I didn't email him back - I called him and said we had nothing to do with those events and I couldn't be involved in the campaign from the WH.

But do we have a standard response we can use for this sort of question?

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

4 (a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the
5 “Flight 100—Century of Aviation Reauthorization Act”.

6 (b) TABLE OF CONTENTS.—

- Sec. 1. Short title; table of contents.
- Sec. 2. Amendments to title 49, United States Code.
- Sec. 3. Effective date.

TITLE I—AUTHORIZATIONS

Sec. 101. Federal Aviation Administration operations.

1 (1) by striking “September 30, 1998” and in-
2 serting “September 30, 2003”; and

3 (2) by striking subparagraphs (1) through (5)
4 and inserting:

5 “(1) $3,400,000,000 for fiscal year 2004;

6 “(2) $3,600,000,000 for fiscal year 2005;

7 “(3) $3,800,000,000 for fiscal year 2006; and

8 “(4) $4,000,000,000 for fiscal year 2007.”.

9 (b) OBLIGATIONAL AUTHORITY.—Section 47104(c)
10 is amended by striking “September 30, 2003” and insert-
11 ing “September 30, 2007”.

12 SEC. 104. ADDITIONAL REAUTHORIZATIONS.

13 (a) CONTRACT AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL TOWER PILOT
14 PROGRAM.—Section 47124(b)(3)(E) is amended by strik-
15 ing “$6,000,000 per fiscal year” and inserting
16 “$6,500,000 for fiscal year 2004, $7,000,000 for fiscal 17 year 2005, $7,500,000 for fiscal year 2006, and
18 $8,000,000 for fiscal year 2007”.

19 (b) SMALL COMMUNITY AIR SERVICE.—Section
20 41743(e)(2) is amended—

21 (1) by striking “and” the first place it appears
22 and inserting a comma; and

23 (2) by inserting after “2003” the following “,
24 and $35,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004
25 through 2008”.

1 continue to serve aboard an aircraft as a flight at-
2 tendant until completion by that individual of the re-
3 quired recurrent or requalification training and sub-
4 sequent certification under this section.

5 “(3) TREATMENT OF FLIGHT ATTENDANT
6 AFTER NOTIFICATION.—On the date that the Ad-
7 ministrator is notified by an air carrier that an indi-
8 vidual has the demonstrated proficiency to be a
9 flight attendant, the individual shall be treated for 10 purposes of this section as holding a certificate
11 issued under the section.

12 “(b) ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATE.—The Adminis-
13 trator shall issue a certificate of demonstrated proficiency
14 under this section to an individual after the Administrator
15 is notified by the air carrier that the individual has suc-
16 cessfully completed all the training requirements for flight
17 attendants approved by the Administrator.

18 “(c) DESIGNATION OF PERSON TO DETERMINE SUC-
19 CESSFUL COMPLETION OF TRAINING.—In accordance
20 with part 183 of chapter 14, Code of Federal Regulation,
21 the director of operations of an air carrier is designated
22 to determine that an individual has successfully completed
23 the training requirements approved by the Administrator
24 for such individual to serve as a flight attendant.

1       “(d) SPECIFICATIONS RELATING TO CERTIFI-
2 CATES.—Each certificate issued under this section shall—

3               “(1) be numbered and recorded by the Adminis-
4 trator;

5               “(2) contain the name, address, and description
6 of the individual to whom the certificate is issued;

7               “(3) contain the name of the air carrier that
8 employs or will employ the certificate holder on the 9 date that the certificate is issued;

10              “(4) is similar in size and appearance to certifi-
11 cates issued to airmen;

12              “(5) contain the airplane group for which the 13 certificate is issued; and

14              “(6) be issued not later than 30 days after the
15 Administrator receives notification from the air car-
16 rier of demonstrated proficiency and, in the case of 17 an individual serving as flight attendant on the ef-
18 fective date of this section, not later than 1 year
19 after such effective date.

20       “(e) APPROVAL OF TRAINING PROGRAMS.—Air car-
21 rier flight attendant training programs shall be subject to
22 approval by the Administrator. All flight attendant train-
23 ing programs approved by the Administrator in the 1-year
24 period ending on the date of enactment of this section
25 shall be treated as providing a demonstrated proficiency

1 for purposes of meeting the certification requirements of
2 this section.

3 “(f) FLIGHT ATTENDANT DEFINED.—In this section,
4 the term ‘flight attendant’ means an individual working
5 as a flight attendant in the cabin of an aircraft that has
6 20 or more seats and is being used by an air carrier to
7 provide air transportation.”.

8 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
9 chapter 447 is further amended by adding at the end the
10 following:

“44729. Flight attendant certification.”.

11 (c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by
12 subsections (a) and (b) shall take effect on the 365th day
13 following the date of enactment of this Act.

14 SEC. 424. CIVIL PENALTY FOR CLOSURE OF AN AIRPORT
15 WITHOUT PROVIDING SUFFICIENT NOTICE.

16 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 463 is amended by add-
17 ing at the end the following:

18 “§ 46319. Closure of an airport without providing suf-
19 ficient notice

20 “(a) PROHIBITION.—A public agency (as defined in 21 section 47102) may not close an airport listed in the na-
22 tional plan of integrated airport systems under section
23 47103 without providing written notice to the Adminis-
24 trator of the Federal Aviation Administration at least 30
25 days before the date of the closure.

1           “(b) PUBLICATION OF NOTICE.—The Administrator
2 shall publish each notice received under subsection (a) in
3 the Federal Register.

4           “(c) CIVIL PENALTY.—A public agency violating sub-
5 section (a) shall be liable for a civil penalty of $10,000
6 for each day that the airport remains closed without hav-
7 ing given the notice required by this section.”.

8           (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
9 chapter 463 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
10 lowing:

          “46319. Closure of an airport without providing sufficient notice.”.

11 SEC. 425. NOISE EXPOSURE MAPS.

12           Section 47503 is amended—

13                   (1) in subsection (a) by striking “1985,” and 14                   inserting “a forecast period that is at least 5 years 15                   in the future”; and

16                   (2) by striking subsection (b) and inserting the
17                   following:

18           “(b) REVISED MAPS.—If, in an area surrounding an 19 airport, a change in the operation of the airport would 20 establish a substantial new noncompatible use, or would
21 significantly reduce noise over existing noncompatible
22 uses, that is not reflected in either the existing conditions
23 map or forecast map currently on file with the Federal
24 Aviation Administration, the airport operator shall submit

1 a revised noise exposure map to the Secretary showing the
 2 new noncompatible use or noise reduction.”.

3 SEC. 426. AMENDMENT OF GENERAL FEE SCHEDULE PRO-
 4 VISION.

5 The amendment made by section 119(d) of the Avia-
 6 tion and Transportation Security Act (115 Stat. 629)
 7 shall not be affected by the savings provisions contained
 8 in section 141 of that Act (115 Stat. 643).

9 SEC. 427. IMPROVEMENT OF CURRICULUM STANDARDS
 10 FOR AVIATION MAINTENANCE TECHNICIANS.

11 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Federal
 12 Aviation Administration shall ensure that the training
 13 standards for airframe and powerplant mechanics under
 14 part 65 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations, are up-
 15 dated and revised in accordance with this section. The Ad-
 16 ministrator may update and revise the training standards
 17 through the initiation of a formal rulemaking or by issuing
 18 an advisory circular or other agency guidance.

19 (b) ELEMENTS FOR CONSIDERATION.—The updated
 20 and revised standards required under subsection (a) shall
 21 include those curriculum adjustments that are necessary
 22 to more accurately reflect current technology and mainte-
 23 nance practices.

24 (c) MINIMUM TRAINING HOURS.—In making adjust-
 25 ments to the maintenance curriculum requirements pursu-

1 ant to this section, the current requirement of 1900 min-
2 imum training hours shall be maintained.

3 (d) CERTIFICATION.—Any adjustment or modifica-
4 tion of current curriculum standards made pursuant to
5 this section shall be reflected in the certification examina-
6 tions of airframe and powerplant mechanics.

7 (e) COMPLETION.—The revised and updated training
8 standards required by subsection (a) shall be completed
9 not later than 12 months after the date of enactment of 10 this Act.

11 (f) PERIODIC REVIEWS AND UPDATES.—The Admin-
12 istrator shall review the content of the curriculum stand-
13 ards for training airframe and powerplant mechanics re-
14 ferred to in subsection (a) every 3 years after completion
15 of the revised and updated training standards required
16 under subsection (a) as necessary to reflect current tech-
17 nology and maintenance practices.

18 SEC. 428. TASK FORCE ON FUTURE OF AIR TRANSPOR-
19 TATION SYSTEM.

20 (a) IN GENERAL.—The President shall establish a
21 task force to work with the Next Generation Air Transpor-
22 tation System Joint Program Office authorized under sec-
23 tion 106(k)(3).

24 (b) MEMBERSHIP.—The task force shall be composed
25 of representatives, appointed by the President, from air

1 carriers, general aviation, pilots, and air traffic controllers
2 and the following government organizations:

3 (1) The Federal Aviation Administration.

4 (2) The National Aeronautics and Space Ad-
5 ministration.

6 (3) The Department of Defense.

7 (4) The Department of Homeland Security.

8 (5) The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Ad-
9 ministration.

10 (6) Other government organizations designated
11 by the President.

12 (c) FUNCTION.—The function of the task force shall
13 be to develop an integrated plan to transform the Nation’s
14 air traffic control system and air transportation system
15 to meet its future needs.

16 (d) PLAN.—Not later than 1 year after the date of 17 establishment of the task force, the task force shall trans-
18 mit to the President and Congress a plan outlining the 19 overall strategy, schedule, and resources needed to develop
20 and deploy the Nation’s next generation air traffic control
21 system and air transportation system.

22 SEC. 429. AIR QUALITY IN AIRCRAFT CABINS.

23 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Federal
24 Aviation Administration shall undertake the studies and
25 analysis called for in the report of the National Research

1 Council entitled “The Airliner Cabin Environment and the
2 Health of Passengers and Crew”.

3 (b) REQUIRED ACTIVITIES.—In carrying out this sec-
4 tion, the Administrator, at a minimum, shall—

5 (1) conduct surveillance to monitor ozone in the
6 cabin on a representative number of flights and air-
7 craft to determine compliance with existing Federal
8 Aviation Regulations for ozone;

9 (2) collect pesticide exposure data to determine
10 exposures of passengers and crew; and

11 (3) analyze samples of residue from aircraft
12 ventilation ducts and filters after air quality inci-
13 dents to identify the allergens, diseases, and other
14 contaminants to which passengers and crew were ex-
15 posed.

16 (c) REPORT.—Not later than 30 months after the
17 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall
18 transmit to Congress a report on the findings of the Ad-
19 ministrator under this section.

21 AGENTS.

22 (a) REPORT.—Not later than 6 months after the date
23 of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Transportation
24 shall transmit to Congress a report on any actions that
25 should be taken with respect to recommendations made

1 by the National Commission to Ensure Consumer Infor-
2 mation and Choice in the Airline Industry on—

- 3 (1) the travel agent arbiter program; and
- 4 (2) the special box on tickets for agents to in-
5 clude their service fee charges.

6 (b) CONSULTATION.—In preparing this report, the
7 Secretary shall consult with representatives from the air-
8 line and travel agent industry.

9 SEC. 431. TASK FORCE ON ENHANCED TRANSFER OF APPLI-
10 CATIONS OF TECHNOLOGY FOR MILITARY
11 AIRCRAFT TO CIVILIAN AIRCRAFT.

12 (a) IN GENERAL.—The President shall establish a
13 task force to look for better methods for ensuring that
14 technology developed for military aircraft is more quickly
15 and easily transferred to applications for improving and
16 modernizing the fleet of civilian aircraft.

17 (b) MEMBERSHIP.—The task force shall be composed
18 of the Secretary of Transportation who shall be the chair
19 of the task force and representatives, appointed by the 20 President, from the following:

- 21 (1) The Department of Transportation.
- 22 (2) The Federal Aviation Administration.
- 23 (3) The Department of Defense.
- 24 (4) The National Aeronautics and Space Ad-
25 ministration.

1 (5) The aircraft manufacturing industry.

2 (6) Such other organizations as the President
3 may designate.

4 (c) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date
5 of enactment of this Act, the task force shall report to
6 Congress on the methods looked at by the task force for
7 ensuring the transfer of applications described in sub-
8 section (a).

9 SEC. 432. REIMBURSEMENT FOR LOSSES INCURRED BY
10 GENERAL AVIATION ENTITIES.

11 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
12 may make grants to reimburse the following general avia-
13 tion entities for the security costs incurred and revenue
14 foregone as a result of the restrictions imposed by the 15 Federal Government following the terrorist attacks on the 16 United States that occurred on September 11, 2001, or
17 the military action to free the people of Iraq that com-
18 menced in March 2003:

19 (1) General aviation entities that operate at
20 Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport.

21 (2) Airports that are located within 15 miles of 22 Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport and
23 were operating under security restrictions on the
24 date of enactment of this Act and general aviation
25 entities operating at those airports.

1 (c) REGIONAL AIR SERVICE INCENTIVE PROGRAM.—
2 Section 41766 is amended by striking “2003” and insert-
3 ing “2007”.

4 (d) FUNDING FOR AVIATION PROGRAMS.—Section
5 106 of the Wendell H. Ford Aviation Investment and Re-
6 form Act for the 21st Century (49 U.S.C. 48101 note)
7 is amended by striking “2003” each place it appears and
8 inserting “2007”.

9 (e) DESIGN-BUILD CONTRACTING.—Section 139(e)
10 of the Wendell H. Ford Aviation Investment and Reform
11 Act for the 21st Century (49 U.S.C. 47104 note) is
12 amended by striking “2003” and inserting “2007”.

13 (f) METROPOLITAN WASHINGTON AIRPORTS AU-
14 THORITY.—Section 49108 is amended by striking “2004”
15 and inserting “2007”.

16 SEC. 105. INSURANCE.

17 (a) TERMINATION.—Section 44310 is amended to
18 read as follows:

19 “§ 44310. Termination date

20 “Effective December 31, 2007, the authority of the 21 Secretary of Transportation to provide insurance and rein-
22 surance under this chapter shall be limited to—

23 “(1) the operation of an aircraft by an air car-
24 rier or foreign air carrier in foreign air commerce or

1           (3) General aviation entities that were affected
2           by Federal Aviation Administration Notices to Air-
3           men FDC 2/0199 and 3/1862 and section 352 of the
4           Department of Transportation and Related Agencies
5           Appropriations Act, 2003 (P.L. 108–7, Division I).

6           (4) General aviation entities affected by imple-
7           mentation of section 44939 of title 49, United
8           States Code.

9           (5) Any other general aviation entity that is
10          prevented from doing business or operating by an
11          action of the Federal Government prohibiting access
12          to airspace by that entity.

13          (b) DOCUMENTATION.—Reimbursement under this
14          section shall be made in accordance with sworn financial 15          statements or other appropriate data submitted by each
16          general aviation entity demonstrating the costs incurred
17          and revenue foregone to the satisfaction of the Secretary.

18          (c) GENERAL AVIATION ENTITY DEFINED.—In this
19          section, the term “general aviation entity” means any per-
20          son (other than a scheduled air carrier or foreign air car-
21          rier, as such terms are defined in section 40102 of title
22          49, United States Code) that—

23                 (1) operates nonmilitary aircraft under part 91
24                 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations, for the pur-
25                 pose of conducting its primary business;

1           (2) manufactures nonmilitary aircraft with a
2 maximum seating capacity of fewer than 20 pas-
3 sengers or aircraft parts to be used in such aircraft;

4           (3) provides services necessary for nonmilitary
5 operations under such part 91; or

6           (4) operates an airport, other than a primary
7 airport (as such terms are defined in such section
8 40102), that—

9                   (A) is listed in the national plan of inte-
10 grated airport systems developed by the Federal 11 Aviation Administration under section 47103 of 12 such title; or

13                   (B) is normally open to the public, is lo-
14 cated within the confines of enhanced class B
15 airspace (as defined by the Federal Aviation
16 Administration in Notice to Airmen FDC 1/
17 0618), and was closed as a result of an order
18 issued by the Federal Aviation Administration
19 in the period beginning September 11, 2001,
20 and ending January 1, 2002, and remained
21 closed as a result of that order on January 1, 22 2002.

23 Such term includes fixed based operators, flight schools,
24 manufacturers of general aviation aircraft and products,

1 persons engaged in nonscheduled aviation enterprises, and
2 general aviation independent contractors.

3 (d) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is
4 authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section
5 $100,000,000. Such sums shall remain available until ex-
6 pended.

7 SEC. 433. IMPASSE PROCEDURES FOR NATIONAL ASSOCIA-
8 TION OF AIR TRAFFIC SPECIALISTS.

9 (a) FAILURE OF CURRENT NEGOTIATIONS.—If, with-
10 in 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the
11 Federal Aviation Administration and the exclusive bar-
12 gaining representative of the National Association of Air
13 Traffic Specialists have failed to achieve agreement
14 through a mediation process of the Federal Mediation and
15 Conciliation Service, the current labor negotiation shall be
16 treated for purposes of this section to have failed.

17 (b) SUBMISSION TO IMPASSE PANEL.—Not later
18 than 30 days after the negotiation has failed under sub-
19 section (a), the parties to the negotiation shall submit un-
20 resolved issues to the Federal Service Impasses Panel de-
21 scribed in section 7119(e) of title 5, United States Code,
22 for final and binding resolution.

23 (c) ASSISTANCE.—The Panel shall render assistance
24 to the parties in resolving their dispute in accordance with

1 section 7119 of title 5, United States Code, and parts
2 2470 and 2471 of title 5, Code of Federal Regulations.

3 (d) DETERMINATION.—The Panel shall make a just
4 and reasonable determination of the matters in dispute.
5 In arriving at such determination, the Panel shall specify
6 the basis for its findings, taking into consideration such
7 relevant factors as are normally and customarily consid-
8 ered in the determination of wages or impasse Panel pro-
9 ceedings. The Panel shall also take into consideration the 10 financial ability of the Administration to pay.

11 (e) EFFECT OF PANEL DETERMINATION.—The de-
12 termination of the Panel shall be final and binding upon
13 the parties for the period prescribed by the Panel or a
14 period otherwise agreed to by the parties.

15 (f) REVIEW.—The determination of the Panel shall
16 be subject to review in the manner prescribed in chapter
17 71 of title 5, United States Code.

18 SEC. 434. FAA INSPECTOR TRAINING.

19 (a) STUDY.—

20 (1) IN GENERAL.—The Comptroller General
21 shall conduct a study of the training of the aviation
22 safety inspectors of the Federal Aviation Adminis-
23 tration (in this section referred to as “FAA inspec-
24 tors”).

25 (2) CONTENTS.—The study shall include—

1 (A) an analysis of the type of training pro-
2 vided to FAA inspectors;

3 (B) actions that the Federal Aviation Ad-
4 ministration has undertaken to ensure that
5 FAA inspectors receive up-to-date training on
6 the latest technologies;

7 (C) the extent of FAA inspector training
8 provided by the aviation industry and whether
9 such training is provided without charge or on
10 a quid-pro-quo basis; and

11 (D) the amount of travel that is required
12 of FAA inspectors in receiving training.

13 (3) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the
14 date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller Gen-
15 eral shall transmit to the Committee on Transpor-
16 tation and Infrastructure of the House of Represent-
17 atives and the Committee on Commerce, Science,
18 and Transportation of the Senate a report on the re-
19 sults of the study.

20 (b) SENSE OF THE HOUSE.—It is the sense of the 21 House of Representatives that—

22 (1) FAA inspectors should be encouraged to
23 take the most up-to-date initial and recurrent train-
24 ing on the latest aviation technologies;

1 (2) FAA inspector training should have a direct
2 relation to an individual's job requirements; and

3 (3) if possible, a FAA inspector should be al-
4 lowed to take training at the location most conven-
5 ient for the inspector.

6 (c) WORKLOAD OF INSPECTORS.—

7 (1) STUDY BY NATIONAL ACADEMY OF
8 SCIENCES.—Not later than 90 days after the date of
9 enactment of this Act, the Administrator of the Fed-
10 eral Aviation Administration shall make appropriate
11 arrangements for the National Academy of Sciences
12 to conduct a study of the assumptions and methods
13 used by the Federal Aviation Administration to esti-
14 mate staffing standards for FAA inspectors to en-
15 sure proper oversight over the aviation industry, in-
16 cluding the designee program.

17 (2) CONTENTS.—The study shall include the
18 following:

19 (A) A suggested method of modifying FAA
20 inspectors staffing models for application to
21 current local conditions or applying some other
22 approach to developing an objective staffing
23 standard.

24 (B) The approximate cost and length of
25 time for developing such models.

1 (3) REPORT.—Not later than 12 months after
2 the initiation of the arrangements under subsection
3 (a), the National Academy of Sciences shall transmit
4 to Congress a report on the results of the study.

5 SEC. 435. PROHIBITION ON AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL PRIVAT-
6 IZATION.

7 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
8 may not authorize the transfer of the air traffic separation
9 and control functions operated by the Federal Aviation
10 Administration on the date of enactment of this Act to 11 a private entity or to a public entity other than the United
12 States Government.

13 (b) CONTRACT TOWER PROGRAM.—Subsection (a)
14 shall not apply to the contract tower program authorized
15 by section 47124 of title 49, United States Code.

17 FORCES.

18 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

19 (1) the Armed Forces is comprised of approxi-
20 mately 1,400,000 members who are stationed on ac-
21 tive duty at more than 6,000 military bases in 146
22 different countries;

23 (2) the United States is indebted to the mem-
24 bers of the Armed Forces, many of whom are in

1 grave danger due to their engagement in, or expo-
2 sure to, combat;

3 (3) military service, especially in the current
4 war against terrorism, often requires members of the
5 Armed Forces to be separated from their families on 6 short notice, for long periods of time, and under
7 very stressful conditions;

8 (4) the unique demands of military service often
9 preclude members of the Armed Forces from pur-
10 chasing discounted advance airline tickets in order
11 to visit their loved ones at home; and

12 (5) it is the patriotic duty of the people of the 13 United States to support the members of the Armed
14 Forces who are defending the Nation's interests
15 around the world at great personal sacrifice.

16 (b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-
17 gress that each United States air carrier should—

18 (1) establish for all members of the Armed
19 Forces on active duty reduced air fares that are 20 comparable to the lowest airfare for ticketed flights;
21 and

22 (2) offer flexible terms that allow members of
23 the Armed Forces on active duty to purchase, mod-
24 ify, or cancel tickets without time restrictions, fees,
25 and penalties.

1 SEC. 437. AIR CARRIERS REQUIRED TO HONOR TICKETS
2 FOR SUSPENDED AIR SERVICE.

3 Section 145(e) of the Aviation and Transportation
4 Security Act (49 U.S.C. 40101 note; 115 stat. 645) is
5 amended by striking “more than” and all that follows
6 through “after” and inserting “more than 36 months
7 after”.

8 SEC. 438. INTERNATIONAL AIR SHOW.

9 (a) STUDY.—The Secretary of Transportation shall
10 study the feasibility of the United States hosting a world-
11 class international air show.

12 (b) REPORT.—Not later than 9 months after the date
13 of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to 14 Congress a report on the results of the study conducted
15 under subsection (a) together with recommendations con-
16 cerning potential locations at which the air show could be 17 held.

18 SEC. 439. DEFINITION OF AIR TRAFFIC CONTROLLER.

19 (a) CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—Section
20 8331 of title 5, United States Code, is amended—

21 (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph
22 (27);

23 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
24 graph (28) and inserting “; and”; and

25 (3) by adding at the end the following:

1           “(29) ‘air traffic controller’ or ‘controller’
2           means—

3                   “(A) a controller within the meaning of
4                   section 2109(1); and

5                   “(B) a civilian employee of the Depart-
6                   ment of Transportation or the Department of
7                   Defense holding a supervisory, managerial, ex-
8                   ecutive, technical, semiprofessional, or profes-
9                   sional position for which experience as a con-
10                  troller (within the meaning of section 2109(1))
11                  is a prerequisite.”.

12           (b) FEDERAL EMPLOYEES’ RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—
13           Section 8401 of title 5, United States Code, is amended—

14                   (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph
15                   (33);

16                   (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
17                   graph (34) and inserting “; and”; and

18                   (3) by adding at the end the following:

19                   “(35) ‘air traffic controller’ or ‘controller’
20                   means—

21                           “(A) a controller within the meaning of
22                           section 2109(1); and

23                           “(B) a civilian employee of the Depart-
24                           ment of Transportation or the Department of
25                           Defense holding a supervisory, managerial, ex-

1 between at least 2 points, all of which are outside
2 the United States; and

3 “(2) insurance obtained by a department, agen-
4 cy, or instrumentality of the United States under
5 section 44305.”.

6 (b) EXTENSION OF POLICIES.—Section 44302(f)(1)
7 is amended by striking “through December 31, 2004,”
8 and inserting “thereafter”.

9 (c) AIRCRAFT MANUFACTURER LIABILITY FOR
10 THIRD PARTY CLAIMS ARISING OUT OF ACTS OF TER-
11 RORISM.—Section 44303(b) is amended by adding at the 12 end the following: “The Secretary may extend the provi-
13 sions of this subsection to the United States manufacturer
14 (as defined in section 44310) of the aircraft of the air
15 carrier involved.”.

16 (d) VENDORS, AGENTS, SUBCONTRACTORS, AND
17 MANUFACTURERS.—

18 (1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 443 is amended—

19 (A) by redesignating section 44310 (as 20 amended by subsection (a) of this section) as 21 section 44311; and

22 (B) by inserting after section 44309 the
23 following:

1           ecutive, technical, semiprofessional, or profes-
2           sional position for which experience as a con-
3           troller (within the meaning of section 2109(1))
4           is a prerequisite.”.

5           (c) MANDATORY SEPARATION TREATMENT NOT AF-
6           FECTED.—

7           (1) CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—Sec-
8           tion 8335(a) of title 5, United States Code, is 9           amended by adding at the end the following: “For 10          purposes of this subsection, the term ‘air traffic con-
11          troller’ or ‘controller’ has the meaning given to it
12          under section 8331(29)(A).”.

13          (2) FEDERAL EMPLOYEES’ RETIREMENT SYS-
14          TEM.—Section 8425(a) of title 5, United States
15          Code, is amended by adding at the end the fol-
16          lowing: “For purposes of this subsection, the term
17          ‘air traffic controller’ or ‘controller’ has the meaning
18          given to it under section 8401(35)(A).”.

19          (d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section and the amend-
20          ments made by this section—

21                 (1) shall take effect on the 60th day after the
22                 date of enactment of this Act; and

23                 (2) shall apply with respect to—

1 (A) any annuity entitlement to which is
2 based on an individual's separation from service
3 occurring on or after that 60th day; and

4 (B) any service performed by any such in-
5 dividual before, on, or after that 60th day, sub-
6 ject to subsection (e).

7 (e) DEPOSIT REQUIRED FOR CERTAIN PRIOR SERV-
8 ICE TO BE CREDITABLE AS CONTROLLER SERVICE.—

9 (1) DEPOSIT REQUIREMENT.—For purposes of
10 determining eligibility for immediate retirement
11 under section 8412(e) of title 5, United States Code,
12 the amendment made by subsection (b) shall, with 13 respect to any service described in paragraph (2), be 14 disregarded unless there is deposited into the Civil
15 Service Retirement and Disability Fund, with re-
16 spect to such service, in such time, form, and man-
17 ner as the Office of Personnel Management by regu-
18 lation requires, an amount equal to the amount by 19 which—

20 (A) the deductions from pay which would
21 have been required for such service if the
22 amendments made by this section had been in
23 effect when such service was performed, exceeds

1 (B) the unrefunded deductions or deposits
2 actually made under subchapter II of chapter
3 84 of such title 5 with respect to such service.

4 The amount under the preceding sentence shall in-
5 clude interest, computed under paragraphs (2) and
6 (3) of section 8334(e) of such title 5.

7 (2) PRIOR SERVICE DESCRIBED.—This sub-
8 section applies with respect to any service performed
9 by an individual, before the 60th day following the
10 date of enactment of this Act, as an employee de-
11 scribed in section 8401(35)(B) of such title 5 (as set
12 forth in subsection (b)).

13 SEC. 440. JUSTIFICATION FOR AIR DEFENSE IDENTIFICA-
14 TION ZONE.

15 (a) IN GENERAL.—If the Administrator of the Fed-
16 eral Aviation Administration establishes an Air Defense
17 Identification Zone (in this section referred as an 18 “ADIZ”), the Administrator shall transmit, not later than 19 60 days after the date of establishing the ADIZ, to the
20 Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the
21 House of Representatives and the Committee on Com-
22 merce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate a report
23 containing an explanation of the need for the ADIZ. The
24 Administrator also shall transmit to the Committees up-
25 dates of the report every 60 days until the ADIZ is re-

1 scinded. The reports and updates shall be transmitted in
2 classified form.

3 (b) EXISTING ADIZ.—If an ADIZ is in effect on the
4 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall
5 transmit an initial report under subsection (a) not later
6 than 30 days after such date of enactment.

7 (c) DEFINITION.—In this section, the terms “Air De-
8 fense Identification Zone” and “ADIZ” each mean a zone
9 established by the Administrator with respect to airspace
10 under 18,000 feet in approximately a 15- to 38-mile ra-
11 dius around Washington, District of Columbia, for which
12 security measures are extended beyond the existing 15-
13 mile no-fly zone around Washington and in which general
14 aviation aircraft are required to adhere to certain proce-
15 dures issued by the Administrator.

16 SEC. 441 . INTERNATIONAL AIR TRANSPORTATION.

17 It is the sense of Congress that, in an effort to mod-
18 ernize its regulations, the Department of Transportation
19 should formally define “Fifth Freedom” and “Seventh
20 Freedom” consistently for both scheduled and charter pas-
21 senger and cargo traffic.

22 TITLE V—AIRPORT
23 DEVELOPMENT

24 SEC. 501. DEFINITIONS.

25 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 47102 is amended—

1 (1) by redesignating paragraphs (19) and (20)
2 as paragraphs (24) and (25), respectively;

3 (2) by inserting after paragraph (18) the fol-
4 lowing:

5 “(23) ‘small hub airport’ means a commercial
6 service airport that has at least 0.05 percent but less
7 than 0.25 percent of the passenger boardings.”;

8 (3) in paragraph (10) by striking subpara-
9 graphs (A) and (B) and inserting following:

10 “(A) means, unless the context indicates
11 otherwise, revenue passenger boardings in the 12 United States in the prior calendar year on an
13 aircraft in service in air commerce, as the Sec-
14 retary determines under regulations the Sec-
15 retary prescribes; and

16 “(B) includes passengers who continue on
17 an aircraft in international flight that stops at
18 an airport in the 48 contiguous States, Alaska,
19 or Hawaii for a nontraffic purpose.”;

20 (4) by redesignating paragraphs (10) through
21 (18) as paragraphs (14) through (22), respectively;

22 (5) by inserting after paragraph (9) the fol-
23 lowing:

1 “(10) ‘large hub airport’ means a commercial
2 service airport that has at least 1.0 percent of the
3 passenger boardings.

4 “(12) ‘medium hub airport’ means a commer-
5 cial service airport that has at least 0.25 percent but
6 less than 1.0 percent of the passenger boardings.

7 “(13) ‘nonhub airport’ means a commercial
8 service airport that has less than 0.05 percent of the 9 passenger boardings.”; and

10 (6) by striking paragraph (6) and inserting the
11 following:

12 “(6) ‘Amount made available under section
13 48103’ or ‘amount newly made available’ means the
14 amount authorized for grants under section 48103
15 as that amount may be limited in that year by a
16 subsequent law, but as determined without regard to 17 grant obligation recoveries made in that year or
18 amounts covered by section 47107(f).”.

19 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section
20 47116(b)(1) is amended by striking “(as defined in section
21 41731) of this title”.

22 SEC. 502. REPLACEMENT OF BAGGAGE CONVEYOR SYS-
23 TEMS.

24 Section 47102(3)(B)(x) is amended by striking the 25 period at the end and inserting the following: “; except

1 that such activities shall be eligible for funding under this
2 subchapter only using amounts apportioned under section
3 47114.”.

4 SEC. 503. SECURITY COSTS AT SMALL AIRPORTS.

5 (a) SECURITY COSTS.—Section 47102(3)(J) is
6 amended to read as follows:

7 “(J) in the case of a nonhub airport or an
8 airport that is not a primary airport in fiscal
9 year 2004, direct costs associated with new, ad-
10 ditional, or revised security requirements im-
11 posed on airport operators by law, regulation,
12 or order on or after September 11, 2001, if the
13 Government’s share is paid only from amounts
14 apportioned to a sponsor under section
15 47114(c) or 47114(d)(3)(A).”.

17 47110(b)(2) is amended—

18 (1) in subparagraph (D) by striking “,
19 47102(3)(K), or 47102(3)(L)”;

20 (2) by aligning the margin of subparagraph (D)
21 with the margin of subparagraph (B).

22 SEC. 504. WITHHOLDING OF PROGRAM APPLICATION AP-
23 PROVAL.

24 Section 47106(d) is amended—

1 (1) in paragraph (1) by striking “section
2 47114(c) and (e) of this title” and inserting “sub-
3 sections (c), (d), and (e) of section 47114”; and

4 (2) by adding at the end the following:

5 “(4) If the Secretary withholds a grant to an airport
6 from the discretionary fund under section 47115 or from
7 the small airport fund under section 47116 on the grounds
8 that the sponsor has violated an assurance or requirement
9 of this subchapter, the Secretary shall follow the proce-
10 dures of this subsection.”.

11 SEC. 505. RUNWAY SAFETY AREAS.

12 (a) APPROVAL OF PROJECT GRANT APPLICATIONS.—
13 Section 47106 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
14 lowing:

15 “(h) RUNWAY SAFETY AREAS.—The Secretary may
16 approve an application under this chapter for a project
17 grant to construct, reconstruct, repair, or improve a run-
18 way only if the Secretary receives written assurances, sat-
19 isfactory to the Secretary, that the sponsor will undertake,
20 to the maximum extent practical, improvement of the run-
21 way’s safety area to meet the standards of the Federal 22 Aviation Administration.”.

1 SEC. 506. DISPOSITION OF LAND ACQUIRED FOR NOISE
2 COMPATIBILITY PURPOSES.

3 Section 47107(c) is amended by adding at the end
4 the following:

5 “(4) Notwithstanding paragraph (2)(A)(iii), an air-
6 port owner or operator may retain all or any portion of 7 the proceeds from a land disposition described in that
8 paragraph if the Secretary finds that the use of the land
9 will be compatible with airport purposes and the proceeds
10 retained will be used for airport development or to carry
11 out a noise compatibility program under section
12 47504(c).”.

13 SEC. 507. GRANT ASSURANCES.

14 (a) HANGAR CONSTRUCTION.—Section 47107(a) is
15 amended—

16 (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph
17 (19);

18 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
19 graph (20) and inserting “; and”; and

20 (3) by adding at the end the following:

21 “(21) if the airport owner or operator and a
22 person who owns an aircraft agree that a hangar is 23 to be constructed at the airport for the aircraft at 24 the aircraft owner’s expense, the airport owner or
25 operator will grant to the aircraft owner for the 26 hangar a long-term lease (of not less than 50 years)

1 that is subject to such terms and conditions on the
2 hangar as the airport owner or operator may im-
3 pose.”.

4 (b) STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.—Section
5 47107(l)(5)(A) is amended by inserting “or any other gov-
6 ernmental entity” after “sponsor”.

7 (c) AUDIT CERTIFICATION.—Section 47107(m) is
8 amended—

9 (1) in paragraph (1) by striking “promulgate
10 regulations that” and inserting “include a provision
11 in the compliance supplement provisions to”; and

12 (2) in paragraph (1) by striking “and opinion
13 of the review”; and

14 (3) by striking paragraph (3).

15 SEC. 508. ALLOWABLE PROJECT COSTS.

16 (a) CONSTRUCTION OR MODIFICATION OF PUBLIC
17 PARKING FACILITIES FOR SECURITY PURPOSES.—Section
18 47110 is amended—

19 (1) in subsection (f) by striking “subsection
20 (d)” and inserting “subsections (d) and (h)”; and

21 (2) by adding at the end the following:

22 “(h) CONSTRUCTION OR MODIFICATION OF PUBLIC
23 PARKING FACILITIES FOR SECURITY PURPOSES.—Not-
24 withstanding subsection (f)(1), a cost of constructing or
25 modifying a public parking facility for passenger auto-

1 “§ 44310. Vendors, agents, subcontractors, and manu-
 2 facturers

3 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
 4 may extend the application of any provision of this chapter
 5 to a loss by a vendor, agent, and subcontractor of an air
 6 carrier and a United States manufacturer of an aircraft
 7 used by an air carrier but only to the extent that the loss
 8 involved an aircraft of an air carrier.

9 “(b) UNITED STATES MANUFACTURER DEFINED.—
 10 In this section, the term “United States manufacturer”
 11 means a manufacturer incorporated under the laws of a
 12 State of the United States and having its principal place
 13 of business in the United States.”.

14 (2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
 15 chapter 443 is amended by striking the item relating to
 16 section 44310 and inserting the following:

“44310. Vendors, agents, subcontractors, and manufacturers.
 “44311. Termination date”.

17 (e) TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS.—Effective November
 18 19, 2001, the Aviation and Transportation Security Act
 19 (115 Stat. 597) is amended—

20 (1) in section 147 by striking “44306(b)” and
 21 inserting “44306(c)”; and

22 (2) in section 124(b) by striking “to carry out
 23 foreign policy” and inserting “to carry out the for-
 24 eign policy”.

1 mobiles to comply with a regulation or directive of the De-
2 partment of Homeland Security shall be treated as an al-
3 lowable airport development project cost.”.

4 (b) DEBT FINANCING.—Section 47110 is further
5 amended by adding at the end the following:

6 “(i) DEBT FINANCING.—In the case of an airport
7 that is not a medium hub airport or large hub airport,
8 the Secretary may determine that allowable airport devel-
9 opment project costs include payments of interest, com-
10 mercial bond insurance, and other credit enhancement
11 costs associated with a bond issue to finance the project.”.

12 (c) CLARIFICATION OF ALLOWABLE COSTS.—Sec-
13 tion 47110(b)(1) is amended by inserting before the semi-
14 colon at the end “and any cost of moving a Federal facility
15 impeding the project if the rebuilt facility is of an equiva-
16 lent size and type”.

17 (d) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—Section 47110(c) is 18 amended by aligning the margin of paragraph (6) with 19 the margin of paragraph (5).

20 SEC. 509. APPORTIONMENTS TO PRIMARY AIRPORTS.

21 (a) FORMULA CHANGES.—Section 47114(c)(1)(A) is
22 amended by striking clauses (iv) and (v) and by inserting
23 the following:

1           “(iv) $.65 for each of the next 500,000
2 passenger boardings at the airport during the
3 prior calendar year;

4           “(v) $.50 cents for each of the next
5 2,500,000 passenger boardings at the airport
6 during the prior calendar year; and

7           “(vi) $.45 cents for each additional pas-
8 senger boarding at the airport during the prior
9 calendar year.”.

10       (b) SPECIAL RULE FOR FISCAL YEARS 2004 AND 11 2005.—Section 47114(c)(1) is amended by adding at the
12 end the following:

13           “(F) SPECIAL RULE FOR FISCAL YEARS
14 2004 AND 2005.—Notwithstanding subparagraph
15 (A) and the absence of scheduled passenger air-
16 craft service at an airport, the Secretary may 17 apportion in fiscal years 2004 and 2005 to the 18 sponsor of the airport an amount equal to the 19 amount apportioned to that sponsor in fiscal
20 year 2002 or 2003, whichever amount is great-
21 er, if the Secretary finds that—

22           “(i) the passenger boardings at the 23 airport were below 10,000 in calendar year
24 2002;

1 “(ii) the airport had at least 10,000
2 passenger boardings and scheduled pas-
3 senger aircraft service in either calendar
4 year 2000 or 2001; and

5 “(iii) the reason that passenger
6 boardings described in clause (i) were
7 below 10,000 was the decrease in pas-
8 sengers following the terrorist attacks of
9 September 11, 2001.”.

10 SEC. 510. CARGO AIRPORTS.

11 Section 47114(c)(2) is amended—

12 (1) in the paragraph heading by striking
13 “ONLY”; and

14 (2) in subparagraph (A) by striking “3 per-
15 cent” and inserting “3.5 percent”.

16 SEC. 511. CONSIDERATIONS IN MAKING DISCRETIONARY
17 GRANTS.

18 Section 47115(d) is amended to read as follows:

19 “(d) CONSIDERATIONS.—

20 “(1) FOR CAPACITY ENHANCEMENT
21 PROJECTS.—In selecting a project for a grant to 22 preserve and improve capacity funded in whole or in
23 part from the fund, the Secretary shall consider—

1           “(A) the effect that the project will have
2           on overall national transportation system capac-
3           ity;

4           “(B) the benefit and cost of the project,
5           including, in the case of a project at a reliever
6           airport, the number of operations projected to
7           be diverted from a primary airport to the re-
8           liever airport as a result of the project, as well
9           as the cost savings projected to be realized by
10          users of the local airport system;

11          “(C) the financial commitment from non-
12          United States Government sources to preserve
13          or improve airport capacity;

14          “(D) the airport improvement priorities of 15          the States to the extent such priorities are not 16          in conflict with subparagraphs (A) and (B); and

17          “(E) the projected growth in the number
18          of passengers or aircraft that will be using the 19          airport at which the project will be carried out.

20          “(2) FOR ALL PROJECTS.—In selecting a
21          project for a grant described in paragraph (1), the
22          Secretary shall consider whether—

23                 “(A) funding has been provided for all
24                 other projects qualifying for funding during the 25                 fiscal year under this chapter that have at-

1           tained a higher score under the numerical pri-
2           ority system employed by the Secretary in ad-
3           ministering the fund; and

4                   “(B) the sponsor will be able to commence
5           the work identified in the project application in
6           the fiscal year in which the grant is made or 7           within 6 months after the grant is made, which-
8           ever is later.”.

9   SEC. 512. FLEXIBLE FUNDING FOR NONPRIMARY AIRPORT
10                   APPORTIONMENTS.

11           (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 47117(c) is amended to
12   read as follows:

13                   “(c) USE OF SPONSOR’S APPORTIONED AMOUNTS AT
14   PUBLIC USE AIRPORTS.—

15                           (1) OF SPONSOR.—An amount apportioned to a 16   sponsor of an airport under section 47114(c) or
17   47114(d)(3)(A) of this title is available for grants
18   for any public-use airport of the sponsor included in 19   the national plan of integrated airport systems.

20                           “(2) IN SAME STATE OR AREA.—A sponsor of 21   an airport may make an agreement with the Sec-
22   retary of Transportation waiving the sponsor’s claim
23   to any part of the amount apportioned for the air-
24   port under section 47114(c) or 47114(d)(3)(A) if
25   the Secretary agrees to make the waived amount

1 available for a grant for another public-use airport
2 in the same State or geographical area as the air-
3 port, as determined by the Secretary.”.

4 (b) PROJECT GRANT AGREEMENTS.—Section
5 47108(a) is amended by inserting “or 47114(d)(3)(A)”
6 after “under section 47114(c)”.

7 (c) ALLOWABLE PROJECT COSTS.—Section 47110 is
8 further amended—

9 (1) in subsection (b)(2)(C) by striking “of this
10 title” and inserting “or section 47114(d)(3)(A)”;

11 (2) in subsection (g)—

12 (A) by inserting “or section
13 47114(d)(3)(A)” after “of section 47114(c)”;
14 and

15 (B) by striking “of project” and inserting
16 “of the project”; and

17 (3) by adding at the end the following:

18 “(j) NONPRIMARY AIRPORTS.—The Secretary may
19 decide that the costs of revenue producing aeronautical
20 support facilities, including fuel farms and hangars, are
21 allowable for an airport development project at a nonpri-
22 mary airport if the Government’s share of such costs is
23 paid only with funds apportioned to the airport sponsor
24 under section 47114(d)(3)(A) and if the Secretary deter-

1 mines that the sponsor has made adequate provision for
2 financing airside needs of the airport.”.

3 (d) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS.—Section
4 47119(b) is amended—

5 (1) by striking “or” at the end of paragraph
6 (3);

7 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
8 graph (4) and inserting “; or”; and

9 (3) by adding at the end the following:

10 “(5) to a sponsor of a nonprimary airport, any 11 part of amounts apportioned to the sponsor for the 12 fiscal year under section 47114(d)(3)(A) for project
13 costs allowable under section 47110(d).”.

14 SEC. 513. USE OF APPORTIONED AMOUNTS.

15 (a) SPECIAL APPORTIONMENT CATEGORIES.—Sec-
16 tion 47117(e)(1)(A) is amended—

17 (1) by striking “of this title” the first place it
18 appears and inserting a comma;

19 (2) by striking “of this title” the second place
20 it appears and inserting “, for noise mitigation
21 projects approved in an environmental record of de-
22 cision for an airport development project under this
23 title, for compatible land use planning and projects
24 carried out by State and local governments under
25 section 47140, and for airport development de-

1 scribed in section 47102(3)(F) or 47102(3)(K) to
2 comply with the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7401 et
3 seq.)”.

4 (b) ELIMINATION OF SUPER RELIEVER SET-
5 ASIDE.—Section 47117(e)(1)(C) is repealed.

6 (c) RECOVERED FUNDS.—Section 47117 is further
7 amended by adding at the end the following:

8 “(h) TREATMENT OF CANCELED OR REDUCED
9 GRANT OBLIGATIONS.—For the purpose of determining
10 compliance with a limitation, enacted in an appropriations
11 Act, on the amount of grant obligations of funds made
12 available by section 48103 that may be incurred in a fiscal 13 year, an amount that is recovered by canceling or reducing
14 a grant obligation of funds made available by section
15 48103 shall be treated as a negative obligation that is to 16 be netted against the obligation limitation as enacted and
17 thus may permit the obligation limitation to be exceeded
18 by an equal amount.”.

19 SEC. 514. MILITARY AIRPORT PROGRAM.

20 Subsections (e) and (f) of section 47118 are each
21 amended by striking “$7,000,000” and inserting
22 “$10,000,000”.

23 SEC. 515. TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS.

24 Section 47119(a) is amended to read as follows:

25 “(a) REPAYING BORROWED MONEY.—

1           “(1) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS IN-
2           CURRED AFTER JUNE 30, 1970, AND BEFORE JULY
3           12, 1976.—An amount apportioned under section
4           47114 and made available to the sponsor of a com-
5           mercial service airport at which terminal develop-
6           ment was carried out after June 30, 1970, and be-
7           fore July 12, 1976, is available to repay immediately
8           money borrowed and used to pay the costs for such 9           terminal development if those costs would be allow-
10          able project costs under section 47110(d) if they had
11          been incurred after September 3, 1982.

12           “(2) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS IN-
13          CURRED BETWEEN JANUARY 1, 1992, AND OCTOBER
14          31, 1992.—An amount apportioned under section
15          47114 and made available to the sponsor of a
16          nonhub airport at which terminal development was
17          carried out between January 1, 1992, and October
18          31, 1992, is available to repay immediately money
19          borrowed and to pay the costs for such terminal de-
20          velopment if those costs would be allowable project
21          costs under section 47110(d).

22           “(3) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS AT PRI-
23          MARY AIRPORTS.—An amount apportioned under
24          section 47114 or available under subsection (b)(3) to 25          a primary airport—

1           “(A) that was a nonhub airport in the
2 most recent year used to calculate apportion-
3 ments under section 47114;

4           “(B) that is a designated airport under
5 section 47118 in fiscal year 2003; and

6           “(C) at which terminal development is car-
7 ried out between January 2003 and August
8 2004,

9 is available to repay immediately money borrowed
10 and used to pay the costs for such terminal develop-
11 ment if those costs would be allowable project costs
12 under section 47110(d).

13           “(4) CONDITIONS FOR GRANT.—An amount is 14 available for a grant under this subsection only if—

15           “(A) the sponsor submits the certification
16 required under section 47110(d);

17           “(B) the Secretary of Transportation de-
18 cides that using the amount to repay the bor-
19 rowed money will not defer an airport develop-
20 ment project outside the terminal area at that
21 airport; and

22           “(C) amounts available for airport develop-
23 ment under this subchapter will not be used for 24 additional terminal development projects at the
25 airport for at least 3 years beginning on the

1 SEC. 106. PILOT PROGRAM FOR INNOVATIVE FINANCING
2 FOR TERMINAL AUTOMATION REPLACEMENT
3 SYSTEMS.

4 (a) IN GENERAL.—In order to test the cost-effective-
5 ness and feasibility of long-term financing of moderniza-
6 tion of major air traffic control systems, the Administrator
7 of the Federal Aviation Administration may establish a
8 pilot program to test innovative financing techniques
9 through amending a contract, without regard to section
10 1341 of title 31, United States Code, of more than one,
11 but not more than 20, fiscal years to purchase and install
12 terminal automation replacement systems for the Admin-
13 istration. Such amendments may be for more than one,
14 but not more than 10 fiscal years.

15 (b) CANCELLATION.—A contract described in sub-
16 section (a) may include a cancellation provision if the Ad-
17 ministrator determines that such a provision is necessary
18 and in the best interest of the United States. Any such 19 provision shall include a cancellation liability schedule that
20 covers reasonable and allocable costs incurred by the con-
21 tractor through the date of cancellation plus reasonable
22 profit, if any, on those costs. Any such provision shall not
23 apply if the contract is terminated by default of the con-
24 tractor.

25 (c) CONTRACT PROVISIONS.—If feasible and prac-
26 ticable for the pilot program, the Administrator may make

1 date the grant is used to repay the borrowed
2 money.

3 “(5) APPLICABILITY OF CERTAIN LIMITA-
4 TIONS.—A grant under this subsection shall be sub-
5 ject to the limitations in subsection (b)(1) and (2).”.

6 SEC. 516. CONTRACT TOWERS.

7 Section 47124(b) is amended—

8 (1) in paragraph (1) by striking “December 30,
9 1987,” and inserting “on date of enactment of the 10 Flight 100—Century of Aviation Reauthorization
11 Act”;

12 (2) in the heading for paragraph (3) by striking
13 “PILOT”;

14 (3) in paragraph (4)(C) by striking
15 “$1,100,000” and inserting “$1,500,000”; and

16 (4) by striking “pilot” each place it appears.

17 SEC. 517. AIRPORT SAFETY DATA COLLECTION.

18 Section 47130 is amended to read as follows:

19 “§ 47130. Airport safety data collection

20 “Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Ad-
21 ministrator of the Federal Aviation Administration may
22 award a contract, using sole source or limited source au-
23 thority, or enter into a cooperative agreement with, or pro-
24 vide a grant from amounts made available under section
25 48103 to, a private company or entity for the collection

1 of airport safety data. In the event that a grant is provided
2 under this section, the United States Government's share
3 of the cost of the data collection shall be 100 percent.”.

4 SEC. 518. AIRPORT PRIVATIZATION PILOT PROGRAM.

5 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 47134(b)(1) is
6 amended—

7 (1) in subparagraph (A) by striking clauses (i)
8 and (ii) and inserting the following:

9 “(i) in the case of a primary airport,
10 by at least 65 percent of the scheduled air
11 carriers serving the airport and by sched-
12 uled and nonscheduled air carriers whose
13 aircraft landing at the airport during the 14 preceding calendar year, had a total landed
15 weight during the preceding calendar year
16 of at least 65 percent of the total landed
17 weight of all aircraft landing at the airport
18 during such year; or

19 “(ii) by the Secretary at any nonpri-
20 mary airport after the airport has con-
21 sulted with at least 65 percent of the own-
22 ers of aircraft based at that airport, as de-
23 termined by the Secretary.”;

24 (2) by redesignating subparagraph (B) as sub-
25 paragraph (C); and

1 (3) by inserting after subparagraph (A) the fol-
2 lowing:

3 “(B) OBJECTION TO EXEMPTION.—An air
4 carrier shall be deemed to have approved a
5 sponsor’s application for an exemption under
6 subparagraph (A) unless the air carrier has
7 submitted an objection, in writing, to the spon-
8 sor within 60 days of the filing of the sponsor’s
9 application with the Secretary, or within 60
10 days of the service of the application upon that
11 air carrier, whichever is later.”.

12 (b) FEDERAL SHARE.—Section 47109(a) is
13 amended—

14 (1) by inserting “and” at the end of paragraph

15 (3);

16 (2) by striking paragraph (4); and

17 (3) by redesignating paragraph (5) as para-
18 graph (4).

19 SEC. 519. INNOVATIVE FINANCING TECHNIQUES.

20 (a) ELIGIBLE PROJECTS.—Section 47135(a) is
21 amended—

22 (1) in the first sentence by striking “20” and
23 inserting “10”; and

24 (2) by striking the second sentence and insert-
25 ing the following: “Such projects shall be located at

1 airports that are not medium or large hub air-
2 ports.”.

3 (b) INNOVATIVE FINANCING TECHNIQUES.—Section
4 47135(c)(2) is amended—

5 (1) by striking subparagraphs (A) and (B);

6 (2) by redesignating subparagraphs (C) and
7 (D) as subparagraphs (A) and (B), respectively;

8 (3) in subparagraph (A) (as so redesignated) by 9 striking “and” at the end; and

10 (4) in subparagraph (B) (as so redesignated) by 11 striking the period at the end and inserting “; and”.

12 SEC. 520. AIRPORT SECURITY PROGRAM.

13 Section 47137 is amended—

14 (1) by redesignating subsections (e) and (f) as 15 subsections (f) and (g), respectively; and

16 (2) by inserting after subsection (d) the fol-
17 lowing:

18 “(e) ADMINISTRATION.—The Secretary, in coopera-
19 tion with the Secretary of Homeland Security, shall ad-
20 minister the program authorized by this section.”.

21 SEC. 521. LOW-EMISSION AIRPORT VEHICLES AND INFRA-
22 STRUCTURE.

23 (a) EMISSIONS CREDITS.—Subchapter I of chapter
24 471 is amended by adding at the end the following:

1 “§ 47138. Emission credits for air quality projects.

2 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
3 and the Administrator of the Environmental Protection
4 Agency shall jointly agree on how to assure that airport
5 sponsors receive appropriate emission credits for carrying
6 out projects described in sections 40117(a)(3)(G),
7 47102(3)(K), and 47102(3)(L). Such agreement must in-
8 clude, at a minimum, the following conditions:

9 “(1) The provision of credits is consistent with
10 the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7402 et seq.).

11 “(2) Credits generated by the emissions reduc-
12 tions are kept by the airport sponsor and may only
13 be used for purposes of any current or future gen-
14 eral conformity determination under the Clean Air
15 Act or as offsets under the Environmental Protec-
16 tion Agency’s new source review program for
17 projects on the airport or associated with the air-
18 port.

19 “(3) Credits are calculated and provided to air-
20 ports on a consistent basis nationwide.

21 “(4) Credits are provided to airport sponsors in
22 a timely manner.

23 “(5) The establishment of a method to assure
24 the Secretary that, for any specific airport project
25 for which funding is being requested, the appro-
26 priate credits will be granted.

1 “(b) ASSURANCE OF RECEIPT OF CREDITS.—

2 “(1) IN GENERAL.—As a condition for making
3 a grant for a project described in section
4 47102(3)(K), 47102(3)(L), or 47139 or as a condi-
5 tion for granting approval to collect or use a pas-
6 senger facility fee for a project described in section
7 40117(a)(3)(G), 47102(3)(K), 47102(3)(L), or
8 47139, the Secretary must receive assurance from
9 the State in which the project is located, or from the 10 Administrator of the Environmental Protection
11 Agency where there is a Federal implementation
12 plan, that the airport sponsor will receive appro-
13 priate emission credits in accordance with the condi-
14 tions of this section.

15 “(2) AGREEMENT ON PREVIOUSLY APPROVED
16 PROJECTS.—The Secretary and the Administrator of
17 the Environmental Protection Agency shall jointly
18 agree on how to provide emission credits to airport
19 projects previously approved under section 47136
20 under terms consistent with the conditions enumer-
21 ated in this section.”.

22 (b) AIRPORT GROUND SUPPORT EQUIPMENT EMIS-
23 SIONS RETROFIT PILOT PROGRAM.—Subchapter I of
24 chapter 471 is further amended by adding at the end the
25 following:

1 “§ 47139. Airport ground support equipment emis-
2 sions retrofit pilot program.

3 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
4 shall carry out a pilot program at not more than 10 com-
5 mercial service airports under which the sponsors of such
6 airports may use an amount made available under section
7 48103 to retrofit existing eligible airport ground support
8 equipment that burns conventional fuels to achieve lower
9 emissions utilizing emission control technologies certified
10 or verified by the Environmental Protection Agency.

11 “(b) LOCATION IN AIR QUALITY NONATTAINMENT
12 OR MAINTENANCE AREAS.—A commercial service airport
13 shall be eligible for participation in the pilot program only
14 if the airport is located in an air quality nonattainment
15 area (as defined in section 171(2) of the Clean Air Act
16 (42 U.S.C. 7501(2)) or a maintenance area referred to 17 in section 175A of such Act (42 U.S.C. 7505a).

18 “(c) SELECTION CRITERIA.—In selecting from
19 among applicants for participation in the pilot program,
20 the Secretary shall give priority consideration to appli-
21 cants that will achieve the greatest air quality benefits
22 measured by the amount of emissions reduced per dollar
23 of funds expended under the pilot program.

24 “(d) MAXIMUM AMOUNT.—Not more than $500,000
25 may be expended under the pilot program at any single
26 commercial service airport.

1           “(e) GUIDELINES.—The Secretary, in consultation
2 with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection
3 Agency, shall establish guidelines regarding the types of
4 retrofit projects eligible under the pilot program by consid-
5 ering remaining equipment useful life, amounts of emis-
6 sion reduction in relation to the cost of projects, and other
7 factors necessary to carry out this section. The Secretary
8 may give priority to ground support equipment owned by
9 the airport and used for airport purposes.

10           “(f) ELIGIBLE EQUIPMENT DEFINED.—In this sec-
11 tion, the term ‘eligible equipment’ means ground service
12 or maintenance equipment that is located at the airport,
13 is used to support aeronautical and related activities at
14 the airport, and will remain in operation at the airport
15 for the life or useful life of the equipment, whichever is 16 earlier.”.

17           (c) ADDITION TO AIRPORT DEVELOPMENT.—Section
18 47102(3) is further amended by striking subparagraphs
19 (K) and (L) and inserting the following:

20                           “(K) work necessary to construct or mod-
21 ify airport facilities to provide low-emission fuel
22 systems, gate electrification, and other related
23 air quality improvements at a commercial serv-
24 ice airport if the airport is located in an air
25 quality nonattainment or maintenance area (as

1 defined in sections 171(2) and 175A of the
 2 Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7501(2), 7505a) and
 3 if such project will result in an airport receiving
 4 appropriate emission credits, as described in
 5 section 47138.

6 “(L) converting vehicles and ground sup-
 7 port equipment owned by a commercial service
 8 airport to low-emission technology or acquiring
 9 for use at a commercial service airport vehicles
 10 and ground support equipment that include
 11 low-emission technology if the airport is located
 12 in an air quality nonattainment area (as de-
 13 fined in section 171(2) of the Clean Air Act (42 14 U.S.C. 7501(2)) or a maintenance area referred 15 to in section 175A of such Act (42 U.S.C.
 16 7505a) and if such project will result in an air-
 17 port receiving appropriate emission credits as
 18 described in section 47138.”.

19 (d) ALLOWABLE PROJECT COST.—Section 47110(b)
 20 is further amended—

21 (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph

22 (4);

23 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
 24 graph (5) and inserting “; and”; and

25 (3) by adding at the end the following:

1           “(6) in the case of a project for acquiring for
 2           use at a commercial service airport vehicles and
 3           ground support equipment owned by an airport that
 4           is not described in section 47102(3) and that include
 5           low-emission technology, if the total costs allowed for
 6           the project are not more than the incremental cost
 7           of equipping such vehicles or equipment with low-
 8           emission technology, as determined by the Sec-
 9           retary.”.

10          (e) LOW-EMISSION TECHNOLOGY EQUIPMENT.—Sec-
 11         tion 47102 (as amended by section 501 of this Act) is 12         further amended by inserting after paragraph (10) the fol-
 13         lowing:

14           “(11) ‘low-emission technology’ means technology for 15         vehicles and equipment whose emission performance is the 16         best achievable under emission standards established by
 17         the Environmental Protection Agency and that relies ex-
 18         clusively on alternative fuels that are substantially non-
 19         petroleum based, as defined by the Department of Energy,
 20         but not excluding hybrid systems or natural gas powered
 21         vehicles.”.

22          (f) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—The analysis of
 23         subchapter I of chapter 471 is amended by adding at the
 24         end the following:

“47138. Emission credits for air quality projects.

“47139. Airport ground support equipment emissions retrofit pilot program.”.

1 an advance contract provision to achieve economic-lot pur-
2 chases and more efficient production rates.

3 (d) LIMITATION.—The Administrator may not amend
4 a contract under this section until the program for the
5 terminal automation replacement systems has been
6 rebaselined in accordance with the acquisition manage-
7 ment system of the Administration.

8 (e) SCORING.—Budget authority for any contract or
9 amended contract under the pilot program shall be consid-
10 ered sufficient for purposes of the Budget Enforcement
11 Act of 1990 if for each fiscal year of the contract the 12 amount of budget authority is at least sufficient to cover
13 the estimated total payments to be made under that con-
14 tract for that year. Budget authority is not required for 15 any contingent liability that might be contained in a can-
16 cellation provision.

17 (f) ANNUAL REPORTS.—At the end of each fiscal
18 year during the term of the pilot program, the Adminis-
19 trator shall transmit to the Committee on Commerce,
20 Science, and Transportation of the Senate and the Com-
21 mittee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House
22 of Representatives a report on how the Administrator has 23 implemented in such fiscal year the pilot program, the 24 number and types of contracts or contract amendments

1 SEC. 522. COMPATIBLE LAND USE PLANNING AND
2 PROJECTS BY STATE AND LOCAL GOVERN-
3 MENTS.

4 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 471 is
5 further amended by adding at the end the following:

6 “§47140. Compatible land use planning and projects
7 by State and local governments

8 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
9 may make grants from amounts set aside under section
10 47117(e)(1)(A) to States and units of local government
11 for land use compatibility plans or projects resulting from 12 those plans for the purposes of making the use of land
13 areas around large hub airports and medium hub airports
14 compatible with aircraft operations if—

15 “(1) the airport operator has not submitted a
16 noise compatibility program to the Secretary under
17 section 47504 or has not updated such program
18 within the past 10 years; and

19 “(2) the land use plan meets the requirements
20 of this section and any project resulting from the 21 plan meets such requirements.

22 “(b) ELIGIBILITY.—In order to receive a grant under 23 this section, a State or unit of local government must—

24 “(1) have the authority to plan and adopt land
25 use control measures, including zoning, in the plan-

1       ning area in and around a large or medium hub air-
2       port;

3               “(2) provide written assurance to the Secretary
4       that it will work with the affected airport to identify
5       and adopt such measures; and

6               “(3) provide written assurance to the Secretary
7       that it will achieve, to the maximum extent possible,
8       compatible land uses consistent with Federal land
9       use compatibility criteria under section 47502(3)
10       and that those compatible land uses will be main-
11       tained.

12       “(c) ASSURANCES.—The Secretary shall require a
13       State or unit of local government to which a grant may 14       be awarded under this section for a land use plan or a
15       project resulting from such a plan to provide—

16               “(1) assurances satisfactory to the Secretary
17       that the plan—

18                       “(A) is reasonably consistent with the goal
19       of reducing existing noncompatible land uses
20       and preventing the introduction of additional
21       noncompatible land uses;

22                       “(B) addresses ways to achieve and main-
23       tain compatible land uses, including zoning,
24       building codes, and any other projects under
25       section 47504(a)(2) that are within the author-

1           ity of the State or unit of local government to
2           implement;

3           “(C) uses noise contours provided by the
4           airport operator that are consistent with the
5           airport operation and planning, including any
6           noise abatement measures adopted by the air-
7           port operator as part of its own noise mitiga-
8           tion efforts;

9           “(D) does not duplicate, and is not incon-
10          sistent with, the airport operator’s noise com-
11          patibility measures for the same area; and

12          “(E) has received concurrence by the air-
13          port operator prior to adoption by the State or 14          unit of local government; and

15          “(2) such other assurances as the Secretary de-
16          termines to be necessary to carry out this section.

17          “(d) GUIDELINES.—The Secretary shall establish
18          guidelines to administer this section in accordance with 19          the purposes and conditions described in this section. The 20          Secretary may require the State or unit of local govern-
21          ment to which a grant may be awarded under this section
22          to provide progress reports and other information as the 23          Secretary determines to be necessary to carry out this sec-
24          tion.

1           “(e) ELIGIBLE PROJECTS.—The Secretary may ap-
 2 prove a grant under this section to a State or unit of local
 3 government for a land use compatibility project only if the
 4 Secretary is satisfied that the project is consistent with
 5 the guidelines established by the Secretary under this sec-
 6 tion, that the State or unit of local government has pro-
 7 vided the assurances required by this section, that the Sec-
 8 retary has received evidence that the State or unit of local 9 government has implemented (or has made provision to 10 implement) those elements of the plan that are not eligible
 11 for Federal financial assistance, and that the project is
 12 not inconsistent with Federal standards.

13           “(f) SUNSET.—This section shall not be in effect
 14 after September 30, 2007.”.

15           (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis of
 16 subchapter I of chapter 471 is further amended by adding
 17 at the end the following:

“47140. Compatible land use planning and projects by State and local governments.”.

18 SEC. 523. PROHIBITION ON REQUIRING AIRPORTS TO PRO-
 19 VIDE RENT-FREE SPACE FOR FEDERAL AVIA-
 20 TION ADMINISTRATION.

21           (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 471 is
 22 further amended by adding at the end the following:

1 “§ 47141. Prohibition on rent-free space requirements
2 for Federal Aviation Administration

3 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
4 may not require an airport sponsor to provide to the Fed-
5 eral Aviation Administration, without compensation, space
6 in a building owned by the sponsor and costs associated
7 with such space for building construction, maintenance,
8 utilities, and other expenses.

9 “(b) NEGOTIATED AGREEMENTS.—Subsection (a)
10 does not prohibit—

11 “(1) the negotiation of agreements between the
12 Secretary and an airport sponsor to provide building
13 construction, maintenance, utilities and expenses, or
14 space in airport sponsor-owned buildings to the Fed-
15 eral Aviation Administration without cost or at
16 below-market rates; or

17 “(2) the Secretary of Transportation from re-
18 quiring airport sponsors to provide land without cost
19 to the Federal Aviation Administration for air traffic
20 control facilities.”.

21 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
22 subchapter I of chapter 471 is further amended by adding
23 at the end the following:

“47141. Prohibition on rent-free space requirements for Federal Aviation Administration.”.

1 SEC. 524. MIDWAY ISLAND AIRPORT.

2 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that the continued
3 operation of the Midway Island Airport in accordance with
4 the standards of the Federal Aviation Administration ap-
5 plicable to commercial airports is critical to the safety of
6 commercial, military, and general aviation in the mid-Pa-
7 cific Ocean region.

8 (b) MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING ON SALE OF
9 AIRCRAFT FUEL.—The Secretary of Transportation shall
10 enter into a memorandum of understanding with the Sec-
11 retaries of Defense, Interior, and Homeland Security to
12 facilitate the sale of aircraft fuel on Midway Island at a
13 price that will generate sufficient revenue to improve the 14 ability of the airport to operate on a self-sustaining basis
15 in accordance with the standards of the Federal Aviation
16 Administration applicable to commercial airports. The
17 memorandum shall also address the long-range potential
18 of promoting tourism as a means to generate revenue to 19 operate the airport.

20 (c) TRANSFER OF NAVIGATION AIDS AT MIDWAY IS-
21 LAND AIRPORT.—The Midway Island Airport may trans-
22 fer, without consideration, to the Administrator the navi-
23 gation aids at the airport. The Administrator shall accept
24 the navigation aids and operate and maintain the naviga-
25 tion aids under criteria of the Administrator.

1 (d) FUNDING TO THE SECRETARY OF INTERIOR FOR
2 MIDWAY ISLAND AIRPORT.—

3 (1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 481 is amended by
4 adding at the end the following:

5 “§48114. Funding to the Secretary of Interior for
6 Midway Island Airport

7 “The following amounts shall be available (and shall
8 remain available until expended) to the Secretary of Inte-
9 rior, out of the Airport and Airway Trust Fund estab-
10 lished under section 9502 of the Internal Revenue Code
11 of 1986 (26 U.S.C. 9502), for airport capital projects at 12 the Midway Island Airport:

- 13 “(1) $750,000 for fiscal year 2004.
- 14 “(2) $2,500,000 for fiscal year 2005.
- 15 “(3) $1,000,000 for fiscal year 2006.
- 16 “(4) $1,000,000 for fiscal year 2007.”.

17 (2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis
18 for chapter 481 is amended by adding at the end the
19 following:

“48114. Funding to the Secretary of Interior for Midway Island Airport.”.

20 SEC. 525. REIMBURSEMENT OF AIR CARRIERS FOR CER-
21 TAIN SCREENING AND RELATED ACTIVITIES.

22 The Secretary of Transportation, subject to the avail-
23 ability of funds (other than amounts in the Aviation Trust
24 Fund) provided for this purpose, shall reimburse air car-
25 riers and airports for the following:

1 (1) All screening and related activities that the
2 air carriers or airports are still performing or con-
3 tinuing to be responsible for, including—

4 (A) the screening of catering supplies;

5 (B) checking documents at security check-
6 points;

7 (C) screening of passengers; and

8 (D) screening of persons with access to 9 aircraft.

10 (2) The provision of space and facilities used to
11 perform screening functions if such space and facili-
12 ties have been previously used, or were intended to 13 be used, for revenue-producing purposes.

14 SEC. 526. GENERAL AVIATION FLIGHTS AT RONALD
15 REAGAN WASHINGTON NATIONAL AIRPORT.

16 It is the sense of Congress that Ronald Reagan
17 Washington National Airport should be open to general
18 aviation flights as soon as possible.

1 that are entered into under the program, and the pro-
2 gram’s cost effectiveness.

3 (g) AUTHORIZATION.—There shall be available
4 $200,000,000 to carry out this section for fiscal year
5 2004. Such sums shall remain available until expended.

6 TITLE II—AIRPORT PROJECT
7 STREAMLINING

8 SEC. 201. SHORT TITLE.

9 This title may be cited as the “Airport Streamlining
10 Approval Process Act of 2003”.

11 SEC. 202. FINDINGS.

12 Congress finds that—

13 (1) airports play a major role in interstate and
14 foreign commerce;

15 (2) congestion and delays at our Nation’s major
16 airports have a significant negative impact on our
17 Nation’s economy;

18 (3) airport capacity enhancement projects at
19 congested airports are a national priority and should
20 be constructed on an expedited basis;

21 (4) airport capacity enhancement projects must
22 include an environmental review process that pro-
23 vides local citizenry an opportunity for consideration
24 of and appropriate action to address environmental
25 concerns; and

1 (5) the Federal Aviation Administration, airport
 2 authorities, communities, and other Federal, State,
 3 and local government agencies must work together
 4 to develop a plan, set and honor milestones and
 5 deadlines, and work to protect the environment while
 6 sustaining the economic vitality that will result from
 7 the continued growth of aviation.

8 SEC. 203. PROMOTION OF NEW RUNWAYS.

9 Section 40104 is amended by adding at the end the
 10 following:

11 “(c) AIRPORT CAPACITY ENHANCEMENT PROJECTS
 12 AT CONGESTED AIRPORTS.—In carrying out subsection
 13 (a), the Administrator shall take action to encourage the 14 construction of airport capacity enhancement projects at 15 congested airports as those terms are defined in section
 16 47178.”.

17 SEC. 204. AIRPORT PROJECT STREAMLINING.

18 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 471 is amended by in-
 19 serting after section 47153 the following:

20 “SUBCHAPTER III—AIRPORT PROJECT
 21 STREAMLINING

22 “§ 47171. DOT as lead agency

23 “(a) AIRPORT PROJECT REVIEW PROCESS.—The
 24 Secretary of Transportation shall develop and implement

1 a coordinated review process for airport capacity enhance-
2 ment projects at congested airports.

3 “(b) COORDINATED REVIEWS.—

4 “(1) IN GENERAL.—The coordinated review
5 process under this section shall provide that all envi-
6 ronmental reviews, analyses, opinions, permits, li-
7 censes, and approvals that must be issued or made
8 by a Federal agency or airport sponsor for an air-
9 port capacity enhancement project at a congested
10 airport will be conducted concurrently, to the max-
11 imum extent practicable, and completed within a
12 time period established by the Secretary, in coopera-
13 tion with the agencies identified under subsection (c)
14 with respect to the project.

15 “(2) AGENCY PARTICIPATION.—Each Federal
16 agency identified under subsection (c) shall formu-
17 late and implement administrative, policy, and pro-
18 cedural mechanisms to enable the agency to ensure
19 completion of environmental reviews, analyses, opin-
20 ions, permits, licenses, and approvals described in
21 paragraph (1) in a timely and environmentally re-
22 sponsible manner.

23 “(c) IDENTIFICATION OF JURISDICTIONAL AGEN-
24 CIES.—With respect to each airport capacity enhancement
25 project at a congested airport, the Secretary shall identify,

1 as soon as practicable, all Federal and State agencies that
2 may have jurisdiction over environmental-related matters
3 that may be affected by the project or may be required
4 by law to conduct an environmental-related review or anal-
5 ysis of the project or determine whether to issue an envi-
6 ronmental-related permit, license, or approval for the 7 project.

8 “(d) STATE AUTHORITY.—If a coordinated review
9 process is being implemented under this section by the 10 Secretary with respect to a project at an airport within
11 the boundaries of a State, the State, consistent with State
12 law, may choose to participate in such process and provide
13 that all State agencies that have jurisdiction over environ-
14 mental-related matters that may be affected by the project
15 or may be required by law to conduct an environmental-
16 related review or analysis of the project or determine
17 whether to issue an environmental-related permit, license,
18 or approval for the project, be subject to the process.

19 “(e) MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING.—The co-
20 ordinated review process developed under this section may 21 be incorporated into a memorandum of understanding for
22 a project between the Secretary and the heads of other
23 Federal and State agencies identified under subsection (c)
24 with respect to the project and the airport sponsor.

1           “(1) NOTIFICATION OF CONGRESS AND CEQ.—
2           If the Secretary determines that a Federal agency,
3           State agency, or airport sponsor that is participating
4           in a coordinated review process under this section
5           with respect to a project has not met a deadline es-
6           tablished under subsection (b) for the project, the 7           Secretary shall notify, within 30 days of the date of
8           such determination, the Committee on Transpor-
9           tation and Infrastructure of the House of Represent-
10          atives, the Committee on Commerce, Science, and
11          Transportation of the Senate, the Council on Envi-
12          ronmental Quality, and the agency or sponsor in-
13          volved about the failure to meet the deadline.

14          “(2) AGENCY REPORT.—Not later than 30 days
15          after date of receipt of a notice under paragraph (1),
16          the agency or sponsor involved shall submit a report
17          to the Secretary, the Committee on Transportation
18          and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives,
19          the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Trans-
20          portation of the Senate, and the Council on Environ-
21          mental Quality explaining why the agency or sponsor
22          did not meet the deadline and what actions it in-
23          tends to take to complete or issue the required re-
24          view, analysis, opinion, license, or approval.

1           “(g) PURPOSE AND NEED.—For any environmental
2 review, analysis, opinion, permit, license, or approval that
3 must be issued or made by a Federal or State agency that
4 is participating in a coordinated review process under this
5 section with respect to an airport capacity enhancement
6 project at a congested airport and that requires an anal-
7 ysis of purpose and need for the project, the agency, not-
8 withstanding any other provision of law, shall be bound
9 by the project purpose and need as defined by the Sec-
10 retary.

11           “(h) ALTERNATIVES ANALYSIS.—The Secretary shall
12 determine the reasonable alternatives to an airport capac-
13 ity enhancement project at a congested airport. Any other
14 Federal or State agency that is participating in a coordi-
15 nated review process under this section with respect to the 16 project shall consider only those alternatives to the project
17 that the Secretary has determined are reasonable.

18           “(i) SOLICITATION AND CONSIDERATION OF COM-
19 MENTS.—In applying subsections (g) and (h), the Sec-
20 retary shall solicit and consider comments from interested
21 persons and governmental entities.

22           “(j) MONITORING BY TASK FORCE.—The Transpor-
23 tation Infrastructure Streamlining Task Force, estab-
24 lished by Executive Order 13274 (67 Fed. Reg. 59449;
25 relating to environmental stewardship and transportation

1 infrastructure project reviews) may monitor airport
2 projects that are subject to the coordinated review process
3 under this section.

4 “§ 47172. Categorical exclusions

5 “Not later than 120 days after the date of enactment
6 of this section, the Secretary of Transportation shall de-
7 velop and publish a list of categorical exclusions from the 8 requirement that an environmental assessment or an envi-
9 ronmental impact statement be prepared under the Na-
10 tional Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321
11 et seq.) for projects at airports.

12 “§ 47173. Access restrictions to ease construction

13 “At the request of an airport sponsor for a congested
14 airport, the Secretary of Transportation may approve a
15 restriction on use of a runway to be constructed at the 16 airport to minimize potentially significant adverse noise
17 impacts from the runway only if the Secretary determines
18 that imposition of the restriction—

19 “(1) is necessary to mitigate those impacts and
20 expedite construction of the runway;

21 “(2) is the most appropriate and a cost-effective
22 measure to mitigate those impacts, taking into con-
23 sideration any environmental tradeoffs associated
24 with the restriction; and

1           “(3) would not adversely affect service to small
2           communities, adversely affect safety or efficiency of
3           the national airspace system, unjustly discriminate
4           against any class of user of the airport, or impose
5           an undue burden on interstate or foreign commerce.

6   “§ 47174. Airport revenue to pay for mitigation

7           “(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section
8           47107(b), section 47133, or any other provision of this
9           title, the Secretary of Transportation may allow an airport
10          sponsor carrying out an airport capacity enhancement
11          project at a congested airport to make payments, out of 12          revenues generated at the airport (including local taxes on 13          aviation fuel), for measures to mitigate the environmental 14          impacts of the project if the Secretary finds that—

15               “(1) the mitigation measures are included as
16               part of, or support, the preferred alternative for the 17               project in the documentation prepared pursuant to 18               the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42
19               U.S.C. 4321 et seq.);

20               “(2) the use of such revenues will provide a sig-
21               nificant incentive for, or remove an impediment to,
22               approval of the project by a State or local govern-
23               ment; and

1           “(3) the cost of the mitigation measures is rea-
2           sonable in relation to the mitigation that will be
3           achieved.

4           “(b) MITIGATION OF AIRCRAFT NOISE.—Mitigation
5           measures described in subsection (a) may include the insu-
6           lation of residential buildings and buildings used primarily
7           for educational or medical purposes to mitigate the effects
8           of aircraft noise and the improvement of such buildings
9           as required for the insulation of the buildings under local 10          building codes.

11          “§ 47175. Airport funding of FAA staff

12          “(a) ACCEPTANCE OF SPONSOR-PROVIDED
13          FUNDS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the 14          Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration may 15          accept funds from an airport sponsor, including funds pro-
16          vided to the sponsor under section 47114(c), to hire addi-
17          tional staff or obtain the services of consultants in order
18          to facilitate the timely processing, review, and completion
19          of environmental activities associated with an airport de-
20          velopment project.

21          “(b) ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISION.—Instead of pay-
22          ment from an airport sponsor from funds apportioned to 23          the sponsor under section 47114, the Administrator, with 24          agreement of the sponsor, may transfer funds that would
25          otherwise be apportioned to the sponsor under section

1 47114 to the account used by the Administrator for activi-
2 ties described in subsection (a).

3 “(c) RECEIPTS CREDITED AS OFFSETTING COLLEC-
4 TIONS.—Notwithstanding section 3302 of title 31, any
5 funds accepted under this section, except funds trans-
6 ferred pursuant to subsection (b)—

7 “(1) shall be credited as offsetting collections to
8 the account that finances the activities and services
9 for which the funds are accepted;

10 “(2) shall be available for expenditure only to 11 pay the costs of activities and services for which the 12 funds are accepted; and

13 “(3) shall remain available until expended.

14 “(d) MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—No funds may be
15 accepted pursuant to subsection (a), or transferred pursu-
16 ant to subsection (b), in any fiscal year in which the Fed-
17 eral Aviation Administration does not allocate at least the 18 amount it expended in fiscal year 2002, excluding
19 amounts accepted pursuant to section 337 of the Depart-
20 ment of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropria-
21 tions Act, 2002 (115 Stat. 862), for the activities de-
22 scribed in subsection (a).

23 “§ 47176. Authorization of appropriations

24 “In addition to the amounts authorized to be appro-
25 priated under section 106(k), there is authorized to be ap-

1 appropriated to the Secretary of Transportation, out of the
2 Airport and Airway Trust Fund established under section
3 9502 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26 U.S.C.
4 9502), $4,200,000 for fiscal year 2004 and for each fiscal
5 year thereafter to facilitate the timely processing, review,
6 and completion of environmental activities associated with
7 airport capacity enhancement projects at congested air-
8 ports.

9 “§ 47177. Designation of aviation safety and aviation
10 security projects for priority environ-
11 mental review

12 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Fed-
13 eral Aviation Administration may designate an aviation
14 safety or aviation security project for priority environ-
15 mental review. The Administrator may not delegate this
16 designation authority.

17 “(b) PROJECT DESIGNATION CRITERIA.—The Ad-
18 ministrator shall establish guidelines for the designation
19 of an aviation safety or aviation security project for pri-
20 ority environmental review. Such guidelines shall include
21 consideration of—

22 “(1) the importance or urgency of the project;

23 “(2) the potential for undertaking the environ-
24 mental review under existing emergency procedures

1 under the National Environmental Policy Act of
2 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.);

3 “(3) the need for cooperation and concurrent
4 reviews by other Federal or State agencies; and

5 “(4) the prospect for undue delay if the project
6 is not designated for priority review.

7 “(c) COORDINATED ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS.—

8 “(1) TIMELINES AND HIGH PRIORITY FOR CO-
9 ORDINATED ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS.—The Ad-
10 ministrator, in consultation with the heads of af-
11 fected agencies, shall establish specific timelines for
12 the coordinated environmental review of an aviation
13 safety or aviation security project designated under
14 subsection (a). Such timelines shall be consistent
15 with the timelines established in existing laws and
16 regulations. Each Federal agency with responsibility
17 for project environmental reviews, analyses, opinions,
18 permits, licenses, and approvals shall accord any
19 such review a high priority and shall conduct the re-
20 view expeditiously and, to the maximum extent pos-
21 sible, concurrently with other such reviews.

22 “(2) AGENCY PARTICIPATION.—Each Federal
23 agency identified under subsection (c) shall formu-
24 late and implement administrative, policy, and pro-
25 cedural mechanisms to enable the agency to ensure

1 completion of environmental reviews, analyses, opin-
2 ions, permits, licenses, and approvals described in
3 paragraph (1) in a timely and environmentally re-
4 sponsible manner.

5 “(d) STATE PARTICIPATION.—

6 “(1) INVITATION TO PARTICIPATE.—If a pri-
7 ority environmental review process is being imple-
8 mented under this section with respect to a project
9 within the boundaries of a State with applicable
10 State environmental requirements and approvals, the 11 Administrator shall invite the State to participate in 12 the process.

13 “(2) STATE CHOICE.—A State invited to par-
14 ticipate in a priority environmental review process,
15 consistent with State law, may choose to participate
16 in such process and direct that all State agencies,
17 which have jurisdiction by law to conduct an envi-
18 ronmental review or analysis of the project to deter-
19 mine whether to issue an environmentally related
20 permit, license, or approval for the project, be sub-
21 ject to the process.

22 “(e) FAILURE TO GIVE PRIORITY REVIEW.—

23 “(1) NOTICE.—If the Secretary of Transpor-
24 tation determines that a Federal agency or a partici-
25 pating State is not complying with the requirements

1 of this section and that such noncompliance is un-
2 dermining the environmental review process, the
3 Secretary shall notify, within 30 days of such deter-
4 mination, the head of the Federal agency or, with
5 respect to a State agency, the Governor of the State.

6 “(2) REPORT TO SECRETARY.—A Federal agen-
7 cy that receives a copy of a notification relating to
8 that agency made by the Secretary under paragraph
9 (1) shall submit, within 30 days after receiving such
10 copy, a written report to the Secretary explaining
11 the reasons for the situation described in the notifi-
12 cation and what remedial actions the agency intends
13 to take.

14 “(3) NOTIFICATION OF CEQ AND COMMIT-
15 TEES.—If the Secretary determines that a Federal
16 agency has not satisfactorily addressed the problems
17 within a reasonable period of time following a notifi-
18 cation under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall no-
19 tify the Council on Environmental Quality, the Com-
20 mittee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the 21 House of Representatives, and the Committee on
22 Commerce, Science and Transportation of the Sen-
23 ate.

24 “(f) PROCEDURAL PROVISIONS.—The procedures set
25 forth in subsections (c), (e), (g), (h), and (i) of section

- Sec. 426. Amendment of general fee schedule provision.
- Sec. 427. Improvement of curriculum standards for aviation maintenance technicians.

1 47171 shall apply with respect to an aviation safety or
2 aviation security project under this section in the same
3 manner and to the same extent as such procedures apply
4 to an airport capacity enhancement project at a congested
5 airport under section 47171.

6 “(g) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the following
7 definitions apply:

8 “(1) AVIATION SAFETY PROJECT.—The term
9 ‘aviation safety project’ means an aviation project
10 that—

11 “(A) has as its primary purpose reducing
12 the risk of injury to persons or damage to air-
13 craft and property, as determined by the Ad-
14 ministrator; and

15 “(B)(i) is needed to respond to a rec-
16 ommendation from the National Transportation
17 Safety Board; or

18 “(ii) is necessary for an airport to comply
19 with part 139 of title 14, Code of Federal Reg-
20 ulations (relating to airport certification).

21 “(2) AVIATION SECURITY PROJECT.—The term
22 ‘aviation security project’ means a security project
23 at an airport required by the Department of Home-
24 land Security.

1           “(3) FEDERAL AGENCY.—The term ‘Federal
2           agency’ means a department or agency of the United
3           States Government.”.

4   “§ 47178. Definitions

5           “‘In this subchapter, the following definitions apply:

6           “(1) AIRPORT SPONSOR.—The term ‘airport
7           sponsor’ has the meaning given the term ‘sponsor’
8           under section 47102.

9           “(2) CONGESTED AIRPORT.—The term ‘con-
10          gested airport’ means an airport that accounted for
11          at least 1 percent of all delayed aircraft operations
12          in the United States in the most recent year for 13          which such data is available and an airport listed in 14          table 1 of the Federal Aviation Administration’s Air-
15          port Capacity Benchmark Report 2001.

16          “(3) AIRPORT CAPACITY ENHANCEMENT
17          PROJECT.—The term ‘airport capacity enhancement
18          project’ means—

19                  “(A) a project for construction or exten-
20                  sion of a runway, including any land acquisi-
21                  tion, taxiway, or safety area associated with the 22                  runway or runway extension; and

23                  “(B) such other airport development
24                  projects as the Secretary may designate as fa-

1 facilitating a reduction in air traffic congestion
2 and delays.”.

3 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
4 chapter 471 of such title is amended by adding at the end
5 the following:

“SUBCHAPTER III—AIRPORT PROJECT STREAMLINING

- “47171. DOT as lead agency.
- “47172. Categorical exclusions.
- “47173. Access restrictions to ease construction.
- “47174. Airport revenue to pay for mitigation.
- “47175. Airport funding of FAA staff.
- “47176. Authorization of appropriations.
- “47177. Designation of aviation safety and aviation security projects for priority environmental review.
- “47178. Definitions.”.

6 (c) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—The first sentence of section
7 46110(a) is amended—

8 (1) by inserting “in whole or in part” after the 9 ”the Administrator)””; and

10 (2) by inserting “and under part B” after 11 “under this part”.

12 SEC. 205. GOVERNOR’S CERTIFICATE.

13 Section 47106(c) of title 49, United States Code, is
14 amended—

15 (1) in paragraph (1)—

16 (A) by inserting “and” after the semicolon
17 at the end of subparagraph (A)(ii);

18 (B) by striking subparagraph (B); and

20 subparagraph (B);

1 (2) in paragraph (2)(A) by striking “stage 2”
 2 and inserting “stage 3”;
 3 (3) by striking paragraph (4); and
 4 (4) by redesignating paragraph (5) as para-
 5 graph (4).

6 SEC. 206. CONSTRUCTION OF CERTAIN AIRPORT CAPACITY
 7 PROJECTS.

8 Section 47504(e)(2) of title 49, United States Code,
 9 is amended—

10 (1) by moving subparagraphs (C) and (D) 2
 11 ems to the right;

12 (2) by striking “and” at the end of subpara-
 13 graph (C);

14 (3) by striking the period at the end of sub-
 15 paragraph (D) and inserting “; and”; and

16 (4) by adding at the end the following:

17 “(E) to an airport operator of a congested
 18 airport (as defined in section 47177) and a unit
 19 of local government referred to in paragraph
 20 (1)(B) of this subsection to carry out a project
 21 to mitigate noise in the area surrounding the 22 airport if the project is included as a commit-
 23 ment in a record of decision of the Federal 24 Aviation Administration for an airport capacity
 25 enhancement project (as defined in section

1 47177) even if that airport has not met the re-
2 quirements of part 150 of title 14, Code of Fed-
3 eral Regulations.”.

4 SEC. 207. LIMITATIONS.

5 Nothing in this title, including any amendment made
6 by this title, shall preempt or interfere with—

7 (1) any practice of seeking public comment;

8 (2) any power, jurisdiction, or authority that a
9 State agency or an airport sponsor has with respect
10 to carrying out an airport capacity enhancement
11 project; and

12 (3) any obligation to comply with the provisions
13 of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969
14 (42 U.S.C. 4371 et seq) and the regulations issued
15 by the Council on Environmental Quality to carry 16 out such Act.

17 SEC. 208. RELATIONSHIP TO OTHER REQUIREMENTS.

18 The coordinated review process required under the 19 amendments made by this title shall apply to an airport
20 capacity enhancement project at a congested airport
21 whether or not the project is designated by the Secretary
22 of Transportation as a high-priority transportation infra-
23 structure project under Executive Order 13274 (67 Fed.
24 Reg. 59449; relating to environmental stewardship and 25 transportation infrastructure project reviews).

13 serting “, services,” after “property”.

14 SEC. 405. LOW-EMISSION AIRPORT VEHICLES AND GROUND
15 SUPPORT EQUIPMENT.

16 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 40117(a)(3) is amended
17 by inserting at the end the following:

18 “(G) A project for the acquisition or con-
19 version of ground support equipment or airport-
20 owned vehicles used at a commercial service air-
21 port with, or to, low-emission technology (as de-
22 fined in section 47102) or cleaner burning con-
23 ventional fuels, or the retrofitting of such
24 equipment or vehicles that are powered by a
25 diesel or gasoline engine with emission control

1 technologies certified or verified by the Environ-
 2 mental Protection Agency to reduce emissions,
 3 if the airport is located in an air quality non-
 4 attainment area (as defined in section 171(2) of
 5 the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7501(2)) or a
 6 maintenance area referred to in section 175A of 7 such Act (42 U.S.C. 7505a), and if such project
 8 will result in an airport receiving appropriate
 9 emission credits as described in section
 10 47138.”.

11 (b) MAXIMUM COST FOR CERTAIN LOW-EMISSION
 12 TECHNOLOGY PROJECTS.—Section 40117(b) is amended
 13 by adding at the end the following:

14 “(5) MAXIMUM COST FOR CERTAIN LOW-EMIS-
 15 SION TECHNOLOGY PROJECTS.—The maximum cost
 16 that may be financed by imposition of a passenger
 17 facility fee under this section for a project described
 18 in subsection (a)(3)(G) with respect to vehicle or
 19 ground support equipment may not exceed the incre-
 20 mental amount of the project cost that is greater
 21 than the cost of acquiring a vehicle or equipment
 22 that is not low-emission and would be used for the
 23 same purpose, or the cost of low-emission retro-
 24 fitting, as determined by the Secretary.”.

1 (c) GROUND SUPPORT EQUIPMENT DEFINED.—Sec-
2 tion 40117(a) is amended—

3 (1) by redesignating paragraphs (4) and (5) as
4 paragraphs (5) and (6), respectively;

5 (2) by inserting after paragraph (3) the fol-

11 SEC. 406. STREAMLINING OF THE PASSENGER FACILITY
12 FEE PROGRAM.

13 (a) APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS.—Section
14 40117(c) is amended—

15 (1) by adding at the end of paragraph (2) the
16 following:

17 “(E) The agency will include in its applica-
18 tion or notice submitted under subparagraph
19 (A) copies of all certifications of agreement or
20 disagreement received under subparagraph (D).

21 “(F) For the purpose of this section, an el-
22 igible agency providing notice and an oppor-
23 tunity for consultation to an air carrier or for-
24 eign air carrier is deemed to have satisfied the 25 requirements of this paragraph if the eligible

1 agency limits such notices and consultations to
2 air carriers and foreign air carriers that have a
3 significant business interest at the airport. In
4 the subparagraph, the term ‘significant busi-
5 ness interest’ means an air carrier or foreign
6 air carrier that had no less than 1.0 percent of 7 passenger boardings at the airport in the prior
8 calendar year, had at least 25,000 passenger
9 boardings at the airport in the prior calendar
10 year, or provides scheduled service at the air-
11 port.”;

12 (2) by redesignating paragraph (3) as para-
13 graph (4);

14 (3) by inserting after paragraph (2) the fol-
15 lowing:

16 “(3) Before submitting an application, the eligible
17 agency must provide reasonable notice and an opportunity
18 for public comment. The Secretary shall prescribe regula-
19 tions that define reasonable notice and provide for at least
20 the following under this paragraph:

21 “(A) A requirement that the eligible agen-
22 cy provide public notice of intent to collect a
23 passenger facility fee so as to inform those in-
24 terested persons and agencies who may be af-
25 fected, which public notice may include—

1 “(i) publication in local newspapers of
2 general circulation;

3 “(ii) publication in other local media;
4 and

5 “(ii) posting the notice on the agen-
6 cy’s web-site.

7 “(B) A requirement for submission of pub-
8 lic comments no sooner than 30 days, and no
9 later than 45 days, after the date of the publi-
10 cation of the notice.

11 “(C) A requirement that the agency in-
12 clude in its application or notice submitted
13 under subparagraph (A) copies of all comments
14 received under subparagraph (B).”; and

15 (4) in the first sentence of paragraph (4) (as 16 redesignated by paragraph (2) of this subsection) by
17 striking “shall” and inserting “may”.

18 (b) PILOT PROGRAM FOR PASSENGER FACILITY FEE
19 AUTHORIZATIONS AT NONHUB AIRPORTS.—Section
20 40117 is amended by adding at the end the following:

21 “(1) PILOT PROGRAM FOR PASSENGER FACILITY FEE
22 AUTHORIZATIONS AT NONHUB AIRPORTS.—

23 “(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall estab-
24 lish a pilot program to test alternative procedures
25 for authorizing eligible agencies for nonhub airports

1 to impose passenger facility fees. An eligible agency
2 may impose in accordance with the provisions of this
3 subsection a passenger facility fee under this section.
4 For purposes of the pilot program, the procedures in
5 this subsection shall apply instead of the procedures
6 otherwise provided in this section.

7 “(2) NOTICE AND OPPORTUNITY FOR CON-
8 SULTATION.—The eligible agency must provide rea-
9 sonable notice and an opportunity for consultation to
10 air carriers and foreign air carriers in accordance
11 with subsection (c)(2) and must provide reasonable
12 notice and opportunity for public comment in ac-
13 cordance with subsection (c)(3).

14 “(3) NOTICE OF INTENTION.—The eligible
15 agency must submit to the Secretary a notice of in-
16 tention to impose a passenger facility fee under this
17 subsection. This shall include—

18 “(A) information that the Secretary may
19 require by regulation on each project for which 20 authority to impose a passenger facility fee is 21 sought;

22 “(B) the amount of revenue from pas-
23 senger facility fees that is proposed to be col-
24 lected for each project; and

1                   “(C) the level of the passenger facility fee
2                   that is proposed.

3                   “(4) ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF RECEIPT AND IN-
4                   DICATION OF OBJECTION.—The Secretary shall ac-
5                   knowledge receipt of the notice and indicate any ob-
6                   jection to the imposition of a passenger facility fee
7                   under this subsection for any project identified in
8                   the notice within 30 days after receipt of the eligible
9                   agency’s notice.

