In Case You Missed It…

- "We see this war as a jihad (holy war). We have not asked for a halt to the fighting – this is up to the United States,' said Mullah Omar's chief of staff, Mohammad Taieb al-Agha. 'Jihad is a religious duty, and it does not violate (the tenets of) Ramadan." (AFP, 11/3/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "…this is not a struggle between the West and Islam. In particular that what we are facing is unfortunately those that have hijacked Islam for their own destructive ends." (King Abdullah of Jordan, 11/8/01)
- "…after the initial air strikes they [residents of Kabul] realized that U.S. aircraft were not aiming to bomb civilians." (Anonymous Kabul resident, as reported by Italian newspaper Corriere della Sera, 11/8/01)
- "I am asking now in very strong terms for international assistance to help the Afghan people get rid of the foreign terrorist enemies in Afghanistan. I'm asking for help from the U.S., Europe and Muslim countries to help the Afghan people to regain independence, regain peace and once again live among the nations of the world as a dignified, honorable nation." (Hamid Karzai, opposition leader of Afghanistan's Pashtun majority; ABC News, 11/8/01)
- "During this crisis you might have heard some [school] teachers praising Osama bin Laden and this is a faulty understanding of Islam. Or they reflect the current situation as if it were an agression by crusaders against Islam and Muslims. This of course means that there is zealotry…which does not serve our youth now." (Sheikh Saleh al-Sheikh, Saudia Arabian minister of Islamic affairs; Reuters, 11/8/01)

Message

- The global coalition against terrorism grows stronger every day – every day al-Qaida is becoming more and more isolated.
- The terrorists seek to destroy our freedom and impose its views. We value life, the terrorists ruthlessly destroy it.
- This is a different war, a war on many fronts, against terrorists who operate in more than 60 different countries. And this is a war that must be fought not only overseas but also here at home.
- The President has called our military into action to hunt down the members of the al-Qaida organization who murdered innocent Americans. We gave fair warning to the government that harbors them in Afghanistan. The Taliban made a choice to continue hiding terrorists, and now they are paying the price.
- Our military is pursuing its mission. We are destroying training camps, disrupting communications, and dismantling air defenses. We are now bombing Taliban front lines. We are deliberately and systematically hunting down these murderers and we will bring them to justice.
- Throughout this battle, we adhere to our values. Unlike our enemy, we respect life. We do not target innocent civilians. We care for the innocent people of Afghanistan, so we continue to provide humanitarian aid, even while their government tries to steal the food we send. When the terrorists and their supporters are gone, the people of Afghanistan will say with the rest of the world: good riddance.
- We are at the beginning of our efforts in Afghanistan, and Afghanistan is only the beginning of our efforts in the world. No group or nation should mistake America's intentions: Where terrorist groups of global reach exist, the United States and our friends and allies will seek it out and destroy them.

Facts of the Day

- For humanitarian assistance to Afghanistan, the U.S. government spent $178,607,625 in FY01 and $117,675,527 in FY02 – a total of $296,283,152.
- In recent years, the U.S. government has provided up to 80% of the U.N. World Food Program's appeals for food aid.

In Case You Missed It…

- "We see this war as a jihad (holy war). We have not asked for a halt to the fighting – this is up to the United States,' said Mullah Omar's chief of staff, Mohammad Taieb al-Agha. 'Jihad is a religious duty, and it does not violate (the tenets of) Ramadan." (AFP, 11/3/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "…this is not a struggle between the West and Islam. In particular that what we are facing is unfortunately those that have hijacked Islam for their own destructive ends." (King Abdullah of Jordan, 11/8/01)
- "…after the initial air strikes they [residents of Kabul] realized that U.S. aircraft were not aiming to bomb civilians." (Anonymous Kabul resident, as reported by Italian newspaper Corriere della Sera, 11/8/01)
- "I am asking now in very strong terms for international assistance to help the Afghan people get rid of the foreign terrorist enemies in Afghanistan. I'm asking for help from the U.S., Europe and Muslim countries to help the Afghan people to regain independence, regain peace and once again live among the nations of the world as a dignified, honorable nation." (Hamid Karzai, opposition leader of Afghanistan's Pashtun majority; ABC News, 11/8/01)
- "During this crisis you might have heard some [school] teachers praising Osama bin Laden and this is a faulty understanding of Islam. Or they reflect the current situation as if it were an agression by crusaders against Islam and Muslims. This of course means that there is zealotry…which does not serve our youth now." (Sheikh Saleh al-Sheikh, Saudia Arabian minister of Islamic affairs; Reuters, 11/8/01)

Message

- The global coalition against terrorism grows stronger every day – every day al-Qaida is becoming more and more isolated.
- The terrorists seek to destroy our freedom and impose its views. We value life, the terrorists ruthlessly destroy it.
- This is a different war, a war on many fronts, against terrorists who operate in more than 60 different countries. And this is a war that must be fought not only overseas but also here at home.
- The President has called our military into action to hunt down the members of the al-Qaida organization who murdered innocent Americans. We gave fair warning to the government that harbors them in Afghanistan. The Taliban made a choice to continue hiding terrorists, and now they are paying the price.
- Our military is pursuing its mission. We are destroying training camps, disrupting communications, and dismantling air defenses. We are now bombing Taliban front lines. We are deliberately and systematically hunting down these murderers and we will bring them to justice.
- Throughout this battle, we adhere to our values. Unlike our enemy, we respect life. We do not target innocent civilians. We care for the innocent people of Afghanistan, so we continue to provide humanitarian aid, even while their government tries to steal the food we send. When the terrorists and their supporters are gone, the people of Afghanistan will say with the rest of the world: good riddance.
- We are at the beginning of our efforts in Afghanistan, and Afghanistan is only the beginning of our efforts in the world. No group or nation should mistake America's intentions: Where terrorist groups of global reach exist, the United States and our friends and allies will seek it out and destroy them.

Facts of the Day

- For humanitarian assistance to Afghanistan, the U.S. government spent $178,607,625 in FY01 and $117,675,527 in FY02 – a total of $296,283,152.
- In recent years, the U.S. government has provided up to 80% of the U.N. World Food Program's appeals for food aid.

PRESIDENT BUSH ACTS TO MAKE HOLIDAY AIR TRAVEL SAFER

Today's Action

- President Bush took action today to make holiday travel safer for all Americans and to lay the groundwork for a new federally controlled aviation security system.

- The President announced a 25% increase in National Guard personnel available to Governors to support security at our nation's commercial airports. The troops will provide additional security at airports throughout the busy holiday travel season.

- The President also took action to prepare for a swift transition to a new federally controlled aviation security system. While Congress is finishing the aviation security bill, the President instructed Secretary Mineta to begin a series of high level transition planning sessions with airport operators, law enforcement authorities, security device manufacturers, airline CEOs, and other parties that will play a direct role in the transition to the new system. The President urged Congress to act quickly and send to his desk a bill that will provide the best possible aviation security.

- The President also instructed the Department of Transportation to conduct undercover audits of security performance at airports nationwide to ensure strict compliance with FAA security standards. These audits, conducted by DoT's Inspector General, will help to quickly identify and fix potential problems with airport security.

Background on the Increase in National Guard at Airports

- The President's action significantly boosts the National Guard presence at our nation's airports. Over 6000 National Guard troops are already assisting with security at airports. With today's Presidential action, more than 9000 Guard troops will be deployed at airports through the holiday travel season. The federal government will reimburse states for this deployment.

- The National Guard troops are available at Governors' discretion for the following purposes:

  - Monitoring passenger and baggage screening
  - Monitoring gate activity
  - Securing perimeter control
  - Maintaining access points to terminal ramps
  - Searching vehicles and garages
  - Monitoring curbside activity
  - Guarding air traffic control facilities
  - Securing general aviation facilities that share common property with commercial airports

REV_00319717

Previous Bush Administration Actions to Increase Airport Security

- While Congress continues to debate airport security legislation, the Bush Administration has already taken decisive steps to protect the traveling public. The FAA is deploying a core team of 225 security professionals to improve oversight of screening and security functions at airports. This team of professionals will be in place to strengthen existing FAA security presence at airports and, once Congress completes work on the aviation security bill, to assist with the transition to a new airport security system with stronger federal controls.

- On October 30, the Secretary of Transportation ordered FAA special agents to crack down on airport security and directed them to take decisive security measures, such as emptying the concourse, re-screening passenger and holding flights if security is breached. Secretary Mineta has also warned the airlines and existing screening security companies that the FAA will have a "zero tolerance" standard for security breaches.

- The FAA has also taken the following steps:

  - Increased significantly the Federal Air Marshal presence on commercial flights
  - Restricted access to key points at airports and increased airport patrols
  - Increased terminal security by tightening screening procedures and restricting carry-on items
  - Provided grants for fortification of cockpit doors to prevent unauthorized entry into the cockpit. As of November 7, the major airlines have retrofitted 100% of their aircraft with fortified cockpit doors. The airlines estimate that all civilian commercial aircraft will be retrofitted within 30-45 days.

PRESIDENT BUSH ACTS TO MAKE HOLIDAY AIR TRAVEL SAFER

Today's Action

- President Bush took action today to make holiday travel safer for all Americans and to lay the groundwork for a new federally controlled aviation security system.

- The President announced a 25% increase in National Guard personnel available to Governors to support security at our nation's commercial airports. The troops will provide additional security at airports throughout the busy holiday travel season.

- The President also took action to prepare for a swift transition to a new federally controlled aviation security system. While Congress is finishing the aviation security bill, the President instructed Secretary Mineta to begin a series of high level transition planning sessions with airport operators, law enforcement authorities, security device manufacturers, airline CEOs, and other parties that will play a direct role in the transition to the new system. The President urged Congress to act quickly and send to his desk a bill that will provide the best possible aviation security.

- The President also instructed the Department of Transportation to conduct undercover audits of security performance at airports nationwide to ensure strict compliance with FAA security standards. These audits, conducted by DoT's Inspector General, will help to quickly identify and fix potential problems with airport security.

Background on the Increase in National Guard at Airports

- The President's action significantly boosts the National Guard presence at our nation's airports. Over 6000 National Guard troops are already assisting with security at airports. With today's Presidential action, more than 9000 Guard troops will be deployed at airports through the holiday travel season. The federal government will reimburse states for this deployment.

- The National Guard troops are available at Governors' discretion for the following purposes:

  - Monitoring passenger and baggage screening
  - Monitoring gate activity
  - Securing perimeter control
  - Maintaining access points to terminal ramps
  - Searching vehicles and garages
  - Monitoring curbside activity
  - Guarding air traffic control facilities
  - Securing general aviation facilities that share common property with commercial airports

Previous Bush Administration Actions to Increase Airport Security

- While Congress continues to debate airport security legislation, the Bush Administration has already taken decisive steps to protect the traveling public. The FAA is deploying a core team of 225 security professionals to improve oversight of screening and security functions at airports. This team of professionals will be in place to strengthen existing FAA security presence at airports and, once Congress completes work on the aviation security bill, to assist with the transition to a new airport security system with stronger federal controls.

- On October 30, the Secretary of Transportation ordered FAA special agents to crack down on airport security and directed them to take decisive security measures, such as emptying the concourse, re-screening passenger and holding flights if security is breached. Secretary Mineta has also warned the airlines and existing screening security companies that the FAA will have a "zero tolerance" standard for security breaches.

- The FAA has also taken the following steps:

  - Increased significantly the Federal Air Marshal presence on commercial flights
  - Restricted access to key points at airports and increased airport patrols
  - Increased terminal security by tightening screening procedures and restricting carry-on items
  - Provided grants for fortification of cockpit doors to prevent unauthorized entry into the cockpit. As of November 7, the major airlines have retrofitted 100% of their aircraft with fortified cockpit doors. The airlines estimate that all civilian commercial aircraft will be retrofitted within 30-45 days.

PRESIDENT BUSH ACTS TO MAKE HOLIDAY AIR TRAVEL SAFER

Today's Action

- President Bush took action today to make holiday travel safer for all Americans and to lay the groundwork for a new federally controlled aviation security system.

- The President announced a 25% increase in National Guard personnel available to Governors to support security at our nation's commercial airports. The troops will provide additional security at airports throughout the busy holiday travel season.

- The President also took action to prepare for a swift transition to a new federally controlled aviation security system. While Congress is finishing the aviation security bill, the President instructed Secretary Mineta to begin a series of high level transition planning sessions with airport operators, law enforcement authorities, security device manufacturers, airline CEOs, and other parties that will play a direct role in the transition to the new system. The President urged Congress to act quickly and send to his desk a bill that will provide the best possible aviation security.

- The President also instructed the Department of Transportation to conduct undercover audits of security performance at airports nationwide to ensure strict compliance with FAA security standards. These audits, conducted by DoT's Inspector General, will help to quickly identify and fix potential problems with airport security.

Background on the Increase in National Guard at Airports

- The President's action significantly boosts the National Guard presence at our nation's airports. Over 6000 National Guard troops are already assisting with security at airports. With today's Presidential action, more than 9000 Guard troops will be deployed at airports through the holiday travel season. The federal government will reimburse states for this deployment.

- The National Guard troops are available at Governors' discretion for the following purposes:

  - Monitoring passenger and baggage screening
  - Monitoring gate activity
  - Securing perimeter control
  - Maintaining access points to terminal ramps
  - Searching vehicles and garages
  - Monitoring curbside activity
  - Guarding air traffic control facilities
  - Securing general aviation facilities that share common property with commercial airports

REV_00319886

Previous Bush Administration Actions to Increase Airport Security

- While Congress continues to debate airport security legislation, the Bush Administration has already taken decisive steps to protect the traveling public. The FAA is deploying a core team of 225 security professionals to improve oversight of screening and security functions at airports. This team of professionals will be in place to strengthen existing FAA security presence at airports and, once Congress completes work on the aviation security bill, to assist with the transition to a new airport security system with stronger federal controls.

- On October 30, the Secretary of Transportation ordered FAA special agents to crack down on airport security and directed them to take decisive security measures, such as emptying the concourse, re-screening passenger and holding flights if security is breached. Secretary Mineta has also warned the airlines and existing screening security companies that the FAA will have a "zero tolerance" standard for security breaches.

- The FAA has also taken the following steps:

  - Increased significantly the Federal Air Marshal presence on commercial flights
  - Restricted access to key points at airports and increased airport patrols
  - Increased terminal security by tightening screening procedures and restricting carry-on items
  - Provided grants for fortification of cockpit doors to prevent unauthorized entry into the cockpit. As of November 7, the major airlines have retrofitted 100% of their aircraft with fortified cockpit doors. The airlines estimate that all civilian commercial aircraft will be retrofitted within 30-45 days.

Bullet Points Supporting Amendments to the Lawsuit Management Provisions in H.R. 3210

The following is a description of a proposed amendment to H.R. 3210 that would widen the scope of the litigation protections in the insurance system created by H.R. 3210. In doing so, it would benefit all people and all industries that fall victim to any terrorist attack of a catastrophic and industry-breaking scale. Nearly identical litigation protections were passed by the House by a vote of 286-139 – a 147 vote margin – to cover lawsuits related to the September 11 attacks, including limits on punitive damages, award offsets for collateral source compensation, and reasonable limits on attorneys fees. Indeed, such liability limit provisions are considered essential for the rebuilding of New York and the American economy. In a letter supporting those provisions, Mayor Giuliani stated that they "would provide New York with much needed relief from potential liability arising out of the attacks on the World Trade Center on September 11, 2001. Any substitute would fail to provide the City the fiscal protection it needs from potentially limitless lawsuits." He wrote that these provisions "would solve one large part of the City's potential liability exposure, and help ensure steady progress toward utilizing our resources to address critical fiscal matters." In a similar letter, Governor Pataki wrote that such provisions "will free the City of New York and the Port Authority of undue burdens which could seriously slow or even derail those rebuilding efforts." We all hope and pray that no other American city or town will suffer similar tragic attacks. But no city or town is beyond the reach of evil, and all Members should heed the advice of Mayor Giuliani and Governor Pataki and vote for legal reforms that will allow any city or town that may be attacked in the future to rebuild and renew itself as quickly as possible.

Currently, H.R. 3210's limits on punitive damages and its requirement that noneconomic damages be allocated in proportion to fault apply only to protect insurance companies in litigation in which they are sued by their insureds. Under this amendment, when the Administrator determines that one or more terrorist events have caused insurance losses over the threshold limits set out in the bill, a federal cause of action is then triggered that places before a federal court or courts selected by the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation all actions, brought by any party, for all damages "arising out of, relating to, or resulting from" the terrorist events that caused the trigger to be pulled. The "events" covered would be set out by the Administrator in his or her determination that they are terrorist attacks of a catastrophic and potentially industry-breaking scale. Claimants who must assert the exclusive federal cause of action would include not only those who are insured, but also anyone else claiming damages "arising out of, relating to, or resulting from" the terrorist events that caused the Administrator to pull the trigger. These claims must be brought in federal court and subject to limits on punitive damages, joint and several liability for noneconomic damages, and attorneys fees, as well as to the offsets on damages for plaintiffs' collateral source compensation already provided for in H.R. 3210. Under H.R. 3210 as currently written, only the latter protection in H.R. 3210 applies to all parties who fall victim to billion-dollar, terrorist-inspired litigation.

