President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Tennessee Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Tennessee:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated 916,202 students in Tennessee by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Tennessee public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 1,554 public schools in Tennessee by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Tennessee:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated 916,202 Tennessee public school children, 1,554 Tennessee public schools, and 56,971 Tennessee teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Tennessee to more than $745.3 million to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – more than $83 million more than last years, and a 28 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $174.2 million to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Tennessee – more than $25 million more than last year, and a 22 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $14.3 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Tennessee learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Tennessee to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides more than $47.4 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $7.3 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Tennessee
- ✓ Provides an estimated $4.4 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Tennessee
- ✓ Provides more than $6.9 million in funding to help Tennessee school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $179 million – $11.8 million more than last year, and a 24.5 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Tennessee students from disadvantaged backgrounds

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Puerto Rico Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Puerto Rico:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated 613,019 students in Puerto Rico by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Puerto Rico public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 1,523 public schools in Puerto Rico by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Puerto Rico:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated 613,019 Puerto Rico public school children, 1,523 Puerto Rico public schools, and 41,708 Puerto Rico teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Puerto Rico to more than $1.2 billion to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – more than $159 million more than last year, and a 30.6 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $376 million to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Puerto Rico – nearly $83 million more than last year, and a 32.9 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $27.3 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Puerto Rico learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Puerto Rico to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides more than $93.8 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $11.8 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Puerto Rico
- ✓ Provides an estimated $9.3 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Puerto Rico
- ✓ Provides more than $6.3 million in funding to help Puerto Rico school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $545 million – $44.3 million more than last year, and a 27.2 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Puerto Rico students from disadvantaged backgrounds

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Tennessee Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Tennessee:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated 916,202 students in Tennessee by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Tennessee public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 1,554 public schools in Tennessee by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Tennessee:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated 916,202 Tennessee public school children, 1,554 Tennessee public schools, and 56,971 Tennessee teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Tennessee to more than $745.3 million to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – more than $83 million more than last years, and a 28 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $174.2 million to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Tennessee – more than $25 million more than last year, and a 22 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $14.3 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Tennessee learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Tennessee to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides more than $47.4 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $7.3 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Tennessee
- ✓ Provides an estimated $4.4 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Tennessee
- ✓ Provides more than $6.9 million in funding to help Tennessee school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $179 million – $11.8 million more than last year, and a 24.5 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Tennessee students from disadvantaged backgrounds

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Puerto Rico Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Puerto Rico:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated 613,019 students in Puerto Rico by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Puerto Rico public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 1,523 public schools in Puerto Rico by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Puerto Rico:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated 613,019 Puerto Rico public school children, 1,523 Puerto Rico public schools, and 41,708 Puerto Rico teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Puerto Rico to more than $1.2 billion to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – more than $159 million more than last year, and a 30.6 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $376 million to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Puerto Rico – nearly $83 million more than last year, and a 32.9 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $27.3 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Puerto Rico learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Puerto Rico to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides more than $93.8 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $11.8 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Puerto Rico
- ✓ Provides an estimated $9.3 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Puerto Rico
- ✓ Provides more than $6.3 million in funding to help Puerto Rico school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $545 million – $44.3 million more than last year, and a 27.2 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Puerto Rico students from disadvantaged backgrounds

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Wyoming Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Wyoming:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated 92,105 in Wyoming by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Wyoming public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 385 public schools in Wyoming by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Wyoming:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated 92,105 Wyoming public school children, 385 Wyoming public schools, and 6,895 Wyoming teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Wyoming to more than $118.2 million to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – more than $16 million more than last year, and a 36 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $28.3 million to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Wyoming – more than $6 million more than last year, and a 45 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $2 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Wyoming learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Wyoming to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides nearly $13.6 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $2.3 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Wyoming
- ✓ Provides an estimated $1.5 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Wyoming
- ✓ Provides more than $3.3 million in funding to help Wyoming school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $18.3 million – $1.2 million more than last year, and a 24.4 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Wyoming students from disadvantaged backgrounds

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Utah Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."

- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Utah:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated nearly 480,255 students in Utah by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Utah public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 788 public schools in Utah by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Utah:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated nearly 480,255 Utah public school children, 788 Utah public schools, and 21,500 Utah teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Utah to more than $331.3 million to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – more than $40 million more than last year, and a 32 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $52.5 million to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Utah – more than $10 million more than last year, and a 34 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $4.6 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Utah learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Utah to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides more than $18 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $2.7 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Utah
- ✓ Provides an estimated $1.5 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Utah
- ✓ Provides more than $5 million in funding to help Utah school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $102 million – $6.8 million more than last year, and a 24.6 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Utah students from disadvantaged backgrounds

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Vermont Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Vermont:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated nearly 104,559 students in Vermont by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Vermont public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 359 public schools in Vermont by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Vermont:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated nearly 104,559 Vermont public school children, 359 Vermont public schools, and 8,710 Vermont teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Vermont to more than $122.8 million to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – more than $16 million more than last year, and a 33 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $27 million to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Vermont – more than $6 million more than last year, and a 35 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $2 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Vermont learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Vermont to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides more than $13.6 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $2.3 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Vermont
- ✓ Provides an estimated $1.5 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Vermont
- ✓ Provides more than $3.4 million in funding to help Vermont school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $20.9 million – $1.4 million more than last year, and a 25 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Vermont students from disadvantaged backgrounds

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Texas:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated 4 million Texas public school children, 7,395 Texas public schools, and 274,345 Texas teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Texas to more than $3.3 billion to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – nearly $470 million more than last year, and a 35 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $1 billion to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Texas – nearly $201 million more than last year, and a 32.5 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $79 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Texas learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Texas to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides more than $231 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $36.5 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Texas
- ✓ Provides an estimated $24 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Texas
- ✓ Provides more than $19.4 million in funding to help Texas school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $709.3 million – $48.7 million more than last year, and a 24 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Texas students from disadvantaged backgrounds

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Wyoming Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Wyoming:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated 92,105 in Wyoming by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Wyoming public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 385 public schools in Wyoming by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Wyoming:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated 92,105 Wyoming public school children, 385 Wyoming public schools, and 6,895 Wyoming teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Wyoming to more than $118.2 million to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – more than $16 million more than last year, and a 36 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $28.3 million to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Wyoming – more than $6 million more than last year, and a 45 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $2 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Wyoming learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Wyoming to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides nearly $13.6 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $2.3 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Wyoming
- ✓ Provides an estimated $1.5 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Wyoming
- ✓ Provides more than $3.3 million in funding to help Wyoming school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $18.3 million – $1.2 million more than last year, and a 24.4 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Wyoming students from disadvantaged backgrounds

- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Utah public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 788 public schools in Utah by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Utah:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated nearly 480,255 Utah public school children, 788 Utah public schools, and 21,500 Utah teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Utah to more than $331.3 million to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – more than $40 million more than last year, and a 32 percent increase over 2000 levels

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Vermont Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Vermont:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated nearly 104,559 students in Vermont by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Texas:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated nearly 4 million students in Texas by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Texas public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 7,395 public schools in Texas by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Texas:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated 4 million Texas public school children, 7,395 Texas public schools, and 274,345 Texas teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Texas to more than $3.3 billion to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – nearly $470 million more than last year, and a 35 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $1 billion to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Texas – nearly $201 million more than last year, and a 32.5 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $79 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Texas learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Texas to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides more than $231 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $36.5 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Texas
- ✓ Provides an estimated $24 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Texas
- ✓ Provides more than $19.4 million in funding to help Texas school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $709.3 million – $48.7 million more than last year, and a 24 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Texas students from disadvantaged backgrounds

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Wyoming Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Wyoming:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated 92,105 in Wyoming by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Wyoming public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 385 public schools in Wyoming by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Wyoming:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated 92,105 Wyoming public school children, 385 Wyoming public schools, and 6,895 Wyoming teachers

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Utah Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Utah:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated nearly 480,255 students in Utah by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Utah public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 788 public schools in Utah by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Utah:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated nearly 480,255 Utah public school children, 788 Utah public schools, and 21,500 Utah teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Utah to more than $331.3 million to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – more than $40 million more than last year, and a 32 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $52.5 million to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Utah – more than $10 million more than last year, and a 34 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $4.6 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Utah learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Utah to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides more than $18 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $2.7 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Utah
- ✓ Provides an estimated $1.5 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Utah
- ✓ Provides more than $5 million in funding to help Utah school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $102 million – $6.8 million more than last year, and a 24.6 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Utah students from disadvantaged backgrounds

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Wisconsin Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Wisconsin:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated 877,753 in Wisconsin by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Wisconsin public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 2,118 public schools in Wisconsin by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Wisconsin:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated 877,753 Wisconsin public school children, 2,118 Wisconsin public schools, and 61,285 Wisconsin teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Wisconsin to more than $683 million to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – more than $82 million more than last year, and a 29 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $172.5 million to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Wisconsin – more than $31 million more than last year, and a 28 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $11 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Wisconsin learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Wisconsin to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides nearly $46 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $7.2 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Wisconsin
- ✓ Provides an estimated $4.4 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Wisconsin
- ✓ Provides more than $7 million in funding to help Wisconsin school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $124 million – $8.2 million more than last year, and a 24.5 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Wisconsin students from disadvantaged backgrounds

President Bush Signs Landmark Education Reforms into Law

Bipartisan Effort Reaps Historic Freedom and Flexibility for Texas Schools

"These reforms express my deep belief in our public schools and their mission to build the mind and character of every child, from every background, in every part of America."
– President George W. Bush

President Bush vowed to make educating every child his number-one domestic priority and reform a system that – despite nearly $200 billion in federal funding since 1965 – has failed the neediest in our nation's classrooms.

In response, President Bush proposed a comprehensive, bipartisan plan to improve overall student performance and close the achievement gap between rich and poor students in America's more than 89,599 public schools.

