is responsible for:

- Reviewing and approving the salary and annual incentive compensation of the Company's executive officers;
- Reviewing, approving or modifying performance standards against which annual incentive compensation awards will be made for executive officers;
- Reviewing, approving or modifying annual incentive compensation awards for executive officers;
- Reviewing, approving or modifying stock option awards for all employees, including executive officers;
- Reviewing, approving or modifying supplemental benefit or compensation plans which are available to designated executives;
- Reviewing and recommending to the Board of Directors changes to current executive officer benefit plans or the adoption of new executive compensation programs requiring shareholder approval; and
- Reviewing and acting as appropriate on any other issues relating to executive compensation and brought to the Compensation Committee by the Chairman for its consideration.

COMPENSATION PHILOSOPHY

In 1994, the compensation philosophy for the Company was developed and adopted. The philosophy includes the following principles:

- Support the achievement of the Company's desired financial performance and return to shareholders;
- Provide compensation that will attract and retain the required high level talent; and
- Align executive officers' interests with the Company's success by linking both annual incentive compensation and long-term incentive compensation, in the form of stock option and/or stock appreciation rights awards, with the Company's success in achieving performance goals.

* Compensation Committee report is subject to the approval of the Compensation Committee.

CONFIDENTIAL - SUBJECT TO PROTECTIVE ORDER

The executive compensation philosophy for the Company, as approved and adopted by the Compensation Committee, provides for an overall level of potential compensation opportunity that, if aggressive financial goals are achieved and superior shareholder returns are realized, will be at a 75th percentile level of competitiveness with consumer products companies of comparable size. To determine pay level opportunities, the Compensation Committee consulted with outside consultants and with the Company's officer responsible for human resources.

The Compensation Committee intends to provide a median competitive level of base salary and executive benefits when compared to like-sized consumer products companies. Annual incentive and stock option opportunities are intended to be set above predicted competitive norms. Actual individual compensation levels will be greater or lesser than median competitive levels, based upon annual and long-term Company performance. The Compensation Committee, at its discretion, sets executive compensation at levels which it judges are justified by external, internal and other circumstances.

COMPLIANCE WITH FEDERAL TAX LEGISLATION

The Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1993 added Section 162(m) to the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), which generally precludes the Company and other public companies from taking a tax deduction for compensation over $1 million which is not "performance-based" and is paid or otherwise taxable, to executives named in the Summary Compensation Table and employed by the Company at the end of the applicable tax year. The Company attempts to preserve as much deduction as possible without undercutting the compensation objectives set forth above. Each director on the Compensation Committee is an "outside director" within the meaning of Section 162(m) of the Code.

BASE COMPENSATION

During 1997, the base compensation of each executive officer was reviewed and compared to median levels of competitiveness for similarly sized consumer products companies. The Company has adopted the practice of base compensation increases for executive officers based on an annual review of the executive performance and to adjust compensation to keep it approximately to the standard described above.

ANNUAL CASH INCENTIVE COMPENSATION

The Chief Executive Officer was paid a bonus based on the targets in the Management Incentive Plan, even though certain conditions to payments of the target bonus were not satisfied. The bonuses were paid to recognize the substantial progress made in the restructuring of Coleman. The other named executive officers who were employed by Coleman at the end of the year were also paid a bonus based on the same criteria. During 1997, no bonus was paid to the former Chief Executive Officer.

LONG TERM INCENTIVES

In 1997, the Compensation Committee approved option grants to the Chief Executive Officer of 200,000 shares on February 11, 1997, at an exercise price of $12.25 and 300,000 shares on April 14, 1997 at an exercise price of $14.00. It also approved grants totaling in the aggregate 160,000 shares to the other named executive officers employed by the Company at the end of 1997. The options generally have terms of 10 years, and vest ratably over three successive years, beginning three years following the date of grant. The Compensation Committee believes that these grants, which were primarily made in the first half of 1997, provides an appropriate link between the interests of executives with those of the Company's shareholders.

OTHER BENEFITS

The Company provides medical and retirement benefits to executive officers that are generally available to Company salaried employees, including participation in medical and dental benefit plans, a qualified 401(k) employee savings plan and a qualified defined benefit retirement plan. In addition, the Company offers executive officers and other key management employees a nonqualified benefit equalization plan which is designed to make up for benefits that would otherwise be lost due to various tax limitations. The Company's benefit plans are intended to provide a median level of benefits when compared to similarly sized consumer products companies. The Company also offers executive officers certain executive perquisites which may be deemed to be a personal benefit or constitute compensation to such executive officers, including (for example) car allowances and reimbursements, and club membership dues.

The Compensation Committee believes the executive compensation philosophy and programs are appropriate and serve the interests of the shareholders and the Company.

CUMULATIVE SHAREHOLDER RETURN PERFORMANCE GRAPH

The graph set forth below presents a comparison of cumulative shareholder return for the Company Common Stock since the date of the initial public offering, on an indexed basis, as compared with the S&P Midcap 400 stock index and a selected peer group of companies.

The group of companies selected for the peer group represents a portfolio of companies which share certain characteristics considered relevant to the earnings performance and related cumulative shareholder return for the Company Common Stock. Selection of the peer group for the performance line was impacted by the fact that many of the Company's direct competitors are privately held or are subsidiaries of much larger public companies. Selection criteria applied in formulating the group of 12 companies, each of whose stock is publicly traded, required each company to share one or more of the following characteristics representative of the Company: (a) competitors with the Company in one or more of its product lines; (b) companies which serve mass merchandisers and their customers; (c) companies offering strong brand name consumer products; and (d) companies serving recreational products consumers.

The 12 companies selected as the peer group are as follows: Johnson Worldwide Associates, Inc.; Anthony Industries, Inc.; Huffy Corporation; Kellwood Company (parent of American Recreation Products, Inc.); Russell Corporation; Snap-on Tools Corporation; Sunbeam-Oster Company, Inc.; Brunswick Corporation; V.F. Corporation (parent of JanSport, Inc.); Newell Co.; Rubbermaid Incorporated; and Cooper Industries, Inc.

PENSION PLANS

Retirement Plan. The Company participates in the New Coleman Company, Inc. Retirement Plan for Salaried Employees (the "Salaried Pension Plan") which replaced a prior plan that was terminated on June 30, 1989. Participants in the Salaried Pension Plan include participants under the prior plan and certain salaried exempt employees who are at least 21 years old and have completed at least one year of service with the Company.

Benefits to participants vest fully after five years of Vesting Service (as defined in the Salaried Pension Plan) and such benefits are determined primarily by a formula based on the average of the five consecutive years of greatest compensation earned during the last ten years of the participant's service to the Company, and the number of years of service attained by the individual participant. Such compensation is composed primarily of regular base salary and contributions to qualified deferred compensation plans and does not include amounts paid pursuant to the Company's annual cash incentive compensation plans. Participants make no contributions to the Salaried Pension Plan.

Excess Benefit Plan. The Company participates in the New Coleman Holdings Inc. Excess Benefit Plan (the "Excess Benefit Plan") for designated employees who are participants in the Salaried Pension Plan and whose retirement income from the Salaried Pension Plan in the form of payment to be made under the Salaried Pension Plan exceeds the maximum permissible under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, as amended, and certain Internal Revenue Code provisions. The Excess Benefit Plan supplements the Salaried Pension Plan by providing additional retirement benefits to its participants in excess of the maximum amount permitted under the Salaried Pension Plan, which benefits generally are payable in conjunction with payments made under the Salaried Pension Plan. Benefits payable under the Excess Benefit Plan have been included in the estimated annual benefits payable listed on the table following discussion of the Consolidated Supplemental Retirement Plan. The Excess Benefit Plan was amended and restated effective January 1, 1995 to add a provision allowing annual cash incentive compensation plan payments to designated participants to be included as compensation in the formula used to determine benefits under the Excess Benefit Plan. Thirteen executives participated in this feature of the Excess Benefit Plan during 1997.

Consolidated Supplemental Retirement Plan. In addition to the obligation of the Company under the Salaried Pension Plan and the Excess Benefit Plan, the Company had committed to provide other supplemental retirement benefits solely for Mr. Hammes, including credit for additional years of service and certain other formula Benefits under the Salaried Pension Plan are payable upon normal retirement at age 65, and at age 55 following vested termination, disability, and death. A participant may elect to commence early benefit payments at any time after the participant's 55th birthday or may retire with 30 years of Vesting Service at amounts reduced from those payable upon normal retirement age. As of December 31, 1997, credited years of service for each of the individuals listed on the Summary Compensation Table are as follows: Mr. Levin, 8.7 years; Mr. Ramon, 4.6 years; Mr. Goldman, 4 years; Mr. Stearns 21.2; Mr. McEvoy, 3.8 years; Mr. Hammes, 3.4 years; Mr. van den Bergh, zero years; and Mr. Kaplan 1.1 years. In accordance with Mr. Hammes' termination of employment agreement (see, Employment Agreements and Termination of Employment Arrangements) discussed above, Mr. Hammes will be entitled to receive a pension of $15,110 per month commencing March 1, 1999.

SECURITY OWNERSHIP OF CERTAIN BENEFICIAL OWNERS AND MANAGEMENT

SOURCE AND AMOUNT OF FUNDS FOR CHANGE IN CONTROL

Upon consummation of the Holdings Merger, Sunbeam will have acquired control of the Company. The total amount of funds and other consideration required by Sunbeam to consummate the Holdings Merger is $159,956,756 in cash and 14,099,749 shares of Sunbeam Common Stock (collectively, the "Holdings Merger Consideration"). Sunbeam expects to obtain the cash portion of the Holdings Merger Consideration from a combination of new revolving and term credit facilities and the issuance of other debt securities that are expected to be issued by Sunbeam concurrently with the closing of the Holdings Merger. Sunbeam has made no decision with respect to repayment or refinancing of such indebtedness and may repay such indebtedness out of its internally generated funds or from proceeds of a subsequent financing. Any decisions with respect to such repayment or refinancing will be made based on a review from time to time of the advisability of particular transactions, as well as on prevailing interest rates and financial and economic conditions.

CERTAIN RELATIONSHIPS AND RELATED TRANSACTIONS

Relationship with MacAndrews & Forbes. Ronald O. Perelman, through MacAndrews & Forbes, beneficially owns indirectly approximately 82% of Coleman's Common Stock. Due to its stock ownership, MacAndrews & Forbes controls Coleman and is able to elect the entire board of directors. On February 27, 1998, the Holdings Merger Agreement and the Company Merger Agreement were executed as described in further detail above. As a result of the Holdings Merger, CLN Holdings will become a wholly owned subsidiary of Sunbeam and Sunbeam will become the indirect owner of approximately 82% of the outstanding Coleman Common Stock. Additionally, upon consummation of the Holdings Merger, all of the current members of Coleman's board of directors will will resign from their positions as directors and the five Sunbeam Designees will become directors of the Company.

MacAndrews & Forbes is a diversified holding company with interests in several industries. The principal executive offices of MacAndrews & Forbes are located at 35 East 62nd Street, New York, New York 10021.

Cross-Indemnification Agreement. Coleman and New Coleman Holdings Inc. ("New Coleman Holdings") are parties to a cross-indemnification agreement (the "Cross-Indemnification Agreement"), pursuant to which Coleman has agreed to indemnify New Coleman Holdings against all liabilities related to the outdoor products business transferred to Coleman, and New Coleman Holdings has agreed to indemnify Coleman and its immediate corporate parent against all liabilities of New Coleman Holdings other than liabilities related to the outdoor products business transferred to Coleman. The liabilities that Coleman will indemnify New Coleman Holdings against include (i) asserted and potential product liability claims arising out of products manufactured or sold by the outdoor products business, and (ii) asserted and potential environmental claims and liabilities related to facilities currently or formerly owned or used by the outdoor products business.

Tax Sharing Agreement. Coleman is included in the consolidated tax group of which Mafco is the common parent and Coleman's tax liability will be included in the consolidated Federal income tax liability of Mafco. Coleman is also included in certain state and local tax returns of Mafco or its affiliates. Coleman participates in a Tax Sharing Agreement (the "Tax Sharing Agreement") pursuant to which it pays to Coleman Worldwide amounts equal to the taxes that Coleman would otherwise have to pay if it were to file separate Federal, state or local income tax returns (including any amounts determined to be due as a result of a redetermination of the tax liability of Mafco arising from an audit or otherwise). Under Federal law, Coleman is subject to liability for the consolidated Federal income tax liabilities of the consolidated group of which Mafco is the common parent, for any taxable period during which Coleman or a subsidiary is a member of that consolidated group. Mafco has agreed, however, to indemnify Coleman for such Federal income tax liability (and certain state and local tax liabilities) of Mafco or any of its subsidiaries that Coleman is actually required to pay. Because the payments to be made by Coleman under the Tax Sharing Agreement are determined by the amount of taxes that Coleman would otherwise have to pay if it were to file separate Federal, state or local income tax returns, the Tax Sharing Agreement will benefit Mafco to the extent that Mafco can offset the taxable income generated by Coleman against losses and tax credits generated by Mafco and its other subsidiaries. Following the consummation of the Holdings Merger, Coleman will no longer be a part of Mafco's consolidated tax group and the Tax Sharing Agreement will terminated.

Insurance Programs. Coleman is insured under policies maintained by MacAndrews & Forbes or its affiliates, including health and life insurance, workers compensation, and liability insurance. The Company's expense represents its expected costs for self-insured retentions and premiums for excess coverage insurance. For 1997, the expense for such insurance was approximately $13.3 million. Management believes that the terms for such insurance are at least as favorable as terms that would be obtainable were the Company separately insured.

Services Provided by and to Other Affiliates. From time to time, Coleman purchases at negotiated rates specialized accounting and other services provided by an affiliate. Coleman also provides at negotiated rates specialized accounting services and other services to an affiliate. The net expense for such services was approximately $400,000 during 1997. Coleman believes that the terms of such arrangements are at least as favorable to Coleman as those it could have negotiated with nonaffiliated parties. In addition, certain employees of the Company have been paid by MacAndrews & Forbes or other affiliates of the Company, and the Company reimburses such affiliates for the compensation expense for such employees.

Purchases of Inactive Subsidiaries. During the first quarter of 1997, Coleman purchased an inactive subsidiary from an affiliate for approximately $1.0 million, plus a portion of certain tax benefits to the extent such benefits are realized by Coleman. During the fourth quarter of 1997, Coleman purchased an inactive subsidiary from an affiliate for which the Company agreed to pay 50% of the tax benefits realized by Coleman when and if such benefits are realized. Coleman expects to realize certain tax benefits from the tax losses of such subsidiaries.

Office Lease. Coleman subleases its office space in New York City from an affiliate. The rent paid by Coleman represents the allocable portion, based on the space leased, of the rent paid by the affiliate to its third party landlord. The expense for such rent during 1997 was approximately $158,000. Coleman believes that the terms of the sublease are at least as favorable to Coleman as those it could have negotiated with nonaffiliated parties.

Pension Plans. Holdings maintains pension and other retirement plans in various forms covering employees of Coleman who meet eligibility requirements. Holdings also has an unfunded excess benefit plan covering certain of Coleman's U.S. employees whose benefits under the plans described above are limited by provisions of the Internal Revenue Code. Coleman pays to Holdings its allocable costs of maintaining such plans for Coleman's employees. As part of the consummation of the Holdings Merger, such pension and other benefits plans will be assigned to and assumed by Coleman.

Other Arrangements. At the beginning of 1995, Mr. McEvoy, an Executive Vice President of Coleman, had a noninterest-bearing loan from Coleman in the amount of $63,333. At the end of 1997, the principal balance of the loan was $0.

During 1997, Coleman purchased licensing services from an affiliate, for which it paid approximately $650,000.

During 1997, Coleman sold products to an affiliate, for which it received approximately $0.9 million.

During 1997, Coleman used an airplane owned by a corporation of which a director of Coleman is a stockholder, for which Coleman paid approximately $158,000.

During 1997, a subsidiary of Coleman paid approximately $254,000 for warehouse space leased from a real estate partnership in which Mr. Goldman, an Executive Vice President of Coleman, and three other immediate family members of Mr. Goldman's are partners. A manufacturing business owned by Mr. Goldman's father contracted with Coleman's subsidiary for the manufacture of goods sold to the subsidiary, for which the subsidiary paid approximately $2.6 million during 1997. Pursuant to the agreement by which Coleman acquired the Eastpak business, Mr. Goldman is entitled to certain additional payments from Coleman upon Eastpak achieving certain operating targets. In accordance with such agreement, a final additional payment of $12.0 million was paid to Mr. Gold-

SECTION 16(A) BENEFICIAL OWNERSHIP REPORTING COMPLIANCE

Section 16(a) of the Exchange Act requires the Company's directors and executive officers, and persons who own more than 10 percent of the Company Common Stock, to file reports of ownership and changes in ownership with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Based solely on the Company's review of the reporting forms received by it, the Company believes that for 1997 all such filing requirements were satisfied.

"Withdrawal Liability" means liability to a Multiemployer Plan as a result of a complete or partial withdrawal from such Multiemployer Plan, as such terms are defined in Part I of Subtitle E of Title IV of ERISA.

SECTION 1.02. Classification of Loans and Borrowings. For purposes of this Agreement, Loans may be classified and referred to by Class (e.g., a "Revolving Loan") or by Type (e.g., a "Eurodollar Loan") or by Class and Type (e.g., a "Eurodollar Revolving Loan"). Borrowings also may be classified and referred to by Class (e.g., a "Revolving Borrowing") or by Type (e.g., a "Eurodollar Borrowing") or by Class and Type (e.g., a "Eurodollar Revolving Borrowing").

SECTION 1.03. Terms Generally. The definitions of terms herein shall apply equally to the singular and plural forms of the terms defined. Whenever the context may require, any pronoun shall include the corresponding masculine, feminine and neuter forms. The words "include", "includes" and "including" shall be deemed to be followed by the phrase "without limitation". The word "will" shall be construed to have the same meaning and effect as the word "shall". Unless the context requires otherwise (a) any definition of or reference to any agreement, instrument or other document herein shall be construed as referring to such agreement, instrument or other document as from time to time amended, supplemented or otherwise modified (subject to any restrictions on such amendments, supplements or modifications set forth herein), (b) any reference herein to any Person shall be construed to include such Person's successors and assigns, (c) the words "herein", "hereof" and "hereunder", and words of similar import, shall be construed to refer to this Agreement in its entirety and not to any particular provision hereof, (d) all references herein to Articles, Sections, Exhibits and Schedules shall be construed to refer to Articles and Sections of, and Exhibits and Schedules to, this Agreement and (e) the words "asset" and "property" shall be construed to have the same meaning and effect and to refer to any and all tangible and intangible assets and properties, including cash, securities, accounts and contract rights.

SECTION 1.04. Accounting Terms; GAAP. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein, all terms of an accounting or financial nature shall be construed in accordance with GAAP, as in effect from time to time (subject to Section 6.10; provided that, if the Parent notifies the Administrative Agent that the Parent requests an amendment to any provision hereof to eliminate the effect of any change occurring after the date hereof in GAAP or in the application thereof on the operation of such provision (or if the Administrative Agent notifies the Parent that the Required Lenders request an amendment to any provision hereof for such purpose), regardless of whether any such notice is given before or after such change in GAAP or in the application thereof, then such provision shall be interpreted on the basis of GAAP as in effect and applied immediately before such change shall have become effective until such notice shall have been withdrawn or such provision amended in accordance herewith.

ARTICLE 2
THE CREDITS

SECTION 2.01. Commitments. (a) Tranche A Term Loans. Subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein, each Lender agrees to make loans to any Borrower on not more than four dates during the Tranche A Availability Period in an aggregate principal amount that will not result in such Lender's Tranche A Term Loans to all Borrowers exceeding such Lender's Tranche A Term Commitment. Loans made pursuant to this paragraph are not revolving in nature and amounts of such loans repaid or prepaid may not be reborrowed.

(b) Tranche B Term Loans. Subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein, each Lender agrees to make a single loan to any Borrower during the Tranche B Availability Period in a principal amount that will not result in such Lender's Tranche B Term Loans to all Borrowers exceeding such Lender's Tranche B Term Commitment. Loans made pursuant to this paragraph are not revolving in nature and amounts of such loans repaid or prepaid may not be reborrowed.

(c) Revolving Loans. Subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein, each Lender agrees to make loans to any Borrower from time to time during the Revolving Credit Availability Period in an aggregate principal amount that will not result in such Lender's Revolving Credit Exposure to all Borrowers exceeding such Lender's Revolving Commitment; provided that, prior to the Tranche B Term Loan Borrowing, the aggregate amount of the Revolving Credit Exposure of all of the Lenders shall not exceed $100,000,000. Within the foregoing limits and subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein, the Borrowers may borrow, prepay and reborrow Revolving Loans.

SECTION 2.02. Loans and Borrowings. (a) Each Loan shall be made as part of a Borrowing consisting of Loans of the relevant Class made by the Lenders ratably in accordance with their respective Commitments of such Class. The failure of any Lender to make any Loan required to be made by it shall not relieve any other Lender of its obligations hereunder; provided that the Commitments of the Lenders are several and no Lender shall be responsible for any other Lender's failure to make Loans as required.

(b) Subject to Section 2.13, each Borrowing shall be comprised entirely of ABR Loans or Eurodollar Loans as the Borrower may request in accordance herewith. Each Lender at its option may make any Eurodollar Loan by causing any domestic or foreign branch or Affiliate of such Lender to make such Loan; provided that any exercise of such option shall not affect the obligation of the Borrower to repay such Loan in accordance with the terms of this Agreement.

(c) At the commencement of each Interest Period for any Eurodollar Borrowing, such Borrowing shall be in an aggregate amount that is an integral multiple of $1,000,000 and not less than $5,000,000. At the time that each ABR Revolving Borrowing is made, such Borrowing shall be in an aggregate amount that is an integral multiple of $500,000 and not less than $1,000,000; provided that an ABR Revolving Borrowing may be in an aggregate amount that is equal to the entire unused balance of the total Commitments or that is required to finance the reimbursement of an LC Disbursement as contemplated by Section 2.04(e). Borrowings of more than one Type and Class may be outstanding at the same time; provided that there shall not at any time be more than a total of twelve Eurodollar Borrowings outstanding.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement, the Borrower shall not be entitled to request, or to elect to convert or continue, any Borrowing of any Class if the Interest Period requested with respect thereto would end after the Maturity Date for the relevant Class.

SECTION 2.03. Requests for Borrowings. To request a Borrowing, the Borrower shall notify the Administrative Agent of such request by telephone (a) in the case of a Eurodollar Borrowing, not later than 11:00 a.m., Charlotte, North Carolina time, three Business Days before the date of the proposed Borrowing or

(b) in the case of an ABR Borrowing, not later than 10:00 a.m., Charlotte, North Carolina, on the same Business Day of the proposed Borrowing; provided that any such notice of an ABR Revolving Borrowing to finance the reimbursement of an LC Disbursement as contemplated by Section 2.04(e), may be given not later than 9:00 a.m., Charlotte, North Carolina time, on the date of the proposed Borrowing. Each such telephonic Borrowing Request shall be irrevocable and shall be confirmed promptly by hand delivery or telecopy to the Administrative Agent of a written Borrowing Request in a form approved by the Administrative Agent and signed by the Borrower. Each such telephonic and written Borrowing Request shall specify the following information in compliance with Section 2.02:

(i) the identity of the Borrower and the aggregate amount of the requested Borrowing;

(ii) the date of such Borrowing, which shall be a Business Day;

(iii) whether such Borrowing is to be a Tranche A Term Borrowing, a Tranche B Term Borrowing, or a Revolving Borrowing;

(iv) whether such Borrowing is to be an ABR Borrowing or a Eurodollar Borrowing;

(v) in the case of a Eurodollar Borrowing, the initial Interest Period to be applicable thereto, which shall be a period contemplated by the definition of the term "Interest Period"; and

(vi) the location and number of the Borrower's account to which funds are to be disbursed, which shall comply with the requirements of Section 2.05.

If no election as to the Type of Borrowing is specified, then the requested Borrowing shall be an ABR Borrowing. If no Interest Period is specified with respect to any requested Eurodollar Borrowing, then the Borrower shall be deemed to have selected an Interest Period of one month's duration. Promptly following receipt of a Borrowing Request in accordance with this Section, the Administrative Agent shall advise each Lender with a Commitment of the relevant Class of the details thereof and of the amount of such Lender's Loan to be made as part of the requested Borrowing.

SECTION 2.04. Letters of Credit. (a) Subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein, a Borrower may request the issuance of Letters of Credit for its own account, in a form reasonably acceptable to the Administrative Agent and the Issuing Bank, at any time and from time to time during the Revolving Credit Availability Period. In the event of any inconsistency between the terms and conditions of this Agreement and the terms and conditions of any form of letter of credit application or other agreement submitted by a Borrower to, or entered into by a Borrower with, the Issuing Bank relating to any Letter of Credit, the terms and conditions of this Agreement shall control.

(b) Notice of Issuance, Amendment, Renewal, Extension; Certain Conditions. To request the issuance of a Letter of Credit (or the amendment, renewal or extension of an outstanding Letter of Credit), a Borrower shall hand deliver or telecopy (or transmit by electronic communication, if arrangements for doing so have been approved by the Issuing Bank) to the Issuing Bank and the Administrative Agent (at least three Business Days before the requested date of issuance, amendment, renewal or extension) a notice requesting the issuance of a Letter of Credit, or identifying the Letter of Credit to be amended, renewed or extended, the date of issuance, amendment, renewal or extension, the date on which such Letter of Credit is to expire (which shall comply with paragraph (c) of this Section), the amount of such Letter of Credit, the name and address of the beneficiary thereof and such other information as shall be necessary to prepare, amend, renew or extend such Letter of Credit. If requested by the Issuing Bank, the Borrower also shall submit a letter of credit application on the Issuing Bank's standard form in connection with any request for a Letter of Credit. A Letter of Credit shall be issued, amended, renewed or extended only if (and upon issuance, amendment, renewal or extension of each Letter of Credit the Borrower shall be deemed to represent and warrant that), after giving effect to such issuance, amendment, renewal or extension (i) the LC Exposure shall not exceed $200,000,000 and (ii) the total Revolving Credit Exposures shall not exceed the total Revolving Commitments.

