Section 106: Requires the Under Secretary to address the issues listed below and to report 6 months after the date of enactment on the progress being made in implementing each.

A similar report would have to be submitted each year thereafter until all the items had either been implemented or rejected:

(1) Develop procedures (such as barrel roles or depressurizing the aircraft) and authorize equipment (such as lethal or non-lethal weapons) to help the pilot defend the aircraft against hijackers.

(2) After consultation with the FAA, find ways to—

(A) limit access to the cockpit;

(B) strengthen cockpit doors;

(C) use video cameras to alert pilots to problems in the passenger cabin without having to open the cockpit door;

(D) ensure that the aircraft transponder cannot be turned off in flight.

(3) Impose standards for the screening or inspection of vehicles and employees of aircraft fuelers, caterers, cleaners, and others who have access to aircraft and secure areas of airports.

(4) Require airlines to provide emergency call capability from aircraft and trains.

(5) Use various technologies, such as voice stress analysis, to prevent a dangerous person from boarding a plane.

(6) Develop certification standards for individual screeners.

(7) Establish performance goals and use Threat Image Projection (TIP) or similar devices to test whether screeners are meeting those goals or certification standards.

(8) Develop ways for airlines to have access to law enforcement and immigration data bases to ensure that dangerous people do not board their planes.

(9) Use the profiling system known as CAPS to not only give special scrutiny to selected checked baggage but also to the passengers who fit the profile and their carry-on baggage.

(10) Use technology to ensure that airport and airline employees and law enforcement officers are who they claim to be.

(11) Install switches in the passenger cabin so that flight attendants can discreetly notify a pilot if there is a problem.

(12) Change the training of airline personnel in light of the change in the methods and goals of hijackers as evidenced by the attack of September 11th.

(13) Provide for background checks for those seeking flying lessons on large aircraft or flight simulators of such aircraft.

(14) Enter into agreements allowing trained law enforcement personnel of other agencies to travel with guns in order to assist a sky marshal.

(15) Perform more thorough background checks (including review of immigration and other government records) of airport screeners, student pilots, and others who have unescorted access to secure areas of the airport.

(16) Establish a uniform system for identifying law enforcement personnel authorized to carry a gun on board to ensure they are who they claim to be.

(17) Allow airlines to implement trusted passenger programs to use technology to expedite screening for those passengers that wish to participate.

(18) Develop security procedures for stem cells and other medical containers that cannot be opened or x-rayed.

(19) Develop security procedures to allow musical instruments to be carried in the passenger cabin.

(20) Provide for the use of wireless devices to enable communications among airport security personnel about potential threats.

Conference substitute

The Under Secretary shall decide upon establishing security measures to: ensure that the flight transponder cannot be turned off in flight; require airlines to provide emergency call capability from aircraft and trains; use voice stress analysis, biometric, and other technologies to prevent dangerous persons from boarding a plane; establish a uniform system for identifying law enforcement personnel traveling with firearms to ensure they are who they claim to be; require the consideration of alternative security procedures that would not damage medical products; allow airlines to implement trusted passenger programs to use technology to expedite screening on a voluntary basis; and, provide for the use of technology to enhance communications among airport security personnel about potential threats.The conferees encourage efforts by the Transportation Security Administration and professional organizations representing industry to use biometric information, such as fingerprints collected initially as input to the background check process, for future verification of identity at access control points to secure airport areas. The Conferees applaud efforts to improve day-to-day airport security by utilizing this raw biometric information collected from individuals as a recurrent identifier for access to secure areas. The Conferees urge the Transportation Security Administration to work with industry organizations that can assist in the process of background checks, record-keeping, and universal access control data.

CAN

7. RESPONSIBILITY OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Senate bill

Section 102(b): Responsible for screening, including the hiring and training of screeners.

House amendment

No provision—The Under Secretary is responsible for screening.

REV_00321282

Conference substitute
No provision.

8. TRANSITION

Senate bill
Section 102(d): Until Deputy Secretary takes office, the functions are performed by the Assistant Administrator of the FAA.
Section 108: Transition to Attorney General immediate. Actions completed in 9 months.
House amendment
Section 101: Under Secretary shall assume civil aviation security responsibilities in 3 months. In the meantime, Under Secretary can take over airline contracts with screening companies.
No change until Under Secretary is appointed.
Conference substitute
The Conferees direct the Under Secretary to assume responsibility for civil aviation security within 3 months of the enactment of this legislation.

9. TECHNOLOGY AND EQUIPMENT

Senate bill
Section 102(c): Amends 44932(c) to require FAA to ensure the use of the best available security equipment, not merely the best available x- ray equipment.
Section 108: Restates provision in current law requiring manual process where equipment is now underutilized.
Section 132: By September 30, 2002, FAA shall decide the feasibility of implementing technologies designed to protect aviation and automatically detect bombs, drugs, hazardous chemicals, and nuclear devices.
Section 201(b): FAA shall deploy and use existing bomb detection equipment. Within 60 days, FAA shall establish goals for—
(1) deploying equipment now in storage;
(2) specifying a percentage of checked bags to be scanned within 6 months, with a goal of scanning 100 percent;
(3) the number of bomb detectors that will be purchased for deployment at medium sized airports within 6 months. [See item 29.]
House amendment
Section 106: Makes no change in section 44932(c) of title 49, United States Code, but directs Under Secretary to consider requiring various technologies described in item 6 above and report to Congress on them 6 months after enactment and annually thereafter until those technologies are deployed or a decision is made not to deploy them.
Conference substitute
The Conferees want new, state-of-the-art security equipment installed at airports on an expedited basis, and immediate action taken to ensure that existing explosive detection equipment is employed to the greatest extent possible for the screening of checked baggage. It is expected that additional equipment will be installed in as timely a manner as possible, and in the interim, other systems will be used to screen baggage. The Conferees agree that everything going on board a passenger aircraft should be screened within 60 days by FAA-approved methods.

10. AIRWORTHINESS OBJECTIONS BY FAA

Senate bill

Section 102: Must consult with FAA on all matters affecting safety and operations.

House amendment

Section 106: Under Secretary cannot take an action if notified by the FAA that it would adversely affect the airworthiness of the aircraft unless the Secretary approves the action.

Conference substitute

House provision.

11. ROLE OF NATIONAL TRANSPORTATION SAFETY BOARD (NTSB)

Senate bill

No provision.

House amendment

Section 106: In taking an action that could affect safety, Under Secretary shall solicit and give great weight to views of NTSB.

Conference substitute

The Conferees instruct that in taking actions that could affect safety, the timely views of the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) will be taken into consideration by the Under Secretary. The conferees wished to emphasize that the views of the NTSB should be provided in a sufficiently and timely manner so those views could be fully considered by the Under Secretary.

12. BIOLOGICAL AND CHEMICAL WEAPONS

Senate bill

Section 102(c): FAA shall develop ways to enhance the ability to detect biological and chemical weapons.

Section 106(c): DOT shall require airports to maximize the use of equipment to detect these weapons.

House bill

No provision.

Conference substitute

The Conference report requires airports to maximize the use of equipment to detect and neutralize biological and chemical weapons, and instructs the FAA to develop ways to enhance the detection of these weapons.

13. OVERSIGHT AND COORDINATION

Senate bill

Section 103: Establishes Aviation Security Oversight Council (ASOC), chaired by DOT Secretary and composed of DOJ, DOD, Treasury, CIA, and any other agency head DOT and DOJ determine to be appropriate.

House bill

Section 112: Establishes Transportation Security Oversight Board (TSOB) chaired by DOT Secretary and composed of DOJ, DOD, Treasury, and either NSC or Homeland Security. TSOB shares intelligence, reviews emergency rules, and oversees actions of Under Secretary.

Establishes Advisory Council, composed of industry, labor, families, and others to advise Under Secretary on security matters.

Conference substitute

The Conference Report establishes the Transportation Security Oversight Board (TSOB) chaired by the Secretary of DOT and composed of DOJ, DOD, Treasury, CIA, NSC and Homeland Security. The TSOB may review and ratify or disapprove regulations issued by the Under Secretary; facilitate the coordination of intelligence, security and law enforcement activities affecting transportation; and, perform other duties including making recommendations to the Under Secretary for use in combating threats to the integrity of the nation's transportation system.

14. RULEMAKING

Senate bill

No Rules required by DOJ for its own employees; cockpit requirements issuable without APA.

House bill

Section 101: Under Secretary can issue security rules immediately without notice and comment, DOT or OMB review, and without a cost-benefit analysis but subject to disapproval by the TSOB.

Conference substitute

House provision.

15. INSPECTOR GENERAL

Senate bill

No provision.

House bill

Section 101: TSA is subject to the Inspector General Act.

Conference substitute

The Conference report instructs that the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) will be subject to the Inspector General Act.

16. CROSS CHECKING DATA BASES

Senate bill

Section 103(a): DOT, acting through ASOC, shall try to develop a common data base with other agencies and share information about people.

Section 211: DOT, as part of the ASCC, shall conduct a 90-day review of upgrades to the distribution of people on the "watch list" of Federal law enforcement agencies.

Upgrades shall be deployed in 6 months.

A report shall be filed in 18 months.

House bill

Section 106: To the extent that the Under Secretary determines appropriate, the Under Secretary shall (1) establish procedures requiring airlines to use information from government agencies to identify people who may be a threat to civil aviation and (2) require more thorough background checks that include a review of other agency data bases.

I vaguely recall that early in the year we sent a letter, under Judge's signature, to GOP Senators about the process by which we would receive suggested candidates from them for judgeships and U.S. Attorney and U.S. Marshals posts. It is the letter that requested at least three names per vacancy, etc. Bruce Cohen has requested a copy of that letter. Do any of you have a copy that I could review before we decide whether to comply with his request? Thanks.

Dear «Salutation»,

Thank you for coming to the White House for a briefing on President Bush's priorities. It was great to see you again.

Your hard work put our President in the White House, and your continued commitment to the President's agenda has been critical to our success. We look forward to continuing to work together. Thanks again.

Sincerely,

provide comments today.

 High Priority **

To meet our deadline of tomorrow, we need to send these questions to Horn today. Please let me or John Constance know as soon as you can if you have any comments, changes, or do not want us to send these to OMB yet.
Thanks.

>>> GaryM Stern 11/16/01 1:24:40 PM >>>
Here are NARA's proposed response to questions from Chairman Horn. We are still governed by the Nov. 20 date (next Tuesday). Please let us know if you think that we will not be able to meet that deadline, so we can let the Hill and OMB know.

Also, I have sent you both a new PRA notice on the 68,000, which we felt was necessary particularly in light of the new FOIA for those records.

Brett, I am still waiting to hear back from you on whether, in fact, you all really want us to provide you with copies of all 68,000+ pages, or is some other option available: e.g., you start with the sample we already did provide, or we give you an additional 5000 pages, which you all can review and then decide whether you really want and need to see any more, and/or you wait to see what the Reagan reps intend to do.

We will also be sending in a notice reminding you of five pending notices to open Reagan records, all of which did not involve P5 and for which the Reagan rep has authorized disclosure. (We will also be sending in new notices for records that we put on hold that do contain some P5 records.)

Finally, we still need to address overall guidance on how we are supposed to conduct reviews of Reagan records henceforth. Thanks.

EDITORIAL: Holding judges hostage

No excuse for Democrats to stall on Bush's selections

Congress will soon adjourn for the year, after passing a significant tax cut, a bill to beef up airline security, a measure to enhance law-enforcement powers in the wake of terrorist attacks, and (almost certainly) an economic stimulus plan. No matter what you think about the merits of each proposal, that's an impressive amount of legislation to complete in a single year, especially because different parties are in charge of the House and the Senate, and a newly elected president occupies the White House.

One group of lawmakers, however, has logged little overtime: Democrats on the Senate Judiciary Committee, who have stonewalled President Bush's judicial appointments.

Nearly 120 vacancies now exist in the federal judiciary, by far the most openings any modern administration has faced in its first year. And of the 64 nominations the president has submitted to the Senate, only 18 have been confirmed. Of the rest, a mere handful have even undergone hearings before the Judiciary Committee.

The Senate's sloth has placed the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in a particular bind. As of next January, eight of the 16 appellate posts will be vacant. In a speech to the Federalist Society on Saturday, Vice President Dick Cheney pointed out the administration has nominated six persons to fill those eight seats; none has had a hearing before the Judiciary Committee. Those vacancies -- and others in district and appellate courts across the country -- lead to backlogs which needlessly delay and deny the process of meting out justice.

Such delays are unconscionable. Since federal judges have lifetime tenure, it's the Senate's duty to perform due diligence on judicial nominees; but this scrutiny should be conducted with dispatch, along with the votes to confirm or reject those selected.

In the first Bush administration, 15 of the 24 judicial nominees submitted the first year were confirmed; the first year of the Clinton administration saw the Senate confirm 27 of 47 nominees. In both cases, the new presidents were working with Senates controlled by the opposing party, as is the case today.

Why the delays? Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., told The Associated Press his first priority is confirming the nominees who are "non-controversial." Meaning anyone who believes that judges should not legislate from the bench -- and who possesses a healthy respect for the Constitution, limited government and separation of powers - - need not apply.

Presidents are elected to advance an agenda, even if lawmakers disagree with it. If Democrats wish to argue that Mr. Bush's choices lack either the qualifications, philosophy or temperament to serve on the federal bench, let them make that case in hearings before the C-SPAN cameras ... or during the course of a debate over confirmation.

Partisan stalling, whether led by Democrats or Republicans, is wrong. There's no reason senators cannot act on the president's remaining judicial nominations by the end of the year -- even if they have to remain in session throughout the holidays to finish the job.Leahy: scuttling nomineesFYI - This has less to do with the war - and more to do with the Senate and our judicial nominees - good stuff that should not go unnoticed.

Can you let me know who might be coming? The key Supreme Court cases are Nixon v. GSA, 433 US 425, and US v. Nixon, 418 US 683. A main goal of the Administration has been to comply with these Supreme Court precedents by ensuring, as we are legally obligated to do, that the constitutional rights of former Presidents are respected and preserved. The EO does not, however, purport to tell former Presidents how to exercise their constitutional rights; the EO merely establishes procedures for the former Presidents to exercise their rights.

Brett:

I attach a set of draft answers to the questions from Horn and Ose. The questions that don't have answers are the ones that we thought it best for you to take a first crack at. Please review when you can.

So that I can keep track of what's in the draft, please provide your draft answers in a separate document and please fax any comments to the existing draft. Thanks.

QUESTIONS FROM CHAIRMAN HORN

1. As you know, 68,000 pages of Reagan records became eligible for release in January 2001. In February, the Archivist first notified the White House of his intent to release these records. The Archivist testified that the White House has not yet begun a substantive review of the 68,000 pages of Reagan records in order to determine whether to assert any privileges. Why has the White House waited so long to begin its review of these records?

2. You testified that the changes between Executive Orders 13,233 and 12,667 are procedural only, and do not – and could not – change the criteria applicable to constitutional privilege claims. If so, what prevented the White House from conducting its review of the Reagan records at the same time it was developing the new "procedures"?

3. The 12-year restriction period applicable to these records under the Presidential Records Act expired in January 2001. The Archivist testified that his office had completed review of the records and found no basis to withhold them from the public. More than nine months have now passed. No records have been released, although no claims of privilege have been made. Please check with whomever may know and provide us a firm date by which either the records will be released or any claims of privilege actually will be asserted.

4. Does the Administration question the constitutionality of any provision of the Presidential Records Act? If so, please identify such provision and the Administration's constitutional objection to it.

5. You testified that Executive Order 13,233 was intended only "to fill gaps" and was not intended to override any provision of the Presidential Records Act. What "gaps" in the Presidential Records Act did the Executive Order fill?

   The Presidential Records Act does not set forth policies and procedures with respect to the assertion of constitutionally based privileges. The Executive Order does.

6. Does the Executive Order divest the Archivist of his authority and responsibility under the Presidential Records Act and its implementing regulations (36 C.F.R. § 1270.46) to initially decide whether privilege claims by a former President are justified?

   The Presidential Records Act does not vest, and could not constitutionally vest, the Archivist with the authority and responsibility to reject an assertion of Any additional time shall be limited to that which is deemed reasonable under the circumstances.

42. Does section 6 of the Executive Order apply to requests for records by either House of Congress or by a committee or subcommittee thereof made pursuant to a valid congressional subpoena? If so, by what legal authority can the President establish a time for responding different from that set in the subpoena?

Section 6 of the Executive Order does apply to congressional subpoenas. The Constitution requires both that the executive and legislative branch engage in an accommodation process with regard to congressional requests for privileged executive branch records and that former and incumbent Presidents have sufficient time to consider whether to assert constitutionally based privileges. Therefore, no return date in a congressional subpoena can operate to shorten the time periods necessary for these processes.

43. The Presidential Records Act treats Congress and an incumbent President the same with respect to access to presidential records (compare 44 U.S.C. § 2205(2)(B) and § 2205(2)(C)), while the Executive Order treats them differently (compare sections 5 and 6). What is the legal and policy justification for this difference? Why does the former President have the right to review and veto congressional requests, but no right to review (much less veto) a request by an incumbent President?

The PRA does not treat Congress and an incumbent President the same with respect to access to presidential records, because the PRA recognizes in section 2204(d) that the PRA cannot affect the availability of a former or incumbent President's constitutionally based privileges, while it of course recognizes no such privileges for Congress with respect to presidential records. The Executive Order does not give a former President the right to review requests by the incumbent President because a former President may not assert constitutionally based privileges over presidential records against an incumbent President who seeks access to those records. Nothing in this answer should be construed as accepting any of your question's characterizations of the Executive Order

44. Section 6 of the Executive Order states that if the incumbent and former presidents do not agree to give Congress access to presidential records, the Archivist may only then give Congress access if so ordered by a final and nonappealable court order. Is it your view that a congressional committee may sue for an order compelling the Archivist to produce records withheld pursuant to the Executive Order?

A congressional committee should consult with its own counsel as to whether it has the legal authority to file a lawsuit. The Department of Justice would likely take the position that any such suit was nonjusticiable. It is possible that a court might hold otherwise.

45. Absent an actual claim of privilege, must the Archivist provide records by the return date specified in a congressional or judicial subpoena?

See answer to question 42.

46. Does section 6 of the Executive Order supersede the Reagan Memorandum[2] with respect to congressional requests for records subject to the Presidential Records Act?

No.

47. Do any of the policies or requirements of the Reagan Memorandum continue to apply to congressional requests for records subject to the Presidential Records Act? If so, please identify those that apply.

Yes. They all apply.

48. The Executive Order appears to depart from the procedures set forth in the Reagan Memorandum and Executive Order 12,667 with respect to the assertion of privilege by the incumbent President in at least the following respects:

(i) The Executive Order does not provide that the Counsel to the President and the Attorney General may, in their discretion, determine that the invocation of Executive privilege is not justified without presenting the matter to the President;

(ii) Section 6 of the Executive Order provides for a fixed review period, without reference to whether the congressional request requires a shorter time period; and

(iii) Section 6 of the Executive Order provides for unilateral extension of the review period for "burdensome" requests, without imposing any

[2] Under the Memorandum from President Reagan for the Heads of Executive Departments and Agencies on Procedures Governing Responses to Congressional Requests for Information (Nov. 4, 1982) ("Reagan Memorandum"), governing consideration of whether Executive privilege should be asserted in response to a congressional request, "[c]ongressional requests for information shall be complied with as promptly and fully as possible, unless it is determined that compliance raises a substantial question of Executive privilege." Further, if after consideration of a substantial question of Executive privilege it is determined by the department head, Attorney General or Counsel to the President that circumstances justify the invocation of Executive privilege, the department head is directed to request that the congressional body in question hold its request in abeyance pending a final presidential decision on the matter.

requirement that the congressional body be notified of the need for an extension, much less that an attempt be made to reach an accommodation with the congressional body with respect to the extension.

With respect to each of these differences, what is the policy justification for the departure from the procedures set forth in the Reagan Memorandum and Executive Order 12,667?

The Executive Order is consistent with the Reagan Memorandum, which remains fully applicable to an incumbent President's consideration of a congressional request for presidential records from a prior administration. As for the question concerning the relationship between section 6 of the Executive Order and a time period requested by a congressional requester, see answer to question 42. Finally, although neither the Reagan Memorandum nor the Executive Order requires notification to Congress of an extension or requires seeking an accommodation regarding such an extension, neither do they preclude such notification or accommodation effort.

49. Pursuant to section 4 of Executive Order 12,667, the Archivist, after consultation with the Attorney General and the Counsel to the President, was supposed to make the final determination as to "whether to honor the former President's claim of privilege or instead to disclose the Presidential records notwithstanding the claim of privilege." By contrast, section 6 of the Executive Order requires the Archivist to give absolute deference to the former President's decision to invoke Executive privilege. What is the policy justification for this change?

I do not agree with your question's characterization of either section of either Executive Order. Section 4 of Executive Order 12667 did not provide that the Archivist is to make a "final determination" as to a former President's assertion of privilege. Among other things, it provided that "the Archivist shall abide by any instructions given him by the incumbent President or his designee." Likewise, section 6 of Executive Order 13233 provides instructions from the incumbent President to the Archivist.

50. The Reagan Memorandum provides that "Executive privilege will be asserted only in the most compelling circumstances, and only after careful review demonstrates that assertion of the privilege is necessary." Does this statement reflect the policy of the Administration with respect to congressional requests for documents subject to the Presidential Records Act? If so, how will that policy be vindicated if and when a former President invokes Executive privilege pursuant to section 6 of the Executive Order, and the Attorney General, the Counsel to the President and/or the President himself conclude that (i) the former President's claim of privilege is frivolous or clearly without merit; (ii) the congressional need for the information clearly outweighs any Executive interest in confidentiality; and/or (iii) the privilege has been invoked to conceal evidence of criminality or wrongdoing by Executive officers.

Yes, the Reagan Memorandum reflects the policy of this Administration with respect to this Administration's consideration of the possibility of an assertion of constitutional privilege by the incumbent President with respect to documents subject to the Presidential Records Act. The Reagan Memorandum does not govern the responses by a former President.

51. Is it the Administration's position that section 10 of the Executive Order expands the right of a former or incumbent President to designate a representative beyond the scope of the right provided in section 2204(d) of the Presidential Records Act? If so, please describe the extent of the expansion of that right.

No. Section 2204(d) of the Act and section 10 of the Executive Order address different matters. Section 2204(d) of the Act governs "any discretion or authority" that an incumbent President or former President "may have had under this chapter." Assertion of a constitutionally based privilege by an incumbent President or a former President is not an exercise of discretion or authority under the chapter of the United States Code that contains section 2204(d). Rather, it is an exercise of discretion or authority under the Constitution, and it is therefore not governed by section 2204(d).

52. Do you agree that Executive privilege exists only to protect the institutional interests of the Presidency, as opposed to the personal interests of a former President?

The President's constitutionally based privileges exist "not for the benefit of the President as an individual, but for the benefit of the Republic." Nixon v. Administrator of General Services, 433 U.S. 425, 449 (1977) (adopting Solicitor General's position). They are "fundamental to the operation of Government and inextricably rooted in the separation of powers under the Constitution." United States v. Nixon, 418 U.S. 683, 708 (1974).

53. Is delegating Executive privilege decisions to family members of a former President consistent with this principle?

Absolutely. Indeed, the need for some means of delegation flows directly from the principle that constitutionally based privileges do not merely serve the personal interests of a President. "Unless he can give his advisers some assurance of confidentiality, a President could not expect to receive the full and frank submissions of facts and opinions upon which effective discharge of his duties depends." Nixon v. Administrator of General Services, 433 U.S. at 448-449 (adopting Solicitor General's position). For the same reasons that the Court in Nixon ruled that a former President must be able to assert constitutionally based privileges, so too must there be some mechanism for asserting constitutionally based privileges after a former President's death. Although there is no perfect proxy for the former President, his family members are a reasonable substitute.

54. What is the meaning and extent of the word "family" in section 10 of the Executive Order? For example, does the word encompass family members beyond the former President's spouse? Does it encompass children, grandchildren, and other future generations?

The Archivist or the incumbent President will determine this matter on an as-applied basis.

55. How will disputes between family members of a former President as to the appropriate representative for the former President be resolved? What happens, for example, if two children of a former President each designate a different representative?

The Archivist or the incumbent President will determine this matter on an as-applied basis.

56. Is there any limit on how far into the future the "family" of a former President may exercise the putative right to designate a representative for the former President?

As a practical matter, yes; as a legal matter, no. Because Presidents historically (i.e., even when they had legal title to presidential records) have provided for eventual disclosure of their presidential records and because the Supreme Court has said that constitutionally based privileges are "subject to erosion over time," Nixon, 433 U.S. at 451, there will come a time for each former President's family when this right will have become a moot issue.

57. Does section 10 of the Executive Order allow access to privileged records of former Presidents to be blocked in perpetuity?

No. Section 10 merely provides a procedure for constitutionally based privileges to be asserted on behalf of a deceased or disabled former President. It does not affect the weight to be accorded an assertion of privilege. That question would be litigated in court.

58. How does the Administration reconcile the requirement of the Presidential Records Act (and the implementing regulations, 36 C.F.R. §1270.20 and .22) that a former President designate a representative prior to his death with the language of the Executive Order permitting a former President's family to designate a representative after the former President's death?

59. Is the Administration aware of any legal authority for the President, by Executive order, to vest in the family of a former President rights that a Federal statute explicitly limit to a former President himself? If so, please articulate all such legal authority.

60. Executive Order 13,233 states that a party seeking to overcome constitutionally based privileges must establish a "demonstrated, specific need" for the records sought. Several witnesses at our hearing as well as many press accounts interpreted this statement to mean that, contrary to FOIA standards, anyone requesting records under the Presidential Records Act must demonstrate a specific need for them. However, Administration officials assured me that this statement was not intended to impose such a need requirement. What is this statement intended to mean, and why was it included in the Executive Order?

The referenced statement is part of a background section in the Executive Order that sets forth certain basic principles regarding presidential privilege. The statement does not impose a requirement that a FOIA requester make any showing of need when requesting presidential records.

61. Your testimony quoted a statement by Senator Percy from the legislative history of the Presidential Records Act that if a President "believe[d] that the 12-year closure period does not suffice, that President could object to the release of some document in the 13th or 14th or 20th year." However, you omitted the context of this statement. Senator Percy sponsored a floor amendment that made the FOIA (b)(5) deliberative process exemption inapplicable to requests for records under the Act. He stated in this regard:

"[N]o document should be withheld [after the 12-year restriction period] simply because it contains confidential materials; such a result would undermine the basic purpose of the legislation. Consequently, the (b)(5) exemption has no place in this statutory scheme. . . . [W]hile we can prohibit the Archivist from withholding documents, after the restricted period, on the basis of the (b)(5) exemption, we cannot prevent a former or incumbent President from arguing, even after the 12-year period that a particular confidential communication between the President and an advisor should not be released." 124 Cong. Rec. 36844 (1978) (Emphasis supplied)

Senator Percy went on to say that whether Executive privilege would protect such communications was "an open question" to be "resolved by the courts."

Senator Percy was simply making the obvious point that the Act did not, and could not, impose a time limit on a former President's right to assert privilege claims in court. He was in no way suggesting that such claims would be appropriate or valid. Do you agree? In fact, do not Senator

REV_00321692

Percy's statements suggest that he viewed his amendment as precluding the Archivist from withholding records based on Executive privilege grounds, thereby leaving a former President to enforce any privilege claim in court?

Your question fails to note that the very amendment that Senator Percy offered included the language now in section 2204(c)(2) to the effect that nothing in the Act shall be construed to limit any constitutionally based privilege that may be available to any incumbent President or former President. This context is significant: since Senator Percy's amendment itself expressly provides that it should not be construed to limit constitutionally based privileges, Senator Percy's statement in support of that amendment likewise should not be so construed. In addition, I do not believe that it is reasonable to impute to Senator Percy the constitutionally infirm view that the only means by which a former President may assert a privilege claim is in court.

I believe that, read properly in context, Senator Percy's comment that a former President "could object to the release of some document in the 13th or 15th or 20th year" clearly recognizes that constitutionally based privileges may properly be asserted long after the 12-year statutory period of presumptive nondisclosure has passed. I do agree that Senator Percy's comment does not bear on whether any particular assertion of privilege should or should not be upheld.

62. In Nixon v. Administrator of General Services, 433 U.S. 425 (1977), the Supreme Court recognized several important limits on a former President's right to claim Executive privilege. For example, it noted that "a former President is less in need of [the privilege] than an incumbent," and that "the incumbent President is vitally concerned with and in the best position to assess the present and future needs of the Executive Branch, and to support invocation of the privilege accordingly." 433 U.S. at 448-449. Noting that former Presidents of the modern era have eventually disclosed their papers, the Court also observed: "The expectation of the confidentiality of executive communications thus has always been limited and subject to erosion over time after an administration leaves office." 433 U.S. at 450-451.

Why did Executive Order 13,233 fail to mention these statements in its "background" section on Executive privilege?

These statements are not central to the subject matter of the Executive Order.

How do you reconcile the Executive Order's extreme deference to a former President's privilege claims with these statements?

Without embracing your question's characterizations, I will note that the first statement your question quotes – that "a former President is less in need of [the privilege] than an incumbent" – is set forth by the Court merely as a possible reason for holding that a former President may not assert constitutionally based privileges. The Court immediately thereafter proceeds to reject such a holding.

The second statement your question quotes, together with the introductory phrase that it omits – "it must be presumed that the incumbent President is vitally concerned with and in the best position to assess the present and future needs of the Executive Branch, and to support invocation of the privilege accordingly" – explains exactly why President Bush is entitled to a presumption that the procedures set forth in his Executive Order for supporting a former President's invocation of constitutionally based privileges duly serve the present and future needs of the Executive Branch and should not be second-guessed by Congress.

The third statement your question quotes – "[t]he expectation of the confidentiality of executive communications thus has always been limited and subject to erosion over time after an administration leaves office" – was made in the narrow context of refuting the argument that a former President's privilege was "[a]n absolute barrier to all outside disclosure," even "to the process by which the materials will be screened and catalogued by professional archivists." Nixon, 433 U.S. at 450. The Court's statement that the expectation of confidentiality has been "limited" means, in context, only that the privilege is not so absolute as to prevent archival screening processes. See id. at 450-451. Similarly, the Court's statement that the expectation of confidentiality has been "subject to erosion over time after an administration leaves office" is to be read together with its observation that Presidents have historically deposited their papers for "eventual disclosure" and that some restrictions were still in place with respect to the records of President Franklin Roosevelt, see id. at 451 & n. 12 – more than 30 years after the end of his presidency. Because the records of former Presidents undergo archival screening and because the Administration anticipates that former Presidents will make privileged documents available for eventual disclosure, the Executive Order is plainly consistent with the Court's statement.

In light of these statements, do you agree that there is no constitutional underpinning to the Executive Order's requirement that the Archivist accept any claim of privilege by a former President? On the contrary, is this requirement not inconsistent with these statements?

For the reasons stated above, and without accepting your question's characterization of the Executive Order, the answer to your first question is no, and the answer to your second question is that the Executive Order is consistent with the Court's statements.

63. On the same subject, please respond to the following statement that one of our witnesses, Professor Shane, submitted for the hearing record:

"The President's direction to the Archivist to withhold the disclosure of presidential records, when neither the Archivist nor the incumbent President believes that a constitutional claim of privilege over the documents is justified, is itself plainly unconstitutional. . . . It has been axiomatic since Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137 (1803), and Kendall v. U.S. ex rel. Stokes, 37 U.S. 524 (1838), that a President may not command an executive officer to perform an unlawful act."

REV_00321694

I agree with Professor Shane's axiom, but not with its application to the unique situation of a former President's assertion of constitutionally based privileges. The Court's holding in Nixon that a former President may assert constitutionally based privileges means that the former President is exercising some residual Article II power. In this unique situation, it is proper and constitutional for the incumbent President to accommodate the former President's privilege assertion. Indeed, the contrary view would appear to compel the conclusion that the incumbent President must immediately provide access to the documents that the former President asserts are privileged, thereby rendering meaningless any opportunity that the former President would have to assert his privileges in court.