In his first year in office, the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 was passed with an overwhelming majority in both houses of Congress. On January 8, 2002, the President signed into law this landmark legislation that promotes educational excellence for America's:

- ✓ Estimated 46.8 million public school children
- ✓ Nearly 3 million public school teachers
- ✓ More than 89,599 public schools
- ✓ Nearly 17,000 local school districts

The Leave No Child Behind Act Ushers in Sweeping Reforms Based Upon the President's Priorities for Schools throughout America and Texas:

➢ Stronger Accountability for Results

- ✓ Provides the most sweeping reform of the Elementary & Secondary Education Act since it was enacted in 1965 by turning federal spending on schools into a federal investment in improved student performance
- ✓ Redefines the federal role in K-12 education for an estimated nearly 4 million students in Texas by requiring all states to set high standards of achievement and create a system of accountability to measure results
- ✓ Insists that states set high standards for achievement in reading and math — the building blocks of all learning – and test every child in grades 3 through 8 to ensure that students are making progress

➢ Greater Flexibility and Local Control

- ✓ Offers school districts powerful tools to provide the best possible education to all children – especially those most in need – by cutting federal red tape, reducing the number of federal education programs, and creating larger more flexible programs that place decision-making at the local level where it belongs
- ✓ Trusts local parents, educators and school boards to make the best decisions for their children
- ✓ Frees local school districts to spend up to half their federal education dollars however they see fit

➢ Expanded Options and Choice for Parents

- ✓ Empowers parents by providing unprecedented federal support for children from disadvantaged backgrounds who are trapped in low-performing schools
  - Students in failing schools may transfer to higher-performing public schools or get help such as tutoring
  - Students in persistently dangerous schools may transfer to safer public schools
- ✓ Informs parents by requiring states to provide annual report cards of school performance and statewide progress
  - Requirement arms parents with information about the quality of their children's schools, the qualifications of teachers, and their children's progress in key subjects

➢ Emphasis on Teaching Methods that Work

- ✓ Supports reading instruction based upon research-based methods that work to ensure that every child in Texas public schools reads at or above grade level by third grade
- ✓ Strengthens teacher quality for an estimated 7,395 public schools in Texas by investing in training and retention of high-quality teachers

The Leave No Child Behind Act Provides Resources to Support the Reforms:

- ✓ Increases federal education funding under the ESEA to more than $22.1 billion for America's elementary and secondary schools – a 27 percent increase over last year, and a 49 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases federal funding to an estimated $10.4 billion for the Title I program to help disadvantaged students succeed – an 18 percent increase over last year, and a 30 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides nearly $3 billion in federal funding to recruit and retain highly qualified teachers and principals
- ✓ Boosts funding for reading programs to nearly $1 billion so every child in America learns to read
- ✓ Provides an estimated $200 million for charter schools to expand parental choice and free children trapped in persistently failing schools

The No Child Left Behind Act is Especially Good News for the Children and Families in Texas:

- ✓ Benefits an estimated 4 million Texas public school children, 7,395 Texas public schools, and 274,345 Texas teachers
- ✓ Increases federal education funding for Texas to more than $3.3 billion to help local schools ensure that no child is left behind – nearly $470 million more than last year, and a 35 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Increases Title I funding to more than $1 billion to boost the quality of education for disadvantaged children of Texas – nearly $201 million more than last year, and a 32.5 percent increase over 2000 levels
- ✓ Provides more than $79 million in funding for Reading First to ensure that every public school child in Texas learns to read at or above grade level by the third grade
- ✓ Requires every classroom in Texas to have a highly-qualified teacher and provides more than $231 million to train and retain skilled educators
- ✓ Provides an estimated $36.5 million to help ensure safe and drug-free schools in Texas
- ✓ Provides an estimated $24 million to fund after-school programs for at-risk children in Texas
- ✓ Provides more than $19.4 million in funding to help Texas school districts assess how well children are learning and schools are teaching
- ✓ Increases Pell Grant funding to an estimated $709.3 million – $48.7 million more than last year, and a 24 percent increase over 2000 levels – to ensure greater access to a college education for deserving Texas students from disadvantaged backgrounds

A Quality Education for Every Child in America

January 8, 2002

President Bush today signed into law the No Child Left Behind Act – the most sweeping reform of federal education policy in a generation. The legislation, which closely follows the President's agenda to improve America's public schools, passed Congress with overwhelming bipartisan majorities.

- Accountability for Results: Creates strong standards in each state for what every child should know and learn in reading and math in grades 3-8. Student progress and achievement will be measured for every child, every year.
  - ✓ Results from these tests will be made available in annual report cards so parents can measure school performance and statewide progress, evaluate the quality of their child's school, the qualifications of teachers, and their child's progress in key subjects.
  - ✓ Statewide reports will show progress for all student groups, thereby in closing achievement gaps between disadvantaged students and other groups of students.
  - ✓ Hold schools accountable for improving performance of all student groups, so that within 12 years every school will be performing at proficient.

- Unprecedented State & Local Flexibility & Reduced Red Tape: Provides new flexibility for all 50 states and every local school district in America in the use of federal education funds.
  - ✓ Every local school district in America and all 50 states will receive the freedom to target up to 50 percent of federal non-Title I dollars to programs that will have the most positive impact on the students they serve.
  - ✓ Consolidates and streamlines programs and targets resources to existing programs that serve poor students, reducing the overall number of ESEA programs from 55 to 45.

- Focusing Resources on Proven Educational Methods: Focuses educational dollars on proven, research-based approaches that will most help children to learn.
  - ✓ Implements President Bush's Reading First initiative by increasing federal funding for reading programs from $300 million in FY 2001 to more than $900 million in FY 2002, and tying federal funding to the use of scientifically-proven methods of reading instruction.
  - ✓ Implements a new Early Reading First program to support early language, literacy, and pre-reading development of preschool-age children, particularly those from low-income families.
  - ✓ Strengthens teacher quality by providing $2.8 billion for teacher quality and allowing local school districts to use additional federal funds to hire new teachers, increase teacher pay, improve teacher training and development or other uses.

- Expanded Choices for Parents: Enhances options for parents with children in chronically failing schools – and makes these options available immediately in the 2002-03 school year for students in thousands of schools already identified as failing under current law.
  - ✓ Public/Charter School Choice: Once a school is identified as failing, parents will be allowed to transfer their child to a better-performing public or charter school.
  - ✓ Supplemental Services: For the first time, federal Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) can be used to provide supplemental educational services - including tutoring, after school services, and summer school programs - for children in failing schools. Services can be provided by faith- and community-based organizations.
  - ✓ Charter Schools: Expands the charter school initiative, creating more opportunities for parents, educators and interested community leaders to create schools outside the education establishment.

Accountability for Results

Problem

- Since the original Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) was signed into law in 1965, the federal government has spent more than $130 billion to improve public schools.
- Unfortunately, this investment in education has not reduced the achievement gap between well-off and lower-income students or between minority students and non-minority students.

Solution

The NCLB Act will strengthen Title I accountability by requiring States to implement statewide accountability systems covering all public schools and students.

- These systems must be based on challenging State standards in reading and mathematics, annual testing for all students in grades 3-8, and annual statewide progress objectives ensuring that all groups of students reach proficiency within 12 years.
- Assessment results and State progress objectives must be broken out by student groups based on poverty, race and ethnicity, disability, and limited English proficiency to ensure that no group is left behind.
- School districts and schools that fail to make adequate yearly progress (AYP) toward statewide proficiency goals will over time be subject to corrective action and restructuring measures aimed at getting them back on course to meet State standards.
- If a school fails to make AYP for two consecutive years, it will be identified as needing improvement and must develop improvement plans incorporating strategies from scientifically based research. School districts will be required to offer public school choice (unless prohibited by state law) to all students in the failing school no later than the first day of the school year following identification. The district must provide transportation to the new school.
- If a school fails to make AYP for a third consecutive year, the district must continue to offer public school choice and provide Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) for low-achieving disadvantaged students in the school to obtain supplemental services -- tutoring, after school services, or summer school programs -- from the public- or private-sector provider selected by their parents from a State-approved list. Twenty percent of Title I funds at the local school district level must be used for public school choice and supplemental services.
- If a school fails to make AYP for a fourth consecutive year, it will be subject to increasingly tough corrective actions—such as replacing school staff or significantly decreasing management authority at the school level. If a school continues to fail, the school could ultimately face restructuring, which involves a fundamental change in governance, such as a State takeover or placement under private management.
- Schools that meet or exceed AYP objectives or close achievement gaps will be eligible for State Academic Achievement Awards.

Unprecedented State & Local Flexibility

- For too long, federal education programs have come with unfunded federal mandates, one-size-fits-all approaches, and unnecessary and duplicative paperwork.
- When the Elementary and Secondary Education Act was reauthorized in 1994, for example, states were required to regularly test public school students in reading and math. But this federal requirement did not come with the necessary flexibility and resources for states to focus their education strategies on what works to improve student achievement.

Solution

The No Child Left Behind Act provides unprecedented new flexibility for all 50 states and every local school district in America in the use of federal education funds. It will revitalize the "flexibility for accountability" agreement with States first struck by President George H.W. Bush during his historic 1989 education summit with the Nation's Governors at Charlottesville, Virginia. While prior flexibility efforts have focused on waiving some program requirements, the NCLB Act moves beyond this limited approach to give States and school districts unprecedented flexibility in the use of Federal education funds in exchange for strong accountability for results. No Child Left Behind in essence moves decision making away from Washington, D.C., and empowers states and local districts to make more decisions with federal funds for goals such as teacher quality, English language proficiency, technology, and after school enrichment.

- The Department of Education administers four major state grant programs -- Teacher Quality State Grants, Educational Technology, Innovative Programs, and Safe and Drug-Free Schools. New flexibility provisions in the NCLB Act will allow every school district in America to transfer up to 50 percent of the federal funding they receive between any one of these programs or to Title I. This will allow school districts to put resources into the programs that most closely match their unique local needs. States will be permitted to transfer may transfer up to 50 percent of their State administrative funding this way.

- The new law also includes a competitive State Flexibility Demonstration Program that permits up to seven States to consolidate the State administration and State activity funds from a variety of ESEA programs, including the Innovative Programs Block Grant; the state administration components of Title I, Part A Grants (Education for the Disadvantaged); and the state administration and state activities components of Title I Part B (Reading First and Even Start Participating States must enter an agreement with the Secretary covering the use of the consolidated funds, which may be used for any educational purpose authorized under the ESEA. As part of their plans, States also must enter into up to ten local performance agreements with districts, which will enjoy the same level of flexibility granted under the separate Local Flexibility Demonstration Program.

- A new Local Flexibility Demonstration Program would allow up 150 school districts to consolidate funds received under Teacher Quality State Grants, Educational Technology State Grants, Innovative Programs, and the Safe and Drug-Free Schools programs. Participating districts would enter into performance agreements with the Secretary of Education, and would be able to use the consolidated funds for any ESEA-authorized purpose.