(c) Expiration Date. Each Letter of Credit shall expire at or prior to the close of business on the earlier of (i) the date one year after the date of the issuance of such Letter of Credit (or, in the case of any renewal or extension thereof, one year after such renewal or extension) and (ii) the date that is thirty Business Days prior to the Maturity Date for Revolving Loans.

(d) Participations. By the issuance of a Letter of Credit (or an amendment to a Letter of Credit increasing the amount thereof) and without any further action on the part of the Issuing Bank or the Lenders, the Issuing Bank hereby grants to each Lender, and each Lender hereby acquires from the Issuing Bank, a participation in such Letter of Credit equal to such Lender's Applicable Percentage (if any) of the aggregate amount available to be drawn under such Letter of Credit. In consideration and in furtherance of the foregoing, each Lender hereby absolutely and unconditionally agrees to pay to the Administrative Agent, for the account of the Issuing Bank, such Lender's Applicable Percentage (if any) of each LC Disbursement made by the Issuing Bank and not reimbursed on the date due as provided in paragraph (e) of this Section, or of any reimbursement payment required to be refunded for any reason. Each Lender acknowledges and agrees that its obligation to acquire participations in respect of Letters of Credit is absolute and unconditional and shall not be affected by any circumstance whatsoever, including any amendment, renewal or extension of any Letter of Credit or the occurrence and continuance of a Default or reduction or termination of the Revolving Commitments, and that each such payment shall be made without any offset, abatement, withholding or reduction whatsoever.

(e) Reimbursement. If the Issuing Bank shall make any LC Disbursement in respect of a Letter of Credit, the Borrower shall reimburse such LC Disbursement by paying to the Administrative Agent an amount equal to such LC Disbursement not later than 12:00 noon, Charlotte, North Carolina time, on the date that such LC Disbursement is made, if the Borrower shall have received notice of such LC Disbursement prior to 10:00 a.m., Charlotte, North Carolina time, on such date, or, if such notice has not been received by the Borrower prior to such time on such date, then not later than 12:00 noon, Charlotte, North Carolina time, on (i) the Business Day that the Borrower receives such notice, if such notice is received prior to 10:00 a.m., Charlotte, North Carolina time, on the day of receipt, or (ii) the Business Day immediately following the day that the Borrower receives such notice, if such notice is not received prior to such time on the day of receipt; provided that, if such LC Disbursement is not less than $500,000, the Borrower may, subject to the conditions to borrowing set forth herein, request in accordance with Section 2.03 that such payment be financed with an ABR Revolving Borrowing in an equivalent amount and, to the extent so financed, the Borrower's obligation to make such payment shall be discharged and replaced by the resulting ABR Revolving Borrowing. If the Borrower fails to make such payment when due, the Administrative Agent shall notify each Lender with a Revolving Commitment of the applicable LC Disbursement, the payment then due from the Borrower in respect thereof and such Lender's Applicable Percentage thereof. Promptly following receipt of such notice, each such Lender shall pay to the Administrative Agent its Applicable Percentage of the payment then due from the Borrower, in the same manner as provided in Section 2.05 with respect to Loans made by such Lender (and Section 2.05 shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to the payment obligations of the Lenders), and the Administrative Agent shall promptly pay to the Issuing Bank the amounts so received by it from the Lenders. Promptly following receipt by the Administrative Agent of any payment from the Borrower pursuant to this paragraph, the Administrative Agent shall distribute such payment to the Issuing Bank or, to the extent that Lenders have made payments pursuant to this paragraph to reimburse the Issuing Bank, then to such Lenders and the Issuing Bank as their interests may appear. Any payment made by a Lender pursuant to this paragraph to reimburse the Issuing Bank for any LC Disbursement (other than the funding of ABR Revolving Loans as contemplated above) shall not constitute a Loan and shall not relieve the Borrower of its obligation to reimburse such LC Disbursement.

(f) Obligations Absolute. Each Borrower's obligation to reimburse LC Disbursements as provided in paragraph (e) of this Section shall be absolute, unconditional and irrevocable, and shall be performed strictly in accordance with the terms of this Agreement under any and all circumstances whatsoever and irrespective of (i) any lack of validity or enforceability of any Letter of Credit or this Agreement or any other Loan Document, or any term or provision therein, (ii) any draft or other document presented under a Letter of Credit proving to be forged, fraudulent or invalid in any respect or any statement therein being untrue or inaccurate in any respect, (iii) payment by the Issuing Bank under a Letter of Credit against presentation of a draft or other document that does not comply with the terms of such Letter of Credit, or (iv) any other event or circumstance whatsoever, whether or not similar to any of the foregoing, that might, but for the provisions of this Section, constitute a legal or equitable discharge of, or provide a right of setoff against, the Borrower's obligations hereunder. None of the Administrative Agent, the Lenders or the Issuing Bank, or any of their Related Parties, shall have any liability or responsibility by reason of or in connection with the issuance or transfer of any Letter of Credit or any payment or failure to make any payment thereunder (irrespective of any of the circumstances referred to in the preceding sentence), or any error, omission, interruption, loss or delay in transmission or delivery of any draft, notice or other communication under or relating to any Letter of Credit (including any document required to make a drawing thereunder), any error in interpretation of technical terms or any consequence arising from causes beyond the control of the Issuing Bank; provided that the foregoing shall not be construed to excuse the Issuing Bank from liability to the Borrower to the extent of any direct damages (as opposed to consequential damages, claims in respect of which are hereby waived by the Borrower to the extent permitted by applicable law) suffered by the Borrower that are caused by the Issuing Bank's failure to exercise care when determining whether drafts and other documents presented under a Letter of Credit comply with the terms thereof. The parties hereto expressly agree that, in the absence of gross negligence or wilful misconduct on the part of the Issuing Bank (as finally determined by a court of competent jurisdiction), the Issuing Bank shall be deemed to have exercised care in each such determination. In furtherance of the foregoing and without limiting the generality thereof, the parties agree that, with respect to documents presented which appear on their face to be in substantial compliance with the terms of a Letter of Credit, the Issuing Bank may, in its sole discretion, either accept and make payment upon such documents without responsibility for further investigation, regardless of any notice or information to the contrary, or refuse to accept and make payment upon such documents if such documents are not in strict compliance with the terms of such Letter of Credit.

(g) Disbursement Procedures. The Issuing Bank shall, promptly following its receipt thereof, examine all documents purporting to represent a demand for payment under a Letter of Credit. The Issuing Bank shall promptly notify the Administrative Agent and the Borrower by telephone (confirmed by telecopy) of such demand for payment and whether the Issuing Bank has made or will make an LC Disbursement thereunder; provided that any failure to give or delay in giving such notice shall not relieve the Borrower of its obligation to reimburse the Issuing Bank and the Lenders with respect to any such LC Disbursement.

(h) Interim Interest. If the Issuing Bank shall make any LC Disbursement, then, unless the Borrower shall reimburse such LC Disbursement in full on the date such LC Disbursement is made, the unpaid amount thereof shall bear interest, for each day from and including the date such LC Disbursement is made to but excluding the date that the Borrower reimburses such LC Disbursement, at the rate per annum then applicable to ABR Revolving Loans; provided that, if the Borrower fails to reimburse such LC Disbursement when due pursuant to paragraph (e) of this Section, then Section 2.12(c) shall apply. Interest accrued pursuant to this paragraph shall be for the account of the Issuing Bank, except that interest accrued on and after the date of payment by any Lender pursuant to paragraph (e) of this Section to reimburse the Issuing Bank shall be for the account of such Lender to the extent of such payment.

(i) Replacement of the Issuing Bank. The Issuing Bank may be replaced at any time by written agreement among the Parent, the Administrative Agent, the replaced Issuing Bank and the successor Issuing Bank. The Administrative Agent shall notify the Lenders of any such replacement of the Issuing Bank. At the time any such replacement shall become effective, the Parent shall pay all unpaid fees accrued for the account of the replaced Issuing Bank pursuant to Section 2.11(b). From and after the effective date of any such replacement, (i) the successor Issuing Bank shall have all the rights and obligations of the Issuing Bank under this Agreement with respect to Letters of Credit to be issued thereafter and (ii) references herein to the term "Issuing Bank" shall be deemed to refer to such successor or to any previous Issuing Bank, or to such successor and all previous Issuing Banks, as the context shall require. After the replacement of an Issuing Bank hereunder, the replaced Issuing Bank shall remain a party hereto and shall continue to have all the rights and obligations of an Issuing Bank under this Agreement with respect to Letters of Credit issued by it prior to such replacement, but shall not be required to issue additional Letters of Credit.

(j) Cash Collateralization. If any Event of Default shall occur and be continuing, on the Business Day that a Borrower receives notice from the Administrative Agent or the Lenders with LC Exposure representing at least 51% of the total LC Exposure demanding the deposit of cash collateral pursuant to this paragraph, such Borrower shall deposit in the LC Reimbursement Account established pursuant to Section 6(C) of the Parent Pledge and Security Agreement an amount in cash equal to the LC Exposure as of such date plus any accrued and unpaid interest thereon; provided that the obligation to deposit such cash collateral shall become effective immediately, and such deposit shall become immediately due and payable, without demand or other notice of any kind, upon the occurrence of any Event of Default described in clause (h) or (i) of Article 7. Moneys in such account shall be applied by the Administrative Agent to reimburse the Issuing Bank for LC Disbursements for which it has not been reimbursed and, to the extent not so applied, shall be held for the satisfaction of the reimbursement obligations of the Borrowers for the LC Exposure at such time or, if the maturity of the Loans has been accelerated (but subject to the consent of Lenders with LC Exposure representing at least 51% of the total LC Exposure), be applied to satisfy other obligations of the Borrowers under this Agreement. If a Borrower is required to provide an amount of cash collateral hereunder as a result of the occurrence of an Event of Default, such amount (to the extent not applied as aforesaid) shall be returned to such Borrower within three Business Days after all Events of Default have been cured or waived.

(k) Existing CoreStates Letters of Credit. The parties hereto agree that, as of May 15, 1998 (or such later date on which the merger of CoreStates Bank, N.A. and First Union National Bank is consummated), the Existing CoreStates Letters of Credit shall be deemed to have been issued pursuant to this Agreement and all provisions hereof shall apply thereto as if such CoreStates Letters of Credit were issued hereunder on such date.

SECTION 2.05. Funding of Borrowings. (a) Each Lender shall make each Loan to be made by it hereunder on the proposed date thereof by wire transfer of immediately available funds by 12:00 noon, Charlotte, North Carolina time, to the account of the Administrative Agent most recently designated by it for such purpose by notice to the Lenders. The Administrative Agent will make such Loans available to the Borrower by promptly crediting the amounts so received, in like funds, to an account of the Borrower maintained with the Administrative Agent and designated by the Borrower in the Notice of Account Designation; provided that ABR Revolving Loans made to finance the reimbursement of an LC Disbursement as provided in Section 2.04(e) shall be remitted by the Administrative Agent to the Issuing Bank.

(b) Unless the Administrative Agent shall have received notice from a Lender prior to the proposed date of any Borrowing that such Lender will not make available to the Administrative Agent such Lender's share of such Borrowing (if any), the Administrative Agent may assume that such Lender has made such share available on such date in accordance with paragraph (a) of this Section and may, in reliance upon such assumption, make available to the Borrower a corresponding amount. In such event, if a Lender has not in fact made its share of the applicable Borrowing available to the Administrative Agent, then the applicable Lender and Borrower severally agree to pay to the Administrative Agent forthwith on demand such corresponding amount with interest thereon, for each day from and including the date such amount is made available to the Borrower to but excluding the date of payment to the Administrative Agent, at (i) in the case of such Lender, the greater of the Federal Funds Effective Rate and a rate determined by the Administrative Agent in accordance with banking industry rules on interbank compensation or (ii) in the case of the Borrower, the interest rate applicable to ABR Loans. If such Lender pays such amount to the Administrative Agent, then such amount shall constitute such Lender's Loan included in such Borrowing.

SECTION 2.06. Interest Elections. (a) Each Borrowing initially shall be of the Type specified in the applicable Borrowing Request and, in the case of a Eurodollar Borrowing, shall have an initial Interest Period as specified in such Borrowing Request. Thereafter, the Borrower may elect to convert such Borrowing to a different Type or to continue such Borrowing and, in the case of a Eurodollar Borrowing, may elect Interest Periods therefor, all as provided in this Section. The Borrower may elect different options with respect to different portions of the affected Borrowing, in which case each such portion shall be allocated ratably among the Lenders holding the Loans comprising such Borrowing, and the Loans comprising each such portion shall be considered a separate Borrowing.

(b) To make an election pursuant to this Section, the Borrower shall notify the Administrative Agent of such election by telephone by the time that a Borrowing Request would be required under Section 2.03 if the Borrower were requesting a Borrowing of the Type resulting from such election to be made on the effective date of such election. Each such telephonic Interest Election Request shall be irrevocable and shall be confirmed promptly by hand delivery or telecopy to the Administrative Agent of a written Interest Election Request in a form approved by the Administrative Agent and signed by the Borrower.

(c) Each telephonic and written Interest Election Request shall specify the following information in compliance with Section 2.02:

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

699610

(i) the Borrowing to which such Interest Election Request applies and, if different options are being elected with respect to different portions thereof, the portions thereof to be allocated to each resulting Borrowing (in which case the information to be specified pursuant to clauses (iii) and (iv) below shall be specified for each resulting Borrowing);

(ii) the effective date of the election made pursuant to such Interest Election Request, which shall be a Business Day;

(iii) whether the resulting Borrowing is to be an ABR Borrowing or a Eurodollar Borrowing; and

(iv) if the resulting Borrowing is a Eurodollar Borrowing, the Interest Period to be applicable thereto after giving effect to such election, which shall be a period contemplated by the definition of the term "Interest Period".

If any such Interest Election Request requests a Eurodollar Borrowing but does not specify an Interest Period, then the Borrower shall be deemed to have selected an Interest Period of one month's duration.

(d) Promptly following receipt of an Interest Election Request, the Administrative Agent shall advise each Lender of the details thereof and of such Lender's portion of each resulting Borrowing.

(e) If the Borrower fails to deliver a timely Interest Election Request with respect to a Eurodollar Borrowing prior to the end of the Interest Period applicable thereto, then, unless such Borrowing is repaid as provided herein, at the end of such Interest Period such Borrowing shall be converted to an ABR Borrowing. Notwithstanding any contrary provision hereof, if an Event of Default has occurred and is continuing and the Administrative Agent, at the request of the Required Lenders, so notifies the Parent, then, so long as an Event of Default is continuing, (i) no outstanding Borrowing may be converted to or continued as a Eurodollar Borrowing and (ii) unless repaid, each Eurodollar Borrowing shall be converted to an ABR Borrowing at the end of the Interest Period applicable thereto.

SECTION 2.07. Termination and Reduction of Commitments. (a) Unless previously terminated, the Tranche A Commitments shall terminate on the last day of the Tranche A Availability Period; the Tranche B Commitments shall terminate on the Tranche B Effective Date simultaneous with the funding of the Loans made under the Tranche B Commitments on the Tranche B Effective Date; and the Revolving Commitments shall terminate on the last day of the Revolving Credit Availability Period.

(b) (i) The Parent may at any time terminate, or from time to time reduce, the Commitments of any class; provided that (A) each reduction of the Commitments shall be in an amount that is an integral multiple of $500,000 and not less than $1,000,000 and (B) the Parent shall not terminate or reduce the Revolving Commitments if, after giving effect to any concurrent prepayment of the Loans in accordance with Section 2.10, the total Revolving Credit Exposures would exceed the total Revolving Commitments.

(ii) The Tranche A Commitments shall be reduced by (A) $180,000,000 if the First Alert Acquisition is not consummated on or prior to the last day of the Tranche A Availability Period and (B) $275,000,000 if the Signature Acquisition is not consummated on or prior to the last day of the Tranche A Availability Period.

(c) The Parent shall notify the Administrative Agent of any election to terminate or reduce the Commitments of any Class under paragraph (b) of this Section at least three Business Days prior to the effective date of such termination or reduction, specifying such election and the effective date thereof. Promptly following receipt of any notice, the Administrative Agent shall advise the Lenders having Commitments of the affected Class of the contents thereof. Each notice delivered by the Parent pursuant to this Section shall be irrevocable; provided that a notice of termination of the Commitments delivered by the Parent may state that such notice is conditioned upon the effectiveness of other credit facilities, in which case such notice may be revoked by the Parent (by notice to the Administrative Agent on or prior to the specified effective date) if such condition is not satisfied. Any termination or reduction of the Commitments shall be permanent. Each reduction of the Commitments of any Class shall be made ratably among the Lenders in accordance with their respective Commitments of such Class.

SECTION 2.08. Maturity of Loans; Evidence of Debt. (a) Each Borrower hereby unconditionally promises to pay to the Administrative Agent for the account of each Lender the then unpaid principal amount of each Loan of such Lender to such Borrower on the relevant Maturity Date.

(b) Each Lender shall maintain in accordance with its usual practice an account or accounts evidencing the indebtedness of each Borrower to such Lender resulting from each Loan made by such Lender, including the amounts of principal and interest payable and paid to such Lender from time to time hereunder.

(c) The Administrative Agent shall maintain accounts in which it shall record (i) the amount of each Loan made hereunder, the Class and Type thereof and the Interest Period applicable thereto, (ii) the amount of any principal or interest due and payable or to become due and payable from each Borrower to each Lender hereunder and (iii) the amount of any sum received by the Administrative Agent hereunder for the account of the Lenders and each Lender's share thereof.

(d) The entries made in the accounts maintained pursuant to paragraph (b) or (c) of this Section shall be prima facie evidence of the existence and amounts of the obligations recorded therein; provided that the failure of any Lender or the Administrative Agent to maintain such accounts or any error therein shall not in any manner affect the obligation of any Borrower to repay the Loans in accordance with the terms of this Agreement.

(e) Any Lender may request that Loans made by it be evidenced by a promissory note. In such event, each Borrower shall prepare, execute and deliver to such Lender a promissory note payable to the order of such Lender (or, if requested by such Lender, to such Lender and its registered assigns) and in a form approved by the Administrative Agent. Thereafter, the Loans evidenced by such promissory note and interest thereon shall at all times (including after assignment pursuant to Section 10.04) be represented by one or more promissory notes in such form payable to the order of the payee named therein (or, if such promissory note is a registered note, to such payee and its registered assigns).

SECTION 2.09. Mandatory Repayment and Prepayment of Loans and Reduction of Commitments. (a) Repayment. Each Borrower hereby unconditionally promises to pay to the Administrative Agent for the account of each Lender having Term Loans, on each date set forth below, an aggregate principal amount of such Loans made to such Borrower so that the aggregate principal amount of all Loans being repaid by all of the Borrowers on such date is equal to the amount set forth below for such Class opposite such date (as such amount may be reduced pursuant to paragraph (b)(iv) below or Section 2.10(c)):

Date	Tranche A Term Loans Amount	Tranche B Term Loans Amount

(b) Prepayment and Reduction. (i) In addition, the Parent shall prepay or cause a Subsidiary Borrower to prepay Term Loans (or the Term Commitments shall be reduced) as follows:

(x) on the date which the Parent or any of its Subsidiaries shall receive any Net Cash Proceeds with respect to (1) any Asset Sale made in any fiscal year, but solely if, and solely to the extent that, the aggregate Net Cash Proceeds from such Asset Sale, when combined with all other Asset Sales previously made during such fiscal year, exceeds $15,000,000 or (2) any Indebtedness Incurrence, the Parent shall prepay, or cause a Subsidiary Borrower to prepay, Term Loans (or, if Term Commitments are outstanding, the Term Commitments shall be reduced until the Term Commitments have been reduced to zero), in the aggregate, by an amount equal to the Reduction Percentage of such Net Cash Proceeds; provided that (A) if the Net Cash Proceeds are less than $5,000,000, such prepayment or reduction shall be made upon receipt of proceeds such that, together with all other such amounts not previously applied, aggregate Net Cash Proceeds are equal to at least $5,000,000; (B) the Parent or the Subsidiary Borrower receiving the Net Cash Proceeds shall not be required to apply to such prepayment or reduction up to $50,000,000 of Net Cash Proceeds of Asset Sales which would otherwise be required to be applied to such prepayment or reduction, to the extent such Net Cash Proceeds are reinvested within 365 days of such Asset Sales in productive assets of a kind used or usable in the business of the Parent or such Subsidiary; and (C) such prepayment shall not be required with respect to Net Cash Proceeds from Asset Sales consisting of sales of accounts receivables by the Parent or any of its Subsidiaries, whether pursuant to the Existing Receivables Program or otherwise, to the extent that the aggregate principal amount to be recovered from the sales of such accounts receivables shall not exceed at any time outstanding $100,000,000.

(y) on or before the 95th day after the end of each fiscal year beginning with the fiscal year ending in 1998, the Parent shall prepay, or cause a Subsidiary Borrower to prepay, Term Loans by an amount equal to the Reduction Percentage of Excess Cash Flow for such fiscal year.

(ii) In addition, promptly following receipt by the Parent or any of its Subsidiaries of any Major Casualty Proceeds or Indemnity Proceeds, the Parent shall deposit in the Major Casualty and Indemnity Proceeds Account established pursuant to Section 6(A) of the Parent Pledge and Security Agreement an amount of cash equal to the amount of such Major Casualty Proceeds or Indemnity Proceeds, as the case may be. So long as no Default has occurred and is continuing, an amount equal to the aggregate amount of such cash proceeds which such Person has expended or committed to expend for the restoration, replacement or environmental remediation of the asset in respect of which such Major Casualty Proceeds payment was made or to remedy the event giving rise to such Indemnity Proceeds payment, shall be released by the Administrative Agent to the Parent; provided that if within 180 days of receipt of such payment such Person shall not have expended or committed to expend an equivalent amount for the restoration, replacement or environmental remediation of the asset in respect of which such Major Casualty Proceeds payment was made, or to remedy the event giving rise to such Indemnity Proceeds payment, the excess of the amount of such payment over the amount of such expenditures and commitments shall be applied to prepay the Term Loans (or, if Term Commitments are outstanding, reduce the Term Commitments until the Term Commitments have been reduced to zero) on such 180th day.

(iii) The Parent shall notify the Administrative Agent by telephone (confirmed by telecopy) of any prepayment or reduction under this paragraph not later than 11:00 a.m., Charlotte, North Carolina time, three Business Days before the date of prepayment or reduction, as the case may be (or, solely if such prepayment will be a prepayment of ABR Loans only, no later than 11:00 a.m., Charlotte, North Carolina time, one Business Day before the date of such prepayment). Each such notice shall be irrevocable and shall specify the prepayment date and the principal amount of each Borrowing or portion thereof to be prepaid; provided that, if a notice of prepayment is given in connection with a conditional notice of termination of the Commitments as contemplated by Section 2.07, then such notice of prepayment may be revoked if such notice of termination is revoked in accordance with Section 2.07. Each prepayment of Loans of any Class made pursuant to this Section shall be applied to such Borrowing or Borrowings of such Class as the Parent may designate in the notice of prepayment delivered with respect thereto (or, failing such designation, as determined by the Administrative Agent), and shall be applied to repay ratably the Loans of such Class of the several Lenders included in such Borrowing or Borrowings. Promptly following receipt of any such notice relating to a Borrowing, the Administrative Agent shall advise the affected Lenders of the contents thereof. Prepayments shall be accompanied by accrued interest to the extent required by Section 2.12 and shall be subject to the provisions of Section 2.15.

(iv) The amount of any prepayment of the Term Loans made pursuant to clauses (i) or (ii) of this paragraph shall be applied to reduce ratably the amount of each subsequent scheduled repayment of the Term Loans to be made by the Borrowers pursuant to paragraph (a) of this Section.

(c) Option of Tranche B Lenders Not to Accept Prepayments. (i) The Parent shall (x) at least one Business Day prior to any date (an "Unscheduled Prepayment Date") on which any prepayment of the Tranche B Term Loans (an "Unscheduled Prepayment"), other than a prepayment of such Loans in whole, would, but for the provisions of this paragraph (c), otherwise have been made pursuant to this Section or Section 2.10, deliver a notice conforming to the requirements set forth below (a "Prepayment Notice") to the Administrative Agent and (y) on or prior to such Unscheduled Prepayment Date, deposit in the Prepayment Account established pursuant to Section 6(D) of the Parent Pledge and Security Agreement an amount equal to the principal amount that would have been payable pursuant to this Section or Section 2.10 on such Unscheduled Prepayment Date in respect of such Unscheduled Prepayment. Such Unscheduled Prepayment shall not occur on such Unscheduled Prepayment Date but shall instead be deferred as hereinafter provided in this paragraph (c). Upon receipt of any Prepayment Notice, the Administrative Agent shall promptly notify each affected Lender of the contents hereof. Amounts on deposit in the Prepayment Account shall be deemed to reduce the aggregate principal amount of Loans outstanding as if applied to the repayment thereof, but only with respect to calculations made for purposes of determining compliance with the covenants set forth in Sections 6.12, 6.13, and 6.14.

(ii) Each Prepayment Notice shall be in writing, shall refer to this paragraph (c) and shall (w) set forth the amount of the Unscheduled Prepayment and the prepayment that the applicable Term Lender will be entitled to receive if it accepts prepayment of its Tranche B Term Loans in accordance with this subsection, (x) contain an offer to prepay on a specified date (each such date, a "Deferred Unscheduled Prepayment Date"), which shall not be less than 20 days or more than 25 days after the date of such Prepayment Notice, the Tranche B Term Loans of such Lender by an aggregate principal amount equal to such Lender's ratable share of such Unscheduled Prepayment (determined by reference to the outstanding principal amount of such Lender's Tranche B Term Loan as a proportion of the aggregate outstanding principal amount of the Tranche B Term Loans of all of the Lenders), (y) request such Lender to notify the Parent and the Administrative Agent in writing, no later than the fifth Business Day prior to the Deferred Unscheduled Prepayment Date, of such Lender's acceptance or rejection (in each case, in whole and not in part) of such offer of prepayment and (z) inform such Lender that the failure by such Lender to reject such offer in writing on or before the fifth day prior to such Deferred Unscheduled Prepayment Date shall be deemed an acceptance of such prepayment offer. Each Prepayment Notice shall be given by telecopy, confirmed hand delivery or overnight courier service, in each case addressed to the Administrative Agent and each affected Lender as provided in Section 10.01.