By placing these limits on billion-dollar, terrorist-inspired litigation, affected industries would be protected from potentially limitless liability and bankrupting litigation that would dry up industry access to credit and capital. Also under these limits, the size of damage awards for which the United States will have to provide up-front, low-or-no interest loans to cover would be reduced, just as the Federal Tort Claims Act's limits on punitive damages and attorneys fees limit damages in litigation that will result in money taken from the U.S. Treasury. Within these parameters, a federal judge will determine any tort liability. And by expanding the federal cause of action to include claims for damages "arising out of, resulting from, or relating to" triggering terrorist acts, the federal cause of action would also include claims regarding whether such acts of terrorism are covered by a party's insurance so that the same court or courts may also settle claims regarding the scope of insurance coverage of losses related to the terrorist events.

The bill as written singles out insurance companies for protection, leaving everyone else at the mercy of terrorists whose attacks cause billions of dollars in losses.

- The bill as written prohibits claims for punitive damages, and requires an allocation of noneconomic damages in proportion to fault, only when an insured sues his or her insurance company for damages related to the interpretation of an insurance contract. These protections do not apply to anyone else sued for actions taken or not taken prior to a terrorist attack. This means the bill as written protects insurance companies, but leaves everyone else without these protections even when they have suffered from the very same terrorist attack. Under the bill as written, anyone other than an insurance company could be on the hook for all damages caused by a terrorist attack, running into the billions of dollars, even when they share only 0.1% of the responsibility for the losses and the terrorists share the remaining 99.9%. Studies suggest that nonecomonic damages can comprise 40-50% of damages in certain tort cases. If any defendant, even those marginally involved in a minuscule portion of any injuries, could be made to pay the full amount of noneconomic damages caused by a massive terrorist attack, hundreds of legitimate businesses could be thrown into bankruptcy.

- Some may argue that additional protections should be extended to cover insurance company defendants because under this bill taxpayer money will be used to maintain the stability of the insurance industry and not including protections for them will contribute to the instability of that industry. However, terrorist attacks present the threat of potentially infinite liability, and resulting massive instability, not only to insurance companies, but to all victims who suffer the types of multi-billion dollar losses covered by the bill.

- Further, these protections should apply to everyone, not just insurance companies, because damages primarily caused by terrorist attacks are not garden variety tort claims. Existing tort rules may properly apply when the primary cause of injury is a slippery banana peel, but surely that cannot be true when the primary cause of injury is not a banana peel, but a suicidal fanatic motivated by the deepest hatred of capitalism and using weapons of mass destruction intended to kill as many innocent people as possible. Banana peels are accidents waiting to happen. Terrorists are suicidal fanatics who plot the deaths of innocent thousands. Unlike the banana peel, a terrorist targets innocent people, a terrorist meticulously plans his attack, and a terrorist intentionally destroys innocent lives and private property. If the same protections extended to insurance companies are not also extended to private businesses, the "Mom and Pop" store down the street will have to invest scarce resources to turn itself from a corner shop into a fortified bunker designed to withstand foreign attacks and acts of war in order to avoid potentially infinite liability. Terrorist are not banana peels, and the garden variety rules of litigation that exist during peacetime should not apply to injuries initiated by acts of terror committed by foreign enemies. Victims of terrorist attacks should be considered, first and foremost, American casualties of war who deserve protections not available to the typical, alleged tortfeasor. The Congress has already recognized this in passing the air carrier liability protection provisions and victims compensation fund. These provisions were created by the bipartisan Air Transportation Safety and System Stabilization Act, which overwhelmingly passed the House and Senate.

- The solution to these problems is to extend these same protections to everyone involved in litigation related to terrorist attacks that an executive official certifies as being destructive enough to trigger the bill's provisions. Indeed, failing to do this will simply turn the sights of trial attorneys away from insurance companies, and toward everyone else from whom they can continue to extort huge settlements by bringing claims for punitive damages and joint and several liability, even when the primary cause of injury is not the defendant, but a premeditated attack by terrorists who hate capitalism and specifically target businesses and commercial properties.

- Fanatical terrorists do not focus their hate on insurance companies. They hate every American, every American business, every product sold, and every strut that holds up a building. It would be a mistake to fail to limit ruinous litigation costs in cases in which no one disputes that the primary cause of harm are murderous foreign enemies. Failing to protect everyone from these costs will contribute to the loss of not only vital American businesses, but it will add to the losses of victims of terrorist attacks, who will be forced to recover only pennies on the dollar when sued businesses end up, not in a court of adjudication, but in a federal bankruptcy court.

- Under these litigation reforms, if any one company is significantly responsible for one of the billion-dollar-damage events covered by the bill, it will have to pay enough noneconomic and compensatory damages to drive it into bankruptcy. That company will be gone. But if Congress fails to limit potentially infinite punitive damages, even the smallest chance that a company will have to pay astronomical punitive awards will pressure that company to settle even unmeritorious claims. For example, say a company is alleged to share some small responsibility for a terrorist attack that causes $1 billion in damages, one of the triggering thresholds of the provisions in H.R. 3210. Punitive damages amounting to 500 times the amount of compensatory damages have been awarded in the past, so even if a national company believes it has only a 1% chance of being hit by a local jury with a $500 billion punitive damages award, it would come under intense pressure to settle for $5 billion because that is its "probabilistic expected loss" (0.01 times $500 billion) to the company if the case went to trial. Facing such a large settlement would drive any company into bankruptcy, closing its offices nationwide and leaving hundreds of thousands of people unemployed. Of course, any other company that faced the same risk would be under the same pressures to settle, and they too would be driven into bankruptcy, leading to the same national economic crisis this country faced when the prospect of potentially infinite liability threatened to permanently ground the airline industry when the capital markets refused to extend loans it might never see repaid.

- H.R. 3210 already caps the aggregate amount the U.S. government may pay out to cover insurance losses for terrorist events at $100 billion. The more of that $100 billion that is eaten up by punitive damages for certain parties, or in settlements reached by certain parties who simply fear the risk of a punitive award following trial, the less is available to compensate more deserving parties.

The bill as written should allow courts to keep attorneys fees down to a reasonable amount and prevent trial lawyers from profiting from acts of war.

- The bill as written places no limits on the fees of attorneys bringing cases against Americans and their businesses, even when the primary cause of injury is a suicidal fanatic bent on intentionally destroying innocent lives and our capitalist economy. If provisions allowing courts the discretion to keep attorneys fees "reasonable" are not included in the bill, a few trial lawyers could turn attacks that result in multi-billion dollar losses, as so certified by an executive official, into private jackpots for themselves that are paid out by the U.S. taxpayer.

- Reasonable limits on attorneys fees serve the same purposes behind restrictions on punitive damages and joint and several liability: they maximize the funds available to large numbers of victims when there are only limited resources available for compensation. Such protections are more important than ever in the context of the terrorist attacks causing multi-billion dollar losses that are specifically covered by the bill. H.R. 3210 already caps the aggregate amount the U.S. government may pay out to cover insurance losses for terrorist events at $100 billion. The more of that $100 billion that is eaten up by attorneys fees, the less is available to compensate victims. Allowing courts to reasonably limit attorneys fees ensures that more people will be equitably compensated.

- The American Trial Lawyers Association ("ATLA") has recognized the need for reduced legal fees to effectively handle the legal aftermath of a terrorist attack three times: in a September 12, 2001, statement urging a moratorium on all civil lawsuits; in a September 21, 2001, letter to the United States Congress; and in a public pledge to organize pro bono legal services for victims of the September 11 attacks.[1]

- Blair Fensterstock, lead attorney in the 1993 World Trade Center bombing lawsuit, has also stated that plaintiffs' attorneys in the 1993 World Trade Center bombing have limited their fees to 6%, instead of the 33% norm.[2]

[1] Association of Trial Lawyers of America, http://www.atlanet.org.

REV_00319893

Placing billion-dollar, terrorist-inspired litigation in one or a few courts will provide victims with swifter, more equitable recovery.

- The 1993 World Trade Center bombing killed six people, yet resulted in 500 lawsuits by 700 individuals, businesses, and insurance companies. Damages claimed were $500 million in damages. Eight years later, the cases are only now just getting to trial.[3] If lawsuits can be brought in any state court for damages resulting from the September 11 attacks, thousands of lawsuits involving tens of thousands of people, in all fifty states, claiming hundreds of billions of dollars in damages are likely to be brought – and not one is likely to include the truly responsible terrorists as defendants, leaving American businesses on the hook for 100% of the damages caused by the terrorist attack. By providing adjudication in one or a few federal courts, victims will recover quicker and more equitably because a few enormous awards in one court will not bankrupt a responsible party before another court can consider the claims of others who may have stronger claims against the same party in other courts.

- The federal cause of action provided for in the legislation also preserves state law in that it is defines as consisting of "the law, including choice of law principles, of the State in which [the] act of terrorism occurred."

- Bringing all terrorism-related cases before a single federal forum has already been passed overwhelmingly by the House 356-54, and by the Senate by unanimous consent, and signed into law by the President, in the Air Transport Safety and System Stabilization Act.

Those who commit terrorist acts and crimes related to those terrorist acts are excluded from coverage under these litigation protections.

- Finally, those who commit or conspire to commit terrorist acts, or who commit crimes related to or resulting from terrorist acts, are excluded from coverage under these litigation protections.

For purposes of personal jurisdiction, the district court or courts designed by the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation shall be deemed to sit in all judicial districts in the United States.

(5) OFFSET FOR RELIEF PAYMENTS- Any recovery by a plaintiff in an action under this subsection shall be reduced by the amount of collateral source compensation, if any, that the plaintiff has received or is entitled to receive as a result of the act of terrorism that caused the insured losses resulting in the triggering determination.

(6) ATTORNEY FEES.– Reasonable attorneys fees for work performed shall be subject to the discretion of the court, but in no event shall any attorney charge, demand, receive, or collect for services rendered, fees or compensation in an amount in excess of 20 percent of the damages ordered by the court to be paid pursuant to this section, or in excess of 20 percent of any court approved settlement made of any claim cognizable under this section. Any attorney who charges, demands, receives, or collects for services rendered in connection with such claim any amount in excess of that allowed under this section, if recovery be had, shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than 1 year, or both.

Today's Action

- President Bush took action today to make holiday travel safer for all Americans and to lay the groundwork for a new federally controlled aviation security system.

- The President announced a 25% increase in National Guard personnel available to Governors to support security at our nation's commercial airports. The troops will provide additional security at airports throughout the busy holiday travel season.

- The President also took action to prepare for a swift transition to a new federally controlled aviation security system. While Congress is finishing the aviation security bill, the President instructed Secretary Mineta to begin a series of high level transition planning sessions with airport operators, law enforcement authorities, security device manufacturers, airline CEOs, and other parties that will play a direct role in the transition to the new system. The President urged Congress to act quickly and send to his desk a bill that will provide the best possible aviation security.

- The President also instructed the Department of Transportation to conduct undercover audits of security performance at airports nationwide to ensure strict compliance with FAA security standards. These audits, conducted by DoT's Inspector General, will help to quickly identify and fix potential problems with airport security.

Background on the Increase in National Guard at Airports

- The President's action significantly boosts the National Guard presence at our nation's airports. Over 6000 National Guard troops are already assisting with security at airports. With today's Presidential action, more than 9000 Guard troops will be deployed at airports through the holiday travel season. The federal government will reimburse states for this deployment.

- The National Guard troops are available at Governors' discretion for the following purposes:

  - Monitoring passenger and baggage screening
  - Monitoring gate activity
  - Securing perimeter control
  - Maintaining access points to terminal ramps
  - Searching vehicles and garages
  - Monitoring curbside activity
  - Guarding air traffic control facilities
  - Securing general aviation facilities that share common property with commercial airports

Previous Bush Administration Actions to Increase Airport Security

- While Congress continues to debate airport security legislation, the Bush Administration has already taken decisive steps to protect the traveling public. The FAA is deploying a core team of 225 security professionals to improve oversight of screening and security functions at airports. This team of professionals will be in place to strengthen existing FAA security presence at airports and, once Congress completes work on the aviation security bill, to assist with the transition to a new airport security system with stronger federal controls.

- On October 30, the Secretary of Transportation ordered FAA special agents to crack down on airport security and directed them to take decisive security measures, such as emptying the concourse, re-screening passenger and holding flights if security is breached. Secretary Mineta has also warned the airlines and existing screening security companies that the FAA will have a "zero tolerance" standard for security breaches.

- The FAA has also taken the following steps:

  - Increased significantly the Federal Air Marshal presence on commercial flights
  - Restricted access to key points at airports and increased airport patrols
  - Increased terminal security by tightening screening procedures and restricting carry-on items
  - Provided grants for fortification of cockpit doors to prevent unauthorized entry into the cockpit. As of November 7, the major airlines have retrofitted 100% of their aircraft with fortified cockpit doors. The airlines estimate that all civilian commercial aircraft will be retrofitted within 30-45 days.

PRESIDENT BUSH ACTS TO MAKE HOLIDAY AIR TRAVEL SAFER

Today's Action

- President Bush took action today to make holiday travel safer for all Americans and to lay the groundwork for a new federally controlled aviation security system.

- The President announced a 25% increase in National Guard personnel available to Governors to support security at our nation's commercial airports. The troops will provide additional security at airports throughout the busy holiday travel season.

- The President also took action to prepare for a swift transition to a new federally controlled aviation security system. While Congress is finishing the aviation security bill, the President instructed Secretary Mineta to begin a series of high level transition planning sessions with airport operators, law enforcement authorities, security device manufacturers, airline CEOs, and other parties that will play a direct role in the transition to the new system. The President urged Congress to act quickly and send to his desk a bill that will provide the best possible aviation security.

- The President also instructed the Department of Transportation to conduct undercover audits of security performance at airports nationwide to ensure strict compliance with FAA security standards. These audits, conducted by DoT's Inspector General, will help to quickly identify and fix potential problems with airport security.

Background on the Increase in National Guard at Airports

- The President's action significantly boosts the National Guard presence at our nation's airports. Over 6000 National Guard troops are already assisting with security at airports. With today's Presidential action, more than 9000 Guard troops will be deployed at airports through the holiday travel season. The federal government will reimburse states for this deployment.

- The National Guard troops are available at Governors' discretion for the following purposes:

  - Monitoring passenger and baggage screening
  - Monitoring gate activity
  - Securing perimeter control
  - Maintaining access points to terminal ramps
  - Searching vehicles and garages
  - Monitoring curbside activity
  - Guarding air traffic control facilities
  - Securing general aviation facilities that share common property with commercial airports

Previous Bush Administration Actions to Increase Airport Security

- While Congress continues to debate airport security legislation, the Bush Administration has already taken decisive steps to protect the traveling public. The FAA is deploying a core team of 225 security professionals to improve oversight of screening and security functions at airports. This team of professionals will be in place to strengthen existing FAA security presence at airports and, once Congress completes work on the aviation security bill, to assist with the transition to a new airport security system with stronger federal controls.

- On October 30, the Secretary of Transportation ordered FAA special agents to crack down on airport security and directed them to take decisive security measures, such as emptying the concourse, re-screening passenger and holding flights if security is breached. Secretary Mineta has also warned the airlines and existing screening security companies that the FAA will have a "zero tolerance" standard for security breaches.

- The FAA has also taken the following steps:

  - Increased significantly the Federal Air Marshal presence on commercial flights
  - Restricted access to key points at airports and increased airport patrols
  - Increased terminal security by tightening screening procedures and restricting carry-on items
  - Provided grants for fortification of cockpit doors to prevent unauthorized entry into the cockpit. As of November 7, the major airlines have retrofitted 100% of their aircraft with fortified cockpit doors. The airlines estimate that all civilian commercial aircraft will be retrofitted within 30-45 days.

PRESIDENT BUSH ACTS TO MAKE HOLIDAY AIR TRAVEL SAFER

Today's Action

- President Bush took action today to make holiday travel safer for all Americans and to lay the groundwork for a new federally controlled aviation security system.

- The President announced a 25% increase in National Guard personnel available to Governors to support security at our nation's commercial airports. The troops will provide additional security at airports throughout the busy holiday travel season.

- The President also took action to prepare for a swift transition to a new federally controlled aviation security system. While Congress is finishing the aviation security bill, the President instructed Secretary Mineta to begin a series of high level transition planning sessions with airport operators, law enforcement authorities, security device manufacturers, airline CEOs, and other parties that will play a direct role in the transition to the new system. The President urged Congress to act quickly and send to his desk a bill that will provide the best possible aviation security.

- The President also instructed the Department of Transportation to conduct undercover audits of security performance at airports nationwide to ensure strict compliance with FAA security standards. These audits, conducted by DoT's Inspector General, will help to quickly identify and fix potential problems with airport security.