10                  “(5) AUTHORITY TO IMPOSE FEE.—Unless the 11                  Secretary objects within 30 days after receipt of the 12                  eligible agency’s notice, the eligible agency is author-
13                  ized to impose a passenger facility fee in accordance 14                  with the terms of its notice under this subsection.

15                  “(6) DEADLINE.—Not later than 180 days
16                  after the date of enactment of this subsection, the 17                  Secretary shall propose such regulations as may be
18                  necessary to carry out this subsection.

19                  “(7) SUNSET.—This subsection shall not be in
20                  effect 3 years after the date of issuance of regula-
21                  tions to carry out this subsection.

22                  “(8) ACKNOWLEDGEMENT NOT AN ORDER.—An
23                  acknowledgement issued under paragraph (4) shall
24                  not be considered an order of the Secretary issued
25                  under section 46110.”.

1 the establishment of helicopter and tiltrotor ap-
 2 proach and departure procedures using advanced
 3 technologies, such as the Global Positioning System
 4 and automatic dependent surveillance, to permit op-
 5 erations in adverse weather conditions to meet the
 6 needs of air ambulance services.

7 “(5) ADDITIONAL AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL-
 8 LERS.—Out of amounts appropriated under para-
 9 graph (1), such sums as may be necessary may be 10 expended to hire additional air traffic controllers in 11 order to meet increasing air traffic demands and to 12 address the anticipated increase in the retirement of 13 experienced air traffic controllers.

14 “(6) COMPLETION OF ALASKA AVIATION SAFE-
 15 TY PROJECT.—Out of amounts appropriated under 16 paragraph (1), $6,000,000 may be expended for the 17 completion of the Alaska aviation safety project with 18 respect to the 3 dimensional mapping of Alaska’s
 19 main aviation corridors.

20 “(7) AVIATION SAFETY REPORTING SYSTEM.—
 21 Out of amounts appropriated under paragraph (1),
 22 $3,400,000 may be expended on the Aviation Safety
 23 Reporting System.

24 (b) AIRLINE DATA AND ANALYSIS.—There is author-
 25 ized to be appropriated to the Secretary of Transportation,

1 (c) CLARIFICATION OF APPLICABILITY OF PFCS TO
2 MILITARY CHARTERS.—Section 40117(e)(2) is
3 amended—

4 (1) by striking the period at the end of sub-
5 paragraph (C) and inserting a semicolon;

6 (2) by striking “and” at the end of subpara-
7 graph (D);

8 (3) by striking the period at the end of sub-
9 paragraph (E) and inserting “; and”; and

10 (4) by inserting after subparagraph (E) the fol-
11 lowing:

12 “(F) enplaning at an airport if the pas-
13 senger did not pay for the air transportation
14 which resulted in such enplanement due to
15 charter arrangements and payment by the De-
16 partment of Defense.”.

17 (d) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—Section 40117 is
18 amended—

19 (1) in subsection (a)(3)(C) by striking “for 20 costs” and inserting “A project”;

21 (2) in subsection (a)(3)(C) by striking the semi-
22 colon and inserting a period; and

23 (3) in subsection (e)(2)(C) by striking the pe-
24 riod and inserting a semicolon.

1 SEC. 407. FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT OF PASSENGER FACIL-
2 ITY FEES.

3 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 40117 is further amended
4 by adding at the end the following:

5 “(m) FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT OF FEES.—

6 “(1) HANDLING OF FEES.—

7 “(A) PLACEMENT OF FEES IN ESCROW AC-
8 COUNT.—Subject to subparagraph (B), pas-
9 senger facility revenue held by an air carrier or 10 any of its agents shall be segregated from the 11 carrier’s cash and other assets and placed in an
12 escrow account for the benefit of the eligible
13 agencies entitled to such revenue.

14 “(B) ALTERNATIVE METHOD OF COMPLI-
15 ANCE.—Instead of placing amounts in an es-
16 crow account under subparagraph (A), an air
17 carrier may provide to the eligible agency a let-
18 ter of credit, bond, or other form of adequate
19 and immediately available security in an
20 amount equal to estimated remittable passenger
21 facility fees for 180 days, to be assessed against
22 later audit, upon which security the eligible
23 agency shall be entitled to draw automatically,
24 without necessity of any further legal or judicial
25 action to effectuate foreclosure.

1           “(3) TRUST FUND STATUS.—If an air carrier or
2           its agent commingles passenger facility revenue in
3           violation of the subsection, the trust fund status of 4           such revenue shall not be defeated by an inability of
5           any party to identify and trace the precise funds in
6           the accounts of the air carrier.

7           “(4) PROHIBITION.—An air carrier and its
8           agents may not grant to any third party any secu-
9           rity or other interest in passenger facility revenue.

10           “(5) COMPENSATION TO ELIGIBLE ENTITIES.—
11           An air carrier that fails to comply with any require-
12           ment of this subsection, or otherwise unnecessarily
13           causes an eligible entity to expend funds, through
14           litigation or otherwise, to recover or retain payment
15           of passenger facility revenue to which the eligible en-
16           tity is otherwise entitled shall be required to com-
17           pensate the eligible agency for the costs so incurred.

18           “(6) INTEREST ON AMOUNTS.—An air carrier
19           that collects passenger facility fees is entitled to re-
20           ceive the interest on passenger facility fee accounts,
21           if the accounts are established and maintained in
22           compliance with this subsection.”.

23           (b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

1 (1) IN GENERAL.—The amendment made by
2 subsection (a) shall take effect 60 days after the
3 date of enactment of this Act.

4 (2) EXISTING REGULATIONS.—Beginning 60
5 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the
6 provisions of section 158.49 of title 14, Code of Fed-
7 eral Regulations, that permit the commingling of
8 passenger facility fees with other air carrier revenue
9 shall have no force or effect.

10 SEC. 408. GOVERNMENT CONTRACTING FOR AIR TRANS-
11 PORTATION.

12 (a) GOVERNMENT-FINANCED AIR TRANSPOR-
13 TATION.—Section 40118(f)(2) is amended by inserting be-
14 fore the period at the end the following: “, except that 15 it shall not include a contract for the transportation by 16 air of passengers”.

17 (b) AIRLIFT SERVICE.—Section 41106(b) is amended
18 by inserting after “military department” the following: “,
19 or by a person that has contracted with the Secretary of 20 Defense or the Secretary of a military department,”.

21 SEC. 409. OVERFLIGHTS OF NATIONAL PARKS.

22 (a) AIR TOUR MANAGEMENT ACT CLARIFICA-
23 TIONS.—Section 40128 is amended—

1 (1) in subsection (a)(1) by inserting “, as de-
2 fined by this section,” after “lands” the first place
3 it appears;

4 (2) in subsections (b)(3)(A), (b)(3)(B), and
5 (b)(3)(C) by inserting “over a national park” after
6 “operations”;

7 (3) in subsection (b)(3)(D) by striking “at the 8 park” and inserting “over a national park”;

9 (4) in subsection (b)(3)(E) by inserting “over a
10 national park” after “operations” the first place it
11 appears;

12 (5) in subsections (c)(2)(A)(i) and (c)(2)(B) by
13 inserting “over a national park” after “operations”;

14 (6) in subsection (f)(1) by inserting “over a na-
15 tional park” after “operation”;

16 (7) in subsection (f)(4)(A)—

17 (A) by striking “commercial air tour oper-
18 ation” and inserting “commercial air tour oper-
19 ation over a national park”; and

20 (B) by striking “park, or over tribal
21 lands,” and inserting “park (except the Grand
22 Canyon National Park), or over tribal lands
23 (except those within or abutting the Grand
24 Canyon National Park),”; and

1 (8) in subsection (f)(4)(B) by inserting “over a
2 national park” after “operation”.

3 (b) GRAND CANYON NATIONAL PARK SPECIAL
4 FLIGHT RULES AREA OPERATION CURFEW.—

5 (1) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the
6 Federal Aviation Administration may not restrict
7 commercial Special Flight Rules Area operations in
8 the Dragon and Zuni Point corridors of the Grand
9 Canyon National Park during the period beginning
10 1-hour after sunrise and ending 1-hour before sun-
11 set, unless required for aviation safety purposes.

12 (2) EFFECT ON EXISTING REGULATIONS.—Be-
13 ginning on the date of enactment of this Act, section
14 93.317 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations,
15 shall not be in effect.

16 SEC. 410. COLLABORATIVE DECISION MAKING PILOT PRO-
17 GRAM.

18 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 401 is amended by add-
19 ing at the end the following:

20 “§ 40129. Collaborative decision making pilot pro-
21 gram

22 “(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—Not later than 90 days after
23 the date of enactment of this section, the Administrator
24 of the Federal Aviation Administration shall establish a

1 collaborative decisionmaking pilot program in accordance
2 with this section.

3 “(b) DURATION.—Except as provided in subsection
4 (k), the pilot program shall be in effect for a period of 5 2 years.

6 “(c) GUIDELINES.—

7 “(1) ISSUANCE.—The Administrator shall issue
8 guidelines concerning the pilot program. Such guide-
9 lines, at a minimum, shall define the criteria and
10 process for determining when a capacity reduction
11 event exists that warrants the use of collaborative
12 decisionmaking among carriers at airports partici-
13 pating in the pilot program and that prescribe the 14 methods of communication to be implemented among
15 carriers during such an event.

16 “(2) VIEWS.—The Administrator may obtain
17 the views of interested parties in issuing the guide-
18 lines.

19 “(d) EFFECT OF DETERMINATION OF EXISTENCE OF
20 CAPACITY REDUCTION EVENT.—Upon a determination by
21 the Administrator that a capacity reduction event exists,
22 the Administrator may authorize air carriers and foreign
23 air carriers operating at an airport participating in the 24 pilot program to communicate for a period of time not
25 to exceed 24 hours with each other concerning changes

1 in their respective flight schedules in order to use air traf-
2 fic capacity most effectively. The Administration shall fa-
3 cilitate and monitor such communication.

4       “(e) SELECTION OF PARTICIPATING AIRPORTS.—Not
5 later than 30 days after the date on which the Adminis-
6 trator establishes the pilot program, the Administrator
7 shall select 3 airports to participate in the pilot program
8 from among the most capacity constrained airports in the
9 country based on the Administration’s Airport Capacity
10 Benchmark Report 2001 or more recent data on airport
11 capacity that is available to the Administrator. The Ad-
12 ministrator shall select an airport for participation in the 13 pilot program if the Administrator determines that col-
14 laborative decisionmaking among air carriers and foreign
15 air carriers would reduce delays at the airport and have
16 beneficial effects on reducing delays in the national air-
17 space system as a whole.

18       “(f) ELIGIBILITY OF AIR CARRIERS.—An air carrier
19 or foreign air carrier operating at an airport selected to 20 participate in the pilot program is eligible to participate
21 in the pilot program if the Administrator determines that
22 the carrier has the operational and communications capa-
23 bility to participate in the pilot program.

24       “(g) MODIFICATION OR TERMINATION OF PILOT
25 PROGRAM AT AN AIRPORT.—The Administrator may mod-

1 ify or end the pilot program at an airport before the term
2 of the pilot program has expired, or may ban an air carrier
3 or foreign air carrier from participating in the program,
4 if the Administrator determines that the purpose of the 5 pilot program is not being furthered by participation of
6 the airport or air carrier or if the Secretary of Transpor-
7 tation, in consultation with the Attorney General, finds
8 that the pilot program or the participation of an air car-
9 rier or foreign air carrier in the pilot program has had,
10 or is having, an adverse effect on competition among car-
11 riers.

12 “(h) ANTITRUST IMMUNITY.—

13 “(1) IN GENERAL.—Unless, within 5 days after
14 receiving notice from the Secretary of the Sec-
15 retary’s intention to exercise authority under this
16 subsection, the Attorney General submits to the Sec-
17 retary a written objection to such action, including
18 reasons for such objection, the Secretary may ex-
19 empt an air carrier’s or foreign air carrier’s activi-
20 ties that are necessary to participate in the pilot
21 program under this section from the antitrust laws
22 for the sole purpose of participating in the pilot pro-
23 gram. Such exemption shall not extend to any dis-
24 cussions, agreements, or activities outside the scope
25 of the pilot program.

1           “(2) ANTITRUST LAWS DEFINED.—In this sec-
2           tion, the term ‘antitrust laws’ has the meaning given
3           that term in the first section of the Clayton Act (15
4           U.S.C. 12).

5           “(i) CONSULTATION WITH ATTORNEY GENERAL.—
6           The Secretary shall consult with the Attorney General re-
7           garding the design and implementation of the pilot pro-
8           gram, including determining whether a limit should be set
9           on the number of occasions collaborative decisionmaking
10          could be employed during the initial 2-year period of the 11          pilot program.

12          “(j) EVALUATION.—

13           “(1) IN GENERAL.—Before the expiration of
14          the 2-year period for which the pilot program is au-
15          thorized under subsection (b), the Administrator
16          shall determine whether the pilot program has facili-
17          tated more effective use of air traffic capacity and
18          the Secretary, in consultation with the Attorney
19          General, shall determine whether the pilot program
20          has had an adverse effect on airline competition or 21          the availability of air services to communities. The
22          Administrator shall also examine whether capacity
23          benefits resulting from the participation in the pilot
24          program of an airport resulted in capacity benefits
25          to other parts of the national airspace system.

1 out of the Airport and Airway Trust Fund established by
2 section 9502 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26
3 U.S.C. 9502), $3,971,000 for fiscal year 2004,
4 $4,045,000 for fiscal year 2005, $4,127,000 for fiscal year
5 2006, and $4,219,000 for fiscal year 2007 to gather air-
6 line data and conduct analyses of such data in the Bureau
7 of Transportation Statistics of the Department of Trans-
8 portation.

9 (c) HUMAN CAPITAL WORKFORCE STRATEGY.—

10 (1) DEVELOPMENT.—The Administrator of the
11 Federal Aviation Administration shall develop a
12 comprehensive human capital workforce strategy to
13 determine the most effective method for addressing
14 the need for more air traffic controllers that is called
15 for in the June 2002 report of the General Account-
16 ing Office.

17 (2) COMPLETION DATE.—The Administrator
18 shall complete development of the strategy not later
19 than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act.

20 (3) REPORT.—Not later than 30 days after the
21 date on which the strategy is completed, the Admin-
22 istrator shall transmit to Congress a report describ-
23 ing the strategy.

24 (d) GOALS AND OBJECTIVES OF AVIATION SAFETY
25 REPORTING SYSTEM.—Not later than 90 days after the

1           “(2) OBTAINING NECESSARY DATA.—The Ad-
2           ministrator may require participating air carriers
3           and airports to provide data necessary to evaluate
4           the pilot program’s impact.

5           “(k) EXTENSION OF PILOT PROGRAM.—At the end
6           of the 2-year period for which the pilot program is author-
7           ized, the Administrator may continue the pilot program
8           for an additional 2 years and expand participation in the 9           program to up to 7 additional airports if the Adminis-
10          trator determines pursuant to subsection (j) that the pilot
11          program has facilitated more effective use of air traffic
12          capacity and if the Secretary, in consultation with the At-
13          torney General, determines that the pilot program has had 14          no adverse effect on airline competition or the availability
15          of air services to communities. The Administrator shall se-
16          lect the additional airports to participate in the extended
17          pilot program in the same manner in which airports were 18          initially selected to participate.”

19          (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
20          chapter 401 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
21          lowing:

          “40129. Pilot program for improved collaborative decisionmaking during times of reduced capacity.”

1 SEC. 411. AVAILABILITY OF AIRCRAFT ACCIDENT SITE IN-
2 FORMATION.

3 (a) DOMESTIC AIR TRANSPORTATION.—Section
4 41113(b) is amended—

5 (1) in paragraph (16) by striking “the air car-
6 rier” the second place it appears; and

7 (2) by adding at the end the following:

8 “(17)(A) An assurance that, in the case of an
9 accident that results in significant damage to a man-
10 made structure or other property on the ground that 11 is not government-owned, the air carrier will
12 promptly provide notice, in writing, to the extent
13 practicable, directly to the owner of the structure or
14 other property about liability for any property dam-
15 age and means for obtaining compensation.

16 “(B) At a minimum, the written notice shall 17 advise an owner (i) to contact the insurer of the 18 property as the authoritative source for information
19 about coverage and compensation; (ii) to not rely on
20 unofficial information offered by air carrier rep-
21 resentatives about compensation by the air carrier
22 for accident-site property damage; and (iii) to obtain
23 photographic or other detailed evidence of property
24 damage as soon as possible after the accident, con-
25 sistent with restrictions on access to the accident
26 site.

1           “(18) An assurance that, in the case of an acci-
 2           dent in which the National Transportation Safety
 3           Board conducts a public hearing or comparable pro-
 4           ceeding at a location greater than 80 miles from the
 5           accident site, the air carrier will ensure that the pro-
 6           ceeding is made available simultaneously by elec-
 7           tronic means at a location open to the public at both
 8           the origin city and destination city of the air car-
 9           rier’s flight if that city is located in the United
 10          States.”.

11          (b) FOREIGN AIR TRANSPORTATION.—Section 41313
 12 is amended by adding at the end the following:

13           “(17) NOTICE CONCERNING LIABILITY FOR
 14          MAN-MADE STRUCTURES.—

15           “(A) IN GENERAL.—An assurance that, in
 16           the case of an accident that results in signifi-
 17           cant damage to a man-made structure or other
 18           property on the ground that is not government-
 19           owned, the foreign air carrier will promptly pro-
 20           vide notice, in writing, to the extent practicable,
 21           directly to the owner of the structure or other
 22           property about liability for any property dam-
 23           age and means for obtaining compensation.

24           “(B) MINIMUM CONTENTS.—At a min-
 25           imum, the written notice shall advise an owner

1 (i) to contact the insurer of the property as the
 2 authoritative source for information about cov-
 3 erage and compensation; (ii) to not rely on un-
 4 official information offered by foreign air car-
 5 rier representatives about compensation by the
 6 foreign air carrier for accident-site property
 7 damage; and (iii) to obtain photographic or
 8 other detailed evidence of property damage as
 9 soon as possible after the accident, consistent
 10 with restrictions on access to the accident site.

11 “(18) SIMULTANEOUS ELECTRONIC TRANS-
 12 MISSION OF NTSB HEARING.—An assurance that, in 13 the case of an accident in which the National Trans-
 14 portation Safety Board conducts a public hearing or
 15 comparable proceeding at a location greater than 80
 16 miles from the accident site, the foreign air carrier
 17 will ensure that the proceeding is made available si-
 18 multaneously by electronic means at a location open
 19 to the public at both the origin city and destination
 20 city of the foreign air carrier’s flight if that city is 21 located in the United States.”.

22 (c) UPDATE PLANS.—Air carriers and foreign air
 23 carriers shall update their plans under sections 41113 and
 24 41313 of title 49, United States Code, respectively, to re-
 25 flect the amendments made by subsections (a) and (b) of

1 this section not later than 90 days after the date of enact-
2 ment of this Act.

3 SEC. 412. SLOT EXEMPTIONS AT RONALD REAGAN WASH-
4 INGTON NATIONAL AIRPORT.

5 (a) BEYOND-PERIMETER EXEMPTIONS.—Section
6 41718(a) is amended by striking “12” and inserting “24”.

7 (b) WITHIN-PERIMETER EXEMPTIONS.—Section
8 41718(b) is amended—

9 (1) by striking “12” and inserting “20”; and

10 (2) by striking “that were designated as me-
11 dium hub or smaller airports”.

12 (c) LIMITATIONS.—

13 (1) GENERAL EXEMPTIONS.—Section
14 41718(c)(2) is amended by striking “two” and in-
15 serting “3”.

16 (2) ALLOCATION OF WITHIN-PERIMETER EX-
17 EMPTIONS.—Section 41718(c)(3) is amended—

18 (A) in subparagraph (A)—

19 (i) by striking “four” and inserting
20 “six”; and

21 (ii) by striking “and” at the end;

22 (B) in subparagraph (B)—

23 (i) by striking “eight” and inserting
24 “ten”; and

1 (ii) by striking the period at the end
2 and inserting “; and”; and

3 (C) by adding at the end the following:

4 “(C) four shall be for air transportation to
5 airports without regard to their size.”.

6 (d) APPLICATION PROCEDURES.—Section 41718(d)
7 is amended to read as follows:

8 “(d) APPLICATION PROCEDURES.—The Secretary
9 shall establish procedures to ensure that all requests for 10 exemptions under this section are granted or denied within 11 90 days after the date on which the request is made.”.

12 (e) EFFECT OF PERIMETER RULES ON COMPETITION
13 AND AIR SERVICE.—

14 (1) IDENTIFICATION OF OTHER AIRPORTS.—

15 The Secretary of Transportation shall identify air-
16 ports (other than Ronald Reagan Washington Na-
17 tional Airport) that have imposed perimeter rules
18 like those in effect with respect to Ronald Reagan
19 Washington National Airport.

20 (2) LIMITATION ON APPLICABILITY.—This sub-

21 section does not apply to perimeter rules imposed by
22 Federal law.

23 (3) STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a

24 study of the effect that perimeter rules for airports
25 identified under paragraph (1) have on competition

1 and on air service to communities outside the perim-
2 eter.

3 (4) REPORT.—Not later than 120 days after
4 the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary
5 shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of 6 the study.

7 (f) EFFECT OF CHANGING DEFINITION OF COM-
8 MUTER AIR CARRIER.—

9 (1) STUDY.—The Secretary shall study the ef-
10 fects of changing the definition of commuter air car-
11 rier in regulations of the Federal Aviation Adminis-
12 tration to increase the maximum size of aircraft of 13 such carriers to 76 seats or less on air service to 14 small communities and on commuter air carriers op-
15 erating aircraft with 56 seats or less.

16 (2) REPORT.—Not later than 90 days after the 17 date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall 18 transmit to Congress a report on the results of the 19 study.

20 SEC. 413. NOTICE CONCERNING AIRCRAFT ASSEMBLY.

21 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 417 is
22 amended by adding at the end the following:

23 “§ 41722. Notice concerning aircraft assembly

24 “The Secretary of Transportation shall require, be-
25 ginning after the last day of the 1-year period following

1 the date of enactment of this section, an air carrier using
 2 an aircraft to provide scheduled passenger air transpor-
 3 tation to display a notice, on an information placard avail-
 4 able to each passenger on the aircraft, that informs the
 5 passengers of the nation in which the aircraft was finally
 6 assembled.”.

7 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
 8 chapter 417 is amended by striking the item relating to
 9 section 41721 and inserting the following:

“41721. Reports by carriers on incidents involving animals during air transport.
 “41722. Notice concerning aircraft assembly.”.

10 SEC. 414. SPECIAL RULE TO PROMOTE AIR SERVICE TO
 11 SMALL COMMUNITIES.

12 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 417 is
 13 further amended by adding at the end the following:

14 “§ 41723. Special rule to promote air service to small
 15 communities

16 “In order to promote air service to small commu-
 17 nities, the Secretary of Transportation shall permit an op-
 18 erator of a turbine powered or multi-engine piston pow-
 19 ered aircraft with 10 passenger seats or less (1) to provide
 20 air transportation between an airport that is a non-hub
 21 airport and another airport or between an airport that is 22 not a commercial service airport and another airport, and
 23 (2) to sell individual seats on that aircraft at a negotiated
 24 price, if the aircraft is otherwise operated in accordance

1 with parts 119 and 135 of title 14, Code of Federal Regu-
2 lations, and the air transportation is otherwise provided
3 in accordance with part 298 of such title 14.”.

4 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
5 chapter 417 is further amended by adding at the end the
6 following:

“41723. Special rule to promote air service to small communities.”.

7 SEC. 415. SMALL COMMUNITY AIR SERVICE.

8 (a) COMPENSATION GUIDELINES, LIMITATION, AND 9 CLAIMS.—

10 (1) PAYMENT OF PROMOTIONAL AMOUNTS.—

11 Section 41737(a)(2) is amended by inserting before
12 the period at the end “or may be paid directly to the 13 unit of local government having jurisdiction over the 14 eligible place served by the air carrier”.

15 (2) LOCAL SHARE.—Section 41737(a) is
16 amended by adding at the end the following:

17

18 “(3) PAYMENT OF COST BY LOCAL GOVERN-
19 MENT.—

20 “(A) GENERAL REQUIREMENT.—The
21 guidelines may require a unit of local govern-
22 ment having jurisdiction over an eligible place
23 that is less than 170 miles from a medium or
24 large hub or less than 75 miles from a small
25 hub or a State within the boundaries of which

1 the eligible place is located to pay 2.5 percent
2 in fiscal year 2005, 5 percent in fiscal year
3 2006, 7.5 percent in fiscal year 2007, and 10
4 percent in fiscal year 2008 of the amount of
5 compensation payable under this subchapter for
6 air transportation with respect to the eligible
7 place to ensure the continuation of that air
8 transportation.

9 “(B) WAIVER.—The Secretary may waive
10 the requirement, or reduce the amount, of a
11 payment from a unit of local government under
12 subparagraph (A) if the Secretary finds that—

13 “(i) the unit of local government lacks
14 the ability to pay; and

15 “(ii) the loss of essential air service to
16 the eligible place would have an adverse ef-
17 fect on the eligible place’s access to the na-
18 tional air transportation system.

19 “(C) DETERMINATION OF MILEAGE.—In
20 determining the mileage between the eligible
21 place and a hub under this paragraph, the Sec-
22 retary shall use the most commonly used high-
23 way route between the eligible place and the 24 hub.”.

1 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall
2 transmit to Congress a report on the long-term goals and
3 objectives of the Aviation Safety Reporting System and
4 how such system interrelates with other safety reporting
5 systems of the Federal Government.

6 SEC. 102. AIR NAVIGATION FACILITIES AND EQUIPMENT.

7 Section 48101 is amended—

8 (1) in subsection (a) by striking paragraphs (1)
9 through (5) and inserting the following:

10 “(1) $2,938,000,000 for fiscal year 2004;

11 “(2) $2,993,000,000 for fiscal year 2005;

12 “(3) $3,053,000,000 for fiscal year 2006; and

13 “(4) $3,110,000,000 for fiscal year 2007.”;

14 (2) by striking subsection (b);

15 (3) by redesignating (c) as subsection (b);

16 (4) by striking subsections (d) and (e) and in-
17 serting the following:

18 “(c) ENHANCED SAFETY AND SECURITY FOR AIR-
19 CRAFT OPERATIONS IN THE GULF OF MEXICO.—Of
20 amounts appropriated under subsection (a), such sums as 21 may be necessary for fiscal years 2004 through 2007 may 22 be used to expand and improve the safety, efficiency, and
23 security of air traffic control, navigation, low altitude com-
24 munications and surveillance, and weather services in the 25 Gulf of Mexico.

1 (3) AUTHORITY TO MAKE AGREEMENTS AND
2 INCUR OBLIGATIONS.—Section 41737(d) is
3 amended—

4 (A) by striking “(1) The Secretary” and
5 inserting the “The Secretary”; and

6 (B) by striking paragraph (2).

7 (b) AIRPORTS NOT RECEIVING SUFFICIENT SERV-
8 ICE.—Section 41743 is amended—

9 (1) in subsection (a) by striking “pilot”;

10 (2) in subsection (c)—

11 (A) by striking paragraph (3);

12 (B) by redesignating paragraphs (4) and
13 (5) as paragraphs (3) and (4), respectively; and

14 (C) in paragraph (4) (as so redesign-
15 ated)—

16 (i) by striking “and” at the end of
17 subparagraph (C);

18 (ii) by striking the period at the end
19 of subparagraph (D) and inserting “;
20 and”; and

21 (iii) by adding at the end the fol-
22 lowing:

23 “(E) the assistance can be used in the fis-
24 cal year in which it is received.”; and

25 (3) in subsection (f) by striking “pilot”.

1 (c) ESSENTIAL AIR SERVICE AUTHORIZATION.—Sec-
2 tion 41742 is amended—

3 (1) in subsection (a)(2) by striking
4 “$15,000,000” and inserting “$65,000,000”;

5 (2) by adding at the end of subsection (a) the
6 following:

7 “(3) AUTHORIZATION FOR ADDITIONAL
8 EMPLOYEES.—In addition to amounts author-
9 ized under paragraphs (1) and (2), there is au-
10 thorized to be appropriated such sums as may
11 be necessary for the Secretary of Transpor-
12 tation to hire and employ 4 additional employ-
13 ees for the office responsible for carrying out
14 the essential air service program.”; and

15 (3) by striking subsection (c).

16 (d) PROCESS FOR DISCONTINUING CERTAIN SUB-
17 SIDIES.—Section 41734 is amended by adding at the end
18 the following:

19 “(f) PROCESS FOR DISCONTINUING CERTAIN SUB-
20 SIDIES.—If the Secretary determines that no subsidy will
21 be provided to a carrier to provide essential air service
22 to an eligible place because the eligible place does not meet
23 the requirements of section 332 of the Department of 24 Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriations Act,
25 2000 (49 U.S.C. 41731 note; 113 Stat. 1022), the Sec-

1 retary shall notify the affected community that the subsidy
2 will cease but shall continue to provide the subsidy for 90
3 days after providing the notice to the community.”.

4 (e) JOINT PROPOSALS.—Section 41740 is amended
5 by inserting “, including joint fares,” after “joint pro-
6 posals”.

7 (f) COMMUNITY AND REGIONAL CHOICE PRO-
8 GRAM.—

9 (1) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter II of chapter
10 417 is amended by adding at the end the following:

11 “§ 41745. Community and regional choice program

12 “(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary of Transpor-
13 tation shall establish an alternate essential air service pilot
14 program in accordance with the requirements of this sec-
15 tion.

16 “(b) COMPENSATION TO ELIGIBLE PLACES.—In car-
17 rying out the program, the Secretary, instead of paying
18 compensation to an air carrier to provide essential air
19 service to an eligible place, may pay compensation directly
20 to a unit of local government having jurisdiction over the 21 eligible place or a State within the boundaries of which
22 the eligible place is located.

23 “(c) USE OF COMPENSATION.—A unit of local gov-
24 ernment or State receiving compensation for an eligible

1 place under the program shall use the compensation for
2 any of the following purposes:

3           “(1) To provide assistance to an air carrier to
4 provide scheduled air service to and from the eligible
5 place, without being subject to the requirements of 6 41732(b).

7           “(2) To provide assistance to an air carrier to 8 provide on-demand air taxi service to and from the
9 eligible place.

10           “(3) To provide assistance to a person to pro-
11 vide scheduled or on-demand surface transportation
12 to and from the eligible place and an airport in an-
13 other place.

14           “(4) In combination with other units of local
15 government in the same region, to provide transpor-
16 tation services to and from all the eligible places in
17 that region at an airport or other transportation
18 center that can serve all the eligible places in that 19 region.

20           “(5) To purchase aircraft, or a fractional share
21 in aircraft, to provide transportation to and from the
22 eligible place.

23           “(6) To pay for other transportation or related
24 services that the Secretary may permit.

1       “(d) FRACTIONALLY OWNED AIRCRAFT.—Notwith-
2 standing any other provision of law, only those operating
3 rules that relate to an aircraft that is fractionally owned
4 apply when an aircraft described in subsection (c)(5) is
5 used to provide transportation described in subsection
6 (c)(5).

7       “(e) APPLICATIONS.—

8           “(1) IN GENERAL.—A unit of local government
9 or State seeking to participate in the program for an
10 eligible place shall submit to the Secretary an appli-
11 cation in such form and containing such information
12 as the Secretary may require.

13           “(2) REQUIRED INFORMATION.—At a min-
14 imum, the application shall include—

15                   “(A) a statement of the amount of com-
16 pensation required; and

17                   “(B) a description of how the compensa-
18 tion will be used.

19       “(f) PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENTS.—

20           “(1) ELIGIBLE PLACES.—An eligible place for
21 which compensation is received under the program
22 in a fiscal year shall not be eligible to receive in that
23 fiscal year the essential air service that it would oth-
24 erwise be entitled to under this subchapter.

1           “(2) GOVERNMENTAL ENTITIES.—A unit of
2           local government or State receiving compensation for
3           an eligible place under the program in a fiscal year
4           shall not be required to pay the 10 percent local
5           share described in 41737(a)(3) in such fiscal year.

6           “(g) SUBSEQUENT PARTICIPATION.—A unit of local
7           government participating in the program under this sec-
8           tion in a fiscal year shall not be prohibited from partici-
9           pating in the basic essential air service program under this
10          chapter in a subsequent fiscal year if such unit is other-
11          wise eligible to participate in such program.

12          “(h) FUNDING.—Amounts appropriated or otherwise
13          made available to carry out the essential air service pro-
14          gram under this subchapter shall be available to carry out
15          this section.”.

16          (2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis
17          for chapter 417 is amended by inserting after the 18          item relating to section 41744 the following:

          “41745. Community and regional choice program.”.

19   SEC. 416. PROTECTION OF EMPLOYEES PROVIDING AIR
20                           SAFETY INFORMATION.

21          Section 42121 is amended—

22                  (1) by redesignating subsection (e) as sub-
23                  section (f); and

24                  (2) by inserting after subsection (d) the fol-
25                  lowing:

1           “(e) ACTION IN DISTRICT COURT.—If the Secretary
2 has not issued a final order within the time period estab-
3 lished by subsection (b)(3) with respect to a complaint and
4 there is no showing that the delay is due to the bad faith
5 of the complainant, the complainant may bring an action
6 at law or equity for de novo review of the complaint in
7 the appropriate district court of the United States. The 8 district court shall have jurisdiction over the action with-
9 out regard to the amount in controversy. The action shall
10 be subject to the standards of proof provided in subsection
11 (b)(2)(B).”.

12 SEC. 417. TYPE CERTIFICATES.

13           (a) AGREEMENTS TO PERMIT USE OF CERTIFICATES
14 BY OTHER PERSONS.—Section 44704(a) is amended by
15 adding at the end the following:

16           “(3) If the holder of a type certificate agrees to per-
17 mit another person to use the certificate to manufacture
18 a new aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance, the
19 holder shall provide the other person with written evi-
20 dence, in a form acceptable to the Administrator, of that
21 agreement. A person may manufacture a new aircraft, air-
22 craft engine, propeller, or appliance based on a type cer-
23 tificate only if the person is the holder of the type certifi-
24 cate or has permission from the holder.”.

1 (b) CERTIFICATION OF PRODUCTS MANUFACTURED
2 IN FOREIGN NATIONS.—Section 44704 is further amend-
3 ed by adding at the end the following:

4 “(e) CERTIFICATION OF PRODUCTS MANUFACTURED
5 IN FOREIGN NATIONS.—In order to ensure safety, the Ad-
6 ministrator shall spend at least the same amount of time
7 and perform a no-less-thorough review in certifying, or
8 validating the certification of, an aircraft, aircraft engine,
9 propeller, or appliance manufactured in a foreign nation
10 as the regulatory authorities of that nation employ when 11 the authorities certify, or validate the certification of, an
12 aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance manufac-
13 tured in the United States.”.

14 SEC. 418. DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATES.

15 (a) GENERAL AUTHORITY TO ISSUE CERTIFI-
16 CATES.—Effective on the last day of the 7-year period be-
17 ginning on the date of enactment of this Act, section
18 44702(a) is amended by inserting “design organization
19 certificates,” after “airman certificates,”.

20 (b) DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATES.—

21 (1) PLAN.—Not later than 3 years after the
22 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator of
23 the Federal Aviation Administration shall transmit
24 to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Trans-
25 portation of the Senate and the Committee on

1 Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of
 2 Representatives a plan for the development and
 3 oversight of a system for certification of design orga-
 4 nizations to certify compliance with the requirements
 5 and minimum standards prescribed under section
 6 44701(a) of title 49, United States Code, for the
 7 type certification of aircraft, aircraft engines, propel-
 8 lers, or appliances.

9 (2) ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATES.—Section
 10 44704 is further amended by adding at the end the
 11 following:

12 “(f) DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATES.—

13 “(1) ISSUANCE.—Beginning 7 years after the
 14 date of enactment of this subsection, the Adminis-
 15 trator may issue a design organization certificate to 16 a design organization to authorize the organization
 17 to certify compliance with the requirements and min-
 18 imum standards prescribed under section 44701(a)
 19 for the type certification of aircraft, aircraft engines,
 20 propellers, or appliances.

21 “(2) APPLICATIONS.—On receiving an applica-
 22 tion for a design organization certificate, the Admin-
 23 istrator shall examine and rate the design organiza-
 24 tion submitting the application, in accordance with
 25 regulations to be prescribed by the Administrator, to

1 determine whether the design organization has ade-
2 quate engineering, design, and testing capabilities,
3 standards, and safeguards to ensure that the prod-
4 uct being certificated is properly designed and man-
5 ufactured, performs properly, and meets the regula-
6 tions and minimum standards prescribed under sec-
7 tion 44701(a).

8 “(3) ISSUANCE OF TYPE CERTIFICATES BASED
9 ON DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATION.—On re-
10 ceiving an application for a type certificate under
11 subsection (a) that is accompanied by a certification
12 of compliance by a design organization certificated
13 under this subsection, instead of conducting an inde-
14 pendent investigation under subsection (a), the Ad-
15 ministrator may issue the type certificate based on
16 the certification of compliance.

17 “(4) PUBLIC SAFETY.—The Administrator shall
18 include in a design organization certificate issued
19 under this subsection terms required in the interest
20 of safety.”.

21 (c) REINSPECTION AND REEXAMINATION.—Section
22 44709(a) is amended by inserting “design organization,
23 production certificate holder,” after “appliance,”.

1 “(d) OPERATIONAL BENEFITS OF WAKE VORTEX
2 ADVISORY SYSTEM.—Of amounts appropriated under sub-
3 section (a), $20,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004
4 through 2007 may be used to document and demonstrate
5 the operational benefits of a wake vortex advisory system.

6 “(e) GROUND-BASED PRECISION NAVIGATIONAL
7 AIDS.—Of amounts appropriated under subsection (a),
8 $20,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 to 2007 may
9 be used to establish a program for the installation, oper-
10 ation, and maintenance of a closed-loop precision approach
11 aid designed to improve aircraft accessibility at moun-
12 tainous airports with limited land if the approach aid is 13 able to provide curved and segmented approach guidance
14 for noise abatement purposes and has been certified or 15 approved by the Administrator.”; and

16 (6) in subsection (f)—

17 (A) by striking “for fiscal years beginning
18 after September 30, 2000”; and

19 (B) by inserting “may be used” after “nec-
20 essary”.

21 SEC. 103. AIRPORT PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT AND
22 NOISE COMPATIBILITY PLANNING AND PRO-
23 GRAMS.

24 (a) AUTHORIZATION.—Section 48103 is amended—

1 (d) PROHIBITIONS.—Section 44711(a)(7) is amended
2 by striking “agency” and inserting “agency, design orga-
3 nization certificate, ”.

4 (e) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

5 (1) SECTION HEADING.—Section 44704 is
6 amended by striking the section designation and
7 heading and inserting the following:

8 “§ 44704. Type certificates, production certificates,
9 airworthiness certificates, and design or-
10 ganization certificates”.

11 (2) CHAPTER ANALYSIS.—The analysis for
12 chapter 447 is amended by striking the item relating 13 to section 44704 and inserting the following:

“44704. Type certificates, production certificates, airworthiness certificates, and design organization certificates.”.

14 SEC. 419. COUNTERFEIT OR FRAUDULENTLY REP-
15 RESENTED PARTS VIOLATIONS.

16 Section 44726(a)(1) is amended—

17 (1) by striking “or” at the end of subparagraph
18 (A);

19 (2) by redesignating subparagraph (B) as sub-
20 paragraph (C);

21 (3) by inserting after subparagraph (A) the fol-
22 lowing:

23 “(B) whose certificate is revoked under 24 subsection (b); or”; and

1 (4) in subparagraph (C) (as redesignated by
2 paragraph (2) of this section) by striking “convicted
3 of such a violation.” and inserting “described in sub-
4 paragraph (A) or (B).”.

5 SEC. 420. RUNWAY SAFETY STANDARDS.

6 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 447 is amended by add-
7 ing at the end the following:

8 “§ 44727. Runway safety areas

9 “An airport owner or operator shall not be required
10 to reduce the length of a runway or declare the length
11 of a runway to be less than the actual pavement length
12 in order to meet standards of the Federal Aviation Admin-
13 istration applicable to runway safety areas.”.

14 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
15 chapter 447 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
16 lowing:

“44727. Runway safety areas.”.

17 SEC. 421. AVAILABILITY OF MAINTENANCE INFORMATION.

18 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 447 is further amended
19 by adding at the end the following:

20 “§ 44728. Availability of maintenance information

21 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Fed-
22 eral Aviation Administration shall continue in effect the
23 requirement of section 21.50(b) of title 14, Code of Fed-
24 eral Regulations, that the holder of a design approval—

1           “(1) shall prepare and furnish at least one set
2 of complete instructions for continued airworthiness
3 as prescribed in such section to the owner of each
4 type of aircraft, aircraft engine, or propeller upon its
5 delivery or upon the issuance of the first standard
6 airworthiness certificate for the affected aircraft,
7 whichever occurs later; and

8           “(2) thereafter shall make the instructions, and 9 any changes thereto, available to any other person
10 required by parts 1 through 199 of title 14, Code of 11 Federal Regulations, to comply with any of the 12 terms of the instructions.

13           “(b) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the following
14 definitions apply:

15           “(1) MAKE AVAILABLE.—The term ‘make avail-
16 able’ means providing at a cost not to exceed the 17 cost of preparation and distribution.

18           “(2) DESIGN APPROVAL.—The term ‘design ap-
19 proval’ means a type certificate, supplemental type
20 certificate, amended type certificate, parts manufac-
21 turer approval, technical standard order authoriza-
22 tion, and any other action as determined by the Ad-
23 ministrator pursuant to subsection (c)(2).

24           “(3) INSTRUCTIONS FOR CONTINUED AIR-
25 WORTHINESS.—The term ‘instructions for continued

1       airworthiness’ means any information (and any
2       changes to such information) considered essential to
3       continued airworthiness that sets forth the methods,
4       techniques, and practices for performing mainte-
5       nance and alteration on civil aircraft, aircraft en-
6       gines, propellers, appliances or any part installed
7       thereon. Such information may include maintenance,
8       repair, and overhaul manuals, standard practice
9       manuals, service bulletins, service letters, or similar
10      documents issued by a design approval holder.

11      “(c) RULEMAKING.—The Administrator shall con-
12     duct a rulemaking proceeding for the following purposes:

13           “(1) To determine the meaning of the phrase
14           ‘essential to continued airworthiness’ of the applica-
15           ble aircraft, aircraft engine, and propeller as that
16           term is used in parts 23 through 35 of title 14,
17           Code of Federal Regulations.

18           “(2) To determine if a design approval should 19           include, in addition to those approvals specified in 20           subsection (b)(2), any other activity in which per-
21           sons are required to have technical data approved by
22           the Administrator.

23           “(3) To revise existing rules to reflect the defi-
24           nition of design approval holder in subsections (b)(2)
25           and (c)(2).

1           “(4) To determine if design approval holders
2           that prepared instructions for continued airworthi-
3           ness or maintenance manuals before January 29,
4           1981, should be required to make the manuals avail-
5           able (including any changes thereto) to any person
6           required by parts 1 through 199 of title 14, Code of
7           Federal Regulations, to comply with any of the 8           terms of those manuals.

9           “(5) To require design approval holders that—

10                   “(A) are operating an ongoing business
11                   concern;

12                   “(B) were required to produce mainte-
13                   nance manuals or instructions for continued
14                   airworthiness under section 21.50(b) of title 14,
15                   Code of Federal Regulations; and

16                   “(C) have not done so,
17           to prepare those documents and make them available
18           as required by this section not later than 1 year
19           after date on which the regulations are published.

20           “(6) To revise its rules to reflect the changes
21           made by this section.

22           “(d) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—
23           Nothing in this section shall be construed as requiring the 24           holder of a design approval to make available proprietary

1 information unless it is deemed essential to continued air-
2 worthiness.”.

3 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
4 chapter 447 is further amended by adding at the end the
5 following:

“44728. Availability of maintenance information.”.

6 SEC. 422. CERTIFICATE ACTIONS IN RESPONSE TO A SECU-
7 RITY THREAT.

8 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 461 is amended by add-
9 ing at the end the following:

10 “§ 46111. Certificate actions in response to a security
11 threat

12 “(a) ORDERS.—The Administrator of Federal Avia-
13 tion Administration shall issue an order amending, modi-
14 fying, suspending, or revoking any part of a certificate
15 issued under this title if the Administrator is notified by
16 the Under Secretary for Border and Transportation Secu-
17 rity of the Department of Homeland Security that the 18 holder of the certificate poses, or is suspected of posing,
19 a risk of air piracy or terrorism or a threat to airline or 20 passenger safety. If requested by the Under Secretary, the 21 order shall be effective immediately.

22 “(b) HEARINGS FOR CITIZENS.—An individual who
23 is a citizen of the United States who is adversely affected
24 by an order of the Administrator under subsection (a) is
25 entitled to a hearing on the record.

1           “(c) HEARINGS.—When conducting a hearing under
2 this section, the administrative law judge shall not be
3 bound by findings of fact or interpretations of laws and
4 regulations of the Administrator or the Under Secretary.

5           “(d) APPEALS.—An appeal from a decision of an ad-
6 ministrative law judge as the result of a hearing under
7 subsection (b) shall be made to the Transportation Secu-
8 rity Oversight Board established by section 115. The 9 Board shall establish a panel to review the decision. The 10 members of this panel (1) shall not be employees of the 11 Transportation Security Administration, (2) shall have the
12 level of security clearance needed to review the determina-
13 tion made under this section, and (3) shall be given access
14 to all relevant documents that support that determination.
15 The panel may affirm, modify, or reverse the decision.

16           “(e) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—A person substantially af-
17 fected by an action of a panel under subsection (d), or 18 the Under Secretary when the Under Secretary decides
19 that the action of the panel under this section will have 20 a significant adverse impact on carrying out this part, may 21 obtain judicial review of the order under section 46110.
22 The Under Secretary and the Administrator shall be made
23 a party to the judicial review proceedings. Findings of fact
24 of the panel are conclusive if supported by substantial evi-
25 dence.

1       “(f) EXPLANATION OF DECISIONS.—An individual
2 who commences an appeal under this section shall receive
3 a written explanation of the basis for the determination
4 or decision and all relevant documents that support that
5 determination to the maximum extent that the national
6 security interests of the United States and other applica-
7 ble laws permit.

8       “(g) CLASSIFIED EVIDENCE.—

9           “(1) IN GENERAL.—The Under Secretary, in
10 consultation with the Administrator, shall issue reg-
11 ulations to establish procedures by which the Under 12 Secretary, as part of a hearing conducting under
13 this section, may substitute an unclassified summary
14 of classified evidence upon the approval of the ad-
15 ministrative law judge.

16           “(2) APPROVAL AND DISAPPROVAL OF SUM-
17 MARIES.—Under the procedures, an administrative 18 law judge shall—

19           “(A) approve a summary if the judge finds
20 that it is sufficient to enable the certificate
21 holder to appeal an order issued under sub-
22 section (a); or

23           “(B) disapprove a summary if the judge
24 finds that it is not sufficient to enable the cer-
25 tificate holder to appeal such an order.

1           “(3) MODIFICATIONS.—If an administrative law
 2 judge disapproves a summary under paragraph
 3 (2)(B), the judge shall direct the Under Secretary to
 4 modify the summary and resubmit the summary for
 5 approval.

6           “(4) INSUFFICIENT MODIFICATIONS.—If an ad-
 7 ministrative law judge is unable to approve a modi-
 8 fied summary, the order issued under subsection (a)
 9 that is the subject of the hearing shall be set aside
 10 unless the judge finds that such a result—

11                   “(A) would likely cause serious and irrep-
 12 arable harm to the national security; or

13                   “(B) would likely cause death or serious
 14 bodily injury to any person.

15           “(5) SPECIAL PROCEDURES.—If an administra-
 16 tive law judge makes a finding under subparagraph
 17 (A) or (B) of paragraph (4), the hearing shall pro-
 18 ceed without an unclassified summary provided to
 19 the certificate holder. In such a case, subject to pro-
 20 cedures established by regulation by the Under Sec-
 21 retary in consultation with the Administrator, the
 22 administrative law judge shall appoint a special at-
 23 torney to assist the accused by—

24                   “(A) reviewing in camera the classified evi-
 25 dence; and

1           “(B) challenging, through an in camera
2           proceeding, the veracity of the evidence con-
3           tained in the classified information.”.

4           (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
5 chapter 461 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
6 lowing:

          “46111. Certificate actions in response to a security threat.”.

7 SEC. 423. FLIGHT ATTENDANT CERTIFICATION.

8           (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 447 is further amended
9 by adding at the end the following:

10 “§ 44729. Flight attendant certification

11           “(a) CERTIFICATE REQUIRED.—

12           “(1) IN GENERAL.—No person may serve as a
13 flight attendant aboard an aircraft of an air carrier
14 unless that person holds a certificate of dem-
15 onstrated proficiency from the Administrator of the 16 Federal Aviation Administration. Upon the request
17 of the Administrator or an authorized representative
18 of the National Transportation Safety Board or an-
19 other Federal agency, a person who holds such a
20 certificate shall present the certificate for inspection
21 within a reasonable period of time after the date of 22 the request.

23           “(2) SPECIAL RULE FOR CURRENT FLIGHT AT-
24 TENDANTS.—An individual serving as a flight at-
25 tendant on the effective date of this section may

H. R. 2115

To amend title 49, United States Code, to reauthorize programs for the Federal Aviation Administration, and for other purposes.

---

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska (for himself, Mr. MICA, Mr. OBERSTAR, and Mr. DEFazio) introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure

---

A BILL

To amend title 49, United States Code, to reauthorize programs for the Federal Aviation Administration, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

4 (a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the
5 “Flight 100—Century of Aviation Reauthorization Act”.

6 (b) TABLE OF CONTENTS.—

- Sec. 1. Short title; table of contents.
- Sec. 2. Amendments to title 49, United States Code.
- Sec. 3. Effective date.

TITLE I—AUTHORIZATIONS

Sec. 101. Federal Aviation Administration operations.

1 (1) by striking “September 30, 1998” and in-
2 sserting “September 30, 2003”; and

3 (2) by striking subparagraphs (1) through (5)
4 and inserting:

5 “(1) $3,400,000,000 for fiscal year 2004;

6 “(2) $3,600,000,000 for fiscal year 2005;

7 “(3) $3,800,000,000 for fiscal year 2006; and

8 “(4) $4,000,000,000 for fiscal year 2007.”.

9 (b) OBLIGATIONAL AUTHORITY.—Section 47104(c)
10 is amended by striking “September 30, 2003” and insert-
11 ing “September 30, 2007”.

12 SEC. 104. ADDITIONAL REAUTHORIZATIONS.

13 (a) CONTRACT AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL TOWER PILOT
14 PROGRAM.—Section 47124(b)(3)(E) is amended by strik-
15 ing “$6,000,000 per fiscal year” and inserting
16 “$6,500,000 for fiscal year 2004, $7,000,000 for fiscal 17 year 2005, $7,500,000 for fiscal year 2006, and
18 $8,000,000 for fiscal year 2007”.

19 (b) SMALL COMMUNITY AIR SERVICE.—Section
20 41743(e)(2) is amended—

21 (1) by striking “and” the first place it appears
22 and inserting a comma; and

23 (2) by inserting after “2003” the following “,
24 and $35,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004
25 through 2008”.

1 continue to serve aboard an aircraft as a flight at-
2 tendant until completion by that individual of the re-
3 quired recurrent or requalification training and sub-
4 sequent certification under this section.

5 “(3) TREATMENT OF FLIGHT ATTENDANT
6 AFTER NOTIFICATION.—On the date that the Ad-
7 ministrator is notified by an air carrier that an indi-
8 vidual has the demonstrated proficiency to be a
9 flight attendant, the individual shall be treated for
10 purposes of this section as holding a certificate
11 issued under the section.

12 “(b) ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATE.—The Adminis-
13 trator shall issue a certificate of demonstrated proficiency
14 under this section to an individual after the Administrator
15 is notified by the air carrier that the individual has suc-
16 cessfully completed all the training requirements for flight
17 attendants approved by the Administrator.

18 “(c) DESIGNATION OF PERSON TO DETERMINE SUC-
19 CESSFUL COMPLETION OF TRAINING.—In accordance
20 with part 183 of chapter 14, Code of Federal Regulation,
21 the director of operations of an air carrier is designated
22 to determine that an individual has successfully completed
23 the training requirements approved by the Administrator
24 for such individual to serve as a flight attendant.

1       “(d) SPECIFICATIONS RELATING TO CERTIFI-
2 CATES.—Each certificate issued under this section shall—

3               “(1) be numbered and recorded by the Adminis-
4 trator;

5               “(2) contain the name, address, and description
6 of the individual to whom the certificate is issued;

7               “(3) contain the name of the air carrier that
8 employs or will employ the certificate holder on the 9 date that the certificate is issued;

10              “(4) is similar in size and appearance to certifi-
11 cates issued to airmen;

12              “(5) contain the airplane group for which the
13 certificate is issued; and

14              “(6) be issued not later than 30 days after the
15 Administrator receives notification from the air car-
16 rier of demonstrated proficiency and, in the case of 17 an individual serving as flight attendant on the ef-
18 fective date of this section, not later than 1 year
19 after such effective date.

20       “(e) APPROVAL OF TRAINING PROGRAMS.—Air car-
21 rier flight attendant training programs shall be subject to
22 approval by the Administrator. All flight attendant train-
23 ing programs approved by the Administrator in the 1-year
24 period ending on the date of enactment of this section
25 shall be treated as providing a demonstrated proficiency

1 for purposes of meeting the certification requirements of
2 this section.

3 “(f) FLIGHT ATTENDANT DEFINED.—In this section,
4 the term ‘flight attendant’ means an individual working
5 as a flight attendant in the cabin of an aircraft that has
6 20 or more seats and is being used by an air carrier to
7 provide air transportation.”.

8 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
9 chapter 447 is further amended by adding at the end the
10 following:

“44729. Flight attendant certification.”.

11 (c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by
12 subsections (a) and (b) shall take effect on the 365th day
13 following the date of enactment of this Act.

14 SEC. 424. CIVIL PENALTY FOR CLOSURE OF AN AIRPORT
15 WITHOUT PROVIDING SUFFICIENT NOTICE.

16 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 463 is amended by add-
17 ing at the end the following:

18 “§ 46319. Closure of an airport without providing suf-
19 ficient notice

20 “(a) PROHIBITION.—A public agency (as defined in 21 section 47102) may not close an airport listed in the na-
22 tional plan of integrated airport systems under section
23 47103 without providing written notice to the Adminis-
24 trator of the Federal Aviation Administration at least 30
25 days before the date of the closure.

1 “(b) PUBLICATION OF NOTICE.—The Administrator
2 shall publish each notice received under subsection (a) in
3 the Federal Register.

4 “(c) CIVIL PENALTY.—A public agency violating sub-
5 section (a) shall be liable for a civil penalty of $10,000
6 for each day that the airport remains closed without hav-
7 ing given the notice required by this section.”.

8 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
9 chapter 463 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
10 lowing:

“46319. Closure of an airport without providing sufficient notice.”.

11 SEC. 425. NOISE EXPOSURE MAPS.

12 Section 47503 is amended—

13 (1) in subsection (a) by striking “1985,” and 14 inserting “a forecast period that is at least 5 years
15 in the future”; and

16 (2) by striking subsection (b) and inserting the
17 following:

18 “(b) REVISED MAPS.—If, in an area surrounding an 19 airport, a change in the operation of the airport would 20 establish a substantial new noncompatible use, or would
21 significantly reduce noise over existing noncompatible
22 uses, that is not reflected in either the existing conditions
23 map or forecast map currently on file with the Federal
24 Aviation Administration, the airport operator shall submit

1 a revised noise exposure map to the Secretary showing the
2 new noncompatible use or noise reduction.”.

3 SEC. 426. AMENDMENT OF GENERAL FEE SCHEDULE PRO-
4 VISION.

5 The amendment made by section 119(d) of the Avia-
6 tion and Transportation Security Act (115 Stat. 629)
7 shall not be affected by the savings provisions contained
8 in section 141 of that Act (115 Stat. 643).

9 SEC. 427. IMPROVEMENT OF CURRICULUM STANDARDS
10 FOR AVIATION MAINTENANCE TECHNICIANS.

11 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Federal
12 Aviation Administration shall ensure that the training
13 standards for airframe and powerplant mechanics under
14 part 65 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations, are up-
15 dated and revised in accordance with this section. The Ad-
16 ministrator may update and revise the training standards
17 through the initiation of a formal rulemaking or by issuing
18 an advisory circular or other agency guidance.

19 (b) ELEMENTS FOR CONSIDERATION.—The updated
20 and revised standards required under subsection (a) shall
21 include those curriculum adjustments that are necessary
22 to more accurately reflect current technology and mainte-
23 nance practices.

24 (c) MINIMUM TRAINING HOURS.—In making adjust-
25 ments to the maintenance curriculum requirements pursu-

1 ant to this section, the current requirement of 1900 min-
2 imum training hours shall be maintained.

3 (d) CERTIFICATION.—Any adjustment or modifica-
4 tion of current curriculum standards made pursuant to
5 this section shall be reflected in the certification examina-
6 tions of airframe and powerplant mechanics.

7 (e) COMPLETION.—The revised and updated training
8 standards required by subsection (a) shall be completed
9 not later than 12 months after the date of enactment of 10 this Act.

11 (f) PERIODIC REVIEWS AND UPDATES.—The Admin-
12 istrator shall review the content of the curriculum stand-
13 ards for training airframe and powerplant mechanics re-
14 ferred to in subsection (a) every 3 years after completion
15 of the revised and updated training standards required
16 under subsection (a) as necessary to reflect current tech-
17 nology and maintenance practices.

18 SEC. 428. TASK FORCE ON FUTURE OF AIR TRANSPOR-
19 TATION SYSTEM.

20 (a) IN GENERAL.—The President shall establish a
21 task force to work with the Next Generation Air Transpor-
22 tation System Joint Program Office authorized under sec-
23 tion 106(k)(3).

24 (b) MEMBERSHIP.—The task force shall be composed
25 of representatives, appointed by the President, from air

1 carriers, general aviation, pilots, and air traffic controllers
2 and the following government organizations:

3 (1) The Federal Aviation Administration.

4 (2) The National Aeronautics and Space Ad-
5 ministration.

6 (3) The Department of Defense.

7 (4) The Department of Homeland Security.

8 (5) The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Ad-
9 ministration.

10 (6) Other government organizations designated
11 by the President.

12 (c) FUNCTION.—The function of the task force shall
13 be to develop an integrated plan to transform the Nation’s
14 air traffic control system and air transportation system
15 to meet its future needs.

16 (d) PLAN.—Not later than 1 year after the date of 17 establishment of the task force, the task force shall trans-
18 mit to the President and Congress a plan outlining the 19 overall strategy, schedule, and resources needed to develop
20 and deploy the Nation’s next generation air traffic control
21 system and air transportation system.

22 SEC. 429. AIR QUALITY IN AIRCRAFT CABINS.

23 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Federal
24 Aviation Administration shall undertake the studies and
25 analysis called for in the report of the National Research

1 Council entitled “The Airliner Cabin Environment and the
2 Health of Passengers and Crew”.

3 (b) REQUIRED ACTIVITIES.—In carrying out this sec-
4 tion, the Administrator, at a minimum, shall—

5 (1) conduct surveillance to monitor ozone in the 6 cabin on a representative number of flights and air-
7 craft to determine compliance with existing Federal
8 Aviation Regulations for ozone;

9 (2) collect pesticide exposure data to determine
10 exposures of passengers and crew; and

11 (3) analyze samples of residue from aircraft
12 ventilation ducts and filters after air quality inci-
13 dents to identify the allergens, diseases, and other
14 contaminants to which passengers and crew were ex-
15 posed.

16 (c) REPORT.—Not later than 30 months after the
17 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall
18 transmit to Congress a report on the findings of the Ad-
19 ministrator under this section.

20 SEC. 430. RECOMMENDATIONS CONCERNING TRAVEL
21 AGENTS.

22 (a) REPORT.—Not later than 6 months after the date
23 of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Transportation
24 shall transmit to Congress a report on any actions that
25 should be taken with respect to recommendations made

1 by the National Commission to Ensure Consumer Infor-
2 mation and Choice in the Airline Industry on—

- 3 (1) the travel agent arbiter program; and
- 4 (2) the special box on tickets for agents to in-
5 clude their service fee charges.

6 (b) CONSULTATION.—In preparing this report, the
7 Secretary shall consult with representatives from the air-
8 line and travel agent industry.

9 SEC. 431. TASK FORCE ON ENHANCED TRANSFER OF APPLI-
10 CATIONS OF TECHNOLOGY FOR MILITARY
11 AIRCRAFT TO CIVILIAN AIRCRAFT.

12 (a) IN GENERAL.—The President shall establish a
13 task force to look for better methods for ensuring that
14 technology developed for military aircraft is more quickly
15 and easily transferred to applications for improving and
16 modernizing the fleet of civilian aircraft.

17 (b) MEMBERSHIP.—The task force shall be composed
18 of the Secretary of Transportation who shall be the chair
19 of the task force and representatives, appointed by the 20 President, from the following:

- 21 (1) The Department of Transportation.
- 22 (2) The Federal Aviation Administration.
- 23 (3) The Department of Defense.
- 24 (4) The National Aeronautics and Space Ad-
25 ministration.

1 (5) The aircraft manufacturing industry.

2 (6) Such other organizations as the President
3 may designate.

4 (c) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date
5 of enactment of this Act, the task force shall report to
6 Congress on the methods looked at by the task force for
7 ensuring the transfer of applications described in sub-
8 section (a).

9 SEC. 432. REIMBURSEMENT FOR LOSSES INCURRED BY
10 GENERAL AVIATION ENTITIES.

11 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
12 may make grants to reimburse the following general avia-
13 tion entities for the security costs incurred and revenue
14 foregone as a result of the restrictions imposed by the
15 Federal Government following the terrorist attacks on the 16 United States that occurred on September 11, 2001, or
17 the military action to free the people of Iraq that com-
18 menced in March 2003:

19 (1) General aviation entities that operate at
20 Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport.

21 (2) Airports that are located within 15 miles of 22 Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport and
23 were operating under security restrictions on the
24 date of enactment of this Act and general aviation
25 entities operating at those airports.

1 (c) REGIONAL AIR SERVICE INCENTIVE PROGRAM.—
2 Section 41766 is amended by striking “2003” and insert-
3 ing “2007”.

4 (d) FUNDING FOR AVIATION PROGRAMS.—Section
5 106 of the Wendell H. Ford Aviation Investment and Re-
6 form Act for the 21st Century (49 U.S.C. 48101 note)
7 is amended by striking “2003” each place it appears and
8 inserting “2007”.

9 (e) DESIGN-BUILD CONTRACTING.—Section 139(e)
10 of the Wendell H. Ford Aviation Investment and Reform
11 Act for the 21st Century (49 U.S.C. 47104 note) is
12 amended by striking “2003” and inserting “2007”.

13 (f) METROPOLITAN WASHINGTON AIRPORTS AU-
14 THORITY.—Section 49108 is amended by striking “2004”
15 and inserting “2007”.

16 SEC. 105. INSURANCE.

17 (a) TERMINATION.—Section 44310 is amended to
18 read as follows:

19 “§ 44310. Termination date

20 “Effective December 31, 2007, the authority of the
21 Secretary of Transportation to provide insurance and rein-
22 surance under this chapter shall be limited to—

23 “(1) the operation of an aircraft by an air car-
24 rier or foreign air carrier in foreign air commerce or

1           (3) General aviation entities that were affected
2           by Federal Aviation Administration Notices to Air-
3           men FDC 2/0199 and 3/1862 and section 352 of the
4           Department of Transportation and Related Agencies
5           Appropriations Act, 2003 (P.L. 108–7, Division I).

6           (4) General aviation entities affected by imple-
7           mentation of section 44939 of title 49, United
8           States Code.

9           (5) Any other general aviation entity that is
10          prevented from doing business or operating by an
11          action of the Federal Government prohibiting access
12          to airspace by that entity.

13          (b) DOCUMENTATION.—Reimbursement under this
14          section shall be made in accordance with sworn financial
15          statements or other appropriate data submitted by each
16          general aviation entity demonstrating the costs incurred
17          and revenue foregone to the satisfaction of the Secretary.

18          (c) GENERAL AVIATION ENTITY DEFINED.—In this
19          section, the term “general aviation entity” means any per-
20          son (other than a scheduled air carrier or foreign air car-
21          rier, as such terms are defined in section 40102 of title
22          49, United States Code) that—

23                (1) operates nonmilitary aircraft under part 91
24                of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations, for the pur-
25                pose of conducting its primary business;

1           (2) manufactures nonmilitary aircraft with a
2 maximum seating capacity of fewer than 20 pas-
3 sengers or aircraft parts to be used in such aircraft;

4           (3) provides services necessary for nonmilitary
5 operations under such part 91; or

6           (4) operates an airport, other than a primary
7 airport (as such terms are defined in such section
8 40102), that—

9           (A) is listed in the national plan of inte-
10 grated airport systems developed by the Federal
11 Aviation Administration under section 47103 of 12 such title; or

13           (B) is normally open to the public, is lo-
14 cated within the confines of enhanced class B
15 airspace (as defined by the Federal Aviation
16 Administration in Notice to Airmen FDC 1/
17 0618), and was closed as a result of an order
18 issued by the Federal Aviation Administration
19 in the period beginning September 11, 2001,
20 and ending January 1, 2002, and remained
21 closed as a result of that order on January 1,
22 2002.

23 Such term includes fixed based operators, flight schools,
24 manufacturers of general aviation aircraft and products,

1 persons engaged in nonscheduled aviation enterprises, and
2 general aviation independent contractors.

3 (d) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is
4 authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section
5 $100,000,000. Such sums shall remain available until ex-
6 pended.

7 SEC. 433. IMPASSE PROCEDURES FOR NATIONAL ASSOCIA-
8 TION OF AIR TRAFFIC SPECIALISTS.

9 (a) FAILURE OF CURRENT NEGOTIATIONS.—If, with-
10 in 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the
11 Federal Aviation Administration and the exclusive bar-
12 gaining representative of the National Association of Air
13 Traffic Specialists have failed to achieve agreement
14 through a mediation process of the Federal Mediation and
15 Conciliation Service, the current labor negotiation shall be
16 treated for purposes of this section to have failed.

17 (b) SUBMISSION TO IMPASSE PANEL.—Not later
18 than 30 days after the negotiation has failed under sub-
19 section (a), the parties to the negotiation shall submit un-
20 resolved issues to the Federal Service Impasses Panel de-
21 scribed in section 7119(e) of title 5, United States Code,
22 for final and binding resolution.

23 (c) ASSISTANCE.—The Panel shall render assistance
24 to the parties in resolving their dispute in accordance with

1 section 7119 of title 5, United States Code, and parts
2 2470 and 2471 of title 5, Code of Federal Regulations.

3 (d) DETERMINATION.—The Panel shall make a just
4 and reasonable determination of the matters in dispute.
5 In arriving at such determination, the Panel shall specify
6 the basis for its findings, taking into consideration such
7 relevant factors as are normally and customarily consid-
8 ered in the determination of wages or impasse Panel pro-
9 ceedings. The Panel shall also take into consideration the 10 financial ability of the Administration to pay.

11 (e) EFFECT OF PANEL DETERMINATION.—The de-
12 termination of the Panel shall be final and binding upon
13 the parties for the period prescribed by the Panel or a
14 period otherwise agreed to by the parties.

15 (f) REVIEW.—The determination of the Panel shall
16 be subject to review in the manner prescribed in chapter
17 71 of title 5, United States Code.

18 SEC. 434. FAA INSPECTOR TRAINING.

19 (a) STUDY.—

20 (1) IN GENERAL.—The Comptroller General
21 shall conduct a study of the training of the aviation
22 safety inspectors of the Federal Aviation Adminis-
23 tration (in this section referred to as “FAA inspec-
24 tors”).

25 (2) CONTENTS.—The study shall include—

1 (A) an analysis of the type of training pro-
2 vided to FAA inspectors;

3 (B) actions that the Federal Aviation Ad-
4 ministration has undertaken to ensure that
5 FAA inspectors receive up-to-date training on
6 the latest technologies;

7 (C) the extent of FAA inspector training
8 provided by the aviation industry and whether
9 such training is provided without charge or on
10 a quid-pro-quo basis; and

11 (D) the amount of travel that is required
12 of FAA inspectors in receiving training.

13 (3) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the
14 date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller Gen-
15 eral shall transmit to the Committee on Transpor-
16 tation and Infrastructure of the House of Represent-
17 atives and the Committee on Commerce, Science,
18 and Transportation of the Senate a report on the re-
19 sults of the study.

20 (b) SENSE OF THE HOUSE.—It is the sense of the 21 House of Representatives that—

22 (1) FAA inspectors should be encouraged to
23 take the most up-to-date initial and recurrent train-
24 ing on the latest aviation technologies;

1 (2) FAA inspector training should have a direct
2 relation to an individual's job requirements; and

3 (3) if possible, a FAA inspector should be al-
4 lowed to take training at the location most conven-
5 ient for the inspector.

6 (c) WORKLOAD OF INSPECTORS.—

7 (1) STUDY BY NATIONAL ACADEMY OF
8 SCIENCES.—Not later than 90 days after the date of
9 enactment of this Act, the Administrator of the Fed-
10 eral Aviation Administration shall make appropriate
11 arrangements for the National Academy of Sciences
12 to conduct a study of the assumptions and methods
13 used by the Federal Aviation Administration to esti-
14 mate staffing standards for FAA inspectors to en-
15 sure proper oversight over the aviation industry, in-
16 cluding the designee program.

17 (2) CONTENTS.—The study shall include the
18 following:

19 (A) A suggested method of modifying FAA
20 inspectors staffing models for application to
21 current local conditions or applying some other
22 approach to developing an objective staffing
23 standard.

24 (B) The approximate cost and length of
25 time for developing such models.

1           (3) REPORT.—Not later than 12 months after
2           the initiation of the arrangements under subsection
3           (a), the National Academy of Sciences shall transmit
4           to Congress a report on the results of the study.

5 SEC. 435. PROHIBITION ON AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL PRIVAT-
6                                   IZATION.

7           (a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
8           may not authorize the transfer of the air traffic separation
9           and control functions operated by the Federal Aviation
10          Administration on the date of enactment of this Act to 11          a private entity or to a public entity other than the United
12          States Government.

13          (b) CONTRACT TOWER PROGRAM.—Subsection (a)
14          shall not apply to the contract tower program authorized
15          by section 47124 of title 49, United States Code.

16 SEC. 436. AIRFARES FOR MEMBERS OF THE ARMED
17                                   FORCES.

18          (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

19               (1) the Armed Forces is comprised of approxi-
20               mately 1,400,000 members who are stationed on ac-
21               tive duty at more than 6,000 military bases in 146
22               different countries;

23               (2) the United States is indebted to the mem-
24               bers of the Armed Forces, many of whom are in

1 grave danger due to their engagement in, or expo-
2 sure to, combat;

3 (3) military service, especially in the current
4 war against terrorism, often requires members of the
5 Armed Forces to be separated from their families on
6 short notice, for long periods of time, and under
7 very stressful conditions;

8 (4) the unique demands of military service often
9 preclude members of the Armed Forces from pur-
10 chasing discounted advance airline tickets in order
11 to visit their loved ones at home; and

12 (5) it is the patriotic duty of the people of the 13 United States to support the members of the Armed
14 Forces who are defending the Nation's interests
15 around the world at great personal sacrifice.

16 (b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-
17 gress that each United States air carrier should—

18 (1) establish for all members of the Armed
19 Forces on active duty reduced air fares that are 20 comparable to the lowest airfare for ticketed flights;
21 and

22 (2) offer flexible terms that allow members of
23 the Armed Forces on active duty to purchase, mod-
24 ify, or cancel tickets without time restrictions, fees,
25 and penalties.

1 SEC. 437. AIR CARRIERS REQUIRED TO HONOR TICKETS
2 FOR SUSPENDED AIR SERVICE.

3 Section 145(e) of the Aviation and Transportation
4 Security Act (49 U.S.C. 40101 note; 115 stat. 645) is
5 amended by striking “more than” and all that follows
6 through “after” and inserting “more than 36 months
7 after”.

8 SEC. 438. INTERNATIONAL AIR SHOW.

9 (a) STUDY.—The Secretary of Transportation shall
10 study the feasibility of the United States hosting a world-
11 class international air show.

12 (b) REPORT.—Not later than 9 months after the date
13 of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to
14 Congress a report on the results of the study conducted
15 under subsection (a) together with recommendations con-
16 cerning potential locations at which the air show could be
17 held.

18 SEC. 439. DEFINITION OF AIR TRAFFIC CONTROLLER.

19 (a) CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—Section
20 8331 of title 5, United States Code, is amended—

21 (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph

22 (27);

23 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
24 graph (28) and inserting “; and”; and

25 (3) by adding at the end the following:

1           “(29) ‘air traffic controller’ or ‘controller’
2 means—

3           “(A) a controller within the meaning of
4 section 2109(1); and

5           “(B) a civilian employee of the Depart-
6 ment of Transportation or the Department of
7 Defense holding a supervisory, managerial, ex-
8 ecutive, technical, semiprofessional, or profes-
9 sional position for which experience as a con-
10 troller (within the meaning of section 2109(1))
11 is a prerequisite.”.

12       (b) FEDERAL EMPLOYEES’ RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—
13 Section 8401 of title 5, United States Code, is amended—

14           (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph
15 (33);

16           (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
17 graph (34) and inserting “; and”; and

18           (3) by adding at the end the following:

19           “(35) ‘air traffic controller’ or ‘controller’
20 means—

21           “(A) a controller within the meaning of
22 section 2109(1); and

23           “(B) a civilian employee of the Depart-
24 ment of Transportation or the Department of
25 Defense holding a supervisory, managerial, ex-

1 between at least 2 points, all of which are outside
2 the United States; and

3 “(2) insurance obtained by a department, agen-
4 cy, or instrumentality of the United States under
5 section 44305.”.

6 (b) EXTENSION OF POLICIES.—Section 44302(f)(1)
7 is amended by striking “through December 31, 2004,”
8 and inserting “thereafter”.

9 (c) AIRCRAFT MANUFACTURER LIABILITY FOR
10 THIRD PARTY CLAIMS ARISING OUT OF ACTS OF TER-
11 RORISM.—Section 44303(b) is amended by adding at the 12 end the following: “The Secretary may extend the provi-
13 sions of this subsection to the United States manufacturer
14 (as defined in section 44310) of the aircraft of the air
15 carrier involved.”.

16 (d) VENDORS, AGENTS, SUBCONTRACTORS, AND
17 MANUFACTURERS.—

18 (1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 443 is amended—

19 (A) by redesignating section 44310 (as 20 amended by subsection (a) of this section) as
21 section 44311; and

22 (B) by inserting after section 44309 the
23 following:

1           ecutive, technical, semiprofessional, or profes-
2           sional position for which experience as a con-
3           troller (within the meaning of section 2109(1))
4           is a prerequisite.”.

5           (c) MANDATORY SEPARATION TREATMENT NOT AF-
6           FECTED.—

7           (1) CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—Sec-
8           tion 8335(a) of title 5, United States Code, is 9           amended by adding at the end the following: “For
10          purposes of this subsection, the term ‘air traffic con-
11          troller’ or ‘controller’ has the meaning given to it
12          under section 8331(29)(A).”.

13          (2) FEDERAL EMPLOYEES’ RETIREMENT SYS-
14          TEM.—Section 8425(a) of title 5, United States
15          Code, is amended by adding at the end the fol-
16          lowing: “For purposes of this subsection, the term
17          ‘air traffic controller’ or ‘controller’ has the meaning
18          given to it under section 8401(35)(A).”.

19          (d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section and the amend-
20          ments made by this section—

21                 (1) shall take effect on the 60th day after the
22                 date of enactment of this Act; and

23                 (2) shall apply with respect to—

1 (A) any annuity entitlement to which is
2 based on an individual's separation from service
3 occurring on or after that 60th day; and

4 (B) any service performed by any such in-
5 dividual before, on, or after that 60th day, sub-
6 ject to subsection (e).

7 (e) DEPOSIT REQUIRED FOR CERTAIN PRIOR SERV-
8 ICE TO BE CREDITABLE AS CONTROLLER SERVICE.—

9 (1) DEPOSIT REQUIREMENT.—For purposes of
10 determining eligibility for immediate retirement
11 under section 8412(e) of title 5, United States Code,
12 the amendment made by subsection (b) shall, with 13 respect to any service described in paragraph (2), be
14 disregarded unless there is deposited into the Civil
15 Service Retirement and Disability Fund, with re-
16 spect to such service, in such time, form, and man-
17 ner as the Office of Personnel Management by regu-
18 lation requires, an amount equal to the amount by 19 which—

20 (A) the deductions from pay which would
21 have been required for such service if the
22 amendments made by this section had been in
23 effect when such service was performed, exceeds

1 (B) the unrefunded deductions or deposits
2 actually made under subchapter II of chapter
3 84 of such title 5 with respect to such service.

4 The amount under the preceding sentence shall in-
5 clude interest, computed under paragraphs (2) and
6 (3) of section 8334(e) of such title 5.

7 (2) PRIOR SERVICE DESCRIBED.—This sub-
8 section applies with respect to any service performed
9 by an individual, before the 60th day following the
10 date of enactment of this Act, as an employee de-
11 scribed in section 8401(35)(B) of such title 5 (as set
12 forth in subsection (b)).

13 SEC. 440. JUSTIFICATION FOR AIR DEFENSE IDENTIFICA-
14 TION ZONE.

15 (a) IN GENERAL.—If the Administrator of the Fed-
16 eral Aviation Administration establishes an Air Defense
17 Identification Zone (in this section referred as an 18 “ADIZ”), the Administrator shall transmit, not later than
19 60 days after the date of establishing the ADIZ, to the
20 Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the
21 House of Representatives and the Committee on Com-
22 merce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate a report
23 containing an explanation of the need for the ADIZ. The
24 Administrator also shall transmit to the Committees up-
25 dates of the report every 60 days until the ADIZ is re-

1 scinded. The reports and updates shall be transmitted in
2 classified form.

3 (b) EXISTING ADIZ.—If an ADIZ is in effect on the
4 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall
5 transmit an initial report under subsection (a) not later
6 than 30 days after such date of enactment.

7 (c) DEFINITION.—In this section, the terms “Air De-
8 fense Identification Zone” and “ADIZ” each mean a zone
9 established by the Administrator with respect to airspace
10 under 18,000 feet in approximately a 15- to 38-mile ra-
11 dius around Washington, District of Columbia, for which
12 security measures are extended beyond the existing 15-
13 mile no-fly zone around Washington and in which general
14 aviation aircraft are required to adhere to certain proce-
15 dures issued by the Administrator.

16 SEC. 441 . INTERNATIONAL AIR TRANSPORTATION.

17 It is the sense of Congress that, in an effort to mod-
18 ernize its regulations, the Department of Transportation
19 should formally define “Fifth Freedom” and “Seventh
20 Freedom” consistently for both scheduled and charter pas-
21 senger and cargo traffic.

22 TITLE V—AIRPORT
23 DEVELOPMENT

24 SEC. 501. DEFINITIONS.

25 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 47102 is amended—

1 (1) by redesignating paragraphs (19) and (20)
2 as paragraphs (24) and (25), respectively;

3 (2) by inserting after paragraph (18) the fol-
4 lowing:

5 “(23) ‘small hub airport’ means a commercial
6 service airport that has at least 0.05 percent but less
7 than 0.25 percent of the passenger boardings.”;

8 (3) in paragraph (10) by striking subpara-
9 graphs (A) and (B) and inserting following:

10 “(A) means, unless the context indicates
11 otherwise, revenue passenger boardings in the
12 United States in the prior calendar year on an
13 aircraft in service in air commerce, as the Sec-
14 retary determines under regulations the Sec-
15 retary prescribes; and

16 “(B) includes passengers who continue on
17 an aircraft in international flight that stops at
18 an airport in the 48 contiguous States, Alaska,
19 or Hawaii for a nontraffic purpose.”;

20 (4) by redesignating paragraphs (10) through
21 (18) as paragraphs (14) through (22), respectively;

22 (5) by inserting after paragraph (9) the fol-
23 lowing:

1 “(10) ‘large hub airport’ means a commercial
2 service airport that has at least 1.0 percent of the
3 passenger boardings.

4 “(12) ‘medium hub airport’ means a commer-
5 cial service airport that has at least 0.25 percent but
6 less than 1.0 percent of the passenger boardings.

7 “(13) ‘nonhub airport’ means a commercial
8 service airport that has less than 0.05 percent of the 9 passenger boardings.”; and

10 (6) by striking paragraph (6) and inserting the
11 following:

12 “(6) ‘Amount made available under section
13 48103’ or ‘amount newly made available’ means the
14 amount authorized for grants under section 48103
15 as that amount may be limited in that year by a
16 subsequent law, but as determined without regard to
17 grant obligation recoveries made in that year or
18 amounts covered by section 47107(f).”.

19 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section
20 47116(b)(1) is amended by striking “(as defined in section
21 41731) of this title”.

22 SEC. 502. REPLACEMENT OF BAGGAGE CONVEYOR SYS-
23 TEMS.

24 Section 47102(3)(B)(x) is amended by striking the 25 period at the end and inserting the following: “; except

1 that such activities shall be eligible for funding under this
2 subchapter only using amounts apportioned under section
3 47114.”.

4 SEC. 503. SECURITY COSTS AT SMALL AIRPORTS.

5 (a) SECURITY COSTS.—Section 47102(3)(J) is
6 amended to read as follows:

7 “(J) in the case of a nonhub airport or an
8 airport that is not a primary airport in fiscal
9 year 2004, direct costs associated with new, ad-
10 ditional, or revised security requirements im-
11 posed on airport operators by law, regulation,
12 or order on or after September 11, 2001, if the
13 Government’s share is paid only from amounts
14 apportioned to a sponsor under section
15 47114(c) or 47114(d)(3)(A).”.

16 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section
17 47110(b)(2) is amended—

18 (1) in subparagraph (D) by striking “,
19 47102(3)(K), or 47102(3)(L)”;

20 (2) by aligning the margin of subparagraph (D)
21 with the margin of subparagraph (B).

22 SEC. 504. WITHHOLDING OF PROGRAM APPLICATION AP-
23 PROVAL.

24 Section 47106(d) is amended—

1 (1) in paragraph (1) by striking “section
2 47114(c) and (e) of this title” and inserting “sub-
3 sections (c), (d), and (e) of section 47114”; and

4 (2) by adding at the end the following:

5 “(4) If the Secretary withholds a grant to an airport
6 from the discretionary fund under section 47115 or from
7 the small airport fund under section 47116 on the grounds
8 that the sponsor has violated an assurance or requirement
9 of this subchapter, the Secretary shall follow the proce-
10 dures of this subsection.”.

11 SEC. 505. RUNWAY SAFETY AREAS.

12 (a) APPROVAL OF PROJECT GRANT APPLICATIONS.—
13 Section 47106 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
14 lowing:

15 “(h) RUNWAY SAFETY AREAS.—The Secretary may
16 approve an application under this chapter for a project
17 grant to construct, reconstruct, repair, or improve a run-
18 way only if the Secretary receives written assurances, sat-
19 isfactory to the Secretary, that the sponsor will undertake,
20 to the maximum extent practical, improvement of the run-
21 way’s safety area to meet the standards of the Federal 22 Aviation Administration.”.

1 SEC. 506. DISPOSITION OF LAND ACQUIRED FOR NOISE
2 COMPATIBILITY PURPOSES.

3 Section 47107(c) is amended by adding at the end
4 the following:

5 “(4) Notwithstanding paragraph (2)(A)(iii), an air-
6 port owner or operator may retain all or any portion of
7 the proceeds from a land disposition described in that
8 paragraph if the Secretary finds that the use of the land
9 will be compatible with airport purposes and the proceeds
10 retained will be used for airport development or to carry
11 out a noise compatibility program under section
12 47504(c).”.

13 SEC. 507. GRANT ASSURANCES.

14 (a) HANGAR CONSTRUCTION.—Section 47107(a) is
15 amended—

16 (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph
17 (19);

18 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
19 graph (20) and inserting “; and”; and

20 (3) by adding at the end the following:

21 “(21) if the airport owner or operator and a
22 person who owns an aircraft agree that a hangar is
23 to be constructed at the airport for the aircraft at 24 the aircraft owner’s expense, the airport owner or
25 operator will grant to the aircraft owner for the
26 hangar a long-term lease (of not less than 50 years)

1 that is subject to such terms and conditions on the
2 hangar as the airport owner or operator may im-
3 pose.”.

4 (b) STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.—Section
5 47107(1)(5)(A) is amended by inserting “or any other gov-
6 ernmental entity” after “sponsor”.

7 (c) AUDIT CERTIFICATION.—Section 47107(m) is
8 amended—

9 (1) in paragraph (1) by striking “promulgate
10 regulations that” and inserting “include a provision
11 in the compliance supplement provisions to”; and

12 (2) in paragraph (1) by striking “and opinion
13 of the review”; and

14 (3) by striking paragraph (3).

15 SEC. 508. ALLOWABLE PROJECT COSTS.

16 (a) CONSTRUCTION OR MODIFICATION OF PUBLIC
17 PARKING FACILITIES FOR SECURITY PURPOSES.—Section
18 47110 is amended—

19 (1) in subsection (f) by striking “subsection
20 (d)” and inserting “subsections (d) and (h)”; and

21 (2) by adding at the end the following:

22 “(h) CONSTRUCTION OR MODIFICATION OF PUBLIC
23 PARKING FACILITIES FOR SECURITY PURPOSES.—Not-
24 withstanding subsection (f)(1), a cost of constructing or
25 modifying a public parking facility for passenger auto-

1 “§ 44310. Vendors, agents, subcontractors, and manu-
2 facturers

3 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
4 may extend the application of any provision of this chapter
5 to a loss by a vendor, agent, and subcontractor of an air
6 carrier and a United States manufacturer of an aircraft
7 used by an air carrier but only to the extent that the loss
8 involved an aircraft of an air carrier.

9 “(b) UNITED STATES MANUFACTURER DEFINED.—
10 In this section, the term “United States manufacturer”
11 means a manufacturer incorporated under the laws of a
12 State of the United States and having its principal place
13 of business in the United States.”.

14 (2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
15 chapter 443 is amended by striking the item relating to
16 section 44310 and inserting the following:

“44310. Vendors, agents, subcontractors, and manufacturers.
“44311. Termination date”.

17 (e) TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS.—Effective November
18 19, 2001, the Aviation and Transportation Security Act
19 (115 Stat. 597) is amended—

20 (1) in section 147 by striking “44306(b)” and
21 inserting “44306(c)”; and

22 (2) in section 124(b) by striking “to carry out
23 foreign policy” and inserting “to carry out the for-
24 eign policy”.

1 mobiles to comply with a regulation or directive of the De-
2 partment of Homeland Security shall be treated as an al-
3 lowable airport development project cost.”.

4 (b) DEBT FINANCING.—Section 47110 is further
5 amended by adding at the end the following:

6 “(i) DEBT FINANCING.—In the case of an airport
7 that is not a medium hub airport or large hub airport,
8 the Secretary may determine that allowable airport devel-
9 opment project costs include payments of interest, com-
10 mercial bond insurance, and other credit enhancement
11 costs associated with a bond issue to finance the project.”.

12 (c) CLARIFICATION OF ALLOWABLE COSTS.—Sec-
13 tion 47110(b)(1) is amended by inserting before the semi-
14 colon at the end “and any cost of moving a Federal facility
15 impeding the project if the rebuilt facility is of an equiva-
16 lent size and type”.

17 (d) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—Section 47110(c) is
18 amended by aligning the margin of paragraph (6) with 19 the margin of paragraph (5).

20 SEC. 509. APPORTIONMENTS TO PRIMARY AIRPORTS.

21 (a) FORMULA CHANGES.—Section 47114(c)(1)(A) is
22 amended by striking clauses (iv) and (v) and by inserting
23 the following:

1           “(iv) $.65 for each of the next 500,000
2 passenger boardings at the airport during the
3 prior calendar year;

4           “(v) $.50 cents for each of the next
5 2,500,000 passenger boardings at the airport
6 during the prior calendar year; and

7           “(vi) $.45 cents for each additional pas-
8 senger boarding at the airport during the prior
9 calendar year.”.

10       (b) SPECIAL RULE FOR FISCAL YEARS 2004 AND 11 2005.—Section 47114(c)(1) is amended by adding at the
12 end the following:

13           “(F) SPECIAL RULE FOR FISCAL YEARS
14 2004 AND 2005.—Notwithstanding subparagraph
15 (A) and the absence of scheduled passenger air-
16 craft service at an airport, the Secretary may 17 apportion in fiscal years 2004 and 2005 to the 18 sponsor of the airport an amount equal to the 19 amount apportioned to that sponsor in fiscal
20 year 2002 or 2003, whichever amount is great-
21 er, if the Secretary finds that—

22           “(i) the passenger boardings at the 23 airport were below 10,000 in calendar year
24 2002;

1           “(ii) the airport had at least 10,000
2           passenger boardings and scheduled pas-
3           senger aircraft service in either calendar
4           year 2000 or 2001; and

5           “(iii) the reason that passenger
6           boardings described in clause (i) were
7           below 10,000 was the decrease in pas-
8           sengers following the terrorist attacks of
9           September 11, 2001.”.

10 SEC. 510. CARGO AIRPORTS.

11       Section 47114(c)(2) is amended—

12           (1) in the paragraph heading by striking
13       “ONLY”; and

14           (2) in subparagraph (A) by striking “3 per-
15       cent” and inserting “3.5 percent”.

16 SEC. 511. CONSIDERATIONS IN MAKING DISCRETIONARY
17 GRANTS.

18       Section 47115(d) is amended to read as follows:

19       “(d) CONSIDERATIONS.—

20           “(1)       FOR       CAPACITY       ENHANCEMENT
21       PROJECTS.—In selecting a project for a grant to
22       preserve and improve capacity funded in whole or in
23       part from the fund, the Secretary shall consider—

1           “(A) the effect that the project will have
2           on overall national transportation system capac-
3           ity;

4           “(B) the benefit and cost of the project,
5           including, in the case of a project at a reliever
6           airport, the number of operations projected to
7           be diverted from a primary airport to the re-
8           liever airport as a result of the project, as well
9           as the cost savings projected to be realized by
10          users of the local airport system;

11          “(C) the financial commitment from non-
12          United States Government sources to preserve
13          or improve airport capacity;

14          “(D) the airport improvement priorities of
15          the States to the extent such priorities are not 16          in conflict with subparagraphs (A) and (B); and

17          “(E) the projected growth in the number
18          of passengers or aircraft that will be using the 19          airport at which the project will be carried out.

20          “(2) FOR ALL PROJECTS.—In selecting a
21          project for a grant described in paragraph (1), the
22          Secretary shall consider whether—

23                 “(A) funding has been provided for all
24                 other projects qualifying for funding during the 25                 fiscal year under this chapter that have at-

1           tained a higher score under the numerical pri-
2           ority system employed by the Secretary in ad-
3           ministering the fund; and

4                   “(B) the sponsor will be able to commence
5           the work identified in the project application in
6           the fiscal year in which the grant is made or
7           within 6 months after the grant is made, which-
8           ever is later.”.

9   SEC. 512. FLEXIBLE FUNDING FOR NONPRIMARY AIRPORT
10                   APPORTIONMENTS.

11           (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 47117(c) is amended to
12   read as follows:

13                   “(c) USE OF SPONSOR’S APPORTIONED AMOUNTS AT
14   PUBLIC USE AIRPORTS.—

15                   (1) OF SPONSOR.—An amount apportioned to a
16   sponsor of an airport under section 47114(c) or
17   47114(d)(3)(A) of this title is available for grants
18   for any public-use airport of the sponsor included in 19   the national plan of integrated airport systems.

20                   “(2) IN SAME STATE OR AREA.—A sponsor of
21   an airport may make an agreement with the Sec-
22   retary of Transportation waiving the sponsor’s claim
23   to any part of the amount apportioned for the air-
24   port under section 47114(c) or 47114(d)(3)(A) if
25   the Secretary agrees to make the waived amount

1 available for a grant for another public-use airport
2 in the same State or geographical area as the air-
3 port, as determined by the Secretary.”.

4 (b) PROJECT GRANT AGREEMENTS.—Section
5 47108(a) is amended by inserting “or 47114(d)(3)(A)”
6 after “under section 47114(c)”.

7 (c) ALLOWABLE PROJECT COSTS.—Section 47110 is
8 further amended—

9 (1) in subsection (b)(2)(C) by striking “of this
10 title” and inserting “or section 47114(d)(3)(A)”;

11 (2) in subsection (g)—

12 (A) by inserting “or section
13 47114(d)(3)(A)” after “of section 47114(c)”;
14 and

15 (B) by striking “of project” and inserting
16 “of the project”; and

17 (3) by adding at the end the following:

18 “(j) NONPRIMARY AIRPORTS.—The Secretary may
19 decide that the costs of revenue producing aeronautical
20 support facilities, including fuel farms and hangars, are
21 allowable for an airport development project at a nonpri-
22 mary airport if the Government’s share of such costs is
23 paid only with funds apportioned to the airport sponsor
24 under section 47114(d)(3)(A) and if the Secretary deter-

1 mines that the sponsor has made adequate provision for
2 financing airside needs of the airport.”.

3 (d) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS.—Section
4 47119(b) is amended—

5 (1) by striking “or” at the end of paragraph
6 (3);

7 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
8 graph (4) and inserting “; or”; and

9 (3) by adding at the end the following:

10 “(5) to a sponsor of a nonprimary airport, any
11 part of amounts apportioned to the sponsor for the 12 fiscal year under section 47114(d)(3)(A) for project
13 costs allowable under section 47110(d).”.

14 SEC. 513. USE OF APPORTIONED AMOUNTS.

15 (a) SPECIAL APPORTIONMENT CATEGORIES.—Sec-
16 tion 47117(e)(1)(A) is amended—

17 (1) by striking “of this title” the first place it
18 appears and inserting a comma;

19 (2) by striking “of this title” the second place
20 it appears and inserting “, for noise mitigation
21 projects approved in an environmental record of de-
22 cision for an airport development project under this
23 title, for compatible land use planning and projects
24 carried out by State and local governments under
25 section 47140, and for airport development de-

1 scribed in section 47102(3)(F) or 47102(3)(K) to
2 comply with the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7401 et
3 seq.)”.

4 (b) ELIMINATION OF SUPER RELIEVER SET-
5 ASIDE.—Section 47117(e)(1)(C) is repealed.

6 (c) RECOVERED FUNDS.—Section 47117 is further
7 amended by adding at the end the following:

8 “(h) TREATMENT OF CANCELED OR REDUCED
9 GRANT OBLIGATIONS.—For the purpose of determining
10 compliance with a limitation, enacted in an appropriations
11 Act, on the amount of grant obligations of funds made
12 available by section 48103 that may be incurred in a fiscal
13 year, an amount that is recovered by canceling or reducing
14 a grant obligation of funds made available by section
15 48103 shall be treated as a negative obligation that is to 16 be netted against the obligation limitation as enacted and
17 thus may permit the obligation limitation to be exceeded
18 by an equal amount.”.

19 SEC. 514. MILITARY AIRPORT PROGRAM.

20 Subsections (e) and (f) of section 47118 are each
21 amended by striking “$7,000,000” and inserting
22 “$10,000,000”.

23 SEC. 515. TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS.

24 Section 47119(a) is amended to read as follows:

25 “(a) REPAYING BORROWED MONEY.—

1           “(1) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS IN-
2           CURRED AFTER JUNE 30, 1970, AND BEFORE JULY
3           12, 1976.—An amount apportioned under section
4           47114 and made available to the sponsor of a com-
5           mercial service airport at which terminal develop-
6           ment was carried out after June 30, 1970, and be-
7           fore July 12, 1976, is available to repay immediately
8           money borrowed and used to pay the costs for such
9           terminal development if those costs would be allow-
10          able project costs under section 47110(d) if they had
11          been incurred after September 3, 1982.

12           “(2) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS IN-
13          CURRED BETWEEN JANUARY 1, 1992, AND OCTOBER
14          31, 1992.—An amount apportioned under section
15          47114 and made available to the sponsor of a
16          nonhub airport at which terminal development was
17          carried out between January 1, 1992, and October
18          31, 1992, is available to repay immediately money
19          borrowed and to pay the costs for such terminal de-
20          velopment if those costs would be allowable project
21          costs under section 47110(d).