(iii) On each Deferred Unscheduled Prepayment Date, the Administrative Agent shall withdraw from the Prepayment Account the aggregate amount required to prepay the Tranche B Term Loans of each of the Lenders that shall have accepted (or been deemed to have accepted) prepayment in accordance with the related Prepayment Notice (each, an "Accepting Lender") and shall cause such amount to be applied to prepay the outstanding Tranche B Term Loans of the Accepting Lenders.

(iv) Any amount remaining in the Prepayment Account on any Deferred Unscheduled Prepayment Date after giving effect to the prepayments required by clause (iii) above (exclusive of any interest or profits with respect to amounts held in the Prepayment Account) shall be withdrawn and applied by the Administrative Agent (x) to prepay the principal of the then outstanding Tranche A Term Loans ratably in proportion to their then outstanding principal amounts, and/or (y) after all Term Loans have been repaid, or all Tranche B Lenders having Tranche B

Term Loans outstanding have declined to accept prepayments, to reduce the Commitments, all in accordance with paragraph (b) above or Section 2.10, as applicable.

SECTION 2.10. Optional Prepayment of Loans. (a) Each Borrower shall have the right at any time and from time to time to prepay any Borrowing of any Class in whole or in part, subject to prior notice in accordance with paragraph (b) of this Section.

(b) A Borrower shall notify the Administrative Agent by telephone (confirmed by telecopy) of any prepayment hereunder (i) in the case of prepayment of a Eurodollar Borrowing, not later than 11:00 a.m., New York City time, three Business Days before the date of prepayment, or (ii) in the case of prepayment of an ABR Borrowing, not later than 11:00 a.m., New York City time, one Business Day before the date of prepayment. Each such notice shall be irrevocable and shall specify the prepayment date and the principal amount of each Borrowing or portion thereof to be prepaid; provided that, if a notice of prepayment is given in connection with a conditional notice of termination of the Commitments as contemplated by Section 2.07, then such notice of prepayment may be revoked if such notice of termination is revoked in accordance with Section 2.07. Promptly following receipt of any such notice relating to a Borrowing, the Administrative Agent shall advise the Lenders of the contents thereof. Each partial prepayment of any Borrowing shall be in an amount that would be permitted in the case of an advance of a Borrowing of the same Type as provided in Section 2.02. Each prepayment of a Borrowing shall be applied ratably to the Loans included in the prepaid Borrowing. Prepayments shall be accompanied by accrued interest to the extent required by Section 2.12.

(c) Each prepayment of the Term Loans made pursuant to this Section shall be allocated pro rata on the basis of principal amount among the then outstanding Tranche A Term Loans and Tranche B Term Loans. The amount of any prepayment of the Term Loans made by a Borrower pursuant to this Section shall be applied to reduce ratably the amount of each subsequent scheduled repayment of the Term Loans in order of maturity to be made by the Borrowers pursuant to Section 2.09(a).

SECTION 2.11. Fees. (a) The Parent agrees to pay to the Administrative Agent for the account of each Lender a commitment fee, which shall accrue (i) during the period from and including the Effective Date to but excluding the first day of the initial Performance Period, at the rate of .375% per annum and (ii) during the period from and including the first day of the initial Performance Period to but excluding the date on which the last Commitment terminates, at the Applicable Rate, in each case on the daily aggregate unused amount of the Commitments of such Lender; provided that, if such Lender continues to have any Revolving Credit Exposure after its Revolving Commitment terminates, then such commitment fee shall continue to accrue on the daily amount of such Lender's Revolving Credit Exposure from and including the date on which its Revolving Commitment terminates to but excluding the date on which such Lender ceases to have any Revolving Credit Exposure. Accrued commitment fees shall be payable in arrears on the last day of March, June, September and December of each year and on the date on which the relevant Commitments terminate, commencing on the first such date to occur after the date hereof; provided that any commitment fees accruing after the date on which the Revolving Commitments terminate shall be payable on demand. All commitment fees shall be computed on the basis of a year of 360 days and shall be payable for the actual number of days elapsed (including the first day but excluding the last day).

(b) The Parent agrees to pay (i) to the Administrative Agent for the account of each Lender a participation fee with respect to its participations in Letters of Credit, which shall accrue (x) during the period from and including the Effective Date to but excluding the first day of the initial Performance Period, at the rate of 1.25% per annum and (y) during the period from and including the first day of the initial Performance Period to but excluding the later of the date on which such Lender's Revolving Commitment terminates and the date on which such Lender ceases to have any LC Exposure, at the Applicable Rate, in each case on the average daily amount of such Lender's LC Exposure (excluding any portion thereof attributable to unreimbursed LC Disbursements) and (ii) to the Issuing Bank a fronting fee, which shall accrue at the rate of ¼% per annum on the average daily amount of the LC Exposure (excluding any portion thereof attributable to unreimbursed LC Disbursements) during the period from and including the Effective Date to but excluding the later of the date of termination of the Revolving Commitments and the date on which there ceases to be any LC Exposure, as well as the Issuing Bank's standard fees with respect to the issuance, amendment, renewal or extension of any Letter of Credit or processing of drawings thereunder. Accrued participation fees and fronting fees shall be payable on the last day of March, June, September and December of each year and on the later of the date on which the Revolving Commitments terminate and the date on which the Lenders cease to have any LC Exposure, commencing on the first such date to occur after the Effective Date; provided that any such fees accruing after the date on which the Revolving Commitments terminate shall be payable on demand. Any other fees payable to the Issuing Bank pursuant to this paragraph shall be payable within 10 days after demand. All participation fees and fronting fees shall be computed on the basis of a year of 360 days and shall be payable for the actual number of days elapsed (including the first day but excluding the last day).

(c) The Parent agrees to pay to each Agent, for its own account, fees payable in the amounts and at the times separately agreed upon between the Parent and such Agent.

(d) All fees payable hereunder shall be paid on the dates due, in immediately available funds, to the Administrative Agent (or to each of the other Agents and the Issuing Bank, in the case of fees payable to it) for distribution, in the case of commitment fees and participation fees, to the relevant Lenders. Fees paid shall not be refundable under any circumstances.

SECTION 2.12. Interest. (a) The Loans comprising each ABR Borrowing shall bear interest at the Alternate Base Rate plus (i) for each day during the period from and including the Effective Date to but excluding the first day of the initial Performance Period, the rate of .25% per annum (with respect to Revolving Loans and Tranche A Term Loans) or .75% per annum (with respect to Tranche B Term Loans) and (ii) thereafter, the Applicable Rate.

(b) The Loans comprising each Eurodollar Borrowing shall bear interest at the Adjusted LIBO Rate for the Interest Period in effect for such Borrowing plus (i) for each day during the period from and including the Effective Date to but excluding the first day of the initial Performance Period, the rate of 1.50% per annum (with respect to Revolving Loans and Tranche A Term Loans) or 2.00% per annum (with respect to Tranche B Term Loans) and (ii) thereafter, the Applicable Rate.

(c) Notwithstanding the foregoing, if any principal of or interest on any Loan or any fee or other amount payable hereunder is not paid when due, whether at stated maturity, upon acceleration or otherwise, such overdue amount shall bear interest, after as well as before judgment, at a rate per annum equal to (i) in the case of overdue principal of any Loan, 2% plus the rate otherwise applicable to such Loan as provided in the preceding paragraphs of this Section or (ii) in the case of any other amount, 2% plus the rate applicable to ABR Loans as provided in paragraph (a) of this Section.

(d) Accrued interest on each Loan shall be payable in arrears on each Interest Payment Date for such Loan and, in the case of Revolving Loans, upon termination of the Revolving Commitments; provided that (i) interest accrued pursuant to paragraph (c) of this Section shall be payable on demand, (ii) in the event of any repayment or prepayment of any Loan (other than a prepayment of an ABR Loan prior to the end of the Revolving Credit Availability Period), accrued interest on the principal amount repaid or prepaid shall be payable on the date of such repayment or prepayment and (iii) in the event of any conversion of any Eurodollar Loan prior to the end of the current Interest Period therefor, accrued interest on such Loan shall be payable on the effective date of such conversion.

(e) All interest hereunder shall be computed on the basis of a year of 360 days, except that interest computed by reference to the Alternate Base Rate at times when the Alternate Base Rate is based on the Prime Rate shall be computed on the basis of a year of 365 days (or 366 days in a leap year), and in each case shall be payable for the actual number of days elapsed (including the first day but excluding the last day). The applicable Alternate Base Rate, Adjusted LIBO Rate or LIBO Rate shall be determined by the Administrative Agent, and such determination shall be conclusive absent manifest error.

SECTION 2.13. Alternate Rate of Interest. If prior to the commencement of any Interest Period for a Eurodollar Borrowing:

(a) the Administrative Agent determines (which determination shall be conclusive absent manifest error) that adequate and reasonable means do not exist for ascertaining the Adjusted LIBO Rate for such Interest Period; or

(b) the Administrative Agent is advised by the Required Lenders that the Adjusted LIBO Rate for such Interest Period will not adequately and fairly reflect the cost to such Lenders of making or maintaining their Loans included in such Borrowing for such Interest Period;

then the Administrative Agent shall give notice thereof to the Parent and the Lenders by telephone or telecopy as promptly as practicable thereafter and. until the Administrative Agent notifies the Parent and the Lenders that the circumstances giving rise to such notice no longer exist, (i) any Interest Election Request that requests the conversion of any Borrowing to, or continuation of any Borrowing as, a Eurodollar Borrowing shall be ineffective, (ii) if any Borrowing Request requests a Eurodollar Borrowing, such Borrowing shall be made as an ABR Borrowing.

SECTION 2.14. Increased Costs. (a) If any Change in Law shall:

(i) impose, modify or deem applicable any reserve, special deposit or similar requirement against assets of, deposits with or for the account of, or credit extended by, any Lender (except any such reserve requirement reflected in the Adjusted LIBO Rate) or the Issuing Bank; or

(ii) impose on any Lender or the Issuing Bank or the London interbank market any other condition affecting this Agreement or

Eurodollar Loans made by such Lender or any Letter of Credit or participation therein; and the result of any of the foregoing shall be to increase the cost to such Lender of making or maintaining any Eurodollar Loan (or of maintaining its obligation to make any such Loan) or to increase the cost to such Lender or the Issuing Bank of participating in, issuing or maintaining any Letter of Credit or to reduce the amount of any sum received or receivabie by such Lender or the Issuing Bank hereunder (whether of principal, interest or otherwise), then the Parent will pay to such Lender or the Issuing Bank, as the case may be, such additional amount or amounts as will compensate such Lender or the Issuing Bank, as the case may be, for such additional costs incurred or reduction suffered.

(b) If any Lender or the Issuing Bank determines that any Change in Law regarding capital requirements has or would have the effect of reducing the rate of return on such Lender's or the Issuing Bank's capital or on the capital of such Lender's or the Issuing Bank's holding company, if any, as a consequence of the Loan Documents or the Loans made by, or participations in Letters of Credit held by, such Lender, or the Letters of Credit issued by the Issuing Bank, to a level below that which such Lender or the Issuing Bank or such Lender's or the Issuing Bank's holding company could have achieved but for such Change in Law (taking into consideration such Lender's or the Issuing Bank's policies and the policies of such Lender's or the Issuing Bank's holding company with respect to capital adequacy), then from time to time the Parent will pay to such Lender or the Issuing Bank, as the case may be, such additional amount or amounts as will compensate such Lender or the Issuing Bank or such Lender's or the Issuing Bank's holding company for any such reduction suffered.

(c) A certificate of a Lender or the Issuing Bank setting forth the amount or amounts necessary to compensate such Lender or the Issuing Bank or its holding company, as the case may be, as specified in paragraph (a) or (b) of this Section shall be delivered to the Parent shall be conclusive absent manifest error. The Parent shall pay such Lender or the Issuing Bank, as the case may be, the amount shown as due on any such certificate within 10 days after receipt thereof.

(d) Failure or delay on the part of any Lender or the Issuing Bank to demand compensation pursuant to this Section shall not constitute a waiver of such Lender's or the Issuing Bank's right to demand such compensation; provided that the Parent shall not be required to compensate a Lender or the Issuing Bank pursuant to this Section for any increased costs or reductions incurred more than 270 days prior to the date that such Lender or the Issuing Bank, as the case may be, notifies the Parent of the Change in Law giving rise to such increased costs or reductions and of such Lender's or the Issuing Bank's intention to claim compensation therefor; provided further that, if the Change in Law giving rise to such increased costs or reductions is retroactive, then the 270-day period referred to above shall be extended to include the period of retroactive effect thereof.

SECTION 2.15. Break Funding Payments. In the event of (a) the payment of any principal of any Eurodollar Loan other than on the last day of an Interest Period applicable thereto (including as a result of an Event of Default), (b) the conversion of any Eurodollar Loan other than on the last day of the Interest Period applicable thereto, (c) the failure to borrow, convert, continue or prepay any Eurodollar Loan on the date specified in any notice delivered pursuant hereto (regardless of whether such notice may be revoked under Section 2.10(b) and is revoked in accordance therewith) or (d) the assignment of any Eurodollar Loan other than on the last day of the Interest Period applicable thereto as a result of a request by a Borrower pursuant to Section 2.18, then, in any such event, the Parent shall compensate each Lender for the loss, cost and expense attributable to such event. Such loss, cost or expense to any Lender shall be deemed to include an amount determined by such Lender to be the excess, if any, of (i) the amount of interest which would have accrued on the principal amount of such Loan had such event not occurred, at the Adjusted LIBO Rate that would have been applicable to such Loan, for the period from the date of such event to the last day of the then current Interest Period therefor (or, in the case of a failure to borrow, convert or continue, for the period that would have been the Interest Period for such Loan), over (ii) the amount of interest which would accrue on such principal amount for such period at the interest rate which such Lender would bid were it to bid, at the commencement of such period, for dollar deposits of a comparable amount and period from other banks in the eurodollar market. A certificate of any Lender setting forth any amount or amounts that such Lender is entitled to receive pursuant to this Section shall be delivered to the Parent and shall be conclusive absent manifest error. The Parent shall pay such Lender the amount shown as due on any such certificate within 10 days after receipt thereof.

SECTION 2.16. Taxes. (a) Any and all payments by or on account of any obligation of any Borrower under the Loan Documents shall be made free and clear of and without deduction for any Indemnified Taxes or Other Taxes; provided that if any Borrower shall be required to deduct any Indemnified Taxes or Other Taxes from such payments, then (i) the sum payable shall be increased as necessary so that after making all required deductions (including deductions applicable to additional sums payable under this Section) the Administrative Agent, Lender or Issuing Bank (as the case may be) receives an amount equal to the sum it would have received had no such deductions been made, (ii) such Borrower shall make such deductions and (iii) such Borrower shall pay the full amount deducted to the relevant Governmental Authority in accordance with applicable law.

(b) In addition, each Borrower shall pay any Other Taxes to the relevant Governmental Authority in accordance with applicable law.

(c) Each Borrower shall indemnify the Administrative Agent, each Lender and the Issuing Bank, within 10 days after written demand therefor, for the full amount of any Indemnified Taxes or Other Taxes paid by the Administrative Agent, such Lender or the Issuing Bank, as the case may be, on or with respect to any payment by or on account of any obligation of such Borrower hereunder (including Indemnified Taxes or Other Taxes imposed or asserted on or attributable to amounts payable under this Section) and any penalties, interest and reasonable expenses arising therefrom or with respect thereto, whether or not such Indemnified Taxes or Other Taxes were correctly or legally imposed or asserted by the relevant Governmental Authority. A certificate as to the amount of such payment or liability delivered to any Borrower by a Lender or the Issuing Bank, or by the Administrative Agent on its own behalf or on behalf of a Lender or the Issuing Bank, shall be conclusive absent manifest error.

(d) As soon as practicable after any payment of Indemnified Taxes or Other Taxes by a Borrower to a Governmental Authority, such Borrower shall deliver to the Administrative Agent the original or a certified copy of a receipt issued by such Governmental Authority evidencing such payment, a copy of the return reporting such payment or other evidence of such payment reasonably satisfactory to the Administrative Agent.

(e) Any Foreign Lender that is entitled to an exemption from or reduction of withholding tax under the law of the jurisdiction in which a Borrower is located, or any treaty to which such jurisdiction is a party, with respect to payments under this Agreement shall deliver to such Borrower (with a copy to the Administrative Agent), at the time or times prescribed by applicable law, such properly completed and executed documentation prescribed by applicable law or reasonably requested by such Borrower as will permit such payments to be made without withholding or at a reduced rate.

SECTION 2.17. Payments Generally; Pro Rata Treatment; Sharing of Set-offs. (a) Each Borrower shall make each payment required to be made by it hereunder (whether of principal, interest, fees or reimbursement of LC Disbursements, or of amounts payable under Sections 2.14, 2.15 or 2.16, or otherwise) prior to 12:00 noon, Charlotte, North Carolina time, on the date when due, in immediately available funds, without set-off or counterclaim. Any amounts received after such time on any date may, in the discretion of the Administrative Agent, be deemed to have been received on the next succeeding Business Day for purposes of calculating interest thereon. All such payments shall be made to the Administrative Agent at its offices at Charlotte, North Carolina, except payments to be made directly to the Issuing Bank as expressly provided herein and except that payments pursuant to Sections 2.14, 2.15, 2.16 and 10.03 shall be made directly to the Persons entitled thereto. The Administrative Agent shall distribute any such payments received by it for the account of any other Person to the appropriate recipient promptly following receipt thereof. If any payment hereunder shall be due on a day that is not a Business Day, the date for payment shall be extended to the next succeeding Business Day, and, in the case of any payment accruing interest, interest thereon shall be payable for the period of such extension. All payments hereunder shall be made in dollars.

(b) If at any time insufficient funds are received by and available to the Administrative Agent to pay fully all amounts of principal, unreimbursed LC Disbursements, interest and fees then due hereunder, such funds shall be applied (i) first, towards payment of interest and fees then due hereunder, ratably among the parties entitled thereto in accordance with the amounts of interest and fees then due to such parties, and (ii) second, towards payment of principal and unreimbursed LC Disbursements then due hereunder, ratably among the parties entitled thereto in accordance with the amounts of principal and unreimbursed LC Disbursements then due to such parties.

(c) If any Lender shall, by exercising any right of set-off or counterclaim or otherwise, obtain payment in respect of any principal of or interest on any of its Loans of any Class or participations in LC Disbursements resulting in such Lender receiving payment of a greater proportion of the aggregate amount of its Loans of such Class or participations in LC Disbursements and accrued interest thereon than the proportion received by any other Lender with respect to its Loans of the relevant Class or participations in LC Disbursements and accrued interest thereon, then the Lender receiving such greater proportion shall purchase (for cash at face value) participations in the Loans of the relevant Class and participations in LC Disbursements of other Lenders to the extent necessary so that the benefit of all such payments shall be shared by the Lenders ratably in accordance with the aggregate amount of principal of and accrued interest on their respective Loans of such Class and participations in LC Disbursements; provided that (i) if any such participations are purchased and all or any portion of the payment giving rise thereto is recovered, such participations shall be rescinded and the purchase price restored to the extent of such recovery, without interest, and (ii) the provisions of this paragraph shall not be construed to apply to any payment made by a Borrower pursuant to and in accordance with the express terms of this Agreement or any payment obtained by a Lender as consideration for the assignment of or sale of a participation in any of its Loans or participations in LC Disbursements to any assignee or participant, other than to a Borrower or any Subsidiary or Affiliate thereof (as to which the provisions of this paragraph shall apply). applicable law, that any Lender acquiring a participation pursuant to the foregoing arrangements may exercise against such Borrower rights of set-off and counterclaim with respect to such participation as fully as if such Lender were a direct creditor of such Borrower in the amount of such participation.

(d) Unless the Administrative Agent shall have received notice from a Borrower prior to the date on which any payment is due to the Administrative Agent for the account of the Lenders or the Issuing Bank hereunder that such Borrower will not make such payment, the Administrative Agent may assume that such Borrower has made such payment on such date in accordance herewith and may, in reliance upon such assumption, distribute to the Lenders or the Issuing Bank, as the case may be, the amount due. In such event, if such Borrower has not in fact made such payment, then each of the Lenders or the Issuing Bank, as the case may be, severally agrees to repay to the Administrative Agent forthwith on demand the amount so distributed to such Lender or Issuing Bank with interest thereon, for each day from and including the date such amount is distributed to it to but excluding the date of payment to the Administrative Agent, at the greater of the Federal Funds Effective Rate and a rate determined by the Administrative Agent in accordance with banking industry rules on interbank compensation.

(e) If any Lender shall fail to make any payment required to be made by it pursuant to Section 2.04(d) or 2.04(e), 2.05(b) or 2.17(d), then the Administrative Agent may, in its discretion (notwithstanding any contrary provision hereof), apply any amounts thereafter received by the Administrative Agent for the account of such Lender to satisfy such Lender's obligations under such Sections until all such unsatisfied obligations are fully paid.

SECTION 2.18. Mitigation Obligations; Replacement of Lenders. (a) If any Lender requests compensation under Section 2.14, or if any Borrower is required to pay any additional amount to any Lender or any Governmental Authority for the account of any Lender pursuant to Section 2.16, then such Lender shall use reasonable efforts to designate a different lending office for funding or booking its Loans hereunder or to assign its rights and obligations hereunder to another of its offices, branches or affiliates, if, in the judgment of such Lender, such designation or assignment (i) would eliminate or reduce amounts payable pursuant to Section 2.14 or 2.16 as the case may be, in the future and (ii) would not subject such Lender to any unreimbursed cost or expense and would not otherwise be disadvantageous to such Lender. Each Borrower hereby agrees to pay all reasonable costs and expenses incurred by any Lender in connection with any such designation or assignment.

(b) If any Lender requests compensation under Section 2.14, or if any Borrower is required to pay any additional amount to any Lender or any Governmental Authority for the account of any Lender pursuant to Section 2.16, or if any Lender defaults in its obligation to fund Loans hereunder, then such Borrower may, at its sole expense and effort, upon notice to such Lender and the Administrative Agent, require such Lender to assign and delegate, without recourse (in accordance with and subject to the restrictions contained in Section 10.04), all its interests, rights and obligations under this Agreement and the other Loan Documents to an assignee that shall assume such obligations (which assignee may be another Lender, if a Lender accepts such assignment); provided that (i) such Borrower or the Parent shall have received the prior written consent of the Administrative Agent (and, if a Revolving Commitment is being assigned, the Issuing Bank), which consent shall not unreasonably be withheld, (ii) such Lender shall have received payment of an amount equal to the outstanding principal of its Loans and participations in LC Disbursements, accrued interest thereon, accrued fees and all other amounts payable to it hereunder, from the assignee (to the extent of such outstanding principal and accrued interest and fees) or such Borrower (in the case of all other amounts) and (iii) in the case of any such assignment resulting from a claim for compensation under Section 2.14 or payments required to be made pursuant to Section 2.16, such assignment will result in a reduction in such compensation or payments. A Lender shall not be required to make any such assignment and delegation if, prior thereto, as a result of a waiver by such Lender or otherwise, the circumstances entitling a Borrower to require such assignment and delegation cease to apply.

SECTION 2.19. Subsidiary Borrowings. Subject to the prior or concurrent satisfaction of each of the following conditions, any Eligible Subsidiary may be designated by the Parent as a Subsidiary Borrower hereunder following the acquisition of Control of such Eligible Subsidiary by the Parent, entitled to the rights and subject to the obligations incident thereto:

(a) The Administrative Agent (or its counsel) shall have received from the Parent and such Subsidiary Borrower a counterpart of a Subsidiary Borrowing Agreement signed on behalf of such party or written evidence satisfactory to the Administrative Agent (which may include telecopy transmission of a signed signature page) that such party has signed a counterpart thereof.

(b) The Administrative Agent (or its counsel) shall have received from such Subsidiary Borrower a counterpart of a Subsidiary Borrower Pledge and Security Agreement signed on behalf of such party or written evidence satisfactory to the Administrative Agent (which may include telecopy transmission of a signed signature page) that such party has signed a counterpart thereof.

(c) The Administrative Agent shall have received a favorable written opinion (addressed to the Administrative Agent and the Lenders and dated the date that such Borrowing Subsidiary is making its Initial Borrowing) of Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom LLP, special counsel for the Subsidiary Borrower, substantially in the form of Exhibit I, and of Davis Polk & Wardwell, special counsel for the Agents, substantially in the form of Exhibit J, and each covering such other matters relating to the Obligors, the Loan Documents or the Transactions as the Required Lenders shall reasonably request.

(d) The Administrative Agent shall have received such documents and certificates as the Administrative Agent or its counsel may reasonably request relating to the organization, existence, good standing and solvency of such Subsidiary Borrower, the authorization of the Transactions and any other legal matters relating to any of the foregoing, all in form and substance satisfactory to the Administrative Agent and its counsel.

SECTION 2.20. Competitive Bid Amendment. As promptly as practicable following (i) the date on which the Parent's long-term Indebtedness is assigned an investment grade rating by Standard & Poor's Rating Group or Moody's Investor Service Inc. or (ii) if the Parent's long-term Indebtedness is not rated, the date on which the Parent delivers financial statements pursuant to Section 5.01 demonstrating that the Leverage Ratio for the immediately preceding four fiscal quarters is equal to or less than 2.0 to 1, this Agreement shall be amended in a manner reasonably satisfactory to the Parent and the Required Lenders to provide that Loans may be made to the Parent bearing interest at a rate based on competitive bids by the Lenders.

ARTICLE 3

REPRESENTATIONS AND WARRANTIES

Each of the Parent and each Subsidiary Borrower (to the extent applicable to such Subsidiary Borrower) represents and warrants to the Lenders that:

SECTION 3.01. Organization; Powers. (a) Each of the Obligors and its Material Subsidiaries is duly organized, validly existing and in good standing under the laws of the jurisdiction of its organization, has all requisite power and authority to carry on its business as now conducted and, except where the failure to do so, individually or in the aggregate, could not reasonably be expected to result in a Material Adverse Effect, is qualified to do business in, and is in good standing in, every jurisdiction where such qualification is required. Schedule 3.01(a) identifies each Material Subsidiary organized under the laws of the United States of America or any State thereof.

(b) Schedule 3.01(b) lists each Material Subsidiary organized under the laws of any jurisdiction outside of the United States of America.