64. Does not the Supreme Court's observation that the expectation of confidentiality erodes over time indicate that the courts would reject a former President's privilege claim for records more than 12 years old if that claim was based solely on a general interest in preserving confidentiality?

No.

65. Is any such general expectation of confidentiality further eroded (or erased) by the fact that President Reagan and all of his successors entered office knowing that their records will be released after 12 years under the Presidential Records Act?

No. President Reagan and his successors entered office knowing that their constitutionally based privileges would survive their time in office and knowing that the Presidential Records Act would have to be administered consistent with their constitutionally based privileges.

66. Executive Order 13,233 prohibits the Archivist from permitting access to records "unless and until the incumbent President advises the Archivist that the former President and the incumbent President agree to authorize access to the records or until so ordered by a final and nonappealable court order." The Executive Order also grants the former and incumbent President (and their representatives) unilateral and open-ended authority to extend the time for responding to access requests. Does anything in the Executive Order prevent a former or incumbent President (or their representatives) from indefinitely blocking access to records without ever asserting Executive privilege by simply withholding approval for their release? As a practical matter, when and how could a requester seek judicial recourse in such a case?

Without accepting your characterization of the Executive Order, I will note that the Executive Order sets forth policies and procedures with respect to the assertion of constitutionally based privileges. The provisions you cite do not apply where no such privileges are asserted, and nothing in the Executive Order would direct the Archivist to withhold records in the absence of such an assertion (other than pursuant to the terms of the Presidential Records Act). If and when a requester believed that records were being unlawfully withheld, the requester could, after exhausting any necessary and available administrative avenues, pursue judicial relief in any appropriate court.

67. In response to a question by Representative Ose, you testified that section 6 of Executive Order 13,233 "makes it easier for Congress" than for the public to access presidential records. Aside from the different "target dates" (which are subject to indefinite extension), how does Congress fare any better than the public under the Executive Order?

Without accepting your characterization of the Executive Order, I will note, as I did in my response to Representative Ose's question, that the concurrence rule in section 4 of the Executive Order does not apply to requests under section 6.

68. Section 6 of the Executive Order states that it does not limit the access rights of Congress and the courts. Is it your position that the Executive Order imposes no substantive or procedural restrictions on congressional and judicial access rights granted under section 2205 of title 44? Does section 2205 subject congressional and judicial access requests to a veto power by either the former or incumbent President?

Although the Executive Order does not impose substantive restrictions on congressional or judicial access to presidential records, it does set forth procedures that are applicable to congressional and judicial requests. Section 2205 provides that congressional and judicial access to presidential records is "subject to any rights, defenses, or privileges which the United States or any agency or person may invoke."

69. Executive Order 13,233 clearly applies by its terms to the release of records by the Archivist in response to public requests (section 3) and congressional and judicial requests (section 6). You testified that the Executive Order also is intended to apply when the Archivist proposes to release records at his own initiative. According to Professor Shane, your testimony in this regard "is flatly contradicted by the express language of the order." How do you respond to this? What provision in the Order applies to disclosure of records at the initiative of the Archivist?

constitutionally based privileges by a former President. As a matter of executive branch policy, NARA's implementing regulations do provide the Archivist with such authority and responsibility, under the direction of the incumbent President. To the extent necessary, NARA intends to revise its regulations in light of the change in policy reflected in the Executive Order.

7. Public Citizen v. Burke*, 843 F.2d 1473 (D.C. Cir. 1988), held that the Archivist could (and must) determine the validity of a former President's privilege claims under a statutory framework virtually identical in substance to the Presidential Records Act. Writing for a unanimous panel, Judge Silberman rejected the Justice Department's argument that the Constitution required the Archivist to honor a former President's privilege claim. The court found "no support" for this proposition in Nixon v. Administrator of General Services, 433 U.S. 425 (1977). Indeed, the Court read Nixon as suggesting that even an incumbent President "must exercise some discrimination and judgment with respect to a former President's assertion of Executive privilege if he wishes to support it." 843 F.2d at 1479. Is the Executive Order consistent with Burke and, if so, how?

Without embracing your characterization of Burke and of the Presidential Recordings and Materials Preservation Act, I will note three fundamental respects in which the Executive Order is plainly distinguishable from the regulations at issue in Burke: (1) The Administration does not contend that the Constitution requires the Archivist to honor a former President's privilege claim. (2) The court in Burke held that the incumbent President, not the former President, has the constitutional power to direct the Archivist. Consistent with this holding, all directions to the Archivist pursuant to the Executive Order are from the incumbent President. (3) Under section 4 of the Executive Order, the incumbent President exercises discrimination and judgment both in making the threshold determination that a claim of privilege is in fact "within the scope of a constitutionally based privilege" and in determining whether "compelling circumstances" exist that should lead the incumbent President not to concur in the privilege decision of the former President.

8. Given the Burke precedent, do you believe Executive Order 13,233 could survive a legal challenge in the D.C. Circuit? If so, please provide your rationale.

Yes. See answer to question 7.

9. Does the Administration contend that if an Executive order directs a Federal agent to take an action that is inconsistent with a Federal statute, the Federal agent is legally obligated to act in accordance with the Executive order? If so, please provide the legal authority for the Administration's position.

REV_00321679

QUESTIONS FROM REPRESENTATIVE OSE

Q1. Section 1(g) of President Reagan's Executive Order (E.O.) 12667 defined that a "substantial question of Executive privilege" exists if "disclosure of Presidential records might impair the national security ..., law enforcement, or the deliberative processes of the Executive branch." What is the legal basis for the two new, broad categories of records with access restrictions -- "communications of the President or his advisors (the presidential communications privilege); [and] legal advice or legal work (the attorney-client or attorney work product privileges)" -- in Section 2(a) of E.O. 13233?

The Executive Order does not impose access restrictions. See answer to Chairman Horn's question 10 regarding the scope of constitutionally based privileges.

Q2. During the hearing, I questioned you about the apparent inconsistency between Sections 2204(c)(1) and 2204(c)(2) of the Presidential Records Act (PRA) and Section 2(a) of E.O. 13233. Section 2204(c)(1) provides that, after a 12-year period, the Archivist shall provide public access in accordance with the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) but with one important exception. Namely, Section (b)(5) of FOIA, which provides an exemption for certain common law evidentiary privileges (such as the attorney-client, attorney work product and deliberative process privileges), cannot be used to withhold documents. This section also directs that access to Presidential records "shall be granted on nondiscriminatory terms." Section 2204(c)(2) states that "Nothing in this Act shall be construed to confirm, limit, or expand any constitutionally-based privilege."

Section 2(a) of the Order, however, provides that the President's constitutionally-based privileges "subsume" the attorney-client, attorney work product, and deliberative process privileges. I understand that courts have interpreted FOIA exemption (b)(5) to cover only common law evidentiary privileges. For example, see NLRB v. Sears & Roebuck Co., 421 U.S. 132, 150-54 (1975); EPA v. Mink, 410 U.S. 73, 85-91(1973); and FTC v. Grolier, Inc., 462 U.S. 19 (1983). I also understand that there is no judicial precedent according Constitutional status to such privileges. You agreed with me on this point. However, you explained that, if an incumbent or former President asserted a general claim of executive privilege with respect to a communication, the claim would encompass any common law privilege that could have otherwise been raised with respect to the communication. I am concerned by what seems to be a backdoor way of accomplishing what Congress intended to preclude.

Your explanation also appears to be irreconcilable with recent appellate court rulings. In In re Grand Jury Subpoena Duces Tecum, 112 F.3d 910

(8th Cir. 1997), cert,. denied 117 S. Ct. 2482 (1997), the court held that the White House could not invoke any form of governmental attorney-client privilege to withhold potentially relevant information from a grand jury. In In re Bruce Lindsey, 158 F. 3d 1263 (D.C. Cir. 1998), cert. denied 119 S. Ct. 466 (1998), the court similarly denied assertions of attorney-client and attorney work product privileges by a White House counsel, holding that a government attorney cannot invoke these common law privileges in response to questions seeking information related to the commission of a crime. Finally, in In re Sealed Case (Espy), 121 F. 3d 729 (D.C. Cir. 1997), the court distinguished the Presidential communications privilege and the deliberative process privilege. The court observed that both are executive privileges meant to protect the confidentiality of executive branch decisionmaking. But, the deliberative process privilege applies to executive branch officials generally and is a common law privilege that requires a lower threshold of need to be overcome. The Presidential communications privilege is rooted in "constitutional separation of powers principle and the President's unique role" and applies only to "direct decisionmaking by the President" relating to only those functions that form the core of Presidential authority, involving what the court characterized as "quintessential and non-delegable Presidential power", i.e., those functions expressly vested in the President by the Constitution. This case law appears to conclude that common law privileges that might arise in general communications with the President cannot automatically be "subsumed" under a general claim of executive privilege.

Based on this case law, please reconsider your incorporation theory. After your review of this case law, do you now think that the two new, broad categories in Section 2(a) of E.O. 13233 could withstand a court challenge?

Yes. See answer to Chairman Horn's question 17.

Q3. Section 2(c) of E.O. 13233 sets a new standard - "demonstrated, specific need" - for citizens to meet to access some Presidential records. This standard is not in FOIA. Therefore, what is the policy basis for this change?

See answer to Chairman Horn's question 60.

REV_00321698

Federal statutes must be interpreted and applied consistently with the Constitution. Thus, an executive order could direct a federal employee to take an action that is inconsistent with a statute if the statute is in conflict with the Constitution. Executive Order 13233 contains no such direction.

10. Does the Administration contend that the President, by Executive order, may create constitutionally-based privileges not previously recognized by the Federal courts? If so, please provide the legal authority for the Administration's position.

The Executive Order does not "create" any constitutionally based privileges. The scope of constitutionally based privileges is embedded in the Constitution, and reflected in invocations of privilege by Presidents throughout the Nation's history, as well as in legal opinions by the Department of Justice and the courts.

11. Does the Administration contend that the Department of Justice, by virtue of a legal opinion or otherwise, may create constitutionally-based privileges not previously recognized by the Federal courts? If so, please provide the legal authority for the Administration's position.

See answer to question 10.

12. Does the Administration contend that the President, by Executive order, may amend, override or otherwise alter – or alter the implementation of – regulations validly promulgated by the Archivist pursuant to 44 U.S.C. § 2206?

As the supervisor of the Archivist under the Constitution, the President may direct the Archivist concerning amendments or implementation of NARA's regulations.

13. Section 2204(e) of the Presidential Records Act provides for an action "initiated by the former President asserting that a determination made by the Archivist violates the former President's rights or privileges." Does not section 2204(e) contemplate that a former President will vindicate his constitutional privileges, as well as any statutory rights created by the Presidential Records Act, pursuant to this provision? If not, what is the purpose of this provision?

Section 2204(e) does not remotely contemplate that it provides the exclusive means for a former President to assert constitutionally based privileges, nor would it be constitutional if it were so read. The incumbent President plainly has the constitutional authority to accommodate the former President's assertion of constitutionally based privileges. The "purpose" of section 2204(e) is best determined from its plain text: to provide that "[t]he United States District Court for the District of Columbia shall have jurisdiction over any action initiated by the former President asserting that a determination made by the Archivist violates the former President's rights or privileges."

14. Executive Order 12,667 recognized the Archivist's authority and responsibility to decide claims of Executive privilege by a former President, and placed the burden on the former President to challenge the Archivist's decision under section 2204(e). Is there is any constitutional objection to the regime established by Executive Order 12,667 in this regard? What is the policy basis for the change from this aspect of Executive Order 12,667 to the scheme in the new Executive Order whereby the burden is shifted to those who request Presidential records to obtain judicial review of a former President's decision to deny access to his records?

15. Does the Administration believe that Executive Order 12,667 was unconstitutional or illegal in any respect? If so, in what respect and for what reason?

16. Please articulate with specificity each privilege that, in the Administration's judgment, is a "constitutionally-based privilege" within the meaning of 44 U.S.C. § 2204(c)(2).

See section 2(a) of the Executive Order; see also answer to question 17.

17. Does the Administration contend that the privileges for attorney-client communications, attorney work product, and deliberative process are "constitutionally-based privileges" within the meaning of 44 U.S.C. 2204(c)(2)? If so, please provide the legal authority for the Administration's position.

Your question involves a technical point of privilege doctrine. Common law privileges are not directly assertable in the circumstances addressed by section 2204(c) and the Executive Order, but the confidentiality interests they concern may be protected in that context because the common law privileges are "subsumed" or "incorporated" under the President's constitutional privilege. When the President determines that the discharge of his constitutional duties requires that he assert his constitutional privilege to protect confidential executive branch information, he may assert privilege for any information that is privileged under any of the privileges that have been recognized by the courts, regardless of whether in the judicial context the courts have described the particular privilege as constitutionally based or not. Thus, when agencies or the White House assert the attorney-client or attorney work product privilege in litigation or under the Freedom of Information Act, they are asserting that privilege as the courts have recognized it at common law; they are not asserting the President's constitutional privilege. In contrast, when the President asserts his constitutional privilege to protect attorney materials that are also protected under those common law privileges, he is doing so based on his constitutional authority and the privilege is therefore constitutionally based.

18. What is the legal basis for the statement in section 2(a) of the Executive Order that the "President's constitutionally based privileges subsume privileges for records that reflect . . . legal advice or legal work (the attorney-client or attorney work product privileges); and the deliberative processes of the President or his advisors (the deliberative process privilege)."? Does this statement mean that a former or incumbent President would be entitled to withhold access to any presidential record that is arguably covered by the attorney-client, attorney work product, or deliberative process privileges, even if that record is not also covered by the state secrets or presidential communications privileges?

See answer to question 17.

19. How does the Administration reconcile the language in section 2(a) of the Executive Order that purports to authorize former and incumbent Presidents to withhold records on the basis of attorney-client, attorney work product, and deliberative process privilege claims, with 44 U.S.C. § 2204(c)(1), which expressly provides that Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) exemption (b)(5) – which encompasses those three privileges – "shall not be available for purposes of withholding any Presidential record"?

See answer to question 17.

20. How does the Administration justify the language in section 2(a) of the Executive Order that purports to authorize former and incumbent Presidents to withhold records on the basis of attorney-client, attorney work product, and deliberative process privilege claims on the grounds that they are "constitutionally based" with the numerous Federal court cases holding that those three privileges are only common law privileges.[1]

See answer to question 17.

21. What are the legal and policy bases for giving an incumbent President veto authority over a former President's decision to allow access to the latter's Presidential records (other than classified records)?

As the Supreme Court recognized in Nixon v. Administrator of General Services, 433 U.S. 425, 448-49 (1977), both the former and the incumbent President may assert constitutionally based privileges. Therefore, both the former and the incumbent Presidents should agree not to assert privilege before privileged presidential records are released.

[1] See, e.g., In re Bruce R. Lindsey, 158 F.3d 1263 (attorney client); Hickman v. Taylor, 329 U.S. 495 (1947) (attorney work product); Barmes, 60 F.Supp.2d 896 (attorney client and attorney work product); In re Sealed Case, 121 F.3d 729 (D.C. Cir. 1998) (deliberative process).

22. What is the legal meaning of "at an appropriate time" and "as soon as practicable" in section 3(a) of the Executive Order?

As with many legal terms, these phrases are to be construed reasonably under the circumstances.

23. Is there any legal limit on the amount of time the Archivist can take to provide (i) the notices required by section 3(a) of the Executive Order, and (ii) copies of the requested records to the former and incumbent Presidents? If so, what are those legal limits?

See answer to question 22.

24. Is a former President required to ask the Archivist for copies of the requested records if he wishes to review them for privilege? If a former (or incumbent) President fails to ask the Archivist for copies of the requested records under section 3(a) of the Executive Order, can the former (or incumbent) President thereby prevent the 90-day periods in section 3(b) from beginning to run, and thereby effectively prevent the requested records from ever being released?

Section 3(a) states that the Archivist shall provide the former President copies of any records that the former President requests to review. The Executive Order therefore contemplates that, in the ordinary course, a former President will ask for copies of any records he wishes to review. It does not, however, make such a request a formal prerequisite to a privilege review.

If the Archivist provides notice to the former President of a request for access to Presidential records under section 2204(c)(1), and the former President does not request copies of records to review, then the section 3 process does not come into play at all. Under such circumstances, the Executive Order would not direct the Archivist to withhold the requested records.

25. What is the legal meaning of "unduly burdensome" in section 3(b) of the Executive Order?

As with many legal terms, this phrase is to be construed reasonably under the circumstances.

26. Who determines, under section 3(b) of the Executive Order, whether a particular request is "unduly burdensome," and what legal standard applies to that determination?

REV_00321683

On the second part of your question, see answer to question 25. On the first part, the former President shall, in the first instance and subject to review by the Archivist and the incumbent President, determine whether a particular request is unduly burdensome.

27. If a former President believes he needs additional time under section 3(b) of the Executive Order to review records, beyond the initial 90-day review period, must he actually request an extension of time or can he simply assert that such time is required? If the former, who is authorized to grant or deny such a request and what is the procedure for granting or denying the request?

The former President will consult with the Archivist. The Archivist, subject to the direction of the incumbent President, will determine whether additional time is warranted.

28. Is there any legal limit on the amount of additional time a former President may have to review records under section 3(b) of the Executive Order? If so, what is that legal limit?

Section 3(b) states that the former President shall review records "as expeditiously as possible." As with many legal terms, this phrase is to be construed reasonably under the circumstances.

29. When a former President "indicate[s] to the Archivist," under section 3(c) of the Executive Order, that he requests withholding of access to any privileged records, must the former President state reasons for his request? If so, how, when and under what circumstances will the former President's request for withholding of access and/or statement of reasons be made public?

The former President may, but need not, state reasons for his request. Because the Executive Order provides policies and procedures with respect to constitutionally based privileges, any request for withholding pursuant to section 3(c) will be understood to be an assertion of constitutionally based privileges.

30. Is there any legal limit on the amount of time an incumbent President has to review requested records under section 3(d) of the Executive Order? If so, what is that legal limit?

No. The Executive Order contemplates that an incumbent President will review requested records in a manner consistent with his constitutional duties.

31. How does the Administration reconcile the 90-day time periods in section 3(b) and (d) of the Executive Order with the Archivist's statutory obligation under FOIA to respond to requests for such records "within 20 days"?

REV_00321684

We do not believe that the PRA contemplates application of the FOIA time frames and other procedures to the consideration of possible constitutional privilege assertions. There is no statement to that effect in the statute's language or legislative history, and we should not read the statute that way in the absence of a clear statement of such intent, because an attempt by Congress to regulate assertion of the President's constitutional privileges would raise constitutional concerns. The Constitution requires that the incumbent and former Presidents be given sufficient time to consider whether to assert constitutional privilege. Moreover, in practice the agencies often cannot comply with the 20-day FOIA period. For burdensome requests, agencies often take much longer than 20 days. The time period under the executive order is likely to be shorter in practice than how the FOIA system currently works for burdensome requests.

32. What is the legal basis for a former President to direct the Archivist to withhold access to documents, as contemplated by section 3 of the Executive Order? Is the Archivist compelled to obey such a directive?

Section 3 does not contemplate that a former President will direct the Archivist to do anything.

33. The Presidential Records Act provides that, once any restriction periods authorized by the Act expire, the records of a former President "shall be administered in accordance with" FOIA. The only exception is that FOIA's so-called "(b)(5) deliberative process" exemption does not apply. The Act further provides that presidential records shall be deemed to be records of the National Archives and Records Administration for purposes of applying FOIA. Do you agree that these provisions incorporate the time limits, requester rights, and all other requirements and procedures applicable under FOIA?

See answer to question 31.

34. Do you see any inconsistency between the applicable FOIA procedures and Executive Order 13,233? To the extent there is inconsistency, would the FOIA procedures take precedence?

See answer to question 31.

35. You testified that "FOIA simply does not apply and does not purport to apply to assertions of constitutional privileges" under the Presidential Records Act. What did you mean by this?

See answer to question 31.

36. Do you believe that notice to an incumbent and former President of intent to release presidential records pursuant to a FOIA request would toll the running of FOIA's time limits or otherwise affect the application of FOIA requirements?

See answer to question 31.

37. Do you believe that a former or current President could enlarge the FOIA time limits or otherwise affect the operation of FOIA by seeking an extension of time to review the records?

See answer to question 31.

38. If action on a request is not completed within FOIA's applicable time limits, could the requester invoke FOIA's exhaustion of administrative remedies provision and go to court even if the reviews under Executive Order 13,223 were still underway?

See answer to question 31.

39. What are the legal and policy bases for the two consecutive 21-day review periods, as provided by section 6 of the Executive Order, with respect to congressional requests?

Procedures governing the assertion of the incumbent President's or a former President's constitutionally based privileges must be sufficient to protect those privileges. The Administration believes that the timing provisions of section 6 fully respect the rights of Congress and the courts while providing sufficient procedural protections for the assertion of such privileges.

40. Are the regulations, promulgated by the Archivist under the Presidential Records Act, which permit the Archivist to release records after 30 days following notice to the former and incumbent Presidents – and within less than 30 days if requested by Congress – lawful? How does the Administration reconcile the provisions of 36 C.F.R. § 1270.46(d) with the provisions of section 6 of the Executive Order?

Yes. See answer to question 39. In addition, and without accepting the question's characterization of the NARA regulations, I note that those regulations have previously been supplemented by further procedures set forth in Executive Order 12667 and are now supplemented by further procedures set forth in Executive Order 13233.

41. Is there any legal limit on the amount of additional time (beyond the 21 day periods) that a former or incumbent President may have to review records under section 6 of the Executive Order for requests that are deemed "burdensome"? If so, what is that legal limit?

BODY:
We knew that post-Sept. 11 bipartisanship was fraying on Oct. 23, the day President Bush asked Senate Majority Leader Thomas Daschle (D-S.D.) whether Democrats would expedite Bush's judicial nominations and was told "No." On many fronts, it's been downhill from there, with legislation on energy, economic stimulus - even education - caught in the partisan crossfire.

Senate Democrats' refusal to process Bush's judicial nominations with dispatch has become a special focus of rancor - and also a symbol of the continuing inability of the executive and legislative branches to get the government fully staffed. As of Nov. 12, according to the Brookings Institution's Presidential Appointee Initiative, the Bush administration still lacked confirmed officials in 181 of 505 total appointed positions in the executive branch. Key posts still vacant include the administrator of the Food and Drug Administration, the director of the National Institutes of Health, the White House drug czar, three assistant secretary posts at the Energy Department and the State Department's top post for Latin America.

It's bad enough that the administration has not even produced nominees for these top health and energy posts - at a time when drug approvals, health research and energy are all parts of the war on terrorism. It's even worse that Congress has ignored report after report calling for the nomination and confirmation process to be streamlined. The next new president - whether he arrives on the scene in 2005 or 2009 - is likely to face the same clogged system that Bush has encountered.

The system is clogged because of an onerous process of filling out forms, waiting on full field investigations by an FBI that's now (and will remain) preoccupied by terrorism, and the torturous Senate confirmation process.

That process has been complicated by partisanship in the case of judicial nominations, such as drug czar nominee John Walters (blocked by anonymous Democratic "holds" in the Senate) and State's Latin America nominee, Otto Reich (blocked by Connecticut Democratic Sen. Chris Dodd).

Senate Judiciary Chairman Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.) claims that judicial nominees are moving along at a pace comparable to the one set during Bill Clinton's first administration, but Republicans counter that it's simply not so. Bush has nominated many more judges than Clinton was able to name in his first year in office - 28 at the appellate level versus five for Clinton - so the GOP is right to complain that the Senate is dragging its feet now in approving five Bush judges compared to three for Clinton.

Judicial vacancies mean that justice is inevitably delayed for - hence, denied to - American citizens. Failure to fill executive slots means that efficient government is also being delayed and denied. And Congress is failing to reform the system.

DRAFT -- NOT FOR RELEASE

November 28, 2001
(House)

HR 3275 - Implementing Certain International Terrorism Conventions

(Rep. Smith (R) Texas)

The Administration supports rapid enactment of H.R. 3275, which would implement the International Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings and the International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism. These Conventions are both important to ensure that all nations have in place laws to enable full and effective international cooperation against terrorism. By enacting the modest legislation now before the Congress, the United States will be in a position to lead the international community in cooperation against terrorist bombings and terrorist finances.

While neither treaty has yet been ratified by the Senate, the Convention for the Suppression of Terrorist Bombings entered into force internationally in May 2001. In October, the President transmitted to the Congress a legislative proposal to implement both conventions. That proposal was marked up and amended slightly by the House Judiciary Committee to reflect the overlapping changes in law effected by the USA Patriot Act. The amended legislation is sufficient to implement the conventions, and should be enacted without delay.

Subject: Request for Charity Auction in Louisville

Coddy,

The wife of one of our clients is involved in the annual fundraiser for a charity in which she is active. As a part of their event in late January they will have a silent auction. Is there any chance of an autographed photo of the President or some Presidential trinket that can be acquired for them?
I know there are legal and policy issues surrounding the use of the President's image and signature, but raising funds for faith-based charities would seem to be a good exception to make. I have included a description of the organization below.

Maryhurst is a Non Profit organization based in Louisville that takes in wayward girls and boys and gets them through to their 18th birthday - adoption, but more frequently house and supervised on site care is the solution - its a pay me now or pay me later proposition for contributors/taxpayers.

Maryhurst was established about 50 years ago and has a number of success stories - originally started by nuns, its progressed into a non denominational organization that still embraces some Catholic tenets...its a great organization.

Thanks, as always, for your assistance.

Charlie Grizzle

Thank you for speaking with me this morning, I hope that we can work this out. If Mr. Mehlman would be willing and available at 2:00pm this Friday the 30th that's when I can get the bulk of people together.

The attendees would include:

John Danielson, Chief of Staff, DoED (Political SES)
Danner Bethel, Deputy Chief of Staff (Schedule C)
Carol D'Amico, A/S for Vocational and Adult Education (PAS)
Susan Neuman, A/S for Elementary and Secondary Education (PAS)
Russ Whitehurst, A/S for Educational Research and Improvement (PAS)
 Has an all-day meeting but will try to slip away for this meeting.
Bob Pasternack, A/S for Special Education and Rehabilitative Services (PAS)
 May not be able to attend but would send his Deputy, Loretta Petty (Political SES)
Sally Stroup, A/S, Postsecondary Education (PAS)
Gene Hickok, Under Secretary, DoED (PAS)

Please let me know if you need any further information from me. Thanks for your help.

The group listed below includes people other than PASers and White House staffers. Because of that and because the event will be held in a government building, Ken's briefing must avoid outright electioneering -- for example, appeals for the attendees to become involved in campaign or party activity. If Ken wants to get into that kind of discussion, we should either exclude people other than the PASers or hold the meeting in a non-government building. Assuming that he does not want to change the attendees or location, I should review the script/talking points ahead of time to make sure it does not cross that line and to approve in advance. Thanks.

Testimony
of
R. Glenn Hubbard
Chairman, Council of Economic Advisers

before the
Joint Economic Committee, U.S. Congress

November 28, 2001
10:00 A.M.

Chairman Saxton, Vice-Chairman Reed, and members of the Committee, it is a pleasure to appear before you today to discuss the economic outlook for the United States.

The Near-Term Economic Outlook

Let me begin by briefly reviewing the present state of the economy and its near-term prospects. In doing so, it is useful to organize thinking around supply conditions – the capacity of the economy to produce goods and services – and demand conditions – the ability and willingness of households, firms, and governments to purchase these services and products.

The events of September 11 had dramatic human and economic implications. As is now apparent, the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon resulted in loss of life, physical damages, damage to the financial sector, and interruption of commercial aviation that temporarily restricted the economy's ability to supply goods and services in the short run. These "supply shock" consequences of the attacks substantially reduced the growth rate of GDP during the third quarter and will adversely affect economic growth in the current quarter.

confidence-building package the President outlined would raise long-term interest rates by only three to five basis points. A well-constructed fiscal stimulus will affect the out-year budget by only a fraction of this amount, and will have trivial effects on long-term interest rates.

This is not surprising. Bond market participants recognize that the modest tax cuts under discussion are small in the context of the global capital market. More importantly, the markets have absorbed more quickly than some observers the lesson that a strong economy is the source of Federal surpluses and not the reverse. Policies that insure against sub-par growth will also insure against sustained reductions in Federal surpluses.

The principal threat to long-term discipline is the other approach featured in the public debate – spending. Japan is the best example of trying to spend one's way to faster growth. It has not worked and will not work. Many such proposals are disguised special interest subsidies and pork-barrel public works proposals.

At the center of the debate, however, have been proposals to expand the scope of social insurance. The President recognized early on that there would be a need to address these aspects of the repercussions of the terrorist attacks. The Administration has proposed tax relief for lower-income families, and extension of Unemployment Insurance (UI) benefits in those areas experiencing a marked increase in unemployment, and flexible National Emergency Grants to provide funds for health insurance and other needs. These approaches are timely and flexible.

An alternative is broad-based expansion of social insurance programs. This alternative does not, however, fit the perspective of growth insurance. It will not stimulate demand in a the very near-term nor provide supply side incentives. It is not timely, and does not address the underlying problem of job creation, and in some cases would serve to raise – not lower – unemployment.

Some proposals would impose substantial additional costs on businesses and states for hiring new workers – working against job creation and adding fiscal burdens for states. In the past, UI has reflected federalism principles: states determine benefits and payroll tax rates. The proposals endorsed by the Senate Finance Committee contain an unprecedented Federal mandate for large benefit increases and expansions of coverage requirements for all states. The annual cost of the expansion in benefits exceeds $8 billion per year – equivalent to a UI payroll tax increase of around one percentage point. Put differently, over $8 billion annually in states' revenues would be forced into a new Federal mandate.

In addition to raising the costs of doing business, these proposals would almost certainly increase the unemployment rate. Research suggests that raising benefits by 15 percent will increase the likelihood that an individual "takes-up" unemployment insurance benefits by 7 percentage points and extend the duration of unemployment by about one-half a week. If one were to also extend benefits for 13 more weeks, there is an additional effect of extending unemployment by another week. Collecting the effects of increased participation and longer duration of unemployment suggests the overall effect would be to raise the unemployment rate from 5.4 percent to 5.7 percent. This ignores the effects of any additional subsidies for health insurance benefits, which would add to these effects.

At the same time, increases in UI benefits will distort firms' decisions. A large part of unemployment is temporary layoffs – regular seasonal changes in work. Two-thirds of UI recipients expect to be recalled, and one-half return to the same employer. More generous and longer benefits undercut the need for careful planning to avoid unnecessary layoffs.

The Administration's approach is both more timely – the President's proposals can be implemented quickly because they rely on existing mechanisms and permit states to target

Federal funds effectively -- and does not impose new taxes on employers or new costs on states. It is a better approach to handling the needs of displaced workers.

The public policy response to the terrorist attacks rightfully includes a carefully constructed set of measures designed to address risks of prolonged and adverse shocks to business and household confidence. Again, these risks are most effectively addressed using the private sector; tax cuts crowd-in the private sector by supporting its job creation, providing support to demand, enhancing supply-side incentives, and doing these things in a timely fashion. Spending-oriented alternatives are both less timely and fail to exploit the creativity, flexibility, and innovation of the private sector.

Terrorism Risk Insurance

The terrorist attacks indicated that the probability of catastrophic property and casualty losses was higher than anticipated. In the short run, insurers face difficulties in responding; in particular, the current difficulty of evaluating the probability of more events or handling catastrophically large events has made the reinsurance industry reluctant to cover terrorist events. For example, Keith Buckley, an insurance analyst with Fitch Ratings Company, states that it is "the universally stated plan of reinsurance companies to add specific terrorism exclusions to reinsurance coverage." Without reinsurance, primary insurers will be forced to exclude terrorism coverage, charge very high premiums, or withdraw from the market entirely.

The loss of property and casualty insurance against terrorist acts eliminates a mechanism by which the economy can respond efficiently to such contingencies. In general, insurance spreads risks, converting for each business a potential cost of unknowable size and timing into a set of smaller, known premium payments. In normal circumstances, increased risks are translated into higher premiums. This serves the useful economic function of pricing risk, leading the private sector toward those activities where the risk is "worth it" – there might be losses now and then, but on average society will benefit – and away from foolhardy gambles.