22           “(3) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS AT PRI-
23          MARY AIRPORTS.—An amount apportioned under
24          section 47114 or available under subsection (b)(3) to 25          a primary airport—

1           “(A) that was a nonhub airport in the
2 most recent year used to calculate apportion-
3 ments under section 47114;

4           “(B) that is a designated airport under
5 section 47118 in fiscal year 2003; and

6           “(C) at which terminal development is car-
7 ried out between January 2003 and August
8 2004,

9 is available to repay immediately money borrowed
10 and used to pay the costs for such terminal develop-
11 ment if those costs would be allowable project costs
12 under section 47110(d).

13           “(4) CONDITIONS FOR GRANT.—An amount is
14 available for a grant under this subsection only if—

15           “(A) the sponsor submits the certification
16 required under section 47110(d);

17           “(B) the Secretary of Transportation de-
18 cides that using the amount to repay the bor-
19 rowed money will not defer an airport develop-
20 ment project outside the terminal area at that
21 airport; and

22           “(C) amounts available for airport develop-
23 ment under this subchapter will not be used for 24 additional terminal development projects at the
25 airport for at least 3 years beginning on the

1 SEC. 106. PILOT PROGRAM FOR INNOVATIVE FINANCING
2 FOR TERMINAL AUTOMATION REPLACEMENT
3 SYSTEMS.

4 (a) IN GENERAL.—In order to test the cost-effective-
5 ness and feasibility of long-term financing of moderniza-
6 tion of major air traffic control systems, the Administrator
7 of the Federal Aviation Administration may establish a
8 pilot program to test innovative financing techniques
9 through amending a contract, without regard to section
10 1341 of title 31, United States Code, of more than one,
11 but not more than 20, fiscal years to purchase and install
12 terminal automation replacement systems for the Admin-
13 istration. Such amendments may be for more than one,
14 but not more than 10 fiscal years.

15 (b) CANCELLATION.—A contract described in sub-
16 section (a) may include a cancellation provision if the Ad-
17 ministrator determines that such a provision is necessary
18 and in the best interest of the United States. Any such 19 provision shall include a cancellation liability schedule that
20 covers reasonable and allocable costs incurred by the con-
21 tractor through the date of cancellation plus reasonable
22 profit, if any, on those costs. Any such provision shall not
23 apply if the contract is terminated by default of the con-
24 tractor.

25 (c) CONTRACT PROVISIONS.—If feasible and prac-
26 ticable for the pilot program, the Administrator may make

1 date the grant is used to repay the borrowed
2 money.

3 “(5) APPLICABILITY OF CERTAIN LIMITA-
4 TIONS.—A grant under this subsection shall be sub-
5 ject to the limitations in subsection (b)(1) and (2).”.

6 SEC. 516. CONTRACT TOWERS.

7 Section 47124(b) is amended—

8 (1) in paragraph (1) by striking “December 30,
9 1987,” and inserting “on date of enactment of the 10 Flight 100—Century of Aviation Reauthorization
11 Act”;

12 (2) in the heading for paragraph (3) by striking
13 “PILOT”;

14 (3) in paragraph (4)(C) by striking
15 “$1,100,000” and inserting “$1,500,000”; and

16 (4) by striking “pilot” each place it appears.

17 SEC. 517. AIRPORT SAFETY DATA COLLECTION.

18 Section 47130 is amended to read as follows:

19 “§ 47130. Airport safety data collection

20 “Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Ad-
21 ministrator of the Federal Aviation Administration may
22 award a contract, using sole source or limited source au-
23 thority, or enter into a cooperative agreement with, or pro-
24 vide a grant from amounts made available under section
25 48103 to, a private company or entity for the collection

1 of airport safety data. In the event that a grant is provided
2 under this section, the United States Government's share
3 of the cost of the data collection shall be 100 percent.”.

4 SEC. 518. AIRPORT PRIVATIZATION PILOT PROGRAM.

5 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 47134(b)(1) is
6 amended—

7 (1) in subparagraph (A) by striking clauses (i)
8 and (ii) and inserting the following:

9 “(i) in the case of a primary airport,
10 by at least 65 percent of the scheduled air
11 carriers serving the airport and by sched-
12 uled and nonscheduled air carriers whose
13 aircraft landing at the airport during the
14 preceding calendar year, had a total landed
15 weight during the preceding calendar year
16 of at least 65 percent of the total landed
17 weight of all aircraft landing at the airport
18 during such year; or

19 “(ii) by the Secretary at any nonpri-
20 mary airport after the airport has con-
21 sulted with at least 65 percent of the own-
22 ers of aircraft based at that airport, as de-
23 termined by the Secretary.”;

24 (2) by redesignating subparagraph (B) as sub-
25 paragraph (C); and

1 (3) by inserting after subparagraph (A) the fol-
2 lowing:

3 “(B) OBJECTION TO EXEMPTION.—An air
4 carrier shall be deemed to have approved a
5 sponsor’s application for an exemption under
6 subparagraph (A) unless the air carrier has
7 submitted an objection, in writing, to the spon-
8 sor within 60 days of the filing of the sponsor’s
9 application with the Secretary, or within 60
10 days of the service of the application upon that
11 air carrier, whichever is later.”.

12 (b) FEDERAL SHARE.—Section 47109(a) is
13 amended—

14 (1) by inserting “and” at the end of paragraph

15 (3);

16 (2) by striking paragraph (4); and

17 (3) by redesignating paragraph (5) as para-
18 graph (4).

19 SEC. 519. INNOVATIVE FINANCING TECHNIQUES.

20 (a) ELIGIBLE PROJECTS.—Section 47135(a) is
21 amended—

22 (1) in the first sentence by striking “20” and
23 inserting “10”; and

24 (2) by striking the second sentence and insert-
25 ing the following: “Such projects shall be located at

1 airports that are not medium or large hub air-
2 ports.”.

3 (b) INNOVATIVE FINANCING TECHNIQUES.—Section
4 47135(c)(2) is amended—

5 (1) by striking subparagraphs (A) and (B);

6 (2) by redesignating subparagraphs (C) and
7 (D) as subparagraphs (A) and (B), respectively;

8 (3) in subparagraph (A) (as so redesignated) by 9 striking “and” at the end; and

10 (4) in subparagraph (B) (as so redesignated) by 11 striking the period at the end and inserting “; and”.

12 SEC. 520. AIRPORT SECURITY PROGRAM.

13 Section 47137 is amended—

14 (1) by redesignating subsections (e) and (f) as
15 subsections (f) and (g), respectively; and

16 (2) by inserting after subsection (d) the fol-
17 lowing:

18 “(e) ADMINISTRATION.—The Secretary, in coopera-
19 tion with the Secretary of Homeland Security, shall ad-
20 minister the program authorized by this section.”.

21 SEC. 521. LOW-EMISSION AIRPORT VEHICLES AND INFRA-
22 STRUCTURE.

23 (a) EMISSIONS CREDITS.—Subchapter I of chapter
24 471 is amended by adding at the end the following:

1 “§ 47138. Emission credits for air quality projects.

2 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
3 and the Administrator of the Environmental Protection
4 Agency shall jointly agree on how to assure that airport
5 sponsors receive appropriate emission credits for carrying
6 out projects described in sections 40117(a)(3)(G),
7 47102(3)(K), and 47102(3)(L). Such agreement must in-
8 clude, at a minimum, the following conditions:

9 “(1) The provision of credits is consistent with
10 the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7402 et seq.).

11 “(2) Credits generated by the emissions reduc-
12 tions are kept by the airport sponsor and may only
13 be used for purposes of any current or future gen-
14 eral conformity determination under the Clean Air
15 Act or as offsets under the Environmental Protec-
16 tion Agency’s new source review program for
17 projects on the airport or associated with the air-
18 port.

19 “(3) Credits are calculated and provided to air-
20 ports on a consistent basis nationwide.

21 “(4) Credits are provided to airport sponsors in
22 a timely manner.

23 “(5) The establishment of a method to assure
24 the Secretary that, for any specific airport project
25 for which funding is being requested, the appro-
26 priate credits will be granted.

1 “(b) ASSURANCE OF RECEIPT OF CREDITS.—

2 “(1) IN GENERAL.—As a condition for making
3 a grant for a project described in section
4 47102(3)(K), 47102(3)(L), or 47139 or as a condi-
5 tion for granting approval to collect or use a pas-
6 senger facility fee for a project described in section
7 40117(a)(3)(G), 47102(3)(K), 47102(3)(L), or
8 47139, the Secretary must receive assurance from
9 the State in which the project is located, or from the 10 Administrator of the Environmental Protection
11 Agency where there is a Federal implementation
12 plan, that the airport sponsor will receive appro-
13 priate emission credits in accordance with the condi-
14 tions of this section.

15 “(2) AGREEMENT ON PREVIOUSLY APPROVED
16 PROJECTS.—The Secretary and the Administrator of
17 the Environmental Protection Agency shall jointly
18 agree on how to provide emission credits to airport
19 projects previously approved under section 47136
20 under terms consistent with the conditions enumer-
21 ated in this section.”.

22 (b) AIRPORT GROUND SUPPORT EQUIPMENT EMIS-
23 SIONS RETROFIT PILOT PROGRAM.—Subchapter I of
24 chapter 471 is further amended by adding at the end the
25 following:

1 “§ 47139. Airport ground support equipment emis-
2 sions retrofit pilot program.

3 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
4 shall carry out a pilot program at not more than 10 com-
5 mercial service airports under which the sponsors of such
6 airports may use an amount made available under section
7 48103 to retrofit existing eligible airport ground support
8 equipment that burns conventional fuels to achieve lower
9 emissions utilizing emission control technologies certified
10 or verified by the Environmental Protection Agency.

11 “(b) LOCATION IN AIR QUALITY NONATTAINMENT
12 OR MAINTENANCE AREAS.—A commercial service airport
13 shall be eligible for participation in the pilot program only
14 if the airport is located in an air quality nonattainment
15 area (as defined in section 171(2) of the Clean Air Act
16 (42 U.S.C. 7501(2)) or a maintenance area referred to 17 in section 175A of such Act (42 U.S.C. 7505a).

18 “(c) SELECTION CRITERIA.—In selecting from
19 among applicants for participation in the pilot program,
20 the Secretary shall give priority consideration to appli-
21 cants that will achieve the greatest air quality benefits
22 measured by the amount of emissions reduced per dollar
23 of funds expended under the pilot program.

24 “(d) MAXIMUM AMOUNT.—Not more than $500,000
25 may be expended under the pilot program at any single
26 commercial service airport.

1           “(e) GUIDELINES.—The Secretary, in consultation
2 with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection
3 Agency, shall establish guidelines regarding the types of
4 retrofit projects eligible under the pilot program by consid-
5 ering remaining equipment useful life, amounts of emis-
6 sion reduction in relation to the cost of projects, and other
7 factors necessary to carry out this section. The Secretary
8 may give priority to ground support equipment owned by
9 the airport and used for airport purposes.

10           “(f) ELIGIBLE EQUIPMENT DEFINED.—In this sec-
11 tion, the term ‘eligible equipment’ means ground service
12 or maintenance equipment that is located at the airport,
13 is used to support aeronautical and related activities at
14 the airport, and will remain in operation at the airport
15 for the life or useful life of the equipment, whichever is 16 earlier.”.

17           (c) ADDITION TO AIRPORT DEVELOPMENT.—Section
18 47102(3) is further amended by striking subparagraphs
19 (K) and (L) and inserting the following:

20                   “(K) work necessary to construct or mod-
21 ify airport facilities to provide low-emission fuel
22 systems, gate electrification, and other related
23 air quality improvements at a commercial serv-
24 ice airport if the airport is located in an air
25 quality nonattainment or maintenance area (as

1 defined in sections 171(2) and 175A of the
2 Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7501(2), 7505a) and
3 if such project will result in an airport receiving
4 appropriate emission credits, as described in
5 section 47138.

6 “(L) converting vehicles and ground sup-
7 port equipment owned by a commercial service
8 airport to low-emission technology or acquiring
9 for use at a commercial service airport vehicles
10 and ground support equipment that include
11 low-emission technology if the airport is located
12 in an air quality nonattainment area (as de-
13 fined in section 171(2) of the Clean Air Act (42 14 U.S.C. 7501(2)) or a maintenance area referred 15 to in section 175A of such Act (42 U.S.C.
16 7505a) and if such project will result in an air-
17 port receiving appropriate emission credits as
18 described in section 47138.”.

19 (d) ALLOWABLE PROJECT COST.—Section 47110(b)
20 is further amended—

21 (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph

22 (4);

23 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
24 graph (5) and inserting “; and”; and

25 (3) by adding at the end the following:

1           “(6) in the case of a project for acquiring for
 2           use at a commercial service airport vehicles and
 3           ground support equipment owned by an airport that
 4           is not described in section 47102(3) and that include
 5           low-emission technology, if the total costs allowed for
 6           the project are not more than the incremental cost
 7           of equipping such vehicles or equipment with low-
 8           emission technology, as determined by the Sec-
 9           retary.”.

10           (e) LOW-EMISSION TECHNOLOGY EQUIPMENT.—Sec-
 11          tion 47102 (as amended by section 501 of this Act) is 12          further amended by inserting after paragraph (10) the fol-
 13          lowing:

14           “(11) ‘low-emission technology’ means technology for 15          vehicles and equipment whose emission performance is the 16          best achievable under emission standards established by
 17          the Environmental Protection Agency and that relies ex-
 18          clusively on alternative fuels that are substantially non-
 19          petroleum based, as defined by the Department of Energy,
 20          but not excluding hybrid systems or natural gas powered
 21          vehicles.”.

22           (f) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—The analysis of
 23          subchapter I of chapter 471 is amended by adding at the
 24          end the following:

“47138. Emission credits for air quality projects.

“47139. Airport ground support equipment emissions retrofit pilot program.”.

1 an advance contract provision to achieve economic-lot pur-
2 chases and more efficient production rates.

3 (d) LIMITATION.—The Administrator may not amend
4 a contract under this section until the program for the
5 terminal automation replacement systems has been
6 rebaselined in accordance with the acquisition manage-
7 ment system of the Administration.

8 (e) SCORING.—Budget authority for any contract or
9 amended contract under the pilot program shall be consid-
10 ered sufficient for purposes of the Budget Enforcement
11 Act of 1990 if for each fiscal year of the contract the 12 amount of budget authority is at least sufficient to cover
13 the estimated total payments to be made under that con-
14 tract for that year. Budget authority is not required for 15 any contingent liability that might be contained in a can-
16 cellation provision.

17 (f) ANNUAL REPORTS.—At the end of each fiscal
18 year during the term of the pilot program, the Adminis-
19 trator shall transmit to the Committee on Commerce,
20 Science, and Transportation of the Senate and the Com-
21 mittee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House
22 of Representatives a report on how the Administrator has 23 implemented in such fiscal year the pilot program, the 24 number and types of contracts or contract amendments

1 SEC. 522. COMPATIBLE LAND USE PLANNING AND
2 PROJECTS BY STATE AND LOCAL GOVERN-
3 MENTS.

4 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 471 is
5 further amended by adding at the end the following:

6 “§47140. Compatible land use planning and projects
7 by State and local governments

8 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
9 may make grants from amounts set aside under section
10 47117(e)(1)(A) to States and units of local government
11 for land use compatibility plans or projects resulting from 12 those plans for the purposes of making the use of land
13 areas around large hub airports and medium hub airports
14 compatible with aircraft operations if—

15 “(1) the airport operator has not submitted a
16 noise compatibility program to the Secretary under
17 section 47504 or has not updated such program
18 within the past 10 years; and

19 “(2) the land use plan meets the requirements
20 of this section and any project resulting from the 21 plan meets such requirements.

22 “(b) ELIGIBILITY.—In order to receive a grant under 23 this section, a State or unit of local government must—

24 “(1) have the authority to plan and adopt land
25 use control measures, including zoning, in the plan-

1       ning area in and around a large or medium hub air-
2       port;

3               “(2) provide written assurance to the Secretary
4       that it will work with the affected airport to identify
5       and adopt such measures; and

6               “(3) provide written assurance to the Secretary
7       that it will achieve, to the maximum extent possible,
8       compatible land uses consistent with Federal land
9       use compatibility criteria under section 47502(3)
10       and that those compatible land uses will be main-
11       tained.

12       “(c) ASSURANCES.—The Secretary shall require a
13       State or unit of local government to which a grant may 14       be awarded under this section for a land use plan or a
15       project resulting from such a plan to provide—

16               “(1) assurances satisfactory to the Secretary
17       that the plan—

18                       “(A) is reasonably consistent with the goal
19       of reducing existing noncompatible land uses
20       and preventing the introduction of additional
21       noncompatible land uses;

22                       “(B) addresses ways to achieve and main-
23       tain compatible land uses, including zoning,
24       building codes, and any other projects under
25       section 47504(a)(2) that are within the author-

1           ity of the State or unit of local government to
2           implement;

3           “(C) uses noise contours provided by the
4           airport operator that are consistent with the
5           airport operation and planning, including any
6           noise abatement measures adopted by the air-
7           port operator as part of its own noise mitiga-
8           tion efforts;

9           “(D) does not duplicate, and is not incon-
10          sistent with, the airport operator’s noise com-
11          patibility measures for the same area; and

12          “(E) has received concurrence by the air-
13          port operator prior to adoption by the State or 14          unit of local government; and

15          “(2) such other assurances as the Secretary de-
16          termines to be necessary to carry out this section.

17          “(d) GUIDELINES.—The Secretary shall establish
18          guidelines to administer this section in accordance with 19          the purposes and conditions described in this section. The 20          Secretary may require the State or unit of local govern-
21          ment to which a grant may be awarded under this section
22          to provide progress reports and other information as the 23          Secretary determines to be necessary to carry out this sec-
24          tion.

1           “(e) ELIGIBLE PROJECTS.—The Secretary may ap-
 2 prove a grant under this section to a State or unit of local
 3 government for a land use compatibility project only if the
 4 Secretary is satisfied that the project is consistent with
 5 the guidelines established by the Secretary under this sec-
 6 tion, that the State or unit of local government has pro-
 7 vided the assurances required by this section, that the Sec-
 8 retary has received evidence that the State or unit of local
 9 government has implemented (or has made provision to 10 implement) those elements of the plan that are not eligible
 11 for Federal financial assistance, and that the project is
 12 not inconsistent with Federal standards.

13           “(f) SUNSET.—This section shall not be in effect
 14 after September 30, 2007.”.

15           (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis of
 16 subchapter I of chapter 471 is further amended by adding
 17 at the end the following:

“47140. Compatible land use planning and projects by State and local governments.”.

18 SEC. 523. PROHIBITION ON REQUIRING AIRPORTS TO PRO-
 19 VIDE RENT-FREE SPACE FOR FEDERAL AVIA-
 20 TION ADMINISTRATION.

21           (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 471 is
 22 further amended by adding at the end the following:

1 “§ 47141. Prohibition on rent-free space requirements
2 for Federal Aviation Administration

3 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
4 may not require an airport sponsor to provide to the Fed-
5 eral Aviation Administration, without compensation, space
6 in a building owned by the sponsor and costs associated
7 with such space for building construction, maintenance,
8 utilities, and other expenses.

9 “(b) NEGOTIATED AGREEMENTS.—Subsection (a)
10 does not prohibit—

11 “(1) the negotiation of agreements between the
12 Secretary and an airport sponsor to provide building
13 construction, maintenance, utilities and expenses, or
14 space in airport sponsor-owned buildings to the Fed-
15 eral Aviation Administration without cost or at
16 below-market rates; or

17 “(2) the Secretary of Transportation from re-
18 quiring airport sponsors to provide land without cost
19 to the Federal Aviation Administration for air traffic
20 control facilities.”.

21 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
22 subchapter I of chapter 471 is further amended by adding
23 at the end the following:

“47141. Prohibition on rent-free space requirements for Federal Aviation Administration.”.

1 SEC. 524. MIDWAY ISLAND AIRPORT.

2 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that the continued
3 operation of the Midway Island Airport in accordance with
4 the standards of the Federal Aviation Administration ap-
5 plicable to commercial airports is critical to the safety of
6 commercial, military, and general aviation in the mid-Pa-
7 cific Ocean region.

8 (b) MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING ON SALE OF
9 AIRCRAFT FUEL.—The Secretary of Transportation shall
10 enter into a memorandum of understanding with the Sec-
11 retaries of Defense, Interior, and Homeland Security to
12 facilitate the sale of aircraft fuel on Midway Island at a
13 price that will generate sufficient revenue to improve the
14 ability of the airport to operate on a self-sustaining basis
15 in accordance with the standards of the Federal Aviation
16 Administration applicable to commercial airports. The
17 memorandum shall also address the long-range potential
18 of promoting tourism as a means to generate revenue to 19 operate the airport.

20 (c) TRANSFER OF NAVIGATION AIDS AT MIDWAY IS-
21 LAND AIRPORT.—The Midway Island Airport may trans-
22 fer, without consideration, to the Administrator the navi-
23 gation aids at the airport. The Administrator shall accept
24 the navigation aids and operate and maintain the naviga-
25 tion aids under criteria of the Administrator.

1 (d) FUNDING TO THE SECRETARY OF INTERIOR FOR
2 MIDWAY ISLAND AIRPORT.—

3 (1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 481 is amended by
4 adding at the end the following:

5 “§48114. Funding to the Secretary of Interior for
6 Midway Island Airport

7 “The following amounts shall be available (and shall
8 remain available until expended) to the Secretary of Inte-
9 rior, out of the Airport and Airway Trust Fund estab-
10 lished under section 9502 of the Internal Revenue Code
11 of 1986 (26 U.S.C. 9502), for airport capital projects at 12 the Midway Island Airport:

- 13 “(1) $750,000 for fiscal year 2004.
- 14 “(2) $2,500,000 for fiscal year 2005.
- 15 “(3) $1,000,000 for fiscal year 2006.
- 16 “(4) $1,000,000 for fiscal year 2007.”.

17 (2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis
18 for chapter 481 is amended by adding at the end the
19 following:

“48114. Funding to the Secretary of Interior for Midway Island Airport.”.

20 SEC. 525. REIMBURSEMENT OF AIR CARRIERS FOR CER-
21 TAIN SCREENING AND RELATED ACTIVITIES.

22 The Secretary of Transportation, subject to the avail-
23 ability of funds (other than amounts in the Aviation Trust
24 Fund) provided for this purpose, shall reimburse air car-
25 riers and airports for the following:

1           (1) All screening and related activities that the
2           air carriers or airports are still performing or con-
3           tinuing to be responsible for, including—

4                   (A) the screening of catering supplies;

5                   (B) checking documents at security check-
6           points;

7                   (C) screening of passengers; and

8                   (D) screening of persons with access to 9           aircraft.

10          (2) The provision of space and facilities used to
11          perform screening functions if such space and facili-
12          ties have been previously used, or were intended to 13          be used, for revenue-producing purposes.

14 SEC. 526. GENERAL AVIATION FLIGHTS AT RONALD
15 REAGAN WASHINGTON NATIONAL AIRPORT.

16          It is the sense of Congress that Ronald Reagan
17          Washington National Airport should be open to general
18          aviation flights as soon as possible.

1 that are entered into under the program, and the pro-
2 gram’s cost effectiveness.

3 (g) AUTHORIZATION.—There shall be available
4 $200,000,000 to carry out this section for fiscal year
5 2004. Such sums shall remain available until expended.

6 TITLE II—AIRPORT PROJECT
7 STREAMLINING

8 SEC. 201. SHORT TITLE.

9 This title may be cited as the “Airport Streamlining
10 Approval Process Act of 2003”.

11 SEC. 202. FINDINGS.

12 Congress finds that—

13 (1) airports play a major role in interstate and
14 foreign commerce;

15 (2) congestion and delays at our Nation’s major
16 airports have a significant negative impact on our
17 Nation’s economy;

18 (3) airport capacity enhancement projects at
19 congested airports are a national priority and should
20 be constructed on an expedited basis;

21 (4) airport capacity enhancement projects must
22 include an environmental review process that pro-
23 vides local citizenry an opportunity for consideration
24 of and appropriate action to address environmental
25 concerns; and

1 (5) the Federal Aviation Administration, airport
 2 authorities, communities, and other Federal, State,
 3 and local government agencies must work together
 4 to develop a plan, set and honor milestones and
 5 deadlines, and work to protect the environment while
 6 sustaining the economic vitality that will result from
 7 the continued growth of aviation.

8 SEC. 203. PROMOTION OF NEW RUNWAYS.

9 Section 40104 is amended by adding at the end the
 10 following:

11 “(c) AIRPORT CAPACITY ENHANCEMENT PROJECTS
 12 AT CONGESTED AIRPORTS.—In carrying out subsection
 13 (a), the Administrator shall take action to encourage the 14 construction of airport capacity enhancement projects at 15 congested airports as those terms are defined in section
 16 47178.”.

17 SEC. 204. AIRPORT PROJECT STREAMLINING.

18 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 471 is amended by in-
 19 serting after section 47153 the following:

20 “SUBCHAPTER III—AIRPORT PROJECT
 21 STREAMLINING

22 “§ 47171. DOT as lead agency

23 “(a) AIRPORT PROJECT REVIEW PROCESS.—The
 24 Secretary of Transportation shall develop and implement

1 a coordinated review process for airport capacity enhance-
2 ment projects at congested airports.

3 “(b) COORDINATED REVIEWS.—

4 “(1) IN GENERAL.—The coordinated review
5 process under this section shall provide that all envi-
6 ronmental reviews, analyses, opinions, permits, li-
7 censes, and approvals that must be issued or made
8 by a Federal agency or airport sponsor for an air-
9 port capacity enhancement project at a congested
10 airport will be conducted concurrently, to the max-
11 imum extent practicable, and completed within a
12 time period established by the Secretary, in coopera-
13 tion with the agencies identified under subsection (c)
14 with respect to the project.

15 “(2) AGENCY PARTICIPATION.—Each Federal
16 agency identified under subsection (c) shall formu-
17 late and implement administrative, policy, and pro-
18 cedural mechanisms to enable the agency to ensure
19 completion of environmental reviews, analyses, opin-
20 ions, permits, licenses, and approvals described in
21 paragraph (1) in a timely and environmentally re-
22 sponsible manner.

23 “(c) IDENTIFICATION OF JURISDICTIONAL AGEN-
24 CIES.—With respect to each airport capacity enhancement
25 project at a congested airport, the Secretary shall identify,

1 as soon as practicable, all Federal and State agencies that
2 may have jurisdiction over environmental-related matters
3 that may be affected by the project or may be required
4 by law to conduct an environmental-related review or anal-
5 ysis of the project or determine whether to issue an envi-
6 ronmental-related permit, license, or approval for the 7 project.

8 “(d) STATE AUTHORITY.—If a coordinated review
9 process is being implemented under this section by the
10 Secretary with respect to a project at an airport within
11 the boundaries of a State, the State, consistent with State
12 law, may choose to participate in such process and provide
13 that all State agencies that have jurisdiction over environ-
14 mental-related matters that may be affected by the project
15 or may be required by law to conduct an environmental-
16 related review or analysis of the project or determine
17 whether to issue an environmental-related permit, license,
18 or approval for the project, be subject to the process.

19 “(e) MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING.—The co-
20 ordinated review process developed under this section may 21 be incorporated into a memorandum of understanding for
22 a project between the Secretary and the heads of other
23 Federal and State agencies identified under subsection (c)
24 with respect to the project and the airport sponsor.

1           “(1) NOTIFICATION OF CONGRESS AND CEQ.—
2           If the Secretary determines that a Federal agency,
3           State agency, or airport sponsor that is participating
4           in a coordinated review process under this section
5           with respect to a project has not met a deadline es-
6           tablished under subsection (b) for the project, the
7           Secretary shall notify, within 30 days of the date of
8           such determination, the Committee on Transpor-
9           tation and Infrastructure of the House of Represent-
10          atives, the Committee on Commerce, Science, and
11          Transportation of the Senate, the Council on Envi-
12          ronmental Quality, and the agency or sponsor in-
13          volved about the failure to meet the deadline.

14           “(2) AGENCY REPORT.—Not later than 30 days
15          after date of receipt of a notice under paragraph (1),
16          the agency or sponsor involved shall submit a report
17          to the Secretary, the Committee on Transportation
18          and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives,
19          the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Trans-
20          portation of the Senate, and the Council on Environ-
21          mental Quality explaining why the agency or sponsor
22          did not meet the deadline and what actions it in-
23          tends to take to complete or issue the required re-
24          view, analysis, opinion, license, or approval.

1           “(g) PURPOSE AND NEED.—For any environmental
2 review, analysis, opinion, permit, license, or approval that
3 must be issued or made by a Federal or State agency that
4 is participating in a coordinated review process under this
5 section with respect to an airport capacity enhancement
6 project at a congested airport and that requires an anal-
7 ysis of purpose and need for the project, the agency, not-
8 withstanding any other provision of law, shall be bound
9 by the project purpose and need as defined by the Sec-
10 retary.

11           “(h) ALTERNATIVES ANALYSIS.—The Secretary shall
12 determine the reasonable alternatives to an airport capac-
13 ity enhancement project at a congested airport. Any other
14 Federal or State agency that is participating in a coordi-
15 nated review process under this section with respect to the 16 project shall consider only those alternatives to the project
17 that the Secretary has determined are reasonable.

18           “(i) SOLICITATION AND CONSIDERATION OF COM-
19 MENTS.—In applying subsections (g) and (h), the Sec-
20 retary shall solicit and consider comments from interested
21 persons and governmental entities.

22           “(j) MONITORING BY TASK FORCE.—The Transpor-
23 tation Infrastructure Streamlining Task Force, estab-
24 lished by Executive Order 13274 (67 Fed. Reg. 59449;
25 relating to environmental stewardship and transportation

1 infrastructure project reviews) may monitor airport
2 projects that are subject to the coordinated review process
3 under this section.

4 “§ 47172. Categorical exclusions

5 “Not later than 120 days after the date of enactment
6 of this section, the Secretary of Transportation shall de-
7 velop and publish a list of categorical exclusions from the
8 requirement that an environmental assessment or an envi-
9 ronmental impact statement be prepared under the Na-
10 tional Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321
11 et seq.) for projects at airports.

12 “§ 47173. Access restrictions to ease construction

13 “At the request of an airport sponsor for a congested
14 airport, the Secretary of Transportation may approve a
15 restriction on use of a runway to be constructed at the 16 airport to minimize potentially significant adverse noise
17 impacts from the runway only if the Secretary determines
18 that imposition of the restriction—

19 “(1) is necessary to mitigate those impacts and
20 expedite construction of the runway;

21 “(2) is the most appropriate and a cost-effective
22 measure to mitigate those impacts, taking into con-
23 sideration any environmental tradeoffs associated
24 with the restriction; and

1           “(3) would not adversely affect service to small
2           communities, adversely affect safety or efficiency of
3           the national airspace system, unjustly discriminate
4           against any class of user of the airport, or impose
5           an undue burden on interstate or foreign commerce.

6   “§ 47174. Airport revenue to pay for mitigation

7           “(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section
8           47107(b), section 47133, or any other provision of this
9           title, the Secretary of Transportation may allow an airport
10          sponsor carrying out an airport capacity enhancement
11          project at a congested airport to make payments, out of 12          revenues generated at the airport (including local taxes on 13          aviation fuel), for measures to mitigate the environmental
14          impacts of the project if the Secretary finds that—

15               “(1) the mitigation measures are included as
16               part of, or support, the preferred alternative for the 17               project in the documentation prepared pursuant to 18               the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42
19               U.S.C. 4321 et seq.);

20               “(2) the use of such revenues will provide a sig-
21               nificant incentive for, or remove an impediment to,
22               approval of the project by a State or local govern-
23               ment; and

1           “(3) the cost of the mitigation measures is rea-
2           sonable in relation to the mitigation that will be
3           achieved.

4           “(b) MITIGATION OF AIRCRAFT NOISE.—Mitigation
5           measures described in subsection (a) may include the insu-
6           lation of residential buildings and buildings used primarily
7           for educational or medical purposes to mitigate the effects
8           of aircraft noise and the improvement of such buildings
9           as required for the insulation of the buildings under local 10          building codes.

11          “§ 47175. Airport funding of FAA staff

12          “(a) ACCEPTANCE OF SPONSOR-PROVIDED
13          FUNDS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the
14          Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration may 15          accept funds from an airport sponsor, including funds pro-
16          vided to the sponsor under section 47114(c), to hire addi-
17          tional staff or obtain the services of consultants in order
18          to facilitate the timely processing, review, and completion
19          of environmental activities associated with an airport de-
20          velopment project.

21          “(b) ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISION.—Instead of pay-
22          ment from an airport sponsor from funds apportioned to
23          the sponsor under section 47114, the Administrator, with 24          agreement of the sponsor, may transfer funds that would
25          otherwise be apportioned to the sponsor under section

1 47114 to the account used by the Administrator for activi-
2 ties described in subsection (a).

3 “(c) RECEIPTS CREDITED AS OFFSETTING COLLEC-
4 TIONS.—Notwithstanding section 3302 of title 31, any
5 funds accepted under this section, except funds trans-
6 ferred pursuant to subsection (b)—

7 “(1) shall be credited as offsetting collections to
8 the account that finances the activities and services
9 for which the funds are accepted;

10 “(2) shall be available for expenditure only to 11 pay the costs of activities and services for which the 12 funds are accepted; and

13 “(3) shall remain available until expended.

14 “(d) MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—No funds may be
15 accepted pursuant to subsection (a), or transferred pursu-
16 ant to subsection (b), in any fiscal year in which the Fed-
17 eral Aviation Administration does not allocate at least the 18 amount it expended in fiscal year 2002, excluding
19 amounts accepted pursuant to section 337 of the Depart-
20 ment of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropria-
21 tions Act, 2002 (115 Stat. 862), for the activities de-
22 scribed in subsection (a).

23 “§ 47176. Authorization of appropriations

24 “In addition to the amounts authorized to be appro-
25 priated under section 106(k), there is authorized to be ap-

1 appropriated to the Secretary of Transportation, out of the
 2 Airport and Airway Trust Fund established under section
 3 9502 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26 U.S.C.
 4 9502), $4,200,000 for fiscal year 2004 and for each fiscal
 5 year thereafter to facilitate the timely processing, review,
 6 and completion of environmental activities associated with
 7 airport capacity enhancement projects at congested air-
 8 ports.

9 “§ 47177. Designation of aviation safety and aviation
 10 security projects for priority environ-
 11 mental review

12 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Fed-
 13 eral Aviation Administration may designate an aviation
 14 safety or aviation security project for priority environ-
 15 mental review. The Administrator may not delegate this
 16 designation authority.

17 “(b) PROJECT DESIGNATION CRITERIA.—The Ad-
 18 ministrator shall establish guidelines for the designation
 19 of an aviation safety or aviation security project for pri-
 20 ority environmental review. Such guidelines shall include
 21 consideration of—

22 “(1) the importance or urgency of the project;

23 “(2) the potential for undertaking the environ-
 24 mental review under existing emergency procedures

1 under the National Environmental Policy Act of
2 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.);

3 “(3) the need for cooperation and concurrent
4 reviews by other Federal or State agencies; and

5 “(4) the prospect for undue delay if the project
6 is not designated for priority review.

7 “(c) COORDINATED ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS.—

8 “(1) TIMELINES AND HIGH PRIORITY FOR CO-
9 ORDINATED ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS.—The Ad-
10 ministrator, in consultation with the heads of af-
11 fected agencies, shall establish specific timelines for
12 the coordinated environmental review of an aviation
13 safety or aviation security project designated under
14 subsection (a). Such timelines shall be consistent
15 with the timelines established in existing laws and
16 regulations. Each Federal agency with responsibility
17 for project environmental reviews, analyses, opinions,
18 permits, licenses, and approvals shall accord any
19 such review a high priority and shall conduct the re-
20 view expeditiously and, to the maximum extent pos-
21 sible, concurrently with other such reviews.

22 “(2) AGENCY PARTICIPATION.—Each Federal
23 agency identified under subsection (c) shall formu-
24 late and implement administrative, policy, and pro-
25 cedural mechanisms to enable the agency to ensure

1 completion of environmental reviews, analyses, opin-
2 ions, permits, licenses, and approvals described in
3 paragraph (1) in a timely and environmentally re-
4 sponsible manner.

5 “(d) STATE PARTICIPATION.—

6 “(1) INVITATION TO PARTICIPATE.—If a pri-
7 ority environmental review process is being imple-
8 mented under this section with respect to a project
9 within the boundaries of a State with applicable
10 State environmental requirements and approvals, the 11 Administrator shall invite the State to participate in 12 the process.

13 “(2) STATE CHOICE.—A State invited to par-
14 ticipate in a priority environmental review process,
15 consistent with State law, may choose to participate
16 in such process and direct that all State agencies,
17 which have jurisdiction by law to conduct an envi-
18 ronmental review or analysis of the project to deter-
19 mine whether to issue an environmentally related
20 permit, license, or approval for the project, be sub-
21 ject to the process.

22 “(e) FAILURE TO GIVE PRIORITY REVIEW.—

23 “(1) NOTICE.—If the Secretary of Transpor-
24 tation determines that a Federal agency or a partici-
25 pating State is not complying with the requirements

1 of this section and that such noncompliance is un-
2 dermining the environmental review process, the
3 Secretary shall notify, within 30 days of such deter-
4 mination, the head of the Federal agency or, with
5 respect to a State agency, the Governor of the State.

6 “(2) REPORT TO SECRETARY.—A Federal agen-
7 cy that receives a copy of a notification relating to
8 that agency made by the Secretary under paragraph
9 (1) shall submit, within 30 days after receiving such
10 copy, a written report to the Secretary explaining
11 the reasons for the situation described in the notifi-
12 cation and what remedial actions the agency intends
13 to take.

14 “(3) NOTIFICATION OF CEQ AND COMMIT-
15 TEES.—If the Secretary determines that a Federal
16 agency has not satisfactorily addressed the problems
17 within a reasonable period of time following a notifi-
18 cation under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall no-
19 tify the Council on Environmental Quality, the Com-
20 mittee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the 21 House of Representatives, and the Committee on
22 Commerce, Science and Transportation of the Sen-
23 ate.

24 “(f) PROCEDURAL PROVISIONS.—The procedures set
25 forth in subsections (c), (e), (g), (h), and (i) of section

- Sec. 426. Amendment of general fee schedule provision.
- Sec. 427. Improvement of curriculum standards for aviation maintenance technicians.
- Sec. 428. Task force on future of air transportation system.

- Sec. 526. General aviation flights at Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport.

1 47171 shall apply with respect to an aviation safety or
2 aviation security project under this section in the same
3 manner and to the same extent as such procedures apply
4 to an airport capacity enhancement project at a congested
5 airport under section 47171.

6 “(g) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the following
7 definitions apply:

8 “(1) AVIATION SAFETY PROJECT.—The term
9 ‘aviation safety project’ means an aviation project
10 that—

11 “(A) has as its primary purpose reducing
12 the risk of injury to persons or damage to air-

15 (42) as paragraphs (43) through (47), respectively;

16 (2) by inserting after paragraph (37) the fol-
17 lowing:

18 “(42) ‘small hub airport’ means a commercial
19 service airport (as defined in section 47102) that 20 has at least 0.05 percent but less than 0.25 percent
21 of the passenger boardings.”;

22 (3) by redesignating paragraphs (32) through
23 (37) as paragraphs (36) through (41) respectively;

24 (4) by inserting after paragraph (32) the following:

1           “(36) PASSENGER BOARDINGS.—The term ‘pas-
2           senger boardings’—

3           “(A) means, unless the context indicates
4           otherwise, revenue passenger boardings in the
5           United States in the prior calendar year on an
6           aircraft in service in air commerce, as the Sec-
7           retary determines under regulations the Sec-
8           retary prescribes; and

9           “(B) includes passengers who continue on
10          an aircraft in international flight that stops at
11          an airport in the 48 contiguous States, Alaska,
12          or Hawaii for a nontraffic purpose.”;

13          (5) by redesignating paragraph (32) as para-
14          graph (35);

15          (6) by inserting after paragraph (31) the fol-
16          lowing:

17          “(34) ‘nonhub airport’ means a commercial
18          service airport (as defined in section 47102) that
19          has less than 0.05 percent of the passenger
20          boardings.”;

21          (7) by redesignating paragraphs (30) and (31)
22          as paragraphs (32) and (33), respectively;

23          (8) by inserting after paragraph (29) the fol-
24          lowing:

1 Such sums shall remain available until expended.”.

2 “(2) OPERATION OF CENTER FOR MANAGE-
3 MENT AND DEVELOPMENT.—Out of amounts appro-
4 priated under paragraph (1), such sums as may be
5 necessary may be expended by the Center for Man-
6 agement Development of the Federal Aviation Ad-
7 ministration to operate at least 200 courses each
8 year and to support associated student travel for
9 both residential and field courses.

10 “(3) AIR TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT SYSTEM.—Out
11 of amounts appropriated under paragraph (1), such 12 sums as may be necessary may be expended by the
13 Federal Aviation Administration for the establish-
14 ment and operation of a new office to develop, in co-
15 ordination with the Department of Defense, the Na-
16 tional Aeronautics and Space Administration, and
17 the Department of Homeland Security, the next gen-
18 eration air traffic management system and a transi-
19 tion plan for the implementation of that system. The 20 office shall be known as the ‘Next Generation Air
21 Transportation System Joint Program Office’.

22 “(4) HELICOPTER AND TILTROTOR PROCE-
23 DURES.—Out of amounts appropriated under para-
24 graph (1), such sums as may be necessary may be
25 expended by the Federal Aviation Administration for

1           “(31) ‘medium hub airport’ means a commer-
2           cial service airport (as defined in section 47102)
3           that has at least 0.25 percent but less than 1.0 per-
4           cent of the passenger boardings.”;

5           (9) by redesignating paragraph (29) as para-
6           graph (30);

7           (10) by inserting after paragraph (28) the fol-
8           lowing:

9           “(29) ‘large hub airport’ means a commercial
10          service airport (as defined in section 47102) that
11          has at least 1.0 percent of the passenger
12          boardings.”.

13          (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

14           (1) AIR SERVICE TERMINATION NOTICE.—Sec-
15          tion 41719(d) is amended—

16                   (A) by striking paragraph (1); and

17                   (B) by redesignating paragraphs (2)
18                   through (5) as paragraphs (1) through (4), re-
19                   spectively.

7 40110(d) is amended—

8 (1) in paragraph (1)—

9 (A) by striking “, not later than January
10 1, 1996,”; and

11 (B) by striking “provides for more timely
12 and cost-effective acquisitions of equipment and 13 materials.” and inserting the following:

14 “provides for—

15 “(A) more timely and cost-effective acqui-
16 sitions of equipment, services, property, and
17 materials; and

18 “(B) the resolution of bid protests and
19 contract disputes related thereto, using consen-
20 sual alternative dispute resolution techniques to 21 the maximum extent practicable.”; and

22 (2) by striking paragraph (4), relating to the 23 effective date, and inserting the following:

24 “(4) ADJUDICATION OF CERTAIN BID PROTESTS
25 AND CONTRACT DISPUTES.—A bid protest or con-

1 tract dispute that is not addressed or resolved
 2 through alternative dispute resolution shall be adju-
 3 dicated by the Administrator through Dispute Reso-
 4 lution Officers or Special Masters of the Federal
 5 Aviation Administration Office of Dispute Resolution
 6 for Acquisition, acting pursuant to sections 46102,
 7 46104, 46105, 46106 and 46107 and shall be sub-
 8 ject to judicial review under section 46110 and to 9 the provisions of the Equal Access to Justice Act (5
 10 U.S.C. 504).”.

 12 SERVICES.—Section 106(f)(2)(A)(ii) is amended by in-
 13 serting “, services,” after “property”.

14 SEC. 405. LOW-EMISSION AIRPORT VEHICLES AND GROUND
 15 SUPPORT EQUIPMENT.

16 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 40117(a)(3) is amended
 17 by inserting at the end the following:

18 “(G) A project for the acquisition or con-
 19 version of ground support equipment or airport-
 20 owned vehicles used at a commercial service air-
 21 port with, or to, low-emission technology (as de-
 22 fined in section 47102) or cleaner burning con-
 23 ventional fuels, or the retrofitting of such
 24 equipment or vehicles that are powered by a
 25 diesel or gasoline engine with emission control

1 technologies certified or verified by the Environ-
 2 mental Protection Agency to reduce emissions,
 3 if the airport is located in an air quality non-
 4 attainment area (as defined in section 171(2) of
 5 the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7501(2)) or a
 6 maintenance area referred to in section 175A of 7 such Act (42 U.S.C. 7505a), and if such project
 8 will result in an airport receiving appropriate
 9 emission credits as described in section
 10 47138.”.

11 (b) MAXIMUM COST FOR CERTAIN LOW-EMISSION
 12 TECHNOLOGY PROJECTS.—Section 40117(b) is amended
 13 by adding at the end the following:

14 “(5) MAXIMUM COST FOR CERTAIN LOW-EMIS-
 15 SION TECHNOLOGY PROJECTS.—The maximum cost
 16 that may be financed by imposition of a passenger
 17 facility fee under this section for a project described
 18 in subsection (a)(3)(G) with respect to vehicle or
 19 ground support equipment may not exceed the incre-
 20 mental amount of the project cost that is greater
 21 than the cost of acquiring a vehicle or equipment
 22 that is not low-emission and would be used for the
 23 same purpose, or the cost of low-emission retro-
 24 fitting, as determined by the Secretary.”.

1 (c) GROUND SUPPORT EQUIPMENT DEFINED.—Sec-
2 tion 40117(a) is amended—

3 (1) by redesignating paragraphs (4) and (5) as
4 paragraphs (5) and (6), respectively;

5 (2) by inserting after paragraph (3) the fol-
6 lowing:

10 port aeronautical operations and related activities.”.

11 SEC. 406. STREAMLINING OF THE PASSENGER FACILITY
12 FEE PROGRAM.

13 (a) APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS.—Section
14 40117(c) is amended—

15 (1) by adding at the end of paragraph (2) the
16 following:

17 “(E) The agency will include in its applica-
18 tion or notice submitted under subparagraph
19 (A) copies of all certifications of agreement or
20 disagreement received under subparagraph (D).

21 “(F) For the purpose of this section, an el-
22 igible agency providing notice and an oppor-
23 tunity for consultation to an air carrier or for-
24 eign air carrier is deemed to have satisfied the 25 requirements of this paragraph if the eligible

1 agency limits such notices and consultations to
2 air carriers and foreign air carriers that have a
3 significant business interest at the airport. In
4 the subparagraph, the term ‘significant busi-
5 ness interest’ means an air carrier or foreign
6 air carrier that had no less than 1.0 percent of 7 passenger boardings at the airport in the prior
8 calendar year, had at least 25,000 passenger
9 boardings at the airport in the prior calendar
10 year, or provides scheduled service at the air-
11 port.”;

12 (2) by redesignating paragraph (3) as para-
13 graph (4);

14 (3) by inserting after paragraph (2) the fol-
15 lowing:

16 “(3) Before submitting an application, the eligible
17 agency must provide reasonable notice and an opportunity
18 for public comment. The Secretary shall prescribe regula-
19 tions that define reasonable notice and provide for at least
20 the following under this paragraph:

21 “(A) A requirement that the eligible agen-
22 cy provide public notice of intent to collect a
23 passenger facility fee so as to inform those in-
24 terested persons and agencies who may be af-
25 fected, which public notice may include—

1 “(i) publication in local newspapers of
2 general circulation;

3 “(ii) publication in other local media;
4 and

5 “(ii) posting the notice on the agen-
6 cy’s web-site.

7 “(B) A requirement for submission of pub-
8 lic comments no sooner than 30 days, and no
9 later than 45 days, after the date of the publi-
10 cation of the notice.

11 “(C) A requirement that the agency in-
12 clude in its application or notice submitted
13 under subparagraph (A) copies of all comments
14 received under subparagraph (B).”; and

15 (4) in the first sentence of paragraph (4) (as 16 redesignated by paragraph (2) of this subsection) by
17 striking “shall” and inserting “may”.

18 (b) PILOT PROGRAM FOR PASSENGER FACILITY FEE
19 AUTHORIZATIONS AT NONHUB AIRPORTS.—Section
20 40117 is amended by adding at the end the following:

21 “(1) PILOT PROGRAM FOR PASSENGER FACILITY FEE
22 AUTHORIZATIONS AT NONHUB AIRPORTS.—

23 “(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall estab-
24 lish a pilot program to test alternative procedures
25 for authorizing eligible agencies for nonhub airports

1 to impose passenger facility fees. An eligible agency
2 may impose in accordance with the provisions of this
3 subsection a passenger facility fee under this section.
4 For purposes of the pilot program, the procedures in
5 this subsection shall apply instead of the procedures
6 otherwise provided in this section.

7 “(2) NOTICE AND OPPORTUNITY FOR CON-
8 SULTATION.—The eligible agency must provide rea-
9 sonable notice and an opportunity for consultation to
10 air carriers and foreign air carriers in accordance
11 with subsection (c)(2) and must provide reasonable
12 notice and opportunity for public comment in ac-
13 cordance with subsection (c)(3).

14 “(3) NOTICE OF INTENTION.—The eligible
15 agency must submit to the Secretary a notice of in-
16 tention to impose a passenger facility fee under this
17 subsection. This shall include—

18 “(A) information that the Secretary may
19 require by regulation on each project for which 20 authority to impose a passenger facility fee is
21 sought;

22 “(B) the amount of revenue from pas-
23 senger facility fees that is proposed to be col-
24 lected for each project; and

1                   “(C) the level of the passenger facility fee
2                   that is proposed.

3                   “(4) ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF RECEIPT AND IN-
4                   DICATION OF OBJECTION.—The Secretary shall ac-
5                   knowledge receipt of the notice and indicate any ob-
6                   jection to the imposition of a passenger facility fee
7                   under this subsection for any project identified in
8                   the notice within 30 days after receipt of the eligible
9                   agency’s notice.

10                  “(5) AUTHORITY TO IMPOSE FEE.—Unless the
11                  Secretary objects within 30 days after receipt of the 12                  eligible agency’s notice, the eligible agency is author-
13                  ized to impose a passenger facility fee in accordance 14                  with the terms of its notice under this subsection.

15                  “(6) DEADLINE.—Not later than 180 days
16                  after the date of enactment of this subsection, the 17                  Secretary shall propose such regulations as may be
18                  necessary to carry out this subsection.

19                  “(7) SUNSET.—This subsection shall not be in
20                  effect 3 years after the date of issuance of regula-
21                  tions to carry out this subsection.

22                  “(8) ACKNOWLEDGEMENT NOT AN ORDER.—An
23                  acknowledgement issued under paragraph (4) shall
24                  not be considered an order of the Secretary issued
25                  under section 46110.”.

1 the establishment of helicopter and tiltrotor ap-
 2 proach and departure procedures using advanced
 3 technologies, such as the Global Positioning System
 4 and automatic dependent surveillance, to permit op-
 5 erations in adverse weather conditions to meet the
 6 needs of air ambulance services.

7 “(5) ADDITIONAL AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL-
 8 LERS.—Out of amounts appropriated under para-
 9 graph (1), such sums as may be necessary may be
 10 expended to hire additional air traffic controllers in 11 order to meet increasing air traffic demands and to 12 address the anticipated increase in the retirement of 13 experienced air traffic controllers.

14 “(6) COMPLETION OF ALASKA AVIATION SAFE-
 15 TY PROJECT.—Out of amounts appropriated under 16 paragraph (1), $6,000,000 may be expended for the 17 completion of the Alaska aviation safety project with
 18 respect to the 3 dimensional mapping of Alaska’s
 19 main aviation corridors.

20 “(7) AVIATION SAFETY REPORTING SYSTEM.—
 21 Out of amounts appropriated under paragraph (1),
 22 $3,400,000 may be expended on the Aviation Safety
 23 Reporting System.

24 (b) AIRLINE DATA AND ANALYSIS.—There is author-
 25 ized to be appropriated to the Secretary of Transportation,

1 (c) CLARIFICATION OF APPLICABILITY OF PFCS TO
2 MILITARY CHARTERS.—Section 40117(e)(2) is
3 amended—

4 (1) by striking the period at the end of sub-
5 paragraph (C) and inserting a semicolon;

6 (2) by striking “and” at the end of subpara-
7 graph (D);

8 (3) by striking the period at the end of sub-
9 paragraph (E) and inserting “; and”; and

10 (4) by inserting after subparagraph (E) the fol-
11 lowing:

12 “(F) enplaning at an airport if the pas-
13 senger did not pay for the air transportation
14 which resulted in such enplanement due to
15 charter arrangements and payment by the De-
16 partment of Defense.”.

17 (d) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—Section 40117 is
18 amended—

19 (1) in subsection (a)(3)(C) by striking “for 20 costs” and inserting “A project”;

21 (2) in subsection (a)(3)(C) by striking the semi-
22 colon and inserting a period; and

23 (3) in subsection (e)(2)(C) by striking the pe-
24 riod and inserting a semicolon.

1 SEC. 407. FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT OF PASSENGER FACIL-
2 ITY FEES.

3 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 40117 is further amended
4 by adding at the end the following:

5 “(m) FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT OF FEES.—

6 “(1) HANDLING OF FEES.—

7 “(A) PLACEMENT OF FEES IN ESCROW AC-
8 COUNT.—Subject to subparagraph (B), pas-
9 senger facility revenue held by an air carrier or
10 any of its agents shall be segregated from the 11 carrier’s cash and other assets and placed in an
12 escrow account for the benefit of the eligible
13 agencies entitled to such revenue.

14 “(B) ALTERNATIVE METHOD OF COMPLI-
15 ANCE.—Instead of placing amounts in an es-
16 crow account under subparagraph (A), an air
17 carrier may provide to the eligible agency a let-
18 ter of credit, bond, or other form of adequate
19 and immediately available security in an
20 amount equal to estimated remittable passenger
21 facility fees for 180 days, to be assessed against
22 later audit, upon which security the eligible
23 agency shall be entitled to draw automatically,
24 without necessity of any further legal or judicial
25 action to effectuate foreclosure.

1           “(3) TRUST FUND STATUS.—If an air carrier or
2           its agent commingles passenger facility revenue in
3           violation of the subsection, the trust fund status of
4           such revenue shall not be defeated by an inability of
5           any party to identify and trace the precise funds in
6           the accounts of the air carrier.

7           “(4) PROHIBITION.—An air carrier and its
8           agents may not grant to any third party any secu-
9           rity or other interest in passenger facility revenue.

10           “(5) COMPENSATION TO ELIGIBLE ENTITIES.—
11           An air carrier that fails to comply with any require-
12           ment of this subsection, or otherwise unnecessarily
13           causes an eligible entity to expend funds, through
14           litigation or otherwise, to recover or retain payment
15           of passenger facility revenue to which the eligible en-
16           tity is otherwise entitled shall be required to com-
17           pensate the eligible agency for the costs so incurred.

18           “(6) INTEREST ON AMOUNTS.—An air carrier
19           that collects passenger facility fees is entitled to re-
20           ceive the interest on passenger facility fee accounts,
21           if the accounts are established and maintained in
22           compliance with this subsection.”.

23           (b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

1 (1) IN GENERAL.—The amendment made by
2 subsection (a) shall take effect 60 days after the
3 date of enactment of this Act.

4 (2) EXISTING REGULATIONS.—Beginning 60
5 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the
6 provisions of section 158.49 of title 14, Code of Fed-
7 eral Regulations, that permit the commingling of
8 passenger facility fees with other air carrier revenue
9 shall have no force or effect.

10 SEC. 408. GOVERNMENT CONTRACTING FOR AIR TRANS-
11 PORTATION.

12 (a) GOVERNMENT-FINANCED AIR TRANSPOR-
13 TATION.—Section 40118(f)(2) is amended by inserting be-
14 fore the period at the end the following: “, except that 15 it shall not include a contract for the transportation by 16 air of passengers”.

17 (b) AIRLIFT SERVICE.—Section 41106(b) is amended
18 by inserting after “military department” the following: “,
19 or by a person that has contracted with the Secretary of 20 Defense or the Secretary of a military department,”.

21 SEC. 409. OVERFLIGHTS OF NATIONAL PARKS.

22 (a) AIR TOUR MANAGEMENT ACT CLARIFICA-
23 TIONS.—Section 40128 is amended—

1 (1) in subsection (a)(1) by inserting “, as de-
2 fined by this section,” after “lands” the first place
3 it appears;

4 (2) in subsections (b)(3)(A), (b)(3)(B), and
5 (b)(3)(C) by inserting “over a national park” after
6 “operations”;

7 (3) in subsection (b)(3)(D) by striking “at the 8 park” and inserting “over a national park”;

9 (4) in subsection (b)(3)(E) by inserting “over a
10 national park” after “operations” the first place it
11 appears;

12 (5) in subsections (c)(2)(A)(i) and (c)(2)(B) by
13 inserting “over a national park” after “operations”;

14 (6) in subsection (f)(1) by inserting “over a na-
15 tional park” after “operation”;

16 (7) in subsection (f)(4)(A)—

17 (A) by striking “commercial air tour oper-
18 ation” and inserting “commercial air tour oper-
19 ation over a national park”; and

20 (B) by striking “park, or over tribal
21 lands,” and inserting “park (except the Grand
22 Canyon National Park), or over tribal lands
23 (except those within or abutting the Grand
24 Canyon National Park),”; and

1 (8) in subsection (f)(4)(B) by inserting “over a
2 national park” after “operation”.

3 (b) GRAND CANYON NATIONAL PARK SPECIAL
4 FLIGHT RULES AREA OPERATION CURFEW.—

5 (1) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the
6 Federal Aviation Administration may not restrict
7 commercial Special Flight Rules Area operations in
8 the Dragon and Zuni Point corridors of the Grand
9 Canyon National Park during the period beginning
10 1-hour after sunrise and ending 1-hour before sun-
11 set, unless required for aviation safety purposes.

12 (2) EFFECT ON EXISTING REGULATIONS.—Be-
13 ginning on the date of enactment of this Act, section
14 93.317 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations,
15 shall not be in effect.

16 SEC. 410. COLLABORATIVE DECISION MAKING PILOT PRO-
17 GRAM.

18 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 401 is amended by add-
19 ing at the end the following:

20 “§ 40129. Collaborative decision making pilot pro-
21 gram

22 “(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—Not later than 90 days after
23 the date of enactment of this section, the Administrator
24 of the Federal Aviation Administration shall establish a

1 collaborative decisionmaking pilot program in accordance
2 with this section.

3 “(b) DURATION.—Except as provided in subsection
4 (k), the pilot program shall be in effect for a period of 5 2 years.

6 “(c) GUIDELINES.—

7 “(1) ISSUANCE.—The Administrator shall issue
8 guidelines concerning the pilot program. Such guide-
9 lines, at a minimum, shall define the criteria and
10 process for determining when a capacity reduction
11 event exists that warrants the use of collaborative
12 decisionmaking among carriers at airports partici-
13 pating in the pilot program and that prescribe the 14 methods of communication to be implemented among
15 carriers during such an event.

16 “(2) VIEWS.—The Administrator may obtain
17 the views of interested parties in issuing the guide-
18 lines.

19 “(d) EFFECT OF DETERMINATION OF EXISTENCE OF
20 CAPACITY REDUCTION EVENT.—Upon a determination by
21 the Administrator that a capacity reduction event exists,
22 the Administrator may authorize air carriers and foreign
23 air carriers operating at an airport participating in the 24 pilot program to communicate for a period of time not
25 to exceed 24 hours with each other concerning changes

1 in their respective flight schedules in order to use air traf-
2 fic capacity most effectively. The Administration shall fa-
3 cilitate and monitor such communication.

4 “(e) SELECTION OF PARTICIPATING AIRPORTS.—Not
5 later than 30 days after the date on which the Adminis-
6 trator establishes the pilot program, the Administrator
7 shall select 3 airports to participate in the pilot program
8 from among the most capacity constrained airports in the
9 country based on the Administration’s Airport Capacity
10 Benchmark Report 2001 or more recent data on airport
11 capacity that is available to the Administrator. The Ad-
12 ministrator shall select an airport for participation in the 13 pilot program if the Administrator determines that col-
14 laborative decisionmaking among air carriers and foreign
15 air carriers would reduce delays at the airport and have
16 beneficial effects on reducing delays in the national air-
17 space system as a whole.

18 “(f) ELIGIBILITY OF AIR CARRIERS.—An air carrier
19 or foreign air carrier operating at an airport selected to
20 participate in the pilot program is eligible to participate
21 in the pilot program if the Administrator determines that
22 the carrier has the operational and communications capa-
23 bility to participate in the pilot program.

24 “(g) MODIFICATION OR TERMINATION OF PILOT
25 PROGRAM AT AN AIRPORT.—The Administrator may mod-

1 ify or end the pilot program at an airport before the term
2 of the pilot program has expired, or may ban an air carrier
3 or foreign air carrier from participating in the program,
4 if the Administrator determines that the purpose of the
5 pilot program is not being furthered by participation of
6 the airport or air carrier or if the Secretary of Transpor-
7 tation, in consultation with the Attorney General, finds
8 that the pilot program or the participation of an air car-
9 rier or foreign air carrier in the pilot program has had,
10 or is having, an adverse effect on competition among car-
11 riers.

12 “(h) ANTITRUST IMMUNITY.—

13 “(1) IN GENERAL.—Unless, within 5 days after
14 receiving notice from the Secretary of the Sec-
15 retary’s intention to exercise authority under this
16 subsection, the Attorney General submits to the Sec-
17 retary a written objection to such action, including
18 reasons for such objection, the Secretary may ex-
19 empt an air carrier’s or foreign air carrier’s activi-
20 ties that are necessary to participate in the pilot
21 program under this section from the antitrust laws
22 for the sole purpose of participating in the pilot pro-
23 gram. Such exemption shall not extend to any dis-
24 cussions, agreements, or activities outside the scope
25 of the pilot program.

1           “(2) ANTITRUST LAWS DEFINED.—In this sec-
2           tion, the term ‘antitrust laws’ has the meaning given
3           that term in the first section of the Clayton Act (15
4           U.S.C. 12).

5           “(i) CONSULTATION WITH ATTORNEY GENERAL.—
6           The Secretary shall consult with the Attorney General re-
7           garding the design and implementation of the pilot pro-
8           gram, including determining whether a limit should be set
9           on the number of occasions collaborative decisionmaking
10          could be employed during the initial 2-year period of the 11          pilot program.

12          “(j) EVALUATION.—

13                 “(1) IN GENERAL.—Before the expiration of
14                 the 2-year period for which the pilot program is au-
15                 thorized under subsection (b), the Administrator
16                 shall determine whether the pilot program has facili-
17                 tated more effective use of air traffic capacity and
18                 the Secretary, in consultation with the Attorney
19                 General, shall determine whether the pilot program
20                 has had an adverse effect on airline competition or 21                 the availability of air services to communities. The
22                 Administrator shall also examine whether capacity
23                 benefits resulting from the participation in the pilot
24                 program of an airport resulted in capacity benefits
25                 to other parts of the national airspace system.

1 out of the Airport and Airway Trust Fund established by
2 section 9502 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26
3 U.S.C. 9502), $3,971,000 for fiscal year 2004,
4 $4,045,000 for fiscal year 2005, $4,127,000 for fiscal year
5 2006, and $4,219,000 for fiscal year 2007 to gather air-
6 line data and conduct analyses of such data in the Bureau
7 of Transportation Statistics of the Department of Trans-
8 portation.

9 (c) HUMAN CAPITAL WORKFORCE STRATEGY.—

10 (1) DEVELOPMENT.—The Administrator of the
11 Federal Aviation Administration shall develop a
12 comprehensive human capital workforce strategy to
13 determine the most effective method for addressing
14 the need for more air traffic controllers that is called
15 for in the June 2002 report of the General Account-
16 ing Office.

17 (2) COMPLETION DATE.—The Administrator
18 shall complete development of the strategy not later
19 than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act.

20 (3) REPORT.—Not later than 30 days after the
21 date on which the strategy is completed, the Admin-
22 istrator shall transmit to Congress a report describ-
23 ing the strategy.

24 (d) GOALS AND OBJECTIVES OF AVIATION SAFETY
25 REPORTING SYSTEM.—Not later than 90 days after the

1           “(2) OBTAINING NECESSARY DATA.—The Ad-
2           ministrators may require participating air carriers
3           and airports to provide data necessary to evaluate
4           the pilot program’s impact.

5           “(k) EXTENSION OF PILOT PROGRAM.—At the end
6           of the 2-year period for which the pilot program is author-
7           ized, the Administrator may continue the pilot program
8           for an additional 2 years and expand participation in the 9           program to up to 7 additional airports if the Adminis-
10          trator determines pursuant to subsection (j) that the pilot
11          program has facilitated more effective use of air traffic
12          capacity and if the Secretary, in consultation with the At-
13          torney General, determines that the pilot program has had 14          no adverse effect on airline competition or the availability
15          of air services to communities. The Administrator shall se-
16          lect the additional airports to participate in the extended
17          pilot program in the same manner in which airports were 18          initially selected to participate.”

19          (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
20          chapter 401 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
21          lowing:

          “40129. Pilot program for improved collaborative decisionmaking during times of reduced capacity.”

1 SEC. 411. AVAILABILITY OF AIRCRAFT ACCIDENT SITE IN-
2 FORMATION.

3 (a) DOMESTIC AIR TRANSPORTATION.—Section
4 41113(b) is amended—

5 (1) in paragraph (16) by striking “the air car-
6 rier” the second place it appears; and

7 (2) by adding at the end the following:

8 “(17)(A) An assurance that, in the case of an
9 accident that results in significant damage to a man-
10 made structure or other property on the ground that
11 is not government-owned, the air carrier will
12 promptly provide notice, in writing, to the extent
13 practicable, directly to the owner of the structure or
14 other property about liability for any property dam-
15 age and means for obtaining compensation.

16 “(B) At a minimum, the written notice shall
17 advise an owner (i) to contact the insurer of the 18 property as the authoritative source for information
19 about coverage and compensation; (ii) to not rely on
20 unofficial information offered by air carrier rep-
21 resentatives about compensation by the air carrier
22 for accident-site property damage; and (iii) to obtain
23 photographic or other detailed evidence of property
24 damage as soon as possible after the accident, con-
25 sistent with restrictions on access to the accident
26 site.

1           “(18) An assurance that, in the case of an acci-
2           dent in which the National Transportation Safety
3           Board conducts a public hearing or comparable pro-
4           ceeding at a location greater than 80 miles from the
5           accident site, the air carrier will ensure that the pro-
6           ceeding is made available simultaneously by elec-
7           tronic means at a location open to the public at both
8           the origin city and destination city of the air car-
9           rier’s flight if that city is located in the United
10          States.”.

11          (b) FOREIGN AIR TRANSPORTATION.—Section 41313
12          is amended by adding at the end the following:

13                 “(17) NOTICE CONCERNING LIABILITY FOR
14                 MAN-MADE STRUCTURES.—

15                         “(A) IN GENERAL.—An assurance that, in
16                         the case of an accident that results in signifi-
17                         cant damage to a man-made structure or other
18                         property on the ground that is not government-
19                         owned, the foreign air carrier will promptly pro-
20                         vide notice, in writing, to the extent practicable,
21                         directly to the owner of the structure or other
22                         property about liability for any property dam-
23                         age and means for obtaining compensation.

24                         “(B) MINIMUM CONTENTS.—At a min-
25                         imum, the written notice shall advise an owner

1 (i) to contact the insurer of the property as the
 2 authoritative source for information about cov-
 3 erage and compensation; (ii) to not rely on un-
 4 official information offered by foreign air car-
 5 rier representatives about compensation by the
 6 foreign air carrier for accident-site property
 7 damage; and (iii) to obtain photographic or
 8 other detailed evidence of property damage as
 9 soon as possible after the accident, consistent
 10 with restrictions on access to the accident site.

11 “(18) SIMULTANEOUS ELECTRONIC TRANS-
 12 MISSION OF NTSB HEARING.—An assurance that, in
 13 the case of an accident in which the National Trans-
 14 portation Safety Board conducts a public hearing or
 15 comparable proceeding at a location greater than 80
 16 miles from the accident site, the foreign air carrier
 17 will ensure that the proceeding is made available si-
 18 multaneously by electronic means at a location open
 19 to the public at both the origin city and destination
 20 city of the foreign air carrier’s flight if that city is 21 located in the United States.”.

22 (c) UPDATE PLANS.—Air carriers and foreign air
 23 carriers shall update their plans under sections 41113 and
 24 41313 of title 49, United States Code, respectively, to re-
 25 flect the amendments made by subsections (a) and (b) of

1 this section not later than 90 days after the date of enact-
2 ment of this Act.

3 SEC. 412. SLOT EXEMPTIONS AT RONALD REAGAN WASH-
4 INGTON NATIONAL AIRPORT.

5 (a) BEYOND-PERIMETER EXEMPTIONS.—Section
6 41718(a) is amended by striking “12” and inserting “24”.

7 (b) WITHIN-PERIMETER EXEMPTIONS.—Section
8 41718(b) is amended—

9 (1) by striking “12” and inserting “20”; and

10 (2) by striking “that were designated as me-
11 dium hub or smaller airports”.

12 (c) LIMITATIONS.—

13 (1) GENERAL EXEMPTIONS.—Section
14 41718(c)(2) is amended by striking “two” and in-
15 sserting “3”.

16 (2) ALLOCATION OF WITHIN-PERIMETER EX-
17 EMPTIONS.—Section 41718(c)(3) is amended—

18 (A) in subparagraph (A)—

19 (i) by striking “four” and inserting
20 “six”; and

21 (ii) by striking “and” at the end;

22 (B) in subparagraph (B)—

23 (i) by striking “eight” and inserting
24 “ten”; and

1 (ii) by striking the period at the end
2 and inserting “; and”; and

3 (C) by adding at the end the following:

4 “(C) four shall be for air transportation to
5 airports without regard to their size.”.

6 (d) APPLICATION PROCEDURES.—Section 41718(d)
7 is amended to read as follows:

8 “(d) APPLICATION PROCEDURES.—The Secretary
9 shall establish procedures to ensure that all requests for 10 exemptions under this section are granted or denied within 11 90 days after the date on which the request is made.”.

12 (e) EFFECT OF PERIMETER RULES ON COMPETITION
13 AND AIR SERVICE.—

14 (1) IDENTIFICATION OF OTHER AIRPORTS.—

15 The Secretary of Transportation shall identify air-
16 ports (other than Ronald Reagan Washington Na-
17 tional Airport) that have imposed perimeter rules
18 like those in effect with respect to Ronald Reagan
19 Washington National Airport.

20 (2) LIMITATION ON APPLICABILITY.—This sub-

21 section does not apply to perimeter rules imposed by
22 Federal law.

23 (3) STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a

24 study of the effect that perimeter rules for airports
25 identified under paragraph (1) have on competition

1 and on air service to communities outside the perim-
2 eter.

3 (4) REPORT.—Not later than 120 days after
4 the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary
5 shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of 6 the study.

7 (f) EFFECT OF CHANGING DEFINITION OF COM-
8 MUTER AIR CARRIER.—

9 (1) STUDY.—The Secretary shall study the ef-
10 fects of changing the definition of commuter air car-
11 rier in regulations of the Federal Aviation Adminis-
12 tration to increase the maximum size of aircraft of 13 such carriers to 76 seats or less on air service to
14 small communities and on commuter air carriers op-
15 erating aircraft with 56 seats or less.

16 (2) REPORT.—Not later than 90 days after the
17 date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall 18 transmit to Congress a report on the results of the 19 study.

20 SEC. 413. NOTICE CONCERNING AIRCRAFT ASSEMBLY.

21 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 417 is
22 amended by adding at the end the following:

23 “§ 41722. Notice concerning aircraft assembly

24 “The Secretary of Transportation shall require, be-
25 ginning after the last day of the 1-year period following

1 the date of enactment of this section, an air carrier using
2 an aircraft to provide scheduled passenger air transpor-
3 tation to display a notice, on an information placard avail-
4 able to each passenger on the aircraft, that informs the
5 passengers of the nation in which the aircraft was finally
6 assembled.”.

7 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
8 chapter 417 is amended by striking the item relating to
9 section 41721 and inserting the following:

“41721. Reports by carriers on incidents involving animals during air transport.
“41722. Notice concerning aircraft assembly.”.

10 SEC. 414. SPECIAL RULE TO PROMOTE AIR SERVICE TO
11 SMALL COMMUNITIES.

12 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 417 is
13 further amended by adding at the end the following:

14 “§ 41723. Special rule to promote air service to small
15 communities

16 “In order to promote air service to small commu-
17 nities, the Secretary of Transportation shall permit an op-
18 erator of a turbine powered or multi-engine piston pow-
19 ered aircraft with 10 passenger seats or less (1) to provide
20 air transportation between an airport that is a non-hub
21 airport and another airport or between an airport that is
22 not a commercial service airport and another airport, and
23 (2) to sell individual seats on that aircraft at a negotiated
24 price, if the aircraft is otherwise operated in accordance

1 with parts 119 and 135 of title 14, Code of Federal Regu-
2 lations, and the air transportation is otherwise provided
3 in accordance with part 298 of such title 14.”.

4 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
5 chapter 417 is further amended by adding at the end the
6 following:

“41723. Special rule to promote air service to small communities.”.

7 SEC. 415. SMALL COMMUNITY AIR SERVICE.

8 (a) COMPENSATION GUIDELINES, LIMITATION, AND 9 CLAIMS.—

10 (1) PAYMENT OF PROMOTIONAL AMOUNTS.—

11 Section 41737(a)(2) is amended by inserting before
12 the period at the end “or may be paid directly to the 13 unit of local government having jurisdiction over the 14 eligible place served by the air carrier”.

15 (2) LOCAL SHARE.—Section 41737(a) is
16 amended by adding at the end the following:

17

18 “(3) PAYMENT OF COST BY LOCAL GOVERN-
19 MENT.—

20 “(A) GENERAL REQUIREMENT.—The
21 guidelines may require a unit of local govern-
22 ment having jurisdiction over an eligible place
23 that is less than 170 miles from a medium or
24 large hub or less than 75 miles from a small
25 hub or a State within the boundaries of which

1 the eligible place is located to pay 2.5 percent
2 in fiscal year 2005, 5 percent in fiscal year
3 2006, 7.5 percent in fiscal year 2007, and 10
4 percent in fiscal year 2008 of the amount of
5 compensation payable under this subchapter for
6 air transportation with respect to the eligible
7 place to ensure the continuation of that air
8 transportation.

9 “(B) WAIVER.—The Secretary may waive
10 the requirement, or reduce the amount, of a
11 payment from a unit of local government under
12 subparagraph (A) if the Secretary finds that—

13 “(i) the unit of local government lacks
14 the ability to pay; and

15 “(ii) the loss of essential air service to
16 the eligible place would have an adverse ef-
17 fect on the eligible place’s access to the na-
18 tional air transportation system.

19 “(C) DETERMINATION OF MILEAGE.—In
20 determining the mileage between the eligible
21 place and a hub under this paragraph, the Sec-
22 retary shall use the most commonly used high-
23 way route between the eligible place and the 24 hub.”.

1 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall
2 transmit to Congress a report on the long-term goals and
3 objectives of the Aviation Safety Reporting System and
4 how such system interrelates with other safety reporting
5 systems of the Federal Government.

6 SEC. 102. AIR NAVIGATION FACILITIES AND EQUIPMENT.

7 Section 48101 is amended—

8 (1) in subsection (a) by striking paragraphs (1)
9 through (5) and inserting the following:

10 “(1) $2,938,000,000 for fiscal year 2004;

11 “(2) $2,993,000,000 for fiscal year 2005;

12 “(3) $3,053,000,000 for fiscal year 2006; and

13 “(4) $3,110,000,000 for fiscal year 2007.”;

14 (2) by striking subsection (b);

15 (3) by redesignating (c) as subsection (b);

16 (4) by striking subsections (d) and (e) and in-
17 serting the following:

18 “(c) ENHANCED SAFETY AND SECURITY FOR AIR-
19 CRAFT OPERATIONS IN THE GULF OF MEXICO.—Of
20 amounts appropriated under subsection (a), such sums as
21 may be necessary for fiscal years 2004 through 2007 may 22 be used to expand and improve the safety, efficiency, and
23 security of air traffic control, navigation, low altitude com-
24 munications and surveillance, and weather services in the 25 Gulf of Mexico.

1           (3) AUTHORITY TO MAKE AGREEMENTS AND
2 INCUR OBLIGATIONS.—Section 41737(d) is
3 amended—

4           (A) by striking “(1) The Secretary” and
5 inserting the “The Secretary”; and

6           (B) by striking paragraph (2).

7           (b) AIRPORTS NOT RECEIVING SUFFICIENT SERV-
8 ICE.—Section 41743 is amended—

9           (1) in subsection (a) by striking “pilot”;

10          (2) in subsection (c)—

11           (A) by striking paragraph (3);

12           (B) by redesignating paragraphs (4) and
13 (5) as paragraphs (3) and (4), respectively; and

14           (C) in paragraph (4) (as so redesign-
15 ated)—

16           (i) by striking “and” at the end of 17 subparagraph (C);

18           (ii) by striking the period at the end
19 of subparagraph (D) and inserting “;
20 and”; and

21           (iii) by adding at the end the fol-
22 lowing:

23           “(E) the assistance can be used in the fis-
24 cal year in which it is received.”; and

25          (3) in subsection (f) by striking “pilot”.

1 (c) ESSENTIAL AIR SERVICE AUTHORIZATION.—Sec-
2 tion 41742 is amended—

3 (1) in subsection (a)(2) by striking
4 “$15,000,000” and inserting “$65,000,000”;

5 (2) by adding at the end of subsection (a) the
6 following:

7 “(3) AUTHORIZATION FOR ADDITIONAL
8 EMPLOYEES.—In addition to amounts author-
9 ized under paragraphs (1) and (2), there is au-
10 thorized to be appropriated such sums as may
11 be necessary for the Secretary of Transpor-
12 tation to hire and employ 4 additional employ-
13 ees for the office responsible for carrying out
14 the essential air service program.”; and

15 (3) by striking subsection (c).

16 (d) PROCESS FOR DISCONTINUING CERTAIN SUB-
17 SIDIES.—Section 41734 is amended by adding at the end
18 the following:

19 “(f) PROCESS FOR DISCONTINUING CERTAIN SUB-
20 SIDIES.—If the Secretary determines that no subsidy will
21 be provided to a carrier to provide essential air service
22 to an eligible place because the eligible place does not meet
23 the requirements of section 332 of the Department of
24 Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriations Act,
25 2000 (49 U.S.C. 41731 note; 113 Stat. 1022), the Sec-

1 retary shall notify the affected community that the subsidy
2 will cease but shall continue to provide the subsidy for 90
3 days after providing the notice to the community.”.

4 (e) JOINT PROPOSALS.—Section 41740 is amended
5 by inserting “, including joint fares,” after “joint pro-
6 posals”.

7 (f) COMMUNITY AND REGIONAL CHOICE PRO-
8 GRAM.—

9 (1) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter II of chapter
10 417 is amended by adding at the end the following:

11 “§ 41745. Community and regional choice program

12 “(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary of Transpor-
13 tation shall establish an alternate essential air service pilot
14 program in accordance with the requirements of this sec-
15 tion.

16 “(b) COMPENSATION TO ELIGIBLE PLACES.—In car-
17 rying out the program, the Secretary, instead of paying
18 compensation to an air carrier to provide essential air
19 service to an eligible place, may pay compensation directly
20 to a unit of local government having jurisdiction over the 21 eligible place or a State within the boundaries of which
22 the eligible place is located.

23 “(c) USE OF COMPENSATION.—A unit of local gov-
24 ernment or State receiving compensation for an eligible

1 place under the program shall use the compensation for
2 any of the following purposes:

3           “(1) To provide assistance to an air carrier to
4 provide scheduled air service to and from the eligible
5 place, without being subject to the requirements of 6 41732(b).

7           “(2) To provide assistance to an air carrier to 8 provide on-demand air taxi service to and from the
9 eligible place.

10           “(3) To provide assistance to a person to pro-
11 vide scheduled or on-demand surface transportation
12 to and from the eligible place and an airport in an-
13 other place.

14           “(4) In combination with other units of local
15 government in the same region, to provide transpor-
16 tation services to and from all the eligible places in
17 that region at an airport or other transportation
18 center that can serve all the eligible places in that 19 region.

20           “(5) To purchase aircraft, or a fractional share
21 in aircraft, to provide transportation to and from the
22 eligible place.

23           “(6) To pay for other transportation or related
24 services that the Secretary may permit.

1       “(d) FRACTIONALLY OWNED AIRCRAFT.—Notwith-
 2 standing any other provision of law, only those operating
 3 rules that relate to an aircraft that is fractionally owned
 4 apply when an aircraft described in subsection (c)(5) is
 5 used to provide transportation described in subsection
 6 (c)(5).

7       “(e) APPLICATIONS.—

8           “(1) IN GENERAL.—A unit of local government
 9 or State seeking to participate in the program for an
 10 eligible place shall submit to the Secretary an appli-
 11 cation in such form and containing such information
 12 as the Secretary may require.

13           “(2) REQUIRED INFORMATION.—At a min-
 14 imum, the application shall include—

15           “(A) a statement of the amount of com-
 16 pensation required; and

17           “(B) a description of how the compensa-
 18 tion will be used.

19       “(f) PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENTS.—

20           “(1) ELIGIBLE PLACES.—An eligible place for
 21 which compensation is received under the program
 22 in a fiscal year shall not be eligible to receive in that
 23 fiscal year the essential air service that it would oth-
 24 erwise be entitled to under this subchapter.

1           “(2) GOVERNMENTAL ENTITIES.—A unit of
2           local government or State receiving compensation for
3           an eligible place under the program in a fiscal year
4           shall not be required to pay the 10 percent local
5           share described in 41737(a)(3) in such fiscal year.

6           “(g) SUBSEQUENT PARTICIPATION.—A unit of local
7           government participating in the program under this sec-
8           tion in a fiscal year shall not be prohibited from partici-
9           pating in the basic essential air service program under this
10          chapter in a subsequent fiscal year if such unit is other-
11          wise eligible to participate in such program.

12          “(h) FUNDING.—Amounts appropriated or otherwise
13          made available to carry out the essential air service pro-
14          gram under this subchapter shall be available to carry out
15          this section.”.

16          (2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis
17          for chapter 417 is amended by inserting after the
18          item relating to section 41744 the following:

          “41745. Community and regional choice program.”.

19   SEC. 416. PROTECTION OF EMPLOYEES PROVIDING AIR
20                           SAFETY INFORMATION.

21          Section 42121 is amended—

22                  (1) by redesignating subsection (e) as sub-
23                  section (f); and

24                  (2) by inserting after subsection (d) the fol-
25                  lowing:

1           “(e) ACTION IN DISTRICT COURT.—If the Secretary
2 has not issued a final order within the time period estab-
3 lished by subsection (b)(3) with respect to a complaint and
4 there is no showing that the delay is due to the bad faith
5 of the complainant, the complainant may bring an action
6 at law or equity for de novo review of the complaint in
7 the appropriate district court of the United States. The 8 district court shall have jurisdiction over the action with-
9 out regard to the amount in controversy. The action shall
10 be subject to the standards of proof provided in subsection
11 (b)(2)(B).”.

12 SEC. 417. TYPE CERTIFICATES.

13           (a) AGREEMENTS TO PERMIT USE OF CERTIFICATES
14 BY OTHER PERSONS.—Section 44704(a) is amended by
15 adding at the end the following:

16           “(3) If the holder of a type certificate agrees to per-
17 mit another person to use the certificate to manufacture
18 a new aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance, the
19 holder shall provide the other person with written evi-
20 dence, in a form acceptable to the Administrator, of that
21 agreement. A person may manufacture a new aircraft, air-
22 craft engine, propeller, or appliance based on a type cer-
23 tificate only if the person is the holder of the type certifi-
24 cate or has permission from the holder.”.

1 (b) CERTIFICATION OF PRODUCTS MANUFACTURED
2 IN FOREIGN NATIONS.—Section 44704 is further amend-
3 ed by adding at the end the following:

4 “(e) CERTIFICATION OF PRODUCTS MANUFACTURED
5 IN FOREIGN NATIONS.—In order to ensure safety, the Ad-
6 ministrator shall spend at least the same amount of time
7 and perform a no-less-thorough review in certifying, or
8 validating the certification of, an aircraft, aircraft engine,
9 propeller, or appliance manufactured in a foreign nation
10 as the regulatory authorities of that nation employ when 11 the authorities certify, or validate the certification of, an
12 aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance manufac-
13 tured in the United States.”.

14 SEC. 418. DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATES.

15 (a) GENERAL AUTHORITY TO ISSUE CERTIFI-
16 CATES.—Effective on the last day of the 7-year period be-
17 ginning on the date of enactment of this Act, section
18 44702(a) is amended by inserting “design organization
19 certificates,” after “airman certificates,”.

20 (b) DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATES.—

21 (1) PLAN.—Not later than 3 years after the
22 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator of
23 the Federal Aviation Administration shall transmit
24 to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Trans-
25 portation of the Senate and the Committee on

1 Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of
 2 Representatives a plan for the development and
 3 oversight of a system for certification of design orga-
 4 nizations to certify compliance with the requirements
 5 and minimum standards prescribed under section
 6 44701(a) of title 49, United States Code, for the
 7 type certification of aircraft, aircraft engines, propel-
 8 lers, or appliances.

9 (2) ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATES.—Section
 10 44704 is further amended by adding at the end the
 11 following:

12 “(f) DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATES.—

13 “(1) ISSUANCE.—Beginning 7 years after the
 14 date of enactment of this subsection, the Adminis-
 15 trator may issue a design organization certificate to
 16 a design organization to authorize the organization
 17 to certify compliance with the requirements and min-
 18 imum standards prescribed under section 44701(a)
 19 for the type certification of aircraft, aircraft engines,
 20 propellers, or appliances.

21 “(2) APPLICATIONS.—On receiving an applica-
 22 tion for a design organization certificate, the Admin-
 23 istrator shall examine and rate the design organiza-
 24 tion submitting the application, in accordance with
 25 regulations to be prescribed by the Administrator, to

1 determine whether the design organization has ade-
2 quate engineering, design, and testing capabilities,
3 standards, and safeguards to ensure that the prod-
4 uct being certificated is properly designed and man-
5 ufactured, performs properly, and meets the regula-
6 tions and minimum standards prescribed under sec-
7 tion 44701(a).

8 “(3) ISSUANCE OF TYPE CERTIFICATES BASED
9 ON DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATION.—On re-
10 ceiving an application for a type certificate under
11 subsection (a) that is accompanied by a certification
12 of compliance by a design organization certificated
13 under this subsection, instead of conducting an inde-
14 pendent investigation under subsection (a), the Ad-
15 ministrator may issue the type certificate based on
16 the certification of compliance.

17 “(4) PUBLIC SAFETY.—The Administrator shall
18 include in a design organization certificate issued
19 under this subsection terms required in the interest
20 of safety.”.

21 (c) REINSPECTION AND REEXAMINATION.—Section
22 44709(a) is amended by inserting “design organization,
23 production certificate holder,” after “appliance,”.

1 “(d) OPERATIONAL BENEFITS OF WAKE VORTEX
2 ADVISORY SYSTEM.—Of amounts appropriated under sub-
3 section (a), $20,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004
4 through 2007 may be used to document and demonstrate
5 the operational benefits of a wake vortex advisory system.

6 “(e) GROUND-BASED PRECISION NAVIGATIONAL
7 AIDS.—Of amounts appropriated under subsection (a),
8 $20,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 to 2007 may
9 be used to establish a program for the installation, oper-
10 ation, and maintenance of a closed-loop precision approach
11 aid designed to improve aircraft accessibility at moun-
12 tainous airports with limited land if the approach aid is 13 able to provide curved and segmented approach guidance
14 for noise abatement purposes and has been certified or 15 approved by the Administrator.”; and

16 (6) in subsection (f)—

17 (A) by striking “for fiscal years beginning
18 after September 30, 2000”; and

19 (B) by inserting “may be used” after “nec-
20 essary”.

21 SEC. 103. AIRPORT PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT AND
22 NOISE COMPATIBILITY PLANNING AND PRO-
23 GRAMS.

24 (a) AUTHORIZATION.—Section 48103 is amended—

1 (d) PROHIBITIONS.—Section 44711(a)(7) is amended
2 by striking “agency” and inserting “agency, design orga-
3 nization certificate, ”.

4 (e) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

5 (1) SECTION HEADING.—Section 44704 is
6 amended by striking the section designation and
7 heading and inserting the following:

8 “§ 44704. Type certificates, production certificates,
9 airworthiness certificates, and design or-
10 ganization certificates”.

11 (2) CHAPTER ANALYSIS.—The analysis for
12 chapter 447 is amended by striking the item relating 13 to section 44704 and inserting the following:

“44704. Type certificates, production certificates, airworthiness certificates, and design organization certificates.”.

14 SEC. 419. COUNTERFEIT OR FRAUDULENTLY REP-
15 RESENTED PARTS VIOLATIONS.

16 Section 44726(a)(1) is amended—

17 (1) by striking “or” at the end of subparagraph
18 (A);

19 (2) by redesignating subparagraph (B) as sub-
20 paragraph (C);

21 (3) by inserting after subparagraph (A) the fol-
22 lowing:

23 “(B) whose certificate is revoked under
24 subsection (b); or”; and

1 (4) in subparagraph (C) (as redesignated by
2 paragraph (2) of this section) by striking “convicted
3 of such a violation.” and inserting “described in sub-
4 paragraph (A) or (B).”.

5 SEC. 420. RUNWAY SAFETY STANDARDS.

6 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 447 is amended by add-
7 ing at the end the following:

8 “§ 44727. Runway safety areas

9 “An airport owner or operator shall not be required
10 to reduce the length of a runway or declare the length
11 of a runway to be less than the actual pavement length
12 in order to meet standards of the Federal Aviation Admin-
13 istration applicable to runway safety areas.”.

14 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
15 chapter 447 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
16 lowing:

“44727. Runway safety areas.”.

17 SEC. 421. AVAILABILITY OF MAINTENANCE INFORMATION.

18 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 447 is further amended
19 by adding at the end the following:

20 “§ 44728. Availability of maintenance information

21 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Fed-
22 eral Aviation Administration shall continue in effect the
23 requirement of section 21.50(b) of title 14, Code of Fed-
24 eral Regulations, that the holder of a design approval—

1           “(1) shall prepare and furnish at least one set
2 of complete instructions for continued airworthiness
3 as prescribed in such section to the owner of each
4 type of aircraft, aircraft engine, or propeller upon its
5 delivery or upon the issuance of the first standard
6 airworthiness certificate for the affected aircraft,
7 whichever occurs later; and

8           “(2) thereafter shall make the instructions, and
9 any changes thereto, available to any other person
10 required by parts 1 through 199 of title 14, Code of
11 Federal Regulations, to comply with any of the 12 terms of the instructions.

13       “(b) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the following
14 definitions apply:

15           “(1) MAKE AVAILABLE.—The term ‘make avail-
16 able’ means providing at a cost not to exceed the 17 cost of preparation and distribution.

18           “(2) DESIGN APPROVAL.—The term ‘design ap-
19 proval’ means a type certificate, supplemental type
20 certificate, amended type certificate, parts manufac-
21 turer approval, technical standard order authoriza-
22 tion, and any other action as determined by the Ad-
23 ministrator pursuant to subsection (c)(2).

25 WORTHINESS.—The term ‘instructions for continued

1       airworthiness’ means any information (and any
2       changes to such information) considered essential to
3       continued airworthiness that sets forth the methods,
4       techniques, and practices for performing mainte-
5       nance and alteration on civil aircraft, aircraft en-
6       gines, propellers, appliances or any part installed
7       thereon. Such information may include maintenance,
8       repair, and overhaul manuals, standard practice
9       manuals, service bulletins, service letters, or similar
10      documents issued by a design approval holder.

11      “(c) RULEMAKING.—The Administrator shall con-
12     duct a rulemaking proceeding for the following purposes:

13           “(1) To determine the meaning of the phrase
14           ‘essential to continued airworthiness’ of the applica-
15           ble aircraft, aircraft engine, and propeller as that
16           term is used in parts 23 through 35 of title 14,
17           Code of Federal Regulations.

18           “(2) To determine if a design approval should
19           include, in addition to those approvals specified in 20           subsection (b)(2), any other activity in which per-
21           sons are required to have technical data approved by
22           the Administrator.

23           “(3) To revise existing rules to reflect the defi-
24           nition of design approval holder in subsections (b)(2)
25           and (c)(2).

1           “(4) To determine if design approval holders
2           that prepared instructions for continued airworthi-
3           ness or maintenance manuals before January 29,
4           1981, should be required to make the manuals avail-
5           able (including any changes thereto) to any person
6           required by parts 1 through 199 of title 14, Code of
7           Federal Regulations, to comply with any of the 8           terms of those manuals.

9           “(5) To require design approval holders that—

10           “(A) are operating an ongoing business
11           concern;

12           “(B) were required to produce mainte-
13           nance manuals or instructions for continued
14           airworthiness under section 21.50(b) of title 14,
15           Code of Federal Regulations; and

16           “(C) have not done so,
17           to prepare those documents and make them available
18           as required by this section not later than 1 year
19           after date on which the regulations are published.

20           “(6) To revise its rules to reflect the changes
21           made by this section.

22           “(d) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—

23           Nothing in this section shall be construed as requiring the 24           holder of a design approval to make available proprietary

1 information unless it is deemed essential to continued air-
2 worthiness.”.

3 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
4 chapter 447 is further amended by adding at the end the
5 following:

“44728. Availability of maintenance information.”.

6 SEC. 422. CERTIFICATE ACTIONS IN RESPONSE TO A SECU-
7 RITY THREAT.

8 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 461 is amended by add-
9 ing at the end the following:

10 “§ 46111. Certificate actions in response to a security
11 threat

12 “(a) ORDERS.—The Administrator of Federal Avia-
13 tion Administration shall issue an order amending, modi-
14 fying, suspending, or revoking any part of a certificate
15 issued under this title if the Administrator is notified by
16 the Under Secretary for Border and Transportation Secu-
17 rity of the Department of Homeland Security that the 18 holder of the certificate poses, or is suspected of posing,
19 a risk of air piracy or terrorism or a threat to airline or 20 passenger safety. If requested by the Under Secretary, the 21 order shall be effective immediately.

22 “(b) HEARINGS FOR CITIZENS.—An individual who
23 is a citizen of the United States who is adversely affected
24 by an order of the Administrator under subsection (a) is
25 entitled to a hearing on the record.

1           “(c) HEARINGS.—When conducting a hearing under
2 this section, the administrative law judge shall not be
3 bound by findings of fact or interpretations of laws and
4 regulations of the Administrator or the Under Secretary.

5           “(d) APPEALS.—An appeal from a decision of an ad-
6 ministrative law judge as the result of a hearing under
7 subsection (b) shall be made to the Transportation Secu-
8 rity Oversight Board established by section 115. The 9 Board shall establish a panel to review the decision. The 10 members of this panel (1) shall not be employees of the 11 Transportation Security Administration, (2) shall have the
12 level of security clearance needed to review the determina-
13 tion made under this section, and (3) shall be given access
14 to all relevant documents that support that determination.
15 The panel may affirm, modify, or reverse the decision.

16           “(e) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—A person substantially af-
17 fected by an action of a panel under subsection (d), or
18 the Under Secretary when the Under Secretary decides
19 that the action of the panel under this section will have
20 a significant adverse impact on carrying out this part, may 21 obtain judicial review of the order under section 46110.
22 The Under Secretary and the Administrator shall be made
23 a party to the judicial review proceedings. Findings of fact
24 of the panel are conclusive if supported by substantial evi-
25 dence.

1       “(f) EXPLANATION OF DECISIONS.—An individual
2 who commences an appeal under this section shall receive
3 a written explanation of the basis for the determination
4 or decision and all relevant documents that support that
5 determination to the maximum extent that the national
6 security interests of the United States and other applica-
7 ble laws permit.

8       “(g) CLASSIFIED EVIDENCE.—

9           “(1) IN GENERAL.—The Under Secretary, in
10 consultation with the Administrator, shall issue reg-
11 ulations to establish procedures by which the Under 12 Secretary, as part of a hearing conducting under
13 this section, may substitute an unclassified summary
14 of classified evidence upon the approval of the ad-
15 ministrative law judge.