SECTION 3.02. Authorization; Enforceability. The Transactions are within each Obligor's corporate powers and have been duly authorized by all necessary corporate and, if required, stockholder action. Each Loan Document has been duly executed and delivered by each Obligor party thereto and constitutes a legal, valid and binding obligation of such Obligor, enforceable in accordance with its terms, subject to applicable bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, moratorium or other laws affecting creditors' rights generally and subject to general principles of equity, regardless of whether considered in a proceeding in equity or at law.

SECTION 3.03. Governmental Approvals; No Conflicts. The Transactions (a) do not require any consent or approval of, registration or filing with, or any other action by, any Governmental Authority, except such as have been obtained or made and are in full force and effect, (b) will not violate any applicable law or regulation or the charter, by-laws or other organizational documents of the Parent or any of its Material Subsidiaries or any order of any Governmental Authority, (c) will not violate or result in a default under any indenture, agreement or other instrument binding upon the Parent or any of its Material Subsidiaries or its assets, or give rise to a right thereunder to require any payment to be made by the Parent or any of its Material Subsidiaries (other than as set forth in Schedule 3.03), and (d) will not result in the creation or imposition of any Lien on any asset of the Parent or any of its Material Subsidiaries (other than the Liens created by the Collateral Documents).

SECTION 3.04. Financial Condition; No Material Adverse Change. (a) The Parent has heretofore furnished to the Lenders (i) its consolidated statements of operations, stockholders equity and cash flows as of and for each of the fiscal years ended December 28, 1997, December 29, 1996 and December 31, 1995 and (ii) its consolidated balance sheets as of and for each of the fiscal years ended December 28, 1997 and December 29, 1996, reported on by Arthur Andersen LLP, independent public accountants. Such financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position and results of operations and cash flows of the Parent and its consolidated Subsidiaries as of such dates and for such periods in accordance with GAAP.

(b) Since December 28, 1997, there has been no material adverse change in the business, assets, operations, prospects or condition, financial or otherwise, of the Parent and its Subsidiaries, taken as a whole.

(c) The Parent has heretofore furnished to the Lenders the pro forma balance sheet of the Parent as of December 28, 1997 certified by one of its Financial Officers. Such balance sheet presents fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Parent and its Consolidated Subsidiaries as of December 28, 1997 in accordance with GAAP on a pro forma basis, adjusted to give effect (as if such events had occurred on such date) to (i) the consummation of the Acquisition, (ii) the Transactions contemplated to occur in connection therewith (including without limitation the making of Loans), (iii) the application of the proceeds therefrom as contemplated by the Acquisition Documents and the Loan Documents and (iv) the payment of all legal, accounting and other fees related thereto to the extent known at the time of the preparation of such balance sheet. As of the date of such balance sheet and the Effective Date, the Parent had and has no material liabilities, contingent or otherwise, including liabilities for taxes, long-term leases or forward or long-term commitments, which are not properly reflected on such balance sheet.

SECTION 3.05. Properties. (a) Each of the Parent and its Material Subsidiaries has good title to, or valid leasehold interests in, all its real and personal property material to its business, except for minor defects in title that do not interfere with its ability to conduct its business as currently conducted or to utilize such properties for their intended purposes.

(b) Each of the Parent and its Material Subsidiaries owns, or is licensed to use, all trademarks, tradenames, copyrights, patents and other intellectual property material to its business, and the use thereof by the Parent and its Material Subsidiaries does not infringe upon the rights of any other Person, except for any such infringements that, individually or in the aggregate, could not reasonably be expected to result in a Material Adverse Effect.

SECTION 3.06. Litigation and Environmental Matters. (a) Other than as set forth on Schedule 3.06, there are no actions, suits or proceedings by or before any arbitrator or Governmental Authority pending against or, to the knowledge of the Parent, threatened against or affecting the Parent or any of its Material Subsidiaries (i) as to which there is a reasonable possibility of an adverse determination and that, if adversely determined, could reasonably be expected, individually or in the aggregate, to result in a Material Adverse Effect, considering, among other things, reserves established by the Parent or its applicable Material Subsidiaries, or (ii) that involve the Loan Documents, or the Transactions, the Acquisition Documents or the Acquisition.

(b) Except as set forth on Schedule 3.06, neither the Parent nor any of its Subsidiaries (i) has failed to comply with any Environmental Law or to obtain, maintain or comply with any permit, license or other approval required under any Environmental Law, (ii) has become subject to any Environmental Liability, (iii) has received notice of any claim with respect to any Environmental Liability or (iv) knows of any basis for any Environmental Liability which, in each case, could not reasonably be expected, individually or in the aggregate, to result in a Material Adverse Effect, considering, among other things, reserves established by the Parent or its applicable Material Subsidiaries.

(c) Since the date of this Agreement, there has been no change in the status of the matters disclosed on Schedule 3.06 that, individually or in the aggregate, has resulted in, or materially increased the likelihood of, a Material Adverse Effect.

SECTION 3.07. Compliance with Laws and Agreements. Each of the Parent and its Subsidiaries is in compliance with all laws, regulations and orders of any Governmental Authority applicable to it or its property and all indentures, agreements and other instruments binding upon it or its property, except where the failure to do so could not reasonably be expected to result in a Material Adverse Effect. No Default has occurred and is continuing.

SECTION 3.08. Investment and Holding Company Status. Neither the Parent nor any of its Subsidiaries is (a) an "investment company" as defined in, or subject to regulation under, the Investment Company Act of 1940 or (b) a "holding company" as defined in, or subject to regulation under, the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935.

SECTION 3.09. Taxes. Each of the Parent and its Material Subsidiaries has timely filed or caused to be filed all tax returns and reports required to have been filed and has paid or caused to be paid all Taxes required to have been paid by it, except Taxes that are being contested in good faith by appropriate proceedings and for which the Parent or such Subsidiary, as applicable, has set aside on its books adequate reserves.

SECTION 3.10. ERISA. No ERISA Event has occurred or is reasonably expected to occur that, when taken together with all other such ERISA Events for which liability is reasonably expected to occur, could reasonably be expected to result in a Material Adverse Effect. The present value of all accumulated benefit obligations under each Plan (based on the assumptions used for purposes of Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 87) did not, as of the date of the most recent financial statements reflecting such amounts, exceed by more than $25,000,000 the fair market value of the assets of such Plan, and the present value of all accumulated benefit obligations of all underfunded Plans (based on the assumptions used for purposes of Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 87) did not, as of the date of the most recent financial statements reflecting such amounts, exceed by more than $25,000,000 the fair market value of the assets of all such underfunded Plans.

SECTION 3.11. Disclosure. The Parent has disclosed to the Lenders all material agreements, instruments and corporate or other restrictions to which it, any of its Material Subsidiaries or any of Coleman, First Alert, Signature or any Subsidiary of Coleman, First Alert or Signature is subject, and all other matters known to it, that, individually or in the aggregate, could reasonably be expected to result in a Material Adverse Effect. None of the reports, financial statements, certificates or other information (taken as a whole) furnished by or on behalf of any Obligor to the Administrative Agent or any Lender in connection with the negotiation of the Loan Documents or delivered thereunder (as modified or supplemented by other information so furnished) contains any material misstatement of fact or omits to state any material fact necessary to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; provided that, with respect to projected financial information, the Parent represents only that such information was prepared in good faith based upon assumptions believed to be reasonable at the time.

SECTION 3.12. Guarantors. The Subsidiary Guarantors are all of the Material Subsidiaries (other than Subsidiaries organized under the laws of any jurisdiction outside the United States of America), and each Subsidiary Guarantor is a wholly-owned Subsidiary.

SECTION 3.13. Collateral Documents. Each of the representations and warranties made by the Obligors in the Collateral Documents is true and correct.

SECTION 3.14. Acquisition Documents. As of each of the Effective Date, the Tranche A Effective Date and the Tranche B Effective Date, each of the representations and warranties made in the Acquisition Documents by the Parent is true and correct in all material respects.

SECTION 3.15. Solvency. As of each of the Effective Date, the Tranche A Effective Date and the Tranche B Effective Date, after giving effect to the transactions contemplated hereby to occur on such date: (i) the aggregate fair market value of the assets of each of the Parent and the other Obligors will exceed its liabilities (including contingent, subordinated, unmatured and unliquidated liabilities), (ii) each of the Parent and the other Obligors will be able to pay its debts as they mature and (iii) each of the Parent and the other Obligors will not have unreasonably small capital for the business in which it is engaged.

SECTION 3.16. Outstanding Indebtedness. Schedule 3.16 identifies all outstanding Indebtedness (other than intercompany Indebtedness), as of the Effective Date, of any of the Parent, CLN, Coleman, First Alert or Signature or any of their respective subsidiaries.

ARTICLE 4

CONDITIONS

SECTION 4.01. Effective Date. The Effective Date hereunder shall occur on the first date on which each of the conditions set forth in Schedule 4.01 is satisfied (or waived in accordance with Section 10.02), it being understood that with respect to the conditions set forth in clauses (e) and (h) of Schedule 4.01, each Lender shall be deemed to have determined that such conditions shall have been satisfied unless the Administrative Agent shall have received notice from such Lender prior to the Effective Date that such Lender does not consider such conditions to have been satisfied (or, solely with respect to the conditions set forth in clause (e), the Lenders shall not have received any documents referred to therein).

The Administrative Agent shall notify the Parent and the Lenders of the Effective Date, and such notice shall be conclusive and binding. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the obligations of the Lenders to make Loans and of the Issuing Bank to issue Letters of Credit hereunder shall not become effective unless each of the conditions set forth in Schedule 4.01 is satisfied (or waived pursuant to Section 10.02) at or prior to 3:00 p.m., New York City time, on April 15, 1998 (and, in the event such conditions are not so satisfied or waived, the Commitments shall terminate at such time).

SECTION 4.02. Tranche A Effective Date. The Tranche A Effective Date shall occur hereunder on the first date on which each of the conditions set forth in Schedule 4.02 is satisfied (or waived in accordance with Section 10.02). The Administrative Agent shall notify the Parent and the Lenders of the Tranche A Effective Date, and such notice shall be conclusive and binding. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the obligations of the Lenders to make Tranche A Term Loans shall not become effective unless each of the conditions set forth in Schedule 4.02 is satisfied (or waived in accordance with Section 10.02) at or prior to 3:00 p.m., New York City time, on June 30, 1998 (and, in the event such conditions are not so satisfied or waived, the Tranche A Commitments shall terminate at such time).

SECTION 4.03. Tranche B Effective Date. The Tranche B Effective Date shall occur hereunder on the first date on which each of the conditions set forth in Schedule 4.03 is satisfied (or waived in accordance with Section 10.02). The Administrative Agent shall notify the Parent and the Lenders of the Tranche B Effective Date, and such notice shall be conclusive and binding. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the obligations of the Lenders to make Tranche B Term Loans shall not become effective unless each of the conditions set forth in Schedule 4.03 is satisfied (or waived in accordance with Section 10.02) at or prior to 3:00 p.m.,

New York City time, May 15, 1998 (and, in the event such conditions are not so satisfied or waived, the Tranche B Commitments shall terminate at such time).

SECTION 4.04. Each Credit Event. The obligation of each Lender to make a Loan on the occasion of any Borrowing, and of the Issuing Bank to issue, amend, renew or extend any Letter of Credit, is subject to the satisfaction of the following conditions:

(a) The Effective Date shall have occurred and, in the case of any Tranche A Term Loans, the Tranche A Effective Date shall have occurred, and, in the case of any Tranche B Term Loans, the Tranche B Effective Date shall have occurred.

(b) The representations and warranties of the Obligors set forth in the Loan Documents shall be true and correct on and as of the date of such Borrowing or the date of issuance, amendment, renewal or extension of such Letter of Credit, as applicable.

(c) At the time of and immediately after giving effect to such Borrowing or the issuance, amendment, renewal or extension of such Letter of Credit, as applicable, no Default shall have occurred and be continuing.

Each Borrowing and each issuance, amendment, renewal or extension of a Letter of Credit shall be deemed to constitute a representation and warranty by the Parent and each Subsidiary Borrower on the date thereof as to the matters specified in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this Section.

ARTICLE 5
AFFIRMATIVE COVENANTS

Until the Commitments have expired or been terminated and the principal of and interest on each Loan and all fees and other amounts payable hereunder shall have been paid in full and all Letters of Credit shall have expired or terminated and all LC Disbursements shall have been reimbursed, the Parent covenants and agrees with the Lenders that:

SECTION 5.01. Financial Statements and Other Information. The Parent will furnish to the Administrative Agent:

(a) within 90 days after the end of each fiscal year of the Parent, its audited consolidated balance sheet and related statements of operations, stockholders' equity and cash flows as of the end of and for such year (which may be on Form 10-K, so long as the Parent is subject to periodic reporting requirements of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act")), setting forth in each case in comparative form the figures for the previous fiscal year, all reported on by Arthur Andersen LLP or other independent public accountants of recognized national standing (without a "going concern" or like qualification or exception and without any qualification or exception as to the scope of such audit) to the effect that such consolidated financial statements present fairly in all material respects the financial condition and results of operations of the Parent and its Consolidated Subsidiaries on a consolidated basis in accordance with GAAP consistently applied;

(b) within 60 days after the end of each of the first three fiscal quarters of each fiscal year of the Parent, its consolidated balance sheet and related statements of operations, stockholders' equity and cash flows as of the end of and for such fiscal quarter and the then elapsed portion of the fiscal year (which may be on Form 10-Q, so long as the Parent is subject to the periodic reporting requirements of the Exchange Act), setting forth in each case in comparative form the figures for the corresponding period or periods of (or, in the case of the balance sheet, as of the end of) the previous fiscal year, all certified by one of its Financial Officers as presenting fairly in all material respects the financial condition and results of operations of the Parent and its Consolidated Subsidiaries on a consolidated basis in accordance with GAAP consistently applied, subject to normal year-end audit adjustments and the absence of footnotes;

(c) concurrently with any delivery of financial statements under clause (a) or (b) above, a certificate of a Financial Officer (i) certifying as to whether a Default has occurred and, if a Default has occurred, specifying the details thereof and any action taken or proposed to be taken with respect thereto, (ii) setting forth reasonably detailed calculations demonstrating compliance with Sections 6.01 and 6.11 through 6.15, inclusive and (iii) stating whether any change in GAAP or in the application thereof has occurred since the date of the audited financial statements referred to in Section 3.04 and, if any such change has occurred, specifying the effect of such change on the financial statements accompanying such certificate;

(d) concurrently with any delivery of financial statements under clause (a) above, a certificate of the accounting firm that reported on such financial statements stating whether they obtained knowledge during the course of their examination of such financial statements of any Default (which certificate may be limited to the extent required by accounting rules or guidelines);

(e) promptly after the same become publicly available, copies of all periodic and other reports, proxy statements and other materials filed by the Parent or any Subsidiary with the Securities and Exchange Commission, or any Governmental Authority succeeding to any or all of the functions of said Commission, or with any national securities exchange, or distributed by the Parent to its shareholders generally, as the case may be;

(f) prior to the end of each fiscal year of the Parent, copies of an operating plan and financial forecast for the next fiscal year, by the management of the Parent for internal use;

(g) promptly following the delivery thereof to the Parent or its board of directors or management, a copy of any management letter or written report by independent public accountants with respect to the policies and procedures of the Parent and its Subsidiaries that notes a "reportable condition"; and

(h) promptly following any request therefor, such other information regarding the operations, business affairs and financial condition of the Parent or any Subsidiary, or compliance with the terms of the Loan Documents, as the Administrative Agent or any Lender may reasonably request.

SECTION 5.02. Notices of Material Events. The Parent will furnish to the Administrative Agent prompt written notice of the following:

(a) the occurrence of any Default;

(b) the filing or commencement of any action, suit or proceeding by or before any arbitrator or Governmental Authority against or affecting the Parent or any Affiliate thereof that could reasonably be expected to result in a Material Adverse Effect;

(c) the occurrence of any ERISA Event that, alone or together with any other ERISA Events that have occurred, could reasonably be expected to result in liability of the Parent and its Subsidiaries in an aggregate amount exceeding $25,000,000; and

(d) any other development that results in, or could reasonably be expected to result in, a Material Adverse Effect.

Each notice delivered under this Section shall be accompanied by a statement of a Financial Officer or other executive officer of the Parent setting forth the details of the event or development requiring such notice and any action taken or proposed to be taken with respect thereto.

SECTION 5.03. Existence; Conduct of Business. The Parent will, and will cause each of its Material Subsidiaries to, do or cause to be done all things necessary to preserve, renew and keep in full force and effect its legal existence and the rights, licenses, permits, privileges and franchises material to the conduct of its business; provided that the foregoing shall not prohibit any merger, consolidation, liquidation or dissolution permitted under Section 6.03.

SECTION 5.04. Payment of Obligations. The Parent will, and will cause each of its Material Subsidiaries to, pay its obligations, including liabilities for Taxes, that, if not paid, could result in a Material Adverse Effect before the same shall become delinquent or in default, except where (a) the validity or amount thereof is being contested in good faith by appropriate proceedings, (b) the Parent or such Subsidiary has set aside on its books adequate reserves with respect thereto in accordance with GAAP and (c) the failure to make payment pending such contest could not reasonably be expected to result in a Material Adverse Effect.

SECTION 5.05. Maintenance of Properties; Insurance. The Parent will, and will cause each of its Material Subsidiaries to, (a) keep and maintain all property material to the conduct of its business in good working order and condition, ordinary wear and tear excepted, and (b) maintain, with financially sound and reputable insurance companies or through programs of self-insurance (including levels of self-insured retention), insurance in such amounts and against such risks and, in the case of self-insurance, at such levels and in such amounts (including without limitation comprehensive general liability insurance, workers compensation insurance, product liability insurance, business interruption insurance and environmental insurance) as are customarily maintained by companies engaged in the same or similar businesses operating in the same or similar locations.

SECTION 5.06. Books and Records; Inspection Rights. The Parent will, and will cause each of its Material Subsidiaries to, keep proper books of record and account in which full, true and correct entries are made of all dealings and transactions in relation to its business and activities. The Parent will, and will cause each of its Subsidiaries to, permit any representatives designated by the Administrative Agent or any Lender, upon reasonable prior notice, to visit and inspect its properties, to examine and make extracts from its books and records, and to discuss its affairs, finances and condition with its officers and independent accountants, all at such reasonable times and as often as reasonably requested.

SECTION 5.07. Compliance with Laws and Contracts. (a) The Parent will, and will cause each of its Subsidiaries to, comply with all laws, rules, regulations and orders of any Governmental Authority applicable to it or its property, except where the failure to do so could not reasonably be expected to result in a Material Adverse Effect.

(b) The Parent will, and will cause each of its Material Subsidiaries to, comply with all provisions of all contracts to which the Parent or such Subsidiary, as the case may be, is a party, except where the failure to do so could not reasonably be expected to result in a Material Adverse Effect.

SECTION 5.08. Use of Proceeds and Letters of Credit. The proceeds of the Revolving Loans will be used only (i) to consummate the Acquisition, (ii) to repay certain of the Refinanced Indebtedness, (iii) to pay related fees and expenses, (iv) to finance Consolidated Capital Expenditures and Permitted Acquisitions permitted hereunder, and (v) for general corporate purposes (including without limitation the making of intercompany loans to Subsidiaries, the proceeds of which loans will be used by such Subsidiaries for general corporate purposes). The proceeds of the Tranche A Term Loans will be used to repay certain of the Refinanced Indebtedness. The proceeds of the Tranche B Term Loans will be used (i) to consummate the Acquisition and (ii) to repay certain of the Refinanced Indebtedness. No part of the proceeds of any Loan will be used, whether directly or indirectly, for any purpose that entails a violation of any of the Regulations of the Board, including Regulations G, U and X. Letters of Credit will be issued only to support obligations of the Parent and its Subsidiaries incurred in the ordinary course of business and will not be used, whether directly or indirectly, for any purpose that entails a violation of any of the Regulations of the Board, including Regulations G, U and X. No part of the proceeds of any Loan will be used, whether directly or indirectly, in connection with the initiation or participation by the Parent or any of its Subsidiaries as a member of a "group" (as that term is used for the purposes of Section 13(d)(3) of the Exchange Act or the rules and regulations thereunder) or as a "participant" or a "participant in a solicitation" (as defined in Rule 14a-11 under the Exchange Act) in (i) a tender offer for the securities of any Person, if the board of directors (or similar body) of such Person recommends, in a Schedule 14D-9 filed under the Exchange Act or otherwise, that holders of securities of such Person not tender their securities pursuant to such tender offer or (ii) in any solicitation of any proxy, consent or authorization for the purpose of opposing the board of directors (or other similar body) of any Person.

SECTION 5.09. Further Assurances. (a) The Parent will, and will cause each Material Subsidiary to, at the Parent's sole cost and expense, do, execute, acknowledge and deliver all such further acts, deeds, conveyances, mortgages, assignments, notices of assignment and transfers as the Administrative Agent shall from time to time reasonably request, which may be necessary or desirable (in the reasonable judgment of the Administrative Agent or the Required Lenders) from time to time to assure, perfect, convey, assign and transfer to the Administrative Agent the property and rights conveyed or assigned pursuant to the Collateral Documents.

(b) The Parent will:

(i) cause (A) each Person (other than Coleman, First Alert or Signature) which becomes a Material Subsidiary (other than a Subsidiary organized under the laws of any jurisdiction outside of the United States) after the Effective Date and (B) each of Coleman, First Alert and Signature (in each case after the date on which such entity becomes a Wholly Owned Subsidiary) to become a party to the Subsidiary Guarantee as guarantor by executing the Subsidiary Guarantee or a supplement thereof in form and substance satisfactory to the Administrative Agent; and

(ii) pledge, or cause to be pledged, pursuant to the Parent Pledge and Security Agreement or the Subsidiary Pledge and Security Agreement (or another pledge agreement in form and substance satisfactory to the Administrative Agent) all of the capital stock or other equity interests (or, in the case of Material Subsidiaries organized under the laws of any jurisdiction outside of the United States, 66% of such capital stock or other equity interests) owned directly or indirectly by the Parent of (A) each Person (other than Coleman, First Alert and Signature) which becomes a Material Subsidiary after the Effective Date, (B) Coleman, First Alert and Signature, in each case after the date on which such entity becomes a Wholly Owned Subsidiary, and (C) any joint venture in which the Parent or any Subsidiary has an ownership interest.

The Parent shall cause each Person described in clause (i) or (ii) above to take such actions as may be necessary or desirable to effect the foregoing within 30 days after such Person becomes a Material Subsidiary or, in the case of Coleman, First Alert and Signature, a Wholly Owned Subsidiary, including without limitation causing such Person to (1) execute and deliver to the Administrative Agent such number of copies as the Administrative Agent may specify of such supplements and security and pledge agreements and other documents creating security interests and (2) deliver such certificates, evidences of corporate action or other documents as the Administrative Agent may reasonably request, all in form and substance satisfactory to the Administrative Agent, relating to the satisfaction of the Parent's obligations under this Section.

(c) The Parent will take all actions necessary to ensure that each of First Alert and Signature becomes a Wholly Owned Subsidiary on or before June 30, 1998 and that Coleman becomes a Wholly Owned Subsidiary on or before August 15, 1998.

(d) Concurrently with any Person becoming party to the Subsidiary Guarantee, the Parent will cause such Person to deliver to the Administrative Agent a legal opinion of counsel substantially in the form of Exhibit K, and covering such other matters relating to the Subsidiary Guarantor, the Loan Documents or the Transactions as the Required Lenders shall reasonably request.

SECTION 5.10. Approved Hedging Agreements. Not later than 60 days after the Effective Date, the Parent shall have entered into and thereafter maintain in full force and effect Hedging Agreements providing for a fixed rate of interest for at least 50% of Consolidated Indebtedness and otherwise on terms and conditions satisfactory to the Agents.

SECTION 5.11. Liens on Assets. The Required Lenders shall have the right from time to time to require the Parent, pursuant to a written request from the Administrative Agent, to provide, or to cause any Subsidiary Guarantor to provide, Liens upon such assets as may be specified in such request to secure the obligations of the Parent and such Subsidiary Guarantor hereunder and under the Subsidiary Guaranty. Any such request shall be made by the Required Lenders in the good faith exercise of their discretion. Within 30 days after any such request, the Parent shall and shall cause the appropriate Subsidiary Guarantor of the Parent to, (i) execute and deliver to the Administrative Agent such number of copies as the Administrative Agent may specify of documents creating such Liens and ii) do all other things which may be necessary or which the Administrative Agent may reasonably request in order to confer upon and confirm to the Lenders the benefits of such security. Within 45 days after a request for security pursuant hereto, the Parent shall, and shall cause the appropriate Subsidiary Guarantor of the Parent to, deliver such legal opinions, certificates, evidences of corporate action or other documents as the Administrative Agent may reasonably request, all in form and substance satisfactory to the Administrative Agent, relating to the satisfaction of the Parent's obligations under this Section.

SECTION 5.12. Repayment of Outstanding Indebtedness. The Parent shall repay, or shall cause a Subsidiary Borrower to repay or defease, on or before June 15, 1998, each item of outstanding Indebtedness listed on Schedule 5.08.

SECTION 5.13. Year 2000 Compatibility. The Parent shall take all action necessary to ensure that the computer based systems of the Parent and its Material Subsidiaries are able to operate and effectively process data including dates on or after January 1, 2000. At the request of the Administrative Agent, the Parent shall provide assurance reasonably acceptable to the Administrative Agent of the year 2000 compatibility of the Parent and its Material Subsidiaries.