Focusing Resources on Proven Educational Methods

Problem

- Not enough attention has been focused on ensuring that education dollars are invested in programs that are research-based and proven to be effective in educating our children – particularly on proven approaches to reading and math instruction.
- Federal education policy has often focused on adding new programs, rather than investing more resources into proven approaches that work. Over the years, programs authorized under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) have expanded from 6 in 1965 to 55 in 2001.

Solution

Putting Reading First

- The No Child Left Behind Act implements President Bush's unequivocal commitment to ensuring that every child can read by the third grade. To accomplish this goal, the new Reading First initiative will significantly increase the Federal investment in scientifically based reading instruction programs in the early grades. One major benefit of this approach would be reduced identification of children for special education services due to a lack of appropriate reading instruction in their early years.

- The NCLB Act fully implements the President's Reading First initiative. The new Reading First State Grant program will make 6-year grants to States, which will make competitive subgrants to local communities. Local recipients will administer screening and diagnostic assessments to determine which students in grades K-3 are at risk of reading failure, and provide professional development for K-3 teachers in the essential components of reading instruction.

- The new Early Reading First program will make competitive 6-year awards to districts to support early language, literacy, and pre-reading development of preschool-age children, particularly those from low-income families. Recipients will use instructional strategies and professional development drawn from scientifically based reading research to help young children to attain the fundamental knowledge and skills they will need for optimal reading development in kindergarten and beyond.

Consolidating and Streamlining Federal Education Programs

- The No Child Left Behind Act consolidates and streamlines programs and targets resources to existing programs that serve poor students. It reduces the overall number of Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) programs from the 55 to 45 – ensuring that education dollars will be more carefully targeted.

- Improving Teacher Quality: NCLB combines the Eisenhower Professional Development and Class Size Reduction programs into a new Improving Teacher Quality State Grants program that focuses on using practices grounded in scientifically based research to prepare, train, and recruit high-quality teachers. The new program gives States and districts flexibility to select the strategies that best meet their particular needs for improved teaching that will help them raise student achievement in the core academic subjects. In return for this flexibility, districts are required to demonstrate annual progress in ensuring that all teachers teaching in core academic subjects within the State are highly qualified.

- Improving Bilingual Education: The NCLB Act also simplifies Federal support for English language instruction by combining into State formula program categorical bilingual and immigrant education grants that previously benefited only a small percentage of limited English proficient students in relatively few schools into a State formula program. The new formula program will facilitate comprehensive planning by States and school districts to ensure implementation of programs that benefit all limited English proficient students by helping them learn English and meet the same high academic standards as other students. The NCLB Act also inserts strong accountability into programs for bilingual students, requiring states to test limited English proficient (LEP) children for reading and language arts in English after they have attended school in the United States for three consecutive years.
- Improving the Safe and Drug-Free Schools Program: NCLB improves efforts to keep schools safe and drug-free, while at the same time ensuring that students—particularly those who have been victims of violent crimes on school grounds—are not trapped in persistently dangerous schools. As passed in No Child Left Behind, States must allow students who attend a persistently dangerous school, or who are victims of violent crime at school, to transfer to a safe school. States also must report school safety statistics to the public on a school-by-school basis, and districts must use Federal Safe and Drug-Free Schools and Communities funding to implement drug and violence prevention programs of demonstrated effectiveness.

Historic Progress on Improved Educational Choices and Options for Parents

Problem

- Too often, especially in low-income and minority areas, parents find their children trapped in persistently failing and dangerous public schools and have little or no recourse.

Solution

The No Child Left Behind Act makes historic progress in providing real choices for parents with children in chronically-failing or unsafe schools. Expanding school choice and supplemental services will provide a substantial incentive for low-performing schools to improve. In order to avoid losing students—along with the portion of their annual budgets typically associated with those students— schools will have to improve or, if they fail to make Adequate Yearly Progress for 5 years, run the risk of reconstitution under a restructuring plan. These new options will be made available immediately (for the 2002-03 school year) for students in thousands of schools already identified as failing under current law.

- School Choice: Districts must give students attending schools that are failing for at least two years the opportunity to attend a better public school, which may include a public charter school, within the school district.

- Support for Supplemental Services: For students attending persistently failing schools (those that have failed to meet State standards for at least 3 of the 4 preceding years), districts must provide Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) for low-achieving disadvantaged students in the school to obtain supplemental services -- tutoring, after school services, or summer school programs -- from the public- or private-sector provider selected by their parents from a State-approved list. Providers must meet State standards and offer services tailored to help participating students meet challenging State academic standards. To help ensure that districts offer meaningful choices, the new law requires school districts to spend up to 20 percent of their Title I allocations to provide public school choice and supplemental educational services to eligible students.

- Charter Schools: Expands the charter school initiative, expanding opportunities for parents, educators and interested community leaders to create schools outside the education establishment. Authorizes $300 million in federal funds to states and local communities to help fund charter schools. Authorizes $150 million for the Charter School Facility Demonstration Project, which encourages schools and States to develop innovative approaches to funding charter school construction and infrastructure needs.

January 8, 2002

President Bush today signed into law the No Child Left Behind Act – the most sweeping reform of federal education policy in a generation. The legislation, which closely follows the President's agenda to improve America's public schools, passed Congress with overwhelming bipartisan majorities.

- Accountability for Results: Creates strong standards in each state for what every child should know and learn in reading and math in grades 3-8. Student progress and achievement will be measured for every child, every year.
  - ✓ Results from these tests will be made available in annual report cards so parents can measure school performance and statewide progress, evaluate the quality of their child's school, the qualifications of teachers, and their child's progress in key subjects.
  - ✓ Statewide reports will show progress for all student groups, thereby in closing achievement gaps between disadvantaged students and other groups of students.
  - ✓ Hold schools accountable for improving performance of all student groups, so that within 12 years every school will be performing at proficient.

- Unprecedented State & Local Flexibility & Reduced Red Tape: Provides new flexibility for all 50 states and every local school district in America in the use of federal education funds.
  - ✓ Every local school district in America and all 50 states will receive the freedom to target up to 50 percent of federal non-Title I dollars to programs that will have the most positive impact on the students they serve.
  - ✓ Consolidates and streamlines programs and targets resources to existing programs that serve poor students, reducing the overall number of ESEA programs from 55 to 45.

- Focusing Resources on Proven Educational Methods: Focuses educational dollars on proven, research-based approaches that will most help children to learn.
  - ✓ Implements President Bush's Reading First initiative by increasing federal funding for reading programs from $300 million in FY 2001 to more than $900 million in FY 2002, and tying federal funding to the use of scientifically-proven methods of reading instruction.
  - ✓ Implements a new Early Reading First program to support early language, literacy, and pre-reading development of preschool-age children, particularly those from low-income families.
  - ✓ Strengthens teacher quality by providing $2.8 billion for teacher quality and allowing local school districts to use additional federal funds to hire new teachers, increase teacher pay, improve teacher training and development or other uses.

- Expanded Choices for Parents: Enhances options for parents with children in chronically failing schools – and makes these options available immediately in the 2002-03 school year for students in thousands of schools already identified as failing under current law.
  - ✓ Public/Charter School Choice: Once a school is identified as failing, parents will be allowed to transfer their child to a better-performing public or charter school.
  - ✓ Supplemental Services: For the first time, federal Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) can be used to provide supplemental educational services - including tutoring, after school services, and summer school programs - for children in failing schools. Services can be provided by faith- and community-based organizations.
  - ✓ Charter Schools: Expands the charter school initiative, creating more opportunities for parents, educators and interested community leaders to create schools outside the education establishment.

Accountability for Results

Problem

- Since the original Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) was signed into law in 1965, the federal government has spent more than $130 billion to improve public schools.
- Unfortunately, this investment in education has not reduced the achievement gap between well-off and lower-income students or between minority students and non-minority students.

Solution

The NCLB Act will strengthen Title I accountability by requiring States to implement statewide accountability systems covering all public schools and students.

- These systems must be based on challenging State standards in reading and mathematics, annual testing for all students in grades 3-8, and annual statewide progress objectives ensuring that all groups of students reach proficiency within 12 years.
- Assessment results and State progress objectives must be broken out by student groups based on poverty, race and ethnicity, disability, and limited English proficiency to ensure that no group is left behind.
- School districts and schools that fail to make adequate yearly progress (AYP) toward statewide proficiency goals will over time be subject to corrective action and restructuring measures aimed at getting them back on course to meet State standards.
- If a school fails to make AYP for two consecutive years, it will be identified as needing improvement and must develop improvement plans incorporating strategies from scientifically based research. School districts will be required to offer public school choice (unless prohibited by state law) to all students in the failing school no later than the first day of the school year following identification. The district must provide transportation to the new school.
- If a school fails to make AYP for a third consecutive year, the district must continue to offer public school choice and provide Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) for low-achieving disadvantaged students in the school to obtain supplemental services -- tutoring, after school services, or summer school programs -- from the public- or private-sector provider selected by their parents from a State-approved list. Twenty percent of Title I funds at the local school district level must be used for public school choice and supplemental services.
- If a school fails to make AYP for a fourth consecutive year, it will be subject to increasingly tough corrective actions—such as replacing school staff or significantly decreasing management authority at the school level. If a school continues to fail, the school could ultimately face restructuring, which involves a fundamental change in governance, such as a State takeover or placement under private management.
- Schools that meet or exceed AYP objectives or close achievement gaps will be eligible for State Academic Achievement Awards.

Unprecedented State & Local Flexibility

- For too long, federal education programs have come with unfunded federal mandates, one-size-fits-all approaches, and unnecessary and duplicative paperwork.
- When the Elementary and Secondary Education Act was reauthorized in 1994, for example, states were required to regularly test public school students in reading and math. But this federal requirement did not come with the necessary flexibility and resources for states to focus their education strategies on what works to improve student achievement.

Solution

The No Child Left Behind Act provides unprecedented new flexibility for all 50 states and every local school district in America in the use of federal education funds. It will revitalize the "flexibility for accountability" agreement with States first struck by President George H.W. Bush during his historic 1989 education summit with the Nation's Governors at Charlottesville, Virginia. While prior flexibility efforts have focused on waiving some program requirements, the NCLB Act moves beyond this limited approach to give States and school districts unprecedented flexibility in the use of Federal education funds in exchange for strong accountability for results. No Child Left Behind in essence moves decision making away from Washington, D.C., and empowers states and local districts to make more decisions with federal funds for goals such as teacher quality, English language proficiency, technology, and after school enrichment.