16           “(2) APPROVAL AND DISAPPROVAL OF SUM-
17 MARIES.—Under the procedures, an administrative
18 law judge shall—

19           “(A) approve a summary if the judge finds
20 that it is sufficient to enable the certificate
21 holder to appeal an order issued under sub-
22 section (a); or

23           “(B) disapprove a summary if the judge
24 finds that it is not sufficient to enable the cer-
25 tificate holder to appeal such an order.

1           “(3) MODIFICATIONS.—If an administrative law
2 judge disapproves a summary under paragraph
3 (2)(B), the judge shall direct the Under Secretary to
4 modify the summary and resubmit the summary for
5 approval.

6           “(4) INSUFFICIENT MODIFICATIONS.—If an ad-
7 ministrative law judge is unable to approve a modi-
8 fied summary, the order issued under subsection (a)
9 that is the subject of the hearing shall be set aside
10 unless the judge finds that such a result—

11                   “(A) would likely cause serious and irrep-
12 arable harm to the national security; or

13                   “(B) would likely cause death or serious
14 bodily injury to any person.

15           “(5) SPECIAL PROCEDURES.—If an administra-
16 tive law judge makes a finding under subparagraph
17 (A) or (B) of paragraph (4), the hearing shall pro-
18 ceed without an unclassified summary provided to
19 the certificate holder. In such a case, subject to pro-
20 cedures established by regulation by the Under Sec-
21 retary in consultation with the Administrator, the
22 administrative law judge shall appoint a special at-
23 torney to assist the accused by—

24                   “(A) reviewing in camera the classified evi-
25 dence; and

1 “(B) challenging, through an in camera
2 proceeding, the veracity of the evidence con-
3 tained in the classified information.”.

4 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
5 chapter 461 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
6 lowing:

“46111. Certificate actions in response to a security threat.”.

7 SEC. 423. FLIGHT ATTENDANT CERTIFICATION.

8 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 447 is further amended
9 by adding at the end the following:

10 “§ 44729. Flight attendant certification

11 “(a) CERTIFICATE REQUIRED.—

12 “(1) IN GENERAL.—No person may serve as a
13 flight attendant aboard an aircraft of an air carrier
14 unless that person holds a certificate of dem-
15 onstrated proficiency from the Administrator of the 16 Federal Aviation Administration. Upon the request
17 of the Administrator or an authorized representative
18 of the National Transportation Safety Board or an-
19 other Federal agency, a person who holds such a
20 certificate shall present the certificate for inspection
21 within a reasonable period of time after the date of 22 the request.

23 “(2) SPECIAL RULE FOR CURRENT FLIGHT AT-
24 TENDANTS.—An individual serving as a flight at-
25 tendant on the effective date of this section may

I forwarded it to him and asked; I'm guessing no because the video quality would decline so much as the picture size was increased, but I'm not sure. I'm getting on a plane in a few mins and am not in the best position to coordinate.

If John Edwards running for president isn't enough, now we have one of the leading asbestos lawyers in Madison County running for Senate. John Simmons is part of the Simmons Law Firm, which won the $250 million jury verdict against US Steel.

EDWARDSVILLE LAWYER SEEKS DEMOCRATIC SENATE NOMINATION

* John Simmons, known for asbestos litigation, is seeking the seat held by Republican Peter Fitzgerald.

A Metro East-area lawyer best known for winning multimillion-dollar lawsuits involving asbestos exposure is seeking the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

John Simmons, 35, is one of seven Democrats said to be seeking to succeed Republican Peter Fitzgerald, who has announced he will not seek re-election next year. Simmons, of Edwardsville, is the only announced Democratic candidate from the downstate area.

"The bottom line is I have not formed a committee yet," Simmons said Friday. "I'm still in the early stages."

The primary is in March, the general election in November next year.

Simmons declined to talk in detail about issues, saying he wanted to spend the weekend to "get my ducks in a row." He said he did not think his lack of political experience will hurt his candidacy. The only election he has won was as student body president at Southern Illinois University Edwardsville.

"We've got people flying airplanes into buildings and a budget deficit," Simmons said. "So I'm not sure electing someone who's been elected before gives them more credibility than me."

Simmons may be the only downstate candidate, but 70 percent of the primary votes will come from the Chicago area, said independent political analyst Don Rose.

And though Simmons says he will spend what is needed to get elected, Rose stressed that the record of wealthy candidates who financed the bulk of their campaigns is not good. Fitzgerald spent $16 million, much of it his own money, to win the U.S. Senate seat, but he also had a political base as a state senator, Rose pointed out.

Simmons in recent months has worked to revive the wrestling program at SIUE. He also has been identified as the man who donated $500,000 in stock in the newly formed Alton Steel Co. to eight Madison County churches, though Simmons himself has declined to comment on the donation.

His law office is in East Alton. He lives in Edwardsville with his wife and four children, who range in age from 3 to 11.

In March, Simmons' firm won $250 million for a Gary, Ind., man suffering from mesothelioma, a disease caused by asbestos exposure. The case was later settled for less than $50 million. Simmons, who grew up in the Metro East area, opened his practice in 1996.

Other Democratic candidates in the race include Illinois Comptroller Dan Hynes, Chicago businessman Blair Hull, health care executive Joyce Washington, former Chicago Board of Education chief Gery Chico, state Sen. Barack Obama of Chicago and Cook County Treasurer Maria Pappas.

Chris Mather, a spokesman for Hynes, stressed that Hynes is the only candidate in the race who has run and won statewide.

"He not only has experience, but a political track record," she said.

Hull, a former high school math teacher who built an options trading company, has never held elective office. Susan Lagana, Hull's spokesman, said Simmons' entry into the race isn't likely to alter Hull's campaign strategy.

As for the Republicans, the decision by former Gov. Jim Edgar to stay out of the race has left the GOP without a clear front-runner.

Brett,

I have a question about the signing of the commission. I was told that once the commission is signed by the President I can take the oath--that I do not have to have the commission in hand.

Tomorrow I am having an office going-away party (9:30 a.m.-10:30 a.m.). If my commission has been signed, I want my PJ to give me the oath at my party. I will have a formal investiture later. I have not gotten any word yet that the commission has been signed. If you hear anything, can you let me know so I can go ahead with the oath. My parents are coming to my party and I would really like to have them present for the oath.

My home number is [ PRA 6 ]

Thanks.

Following up on Jen's note, I am told that although they requested the OSTP/OHS MOU last year we did not provide a copy. For the reasons that've been referenced, and unless Brett is aware of a different practice used for similar requests for MOUs from other EOP offices, I concur that neither of the 2 HSC MOUs shld be provided as part of the EOP response.

A few points:

-Answer to Q 19 states gives details of a signed MOU b/w OHS and OSTP and provides a copy of the MOU (and the next Q discusses a HSC/NSC MOU). You should check with Brett on whether it is appropriate to disclose such internal agreements. I also seem to recall other MOU type questions in other places in the list of questions.

-Typo in first sentence in Q 21 answer.

-Q 98 states that OA counsel (Greenstone) is going to suggest an answer to the question of whether Gen. Gordon supports the $2 mill "cut" in resources.

I would think this is a HSC/WHCO item to answer. IF it is answered (a question for Jennifer as it essentially asks for testimony from someone who we would not normally have testify/answer written questions), at most I would think the answer would simply not address the views of Gen. Gordon and state something like "The EOP budget proposal provides the necessary resources for HSC to advise and assist the President. The $2 mill "cut" reference is incorrect because . . . . ($2 mill reflects appropriate adjustments as a result of . . . . creation of DHS, etc. -- whatever the case is.)"

This part of the story was interesting:

President Bush, for his part, has already shown a desire to continue the Fourth Circuit's tilt to the right but also to increase the number of minorities on the bench. The court's jurisdiction has the highest minority population of any in the country. Yet it didn't get its first African-American until 2001, when Mr. Bush nominated Roger Gregory. Judge Gregory was something of an anomalous appointment for Bush: He was tapped for the bench by President Clinton, during a Senate recess, after strong opposition from Republicans. Bush later reaffirmed the appointment, which was temporary. The court's three current vacancies have been the subject of far more acrimony, again going back to the Clinton era. Republican senators led by Jesse Helms of North Carolina blocked the nomination of four Clinton nominees to the court. Senate Democrats have since returned the favor, blocking the nomination of Terrence Boyle, a former aide to Sen. Helms. President Bush's two most recent nominations - two conservative African-Americans, including Allyson Duncan, who would be the court's first black woman - stand a better chance of getting confirmed.

A court of civility and controversial conservatism

REV_00400571

The Fourth Circuit's rulings cast a wide influence

By Seth Stern <

<http://www.csmonitor.com/cgi-bin/encryptmail.pl?ID=D3E5F4E8A0D3F4E5F2EE>> |
Staff writer of The Christian Science Monitor

RICHMOND, VA. - The federal court that sits on a gentle slope down here from the former capitol of the Confederacy is nothing if not genteel. The judges who sit on the court are so rooted in civility, in fact, that they step down from the bench after every oral argument and shake hands with attorneys.

It's an atmosphere where southern manners are as common as lengthy legal briefs.

Yet the friendliness in the courtroom perhaps belies the gravity of its decisions: The Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals is at once one of the most influential - and controversial - courts in the country.

For a decade, nominations to this court have spurred some of the most bitter Senate confirmation battles - and are doing so again. The Fourth Circuit rulings, and the conservative law clerks who help write them, often wind up at the Supreme Court, shaping the most sensitive legal issues of the day.

Perhaps most important, should, as expected, a vacancy open with the retirement of a Supreme Court justice at the end of the court's term next month, one of the 4th Circuit's judges might end up making the journey north to Washington.

Two of its 12 sitting judges - J. Michael Luttig and J. Harvie Wilkinson - may be on Bush's short list of Supreme Court nominees.

Messrs. Luttig and Wilkinson are just two of the judicial heavyweights on this conservative-dominated court that hears federal trial court appeals from a five-state region extending from Maryland to South Carolina.

"While you know you are dealing with judges with a conservative ideology, you also know you're dealing with judges who are extremely conscientious and open to quality arguments," says Rod Smolla, dean of the University of Richmond's law school.

That conservatism is evident in rulings scaling back everything from employment-discrimination claims to criminal procedural protections such as the Miranda warning. Death-row inmates here have one of the lowest success rates in getting their appeals heard of any of the 12 federal circuits.

Such novel positions often invite Supreme Court review, says Dave Douglas, a law professor at William & Mary law school in Williamsburg, Va. They also make the court a favorite for conservative lawyers. Observers say the court's stances on law and order help explain why the Justice Department chose to hold prominent post-Sept. 11 terrorist suspects within the Fourth Circuit's territory.

Both alleged 20th hijacker Zacarias Moussaoui and American Taliban John Walker Lindh were indicted in a federal court in eastern Virginia, while Yaser Esam Hamdi and alleged dirty bomber Jose Padilla are both in military brigades within its jurisdiction. Any appeals about the detentions land in the Fourth Circuit's dockets, which has so far shown little sympathy to legal challenges on the issue.

"That court has shown a unique willingness to be very activist," says a law professor who once clerked for a Fourth Circuit judge.

President Bush may now turn to the Fourth circuit for Supreme Court nominees. Professor Smolla suggests he may consider either Luttig, a conservative in the tradition of Clarence Thomas and Antonin Scalia, or Wilkinson, a more moderate jurist.

Yet a study of judicial decisions by potential Bush Supreme Court nominees published by the American Judicature Society found Wilkinson exhibited a record of "exceptional conservatism," particularly in the areas of criminal justice and economics.

In a phone interview, Wilkinson rejected such labels. "I've never asked if something is conservative or liberal," he says. "I think the judge's perspective on the bench is focused very precisely on the individual parties and the individual questions in a single case."

Even if Luttig is not tapped for the Supreme Court, his influence on the court is extensive. His clerks, who help judges write draft opinions after graduating from law school, often end up later clerking for Supreme Court justices. Luttig himself clerked for Justice Scalia before ushering Clarence Thomas' nomination through the Senate as a Justice Department attorney.

The Fourth Circuit's current posture somewhat belies its past. In the 1960s and '70s, the tribunal earned a reputation as a leader in civil rights. But many judges of that era ended up retiring during the Reagan years, allowing the former president to restock the court with more conservative jurists.

President Bush, for his part, has already shown a desire to continue the Fourth Circuit's tilt to the right but also to increase the number of minorities on the bench.

The court's jurisdiction has the highest minority population of any in the country.

Yet it didn't get its first African-American until 2001, when Mr. Bush nominated Roger Gregory. Judge Gregory was something of an anomalous appointment for Bush: He was tapped for the bench by President Clinton, during a Senate recess, after strong opposition from Republicans. Bush later reaffirmed the appointment, which was temporary.

The court's three current vacancies have been the subject of far more acrimony, again going back to the Clinton era. Republican senators led by Jesse Helms of North Carolina blocked the nomination of four Clinton nominees to the court. Senate Democrats have since returned the favor, blocking the nomination of Terrence Boyle, a former aide to Sen. Helms. President Bush's two most recent nominations - two conservative African-Americans, including Allyson Duncan, who would be the court's first black woman - stand a better chance of getting confirmed.

Still, lawyers who argue before the court say a conservative majority doesn't mean its decisions are a forgone conclusion.

Similarly, members of the court's Democratic minority say they feel comfortable serving here. "There's a long tradition of judges on the court getting along well with one another and having respect for each other on a personal level," says Judge M. Blane Michael of West Virginia, a Clinton appointee.

Unlike other circuits, all the Fourth Circuit's judges meet during the same week each month. The handshakes also help maintain a cordial atmosphere. "It's really important to treat litigants with respect," says Wilkinson. "I'd rather go down from the bench than simply disappear behind a curtain."

Tim and Brett

Given the speculation about high court vacancies, I thought both of your offices would be inspired by the attached commencement address recently given by Judge O'Scannlain of the Ninth Circuit.

On an unrelated matter, with my service now nearly completed in this deanship, I am returning in August to a chair in constitutional law in California. I hope you will feel free to contact me there if I can be of service to you. My new address information is on the attached vCard.

courts. But the politics that stand in the way of these would-be judges is, to my mind, qualitatively different from that which thwarted the nomination of Judge Williams in 1873 – and it is different in a way that threatens to undermine the design of our federal government envisioned by the framers and enshrined in the Constitution.

For, the politics that has come to dominate today's nomination process is a politics which aims, before the fact, to ascertain how a given nominee will decide a particular case – or to be more precise, a series of hot-button cases. In addition to presenting nominees with the Hobson's choice of defying a Senate committee or violating his or her duty not to decide a case until it is actually before him or her, I suggest this form of politics threatens to erode the delicate balance of power that insulates federal judges from the political branches.

By demanding to know, in advance, how a particular nominee will rule in a given case, the political branches are exerting precisely the sort of direct control over the judiciary that Hamilton and the other Framers sought to avoid with the creation of a separate and distinct third branch. Indeed, there can be no better example of the "pestilential breath of faction" infecting the judiciary than the contemporary confirmation hearing. It is just this sort of questioning of judicial nominees that led Abraham Lincoln to declare: "We cannot ask a man what he will do, and if we should, and he should answer us, we should despise him for it."<sup>9</sup>

Indeed, the very notion of a public – let alone nationally televised – confirmation hearing is of fairly recent vintage. When fulfilling its constitutional duty to provide its advice and consent on presidential nominations, the Senate traditionally sat in closed executive session. Indeed, until 1929, the Senate’s practice was to consider all nominees in closed sessions unless the debate was ordered opened by a two-thirds vote. Only in exceptional cases – as with the controversial nomination of Louis Brandeis in 1916 – was the required two-thirds majority achieved and the closed session opened.

As for the appearance before the Senate of judicial nominees, the practice was unheard of until 1925, when Harlan Fiske Stone, a nominee to the Supreme Court – to say nothing of the court of appeals or the district court – voluntarily appeared before the Senate. Stone’s appearance, one commentator noted, took place as a result of unusual procedural circumstances within the Senate: His nomination had been voted out of committee to the floor of the Senate only to be sent back to the Judiciary Committee after a vociferous objection was raised on the floor.<sup>10</sup>

The practice of compelling the personal appearance of a judicial nominee did not begin in earnest until 1939. This increased openness, Professor Paul Freund has noted, was accompanied by an increasing concern with "politics in the larger, Aristotelian sense – a perception that an individual's identity is conditioned by his or her associations, inclinations, and sympathies, concomitant with a heightened awareness of the Supreme Court's role in the social, economic, and political life of the nation."<sup>11</sup>

I cannot help but notice that the historical moment identified by Professor Freund as the genesis of the more intense, and more politicized public scrutiny of court nominees coincides roughly with the so-called Lochner Era, beginning in 1905 and continuing throughout the period when the Supreme Court invalidated several popular statutes at the core of President Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal. The Supreme Court of the 1930s earned the increased scrutiny it received – along with FDR's threat to pack the Court with jurists more sympathetic to his legislation – not solely because its decisions were "unpopular." Unpopular though they were, the Justices' holdings were principally criticized for being little more than the thinly veiled and bluntly expressed policy preferences of a group of "Angry Old Men." They were, in short, grounded in nothing the public or the political branches recognized as the customary reasoned basis for opinions of the nation's highest court: The most noteworthy constitutional basis the Justices provided for their actions was the vague notion of "substantive due process," a concept conspicuously applied in the now-infamous case of Dred Scott v. Sandford,<sup>12</sup> which pronounced the constitutional right of one human being to hold another as property.

Today, we once again find ourselves polarized by a series of decisions that have sprung forth from the revived substantive due process jurisprudence bequeathed to us by the Warren and Burger Courts. "The central problem with this jurisprudence," the constitutional scholar and recently confirmed Tenth Circuit

Judge Michael McConnell has written is that [it] cast[s] aside all of the traditional constraints on constitutional decision making. This approach place[s] into the hands of judges the power to turn their own views of good social policy into law without any credible basis in constitutional text, history, precedent, constitutional tradition, or contemporary democratic warrant."<sup>13</sup>

The willingness of some judges to locate new and hitherto unidentified constitutional rights has raised the stakes of the nomination game. While no

President in recent memory has been so bold as to propose an outright court-packing scheme along the lines of Roosevelt's plan, the two parties have by turns attempted to carry out a piecemeal version of such a plan when the political stars of Senate and White House control have aligned. On the one side are those who feel that the judiciary has overstepped its bounds and is encroaching upon the traditional province of the political branches. On the other are those who, perhaps recognizing that they have achieved in the courts what may not have been so readily accomplished through political action, want to ensure that their gains are not reversed. Regardless of one's party allegiances, let us recognize the basic assumption that underlies much of the debate: That is, that the courts are a proper place for what is essentially a political struggle.

I recognize that many of my colleagues on the bench firmly believe that, in adapting the Constitution to fit changing circumstances, they are accomplishing the true aim of that great charter. But, by endeavoring to adapt the Constitution, even those doing the adapting must admit that they do so according to some not-so-hard-and-fast criteria. In describing the judicial approach of Justice William Brennan, that greatest of the "living constitutionalists," one of my colleagues approvingly noted that this mode of judging requires one to "examine the nature of human life and the nature of human liberty and recognize that society evolves and changes."<sup>14</sup> There would be nothing wrong with this statement were it offered to describe the tasks facing, say, political philosophers or even legislators. But judges? I cannot help but wonder what makes me, or any of my life-appointed colleagues for that matter, better equipped to determine "the nature of human life" or "the nature of human liberty" than the elected representatives of the people or, indeed, the people themselves.

Again, I do not question the motives of those who adhere to the belief in a "living" and ever changeable Constitution – their belief in the rectitude of such an approach is genuine. Indeed, as a judge, I must say that I find their view damnably enticing. My job would be infinitely easier if the Constitution actually contained all the things I thought – or rather, wished – it ought to contain; I would never have to render a decision with whose result I did not personally agree. Nevertheless, I am not persuaded that it is sound judicial practice to go about creating new constitutional rights—even if one's intentions in doing so are perfectly pure.

As no less a figure than Judge Learned Hand once observed, "[f]or myself it would be most irksome to be ruled by a bevy of Platonic Guardians, even if I knew how to choose them, which I assuredly do not. If they were in charge, I should miss the stimulus of living in a society where I have, at least theoretically, some part in the direction of public affairs."<sup>15</sup> In short, the federal judiciary best fulfills its role within the American constitutional framework not when it tries to do it all, but when it acts within the confines of its prescribed role. This involves leaving the task of legislating to Congress and State and local legislatures, and leaving the task of constitution-making to the amending procedures established by Article V.

Of course, while I believe in my approach to judging – tethered as it is to the text of the Constitution and the history and tradition that informed its drafting and ratification – I am quite sure that those of my colleagues who profess a belief in the "living constitution" are every bit as convinced of the error of my ways as I am of theirs. I am equally confident, however, that their approach raises two problems that a more limited conception of judging does not: One near-term, the other long-term.

First, as I have suggested here today, the judicial branch as a whole pays a price in the near-term for this kind of judging – and that price is paid out from the store of institutional independence and credibility that the judiciary builds up over the years, but can squander only too quickly. For, as a recent and warmly received visitor to this campus, Justice Antonin Scalia, has so forcefully put it:

<sup>15/</sup> Learned Hand, The Bill of Rights 73 (The Oliver Wendell Holmes Lectures, 1958)

As long as [the Supreme Court] thought (and the people thought) that we justices were doing essentially lawyers' work up here – reading text and discerning our society's traditional understanding of that text – the public pretty much left us alone. . . . But if in reality our process of constitutional adjudication consists primarily of making value judgments . . . [and] [i]f, indeed, the "liberties protected by the Constitution are . . . undefined and unbounded, then the people should demonstrate, to protest that we do not implement their values instead of ours.<sup>16</sup>

There is, of course, nothing wrong with the people voicing their discontent with or approval of this or that decision of the Supreme Court or any other federal court. It is their sacred right protected by the First Amendment. My point is that, once they are convinced that the Supreme Court and other federal courts are deciding cases in a fashion more akin to policymaking than strictly legal decision-making, the people will demand the right not just to protest, but also the right to influence and even to control those making the decisions: the judges themselves. The people, in short, will allow a judge to be independent only for as long as they perceive him or her as truly neutral—forsaking decisions based upon one's own view of what the constitution ought to be.

So it is, that we now have the sort of confirmation battles we do, in which each Senator seems not so much to be offering his or her "advice and consent," but rather ensuring that the nominee will support or at least not oppose a particular slate of rights. Senators seem no longer to value impartiality, judgment, and lawyerly acumen above all else – no, the touchstone has become whether a particular nominee shares the senator's view as to how the constitution ought to evolve (or not evolve) over time.

Some may say that "the confirmation mess," as Prof. Stephen Carter of Yale has called it, is a small price to pay for the expansion of constitutional rights we have witnessed over the last four decades. If preserving these new constitutional safeguards and inventing still newer ones comes at the expense of some partisan bickering in the Senate, the argument goes, then so be it. But such an argument overlooks the second, and more long-term consequence of "living constitutionalism" – one that, over time, will inevitably grow out of the first. For, if the Constitution truly is an ever-changing document, none of the rights we judges manage to locate within its textual core or its more ethereal penumbras today can ever truly be said to be free from encroachment or indeed, even eradication tomorrow. This is so regardless of how fundamental a prior Supreme Court decision may have deemed that right to be. By contending that the Constitution can and should be adapted as circumstances require, living constitutionalists cannot ensure that it always will be adapted in ways they find salutary. The mere fact that the living constitutionalists of recent memory devoted themselves to an expansion of rights offers no guarantee that the next generation of living constitutionalists – similarly unconstrained by the inconveniences of constitutional text and history – will be favorably disposed to maintaining such an expansion of rights. And while the doctrine of stare decisis – which requires courts to adhere to their earlier holdings, or at least not overrule them lightly – may serve to check judicial overzealousness, history has shown that where courts consider themselves free to adapt the Constitution, they often consider themselves similarly freed from the constraints of their earlier holdings.

In short, to contend that the Constitution is an eminently mutable document is, in effect, to concede at least the possibility that the judges of tomorrow may adapt the living Constitution in a manner contrary to the very principles exalted by the judges of today. Such a possibility, it seems to me, renders the central fact of our nation's founding – namely, the promulgation of a written document designed to bind the will of future majorities – a mere afterthought, if not a nullity. In so doing, it threatens to undermine the long-term health of the unique polity established by that great charter.

President Mooney, Dean Huffman, distinguished faculty and guests, graduates of the Class of 2003, your families and friends, it is an honor for me to be here today.

Honored though I am, it is nevertheless hard for me to believe, as I stand before you on this most joyous occasion, that it has been forty years since I sat where you are now sitting. While some of you may be able to visualize yourselves forty years hence, you must believe me when I tell you that, on my graduation day, I had no inkling that I would be where I am now. And, having just attended my fortieth law school reunion, I can assure you that some of my classmates were only too eager to remind me that they couldn't believe that I had become a federal judge, either.

Perhaps, among your graduating class there is a future federal judge or two. Serving the nation in such a capacity is a worthy ambition, to be sure. I fear, however, that many lawyers who would otherwise welcome such an opportunity may feel compelled to decline it when faced with the prospect of enduring what has become – at least at the appellate level – an increasingly acrimonious Senate confirmation process.

My own nomination was blessedly free of partisan strife. Early on the morning of August 8, 1986, the telephone rang at my home and my wife Maura

I began this address by noting the increasingly acrimonious confirmation process faced by nominees to the federal bench. And while it is normally incumbent upon those who point out problems to offer solutions, I am afraid that – when it comes to this problem – I am ill-suited to propose much beyond an adherence to the principles of judicial restraint I have advocated here today. And while I am not so naive as to believe that I can persuade all my colleagues on the federal bench of the correctness of my views concerning the proper role of the federal judge, I nevertheless hope that I have demonstrated that the ongoing debate over that role is vital to our well-being as a country.

I also hope that, in so doing, I have shown that this debate has implications for you, the graduating class of 2003, not just as practicing lawyers but also as citizens. You will quickly learn, if you have not done so already, that – having attended and now graduated from law school – others will look to you to explain to them the often inscrutable and even frustrating workings of our legal system. It is a structure that has stood the test of time, in part because – at least at the federal level – the Founding generation saw to it that power would be dispersed and certain enumerated rights protected against encroachment forever. When you pass the bar exam – and you will pass the bar exam – you will eventually be asked to raise your right hand and to swear an oath to uphold the Constitution and laws of the United States and the state in which you practice. I urge you to take that oath seriously. For while I have made clear this morning my belief that the Constitution is not a "living" and mutable document, that does not mean that I do not think it an enduring one. For it is surely that. But, the Constitution will continue to endure only if you – the next generation of lawyers and, yes, judges – live up to the oath you will soon take.

Congratulations on your graduation.

answered. "It's for you," she shouted upstairs, where I was in the shower, adding, "I think it's the press." "Tell them I'll call back," I said. But the caller persisted, "the Pres-i-dent of the United States is calling." Needless to say, I threw a towel around myself and picked up the bedroom phone to hear President Ronald Reagan himself graciously ask if he had my permission to sign some papers on his desk. Three days later, my nomination arrived in the Senate, which held a hearing less than a month after that, on September 10. The hearing lasted all of twenty minutes and two weeks later, on September 25, Senator Mark Hatfield called me at home to tell me that I had been unanimously confirmed.

My confirmation experience – all six weeks of it – contrasts sharply with that of my Ninth Circuit colleagues, Judges Richard Paez, Willy Fletcher, and Marsha Berzon, who endured protracted, years-long confirmation battles.<sup>1</sup> Similar confirmation ordeals are playing out as I speak.

One wonders what the Founders would have thought of the increasing intensity with which both parties have waged their respective confirmation fights. After all, it was Alexander Hamilton who famously wrote, more than two centuries ago, in Federalist No. 78, that "the judiciary, from the nature of its functions, will always be the least dangerous to the political rights of the Constitution; because it will be least in a capacity to annoy or injure them."<sup>2</sup> If, as Hamilton believed, the courts were the "least dangerous" branch, then why the pitched battles over nominations to the supposedly un-dangerous courts?

The easy answer, of course, is that, while the federal courts may lack the power to "annoy or injure" "the political rights of the Constitution," they nevertheless have come to possess an uncanny knack for annoying large portions of the population. A recent example of this curious judicial tendency is my own court's controversial decision in Newdow v. United States Congress,<sup>3</sup> in which a bare majority of a three-judge panel declared unconstitutional the practice of reciting the Pledge of Allegiance in public schools.

Insulated as we are from direct popular influence – the Founders saw to that by bestowing life tenure and by preventing Congress from reducing judicial salaries – the people and their elected representatives have sought to exert what influence they can. The results have ranged from the symbolic – the "Impeach Earl Warren" bumper stickers of the 1960s come to mind – to the legislative: in the wake of the Newdow decision, for example, at least one congressman has threatened to introduce a bill to strip federal courts of jurisdiction over cases involving the Pledge.

But the primary means by which the political branches exert control over an otherwise insulated federal judiciary – especially during the last decade and a half – has been the confirmation process. Thus, the disputes over this or that nominee are not an end in themselves but rather a reflection of a larger trend: The seemingly ever-increasing centrality of federal courts in our divided system of government. Indeed, on issues such as abortion, assisted suicide, affirmative action, and church-state relations, the courts have become a focal point – perhaps the focal point – in the loosely defined national debate that goes by the now-tired label of "the culture wars."

The courts, to judge from the heated language in the hearing rooms of the Senate Judiciary Committee and in the pages of the nation's newspapers and magazines, are no longer the "least dangerous branch," but perhaps the most dangerous. As is often the case in such debates, the language, while overheated, nevertheless contains an element of truth. The federal courts do decide cases of great social, political, and even moral significance. That this is so is an unavoidable byproduct of our tripartite system of governance. It is critical to note, however, that the power wielded by judges was meant, by its very nature, to be impersonal and strictly circumscribed. The federal judiciary, Hamilton noted in Federalist No. 78, "has no influence over the sword or the purse; no direction either of the strength or of the wealth of the society, and can take no active resolution whatever. It may truly be said to have neither FORCE nor WILL, but merely judgment."<sup>4</sup> That this original conception remained the norm for some time after the founding is evident in the writings of that most astute observer of America, Alexis de Tocqueville, who in the mid-1800s observed that "[t]he federal judges feel the relative weakness of the power in whose name they act, and they are more ready to give up a right to jurisdiction in cases where the law has given it to them than to claim one illegitimately."<sup>5</sup>

This emphasis on judgment and reserve, as opposed to force or will, is telling. For, the creation of the judicial branch, it is important to remember, was by no means a foregone conclusion. Indeed, the Framers vigorously debated the issue of where to locate the judicial power, with a not insignificant number of them advocating the British model, wherein the judicial power resides in Parliament – ultimately, in the House of Lords – rather than in an independent judiciary. The wisdom of reposing the judicial power in an independent judiciary here, of course, is manifest, especially in the context of a Founding generation that was deeply suspicious of political factions and the dangers they posed – mob rule foremost among them. As Hamilton noted:

[T]here is still greater absurdity in subjecting the decisions of men, selected for their knowledge of the laws . . . to the revision and control of men who, for want of the same advantage, cannot but be deficient in that knowledge. The members of the legislature will rarely be chosen with a view to those qualifications which fit men for the stations of judges; and . . . so, on account of the natural propensity of such bodies to party divisions, there will be no less reason to fear that the pestilential breath of faction may poison the fountains of justice.<sup>6</sup>

The Constitution's erection of a third, independent judicial branch, then, presupposed – and indeed counted as a positive virtue – the insulation of that branch from "the pestilential breath of faction."

Try as they might, however, the Founders could not ensure total insulation of the judiciary from politics. That the confirmation process has always been shot through with political intrigue of one form or another cannot be gainsaid. An example from Oregon's own history proves the point.

The death of Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase in 1873 led President Ulysses S. Grant to nominate Roscoe Conkling of New York, who promptly turned the nomination down – historians tell us he had grander ambitions than to be Chief Justice of the United States. Grant's second option was his attorney general, George H. Williams, an Oregonian, indeed the only Oregonian ever nominated to the Supreme Court. Williams' nomination, however, ran into stiff political opposition.<sup>7</sup>

As it turned out, Williams had fired a United States' Attorney for Oregon for no other reason, it seemed, than the prosecutor's zealous investigation of political fraud back here. This blot on Williams' nomination was followed soon after by the revelation that the Attorney General had used public funds to purchase for personal use a horse-drawn carriage, two horses, and the services of a footman. These were, as one commentator noted, "perquisites not enjoyed by senators."<sup>8</sup> The fate of Williams' nomination in the Senate was little aided by the fact that his wife apparently had been informing the wives of several senators that soon, as the wife of the Chief Justice, she would outrank them socially. Faced with imminent defeat, Williams withdrew his name from consideration. As a side note, I will tell you that, while George Williams largely has disappeared from the history books, he remains quite present to me – not because of any special affinity I feel for the man, mind you, but rather because his official portrait hangs in my chambers, on loan from the Oregon Historical Society.

While Williams' failed nomination does illustrate the influence of politics upon the courts, it is also a dramatic contrast to the confirmation battles of today. Williams, I think all can agree, was rejected on the basis of quite legitimate concerns about his character and judgment. My colleagues Judges Richard Paez, Willy Fletcher, and Marsha Berzon, however, were above reproach in the conduct of their personal and professional affairs, as are current nominees such as Miguel Estrada, Priscilla Owen, and Carolyn Kuhl. And yet, their nominations have languished for months and even years. On what basis?

The short answer, the one that leaps to the lips of partisans on both sides, is "politics." You will note, however, that I have taken pains to cite examples of nominees of both Democratic and Republican Presidents. Whatever one's political orientation, all sides agree on one point: that it is the other side that is "playing politics" with judicial nominations in an effort to exert control over the federal

A reporter for the Chicago Daily Law Bulletin is working on a story about the 7th Circuit for their Friday edition. He's specifically covering Sens. Kohl and Feingold's assertions that the commission they have in place works and the President is trying to quash that system so it doesn't take root in other states. They said they want the commission structure to remain in place.

Here's what I've told the reporter on the record:

President Bush chooses circuit court candidates by looking for highly qualified individuals with experience and integrity.

When outlining his plan to provide timely consideration for judicial nominees on Oct. 30, the President said he consults with senators, representatives, governors and bar leaders to receive recommendations.

I've also indicated that the President chooses candidates in this manner for circuit seats throughout the country.

On background, I told the reporter this has nothing to do with the President "reasserting his power" over the nominations process (b/c two nominees have been sidetracked by Democratic senators). The President is simply exercising his Constitutional authority to nominate individuals.

I don't deal with the trade journals like this very often, so I wanted to check to see if there anything else you think should be stressed? Or, would you have interest in speaking with the reporter on background to get a more in-depth sense of what the Senators are saying?

I think we need to play it by ear. Note that we have not done bipartisan commissions in any state for circuit seats. See generally Judge's letter to Schumer attached.

U.S. appeals judge cutting back; parties clashing over seat

By CRAIG GILBERT

cgilbert@journalssentinel.com

Last Updated: May 22, 2003

Washington - Federal appeals court Judge John L. Coffey, 81, said Thursday he plans to assume a reduced workload under senior status, creating an important and highly sensitive judicial vacancy on the Chicago-based 7th Circuit.

It will be up to the White House to nominate a new judge at a time when fierce battles in the U.S. Senate are being waged over the appellate courts, the judicial rung just below the U.S. Supreme Court.

Complicating the choice is that President Bush and Wisconsin's two U.S. senators are from different parties, setting up a possible collision over the seat. Both senators, Democrats Herb Kohl and Russ Feingold, serve on the judiciary committee, which approves nominations to the federal bench. The other key figure in the process is the state's senior Republican congressman, F. James Sensenbrenner Jr. of Menomonee Falls, chairman of the House judiciary committee.

Until now, Sensenbrenner, Kohl and Feingold have used a bipartisan commission to produce a list of finalists for the White House to consider as federal judges and prosecutors.

But Sensenbrenner and a White House aide both confirmed Thursday that Bush would not support that procedure this time because a critical appellate seat is at stake.

"It's not up to Kohl or Feingold or Sensenbrenner," the congressman said of the vacancy. "It's the president that will make the appointment. What advice the president wants is up to the White House."

REV_00400604

White House spokesman Scott Stanzel confirmed that, saying the president will consult with lawmakers and bar leaders about their recommendations, but would not rely on a list of finalists produced by a commission.

"The president makes the decision about who to select," Stanzel said.

Stakes are high

The stakes for an appellate seat are also higher for Democrats, and Kohl and Feingold have fought to preserve the commissions, which give them a role in the winnowing of potential nominees, even Republicans. The two will also have a key role in the confirmation process, since senators on the judiciary committee have often exercised an informal veto power over nominees from their home state.

Kohl said in an interview Thursday that "particularly during this time of extreme contentiousness in the Senate, one could easily argue that the best way to avoid that here in Wisconsin is to use a commission approach, which is most likely to produce a nominee both sides can live with."

Kohl was interviewed before the White House made its comments about the process.

The senior senator said a judicial selection commission ensures that both sides have input, and it has worked "fairly well." The members of the commission are nominated by the State Bar of Wisconsin and officeholders in both parties. Such commissions have been used in the state for a couple of decades. But the political backdrop changed in 2001, when for the first time both Wisconsin senators and the president belonged to opposing parties.

"Why would we want to take it at this point and turn it upside down," Kohl said of the system, "unless the president wants to choose whoever the president wants to choose?"

The Milwaukee Democrat added:

"What I'm hopeful for is that here in Wisconsin, it won't be necessary to get into an extreme partisan battle with this judges issue, that we can continue to come up with judges that are acceptable to the center, to the reasonable right and the reasonable left. I don't know if that's what the president is looking for, but that's what we're looking for."

In a statement, Feingold said "There is no reason to abandon this process, which is good for the judiciary and for Wisconsin."

However, under Bush, Wisconsin Republicans have complained about the ability of Kohl and Feingold to strike some GOP finalists from the list that goes to the president.

State GOP chair Rick Graber, who served on the last commission, said Bush should have a freer hand for an appellate seat because it's more important.

"I view the court of appeals as an entirely different situation. I believe the president should be entirely free to make this pick in whatever way he decides," said Graber, who accused Kohl and Feingold of taking a partisan approach to some of the nominees before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Appellate judges have been the most hotly contested.

"The reason there's more controversy over appellate seats is because appeals courts make most of the judge-made law in this country,"

Sensenbrenner said.

Several names were offered as potential nominees for this new vacancy by court observers in Wisconsin on Thursday: U.S. District Judge Rudolph T. Randa, chief of the Eastern District; U.S. District Judge J.P. Stadtmueller, also of Milwaukee; and state Supreme Court Justices Patrick Crooks and Diane Sykes. One negative for Republicans on the last two is that Gov. Jim Doyle, a Democrat, would pick a successor.

In an interview, Coffey said he would wait to assume senior status until a new judge is appointed.

"But I'm going to continue to work even after that on a senior status basis," Coffey said.

"I just thought it was time to do it. I've been on this court for 22 years," Coffey said.

The Whitefish Bay jurist was appointed to his seat by President Reagan in 1982.

The 7th Circuit covers Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana. It is only by tradition that Coffey's seat would go to a Wisconsin judge. But it's one the president is expected to follow. The state's other judge on the 7th Circuit, Terence Evans, has served since 1995.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

May 6, 2003

Dear Senator Schumer:

On behalf of President Bush, I write in response to your letter of April 30.

You propose that the President and Senate leader of the opposite party select in equal numbers members of citizen judicial nominating commissions in each State and circuit who would then select one nominee for each judicial vacancy. The President then would be required to nominate the individual selected by the commission and the Senate required to confirm that individual, at least absent “evidence” that the candidate is “unfit for judicial service.” You propose this as a permanent change to the constitutional scheme for appointment of federal judges.

We appreciate and share your stated goal of repairing the “broken” judicial confirmation process and the “vicious cycle” of “delayed” Senate nominees. But we respectfully disagree with your proposal as inconsistent with the Constitution, with the history and traditions of the Nation’s federal judicial appointments process, and with the soundest approach for appointment of highly qualified federal judges, as the Founders determined. Rather, as President Bush and many Senators of both parties have stated in the past, the solution to the broken judicial confirmation process is for the Senate to exercise its constitutional responsibility to vote up or down on judicial nominees within a reasonable time after nomination, no matter who is President or which party controls the Senate.

I. The Constitution, the Current Problem, and the Solution

Article II of the Constitution provides: The President “shall nominate, and by with the Advice and Consent of the Senate, shall appoint . . . Judges of the supreme Court, and all other Officers of the United States . . .” During the first Congress and throughout most of this Nation’s history, the Senate has both recognized and exercised its constitutional responsibility under Article II to hold majority, up-or-down votes on a President’s nominees within a reasonable time after nomination. The Framers intended that the Senate vote on nominations would prevent Presidential appointment of “unfit characters from State prejudice, from family connection, from personal attachment, or from a view to popularity.” Federalist 76.

Your proposal would effectively transfer the nomination power of the President and the confirmation power of the Senate to a group of unelected and unaccountable private citizens. As the Supreme Court has explained, however, the Appointments Clause is “more than a matter of etiquette or protocol; it is among the significant structural safeguards of the constitutional scheme. By vesting the President with the exclusive power to select the principal (noninferior) officers of the United States, the Appointments Clause prevents congressional encroachment upon the Executive and Judicial Branches. This disposition was also designed to assure a higher quality of appointments: the Framers anticipated that the President would be less vulnerable to interest-group pressure and personal favoritism than would a collective body.” Edmond v. United States, 520 U.S. 651, 659 (1997) (citations omitted). Importantly, as the Supreme Court has also explained, the Appointments Clause not only guards against encroachment “but also preserves another aspect of the Constitution’s structural integrity by preventing the diffusion of the appointment power.” Freytag v. CIR, 501 U.S. 868, 878 (1991). Therefore, “neither Congress nor the Executive can agree to waive this structural protection” afforded by the Appointments Clause. Id. at 880. These principles and precedents amply demonstrate the constitutional and structural problems with any proposal to transfer the constitutional responsibilities of the President and the Senate to a group of unelected and unaccountable private citizens.

That said, we very much appreciate your recognition that the Senate’s judicial confirmation process is “broken.” The precise problem, in our judgment, is that the Senate has too often failed in recent years to hold votes on judicial nominees within a reasonable time after nomination (often because a minority of Senators has used procedural tactics to prevent the Senate from voting and expressing its majority will). Many appeals court nominees have waited years for votes; many others have never received votes. Today, for example, although the Senate never before has denied a vote to an appeals court nominee on account of a filibuster, a minority of Senators are engaged in unprecedented simultaneous filibusters to prevent up or down votes on two superb nominees, Priscilla Owen and Miguel Estrada, who were nominated two years ago and who have the support of a majority of the Senate.

The problem of the Senate not holding votes on certain judicial nominees is a relatively recent development, albeit not new to this Presidency. In the Administrations of both President George H.W. Bush in the 102nd Congress and President Clinton in the 106th Congress, for example, too many appeals court nominees never received up-or-down votes. As President Bush has explained, however, the problem has persisted and significantly worsened in the 107th and 108th Congresses during this President’s tenure.

President Bush’s commitment to solving this problem also is not new. In June 2000, during the Presidential campaign, then-Governor Bush emphasized that the Senate should hold up-or-down votes on all nominees within a reasonable time after nomination (60 days). Last fall, after two additional years of Senate delays that were causing a judicial vacancy crisis (an “emergency situation,” in the words of the American Bar Association), the President proposed a comprehensive three-Branch plan to solve the problem. President Bush stated that this three-Branch plan should apply now and in the future, no matter who is President or which party controls the Senate. In particular, he proposed that judges provide one-year advance notice of retirement where possible; in March 2003, the Judicial Conference adopted the President’s recommendation. The President proposed that Presidents nominate judges within 180 days of learning of a vacancy; the President is complying with this part of the plan and already has submitted nominations, for example, for the 15 new judgeships created on November 2, 2002. The President also proposed that the Senate vote up or down on judicial nominees within 180 days of receiving a nomination, a generous period of time for all Senators to evaluate nominees and to have their voices heard and their votes counted.

In the past, you and Senators of both parties have publicly agreed with the need for timely Senate votes on judicial nominees. On March 7, 2000, for example, you stated: “The basic problem is it takes so long for us to debate those qualifications. It is an example of Government not fulfilling its constitutional mandate because the President nominates, and we are charged with voting on the nominees. . . . I also plead with my colleagues to move judges with alacrity – vote them up or down. But this delay makes a mockery of the Constitution, makes a mockery of the fact that we are here working, and makes a mockery of the lives of very sincere people who have put themselves forward to be judges and then they hang out there in limbo.”

In the 2000 campaign, moreover, several Democrat Senators such as Senator Leahy and Senator Harkin publicly and expressly agreed with then-Governor Bush’s proposal for timely votes on nominees. In addition, Senator Specter in 2002, Senator Leahy in 1998, and Senator Bob Graham in 1991 all introduced Senate proposals to ensure timely up-or-down votes on judicial nominees. The Chief Justice, speaking on behalf of the federal Judiciary, also has expressly asked the Senate to ensure prompt up-or-down votes on nominees. And the American Bar Association, for its part, adopted a resolution last summer asking the Senate to hold prompt votes on judicial nominations, stating: “Vote them up or down, but don’t hang them out to dry.”

In seeking to fix the broken Senate confirmation process, we respectfully ask that you and other Senators consider these past statements, a sample of which are listed below, advocating timely up-or-down Senate votes on judicial nominees and ensure such votes no matter who is President or which party controls the Senate:

- Senator Leahy on October 3, 2000, stated: “Governor Bush and I, while we disagree on some issues, have one very significant issue on which we agree. He gave a speech a while back and criticized what has happened in the Senate where confirmations are held up not because somebody votes down a nominee but because they cannot ever get a vote. Governor Bush said: You have the nominee. Hold the hearing. Then, within 60 days, vote them up or vote them down. Don’t leave them in limbo. Frankly, that is what we are paid to do in this body. We are paid to vote either yes or no – not vote maybe. When we hold a nominee up by not allowing them a vote and not taking any action one way or the other, we are not only voting ‘maybe,’ but we are doing a terrible disservice to the man or woman to whom we do this.”
- Senator Leahy on June 18, 1998, stated: “I have stated over and over again on this floor that I would refuse to put an anonymous hold on any judge; that I would object and fight against any filibuster on a judge, whether it is somebody I opposed or supported; that I felt the Senate should do its duty. If we don’t like somebody the President nominates, vote him or her down. But don’t hold them in this anonymous unconscionable limbo, because in doing that, the minority of Senators really shame all Senators.”
- Senator Daschle on October 5, 1999, stated: “As Chief Justice Rehnquist has recognized, ‘The Senate is surely under no obligation to confirm any particular nominee, but after the necessary time for inquiry it should vote him up or vote him down.’ An up or down vote, that is all we ask for Berzon and Paez. And after years of waiting, they deserve at least that much. . . . I find it simply baffling that a Senator would vote against even voting on a judicial nomination.”

- Senator Harkin on September 14, 2000, stated: “I’ll just close by saying that Governor Bush had the right idea. He said the candidate should get an up or down vote within 60 days of their nomination.”
  - Senator Harkin on October 6, 2000, stated that then-Governor Bush’s proposal for an up-or-down vote within 60 days of nomination was a “great idea.”
- Senator Biden on March 19, 1997, stated: “I respectfully suggest that everyone who is nominated is entitled to have a shot, to have a hearing and to have a shot to be heard on the floor and have a vote on the floor.”
- Senator Bob Graham on April 24, 1991, introduced a bill that would require the Judiciary Committee to report a nomination within 90 days of nomination and would require an up-or-down vote on the floor within 120 days of nomination. Senator Graham stated: “I consider it a judicial emergency when a judgeship is vacant for one day more than necessary.”
- Senator Kennedy on February 3, 1998, stated: “We owe it to Americans across the country to give these nominees a vote. If our Republican colleagues don’t like them, vote against them. But give them a vote.”
  - On September 21, 1999, Senator Kennedy stated: “It is true that some Senators have voiced concerns about these nominations. But that should not prevent a roll call vote which gives every Senator the opportunity to vote ‘yes’ or ‘no.’ . . . These delays can only be described as an abdication of the Senate’s constitutional responsibility to work with the President and ensure the integrity of our federal courts.”
- Senator Durbin on September 28, 1998, stated: “I am not suggesting that we would give our consent to all of these nominees. I am basically saying that this process should come to a close. The Senate should vote.”
- Senator Feinstein on September 16, 1999, stated: “A nominee is entitled to a vote. Vote them up; vote them down.”
  - Senator Feinstein on October 4, 1999, stated: “Our institutional integrity requires an up-or-down vote.”
- Senator Harry Reid on June 9, 2001, stated: “I think we should have up-or-down votes in the committee and on the floor.”

- Senator Feingold on March 8, 2000, stated: “All Judge Paez has ever asked for was this opportunity: an up or down vote on his confirmation. Yet for years, the Senate has denied him that simple courtesy.”
- Senator Kohl on September 21, 1999, stated: “These nominees, who have to put their lives on hold waiting for us to act, deserve an up or down vote.”
  - Senator Kohl on May 15, 1997, stated: “[L]et’s breathe life back into the confirmation process. Let’s vote on the nominees who already have been approved by the Judiciary Committee, and let’s set a timetable for future hearings on pending judges. Let’s fulfill our constitutional responsibilities.”
- Senator Lincoln on September 14, 2000, stated: “If we want people to respect their government again, then government must act respectably. It’s my hope that we’ll take the necessary steps to give these men and these women especially the up or down vote that they deserve.”
- Senator Boxer on January 28, 1998, stated: “I think, whether the delays are on the Republican side or the Democratic side, let these names come up, let us have debate, let us vote.”
  - Senator Boxer on May 14, 1997, stated: “According to the U.S. Constitution, the President nominates, and the Senate shall provide advice and consent. It is not the role of the Senate to obstruct the process and prevent numbers of highly qualified nominees from even being given the opportunity for a vote on the Senate floor.”
- Senator Sarbanes on December 15, 1997, stated: “This politicization . . . has been extended to include the practice of denying nominees an up or down vote on the Senate floor or even in the Judiciary Committee. If the majority of the Senate opposes a judicial nominee enough to derail a nomination by an up or down vote, then at least the process has been served.”
  - Senator Sarbanes on March 19, 1997, stated: “It is not whether you let the President have his nominees confirmed. You will not even let them be considered by the Senate for an up-or-down vote. That is the problem today.”
- Senator Levin on September 14, 2000, stated: “The truth of the matter is that the leadership of the Senate has a responsibility to do what the Constitution says we should do, which is to advise and at least vote on whether or not to consent to the nomination of nominees for these courts.”

- Senator Levin on May 24, 2000, stated: “These Michigan candidates . . . deserve to have an up or down vote on their nominations. . . . The Senate slowdown has a serious impact on the administration of justice.”

II. Additional Points Regarding Your Proposal

I also want to make three other points regarding your proposal.

First, contrary to an implicit suggestion in your proposal, the members of these citizen committees themselves will bring their own views about the best qualities for judicial candidates, and their own preferences and visions and ideologies. But there is an important difference between these private citizens, on the one hand, and the President and 100 Senators, on the other. The American people did not elect these citizens to exercise this critical constitutional responsibility and cannot hold them accountable for their exercise of it.

Moreover, the Framers of the Constitution expressly considered and rejected a committee nomination process, concluding that such a process was unlikely to focus on the “intrinsic merit of the candidate.” Federalist 76. As Hamilton explained, “in every exercise of the power of appointing to offices by an assembly of men we must expect to see a full display of all the private and party likings and dislikes, partialities and antipathies, attachments and animosities, which are felt by those who compose the assembly.” Id. It will “rarely happen that the advancement of the public service will be the primary object either of party victories or of party negotiations.” Id.

By contrast, “[t]he sole and undivided responsibility of one man” – the President – “will naturally beget a livelier sense of duty and a more exact regard to reputation. He will, on this account, feel himself under stronger obligations, and more interested to investigate with care the qualities requisite to the stations to be filled, and to prefer with impartiality the persons who may have the fairest pretensions to them.” Id. The Framers wanted the President alone to exercise the power of nomination, moreover, because the “blame of a bad nomination would fall upon the President singly and absolutely.” Federalist 77. In a committee nomination process, by contrast, “all idea of responsibility is lost.” Id.

For these reasons, the Framers concluded that the President alone was to nominate and the Senate as a body was to vote up or down on the President’s nominations.

Second, you explain that your proposal would ensure the merit of federal judges. In your letter to President Bush of March 16, 2001, however, you and Senator Leahy expressed the view that the American Bar Association ratings provide “unique, unbiased and essential information” about judicial candidates, and provide an “independent, apolitical” evaluation of their qualifications. You referred to the ABA rating as the “gold standard” for evaluating nominees. All 42 of the President’s appeals court nominees rated so far have received “well-qualified” or “qualified” ABA ratings. By the standard outlined in your letter of March 16, 2001, all of these appeals court nominees warrant your support.

Third, you explain that your proposal would avoid “extremist” judges. The Framers intended that the President would nominate judges and the Senate as a body would vote up-or-down on the nominations to express the majority will of the Senate. The constitutional scheme of Presidential appointment and majority vote in the Senate ensures that the nominees are not unfit. And your proposal would not preclude judges you might label as “extremist” from emerging from the citizen committees. Indeed, even more troubling is the fact that your proposal would not prevent judges whom both the President and a majority of the Senate might view as “extremist” from emerging from the citizen committees, yet the President and Senate would be essentially powerless to prevent the appointment.

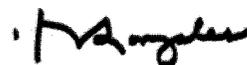

One final point warrants mention. We assume that you include Miguel Estrada and Priscilla Owen in your description of “extremists” given the extraordinary ongoing filibusters of their nominations. But Miguel Estrada and Priscilla Owen represent the mainstream of American law and American values, as indicated by the fact that the President nominated them and a majority of the Senate supports them. Moreover, Miguel Estrada is supported by prominent Democrat lawyers such as Seth Waxman and Ron Klain and by a bipartisan group of 14 former colleagues in the Solicitor General’s office, among many others. He worked for four years in the Clinton Administration. He was unanimously rated “well-qualified” by the American Bar Association. Priscilla Owen is supported by three former Democrat Justices on the Texas Supreme Court with whom she served and 15 past Presidents of the State Bar of Texas. She also received a unanimous “well-qualified” rating from the American Bar Association.

These two nominees are the mainstream. It bears note, moreover, that you and other Democrat Senators have supported nominees such as Jay Bybee and Michael McConnell who (unlike Mr. Estrada and Justice Owen) have taken strong public positions contrary to yours on significant issues of concern to you. We believe that an unfair double standard is being applied to both Miguel Estrada and Priscilla Owen.

We appreciate your desire to fix the broken judicial confirmation process. The President believes that the fix is for the Senate to exercise its constitutional responsibility and ensure that every judicial nominee receives an up-or-down Senate vote within a reasonable time after nomination, no matter who is President or which party controls the Senate.

Sincerely,

Alberto R. Gonzales

H. R. 2115

To amend title 49, United States Code, to reauthorize programs for the Federal Aviation Administration, and for other purposes.

---

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska (for himself, Mr. MICA, Mr. OBERSTAR, and Mr. DEFazio) introduced the following bill; which was referred to the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure

---

A BILL

To amend title 49, United States Code, to reauthorize programs for the Federal Aviation Administration, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

4 (a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the
5 “Flight 100—Century of Aviation Reauthorization Act”.

6 (b) TABLE OF CONTENTS.—

- Sec. 1. Short title; table of contents.
- Sec. 2. Amendments to title 49, United States Code.
- Sec. 3. Effective date.

TITLE I—AUTHORIZATIONS

Sec. 101. Federal Aviation Administration operations.

1 (1) by striking “September 30, 1998” and in-
2 sserting “September 30, 2003”; and

3 (2) by striking subparagraphs (1) through (5)
4 and inserting:

5 “(1) $3,400,000,000 for fiscal year 2004;

6 “(2) $3,600,000,000 for fiscal year 2005;

7 “(3) $3,800,000,000 for fiscal year 2006; and

8 “(4) $4,000,000,000 for fiscal year 2007.”.

9 (b) OBLIGATIONAL AUTHORITY.—Section 47104(c)
10 is amended by striking “September 30, 2003” and insert-
11 ing “September 30, 2007”.

12 SEC. 104. ADDITIONAL REAUTHORIZATIONS.

13 (a) CONTRACT AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL TOWER PILOT
14 PROGRAM.—Section 47124(b)(3)(E) is amended by strik-
15 ing “$6,000,000 per fiscal year” and inserting
16 “$6,500,000 for fiscal year 2004, $7,000,000 for fiscal 17 year 2005, $7,500,000 for fiscal year 2006, and
18 $8,000,000 for fiscal year 2007”.

19 (b) SMALL COMMUNITY AIR SERVICE.—Section
20 41743(e)(2) is amended—

21 (1) by striking “and” the first place it appears
22 and inserting a comma; and

23 (2) by inserting after “2003” the following “,
24 and $35,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004
25 through 2008”.

1 continue to serve aboard an aircraft as a flight at-
2 tendant until completion by that individual of the re-
3 quired recurrent or requalification training and sub-
4 sequent certification under this section.

5 “(3) TREATMENT OF FLIGHT ATTENDANT
6 AFTER NOTIFICATION.—On the date that the Ad-
7 ministrator is notified by an air carrier that an indi-
8 vidual has the demonstrated proficiency to be a
9 flight attendant, the individual shall be treated for
10 purposes of this section as holding a certificate
11 issued under the section.

12 “(b) ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATE.—The Adminis-
13 trator shall issue a certificate of demonstrated proficiency
14 under this section to an individual after the Administrator
15 is notified by the air carrier that the individual has suc-
16 cessfully completed all the training requirements for flight
17 attendants approved by the Administrator.

18 “(c) DESIGNATION OF PERSON TO DETERMINE SUC-
19 CESSFUL COMPLETION OF TRAINING.—In accordance
20 with part 183 of chapter 14, Code of Federal Regulation,
21 the director of operations of an air carrier is designated
22 to determine that an individual has successfully completed
23 the training requirements approved by the Administrator
24 for such individual to serve as a flight attendant.

1       “(d) SPECIFICATIONS RELATING TO CERTIFI-
2 CATES.—Each certificate issued under this section shall—

3               “(1) be numbered and recorded by the Adminis-
4 trator;

5               “(2) contain the name, address, and description
6 of the individual to whom the certificate is issued;

7               “(3) contain the name of the air carrier that
8 employs or will employ the certificate holder on the 9 date that the certificate is issued;

10              “(4) is similar in size and appearance to certifi-
11 cates issued to airmen;

12              “(5) contain the airplane group for which the
13 certificate is issued; and

14              “(6) be issued not later than 30 days after the
15 Administrator receives notification from the air car-
16 rier of demonstrated proficiency and, in the case of 17 an individual serving as flight attendant on the ef-
18 fective date of this section, not later than 1 year
19 after such effective date.

20       “(e) APPROVAL OF TRAINING PROGRAMS.—Air car-
21 rier flight attendant training programs shall be subject to
22 approval by the Administrator. All flight attendant train-
23 ing programs approved by the Administrator in the 1-year
24 period ending on the date of enactment of this section
25 shall be treated as providing a demonstrated proficiency

1 for purposes of meeting the certification requirements of
2 this section.

3 “(f) FLIGHT ATTENDANT DEFINED.—In this section,
4 the term ‘flight attendant’ means an individual working
5 as a flight attendant in the cabin of an aircraft that has
6 20 or more seats and is being used by an air carrier to
7 provide air transportation.”.

8 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
9 chapter 447 is further amended by adding at the end the
10 following:

“44729. Flight attendant certification.”.

11 (c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—The amendments made by
12 subsections (a) and (b) shall take effect on the 365th day
13 following the date of enactment of this Act.

14 SEC. 424. CIVIL PENALTY FOR CLOSURE OF AN AIRPORT
15 WITHOUT PROVIDING SUFFICIENT NOTICE.

16 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 463 is amended by add-
17 ing at the end the following:

18 “§ 46319. Closure of an airport without providing suf-
19 ficient notice

20 “(a) PROHIBITION.—A public agency (as defined in 21 section 47102) may not close an airport listed in the na-
22 tional plan of integrated airport systems under section
23 47103 without providing written notice to the Adminis-
24 trator of the Federal Aviation Administration at least 30
25 days before the date of the closure.

1           “(b) PUBLICATION OF NOTICE.—The Administrator
2 shall publish each notice received under subsection (a) in
3 the Federal Register.

4           “(c) CIVIL PENALTY.—A public agency violating sub-
5 section (a) shall be liable for a civil penalty of $10,000
6 for each day that the airport remains closed without hav-
7 ing given the notice required by this section.”.

8           (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
9 chapter 463 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
10 lowing:

          “46319. Closure of an airport without providing sufficient notice.”.

11 SEC. 425. NOISE EXPOSURE MAPS.

12           Section 47503 is amended—

13                 (1) in subsection (a) by striking “1985,” and 14                 inserting “a forecast period that is at least 5 years 15                 in the future”; and

16                 (2) by striking subsection (b) and inserting the
17                 following:

18           “(b) REVISED MAPS.—If, in an area surrounding an 19 airport, a change in the operation of the airport would 20 establish a substantial new noncompatible use, or would
21 significantly reduce noise over existing noncompatible
22 uses, that is not reflected in either the existing conditions
23 map or forecast map currently on file with the Federal
24 Aviation Administration, the airport operator shall submit

1 a revised noise exposure map to the Secretary showing the
2 new noncompatible use or noise reduction.”.

3 SEC. 426. AMENDMENT OF GENERAL FEE SCHEDULE PRO-
4 VISION.

5 The amendment made by section 119(d) of the Avia-
6 tion and Transportation Security Act (115 Stat. 629)
7 shall not be affected by the savings provisions contained
8 in section 141 of that Act (115 Stat. 643).

9 SEC. 427. IMPROVEMENT OF CURRICULUM STANDARDS
10 FOR AVIATION MAINTENANCE TECHNICIANS.

11 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Federal
12 Aviation Administration shall ensure that the training
13 standards for airframe and powerplant mechanics under
14 part 65 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations, are up-
15 dated and revised in accordance with this section. The Ad-
16 ministrator may update and revise the training standards
17 through the initiation of a formal rulemaking or by issuing
18 an advisory circular or other agency guidance.

19 (b) ELEMENTS FOR CONSIDERATION.—The updated
20 and revised standards required under subsection (a) shall
21 include those curriculum adjustments that are necessary
22 to more accurately reflect current technology and mainte-
23 nance practices.

24 (c) MINIMUM TRAINING HOURS.—In making adjust-
25 ments to the maintenance curriculum requirements pursu-

1 ant to this section, the current requirement of 1900 min-
2 imum training hours shall be maintained.

3 (d) CERTIFICATION.—Any adjustment or modifica-
4 tion of current curriculum standards made pursuant to
5 this section shall be reflected in the certification examina-
6 tions of airframe and powerplant mechanics.

7 (e) COMPLETION.—The revised and updated training
8 standards required by subsection (a) shall be completed
9 not later than 12 months after the date of enactment of 10 this Act.

11 (f) PERIODIC REVIEWS AND UPDATES.—The Admin-
12 istrator shall review the content of the curriculum stand-
13 ards for training airframe and powerplant mechanics re-
14 ferred to in subsection (a) every 3 years after completion
15 of the revised and updated training standards required
16 under subsection (a) as necessary to reflect current tech-
17 nology and maintenance practices.

18 SEC. 428. TASK FORCE ON FUTURE OF AIR TRANSPOR-
19 TATION SYSTEM.

20 (a) IN GENERAL.—The President shall establish a
21 task force to work with the Next Generation Air Transpor-
22 tation System Joint Program Office authorized under sec-
23 tion 106(k)(3).

24 (b) MEMBERSHIP.—The task force shall be composed
25 of representatives, appointed by the President, from air

1 carriers, general aviation, pilots, and air traffic controllers
2 and the following government organizations:

- 3 (1) The Federal Aviation Administration.
- 4 (2) The National Aeronautics and Space Ad-
5 ministration.
- 6 (3) The Department of Defense.
- 7 (4) The Department of Homeland Security.
- 8 (5) The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Ad-
9 ministration.
- 10 (6) Other government organizations designated
11 by the President.

12 (c) FUNCTION.—The function of the task force shall
13 be to develop an integrated plan to transform the Nation’s
14 air traffic control system and air transportation system
15 to meet its future needs.

16 (d) PLAN.—Not later than 1 year after the date of 17 establishment of the task force, the task force shall trans-
18 mit to the President and Congress a plan outlining the 19 overall strategy, schedule, and resources needed to develop
20 and deploy the Nation’s next generation air traffic control
21 system and air transportation system.

22 SEC. 429. AIR QUALITY IN AIRCRAFT CABINS.

23 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Federal
24 Aviation Administration shall undertake the studies and
25 analysis called for in the report of the National Research

1 Council entitled “The Airliner Cabin Environment and the
2 Health of Passengers and Crew”.

3 (b) REQUIRED ACTIVITIES.—In carrying out this sec-
4 tion, the Administrator, at a minimum, shall—

5 (1) conduct surveillance to monitor ozone in the
6 cabin on a representative number of flights and air-
7 craft to determine compliance with existing Federal
8 Aviation Regulations for ozone;

9 (2) collect pesticide exposure data to determine
10 exposures of passengers and crew; and

11 (3) analyze samples of residue from aircraft
12 ventilation ducts and filters after air quality inci-
13 dents to identify the allergens, diseases, and other
14 contaminants to which passengers and crew were ex-
15 posed.

16 (c) REPORT.—Not later than 30 months after the
17 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall
18 transmit to Congress a report on the findings of the Ad-
19 ministrator under this section.

20 SEC. 430. RECOMMENDATIONS CONCERNING TRAVEL
21 AGENTS.

22 (a) REPORT.—Not later than 6 months after the date
23 of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Transportation
24 shall transmit to Congress a report on any actions that
25 should be taken with respect to recommendations made

1 by the National Commission to Ensure Consumer Infor-
2 mation and Choice in the Airline Industry on—

- 3 (1) the travel agent arbiter program; and
- 4 (2) the special box on tickets for agents to in-
5 clude their service fee charges.

6 (b) CONSULTATION.—In preparing this report, the
7 Secretary shall consult with representatives from the air-
8 line and travel agent industry.

9 SEC. 431. TASK FORCE ON ENHANCED TRANSFER OF APPLI-
10 CATIONS OF TECHNOLOGY FOR MILITARY
11 AIRCRAFT TO CIVILIAN AIRCRAFT.

12 (a) IN GENERAL.—The President shall establish a
13 task force to look for better methods for ensuring that
14 technology developed for military aircraft is more quickly
15 and easily transferred to applications for improving and
16 modernizing the fleet of civilian aircraft.

17 (b) MEMBERSHIP.—The task force shall be composed
18 of the Secretary of Transportation who shall be the chair
19 of the task force and representatives, appointed by the 20 President, from the following:

- 21 (1) The Department of Transportation.
- 22 (2) The Federal Aviation Administration.
- 23 (3) The Department of Defense.
- 24 (4) The National Aeronautics and Space Ad-
25 ministration.

1 (5) The aircraft manufacturing industry.

2 (6) Such other organizations as the President
3 may designate.

4 (c) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the date
5 of enactment of this Act, the task force shall report to
6 Congress on the methods looked at by the task force for
7 ensuring the transfer of applications described in sub-
8 section (a).

9 SEC. 432. REIMBURSEMENT FOR LOSSES INCURRED BY
10 GENERAL AVIATION ENTITIES.

11 (a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
12 may make grants to reimburse the following general avia-
13 tion entities for the security costs incurred and revenue
14 foregone as a result of the restrictions imposed by the
15 Federal Government following the terrorist attacks on the 16 United States that occurred on September 11, 2001, or
17 the military action to free the people of Iraq that com-
18 menced in March 2003:

19 (1) General aviation entities that operate at
20 Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport.

21 (2) Airports that are located within 15 miles of 22 Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport and
23 were operating under security restrictions on the
24 date of enactment of this Act and general aviation
25 entities operating at those airports.

1 (c) REGIONAL AIR SERVICE INCENTIVE PROGRAM.—
2 Section 41766 is amended by striking “2003” and insert-
3 ing “2007”.

4 (d) FUNDING FOR AVIATION PROGRAMS.—Section
5 106 of the Wendell H. Ford Aviation Investment and Re-
6 form Act for the 21st Century (49 U.S.C. 48101 note)
7 is amended by striking “2003” each place it appears and
8 inserting “2007”.

9 (e) DESIGN-BUILD CONTRACTING.—Section 139(e)
10 of the Wendell H. Ford Aviation Investment and Reform
11 Act for the 21st Century (49 U.S.C. 47104 note) is
12 amended by striking “2003” and inserting “2007”.

13 (f) METROPOLITAN WASHINGTON AIRPORTS AU-
14 THORITY.—Section 49108 is amended by striking “2004”
15 and inserting “2007”.

16 SEC. 105. INSURANCE.

17 (a) TERMINATION.—Section 44310 is amended to
18 read as follows:

19 “§ 44310. Termination date

20 “Effective December 31, 2007, the authority of the 21 Secretary of Transportation to provide insurance and rein-
22 surance under this chapter shall be limited to—

23 “(1) the operation of an aircraft by an air car-
24 rier or foreign air carrier in foreign air commerce or

1           (3) General aviation entities that were affected
2           by Federal Aviation Administration Notices to Air-
3           men FDC 2/0199 and 3/1862 and section 352 of the
4           Department of Transportation and Related Agencies
5           Appropriations Act, 2003 (P.L. 108–7, Division I).

6           (4) General aviation entities affected by imple-
7           mentation of section 44939 of title 49, United
8           States Code.

9           (5) Any other general aviation entity that is
10          prevented from doing business or operating by an
11          action of the Federal Government prohibiting access
12          to airspace by that entity.

13          (b) DOCUMENTATION.—Reimbursement under this
14          section shall be made in accordance with sworn financial 15          statements or other appropriate data submitted by each
16          general aviation entity demonstrating the costs incurred
17          and revenue foregone to the satisfaction of the Secretary.

18          (c) GENERAL AVIATION ENTITY DEFINED.—In this
19          section, the term “general aviation entity” means any per-
20          son (other than a scheduled air carrier or foreign air car-
21          rier, as such terms are defined in section 40102 of title
22          49, United States Code) that—

23                 (1) operates nonmilitary aircraft under part 91
24                 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations, for the pur-
25                 pose of conducting its primary business;

1 (2) manufactures nonmilitary aircraft with a
2 maximum seating capacity of fewer than 20 pas-
3 sengers or aircraft parts to be used in such aircraft;

4 (3) provides services necessary for nonmilitary
5 operations under such part 91; or

6 (4) operates an airport, other than a primary
7 airport (as such terms are defined in such section
8 40102), that—

9 (A) is listed in the national plan of inte-
10 grated airport systems developed by the Federal
11 Aviation Administration under section 47103 of 12 such title; or

13 (B) is normally open to the public, is lo-
14 cated within the confines of enhanced class B
15 airspace (as defined by the Federal Aviation
16 Administration in Notice to Airmen FDC 1/
17 0618), and was closed as a result of an order
18 issued by the Federal Aviation Administration
19 in the period beginning September 11, 2001,
20 and ending January 1, 2002, and remained
21 closed as a result of that order on January 1,
22 2002.

23 Such term includes fixed based operators, flight schools,
24 manufacturers of general aviation aircraft and products,

1 persons engaged in nonscheduled aviation enterprises, and
 2 general aviation independent contractors.

3 (d) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—There is
 4 authorized to be appropriated to carry out this section
 5 $100,000,000. Such sums shall remain available until ex-
 6 pended.

7 SEC. 433. IMPASSE PROCEDURES FOR NATIONAL ASSOCIA-
 8 TION OF AIR TRAFFIC SPECIALISTS.

9 (a) FAILURE OF CURRENT NEGOTIATIONS.—If, with-
 10 in 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the
 11 Federal Aviation Administration and the exclusive bar-
 12 gaining representative of the National Association of Air
 13 Traffic Specialists have failed to achieve agreement
 14 through a mediation process of the Federal Mediation and
 15 Conciliation Service, the current labor negotiation shall be
 16 treated for purposes of this section to have failed.

17 (b) SUBMISSION TO IMPASSE PANEL.—Not later
 18 than 30 days after the negotiation has failed under sub-
 19 section (a), the parties to the negotiation shall submit un-
 20 resolved issues to the Federal Service Impasses Panel de-
 21 scribed in section 7119(e) of title 5, United States Code,
 22 for final and binding resolution.

23 (c) ASSISTANCE.—The Panel shall render assistance
 24 to the parties in resolving their dispute in accordance with

1 section 7119 of title 5, United States Code, and parts
2 2470 and 2471 of title 5, Code of Federal Regulations.

3 (d) DETERMINATION.—The Panel shall make a just
4 and reasonable determination of the matters in dispute.
5 In arriving at such determination, the Panel shall specify
6 the basis for its findings, taking into consideration such
7 relevant factors as are normally and customarily consid-
8 ered in the determination of wages or impasse Panel pro-
9 ceedings. The Panel shall also take into consideration the 10 financial ability of the Administration to pay.

11 (e) EFFECT OF PANEL DETERMINATION.—The de-
12 termination of the Panel shall be final and binding upon
13 the parties for the period prescribed by the Panel or a
14 period otherwise agreed to by the parties.

15 (f) REVIEW.—The determination of the Panel shall
16 be subject to review in the manner prescribed in chapter
17 71 of title 5, United States Code.

18 SEC. 434. FAA INSPECTOR TRAINING.

19 (a) STUDY.—

20 (1) IN GENERAL.—The Comptroller General
21 shall conduct a study of the training of the aviation
22 safety inspectors of the Federal Aviation Adminis-
23 tration (in this section referred to as “FAA inspec-
24 tors”).

25 (2) CONTENTS.—The study shall include—

1 (A) an analysis of the type of training pro-
2 vided to FAA inspectors;

3 (B) actions that the Federal Aviation Ad-
4 ministration has undertaken to ensure that
5 FAA inspectors receive up-to-date training on
6 the latest technologies;

7 (C) the extent of FAA inspector training
8 provided by the aviation industry and whether
9 such training is provided without charge or on
10 a quid-pro-quo basis; and

11 (D) the amount of travel that is required
12 of FAA inspectors in receiving training.

13 (3) REPORT.—Not later than 1 year after the
14 date of enactment of this Act, the Comptroller Gen-
15 eral shall transmit to the Committee on Transpor-
16 tation and Infrastructure of the House of Represent-
17 atives and the Committee on Commerce, Science,
18 and Transportation of the Senate a report on the re-
19 sults of the study.

20 (b) SENSE OF THE HOUSE.—It is the sense of the 21 House of Representatives that—

22 (1) FAA inspectors should be encouraged to
23 take the most up-to-date initial and recurrent train-
24 ing on the latest aviation technologies;

1 (2) FAA inspector training should have a direct
2 relation to an individual's job requirements; and

3 (3) if possible, a FAA inspector should be al-
4 lowed to take training at the location most conven-
5 ient for the inspector.

6 (c) WORKLOAD OF INSPECTORS.—

7 (1) STUDY BY NATIONAL ACADEMY OF
8 SCIENCES.—Not later than 90 days after the date of
9 enactment of this Act, the Administrator of the Fed-
10 eral Aviation Administration shall make appropriate
11 arrangements for the National Academy of Sciences
12 to conduct a study of the assumptions and methods
13 used by the Federal Aviation Administration to esti-
14 mate staffing standards for FAA inspectors to en-
15 sure proper oversight over the aviation industry, in-
16 cluding the designee program.

17 (2) CONTENTS.—The study shall include the
18 following:

19 (A) A suggested method of modifying FAA
20 inspectors staffing models for application to
21 current local conditions or applying some other
22 approach to developing an objective staffing
23 standard.

24 (B) The approximate cost and length of
25 time for developing such models.

1           (3) REPORT.—Not later than 12 months after
2           the initiation of the arrangements under subsection
3           (a), the National Academy of Sciences shall transmit
4           to Congress a report on the results of the study.

5 SEC. 435. PROHIBITION ON AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL PRIVAT-
6 IZATION.

7           (a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
8           may not authorize the transfer of the air traffic separation
9           and control functions operated by the Federal Aviation
10          Administration on the date of enactment of this Act to 11          a private entity or to a public entity other than the United
12          States Government.

13          (b) CONTRACT TOWER PROGRAM.—Subsection (a)
14          shall not apply to the contract tower program authorized
15          by section 47124 of title 49, United States Code.

16 SEC. 436. AIRFARES FOR MEMBERS OF THE ARMED
17 FORCES.

18          (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

19               (1) the Armed Forces is comprised of approxi-
20               mately 1,400,000 members who are stationed on ac-
21               tive duty at more than 6,000 military bases in 146
22               different countries;

23               (2) the United States is indebted to the mem-
24               bers of the Armed Forces, many of whom are in

1 grave danger due to their engagement in, or expo-
2 sure to, combat;

3 (3) military service, especially in the current
4 war against terrorism, often requires members of the
5 Armed Forces to be separated from their families on
6 short notice, for long periods of time, and under
7 very stressful conditions;

8 (4) the unique demands of military service often
9 preclude members of the Armed Forces from pur-
10 chasing discounted advance airline tickets in order
11 to visit their loved ones at home; and

12 (5) it is the patriotic duty of the people of the 13 United States to support the members of the Armed
14 Forces who are defending the Nation's interests
15 around the world at great personal sacrifice.

16 (b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Con-
17 gress that each United States air carrier should—

18 (1) establish for all members of the Armed
19 Forces on active duty reduced air fares that are 20 comparable to the lowest airfare for ticketed flights;
21 and

22 (2) offer flexible terms that allow members of
23 the Armed Forces on active duty to purchase, mod-
24 ify, or cancel tickets without time restrictions, fees,
25 and penalties.

1 SEC. 437. AIR CARRIERS REQUIRED TO HONOR TICKETS
2 FOR SUSPENDED AIR SERVICE.

3 Section 145(e) of the Aviation and Transportation
4 Security Act (49 U.S.C. 40101 note; 115 stat. 645) is
5 amended by striking “more than” and all that follows
6 through “after” and inserting “more than 36 months
7 after”.

8 SEC. 438. INTERNATIONAL AIR SHOW.

9 (a) STUDY.—The Secretary of Transportation shall
10 study the feasibility of the United States hosting a world-
11 class international air show.

12 (b) REPORT.—Not later than 9 months after the date
13 of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall transmit to
14 Congress a report on the results of the study conducted
15 under subsection (a) together with recommendations con-
16 cerning potential locations at which the air show could be
17 held.

18 SEC. 439. DEFINITION OF AIR TRAFFIC CONTROLLER.

19 (a) CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—Section
20 8331 of title 5, United States Code, is amended—

21 (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph
22 (27);

23 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
24 graph (28) and inserting “; and”; and

25 (3) by adding at the end the following:

1           “(29) ‘air traffic controller’ or ‘controller’
2           means—

3                   “(A) a controller within the meaning of
4                   section 2109(1); and

5                   “(B) a civilian employee of the Depart-
6                   ment of Transportation or the Department of
7                   Defense holding a supervisory, managerial, ex-
8                   ecutive, technical, semiprofessional, or profes-
9                   sional position for which experience as a con-
10                  troller (within the meaning of section 2109(1))
11                  is a prerequisite.”.

12           (b) FEDERAL EMPLOYEES’ RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—
13           Section 8401 of title 5, United States Code, is amended—

14                   (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph
15                   (33);

16                   (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
17                   graph (34) and inserting “; and”; and

18                   (3) by adding at the end the following:

19                   “(35) ‘air traffic controller’ or ‘controller’
20                   means—

21                           “(A) a controller within the meaning of
22                           section 2109(1); and

23                           “(B) a civilian employee of the Depart-
24                           ment of Transportation or the Department of
25                           Defense holding a supervisory, managerial, ex-

1 between at least 2 points, all of which are outside
2 the United States; and

3 “(2) insurance obtained by a department, agen-
4 cy, or instrumentality of the United States under
5 section 44305.”.

6 (b) EXTENSION OF POLICIES.—Section 44302(f)(1)
7 is amended by striking “through December 31, 2004,”
8 and inserting “thereafter”.

9 (c) AIRCRAFT MANUFACTURER LIABILITY FOR
10 THIRD PARTY CLAIMS ARISING OUT OF ACTS OF TER-
11 RORISM.—Section 44303(b) is amended by adding at the 12 end the following: “The Secretary may extend the provi-
13 sions of this subsection to the United States manufacturer
14 (as defined in section 44310) of the aircraft of the air
15 carrier involved.”.

16 (d) VENDORS, AGENTS, SUBCONTRACTORS, AND
17 MANUFACTURERS.—

18 (1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 443 is amended—

19 (A) by redesignating section 44310 (as 20 amended by subsection (a) of this section) as
21 section 44311; and

22 (B) by inserting after section 44309 the
23 following:

1           ecutive, technical, semiprofessional, or profes-
2           sional position for which experience as a con-
3           troller (within the meaning of section 2109(1))
4           is a prerequisite.”.

5           (c) MANDATORY SEPARATION TREATMENT NOT AF-
6           FECTED.—

7           (1) CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT SYSTEM.—Sec-
8           tion 8335(a) of title 5, United States Code, is 9           amended by adding at the end the following: “For
10          purposes of this subsection, the term ‘air traffic con-
11          troller’ or ‘controller’ has the meaning given to it
12          under section 8331(29)(A).”.

13          (2) FEDERAL EMPLOYEES’ RETIREMENT SYS-
14          TEM.—Section 8425(a) of title 5, United States
15          Code, is amended by adding at the end the fol-
16          lowing: “For purposes of this subsection, the term
17          ‘air traffic controller’ or ‘controller’ has the meaning
18          given to it under section 8401(35)(A).”.

19          (d) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section and the amend-
20          ments made by this section—

21                 (1) shall take effect on the 60th day after the
22                 date of enactment of this Act; and

23                 (2) shall apply with respect to—

1 (A) any annuity entitlement to which is
2 based on an individual's separation from service
3 occurring on or after that 60th day; and

4 (B) any service performed by any such in-
5 dividual before, on, or after that 60th day, sub-
6 ject to subsection (e).

7 (e) DEPOSIT REQUIRED FOR CERTAIN PRIOR SERV-
8 ICE TO BE CREDITABLE AS CONTROLLER SERVICE.—

9 (1) DEPOSIT REQUIREMENT.—For purposes of
10 determining eligibility for immediate retirement
11 under section 8412(e) of title 5, United States Code,
12 the amendment made by subsection (b) shall, with 13 respect to any service described in paragraph (2), be
14 disregarded unless there is deposited into the Civil
15 Service Retirement and Disability Fund, with re-
16 spect to such service, in such time, form, and man-
17 ner as the Office of Personnel Management by regu-
18 lation requires, an amount equal to the amount by 19 which—

20 (A) the deductions from pay which would
21 have been required for such service if the
22 amendments made by this section had been in
23 effect when such service was performed, exceeds

1 (B) the unrefunded deductions or deposits
 2 actually made under subchapter II of chapter
 3 84 of such title 5 with respect to such service.

4 The amount under the preceding sentence shall in-
 5 clude interest, computed under paragraphs (2) and
 6 (3) of section 8334(e) of such title 5.

7 (2) PRIOR SERVICE DESCRIBED.—This sub-
 8 section applies with respect to any service performed
 9 by an individual, before the 60th day following the
 10 date of enactment of this Act, as an employee de-
 11 scribed in section 8401(35)(B) of such title 5 (as set
 12 forth in subsection (b)).

13 SEC. 440. JUSTIFICATION FOR AIR DEFENSE IDENTIFICA-
 14 TION ZONE.

15 (a) IN GENERAL.—If the Administrator of the Fed-
 16 eral Aviation Administration establishes an Air Defense
 17 Identification Zone (in this section referred as an 18 “ADIZ”), the Administrator shall transmit, not later than
 19 60 days after the date of establishing the ADIZ, to the
 20 Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the
 21 House of Representatives and the Committee on Com-
 22 merce, Science, and Transportation of the Senate a report
 23 containing an explanation of the need for the ADIZ. The
 24 Administrator also shall transmit to the Committees up-
 25 dates of the report every 60 days until the ADIZ is re-

1 scinded. The reports and updates shall be transmitted in
2 classified form.

3 (b) EXISTING ADIZ.—If an ADIZ is in effect on the
4 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall
5 transmit an initial report under subsection (a) not later
6 than 30 days after such date of enactment.

7 (c) DEFINITION.—In this section, the terms “Air De-
8 fense Identification Zone” and “ADIZ” each mean a zone
9 established by the Administrator with respect to airspace
10 under 18,000 feet in approximately a 15- to 38-mile ra-
11 dius around Washington, District of Columbia, for which
12 security measures are extended beyond the existing 15-
13 mile no-fly zone around Washington and in which general
14 aviation aircraft are required to adhere to certain proce-
15 dures issued by the Administrator.

16 SEC. 441 . INTERNATIONAL AIR TRANSPORTATION.

17 It is the sense of Congress that, in an effort to mod-
18 ernize its regulations, the Department of Transportation
19 should formally define “Fifth Freedom” and “Seventh
20 Freedom” consistently for both scheduled and charter pas-
21 senger and cargo traffic.

22 TITLE V—AIRPORT
23 DEVELOPMENT

24 SEC. 501. DEFINITIONS.

25 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 47102 is amended—

1 (1) by redesignating paragraphs (19) and (20)
2 as paragraphs (24) and (25), respectively;

3 (2) by inserting after paragraph (18) the fol-
4 lowing:

5 “(23) ‘small hub airport’ means a commercial
6 service airport that has at least 0.05 percent but less
7 than 0.25 percent of the passenger boardings.”;

8 (3) in paragraph (10) by striking subpara-
9 graphs (A) and (B) and inserting following:

10 “(A) means, unless the context indicates
11 otherwise, revenue passenger boardings in the
12 United States in the prior calendar year on an
13 aircraft in service in air commerce, as the Sec-
14 retary determines under regulations the Sec-
15 retary prescribes; and

16 “(B) includes passengers who continue on
17 an aircraft in international flight that stops at
18 an airport in the 48 contiguous States, Alaska,
19 or Hawaii for a nontraffic purpose.”;

20 (4) by redesignating paragraphs (10) through
21 (18) as paragraphs (14) through (22), respectively;

22 (5) by inserting after paragraph (9) the fol-
23 lowing:

1 “(10) ‘large hub airport’ means a commercial
2 service airport that has at least 1.0 percent of the
3 passenger boardings.

4 “(12) ‘medium hub airport’ means a commer-
5 cial service airport that has at least 0.25 percent but
6 less than 1.0 percent of the passenger boardings.

7 “(13) ‘nonhub airport’ means a commercial
8 service airport that has less than 0.05 percent of the 9 passenger boardings.”; and

10 (6) by striking paragraph (6) and inserting the
11 following:

12 “(6) ‘Amount made available under section
13 48103’ or ‘amount newly made available’ means the
14 amount authorized for grants under section 48103
15 as that amount may be limited in that year by a
16 subsequent law, but as determined without regard to
17 grant obligation recoveries made in that year or
18 amounts covered by section 47107(f).”.

19 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section
20 47116(b)(1) is amended by striking “(as defined in section
21 41731) of this title”.

22 SEC. 502. REPLACEMENT OF BAGGAGE CONVEYOR SYS-
23 TEMS.

24 Section 47102(3)(B)(x) is amended by striking the 25 period at the end and inserting the following: “; except

1 that such activities shall be eligible for funding under this
2 subchapter only using amounts apportioned under section
3 47114.”.

4 SEC. 503. SECURITY COSTS AT SMALL AIRPORTS.

5 (a) SECURITY COSTS.—Section 47102(3)(J) is
6 amended to read as follows:

7 “(J) in the case of a nonhub airport or an
8 airport that is not a primary airport in fiscal
9 year 2004, direct costs associated with new, ad-
10 ditional, or revised security requirements im-
11 posed on airport operators by law, regulation,
12 or order on or after September 11, 2001, if the
13 Government’s share is paid only from amounts
14 apportioned to a sponsor under section
15 47114(c) or 47114(d)(3)(A).”.

16 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—Section
17 47110(b)(2) is amended—

18 (1) in subparagraph (D) by striking “,
19 47102(3)(K), or 47102(3)(L)”;

20 (2) by aligning the margin of subparagraph (D)
21 with the margin of subparagraph (B).

22 SEC. 504. WITHHOLDING OF PROGRAM APPLICATION AP-
23 PROVAL.

24 Section 47106(d) is amended—

1 (1) in paragraph (1) by striking “section
2 47114(c) and (e) of this title” and inserting “sub-
3 sections (c), (d), and (e) of section 47114”; and

4 (2) by adding at the end the following:

5 “(4) If the Secretary withholds a grant to an airport
6 from the discretionary fund under section 47115 or from
7 the small airport fund under section 47116 on the grounds
8 that the sponsor has violated an assurance or requirement
9 of this subchapter, the Secretary shall follow the proce-
10 dures of this subsection.”.

11 SEC. 505. RUNWAY SAFETY AREAS.

12 (a) APPROVAL OF PROJECT GRANT APPLICATIONS.—
13 Section 47106 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
14 lowing:

15 “(h) RUNWAY SAFETY AREAS.—The Secretary may
16 approve an application under this chapter for a project
17 grant to construct, reconstruct, repair, or improve a run-
18 way only if the Secretary receives written assurances, sat-
19 isfactory to the Secretary, that the sponsor will undertake,
20 to the maximum extent practical, improvement of the run-
21 way’s safety area to meet the standards of the Federal 22 Aviation Administration.”.

1 SEC. 506. DISPOSITION OF LAND ACQUIRED FOR NOISE
2 COMPATIBILITY PURPOSES.

3 Section 47107(c) is amended by adding at the end
4 the following:

5 “(4) Notwithstanding paragraph (2)(A)(iii), an air-
6 port owner or operator may retain all or any portion of
7 the proceeds from a land disposition described in that
8 paragraph if the Secretary finds that the use of the land
9 will be compatible with airport purposes and the proceeds
10 retained will be used for airport development or to carry
11 out a noise compatibility program under section
12 47504(c).”.

13 SEC. 507. GRANT ASSURANCES.

14 (a) HANGAR CONSTRUCTION.—Section 47107(a) is
15 amended—

16 (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph
17 (19);

18 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
19 graph (20) and inserting “; and”; and

20 (3) by adding at the end the following:

21 “(21) if the airport owner or operator and a
22 person who owns an aircraft agree that a hangar is
23 to be constructed at the airport for the aircraft at 24 the aircraft owner’s expense, the airport owner or
25 operator will grant to the aircraft owner for the
26 hangar a long-term lease (of not less than 50 years)

1 that is subject to such terms and conditions on the
2 hangar as the airport owner or operator may im-
3 pose.”.

4 (b) STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.—Section
5 47107(1)(5)(A) is amended by inserting “or any other gov-
6 ernmental entity” after “sponsor”.

7 (c) AUDIT CERTIFICATION.—Section 47107(m) is
8 amended—

9 (1) in paragraph (1) by striking “promulgate
10 regulations that” and inserting “include a provision
11 in the compliance supplement provisions to”; and

12 (2) in paragraph (1) by striking “and opinion
13 of the review”; and

14 (3) by striking paragraph (3).

15 SEC. 508. ALLOWABLE PROJECT COSTS.

16 (a) CONSTRUCTION OR MODIFICATION OF PUBLIC
17 PARKING FACILITIES FOR SECURITY PURPOSES.—Section
18 47110 is amended—

19 (1) in subsection (f) by striking “subsection
20 (d)” and inserting “subsections (d) and (h)”; and

21 (2) by adding at the end the following:

22 “(h) CONSTRUCTION OR MODIFICATION OF PUBLIC
23 PARKING FACILITIES FOR SECURITY PURPOSES.—Not-
24 withstanding subsection (f)(1), a cost of constructing or
25 modifying a public parking facility for passenger auto-

1 “§ 44310. Vendors, agents, subcontractors, and manu-
2 facturers

3 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
4 may extend the application of any provision of this chapter
5 to a loss by a vendor, agent, and subcontractor of an air
6 carrier and a United States manufacturer of an aircraft
7 used by an air carrier but only to the extent that the loss
8 involved an aircraft of an air carrier.

9 “(b) UNITED STATES MANUFACTURER DEFINED.—
10 In this section, the term “United States manufacturer”
11 means a manufacturer incorporated under the laws of a
12 State of the United States and having its principal place
13 of business in the United States.”.

14 (2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
15 chapter 443 is amended by striking the item relating to
16 section 44310 and inserting the following:

“44310. Vendors, agents, subcontractors, and manufacturers.
“44311. Termination date”.

17 (e) TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS.—Effective November
18 19, 2001, the Aviation and Transportation Security Act
19 (115 Stat. 597) is amended—

20 (1) in section 147 by striking “44306(b)” and
21 inserting “44306(c)”; and

22 (2) in section 124(b) by striking “to carry out
23 foreign policy” and inserting “to carry out the for-
24 eign policy”.

1 mobiles to comply with a regulation or directive of the De-
2 partment of Homeland Security shall be treated as an al-
3 lowable airport development project cost.”.

4 (b) DEBT FINANCING.—Section 47110 is further
5 amended by adding at the end the following:

6 “(i) DEBT FINANCING.—In the case of an airport
7 that is not a medium hub airport or large hub airport,
8 the Secretary may determine that allowable airport devel-
9 opment project costs include payments of interest, com-
10 mercial bond insurance, and other credit enhancement
11 costs associated with a bond issue to finance the project.”.

12 (c) CLARIFICATION OF ALLOWABLE COSTS.—Sec-
13 tion 47110(b)(1) is amended by inserting before the semi-
14 colon at the end “and any cost of moving a Federal facility
15 impeding the project if the rebuilt facility is of an equiva-
16 lent size and type”.

17 (d) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—Section 47110(c) is
18 amended by aligning the margin of paragraph (6) with 19 the margin of paragraph (5).

20 SEC. 509. APPORTIONMENTS TO PRIMARY AIRPORTS.

21 (a) FORMULA CHANGES.—Section 47114(c)(1)(A) is
22 amended by striking clauses (iv) and (v) and by inserting
23 the following:

1           “(iv) $.65 for each of the next 500,000
2 passenger boardings at the airport during the
3 prior calendar year;

4           “(v) $.50 cents for each of the next
5 2,500,000 passenger boardings at the airport
6 during the prior calendar year; and

7           “(vi) $.45 cents for each additional pas-
8 senger boarding at the airport during the prior
9 calendar year.”.

10       (b) SPECIAL RULE FOR FISCAL YEARS 2004 AND 11 2005.—Section 47114(c)(1) is amended by adding at the
12 end the following:

13           “(F) SPECIAL RULE FOR FISCAL YEARS
14 2004 AND 2005.—Notwithstanding subparagraph
15 (A) and the absence of scheduled passenger air-
16 craft service at an airport, the Secretary may 17 apportion in fiscal years 2004 and 2005 to the 18 sponsor of the airport an amount equal to the 19 amount apportioned to that sponsor in fiscal
20 year 2002 or 2003, whichever amount is great-
21 er, if the Secretary finds that—

22           “(i) the passenger boardings at the 23 airport were below 10,000 in calendar year
24 2002;

1 “(ii) the airport had at least 10,000
2 passenger boardings and scheduled pas-
3 senger aircraft service in either calendar
4 year 2000 or 2001; and

5 “(iii) the reason that passenger
6 boardings described in clause (i) were
7 below 10,000 was the decrease in pas-
8 sengers following the terrorist attacks of
9 September 11, 2001.”.

10 SEC. 510. CARGO AIRPORTS.

11 Section 47114(c)(2) is amended—

12 (1) in the paragraph heading by striking
13 “ONLY”; and

14 (2) in subparagraph (A) by striking “3 per-
15 cent” and inserting “3.5 percent”.

16 SEC. 511. CONSIDERATIONS IN MAKING DISCRETIONARY
17 GRANTS.

18 Section 47115(d) is amended to read as follows:

19 “(d) CONSIDERATIONS.—

20 “(1) FOR CAPACITY ENHANCEMENT
21 PROJECTS.—In selecting a project for a grant to
22 preserve and improve capacity funded in whole or in
23 part from the fund, the Secretary shall consider—

1           “(A) the effect that the project will have
2           on overall national transportation system capac-
3           ity;

4           “(B) the benefit and cost of the project,
5           including, in the case of a project at a reliever
6           airport, the number of operations projected to
7           be diverted from a primary airport to the re-
8           liever airport as a result of the project, as well
9           as the cost savings projected to be realized by
10          users of the local airport system;

11          “(C) the financial commitment from non-
12          United States Government sources to preserve
13          or improve airport capacity;

14          “(D) the airport improvement priorities of
15          the States to the extent such priorities are not 16          in conflict with subparagraphs (A) and (B); and

17          “(E) the projected growth in the number
18          of passengers or aircraft that will be using the 19          airport at which the project will be carried out.