For insurance markets, unfortunately, the distinction between risk – not knowing when an event will happen, but having solid knowledge of the odds of an occurrence – and genuine uncertainty about the frequency of an insured event is the key to being able to price efficiently. Only experience with our new security environment will allow businesses to appropriately price the contingencies that businesses now face.

An interruption of coverage is another, and extreme, version of an increase in transactions costs as a result of terrorist-associated risks. If existing lines of coverage are renewed, it will quite likely involve substantial increases in premiums.

A withdrawal of insurance coverage would cause large costs as well. Lenders usually require businesses to insure any property they use to secure loans. The terms of terrorism coverage could diminish bank lending for new construction projects. It could as well act as a sharp impediment to transactions that permit existing commercial properties – skyscrapers, pipelines, power plants, and so forth – to change hands. It is important to point out that this "changing hands" is an important economic function. The relative efficiency with which our economy reallocates capital from less productive to more productive uses sets it apart from the economies of many other nations.

Without adequate insurance, it will be difficult to develop, operate, acquire, refinance, or sell property. Now, it may be the case that lenders accept alternative terms for their financing, but this just disguises the problem. Instead of risk being borne efficiently by the insurance industry, it will be shifted to the banking sector.

In either event, the absence of insurance coverage for terrorism risks will likely raise the difficulty of financing existing commercial structures and deter the construction of new projects. The result could look like a "credit crunch." A rough estimate is an overall reduction in 2002 GDP of 0.3 percentage point if the problem is not solved, with most of the loss early in 2002. This reduced growth rate of GDP would likely be equal to 0.8 percentage point in the first quarter of 2002, 0.7 percentage point in the second quarter of 2002, and lower thereafter. The decline is caused by a reduction in asset values that reduces the consumption purchases of the household sector. In addition, lower valuations reduce the incentive to invest in new structures. The overall liquidity effects also reduce the path for investment in non-residential structures.

The appropriate policy response in this environment is to encourage private market incentives to expand its capacity to absorb and diversify risk. Thus we should seek an approach that recedes as the private market becomes capable of insuring losses on its own, provides customers and firms with appropriate incentives to minimize the expected costs of such an event, and reduces uncertainty about liabilities that arise from the events.

Congress and the Administration have each developed proposals in recent weeks which I hope will soon provide a catastrophic backstop for the private sector that retains market incentives. One part of these efforts has not been well understood, however. The Administration has proposed sensible litigation procedures for mass tort terrorism cases. Specifically the proposals would: (1) consolidate terrorism cases in single Federal court, (2) preserve the pool of defendant resources and provide for equitable plaintiff recovery by eliminating punitive damage awards, (3) prevent unfair and unnecessary bankruptcies caused by joint and several liability for non-economic damages, and (4) maintain the pool of defendant resources for equitable plaintiff recovery by preventing double recovery by some plaintiffs.

These proposals should not be confused with or made part of the debate over general tort reform. In fact, there should not be – and in the past has not been – political or philosophical disagreement about the need for alternative litigation procedures in mass tort cases. In fact, the Administration's litigation proposals would apply only in a modest sub-category of mass tort cases, namely, mass tort terrorism cases.

These litigation procedures will help reduce the substantial uncertainty faced by the insurance industry in pricing terrorism risk. A significant component of the terrorism risk to insurers is likely to be the liability component of property and casualty insurance. The Administration's proposed litigation procedures will help to manage that risk and crowd in the private market. Absent these procedures, the resources of liable defendants, including resources from their liability insurance policies, will not suffice to compensate the class of successful plaintiff-victims in mass tort terrorism incidents. For that reason, mass torts often are resolved through bankruptcy (where plaintiffs rarely receive full compensation) or settlement (again, where plaintiffs rarely receive full compensation). Put differently, the procedures will preserve the assets in order that successful plaintiffs are compensated fairly and equitably.

The Longer-Term Outlook

Turning toward the longer-term outlook, a few issues arise. The first, and most important, is that the long-term fundamentals of the U.S. economy remain sound. Even during the recent slowdown productivity growth remains strong. Productivity grew at an annual rate of 2.7 percent in the third quarter and averaged 2.5 percent since 1995. The growth in productivity is one of the most important factors determining our long run prosperity, which determines our ability to meet both public and private goals.

Second, over the longer term, one of those objectives will be to address the generalized need for greater security and to "harden" the U.S. economy against the threat of terrorism. In doing so, it is important to so in a way that minimizes its impact on underlying productivity growth. To date, the impact of meeting these needs appears likely to have a modest impact on productivity growth. Our estimate is that doubling private security spending would lower productivity by 0.5 percentage point over the next several years; a modest impact on productivity growth.

Now, it may be the case that the Nation determines that adequately addressing these needs requires devoting more resources. If so, one possible manifestation would be a genuine need for enhanced outlays for security in the Federal budget. If so, it is sensible to re-prioritize – not just augment – budget resources to address these needs. As with other aspects of addressing terrorism risks, we should not forget the historical lesson that private markets are resilient, efficient, and flexible in meeting new challenges. We should seek as our objective new standards for the security – and perhaps augment Federal resources – but should be wary of dictating how to achieve our objectives. Instead, we need to work to identify the range of risks and the appropriate level of security to require of the private sector. Having done so, it is in our national interest to be both vigilant in ensuring that these standards are met, but flexible in allowing the private sector to do so in an efficient fashion.

Another possibility would be an attempt to hide the costs of addressing terrorism risk by keeping expenditures off public sector budgets, instead mandating security measures in a heavy handed way. One of the success stories of the past thirty years has been the productivity growth derived from deregulation. We should be wary of losing these benefits via excessive new and burdensome regulation, even in the name of enhanced security, as there are more efficient approaches to the same problems.

To conclude, the U.S. economy is very resilient and, with prudent investments in enhancing the private sector's ability to address the risks of terrorism, we have every reason to expect a timely recovery of economic growth and a continuation of our economy's long-term progress.

Thank you again, Mr. Chairman, for the opportunity to appear before you today. I am happy to answer your questions.

Of course, there are potentially more durable effects as well. The economic aftermath includes shocks to household and business confidence, and increased uncertainty regarding the economic environment. The effects on confidence and uncertainty give rise to a number of additional supply-side costs of transacting business deriving from enhanced security and more costly insurance which reduce output growth.

On the demand side, the attacks and their potential repercussions lowered household and business confidence about the future, and along with it household and business willingness to spend and invest. Prior to the attacks, a focus of policy was to ensure a continued flow of resources – incomes and cash flow – to households and businesses to provide a base for sustained growth in aggregate demand. If confidence effects are substantial, the attacks must necessarily shift our focus somewhat – away from simply providing temporary funds to households, for example, and toward buttressing the confidence of households to make purchases out of those dollars.

What is the outlook in this regard? The most recent Blue Chip consensus estimates of GDP growth indicate a rebound in 2002, with growth at an annual rate of 0.5 percent and 2.6 percent, respectively, in the first two quarters of 2002, and 3.9 percent in the second half of 2002. Even with this recovery, the unemployment rate is likely to rise through 2002. Underlying this outlook is an implicit current decline in confidence that rebounds early next year.

Much recent attention has focused on the possibility that the United States has entered a recession, a debate that has ended with the announcement on November 26 by the National Bureau of Economic Research that the economy reached its cyclical peak in March of this year. To my mind this announcement is less important than looking forward and anticipating the path for economic policy best able to facilitate the economy's return to potential growth.

How would such a recovery take place? The key factors are growth of gross private domestic investment – especially business investment in equipment and software – and the strength of growth of personal consumption expenditures. The latter constituted 69 percent of aggregate purchases in the third quarter, while the former accounted for another 17 percent. In the third quarter, consumption grew at an annual rate of 1.2 percent and contributed 0.8 percentage point to GDP growth. In contrast, investment declined at an annual rate of 10.7 percent and contributed a decline of 1.8 percentage points to overall GDP growth.

Without changing any other aspect of economic performance – that is, holding growth in other components of aggregate demand at their third quarter values – simply having investment decline at a slower rate of 5 percent would yield a growth rate of GDP that was nearly a full percentage point higher.

This computation illustrates the mechanics of economic recovery. First, one can imagine a slowing rate of decline in investment spending; perhaps simply a growth rate of zero. With this – and, again, holding other growth factors in demand unchanged – GDP growth would reach 1.4 percent.

Second, raising consumption growth from its recent pace of 1.2 percent to the 3.0 percent that prevailed from the second quarter of 2000 to the third quarter of 2001 would yield GDP growth of 2.8 percent. Finally, a resumption of growth in consumption (4.2 percent) and investment (7.7 percent) at the rates averaged from 1995 through 2000 would yield robust growth of 5.0 percent.

Again, I stress, these are the mechanics of recovery. It is not appropriate to imagine that the future path of state and local government expenditures, federal purchases, and net exports will be the same as in the third quarter. However, this illustrative calculation places attention on the two key aspects of resuming rapid economic growth.

It is not necessary to have an immediate, robust rebound to positive growth in investment in order to have more rapid growth. Simply slowing the decline, or even stopping it, would contribute greatly. The substantial monetary easing since January will contribute greatly in this regard.

Recently, however, the notion that investment will not display even this modest improvement because businesses are burdened with significant excess capital – a "capital overhang" – has gained popularity. This seems unduly pessimistic. While there may be narrow sectors of the economy for which this characterization rings true – as, for example, in the telecommunication infrastructure sector – as a general matter any capital overhang is likely to have been eliminated by the weak investment performance in 2001.

Capital overhang represents the difference between the actual and desired amounts of capital in the form of equipment or structures. Because slower expected output growth lowers the amount of investment necessary to maintain the same capital stock relative to the output it produces, a slowdown in expected economic growth can lower the capital stock firms want to hold, generating a potential overhang and reducing investment. For example, if a near-term slowdown reduced the expected average growth rate from 3.5 percent to 3.0 percent, gross investment would fall $30 billion in the first year in which the slowdown became apparent. This decline in investment might generate a capital overhang, as the capital stock might be greater for a time than the capital stock firms want to employ.

To be more specific, suppose that rapid economic growth in the late 1990s implied that firms had no excess capital in 1999, but that slower economic growth caused the growth rate of the desired capital stock to fall from 4 percent to 3 percent in 2000. Any resulting overhang would almost certainly have been eliminated in 2001. Why? The capital stock in 2000 grew at a 4.2 percent rate instead of a 3 percent rate. In this example, this result is a $120 billion overhang. Given the pace of events thus far, the capital stock will grow by about 0.5 percent in 2001 – well below the 4 percent pace of recent years. The $130 billion decline in investment eliminates the overhang that may have developed.

While thinking about capital overhang, it is worth noting that this is different from the conventional notion of unused capacity. During the sluggish growth in 2001, capacity utilization rates have fallen, but this does not imply a capital overhang. First, capacity utilization data focus solely on manufacturing and are not representative of the entire economy. Moreover, business capital purchases take time to plan, order, and put in place. For this reason, businesses look beyond current conditions – focusing on sales, cost of capital, and cash flow in the future – to plan investments. In a growth slowdown, the capital stock firms want to hold may continue to rise even though current capacity is not being strained.

To summarize, the basic path of economic recovery incorporates more rapid growth in consumption and a slowing in the decline in investment in the next few quarters. Thereafter, a recovery of positive investment growth would coincide with growth at or above potential.

This baseline forecast corresponds roughly to the consensus of private forecasters. However, it is associated with considerable uncertainty. To see this, consider the range of estimates that underlies the most recent available Blue Chip forecasts. The range reflects a divergence of views about both the depth of the initial decline in confidence and the persistence of that decline. For example, for the fourth quarter, the range between the average of the top ten estimates and bottom ten estimates is from a low of –0.1 percent to a high of –3.3 percent for the fourth quarter of 2001. For the first quarter of 2002, the same gap is from 2.9 percent to –1.7 percent, and 4.3 percent to 0.6 percent in the second quarter of 2002. The gap is from 2.6 percent to –0.1 percent for growth during 2002 as a whole. This range suggests the need to think seriously about downside risks and policies that address the source of the economy's vulnerability in the quarters ahead – vulnerability especially to slower growth of consumption and a less rapid slowing of the decline in investment.

Public Policies to Promote Economic Security

A key impact of the terrorist attacks has been to introduce new risks into the economic environment. One of the policy challenges is to develop policies that address these risks, but utilize the strengths of the private sector in doing so.

Growth Insurance

This perspective informs the Administration's efforts regarding economic growth insurance, or "stimulus." In the current setting, it is important to focus on the potential for downside risks, and develop policies as insurance against a slower and/or more sluggish upturn in economic growth than currently expected – that is to guard against a sustained downturn in business and household confidence or another adverse event.

Insurance, of course, has to be purchased in advance to have any value. Thus the first implication of this view is that we should move now to put into place the correct package of measures. In response to the President's leadership, the House of Representatives acted quickly to pass its stimulus legislation. It is time for the Senate to follow suit.

There has clearly been substantial debate of what should be included in a stimulus package. The growth insurance perspective provides considerable guidance. First, it should be pro-growth – it should enhance long-run incentives to work, invest, take risks, and expand our productive capacity.

Of course, it should also be cognizant of short-term needs. The President recognized this early on, incorporating tax relief for low-income families and targeted extensions of assistance for displaced workers. This addresses their needs and provides some demand-side insurance for businesses. As a general matter, though, throwing money at the problem does not buy meaningful growth insurance.

Over the past year, the household sector has sustained economic growth in the face of weak business investment. More recently, there is evidence that consumer spending has begun to soften somewhat. Because personal consumption spending is over two-thirds of aggregate purchases, negative growth in consumption is an important downside risk – declines in consumption would be at the heart of any severe contraction.

However, in part due to the tax cut proposed by the President and passed by Congress last spring, disposable income has held up quite well through the third quarter. Instead, the slowdown in household spending tracks the decline in consumer confidence. Consumer confidence is the issue.

How can public policy address confidence? One part of this response is attention to security and progress against terrorism. On the economic front, surveys of consumer sentiment indicate that individuals are less optimistic in the face of job losses and the prospect of future softening in the labor market. To address confidence, we need to focus on job creation.

One key to this is small businesses, traditionally a source of new jobs in the economy. The best policy for small businesses and entrepreneurs is to reduce their marginal tax rates. For this reason, the President wisely focused on moving forward the marginal tax rate cuts that were passed by Congress in the spring. Lower marginal tax rates both improve incentives and augment the cash flow of small businesses. Research shows that through these channels entrepreneurs will expand their payrolls and increase their investments. For example, research by Harvey Rosen at Princeton University indicates that cutting the top marginal tax rate from 39.6 percent to 35 percent raises the fraction of high-income small businesses that undertake a capital expansion by 8.7 percent, and raises the average size of the capital outlays by 8.3 percent.

Looking at the employment side, the studies show that lowering the top marginal tax rate raises the fraction of high-income small businesses whose prospects are good enough to afford to hire outside help by 8.4 percent and permits payroll growth of 2.8 percent, taking the form of both higher wages and more workers.

The second key is to help businesses overcome the current uncertainty and restart investment spending. At the aggregate level, the resumption of rapid economic growth requires resumption in the growth of capital expenditures. Employment losses have been concentrated in the manufacturing sector – a sector heavily dependent on the health of business investment. For this reason, the Administration has focused on investment incentives – partial expensing – and corporate cash flow – eliminating the corporation Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT), which raises effective tax rates on business in downturns. These growth incentives target the source of the problem, diminished private sector job creation that is associated with the decline in consumer confidence.

Some critics have suggested that investment incentives will not work because of a capital overhang. To the contrary, there is good reason for one to expect the Administration's economic stimulus proposals to be effective in the current setting. Investment incentives – partial expensing – lower the expected cost of capital, raising the amount of capital that firms want to hold. Elimination of the AMT raises firms' expected cash flow, again lifting the amount of capital that firms wish to have put in place. In the absence of a capital overhang, these incentives translate into an impetus for more investment. Investment incentives work through expected reductions in the future cost of capital and increases in corporate cash flow. The longer the investment incentives are in place, the greater the stimulus to investment.

To summarize, the Administration's approach is a growth insurance package that contains both demand-side support for purchases and incentives to expand investment and jobs. We expect that timely adoption would raise GDP growth by 0.5 percent in 2002 and help the private sector to create an additional 300,000 jobs.

Because the focus is on delivering incentives and support via the tax system, it can be put into place quite quickly. Because it contains supply-side incentives, it is not heavily dependent on precise timing and fiscal fine-tuning. Also because it is focused on using the private sector – crowding in private activity instead of crowding out – it will not harm the long-term outlook.

The notion of "crowding out" has surfaced in another aspect of the debate over the macroeconomic response to the terrorist attacks – effects of policy responses on interest rates. The right policy at the right time will not cause long-term interest rates to rise. Recent research by Douglas Elmendorf of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System and N. Gregory Mankiw of Harvard University indicates that reduced surpluses for the sort of modest

The Honorable Michael G. Oxley
Chairman
Committee on Financial Services
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Mr. Chairman:

This responds to your request for the views of the Department of Justice on section 15 ("Litigation Management") of H.R. 3210, the "Terrorism Risk Protection Act." (November 13, 2001 Draft). The Department of Justice believes that it is essential that any federal program designed to better manage terrorism-related insurance risk include reasonable procedures for terrorism-related litigation. We therefore strongly support the inclusion of such procedures in this legislation. ~~supports section 15 of this legislation.~~

Section 15 would, among other things, ~~authorize~~ consolidate ~~d and coordinated~~ proceedings in Federal court for claims related to acts of terrorism. ~~In such instances, substantive State law to be applied would be determined, jurisdiction would be assigned by the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation to an appropriate district court or courts, and damages would be regulated. Damage regulation provisions include~~ eliminate~~ion of~~ punitive damages, and provide for several (proportional) liability for non-economic damages. ~~, damage reduction for other compensation received, and limiting attorneys fees to 20 percent of the amount to be paid as a result of a settlement or judgment~~.

———We strongly support each of the provisions and wish to provide additional comments on the damage limitations -- particularly on punitive damages and non-economic damages -- to underscore our support for the provisions.

Punitive Damages. Under section 15(4)(A) punitive damages are barred, along with interest prior to judgment. It is appropriate and necessary to bar punitive damages in recognition of the fact that a terrorist would, by hypothesis, be far more responsible than any other party for damages caused from a terrorist attack. Ordinary tort liability theories would pale in comparison to terrorist action. As punitive damages awards for injuries caused by terrorist acts might well not be insurable to a considerable extent, and since punitive damages are damages that are related to culpability, rather than compensation, they should have no place in litigation relating to terrorist acts -- except against the terrorists. Moreover, where a terrorist act results in widespread harm on a scale akin to a traditional mass tort, only a limited pool of resources will be available to plaintiffs to prove liability. It would be inequitable to allow one plaintiff or a class of plaintiffs to rush to state court, receive an excess amount of these limited resources, including a punitive component unrelated to the plaintiff's injuries, and thereby ~~that could~~ limit or preclude recovery by other plaintiffs. There is little risk that a truly culpable defendant will go unpunished. The Department of Justice is committed to appropriately enforcing the law against any defendant who has ~~Further, a defendant~~ acted unlawfully and has facilitated a terrorist attack. ~~in a mass tort action arising from terrorist attack who engaged in the kind of wrongdoing that is~~ ~~traditionally addressed through punitive damages will very likely be subject to State and Federal~~ criminal and administrative sanctions.

Non-Economic Damages. Non-economic damages are limited to the "direct proportion" of the responsibility of the defendant for the harm. This limitation is intended merely to recognize the evident fact that the full responsibility for injuries that terrorists cause should not be shifted entirely to non-terrorists who may bear only a small fraction of the ~~partial~~ responsibility. Rather than shift the entire responsibility to the non-terrorist defendant who may bear only a part, possibly a very small part, of the responsibility for causing the harm, such a defendant would be liable only to the extent it breached a duty owed to the plaintiff. The proposed language is modest in that it does not eliminate non-economic damages; nor does it impose proportional fault for economic damages. In order to ensure that injured persons recover their economic losses, section 15(4)(B)(I) limits the several liability rule to non-economic damages, thereby insuring that economic damages can be recovered from a defendant who is at fault to any extent, however minor or fractional compared to terrorist fault. Moreover, limitations on joint and several liability are not uncommon; many States have enacted similar restrictions and some ~~a majority of States have enacted some form of proportional liability, and some States~~ have adopted this approach even for economic damages – a more restrictive formula than is contemplated by the proposed legislation.

Thank you for the opportunity to express our views on this matter. If we may be of additional assistance, we trust that you will not hesitate to call upon us. The Office of Management and Budget has advised that there is no objection from the standpoint of the Administration's program to the presentation of this report.

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Bryant
Assistant Attorney General

I talked to Jim from Pataki's office. He acknowledges (admits) that the second sentence is an expansion of liability protections fm what was passed previously. If this expansion is problematic they may prefer to excise it rather than lose ground on getting the original protections. In his remarks to the Farmers Journal convention today, the President again called for Trade Promotion Authority.

ATT CREATION TIME/DATE: 0 00:00:00.00
File attachment <F_FMWB4003_NSC.TXT_1>

The President on Trade Promotion Authority

"I'm also ready to sign trade promotion authority, to open up markets for American industry and American farmers. This authority sends an unmistakable signal to our trading partners that the Congress and the administration are united on trade. The House will soon vote on trade promotion authority. I hope you'll join me in pressing for its passage and, in the process, helping to restore U.S. leadership in support of free trade.

"U.S. leadership matters. We recently helped bring China into the World Trade Organization, and that is good for American farmers. It is in our interests, in our agricultural interests to help feed China. We helped start a new world trade round in Doha. Our negotiators came back from Doha with excellent news for American farmers. American farmers too often lose markets or suffer low prices because of unfair export subsidies. The Doha Declaration calls for reducing export subsidies and, ultimately, phasing them out.

"For too long, the agricultural market has been rigged against farmers who play fair. Doha shows the way toward a more level playing field. That's good news for the world's hungry; it's good news for the world's most productive food producers -- the American farmers.

"We've got a good stimulus bill, a sound energy plan and it's important to have a good farm bill, too. A good farm bill should keep the safety net under our food producers, without misleading our farmers into overproducing crops that are already in over-supply by increasing loan rates. A good farm bill should help farmers help themselves with farm savings accounts. These accounts would help farmers set aside money in good years to sustain them in hard times. A good farm bill should promote responsible stewardship of America's farms and ranchers by promoting conservation on working lands. A good farm bill should honor our trade obligations, as we expect our competitors to honor their obligations. And a good farm bill should be generous, but affordable. It should honor the budget limits that Congress has agreed to live by.

"You know, we've learned a lot about our country since September the 11th. We've learned that our people are strong, that our military is very good at what it does, and that our country's heart has never been more generous and good. And we have much to mourn and much to rebuild, but much to be grateful for."

The Honorable Michael G. Oxley
Chairman
Committee on Financial Services
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Mr. Chairman:

This responds to your request for the views of the Department of Justice on section 15 ("Litigation Management") of H.R. 3210, the "Terrorism Risk Protection Act." (November 13, 2001 Draft). The Department of Justice believes that it is essential that any federal program designed to better manage terrorism-related insurance risk include reasonable procedures for terrorism-related litigation. We therefore strongly support the inclusion of such procedures in this legislation. ~~supports section 15 of this legislation~~.

Section 15 would, among other things, ~~authorize~~ consolidate ~~d and coordinated~~ proceedings in Federal court for claims related to acts of terrorism. ~~In such instances, substantive State law to be applied would be determined, jurisdiction would be assigned by the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation to an appropriate district court or courts, and damages would be regulated. Damage regulation provisions include~~ eliminate~~ion of~~ punitive damages, and provide for several (proportional) liability for non-economic damages. ~~, damage reduction for other compensation received, and limiting attorneys fees to 20 percent of the amount to be paid as a result of a settlement or judgment~~.

———We strongly support each of the provisions and wish to provide additional comments on the damage limitations -- particularly on punitive damages and non-economic damages -- to underscore our support for the provisions.

Punitive Damages. Under section 15(4)(A) punitive damages are barred, along with interest prior to judgment. It is appropriate and necessary to bar punitive damages in recognition of the fact that a terrorist would, by hypothesis, be far more responsible than any other party for damages caused from a terrorist attack. Ordinary tort liability theories would pale in comparison to terrorist action. As punitive damages awards for injuries caused by terrorist acts might well not be insurable to a considerable extent, and since punitive damages are damages that are related to culpability, rather than compensation, they should have no place in litigation relating to terrorist acts -- except against the terrorists. Moreover, where a terrorist act results in widespread harm on a scale akin to a traditional mass tort, only a limited pool of resources will be available to plaintiffs to prove liability. It would be inequitable to allow one plaintiff or a class of plaintiffs to rush to state court, receive an excess amount of these limited resources, including a punitive component unrelated to the plaintiff's injuries, and thereby ~~that could~~ limit or preclude recovery by other plaintiffs. There is little danger that a truly culpable defendant will go unpunished. The Department of Justice is committed to ensuring that any ~~Further, a~~ defendant who has acted unlawfully and has facilitated a terrorist attack is subject to available ~~in a mass tort action arising from terrorist attack who engaged in the kind of wrongdoing that is~~ ~~traditionally addressed through punitive damages will very likely be subject to State and Federal~~ criminal and administrative sanctions.

Non-Economic Damages. Non-economic damages are limited to the "direct proportion" of the responsibility of the defendant for the harm. This limitation is intended merely to recognize the evident fact that the full responsibility for injuries that terrorists cause should not be shifted entirely to non-terrorists who may bear only a small fraction of the ~~partial~~ responsibility. Rather than shift the entire responsibility to the non-terrorist defendant who may bear only a part, possibly a very small part, of the responsibility for causing the harm, such a defendant would be liable only to the extent it breached a duty owed to the plaintiff. The proposed language is modest in that it does not eliminate non-economic damages; nor does it impose proportional fault for economic damages. In order to ensure that injured persons recover their economic losses, section 15(4)(B)(I) limits the several liability rule to non-economic damages, thereby insuring that economic damages can be recovered from a defendant who is at fault to any extent, however minor or fractional compared to terrorist fault. Moreover, limitations on joint and several liability are not uncommon; many States have enacted similar restrictions and some ~~a majority of States have enacted some form of proportional liability, and some States~~ have adopted this approach even for economic damages – a more restrictive formula than is contemplated by the proposed legislation.

Thank you for the opportunity to express our views on this matter. If we may be of additional assistance, we trust that you will not hesitate to call upon us. The Office of Management and Budget has advised that there is no objection from the standpoint of the Administration's program to the presentation of this report.

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Bryant
Assistant Attorney General

think it may be a little too strong to pre-commit DOJ to enforcement actions in last sentence of third paragraph; how about "appropriately enforcing the law against any defendant who has . . ." and then delete from "is subject" to the end of that sentence.
also a nit: there are extra periods at end of 1st paragraph and 1st sentence of 2nd paragraph

The President on Trade Promotion Authority

"I'm also ready to sign trade promotion authority, to open up markets for American industry and American farmers. This authority sends an unmistakable signal to our trading partners that the Congress and the administration are united on trade. The House will soon vote on trade promotion authority. I hope you'll join me in pressing for its passage and, in the process, helping to restore U.S. leadership in support of free trade.

"U.S. leadership matters. We recently helped bring China into the World Trade Organization, and that is good for American farmers. It is in our interests, in our agricultural interests to help feed China. We helped start a new world trade round in Doha. Our negotiators came back from Doha with excellent news for American farmers. American farmers too often lose markets or suffer low prices because of unfair export subsidies. The Doha Declaration calls for reducing export subsidies and, ultimately, phasing them out.

"For too long, the agricultural market has been rigged against farmers who play fair. Doha shows the way toward a more level playing field. That's good news for the world's hungry; it's good news for the world's most productive food producers -- the American farmers.

"We've got a good stimulus bill, a sound energy plan and it's important to have a good farm bill, too. A good farm bill should keep the safety net under our food producers, without misleading our farmers into overproducing crops that are already in over-supply by increasing loan rates. A good farm bill should help farmers help themselves with farm savings accounts. These accounts would help farmers set aside money in good years to sustain them in hard times. A good farm bill should promote responsible stewardship of America's farms and ranchers by promoting conservation on working lands. A good farm bill should honor our trade obligations, as we expect our competitors to honor their obligations. And a good farm bill should be generous, but affordable. It should honor the budget limits that Congress has agreed to live by.

"You know, we've learned a lot about our country since September the 11th. We've learned that our people are strong, that our military is very good at what it does, and that our country's heart has never been more generous and good. And we have much to mourn and much to rebuild, but much to be grateful for."

President George W. Bush

"I'm also ready to sign trade promotion authority, to open up markets for American industry and American farmers. This authority sends an unmistakable signal to our trading partners that the Congress and the administration are united on trade. The House will soon vote on trade promotion authority. I hope you'll join me in pressing for its passage and, in the process, helping to restore U.S. leadership in support of free trade.

"U.S. leadership matters. We recently helped bring China into the World Trade Organization, and that is good for American farmers. It is in our interests, in our agricultural interests to help feed China. We helped start a new world trade round in Doha. Our negotiators came back from Doha with excellent news for American farmers. American farmers too often lose markets or suffer low prices because of unfair export subsidies. The Doha Declaration calls for reducing export subsidies and, ultimately, phasing them out.

"For too long, the agricultural market has been rigged against farmers who play fair. Doha shows the way toward a more level playing field. That's good news for the world's hungry; it's good news for the world's most productive food producers -- the American farmers.

"We've got a good stimulus bill, a sound energy plan and it's important to have a good farm bill, too. A good farm bill should keep the safety net under our food producers, without misleading our farmers into overproducing crops that are already in over-supply by increasing loan rates. A good farm bill should help farmers help themselves with farm savings accounts. These accounts would help farmers set aside money in good years to sustain them in hard times. A good farm bill should promote responsible stewardship of America's farms and ranchers by promoting conservation on working lands. A good farm bill should honor our trade obligations, as we expect our competitors to honor their obligations. And a good farm bill should be generous, but affordable. It should honor the budget limits that Congress has agreed to live by.

"You know, we've learned a lot about our country since September the 11th. We've learned that our people are strong, that our military is very good at what it does, and that our country's heart has never been more generous and good. And we have much to mourn and much to rebuild, but much to be grateful for."

President George W. Bush

In his remarks to the Farmers Journal convention today, the President again called for Trade Promotion Authority.

The President on Trade Promotion Authority

"I'm also ready to sign trade promotion authority, to open up markets for American industry and American farmers. This authority sends an unmistakable signal to our trading partners that the Congress and the administration are united on trade. The House will soon vote on trade promotion authority. I hope you'll join me in pressing for its passage and, in the process, helping to restore U.S. leadership in support of free trade.

"U.S. leadership matters. We recently helped bring China into the World Trade Organization, and that is good for American farmers. It is in our interests, in our agricultural interests to help feed China. We helped start a new world trade round in Doha. Our negotiators came back from Doha with excellent news for American farmers. American farmers too often lose markets or suffer low prices because of unfair export subsidies. The Doha Declaration calls for reducing export subsidies and, ultimately, phasing them out.

"For too long, the agricultural market has been rigged against farmers who play fair. Doha shows the way toward a more level playing field. That's good news for the world's hungry; it's good news for the world's most productive food producers -- the American farmers.

"We've got a good stimulus bill, a sound energy plan and it's important to have a good farm bill, too. A good farm bill should keep the safety net under our food producers, without misleading our farmers into overproducing crops that are already in over-supply by increasing loan rates. A good farm bill should help farmers help themselves with farm savings accounts. These accounts would help farmers set aside money in good years to sustain them in hard times. A good farm bill should promote responsible stewardship of America's farms and ranchers by promoting conservation on working lands. A good farm bill should honor our trade obligations, as we expect our competitors to honor their obligations. And a good farm bill should be generous, but affordable. It should honor the budget limits that Congress has agreed to live by.

"You know, we've learned a lot about our country since September the 11th. We've learned that our people are strong, that our military is very good at what it does, and that our country's heart has never been more generous and good. And we have much to mourn and much to rebuild, but much to be grateful for."

