President Protects Social Security and U.S. Economy

Tax and Spending Increases Would Threaten Both

➢ The Big Picture

- ✓ Our government fiscal condition is strong and sound.
- ✓ We have our second largest surplus in history, despite the economic slowdown that started last year.
- ✓ We are paying down historic levels of debt – about $2 trillion over 10 years.
- ✓ President Bush will continue to ensure that every penny collected for Social Security and Medicare will be spent on Social Security and Medicare.
- ✓ Economists see encouraging signs of economic recovery, crediting tax relief and interest rate cuts.

➢ Scare Tactics Won't Work

- ✓ Unfortunately, some Democrats are trying to scare the American people about the budget. They opposed tax relief, and now want to raise taxes so they can spend more. Last year alone, Congress overspent its own budget to the tune of $34.5 billion.

- ✓ Raising taxes is the wrong thing to do in this economic environment. The right things for a weak economy are tax relief and restrained spending. The President took the first and best step to help the economy with tax relief that leading economists say is already providing relief for the ailing economy.

- ✓ Congressional Democrats now say the tax cut harms Social Security. Yet in March – just five months ago -- the Senate Majority Leader proposed a tax cut that would have had an even bigger impact on 2002 revenues than the President's final package.

➢ Accounting for Accuracy

Looking Back

- ➢ This Administration is reporting Social Security surpluses accurately. Accounting methods that report revenues for the budget year in which they actually were collected is responsible. American companies are required to accurately report revenues to their shareholders, and the federal government should report accurate figures for taxpayers, too.

  - ✓ The accounting change is an accurate reflection of Social Security receipts in 1998, 1999, and 2000.

  - ✓ This change will properly credit $5.6 billion to the Social Security Trust Fund. The former accounting practice used up to this point short-changed the Social Security Trust Fund of deserved interest. The change the Administration is making will correct this in the future.

Looking Ahead

- ➢ The economic growth projections used by the Administration are conservative and in line with respected Wall Street economists.
  - ✓ For example, the Administration projects 3.2 percent economic growth in 2002 – and The Conference Board -- the group that won the Blue Chip Award last year for most accurate forecasting – mirrors that projection exactly with a 3.2 percent growth prediction. Another respected forecaster -- Merrill Lynch -- predicts 3.5 percent growth in 2002, and core Blue Chip panelist projections range from 2 to 3.7 percent growth.

- ➢ Future surpluses depend on future economic growth. The biggest threat to the economy, the surplus, paying down debt, and important programs like Social Security and Medicare is reckless spending.

Attached are talking points about The President's commitment to protect Social Security and the Economy.

President Protects Social Security and U.S. Economy

Tax and Spending Increases Would Threaten Both

➢ The Big Picture

- ✓ Our government fiscal condition is strong and sound.
- ✓ We have our second largest surplus in history, despite the economic slowdown that started last year.
- ✓ We are paying down historic levels of debt – about $2 trillion over 10 years.
- ✓ President Bush will continue to ensure that every penny collected for Social Security and Medicare will be spent on Social Security and Medicare.
- ✓ Economists see encouraging signs of economic recovery, crediting tax relief and interest rate cuts.

➢ Scare Tactics Won't Work

- ✓ Unfortunately, some Democrats are trying to scare the American people about the budget. They opposed tax relief, and now want to raise taxes so they can spend more. Last year alone, Congress overspent its own budget to the tune of $34.5 billion.

- ✓ Raising taxes is the wrong thing to do in this economic environment. The right things for a weak economy are tax relief and restrained spending. The President took the first and best step to help the economy with tax relief that leading economists say is already providing relief for the ailing economy.

- ✓ Congressional Democrats now say the tax cut harms Social Security. Yet in March – just five months ago -- the Senate Majority Leader proposed a tax cut that would have had an even bigger impact on 2002 revenues than the President's final package.

➢ Accounting for Accuracy

Looking Back

- ➢ This Administration is reporting Social Security surpluses accurately. Accounting methods that report revenues for the budget year in which they actually were collected is responsible. American companies are required to accurately report revenues to their shareholders, and the federal government should report accurate figures for taxpayers, too.

  - ✓ The accounting change is an accurate reflection of Social Security receipts in 1998, 1999, and 2000.

  - ✓ This change will properly credit $5.6 billion to the Social Security Trust Fund. The former accounting practice used up to this point short-changed the Social Security Trust Fund of deserved interest. The change the Administration is making will correct this in the future.

Looking Ahead

- ➢ The economic growth projections used by the Administration are conservative and in line with respected Wall Street economists.
  - ✓ For example, the Administration projects 3.2 percent economic growth in 2002 – and The Conference Board -- the group that won the Blue Chip Award last year for most accurate forecasting – mirrors that projection exactly with a 3.2 percent growth prediction. Another respected forecaster -- Merrill Lynch -- predicts 3.5 percent growth in 2002, and core Blue Chip panelist projections range from 2 to 3.7 percent growth.

- ➢ Future surpluses depend on future economic growth. The biggest threat to the economy, the surplus, paying down debt, and important programs like Social Security and Medicare is reckless spending.

Tim: I would like to and am happy to do this, but I am out next week and will have trouble doing the kind of thorough job today that would persuade Jay. Do you think we can have until the week of 27th to respond to Jay? I would think so as I see little urgency here, at least pre-Labor Day. If not, I will try to re-arrange some stuff.

Brett:

The attached messages relate to the OIRA disclosure policy we discussed with the Judge and Brad a few days ago. Would you take a closer look at the proposed policy and develop written comments. The comments should also cover the issue of whether the new policy, if adopted, should be set forth in a revised Exec. Order. Thanks.

Tim

Subject: Re: disclosure

I don't have any objection to more formal and/or additional staffing to vet the proposed expanded disclosure rules, but I also have no objection to their substance.

In fact, it seems to me that it is precisely because OIRA is supposed to be the place within the EOP that outside stakeholders can come and be heard on regulatory matters that it is probably in our interest to make OIRA's public disclosure of all such meetings quicker and more accessible. After all, it is one thing to be criticized on the substance of our regulatory decisions (where presumably we will always have solid policy justifications). It is a much different thing for us to be criticized for having reached decisions simply because Mr. X or Mr. Y (who happens to be from Texas and is now a lobbyist) brought a particular trade association in for a meeting a week before a regulatory announcement. That's why I think we should try to make the OIRA process as transparent as possible.

While I don't want to encourage stakeholders to try to hold meetings about regulatory matters with WH officials, I think that even if that were to occur, that is something that I think we can deal with by giving appropriate guidance to the WH staff about when and whom they can meet with.

As for the concern that has been raised as to whether it is inappropriate for a subordinate of the President to issue a policy that is different from the policy issued by a President in an EO, I am not sure what the right answer is. After all, the present EO is a Clinton EO, not one of ours. And while we are bound by that EO until and unless amended, I'm not sure that the proposed disclosure modifications undermine the EO in any way. I'm not sure that anyone has yet determined if we have other reasons to amend the EO, and unless there are compelling reasons to do so, I like the cover we get from conducting our regulatory review pursuant to a Clinton EO. Therefore, if the only thing we want to change is the disclosure process, there's an argument that we might want to do it without a new EO.

I will be back in the office Friday afternoon and would be happy to speak further about this.

Doug: I am consulting with Legal Counsel at Dept of Justice on this as well just to make sure we also have their input and approval. It will take them until the week of the 27th. Apologies for the delay, but I believe this is best way to proceed. Note that I will be out the week of the 20th.

Mid-Session Review Talking Points

- Produce Second Largest Surplus in History: At $158 billion, the 2001 surplus will be the second largest surplus in history. If Congress keeps total spending at the limits agreed to in the Budget Resolution, the 2002 surplus will be even larger -- $173 billion. (In recent years excessive spending has been a problem. For example, last December Congress and the Clinton Administration spent $35 billion more than the budget they agreed to. President Bush has vowed to reverse this trend and stick to the budget.)

- Protect Social Security and Medicare: The President protects the Social Security surplus in 2001 and beyond, reserving it for debt reduction as opposed to other purposes. Every dollar collected for Medicare will be spent on Medicare. The Social Security and Medicare Trust Funds are fully credited and benefits remain the same. The size of the budget surplus has no impact on benefits, the size of the trust funds, or program solvency.

- Reform Medicare and Provide Prescription Drug Coverage: The budget review projects to spend $190 billion for Medicare reform including prescription drug coverage. This is $37 billion higher than the April budget submission, in keeping with the President's Medicare reform framework announced in July.

- Pay Down Historic Amounts of Debt: The government is still on track to pay off $2 trillion of federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

- Provide for a Strong Defense: The Mid-Session Review projects additional spending of $18.4 billion on national defense in FY 2002 – $198 billion additional over 10 years.

- Foster Economic Growth: Leading economists agree that the tax cut enacted under President Bush's leadership will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy – the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses and protect Medicare and Social Security.

- Accounting for the Surplus: The FY 2002 Budget released in April projected a surplus for FY 2001 of $281 billion. The new FY 2001 surplus projection is $158 billion. The $123 billion decrease is due to four factors: 1. decreased revenue from the year long economic slowdown – $46 billion or about 2 percent of revenues; 2. FY 2001 tax rebates – $40 billion; 3. corporate tax timing shift – $28 billion; and 4. defense and farm spending – $9 billion. The decline in the surplus due to factors other than congressional action is approximately 14 percent.

- Measure Social Security Receipts Accurately: Due to the intense interest in the relative size of the Social Security surplus, the Mid-Session Review presents the most accurate figures possible.

- Economic Assumptions: The extent of the economic slowdown, which commenced in Q3 2000, is greater than most forecasters anticipated. Nonetheless, the economy seems poised to recover, with the tax cut and lower interest rates providing timely stimulus to growth. The Administration projects real GDP growth this year to be 1.7 percent and in 2002 to be 3.2 percent. From 2002 – 2011, the Administration projects real GDP growth will average 3.2 percent per year. The Administration's projections are well within the range of estimates made by prominent Wall Street and other analysts. The Administration's 3.2 percent real GDP growth projection is equal to that of the Conference Board, winner of the Annual Blue Chip Economic Forecasting Award, and below that of Merrill Lynch, which projects a 3.5 percent real GDP for 2002.

Questions & Answers about the Mid –Session Review (MSR)

Q: Is there a deficit?

No- In FY 2001, after paying higher Medicare and Social Security expenses and other bills, the surplus will be $158 billion, which will be the second largest surplus in U.S. and world history.

Q: Are we still paying off debt?

Yes- President Bush has put the nation on a track to pay off $2 trillion of the Federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

There is a limit to how quickly debt can be paid off without incurring unnecessary and exorbitant premiums to buy back outstanding bonds before their maturity date.

Q: Are you going to be raiding the Social Security Trust Fund in 2001 or 2002?

No, the level of the surplus has no impact on the Social Security trust fund. Regardless of the level of the unified budget surplus, the Social Security Trust Fund will run an estimated surplus of $158 billion in FY 2001 and $173 billion in FY 2002. Fluctuations in the surplus levels will have no impact on the Social Security surplus, the balances in the Social Security trust fund, or on Social Security spending. Even so, the President has committed to protect every dollar of the Social Security surplus and that is exactly what his budget does.

Q: Is the President raiding Medicare?

No, Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone. The President's budget fully funds the Medicare Trust Fund. And Medicare spending continues to rise, as required by law. President Bush has pledged to modernize Medicare and seeks to work with Congress to ensure that Medicare meets its obligations to seniors, including a prescription drug benefit.

Q: Was the President's tax cut too big and irresponsible– sending us back into deficit spending?

No, this is the second largest surplus in our country's history, and the fiscal condition of the country remains strong, despite an economic slowdown. Further, the tax cut will help ensure that our fiscal condition remains healthy and we continue to run large surpluses by invigorating the economy.

The real threat to the surplus is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. In FY 2001 alone, Congress busted their own budget by $34 billion.

Q: Why has there been such a large change in surplus estimates?

The difference between the April estimates and the current estimates is $123 billion. Most of this is a designed reduction in the surplus ($68 billion). President Bush proposed a tax cut plan to boost our sagging economy and return surplus dollars to the American people, as well as supplemental spending on critical defense needs. The remainder of the change is due to a dip in the economy. The best way to ensure future surpluses is to promote economic growth. President Bush's tax plan will do that, pumping needed resources into the economy when it is needed most.

Q: The MSR shows a weakening economy. In light of that, should we scale back the tax cut?

No, The tax cut is exactly the right medicine for this economy at exactly the right time. Leading economists agree that the tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy– the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses.

"The tax bill awaiting President Bush's signature delivers fiscal stimulus sooner than we've been expecting, and it packs a punch: We estimate that it will boost second-half growth by about 1 ¼ percentage points."
-Morgan Stanley Dean Witter (May 29, 2001)

"I think one point I'd like to get across as well, I think it's [the tax plan is] very positive for the long-run economy."
-Mickey Levy, Bank of America (CBS News, June 8, 2001)

"The tax cut comes at a good time and could be an important catalyst in the long-awaited recovery."
-Jeffrey Feiner, Lehman Brothers (Washington Times, June 22, 2001)

"We estimate that the tax cuts will boost growth by nearly 1 percentage point in the second half of this year."
-Robert DiClemente, Salomon Smith Barney, Inc. (Washington Post, June 2, 2001)

"For once, Congress managed to implement a contra-cyclical fiscal policy that should boost economic growth exactly when the economy needs it. The tax cut will pump about $40 billion into the economy during the third quarter and about $70 billion in FY 2002, which begins October 1. The tax cut will boost GDP growth by around ¾ of a percentage point during the second half of 2001 and about ½ of a percentage point in 2002."
-Bruce Steinberg, Merrill Lynch (June 1, 2001)

Q: Does the President's tax cut threaten Social Security and Medicare?

No, President Bush is committed to reforming and preserving Social Security and Medicare. With or without the enacted tax cut, benefits in both programs remain the same, the trust funds are protected and the long –term solvency of the programs are unchanged.

Q: Given the new numbers are Seniors' Social Security and Medicare benefits in jeopardy?

No, Seniors benefits will remain unchanged and in fact Social Security and Medicare spending will continue to grow.

Q: Why are you revising the Social Security figures?

The President is committed to preserving every penny of the Social Security surplus. Given the heightened status, real and symbolic, of the Social Security surplus it is important to measure it accurately. American companies are required to accurately report revenues, and the federal government should do it, too.

Therefore, a $5.6 billion correction to prior year estimates of Social Security payroll tax collections reflects the fact that the Social Security surplus was larger than previously thought in 1998, 1999, and 2000. Counting this revenue as though it had been paid in 2001 overstates the Social Security surplus for this year.

The real size of the Social Security surplus is $157.1 billion. Precise accuracy in determining the Social Security surplus in any year requires comparing actual revenue to actual expenditures.

Q: Is the President cutting Medicare Spending?

Medicare spending increases every year in President Bush's budget, rising from $217 billion in 2001, to $228 billion in 2002 and to $423 billion in 2011. Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone.

Q: What is happening to the Medicare Trust Fund?

The Medicare Trust Fund is fully credited under the President's budget, as required by law, rising from $ 200 billion in 2002 to $737 billion in 2011.

Q: How does the trust fund balances effect the long term solvency of the Medicare Program?

The existence of balances large or small in the Medicare Part A Trust Fund have no effect on the long-term solvency of the program.

The Federal government must do something with the money it has lent itself. It can either pay off part of the publicly-held federal debt or spend the money on other government programs. Either way the same IOU goes in the trust fund.

As the Administration works to reform Medicare it believes that the program must be considered as one entity, rather than separate parts with separate funding streams. With revenue in FY 2001 of $197 billion from payroll taxes and premiums, and outlays of $242 billion, the general Treasury must contribute more than $45 billion to make up the shortfall.

Q: What are people outside the Administration saying about trust funds?

"Does how you use the Medicare annual surplus have any effect on the solvency of the Medicare program? No....[I]rrespective of how the Congress decides to use the annual Medicare surpluses (e.g. tax cuts, spending increases, paying down the debt held by the public), trust fund solvency will not be affected in any way."
-David M. Walker, Comptroller General of the United States and former Social Security and Medicare trustee, 7/25/01

"The image of raids on the Medicare and Social Security trust funds is false. The surpluses in these trust funds reflect a temporary excess of payroll taxes over current benefits. When this occurs, the trust funds transfer their spare cash to the Treasury, which gives them 'special issue' Treasury securities in return. The trust funds get the securities regardless of how the Treasury uses the spare cash -- whether to repay publicly help federal debt or to pay the government's bills. The trust funds simply aren't being raided."
-Robert J. Samuelson, Newsweek, 7/16/01

"[Sen. Kent Conrad's] message ... is that the Bush tax cuts have so sapped the federal Treasury that they are going to require a 'Raid on Medicare.' Even by Washington standards, this is ridiculous. Despite America's near-recession, there is nothing even close to a federal deficit. This year's surplus will be somewhat north of $160 billion, the second largest in history after last year's."
-Paul A. Gigot, Wall Street Journal, 7/13/01

"Q. What can the government do with the surplus? A. It has to spend it, because the federal government can't park that much money in a bank without affecting the financial markets. Q. [I]f we spend money intended for Social Security or Medicare on other government programs, aren't we raiding those programs? A. No. Under government accounting rules, no matter if we use the Social Security and Medicare payroll taxes for debt reduction or plain old spending, the programs receive an equivalent amount in interest-earning Treasury bonds. [N]o matter how the money is used, the programs' trust funds are unaffected because, in effect, they are lending the money to the United States. Q. So does it make a difference whether we use some of the Medicare funds for spending this year? A. Economically, it means virtually nothing in the short run. The government is still running a substantial surplus and paying down debt, but because the U.S. economy is so large, the amount of money involved is like pennies."

-Glenn Kessler, Washington Post, 7/22/01

"When an individual buys a government bond, he or she has established a financial claim against the government. When the government issues a security to one of its own accounts, it hasn't purchased anything or established a claim against some other person or entity. The key point is that the Trust Funds do not hold financial resources to pay benefits – rather, they provide authority for the Treasury Department to use whatever money it has on hand to pay them. …[T]he trust funds themselves do not hold or receive money."

-David Koitz, Congressional Research Service report, 3/20/01

"The 'lockbox' is a rhetorical device designed to advance the notion that the government can put money on the shelf today and use it to pay Social Security after 2016. But again, the 'trust fund' is merely paper the government has issued to itself."

-Robert L. Bartley, Wall Street Journal, 7/23/01

"The Social Security trust fund, which is part of the federal government, holds Treasury securities – I.O.U.s from the federal government – to meet its future obligations. Treasury bills are perfectly fine investments. But when they're held in federal trust funds, Uncle Sam has the same problem redeeming them that you'd have redeeming you own I.O.U.s in your personal trust fund. [T]he government hasn't stolen Social Security money, as many people believe. The government has, indeed, borrowed the Social Security surplus – the difference between Social Security's tax revenues and its outlays. It's replaced the money with I.O.U.s, and spent it."

-Allan Sloan, Newsweek, 7/30/01

"One of the key issues Democrats are trying to get mileage out of is claiming that the tax cut is eating into the Social Security surplus. This implies, falsely, that Social Security benefits are somehow at risk. In fact, there is essentially no relationship between the size of the Social Security trust fund, or the amount of the budget surplus attributable to the excess of current Social Security revenues over benefits."

-Bruce Bartlett, The Detroit News, 7/23/01

"They [trust funds] do not consist of real economic assets that can be drawn down in the future to fund benefits. Instead, they are claims on the Treasury that, when redeemed, will have to be financed by raising taxes, borrowing from the public, or reducing benefits or other expenditures. The existence of large trust fund balances, therefore, does not, by itself, have any impact on the Government's ability to pay benefits."

-President Clinton's FY 2000 Budget, Analytical Perspectives, page 337

Mid-Session Review Talking Points

- Produce Second Largest Surplus in History: At $158 billion, the 2001 surplus will be the second largest surplus in history. If Congress keeps total spending at the limits agreed to in the Budget Resolution, the 2002 surplus will be even larger -- $173 billion. (In recent years excessive spending has been a problem. For example, last December Congress and the Clinton Administration spent $35 billion more than the budget they agreed to. President Bush has vowed to reverse this trend and stick to the budget.)

- Protect Social Security and Medicare: The President protects the Social Security surplus in 2001 and beyond, reserving it for debt reduction as opposed to other purposes. Every dollar collected for Medicare will be spent on Medicare. The Social Security and Medicare Trust Funds are fully credited and benefits remain the same. The size of the budget surplus has no impact on benefits, the size of the trust funds, or program solvency.

- Reform Medicare and Provide Prescription Drug Coverage: The budget review projects to spend $190 billion for Medicare reform including prescription drug coverage. This is $37 billion higher than the April budget submission, in keeping with the President's Medicare reform framework announced in July.

- Pay Down Historic Amounts of Debt: The government is still on track to pay off $2 trillion of federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

- Provide for a Strong Defense: The Mid-Session Review projects additional spending of $18.4 billion on national defense in FY 2002 – $198 billion additional over 10 years.

- Foster Economic Growth: Leading economists agree that the tax cut enacted under President Bush's leadership will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy – the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses and protect Medicare and Social Security.

- Accounting for the Surplus: The FY 2002 Budget released in April projected a surplus for FY 2001 of $281 billion. The new FY 2001 surplus projection is $158 billion. The $123 billion decrease is due to four factors: 1. decreased revenue from the year long economic slowdown – $46 billion or about 2 percent of revenues; 2. FY 2001 tax rebates – $40 billion; 3. corporate tax timing shift – $28 billion; and 4. defense and farm spending – $9 billion. The decline in the surplus due to factors other than congressional action is approximately 14 percent.

- Measure Social Security Receipts Accurately: Due to the intense interest in the relative size of the Social Security surplus, the Mid-Session Review presents the most accurate figures possible.

- Economic Assumptions: The extent of the economic slowdown, which commenced in Q3 2000, is greater than most forecasters anticipated. Nonetheless, the economy seems poised to recover, with the tax cut and lower interest rates providing timely stimulus to growth. The Administration projects real GDP growth this year to be 1.7 percent and in 2002 to be 3.2 percent. From 2002 – 2011, the Administration projects real GDP growth will average 3.2 percent per year. The Administration's projections are well within the range of estimates made by prominent Wall Street and other analysts. The Administration's 3.2 percent real GDP growth projection is equal to that of the Conference Board, winner of the Annual Blue Chip Economic Forecasting Award, and below that of Merrill Lynch, which projects a 3.5 percent real GDP for 2002.

Questions & Answers about the Mid –Session Review (MSR)

Q: Is there a deficit?

No- In FY 2001, after paying higher Medicare and Social Security expenses and other bills, the surplus will be $158 billion, which will be the second largest surplus in U.S. and world history.

Q: Are we still paying off debt?

Yes- President Bush has put the nation on a track to pay off $2 trillion of the Federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

There is a limit to how quickly debt can be paid off without incurring unnecessary and exorbitant premiums to buy back outstanding bonds before their maturity date.

Q: Are you going to be raiding the Social Security Trust Fund in 2001 or 2002?

No, the level of the surplus has no impact on the Social Security trust fund. Regardless of the level of the unified budget surplus, the Social Security Trust Fund will run an estimated surplus of $158 billion in FY 2001 and $173 billion in FY 2002. Fluctuations in the surplus levels will have no impact on the Social Security surplus, the balances in the Social Security trust fund, or on Social Security spending. Even so, the President has committed to protect every dollar of the Social Security surplus and that is exactly what his budget does.

Q: Is the President raiding Medicare?

No, Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone. The President's budget fully funds the Medicare Trust Fund. And Medicare spending continues to rise, as required by law. President Bush has pledged to modernize Medicare and seeks to work with Congress to ensure that Medicare meets its obligations to seniors, including a prescription drug benefit.

Q: Was the President's tax cut too big and irresponsible– sending us back into deficit spending?

No, this is the second largest surplus in our country's history, and the fiscal condition of the country remains strong, despite an economic slowdown. Further, the tax cut will help ensure that our fiscal condition remains healthy and we continue to run large surpluses by invigorating the economy.

The real threat to the surplus is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. In FY 2001 alone, Congress busted their own budget by $34 billion.

Q: Why has there been such a large change in surplus estimates?

The difference between the April estimates and the current estimates is $123 billion. Most of this is a designed reduction in the surplus ($68 billion). President Bush proposed a tax cut plan to boost our sagging economy and return surplus dollars to the American people, as well as supplemental spending on critical defense needs. The remainder of the change is due to a dip in the economy. The best way to ensure future surpluses is to promote economic growth. President Bush's tax plan will do that, pumping needed resources into the economy when it is needed most.

Q: The MSR shows a weakening economy. In light of that, should we scale back the tax cut?

No, The tax cut is exactly the right medicine for this economy at exactly the right time. Leading economists agree that the tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy– the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses.

"The tax bill awaiting President Bush's signature delivers fiscal stimulus sooner than we've been expecting, and it packs a punch: We estimate that it will boost second-half growth by about 1 ¼ percentage points."
-Morgan Stanley Dean Witter (May 29, 2001)

"I think one point I'd like to get across as well, I think it's [the tax plan is] very positive for the long-run economy."
-Mickey Levy, Bank of America (CBS News, June 8, 2001)

"The tax cut comes at a good time and could be an important catalyst in the long-awaited recovery."
-Jeffrey Feiner, Lehman Brothers (Washington Times, June 22, 2001)

"We estimate that the tax cuts will boost growth by nearly 1 percentage point in the second half of this year."
-Robert DiClemente, Salomon Smith Barney, Inc. (Washington Post, June 2, 2001)

"For once, Congress managed to implement a contra-cyclical fiscal policy that should boost economic growth exactly when the economy needs it. The tax cut will pump about $40 billion into the economy during the third quarter and about $70 billion in FY 2002, which begins October 1. The tax cut will boost GDP growth by around ¾ of a percentage point during the second half of 2001 and about ½ of a percentage point in 2002."
-Bruce Steinberg, Merrill Lynch (June 1, 2001)

Q: Does the President's tax cut threaten Social Security and Medicare?

No, President Bush is committed to reforming and preserving Social Security and Medicare. With or without the enacted tax cut, benefits in both programs remain the same, the trust funds are protected and the long –term solvency of the programs are unchanged.

Q: Given the new numbers are Seniors' Social Security and Medicare benefits in jeopardy?

No, Seniors benefits will remain unchanged and in fact Social Security and Medicare spending will continue to grow.

Q: Why are you revising the Social Security figures?

The President is committed to preserving every penny of the Social Security surplus. Given the heightened status, real and symbolic, of the Social Security surplus it is important to measure it accurately. American companies are required to accurately report revenues, and the federal government should do it, too.

Therefore, a $5.6 billion correction to prior year estimates of Social Security payroll tax collections reflects the fact that the Social Security surplus was larger than previously thought in 1998, 1999, and 2000. Counting this revenue as though it had been paid in 2001 overstates the Social Security surplus for this year.

The real size of the Social Security surplus is $157.1 billion. Precise accuracy in determining the Social Security surplus in any year requires comparing actual revenue to actual expenditures.

Q: Is the President cutting Medicare Spending?

Medicare spending increases every year in President Bush's budget, rising from $217 billion in 2001, to $228 billion in 2002 and to $423 billion in 2011. Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone.

Q: What is happening to the Medicare Trust Fund?

The Medicare Trust Fund is fully credited under the President's budget, as required by law, rising from $ 200 billion in 2002 to $737 billion in 2011.

Q: How does the trust fund balances effect the long term solvency of the Medicare Program?

The existence of balances large or small in the Medicare Part A Trust Fund have no effect on the long-term solvency of the program.

The Federal government must do something with the money it has lent itself. It can either pay off part of the publicly-held federal debt or spend the money on other government programs. Either way the same IOU goes in the trust fund.

As the Administration works to reform Medicare it believes that the program must be considered as one entity, rather than separate parts with separate funding streams. With revenue in FY 2001 of $197 billion from payroll taxes and premiums, and outlays of $242 billion, the general Treasury must contribute more than $45 billion to make up the shortfall.

Q: What are people outside the Administration saying about trust funds?

"Does how you use the Medicare annual surplus have any effect on the solvency of the Medicare program? No....[I]rrespective of how the Congress decides to use the annual Medicare surpluses (e.g. tax cuts, spending increases, paying down the debt held by the public), trust fund solvency will not be affected in any way."
-David M. Walker, Comptroller General of the United States and former Social Security and Medicare trustee, 7/25/01

"The image of raids on the Medicare and Social Security trust funds is false. The surpluses in these trust funds reflect a temporary excess of payroll taxes over current benefits. When this occurs, the trust funds transfer their spare cash to the Treasury, which gives them 'special issue' Treasury securities in return. The trust funds get the securities regardless of how the Treasury uses the spare cash -- whether to repay publicly help federal debt or to pay the government's bills. The trust funds simply aren't being raided."
-Robert J. Samuelson, Newsweek, 7/16/01

"[Sen. Kent Conrad's] message ... is that the Bush tax cuts have so sapped the federal Treasury that they are going to require a 'Raid on Medicare.' Even by Washington standards, this is ridiculous. Despite America's near-recession, there is nothing even close to a federal deficit. This year's surplus will be somewhat north of $160 billion, the second largest in history after last year's."
-Paul A. Gigot, Wall Street Journal, 7/13/01

"Q. What can the government do with the surplus? A. It has to spend it, because the federal government can't park that much money in a bank without affecting the financial markets. Q. [I]f we spend money intended for Social Security or Medicare on other government programs, aren't we raiding those programs? A. No. Under government accounting rules, no matter if we use the Social Security and Medicare payroll taxes for debt reduction or plain old spending, the programs receive an equivalent amount in interest-earning Treasury bonds. [N]o matter how the money is used, the programs' trust funds are unaffected because, in effect, they are lending the money to the United States. Q. So does it make a difference whether we use some of the Medicare funds for spending this year? A. Economically, it means virtually nothing in the short run. The government is still running a substantial surplus and paying down debt, but because the U.S. economy is so large, the amount of money involved is like pennies."

-Glenn Kessler, Washington Post, 7/22/01

"When an individual buys a government bond, he or she has established a financial claim against the government. When the government issues a security to one of its own accounts, it hasn't purchased anything or established a claim against some other person or entity. The key point is that the Trust Funds do not hold financial resources to pay benefits – rather, they provide authority for the Treasury Department to use whatever money it has on hand to pay them. …[T]he trust funds themselves do not hold or receive money."

-David Koitz, Congressional Research Service report, 3/20/01

"The 'lockbox' is a rhetorical device designed to advance the notion that the government can put money on the shelf today and use it to pay Social Security after 2016. But again, the 'trust fund' is merely paper the government has issued to itself."

-Robert L. Bartley, Wall Street Journal, 7/23/01

"The Social Security trust fund, which is part of the federal government, holds Treasury securities – I.O.U.s from the federal government – to meet its future obligations. Treasury bills are perfectly fine investments. But when they're held in federal trust funds, Uncle Sam has the same problem redeeming them that you'd have redeeming you own I.O.U.s in your personal trust fund. [T]he government hasn't stolen Social Security money, as many people believe. The government has, indeed, borrowed the Social Security surplus – the difference between Social Security's tax revenues and its outlays. It's replaced the money with I.O.U.s, and spent it."

-Allan Sloan, Newsweek, 7/30/01

"One of the key issues Democrats are trying to get mileage out of is claiming that the tax cut is eating into the Social Security surplus. This implies, falsely, that Social Security benefits are somehow at risk. In fact, there is essentially no relationship between the size of the Social Security trust fund, or the amount of the budget surplus attributable to the excess of current Social Security revenues over benefits."

-Bruce Bartlett, The Detroit News, 7/23/01

"They [trust funds] do not consist of real economic assets that can be drawn down in the future to fund benefits. Instead, they are claims on the Treasury that, when redeemed, will have to be financed by raising taxes, borrowing from the public, or reducing benefits or other expenditures. The existence of large trust fund balances, therefore, does not, by itself, have any impact on the Government's ability to pay benefits."