- The Department of Education administers four major state grant programs -- Teacher Quality State Grants, Educational Technology, Innovative Programs, and Safe and Drug-Free Schools. New flexibility provisions in the NCLB Act will allow every school district in America to transfer up to 50 percent of the federal funding they receive between any one of these programs or to Title I. This will allow school districts to put resources into the programs that most closely match their unique local needs. States will be permitted to transfer may transfer up to 50 percent of their State administrative funding this way.

- The new law also includes a competitive State Flexibility Demonstration Program that permits up to seven States to consolidate the State administration and State activity funds from a variety of ESEA programs, including the Innovative Programs Block Grant; the state administration components of Title I, Part A Grants (Education for the Disadvantaged); and the state administration and state activities components of Title I Part B (Reading First and Even Start Participating States must enter an agreement with the Secretary covering the use of the consolidated funds, which may be used for any educational purpose authorized under the ESEA. As part of their plans, States also must enter into up to ten local performance agreements with districts, which will enjoy the same level of flexibility granted under the separate Local Flexibility Demonstration Program.

- A new Local Flexibility Demonstration Program would allow up 150 school districts to consolidate funds received under Teacher Quality State Grants, Educational Technology State Grants, Innovative Programs, and the Safe and Drug-Free Schools programs. Participating districts would enter into performance agreements with the Secretary of Education, and would be able to use the consolidated funds for any ESEA-authorized purpose.

Focusing Resources on Proven Educational Methods

Problem

- Not enough attention has been focused on ensuring that education dollars are invested in programs that are research-based and proven to be effective in educating our children – particularly on proven approaches to reading and math instruction.
- Federal education policy has often focused on adding new programs, rather than investing more resources into proven approaches that work. Over the years, programs authorized under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) have expanded from 6 in 1965 to 55 in 2001.

Solution

Putting Reading First

- The No Child Left Behind Act implements President Bush's unequivocal commitment to ensuring that every child can read by the third grade. To accomplish this goal, the new Reading First initiative will significantly increase the Federal investment in scientifically based reading instruction programs in the early grades. One major benefit of this approach would be reduced identification of children for special education services due to a lack of appropriate reading instruction in their early years.

- The NCLB Act fully implements the President's Reading First initiative. The new Reading First State Grant program will make 6-year grants to States, which will make competitive subgrants to local communities. Local recipients will administer screening and diagnostic assessments to determine which students in grades K-3 are at risk of reading failure, and provide professional development for K-3 teachers in the essential components of reading instruction.

- The new Early Reading First program will make competitive 6-year awards to districts to support early language, literacy, and pre-reading development of preschool-age children, particularly those from low-income families. Recipients will use instructional strategies and professional development drawn from scientifically based reading research to help young children to attain the fundamental knowledge and skills they will need for optimal reading development in kindergarten and beyond.

Consolidating and Streamlining Federal Education Programs

- The No Child Left Behind Act consolidates and streamlines programs and targets resources to existing programs that serve poor students. It reduces the overall number of Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) programs from the 55 to 45 – ensuring that education dollars will be more carefully targeted.

- Improving Teacher Quality: NCLB combines the Eisenhower Professional Development and Class Size Reduction programs into a new Improving Teacher Quality State Grants program that focuses on using practices grounded in scientifically based research to prepare, train, and recruit high-quality teachers. The new program gives States and districts flexibility to select the strategies that best meet their particular needs for improved teaching that will help them raise student achievement in the core academic subjects. In return for this flexibility, districts are required to demonstrate annual progress in ensuring that all teachers teaching in core academic subjects within the State are highly qualified.

- Improving Bilingual Education: The NCLB Act also simplifies Federal support for English language instruction by combining into State formula program categorical bilingual and immigrant education grants that previously benefited only a small percentage of limited English proficient students in relatively few schools into a State formula program. The new formula program will facilitate comprehensive planning by States and school districts to ensure implementation of programs that benefit all limited English proficient students by helping them learn English and meet the same high academic standards as other students. The NCLB Act also inserts strong accountability into programs for bilingual students, requiring states to test limited English proficient (LEP) children for reading and language arts in English after they have attended school in the United States for three consecutive years.
- Improving the Safe and Drug-Free Schools Program: NCLB improves efforts to keep schools safe and drug-free, while at the same time ensuring that students—particularly those who have been victims of violent crimes on school grounds—are not trapped in persistently dangerous schools. As passed in No Child Left Behind, States must allow students who attend a persistently dangerous school, or who are victims of violent crime at school, to transfer to a safe school. States also must report school safety statistics to the public on a school-by-school basis, and districts must use Federal Safe and Drug-Free Schools and Communities funding to implement drug and violence prevention programs of demonstrated effectiveness.

Historic Progress on Improved Educational Choices and Options for Parents

Problem

- Too often, especially in low-income and minority areas, parents find their children trapped in persistently failing and dangerous public schools and have little or no recourse.

Solution

The No Child Left Behind Act makes historic progress in providing real choices for parents with children in chronically-failing or unsafe schools. Expanding school choice and supplemental services will provide a substantial incentive for low-performing schools to improve. In order to avoid losing students—along with the portion of their annual budgets typically associated with those students— schools will have to improve or, if they fail to make Adequate Yearly Progress for 5 years, run the risk of reconstitution under a restructuring plan. These new options will be made available immediately (for the 2002-03 school year) for students in thousands of schools already identified as failing under current law.

- School Choice: Districts must give students attending schools that are failing for at least two years the opportunity to attend a better public school, which may include a public charter school, within the school district.

- Support for Supplemental Services: For students attending persistently failing schools (those that have failed to meet State standards for at least 3 of the 4 preceding years), districts must provide Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) for low-achieving disadvantaged students in the school to obtain supplemental services -- tutoring, after school services, or summer school programs -- from the public- or private-sector provider selected by their parents from a State-approved list. Providers must meet State standards and offer services tailored to help participating students meet challenging State academic standards. To help ensure that districts offer meaningful choices, the new law requires school districts to spend up to 20 percent of their Title I allocations to provide public school choice and supplemental educational services to eligible students.

- Charter Schools: Expands the charter school initiative, expanding opportunities for parents, educators and interested community leaders to create schools outside the education establishment. Authorizes $300 million in federal funds to states and local communities to help fund charter schools. Authorizes $150 million for the Charter School Facility Demonstration Project, which encourages schools and States to develop innovative approaches to funding charter school construction and infrastructure needs.

January 8, 2002

President Bush today signed into law the No Child Left Behind Act – the most sweeping reform of federal education policy in a generation. The legislation, which closely follows the President's agenda to improve America's public schools, passed Congress with overwhelming bipartisan majorities.

- Accountability for Results: Creates strong standards in each state for what every child should know and learn in reading and math in grades 3-8. Student progress and achievement will be measured for every child, every year.
  - ✓ Results from these tests will be made available in annual report cards so parents can measure school performance and statewide progress, evaluate the quality of their child's school, the qualifications of teachers, and their child's progress in key subjects.
  - ✓ Statewide reports will show progress for all student groups, thereby in closing achievement gaps between disadvantaged students and other groups of students.
  - ✓ Hold schools accountable for improving performance of all student groups, so that within 12 years every school will be performing at proficient.

- Unprecedented State & Local Flexibility & Reduced Red Tape: Provides new flexibility for all 50 states and every local school district in America in the use of federal education funds.
  - ✓ Every local school district in America and all 50 states will receive the freedom to target up to 50 percent of federal non-Title I dollars to programs that will have the most positive impact on the students they serve.
  - ✓ Consolidates and streamlines programs and targets resources to existing programs that serve poor students, reducing the overall number of ESEA programs from 55 to 45.

- Focusing Resources on Proven Educational Methods: Focuses educational dollars on proven, research-based approaches that will most help children to learn.
  - ✓ Implements President Bush's Reading First initiative by increasing federal funding for reading programs from $300 million in FY 2001 to more than $900 million in FY 2002, and tying federal funding to the use of scientifically-proven methods of reading instruction.
  - ✓ Implements a new Early Reading First program to support early language, literacy, and pre-reading development of preschool-age children, particularly those from low-income families.
  - ✓ Strengthens teacher quality by providing $2.8 billion for teacher quality and allowing local school districts to use additional federal funds to hire new teachers, increase teacher pay, improve teacher training and development or other uses.

- Expanded Choices for Parents: Enhances options for parents with children in chronically failing schools – and makes these options available immediately in the 2002-03 school year for students in thousands of schools already identified as failing under current law.
  - ✓ Public/Charter School Choice: Once a school is identified as failing, parents will be allowed to transfer their child to a better-performing public or charter school.
  - ✓ Supplemental Services: For the first time, federal Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) can be used to provide supplemental educational services - including tutoring, after school services, and summer school programs - for children in failing schools. Services can be provided by faith- and community-based organizations.
  - ✓ Charter Schools: Expands the charter school initiative, creating more opportunities for parents, educators and interested community leaders to create schools outside the education establishment.

Accountability for Results

Problem

- Since the original Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) was signed into law in 1965, the federal government has spent more than $130 billion to improve public schools.
- Unfortunately, this investment in education has not reduced the achievement gap between well-off and lower-income students or between minority students and non-minority students.

Solution

The NCLB Act will strengthen Title I accountability by requiring States to implement statewide accountability systems covering all public schools and students.

- These systems must be based on challenging State standards in reading and mathematics, annual testing for all students in grades 3-8, and annual statewide progress objectives ensuring that all groups of students reach proficiency within 12 years.
- Assessment results and State progress objectives must be broken out by student groups based on poverty, race and ethnicity, disability, and limited English proficiency to ensure that no group is left behind.
- School districts and schools that fail to make adequate yearly progress (AYP) toward statewide proficiency goals will over time be subject to corrective action and restructuring measures aimed at getting them back on course to meet State standards.
- If a school fails to make AYP for two consecutive years, it will be identified as needing improvement and must develop improvement plans incorporating strategies from scientifically based research. School districts will be required to offer public school choice (unless prohibited by state law) to all students in the failing school no later than the first day of the school year following identification. The district must provide transportation to the new school.
- If a school fails to make AYP for a third consecutive year, the district must continue to offer public school choice and provide Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) for low-achieving disadvantaged students in the school to obtain supplemental services -- tutoring, after school services, or summer school programs -- from the public- or private-sector provider selected by their parents from a State-approved list. Twenty percent of Title I funds at the local school district level must be used for public school choice and supplemental services.
- If a school fails to make AYP for a fourth consecutive year, it will be subject to increasingly tough corrective actions—such as replacing school staff or significantly decreasing management authority at the school level. If a school continues to fail, the school could ultimately face restructuring, which involves a fundamental change in governance, such as a State takeover or placement under private management.
- Schools that meet or exceed AYP objectives or close achievement gaps will be eligible for State Academic Achievement Awards.