Background on the Increase in National Guard at Airports

- The President's action significantly boosts the National Guard presence at our nation's airports. Over 6000 National Guard troops are already assisting with security at airports. With today's Presidential action, more than 9000 Guard troops will be deployed at airports through the holiday travel season. The federal government will reimburse states for this deployment.

- The National Guard troops are available at Governors' discretion for the following purposes:

  - Monitoring passenger and baggage screening
  - Monitoring gate activity
  - Securing perimeter control
  - Maintaining access points to terminal ramps
  - Searching vehicles and garages
  - Monitoring curbside activity
  - Guarding air traffic control facilities
  - Securing general aviation facilities that share common property with commercial airports

Previous Bush Administration Actions to Increase Airport Security

- While Congress continues to debate airport security legislation, the Bush Administration has already taken decisive steps to protect the traveling public. The FAA is deploying a core team of 225 security professionals to improve oversight of screening and security functions at airports. This team of professionals will be in place to strengthen existing FAA security presence at airports and, once Congress completes work on the aviation security bill, to assist with the transition to a new airport security system with stronger federal controls.

- On October 30, the Secretary of Transportation ordered FAA special agents to crack down on airport security and directed them to take decisive security measures, such as emptying the concourse, re-screening passenger and holding flights if security is breached. Secretary Mineta has also warned the airlines and existing screening security companies that the FAA will have a "zero tolerance" standard for security breaches.

- The FAA has also taken the following steps:

  - Increased significantly the Federal Air Marshal presence on commercial flights
  - Restricted access to key points at airports and increased airport patrols
  - Increased terminal security by tightening screening procedures and restricting carry-on items
  - Provided grants for fortification of cockpit doors to prevent unauthorized entry into the cockpit. As of November 7, the major airlines have retrofitted 100% of their aircraft with fortified cockpit doors. The airlines estimate that all civilian commercial aircraft will be retrofitted within 30-45 days.

PRESIDENT BUSH ACTS TO MAKE HOLIDAY AIR TRAVEL SAFER

Today's Action

- President Bush took action today to make holiday travel safer for all Americans and to lay the groundwork for a new federally controlled aviation security system.

- The President announced a 25% increase in National Guard personnel available to Governors to support security at our nation's commercial airports. The troops will provide additional security at airports throughout the busy holiday travel season.

- The President also took action to prepare for a swift transition to a new federally controlled aviation security system. While Congress is finishing the aviation security bill, the President instructed Secretary Mineta to begin a series of high level transition planning sessions with airport operators, law enforcement authorities, security device manufacturers, airline CEOs, and other parties that will play a direct role in the transition to the new system. The President urged Congress to act quickly and send to his desk a bill that will provide the best possible aviation security.

- The President also instructed the Department of Transportation to conduct undercover audits of security performance at airports nationwide to ensure strict compliance with FAA security standards. These audits, conducted by DoT's Inspector General, will help to quickly identify and fix potential problems with airport security.

Background on the Increase in National Guard at Airports

- The President's action significantly boosts the National Guard presence at our nation's airports. Over 6000 National Guard troops are already assisting with security at airports. With today's Presidential action, more than 9000 Guard troops will be deployed at airports through the holiday travel season. The federal government will reimburse states for this deployment.

- The National Guard troops are available at Governors' discretion for the following purposes:

  - Monitoring passenger and baggage screening
  - Monitoring gate activity
  - Securing perimeter control
  - Maintaining access points to terminal ramps
  - Searching vehicles and garages
  - Monitoring curbside activity
  - Guarding air traffic control facilities
  - Securing general aviation facilities that share common property with commercial airports

REV_00319979

Previous Bush Administration Actions to Increase Airport Security

- While Congress continues to debate airport security legislation, the Bush Administration has already taken decisive steps to protect the traveling public. The FAA is deploying a core team of 225 security professionals to improve oversight of screening and security functions at airports. This team of professionals will be in place to strengthen existing FAA security presence at airports and, once Congress completes work on the aviation security bill, to assist with the transition to a new airport security system with stronger federal controls.

- On October 30, the Secretary of Transportation ordered FAA special agents to crack down on airport security and directed them to take decisive security measures, such as emptying the concourse, re-screening passenger and holding flights if security is breached. Secretary Mineta has also warned the airlines and existing screening security companies that the FAA will have a "zero tolerance" standard for security breaches.

- The FAA has also taken the following steps:

  - Increased significantly the Federal Air Marshal presence on commercial flights
  - Restricted access to key points at airports and increased airport patrols
  - Increased terminal security by tightening screening procedures and restricting carry-on items
  - Provided grants for fortification of cockpit doors to prevent unauthorized entry into the cockpit. As of November 7, the major airlines have retrofitted 100% of their aircraft with fortified cockpit doors. The airlines estimate that all civilian commercial aircraft will be retrofitted within 30-45 days.

(Not for Distribution)

The Administration supports legislation that provides temporary federal support to encourage the continued provision of insurance for acts of terrorism at reasonable rates. We believe that a positive feature of H.R. 3210 is that by reducing the risk of loss to individual companies, it increases the likelihood that potential "high-risk" targets of terrorism will be able to obtain terrorism insurance at affordable rates. However, the Administration remains concerned with the assessment mechanism. We also have several other questions about the bill that are detailed below.

Assessment Mechanism

H.R. 3210 provides a mechanism for the government to recoup payments made under the program. Insurance companies would be assessed (up to 3 percent of premiums) if industry-wide losses were less than $20 billion, and policyholders could be assessed a surcharge for industry-wide losses above $20 billion.

While ensuring the government is compensated for services provided is a laudable goal, requiring payments through this type of assessment mechanism would work counter to the goal of maintaining insurance coverage for acts of terrorism at reasonable rates. Insurance companies would have to price not only their individual 10 percent retention, but also their exposure for potential future assessments. Thus, it is likely that an assessment mechanism would cause premiums to rise now to factor in the possibility of future events, and cause premiums to rise after an event to allow insurance companies to recoup actual costs and to price in the heightened possibility of more events.

Also, because loan repayments could be spread over many years, the program would require a collection mechanism that would need to be administered and could be in existence for many years. In addition, that collection mechanism would have to be monitored to ensure that insurance companies were not looking for ways to reduce their assessments.

In effect, the recoupment mechanism contained in H.R. 3210 imposes a national property tax that will likely fall on real property and tangible personal property, impacting sectors such as energy, transportation, real estate, retail services, and manufacturing. Such a tax would not differentiate among different classes of risk. For example, owners of real property outside of urban centers and away from potential targets would be forced to subsidize others. Using an insurance market for cross-subsidization is inefficient and potentially harmful to insurance markets. Given these concerns, we are pleased that the modified bill has added some discretion to the fee structure.

Questions on the House Bill

Triggering and Payment Mechanism

H.R. 3210 provides for a government loss sharing mechanism that would be triggered once either industry-wide losses exceed $1 billion or industry-wide losses exceed $100 million and any single commercial insurer's losses exceeded 10 percent of capital surplus and 10 percent of premiums. If industry-wide losses exceed $1 billion, the government would share first dollar losses with the insurance industry on a 90 percent government and 10 percent insurance company basis. If industry-wide losses exceed $100 million and a triggering determination is made, the insurance company is responsible for first dollar losses up to 10 percent of its premiums before government payments begin.

- It appears that a triggering determination can be made based on aggregate losses from multiple events. Having two payment mechanisms leaves open questions as to which mechanism would apply. It is possible that the lower trigger could be reached early in the covered period, which implies one specific payment mechanism, with the higher trigger being reached later in the covered period, which implies another specific payment mechanism. Is that correct?

- Under H.R. 3210's $1 billion trigger and payment mechanism, it appears that the government would be sharing first dollar losses with insurance companies on a 90/10 basis? Is that correct? Does this provide adequate incentives for cost containment?

Recoupment of Government Payments

H.R. 3210 provides a mechanism for the government to recoup payments made under the program. Insurance companies would be assessed if industry-wide losses were less than $20 billion. The Treasury Secretary would have authority to assess policyholders for industry-wide losses above $20 billion. For either the assessment or surcharge, the Treasury Secretary would have flexibility to set the annual charge and such charges would be limited to 3 percent of premiums.

- If only the second trigger was hit (i.e., the individual insurance company trigger) it appears the recoupment mechanism would require an assessment on all insurance companies. In other words even though some companies may have suffered losses that are just below the trigger, it appears that they would not receive any federal assistance, while they would be assessed for assistance provided to other companies. Is that correct?

- If assessment were required for multiple years, how would insurance companies account for those future liabilities? Could that have an impact on the capital positions of insurance companies?

REV_00319984

Tax-Free Reserves

H.R. 3210 allows insurance firms to create a reserve for terrorism insurance risk. The bill states that for any taxable year the excess of the closing balance over the opening balance shall serve as a deduction under subsection (c) (14) of Section 832 of Title 26 of the US code.

- Is it intended that only additional contributions to the reserve over the course of the year (subject to the limitations on the maximum amount that can be maintained in the reserve outlined in H.R. 3210) be counted as deductions or that income the reserve produces over the course of the year also be counted as a deduction?

- Under the tax benefits provided in the bill, insurance companies may find ways to substitute tax-favored capital for non-favored capital, which would leave the industry's total surplus funds unchanged. How does the House bill address this problem?

- Is it intended that terrorism risk reserves be subject to the sunset provisions that apply to the rest of the bill or will they become permanent?

- Do we know what the cost, in terms of forgone tax revenues, of the tax treatment of these reserves will be?

Definition of Terrorism

- The definition of terrorism specified in H.R. 3210, by excluding acts of terrorism sponsored by nation states, does not reflect the current global environment. This leaves unanswered whether such acts would be covered only by insurance companies or not covered because of general war risk exclusions found in all policies. Why are these acts excluded?

- In determining that an act of terrorism has occurred, the Senate bill requires the Secretary to consult with the Attorney General and Secretary of State, and this determination is final and not subject to judicial review. The House bill does not require the Administrator to consult with anyone, and his determination is subject to review.

- H.R. 3210 also specifies that the act has to be committed by "group of persons" – why not include individuals also (as in Senate and Administration)? What about those groups not recognized by the Administrator or State Department as terrorist groups? What are the factors looked at to determine if the groups are on this list?

Starting Date of the Program

- Some businesses will have renewed commercial insurance contracts between September 11 and enactment of any federal terrorism legislation. If those contracts exclude acts of terrorism, how does the House bill ensure that those businesses will be able to obtain coverage for terrorism risk?

REV_00319985

Issues not Addressed in the House Bill

Mandatory Coverage and Similar Terms of Coverage

- To mitigate moral hazard and avoid cherry picking, the Adminstration approach required participating insurance companies to offer terrorism coverage (1) in all of its P&C policies and (2) that does not differ materially from the terms, amounts, and other coverage limitations applicable to losses arising from events other than acts of terrorism and that meets any other conditions the Secretary may prescribe. The House bill is silent on these issues.

- It does not appear that insurance companies that receive federal payments under the House bill are required to offer terrorism coverage to all policyholders. Could this leave a group of policyholders without terrorism coverage?

- It does not appear that the House bill requires insurance companies to offer terrorism coverage on terms (e.g., levels of coverage) that are similar to those offered on other perils. Could this allow insurors to write more (or less) favorable terms, conditions and coverage limits for terrorism risk than for other types of risk?

Liability Caps

To help the industry price insurance, the Senate bill provides that the insurance industry is not liable for terrorist losses exceeding $100 billion and that Congress determines the procedures for and sources of any payments above the cap. The House bill provides the cap but is silent on industry liability and the role of Congress. Without an upper cap on industry liability, it is unclear whether the legislation will provide the certainty needed to underwrite terrorism risk.

Participating Insurance Companies

The House bill expressly applies to commercial insurers, reinsurers and retrocessional reinsurance. How would the House bill prevent the Federal government picking up more than 90% of coverage if primary insurers reinsure their retention, and then their reinsurers receive federal payments for their liability, etc.

Business Interruption

The Senate proposal covers both commercial and personal lines, expressly including business interruption. The House bill is limited to commercial lines and is silent as to business interruption. What is the rationale for excluding residential lines? How are concerns about the open ended nature of business interruption coverage to be addressed?

Extending the Program

To extend the program, the Senate proposal requires the Secretary to make certain findings and report his reasons to Congress. The House bill is silent on these requirements.

REV_00319986

Claims Processing

To facilitate processing of claims and prevent fraud, the Senate proposal requires the policy holder to file the claim and the insurance company to process the claim, then the insurance company must submit the claim to the Secretary with a verification of the claim and certification of compliance with the program. The House bill is silent on these requirements (it is unclear whether the Secretary would have the discretionary authority to impose them).

PRESIDENT BUSH ACTS TO MAKE HOLIDAY AIR TRAVEL SAFER

Today's Action

- President Bush took action today to make holiday travel safer for all Americans and to lay the groundwork for a new federally controlled aviation security system.

- The President announced a 25% increase in National Guard personnel available to Governors to support security at our nation's commercial airports. The troops will provide additional security at airports throughout the busy holiday travel season.

- The President also took action to prepare for a swift transition to a new federally controlled aviation security system. While Congress is finishing the aviation security bill, the President instructed Secretary Mineta to begin a series of high level transition planning sessions with airport operators, law enforcement authorities, security device manufacturers, airline CEOs, and other parties that will play a direct role in the transition to the new system. The President urged Congress to act quickly and send to his desk a bill that will provide the best possible aviation security.

- The President also instructed the Department of Transportation to conduct undercover audits of security performance at airports nationwide to ensure strict compliance with FAA security standards. These audits, conducted by DoT's Inspector General, will help to quickly identify and fix potential problems with airport security.

Background on the Increase in National Guard at Airports

- The President's action significantly boosts the National Guard presence at our nation's airports. Over 6000 National Guard troops are already assisting with security at airports. With today's Presidential action, more than 9000 Guard troops will be deployed at airports through the holiday travel season. The federal government will reimburse states for this deployment.

- The National Guard troops are available at Governors' discretion for the following purposes:

  - Monitoring passenger and baggage screening
  - Monitoring gate activity
  - Securing perimeter control
  - Maintaining access points to terminal ramps
  - Searching vehicles and garages
  - Monitoring curbside activity
  - Guarding air traffic control facilities
  - Securing general aviation facilities that share common property with commercial airports

Previous Bush Administration Actions to Increase Airport Security

- While Congress continues to debate airport security legislation, the Bush Administration has already taken decisive steps to protect the traveling public. The FAA is deploying a core team of 225 security professionals to improve oversight of screening and security functions at airports. This team of professionals will be in place to strengthen existing FAA security presence at airports and, once Congress completes work on the aviation security bill, to assist with the transition to a new airport security system with stronger federal controls.

- On October 30, the Secretary of Transportation ordered FAA special agents to crack down on airport security and directed them to take decisive security measures, such as emptying the concourse, re-screening passenger and holding flights if security is breached. Secretary Mineta has also warned the airlines and existing screening security companies that the FAA will have a "zero tolerance" standard for security breaches.

- The FAA has also taken the following steps:

  - Increased significantly the Federal Air Marshal presence on commercial flights
  - Restricted access to key points at airports and increased airport patrols
  - Increased terminal security by tightening screening procedures and restricting carry-on items
  - Provided grants for fortification of cockpit doors to prevent unauthorized entry into the cockpit. As of November 7, the major airlines have retrofitted 100% of their aircraft with fortified cockpit doors. The airlines estimate that all civilian commercial aircraft will be retrofitted within 30-45 days.

PRESIDENT BUSH ACTS TO MAKE HOLIDAY AIR TRAVEL SAFER

Today's Action

- President Bush took action today to make holiday travel safer for all Americans and to lay the groundwork for a new federally controlled aviation security system.

- The President announced a 25% increase in National Guard personnel available to Governors to support security at our nation's commercial airports. The troops will provide additional security at airports throughout the busy holiday travel season.

- The President also took action to prepare for a swift transition to a new federally controlled aviation security system. While Congress is finishing the aviation security bill, the President instructed Secretary Mineta to begin a series of high level transition planning sessions with airport operators, law enforcement authorities, security device manufacturers, airline CEOs, and other parties that will play a direct role in the transition to the new system. The President urged Congress to act quickly and send to his desk a bill that will provide the best possible aviation security.

- The President also instructed the Department of Transportation to conduct undercover audits of security performance at airports nationwide to ensure strict compliance with FAA security standards. These audits, conducted by DoT's Inspector General, will help to quickly identify and fix potential problems with airport security.

Background on the Increase in National Guard at Airports

- The President's action significantly boosts the National Guard presence at our nation's airports. Over 6000 National Guard troops are already assisting with security at airports. With today's Presidential action, more than 9000 Guard troops will be deployed at airports through the holiday travel season. The federal government will reimburse states for this deployment.