Mid-Session Review Talking Points

- Produce Second Largest Surplus in History: At $158 billion, the 2001 surplus will be the second largest surplus in history. If Congress keeps total spending at the limits agreed to in the Budget Resolution, the 2002 surplus will be even larger -- $173 billion. (In recent years excessive spending has been a problem. For example, last December Congress and the Clinton Administration spent $35 billion more than the budget they agreed to. President Bush has vowed to reverse this trend and stick to the budget.)

- Protect Social Security and Medicare: The President protects the Social Security surplus in 2001 and beyond, reserving it for debt reduction as opposed to other purposes. Every dollar collected for Medicare will be spent on Medicare. The Social Security and Medicare Trust Funds are fully credited and benefits remain the same. The size of the budget surplus has no impact on benefits, the size of the trust funds, or program solvency.

- Reform Medicare and Provide Prescription Drug Coverage: The budget review projects to spend $190 billion for Medicare reform including prescription drug coverage. This is $37 billion higher than the April budget submission, in keeping with the President's Medicare reform framework announced in July.

- Pay Down Historic Amounts of Debt: The government is still on track to pay off $2 trillion of federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

- Provide for a Strong Defense: The Mid-Session Review projects additional spending of $18.4 billion on national defense in FY 2002 – $198 billion additional over 10 years.

- Foster Economic Growth: Leading economists agree that the tax cut enacted under President Bush's leadership will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy – the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses and protect Medicare and Social Security.

- Accounting for the Surplus: The FY 2002 Budget released in April projected a surplus for FY 2001 of $281 billion. The new FY 2001 surplus projection is $158 billion. The $123 billion decrease is due to four factors: 1. decreased revenue from the year long economic slowdown – $46 billion or about 2 percent of revenues; 2. FY 2001 tax rebates – $40 billion; 3. corporate tax timing shift – $28 billion; and 4. defense and farm spending – $9 billion. The decline in the surplus due to factors other than congressional action is approximately 14 percent.

- Measure Social Security Receipts Accurately: Due to the intense interest in the relative size of the Social Security surplus, the Mid-Session Review presents the most accurate figures possible.

- Economic Assumptions: The extent of the economic slowdown, which commenced in Q3 2000, is greater than most forecasters anticipated. Nonetheless, the economy seems poised to recover, with the tax cut and lower interest rates providing timely stimulus to growth. The Administration projects real GDP growth this year to be 1.7 percent and in 2002 to be 3.2 percent. From 2002 – 2011, the Administration projects real GDP growth will average 3.2 percent per year. The Administration's projections are well within the range of estimates made by prominent Wall Street and other analysts. The Administration's 3.2 percent real GDP growth projection is equal to that of the Conference Board, winner of the Annual Blue Chip Economic Forecasting Award, and below that of Merrill Lynch, which projects a 3.5 percent real GDP for 2002.

Questions & Answers about the Mid –Session Review (MSR)

Q: Is there a deficit?

No- In FY 2001, after paying higher Medicare and Social Security expenses and other bills, the surplus will be $158 billion, which will be the second largest surplus in U.S. and world history.

Q: Are we still paying off debt?

Yes- President Bush has put the nation on a track to pay off $2 trillion of the Federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

There is a limit to how quickly debt can be paid off without incurring unnecessary and exorbitant premiums to buy back outstanding bonds before their maturity date.

Q: Are you going to be raiding the Social Security Trust Fund in 2001 or 2002?

No, the level of the surplus has no impact on the Social Security trust fund. Regardless of the level of the unified budget surplus, the Social Security Trust Fund will run an estimated surplus of $158 billion in FY 2001 and $173 billion in FY 2002. Fluctuations in the surplus levels will have no impact on the Social Security surplus, the balances in the Social Security trust fund, or on Social Security spending. Even so, the President has committed to protect every dollar of the Social Security surplus and that is exactly what his budget does.

Q: Is the President raiding Medicare?

No, Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone. The President's budget fully funds the Medicare Trust Fund. And Medicare spending continues to rise, as required by law. President Bush has pledged to modernize Medicare and seeks to work with Congress to ensure that Medicare meets its obligations to seniors, including a prescription drug benefit.

Q: Was the President's tax cut too big and irresponsible– sending us back into deficit spending?

No, this is the second largest surplus in our country's history, and the fiscal condition of the country remains strong, despite an economic slowdown. Further, the tax cut will help ensure that our fiscal condition remains healthy and we continue to run large surpluses by invigorating the economy.

The real threat to the surplus is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. In FY 2001 alone, Congress busted their own budget by $34 billion.

Q: Why has there been such a large change in surplus estimates?

The difference between the April estimates and the current estimates is $123 billion. Most of this is a designed reduction in the surplus ($68 billion). President Bush proposed a tax cut plan to boost our sagging economy and return surplus dollars to the American people, as well as supplemental spending on critical defense needs. The remainder of the change is due to a dip in the economy. The best way to ensure future surpluses is to promote economic growth. President Bush's tax plan will do that, pumping needed resources into the economy when it is needed most.

Q: The MSR shows a weakening economy. In light of that, should we scale back the tax cut?

No, The tax cut is exactly the right medicine for this economy at exactly the right time. Leading economists agree that the tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy– the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses.

"The tax bill awaiting President Bush's signature delivers fiscal stimulus sooner than we've been expecting, and it packs a punch: We estimate that it will boost second-half growth by about 1 ¼ percentage points."
-Morgan Stanley Dean Witter (May 29, 2001)

"I think one point I'd like to get across as well, I think it's [the tax plan is] very positive for the long-run economy."
-Mickey Levy, Bank of America (CBS News, June 8, 2001)

"The tax cut comes at a good time and could be an important catalyst in the long-awaited recovery."
-Jeffrey Feiner, Lehman Brothers (Washington Times, June 22, 2001)

"We estimate that the tax cuts will boost growth by nearly 1 percentage point in the second half of this year."
-Robert DiClemente, Salomon Smith Barney, Inc. (Washington Post, June 2, 2001)

"For once, Congress managed to implement a contra-cyclical fiscal policy that should boost economic growth exactly when the economy needs it. The tax cut will pump about $40 billion into the economy during the third quarter and about $70 billion in FY 2002, which begins October 1. The tax cut will boost GDP growth by around ¾ of a percentage point during the second half of 2001 and about ½ of a percentage point in 2002."
-Bruce Steinberg, Merrill Lynch (June 1, 2001)

Q: Does the President's tax cut threaten Social Security and Medicare?

No, President Bush is committed to reforming and preserving Social Security and Medicare. With or without the enacted tax cut, benefits in both programs remain the same, the trust funds are protected and the long –term solvency of the programs are unchanged.

Q: Given the new numbers are Seniors' Social Security and Medicare benefits in jeopardy?

No, Seniors benefits will remain unchanged and in fact Social Security and Medicare spending will continue to grow.

Q: Why are you revising the Social Security figures?

The President is committed to preserving every penny of the Social Security surplus. Given the heightened status, real and symbolic, of the Social Security surplus it is important to measure it accurately. American companies are required to accurately report revenues, and the federal government should do it, too.

Therefore, a $5.6 billion correction to prior year estimates of Social Security payroll tax collections reflects the fact that the Social Security surplus was larger than previously thought in 1998, 1999, and 2000. Counting this revenue as though it had been paid in 2001 overstates the Social Security surplus for this year.

The real size of the Social Security surplus is $157.1 billion. Precise accuracy in determining the Social Security surplus in any year requires comparing actual revenue to actual expenditures.

Q: Is the President cutting Medicare Spending?

Medicare spending increases every year in President Bush's budget, rising from $217 billion in 2001, to $228 billion in 2002 and to $423 billion in 2011. Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone.

Q: What is happening to the Medicare Trust Fund?

The Medicare Trust Fund is fully credited under the President's budget, as required by law, rising from $ 200 billion in 2002 to $737 billion in 2011.

Q: How does the trust fund balances effect the long term solvency of the Medicare Program?

The existence of balances large or small in the Medicare Part A Trust Fund have no effect on the long-term solvency of the program.

The Federal government must do something with the money it has lent itself. It can either pay off part of the publicly-held federal debt or spend the money on other government programs. Either way the same IOU goes in the trust fund.

As the Administration works to reform Medicare it believes that the program must be considered as one entity, rather than separate parts with separate funding streams. With revenue in FY 2001 of $197 billion from payroll taxes and premiums, and outlays of $242 billion, the general Treasury must contribute more than $45 billion to make up the shortfall.

Q: What are people outside the Administration saying about trust funds?

"Does how you use the Medicare annual surplus have any effect on the solvency of the Medicare program? No....[I]rrespective of how the Congress decides to use the annual Medicare surpluses (e.g. tax cuts, spending increases, paying down the debt held by the public), trust fund solvency will not be affected in any way."
-David M. Walker, Comptroller General of the United States and former Social Security and Medicare trustee, 7/25/01

"The image of raids on the Medicare and Social Security trust funds is false. The surpluses in these trust funds reflect a temporary excess of payroll taxes over current benefits. When this occurs, the trust funds transfer their spare cash to the Treasury, which gives them 'special issue' Treasury securities in return. The trust funds get the securities regardless of how the Treasury uses the spare cash -- whether to repay publicly help federal debt or to pay the government's bills. The trust funds simply aren't being raided."
-Robert J. Samuelson, Newsweek, 7/16/01

"[Sen. Kent Conrad's] message ... is that the Bush tax cuts have so sapped the federal Treasury that they are going to require a 'Raid on Medicare.' Even by Washington standards, this is ridiculous. Despite America's near-recession, there is nothing even close to a federal deficit. This year's surplus will be somewhat north of $160 billion, the second largest in history after last year's."
-Paul A. Gigot, Wall Street Journal, 7/13/01

"Q. What can the government do with the surplus? A. It has to spend it, because the federal government can't park that much money in a bank without affecting the financial markets. Q. [I]f we spend money intended for Social Security or Medicare on other government programs, aren't we raiding those programs? A. No. Under government accounting rules, no matter if we use the Social Security and Medicare payroll taxes for debt reduction or plain old spending, the programs receive an equivalent amount in interest-earning Treasury bonds. [N]o matter how the money is used, the programs' trust funds are unaffected because, in effect, they are lending the money to the United States. Q. So does it make a difference whether we use some of the Medicare funds for spending this year? A. Economically, it means virtually nothing in the short run. The

-Glenn Kessler, Washington Post, 7/22/01

"When an individual buys a government bond, he or she has established a financial claim against the government. When the government issues a security to one of its own accounts, it hasn't purchased anything or established a claim against some other person or entity. The key point is that the Trust Funds do not hold financial resources to pay benefits – rather, they provide authority for the Treasury Department to use whatever money it has on hand to pay them. …[T]he trust funds themselves do not hold or receive money."

-David Koitz, Congressional Research Service report, 3/20/01

"The 'lockbox' is a rhetorical device designed to advance the notion that the government can put money on the shelf today and use it to pay Social Security after 2016. But again, the 'trust fund' is merely paper the government has issued to itself."

-Robert L. Bartley, Wall Street Journal, 7/23/01

"The Social Security trust fund, which is part of the federal government, holds Treasury securities – I.O.U.s from the federal government – to meet its future obligations. Treasury bills are perfectly fine investments. But when they're held in federal trust funds, Uncle Sam has the same problem redeeming them that you'd have redeeming you own I.O.U.s in your personal trust fund. [T]he government hasn't stolen Social Security money, as many people believe. The government has, indeed, borrowed the Social Security surplus – the difference between Social Security's tax revenues and its outlays. It's replaced the money with I.O.U.s, and spent it."

-Allan Sloan, Newsweek, 7/30/01

"One of the key issues Democrats are trying to get mileage out of is claiming that the tax cut is eating into the Social Security surplus. This implies, falsely, that Social Security benefits are somehow at risk. In fact, there is essentially no relationship between the size of the Social Security trust fund, or the amount of the budget surplus attributable to the excess of current Social Security revenues over benefits."

-Bruce Bartlett, The Detroit News, 7/23/01

"They [trust funds] do not consist of real economic assets that can be drawn down in the future to fund benefits. Instead, they are claims on the Treasury that, when redeemed, will have to be financed by raising taxes, borrowing from the public, or reducing benefits or other expenditures. The existence of large trust fund balances, therefore, does not, by itself, have any impact on the Government's ability to pay benefits."

-President Clinton's FY 2000 Budget, Analytical Perspectives, page 337

Mid-Session Review Talking Points

- Produce Second Largest Surplus in History: At $158 billion, the 2001 surplus will be the second largest surplus in history. If Congress keeps total spending at the limits agreed to in the Budget Resolution, the 2002 surplus will be even larger -- $173 billion. (In recent years excessive spending has been a problem. For example, last December Congress and the Clinton Administration spent $35 billion more than the budget they agreed to. President Bush has vowed to reverse this trend and stick to the budget.)

- Protect Social Security and Medicare: The President protects the Social Security surplus in 2001 and beyond, reserving it for debt reduction as opposed to other purposes. Every dollar collected for Medicare will be spent on Medicare. The Social Security and Medicare Trust Funds are fully credited and benefits remain the same. The size of the budget surplus has no impact on benefits, the size of the trust funds, or program solvency.

- Reform Medicare and Provide Prescription Drug Coverage: The budget review projects to spend $190 billion for Medicare reform including prescription drug coverage. This is $37 billion higher than the April budget submission, in keeping with the President's Medicare reform framework announced in July.

- Pay Down Historic Amounts of Debt: The government is still on track to pay off $2 trillion of federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

- Provide for a Strong Defense: The Mid-Session Review projects additional spending of $18.4 billion on national defense in FY 2002 – $198 billion additional over 10 years.

- Foster Economic Growth: Leading economists agree that the tax cut enacted under President Bush's leadership will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy – the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses and protect Medicare and Social Security.

- Accounting for the Surplus: The FY 2002 Budget released in April projected a surplus for FY 2001 of $281 billion. The new FY 2001 surplus projection is $158 billion. The $123 billion decrease is due to four factors: 1. decreased revenue from the year long economic slowdown – $46 billion or about 2 percent of revenues; 2. FY 2001 tax rebates – $40 billion; 3. corporate tax timing shift – $28 billion; and 4. defense and farm spending – $9 billion. The decline in the surplus due to factors other than congressional action is approximately 14 percent.

- Measure Social Security Receipts Accurately: Due to the intense interest in the relative size of the Social Security surplus, the Mid-Session Review presents the most accurate figures possible.

- Economic Assumptions: The extent of the economic slowdown, which commenced in Q3 2000, is greater than most forecasters anticipated. Nonetheless, the economy seems poised to recover, with the tax cut and lower interest rates providing timely stimulus to growth. The Administration projects real GDP growth this year to be 1.7 percent and in 2002 to be 3.2 percent. From 2002 – 2011, the Administration projects real GDP growth will average 3.2 percent per year. The Administration's projections are well within the range of estimates made by prominent Wall Street and other analysts. The Administration's 3.2 percent real GDP growth projection is equal to that of the Conference Board, winner of the Annual Blue Chip Economic Forecasting Award, and below that of Merrill Lynch, which projects a 3.5 percent real GDP for 2002.

Questions & Answers about the Mid –Session Review (MSR)

Q: Is there a deficit?

No- In FY 2001, after paying higher Medicare and Social Security expenses and other bills, the surplus will be $158 billion, which will be the second largest surplus in U.S. and world history.

Q: Are we still paying off debt?

Yes- President Bush has put the nation on a track to pay off $2 trillion of the Federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

There is a limit to how quickly debt can be paid off without incurring unnecessary and exorbitant premiums to buy back outstanding bonds before their maturity date.

Q: Are you going to be raiding the Social Security Trust Fund in 2001 or 2002?

No, the level of the surplus has no impact on the Social Security trust fund. Regardless of the level of the unified budget surplus, the Social Security Trust Fund will run an estimated surplus of $158 billion in FY 2001 and $173 billion in FY 2002. Fluctuations in the surplus levels will have no impact on the Social Security surplus, the balances in the Social Security trust fund, or on Social Security spending. Even so, the President has committed to protect every dollar of the Social Security surplus and that is exactly what his budget does.

Q: Is the President raiding Medicare?

No, Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone. The President's budget fully funds the Medicare Trust Fund. And Medicare spending continues to rise, as required by law. President Bush has pledged to modernize Medicare and seeks to work with Congress to ensure that Medicare meets its obligations to seniors, including a prescription drug benefit.

Q: Was the President's tax cut too big and irresponsible– sending us back into deficit spending?

No, this is the second largest surplus in our country's history, and the fiscal condition of the country remains strong, despite an economic slowdown. Further, the tax cut will help ensure that our fiscal condition remains healthy and we continue to run large surpluses by invigorating the economy.

The real threat to the surplus is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. In FY 2001 alone, Congress busted their own budget by $34 billion.

Q: Why has there been such a large change in surplus estimates?

The difference between the April estimates and the current estimates is $123 billion. Most of this is a designed reduction in the surplus ($68 billion). President Bush proposed a tax cut plan to boost our sagging economy and return surplus dollars to the American people, as well as supplemental spending on critical defense needs. The remainder of the change is due to a dip in the economy. The best way to ensure future surpluses is to promote economic growth. President Bush's tax plan will do that, pumping needed resources into the economy when it is needed most.

Q: The MSR shows a weakening economy. In light of that, should we scale back the tax cut?

No, The tax cut is exactly the right medicine for this economy at exactly the right time. Leading economists agree that the tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy– the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses.

"The tax bill awaiting President Bush's signature delivers fiscal stimulus sooner than we've been expecting, and it packs a punch: We estimate that it will boost second-half growth by about 1 ¼ percentage points."
-Morgan Stanley Dean Witter (May 29, 2001)

"I think one point I'd like to get across as well, I think it's [the tax plan is] very positive for the long-run economy."
-Mickey Levy, Bank of America (CBS News, June 8, 2001)

"The tax cut comes at a good time and could be an important catalyst in the long-awaited recovery."
-Jeffrey Feiner, Lehman Brothers (Washington Times, June 22, 2001)

"We estimate that the tax cuts will boost growth by nearly 1 percentage point in the second half of this year."
-Robert DiClemente, Salomon Smith Barney, Inc. (Washington Post, June 2, 2001)

"For once, Congress managed to implement a contra-cyclical fiscal policy that should boost economic growth exactly when the economy needs it. The tax cut will pump about $40 billion into the economy during the third quarter and about $70 billion in FY 2002, which begins October 1. The tax cut will boost GDP growth by around ¾ of a percentage point during the second half of 2001 and about ½ of a percentage point in 2002."
-Bruce Steinberg, Merrill Lynch (June 1, 2001)

Q: Does the President's tax cut threaten Social Security and Medicare?

No, President Bush is committed to reforming and preserving Social Security and Medicare. With or without the enacted tax cut, benefits in both programs remain the same, the trust funds are protected and the long –term solvency of the programs are unchanged.

Q: Given the new numbers are Seniors' Social Security and Medicare benefits in jeopardy?

No, Seniors benefits will remain unchanged and in fact Social Security and Medicare spending will continue to grow.

Q: Why are you revising the Social Security figures?

The President is committed to preserving every penny of the Social Security surplus. Given the heightened status, real and symbolic, of the Social Security surplus it is important to measure it accurately. American companies are required to accurately report revenues, and the federal government should do it, too.

Therefore, a $5.6 billion correction to prior year estimates of Social Security payroll tax collections reflects the fact that the Social Security surplus was larger than previously thought in 1998, 1999, and 2000. Counting this revenue as though it had been paid in 2001 overstates the Social Security surplus for this year.

The real size of the Social Security surplus is $157.1 billion. Precise accuracy in determining the Social Security surplus in any year requires comparing actual revenue to actual expenditures.

Q: Is the President cutting Medicare Spending?

Medicare spending increases every year in President Bush's budget, rising from $217 billion in 2001, to $228 billion in 2002 and to $423 billion in 2011. Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone.

Q: What is happening to the Medicare Trust Fund?

The Medicare Trust Fund is fully credited under the President's budget, as required by law, rising from $ 200 billion in 2002 to $737 billion in 2011.

Q: How does the trust fund balances effect the long term solvency of the Medicare Program?

The existence of balances large or small in the Medicare Part A Trust Fund have no effect on the long-term solvency of the program.

The Federal government must do something with the money it has lent itself. It can either pay off part of the publicly-held federal debt or spend the money on other government programs. Either way the same IOU goes in the trust fund.

As the Administration works to reform Medicare it believes that the program must be considered as one entity, rather than separate parts with separate funding streams. With revenue in FY 2001 of $197 billion from payroll taxes and premiums, and outlays of $242 billion, the general Treasury must contribute more than $45 billion to make up the shortfall.

Q: What are people outside the Administration saying about trust funds?

"Does how you use the Medicare annual surplus have any effect on the solvency of the Medicare program? No....[I]rrespective of how the Congress decides to use the annual Medicare surpluses (e.g. tax cuts, spending increases, paying down the debt held by the public), trust fund solvency will not be affected in any way."
-David M. Walker, Comptroller General of the United States and former Social Security and Medicare trustee, 7/25/01

"The image of raids on the Medicare and Social Security trust funds is false. The surpluses in these trust funds reflect a temporary excess of payroll taxes over current benefits. When this occurs, the trust funds transfer their spare cash to the Treasury, which gives them 'special issue' Treasury securities in return. The trust funds get the securities regardless of how the Treasury uses the spare cash -- whether to repay publicly help federal debt or to pay the government's bills. The trust funds simply aren't being raided."
-Robert J. Samuelson, Newsweek, 7/16/01

"[Sen. Kent Conrad's] message ... is that the Bush tax cuts have so sapped the federal Treasury that they are going to require a 'Raid on Medicare.' Even by Washington standards, this is ridiculous. Despite America's near-recession, there is nothing even close to a federal deficit. This year's surplus will be somewhat north of $160 billion, the second largest in history after last year's."
-Paul A. Gigot, Wall Street Journal, 7/13/01

"Q. What can the government do with the surplus? A. It has to spend it, because the federal government can't park that much money in a bank without affecting the financial markets. Q. [I]f we spend money intended for Social Security or Medicare on other government programs, aren't we raiding those programs? A. No. Under government accounting rules, no matter if we use the Social Security and Medicare payroll taxes for debt reduction or plain old spending, the programs receive an equivalent amount in interest-earning Treasury bonds. [N]o matter how the money is used, the programs' trust funds are unaffected because, in effect, they are lending the money to the United States. Q. So does it make a difference whether we use some of the Medicare funds for spending this year? A. Economically, it means virtually nothing in the short run. The government is still running a substantial surplus and paying down debt, but because the U.S. economy is so large, the amount of money involved is like pennies."

-Glenn Kessler, Washington Post, 7/22/01

"When an individual buys a government bond, he or she has established a financial claim against the government. When the government issues a security to one of its own accounts, it hasn't purchased anything or established a claim against some other person or entity. The key point is that the Trust Funds do not hold financial resources to pay benefits – rather, they provide authority for the Treasury Department to use whatever money it has on hand to pay them. …[T]he trust funds themselves do not hold or receive money."

-David Koitz, Congressional Research Service report, 3/20/01

"The 'lockbox' is a rhetorical device designed to advance the notion that the government can put money on the shelf today and use it to pay Social Security after 2016. But again, the 'trust fund' is merely paper the government has issued to itself."

-Robert L. Bartley, Wall Street Journal, 7/23/01

"The Social Security trust fund, which is part of the federal government, holds Treasury securities – I.O.U.s from the federal government – to meet its future obligations. Treasury bills are perfectly fine investments. But when they're held in federal trust funds, Uncle Sam has the same problem redeeming them that you'd have redeeming you own I.O.U.s in your personal trust fund. [T]he government hasn't stolen Social Security money, as many people believe. The government has, indeed, borrowed the Social Security surplus – the difference between Social Security's tax revenues and its outlays. It's replaced the money with I.O.U.s, and spent it."

-Allan Sloan, Newsweek, 7/30/01

"One of the key issues Democrats are trying to get mileage out of is claiming that the tax cut is eating into the Social Security surplus. This implies, falsely, that Social Security benefits are somehow at risk. In fact, there is essentially no relationship between the size of the Social Security trust fund, or the amount of the budget surplus attributable to the excess of current Social Security revenues over benefits."

-Bruce Bartlett, The Detroit News, 7/23/01

"They [trust funds] do not consist of real economic assets that can be drawn down in the future to fund benefits. Instead, they are claims on the Treasury that, when redeemed, will have to be financed by raising taxes, borrowing from the public, or reducing benefits or other expenditures. The existence of large trust fund balances, therefore, does not, by itself, have any impact on the Government's ability to pay benefits."

-President Clinton's FY 2000 Budget, Analytical Perspectives, page 337

Mid-Session Review Talking Points

- Produce Second Largest Surplus in History: At $158 billion, the 2001 surplus will be the second largest surplus in history. If Congress keeps total spending at the limits agreed to in the Budget Resolution, the 2002 surplus will be even larger -- $173 billion. (In recent years excessive spending has been a problem. For example, last December Congress and the Clinton Administration spent $35 billion more than the budget they agreed to. President Bush has vowed to reverse this trend and stick to the budget.)

- Protect Social Security and Medicare: The President protects the Social Security surplus in 2001 and beyond, reserving it for debt reduction as opposed to other purposes. Every dollar collected for Medicare will be spent on Medicare. The Social Security and Medicare Trust Funds are fully credited and benefits remain the same. The size of the budget surplus has no impact on benefits, the size of the trust funds, or program solvency.

- Reform Medicare and Provide Prescription Drug Coverage: The budget review projects to spend $190 billion for Medicare reform including prescription drug coverage. This is $37 billion higher than the April budget submission, in keeping with the President's Medicare reform framework announced in July.

- Pay Down Historic Amounts of Debt: The government is still on track to pay off $2 trillion of federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

- Provide for a Strong Defense: The Mid-Session Review projects additional spending of $18.4 billion on national defense in FY 2002 – $198 billion additional over 10 years.

- Foster Economic Growth: Leading economists agree that the tax cut enacted under President Bush's leadership will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy – the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses and protect Medicare and Social Security.

- Accounting for the Surplus: The FY 2002 Budget released in April projected a surplus for FY 2001 of $281 billion. The new FY 2001 surplus projection is $158 billion. The $123 billion decrease is due to four factors: 1. decreased revenue from the year long economic slowdown – $46 billion or about 2 percent of revenues; 2. FY 2001 tax rebates – $40 billion; 3. corporate tax timing shift – $28 billion; and 4. defense and farm spending – $9 billion. The decline in the surplus due to factors other than congressional action is approximately 14 percent.

- Measure Social Security Receipts Accurately: Due to the intense interest in the relative size of the Social Security surplus, the Mid-Session Review presents the most accurate figures possible.

- Economic Assumptions: The extent of the economic slowdown, which commenced in Q3 2000, is greater than most forecasters anticipated. Nonetheless, the economy seems poised to recover, with the tax cut and lower interest rates providing timely stimulus to growth. The Administration projects real GDP growth this year to be 1.7 percent and in 2002 to be 3.2 percent. From 2002 – 2011, the Administration projects real GDP growth will average 3.2 percent per year. The Administration's projections are well within the range of estimates made by prominent Wall Street and other analysts. The Administration's 3.2 percent real GDP growth projection is equal to that of the Conference Board, winner of the Annual Blue Chip Economic Forecasting Award, and below that of Merrill Lynch, which projects a 3.5 percent real GDP for 2002.

Questions & Answers about the Mid –Session Review (MSR)

Q: Is there a deficit?

No- In FY 2001, after paying higher Medicare and Social Security expenses and other bills, the surplus will be $158 billion, which will be the second largest surplus in U.S. and world history.

Q: Are we still paying off debt?

Yes- President Bush has put the nation on a track to pay off $2 trillion of the Federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

There is a limit to how quickly debt can be paid off without incurring unnecessary and exorbitant premiums to buy back outstanding bonds before their maturity date.

Q: Are you going to be raiding the Social Security Trust Fund in 2001 or 2002?

No, the level of the surplus has no impact on the Social Security trust fund. Regardless of the level of the unified budget surplus, the Social Security Trust Fund will run an estimated surplus of $158 billion in FY 2001 and $173 billion in FY 2002. Fluctuations in the surplus levels will have no impact on the Social Security surplus, the balances in the Social Security trust fund, or on Social Security spending. Even so, the President has committed to protect every dollar of the Social Security surplus and that is exactly what his budget does.

Q: Is the President raiding Medicare?

No, Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone. The President's budget fully funds the Medicare Trust Fund. And Medicare spending continues to rise, as required by law. President Bush has pledged to modernize Medicare and seeks to work with Congress to ensure that Medicare meets its obligations to seniors, including a prescription drug benefit.

Q: Was the President's tax cut too big and irresponsible– sending us back into deficit spending?

No, this is the second largest surplus in our country's history, and the fiscal condition of the country remains strong, despite an economic slowdown. Further, the tax cut will help ensure that our fiscal condition remains healthy and we continue to run large surpluses by invigorating the economy.

The real threat to the surplus is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. In FY 2001 alone, Congress busted their own budget by $34 billion.

Q: Why has there been such a large change in surplus estimates?

The difference between the April estimates and the current estimates is $123 billion. Most of this is a designed reduction in the surplus ($68 billion). President Bush proposed a tax cut plan to boost our sagging economy and return surplus dollars to the American people, as well as supplemental spending on critical defense needs. The remainder of the change is due to a dip in the economy. The best way to ensure future surpluses is to promote economic growth. President Bush's tax plan will do that, pumping needed resources into the economy when it is needed most.

Q: The MSR shows a weakening economy. In light of that, should we scale back the tax cut?

No, The tax cut is exactly the right medicine for this economy at exactly the right time. Leading economists agree that the tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy– the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses.

"The tax bill awaiting President Bush's signature delivers fiscal stimulus sooner than we've been expecting, and it packs a punch: We estimate that it will boost second-half growth by about 1 ¼ percentage points."
-Morgan Stanley Dean Witter (May 29, 2001)

"I think one point I'd like to get across as well, I think it's [the tax plan is] very positive for the long-run economy."
-Mickey Levy, Bank of America (CBS News, June 8, 2001)

"The tax cut comes at a good time and could be an important catalyst in the long-awaited recovery."
-Jeffrey Feiner, Lehman Brothers (Washington Times, June 22, 2001)

"We estimate that the tax cuts will boost growth by nearly 1 percentage point in the second half of this year."
-Robert DiClemente, Salomon Smith Barney, Inc. (Washington Post, June 2, 2001)

"For once, Congress managed to implement a contra-cyclical fiscal policy that should boost economic growth exactly when the economy needs it. The tax cut will pump about $40 billion into the economy during the third quarter and about $70 billion in FY 2002, which begins October 1. The tax cut will boost GDP growth by around ¾ of a percentage point during the second half of 2001 and about ½ of a percentage point in 2002."
-Bruce Steinberg, Merrill Lynch (June 1, 2001)

Q: Does the President's tax cut threaten Social Security and Medicare?

No, President Bush is committed to reforming and preserving Social Security and Medicare. With or without the enacted tax cut, benefits in both programs remain the same, the trust funds are protected and the long –term solvency of the programs are unchanged.

Q: Given the new numbers are Seniors' Social Security and Medicare benefits in jeopardy?

No, Seniors benefits will remain unchanged and in fact Social Security and Medicare spending will continue to grow.

Q: Why are you revising the Social Security figures?

The President is committed to preserving every penny of the Social Security surplus. Given the heightened status, real and symbolic, of the Social Security surplus it is important to measure it accurately. American companies are required to accurately report revenues, and the federal government should do it, too.

Therefore, a $5.6 billion correction to prior year estimates of Social Security payroll tax collections reflects the fact that the Social Security surplus was larger than previously thought in 1998, 1999, and 2000. Counting this revenue as though it had been paid in 2001 overstates the Social Security surplus for this year.

The real size of the Social Security surplus is $157.1 billion. Precise accuracy in determining the Social Security surplus in any year requires comparing actual revenue to actual expenditures.

Q: Is the President cutting Medicare Spending?

Medicare spending increases every year in President Bush's budget, rising from $217 billion in 2001, to $228 billion in 2002 and to $423 billion in 2011. Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone.

Q: What is happening to the Medicare Trust Fund?

The Medicare Trust Fund is fully credited under the President's budget, as required by law, rising from $ 200 billion in 2002 to $737 billion in 2011.