DRAFT

MEMORANDUM FOR ALL EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT STAFF

FROM: ALBERTO R. GONZALES

SUBJECT: Testimony of White House Officials Before Congressional Committees

This Administration will adhere to the long-standing policy of Presidents of both parties that White House officials do not testify before congressional committees. Congress has long respected this Presidential policy, regardless of the party to which the President belonged and regardless of the party in control of Congress at any particular time. See generally Memorandum of Michael Small, Office of Legal Counsel (April 29, 1994).

The policy is rooted in the separation of powers ordained by the Constitution: "The President is a separate branch of government. He may not compel Congressmen to appear before him. As a matter of separation of powers, Congress may not compel him to appear before it. The President's close advisors are an extension of the President." Memorandum from Theodore B. Olson, Assistant Attorney General, Office of Legal Counsel, at 2 (July 29, 1982). Accordingly, "not only can the President invoke executive privilege to protect [his personal staff] from the necessity of answering questions posed by a congressional committee, but he can also direct them not even to appear before the committee." Memorandum from John M. Harmon, Assistant Attorney General, Office of Legal Counsel, at app. 7 (August 11, 1977).

The officials who ordinarily will not testify before Congress include, among others, (i) the President's immediate advisors and (ii) other White House officers and employees who work closely either with the President or with the President's immediate advisors. The policy therefore applies to all officers and employees employed under 3 U.S.C. 105 or 3 U.S.C. 107(a), including the Chief of Staff, the Counsel to the President, the Counselor to the President, the Senior Advisor to the President, the Staff Secretary, the President's Domestic Policy advisor, the Director of Presidential Speechwriting, the Director of Legislative Affairs, the Director of Political Affairs, the Director of Public Liaison, the Director of Media Affairs, the White House Press Secretary, and the Cabinet Secretary. The policy also applies to all other assistants, deputy assistants, and special assistants to the President who work within the White House Office or the Office of Policy Development. Finally, the policy applies to the Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs and the staff of the National Security Council.

This traditional policy against testifying before Congress does not apply to officers and employees in the other units in the Executive Office of the President. Those units include the Office of Management and Budget, the Council of Economic Advisors, the Council on Environmental Quality, and the Office of National Drug Control Policy. Nonetheless, the other privileges and protections that apply to all Executive Branch officers (such as the presidential communications, deliberative process, and attorney-client protections) continue to apply to these officers and employees.

This policy applies to oral and written testimony and statements. As a matter of procedure, if you receive a request or subpoena to testify before Congress, you should immediately notify the Counsel's office, and the Counsel's Office and the Office of Legislative Affairs will interact with the appropriate committee. We must insist on and ensure consistent adherence to this policy because "[a]ppearances by a Presidential adviser before Congressional committees on some occasions will leave the President open to the charge, however unfounded, that a subsequent refusal to provide testimony is because there is something to hide." Olson Memo at 3. That said, in truly extraordinary circumstances, the President may choose in his discretion to allow testimony by White House staff. For example, this long-standing policy has on occasion been waived when there has been an allegation of serious personal wrongdoing by the President or members of the White House staff, a congressional committee was conducting an appropriate and authorized investigation into such alleged personal misconduct, and the committee could not discover facts critical to its inquiry by other sufficient means.

If you have any questions about this policy, please do not hesitate to contact the Counsel's Office.

The Honolulu Advertiser - 12/3

Editorial

Judicial nomination game is afoot again

One of the enduring memories of the waning days of the Republican-controlled U.S. Senate was the shameless stalling on judicial nominations made by the Clinton administration.

A number of good potential jurists * including some from Hawai'i * saw their nominations either needlessly delayed or stopped altogether.

It now appears that the game is afoot again, only this time with the Democrats in charge.

While there may be legitimate reasons for holding back some nominations, the wholesale blocking smells of tit-for-tat.

Supporters of the current Judiciary Committee and its chairman, Sen. Patrick Leahy, will point out that at least 18 nominees have been confirmed already. True enough, but they are mostly noncontroversial district court nominations.

The more politically sensitive appointments to the appellate bench are lagging.

According to The Washington Post, just three of the 11 appellate nominations made by Bush have so far been confirmed.

Among those still waiting: Honolulu attorney Richard Clifton, nominated to the "Hawai'i" seat on the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals.

There may be legitimate policy reasons why the majority has problems with some of these appointees. That's appropriate; it's the purpose of the confirmation process.

But rather than consigning nominees to limbo, they should be offered a hearing. As the system works today, the judiciary is damaged and nominees are treated unfairly.

While Congress obviously has a lot on its plate these days, the important constitutional process of hearing judicial nominations must not be allowed to languish.

Subject: Thoughts on publicizing OLC opinion re Civil Rights Commission?

Press wants to make the OLC opinion public. It's an unpublished opinion. The general policy is not to make unpublished opinions public. It's up to us whether or not to distribute it, but OLC's general position is that the more often we publicize these, the weaker our argument (politically, at least) for keeping them confidential in the future.

Thoughts on this particular situation?

Statement of Jeffrey W. Runge Administrator, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration
before the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation
United States Senate
December 6, 2001

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Committee:

On behalf of the U. S. Department of Transportation, I welcome the opportunity to contribute to the Committee's consideration of automobile fuel economy. This is a matter of importance to the economy and to our national energy security.

The Department administers the corporate average fuel economy (CAFE) program as its principal contribution to energy conservation in the light-duty vehicle fleet. Enacted in 1975 in response to the energy crisis caused by the 1973-1974 oil embargo, the CAFE program requires motor vehicle manufacturers to ensure that their new-vehicle fleets meet a specified average level of fuel economy in each model year. The CAFE standard for passenger cars is set by statute at 27.5 miles per gallon (mpg), whereas the CAFE standard for light trucks is set by the Department by regulation for each model year. The light-truck CAFE standard has been frozen at the model year 1996 level of 20.7 mpg (through model year 2003) by provisions in the Department's annual appropriations acts.

The early years of the CAFE program were marked by significant improvements in fuel economy, as the public demand for energy-efficient vehicles during the late 1970's and early 1980's was strong. Since the mid-1980's, however, gasoline prices have typically been stable or declining (in constant dollars) and consumer demand has tended to favor vehicle utility, safety, and performance over fuel economy, with the result that the fuel economy level for the passenger car fleet has leveled off. At the same time, the arrival of new types of passenger vehicles B the minivan and the sport utility vehicle (SUV) B has attracted buyers away from passenger cars into these less fuel-efficient vehicles. The result is that the average fuel economy for the new light duty vehicle fleet as a whole (the fleet of vehicles with a gross vehicle weight rating of 8,500 pounds or less) has declined from an all time high of 26.2 mpg in model year 1987 to 24.5 mpg in model year 2001. Under actual driving conditions, as shown by the Environmental Protection Agency's annual Fuel Economy Trends report, the new-car fleet fuel economy was 22.1 in model year 1987 and 20.4 in model year 2001.

This decline means that today's fleet is using more petroleum, an increasing percentage of which is imported, than it would if fuel efficiency had continued to improve beyond the early years of the CAFE program. It is in this context that we must reexamine the CAFE program and other conservation measures.

The Department welcomes lifting the restrictions on CAFE rulemaking Congress has imposed since FY 1996, to permit the Department to once again engage in rulemaking that will set fuel economy standards for the light truck fleet. The Appropriations act signed by the President this week does not continue the restrictions on CAFE rulemaking, so that we are now free to begin rulemaking to set the light truck standard for model year 2004.

Our work will be aided by the July 30, 2001 report on the CAFE program prepared by a committee of the National Academy of Sciences pursuant to our fiscal year 2001 appropriations legislation. The report points out that technologies exist that could significantly increase passenger car and light truck fuel economy within 15 years. It also suggests that changing the CAFE regulatory program to one based on vehicle attributes, such as weight, and allowing "credit trading" could improve the program's effectiveness.

When it became apparent this summer that the restriction on rulemaking would not be perpetuated in fiscal year 2002, Secretary Mineta urged the appropriations committees to consider legislation that would remove the restriction before the end of fiscal year 2001, so that the Department would not need to wait until the enactment of appropriations for fiscal year 2002, but could begin work right away. Unfortunately, the Congress did not act on the Secretary's request.

We now face an immediate need to begin rulemaking for the light truck fleet for model year 2004. Under the CAFE law, we must issue a standard for that model year not later than 18 months before the model year begins. We consider model years to begin on October 1, so we will need to issue the MY 2004 standard by April 1, 2002, 18 months before October 1, 2003, the beginning of MY 2004.

Although we will begin our work immediately, I must caution you that our knowledge of the potential to improve fuel economy is limited. We have not been able to collect data on our own or conduct any analyses that would be needed to support the statutorily required determination that a specific level is the Amaximum feasible average fuel economy level." In making this determination, we are directed by the statute to consider "technological feasibility, economic practicability, the effect of other motor vehicle standards of the Government on fuel economy, and the need of the United States to conserve energy." Due to the freeze on activity related to CAFE, we have not been able to address these issues.

The National Academy of Sciences report, while helpful for long-range consideration of CAFE levels, is neither manufacturer specific nor model year specific, making it of little value for a particular rulemaking. Our rulemaking for MY 2004 will not likely result in a significant change in the CAFE standard, unless the manufacturers already plan to raise CAFE levels substantially for that year. The time available between April 2002 and October 2003 is simply too short for a significant change, since the technologies with the largest potential for increasing fuel efficiency would require much longer to incorporate into vehicles. The CAFE law requires us to consider "economic practicability," which means that we must provide the lead-time necessary to incorporate changes without substantial economic disruption to the vehicle manufacturers. As a result, we do not anticipate adopting a standard that would result in significant changes in the manufacturers' current plans for light truck CAFE for MY 2004. We will immediately the process of reviewing fuel economy levels for model years 2005 and beyond. Our CAFE rulemaking faces a further challenge, in that the new appropriations act does not give us the resources to conduct the analyses that we need to support our regulatory determinations. By providing only $60,000 for the CAFE program, the act does not give us the resources we need for a thoughtful and comprehensive assessment of manufacturers' long-term abilities to improve fuel economy.

Beyond the context of fuel economy rulemaking, the National Academy of Sciences' report contains a number of findings and recommendations that bear on the future of the CAFE program. While the report supports a Federal program to ensure fuel economy levels beyond those expected to result from market forces alone, it cautions that selecting fuel economy targets will require "uncertain and difficult trade-offs among environmental benefits, vehicle safety, cost, oil import dependence, and consumer preferences . . ."

We agree that there will be difficult trade-offs. This has been true of the CAFE program from the outset. At the beginning of this administration, the President directed a review of these issues, which is contained in the President's National Energy Policy report. That report recommends that the standards should be based on sound science, and should consider passenger safety, economic concerns, and the impact on the U.S. versus the foreign fleet of automobiles.

We will consider both the National Academy of Sciences report and the National Energy Policy report as we review the alternatives available to improve fuel economy. However, we are not prepared at this time to recommend specific changes to the fuel economy law.

It is clear that there are many points of view about the best means to improve the fuel economy of the light duty vehicle fleet, as illustrated by the continuing debate in the Congress on whether to legislate higher CAFE standards or to require specific reductions in fuel consumption by certain segments of the fleet, such as light trucks. The National Academy of Sciences committee examined a number of alternative measures, some of which are represented in pending legislation. The debates on these measures illustrate the difficult nature of the choices facing us.

To achieve a specified CAFE level, a manufacturer must produce fuel efficient vehicles that the public will buy. If cost-effective measures can be devised to increase consumer demand for fuel-efficient vehicles, those measures should be examined. The President=s National Energy Policy report recommends that the Secretary of Transportation evaluate market-based approaches to increasing new motor vehicle fuel economy. We are moving forward to consider these approaches. The National Academy of Sciences report also notes that we need to consider consumer demand.

We want to assure the Committee that the Department will carry out its responsibilities under the CAFE law to the best of its ability, with the goal of improving fleet fuel economy, thereby producing benefits to the economy and to our national energy security. We will also consider what additional measures can be taken, either administratively or through legislation, to achieve these benefits.

This concludes my statement. I will be glad to answer your questions.

Commissioner Richard L. Gregg
Financial Management Service – U.S. Department of the Treasury
before the
Subcommittee on Government Efficiency, Financial Management and Intergovernmental Relations
House Committee on Government Reform
December 5, 2001
"The Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996: How Well Is It Working?"

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Subcommittee:

I am pleased to join Agriculture Deputy Secretary Moseley and Mr. Engel from the General Accounting Office in a continued discussion of the implementation of the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996 (DCIA). In my October 10 statement before the subcommittee, I reported on Fiscal Year 2001 collections, described the significant new elements of the Financial Management Service's (FMS) debt collection program, and provided a status report on those that are near completion. This morning, I will share the most recent data on collections and discuss the Department of Agriculture's (USDA) participation in debt collection.

Collections

As I stated at the October 10 hearing, $12 billion in delinquent debt owed to the federal government has been collected since the enactment of the DCIA, with a record amount of $3.2 billion collected in Fiscal Year 2001. I attribute this success to a strong and effective payment offset and cross-servicing operation, an expansion of the capabilities of the collections systems, improved management by the agencies of their debt portfolios, and a steady increase in the amount of delinquent debt referred to Treasury for collection by agencies. For purposes of this hearing, I will provide collections statistics for the first two months of Fiscal Year 2002, that highlight continued growth in the offset and levy programs. During this time period, through November, $16.2 million has been collected through the offsets of federal payments other than tax refunds. This compares to $25.3 million in collections for all of Fiscal Year 2001. The full implementation of the Social Security benefit payment offset program in October, accounts for this significant increase in offset collections. In the first two months of Fiscal Year 2002, $2.8 million has been collected in delinquent federal tax debts through the continuous federal tax levy program. For the same reporting period in Fiscal Year 2001, $1 million was collected. I believe these statistics are a strong indication that the levy program will be even more successful in February, at which time the Internal Revenue Service will begin levying Social Security benefit payments. Mr. Chairman, before proceeding with the remainder of my statement, I would like to give a brief update on Treasury's use of private collection agencies. Treasury successfully implemented a new contract that went into effect October 1. Since that time, 44,879 debts for an associated dollar amount of nearly $831 million have been distributed to the five agencies under contract.

Debt Collection Program – USDA Participation

Mr. Chairman, as you know, critical to the success of the debt collection program is the referral of delinquent debts by agencies to Treasury for collection. Moreover, referring the debts in a timely manner is equally important and can make the difference between collecting and not collecting.

With respect to referrals of debts to the Treasury Offset Program, USDA has consistently complied with the DCIA requirement that debts more than 180 days delinquent be referred for collection. Specifically, I would like to single out and commend USDA's Food and Nutrition Service, with which Treasury has a long-standing and close working relationship. The agency is exemplary in its referral of food assistance program debts owed to the agency and serves as a model for other program agencies. On another front, USDA is the first major payroll payment processing organization, of which there are five, to participate in the centralized federal salary offset program. As I stated at the October hearing, this debt collection program is a fully automated system designed to centralize the offset of federal salary payments to collect non-tax debts, delinquent child support debts. Ultimately, the system will be used to levy federal salary payments to collect tax debts. USDA's National Finance Center participated in the program pilot, was closely involved in system planning and development, and has established itself as a leader in program implementation.

In contrast, USDA's participation in Treasury's cross-servicing program has lagged behind other agencies. Based on data supplied by USDA, as of September 30, 22 percent of USDA's delinquent debts that are eligible for collection have been referred to Treasury. The governmentwide average for cross-servicing referrals is 73 percent. Participation by three USDA agencies in particular, the Farm Service Agency (FSA), the Rural Development Administration (RDA), and the Rural Housing Service (RHS) is marginal at best.

While USDA has provided several reasons for this low rate of referrals, I believe that any barriers to participation can be overcome providing it is a priority to which management is committed. Currently, FMS is in discussions with USDA to establish ambitious cross-servicing referral goals for Fiscal Year 2002, for both RDA and FSA. FMS will assist USDA in developing individual DCIA implementation plans, and will closely monitor USDA's debt performance indicators, devoting special attention to identifying all debts eligible for referral.

On the subject of administrative wage garnishment, USDA has stated its intention to authorize the use of this important tool as part of the cross-servicing program. I encourage the Department of Agriculture to work with Treasury on developing a plan to take full advantage of this collection process. It is important to note, however, that a significant percentage of USDA's delinquent debt portfolio, such as Food Stamp Program debts, is exempt from cross-servicing by Treasury and therefore not eligible for collection through Treasury's administrative wage garnishment program.

Mr. Chairman, I will conclude my remarks by stating that Treasury stands ready to work with USDA to overcome the barriers to program participation. Working together, we can improve our debt collection performance. I would be happy to answer any questions you or the members of the subcommittee might have.

Jan--

Have you seen this?

I can't decide whether to keep my train reservation for Thursday. I don't want to miss a swearing in ceremony--after 11 months of torture! But I would rather not fly if I have a choice.

No news, I assume, that would help me decide.

Best, Abby

>Victoria Wilson of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights apparently wants

>Mary Frances Berry accepts Wilson's self-serving interpretation of the

DRAFT DRAFT DRAFT DRAFT DRAFT

STATEMENT OF COMMISSIONER ROBERT BONNER
HEARING OF THE HOUSE COMMITTEE ON GOVERNMENT REFORM SUBCOMMITTEE ON CRIMINAL JUSTICE, DRUG POLICY, AND HUMAN RESOURCES

Chairman Souder, Congressman Cummings, thank you for this opportunity to testify.

Background

Since September 11th, the U.S. Customs Service has made the defense against terrorism our number one priority. We firmly believe that the traditional aspects of our core enforcement mission – such as the interdiction of illegal narcotics, the tracing of illegal money laundering, the investigation of the movement of strategic weaponry, and the inspection of goods and cargo for contraband -- will contribute to, compliment and strengthen our new focus on terrorism. In addition, we have seen mounting evidence that heightened counter-terrorism strengthens our ability to perform our overall mission.

As the guardian of our nation's borders, U.S. Customs is a vital link in the chain of Homeland Security. We are present at 301 ports of entry – the major international airports, seaports, and land border crossings of our country. The seven thousand Customs inspectors and canine enforcement officers stationed at these ports are responsible, collectively, for the processing of millions of passengers, vehicles, and cargo shipments entering the country each day.

In addition, our special agents are highly trained and experienced in conducting investigations and surveillance of suspect people and goods transiting our borders. Likewise, the expertise of Customs pilots and marine enforcement officers in patrolling America's skies and seas has become a mainstay in the nation's homeland defense.

To ensure that the various components of Customs work together effectively in the fight against terrorism, we established a new Office of Anti-Terrorism within the agency. I appointed an experienced leader to head that office, who reports directly to me. He is Colonel William Parrish, formerly of the U.S. Marine Corps.

As Director of Anti-Terrorism, Colonel Parrish works to ensure that each office of Customs is maximizing and coordinating its anti-terrorism efforts. In addition, he coordinates Customs efforts with other agencies within the nation's homeland security architecture, including the Office of Homeland Security, the federal law enforcement community, the Department of Defense, the Department of State and national intelligence organizations.

Equally important is the cooperation within the Administration and the important role of Governor Ridge and the Office of Homeland Security. This coordination is essential both to ensure we are effectively responding to the threat of terrorism and meeting our other mission priorities. In addition, effective coordination by all the federal partners involved in counter-terrorism will help to relieve the strain that each of our agencies, individually, may face.

Specific Anti-Terrorism Initiatives

Immediately following the terrorist attacks of September 11th, Customs implemented a Level 1 alert, our highest state of alert short of closing the borders. We are still at Level 1 today, and we will remain there for the foreseeable future. Our Level 1 alert calls for sustained, intensive anti-terrorist operations, to include heightened inspection of people and goods crossing our borders. We have bolstered security all along our borders, especially along our northern border with Canada. We now staff every border crossing, even those in our most remote locations, with a minimum of two armed officers, twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week. To ensure that this minimum is in place at every port of entry, we detailed over 100 inspectors from other ports to fill understaffed northern border posts. We expect to detail another 50 inspectors beginning on December 10th.

We are working closely on an interagency level -- and I have been working extensively with my counterparts seated here -- to devise a comprehensive Northern Border Security Strategy for the U.S. We are focused on a broad coordinated response to terrorism between our agencies. Indeed, I just met last Friday with Admiral Loy and Commissioner Ziglar to further our efforts to develop a coordinated border strategy. And hope to meet with Commissioner Hutchinson in the near future.

We are pursuing international cooperation. We have engaged in discussions with the governments of Canada and Mexico to increase information sharing and develop common security measures for the processing of people and goods. In fact, I was in the Detroit-Windsor area just last week to meet with my counterpart from Canada Customs and Revenue, Rob Wright. We met to finalize our discussions on a new cooperative framework along the northern border.

Looking to other fronts, we have launched an important counter-terrorist money laundering initiative known as Operation Greenquest. Customs is leading that Operation, which includes the Treasury law enforcement offices and bureaus as well as representatives from the Department of Justice and the FBI.

We have also announced a new partnership with America's trade community aimed at tightening the security of commercial cargo against the smuggling of terrorists or terrorist implements. U.S. Customs has extensive experience in organizing such partnerships with business against illegal narcotics, and we will apply those lessons to our new focus against terrorism.

In addition, we recently announced the launch of Operation "Shield America," which is aimed at the unlawful exportation of unlicensed weapons, equipment and technology that could be used by terrorist organizations. Again, Customs has a longstanding expertise in this area. Operation Shield America will involve increased outreach to industry, and entails a new investigative focus for Customs strategic investigations.

Resources

We will continue with our Level 1 alert for the foreseeable future. We are firmly committed to protecting America, but we must also address the resource challenges this poses.

While U.S. Customs is firmly committed to protecting America from a terrorist threat, the agency is in fact expending a great deal of energy and overtime to maintain heightened security along our borders. Devising ways to lessen the strain on our people and our resources is a serious challenge, and one that we must face realistically.

We will also continue to work within the Administration and with the Congress to ensure that America's law enforcement agencies are well equipped to meet the terrorist threat, while balancing this critical need with our traditional priorities. The counter terrorism effort is best served as a collaborative law enforcement effort, exploiting the expertise and resources of all participants.

Custom's Mission

Finally, I must emphasize that we do not expect our changing priorities to negatively impact our traditional law enforcement mission. To the contrary, we expect, and we have seen mounting evidence to the effect that heightened counter-terrorist measures by the Customs Service are strengthening our overall interdiction efforts. The additional resources to the borders in response to the terrorism threat have resulted in significant increases in drug seizures. Likewise, the clear link between drug trafficking and terrorist fundraising emphasizes the value of an organization to have the role that Customs has within the Treasury Department.

Mr. Chairman, I firmly believe that U.S. Customs has the knowledge, the experience, the tools, and the personnel necessary to serve as a critical deterrent to terrorists who would target America. But I would stress, again, that it would be a grave mistake for the drug smugglers, money launderers and other criminals to misinterpret our focus on terrorism as a weakening of resolve on other fronts. If anything, we will make life even more miserable for these foes as we intensify our overall presence along America's borders.

Thank you again, Mr. Chairman and members of the Subcommittee, for this opportunity to testify. I look forward to answering any questions you might have.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF U.S. FARMERS & RANCHERS

Fast Facts

- The Bush Administration is fully committed to good, sound food and agriculture policies.
- At the same time, our Nation's taxpayers expect our government programs to be fair, responsible and efficient. The Administration has an obligation to our farmers, ranchers and consumers to do it right.
- The Administration is committed to building consensus that moves agriculture policy in a way that is forward-looking, global, protects the environment and provides a market-oriented safety net.

In Case You Missed It…

"A good farm bill should keep a safety net under our food producers – without misleading farmers into overproducing crops that are already in oversupply by increasing loan rates. A good farm bill should help farmers help themselves with farm savings accounts: these accounts would help farmers set aside money in good years to sustain them in hard years. A good farm bill should promote responsible stewardship of America's farms and ranches by promoting conservation on working lands. A good farm bill should honor our trade obligations – as we expect our competitors to honor their obligations. And a good farm plan should be generous but affordable – it should honor the budget limits that Congress agreed to live by." – President Bush 11/28/01

"Farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Administration's Objectives

Forward-looking and global farm policy should:

- Provide a dependable, market oriented safety net under producers that avoids stimulating overproduction through artificially high loan rates.
- Establish new farm savings accounts available to all producers that encourages government-matched saving for the down times.
- Enhance farmers and ranchers ability to practice responsible conservation and environmental stewardship on working lands, and expands federal-state-local partnerships on conserving and protecting our most environmentally fragile lands.
- Honor our international trade obligations while expanding the marketing opportunities for the food and fiber produced by America's hard-working farmers and ranchers.
- Be generous in recognizing the funding needs of agricultural and rural programs while being responsible to the budget agreed to by Congress.

What Others Are Saying…

- "When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF COCHRAN-ROBERTS

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world.
- Their proposal retains loan programs and increases the fixed, decoupled payments farmers now get, but in place of the target price program adds a farm savings account similar that help more farmers, particularly during hard times.
- Farm savings accounts would be available to all producers to help manage market and production risks.
- The Cochran-Roberts proposal, much like the House Bill, provides market-oriented loan rates, using a formula based on past market prices and rebalances the soybean rate. Both proposals hold loan rates at current levels that help reduce market distortion.
- Cochran-Roberts would provide important environmental stewardship and conservation tools, funding innovative approaches available to all farmers.

In Case You Missed It…

"I always like to say people who own their own land understand the necessity to be good stewards – every day is Earth Day if you own your own land. The farmers represent love of land and love of our country. And farming is our first industry, the industry that feeds us, that clothes us and, increasingly provides our energy." – President George W. Bush 11/28/01

"The Congress should consider these more market-oriented safety net approaches as they move forward." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Cochran-Roberts Approach

Cochran-Roberts promotes sound, dependable policy by:

- Nearly doubling funding for the current program's fixed decoupled payments.
  - Provides farmers a consistent, predictable income safety net
  - Maintains market oriented planting flexibility
  - Ensures trade friendly producer assistance
- Continuing current Marketing Loan Program for traditional program crops.
  - Provides countercyclical income protection in times of low prices
  - Better balances loan rates to address price distortion
  - Ensures more market oriented loan rates to minimize overproduction
- Establishing innovative new countercyclical farm savings accounts.
  - Provides new risk and income management tools
  - Available to all producers
  - Encourages "rainy day" saving by annually providing up to $1.2 billion in matching funds
  - Enhances farmers' ability to manage financial needs
- Providing an additional $2 billion for conservation.
  - Enhances environmental stewardship on working farm and ranch lands
  - Provides expanded technical assistance to improve voluntary conservation
  - Assists producers' efforts to meet federal conservation and environmental compliance standards
  - Facilitates conservation and environmental partnerships between producers and federal, state and private organizations
  - Assists producers' efforts to make beneficial, cost effective adjustments to the cropping systems, grazing and nutrient management, pest control and other practices that improve natural resource stewardship

What Others Are Saying…

- When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND CONSERVATION POLICY

A Summary of Message and Facts About the Conservation Title of Cochran-Roberts

Fast Facts

- Cochran-Roberts would provide additional funding for conservation activities as provided for under S.1731, with particular emphasis on benefits for working lands.
- The Administration believes it no longer make sense to speak of the "farm economy" as if it exists in a vacuum. We must look at the entire food chain and the rural economy in which farms operate.

In Case You Missed It…

"More resources are needed to address an increasingly complex are for U.S. agriculture – its relationship with and impact on the environment. Conservation policy should pursue a portfolio of instruments, including stewardship incentives on working lands." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

Did You Know?

- Cochran-Roberts provides $300 million per year for a Working Lands Environmental Improvement Option, which would meet the Administration's goal of providing broader environmental benefits by promoting conservation on working lands rather than idling additional productive land.
- This Cochran-Roberts provision contrasts with S.1731's Conservation Security Program (CSP), which appears likely to provide substantial payments to farms participating in the program at the lowest level of performance with a very limited increase in environmental benefits. This fact alone raises concerns about the cost-effectiveness of the CSP.
- S. 1731's CSP has no spending limitations, which raises serious questions regarding future budget exposure of the program and program's fiscal discipline. CSP also relies on concepts of performance that are not well defined. CBO estimates that only $11 million will be spent on the program in 2002 and 2003 because of the implementation difficulties, so the program is likely to be slow in getting funds into farmers' hands.

Cochran-Roberts – The Right Approach

Cochran-Roberts would enhance conservation in a balanced way by improving existing programs and encouraging incentives for greater environmental benefits on working lands.

The Cochran-Roberts proposal surpasses the conservation title provisions of S. 1731. Specifically, it would:

- Working Lands Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts funds the Environmental Quality Incentives Program at its highest levels ever. Funding is ramped over 5 years and totals $6.2 billion.
  - It starts a new Working Land Environmental Improvement program totaling $950 million, providing bonus payments for producers for new and more environmentally beneficial conservation on working lands.
- Habitat Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts would increase the Conservation Reserve Program, the Wetlands Reserve Program and the Wildlife Habitat Incentive Program to their highest levels ever.
  - Cochran-Roberts devotes 4 million CRP acres towards buffer enrollment and the CREP program, providing the perfect incentive for farmers to maintain water quality of streams and rivers and waterway habitats. The CRP acreage cap is increased to 40 million acres.
  - It increases the WRP acreage cap to 1.25 million acres.
  - WHIP funding is increased to $350 million.
  - It funds the Farmland Protection Program at its highest level ever at $435 million, allowing states to protect farmland from sprawl.
  - A new Grasslands Reserve Program would be established to preserve native grasslands through 30-year permanent easements.
- Innovation Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes $100 million of grants for innovation and science-based environmental farm practices.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes a grant program to promote practices like sequestering carbon in soil, market-based pollution trading credits and new ways of implementing best management practices.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND DAIRY POLICY

Fast Facts

- The dairy section of S.1731 consists of four basic elements:
  - Extend the price support program at the current level of $9.90 per cwt.;
  - Direct payments triggered when the Class III price falls below $14.25 per cwt.;
  - Floor the price paid by handlers for Class I milk (milk used in fluid products); and
  - Nationally pool the direct payments and Class I revenues resulting from flooring the Class I price.

- S.1731 would authorize a national dairy compact. The national dairy compact would operate very similar to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, which was authorized under the 1996 Farm Bill and expired on October 1.

In Case You Missed It…

"The Senate Committee bill would authorize two new dairy programs --- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact. In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. These proposals would also lead to a disjointed set of regional dairy programs that would raise the price consumers pay for fluid milk and create regional pricing distortions that would cause economic harm to many producers."
– Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

S. 1731 – A Wrong Approach For Dairy Policy

S. 1731 is the wrong approach to developing national dairy policy. If enacted, S. 1731 would:

- Lead to Higher Prices for Consumers.
- Not Fully Compensate Low-Income Households.
- Increase Support for Supply Management Programs.
- Likely Increase Outlays under the Price Support Program.
- Fosters Regional Disparity.
- Increases Difficulty in Meeting Existing Trade Agreements and Negotiating New Trade Agreements.

Did You Know?

- The milk price support program alone contributes $4.5 billion annually to the Aggregate Measure of Support (AMS), which is currently capped at $19.1 billion and could decline significantly under a new trade agreement.
- If S.1731 was enacted, dairy's contribution to the AMS could climb to nearly $7 billion.

The Administration Would Prefer…

- The Administration finds the dairy program proposal of this bill particularly troubling. The bill's dairy program will raise the cost of milk by $0.15 to $0.20 per gallon, thereby reducing consumer demand. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs, and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. States that operate outside the federal marketing orders will lose income. Increasing milk prices and reducing demand in addition to the already existing stockpile will create an enormous surplus that would adversely impact dairy farmers for many years.
- S. 1731 would authorize two new dairy programs -- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact.
- In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. The Administration strongly believes in honoring its international trade commitments.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S OPPOSITION OF S.1731

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that responsible, progressive farm policy will strengthen America's agricultural economy and urges the Senate to resist retreating to policies that will ultimately harm producers.
- The Administration strongly opposes S.1731 and urges the Senate to defeat it.