ARTICLE 6
NEGATIVE COVENANTS

Until the Commitments have expired or terminated and the principal of and interest on each Loan and all fees and other amounts payable hereunder have been paid in full and all Letters of Credit have expired or terminated and all L.C Disbursements shall have been reimbursed, the Parent covenants and agrees with the Lenders that:

SECTION 6.01. Indebtedness. The Parent will not, and will not permit any Subsidiary to, create, incur, assume or permit to exist any Indebtedness, except:

(a) Indebtedness created hereunder;

(b) Indebtedness existing on the date hereof and set forth in Schedule 6.01 and (except with respect to (i) the item of Indebtedness identified as the "Montey Contingent Debt", (ii) the Existing BANTSA Letter of Credit, (iii) the Existing CoreStates Letters of Credit and (iv) the item of Indebtedness identified as the CoreStates Bankers' Acceptances) extensions, renewals and replacements of any such Indebtedness that do not increase the outstanding principal amount thereof;

(c) Indebtedness of the Parent to any Subsidiary and of any Subsidiary to the Parent or any other Subsidiary;

(d) Guarantees by the Parent of Indebtedness of any Subsidiary and by any Subsidiary of Indebtedness of the Parent or any other Subsidiary;

(e) Indebtedness of the Parent or any Subsidiary incurred to finance the acquisition, construction or improvement of any fixed or capital assets, including Capital Lease Obligations and any Indebtedness assumed in connection with the acquisition of any such assets or secured by a Lien on any such assets prior to the acquisition thereof, and extensions, renewals and replacements of any such Indebtedness that do not increase the outstanding principal amount thereof; provided that (i) such Indebtedness is incurred prior to or within 90 days after such acquisition or the completion of such construction or improvement and (ii) the aggregate principal amount of Indebtedness permitted by this clause (e) shall not exceed $25,000,000 at any time outstanding;

(f) Indebtedness of any Person that becomes a Subsidiary after the date hereof; provided that (i) such Indebtedness exists at the time such Person becomes a Subsidiary and is not created in contemplation of or in connection with such Person becoming a Subsidiary and (ii) the aggregate principal amount of Indebtedness permitted by this clause (f) shall not exceed $25,000,000 at any time outstanding;

(g) Indebtedness of foreign Subsidiaries for borrowings in local currency in an amount not to exceed $40,000,000; and

(h) other unsecured Indebtedness in an aggregate principal amount not exceeding 5% of Consolidated Net Worth at any time outstanding.

SECTION 6.02. Liens. The Parent will not, and will not permit any Subsidiary to, create, incur, assume or permit to exist any Lien on any property or asset now owned or hereafter acquired by it, or assign or sell any income or revenues (including accounts receivable) or rights in respect of any thereof, except:

(a) Permitted Encumbrances;

(b) any Lien on any property or asset of the Parent or any Subsidiary existing on the date hereof and set forth in Schedule 6.02; provided that (i) such Lien shall not apply to any other property or asset of the Parent or any Subsidiary and (ii) such Lien shall secure only those obligations which it secures on the date hereof and extensions, renewals and replacements thereof that do not increase the outstanding principal amount thereof;

(c) any Lien existing on any property or asset prior to the acquisition thereof by the Parent or any Subsidiary or existing on any property or asset of any Person that becomes a Subsidiary after the date hereof prior to the time such Person becomes a Subsidiary; provided that (i) such Lien is not created in contemplation of or in connection with such acquisition or such Person becoming a Subsidiary, as the case may be, (ii) such Lien shall not apply to any other property or assets of the Parent or any Subsidiary and (iii) such Lien shall secure only those obligations which it secures on the date of such acquisition or the date such Person becomes a Subsidiary, as the case may be and extensions, renewals and replacements thereof that do not increase the outstanding principal amount thereof;

(d) Liens on fixed or capital assets acquired, constructed or improved by the Parent or any Subsidiary; provided that (i) such security interests secure

Indebtedness permitted by clause (e) of Section 6.01, (ii) such security interests and the Indebtedness secured thereby are incurred prior to or within 90 days after such acquisition or the completion of such construction or improvement, (iii) the Indebtedness secured thereby does not exceed 80% of the cost of acquiring, constructing or improving such fixed or capital assets and (iv) such security interests shall not apply to any other property or assets of the Parent or any Subsidiary;

(e) any Lien on Margin Stock, if and to the extent the value of all Margin Stock owned by the Parent and its Subsidiaries exceeds 25% of the value of the total assets subject to this Section;

(f) Liens consisting of security interests in accounts receivable (and in property securing or otherwise supporting such accounts receivable) in connection with agreements for limited recourse sales by the Parent or any of its Subsidiaries for cash of such accounts receivable; and

(g) Liens arising under the Collateral Documents.

SECTION 6.03. Fundamental Changes; Asset Sales. (a) The Parent will not, and will not permit any Material Subsidiary to, merge into or consolidate with any other Person, or permit any other Person to merge into or consolidate with it, or sell, transfer, lease or otherwise dispose of (in one transaction or in a series of transactions) all or any substantial part of its assets, or all or substantially all of the stock (other than Margin Stock that is disposed of for fair value) of any of its Material Subsidiaries (in each case, whether now owned or hereafter acquired), or liquidate or dissolve, except that, if at the time thereof and immediately after giving effect thereto no Default shall have occurred and be continuing (i) any Material Subsidiary may merge into the Parent in a transaction in which the Parent is the surviving corporation, (ii) any Material Subsidiary may merge into any Material Subsidiary in a transaction in which the surviving entity is a Subsidiary Guarantor and (iii) any Subsidiary may sell, transfer, lease or otherwise dispose of its assets to the Parent or to a Subsidiary Guarantor; provided that any such merger involving a Person that is not a Wholly Owned Subsidiary immediately prior to such merger shall not be permitted unless also permitted by Section 6.04.

(b) The Parent will not, and will not permit any of its Material Subsidiaries to, engage to any material extent in any business other than businesses of the type conducted by the Parent and its Subsidiaries on the date of execution of this Agreement and businesses reasonably related thereto or to the sale and distribution of household consumer products.

(c) The Parent will not, and will not permit any of its Subsidiaries to, make any Asset Sale other than (i) Asset Sales consisting of sales of accounts receivable by the Parent or any of its Subsidiaries whether pursuant to the Existing Receivables Program or otherwise; provided that (x) the consideration received therefor shall be cash and (y) the aggregate principal amount to be received from the sales of such accounts receivable shall not exceed at any time outstanding $250,000,000 and (ii) other Asset Sales the fair market value of which, when combined with all other such Asset Sales previously made since the date of this Agreement in reliance on this clause (ii), does not exceed $400,000,000. The Parent will not, and will not permit any of its Subsidiaries to, make any Asset Sale unless at least 80% of the consideration received in connection therewith consists of cash payable at the closing thereof.

SECTION 6.04. Investments, Loans, Advances, Guarantees and Acquisitions. The Parent will not, and will not permit any of its Material Subsidiaries to, purchase, hold or acquire (including pursuant to any merger with any Person that was not a wholly owned Subsidiary prior to such merger) any capital stock, evidences of indebtedness or other securities (including any option, warrant or other right to acquire any of the foregoing) of, make or permit to exist any loans or advances to, Guarantee any obligations of, or make or permit to exist any investment or any other interest in, any other Person, or purchase or otherwise acquire (in one transaction or a series of transactions) any assets of any other Person constituting a business unit (any of the foregoing, an "Investment"), except:

(a) Permitted Investments;

(b) investments by the Parent in the capital stock of, and capital contributions to, its Material Subsidiaries;

(c) loans or advances made by the Parent to any Subsidiary and made by any Subsidiary to the Parent or any other Subsidiary;

(d) Guarantees constituting Indebtedness permitted by Section 6.01;

(e) the Acquisition; and

(f) Permitted Acquisitions.

SECTION 6.05. Hedging Agreements. The Parent will not, and will not permit any of its Subsidiaries to, enter into any Hedging Agreement, other than Hedging Agreements entered into in the ordinary course of business to hedge or mitigate risks to which the Parent or any Subsidiary is exposed in the conduct of its business or the management of its liabilities.

SECTION 6.06. Restricted Payments; Voluntary Payments. (a) The Parent will not, and will not permit any of its Subsidiaries to, declare or make, or agree to pay or make, directly or indirectly, any Restricted Payment, except that, so long as no Default has occurred and is continuing, (i) the Parent may declare and pay dividends with respect to its capital stock payable solely in additional shares of its common stock, (ii) the Parent may declare and pay dividends with respect to its common stock in cash in an aggregate amount not in excess of $15,000,000 with respect to any fiscal year of the Parent, (iii) Subsidiaries may declare and pay dividends ratably with respect to their capital stock, (iv) the Parent may make Restricted Payments pursuant to and in accordance with stock option plans or other benefit plans or employment arrangements for management or employees of the Parent and its Subsidiaries, (v) the Parent may purchase common stock of the Parent from any employee of the Parent in connection with the termination of such employee's employment so long as the aggregate amount paid in respect of such purchases during the term of this Agreement does not exceed $10,000,000, (vi) the Parent may purchase shares of its common stock for consideration, not exceeding $10,000,000 in any fiscal year and (vii) so long as the Leverage Ratio at the last day of the most recently ended fiscal quarter is less than 2.75 to 1 (adjusted to give effect to the Restricted Payments referred to in this clause), the Parent may make Restricted Payments from Excess Cash Flow after the application of such funds pursuant to Section 2.09 (and to the extent such funds are not expended pursuant to Section 6.11).

(b) The Parent will not, and will not permit any of its Subsidiaries to, directly or indirectly, optionally redeem, retire, purchase, acquire, defease or otherwise make any payment other than required interest payments in respect of any Indebtedness which is subordinated in right of payment to the Indebtedness of the Parent or such Subsidiary (including, without limitation, the Subordinated Notes) under the Loan Documents; provided that, with respect to the purchase of Subordinated Notes at the option of any holder thereof, the Parent may pay the purchase price thereof with its common stock.

SECTION 6.07. Transactions with Affiliates. The Parent will not, and will not permit any of its Subsidiaries to, sell, lease or otherwise transfer any property or assets to, or purchase, lease or otherwise acquire any property or assets from, or otherwise engage in any other transactions with, any of its Affiliates, except (a) to the extent otherwise permitted under this Agreement, but only if such transaction is in the ordinary course of business at prices and on terms and conditions not less favorable to the Parent or such Subsidiary than could be obtained on an arm's-length basis from unrelated third parties, (b) transactions between or among the Parent and its Wholly Owned Subsidiaries not involving any other Affiliate and (c) any Restricted Payment permitted by Section 6.06.

SECTION 6.08. Restrictive Agreements. The Parent will not, and will not permit any of its Subsidiaries to, directly or indirectly, enter into, incur or permit to exist any agreement or other arrangement that prohibits, restricts or imposes any condition upon (a) the ability of the Parent or any Subsidiary to create, incur or permit to exist any Lien upon any of its property or assets or perform any of its obligations under Section 5.09, or (b) the ability of any Subsidiary to pay dividends or other distributions with respect to any shares of its capital stock or to make or repay loans or advances to the Parent or any other Subsidiary or to Guarantee Indebtedness of the Parent or any other Subsidiary; provided that (i) the foregoing shall not apply to restrictions and conditions imposed by law or by this Agreement, (ii) the foregoing shall not apply to restrictions and conditions existing on the date hereof identified on Schedule 6.08 (but shall apply to any extension or renewal of, or any amendment or modification expanding the scope of, any such restriction or condition), (iii) the foregoing shall not apply to customary restrictions and conditions contained in agreements relating to the sale of a Subsidiary pending such sale, provided such restrictions and conditions apply only to the Subsidiary that is to be sold and such sale is permitted hereunder, (iv) clause (a) of the foregoing shall not apply to restrictions or conditions imposed by any agreement relating to secured Indebtedness permitted by this Agreement if such restrictions or conditions apply only to the property or assets securing such Indebtedness and (v) clause (a) of the foregoing shall not apply to customary provisions in leases restricting the assignment thereof.

SECTION 6.09. Modification of Certain Documents. Without the consent of the Required Lenders, the Parent will not, and will not permit any of its Subsidiaries to, (i) consent to or solicit or enter into any amendment or supplement to, or any waiver or other modification of, the Acquisition Documents which would impair materially the benefit to the Parent or any of its Subsidiaries of such agreement or arrangements or (ii) consent to or solicit or enter into any amendment or supplement to, or any waiver or other modification of, the certificate of incorporation or bylaws of the Parent or any of its Subsidiaries, or the Indenture or any other agreement or instrument governing the terms of the Subordinated Notes or of any other Indebtedness which by its terms is expressly subordinated in right of payment to the Loans and the reimbursement obligations with respect to LC Disbursements, which amendment, supplement, waiver or modification, as the case may be, could reasonably be expected to have an adverse effect on the rights of the Lenders or the Administrative Agent under the Loan Documents.

SECTION 6.10. Accounting Changes. The Parent will not change its fiscal year from a fiscal year ending on the Sunday closest to December 31, other than to a fiscal year ending on December 31. The Parent will not adopt any non-mandatory change in GAAP or the application thereof without 30 days' prior notice to the Administrative Agent, accompanied, in the case of any material change, by evidence of concurrence in such change by the public accounting firm regularly employed by the Parent.

SECTION 6.11. Capital Expenditures. Consolidated Capital Expenditures for any fiscal year of the Parent will not exceed the sum of:

(i) the Base Amount for such fiscal year, plus

(ii) the amount of Excess Cash Flow not required to be applied to prepay Term Loans, or applied to make Restricted Payments, during such fiscal year, plus

(iii) an amount equal to the excess (if any) of (A) the aggregate amount of Consolidated Capital Expenditures permitted by clauses (i) and (ii) above for all fiscal years of the Parent ending prior to such fiscal year over (B) the aggregate amount of Consolidated Capital Expenditures made in such prior fiscal years.

For purposes of this Section, "Base Amount" means, (i) for each fiscal year of the Parent ending on or prior to December 31, 1999, 6%, and (ii) for each fiscal year thereafter, 5%, in each case of the Parent's consolidated gross sales for the previous fiscal year. For purposes of determining the Parent's consolidated gross sales for any fiscal year ending on or prior to December 31, 1998, the amount shall be based on pro forma calculations (giving effect to the consummation of the Acquisition) that are reasonably satisfactory to the Administrative Agent.

SECTION 6.12. Leverage Ratio. At the last day of any fiscal quarter of the Parent ending during any period set forth below, the Leverage Ratio will not exceed the ratio set forth below opposite such period:

Period	Ratio
Effective Date - September 30, 1998	5.75:1
October 1, 1998 - September 30, 1999	5.25:1
October 1, 1999 - September 30, 2000	4.00:1
October 1, 2000 - September 30, 2001	3.00:1
On or after October 1, 2001	2.00:1

SECTION 6.13. Interest Coverage Ratio. At the last day of any fiscal quarter of the Parent ending during any period set forth below, the Interest Coverage Ratio will not be less than the ratio set forth below opposite such period:

Period	Ratio
Effective Date - September 30, 1998	2.5:1
October 1, 1998 - September 30, 1999	3.0:1
October 1, 1999 - September 30, 2000	4.0:1
October 1, 2000 - September 30, 2001	5.0:1
On or after October 1, 2001	6.0:1

SECTION 6.14. Fixed Charge Coverage Ratio. At the last day of any fiscal quarter of the Parent, the Fixed Charge Coverage Ratio will not be less than 1.05 to 1.

SECTION 6.15. EBITDA Calculations. (a) For purposes of determining compliance with the covenants set forth in Sections 6.12, 6.13 and 6.14 during any period ending on or prior to March 30, 1999, the calculation of Consolidated EBITDA shall include $60,000,000 in respect of the Parent's good faith estimate of the value of synergies associated with consummation of the Acquisition.

(b) For purposes of calculating compliance with the covenants set forth in Sections 6.12, 6.13 and 6.14 in the case of any four fiscal quarter period ended prior to April 1, 1999, each of Consolidated EBITDA, Consolidated Fixed Charges and Consolidated Interest Expense shall equal Consolidated EBITDA, Consolidated Fixed Charges and Consolidated Interest Expense, respectively, for the period beginning April 1, 1998 and ending on the last day of such four fiscal quarter period (an "Annualized Period"), multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is 12 and the denominator of which is the number of months included in such Annualized Period.

same shall become due and payable, whether at the due date thereof or at a date fixed for prepayment thereof or otherwise;

(b) any Borrower shall fail to pay any interest on any Loan or any fee payable under this Agreement, when and as the same shall become due and payable, and such failure shall continue unremedied for a period of three Business Days, or any Borrower shall fail to pay any other amount (other than an amount referred to in clause (a) of this Article or interest on any Loan) payable under this Agreement, when and as the same shall become due and payable, and such failure shall continue unremedied for a period of 15 days;

(c) any representation or warranty made or deemed made by or on behalf of any Obligor in or in connection with the Loan Documents or any amendment or modification thereof or waiver hereunder, or in any report, certificate, financial statement or other document furnished pursuant to or in connection with the Loan Documents or any amendment or modification thereof or waiver hereunder, shall prove to have been materially incorrect when made or deemed made;

(d) the Parent shall fail to observe or perform any covenant, condition or agreement contained in Section 5.02, 5.03 (with respect to the Parent's existence) or 5.08, Article VI or Section 9.01 of this Agreement, or in provisions substantially similar to the foregoing set forth in any other Collateral Document to which the Parent is a party;

(e) any Obligor shall fail to observe or perform any covenant, condition or agreement contained in the Loan Documents (other than those specified in clause (a), (b) or (d) of this Article), and such failure shall continue unremedied for a period of 30 days after notice thereof from the Administrative Agent to the Parent (which notice will be given at the request of any Lender);

(f) the Parent or any Subsidiary shall fail to make any payment (whether of principal or interest and regardless of amount) in respect of any Material Indebtedness, when and as the same shall become due and payable and such failure constitutes a default under such Material Indebtedness;

(g) any event or condition occurs that results in any Material Indebtedness becoming due prior to its scheduled maturity or that enables or permits (with or without the giving of notice, the lapse of time or both) the holder or holders of any Material Indebtedness or any trustee or agent on its or their behalf to cause any Material Indebtedness to become due, or to require the prepayment, repurchase, redemption or defeasance thereof, prior to its scheduled maturity;

(h) an involuntary proceeding shall be commenced or an involuntary petition shall be filed seeking (i) liquidation, reorganization or other relief in respect of the Parent or any Material Subsidiary or its debts, or of a substantial part of its assets, under any Federal, state or foreign bankruptcy, insolvency, receivership or similar law now or hereafter in effect or (ii) the appointment of a receiver, trustee, custodian, sequestrator, conservator or similar official for the Parent or any Material Subsidiary or for a substantial part of its assets, and, in any such case, such proceeding or petition shall continue undismissed for 60 days or an order or decree approving or ordering any of the foregoing shall be entered;

(i) the Parent or any Material Subsidiary shall (i) voluntarily commence any proceeding or file any petition seeking liquidation, reorganization or other relief under any Federal, state or foreign bankruptcy, insolvency, receivership or similar law now or hereafter in effect, (ii) consent to the institution of, or fail to contest in a timely and appropriate manner, any proceeding or petition described in clause (h) of this Article, (iii) apply for or consent to the appointment of a receiver, trustee, custodian, sequestrator, conservator or similar official for the Parent or any Material Subsidiary or for a substantial part of its assets, (iv) file an answer admitting the material allegations of a petition filed against it in any such proceeding, (v) make a general assignment for the benefit of creditors or (vi) take any action for the purpose of effecting any of the foregoing;

(j) the Parent or any Material Subsidiary shall become unable, admit in writing or fail generally to pay its debts as they become due;

(k) one or more judgments for the payment of money in an aggregate amount in excess of $25,000,000 shall be rendered against the Parent, any Subsidiary or any combination thereof and the same shall remain undischarged for a period of 30 consecutive days during which execution shall not be effectively stayed, or any action shall be legally taken by a judgment creditor to attach or levy upon any assets of the Parent or any Subsidiary to enforce any such judgment;

(l) an ERISA Event shall have occurred that, in the opinion of the Required Lenders, when taken together with all other ERISA Events that have occurred, could reasonably be expected to result in liability of the Parent and its Subsidiaries in an aggregate amount exceeding $25,000,000 during the term of this Agreement;

(m) a Change in Control shall occur;

(n) any Lien created by any of the Collateral Documents shall at any time fail to constitute a valid and (to the extent required by the Collateral Documents) perfected first priority Lien on the Collateral securing the obligations purported to be secured thereby, or any party shall so assert in writing; or

(o) the Subsidiary Guarantee shall at any time fail to constitute a valid and binding agreement of each Subsidiary Guarantor, or any party shall so assert in writing;

then, and in every such event (other than an event with respect to any Borrower described in clause (h) or (i) of this Article), and at any time thereafter during the continuance of such event, the Administrative Agent may, and at the request of the Required Lenders shall, by notice to the Parent, take either or both of the following actions, at the same or different times: (i) terminate the Commitments, and thereupon the Commitments shall terminate immediately, and (ii) declare the Loans then outstanding to be due and payable in whole (or in part, in which case any principal not so declared to be due and payable may thereafter be declared to be due and payable), and thereupon the principal of the Loans so declared to be due and payable, together with accrued interest thereon and all fees and other obligations of each Borrower accrued hereunder, shall become due and payable immediately, without presentment, demand, protest or other notice of any kind, all of which are hereby waived by each Borrower; and in case of any event with respect to any Borrower described in clause (h) or (i) of this Article, the Commitments shall automatically terminate and the principal of the Loans then outstanding, together with accrued interest thereon and all fees and other obligations of each Borrower accrued hereunder, shall automatically become due and payable, without presentment, demand, protest or other notice of any kind, all of which are hereby waived by each Borrower.

ARTICLE 8
THE ADMINISTRATIVE AGENT

SECTION 8.01. Appointment, Powers and Immunities. Each of the Lenders and the Issuing Bank hereby irrevocably appoints the Administrative Agent as its agent and authorizes the Administrative Agent to take such actions on its behalf and to exercise such powers as are delegated to the Administrative Agent by the terms of the Loan Documents, together with such actions and powers as are reasonably incidental thereto.

(a) The bank serving as the Administrative Agent hereunder shall have the same rights and powers in its capacity as a Lender as any other Lender and may exercise the same as though it were not the Administrative Agent, and such bank and its Affiliates may accept deposits from, lend money to and generally engage in any kind of business with the Parent or any Subsidiary or other Affiliate thereof as if it were not the Administrative Agent hereunder.

(b) The Administrative Agent shall not have any duties or obligations except those expressly set forth herein. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, (a) the Administrative Agent shall not be subject to any fiduciary or other implied duties, regardless of whether a Default has occurred and is continuing, (b) the Administrative Agent shall not have any duty to take any discretionary action or exercise any discretionary powers, except discretionary rights and powers expressly contemplated hereby that the Administrative Agent is required to exercise in writing by the Required Lenders (or such other number or percentage of the Lenders as shall be necessary under the circumstances as provided in Section 10.02), and (c) except as expressly set forth herein, the Administrative Agent shall not have any duty to disclose, and shall not be liable for the failure to disclose, any information relating to the Parent or any of its Subsidiaries that is communicated to or obtained by the bank serving as Administrative Agent or any of its Affiliates in any capacity. The Administrative Agent shall not be liable for any action taken or not taken by it with the consent or at the request of the Required Lenders (or such other number or percentage of the Lenders as shall be necessary under the circumstances as provided in Section 10.02) or in the absence of its own gross negligence or wilful misconduct. The Administrative Agent shall be deemed not to have knowledge of any Default unless and until written notice thereof is given to the Administrative Agent by a Borrower or a Lender, and the Administrative Agent shall not be responsible for or have any duty to ascertain or inquire into (i) any statement, warranty or representation made in or in connection with the Loan Documents, (ii) the contents of any certificate, report or other document delivered thereunder or in connection therewith, (iii) the performance or observance of any of the covenants, agreements or other terms or conditions set forth therein, (iv) the validity, enforceability, effectiveness or genuineness of the Loan Documents or any other agreement, instrument or document, (v) the existence or the value of any of the Collateral or (vi) the satisfaction of any condition set forth in Article IV or elsewhere herein or in any other Loan Document, other than to confirm receipt of items expressly required to be delivered to, and make determinations expressly required to be made by, the Administrative Agent.

SECTION 8.02. Reliance by Administrative Agent. The Administrative Agent shall be entitled to rely upon, and shall not incur any liability for relying upon, any notice, request, certificate, consent, statement, instrument, document or other writing believed by it to be genuine and to have been signed or sent by the proper Person. The Administrative Agent also may rely upon any statement made to it orally or by telephone and believed by it to be made by the proper Person, and shall not incur any liability for relying thereon. The Administrative Agent may consult with legal counsel (who may be counsel for any Obligor), independent accountants and other experts selected by it, and shall not be liable for any action taken or not taken by it in accordance with the advice of any such counsel, accountants or experts.

SECTION 8.03. Appointment of Sub-agents. The Administrative Agent may perform any and all its duties and exercise its rights and powers by or through any one or more sub-agents appointed by the Administrative Agent. The Administrative Agent and any such sub-agent may perform any and all its duties and exercise its rights and powers through their respective Related Parties. The exculpatory provisions of the preceding paragraphs shall apply to any such sub-agent and to the Related Parties of the Administrative Agent and any such sub-agent, and shall apply to their respective activities in connection with the syndication of the credit facilities provided for herein as well as activities as Administrative Agent.

SECTION 8.04. Successor Administrative Agents. Subject to the appointment and acceptance of a successor Administrative Agent as provided in this paragraph, the Administrative Agent may resign at any time by notifying the Lenders, the Issuing Bank and the Parent. Upon any such resignation, the Required Lenders shall have the right, in consultation with the Parent, to appoint a successor. If no successor shall have been so appointed by the Required Lenders and shall have accepted such appointment within 30 days after the retiring Administrative Agent gives notice of its resignation, then the retiring Administrative Agent may, on behalf of the Lenders and the Issuing Bank, appoint a successor Administrative Agent, which shall be a bank with an office in the United States, or an Affiliate of any such bank. Upon the acceptance of its appointment as Administrative Agent hereunder by a successor, such successor shall succeed to and become vested with all the rights, powers, privileges and duties of the retiring Administrative Agent, and the retiring Administrative Agent shall be discharged from its duties and obligations hereunder. The fees payable by any Borrower to a successor Administrative Agent shall be the same as those payable to its predecessor unless otherwise agreed between such Borrower and such successor. After the Administrative Agent's resignation hereunder, the provisions of this Article and Section 10.03 shall continue in effect for the benefit of such retiring Administrative Agent, its sub-agents and their respective Related Parties in respect of any actions taken or omitted to be taken by any of them while it was acting as Administrative Agent.

SECTION 8.05. Non-reliance on Administrative Agent and Other Lenders. Each Lender acknowledges that it has, independently and without reliance upon the Administrative Agent or any other Lender and based on such documents and information as it has deemed appropriate, made its own credit analysis and decision to enter into this Agreement. Each Lender also acknowledges that it will, independently and without reliance upon the Administrative Agent or any other Lender and based on such documents and information as it shall from time to time deem appropriate, continue to make its own decisions in taking or not taking action under or based upon the Loan Documents, any related agreement or any document furnished thereunder.