Q: How does the trust fund balances effect the long term solvency of the Medicare Program?

The existence of balances large or small in the Medicare Part A Trust Fund have no effect on the long-term solvency of the program.

The Federal government must do something with the money it has lent itself. It can either pay off part of the publicly-held federal debt or spend the money on other government programs. Either way the same IOU goes in the trust fund.

As the Administration works to reform Medicare it believes that the program must be considered as one entity, rather than separate parts with separate funding streams. With revenue in FY 2001 of $197 billion from payroll taxes and premiums, and outlays of $242 billion, the general Treasury must contribute more than $45 billion to make up the shortfall.

Q: What are people outside the Administration saying about trust funds?

"Does how you use the Medicare annual surplus have any effect on the solvency of the Medicare program? No....[I]rrespective of how the Congress decides to use the annual Medicare surpluses (e.g. tax cuts, spending increases, paying down the debt held by the public), trust fund solvency will not be affected in any way."
-David M. Walker, Comptroller General of the United States and former Social Security and Medicare trustee, 7/25/01

"The image of raids on the Medicare and Social Security trust funds is false. The surpluses in these trust funds reflect a temporary excess of payroll taxes over current benefits. When this occurs, the trust funds transfer their spare cash to the Treasury, which gives them 'special issue' Treasury securities in return. The trust funds get the securities regardless of how the Treasury uses the spare cash -- whether to repay publicly help federal debt or to pay the government's bills. The trust funds simply aren't being raided."
-Robert J. Samuelson, Newsweek, 7/16/01

"[Sen. Kent Conrad's] message ... is that the Bush tax cuts have so sapped the federal Treasury that they are going to require a 'Raid on Medicare.' Even by Washington standards, this is ridiculous. Despite America's near-recession, there is nothing even close to a federal deficit. This year's surplus will be somewhat north of $160 billion, the second largest in history after last year's."
-Paul A. Gigot, Wall Street Journal, 7/13/01

"Q. What can the government do with the surplus? A. It has to spend it, because the federal government can't park that much money in a bank without affecting the financial markets. Q. [I]f we spend money intended for Social Security or Medicare on other government programs, aren't we raiding those programs? A. No. Under government accounting rules, no matter if we use the Social Security and Medicare payroll taxes for debt reduction or plain old spending, the programs receive an equivalent amount in interest-earning Treasury bonds. [N]o matter how the money is used, the programs' trust funds are unaffected because, in effect, they are lending the money to the United States. Q. So does it make a difference whether we use some of the Medicare funds for spending this year? A. Economically, it means virtually nothing in the short run. The government is still running a substantial surplus and paying down debt, but because the U.S. economy is so large, the amount of money involved is like pennies."

-Glenn Kessler, Washington Post, 7/22/01

"When an individual buys a government bond, he or she has established a financial claim against the government. When the government issues a security to one of its own accounts, it hasn't purchased anything or established a claim against some other person or entity. The key point is that the Trust Funds do not hold financial resources to pay benefits – rather, they provide authority for the Treasury Department to use whatever money it has on hand to pay them. …[T]he trust funds themselves do not hold or receive money."

-David Koitz, Congressional Research Service report, 3/20/01

"The 'lockbox' is a rhetorical device designed to advance the notion that the government can put money on the shelf today and use it to pay Social Security after 2016. But again, the 'trust fund' is merely paper the government has issued to itself."

-Robert L. Bartley, Wall Street Journal, 7/23/01

"The Social Security trust fund, which is part of the federal government, holds Treasury securities – I.O.U.s from the federal government – to meet its future obligations. Treasury bills are perfectly fine investments. But when they're held in federal trust funds, Uncle Sam has the same problem redeeming them that you'd have redeeming you own I.O.U.s in your personal trust fund. [T]he government hasn't stolen Social Security money, as many people believe. The government has, indeed, borrowed the Social Security surplus – the difference between Social Security's tax revenues and its outlays. It's replaced the money with I.O.U.s, and spent it."

-Allan Sloan, Newsweek, 7/30/01

"One of the key issues Democrats are trying to get mileage out of is claiming that the tax cut is eating into the Social Security surplus. This implies, falsely, that Social Security benefits are somehow at risk. In fact, there is essentially no relationship between the size of the Social Security trust fund, or the amount of the budget surplus attributable to the excess of current Social Security revenues over benefits."

-Bruce Bartlett, The Detroit News, 7/23/01

"They [trust funds] do not consist of real economic assets that can be drawn down in the future to fund benefits. Instead, they are claims on the Treasury that, when redeemed, will have to be financed by raising taxes, borrowing from the public, or reducing benefits or other expenditures. The existence of large trust fund balances, therefore, does not, by itself, have any impact on the Government's ability to pay benefits."

Mid-Session Review Talking Points

- Produce Second Largest Surplus in History: At $158 billion, the 2001 surplus will be the second largest surplus in history. If Congress keeps total spending at the limits agreed to in the Budget Resolution, the 2002 surplus will be even larger -- $173 billion. (In recent years excessive spending has been a problem. For example, last December Congress and the Clinton Administration spent $35 billion more than the budget they agreed to. President Bush has vowed to reverse this trend and stick to the budget.)

- Protect Social Security and Medicare: The President protects the Social Security surplus in 2001 and beyond, reserving it for debt reduction as opposed to other purposes. Every dollar collected for Medicare will be spent on Medicare. The Social Security and Medicare Trust Funds are fully credited and benefits remain the same. The size of the budget surplus has no impact on benefits, the size of the trust funds, or program solvency.

- Reform Medicare and Provide Prescription Drug Coverage: The budget review projects to spend $190 billion for Medicare reform including prescription drug coverage. This is $37 billion higher than the April budget submission, in keeping with the President's Medicare reform framework announced in July.

- Pay Down Historic Amounts of Debt: The government is still on track to pay off $2 trillion of federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

- Provide for a Strong Defense: The Mid-Session Review projects additional spending of $18.4 billion on national defense in FY 2002 – $198 billion additional over 10 years.

- Foster Economic Growth: Leading economists agree that the tax cut enacted under President Bush's leadership will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy – the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses and protect Medicare and Social Security.

- Accounting for the Surplus: The FY 2002 Budget released in April projected a surplus for FY 2001 of $281 billion. The new FY 2001 surplus projection is $158 billion. The $123 billion decrease is due to four factors: 1. decreased revenue from the year long economic slowdown – $46 billion or about 2 percent of revenues; 2. FY 2001 tax rebates – $40 billion; 3. corporate tax timing shift – $28 billion; and 4. defense and farm spending – $9 billion. The decline in the surplus due to factors other than congressional action is approximately 14 percent.

- Measure Social Security Receipts Accurately: Due to the intense interest in the relative size of the Social Security surplus, the Mid-Session Review presents the most accurate figures possible.

- Economic Assumptions: The extent of the economic slowdown, which commenced in Q3 2000, is greater than most forecasters anticipated. Nonetheless, the economy seems poised to recover, with the tax cut and lower interest rates providing timely stimulus to growth. The Administration projects real GDP growth this year to be 1.7 percent and in 2002 to be 3.2 percent. From 2002 – 2011, the Administration projects real GDP growth will average 3.2 percent per year. The Administration's projections are well within the range of estimates made by prominent Wall Street and other analysts. The Administration's 3.2 percent real GDP growth projection is equal to that of the Conference Board, winner of the Annual Blue Chip Economic Forecasting Award, and below that of Merrill Lynch, which projects a 3.5 percent real GDP for 2002.

Questions & Answers about the Mid –Session Review (MSR)

Q: Is there a deficit?

No- In FY 2001, after paying higher Medicare and Social Security expenses and other bills, the surplus will be $158 billion, which will be the second largest surplus in U.S. and world history.

Q: Are we still paying off debt?

Yes- President Bush has put the nation on a track to pay off $2 trillion of the Federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

There is a limit to how quickly debt can be paid off without incurring unnecessary and exorbitant premiums to buy back outstanding bonds before their maturity date.

Q: Are you going to be raiding the Social Security Trust Fund in 2001 or 2002?

No, the level of the surplus has no impact on the Social Security trust fund. Regardless of the level of the unified budget surplus, the Social Security Trust Fund will run an estimated surplus of $158 billion in FY 2001 and $173 billion in FY 2002. Fluctuations in the surplus levels will have no impact on the Social Security surplus, the balances in the Social Security trust fund, or on Social Security spending. Even so, the President has committed to protect every dollar of the Social Security surplus and that is exactly what his budget does.

Q: Is the President raiding Medicare?

No, Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone. The President's budget fully funds the Medicare Trust Fund. And Medicare spending continues to rise, as required by law. President Bush has pledged to modernize Medicare and seeks to work with Congress to ensure that Medicare meets its obligations to seniors, including a prescription drug benefit.

Q: Was the President's tax cut too big and irresponsible– sending us back into deficit spending?

No, this is the second largest surplus in our country's history, and the fiscal condition of the country remains strong, despite an economic slowdown. Further, the tax cut will help ensure that our fiscal condition remains healthy and we continue to run large surpluses by invigorating the economy.

The real threat to the surplus is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. In FY 2001 alone, Congress busted their own budget by $34 billion.

Q: Why has there been such a large change in surplus estimates?

The difference between the April estimates and the current estimates is $123 billion. Most of this is a designed reduction in the surplus ($68 billion). President Bush proposed a tax cut plan to boost our sagging economy and return surplus dollars to the American people, as well as supplemental spending on critical defense needs. The remainder of the change is due to a dip in the economy. The best way to ensure future surpluses is to promote economic growth. President Bush's tax plan will do that, pumping needed resources into the economy when it is needed most.

Q: The MSR shows a weakening economy. In light of that, should we scale back the tax cut?

No, The tax cut is exactly the right medicine for this economy at exactly the right time. Leading economists agree that the tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy– the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses.

"The tax bill awaiting President Bush's signature delivers fiscal stimulus sooner than we've been expecting, and it packs a punch: We estimate that it will boost second-half growth by about 1 ¼ percentage points."
-Morgan Stanley Dean Witter (May 29, 2001)

"I think one point I'd like to get across as well, I think it's [the tax plan is] very positive for the long-run economy."
-Mickey Levy, Bank of America (CBS News, June 8, 2001)

"The tax cut comes at a good time and could be an important catalyst in the long-awaited recovery."
-Jeffrey Feiner, Lehman Brothers (Washington Times, June 22, 2001)

"We estimate that the tax cuts will boost growth by nearly 1 percentage point in the second half of this year."
-Robert DiClemente, Salomon Smith Barney, Inc. (Washington Post, June 2, 2001)

"For once, Congress managed to implement a contra-cyclical fiscal policy that should boost economic growth exactly when the economy needs it. The tax cut will pump about $40 billion into the economy during the third quarter and about $70 billion in FY 2002, which begins October 1. The tax cut will boost GDP growth by around ¾ of a percentage point during the second half of 2001 and about ½ of a percentage point in 2002."
-Bruce Steinberg, Merrill Lynch (June 1, 2001)

Q: Does the President's tax cut threaten Social Security and Medicare?

No, President Bush is committed to reforming and preserving Social Security and Medicare. With or without the enacted tax cut, benefits in both programs remain the same, the trust funds are protected and the long –term solvency of the programs are unchanged.

Q: Given the new numbers are Seniors' Social Security and Medicare benefits in jeopardy?

No, Seniors benefits will remain unchanged and in fact Social Security and Medicare spending will continue to grow.

Q: Why are you revising the Social Security figures?

The President is committed to preserving every penny of the Social Security surplus. Given the heightened status, real and symbolic, of the Social Security surplus it is important to measure it accurately. American companies are required to accurately report revenues, and the federal government should do it, too.

Therefore, a $5.6 billion correction to prior year estimates of Social Security payroll tax collections reflects the fact that the Social Security surplus was larger than previously thought in 1998, 1999, and 2000. Counting this revenue as though it had been paid in 2001 overstates the Social Security surplus for this year.

The real size of the Social Security surplus is $157.1 billion. Precise accuracy in determining the Social Security surplus in any year requires comparing actual revenue to actual expenditures.

Q: Is the President cutting Medicare Spending?

Medicare spending increases every year in President Bush's budget, rising from $217 billion in 2001, to $228 billion in 2002 and to $423 billion in 2011. Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone.

Q: What is happening to the Medicare Trust Fund?

The Medicare Trust Fund is fully credited under the President's budget, as required by law, rising from $ 200 billion in 2002 to $737 billion in 2011.

Q: How does the trust fund balances effect the long term solvency of the Medicare Program?

The existence of balances large or small in the Medicare Part A Trust Fund have no effect on the long-term solvency of the program.

The Federal government must do something with the money it has lent itself. It can either pay off part of the publicly-held federal debt or spend the money on other government programs. Either way the same IOU goes in the trust fund.

As the Administration works to reform Medicare it believes that the program must be considered as one entity, rather than separate parts with separate funding streams. With revenue in FY 2001 of $197 billion from payroll taxes and premiums, and outlays of $242 billion, the general Treasury must contribute more than $45 billion to make up the shortfall.

Q: What are people outside the Administration saying about trust funds?

"Does how you use the Medicare annual surplus have any effect on the solvency of the Medicare program? No....[I]rrespective of how the Congress decides to use the annual Medicare surpluses (e.g. tax cuts, spending increases, paying down the debt held by the public), trust fund solvency will not be affected in any way."
-David M. Walker, Comptroller General of the United States and former Social Security and Medicare trustee, 7/25/01

"The image of raids on the Medicare and Social Security trust funds is false. The surpluses in these trust funds reflect a temporary excess of payroll taxes over current benefits. When this occurs, the trust funds transfer their spare cash to the Treasury, which gives them 'special issue' Treasury securities in return. The trust funds get the securities regardless of how the Treasury uses the spare cash -- whether to repay publicly help federal debt or to pay the government's bills. The trust funds simply aren't being raided."
-Robert J. Samuelson, Newsweek, 7/16/01

"[Sen. Kent Conrad's] message ... is that the Bush tax cuts have so sapped the federal Treasury that they are going to require a 'Raid on Medicare.' Even by Washington standards, this is ridiculous. Despite America's near-recession, there is nothing even close to a federal deficit. This year's surplus will be somewhat north of $160 billion, the second largest in history after last year's."
-Paul A. Gigot, Wall Street Journal, 7/13/01

"Q. What can the government do with the surplus? A. It has to spend it, because the federal government can't park that much money in a bank without affecting the financial markets. Q. [I]f we spend money intended for Social Security or Medicare on other government programs, aren't we raiding those programs? A. No. Under government accounting rules, no matter if we use the Social Security and Medicare payroll taxes for debt reduction or plain old spending, the programs receive an equivalent amount in interest-earning Treasury bonds. [N]o matter how the money is used, the programs' trust funds are unaffected because, in effect, they are lending the money to the United States. Q. So does it make a difference whether we use some of the Medicare funds for spending this year? A. Economically, it means virtually nothing in the short run. The government is still running a substantial surplus and paying down debt, but because the U.S. economy is so large, the amount of money involved is like pennies."

-Glenn Kessler, Washington Post, 7/22/01

"When an individual buys a government bond, he or she has established a financial claim against the government. When the government issues a security to one of its own accounts, it hasn't purchased anything or established a claim against some other person or entity. The key point is that the Trust Funds do not hold financial resources to pay benefits – rather, they provide authority for the Treasury Department to use whatever money it has on hand to pay them. …[T]he trust funds themselves do not hold or receive money."

-David Koitz, Congressional Research Service report, 3/20/01

"The 'lockbox' is a rhetorical device designed to advance the notion that the government can put money on the shelf today and use it to pay Social Security after 2016. But again, the 'trust fund' is merely paper the government has issued to itself."

-Robert L. Bartley, Wall Street Journal, 7/23/01

"The Social Security trust fund, which is part of the federal government, holds Treasury securities – I.O.U.s from the federal government – to meet its future obligations. Treasury bills are perfectly fine investments. But when they're held in federal trust funds, Uncle Sam has the same problem redeeming them that you'd have redeeming you own I.O.U.s in your personal trust fund. [T]he government hasn't stolen Social Security money, as many people believe. The government has, indeed, borrowed the Social Security surplus – the difference between Social Security's tax revenues and its outlays. It's replaced the money with I.O.U.s, and spent it."

-Allan Sloan, Newsweek, 7/30/01

"One of the key issues Democrats are trying to get mileage out of is claiming that the tax cut is eating into the Social Security surplus. This implies, falsely, that Social Security benefits are somehow at risk. In fact, there is essentially no relationship between the size of the Social Security trust fund, or the amount of the budget surplus attributable to the excess of current Social Security revenues over benefits."

-Bruce Bartlett, The Detroit News, 7/23/01

"They [trust funds] do not consist of real economic assets that can be drawn down in the future to fund benefits. Instead, they are claims on the Treasury that, when redeemed, will have to be financed by raising taxes, borrowing from the public, or reducing benefits or other expenditures. The existence of large trust fund balances, therefore, does not, by itself, have any impact on the Government's ability to pay benefits."

Mid-Session Review Talking Points

- Produce Second Largest Surplus in History: At $158 billion, the 2001 surplus will be the second largest surplus in history. If Congress keeps total spending at the limits agreed to in the Budget Resolution, the 2002 surplus will be even larger -- $173 billion. (In recent years excessive spending has been a problem. For example, last December Congress and the Clinton Administration spent $35 billion more than the budget they agreed to. President Bush has vowed to reverse this trend and stick to the budget.)

- Protect Social Security and Medicare: The President protects the Social Security surplus in 2001 and beyond, reserving it for debt reduction as opposed to other purposes. Every dollar collected for Medicare will be spent on Medicare. The Social Security and Medicare Trust Funds are fully credited and benefits remain the same. The size of the budget surplus has no impact on benefits, the size of the trust funds, or program solvency.

- Reform Medicare and Provide Prescription Drug Coverage: The budget review projects to spend $190 billion for Medicare reform including prescription drug coverage. This is $37 billion higher than the April budget submission, in keeping with the President's Medicare reform framework announced in July.

- Pay Down Historic Amounts of Debt: The government is still on track to pay off $2 trillion of federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

- Provide for a Strong Defense: The Mid-Session Review projects additional spending of $18.4 billion on national defense in FY 2002 – $198 billion additional over 10 years.

- Foster Economic Growth: Leading economists agree that the tax cut enacted under President Bush's leadership will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy – the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses and protect Medicare and Social Security.

- Accounting for the Surplus: The FY 2002 Budget released in April projected a surplus for FY 2001 of $281 billion. The new FY 2001 surplus projection is $158 billion. The $123 billion decrease is due to four factors: 1. decreased revenue from the year long economic slowdown – $46 billion or about 2 percent of revenues; 2. FY 2001 tax rebates – $40 billion; 3. corporate tax timing shift – $28 billion; and 4. defense and farm spending – $9 billion. The decline in the surplus due to factors other than congressional action is approximately 14 percent.

- Measure Social Security Receipts Accurately: Due to the intense interest in the relative size of the Social Security surplus, the Mid-Session Review presents the most accurate figures possible.

- Economic Assumptions: The extent of the economic slowdown, which commenced in Q3 2000, is greater than most forecasters anticipated. Nonetheless, the economy seems poised to recover, with the tax cut and lower interest rates providing timely stimulus to growth. The Administration projects real GDP growth this year to be 1.7 percent and in 2002 to be 3.2 percent. From 2002 – 2011, the Administration projects real GDP growth will average 3.2 percent per year. The Administration's projections are well within the range of estimates made by prominent Wall Street and other analysts. The Administration's 3.2 percent real GDP growth projection is equal to that of the Conference Board, winner of the Annual Blue Chip Economic Forecasting Award, and below that of Merrill Lynch, which projects a 3.5 percent real GDP for 2002.

Questions & Answers about the Mid –Session Review (MSR)

Q: Is there a deficit?

No- In FY 2001, after paying higher Medicare and Social Security expenses and other bills, the surplus will be $158 billion, which will be the second largest surplus in U.S. and world history.

Q: Are we still paying off debt?

Yes- President Bush has put the nation on a track to pay off $2 trillion of the Federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

There is a limit to how quickly debt can be paid off without incurring unnecessary and exorbitant premiums to buy back outstanding bonds before their maturity date.

Q: Are you going to be raiding the Social Security Trust Fund in 2001 or 2002?

No, the level of the surplus has no impact on the Social Security trust fund. Regardless of the level of the unified budget surplus, the Social Security Trust Fund will run an estimated surplus of $158 billion in FY 2001 and $173 billion in FY 2002. Fluctuations in the surplus levels will have no impact on the Social Security surplus, the balances in the Social Security trust fund, or on Social Security spending. Even so, the President has committed to protect every dollar of the Social Security surplus and that is exactly what his budget does.

Q: Is the President raiding Medicare?

No, Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone. The President's budget fully funds the Medicare Trust Fund. And Medicare spending continues to rise, as required by law. President Bush has pledged to modernize Medicare and seeks to work with Congress to ensure that Medicare meets its obligations to seniors, including a prescription drug benefit.

Q: Was the President's tax cut too big and irresponsible– sending us back into deficit spending?

No, this is the second largest surplus in our country's history, and the fiscal condition of the country remains strong, despite an economic slowdown. Further, the tax cut will help ensure that our fiscal condition remains healthy and we continue to run large surpluses by invigorating the economy.

The real threat to the surplus is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. In FY 2001 alone, Congress busted their own budget by $34 billion.

Q: Why has there been such a large change in surplus estimates?

The difference between the April estimates and the current estimates is $123 billion. Most of this is a designed reduction in the surplus ($68 billion). President Bush proposed a tax cut plan to boost our sagging economy and return surplus dollars to the American people, as well as supplemental spending on critical defense needs. The remainder of the change is due to a dip in the economy. The best way to ensure future surpluses is to promote economic growth. President Bush's tax plan will do that, pumping needed resources into the economy when it is needed most.

Q: The MSR shows a weakening economy. In light of that, should we scale back the tax cut?

No, The tax cut is exactly the right medicine for this economy at exactly the right time. Leading economists agree that the tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy– the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses.

"The tax bill awaiting President Bush's signature delivers fiscal stimulus sooner than we've been expecting, and it packs a punch: We estimate that it will boost second-half growth by about 1 ¼ percentage points."
-Morgan Stanley Dean Witter (May 29, 2001)

"I think one point I'd like to get across as well, I think it's [the tax plan is] very positive for the long-run economy."
-Mickey Levy, Bank of America (CBS News, June 8, 2001)

"The tax cut comes at a good time and could be an important catalyst in the long-awaited recovery."
-Jeffrey Feiner, Lehman Brothers (Washington Times, June 22, 2001)

"We estimate that the tax cuts will boost growth by nearly 1 percentage point in the second half of this year."
-Robert DiClemente, Salomon Smith Barney, Inc. (Washington Post, June 2, 2001)

"For once, Congress managed to implement a contra-cyclical fiscal policy that should boost economic growth exactly when the economy needs it. The tax cut will pump about $40 billion into the economy during the third quarter and about $70 billion in FY 2002, which begins October 1. The tax cut will boost GDP growth by around ¾ of a percentage point during the second half of 2001 and about ½ of a percentage point in 2002."
-Bruce Steinberg, Merrill Lynch (June 1, 2001)

Q: Does the President's tax cut threaten Social Security and Medicare?

No, President Bush is committed to reforming and preserving Social Security and Medicare. With or without the enacted tax cut, benefits in both programs remain the same, the trust funds are protected and the long –term solvency of the programs are unchanged.

Q: Given the new numbers are Seniors' Social Security and Medicare benefits in jeopardy?

No, Seniors benefits will remain unchanged and in fact Social Security and Medicare spending will continue to grow.

Q: Why are you revising the Social Security figures?

The President is committed to preserving every penny of the Social Security surplus. Given the heightened status, real and symbolic, of the Social Security surplus it is important to measure it accurately. American companies are required to accurately report revenues, and the federal government should do it, too.

Therefore, a $5.6 billion correction to prior year estimates of Social Security payroll tax collections reflects the fact that the Social Security surplus was larger than previously thought in 1998, 1999, and 2000. Counting this revenue as though it had been paid in 2001 overstates the Social Security surplus for this year.

The real size of the Social Security surplus is $157.1 billion. Precise accuracy in determining the Social Security surplus in any year requires comparing actual revenue to actual expenditures.

Q: Is the President cutting Medicare Spending?

Medicare spending increases every year in President Bush's budget, rising from $217 billion in 2001, to $228 billion in 2002 and to $423 billion in 2011. Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone.

Q: What is happening to the Medicare Trust Fund?

The Medicare Trust Fund is fully credited under the President's budget, as required by law, rising from $ 200 billion in 2002 to $737 billion in 2011.

Q: How does the trust fund balances effect the long term solvency of the Medicare Program?

The existence of balances large or small in the Medicare Part A Trust Fund have no effect on the long-term solvency of the program.

The Federal government must do something with the money it has lent itself. It can either pay off part of the publicly-held federal debt or spend the money on other government programs. Either way the same IOU goes in the trust fund.

As the Administration works to reform Medicare it believes that the program must be considered as one entity, rather than separate parts with separate funding streams. With revenue in FY 2001 of $197 billion from payroll taxes and premiums, and outlays of $242 billion, the general Treasury must contribute more than $45 billion to make up the shortfall.

Q: What are people outside the Administration saying about trust funds?

"Does how you use the Medicare annual surplus have any effect on the solvency of the Medicare program? No....[I]rrespective of how the Congress decides to use the annual Medicare surpluses (e.g. tax cuts, spending increases, paying down the debt held by the public), trust fund solvency will not be affected in any way."
-David M. Walker, Comptroller General of the United States and former Social Security and Medicare trustee, 7/25/01

"The image of raids on the Medicare and Social Security trust funds is false. The surpluses in these trust funds reflect a temporary excess of payroll taxes over current benefits. When this occurs, the trust funds transfer their spare cash to the Treasury, which gives them 'special issue' Treasury securities in return. The trust funds get the securities regardless of how the Treasury uses the spare cash -- whether to repay publicly help federal debt or to pay the government's bills. The trust funds simply aren't being raided."
-Robert J. Samuelson, Newsweek, 7/16/01

"[Sen. Kent Conrad's] message ... is that the Bush tax cuts have so sapped the federal Treasury that they are going to require a 'Raid on Medicare.' Even by Washington standards, this is ridiculous. Despite America's near-recession, there is nothing even close to a federal deficit. This year's surplus will be somewhat north of $160 billion, the second largest in history after last year's."
-Paul A. Gigot, Wall Street Journal, 7/13/01

"Q. What can the government do with the surplus? A. It has to spend it, because the federal government can't park that much money in a bank without affecting the financial markets. Q. [I]f we spend money intended for Social Security or Medicare on other government programs, aren't we raiding those programs? A. No. Under government accounting rules, no matter if we use the Social Security and Medicare payroll taxes for debt reduction or plain old spending, the programs receive an equivalent amount in interest-earning Treasury bonds. [N]o matter how the money is used, the programs' trust funds are unaffected because, in effect, they are lending the money to the United States. Q. So does it make a difference whether we use some of the Medicare funds for spending this year? A. Economically, it means virtually nothing in the short run. The government is still running a substantial surplus and paying down debt, but because the U.S. economy is so large, the amount of money involved is like pennies."

-Glenn Kessler, Washington Post, 7/22/01

"When an individual buys a government bond, he or she has established a financial claim against the government. When the government issues a security to one of its own accounts, it hasn't purchased anything or established a claim against some other person or entity. The key point is that the Trust Funds do not hold financial resources to pay benefits – rather, they provide authority for the Treasury Department to use whatever money it has on hand to pay them. …[T]he trust funds themselves do not hold or receive money."

-David Koitz, Congressional Research Service report, 3/20/01

"The 'lockbox' is a rhetorical device designed to advance the notion that the government can put money on the shelf today and use it to pay Social Security after 2016. But again, the 'trust fund' is merely paper the government has issued to itself."

-Robert L. Bartley, Wall Street Journal, 7/23/01

"The Social Security trust fund, which is part of the federal government, holds Treasury securities – I.O.U.s from the federal government – to meet its future obligations. Treasury bills are perfectly fine investments. But when they're held in federal trust funds, Uncle Sam has the same problem redeeming them that you'd have redeeming you own I.O.U.s in your personal trust fund. [T]he government hasn't stolen Social Security money, as many people believe. The government has, indeed, borrowed the Social Security surplus – the difference between Social Security's tax revenues and its outlays. It's replaced the money with I.O.U.s, and spent it."

-Allan Sloan, Newsweek, 7/30/01

"One of the key issues Democrats are trying to get mileage out of is claiming that the tax cut is eating into the Social Security surplus. This implies, falsely, that Social Security benefits are somehow at risk. In fact, there is essentially no relationship between the size of the Social Security trust fund, or the amount of the budget surplus attributable to the excess of current Social Security revenues over benefits."

-Bruce Bartlett, The Detroit News, 7/23/01

"They [trust funds] do not consist of real economic assets that can be drawn down in the future to fund benefits. Instead, they are claims on the Treasury that, when redeemed, will have to be financed by raising taxes, borrowing from the public, or reducing benefits or other expenditures. The existence of large trust fund balances, therefore, does not, by itself, have any impact on the Government's ability to pay benefits."

-President Clinton's FY 2000 Budget, Analytical Perspectives, page 337

Mid-Session Review Talking Points

- Produce Second Largest Surplus in History: At $158 billion, the 2001 surplus will be the second largest surplus in history. If Congress keeps total spending at the limits agreed to in the Budget Resolution, the 2002 surplus will be even larger -- $173 billion. (In recent years excessive spending has been a problem. For example, last December Congress and the Clinton Administration spent $35 billion more than the budget they agreed to. President Bush has vowed to reverse this trend and stick to the budget.)

- Protect Social Security and Medicare: The President protects the Social Security surplus in 2001 and beyond, reserving it for debt reduction as opposed to other purposes. Every dollar collected for Medicare will be spent on Medicare. The Social Security and Medicare Trust Funds are fully credited and benefits remain the same. The size of the budget surplus has no impact on benefits, the size of the trust funds, or program solvency.

- Reform Medicare and Provide Prescription Drug Coverage: The budget review projects to spend $190 billion for Medicare reform including prescription drug coverage. This is $37 billion higher than the April budget submission, in keeping with the President's Medicare reform framework announced in July.

- Pay Down Historic Amounts of Debt: The government is still on track to pay off $2 trillion of federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

- Provide for a Strong Defense: The Mid-Session Review projects additional spending of $18.4 billion on national defense in FY 2002 – $198 billion additional over 10 years.

- Foster Economic Growth: Leading economists agree that the tax cut enacted under President Bush's leadership will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy – the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses and protect Medicare and Social Security.

- Accounting for the Surplus: The FY 2002 Budget released in April projected a surplus for FY 2001 of $281 billion. The new FY 2001 surplus projection is $158 billion. The $123 billion decrease is due to four factors: 1. decreased revenue from the year long economic slowdown – $46 billion or about 2 percent of revenues; 2. FY 2001 tax rebates – $40 billion; 3. corporate tax timing shift – $28 billion; and 4. defense and farm spending – $9 billion. The decline in the surplus due to factors other than congressional action is approximately 14 percent.

- Measure Social Security Receipts Accurately: Due to the intense interest in the relative size of the Social Security surplus, the Mid-Session Review presents the most accurate figures possible.

- Economic Assumptions: The extent of the economic slowdown, which commenced in Q3 2000, is greater than most forecasters anticipated. Nonetheless, the economy seems poised to recover, with the tax cut and lower interest rates providing timely stimulus to growth. The Administration projects real GDP growth this year to be 1.7 percent and in 2002 to be 3.2 percent. From 2002 – 2011, the Administration projects real GDP growth will average 3.2 percent per year. The Administration's projections are well within the range of estimates made by prominent Wall Street and other analysts. The Administration's 3.2 percent real GDP growth projection is equal to that of the Conference Board, winner of the Annual Blue Chip Economic Forecasting Award, and below that of Merrill Lynch, which projects a 3.5 percent real GDP for 2002.

Questions & Answers about the Mid –Session Review (MSR)

Q: Is there a deficit?

No- In FY 2001, after paying higher Medicare and Social Security expenses and other bills, the surplus will be $158 billion, which will be the second largest surplus in U.S. and world history.