20          “(2) FOR ALL PROJECTS.—In selecting a
21          project for a grant described in paragraph (1), the
22          Secretary shall consider whether—

23                 “(A) funding has been provided for all
24                 other projects qualifying for funding during the 25                 fiscal year under this chapter that have at-

1           tained a higher score under the numerical pri-
2           ority system employed by the Secretary in ad-
3           ministering the fund; and

4                   “(B) the sponsor will be able to commence
5           the work identified in the project application in
6           the fiscal year in which the grant is made or
7           within 6 months after the grant is made, which-
8           ever is later.”.

9   SEC. 512. FLEXIBLE FUNDING FOR NONPRIMARY AIRPORT
10                   APPORTIONMENTS.

11           (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 47117(c) is amended to
12   read as follows:

13                   “(c) USE OF SPONSOR’S APPORTIONED AMOUNTS AT
14   PUBLIC USE AIRPORTS.—

15                   (1) OF SPONSOR.—An amount apportioned to a
16   sponsor of an airport under section 47114(c) or
17   47114(d)(3)(A) of this title is available for grants
18   for any public-use airport of the sponsor included in 19   the national plan of integrated airport systems.

20                   “(2) IN SAME STATE OR AREA.—A sponsor of
21   an airport may make an agreement with the Sec-
22   retary of Transportation waiving the sponsor’s claim
23   to any part of the amount apportioned for the air-
24   port under section 47114(c) or 47114(d)(3)(A) if
25   the Secretary agrees to make the waived amount

1 available for a grant for another public-use airport
2 in the same State or geographical area as the air-
3 port, as determined by the Secretary.”.

4 (b) PROJECT GRANT AGREEMENTS.—Section
5 47108(a) is amended by inserting “or 47114(d)(3)(A)”
6 after “under section 47114(c)”.

7 (c) ALLOWABLE PROJECT COSTS.—Section 47110 is
8 further amended—

9 (1) in subsection (b)(2)(C) by striking “of this
10 title” and inserting “or section 47114(d)(3)(A)”;

11 (2) in subsection (g)—

12 (A) by inserting “or section
13 47114(d)(3)(A)” after “of section 47114(c)”;
14 and

15 (B) by striking “of project” and inserting
16 “of the project”; and

17 (3) by adding at the end the following:

18 “(j) NONPRIMARY AIRPORTS.—The Secretary may
19 decide that the costs of revenue producing aeronautical
20 support facilities, including fuel farms and hangars, are
21 allowable for an airport development project at a nonpri-
22 mary airport if the Government’s share of such costs is
23 paid only with funds apportioned to the airport sponsor
24 under section 47114(d)(3)(A) and if the Secretary deter-

1 mines that the sponsor has made adequate provision for
2 financing airside needs of the airport.”.

3 (d) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS.—Section
4 47119(b) is amended—

5 (1) by striking “or” at the end of paragraph
6 (3);

7 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
8 graph (4) and inserting “; or”; and

9 (3) by adding at the end the following:

10 “(5) to a sponsor of a nonprimary airport, any
11 part of amounts apportioned to the sponsor for the 12 fiscal year under section 47114(d)(3)(A) for project
13 costs allowable under section 47110(d).”.

14 SEC. 513. USE OF APPORTIONED AMOUNTS.

15 (a) SPECIAL APPORTIONMENT CATEGORIES.—Sec-
16 tion 47117(e)(1)(A) is amended—

17 (1) by striking “of this title” the first place it
18 appears and inserting a comma;

19 (2) by striking “of this title” the second place
20 it appears and inserting “, for noise mitigation
21 projects approved in an environmental record of de-
22 cision for an airport development project under this
23 title, for compatible land use planning and projects
24 carried out by State and local governments under
25 section 47140, and for airport development de-

1 scribed in section 47102(3)(F) or 47102(3)(K) to
2 comply with the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7401 et
3 seq.)”.

4 (b) ELIMINATION OF SUPER RELIEVER SET-
5 ASIDE.—Section 47117(e)(1)(C) is repealed.

6 (c) RECOVERED FUNDS.—Section 47117 is further
7 amended by adding at the end the following:

8 “(h) TREATMENT OF CANCELED OR REDUCED
9 GRANT OBLIGATIONS.—For the purpose of determining
10 compliance with a limitation, enacted in an appropriations
11 Act, on the amount of grant obligations of funds made
12 available by section 48103 that may be incurred in a fiscal
13 year, an amount that is recovered by canceling or reducing
14 a grant obligation of funds made available by section
15 48103 shall be treated as a negative obligation that is to 16 be netted against the obligation limitation as enacted and
17 thus may permit the obligation limitation to be exceeded
18 by an equal amount.”.

19 SEC. 514. MILITARY AIRPORT PROGRAM.

20 Subsections (e) and (f) of section 47118 are each
21 amended by striking “$7,000,000” and inserting
22 “$10,000,000”.

23 SEC. 515. TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS.

24 Section 47119(a) is amended to read as follows:

25 “(a) REPAYING BORROWED MONEY.—

1           “(1) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS IN-
2           CURRED AFTER JUNE 30, 1970, AND BEFORE JULY
3           12, 1976.—An amount apportioned under section
4           47114 and made available to the sponsor of a com-
5           mercial service airport at which terminal develop-
6           ment was carried out after June 30, 1970, and be-
7           fore July 12, 1976, is available to repay immediately
8           money borrowed and used to pay the costs for such
9           terminal development if those costs would be allow-
10          able project costs under section 47110(d) if they had
11          been incurred after September 3, 1982.

12           “(2) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS IN-
13          CURRED BETWEEN JANUARY 1, 1992, AND OCTOBER
14          31, 1992.—An amount apportioned under section
15          47114 and made available to the sponsor of a
16          nonhub airport at which terminal development was
17          carried out between January 1, 1992, and October
18          31, 1992, is available to repay immediately money
19          borrowed and to pay the costs for such terminal de-
20          velopment if those costs would be allowable project
21          costs under section 47110(d).

22           “(3) TERMINAL DEVELOPMENT COSTS AT PRI-
23          MARY AIRPORTS.—An amount apportioned under
24          section 47114 or available under subsection (b)(3) to 25          a primary airport—

1           “(A) that was a nonhub airport in the
2 most recent year used to calculate apportion-
3 ments under section 47114;

4           “(B) that is a designated airport under
5 section 47118 in fiscal year 2003; and

6           “(C) at which terminal development is car-
7 ried out between January 2003 and August
8 2004,

9 is available to repay immediately money borrowed
10 and used to pay the costs for such terminal develop-
11 ment if those costs would be allowable project costs
12 under section 47110(d).

13           “(4) CONDITIONS FOR GRANT.—An amount is
14 available for a grant under this subsection only if—

15           “(A) the sponsor submits the certification
16 required under section 47110(d);

17           “(B) the Secretary of Transportation de-
18 cides that using the amount to repay the bor-
19 rowed money will not defer an airport develop-
20 ment project outside the terminal area at that
21 airport; and

22           “(C) amounts available for airport develop-
23 ment under this subchapter will not be used for 24 additional terminal development projects at the
25 airport for at least 3 years beginning on the

1 SEC. 106. PILOT PROGRAM FOR INNOVATIVE FINANCING
2 FOR TERMINAL AUTOMATION REPLACEMENT
3 SYSTEMS.

4 (a) IN GENERAL.—In order to test the cost-effective-
5 ness and feasibility of long-term financing of moderniza-
6 tion of major air traffic control systems, the Administrator
7 of the Federal Aviation Administration may establish a
8 pilot program to test innovative financing techniques
9 through amending a contract, without regard to section
10 1341 of title 31, United States Code, of more than one,
11 but not more than 20, fiscal years to purchase and install
12 terminal automation replacement systems for the Admin-
13 istration. Such amendments may be for more than one,
14 but not more than 10 fiscal years.

15 (b) CANCELLATION.—A contract described in sub-
16 section (a) may include a cancellation provision if the Ad-
17 ministrator determines that such a provision is necessary
18 and in the best interest of the United States. Any such 19 provision shall include a cancellation liability schedule that
20 covers reasonable and allocable costs incurred by the con-
21 tractor through the date of cancellation plus reasonable
22 profit, if any, on those costs. Any such provision shall not
23 apply if the contract is terminated by default of the con-
24 tractor.

25 (c) CONTRACT PROVISIONS.—If feasible and prac-
26 ticable for the pilot program, the Administrator may make

1 date the grant is used to repay the borrowed
2 money.

3 “(5) APPLICABILITY OF CERTAIN LIMITA-
4 TIONS.—A grant under this subsection shall be sub-
5 ject to the limitations in subsection (b)(1) and (2).”.

6 SEC. 516. CONTRACT TOWERS.

7 Section 47124(b) is amended—

8 (1) in paragraph (1) by striking “December 30,
9 1987,” and inserting “on date of enactment of the 10 Flight 100—Century of Aviation Reauthorization
11 Act”;

12 (2) in the heading for paragraph (3) by striking
13 “PILOT”;

14 (3) in paragraph (4)(C) by striking
15 “$1,100,000” and inserting “$1,500,000”; and

16 (4) by striking “pilot” each place it appears.

17 SEC. 517. AIRPORT SAFETY DATA COLLECTION.

18 Section 47130 is amended to read as follows:

19 “§ 47130. Airport safety data collection

20 “Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Ad-
21 ministrator of the Federal Aviation Administration may
22 award a contract, using sole source or limited source au-
23 thority, or enter into a cooperative agreement with, or pro-
24 vide a grant from amounts made available under section
25 48103 to, a private company or entity for the collection

1 of airport safety data. In the event that a grant is provided
2 under this section, the United States Government's share
3 of the cost of the data collection shall be 100 percent.”.

4 SEC. 518. AIRPORT PRIVATIZATION PILOT PROGRAM.

5 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 47134(b)(1) is
6 amended—

7 (1) in subparagraph (A) by striking clauses (i)
8 and (ii) and inserting the following:

9 “(i) in the case of a primary airport,
10 by at least 65 percent of the scheduled air
11 carriers serving the airport and by sched-
12 uled and nonscheduled air carriers whose
13 aircraft landing at the airport during the
14 preceding calendar year, had a total landed
15 weight during the preceding calendar year
16 of at least 65 percent of the total landed
17 weight of all aircraft landing at the airport
18 during such year; or

19 “(ii) by the Secretary at any nonpri-
20 mary airport after the airport has con-
21 sulted with at least 65 percent of the own-
22 ers of aircraft based at that airport, as de-
23 termined by the Secretary.”;

24 (2) by redesignating subparagraph (B) as sub-
25 paragraph (C); and

1 (3) by inserting after subparagraph (A) the fol-
2 lowing:

3 “(B) OBJECTION TO EXEMPTION.—An air
4 carrier shall be deemed to have approved a
5 sponsor’s application for an exemption under
6 subparagraph (A) unless the air carrier has
7 submitted an objection, in writing, to the spon-
8 sor within 60 days of the filing of the sponsor’s
9 application with the Secretary, or within 60
10 days of the service of the application upon that
11 air carrier, whichever is later.”.

12 (b) FEDERAL SHARE.—Section 47109(a) is
13 amended—

14 (1) by inserting “and” at the end of paragraph

15 (3);

16 (2) by striking paragraph (4); and

17 (3) by redesignating paragraph (5) as para-
18 graph (4).

19 SEC. 519. INNOVATIVE FINANCING TECHNIQUES.

20 (a) ELIGIBLE PROJECTS.—Section 47135(a) is
21 amended—

22 (1) in the first sentence by striking “20” and
23 inserting “10”; and

24 (2) by striking the second sentence and insert-
25 ing the following: “Such projects shall be located at

1 airports that are not medium or large hub air-
2 ports.”.

3 (b) INNOVATIVE FINANCING TECHNIQUES.—Section
4 47135(c)(2) is amended—

5 (1) by striking subparagraphs (A) and (B);

6 (2) by redesignating subparagraphs (C) and
7 (D) as subparagraphs (A) and (B), respectively;

8 (3) in subparagraph (A) (as so redesignated) by 9 striking “and” at the end; and

10 (4) in subparagraph (B) (as so redesignated) by 11 striking the period at the end and inserting “; and”.

12 SEC. 520. AIRPORT SECURITY PROGRAM.

13 Section 47137 is amended—

14 (1) by redesignating subsections (e) and (f) as
15 subsections (f) and (g), respectively; and

16 (2) by inserting after subsection (d) the fol-
17 lowing:

18 “(e) ADMINISTRATION.—The Secretary, in coopera-
19 tion with the Secretary of Homeland Security, shall ad-
20 minister the program authorized by this section.”.

21 SEC. 521. LOW-EMISSION AIRPORT VEHICLES AND INFRA-
22 STRUCTURE.

23 (a) EMISSIONS CREDITS.—Subchapter I of chapter
24 471 is amended by adding at the end the following:

1 “§ 47138. Emission credits for air quality projects.

2 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
3 and the Administrator of the Environmental Protection
4 Agency shall jointly agree on how to assure that airport
5 sponsors receive appropriate emission credits for carrying
6 out projects described in sections 40117(a)(3)(G),
7 47102(3)(K), and 47102(3)(L). Such agreement must in-
8 clude, at a minimum, the following conditions:

9 “(1) The provision of credits is consistent with
10 the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7402 et seq.).

11 “(2) Credits generated by the emissions reduc-
12 tions are kept by the airport sponsor and may only
13 be used for purposes of any current or future gen-
14 eral conformity determination under the Clean Air
15 Act or as offsets under the Environmental Protec-
16 tion Agency’s new source review program for
17 projects on the airport or associated with the air-
18 port.

19 “(3) Credits are calculated and provided to air-
20 ports on a consistent basis nationwide.

21 “(4) Credits are provided to airport sponsors in
22 a timely manner.

23 “(5) The establishment of a method to assure
24 the Secretary that, for any specific airport project
25 for which funding is being requested, the appro-
26 priate credits will be granted.

1 “(b) ASSURANCE OF RECEIPT OF CREDITS.—

2 “(1) IN GENERAL.—As a condition for making
3 a grant for a project described in section
4 47102(3)(K), 47102(3)(L), or 47139 or as a condi-
5 tion for granting approval to collect or use a pas-
6 senger facility fee for a project described in section
7 40117(a)(3)(G), 47102(3)(K), 47102(3)(L), or
8 47139, the Secretary must receive assurance from
9 the State in which the project is located, or from the 10 Administrator of the Environmental Protection
11 Agency where there is a Federal implementation
12 plan, that the airport sponsor will receive appro-
13 priate emission credits in accordance with the condi-
14 tions of this section.

15 “(2) AGREEMENT ON PREVIOUSLY APPROVED
16 PROJECTS.—The Secretary and the Administrator of
17 the Environmental Protection Agency shall jointly
18 agree on how to provide emission credits to airport
19 projects previously approved under section 47136
20 under terms consistent with the conditions enumer-
21 ated in this section.”.

22 (b) AIRPORT GROUND SUPPORT EQUIPMENT EMIS-
23 SIONS RETROFIT PILOT PROGRAM.—Subchapter I of
24 chapter 471 is further amended by adding at the end the
25 following:

1 “§ 47139. Airport ground support equipment emis-
2 sions retrofit pilot program.

3 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
4 shall carry out a pilot program at not more than 10 com-
5 mercial service airports under which the sponsors of such
6 airports may use an amount made available under section
7 48103 to retrofit existing eligible airport ground support
8 equipment that burns conventional fuels to achieve lower
9 emissions utilizing emission control technologies certified
10 or verified by the Environmental Protection Agency.

11 “(b) LOCATION IN AIR QUALITY NONATTAINMENT
12 OR MAINTENANCE AREAS.—A commercial service airport
13 shall be eligible for participation in the pilot program only
14 if the airport is located in an air quality nonattainment
15 area (as defined in section 171(2) of the Clean Air Act
16 (42 U.S.C. 7501(2)) or a maintenance area referred to 17 in section 175A of such Act (42 U.S.C. 7505a).

18 “(c) SELECTION CRITERIA.—In selecting from
19 among applicants for participation in the pilot program,
20 the Secretary shall give priority consideration to appli-
21 cants that will achieve the greatest air quality benefits
22 measured by the amount of emissions reduced per dollar
23 of funds expended under the pilot program.

24 “(d) MAXIMUM AMOUNT.—Not more than $500,000
25 may be expended under the pilot program at any single
26 commercial service airport.

1           “(e) GUIDELINES.—The Secretary, in consultation
2 with the Administrator of the Environmental Protection
3 Agency, shall establish guidelines regarding the types of
4 retrofit projects eligible under the pilot program by consid-
5 ering remaining equipment useful life, amounts of emis-
6 sion reduction in relation to the cost of projects, and other
7 factors necessary to carry out this section. The Secretary
8 may give priority to ground support equipment owned by
9 the airport and used for airport purposes.

10           “(f) ELIGIBLE EQUIPMENT DEFINED.—In this sec-
11 tion, the term ‘eligible equipment’ means ground service
12 or maintenance equipment that is located at the airport,
13 is used to support aeronautical and related activities at
14 the airport, and will remain in operation at the airport
15 for the life or useful life of the equipment, whichever is 16 earlier.”.

17           (c) ADDITION TO AIRPORT DEVELOPMENT.—Section
18 47102(3) is further amended by striking subparagraphs
19 (K) and (L) and inserting the following:

20                   “(K) work necessary to construct or mod-
21 ify airport facilities to provide low-emission fuel
22 systems, gate electrification, and other related
23 air quality improvements at a commercial serv-
24 ice airport if the airport is located in an air
25 quality nonattainment or maintenance area (as

1 defined in sections 171(2) and 175A of the
 2 Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7501(2), 7505a) and
 3 if such project will result in an airport receiving
 4 appropriate emission credits, as described in
 5 section 47138.

6 “(L) converting vehicles and ground sup-
 7 port equipment owned by a commercial service
 8 airport to low-emission technology or acquiring
 9 for use at a commercial service airport vehicles
 10 and ground support equipment that include
 11 low-emission technology if the airport is located
 12 in an air quality nonattainment area (as de-
 13 fined in section 171(2) of the Clean Air Act (42 14 U.S.C. 7501(2)) or a maintenance area referred 15 to in section 175A of such Act (42 U.S.C.
 16 7505a) and if such project will result in an air-
 17 port receiving appropriate emission credits as
 18 described in section 47138.”.

19 (d) ALLOWABLE PROJECT COST.—Section 47110(b)
 20 is further amended—

21 (1) by striking “and” at the end of paragraph

22 (4);

23 (2) by striking the period at the end of para-
 24 graph (5) and inserting “; and”; and

25 (3) by adding at the end the following:

1           “(6) in the case of a project for acquiring for
 2           use at a commercial service airport vehicles and
 3           ground support equipment owned by an airport that
 4           is not described in section 47102(3) and that include
 5           low-emission technology, if the total costs allowed for
 6           the project are not more than the incremental cost
 7           of equipping such vehicles or equipment with low-
 8           emission technology, as determined by the Sec-
 9           retary.”.

10           (e) LOW-EMISSION TECHNOLOGY EQUIPMENT.—Sec-
 11          tion 47102 (as amended by section 501 of this Act) is 12          further amended by inserting after paragraph (10) the fol-
 13          lowing:

14           “(11) ‘low-emission technology’ means technology for 15          vehicles and equipment whose emission performance is the 16          best achievable under emission standards established by
 17          the Environmental Protection Agency and that relies ex-
 18          clusively on alternative fuels that are substantially non-
 19          petroleum based, as defined by the Department of Energy,
 20          but not excluding hybrid systems or natural gas powered
 21          vehicles.”.

22           (f) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—The analysis of
 23          subchapter I of chapter 471 is amended by adding at the
 24          end the following:

“47138. Emission credits for air quality projects.

“47139. Airport ground support equipment emissions retrofit pilot program.”.

1 an advance contract provision to achieve economic-lot pur-
2 chases and more efficient production rates.

3 (d) LIMITATION.—The Administrator may not amend
4 a contract under this section until the program for the
5 terminal automation replacement systems has been
6 rebaselined in accordance with the acquisition manage-
7 ment system of the Administration.

8 (e) SCORING.—Budget authority for any contract or
9 amended contract under the pilot program shall be consid-
10 ered sufficient for purposes of the Budget Enforcement
11 Act of 1990 if for each fiscal year of the contract the 12 amount of budget authority is at least sufficient to cover
13 the estimated total payments to be made under that con-
14 tract for that year. Budget authority is not required for 15 any contingent liability that might be contained in a can-
16 cellation provision.

17 (f) ANNUAL REPORTS.—At the end of each fiscal
18 year during the term of the pilot program, the Adminis-
19 trator shall transmit to the Committee on Commerce,
20 Science, and Transportation of the Senate and the Com-
21 mittee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House
22 of Representatives a report on how the Administrator has 23 implemented in such fiscal year the pilot program, the 24 number and types of contracts or contract amendments

1 SEC. 522. COMPATIBLE LAND USE PLANNING AND
2 PROJECTS BY STATE AND LOCAL GOVERN-
3 MENTS.

4 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 471 is
5 further amended by adding at the end the following:

6 “§47140. Compatible land use planning and projects
7 by State and local governments

8 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
9 may make grants from amounts set aside under section
10 47117(e)(1)(A) to States and units of local government
11 for land use compatibility plans or projects resulting from 12 those plans for the purposes of making the use of land
13 areas around large hub airports and medium hub airports
14 compatible with aircraft operations if—

15 “(1) the airport operator has not submitted a
16 noise compatibility program to the Secretary under
17 section 47504 or has not updated such program
18 within the past 10 years; and

19 “(2) the land use plan meets the requirements
20 of this section and any project resulting from the 21 plan meets such requirements.

22 “(b) ELIGIBILITY.—In order to receive a grant under 23 this section, a State or unit of local government must—

24 “(1) have the authority to plan and adopt land
25 use control measures, including zoning, in the plan-

1       ning area in and around a large or medium hub air-
2       port;

3               “(2) provide written assurance to the Secretary
4       that it will work with the affected airport to identify
5       and adopt such measures; and

6               “(3) provide written assurance to the Secretary
7       that it will achieve, to the maximum extent possible,
8       compatible land uses consistent with Federal land
9       use compatibility criteria under section 47502(3)
10       and that those compatible land uses will be main-
11       tained.

12       “(c) ASSURANCES.—The Secretary shall require a
13       State or unit of local government to which a grant may 14       be awarded under this section for a land use plan or a
15       project resulting from such a plan to provide—

16               “(1) assurances satisfactory to the Secretary
17       that the plan—

18                       “(A) is reasonably consistent with the goal
19       of reducing existing noncompatible land uses
20       and preventing the introduction of additional
21       noncompatible land uses;

22                       “(B) addresses ways to achieve and main-
23       tain compatible land uses, including zoning,
24       building codes, and any other projects under
25       section 47504(a)(2) that are within the author-

1           ity of the State or unit of local government to
2           implement;

3           “(C) uses noise contours provided by the
4           airport operator that are consistent with the
5           airport operation and planning, including any
6           noise abatement measures adopted by the air-
7           port operator as part of its own noise mitiga-
8           tion efforts;

9           “(D) does not duplicate, and is not incon-
10          sistent with, the airport operator’s noise com-
11          patibility measures for the same area; and

12          “(E) has received concurrence by the air-
13          port operator prior to adoption by the State or 14          unit of local government; and

15          “(2) such other assurances as the Secretary de-
16          termines to be necessary to carry out this section.

17          “(d) GUIDELINES.—The Secretary shall establish
18          guidelines to administer this section in accordance with 19          the purposes and conditions described in this section. The 20          Secretary may require the State or unit of local govern-
21          ment to which a grant may be awarded under this section
22          to provide progress reports and other information as the 23          Secretary determines to be necessary to carry out this sec-
24          tion.

1           “(e) ELIGIBLE PROJECTS.—The Secretary may ap-
 2 prove a grant under this section to a State or unit of local
 3 government for a land use compatibility project only if the
 4 Secretary is satisfied that the project is consistent with
 5 the guidelines established by the Secretary under this sec-
 6 tion, that the State or unit of local government has pro-
 7 vided the assurances required by this section, that the Sec-
 8 retary has received evidence that the State or unit of local
 9 government has implemented (or has made provision to 10 implement) those elements of the plan that are not eligible
 11 for Federal financial assistance, and that the project is
 12 not inconsistent with Federal standards.

13           “(f) SUNSET.—This section shall not be in effect
 14 after September 30, 2007.”.

15           (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis of
 16 subchapter I of chapter 471 is further amended by adding
 17 at the end the following:

“47140. Compatible land use planning and projects by State and local governments.”.

18 SEC. 523. PROHIBITION ON REQUIRING AIRPORTS TO PRO-
 19 VIDE RENT-FREE SPACE FOR FEDERAL AVIA-
 20 TION ADMINISTRATION.

21           (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 471 is
 22 further amended by adding at the end the following:

1 “§ 47141. Prohibition on rent-free space requirements
2 for Federal Aviation Administration

3 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of Transportation
4 may not require an airport sponsor to provide to the Fed-
5 eral Aviation Administration, without compensation, space
6 in a building owned by the sponsor and costs associated
7 with such space for building construction, maintenance,
8 utilities, and other expenses.

9 “(b) NEGOTIATED AGREEMENTS.—Subsection (a)
10 does not prohibit—

11 “(1) the negotiation of agreements between the
12 Secretary and an airport sponsor to provide building
13 construction, maintenance, utilities and expenses, or
14 space in airport sponsor-owned buildings to the Fed-
15 eral Aviation Administration without cost or at
16 below-market rates; or

17 “(2) the Secretary of Transportation from re-
18 quiring airport sponsors to provide land without cost
19 to the Federal Aviation Administration for air traffic
20 control facilities.”.

21 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
22 subchapter I of chapter 471 is further amended by adding
23 at the end the following:

“47141. Prohibition on rent-free space requirements for Federal Aviation Administration.”.

1 SEC. 524. MIDWAY ISLAND AIRPORT.

2 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that the continued
3 operation of the Midway Island Airport in accordance with
4 the standards of the Federal Aviation Administration ap-
5 plicable to commercial airports is critical to the safety of
6 commercial, military, and general aviation in the mid-Pa-
7 cific Ocean region.

8 (b) MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING ON SALE OF
9 AIRCRAFT FUEL.—The Secretary of Transportation shall
10 enter into a memorandum of understanding with the Sec-
11 retaries of Defense, Interior, and Homeland Security to
12 facilitate the sale of aircraft fuel on Midway Island at a
13 price that will generate sufficient revenue to improve the
14 ability of the airport to operate on a self-sustaining basis
15 in accordance with the standards of the Federal Aviation
16 Administration applicable to commercial airports. The
17 memorandum shall also address the long-range potential
18 of promoting tourism as a means to generate revenue to 19 operate the airport.

20 (c) TRANSFER OF NAVIGATION AIDS AT MIDWAY IS-
21 LAND AIRPORT.—The Midway Island Airport may trans-
22 fer, without consideration, to the Administrator the navi-
23 gation aids at the airport. The Administrator shall accept
24 the navigation aids and operate and maintain the naviga-
25 tion aids under criteria of the Administrator.

1 (d) FUNDING TO THE SECRETARY OF INTERIOR FOR
2 MIDWAY ISLAND AIRPORT.—

3 (1) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 481 is amended by
4 adding at the end the following:

5 “§48114. Funding to the Secretary of Interior for
6 Midway Island Airport

7 “The following amounts shall be available (and shall
8 remain available until expended) to the Secretary of Inte-
9 rior, out of the Airport and Airway Trust Fund estab-
10 lished under section 9502 of the Internal Revenue Code
11 of 1986 (26 U.S.C. 9502), for airport capital projects at 12 the Midway Island Airport:

- 13 “(1) $750,000 for fiscal year 2004.
- 14 “(2) $2,500,000 for fiscal year 2005.
- 15 “(3) $1,000,000 for fiscal year 2006.
- 16 “(4) $1,000,000 for fiscal year 2007.”.

17 (2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis
18 for chapter 481 is amended by adding at the end the
19 following:

“48114. Funding to the Secretary of Interior for Midway Island Airport.”.

20 SEC. 525. REIMBURSEMENT OF AIR CARRIERS FOR CER-
21 TAIN SCREENING AND RELATED ACTIVITIES.

22 The Secretary of Transportation, subject to the avail-
23 ability of funds (other than amounts in the Aviation Trust
24 Fund) provided for this purpose, shall reimburse air car-
25 riers and airports for the following:

1 (1) All screening and related activities that the
2 air carriers or airports are still performing or con-
3 tinuing to be responsible for, including—

4 (A) the screening of catering supplies;

5 (B) checking documents at security check-
6 points;

7 (C) screening of passengers; and

8 (D) screening of persons with access to
9 aircraft.

10 (2) The provision of space and facilities used to
11 perform screening functions if such space and facili-
12 ties have been previously used, or were intended to 13 be used, for revenue-producing purposes.

14 SEC. 526. GENERAL AVIATION FLIGHTS AT RONALD
15 REAGAN WASHINGTON NATIONAL AIRPORT.

16 It is the sense of Congress that Ronald Reagan
17 Washington National Airport should be open to general
18 aviation flights as soon as possible.

1 that are entered into under the program, and the pro-
2 gram’s cost effectiveness.

3 (g) AUTHORIZATION.—There shall be available
4 $200,000,000 to carry out this section for fiscal year
5 2004. Such sums shall remain available until expended.

6 TITLE II—AIRPORT PROJECT
7 STREAMLINING

8 SEC. 201. SHORT TITLE.

9 This title may be cited as the “Airport Streamlining
10 Approval Process Act of 2003”.

11 SEC. 202. FINDINGS.

12 Congress finds that—

13 (1) airports play a major role in interstate and
14 foreign commerce;

15 (2) congestion and delays at our Nation’s major
16 airports have a significant negative impact on our
17 Nation’s economy;

18 (3) airport capacity enhancement projects at
19 congested airports are a national priority and should
20 be constructed on an expedited basis;

21 (4) airport capacity enhancement projects must
22 include an environmental review process that pro-
23 vides local citizenry an opportunity for consideration
24 of and appropriate action to address environmental
25 concerns; and

1           (5) the Federal Aviation Administration, airport
 2           authorities, communities, and other Federal, State,
 3           and local government agencies must work together
 4           to develop a plan, set and honor milestones and
 5           deadlines, and work to protect the environment while
 6           sustaining the economic vitality that will result from
 7           the continued growth of aviation.

8 SEC. 203. PROMOTION OF NEW RUNWAYS.

9           Section 40104 is amended by adding at the end the
 10          following:

11          “(c) AIRPORT CAPACITY ENHANCEMENT PROJECTS
 12          AT CONGESTED AIRPORTS.—In carrying out subsection
 13          (a), the Administrator shall take action to encourage the 14          construction of airport capacity enhancement projects at 15          congested airports as those terms are defined in section 16          47178.”.

17 SEC. 204. AIRPORT PROJECT STREAMLINING.

18          (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 471 is amended by in-
 19          serting after section 47153 the following:

20                 “SUBCHAPTER III—AIRPORT PROJECT
 21                         STREAMLINING

22 “§ 47171. DOT as lead agency

23                 “(a) AIRPORT PROJECT REVIEW PROCESS.—The
 24          Secretary of Transportation shall develop and implement

1 a coordinated review process for airport capacity enhance-
2 ment projects at congested airports.

3 “(b) COORDINATED REVIEWS.—

4 “(1) IN GENERAL.—The coordinated review
5 process under this section shall provide that all envi-
6 ronmental reviews, analyses, opinions, permits, li-
7 censes, and approvals that must be issued or made
8 by a Federal agency or airport sponsor for an air-
9 port capacity enhancement project at a congested
10 airport will be conducted concurrently, to the max-
11 imum extent practicable, and completed within a
12 time period established by the Secretary, in coopera-
13 tion with the agencies identified under subsection (c)
14 with respect to the project.

15 “(2) AGENCY PARTICIPATION.—Each Federal
16 agency identified under subsection (c) shall formu-
17 late and implement administrative, policy, and pro-
18 cedural mechanisms to enable the agency to ensure
19 completion of environmental reviews, analyses, opin-
20 ions, permits, licenses, and approvals described in
21 paragraph (1) in a timely and environmentally re-
22 sponsible manner.

23 “(c) IDENTIFICATION OF JURISDICTIONAL AGEN-
24 CIES.—With respect to each airport capacity enhancement
25 project at a congested airport, the Secretary shall identify,

1 as soon as practicable, all Federal and State agencies that
2 may have jurisdiction over environmental-related matters
3 that may be affected by the project or may be required
4 by law to conduct an environmental-related review or anal-
5 ysis of the project or determine whether to issue an envi-
6 ronmental-related permit, license, or approval for the 7 project.

8 “(d) STATE AUTHORITY.—If a coordinated review
9 process is being implemented under this section by the
10 Secretary with respect to a project at an airport within
11 the boundaries of a State, the State, consistent with State
12 law, may choose to participate in such process and provide
13 that all State agencies that have jurisdiction over environ-
14 mental-related matters that may be affected by the project
15 or may be required by law to conduct an environmental-
16 related review or analysis of the project or determine
17 whether to issue an environmental-related permit, license,
18 or approval for the project, be subject to the process.

19 “(e) MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING.—The co-
20 ordinated review process developed under this section may 21 be incorporated into a memorandum of understanding for
22 a project between the Secretary and the heads of other
23 Federal and State agencies identified under subsection (c)
24 with respect to the project and the airport sponsor.

1           “(1) NOTIFICATION OF CONGRESS AND CEQ.—
2           If the Secretary determines that a Federal agency,
3           State agency, or airport sponsor that is participating
4           in a coordinated review process under this section
5           with respect to a project has not met a deadline es-
6           tablished under subsection (b) for the project, the
7           Secretary shall notify, within 30 days of the date of
8           such determination, the Committee on Transpor-
9           tation and Infrastructure of the House of Represent-
10          atives, the Committee on Commerce, Science, and
11          Transportation of the Senate, the Council on Envi-
12          ronmental Quality, and the agency or sponsor in-
13          volved about the failure to meet the deadline.

14          “(2) AGENCY REPORT.—Not later than 30 days
15          after date of receipt of a notice under paragraph (1),
16          the agency or sponsor involved shall submit a report
17          to the Secretary, the Committee on Transportation
18          and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives,
19          the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Trans-
20          portation of the Senate, and the Council on Environ-
21          mental Quality explaining why the agency or sponsor
22          did not meet the deadline and what actions it in-
23          tends to take to complete or issue the required re-
24          view, analysis, opinion, license, or approval.

1           “(g) PURPOSE AND NEED.—For any environmental
2 review, analysis, opinion, permit, license, or approval that
3 must be issued or made by a Federal or State agency that
4 is participating in a coordinated review process under this
5 section with respect to an airport capacity enhancement
6 project at a congested airport and that requires an anal-
7 ysis of purpose and need for the project, the agency, not-
8 withstanding any other provision of law, shall be bound
9 by the project purpose and need as defined by the Sec-
10 retary.

11           “(h) ALTERNATIVES ANALYSIS.—The Secretary shall
12 determine the reasonable alternatives to an airport capac-
13 ity enhancement project at a congested airport. Any other
14 Federal or State agency that is participating in a coordi-
15 nated review process under this section with respect to the 16 project shall consider only those alternatives to the project
17 that the Secretary has determined are reasonable.

18           “(i) SOLICITATION AND CONSIDERATION OF COM-
19 MENTS.—In applying subsections (g) and (h), the Sec-
20 retary shall solicit and consider comments from interested
21 persons and governmental entities.

22           “(j) MONITORING BY TASK FORCE.—The Transpor-
23 tation Infrastructure Streamlining Task Force, estab-
24 lished by Executive Order 13274 (67 Fed. Reg. 59449;
25 relating to environmental stewardship and transportation

1 infrastructure project reviews) may monitor airport
2 projects that are subject to the coordinated review process
3 under this section.

4 “§ 47172. Categorical exclusions

5 “Not later than 120 days after the date of enactment
6 of this section, the Secretary of Transportation shall de-
7 velop and publish a list of categorical exclusions from the
8 requirement that an environmental assessment or an envi-
9 ronmental impact statement be prepared under the Na-
10 tional Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321
11 et seq.) for projects at airports.

12 “§ 47173. Access restrictions to ease construction

13 “At the request of an airport sponsor for a congested
14 airport, the Secretary of Transportation may approve a
15 restriction on use of a runway to be constructed at the 16 airport to minimize potentially significant adverse noise
17 impacts from the runway only if the Secretary determines
18 that imposition of the restriction—

19 “(1) is necessary to mitigate those impacts and
20 expedite construction of the runway;

21 “(2) is the most appropriate and a cost-effective
22 measure to mitigate those impacts, taking into con-
23 sideration any environmental tradeoffs associated
24 with the restriction; and

1           “(3) would not adversely affect service to small
2           communities, adversely affect safety or efficiency of
3           the national airspace system, unjustly discriminate
4           against any class of user of the airport, or impose
5           an undue burden on interstate or foreign commerce.

6   “§ 47174. Airport revenue to pay for mitigation

7           “(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section
8           47107(b), section 47133, or any other provision of this
9           title, the Secretary of Transportation may allow an airport
10          sponsor carrying out an airport capacity enhancement
11          project at a congested airport to make payments, out of 12          revenues generated at the airport (including local taxes on 13          aviation fuel), for measures to mitigate the environmental
14          impacts of the project if the Secretary finds that—

15               “(1) the mitigation measures are included as
16               part of, or support, the preferred alternative for the 17               project in the documentation prepared pursuant to 18               the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42
19               U.S.C. 4321 et seq.);

20               “(2) the use of such revenues will provide a sig-
21               nificant incentive for, or remove an impediment to,
22               approval of the project by a State or local govern-
23               ment; and

1           “(3) the cost of the mitigation measures is rea-
2           sonable in relation to the mitigation that will be
3           achieved.

4           “(b) MITIGATION OF AIRCRAFT NOISE.—Mitigation
5           measures described in subsection (a) may include the insu-
6           lation of residential buildings and buildings used primarily
7           for educational or medical purposes to mitigate the effects
8           of aircraft noise and the improvement of such buildings
9           as required for the insulation of the buildings under local 10          building codes.

11          “§ 47175. Airport funding of FAA staff

12          “(a) ACCEPTANCE OF SPONSOR-PROVIDED
13          FUNDS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the
14          Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration may 15          accept funds from an airport sponsor, including funds pro-
16          vided to the sponsor under section 47114(c), to hire addi-
17          tional staff or obtain the services of consultants in order
18          to facilitate the timely processing, review, and completion
19          of environmental activities associated with an airport de-
20          velopment project.

21          “(b) ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISION.—Instead of pay-
22          ment from an airport sponsor from funds apportioned to
23          the sponsor under section 47114, the Administrator, with 24          agreement of the sponsor, may transfer funds that would
25          otherwise be apportioned to the sponsor under section

1 47114 to the account used by the Administrator for activi-
2 ties described in subsection (a).

3 “(c) RECEIPTS CREDITED AS OFFSETTING COLLEC-
4 TIONS.—Notwithstanding section 3302 of title 31, any
5 funds accepted under this section, except funds trans-
6 ferred pursuant to subsection (b)—

7 “(1) shall be credited as offsetting collections to
8 the account that finances the activities and services
9 for which the funds are accepted;

10 “(2) shall be available for expenditure only to 11 pay the costs of activities and services for which the 12 funds are accepted; and

13 “(3) shall remain available until expended.

14 “(d) MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—No funds may be
15 accepted pursuant to subsection (a), or transferred pursu-
16 ant to subsection (b), in any fiscal year in which the Fed-
17 eral Aviation Administration does not allocate at least the 18 amount it expended in fiscal year 2002, excluding
19 amounts accepted pursuant to section 337 of the Depart-
20 ment of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropria-
21 tions Act, 2002 (115 Stat. 862), for the activities de-
22 scribed in subsection (a).

23 “§ 47176. Authorization of appropriations

24 “In addition to the amounts authorized to be appro-
25 priated under section 106(k), there is authorized to be ap-

1 appropriated to the Secretary of Transportation, out of the
 2 Airport and Airway Trust Fund established under section
 3 9502 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26 U.S.C.
 4 9502), $4,200,000 for fiscal year 2004 and for each fiscal
 5 year thereafter to facilitate the timely processing, review,
 6 and completion of environmental activities associated with
 7 airport capacity enhancement projects at congested air-
 8 ports.

9 “§ 47177. Designation of aviation safety and aviation
 10 security projects for priority environ-
 11 mental review

12 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Fed-
 13 eral Aviation Administration may designate an aviation
 14 safety or aviation security project for priority environ-
 15 mental review. The Administrator may not delegate this
 16 designation authority.

17 “(b) PROJECT DESIGNATION CRITERIA.—The Ad-
 18 ministrator shall establish guidelines for the designation
 19 of an aviation safety or aviation security project for pri-
 20 ority environmental review. Such guidelines shall include
 21 consideration of—

22 “(1) the importance or urgency of the project;

23 “(2) the potential for undertaking the environ-
 24 mental review under existing emergency procedures

1 under the National Environmental Policy Act of
2 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.);

3 “(3) the need for cooperation and concurrent
4 reviews by other Federal or State agencies; and

5 “(4) the prospect for undue delay if the project
6 is not designated for priority review.

7 “(c) COORDINATED ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS.—

8 “(1) TIMELINES AND HIGH PRIORITY FOR CO-
9 ORDINATED ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS.—The Ad-
10 ministrator, in consultation with the heads of af-
11 fected agencies, shall establish specific timelines for
12 the coordinated environmental review of an aviation
13 safety or aviation security project designated under
14 subsection (a). Such timelines shall be consistent
15 with the timelines established in existing laws and
16 regulations. Each Federal agency with responsibility
17 for project environmental reviews, analyses, opinions,
18 permits, licenses, and approvals shall accord any
19 such review a high priority and shall conduct the re-
20 view expeditiously and, to the maximum extent pos-
21 sible, concurrently with other such reviews.

22 “(2) AGENCY PARTICIPATION.—Each Federal
23 agency identified under subsection (c) shall formu-
24 late and implement administrative, policy, and pro-
25 cedural mechanisms to enable the agency to ensure

1 completion of environmental reviews, analyses, opin-
2 ions, permits, licenses, and approvals described in
3 paragraph (1) in a timely and environmentally re-
4 sponsible manner.

5 “(d) STATE PARTICIPATION.—

6 “(1) INVITATION TO PARTICIPATE.—If a pri-
7 ority environmental review process is being imple-
8 mented under this section with respect to a project
9 within the boundaries of a State with applicable
10 State environmental requirements and approvals, the 11 Administrator shall invite the State to participate in 12 the process.

13 “(2) STATE CHOICE.—A State invited to par-
14 ticipate in a priority environmental review process,
15 consistent with State law, may choose to participate
16 in such process and direct that all State agencies,
17 which have jurisdiction by law to conduct an envi-
18 ronmental review or analysis of the project to deter-
19 mine whether to issue an environmentally related
20 permit, license, or approval for the project, be sub-
21 ject to the process.

22 “(e) FAILURE TO GIVE PRIORITY REVIEW.—

23 “(1) NOTICE.—If the Secretary of Transpor-
24 tation determines that a Federal agency or a partici-
25 pating State is not complying with the requirements

1 of this section and that such noncompliance is un-
2 dermining the environmental review process, the
3 Secretary shall notify, within 30 days of such deter-
4 mination, the head of the Federal agency or, with
5 respect to a State agency, the Governor of the State.

6 “(2) REPORT TO SECRETARY.—A Federal agen-
7 cy that receives a copy of a notification relating to
8 that agency made by the Secretary under paragraph
9 (1) shall submit, within 30 days after receiving such
10 copy, a written report to the Secretary explaining
11 the reasons for the situation described in the notifi-
12 cation and what remedial actions the agency intends
13 to take.

14 “(3) NOTIFICATION OF CEQ AND COMMIT-
15 TEES.—If the Secretary determines that a Federal
16 agency has not satisfactorily addressed the problems
17 within a reasonable period of time following a notifi-
18 cation under paragraph (1), the Secretary shall no-
19 tify the Council on Environmental Quality, the Com-
20 mittee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the 21 House of Representatives, and the Committee on
22 Commerce, Science and Transportation of the Sen-
23 ate.

24 “(f) PROCEDURAL PROVISIONS.—The procedures set
25 forth in subsections (c), (e), (g), (h), and (i) of section

- Sec. 426. Amendment of general fee schedule provision.
- Sec. 427. Improvement of curriculum standards for aviation maintenance technicians.

1 47171 shall apply with respect to an aviation safety or
2 aviation security project under this section in the same
3 manner and to the same extent as such procedures apply
4 to an airport capacity enhancement project at a congested
5 airport under section 47171.

6 “(g) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the following
7 definitions apply:

8 “(1) AVIATION SAFETY PROJECT.—The term
9 ‘aviation safety project’ means an aviation project
10 that—

11 “(A) has as its primary purpose reducing
12 the risk of injury to persons or damage to air-
13 craft and property, as determined by the Ad-
14 ministrator; and

15 “(B)(i) is needed to respond to a rec-
16 ommendation from the National Transportation
17 Safety Board; or

18 “(ii) is necessary for an airport to comply
19 with part 139 of title 14, Code of Federal Reg-
20 ulations (relating to airport certification).

21 “(2) AVIATION SECURITY PROJECT.—The term
22 ‘aviation security project’ means a security project
23 at an airport required by the Department of Home-
24 land Security.

1           “(3) FEDERAL AGENCY.—The term ‘Federal
2           agency’ means a department or agency of the United
3           States Government.”.

4   “§ 47178. Definitions

5           “In this subchapter, the following definitions apply:

6           “(1) AIRPORT SPONSOR.—The term ‘airport
7           sponsor’ has the meaning given the term ‘sponsor’
8           under section 47102.

9           “(2) CONGESTED AIRPORT.—The term ‘con-
10          gested airport’ means an airport that accounted for
11          at least 1 percent of all delayed aircraft operations
12          in the United States in the most recent year for 13          which such data is available and an airport listed in

19                   has less than 0.05 percent of the passenger
20                   boardings.”;

21               (7) by redesignating paragraphs (30) and (31)
22               as paragraphs (32) and (33), respectively;

23               (8) by inserting after paragraph (29) the fol-
24               lowing:

1 Such sums shall remain available until expended.”.

2 “(2) OPERATION OF CENTER FOR MANAGE-
3 MENT AND DEVELOPMENT.—Out of amounts appro-
4 priated under paragraph (1), such sums as may be
5 necessary may be expended by the Center for Man-
6 agement Development of the Federal Aviation Ad-
7 ministration to operate at least 200 courses each
8 year and to support associated student travel for
9 both residential and field courses.

10 “(3) AIR TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT SYSTEM.—Out
11 of amounts appropriated under paragraph (1), such
12 sums as may be necessary may be expended by the
13 Federal Aviation Administration for the establish-
14 ment and operation of a new office to develop, in co-
15 ordination with the Department of Defense, the Na-
16 tional Aeronautics and Space Administration, and
17 the Department of Homeland Security, the next gen-
18 eration air traffic management system and a transi-
19 tion plan for the implementation of that system. The
20 office shall be known as the ‘Next Generation Air
21 Transportation System Joint Program Office’.

22 “(4) HELICOPTER AND TILTROTOR PROCE-
23 DURES.—Out of amounts appropriated under para-
24 graph (1), such sums as may be necessary may be
25 expended by the Federal Aviation Administration for

1           “(31) ‘medium hub airport’ means a commer-
2           cial service airport (as defined in section 47102)
3           that has at least 0.25 percent but less than 1.0 per-
4           cent of the passenger boardings.”;

5           (9) by redesignating paragraph (29) as para-
6           graph (30);

7           (10) by inserting after paragraph (28) the fol-
8           lowing:

9           “(29) ‘large hub airport’ means a commercial
10          service airport (as defined in section 47102) that
11          has at least 1.0 percent of the passenger
12          boardings.”.

13          (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

14           (1) AIR SERVICE TERMINATION NOTICE.—Sec-
15          tion 41719(d) is amended—

16                   (A) by striking paragraph (1); and

17                   (B) by redesignating paragraphs (2)
18                   through (5) as paragraphs (1) through (4), re-
19                   spectively.

20           (2) SMALL COMMUNITY AIR SERVICE.—Section
21          41731(a) is amended by striking paragraphs (3)
22          through (5).

23           (3) AIRPORTS NOT RECEIVING SUFFICIENT
24          SERVICE.—Section 41743 is amended—

1 (A) in subsection (c)(1) by striking “(as
2 that term is defined in section 41731(a)(5))”;
3 and

4 (B) in subsection (f) by striking “(as de-
5 fined in section 41731(a)(3))”.

6 (4) PRESERVATION OF BASIC ESSENTIAL AIR
7 SERVICE AT SINGLE CARRIER DOMINATED HUB AIR-
8 PORTS.—Section 41744(b) is amended by striking
9 “(as defined in section 41731)”.

10 (5) REGIONAL AIR SERVICE INCENTIVE PRO-
11 GRAM.—Section 41762(a) is amended—

12 (A) by striking paragraphs (11) and (15);
13 and

14 (B) by redesignating paragraphs (12),
15 (13), (14), and (16) as paragraphs (11), (12),
16 (13), and (14), respectively.

17 SEC. 404. CLARIFICATIONS TO PROCUREMENT AUTHORITY.

18 (a) DUTIES AND POWERS.—Section 40110(c) is
19 amended—

20 (1) by striking “Administration—” and all that 21 follows through “(2) may—” and inserting “Admin-
22 istration may—”;

23 (2) by striking subparagraph (D); and

1 (3) by redesignating subparagraphs (A), (B),
2 (C), (E), and (F) as paragraphs (1), (2), (3), (4),
3 and (5) respectively; and

4 (4) by moving such paragraphs (1) through (5)
5 2 ems to the left.

6 (b) ACQUISITION MANAGEMENT SYSTEM.—Section
7 40110(d) is amended—

8 (1) in paragraph (1)—

9 (A) by striking “, not later than January
10 1, 1996,”; and

11 (B) by striking “provides for more timely
12 and cost-effective acquisitions of equipment and
13 materials.” and inserting the following:

14 “provides for—

15 “(A) more timely and cost-effective acqui-
16 sitions of equipment, services, property, and
17 materials; and

18 “(B) the resolution of bid protests and
19 contract disputes related thereto, using consen-
20 sual alternative dispute resolution techniques to 21 the maximum extent practicable.”; and

22 (2) by striking paragraph (4), relating to the
23 effective date, and inserting the following:

24 “(4) ADJUDICATION OF CERTAIN BID PROTESTS
25 AND CONTRACT DISPUTES.—A bid protest or con-

1 tract dispute that is not addressed or resolved
 2 through alternative dispute resolution shall be adju-
 3 dicated by the Administrator through Dispute Reso-
 4 lution Officers or Special Masters of the Federal
 5 Aviation Administration Office of Dispute Resolution
 6 for Acquisition, acting pursuant to sections 46102,
 7 46104, 46105, 46106 and 46107 and shall be sub-
 8 ject to judicial review under section 46110 and to 9 the provisions of the Equal Access to Justice Act (5
 10 U.S.C. 504).”.

11 (c) AUTHORITY OF ADMINISTRATOR TO ACQUIRE
 12 SERVICES.—Section 106(f)(2)(A)(ii) is amended by in-
 13 serting “, services,” after “property”.

14 SEC. 405. LOW-EMISSION AIRPORT VEHICLES AND GROUND
 15 SUPPORT EQUIPMENT.

16 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 40117(a)(3) is amended
 17 by inserting at the end the following:

18 “(G) A project for the acquisition or con-
 19 version of ground support equipment or airport-
 20 owned vehicles used at a commercial service air-
 21 port with, or to, low-emission technology (as de-
 22 fined in section 47102) or cleaner burning con-
 23 ventional fuels, or the retrofitting of such
 24 equipment or vehicles that are powered by a
 25 diesel or gasoline engine with emission control

1 technologies certified or verified by the Environ-
 2 mental Protection Agency to reduce emissions,
 3 if the airport is located in an air quality non-
 4 attainment area (as defined in section 171(2) of
 5 the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7501(2)) or a
 6 maintenance area referred to in section 175A of 7 such Act (42 U.S.C. 7505a), and if such project
 8 will result in an airport receiving appropriate
 9 emission credits as described in section
 10 47138.”.

11 (b) MAXIMUM COST FOR CERTAIN LOW-EMISSION
 12 TECHNOLOGY PROJECTS.—Section 40117(b) is amended
 13 by adding at the end the following:

14 “(5) MAXIMUM COST FOR CERTAIN LOW-EMIS-
 15 SION TECHNOLOGY PROJECTS.—The maximum cost
 16 that may be financed by imposition of a passenger
 17 facility fee under this section for a project described
 18 in subsection (a)(3)(G) with respect to vehicle or
 19 ground support equipment may not exceed the incre-
 20 mental amount of the project cost that is greater
 21 than the cost of acquiring a vehicle or equipment
 22 that is not low-emission and would be used for the
 23 same purpose, or the cost of low-emission retro-
 24 fitting, as determined by the Secretary.”.

1 (c) GROUND SUPPORT EQUIPMENT DEFINED.—Sec-
2 tion 40117(a) is amended—

3 (1) by redesignating paragraphs (4) and (5) as
4 paragraphs (5) and (6), respectively;

5 (2) by inserting after paragraph (3) the fol-
6 lowing:

7 “(4) GROUND SUPPORT EQUIPMENT.—The 8 term ‘ground support equipment’ means service and 9 maintenance equipment used at an airport to sup-
10 port aeronautical operations and related activities.”.

11 SEC. 406. STREAMLINING OF THE PASSENGER FACILITY
12 FEE PROGRAM.

13 (a) APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS.—Section
14 40117(c) is amended—

15 (1) by adding at the end of paragraph (2) the
16 following:

17 “(E) The agency will include in its applica-
18 tion or notice submitted under subparagraph
19 (A) copies of all certifications of agreement or
20 disagreement received under subparagraph (D).

21 “(F) For the purpose of this section, an el-
22 igible agency providing notice and an oppor-
23 tunity for consultation to an air carrier or for-
24 eign air carrier is deemed to have satisfied the 25 requirements of this paragraph if the eligible

1 agency limits such notices and consultations to
2 air carriers and foreign air carriers that have a
3 significant business interest at the airport. In
4 the subparagraph, the term ‘significant busi-
5 ness interest’ means an air carrier or foreign
6 air carrier that had no less than 1.0 percent of 7 passenger boardings at the airport in the prior
8 calendar year, had at least 25,000 passenger
9 boardings at the airport in the prior calendar
10 year, or provides scheduled service at the air-
11 port.”;

12 (2) by redesignating paragraph (3) as para-
13 graph (4);

14 (3) by inserting after paragraph (2) the fol-
15 lowing:

16 “(3) Before submitting an application, the eligible
17 agency must provide reasonable notice and an opportunity
18 for public comment. The Secretary shall prescribe regula-
19 tions that define reasonable notice and provide for at least
20 the following under this paragraph:

21 “(A) A requirement that the eligible agen-
22 cy provide public notice of intent to collect a
23 passenger facility fee so as to inform those in-
24 terested persons and agencies who may be af-
25 fected, which public notice may include—

1 “(i) publication in local newspapers of
2 general circulation;

3 “(ii) publication in other local media;
4 and

5 “(ii) posting the notice on the agen-
6 cy’s web-site.

7 “(B) A requirement for submission of pub-
8 lic comments no sooner than 30 days, and no
9 later than 45 days, after the date of the publi-
10 cation of the notice.

11 “(C) A requirement that the agency in-
12 clude in its application or notice submitted
13 under subparagraph (A) copies of all comments
14 received under subparagraph (B).”; and

15 (4) in the first sentence of paragraph (4) (as 16 redesignated by paragraph (2) of this subsection) by
17 striking “shall” and inserting “may”.

18 (b) PILOT PROGRAM FOR PASSENGER FACILITY FEE
19 AUTHORIZATIONS AT NONHUB AIRPORTS.—Section
20 40117 is amended by adding at the end the following:

21 “(1) PILOT PROGRAM FOR PASSENGER FACILITY FEE
22 AUTHORIZATIONS AT NONHUB AIRPORTS.—

23 “(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall estab-
24 lish a pilot program to test alternative procedures
25 for authorizing eligible agencies for nonhub airports

1 to impose passenger facility fees. An eligible agency
2 may impose in accordance with the provisions of this
3 subsection a passenger facility fee under this section.
4 For purposes of the pilot program, the procedures in
5 this subsection shall apply instead of the procedures
6 otherwise provided in this section.

7 “(2) NOTICE AND OPPORTUNITY FOR CON-
8 SULTATION.—The eligible agency must provide rea-
9 sonable notice and an opportunity for consultation to
10 air carriers and foreign air carriers in accordance
11 with subsection (c)(2) and must provide reasonable
12 notice and opportunity for public comment in ac-
13 cordance with subsection (c)(3).

14 “(3) NOTICE OF INTENTION.—The eligible
15 agency must submit to the Secretary a notice of in-
16 tention to impose a passenger facility fee under this
17 subsection. This shall include—

18 “(A) information that the Secretary may
19 require by regulation on each project for which 20 authority to impose a passenger facility fee is 21 sought;

22 “(B) the amount of revenue from pas-
23 senger facility fees that is proposed to be col-
24 lected for each project; and

1                   “(C) the level of the passenger facility fee
2                   that is proposed.

3                   “(4) ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF RECEIPT AND IN-
4                   DICATION OF OBJECTION.—The Secretary shall ac-
5                   knowledge receipt of the notice and indicate any ob-
6                   jection to the imposition of a passenger facility fee
7                   under this subsection for any project identified in
8                   the notice within 30 days after receipt of the eligible
9                   agency’s notice.

10                  “(5) AUTHORITY TO IMPOSE FEE.—Unless the
11                  Secretary objects within 30 days after receipt of the 12                  eligible agency’s notice, the eligible agency is author-
13                  ized to impose a passenger facility fee in accordance 14                  with the terms of its notice under this subsection.

15                  “(6) DEADLINE.—Not later than 180 days
16                  after the date of enactment of this subsection, the 17                  Secretary shall propose such regulations as may be
18                  necessary to carry out this subsection.

19                  “(7) SUNSET.—This subsection shall not be in
20                  effect 3 years after the date of issuance of regula-
21                  tions to carry out this subsection.

22                  “(8) ACKNOWLEDGEMENT NOT AN ORDER.—An
23                  acknowledgement issued under paragraph (4) shall
24                  not be considered an order of the Secretary issued
25                  under section 46110.”.

1 the establishment of helicopter and tiltrotor ap-
2 proach and departure procedures using advanced
3 technologies, such as the Global Positioning System
4 and automatic dependent surveillance, to permit op-
5 erations in adverse weather conditions to meet the
6 needs of air ambulance services.

7 “(5) ADDITIONAL AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL-
8 LERS.—Out of amounts appropriated under para-
9 graph (1), such sums as may be necessary may be
10 expended to hire additional air traffic controllers in 11 order to meet increasing air traffic demands and to 12 address the anticipated increase in the retirement of 13 experienced air traffic controllers.

14 “(6) COMPLETION OF ALASKA AVIATION SAFE-
15 TY PROJECT.—Out of amounts appropriated under 16 paragraph (1), $6,000,000 may be expended for the 17 completion of the Alaska aviation safety project with
18 respect to the 3 dimensional mapping of Alaska’s
19 main aviation corridors.

20 “(7) AVIATION SAFETY REPORTING SYSTEM.—
21 Out of amounts appropriated under paragraph (1),
22 $3,400,000 may be expended on the Aviation Safety
23 Reporting System.

24 (b) AIRLINE DATA AND ANALYSIS.—There is author-
25 ized to be appropriated to the Secretary of Transportation,

1 (c) CLARIFICATION OF APPLICABILITY OF PFCS TO
2 MILITARY CHARTERS.—Section 40117(e)(2) is
3 amended—

4 (1) by striking the period at the end of sub-
5 paragraph (C) and inserting a semicolon;

6 (2) by striking “and” at the end of subpara-
7 graph (D);

8 (3) by striking the period at the end of sub-
9 paragraph (E) and inserting “; and”; and

10 (4) by inserting after subparagraph (E) the fol-
11 lowing:

12 “(F) enplaning at an airport if the pas-
13 senger did not pay for the air transportation
14 which resulted in such enplanement due to
15 charter arrangements and payment by the De-
16 partment of Defense.”.

17 (d) TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS.—Section 40117 is
18 amended—

19 (1) in subsection (a)(3)(C) by striking “for 20 costs” and inserting “A project”;

21 (2) in subsection (a)(3)(C) by striking the semi-
22 colon and inserting a period; and

23 (3) in subsection (e)(2)(C) by striking the pe-
24 riod and inserting a semicolon.

1 SEC. 407. FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT OF PASSENGER FACIL-
2 ITY FEES.

3 (a) IN GENERAL.—Section 40117 is further amended
4 by adding at the end the following:

5 “(m) FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT OF FEES.—

6 “(1) HANDLING OF FEES.—

7 “(A) PLACEMENT OF FEES IN ESCROW AC-
8 COUNT.—Subject to subparagraph (B), pas-
9 senger facility revenue held by an air carrier or
10 any of its agents shall be segregated from the 11 carrier’s cash and other assets and placed in an
12 escrow account for the benefit of the eligible
13 agencies entitled to such revenue.

14 “(B) ALTERNATIVE METHOD OF COMPLI-
15 ANCE.—Instead of placing amounts in an es-
16 crow account under subparagraph (A), an air
17 carrier may provide to the eligible agency a let-
18 ter of credit, bond, or other form of adequate
19 and immediately available security in an
20 amount equal to estimated remittable passenger
21 facility fees for 180 days, to be assessed against
22 later audit, upon which security the eligible
23 agency shall be entitled to draw automatically,
24 without necessity of any further legal or judicial
25 action to effectuate foreclosure.

1           “(3) TRUST FUND STATUS.—If an air carrier or
2           its agent commingles passenger facility revenue in
3           violation of the subsection, the trust fund status of
4           such revenue shall not be defeated by an inability of
5           any party to identify and trace the precise funds in
6           the accounts of the air carrier.

7           “(4) PROHIBITION.—An air carrier and its
8           agents may not grant to any third party any secu-
9           rity or other interest in passenger facility revenue.

10           “(5) COMPENSATION TO ELIGIBLE ENTITIES.—
11           An air carrier that fails to comply with any require-
12           ment of this subsection, or otherwise unnecessarily
13           causes an eligible entity to expend funds, through
14           litigation or otherwise, to recover or retain payment
15           of passenger facility revenue to which the eligible en-
16           tity is otherwise entitled shall be required to com-
17           pensate the eligible agency for the costs so incurred.

18           “(6) INTEREST ON AMOUNTS.—An air carrier
19           that collects passenger facility fees is entitled to re-
20           ceive the interest on passenger facility fee accounts,
21           if the accounts are established and maintained in
22           compliance with this subsection.”.

23           (b) EFFECTIVE DATE.—

1 (1) IN GENERAL.—The amendment made by
2 subsection (a) shall take effect 60 days after the
3 date of enactment of this Act.

4 (2) EXISTING REGULATIONS.—Beginning 60
5 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the
6 provisions of section 158.49 of title 14, Code of Fed-
7 eral Regulations, that permit the commingling of
8 passenger facility fees with other air carrier revenue
9 shall have no force or effect.

10 SEC. 408. GOVERNMENT CONTRACTING FOR AIR TRANS-
11 PORTATION.

12 (a) GOVERNMENT-FINANCED AIR TRANSPOR-
13 TATION.—Section 40118(f)(2) is amended by inserting be-
14 fore the period at the end the following: “, except that 15 it shall not include a contract for the transportation by 16 air of passengers”.

17 (b) AIRLIFT SERVICE.—Section 41106(b) is amended
18 by inserting after “military department” the following: “,
19 or by a person that has contracted with the Secretary of 20 Defense or the Secretary of a military department,”.

21 SEC. 409. OVERFLIGHTS OF NATIONAL PARKS.

22 (a) AIR TOUR MANAGEMENT ACT CLARIFICA-
23 TIONS.—Section 40128 is amended—

1 (1) in subsection (a)(1) by inserting “, as de-
2 fined by this section,” after “lands” the first place
3 it appears;

4 (2) in subsections (b)(3)(A), (b)(3)(B), and
5 (b)(3)(C) by inserting “over a national park” after
6 “operations”;

7 (3) in subsection (b)(3)(D) by striking “at the 8 park” and inserting “over a national park”;

9 (4) in subsection (b)(3)(E) by inserting “over a
10 national park” after “operations” the first place it
11 appears;

12 (5) in subsections (c)(2)(A)(i) and (c)(2)(B) by
13 inserting “over a national park” after “operations”;

14 (6) in subsection (f)(1) by inserting “over a na-
15 tional park” after “operation”;

16 (7) in subsection (f)(4)(A)—

17 (A) by striking “commercial air tour oper-
18 ation” and inserting “commercial air tour oper-
19 ation over a national park”; and

20 (B) by striking “park, or over tribal
21 lands,” and inserting “park (except the Grand
22 Canyon National Park), or over tribal lands
23 (except those within or abutting the Grand
24 Canyon National Park),”; and

1 (8) in subsection (f)(4)(B) by inserting “over a
2 national park” after “operation”.

3 (b) GRAND CANYON NATIONAL PARK SPECIAL
4 FLIGHT RULES AREA OPERATION CURFEW.—

5 (1) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the
6 Federal Aviation Administration may not restrict
7 commercial Special Flight Rules Area operations in
8 the Dragon and Zuni Point corridors of the Grand
9 Canyon National Park during the period beginning
10 1-hour after sunrise and ending 1-hour before sun-
11 set, unless required for aviation safety purposes.

12 (2) EFFECT ON EXISTING REGULATIONS.—Be-
13 ginning on the date of enactment of this Act, section
14 93.317 of title 14, Code of Federal Regulations,
15 shall not be in effect.

16 SEC. 410. COLLABORATIVE DECISION MAKING PILOT PRO-
17 GRAM.

18 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 401 is amended by add-
19 ing at the end the following:

20 “§ 40129. Collaborative decision making pilot pro-
21 gram

22 “(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—Not later than 90 days after
23 the date of enactment of this section, the Administrator
24 of the Federal Aviation Administration shall establish a

1 collaborative decisionmaking pilot program in accordance
2 with this section.

3 “(b) DURATION.—Except as provided in subsection
4 (k), the pilot program shall be in effect for a period of 5 2 years.

6 “(c) GUIDELINES.—

7 “(1) ISSUANCE.—The Administrator shall issue
8 guidelines concerning the pilot program. Such guide-
9 lines, at a minimum, shall define the criteria and
10 process for determining when a capacity reduction
11 event exists that warrants the use of collaborative
12 decisionmaking among carriers at airports partici-
13 pating in the pilot program and that prescribe the 14 methods of communication to be implemented among
15 carriers during such an event.

16 “(2) VIEWS.—The Administrator may obtain
17 the views of interested parties in issuing the guide-
18 lines.

19 “(d) EFFECT OF DETERMINATION OF EXISTENCE OF
20 CAPACITY REDUCTION EVENT.—Upon a determination by
21 the Administrator that a capacity reduction event exists,
22 the Administrator may authorize air carriers and foreign
23 air carriers operating at an airport participating in the 24 pilot program to communicate for a period of time not
25 to exceed 24 hours with each other concerning changes

1 in their respective flight schedules in order to use air traf-
2 fic capacity most effectively. The Administration shall fa-
3 cilitate and monitor such communication.

4 “(e) SELECTION OF PARTICIPATING AIRPORTS.—Not
5 later than 30 days after the date on which the Adminis-
6 trator establishes the pilot program, the Administrator
7 shall select 3 airports to participate in the pilot program
8 from among the most capacity constrained airports in the
9 country based on the Administration’s Airport Capacity
10 Benchmark Report 2001 or more recent data on airport
11 capacity that is available to the Administrator. The Ad-
12 ministrator shall select an airport for participation in the 13 pilot program if the Administrator determines that col-
14 laborative decisionmaking among air carriers and foreign
15 air carriers would reduce delays at the airport and have
16 beneficial effects on reducing delays in the national air-
17 space system as a whole.

18 “(f) ELIGIBILITY OF AIR CARRIERS.—An air carrier
19 or foreign air carrier operating at an airport selected to
20 participate in the pilot program is eligible to participate
21 in the pilot program if the Administrator determines that
22 the carrier has the operational and communications capa-
23 bility to participate in the pilot program.

24 “(g) MODIFICATION OR TERMINATION OF PILOT
25 PROGRAM AT AN AIRPORT.—The Administrator may mod-

1 ify or end the pilot program at an airport before the term
2 of the pilot program has expired, or may ban an air carrier
3 or foreign air carrier from participating in the program,
4 if the Administrator determines that the purpose of the
5 pilot program is not being furthered by participation of
6 the airport or air carrier or if the Secretary of Transpor-
7 tation, in consultation with the Attorney General, finds
8 that the pilot program or the participation of an air car-
9 rier or foreign air carrier in the pilot program has had,
10 or is having, an adverse effect on competition among car-
11 riers.

12 “(h) ANTITRUST IMMUNITY.—

13 “(1) IN GENERAL.—Unless, within 5 days after
14 receiving notice from the Secretary of the Sec-
15 retary’s intention to exercise authority under this
16 subsection, the Attorney General submits to the Sec-
17 retary a written objection to such action, including
18 reasons for such objection, the Secretary may ex-
19 empt an air carrier’s or foreign air carrier’s activi-
20 ties that are necessary to participate in the pilot
21 program under this section from the antitrust laws
22 for the sole purpose of participating in the pilot pro-
23 gram. Such exemption shall not extend to any dis-
24 cussions, agreements, or activities outside the scope
25 of the pilot program.

1           “(2) ANTITRUST LAWS DEFINED.—In this sec-
2           tion, the term ‘antitrust laws’ has the meaning given
3           that term in the first section of the Clayton Act (15
4           U.S.C. 12).

5           “(i) CONSULTATION WITH ATTORNEY GENERAL.—
6           The Secretary shall consult with the Attorney General re-
7           garding the design and implementation of the pilot pro-
8           gram, including determining whether a limit should be set
9           on the number of occasions collaborative decisionmaking
10          could be employed during the initial 2-year period of the 11          pilot program.

12          “(j) EVALUATION.—

13                 “(1) IN GENERAL.—Before the expiration of
14                 the 2-year period for which the pilot program is au-
15                 thorized under subsection (b), the Administrator
16                 shall determine whether the pilot program has facili-
17                 tated more effective use of air traffic capacity and
18                 the Secretary, in consultation with the Attorney
19                 General, shall determine whether the pilot program
20                 has had an adverse effect on airline competition or 21                 the availability of air services to communities. The
22                 Administrator shall also examine whether capacity
23                 benefits resulting from the participation in the pilot
24                 program of an airport resulted in capacity benefits
25                 to other parts of the national airspace system.

1 out of the Airport and Airway Trust Fund established by
2 section 9502 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26
3 U.S.C. 9502), $3,971,000 for fiscal year 2004,
4 $4,045,000 for fiscal year 2005, $4,127,000 for fiscal year
5 2006, and $4,219,000 for fiscal year 2007 to gather air-
6 line data and conduct analyses of such data in the Bureau
7 of Transportation Statistics of the Department of Trans-
8 portation.

9 (c) HUMAN CAPITAL WORKFORCE STRATEGY.—

10 (1) DEVELOPMENT.—The Administrator of the
11 Federal Aviation Administration shall develop a
12 comprehensive human capital workforce strategy to
13 determine the most effective method for addressing
14 the need for more air traffic controllers that is called
15 for in the June 2002 report of the General Account-
16 ing Office.

17 (2) COMPLETION DATE.—The Administrator
18 shall complete development of the strategy not later
19 than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act.

20 (3) REPORT.—Not later than 30 days after the
21 date on which the strategy is completed, the Admin-
22 istrator shall transmit to Congress a report describ-
23 ing the strategy.

24 (d) GOALS AND OBJECTIVES OF AVIATION SAFETY
25 REPORTING SYSTEM.—Not later than 90 days after the

1           “(2) OBTAINING NECESSARY DATA.—The Ad-
2           ministrator may require participating air carriers
3           and airports to provide data necessary to evaluate
4           the pilot program’s impact.

5           “(k) EXTENSION OF PILOT PROGRAM.—At the end
6           of the 2-year period for which the pilot program is author-
7           ized, the Administrator may continue the pilot program
8           for an additional 2 years and expand participation in the 9           program to up to 7 additional airports if the Adminis-
10          trator determines pursuant to subsection (j) that the pilot
11          program has facilitated more effective use of air traffic
12          capacity and if the Secretary, in consultation with the At-
13          torney General, determines that the pilot program has had 14          no adverse effect on airline competition or the availability
15          of air services to communities. The Administrator shall se-
16          lect the additional airports to participate in the extended
17          pilot program in the same manner in which airports were 18          initially selected to participate.”

19          (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
20          chapter 401 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
21          lowing:

          “40129. Pilot program for improved collaborative decisionmaking during times of reduced capacity.”

1 SEC. 411. AVAILABILITY OF AIRCRAFT ACCIDENT SITE IN-
2 FORMATION.

3 (a) DOMESTIC AIR TRANSPORTATION.—Section
4 41113(b) is amended—

5 (1) in paragraph (16) by striking “the air car-
6 rier” the second place it appears; and

7 (2) by adding at the end the following:

8 “(17)(A) An assurance that, in the case of an
9 accident that results in significant damage to a man-
10 made structure or other property on the ground that
11 is not government-owned, the air carrier will
12 promptly provide notice, in writing, to the extent
13 practicable, directly to the owner of the structure or
14 other property about liability for any property dam-
15 age and means for obtaining compensation.

16 “(B) At a minimum, the written notice shall
17 advise an owner (i) to contact the insurer of the 18 property as the authoritative source for information
19 about coverage and compensation; (ii) to not rely on
20 unofficial information offered by air carrier rep-
21 resentatives about compensation by the air carrier
22 for accident-site property damage; and (iii) to obtain
23 photographic or other detailed evidence of property
24 damage as soon as possible after the accident, con-
25 sistent with restrictions on access to the accident
26 site.

1           “(18) An assurance that, in the case of an acci-
2           dent in which the National Transportation Safety
3           Board conducts a public hearing or comparable pro-
4           ceeding at a location greater than 80 miles from the
5           accident site, the air carrier will ensure that the pro-
6           ceeding is made available simultaneously by elec-
7           tronic means at a location open to the public at both
8           the origin city and destination city of the air car-
9           rier’s flight if that city is located in the United
10          States.”.

11          (b) FOREIGN AIR TRANSPORTATION.—Section 41313
12          is amended by adding at the end the following:

13           “(17) NOTICE CONCERNING LIABILITY FOR
14          MAN-MADE STRUCTURES.—

15           “(A) IN GENERAL.—An assurance that, in
16          the case of an accident that results in signifi-
17          cant damage to a man-made structure or other
18          property on the ground that is not government-
19          owned, the foreign air carrier will promptly pro-
20          vide notice, in writing, to the extent practicable,
21          directly to the owner of the structure or other
22          property about liability for any property dam-
23          age and means for obtaining compensation.

24           “(B) MINIMUM CONTENTS.—At a min-
25          imum, the written notice shall advise an owner

1 (i) to contact the insurer of the property as the
 2 authoritative source for information about cov-
 3 erage and compensation; (ii) to not rely on un-
 4 official information offered by foreign air car-
 5 rier representatives about compensation by the
 6 foreign air carrier for accident-site property
 7 damage; and (iii) to obtain photographic or
 8 other detailed evidence of property damage as
 9 soon as possible after the accident, consistent
 10 with restrictions on access to the accident site.

11 “(18) SIMULTANEOUS ELECTRONIC TRANS-
 12 MISSION OF NTSB HEARING.—An assurance that, in 13 the case of an accident in which the National Trans-
 14 portation Safety Board conducts a public hearing or
 15 comparable proceeding at a location greater than 80
 16 miles from the accident site, the foreign air carrier
 17 will ensure that the proceeding is made available si-
 18 multaneously by electronic means at a location open
 19 to the public at both the origin city and destination
 20 city of the foreign air carrier’s flight if that city is 21 located in the United States.”.

22 (c) UPDATE PLANS.—Air carriers and foreign air
 23 carriers shall update their plans under sections 41113 and
 24 41313 of title 49, United States Code, respectively, to re-
 25 flect the amendments made by subsections (a) and (b) of

1 this section not later than 90 days after the date of enact-
2 ment of this Act.

3 SEC. 412. SLOT EXEMPTIONS AT RONALD REAGAN WASH-
4 INGTON NATIONAL AIRPORT.

5 (a) BEYOND-PERIMETER EXEMPTIONS.—Section
6 41718(a) is amended by striking “12” and inserting “24”.

7 (b) WITHIN-PERIMETER EXEMPTIONS.—Section
8 41718(b) is amended—

9 (1) by striking “12” and inserting “20”; and

10 (2) by striking “that were designated as me-
11 dium hub or smaller airports”.

12 (c) LIMITATIONS.—

13 (1) GENERAL EXEMPTIONS.—Section
14 41718(c)(2) is amended by striking “two” and in-
15 sserting “3”.

16 (2) ALLOCATION OF WITHIN-PERIMETER EX-
17 EMPTIONS.—Section 41718(c)(3) is amended—

18 (A) in subparagraph (A)—

19 (i) by striking “four” and inserting
20 “six”; and

21 (ii) by striking “and” at the end;

22 (B) in subparagraph (B)—

23 (i) by striking “eight” and inserting
24 “ten”; and

1 (ii) by striking the period at the end
2 and inserting “; and”; and

3 (C) by adding at the end the following:

4 “(C) four shall be for air transportation to
5 airports without regard to their size.”.

6 (d) APPLICATION PROCEDURES.—Section 41718(d)
7 is amended to read as follows:

8 “(d) APPLICATION PROCEDURES.—The Secretary
9 shall establish procedures to ensure that all requests for 10 exemptions under this section are granted or denied within
11 90 days after the date on which the request is made.”.

12 (e) EFFECT OF PERIMETER RULES ON COMPETITION
13 AND AIR SERVICE.—

14 (1) IDENTIFICATION OF OTHER AIRPORTS.—

15 The Secretary of Transportation shall identify air-
16 ports (other than Ronald Reagan Washington Na-
17 tional Airport) that have imposed perimeter rules
18 like those in effect with respect to Ronald Reagan
19 Washington National Airport.

20 (2) LIMITATION ON APPLICABILITY.—This sub-

21 section does not apply to perimeter rules imposed by
22 Federal law.

23 (3) STUDY.—The Secretary shall conduct a

24 study of the effect that perimeter rules for airports
25 identified under paragraph (1) have on competition

1 and on air service to communities outside the perim-
 2 eter.

3 (4) REPORT.—Not later than 120 days after
 4 the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary
 5 shall transmit to Congress a report on the results of 6 the study.

7 (f) EFFECT OF CHANGING DEFINITION OF COM-
 8 MUTER AIR CARRIER.—

9 (1) STUDY.—The Secretary shall study the ef-
 10 fects of changing the definition of commuter air car-
 11 rier in regulations of the Federal Aviation Adminis-
 12 tration to increase the maximum size of aircraft of 13 such carriers to 76 seats or less on air service to
 14 small communities and on commuter air carriers op-
 15 erating aircraft with 56 seats or less.

16 (2) REPORT.—Not later than 90 days after the
 17 date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall 18 transmit to Congress a report on the results of the 19 study.

20 SEC. 413. NOTICE CONCERNING AIRCRAFT ASSEMBLY.

21 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 417 is
 22 amended by adding at the end the following:

23 “§ 41722. Notice concerning aircraft assembly

24 “The Secretary of Transportation shall require, be-
 25 ginning after the last day of the 1-year period following

1 the date of enactment of this section, an air carrier using
2 an aircraft to provide scheduled passenger air transpor-
3 tation to display a notice, on an information placard avail-
4 able to each passenger on the aircraft, that informs the
5 passengers of the nation in which the aircraft was finally
6 assembled.”.

7 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
8 chapter 417 is amended by striking the item relating to
9 section 41721 and inserting the following:

“41721. Reports by carriers on incidents involving animals during air transport.
“41722. Notice concerning aircraft assembly.”.

10 SEC. 414. SPECIAL RULE TO PROMOTE AIR SERVICE TO
11 SMALL COMMUNITIES.

12 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter I of chapter 417 is
13 further amended by adding at the end the following:

14 “§ 41723. Special rule to promote air service to small
15 communities

16 “In order to promote air service to small commu-
17 nities, the Secretary of Transportation shall permit an op-
18 erator of a turbine powered or multi-engine piston pow-
19 ered aircraft with 10 passenger seats or less (1) to provide
20 air transportation between an airport that is a non-hub
21 airport and another airport or between an airport that is
22 not a commercial service airport and another airport, and
23 (2) to sell individual seats on that aircraft at a negotiated
24 price, if the aircraft is otherwise operated in accordance

1 with parts 119 and 135 of title 14, Code of Federal Regu-
2 lations, and the air transportation is otherwise provided
3 in accordance with part 298 of such title 14.”.

4 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
5 chapter 417 is further amended by adding at the end the
6 following:

“41723. Special rule to promote air service to small communities.”.

7 SEC. 415. SMALL COMMUNITY AIR SERVICE.

8 (a) COMPENSATION GUIDELINES, LIMITATION, AND 9 CLAIMS.—

10 (1) PAYMENT OF PROMOTIONAL AMOUNTS.—

11 Section 41737(a)(2) is amended by inserting before
12 the period at the end “or may be paid directly to the 13 unit of local government having jurisdiction over the 14 eligible place served by the air carrier”.

15 (2) LOCAL SHARE.—Section 41737(a) is
16 amended by adding at the end the following:

17

18 “(3) PAYMENT OF COST BY LOCAL GOVERN-
19 MENT.—

20 “(A) GENERAL REQUIREMENT.—The
21 guidelines may require a unit of local govern-
22 ment having jurisdiction over an eligible place
23 that is less than 170 miles from a medium or
24 large hub or less than 75 miles from a small
25 hub or a State within the boundaries of which

1 the eligible place is located to pay 2.5 percent
2 in fiscal year 2005, 5 percent in fiscal year
3 2006, 7.5 percent in fiscal year 2007, and 10
4 percent in fiscal year 2008 of the amount of
5 compensation payable under this subchapter for
6 air transportation with respect to the eligible
7 place to ensure the continuation of that air
8 transportation.

9 “(B) WAIVER.—The Secretary may waive
10 the requirement, or reduce the amount, of a
11 payment from a unit of local government under
12 subparagraph (A) if the Secretary finds that—

13 “(i) the unit of local government lacks
14 the ability to pay; and

15 “(ii) the loss of essential air service to
16 the eligible place would have an adverse ef-
17 fect on the eligible place’s access to the na-
18 tional air transportation system.

19 “(C) DETERMINATION OF MILEAGE.—In
20 determining the mileage between the eligible
21 place and a hub under this paragraph, the Sec-
22 retary shall use the most commonly used high-
23 way route between the eligible place and the 24 hub.”.

1 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator shall
2 transmit to Congress a report on the long-term goals and
3 objectives of the Aviation Safety Reporting System and
4 how such system interrelates with other safety reporting
5 systems of the Federal Government.

6 SEC. 102. AIR NAVIGATION FACILITIES AND EQUIPMENT.

7 Section 48101 is amended—

8 (1) in subsection (a) by striking paragraphs (1)
9 through (5) and inserting the following:

10 “(1) $2,938,000,000 for fiscal year 2004;

11 “(2) $2,993,000,000 for fiscal year 2005;

12 “(3) $3,053,000,000 for fiscal year 2006; and

13 “(4) $3,110,000,000 for fiscal year 2007.”;

14 (2) by striking subsection (b);

15 (3) by redesignating (c) as subsection (b);

16 (4) by striking subsections (d) and (e) and in-
17 serting the following:

18 “(c) ENHANCED SAFETY AND SECURITY FOR AIR-
19 CRAFT OPERATIONS IN THE GULF OF MEXICO.—Of
20 amounts appropriated under subsection (a), such sums as
21 may be necessary for fiscal years 2004 through 2007 may
22 be used to expand and improve the safety, efficiency, and
23 security of air traffic control, navigation, low altitude com-
24 munications and surveillance, and weather services in the 25 Gulf of Mexico.

1           (3) AUTHORITY TO MAKE AGREEMENTS AND
2 INCUR OBLIGATIONS.—Section 41737(d) is
3 amended—

4           (A) by striking “(1) The Secretary” and
5 inserting the “The Secretary”; and

6           (B) by striking paragraph (2).

7       (b) AIRPORTS NOT RECEIVING SUFFICIENT SERV-
8 ICE.—Section 41743 is amended—

9           (1) in subsection (a) by striking “pilot”;

10          (2) in subsection (c)—

11           (A) by striking paragraph (3);

12           (B) by redesignating paragraphs (4) and
13 (5) as paragraphs (3) and (4), respectively; and

14           (C) in paragraph (4) (as so redesign-
15 ated)—

16           (i) by striking “and” at the end of 17 subparagraph (C);

18           (ii) by striking the period at the end
19 of subparagraph (D) and inserting “;
20 and”; and

21           (iii) by adding at the end the fol-
22 lowing:

23           “(E) the assistance can be used in the fis-
24 cal year in which it is received.”; and

25          (3) in subsection (f) by striking “pilot”.

1 (c) ESSENTIAL AIR SERVICE AUTHORIZATION.—Sec-
2 tion 41742 is amended—

3 (1) in subsection (a)(2) by striking
4 “$15,000,000” and inserting “$65,000,000”;

5 (2) by adding at the end of subsection (a) the
6 following:

7 “(3) AUTHORIZATION FOR ADDITIONAL
8 EMPLOYEES.—In addition to amounts author-
9 ized under paragraphs (1) and (2), there is au-
10 thorized to be appropriated such sums as may
11 be necessary for the Secretary of Transpor-
12 tation to hire and employ 4 additional employ-
13 ees for the office responsible for carrying out
14 the essential air service program.”; and

15 (3) by striking subsection (c).

16 (d) PROCESS FOR DISCONTINUING CERTAIN SUB-
17 SIDIES.—Section 41734 is amended by adding at the end
18 the following:

19 “(f) PROCESS FOR DISCONTINUING CERTAIN SUB-
20 SIDIES.—If the Secretary determines that no subsidy will
21 be provided to a carrier to provide essential air service
22 to an eligible place because the eligible place does not meet
23 the requirements of section 332 of the Department of
24 Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriations Act,
25 2000 (49 U.S.C. 41731 note; 113 Stat. 1022), the Sec-

1 retary shall notify the affected community that the subsidy
2 will cease but shall continue to provide the subsidy for 90
3 days after providing the notice to the community.”.

4 (e) JOINT PROPOSALS.—Section 41740 is amended
5 by inserting “, including joint fares,” after “joint pro-
6 posals”.

7 (f) COMMUNITY AND REGIONAL CHOICE PRO-
8 GRAM.—

9 (1) IN GENERAL.—Subchapter II of chapter
10 417 is amended by adding at the end the following:

11 “§ 41745. Community and regional choice program

12 “(a) ESTABLISHMENT.—The Secretary of Transpor-
13 tation shall establish an alternate essential air service pilot
14 program in accordance with the requirements of this sec-
15 tion.

16 “(b) COMPENSATION TO ELIGIBLE PLACES.—In car-
17 rying out the program, the Secretary, instead of paying
18 compensation to an air carrier to provide essential air
19 service to an eligible place, may pay compensation directly
20 to a unit of local government having jurisdiction over the 21 eligible place or a State within the boundaries of which
22 the eligible place is located.

23 “(c) USE OF COMPENSATION.—A unit of local gov-
24 ernment or State receiving compensation for an eligible

1 place under the program shall use the compensation for
2 any of the following purposes:

3           “(1) To provide assistance to an air carrier to
4 provide scheduled air service to and from the eligible
5 place, without being subject to the requirements of 6 41732(b).

7           “(2) To provide assistance to an air carrier to 8 provide on-demand air taxi service to and from the
9 eligible place.

10           “(3) To provide assistance to a person to pro-
11 vide scheduled or on-demand surface transportation
12 to and from the eligible place and an airport in an-
13 other place.

14           “(4) In combination with other units of local
15 government in the same region, to provide transpor-
16 tation services to and from all the eligible places in
17 that region at an airport or other transportation
18 center that can serve all the eligible places in that 19 region.

20           “(5) To purchase aircraft, or a fractional share
21 in aircraft, to provide transportation to and from the
22 eligible place.

23           “(6) To pay for other transportation or related
24 services that the Secretary may permit.

1       “(d) FRACTIONALLY OWNED AIRCRAFT.—Notwith-
2 standing any other provision of law, only those operating
3 rules that relate to an aircraft that is fractionally owned
4 apply when an aircraft described in subsection (c)(5) is
5 used to provide transportation described in subsection
6 (c)(5).

7       “(e) APPLICATIONS.—

8           “(1) IN GENERAL.—A unit of local government
9 or State seeking to participate in the program for an
10 eligible place shall submit to the Secretary an appli-
11 cation in such form and containing such information
12 as the Secretary may require.

13           “(2) REQUIRED INFORMATION.—At a min-
14 imum, the application shall include—

15                   “(A) a statement of the amount of com-
16 pensation required; and

17                   “(B) a description of how the compensa-
18 tion will be used.

19       “(f) PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENTS.—

20           “(1) ELIGIBLE PLACES.—An eligible place for
21 which compensation is received under the program
22 in a fiscal year shall not be eligible to receive in that
23 fiscal year the essential air service that it would oth-
24 erwise be entitled to under this subchapter.

1           “(2) GOVERNMENTAL ENTITIES.—A unit of
2           local government or State receiving compensation for
3           an eligible place under the program in a fiscal year
4           shall not be required to pay the 10 percent local
5           share described in 41737(a)(3) in such fiscal year.

6           “(g) SUBSEQUENT PARTICIPATION.—A unit of local
7           government participating in the program under this sec-
8           tion in a fiscal year shall not be prohibited from partici-
9           pating in the basic essential air service program under this
10          chapter in a subsequent fiscal year if such unit is other-
11          wise eligible to participate in such program.

12          “(h) FUNDING.—Amounts appropriated or otherwise
13          made available to carry out the essential air service pro-
14          gram under this subchapter shall be available to carry out
15          this section.”.

16          (2) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis
17          for chapter 417 is amended by inserting after the
18          item relating to section 41744 the following:

          “41745. Community and regional choice program.”.

19   SEC. 416. PROTECTION OF EMPLOYEES PROVIDING AIR
20                           SAFETY INFORMATION.

21          Section 42121 is amended—

22                  (1) by redesignating subsection (e) as sub-
23                  section (f); and

24                  (2) by inserting after subsection (d) the fol-
25                  lowing:

1           “(e) ACTION IN DISTRICT COURT.—If the Secretary
2 has not issued a final order within the time period estab-
3 lished by subsection (b)(3) with respect to a complaint and
4 there is no showing that the delay is due to the bad faith
5 of the complainant, the complainant may bring an action
6 at law or equity for de novo review of the complaint in
7 the appropriate district court of the United States. The 8 district court shall have jurisdiction over the action with-
9 out regard to the amount in controversy. The action shall
10 be subject to the standards of proof provided in subsection
11 (b)(2)(B).”.

12 SEC. 417. TYPE CERTIFICATES.

13           (a) AGREEMENTS TO PERMIT USE OF CERTIFICATES
14 BY OTHER PERSONS.—Section 44704(a) is amended by
15 adding at the end the following:

16           “(3) If the holder of a type certificate agrees to per-
17 mit another person to use the certificate to manufacture
18 a new aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance, the
19 holder shall provide the other person with written evi-
20 dence, in a form acceptable to the Administrator, of that
21 agreement. A person may manufacture a new aircraft, air-
22 craft engine, propeller, or appliance based on a type cer-
23 tificate only if the person is the holder of the type certifi-
24 cate or has permission from the holder.”.

1 (b) CERTIFICATION OF PRODUCTS MANUFACTURED
2 IN FOREIGN NATIONS.—Section 44704 is further amend-
3 ed by adding at the end the following:

4 “(e) CERTIFICATION OF PRODUCTS MANUFACTURED
5 IN FOREIGN NATIONS.—In order to ensure safety, the Ad-
6 ministrator shall spend at least the same amount of time
7 and perform a no-less-thorough review in certifying, or
8 validating the certification of, an aircraft, aircraft engine,
9 propeller, or appliance manufactured in a foreign nation
10 as the regulatory authorities of that nation employ when 11 the authorities certify, or validate the certification of, an
12 aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance manufac-
13 tured in the United States.”.

14 SEC. 418. DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATES.

15 (a) GENERAL AUTHORITY TO ISSUE CERTIFI-
16 CATES.—Effective on the last day of the 7-year period be-
17 ginning on the date of enactment of this Act, section
18 44702(a) is amended by inserting “design organization
19 certificates,” after “airman certificates,”.

20 (b) DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATES.—

21 (1) PLAN.—Not later than 3 years after the
22 date of enactment of this Act, the Administrator of
23 the Federal Aviation Administration shall transmit
24 to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Trans-
25 portation of the Senate and the Committee on

1 Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of
2 Representatives a plan for the development and
3 oversight of a system for certification of design orga-
4 nizations to certify compliance with the requirements
5 and minimum standards prescribed under section
6 44701(a) of title 49, United States Code, for the
7 type certification of aircraft, aircraft engines, propel-
8 lers, or appliances.

9 (2) ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATES.—Section
10 44704 is further amended by adding at the end the
11 following:

12 “(f) DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATES.—

13 “(1) ISSUANCE.—Beginning 7 years after the
14 date of enactment of this subsection, the Adminis-
15 trator may issue a design organization certificate to 16 a design organization to authorize the organization
17 to certify compliance with the requirements and min-
18 imum standards prescribed under section 44701(a)
19 for the type certification of aircraft, aircraft engines,
20 propellers, or appliances.

21 “(2) APPLICATIONS.—On receiving an applica-
22 tion for a design organization certificate, the Admin-
23 istrator shall examine and rate the design organiza-
24 tion submitting the application, in accordance with
25 regulations to be prescribed by the Administrator, to

1 determine whether the design organization has ade-
2 quate engineering, design, and testing capabilities,
3 standards, and safeguards to ensure that the prod-
4 uct being certificated is properly designed and man-
5 ufactured, performs properly, and meets the regula-
6 tions and minimum standards prescribed under sec-
7 tion 44701(a).

8 “(3) ISSUANCE OF TYPE CERTIFICATES BASED
9 ON DESIGN ORGANIZATION CERTIFICATION.—On re-
10 ceiving an application for a type certificate under
11 subsection (a) that is accompanied by a certification
12 of compliance by a design organization certificated
13 under this subsection, instead of conducting an inde-
14 pendent investigation under subsection (a), the Ad-
15 ministrator may issue the type certificate based on
16 the certification of compliance.

17 “(4) PUBLIC SAFETY.—The Administrator shall
18 include in a design organization certificate issued
19 under this subsection terms required in the interest
20 of safety.”.

21 (c) REINSPECTION AND REEXAMINATION.—Section
22 44709(a) is amended by inserting “design organization,
23 production certificate holder,” after “appliance,”.

1 “(d) OPERATIONAL BENEFITS OF WAKE VORTEX
2 ADVISORY SYSTEM.—Of amounts appropriated under sub-
3 section (a), $20,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004
4 through 2007 may be used to document and demonstrate
5 the operational benefits of a wake vortex advisory system.

6 “(e) GROUND-BASED PRECISION NAVIGATIONAL
7 AIDS.—Of amounts appropriated under subsection (a),
8 $20,000,000 for each of fiscal years 2004 to 2007 may
9 be used to establish a program for the installation, oper-
10 ation, and maintenance of a closed-loop precision approach
11 aid designed to improve aircraft accessibility at moun-
12 tainous airports with limited land if the approach aid is 13 able to provide curved and segmented approach guidance
14 for noise abatement purposes and has been certified or 15 approved by the Administrator.”; and

16 (6) in subsection (f)—

17 (A) by striking “for fiscal years beginning
18 after September 30, 2000”; and

19 (B) by inserting “may be used” after “nec-
20 essary”.

21 SEC. 103. AIRPORT PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT AND
22 NOISE COMPATIBILITY PLANNING AND PRO-
23 GRAMS.

24 (a) AUTHORIZATION.—Section 48103 is amended—

1 (d) PROHIBITIONS.—Section 44711(a)(7) is amended
2 by striking “agency” and inserting “agency, design orga-
3 nization certificate, ”.

4 (e) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—

5 (1) SECTION HEADING.—Section 44704 is
6 amended by striking the section designation and
7 heading and inserting the following:

8 “§ 44704. Type certificates, production certificates,
9 airworthiness certificates, and design or-
10 ganization certificates”.

11 (2) CHAPTER ANALYSIS.—The analysis for
12 chapter 447 is amended by striking the item relating 13 to section 44704 and inserting the following:

“44704. Type certificates, production certificates, airworthiness certificates, and design organization certificates.”.