S.1731 -- The Wrong Approach

- S.1731 creates new entitlement programs and new levels of entitlement in current programs. It threatens the farm sector's financial health by compromising efforts to expand markets and by harming every U.S. consumer, especially those with low incomes.
- S.1731 poorly attempts to address the vital needs of America's producers with policies that worsen current problems of overproduction and low commodity prices.

Why S.1731 Is Unsound Farm Policy…

Enactment of S. 1731 would result in:

- Overproduction. S.1731 would increase payments to farmers for each bushel grown at above-market prices. This will encourage overproduction and depress prices, deepening the problem of recent years.
- Higher Milk Prices. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. This will result in decreased consumer demand. Higher milk prices and direct payments to farmers will lead to greater milk production, pressure on prices of milk used in products like cheese and will result in less dairy income in many states.
- Risk to Markets Abroad. S. 1731 would weaken U.S. competitiveness and would contradict a U.S. commitment to free trade in the new round of WTO negotiations. S.1731 would increase subsidies that are restricted under WTO rules, risking our ability to meet existing trade obligations. USDA estimates S.1731 will lead to "amber box" exposure above the limit, greatly restricting our ability to push trading partners to phase out export subsidies and open markets to U.S. farm products.
- Increased Uncertainty for Producers. S. 1731 forces two choices: reduce payments in order to adhere to international trade laws or face retaliation by other nations in the form of higher tariffs on agricultural imports. Either way, S. 1731 will lead to increased uncertainty for producers.
- Ineffective Conservation Programs. S. 1731 increases funding for conservation by creating an open-ended entitlement program designed to pay producers for sound stewardship practices. While working lands stewardship is laudable, S. 1731 has the potential to devolve into a new source of "farm payments" rather than generate genuine environmental benefits.
- Unknown Budget Costs. S.1731 would provide funding surpassing recent record levels and the final cost of S. 1731 is likely to exceed estimates. Since S. 1731 increases the level and role of subsidies, planting decisions and prices will differ from the April Budget Resolution assumptions and will increase dependency and expectations. In this time of uncertain and changing Federal resources and priorities, it is unwise to enact policies that create potentially huge future demands on taxpayers.

The Administration Supports And Believes…

- The Administration supports forward-looking farm legislation that facilitates the long-term prosperity of farmers and ranchers by helping them work with markets and decreasing dependency on Federal programs.
- The Administration supports a generous safety net for producers who encounter financial need while the economy improves.
- The Administration believes additional resources for conservation should be directed more effectively to meet high priorities.
- The Administration will continue to help craft policy that better responds to changes and opportunities facing agriculture.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF U.S. FARMERS & RANCHERS

Fast Facts

- The Bush Administration is fully committed to good, sound food and agriculture policies.
- At the same time, our Nation's taxpayers expect our government programs to be fair, responsible and efficient. The Administration has an obligation to our farmers, ranchers and consumers to do it right.
- The Administration is committed to building consensus that moves agriculture policy in a way that is forward-looking, global, protects the environment and provides a market-oriented safety net.

In Case You Missed It…

"A good farm bill should keep a safety net under our food producers – without misleading farmers into overproducing crops that are already in oversupply by increasing loan rates. A good farm bill should help farmers help themselves with farm savings accounts: these accounts would help farmers set aside money in good years to sustain them in hard years. A good farm bill should promote responsible stewardship of America's farms and ranches by promoting conservation on working lands. A good farm bill should honor our trade obligations – as we expect our competitors to honor their obligations. And a good farm plan should be generous but affordable – it should honor the budget limits that Congress agreed to live by." – President Bush 11/28/01

"Farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Administration's Objectives

Forward-looking and global farm policy should:

- Provide a dependable, market oriented safety net under producers that avoids stimulating overproduction through artificially high loan rates.
- Establish new farm savings accounts available to all producers that encourages government-matched saving for the down times.
- Enhance farmers and ranchers ability to practice responsible conservation and environmental stewardship on working lands, and expands federal-state-local partnerships on conserving and protecting our most environmentally fragile lands.
- Honor our international trade obligations while expanding the marketing opportunities for the food and fiber produced by America's hard-working farmers and ranchers.
- Be generous in recognizing the funding needs of agricultural and rural programs while being responsible to the budget agreed to by Congress.

What Others Are Saying…

- "When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.
- "[The Administration's Report] is a thoughtful but scathing critique of traditional farm subsidies and a lucid description of the ways that farming has changed in the last 50 years." – The Minneapolis-St. Paul Star Tribune, Oct. 2, 2001.
- "The Bush Administration has taken a sane stand..." – The Washington Post, Nov. 14, 2001.
- Veneman wants to…focus on conservation, international trade, food safety and other programs that broadly benefit the country. This makes eminent sense." – The Chicago Tribune, Sept. 28, 2001.
- "[The] administration's resolve should encourage reformers in the Senate." – The New York Times, Oct. 6, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF COCHRAN-ROBERTS

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world.
- Their proposal retains loan programs and increases the fixed, decoupled payments farmers now get, but in place of the target price program adds a farm savings account similar that help more farmers, particularly during hard times.
- Farm savings accounts would be available to all producers to help manage market and production risks.
- The Cochran-Roberts proposal, much like the House Bill, provides market-oriented loan rates, using a formula based on past market prices and rebalances the soybean rate. Both proposals hold loan rates at current levels that help reduce market distortion.
- Cochran-Roberts would provide important environmental stewardship and conservation tools, funding innovative approaches available to all farmers.

In Case You Missed It…

"I always like to say people who own their own land understand the necessity to be good stewards – every day is Earth Day if you own your own land. The farmers represent love of land and love of our country. And farming is our first industry, the industry that feeds us, that clothes us and, increasingly provides our energy." – President George W. Bush 11/28/01

"The Congress should consider these more market-oriented safety net approaches as they move forward." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Cochran-Roberts Approach

Cochran-Roberts promotes sound, dependable policy by:

- Nearly doubling funding for the current program's fixed decoupled payments.
  - Provides farmers a consistent, predictable income safety net
  - Maintains market oriented planting flexibility
  - Ensures trade friendly producer assistance
- Continuing current Marketing Loan Program for traditional program crops.
  - Provides countercyclical income protection in times of low prices
  - Better balances loan rates to address price distortion
  - Ensures more market oriented loan rates to minimize overproduction
- Establishing innovative new countercyclical farm savings accounts.
  - Provides new risk and income management tools
  - Available to all producers
  - Encourages "rainy day" saving by annually providing up to $1.2 billion in matching funds
  - Enhances farmers' ability to manage financial needs
- Providing an additional $2 billion for conservation.
  - Enhances environmental stewardship on working farm and ranch lands
  - Provides expanded technical assistance to improve voluntary conservation
  - Assists producers' efforts to meet federal conservation and environmental compliance standards
  - Facilitates conservation and environmental partnerships between producers and federal, state and private organizations
  - Assists producers' efforts to make beneficial, cost effective adjustments to the cropping systems, grazing and nutrient management, pest control and other practices that improve natural resource stewardship

What Others Are Saying…

- When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND CONSERVATION POLICY

Fast Facts

- Cochran-Roberts would provide additional funding for conservation activities as provided for under S.1731, with particular emphasis on benefits for working lands.
- The Administration believes it no longer make sense to speak of the "farm economy" as if it exists in a vacuum. We must look at the entire food chain and the rural economy in which farms operate.

In Case You Missed It…

"More resources are needed to address an increasingly complex are for U.S. agriculture – its relationship with and impact on the environment. Conservation policy should pursue a portfolio of instruments, including stewardship incentives on working lands." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

Did You Know?

- Cochran-Roberts provides $300 million per year for a Working Lands Environmental Improvement Option, which would meet the Administration's goal of providing broader environmental benefits by promoting conservation on working lands rather than idling additional productive land.
- This Cochran-Roberts provision contrasts with S.1731's Conservation Security Program (CSP), which appears likely to provide substantial payments to farms participating in the program at the lowest level of performance with a very limited increase in environmental benefits. This fact alone raises concerns about the cost-effectiveness of the CSP.
- S. 1731's CSP has no spending limitations, which raises serious questions regarding future budget exposure of the program and program's fiscal discipline. CSP also relies on concepts of performance that are not well defined. CBO estimates that only $11 million will be spent on the program in 2002 and 2003 because of the implementation difficulties, so the program is likely to be slow in getting funds into farmers' hands.

Cochran-Roberts – The Right Approach

Cochran-Roberts would enhance conservation in a balanced way by improving existing programs and encouraging incentives for greater environmental benefits on working lands.

The Cochran-Roberts proposal surpasses the conservation title provisions of S. 1731. Specifically, it would:

- Working Lands Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts funds the Environmental Quality Incentives Program at its highest levels ever. Funding is ramped over 5 years and totals $6.2 billion.
  - It starts a new Working Land Environmental Improvement program totaling $950 million, providing bonus payments for producers for new and more environmentally beneficial conservation on working lands.
- Habitat Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts would increase the Conservation Reserve Program, the Wetlands Reserve Program and the Wildlife Habitat Incentive Program to their highest levels ever.
  - Cochran-Roberts devotes 4 million CRP acres towards buffer enrollment and the CREP program, providing the perfect incentive for farmers to maintain water quality of streams and rivers and waterway habitats. The CRP acreage cap is increased to 40 million acres.
  - It increases the WRP acreage cap to 1.25 million acres.
  - WHIP funding is increased to $350 million.
  - It funds the Farmland Protection Program at its highest level ever at $435 million, allowing states to protect farmland from sprawl.
  - A new Grasslands Reserve Program would be established to preserve native grasslands through 30-year permanent easements.
- Innovation Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes $100 million of grants for innovation and science-based environmental farm practices.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes a grant program to promote practices like sequestering carbon in soil, market-based pollution trading credits and new ways of implementing best management practices.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND DAIRY POLICY

A Summary of Message and Facts About S. 1731 and Dairy Policy

Fast Facts

- The dairy section of S.1731 consists of four basic elements:
  - Extend the price support program at the current level of $9.90 per cwt.;
  - Direct payments triggered when the Class III price falls below $14.25 per cwt.;
  - Floor the price paid by handlers for Class I milk (milk used in fluid products); and
  - Nationally pool the direct payments and Class I revenues resulting from flooring the Class I price.

- S.1731 would authorize a national dairy compact. The national dairy compact would operate very similar to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, which was authorized under the 1996 Farm Bill and expired on October 1.

In Case You Missed It…

"The Senate Committee bill would authorize two new dairy programs --- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact. In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. These proposals would also lead to a disjointed set of regional dairy programs that would raise the price consumers pay for fluid milk and create regional pricing distortions that would cause economic harm to many producers."
– Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

S. 1731 – A Wrong Approach For Dairy Policy

S. 1731 is the wrong approach to developing national dairy policy. If enacted, S. 1731 would:

- Lead to Higher Prices for Consumers.
- Not Fully Compensate Low-Income Households.
- Increase Support for Supply Management Programs.
- Likely Increase Outlays under the Price Support Program.
- Fosters Regional Disparity.
- Increases Difficulty in Meeting Existing Trade Agreements and Negotiating New Trade Agreements.

Did You Know?

- The milk price support program alone contributes $4.5 billion annually to the Aggregate Measure of Support (AMS), which is currently capped at $19.1 billion and could decline significantly under a new trade agreement.
- If S.1731 was enacted, dairy's contribution to the AMS could climb to nearly $7 billion.

The Administration Would Prefer…

- The Administration finds the dairy program proposal of this bill particularly troubling. The bill's dairy program will raise the cost of milk by $0.15 to $0.20 per gallon, thereby reducing consumer demand. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs, and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. States that operate outside the federal marketing orders will lose income. Increasing milk prices and reducing demand in addition to the already existing stockpile will create an enormous surplus that would adversely impact dairy farmers for many years.
- S. 1731 would authorize two new dairy programs -- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact.
- In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. The Administration strongly believes in honoring its international trade commitments.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S OPPOSITION OF S.1731

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that responsible, progressive farm policy will strengthen America's agricultural economy and urges the Senate to resist retreating to policies that will ultimately harm producers.
- The Administration strongly opposes S.1731 and urges the Senate to defeat it.

S.1731 -- The Wrong Approach

- S.1731 creates new entitlement programs and new levels of entitlement in current programs. It threatens the farm sector's financial health by compromising efforts to expand markets and by harming every U.S. consumer, especially those with low incomes.
- S.1731 poorly attempts to address the vital needs of America's producers with policies that worsen current problems of overproduction and low commodity prices.

Why S.1731 Is Unsound Farm Policy…

Enactment of S. 1731 would result in:

- Overproduction. S.1731 would increase payments to farmers for each bushel grown at above-market prices. This will encourage overproduction and depress prices, deepening the problem of recent years.
- Higher Milk Prices. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. This will result in decreased consumer demand. Higher milk prices and direct payments to farmers will lead to greater milk production, pressure on prices of milk used in products like cheese and will result in less dairy income in many states.
- Risk to Markets Abroad. S. 1731 would weaken U.S. competitiveness and would contradict a U.S. commitment to free trade in the new round of WTO negotiations. S.1731 would increase subsidies that are restricted under WTO rules, risking our ability to meet existing trade obligations. USDA estimates S.1731 will lead to "amber box" exposure above the limit, greatly restricting our ability to push trading partners to phase out export subsidies and open markets to U.S. farm products.
- Increased Uncertainty for Producers. S. 1731 forces two choices: reduce payments in order to adhere to international trade laws or face retaliation by other nations in the form of higher tariffs on agricultural imports. Either way, S. 1731 will lead to increased uncertainty for producers.
- Ineffective Conservation Programs. S. 1731 increases funding for conservation by creating an open-ended entitlement program designed to pay producers for sound stewardship practices. While working lands stewardship is laudable, S. 1731 has the potential to devolve into a new source of "farm payments" rather than generate genuine environmental benefits.
- Unknown Budget Costs. S.1731 would provide funding surpassing recent record levels and the final cost of S. 1731 is likely to exceed estimates. Since S. 1731 increases the level and role of subsidies, planting decisions and prices will differ from the April Budget Resolution assumptions and will increase dependency and expectations. In this time of uncertain and changing Federal resources and priorities, it is unwise to enact policies that create potentially huge future demands on taxpayers.

The Administration Supports And Believes…

- The Administration supports forward-looking farm legislation that facilitates the long-term prosperity of farmers and ranchers by helping them work with markets and decreasing dependency on Federal programs.
- The Administration supports a generous safety net for producers who encounter financial need while the economy improves.
- The Administration believes additional resources for conservation should be directed more effectively to meet high priorities.
- The Administration will continue to help craft policy that better responds to changes and opportunities facing agriculture.

THE WORLD WILL ALWAYS REMEMBER SEPTEMBER 11

The terrorists have told us that we should "forget" the mass murder they perpetrated on September 11.

"No, you should forget the 11 September attacks…"

-- SYED TAYYAD AGHA – SPOKESMAN FOR MULLAH OMAR; TALIBAN PRESS CONFERENCE, SPIN BOLDAK, 11/21/01.

We will never "forget" September 11.

We will never forget the innocent victims and the brave heroes that died attempting to save them. We will never forget the survivors, the children, the devastated families and the grieving friends they left behind. And we will never forget the victims who came from more than 80 countries, and many races and religions.

On December 11 – the three-month anniversary of the September 11 attacks – President George W. Bush is asking countries across the world to hold remembrance events and to play their national anthems or other appropriate music at the exact moment the first airplane struck the World Trade Center in New York (8:46 EST).

The terrorists would like nothing more than to silence the world's vocal opposition to their frightening vision.

When nations around the world join hands in unity on December 11, the light of freedom and opportunity will once again shine on the terrorists' dark and frightening vision of murder and fear.

President George W. Bush will lead the worldwide initiative with the playing of the national anthem on December 11 at an event at 8:46 a.m. (EST). Similar events will also take place at the Pentagon, in New York, and in Pennsylvania.

The President will ask the United Nations, and all U.S. embassies, posts and agencies to hold events in countries around the world. The President will also encourage the U.S. Congress and citizens all across the world to join in this remembrance on December 11 by holding similar events in their communities. NASA will hold a special remembrance event in space.

These worldwide events are designed to help ensure that the world never "forgets," and to help remind the world that the terrorists' dark and frightening vision will soon be relegated to history's unmarked graves of discarded lies.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF U.S. FARMERS & RANCHERS

A Summary of Message and Facts About the Agriculture Objectives of the Bush Administration

Fast Facts

- The Bush Administration is fully committed to good, sound food and agriculture policies.
- At the same time, our Nation's taxpayers expect our government programs to be fair, responsible and efficient. The Administration has an obligation to our farmers, ranchers and consumers to do it right.
- The Administration is committed to building consensus that moves agriculture policy in a way that is forward-looking, global, protects the environment and provides a market-oriented safety net.

In Case You Missed It…

"A good farm bill should keep a safety net under our food producers – without misleading farmers into overproducing crops that are already in oversupply by increasing loan rates. A good farm bill should help farmers help themselves with farm savings accounts: these accounts would help farmers set aside money in good years to sustain them in hard years. A good farm bill should promote responsible stewardship of America's farms and ranches by promoting conservation on working lands. A good farm bill should honor our trade obligations – as we expect our competitors to honor their obligations. And a good farm plan should be generous but affordable – it should honor the budget limits that Congress agreed to live by." – President Bush 11/28/01

"Farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Administration's Objectives

Forward-looking and global farm policy should:

- Provide a dependable, market oriented safety net under producers that avoids stimulating overproduction through artificially high loan rates.
- Establish new farm savings accounts available to all producers that encourages government-matched saving for the down times.
- Enhance farmers and ranchers ability to practice responsible conservation and environmental stewardship on working lands, and expands federal-state-local partnerships on conserving and protecting our most environmentally fragile lands.
- Honor our international trade obligations while expanding the marketing opportunities for the food and fiber produced by America's hard-working farmers and ranchers.
- Be generous in recognizing the funding needs of agricultural and rural programs while being responsible to the budget agreed to by Congress.

What Others Are Saying…

- "When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.
- "[The Administration's Report] is a thoughtful but scathing critique of traditional farm subsidies and a lucid description of the ways that farming has changed in the last 50 years." – The Minneapolis-St. Paul Star Tribune, Oct. 2, 2001.
- "The Bush Administration has taken a sane stand..." – The Washington Post, Nov. 14, 2001.
- Veneman wants to…focus on conservation, international trade, food safety and other programs that broadly benefit the country. This makes eminent sense." – The Chicago Tribune, Sept. 28, 2001.
- "[The] administration's resolve should encourage reformers in the Senate." – The New York Times, Oct. 6, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF COCHRAN-ROBERTS

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world.
- Their proposal retains loan programs and increases the fixed, decoupled payments farmers now get, but in place of the target price program adds a farm savings account similar that help more farmers, particularly during hard times.
- Farm savings accounts would be available to all producers to help manage market and production risks.
- The Cochran-Roberts proposal, much like the House Bill, provides market-oriented loan rates, using a formula based on past market prices and rebalances the soybean rate. Both proposals hold loan rates at current levels that help reduce market distortion.
- Cochran-Roberts would provide important environmental stewardship and conservation tools, funding innovative approaches available to all farmers.

In Case You Missed It…

"I always like to say people who own their own land understand the necessity to be good stewards – every day is Earth Day if you own your own land. The farmers represent love of land and love of our country. And farming is our first industry, the industry that feeds us, that clothes us and, increasingly provides our energy." – President George W. Bush 11/28/01

"The Congress should consider these more market-oriented safety net approaches as they move forward." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Cochran-Roberts Approach

Cochran-Roberts promotes sound, dependable policy by:

- Nearly doubling funding for the current program's fixed decoupled payments.
  - Provides farmers a consistent, predictable income safety net
  - Maintains market oriented planting flexibility
  - Ensures trade friendly producer assistance
- Continuing current Marketing Loan Program for traditional program crops.
  - Provides countercyclical income protection in times of low prices
  - Better balances loan rates to address price distortion
  - Ensures more market oriented loan rates to minimize overproduction
- Establishing innovative new countercyclical farm savings accounts.
  - Provides new risk and income management tools
  - Available to all producers
  - Encourages "rainy day" saving by annually providing up to $1.2 billion in matching funds
  - Enhances farmers' ability to manage financial needs
- Providing an additional $2 billion for conservation.
  - Enhances environmental stewardship on working farm and ranch lands
  - Provides expanded technical assistance to improve voluntary conservation
  - Assists producers' efforts to meet federal conservation and environmental compliance standards
  - Facilitates conservation and environmental partnerships between producers and federal, state and private organizations
  - Assists producers' efforts to make beneficial, cost effective adjustments to the cropping systems, grazing and nutrient management, pest control and other practices that improve natural resource stewardship

What Others Are Saying…

- When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND CONSERVATION POLICY

Fast Facts

- Cochran-Roberts would provide additional funding for conservation activities as provided for under S.1731, with particular emphasis on benefits for working lands.
- The Administration believes it no longer make sense to speak of the "farm economy" as if it exists in a vacuum. We must look at the entire food chain and the rural economy in which farms operate.

In Case You Missed It…

"More resources are needed to address an increasingly complex are for U.S. agriculture – its relationship with and impact on the environment. Conservation policy should pursue a portfolio of instruments, including stewardship incentives on working lands." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

Did You Know?

- Cochran-Roberts provides $300 million per year for a Working Lands Environmental Improvement Option, which would meet the Administration's goal of providing broader environmental benefits by promoting conservation on working lands rather than idling additional productive land.
- This Cochran-Roberts provision contrasts with S.1731's Conservation Security Program (CSP), which appears likely to provide substantial payments to farms participating in the program at the lowest level of performance with a very limited increase in environmental benefits. This fact alone raises concerns about the cost-effectiveness of the CSP.
- S. 1731's CSP has no spending limitations, which raises serious questions regarding future budget exposure of the program and program's fiscal discipline. CSP also relies on concepts of performance that are not well defined. CBO estimates that only $11 million will be spent on the program in 2002 and 2003 because of the implementation difficulties, so the program is likely to be slow in getting funds into farmers' hands.

Cochran-Roberts – The Right Approach

Cochran-Roberts would enhance conservation in a balanced way by improving existing programs and encouraging incentives for greater environmental benefits on working lands.

The Cochran-Roberts proposal surpasses the conservation title provisions of S. 1731. Specifically, it would:

- Working Lands Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts funds the Environmental Quality Incentives Program at its highest levels ever. Funding is ramped over 5 years and totals $6.2 billion.
  - It starts a new Working Land Environmental Improvement program totaling $950 million, providing bonus payments for producers for new and more environmentally beneficial conservation on working lands.
- Habitat Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts would increase the Conservation Reserve Program, the Wetlands Reserve Program and the Wildlife Habitat Incentive Program to their highest levels ever.
  - Cochran-Roberts devotes 4 million CRP acres towards buffer enrollment and the CREP program, providing the perfect incentive for farmers to maintain water quality of streams and rivers and waterway habitats. The CRP acreage cap is increased to 40 million acres.
  - It increases the WRP acreage cap to 1.25 million acres.
  - WHIP funding is increased to $350 million.
  - It funds the Farmland Protection Program at its highest level ever at $435 million, allowing states to protect farmland from sprawl.
  - A new Grasslands Reserve Program would be established to preserve native grasslands through 30-year permanent easements.
- Innovation Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes $100 million of grants for innovation and science-based environmental farm practices.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes a grant program to promote practices like sequestering carbon in soil, market-based pollution trading credits and new ways of implementing best management practices.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND DAIRY POLICY

A Summary of Message and Facts About S. 1731 and Dairy Policy

Fast Facts

- The dairy section of S.1731 consists of four basic elements:
  - Extend the price support program at the current level of $9.90 per cwt.;
  - Direct payments triggered when the Class III price falls below $14.25 per cwt.;
  - Floor the price paid by handlers for Class I milk (milk used in fluid products); and
  - Nationally pool the direct payments and Class I revenues resulting from flooring the Class I price.

- S.1731 would authorize a national dairy compact. The national dairy compact would operate very similar to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, which was authorized under the 1996 Farm Bill and expired on October 1.

In Case You Missed It…

"The Senate Committee bill would authorize two new dairy programs --- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact. In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. These proposals would also lead to a disjointed set of regional dairy programs that would raise the price consumers pay for fluid milk and create regional pricing distortions that would cause economic harm to many producers."
– Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

S. 1731 – A Wrong Approach For Dairy Policy

S. 1731 is the wrong approach to developing national dairy policy. If enacted, S. 1731 would:

- Lead to Higher Prices for Consumers.
- Not Fully Compensate Low-Income Households.
- Increase Support for Supply Management Programs.
- Likely Increase Outlays under the Price Support Program.
- Fosters Regional Disparity.
- Increases Difficulty in Meeting Existing Trade Agreements and Negotiating New Trade Agreements.

Did You Know?

- The milk price support program alone contributes $4.5 billion annually to the Aggregate Measure of Support (AMS), which is currently capped at $19.1 billion and could decline significantly under a new trade agreement.
- If S.1731 was enacted, dairy's contribution to the AMS could climb to nearly $7 billion.

The Administration Would Prefer…

- The Administration finds the dairy program proposal of this bill particularly troubling. The bill's dairy program will raise the cost of milk by $0.15 to $0.20 per gallon, thereby reducing consumer demand. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs, and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. States that operate outside the federal marketing orders will lose income. Increasing milk prices and reducing demand in addition to the already existing stockpile will create an enormous surplus that would adversely impact dairy farmers for many years.
- S. 1731 would authorize two new dairy programs -- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact.
- In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. The Administration strongly believes in honoring its international trade commitments.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S OPPOSITION OF S.1731

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that responsible, progressive farm policy will strengthen America's agricultural economy and urges the Senate to resist retreating to policies that will ultimately harm producers.
- The Administration strongly opposes S.1731 and urges the Senate to defeat it.

S.1731 -- The Wrong Approach

- S.1731 creates new entitlement programs and new levels of entitlement in current programs. It threatens the farm sector's financial health by compromising efforts to expand markets and by harming every U.S. consumer, especially those with low incomes.
- S.1731 poorly attempts to address the vital needs of America's producers with policies that worsen current problems of overproduction and low commodity prices.

Why S.1731 Is Unsound Farm Policy…

Enactment of S. 1731 would result in:

- Overproduction. S.1731 would increase payments to farmers for each bushel grown at above-market prices. This will encourage overproduction and depress prices, deepening the problem of recent years.
- Higher Milk Prices. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. This will result in decreased consumer demand. Higher milk prices and direct payments to farmers will lead to greater milk production, pressure on prices of milk used in products like cheese and will result in less dairy income in many states.
- Risk to Markets Abroad. S. 1731 would weaken U.S. competitiveness and would contradict a U.S. commitment to free trade in the new round of WTO negotiations. S.1731 would increase subsidies that are restricted under WTO rules, risking our ability to meet existing trade obligations. USDA estimates S.1731 will lead to "amber box" exposure above the limit, greatly restricting our ability to push trading partners to phase out export subsidies and open markets to U.S. farm products.
- Increased Uncertainty for Producers. S. 1731 forces two choices: reduce payments in order to adhere to international trade laws or face retaliation by other nations in the form of higher tariffs on agricultural imports. Either way, S. 1731 will lead to increased uncertainty for producers.
- Ineffective Conservation Programs. S. 1731 increases funding for conservation by creating an open-ended entitlement program designed to pay producers for sound stewardship practices. While working lands stewardship is laudable, S. 1731 has the potential to devolve into a new source of "farm payments" rather than generate genuine environmental benefits.
- Unknown Budget Costs. S.1731 would provide funding surpassing recent record levels and the final cost of S. 1731 is likely to exceed estimates. Since S. 1731 increases the level and role of subsidies, planting decisions and prices will differ from the April Budget Resolution assumptions and will increase dependency and expectations. In this time of uncertain and changing Federal resources and priorities, it is unwise to enact policies that create potentially huge future demands on taxpayers.

The Administration Supports And Believes…

- The Administration supports forward-looking farm legislation that facilitates the long-term prosperity of farmers and ranchers by helping them work with markets and decreasing dependency on Federal programs.
- The Administration supports a generous safety net for producers who encounter financial need while the economy improves.
- The Administration believes additional resources for conservation should be directed more effectively to meet high priorities.
- The Administration will continue to help craft policy that better responds to changes and opportunities facing agriculture.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF U.S. FARMERS & RANCHERS

A Summary of Message and Facts About the Agriculture Objectives of the Bush Administration

Fast Facts

- The Bush Administration is fully committed to good, sound food and agriculture policies.
- At the same time, our Nation's taxpayers expect our government programs to be fair, responsible and efficient. The Administration has an obligation to our farmers, ranchers and consumers to do it right.
- The Administration is committed to building consensus that moves agriculture policy in a way that is forward-looking, global, protects the environment and provides a market-oriented safety net.

In Case You Missed It…

"A good farm bill should keep a safety net under our food producers – without misleading farmers into overproducing crops that are already in oversupply by increasing loan rates. A good farm bill should help farmers help themselves with farm savings accounts: these accounts would help farmers set aside money in good years to sustain them in hard years. A good farm bill should promote responsible stewardship of America's farms and ranches by promoting conservation on working lands. A good farm bill should honor our trade obligations – as we expect our competitors to honor their obligations. And a good farm plan should be generous but affordable – it should honor the budget limits that Congress agreed to live by." – President Bush 11/28/01

"Farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Administration's Objectives

Forward-looking and global farm policy should:

- Provide a dependable, market oriented safety net under producers that avoids stimulating overproduction through artificially high loan rates.
- Establish new farm savings accounts available to all producers that encourages government-matched saving for the down times.
- Enhance farmers and ranchers ability to practice responsible conservation and environmental stewardship on working lands, and expands federal-state-local partnerships on conserving and protecting our most environmentally fragile lands.
- Honor our international trade obligations while expanding the marketing opportunities for the food and fiber produced by America's hard-working farmers and ranchers.
- Be generous in recognizing the funding needs of agricultural and rural programs while being responsible to the budget agreed to by Congress.

What Others Are Saying…

- "When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.
- "[The Administration's Report] is a thoughtful but scathing critique of traditional farm subsidies and a lucid description of the ways that farming has changed in the last 50 years." – The Minneapolis-St. Paul Star Tribune, Oct. 2, 2001.
- "The Bush Administration has taken a sane stand..." – The Washington Post, Nov. 14, 2001.
- Veneman wants to…focus on conservation, international trade, food safety and other programs that broadly benefit the country. This makes eminent sense." – The Chicago Tribune, Sept. 28, 2001.
- "[The] administration's resolve should encourage reformers in the Senate." – The New York Times, Oct. 6, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF COCHRAN-ROBERTS

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world.
- Their proposal retains loan programs and increases the fixed, decoupled payments farmers now get, but in place of the target price program adds a farm savings account similar that help more farmers, particularly during hard times.
- Farm savings accounts would be available to all producers to help manage market and production risks.
- The Cochran-Roberts proposal, much like the House Bill, provides market-oriented loan rates, using a formula based on past market prices and rebalances the soybean rate. Both proposals hold loan rates at current levels that help reduce market distortion.
- Cochran-Roberts would provide important environmental stewardship and conservation tools, funding innovative approaches available to all farmers.

In Case You Missed It…

"I always like to say people who own their own land understand the necessity to be good stewards – every day is Earth Day if you own your own land. The farmers represent love of land and love of our country. And farming is our first industry, the industry that feeds us, that clothes us and, increasingly provides our energy." – President George W. Bush 11/28/01

"The Congress should consider these more market-oriented safety net approaches as they move forward." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Cochran-Roberts Approach

Cochran-Roberts promotes sound, dependable policy by:

- Nearly doubling funding for the current program's fixed decoupled payments.
  - Provides farmers a consistent, predictable income safety net
  - Maintains market oriented planting flexibility
  - Ensures trade friendly producer assistance
- Continuing current Marketing Loan Program for traditional program crops.
  - Provides countercyclical income protection in times of low prices
  - Better balances loan rates to address price distortion
  - Ensures more market oriented loan rates to minimize overproduction
- Establishing innovative new countercyclical farm savings accounts.
  - Provides new risk and income management tools
  - Available to all producers
  - Encourages "rainy day" saving by annually providing up to $1.2 billion in matching funds
  - Enhances farmers' ability to manage financial needs
- Providing an additional $2 billion for conservation.
  - Enhances environmental stewardship on working farm and ranch lands
  - Provides expanded technical assistance to improve voluntary conservation
  - Assists producers' efforts to meet federal conservation and environmental compliance standards
  - Facilitates conservation and environmental partnerships between producers and federal, state and private organizations
  - Assists producers' efforts to make beneficial, cost effective adjustments to the cropping systems, grazing and nutrient management, pest control and other practices that improve natural resource stewardship

What Others Are Saying…

- When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND CONSERVATION POLICY

A Summary of Message and Facts About the Conservation Title of Cochran-Roberts

Fast Facts

- Cochran-Roberts would provide additional funding for conservation activities as provided for under S.1731, with particular emphasis on benefits for working lands.
- The Administration believes it no longer make sense to speak of the "farm economy" as if it exists in a vacuum. We must look at the entire food chain and the rural economy in which farms operate.