- The National Guard troops are available at Governors' discretion for the following purposes:

  - Monitoring passenger and baggage screening
  - Monitoring gate activity
  - Securing perimeter control
  - Maintaining access points to terminal ramps
  - Searching vehicles and garages
  - Monitoring curbside activity
  - Guarding air traffic control facilities
  - Securing general aviation facilities that share common property with commercial airports

Previous Bush Administration Actions to Increase Airport Security

- While Congress continues to debate airport security legislation, the Bush Administration has already taken decisive steps to protect the traveling public. The FAA is deploying a core team of 225 security professionals to improve oversight of screening and security functions at airports. This team of professionals will be in place to strengthen existing FAA security presence at airports and, once Congress completes work on the aviation security bill, to assist with the transition to a new airport security system with stronger federal controls.

- On October 30, the Secretary of Transportation ordered FAA special agents to crack down on airport security and directed them to take decisive security measures, such as emptying the concourse, re-screening passenger and holding flights if security is breached. Secretary Mineta has also warned the airlines and existing screening security companies that the FAA will have a "zero tolerance" standard for security breaches.

- The FAA has also taken the following steps:

  - Increased significantly the Federal Air Marshal presence on commercial flights
  - Restricted access to key points at airports and increased airport patrols
  - Increased terminal security by tightening screening procedures and restricting carry-on items
  - Provided grants for fortification of cockpit doors to prevent unauthorized entry into the cockpit. As of November 7, the major airlines have retrofitted 100% of their aircraft with fortified cockpit doors. The airlines estimate that all civilian commercial aircraft will be retrofitted within 30-45 days.

PRESIDENT BUSH ACTS TO MAKE HOLIDAY AIR TRAVEL SAFER

Today's Action

- President Bush took action today to make holiday travel safer for all Americans and to lay the groundwork for a new federally controlled aviation security system.

- The President announced a 25% increase in National Guard personnel available to Governors to support security at our nation's commercial airports. The troops will provide additional security at airports throughout the busy holiday travel season.

- The President also took action to prepare for a swift transition to a new federally controlled aviation security system. While Congress is finishing the aviation security bill, the President instructed Secretary Mineta to begin a series of high level transition planning sessions with airport operators, law enforcement authorities, security device manufacturers, airline CEOs, and other parties that will play a direct role in the transition to the new system. The President urged Congress to act quickly and send to his desk a bill that will provide the best possible aviation security.

- The President also instructed the Department of Transportation to conduct undercover audits of security performance at airports nationwide to ensure strict compliance with FAA security standards. These audits, conducted by DoT's Inspector General, will help to quickly identify and fix potential problems with airport security.

Background on the Increase in National Guard at Airports

- The President's action significantly boosts the National Guard presence at our nation's airports. Over 6000 National Guard troops are already assisting with security at airports. With today's Presidential action, more than 9000 Guard troops will be deployed at airports through the holiday travel season. The federal government will reimburse states for this deployment.

- The National Guard troops are available at Governors' discretion for the following purposes:

  - Monitoring passenger and baggage screening
  - Monitoring gate activity
  - Securing perimeter control
  - Maintaining access points to terminal ramps
  - Searching vehicles and garages
  - Monitoring curbside activity
  - Guarding air traffic control facilities
  - Securing general aviation facilities that share common property with commercial airports

Previous Bush Administration Actions to Increase Airport Security

- While Congress continues to debate airport security legislation, the Bush Administration has already taken decisive steps to protect the traveling public. The FAA is deploying a core team of 225 security professionals to improve oversight of screening and security functions at airports. This team of professionals will be in place to strengthen existing FAA security presence at airports and, once Congress completes work on the aviation security bill, to assist with the transition to a new airport security system with stronger federal controls.

- On October 30, the Secretary of Transportation ordered FAA special agents to crack down on airport security and directed them to take decisive security measures, such as emptying the concourse, re-screening passenger and holding flights if security is breached. Secretary Mineta has also warned the airlines and existing screening security companies that the FAA will have a "zero tolerance" standard for security breaches.

- The FAA has also taken the following steps:

  - Increased significantly the Federal Air Marshal presence on commercial flights
  - Restricted access to key points at airports and increased airport patrols
  - Increased terminal security by tightening screening procedures and restricting carry-on items
  - Provided grants for fortification of cockpit doors to prevent unauthorized entry into the cockpit. As of November 7, the major airlines have retrofitted 100% of their aircraft with fortified cockpit doors. The airlines estimate that all civilian commercial aircraft will be retrofitted within 30-45 days.

PRESIDENT BUSH ACTS TO MAKE HOLIDAY AIR TRAVEL SAFER

Today's Action

- President Bush took action today to make holiday travel safer for all Americans and to lay the groundwork for a new federally controlled aviation security system.

- The President announced a 25% increase in National Guard personnel available to Governors to support security at our nation's commercial airports. The troops will provide additional security at airports throughout the busy holiday travel season.

- The President also took action to prepare for a swift transition to a new federally controlled aviation security system. While Congress is finishing the aviation security bill, the President instructed Secretary Mineta to begin a series of high level transition planning sessions with airport operators, law enforcement authorities, security device manufacturers, airline CEOs, and other parties that will play a direct role in the transition to the new system. The President urged Congress to act quickly and send to his desk a bill that will provide the best possible aviation security.

- The President also instructed the Department of Transportation to conduct undercover audits of security performance at airports nationwide to ensure strict compliance with FAA security standards. These audits, conducted by DoT's Inspector General, will help to quickly identify and fix potential problems with airport security.

Background on the Increase in National Guard at Airports

- The President's action significantly boosts the National Guard presence at our nation's airports. Over 6000 National Guard troops are already assisting with security at airports. With today's Presidential action, more than 9000 Guard troops will be deployed at airports through the holiday travel season. The federal government will reimburse states for this deployment.

- The National Guard troops are available at Governors' discretion for the following purposes:

  - Monitoring passenger and baggage screening
  - Monitoring gate activity
  - Securing perimeter control
  - Maintaining access points to terminal ramps
  - Searching vehicles and garages
  - Monitoring curbside activity
  - Guarding air traffic control facilities
  - Securing general aviation facilities that share common property with commercial airports

Previous Bush Administration Actions to Increase Airport Security

- While Congress continues to debate airport security legislation, the Bush Administration has already taken decisive steps to protect the traveling public. The FAA is deploying a core team of 225 security professionals to improve oversight of screening and security functions at airports. This team of professionals will be in place to strengthen existing FAA security presence at airports and, once Congress completes work on the aviation security bill, to assist with the transition to a new airport security system with stronger federal controls.

- On October 30, the Secretary of Transportation ordered FAA special agents to crack down on airport security and directed them to take decisive security measures, such as emptying the concourse, re-screening passenger and holding flights if security is breached. Secretary Mineta has also warned the airlines and existing screening security companies that the FAA will have a "zero tolerance" standard for security breaches.

- The FAA has also taken the following steps:

  - Increased significantly the Federal Air Marshal presence on commercial flights
  - Restricted access to key points at airports and increased airport patrols
  - Increased terminal security by tightening screening procedures and restricting carry-on items
  - Provided grants for fortification of cockpit doors to prevent unauthorized entry into the cockpit. As of November 7, the major airlines have retrofitted 100% of their aircraft with fortified cockpit doors. The airlines estimate that all civilian commercial aircraft will be retrofitted within 30-45 days.

Subject: Time Sensitive -- H.R. 2456, Real Interstate Driver Equity Act of 2001

We have just been informed that H.R. 2456 will be on the suspension calendar on Tuesday. The bill is designed to prevent unreasonable interference with Department of Transportation - licensed prearragned interstate limousine services by localities and States. The Department of Transportation has advised that it has no position on this bill. Absent objection, we propose to take no position on this bill. A copy of the bill is provided below. An excerpt from a report on a similar bill in the 106th Congress explaining the problem the bill is designed to correct is also provided for background.

Please provide any comments by 10:00 A.M. Tuesday, November 13.

With the increase in the popularity of limousine transportation has come questions associated with limousine trips that cross State lines. Currently, the Department of Transportation regulates the requirements of interstate transportation of passengers and property. Additionally, States and localities regulate the pickup and drop-off of passengers within their jurisdictions ostensibly to regulate intrastate transportation of passengers and property on an intrastate basis, as well as the ``safety'' of out-of-State carriers. Certain localities and States, such as New York City, have developed a reputation as vigorously enforcing local ordinances and regulations to purposely prevent out-of-State carriers from operating within their borders.
For instance, if a person flies into the airport in Newark, New Jersey, and wants a limousine to take him to his hotel in New York city, the limousine would be able to drop him off, but it would be unlawful for the limousine to pick him up again to return him to the airport at the conclusion of his trip. Local New York ordinances require a license or ``medallion'' to pick up passengers within the city, a prohibitively expensive license for an out-of-State company which only occasionally needs to travel in the city. Thus, even if the limousine operator were able to drop off his client in the city (something that is increasingly monitored by local authorities), he would be unable to pick the client up again for the return trip.
Limousine operators who violate the law face the possibility of stiff fines, imprisonment, and confiscation of the vehicle. Similar situations exist in other localities, including Las Vegas and the District of Columbia. Further, New Jersey recently enacted legislation restricting the operation of out-of-State limousine services in New Jersey. Some view this statute as a reciprocal act for New York's actions against out-of-State drivers.
Thus, the local law interferes with the ability of an individual to contract for round-trip service from a point in one State to a point in another State, and back again. Further, local actions are leading to retaliatory actions by other States and localities, presenting a threat to continued interstate commerce transportation of passengers.
In a related matter, the Committee is aware that in some States providers of intrastate pre-arranged ground transportation service between or among points in two or more local jurisdictions or municipalities must secure permits from each local jurisdiction or municipality as a prerequisite to making a pick up in that locality. The Committee notes that such a requirement for pre-arranged ground transportation service that is not taxicab service (e.g., limousine service) could be alleviated by adoption of State legislation establishing a State licensing requirement, mooting the need for multiple local permits. The Committee also recognizes that some States may deem it prudent to grant local jurisdictions or municipalities the authority to impose a permitting requirement in regard to movements performed between or among points in the same local jurisdiction or municipality. However, such matters remain reserved to the States, and this legislation does not affect those laws and ordinances.

first, can you call Nina Totenberg. This is important and time-sensitive. I believe our approach should be not to make anyone available but rather to point her to (1) Ed Whelan's public testimony (he's Deputy OLC) before House subcommittee last week esp his opening statement; (ii) Judge G's letter to Horn; and (iii) Judge's USA Today op-ed yesterday. That is more than enough material for her. Also, if she wants an outside lawyer who is a constitutional expert and knowledgeable about these issues, Tom Hungar at Gibson Dunn PRA 6 can talk to her, but we obviously should not be identified by her as having provided the name. If she wants an outside historian, tell her that our job was legal and constitutional, but that we are sure historians who have read the relevant materials understand that we must abide by Supreme Court precedent. PLEASE LET ME KNOW HOW THIS GOES BY VOICE MAIL OR E-MAIL. I am away today.

second, what did you think of USA Today yesterday. Other than their deleting "President" before "Bush" I thought it turned out ok.

Utahn Among Judicial Picks Waiting for a Senate Hearing

Tuesday, November 13, 2001

By JESSE J. HOLLAND
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON -- President Bush's most controversial judicial nominees, including University of Utah Law School Professor Michael McConnell, may have to wait until 2002 before they get a confirmation hearing, much less a vote, from the Democrat-controlled Sen- ate. While Democrats say they plan to get as many as 30 of Bush's judges confirmed before the end of the year -- 17 of his 64 nominees have been approved so far -- the four nominees who could cause long, drawn-out debates among senators are not likely to be among them. That means Bush Appeals Court nominees McConnell, Miguel Estrada, Jeff Sutton and Terrance Boyle will probably have to wait until next year before finding out whether the Democrats in control of their destinies will even allow a vote on their nominations. "I'm trying to get the ones who are noncontroversial" first, said Senate Judiciary Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt. "We're trying to get through as many as we can."

Republicans do not believe him. They accuse those on the other side of the aisle of playing political games with Bush's nominations.
"I don't think we're doing the job, and the American people are going to suffer because of it," said Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, the top Republican on the Senate Judiciary Committee and its former chairman.
Another University of Utah law professor, Paul Cassell, also is among 32 of Bush's nominees awaiting a hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee. Hearings, but no committee votes, have been held on 10 other nominees and one other has received committee clearance but has yet to be voted on by the full Senate.
never had a hearing in the Senate Judiciary Committee, Democrats say.
Sheldon Goldman, a University of Massachusetts professor and author of Picking Federal Judges: Lower Court Selection From Roosevelt Through Reagan, said Leahy has done well in getting 19 judges confirmed since June. Goldman, however, added that all judicial nominees, even the controversial ones, deserve a quick hearing.
Sutton, McConnell, Boyle and Estrada were among the first 11 nominations Bush made on May 9.

SEC. 15. LITIGATION MANAGEMENT.

(a) FEDERAL CAUSE OF ACTION FOR CLAIMS RELATING TO TERRORIST ACTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—If the Attorney General determines that one or more acts of terrorism may result in litigation in which the number of parties exceeds 100, there shall exist a Federal cause of action, which, except as provided in subsection (b), shall be the exclusive remedy for claims arising out of, relating to, or resulting from such acts of terrorism.

(2) EFFECT OF DETERMINATION.—A determination under this subsection—

(A) shall be made at the sole discretion of the Attorney General;

(B) shall be final and not subject to judicial review; and

(C) shall take effect upon its publication in the Federal Register.

(3) SUBSTANTIVE LAW.—The substantive law for decision in any such action shall be derived from the law, including choice of law principles, of the State in which such acts of terrorism occurred, unless such law is inconsistent with or preempted by Federal law.

(4) JURISDICTION.—For each determination under paragraph (1), the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation shall designate one or more district courts of the United States which shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction over all actions for any claim (including any claim for loss of property, personal injury, or death) brought pursuant to this subsection. The Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation shall select and assign the district court or courts based on the convenience of the parties and the just and efficient conduct of the proceedings. For purposes of personal jurisdiction, the district court or courts designated by the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation shall be deemed to sit in all judicial districts in the United States.

(5) LIMITS ON DAMAGES.—In an action brought under this subsection for damages:

(A) No punitive damages intended to punish or deter, exemplary damages, or other damages not intended to compensate a plaintiff for actual losses may be awarded, nor shall any party be liable for interest prior to the judgment.

(B)(i) Each defendant in such an action shall be liable only for the amount of non-economic damages allocated to the defendant in direct proportion to the percentage of responsibility of the defendant for the harm to the plaintiff, and no plaintiff may recover noneconomic damages unless the plaintiff suffered physical harm.

(ii) For purposes of clause (i), the term ''noneconomic damages'' means damages for losses for physical and emotional pain, suffering, inconvenience, physical impairment, mental anguish, disfigurement, loss of enjoyment of life, loss of society and companionship, loss of consortium, hedonic damages, injury to reputation, and any other nonpecuniary losses.

(6) COLLATERAL SOURCES.—Any recovery by a plaintiff in an action under this subsection shall be reduced by the amount of collateral source compensation, if any, that the plaintiff has received or is entitled to receive as a result of the acts of terrorism with respect to which the determination under paragraph (1) was made.

(7) ATTORNEY FEES.—Reasonable attorneys fees for work performed shall be subject to the discretion of the court, but in no event shall any attorney charge, demand, receive, or collect for services rendered, fees or compensation in an amount in excess of 20 percent of the damages ordered by the court to be paid pursuant to this section, or in excess of 20 percent of any court-approved settlement made of any claim cognizable under this section. Any attorney who charges, demands, receives, or collects for services rendered in connection with such claim any amount in excess of that allowed under this section, if recovery be had, shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than 1 year, or both.

(b) EXCLUSION.—Nothing in this section shall apply to or in any way limit the liability of any person who—

(1) attempts to commit, knowingly participates in, aids and abets, or commits any act of terrorism with respect to which a determination under subsection (a)(1) was made, or any criminal act related to or resulting from such act of terrorism; or

(2) participates in a conspiracy to commit any such act of terrorism or any such criminal act.

(c) RIGHT OF SUBROGATION.—The United States shall have the right of subrogation with respect to any claim paid by the United States under this Act.

(d) RELATIONSHIP TO OTHER LAW.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect—

(1) any party's contractual right to arbitrate a dispute; or

(2) any provision of the Air Transportation Safety and System Stabilization Act (Public Law 107–42; 49 U.S.C. 40101 note).