SECTION 8.06. Other Agents. Neither Morgan Stanley Senior Funding, Inc. nor Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association shall have any responsibility, obligation or liability under the Loan Documents in their respective capacities as Syndication Agent and Documentation Agent.

ARTICLE 9
GUARANTY

SECTION 9.01. The Guaranty. The Parent hereby unconditionally guarantees the full and punctual payment (whether at stated maturity, upon acceleration or otherwise) of the principal of and interest on each Loan made to any Subsidiary Borrower pursuant to this Agreement, and the full and punctual payment of all other amounts payable by any Subsidiary Borrower under this Agreement. Upon failure by any Subsidiary Borrower to pay punctually any such amount, the Parent shall forthwith on demand pay the amount not so paid at the place and in the manner specified in this Agreement.

SECTION 9.02. Guaranty Unconditional. The obligations of the Parent hereunder shall be unconditional and absolute and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, shall not be released, discharged or otherwise affected by:

(a) any extension, renewal, settlement, compromise, waiver or release in respect of any obligation of any Subsidiary Borrower under this Agreement, by operation of law or otherwise;

(b) any modification or amendment of or supplement to this Agreement;

(c) any release, impairment, non-perfection or invalidity of any direct or indirect security for any obligation of any Subsidiary Borrower under this Agreement;

(d) any change in the corporate existence, structure or ownership of any Subsidiary Borrower, or any insolvency, bankruptcy, reorganization or other similar proceeding affecting any Subsidiary Borrower or its assets or any resulting release or discharge of any obligation of any Subsidiary Borrower contained in this Agreement;

(e) the existence of any claim, set-off or other rights which the Parent may have at any time against any Subsidiary Borrower, any Agent, any Lender, the Issuing Bank or any other Person, whether in connection with this Agreement or any unrelated transactions, provided that nothing herein shall prevent the assertion of any such claim by separate suit or compulsory counterclaim;

(f) any invalidity or unenforceability relating to or against any Subsidiary Borrower for any reason of this Agreement, or any provision of applicable law or regulation purporting to prohibit the payment by any Subsidiary Borrower of the principal of or interest on any Loan or any other amount payable by any Subsidiary Borrower under this Agreement; or

(g) any other act or omission to act or delay of any kind by any Subsidiary Borrower, any Agent, any Lender, the Issuing Bank or any other Person or any other circumstance whatsoever which might, but for the provisions of this paragraph, constitute a legal or equitable discharge of or defense to the Parent's obligations hereunder.

SECTION 9.03. Discharge Only upon Payment in Full; Reinstatement In Certain Circumstances. The Parent's obligations hereunder shall remain in full force and effect until the principal of and interest on the Loans and all other amounts payable by each Subsidiary Borrower under this Agreement shall have been paid in full or assumed by the Parent pursuant to an instrument acceptable to the Administrative Agent. If at any time any payment of the principal of or interest on any Loan or any other amount payable by any Subsidiary Borrower under this Agreement is rescinded or must be otherwise restored or returned upon the insolvency, bankruptcy or reorganization of such Subsidiary Borrower or otherwise, the Parent's obligations hereunder with respect to such payment shall be reinstated as though such payment had been due but not made at such time.

SECTION 9.04. Waiver by the Parent. The Parent irrevocably waives acceptance hereof, presentment, demand, protest and any notice not provided for herein, as well as any requirement that at any time any action be taken by any Person against any Subsidiary Borrower or any other Person.

SECTION 9.05. Subrogation. Upon making full payment with respect to any obligation of any Subsidiary Borrower hereunder, the Parent shall be subrogated to the rights of the payee against such Subsidiary Borrower with respect to such obligation; provided that the Parent shall not enforce any payment by way of subrogation so long as (i) any Lender has any Commitment hereunder or (ii) any amount payable by such any Subsidiary Borrower hereunder remains unpaid.

SECTION 9.06. Stay of Acceleration. If acceleration of the time for payment of any amount payable by any Subsidiary Borrower under this Agreement is stayed upon the insolvency, bankruptcy or reorganization of any Subsidiary Borrower, all such amounts otherwise subject to acceleration under the terms of this Agreement shall nonetheless be payable by the Parent hereunder forthwith on demand by the Administrative Agent made at the request of the Required Lenders.

ARTICLE 10
MISCELLANEOUS

SECTION 10.01. Notices. Except in the case of notices and other communications expressly permitted to be given by telephone, all notices and other communications provided for herein shall be in writing and shall be delivered by hand or overnight courier service, mailed by certified or registered mail or sent by telecopy, as follows:

(a) if to a Borrower, to it at Sunbeam Corporation, 1615 South Congress Avenue, Suite 200, Delray Beach, FL 33445, Attention of Treasurer (Telecopy No. 561-243-2027]);

(b) if to the Administrative Agent, to First Union National Bank, 301 South College Street, One First Union Center TW-10, Charlotte, NC 28288-0608, Attention of Tom Molitor (Telecopy No. (704) 374-3300);

(c) if to the Issuing Bank, to it at First Union National Bank, 301 South College Street, One First Union Center TW-10, Charlotte, NC 28288-0608, Attention of Tom Molitor (Telecopy No. (704) 374-3300); and

(d) if to any other Lender, to it at its address (or telecopy number) set forth in its Administrative Questionnaire.

Any party hereto may change its address or telecopy number for notices and other communications hereunder by notice to the other parties hereto. All notices and other communications given to any party hereto in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement shall be deemed to have been given on the date of receipt.

SECTION 10.02. Waivers; Amendments. (a) No failure or delay by the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank or any Lender in exercising any right or power under any Loan Document shall operate as a waiver thereof, nor shall any single or partial exercise of any such right or power, or any abandonment or discontinuance of steps to enforce such a right or power, preclude any other or further exercise thereof or the exercise of any other right or power. The rights and remedies of the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank and the Lenders under the Loan Documents are cumulative and are not exclusive of any rights or remedies that they would otherwise have. No waiver of any provision of this Agreement or consent to any departure by any Borrower therefrom shall in any event be effective unless the same shall be permitted by paragraph (b) of this Section, and then such waiver or consent shall be effective only in the specific instance and for the purpose for which given. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the making of a Loan or issuance of a Letter of Credit shall not be construed as a waiver of any Default, regardless of whether the Administrative Agent, any Lender or the Issuing Bank may have had notice or knowledge of such Default at the time.

(b) Neither this Agreement nor any provision hereof may be waived, amended or modified except pursuant to an agreement or agreements in writing entered into by the Parent and the Required Lenders or by the Parent and the Administrative Agent with the consent of the Required Lenders; provided that no such agreement shall

(i) unless signed by all the Lenders with a Commitment of a Class, increase or decrease the Commitments of such Class (except for a ratable decrease in all the Commitments of such Class), or postpone the date fixed for the scheduled termination of any Commitment of such Class;

(ii) unless signed by all Lenders holding Loans of any Class, reduce the principal of or (except as expressly provided in the definition of "Applicable Leverage Ratio") rate of interest on any Loans of, or fees with respect to, such Class, postpone the date fixed for any scheduled payment of such fees or the principal of or interest on any such Loans, or decrease the aggregate amount by which such Loans are required to be repaid on any date scheduled pursuant to Section 2.09(a) or postpone any date for such repayment;

(iii) unless signed by all Lenders with Revolving Commitments, reduce the amount of any LC Disbursement or of any interest thereon or any fees payable with respect to the Letters of Credit hereunder, postpone the date fixed for any payment of any LC Disbursement or any interest thereon or any fees payable with respect to the Letters of Credit hereunder or (except as expressly provided in Section 2.04) the expiry date of any Letter of Credit;

(iv) unless signed by all the Lenders, change any of the provisions of this Section or the definition of "Required Lenders" or any other provision hereof specifying the number or percentage of Lenders required to waive, amend or modify any rights hereunder or make any determination or grant any consent hereunder; or

(v) unless signed by all the Lenders, change Section 2.17(b) or 2.17(c) in a manner that would alter the pro rata sharing of payments required thereby; and provided further that no such agreement shall amend, modify or otherwise affect the rights or duties of the Administrative Agent or the Issuing Bank hereunder without the prior written consent of the Administrative Agent or the Issuing Bank, as the case may be.

(c) Neither any Collateral Document nor the Subsidiary Guarantee nor any provision thereof may be waived, amended or modified except pursuant to an agreement or agreements in writing entered into by the Obligors party thereto and the Administrative Agent with the consent of the number or percentage of Lenders set forth therein.

SECTION 10.03. Expenses; Indemnity; Damage Waiver. (a) The Parent shall pay (i) all reasonable out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Administrative Agent and its Affiliates, including the reasonable fees, charges and disbursements of counsel for the Administrative Agent, in connection with the syndication of the credit facilities provided for herein, the preparation and administration of the Loan Documents or any amendments, modifications or waivers of the provisions thereof (whether or not the transactions contemplated thereby shall be consummated), (ii) all reasonable out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Issuing Bank in connection with the issuance, amendment, renewal or extension of any Letter of Credit or any demand for payment thereunder and (iii) all out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank or any Lender, including the fees, charges and disbursements of any counsel for the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank or any Lender, in connection with the enforcement or protection of its rights in connection with the Loan Documents, including its rights under this Section, or in connection with the Loans made or Letters of Credit issued hereunder, including all such out-of-pocket expenses incurred during any workout, restructuring or negotiations in respect of such Loans or Letters of Credit.

(b) The Parent shall indemnify the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank and each Lender, and each Related Party of any of the foregoing Persons (each such Person being called an "Indemnitee") against, and hold each Indemnitee harmless from, any and all losses, claims, damages, liabilities and related expenses, including the fees, charges and disbursements of any counsel for any Indemnitee, incurred by or asserted against any Indemnitee arising out of, in connection with, or as a result of (i) the execution or delivery of the Loan Documents or any agreement or instrument contemplated thereby, the performance by the parties thereto of their respective obligations thereunder or the consummation of the Transactions or any other transactions contemplated thereby, (ii) any Loan or Letter of Credit or the use of the proceeds therefrom (including any refusal by the Issuing Bank to honor a demand for payment under a Letter of Credit if the documents presented in connection with such demand do not strictly comply with the terms of such Letter of Credit), (iii) any actual or alleged presence or release of Hazardous Materials on or from any property owned or operated by the Parent or any of its Subsidiaries, or any Environmental Liability related in any way to the Parent or any of its Subsidiaries, or (iv) any actual or prospective claim, litigation, investigation or proceeding relating to any of the foregoing, whether based on contract, tort or any other theory and regardless of whether any Indemnitee is a party thereto; provided that such indemnity shall not, as to any Indemnitee, be available to the extent that such losses, claims, damages, liabilities or related expenses are determined by a court of competent jurisdiction by final and nonappealable judgment to have resulted from the gross negligence or wilful misconduct of such Indemnitee.

(c) To the extent that the Parent fails to pay any amount required to be paid by it to the Administrative Agent or the Issuing Bank under paragraph (a) or (b) of this Section, each Lender severally agrees to pay to the Administrative Agent or the Issuing Bank, as the case may be, such Lender's Applicable Percentage (determined as of the time that the applicable unreimbursed expense or indemnity payment is sought) of such unpaid amount; provided that the unreimbursed expense or indemnified loss, claim, damage, liability or related expense, as the case may be, was incurred by or asserted against the Administrative Agent or the Issuing Bank in its capacity as such.

(d) To the extent permitted by applicable law, no Borrower shall assert, and each Borrower hereby waives, any claim against any Indemnitee, on any theory of liability, for special, indirect, consequential or punitive damages (as opposed to direct or actual damages) arising out of, in connection with, or as a result of, the Loan Documents or any agreement or instrument contemplated hereby, the Transactions, any Loan or Letter of Credit or the use of the proceeds thereof.

(e) All amounts due under this Section shall be payable promptly after written demand therefor.

SECTION 10.04. Successors and Assigns. (a) The provisions of this Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective successors and assigns permitted hereby (including any Affiliate of the Issuing Bank that issues any Letter of Credit), except that a Borrower may not assign or otherwise transfer any of its rights or obligations hereunder to any Person other than the Parent without the prior written consent of each Lender (and any attempted assignment or transfer by a Borrower without such consent shall be null and void). Nothing in this Agreement, expressed or implied, shall be construed to confer upon any Person (other than the parties hereto, their respective successors and assigns permitted hereby (including any Affiliate of the Issuing Bank that issues any Letter of Credit) and, to the extent expressly contemplated hereby, the Related Parties of each of the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank and the Lenders) any legal or equitable right, remedy or claim under or by reason of this Agreement.

(b) Any Lender may assign to one or more assignees all or a portion of its rights and obligations under this Agreement (including all or a portion of its Commitment of any Class and the Loans of such Class and, if applicable, the related participations in LC Disbursements and Letters of Credit); provided that (i) except in the case of an assignment to a Lender or an Affiliate of a Lender, the Administrative Agent (and, in the case of an assignment of all or a portion of a Revolving Commitment or any Lender's obligations in respect of its LC Exposure, the Issuing Bank and, after the Agents have notified the Parent that primary syndication has been completed, the Parent) must give prior written consent to such assignment (which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld), (ii) except in the case of an assignment to a Lender or an Affiliate of a Lender or an assignment of the entire remaining amount of the assigning Lender's Commitments, the amount of the Commitments of the assigning Lender subject to each such assignment (determined as of the date the Assignment and Acceptance with respect to such assignment is delivered to the Administrative Agent) shall not be less than $5,000,000 unless each of the Parent and the Administrative Agent otherwise consent, (iii) each partial assignment shall be made as an assignment of a proportionate part of all the assigning Lender's rights and obligations under this Agreement with respect to the Commitment or Loans (and, if applicable, the related participations in LC Disbursements and Letters of Credit) of the relevant Class, (iv) the parties to each assignment shall execute and deliver to the Administrative Agent an Assignment and Acceptance, together with a processing and recordation fee of $3,000 (which shall be reduced to $1,500 in the case of an assignment to another Lender, and shall not be payable during primary syndication or in the case of an assignment to an Affiliate of the assigning Lender), and (v) the assignee, if it shall not be a Lender, shall deliver to the Administrative Agent an Administrative Questionnaire; and provided further that any consent of the Parent otherwise required under this paragraph shall not be required if an Event of Default under clause (h) or (i) of Article VII has occurred and is continuing. Subject to acceptance and recording thereof pursuant to paragraph (d) of this Section, from and after the effective date specified in each Assignment and Acceptance the assignee thereunder shall be a party hereto and, to the extent of the interest assigned by such Assignment and Acceptance, have the rights and obligations of a Lender under this Agreement, and the assigning Lender thereunder shall, to the extent of the interest assigned by such Assignment and Acceptance, be released from its obligations under this Agreement (and, in the case of an Assignment and Acceptance covering all of the assigning Lender's rights and obligations under this Agreement, such Lender shall cease to be a party hereto but shall continue to be entitled to the benefits of Sections 2.14, 2.15, 2.16 and 10.03). Any assignment or transfer by a Lender of rights or obligations under this Agreement that does not comply with this paragraph shall be treated for purposes of this Agreement as a sale by such Lender of a participation in such rights and obligations in accordance with paragraph (e) of this Section.

(c) The Administrative Agent, acting for this purpose as an agent of the Borrowers, shall maintain at one of its offices a copy of each Assignment and Acceptance delivered to it and a register for the recordation of the names and addresses of the Lenders, and the Commitment of, and principal amount of the Loans and LC Disbursements owing to, each Lender pursuant to the terms hereof from time to time (the "Register"). The entries in the Register shall be conclusive, and each Borrower, the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank and the Lenders may treat each Person whose name is recorded in the Register pursuant to the terms hereof as a Lender hereunder for all purposes of this Agreement, notwithstanding notice to the contrary. The Register shall be available for inspection by any Borrower, the Issuing Bank and any Lender, at any reasonable time and from time to time upon reasonable prior notice.

(d) Upon its receipt of a duly completed Assignment and Acceptance executed by an assigning Lender and an assignee, the assignee's completed Administrative Questionnaire (unless the assignee shall already be a Lender hereunder), the processing and recordation fee referred to in paragraph (b) of this Section and any written consent to such assignment required by paragraph(b) of this Section, the Administrative Agent shall accept such Assignment and Acceptance and record the information contained therein in the Register. No assignment shall be effective for purposes of this Agreement unless it has been recorded in the Register as provided in this paragraph.

(e) Any Lender may, without the consent of any Borrower, the Administrative Agent or the Issuing Bank, sell participations to one or more banks or other entities (a "Participant") in all or a portion of such Lender's rights and obligations under this Agreement (including all or a portion of its Commitment of any Class and the Loans of such Class and, if applicable, the related participations in LC Disbursements and Letters of Credit); provided that (i) such Lender's obligations under this Agreement shall remain unchanged, (ii) such Lender shall remain solely responsible to the other parties hereto for the performance of such obligations and (iii) the Borrowers, the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank and the other Lenders shall continue to deal solely and directly with such Lender in connection with such Lender's rights and obligations under this Agreement. Any agreement or instrument pursuant to which a Lender sells such a participation shall provide that such Lender shall retain the sole right to enforce this Agreement and to approve any amendment, modification or waiver of any provision of this Agreement; provided that such agreement or instrument may provide that such Lender will not, without the consent of the Participant, agree to any amendment, modification or waiver described in the first proviso to Section 10.02(b) that affects such Participant. Subject to paragraph (f) of this Section, each Borrower agrees that each Participant shall be entitled to the benefits of Sections 2.14, 2.15 and 2.16 to the same extent as if it were a Lender and had acquired its interest by assignment pursuant to paragraph(b) of this Section. To the extent permitted by law, each Participant also shall be entitled to the benefits of Section 10.08 as though it were a Lender.

(f) A Participant shall not be entitled to receive any greater payment under Section 2.14 or 2.16 than the applicable Lender would have been entitled to receive with respect to the participation sold to such Participant, unless the sale of the participation to such Participant is made with the Parent's prior written consent. A Participant that would be a Foreign Lender if it were a Lender shall not be entitled to the benefits of Section 2.16 unless the Parent is notified of the participation sold to such Participant and such Participant agrees, for the benefit of the Parent, to comply with Section 2.16(e) as though it were a Lender.

(g) Any Lender may at any time pledge or assign a security interest in all or any portion of its rights under this Agreement to secure obligations of such Lender, including any pledge or assignment to secure obligations to a Federal Reserve Bank, and this Section shall not apply to any such pledge or assignment of a security interest; provided that no such pledge or assignment of a security interest shall release a Lender from any of its obligations hereunder or substitute any such pledgee or assignee for such Lender as a party hereto.

SECTION 10.05. Survival. All covenants, agreements, representations and warranties made by any Borrower herein and in the certificates or other instruments delivered in connection with or pursuant to the Loan Documents shall be considered to have been relied upon by the other parties hereto and shall survive the execution and delivery of this Agreement and the making of any Loans and issuance of any Letters of Credit, regardless of any investigation made by any such other party or on its behalf and notwithstanding that the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank or any Lender may have had notice or knowledge of any Default or incorrect representation or warranty at the time any credit is extended hereunder, and shall continue in full force and effect as long as the principal of or any accrued interest on any Loan or any fee or any other amount payable under this Agreement is outstanding and unpaid or any Letter of Credit is outstanding and so long as the Commitments have not expired or terminated. The provisions of Sections 2.14, 2.15, 2.16 and 10.03 and Article VIII shall survive and remain in full force and effect regardless of the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby, the repayment of the Loans, the expiration or termination of the Letters of Credit and the Commitments or the termination of this Agreement or any provision hereof.

SECTION 10.06. Counterparts; Integration. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts (and by different parties hereto on different counterparts), each of which shall constitute an original, but all of which when taken together shall constitute a single contract. The Loan Documents and any separate letter agreements with respect to fees payable to the Administrative Agent constitute the entire contract among the parties relating to the subject matter hereof and supersede any and all previous agreements and understandings, oral or written, relating to the subject matter hereof.

SECTION 10.07. Severability. Any provision of this Agreement held to be invalid, illegal or unenforceable in any jurisdiction shall, as to such jurisdiction, be ineffective to the extent of such invalidity, illegality or unenforceability without affecting the validity, legality and enforceability of the remaining provisions hereof; and the invalidity of a particular provision in a particular jurisdiction shall not invalidate such provision in any other jurisdiction.

SECTION 10.08. Right of Setoff. If an Event of Default shall have occurred and be continuing, each Lender and each of its Affiliates is hereby authorized at any time and from time to time, to the fullest extent permitted by law, to set off and apply any and all deposits (general or special, time or demand, provisional or final) at any time held and other obligations at any time owing by such Lender or Affiliate to or for the credit or the account of any Borrower against any of and all the obligations of any Borrower now or hereafter existing under the Loan Documents held by such Lender or any of its Affiliates, irrespective of whether or not such Lender shall have made any demand under this Agreement and although such obligations may be unmatured. The rights of each Lender under this Section are in addition to other rights and remedies (including other rights of setoff) which such Lender may have.

SECTION 10.09. Governing Law; Jurisdiction; Consent to Service of Process. (a) This Agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the law of the State of New York.

(b) Each Borrower hereby irrevocably and unconditionally submits, for itself and its property, to the nonexclusive jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the State of New York sitting in New York County and of the United States District Court of the Southern District of New York, and any appellate court from any thereof, in any action or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the other Loan Documents, or for recognition or enforcement of any judgment, and each of the parties hereto hereby irrevocably and unconditionally agrees that all claims in respect of any such action or proceeding may be heard and determined in such New York State or, to the extent permitted by law, in such Federal court. Each of the parties hereto agrees that a final judgment in any such action or proceeding shall be conclusive and may be enforced in other jurisdictions by suit on the judgment or in any other manner provided by law. Nothing in this Agreement shall affect any right that the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank or any Lender may otherwise have to bring any action or proceeding relating to this Agreement or the other Loan Documents against any Borrower or its properties in the courts of any jurisdiction.

(c) Each Borrower hereby irrevocably and unconditionally waives, to the fullest extent it may legally and effectively do so, any objection which it may now or hereafter have to the laying of venue of any suit, action or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the other Loan Documents in any court referred to in paragraph (b) of this Section. Each of the parties hereto hereby irrevocably waives, to the fullest extent permitted by law, the defense of an inconvenient forum to the maintenance of such action or proceeding in any such court.

(d) Each party to this Agreement irrevocably consents to service of process in the manner provided for notices in Section 10.01. Nothing in this Agreement will affect the right of any party to this Agreement to serve process in any other manner permitted by law.

SECTION 10.10. WAIVER OF JURY TRIAL. EACH PARTY HERETO HEREBY WAIVES, TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY APPLICABLE LAW, ANY RIGHT IT MAY HAVE TO A TRIAL BY JURY IN ANY LEGAL PROCEEDING DIRECTLY OR INDIRECTLY ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO THE LOAN DOCUMENTS OR THE

TRANSACTIONS CONTEMPLATED THEREBY (WHETHER BASED ON CONTRACT, TORT OR ANY OTHER THEORY). EACH PARTY HERETO (A) CERTIFIES THAT NO REPRESENTATIVE, AGENT OR ATTORNEY OF ANY OTHER PARTY HAS REPRESENTED, EXPRESSLY OR OTHERWISE, THAT SUCH OTHER PARTY WOULD NOT, IN THE EVENT OF LITIGATION, SEEK TO ENFORCE THE FOREGOING WAIVER AND (B) ACKNOWLEDGES THAT IT AND THE OTHER PARTIES HERETO HAVE BEEN INDUCED TO ENTER INTO THE LOAN DOCUMENTS BY, AMONG OTHER THINGS, THE MUTUAL WAIVERS AND CERTIFICATIONS IN THIS SECTION.

SECTION 10.11. Headings. Article and Section headings and the Table of Contents used herein are for convenience of reference only, are not part of this Agreement and shall not affect the construction of, or be taken into consideration in interpreting, this Agreement.

SECTION 10.12. Confidentiality. Each of the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank and the Lenders agrees to maintain the confidentiality of the Information (as defined below), except that Information may be disclosed (a) to its and its Affiliates' directors, officers, employees and agents, including accountants, legal counsel and other advisors (it being understood that the Persons to whom such disclosure is made will be informed of the confidential nature of such Information and instructed to keep such Information confidential), (b) to the extent requested by any regulatory authority, (c) to the extent required by applicable laws or regulations or by any subpoena or similar legal process, (d) to any other party to the Loan Documents, (e) in connection with the exercise of any remedies hereunder or any suit, action or proceeding relating to the Loan Documents or the enforcement of rights thereunder, (f) subject to an agreement containing provisions substantially the same as those of this Section, to any assignee of or Participant in, or any prospective assignee of or Participant in, any of its rights or obligations under the Loan Documents, (g) with the consent of the Parent or (h) to the extent such Information (i) becomes publicly available other than as a result of a breach of this Section or (ii) becomes available to the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank or any Lender on a nonconfidential basis from a source other than a Borrower. For the purposes of this Section, "Information" means all information received from a Borrower relating to such Borrower or its business, other than any such information that is available to the Administrative Agent, the Issuing Bank or any Lender on a nonconfidential basis prior to disclosure by such Borrower; provided that, in the case of information received from a Borrower after the date hereof, such information is clearly identified at the time of delivery as confidential. Any Person required to maintain the confidentiality of Information as provided in this Section shall be considered to have complied with its obligation to do so if such Person has exercised the same degree of care to maintain the confidentiality of such Information as such Person would accord to its own confidential information.

SECTION 10.13. Interest Rate Limitation. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, if at any time the interest rate applicable to any Loan, together with all fees, charges and other amounts which are treated as interest on such Loan under applicable law (collectively the "Charges"), shall exceed the maximum lawful rate (the "Maximum Rate") which may be contracted for, charged, taken, received or reserved by the Lender holding such Loan in accordance with applicable law, the rate of interest payable in respect of such Loan hereunder, together with all Charges payable in respect thereof, shall be limited to the Maximum Rate and, to the extent lawful, the interest and Charges that would have been payable in respect of such Loan but were not payable as a result of the operation of this Section shall be cumulated and the interest and Charges payable to such Lender in respect of other Loans or periods shall be increased (but not above the Maximum Rate therefor) until such cumulated amount, together with interest thereon at the Federal Funds Effective Rate to the date of repayment, shall have been received by such Lender.