Unprecedented State & Local Flexibility

- For too long, federal education programs have come with unfunded federal mandates, one-size-fits-all approaches, and unnecessary and duplicative paperwork.
- When the Elementary and Secondary Education Act was reauthorized in 1994, for example, states were required to regularly test public school students in reading and math. But this federal requirement did not come with the necessary flexibility and resources for states to focus their education strategies on what works to improve student achievement.

Solution

The No Child Left Behind Act provides unprecedented new flexibility for all 50 states and every local school district in America in the use of federal education funds. It will revitalize the "flexibility for accountability" agreement with States first struck by President George H.W. Bush during his historic 1989 education summit with the Nation's Governors at Charlottesville, Virginia. While prior flexibility efforts have focused on waiving some program requirements, the NCLB Act moves beyond this limited approach to give States and school districts unprecedented flexibility in the use of Federal education funds in exchange for strong accountability for results. No Child Left Behind in essence moves decision making away from Washington, D.C., and empowers states and local districts to make more decisions with federal funds for goals such as teacher quality, English language proficiency, technology, and after school enrichment.

- The Department of Education administers four major state grant programs -- Teacher Quality State Grants, Educational Technology, Innovative Programs, and Safe and Drug-Free Schools. New flexibility provisions in the NCLB Act will allow every school district in America to transfer up to 50 percent of the federal funding they receive between any one of these programs or to Title I. This will allow school districts to put resources into the programs that most closely match their unique local needs. States will be permitted to transfer may transfer up to 50 percent of their State administrative funding this way.

- The new law also includes a competitive State Flexibility Demonstration Program that permits up to seven States to consolidate the State administration and State activity funds from a variety of ESEA programs, including the Innovative Programs Block Grant; the state administration components of Title I, Part A Grants (Education for the Disadvantaged); and the state administration and state activities components of Title I Part B (Reading First and Even Start Participating States must enter an agreement with the Secretary covering the use of the consolidated funds, which may be used for any educational purpose authorized under the ESEA. As part of their plans, States also must enter into up to ten local performance agreements with districts, which will enjoy the same level of flexibility granted under the separate Local Flexibility Demonstration Program.

- A new Local Flexibility Demonstration Program would allow up 150 school districts to consolidate funds received under Teacher Quality State Grants, Educational Technology State Grants, Innovative Programs, and the Safe and Drug-Free Schools programs. Participating districts would enter into performance agreements with the Secretary of Education, and would be able to use the consolidated funds for any ESEA-authorized purpose.

Focusing Resources on Proven Educational Methods

Problem

- Not enough attention has been focused on ensuring that education dollars are invested in programs that are research-based and proven to be effective in educating our children – particularly on proven approaches to reading and math instruction.
- Federal education policy has often focused on adding new programs, rather than investing more resources into proven approaches that work. Over the years, programs authorized under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) have expanded from 6 in 1965 to 55 in 2001.

Solution

Putting Reading First

- The No Child Left Behind Act implements President Bush's unequivocal commitment to ensuring that every child can read by the third grade. To accomplish this goal, the new Reading First initiative will significantly increase the Federal investment in scientifically based reading instruction programs in the early grades. One major benefit of this approach would be reduced identification of children for special education services due to a lack of appropriate reading instruction in their early years.

- The NCLB Act fully implements the President's Reading First initiative. The new Reading First State Grant program will make 6-year grants to States, which will make competitive subgrants to local communities. Local recipients will administer screening and diagnostic assessments to determine which students in grades K-3 are at risk of reading failure, and provide professional development for K-3 teachers in the essential components of reading instruction.

- The new Early Reading First program will make competitive 6-year awards to districts to support early language, literacy, and pre-reading development of preschool-age children, particularly those from low-income families. Recipients will use instructional strategies and professional development drawn from scientifically based reading research to help young children to attain the fundamental knowledge and skills they will need for optimal reading development in kindergarten and beyond.

Consolidating and Streamlining Federal Education Programs

- The No Child Left Behind Act consolidates and streamlines programs and targets resources to existing programs that serve poor students. It reduces the overall number of Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) programs from the 55 to 45 – ensuring that education dollars will be more carefully targeted.

- Improving Teacher Quality: NCLB combines the Eisenhower Professional Development and Class Size Reduction programs into a new Improving Teacher Quality State Grants program that focuses on using practices grounded in scientifically based research to prepare, train, and recruit high-quality teachers. The new program gives States and districts flexibility to select the strategies that best meet their particular needs for improved teaching that will help them raise student achievement in the core academic subjects. In return for this flexibility, districts are required to demonstrate annual progress in ensuring that all teachers teaching in core academic subjects within the State are highly qualified.

- Improving Bilingual Education: The NCLB Act also simplifies Federal support for English language instruction by combining into State formula program categorical bilingual and immigrant education grants that previously benefited only a small percentage of limited English proficient students in relatively few schools into a State formula program. The new formula program will facilitate comprehensive planning by States and school districts to ensure implementation of programs that benefit all limited English proficient students by helping them learn English and meet the same high academic standards as other students. The NCLB Act also inserts strong accountability into programs for bilingual students, requiring states to test limited English proficient (LEP) children for reading and language arts in English after they have attended school in the United States for three consecutive years.
- Improving the Safe and Drug-Free Schools Program: NCLB improves efforts to keep schools safe and drug-free, while at the same time ensuring that students—particularly those who have been victims of violent crimes on school grounds—are not trapped in persistently dangerous schools. As passed in No Child Left Behind, States must allow students who attend a persistently dangerous school, or who are victims of violent crime at school, to transfer to a safe school. States also must report school safety statistics to the public on a school-by-school basis, and districts must use Federal Safe and Drug-Free Schools and Communities funding to implement drug and violence prevention programs of demonstrated effectiveness.

Historic Progress on Improved Educational Choices and Options for Parents

Problem

- Too often, especially in low-income and minority areas, parents find their children trapped in persistently failing and dangerous public schools and have little or no recourse.

Solution

The No Child Left Behind Act makes historic progress in providing real choices for parents with children in chronically-failing or unsafe schools. Expanding school choice and supplemental services will provide a substantial incentive for low-performing schools to improve. In order to avoid losing students—along with the portion of their annual budgets typically associated with those students— schools will have to improve or, if they fail to make Adequate Yearly Progress for 5 years, run the risk of reconstitution under a restructuring plan. These new options will be made available immediately (for the 2002-03 school year) for students in thousands of schools already identified as failing under current law.

- School Choice: Districts must give students attending schools that are failing for at least two years the opportunity to attend a better public school, which may include a public charter school, within the school district.

- Support for Supplemental Services: For students attending persistently failing schools (those that have failed to meet State standards for at least 3 of the 4 preceding years), districts must provide Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) for low-achieving disadvantaged students in the school to obtain supplemental services -- tutoring, after school services, or summer school programs -- from the public- or private-sector provider selected by their parents from a State-approved list. Providers must meet State standards and offer services tailored to help participating students meet challenging State academic standards. To help ensure that districts offer meaningful choices, the new law requires school districts to spend up to 20 percent of their Title I allocations to provide public school choice and supplemental educational services to eligible students.

- Charter Schools: Expands the charter school initiative, expanding opportunities for parents, educators and interested community leaders to create schools outside the education establishment. Authorizes $300 million in federal funds to states and local communities to help fund charter schools. Authorizes $150 million for the Charter School Facility Demonstration Project, which encourages schools and States to develop innovative approaches to funding charter school construction and infrastructure needs.

January 8, 2002

President Bush today signed into law the No Child Left Behind Act – the most sweeping reform of federal education policy in a generation. The legislation, which closely follows the President's agenda to improve America's public schools, passed Congress with overwhelming bipartisan majorities.

- Accountability for Results: Creates strong standards in each state for what every child should know and learn in reading and math in grades 3-8. Student progress and achievement will be measured for every child, every year.
  - ✓ Results from these tests will be made available in annual report cards so parents can measure school performance and statewide progress, evaluate the quality of their child's school, the qualifications of teachers, and their child's progress in key subjects.
  - ✓ Statewide reports will show progress for all student groups, thereby in closing achievement gaps between disadvantaged students and other groups of students.
  - ✓ Hold schools accountable for improving performance of all student groups, so that within 12 years every school will be performing at proficient.

- Unprecedented State & Local Flexibility & Reduced Red Tape: Provides new flexibility for all 50 states and every local school district in America in the use of federal education funds.
  - ✓ Every local school district in America and all 50 states will receive the freedom to target up to 50 percent of federal non-Title I dollars to programs that will have the most positive impact on the students they serve.
  - ✓ Consolidates and streamlines programs and targets resources to existing programs that serve poor students, reducing the overall number of ESEA programs from 55 to 45.

- Focusing Resources on Proven Educational Methods: Focuses educational dollars on proven, research-based approaches that will most help children to learn.
  - ✓ Implements President Bush's Reading First initiative by increasing federal funding for reading programs from $300 million in FY 2001 to more than $900 million in FY 2002, and tying federal funding to the use of scientifically-proven methods of reading instruction.
  - ✓ Implements a new Early Reading First program to support early language, literacy, and pre-reading development of preschool-age children, particularly those from low-income families.
  - ✓ Strengthens teacher quality by providing $2.8 billion for teacher quality and allowing local school districts to use additional federal funds to hire new teachers, increase teacher pay, improve teacher training and development or other uses.

- Expanded Choices for Parents: Enhances options for parents with children in chronically failing schools – and makes these options available immediately in the 2002-03 school year for students in thousands of schools already identified as failing under current law.
  - ✓ Public/Charter School Choice: Once a school is identified as failing, parents will be allowed to transfer their child to a better-performing public or charter school.
  - ✓ Supplemental Services: For the first time, federal Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) can be used to provide supplemental educational services - including tutoring, after school services, and summer school programs - for children in failing schools. Services can be provided by faith- and community-based organizations.
  - ✓ Charter Schools: Expands the charter school initiative, creating more opportunities for parents, educators and interested community leaders to create schools outside the education establishment.