Paul: On your AG determination language: First, saying his determination "shall be made at the sole discretion of the AG" makes it clear he has unreviewable discretion whether and when to make a determination, as well as about the substance of the determination. I realize we don't want to put him under a deadline b/c determining that an event (a) was an act of terrorism and (b) that it may involve more than 100 parties may take time.
But I would also suggest that we at least strike "be final" in sec.
15(a)(2)(B), which makes it seem that the AG's initial determinations re terrorist causation and number of parties are irrevocable. In the TWA 800/AA 567 scenario, a strong circumstantial case for or against terrorism can over time be reversed; if the AG only gets one irrevocable determination
he will inevitably have to be extremely conservative and wait until there is something close to absolute certainty. This may create a very negative interaction with the programmatic side of the bill: under sec. 5(a) and (c), the Treasury Secretary has a nondelegable duty to make a "triggering determination," including sole authority "for determining whether an occurrence was caused by an act of terrorism" and certain financial triggers were met; if he does so, federal monies are made available. He will be under pressure to make these determinations as quickly as possible. If the Secretary finds after 30 days that these thresholds were met and the AG is still assessing the evidence, private insurance dollars and federal reinsurance dollars will start to flow out without any of our tort reforms in place, unless and until the AG makes a similar finding. And what about the possibility that the AG and the Secretary reach differing determinations? At a minimum, I think the AG should be allowed to revisit his determinations: if he initially decides it wasn't terrorism but subsequently changes his mind, the state actions that got started in the interim get dismissed and refiled in the exclusive federal forum that he triggers. If he initially decides it was terrorism and then changes his mind, federal subject-matter jurisdiction is lost and I assume the case is dealt with under the same sorts of criteria that govern, e.g., a federal diversity case in which post-filing events destroy diversity. Both initial determinations and revisitations of them would still be insulated from review. But more broadly I suggest reconsidering the decision to delink the Secretary's finding with the exclusive federal claim. As long as they are delinked, we will have the possibility of two federal actors both clothed with plenary discretion reaching either different conclusions or, more likely, the same conclusions at different times, with resulting exposure of the federal treasury to punitive damages, nonproportional noneconomic damages, nonfederal fora, etc. I'm not sure the chicken and egg problem you outlined is as serious as this problem.

We have just been informed that H.R. 2456 will be on the suspension calendar on Tuesday. The bill is designed to prevent unreasonable interference with Department of Transportation - licensed prearragned interstate limousine services by localities and States. The Department of Transportation has advised that it has no position on this bill. Absent objection, we propose to take no position on this bill. A copy of the bill is provided below. An excerpt from a report on a similar bill in the 106th Congress explaining the problem the bill is designed to correct is also provided for background.

Please provide any comments by 10:00 A.M. Tuesday, November 13.

END

With the increase in the popularity of limousine transportation has come questions associated with limousine trips that cross State lines. Currently, the Department of Transportation regulates the requirements of interstate transportation of passengers and property. Additionally, States and localities regulate the pickup and drop-off of passengers within their jurisdictions ostensibly to regulate intrastate transportation of passengers and property on an intrastate basis, as well as the ``safety'' of out-of-State carriers. Certain localities and States, such as New York City, have developed a reputation as vigorously enforcing local ordinances and regulations to purposely prevent out-of-State carriers from operating within their borders.
For instance, if a person flies into the airport in Newark, New Jersey, and wants a limousine to take him to his hotel in New York city, the limousine would be able to drop him off, but it would be unlawful for the limousine to pick him up again to return him to the airport at the conclusion of his trip. Local New York ordinances require a license or ``medallion'' to pick up passengers within the city, a prohibitively expensive license for an out-of-State company which only occasionally needs to travel in the city. Thus, even if the limousine operator were able to drop off his client in the city (something that is increasingly monitored by local authorities), he would be unable to pick the client up again for the return trip.
Limousine operators who violate the law face the possibility of stiff
fines, imprisonment, and confiscation of the vehicle. Similar situations
exist in other localities, including Las Vegas and the District of Columbia. Further, New Jersey recently enacted legislation restricting the operation of out-of-State limousine services in New Jersey. Some view this statute as a reciprocal act for New York's actions against out-of-State drivers.
Thus, the local law interferes with the ability of an individual to contract for round-trip service from a point in one State to a point in another State, and back again. Further, local actions are leading to retaliatory actions by other States and localities, presenting a threat to continued interstate commerce transportation of passengers.
In a related matter, the Committee is aware that in some States providers of intrastate pre-arranged ground transportation service between or among points in two or more local jurisdictions or municipalities must secure permits from each local jurisdiction or municipality as a prerequisite to making a pick up in that locality. The Committee notes that such a requirement for pre-arranged ground transportation service that is not taxicab service (e.g., limousine service) could be alleviated by adoption of State legislation establishing a State licensing requirement, mooting the need for multiple local permits. The Committee also recognizes that some States may deem it prudent to grant local jurisdictions or municipalities the authority to impose a permitting requirement in regard to movements performed between or among points in the same local jurisdiction or municipality. However, such matters remain reserved to the States, and this legislation does not affect those laws and ordinances.

Re: Request for White House assistance in ensuring fair, equal treatment by FAA in Phoenix area Stadium Review Process

The project to build a new multipurpose stadium in the vicinity of Phoenix Sky Harbor Airport has been one, which has evidenced from the start a bias of the Federal Aviation Administration against this project and in favor of the City of Phoenix and the Airport. FAA officials have told stadium supporters that they represented their "client, the airport." The City of Phoenix owns the airport. The Mayor of the City of Phoenix is a strong opponent of the new stadium. Most observers believe the Mayor opposes the project for several reasons, including the multipurpose nature of the stadium and its location in the City of Tempe will take business from the Phoenix convention center.

Tempe is the home of football in the Valley of the Sun. The NFL Arizona Cardinals, Arizona State University's Sun Devils and BCS Tostitos Fiesta Bowl stage their games in Tempe. The new stadium will be home of the Cardinals and Fiesta Bowl. The location of the stadium is important because it will sit on the only available parcel of land large enough to site it left in Tempe. This parcel is located in Tempe near the border of Phoenix approximately two and half miles from the airport.

The project supporters followed the regulatory requirements and gave notice to the Federal Aviation Administration in accordance with Part 77 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR Part 77) that we intended to construct a stadium at a site near the airport. It became clear when Phoenix announced to the media certain FAA concerns in July 2001 prior to the FAA even informing the stadium supporters who filed the application that Phoenix had developed close relationships with the FAA regulators. Following that announcement, the stadium supporters hired a respected team of aviation experts, in addition to the Tempe aviation consultants, to analyze the technical aviation issues raised by Phoenix and FAA. The experts have filed a comprehensive response that addresses all FAA concerns. Phoenix refused to meet with our experts to discuss our responses. FAA has met very few times and has given conflicting information to Tempe stadium supporters and failed to follow through with numerous assurances they made.

Since July, Phoenix has presented technically flawed information to the FAA and the FAA appears to have used it. The FAA canceled a procedure in September just days after it was implemented that conflicted with the stadium site, and to their surprise other existing obstructions near the site. Phoenix supported FAA on implementing that procedure. Phoenix has also reproduced inaccurate information about the stadium, distributed it to the airlines and asked them to oppose the stadium location in Tempe based on the inaccurate information.

We have tried on every occasion to work with the FAA and the City of Phoenix to constructively work out every issue presented. We have even changed our plans, spending millions of dollars to relocate the Stadium on the parcel, in an effort to solve the FAA's concerns. The irony of the situation is that all sports stadiums in the Valley are located in close proximity to the airport. The proposed stadium is farther away from the airport than the MLB Arizona Diamondbacks' Bank One Ballpark (located within the City of Phoenix) and further away from runway centerline than ASU's Sun Devil Stadium. There is no information available about the process the Sun Devil Stadium went through thirty years ago. Bank One Ballpark on the other hand sailed through the FAA process less than five years ago because it was supported by Phoenix.

We are now at the point where we have overcome every technical issue save one. That is the issue of whether the single engine out performance requirement for Air Carriers would have an undue impact on the efficiency and use of the airport. If the FAA finds this to be the case they will find this project to be a hazard to air navigation and this project will die. Phoenix officials have openly remarked that this is their best way to kill the stadium in Tempe.

We have been able to secure the single engine out procedures of two Air Carriers. The procedures are nearly the same. Neither conflicts with the stadium nor has negative impact on efficiency or operations of the Air Carriers. Other Air Carriers and commercial pilots have told us that they could come up with several procedures that have the same outcome – no affect on safety or efficiency. Our team of independent consultants has come to the same conclusion. In other words, there are many solutions to allow the airport and stadium to coexist safely with no negative impacts on the airport or Air Carriers. We are aware that several Air Carriers have procedures that may conflict, but with a simple change to a procedure that is rarely if ever used, there is no issue. FAA has authority to work with air carriers on the development of these procedures but has not indicated that they would be willing to do so. They also have authority to kill the stadium project by declaring it a hazard because it would conflict with existing single engine out procedures. FAA can do this even though there are numerous alternative solutions that require little change and no adverse affect on safety or operations.

FAA assured us in a July 17 2001 letter that they stood "ready to work with you and your representatives to find a mutually acceptable means of mitigating the issues" concerning the Tempe stadium site. FAA 7400.2E, Procedures for Handling Airspace Matters, and 14 CFR-Part 77 requires FAA to work cooperatively with the "sponsor" of a project like the one at hand. We have stood ready to work cooperatively with FAA but do not feel that we are being dealt with fairly in light of the relationship Phoenix has with some regulators handling this case, comments of those regulators and the obvious: there are existing procedures that make this a non-issue but we are still being told that we may be issued a hazard determination because FAA may not cooperate in implementing the procedures that make it a non-issue.

While the determination of hazard for construction at airports such as Sky Harbor is assigned to the discretion of the FAA, that discretion should be exercised in an evenhanded way. Rather than finding reasons to block this project, FAA should, as stated in their procedure, be working to find a way that all of the parties can preserve the aeronautical use of the airport and at the same time allow this important project to proceeded. Our community voted and approved this project in November 2000. The jobs and economic stimulus of this $400 million project is what our local economy needs now, not further delays and political games.

We solicit your help in contacting the FAA to ensure that they approach the issues before them in this constructive manner and that they work cooperatively with the stadium project supporters, City of Tempe and the air carriers to reach a constructive solution that satisfies everyone's needs.

We ask that FAA assure that Phoenix politics play no part in their decision. On the only unresolved issue, we ask that the FAA develop a solution to the single engine out procedure that allows the stadium project to move forward.

Finally, it is important that when FAA issues its NO HAZARD DETERMINATION that it be a clean ruling not tainted with negative superfluous comments. Phoenix officials have remarked that their fall back position is that they are going ask their "friends at the FAA" to insert language into the NO HAZARD DETERMINATION that gives them the ability to go to court and seek a restraining order with the use of an Arizona airport statue that has not been invoked in the last fifty years.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

- "Liberating it [Afghanistan] from this evil Taliban will only be good for women, men and children. It is a very good war of liberation. The Americans aren't like the Soviet Union, they are not trying to overthrow Muslims for communists. They are helping the Afghans to progress and saving poor Muslims from evil." (The Amir of Bahrain, 11/13/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Small crowds of Kabul residents lined the streets in the north of the city to cheer the arrival of the Northern Alliance forces…they chanted "Allah o Akhbar (God is Great)." (AFP, 11/13/01)
- "The Taliban were also accused of looting as they retreated from Mazar. UNICEF officials said they had taken all the organization's vehicles and communications equipment and its offices had been robbed of computers, furniture and radio equipment." (The Independent [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the [Taliban] Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the [Northern] Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)
- "The BBC has confirmed that the central Afghan town of Bamiyan was totally destroyed by the Taliban before they fled over the weekend. Evidence has also emerged of Bosnian-style ethnic cleansing in the region involving the execution of hundreds of local ethnic Hazara men." (BBC, 11/13/01)

Message

- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- We look forward to the opening of a corridor from these liberated areas to the borders with Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. This will open up Afghanistan to expanded delivery of humanitarian assistance and reconstruction supplies. In particular, the Friendship Bridge between Uzbekistan and Afghanistan will be cleared of mines and made safe for the passage of these supplies. It will become a "Food Bridge" to feed suffering people.
- This will further reduce the suffering of the Afghan people and show the rest of Afghanistan that life for the entire nation will be better once the Taliban have been removed from power.
- The advance of the anti-Taliban forces has been assisted by defections from disillusioned supporters. It is time for the rest of Afghanistan -- particularly the ethnic groups in the south -- to join the uprising against the Taliban and throw off their oppressive rule. The sooner they act, the greater the benefit.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- From 11/1-12, the World Food Program delivered 27,000 metric tons of food to Afghanistan. Of that, 18,000 metric tons was sent to Kabul and the Central Highlands.
- To date, the U.S. has airdropped 1,454,820 Humanitarian Daily Rations valued at $6,255,726.

In Case You Missed It…

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- On November 6-8, approximately 5 million Afghan children received polio vaccinations under a U.N.-sponsored program.
- "I feel there were no human rights in Afghanistan," said Torpaki. "Women were not allowed to work or to be educated properly. We were not allowed to leave our house. That means we were in jail." – The Washington Post, November 14, 2001.
- "I am pleased to be able to walk around Kabul…I feel that handcuffs have been taken off my hands." – Shajan, 19, The Daily Mirror, November 14, 2001.
- With the Northern Alliance's gains in the past few days, aid supplies are now flowing more swiftly into Afghanistan. Today, food began to go into Afghanistan by barge and road from Uzbekistan. Deliveries will continue to expand as fast as security allows.

Message

- The steady string of recent military successes are even more important humanitarian successes. We are working around the clock to get as much food, blankets and other humanitarian supplies as possible to the innocent Afghan people who have suffered under the Taliban regime and now must prepare for a harsh winter.
- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- On 11/14, USAID and the Office of U.S. Foreign Disaster Assistance provided $3,650,000 to the International Rescue Committee to support emergency food assistance, potable water, and new well drilling activities for 100,000 internally displaced Afghans living in camps.
- At any given moment over the past few days, the World Food Program – with U.S. support – had more than 2,000 trucks moving inside Afghanistan, delivering food aid to various parts of the country, rural areas in particular.

In Case You Missed It…

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- On November 6-8, approximately 5 million Afghan children received polio vaccinations under a U.N.-sponsored program.
- "I feel there were no human rights in Afghanistan," said Torpaki. "Women were not allowed to work or to be educated properly. We were not allowed to leave our house. That means we were in jail." – The Washington Post, November 14, 2001.
- "I am pleased to be able to walk around Kabul…I feel that handcuffs have been taken off my hands." – Shajan, 19, The Daily Mirror, November 14, 2001.
- With the Northern Alliance's gains in the past few days, aid supplies are now flowing more swiftly into Afghanistan. Today, food began to go into Afghanistan by barge and road from Uzbekistan. Deliveries will continue to expand as fast as security allows.

Message

- The steady string of recent military successes are even more important humanitarian successes. We are working around the clock to get as much food, blankets and other humanitarian supplies as possible to the innocent Afghan people who have suffered under the Taliban regime and now must prepare for a harsh winter.
- The fall of key cities in Afghanistan to anti-Taliban forces advances our objectives of eliminating the Al-Qaida terrorist organization and breaking the Taliban hold on Afghanistan.
- The positive reception of the anti-Taliban forces as liberators is a clear indication that the people of Afghanistan are ready to throw off the oppressive yoke of the Taliban and the Al-Qaida foreigners.
- The structure of post-Taliban Afghanistan will be for the Afghan people to determine. But we will provide strong diplomatic and economic support to the aspirations of Afghan parties committed to an inclusive, democratic political structure, committed to the welfare of all Afghan men and women, and providing substantial local autonomy. This is a structure in which all Afghan ethnic groups can participate and find their rightful place.

Facts of the Day

- On 11/14, USAID and the Office of U.S. Foreign Disaster Assistance provided $3,650,000 to the International Rescue Committee to support emergency food assistance, potable water, and new well drilling activities for 100,000 internally displaced Afghans living in camps.
- At any given moment over the past few days, the World Food Program – with U.S. support – had more than 2,000 trucks moving inside Afghanistan, delivering food aid to various parts of the country, rural areas in particular.

Privileged Attorney Communication

Chris--I just talked to Rachel Brand of White House Counsel. Rachel confirmed that their office is advising the Office of Presidential Personnel on the appropriate use of the race and gender data elements in the database, including with regard to EEO considerations. Accordingly, I recommend that OA proceed with the service requested.

In Case You Missed It…

"This is no longer the center of terrorism – tell your people that. We are happy to be rid of the Taliban." (Mohamad Ahmad; The Daily Mirror [U.K.], 11/14/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Many Kabul residents said seeing the Taliban depart – hastily during the night, with their belongings piled high on trucks – was like having a heavy veil lifted after a long period of darkness." (The Washington Post, 11/14/01)
- "For five years in a two-story house in central Kabul, two sisters secretly taught dozens of girls in defiance of a Taliban edict that said females couldn't go to school…The sisters risked arrest, and beatings, for teaching the girls from old textbooks that they had bought in the bazaar, and for writing on blackboards they had made from two pieces of plywood, painted black and nailed to the wall." (The Los Angeles Times, 11/15/01)
- …[Afghan women] are smiling, and speaking without fear of punishment. It is as if a weight has been lifted off their shoulders and they can breathe again. One woman beckoned me inside her house and kissed me. She was wearing just a scarf. "It is so nice to be able to say hello," she said." (Kate Clark; The Independent [U.K.], 11/15/01)
- "Jamila Mujahid, 40, a radio announcer sacked by the Taliban five years ago, read the first words on Radio Afghanistan — and afterwards she said: 'I thought this time would never come.'" (Sue Evison; The Sun [U.K.], 11/15/01)

Looking Ahead

Tomorrow First Lady Laura Bush will deliver the weekly presidential radio address. The First Lady will kick off a comprehensive effort to focus on the brutality against women and children by the Al-Qaida terrorist network and the regime it supports in Afghanistan – the Taliban.