14 SEC. 419. COUNTERFEIT OR FRAUDULENTLY REP-
15 RESENTED PARTS VIOLATIONS.

16 Section 44726(a)(1) is amended—

17 (1) by striking “or” at the end of subparagraph
18 (A);

19 (2) by redesignating subparagraph (B) as sub-
20 paragraph (C);

21 (3) by inserting after subparagraph (A) the fol-
22 lowing:

23 “(B) whose certificate is revoked under
24 subsection (b); or”; and

1 (4) in subparagraph (C) (as redesignated by
2 paragraph (2) of this section) by striking “convicted
3 of such a violation.” and inserting “described in sub-
4 paragraph (A) or (B).”.

5 SEC. 420. RUNWAY SAFETY STANDARDS.

6 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 447 is amended by add-
7 ing at the end the following:

8 “§ 44727. Runway safety areas

9 “An airport owner or operator shall not be required
10 to reduce the length of a runway or declare the length
11 of a runway to be less than the actual pavement length
12 in order to meet standards of the Federal Aviation Admin-
13 istration applicable to runway safety areas.”.

14 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
15 chapter 447 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
16 lowing:

“44727. Runway safety areas.”.

17 SEC. 421. AVAILABILITY OF MAINTENANCE INFORMATION.

18 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 447 is further amended
19 by adding at the end the following:

20 “§ 44728. Availability of maintenance information

21 “(a) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator of the Fed-
22 eral Aviation Administration shall continue in effect the
23 requirement of section 21.50(b) of title 14, Code of Fed-
24 eral Regulations, that the holder of a design approval—

1           “(1) shall prepare and furnish at least one set
2 of complete instructions for continued airworthiness
3 as prescribed in such section to the owner of each
4 type of aircraft, aircraft engine, or propeller upon its
5 delivery or upon the issuance of the first standard
6 airworthiness certificate for the affected aircraft,
7 whichever occurs later; and

8           “(2) thereafter shall make the instructions, and
9 any changes thereto, available to any other person
10 required by parts 1 through 199 of title 14, Code of
11 Federal Regulations, to comply with any of the 12 terms of the instructions.

13           “(b) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the following
14 definitions apply:

15           “(1) MAKE AVAILABLE.—The term ‘make avail-
16 able’ means providing at a cost not to exceed the 17 cost of preparation and distribution.

18           “(2) DESIGN APPROVAL.—The term ‘design ap-
19 proval’ means a type certificate, supplemental type
20 certificate, amended type certificate, parts manufac-
21 turer approval, technical standard order authoriza-
22 tion, and any other action as determined by the Ad-
23 ministrator pursuant to subsection (c)(2).

25 WORTHINESS.—The term ‘instructions for continued

1       airworthiness’ means any information (and any
2       changes to such information) considered essential to
3       continued airworthiness that sets forth the methods,
4       techniques, and practices for performing mainte-
5       nance and alteration on civil aircraft, aircraft en-
6       gines, propellers, appliances or any part installed
7       thereon. Such information may include maintenance,
8       repair, and overhaul manuals, standard practice
9       manuals, service bulletins, service letters, or similar
10      documents issued by a design approval holder.

11      “(c) RULEMAKING.—The Administrator shall con-
12     duct a rulemaking proceeding for the following purposes:

13           “(1) To determine the meaning of the phrase
14           ‘essential to continued airworthiness’ of the applica-
15           ble aircraft, aircraft engine, and propeller as that
16           term is used in parts 23 through 35 of title 14,
17           Code of Federal Regulations.

18           “(2) To determine if a design approval should
19           include, in addition to those approvals specified in 20           subsection (b)(2), any other activity in which per-
21           sons are required to have technical data approved by
22           the Administrator.

23           “(3) To revise existing rules to reflect the defi-
24           nition of design approval holder in subsections (b)(2)
25           and (c)(2).

1           “(4) To determine if design approval holders
2           that prepared instructions for continued airworthi-
3           ness or maintenance manuals before January 29,
4           1981, should be required to make the manuals avail-
5           able (including any changes thereto) to any person
6           required by parts 1 through 199 of title 14, Code of
7           Federal Regulations, to comply with any of the 8           terms of those manuals.

9           “(5) To require design approval holders that—

10                   “(A) are operating an ongoing business
11                   concern;

12                   “(B) were required to produce mainte-
13                   nance manuals or instructions for continued
14                   airworthiness under section 21.50(b) of title 14,
15                   Code of Federal Regulations; and

16                   “(C) have not done so,
17           to prepare those documents and make them available
18           as required by this section not later than 1 year
19           after date on which the regulations are published.

20           “(6) To revise its rules to reflect the changes
21           made by this section.

22           “(d) LIMITATION ON STATUTORY CONSTRUCTION.—

23           Nothing in this section shall be construed as requiring the 24           holder of a design approval to make available proprietary

1 information unless it is deemed essential to continued air-
2 worthiness.”.

3 (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
4 chapter 447 is further amended by adding at the end the
5 following:

“44728. Availability of maintenance information.”.

6 SEC. 422. CERTIFICATE ACTIONS IN RESPONSE TO A SECU-
7 RITY THREAT.

8 (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 461 is amended by add-
9 ing at the end the following:

10 “§ 46111. Certificate actions in response to a security
11 threat

12 “(a) ORDERS.—The Administrator of Federal Avia-
13 tion Administration shall issue an order amending, modi-
14 fying, suspending, or revoking any part of a certificate
15 issued under this title if the Administrator is notified by
16 the Under Secretary for Border and Transportation Secu-
17 rity of the Department of Homeland Security that the 18 holder of the certificate poses, or is suspected of posing,
19 a risk of air piracy or terrorism or a threat to airline or 20 passenger safety. If requested by the Under Secretary, the 21 order shall be effective immediately.

22 “(b) HEARINGS FOR CITIZENS.—An individual who
23 is a citizen of the United States who is adversely affected
24 by an order of the Administrator under subsection (a) is
25 entitled to a hearing on the record.

1           “(c) HEARINGS.—When conducting a hearing under
2 this section, the administrative law judge shall not be
3 bound by findings of fact or interpretations of laws and
4 regulations of the Administrator or the Under Secretary.

5           “(d) APPEALS.—An appeal from a decision of an ad-
6 ministrative law judge as the result of a hearing under
7 subsection (b) shall be made to the Transportation Secu-
8 rity Oversight Board established by section 115. The 9 Board shall establish a panel to review the decision. The 10 members of this panel (1) shall not be employees of the 11 Transportation Security Administration, (2) shall have the
12 level of security clearance needed to review the determina-
13 tion made under this section, and (3) shall be given access
14 to all relevant documents that support that determination.
15 The panel may affirm, modify, or reverse the decision.

16           “(e) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—A person substantially af-
17 fected by an action of a panel under subsection (d), or
18 the Under Secretary when the Under Secretary decides
19 that the action of the panel under this section will have
20 a significant adverse impact on carrying out this part, may 21 obtain judicial review of the order under section 46110.
22 The Under Secretary and the Administrator shall be made
23 a party to the judicial review proceedings. Findings of fact
24 of the panel are conclusive if supported by substantial evi-
25 dence.

1           “(f) EXPLANATION OF DECISIONS.—An individual
2 who commences an appeal under this section shall receive
3 a written explanation of the basis for the determination
4 or decision and all relevant documents that support that
5 determination to the maximum extent that the national
6 security interests of the United States and other applica-
7 ble laws permit.

8           “(g) CLASSIFIED EVIDENCE.—

9           “(1) IN GENERAL.—The Under Secretary, in
10 consultation with the Administrator, shall issue reg-
11 ulations to establish procedures by which the Under 12 Secretary, as part of a hearing conducting under
13 this section, may substitute an unclassified summary
14 of classified evidence upon the approval of the ad-
15 ministrative law judge.

16           “(2) APPROVAL AND DISAPPROVAL OF SUM-
17 MARIES.—Under the procedures, an administrative
18 law judge shall—

19           “(A) approve a summary if the judge finds
20 that it is sufficient to enable the certificate
21 holder to appeal an order issued under sub-
22 section (a); or

23           “(B) disapprove a summary if the judge
24 finds that it is not sufficient to enable the cer-
25 tificate holder to appeal such an order.

1           “(3) MODIFICATIONS.—If an administrative law
2 judge disapproves a summary under paragraph
3 (2)(B), the judge shall direct the Under Secretary to
4 modify the summary and resubmit the summary for
5 approval.

6           “(4) INSUFFICIENT MODIFICATIONS.—If an ad-
7 ministrative law judge is unable to approve a modi-
8 fied summary, the order issued under subsection (a)
9 that is the subject of the hearing shall be set aside
10 unless the judge finds that such a result—

11                   “(A) would likely cause serious and irrep-
12 arable harm to the national security; or

13                   “(B) would likely cause death or serious
14 bodily injury to any person.

15           “(5) SPECIAL PROCEDURES.—If an administra-
16 tive law judge makes a finding under subparagraph
17 (A) or (B) of paragraph (4), the hearing shall pro-
18 ceed without an unclassified summary provided to
19 the certificate holder. In such a case, subject to pro-
20 cedures established by regulation by the Under Sec-
21 retary in consultation with the Administrator, the
22 administrative law judge shall appoint a special at-
23 torney to assist the accused by—

24                   “(A) reviewing in camera the classified evi-
25 dence; and

1           “(B) challenging, through an in camera
2           proceeding, the veracity of the evidence con-
3           tained in the classified information.”.

4           (b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT.—The analysis for
5 chapter 461 is amended by adding at the end the fol-
6 lowing:

          “46111. Certificate actions in response to a security threat.”.

7 SEC. 423. FLIGHT ATTENDANT CERTIFICATION.

8           (a) IN GENERAL.—Chapter 447 is further amended
9 by adding at the end the following:

10 “§ 44729. Flight attendant certification

11           “(a) CERTIFICATE REQUIRED.—

12           “(1) IN GENERAL.—No person may serve as a
13 flight attendant aboard an aircraft of an air carrier
14 unless that person holds a certificate of dem-
15 onstrated proficiency from the Administrator of the 16 Federal Aviation Administration. Upon the request
17 of the Administrator or an authorized representative
18 of the National Transportation Safety Board or an-
19 other Federal agency, a person who holds such a
20 certificate shall present the certificate for inspection
21 within a reasonable period of time after the date of 22 the request.

23           “(2) SPECIAL RULE FOR CURRENT FLIGHT AT-
24 TENDANTS.—An individual serving as a flight at-
25 tendant on the effective date of this section may

Brett:

Karl thought, and I strongly agree, it would be a good idea for Matt and me to sit down with you to discuss ethics matters as they relate to the campaign. I was planning to meet with people both inside and outside the administration, to seek their guidance and counsel as it relates to the White House and '04, and I want to make sure in advance that I know the "do's and don'ts" in terms of what to ask and how to frame matters. I want to be whatever I do is wholly appropriate -- and your guidance would be invaluable.

Could you let me know when's a good time for us to meet?

Many thanks.

Pete

Merrill - the program below is very simple, but I asked that they send for approval. Merrill had mentioned that there had been discussion when you all approved the invite that there may need to be some sort of disclaimer on the program. Do they need to add anything?

Lee would like to have a meeting on Monday afternoon with you to discuss infrastructure and timeline in the event there were a Supreme Court nomination that might superimpose itself on plans for this summer. Let me know if you can do this. My original thought was to invite Adam Charnes and Jamie Brown for DOJ. But I leave that call to you. Lee will be handling who will be invited Senate side. Please advise on availability and times.

Double Standard Filibuster

By Alberto R. Gonzales

Monday, June 2, 2003; Page A17

Today John Roberts will take the oath of office to become a judge on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit. He is an excellent example of the kind of person President Bush has nominated to the federal appeals courts. Roberts has been a well-respected lawyer in Washington, principal deputy solicitor general of the United States, associate counsel to President Reagan and law clerk to then-Justice William Rehnquist. He has argued 39 cases before the Supreme Court and is widely recognized as one of the best appellate lawyers in America. He is a person of great integrity with wide bipartisan support, and the American Bar Association unanimously rated him well qualified. Roberts will be a distinguished judge on the D.C. Circuit.

The Senate voted unanimously on May 8 to confirm Roberts to the D.C. Circuit. That vote is noteworthy for two reasons, however, both of which demonstrate the serious breakdown in the Senate confirmation process for federal appeals court nominees.

First, the long road from Roberts's nomination to his confirmation vote is impossible to defend. Roberts was first nominated to the D.C. Circuit more than 11 years ago, in January 1992, but did not receive a hearing before the end of President George H.W. Bush's term. President George W. Bush then nominated Roberts on May 9, 2001, shortly after taking office. But the Senate Judiciary Committee did not hold a hearing on the nomination during the last Congress, even though no serious objections were lodged against Roberts. President Bush then re-nominated him on Jan. 7, 2003. Finally, after two hearings this year, Roberts received his Senate vote, on May 8. It was unanimous, which makes the many years of delay all the more difficult to explain and justify.

The Senate's delays and denials of votes on appeals court nominees -- which have been far too common in recent administrations -- flout the intention of the Constitution and the tradition of the Senate. No judicial nominee should ever have to wait years for a vote in the Senate. These delays leave judicial vacancies unfilled and thus prevent the federal courts from doing their jobs for the American people. The delays and uncertainty also threaten to deter the best and brightest from seeking judicial service. The Senate should fulfill its constitutional responsibility and ensure that every judicial nominee receives an up-or-down vote within a reasonable time after nomination.

Second, the confirmation of John Roberts also dramatically exposes the double standard being applied by Senate Democrats to the president's other D.C. Circuit nominee, Miguel Estrada. The career records of Roberts and Estrada are strikingly similar. Both were unanimously rated well-qualified by the American Bar Association. Both have argued numerous cases before the Supreme Court, including as attorneys in the solicitor general's office. Both have devoted large portions of their legal careers to public service and also been partners at major Washington law firms. Both have clerked for Supreme Court justices. Both have the strong support of prominent Democratic attorneys who served in high-ranking positions in the Clinton administration. Neither has served previously as a judge or a professor, and therefore neither has written widely about his personal views on legal issues. Both have served instead as superb, well-respected and fair-minded lawyers for public and private clients throughout their careers.

Despite the great similarities between Roberts and Estrada, 45 Senate Democrats have treated them very differently. Senate Democrats never requested confidential case memoranda written by Roberts from his time in the solicitor general's office. Yet they are insisting on reviewing memoranda written by Estrada in the solicitor general's office, as a condition of ending a four-month filibuster of his nomination. Consistent with judicial independence and the traditional practice of judicial nominees, Senate Democrats also did not demand that Roberts answer questions about his personal views on legal and policy issues before they voted on him. Yet these senators are apparently demanding that Estrada answer such questions as a condition of ending the filibuster.

The 45 Senate Democrats who are filibustering Estrada's nomination are applying a double standard. There is no rational or legitimate justification for the disparate treatment of Roberts and Estrada -- particularly for the use of an extreme and unprecedented filibuster against Estrada, who would be the first Hispanic to serve on the D.C. Circuit and has the clear support of a majority of senators. The president has asked that the Senate Democrats halt the filibuster, stop the delays and allow an up-or-down vote on Estrada. As the president has said, let each senator vote as he or she thinks best, but end the double standard and give the man a vote.

The writer is counsel to the president.

OTHER SERVICES

QUESTION 75: Similar to the information on page 236 et seq. of last year's hearing record, please provide a detailed description of each project, program, or initiative proposed to be funded in FY 2004 under object class 25.2 ("other services").

RESPONSE: Capital Investment Plan (CIP) - $5,220,000

The overall FY 2004 CIP requirement supports nine areas, as described below. The following "services" costs are included in the FY 2004 CIP request:

- $690,000 for Customer Service and Desktop Systems. This funding will be used to perform desktop software integration support.
- $450,000 for New Technologies and Systems. This includes "services" funding of $150,000 for server technology integration testing and $300,000 for voice and data integration.
- $230,000 for EOP Systems and Support. This includes "services" funding of $150,000 to develop external Local Area Networks, and $80,000 for production test lab development.
- $700,000 for Information Security. This is for enterprise identity projects to allow the introduction of new authentication and identification mechanisms into the EOP IT infrastructure.
- $650,000 for Web-Based Services. This is for web services application environment.
- $2,500,000 for the Offsite Data Center. This is for services necessary to transition the offsite data center to full operational status
- There are no services funds allocated to Campus Wiring, Networks and Data Communications Infrastructure, or Messaging and Scheduling.

Salaries and Expenses - $2,150,000

There are three initiatives in the FY 2004 OA salaries/expense budget which comprise $2,150,000 in new programs under object class 25.2 ("other services"):

- $1,800,000 for Technology and Systems Support Contract. The Chief Information Officer (CIO) provides a wide range of computer services support to the EOP. These tasks are performed in large measure through an outsourcing contract that delivers IT services from PC deployment to help desk and data center operations. During FY 2003, this IT systems support contract was competed with an increase in base labor rates due to the need for more advanced skills in IT disciplines such as XML and web services software development, Oracle database development and administration, and implementation of a new Enterprise Resources Planning (ERP) application covering finance, asset management and human resources. The CIO outsource contract is the vehicle used to maintain a 24 hour-a-day operation for mainframes, servers, help desk, local area networks, personal computers, applications; installation of end-user hardware and software; training; software application development and maintenance services. Altogether, this contract supports customers throughout the White House 18-acre complex, at remote and mobile locations, and at the planned Offsite Data Center. Key components driving the cost upward include: (1) higher labor rates for the DC area, which have risen since the previous IT 1997 facility contract; (2) the impact of the new data center operations in 2003 and thereafter; (3) an expanded EOP customer base which has more advanced, sophisticated, and security-conscious users.

- $300,000 for Information Assurance Support. The CIO has established the Information Assurance (IA) program to serve as a central location for information security serving all of EOP. FY 2002 and FY 2003 funds attended to the most critical concern with significant vulnerabilities in the perimeter and began the process of securing the internal systems. The IA program created real-time monitoring of perimeter network devices; it established the first formal documentation of IA program policy to bring the EOP in conformance with Federal guidelines and directives. However, the cyber threat facing EOP is dynamic because our systems are constantly assailed with a wide and unexpected range of attacks. The new state of defense must be active vigilance, to include the following components: (1) Perimeter Security, (2) Advanced Security Concepts, (3) Contingency Planning Support, (4) Network Monitor/Response Systems, and (5) Security Awareness, Assessments, and Education.
- $50,000 for Security Enhancements: Videos. There is a frequent and ongoing need for a security video – specific to the EOP and White House – which can be used in security briefings and new employee orientation meetings. This video will contain a brief overview of security responsibilities and procedures which must be understood by all personnel working in the EOP.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

QUESTION 76: Please provide a detailed description of any expenses in the FY 2004 budget under “salaries and expenses” which are not directly related to personnel compensation and benefits.

RESPONSE: The following is an object class breakdown highlighting the major costs in each of the non-pay-related expense categories and a description of the unique aspects of some of these expenses found within the Executive Office of the President.

For reference, below are two tables that roll up all EOP component salaries and expenses funding information including the components not funded under the Subcommittee on Transportation, Treasury and Independent Agencies Appropriations.

Travel and transportation of persons – The largest portion of this funding (41%) is for international staff travel in support of trade negotiations as coordinated by the U.S. Trade Representative (USTR). The next largest portion of this funding (21%) is for White House Office (WHO) staff travel including "Presidential travel," which is the term used to delineate those trips where staff members actually travel with or ahead of the President. Those traveling ahead, referred to as advance staff, are responsible for producing Presidential events, as well as establishing an on-site infrastructure similar to the support that is provided within the White House. In addition, EOP travel costs related to Presidential travel is tracked by the principals (President, First Lady, Vice President and Mrs. Cheney) and by location. The remaining EOP travel funds are used for staff travel in support of the various EOP offices and their missions.

Transportation of things – The EOP spends funds in this area for the costs of express delivery/shipping of items such as Freedom of Information Act documents and personnel documents for accountability, as well as other miscellaneous items. Vehicle fleet costs are also included in this category.

Rental payments to GSA – Funds paid to GSA are used to provide the EOP offices with space in the government-owned and leased buildings that comprise the White House complex. Although the General Services Administration manages the EOP buildings, including the East and West Wings of the White House, they cannot rent them out to other Federal departments or agencies.

Communications, utilities and miscellaneous services – The bulk of these costs are used for the EOP switchboard. Funding in this category is also used for the networking and telecommunications projects of the Offsite Data Center. These projects include funds for the primary and backup telecommunications lines connecting the remote data center with the EOP office campus, two additional DS-3 data paths, two T-1 lines, and backup to support required communications bandwidth, and availability requirements.

Printing and reproduction – The largest expense in this area is for Presidential stationery and greetings. Also included are the costs for printing in the Code of Federal Regulation and the Federal Register as well as the costs to print the President's Budget, the Economic Report of the President, the National Drug Control Strategy, free trade agreement documents and other publications, studies and reports.

Other services – The primary cost driver in this category is the information technology support contract that provides IT sustainment services, system development services, and system engineering services for the entire EOP. IT support for the EOP as supported by this contract is largely an outsourced activity that includes a broad range of services such as the Help Desk, network and data center operations.

Supplies and materials – Most of the EOP expenses in this category are for general office and IT supplies, as well as the costs for subscriptions to newspapers and magazines.

Equipment – The largest portion of the EOP equipment costs is for IT desktop replacement program and for investments in software and hardware infrastructure to support the EOP IT projects.

Unanticipated Needs – Expenditures from this fund may be authorized only by the President. The Director of OMB provides the necessary controls to ensure that only unforeseen priorities are financed and that funding from other sources is not available.

ONDCP Policy Research – This is an ONDCP expense and funding is used to support the continuing policy research to better inform drug policy.

SECURITY GUARD SERVICES FOR OSTP

QUESTION 77: In FY 2003, you budgeted $1,798,000 for security guard services for the Office of Science and Technology Policy. Are similar funds requested in FY 2004? If so, how much?

RESPONSE: The FY 2004 OA budget proposes that the cost of the security guard service (estimated at $702,000) for OSTP be transferred to the OSTP appropriation. Thus, the proposed FY04 OA budget would contain the balance of the funds (approximately $1.1 million).

Since the FY 2003 budget was proposed, there have been additional reviews of the physical security of the White House complex by the US Secret Service, the Federal Protective Service, and the OA Security Office. As a result, the OA Security Office has been assigned the responsibility of correcting deficiencies in EOP physical security. There are some locations which do not currently have Secret Service protection (such as the Jackson Place White House Conference Center). Another location which does not have firm long-term security plans is the office at 1800 G Street. Thus, the Office of Administration has ongoing needs for the $1.1 million which remains in the OA budget. During FY03, these funds are being used for consolidation of information technology maintenance ($200,000), centralization of database services ($200,000), and common building service costs ($400,000). The remaining $300,000 of these savings will be used for an FY03 OA personnel shortfall.

QUESTION 78: Why aren't such funds in the OSTP budget?

RESPONSE: The estimated FY04 cost of 24-hour security guard services for OSTP is included in the FY04 OSTP budget request. This estimate is $702,000 for a full year.

POLITICAL APPOINTEES

QUESTION 79: Please update the information on political appointees within EOP as shown on page 268 of last year's hearing record, using the same criteria and assumptions as last year.

RESPONSE: The term "political appointees" is somewhat of a misnomer because it narrowly defines the type of employees authorized under Chapter 2 of Title 3 of the U.S. Code, for the White House Office, the Executive Residence, the Official Residence of the Vice President and the Office of Administration. These offices can hire personnel in various excepted service positions that are not subject to the rules of regular government employees. Many of these excepted service positions fall under the category of serving at the pleasure of the President while others do not. Using the term in the broadest possible sense, including all employees hired as Presidential Appointees, Administratively Determined, Non Career SES, or Schedule C's, the Executive Office of the President has the following number of political appointees directly hired within the EOP and serving in the EOP on detailed assignments from other agencies as of May 5, 2003.

Program	FY 2003 "POLITICAL APPOINTEES" as of May 5, 2003

DETAILEES

QUESTION 80: Please update the information on reimbursable and non-reimbursable detailees with EOP as shown on pages 268 and 269 of last year's hearing record.

RESPONSE: There are currently 251 detailees staffed within the Executive Office of the President. There are 41 reimbursable detailees and 210 non-reimbursable detailees as shown in the chart below, as of May 5, 2003:

OFFICE OF THE VICE PRESIDENT

QUESTION 81: You are requesting an additional $70,000 (+1.7 percent) for the Vice President's travel, due to increased travel to undisclosed locations after the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001. Weren't these type of increases baselined in FY 2002 and FY 2003, and if so, why are further increases needed in FY 2004?

RESPONSE: The FY 2003 budget was submitted in February 2002, prior to it becoming evident that the Vice President's travel requirements had increased more than originally estimated. Following the events of 9-11, the Vice President has been required to be outside the Washington, DC vicinity for significant periods of time. This travel has been 100 percent official, and operational in nature (i.e. the Vice President performs his regular duties in an off-site location). This travel has required the accompaniment of staff, who also perform operational duties.

Because the budget impact of these additional travel requirements was not fully realized until after the FY 2003 budget request was submitted, they were not included in the FY 2003 baseline. Continued security concerns related to the Vice President and the ensuing impact on the Vice President's travel costs necessitate the increase to the FY 2004 OVP travel budget. This increase will allow the Vice President the flexibility needed to adequately execute his official travel requirements.

UNANTICIPATED NEEDS

QUESTION 82: Please provide a listing of the uses of Unanticipated Needs funds in FY 2002.

RESPONSE: $757,000 of the $1,000,000 appropriated to the Unanticipated Needs account in FY 2002 was provided to OMB for the Department of Homeland Security Transition Planning Office. The remaining appropriation was not utilized.

TRANSPORTATION, TREASURY, AND INDEPENDENT AGENCIES EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT
FY 2004 PRESIDENT'S BUDGET
QUESTIONS FOR THE RECORD FROM CONGRESSMAN JOHN W. OLVER

ACCOUNT CONSOLIDATION AND TRANSFER PROPOSALS

When we centralized the funds within the Office of Administration, Congress intended that each agency would continue to receive a similar share of support and assistance under the consolidation.

QUESTION 83: Are any agencies going to receive diminished services or resources under the consolidation?

RESPONSE: No, currently the funding in the pilot has been allocated to be consistent with the FY 03 budget request. The service levels will be equal to or greater than pre-pilot levels; however, we are hopeful that the cost to procure the same level of service will decrease. Also, the Office of Administration is preparing service standards. For example, if the service standard for PC's would be one PC per desktop that is less than four years old, and if one EOP component is currently at that standard for 95 % of its employees and another is currently at that standard for 50% of its employees, based on need, the second component would get a larger share of the services to bring it closer to the EOP standard. This allows EOP to consistently upgrade software and services across the entire organization as the total infrastructure permits.

QUESTION 84: Are any agencies to receive extra services above and beyond the amount of funds they contributed as part of the consolidation?

RESPONSE: Yes, based on need and to bring organizations that are lagging behind the approved standards up to a consistent standard, some organizations may receive extra services above and beyond the amount of funds they contributed to the consolidation. We anticipate some of those services will be funded from savings in the program.

QUESTION 85: Under the procurement consolidation pilot approved in the FY03 Omnibus, are IT or database services for any EOP agency going to be paid for by funds contributed by other EOP agencies?

RESPONSE: Yes, in addition to generating procurement savings and efficiencies, a major goal of the consolidation pilot is to bring all of the EOP components up to a standard of service which will allow us to implement technology evenly across the organization and to realize efficiencies and benefits from a consistent and even infrastructure. In reaching this goal, the funds may be applied in a manner which is not in the same ratio in which they were contributed.

QUESTION 86: In general, are the funds appropriated for this centralized procurement program going to be used to supplement the appropriation made to individual agencies?

RESPONSE: Yes, the individual entities will be the recipients of the services funded by the centralized procurement program without reimbursement in accordance with the Congressional appropriation provided to OA.

QUESTION 87: If so, which agencies will benefit and which agencies will receive less than their share of contributions?

RESPONSE: OA is currently establishing the allocation standards for the commodities included in the centralized procurement program. OA is also requesting that the entities assist us in developing a baseline against which we will measure the allocation standards. That will determine which, if any, entities will benefit and which entities will receive less than their share of contributions.

QUESTION 88: You recently submitted a very cursory report on the procurement pilot. When will you provide us with specific details on the progress of the pilot program?

RESPONSE: As mentioned above, progress is being made on the plan to implement the Common Services Program. We expect to be able to brief the Subcommittee in greater detail this summer.

Your budget also proposes a change that would permit EOP agencies to transfer up to 10% into or out of any agency's budget. Coupled with your account consolidation proposal, that would allow you to transfer in up to $18 million more into (or out of) the White House's budget.

QUESTION 89: Under the procurement consolidation program that we approved in the FY03 bill, don't you have a similar type of flexibility already? What other flexibility is needed?

RESPONSE: The flexibility of the procurement consolidation program is directed to certain defined common commodities. The 10% transfer authority provides flexibility for unexpected requirements and to address needs that may be outside the program.

QUESTION 90: What protection is there for smaller EOP agencies under this proposal? Don't they stand to lose critical resources if the White House or Vice President's Office decide to take 10% of their resources?

Operating Expenses	X	2000	1,000	101
Operating Expenses	X	2001	1,000	459
Operating Expenses	X	2002	1,000	0

RESPONSE: It is more likely that the smaller entities will benefit from the proposal. Because their appropriations are small, they are less able to adjust to unforeseen circumstances such as unexpected retirements requiring large lump sum payments. This program will allow the EOP to address these unforeseen circumstances without requesting supplemental funding. Also, as a practical matter, the issue of “protection” is immaterial as all the entities (setting the Office of the Vice President aside) work directly for the President.

OFFICE OF HOMELAND SECURITY QUESTIONS

We recently received a reprogramming request to transfer $2M of the funds provided to the Office of Homeland Security to the Remote Delivery Site cleanup efforts. The source of these funds would come from the Office of Homeland Security.

The Office of Homeland Security has gone from an initial $25M stated need when the initial FY03 bills passed the House and Senate, to $11M when the FY03 Omnibus was passed to what will be $9M if the reprogramming is approved.

QUESTION 91: What exactly does the Office of Homeland Security do now that the Department of Homeland Security is in place?

RESPONSE: HSC advises and assists the President on homeland security matters and coordinates policy development and the interagency process regarding Administration policy on homeland security, including the development and coordination of implementation of the National Strategy for Homeland Security to secure the United States from terrorist threats and attacks.

QUESTION 92: Does OHS still have a presence at Nebraska Avenue?

RESPONSE: No.

QUESTION 93: Does the Office of Administration provide any support to agencies at Nebraska Avenue? If so, please describe the specific types of support provided. Is this support on a reimbursable basis?

RESPONSE: Since the transfer of the Nebraska Avenue facility to the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) on January 1, 2003, OA has not provided any support to entities at the Nebraska Avenue Complex (NAC). Pursuant to a Determination by the OMB Director, funds in the amount of $3,746,000 were transferred from the OHS Emergency Fund within OA to the Department of Homeland Security in March 2003 to support NAC activities.

QUESTION 94: How many personnel and detailees now work for OHS?

RESPONSE: The Homeland Security Council currently consists of 66 staff positions which can be filled by either Direct Hire FTE or Other Government Employee (detailee and assignee) personnel. HSC is requesting resources to support up to 40 Direct Hire FTE and 26 OGE FTE on its staff for FY 2004. See table below for a comparison with fiscal years 2003 and 2002.

Office of Homeland Security / Homeland Security Council Personnel

	FY 2002 Actual	FY 2003 Estimate	FY 2004 Request
Direct Hire FTE	31	40	40
Other Government Employee (EOY headcount)	89	26	26
Total Personnel	120	66	66

QUESTION 95: What is the actual operational budget need for OHS in FY03?

RESPONSE: The Homeland Security Council budget requirement from the FY 2003 appropriation is estimated to be approximately $4.32 million. Please note that the FY 2003 estimate covers only costs incurred after the enactment of the FY 2003 appropriation on February 20, 2003. Unlike other EOP entities which operated under continuing resolutions between October 1, 2002 and February 20, 2003, the Office of Homeland Security was not permitted to utilize the CR funding mechanism but instead continued to charge FY 2003 expenses against the no-year emergency funding (provided in FY2002) until the FY 2003 appropriation was enacted. Therefore the FY 2003 estimate reflects only seven months of activity, whereas the FY 2004 Request needs to cover HSC expenses for the full 12 months of the next fiscal year.

QUESTION 96: For the record, please provide us a breakout by object class of the Office of Homeland Security's FY03 remaining budget.

RESPONSE: The breakout below reflects HSC's budget for the last seven months of FY 2003; from the enactment of the FY 2003 Appropriation on February 20, 2003, through September 30, 2003.

(Dollars in Thousands)

Object Class	FY 2003 est.
Personnel	$2,800
Travel	$60
Transportation of things	$24
Communications, utilities, and miscellaneous	$50
Printing and reproduction	$69
Other Services	$1,267
Equipment	$50
Total	$4,320

QUESTION 97: Any likelihood that these estimates will be revised downward again?

RESPONSE: The FY 2003 estimate provided above reflects the best assessment of HSC requirements from the OHS FY 2003 appropriation, and actual obligations against this appropriation will likely be close to this current estimate.

QUESTION 98: I understand that the President named General Gordon as his new Homeland Security Adviser. Does he support the latest $2 million cut to his office's resources?

RESPONSE: General Gordon has not yet reported to Homeland Security Council. Secondly, the EOP budget proposal provides the necessary resources for HSC to advise and assist the President. Third, the reference to a $2 million cut is incorrect. In fact, the resources of the Homeland Security Council have not been cut by $2 million. The FY 2003 appropriations for the Homeland Security Council included $2 million for decontamination of the Remote Delivery Site (RDS) as agreed to by the Congress and the Administration. Subsequent to the passage of the FY 2003 appropriations, that $2 million was allocated to decontamination of the RDS per agreement. This planned use of that appropriation is not a cut to HSC resources.

QUESTION 99: Have you validated the FY04 request recently to ensure it is an accurate figure?

RESPONSE: Yes, HSC reevaluated its FY 2004 requirements prior to submitting the final FY 2004 Request. Given the creation of the Department of Homeland Security, HSC's FY 2004 budget requirements are estimated at $8,331,000, as requested.

BUDGET QUESTIONS

After the FY03 enacted levels are adjusted to reflect the transfer of $9 million to the Office of Homeland Security, the Executive Office of the President's FY04 budget request reflects an 8% increase over FY03 levels. Your agency, the Office of Administration requests a 10% increase between FY03 and FY04.

When the budget was introduced, Mitch Daniels said that the overall growth of Federal programs would be pegged to the expected 4% growth in inflation. The Administration also said the President wanted to "match government's growth with the growth of American family income."

QUESTION 100: When the rest of the government is forced to live with 4% growth, how can you justify an almost 10% increase in your office and an overall Executive Office of the President increase of 8%?

RESPONSE: The Office of Administration's 10% budget increase amounts to approximately $7 million. This increase is necessitated by additional costs stemming from the enhanced security activities in the post-September 11 environment:

- The Capital Investment Plan has a net increase of $3.8 million required for the relocation of the EOP data center to an offsite location. The offsite data center has been determined to be a critical project in any contingency plan, and the communications requirements for the data center will be significantly higher in the new facility.
- $2.5 million is needed for the new information technology contract, driven by the information technology service labor increases, the relocation of the data center as well as by the increased security concerns for EOP systems.
- $0.5 million is required for the EOP information assurance program.
- $0.2 million for physical security improvements to the White House complex in providing resources for security education and evacuation resources.

The 8% growth in the overall EOP budget amounts to approximately $24.6 million. Primary components of this increase are mission-specific needs proposed by the different EOP entities:

- $6.3 million in OA programs described in the prior paragraph ($3.8 million for the capital investment plan, $2.5 million for the information technology contract, $0.5 million for information assurance, and $0.2 million for physical security).
- $2.5 million in EOP-wide space rental increases to conform with GSA's market-based rental rates.
- $3.0 million for USTR's additional staff for intensified trade negotiations.
- $3.0 million in the Executive Residence's multiyear East and West Wing restoration projects.
- $4.3 million for OMB personnel needs.
- $1.5 million for OMB's budget system updates.
- $0.7 million for OMB's E-Government staff and the Office of Information Technology.
- $0.8 million for additional staff for ONDCP.
- $0.6 million in the NSC's funding for reimbursable detailees and President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board's request for additional staff.
- $0.5 million for OSTP's continuity of operations plan.

The White House Office's increase of 3.6% looks smaller because of a realignment of $1.85M in rent to the Office of Administration's account. Without the realignment, the White House Office's increase would be around 6.6%.

QUESTION 101: What is the justification for this realignment?

RESPONSE: The realignment of $1.85M in rent was made to the WHO from the Office of Administration. Without this and other realignments made as part of the FY 2004 WHO budget request, the WHO's increase would have only been 1.7 percent.

QUESTION 102: How could the White House have been paying the bill for space that wasn't theirs?

RESPONSE: The WHO has not been paying rent on the 1800 G Street office spaces that this realignment involves. These office spaces were necessitated by the movement of certain White House staff offices following the events of September 11. In FY 2003, funds for these spaces were budgeted by the Office of Administration and are being paid for as part of a pilot program authorized by law.

QUESTION 103: Which EOP agencies occupied this space on which the White House Office has been paying rent?

RESPONSE: As indicated in the previous answers, White House staff have been occupying this space. Rent is being paid by the Office of Administration as part of the pilot program authorized by law.

QUESTION 104: Are these costs that had historically been paid by the White House Office?

RESPONSE: No. The 1800 G Street Office spaces were not occupied by EOP staff until after the events of 9-11.

QUESTION 105: If so, why make the change this year?

RESPONSE: The realignment of these costs under the WHO is done to reflect the costs under the office whose staff occupies them.

TRAVEL

The White House Office's request includes a decrease of $400,000 in Presidential Travel.

QUESTION 106: Was the FY03 estimate too high?

RESPONSE: As part of the FY 2003 WHO budget submission, $600,000 was requested to support the travel requirements of the new USA Freedom Corps Office. Actual experience subsequently determined this amount to be in excess of need. As a result, the FY 2003 WHO travel line was reduced $329,647 by the statutory rescission, and the FY 2004 WHO budget submission requested $400,000 less in the travel line than the original FY 2003 estimate.

QUESTION 107: If so, how do you intend to use the surplus funds?

RESPONSE: The $400,000 reduction to the FY 2004 WHO budget request for travel requirements does not result in surplus funds. It instead results in an overall reduction to the FY 2004 WHO budget estimate.

QUESTION 108: Are you planning less travel in FY04 or will more of the travel just be paid for by political entities?

RESPONSE: Except as noted above, the amount of official travel conducted by the White House staff is expected to remain consistent with the FY 2003 estimate.

QUESTION 109: Please provide a list of all White House Office, Office of Homeland Security and Office of Vice President official staff travel for FY02 and FY03 (to date). Include a brief description of the official purpose of the trip. For FY04 estimates, provide estimated number of trips and trip purpose.

RESPONSE: The following tables provide the FY 2002 and FY 2003 (to date) staff travel information, where a staff member received government reimbursement, for the White House Office, the Office of Homeland Security, and the Office of the Vice President. FY 2004 estimates are not available at this time.

CONSOLIDATION OF ACCOUNTS

QUESTION 2: Sections 105 and 106 of title 3 U. S. Code describe expenses that may be accounted for solely on the certificate of the President and Vice President, respectively. Most of these expenses correspond to particular accounts. The Comptroller General may inspect documents related to these expenditures, but solely to verify that the expenditures were made for allowed purposes. When we asked last year how certified expenses would be identified for audit within a consolidated appropriation, the response was that the certification requirements would continue to be observed (p. 41). This does not answer the question of how the account structure will be maintained to provide an identifiable and auditable crosswalk between title 3-certifiable expenses and other expenses within the consolidated appropriation.

RESPONSE: As presented in the Congressional Budget Submission (pages 4, 5, and 6,) the Executive Office of the President (EOP) has established a Budget Activity structure that is consistent, beginning with the budget submission and extending through the accounting and reporting phases. The EOP accounting system will track and report obligations and expenditures consistent with this structure through the use of budget activity, program, sub-program, and line item codes assigned to each transaction. EOP has the ability to provide an identifiable and auditable crosswalk to the individual transactions authorized under sections 105 and 106 of Title 3 of the United States Code.

QUESTION 3: Please provide a listing of all appropriations language enacted in Public Law 108-7 which would be dropped in the proposed account consolidation, and provide a brief explanation of why that language is not necessary.

RESPONSE: The following appropriations in Public Law 108-7: Compensation of the President, White House Office Salaries and Expenses, Office of Homeland Security, Executive Residence, White House Repair and Restoration, Council of Economic Advisers, Office of Policy Development, National Security Council, and the Office of Administration would be combined into one appropriation entitled "The White House." The individual language in Public Law 108-7 for each of those appropriations would be removed. However, suggested language for the combined appropriation is provided in the Appendix to the FY 2004 Budget (page 881) and states: "For the Compensation of the President and White House Office (including the Office of Homeland Security), Executive Residence, White House Repair and Restoration, Office of Policy and Development, Office of Administration, Council of Economic Advisers and the National Security Council, (hereinafter, and solely for the purposes of Title VI of this Act, "the White House"), $183,770,000, of which $24,803,000 shall remain available until expended, including compensation for the President, including an expense allowance of $50,000 as authorized by U.S.C. 102; for travel expense of $100,000 as authorized by 3 U.S.C. 103; for necessary expenses for the White House as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109 and 3 U.S.C. 105; for the necessary expenses of the Executive Residence at the White House as authorized by 3 U.S.C. 105,109,110, and 112-114; for the necessary expenses of the Offices and Councils in the White House account as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, 15 U.S.C. 1021, and 3 U.S.C. 105 and 107 (including not to exceed $19,000 for official reception and representation expenses); and for the hire of passenger motor vehicles: Provided, That none of the funds made available to the President for official expenses shall be expended for any other purpose and any unused portion of such funds shall revert to the Treasury pursuant to 31 U.S.C. 1552: Provided further, That no such funds shall be considered as taxable to the President: Provided further, That advances or repayments or transfers from this appropriation may be made to any department or agency for expenses of carrying out such activities.”

The suggested language, with the exception of a consolidated appropriation amount incorporates the same restrictions and clarifications as contained in the language contained in the Public Law 108-7 for the appropriations being consolidated. The appropriations for Vice President's Salaries and Expense, Vice President's Residence Operating Expenses, Office of Management and Budget, Office of National Drug Control Policy, and Unanticipated Needs will remain separate appropriations and will therefore not require any language changes as a result of the combination.

THE WHITE HOUSE (CONSOLIDATED ACCOUNT)

QUESTION 4: You are requesting $12,302,000 for object class 23.3 (communications, utilities, and miscellaneous services) in FY 2004. This is a large increase over the estimated $7,010,000 for FY 2003. What accounts for the increase?

RESPONSE: The FY 2004 White House (WH) consolidated budget net increase of $5,292,000 for communications is required in three major areas:

- Most of the increase ($4,420,000) is needed in the OA Capital Investment Plan for offsite data center communications. This facility will transition into full operation during FY 2004. The telecommunications between the offsite data center and the EOP complex are necessary to provide expanded, survivable and redundant connectivity, continuity of operations, disaster recovery and system support. These costs include funds for telecommunications lines, two additional DS-3 data paths, two T-1 lines, and backups to provide the communications bandwidth necessary for servicing the EOP complex.
- $482,000 in the White House Office budget to provide a custom communications package which will enable the Homeland Security Council to establish a presence for its staff within the White House Situation Room.
- $100,000 for information assurance in the OA salaries/expenses budget. In addition to the Offsite Data Center project, the OA FY 2004 budget also includes a request for an additional $100,000 for the information assurance program in the FY 2004 salaries/expenses account. This program will enable the CIO office to correct vulnerabilities in the EOP information security perimeter to secure internal systems, and to perform real-time monitoring of perimeter network devices.

- $151,000 in transfers of Lexis-Nexis database costs from nonconsolidated entities to the consolidated White House appropriation. The FY 2004 budget envisions that $72,000 will be transferred from USTR, $56,000 from ONDCP, $15,000 from OMB, and $8,000 from CEQ so that the EOP can have a single funding source for EOP-wide Lexis-Nexis service.
- $139,000 for adjustments to maintain the same level of services for the base funding during FY 2004. This is calculated on the basis of the $7,010,000 in FY 2003 funding.

RENTAL PRICING

QUESTION 5: The FY 2004 justifications state that over the past year, EOP, GSA, and OMB have undertaken an assessment of space rental costs for all EOP entities. The result of this analysis is that the FY 2004 request includes additional funding to accommodate an “EOP average” rental rate. Please provide details of how this analysis was conducted, and specify the estimated rental rates for the various EOP entities, as determined by this analysis.

RESPONSE: The EOP space rental project began during the summer of 2002 at the request of OMB’s budget examiners, who were working to ensure that EOP entities moved to the same market-based rent methodology used to determine space rental rates for GSA’s other Federal properties. OMB requested that GSA and EOP review the space rental costs for each EOP property and each EOP entity so that the most up-to-date costs available were included in the FY 2004 budget proposal. Another significant concern in this project is to ensure that GSA will work with the EOP to ensure that the critical needs of the EOP are funded and executed.

As a result of the initial project, OA and GSA began a series of meetings which culminated in the space estimates which were included in the budget. GSA staff prepared a comprehensive listing of EOP properties, which itemized the space occupied by each EOP entity. This listing included commercial and government-owned space, current estimates of rentable square footage, and the annual rental rate per square foot. EOP staff provided updated estimates of the rentable square footage.

During this process, GSA blended the fair-market rates for the permanent EOP buildings into a single blended rate. This was done to simplify the administrative work when EOP staff are relocated. This is especially needed in the post-9/11 environment’s unusually high number of large-scale EOP entity relocations driven by security considerations, as well as the result of the legislation creating the Department of Homeland Security. The EOP average rental rate for Federally-owned properties (New Executive Office Building (NEOB), Eisenhower Executive Office Building (EEOB), White House, Winder Building, Jackson Place) is $29.60 annually per square foot. GSA adds an additional building security charge for buildings which are not protected by the US Secret Service.

EOP STAFFING

QUESTION 6: By EOP office, please provide FTE and OGE, similar in format to the tables found on pages 111 and 112 of last year's hearing record. Please provide data for FY 2002 through 2004.

RESPONSE: The following tables provide the total FY 2002 actual, FY 2003 and FY 2004 estimates for full time equivalents (FTE) and other government employees (OGE) for each EOP and other entity as of May 5, 2003. The OGE numbers are itemized by category on the following page. The FY 2003 numbers have the Office of Homeland Security in a separate category, which accordingly decreased the White House numbers. The FY 2003 and FY 2004 numbers are estimates only and are therefore subject to change.

QUESTION 110: Please provide a list of all Presidential, First Lady and Vice Presidential travel for FY02 and FY03 (to date). For each trip, please provide the trip date, destination, designation (i.e., political, official), number of official EOP staff supporting the Principal and, the official cost of the trip.

Answer: The following charts summarize Presidential, First Lady and Vice Presidential travel for Fiscal Years 2002 and 2003 (to date). They also reflect costs currently in the accounting system. We are waiting for additional cost information for several trips, therefore, final costs may vary.

QUESTION 111: How much did OMB reimburse the White House Office for use of White House motorpool vehicles in FY02? How much is OMB projecting to reimburse in FY03 and FY04?

RESPONSE: For FY 2002, OMB reimbursed the Department of Defense $99,000 for the use of the White House motorpool. OMB is projecting a similar amount for FY 2003 and FY 2004.

In the hearing, Mr. Daniel mentioned that the FY03 vehicle lease and IT support contracts came in significantly below the original budget estimates.

QUESTION 112: Do you intend to return the unused funds to the Treasury at the end of the fiscal year?

RESPONSE: The EOP plans to use the funds to implement other critical EOP priorities. The programs which were described by Mr. Daniel at the hearing were the FY 2003 vehicle lease and the guard services contract for guard services at 1801 Pennsylvania Avenue. He did not refer to the IT support contract.

QUESTION 113: For these areas in which savings were realized, what are your plans for the funds?

RESPONSE: For FY 2003, these funds are being applied to fund other priorities for the OA as well as common services for EOP entities. These other priorities include consolidation of information technology maintenance ($200,000), centralization of database services ($200,000), and common building service costs ($400,000). The remaining $300,000 of these savings will be used for an FY 2003 OA personnel shortfall.

POLITICAL TRAVEL

QUESTION 114: Please explain the reimbursement procedures the White House intends to follow during the Presidential election season.

RESPONSE: Travel by senior Administration officials is governed by relevant statutes and regulations that have been followed for many years.

QUESTION 115: Exactly when will the presidential-campaign procedures take effect?

RESPONSE: The presidential-campaign procedures take effect when a President is a candidate for re-election.

QUESTION 116: How do you determine who the official travelers are on a campaign or political trip? Does the list of positions vary from trip to trip?

RESPONSE: Consistent with governing statutes and regulations, and traditional practice, a list of positions has been developed which are deemed to always be official.

QUESTION 117: On trips with political and official components, what is the procedure for determining which events are paid for using official funds and which events are reimbursed by the political entity?

RESPONSE: The guidelines are based on legal principles embodied in 5 CFR §734.503, policies established over a period of years by previous Administrations, and guidance from Federal Election Commission opinions.

QUESTION 118: If the President gives virtually the same speech at a political event that he gave at an official event in that same city, what criteria is used to determine whether an event is “political” or “official”?

RESPONSE: Appearing at party functions, fundraising, and campaigning for specific candidates are principal examples of travel which ordinarily is considered political.

QUESTION 119: If the President gives virtually the same speech at a political event that he gave at an official event in that same city, does the political entity reimburse the White House for the Speechwriters time?

RESPONSE: Ordinarily not. See 5 CFR §734.503(b)(1).

QUESTION 120: Have events been classified as “official” even if only members of the President’s political party are invited to share the stage with the President?

RESPONSE: The classification of an event as official or political depends on many factors. However, Presidents routinely have official events that may include members of only one party; for example, a speech or meeting about legislative activities or issues.

QUESTION 121: If so, what justification is used to argue that these events were not political events?

RESPONSE: See above.

QUESTION 122: Please provide information about reimbursement to the White House Office or other government agencies associated with local staff travel to political events attended by the President in FY02 or FY03. For each reimbursement made, please provide the date the bill was generated, the number of events reflected on the bill, the date payment was received, the political entity paying the charges and the total amount paid on each bill.

RESPONSE: The White House took steps to ensure appropriate reimbursements from the relevant political entities for political trips.

PHOTOGRAPHIC SERVICES

QUESTION 123: For FY02, FY03 and FY04, what was (or is projected to be) the total cost of photographic equipment purchased for use by the White House photographers?

RESPONSE: The total cost (actual and projected) of photographic equipment procured for use by White House photographers in FY 2002, FY 2003 and FY 2004 are displayed in the table below.

	FY 2002	FY 2003	FY 2004
	Actual	Estimate	Estimate
Photographic Equipment	$137,057	$35,700	$36,300

FY 2002 actual costs are higher than the estimates for FY 2003 and FY 2004 due to the necessary life cycle replacement of photographic equipment.

QUESTION 124: For FY02, FY03 and FY04, what was (or is projected to be) the total cost of photo lab equipment purchased for use by the WHCA photo lab?

	FY 2002	FY 2003	FY 2004

QUESTION 125: For FY02, FY03 and FY04, what was (or is projected to be) the total travel cost associated with travel of White House Photographers?

RESPONSE: The FY 2002 travel cost of White House Photographers was $46,721. The estimated FY 2003 cost is $50,000, and the projected cost for FY 2004 is $55,000.

QUESTION 126: For FY02, FY03 and FY04, what was (or is projected to be) the total rent cost associated with the WHCA photo lab?

RESPONSE: There is no rent cost associated with the WHCA photo lab. However, there are utility and facility maintenance costs associated with the WHCA photo lab.

Those costs were $73,600 for FY 2002, $76,650 estimated for FY 2003 and a projected $79,000 for FY 2004.

QUESTION 127: Please explain the procedures for determining when and how the government is to be reimbursed for photos released for non-official purposes. If these procedures have changed from those followed by the previous administration, please explain any changes that have been made.

RESPONSE: The procedures for obtaining reimbursements for photographs changed on October 1, 2000. The procedures now in place are designed to ensure that the government receives appropriate reimbursement for photographs sought for non-official purposes. Records are kept of all such requests, and appropriate reimbursement is then sought.

QUESTION 128: For FY02 and the first seven months of FY03, please provide the following information about each payment made to the White House, OA, WHCA, DISA (or other DoD organization) to reimburse for the release of photos or photo lab services that were provided:

- date reimbursement was made
- name of reimbursing organization
- amount of payment
- number of photos purchased by reimbursing organization
- size of photos purchased by reimbursing organization

RESPONSE: The requested information about each payment made to the White House, OA, WHCA, DISA (or other DoD organization) to reimburse for the release of photos is provided below.

REMOTE DELIVERY SITE REPROGRAMMING REQUEST

We recently received a reprogramming request to transfer $2M of the funds provided to the Office of Homeland Security to the Remote Delivery Site cleanup efforts.

QUESTION 129: What is the status of remediation efforts?

RESPONSE: We are in the process of Confirmatory Sampling. The sampling plan is intended to present a technical approach for (1) completing air and surface sampling for culturable Bacillus anthracis spores to verify the efficacy of the decontamination process; (2) providing for qualified laboratory analysis of the collected samples; and (3) presenting a protocol for data collection and reporting such that the results of the sampling effort are valid and defensible. In addition, the Plan provides for the site and personnel security, safety, health, and personal protection, equipment and collection methods, and sample handling.

QUESTION 130: Please provide the total budget estimate for this project.

RESPONSE: As the contractor responsible for returning the building to an environmentally safe workplace, Versar to date has not been able to develop or provide accurate cost estimates or time lines to EOP. Budget and schedule estimates for this project are especially difficult due to critical path activities taking place in a high-risk environment relying on the utilization of untested speculative technologies. However, to date, $2.422 million has been spent on the effort and we are currently requesting an additional $2 million, which is Versar’s best estimate of what it will cost to complete the project. The total budget estimate for the project then comes to $4.422 million.

QUESTION 131: Please provide the anticipated schedule for this effort.

RESPONSE: Given many variables, including weather, our best current estimate of the time required to complete the RDS project is 4 months. The confirmatory testing phase is estimated to take eight weeks from start up. The next phase would be for the environmental clearance committee (ECC) committee to ratify the confirmation process; we estimate this to be one month. After this is completed, our best estimate is thirty days to perform PM on the HVAC equipment, build out the office areas, and re-establish the building operation.

QUESTION 132: What caused this $2 million overrun?

RESPONSE: There is not a $2 million overrun. The request for $2 million is a result of anticipated costs and of those unforeseen conditions as a result of the environmental cleanup process that OA, GSA or its contractors had available at the time of fumigation. The Environmental Clearance Committee has placed additional requirements that resulted in the additional costs. The proposed sampling plan utilizes the barrier divisions already in Building 410 ( which provides discrete work areas), and presents proposed sampling location, quantity, and types of samples to be collected. Sampling will be carried out using a phased approach for each work area as follows:

Phase 1, Surface Sampling; Phase 2, Air Sampling; Phase 3, "Dynamic Sampling"; Phase 4, Start-up of the Heating, Ventilation, and Air Conditioning (HVAC ) Units; and Phase 5, Final Sampling with the Barriers Down.

QUESTION 133: Why have you stopped providing the monthly reports on the remediation efforts?

RESPONSE: Due to the process of establishing the Environmental Clearance Committee, it was an administrative error that the reports were inadvertently not forwarded.

Previously, the Remote Delivery Site was used to screen incoming mail. It also used to serve as an off-site supply depot. With the Department of Homeland Security now assuming the mail processing function, and with supply operations now established on the White House complex, I'm curious about future plans for the RDS.

QUESTION 134: What will the facility be used for when remediation is finished?

RESPONSE: Once the remediation is finished, the RDS will resume its former function of screening all bulk deliveries (including equipment, furniture, boxes of supplies) sent to the EOP complex. In addition, the facility will be used to store supplies and an inventory of equipment and furniture. The RDS will also be used as a staging area for efficient loading and delivery of bulk items for all EOP entities.

QUESTION 135: Will the DHS use the facility to screen the White House's mail?

RESPONSE: No.

QUESTION 136: Will you close the on-site supply stores and revert back to running the supply operation out of the Remote Delivery Site?

RESPONSE: The Office of Administration (OA) has entered into a new business relationship with GSA. The GSA inventory used to supply OA and the White House complex will be housed at the RDS after the RDS is reopened.

WHITE HOUSE ACCESS

QUESTION 137: For the record, please provide the total number of visitors who passed through the White House as part of tours in 2000, 2001, 2002 and 2003 (to date).

RESPONSE: Listed below are total numbers of visitors that passed through the White House from 2000 to year-to-date FY 2003, as reported in National Park Service (NPS) statistical abstract:

2000: 1,175,714
2001: 856,042
2002: 178,092
2003: 43,434 (as of May 14)

QUESTION 138: Why are White House tours currently not open to the general public?

RESPONSE: White House special group tours were reopened for certain group tours on May 6, 2003. Over the past many months, the White House has operated a successful program, in partnership with Congressional offices, allowing special group tours to visit. We will continue to book groups using existing procedures unless circumstances dictate otherwise.

We continue to consult with law enforcement and intelligence services on how to ensure the safety of the residents, staff and the general public while at the White House.

QUESTION 139: What is the status of the report on the status of White House Tours that was due to the Subcommittee by March 22nd?

RESPONSE: This report was delivered to the Subcommittee on March 24, 2003.

QUESTION 140: Who has the lead on the efforts to decide whether public tours can be resumed?

RESPONSE: The United States Secret Service constantly monitors and evaluates existing conditions to determine the level of security required at the White House complex including when and if tours can be resumed on a full schedule. Their recommendations, along with input from other law enforcement and intelligence services who monitor changing world events, are reviewed with White House management staff to schedule and structure tours in such a manner that will provide an appropriate level of security for general public taking the tours, in addition to the staff who work in and around the complex, and the residents. This is an ongoing effort.

QUESTION 141: Does the USSS do a background check on all individuals attending events and meetings at the White House Complex before access can be granted?

RESPONSE: For security reasons, it is not appropriate to provide information about the specific nature of background checks and related security procedures in this context.

QUESTION 142: During this administration, have White House aides ever overruled a building-access recommendation made by the USSS?

RESPONSE: The USSS and EOP staff collaborate in making decisions on access to the complex.

OFF-SITE EOP SUPPORT

QUESTION 143: How many EOP employees are based in Crawford, TX?

RESPONSE: One.

QUESTION 144: How much space does the EOP pay rent for in Crawford, TX?

RESPONSE: There is one double-wide trailer. The cost of the trailer itself and all operating costs will be paid to GSA in a monthly rent payment of $8,496.83 for two years.

QUESTION 145: How many trailers were acquired for Crawford, TX?

RESPONSE: One trailer was acquired for the EOP.

QUESTION 146: What was the cost to purchase and renovate these trailers?

RESPONSE: The cost of the trailer shell was $72,745.28. The cost to apply finishes to the trailer interior was $20,976.62.

QUESTION 147: What are the expected FY04 operating costs of facilities and staff permanently deployed to Crawford, TX?

RESPONSE: The following are the estimated operating costs for one year: Pest Control ($1,440), cleaning ($4,200), electricity ($4,211.75), and water ($2,286.38).

RENT

QUESTION 148: Please provide an accounting of all space on which the EOP currently pays rent. The list should include the number of staff in each building, the agencies which occupy space in each facility, the total square footage by agency in each facility, the total square footage of vacant space on which the EOP is currently paying rent in each facility and the GSA rent rates for each facility.

RESPONSE: The following charts provide the information on EOP facilities and GSA rental rates as they stood during the formulation of the FY 2004 budget request.

QUESTION 149: Under the procurement consolidation pilot that was approved in the FY03 Omnibus, is the rent for any EOP agency going to be paid out of funds contributed by other EOP agencies?

RESPONSE: No. The funds in the pilot will only be used to support the EOP components in the pilot; EOP funds not included in the pilot will not be used to support EOP components included in the pilot for purposes that pilot funds were budgeted.

QUESTION 150: Under the procurement consolidation pilot that was approved in the FY 2003 Omnibus, are after-hours utilities charges for any EOP agency going to be paid out of funds contributed by other EOP agencies?

RESPONSE: No. After-hours utilities charges were not included in the procurement consolidation pilot funding.

TRAVEL OFFICE

QUESTION 151: Please describe the current role the White House Travel Office plays in managing and arranging the financial aspects of White House Press Corps travel. Does the White House Travel Office operate as a “dollar-for-dollar” operation?

RESPONSE: The White House Travel Office provides the White House Press Corps with a range of travel services when they accompany the President, Vice President and First Lady. Services include air and ground transportation, hotel accommodations, and convention-type services associated with the Filing Center.

The White House Press Travel Fund operates as a dollar-for-dollar operation.

QUESTION 152: How many EOP staff work in the White House Travel Office?

RESPONSE: Eight EOP staff work in the White House Travel Office.

QUESTION 153: How many contractor travel agents support the White House Travel Office?

RESPONSE: Six contractor travel agents support the White House Travel Office.

QUESTION 154: Please include the most recent independent financial statement audit of the White House Travel Office's accounts for the record.

RESPONSE: The following document is the independent auditor's report. A copy of the original document with signature will be provided separately.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS REPORT

To the Management of
White House Travel Office Press Fund

We have audited the accompanying statement of financial position of the White House Travel Office Press Fund as of December 31, 2001, and the related statements of activities and cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the White House Travel Office Press Fund's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the White House Travel Office Press Fund as of December 31, 2001, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the nine months then ended in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2001

NOTE 1 – ORGANIZATION

The White House Travel Office Press Fund (“WHTO”) was established to manage expenses associated with travel for members of the press who accompany the President, Vice President, First Lady, and Second Lady on domestic and foreign trips. In May 1993, a new management team was hired to manage WHTO. Consequently, for accounting and reporting purposes, a new WHTO was established as of January 1, 1994.

NOTE 2- SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Revenue and expenditures are recognized using the accrual basis of accounting. The WHTO invoices the press organizations for their prorated share of the expenses associated with each trip. The WHTO then remits payment directly to the vendors whose services were used for the particular trip. The total amount invoiced to the press members equals the total of the amounts paid to the vendors. The WHTO does not own any fixed assets. All fixed assets are purchased through the White House’s general fund and designated for the WHTO use. Similarly, all operating expenses of the WHTO, including salaries and office supplies, are paid directly by the White House’s general fund.

NOTE 3- CASH

Cash is maintained in two non-interest checking accounts at the Riggs National Bank of Washington, D.C. The RCA 2000 cash account is explained in Note 4.

The total cash held by WHTO at December 31, 2001 includes $512,821 that is not covered by insurance provided by the federal government. It is the opinion of WHTO’s management that the solvency of the referenced financial institution is not of particular concern at this time.

DECEMBER 31, 2001

NOTE 4 - RESTRICTED CASH ACCOUNT

Effective April 1, 2000, the management of the White House Travel Office implemented a Restricted Cash Account (RCA). RCA funds are encumbered for specific purposes set forth in written policies and procedures, most notably for payment of late arriving vendor invoices, bank charges and accounts receivable written off as uncollectible.

The RCA is funded through an RCA funding amount applied to every customer invoice, except those for government employees. Presently, that funding amount is two percent of the invoice amount

RCA funding amounts are not considered revenue for accounting purposes.

Under current policies and procedures, a separate RCA is established for each calendar year. The RCA 2000 account on the Statement of Financial Position reflects the total amount of cash in that account at December 31, 2001. The RCA liability accounts for 2000 and 2001 reflect the total RCA funding amount applied to all customer invoices during the respective calendar year, less any disbursements. RCA funding amounts that have been invoiced but not yet collected are included in the accounts receivable amount.

The RCA for each year will be terminated at a designated point in time after the conclusion of the applicable calendar year. At the time of dissolution, any excess funds will be refunded to the Press Fund's customers subject to the RCA funding amount in accordance with a formula based on the percentage of the total travel costs consumed during the year corresponding to the RCA. For example, if a customer were responsible for ten percent of all travel costs for the calendar year 2001, they would be entitled to ten percent of the remaining RCA 2001 funds at the time of dissolution.

NOTE 5 – ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE

Currently, the WHTO writes off accounts receivable using the direct write-off method. Therefore, there is no allowance for uncollectible accounts.

DECEMBER 31, 2001

NOTE 6 - OTHER RECEIVABLES

As per note 2, the WHTO utilizes a system of dollar for dollar accounting. Under the current accounting process, vendor invoices for trip expenses are entered into accounts payable as they are received. Accordingly, there is an accumulation of unbilled trip expenses in accounts payable until such time that trip accounting is finalized and members of the press are invoiced for their pro rata share of trip expenses. This timing difference creates the need for an Other Receivables category. Other Receivables represents the obligations for normal trip expenses that have been entered into accounts payable, but not yet billed to the press.

QUESTION 155: Please explain the formula you use to determine the rate of reimbursement for Press Corps travelers on the Press Charter?

RESPONSE: Each leg of the itinerary is assigned a proportionate cost, which is divided equally among all press passengers. The following formula is used to compute the proportionate cost for each leg of the trip:  $(\text{Leg flight time} / \text{Total flight time}) * \text{Total Air Transportation Expense}$

QUESTION 156: Please explain the formula you use to determine the rate of reimbursement for Press Pool travelers on Air Force One?

RESPONSE: The cost of the fourteen members of the pool traveling on AF1 is added to the total air transportation expense and the total costs are spread on a pro-rata share among all of the press traveling on the trip. The following formula is used to compute the proportionate cost for each leg of the trip:  $(\text{Leg flight time} / \text{Total flight time}) * \text{Total Air Transportation Expense}$

QUESTION 157: Please explain the formula used to identify the reimbursement rate that the Travel Office billed Press Corps travelers accompanying the President's travel to the USS Abraham Lincoln. In your response, please include the actual rate billed to individual press corps travelers on this trip.

RESPONSE: The cost of transporting Press Corps travelers from the North Island Naval Air Station to the USS Abraham Lincoln and back to the North Island Naval Air Station totaled $7,440.26. This cost will be added to the total air transportation expense and spread on a pro-rata share among all the press traveling on the trip. The formula for military aircraft reimbursement for the trip to the USS Abraham Lincoln is as follows: $X per hour per aircraft, divided by 60 minutes to get a per-minute rate, multiplied by the flight time, divided by the total number of passengers, and then 7.5% excise tax plus $3.00 per person was added.

BONUS

QUESTION 158: Why did this administration reinstate the payments of bonuses to political appointees?

RESPONSE: The relevant statutes and regulations make clear that all Federal employees are eligible for bonuses. Therefore, like other Federal employees, Schedule C and non-career Senior Executive Service (SES) employees may receive bonuses. Consistent with law, this and past Administrations have made bonuses available to Schedule C and SES employees in appropriate circumstances.

QUESTION 159: Have any EOP political staff been given bonuses since the policy was reinstated in March of 2002?

RESPONSE: Bonuses have been awarded to EOP political staff.

QUESTION 160: Have any EOP political staff been given pay increases for a single pay period in FY02 or FY03 (to date) that would have the same effect as a bonus?

RESPONSE: No.

EISENHOWER EXECUTIVE OFFICE BUILDING

QUESTION 161: Since 1/20/01, have any non-Federal funds been used for renovations and/or furnishings in the GSA facilities occupied by the Executive Office of the President? [this question does not apply to the White House residence.]

RESPONSE: We understand this question to refer to buildings within the White House complex that are managed by GSA, including the EEOB, and the East and West Wings. As the Committee is aware, two Federal agencies – the GSA, and the National Park Service -- have authority to accept gifts donated to the United States for use in various buildings in the White House complex.

Historically these agencies have on occasion accepted gifts to the United States donated for use in these facilities. For example, in the past, furnishings have been donated to renovate the Oval Office, located in the West Wing. That has also occurred in this Administration. To illustrate: in 2002, a donation was made of three sofas, including sofa fabric, and fabric for two chairs, all for use in the Oval Office. This donation was accepted by the National Park Service under its gift acceptance authority, on behalf of the United States. The donated items became part of the White House collection and will be cared for by the White House Curator.

QUESTION 162: Which Federal agency (i.e., GSA, OA/Facilities) coordinated the work that was paid for using non-Federal funds?

RESPONSE: See above.

QUESTION 163: For the record, please provide the sources and amounts of the non-Federal funds used for renovations and/or furnishings.

RESPONSE: See above.

QUESTION 164: For the record, please also provide a description of each project for which non-Federal funds were provided.

RESPONSE: See above.

QUESTION 165: Why were non-Federal funds used to renovate and/or furnish these GSA facilities?

RESPONSE: See above.

QUESTION 166: Which agency's gift authority was used to accept the contribution of non-Federal funds for renovations and/or furnishings?

RESPONSE: See above.

QUESTION 167: Please provide a list of all EOP and EOP-support-related agencies that occupied space in the Eisenhower Executive Office Building on 1/20/01 that have since been relocated to locations outside the EEOB. For each agency that relocated, please identify the agency that paid the move-related costs.

RESPONSE: There was no movement of EOP offices from the EEOB prior to September 11, 2001. After September 11, the Office of Administration, using Emergency Supplemental funding, paid for the moves of the following offices outside of the EEOB.

EOP Offices Previously in the EEOB	New Location
WHO Presidential Personnel	1800 G Street
WHO Presidential Correspondence	1800 G Street
Council on Environmental Quality	730 Jackson Place
Office of Science and Technology Policy	1801 Pennsylvania Avenue

QUESTION 168: What is the status of the vacant space on the 17th Street side of the Eisenhower Executive Office Building?

RESPONSE: The vacant space along 17th street is under construction as part of the Fire and Life Safety Improvements project.

OMB STAFFING

QUESTION 8: By OMB office, please provide FTE and OGE, similar in format to the tables found on page 114 of last year's hearing record. Please provide data for FY 2002 through 2004.

RESPONSE: The charts below display the FTE and OGE breakout by OMB division for FY 2002-2004. Most detailees and student volunteers are used during the peak budget production season. During the rest of the year, the OGE total can fall below 20.

EOP STAFFING LEVELS

QUESTION 169: By EOP agency, provide FTE and OGE. Itemize OGE by category (e.g. reimbursable detailee, PSC, etc). Include FY 2002 (actual) and FY03-FY04 (estimates). Please provide a list of the “historically provided” White House Office positions, the office to which these positions are assigned and the agency that pays the salary for each of these positions.

OFFICE OF HOMELAN SECURITY

QUESTION 9: Your FY 2004 budget requests $8,331,000 for the Office of Homeland Security. Please provide an object class breakdown of those costs and compare them to FY 2003 estimated levels.

RESPONSE: The Office of Homeland Security was created by the President on October 8, 2001, via Executive Order 13228 and serves as and is synonymous with the staff of the Homeland Security Council (HSC). An object class breakdown of estimated HSC costs in FY 2003 and FY 2004 is provided in the table below. Please note that the FY 2003 estimate covers only costs incurred after the enactment of the FY 2003 appropriation on February 20, 2003. Unlike other EOP offices which operated under continuing resolutions between October 1, 2003 and February 20, 2003, the Office of Homeland Security was not permitted to utilize the CR funding mechanism but instead continued to charge FY 2003 expenses against the no-year emergency funding (provided in FY2002) until the FY 2003 appropriation was enacted. Therefore the FY 2003 estimate reflects only seven months of activity, whereas the FY 2004 Request needs to cover HSC expenses for the full 12 months next fiscal year.

(Dollars in Thousands)	FY 2003 Appropriation	FY 2003 Estimate*	FY 2004 Request	2004 Request - 2003 Estimate
Homeland Security Council:
Personnel	$4,403	$2,800	$5,550	$2,750
Travel	$300	$60	$588	$528
Transportation of Things	$24	$24	$10	-$14
Rent	$0	$0	$200	$200
Communications, Utilities, and Misc.	$209	$50	$1,080	$1,030
Printing and Reproduction	$69	$69	$50	-$19
Other Services	$3,267	$1,267	$528	-$739
Supplies and Materials	$0		$175	$175
Equipment	$0	$50	$150	$100
Subtotal	$8,272	$4,320	$8,331	$4,011

* FY 2003 Estimate covers only seven months vs. FY 2004 Request covering full 12 months

Rent was included in the Office of Administration budget in FY 2003, and is moved back to the Homeland Security Council in FY 2004. The Communications object class in FY 2004 includes funding to provide a custom communications package to establish an interface for the Homeland Security Council within the White House Situation Room. Supplies and Materials and Equipment object classes both were funded out of the Office of Administration Pilot Program in FY 2003 but show budgets in HSC for FY 2004.

QUESTION 10: In particular, how much are you requesting in FY 2004 for professional contracts, and how does that compare to the estimated FY 2003 level?

RESPONSE: In FY 2004 HSC is requesting $528,000 for Other Services compared with $3,267,000 appropriated for the same category in FY 2003. The decrease is due to the creation of the Department of Homeland Security as the President's Security advisors and as the staff of HSC. Anticipated contractual needs in FY 2004 include maintenance, upgrades, and technical support for the classified computer network that will be extended to include HSC staff in FY 2003.

QUESTION 11: How many FTE and FTP are you requesting for this office in FY 2004, and how do these figures compare to current FY 2003 estimates and actuals for FY 2002?

RESPONSE: HSC is requesting resources to support 40 direct hire FTE and 26 Other Government Employees on its staff to fill the 66 positions HSC is projecting for FY 2004.

Office of Homeland Security / Homeland Security Council Personnel

	FY 2002 Actual	FY 2003 Estimate	FY 2004 Request
Direct Hire FTE	31	40	40
Other Government Employees (EOY headcount)	89	26	26
Total Personnel	120	66	66

QUESTION 12: How many positions in the office are filled today, and how many are vacant?

RESPONSE: As of May 15, 2003, 51 positions are filled and 15 are vacant.

QUESTION 13: Please provide a table comparing the number of detailees to OHS, by Federal agency, for each of the fiscal years 2002 through 2004 (estimated).

RESPONSE: The table below provides the number of Other Government Employees assigned to the Homeland Security Council.

QUESTION 14: How many detailees are on board today?

RESPONSE: As of May 15, 2003, there are 18 detailees on board at the Homeland Security Council.

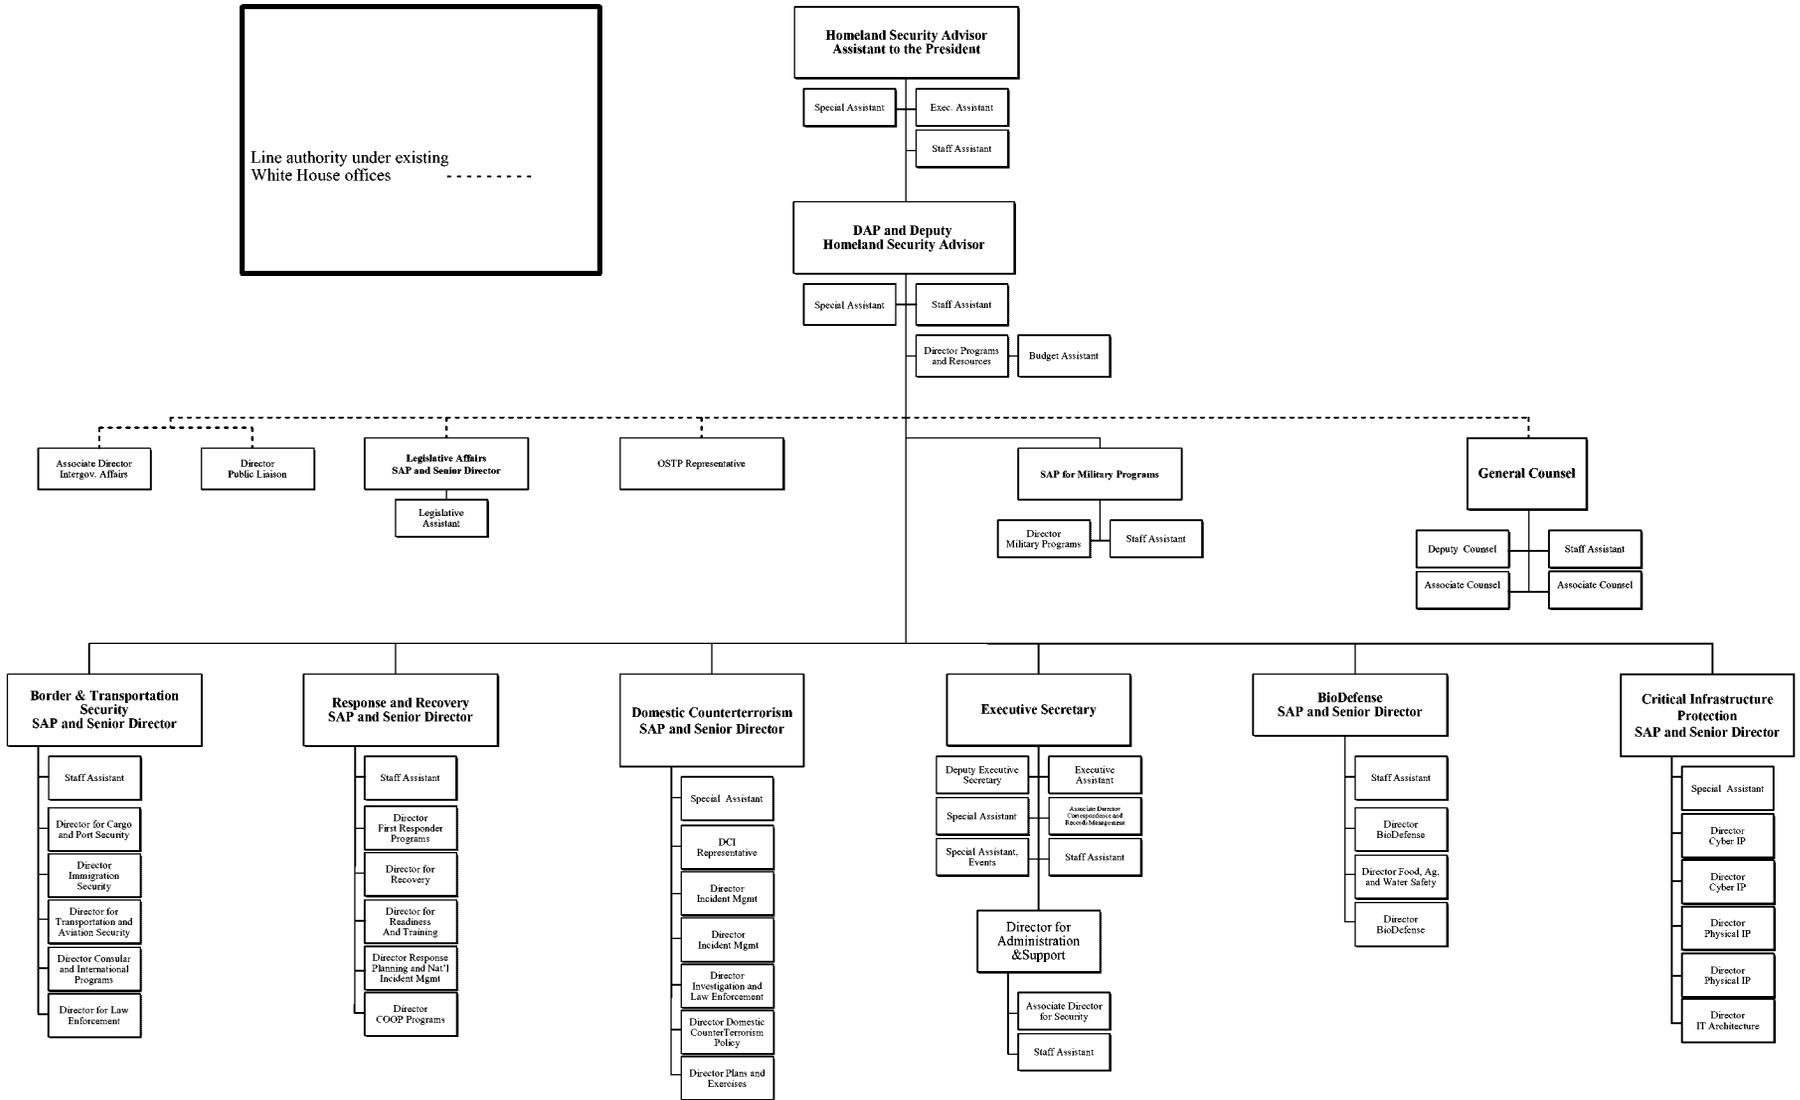

QUESTION 15: Please provide a list of all positions in OHS, showing the incumbent's name, rate of annual salary, and position title. Please annotate any positions which are currently vacant.

RESPONSE: We are in the process of preparing the Annual Personnel Report to Congress which will contain the requested information. This report will be provided in July.

QUESTION 16: Please update the OHS organizational chart found on page 50 of last year's hearing record.

RESPONSE: The chart below shows the current Homeland Security Council's organization.

Line authority under existing White House offices -----

QUESTION 17: Please update the information shown on pages 44 through 47 of last year's hearing record concerning Office of Homeland Security travel. In addition to the information provided last year, please provide a brief descriptor of the travel purpose.

RESPONSE: All travel was conducted as part of the duties of the Office of Homeland Security and as such is considered official travel. The President and the Assistant to the President for Homeland Security have regularly stated that the homeland will not be secure unless the Federal government works closely with state and local officials. Official trips were approved for various purposes including the attendance of various conferences, holding of meetings with state and local officials and the holding of town hall meetings. The HSC considers travel to different states and cities as a vital part of its mission.

The table below is an update to the travel information provided to Congress last year, and reflects travel where an employee received reimbursement.

QUESTION 18: Currently, OHS costs are included in both the WHO and OA appropriations. Is that also the case in the FY 2004 request? If so, please provide a table, by appropriation, showing total OHS budgeted costs, for each of the fiscal years 2002 through 2004.

RESPONSE: For FY 2003, although funds were requested as part of the WHO budget activity, the Office of Homeland Security received for the first time its own appropriation, separate from the WHO appropriation. Funds supporting OHS / HSC requirements in FY 2003 were provided also to OA as part of the OA Pilot program. The FY 2004 Request identifies all requirements for OHS / HSC in the WHO Budget Activity, since the OA Pilot program is not certain to continue after FY 2003. See table below:

(Dollars in Thousands)

	Congressional Appropriations
	FY 2002 Enacted*	FY 2003 Enacted	FY 2004 Request
OHS / HSC	$30,800	$8,272	$8,331
OA		$778
	$30,800	$9,050	$8,331

*FY 2002 budget for OHS was based on the OHS mission and funding profile prior to the establishment of DHS and was provided by 3 sources of emergency appropriated funds: P.L. 107-38 for $25,000,000; P.L. 107-117 for $2,000,000; and P.L. 107-206 for $3,800,000.

QUESTION 19: Last year, it was stated that one MOU existed between OHS and other EOP entities (p. 51). Please provide a copy of the MOU between OHS and the Office of Science and Technology Policy.

RESPONSE: The MOU between OHS and OSTP expired with the creation of the Department of Homeland Security as relevant responsibilities transferred from OHS to DHS, pursuant to the Homeland Security Act of November 2002.

QUESTION 20: Have any other MOUs been signed since that time?

RESPONSE: An MOU between the Homeland Security Council and the National Security Council/White House Situation Support Staff was signed in May 2003 providing for the expansion of NSC's classified computer network to include approved HSC staff with necessary security clearances.

In addition standard interagency agreements were signed between OHS/HSC and the Office of Administration (OA) and OMB to pay for detailees from these EOP entities to OHS/HSC, and separately between OHS/HSC and OA to pay for miscellaneous supplies and materials.

QUESTION 21: At this time last year, OHS planned to establish a coordination center which would function 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, using a communications room and two incident management rooms. At the same time, the Administration made clear that the role of OHS was to establish and coordinate policy, and not to conduct operational activities. With the establishment of the Department of Homeland Security, have these specific activities been descoped or eliminated?

RESPONSE: The role of the Homeland Security Council is to advise and assist the President, develop and coordinate the implementation of the National Strategy for Homeland Security to secure the United States from terrorist threats and attacks, and to help coordinate policy across the departments and agencies of the Executive Branch. The Homeland Security Council does not conduct operational activities. The Homeland Security Council does not operate a coordination center. With the establishment of the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), DHS is the lead federal agency for incident management. As such, DHS operates a Homeland Security Center with 24 hour/7 days per week coordination and communications capabilities. Those functions do not reside in the Homeland Security Council.

QUESTION 22: How many positions support these activities in the FY 2004 request, and what is the total budgeted amount?

RESPONSE: The FY 2004 budget will not fund any personnel or activities related to the DHS coordination center. However, virtually every member of the HSC staff has responsibilities to support and advise the President regarding incident response efforts, continuity of government and related coordination roles on behalf of the President.

QUESTION 23: How are such activities appropriate for a policymaking body, when DHS now exists to coordinate and execute operational activities related to specific homeland security incidents and activities?

RESPONSE: Just as the NSC was created by Congress in 1947 in the same act which created the Department of Defense and the CIA, Congress established the HSC within the EOP by statute at the same time as it created the Department of Homeland Security. The role of the Homeland Security Council is to advise and assist the President, develop and coordinate the implementation of the National Strategy for Homeland Security to secure the United States from terrorist threats and attacks, and to help coordinate policy across the departments and agencies of the Executive Branch. The Homeland Security Council does not conduct operational activities. The Homeland Security Council does not operate a coordination center. With the establishment of the Department of Homeland Security, DHS is the lead federal agency for incident management. As such, DHS operates a Homeland Security Center with 24 hour/7 days per week coordination and communications capabilities. Those functions do not reside in the Homeland Security Council.

QUESTION 24: At the time of last year's hearing, the permanent location and amount of space for the President's Critical Infrastructure Protection Board had not been determined (p. 77). Have these requirements been determined today?

RESPONSE: The President's Critical Infrastructure Protection Board (PCIPB) no longer exists at the White House. Executive Order 13228, which created the PCIPB, was amended. Congress, through the Homeland Security Act, created within Department of Homeland Security the Directorate for Information Analysis and Infrastructure Protection (IAIP). One of the responsibilities of the IAIP directorate is the important issue of critical infrastructure protection. This is a robust directorate led by an under secretary.

QUESTION 25: Likewise, total CIPB staffing had not been determined. Do you have an estimate today? What staffing assumptions were made in the FY 2004 budget submission?

RESPONSE: See above.

QUESTION 26: How much funding is included in the FY 2004 request for CIPB, and how does that compare to the current estimate for FY 2003?

RESPONSE: See above.

QUESTION 27: Please provide a breakdown showing how those funds would be used.

RESPONSE: See above.

QUESTION 28: Please provide details on any government-industry partnerships that have been created in support of cyber security initiatives coordinated by, or carried out, through EOP or the CIPB.

RESPONSE: In 2002, the President's Critical Infrastructure Protection Board developed a National Strategy to Secure Cyberspace. To encourage broader participation and input into the development process, a draft strategy was released for public comment in September 2002. In addition, the PCIPB requested the National Infrastructure Assurance Council and the National Security Telecommunications Advisory Committee both provide comments on the draft strategy. Furthermore, there were ten town hall meetings held in various portions of the country which brought industry, academia and private citizens together to focus on the complex issues related to cyber security. The final strategy thus integrated extensive public and industry comments and was released in February 2003.

The National Strategy to Secure Cyberspace emphasizes that government-industry partnerships will be a cornerstone to success. As the primary implementer of the Strategy, DHS will be a partner with industry and academia to accomplish the objectives identified by the President's strategy.

NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL

QUESTION 29: Your request includes a 10.8 percent increase to cover reimbursable detailee costs and additional support staff for the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board. Please explain the need for these increases in detail.

RESPONSE: The requested increase covers reimbursable detailee costs of personnel from the Department of State. The National Security Council (NSC) may request detailed personnel performing at a high level in high priority positions to remain beyond their initial tour of duty because of their unique qualifications. The NSC is required to reimburse the Department of State for details to NSC that exceed the cap of 13 detailed into their second year and for all staff detailed longer than two years per Public Law 93-126. The FY 2003 increase in this category is an estimate for details becoming reimbursable during the Spring and the Summer. The FY 2004 increase represents an annualization of the expenses, minus the cost for the details that will not be renewed.

Since the events of September 11, 2001, the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board (PFIAB) support staff workload has been significantly increased and consumed by the homeland security effort. Thus far, about 95% of the Board's current advisory work for the President has been directly related to homeland security and counter-terrorism (Intelligence performance thereon, and support to the new department of homeland security.) With only 4 staff members and an already overflowing Board work schedule, work on other important PFIAB priorities has been deferred—such as declassification review of PFIAB archived records. At least three additional staff members, including a GS-14 administrative manager, will be needed to adequately meet support requirements as the Board expands its review of intelligence support to homeland security beyond the more immediate structural and organizational issues, and also re-engages the more general intelligence performance issues across the full spectrum of pressing issues. The FY 2004 request includes $250,000 which will fund two reimbursable detailed staff members and one permanent, Schedule A, Excepted Service, GS-14 administrative management position.

QUESTION 30: What are the dollar and percentage increases for each of the above items, compared to the FY 2003 estimated levels?

RESPONSE: The FY 2004 request for NSC reimbursable detailees represents an increase of $356,000, or 64 percent, over the FY 2003 estimated levels. The PFIAB increase of $250,000 will be 100 percent above the FY 2003 request since this is a new requirement for FY 2004.

QUESTION 31: The justifications indicate that 11 additional positions are being added to this office in FY 2003, raising the estimated from 60 in FY 2002 to an estimated 71 in FY 2003. What specific positions are being created?

RESPONSE: The 11 additional positions, which raise NSC's FTE from 60 to 71, are not new positions. In FY 2003, the Office for Combating Terrorism (OCT) was combined with the NSC budget request. The increased FTE request correlates with the continued funding for, and operation of, the OCT as a part of the NSC submission.

QUESTION 32: The FY 2004 request includes funds for a new GS-14 administrative manager for the PFIAB. Why is this new position needed at this time?

RESPONSE: PFIAB requires a permanent administrative position for continuity as well as efficiency reasons. The administrative staff constitutes the lifeblood of the Board: it fulfills all of the support responsibilities, including human resource management, budget, travel, procurement, research, publishing, protocol, and special assistance to the Executive Director, Chair and Vice Chair. With only two administrative people on staff, it is absolutely critical that both individuals be fully knowledgeable about, and highly experienced with White House administrative policies, procedures and guidelines; equally important, both must possess highly honed administrative skills and be extremely efficient, effective and professionally dedicated.

The Board simply cannot attain this level of experience and competence by relying on detailees from other agencies, particularly non-reimbursed detailees. More often than not, we must accept whomever an agency can make available. Therefore, the Board will use this one permanent administrative billet to create a PFIAB office manager position. This individual not only will provide continuity of expertise and experience but also will ensure that the other administrative person obtains the proper professional mentoring and supervision. We plan to make this a GS-14 position but may start the individual we select at the GS-13 level to allow for personal advancement, thereby also ensuring, a long term of service to the Board.

OFFICE OF NATIONAL DRUG CONTROL POLICY

QUESTION 33: You are requesting 10 additional FTE in FY 2004 to replace 10 non-reimbursable detailees who are no longer available. Why are these positions no longer available, and what are the specific positions?

RESPONSE: ONDCP's FY 2004 request includes resources to support 125 FTEs, an increase of 10 FTEs over the FY 2003 request. This FTE increase is requested to offset the loss of approximately 20 - 25 of the 30 non-reimbursable military detailee positions the Department of Defense has supported at ONDCP since 1996. (The Department of Defense, as outlined in a December 28, 2001 memorandum, has adopted a general policy that approves of requests for details only on a reimbursable basis, with limited exceptions.)

This 10 FTE increase, along with distributing additional responsibilities among existing staff, will allow ONDCP to absorb the detailee staffing loss and meet its statutory responsibilities. The specific positions would be appointed within the following offices: Planning and Budget; State and Local Affairs; Intelligence; and Supply Reduction.

RENOVATION OF THE EISENHOWER EXECUTIVE OFFICE BUILDING

QUESTION 34: What is the status of funding provided in FY 2002 and 2003? Please provide a breakdown of funding by the type of activity or renovation performed.

RESPONSE: The General Service Administration (GSA) has used FY 2002 Emergency Response Funds in the amount of $1,674,000 for starting the Architects' and Engineers' design contract for the 17th Street Wing Security Modernization Project. GSA is currently in the process of reprogramming $7,500,000 for FY 2003 for design, management and inspection. The FY 2003 reprogramming is required to complete the Design/Build/Bridging documents and assist in managing the Design/Build/Bridging efforts.

QUESTION 35: How much remains unobligated, by appropriation?

RESPONSE: The General Services Administration (GSA) awarded a portion of the design cost in the amount of $1,537,173 utilizing the FY 2002 Emergency Response Fund. $136,827 remains unobligated. GSA has not obligated any FY 2003 funding.

QUESTION 36: Please provide a detailed breakdown showing how funds requested in the GSA budget for FY 2004 would be used.

RESPONSE: The following is a break down on how the funds will be used in FY 2004:

Major Work Items:
Electrical System	$ 10,244,000
Air conditioning system, chillers and piping	$ 12,530,000
Interior Construction	$ 13,163,000
Utility Vault (includes foundation construction)	$ 22,107,000
Window Blast Mitigation	$ 4,685,000
Mansard Roof Hardening	$ 802,000
Estimated Construction Cost (ECC)	$ 63,531,000
Management and Inspection	$ 2,226,000
Authorization Requested (ECC, M&I)	$ 65,757,000

QUESTION 37: Please provide a detailed schedule for activities planned in FY 2004.

RESPONSE: The design/build/bridging contract is scheduled to be awarded in March 2004. The current schedule for the project is as follows:

Design Award:	04/03
Design/Build/Bridging Procurement Start:	09/03
A/E Bridging Documents Complete:	10/03
Design/Build/Bridging Contract Award:	03/04
Construction Complete:	06/06

QUESTION 38: How much are you currently paying GSA for the unoccupied space along the 17th Street side of EEOB, and how much rental cost are you incurring for the new locations where relocated employees are working?

RESPONSE: We are not paying for the unoccupied space along the 17th Street side of the EEOB in FY2003. Employees were relocated to 1800 G Street where FY 2004 rental costs are estimated at $4,978,000 and to 1801 Pennsylvania Avenue where the FY 2004 rental costs are estimated at $792,000. Both rental cost estimates exclude parking space costs.

EXECUTIVE RESIDENCE

QUESTION 39: Please provide a table, corresponding to the projects on page 81 of last year's hearing record, showing the original appropriation for each project, the amount obligated to date, and the project status. This involves projects funded in fiscal year 2002.

RESPONSE: The following table provides funding information on the FY 2002 projects.

QUESTION 41: The justifications (p. 67) indicate an estimated unobligated balance of $7,023,000 in this appropriation at the beginning of FY 2003. Please explain the sources of this balance, and provide a schedule for obligation of increments of those funds.

RESPONSE: The majority ($4,388,127) of the unobligated funds are associated with the Communication System Repairs/Phase 2 which was delayed due to unanticipated design requirements. The schedule for completion and obligation of all FY2002 projects is detailed in the table below.

Executive Residence at the White House
FY2002 White House Repair and Restoration

Project	Original Appropriation	Obligated To Date	Status of Project
Pool Shelter Roof Reconstruction and Pool Deck Renovation	$430,000	$412,926	This project is completed, with only minor punch list items and related recurring maintenance items to be funded from the remaining funds.
Communication System Repairs/Phase 2*	$456,667 $4,544,000	$155,872	Modifications to the original design under Phase I (FY2001) are completed. The pre-bid meeting with prospective contractors is scheduled for mid-May, with contract award by late June, and construction commencing by late July.

West Colonnade Restoration	$275,000	$0	Planning has recently been completed; work will be accomplished in August and early September 2003.

*For the Communication System Repairs/Phase 2 project, $456,667 was funded in FY 2001 for Architect and Engineering. The remaining $4,544,000 was for construction.

As of this date, there are also 5 projects which have balances prior to FY 2002. They are as follows:

FY1996 – Roof Repair – balance of $9,227. These funds will be expended as needed for ongoing maintenance and corrective measures.

FY1998 – Repair/restoration of the Laundry Room – balance of $26,616. Purchase of replacement equipment and maintenance of equipment to be expended in FY2003.

FY2000 – Purchase and Install Two Ironers – balance of $5,754. These funds will be expended to replace the drive belts in FY2003.

FY2000 – Renovation of Paint Shop – balance of $38,271. Funds will be used to purchase and update equipment to meet EPA and OSHA requirements in FY2003.