Accountability for Results

Problem

- Since the original Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) was signed into law in 1965, the federal government has spent more than $130 billion to improve public schools.
- Unfortunately, this investment in education has not reduced the achievement gap between well-off and lower-income students or between minority students and non-minority students.

Solution

The NCLB Act will strengthen Title I accountability by requiring States to implement statewide accountability systems covering all public schools and students.

- These systems must be based on challenging State standards in reading and mathematics, annual testing for all students in grades 3-8, and annual statewide progress objectives ensuring that all groups of students reach proficiency within 12 years.
- Assessment results and State progress objectives must be broken out by student groups based on poverty, race and ethnicity, disability, and limited English proficiency to ensure that no group is left behind.
- School districts and schools that fail to make adequate yearly progress (AYP) toward statewide proficiency goals will over time be subject to corrective action and restructuring measures aimed at getting them back on course to meet State standards.
- If a school fails to make AYP for two consecutive years, it will be identified as needing improvement and must develop improvement plans incorporating strategies from scientifically based research. School districts will be required to offer public school choice (unless prohibited by state law) to all students in the failing school no later than the first day of the school year following identification. The district must provide transportation to the new school.
- If a school fails to make AYP for a third consecutive year, the district must continue to offer public school choice and provide Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) for low-achieving disadvantaged students in the school to obtain supplemental services -- tutoring, after school services, or summer school programs -- from the public- or private-sector provider selected by their parents from a State-approved list. Twenty percent of Title I funds at the local school district level must be used for public school choice and supplemental services.
- If a school fails to make AYP for a fourth consecutive year, it will be subject to increasingly tough corrective actions—such as replacing school staff or significantly decreasing management authority at the school level. If a school continues to fail, the school could ultimately face restructuring, which involves a fundamental change in governance, such as a State takeover or placement under private management.
- Schools that meet or exceed AYP objectives or close achievement gaps will be eligible for State Academic Achievement Awards.

Unprecedented State & Local Flexibility

- For too long, federal education programs have come with unfunded federal mandates, one-size-fits-all approaches, and unnecessary and duplicative paperwork.
- When the Elementary and Secondary Education Act was reauthorized in 1994, for example, states were required to regularly test public school students in reading and math. But this federal requirement did not come with the necessary flexibility and resources for states to focus their education strategies on what works to improve student achievement.

Solution

The No Child Left Behind Act provides unprecedented new flexibility for all 50 states and every local school district in America in the use of federal education funds. It will revitalize the "flexibility for accountability" agreement with States first struck by President George H.W. Bush during his historic 1989 education summit with the Nation's Governors at Charlottesville, Virginia. While prior flexibility efforts have focused on waiving some program requirements, the NCLB Act moves beyond this limited approach to give States and school districts unprecedented flexibility in the use of Federal education funds in exchange for strong accountability for results. No Child Left Behind in essence moves decision making away from Washington, D.C., and empowers states and local districts to make more decisions with federal funds for goals such as teacher quality, English language proficiency, technology, and after school enrichment.

- The Department of Education administers four major state grant programs -- Teacher Quality State Grants, Educational Technology, Innovative Programs, and Safe and Drug-Free Schools. New flexibility provisions in the NCLB Act will allow every school district in America to transfer up to 50 percent of the federal funding they receive between any one of these programs or to Title I. This will allow school districts to put resources into the programs that most closely match their unique local needs. States will be permitted to transfer may transfer up to 50 percent of their State administrative funding this way.

- The new law also includes a competitive State Flexibility Demonstration Program that permits up to seven States to consolidate the State administration and State activity funds from a variety of ESEA programs, including the Innovative Programs Block Grant; the state administration components of Title I, Part A Grants (Education for the Disadvantaged); and the state administration and state activities components of Title I Part B (Reading First and Even Start Participating States must enter an agreement with the Secretary covering the use of the consolidated funds, which may be used for any educational purpose authorized under the ESEA. As part of their plans, States also must enter into up to ten local performance agreements with districts, which will enjoy the same level of flexibility granted under the separate Local Flexibility Demonstration Program.

- A new Local Flexibility Demonstration Program would allow up 150 school districts to consolidate funds received under Teacher Quality State Grants, Educational Technology State Grants, Innovative Programs, and the Safe and Drug-Free Schools programs. Participating districts would enter into performance agreements with the Secretary of Education, and would be able to use the consolidated funds for any ESEA-authorized purpose.

Focusing Resources on Proven Educational Methods

Problem

- Not enough attention has been focused on ensuring that education dollars are invested in programs that are research-based and proven to be effective in educating our children – particularly on proven approaches to reading and math instruction.
- Federal education policy has often focused on adding new programs, rather than investing more resources into proven approaches that work. Over the years, programs authorized under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) have expanded from 6 in 1965 to 55 in 2001.

Solution

Putting Reading First

- The No Child Left Behind Act implements President Bush's unequivocal commitment to ensuring that every child can read by the third grade. To accomplish this goal, the new Reading First initiative will significantly increase the Federal investment in scientifically based reading instruction programs in the early grades. One major benefit of this approach would be reduced identification of children for special education services due to a lack of appropriate reading instruction in their early years.

- The NCLB Act fully implements the President's Reading First initiative. The new Reading First State Grant program will make 6-year grants to States, which will make competitive subgrants to local communities. Local recipients will administer screening and diagnostic assessments to determine which students in grades K-3 are at risk of reading failure, and provide professional development for K-3 teachers in the essential components of reading instruction.

- The new Early Reading First program will make competitive 6-year awards to districts to support early language, literacy, and pre-reading development of preschool-age children, particularly those from low-income families. Recipients will use instructional strategies and professional development drawn from scientifically based reading research to help young children to attain the fundamental knowledge and skills they will need for optimal reading development in kindergarten and beyond.

Consolidating and Streamlining Federal Education Programs

- The No Child Left Behind Act consolidates and streamlines programs and targets resources to existing programs that serve poor students. It reduces the overall number of Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) programs from the 55 to 45 – ensuring that education dollars will be more carefully targeted.

- Improving Teacher Quality: NCLB combines the Eisenhower Professional Development and Class Size Reduction programs into a new Improving Teacher Quality State Grants program that focuses on using practices grounded in scientifically based research to prepare, train, and recruit high-quality teachers. The new program gives States and districts flexibility to select the strategies that best meet their particular needs for improved teaching that will help them raise student achievement in the core academic subjects. In return for this flexibility, districts are required to demonstrate annual progress in ensuring that all teachers teaching in core academic subjects within the State are highly qualified.

- Improving Bilingual Education: The NCLB Act also simplifies Federal support for English language instruction by combining into State formula program categorical bilingual and immigrant education grants that previously benefited only a small percentage of limited English proficient students in relatively few schools into a State formula program. The new formula program will facilitate comprehensive planning by States and school districts to ensure implementation of programs that benefit all limited English proficient students by helping them learn English and meet the same high academic standards as other students. The NCLB Act also inserts strong accountability into programs for bilingual students, requiring states to test limited English proficient (LEP) children for reading and language arts in English after they have attended school in the United States for three consecutive years.
- Improving the Safe and Drug-Free Schools Program: NCLB improves efforts to keep schools safe and drug-free, while at the same time ensuring that students—particularly those who have been victims of violent crimes on school grounds—are not trapped in persistently dangerous schools. As passed in No Child Left Behind, States must allow students who attend a persistently dangerous school, or who are victims of violent crime at school, to transfer to a safe school. States also must report school safety statistics to the public on a school-by-school basis, and districts must use Federal Safe and Drug-Free Schools and Communities funding to implement drug and violence prevention programs of demonstrated effectiveness.

Historic Progress on Improved Educational Choices and Options for Parents

Problem

- Too often, especially in low-income and minority areas, parents find their children trapped in persistently failing and dangerous public schools and have little or no recourse.

Solution

The No Child Left Behind Act makes historic progress in providing real choices for parents with children in chronically-failing or unsafe schools. Expanding school choice and supplemental services will provide a substantial incentive for low-performing schools to improve. In order to avoid losing students—along with the portion of their annual budgets typically associated with those students— schools will have to improve or, if they fail to make Adequate Yearly Progress for 5 years, run the risk of reconstitution under a restructuring plan. These new options will be made available immediately (for the 2002-03 school year) for students in thousands of schools already identified as failing under current law.

- School Choice: Districts must give students attending schools that are failing for at least two years the opportunity to attend a better public school, which may include a public charter school, within the school district.

- Support for Supplemental Services: For students attending persistently failing schools (those that have failed to meet State standards for at least 3 of the 4 preceding years), districts must provide Title I funds (approximately $500 to $1,000 per child) for low-achieving disadvantaged students in the school to obtain supplemental services -- tutoring, after school services, or summer school programs -- from the public- or private-sector provider selected by their parents from a State-approved list. Providers must meet State standards and offer services tailored to help participating students meet challenging State academic standards. To help ensure that districts offer meaningful choices, the new law requires school districts to spend up to 20 percent of their Title I allocations to provide public school choice and supplemental educational services to eligible students.

- Charter Schools: Expands the charter school initiative, expanding opportunities for parents, educators and interested community leaders to create schools outside the education establishment. Authorizes $300 million in federal funds to states and local communities to help fund charter schools. Authorizes $150 million for the Charter School Facility Demonstration Project, which encourages schools and States to develop innovative approaches to funding charter school construction and infrastructure needs.

Senate needs to accelerate approval of judges

IN his annual message to the nation, U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice William Rehnquist once again laments the state of the federal judiciary. Low salaries and a slow, tortuous confirmation process are making federal judgeships increasingly unappealing, he believes. And, that's resulting in fewer judges being drawn from the private sector and more from those already in public service.

We disagree with Rehnquist's assertion about salaries, but he's right on the mark when he speaks of the difficulties in getting someone from the nomination through the confirmation -- or rejection -- process.

Despite the claims to the contrary of many who deal with the process -- from nomination to confirmation hearings -- there is no more blatant example of politics at the federal level. It has been going on for years, no matter which political party controls the White House, or the U.S. Senate, which decides whether to seat or reject a federal nominee to the bench.

It needs to change. But realistically there is no indication it will.

Appointment to what amounts to a lifetime job should be based on qualifications, not whether a man or woman passes some political litmus test of philosophy or stand on issues that could come before the courts. Unfortunately, that is not the case. Each nominee is immediately looked at as to where he or she might lead the particular court -- to the left or right -- or where they might fall on issues ranging from civil liberties, to law enforcement to abortion.