In Case You Missed It…

"More resources are needed to address an increasingly complex are for U.S. agriculture – its relationship with and impact on the environment. Conservation policy should pursue a portfolio of instruments, including stewardship incentives on working lands." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

Did You Know?

- Cochran-Roberts provides $300 million per year for a Working Lands Environmental Improvement Option, which would meet the Administration's goal of providing broader environmental benefits by promoting conservation on working lands rather than idling additional productive land.
- This Cochran-Roberts provision contrasts with S.1731's Conservation Security Program (CSP), which appears likely to provide substantial payments to farms participating in the program at the lowest level of performance with a very limited increase in environmental benefits. This fact alone raises concerns about the cost-effectiveness of the CSP.
- S. 1731's CSP has no spending limitations, which raises serious questions regarding future budget exposure of the program and program's fiscal discipline. CSP also relies on concepts of performance that are not well defined. CBO estimates that only $11 million will be spent on the program in 2002 and 2003 because of the implementation difficulties, so the program is likely to be slow in getting funds into farmers' hands.

Cochran-Roberts – The Right Approach

Cochran-Roberts would enhance conservation in a balanced way by improving existing programs and encouraging incentives for greater environmental benefits on working lands.

The Cochran-Roberts proposal surpasses the conservation title provisions of S. 1731. Specifically, it would:

- Working Lands Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts funds the Environmental Quality Incentives Program at its highest levels ever. Funding is ramped over 5 years and totals $6.2 billion.
  - It starts a new Working Land Environmental Improvement program totaling $950 million, providing bonus payments for producers for new and more environmentally beneficial conservation on working lands.
- Habitat Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts would increase the Conservation Reserve Program, the Wetlands Reserve Program and the Wildlife Habitat Incentive Program to their highest levels ever.
  - Cochran-Roberts devotes 4 million CRP acres towards buffer enrollment and the CREP program, providing the perfect incentive for farmers to maintain water quality of streams and rivers and waterway habitats. The CRP acreage cap is increased to 40 million acres.
  - It increases the WRP acreage cap to 1.25 million acres.
  - WHIP funding is increased to $350 million.
  - It funds the Farmland Protection Program at its highest level ever at $435 million, allowing states to protect farmland from sprawl.
  - A new Grasslands Reserve Program would be established to preserve native grasslands through 30-year permanent easements.
- Innovation Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes $100 million of grants for innovation and science-based environmental farm practices.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes a grant program to promote practices like sequestering carbon in soil, market-based pollution trading credits and new ways of implementing best management practices.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND DAIRY POLICY

Fast Facts

- The dairy section of S.1731 consists of four basic elements:
  - Extend the price support program at the current level of $9.90 per cwt.;
  - Direct payments triggered when the Class III price falls below $14.25 per cwt.;
  - Floor the price paid by handlers for Class I milk (milk used in fluid products); and
  - Nationally pool the direct payments and Class I revenues resulting from flooring the Class I price.

- S.1731 would authorize a national dairy compact. The national dairy compact would operate very similar to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, which was authorized under the 1996 Farm Bill and expired on October 1.

In Case You Missed It…

"The Senate Committee bill would authorize two new dairy programs --- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact. In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. These proposals would also lead to a disjointed set of regional dairy programs that would raise the price consumers pay for fluid milk and create regional pricing distortions that would cause economic harm to many producers."
– Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

S. 1731 – A Wrong Approach For Dairy Policy

S. 1731 is the wrong approach to developing national dairy policy. If enacted, S. 1731 would:

- Lead to Higher Prices for Consumers.
- Not Fully Compensate Low-Income Households.
- Increase Support for Supply Management Programs.
- Likely Increase Outlays under the Price Support Program.
- Fosters Regional Disparity.
- Increases Difficulty in Meeting Existing Trade Agreements and Negotiating New Trade Agreements.

Did You Know?

- The milk price support program alone contributes $4.5 billion annually to the Aggregate Measure of Support (AMS), which is currently capped at $19.1 billion and could decline significantly under a new trade agreement.
- If S.1731 was enacted, dairy's contribution to the AMS could climb to nearly $7 billion.

The Administration Would Prefer…

- The Administration finds the dairy program proposal of this bill particularly troubling. The bill's dairy program will raise the cost of milk by $0.15 to $0.20 per gallon, thereby reducing consumer demand. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs, and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. States that operate outside the federal marketing orders will lose income. Increasing milk prices and reducing demand in addition to the already existing stockpile will create an enormous surplus that would adversely impact dairy farmers for many years.
- S. 1731 would authorize two new dairy programs -- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact.
- In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. The Administration strongly believes in honoring its international trade commitments.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S OPPOSITION OF S.1731

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that responsible, progressive farm policy will strengthen America's agricultural economy and urges the Senate to resist retreating to policies that will ultimately harm producers.
- The Administration strongly opposes S.1731 and urges the Senate to defeat it.

S.1731 -- The Wrong Approach

- S.1731 creates new entitlement programs and new levels of entitlement in current programs. It threatens the farm sector's financial health by compromising efforts to expand markets and by harming every U.S. consumer, especially those with low incomes.
- S.1731 poorly attempts to address the vital needs of America's producers with policies that worsen current problems of overproduction and low commodity prices.

Why S.1731 Is Unsound Farm Policy…

Enactment of S. 1731 would result in:

- Overproduction. S.1731 would increase payments to farmers for each bushel grown at above-market prices. This will encourage overproduction and depress prices, deepening the problem of recent years.
- Higher Milk Prices. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. This will result in decreased consumer demand. Higher milk prices and direct payments to farmers will lead to greater milk production, pressure on prices of milk used in products like cheese and will result in less dairy income in many states.
- Risk to Markets Abroad. S. 1731 would weaken U.S. competitiveness and would contradict a U.S. commitment to free trade in the new round of WTO negotiations. S.1731 would increase subsidies that are restricted under WTO rules, risking our ability to meet existing trade obligations. USDA estimates S.1731 will lead to "amber box" exposure above the limit, greatly restricting our ability to push trading partners to phase out export subsidies and open markets to U.S. farm products.
- Increased Uncertainty for Producers. S. 1731 forces two choices: reduce payments in order to adhere to international trade laws or face retaliation by other nations in the form of higher tariffs on agricultural imports. Either way, S. 1731 will lead to increased uncertainty for producers.
- Ineffective Conservation Programs. S. 1731 increases funding for conservation by creating an open-ended entitlement program designed to pay producers for sound stewardship practices. While working lands stewardship is laudable, S. 1731 has the potential to devolve into a new source of "farm payments" rather than generate genuine environmental benefits.
- Unknown Budget Costs. S.1731 would provide funding surpassing recent record levels and the final cost of S. 1731 is likely to exceed estimates. Since S. 1731 increases the level and role of subsidies, planting decisions and prices will differ from the April Budget Resolution assumptions and will increase dependency and expectations. In this time of uncertain and changing Federal resources and priorities, it is unwise to enact policies that create potentially huge future demands on taxpayers.

The Administration Supports And Believes…

- The Administration supports forward-looking farm legislation that facilitates the long-term prosperity of farmers and ranchers by helping them work with markets and decreasing dependency on Federal programs.
- The Administration supports a generous safety net for producers who encounter financial need while the economy improves.
- The Administration believes additional resources for conservation should be directed more effectively to meet high priorities.
- The Administration will continue to help craft policy that better responds to changes and opportunities facing agriculture.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF U.S. FARMERS & RANCHERS

Fast Facts

- The Bush Administration is fully committed to good, sound food and agriculture policies.
- At the same time, our Nation's taxpayers expect our government programs to be fair, responsible and efficient. The Administration has an obligation to our farmers, ranchers and consumers to do it right.
- The Administration is committed to building consensus that moves agriculture policy in a way that is forward-looking, global, protects the environment and provides a market-oriented safety net.

In Case You Missed It…

"A good farm bill should keep a safety net under our food producers – without misleading farmers into overproducing crops that are already in oversupply by increasing loan rates. A good farm bill should help farmers help themselves with farm savings accounts: these accounts would help farmers set aside money in good years to sustain them in hard years. A good farm bill should promote responsible stewardship of America's farms and ranches by promoting conservation on working lands. A good farm bill should honor our trade obligations – as we expect our competitors to honor their obligations. And a good farm plan should be generous but affordable – it should honor the budget limits that Congress agreed to live by." – President Bush 11/28/01

"Farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Administration's Objectives

Forward-looking and global farm policy should:

- Provide a dependable, market oriented safety net under producers that avoids stimulating overproduction through artificially high loan rates.
- Establish new farm savings accounts available to all producers that encourages government-matched saving for the down times.
- Enhance farmers and ranchers ability to practice responsible conservation and environmental stewardship on working lands, and expands federal-state-local partnerships on conserving and protecting our most environmentally fragile lands.
- Honor our international trade obligations while expanding the marketing opportunities for the food and fiber produced by America's hard-working farmers and ranchers.
- Be generous in recognizing the funding needs of agricultural and rural programs while being responsible to the budget agreed to by Congress.

What Others Are Saying…

- "When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.
- "[The Administration's Report] is a thoughtful but scathing critique of traditional farm subsidies and a lucid description of the ways that farming has changed in the last 50 years." – The Minneapolis-St. Paul Star Tribune, Oct. 2, 2001.
- "The Bush Administration has taken a sane stand..." – The Washington Post, Nov. 14, 2001.
- Veneman wants to…focus on conservation, international trade, food safety and other programs that broadly benefit the country. This makes eminent sense." – The Chicago Tribune, Sept. 28, 2001.
- "[The] administration's resolve should encourage reformers in the Senate." – The New York Times, Oct. 6, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF COCHRAN-ROBERTS

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world.
- Their proposal retains loan programs and increases the fixed, decoupled payments farmers now get, but in place of the target price program adds a farm savings account similar that help more farmers, particularly during hard times.
- Farm savings accounts would be available to all producers to help manage market and production risks.
- The Cochran-Roberts proposal, much like the House Bill, provides market-oriented loan rates, using a formula based on past market prices and rebalances the soybean rate. Both proposals hold loan rates at current levels that help reduce market distortion.
- Cochran-Roberts would provide important environmental stewardship and conservation tools, funding innovative approaches available to all farmers.

In Case You Missed It…

"I always like to say people who own their own land understand the necessity to be good stewards – every day is Earth Day if you own your own land. The farmers represent love of land and love of our country. And farming is our first industry, the industry that feeds us, that clothes us and, increasingly provides our energy." – President George W. Bush 11/28/01

"The Congress should consider these more market-oriented safety net approaches as they move forward." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Cochran-Roberts Approach

Cochran-Roberts promotes sound, dependable policy by:

- Nearly doubling funding for the current program's fixed decoupled payments.
  - Provides farmers a consistent, predictable income safety net
  - Maintains market oriented planting flexibility
  - Ensures trade friendly producer assistance
- Continuing current Marketing Loan Program for traditional program crops.
  - Provides countercyclical income protection in times of low prices
  - Better balances loan rates to address price distortion
  - Ensures more market oriented loan rates to minimize overproduction
- Establishing innovative new countercyclical farm savings accounts.
  - Provides new risk and income management tools
  - Available to all producers
  - Encourages "rainy day" saving by annually providing up to $1.2 billion in matching funds
  - Enhances farmers' ability to manage financial needs
- Providing an additional $2 billion for conservation.
  - Enhances environmental stewardship on working farm and ranch lands
  - Provides expanded technical assistance to improve voluntary conservation
  - Assists producers' efforts to meet federal conservation and environmental compliance standards
  - Facilitates conservation and environmental partnerships between producers and federal, state and private organizations
  - Assists producers' efforts to make beneficial, cost effective adjustments to the cropping systems, grazing and nutrient management, pest control and other practices that improve natural resource stewardship

What Others Are Saying…

- When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND CONSERVATION POLICY

A Summary of Message and Facts About the Conservation Title of Cochran-Roberts

Fast Facts

- Cochran-Roberts would provide additional funding for conservation activities as provided for under S.1731, with particular emphasis on benefits for working lands.
- The Administration believes it no longer make sense to speak of the "farm economy" as if it exists in a vacuum. We must look at the entire food chain and the rural economy in which farms operate.

In Case You Missed It…

"More resources are needed to address an increasingly complex are for U.S. agriculture – its relationship with and impact on the environment. Conservation policy should pursue a portfolio of instruments, including stewardship incentives on working lands." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

Did You Know?

- Cochran-Roberts provides $300 million per year for a Working Lands Environmental Improvement Option, which would meet the Administration's goal of providing broader environmental benefits by promoting conservation on working lands rather than idling additional productive land.
- This Cochran-Roberts provision contrasts with S.1731's Conservation Security Program (CSP), which appears likely to provide substantial payments to farms participating in the program at the lowest level of performance with a very limited increase in environmental benefits. This fact alone raises concerns about the cost-effectiveness of the CSP.
- S. 1731's CSP has no spending limitations, which raises serious questions regarding future budget exposure of the program and program's fiscal discipline. CSP also relies on concepts of performance that are not well defined. CBO estimates that only $11 million will be spent on the program in 2002 and 2003 because of the implementation difficulties, so the program is likely to be slow in getting funds into farmers' hands.

Cochran-Roberts – The Right Approach

Cochran-Roberts would enhance conservation in a balanced way by improving existing programs and encouraging incentives for greater environmental benefits on working lands.

The Cochran-Roberts proposal surpasses the conservation title provisions of S. 1731. Specifically, it would:

- Working Lands Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts funds the Environmental Quality Incentives Program at its highest levels ever. Funding is ramped over 5 years and totals $6.2 billion.
  - It starts a new Working Land Environmental Improvement program totaling $950 million, providing bonus payments for producers for new and more environmentally beneficial conservation on working lands.
- Habitat Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts would increase the Conservation Reserve Program, the Wetlands Reserve Program and the Wildlife Habitat Incentive Program to their highest levels ever.
  - Cochran-Roberts devotes 4 million CRP acres towards buffer enrollment and the CREP program, providing the perfect incentive for farmers to maintain water quality of streams and rivers and waterway habitats. The CRP acreage cap is increased to 40 million acres.
  - It increases the WRP acreage cap to 1.25 million acres.
  - WHIP funding is increased to $350 million.
  - It funds the Farmland Protection Program at its highest level ever at $435 million, allowing states to protect farmland from sprawl.
  - A new Grasslands Reserve Program would be established to preserve native grasslands through 30-year permanent easements.
- Innovation Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes $100 million of grants for innovation and science-based environmental farm practices.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes a grant program to promote practices like sequestering carbon in soil, market-based pollution trading credits and new ways of implementing best management practices.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND DAIRY POLICY

Fast Facts

- The dairy section of S.1731 consists of four basic elements:
  - Extend the price support program at the current level of $9.90 per cwt.;
  - Direct payments triggered when the Class III price falls below $14.25 per cwt.;
  - Floor the price paid by handlers for Class I milk (milk used in fluid products); and
  - Nationally pool the direct payments and Class I revenues resulting from flooring the Class I price.

- S.1731 would authorize a national dairy compact. The national dairy compact would operate very similar to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, which was authorized under the 1996 Farm Bill and expired on October 1.

In Case You Missed It…

"The Senate Committee bill would authorize two new dairy programs --- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact. In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. These proposals would also lead to a disjointed set of regional dairy programs that would raise the price consumers pay for fluid milk and create regional pricing distortions that would cause economic harm to many producers."
– Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

S. 1731 – A Wrong Approach For Dairy Policy

S. 1731 is the wrong approach to developing national dairy policy. If enacted, S. 1731 would:

- Lead to Higher Prices for Consumers.
- Not Fully Compensate Low-Income Households.
- Increase Support for Supply Management Programs.
- Likely Increase Outlays under the Price Support Program.
- Fosters Regional Disparity.
- Increases Difficulty in Meeting Existing Trade Agreements and Negotiating New Trade Agreements.

Did You Know?

- The milk price support program alone contributes $4.5 billion annually to the Aggregate Measure of Support (AMS), which is currently capped at $19.1 billion and could decline significantly under a new trade agreement.
- If S.1731 was enacted, dairy's contribution to the AMS could climb to nearly $7 billion.

The Administration Would Prefer…

- The Administration finds the dairy program proposal of this bill particularly troubling. The bill's dairy program will raise the cost of milk by $0.15 to $0.20 per gallon, thereby reducing consumer demand. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs, and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. States that operate outside the federal marketing orders will lose income. Increasing milk prices and reducing demand in addition to the already existing stockpile will create an enormous surplus that would adversely impact dairy farmers for many years.
- S. 1731 would authorize two new dairy programs -- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact.
- In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. The Administration strongly believes in honoring its international trade commitments.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S OPPOSITION OF S.1731

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that responsible, progressive farm policy will strengthen America's agricultural economy and urges the Senate to resist retreating to policies that will ultimately harm producers.
- The Administration strongly opposes S.1731 and urges the Senate to defeat it.

S.1731 -- The Wrong Approach

- S.1731 creates new entitlement programs and new levels of entitlement in current programs. It threatens the farm sector's financial health by compromising efforts to expand markets and by harming every U.S. consumer, especially those with low incomes.
- S.1731 poorly attempts to address the vital needs of America's producers with policies that worsen current problems of overproduction and low commodity prices.

Why S.1731 Is Unsound Farm Policy…

Enactment of S. 1731 would result in:

- Overproduction. S.1731 would increase payments to farmers for each bushel grown at above-market prices. This will encourage overproduction and depress prices, deepening the problem of recent years.
- Higher Milk Prices. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. This will result in decreased consumer demand. Higher milk prices and direct payments to farmers will lead to greater milk production, pressure on prices of milk used in products like cheese and will result in less dairy income in many states.
- Risk to Markets Abroad. S. 1731 would weaken U.S. competitiveness and would contradict a U.S. commitment to free trade in the new round of WTO negotiations. S.1731 would increase subsidies that are restricted under WTO rules, risking our ability to meet existing trade obligations. USDA estimates S.1731 will lead to "amber box" exposure above the limit, greatly restricting our ability to push trading partners to phase out export subsidies and open markets to U.S. farm products.
- Increased Uncertainty for Producers. S. 1731 forces two choices: reduce payments in order to adhere to international trade laws or face retaliation by other nations in the form of higher tariffs on agricultural imports. Either way, S. 1731 will lead to increased uncertainty for producers.
- Ineffective Conservation Programs. S. 1731 increases funding for conservation by creating an open-ended entitlement program designed to pay producers for sound stewardship practices. While working lands stewardship is laudable, S. 1731 has the potential to devolve into a new source of "farm payments" rather than generate genuine environmental benefits.
- Unknown Budget Costs. S.1731 would provide funding surpassing recent record levels and the final cost of S. 1731 is likely to exceed estimates. Since S. 1731 increases the level and role of subsidies, planting decisions and prices will differ from the April Budget Resolution assumptions and will increase dependency and expectations. In this time of uncertain and changing Federal resources and priorities, it is unwise to enact policies that create potentially huge future demands on taxpayers.

The Administration Supports And Believes…

- The Administration supports forward-looking farm legislation that facilitates the long-term prosperity of farmers and ranchers by helping them work with markets and decreasing dependency on Federal programs.
- The Administration supports a generous safety net for producers who encounter financial need while the economy improves.
- The Administration believes additional resources for conservation should be directed more effectively to meet high priorities.
- The Administration will continue to help craft policy that better responds to changes and opportunities facing agriculture.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF U.S. FARMERS & RANCHERS

A Summary of Message and Facts About the Agriculture Objectives of the Bush Administration

Fast Facts

- The Bush Administration is fully committed to good, sound food and agriculture policies.
- At the same time, our Nation's taxpayers expect our government programs to be fair, responsible and efficient. The Administration has an obligation to our farmers, ranchers and consumers to do it right.
- The Administration is committed to building consensus that moves agriculture policy in a way that is forward-looking, global, protects the environment and provides a market-oriented safety net.

In Case You Missed It…

"A good farm bill should keep a safety net under our food producers – without misleading farmers into overproducing crops that are already in oversupply by increasing loan rates. A good farm bill should help farmers help themselves with farm savings accounts: these accounts would help farmers set aside money in good years to sustain them in hard years. A good farm bill should promote responsible stewardship of America's farms and ranches by promoting conservation on working lands. A good farm bill should honor our trade obligations – as we expect our competitors to honor their obligations. And a good farm plan should be generous but affordable – it should honor the budget limits that Congress agreed to live by." – President Bush 11/28/01

"Farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Administration's Objectives

Forward-looking and global farm policy should:

- Provide a dependable, market oriented safety net under producers that avoids stimulating overproduction through artificially high loan rates.
- Establish new farm savings accounts available to all producers that encourages government-matched saving for the down times.
- Enhance farmers and ranchers ability to practice responsible conservation and environmental stewardship on working lands, and expands federal-state-local partnerships on conserving and protecting our most environmentally fragile lands.
- Honor our international trade obligations while expanding the marketing opportunities for the food and fiber produced by America's hard-working farmers and ranchers.
- Be generous in recognizing the funding needs of agricultural and rural programs while being responsible to the budget agreed to by Congress.

What Others Are Saying…

- "When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.
- "[The Administration's Report] is a thoughtful but scathing critique of traditional farm subsidies and a lucid description of the ways that farming has changed in the last 50 years." – The Minneapolis-St. Paul Star Tribune, Oct. 2, 2001.
- "The Bush Administration has taken a sane stand..." – The Washington Post, Nov. 14, 2001.
- Veneman wants to…focus on conservation, international trade, food safety and other programs that broadly benefit the country. This makes eminent sense." – The Chicago Tribune, Sept. 28, 2001.
- "[The] administration's resolve should encourage reformers in the Senate." – The New York Times, Oct. 6, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S SUPPORT OF COCHRAN-ROBERTS

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that farm policy should ensure compatibility between domestic and trade objectives, support open markets, provide for a market-oriented farm safety net, and not create undue uncertainty for farmers and ranchers who already operate in a very uncertain world.
- Their proposal retains loan programs and increases the fixed, decoupled payments farmers now get, but in place of the target price program adds a farm savings account similar that help more farmers, particularly during hard times.
- Farm savings accounts would be available to all producers to help manage market and production risks.
- The Cochran-Roberts proposal, much like the House Bill, provides market-oriented loan rates, using a formula based on past market prices and rebalances the soybean rate. Both proposals hold loan rates at current levels that help reduce market distortion.
- Cochran-Roberts would provide important environmental stewardship and conservation tools, funding innovative approaches available to all farmers.

In Case You Missed It…

"I always like to say people who own their own land understand the necessity to be good stewards – every day is Earth Day if you own your own land. The farmers represent love of land and love of our country. And farming is our first industry, the industry that feeds us, that clothes us and, increasingly provides our energy." – President George W. Bush 11/28/01

"The Congress should consider these more market-oriented safety net approaches as they move forward." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

The Cochran-Roberts Approach

Cochran-Roberts promotes sound, dependable policy by:

- Nearly doubling funding for the current program's fixed decoupled payments.
  - Provides farmers a consistent, predictable income safety net
  - Maintains market oriented planting flexibility
  - Ensures trade friendly producer assistance
- Continuing current Marketing Loan Program for traditional program crops.
  - Provides countercyclical income protection in times of low prices
  - Better balances loan rates to address price distortion
  - Ensures more market oriented loan rates to minimize overproduction
- Establishing innovative new countercyclical farm savings accounts.
  - Provides new risk and income management tools
  - Available to all producers
  - Encourages "rainy day" saving by annually providing up to $1.2 billion in matching funds
  - Enhances farmers' ability to manage financial needs
- Providing an additional $2 billion for conservation.
  - Enhances environmental stewardship on working farm and ranch lands
  - Provides expanded technical assistance to improve voluntary conservation
  - Assists producers' efforts to meet federal conservation and environmental compliance standards
  - Facilitates conservation and environmental partnerships between producers and federal, state and private organizations
  - Assists producers' efforts to make beneficial, cost effective adjustments to the cropping systems, grazing and nutrient management, pest control and other practices that improve natural resource stewardship

What Others Are Saying…

- When Congress acts to renew the farm support law last revamped in 1996, it should pay heed to Veneman's recommendations." – The Des Moines Register, Sept. 26, 2001.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND CONSERVATION POLICY

A Summary of Message and Facts About the Conservation Title of Cochran-Roberts

Fast Facts

- Cochran-Roberts would provide additional funding for conservation activities as provided for under S.1731, with particular emphasis on benefits for working lands.
- The Administration believes it no longer make sense to speak of the "farm economy" as if it exists in a vacuum. We must look at the entire food chain and the rural economy in which farms operate.

In Case You Missed It…

"More resources are needed to address an increasingly complex are for U.S. agriculture – its relationship with and impact on the environment. Conservation policy should pursue a portfolio of instruments, including stewardship incentives on working lands." – Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

Did You Know?

- Cochran-Roberts provides $300 million per year for a Working Lands Environmental Improvement Option, which would meet the Administration's goal of providing broader environmental benefits by promoting conservation on working lands rather than idling additional productive land.
- This Cochran-Roberts provision contrasts with S.1731's Conservation Security Program (CSP), which appears likely to provide substantial payments to farms participating in the program at the lowest level of performance with a very limited increase in environmental benefits. This fact alone raises concerns about the cost-effectiveness of the CSP.
- S. 1731's CSP has no spending limitations, which raises serious questions regarding future budget exposure of the program and program's fiscal discipline. CSP also relies on concepts of performance that are not well defined. CBO estimates that only $11 million will be spent on the program in 2002 and 2003 because of the implementation difficulties, so the program is likely to be slow in getting funds into farmers' hands.

Cochran-Roberts – The Right Approach

Cochran-Roberts would enhance conservation in a balanced way by improving existing programs and encouraging incentives for greater environmental benefits on working lands.

The Cochran-Roberts proposal surpasses the conservation title provisions of S. 1731. Specifically, it would:

- Working Lands Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts funds the Environmental Quality Incentives Program at its highest levels ever. Funding is ramped over 5 years and totals $6.2 billion.
  - It starts a new Working Land Environmental Improvement program totaling $950 million, providing bonus payments for producers for new and more environmentally beneficial conservation on working lands.
- Habitat Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts would increase the Conservation Reserve Program, the Wetlands Reserve Program and the Wildlife Habitat Incentive Program to their highest levels ever.
  - Cochran-Roberts devotes 4 million CRP acres towards buffer enrollment and the CREP program, providing the perfect incentive for farmers to maintain water quality of streams and rivers and waterway habitats. The CRP acreage cap is increased to 40 million acres.
  - It increases the WRP acreage cap to 1.25 million acres.
  - WHIP funding is increased to $350 million.
  - It funds the Farmland Protection Program at its highest level ever at $435 million, allowing states to protect farmland from sprawl.
  - A new Grasslands Reserve Program would be established to preserve native grasslands through 30-year permanent easements.
- Innovation Provisions.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes $100 million of grants for innovation and science-based environmental farm practices.
  - Cochran-Roberts includes a grant program to promote practices like sequestering carbon in soil, market-based pollution trading credits and new ways of implementing best management practices.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION AND DAIRY POLICY

Fast Facts

- The dairy section of S.1731 consists of four basic elements:
  - Extend the price support program at the current level of $9.90 per cwt.;
  - Direct payments triggered when the Class III price falls below $14.25 per cwt.;
  - Floor the price paid by handlers for Class I milk (milk used in fluid products); and
  - Nationally pool the direct payments and Class I revenues resulting from flooring the Class I price.

- S.1731 would authorize a national dairy compact. The national dairy compact would operate very similar to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact, which was authorized under the 1996 Farm Bill and expired on October 1.

In Case You Missed It…

"The Senate Committee bill would authorize two new dairy programs --- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact. In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. These proposals would also lead to a disjointed set of regional dairy programs that would raise the price consumers pay for fluid milk and create regional pricing distortions that would cause economic harm to many producers."
– Secretary Ann M. Veneman 11/28/01

S. 1731 – A Wrong Approach For Dairy Policy

S. 1731 is the wrong approach to developing national dairy policy. If enacted, S. 1731 would:

- Lead to Higher Prices for Consumers.
- Not Fully Compensate Low-Income Households.
- Increase Support for Supply Management Programs.
- Likely Increase Outlays under the Price Support Program.
- Fosters Regional Disparity.
- Increases Difficulty in Meeting Existing Trade Agreements and Negotiating New Trade Agreements.

Did You Know?

- The milk price support program alone contributes $4.5 billion annually to the Aggregate Measure of Support (AMS), which is currently capped at $19.1 billion and could decline significantly under a new trade agreement.
- If S.1731 was enacted, dairy's contribution to the AMS could climb to nearly $7 billion.

The Administration Would Prefer…

- The Administration finds the dairy program proposal of this bill particularly troubling. The bill's dairy program will raise the cost of milk by $0.15 to $0.20 per gallon, thereby reducing consumer demand. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs, and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. States that operate outside the federal marketing orders will lose income. Increasing milk prices and reducing demand in addition to the already existing stockpile will create an enormous surplus that would adversely impact dairy farmers for many years.
- S. 1731 would authorize two new dairy programs -- counter-cyclical payments to dairy producers and a national dairy compact.
- In their current form, these programs would add billions in new spending and threaten our WTO obligations. The Administration strongly believes in honoring its international trade commitments.

THE BUSH ADMINISTRATION'S OPPOSITION OF S.1731

Fast Facts

- The Administration believes that responsible, progressive farm policy will strengthen America's agricultural economy and urges the Senate to resist retreating to policies that will ultimately harm producers.
- The Administration strongly opposes S.1731 and urges the Senate to defeat it.

S.1731 -- The Wrong Approach

- S.1731 creates new entitlement programs and new levels of entitlement in current programs. It threatens the farm sector's financial health by compromising efforts to expand markets and by harming every U.S. consumer, especially those with low incomes.
- S.1731 poorly attempts to address the vital needs of America's producers with policies that worsen current problems of overproduction and low commodity prices.

Why S.1731 Is Unsound Farm Policy…

Enactment of S. 1731 would result in:

- Overproduction. S.1731 would increase payments to farmers for each bushel grown at above-market prices. This will encourage overproduction and depress prices, deepening the problem of recent years.
- Higher Milk Prices. Consumers will pay billions in additional costs and low-income Americans stand to suffer most by the artificial increase in prices. This will result in decreased consumer demand. Higher milk prices and direct payments to farmers will lead to greater milk production, pressure on prices of milk used in products like cheese and will result in less dairy income in many states.
- Risk to Markets Abroad. S. 1731 would weaken U.S. competitiveness and would contradict a U.S. commitment to free trade in the new round of WTO negotiations. S.1731 would increase subsidies that are restricted under WTO rules, risking our ability to meet existing trade obligations. USDA estimates S.1731 will lead to "amber box" exposure above the limit, greatly restricting our ability to push trading partners to phase out export subsidies and open markets to U.S. farm products.
- Increased Uncertainty for Producers. S. 1731 forces two choices: reduce payments in order to adhere to international trade laws or face retaliation by other nations in the form of higher tariffs on agricultural imports. Either way, S. 1731 will lead to increased uncertainty for producers.
- Ineffective Conservation Programs. S. 1731 increases funding for conservation by creating an open-ended entitlement program designed to pay producers for sound stewardship practices. While working lands stewardship is laudable, S. 1731 has the potential to devolve into a new source of "farm payments" rather than generate genuine environmental benefits.
- Unknown Budget Costs. S.1731 would provide funding surpassing recent record levels and the final cost of S. 1731 is likely to exceed estimates. Since S. 1731 increases the level and role of subsidies, planting decisions and prices will differ from the April Budget Resolution assumptions and will increase dependency and expectations. In this time of uncertain and changing Federal resources and priorities, it is unwise to enact policies that create potentially huge future demands on taxpayers.