Message

- Afghan women know, through hard experience, what the rest of the world is discovering: The brutal oppression of women is a central goal of the terrorists.
- Life under the Taliban is so hard and repressive, even small displays of joy are outlawed – children aren't allowed to fly kites; their mothers face beatings for laughing out loud. Women cannot work outside the home, or even leave their homes by themselves.
- The severe repression and brutality against women in Afghanistan is not a matter of legitimate religious practice. Muslims around the world have condemned the brutal degradation of women and children by the Taliban regime.
- Al Qaida and the Taliban in Afghanistan have shown us the world the terrorists would like to impose on the rest of us.
- All of us have an obligation to speak out. We may come from different backgrounds and faiths – but parents the world over love our children. We respect our mothers and sisters and daughters. Fighting brutality against women and children is not the expression of a specific culture; it is the acceptance of our common humanity – a commitment shared by people of good will on every continent.

Facts of the Day

- Since 10/1/01, the United States has provided nearly $120 million in aid to Afghanistan and has supplied more than 80 percent of all food aid to vulnerable Afghans through the U.N. World Food Program. (USAID news release, 11/15/01)
- USAID is providing $5.5 million to the French Humanitarian Organization ACTED, more than half of its operation in Khwaja Bahawudin [Afghanistan], for food, blankets, winter clothing, and shelter for internally displaced persons. USAID is funding similar humanitarian efforts across northern Afghanistan. (USAID news release, 11/15/01)

The Vice President,s Remarks at the Federalist Society Annual National Convention Dinner

AS PREPARED FOR DELIVERY
Thursday, November 15, 2001
Washington, DC

Thank you very much. I appreciate the warm welcome. I realize you,ve adjusted your schedule to accommodate mine, and I thank you.

Secretary Chao, thank you for the very kind introduction. It,s good to see a member of the Cabinet in person. It,s good to see anybody in person these days. Lynne and I don,t get too many visitors at the cave.

This is the second time I,ve had the privilege of addressing the Federalist Society. I was here as Secretary of Defense in 1990) then, as now, filling the role of your token non-lawyer. Not that I have anything against lawyers. Looking around the room, I,d guess that a year ago, about half of you were down in Florida.

A lot has changed since my last appearance here. I,ve been a corporate CEO, national candidate, vice president (and now a recurring character on &Saturday Night Live.8 I,ve been watching a tape of the guy who plays me on the show) Darrell Hammond. He,s got the voice down. He,s pretty good at the mannerisms. But he,s not quite there yet, and I doubt he,ll ever capture the real me. You just can,t fake charisma.

I do have a lot of friends here this evening. It,s nice to see all of you, and I bring with me the good wishes of a man we,re all very proud of, President George W. Bush.

There are many members of the Federalist Society in our Administration. We know that because they were quizzed about it under oath. We,re especially proud to have two of your founders at the Department of Energy) the general counsel, Lee Liberman Otis, and Secretary Spence Abraham.

The Federalist Society was formed to bring balance to the debate in our law schools and in the legal profession. You were founded in the conviction that the state exists to preserve freedom (that the separation of powers is essential to the operation of our government (and that judges are charged with interpreting the law, not inventing it.

In advancing these principles, you have changed the debate, while gaining the respect of people across the ideological spectrum. The Federalist Society has been a model of thoughtful, reasoned dialogue. You,ve helped bring a spirit of civility to Washington, D.C. Even more remarkably, you, ve managed to bring it to some of the law schools. Your spirit of honest, fair-minded debate hasn,t always prevailed, as Judge Bork can attest. But against great odds, this organization has become one of the most influential in the world of law and public policy. I commend you for it.

Tomorrow at this conference, our Solicitor General will inaugurate an annual lecture series named for his wife. Barbara Olson will always be remembered for her sharp mind, her kindness, and her cheerful presence. It,s hard to think of Barbara and not see her smiling. We miss her. And we will always remember the grace and courage of Ted Olson, from that day to this.

America will never forget what happened on September 11, and who is responsible. Nor will we lose sight of what is at stake. We are the target of enemies who rejoice in the murder of innocent, unsuspecting people. We are fighting now, to defend freedom and law against force and tyranny. We are fighting to save ourselves and our children from living in a world of fear. We are fighting) and we are winning) because we will not permit a small group of vicious, violent men to impose their will on America and the world.

The President and I have often said that the war on terrorism will be fought on many fronts. The government of the United States is fully engaged in this battle, and let me tell you how.

We have given intelligence and law enforcement officials the new tools they need to hunt, capture, and punish terrorists. We are tracing terrorist communications and movements as never before, with new statutes that take account of the modern communications that terrorists use. These new laws met with overwhelming, bipartisan agreement in Congress, because they uphold and respect the civil liberties guaranteed in the Constitution.

We are finding the terrorists, financial supporters and stopping them. Already we have blocked millions of dollars in assets of persons and organizations involved in supporting terrorism.

A new federal task force is at work tracking foreign terrorists. We will deny them entry into our country, detain those who are here, prosecute as needed, and deport the rest. Those who plot against our country will not be allowed to abuse our protections or our freedoms.

Furthermore, as the President deems necessary, non-U.S. citizens suspected of terrorist activity) whether captured here or abroad) will face trial by military commission. The mass murder of Americans by terrorists, or the planning thereof, is not just another item on the criminal docket. This is a war against terrorism. Where military justice is called for, military justice will be dispensed.

On the civil defense front, we are taking every measure to improve both our prevention capability and our response capability. Under Governor Tom Ridge, the Office of Homeland Security is leading the effort to detect and frustrate the plans of terrorists.

In everything we do, we have to be realistic. We have to proceed on the expectation that those who have already harmed our country will try again. The terrorists who gave the orders on September 11 have themselves promised it. They have called for the killing of Americans, Christians, and Jews.

Whenever the President has evidence of a credible threat, he will alert state and local authorities, and the American people will know as well. But a terrorism alert is not a signal to lock down your life. It is a sign that we are vigilant. When Americans hear of an alert, they can know that the government is on watch and taking action against the threat.

That is how we are working to protect our citizens. But wars are not won on the defensive. Wars are won by taking the fight to the enemy. America is not waiting for terrorists to strike us. In the places where they hide and plot, we are striking the terrorists.

There is a price for aiding and abetting terrorists, and the Taliban regime is paying it in full. Our military has destroyed training camps. Their communications and air defenses are in ruins. Their defenses are being systematically eliminated. Whole cities are free again. A large portion of the country can now celebrate the Taliban,s departure from their lands and from their lives. The rest of the country is counting the hours.

The battle is not over in Afghanistan. There,s still a long way to go. But as we speak the Taliban are high-tailing it to safer ground. They will find none. No matter how long it takes, Afghanistan will cease to be a haven for tyranny and terror.

Success in Afghanistan is only the beginning of our efforts in the world. We are going to find the leadership of the Taliban and the al Qaeda network, and we are going to stop them. This is not about one country, and in this struggle there is no neutral ground. As the Bush Doctrine makes clear, those who harbor terrorists share guilt for the acts they commit.

It bears repeating that ours is not a campaign against the Muslim faith) indeed, the innocent victims of these terrorists include many Muslims. This is a struggle against the evil of a few. That is why people in every part of the world, and of all faiths, stand together against this foe.

We cannot know every turn in the battles to come. Yet we know our cause is just. We have seen enemies like this before. We have defeated them before. We will defeat them again.

This crisis has brought our country together, uniting the political parties and elected branches of government in ways few would have thought possible. There are still honest disagreements on domestic priorities, and the war has not erased those. But this is a moment of real opportunity, with the leadership of both parties sincerely looking for common ground.

We hope Congress will act, and act soon, to pass an economic stimulus package. President Bush,s plan gives immediate help to those out of work, reduces income tax rates, and will create new jobs throughout the economy.

We hope Congress will attend to America,s energy needs. It is only more urgent now that we find new supplies and make this country less dependent on foreign oil.

And we hope the United States Senate will speed up the confirmation of federal judges. There is a dual responsibility here that we all understand. The President has discharged his duty by nominating well-qualified men and women to the federal district and circuit courts.

Yet there are today more vacancies on the federal bench than there were the day we were inaugurated. The pace of new vacancies is actually faster than the pace of confirmations. Barely one in four of President Bush,s nominees have been given a hearing and a vote. This should be unacceptable to anyone concerned about the administration of justice in our country.

Some reply that this is merely the normal state of affairs, regardless of who is President or who controls the Senate. History does not support that claim.

Traditionally, a new President,s judicial nominees during his first year are confirmed almost as fast as their nominations reach the Senate. In 1993, for example, 19 judges were confirmed on a single day in November, many just a few weeks after their names had been submitted. In each of the previous three administrations, almost all judicial nominations submitted before the first August recess were confirmed by the end of the year. That has held true regardless of whether the Senate and the White House were controlled by opposing parties. The only exception to the rule is a single Clinton nominee who was confirmed the following year.

In 2001, President Bush submitted 44 nominations prior to the August recess. By all rights, each of these should come to a vote by the end of next month. Yet almost half of them have not even begun the journey to a floor vote.

Overall, President Bush has submitted 64 judicial nominations. That,s more in the first year than any other recent president. And this has been done for a reason. There are at present more than 100 vacancies on the federal bench, 38 of which have been classified as judicial emergencies by the nonpartisan U.S. Judicial Conference.

Another vacancy is expected next month on the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, which serves four states and one in every nine Americans. At that point the Sixth Circuit will have eight judges and eight vacancies) a fifty percent vacancy rate, the highest anyone can remember on a federal circuit court. Here again, the President has fulfilled his responsibility. He has already submitted six nominations for that Court) and all six await hearings.

The deliberate slowing of the confirmation process is unworthy of the United States Senate, and an injustice to the men and women whose names have been presented. These are good people) each and every one of them selected with care by the President himself.

The President announced his initial eleven nominees on May 9) more than six months ago. Yet of these only three have had hearings. Those still waiting include his choices for the D.C. Circuit. The first is John Roberts, the former deputy solicitor general and a lawyer of the highest reputation. The second is Miguel Estrada, who as a boy came to America from Honduras, graduated with honors from Harvard Law School, and served in the Justice Department under presidents of both parties.

These nominations are not being held up for lack of support. On the contrary, few doubt they would be swiftly confirmed by the full Senate, if only given that chance. By any standard of judicial merit, they are fully qualified to serve. And by any standard of fairness, they deserve a hearing.

In that spirit) simple fairness) and in the interest of the nation, I appeal to the Senate Judiciary Committee to proceed without further delay in filling the vacancies on our federal courts.

I,m confident that this matter will be resolved, and the interests of the nation well served in the months to come. As I said, this is a moment of opportunity. All of us have been given a new perspective on old differences, and perhaps a better sense of the great things we can achieve together.

America is passing through a time of testing. We have every right to be proud of our fellow citizens (proud of the great heroism we,ve seen (proud of the honorable conduct of our military. In so many ways, adversity has brought out the best in our nation. The attacks brought terrible grief down upon us. But we love our country, only more when she is threatened. And instead of weakening us, our enemies have only made us stronger.

In ways too numerous to mention, President Bush and I have counted on the friendship and good counsel of many in this room tonight. And we have never been disappointed. You have our respect, and our gratitude.

Thank you very much.

SEC. 146. AIRCRAFT OPERATIONS IN ENHANCED CLASS B AIRSPACE.

Upon request of an operator of an aircraft affected by the restrictions imposed under Notice to Airmen FDC 1/0618 issued by the Federal Aviation Administration, or any other notice issued after September 11, 2001, and prior to the date of enactment of this Act that restricts the ability of United States registered aircraft to conduct operations under part 91 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations, in enhanced class B airspace (as defined by such Notice), such restrictions shall cease to be in effect for the affected class of operator beginning on the 30th day following the request, unless the Secretary of Transportation publishes a notice in the Federal Register before such 30th day reimposing the restriction and explaining the reasons for the restriction.

SEC. 147. AVIATION WAR RISK INSURANCE.

Section 44306(b) of title 49, United States Code, is amended by striking "60 days" each place it appears and inserting "1 year".

TITLE II—LIABILITY LIMITATION

SEC. 201. AIR TRANSPORTATION SAFETY AND SYSTEM STABILIZATION ACT AMENDMENTS.

(a) RECOVERY OF COLLATERAL SOURCE OBLIGATIONS OF TERRORISTS.—Section 405(c)(3)(B)(i) of the Air Transportation Safety and System Stabilization Act (49 U.S.C. 40101 note) is amended by striking "obligations." and inserting "obligations, or to a civil action against any person who is a knowing participant in any conspiracy to hijack any aircraft or commit any terrorist act.".

(b) EXTENSION OF LIABILITY RELIEF TO AIRCRAFT MANUFACTURERS AND OTHERS.—Section 408 of that Act is amended—

(1) by striking "air carrier" in the section heading;

(2) by striking subsection (a) and inserting the following:

"(a) IN GENERAL.—

"(1) LIABILITY LIMITED TO INSURANCE COVERAGE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, liability for all claims, whether for compensatory or punitive damages or for contribution or indemnity, arising from the terrorist-related aircraft crashes of September 11, 2001, against an air carrier, aircraft manufacturer, airport sponsor, or person with a property interest in the World Trade Center, on September 11, 2001, whether fee simple, leasehold or easement, direct or indirect, or their directors, officers, employees, or agents, shall not be in an amount greater than the limits of liability insurance coverage maintained by that air carrier, aircraft manufacturer, airport sponsor, or person.

"(2) WILLFUL DEFAULTS ON REBUILDING OBLIGATION.—Paragraph (1) does not apply to any such person with a property interest in the World Trade Center if the Attorney General determines, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing on the record, that the person has defaulted willfully on a contractual obligation to rebuild, or assist in the rebuilding of, the World Trade Center.

"(3) LIMITATIONS ON LIABILITY FOR NEW YORK CITY.—Liability for all claims, whether for compensatory or punitive damages or for contribution or indemnity arising from the terrorist-related aircraft crashes of September 11, 2001, against the City of New York shall not exceed the greater of the city's insurance coverage or $350,000,000. If a claimant who is eligible to seek compensation under section 405 of this Act, submits a claim under section 405, the claimant waives the right to file a civil action (or to be a party to an action) in any Federal or State court for damages sustained as a result of the terrorist-related aircraft crashes of September 11, 2001, including any such action against the City of New York. The preceding sentence does not apply to a civil action to recover collateral source obligations."; and

(3) by adding at the end of subsection (c) the following: "Subsections (a) and (b) do not apply to civil actions to recover collateral source obligations.

Nothing in this section shall in any way limit any liability of any person who is engaged in the business of providing air transportation security and who is not an airline or airport sponsor or director, officer, or employee of an airline or airport sponsor.".

(c) LIMITATION OF UNITED STATES SUBROGATION RIGHT.—Section 409 of that Act is amended by striking "title." and inserting "title, subject to the limitations described in section 408.".

(d) DEFINITIONS.—Section 402 of that Act is amended—

(1) by adding at the end of paragraph (1) the following: "The term 'air carrier' does not include a person, other than an air carrier, engaged in the business of providing air transportation security.".

(2) by redesignating paragraphs (3) through (8) as paragraphs (5) through (10), respectively; and

(3) by inserting after paragraph (2) the following:

"(3) AIRCRAFT MANUFACTURER.—The term 'aircraft manufacturer' means any entity that manufactured the aircraft or any parts or components of the aircraft involved in the terrorist related aircraft crashes of September 11, 2001, including employees and agents of that entity.

"(4) AIRPORT SPONSOR.—The term 'airport sponsor' means the owner or operator of an airport (as defined in section 40102 of title 49, United States Code).".

ADMINISTRATION'S PROPOSED LITIGATION PROCEDURES

- The Administration has proposed sensible litigation procedures for mass tort terrorism cases. These proposals should not be confused with or made part of the debate over general tort reform. In fact, there should not be -- and in the past has not been -- political or philosophical disagreement about the need for alternative litigation procedures in mass tort cases. And in fact, the Administration's litigation proposals would apply only in a modest sub-category of mass tort cases, namely, mass tort terrorism cases.

- Sensible litigation procedures for mass tort terrorism incidents are particularly necessary for several reasons.

    - First, sensible litigation procedures will help reduce the substantial uncertainty faced by the insurance industry in pricing terrorism risk. The largest piece of the terrorism risk to insurers is likely to be the liability component of property and casualty insurance. The Administration's proposed litigation procedures will help to manage that risk and uncertainty.

    - Second, absent sensible litigation procedures, the resources of liable defendants, including resources from their liability insurance policies, will not suffice to compensate the class of successful plaintiff-victims in mass tort terrorism incidents. For that reason, mass torts often are resolved through bankruptcy (where plaintiffs rarely receive full compensation) or settlement (again, where plaintiffs rarely receive full compensation).