Q: Are we still paying off debt?

Yes- President Bush has put the nation on a track to pay off $2 trillion of the Federal debt over the next ten years, which is the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring unnecessary premiums.

There is a limit to how quickly debt can be paid off without incurring unnecessary and exorbitant premiums to buy back outstanding bonds before their maturity date.

Q: Are you going to be raiding the Social Security Trust Fund in 2001 or 2002?

No, the level of the surplus has no impact on the Social Security trust fund. Regardless of the level of the unified budget surplus, the Social Security Trust Fund will run an estimated surplus of $158 billion in FY 2001 and $173 billion in FY 2002. Fluctuations in the surplus levels will have no impact on the Social Security surplus, the balances in the Social Security trust fund, or on Social Security spending. Even so, the President has committed to protect every dollar of the Social Security surplus and that is exactly what his budget does.

Q: Is the President raiding Medicare?

No, Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone. The President's budget fully funds the Medicare Trust Fund. And Medicare spending continues to rise, as required by law. President Bush has pledged to modernize Medicare and seeks to work with Congress to ensure that Medicare meets its obligations to seniors, including a prescription drug benefit.

Q: Was the President's tax cut too big and irresponsible– sending us back into deficit spending?

No, this is the second largest surplus in our country's history, and the fiscal condition of the country remains strong, despite an economic slowdown. Further, the tax cut will help ensure that our fiscal condition remains healthy and we continue to run large surpluses by invigorating the economy.

The real threat to the surplus is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. In FY 2001 alone, Congress busted their own budget by $34 billion.

Q: Why has there been such a large change in surplus estimates?

The difference between the April estimates and the current estimates is $123 billion. Most of this is a designed reduction in the surplus ($68 billion). President Bush proposed a tax cut plan to boost our sagging economy and return surplus dollars to the American people, as well as supplemental spending on critical defense needs. The remainder of the change is due to a dip in the economy. The best way to ensure future surpluses is to promote economic growth. President Bush's tax plan will do that, pumping needed resources into the economy when it is needed most.

Q: The MSR shows a weakening economy. In light of that, should we scale back the tax cut?

No, The tax cut is exactly the right medicine for this economy at exactly the right time. Leading economists agree that the tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy– the most important thing we can do to ensure future surpluses.

"The tax bill awaiting President Bush's signature delivers fiscal stimulus sooner than we've been expecting, and it packs a punch: We estimate that it will boost second-half growth by about 1 ¼ percentage points."
-Morgan Stanley Dean Witter (May 29, 2001)

"I think one point I'd like to get across as well, I think it's [the tax plan is] very positive for the long-run economy."
-Mickey Levy, Bank of America (CBS News, June 8, 2001)

"The tax cut comes at a good time and could be an important catalyst in the long-awaited recovery."
-Jeffrey Feiner, Lehman Brothers (Washington Times, June 22, 2001)

"We estimate that the tax cuts will boost growth by nearly 1 percentage point in the second half of this year."
-Robert DiClemente, Salomon Smith Barney, Inc. (Washington Post, June 2, 2001)

"For once, Congress managed to implement a contra-cyclical fiscal policy that should boost economic growth exactly when the economy needs it. The tax cut will pump about $40 billion into the economy during the third quarter and about $70 billion in FY 2002, which begins October 1. The tax cut will boost GDP growth by around ¾ of a percentage point during the second half of 2001 and about ½ of a percentage point in 2002."
-Bruce Steinberg, Merrill Lynch (June 1, 2001)

Q: Does the President's tax cut threaten Social Security and Medicare?

No, President Bush is committed to reforming and preserving Social Security and Medicare. With or without the enacted tax cut, benefits in both programs remain the same, the trust funds are protected and the long –term solvency of the programs are unchanged.

Q: Given the new numbers are Seniors' Social Security and Medicare benefits in jeopardy?

No, Seniors benefits will remain unchanged and in fact Social Security and Medicare spending will continue to grow.

Q: Why are you revising the Social Security figures?

The President is committed to preserving every penny of the Social Security surplus. Given the heightened status, real and symbolic, of the Social Security surplus it is important to measure it accurately. American companies are required to accurately report revenues, and the federal government should do it, too.

Therefore, a $5.6 billion correction to prior year estimates of Social Security payroll tax collections reflects the fact that the Social Security surplus was larger than previously thought in 1998, 1999, and 2000. Counting this revenue as though it had been paid in 2001 overstates the Social Security surplus for this year.

The real size of the Social Security surplus is $157.1 billion. Precise accuracy in determining the Social Security surplus in any year requires comparing actual revenue to actual expenditures.

Q: Is the President cutting Medicare Spending?

Medicare spending increases every year in President Bush's budget, rising from $217 billion in 2001, to $228 billion in 2002 and to $423 billion in 2011. Under the President's budget every penny of Medicare is spent on Medicare and Medicare alone.

Q: What is happening to the Medicare Trust Fund?

The Medicare Trust Fund is fully credited under the President's budget, as required by law, rising from $ 200 billion in 2002 to $737 billion in 2011.

Q: How does the trust fund balances effect the long term solvency of the Medicare Program?

The existence of balances large or small in the Medicare Part A Trust Fund have no effect on the long-term solvency of the program.

The Federal government must do something with the money it has lent itself. It can either pay off part of the publicly-held federal debt or spend the money on other government programs. Either way the same IOU goes in the trust fund.

As the Administration works to reform Medicare it believes that the program must be considered as one entity, rather than separate parts with separate funding streams. With revenue in FY 2001 of $197 billion from payroll taxes and premiums, and outlays of $242 billion, the general Treasury must contribute more than $45 billion to make up the shortfall.

Q: What are people outside the Administration saying about trust funds?

"Does how you use the Medicare annual surplus have any effect on the solvency of the Medicare program? No....[I]rrespective of how the Congress decides to use the annual Medicare surpluses (e.g. tax cuts, spending increases, paying down the debt held by the public), trust fund solvency will not be affected in any way."
-David M. Walker, Comptroller General of the United States and former Social Security and Medicare trustee, 7/25/01

"The image of raids on the Medicare and Social Security trust funds is false. The surpluses in these trust funds reflect a temporary excess of payroll taxes over current benefits. When this occurs, the trust funds transfer their spare cash to the Treasury, which gives them 'special issue' Treasury securities in return. The trust funds get the securities regardless of how the Treasury uses the spare cash -- whether to repay publicly help federal debt or to pay the government's bills. The trust funds simply aren't being raided."
-Robert J. Samuelson, Newsweek, 7/16/01

"[Sen. Kent Conrad's] message ... is that the Bush tax cuts have so sapped the federal Treasury that they are going to require a 'Raid on Medicare.' Even by Washington standards, this is ridiculous. Despite America's near-recession, there is nothing even close to a federal deficit. This year's surplus will be somewhat north of $160 billion, the second largest in history after last year's."
-Paul A. Gigot, Wall Street Journal, 7/13/01

"Q. What can the government do with the surplus? A. It has to spend it, because the federal government can't park that much money in a bank without affecting the financial markets. Q. [I]f we spend money intended for Social Security or Medicare on other government programs, aren't we raiding those programs? A. No. Under government accounting rules, no matter if we use the Social Security and Medicare payroll taxes for debt reduction or plain old spending, the programs receive an equivalent amount in interest-earning Treasury bonds. [N]o matter how the money is used, the programs' trust funds are unaffected because, in effect, they are lending the money to the United States. Q. So does it make a difference whether we use some of the Medicare funds for spending this year? A. Economically, it means virtually nothing in the short run. The government is still running a substantial surplus and paying down debt, but because the U.S. economy is so large, the amount of money involved is like pennies."

-Glenn Kessler, Washington Post, 7/22/01

"When an individual buys a government bond, he or she has established a financial claim against the government. When the government issues a security to one of its own accounts, it hasn't purchased anything or established a claim against some other person or entity. The key point is that the Trust Funds do not hold financial resources to pay benefits – rather, they provide authority for the Treasury Department to use whatever money it has on hand to pay them. …[T]he trust funds themselves do not hold or receive money."

-David Koitz, Congressional Research Service report, 3/20/01

"The 'lockbox' is a rhetorical device designed to advance the notion that the government can put money on the shelf today and use it to pay Social Security after 2016. But again, the 'trust fund' is merely paper the government has issued to itself."

-Robert L. Bartley, Wall Street Journal, 7/23/01

"The Social Security trust fund, which is part of the federal government, holds Treasury securities – I.O.U.s from the federal government – to meet its future obligations. Treasury bills are perfectly fine investments. But when they're held in federal trust funds, Uncle Sam has the same problem redeeming them that you'd have redeeming you own I.O.U.s in your personal trust fund. [T]he government hasn't stolen Social Security money, as many people believe. The government has, indeed, borrowed the Social Security surplus – the difference between Social Security's tax revenues and its outlays. It's replaced the money with I.O.U.s, and spent it."

-Allan Sloan, Newsweek, 7/30/01

"One of the key issues Democrats are trying to get mileage out of is claiming that the tax cut is eating into the Social Security surplus. This implies, falsely, that Social Security benefits are somehow at risk. In fact, there is essentially no relationship between the size of the Social Security trust fund, or the amount of the budget surplus attributable to the excess of current Social Security revenues over benefits."

-Bruce Bartlett, The Detroit News, 7/23/01

"They [trust funds] do not consist of real economic assets that can be drawn down in the future to fund benefits. Instead, they are claims on the Treasury that, when redeemed, will have to be financed by raising taxes, borrowing from the public, or reducing benefits or other expenditures. The existence of large trust fund balances, therefore, does not, by itself, have any impact on the Government's ability to pay benefits."

Here's how to respond, courtesy of OMB:

MSR,s Growth for 2002 is Reasonable

Virtually all forecasters expect faster growth later this year and during 2002 as a result of the boost to household after-tax incomes from the tax cuts and lower energy prices, the turnaround in business capital spending from lower borrowing costs, and the rebuilding of inventories once the current excess stocks are worked off.

As is often the case around turning points, there is a divergence of views about how strong growth will be next year.

Among the forecasters comprising the Blue Chip Economic Indicators panel, the top 10 projections for growth next year range from 3.2 percent to 4.0

percent. The MSR,s projection of 3.2 percent is at the bottom of this range. (See attached table.)

The two most recent winners of the coveted Blue Chip Economic Forecasting Award, the Conference Board and Evans, Carroll & Associates, have growth next year of 3.2 percent and 3.5 percent, respectively.

The average Blue Chip forecast is for 2.8 percent growth next year. Given the uncertainties surrounding any forecast -- and the average miss of the Blue Chip panel of 1.1 percentage points during the past 20 years -- the Administration,s 3.2 percent growth is well within the range of reasonable forecasts.

The funny thing about congressional votes and public statements is they don't go away. Many of those who are today attacking the President for the tax cut (1) voted against repealing it, (2) voted to make it even larger than current law, and (3) have spoken on the record in favor of it. Living proof that for some, all politics is vocal.

Attached are talking points -- read them first. I have also attached background research material on some interesting Senate votes and some interesting congressional quotes to help you understand why the President's partisan opponents are now divided against themselves while the President talks about his bipartisan priorities for the American people.

The Record Says It Best

Those pesky votes & public statements prove all politics is vocal

☑ On July 10, the Senate held a vote on an amendment offered by Democrat Senator Ernest Hollings to repeal the immediate tax rebates. The amendment failed 94-3 – meaning senators like Daschle, Conrad, Kennedy, Byrd, Boxer and Feinstein voted against repealing the tax rebates. (Senate Vote #223 – See attached)

☑ On April 5, Democrat Senator Ernest Hollings offered an amendment to increase the amount of tax relief in 2001 to $85 billion – even larger than the amount that ultimately became law. The amendment passed 94-6 – meaning Senators like Daschle, Conrad, Clinton, Kennedy, Feinstein and Boxer voted for even more tax relief than is now the law of the land (Senate Vote is attached)

A Cross Section of Democrats Who Agree with President Bush on Tax Relief

- Democrat Senator Zell Miller says the tax cut actually "should have been larger and kicked in sooner."
- Democrat Senator Max Baucus supports the tax cut, he has said he doesn't think Congress should revisit it, and the Montana Democrat Party has even run ads on his behalf thanking Senator Baucus for supporting the tax cut.
- Democrat Senator Tim Johnson ran a South Dakota radio ad letting families know about their refunds and praising the virtues of the tax cut.
- Democrat Senator Blanche Lincoln praises the tax cut and expresses optimism that the economy will soon rebound.
- Democrat Rep. Mike Ross says his constituents deserved the tax cut. Ross says his constituents are telling him just how important the tax cut is as they prepare to send their kids back to school.
- Democrat Senator Dianne Feinstein on July 1 on CNN talked about the economic benefits of the tax cut, saying she hoped the stimulus portion of the tax cut would move forward to help people who are having trouble making ends meet.
- Democrat Rep. Dennis Moore told the Kansas City Star that he doesn't think Congress should revisit the tax cut. Moore also said, "I want the President to stick with his promise to be fiscally responsible, and I'll be backing him up if he does."
- Democrat Senator John Breaux praises the tax cut.
- Democrat Senator Jean Carnahan says the tax cut will benefit the American people.
- Democrat Senator Max Cleland thinks the tax cut was important to help get our economy moving again.
- Democrat Senator Herb Kohl extolled the virtues of the tax cut for "thousands of Wisconsin families with children."
- Democrat Senator Bob Toricelli says Congress had an obligation to return the money to taxpayers who had overpaid their government.

(Attached are the actual quotes from the above Democrats)

BUDGET RESOLUTION/Increase in the Tax-Cut Stimulus Package

SUBJECT:

House Concurrent Budget Resolution for fiscal years 2002-2011 . . . H.Con. Res. 83. Hollings amendment No.
225 to the Domenici substitute amendment No. 170.

AMENDMENT AGREED TO, 94-6

SYNOPSIS:

H.Con. Res. 83, the House Concurrent Budget Resolution for fiscal years 2002-2011, will set total spending, revenues, debt reduction, and tax relief over the next 10 years.

The Domenici substitute amendment: would cut the debt held by the public (money that the Government owes to creditors other than itself) by $2.395 trillion over the next 10 years; would assume $29.3 billion in tax relief for fiscal year (FY) 2002 and $1.611 trillion over the next 10 years (which would be sufficient relief to reduce and restructure marginal income tax rates, double the child credit, reduce the marriage penalty, eliminate the estate tax (death tax), expand the charitable deduction to non- itemizers, make permanent the research and experimentation tax credit, expand health insurance coverage, raise the adoption credit from $5,000 to $7,500 and make it permanent, expand educational opportunities, and provide energy and conservation tax incentives);
would increase appropriated programs by 4 percent over FY 2001 enacted levels; would fully fund Medicare;

would provide an additional $153.0 billion reserve fund for FYs 2002-2011 for Medicare reform and prescription drug benefits; would save all the Social Security trust fund surpluses over the next 10 years for debt reduction; would ensure a non-Social Security budget surplus for the fourth year in a row; would provide a $60 billion FY 2001 economic tax-cut stimulus package; would end the misuse of advance appropriations; and would leave an $845.7 billion, on-budget surplus ($453.1 billion excluding Medicare Part A funds), which could be used for tax relief, defense spending, agriculture relief, and other purposes.

The Hollings amendment would increase the amount of immediate tax relief that the Domenici amendment would make available, using FY2001 surplus funds, from $60 billion to $85 billion.

Those favoring the amendment contended:

Most economists agree that when an economy starts to slide, a recession can be averted if the government primes the economy quickly with cash. Our economy is in a slide right now; many economists are recommending a cash stimulus package of approximately 1 percent of GDP, or $100 billion. By lucky coincidence, we have nearly that amount ($85 billion) available right now in surplus funds from FY 2001 (we had $95 billion when we started consideration of this resolution, but we have committed about $10 billion for other purposes since that time). The resolution before us suggests $60 billion for a stimulus package; we think that amount is like half a haircut. The Hollings amendment would not contribute all the additional amount needed, but it would get us much closer. How we end up structuring the stimulus tax relief package can be decided later; the sponsor of this amendment favors the same amount of relief being given to all tax filers, regardless even of whether they had any tax liability; other Senators have other preferences. For now, what is important is that we commit to giving $85 billion in immediate tax relief. We are delighted to vote in favor of this amendment.

No arguments were expressed in opposition to the amendment.

Despite Attacks Of The Partisan Democrat Leadership. . .
President Bush's Tax Cut
Is Still Bipartisan

On May 26, 2001, the U.S. Congress passed President Bush's tax relief package with solid bipartisan support from 12 Democrat Senators and 28 Democrat Representatives. As Democrat leaders Daschle and Gephardt continue to criticize the tax cut, they continue to undermine the members of their own party who supported common-sense, responsible tax relief for working Americans:

Senator Zell Miller, Georgia

Senator Miller Expressed His Emphatic And Continued Support For The Bush Tax Cut. "It was and is a responsible tax cut. If anything, it should have been larger and kicked in sooner. The tax cut does not get into the Medicare and Social Security trust funds, as some protest. What would eat into them is hog-wild spending on other items. That's where a problem could arise. Let's pass the defense and education appropriations bills as well as the $300 million prescription drug benefit as soon as possible, and then let's go on a fast the likes of which have not been seen since Mohatmas Ghandi." (Senator Miller, Press Release, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Miller Hailed The Taxpayer Relief Provided By The Tax Cut. "It's been a long and bumpy road since that January day when Senator Phil Gramm (R-Texas) and I introduced the President's tax cut bill in the Senate. Our goal was to give hard-working American taxpayers some relief, and, at the same time, pay down the national debt and protect the Medicare and Social Security trust funds. That is exactly what this bill does, and I am proud to have been a part of this historic achievement. I have said since the beginning of this debate that our taxpayers have overpaid the government and they deserve some of their money back. In the end, we looked at this huge surplus and we looked at these high taxes that all Americans are paying and we concluded that it is time - finally - to return to sender." (Senator Miller, Press Release, May 26, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Max Baucus, Montana

Senator Baucus Maintains His Support For The Tax Cut. "Finance Chair Max Baucus (D-Mont.), however, laughed at the idea [to revisit the tax cut], and insisted that he has no plans to reevaluate President Bush's $1.3 trillion tax cut before the end of the 107th Congress." ("From The Trail," The Hill, August 8, 2001)

The Montana Democrat Party Even Ran A Television Advertisement Praising Senator Max Baucus' Support For The Tax Cut. "Thanks to Senator Baucus' bipartisan approach and tireless leadership, the tax cut is better for working families right here in Montana. . . . A bipartisan tax cut for working families; an independent leader, helping Montana work its way back: Max Baucus. Keep up the fight." (Advertisement, quoted in "Ads Tout Baucus' Role In Tax Cut," The Associated Press, June 14, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Baucus Praised The Tax Cut As "Very Good" And Took Pride In His Role In Passing It. "This is a very good tax cut. It's a very large tax cut for the American people. It provides additional benefits for people who want to save. It provides additional benefits for families to send their kids to school. It will give about 11 million children help that they otherwise would not receive. It gives a better reduction to lower-income, middle-income taxpayers than they otherwise would receive. This is a very good bill, and I'm very proud of it." (Sen. Baucus, Press Conference, May 26, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Johnson Ran A South Dakota Radio Advertisement Touting His Support For The Tax Rebate Checks. "Hi, this is Tim Johnson. Starting next week, most South Dakota families are going to receive something a bit unusual from the federal government. A check. You'll be receiving a tax rebate of between $300 and $600. It won't make you rich, but it will help families make ends meet. It's the first installment of a tax cut I helped pass in Congress." (Radio Advertisement, quoted on CNN's "Inside Politics," July 23, 2001)

Senator Johnson Said The Bipartisan Tax Cut Would Give Significant Relief To "South Dakota's Hard-Working Families." "From the beginning of this debate, I have stated my strong support for a significant tax cut for South Dakota's hard working families. They need, and deserve, a reduction in their taxes. This bipartisan bill, while not perfect, is a step in that direction. . . . This bipartisan tax cut provides significant tax relief and we still have greater resources to provide for the important priorities facing South Dakota, like shoring up Social Security and Medicare, improving education, assisting agriculture, and improving health care for our veterans. . . ." (Senator Johnson, Press Release, May 23, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Blanche Lincoln, Arkansas

Senator Blanche Lincoln Is Supporting Her Vote To Pass Tax Relief And Is

Expressing Confidence That The Economy Will Rebound. "U.S. Sen. Blanche Lincoln and Rep. Mike Ross of Arkansas find themselves out of step with fellow Democrats this week as they defend voting for a tax cut that national party officials call reckless. . . . [Lincoln] expressed optimism that the economy would soon rebound. 'You have to keep in perspective that the economy is definitely going to ebb and flow,' Lincoln said. Her constituents, she said, 'are not panicking.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Lincoln Took Pride In Influencing The Final Version Of The Bipartisan Tax Bill. "The tax bill President Bush signed in June was the largest tax relief package in 20 years. In all the commentary surrounding this package, one story that hasn't been told is the role women in Congress played in developing the final bill. As a new member of the Senate Finance Committee, I had the opportunity to exert a good deal of influence on the final tax bill. The end result is that we crafted a bipartisan compromise on tax relief with numerous family-friendly provisions that will benefit a larger number of taxpayers, at a lower cost, than the president's original proposal would have." (Blanche Lincoln, "A Woman's Touch On The Tax Bill," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 4, 2001)(emphasis added)

Representative Mike Ross, Arkansas

Representative Ross Said The Hard-Working People Of Arkansas Deserved A Tax Cut. "U.S. Sen. Blanche Lincoln and Rep. Mike Ross of Arkansas find themselves out of step with fellow Democrats this week as they defend voting for a tax cut that national party officials call reckless. 'I think the hard-working people of south Arkansas deserved a tax cut,' Ross said, epitomizing their attitude. 'I have had people who have received the [rebate] checks to say it was very helpful as they prepared to send their kids back to school.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Representative Ross Is Optimistic The Economy Will Rebound. "But Lincoln and Ross - crisscrossing Arkansas during Congress' August break - said a slumping economy, not the tax cut, is the reason for the bad news. And they expressed optimism that the economy would soon rebound. . . . Ross said he also sensed long-range optimism about the economy. Both denied feeling estranged from their party. But they weren't shy about distancing themselves from some Democratic statements. Ross said, 'My party didn't send me to the United States Congress. The people of the 4th Congressional District sent me to the United States Congress. I'm more optimistic than some members of my party about the direction of the country, and I don't apologize for that.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Dianne Feinstein, California

Senator Feinstein Viewed The Tax Cut As A Helpful Economic Stimulus. "The first time - economic forecasters are predicting a downturn in California now. That's new. The energy crisis certainly plays a role in it. The hope is that the part of the tax cut that's meant to be a stimulus can move forward and offset some of the increased costs that people are having in California and that that will be helpful." (Senator Feinstein, CNN's "Late Edition With Wolf Blitzer," July 1, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Feinstein Supported The Tax Cut Because She Believed The Government Should Give Money Back To The People. "I rise today in support of the reconciliation conference report currently pending before the Senate. I do so for a simple reason: I strongly believe that when the government is in a position to be able to return money to the American taxpayers, we should." (Senator Dianne Feinstein, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Representative Dennis Moore, Kansas

Representative Moore Said He Is Not Ready To Scale Back The Tax Cut. "Like Moore in the House, a dozen Democrats in the Senate joined Republicans in supporting the tax cuts. . . . Moore said he was not yet ready to scale back those cuts. He did pledge to stick to congressional budget limits and vote against any appropriation that might require tapping into Social Security or Medicare surpluses - namely, Bush's proposal to boost missile defense. 'I want the president to stick with his promise to be fiscally responsible,' Moore said, 'and I'll be backing him up if he does.'" (Rick Montgomery, "President Spars With Critics Over Tax Cut's Effects," The Kansas City Star, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator John Breaux, Louisiana

Senator Breaux Hailed The Tax Bill As Providing Balanced Relief. "I think the people who pay the most taxes in the country get relief. That's important. But people who need the most help in this country also get help. That's why I think the bill is balanced. I think the role that the centrist coalition played in insisting on the Senate provisions being part of this package was a very important role. It['s] helping us immensely in the conference to bring back a package that essentially contains all the features of the Senate-passed bill, and I think that's particularly important." (Sen. John Breaux, Press Conference, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Jean Carnahan, Missouri

Senator Carnahan Said The Bush Tax Cut Will Benefit The American People. "Sen. Jean Carnahan, D-Mo., said that while the bill wasn't perfect, it offers important benefits to Missourians of every age, from students to married couples to retirees. . . . 'No one senator can expect a piece of legislation to reflect all of his or her personal priorities,' she wrote in a column offered to newspapers Wednesday, 'but in the end, the tax cut passed by Congress represents a reasonable compromise that will benefit the American people.'" (Libby Quaid, "Tax Cuts: What's In It For Missouri?" The Associated Press, June 7, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Carnahan Heralded Her "Work With The Centrists" In Passing The Tax Bill. "I work with the centrists. There was 12 of us who thought, 'We can improve this. If we stick together, we can make this a better package. We'll be able to have a substantial tax cut, but we'll still be able to address our priorities, like defense and agriculture and--and education.' So that's what we did and I think it made a difference. I--I really believe the centrists are going to make the difference in this--in this Congress." (Senator Carnahan, CBS' "The Early Show," June 4, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Max Cleland, Georgia

Senator Max Cleland Said The Tax Cut Struck The Best Balance Between Tax Relief And Spending Priorities. "'With questions about the future direction of our economy and the very large projected budget surpluses for the next ten years, it is appropriate and necessary for the Congress to enact substantial tax relief at this time,' said Senator Cleland. 'And while, like most pieces of legislation, this tax bill is far from perfect, on balance I think it strikes the best balance this Congress can achieve between the President's tax cut priorities and the need to preserve our ability to address other critical national needs, including education and Social Security.'" (Senator Cleland, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Herb Kohl, Wisconsin

Senator Kohl Understood That His Vote For Tax Relief Helped Hard-Working Families In Wisconsin. "Thousands of Wisconsin families with children will benefit from the refundable child tax credit expansion included in this bill. Parents will be better able to save for their children's college educations and for their own retirement under proposals contained in this bill. Employer and employees will benefit from the child care tax credit for businesses. And the hard working families whose productivity has driven our solid economy will see tax dollars returned to them." (Senator Kohl, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Robert Torricelli, New Jersey

Senator Torricelli Said Congress Had An Obligation To Return Money To Taxpayers. "Torricelli said Congress had 'an obligation' to return money to taxpayers now that years of deficits have given way to a federal surplus. 'No one ever intended that a school teacher or a police officer pay 28 percent to the federal government, but that was the reality," he said." (Laurence Arnold, "Torricelli, Corzine Politely Air Differences On Tax Cut," The Associated Press, July 11, 2001)

Here's how to respond, courtesy of OMB:

MSR,s Growth for 2002 is Reasonable

Virtually all forecasters expect faster growth later this year and during 2002 as a result of the boost to household after-tax incomes from the tax cuts and lower energy prices, the turnaround in business capital spending from lower borrowing costs, and the rebuilding of inventories once the current excess stocks are worked off.

As is often the case around turning points, there is a divergence of views about how strong growth will be next year.

Among the forecasters comprising the Blue Chip Economic Indicators panel, the top 10 projections for growth next year range from 3.2 percent to 4.0 percent. The MSR,s projection of 3.2 percent is at the bottom of this range. (See attached table.)

The two most recent winners of the coveted Blue Chip Economic Forecasting Award, the Conference Board and Evans, Carroll & Associates, have growth next year of 3.2 percent and 3.5 percent, respectively.

The average Blue Chip forecast is for 2.8 percent growth next year. Given the uncertainties surrounding any forecast -- and the average miss of the Blue Chip panel of 1.1 percentage points during the past 20 years -- the Administration,s 3.2 percent growth is well within the range of reasonable forecasts.

Here's how to respond, courtesy of OMB:

MSR,s Growth for 2002 is Reasonable

Virtually all forecasters expect faster growth later this year and during 2002 as a result of the boost to household after-tax incomes from the tax cuts and lower energy prices, the turnaround in business capital spending from lower borrowing costs, and the rebuilding of inventories once the current excess stocks are worked off.

As is often the case around turning points, there is a divergence of views about how strong growth will be next year.

Among the forecasters comprising the Blue Chip Economic Indicators panel, the top 10 projections for growth next year range from 3.2 percent to 4.0 percent. The MSR,s projection of 3.2 percent is at the bottom of this range. (See attached table.)

The two most recent winners of the coveted Blue Chip Economic Forecasting Award, the Conference Board and Evans, Carroll & Associates, have growth next year of 3.2 percent and 3.5 percent, respectively.

The average Blue Chip forecast is for 2.8 percent growth next year. Given the uncertainties surrounding any forecast -- and the average miss of the Blue Chip panel of 1.1 percentage points during the past 20 years -- the Administration,s 3.2 percent growth is well within the range of reasonable forecasts.

President Bush Takes Immediate Action to Spur America's Economy

From his first days in office President Bush has taken immediate action to jump-start the lagging economy he inherited by cutting taxes, paying off record amounts of debt and pursuing free trade policies to open the world's markets to America's goods and services.

☑ Cutting taxes to give an immediate stimulus to our lagging economy.

- The best way to guarantee future surpluses is to guarantee future economic growth.
- Immediate tax rebates give Americans money when they need it most – NOW.
- Immediate tax rebates will help spur consumer spending to give our economy a jump-start. The rebates will also help boost consumer confidence.
- Leading economists agree that the President's tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy.

☑ Paying off record amounts of debt.

- Debt reduction of at least $2 trillion over the next 10 years – the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring wasteful premiums.
- Paying down debt helps lower interest rates
- Puts America on a stronger economic footing for the long term

☑ Pursuing free trade policies that will create new jobs and allow Americans to sell more of their goods and services to the world.

- President Bush has done all this -- and more -- and still the government has the 2nd largest surplus in history -- $158 billion.

- In the first year of Bill Clinton's presidency, he raised taxes and still had a $255 billion deficit. In the first year of his presidency, President George Bush has cut taxes to help our economy and the government today has the 2nd largest surplus in history of $158 billion, and next year will be even bigger at $173 billion.

- The biggest threat to our economy is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. As the final phase of the budget process begins the President will protect taxpayers, seniors and our men and women in uniform from this wasteful spending.

- Many Democrats agree with the President's views on the economy. Just yesterday, Democrat Senator Blanche Lincoln and Democrat Rep. Mike Ross told the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette that they both support the tax cut, and that the slumping economy, not the tax cut, is the reason the surplus levels have dropped.

President Bush Takes Immediate Action to Spur America's Economy

From his first days in office President Bush has taken immediate action to jump-start the lagging economy he inherited by cutting taxes, paying off record amounts of debt and pursuing free trade policies to open the world's markets to America's goods and services.

☑ Cutting taxes to give an immediate stimulus to our lagging economy.

- The best way to guarantee future surpluses is to guarantee future economic growth.
- Immediate tax rebates give Americans money when they need it most – NOW.
- Immediate tax rebates will help spur consumer spending to give our economy a jump-start. The rebates will also help boost consumer confidence.
- Leading economists agree that the President's tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy.

☑ Paying off record amounts of debt.

- Debt reduction of at least $2 trillion over the next 10 years – the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring wasteful premiums.
- Paying down debt helps lower interest rates
- Puts America on a stronger economic footing for the long term

☑ Pursuing free trade policies that will create new jobs and allow Americans to sell more of their goods and services to the world.

- President Bush has done all this -- and more -- and still the government has the 2nd largest surplus in history -- $158 billion.

- In the first year of Bill Clinton's presidency, he raised taxes and still had a $255 billion deficit. In the first year of his presidency, President George Bush has cut taxes to help our economy and the government today has the 2nd largest surplus in history of $158 billion, and next year will be even bigger at $173 billion.

- The biggest threat to our economy is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. As the final phase of the budget process begins the President will protect taxpayers, seniors and our men and women in uniform from this wasteful spending.

- Many Democrats agree with the President's views on the economy. Just yesterday, Democrat Senator Blanche Lincoln and Democrat Rep. Mike Ross told the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette that they both support the tax cut, and that the slumping economy, not the tax cut, is the reason the surplus levels have dropped.