Nationwide, there are 30 U.S. circuit court of appeal vacancies (out of 179 seats), 66 U.S. district court vacancies (out of 663 seats) and one U.S. Court of International Trade vacancy.

The 9th U.S. Circuit -- which includes California, Arizona, Alaska, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Guam and the Northern Mariana Islands -- is the nation's largest. Its district courts have 104 authorized judgeships plus two temporaries and 15 vacancies (of which one is in Northern California, where there are 14 slots). Its Court of Appeals has 28 authorized judgeships; there are three vacancies.

While the potential for earnings in the private sector is greater in many cases, federal judges aren't exactly paupers. District court judges are paid $145,100 a year, Circuit Court of Appeals judges get $153,900, associate Supreme Court justices are paid $178,300 and the chief justice receives $186,300. Further, there is no overhead to deal with and the lifetime job comes with a host of benefits. Among them, of course, is the fact that a federal judgeship is impressive as part of a resume.

President Bush's appointment pace is ahead of that of his father and former President Bill Clinton, but only 28 of his 64 nominations have been confirmed.

Rehnquist blames Congress for its slow procedures, but also notes the president can help by choosing more nominees for their fairness and abilities, not ideology. Congress, he says, ought to act with "reasonable promptness ... to vote each nominee up or down."

Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., has been in the Senate since his 1974 election and defends the confirmation pace. He attributes its slowness to a tumultuous year for the Senate and nation. Others over the years have also offered up a myriad of excuses to cloud what is actually nothing but politics played by both Democrats and Republicans.

If federal benches are going to be occupied by something other than dust, it would be prudent to set some time limit for the Senate to act once a nominee is sent up by the White House. If that time limit is not met, the nominee would then be automatically seated.

Perhaps 90 days is a good number to work toward.

In Case You Missed It

- "… Oct. 16, nine days after the first U.S. bombs began falling on Afghanistan…The mullah, a senior member of Omar's Taliban leadership, stayed [at the Afghanistan Central Bank] only as long as it took to justify the abrupt withdrawal, open the safe in the basement and stuff $5 million in U.S. dollars and Pakistani rupees into a big burlap sack…The sack was then carried into a waiting Toyota Land Cruiser. None of it has been seen since." (MSNBC, 1/8/02)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "The United States has tangible evidence that terrorist attacks outside Afghanistan have been disrupted, delayed or prevented by the four-month global effort…Between 800 and 1,000 terrorism suspects have been arrested or detained in more than 50 countries, not including the more than 640 held in the United States, according to U.S. officials. More than 140 countries have also frozen funds in 270 accounts with assets of $65 million. Most of the arrests and frozen assets are linked to Al Qaeda, but other extremist groups have also been affected. In contrast to the Afghan operation, the other half of the war so far involves limited or no military use of American troops." (Los Angeles Times, 1/7/02)
- "I want the war against terrorism to continue. This is a pledge we have made to the Afghan people - to free them from terrorism." (Hamid Karzai, 06/01/02)

Message

Osama bin Laden is a coward who murders innocents, including women, children and Muslims.

We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. One by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

The U.S. is leading a global coalition that has made great progress in the war on terrorism:

- Began to destroy al-Qaeda's grip on Afghanistan by driving the Taliban from power.
- Disrupted al-Qaeda's global operations and terrorist financing networks.
- Helped the innocent people of Afghanistan recover from the Taliban's reign of terror.
- Helped Afghans put aside long-standing differences to form a new interim government that represents all Afghans – including women.

Facts of the Day

- With U.S. government support, the U.N.'s World Food Program is distributing more than 2,600 metric tons of wheat to some 53,000 of the neediest families in Herat, Afghanistan. This represents approximately 78 percent of the city's population.
- Near Herat, Afghanistan, the U.N.'s World Food Program -- with U.S. assistance -- distributes 90 metric tons of food every day in the Maslakh camp. That is enough to feed 324,000 for a month.

In Case You Missed It

- "… Oct. 16, nine days after the first U.S. bombs began falling on Afghanistan…The mullah, a senior member of Omar's Taliban leadership, stayed [at the Afghanistan Central Bank] only as long as it took to justify the abrupt withdrawal, open the safe in the basement and stuff $5 million in U.S. dollars and Pakistani rupees into a big burlap sack…The sack was then carried into a waiting Toyota Land Cruiser. None of it has been seen since." (MSNBC, 1/8/02)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "The United States has tangible evidence that terrorist attacks outside Afghanistan have been disrupted, delayed or prevented by the four-month global effort…Between 800 and 1,000 terrorism suspects have been arrested or detained in more than 50 countries, not including the more than 640 held in the United States, according to U.S. officials. More than 140 countries have also frozen funds in 270 accounts with assets of $65 million. Most of the arrests and frozen assets are linked to Al Qaeda, but other extremist groups have also been affected. In contrast to the Afghan operation, the other half of the war so far involves limited or no military use of American troops." (Los Angeles Times, 1/7/02)
- "I want the war against terrorism to continue. This is a pledge we have made to the Afghan people - to free them from terrorism." (Hamid Karzai, 06/01/02)

Message

Osama bin Laden is a coward who murders innocents, including women, children and Muslims.

We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. One by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

The U.S. is leading a global coalition that has made great progress in the war on terrorism:

- Began to destroy al-Qaeda's grip on Afghanistan by driving the Taliban from power.
- Disrupted al-Qaeda's global operations and terrorist financing networks.
- Helped the innocent people of Afghanistan recover from the Taliban's reign of terror.
- Helped Afghans put aside long-standing differences to form a new interim government that represents all Afghans – including women.

Facts of the Day

- With U.S. government support, the U.N.'s World Food Program is distributing more than 2,600 metric tons of wheat to some 53,000 of the neediest families in Herat, Afghanistan. This represents approximately 78 percent of the city's population.
- Near Herat, Afghanistan, the U.N.'s World Food Program -- with U.S. assistance -- distributes 90 metric tons of food every day in the Maslakh camp. That is enough to feed 324,000 for a month.

Probably. The focus of the meeting is to get quick feedback from the preliminary review of the docs so that a general written protocol can be drafted as quickly as possible.

I am heading upstairs in ten minutes to open Rooms 7521/7523, where they will remain open all day. The only exception may be lunch, depending on who is there from noon-1:00pm. If you arrive at the rooms between noon and 1:00pm to find
the doors locked, they will be reopened at 1:00pm.

Further, in light of Dan's email yesterday regarding our meeting to discuss protocol, I have blocked off Conference Room 3143 (where we met last time) for
Thursday morning between 8:00am and noon.

Chad--

Terrific. Thanks for your help in getting them over here so soon.

All--

Ed made a great suggestion last week that's worth reiterating: Please leave a written record in the room of which boxes you've taken a look at; this will ensure that at least one person takes a preliminary look at each of the boxes.

Let's plan to meet either on Thursday morning to assess where we are at that point preliminarily in terms of being able to craft a workable review protocol.
What times work best for everyone? My schedule is relatively flexible that morning.

Thanks,

The Reagan documents are in Rms. 7521/7523.

I am walking up there shortly to open the door and start looking the documents
over.

Merit should guide filling key federal post

January 9, 2002

The vital task of selecting the next United States attorney in San Diego has been well served, so far, by a formal and deliberative screening process that emphasized qualifications and bipartisanship. Both are worthy criteria. Getting the best possible nominees for prosecutorial and judicial positions will be easier if a Republican White House can work cooperatively with California's two U.S. senators, both Democrats.

In recent weeks, however, that carefully conceived process, established with White House approval, has come under threat.

A handful of Washington insiders, reportedly including two aides in the office of President Bush's White House counsel, Alberto Gonzalez, are backing Capitol Hill staff lawyer Jeffrey Taylor for the job of U.S. attorney in San Diego. Taylor's supporters are trying to sidestep -- read, sabotage -- the designated process that already has advanced an abundantly qualified candidate to be U.S. attorney here.

That process produced by far its strongest recommendations for former federal prosecutor Charles La Bella, the aspirant viewed by almost every informed observer as best qualified to be the federal government's chief law enforcement official on the Southwest border.

Taylor's prospects, to be blunt, depend entirely on overturning the process that was established, as noted, with White House approval, by President Bush's designated deputy in Southern California, Rancho Santa Fe venture capitalist Gerald Parsky.

Taylor, 37, has Washington connections but none of the experience and qualifications required for this major post. Taylor was duly interviewed and evaluated by the three-member screening committee appointed by Parsky. The committee rejected Taylor, concluding no doubt that he wholly lacked the necessary experience to be a United States attorney in one of the most demanding law enforcement environments in the country.

Reprehensibly, Taylor's backers are also engaging in a shabby whispering campaign against La Bella. "Not a team player," they're saying. That charge is unfair and unwarranted. Moreover, it apparently is not shared by Justice Department officials with whom La Bella would work.

Much as San Diego and the country desperately need the best possible U.S. attorney here, an even bigger issue is at stake. The U.S. attorney choice is the first test of a selection process designed to encourage bipartisan cooperation on the new federal judges also urgently needed here.

California Sens. Dianne Feinstein and Barbara Boxer have agreed to support a La Bella nomination -- as are many prominent San Diego Republicans -- and they stand ready to work with the White House on judicial nominees. Switching signals at this late date on the U.S. attorney pick could only jeopardize that bipartisan accord.

Obviously, partisan gridlock on these important nominations would serve no good purpose.

Senior White House officials are pledged, and properly so, to respect the process they themselves approved for making these nominations. Honoring that promise should start with the choice of United States attorney for San Diego.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "In his first televised address to the nation since being sworn into office on December 22, [Hamid] Karzai said the Afghan constitution will 'guarantee freedom of speech and of the press, and also political and social freedom.'" (AFP, 1/9/02)

- "The interim administration supports a free market…Social and economic progress in our country is dependent on a free market economy and private sector development. The government will lessen its interference in economic affairs. This will pave the way for freedom and private sector initiative." (Interim Afghan leader Hamid Karzai, AFP, 1/9/01)

Message

Osama bin Laden is a coward who murders innocents, including women, children and Muslims.