        - The Administration's proposals will help avoid this problem and preserve the pool of potential defendant assets in order that successful plaintiffs are compensated fairly and equitably. The proposals also will help avoid, where appropriate, widespread bankruptcies by business defendants from the litigation arising out of a mass terrorism incident -- an incident where, it bears emphasis, terrorists would be the real wrongdoers, not the legitimate bystander property and business owners. The Administration's proposals, in short, are designed to -- and will -- benefit plaintiffs and defendants alike.

    - Third, absent sensible litigation procedures, the number and variety of cases, plaintiffs, defendants, causes of action, liability standards, and damages rules in mass tort terrorism cases will overwhelm the ordinary legal system and cause extraordinary delays. The Administration's proposals seek to expedite the litigation process and ensure that plaintiffs and defendants have access to fair and expeditious resolution of the litigation.

The Administration has advanced four proposals.

1. CONSOLIDATE TERRORISM CASES IN SINGLE FEDERAL COURT.

- A single federal court is necessary to ensure that the legal system is not overwhelmed by multiple cases in multiple courts in multiple states -- with similar claims in multiple forums decided under widely varying standards for liability, causation, defenses, and damages.

- Consolidation of cases in a single court is a common procedure in mass tort cases and was a central feature of the legislation recently enacted by Congress for the tort cases arising out of the September 11 attacks.

2. MAINTAIN POOL OF DEFENDANT RESOURCES AND PROVIDE FOR EQUITABLE PLAINTIFF RECOVERY BY ELIMINATING PUNITIVE DAMAGE AWARDS.

- In mass tort cases, only a limited pool of resources will be available to plaintiffs who prove liability (whether because of bankruptcy or settlement). Because of the limited pool of resources, it would be grossly inequitable and unfair to allow one plaintiff or class of plaintiffs to receive an excessive award -- including a punitive component entirely unrelated to the plaintiff's injuries and unnecessary to compensate the plaintiff -- that could greatly limit or outright preclude recovery by other plaintiffs.

    - Even for defendants who face no possibility of bankruptcy, the possibility of massive punitive damages creates pressure to settle even unmeritorious cases and generates economic instability for potential defendants in terrorism cases.

- A business defendant who engages in the kind of wrongdoing that otherwise would trigger punitive damages will face a variety of federal and state criminal and administrative investigations and sanctions.

- Section 408(a) of the Air Transportation Act limits any recovery against air carriers to the limits of their liability policies, which effectively precludes punitive damages. Section 201 prospectively precludes punitive damages in any terrorism-related case against airlines for 180 days after enactment. Section 405(b)(5) precludes recovery of punitive damages in the victims' claims process.

3. PREVENT UNFAIR AND UNNECESSARY BANKRUPTCIES CAUSED BY JOINT AND SEVERAL LIABILITY FOR NON-ECONOMIC DAMAGES.

- The Administration proposes to require proportional fault for recovery of non-economic damages. This is a very modest proposal. It would not eliminate non-economic damages, nor impose proportional fault for economic damages. The Administration's proposal for proportional liability for non-economic damages is less restrictive than state law provisions that may apply to many cases litigated under the cause of action recently established by Congress for the September 11 events.

- Without this provision, a court could hold any defendant "jointly and severally" liable for the full amount of the plaintiff's non-economic damages, even for those damages attributable to the terrorists' acts and unrelated to the defendant's actions.

- Some studies suggest that non-economic damages can compose 40-50% of damages in certain classes of tort cases. If any defendant, even the marginally involved, could be made to pay the full extent of non-economic damages in a mass terrorism incident, these damages could easily threaten to bankrupt hundreds of legitimate businesses.

- Limitations on joint and several liability are commonplace. At least thirty-seven states have enacted some form of proportional liability. Indeed, seventeen states have adopted proportional liability even for economic damages. Another eight states have adopted proportional liability for economic and non-economic damages for any marginally-involved defendant (e.g., one found to be less than 50% at fault).

- Section 408(a) of the Air Transportation Act limits recovery against air carriers to the limits of their liability policies, which is an effective cap on non-economic damages against air carriers, and applies state law limits on joint and several liability, which in many cases will be more restrictive than this proposal.

4. MAINTAIN POOL OF DEFENDANT RESOURCES FOR EQUITABLE PLAINTIFF RECOVERY BY PREVENTING DOUBLE RECOVERY BY SOME PLAINTIFFS.

- This procedure, which Congress adopted for the victims claims process applicable to individual cases arising out of the September 11 terrorist attacks, will ensure that plaintiffs are compensated for their losses, yet also prevent double recovery by plaintiffs. It thus will help preserve the limited pool of defendant resources available for successful plaintiffs without penalizing injured victims.

- The procedure is consistent with the principle that first-party private insurance and, where necessary, standard government benefits have been (and should be) the primary means for promptly and appropriately compensating the parties injured in a terrorism attack. Through these resources, injured parties will receive appropriate care and compensation without resort to an inefficient judicial process that would trigger widespread bankruptcies.

- Even in ordinary tort cases, many states offset past and prospective insurance benefits paid or payable to the plaintiff against the plaintiff's recovery.

- Section 405(b)(6) of the Air Transportation Act requires that recovery by a claimant in the victims' claims process be reduced by the amount of collateral source compensation the plaintiff has received or is entitled to receive.

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the Senate and House at the conference on the disagreeing vote of the two Houses on the amendment of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 1447), to improve aviation security, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the Senate and House in explanation of the effects of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report:

The House amendment struck all of the Senate bill after the enacting clause and inserted a substitute text.

The Senate recedes from its disagreement to the amendment of the House with an amendment that is a substitute for the Senate bill and the House amendment. The differences between the Senate bill, the House amendment, and the substitute agreed to in conference are noted below, except for clerical corrections, conforming changes made necessary by agreements reached by the conferees, and minor drafting and clerical changes.

1. SHORT TITLE

Senate bill

Section 1: "Aviation Security Act".

Section 1: "Airport Security Federalization Act of 2001"

Conference substitute

The title of the legislation will be "The Aviation and Transportation Security Act."

2. FINDINGS

Senate bill

Section 101: 7 findings on the importance of security and the need for Federal control and other changes.

House amendment

No provision

Conference substitute

The conferees recognize that the safety and security of the civil air transportation system is critical to the security of the United States and its national defense, and that a safe and secure United States civil air transportation system is essential to the basic freedom of America to move in intrastate, interstate and international transportation. The conferees further note the terrorist hijacking and crashes of passenger aircraft on September 11, 2001, which converted civil aircraft into guided bombs for strikes against the United States, required a fundamental change in the way it approaches the task of ensuring the safety and security of the civil air transportation system.

REV_00321277

A report is required in 6 months and annually thereafter.

Conference substitute

The Conferees have instructed the Secretary to work with the TSOB to develop a data base that will allow the cross checking of the people on "watch lists" of various Federal law enforcement agencies to identify individuals that may pose a risk to security in an effort to identify potential risks to civil aviation. Passenger lists should be used in conjunction with this data base to help target those individuals that pose a threat, and allow appropriate action to be taken.

17. TERRORISM REPORT

Senate bill

Section 103(b): Require reports on all terrorism. Reports to be shared with DOT.

House bill

No provision.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report requires the intelligence community to ensure that reports on terrorism are shared with the DOT.

18. STRATEGIC PLANNING

Senate bill

Section 103(c): Require intelligence agencies to establish units for strategic planning on terrorism.

House bill

No provision.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report requires intelligence agencies to establish units for strategic planning on terrorism.

19. COCKPIT SECURITY

Senate bill

Section 104: FAA shall issue a rule, without notice and comment, permitting only authorized persons to have access to the cockpit, requiring strengthening the door by installing locks and making them rigid, requiring the door to remain locked during flight except when the pilot needs to get out, and taking away the flight attendants key.

Special rules shall be issued for aircraft that do not have a door.

House bill

Section 106: To the extent the Under Secretary considers appropriate, the Under Secretary shall, after consultation with FAA, implement methods to restrict the opening of the cockpit door during flight and fortify those doors.

A report is required in 6 months and annually thereafter.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report prohibits access to the flight deck of passenger aircraft by anyone other than the flight crew. Flight deck doors must be strengthened and remain locked while aircraft is in flight. Video cameras may be provided to alert pilots to cabin activity in the event of a security breech occurring during the flight.

REV_00321286

These provisions apply to aircraft required to have a door between the flight deck and cabin. The Conferees also seek the redesign of cockpits to ensure the doors are secured at all times during flight. Redesign can encompass new flight deck materials, double doors to the cockpit as are used in Israel, and lavatories within the flight deck so that flight crew do not leave the flight deck. Once bathroom facilities are provided for the flight crew of passenger aircraft, the cockpit door no longer will need to be opened during flight.

The Conferees instruct the Under Secretary to take into consideration the threat to aviation and national security when developing means to secure the flight deck on commuter aircraft. Any new burdens should be appropriate for the risk.

20. AIR MARSHALS

Senate bill

Section 105: Attorney General prescribes guidelines for training and deployment of sky marshals. DOT administers the program in accordance with these guidelines:

(1) Marshals may be placed on every flight but must be placed on every flight that DOT determines to be high risk.

(2) Marshals must be deployed in 30 days.

(3) Marshals must be given a seat even if that means bumping a passenger.

(4) DOT shall work with ICAO and foreign governments to address security concerns on foreign airlines.

(5) DOT may use personnel from other agencies, including the military, as air marshals.

Section 105: Waives age requirements for retired police, military and out-of-work pilots to work as air marshals, if they meet the background and fitness qualifications.

Report required in 18 months.

House bill

Section 105: Under Secretary deploys air marshals, provides for their background checks, trains them, and requires U.S. airlines to provide seats for them at no cost.

Preference for hiring laid off airline pilots as marshals.

Marshals must be given a seat even if that means bumping a passenger.

DOT shall work with foreign governments to address security concerns on international flights from the U.S.

Until the Under Secretary has all the air marshals needed, personnel from other agencies may be used, with the other agency's concurrence, as air marshals on a non- reimbursable basis.

Airlines must provide seats, on a space-available basis, to off-duty marshals flying home.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report requires that appropriately trained, supervised and equipped Federal Air Marshals (FAMs) may be deployed on every scheduled passenger flight, and must be placed on every "high risk" flight, which may include nonstop longhaul flights, or any other flight deemed appropriate, even if the flight is fully booked. For applicants who otherwise meet the background and fitness requirements, age restrictions may be waived to allow retired law enforcement officers, retired members of the armed forces, and members of commercial airline crews who have been furloughed from their positions. Personnel from other agencies may be deployed, with the agency's concurrence, as FAMs until an adequate number of FAMs are in place. Additionally, agreements may be entered into allowing trained law enforcement personnel from other agencies to travel with firearms in order to assist FAMs.

The Conferees instruct the Under Secretary to follow air carrier passenger reservations and cancellation practices to the extent practicable. The Under Secretary should work cooperatively with air carriers to develop guidelines concerning reservations and cancellation for the transportation of Federal Air Marshals.

21. SCREENING

Senate bill

Section 108: Attorney General, in consultation with DOT, shall provide for screening of all passengers, property, mail, and cargo that will be carried aboard an aircraft.

Federal employees shall do screening.

Airport and airline employees shall be screened in the same way, except alternative methods may be used for security personnel.

Attorney General shall use screening technology approved by FAA.

At the 100 largest airports, additional police may be ordered.

Section 105(f): Report from DOT and DOJ required within 120 days on effectiveness of security screening.

Section 106: DOJ and DOT may permit operational flexibility to tailor screening needs for seasonal variations, aircraft types, and special needs of small airports.

Section 108: Attorney General may require non-hub or smaller airports to use State or local law enforcement if the screening will be equivalent to that at larger airports, the training meets Federal standards, the airport is reimbursed by funds made available by this Act, and the airport is consulted.

House bill

Section 102: Federal government is responsible for screening passengers and property on passenger aircraft that originate in the U.S.. Silent on whether screeners are to be Federal employees or private contractors. Under Secretary shall deputize screeners to enforce Federal laws, but not to arrest people. Screeners must have common uniforms. Must be supervised by uniformed Federal employees.

Section 107: Under Secretary should consider certificating screeners and use TIP or similar technologies to measure their performance and revoke their certification if their performance is inadequate.

Section 104: Airport required to deploy law enforcement or military personnel at each screening location. Law enforcement can be either Federal or local.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report requires the Federal government to hire, train and deploy Federal screeners, Federal managers, Federal security personnel and Federal law enforcement within 1 year. The participants in this Federal security workforce will not be able to strike or engage in work stoppages, and can be fired at the discretion of the Secretary if they are not able to adequately perform their duties.

The Conferees recognize that, in order to ensure that federal screeners are able to provide the best security possible, the Secretary must be given wide latitude to determine the terms of employment of screeners. The Conference Committee expects that, in fixing the terms and conditions of employment the Secretary shall establish benefits and conditions of employment. The Conference Committee also recognizes that, in order to hire and retain screeners, the Secretary should also ensure that screeners have access to Federal health, life insurance, and retirement benefits, as well as workers' compensation benefits. The Committee believes that screening personnel must also be given whistleblower protections so that screeners may report security conditions without fear of reprisal.

The Conference Report requires the DOT to assume existing screening company contracts as soon as possible, but no later than 90 days after enactment of this legislation. The contracts for existing screeners can be extended for up to 6 months, and the DOT would have the option to extend contracts for no longer than 3 months, if necessary, to continue screening. DOT may also authorize additional Federal law enforcement, National Guard, and other personnel immediately to address the aviation security needs of the country.

The Conferees direct the Secretary to provide a report after one year from the date of enactment certifying deployment of the Federal screeners. Two years after certification airports can opt out of the Federalization of the screener level of the Federal workforce if the Secretary determines that these facilities would continue to provide an equal or higher level of security. Companies will be barred from providing screening if they violate federal standards, are found to allow repeated failures of the system, or prove to be a security risk. The DOT will also establish a Pilot Program for 5 airports, one from each category type, to apply for the use of private contract screeners.

Within 1 year after the date of enactment of the Act, the conferees expect the Transportation Security Administration to submit a report to the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation and the House of Representatives Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure on the screening requirements applicable to passengers boarding, and property being carried aboard, aircraft with 60 seats or less used in scheduled passenger service with recommendations for any necessary changes in those requirements.

22. CITIZENSHIP OF SECURITY FIRMS

Senate bill

No provision.

House bill

Section 104: Must be owned or controlled by a citizen of the U.S. to the extent the President determines that there are such firms.

REV_00321289

Section 123(e): Similar sense of Congress.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report directs that U.S. companies should be used to provide screening if they are available.

23. TRAINING OF PILOTS AND FLIGHT ATTENDANTS

Senate bill

Section 105(f): Report from DOT and DOJ required within 6 months on crew training.

Section 107: DOT shall develop a mandatory airline training program for crews dealing with a hijacking. Training shall be developed in coordination with law enforcement experts.

House bill

Section 106: Under Secretary should consider updating training for dealing with hijacking that includes ways for dealing with suicidal hijackers. Report six months and annually thereafter.

Conference substitute

The Conferees have determined that detailed guidance shall be developed for a mandatory air carrier training program to assist flight crews and attendants in hijack situations. The training curriculum will be developed in consultation with Federal law enforcement agencies with expertise in dealing with these types of threat conditions.

24. HOW FLIGHT ATTENDANTS NOTIFY PILOTS OF A HIJACKING

Senate bill

Section 107: FAA shall revise procedures by which flight attendants notify pilots and implement new measures as soon as practicable.

House bill

Section 106: The Under Secretary should consider requiring the installation of switches in the cabin so that the flight attendants can discreetly notify the pilots.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report directs the Under Secretary to consider the installation of a switch to be located in the cabin for flight attendants to notify pilots in the event of a hijacking without the knowledge of passengers. or other devices

25. PROVISION OF PERSONNEL FROM OTHER AGENCIES

Senate bill

Section 105: Amends section 106(m) to allow other agencies to provide personnel to FAA.

House bill

Section 102(d): Same provision, worded differently.

Conference substitute

The Conferees call upon other agencies to provide personnel that has received the proper training for use by the FAA as Federal air marshals (FAMs) in an effort to support and supplement that FAM workforce in its early stages. the

26. AIRPORT PERIMETER ACCESS SECURITY

Senate bill

REV_00321290

Section 106: DOT may order deployment of law enforcement personnel as needed to bolster airport security by entering into an agreement with another agency to deploy Federal law enforcement at airports.

Section 106(b): FAA shall provide technical support and financial assistance to small airports to help defray security costs.

House bill

No provision.

Conference substitute

The Conferees have given the Secretary the ability to work with the airports to address potential threats at individual facilities by ordering the deployment of Federal law enforcement authorities to improve airport perimeter and access security in an effort to counter potential criminal activities. Such actions also can include providing increased security at air traffic control facilities. Additionally, the FAA Administrator will develop a plan to provide technical support to enable small- and medium-sized airports to enhance their security operations, and shall include using network digital video surveillance systems.