President Bush Takes Immediate Action to Spur America's Economy

From his first days in office President Bush has taken immediate action to jump-start the lagging economy he inherited by cutting taxes, paying off record amounts of debt and pursuing free trade policies to open the world's markets to America's goods and services.

☑ Cutting taxes to give an immediate stimulus to our lagging economy.

- The best way to guarantee future surpluses is to guarantee future economic growth.
- Immediate tax rebates give Americans money when they need it most – NOW.
- Immediate tax rebates will help spur consumer spending to give our economy a jump-start. The rebates will also help boost consumer confidence.
- Leading economists agree that the President's tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy.

☑ Paying off record amounts of debt.

- Debt reduction of at least $2 trillion over the next 10 years – the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring wasteful premiums.
- Paying down debt helps lower interest rates
- Puts America on a stronger economic footing for the long term

☑ Pursuing free trade policies that will create new jobs and allow Americans to sell more of their goods and services to the world.

- President Bush has done all this -- and more -- and still the government has the 2nd largest surplus in history -- $158 billion.

- In the first year of Bill Clinton's presidency, he raised taxes and still had a $255 billion deficit. In the first year of his presidency, President George Bush has cut taxes to help our economy and the government today has the 2nd largest surplus in history of $158 billion, and next year will be even bigger at $173 billion.

- The biggest threat to our economy is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. As the final phase of the budget process begins the President will protect taxpayers, seniors and our men and women in uniform from this wasteful spending.

- Many Democrats agree with the President's views on the economy. Just yesterday, Democrat Senator Blanche Lincoln and Democrat Rep. Mike Ross told the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette that they both support the tax cut, and that the slumping economy, not the tax cut, is the reason the surplus levels have dropped.

President Bush Takes Immediate Action to Spur America's Economy

From his first days in office President Bush has taken immediate action to jump-start the lagging economy he inherited by cutting taxes, paying off record amounts of debt and pursuing free trade policies to open the world's markets to America's goods and services.

☑ Cutting taxes to give an immediate stimulus to our lagging economy.

- The best way to guarantee future surpluses is to guarantee future economic growth.
- Immediate tax rebates give Americans money when they need it most – NOW.
- Immediate tax rebates will help spur consumer spending to give our economy a jump-start. The rebates will also help boost consumer confidence.
- Leading economists agree that the President's tax cut will boost economic growth and protect the long-term health of our economy.

☑ Paying off record amounts of debt.

- Debt reduction of at least $2 trillion over the next 10 years – the most ever and the maximum amount possible without incurring wasteful premiums.
- Paying down debt helps lower interest rates
- Puts America on a stronger economic footing for the long term

☑ Pursuing free trade policies that will create new jobs and allow Americans to sell more of their goods and services to the world.

- President Bush has done all this -- and more -- and still the government has the 2nd largest surplus in history -- $158 billion.

- In the first year of Bill Clinton's presidency, he raised taxes and still had a $255 billion deficit. In the first year of his presidency, President George Bush has cut taxes to help our economy and the government today has the 2nd largest surplus in history of $158 billion, and next year will be even bigger at $173 billion.

- The biggest threat to our economy is excessive and wasteful Washington spending. As the final phase of the budget process begins the President will protect taxpayers, seniors and our men and women in uniform from this wasteful spending.

- Many Democrats agree with the President's views on the economy. Just yesterday, Democrat Senator Blanche Lincoln and Democrat Rep. Mike Ross told the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette that they both support the tax cut, and that the slumping economy, not the tax cut, is the reason the surplus levels have dropped.

The funny thing about congressional votes and public statements is they don't go away. Many of those who are today attacking the President for the tax cut (1) voted against repealing it, (2) voted to make it even larger than current law, and (3) have spoken on the record in favor of it. Living proof that for some, all politics is vocal.

Attached are talking points -- read them first. I have also attached background research material on some interesting Senate votes and some interesting congressional quotes to help you understand why the President's partisan opponents are now divided against themselves while the President talks about his bipartisan priorities for the American people.

The Record Says It Best

Those pesky votes & public statements prove all politics is vocal

☑ On July 10, the Senate held a vote on an amendment offered by Democrat Senator Ernest Hollings to repeal the immediate tax rebates. The amendment failed 94-3 – meaning senators like Daschle, Conrad, Kennedy, Byrd, Boxer and Feinstein voted against repealing the tax rebates. (Senate Vote #223 – See attached)

☑ On April 5, Democrat Senator Ernest Hollings offered an amendment to increase the amount of tax relief in 2001 to $85 billion – even larger than the amount that ultimately became law. The amendment passed 94-6 – meaning Senators like Daschle, Conrad, Clinton, Kennedy, Feinstein and Boxer voted for even more tax relief than is now the law of the land (Senate Vote is attached)

A Cross Section of Democrats Who Agree with President Bush on Tax Relief

- Democrat Senator Zell Miller says the tax cut actually "should have been larger and kicked in sooner."
- Democrat Senator Max Baucus supports the tax cut, he has said he doesn't think Congress should revisit it, and the Montana Democrat Party has even run ads on his behalf thanking Senator Baucus for supporting the tax cut.
- Democrat Senator Tim Johnson ran a South Dakota radio ad letting families know about their refunds and praising the virtues of the tax cut.
- Democrat Senator Blanche Lincoln praises the tax cut and expresses optimism that the economy will soon rebound.
- Democrat Rep. Mike Ross says his constituents deserved the tax cut. Ross says his constituents are telling him just how important the tax cut is as they prepare to send their kids back to school.
- Democrat Senator Dianne Feinstein on July 1 on CNN talked about the economic benefits of the tax cut, saying she hoped the stimulus portion of the tax cut would move forward to help people who are having trouble making ends meet.
- Democrat Rep. Dennis Moore told the Kansas City Star that he doesn't think Congress should revisit the tax cut. Moore also said, "I want the President to stick with his promise to be fiscally responsible, and I'll be backing him up if he does."
- Democrat Senator John Breaux praises the tax cut.
- Democrat Senator Jean Carnahan says the tax cut will benefit the American people.
- Democrat Senator Max Cleland thinks the tax cut was important to help get our economy moving again.
- Democrat Senator Herb Kohl extolled the virtues of the tax cut for "thousands of Wisconsin families with children."
- Democrat Senator Bob Toricelli says Congress had an obligation to return the money to taxpayers who had overpaid their government.

SUBJECT:

House Concurrent Budget Resolution for fiscal years 2002-2011 . . . H.Con. Res. 83. Hollings amendment No.
225 to the Domenici substitute amendment No. 170.

SYNOPSIS:

H.Con. Res. 83, the House Concurrent Budget Resolution for fiscal years 2002-2011, will set total spending, revenues, debt reduction, and tax relief over the next 10 years.

The Domenici substitute amendment: would cut the debt held by the public (money that the Government owes to creditors other than itself) by $2.395 trillion over the next 10 years; would assume $29.3 billion in tax relief for fiscal year (FY) 2002 and $1.611 trillion over the next 10 years (which would be sufficient relief to reduce and restructure marginal income tax rates, double the child credit, reduce the marriage penalty, eliminate the estate tax (death tax), expand the charitable deduction to non- itemizers, make permanent the research and experimentation tax credit, expand health insurance coverage, raise the adoption credit from $5,000 to $7,500 and make it permanent, expand educational opportunities, and provide energy and conservation tax incentives);
would increase appropriated programs by 4 percent over FY 2001 enacted levels; would fully fund Medicare;

would provide an additional $153.0 billion reserve fund for FYs 2002-2011 for Medicare reform and prescription drug benefits; would save all the Social Security trust fund surpluses over the next 10 years for debt reduction;
would ensure a non-Social Security budget surplus for the fourth year in a row; would provide a $60 billion FY 2001 economic tax-cut stimulus package; would end the misuse of advance appropriations; and would leave an $845.7 billion, on-budget surplus ($453.1 billion excluding Medicare Part A funds), which could be used for tax relief, defense spending, agriculture relief, and other purposes.
The Hollings amendment would increase the amount of immediate tax relief that the Domenici amendment would make available, using FY2001 surplus funds, from $60 billion to $85 billion.

Those favoring the amendment contended:

Most economists agree that when an economy starts to slide, a recession can be averted if the government primes the economy quickly with cash. Our economy is in a slide right now; many economists are recommending a cash stimulus package of approximately 1 percent of GDP, or $100 billion. By lucky coincidence, we have nearly that amount ($85 billion) available right now in surplus funds from FY 2001 (we had $95 billion when we started consideration of this resolution, but we have committed about $10 billion for other purposes since that time). The resolution before us suggests $60 billion for a stimulus package; we think that amount is like half a haircut. The Hollings amendment would not contribute all the additional amount needed, but it would get us much closer. How we end up structuring the stimulus tax relief package can be decided later; the sponsor of this amendment favors
the same amount of relief being given to all tax filers, regardless even of whether they had any tax liability; other Senators have other preferences. For now, what is important is that we commit to giving $85 billion in immediate tax relief. We are delighted to vote in favor of this amendment.

No arguments were expressed in opposition to the amendment.

Despite Attacks Of The Partisan Democrat Leadership. . .
President Bush's Tax Cut
Is Still Bipartisan

On May 26, 2001, the U.S. Congress passed President Bush's tax relief package with solid bipartisan support from 12 Democrat Senators and 28 Democrat Representatives. As Democrat leaders Daschle and Gephardt continue to criticize the tax cut, they continue to undermine the members of their own party who supported common-sense, responsible tax relief for working Americans:

Senator Zell Miller, Georgia

Senator Miller Expressed His Emphatic And Continued Support For The Bush Tax Cut. "It was and is a responsible tax cut. If anything, it should have been larger and kicked in sooner. The tax cut does not get into the Medicare and Social Security trust funds, as some protest. What would eat into them is hog-wild spending on other items. That's where a problem could arise. Let's pass the defense and education appropriations bills as well as the $300 million prescription drug benefit as soon as possible, and then let's go on a fast the likes of which have not been seen since Mohatmas Ghandi." (Senator Miller, Press Release, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Miller Hailed The Taxpayer Relief Provided By The Tax Cut. "It's been a long and bumpy road since that January day when Senator Phil Gramm (R-Texas) and I introduced the President's tax cut bill in the Senate. Our goal was to give hard-working American taxpayers some relief, and, at the same time, pay down the national debt and protect the Medicare and Social Security trust funds. That is exactly what this bill does, and I am proud to have been a part of this historic achievement. I have said since the beginning of this debate that our taxpayers have overpaid the government and they deserve some of their money back. In the end, we looked at this huge surplus and we looked at these high taxes that all Americans are paying and we concluded that it is time - finally - to return to sender." (Senator Miller, Press Release, May 26, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Max Baucus, Montana

Senator Baucus Maintains His Support For The Tax Cut. "Finance Chair Max Baucus (D-Mont.), however, laughed at the idea [to revisit the tax cut], and insisted that he has no plans to reevaluate President Bush's $1.3 trillion tax cut before the end of the 107th Congress." ("From The Trail," The Hill, August 8, 2001)

The Montana Democrat Party Even Ran A Television Advertisement Praising Senator Max Baucus' Support For The Tax Cut. "Thanks to Senator Baucus' bipartisan approach and tireless leadership, the tax cut is better for working families right here in Montana. . . . A bipartisan tax cut for working families; an independent leader, helping Montana work its way back: Max Baucus. Keep up the fight." (Advertisement, quoted in "Ads Tout Baucus' Role In Tax Cut," The Associated Press, June 14, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Baucus Praised The Tax Cut As "Very Good" And Took Pride In His Role In Passing It. "This is a very good tax cut. It's a very large tax cut for the American people. It provides additional benefits for people who want to save. It provides additional benefits for families to send their kids to school. It will give about 11 million children help that they otherwise would not receive. It gives a better reduction to lower-income, middle-income taxpayers than they otherwise would receive. This is a very good bill, and I'm very proud of it." (Sen. Baucus, Press Conference, May 26, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Johnson Ran A South Dakota Radio Advertisement Touting His Support For The Tax Rebate Checks. "Hi, this is Tim Johnson. Starting next week, most South Dakota families are going to receive something a bit unusual from the federal government. A check. You'll be receiving a tax rebate of between $300 and $600. It won't make you rich, but it will help families make ends meet. It's the first installment of a tax cut I helped pass in Congress." (Radio Advertisement, quoted on CNN's "Inside Politics," July 23, 2001)

Senator Johnson Said The Bipartisan Tax Cut Would Give Significant Relief To "South Dakota's Hard-Working Families." "From the beginning of this debate, I have stated my strong support for a significant tax cut for South Dakota's hard working families. They need, and deserve, a reduction in their taxes. This bipartisan bill, while not perfect, is a step in that direction. . . . This bipartisan tax cut provides significant tax relief and we still have greater resources to provide for the important priorities facing South Dakota, like shoring up Social Security and Medicare, improving education, assisting agriculture, and improving health care for our veterans. . . ." (Senator Johnson, Press Release, May 23, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Blanche Lincoln, Arkansas

Senator Blanche Lincoln Is Supporting Her Vote To Pass Tax Relief And Is

Expressing Confidence That The Economy Will Rebound. "U.S. Sen. Blanche Lincoln and Rep. Mike Ross of Arkansas find themselves out of step with fellow Democrats this week as they defend voting for a tax cut that national party officials call reckless. . . . [Lincoln] expressed optimism that the economy would soon rebound. 'You have to keep in perspective that the economy is definitely going to ebb and flow,' Lincoln said. Her constituents, she said, 'are not panicking.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Lincoln Took Pride In Influencing The Final Version Of The Bipartisan Tax Bill. "The tax bill President Bush signed in June was the largest tax relief package in 20 years. In all the commentary surrounding this package, one story that hasn't been told is the role women in Congress played in developing the final bill. As a new member of the Senate Finance Committee, I had the opportunity to exert a good deal of influence on the final tax bill. The end result is that we crafted a bipartisan compromise on tax relief with numerous family-friendly provisions that will benefit a larger number of taxpayers, at a lower cost, than the president's original proposal would have." (Blanche Lincoln, "A Woman's Touch On The Tax Bill," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 4, 2001)(emphasis added)

Representative Mike Ross, Arkansas

Representative Ross Said The Hard-Working People Of Arkansas Deserved A Tax Cut. "U.S. Sen. Blanche Lincoln and Rep. Mike Ross of Arkansas find themselves out of step with fellow Democrats this week as they defend voting for a tax cut that national party officials call reckless. 'I think the hard-working people of south Arkansas deserved a tax cut,' Ross said, epitomizing their attitude. 'I have had people who have received the [rebate] checks to say it was very helpful as they prepared to send their kids back to school.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Representative Ross Is Optimistic The Economy Will Rebound. "But Lincoln and Ross - crisscrossing Arkansas during Congress' August break - said a slumping economy, not the tax cut, is the reason for the bad news. And they expressed optimism that the economy would soon rebound. . . . Ross said he also sensed long-range optimism about the economy. Both denied feeling estranged from their party. But they weren't shy about distancing themselves from some Democratic statements. Ross said, 'My party didn't send me to the United States Congress. The people of the 4th Congressional District sent me to the United States Congress. I'm more optimistic than some members of my party about the direction of the country, and I don't

apologize for that.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Dianne Feinstein, California

Senator Feinstein Viewed The Tax Cut As A Helpful Economic Stimulus. "The first time - economic forecasters are predicting a downturn in California now. That's new. The energy crisis certainly plays a role in it. The hope is that the part of the tax cut that's meant to be a stimulus can move forward and offset some of the increased costs that people are having in California and that that will be helpful." (Senator Feinstein, CNN's "Late Edition With Wolf Blitzer," July 1, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Feinstein Supported The Tax Cut Because She Believed The Government Should Give Money Back To The People. "I rise today in support of the reconciliation conference report currently pending before the Senate. I do so for a simple reason: I strongly believe that when the government is in a position to be able to return money to the American taxpayers, we should." (Senator Dianne Feinstein, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Representative Dennis Moore, Kansas

Representative Moore Said He Is Not Ready To Scale Back The Tax Cut. "Like Moore in the House, a dozen Democrats in the Senate joined Republicans in supporting the tax cuts. . . . Moore said he was not yet ready to scale back those cuts. He did pledge to stick to congressional budget limits and vote against any appropriation that might require tapping into Social Security or Medicare surpluses - namely, Bush's proposal to boost missile defense. 'I want the president to stick with his promise to be fiscally responsible,' Moore said, 'and I'll be backing him up if he does.'" (Rick Montgomery, "President Spars With Critics Over Tax Cut's Effects," The Kansas City Star, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator John Breaux, Louisiana

Senator Breaux Hailed The Tax Bill As Providing Balanced Relief. "I think the people who pay the most taxes in the country get relief. That's important. But people who need the most help in this country also get help. That's why I think the bill is balanced. I think the role that the centrist coalition played in insisting on the Senate provisions being part of this package was a very important role. It['s] helping us immensely in the conference to bring back a package that essentially contains all the features of the Senate-passed bill, and I think that's particularly important." (Sen. John Breaux, Press Conference, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Jean Carnahan, Missouri

Senator Carnahan Said The Bush Tax Cut Will Benefit The American People. "Sen. Jean Carnahan, D-Mo., said that while the bill wasn't perfect, it offers important benefits to Missourians of every age, from students to married couples to retirees. . . . 'No one senator can expect a piece of legislation to reflect all of his or her personal priorities,' she wrote in a column offered to newspapers Wednesday, 'but in the end, the tax cut passed by Congress represents a reasonable compromise that will benefit the American people.'" (Libby Quaid, "Tax Cuts: What's In It For Missouri?" The Associated Press, June 7, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Carnahan Heralded Her "Work With The Centrists" In Passing The Tax Bill. "I work with the centrists. There was 12 of us who thought, 'We can improve this. If we stick together, we can make this a better package. We'll be able to have a substantial tax cut, but we'll still be able to address our priorities, like defense and agriculture and--and education.' So that's what we did and I think it made a difference. I--I really believe the centrists are going to make the difference in this--in this Congress." (Senator Carnahan, CBS' "The Early Show," June 4, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Max Cleland, Georgia

Senator Max Cleland Said The Tax Cut Struck The Best Balance Between Tax Relief And Spending Priorities. "'With questions about the future direction of our economy and the very large projected budget surpluses for the next ten years, it is appropriate and necessary for the Congress to enact substantial tax relief at this time,' said Senator Cleland. 'And while, like most pieces of legislation, this tax bill is far from perfect, on balance I think it strikes the best balance this Congress can achieve between the President's tax cut priorities and the need to preserve our ability to address other critical national needs, including education and Social Security.'" (Senator Cleland, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Herb Kohl, Wisconsin

Senator Kohl Understood That His Vote For Tax Relief Helped Hard-Working Families In Wisconsin. "Thousands of Wisconsin families with children will benefit from the refundable child tax credit expansion included in this bill. Parents will be better able to save for their children's college educations and for their own retirement under proposals contained in this bill. Employer and employees will benefit from the child care tax credit for businesses. And the hard working families whose productivity has driven our solid economy will see tax dollars returned to them." (Senator Kohl, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Robert Torricelli, New Jersey

Senator Torricelli Said Congress Had An Obligation To Return Money To Taxpayers. "Torricelli said Congress had 'an obligation' to return money to taxpayers now that years of deficits have given way to a federal surplus. 'No one ever intended that a school teacher or a police officer pay 28 percent to the federal government, but that was the reality," he said." (Laurence Arnold, "Torricelli, Corzine Politely Air Differences On Tax Cut," The Associated Press, July 11, 2001)

The funny thing about congressional votes and public statements is they don't go away. Many of those who are today attacking the President for the tax cut (1) voted against repealing it, (2) voted to make it even larger than current law, and (3) have spoken on the record in favor of it. Living proof that for some, all politics is vocal.

Attached are talking points -- read them first. I have also attached background research material on some interesting Senate votes and some interesting congressional quotes to help you understand why the President's partisan opponents are now divided against themselves while the President talks about his bipartisan priorities for the American people.

The Record Says It Best

Those pesky votes & public statements prove all politics is vocal

☑ On July 10, the Senate held a vote on an amendment offered by Democrat Senator Ernest Hollings to repeal the immediate tax rebates. The amendment failed 94-3 – meaning senators like Daschle, Conrad, Kennedy, Byrd, Boxer and Feinstein voted against repealing the tax rebates. (Senate Vote #223 – See attached)

☑ On April 5, Democrat Senator Ernest Hollings offered an amendment to increase the amount of tax relief in 2001 to $85 billion – even larger than the amount that ultimately became law. The amendment passed 94-6 – meaning Senators like Daschle, Conrad, Clinton, Kennedy, Feinstein and Boxer voted for even more tax relief than is now the law of the land (Senate Vote is attached)

A Cross Section of Democrats Who Agree with President Bush on Tax Relief

- Democrat Senator Zell Miller says the tax cut actually "should have been larger and kicked in sooner."
- Democrat Senator Max Baucus supports the tax cut, he has said he doesn't think Congress should revisit it, and the Montana Democrat Party has even run ads on his behalf thanking Senator Baucus for supporting the tax cut.
- Democrat Senator Tim Johnson ran a South Dakota radio ad letting families know about their refunds and praising the virtues of the tax cut.
- Democrat Senator Blanche Lincoln praises the tax cut and expresses optimism that the economy will soon rebound.
- Democrat Rep. Mike Ross says his constituents deserved the tax cut. Ross says his constituents are telling him just how important the tax cut is as they prepare to send their kids back to school.
- Democrat Senator Dianne Feinstein on July 1 on CNN talked about the economic benefits of the tax cut, saying she hoped the stimulus portion of the tax cut would move forward to help people who are having trouble making ends meet.
- Democrat Rep. Dennis Moore told the Kansas City Star that he doesn't think Congress should revisit the tax cut. Moore also said, "I want the President to stick with his promise to be fiscally responsible, and I'll be backing him up if he does."
- Democrat Senator John Breaux praises the tax cut.
- Democrat Senator Jean Carnahan says the tax cut will benefit the American people.
- Democrat Senator Max Cleland thinks the tax cut was important to help get our economy moving again.
- Democrat Senator Herb Kohl extolled the virtues of the tax cut for "thousands of Wisconsin families with children."
- Democrat Senator Bob Toricelli says Congress had an obligation to return the money to taxpayers who had overpaid their government.

SUBJECT:

House Concurrent Budget Resolution for fiscal years 2002-2011 . . . H.Con. Res. 83. Hollings amendment No.
225 to the Domenici substitute amendment No. 170.

SYNOPSIS:

H.Con. Res. 83, the House Concurrent Budget Resolution for fiscal years 2002-2011, will set total spending, revenues, debt reduction, and tax relief over the next 10 years.

The Domenici substitute amendment: would cut the debt held by the public (money that the Government owes to creditors other than itself) by $2.395 trillion over the next 10 years; would assume $29.3 billion in tax relief for fiscal year (FY) 2002 and $1.611 trillion over the next 10 years (which would be sufficient relief to reduce and restructure marginal income tax rates, double the child credit, reduce the marriage penalty, eliminate the estate tax (death tax), expand the charitable deduction to non- itemizers, make permanent the research and experimentation tax credit, expand health insurance coverage, raise the adoption credit from $5,000 to $7,500 and make it permanent, expand educational opportunities, and provide energy and conservation tax incentives);
would increase appropriated programs by 4 percent over FY 2001 enacted levels; would fully fund Medicare;

would provide an additional $153.0 billion reserve fund for FYs 2002-2011 for Medicare reform and prescription drug benefits; would save all the Social Security trust fund surpluses over the next 10 years for debt reduction; would ensure a non-Social Security budget surplus for the fourth year in a row; would provide a $60 billion FY 2001 economic tax-cut stimulus package; would end the misuse of advance appropriations; and would leave an $845.7 billion, on-budget surplus ($453.1 billion excluding Medicare Part A funds), which could be used for tax relief, defense spending, agriculture relief, and other purposes.

The Hollings amendment would increase the amount of immediate tax relief that the Domenici amendment would make available, using FY2001 surplus funds, from $60 billion to $85 billion.

Those favoring the amendment contended:

Most economists agree that when an economy starts to slide, a recession can be averted if the government primes the economy quickly with cash. Our economy is in a slide right now; many economists are recommending a cash stimulus package of approximately 1 percent of GDP, or $100 billion. By lucky coincidence, we have nearly that amount ($85 billion) available right now in surplus funds from FY 2001 (we had $95 billion when we started consideration of this resolution, but we have committed about $10 billion for other purposes since that time). The resolution before us suggests $60 billion for a stimulus package; we think that amount is like half a haircut. The Hollings amendment would not contribute all the additional amount needed, but it would get us much closer. How we end up structuring the stimulus tax relief package can be decided later; the sponsor of this amendment favors the same amount of relief being given to all tax filers, regardless even of whether they had any tax liability; other Senators have other preferences. For now, what is important is that we commit to giving $85 billion in immediate tax relief. We are delighted to vote in favor of this amendment.

No arguments were expressed in opposition to the amendment.

Despite Attacks Of The Partisan Democrat Leadership. . .
President Bush's Tax Cut
Is Still Bipartisan

On May 26, 2001, the U.S. Congress passed President Bush's tax relief package with solid bipartisan support from 12 Democrat Senators and 28 Democrat Representatives. As Democrat leaders Daschle and Gephardt continue to criticize the tax cut, they continue to undermine the members of their own party who supported common-sense, responsible tax relief for working Americans:

Senator Zell Miller, Georgia

Senator Miller Expressed His Emphatic And Continued Support For The Bush Tax Cut. "It was and is a responsible tax cut. If anything, it should have been larger and kicked in sooner. The tax cut does not get into the Medicare and Social Security trust funds, as some protest. What would eat into them is hog-wild spending on other items. That's where a problem could arise. Let's pass the defense and education appropriations bills as well as the $300 million prescription drug benefit as soon as possible, and then let's go on a fast the likes of which have not been seen since Mohatmas Ghandi." (Senator Miller, Press Release, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Miller Hailed The Taxpayer Relief Provided By The Tax Cut. "It's been a long and bumpy road since that January day when Senator Phil Gramm (R-Texas) and I introduced the President's tax cut bill in the Senate. Our goal was to give hard-working American taxpayers some relief, and, at the same time, pay down the national debt and protect the Medicare and Social Security trust funds. That is exactly what this bill does, and I am proud to have been a part of this historic achievement. I have said since the beginning of this debate that our taxpayers have overpaid the government and they deserve some of their money back. In the end, we looked at this huge surplus and we looked at these high taxes that all Americans are paying and we concluded that it is time - finally - to return to sender." (Senator Miller, Press Release, May 26, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Max Baucus, Montana

Senator Baucus Maintains His Support For The Tax Cut. "Finance Chair Max Baucus (D-Mont.), however, laughed at the idea [to revisit the tax cut], and insisted that he has no plans to reevaluate President Bush's $1.3 trillion tax cut before the end of the 107th Congress." ("From The Trail," The Hill, August 8, 2001)

The Montana Democrat Party Even Ran A Television Advertisement Praising Senator Max Baucus' Support For The Tax Cut. "Thanks to Senator Baucus' bipartisan approach and tireless leadership, the tax cut is better for working families right here in Montana. . . . A bipartisan tax cut for working families; an independent leader, helping Montana work its way back: Max Baucus. Keep up the fight." (Advertisement, quoted in "Ads Tout Baucus' Role In Tax Cut," The Associated Press, June 14, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Baucus Praised The Tax Cut As "Very Good" And Took Pride In His Role In Passing It. "This is a very good tax cut. It's a very large tax cut for the American people. It provides additional benefits for people who want to save. It provides additional benefits for families to send their kids to school. It will give about 11 million children help that they otherwise would not receive. It gives a better reduction to lower-income, middle-income taxpayers than they otherwise would receive. This is a very good bill, and I'm very proud of it." (Sen. Baucus, Press Conference, May 26, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Johnson Ran A South Dakota Radio Advertisement Touting His Support For The Tax Rebate Checks. "Hi, this is Tim Johnson. Starting next week, most South Dakota families are going to receive something a bit unusual from the federal government. A check. You'll be receiving a tax rebate of between $300 and $600. It won't make you rich, but it will help families make ends meet. It's the first installment of a tax cut I helped pass in Congress." (Radio Advertisement, quoted on CNN's "Inside Politics," July 23, 2001)

Senator Johnson Said The Bipartisan Tax Cut Would Give Significant Relief To "South Dakota's Hard-Working Families." "From the beginning of this debate, I have stated my strong support for a significant tax cut for South Dakota's hard working families. They need, and deserve, a reduction in their taxes. This bipartisan bill, while not perfect, is a step in that direction. . . . This bipartisan tax cut provides significant tax relief and we still have greater resources to provide for the important priorities facing South Dakota, like shoring up Social Security and Medicare, improving education, assisting agriculture, and improving health care for our veterans. . . ." (Senator Johnson, Press Release, May 23, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Blanche Lincoln, Arkansas

Senator Blanche Lincoln Is Supporting Her Vote To Pass Tax Relief And Is

Expressing Confidence That The Economy Will Rebound. "U.S. Sen. Blanche Lincoln and Rep. Mike Ross of Arkansas find themselves out of step with fellow Democrats this week as they defend voting for a tax cut that national party officials call reckless. . . . [Lincoln] expressed optimism that the economy would soon rebound. 'You have to keep in perspective that the economy is definitely going to ebb and flow,' Lincoln said. Her constituents, she said, 'are not panicking.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Lincoln Took Pride In Influencing The Final Version Of The Bipartisan Tax Bill. "The tax bill President Bush signed in June was the largest tax relief package in 20 years. In all the commentary surrounding this package, one story that hasn't been told is the role women in Congress played in developing the final bill. As a new member of the Senate Finance Committee, I had the opportunity to exert a good deal of influence on the final tax bill. The end result is that we crafted a bipartisan compromise on tax relief with numerous family-friendly provisions that will benefit a larger number of taxpayers, at a lower cost, than the president's original proposal would have." (Blanche Lincoln, "A Woman's Touch On The Tax Bill," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 4, 2001)(emphasis added)

Representative Mike Ross, Arkansas

Representative Ross Said The Hard-Working People Of Arkansas Deserved A Tax Cut. "U.S. Sen. Blanche Lincoln and Rep. Mike Ross of Arkansas find themselves out of step with fellow Democrats this week as they defend voting for a tax cut that national party officials call reckless. 'I think the hard-working people of south Arkansas deserved a tax cut,' Ross said, epitomizing their attitude. 'I have had people who have received the [rebate] checks to say it was very helpful as they prepared to send their kids back to school.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Representative Ross Is Optimistic The Economy Will Rebound. "But Lincoln and Ross - crisscrossing Arkansas during Congress' August break - said a slumping economy, not the tax cut, is the reason for the bad news. And they expressed optimism that the economy would soon rebound. . . . Ross said he also sensed long-range optimism about the economy. Both denied feeling estranged from their party. But they weren't shy about distancing themselves from some Democratic statements. Ross said, 'My party didn't send me to the United States Congress. The people of the 4th Congressional District sent me to the United States Congress. I'm more optimistic than some members of my party about the direction of the country, and I don't

apologize for that.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Dianne Feinstein, California

Senator Feinstein Viewed The Tax Cut As A Helpful Economic Stimulus. "The first time - economic forecasters are predicting a downturn in California now. That's new. The energy crisis certainly plays a role in it. The hope is that the part of the tax cut that's meant to be a stimulus can move forward and offset some of the increased costs that people are having in California and that that will be helpful." (Senator Feinstein, CNN's "Late Edition With Wolf Blitzer," July 1, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Feinstein Supported The Tax Cut Because She Believed The Government Should Give Money Back To The People. "I rise today in support of the reconciliation conference report currently pending before the Senate. I do so for a simple reason: I strongly believe that when the government is in a position to be able to return money to the American taxpayers, we should." (Senator Dianne Feinstein, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Representative Dennis Moore, Kansas

Representative Moore Said He Is Not Ready To Scale Back The Tax Cut. "Like Moore in the House, a dozen Democrats in the Senate joined Republicans in supporting the tax cuts. . . . Moore said he was not yet ready to scale back those cuts. He did pledge to stick to congressional budget limits and vote against any appropriation that might require tapping into Social Security or Medicare surpluses - namely, Bush's proposal to boost missile defense. 'I want the president to stick with his promise to be fiscally responsible,' Moore said, 'and I'll be backing him up if he does.'" (Rick Montgomery, "President Spars With Critics Over Tax Cut's Effects," The Kansas City Star, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator John Breaux, Louisiana

Senator Breaux Hailed The Tax Bill As Providing Balanced Relief. "I think the people who pay the most taxes in the country get relief. That's important. But people who need the most help in this country also get help. That's why I think the bill is balanced. I think the role that the centrist coalition played in insisting on the Senate provisions being part of this package was a very important role. It['s] helping us immensely in the conference to bring back a package that essentially contains all the features of the Senate-passed bill, and I think that's particularly important." (Sen. John Breaux, Press Conference, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Jean Carnahan, Missouri

Senator Carnahan Said The Bush Tax Cut Will Benefit The American People. "Sen. Jean Carnahan, D-Mo., said that while the bill wasn't perfect, it offers important benefits to Missourians of every age, from students to married couples to retirees. . . . 'No one senator can expect a piece of legislation to reflect all of his or her personal priorities,' she wrote in a column offered to newspapers Wednesday, 'but in the end, the tax cut passed by Congress represents a reasonable compromise that will benefit the American people.'" (Libby Quaid, "Tax Cuts: What's In It For Missouri?" The Associated Press, June 7, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Carnahan Heralded Her "Work With The Centrists" In Passing The Tax Bill. "I work with the centrists. There was 12 of us who thought, 'We can improve this. If we stick together, we can make this a better package. We'll be able to have a substantial tax cut, but we'll still be able to address our priorities, like defense and agriculture and--and education.' So that's what we did and I think it made a difference. I--I really believe the centrists are going to make the difference in this--in this Congress." (Senator Carnahan, CBS' "The Early Show," June 4, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Max Cleland, Georgia

Senator Max Cleland Said The Tax Cut Struck The Best Balance Between Tax Relief And Spending Priorities. "'With questions about the future direction of our economy and the very large projected budget surpluses for the next ten years, it is appropriate and necessary for the Congress to enact substantial tax relief at this time,' said Senator Cleland. 'And while, like most pieces of legislation, this tax bill is far from perfect, on balance I think it strikes the best balance this Congress can achieve between the President's tax cut priorities and the need to preserve our ability to address other critical national needs, including education and Social Security.'" (Senator Cleland, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Herb Kohl, Wisconsin

Senator Kohl Understood That His Vote For Tax Relief Helped Hard-Working Families In Wisconsin. "Thousands of Wisconsin families with children will benefit from the refundable child tax credit expansion included in this bill. Parents will be better able to save for their children's college educations and for their own retirement under proposals contained in this bill. Employer and employees will benefit from the child care tax credit for businesses. And the hard working families whose productivity has driven our solid economy will see tax dollars returned to them." (Senator Kohl, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Robert Torricelli, New Jersey

Senator Torricelli Said Congress Had An Obligation To Return Money To Taxpayers. "Torricelli said Congress had 'an obligation' to return money to taxpayers now that years of deficits have given way to a federal surplus. 'No one ever intended that a school teacher or a police officer pay 28 percent to the federal government, but that was the reality," he said." (Laurence Arnold, "Torricelli, Corzine Politely Air Differences On Tax Cut," The Associated Press, July 11, 2001)

The funny thing about congressional votes and public statements is they don't go away. Many of those who are today attacking the President for the tax cut (1) voted against repealing it, (2) voted to make it even larger than current law, and (3) have spoken on the record in favor of it. Living proof that for some, all politics is vocal.