We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. One by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

The U.S. is leading a global coalition that has made great progress in the war on terrorism:

- Began to destroy al-Qaeda's grip on Afghanistan by driving the Taliban from power.
- Disrupted al-Qaeda's global operations and terrorist financing networks.
- Helped the innocent people of Afghanistan recover from the Taliban's reign of terror.
- Helped Afghans put aside long-standing differences to form a new interim government that represents all Afghans – including women.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Today we're blocking the assets of two organizations and two individuals who have been stealing from widows and orphans to fund al Qaeda terrorism. The Afghan Support Committee, branches of the Revival of Islamic Heritage Society and two of their employees defrauded well-intentioned donors and turned funds meant for good into funds for evil. These bad actors will now be pariahs in the civilized world." (Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill, 1/9/02)

Facts of the Day

- The U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) is giving more than $6.5 million to provide primary and emergency health care and vaccinations through static and mobile clinics in refugee camps and provinces within Afghanistan.

- USAID is contributing $6.9 million to provide emergency shelter for more than 325,000 people and rehabilitate the damaged homes of approximately 62,000 Afghans.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "In his first televised address to the nation since being sworn into office on December 22, [Hamid] Karzai said the Afghan constitution will 'guarantee freedom of speech and of the press, and also political and social freedom.'" (AFP, 1/9/02)

- "The interim administration supports a free market…Social and economic progress in our country is dependent on a free market economy and private sector development. The government will lessen its interference in economic affairs. This will pave the way for freedom and private sector initiative." (Interim Afghan leader Hamid Karzai, AFP, 1/9/01)

Message

Osama bin Laden is a coward who murders innocents, including women, children and Muslims.

We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. One by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

The U.S. is leading a global coalition that has made great progress in the war on terrorism:

- Began to destroy al-Qaeda's grip on Afghanistan by driving the Taliban from power.
- Disrupted al-Qaeda's global operations and terrorist financing networks.
- Helped the innocent people of Afghanistan recover from the Taliban's reign of terror.
- Helped Afghans put aside long-standing differences to form a new interim government that represents all Afghans – including women.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Today we're blocking the assets of two organizations and two individuals who have been stealing from widows and orphans to fund al Qaeda terrorism. The Afghan Support Committee, branches of the Revival of Islamic Heritage Society and two of their employees defrauded well-intentioned donors and turned funds meant for good into funds for evil. These bad actors will now be pariahs in the civilized world." (Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill, 1/9/02)

Facts of the Day

- The U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) is giving more than $6.5 million to provide primary and emergency health care and vaccinations through static and mobile clinics in refugee camps and provinces within Afghanistan.

- USAID is contributing $6.9 million to provide emergency shelter for more than 325,000 people and rehabilitate the damaged homes of approximately 62,000 Afghans.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "In his first televised address to the nation since being sworn into office on December 22, [Hamid] Karzai said the Afghan constitution will 'guarantee freedom of speech and of the press, and also political and social freedom.'" (AFP, 1/9/02)

- "The interim administration supports a free market…Social and economic progress in our country is dependent on a free market economy and private sector development. The government will lessen its interference in economic affairs. This will pave the way for freedom and private sector initiative." (Interim Afghan leader Hamid Karzai, AFP, 1/9/01)

Message

Osama bin Laden is a coward who murders innocents, including women, children and Muslims.

We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. One by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

The U.S. is leading a global coalition that has made great progress in the war on terrorism:

- Began to destroy al-Qaeda's grip on Afghanistan by driving the Taliban from power.
- Disrupted al-Qaeda's global operations and terrorist financing networks.
- Helped the innocent people of Afghanistan recover from the Taliban's reign of terror.
- Helped Afghans put aside long-standing differences to form a new interim government that represents all Afghans – including women.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Today we're blocking the assets of two organizations and two individuals who have been stealing from widows and orphans to fund al Qaeda terrorism. The Afghan Support Committee, branches of the Revival of Islamic Heritage Society and two of their employees defrauded well-intentioned donors and turned funds meant for good into funds for evil. These bad actors will now be pariahs in the civilized world." (Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill, 1/9/02)

Facts of the Day

- The U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) is giving more than $6.5 million to provide primary and emergency health care and vaccinations through static and mobile clinics in refugee camps and provinces within Afghanistan.

- USAID is contributing $6.9 million to provide emergency shelter for more than 325,000 people and rehabilitate the damaged homes of approximately 62,000 Afghans.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "In his first televised address to the nation since being sworn into office on December 22, [Hamid] Karzai said the Afghan constitution will 'guarantee freedom of speech and of the press, and also political and social freedom.'" (AFP, 1/9/02)

- "The interim administration supports a free market…Social and economic progress in our country is dependent on a free market economy and private sector development. The government will lessen its interference in economic affairs. This will pave the way for freedom and private sector initiative." (Interim Afghan leader Hamid Karzai, AFP, 1/9/01)

Message

Osama bin Laden is a coward who murders innocents, including women, children and Muslims.

We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. One by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

The U.S. is leading a global coalition that has made great progress in the war on terrorism:

- Began to destroy al-Qaeda's grip on Afghanistan by driving the Taliban from power.
- Disrupted al-Qaeda's global operations and terrorist financing networks.
- Helped the innocent people of Afghanistan recover from the Taliban's reign of terror.
- Helped Afghans put aside long-standing differences to form a new interim government that represents all Afghans – including women.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Today we're blocking the assets of two organizations and two individuals who have been stealing from widows and orphans to fund al Qaeda terrorism. The Afghan Support Committee, branches of the Revival of Islamic Heritage Society and two of their employees defrauded well-intentioned donors and turned funds meant for good into funds for evil. These bad actors will now be pariahs in the civilized world." (Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill, 1/9/02)

Facts of the Day

- The U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) is giving more than $6.5 million to provide primary and emergency health care and vaccinations through static and mobile clinics in refugee camps and provinces within Afghanistan.

- USAID is contributing $6.9 million to provide emergency shelter for more than 325,000 people and rehabilitate the damaged homes of approximately 62,000 Afghans.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "In his first televised address to the nation since being sworn into office on December 22, [Hamid] Karzai said the Afghan constitution will 'guarantee freedom of speech and of the press, and also political and social freedom.'" (AFP, 1/9/02)

- "The interim administration supports a free market…Social and economic progress in our country is dependent on a free market economy and private sector development. The government will lessen its interference in economic affairs. This will pave the way for freedom and private sector initiative." (Interim Afghan leader Hamid Karzai, AFP, 1/9/01)

Message

Osama bin Laden is a coward who murders innocents, including women, children and Muslims.

We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. One by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

The U.S. is leading a global coalition that has made great progress in the war on terrorism:

- Began to destroy al-Qaeda's grip on Afghanistan by driving the Taliban from power.
- Disrupted al-Qaeda's global operations and terrorist financing networks.
- Helped the innocent people of Afghanistan recover from the Taliban's reign of terror.
- Helped Afghans put aside long-standing differences to form a new interim government that represents all Afghans – including women.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Today we're blocking the assets of two organizations and two individuals who have been stealing from widows and orphans to fund al Qaeda terrorism. The Afghan Support Committee, branches of the Revival of Islamic Heritage Society and two of their employees defrauded well-intentioned donors and turned funds meant for good into funds for evil. These bad actors will now be pariahs in the civilized world." (Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill, 1/9/02)

Facts of the Day

- The U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) is giving more than $6.5 million to provide primary and emergency health care and vaccinations through static and mobile clinics in refugee camps and provinces within Afghanistan.

- USAID is contributing $6.9 million to provide emergency shelter for more than 325,000 people and rehabilitate the damaged homes of approximately 62,000 Afghans.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "In his first televised address to the nation since being sworn into office on December 22, [Hamid] Karzai said the Afghan constitution will 'guarantee freedom of speech and of the press, and also political and social freedom.'" (AFP, 1/9/02)

- "The interim administration supports a free market…Social and economic progress in our country is dependent on a free market economy and private sector development. The government will lessen its interference in economic affairs. This will pave the way for freedom and private sector initiative." (Interim Afghan leader Hamid Karzai, AFP, 1/9/01)

Message

Osama bin Laden is a coward who murders innocents, including women, children and Muslims.

We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. One by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

The U.S. is leading a global coalition that has made great progress in the war on terrorism:

- Began to destroy al-Qaeda's grip on Afghanistan by driving the Taliban from power.
- Disrupted al-Qaeda's global operations and terrorist financing networks.
- Helped the innocent people of Afghanistan recover from the Taliban's reign of terror.
- Helped Afghans put aside long-standing differences to form a new interim government that represents all Afghans – including women.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Today we're blocking the assets of two organizations and two individuals who have been stealing from widows and orphans to fund al Qaeda terrorism. The Afghan Support Committee, branches of the Revival of Islamic Heritage Society and two of their employees defrauded well-intentioned donors and turned funds meant for good into funds for evil. These bad actors will now be pariahs in the civilized world." (Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill, 1/9/02)

Facts of the Day

- The U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) is giving more than $6.5 million to provide primary and emergency health care and vaccinations through static and mobile clinics in refugee camps and provinces within Afghanistan.

- USAID is contributing $6.9 million to provide emergency shelter for more than 325,000 people and rehabilitate the damaged homes of approximately 62,000 Afghans.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "In his first televised address to the nation since being sworn into office on December 22, [Hamid] Karzai said the Afghan constitution will 'guarantee freedom of speech and of the press, and also political and social freedom.'" (AFP, 1/9/02)

- "The interim administration supports a free market…Social and economic progress in our country is dependent on a free market economy and private sector development. The government will lessen its interference in economic affairs. This will pave the way for freedom and private sector initiative." (Interim Afghan leader Hamid Karzai, AFP, 1/9/01)

Message

Osama bin Laden is a coward who murders innocents, including women, children and Muslims.

We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. One by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

The U.S. is leading a global coalition that has made great progress in the war on terrorism:

- Began to destroy al-Qaeda's grip on Afghanistan by driving the Taliban from power.
- Disrupted al-Qaeda's global operations and terrorist financing networks.
- Helped the innocent people of Afghanistan recover from the Taliban's reign of terror.
- Helped Afghans put aside long-standing differences to form a new interim government that represents all Afghans – including women.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Today we're blocking the assets of two organizations and two individuals who have been stealing from widows and orphans to fund al Qaeda terrorism. The Afghan Support Committee, branches of the Revival of Islamic Heritage Society and two of their employees defrauded well-intentioned donors and turned funds meant for good into funds for evil. These bad actors will now be pariahs in the civilized world." (Treasury Secretary Paul O'Neill, 1/9/02)

Facts of the Day

- The U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) is giving more than $6.5 million to provide primary and emergency health care and vaccinations through static and mobile clinics in refugee camps and provinces within Afghanistan.

- USAID is contributing $6.9 million to provide emergency shelter for more than 325,000 people and rehabilitate the damaged homes of approximately 62,000 Afghans.