27. INDIVIDUALS WITH ACCESS TO SECURE AREAS OF THE AIRPORT

Senate bill

See item 21

Section 106(a): DOT, in consultation with ASOC, shall consider whether such individuals should be screened.

Section 106(d): Amend 44903(g)(2) to delete 1/31/01 deadline and beef up language on access control requirements.

DOT shall require airlines and airports to develop security awareness programs for employees.

Section 211: Within 6 months, DOT shall recommend to airports commercially available ways to prevent access to secure areas. As part of this, DOT shall review effectiveness of biometric and other systems, focus on eliminating piggy-backing, and include a 12-month deployment strategy for currently available technology at Category X airports. Not later than 18 months, DOT shall conduct a review of reductions in unauthorized access.

House bill

Section 106: The Under Secretary shall consider imposing standards for the screening or inspection of vehicles that have access to secure areas and provide for the use of technology to verify the identity of those vehicles entering a secure area. Report after 6 months and annually thereafter.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report instructs that all individuals, goods, property, vehicles, and other equipment seeking access to secure areas must be screened and inspected before entry. The Conference Committee instructs that prescribed requirements should provide at least the same level of protection as the screening of passengers and baggage. The Conferees, however, recognize that these requirements may make allowances for tools and equipment necessary to perform duties in secure areas. The Secretary will examine the physical configuration of individual airports, and consider the views of the TSOB to consider implementing standards to protect the integrity of secure areas.

28. BAN ON PARKING OF VEHICLES WITHIN 300 FEET OF TERMINAL

Senate bill

Section 106(b): FAA, in consultation with local law enforcement, shall reexamine the need for 300 feet restriction.

House bill

Section 121: Removes this parking ban if the airport, in consultation with local law enforcement, certifies to DOT, after doing a threat assessment, that safeguards are in place to protect public safety.

Conference substitute

The Conferees have determined that all airports must consult with local law enforcement and inform DOT that proper safeguards are in place to ensure that parked vehicles are not a security risk. Each airport must submit views regarding its assessment of the needs of their facility.

29. CHECKED BAGGAGE

Senate bill

See item 9

Section 201(b)(1): Requirement for all baggage to be screened within 9 months.

FAA must establish within 60 days confidential goals for scanning a specific percentage of checked bags within 6 months and annual goals thereafter eventually scanning 100%.

Section 201(c) - page 85FAA shall require airlines to upgrade the bag match system. Shall establish goals within 60 days to accomplish this including interim measures to match a higher percentage of bags until bomb detectors are used to scan 100% of bags.

House bill

See item 9

Section 106: All checked baggage must be screened by December 31, 2003. All existing explosive detection equipment must be used to the maximum extent possible.

Additional explosive detection equipment must be installed as soon as possible.

In the interim, airlines must implement a bag match program.

A system must be in place as soon as possible to screen cargo transported in passenger aircraft.

Section 123(d): Sense of Congress that all checked baggage should be screened by any available means.

Conference substitute

The Conferees feel strongly that all baggage to be placed on passenger flights must be screened. Existing technology, including EDS, should be used and upgraded in an effort to ensure that all checked baggage goes through such a system. Any baggage that does not go through EDS will be required to go through some form of manual or other comparable screening system. An alternate system of screening cargo should also be established, and periodic reports issued to provide an understanding of the progress made on these efforts.

REV_00321292

30. COMPUTER ASSISTED PASSENGER PROFILING SYSTEM (CAPPS)

Senate bill

Section 201(d): FAA shall make all passengers subject to CAPPS even if they don't check bags so that their carry-ons and person will be subject to additional security measures. Report within 3 months.

Section 211: DOT, as part of the ASCC, shall conduct a 90-day review of upgrades to CAPPS and to the distribution of people on the "watch list" of Federal law enforcement agencies. Upgrades shall be deployed in 6 months. A report shall be filed in 18 months.

House bill

Section 106(9): The Under Secretary should consider providing the enhanced use of CAPPS to more effectively screen passengers and carry-on baggage. Report in 6 months and annually thereafter.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report instructs that an enhanced and upgraded use of the Computer Assisted Passenger Pre-Screening System (CAPPS) must be considered to more effectively screen passengers and baggage. The Conferees also recognize that adjustments may need to made ~~for~~ to reflect circumstances in some areas of the U.S., including State with unique transportation needs.

31. DEPUTIZING FOR ENFORCEMENT OF FEDERAL SECURITY LAWS

Senate bill

Section 108(b): Requires Attorney General to deputize State and local law enforcement to regulate screening at non-hubs.

House bill

Private contractor employees deputized.

Conference substitute

No provision.

32. HIRING AND TRAINING OF SCREENERS

Senate bill

Section 109: DOJ, in consultation with DOT, shall establish a program for the hiring and training of screeners. Hiring qualifications shall be set in 30 days. Includes list of qualifications screeners must meet such as education and language requirements. Training plans must be developed within 60 days. Requires 40 hours of classroom training and 60 hours of on the job training. Current lists of dual use items (seemingly harmless items that could be used as a weapon) shall be part of the training. Section 104 - page 16

House bill

Under Secretary may set minimum pay for screeners. Preference shall be given to veterans in the hiring of screeners and laid ~~for~~ off airline workers. Final rule for certification of screening companies changed from May 31, 2001 to 6 months after date of enactment. In the meantime, within 30 days of enactment, the standards in the proposed rule, such as education and language requirements, shall be in effect. All screeners must be in approved uniforms.

Conference substitute

A blend of the House and Senate provisions.

REV_00321293

33. CITIZENSHIP OF SCREENERS

Senate bill

Section 109: Must have been a national of the U.S. for at least 5 years.

House bill

Section 104(a): Must be U.S. citizens.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report requires that all airport screeners must be citizens of the U.S.

34. STATUS OF SCREENERS

Senate bill

Section 109(d): Notwithstanding any law, the Attorney General may hire, fire, and pay screeners as he determines necessary.

House bill

Section 102: Federal supervisor can order the dismissal of any screener.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report provides the Under Secretary the authority to employ, terminate and fix the conditions of employment for the Federal screening workforce.

35. STRIKES BY SCREENERS

Senate bill

Section 109(e): Strikes prohibited pursuant to Title 5.

House bill

Section 102: Strikes prohibited.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report directs that the airport screening workforce will be prohibited from striking. The Conferees have provided the Transportation Security Administration authority to utilize existing authority provided to the FAA to develop personnel and acquisition systems. The authority gives the Administration flexibility to design its own policies and procedures and not use the FAA's system, while retaining the legal requirements under sections 40110 and 40112.

36. BACKGROUND CHECKS

Senate bill

Section 109(f): Requires background checks for current screeners and others with access to the airport.

Section 201(a): Requires background checks for current screeners and others to be completed in 9 months unless the person has had such a check in the past 5 years. Alternative checks shall be developed for those who have lived in the U.S. for less than 5 years.

House bill

Section 107: Allows smaller airports to use the same expedited procedures for criminal history background checks as the larger airports now use. (Under the 2000 Security Act these expedited procedures do not go into effect at smaller airports until 2003.)

Requires background check (including review of government data bases) for all current screeners and those with access to secure areas except for those who have already had such a check or those who are exempted by FAA rules from such checks.

Conference substitute

A blend of the House and Senate provisions.

The Conferees encourage the Under Secretary to provide channeling authority to professional organizations representing industry to FBI AFIS fingerprint databases to perform criminal history verification of aviation business employees. (5)

37. RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

Senate bill

Section 110: Amends section 44912 to require periodic reviews of threats to civil aviation and the potential for the release of biological and chemical weapons. A person shall be designated to be responsible for security research. The person shall file an annual report on research activities. A scientific advisory panel shall be established. DOT shall coordinate research with DOJ.

Section 221: Authorizes $50 million per year to research various security technologies.

House bill

Section 101: Transfers security research from FAA to the TSA. The TSA can use FAA research facilities.

Conference substitute

A modified version of the Senate provision.

38. FLIGHT SCHOOLS

Senate bill

Section 111: Regarding jet-propelled aircraft, a person shall not give flight instruction, including instruction in simulator, to an alien (or other person specified by DOT) unless DOJ issues that person a certificate of completion of the background check of the alien. Requests for the background check shall be made jointly by the alien and the flight school. Investigation must be completed in 30 days. Investigation includes fingerprint check, immigration check, and a determination of whether alien in a national security risk. Expedited procedures shall be developed for an alien seeking recurrent training. Penalties for violations shall be developed by DOT rulemaking. Flight schools shall report aliens that they train.

Section 111(c): DOT and State shall work with ICAO to improve screening of student pilots.

House bill

Section 106(13): The Under Secretary should consider requiring background checks on individuals seeking flying lessons (including simulator lessons) on aircraft weighing more than 12,500 pounds. Report in 6 months and annually thereafter until the Under Secretary implements the checks or decides not to require them.

Conference substitute

The Conferees have determined that flight school training for aircraft with a minimum certificated weight of 12,500 pounds or more should not be allowed for any alien within the United States unless they have passed a sufficient background check. Such individuals seeking to attend flight school may begin pilot training after 45 days or upon being certified as having passed a background investigation regarding their criminal history and immigration status. A security awareness program will be developed to assist employees that work at flight schools by helping to increase their awareness of a potential threat.

REV_00321295

And the House agree to the same.

39. PENALTIES

Senate bill

Section 114: Imposes criminal penalties for interfering with security personnel at a commercial service airport.

House bill

Section 116(c): Transfers the relevant civil penalty authorities from the FAA to the TSA.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report requires that an individual who disrupts the duties of security screening personnel within a commercial service airport shall be fined and/or imprisoned for up to 10 years. The use of a dangerous weapon to interfere with security screening may result in up to life imprisonment.

40. INTRASTATE AIR SERVICE

Senate bill

Section 116: DOT may grant antitrust exemptions to ensure continued viability of air service in that State.

House bill

No provision.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report instructs that DOT may grant anti-trust immunity to ensure continued viability of air service within a state. If the Secretary approves any such request, a report must be given to the relevant Senate and House Committees within six months of the approval describing what actions have been taken by the carriers receiving the exemption.

41. AIRLINE COMPUTER RESERVATION SYSTEMS

Senate bill

Section 117: DOT shall require all airlines to use the best technology to ensure that their systems are secure from unauthorized access. DOT shall submit an annual report on compliance.

House bill

No provision.

Conference substitute

Under the direction of the Conference Report airlines are required to take action that will prevent unauthorized access to computer reservation systems and the information they contain on passengers. Technology should be utilized to the greatest extent possible to ensure the integrity of these systems.

42. FEES

Senate bill

Section 118(a): Within 180 days, airlines remit a $2.50 fee per enplanement.

House bill

Section 108: Under Secretary shall impose a fee of not more than $2.50 per one-way trip. The amount of the fee shall be reasonably related to the costs of providing the screening service. In addition, a fee can be imposed directly on the airlines but it cannot be more than the airlines paid for screening services in 2000. Fees shall be credited as off-setting collections. Passengers using airports where screening services are not provided may be exempted from the fee.

Conference substitute

The Conference substitute requires a fee to be charged to cover the cost of providing the aviation security services. The fee will be based on the number of times a passenger boards a plane during the course of travel, but will be capped at $5.00 per one-way trip. Any additional funds needed will be authorized to be appropriated or may come from a fee imposed directly on the airlines.

The Secretary may waive or modify the security fee to take into account the isolation of certain communities. In determining whether to waive or modify this fee, the Secretary shall consider the costs of transportation security and the benefits of transportation security that is bestowed on those communities.The Conference substitute amends section 45301(b) of title 49, United States Code, with respect to limitations on overflight fees to (1) to make the language consistent with the new security fee language of this Act, and (2) to clarify Congressional intent with respect to the FAA costs upon which the fees can be based. Specifically, the conference substitute replaces the word "directly" with "reasonably", since the word "directly" has been a source of much confusion and narrow interpretation, and has been a primary cause of recurring litigation which has frustrated and delayed the FAA's imposition of the overflight fees for a number of years. Additionally, this amendment specifies that the FAA's costs upon which the fees are based are to be determined solely by the Administrator. This is to clarify that the Administrator has full authority to determine costs by appropriate means. This amendment is not intended to require revision of the fees recently promulgated by the FAA (66 FR 43680, Aug. 20. 2001) but rather, to clarify longstanding Congressional intent that the FAA expeditiously and continuously collect the fees authorized under section 45301(a) of title 49.

43. AUTHORIZATION

Senate bill

Section 118(b): Authorizes such sums for the next 3 years as may be necessary to carry out the security functions.

House bill

Section 109: Authorizes such sums as may be necessary to the TSA for operating costs and for screening services not covered by the above fee.

Authorizes $500 million for grants to airlines to fortify cockpit doors, install video monitors to view the passenger cabin, ensure continuous operation of transponder, and use of other technologies.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report authorizes the necessary spending for the cost of providing aviation security.

44. AIRPORT FUNDING

Senate bill

REV_00321297

Section 119(a): Allows AIP and PFC funds to be used to pay security costs in FY 2002 for any cost incurred after 9/11 regardless of when it was incurred. Waives the local matching share. In deciding whether to make a discretionary AIP grant for security costs, the availability and use of non-Federal funding by the airport shall be considered.

Section 120: Authorizes such sums in 2002 to compensate airports for security costs. Costs must be documented and subject to an IG audit. DOT shall publish procedures for filing claims in 30 days.

Section 119(c): PFC requests for security funding should be expedited.

Section 119(b): For the purpose of determining AIP entitlements in FY 2003, enplanements in 2000 or 2001, whichever is higher, shall be used.

Section 201(b): Modifying terminal and baggage systems in order to install bomb detection equipment is made AIP eligible.Section 113: Allows AIP and PFC funds to be used to pay for added law enforcement costs in at a non-hub or small hub airport regardless of when the cost was incurred.

Waives the local matching share.

In FY 2002, allows AIP and PFC money to be used to pay debt service if that would prevent an airport, or privately owned terminal, from defaulting on its bond.

House bill

Section 109: Authorizes a total of $1.5 billion in 2002 and 2003 to reimburse airports for direct costs they incurred to meet new security requirements. Such sums to remain available until expended. Before getting the money, the airport must agree to meet with its concessionaires to discuss rent adjustments and provide an itemized list of costs incurred.

Conference substitute

A blend of the House and Senate provisions.

House bill

No provision.

Conference substitute

The Conference report directs the Secretary to provide Congress a report on improving general aviation security in the United States within 3 months of enactment of the legislation.

The Conferees note that a number of issues on aviation security research merit the prompt attention of the Department of Transportation. In particular, the Conferees observe that research into providing better security with minimal disruption in the system in the area of general aviation is important.

The Conferees note that the FAA has recently designated a consortium of schools as a general aviation center of excellence and anticipates that the FAA would draw upon the expertise of these institutions in formulating a security program for general aviation.

The Conferees also note that NASA, in coordination with the DOT, is investigating technology that would facilitate remote screening of small aircraft prior to takeoff.

Such a general aviation remote screening system (GARSS) could be installed on a vehicle or mobile platform, or in a fixed facility alongside a taxiway, and would provide a pre-takeoff alert if suspicious objects or materials were detected aboard an aircraft.

The Conferees urge that the development and implementation of GARSS be pursued.

The Conference Report amends the Airline Stabilization Act to allow for a modified system of providing compensation to air tour operators and air ambulances to better address their needs after industry wide losses. It is the Conferees' position that the Stabilization Act's section 103 compensation formula language, "revenue ton miles or any other auditable measure" should be broadly construed and should not restrict compensation exclusively to Revenue for Miles reported on previously filed DOT Form 41s. If Air, Crew, Maintenance, Insurance lessors can provide accurate and auditable records of their revenue for miles during the relevant time period, then they should be eligible for compensation based under the Stabilization Act.

No provision.
House bill
Title II:
Conference substitute
The Conference substitute extends the liability limitations of the Air Transportation Stabilization Act to aircraft manufacturers, State port authorities, owners and operators of airports, and persons with property interests in the World Trade Center.
These provisions limit liability under the Act to the maximum level of their insurance coverage.

REV_00321305

The Conferees expect that security functions at United States airports should become a Federal government responsibility, and it is their belief that while the number of Federal air marshals is classified, their presence would have a deterrent effect on hijacking and would further bolster public confidence in the safety of air travel. The Conferees also noted that the effectiveness of existing security measures, including employee background checks and passenger pre-screening, is currently impaired because of the inaccessibility of, or the failure to share information among, data bases maintained by different Federal and international agencies for criminal behavior or pertinent intelligence information.

The Conferees developed this legislation to address the security of the nation's transportation system.

The Conference substitute also limits the liability for all claims arising from the terrorist-related attacks of September 11, 2001, brought against the City of New York to the greater of the City's insurance coverage or $350,000,000.

This limitation on damages against the City of New York, however, does not apply to any non-government or private entity that is contracted with the City.

The Conference substitute also excludes entities primarily engaged in the business of airport security from its limitation on liability.