FY2000 – Third Floor Promenade – balance of $11,392. Funds will be expended to rehab and replace drainage system in late FY2003 or early FY2004.

WHITE HOUSE REPAIR AND RESTORATION

QUESTION 42: You are requesting $4,225,000 for repairs and restoration of the White House. Is there additional funding in the National Park Service budget or elsewhere in the President’s budget request for FY 2004 for similar activities at the White House?

RESPONSE: There are no other budget requests for the same activities at the White House.

QUESTION 43: Of this request, $3,500,000 is for restoration of the East and West Wing exterior. Please provide a detailed discussion and breakdown of this request.

RESPONSE: The funding requested is for the continuation (2nd phase) of the East and West Wing Restoration project, the first being funded in FY 2002. This is consistent with the original planning for the execution of this project based on the experience of the completed Executive Residence Exterior Restoration completed in 1996. A breakdown of major work items follows:

Estimated Construction Costs:

Mobilization, scaffolding, rental equipment	150,000
Stone, stucco, wood restoration, insulated glass	1,580,000
Paint removal	1,660,000
Effluent/hazardous material disposal	150,000
Specialized window film including installation	400,000
Specialized stucco coating including installation	550,000
Painting	500,000
Site Restoration	260,000
Design, project management, project supervision, testing	350,000
Contingency	400,000
Estimated Total Cost	$6,000,000
FY 2002 Funding	$2,500,000
FY 2004 Funding Request	$3,500,000

PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE IMPROVEMENTS

QUESTION 44: What is the total estimated cost of security and street improvements on Pennsylvania Avenue in front of the White House, for which funds were provided in FY 2003?

RESPONSE: The total estimated program cost for the Pennsylvania Avenue project in front of the White House, Jackson Place and Madison Place project is $26.1 million. This amount includes all costs to plan, design, and construct, (including contract administration and engineering) and for contingencies to complete the project.

This estimated project cost is separate from and does not include the $5 million provided in FY 2003 to fund the transportation planning study to evaluate traffic congestion mitigation alternatives as a result of closing Pennsylvania Avenue.

QUESTION 45: What is the status of that project? When will FY 2003 funds be obligated?

RESPONSE: The status of the security and street improvements on Pennsylvania Avenue is as follows:

- The design team is completing the pre-design stage. Final design will begin in early June 2003 and completed in September.
- The engineers are currently in the design stage for utility relocation in the project's vicinity.
- All requirements of National Environmental Policy Act, except Section 106 clearance have been completed. The environmental assessment was completed in May 2003, and the Finding on No Significant Impact (FONSI) was executed on May 30, 2003.
- The Section 106 review as required by the Secretary of the Interior under the Historic Preservation Act is underway and a Memorandum of Agreement has been developed for execution in early June 2003, which will address issues regarding the design details. The Section 106 review occurs when a project utilizing federal funds may have an effect upon natural, environmental, or cultural resources and looks at mitigation of any adverse effects to those resources.
- Arrangements have already been made for procurement of the trees to be used on the Avenue since it will require root and limb pruning over two calendar years prior to installation on the Avenue. The trees will be installed after Inaugural events in the spring of 2005.
- A Memorandum of Agreement between the FHWA, District Department of Transportation, National Park Service, United States Secret Service, Department of Treasury, and General Services Administration was distributed May 26, 2003 and is circulating to all Parties of the Agreement for final execution.

- Under Section 330 of the FY 2003 Department of Transportation Appropriations Bill, $11.1 million was appropriated to the Federal Highway Administration. Of these funds, $6.1 million was designated for this project for the streetscape and security improvements on Pennsylvania Avenue in front of the White House, Jackson Place, and Madison Place. The remaining $5.0 million was designated for the transportation planning study to address traffic congestion mitigation measures (see Question 47). After applying the 0.65 percent across-the-board rescission, a total of $11.0 million was made available.
- Approximately $2.7 million (for conceptual design, crash testing, environmental documentation, and preliminary design) has been obligated through May 2003 and an additional $425,000 will be obligated through September to complete the final design package.
- The construction contract must be authorized in September 2003 and awarded in December 2003 in order to complete construction by October 2004 in time for the inauguration.

QUESTION 46: How much funding is requested for this project in FY 2004, and where is it located in the budget?

RESPONSE: For FY 2004, $15 million has been identified for this project in the Department of Interior budget.

QUESTION 47: What is the schedule for studies of traffic congestion mitigation alternatives in the vicinity of the White House, as funded in FY 2003?

RESPONSE: The project administrators met with representatives in the Office of Policy Development in the Executive Office of the President, on May 8, 2003 to begin outlining the scope of the study and a plan to involve the District of Columbia government and neighborhood stakeholders. A schedule for the study has not been developed, but will be prepared in the next three months.

REMOTE DATA CENTER

QUESTION 48: What is the status of establishment today of the remote data center?

RESPONSE: The remote data center project is on schedule and on budget. The project began last summer by conducting a systems development lifecycle analysis to determine and recommend the location for the facility. From this analysis, EOP decided on building the data center at a hardened FEMA facility located in Maryland. The project is being co-managed with FEMA and was established with three phases: (1) infrastructure build-out of the hardened facility (power, air handlers, etc), (2) construction of the data center itself (cabling, raised flooring, etc), and (3) the transition of EOP data systems (telecommunications, servers, etc). The project is approximately halfway through completion for the first two phases with a scheduled opening (initial operational capability) date of September 2003. The transition phase is on schedule preparing the systems and will proceed to begin the transfer September 2003 – with a planned transition of 12 months for all systems. The following chart shows the funding of the remote data center from FY 2002 thru FY 2004.

	FY 2002	FY 2003	FY 2004
CIP	$15,000,000	$5,000,000	$8,403,000
Total	$15,000,000	$5,000,000	$8,403,000

QUESTION 49: Last year, you estimated annual operating costs of this facility to be $7,500,000 (p. 88). Is that your current estimate?

RESPONSE: Last year OA provided a rough estimate of $7,500,000 for the future annual operating cost of the new data center facility. This was based upon the following estimated costs:

- $1,500,000 in communications to maintain connectivity for the EOP,
- $600,000 in space rental,
- $450,000 for hardware maintenance,
- $1,300,000 for software maintenance,
- $2,600,000 for contractor services,
- $300,000 for supplies/components,
- $75,000 for equipment, and
- $675,000 in salaries/benefits.

While most of these estimates remain valid, OA must revise the estimate for space rental to $1,258,000, bringing the revised estimated annual operating costs for the facility to $8,158,000.

QUESTION 50: Your FY 2004 request includes $8,403,000 to transition the remote data center to full operational status (p. 75). What specific activities are required in FY 2004 to accomplish this? Can you provide a breakdown of the FY 2004 request consistent with these activities?

RESPONSE: The following table lists the FY2004 CIP funds requested for the completion of the remote data center construction and initial year operating costs.

Object Class	Object Class Title	Requested Funding ($ in 000)	Description
23.0	Space Rental Payments	$1,258	This estimate reflects $1,258,000 in rental for the offsite data center and will be the initial rent to be paid for the offsite data center. This cost was previously funded from emergency funds.
23.3	Communications, utilities, and miscellaneous charges	$4,420	$4,420,000 is for CIP networking/ telecommunications projects at the offsite data center. These projects include funds for a tap off of telecommunications lines, two additional DS-3 data paths, two T-1 lines, and backup to support required communications bandwidth, and availability requirements.
25.2	Other Services	$2,700	This estimate reflects Priority System Disaster Recovery costs, Secondary Systems Disaster Recovery costs, Hardware and Software for the Disaster Recovery Site, and Hardware and Software upgrades to support the data center move.
26.0	Supplies and materials	$25	The estimate reflects $25,000 in additional supplies necessary for start-up operations at the offsite data center. This will include start up costs for office equipment used for the new office spaces.
Total FY 2004 Data Center CIP Request		$8,403

PRESIDENT'S TRAVEL

QUESTION 51: Please update the information on pages 89 through 94 of last year's hearing record concerning travel by the President and the First Lady by continuing data from the final entry of last year's record to the present time.

RESPONSE: The following charts summarize Presidential, First Lady and Vice Presidential travel for Fiscal Years 2002 and 2003 (to date). They also reflect costs currently in the accounting system. We are waiting for additional cost information on several trips, therefore, final costs may vary.

PRESIDENTIAL STAFF TRAVEL

QUESTION 52: Please provide a listing of staff travel not in support of the President for fiscal year 2002 and thus far in fiscal year 2003. For each entry, please include the name of traveler, the destination and purpose of trip, the number of days in travel status, and the trip cost.

RESPONSE: The following tables provide the FY 2002 and year to date FY 2003 staff travel information for the White House Office, where a staff member received government reimbursement. This data does not include travel made in direct support of a Presidential trip.

Total	525	2,600	-289	-330	1,981	2,280

Note: As part of a pilot program authorized by Congress in fiscal year 2003, general support costs such as rent, supplies, printing, information technology, etc., are centrally managed and charged against the Office of Administration.

QUESTION 55: Please provide a breakdown of the FY 2004 request for the Freedom Corps, and a brief description of the work to be accomplished under each item.

RESPONSE: The FY 2004 WHO request includes funding for the following USA Freedom Corps requirements.

Personnel: This category provides funding for the cost of the salaries and benefits for the staff of the USA Freedom Corps. The FY 2004 WHO request included $827,000 for this category.

Travel: The USA Freedom Corps office staff members are frequent travelers and often work at the national, state and local levels with organizations, especially in organizing the Citizen Corps across the country. In addition, the Director of the USA Freedom Corps or the appropriate staff is required to address gatherings at national conferences, and gatherings of state and local officials in order to disseminate information about the President's Call to Service and the activities coordinated by the USA Freedom Corps, and answer questions relating to the organization of USA Freedom Corps activities at the local level. The FY 2004 WHO request included $102,000 for this category.

Rent: This category funds the costs of the GSA office space utilized by the USA Freedom Corps. The FY 2004 WHO request included $157,000 for this category.

Printing: This category includes the costs of the creation and printing of documents regarding the USA Freedom Corps mission and policies and initiatives specific programs coordinated by its Council. The FY 2004 WHO request included $225,000 for this category.

Other services: This category includes funds for the hiring of contractors to measure the nationwide effects of the USA Freedom Corps efforts through surveys and other measurement tools, and funds for information dissemination and the creation and production of materials used in the furtherance of the USA Freedom Corps mission and specific programs, initiatives coordinated by its Council. The FY 2004 WHO request included $926,000 for this category. ~~and other activities that will further the mission of the USA Freedom Corps.~~

Communications and Misc., Supplies and Materials, Equipment: These general categories are managed centrally by the White House Office of Management and Administration. Funds in these categories support the normal costs associated with day to day office operations. The FY 2004 WHO request included $43,000 for this category.

QUESTION 56: Last year, funds were requested for Freedom Corps information dissemination and recognition materials (p. 239). Are similar activities funded in FY 2004? If so, how much?

RESPONSE: The FY 2004 WHO request includes requirements for similar activities to those funded in FY 2003 and included are funds for information dissemination and recognition materials. Funds for these activities are included in the Other Services category of the WHO request. An estimated $926,000 of this portion of the request is for USA Freedom Corps requirements.

QUESTION 57: Are additional funds requested in FY 2004 outside the EOP?

RESPONSE: As a White House office and a coordinating council, the USA Freedom Corps does not run, fund, or administer programs. Instead, the USA Freedom Corps coordinates the development of policies and initiatives with various offices/entities in the Executive Branch in support of the President's goal to strengthen the American culture of service while helping all Americans find meaningful service opportunities. This role does not require outside funding and none have been requested by the WHO.

QUESTION 58: Please provide a listing of the staff in the USA Freedom Corps Office, showing the incumbent name and position. Please designate any detailees.

RESPONSE: A listing of the current USA Freedom Corps Office staff is provided below.

John Bridgeland: Assistant to the President and Director, USA Freedom Corps
Ron Christie: Special Assistant to the President and Deputy Director, USAFC
Lindsey Kozberg: Special Assistant to the President for Policy/Public Affairs
Therese Lyons: Director of Public Liasion
Ian Rowe: Director of Management and Strategy

Kathleen Mynster: Deputy Press Secretary
 Britt Grant: Special Assistant to the Director
 Cornell Teague: Associate Director
 Nique Fajors: Agency Liaison – Detailee
 Ken Lanza: Agency Liaison - Detailee

SENSITIVE COMPARTMENTED INFORMATION FACILITIES

QUESTION 59: Are any funds requested in any EOP office in the FY 2004 President’s request for the construction of sensitive compartmented information facilities (SCIFs)?

RESPONSE: No funds are requested for SCIFs in FY 2004.

QUESTION 60: How many such facilities have been built within EOP offices since the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001?

RESPONSE: Sixteen SCIFS have been built.

DATA CENTER RELOCATION

QUESTION 61: What is the status of efforts to relocate the existing EOP data center, and what are plans for the coming year?

RESPONSE: The remote data center project is on track to achieve completion on budget and on schedule.

QUESTION 62: Are funds requested in the FY 2004 budget for this project?

RESPONSE: The following table displays the funds requested for this project in FY 2004.

Object Class	Object Class Title	Requested Funding (in $1000s)	Description
23.0	Space Rental Payments	$1,258	This estimate reflects $1,258 in rental for the offsite data center and will be the initial rent to be paid for the offsite data center. This cost was previously funded from emergency funds.
23.3	Communications, utilities, and miscellaneous charges	$4,420	$4,420 is for CIP networking/telecommunications projects at the offsite data center. These projects include funds for a tap-off of telecommunications lines, two additional DS-3 data paths, two T-1 lines, and backup to support required communications bandwidth, and availability requirements.

Object Class	Object Class Title	Requested Funding (in $1000s)	Description
25.2	Other Services	$2,700	This estimate reflects Priority System Disaster Recovery costs, Secondary Systems Disaster Recovery costs, Hardware and Software for the Disaster Recovery Site, and Hardware and Software upgrades to support the data center move.
26.0	Supplies and materials	$25	The estimate reflects $25 in additional supplies necessary for start-up operations at the offsite data center. This will include start-up costs for office equipment used for the new office spaces.
Total FY2004 Data Center CIP Request		$8,403

WHITE HOUSE COMMUNICATIONS AGENCY

QUESTION 63: Updating the information on page 133 of last year's hearing record, please provide estimated reimbursements for the White House Communications Agency for each of the fiscal years 2002 through 2004.

RESPONSE: Reimbursements made to the White House Communications Agency, for the non-telecommunications support they provide to the WHO, is broken down into two categories: military personnel and audiovisual support. The amount of planned reimbursement is initially set and agreed to via an inter-agency agreement (IAG). This IAG is then adjusted if needed as a result of actual execution. Reimbursement actuals and estimates follow:

	FY02 (actual)	FY03 (est.)	FY04 (est.)
Military Personnel	$4,376,085	$4,754,346	$4,858,942
Audiovisual Support	$4,543,643	$3,953,848	$2,743,915
Total	$8,919,738	$8,708,194	$7,602,857

The FY04 estimate for audiovisual support shows a decrease from the FY 2003 estimate due to the move of audiovisual supplies and equipment from IAG reimbursed items to direct procurement through normal WHO channels.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATION

QUESTION 64: Updating the information on page 134 of last year's hearing record, please provide a current organizational chart for the Office of Administration, including the associated numbers of FTEs requested for each office in the FY 2004 President's budget.

RESPONSE: The Office of Administration organization chart provided below reflects the current organizational structure. The FY 2004 FTE request remains constant with FY 2003 levels (222 FTE).

Total 222 FTE

QUESTION 65: Last year, it was estimated that 4 FTE were needed to provide administrative services to the Office of Homeland Security. Since that office is substantially smaller due to establishment of the DHS, is there a lesser requirement for OA support? If so, is that reflected in FY 2004 staffing figures?

RESPONSE: The FY 2003 budget proposal included the statement that there was “2 CFO staff to support Homeland Security” rather than the 4 FTEs referred to in the question. These two Chief Financial Officer (CFO) staff were requested during FY 2003 because last year’s OA budget request was a 49% increase over the previous year’s spending – and security-related enhancements accounted for nearly all of that increase. The FY 2004 budget proposal included additional security-related enhancements beyond the FY 2003 level. Furthermore, even though the funding level of the Homeland Security Council is not as great as was originally envisioned, it is still a separate account for which the staff must perform the same number of administrative tasks in setting up and monitoring the status of the account. Therefore, the additional two FTE in the CFO office remain necessary to assist EOP offices in executing their new responsibilities.

QUESTION 66: Your salary and expenses request includes a transfer of $1,500,000 from Homeland Security for information technology services. What are these services?

RESPONSE: The part of OHS that remained with EOP (now called the Homeland Security Council) does not need the information technology contractor support that was previously planned. There is, however, an urgent need to expand the funding needed to support the White House website. The system security put in place to protect the whitehouse.gov website from cyber attack includes a web content distribution designed to make it highly resistant to denial of service type attacks. The cost of this service has increased dramatically, and is directly proportional to the volume of activity. The volume of activity, in turn, is a combination of the website hits and the level of cyber-attack activity directed against the site. The importance of the White House web site cannot be overstated. Along with the DHS website, the whitehouse.gov website is one of the primary government sites with a mission to communicate threat level information to the public.

Due to increased traffic on the White House website, the monthly cost of web caching service to maintain the website has risen from $30,000 per month to more than $75,000 per month. The estimated FY 2004 cost to maintain the website is $1,500,000. No funds were requested for this increased requirement in the FY 2004 budget. OA wishes to use the funds originally requested for the OHS information technology contract support for the White House website effort.

QUESTION 67: You are requesting additional funding for victim rescue units, which would be distributed to all White House staff (p. 82). What are these units, and what is the unit cost?

RESPONSE: The unit cost is $375. We are available to brief the Subcommittee about these units.

QUESTION 68: How is the requirement for additional safes and emergency evacuation chairs documented?

RESPONSE: The EOP Security Office conducted a review of security containers (safes) at the White House complex and found that most of them were 1950's-vintage mechanical locks. During the aftermath of 9/11, it was deemed important that the White House adhere to the latest Federal regulations promulgated by the General Services Administration (FFL-2740A) for the protection of classified materials. Thus, the EOP recommends acquiring new security containers which are fully compliant with GSA standard which governs all changeable combination locks for the protection of national security information.

After 9/11 we reviewed all emergency evacuation procedures for the White House complex. As we updated evacuation plans and reviewed procedures, it was determined that evacuation chairs were needed in various buildings and on various floors to assist individuals who may need assistance or have special needs during an evacuation. This was an internal study performed by staff of the EOP Security Office.

FINANCIAL AUDITS

QUESTION 69: Last year, you advised us that EOP would plan to address the findings of the recent auditability assessment no later than FY 2003. What is the status of that effort today?

RESPONSE: The EOP has initiated five major efforts to address the auditability assessment. They are:

- Development and publication of the EOP entity and reporting structure, which was completed and is presented in the FY 2004 Budget Submission.
- Development and publication of the EOP financial management structure, which has been developed in draft and is currently being circulated for comment within EOP. Approval and issuance of the financial management structure is expected to occur within 30 days.
- Provide financial management policy and guidance to the EOP and put in place consistent EOP-wide business practices and procedures. This effort is underway and is expected to be completed this fiscal year.
- Select a replacement for the current non-compliant financial accounting system. The Office of the Chief Financial Officer has reviewed various alternatives and has made a determination to be cross-serviced by another Federal agency that has implemented a compliant system, is currently receiving "clean" audit opinions, and has cross-servicing as an agency mission. Two such organizations were identified, a requirements document was provided, (their proposals are currently being evaluated), and a decision is expected within the next two weeks.
- Accomplish a detailed review of the EOP general ledger and supporting documents for account balances, correct the data as necessary, and prepare the information for conversion to the replacement accounting system. A "clean-up" and conversion plan is in process and will be coordinated with the selected cross-servicing agency.

QUESTION 70: When will you be able to produce an auditable financial statement?

RESPONSE: The Chief Financial Officer completed an exercise that resulted in EOP-wide financial statements. That exercise identified various data problems that confirmed the auditability assessment. The "clean-up" exercise which is required prior to the conversion to the cross-servicing agency's system is addressing these problems and it is anticipated that the FY 2004 financial statements will be audited.

QUESTION 71: Last year, you stated that you had identified best practices for documented policies and procedures based upon one federal agency which has been recognized as one of the best in the Federal government (p. 136). Which agency are you using as a model, and what are some examples of the specific best practices you intend to use?

RESPONSE: We were referring to the Department of Education and we conducted a pilot of their approach for developing policies and procedures within the Office of the CFO. While that pilot was helpful, we determined that three other tasks (identify reporting entity, develop financial management structure, and identifying our financial accounting system cross servicing provider) needed to be completed before our policies and procedures could be developed. Since those are near completion, we anticipate again focusing on developing policies and procedures during the remainder of this fiscal year.

WHITE HOUSE OFFICE

QUESTION 72: Please provide a breakdown of the FY 2004 budget request for the White House Office by office or activity, as itemized on pages 137 and 138 of last year's hearing record. Please compare those amounts to corresponding amounts for FY 2002 (actual) and FY 2003 (estimated), similar in format to that shown on pages 246 and 247 of last year's hearing record.

RESPONSE: As noted last year, a single budget is prepared for the WHO. This single budget is prepared based on a number of criteria such as: prior spending patterns, estimated requirements, OMB provided inflation factors, and the priorities of the President. During a given execution year, personnel costs are allocated based upon that year's unique staffing decisions. The remainder of the budget is allocated initially to two WHO offices. The travel budget is allocated in its entirety to the Office of Advance and obligated against this office if the travel is done in support of the President. Any travel undertaken that is not in support of a Presidential trip is charged to the office of the staff member in question. The remaining portion of the non-personnel, non-travel budget, including expenses for rent, supplies, equipment and other services is considered overhead and in most years is charged as such to the White House Office of Management and Administration. In FY 2003 as part of a pilot program authorized by Congress, costs related to many of these "overhead" items were consolidated under the EOP Office of Administration. Obligations (actual and estimated) are provided by individual White House office for FY 2002 thru FY 2004 in the table below.

(dollars in thousands)
as of 9 May 2003
White House Office	FY02 act.	FY03 est.	FY04 est.
Office of Chief of Staff	1,239	1,474	1,507
Oval Office Ops	347	476	487

Total WHO Obligations <sup>(2)</sup>	54,191	50,385	61,937

Notes:

- (1) $911K of the FY03 USA Freedom Corps estimate and $1,351K of the FY04 USA Freedom Corps estimate is included above within the Office of Management and Administration numbers as are similar funds for all other White House offices.
- (2) Because Congress has chosen to appropriate funds for the Office of Homeland Security (OHS)/ Homeland Security Council (HSC) separately from the WHO appropriation, numbers related to OHS/ HSC are not included above. FY03 and FY04 estimates for OHS/ HSC are addressed independently in response to other committee questions.

QUESTION 73: Please provide a corresponding breakdown for FTE staff years and OGE, similar in format to that shown on pages 152 through 154 of last year's hearing record.

RESPONSE: As noted last year, the major units within the White House Office are simply a creature of administrative convenience. The number of employees within each unit and the work of each unit vary over time and as circumstances and needs change. With this kept in mind, a detailed breakout of FTEs and OGEs by unit is provided below. This breakout is based on current estimates and planning and will differ during the actual execution year. In addition to these major units, certain individuals – including certain individuals who work with the National Security Council, the Domestic Policy Council, and the National Economic Council – are also White House Office employees, although the units within which they principally work are not themselves part of the White House Office. These individuals are included under the Other category.

Brett:

I wonder whether this clear and conspicuous notice would be a legally acceptable (FEC Adv. Op. 2003-3), but politically friendlier, and useable with respect to all Federal candidates without any need to change text, alternative:

"Any solicitation by a Federal officeholder at this event seeks only federally permissible funds, that is, up to $2000 per candidate per election from an individual's own funds, and no funds from a corporation, labor organization or minor."

Also, is it our view that this disclaimer on the invitation-and-reply-device is satisfactory under FEC Adv. Op. 2003-3 -- or is it necessary to have this disclaimer on a display-board-and-easel at the event -- given that FEC Adv. Op. 2003-3 speaks of a written notice "displayed" at a state candidate fundraising event.

No -- it's a set of bound volumes called "The Supreme Court of the United States Nominations, 1916-1994" edited by Roy Mersky, et al. There are about two volumes per nomination. It contains a short history of each nomination, the full text of the nominees' questionnaires, confirmation hearings, floor debates, and member statements, all of the nominees' writings that were at issue during the hearings, all related executive branch and presidential statements, correspondence with the committee, and a compendium of editorial comment and other significant media material. In short, absolute one-stop shopping for any question relating to the precedents governing confirmations, including how nominees answered questions in the past, how disputes were resolved over what materials the executive branch would disgorge etc. Also great for giving an nominee the feel of the back and forth to be expected during hearings. If the OEOP Library doesn't have this, they should get it.

Miguel Estrada, the unconfirmed

By Rep. Tom Feeney
Guest Columnist

Two years have passed since the nomination of Miguel Estrada was presented to the Senate by President Bush.

Still, Senate Democrats continue to postpone, delay and filibuster this eminently qualified nominee without reasonable explanations for their actions. Estrada, an attorney with a long and distinguished legal background, has been caught up in the partisan bickering of the Senate, which has held up his nomination since May 2001.

If nominated, Estrada would become the first Hispanic to serve on the District of Columbia Circuit Court, which many consider to be the second most important federal court in America.

The U.S. Constitution gives the Senate the power to confirm judges under the Appointments Clause in Article II, Section 2. However, a minority of senators, using procedural tactics, are refusing to allow these nominees an up-or-down vote and are impeding the constitutional process of judicial appointments.

Instead of appointing judges by a simple majority, which is the requirement in our Constitution, our Senate now needs 60 votes to break the Democrats' filibuster and overcome their parliamentary gymnastics to bring these judicial nominees to a vote.

There are two basic qualifications that a nominee must possess to be appointed to and succeed on the federal bench:

A nominee needs to be morally, intelligently and academically fit.

REV_00402067

A nominee needs to adhere to the U.S. Constitution and rules of law. However, Senate Democrats have decided to add another litmus test to the above. They have decided that to be appointed as a judge, a nominee must agree philosophically with their own liberal politics. If a nominee doesn't meet this standard, but cannot be defeated in an up-or-down vote, they will be sent to the nominees' "no man's land" of never-ending confirmation hearings. Estrada's refusal to give the Democrats what is the equivalent of in-house memos -- information which should fall under the attorney-client privilege -- and answer questions on his personal feelings of controversial subjects, proves even further that if he is nominated, Estrada will be a thoughtful and objective member of the bench. What Estrada thinks on these subjects is irrelevant. The role of a judge is to apply the law in a case from the given facts, not inject his or her personal feelings into the case. Senate Democrats' unwillingness to confirm Estrada and many other judicial nominees because they do not know how the nominees feel on controversial issues should cause great alarm in our country. Unfortunately, it seems that in order to be confirmed as a judge by the Senate, one must fit the Democrats' picture of a good judge, ensuring appointees to the bench who will cement the next generation of liberal jurisprudence. Feeney, R-Oviedo, represents Florida's 24th Congressional District, which includes Brevard County. Rep. Mario Diaz-Balart, R-Miami, also contributed to this article.

COMMITTEE ON FINANCE

WASHINGTON, DC 20510-8200

June 3, 2003

VIA FACSIMILE: (202) 514-4482

ORIGINAL BY U.S. MAIL

The Honorable John Ashcroft
 Attorney General
 Department of Justice
 950 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
 Washington, DC 20530

The Honorable Tommy G. Thompson
 Secretary
 Department of Health & Human Services
 200 Independence Avenue, SW
 Washington, DC 20201

Dear Attorney General Ashcroft and Secretary Thompson:

The Senate Finance Committee (Committee) maintains exclusive jurisdiction over federal health care programs in the United States Senate. As you are both aware, the Committee has been investigating the underlying basis for the settlement reached between HCA, Inc. (HCA) and the United States Department of Justice (DOJ) pursuant to Congress's inherent constitutional prerogative to investigate, as well as, the Committee's statutory duty to engage in continuous oversight of the application, administration, and execution of the laws within its jurisdiction,

On May 23, 2003, Committee investigators met with DOJ representatives regarding, among other subjects, the portion of the HCA settlement applicable to HCA's administrative liability to the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), Department of Health & Human Services (HHS). During the meeting, Committee investigators verbally requested a copy of a letter from CMS to DOJ that was a primary topic of discussion. The letter, which purportedly provided CMS's factual and statistical justification for its recommended settlement with HCA, was delivered to DOJ sometime during the early spring of 2002 and was approximately 14 or 15 pages in length. DOJ representatives denied this verbal request claiming attorney-client, work product, and deliberative process privileges (CMS-HHS has also asserted such claims of privilege previously).

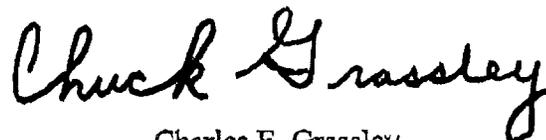

In light of my constitutional and statutory responsibilities as Chairman of this Committee, I cannot accept DOJ's verbal claims of privilege in this instance. Therefore, the Committee requests immediate delivery, by facsimile or by hand, of the aforementioned letter to the Committee's office by noon tomorrow. In the event you will not provide the letter, please notify me immediately and provide the Committee with a detailed memorandum explaining the legal basis for not complying with the Committee's request by June 6, 2003.

Attorney General Ashcroft & Secretary Thompson

The Committee began this investigation over a year ago because of my concern for properly enforcing the False Claims Act and for maintaining the integrity of the Medicare Trust Funds. I will not relent on this matter until I am satisfied that the Committee has fulfilled its constitutional and statutory responsibilities.

Thank you for your immediate attention to this request – I am certain we can resolve this matter quickly and in a mutually satisfactory manner. Please fax the letter to (202) 224-2131 or deliver it to Hart 203, Senate Office Building. Your staff may contact Emilia DiSanto or Dan Donovan, at (202) 224-4515, if necessary.

Sincerely,

Charles E. Grassley
Chairman

QUESTION 69:; Last year, you advised us that EOP would plan to address the findings of the recent auditability assessment no later than FY 2003. ; What is the status of that effort today?

RESPONSE: ;The EOP has initiated five major efforts to address the auditability assessment.; They are:

- * Development and publication of the EOP entity and reporting structure, which was completed and is presented in the FY 2004 Budget Submission.
- * Development and publication of the EOP financial management structure, which has been developed in draft and is currently being circulated for comment within EOP.; Approval and issuance of the financial management structure is expected to occur within 30 days.
- * Provide financial management policy and guidance to the EOP and put in place consistent EOP-wide business practices and procedures.; This effort is underway and is expected to be completed this fiscal year.
- * Select a replacement for the current non-compliant financial accounting system. The Office of the Chief Financial Officer has reviewed various alternatives and has made a determination to be cross-serviced by another Federal agency that has implemented a compliant system, is currently receiving "clean" audit opinions, and has cross-servicing as an agency mission.; Two such organizations were identified, a requirements document was provided, (their proposals are currently being evaluated), and a decision is expected within the next two weeks.
- * Accomplish a detailed review of the EOP general ledger and supporting documents for account balances, correct the data as necessary, and prepare the information for conversion to the replacement accounting system.; A "clean-up" and conversion plan is in process and will be coordinated with the selected cross-servicing agency.

Subject: Check Out Time

Friends and Colleagues:

Tomorrow I'll be checking out of this marvelous Hotel Casa Blanca. I'll be leaving the Administration to return to the private sector, and am in the process of finalizing my plans at this very moment. However, I did want to go ahead and get myself out the door to ensure that I take some time off between gigs. In my 18 years in Washington, I seem to always fall into the leave-a-job-on-Friday-and-start-the-new-job-on-Monday trap. But not this time!

The challenge now is how to ever top the last 2 1/2 years --to serve a great President and to work with a great White House staff and Cabinet.

I am providing my interim contact information below, and will forward you my new coordinates once my plans are finalized. I'm serious when I say to feel free to call on me at any time for what ever reason if I can be of some assistance to the cause.

It's been a good ride. Let's do it again sometime.

Mis amigos buenos,

United States Senate

WASHINGTON, DC 20510-8200

June 3, 2003

VIA FACSIMILE: (202) 514-4482

ORIGINAL BY U.S. MAIL

The Honorable John Ashcroft
 Attorney General
 Department of Justice
 950 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
 Washington, DC 20530

The Honorable Tommy G. Thompson
 Secretary
 Department of Health & Human Services
 200 Independence Avenue, SW
 Washington, DC 20201

Dear Attorney General Ashcroft and Secretary Thompson:

The Senate Finance Committee (Committee) maintains exclusive jurisdiction over federal health care programs in the United States Senate. As you are both aware, the Committee has been investigating the underlying basis for the settlement reached between HCA, Inc. (HCA) and the United States Department of Justice (DOJ) pursuant to Congress's inherent constitutional prerogative to investigate, as well as, the Committee's statutory duty to engage in continuous oversight of the application, administration, and execution of the laws within its jurisdiction,

On May 23, 2003, Committee investigators met with DOJ representatives regarding, among other subjects, the portion of the HCA settlement applicable to HCA's administrative liability to the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), Department of Health & Human Services (HHS). During the meeting, Committee investigators verbally requested a copy of a letter from CMS to DOJ that was a primary topic of discussion. The letter, which purportedly provided CMS's factual and statistical justification for its recommended settlement with HCA, was delivered to DOJ sometime during the early spring of 2002 and was approximately 14 or 15 pages in length. DOJ representatives denied this verbal request claiming attorney-client, work product, and deliberative process privileges (CMS-HHS has also asserted such claims of privilege previously).

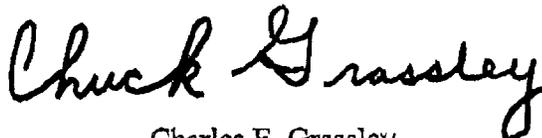

In light of my constitutional and statutory responsibilities as Chairman of this Committee, I cannot accept DOJ's verbal claims of privilege in this instance. Therefore, the Committee requests immediate delivery, by facsimile or by hand, of the aforementioned letter to the Committee's office by noon tomorrow. In the event you will not provide the letter, please notify me immediately and provide the Committee with a detailed memorandum explaining the legal basis for not complying with the Committee's request by June 6, 2003.

The Committee began this investigation over a year ago because of my concern for properly enforcing the False Claims Act and for maintaining the integrity of the Medicare Trust Funds. I will not relent on this matter until I am satisfied that the Committee has fulfilled its constitutional and statutory responsibilities.

Thank you for your immediate attention to this request – I am certain we can resolve this matter quickly and in a mutually satisfactory manner. Please fax the letter to (202) 224-2131 or deliver it to Hart 203, Senate Office Building. Your staff may contact Emilia DiSanto or Dan Donovan, at (202) 224-4515, if necessary.

Sincerely,

Charles E. Grassley
Chairman

Subject: Check Out Time

Friends and Colleagues:

Tomorrow I'll be checking out of this marvelous Hotel Casa Blanca. I'll be leaving the Administration to return to the private sector, and am in the process of finalizing my plans at this very moment. However, I did want to go ahead and get myself out the door to ensure that I take some time off between gigs. In my 18 years in Washington, I seem to always fall into the leave-a-job-on-Friday-and-start-the-new-job-on-Monday trap. But not this time!

The challenge now is how to ever top the last 2 1/2 years --to serve a great President and to work with a great White House staff and Cabinet.

I am providing my interim contact information below, and will forward you my new coordinates once my plans are finalized. I'm serious when I say to feel free to call on me at any time for what ever reason if I can be of some assistance to the cause.

It's been a good ride. Let's do it again sometime.

Mis amigos buenos,
Ed

Carrie,

Patti O'Neill is an atty for Susan Bynam. She called last week, said her client was in distress and said only Karl Rove could help her. When I asked Karl about the message, he said it should be forwarded to counsel's office. Please let me know if you need any additional information from us.

Thanks,

Why Democrats Should Kill the Filibuster
Did Robert Caro read his own book?
By Timothy Noah
Posted Thursday, June 5, 2003, at 3:09 PM PT

In his otherwise excellent
<<http://www.washingtonpost.com/ac2/wp-dyn?pagename=article&node=&contentId=A3049-2003May1-Found=true>> book The Future of Freedom: Illiberal Democracy at Home and Abroad, Fareed Zakaria laments that the United States is choking on too much democracy. You've heard the argument before: Too many presidential primaries, too many referendums, etc., lead to gridlock, which Zakaria (quoting Jonathan Rauch) terms "demosclerosis." At the moment, though, the country is being run by a legacy president who failed to win a plurality
<http://www.archives.gov/federal\_register/electoral\_college/popular\_vote\_2000.html> in the last election. A significant obstacle he must overcome in attempting to impose the will of the 47.9 percent of the electorate (and five <<http://supct.law.cornell.edu/supct/html/00-949.ZPC.html>> unelected Supreme Court justices) who elevated him is the filibuster
<http://www.senate.gov/artandhistory/history/common/briefing/Filibuster\_Clature.htm> , which allows one person to block the will of up to 59 senators.

The Senate Rules Committee held a
<http://rules.senate.gov/hearings/2003/060503\_hearing.htm> hearing today on a proposal by Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist to restrict filibusters against nominations. (For a quick Slate primer on how filibusters work, click here <<http://slate.msn.com/id/2078519/>> .) Frist is obviously seeking to break the legislative stalemate on President Bush's judicial nominees, but he maintains <<http://frist.senate.gov/press-item.cfm?id=204055>> that his overarching goal is good government:

For almost all our nation's history, filibustering nominations was unheard of and unknown. It was unknown when the cloture rule was adopted in 1917. It was unknown when the rule was extended to nominations in 1949. The renowned filibusters of the 1950s and 1960s never involved filibustering a judge. Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia led those filibusters, but even in the face of growing judicial activism, neither he nor his allies ever filibustered a judge. Obviously, some respected traditions have changed.

But abuse of the filibuster is hardly limited to judicial nominees. A much-cited 1995 survey by the Brookings Institution found that filibusters had gone from an average of one per Congress in the 1950s to 35 in the 1991-92 Congress. Ironically, the increase was likely due to an effort to reform rather than abolish the Senate filibuster; after Senate rules were altered in 1975 to make filibusters less disruptive, its use became more respectable, and senators naturally came to use the tool more often. Frist's proposed reform would allow-only in the case of nominations-a succession of cloture votes to end a filibuster. The first would require 60 votes (which is what's required now). Subsequent cloture votes could then be held requiring 57 votes, 54 votes, and, finally, a simple majority to end a filibuster.

If Frist were serious about reforming government, he would propose eliminating the filibuster altogether <<http://slate.msn.com/id/1006999/>>, rather than making filibusters easier to shut down in the one area where they've lately been a nuisance to Republicans. (Chatterbox should note that declining-majority cloture was earlier proposed-though not restricted to nominations-by Democratic Sens. Tom Harkin and Joe Lieberman in 1995, back when filibusters were a nuisance to Democratic President Bill Clinton.) Like the Electoral College <<http://slate.msn.com/id/2058570/>> and the representation scheme of the <<http://slate.msn.com/id/1006400/>> Senate, the filibuster frustrates majority rule. Obviously the Senate is here to stay, and so, Chatterbox fears, is the Electoral College. But the filibuster ought to be easy to kill. Respectable good-government types like the <<http://fairvote.org/reports/1995/chp6/richardson.html>> late Elliot Richardson long ago pronounced it a destructive anomaly. Why the hesitation?

Frist cites some procedural gobbledygook from black-belt parliamentarian Sen. Robert Byrd to the effect that most filibusters were on "motions to proceed," and these could be avoided by having the Senate majority leader offer non-debatable motions during the "Morning Hour." But if it really were easy to avoid most filibusters, the problem wouldn't come up as often as it does. Frist says that the Morning Hour gambit isn't available at all on nominations, hence the need to rein in filibusters in that category alone.

The real reason for Frist's excessive caution is opposition by minority-party Democrats, who would like wholesale elimination of the filibuster even less than its restriction in the case of nominations. Their partisan motive is obvious, but in the grand scheme of things the filibuster is, as Norman Ornstein points out <http://www.aei.org/news/newsID.17247,filter./news\_detail.asp>, "a conservative instrument" because it's the enemy of activist government. Where's the Democrats' sense of history? Apparently it's been subcontracted out to Robert Caro, who, according to today's <<http://nytimes.com/2003/06/05/national/05SENA.html>> New York Times, has "warned lawmakers against diluting the rights of the minority even as he noted the filibuster was a potent tool used against the civil rights legislation championed by Senator [Lyndon] Johnson."

But in the latest volume of Caro's Johnson biography, Master of the Senate, the filibuster isn't portrayed as sometimes good and sometimes bad. It is shown (accurately) to be unambiguously bad. He refers to it as the Senate's "peculiar institution," which of course is an allusion to slavery. He shows how it was repeatedly used to protect Jim Crow. He crafts a hero narrative around Senate Majority Leader Johnson's dazzling triumph over various rococo Senate obstructions to pass the first civil rights bill in nearly a century. Surely Caro grasps that the larger lesson isn't the greatness of Lyndon Johnson. It's that it shouldn't take somebody of unparalleled legislative genius to make the rusty machinery of the Senate do what the country demands.

Why Democrats Should Kill the Filibuster

Did Robert Caro read his own book?

By Timothy Noah

Posted Thursday, June 5, 2003, at 3:09 PM PT

In his otherwise excellent book The Future of Freedom: Illiberal Democracy at Home and Abroad, Fareed Zakaria laments that the United States is choking on too much democracy. You've heard the argument before: Too many presidential primaries, too many referendums, etc., lead to gridlock, which Zakaria (quoting Jonathan Rauch) terms "demosclerosis." At the moment, though, the country is being run by a legacy president who failed to win a plurality in the last election. A significant obstacle he must overcome in attempting to impose the will of the 47.9 percent of the electorate (and five unelected Supreme Court justices) who elevated him is the filibuster, which allows one person to block the will of up to 59 senators.

The Senate Rules Committee held a hearing today on a proposal by Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist to restrict filibusters against nominations. (For a quick Slate primer on how filibusters work, click here.) Frist is obviously seeking to break the legislative stalemate on President Bush's judicial nominees, but he maintains that his overarching goal is good government:

For almost all our nation's history, filibustering nominations was unheard of and unknown. It was unknown when the cloture rule was adopted in 1917. It was unknown when the rule was extended to nominations in 1949. The renowned filibusters of the 1950s and 1960s never involved filibustering a judge. Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia led those filibusters, but even in the face of growing judicial activism, neither he nor his allies ever filibustered a judge. Obviously, some respected traditions have changed.

But abuse of the filibuster is hardly limited to judicial nominees. A much-cited 1995 survey by the Brookings Institution found that filibusters had gone from an average of one per Congress in the 1950s to 35 in the 1991-92 Congress. Ironically, the increase was likely due to an effort to reform rather than abolish the Senate filibuster; after Senate rules were altered in 1975 to make filibusters less disruptive, its use became more respectable, and senators naturally came to use the tool more often. Frist's proposed reform would allow—only in the case of nominations—a succession of cloture votes to end a filibuster. The first would require 60 votes (which is what's required now). Subsequent cloture votes could then be held requiring 57 votes, 54 votes, and, finally, a simple majority to end a filibuster.

If Frist were serious about reforming government, he would propose eliminating the filibuster altogether, rather than making filibusters easier to shut down in the one area where they've lately been a nuisance to Republicans. (Chatterbox should note that declining-majority cloture was earlier proposed—though not restricted to nominations—by Democratic Sens. Tom Harkin and Joe Lieberman in 1995, back when filibusters were a nuisance to Democratic President Bill Clinton.) Like the Electoral College and the representation scheme of the Senate, the filibuster frustrates majority rule. Obviously the Senate is here to stay, and so, Chatterbox fears, is the Electoral College. But the filibuster ought to be easy to kill. Respectable good-government types like the late Elliot Richardson long ago pronounced it a destructive anomaly. Why the hesitation?

Frist cites some procedural gobbledegook from black-belt parliamentarian Sen. Robert Byrd to the effect that most filibusters were on "motions to proceed," and these could be avoided by having the Senate majority leader offer non-debatable motions during the "Morning Hour." But if it really were easy to avoid most filibusters, the problem wouldn't come up as often as it does. Frist says that the Morning Hour gambit isn't available at all on nominations, hence the need to rein in filibusters in that category alone.

The real reason for Frist's excessive caution is opposition by minority-party Democrats, who would like wholesale elimination of the filibuster even less than its restriction in the case of nominations. Their partisan motive is obvious, but in the grand scheme of things the filibuster is, as Norman Ornstein points out, "a conservative instrument" because it's the enemy of activist government. Where's the Democrats' sense of history? Apparently it's been subcontracted out to Robert Caro, who, according to today's New York Times, has "warned lawmakers against diluting the rights of the minority even as he noted the filibuster was a potent tool used against the civil rights legislation championed by Senator [Lyndon] Johnson."

But in the latest volume of Caro's Johnson biography, Master of the Senate, the filibuster isn't portrayed as sometimes good and sometimes bad. It is shown (accurately) to be unambiguously bad. He refers to it as the Senate's "peculiar institution," which of course is an allusion to slavery. He shows how it was repeatedly used to protect Jim Crow. He crafts a hero narrative around Senate Majority Leader Johnson's dazzling triumph over various rococo Senate obstructions to pass the first civil rights bill in nearly a century. Surely Caro grasps that the larger lesson isn't the greatness of Lyndon Johnson. It's that it shouldn't take somebody of unparalleled legislative genius to make the rusty machinery of the Senate do what the country demands.

Re: Public Airing of Stakes in Upcoming Supreme Court Vacancy Must Begin Now

Coming Supreme Court Debate Must Focus on Substance, Not Politics

It has been almost nine years since the last U.S. Supreme Court vacancy, the longest interval between nominations in 180 years. Indeed, over the past half century, there has been on the average one Supreme Court nomination every two years. It is considered likely that at least one member of the U.S. Supreme Court will resign when the current term ends this month, and it is quite possible that the vacancy or vacancies this summer will be the first of three or four openings on the Court over the next several years. At stake in the appointment of new Supreme Court justices is the law of the land for the next generation – or longer. At risk are many of the great social justice achievements of the 20th Century.

The Bush administration, Republican Senate leaders, and right-wing pundits and activists are already gearing up to turn the focus of a Supreme Court battle away from the substance of a nominee's legal and judicial philosophy – and the devastating impact of a right-wing dominated Supreme Court – and toward the so-called "obstructionism" of Senate Democrats and the legitimacy of a potential Senate filibuster against an extremist Supreme Court nominee.

It is urgent that public debate over Supreme Court nominees focus on crucial constitutional questions over which the current Court is closely divided, including the existence of a constitutional right to privacy, the authority of the federal government to enact and enforce civil rights and environmental protections, the separation of church and state, and more. Dozens of rights and legal protections Americans count on are just one or two Supreme Court justices away from being dismantled in pursuit of right-wing legal theorists' goal of reinstating a 19th Century approach to the U.S. Constitution.

A 19th Century Constitution for a 21st Century America

Two far-right justices, Antonin Scalia and Clarence Thomas, have led the destructive revival of a once-discredited "states' rights" approach to the Constitution. A series of 5-4 decisions have embraced new theories advanced by right-wing legal advocates affiliated with the Federalist Society, weakening federal civil rights protections and declaring other urgent issues off limits to action by the U.S. Congress. But even more important, Scalia and Thomas have staked out in their written dissents and concurring opinions a burning desire to have the Court move much more aggressively to overturn decades of Supreme Court precedent than even the current conservative majority has been willing to do.

REV_00402416

With President Bush having campaigned on a pledge to use Scalia and Thomas as his models for Supreme Court nominees, it is crucial that senators, the media, and the American public examine the impact on American law and society of a Supreme Court dominated by justices who are committed to radically restricting the authority of the federal government to protect individual rights and act in pursuit of the common good.

Scalia and Thomas, like many Bush administration officials and judicial nominees, are affiliated with the Federalist Society, which has held seminars on returning the nation's constitutional framework to a pre-New Deal era. (For more information on the philosophy and extraordinary influence of the Federalist Society on the Bush administration and its judicial selection process, see The Federalist Society: From Obscurity to Power, published by People For the American Way Foundation and available at www.pfaw.org/go/federalist\_society.)

People For the American Way Foundation's Courting Disaster, published in 2000, examined the dissenting and concurring opinions written by Scalia and Thomas since they joined the Court. Courting Disaster documented that a Supreme Court with a Scalia-Thomas majority could overturn more than 100 precedents and turn back the clock decades on civil and voting rights, privacy and reproductive choice, religious liberty, environmental protection, consumer and worker safety, and more. Because most cases before the Supreme Court that raise fundamental constitutional questions are now decided by slim majorities, it would take just one or two more appointments to give Scalia and Thomas the power to reshape the Constitution according to their radically reactionary vision.

The result would be a dramatic rollback in legal and social justice gains, and a return to a constitutional framework in which states' rights and property rights were predominant. A Supreme Court committed to advancing the Scalia-Thomas agenda would not only bring about the reversal of more than half a century of legal and social justice accomplishments, but also a return to a situation America faced in the first third of the 20th Century, when progressive legislation adopted by Congress and signed by the President was repeatedly rejected on constitutional grounds by the Supreme Court. A Court dominated by the states' rights judicial philosophy could prevent the federal government from taking action on a range of national issues, regardless of who is elected to the White House or Congress.

Courting Disaster and updates on the 2001 and 2002 Supreme Court terms are available at www.pfaw.org/go/courting\_disaster. A comprehensive update of the report will be available shortly after the close of the current term.

The Attack on the Senate's Advise and Consent Role

In our constitutional system of checks and balances, the Senate has a co-equal role with the President in appointing federal judges, since it must provide its "advice and consent" before any nominee becomes a judge. Judicial nominees – who are confirmed for lifetime appointments – must be subject to the highest standard of scrutiny. Federal judges' decisions – especially the rulings of Supreme Court justices – last long after the presidents who appointed them are no longer in office.

Given the power that rests with the Supreme Court, no president's nominee is presumptively entitled to confirmation. Instead, a nominee bears the burden of demonstrating that he or she meets the appropriate qualifications, which must include a demonstrated commitment to civil rights and individual liberties, and a clear respect for Congress' proper constitutional role in protecting constitutional and civil rights and the health and safety of all Americans.

Since President Bush has signaled both in word and in deed that he intends to nominate Supreme Court justices who do not share these commitments, senators have an urgent responsibility to take their constitutional obligation seriously and oppose with every appropriate means at their disposal the confirmation of Supreme Court justices who would wreak havoc on Americans' lives and liberties.

Going Nuclear

The White House, its right-wing allies, and some Senate Republicans are waging a pre-emptive war designed to eliminate one important tool at the disposal of senators concerned about extremist Supreme Court nominees – the Senate filibuster.

Ignoring the overwhelming confirmation rate of Bush administration judicial nominees, the administration and its backers have whipped up a dishonest and hypocritical campaign to discredit Senate Democrats' treatment of Bush nominees. This campaign has employed crude racial politics and outrageous smears, for example accusing opponents of appeals court nominee Miguel Estrada's confirmation of anti-Hispanic bigotry.

GOP leaders have now put the next step in motion, calling into question the constitutionality of the filibuster, even though both parties have repeatedly used filibusters for decades. The Senate Rules Committee will conduct a hearing this week on one proposal to change Senate rules to effectively eliminate this important procedural protection against the abuse of power by a bare majority acting on an issue of major importance. Sen. Trent Lott has joined the far-right chorus urging GOP leaders to go even further, adopting a "nuclear" strategy and carrying out a naked power play that would ignore Senate rules and lay waste to two hundred years of Senate tradition.

For a more detailed examination of the historical use and defense of the filibuster by GOP leaders including Lott, Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist and Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Orrin Hatch, see GOP Leaders Try to Create Constitutional Cover for Illegitimate Power Play, at www.pfaw.org/independent\_judiciary.

Appeals Court Nominees Give Clear Signal of Trouble to Come

As a presidential candidate, George W. Bush secured the enthusiastic support of Religious Right political leaders by telling them that he would appoint Supreme Court justices in the mold of Antonin Scalia and Clarence Thomas. As noted previously, if President Bush makes good on that pledge, far-right political groups will have succeeded in their ultimate quest. A Supreme Court with a Scalia-Thomas majority would likely give right-wing leaders long-term victories on a wide range of issues, including dismantling women's constitutional right to privacy and reproductive choice and further undermining the separation of church and state.

There is no evidence that President Bush intends to abandon his goal of using the federal courts to turn back the clock. Indeed, there is powerful evidence to the contrary. A number of his appeals court nominees are among the nation's most aggressive proponents of the neo-states' rights judicial philosophy, and have advocated for an end to reproductive choice, overturning federal laws protecting the rights of people with disabilities, dismantling key protections of the federal voting rights act, and more.

Among the administration's appeals court nominees:

- Carolyn Kuhl, a Federalist Society member and currently a California state trial court judge, has been nominated to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. While in the Justice Department under the Reagan Administration, Kuhl urged the Supreme Court to overturn Roe v. Wade as "flawed." She also played a key role in convincing then-Attorney General William French Smith to reverse prior policy and support the granting of tax-exempt status to Bob Jones University despite its racially discriminatory practices. (Her position was rejected by an 8-1 ruling of the Supreme Court.) Kuhl has been widely criticized for a ruling in which she dismissed the right to privacy claims of a breast cancer patient whose doctor permitted a drug company salesman to watch her breast and abdominal exam. Her ruling was unanimously reversed on appeal. Kuhl's nomination has been approved on a party-line vote by the Judiciary Committee; she is awaiting floor action in spite of opposition from both California Senators Dianne Feinstein and Barbara Boxer.
- Priscilla Owen, a Federalist Society member and currently a justice on the Texas Supreme Court, was nominated to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. Owen is at the far right wing of the conservative Texas court, further to the right than President Bush's own appointees to that court when he was governor. In one case in which Owen dissented, then-Texas Supreme Court Justice Alberto Gonzales - who is now chief White House counsel - warned that adopting the dissenters' view would be an "unconscionable act of judicial activism." (This was only one of 11 cases in which Gonzales criticized or joined other justices' criticism of positions taken by Owen during the short time they served on the court together.) In another dissent, Owen effectively sought to rewrite an important state civil rights law to make it much harder for employees to prove that their rights were violated. Owen's confirmation was rejected by the Senate Judiciary Committee on September 5, 2002; in an unprecedented move, she was renominated by President Bush this year. Her confirmation is being blocked by a Senate filibuster.
- Jeffrey Sutton, an officer in the Federalist Society's Separation of Powers and Federalism practice group, was narrowly confirmed by the Senate to a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. Sutton has been one of the nation's most aggressive advocates for severely limiting federal protections against discrimination and injury based on disability, race, age, sex, and religion. More than 70 national organizations and over 375 regional, state, and local groups opposed his confirmation. Sutton was confirmed by a vote of 52 to 41 on April 29, 2003.

- Terrence Boyle, a former staffer to Senator Jesse Helms and a district court judge in North Carolina, has been nominated to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. Civil rights groups have criticized Boyle for his right-wing judicial activism in civil rights cases. Boyle twice ruled that congressional redistricting in North Carolina was unconstitutional because it favored minority voters, but was reversed both times by the Supreme Court, once in a unanimous ruling. In another case, Boyle refused to accept a settlement of a Justice Department sex discrimination claim against a North Carolina agency, even though the state had agreed to the settlement. He later allowed the state to withdraw from the settlement, a ruling reversed by the court of appeals.
- Miguel Estrada, a Federalist Society member and D.C. lawyer, was nominated to the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals. His confirmation has been opposed by the Congressional Hispanic Caucus and a large group of Latino legal and civil rights organizations and community leaders. Estrada has been criticized for extensive efforts to defend so-called anti-loitering laws, which have been shown to have a disproportionately negative effect on African-Americans and Latinos; in one case, he argued that the NAACP did not even have standing to challenge such an ordinance. A former supervisor in the Solicitor General's office concluded that Estrada "lacks the judgement" and is "too much of an ideologue to be an appeals court judge." Estrada and the Bush administration have refused to fully answer a number of important questions asked by senators or provide relevant memos from his tenure at the Justice Department. Estrada's confirmation is currently being blocked by a Senate filibuster.
- Alabama Attorney General Bill Pryor is not only one of the nation's most aggressive advocates for a states' rights approach to the Constitution, but he has also used his office in an effort to push the law far to the right. As state Attorney General and as a leader in the Federalist Society, Pryor successfully urged the Supreme Court to roll back the clock on federal protections against age discrimination and discrimination against people with disabilities. Pryor has urged restrictions on federal authority even more extreme than those adopted by the narrow Supreme Court states' rights majority. For example, Pryor had urged the Court to rule that states could not be sued for money damages for violating the Family and Medical Leave Act, which would have left millions of state employees with no real recourse for violations of that law. In a recent 6-3 ruling, the Court rejected Pryor's argument. Pryor has urged Congress to consider repealing Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act, calling it "an affront to federalism and an expensive burden that has outlived its usefulness." Pryor believes that it is acceptable to imprison gay men and lesbians for having consensual sex in the privacy of their own homes, and has filed an amicus brief urging the Supreme Court to uphold Texas' "Homosexual Conduct Law." In his brief, he has equated private consensual sex between same-sex couples with "activities like prostitution, adultery, necrophilia, bestiality, possession of child pornography, and even incest and pedophilia." Pryor is a staunch opponent of a woman's right to reproductive choice and has stated that Roe v. Wade is "the worst abomination of constitutional law in our history." Pryor opposes genuine church-state separation and among other things has supported a state judge's official sponsorship of sectarian prayers before jury assemblies.

Senate Handling of President Bush's Nominees under Democratic Control

President Bush and Republican Senate leaders have falsely claimed that the administration's judicial nominees were not treated fairly during the time that Democrats held a majority in the Senate, and that Democrats are now engaged in partisan obstructionism as a minority party. In fact, Bush's judicial nominees have been confirmed at a rapid pace under both Democratic and Republican majorities in the Senate, and have been given far better treatment than President Clinton's nominees received at the hands of the Republican Senate majority.

The Senate under Democratic control confirmed 100 of President Bush's judicial nominees in 17 months. The 100 confirmations represent significantly more than the 71 judges confirmed during the first two years of the first Bush administration and the 75 confirmed during the first two years of Republican Senate control during the Clinton administration. The 100 confirmations are more than the number confirmed during any of the Republican controlled Congresses under President Clinton, when there was an average of only 38 confirmations per year. Indeed, Senate Republicans blocked one-third of Clinton's circuit court nominees from 1995 to 2000.

Since the beginning of this year, with the Senate in Republican hands, an additional 26 judges have been confirmed, cutting the number of vacancies in half since the beginning of the administration. In that time, Democrats have used the filibuster to block only two controversial appeals court nominees, while a number of other nominees have been permitted a full floor vote in spite of intense opposition. Amidst the talk of crisis and a broken system, one important fact is being overlooked: there are currently only 45 vacancies in the federal judiciary, less than half of the 111 vacancies that existed when the Democrats took control of the Senate in July 2001. Sen. Patrick Leahy has noted that the vacancy rate on the federal judiciary is at its lowest level in 13 years and is now lower than the national unemployment rate.

Conclusion

The next Supreme Court justices could prove decisive on fundamental questions as well as shape for decades how America works and how Americans live: Will the Supreme Court undermine the federal government's ability to safeguard the air we breathe and the water we drink? Will the courts abandon their role in preserving Americans' right to privacy and strip women of the constitutional right to make their own family planning and reproductive choices? Will Congress lose the power to protect Americans' civil rights from abuses by state governments and others? Will the Voting Rights Act be applied so narrowly that it fails to protect citizens' most fundamental rights?

This is a defining moment for the meaning of the Constitution and the direction of the nation for the first half of the 21st Century. That fact is clearly understood by right-wing leaders and their allies in the White House and Congress. That is why they have focused so intently on judicial nominations, and it is why they are prepared to go to extreme measures – including changing the very nature and role of the Senate in our constitutional system – in order to try to guarantee Senate approval for even the most extreme right-wing nominees.

It is urgent that the American people be given the opportunity to understand how much is at stake before the next Supreme Court vacancy appears and the debate becomes focused on politics and process surrounding a particular nominee. The time for a broad public discussion about the future of the Court and the Constitution is now.

You are the first to know . . . last night we received a telephone call that Vice President Dick Cheney has chosen West Michigan for an event on Monday, June 30th, and we are very excited about the Vice President's return. Let's show him our support.

Lunch – 12:00 PM

$1,000 per person

*Meijer Gardens
1000 East Ballentine NE
Grand Rapids, MI*

This year the campaign finance law allows a maximum contribution of $2,000 per person. Anyone who "maxes out" will also be invited to any future campaign events. Southeast Michigan will be contributing to our June 30th West Michigan event which is scheduled to build campaign totals before the June 30 filing to the FEC.

Our goal is to pack the room, pile up the checks, and get the Bush-Cheney campaign started off on the right foot. Will you help? Will you attend?

Yes, I am happy to attend the event – the attendees contributing $1,000 each that will be seated at my table will be:

- |          |           |
|----------|-----------|

We have worked on the piece I sent you last night. Basically, we are going to put the Bush-Cheney logo at the top and take out the part about the President in Dearborn (hasn't been approved yet). This is not a good letter but Amb. Secchia is insistent on sending this out. We will send out a formal invite that will be sent to you for approval.

Thanks for your help.

Address

Dear _____;

Here we go! Because it is “campaign time”, your hair shirt friend “Peter” is writing again.

We all know President George W. Bush has provided strong, steady, and decisive leadership during one of the most troubled and challenging times in our nation’s history.

You were one of the President’s major donors during the last cycle, and this year we would like you to consider a gift of $2,000 per person (for the entire campaign during the previous cycle there was a maximum of $1,000 per person).

Brett-- Below is invite for Bush-Cheney event in Michigan on the 30th. We're tinkering with Secchia's "wordsmithing", but if you could check legality of this and email that follows, I'd appreciate it. Courtney has a copy and wanted to make sure you saw it too. We're trying to get this done asap, as we're already behind the curve due to last minute location change.

Thanks,
Merrill

You are the first to know . . . last night we received a telephone call that Vice President Dick Cheney has chosen West Michigan for an event on Monday, June 30th, and we are very excited about the Vice President's return. Let's show him our support.

Lunch – 12:00 PM

$1,000 per person

*Meijer Gardens
1000 East Ballentine NE
Grand Rapids, MI*

This year the campaign finance law allows a maximum contribution of $2,000 per person. Anyone who "maxes out" will also be invited to any future campaign events. Southeast Michigan will be contributing to our June 30th West Michigan event which is scheduled to build campaign totals before the June 30 filing to the FEC.

Our goal is to pack the room, pile up the checks, and get the Bush-Cheney campaign started off on the right foot. Will you help? Will you attend?

Yes, I am happy to attend the event – the attendees contributing $1,000 each that will be seated at my table will be:

- |          |           |
|----------|-----------|
| 1. _____ | 4. _____  |
| 2. _____ | 5. _____  |
| 3. _____ | 6. _____  |
| 7. _____ | 8. _____  |
| 9. _____ | 10. _____ |

Sorry – I can't be there, but here is my check.

Use the attached form from the Bush-Cheney '04 campaign legal staff please

Merrill the other two pieces are attached.
We have worked on the piece I sent you last night. Basically, we are going to put the Bush-Cheney logo at the top and take out the part about the President in Dearborn (hasn't been approved yet). This is not a good letter but Amb. Secchia is insistent on sending this out. We will send out a formal invite that will be sent to you for approval.

Thanks for your help.

(Bush-Cheney '04 fundraising letter – list from campaign HQ's)

Address

Address

Dear _____;

Here we go! Because it is “campaign time”, your hair shirt friend “Peter” is writing again.

We all know President George W. Bush has provided strong, steady, and decisive leadership during one of the most troubled and challenging times in our nation’s history.

You were one of the President’s major donors during the last cycle, and this year we would like you to consider a gift of $2,000 per person (for the entire campaign during the previous cycle there was a maximum of $1,000 per person).

The President’s accomplishments since taking office are too long to include in this letter. Leadership, character, and a moral example are what this is all about. George W. Bush has returned dignity and honor to the White House.

I am asking you to contribute to his re-election campaign so that President Bush may continue to lead America in this first decade of the 21st century.

The new campaign law increased the maximum allowed for the presidential campaign cycle. So, if you cannot contribute the maximum of $2,000 per person . . . (that is $4,000 per couple), please do what you can. It all helps. We need your support for our early filings on June 30th.

Please make your check payable to “Bush-Cheney ’04, Inc.”, and then review and complete the enclosed contributor reply form. Please give this plea consideration.

Cordially,

Peter F. Secchia

Merrill the other two pieces are attached.
We have worked on the piece I sent you last night. Basically, we are going to put the Bush-Cheney logo at the top and take out the part about the President in Dearborn (hasn't been approved yet). This is not a good letter but Amb. Secchia is insistent on sending this out. We will send out a formal invite that will be sent to you for approval.

Thanks for your help.

PS: Are we good to go with the new location in Grand Rapids?

June 4, 2003
(House)

H.R. 2115 -- Flight 100 - Century of Aviation Reauthorization Act
(Rep. Young (R) Alaska and 3 cosponsors)

The Administration commends the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee for its continued support of the Nation's aviation system. Like the Administration's proposal, H.R. 2115 would authorize the aviation programs for four years without increasing taxes or fees on an industry that has been severely impacted by the attacks on September 11th.

However, the Administration strongly opposes provisions in H.R. 2115 which would:

- Restrict the Department of Transportation's ability to manage the air traffic control system by prohibiting the conversion of government-provided air traffic control functions to the private sector. Such restrictions are unnecessary and would hinder the ability of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to manage the air traffic control system. While performance of certain functions may in the future be conducted through contract, the management and policy responsibilities should remain with the FAA. If the bill were amended to include the even more far reaching provisions of H.R. 1711, the Air Traffic Control System Integrity Act), the President's senior advisors would recommend that he veto the bill.
- Require that an impasse in labor negotiations between the FAA and National Association of Air Traffic Specialists be referred to the Federal Service Impasses Panel to be resolved by binding arbitration. The original reasons why Congress decided how such impasses should be resolved have not changed, and there is no reasonable basis for modifying this procedure for a single instance of collective bargaining.
- Grant to certain Federal employees who have ceased to be air traffic controllers the same preferred retirement benefits that air traffic controllers receive.
- [-- Evade the principle that the full costs of Federal spending decisions should be reflected in the Budget when the Government commits to making the expenditures by establishing a pilot program under which certain airport systems could be purchased using long-term contracts.]

The Administration will work with Congress to ensure, in the version of the bill presented to the President, that: (1) spending during the authorization period conforms to the amounts requested by the Administration; (2) environmental streamlining provisions include safety projects and are optimized to promote their intended goals; (3) the ability of the Transportation Security Administration to take action against security threats is not hindered by excessive layers of review; (4) the Aviation War Risk Insurance program remains focused on aircraft used to support

U.S. military and foreign policy objectives; (5) no provisions could be perceived as contrary to the trade policy or obligations of the United States; (6) the ability of airports to use Airport Improvement Program grants for security-related replacements of baggage conveyors or reconfigurations of baggage areas is not curtailed; (7) entities are not made eligible for grants or other compensation solely because they incurred costs to comply with Federal security requirements; (8) the appointment of members and the operation of any committees or commissions created by the bill are consistent with the appointments clause of the Constitution and the President's constitutional authority to supervise the unitary executive branch and make recommendations to Congress; (9) provisions regarding the use of space by the FAA at airports do not impose costs which preclude the continued provision of essential services by FAA; and (10) any provision for airline collaboration or coordinated capacity reduction preserves competition to the maximum extent possible.

Dear Mr. Chairman:

The Department of State appreciates the opportunity to review and comment on the "Burmese Freedom and Democracy Act of 2003" which you introduced on June 4, 2003. We share your concern that the military regime in Burma, the State Peace and Development Council (SPDC), continues to engage in egregious human rights violations against Burmese citizens and has failed to transfer power to the National League for Democracy (NLD), despite its overwhelming parliamentary victory in the 1990 elections.

The intent behind your draft legislation is laudable. Many of the measures proposed in the draft legislation are already being undertaken. For example, we have directed a unilateral expansion of the visa ban, extending it to all officials of the Union Solidarity Development Association (part of the SPDC) and their immediate families, rather than just to senior officials. We will also be adding managers of the state-run enterprises and their families. The EU visa ban is based on named individuals, and ours is based on categories. We are working with the EU to review any differences.

Our voice and vote in the IFIs ensures that we oppose loans that benefit the military regime. We have expressed strong support for the NLD in every possible international forum in which the United States participates, to include all UN organs in which we are members. Equally significant, our annual Human Rights Report identifies and strongly condemns all known SPDC abuses. The President's Annual Report on Major Drug Transit Nations has also identified Burma as a country that has failed demonstrably to meet its international obligations regarding narcotics.

The Honorable
Mitch McConnell, Chairman,
Subcommittee on Foreign Operations,
Committee on Appropriations,
United States Senate.

We support a number of your proposals, and we are considering the concept of an asset freeze and an import ban. We are also considering some additional measures to penalize this corrupt regime that go beyond those envisioned in your legislation. These include a possible ban on remittances and, with appropriate legislation, a ban on travel to Burma. Such steps must be considered carefully to ensure their compliance with our international obligations, including WTO compliance.

We look forward to working with you on the bill.

Richard L. Armitage

108TH CONGRESS
1ST SESSION

S. _____

---

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES

Mr. MCCONNELL introduced the following bill; which was read twice and referred to the Committee on _____

---

A BILL

To sanction the ruling Burmese military junta, to strengthen Burma’s democratic forces and support and recognize the National League of Democracy as the legitimate representative of the Burmese people, and for other purposes.

1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representa-
2 tives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

3 SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

4 This Act may be cited as the “Burmese Freedom and 5 Democracy Act of 2003”.

6 SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

7 Congress makes the following findings:

1       who is banned from obtaining a visa by the Euro-
2       pean Union for the reasons described in paragraph 3       (1) is also banned from receiving a visa from the 4       United States.

5       (b) PUBLICATION.—The Secretary of State shall post
6       on the Department of State’s website the names of individ-
7       uals whose entry into the United States is banned under 8       subsection (a).

9       SEC. 7. CONDEMNATION OF THE REGIME AND DISSEMINA-
10       TION OF INFORMATION.

11       (a) IN GENERAL.—Congress encourages the Sec-
12       retary of State to highlight the abysmal record of the 13       SPDC to the international community and use all appro-
14       priate fora, including the Association of Southeast Asian 15       Nations Regional Forum and Asian Nations Regional 16       Forum, to encourage other states to restrict financial re-
17       sources to the SPDC and Burmese companies while offer-
18       ing political recognition and support to Burma’s demo-
19       cratic movement including the National League for De-
20       mocracy and Burma’s ethnic groups.

21       (b) UNITED STATES EMBASSY.—The United States
22       embassy in Rangoon shall take all steps necessary to pro-
23       vide access of information and United States policy deci-
24       sions to media organs not under the control of the ruling
25       military regime.

1 SEC. 8. SUPPORT DEMOCRACY ACTIVISTS IN BURMA.

2 (a) IN GENERAL.—The President is authorized to 3 use all available resources to assist Burmese democracy
4 activists dedicated to nonviolent opposition to the regime
5 in their efforts to promote freedom, democracy, and 6 human rights in Burma, including a listing of constraints
7 on such programming.

8 (b) REPORTS.—

9 (1) FIRST REPORT.—Not later than 3 months
10 after the date of enactment of this Act, the Sec-
11 retary of State shall provide the Committees on Ap-
12 propriations and Foreign Relations of the Senate
13 and the Committees on Appropriations and Inter-
14 national Relations of the House of Representatives
15 a comprehensive report on its short- and long-term
16 programs and activities to support democracy activ-
17 ists in Burma, including a list of constraints on such 18 programming.

19 (2) REPORT ON RESOURCES.—Not later than 6
20 months after the date of enactment of this Act, the 21 Secretary of State shall provide the Committees on 22 Appropriations and Foreign Relations of the Senate
23 and the Committees on Appropriations and Inter-
24 national Relations of the House of Representatives
25 a report identifying resources that will be necessary

1 for the reconstruction of Burma, after the SPDC is 2 removed from power, including—

3 (A) the formation of democratic institu-
4 tions;

5 (B) establishing the rule of law;

6 (C) establishing freedom of the press;

7 (D) providing for the successful reintegra-
8 tion of military officers and personnel into Bur-
9 mese society; and

10 (E) providing health, educational, and eco-
11 nomic development.

1           (1) The State Peace and Development Council
2           (SPDC) has failed to transfer power to the National 3           League for Democracy (NLD) whose parliamentar-
4           ians won an overwhelming victory in the 1990 elec-
5           tions in Burma.

6           (2) The SPDC has failed to enter into meaning-
7           ful, political dialogue with the NLD and ethnic mi-
8           norities and has dismissed the efforts of United Na-
9           tions Special Envoy Razali bin Ismail to further
10          such dialogue.

11          (3) According to the State Department's "Re-
12          port to the Congress Regarding Conditions in 13          Burma and U.S. Policy Toward Burma" dated 14          March 28, 2003, the SPDC has become "more
15          confrontational" in its exchanges with the NLD.

16          (4) On May 30, 2003, the SPDC, threatened by 17          continued support for the NLD throughout Burma,
18          brutally attacked NLD supporters, killed and in-
19          jured scores of civilians, and arrested democracy ad-
20          vocate Aung San Suu Kyi and other activists.

21          (5) The SPDC continues egregious human
22          rights violations against Burmese citizens, uses rape
23          as a weapon of intimidation and torture against 24          women, and forcibly conscripts child-soldiers for the 25          use in fighting indigenous ethnic groups.

1           (6) The SPDC has demonstrably failed to co-
2 operate with the United States in stopping the flood
3 of heroin and methamphetamines being grown, re-
4 fined, manufactured, and transported in areas under 5 the control of the SPDC serving to flood the region
6 and much of the world with these illicit drugs.

7           (7) The SPDC provides safety, security, and 8 engages in business dealings with narcotics traf-
9 fickers under indictment by United States authori-
10 ties, and other producers and traffickers of nar-
11 cotics.

12           (8) The International Labor Organization
13 (ILO), for the first time in its 82-year history,
14 adopted in 2000, a resolution recommending that 15 governments, employers, and workers organizations
16 take appropriate measures to ensure that their rela-
17 tions with the SPDC do not abet the government-
18 sponsored system of forced, compulsory, or slave
19 labor in Burma, and that other international bodies
20 reconsider any cooperation they may be engaged in 21 with Burma and, if appropriate, cease as soon as 22 possible any activity that could abet the practice of 23 forced, compulsory, or slave labor.

24           (9) The SPDC has integrated the Burmese
25 military and its surrogates into all facets of the

1 economy effectively destroying any free enterprise
2 system.

3 (10) Investment in Burmese companies and
4 purchases from them serve to provide the SPDC
5 with currency that is used to finance its instruments
6 of terror and repression against the Burmese people.

7 (11) On April 15, 2003, the American Apparel
8 and Footwear Association expressed its “strong sup-
9 port for a full and immediate ban on U.S. textiles,
10 apparel and footwear imports from Burma” and 11 called upon the United States Government to “im-12 pose an outright ban on U.S. imports” of these 13 items until Burma demonstrates respect for basic 14 human and labor rights of its citizens.

15 (12) The policy of the United States, as articu-
16 lated by the President on April 24, 2003, is to offi-
17 cially recognize the NLD as the legitimate represent-18 ative of the Burmese people as determined by the 19 1990 election.

20 SEC. 3. BAN AGAINST TRADE THAT SUPPORTS THE MILI-
21 TARY REGIME OF BURMA.

22 (a) GENERAL BAN.—

23 (1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other
24 provision of law, until such time as the President de-
25 termines and certifies to Congress that Burma has

1 met the conditions described in paragraph (3), no
2 article may be imported into the United States that
3 is produced, mined, manufactured, grown, or assem-
4 bled in Burma.

5 (2) BAN ON IMPORTS FROM CERTAIN COMPA-
6 NIES.—The import restrictions contained in para-
7 graph (1) shall apply to, among other entities—

8 (A) the SPDC, any ministry of the SPDC,
9 a member of the SPDC or an immediate family
10 member of such member;

11 (B) known narcotics traffickers from 12 Burma or an immediate family member of such 13 narcotics trafficker;

14 (C) the Union of Myanmar Economics
15 Holdings Incorporated (UMEHI) or any com-
16 pany in which the UMEHI has a fiduciary in-
17 terest;

18 (D) the Myanmar Economic Corporation
19 (MEC) or any company in which the MEC has 20 a fiduciary interest;

21 (E) the Union Solidarity and Development
22 Association (USDA); and

23 (F) any successor entity for the SPDC,
24 UMEHI, MEC, or USDA.

1           (3) CONDITIONS DESCRIBED.—The conditions
2 described in this paragraph are the following:

3           (A) The SPDC has made substantial and 4 measurable progress to end violations of inter-
5 nationally recognized human rights including
6 rape, and the Secretary of State, after consulta-
7 tion with the ILO Secretary General and rel-
8 evant nongovernmental organizations, reports to 9 the appropriate congressional committees that 10 the SPDC no longer systematically violates 11 workers rights, including the use of forced and 12 child labor, and conscription of child-soldiers.

13           (B) The SPDC has made measurable and 14 substantial progress toward implementing a
15 democratic government including—

16                   (i) releasing all political prisoners;

17                   (ii) allowing freedom of speech and 18 the press;

19                   (iii) allowing freedom of association;

20                   (iv) permitting the peaceful exercise of 21 religion; and

22                   (v) bringing to a conclusion an agree-
23 ment between the SPDC and the demo-
24 cratic forces led by the NLD and Burma's
25 ethnic nationalities on the transfer of

1 power to a civilian government accountable
2 to the Burmese people through democratic 3 elections under the rule of law.

4 (C) Pursuant to the terms of section 706
5 of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act,
6 Fiscal Year 2003 (Public Law 107–228),
7 Burma has not failed demonstrably to make
8 substantial efforts to adhere to its obligations
9 under international counternarcotics agree-
10 ments and to take other effective counter-
11 narcotics measures, including the arrest and ex-
12 tradition of all individuals under indictment in 13 the United States for narcotics trafficking, and 14 concrete and measurable actions to stem the 15 flow of illicit drug money into Burma’s banking
16 system and economic enterprises and to stop 17 the manufacture and export of 18 methamphetamines.

19 (4) APPROPRIATE CONGRESSIONAL COMMIT-
20 TEES.—In this subsection, the term “appropriate 21 congressional committees” means the Committees on 22 Foreign Relations and Appropriations of the Senate
23 and the Committees on International Relations and 24 Appropriations of the House of Representatives.

25 (b) WAIVER AUTHORITIES.—

1           (1) IN GENERAL.—The President may waive
2 the prohibitions described in this section for any or 3 all products imported from Burma to the United 4 States if the President determines and notifies the 5 Committees on Appropriations and Foreign Rela-
6 tions of the Senate and the Committees on Appro-
7 priations and International Relations of the House
8 of Representatives that to do so is in the national 9 security interest of the United States.

10           (2) INTERNATIONAL OBLIGATIONS.—The Presi-
11 dent may waive any provision of this Act found to 12 be in violation of any international obligations of the 13 United States pursuant to any final ruling relating 14 to Burma under the dispute settlement procedures
15 of the World Trade Organization.

16           (c) DURATION OF TRADE BAN.—The President may 17 terminate the restrictions contained in this Act upon the 18 request of a democratically elected government in Burma, 19 provided that all the conditions in subsection (a)(3) have 20 been met.

21 SEC. 4. FREEZING ASSETS OF THE BURMESE REGIME IN 22 THE UNITED STATES.

23           Not later than 60 days after the date of enactment
24 of this Act, the Secretary of the Treasury shall direct, and 25 promulgate regulations to the same, that any United

1 States financial institution holding funds belonging to the 2 SPDC or the assets of those individuals who hold senior
3 positions in the SPDC or its political arm, the Union Soli-
4 darity Development Association, shall promptly report
5 those assets to the Office of Foreign Assets Control. The 6 Secretary of the Treasury may take such action as may 7 be necessary to secure such assets or funds.

8 SEC. 5. LOANS AT INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITU-
9 TIONS.

10 The Secretary of the Treasury shall instruct the 11 United States executive director to each appropriate inter-
12 national financial institution in which the United States
13 participates, to oppose, and vote against the extension by 14 such institution of any loan or financial or technical assist-
15 ance to Burma until such time as the conditions described 16 in section 3(a)(3) are met.

17 SEC. 6. EXPANSION OF VISA BAN.

18 (a) IN GENERAL.—

19 (1) VISA BAN.—The President is authorized to 20 deny visas and entry to the former and present lead-
21 ership of the SPDC or the Union Solidarity Develop-
22 ment Association.

23 (2) UPDATES.—The Secretary of State shall co-
24 ordinate on a biannual basis with representatives of 25 the European Union to ensure that an individual

June 9, 2003

MEMORANDUM FOR WHITE HOUSE OFFICE STAFF
OFFICE OF POLICY DEVELOPMENT STAFF
NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL STAFF
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATION STAFF

FROM: ALBERTO R. GONZALES, COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT: NATIONAL COMMISSION ON TERRORIST ATTACKS "EOP

Please read this entire memorandum carefully. It deals with legal obligations that apply to you.

The National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States ("Commission") was established in the legislative branch, principally to inquire into, and report to the President and Congress on, the terrorists attacks of September 11, 2001 and the extent of U.S. preparedness for and immediate response to the attacks (Public Law 107-306, November 27, 2002). The Executive Office of the President (EOP) is cooperating with the Commission effort, consistent with the policy set forth in the memorandum of March 19, 2003 from the President's Chief of Staff.

The Commission has submitted "EOP Document Request No. 2" (attached) seeking executive materials from the EOP. The first category of materials sought by "EOP Document Request No. 2" will be the subject of a separate memorandum. The remaining categories are:

2. The President's Daily Diary for September 11, 2001, and logs from the White House Situation Room, the Presidential Emergency Operations Center (PEOC), and the White House Military Office for September 11, 2001.
3. Contemporaneous notes of individuals present in the PEOC or accompanying the President on September 11, 2001, including notes of White House officials other than the President.
4. The briefing materials prepared or compiled by White House staff and distributed to attendees for; any summaries prepared or compiled by White House staff and distributed to attendees of the discussions held at and/or conclusions emerging from; and any minutes prepared or compiled by White House staff of meetings at the principals or deputies level, including the Domestic Consequences Principals Committee, from September 11 through September 20, 2001 that concerned domestic policy responses to the terrorist attacks upon the United States.
5. Information sufficient to describe the activation and implementation of continuity of operations and emergency response plans and measures for the White House complex on September 11, 2001.

REV_00403327

You must complete the following steps expeditiously:

1. Search for all materials you possess or control that fall within any of the categories set forth above. Your search for materials must be reasonable, diligent, and conducted in good faith, and must include any materials which may previously have been sent to the Office of Records Management. Retrieve all materials that fall within any of the categories set forth above and photocopy them.
2. Complete the attached certification, attach any photocopies produced under Step 1, and submit the certification and photocopies to Elizabeth Farrell 456-5942, EEOB Room 154, as early as possible but in all events not later than the close of business on Monday, June 16, 2003.

Also, please be aware that we anticipate additional Commission requests for information concerning the extent of U.S. preparedness for and immediate response to the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001. It is important that you and your staff preserve all records which may potentially be responsive to this or a future request.

Please call Jennifer Newstead, Associate White House Counsel, at 456-1984, if you have any questions. Thank you for your assistance.

The Pragmatic Chief Justice

He'll Look Better When He's Gone

by Simon Lazarus

Sunday, June 8, 2003: Page B03

Whether Supreme Court Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist resigns at the end of the court's term this month or waits until a second Bush term, his reign is likely to look kinder and gentler in retrospect than the one his liberal critics have often described. In 1986, Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell urged his fellow Democrats to oppose Rehnquist's elevation from associate to chief justice because he considered the nominee "totally hostile to the rights of women and minorities," with a mind "closed on the issues of race." Last year, American University constitutional law expert Herman Schwartz lamented that under Rehnquist's leadership, "Ronald Reagan's efforts to reshape the American judiciary have succeeded."

But in time, the critics will mellow as it becomes clear that the Rehnquist term has sustained, not overturned, the major works of his predecessors, Chief Justices Earl Warren and Warren Burger. More important, the Rehnquist term will appear more pragmatic and centrist than it does now because the court under his successor is likely to lurch much further to the right.

What Rehnquist has done over the past decade by expounding his philosophy of "federalism," which shifts power from the government to the states, is to lay the doctrinal groundwork for a genuinely radical transformation of the federal government's authority to make and enforce social policy. He has set the table. The feast awaits his successor.

To put the Rehnquist record in perspective, recall the great constitutional controversies of the past half-century: Forty years ago, "Impeach Earl Warren" bumper stickers were ubiquitous, in response to three blockbuster decisions -- Brown v. Board of Education (1954), which mandated racial desegregation in public schools; Baker v. Carr (1962), which required all legislative election districts to be apportioned equally on a one-man, one-vote basis; and Miranda v. Arizona (1966), which declared that confessions in criminal cases must be excluded unless the suspect had first been warned of his right to counsel and to remain silent. The Burger Court's blockbuster was Roe v. Wade (1973), which legalized abortion. Despite the bumper stickers, and the campaign promises of presidents Nixon and Reagan to select judges who would overturn Miranda and Roe, all four of those precedents stand today.

Today Brown, of course, enjoys iconic status (though in 1953, while serving as a Supreme Court law clerk, Rehnquist recommended against outlawing segregation). Baker is so uncontroversial that few remember that Congress nearly passed a constitutional amendment to overturn it. Miranda was reaffirmed in 1999, in a 7-2 decision written by Rehnquist himself. His court has twice reaffirmed Roe, though Rehnquist himself dissented.

Barely a week ago, the contrast between the court's pragmatic present and its potentially doctrinaire future was vividly displayed when the chief justice stunned observers by writing a 6-3 decision not to block state government workers from suing their employers for violating the 1993 Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA).

Since the mid-1990s, the five "conservative" justices (Rehnquist, Antonin Scalia, Clarence Thomas, Anthony Kennedy and Sandra Day O'Connor) had stuck together in decision after decision to pare back congressional authority over the states. In 2000 they invalidated provisions of the 1967 Age Discrimination in Employment Act empowering state employees to sue their employers for violations. A year later, the same majority stripped state employees of their right to sue for violations of the Americans with Disabilities Act. So this year, most observers expected the majority to make short shrift of the attempt of a Nevada state employee to sue when he was fired in alleged violation of the FMLA, in Nevada Department of Human Resources v. Hibbs.

Certainly nothing in the chief justice's record suggested that he would vote to subordinate state sovereignty to the FMLA, much less write the opinion. He is the principal architect of the court's current drive to strengthen state "sovereignty" and "dignity," as he and his colleagues often put it in decisions, and to limit congressional authority to powers specifically "enumerated" in the Constitution. It is the only real innovation of his tenure. Until the mid-1990s, when Rehnquist assembled his pro-states' rights majority, his court played only defense -- reacting to the civil rights and liberties doctrines of the Warren-Burger Court agenda. But since 1995, the conservative majority has been on the offense with an agenda of its own.

So why did Rehnquist abruptly switch sides in the Hibbs case? The most plausible reason is a simple one: damage control. Rehnquist probably figured he had lost O'Connor's vote to her often-expressed aversion to gender discrimination. Hence, his side would lose 5-4 anyway. If he went along with the majority, it wouldn't change the result but would give him the chance to name who wrote the opinion. (The chief justice has that privilege for whichever side he is on.) So he could name himself and keep one of the opponents of his federalism cause from writing an opinion that might do it more long-term harm. And, indeed, Rehnquist's opinion is laced with deft caveats and qualifications that could make it comparatively easy for future courts to distinguish this case, and treat it as an aberration rather than a significant precedent.

But if Rehnquist appears in the Hibbs case as a pragmatic and judicious moderate, his dissenting colleagues on the right -- Justices Scalia, Thomas and Kennedy -- showcase the historic sweep of their uncompromising assault on congressional power. Particularly revealing is Kennedy's scornful dismissal of FMLA, which requires employers to grant a minimum of 12 weeks of unpaid leave per year for "family and medical" reasons. Kennedy called this an unjustified "entitlement program" -- an affirmative grant of rights -- rather than a legitimate remedy for discrimination.

This argument echoed the decisions of a Supreme Court majority just after the Civil War that were aimed at shelving the 14th Amendment and blocking development of a nationwide code of federally protected individual rights. The current majority has recently revived some of these long-dormant cases of the 1870s and 1880s, which undermined Reconstruction.

Most remarkably, in his Hibbs dissent, Justice Kennedy directly attacked a landmark precedent from the modern civil rights era. He quoted at length (and cited as if it were law) a 1966 dissenting opinion that disputed the legality of the nationwide ban on voter literacy tests.

These sparks from the Hibbs debate about Congress's power to enforce civil rights shed light on the president's oft-repeated pledge to nominate judges like Scalia and Thomas. To the devoutly conservative administration lawyers who recommend judicial candidates to the president, this is not simply a campaign slogan. To them, it means like Scalia and Thomas and not like Souter or O'Connor or even Rehnquist.

The odds are that the Senate will soon have a chance to determine whether the Supreme Court will continue in the mold of the Rehnquist Court -- usually to the right of center but cautious, sometimes messy, and in major cases, often unpredictable -- or whether the next chief justice will have the inclination and the votes to take the court, and the country, in a very different direction.

Members of the plaintiffs' bar have been giving a "heads up" to hedge funds in advance of class-action court filings, allowing the funds to short sell the stock of companies targeted in the suits for millions of dollars in profits, two witnesses have told a congressional subcommittee. The witnesses asked the Securities and Exchange Commission to investigate the alleged practices. The Long and Short of Hedge Funds: Effects of Strategies for Managing Market Risk, hearing held (U.S. House Comm. on Fin. Servs., 5/22/2003).

The allegations were made at a May 22 hearing before the House Committee on Financial Services' Subcommittee on Capital Markets, Insurance and Government titled, "The Long and Short of Hedge Funds: Effects of Strategies for Managing Market Risk."

Terry F. Lenzner, chairman of Investigative Group International, called the alleged collusion between trial lawyers and hedge funds an "unholy alliance" while Paul D. Kamenar of the Washington Legal Foundation said the SEC had "overlooked or ignored" the practice.

Hedge funds are unregulated private funds for sophisticated investors that use various investment strategies to make profits for investors, including leveraged short sales. According to the SEC, there are 6,000 to 7,000 hedge funds in the United States worth $650 billion.

Short sales are a bet that the price of the targeted stock will decline. A short-seller borrows a specific number of shares of a targeted company from a broker and sells them for cash. When the price of the targeted stock declines, the short-seller uses the cash to buy more shares at the lower price. After paying the broker a fee and the exact number of shares borrowed, the short-seller pockets the extra shares as a profit.

"Evidence suggests that trial attorneys who file class-action lawsuits may be selectively providing short-sellers and others with information as to when the lawsuit against a publicly traded company will be filed with the court," Kamenar said in prepared testimony. "The stock in the company is sold short before the suit is filed, and profits are realized when the price of the stock falls after the suit is filed and made public."

The Washington Legal Foundation, a Washington, D.C.-based public interest law and policy center, has been after abusive short selling since at least Jan. 21, 2003, when it filed a complaint with the SEC asking for an investigation into the allegedly suspicious short selling of J.C. Penney Co. stock in 2001. The short sales by a New Jersey hedge fund occurred just before a class-action suit was filed against J.C. Penney subsidiary Eckerd Drug Stores for alleged drug overpricing. The Florida Attorney General's Office later determined that Eckerd had not overcharged customers.

"Attorneys who have practiced in this area have told us that the J.C. Penney case is not an isolated case," Kamenar said, adding that the SEC should be held accountable for failing to curtail abusive short selling by hedge funds and others.

IGI's Lenzner said that collusion between trial lawyers and short-sellers smacked of insider trading and market manipulation. Investigative Group International is a research company headquartered in Washington, D.C., with 17 years of experience "gathering accurate intelligence with utmost discretion in complex corporate, financial and legal matters," according to its Web site.

"We have observed a strong correlation between companies subject to short-selling attacks and the rate at which those companies become defendants in class-action lawsuits brought by plaintiffs' attorneys," Lenzner said in prepared testimony. "In some cases, this is more than coincidence: there have been instances of collusion and communication between the short-seller and the plaintiff's attorneys."

As an example of what Lenzner called an "unholy alliance," he said a trial lawyer from one of the biggest plaintiff firms in the country was a member of the board of directors of a nonprofit hedge fund association composed of short-sellers. The lawyer's firm allegedly leaked information about an impending regulatory suit and class action against Dynegy Corp. to a hedge fund, which short sold the targeted company and made a purported $150 million profit.

"In sum, the Dynegy case stands as a litany of excesses - trading on material proprietary corporate information," Lenzner said, adding that further investigation by the SEC would "disclose an historical pattern of comparable incidents that have damaged American corporations, in many cases unfairly."

Bill Pryor's Turn

By Douglas W. Kmiec

We are edging closer to the end of an important Supreme Court term, and to the resolution of cases dealing with everything from California's attempt to censor Nike's commercial speech, to Michigan's efforts to skew law school and college admissions by race to promote diversity, and Texas's criminal prohibition of homosexual sodomy. Yet these cases are overshadowed by off-stage dramas: constitutional doubts over the Democratic practice of judicial filibusters, and continued partisan skirmishing over district court nominees. These sideshows spell trouble for the speculated final act of Chief Justice William Rehnquist and possibly Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, rumored to be contemplating retirement to allow a president from the party which appointed them to appoint their successors.

REV_00403491

certain

states and counties that have had civil rights problems, is an expensive burden to the states and has outlived its usefulness.

-- Pryor has been a strong supporter of Alabama Supreme Court Justice Roy Moore's display of the Ten Commandments. He also has battled with the American Civil Liberties Union in a school prayer case from Alabama.

-- Pryor argued that Alabama prison guards have the right to handcuff state prisoners to hitching posts in the summer heat. The U.S. Supreme Court ruled the practice is cruel and unusual, dismissing Pryor's argument that the prison guards should be given legal immunity.

-- A strong state's rights advocate, Pryor won a Supreme Court case that found the Americans With Disabilities Act doesn't apply to state employees. He also cited federal intrusion on states' rights to argue against part of the Voting Rights Act and enforcement of the Clean Air Act.

-- Pryor is a staunch abortion foe and has been critical of the Supreme Court's Roe v.

Wade decision.

-- In a recent friend of the court brief in a Texas case, Pryor likened homosexual acts to prostitution, necrophilia and incest.

Critics of the nomination believe the White House has chosen conservative nominees like Pryor to appease the right wing of Republican Party and make it easier for Bush to take more moderate positions on other issues.

From advocate to judge

"Pryor is no stealth nominee," said Bograd of the Alliance for Justice, "He is an ideological extremist, and our biggest problem is choosing which outrageous quotations as examples to use."

Richard Cohen, general counsel of the Southern Poverty Law Center in Montgomery, said

Pryor's activism as attorney general may lead Democrats to believe he lacks the dispassionate judgment needed to sit on an appellate court.

"Being a judge is an issue of wisdom and, when you've made a career out of pursuing a particular agenda and you're so young, one might wonder if it's time for you to sit in judgment of your fellow citizens," Cohen said.

Sessions, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said the question of whether Pryor can make the transition from advocate to judge is a legitimate one for his Democratic colleagues to ask.

"I think Bill will handle their questions very well," Sessions said. "One of his strengths is that none of his (controversial) decisions were taken lightly. ... He's taken unpopular positions when he thinks it's the law."

Pryor blasted by critics in twin reports

Senate Judiciary Committee to begin hearing Wednesday on Alabama attorney general's nomination to federal bench

06/10/03

By SEAN REILLY

Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON -- Two days before a Senate committee takes its first look at Alabama Attorney General Bill Pryor's bid to join a federal appeals court, several opposition groups issued reports Monday urging lawmakers to scuttle his nomination.

"We believe that he poses an enormous threat to the rights, protections and freedoms of all Americans," said Ralph G. Neas, president of the People for the American Way, which describes itself as a social justice organization with some 600,000 members around the country. "He is certainly one of the most dangerous judicial nominees" put forth by the Bush administration, Neas said.

In a 43-page review sent to all 19 members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, People for the American Way accuses the 41-year-old Mobile native of seeking to undermine constitutional safeguards that guarantee a women's right to an abortion, keep government from sponsoring an official religion, and limit the majority's ability to impose its views on a particular minority.

Although Pryor has been only partially successful in advancing that right-wing agenda, the report states, "the situation would be far different ... if (he) were an appellate judge deciding these critical questions of constitutional and statutory interpretation."