The Administration Supports And Believes…

- The Administration supports forward-looking farm legislation that facilitates the long-term prosperity of farmers and ranchers by helping them work with markets and decreasing dependency on Federal programs.
- The Administration supports a generous safety net for producers who encounter financial need while the economy improves.
- The Administration believes additional resources for conservation should be directed more effectively to meet high priorities.
- The Administration will continue to help craft policy that better responds to changes and opportunities facing agriculture.

WHILE OSAMA BIN LADEN & AL QAEDA HIDE IN THEIR CAVES…

"Never forget that those who are now hiding in their caves and holes have once harmed your country. It is unfortunate that they are counted as Muslims, while Islam is innocent of them. The Muslim does not harbor evil for his fellow Muslims." (Source: 10/18, BBC, Saudi Interior Minister HRH Prince Nayif Bin-Abd-al-Aziz)

"I would tell him that for one, Osama bin Laden, you destroyed a whole country," said Hajatullah, 36, a squat blanket-shop owner who first fled Afghanistan in 1989, settling in Quetta, before returning to Afghanistan to fight for the Americans. (Source: Knight Ridder/Tribune News Service, 12/2)

SUMMARY

Osama bin Laden and al Qaeda continue to hide comfortably in their caves while they sacrifice innocent Afghans – especially women and children – to pay the price for their frightening vision. While bin Laden and al Qaeda hide in their caves:

- Innocent Afghans, including many children, are starving to death while bin Laden and al Qaeda are well fed.
- bin Laden and al Qaeda operatives are targeting innocent Afghan civilians by making them military targets.
- bin Laden and al Qaeda operatives continue to commit frightening atrocities.
- bin Laden and al Qaeda operatives are stealing food meant for innocent Afghans.

It is no wonder that thousands of bin Laden and al Qaeda operatives are breaking ranks and deserting. And it's no wonder that Muslim experts around the world continue to condemn their attempt to hijack the peaceful religion of Islam for their terrorist purposes.

While bin Laden and al Qaeda hide in their caves – warm and with plenty of food – bin Laden and al Qaeda operatives are stealing food and supplies meant for innocent Afghans who are literally starving to death.

- 70% of the Afghan people are malnourished.
- Only 13% of the Afghan people have access to clean water.
- One in four Afghan children will not make it to their fifth birthday.
- One in three Afghan children is an orphan.
- One in two Afghan children is malnourished.

Among many, many, examples of al Qaeda's theft of humanitarian supplies include:

- The Taliban seized control of two U.N. World Food Program (WFP) warehouses, one in Kabul, and one in Kandahar, containing more than half the World Food Program's wheat supply for Afghanistan. The WFP in Kandahar had been feeding 150,000 Afghans a month before the Taliban seizure. The WFP reports that 1,600 tons of food and several vehicles have since disappeared from the Kandahar WFP warehouse. (Source: World Food Program)

- The Taliban are actually hijacking humanitarian convoys for military purposes. The November 6 Washington Post reports, "A truck in a convoy purportedly on a humanitarian mission to deliver food tipped over, and crates of tank and mortar shells could be seen spilling to the ground underneath a thin layer of flour."

- The UN refugee agency (UNHCR) says the Taliban is hindering humanitarian efforts inside Afghanistan… Speaking on behalf of the UNHCR, Peter Kessler said the Taliban was failing to cooperate: "The UNHCR and our partner agencies have had our vehicles stolen, our offices taken over and our staff beaten." (Source: BBC)

- The Taliban occupied the Kunduz office and warehouse of the International Organization for Migration (IOM). The warehouse had been stocked with winter clothing, shoes and blankets to be distributed to internally displaced persons in the region. (Source: IOM)

While bin Laden and al Qaeda hide in their caves, their operatives are using innocent Afghan civilians – including women and children – as human military shields.

- The Taliban are actually placing their military assets near civilian areas and using innocent Afghans as human shields for their oppressive regime. For example, the November 6 Washington Post reports that the Taliban are actually placing military assets in mosques and across the street from hospitals and innocent people's homes. Taliban commanders have also taken over humanitarian aid facilities for military purposes. A senior officer tells the Washington Post, "Whole villages are being used as human shields by the Taliban to protect their large stockpiles of ammunition and weapons hidden in nearby caves."

While bin Laden and Al Qaeda hide in their caves – their operatives continue to commit frightening atrocities.

- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (Source: The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)

- "The barbarity of the Taliban plumbed new depths when troops shot dead eight boys for daring to laugh, sickened refugees revealed yesterday. The teenage lads had been chuckling at the soldiers who suddenly raised their Kalashnikov rifles and gunned them down. It was one of a string of atrocities in the besieged Afghanistan city of Kunduz, which was last night poised to fall to the Northern Alliance. At least 300 frightened Taliban were killed by men from their own side because they wanted to surrender." (Source: The Sun [U.K.], 11/19/01)

- "'They burnt some of us alive.' It was almost the first thing he said to us. In the dust and squalor of a refugee camp, Salahuddin told yesterday how the Taliban burnt an entire family to death in their own home in revenge for the American bombing. He says he saw them bringing out the blackened bodies of the children. Then the Taliban took Salahuddin and the other villagers to the front line, where they ordered them to gather up scattered bits of bodies, all that was left of Taliban soldiers killed by the American bombs." (Source: The Independent U.K. 11/9/01)

- "'The Taliban commanders killed 100 of our friends,' said this defector, adding, 'They hung their bodies from lamp posts as a warning to the rest of us.'" (Source: CBS Evening News, 11/19/01)

What others are saying about bin Laden and al Qaeda:

- "Bin Laden has revealed himself as a terrorist and a criminal," Saudi Defense Minister Prince Sultan said…reminding the local press his country has stripped bin Laden of his Saudi citizenship. (Source:-AP Worldstream, 10/08/01, by Donna Abu-Nasr)

- "Usamah Bin-Ladin himself is no Islamic authority: he's a bloodthirsty murderer, guilty of tens of thousands of crimes. It's not because he invokes God's name and proclaims his allegiance to Islam that people will regard him as an Islamic authority." (Source: Sohib Bencheikh, Mufti of Marseille and Doctor of Theology, BBC Monitoring Europe, 10/09/01)

- "Bin Laden does not speak in the name of Arabs and Muslims." (Source: Amr Moussa, Secretary General of the Arab League, The Ottawa Citizen, 11/05/01)

- "…we should continue to do what needs to be done, to deal with Osama bin Laden… He's been trying to take advantage of Islam, historic Islam, to take on moderate regimes in the Middle East, to take on civilized society in the West and different parts of the world. But it's a distortion…Islam has nothing to do with what…he's propagating." (Source: Nabil Fahmy, Egypt's ambassador to the United States, CBS's "Face the Nation," 11/04/01)

- Ahmed Maher, Egypt's foreign minister, concurred, saying that there is no war between Islam and the West. "I think there is a war between (Mr. bin Laden) and the world." (Source: Columbus Dispatch, 11/07/01)

- "I believe that Mullah Omar and Osama bin Laden are responsible for (the harm) on these innocent people, and God will punish them, because they are the cause for what is happening now. I feel amazed how the Afghan people and interests of Muslims are being sacrificed for the sake of (saving) individuals," Saudi deputy interior minister Prince Ahmad bin Abdul Aziz was quoted as saying. He added that such actions should be condemned by all Muslims. "If bin Laden was a real Mujahid - holy fighter - he should come out of his hideout to save Afghanistan and Islam, and face an international inquiry," Prince Ahmad said. (10/31, AFP)

- Mufti of Marseille Sohib Bencheikh, spiritual leader of the large North African Muslim community in the French city, was quoted as saying, "Bin Laden is no Islamic authority. He is blood-thirsty murderer, guilty of tens of thousands of crimes. It beholds us Muslims to condemn him before anyone else, because his crimes were committed in the name of our religion." (Source: 10/12, The Press Association Limited)

- Saudi Interior Minister HRH Prince Nayif Bin-Abd-al-Aziz, in a speech opening the Ninth Conference of Police and Traffic Commissioners and the national campaign for security and traffic, said,"We denounce terrorism wherever it occurs. But, you must not forget that your country has suffered from terrorism for more than 20 years. Never forget that those who are now hiding in their caves and holes have once harmed your country. It is unfortunate that they are counted as Muslims, while Islam is innocent of them. The Muslim does not harbor evil for his fellow Muslims." (10/18, BBC)

Just a few of the many examples of al Qaeda and Taliban desertions:

- More than 1,000 fighters abandoned the Taliban's last northern stronghold, Kunduz, and handed their weapons to Northern Alliance troops. (11/25, Newsday)

- As many as 2,000 other Taliban troups surrendered at Maidan Shahr, about 20 miles west of Kabul… (11/25, Newsday)

- West of Kunduz, a reported 600 to 700 Taliban surrendered to the ethnic Uzbek troops of Gen. Abdul Rashid Dostum. (11/25, Newsday)

- "...it appears that thousands of Taliban simply cut and ran, angry with radical mullahs and bin Laden for bringing ruin to their homeland..." (12/2, Knight Ridder/Tribune News Service)

- One mass defection of 1,000 Taliban fighters last week cut off the Taliban's main supply route to the northern city of Mazar-e Sharif. (10/19, The Christian Science Monitor)

- "These defectors are not the highly religious Taliban [stalwarts]," says Alliance General Babajan. "They were mujahideen before, so they can come here. We know them. (10/19, The Christian Science Monitor)

- Alliance officials also speak of another 4,000 defectors in one mass defection - adding territory under their control to the Alliance. (10/19, The Christian Science Monitor)

WHILE OSAMA BIN LADEN & AL QAEDA HIDE IN THEIR CAVES…

"Never forget that those who are now hiding in their caves and holes have once harmed your country. It is unfortunate that they are counted as Muslims, while Islam is innocent of them. The Muslim does not harbor evil for his fellow Muslims." (Source: 10/18, BBC, Saudi Interior Minister HRH Prince Nayif Bin-Abd-al-Aziz)

"I would tell him that for one, Osama bin Laden, you destroyed a whole country," said Hajatullah, 36, a squat blanket-shop owner who first fled Afghanistan in 1989, settling in Quetta, before returning to Afghanistan to fight for the Americans. (Source: Knight Ridder/Tribune News Service, 12/2)

SUMMARY

Osama bin Laden and al Qaeda continue to hide comfortably in their caves while they sacrifice innocent Afghans – especially women and children – to pay the price for their frightening vision. While bin Laden and al Qaeda hide in their caves:

- Innocent Afghans, including many children, are starving to death while bin Laden and al Qaeda are well fed.
- bin Laden and al Qaeda operatives are targeting innocent Afghan civilians by making them military targets.
- bin Laden and al Qaeda operatives continue to commit frightening atrocities.
- bin Laden and al Qaeda operatives are stealing food meant for innocent Afghans.

It is no wonder that thousands of bin Laden and al Qaeda operatives are breaking ranks and deserting. And it's no wonder that Muslim experts around the world continue to condemn their attempt to hijack the peaceful religion of Islam for their terrorist purposes.

While bin Laden and al Qaeda hide in their caves – warm and with plenty of food – bin Laden and al Qaeda operatives are stealing food and supplies meant for innocent Afghans who are literally starving to death.

- 70% of the Afghan people are malnourished.
- Only 13% of the Afghan people have access to clean water.
- One in four Afghan children will not make it to their fifth birthday.
- One in three Afghan children is an orphan.
- One in two Afghan children is malnourished.

Among many, many, examples of al Qaeda's theft of humanitarian supplies include:

- The Taliban seized control of two U.N. World Food Program (WFP) warehouses, one in Kabul, and one in Kandahar, containing more than half the World Food Program's wheat supply for Afghanistan. The WFP in Kandahar had been feeding 150,000 Afghans a month before the Taliban seizure. The WFP reports that 1,600 tons of food and several vehicles have since disappeared from the Kandahar WFP warehouse. (Source: World Food Program)

- The Taliban are actually hijacking humanitarian convoys for military purposes. The November 6 Washington Post reports, "A truck in a convoy purportedly on a humanitarian mission to deliver food tipped over, and crates of tank and mortar shells could be seen spilling to the ground underneath a thin layer of flour."

- The UN refugee agency (UNHCR) says the Taliban is hindering humanitarian efforts inside Afghanistan… Speaking on behalf of the UNHCR, Peter Kessler said the Taliban was failing to cooperate: "The UNHCR and our partner agencies have had our vehicles stolen, our offices taken over and our staff beaten." (Source: BBC)

- The Taliban occupied the Kunduz office and warehouse of the International Organization for Migration (IOM). The warehouse had been stocked with winter clothing, shoes and blankets to be distributed to internally displaced persons in the region. (Source: IOM)

While bin Laden and al Qaeda hide in their caves, their operatives are using innocent Afghan civilians – including women and children – as human military shields.

- The Taliban are actually placing their military assets near civilian areas and using innocent Afghans as human shields for their oppressive regime. For example, the November 6 Washington Post reports that the Taliban are actually placing military assets in mosques and across the street from hospitals and innocent people's homes. Taliban commanders have also taken over humanitarian aid facilities for military purposes. A senior officer tells the Washington Post, "Whole villages are being used as human shields by the Taliban to protect their large stockpiles of ammunition and weapons hidden in nearby caves."

While bin Laden and Al Qaeda hide in their caves – their operatives continue to commit frightening atrocities.

- "Among the accounts of mutilations, beatings and arbitrary executions there was evidence of a new abomination: the torture of children. An unknown number of infants were savagely beaten during the Islamic militia's 14-month occupation of Taloqan, the former headquarters of the Alliance, usually for the supposed crimes of their parents." (Source: The Times [U.K.], 11/13/01)

- "The barbarity of the Taliban plumbed new depths when troops shot dead eight boys for daring to laugh, sickened refugees revealed yesterday. The teenage lads had been chuckling at the soldiers who suddenly raised their Kalashnikov rifles and gunned them down. It was one of a string of atrocities in the besieged Afghanistan city of Kunduz, which was last night poised to fall to the Northern Alliance. At least 300 frightened Taliban were killed by men from their own side because they wanted to surrender." (Source: The Sun [U.K.], 11/19/01)

- "'They burnt some of us alive.' It was almost the first thing he said to us. In the dust and squalor of a refugee camp, Salahuddin told yesterday how the Taliban burnt an entire family to death in their own home in revenge for the American bombing. He says he saw them bringing out the blackened bodies of the children. Then the Taliban took Salahuddin and the other villagers to the front line, where they ordered them to gather up scattered bits of bodies, all that was left of Taliban soldiers killed by the American bombs." (Source: The Independent U.K. 11/9/01)

- "'The Taliban commanders killed 100 of our friends,' said this defector, adding, 'They hung their bodies from lamp posts as a warning to the rest of us.'" (Source: CBS Evening News, 11/19/01)

While bin Laden and al Qaeda hide in their caves, Muslims around the world are condemning their attempt to hijack the peaceful religion of Islam for their terrorist purposes.

What others are saying about bin Laden and al Qaeda:

- "Bin Laden has revealed himself as a terrorist and a criminal," Saudi Defense Minister Prince Sultan said…reminding the local press his country has stripped bin Laden of his Saudi citizenship. (Source:-AP Worldstream, 10/08/01, by Donna Abu-Nasr)

- "Usamah Bin-Ladin himself is no Islamic authority: he's a bloodthirsty murderer, guilty of tens of thousands of crimes. It's not because he invokes God's name and proclaims his allegiance to Islam that people will regard him as an Islamic authority." (Source: Sohib Bencheikh, Mufti of Marseille and Doctor of Theology, BBC Monitoring Europe, 10/09/01)

- "Bin Laden does not speak in the name of Arabs and Muslims." (Source: Amr Moussa, Secretary General of the Arab League, The Ottawa Citizen, 11/05/01)

- "…we should continue to do what needs to be done, to deal with Osama bin Laden… He's been trying to take advantage of Islam, historic Islam, to take on moderate regimes in the Middle East, to take on civilized society in the West and different parts of the world. But it's a distortion…Islam has nothing to do with what…he's propagating." (Source: Nabil Fahmy, Egypt's ambassador to the United States, CBS's "Face the Nation," 11/04/01)

- Ahmed Maher, Egypt's foreign minister, concurred, saying that there is no war between Islam and the West. "I think there is a war between (Mr. bin Laden) and the world." (Source: Columbus Dispatch, 11/07/01)

- "I believe that Mullah Omar and Osama bin Laden are responsible for (the harm) on these innocent people, and God will punish them, because they are the cause for what is happening now. I feel amazed how the Afghan people and interests of Muslims are being sacrificed for the sake of (saving) individuals," Saudi deputy interior minister Prince Ahmad bin Abdul Aziz was quoted as saying. He added that such actions should be condemned by all Muslims. "If bin Laden was a real Mujahid - holy fighter - he should come out of his hideout to save Afghanistan and Islam, and face an international inquiry," Prince Ahmad said. (10/31, AFP)

- Mufti of Marseille Sohib Bencheikh, spiritual leader of the large North African Muslim community in the French city, was quoted as saying, "Bin Laden is no Islamic authority. He is blood-thirsty murderer, guilty of tens of thousands of crimes. It beholds us Muslims to condemn him before anyone else, because his crimes were committed in the name of our religion." (Source: 10/12, The Press Association Limited)

- Saudi Interior Minister HRH Prince Nayif Bin-Abd-al-Aziz, in a speech opening the Ninth Conference of Police and Traffic Commissioners and the national campaign for security and traffic, said,"We denounce terrorism wherever it occurs. But, you must not forget that your country has suffered from terrorism for more than 20 years. Never forget that those who are now hiding in their caves and holes have once harmed your country. It is unfortunate that they are counted as Muslims, while Islam is innocent of them. The Muslim does not harbor evil for his fellow Muslims." (10/18, BBC)

While bin Laden and al Qaeda hide comfortably in their caves, their operatives continue to break ranks and desert their terrorist cause.

Just a few of the many examples of al Qaeda and Taliban desertions:

- More than 1,000 fighters abandoned the Taliban's last northern stronghold, Kunduz, and handed their weapons to Northern Alliance troops. (11/25, Newsday)

- As many as 2,000 other Taliban troups surrendered at Maidan Shahr, about 20 miles west of Kabul… (11/25, Newsday)

- West of Kunduz, a reported 600 to 700 Taliban surrendered to the ethnic Uzbek troops of Gen. Abdul Rashid Dostum. (11/25, Newsday)

- "...it appears that thousands of Taliban simply cut and ran, angry with radical mullahs and bin Laden for bringing ruin to their homeland..." (12/2, Knight Ridder/Tribune News Service)

- One mass defection of 1,000 Taliban fighters last week cut off the Taliban's main supply route to the northern city of Mazar-e Sharif. (10/19, The Christian Science Monitor)

- "These defectors are not the highly religious Taliban [stalwarts]," says Alliance General Babajan. "They were mujahideen before, so they can come here. We know them. (10/19, The Christian Science Monitor)

- Alliance officials also speak of another 4,000 defectors in one mass defection - adding territory under their control to the Alliance. (10/19, The Christian Science Monitor)

I realize that you will be restrained in what you can talk about in terms of the legal aspects of the Executive Order, Brett. But I thought there is an area that would be of interest to us that you could discuss as it is not at issue in the lawsuit. In a sense, there are three aspects of access to records: creation of the records, their maintenance, and then their disclosure. While the EO deals with disclosure, we are also interested in the creation of records and what is being done to make certain they are retained for their future placement in a Bush presidential library.

Creation of records. There are instances many of us can cite of staff members who say they never took notes at meetings and kept as few records as possible. That has been true of many senior staff members I have interviewed from at least two of the last three administrations.

Maintenance of records. There are instances where records were kept but somehow the staff member walked out with the originals of the documents. What measures do you have in place to make certain people will leave behind their original documents and not be allowed to walk out with the originals when they leave their White House post.

The administration has been well organized right from the start and I imagine a solid records policy was developed for both the creation and maintenance of presidential records. A discussion of those policies will provide you with an opportunity to discuss what I suspect are very good records procedures that the academic and archival communities will be glad to hear about.

You can reach me today at 639-8734 and tomorrow on my cell phone at PRA 6

United States Senate
???Concern for the Integrity and Reputation of the United States Civil Rights Commission???

December 6, 2001

?? ?? Mr. President, I rise today to address an unfortunate situation that has come to my attention concerning the United States Civil Rights Commission.??
One might even say that it is unbelievable.
?? ?? Mr. President, there is no one in this body that has greater appreciation for the work and history of the United States Civil Rights Commission than I do, and for the need of having a body such as this that can review issues that may arise in the area of civil rights without the taint of partisanship or ideologies.?? It is comforting to know that there is such a body that gathers disinterested public servants of unimpeachable integrity with a passion for the great work of securing the freedoms which belong to all citizens, without discrimination.????

?? ?? As you know, Mr. President, the Congress has taken a great interest in the appointment of the Commission???s eight members.?? In fact, four of the eight are appointed by the Congress, two by the Senate and two by the House.?? The President appoints the other four.?? In each case, whether appointed by the President or by the Congress, the Commission must have an equal number of Commissioners from each party.?? ????
?? ?? Mr. President, it appears that there is a controversy brewing as to when the term of a Commissioner expires.?? I believe that this controversy could do severe harm to the reputation of the Civil Rights Commission and the trust that is placed in it by the American people.?? ?? I hope that this is a matter that will have an immediate resolution.????
?? ?? Apparently, one of the presidential appointees of the previous Administration, Victoria Wilson, is refusing to accept the expiration of her term.?? Ms. Wilson claims that she was appointed for a six-year term, although it appears that President Clinton expressly appointed her for only one year to complete the unexpired term of Judge Leon Higgenbotham, who died before his term expired.???? It appears also that the Chairwoman of the Committee, Mary Frances Berry, has told the White House that she refuses to recognize the President???s new appointee, a person, by the way, of impeccable credentials who is an attorney with a distinguished career.?? Chairwoman Berry has indicated that it would take federal marshals to seat the President???s appointee when the Commission next meets.
?? ?? Now, Mr. President, as if the American people did not have enough drama in their lives, we hardly need something like this to further erode the public???s confidence in the Civil Rights Commission.???? I think many of us are already concerned with the work of the Commission in recent years.?? They have taken on rather partisan issues, or at very least they have prosecuted issues in what often appears to be partisan ways, and arguably injudicious ways.?? I will not get into these concerns, Mr. President, but I am afraid that the Commission is doing great harm to the trust of the American people.??

?? ?? Rather, I would like to comment on the current situation, which is a matter of existing law.?? What is especially troubling is that it appears that Chairwoman Berry and Ms. Wilson are refusing to comply with the legal opinion of the White House Counsel, Judge Gonzales, as well as the independent opinion of the Justice Department.??
?? ?? As you know, Mr. President, in 1994 Congress amended the provisions governing the appointment of the Civil Rights Commissioners.???? Congress???s intent was to ensure that the terms of the Commissioners would not expire all at once.
We made provision for staggered terms for the Commissioners, adopting what is universally deemed good practice in the private corporate and nonprofit arenas.
Staggered terms preserve institutional memory and experience.?? To have staggered terms requires that an appointee named to fill an unexpired term serve for only the remainder of that term.?? To do otherwise would completely eviscerate the staggering that Congress intended.?? The argument that Ms. Wilson, and Chairwoman Berry, is making ??? that all appointments, and Ms. Wilson???s appointment in particular, are always for terms of six years ??? would create the untenable opportunity for mischief if Commissioners were to resign at the end of a particular Administration.?? Commissioners could resign as a group, allowing a departing Administration to fill several seats for six year terms, and denying the incoming Administration the right to name any Commissioners.?? ??
?? ?? This argument, Mr. President, not only makes no sense, but I am also afraid that this sort of confrontational approach does very real harm to the reputation of the Commission and its individual members who the American people expect to be disinterested, apolitical public servants.?? I invite my colleagues to urge the immediate resolution of this matter.
?? ?? Thank you, Mr. President.?? I yield the floor.

Concern for the Integrity and Reputation of the

December 6, 2001

Mr. President, I rise today to address an unfortunate situation that has come to my attention concerning the United States Civil Rights Commission. One might even say that it is unbelievable.

Mr. President, there is no one in this body that has greater appreciation for the work and history of the United States Civil Rights Commission than I do, and for the need of having a body such as this that can review issues that may arise in the area of civil rights without the taint of partisanship or ideologies. As you know, Mr. President, the Congress has taken a great interest in th e appointment of the Commissions eight members. In fact, four of the eight ar e appointed by the Congress, two by the Senate and two by the House. The President appoints the other four. In each case, whether appointed by the President or by the Congress, the Commission must have an equal number of Commissioners from each party.

Mr. President, it appears that there is a controversy brewing as to when the term of a Commissioner expires. I believe that this controversy could do se vere harm to the reputation of the Civil Rights Commission and the trust that is placed in it by the American people. I hope that this is a matter that wil l have an immediate resolution.

Apparently, one of the presidential appointees of the previous Administration, Victoria Wilson, is refusing to accept the expiration of he r term. Ms. Wilson claims that she was appointed for a six-year term, althoug h it appears that President Clinton expressly appointed her for only one year to complete the unexpired term of Judge Leon Higgenbotham, who died before his term expired. It appears also that the Chairwoman of the Committee, Mary Frances Berry, has told the White House that she refuses to recognize the President s new appointee, a person, by the way, of impeccable credentials who is an attorney with a distinguished career. Chairwoman Berry has indicated that i t would take federal marshals to seat the Presidents appointee when the Commission next meets.

Now, Mr. President, as if the American people did not have enough drama i n their lives, we hardly need something like this to further erode the public s confidence in the Civil Rights Commission. I think many of us are already concerned with the work of the Commission in recent years. They have taken on rather partisan issues, or at very least they have prosecuted issues in wha t often appears to be partisan ways, and arguably injudicious ways. I will no t get into these concerns, Mr. President, but I am afraid that the Commission is doing great harm to the trust of the American people.

Rather, I would like to comment on the current situation, which is a matt er of existing law. What is especially troubling is that it appears that Chairwoman Berry and Ms. Wilson are refusing to comply with the legal opini on of the White House Counsel, Judge Gonzales, as well as the independent opinion of the Justice Department.

As you know, Mr. President, in 1994 Congress amended the provisions governing the appointment of the Civil Rights Commissioners. Congresss inte nt was to ensure that the terms of the Commissioners would not expire all at o nce.

We made provision for staggered terms for the Commissioners, adopting what is universally deemed good practice in the private corporate and nonprofit are nas. Staggered terms preserve institutional memory and experience. To have stagg ered terms requires that an appointee named to fill an unexpired term serve for only the remainder of that term. To do otherwise would completely eviscerate the staggering that Congress intended. The argument that Ms. Wilson, and Chairw oman Berry, is making that all appointments, and Ms. Wilsons appointment in particular, are always for terms of six years would create the untenable opportunity for mischief if Commissioners were to resign at the end of a particular Administration. Commissioners could resign as a group, allowing a departing Administration to fill several seats for six year terms, and deny ing the incoming Administration the right to name any Commissioners.

This argument, Mr. President, not only makes no sense, but I am also afra id that this sort of confrontational approach does very real harm to the reput ation of the Commission and its individual members who the American people expect to be disinterested, apolitical public servants. I invite my colleagues to urg e the immediate resolution of this matter.

Thank you, Mr. President. I yield the floor.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "The news that a woman has been named deputy prime minister of Afghanistan made headlines around the world Wednesday…[Sima] Samar, 44, is a physician and founder of the Shuhada Organization network of clinics, hospitals and schools that began in this southern Pakistani border town [Quetta] and spread all over central Afghanistan. In addition to the deputy prime minister job, she has been appointed minister of women's and children's affairs in the interim government." (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

- "Mahzawar Angoor, 60, protested that she was too old and uneducated to have an opinion [about Samar's appointment] and clutched her scarf over her face. But then she let the scarf fall. 'I thank God that now we have a woman in government,' she declared. 'We always say welcome to peace. Maybe a woman knows how to keep it.'" (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

Message

- What happened at Pearl Harbor was the start of a long and terrible war for America. Yet out of that surprise attack grew a steadfast resolve that made America freedom's defender. And that mission – our great calling – continues to this hour, as the brave men and women of our military fight the forces of terror in Afghanistan and around the world.

- We are fighting to protect ourselves and our children from violence and fear. We are fighting for the security of our people and the success of liberty. We are fighting against men without conscience, but full of ambition – to remake the world in their own brutal image. For all these reasons we are fighting to win – and win we will.

- There is a great divide in our time – not between religions or cultures, but between civilization and barbarism. People of all cultures wish to live in safety and dignity. The hope of justice and mercy and better lives are common to all humanity. Our enemies reject these values – and by doing so, they set themselves not against the West but against the world.

- We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. They are said to be prepared for a long stay underground. But they are in for a sudden change of plans – because one by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

In Case You Missed It

- A USAID-funded airlift of food commodities from Quetta to Turkmenabad and Osh has been completed. The airlift was made necessary by insecurity along the road from Quetta to Kandahar. A total of 2,240 metric tons of wheat was airlifted to help meet the food needs of thousands of Afghans.

Facts of the Day

- As of December 6, the United States Government had provided a total of $178,214,363 in humanitarian assistance in response to the Central Asia crisis.

- As of December 6, the Department of Defense has airdropped a total of 2,212,260 Humanitarian Daily Rations into Afghanistan.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "The news that a woman has been named deputy prime minister of Afghanistan made headlines around the world Wednesday…[Sima] Samar, 44, is a physician and founder of the Shuhada Organization network of clinics, hospitals and schools that began in this southern Pakistani border town [Quetta] and spread all over central Afghanistan. In addition to the deputy prime minister job, she has been appointed minister of women's and children's affairs in the interim government." (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

- "Mahzawar Angoor, 60, protested that she was too old and uneducated to have an opinion [about Samar's appointment] and clutched her scarf over her face. But then she let the scarf fall. 'I thank God that now we have a woman in government,' she declared. 'We always say welcome to peace. Maybe a woman knows how to keep it.'" (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

Message

- What happened at Pearl Harbor was the start of a long and terrible war for America. Yet out of that surprise attack grew a steadfast resolve that made America freedom's defender. And that mission – our great calling – continues to this hour, as the brave men and women of our military fight the forces of terror in Afghanistan and around the world.

- We are fighting to protect ourselves and our children from violence and fear. We are fighting for the security of our people and the success of liberty. We are fighting against men without conscience, but full of ambition – to remake the world in their own brutal image. For all these reasons we are fighting to win – and win we will.

- There is a great divide in our time – not between religions or cultures, but between civilization and barbarism. People of all cultures wish to live in safety and dignity. The hope of justice and mercy and better lives are common to all humanity. Our enemies reject these values – and by doing so, they set themselves not against the West but against the world.

- We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. They are said to be prepared for a long stay underground. But they are in for a sudden change of plans – because one by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

In Case You Missed It

- A USAID-funded airlift of food commodities from Quetta to Turkmenabad and Osh has been completed. The airlift was made necessary by insecurity along the road from Quetta to Kandahar. A total of 2,240 metric tons of wheat was airlifted to help meet the food needs of thousands of Afghans.

Facts of the Day

- As of December 6, the United States Government had provided a total of $178,214,363 in humanitarian assistance in response to the Central Asia crisis.

- As of December 6, the Department of Defense has airdropped a total of 2,212,260 Humanitarian Daily Rations into Afghanistan.

BEFORE & AFTER

As Jamili Awhari sat down for her first broadcast on Radio Afghanistan, she took off the burka required by the Taliban. She put on a scarf instead. "Congratulations," she said to her listeners. "Through the walls and the doors of Kabul we hear sounds of happiness."

--ABC World News Tonight, 11/15/01

We're a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come.

Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. They may be prepared for a long stay underground, but they are in for a sudden change of plans – because one by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

But as al Qaeda and the Taliban watch their frightening vision become relegated to history's unmarked graves of discarded lies, it is worth taking a moment to look at how things are improving for those Afghans who have been freed from the al Qaeda and Taliban regime.

For example, where Kabul's soccer stadium was used every third Friday as a house of execution, it is now used by children for soccer. Where music, kites, singing and open laughter were forbidden, Afghans are now living happier lives and enjoying new freedoms.

Consider Afghan women who have suffered years of al Qaeda and Taliban atrocities. Under the al Qaeda and Taliban regime, women are not allowed to participate in society, are beaten for working or seeking an education, and are forbidden from moving about their communities freely.

Today, in those areas lucky enough to have been liberated from al Qaeda and the Taliban, women are enjoying new freedoms. Here are just a few examples:

- ☑ Recently completed negotiations have guaranteed that Afhgan women will be represented at the highest levels of the new Afghan government.
- ☑ 2,424 women in Kabul alone are working with the World Food Program to distribute food to the needy. (Source: World Food Program)
- ☑ Radio Afghanistan hired 3 women to read the news on the radio. (Source: Associated Press)
- ☑ In Nangarhar Province in eastern Afghanistan 3,500 girls have registered for classes and 320 women teachers have returned to work. (Source: The Daily Express UK)
- ☑ Women run 45 bakeries in Kabul and Mazar-I-Shariff (Source: World Food Program)
- ☑ A 16-year-old girl opened Kabul Television's return to the airwaves after a 5-year blackout under the Taliban (Source: The Independent UK)
- ☑ The World Food Program's Afghan offices are already employing 15 women full time. 7 are based in Kabul, with others in Jalalabad, Kandahar, Faizabadm, Herat, and Mazar-I-Shariff. (Source: World Food Program)

BEFORE & AFTER

As Jamili Awhari sat down for her first broadcast on Radio Afghanistan, she took off the burka required by the Taliban. She put on a scarf instead. "Congratulations," she said to her listeners. "Through the walls and the doors of Kabul we hear sounds of happiness."

--ABC World News Tonight, 11/15/01

We're a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come.

Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. They may be prepared for a long stay underground, but they are in for a sudden change of plans – because one by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

But as al Qaeda and the Taliban watch their frightening vision become relegated to history's unmarked graves of discarded lies, it is worth taking a moment to look at how things are improving for those Afghans who have been freed from the al Qaeda and Taliban regime.

For example, where Kabul's soccer stadium was used every third Friday as a house of execution, it is now used by children for soccer. Where music, kites, singing and open laughter were forbidden, Afghans are now living happier lives and enjoying new freedoms.

Consider Afghan women who have suffered years of al Qaeda and Taliban atrocities. Under the al Qaeda and Taliban regime, women are not allowed to participate in society, are beaten for working or seeking an education, and are forbidden from moving about their communities freely.

Today, in those areas lucky enough to have been liberated from al Qaeda and the Taliban, women are enjoying new freedoms. Here are just a few examples:

- ☑ Recently completed negotiations have guaranteed that Afhgan women will be represented at the highest levels of the new Afghan government.
- ☑ 2,424 women in Kabul alone are working with the World Food Program to distribute food to the needy. (Source: World Food Program)
- ☑ Radio Afghanistan hired 3 women to read the news on the radio. (Source: Associated Press)
- ☑ In Nangarhar Province in eastern Afghanistan 3,500 girls have registered for classes and 320 women teachers have returned to work. (Source: The Daily Express UK)
- ☑ Women run 45 bakeries in Kabul and Mazar-I-Shariff (Source: World Food Program)
- ☑ A 16-year-old girl opened Kabul Television's return to the airwaves after a 5-year blackout under the Taliban (Source: The Independent UK)
- ☑ The World Food Program's Afghan offices are already employing 15 women full time. 7 are based in Kabul, with others in Jalalabad, Kandahar, Faizabadm, Herat, and Mazar-I-Shariff. (Source: World Food Program)

BEFORE & AFTER

As Jamili Awhari sat down for her first broadcast on Radio Afghanistan, she took off the burka required by the Taliban. She put on a scarf instead. "Congratulations," she said to her listeners. "Through the walls and the doors of Kabul we hear sounds of happiness."

--ABC World News Tonight, 11/15/01

We're a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come.

Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. They may be prepared for a long stay underground, but they are in for a sudden change of plans – because one by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

But as al Qaeda and the Taliban watch their frightening vision become relegated to history's unmarked graves of discarded lies, it is worth taking a moment to look at how things are improving for those Afghans who have been freed from the al Qaeda and Taliban regime.

For example, where Kabul's soccer stadium was used every third Friday as a house of execution, it is now used by children for soccer. Where music, kites, singing and open laughter were forbidden, Afghans are now living happier lives and enjoying new freedoms.

Consider Afghan women who have suffered years of al Qaeda and Taliban atrocities. Under the al Qaeda and Taliban regime, women are not allowed to participate in society, are beaten for working or seeking an education, and are forbidden from moving about their communities freely.

Today, in those areas lucky enough to have been liberated from al Qaeda and the Taliban, women are enjoying new freedoms. Here are just a few examples:

- ☑ Recently completed negotiations have guaranteed that Afhgan women will be represented at the highest levels of the new Afghan government.
- ☑ 2,424 women in Kabul alone are working with the World Food Program to distribute food to the needy. (Source: World Food Program)
- ☑ Radio Afghanistan hired 3 women to read the news on the radio. (Source: Associated Press)
- ☑ In Nangarhar Province in eastern Afghanistan 3,500 girls have registered for classes and 320 women teachers have returned to work. (Source: The Daily Express UK)
- ☑ Women run 45 bakeries in Kabul and Mazar-I-Shariff (Source: World Food Program)
- ☑ A 16-year-old girl opened Kabul Television's return to the airwaves after a 5-year blackout under the Taliban (Source: The Independent UK)
- ☑ The World Food Program's Afghan offices are already employing 15 women full time. 7 are based in Kabul, with others in Jalalabad, Kandahar, Faizabadm, Herat, and Mazar-I-Shariff. (Source: World Food Program)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "The news that a woman has been named deputy prime minister of Afghanistan made headlines around the world Wednesday…[Sima] Samar, 44, is a physician and founder of the Shuhada Organization network of clinics, hospitals and schools that began in this southern Pakistani border town [Quetta] and spread all over central Afghanistan. In addition to the deputy prime minister job, she has been appointed minister of women's and children's affairs in the interim government." (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

- "Mahzawar Angoor, 60, protested that she was too old and uneducated to have an opinion [about Samar's appointment] and clutched her scarf over her face. But then she let the scarf fall. 'I thank God that now we have a woman in government,' she declared. 'We always say welcome to peace. Maybe a woman knows how to keep it.'" (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

Message

- What happened at Pearl Harbor was the start of a long and terrible war for America. Yet out of that surprise attack grew a steadfast resolve that made America freedom's defender. And that mission – our great calling – continues to this hour, as the brave men and women of our military fight the forces of terror in Afghanistan and around the world.

- We are fighting to protect ourselves and our children from violence and fear. We are fighting for the security of our people and the success of liberty. We are fighting against men without conscience, but full of ambition – to remake the world in their own brutal image. For all these reasons we are fighting to win – and win we will.

- There is a great divide in our time – not between religions or cultures, but between civilization and barbarism. People of all cultures wish to live in safety and dignity. The hope of justice and mercy and better lives are common to all humanity. Our enemies reject these values – and by doing so, they set themselves not against the West but against the world.

- We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. They are said to be prepared for a long stay underground. But they are in for a sudden change of plans – because one by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

In Case You Missed It

- A USAID-funded airlift of food commodities from Quetta to Turkmenabad and Osh has been completed. The airlift was made necessary by insecurity along the road from Quetta to Kandahar. A total of 2,240 metric tons of wheat was airlifted to help meet the food needs of thousands of Afghans.

Facts of the Day

- As of December 6, the United States Government had provided a total of $178,214,363 in humanitarian assistance in response to the Central Asia crisis.

- As of December 6, the Department of Defense has airdropped a total of 2,212,260 Humanitarian Daily Rations into Afghanistan.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "The news that a woman has been named deputy prime minister of Afghanistan made headlines around the world Wednesday…[Sima] Samar, 44, is a physician and founder of the Shuhada Organization network of clinics, hospitals and schools that began in this southern Pakistani border town [Quetta] and spread all over central Afghanistan. In addition to the deputy prime minister job, she has been appointed minister of women's and children's affairs in the interim government." (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

- "Mahzawar Angoor, 60, protested that she was too old and uneducated to have an opinion [about Samar's appointment] and clutched her scarf over her face. But then she let the scarf fall. 'I thank God that now we have a woman in government,' she declared. 'We always say welcome to peace. Maybe a woman knows how to keep it.'" (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

Message

- What happened at Pearl Harbor was the start of a long and terrible war for America. Yet out of that surprise attack grew a steadfast resolve that made America freedom's defender. And that mission – our great calling – continues to this hour, as the brave men and women of our military fight the forces of terror in Afghanistan and around the world.

- We are fighting to protect ourselves and our children from violence and fear. We are fighting for the security of our people and the success of liberty. We are fighting against men without conscience, but full of ambition – to remake the world in their own brutal image. For all these reasons we are fighting to win – and win we will.

- There is a great divide in our time – not between religions or cultures, but between civilization and barbarism. People of all cultures wish to live in safety and dignity. The hope of justice and mercy and better lives are common to all humanity. Our enemies reject these values – and by doing so, they set themselves not against the West but against the world.

- We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. They are said to be prepared for a long stay underground. But they are in for a sudden change of plans – because one by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

In Case You Missed It

- A USAID-funded airlift of food commodities from Quetta to Turkmenabad and Osh has been completed. The airlift was made necessary by insecurity along the road from Quetta to Kandahar. A total of 2,240 metric tons of wheat was airlifted to help meet the food needs of thousands of Afghans.

Facts of the Day

- As of December 6, the United States Government had provided a total of $178,214,363 in humanitarian assistance in response to the Central Asia crisis.

- As of December 6, the Department of Defense has airdropped a total of 2,212,260 Humanitarian Daily Rations into Afghanistan.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "The news that a woman has been named deputy prime minister of Afghanistan made headlines around the world Wednesday…[Sima] Samar, 44, is a physician and founder of the Shuhada Organization network of clinics, hospitals and schools that began in this southern Pakistani border town [Quetta] and spread all over central Afghanistan. In addition to the deputy prime minister job, she has been appointed minister of women's and children's affairs in the interim government." (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

- "Mahzawar Angoor, 60, protested that she was too old and uneducated to have an opinion [about Samar's appointment] and clutched her scarf over her face. But then she let the scarf fall. 'I thank God that now we have a woman in government,' she declared. 'We always say welcome to peace. Maybe a woman knows how to keep it.'" (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

Message

- What happened at Pearl Harbor was the start of a long and terrible war for America. Yet out of that surprise attack grew a steadfast resolve that made America freedom's defender. And that mission – our great calling – continues to this hour, as the brave men and women of our military fight the forces of terror in Afghanistan and around the world.

- We are fighting to protect ourselves and our children from violence and fear. We are fighting for the security of our people and the success of liberty. We are fighting against men without conscience, but full of ambition – to remake the world in their own brutal image. For all these reasons we are fighting to win – and win we will.

- There is a great divide in our time – not between religions or cultures, but between civilization and barbarism. People of all cultures wish to live in safety and dignity. The hope of justice and mercy and better lives are common to all humanity. Our enemies reject these values – and by doing so, they set themselves not against the West but against the world.

- We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. They are said to be prepared for a long stay underground. But they are in for a sudden change of plans – because one by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

In Case You Missed It

- A USAID-funded airlift of food commodities from Quetta to Turkmenabad and Osh has been completed. The airlift was made necessary by insecurity along the road from Quetta to Kandahar. A total of 2,240 metric tons of wheat was airlifted to help meet the food needs of thousands of Afghans.

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "The news that a woman has been named deputy prime minister of Afghanistan made headlines around the world Wednesday…[Sima] Samar, 44, is a physician and founder of the Shuhada Organization network of clinics, hospitals and schools that began in this southern Pakistani border town [Quetta] and spread all over central Afghanistan. In addition to the deputy prime minister job, she has been appointed minister of women's and children's affairs in the interim government." (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

- "Mahzawar Angoor, 60, protested that she was too old and uneducated to have an opinion [about Samar's appointment] and clutched her scarf over her face. But then she let the scarf fall. 'I thank God that now we have a woman in government,' she declared. 'We always say welcome to peace. Maybe a woman knows how to keep it.'" (Kim Murphy; Los Angeles Times, 12/6/01)

Message

- What happened at Pearl Harbor was the start of a long and terrible war for America. Yet out of that surprise attack grew a steadfast resolve that made America freedom's defender. And that mission – our great calling – continues to this hour, as the brave men and women of our military fight the forces of terror in Afghanistan and around the world.

- We are fighting to protect ourselves and our children from violence and fear. We are fighting for the security of our people and the success of liberty. We are fighting against men without conscience, but full of ambition – to remake the world in their own brutal image. For all these reasons we are fighting to win – and win we will.

- There is a great divide in our time – not between religions or cultures, but between civilization and barbarism. People of all cultures wish to live in safety and dignity. The hope of justice and mercy and better lives are common to all humanity. Our enemies reject these values – and by doing so, they set themselves not against the West but against the world.

- We are a long way from finished in Afghanistan. Much difficult and dangerous work is yet to come. Many terrorists are still hiding in heavily fortified bunkers in rugged territory. They are said to be prepared for a long stay underground. But they are in for a sudden change of plans – because one by one, we are going to find them. Piece by piece, we will destroy their network of terror.

In Case You Missed It

- A USAID-funded airlift of food commodities from Quetta to Turkmenabad and Osh has been completed. The airlift was made necessary by insecurity along the road from Quetta to Kandahar. A total of 2,240 metric tons of wheat was airlifted to help meet the food needs of thousands of Afghans.

Facts of the Day

- As of December 6, the United States Government had provided a total of $178,214,363 in humanitarian assistance in response to the Central Asia crisis.

- As of December 6, the Department of Defense has airdropped a total of 2,212,260 Humanitarian Daily Rations into Afghanistan.

That's fine, Brett. Carl Cannon is coming instead of Bob Deans who will be in

In Case You Missed It…

- "…bin Laden had issued an order for Arab and Chechen families to stand and fight at any cost. 'The sheikh says keep your children in the caves and fight for Allah. Give guns to your wives as necessary to fight against the infidel aggressors.'" (The Daily Telegraph [U.K.], 12/7/01)

Recent Key Quotes & Developments

- "Taking their weapons with them, Taliban fighters abandoned their last bastion Kandahar on Friday and were attacked by U.S. ground forces. Witnesses in the southern city said joyous residents poured into the streets and tore down the Taliban white flag." (AP, 12/7/01)
- "Omar told his gunmen to fight to the death, yet he has surrendered rather than risk his own life. He was prepared to sacrifice others but not prepared to do battle himself. That is typical of the man." (Afghan Foreign Ministry worker Zahir Faqiri; The Daily Mirror [U.K.], 12/7/01)
- "Wild scenes of celebration all over Afghanistan greeted the news that the [Taliban] regime was to give up the southern bastion of Kandahar." (The Sun [U.K.], 12/7/01)
- "'They [Taliban] caught me playing chess in a friend' shop in May and locked me up for to weeks,' said Najeeb, 20, a medical student." (Washington Post, 12/7/01)

Message

The President today is visiting New Windsor, Maryland, to help send off the first shipment of humanitarian aid purchased from funds donated by America's children. To date, American's children have donated more than $1.5 million to help the children of Afghanistan.

The shipment will leave this weekend and will contain vital supplies and some fun surprises for the children of Afghanistan, including:

- 1,500 tents to provide shelter for Afghan children and families that will provide shelter for approximately 10,000 children.
- 1,658 winter jackets to help children through the winter.
- 10,000 gift parcels, including winter hats, wool socks, soap, school supplies, crayons, toothbrushes, hairbrushes, candy, and toys to bring a little joy to children who have endured terrible hardship. Each gift parcel is marked "A Gift to Afghan Children from American Children."

This shipment of goods will be sent to the northern Afghanistan provinces of Faryab and Balkh.

Federal Express has donated the flight to take this first shipment to the region. On Sunday morning the plane will depart Dulles Airport for the flight to Ramstein Air Base in Germany. In Germany the shipment will be placed on Department of Defense flights that will then fly the shipment in Ashgabat, Turkmenistan. From Turkmenistan, the shipment will be placed on trucks and driven into northern Afghanistan.

Facts of the Day

- The U.N. World Food Program – with U.S. assistance – has established a goal of dispatching 100,000 metric tons of food aid into Afghanistan during the month of December.
- So far in December, more than 11,000 metric tons of food aid have been delivered to Afghanistan.
- 180,000 families in Kabul are being registered to receive food aid. Each family will receive a 50 kg bag of wheat, which is enough to feed one family for one month. This aid will benefit more than 1 million Afghans.

MEET MULLAH OMAR

"Omar told his gunmen to fight to the death, yet he has surrendered rather than risk his own life. He was prepared to sacrifice others but not prepared to do battle himself. That is typical of the man." [Foreign Ministry worker Zahir Faqiri] (Source: The Daily Mirror [U.K.], 12/07/01)

After years killing innocent women and children, after years of stealing humanitarian aid meant for starving Afghans, after years of supporting the al Qaeda network that has killed thousands of innocent citizens, it now seems that Taliban leader Mullah Omar wants to "live with dignity."

Asked about the fate of the one-eyed Omar, who had breathed defiance in the face of U.S. attacks, Zaeef said, "His life will be saved and he will be allowed to live with dignity." (Source: Mullah Omar's spokesman, Reuters, 12/6/01)

What about the dignity of the thousands of innocent people from more than 80 countries who died in the terrorist attacks?

What about the dignity of the mothers and fathers who lost sons and daughters, and the children who lost mothers and fathers?

What about the dignity of the innocent Afghans that Omar, al Qaeda and the Taliban have sentenced to death by stealing their food and medical supplies?

What about the dignity of the one in four Afghan children who will not see their fifth birthday because of years of oppressive rule by Omar's regime?

MULLAH OMAR

- ☑ He vowed that even after his death, generation after generation of Arab children would do what they had been taught since birth – kill British, Israeli and American men, women and children. The one-eyed Islamic extremist and his fanatical disciples have spent years grooming children to become suicide soldiers. Omar boasted, "America has created the evil that is attacking it. The evil will not disappear, even if I die and Osama dies and others die." (Source: The Daily Star, 9/26/01)

- ☑ "We are arming our friends (bin Laden's al-Qaeda network) to prepare them better for the jihad (holy war). The United States can expect plenty of surprises." (Source: Mullah Omar, AFP, 11/29/01).

- ☑ "You (the BBC) and American puppet radios have created concern. But the current situation…is related to a bigger cause – that is the destruction of America." Omar continued, "The plan is going ahead and, God willing, it is being implemented. But it is a huge task, which is beyond the will and comprehension of human beings. If God's help is with us, this will happen within a short period of time; keep in mind this prediction." (Source: Mullah Omar, The Independent UK, 11/16/01)

MEET MULLAH OMAR

"Omar told his gunmen to fight to the death, yet he has surrendered rather than risk his own life. He was prepared to sacrifice others but not prepared to do battle himself. That is typical of the man." [Foreign Ministry worker Zahir Faqiri] (Source: The Daily Mirror [U.K.], 12/07/01)

After years killing innocent women and children, after years of stealing humanitarian aid meant for starving Afghans, after years of supporting the al Qaeda network that has killed thousands of innocent citizens, it now seems that Taliban leader Mullah Omar wants to "live with dignity."

Asked about the fate of the one-eyed Omar, who had breathed defiance in the face of U.S. attacks, Zaeef said, "His life will be saved and he will be allowed to live with dignity." (Source: Mullah Omar's spokesman, Reuters, 12/6/01)

What about the dignity of the thousands of innocent people from more than 80 countries who died in the terrorist attacks?

What about the dignity of the mothers and fathers who lost sons and daughters, and the children who lost mothers and fathers?

What about the dignity of the innocent Afghans that Omar, al Qaeda and the Taliban have sentenced to death by stealing their food and medical supplies?

What about the dignity of the one in four Afghan children who will not see their fifth birthday because of years of oppressive rule by Omar's regime?

MULLAH OMAR

- ☑ He vowed that even after his death, generation after generation of Arab children would do what they had been taught since birth – kill British, Israeli and American men, women and children. The one-eyed Islamic extremist and his fanatical disciples have spent years grooming children to become suicide soldiers. Omar boasted, "America has created the evil that is attacking it. The evil will not disappear, even if I die and Osama dies and others die." (Source: The Daily Star, 9/26/01)

- ☑ "We are arming our friends (bin Laden's al-Qaeda network) to prepare them better for the jihad (holy war). The United States can expect plenty of surprises." (Source: Mullah Omar, AFP, 11/29/01).

- ☑ "You (the BBC) and American puppet radios have created concern. But the current situation…is related to a bigger cause – that is the destruction of America." Omar continued, "The plan is going ahead and, God willing, it is being implemented. But it is a huge task, which is beyond the will and comprehension of human beings. If God's help is with us, this will happen within a short period of time; keep in mind this prediction." (Source: Mullah Omar, The Independent UK, 11/16/01)

MEET MULLAH OMAR

"Omar told his gunmen to fight to the death, yet he has surrendered rather than risk his own life. He was prepared to sacrifice others but not prepared to do battle himself. That is typical of the man." [Foreign Ministry worker Zahir Faqiri] (Source: The Daily Mirror [U.K.], 12/07/01)

After years killing innocent women and children, after years of stealing humanitarian aid meant for starving Afghans, after years of supporting the al Qaeda network that has killed thousands of innocent citizens, it now seems that Taliban leader Mullah Omar wants to "live with dignity."

Asked about the fate of the one-eyed Omar, who had breathed defiance in the face of U.S. attacks, Zaeef said, "His life will be saved and he will be allowed to live with dignity." (Source: Mullah Omar's spokesman, Reuters, 12/6/01)

What about the dignity of the thousands of innocent people from more than 80 countries who died in the terrorist attacks?

What about the dignity of the mothers and fathers who lost sons and daughters, and the children who lost mothers and fathers?

What about the dignity of the innocent Afghans that Omar, al Qaeda and the Taliban have sentenced to death by stealing their food and medical supplies?

What about the dignity of the one in four Afghan children who will not see their fifth birthday because of years of oppressive rule by Omar's regime?

MULLAH OMAR

- ☑ He vowed that even after his death, generation after generation of Arab children would do what they had been taught since birth – kill British, Israeli and American men, women and children. The one-eyed Islamic extremist and his fanatical disciples have spent years grooming children to become suicide soldiers. Omar boasted, "America has created the evil that is attacking it. The evil will not disappear, even if I die and Osama dies and others die." (Source: The Daily Star, 9/26/01)

- ☑ "We are arming our friends (bin Laden's al-Qaeda network) to prepare them better for the jihad (holy war). The United States can expect plenty of surprises." (Source: Mullah Omar, AFP, 11/29/01).

- ☑ "You (the BBC) and American puppet radios have created concern. But the current situation…is related to a bigger cause – that is the destruction of America." Omar continued, "The plan is going ahead and, God willing, it is being implemented. But it is a huge task, which is beyond the will and comprehension of human beings. If God's help is with us, this will happen within a short period of time; keep in mind this prediction." (Source: Mullah Omar, The Independent UK, 11/16/01)

MEET MULLAH OMAR

"Omar told his gunmen to fight to the death, yet he has surrendered rather than risk his own life. He was prepared to sacrifice others but not prepared to do battle himself. That is typical of the man." [Foreign Ministry worker Zahir Faqiri] (Source: The Daily Mirror [U.K.], 12/07/01)

After years killing innocent women and children, after years of stealing humanitarian aid meant for starving Afghans, after years of supporting the al Qaeda network that has killed thousands of innocent citizens, it now seems that Taliban leader Mullah Omar wants to "live with dignity."

Asked about the fate of the one-eyed Omar, who had breathed defiance in the face of U.S. attacks, Zaeef said, "His life will be saved and he will be allowed to live with dignity." (Source: Mullah Omar's spokesman, Reuters, 12/6/01)

What about the dignity of the thousands of innocent people from more than 80 countries who died in the terrorist attacks?

What about the dignity of the mothers and fathers who lost sons and daughters, and the children who lost mothers and fathers?

What about the dignity of the innocent Afghans that Omar, al Qaeda and the Taliban have sentenced to death by stealing their food and medical supplies?

What about the dignity of the one in four Afghan children who will not see their fifth birthday because of years of oppressive rule by Omar's regime?

MULLAH OMAR

- ☑ He vowed that even after his death, generation after generation of Arab children would do what they had been taught since birth – kill British, Israeli and American men, women and children. The one-eyed Islamic extremist and his fanatical disciples have spent years grooming children to become suicide soldiers. Omar boasted, "America has created the evil that is attacking it. The evil will not disappear, even if I die and Osama dies and others die." (Source: The Daily Star, 9/26/01)

- ☑ "We are arming our friends (bin Laden's al-Qaeda network) to prepare them better for the jihad (holy war). The United States can expect plenty of surprises." (Source: Mullah Omar, AFP, 11/29/01).

- ☑ "You (the BBC) and American puppet radios have created concern. But the current situation…is related to a bigger cause – that is the destruction of America." Omar continued, "The plan is going ahead and, God willing, it is being implemented. But it is a huge task, which is beyond the will and comprehension of human beings. If God's help is with us, this will happen within a short period of time; keep in mind this prediction." (Source: Mullah Omar, The Independent UK, 11/16/01)

MEET MULLAH OMAR

"Omar told his gunmen to fight to the death, yet he has surrendered rather than risk his own life. He was prepared to sacrifice others but not prepared to do battle himself. That is typical of the man." [Foreign Ministry worker Zahir Faqiri] (Source: The Daily Mirror [U.K.], 12/07/01)

After years killing innocent women and children, after years of stealing humanitarian aid meant for starving Afghans, after years of supporting the al Qaeda network that has killed thousands of innocent citizens, it now seems that Taliban leader Mullah Omar wants to "live with dignity."

Asked about the fate of the one-eyed Omar, who had breathed defiance in the face of U.S. attacks, Zaeef said, "His life will be saved and he will be allowed to live with dignity." (Source: Mullah Omar's spokesman, Reuters, 12/6/01)

What about the dignity of the thousands of innocent people from more than 80 countries who died in the terrorist attacks?

What about the dignity of the mothers and fathers who lost sons and daughters, and the children who lost mothers and fathers?

What about the dignity of the innocent Afghans that Omar, al Qaeda and the Taliban have sentenced to death by stealing their food and medical supplies?

What about the dignity of the one in four Afghan children who will not see their fifth birthday because of years of oppressive rule by Omar's regime?

MULLAH OMAR

- ☑ He vowed that even after his death, generation after generation of Arab children would do what they had been taught since birth – kill British, Israeli and American men, women and children. The one-eyed Islamic extremist and his fanatical disciples have spent years grooming children to become suicide soldiers. Omar boasted, "America has created the evil that is attacking it. The evil will not disappear, even if I die and Osama dies and others die." (Source: The Daily Star, 9/26/01)

- ☑ "We are arming our friends (bin Laden's al-Qaeda network) to prepare them better for the jihad (holy war). The United States can expect plenty of surprises." (Source: Mullah Omar, AFP, 11/29/01).

- ☑ "You (the BBC) and American puppet radios have created concern. But the current situation…is related to a bigger cause – that is the destruction of America." Omar continued, "The plan is going ahead and, God willing, it is being implemented. But it is a huge task, which is beyond the will and comprehension of human beings. If God's help is with us, this will happen within a short period of time; keep in mind this prediction." (Source: Mullah Omar, The Independent UK, 11/16/01)

MEET MULLAH OMAR

"Omar told his gunmen to fight to the death, yet he has surrendered rather than risk his own life. He was prepared to sacrifice others but not prepared to do battle himself. That is typical of the man." [Foreign Ministry worker Zahir Faqiri] (Source: The Daily Mirror [U.K.], 12/07/01)

After years killing innocent women and children, after years of stealing humanitarian aid meant for starving Afghans, after years of supporting the al Qaeda network that has killed thousands of innocent citizens, it now seems that Taliban leader Mullah Omar wants to "live with dignity."

Asked about the fate of the one-eyed Omar, who had breathed defiance in the face of U.S. attacks, Zaeef said, "His life will be saved and he will be allowed to live with dignity." (Source: Mullah Omar's spokesman, Reuters, 12/6/01)

What about the dignity of the thousands of innocent people from more than 80 countries who died in the terrorist attacks?

What about the dignity of the mothers and fathers who lost sons and daughters, and the children who lost mothers and fathers?

What about the dignity of the innocent Afghans that Omar, al Qaeda and the Taliban have sentenced to death by stealing their food and medical supplies?

What about the dignity of the one in four Afghan children who will not see their fifth birthday because of years of oppressive rule by Omar's regime?

MULLAH OMAR

- ☑ He vowed that even after his death, generation after generation of Arab children would do what they had been taught since birth – kill British, Israeli and American men, women and children. The one-eyed Islamic extremist and his fanatical disciples have spent years grooming children to become suicide soldiers. Omar boasted, "America has created the evil that is attacking it. The evil will not disappear, even if I die and Osama dies and others die." (Source: The Daily Star, 9/26/01)

- ☑ "We are arming our friends (bin Laden's al-Qaeda network) to prepare them better for the jihad (holy war). The United States can expect plenty of surprises." (Source: Mullah Omar, AFP, 11/29/01).

- ☑ "You (the BBC) and American puppet radios have created concern. But the current situation…is related to a bigger cause – that is the destruction of America." Omar continued, "The plan is going ahead and, God willing, it is being implemented. But it is a huge task, which is beyond the will and comprehension of human beings. If God's help is with us, this will happen within a short period of time; keep in mind this prediction." (Source: Mullah Omar, The Independent UK, 11/16/01)

MEET MULLAH OMAR

"Omar told his gunmen to fight to the death, yet he has surrendered rather than risk his own life. He was prepared to sacrifice others but not prepared to do battle himself. That is typical of the man." [Foreign Ministry worker Zahir Faqiri] (Source: The Daily Mirror [U.K.], 12/07/01)

After years killing innocent women and children, after years of stealing humanitarian aid meant for starving Afghans, after years of supporting the al Qaeda network that has killed thousands of innocent citizens, it now seems that Taliban leader Mullah Omar wants to "live with dignity."

Asked about the fate of the one-eyed Omar, who had breathed defiance in the face of U.S. attacks, Zaeef said, "His life will be saved and he will be allowed to live with dignity." (Source: Mullah Omar's spokesman, Reuters, 12/6/01)

What about the dignity of the thousands of innocent people from more than 80 countries who died in the terrorist attacks?

What about the dignity of the mothers and fathers who lost sons and daughters, and the children who lost mothers and fathers?

What about the dignity of the innocent Afghans that Omar, al Qaeda and the Taliban have sentenced to death by stealing their food and medical supplies?

What about the dignity of the one in four Afghan children who will not see their fifth birthday because of years of oppressive rule by Omar's regime?

MULLAH OMAR

- ☑ He vowed that even after his death, generation after generation of Arab children would do what they had been taught since birth – kill British, Israeli and American men, women and children. The one-eyed Islamic extremist and his fanatical disciples have spent years grooming children to become suicide soldiers. Omar boasted, "America has created the evil that is attacking it. The evil will not disappear, even if I die and Osama dies and others die." (Source: The Daily Star, 9/26/01)

- ☑ "We are arming our friends (bin Laden's al-Qaeda network) to prepare them better for the jihad (holy war). The United States can expect plenty of surprises." (Source: Mullah Omar, AFP, 11/29/01).

- ☑ "You (the BBC) and American puppet radios have created concern. But the current situation…is related to a bigger cause – that is the destruction of America." Omar continued, "The plan is going ahead and, God willing, it is being implemented. But it is a huge task, which is beyond the will and comprehension of human beings. If God's help is with us, this will happen within a short period of time; keep in mind this prediction." (Source: Mullah Omar, The Independent UK, 11/16/01)