Attached are talking points -- read them first. I have also attached background research material on some interesting Senate votes and some interesting congressional quotes to help you understand why the President's partisan opponents are now divided against themselves while the President talks about his bipartisan priorities for the American people.

The Record Says It Best

Those pesky votes & public statements prove all politics is vocal

☑ On July 10, the Senate held a vote on an amendment offered by Democrat Senator Ernest Hollings to repeal the immediate tax rebates. The amendment failed 94-3 – meaning senators like Daschle, Conrad, Kennedy, Byrd, Boxer and Feinstein voted against repealing the tax rebates. (Senate Vote #223 – See attached)

☑ On April 5, Democrat Senator Ernest Hollings offered an amendment to increase the amount of tax relief in 2001 to $85 billion – even larger than the amount that ultimately became law. The amendment passed 94-6 – meaning Senators like Daschle, Conrad, Clinton, Kennedy, Feinstein and Boxer voted for even more tax relief than is now the law of the land (Senate Vote is attached)

A Cross Section of Democrats Who Agree with President Bush on Tax Relief

- Democrat Senator Zell Miller says the tax cut actually "should have been larger and kicked in sooner."

- Democrat Senator Tim Johnson ran a South Dakota radio ad letting families know about their refunds and praising the virtues of the tax cut.
- Democrat Senator Blanche Lincoln praises the tax cut and expresses optimism that the economy will soon rebound.
- Democrat Rep. Mike Ross says his constituents deserved the tax cut. Ross says his constituents are telling him just how important the tax cut is as they prepare to send their kids back to school.

- Democrat Rep. Dennis Moore told the Kansas City Star that he doesn't think Congress should revisit the tax cut. Moore also said, "I want the President to stick with his promise to be fiscally responsible, and I'll be backing him up if he does."
- Democrat Senator John Breaux praises the tax cut.
- Democrat Senator Jean Carnahan says the tax cut will benefit the American people.
- Democrat Senator Max Cleland thinks the tax cut was important to help get our economy moving again.
- Democrat Senator Herb Kohl extolled the virtues of the tax cut for "thousands of Wisconsin families with children."
- Democrat Senator Bob Toricelli says Congress had an obligation to return the money to taxpayers who had overpaid their government.

SUBJECT:

House Concurrent Budget Resolution for fiscal years 2002-2011 . . . H.Con. Res. 83. Hollings amendment No.
225 to the Domenici substitute amendment No. 170.

AMENDMENT AGREED TO, 94-6

SYNOPSIS:

H.Con. Res. 83, the House Concurrent Budget Resolution for fiscal years 2002-2011, will set total spending, revenues, debt reduction, and tax relief over the next 10 years.

The Domenici substitute amendment: would cut the debt held by the public (money that the Government owes to creditors other than itself) by $2.395 trillion over the next 10 years; would assume $29.3 billion in tax relief for fiscal year (FY) 2002 and $1.611 trillion over the next 10 years (which would be sufficient relief to reduce and restructure marginal income tax rates, double the child credit, reduce the marriage penalty, eliminate the estate tax (death tax), expand the charitable deduction to non- itemizers, make permanent the research and experimentation tax credit, expand health insurance coverage, raise the adoption credit from $5,000 to $7,500 and make it permanent, expand educational opportunities, and provide energy and conservation tax incentives);
would increase appropriated programs by 4 percent over FY 2001 enacted levels; would fully fund Medicare;

would provide an additional $153.0 billion reserve fund for FYs 2002-2011 for Medicare reform and prescription drug benefits; would save all the Social Security trust fund surpluses over the next 10 years for debt reduction; would ensure a non-Social Security budget surplus for the fourth year in a row; would provide a $60 billion FY 2001 economic tax-cut stimulus package; would end the misuse of advance appropriations; and would leave an $845.7 billion, on-budget surplus ($453.1 billion excluding Medicare Part A funds), which could be used for tax relief, defense spending, agriculture relief, and other purposes.

The Hollings amendment would increase the amount of immediate tax relief that the Domenici amendment would make available, using FY2001 surplus funds, from $60 billion to $85 billion.

Those favoring the amendment contended:

Most economists agree that when an economy starts to slide, a recession can be averted if the government primes the economy quickly with cash. Our economy is in a slide right now; many economists are recommending a cash stimulus package of approximately 1 percent of GDP, or $100 billion. By lucky coincidence, we have nearly that amount ($85 billion) available right now in surplus funds from FY 2001 (we had $95 billion when we started consideration of this resolution, but we have committed about $10 billion for other purposes since that time). The resolution before us suggests $60 billion for a stimulus package; we think that amount is like half a haircut. The Hollings amendment would not contribute all the additional amount needed, but it would get us much closer. How we end up structuring the stimulus tax relief package can be decided later; the sponsor of this amendment favors the same amount of relief being given to all tax filers, regardless even of whether they had any tax liability; other Senators have other preferences. For now, what is important is that we commit to giving $85 billion in immediate tax relief. We are delighted to vote in favor of this amendment.

No arguments were expressed in opposition to the amendment.

Despite Attacks Of The Partisan Democrat Leadership. . .
President Bush's Tax Cut
Is Still Bipartisan

On May 26, 2001, the U.S. Congress passed President Bush's tax relief package with solid bipartisan support from 12 Democrat Senators and 28 Democrat Representatives. As Democrat leaders Daschle and Gephardt continue to criticize the tax cut, they continue to undermine the members of their own party who supported common-sense, responsible tax relief for working Americans:

Senator Zell Miller, Georgia

Senator Miller Expressed His Emphatic And Continued Support For The Bush Tax Cut. "It was and is a responsible tax cut. If anything, it should have been larger and kicked in sooner. The tax cut does not get into the Medicare and Social Security trust funds, as some protest. What would eat into them is hog-wild spending on other items. That's where a problem could arise. Let's pass the defense and education appropriations bills as well as the $300 million prescription drug benefit as soon as possible, and then let's go on a fast the likes of which have not been seen since Mohatmas Ghandi." (Senator Miller, Press Release, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Miller Hailed The Taxpayer Relief Provided By The Tax Cut. "It's been a long and bumpy road since that January day when Senator Phil Gramm (R-Texas) and I introduced the President's tax cut bill in the Senate. Our goal was to give hard-working American taxpayers some relief, and, at the same time, pay down the national debt and protect the Medicare and Social Security trust funds. That is exactly what this bill does, and I am proud to have been a part of this historic achievement. I have said since the beginning of this debate that our taxpayers have overpaid the government and they deserve some of their money back. In the end, we looked at this huge surplus and we looked at these high taxes that all Americans are paying and we concluded that it is time - finally - to return to sender." (Senator Miller, Press Release, May 26, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Max Baucus, Montana

Senator Baucus Maintains His Support For The Tax Cut. "Finance Chair Max Baucus (D-Mont.), however, laughed at the idea [to revisit the tax cut], and insisted that he has no plans to reevaluate President Bush's $1.3 trillion tax cut before the end of the 107th Congress." ("From The Trail," The Hill, August 8, 2001)

The Montana Democrat Party Even Ran A Television Advertisement Praising Senator Max Baucus' Support For The Tax Cut. "Thanks to Senator Baucus' bipartisan approach and tireless leadership, the tax cut is better for working families right here in Montana. . . . A bipartisan tax cut for working families; an independent leader, helping Montana work its way back: Max Baucus. Keep up the fight." (Advertisement, quoted in "Ads Tout Baucus' Role In Tax Cut," The Associated Press, June 14, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Baucus Praised The Tax Cut As "Very Good" And Took Pride In His Role In Passing It. "This is a very good tax cut. It's a very large tax cut for the American people. It provides additional benefits for people who want to save. It provides additional benefits for families to send their kids to school. It will give about 11 million children help that they otherwise would not receive. It gives a better reduction to lower-income, middle-income taxpayers than they otherwise would receive. This is a very good bill, and I'm very proud of it." (Sen. Baucus, Press Conference, May 26, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Johnson Ran A South Dakota Radio Advertisement Touting His Support For The Tax Rebate Checks. "Hi, this is Tim Johnson. Starting next week, most South Dakota families are going to receive something a bit unusual from the federal government. A check. You'll be receiving a tax rebate of between $300 and $600. It won't make you rich, but it will help families make ends meet. It's the first installment of a tax cut I helped pass in Congress." (Radio Advertisement, quoted on CNN's "Inside Politics," July 23, 2001)

Senator Johnson Said The Bipartisan Tax Cut Would Give Significant Relief To "South Dakota's Hard-Working Families." "From the beginning of this debate, I have stated my strong support for a significant tax cut for South Dakota's hard working families. They need, and deserve, a reduction in their taxes. This bipartisan bill, while not perfect, is a step in that direction. . . . This bipartisan tax cut provides significant tax relief and we still have greater resources to provide for the important priorities facing South Dakota, like shoring up Social Security and Medicare, improving education, assisting agriculture, and improving health care for our veterans. . . ." (Senator Johnson, Press Release, May 23, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Blanche Lincoln, Arkansas

Senator Blanche Lincoln Is Supporting Her Vote To Pass Tax Relief And Is

Expressing Confidence That The Economy Will Rebound. "U.S. Sen. Blanche Lincoln and Rep. Mike Ross of Arkansas find themselves out of step with fellow Democrats this week as they defend voting for a tax cut that national party officials call reckless. . . . [Lincoln] expressed optimism that the economy would soon rebound. 'You have to keep in perspective that the economy is definitely going to ebb and flow,' Lincoln said. Her constituents, she said, 'are not panicking.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Lincoln Took Pride In Influencing The Final Version Of The Bipartisan Tax Bill. "The tax bill President Bush signed in June was the largest tax relief package in 20 years. In all the commentary surrounding this package, one story that hasn't been told is the role women in Congress played in developing the final bill. As a new member of the Senate Finance Committee, I had the opportunity to exert a good deal of influence on the final tax bill. The end result is that we crafted a bipartisan compromise on tax relief with numerous family-friendly provisions that will benefit a larger number of taxpayers, at a lower cost, than the president's original proposal would have." (Blanche Lincoln, "A Woman's Touch On The Tax Bill," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 4, 2001)(emphasis added)

Representative Mike Ross, Arkansas

Representative Ross Said The Hard-Working People Of Arkansas Deserved A Tax Cut. "U.S. Sen. Blanche Lincoln and Rep. Mike Ross of Arkansas find themselves out of step with fellow Democrats this week as they defend voting for a tax cut that national party officials call reckless. 'I think the hard-working people of south Arkansas deserved a tax cut,' Ross said, epitomizing their attitude. 'I have had people who have received the [rebate] checks to say it was very helpful as they prepared to send their kids back to school.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Representative Ross Is Optimistic The Economy Will Rebound. "But Lincoln and Ross - crisscrossing Arkansas during Congress' August break - said a slumping economy, not the tax cut, is the reason for the bad news. And they expressed optimism that the economy would soon rebound. . . . Ross said he also sensed long-range optimism about the economy. Both denied feeling estranged from their party. But they weren't shy about distancing themselves from some Democratic statements. Ross said, 'My party didn't send me to the United States Congress. The people of the 4th Congressional District sent me to the United States Congress. I'm more optimistic than some members of my party about the direction of the country, and I don't

apologize for that.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Dianne Feinstein, California

Senator Feinstein Viewed The Tax Cut As A Helpful Economic Stimulus. "The first time - economic forecasters are predicting a downturn in California now. That's new. The energy crisis certainly plays a role in it. The hope is that the part of the tax cut that's meant to be a stimulus can move forward and offset some of the increased costs that people are having in California and that that will be helpful." (Senator Feinstein, CNN's "Late Edition With Wolf Blitzer," July 1, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Feinstein Supported The Tax Cut Because She Believed The Government Should Give Money Back To The People. "I rise today in support of the reconciliation conference report currently pending before the Senate. I do so for a simple reason: I strongly believe that when the government is in a position to be able to return money to the American taxpayers, we should." (Senator Dianne Feinstein, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Representative Dennis Moore, Kansas

Representative Moore Said He Is Not Ready To Scale Back The Tax Cut. "Like Moore in the House, a dozen Democrats in the Senate joined Republicans in supporting the tax cuts. . . . Moore said he was not yet ready to scale back those cuts. He did pledge to stick to congressional budget limits and vote against any appropriation that might require tapping into Social Security or Medicare surpluses - namely, Bush's proposal to boost missile defense. 'I want the president to stick with his promise to be fiscally responsible,' Moore said, 'and I'll be backing him up if he does.'" (Rick Montgomery, "President Spars With Critics Over Tax Cut's Effects," The Kansas City Star, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator John Breaux, Louisiana

Senator Breaux Hailed The Tax Bill As Providing Balanced Relief. "I think the people who pay the most taxes in the country get relief. That's important. But people who need the most help in this country also get help. That's why I think the bill is balanced. I think the role that the centrist coalition played in insisting on the Senate provisions being part of this package was a very important role. It['s] helping us immensely in the conference to bring back a package that essentially contains all the features of the Senate-passed bill, and I think that's particularly important." (Sen. John Breaux, Press Conference, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Jean Carnahan, Missouri

Senator Carnahan Said The Bush Tax Cut Will Benefit The American People. "Sen. Jean Carnahan, D-Mo., said that while the bill wasn't perfect, it offers important benefits to Missourians of every age, from students to married couples to retirees. . . . 'No one senator can expect a piece of legislation to reflect all of his or her personal priorities,' she wrote in a column offered to newspapers Wednesday, 'but in the end, the tax cut passed by Congress represents a reasonable compromise that will benefit the American people.'" (Libby Quaid, "Tax Cuts: What's In It For Missouri?" The Associated Press, June 7, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Carnahan Heralded Her "Work With The Centrists" In Passing The Tax Bill. "I work with the centrists. There was 12 of us who thought, 'We can improve this. If we stick together, we can make this a better package. We'll be able to have a substantial tax cut, but we'll still be able to address our priorities, like defense and agriculture and--and education.' So that's what we did and I think it made a difference. I--I really believe the centrists are going to make the difference in this--in this Congress." (Senator Carnahan, CBS' "The Early Show," June 4, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Max Cleland, Georgia

Senator Max Cleland Said The Tax Cut Struck The Best Balance Between Tax Relief And Spending Priorities. "'With questions about the future direction of our economy and the very large projected budget surpluses for the next ten years, it is appropriate and necessary for the Congress to enact substantial tax relief at this time,' said Senator Cleland. 'And while, like most pieces of legislation, this tax bill is far from perfect, on balance I think it strikes the best balance this Congress can achieve between the President's tax cut priorities and the need to preserve our ability to address other critical national needs, including education and Social Security.'" (Senator Cleland, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Herb Kohl, Wisconsin

Senator Kohl Understood That His Vote For Tax Relief Helped Hard-Working Families In Wisconsin. "Thousands of Wisconsin families with children will benefit from the refundable child tax credit expansion included in this bill. Parents will be better able to save for their children's college educations and for their own retirement under proposals contained in this bill. Employer and employees will benefit from the child care tax credit for businesses. And the hard working families whose productivity has driven our solid economy will see tax dollars returned to them." (Senator Kohl, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Robert Torricelli, New Jersey

Senator Torricelli Said Congress Had An Obligation To Return Money To Taxpayers. "Torricelli said Congress had 'an obligation' to return money to taxpayers now that years of deficits have given way to a federal surplus. 'No one ever intended that a school teacher or a police officer pay 28 percent to the federal government, but that was the reality," he said." (Laurence Arnold, "Torricelli, Corzine Politely Air Differences On Tax Cut," The Associated Press, July 11, 2001)

The funny thing about congressional votes and public statements is they don't go away. Many of those who are today attacking the President for the tax cut (1) voted against repealing it, (2) voted to make it even larger than current law, and (3) have spoken on the record in favor of it. Living proof that for some, all politics is vocal.

Attached are talking points -- read them first. I have also attached background research material on some interesting Senate votes and some interesting congressional quotes to help you understand why the President's partisan opponents are now divided against themselves while the President talks about his bipartisan priorities for the American people.

The Record Says It Best

Those pesky votes & public statements prove all politics is vocal

☑ On July 10, the Senate held a vote on an amendment offered by Democrat Senator Ernest Hollings to repeal the immediate tax rebates. The amendment failed 94-3 – meaning senators like Daschle, Conrad, Kennedy, Byrd, Boxer and Feinstein voted against repealing the tax rebates. (Senate Vote #223 – See attached)

☑ On April 5, Democrat Senator Ernest Hollings offered an amendment to increase the amount of tax relief in 2001 to $85 billion – even larger than the amount that ultimately became law. The amendment passed 94-6 – meaning Senators like Daschle, Conrad, Clinton, Kennedy, Feinstein and Boxer voted for even more tax relief than is now the law of the land (Senate Vote is attached)

A Cross Section of Democrats Who Agree with President Bush on Tax Relief

BUDGET RESOLUTION/Increase in the Tax-Cut Stimulus Package

SUBJECT:

House Concurrent Budget Resolution for fiscal years 2002-2011 . . . H.Con. Res. 83. Hollings amendment No.
225 to the Domenici substitute amendment No. 170.

AMENDMENT AGREED TO, 94-6

SYNOPSIS:

H.Con. Res. 83, the House Concurrent Budget Resolution for fiscal years 2002-2011, will set total spending, revenues, debt reduction, and tax relief over the next 10 years.

The Domenici substitute amendment: would cut the debt held by the public (money that the Government owes to creditors other than itself) by $2.395 trillion over the next 10 years; would assume $29.3 billion in tax relief for fiscal year (FY) 2002 and $1.611 trillion over the next 10 years (which would be sufficient relief to reduce and restructure marginal income tax rates, double the child credit, reduce the marriage penalty, eliminate the estate tax (death tax), expand the charitable deduction to non- itemizers, make permanent the research and experimentation tax credit, expand health insurance coverage, raise the adoption credit from $5,000 to $7,500 and make it permanent, expand educational opportunities, and provide energy and conservation tax incentives);
would increase appropriated programs by 4 percent over FY 2001 enacted levels; would fully fund Medicare;

would provide an additional $153.0 billion reserve fund for FYs 2002-2011 for Medicare reform and prescription drug benefits; would save all the Social Security trust fund surpluses over the next 10 years for debt reduction;
would ensure a non-Social Security budget surplus for the fourth year in a row; would provide a $60 billion FY 2001 economic tax-cut stimulus package; would end the misuse of advance appropriations; and would leave an $845.7 billion, on-budget surplus ($453.1 billion excluding Medicare Part A funds), which could be used for tax relief, defense spending, agriculture relief, and other purposes.
The Hollings amendment would increase the amount of immediate tax relief that the Domenici amendment would make available, using FY2001 surplus funds, from $60 billion to $85 billion.

Those favoring the amendment contended:

Most economists agree that when an economy starts to slide, a recession can be averted if the government primes the economy quickly with cash. Our economy is in a slide right now; many economists are recommending a cash stimulus package of approximately 1 percent of GDP, or $100 billion. By lucky coincidence, we have nearly that amount ($85 billion) available right now in surplus funds from FY 2001 (we had $95 billion when we started consideration of this resolution, but we have committed about $10 billion for other purposes since that time). The resolution before us suggests $60 billion for a stimulus package; we think that amount is like half a haircut. The Hollings amendment would not contribute all the additional amount needed, but it would get us much closer. How we end up structuring the stimulus tax relief package can be decided later; the sponsor of this amendment favors
the same amount of relief being given to all tax filers, regardless even of whether they had any tax liability; other Senators have other preferences. For now, what is important is that we commit to giving $85 billion in immediate tax relief. We are delighted to vote in favor of this amendment.

No arguments were expressed in opposition to the amendment.

Despite Attacks Of The Partisan Democrat Leadership. . .
President Bush's Tax Cut
Is Still Bipartisan

On May 26, 2001, the U.S. Congress passed President Bush's tax relief package with solid bipartisan support from 12 Democrat Senators and 28 Democrat Representatives. As Democrat leaders Daschle and Gephardt continue to criticize the tax cut, they continue to undermine the members of their own party who supported common-sense, responsible tax relief for working Americans:

Senator Zell Miller, Georgia

Senator Miller Expressed His Emphatic And Continued Support For The Bush Tax Cut. "It was and is a responsible tax cut. If anything, it should have been larger and kicked in sooner. The tax cut does not get into the Medicare and Social Security trust funds, as some protest. What would eat into them is hog-wild spending on other items. That's where a problem could arise. Let's pass the defense and education appropriations bills as well as the $300 million prescription drug benefit as soon as possible, and then let's go on a fast the likes of which have not been seen since Mohatmas Ghandi." (Senator Miller, Press Release, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Miller Hailed The Taxpayer Relief Provided By The Tax Cut. "It's been a long and bumpy road since that January day when Senator Phil Gramm (R-Texas) and I introduced the President's tax cut bill in the Senate. Our goal was to give hard-working American taxpayers some relief, and, at the same time, pay down the national debt and protect the Medicare and Social Security trust funds. That is exactly what this bill does, and I am proud to have been a part of this historic achievement. I have said since the beginning of this debate that our taxpayers have overpaid the government and they deserve some of their money back. In the end, we looked at this huge surplus and we looked at these high taxes that all Americans are paying and we concluded that it is time - finally - to return to sender." (Senator Miller, Press Release, May 26, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Max Baucus, Montana

Senator Baucus Maintains His Support For The Tax Cut. "Finance Chair Max Baucus (D-Mont.), however, laughed at the idea [to revisit the tax cut], and insisted that he has no plans to reevaluate President Bush's $1.3 trillion tax cut before the end of the 107th Congress." ("From The Trail," The Hill, August 8, 2001)

The Montana Democrat Party Even Ran A Television Advertisement Praising Senator Max Baucus' Support For The Tax Cut. "Thanks to Senator Baucus' bipartisan approach and tireless leadership, the tax cut is better for working families right here in Montana. . . . A bipartisan tax cut for working families; an independent leader, helping Montana work its way back: Max Baucus. Keep up the fight." (Advertisement, quoted in "Ads Tout Baucus' Role In Tax Cut," The Associated Press, June 14, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Baucus Praised The Tax Cut As "Very Good" And Took Pride In His Role In Passing It. "This is a very good tax cut. It's a very large tax cut for the American people. It provides additional benefits for people who want to save. It provides additional benefits for families to send their kids to school. It will give about 11 million children help that they otherwise would not receive. It gives a better reduction to lower-income, middle-income taxpayers than they otherwise would receive. This is a very good bill, and I'm very proud of it." (Sen. Baucus, Press Conference, May 26, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Johnson Ran A South Dakota Radio Advertisement Touting His Support For The Tax Rebate Checks. "Hi, this is Tim Johnson. Starting next week, most South Dakota families are going to receive something a bit unusual from the federal government. A check. You'll be receiving a tax rebate of between $300 and $600. It won't make you rich, but it will help families make ends meet. It's the first installment of a tax cut I helped pass in Congress." (Radio Advertisement, quoted on CNN's "Inside Politics," July 23, 2001)

Senator Johnson Said The Bipartisan Tax Cut Would Give Significant Relief To "South Dakota's Hard-Working Families." "From the beginning of this debate, I have stated my strong support for a significant tax cut for South Dakota's hard working families. They need, and deserve, a reduction in their taxes. This bipartisan bill, while not perfect, is a step in that direction. . . . This bipartisan tax cut provides significant tax relief and we still have greater resources to provide for the important priorities facing South Dakota, like shoring up Social Security and Medicare, improving education, assisting agriculture, and improving health care for our veterans. . . ." (Senator Johnson, Press Release, May 23, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Blanche Lincoln, Arkansas

Senator Blanche Lincoln Is Supporting Her Vote To Pass Tax Relief And Is

Expressing Confidence That The Economy Will Rebound. "U.S. Sen. Blanche Lincoln and Rep. Mike Ross of Arkansas find themselves out of step with fellow Democrats this week as they defend voting for a tax cut that national party officials call reckless. . . . [Lincoln] expressed optimism that the economy would soon rebound. 'You have to keep in perspective that the economy is definitely going to ebb and flow,' Lincoln said. Her constituents, she said, 'are not panicking.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Lincoln Took Pride In Influencing The Final Version Of The Bipartisan Tax Bill. "The tax bill President Bush signed in June was the largest tax relief package in 20 years. In all the commentary surrounding this package, one story that hasn't been told is the role women in Congress played in developing the final bill. As a new member of the Senate Finance Committee, I had the opportunity to exert a good deal of influence on the final tax bill. The end result is that we crafted a bipartisan compromise on tax relief with numerous family-friendly provisions that will benefit a larger number of taxpayers, at a lower cost, than the president's original proposal would have." (Blanche Lincoln, "A Woman's Touch On The Tax Bill," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 4, 2001)(emphasis added)

Representative Mike Ross, Arkansas

Representative Ross Said The Hard-Working People Of Arkansas Deserved A Tax Cut. "U.S. Sen. Blanche Lincoln and Rep. Mike Ross of Arkansas find themselves out of step with fellow Democrats this week as they defend voting for a tax cut that national party officials call reckless. 'I think the hard-working people of south Arkansas deserved a tax cut,' Ross said, epitomizing their attitude. 'I have had people who have received the [rebate] checks to say it was very helpful as they prepared to send their kids back to school.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Representative Ross Is Optimistic The Economy Will Rebound. "But Lincoln and Ross - crisscrossing Arkansas during Congress' August break - said a slumping economy, not the tax cut, is the reason for the bad news. And they expressed optimism that the economy would soon rebound. . . . Ross said he also sensed long-range optimism about the economy. Both denied feeling estranged from their party. But they weren't shy about distancing themselves from some Democratic statements. Ross said, 'My party didn't send me to the United States Congress. The people of the 4th Congressional District sent me to the United States Congress. I'm more optimistic than some members of my party about the direction of the country, and I don't

apologize for that.'" (Paul Barton, "As Surplus Shrivels, 2 Justify Tax-Cut Vote," The Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator Dianne Feinstein, California

Senator Feinstein Viewed The Tax Cut As A Helpful Economic Stimulus. "The first time - economic forecasters are predicting a downturn in California now. That's new. The energy crisis certainly plays a role in it. The hope is that the part of the tax cut that's meant to be a stimulus can move forward and offset some of the increased costs that people are having in California and that that will be helpful." (Senator Feinstein, CNN's "Late Edition With Wolf Blitzer," July 1, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Feinstein Supported The Tax Cut Because She Believed The Government Should Give Money Back To The People. "I rise today in support of the reconciliation conference report currently pending before the Senate. I do so for a simple reason: I strongly believe that when the government is in a position to be able to return money to the American taxpayers, we should." (Senator Dianne Feinstein, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Representative Dennis Moore, Kansas

Representative Moore Said He Is Not Ready To Scale Back The Tax Cut. "Like Moore in the House, a dozen Democrats in the Senate joined Republicans in supporting the tax cuts. . . . Moore said he was not yet ready to scale back those cuts. He did pledge to stick to congressional budget limits and vote against any appropriation that might require tapping into Social Security or Medicare surpluses - namely, Bush's proposal to boost missile defense. 'I want the president to stick with his promise to be fiscally responsible,' Moore said, 'and I'll be backing him up if he does.'" (Rick Montgomery, "President Spars With Critics Over Tax Cut's Effects," The Kansas City Star, August 22, 2001)(emphasis added)

Senator John Breaux, Louisiana

Senator Breaux Hailed The Tax Bill As Providing Balanced Relief. "I think the people who pay the most taxes in the country get relief. That's important. But people who need the most help in this country also get help. That's why I think the bill is balanced. I think the role that the centrist coalition played in insisting on the Senate provisions being part of this package was a very important role. It['s] helping us immensely in the conference to bring back a package that essentially contains all the features of the Senate-passed bill, and I think that's particularly important." (Sen. John Breaux, Press Conference, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Jean Carnahan, Missouri

Senator Carnahan Said The Bush Tax Cut Will Benefit The American People. "Sen. Jean Carnahan, D-Mo., said that while the bill wasn't perfect, it offers important benefits to Missourians of every age, from students to married couples to retirees. . . . 'No one senator can expect a piece of legislation to reflect all of his or her personal priorities,' she wrote in a column offered to newspapers Wednesday, 'but in the end, the tax cut passed by Congress represents a reasonable compromise that will benefit the American people.'" (Libby Quaid, "Tax Cuts: What's In It For Missouri?" The Associated Press, June 7, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Carnahan Heralded Her "Work With The Centrists" In Passing The Tax Bill. "I work with the centrists. There was 12 of us who thought, 'We can improve this. If we stick together, we can make this a better package. We'll be able to have a substantial tax cut, but we'll still be able to address our priorities, like defense and agriculture and--and education.' So that's what we did and I think it made a difference. I--I really believe the centrists are going to make the difference in this--in this Congress." (Senator Carnahan, CBS' "The Early Show," June 4, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Max Cleland, Georgia

Senator Max Cleland Said The Tax Cut Struck The Best Balance Between Tax Relief And Spending Priorities. "'With questions about the future direction of our economy and the very large projected budget surpluses for the next ten years, it is appropriate and necessary for the Congress to enact substantial tax relief at this time,' said Senator Cleland. 'And while, like most pieces of legislation, this tax bill is far from perfect, on balance I think it strikes the best balance this Congress can achieve between the President's tax cut priorities and the need to preserve our ability to address other critical national needs, including education and Social Security.'" (Senator Cleland, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Herb Kohl, Wisconsin

Senator Kohl Understood That His Vote For Tax Relief Helped Hard-Working Families In Wisconsin. "Thousands of Wisconsin families with children will benefit from the refundable child tax credit expansion included in this bill. Parents will be better able to save for their children's college educations and for their own retirement under proposals contained in this bill. Employer and employees will benefit from the child care tax credit for businesses. And the hard working families whose productivity has driven our solid economy will see tax dollars returned to them." (Senator Kohl, Press Release, May 26, 2001) (emphasis added)

Senator Robert Torricelli, New Jersey

Senator Torricelli Said Congress Had An Obligation To Return Money To Taxpayers. "Torricelli said Congress had 'an obligation' to return money to taxpayers now that years of deficits have given way to a federal surplus. 'No one ever intended that a school teacher or a police officer pay 28 percent to the federal government, but that was the reality," he said." (Laurence Arnold, "Torricelli, Corzine Politely Air Differences On Tax Cut," The Associated Press, July 11, 2001)

The Gallup Poll

Job Approval Remarkably Steady; Tax Cut Just Right

KEY POINTS FROM AUGUST GALLUP POLLS

- The President's job approval is strong. 57% of the country approves of the way President Bush is handling his job. At the same time in 1993, 44% approved of the way Clinton was doing his job.
- Of the 5 most recent presidents, President Bush has the steadiest job approval rating. In the 11 Gallup Polls since May, President Bush's job approval has been between 52% and 57%. Compared to Presidents Carter, Reagan, Bush 41 and Clinton, President Bush has the steadiest approval rating of any recent president over his first 8 months – a testament to the President's consistent leadership (see the chart below for detail).
- 3 in 4 Americans believe the size of this year's tax cut was just right or should have been bigger. 44% say the tax cut was just right, 29% say it was too small, while only 17% say it was too large.
- President Bush getting credit for the tax cuts. 44% of Americans give the President a lot of credit for the tax cut checks; 25% give a lot of credit to Republicans in Congress. Only 11% give a lot of credit to congressional Democrats.
- Those who believe the tax cut will be a good thing for the country outnumber those who believe it will be a bad thing by a 2-1 margin. 36% say the tax cut will be a good thing for the country, while only 17% say it will be a bad thing.