LITIGATION & ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS

SUNBEAM CORPORATION

Environmental Matters

In addition to ongoing environmental compliance at its operations, the Company also is actively engaged in certain environmental remediation activities relating primarily to divested operations. As of December 31, 1997, the Company had been identified by the United States Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA") or a state environmental agency as a potentially responsible party ("PRP") in connection with seven (7) sites subject to the federal Superfund law and two (2) sites subject to state Superfund laws comparable to the federal law (collectively the "Environmental Sites"), exclusive of sites at which the Company has been designated (or expects to be designated) as a de minimis (less than 1%) participant. The seven sites subject to the federal Superfund law are (i) Bally Groundwater Site, Bally, Pennsylvania, (ii) Crossley Farm Site, Huffs Church, Pennsylvania, (iii) True Temper Sports Site, Geneva, Ohio, (iv) I.J. Stephens Farm Site, Newton County, Missouri, (v) Thermo Chem Site, Muskegon, Michigan, (vi) Summit Equipment & Supplies Site, Akron, Ohio and (vii) Tiger Metal Services, Inc. Site, Ironton, Ohio. The two sites subject to state Superfund laws comparable to the federal law are (i) Lydell Avenue Site, Glendale, Wisconsin and (ii) Morton Springer Company, Inc. Site, Newark, New Jersey.

The Superfund Act, and related state environmental remediation laws, generally authorize governmental authorities to remediate a Superfund site and to assess the costs against the PRPs or to order the PRPs to remediate the site at their expense. Liability under the Superfund Law is joint and several and is imposed on a strict basis, without regard to degree of negligence or culpability. As a result, theCompany recognizes its responsibility to determine whether other PRPs at a Superfund site are financially capable of paying their respective shares of the ultimate cost of remediation of the site. Whenever the Company has determined that a particular PRP is not financially responsible, it has assumed for purposes of establishing reserve amounts that such PRP will not pay its respective share of the costs of remediation. To minimize the Company's potential liability with respect to the Environmental Sites, the Company has actively participated in steering committees and other groups of PRPs established with respect to such sites. The Company currently is engaged in active remediation activities at nine (9) sites, four (4) of which are among the Environmental Sites referred to above, and five (5) of which have not been designated as Superfund sites under federal or state law. The nine sites are (i) Bally Groundwater Site, Bally, Pennsylvania, (ii) True Temper Sports Site, Geneva, Ohio, (iii) I.J. Stephens Farm Site, Newton County, Missouri, (iv) Thermo Chem Site, Muskegon, Michigan, (v) Former Sunbeam Household Products Facility, Coushatta, Louisiana, (vi) Woodshaft, Inc. property, Amory, Mississippi, (vii) Eliskim, Inc. property, Anderson, South Carolina, (viii) Sunbeam Products Inc. facility, McMinnville, Tennessee and (ix) Former Sunbeam Outdoor Products facility, Portland, Tennessee.

GILBERT AND MOSLEY SITE. As a result of investigations undertaken in 1986, the Kansas Department of Health and Environment ("KDHE") discovered that groundwater in the downtown Wichita area (the "Gilbert and Mosley Site") was contaminated with volatile organic chemicals ("VOCs"). Coleman occupied a facility within the boundaries of the Gilbert and Mosley Site. Subsequent investigations in the area, including investigations in November 1988 by Coleman, indicated that the groundwater beneath the Coleman property is contaminated with VOCs. Coleman is in the process of remediating the contamination on its property.

The City of Wichita has entered into a voluntary agreement with KDHE in which the City agreed to investigate and then remediate contamination in the Gilbert and Mosley Site. Coleman has entered into an agreement with KDHE in which Coleman agreed to perform a similar study for the Coleman property and to implement remedial activities at its property. In addition, Coleman entered into an agreement with the City of Wichita in which Coleman agreed to fund its proportionate share of the City's study and remediation of the Gilbert and Mosley site.

All previously filed lawsuits alleging that properties in the downtown Wichita area were diminished in value as a result of discharges of volatile organic chemicals from Coleman's downtown Wichita facility have been settled and dismissed.

MAIZE SITE. Coleman has undertaken a soil and groundwater investigation at its facility in Maize, Kansas (the "Maize Site"). Results indicated that limited VOC contamination is present in the groundwater under and to the southeast of the facility. The data has been reported to the KDHE, and Coleman has entered into an agreement with KDHE to implement appropriate remedial actions. The remediation system has been installed, and Coleman is in the process of remediating the contaminated groundwater.

NORTHEAST SITE. In 1990 Coleman undertook a soil and groundwater investigation of its facility in northeast Wichita (the "Northeast Site"). Results indicated the presence of VOCs in the groundwater and soils. Although some of the contamination may be a result of Coleman's operations at the facility, the data also indicated that contamination was migrating onto the Coleman property from up gradient sources. Coleman reported the initial results of its study to KDHE. Coleman has also provided copies of all data to the United States Environmental Protection Agency (the "EPA"), at its request. The EPA has not initiated any actions against the Company with respect to the Northeast Site. An agreement has been entered into with KDHE to undertake additional investigatory activities, and an interim remediation system has been installed.

SIGNATURE BRANDS USA, INC.

Litigation Matters

On May 27, 1994, Mr. Coffee, Inc. was served with a complaint in the case captioned Miriam Brown v. Mr. Coffee, Inc. et. al. (Civil Action No. 13531), in the Delaware Court of Chancery, New Castle County. The complaint names Mr. Coffee, Inc., a former major shareholder of Mr. Coffee, Inc. and each member of the Board of Directors of Mr. Coffee, Inc. prior to the Acquisition as defendants in a purported class action lawsuit. The complaint alleged that the Director defendants breached their fiduciary duties as Directors of Mr. Coffee, Inc. by, among other things, alleged efforts to entrench themselves in office and prevent Mr. Coffee, Inc.'s public stockholders from maximizing the value of their holdings, engaging in plans and schemes unlawfully to thwart offers and proposals from third parties, and approving and or causing the major shareholder to agree to vote in favor of the merger with the Company. The plaintiff originally sought to enjoin the merger and to obtain an order requiring the Director defendants to fulfill their fiduciary duties by exploring third party interest and obtaining the highest offer obtainable for the public stockholders. The plaintiff also seeks unspecified compensatory damages and costs and disbursements in connection with the action, including attorneys' and experts' fees, and such other and further relief as the court deems just and proper. In October 1996, the plaintiffs filed a Second Amended Complaint containing the above claims, but focusing on allegations that the Director defendants failed to engage in a process designed to maximize the value of Mr. Coffee, Inc. for its shareholders. Signature Brands USA, Inc. (the "Company") has filed a Motion to Dismiss the Second Amended Complaint. No briefing schedule has been established as yet for this Motion. Discovery commenced with the filing of this lawsuit. However, no discovery activity by any party has taken place during the 1995, 1996 and 1997 fiscal years or through the time of filing this document. Other than the filing of the Second Amended Complaint, plaintiffs have not taken further action in prosecution of this lawsuit. The Company believes that the plaintiff's allegations are without merit and intends to contest vigorously the allegations in the Second Amended Complaint. Management believes that the ultimate outcome of such matters will not have a material adverse effect upon the operations or financial position of the Company.

On July 23, 1997, an action captioned Bunn-O-Matic Corporation v. Signature Brands USA, Inc. et al. was filed in the United States District Court for the Central District of Illinois. The complaint alleges that Signature, through its manufacture and sale of the Speedbrew (TM) displacement-type coffeemakers, has infringed on two of plaintiff's patents. The complaint seeks an injunction against further infringement, and also seeks costs, actual damages, attorneys' fees and treble damages, based upon allegations of willful infringement. At this point, Signature has filed an Answer denying the allegations of the complaint and asserting a counterclaim of patent invalidity and non-infringement. No further activity has occurred in the case, and no trial date has been set. Signature intends to vigorously defend this action, and Management does not believe that the ultimate outcome will have a material adverse effect upon the operations or financial position of Signature.

FIRST ALERT, INC.

Litigation Matters

A purported class action entitled Betley et al. v. First Alert, Inc. et al. ("Betley") was filed in the Circuit Court of Cook County, Illinois on January 3, 1995, against the Company and its wholly owned subsidiary, BRK Brands, Inc., alleging common law fraud, breach of warranties, and a statutory violation of the Illinois Consumer Fraud Act, all related to alleged defects in the original First Alert® Carbon Monoxide Detector (Model FACO) design and the manner in which the detector was marketed. The Company does not believe that the plaintiffs claim any personal injuries or property damage; nor do the plaintiffs claim that their detectors failed to detect dangerous levels of carbon monoxide. Instead, they claim (i) that the Company failed to disclose that the product alarms in non-life threatening conditions (which they state in their complaint to be a "nuisance"), (ii) that the Company falsely proclaims the product resets "automatically" when, in fact, the product can take several hours or days to reset after it has gone into alarm and (iii) that the Company falsely claims that the product met Underwriters Laboratories' listing criteria for residential carbon monoxide detectors in effect at the time the Model FACO was manufactured. The plaintiff's seek a refund of their purchase price, other out-of-pocket expenses, punitive damages, and attorney's fees. The Company has raised numerous defenses to this claim and will continue to oppose it forcefully.

EXHIBIT B TO CREDIT AGREEMENT

PARENT
PLEDGE AND SECURITY AGREEMENT

AGREEMENT dated as of March 30, 1998 between SUNBEAM CORPORATION (with its successors, the "Parent") and First Union National Bank, as Administrative Agent.

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, the Parent, the Subsidiary Borrowers referred to therein, the Lenders party thereto, Morgan Stanley Senior Funding, Inc., as Syndication Agent, Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association, as Documentation Agent, and First Union National Bank, as Administrative Agent, are parties to a Credit Agreement dated as of March 30, 1998 (as the same may be amended from time to time, the "Credit Agreement"); and

WHEREAS, the Parent is, or may hereafter become obligated to one or more of the Lenders under one or more Hedging Agreements (as defined in the Credit Agreement) as contemplated by Section 5.10 of the Credit Agreement; and

WHEREAS, in order to induce said Lenders and Administrative Agent to enter into the Credit Agreement and in order to induce the Lenders to enter into any Hedging Agreements, the Parent has agreed to grant a continuing security interest in and to the Collateral (as hereafter defined) to secure the Secured Obligations as hereafter defined;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the premises and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto agree as follows:

SECTION 1. Definitions. Terms defined in the Credit Agreement and not otherwise defined herein have, as used herein, the respective meanings provided for therein except that the term "Loan Documents" shall include any document with respect to any Hedging Obligations. The following additional terms, as used herein, have the following respective meanings:

"Collateral" has the meaning assigned to such term in Section 3(A).

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

020066

"Collateral Accounts" means the LC Reimbursement Account, the Major Casualty and Indemnity Proceeds Account and the Prepayment Account.

"Direct Domestic Subsidiary" means a Direct Subsidiary organized under the laws of the United States of America or a state thereof.

"Direct Domestic Subsidiary Shares" means the shares of capital stock or other equity interest of each Direct Domestic Subsidiary listed on Schedule I opposite such Direct Domestic Subsidiary's name.

"Direct Foreign Subsidiary" means a Direct Subsidiary organized under the laws of any jurisdiction outside the United States.

"Direct Foreign Subsidiary Shares" means the shares of capital stock or other equity interests of each Direct Foreign Subsidiary listed on Schedule II opposite such Direct Foreign Subsidiary's name.

"Direct Subsidiary" means a Material Subsidiary of the Parent the capital stock or other equity interests of which is held directly by the Parent.

"Direct Subsidiary Notes" means the Intercompany Agreements of each Direct Subsidiary listed on Schedule I or Schedule II opposite such Direct Subsidiary's name.

"Hedging Obligations" means all obligations of the Parent under any Hedging Agreement between the Parent and any Lender.

"Intercompany Agreements" means all instruments owned by the Parent evidencing Indebtedness owed to it by any of its Direct Subsidiaries.

"LC Reimbursement Account" has the meaning set forth in Section 6(C).

"Liquid Investments" has the meaning set forth in Section 6(E).

"Major Casualty and Indemnity Proceeds Account" has the meaning set forth in Section 6(A).

"Pledged Instruments" means (i) the Direct Subsidiary Notes and (ii) any instrument required to be pledged to the Administrative Agent pursuant to Section 3(B) and Section 3(C).

190070

"Pledged Securities" means the Pledged Instruments and the Pledged Stock.

"Pledged Stock" means (i) the Direct Domestic Subsidiary Shares, (ii) 66% of the Direct Foreign Subsidiary Shares and (iii) any other capital stock required to be pledged to the Administrative Agent pursuant to Section 3(B) and Section 3(C).

"Prepayment Account" has the meaning set forth in Section 6(D).

"Secured Obligations" means the obligations secured under this Agreement including (i) all principal of and interest (including, without limitation, any interest which accrues after or would accrue but for the commencement of any case, proceeding or other action relating to the bankruptcy, insolvency or reorganization of the Parent, whether or not allowed or allowable as a claim in any such proceeding) on any loan under, or any note issued pursuant to, the Credit Agreement, (ii) all reimbursement obligations with respect to any Letter of Credit, (iii) any Hedging Obligations, (iv) all other amounts payable by the Parent under the Loan Documents, and (v) any renewals or extensions of any of the foregoing.

"Security Interests" means the security interests in the Collateral granted hereunder securing the Secured Obligations.

Unless otherwise defined herein, or unless the context otherwise requires, all terms used herein which are defined in the New York Uniform Commercial Code as in effect on the date hereof shall have the meanings therein stated.

SECTION 2. Representations and Warranties. The Parent represents and warrants as follows:

(A) Title to Pledged Securities. The Parent owns all of the Pledged Securities, free and clear of any Liens other than the Security Interests. The Pledged Stock includes (i) all of the issued and outstanding capital stock of each Direct Domestic Subsidiary and (ii) 66% of the issued and outstanding stock of each Direct Foreign Subsidiary. The Pledged Instruments include all instruments owned by the Parent evidencing Indebtedness owed to it by any of its Direct Subsidiaries. All of the Pledged Stock has been duly authorized and validly issued, and is fully paid and non-assessable, and is subject to no options to purchase or similar rights of any Person. The Parent is not and will not become a party to or otherwise become bound by any agreement, other than this Agreement, which restricts in any manner the rights of any present or future holder of any of the Pledged Securities with respect thereto.

(B) Validity, Perfection and Priority of Security Interests. Upon the delivery of the Pledged Instruments and certificates representing the Pledged Stock to the Administrative Agent in accordance with Section 4 hereof and the filing of UCC financing statements in the form specified in Exhibit A in the appropriate filing office in the jurisdiction specified on the signature pages of the Credit Agreement, the Administrative Agent will have valid and perfected security interests in the Collateral subject to no prior Lien other than Permitted Liens. Except for the filing of the UCC financing statements described in the immediately preceding sentence, no registration, recordation or filing with any governmental body, agency or official is required in connection with the execution or delivery of this Agreement or necessary for the validity or enforceability hereof or for the perfection or enforcement of the Security Interests. Neither the Parent nor any of its Subsidiaries has performed or will perform any acts which might prevent the Administrative Agent from enforcing any of the terms and conditions of this Agreement or which would limit the Administrative Agent in any such enforcement. Other than financing statements or other similar or equivalent documents or instruments with respect to the Security Interests, no financing statement, mortgage, security agreement or similar or equivalent document or instrument covering all or any part of the Collateral is on file or of record in any jurisdiction in which such filing or recording would be effective to perfect a Lien on such Collateral. No collateral is in the possession of any Person (other than the Parent) asserting any claim thereto or security interest therein, except that the Administrative Agent or its designee may have possession of Collateral as contemplated hereby.

(C) UCC Filing Locations. The chief executive office of the Parent is located at its address set forth on the signature pages of the Credit Agreement. Under the Uniform Commercial Code as in effect in the State in which such office is located, no local filing is required to perfect a security interest in collateral consisting of accounts or general intangibles.

SECTION 3. The Security Interests. In order to secure the full and punctual payment of the Secured Obligations in accordance with the terms thereof, and to secure the performance of all the obligations of the Parent hereunder:

(A) The Parent hereby assigns and pledges to and with the Administrative Agent for the benefit of the Lenders and grants to the Administrative Agent for the benefit of the Lenders security interests in all of the following property of the Parent (collectively, the "Collateral"):

(1) the Pledged Securities, and all of its rights and privileges with respect to the Pledged Securities, and all income and profits thereon, and all interest, dividends and other payments and distributions with respect thereto;

(2) all Indebtedness now or hereafter owed to the Parent by any of its Direct Subsidiaries (whether or not evidenced by instruments (as defined in the UCC));

(3) all other Investments made by the Parent in any of its Direct Domestic Subsidiaries; and

(4) The Collateral Accounts, all cash deposited therein from time to time, the Liquid Investments made pursuant to Section 6(E) and all other monies and property of any kind on deposit therein; and

(5) all proceeds of all or any of the collateral described in clauses (1) through (4) hereof.

Contemporaneously with the execution and delivery hereof, the Parent is delivering the Direct Subsidiary Notes and certificates representing the Direct Domestic Subsidiary Shares and the Direct Foreign Subsidiary Shares in pledge hereunder.

(B) In the event that at any time any Person becomes a Direct Domestic Subsidiary, or any Direct Domestic Subsidiary issues any additional or substitute shares of capital stock of any class or any other equity interests or any substitute note, or owes any other Indebtedness to the Parent, or the Parent makes any other Investment in any Direct Domestic Subsidiary, the Parent will immediately pledge and deposit with the Administrative Agent certificates representing all such shares or equity interests and such note or an instrument evidencing such other Indebtedness or other Investment as additional security for the Secured Obligations. All such shares, notes and instruments constitute Pledged Securities and are subject to all provisions of this Agreement.

(C) In the event that at any time any Person becomes a Direct Foreign Subsidiary, or any Direct Foreign Subsidiary issues any additional or substitute shares of capital stock of any class or any other equity interests or any substitute note, or owes any other Indebtedness to the Parent, or the Parent makes any other Investment in any Direct Foreign Subsidiary, the Parent will immediately pledge and deposit with the Administrative Agent certificates representing additional shares or equity interests sufficient to cause the Secured Parties to have a security interest in 66% (but not more than 66%) of all the outstanding capital stock of or other equity interests in such Direct Foreign Subsidiary and such note or an instrument evidencing such other Indebtedness or other Investment as additional security for the Secured Obligations. All such shares, notes and instruments constitute Pledged Securities and are subject to all provisions of this Agreement.

(D) The Security Interests are granted as security only and shall not subject the Administrative Agent or any Lender to, or transfer or in any way affect or modify, any obligation or liability of the Parent or any of its Direct Subsidiaries with respect to any of the Collateral or any transaction in connection therewith.

SECTION 4. Delivery of Pledged Securities. All Pledged Instruments shall be delivered to the Administrative Agent by the Parent pursuant hereto indorsed to the order of the Administrative Agent, and accompanied by any required transfer tax stamps, all in form and substance satisfactory to the Administrative Agent. All certificates representing Pledged Stock delivered to the Administrative Agent by the Parent pursuant hereto shall be in suitable form for transfer by delivery, or shall be accompanied by duly executed instruments of transfer or assignment in blank, with signatures appropriately guaranteed, and accompanied by any required transfer tax stamps, all in form and substance satisfactory to the Administrative Agent.

SECTION 5. Further Assurances.

(A) The Parent agrees that it will from time to time, at its expense and in such manner and form as the Administrative Agent may require, execute, deliver, file and record any financing statement, specific assignment or other paper and take any other action that may be necessary or desirable, or that the Administrative Agent may request, in order to create, preserve, perfect, confirm or validate any Security Interest or to enable the Administrative Agent to exercise and enforce any of its rights, powers or remedies hereunder with respect to any of the Collateral. To the extent permitted by applicable law, the Parent hereby authorizes the Administrative Agent to execute and file, in the name of the Parent or otherwise, Uniform Commercial Code financing statements (which may be carbon, photographic, photostatic or other reproductions of this Agreement or of a financing statement relating to this Agreement) which the Administrative Agent in its sole discretion may deem necessary or appropriate to further perfect the Security Interests.

(B) The Parent agrees that it will not change (i) its name, identity or corporate structure in any manner or (ii) the location of its chief executive office, in each case unless it shall have given the Administrative Agent not less than 30 days' prior notice thereof.

SECTION 6. Collateral Accounts.

(A) Promptly upon and at all times after the receipt of any Major Casualty Proceeds or Indemnity Proceeds, the Parent shall establish and shall thereafter maintain a cash collateral account (the "Major Casualty and Indemnity Proceeds Account") at the offices of the Administrative Agent, in the name and under the exclusive dominion and control of the Administrative Agent. The Parent hereby agrees to cause an amount of cash equal to the amount of such Major Casualty Proceeds or Indemnity Proceeds received from time to time after the establishment of the Major Casualty and Indemnity Proceeds Account to be deposited therein as set forth in this paragraph. Any income received with respect to the balance from time to time standing to the credit of the Major Casualty and Indemnity Proceeds Account, including any interest or capital gains on Liquid Investments, shall remain, or be deposited, in the Major Casualty and Indemnity Proceeds Account. All right, title and interest in and to the cash amounts on deposit from time to time in the Major Casualty and Indemnity Proceeds Account together with any Liquid Investments from time to time made pursuant to Section 6(E) hereof shall vest in the Administrative Agent, shall constitute part of the Collateral hereunder and shall not constitute payment of the Secured Obligations until applied thereto as hereinafter provided. The Administrative Agent shall (i) apply to prepayment of the Term Loans, those amounts on deposit in the Major Casualty and Indemnity Proceeds Account which are required to be applied to the prepayment of the Term Loans in accordance with Section 2.09(b)(ii) of the Credit Agreement and (ii) release those amounts on deposit in the Major Casualty and Indemnity Proceeds Account which are required to be released in accordance with Section 2.09(b)(ii) of the Credit Agreement..

(B) The balance from time to time standing to the credit of the Major Casualty and Indemnity Proceeds Account (to the extent not applied pursuant to the last sentence of Section 6(A)) shall be subject to withdrawal only upon the instructions of the Administrative Agent.

(C) All amounts required to be deposited by the Parent as cash collateral pursuant to Section 2.04(j) of the Credit Agreement (any such amounts, a "LC Reimbursement Amount") shall be deposited in a cash collateral account (the "LC Reimbursement Account") established and maintained by the Parent at the offices of the Administrative Agent, in the name and under the exclusive dominion and control of the Administrative Agent. The Parent hereby agrees to cause any LC Reimbursement Amount to be deposited therein as set forth in this paragraph. Any income received with respect to the balance from time to time standing to the credit of the LC Reimbursement Account, including any interest or capital gains on Liquid Investments, shall remain, or be deposited, in the LC Reimbursement Account. All right, title and interest in and to the cash amounts on deposit from time to time in the LC Reimbursement Account together with any Liquid Investments from time to time made pursuant to Section 6(E) shall vest in the Administrative Agent, shall constitute part of the Collateral hereunder and shall not constitute payment of the Secured Obligations until applied thereto as hereinafter provided. The Administrative Agent shall apply amounts on deposit in the Prepayment Account to reimburse the Issuing Bank for LC Disbursements or to satisfy the reimbursement obligations of the Borrower for LC Exposure or other obligations of the Borrower in accordance with Section 2.04(j) of the Credit Agreement and shall return the amounts on deposit in the Prepayment Account to the Borrower in accordance with Section 2.04(j)..

(D) All amounts required to be deposited by the Parent as cash collateral pursuant to Section 2.09(c) of the Credit Agreement (any such amounts, a "Prepayment Amount") shall be deposited in a Prepayment Account (the "Prepayment Account") established and maintained by the Parent at the offices of the Administrative Agent, in the name and under the exclusive dominion and control of the Administrative Agent. The Parent hereby agrees to cause any Prepayment Amount to be deposited therein as set forth in this paragraph. Any income received with respect to the balance from time to time standing to the credit of the Prepayment Account, including any interest or capital gains on Liquid Investments, shall remain, or be deposited, in the Prepayment Account. All right, title and interest in and to the cash amounts on deposit from time to time in the Prepayment Account together with any Liquid Investments from time to time made pursuant to Section 6(E) shall vest in the Administrative Agent, shall constitute part of the Collateral hereunder and shall not constitute payment of the Secured Obligations until applied thereto as hereinafter provided. The Administrative Agent shall apply to prepayment of the Tranche B Term Loans, amounts on deposit in the Prepayment Account in accordance with Section 2.09(c) of the Credit Agreement.

(E) Amounts on deposit in the Collateral Accounts shall be invested and re-invested from time to time in such Liquid Investments as the Parent shall determine, which Liquid Investments shall be held in the name and be under the control of the Administrative Agent; provided that, if an Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, the Administrative Agent shall, if instructed by the Required Lenders, cause such Liquid Investments to be liquidated and apply or cause to be applied the proceeds thereof to the payment of the Secured Obligations in the manner specified in Section 14. For this purpose, "Liquid Investments" means Permitted Investments; provided that (i) each Liquid Investment shall mature within 30 days after it is acquired by the Administrative Agent and (ii) in order to provide the Administrative Agent, for the benefit of the Secured Parties, with a perfected security interest therein, each Liquid Investment shall be either:

(i) evidenced by negotiable certificates or instruments, or if non-negotiable then issued in the name of the Administrative Agent, which (together with any appropriate instruments of transfer) are delivered to, and held by, the Administrative Agent or an agent thereof (which shall not be the Parent or any of its Affiliates) in the State of New York or North Carolina; or

(ii) in book-entry form and issued by the United States and subject to pledge under applicable state law and Treasury regulations and as to which (in the opinion of counsel to the Administrative Agent) appropriate measures shall have been taken for perfection of the Security Interests.

SECTION 7. Record Ownership of Pledged Stock. Upon the occurrence and during the continuance of any Default, the Administrative Agent may at any time or from time to time, in its sole discretion, cause any or all of the Pledged Stock to be transferred of record into the name of the Administrative Agent or its nominee. The Parent will promptly give to the Administrative Agent copies of any notices or other communications received by it with respect to Pledged Stock registered in the name of the Parent and the Administrative Agent will promptly give to the Parent copies of any notices and communications received by the Administrative Agent with respect to Pledged Stock registered in the name of the Administrative Agent or its nominee.