Subject: novelty check signator

When the Economic Development Administration visits a place to announce a grant, they hand over a large novelty check. Currently, the check is signed by the Asst. Sec. Would it be inappropriate for the President's signature to appear there? If not, how could we go about getting it?

If you tell me it's a bad idea, we'll put Evans' signature on them from now on. Thanks.

The Gallup Poll

Job Approval Remarkably Steady; Tax Cut Just Right

KEY POINTS FROM AUGUST GALLUP POLLS

- The President's job approval is strong. 57% of the country approves of the way President Bush is handling his job. At the same time in 1993, 44% approved of the way Clinton was doing his job.
- Of the 5 most recent presidents, President Bush has the steadiest job approval rating. In the 11 Gallup Polls since May, President Bush's job approval has been between 52% and 57%. Compared to Presidents Carter, Reagan, Bush 41 and Clinton, President Bush has the steadiest approval rating of any recent president over his first 8 months – a testament to the President's consistent leadership (see the chart below for detail).
- 3 in 4 Americans believe the size of this year's tax cut was just right or should have been bigger. 44% say the tax cut was just right, 29% say it was too small, while only 17% say it was too large.
- President Bush getting credit for the tax cuts. 44% of Americans give the President a lot of credit for the tax cut checks; 25% give a lot of credit to Republicans in Congress. Only 11% give a lot of credit to congressional Democrats.
- Those who believe the tax cut will be a good thing for the country outnumber those who believe it will be a bad thing by a 2-1 margin. 36% say the tax cut will be a good thing for the country, while only 17% say it will be a bad thing.

The Gallup Poll

Job Approval Remarkably Steady; Tax Cut Just Right

KEY POINTS FROM AUGUST GALLUP POLLS

- The President's job approval is strong. 57% of the country approves of the way President Bush is handling his job. At the same time in 1993, 44% approved of the way Clinton was doing his job.
- Of the 5 most recent presidents, President Bush has the steadiest job approval rating. In the 11 Gallup Polls since May, President Bush's job approval has been between 52% and 57%. Compared to Presidents Carter, Reagan, Bush 41 and Clinton, President Bush has the steadiest approval rating of any recent president over his first 8 months – a testament to the President's consistent leadership (see the chart below for detail).
- 3 in 4 Americans believe the size of this year's tax cut was just right or should have been bigger. 44% say the tax cut was just right, 29% say it was too small, while only 17% say it was too large.
- President Bush getting credit for the tax cuts. 44% of Americans give the President a lot of credit for the tax cut checks; 25% give a lot of credit to Republicans in Congress. Only 11% give a lot of credit to congressional Democrats.
- Those who believe the tax cut will be a good thing for the country outnumber those who believe it will be a bad thing by a 2-1 margin. 36% say the tax cut will be a good thing for the country, while only 17% say it will be a bad thing.

The Gallup Poll

Job Approval Remarkably Steady; Tax Cut Just Right

KEY POINTS FROM AUGUST GALLUP POLLS

- The President's job approval is strong. 57% of the country approves of the way President Bush is handling his job. At the same time in 1993, 44% approved of the way Clinton was doing his job.
- Of the 5 most recent presidents, President Bush has the steadiest job approval rating. In the 11 Gallup Polls since May, President Bush's job approval has been between 52% and 57%. Compared to Presidents Carter, Reagan, Bush 41 and Clinton, President Bush has the steadiest approval rating of any recent president over his first 8 months – a testament to the President's consistent leadership (see the chart below for detail).
- 3 in 4 Americans believe the size of this year's tax cut was just right or should have been bigger. 44% say the tax cut was just right, 29% say it was too small, while only 17% say it was too large.
- President Bush getting credit for the tax cuts. 44% of Americans give the President a lot of credit for the tax cut checks; 25% give a lot of credit to Republicans in Congress. Only 11% give a lot of credit to congressional Democrats.
- Those who believe the tax cut will be a good thing for the country outnumber those who believe it will be a bad thing by a 2-1 margin. 36% say the tax cut will be a good thing for the country, while only 17% say it will be a bad thing.

The Gallup Poll

Job Approval Remarkably Steady; Tax Cut Just Right

KEY POINTS FROM AUGUST GALLUP POLLS

- The President's job approval is strong. 57% of the country approves of the way President Bush is handling his job. At the same time in 1993, 44% approved of the way Clinton was doing his job.
- Of the 5 most recent presidents, President Bush has the steadiest job approval rating. In the 11 Gallup Polls since May, President Bush's job approval has been between 52% and 57%. Compared to Presidents Carter, Reagan, Bush 41 and Clinton, President Bush has the steadiest approval rating of any recent president over his first 8 months – a testament to the President's consistent leadership (see the chart below for detail).
- 3 in 4 Americans believe the size of this year's tax cut was just right or should have been bigger. 44% say the tax cut was just right, 29% say it was too small, while only 17% say it was too large.
- President Bush getting credit for the tax cuts. 44% of Americans give the President a lot of credit for the tax cut checks; 25% give a lot of credit to Republicans in Congress. Only 11% give a lot of credit to congressional Democrats.
- Those who believe the tax cut will be a good thing for the country outnumber those who believe it will be a bad thing by a 2-1 margin. 36% say the tax cut will be a good thing for the country, while only 17% say it will be a bad thing.

Questions & Answers

Q1: Many say that the new budget numbers will prevent the President from funding a prescription drug benefit for seniors. Is this true?

President Bush wants to give seniors a Medicare prescription drug benefit as soon as possible. That's why his budget includes $190 billion to improve Medicare and get seniors a long-overdue drug benefit.

While many have chosen to play politics on Medicare, the President has already taken immediate action to get help to seniors who face skyrocketing drug bills. He introduced a prescription drug discount card to help seniors save money on their prescription drug bills. AARP praised the President for his new card. The President unveiled the new card because he thinks it is important to get seniors help as soon as possible.

The new budget numbers show the President has actually increased from earlier this year the amount of money available for a prescription drug benefit and improvements to Medicare – From $153 billion over 10 years to $190 billion over 8 years.

Q2: Many assert that the new budget numbers will prevent President Bush from funding his increases in military spending. Is this true?

The President is committed to funding his long-overdue increases in spending on our men and women in uniform.

He has already taken immediate action to send money to our troops who need important improvements in their quality of life. Earlier this year the President signed into law $5.6 million in money to address urgent defense needs, including pay raises and training and housing improvements.

Q3: Will the new budget numbers prevent the President from helping those who need health care?

The President is committed to improving health insurance and bringing health care to those who currently are uninsured or have no access to it.

- ☑ The President is working to improve Medicaid and the State Children's Health Insurance Programs to increase access for the 42 million Americans who are today uninsured.
- ☑ The President has proposed $71 billion in health insurance tax credits to help low-income Americans purchase health insurance.
- ☑ The President has provided $190 billion over 8 years to improve Medicare and give seniors better health care and a prescription drug benefit. The President also took immediate action to help seniors with a new prescription drug discount card.
- ☑ His budget includes a $124 million increase for community health centers which help get care to 11 million people in inner cities and rural areas. The President's budget includes the first installment of a five-year plan to double the number of people served by the health centers.
- ☑ Budget includes $2.75 billion increase for the National Institutes of Health to help double spending in the coming years on important health care research. The increase will help support a record 34,000 research project grants to help improve the health of all Americans.

- ☑ The President forged a compromise to break six years of gridlock and get important new patient protections to Americans.

- ☑ $100 million to increase access to drug treatment.

- ☑ $ 22 million for childhood immunization.

(More specific details on the SCHIP program)

The Administration has not agreed that the best use of these funds is to expand the SCHIP program. This is because most states have not yet used their full SCHIP allocation allowed under current law, and because most of the neediest uninsured - with incomes below 200% of poverty line - would not be helped by proposals to expand the income eligibility to a higher level.

Instead, the Administration has taken steps endorsed by governors of both parties to streamline the process of approving innovative state approaches to covering the uninsured, particularly those with lower incomes. These administrative steps, including the recently-announced Health Insurance Flexibility and Accountability Initiative, reflect the Administration's focus on results for reducing the uninsured and will accomplish right now many of the goals of legislation to expand SCHIP that is now being debated in Congress - including covering parents and covering additional "optional" populations. The Administration believes that we should move forward now on covering more people through Medicaid and SCHIP, and that this can be done through current law. In fact, Secretary Thompson has worked through a backlog of state applications for additional coverage quickly - resulting in expansions of coverage to over 800,000 lower-income Americans at already this year, with more expansions expected.

When you are asked about the budget debate, the new budget numbers, and the President, keep the following in mind:

1. Talk about the President's priorities, not about arcane budget process. The President's priorities like education and health care will trump partisan process every time.

2. Always talk about the IMMEDIATE ACTION that President Bush has taken to address the issues that are important to Americans. Be sure to use the words "immediate action" to describe the steps the President has taken on the issue you are being asked about. For example, the President took immediate action to jump start our economy by cutting taxes to put money in people's pockets when the need it most, paying off historic levels of debt, and pursuing trade policies to open foreign markets to American goods and services. While other's played Medicare politics the President took immediate action to get seniors help with their skyrocketing prescription drug bills by getting them a prescription drug discount card. The President took immediate action to help our men and women in uniform by signing into law important pay raise and housing and training money. etc, etc, etc. The President has taken immediate action to help those who suffer from high energy bills by.....

First talk about the immediate steps the President has taken to help and then talk about his vision for the future on the issue.

Attached are some suggested responses if you get asked about the new budget numbers and (1) prescription drug benefits for seniors, (2) military spending increases, and (3) the President's commitment to health care for the uninsured.

Now, take IMMEDIATE ACTION and read these now.

Questions & Answers

Q1: Many say that the new budget numbers will prevent the President from funding a prescription drug benefit for seniors. Is this true?

President Bush wants to give seniors a Medicare prescription drug benefit as soon as possible. That's why his budget includes $190 billion to improve Medicare and get seniors a long-overdue drug benefit.

While many have chosen to play politics on Medicare, the President has already taken immediate action to get help to seniors who face skyrocketing drug bills. He introduced a prescription drug discount card to help seniors save money on their prescription drug bills. AARP praised the President for his new card. The President unveiled the new card because he thinks it is important to get seniors help as soon as possible.

The new budget numbers show the President has actually increased from earlier this year the amount of money available for a prescription drug benefit and improvements to Medicare – From $153 billion over 10 years to $190 billion over 10 years.

Q2: Many assert that the new budget numbers will prevent President Bush from funding his increases in military spending. Is this true?

The President is committed to funding his long-overdue increases in spending on our men and women in uniform.

He has already taken immediate action to send money to our troops who need important improvements in their quality of life. Earlier this year the President signed into law $5.6 million in money to address urgent defense needs, including pay raises and training and housing improvements.

Q3: Will the new budget numbers prevent the President from helping those who need health care?

The President is committed to improving health insurance and bringing health care to those who currently are uninsured or have no access to it.

- ☑ The President is working to improve Medicaid and the State Children's Health Insurance Programs to increase access for the 42 million Americans who are today uninsured.
- ☑ The President has proposed $71 billion in health insurance tax credits to help low-income Americans purchase health insurance.
- ☑ The President has provided $190 billion over 10 years to improve Medicare and give seniors better health care and a prescription drug benefit. The President also took immediate action to help seniors with a new prescription drug discount card.
- ☑ His budget includes a $124 million increase for community health centers which help get care to 11 million people in inner cities and rural areas. The President's budget includes the first installment of a five-year plan to double the number of people served by the health centers.
- ☑ Budget includes $2.75 billion increase for the National Institutes of Health to help double spending in the coming years on important health care research. The increase will help support a record 34,000 research project grants to help improve the health of all Americans.

- ☑ The President forged a compromise to break six years of gridlock and get important new patient protections to Americans.

- ☑ $100 million to increase access to drug treatment.

- ☑ $ 22 million for childhood immunization.

(More specific details on the SCHIP program)

The Administration has not agreed that the best use of these funds is to expand the SCHIP program. This is because most states have not yet used their full SCHIP allocation allowed under current law, and because most of the neediest uninsured - with incomes below 200% of poverty line - would not be helped by proposals to expand the income eligibility to a higher level.

Instead, the Administration has taken steps endorsed by governors of both parties to streamline the process of approving innovative state approaches to covering the uninsured, particularly those with lower incomes. These administrative steps, including the recently-announced Health Insurance Flexibility and Accountability Initiative, reflect the Administration's focus on results for reducing the uninsured and will accomplish right now many of the goals of legislation to expand SCHIP that is now being debated in Congress - including covering parents and covering additional "optional" populations. The Administration believes that we should move forward now on covering more people through Medicaid and SCHIP, and that this can be done through current law. In fact, Secretary Thompson has worked through a backlog of state applications for additional coverage quickly - resulting in expansions of coverage to over 800,000 lower-income Americans at already this year, with more expansions expected.

Questions & Answers

Q1: Many say that the new budget numbers will prevent the President from funding a prescription drug benefit for seniors. Is this true?

President Bush wants to give seniors a Medicare prescription drug benefit as soon as possible. That's why his budget includes $190 billion to improve Medicare and get seniors a long-overdue drug benefit.

While many have chosen to play politics on Medicare, the President has already taken immediate action to get help to seniors who face skyrocketing drug bills. He introduced a prescription drug discount card to help seniors save money on their prescription drug bills. AARP praised the President for his new card. The President unveiled the new card because he thinks it is important to get seniors help as soon as possible.

The new budget numbers show the President has actually increased from earlier this year the amount of money available for a prescription drug benefit and improvements to Medicare – From $153 billion over 10 years to $190 billion over 10 years.

Q2: Many assert that the new budget numbers will prevent President Bush from funding his increases in military spending. Is this true?

The President is committed to funding his long-overdue increases in spending on our men and women in uniform.

He has already taken immediate action to send money to our troops who need important improvements in their quality of life. Earlier this year the President signed into law $5.6 million in money to address urgent defense needs, including pay raises and training and housing improvements.

Q3: Will the new budget numbers prevent the President from helping those who need health care?

The President is committed to improving health insurance and bringing health care to those who currently are uninsured or have no access to it.

- ☑ The President is working to improve Medicaid and the State Children's Health Insurance Programs to increase access for the 42 million Americans who are today uninsured.
- ☑ The President has proposed $71 billion in health insurance tax credits to help low-income Americans purchase health insurance.
- ☑ The President has provided $190 billion over 10 years to improve Medicare and give seniors better health care and a prescription drug benefit. The President also took immediate action to help seniors with a new prescription drug discount card.
- ☑ His budget includes a $124 million increase for community health centers which help get care to 11 million people in inner cities and rural areas. The President's budget includes the first installment of a five-year plan to double the number of people served by the health centers.
- ☑ Budget includes $2.75 billion increase for the National Institutes of Health to help double spending in the coming years on important health care research. The increase will help support a record 34,000 research project grants to help improve the health of all Americans.

- ☑ The President forged a compromise to break six years of gridlock and get important new patient protections to Americans.

- ☑ $100 million to increase access to drug treatment.

- ☑ $ 22 million for childhood immunization.

(More specific details on the SCHIP program)

The Administration has not agreed that the best use of these funds is to expand the SCHIP program. This is because most states have not yet used their full SCHIP allocation allowed under current law, and because most of the neediest uninsured - with incomes below 200% of poverty line - would not be helped by proposals to expand the income eligibility to a higher level.

Instead, the Administration has taken steps endorsed by governors of both parties to streamline the process of approving innovative state approaches to covering the uninsured, particularly those with lower incomes. These administrative steps, including the recently-announced Health Insurance Flexibility and Accountability Initiative, reflect the Administration's focus on results for reducing the uninsured and will accomplish right now many of the goals of legislation to expand SCHIP that is now being debated in Congress - including covering parents and covering additional "optional" populations. The Administration believes that we should move forward now on covering more people through Medicaid and SCHIP, and that this can be done through current law. In fact, Secretary Thompson has worked through a backlog of state applications for additional coverage quickly - resulting in expansions of coverage to over 800,000 lower-income Americans at already this year, with more expansions expected.

When you are asked about the budget debate, the new budget numbers, and the President, keep the following in mind:

1. Talk about the President's priorities, not about arcane budget process. The President's priorities like education and health care will trump partisan process every time.

2. Always talk about the IMMEDIATE ACTION that President Bush has taken to address the issues that are important to Americans. Be sure to use the words "immediate action" to describe the steps the President has taken on the issue you are being asked about. For example, the President took immediate action to jump start our economy by cutting taxes to put money in people's pockets when the need it most, paying off historic levels of debt, and pursuing trade policies to open foreign markets to American goods and services. While other's played Medicare politics the President took immediate action to get seniors help with their skyrocketing prescription drug bills by getting them a prescription drug discount card. The President took immediate action to help our men and women in uniform by signing into law important pay raise and housing and training money. etc, etc, etc. The President has taken immediate action to help those who suffer from high energy bills by.....

First talk about the immediate steps the President has taken to help and then talk about his vision for the future on the issue.

Attached are some suggested responses if you get asked about the new budget numbers and (1) prescription drug benefits for seniors, (2) military spending increases, and (3) the President's commitment to health care for the uninsured.

Now, take IMMEDIATE ACTION and read these now.

Questions & Answers

Q1: Many say that the new budget numbers will prevent the President from funding a prescription drug benefit for seniors. Is this true?

President Bush wants to give seniors a Medicare prescription drug benefit as soon as possible. That's why his budget includes $190 billion to improve Medicare and get seniors a long-overdue drug benefit.

While many have chosen to play politics on Medicare, the President has already taken immediate action to get help to seniors who face skyrocketing drug bills. He introduced a prescription drug discount card to help seniors save money on their prescription drug bills. AARP praised the President for his new card. The President unveiled the new card because he thinks it is important to get seniors help as soon as possible.

The new budget numbers show the President has actually increased from earlier this year the amount of money available for a prescription drug benefit and improvements to Medicare – From $153 billion over 10 years to $190 billion over 10 years.

Q2: Many assert that the new budget numbers will prevent President Bush from funding his increases in military spending. Is this true?

The President is committed to funding his long-overdue increases in spending on our men and women in uniform.

He has already taken immediate action to send money to our troops who need important improvements in their quality of life. Earlier this year the President signed into law $5.6 million in money to address urgent defense needs, including pay raises and training and housing improvements.

Q3: Will the new budget numbers prevent the President from helping those who need health care?

The President is committed to improving health insurance and bringing health care to those who currently are uninsured or have no access to it.

- ☑ The President is working to improve Medicaid and the State Children's Health Insurance Programs to increase access for the 42 million Americans who are today uninsured.
- ☑ The President has proposed $71 billion in health insurance tax credits to help low-income Americans purchase health insurance.
- ☑ The President has provided $190 billion over 10 years to improve Medicare and give seniors better health care and a prescription drug benefit. The President also took immediate action to help seniors with a new prescription drug discount card.
- ☑ His budget includes a $124 million increase for community health centers which help get care to 11 million people in inner cities and rural areas. The President's budget includes the first installment of a five-year plan to double the number of people served by the health centers.
- ☑ Budget includes $2.75 billion increase for the National Institutes of Health to help double spending in the coming years on important health care research. The increase will help support a record 34,000 research project grants to help improve the health of all Americans.

- ☑ The President forged a compromise to break six years of gridlock and get important new patient protections to Americans.

- ☑ $100 million to increase access to drug treatment.

- ☑ $ 22 million for childhood immunization.

(More specific details on the SCHIP program)

The Administration has not agreed that the best use of these funds is to expand the SCHIP program. This is because most states have not yet used their full SCHIP allocation allowed under current law, and because most of the neediest uninsured - with incomes below 200% of poverty line - would not be helped by proposals to expand the income eligibility to a higher level.

Instead, the Administration has taken steps endorsed by governors of both parties to streamline the process of approving innovative state approaches to covering the uninsured, particularly those with lower incomes. These administrative steps, including the recently-announced Health Insurance Flexibility and Accountability Initiative, reflect the Administration's focus on results for reducing the uninsured and will accomplish right now many of the goals of legislation to expand SCHIP that is now being debated in Congress - including covering parents and covering additional "optional" populations. The Administration believes that we should move forward now on covering more people through Medicaid and SCHIP, and that this can be done through current law. In fact, Secretary Thompson has worked through a backlog of state applications for additional coverage quickly - resulting in expansions of coverage to over 800,000 lower-income Americans at already this year, with more expansions expected.

When you are asked about the budget debate, the new budget numbers, and the President, keep the following in mind:

1. Talk about the President's priorities, not about arcane budget process. The President's priorities like education and health care will trump partisan process every time.

2. Always talk about the IMMEDIATE ACTION that President Bush has taken to address the issues that are important to Americans. Be sure to use the words "immediate action" to describe the steps the President has taken on the issue you are being asked about. For example, the President took immediate action to jump start our economy by cutting taxes to put money in people's pockets when the need it most, paying off historic levels of debt, and pursuing trade policies to open foreign markets to American goods and services. While other's played Medicare politics the President took immediate action to get seniors help with their skyrocketing prescription drug bills by getting them a prescription drug discount card. The President took immediate action to help our men and women in

First talk about the immediate steps the President has taken to help and then talk about his vision for the future on the issue.

Attached are some suggested responses if you get asked about the new budget numbers and (1) prescription drug benefits for seniors, (2) military spending increases, and (3) the President's commitment to health care for the uninsured.

Now, take IMMEDIATE ACTION and read these now.

Questions & Answers

Q1: Many say that the new budget numbers will prevent the President from funding a prescription drug benefit for seniors. Is this true?

President Bush wants to give seniors a Medicare prescription drug benefit as soon as possible. That's why his budget includes $190 billion to improve Medicare and get seniors a long-overdue drug benefit.

While many have chosen to play politics on Medicare, the President has already taken immediate action to get help to seniors who face skyrocketing drug bills. He introduced a prescription drug discount card to help seniors save money on their prescription drug bills. AARP praised the President for his new card. The President unveiled the new card because he thinks it is important to get seniors help as soon as possible.

The new budget numbers show the President has actually increased from earlier this year the amount of money available for a prescription drug benefit and improvements to Medicare – From $153 billion over 10 years to $190 billion over 10 years.

Q2: Many assert that the new budget numbers will prevent President Bush from funding his increases in military spending. Is this true?

The President is committed to funding his long-overdue increases in spending on our men and women in uniform.

He has already taken immediate action to send money to our troops who need important improvements in their quality of life. Earlier this year the President signed into law $5.6 million in money to address urgent defense needs, including pay raises and training and housing improvements.

Q3: Will the new budget numbers prevent the President from helping those who need health care?

The President is committed to improving health insurance and bringing health care to those who currently are uninsured or have no access to it.

- ☑ The President is working to improve Medicaid and the State Children's Health Insurance Programs to increase access for the 42 million Americans who are today uninsured.
- ☑ The President has proposed $71 billion in health insurance tax credits to help low-income Americans purchase health insurance.
- ☑ The President has provided $190 billion over 10 years to improve Medicare and give seniors better health care and a prescription drug benefit. The President also took immediate action to help seniors with a new prescription drug discount card.
- ☑ His budget includes a $124 million increase for community health centers which help get care to 11 million people in inner cities and rural areas. The President's budget includes the first installment of a five-year plan to double the number of people served by the health centers.
- ☑ Budget includes $2.75 billion increase for the National Institutes of Health to help double spending in the coming years on important health care research. The increase will help support a record 34,000 research project grants to help improve the health of all Americans.

- ☑ The President forged a compromise to break six years of gridlock and get important new patient protections to Americans.

- ☑ $100 million to increase access to drug treatment.

- ☑ $ 22 million for childhood immunization.

(More specific details on the SCHIP program)

The Administration has not agreed that the best use of these funds is to expand the SCHIP program. This is because most states have not yet used their full SCHIP allocation allowed under current law, and because most of the neediest uninsured - with incomes below 200% of poverty line - would not be helped by proposals to expand the income eligibility to a higher level.

Instead, the Administration has taken steps endorsed by governors of both parties to streamline the process of approving innovative state approaches to covering the uninsured, particularly those with lower incomes. These administrative steps, including the recently-announced Health Insurance Flexibility and Accountability Initiative, reflect the Administration's focus on results for reducing the uninsured and will accomplish right now many of the goals of legislation to expand SCHIP that is now being debated in Congress - including covering parents and covering additional "optional" populations. The Administration believes that we should move forward now on covering more people through Medicaid and SCHIP, and that this can be done through current law. In fact, Secretary Thompson has worked through a backlog of state applications for additional coverage quickly - resulting in expansions of coverage to over 800,000 lower-income Americans at already this year, with more expansions expected.

Questions & Answers

Q1: Many say that the new budget numbers will prevent the President from funding a prescription drug benefit for seniors. Is this true?

President Bush wants to give seniors a Medicare prescription drug benefit as soon as possible. That's why his budget includes $190 billion to improve Medicare and get seniors a long-overdue drug benefit.

While many have chosen to play politics on Medicare, the President has already taken immediate action to get help to seniors who face skyrocketing drug bills. He introduced a prescription drug discount card to help seniors save money on their prescription drug bills. AARP praised the President for his new card. The President unveiled the new card because he thinks it is important to get seniors help as soon as possible.

The new budget numbers show the President has actually increased from earlier this year the amount of money available for a prescription drug benefit and improvements to Medicare – From $153 billion over 10 years to $190 billion over 8 years.

Q2: Many assert that the new budget numbers will prevent President Bush from funding his increases in military spending. Is this true?

The President is committed to funding his long-overdue increases in spending on our men and women in uniform.

He has already taken immediate action to send money to our troops who need important improvements in their quality of life. Earlier this year the President signed into law $5.6 million in money to address urgent defense needs, including pay raises and training and housing improvements.

Q3: Will the new budget numbers prevent the President from helping those who need health care?

The President is committed to improving health insurance and bringing health care to those who currently are uninsured or have no access to it.

- ☑ The President is working to improve Medicaid and the State Children's Health Insurance Programs to increase access for the 42 million Americans who are today uninsured.
- ☑ The President has proposed $71 billion in health insurance tax credits to help low-income Americans purchase health insurance.
- ☑ The President has provided $190 billion over 8 years to improve Medicare and give seniors better health care and a prescription drug benefit. The President also took immediate action to help seniors with a new prescription drug discount card.
- ☑ His budget includes a $124 million increase for community health centers which help get care to 11 million people in inner cities and rural areas. The President's budget includes the first installment of a five-year plan to double the number of people served by the health centers.
- ☑ Budget includes $2.75 billion increase for the National Institutes of Health to help double spending in the coming years on important health care research. The increase will help support a record 34,000 research project grants to help improve the health of all Americans.

- ☑ The President forged a compromise to break six years of gridlock and get important new patient protections to Americans.

- ☑ $100 million to increase access to drug treatment.

- ☑ $ 22 million for childhood immunization.

(More specific details on the SCHIP program)

The Administration has not agreed that the best use of these funds is to expand the SCHIP program. This is because most states have not yet used their full SCHIP allocation allowed under current law, and because most of the neediest uninsured - with incomes below 200% of poverty line - would not be helped by proposals to expand the income eligibility to a higher level.

Instead, the Administration has taken steps endorsed by governors of both parties to streamline the process of approving innovative state approaches to covering the uninsured, particularly those with lower incomes. These administrative steps, including the recently-announced Health Insurance Flexibility and Accountability Initiative, reflect the Administration's focus on results for reducing the uninsured and will accomplish right now many of the goals of legislation to expand SCHIP that is now being debated in Congress - including covering parents and covering additional "optional" populations. The Administration believes that we should move forward now on covering more people through Medicaid and SCHIP, and that this can be done through current law. In fact, Secretary Thompson has worked through a backlog of state applications for additional coverage quickly - resulting in expansions of coverage to over 800,000 lower-income Americans at already this year, with more expansions expected.

Questions & Answers

Q1: Many say that the new budget numbers will prevent the President from funding a prescription drug benefit for seniors. Is this true?

President Bush wants to give seniors a Medicare prescription drug benefit as soon as possible. That's why his budget includes $190 billion to improve Medicare and get seniors a long-overdue drug benefit.

While many have chosen to play politics on Medicare, the President has already taken immediate action to get help to seniors who face skyrocketing drug bills. He introduced a prescription drug discount card to help seniors save money on their prescription drug bills. AARP praised the President for his new card. The President unveiled the new card because he thinks it is important to get seniors help as soon as possible.

The new budget numbers show the President has actually increased from earlier this year the amount of money available for a prescription drug benefit and improvements to Medicare – From $153 billion over 10 years to $190 billion over 8 years.

Q2: Many assert that the new budget numbers will prevent President Bush from funding his increases in military spending. Is this true?

The President is committed to funding his long-overdue increases in spending on our men and women in uniform.

He has already taken immediate action to send money to our troops who need important improvements in their quality of life. Earlier this year the President signed into law $5.6 million in money to address urgent defense needs, including pay raises and training and housing improvements.

Q3: Will the new budget numbers prevent the President from helping those who need health care?

The President is committed to improving health insurance and bringing health care to those who currently are uninsured or have no access to it.

- ☑ The President is working to improve Medicaid and the State Children's Health Insurance Programs to increase access for the 42 million Americans who are today uninsured.
- ☑ The President has proposed $71 billion in health insurance tax credits to help low-income Americans purchase health insurance.
- ☑ The President has provided $190 billion over 8 years to improve Medicare and give seniors better health care and a prescription drug benefit. The President also took immediate action to help seniors with a new prescription drug discount card.
- ☑ His budget includes a $124 million increase for community health centers which help get care to 11 million people in inner cities and rural areas. The President's budget includes the first installment of a five-year plan to double the number of people served by the health centers.
- ☑ Budget includes $2.75 billion increase for the National Institutes of Health to help double spending in the coming years on important health care research. The increase will help support a record 34,000 research project grants to help improve the health of all Americans.

- ☑ The President forged a compromise to break six years of gridlock and get important new patient protections to Americans.

- ☑ $100 million to increase access to drug treatment.

- ☑ $ 22 million for childhood immunization.

(More specific details on the SCHIP program)

The Administration has not agreed that the best use of these funds is to expand the SCHIP program. This is because most states have not yet used their full SCHIP allocation allowed under current law, and because most of the neediest uninsured - with incomes below 200% of poverty line - would not be helped by proposals to expand the income eligibility to a higher level.

Instead, the Administration has taken steps endorsed by governors of both parties to streamline the process of approving innovative state approaches to covering the uninsured, particularly those with lower incomes. These administrative steps, including the recently-announced Health Insurance Flexibility and Accountability Initiative, reflect the Administration's focus on results for reducing the uninsured and will accomplish right now many of the goals of legislation to expand SCHIP that is now being debated in Congress - including covering parents and covering additional "optional" populations. The Administration believes that we should move forward now on covering more people through Medicaid and SCHIP, and that this can be done through current law. In fact, Secretary Thompson has worked through a backlog of state applications for additional coverage quickly - resulting in expansions of coverage to over 800,000 lower-income Americans at already this year, with more expansions expected.

Questions & Answers

Q1: Many say that the new budget numbers will prevent the President from funding a prescription drug benefit for seniors. Is this true?

President Bush wants to give seniors a Medicare prescription drug benefit as soon as possible. That's why his budget includes $190 billion to improve Medicare and get seniors a long-overdue drug benefit.

While many have chosen to play politics on Medicare, the President has already taken immediate action to get help to seniors who face skyrocketing drug bills. He introduced a prescription drug discount card to help seniors save money on their prescription drug bills. AARP praised the President for his new card. The President unveiled the new card because he thinks it is important to get seniors help as soon as possible.

The new budget numbers show the President has actually increased from earlier this year the amount of money available for a prescription drug benefit and improvements to Medicare – From $153 billion over 10 years to $190 billion over 8 years.

Q2: Many assert that the new budget numbers will prevent President Bush from funding his increases in military spending. Is this true?

The President is committed to funding his long-overdue increases in spending on our men and women in uniform.

He has already taken immediate action to send money to our troops who need important improvements in their quality of life. Earlier this year the President signed into law $5.6 million in money to address urgent defense needs, including pay raises and training and housing improvements.

Q3: Will the new budget numbers prevent the President from helping those who need health care?

The President is committed to improving health insurance and bringing health care to those who currently are uninsured or have no access to it.

- ☑ The President is working to improve Medicaid and the State Children's Health Insurance Programs to increase access for the 42 million Americans who are today uninsured.
- ☑ The President has proposed $71 billion in health insurance tax credits to help low-income Americans purchase health insurance.
- ☑ The President has provided $190 billion over 8 years to improve Medicare and give seniors better health care and a prescription drug benefit. The President also took immediate action to help seniors with a new prescription drug discount card.
- ☑ His budget includes a $124 million increase for community health centers which help get care to 11 million people in inner cities and rural areas. The President's budget includes the first installment of a five-year plan to double the number of people served by the health centers.
- ☑ Budget includes $2.75 billion increase for the National Institutes of Health to help double spending in the coming years on important health care research. The increase will help support a record 34,000 research project grants to help improve the health of all Americans.

- ☑ The President forged a compromise to break six years of gridlock and get important new patient protections to Americans.

- ☑ $100 million to increase access to drug treatment.

- ☑ $ 22 million for childhood immunization.

(More specific details on the SCHIP program)

The Administration has not agreed that the best use of these funds is to expand the SCHIP program. This is because most states have not yet used their full SCHIP allocation allowed under current law, and because most of the neediest uninsured - with incomes below 200% of poverty line - would not be helped by proposals to expand the income eligibility to a higher level.

Instead, the Administration has taken steps endorsed by governors of both parties to streamline the process of approving innovative state approaches to covering the uninsured, particularly those with lower incomes. These administrative steps, including the recently-announced Health Insurance Flexibility and Accountability Initiative, reflect the Administration's focus on results for reducing the uninsured and will accomplish right now many of the goals of legislation to expand SCHIP that is now being debated in Congress - including covering parents and covering additional "optional" populations. The Administration believes that we should move forward now on covering more people through Medicaid and SCHIP, and that this can be done through current law. In fact, Secretary Thompson has worked through a backlog of state applications for additional coverage quickly - resulting in expansions of coverage to over 800,000 lower-income Americans at already this year, with more expansions expected.

Questions & Answers

Q1: Many say that the new budget numbers will prevent the President from funding a prescription drug benefit for seniors. Is this true?

President Bush wants to give seniors a Medicare prescription drug benefit as soon as possible. That's why his budget includes $190 billion to improve Medicare and get seniors a long-overdue drug benefit.

While many have chosen to play politics on Medicare, the President has already taken immediate action to get help to seniors who face skyrocketing drug bills. He introduced a prescription drug discount card to help seniors save money on their prescription drug bills. AARP praised the President for his new card. The President unveiled the new card because he thinks it is important to get seniors help as soon as possible.

The new budget numbers show the President has actually increased from earlier this year the amount of money available for a prescription drug benefit and improvements to Medicare – From $153 billion over 10 years to $190 billion over 8 years.

Q2: Many assert that the new budget numbers will prevent President Bush from funding his increases in military spending. Is this true?

The President is committed to funding his long-overdue increases in spending on our men and women in uniform.

He has already taken immediate action to send money to our troops who need important improvements in their quality of life. Earlier this year the President signed into law $5.6 million in money to address urgent defense needs, including pay raises and training and housing improvements.

Q3: Will the new budget numbers prevent the President from helping those who need health care?

The President is committed to improving health insurance and bringing health care to those who currently are uninsured or have no access to it.

- ☑ The President is working to improve Medicaid and the State Children's Health Insurance Programs to increase access for the 42 million Americans who are today uninsured.
- ☑ The President has proposed $71 billion in health insurance tax credits to help low-income Americans purchase health insurance.
- ☑ The President has provided $190 billion over 8 years to improve Medicare and give seniors better health care and a prescription drug benefit. The President also took immediate action to help seniors with a new prescription drug discount card.
- ☑ His budget includes a $124 million increase for community health centers which help get care to 11 million people in inner cities and rural areas. The President's budget includes the first installment of a five-year plan to double the number of people served by the health centers.
- ☑ Budget includes $2.75 billion increase for the National Institutes of Health to help double spending in the coming years on important health care research. The increase will help support a record 34,000 research project grants to help improve the health of all Americans.

- ☑ The President forged a compromise to break six years of gridlock and get important new patient protections to Americans.

- ☑ $100 million to increase access to drug treatment.

- ☑ $ 22 million for childhood immunization.

(More specific details on the SCHIP program)

The Administration has not agreed that the best use of these funds is to expand the SCHIP program. This is because most states have not yet used their full SCHIP allocation allowed under current law, and because most of the neediest uninsured - with incomes below 200% of poverty line - would not be helped by proposals to expand the income eligibility to a higher level.

Instead, the Administration has taken steps endorsed by governors of both parties to streamline the process of approving innovative state approaches to covering the uninsured, particularly those with lower incomes. These administrative steps, including the recently-announced Health Insurance Flexibility and Accountability Initiative, reflect the Administration's focus on results for reducing the uninsured and will accomplish right now many of the goals of legislation to expand SCHIP that is now being debated in Congress - including covering parents and covering additional "optional" populations. The Administration believes that we should move forward now on covering more people through Medicaid and SCHIP, and that this can be done through current law. In fact, Secretary Thompson has worked through a backlog of state applications for additional coverage quickly - resulting in expansions of coverage to over 800,000 lower-income Americans at already this year, with more expansions expected.

about the President's defense and education funding increases in the context of the new budget numbers, here's your response:

Q: Don,t the new budget numbers jeopardize the education funding increases the President is seeking?

The new budget numbers include the President,s education plan to leave no child behind.

The President has proposed historic levels of education funding to increase the focus on reform and results in our schools.

School is getting ready to start and the President has called on Congress to send him these important funding increases as soon as possible. Congress shouldn,t hold these important funding increases for our children hostage to partisan political games.

In FY 2002, the President's budget provides an 11% increase for the Department of Education. This funding is included in the Mid Session Review.

The President provided the Education Department the largest percentage spending increase of any federal department and tripled funding for children,s reading programs.

Q: Don,t the new budget numbers prevent the $18.4 billion spending increase for defense that the President supports?

No. The full $18.4 billion is included in the new Mid Session Review.

As long as Congress sticks to the budget it already passed with bipartisan support we can still fund the President,s increases in defense spending for our men and women in uniform.

about the President's defense and education funding increases in the context of the new budget numbers, here's your response:

The President's defense and education funding increases are included in the Mid-Session Review.
Q: Don,t the new budget numbers jeopardize the education funding increases the President is seeking?

The new budget numbers include the President,s education plan to leave no child behind.

The President has proposed historic levels of education funding to increase the focus on reform and results in our schools.

School is getting ready to start and the President has called on Congress to send him these important funding increases as soon as possible. Congress shouldn,t hold these important funding increases for our children hostage to partisan political games.

In FY 2002, the President's budget provides an 11% increase for the Department of Education. This funding is included in the Mid Session Review.

The President provided the Education Department the largest percentage spending increase of any federal department and tripled funding for children,s reading programs.

Q: Don,t the new budget numbers prevent the $18.4 billion spending increase for defense that the President supports?

No. The full $18.4 billion is included in the new Mid Session Review.

As long as Congress sticks to the budget it already passed with bipartisan support we can still fund the President,s increases in defense spending for our men and women in uniform.

about the President's defense and education funding increases in the context of the new budget numbers, here's your response:

The President's defense and education funding increases are included in the Mid-Session Review.
Q: Don,t the new budget numbers jeopardize the education funding increases the President is seeking?

The new budget numbers include the President,s education plan to leave no child behind.

The President has proposed historic levels of education funding to increase the focus on reform and results in our schools.

School is getting ready to start and the President has called on Congress to send him these important funding increases as soon as possible. Congress shouldn,t hold these important funding increases for our children hostage to partisan political games.

In FY 2002, the President's budget provides an 11% increase for the Department of Education. This funding is included in the Mid Session Review.

The President provided the Education Department the largest percentage spending increase of any federal department and tripled funding for children,s reading programs.

Q: Don,t the new budget numbers prevent the $18.4 billion spending increase for defense that the President supports?

No. The full $18.4 billion is included in the new Mid Session Review.

As long as Congress sticks to the budget it already passed with bipartisan support we can still fund the President,s increases in defense spending for our men and women in uniform.

When you are asked why the President's partisan opponents are losing momentum with their partisan budget attacks, refer people to today's incoherent Fox News Sunday performance by Democrat budget leader John Spratt. Spratt showed that it is quite possible to be on 7 sides of a 2-sided issue (the previous record was three sides of a two-sided issue). Take a moment to read the 7 sides of the Democrat's puzzling argument below as well as the actual transcript.

As you read below keep in mind that Webster's Dictionary defines the word "incoherent" as -- "not logically connected, disjointed, rambling."

FOX NEWS SUNDAY

1. Spratt begins by saying "Democrats" created the surplus -- Hume points out that maybe, perhaps, just quite possibly, could the American people deserve at least some credit for the surplus? Spratt says Democrat budget policy created the surplus.

2. Spratt then says that tax cuts are a good way to stimulate the economy.

3. Spratt then says he is against repealing tax cuts and points out that the Democrats were actually the ones who were first to support the idea of immediate tax rebates.

4. Spratt then admits that the rebates which Democrats were first to support are the same rebates that have affected the surplus.

5. Spratt then says that, in fact, the government is not in the red -- a clear disagreement with the DNC, Daschle, Conrad and others who are running ads saying the government IS in the red.

6. Spratt then says that given the state of the economy, repealing the tax cut is a bad idea.

7. Finally, Spratt says that he is against raising taxes given our current economy.

The Transcript

HUME: Well, let me just -- you said something -- you delivered the Democratic response to the president's radio address on Saturday, and you had a line in there that intrigued me. I wanted to ask you about it. You said, speaking of President Bush's arrival in office, quote, "We gave him an advantage few presidents have ever enjoyed, a budget in surplus." When you say, "we gave him," who are "we"?
SPRATT: Well, the whole Congress, but particularly Democrats, when we passed the three budget acts that laid the basis for what happened in the 1990s. And what happened in the '90s is, we moved the budget from a deficit of $290 billion to a surplus of more than $230 billion. The three acts that laid the basis for that were all supported by Democrats.
HUME: Would you not say, sir, or perhaps you wouldn't, when you speak of giving the president or the government or anybody a surplus, that the taxpayers had something to do with that?
SPRATT: Sure, they did, but budget policy turned the budget around, from a $290 billion deficit in 1992 when President Bush was leaving office to a surplus of more than $250 billion when he came to office. That's a phenomenal turnaround, and budget policy laid by Democrats was responsible for that.
HUME: You would not credit the majority Republicans in the House and the Senate for any of that?
SPRATT: That's why I said "we." I was using a broad enough term to include other people. But if you look at the votes in 1990, when we did the budget summit with President Bush, Democrats passed it.
HUME: I see.
SPRATT: '93, the Clinton budget, all Democrats. And then President Clinton called us together to do the balanced budget agreement of '97. If he hadn't been behind that, it wouldn't have happened.
HUME: I see.
Now, let me just try with you what I tried with Lawrence Lindsey to no particular avail, I'm sorry to say. But as a matter of economics, is it, in your judgment, a good idea for this economy itself to be running a budget surplus, whether in Social Security or not, when the economy is slowing?
SPRATT: Well, look, there are three ways to stimulate economies that are slowing down. One is to increase spending. That's a traditional Keynesian solution. Another is to lower taxes. That's the solution the administration is now pursuing.
A third is to lower interest rates. The Fed has been doing that, but as of yet we have not really brought down the long-term interest rate, and that's the rate, the 30-year-bond rate, that's critical to long-term investment, the kind of investment you want to see that gets the economy kicked up and going again.

HUME: All right. Now, you complained in your radio address and elsewhere about the tax cut...
SPRATT: Right.
HUME: ... saying that it is too big and blaming it for the decline of the non-Social Security surplus. Does that mean, sir, that you would prefer to repeal this tax cut?
SPRATT: No. I also say there that we were the first to support the rebate.
HUME: And the rebate, of course, is the portion of the tax cut that has affected this year's budget surplus, isn't it?
SPRATT: It has indeed this year.
(CROSSTALK)
HUME: I understand. Well, then, how can you blame him and his policies for diminishing the surplus when it was a portion of the tax cut that you and your Democratic colleagues enthusiastically supported that affected this year?
SPRATT: Because, in addition to the rebate this year, the Bush administration, to take care of its tax cut next year, shifted $33 billion out of this year into next year by saying to corporations, don't pay your taxes any more on September 15, pay them on October 1. That artificial gimmick shifted $33 billion and put us in the red.
HUME: Now, well, if it's artificial, then we're not really in the red because of it, is it?
SPRATT: Well, we're not in the red. It doesn't appear to be in the red, because it shifted. Yes, we're still in the red. The money's going to come in the fiscal year 2002 instead of 2001.
HUME: All right. So may we assume then that you will aggressively be seeking to repeal a portion of the tax cut in order to stem what you consider to be later-year red ink?
SPRATT: Listen, given the fragile state of our economy right now, I don't think we should be jerking it around, talking about repealing the tax cut.
Let me remind you of something, though. The tax cut repeals itself. In order to shim this big tax cut into the budget, the Bush administration and the Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee put sunset dates for most of the major tax provisions into the bill.
HUME: Well, I understand that, sir. But I mean, what's puzzling to me here is, I'm not sure what you're -- I mean, you have a strong reputation as a serious policymaker. What are the policy alternatives that you would now propose to deal with the problem that you've outlined here? You make a case, it's a case largely against the tax cut. It particularly comes into play in later years, and yet you say you don't want to change it. I don't know how you can complain on the one hand...
SPRATT: I said, right now, given the fragile condition of the economy.
HUME: All right. Would you...
SPRATT: My concern...
HUME: Well, assume an upturn next year, would you propose then, if the economy's in better shape, to repeal the tax cut?
SPRATT: Listen, we're going to sit down and look at the whole budget again next year because the numbers have changed so drastically on us. Let's hope they get better between now and next year.
But bear this in mind: The Bush administration assumes that we will have an economy surging back in the next calendar year. Larry Lindsey just said he doesn't expect a significant growth rate in the third quarter. So, between the third quarter and the first quarter of 2002, this economy's got to get on its feet and start running.
The disturbing thing about the Bush forecast, the OMB forecast last week, is that we're not just looking at a cyclical downturn, a return to

deficits because the economy is down, but even after the economy gets back on its feet and grows upon their assumption at a rate of 3.2 percent a year, even then we still have a negative bottom line, after you back out Social Security and Medicare, as we think you should.
HUME: Well, if, just finally, one more time, the antidote to that would then be, raise taxes?
SPRATT: No, I'm not advocating a raise in taxes. I'm advocating a whole look at the budget. And I'm saying to the president, as Dick Gephardt did last weekend, we believe that those who produce this budget have the burden of producing another budget and some recommendations.
And then we would like to get engaged. We were not engaged, not consulted at all. This was the most unilateral budget I've seen in the 10 or 12 years that I've been involved in the budget process.
HUME: Congressman...
SPRATT: We have to be engaged in the solution. We're ready to work with the president to work out a solution.
HUME: Congressman Spratt, it's a pleasure to have you, sir.
SPRATT: Thank you, Brit.
HUME: Congratulations again on your new grandchild, and thanks for being with us.

When you are asked why the President's partisan opponents are losing momentum with their partisan budget attacks, refer people to today's incoherent Fox News Sunday performance by Democrat budget leader John Spratt. Spratt showed that it is quite possible to be on 7 sides of a 2-sided issue (the previous record was three sides of a two-sided issue). Take a moment to read the 7 sides of the Democrat's puzzling argument below as well as the actual transcript.

As you read below keep in mind that Webster's Dictionary defines the word "incoherent" as -- "not logically connected, disjointed, rambling."

FOX NEWS SUNDAY

1. Spratt begins by saying "Democrats" created the surplus -- Hume points out that maybe, perhaps, just quite possibly, could the American people deserve at least some credit for the surplus? Spratt says Democrat budget policy created the surplus.

2. Spratt then says that tax cuts are a good way to stimulate the economy.

3. Spratt then says he is against repealing tax cuts and points out that the Democrats were actually the ones who were first to support the idea of immediate tax rebates.

4. Spratt then admits that the rebates which Democrats were first to support are the same rebates that have affected the surplus.

5. Spratt then says that, in fact, the government is not in the red -- a clear disagreement with the DNC, Daschle, Conrad and others who are running ads saying the government IS in the red.

6. Spratt then says that given the state of the economy, repealing the tax cut is a bad idea.

7. Finally, Spratt says that he is against raising taxes given our current economy.

The Transcript

HUME: Well, let me just -- you said something -- you delivered the Democratic response to the president's radio address on Saturday, and you had a line in there that intrigued me. I wanted to ask you about it. You said, speaking of President Bush's arrival in office, quote, "We gave him an advantage few presidents have ever enjoyed, a budget in surplus." When you say, "we gave him," who are "we"?
SPRATT: Well, the whole Congress, but particularly Democrats, when we passed the three budget acts that laid the basis for what happened in the 1990s. And what happened in the '90s is, we moved the budget from a deficit of $290 billion to a surplus of more than $230 billion. The three acts that laid the basis for that were all supported by Democrats.
HUME: Would you not say, sir, or perhaps you wouldn't, when you speak of giving the president or the government or anybody a surplus, that the taxpayers had something to do with that?
SPRATT: Sure, they did, but budget policy turned the budget around, from a $290 billion deficit in 1992 when President Bush was leaving office to a surplus of more than $250 billion when he came to office. That's a phenomenal turnaround, and budget policy laid by Democrats was responsible for that.
HUME: You would not credit the majority Republicans in the House and the Senate for any of that?
SPRATT: That's why I said "we." I was using a broad enough term to include other people. But if you look at the votes in 1990, when we did the budget summit with President Bush, Democrats passed it.
HUME: I see.
SPRATT: '93, the Clinton budget, all Democrats. And then President Clinton called us together to do the balanced budget agreement of '97. If he hadn't been behind that, it wouldn't have happened.
HUME: I see.
Now, let me just try with you what I tried with Lawrence Lindsey to no particular avail, I'm sorry to say. But as a matter of economics, is it, in your judgment, a good idea for this economy itself to be running a budget surplus, whether in Social Security or not, when the economy is slowing?
SPRATT: Well, look, there are three ways to stimulate economies that are slowing down. One is to increase spending. That's a traditional Keynesian solution. Another is to lower taxes. That's the solution the administration is now pursuing.
A third is to lower interest rates. The Fed has been doing that, but as of yet we have not really brought down the long-term interest rate, and that's the rate, the 30-year-bond rate, that's critical to long-term investment, the kind of investment you want to see that gets the economy kicked up and going again.

HUME: All right. Now, you complained in your radio address and elsewhere about the tax cut...
SPRATT: Right.
HUME: ... saying that it is too big and blaming it for the decline of the non-Social Security surplus. Does that mean, sir, that you would prefer to repeal this tax cut?
SPRATT: No. I also say there that we were the first to support the rebate.
HUME: And the rebate, of course, is the portion of the tax cut that has affected this year's budget surplus, isn't it?
SPRATT: It has indeed this year.
(CROSSTALK)
HUME: I understand. Well, then, how can you blame him and his policies for diminishing the surplus when it was a portion of the tax cut that you and your Democratic colleagues enthusiastically supported that affected this year?
SPRATT: Because, in addition to the rebate this year, the Bush administration, to take care of its tax cut next year, shifted $33 billion out of this year into next year by saying to corporations, don't pay your taxes any more on September 15, pay them on October 1. That artificial gimmick shifted $33 billion and put us in the red.
HUME: Now, well, if it's artificial, then we're not really in the red because of it, is it?
SPRATT: Well, we're not in the red. It doesn't appear to be in the red, because it shifted. Yes, we're still in the red. The money's going to come in the fiscal year 2002 instead of 2001.
HUME: All right. So may we assume then that you will aggressively be seeking to repeal a portion of the tax cut in order to stem what you consider to be later-year red ink?
SPRATT: Listen, given the fragile state of our economy right now, I don't think we should be jerking it around, talking about repealing the tax cut.
Let me remind you of something, though. The tax cut repeals itself. In order to shim this big tax cut into the budget, the Bush administration and the Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee put sunset dates for most of the major tax provisions into the bill.
HUME: Well, I understand that, sir. But I mean, what's puzzling to me here is, I'm not sure what you're -- I mean, you have a strong reputation as a serious policymaker. What are the policy alternatives that you would now propose to deal with the problem that you've outlined here? You make a case, it's a case largely against the tax cut. It particularly comes into play in later years, and yet you say you don't want to change it. I don't know how you can complain on the one hand...
SPRATT: I said, right now, given the fragile condition of the economy.
HUME: All right. Would you...
SPRATT: My concern...
HUME: Well, assume an upturn next year, would you propose then, if the economy's in better shape, to repeal the tax cut?
SPRATT: Listen, we're going to sit down and look at the whole budget again next year because the numbers have changed so drastically on us. Let's hope they get better between now and next year.
But bear this in mind: The Bush administration assumes that we will have an economy surging back in the next calendar year. Larry Lindsey just said he doesn't expect a significant growth rate in the third quarter. So, between the third quarter and the first quarter of 2002, this economy's got to get on its feet and start running.
The disturbing thing about the Bush forecast, the OMB forecast last week, is that we're not just looking at a cyclical downturn, a return to

on-budget
deficits because the economy is down, but even after the economy gets back on its feet and grows upon their assumption at a rate of 3.2 percent a year, even then we still have a negative bottom line, after you back out Social Security and Medicare, as we think you should.
HUME: Well, if, just finally, one more time, the antidote to that would then be, raise taxes?
SPRATT: No, I'm not advocating a raise in taxes. I'm advocating a whole look at the budget. And I'm saying to the president, as Dick Gephardt did last weekend, we believe that those who produce this budget have the burden of producing another budget and some recommendations.
And then we would like to get engaged. We were not engaged, not consulted at all. This was the most unilateral budget I've seen in the 10 or 12 years that I've been involved in the budget process.
HUME: Congressman...
SPRATT: We have to be engaged in the solution. We're ready to work with the president to work out a solution.
HUME: Congressman Spratt, it's a pleasure to have you, sir.
SPRATT: Thank you, Brit.
HUME: Congratulations again on your new grandchild, and thanks for being with us.

When you are asked why the President's partisan opponents are losing momentum with their partisan budget attacks, refer people to today's incoherent Fox News Sunday performance by Democrat budget leader John Spratt. Spratt showed that it is quite possible to be on 7 sides of a 2-sided issue (the previous record was three sides of a two-sided issue). Take a moment to read the 7 sides of the Democrat's puzzling argument below as well as the actual transcript.

As you read below keep in mind that Webster's Dictionary defines the word "incoherent" as -- "not logically connected, disjointed, rambling."

FOX NEWS SUNDAY

1. Spratt begins by saying "Democrats" created the surplus -- Hume points out that maybe, perhaps, just quite possibly, could the American people deserve at least some credit for the surplus? Spratt says Democrat budget policy created the surplus.

2. Spratt then says that tax cuts are a good way to stimulate the economy.

3. Spratt then says he is against repealing tax cuts and points out that the Democrats were actually the ones who were first to support the idea of immediate tax rebates.

4. Spratt then admits that the rebates which Democrats were first to support are the same rebates that have affected the surplus.

5. Spratt then says that, in fact, the government is not in the red -- a clear disagreement with the DNC, Daschle, Conrad and others who are running ads saying the government IS in the red.

6. Spratt then says that given the state of the economy, repealing the tax cut is a bad idea.

7. Finally, Spratt says that he is against raising taxes given our current economy.

The Transcript

HUME: Well, let me just -- you said something -- you delivered the Democratic response to the president's radio address on Saturday, and you had a line in there that intrigued me. I wanted to ask you about it. You said, speaking of President Bush's arrival in office, quote, "We gave him an advantage few presidents have ever enjoyed, a budget in surplus." When you say, "we gave him," who are "we"?
SPRATT: Well, the whole Congress, but particularly Democrats, when we passed the three budget acts that laid the basis for what happened in the 1990s. And what happened in the '90s is, we moved the budget from a deficit of $290 billion to a surplus of more than $230 billion. The three acts that laid the basis for that were all supported by Democrats.
HUME: Would you not say, sir, or perhaps you wouldn't, when you speak of giving the president or the government or anybody a surplus, that the taxpayers had something to do with that?
SPRATT: Sure, they did, but budget policy turned the budget around, from a $290 billion deficit in 1992 when President Bush was leaving office to a surplus of more than $250 billion when he came to office. That's a phenomenal turnaround, and budget policy laid by Democrats was responsible for that.
HUME: You would not credit the majority Republicans in the House and the Senate for any of that?
SPRATT: That's why I said "we." I was using a broad enough term to include other people. But if you look at the votes in 1990, when we did the budget summit with President Bush, Democrats passed it.
HUME: I see.
SPRATT: '93, the Clinton budget, all Democrats. And then President Clinton called us together to do the balanced budget agreement of '97. If he hadn't been behind that, it wouldn't have happened.
HUME: I see.
Now, let me just try with you what I tried with Lawrence Lindsey to no particular avail, I'm sorry to say. But as a matter of economics, is it, in your judgment, a good idea for this economy itself to be running a budget surplus, whether in Social Security or not, when the economy is slowing?
SPRATT: Well, look, there are three ways to stimulate economies that are slowing down. One is to increase spending. That's a traditional Keynesian solution. Another is to lower taxes. That's the solution the administration is now pursuing.
A third is to lower interest rates. The Fed has been doing that, but as of yet we have not really brought down the long-term interest rate, and that's the rate, the 30-year-bond rate, that's critical to long-term investment, the kind of investment you want to see that gets the economy kicked up and going again.

HUME: All right. Now, you complained in your radio address and elsewhere about the tax cut...
SPRATT: Right.
HUME: ... saying that it is too big and blaming it for the decline of the non-Social Security surplus. Does that mean, sir, that you would prefer to repeal this tax cut?
SPRATT: No. I also say there that we were the first to support the rebate.
HUME: And the rebate, of course, is the portion of the tax cut that has affected this year's budget surplus, isn't it?
SPRATT: It has indeed this year.
(CROSSTALK)
HUME: I understand. Well, then, how can you blame him and his policies for diminishing the surplus when it was a portion of the tax cut that you and your Democratic colleagues enthusiastically supported that affected this year?
SPRATT: Because, in addition to the rebate this year, the Bush administration, to take care of its tax cut next year, shifted $33 billion out of this year into next year by saying to corporations, don't pay your taxes any more on September 15, pay them on October 1. That artificial gimmick shifted $33 billion and put us in the red.
HUME: Now, well, if it's artificial, then we're not really in the red because of it, is it?
SPRATT: Well, we're not in the red. It doesn't appear to be in the red, because it shifted. Yes, we're still in the red. The money's going to come in the fiscal year 2002 instead of 2001.
HUME: All right. So may we assume then that you will aggressively be seeking to repeal a portion of the tax cut in order to stem what you consider to be later-year red ink?
SPRATT: Listen, given the fragile state of our economy right now, I don't think we should be jerking it around, talking about repealing the tax cut.
Let me remind you of something, though. The tax cut repeals itself. In order to shim this big tax cut into the budget, the Bush administration and the Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee put sunset dates for most of the major tax provisions into the bill.
HUME: Well, I understand that, sir. But I mean, what's puzzling to me here is, I'm not sure what you're -- I mean, you have a strong reputation as a serious policymaker. What are the policy alternatives that you would now propose to deal with the problem that you've outlined here? You make a case, it's a case largely against the tax cut. It particularly comes into play in later years, and yet you say you don't want to change it. I don't know how you can complain on the one hand...
SPRATT: I said, right now, given the fragile condition of the economy.
HUME: All right. Would you...
SPRATT: My concern...
HUME: Well, assume an upturn next year, would you propose then, if the economy's in better shape, to repeal the tax cut?
SPRATT: Listen, we're going to sit down and look at the whole budget again next year because the numbers have changed so drastically on us. Let's hope they get better between now and next year.
But bear this in mind: The Bush administration assumes that we will have an economy surging back in the next calendar year. Larry Lindsey just said he doesn't expect a significant growth rate in the third quarter. So, between the third quarter and the first quarter of 2002, this economy's got to get on its feet and start running.
The disturbing thing about the Bush forecast, the OMB forecast last week, is that we're not just looking at a cyclical downturn, a return to

on-budget
deficits because the economy is down, but even after the economy gets back on its feet and grows upon their assumption at a rate of 3.2 percent a year, even then we still have a negative bottom line, after you back out Social Security and Medicare, as we think you should.
HUME: Well, if, just finally, one more time, the antidote to that would then be, raise taxes?
SPRATT: No, I'm not advocating a raise in taxes. I'm advocating a whole look at the budget. And I'm saying to the president, as Dick Gephardt did last weekend, we believe that those who produce this budget have the burden of producing another budget and some recommendations.
And then we would like to get engaged. We were not engaged, not consulted at all. This was the most unilateral budget I've seen in the 10 or 12 years that I've been involved in the budget process.
HUME: Congressman...
SPRATT: We have to be engaged in the solution. We're ready to work with the president to work out a solution.
HUME: Congressman Spratt, it's a pleasure to have you, sir.
SPRATT: Thank you, Brit.
HUME: Congratulations again on your new grandchild, and thanks for being with us.