SECTION 8. Right to Receive Distributions on Collateral. The Administrative Agent shall have the right to receive and, during the continuance of any Default, to retain as Collateral hereunder all dividends, interest and other payments and distributions made upon or with respect to the Collateral and the Parent shall take all such action as the Administrative Agent may deem necessary or appropriate to give effect to such right. All such dividends, interest and other payments and distributions which are received by the Parent shall be received in trust for the benefit of the Administrative Agent and the Lenders and, if the Administrative Agent so directs during the continuance of a Default, shall be segregated from other funds of the Parent and shall, forthwith upon demand by the Administrative Agent during the continuance of a Default, be paid over to the Administrative Agent as Collateral in the same form as received (with any necessary endorsement). After all Defaults have been cured, the Administrative Agent's right to retain dividends, interest and other payments and distributions under this Section 8 shall cease and the Administrative Agent shall pay over to the Parent any such Collateral retained by it during the continuance of a Default.

SECTION 9. Right to Vote Pledged Stock. Unless a Default shall have occurred and be continuing, the Parent shall have the right, from time to time, to vote and to give consents, ratifications and waivers with respect to the Pledged Stock, and the Administrative Agent shall, upon receiving a written request from the Parent accompanied by a certificate signed by its principal financial officer stating that no Default has occurred and is continuing, deliver to the Parent or as specified in such request such proxies, powers of attorney, consents, ratifications and waivers in respect of any of the Pledged Stock which is registered in the name of the Administrative Agent or its nominee as shall be specified in such request and be in form and substance satisfactory to the Administrative Agent.

If a Default shall have occurred and be continuing, the Administrative Agent shall have the right to the extent permitted by law and the Parent shall take all such action as may be necessary or appropriate to give effect to such right, to vote and to give consents, ratifications and waivers, and take any other action with respect to any or all of the Pledged Stock with the same force and effect as if the Administrative Agent were the absolute and sole owner thereof.

SECTION 10. General Authority. The Parent hereby irrevocably appoints the Administrative Agent its true and lawful attorney, with full power of substitution, in the name of the Parent, the Administrative Agent, the Lenders or otherwise, for the sole use and benefit of the Administrative Agent and Lenders, but at the expense of the Parent, to the extent permitted by law to exercise, at any time and from time to time while an Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, all or any of the following powers with respect to all or any of the Collateral:

(i) to demand, sue for, collect, receive and give acquittance for any and all monies due or to become due upon or by virtue thereof,

(ii) to settle, compromise, compound, prosecute or defend any action or proceeding with respect thereto,

(iii) to sell, transfer, assign or otherwise deal in or with the same or the proceeds or avails thereof, as fully and effectually as if the Administrative Agent were the absolute owner thereof, and

(iv) to extend the time of payment of any or all thereof and to make any allowance and other adjustments with reference thereto; provided that the Administrative Agent shall give the Parent not less than ten days' prior notice of the time and place of any sale or other intended disposition of any of the Collateral except any Collateral which is perishable or threatens to decline speedily in value or is of a type customarily sold on a recognized market. The Administrative Agent and the Parent agree that such notice constitutes "reasonable notification" within the meaning of Section 9-504(3) of the Uniform Commercial Code.

SECTION 11. Remedies upon Event of Default. If any Event of Default shall have occurred and be continuing, the Administrative Agent may exercise on behalf of the Lenders all the rights of a secured party under the Uniform Commercial Code (whether or not in effect in the jurisdiction where such rights are exercised) and, in addition, the Administrative Agent may, without being required to give any notice, except as herein provided or as may be required by mandatory provisions of law, (i) withdraw all cash and Liquid Investments in the Collateral Accounts and apply such cash and other cash, if any, then held by it as Collateral as specified in Section 14 and (ii) if there shall be no such cash or Liquid Investments or if such cash or Liquid Investments shall be insufficient to pay all the Secured Obligations in full, sell the Collateral or any part thereof at public or private sale or at any broker's board or on any securities exchange, for cash, upon credit or for future delivery, and at such price or prices as the Administrative Agent may deem satisfactory. Any Lender may be the purchaser of any or all of the Collateral so sold at any public sale (or, if the Collateral is of a type customarily sold in a recognized market or is of a type which is the subject of widely distributed standard price quotations, at any private sale). The Administrative Agent is authorized, in connection with any such sale, if it deems it advisable so to do, (i) to restrict the prospective bidders on or purchasers of any of the Pledged Securities to a limited number of sophisticated investors who will represent and agree that they are purchasing for their own account for investment and not with a view to the distribution or sale of any of such Pledged Securities, (ii) to cause to be placed on certificates for any or all of the Pledged Securities or on any other securities pledged hereunder a legend to the effect that such security has not been registered under the Securities Act of 1933 and may not be disposed of in violation of the provisions of said Act, and (iii) to impose such other limitations or conditions in connection with any such sale as the Administrative Agent deems necessary or advisable in order to comply with said Act or any other law. The Parent will execute and deliver such documents and take such other action as the Administrative Agent deems necessary or advisable in order that any such sale may be made in compliance with law. Upon any such sale the Administrative Agent shall have the right to deliver, assign and transfer to the purchaser thereof the Collateral so sold. Each purchaser at any such sale shall hold the Collateral so sold absolutely and free from any claim or right of whatsoever kind, including any equity or right of redemption of the Parent which may be waived, and the Parent, to the extent permitted by law, hereby specifically waives all rights of redemption, stay or appraisal which it has or may have under any law now existing or hereafter adopted. The notice (if any) of such sale required by Section 10 shall (1) in the case of a public sale, state the time and place fixed for such sale, (2) in the case of a sale at a broker's board or on a securities exchange, state the board or exchange at which such sale is to be made and the day on which the Collateral, or the portion thereof so being sold, will first be offered for sale at such board or exchange, and (3) in the case of a private sale, state the day after which such sale may be consummated. Any such public sale shall be held at such time or times within ordinary business hours and at such place or places as the Administrative Agent may fix in the notice of such sale. At any such sale the Collateral may be sold in one lot as an entirety or in separate parcels, as the Administrative Agent may determine. The Administrative Agent shall not be obligated to make any such sale pursuant to any such notice. The Administrative Agent may, without notice or publication, adjourn any public or private sale or cause the same to be adjourned from time to time by announcement at the time and place fixed for the sale, and such sale may be made at any time or place to which the same may be so adjourned. In the case of any sale of all or any part of the Collateral on credit or for future delivery, the Collateral so sold may be retained by the Administrative Agent until the selling price is paid by the purchaser thereof, but the Administrative Agent shall not incur any liability in the case of the failure of such purchaser to take up and pay for the Collateral so sold and, in the case of any such failure, such Collateral may again be sold upon like notice. The Administrative Agent, instead of exercising the power of sale herein conferred upon it, may proceed by a suit or suits at law or in equity to foreclose the Security Interests and sell the Collateral, or any portion thereof, under a judgment or decree of a court or courts of competent jurisdiction.

SECTION 12. Expenses. The Parent agrees that it will forthwith upon demand pay to the Administrative Agent:

MORGAN STANLEY CONFIDENTIAL 0007694

16div-025842

(i) the amount of any taxes which the Administrative Agent may have been required to pay by reason of the Security Interests or to free any of the Collateral from any Lien thereon, and

(ii) the amount of any and all out-of-pocket expenses, including the fees and disbursements of counsel and of any other experts, which the Administrative Agent may incur in connection with (w) the administration or enforcement of this Agreement, including such expenses as are incurred to preserve the value of the Collateral and the validity, perfection, rank and value of any Security Interest, (x) the collection, sale or other disposition of any of the Collateral, (y) the exercise by the Administrative Agent of any of the rights conferred upon it hereunder or (z) any Default or Event of Default.

Any such amount not paid on demand shall bear interest at the rate applicable to ABR Borrowings plus 2% and shall be an additional Secured Obligation hereunder.

SECTION 13. Limitation on Duty of Administrative Agent in Respect of Collateral. Beyond the exercise of reasonable care in the custody thereof, the Administrative Agent shall have no duty as to any Collateral in its possession or control or in the possession or control of any agent or bailee or any income thereon or as to the preservation of rights against prior parties or any other rights pertaining thereto. The Administrative Agent shall be deemed to have exercised reasonable care in the custody and preservation of the Collateral in its possession if the Collateral is accorded treatment substantially equal to that which it accords its own property, and shall not be liable or responsible for any loss or damage to any of the Collateral, or for any diminution in the value thereof, by reason of the act or omission of any agent or bailee selected by the Administrative Agent in good faith.

SECTION 14. Application of Proceeds. Upon the occurrence and during the continuance of an Event of Default, the proceeds of any sale of, or other realization upon, all or any part of the Collateral and any cash held in the Collateral Account or otherwise, shall be applied by the Administrative Agent in the following order of priorities:

first, to payment of the expenses of such sale or other realization, including reasonable compensation to agents and counsel for the Administrative Agent, and all expenses, liabilities and advances incurred or made by the Administrative Agent in connection therewith, and any other unreimbursed expenses for which the Administrative Agent or any Lender is to be reimbursed pursuant to Section 10.03 of the Credit Agreement or Section 12 hereof and unpaid fees owing to the Administrative Agent under the Credit Agreement; second, to the ratable payment of unpaid principal of the Secured Obligations and unpaid reimbursement obligations which constitute Secured Obligations; third, to the ratable payment of unpaid Hedging Obligations and accrued but unpaid interest on the Secured Obligations in accordance with the provisions of the Credit Agreement; fourth, to the ratable payment of all other Secured Obligations, until all Secured Obligations shall have been paid in full; and finally, to payment to the Parent or its successors or assigns, or as a court of competent jurisdiction may direct, of any surplus then remaining from such proceeds.

The Administrative Agent may make distributions hereunder in cash or in kind or, on a ratable basis, in any combination thereof.

SECTION 15. Concerning the Administrative Agent. The provisions of Article 8 of the Credit Agreement shall inure to the benefit of the Administrative Agent in respect of this Agreement and shall be binding upon the parties to the Credit Agreement in such respect. In furtherance and not in derogation of the rights, privileges and immunities of the Administrative Agent therein set forth:

(A) The Administrative Agent is authorized to take all such action as is provided to be taken by it as Administrative Agent hereunder and all other action reasonably incidental thereto. As to any matters not expressly provided for herein (including, without limitation, the timing and methods of realization upon the Collateral) the Administrative Agent shall act or refrain from acting in accordance with written instructions from the Required Lenders or, in the absence of such instructions, in accordance with its discretion.

(B) The Administrative Agent shall not be responsible for the existence, genuineness or value of any of the Collateral or for the validity, perfection, priority or enforceability of the Security Interests in any of the Collateral, whether impaired by operation of law or by reason of any action or omission to act on its part hereunder. The Administrative Agent shall have no duty to ascertain or inquire as to the performance or observance of any of the terms of this Agreement by the Parent.

SECTION 16. Appointment of Co-Agents. At any time or times, in order to comply with any legal requirement in any jurisdiction, the Administrative Agent may appoint another bank or trust company or one or more other persons, either to act as co-agent or co-agents, jointly with the Administrative Agent, or to act as separate agent or agents on behalf of the Lenders with such power and authority as may be necessary for the effectual operation of the provisions hereof and may be specified in the instrument of appointment (which may, in the discretion of the Administrative Agent, include provisions for the protection of such co-agent or separate agent similar to the provisions of Section 15).

SECTION 17. Termination of Security Interests; Release of Collateral.

(A) Upon the repayment in full of all Secured Obligations, the cancellation of all Letters of Credit and the termination of the Commitments under the Credit Agreement, the Security Interests shall terminate and all rights to the Collateral shall revert to the Parent. At any time and from time to time prior to such termination of the Security Interests, the Administrative Agent may release any of the Collateral with the prior written consent of the Required Lenders; provided that the Administrative Agent may not release all or substantially all of the Collateral (as defined in the Credit Agreement) without the prior written consent of all the Lenders.

(B) Unless otherwise instructed by the Required Lenders at a time when an Event of Default shall have occurred and be continuing, the Administrative Agent shall upon a sale of Collateral permitted by the Credit Agreement release the portion of the Collateral so sold (but not any proceeds of such sale). No such release shall require the consent of any Lender, and the Administrative Agent shall be fully protected in relying on a certificate of the Parent as to whether any particular sale is permitted by the terms of the Credit Agreement.

(C) Upon any termination of the Security Interests or release of Collateral in accordance with this Section, the Administrative Agent will, at the expense of the Parent, execute and deliver to the Parent such documents as the Parent shall reasonably request to evidence the termination of the Security Interests or the release of such Collateral, as the case may be.

SECTION 18. Notices. All notices hereunder shall be given in accordance with Section 10.01 of the Credit Agreement.

SECTION 19. Waivers, Non-Exclusive Remedies. No failure on the part of the Administrative Agent to exercise, and no delay in exercising and no course of dealing with respect to, any right under this Agreement shall operate as a waiver thereof; nor shall any single or partial exercise by the Administrative Agent of any right under the Credit Agreement or this Agreement preclude any other or further exercise thereof or the exercise of any other right. The rights in this Agreement and the Credit Agreement are cumulative and are not exclusive of any other remedies provided by law.

SECTION 20. Successors and Assigns. This Agreement is for the benefit of the Administrative Agent and the Lenders and their successors and assigns, and in the event of an assignment of all or any of the Secured Obligations, the rights hereunder, to the extent applicable to the Indebtedness so assigned, may be transferred with such Indebtedness. This Agreement shall be binding on the Parent and its successors and assigns.

SECTION 21. Changes in Writing. Neither this Agreement nor any provision hereof may be changed, waived, discharged or terminated orally, but only in writing signed by the Parent and the Administrative Agent with the consent of the Required Lenders (except that any change, waiver, discharge or termination of Section 17 hereof shall require the consent of all of the Lenders).

SECTION 22. New York Law. This Agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of New York, except as otherwise required by mandatory provisions of law and except to the extent that remedies provided by the laws of any jurisdiction other than New York are governed by the laws of such jurisdiction.

SECTION 23. Severability. If any provision hereof is invalid or unenforceable in any jurisdiction, then, to the fullest extent permitted by law, (i) the other provisions hereof shall remain in full force and effect in such jurisdiction and shall be liberally construed in favor of the Administrative Agent and the Lenders in order to carry out the intentions of the parties hereto as nearly as may be possible; and (ii) the invalidity or unenforceability of any provision hereof in any jurisdiction shall not affect the validity or enforceability of such provision in any other jurisdiction.

SUBSIDIARY GUARANTEE

GUARANTEE dated as of March 30, 1998 by each of the Persons parties hereto (each, with its successors, a "Guarantor" and collectively, with their respective successors, the "Guarantors") in favor of FIRST UNION NATIONAL BANK, as Administrative Agent (with its successors in such capacity, the "Administrative Agent").

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Sunbeam Corporation (with its successors, the "Parent"), the Subsidiary Borrowers referred to therein, the Lenders party thereto, Morgan Stanley Senior Funding, Inc., as Syndication Agent, Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association, as Documentation Agent and the Administrative Agent (together with the Documentation Agent and Syndication Agent, the "Agents") are parties to a Credit Agreement dated as of March 30, 1998 (as the same may be amended from time to time, the "Credit Agreement"); and

WHEREAS, the Parent is, or may hereafter become, obligated to one or more of the Lenders under one or more Hedging Agreements (as defined in the Credit Agreement) as contemplated by Section 5.10 of the Credit Agreement; and

WHEREAS, in consideration of the financial and other support that the Parent has provided, and such financial and other support as the Parent may in the future provide, to the Guarantors, the Guarantors are willing to guarantee the Guaranteed Obligations (as herein defined); and

WHEREAS, in order to induce the Lenders and the Agents to enter into the Credit Agreement and in order to induce the Lenders to enter into any Hedging Agreements, the Parent has covenanted in the Credit Agreement that, subject to certain exceptions, each Person which becomes a Material Subsidiary shall execute and deliver a Subsidiary Guarantee substantially in the form hereof;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the premises and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto agree as follows:

SECTION 1. Definitions. Terms defined in the Credit Agreement and not otherwise defined herein have, as used herein, the respective meanings provided for therein, except that the term "Loan Documents" shall include any document with respect to any Hedging Obligations. The following additional terms, as used herein, have the following respective meanings:

"Guaranteed Obligations" means all principal of and interest (including, without limitation, any interest which accrues after or would accrue but for the commencement of any case, proceeding or other action relating to the bankruptcy, insolvency or reorganization of any Obligor, whether or not allowed or allowable as a claim in any such proceeding) on any loan under, or any note issued pursuant to, the Credit Agreement, (ii) all reimbursement obligations with respect to any Letter of Credit, (iii) any Hedging Obligations, (iv) all other amounts payable by any Obligor under the Loan Documents and (v) any renewals, or extensions of any of the foregoing.

"Hedging Obligations" means all obligations of the Parent under any Hedging Agreement between the Parent and any Lender.

SECTION 2. The Guarantee. Each of the Guarantors, jointly and severally, hereby unconditionally guarantees the full and punctual payment (whether at stated maturity, upon acceleration or otherwise) of the Guaranteed Obligations. Upon failure by the Parent to pay punctually any Guaranteed Obligation, each Guarantor agrees jointly and severally that it shall forthwith on demand pay the amount not so paid at the place and in the manner specified in the Credit Agreement or the other relevant Loan Document, as the case may be.

SECTION 3. Guarantee Unconditional. The obligations of each Guarantor hereunder shall be unconditional and absolute and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, shall not be released, discharged or otherwise affected by:

(i) any extension, renewal, settlement, compromise, waiver or release in respect of any obligation of the Parent, any other Obligor or any other Person under any Loan Document, by operation of law or otherwise;

(ii) any modification or amendment of or supplement to the Credit Agreement, any Note, any Letter of Credit or any other Loan Document or any Acquisition Document;

(iii) any release, impairment, non-perfection or invalidity of any direct or indirect security for any obligation of the Parent, any other Obligor or any other Person under any Loan Document;

(iv) any change in the company existence, structure or ownership of the Parent, any other Obligor or any other Person or any of their respective Subsidiaries, or any insolvency, bankruptcy, reorganization or other similar proceeding affecting the Parent, any other Obligor or any other Person or any of their assets or any resulting release or discharge of any obligation of the Parent, any other Obligor or any other Person contained in any Loan Document or any Acquisition Document;

(v) the existence of any claim, set-off or other rights which such Guarantor may have at any time against the Parent, any other Obligor, any Agent, any Lender or any other Person, whether in connection herewith or any unrelated transactions, provided that nothing herein shall prevent the assertion of any such claim by separate suit or compulsory counterclaim;

(vi) any invalidity or unenforceability relating to or against the Parent, any other Obligor or any other Person for any reason of the Credit Agreement, any Note, any Letter of Credit or any other Loan Document or any Acquisition Document, or any provision of applicable law or regulation purporting to prohibit the payment by the Parent, any other Obligor or any other Person of the principal of or interest on any Note or any other amount payable by the Parent under any Loan Document; or

(vii) any other act or omission to act or delay of any kind by the Parent, any other Obligor, the Administrative Agent, any other Party to any Loan Document or any Acquisition Document, any Lender or any other Person or any other circumstance whatsoever which might, but for the provisions of this paragraph, constitute a legal or equitable discharge of or defense to obligations of any Guarantor hereunder.

SECTION 4. Discharge Only upon Payment in Full; Reinstatement In Certain Circumstances; Release of Guarantors. (a) Subject to subsections (b) and (c) below, each Guarantor's obligations hereunder shall remain in full force and effect until the repayment in full of all Guaranteed Obligations, the termination of the Commitments under the Credit Agreement and the expiration or cancellation of all Letters of Credit. If at any time any payment of Guaranteed Obligations payable by the Parent is rescinded or must be otherwise restored or returned upon the insolvency or receivership of the Parent or otherwise, each Guarantor's obligations hereunder with respect thereto shall be reinstated as though such payment had been due but not made at such time.

(b) Except as provided otherwise in the Credit Agreement, upon the consummation of any Asset Sale permitted by the terms of the Credit Agreement and consisting of the disposition of all of the capital stock of a Guarantor (any such Asset Sale, a "Guarantor Asset Sale"), the Administrative Agent shall release such Guarantor from all of its obligations hereunder. Such release shall not require the consent of any Lender, and the Administrative Agent shall be fully protected in relying on a certificate of the Parent as to whether any particular Asset Sale constitutes a Guarantor Asset Sale.

(c) In addition to the release of any Guarantor from its obligations hereunder permitted pursuant to subsection (b), at any time and from time to time prior to the termination of each Guarantor's obligations hereunder, the Administrative Agent may release any Guarantor from its obligations hereunder with the prior written consent of all of the Lenders.

SECTION 5. Waiver by the Guarantors. Each Guarantor irrevocably waives acceptance hereof, presentment, demand, protest and any notice not provided for herein, as well as any requirement that at any time any action be taken by any corporation or person against the Parent, any other Guarantor or any other Person.

SECTION 6. Liens on Assets. Upon the written request of the Required Lenders to the Administrative Agent, any Guarantor may be required to provide Liens upon such assets as may be specified in such request to secure the obligations of such Guarantor hereunder. Any such request shall be made by the Required Lenders in the good faith exercise of their discretion. Within 30 days after any such request, such Guarantor shall (i) execute and deliver to the Administrative Agent such number of copies as the Administrative Agent may specify of documents creating such Liens and (ii) do all other things which may be necessary or which the Administrative Agent may reasonably request in order to confer upon and confirm to the Lenders the benefits of such security. Within 45 days after a request for security pursuant hereto, such Guarantor shall deliver such legal opinions, certificates, evidences of corporate action or other documents as the Administrative Agent may reasonably request, all in form and substance satisfactory to the Administrative Agent, relating to the satisfaction of such Guarantor's obligations under this Section.

SECTION 7. Subrogation. Upon making any payment with respect to the Parent hereunder, each Guarantor shall be subrogated to the rights of the payee against the Parent with respect to such payment; provided that such Guarantor shall not enforce any payment by way of subrogation, or by reason of contribution against the Parent or any other guarantor of the Parent's obligations guaranteed hereunder (including without limitation any other Guarantor), until the repayment in full of all Guaranteed Obligations, the termination of the Commitments under the Credit Agreement and the expiration or cancellation of all Letters of Credit.

SECTION 8. Stay of Acceleration. If acceleration of the time for payment of any Guaranteed Obligations payable by the Parent is stayed upon the insolvency, bankruptcy or reorganization of the Parent or otherwise, all such Guaranteed Obligations otherwise subject to acceleration under the terms of any Loan Document shall nonetheless be payable by each of the Guarantors hereunder forthwith on demand by the Administrative Agent made at the request of the Required Lenders.

SECTION 9. Representations and Warranties. Each Guarantor represents and warrants as follows:

(a) Such Guarantor is duly organized, validly existing and in good standing under the laws of the jurisdiction of its organization, has all requisite power and authority to carry on its business as now conducted and, except where the failure to do so, individually or in the aggregate, could not reasonably be expected to result in a Material Adverse Effect, is qualified to do business in, and is in good standing in, every jurisdiction where such qualification is required.

(b) The execution, delivery and performance by such Guarantor of the Loan Documents to which it is a party are within such Guarantor's company powers and have been duly authorized by all necessary company and, if required, member or stockholder action. Each Loan Document to which such Guarantor is a party has been duly executed and delivered by such Guarantor and constitutes a legal, valid and binding obligation of such Guarantor, enforceable against such Guarantor in accordance with its terms, subject to applicable bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, moratorium, fraudulent conveyance or other laws affecting creditors' rights generally and subject to general principles of equity, regardless of whether considered in a proceeding in equity or at law.

(c) The execution, delivery and performance by such Guarantor of the Loan Documents to which it is a party (i) do not require any consent or approval of, registration or filing with, or any other action by, any Governmental Authority, except such as have been obtained or made and are in full force and effect, (ii) will not violate in any material respect any applicable law or regulation or the charter, by-laws or other organizational documents of such Guarantor or any of its Subsidiaries or any order of any Governmental Authority, (iii) will not violate or result in a default under any indenture, agreement or other instrument binding upon such Guarantor or any of its Subsidiaries or its assets, or give rise to a right thereunder to require any payment to be made by such Guarantor or any of its Subsidiaries and (iv) will not result in the creation or imposition of any Lien on any asset of such Guarantor or any of its Subsidiaries (other than the Liens created by the Collateral Documents).

SECTION 10. Amendments. Neither this Agreement nor any provision hereof may be changed, waived, discharged or terminated orally, but only in writing signed by each Guarantor and the Administrative Agent with the consent of the Required Lenders (or, solely in the case of this Section, the first sentence of Section 4(a) or any provision of Section 4(c) specifying the circumstances under which the consent of all Lenders is required to release any Guarantor from its obligations hereunder, all the Lenders). The Guarantors shall be entitled to assume that the Administrative Agent has obtained the requisite consent of the Lenders to any such change, waiver, discharge or termination hereunder to which the Administrative Agent has consented in writing.

SECTION 11. Notices. All notices and other communications provided for herein shall be in writing and shall be delivered to the relevant party by hand or overnight courier service, mailed by certified or registered mail or sent by telecopy at the address of such party set forth below. Any party hereto may change its address or telecopy number for notices and other communications hereunder by notice to the other parties hereto. All notices and other communications given to any party hereto in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement shall be deemed to have been given on the date of receipt.

SECTION 12. No Waiver; Remedies. No failure on the part of the Administrative Agent to exercise, and no delay in exercising and no course of dealing with respect to. any right under this Agreement shall operate as a waiver thereof; nor shall any single or partial exercise by the Administrative Agent of any right under this Agreement or any other Loan Document preclude any other or further exercise thereof or the exercise of any other right. The rights in this Agreement and the other Loan Documents are cumulative and are not exclusive of any other remedies provided by law.

SECTION 13. Right of Set-off. If any Guarantor fails to pay any Guaranteed Obligation when due, each Lender and each of its Affiliates is hereby authorized at any time and from time to time, to the fullest extent permitted by law, to set off and apply any and all deposits (general or special, time or demand, provisional or final) at any time held and other obligations at any time owing by such Lender or Affiliate to or for the credit or the account of such Guarantor against any and all of the obligations of such Guarantor now or hereafter existing under the Loan Documents held by such Lender or any of its Affiliates, irrespective of whether or not such Lender shall have made any demand under this Agreement and although such obligations may be unmatured. The rights of each Lender under this Section are in addition to other rights and remedies (including other rights of setoff) which such Lender may have.