A second blast came Monday from Americans United for Separation of Church and State, another Washington organization that has tussled with Pryor over government support for school prayer and display of the Ten Commandments in public buildings.

In a much shorter overview of Pryor's record as attorney general, Americans United called him "a hard-line, right-wing ideologue bent on radically undermining core constitutional freedoms.

"Lifetime seats on the federal bench should be reserved for dispassionate judges of constitutional law, not politicians who espouse radical agendas."

Representatives of both groups plan to join other critics at a news conference in Washington this afternoon, publicly pressing the Senate to reject Pryor's candidacy. Their research was drawn largely from Pryor's voluminous speeches and legal filings, some readily available on the attorney general's Web site at www.ago.state.al.us.

Two months after his nomination by President Bush for the seat on the Atlanta-based 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Pryor, a Republican, is slated to appear at a hearing Wednesday morning before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Democrats on the panel have already signaled that they plan some aggressive questioning of his views on abortion, civil rights and treatment of state prisoners. Pryor has repeatedly condemned the U.S. Supreme Court's 1973 decision legalizing abortion and successfully pursued a legal challenge that limited state workers' ability to sue for discrimination under a landmark federal disability law. In a losing cause, he also argued that Alabama prison guards could not be sued for disciplining inmates by handcuffing them to an outdoor hitching post.

"I know Bill's philosophy will be to answer questions as long as they want," his friend and mentor, U.S. Sen. Jeff Sessions, R-Mobile, said last week in anticipation of the Wednesday hearing. "I'm hopeful that it would not be particularly hostile."

To Sessions and other supporters, Pryor is a brilliant and principled lawyer whose views -- far from being radical -- have repeatedly prevailed with federal judges.

Under Pryor's leadership, "Alabama has one of the best records of any state" in winning cases before the U.S. Supreme Court, said Larry Childs, a Birmingham lawyer and former colleague who has been acting as an unofficial spokesman during the nomination process.

"It is curious, and even laughable, that these liberal extremist groups are criticizing Bill Pryor as being outside the mainstream of American law for cases in which the Supreme Court ruled in his favor," Childs said via e-mail.

A spokeswoman for Judiciary Committee Chairman Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, could not be reached for comment Monday. Under standard procedures, the Republican-controlled panel will wait at least until next week before holding a vote on sending Pryor's nomination to the full Senate. If that occurs, Democrats could face a difficult decision over whether to filibuster his nomination -- a move that would effectively require 60 votes for confirmation instead of a simple majority of 51.

Pryor, furthermore, was hand-picked by the White House. He co-chaired Bush's presidential campaign in Alabama three years ago and has a close relationship with the president's top political adviser, Karl Rove, who managed Pryor's 1998 campaign for a full term as attorney general.

In an unusual twist, Bush nominated Pryor for the appellate court in April after his original choice for the post --then-U.S. Magistrate Judge William Steele of Mobile -- failed to get a Judiciary Committee hearing during the 2001-02 session of Congress.

As Pryor recounted in his response to a committee questionnaire, the White House asked him last December whether he would be interested in interviewing for the appellate judgeship. He spoke a few days later with Alberto Gonzales, the administration's chief lawyer, and submitted the paperwork for the FBI background check in early January.

Like other federal appellate courts, the 11th Circuit is one rung below the U.S. Supreme Court. Because the high court only accepts a handful of cases each year, the 12 judges on the 11th Circuit usually represent the legal end of the road in Alabama, Georgia and Florida. The judges make $164,000 annually.

The absence -- on the brink of Supreme Court vacancies -- of a set of constitutional rules regarding filibusters is worrisome. In the meantime, the effect of this acrimonious practice is felt largely by the president's federal appellate nominees,

Miguel Estrada, Patricia Owen and Carolyn Kuhl. And this week, the opposition is gearing up to add Bill Pryor, nominated for the 11th Circuit, to the list of able persons who are being denied, not with a politically accountable "up" or "down" vote, but by stealth and delay.

---

Mr. Pryor has been Alabama's attorney general for over six years and has pages of plaudits from Democrats and Republicans alike. Having graduated near the top of his law class at Tulane and clerked for the civil-rights legend Judge John Minor Wisdom, Mr.

Pryor has an impeccable record of seeking racial justice, including assisting the federal prosecution of the 1963 bombing of the 16th Street Baptist Church. Nevertheless, the New York Times recently editorialized that Mr. Pryor's nomination is "troubling" because he wrote a brief supporting the Texas law against homosexual sodomy. When not playing "guilt by client representation," Mr. Pryor's opponents also complain of his successful defense of statesovereignty, as if it is now "out of the mainstream" for a state legal officer to do anything else. Other activists attempt to portray the Pryor nomination as antiwoman since he agreed with the Supreme Court's invalidation of a part of the Violence Against Women Act.

The anti-Pryor opposition is thus the usual litmus litany of complaints: he's skeptical of sweeping assertions of nontextual rights, like abortion; questions unlimited federal power; and defends the authority of the people within their states to reach their own moral judgments. But his adversaries have a problem: Mr. Pryor follows the law, even when he disagrees, and is uniformly acknowledged to be a man of intelligence, industry and fairness. For example, he instructed prosecutors to construe a broadly written

Alabama abortion limitation consistently with the viability line put forth in Planned

Parenthood v. Casey. Mr. Pryor has also been praised by women's groups across Alabama as

"working tirelessly to protect women and children from the dangers of domestic violence."

Bill Pryor is a principled man. In his brief defending the right of states to legislate against homosexual sodomy, he candidly argues that our jurisprudence has "protected marriage, child-bearing, and the family -- not extramarital sex." Since such laws are often unenforceable, there is tremendous pressure on the Supreme Court, from liberal and libertarian alike, to tell Texas that the regulation of sexual activity is off-limits.

There is prudence in this, as even Thomas Aquinas cautioned against attempting to enact every virtue or prohibit every vice. Yet Mr. Pryor argues forcefully that "the category of morality [has always been] among state concerns. The laws regarding marriage which provide both when sexual powers may be used and the legal and societal context in which children are born and brought up, as well as laws forbidding adultery, fornication, and homosexual practice . . . form a pattern so deeply pressed into the substance of our social life that any Constitutional doctrine must be built upon that basis."

Unlike his strident opponents, Mr. Pryor admits that the path Texas has chosen is "open to debate," but his most telling point is that it is not for a judge to say a statute favoring the morality of the traditional family is irrational merely because some disagree. That other states have decriminalized homosexual activity, or even adultery, is "simply an example of how this country's federalist system works," writes Mr. Pryor, and declaring some ill-defined interest in intimate association to be a constitutional right does not facilitate debate, it stops it. These are wise and temperate words, respectful of opinions deeply contrary to his own. They also reveal someone who, if acting in a judicial capacity, would understand that in a democratic society, legislatures, not courts, are constituted to respond to the will and moral values of the people.

There is a last point that should not be swept under the rug. Mr. Pryor (and Ms. Kuhl) are practicing Catholics. Some of the opposition to both comes dangerously close to a religious exclusion, or at the very least, indulges the tired belief of the Legal

Realist school that it is impossible to separate who you are from how you judge. One thought that John F. Kennedy had put this kind of sophistry to rest in his 1960 presidential campaign.

Apparently not.

Caruso Chair in Constitutional Law at Pepperdine in August. He was head of the Office of ACLJ Calls on Senate to Give Alabama Attorney General Bill Pryor Fair Hearing for Seat on Federal Appeals Court.

WASHINGTON-(BUSINESS WIRE)-June 9, 2003-The American Center for Law and Justice, an international public interest law firm specializing in constitutional law, today called on the U.S. Senate to give Alabama Attorney General Bill Pryor full and fair consideration at a hearing on Wednesday for a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit.

"Bill Pryor is an exceptional nominee who will serve with distinction on the appeals court," said Jay Sekulow, Chief Counsel of the ACLJ. "He is extremely bright, experienced and committed to ensuring that the constitution and the rule of law will be protected and faithfully applied. Bill Pryor deserves a full and fair hearing in the Senate. While he has the votes to clear the Judiciary Committee, he must not become the next victim of a troubling strategy - the use of a filibuster - designed to deny nominees a simple up-or-down vote on the Senate floor. The Senate should put its constitutional responsibilities ahead of its political priorities and not permit a minority of Senators to derail a confirmation process that must move forward without further delay."

Pryor is scheduled to appear before the Senate Judiciary Committee on Wednesday for a hearing on his nomination by President Bush to the 11th circuit.

Sekulow said Pryor did an outstanding job in a case that garnered national attention a few years ago involving student-led prayer in school.

"This was a very difficult case that took more than five years to litigate and was taken to the U.S. Supreme Court on two separate occasions. Ultimately, the Supreme Court in 2001 let stand a federal appeals court decision upholding the constitutionality of student-led and student-initiated religious speech in Alabama schools. I was privileged to assist Attorney General Pryor in a case that not only upheld the constitution, but resulted in an important First Amendment victory for the students of Alabama," said Sekulow, who was appointed by Pryor to serve as Deputy Attorney General for Alabama in the student prayer case.

Sekulow said the ACLJ is contacting more than 500,000 of its members this week by e-mail asking them to contact their Senators to urge them to support the Pryor nomination.

At the same time, the ACLJ has heard from 40,000 people in the past few weeks that have signed a petition urging the Senate to act immediately to end the filibusters, which are preventing an up-or-down vote on several judicial nominees. In a report presented to the Senate last month, the ACLJ concluded that a simple majority in the Senate - 51 Senators - could act immediately and constitutionally to end the current filibusters and call for a full vote on the Senate floor for Miguel Estrada and Priscilla Owen. The report is posted at www.aclj.org. The Senate Rules Committee last week held a hearing to discuss that alternative and other options available to moving the confirmation process forward.

The American Center for Law and Justice is an international public interest law firm specializing in constitutional law based in Washington, D.C. The ACLJ web site address is www.aclj.org.

WASHINGTON -- Alabama Attorney General Bill Pryor, President Bush's choice for a seat on a federal appeals court, is expected to be the next judicial nomination to draw fire from Democrats and special interest groups trying to keep conservative activists from filling the federal bench. "Bill Pryor has a record of ultra-right-wing extremism on almost every issue," said Louis Bograd of the Alliance for Justice. "He is vehemently opposed to the rights of reproductive choice, the separation of church and state, and

(he has) a record of hostility to criminal defendants so extreme that it will make senators blanch.

Nominated by Bush in April, Pryor, 40, will go before some of the most liberal Democrats in the Senate when he testifies Wednesday at a hearing of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The Alliance for Justice, the Southern Christian Leadership Council, Planned Parenthood and dozens of other groups are marshalling their forces to try to defeat Pryor's nomination to the Atlanta-based 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. But the attorney general's candidacy may be harder to derail than other Bush nominees that Democrats oppose.

Senate Democrats have stalled the nominations of Texas Supreme Court Judge Priscilla

Owen, a candidate for the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals; and Miguel Estrada, a lawyer who is Bush's choice to sit on a federal appellate court that handles the most important cases against the government.

The nominations have been held up through a Senate procedure called the filibuster, extended debate that keeps legislation and nominations from a full Senate vote. It takes

60 votes to end a filibuster, and the GOP has only been able to muster a maximum of 55

in its attempts to end debate on Owen and Estrada.

Other nominees are expected to face Democratic filibusters, too, among them Charles

Pickering, a district court judge from Hattiesburg, Miss.; Los Angeles Judge Carolyn

Kuhl -- and perhaps Pryor.

Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn., told Gannett News Service that he did not know if Pryor would face a filibuster but said it was possible. Democrats aren't talking until after Wednesday's hearing.

The White House has asked all judicial nominees to stay away from the press, and Pryor has declined all requests for interviews or comment.

Support in Alabama

The ambitious attorney general may be the most ideological of all of the controversial judicial nominees, but he has an advantage.

The Senate Judiciary Committee rejected Owen and Pickering when Democrats controlled it last year. Estrada has failed to give Democrats information they want about his days at the Justice Department. Both Democratic senators from Kuhl's home state of California opposed her, which used to disqualify a candidate. But Democrats have no procedural reason to stop Pryor's nomination -- at least not yet -- even though his ideology rankles many of them.

The support of several black leaders from the state and the sponsorship of Alabama's

Republican senators also are likely to help Pryor.

"Bill Pryor is an outstanding nominee with extensive experience," said Sen. Richard Shelby of Tuscaloosa. "He is well prepared to become a federal judge and that should be the Democrats' focus in the confirmation process."

Sen. Jeff Sessions of Mobile, who is considered Pryor's mentor, said he expects Democratic opposition.

"The pattern has been that when leftist groups target a nomination and stir it up in the newspapers, the allegations bring some negative votes," Sessions said.

Democrats on the judiciary panel are likely to question Pryor about the following:

-- In 1997, Pryor testified before Congress that a certain provision of the Voting Rights Act, the one requiring Justice Department oversight of voting matters in

Testimony of Commissioner Richard L. Gregg
Financial Management Service – U.S. Department of the Treasury before the
Subcommittee on Government Efficiency and Financial Management
House Committee on Government Reform
June 17, 2003
Federal Debt Collection: Midyear Update on Debt Collection Progress

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Subcommittee:

Thank you for inviting me to testify today to provide an update on the Financial Management Service's (FMS) implementation of the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996 (DCIA).

In particular, I would like to thank you, Chairman Platts, for this opportunity. I would also like to congratulate you on your appointment as Chairman of the Subcommittee on Government Efficiency and Financial Management. Treasury worked very closely with the previous Chairman, Representative Stephen Horn, and I personally look forward to working with you and the other members of the Subcommittee as we continue to improve our debt collection initiatives.

As I have said before, this Subcommittee's long-standing support has been central in helping the Treasury Department to implement a remarkably successful government-wide debt collection program. This program has focused management attention across government agencies in making debt collection a priority. As a result, Treasury's debt collection program has significantly increased the collection of delinquent debt and has greatly improved the government's ability to accurately report outstanding delinquent debt.

The DCIA centralized the collection of delinquent nontax debt owed to the federal government and gave Treasury significant responsibilities in this area. Essentially, FMS

Corporation regarding offset of their vendor payments. We believe this initiative holds great promise and will significantly enhance debt collection.

Delinquent Debtor Database Information Sharing

As I noted in my introduction, Mr. Chairman, ensuring that delinquent debtors are barred from obtaining federal loans and loan guarantees is a high priority for both FMS and for those federal agencies with loan authority. FMS has developed a system we call “Debt Check” that will allow lending agencies to access information from the FMS delinquent debtor database so that government loans are not made to previously identified delinquent debtors. The web-based system is designed to complement existing sources of information available to agencies – to provide an additional tool to bar delinquent debtors from obtaining federal loan assistance. Debt Check has already been implemented with the Small Business Administration, and planning is underway for additional agencies to participate in the near future. FMS is working closely with the Department of Agriculture’s Farm Services Agency, for example.

FedDebt

FedDebt is a Web-based system that will replace the current debt program cross-servicing computer system. FedDebt will enhance the effectiveness of the cross-servicing program – providing increased flexibility, automating a number of processes that are currently handled manually, and improving system access for customers and service partners. Specifically, the program will include on-line access for creditor agencies and private collection agencies, increased automation of processes such as collection files, and enhanced communication and coordination between private collection agencies and Treasury. It will also provide increased flexibility to incorporate new debt collection tools. The target implementation date for the system is 2005.

Conclusion

Mr. Chairman, in summary, Treasury's debt program is one that is both robust and effective, one that has consistently met or exceeded its performance measures. Nonetheless, we are continually working to enhance the program and increase collections.

In addition to maximizing the statutory authority FMS possesses to collect delinquent debts, we believe that congressional oversight of the debt collection program has been and will continue to be critical to our success. We applaud this Subcommittee for the role it has played in that regard. We also believe that agency leadership and agency inspectors general can enhance oversight at the agency level in order to ensure that debts are being referred on a more timely basis and that debt collection in general is a higher priority. In fact, we recently learned that in their annual report, the agency Inspectors General announced that they plan to increase their focus on financial management. We view this as a very positive sign, and we encourage the Subcommittee to support this endeavor.

Mr. Chairman, you may be assured that debt collection will remain a high priority for Treasury. This concludes my remarks. I would be happy to answer any questions you or the members of the Subcommittee might have.

serves as the government's central administrative debt collection agency. Debt collection is a central part of FMS' mission. In addition, improved financial performance is a governmentwide initiative under the President's Management Agenda, and debt collection is key to its success.

FMS collects delinquent debt through two major programs. First, the Treasury Offset Program compares the names and taxpayer identifying numbers (TINs) of debtors in a delinquent database maintained by FMS with the names and TINs of recipients of federal payments that are being disbursed by FMS. If there is a match, the federal payment is reduced, or "offset," to satisfy the overdue debt using this same methodology. Through its Treasury Offset Program, FMS offsets federal payments to collect delinquent non-tax debt owed to federal agencies as well as delinquent child support and income tax obligations on behalf of states, pursuant to the DCIA and other governing federal laws. FMS also levies federal payments to collect delinquent federal income taxes for the Internal Revenue Service.

The second major program is Cross-Servicing, under which federal agencies refer delinquent debt to FMS for collection by means of a variety of tools, including offset, demand letters to debtors, repayment arrangements, administrative wage garnishment, referrals to the Department of Justice, credit bureau reporting, and use of private collection agencies.

FMS has also developed a system that will enable credit agencies to identify delinquent debtors who apply for federal loans and loan guarantees. I will elaborate on this program later on in my testimony.

Mr. Chairman, I am very pleased to report Treasury's debt collection program has become a fully mature one. It has developed into an integral component of federal financial management – an important tool supporting sound and effective financial management at the federal level. As a result of the debt program, FMS has collected billions of dollars of debt, much of which would not be collected otherwise.

The debt program has had a tangible impact on agency fiscal operations, the economical stewardship of taxpayer dollars, the integrity of important federal programs, such as student loan and benefit payment programs, and efforts to collect delinquent child support debt. It is important to note that the Chief Financial Officers' Council has developed broad financial management performance metrics, one of which focuses on debt collection performance. In addition, there needs to be increased attention by the agencies and their auditors to ensure that receivable balances that agencies report on the Treasury Report on Receivables Due from the Public (a report summarizing the status of loans and accounts receivable managed by federal agencies) tie directly to their financial statements. To this end, FMS has provided instruction to agencies on how to reconcile their receivable balances to their financial statements, and we have incorporated this specific guidance in this regard in the governmentwide accounting instructional materials that we send to agencies.

Program Accomplishments:

Referrals from Agencies and Total Collections

Since enactment of the DCIA, FMS has collected about $17.6 billion in delinquent debt. Since FMS was given responsibility for centralized collection of debt, we have sharply increased collections through program changes, adding numerous payment streams and categories of debt to the offset program, and have actively worked with agencies to overcome obstacles to participating in the Treasury Offset and cross-servicing programs. In every year since FY1999, FMS has collected over $2.6 billion in delinquent debt.

In FY02 alone, using all of its collection tools, Treasury collected over $2.8 billion in delinquent debt, including $1.47 billion in past due child support; $1.2 billion in federal non-tax debt; and almost $180 million in state and federal tax debts. FY02 total collections exceeded the amount collected in FY01 by $144 million.

And FMS is on track to match last year's collections performance benchmarks. In FY03, to-date, we have collected $2.57 billion in delinquent debt, including $1.3 billion in past due child support; $1.08 billion in federal non-tax debts; and $197 million in state and federal tax debts.

The $86 million collected through the Cross-Servicing Program in FY02, which represented a 51 percent increase over FY01 cross-servicing collections, was attributable to improvements in referrals from agencies - such as the Department of Health and Human Services (Medicare Secondary Payer debts), the Department of Veterans Affairs, the Department of Agriculture - and the successful implementation of private collection agency contracts. Already in FY03, over $91 million has been collected with four months still to go in the fiscal year.

As of May 31, the Treasury Offset Program database contains $30.8 billion in federal non-tax debts, $70.9 billion in child support debts, $4 billion in state income tax debts, and $77 billion in federal tax debts.

Treasury has also worked hard to have agencies refer eligible debt in a timely manner. FMS has made important enhancements to the Treasury Report on Receivables Due from the Public, which enable us to more thoroughly monitor and evaluate agency referral and collection performance by generating computerized five-year trend analysis reports. To keep debt collection in the forefront of agencies financial management objectives, in the last year and a half, approximately 2,000 agency participants attended FMS workshops, conferences, symposia, and seminars on debt collection throughout the country. FMS also regularly conducts meetings with agency Chief Financial Officers (CFO) and finance offices on debt referral and other debt collection developments.

As you can see, the steps we have taken have produced outstanding results. For both the Treasury Offset Program and cross-servicing, currently 91 percent of debt identified as eligible has been referred. To put this in perspective, at the end of FY99, agencies had referred to Treasury only 43 percent of their eligible delinquent cross-servicing debt. During the first four years of the program – 1997 through 2000 – agencies referred roughly $4.3 billion for cross-servicing. In just two years since then, agencies have referred an additional $6 billion.

Mr. Chairman, I would now like to give the Subcommittee a progress report on some of Treasury's well-established collection initiatives as well as some new efforts.

Benefit Payment Offset

With the cooperation of the Social Security Administration (SSA), the offset of Social Security benefit payments, an extraordinarily complex undertaking that we started in 2001, continues to go smoothly. In fact, for FY02, FMS collected approximately $55 million in federal non-tax debts through this program. So far in FY03, we have collected over $36 million.

It is also worth noting that the House version of the welfare reform legislation includes a provision that amends the DCIA to authorize offset of SSA payments to improve collection of delinquent child support debt. FMS and the Department of Health and Human Services have also been working with the Senate in an effort to include a similar provision in the Senate version of the bill. An estimated $50 to $100 million annually in lost child support collections are at stake. Enacting this provision would enable us to aggressively target the collection of funds intended for the care of our nation's children.

Continuous Federal Tax Levy

We have also made excellent progress in collecting tax debt. With the good support of the IRS, implementation of the continuous federal tax levy initiative, which began in July 2000, is progressing smoothly. Of all the federal payments being levied, Social Security benefit payments account for most of the levies. For FY02, a total of approximately $60 million in delinquent federal income tax was collected, primarily as a result of the SSA benefit levy, which accounts for $43 million of the total. Thus far in the current fiscal year, we have collected $61 million. Of that amount, $50.5 million (83 percent of the total) has been collected through the levy of SSA payments.

State Income Tax Debt Collection

State governments have also benefited from our debt collection program. FMS implemented the program to collect delinquent state tax debt in 2000. For FY02, $119 million was collected. In FY03, we have already collected $136 million. Currently, 30 of 41 states that collect state income tax and the District of Columbia are participating. Several additional states are expected to begin by the end of this calendar year. FMS is actively encouraging the remaining states to participate.

Administrative Wage Garnishment

FMS issued regulations providing guidance to federal program agencies for garnishing private sector wages to collect agency debts. FMS views Administrative Wage Garnishment (AWG) as a powerful collection tool with enormous potential. AWG was implemented in July, 2001. To date, cumulative collections under AWG total $317,000, including $298,000 coming in this fiscal year alone.

So that agencies can take full advantage of FMS' centralized processes and established safeguards, we continue to strongly encourage them to use administrative wage garnishment through Treasury's cross-servicing program. We appreciate the Subcommittee's support in encouraging agencies to participate fully.

Some agencies are already using this debt collection tool through FMS, including the Department of Housing and Urban Development, which started in the AWG program in September 2002 and now already accounts for 82 percent of the dollars collected under AWG. Another agency, HHS, has published regulations and several others are preparing to publish regulations that will allow them to participate. FMS is also working closely with the Department of Defense and the Department of Agriculture to help facilitate their participation.

Contract for the Services of Private Collection Agencies

Since 1998, FMS has contracted for the services of private collection agencies (PCAs). The present contract with five private collection agencies went into effect October 1, 2001, and we have seen solid improvements in performance and service. The goal of the PCA contract is to complement FMS' efforts to collect and resolve delinquent non-tax debt. The PCA contract is a performance-based competitive initiative -- PCAs compete against each other under the contract and those PCAs who collect and resolve more debt gain a larger share of the PCA debt portfolio.

Over the past five years, PCAs have collected over $156 million, attesting to the importance of these partnerships. For FY02, PCAs collected $43 million, up from $27 million for FY01. PCAs administratively resolved $82 million in FY02, up from $41 million in FY01. PCAs have already collected $45.6 million in FY03, easily surpassing FY02 collections. So far, FY03 resolutions total $55 million, and we expect to match the FY02 level of resolutions.

Since May of last year, PCAs have averaged over $5 million in collections each month. In fact, this May, the PCAs achieved their highest monthly collection total at $7.6 million.

On an annual basis, compliance reviews are performed on-site at each PCA under contract. Data for this review is accumulated throughout the year. During the on-site review, a team from FMS examines the contractor's site security, personnel security, adherence to laws and regulations, collection techniques, and overall compliance with the terms of the contract. The findings of the review are forwarded to the PCA for action or correction. FMS also maintains regular contact with the PCAs and we have daily access to their collection systems. There have been no substantiated cases of PCAs using abusive or bullying tactics with debtors under our contracts.

Building on the Foundation – Strengthening a Mature Program

Centralized Federal Salary Offset/Levy

Looking ahead, we have several significant improvements underway. In 2001, FMS began phasing in the program to collect delinquent debts through the offset of federal salary payments. In addition to collecting federal non-tax debt, we have also begun to collect tax debt by levying federal salaries. We collected a total of $1.9 million for FY02 and $1.1 million so far in FY03.

Salary payments processed by the U.S. Department of the Agriculture's National Finance Center and the Department of the Interior, both of which process payroll for numerous federal agencies, as well as those processed by the U.S. Postal Service and the Department of Defense are currently being offset through the Treasury Offset Program. The General Services Administration (GSA) has committed to implement salary offset in the near future. When GSA implements centralized salary offset, all payroll providers selected as part of the E-Payroll initiative will be in the program.

In order to offset salary payments, creditor agencies must make their debts eligible. The Department of Veterans Affairs has just recently activated their debts, and we have also been working closely with the Department of Education to activate student loan debts. In our view, this program would complement Education's very successful collection efforts they undertake through the use of private collection agencies and AWG. Because of the dollar amounts associated with the student loan debts, Education's participation would greatly boost the success of the salary offset program. We will continue to work with that department in an effort to bring them into the program.

Offset of Non-Treasury Disbursed Vendor Payments

I am pleased to tell you that another new element of our debt collection program has also been initiated – the offset of non-Treasury disbursed payments. The practice of offsetting vendor payments disbursed by Treasury has been in place since 1997. Under this new initiative, we will collect debts owed by vendors by offsetting the payments disbursed by officials other than Treasury. Debts in the FMS debtor database will be compared to non-Treasury disbursed vendor payments. When there is a match, participating disbursing agencies will offset the payment. Non-Treasury disbursed vendor payments will also be levied to collect federal tax debt.

The Department of Defense is already participating in this initiative, and FMS is currently working with the Postal Service and the USDA's Commodity Credit

Analysis: A lot of talk but no vacancy

By Peter Roff
UPI National Political Analyst

WASHINGTON, June 9 (UPI) -- The approaching end of the current Supreme Court term brings with it speculation that at least one justice may retire.

Whether it is a case of not wanting to be caught off guard or a hope that wishing will, in fact, make it so, Washington interest group insiders and the reporters who cover them are spinning the idea that the mother of all confirmation fights may be on tap for summer.

This has become something of a tradition in Washington. At the end of May the rumors begin to trickle out. By the second week of June the analyses explaining who is likely to leave the court and who might be named as a replacement are in full bloom.

The smart set, as this group might be called, is poised and ready for the battle to begin. They may have a while to wait. To paraphrase the great American philosopher Yogi Berra, the term of a U.S. Supreme Court justice "ain't over 'til it's over."

Whether Chief Justice William Rehnquist or another member of the court is about to retire is currently a matter of opinion for all but the justices themselves. No one is certain if a retirement is imminent but, whatever the reality, the mere speculation is enough to drive the process forward, with groups of many different stripes getting ready for what may not be.

The Committee for Justice is a new group formed to counter the influence of liberal groups on the confirmation process. Led by former White House counsel C. Boyden Gray, CFJ has been working with opinion leaders, grassroots activists and the media to push for the confirmation of Bush nominees including the currently filibustered Miguel Estrada and Priscilla Owen.

When it comes to a possible Supreme Court nomination fight, preparedness is their watchword.

"You cannot start preparing for a Supreme Court confirmation fight after the vacancy is announced," CFJ's Sean Ruston says. "You have to be ready in advance."

"There are lots of people who need to be mobilized, in Washington and at the grassroots. There is a lot of work to do," Ruston says.

The groups on which CFJ will rely to assist them are notoriously scattered, making them hard to motivate. With the exception of business groups that are well-funded but tend to eschew involvement in such ideologically potent fights where they believe their interests are not clearly defined, the right lacks the kinds of turnkey operations the left uses to bring political pressure to bear on the Senate.

Even though the presidential bully pulpit is the single most powerful asset either side can have in such matters, CFJ and the other groups in its broad ideological coalition will probably find they have to play catch-up when a confirmation battle begins.

Though the White House has likely had an informal plan for dealing with a vacancy for some time, the left-leaning organizations that are almost certain to oppose the president's choice have been meeting almost weekly. These groups, many of which are more permanent institutions than citizen-lobbies, are some of America's most influential. They have, for several years, been plotting ways to defeat Bush's judicial nominees at the circuit level and above.

They are well-funded and many prominent citizens endorse the positions they take on political questions. The same may be true for the center-right groups that will be involved, but to a much lesser degree.

Both sides will take full advantage of those strengths, especially to the degree that it helps support a paid media campaign to get their messages across. Paid media, the sponsored messages that appear as television ads, radio spots, direct mail pieces and the like, will be used to lay out a particular case for the confirmation or rejection of a nominee.

Where the left has a distinct advantage, many analysts believe, is in the area of earned media, a political term referring to news coverage that conveys a specific message about a political issue or candidate. Whether it is because there is a greater degree of ideological sympathy among the nation's reporters, editors and producers or because liberal groups are simply better at pitching an idea, it is in this area that the left-leaning groups likely opposed to a Bush nominee will reap the greatest rewards.

Information consumers understand the difference between sponsored messages and reportage that is passed through a supposedly objective filter. For this reason news stories, analyses and commentaries that are produced by wire services, newspapers, television networks and such is much more credible than paid media, even if the news outlet behind it is considered to have a particular ideological bias.

It is in the production and influencing of earned media that these liberal groups excel.

The current analysis of a potential vacancy on the nation's highest court may have in fact been sparked by a June 4, 2003, memo to "Journalists" written by People for the American Way Foundation head Ralph Neas.

His group, originally founded by Hollywood producer and liberal activist Norman Lear, is the acknowledged leader of the coalition working to stop Bush appointees from taking seats on the federal bench. The memo, "Public Airing of Stakes in Upcoming Supreme Court Vacancy Must Begin Now," is an attempt to convince the media to begin covering the fight over a new justice before the vacancy exists.

What are these stakes? According to Neas' memo: "The law of the land for the next generation -- or longer. At risk are many of the great social justice achievements of the 20th century."

Peppered with phrases like "burning desire," "destructive revival" and "19th century approach," the memo attempts to define the terms of the debate that will govern the coverage of any confirmation fight. The coverage of the speculated-upon retirements and their impact tracks closely with many of the arguments he makes in the memo.

There has not been a vacancy on the Supreme Court since 1994, when Nixon-appointed Associate Justice Harry Blackmun stepped down and was replaced by Clinton-appointed Justice Stephen Breyer. This 9-year gap between vacancies is among the longest in the court's history and, as Neas says, the groups with which he works are determined not to be taken by surprise.

That activist groups on the left and right have been girding their loins for some time, preparing for a battle that could fundamentally alter the application of constitutional principles in American life, should come as no surprise. Whether there will be a vacancy over which to fight may yet be.

Supermajority Rule

By JUDITH RESNIK

NEW HAVEN - The appointment of judges with life tenure is a unique event in the American democratic system. Members of Congress and the president stay in power only if they convince voters to re-elect them - and even popular presidents have to quit after two terms. But life-tenured federal judges serve for decades.

Partly for this reason - and because of the federal judiciary's ever-growing importance in American life - the Senate should strive for more agreement, not less, in approving judicial appointments. How many senators should it take to approve a judicial nominee? The Senate majority leader, Bill Frist, is urging the Senate to revisit its filibuster rules to make it easier for a bare majority to install a judge for life. Instead, the Senate should leave those rules in place and add a requirement that 60 votes are needed for life-tenured appointments to the federal courts.

We have become accustomed to protracted debates about who should serve on the Supreme Court. Appointments to the lower federal courts deserve comparable attention. For most people in the United States, federal judges in the lower courts are the only federal judicial officials they will see. More than 340,000 cases were filed last year in federal trial courts, and almost 60,000 appeals brought. In contrast, the Supreme Court issued 76 signed opinions in its most recent term. The volume is small compared to the millions of cases decided by the states, but large compared to the federal dockets of only a few decades ago.

REV_00403701

The Constitution says relatively little about the federal court system - providing directly for the Supreme Court and giving Congress the power to "ordain and establish" such lower courts as it deems necessary. While the lower federal courts are almost as old as the Constitution, in the last 100 years the number of judgeships has grown substantially.

In 1901, only about 100 people held federal judgeships, from the trial courts through the Supreme Court. Sometimes, one district judge served a whole state. There were fewer than 30 intermediate appellate judges. In contrast, almost 800 people hold life-tenured judgeships today, and a few hundred serve as senior judges.

Moreover, life-tenured judges are not the only judicial officers in the more than 500 federal courthouses across the United States. Congress has given judges the power to appoint two other sets of judges, magistrate and bankruptcy judges, who serve for fixed, renewable terms and who add another 800 judges to the ranks. These judges in turn hear the cases of yet other Americans - including the more than 1.5 million people and companies who filed for bankruptcy protection last year. Still more federal judicial officers serve outside courts as administrative law judges in federal agencies.

The growth of judgeships reflects the growth of federal jurisdiction. In the last century, Congress has created securities law, environmental law, civil rights law, consumer law. We all now have federal rights that affect our lives in many ways - from taxes and pensions to the water we drink and our personal security.

Congress and the courts, working together, have done a remarkable job creating a substantial, important judicial system. At the top of this hierarchy sit life-tenured judges. Careful deliberation over nominees to these judgeships is crucial. Especially when the Senate is almost evenly divided, a supermajority requirement is one good way for the Senate to fulfill its constitutional duty to give advice and consent on judicial appointments.

This approach is not likely to be popular with the party in power, since supermajority requirements empower minorities. But given the large number of federal judgeships, the minority party will be reluctant to expend political energy or capital too often. When it does - when 41 senators say a particular person is ill suited for an appointment to the bench - it is time to pause.

By constitutional design, Congress is periodically reauthorized through elections. It ought to take a supermajority of the Senate to confer power on judges who will exercise it for their rest of their lives.

Washington, D.C. - Latino Opinions client, the Committee for Justice, today released the results of their national survey of Hispanic opinion on the Estrada nomination at a press conference in the LBJ Room in the U.S. Senate. Sen. George Allen (VA), Chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Committee and Committee for Justice Member, Stan Anderson, accompanied Raul Damas, Latino Opinions' Director of Operations, in presenting the astonishing results of this survey. Additional Senators, including Lindsey Graham (SC) and Jim Talent (MO) later reacted to the release of this information in the Senate Radio and TV Gallery.

"This survey shows that the vast majority of Hispanics want Miguel Estrada confirmed by the Senate," said Raul Damas, Latino Opinions' Director of Operations. "Even more importantly, 88% of Latinos believe the Senate should 'at least vote' on the Estrada nomination, regardless of whether or not he's ultimately confirmed. Clearly, those who oppose Estrada are far out of the mainstream of Hispanic sentiment."

Key Findings

- Latinos reflexively support the nomination of Miguel Estrada and other Latinos to the federal courts.
- Once educated on the confirmation process and Miguel Estrada's history of professional achievement, Latinos overwhelmingly support Miguel Estrada and want to see him confirmed.
- Regardless of their opinion of Miguel Estrada, the vast majority of Latinos believe the Senate should vote, up-or-down, on his and every other nomination.
- Any elected official who claims to represent, or even care about, the Latino community's needs, should support the confirmation of Miguel Estrada.

Hispanic Political Profile

- Although a plurality of Hispanics still identify themselves as Democrats (47%), the Republican party's actions, in this case supporting Miguel Estrada, continue to reflect the issues most important to Hispanics.
- With a 65% job approval rating, President Bush continues to enjoy enormous popularity among Hispanics. Bush's rating among Hispanics is slightly above the national average, which is remarkable not least because Bush received only 35% of the Latino vote in '00.
- 35% of Latinos consider themselves "conservative," as opposed to 28% "liberal."

Latino Judges are Extremely Important to this Community

- 94% of Hispanics believe "It is important that Latinos are represented on the federal courts, where some of the most important decisions in our government are made."
  - 80% of Latinos believe it is "Important" that Miguel Estrada is confirmed by the Senate. 60% believe it is "Very Important."
- As with all of this study's findings, this level of support is consistent regardless of voter registration, length of residence, language preference and national ancestry.

Like Most Americans, Latinos Want a Fair Judicial Nomination Process

- 94% of Hispanics believe "Every nominee to a federal court should be given the chance for a yes-or-no vote, regardless of whether or not they are ultimately confirmed."

Personal Achievement is Key to the Latino Community's Support

- Estrada's superlative rating from the ABA is "most likely" to foster Latinos' support For Miguel Estrada.
- His graduation from Harvard and his record of success arguing cases before the U.S. Supreme Court follow closely behind in terms of generating support.

Latinos Want Miguel Estrada Confirmed

- 87% of Hispanics believe Miguel Estrada should be confirmed by the Senate to serve on the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Either Way, Latinos Demand a Vote on Estrada

- 88% of Latinos believe the Senate should "at least vote" on Estrada's nomination.

Methodology

This national Hispanic survey was conducted by Latino Opinions between May 25 & May 28, 2003, among 800 Hispanic adults. All interviews were conducted by professional English and Spanish speaking interviewers via telephone. Respondents were given the option of conducting the survey in English or Spanish, yielding 38% English interviews and 62% Spanish interviews. Interview selection was at random within predetermined population units. These units were structured to statistically correlate with the nation's adult Hispanic population according to the 2000 U.S. Census. The accuracy of this national survey of 800 Hispanic adults is within  $\pm 3.4\%$ , at a 95% confidence interval.

The Honorable William M. Thomas
Chairman
Committee on Ways and Means
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Chairman Thomas:

I am writing about the legislative proposal contained in the President's budget that would change the filing and payment deadlines for electronically filed tax returns from April 15th to April 30th. In that regard, I understand the House will shortly consider H.R. 1528, the Taxpayer Protection and IRS Accountability Act of 2003. I am gratified that the Committee has included a provision on this matter as part of H.R. 1528, and I strongly encourage you to maintain it as part of the legislation.

In the IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998, Congress established a goal to have 80% of all tax returns filed electronically by 2007. The Administration shares the goal of reducing taxpayer burden through expanded electronic tax filing opportunities. Filing electronically produces fewer errors and quicker tax refunds, and is less costly and more efficient. Encouraging more Americans to use this option just makes good sense.

This proposal would provide a much needed incentive for many taxpayers and tax preparers who might not otherwise choose to file electronically. This idea was originally proposed by the IRS Restructuring Commission, has been endorsed by the Electronic Tax Administration Advisory Committee and the IRS Oversight Board, and is anticipated by the States.

Enactment of this proposal remains a necessary part of the Administration's strategy to meet the Congressional e-file goal. It is budget neutral, and I understand that it enjoys bipartisan support. Thank you for your assistance on this important initiative.

Sincerely,

John W. Snow

A BILL

To amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 to protect taxpayers and ensure accountability of the Internal Revenue Service.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; ETC.

(a) SHORT TITLE- This Act may be cited as the 'Taxpayer Protection and IRS Accountability Act of 2003'.

(b) AMENDMENT OF 1986 CODE- Except as otherwise expressly provided, whenever in this Act an amendment or repeal is expressed in terms of an amendment to, or repeal of, a section or other provision, the reference shall be considered to be made to a section or other provision of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

(c) TABLE OF CONTENTS-

(C) the penalty would be grossly disproportionate to the action or expense that would have been needed to avoid the error, and imposing the penalty would be against equity and good conscience,
(D) waiving the penalty would promote compliance with the requirements of this title and effective tax administration, and
(E) the taxpayer took all reasonable steps to remedy the error promptly after discovering it.

(2) EXCEPTIONS- Paragraph (1) shall not apply if--

(A) the Secretary has waived any addition to tax under this subsection with respect to any prior failure by such individual,
(B) the failure is a mathematical or clerical error (as defined in section 6213(g)(2)), or
(C) the failure is the lack of a required signature.'

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE- The amendment made by this section shall take effect on January 1, 2004.

SEC. 107. FRIVOLOUS TAX SUBMISSIONS.

(a) CIVIL PENALTIES- Section 6702 is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 6702. FRIVOLOUS TAX SUBMISSIONS.

(a) CIVIL PENALTY FOR FRIVOLOUS TAX RETURNS- A person shall pay a penalty of $5,000 if--

(1) such person files what purports to be a return of a tax imposed by this title but which--

(A) does not contain information on which the substantial correctness of the self-assessment may be judged, or

(B) contains information that on its face indicates that the self-assessment is substantially incorrect; and

(2) the conduct referred to in paragraph (1)--

(A) is based on a position which the Secretary has identified as frivolous under subsection (c), or

(B) reflects a desire to delay or impede the administration of Federal tax laws.

(b) CIVIL PENALTY FOR SPECIFIED FRIVOLOUS SUBMISSIONS-

(1) IMPOSITION OF PENALTY- Except as provided in paragraph (3), any person who submits a specified frivolous submission shall pay a penalty of $5,000.

(2) SPECIFIED FRIVOLOUS SUBMISSION- For purposes of this section--

(A) SPECIFIED FRIVOLOUS SUBMISSION- The term 'specified frivolous submission' means a specified submission if any portion of such submission is based on a position which the Secretary has identified as frivolous under subsection (c).

“(B) SPECIFIED SUBMISSION- The term ‘specified submission’ means--

“(i) a request for a hearing under--

“(I) section 6320 (relating to notice and opportunity for hearing upon filing of notice of lien), or

“(II) section 6330 (relating to notice and opportunity for hearing before levy), and

“(ii) an application under--

“(I) section 7811 (relating to taxpayer assistance orders),

“(II) section 6159 (relating to agreements for payment of tax liability in installments), or “(III) section 7122 (relating to compromises).

“(3) OPPORTUNITY TO WITHDRAW SUBMISSION- If the Secretary provides a person with notice that a submission is a specified frivolous submission and such person withdraws such submission within 30 days after such notice, the penalty imposed under paragraph (1) shall not apply with respect to such submission.

“(c) LISTING OF FRIVOLOUS POSITIONS- The Secretary shall prescribe (and periodically revise) a list of positions which the Secretary has identified as being frivolous for purposes of this subsection. The Secretary shall not include in such list any position that the Secretary determines meets the requirement of section 6662(d)(2)(B)(ii)(II).

“(d) REDUCTION OF PENALTY- The Secretary may reduce the amount of any penalty imposed under this section if the Secretary determines that such reduction would promote compliance with and administration of the Federal tax laws.

“(e) PENALTIES IN ADDITION TO OTHER PENALTIES- The penalties imposed by this section shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.’.

(b) CLERICAL AMENDMENT- The table of sections for part I of subchapter B of chapter 68 is amended by striking the item relating to section 6702 and inserting the following new item:

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE- The amendments made by this section shall apply to submissions made and issues raised after the date on which the Secretary first prescribes a list under section 6702(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended by subsection (a).

SEC. 108. CLARIFICATION OF APPLICATION OF FEDERAL TAX DEPOSIT PENALTY.

Nothing in section 6656 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 shall be construed to permit the percentage specified in subsection (b)(1)(A)(iii) thereof to apply other than in a case where the failure is for more than 15 days.

TITLE II--FAIRNESS OF COLLECTION PROCEDURES

SEC. 201. PARTIAL PAYMENT OF TAX LIABILITY IN INSTALLMENT AGREEMENTS.

(a) IN GENERAL-

(1) Section 6159(a) (relating to authorization of agreements) is amended--

(A) by striking 'satisfy liability for payment of' and inserting 'make payment on', and

(B) by inserting 'full or partial' after 'facilitate'.

(2) Section 6159(c) (relating to Secretary required to enter into installment agreements in certain cases) is amended in the matter preceding paragraph (1) by inserting 'full' before 'payment'.

(b) REQUIREMENT TO REVIEW PARTIAL PAYMENT AGREEMENTS EVERY TWO YEARS- Section 6159 is amended by redesignating subsections (d) and (e) as subsections (e) and (f), respectively, and inserting after subsection (c) the following new subsection:

'(d) SECRETARY REQUIRED TO REVIEW INSTALLMENT AGREEMENTS FOR PARTIAL COLLECTION EVERY TWO YEARS- In the case of an agreement entered into by the Secretary under subsection (a) for partial collection of a tax liability, the Secretary shall review the agreement at least once every 2 years.'.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE- The amendments made by this section shall apply to agreements entered into on or after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 202. EXTENSION OF TIME FOR RETURN OF PROPERTY.

(a) EXTENSION OF TIME FOR RETURN OF PROPERTY SUBJECT TO LEVY-

Subsection (b) of section 6343 (relating to return of property) is amended by striking '9 months' and inserting '2 years'.

(b) PERIOD OF LIMITATION ON SUITS- Subsection (c) of section 6532 (relating to suits by persons other than taxpayers) is amended--

(1) in paragraph (1) by striking '9 months' and inserting '2 years', and

(2) in paragraph (2) by striking '9-month' and inserting '2-year'.

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE- The amendments made by this section shall apply to--

(1) levies made after the date of the enactment of this Act, and

(2) levies made on or before such date if the 9-month period has not expired under section 6343(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (without regard to this section) as of such date.

SEC. 203. INDIVIDUALS HELD HARMLESS ON WRONGFUL LEVY, ETC., ON INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT PLAN.

(a) IN GENERAL- Section 6343 (relating to authority to release levy and return property) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

'(f) INDIVIDUALS HELD HARMLESS ON WRONGFUL LEVY, ETC. ON INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT PLAN-

“(1) IN GENERAL- If the Secretary determines that an individual retirement plan has been levied upon in a case to which subsection (b) or (d)(2)(A) applies, an amount equal to the sum of--

“(A) the amount of money returned by the Secretary on account of such levy, and

“(B) interest paid under subsection (c) on such amount of money, may be deposited into an individual retirement plan (other than an endowment contract) to which a rollover from the plan levied upon is permitted.

“(2) TREATMENT AS ROLLOVER- The distribution on account of the levy and any deposit under paragraph (1) with respect to such distribution shall be treated for purposes of this title as if such distribution and deposit were part of a rollover described in section 408(d)(3)(A)(i); except that--

“(A) interest paid under subsection (c) shall be treated as part of such distribution and as not includible in gross income,

“(B) the 60-day requirement in such section shall be treated as met if the deposit is made not later than the 60th day after the day on which the individual receives an amount under paragraph (1) from the Secretary, and

“(C) such deposit shall not be taken into account under section 408(d)(3)(B).

“(3) REFUND, ETC., OF INCOME TAX ON LEVY- If any amount is includible in gross income for a taxable year by reason of a levy referred to in paragraph (1) and any portion of such amount is treated as a rollover under paragraph (2), any tax imposed by chapter 1 on such portion shall not be assessed, and if assessed shall be abated, and if collected shall be credited or refunded as an overpayment made on the due date for filing the return of tax for such taxable year.

“(4) INTEREST- Notwithstanding subsection (d), interest shall be allowed under subsection (c) in a case in which the Secretary makes a determination described in subsection (d)(2)(A) with respect to a levy upon an individual retirement plan.’.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE- The amendment made by this section shall apply to amounts paid under subsections (b), (c), and (d)(2)(A) of section 6343 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 after December 31, 2003.

SEC. 204. SEVEN-DAY THRESHOLD ON TOLLING OF STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS DURING TAX REVIEW.

(a) IN GENERAL- Section 7811(d)(1) (relating to suspension of running of period of limitation) is amended by inserting after ‘application,’ the following: ‘but only if the date of such decision is at least 7 days after the date of the taxpayer’s application,’.

(b) EFFECTIVE DATE- The amendment made by this section shall apply to applications filed after the date of the enactment of this Act.

SEC. 205. STUDY OF LIENS AND LEVIES.

The Secretary of the Treasury, or the Secretary's delegate, shall conduct a study of the practices of the Internal Revenue Service concerning liens and levies. The study shall examine--

- (1) the declining use of liens and levies by the Internal Revenue Service, and*
- (2) the practicality of recording liens and levying against property in cases in which the cost of such actions exceeds the amount to be realized from such property.*

Not later than 1 year after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit such study to the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives and the Committee on Finance of the Senate.

TITLE III--TAX ADMINISTRATION REFORMS

SEC. 301. REVISIONS RELATING TO TERMINATION OF EMPLOYMENT OF INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE EMPLOYEES FOR MISCONDUCT.

(a) IN GENERAL- Subchapter A of chapter 80 (relating to application of internal revenue laws) is amended by inserting after section 7804 the following new section:

SEC. 7804A. DISCIPLINARY ACTIONS FOR MISCONDUCT.

(a) DISCIPLINARY ACTIONS-

(1) IN GENERAL- Subject to subsection (c), the Commissioner shall take an action in accordance with the guidelines established under paragraph (2) against any employee of the Internal Revenue Service if there is a final administrative or judicial determination that such employee committed any act or omission described under subsection (b) in the performance of the employee's official duties or where a nexus to the employee's position exists.

(2) GUIDELINES- The Commissioner shall issue guidelines for determining the appropriate level of discipline, up to and including termination of employment, for committing any act or omission described under subsection (b).

(b) ACTS OR OMISSIONS- The acts or omissions described under this subsection are--

(1) willful failure to obtain the required approval signatures on documents authorizing the seizure of a taxpayer's home, personal belongings, or business assets;

(2) willfully providing a false statement under oath with respect to a material matter involving a taxpayer or taxpayer representative;

`(3) with respect to a taxpayer or taxpayer representative, the willful violation of--

`(A) any right under the Constitution of the United States;

`(B) any civil right established under--

`(i) title VI or VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964;

`(ii) title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972;

`(iii) the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967;

`(iv) the Age Discrimination Act of 1975;

`(v) section 501 or 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973; or

`(vi) title I of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990;

or

`(C) the Internal Revenue Service policy on unauthorized inspection of returns or return information;

`(4) willfully falsifying or destroying documents to conceal mistakes made by any employee with respect to a matter involving a taxpayer or taxpayer representative;

`(5) assault or battery on a taxpayer or taxpayer representative, but only if there is a criminal conviction, or a final adverse judgment by a court in a civil case, with respect to the assault or battery;

`(6) willful violations of this title, Department of the Treasury regulations, or policies of the Internal Revenue Service (including the Internal Revenue Manual) for the purpose of retaliating against, or harassing, a taxpayer or taxpayer representative;

`(7) willful misuse of the provisions of section 6103 for the purpose of concealing information from a congressional inquiry;

`(8) willful failure to file any return of tax required under this title on or before the date prescribed therefor (including any extensions) when a tax is due and owing, unless such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect;

`(9) willful understatement of Federal tax liability, unless such understatement is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect; and

`(10) threatening to audit a taxpayer, or to take other action under this title, for the purpose of extracting personal gain or benefit.

`(c) DETERMINATIONS OF COMMISSIONER-

`(1) IN GENERAL- The Commissioner may take a personnel action other than a disciplinary action provided for in the guidelines under subsection (a)(2) for an act or omission described under subsection (b).

`(2) DISCRETION- The exercise of authority under paragraph (1) shall be at the sole discretion of the Commissioner and may not be delegated to any other officer. The Commissioner, in his sole discretion, may establish a procedure to determine if an individual should be referred to the Commissioner for a determination by the Commissioner under paragraph (1).

“(3) NO APPEAL- Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any determination of the Commissioner under this subsection may not be reviewed in any administrative or judicial proceeding. A finding that an act or omission described under subsection (b) occurred may be reviewed.

“(d) DEFINITION- For the purposes of the provisions described in clauses (i), (ii), and (iv) of subsection (b)(3)(B), references to a program or activity regarding Federal financial assistance or an education program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance shall include any program or activity conducted by the Internal Revenue Service for a taxpayer.

Congress must address class action loophole

Class action lawsuits are an important part of our legal system. Without them, average citizens would never be able to marshal the resources necessary to take on a large company that sold them a faulty product or whose pollution damaged their home or made their children sick.

OPINION

Class actions allow individual consumers to pool their resources and seek justice collectively when it would be impossible for them to do so individually. If not for the avenue class actions offer, many businesses that hurt people would never be held accountable.

But a loophole in our federal court system is undermining the purpose of the class action lawsuit. That loophole denies the federal courts jurisdiction over many class action cases, even those featuring large numbers of plaintiffs from around the country or where the judgment could have an impact on laws in all 50 states.

As a result, many national class actions are filed in one of a handful of small state courts where attorneys believe they have the best chance of securing the outcome they want. This type of venue shopping may help win cases, but the practice has not always been good news for consumers.

For instance, instead of spending the time and resources needed to defend themselves in these cases, many businesses simply settle. But regrettably, these settlements often provide consumers with little or no compensation for their injuries.

In addition, to offset their legal costs, businesses raise prices for goods and services, meaning that ultimately, consumers end up paying most of the costs of class action lawsuits with little of the benefits. Some observers have called this effect a litigation tax.

I have joined Senate Judiciary Chairman Orrin Hatch (R-Utah), Senate Finance Committee Chairman Charles Grassley (R-Iowa) and Sen. Herb Kohl (D-Wis.), in introducing legislation that would restore some much-needed balance to our legal system and to the way in which class action lawsuits are handled.

The bill, S. 274, the Class Action Fairness Act, addresses the problems in our class action system by allowing large, truly national cases to be moved to federal court. This, we believe, is what the framers of the Constitution initially intended in granting federal courts jurisdiction over cases that involve interstate commerce.

Critics say allowing more class action cases to be heard at the federal level would undermine state law. That is simply not true. Rather, S. 274 protects the jurisdiction of state courts by ensuring that smaller cases involving less than $5 million or featuring fewer than 100 plaintiffs and those that deal specifically with state law remain in a given states legal system.

In fact, the Judiciary Committee, before favorably reporting out the legislation in April, approved an amendment authored by Sen. Dianne Feinstein (D-Calif.) that would further protect state court jurisdiction. Under her amendment, cases would automatically stay in state court when two-thirds or more of the plaintiffs are from the same state as the defendant.

Critics have also said S. 274 would overburden the federal courts, making it more difficult for consumers to file and win class action lawsuits. The bill, however, would actually improve consumer protections by increasing judicial scrutiny of class action settlements and requiring that class action notices be easier for plaintiffs to read and understand .

As for any additional court burden, S. 274 could actually expedite cases by relieving state courts of the burden of handling national class actions and allowing federal courts to combine similar class actions from different jurisdictions.

In addition, the bill would not limit attorneys fees or cap awards, nor would it prevent any group of injured consumers from seeking redress through a class action case.

Simply put, the legislation is a measured response that addresses key procedural flaws in a system that is currently failing consumers and businesses alike in too many instances. We should move to pass this important bill as soon as possible.

Carper sits on the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs;
Environment and Public Works ; Governmental Affairs and Special Aging committees.

Court reform, not tort reform, for class action

Did anybody ask if you wanted to be a plaintiff? Probably not. Nevertheless, across the country, lawyers (whom you've never met) are filing claims (which you may not agree with) on your behalf (without your permission) and scoring huge fees for themselves, and you likely will never see a dime.

How can that happen? Because of a special type of suit the class action. In the modern world of class actions, plaintiffs often get little or no relief while lawyers make millions.

POLLSTERS:

In a typical settlement, in an Illinois state court class action, cable television customers received no compensation whatsoever for allegedly excessive billing. The cable operator did agree to change some billing practices, but all of the cash settlement $5.6 million went to the plaintiffs lawyers.

In another notorious settlement, the plaintiff class members had a debit posted to their accounts in a proceeding against mortgage lenders. They were actually worse off than if the case had not been filed, and their lawyers received $8.5 million.

The most egregious cases have been steered to friendly state courts, where certain elected judges routinely certify as class actions almost all cases.

Sometimes the certification order is entered before the defendant is served with notice of the suit and has an opportunity to defend. The cases involve large national corporate defendants, and the plaintiffs live across the country. The cases are truly national in scope, but instead of being filed in federal court where they belong, the cases are frequently filed in a handful of state courts where favored treatment of the lawyers demands is virtually assured.

Class action filings in these magnet state courts have increased by more than 1,000 percent. In one rural county, Madison County, Ill., the number of class actions grows dramatically every year, even though the parties don't live there and the cases have no special relationship to that county or state.

How can that abuse occur? Unfortunately, our justice system allows it.

Under current law, a federal court has so-called diversity jurisdiction over a case only if each plaintiff lives in a state different than each defendant and each plaintiff's claim is at least $75,000. Where even one plaintiff is from the same state as one defendant, the case gets sent back to state court.

That rule leads to a nonsensical result. Federal courts have jurisdiction over a slip-and-fall case by a Virginia plaintiff in a Maryland convenience store as long as the plaintiff alleges damages amounting to $75,001. But a $70 million case with 1,000 plaintiffs from all 50 states, involving laws from multiple jurisdictions, winds up in a state court in Madison County, Ill.

Surely, the Framers did not have those consequences in mind. In fact, if Congress were starting anew to define what kinds of cases should be within Article III's diversity jurisdiction, large-scale interstate class actions would certainly top the list. They typically involve the largest amounts, the most people and the most substantial effects on interstate commerce.

The Class Action Fairness Act (H.R. 1115), of which I am an original co-sponsor, would correct that by allowing class actions to be litigated in federal court if the class collectively seeks $2 million and the case is national in nature. If its center of gravity is local, it would remain in the state court. The measure is entirely consistent with traditional principles of federalism.

It is also important to stress that the bill is not tort reform, but more accurately, court reform. Unlike tort reform efforts, the bill does not cap damages; it does not eliminate joint and several liability; and it does not limit attorneys fees. It does nothing to change the substantive rights of injured parties or the substantive liability of corporate wrongdoers. And it doesn't limit the availability of class actions, which do serve a valid purpose in vindicating rights. The bill simply reforms court procedures, to allow for truly national cases to be heard by federal judges who are used to handling complex litigation and who routinely apply the laws of different states (as is necessary in this sort of litigation).

The Washington Post recently decried the current system, saying, This is not justice. It is an extortion racket that only Congress can fix. With H.R. 1115, Congress can fix the problem. The bill is the best chance for meaningful court reform to ensure consumers no longer get taken for a ride.

Boucher sits on the House Energy and Commerce and Judiciary committees.

Brett,
Attached are Justice Qs and As following an April 8th hearing before the Senate Judiciary Committee on S.J.Res 1. These Qs and As are addressed to Viet Dinh. Justice would like to have their Qs and As cleared by tomorrow so they could submit them for tomorrow's markup that is scheduled before the Senate Judiciary Committee's Constitution, Civil Rights and Property Rights Subcommittee. These Qs and As are 15 pages long. I have not circulated them yet for clearance. Could you let me know if you could review these by tomorrow afternoon or if you would need more than just a day to review them. Thank you.

FOLLOW-UP QUESTIONS FOR HEARING ON S.J. RES. 1, A PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO PROTECT CRIME VICTIMS
APRIL 8, 2003

Questions by Senator Leahy for Viet Dinh

- 1. James Madison wrote in the Federalist Papers that constitutional amendments should be reserved for "certain great and extraordinary occasions."

(A) Do you agree with this standard?

Yes.

(B) Is there anything in our current Constitution that inhibits the enactment of State or Federal laws that protect crime victims?

Nothing in the Constitution specifically inhibits the enactment of statutes to protect crime victims. However, although there have been legislative efforts to grant victims many of the rights contained in this amendment, in my view legislative guarantees are not always sufficient when viewed in light of an accused person's rights under the U.S. Constitution. Unfortunately, this is often the case even where a victim's statutory rights are capable of protection without infringing upon the defendant's constitutional rights. Furthermore, statutes would not address two critical issues that necessitate a constitutional amendment, i.e., uniform implementation of rights, and establishing standing for victims to assert these rights in court.

(C) Please identify any appellate decisions of which you are aware that were not eventually reversed in which a State of Federal victims' rights law was not given effect because of a defendant's right in the U.S. Constitution.

Two specific examples where State victims' constitutional rights were not given effect because of a defendant's rights under the U.S. Constitution are:

State ex rel. Romley v. Superior Court, 836 P.2d 445, 453, (Ariz. Ct. App. 1992), in which the Arizona Court of Appeals ruled that a victim's State constitutional right must yield to a defendant's Federal and State constitutional right to due process. This case involved a State constitutional right that precludes the trial court from compelling disclosure of the victim's medical records. The defendant argued that the statute violated her due process rights because without the information, she could not mount an adequate defense or conduct adequate cross-examination of witnesses. The Arizona Court of Appeals ruled that the defendant's Federal and State due process right trumped the victim's State constitutional right.

Martinez v. State of Florida, 664 So.2d 1034 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1996), where the defendant was convicted of attempted manslaughter with a firearm and appealed on several grounds, including that the court erred in giving priority to the constitutional right of a victim to afforded to victims of crime. Some states have already extended statutory victims' rights to victims of other types of crime and the amendment in no way restricts such rights. Furthermore, the states and the federal government are free to broaden statutory protections for these other types of crime and it is my belief that by passing S.J. Res. 1, more attention will be focused on the plight of all victims, and perhaps other protections will be examined and possibly broadened.

Should the court examine the detrimental effects of each crime before determining whether the victim has Constitutional rights?

When dealing with a constitutional amendment, there are always going to be situations where it will be impossible to determine just what the courts will do when interpreting the boundaries of the amendment. Other amendments to the Constitution have undergone many of years of review and interpretation and we therefore have developed a jurisprudence that better equips us to determine what the most likely, and proper outcome will be. Although recognizing that one-hundred percent certainty is an impossibility, we do believe that the sponsors of this amendment have strived to reduce the situations where uncertainty could exist. By requiring courts to examine the detrimental effect of each crime before determining whether the victim has constitutional rights, we believe that it would invite even more uncertainty which would increase the difficulties that could arise if federal, state, and local prosecutors were unable to predict what their proper response should be in certain circumstances.

Question 6

In your statement, you wrote, "Our major concern with a constitutional amendment protecting the rights of victims is that our prosecutorial and law enforcement responsibilities are not unnecessarily burdened so as to impair our ability to prosecute criminals." In California, relatives of a homicide victim complained to a judge that a plea bargain between the prosecution and the defense was too lenient. They got what they wanted – withdrawal of the plea and prosecution of the man on murder charges. However, at the close of the trial, the defendant was acquitted and went free.

Do you believe that the rights of victims in this case burdened the prosecutor's ability to prosecute the case?

Although we would not feel comfortable stating unequivocally that the victims' rights did or did not burden the prosecutor's ability to prosecute the case without knowing the particular circumstances and having all of the facts before me, we do believe that the facts that you have cited led to an unfortunate result in this particular case. However, we think that even the opponents of the victims' rights amendment concede that overall prosecutorial efforts are more, not less, effective when victims are regularly consulted during the course of a case.

How would the language of S.J. Res. 1 avert a similar outcome in other criminal prosecutions?

The proposed language of S.J. Res. 1 allows victims the right reasonably to be heard and to decisions that duly consider the victim's safety. However, it does not allow a victim the right to preclude plea bargains. Judges will be called upon to consider the rights of the defendant, the rights of the victim, and the pursuit of justice, and they will make determinations on a case-by-case basis.

Question 7

In your statement, you wrote, "The Department fully supports Section 5's limitation on the ratification period to seven years from the time Congress submits the amendment to the States. The limitation is necessary to ensure that the ratification period does not remain open in perpetuity, possibly outliving the intent and circumstances of its original passage by Congress." I believe we should not amend the Constitution – which has served us well for over 200 years – casually.

If you think the "intent and circumstances" leading us to amend the Constitution may change in as few as seven years, is this not an argument for a statutory and not a constitutional approach to protecting victims?

I do not believe that it is. A number of amendments to the Constitution contain such a clause – the 18th, 20th, 21st, and the 22nd Amendments. The purpose of such a clause is to preclude the type of situation like that encountered with the ratification of the 27th Amendment, which was originally proposed in 1789 but not ratified by the requisite number of state legislatures until 1992. We believe that the experience of the 27th Amendment, which remained in constitutional limbo for over 200 years, has led the Congress to include such a clause in a substantial number of proposed constitutional amendments over the last two decades. For example, amendments proposed in the last few years which have contained such a time limitation include those to ban flag burning and to limit campaign expenditures introduced recently in the 108th Congress; to repeal the 22nd Amendment and to provide for a balanced budget introduced in the 107th Congress; and an amendment to provide for Congressional term limits and your amendment to abolish the electoral college introduced in the 106th Congress.

Question 8

In Ms. Earlene Eason's testimony, she wrote of her frustration that the DA would not ask for a continuance on her behalf so she could attend the sentencing of the person who pled guilty to murdering her son. Do you believe S.J. Res. 1 would allow a victim to seek a continuance? If so, under what circumstances? How would this be reconciled with the Constitutional right to a speedy trial?

I do not believe that the amendment as drafted allows a victim an absolute right to a continuance. The amendment grants a victim the right not to be excluded from a public proceeding and the right reasonably to be heard at a public sentencing hearing. First, the right not to be excluded is not tantamount to a right to be present, i.e., the court does not need to accommodate the victim's right to be there, it simply cannot exclude him or her from the proceeding. Second, the right reasonably to be heard does not necessarily have to entail the victim's presence, a victim could be afforded the right to be heard in writing rather than orally. However, courts may well decide, on a case-by-case basis, that a continuance would not adversely affect the proceedings and therefore order a continuance so that the victim's right under the amendment can be fully realized.

There are numerous scenarios where the defendant's right to a speedy trial would in no way be implicated by a continuance issued so as to allow the victim to be present. This would be the case when the continuance sought was a mere matter of days, or even longer. The Supreme Court has stated that the right to a speedy trial does not preclude delays and has identified four factors that should be considered when making determinations in this context: the length of the delay, the reason for the delay, the defendant's assertion of his right, and prejudice to the defendant. Barker v. Wingo, 407 U.S. 514 (1972). In addition, the Court stated that "until there is some delay which is presumptively prejudicial, there is no necessity for inquiry into the other factors that go into the balance." Id. at 530. Under this analysis, depending on the length of the delay a continuance may cause, it is entirely possible that the defendant's right to a speedy trial will in no way be implicated.

Question 9

In Mr. Duane Lynn's testimony, he expressed his frustration that he could not comment on how his wife's murdered should be sentenced. Do you believe S.J. Res. 1 would allow a victim to make a sentencing recommendation (such as the death penalty instead of life in prison or vice versa) in his or her impact statement?

I do believe that a court could decide that under the proposed amendment a victim has the right to offer his or her opinion as to whether the defendant should be sentenced to life or death. Indeed, it is unclear that current law precludes such victim testimony. In Payne v. Tennessee, 501 U.S. 808 (1991), the Supreme Court ruled that the Eighth Amendment does not erect a per se bar to the admission of victim impact evidence in capital cases. In so doing, the Court overruled two of its prior precedents, Booth v. Maryland, 482 U.S. 496 (1987), in which the Court ruled that victim impact evidence relating to the personal characteristics of the victim and the emotional impact of the crimes on the victim's family were barred, and South Carolina v. Gathers, 490 U.S. 805 (1989), which ruled that a prosecutor could not argue to the jury the human cost of the crime during the sentencing phase of a capital case. However, the Supreme Court has not ruled on whether victim impact statements can include a sentencing recommendation and it is unclear, based on the Court's prior rulings, that it would decide that such recommendations are per se unconstitutional. In Oklahoma, victims are allowed to give opinions of a recommended sentence. See OKLA. STAT. ANN. § 984. In ruling on a due process challenge to victim impact testimony that included a recommendation for the death penalty in a capital case, the Oklahoma Court of Criminal Appeals ruled that such opinion testimony is permissible and articulated the proper standard of review: "evidence by victim impact witnesses that the defendant deserves death is admissible but will be viewed by this Court with a heightened degree of scrutiny." Conover v. State of Oklahoma, 933 P.2d 904, 921 (Okla. Crim. App. 1997). Although the court found the particular opinion testimony given in this case to have been more prejudicial than probative, it ruled that "there was nothing improper in the opinions given by the three witnesses in this case that the death penalty was the appropriate sentence . . . . However, this type of evidence should be limited to a simple statement of the recommended sentence without amplification." Id. at 921.

Ultimately, it will be up to the courts to decide whether or not the amendment grants victims the right to offer their opinion as to whether the defendant should be sentenced to life or death, but we do believe that it is entirely consistent with the right "reasonably to be heard" to allow victims the right to give a sentencing recommendation. As in other contexts, the courts will have to examine this right in light of a defendant's constitutional rights and define the application of the competing rights or balance the competing rights in a particular case and rule in favor of the party with the more compelling argument.

Senate Judiciary Committee Hearing on S.J. Res. 1, the Victims' Rights Amendment
Written Question for Assistant Attorney General Viet Dinh

1. At the hearing, there was some discussion about what would happen if S. J. Res. 1 was adopted and a victim's constitutional right came into conflict with a criminal defendant's constitutional right. First, I want to clarify that nothing in the amendment would take away defendants' rights. Section 1 of the amendment makes clear that victims' rights are capable of protection without denying defendants' constitutional rights. Second, in many instances, the basic procedural rights conferred by the amendment would have little, if any, impact on defendants' rights. For example, it is hard to see how a defendant could plausibly object to providing notice to victims about the date and location of public proceedings involving the crime. Third, the amendment qualifies many of the victims' rights to ensure that courts limit them appropriately. For instance, under the amendment, victims would have no constitutional right to be heard at trial and, at other public proceedings involving the crime, victims would have only a right "reasonably" to be heard. Fourth, the amendment provides three specific exceptions to restrict victims' rights: 1) a substantial interest in public safety; 2) a substantial interest in the administration of criminal justice; and 3) compelling necessity.

I would like to clarify one point about the administration of criminal justice exception. In responses to me and to Senator Durbin at the hearing, you suggested that the administration of criminal justice exception would allow courts faced with a conflict between a defendant's constitutional right and a victim's constitutional right to balance these rights and decide in favor of the person with the more compelling argument.

I agree with that response. However, to avoid any misunderstanding, I want to make clear that defendants' rights could come under any one (or more) of the three exceptions in Section 2 of the amendment, not just the administration of criminal justice exception. Let me offer some examples of how that could happen. If a victim sat in the courtroom and tried to disrupt the proceeding by yelling at the defendant, this would adversely affect the administration of criminal justice. To ensure that the defendant received his or her constitutional right to a fair trial, the judge could have the victim removed (and even pursue other actions against the victim, such as holding the victim in contempt). If the same victim threatened bodily harm to the defendant or judge, that would also implicate public safety as well as violate the defendant's constitutional right to a fair trial. The judge could, at a minimum, force the victim to leave under the public safety exception. If the victim was horribly maimed by the crime and insisted on sitting immediately in front of the jury, the judge could determine that compelling necessity dictated that the victim not be allowed to be present during the trial.

Obviously, I do not intend these examples to be exhaustive. However, I do think that they illustrate some of the variety of ways in which the amendment would ensure the protection of defendants' constitutional rights consistent with the existence of victims' constitutional rights. These ways would always depend heavily on the underlying context in which the rights came into conflict and the weight of the defendant's and victim's respective interests. Similar balancing is done in other situations where constitutional rights conflict—for example, where the media's First Amendment right to cover a trial conflicts with a defendant's constitutional right to a fair trial.

a) Do you agree that criminal defendants' rights could come under any one (or more) of the three exceptions in Section 2 of the amendment, not just the administration of criminal justice exception?

Yes.

b) Assuming that you answer yes to question 1(a), do you agree that, if a victim's constitutional right conflicted with a defendant's constitutional right, the judge would then—applying applicable precedent—balance (or otherwise reconcile) these rights and then decide in favor of the person with the more compelling argument?

Yes. We believe that by allowing for restrictions when there is a substantial interest in public safety or the administration of criminal justice, or by compelling necessity, the amendment would allow the courts either to articulate boundaries to define the application of competing rights or to balance the competing rights in a particular case and rule in favor of the party with the more compelling argument.

be present in the courtroom over the defendant's constitutional right to a fair trial by having the witnesses sequestered. Despite the Florida State victims' rights amendment, the court, citing Gore v. State of Florida, agreed with the defendant and stated that the victims should not have been permitted in the courtroom during opening statements. However, the court affirmed the defendant's conviction, concluding that the error in this particular case was harmless.

2. If Congress enacted spending power-based legislation to get every state to implement a uniform national standard of victims rights, what would remain to be done that only a constitutional amendment could accomplish?

Although such legislation would do away with one of the main concerns with statutory remedies, the need for uniformity, it would not accomplish the same goals as a constitutional amendment. As stated previously, in my view legislative guarantees are not always sufficient when viewed in light of an accused person's rights under the U.S. Constitution. Unfortunately, this is often the case even where a victim's statutory rights are capable of protection without infringing upon the defendant's rights because courts often will not reach the threshold question of whether the two sets of rights are truly in conflict. This was best illustrated in a study conducted by the National Institute of Justice in 1998 entitled The Rights of Crime Victims – Does Legal Protection Make a Difference?, which after surveying more than 1,300 crime victims, concluded that although "[s]trong victims' rights law make a difference, . . . even where there is strong legal protection, victims' needs are not fully met."

3. Section 1 of the proposed amendment states: "The rights of victims of violent crime, being capable of protection without denying the constitutional rights of those accused of victimizing them, are hereby established and shall not be denied." If a judge concludes that there is indeed a conflict between a victim's rights and the constitutional rights of the accused, would section 1 require the judge to discard that legal conclusion and uphold the right of the accused?

As Assistant Attorney General Dinh stated during the hearing, it would be very difficult for me to speculate how this amendment will be interpreted and how judges will decide cases in particular instances. However, we do believe that the amendment allows sufficient flexibility to afford a judge the ability to protect the interests and rights of criminal defendants. For example, by allowing for restrictions when there is a substantial interest in public safety or the administration of criminal justice, or by compelling necessity, the amendment would allow the courts either to articulate boundaries defining the application of competing rights or to balance the competing rights in a particular case.

4. Four of the current amendments to the Constitution – the 14th, 15th, 24th, and 26th – recognize a distinction between the complete "denial" or rights and the "abridgement" of them. Similarly, section 1 of the proposed amendment refers to rights being both "denied" and "restricted." Does the assurance that the constitutional rights of the accused will not be "denied" mean that a judge is free to "restrict" those rights in ways that the Constitution might not otherwise allow if doing so will make it easier to accommodate the rights of victims?

As stated in response to Question 3, we believe that the amendment allows sufficient flexibility to afford a judge in a particular case the ability to protect the interests and rights of a criminal defendant. In cases where there is a tension between the rights of victims and the rights of defendants, courts will rule in favor of the party with the more compelling legal argument.

5. I think we would both agree that in a mass-victim case, the court should not be required to allow each of the potentially thousands of victims to speak at a bail or sentencing hearing – meaning that there are some cases when it might be entirely reasonable to deny some victims the right to be heard. But given that the rights conferred by proposed amendment belong to each individual victim, and that the text of the amendment allows a victim’s participatory rights to be "restricted" in limited circumstances but never "denied," how would it be possible for courts to allow the kind of flexibility we need without completely ignoring the obvious difference between a "restriction" and a "denial?"

It is my understanding that the amendment as drafted does not grant a victim the absolute right to speak at a bail or sentencing hearing. The amendment instead grants victims the right "reasonably to be heard" at specified public proceedings. The "reasonably to be heard" guarantee can be accomplished by allowing a victim to communicate his or her views to the court either orally or in writing. Such a decision would be at the court’s discretion. In addition, we disagree that the language of the amendment does not allow for exceptions to the right "reasonably to be heard." Indeed, the text of the amendment itself explicitly allows for such exceptions. In other contexts, it has been left up to the courts to determine the boundaries of certain rights, for example when the press’ First Amendment rights are pitted against a defendant’s right to a fair trial. However, the last clause of section 2, which reads "These rights shall not be restricted except when and to the degree dictated by a substantial interest in public safety or the administration of criminal justice, or by compelling necessity," clearly allows for exceptions by employing a two-tiered approach – the lower standard of substantial interest is used when the matter concerns public safety or the administration of criminal justice, while a higher standard of compelling necessity is used for other possible justifications.

6. Under section 2 of the proposed amendment, a crime victim has "the right to reasonable and timely notice of any public proceeding involving the crime." Please explain how this provision would apply in multi-victim cases. For example, suppose that one victim of a multi-victim offense files a civil tort action against the offender for damages resulting from the criminal conduct. That action would be "a public proceeding involving the crime," even though the prosecutor may have no knowledge of it. Who would have the constitutional obligation to provide "reasonable and timely notice" to the other victims?

I do not believe that the amendment as written grants victims the right to be informed of civil actions and therefore there is no attendant constitutional obligation to provide reasonable and timely notice in such cases.

7. Section 3 of the proposed amendment states that "[o]nly the victim or the victim's lawful representative may assert the rights established by this article." If a defendant raises an objection to having an indigent victim speak at a proceeding, who would handle the litigation on behalf of the victim? I assume the prosecutor would gladly do so for a victim who could not afford to hire counsel, but under section 3, would that be permissible? Would the prosecutor have the right or the duty to make what she believed to be a better argument on behalf of a represented victim?

Although presumably Congress and/or state legislatures could enact legislation that establishes a framework by which indigent victims can receive representation, we do not think that section 3 precludes a prosecutor from asserting the rights of victims. The relevant clause in section 3 to which we believe you refer reads "Only the victim or the victim's lawful representative may assert the rights established by this article...." This clause confers standing to assert the rights, something that mere legislation has been unable to do. However, although it is the victim or his or her representative who has standing, presumably any attorney could go before the court on his or her behalf.

8. Section 3 of the proposed amendment forbids granting a new trial as a remedy for the violation of a victim's rights, but does not forbid re-opening the sentencing proceeding. (A) If a prosecutor fails to notify a victim of the sentencing hearing, can the victim obtain a new sentencing hearing after sentence has been imposed? (B) If the victim persuades the judge at such a hearing to impose a longer prison term or order greater restitution, would that constitute a denial of the accused's Fifth Amendment right to be protected against Double Jeopardy?

I do not believe that S.J. Res. 1 provides grounds for invalidating a sentence nor would it allow a new sentencing hearing. The Department supports the need to protect the finality of judgments and believes that judgments should not be disturbed by the passage of this amendment. Remedies for violation of rights specified in the proposed amendment should be separate from the outcome of the case or any proceeding thereof.

9. At the sentencing phase of a capital case, there are normally two parties – the government and the defendant – that call witnesses in an effort to provide as factual matters aggravating and mitigating factors that support either a death sentence or a lesser punishment. As a matter of due process, none of those witnesses is allowed to make an argument as to what the sentence should be; such arguments are reserved for counsel at the end of the phase. Would the proposed amendment give qualifying victims the right to offer their opinion as to whether the defendant should be sentenced to life or death?

Although we are not entirely sure that due process necessarily disallows witnesses from arguing in favor of a proper sentence, we do believe that a court could decide that under the proposed amendment a victim has the right to offer his or her opinion as to whether the defendant should be sentenced to life or death. In Payne v. Tennessee, 501 U.S. 808 (1991), the Supreme Court ruled that the Eighth Amendment does not erect a per se bar to the admission of victim impact evidence in capital cases. In so doing, the Court overruled two of its prior precedents, Booth v. Maryland, 482 U.S. 496 (1987), in which the Court ruled that victim impact evidence relating to the personal characteristics of the victim and the emotional impact of the crimes on the victim's family were barred, and South Carolina v. Gathers, 490 U.S. 805 (1989), which ruled that a prosecutor could not argue to the jury the human cost of the crime during the sentencing phase of a capital case. However, the Supreme Court has not ruled on whether victim impact statements can include a sentencing recommendation and it is unclear, based on the Court's prior rulings, that it would decide that such recommendations are per se unconstitutional. In Oklahoma, victims are allowed to give opinions of a recommended sentence. See OKLA. STAT. ANN. § 984. In ruling on a due process challenge to victim impact testimony that included a recommendation for the death penalty in a capital case, the Oklahoma Court of Criminal Appeals ruled that such opinion testimony is permissible and articulated the proper standard of review: "evidence by victim impact witnesses that the defendant deserves death is admissible but will be viewed by this Court with a heightened degree of scrutiny." Conover v. State of Oklahoma, 933 P.2d 904, 921 (Okla. Crim. App. 1997). Although the court found the particular opinion testimony given in this case to have been more prejudicial than probative, it ruled that "there was nothing improper in the opinions given by the three witnesses in this case that the death penalty was the appropriate sentence . . . . However, this type of evidence should be limited to a simple statement of the recommended sentence without amplification." Id. at 921.

Ultimately, it will be up to the courts to decide whether or not the amendment grants victims the right to offer their opinion as to whether the defendant should be sentenced to life or death, but we do believe that it is entirely consistent with the right "reasonably to be heard" to allow victims the right to give a sentencing recommendation. As in other contexts, the courts will have to examine this right in light of a defendant's constitutional rights and define the application of the competing rights or balance the competing rights in a particular case and rule in favor of the party with the more compelling argument.

10. Given that earlier versions of S.J. Res. 1 contained explicit language prohibiting a court from staying or continuing a trial once it is underway, language that has been discarded in the current bill, what would prevent an appellate court from doing just that to prevent further potential violations of a victim's participatory rights while an interlocutory appeal was pending?

I do not believe that S.J. Res. 1 could be construed to provide grounds to stay trials, reopen proceedings, or invalidate rulings. Although it remains to be seen how courts will interpret the amendment and make determinations given specific fact patterns, the Department believes that the proposed amendment should not be used as a tool to delay criminal proceedings (such as the use of injunctive relief to delay a proceeding). Remedies for violation of rights specified in the proposed amendment should be separate from the outcome of the case.

11. To what extent are the rights described in the proposed amendment self-executing?

Please identify any specific rights that (A) would not require implementing legislation, or (B) would be immune from limiting legislation.

(A) Although the Department welcomes any appropriate implementing legislation, we believe that the entire amendment is self-executing, and therefore the rights are enforceable even in the absence of specific legislation. It is the Department's hope that Congress, when considering any implementing legislation, will strive to clearly define those situations where the amendment will apply in order to minimize the difficulties that could arise if federal, state and local prosecutors were unable to determine their proper response in certain situations.

(B) The second sentence in section 4, which reads "Nothing in this article shall affect the President's authority to grant reprieves or pardons," prevents Congress from enacting legislation that would affect the President's power to grant reprieves and pardons . The Department believes that the President's reprieve and pardon power under Article II of the Constitution is plenary and is in no way affected by the proposed amendment.

Follow-Up Questions for Assistance Attorney General Viet Dinh
Regarding a proposed constitutional amendment to protect crime victims (S.J. Res. 1)

Senator Richard J. Durbin
April 29, 2003

Question 1

Section 1 of S.J. Res. 1 states: "The rights of victims of violent crimes, being capable of protection without denying the constitutional rights of those accused of victimizing them are hereby established and shall not be denied by any State or the United States and may be restricted only as provided in this article."

- a.) Do you believe this presumption is true? In other words, would S.J. Res. 1 deny any rights of the accused as guaranteed under the Constitution? If so, which rights and how would they be denied?

I do believe that this presumption is true. The rights granted by the proposed amendment are not intended to operate in conflict with those rights granted to defendants under the Constitution and as enunciated by the Supreme Court, but rather are intended to operate in parallel with those rights. We do not support the proposition that the amendment, as drafted, denies any rights of the accused.

- b.) Do you believe S.J. Res 1 diminishes any rights of the accused as guaranteed under the Constitution? If so, which rights and how would they be diminished?

No, we do not believe that S.J. Res. 1 as drafted diminishes any rights of the accused. If a conflict were to arise, it would ultimately be up to the Courts to delineate the boundaries of the rights and to accommodate both to the greatest extent possible.

If not, can you explain why S.J. Res. 1 would not deny or diminish the right to an impartial jury, specifically in cases where the victim is a witness in a case? In such cases, do you believe the victim would be excluded from the proceedings under the exception created by a "substantial interest in public safety or the administration of criminal justice" or do you believe the victim would be allowed to attend the proceedings?

Allowing a victim to be present during a trial, simply because he or she is an intended witness, would not necessarily deny or diminish the right to an impartial jury. Ultimately, based on the facts of the case, it would be up to the court to determine if indeed a defendant's right to an impartial jury would be implicated by granting a victim a right not to be excluded from the proceedings. Indeed, courts make similar determinations in many contexts and are able to harmonize rights that some may argue are in conflict. For example, courts are often called upon to accommodate the right of the press and the public to attend trials and to reconcile these rights with the rights of a defendant to a fair trial.

Question 2

In the 105th Congress, when the Senate Judiciary Committee considered another version of this amendment, I offered an amendment that said "Nothing in this article shall be construed to deny or diminish the rights of the accused as guaranteed by this Constitution."

Would you object to the adoption of similar language to S.J. Res. 1? Why or why not?

I believe that the language you suggested would be detrimental to the intended purpose of the amendment. The inclusion of such language would make the amendment similar to a legislative grant of victims' rights, where a court would not need to consider the relationship between the rights of victims and the rights of the accused, but rather would protect the latter to the detriment of the former.

Do you believe this language is consistent with your conclusions in responding to Question 1?

While we do believe that this language is consistent with my conclusion in Question 1, we do not necessarily believe that it would be consistent with the intent of the amendment – to require courts to give consideration to the rights of victims in the criminal justice system. Because its inclusion would make the amendment similar to a legislative grant of rights, courts would not be required to reach the threshold question of whether a victim's right truly conflicts with a right of the defendant.

Question 3

Section 3 states: "Only the victim or the victim's lawful representative may assert the rights established by this article." However, this amendment does not define "victim." I understand your position that Congress will likely be responsible for defining this term. Please provide guidance for Congress in addressing the following hypothetical possibilities:

- a.) Someone is murdered. Is the deceased the only victim of the crime? What about the spouse? Significant others? Domestic partner? Parents? Children?
- b.) A child is kidnaped and recovered. Is the child the victim? Or the parents?
- c.) A battered wife, who has been the victim of domestic violence for a long period of time and finally strikes back and assaults the spouse who has battered her, is brought in on criminal charges of assault and battery, and the abusing spouse becomes a victim, too. Who is the victim with Constitutional rights?

If the amendment is adopted, the courts presumably will develop a body of jurisprudence that will more precisely define the term "victim," and the corresponding reach of Congressional authority to refine that definition. However, we believe that in the case of a murdered person, it would be appropriate to allow the victim's rights to be exercised by a surviving family member or other appropriate representative, and am confident that courts will agree with this conclusion. In the case of a minor victim, such as in the kidnaping context, it should again be an appropriate representative that will exercise the victim's rights. As for situations involving domestic violence, it may very well be that the accused batterer technically meets any developed definition of a victim. However, the amendment currently contains exception language which reads: "These rights shall not be restricted except when and to the degree dictated by a substantial interest in public safety or the administration of criminal justice, or by compelling necessity." In domestic violence cases, where the true victim of the abusive relationship may actually be the defendant in a particular case and the abuser may be the victim, a judge may well decide that a substantial interest in public safety, or one of the other grounds for an exception, exists so as to preclude the abusive "victim" from exercising the given rights.

Question 4

S.J. Res. 1 also does not define "the victim's lawful representative" or explain how such a person should be chosen. In the hypothetical situation involving a murder victim, what would happen if both the spouse and the father of the deceased wanted to be the "lawful representative?" Who do you propose should make that determination? A judge? The prosecutor? What if the party who was not selected wants to appeal this decision?

It would be up to the courts to determine, on a case-by-case basis, who the victim's lawful representative should be.

Question 5

In your statement, you wrote, "By focusing on victims of violent crime, however, the proposed amendment recognizes the more detrimental effects that violent crime has on the most vulnerable of victims."

This assumes that violent crime has more detrimental effects on its victims. What about the victim of a misdemeanor assault? Is that person more worthy of Constitutional rights than an elderly widow has been swindled out of her life savings?

I do not believe that it would be correct to state that one type of victim is more or less worthy of Constitutional rights. However, those affected by violent crime often have not only a pecuniary loss as a result of the crime, but also suffer physically and psychologically.

In addition, it is important to note that the proposed amendment respects the role of state and local governments because it does not bar state and local governments from providing additional or broader rights to victims. It provides a floor and not a ceiling of the rights to be

Although smaller and less prominent, the Hudson Institute has carved out a niche for itself, not only by placing its scholars in the administration but also by driving a few issues important to the administration and even in some cases helping write and pass bills over its objections.

Hudson's ideas to reform tort law have made their way into bills that reached the floor of the Senate, and White House officials Brett Kavanaugh, Jay Lefkowitz and Phil Perry have all shown interest in the ideas.

Bush also drew on Hudson's work on the persecution of evangelical Christians around the world and sexual slavery in Eastern Europe to devise a part of his foreign policy — both over the objections of the Clinton administration.

But over objections of some in the White House and Justice Department, Senate aides said, Hudson's Horowitz played a crucial role in drafting legislation and assembling a bipartisan coalition that makes passage of a prison-rape bill likely.

As frustrating as it is and as difficult to counter in the media and with congressional offices suffering from ADD, you know you are on the right track when the opposition is reduced to total fabrications and fictitious allegations against the legislation in the final several days before the vote.

House Republicans approve plan to move most class-action lawsuits to federal courts
Associated Press Newswires
June 12, 2003

REV_00404188

By Jesse J. Holland

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House on Thursday approved moving virtually all national class-action lawsuits from state court into federal court, a move supporters hope will curb frivolous lawsuits but opponents fear will allow big businesses to escape multimillion-dollar verdicts for misdeeds.

Pushing the bill through on a 253-170 vote, majority Republicans argued that trial lawyers increasingly abuse such lawsuits to profit from multimillion-dollar settlements. Victims, on the other hand, often get virtually worthless coupons, GOP lawmakers maintain.

"These suits are one of the most grossly abused parts of the American system of justice," said Rep. Deborah Pryce, R-Ohio. "We have seen a deluge of frivolous lawsuits designed to coerce quick and often unwarranted settlements, often to enrich only a few."

Democrats called the bill corporate welfare to help out big businesses that abuse the public. Federal courts are assumed to be less likely to issue multimillion-dollar verdicts on big corporations.

"It's indefensible," said Rep. Martin Frost, D-Texas. "This is simply welfare for some of the worst corporate wrongdoers, big companies like WorldCom, Arthur Andersen and Enron."

The White House supports the legislation. "The bill will remove significant burdens on class-action litigants and provide greater protections for the victims whom the class-action device originally was designed to benefit," the Bush administration said.

House Democrats say the bill is unfair, because it would change not only future class-action lawsuits, but even the ones being heard in court right now.

"The purpose is to shield corporate wrongdoers from civil liability and leave the public unprotected," said Rep. William Delahunt, D-Mass. "This is not about protecting plaintiffs and insuring prompt recoveries, it's about protecting large corporations."

The House, on a voice vote, changed their legislation to make it similar to a version being considered by the Senate.

Under the House and Senate bills, class-action lawsuits in which the primary defendant and more than one-third of the plaintiffs were from the same state would still be heard in state court. But if fewer than one-third of the plaintiffs were from the same state as the primary defendant, the case would go to federal court.

Also, at least $5 million would have to be at stake for a class-action lawsuit to be heard in federal court.

But House Democrats say the Senate bill is still better, because it does not apply retroactively. The Senate bill also applies only to class-action lawsuits, and not to mass tort cases, consolidated cases, joinder cases, or state attorney general actions.

"We know who they're protecting," said Rep. Max Sandlin, D-Texas.

Businesses long have complained about the threats from liability suits and have made changing the way such cases are tried a priority.

Opponents say the bill would make it harder for individuals to seek grievances against powerful defendants and would add to the burdens of federal courts overloaded with cases.

Public Citizen, a consumer advocacy group, says more than 100 companies and pro-business groups spent millions and used at least 475 lobbyists to push the legislation.

The bill "contains a number of changes that will enable corporations to injure or defraud average Americans while hiding behind legal loopholes or procedural technicalities," the group said in a report.

Criticism has failed to rattle Bill Pryor

06/13/03

ALABAMA ATTORNEY General Bill Pryor handled himself splendidly in Wednesday's Senate committee hearing to consider his nomination for a judgeship on the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

For every serious argument against him, Mr. Pryor had a clear, convincing answer. Unlike some nominees who, fearful of making mistakes, have provided canned and vague answers, the AG gave testimony in a manner specific, open, and forthright.

Indeed, Mr. Pryor parried his Democratic critics so effectively that not a single Democratic senator returned to the hearing after the lunch break to continue grilling him. Presidential candidate John Edwards of North Carolina, an accomplished trial attorney, avoided asking any questions -- a sign from a good lawyer that he sees no openings to exploit.

His critics, in short, drew no blood directly from Mr. Pryor -- although Sen. Russ Feingold (see editorial below) did raise a policy issue worth legislative consideration.

Sen. Charles Schumer of New York proved particularly apt to hit below the belt with his statements, to ignore Mr. Pryor's answers, and to mischaracterize the AG's positions. The biggest Schumer line of attack, repeated often, was that Mr. Pryor's personal views are so strong that it is "very hard to believe" those views "won't impact how he rules" as a judge.

Ignored were all the examples Mr. Pryor gave of times when as attorney general he has followed legal precedents on issues in which his preferences on policy or politics did not match his official actions. On abortion, on an anti-Southern portion of the Voting Rights Act, on redistricting matters where he opposed his own Republican Party activists, and on church-state separation issues where he opposed the very governor (Fob James) who appointed him, Mr. Pryor has set aside personal preferences and applied the law as handed to him by the U.S. Constitution and courts. But Mr. Schumer paid no heed to the direct evidence from the Pryor record.

Sen. Schumer also accused Mr. Pryor of holding that the state of Alabama "had the right" to "demote" a state worker who had been temporarily incapacitated. But the AG did no such thing; instead, he merely held (with Alexander Hamilton and James Madison) that the woman had no right to sue the state's taxpayer-funded treasury for monetary damages -- although she could indeed sue to get her job back.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled in Mr. Pryor's favor.

Similarly, Sen. Ted Kennedy of Massachusetts, asking about the AG's opinion of a recent court ruling, ignored Mr. Pryor's repeated explanations that the ruling was so recent that he had not had time to read it. Instead, Sen. Kennedy accused Mr. Pryor of making what would have been an absurd claim that he could "not remember" the case -- and thus of "ducking" the question.

And no Democrat would acknowledge that many of the supposedly "extremist" legal positions taken by the AG had been supported by top Democratic office holders, among them now-Sen. Mark Pryor of Arkansas.

In sum, and despite a fierce assault from the Democrats, few fair-minded people could watch the hearing and come away disagreeing with the opinion of Dr. Joe Reed, longtime chair of the (black) Alabama Democratic Conference, who heartily endorses the AG's nomination and says Bill Pryor "will be a credit to the judiciary and will be a guardian for justice."

This problem isn't Pryor's

06/13/03

drotU.S. SEN. Russ Feingold identified a real policy flaw, but unfairly put Alabama Attorney General Bill Pryor on the spot for it, in Wednesday's hearing about Mr. Pryor's judicial nomination.

Sen. Feingold is the Wisconsin Democrat known for his co-sponsorship of a complicated campaign-finance reform package. He noted that Mr. Pryor is an active participant in the Republican Attorneys General Association (RAGA), and outlined a hypothetical case in which a state AG might fail to investigate a company that had contributed to RAGA.

"Don't you agree," the senator finally asked, "that this scenario would present at least the appearance of a conflict of interest?"

Of course, the same basic question could be asked of just about any elected official in the country. Conflicts of interest are always possible in a system of privately financed campaigns.

RAGA is a subsidiary of the Republican National Committee, without even its own treasury. Party funds that can be donated to attorneys general are in the same account used to finance races for other state officials such as governors and legislators.

By Sen. Feingold's reasoning, any candidate who received money from RAGA could be accused of being ethically in hock to any company that donated to the party fund RAGA shares with those other Republican entities. It's a theory not just of guilt by association, but hypothetical guilt by an association twice removed. And Sen. Feingold acknowledged that it's an "appearance" problem shared by RAGA's Democratic counterpart.

The solution is not to badger a judicial nominee with pure hypotheticals. Instead, the problem belongs to Congress, which ought to write laws that require fuller disclosure, and fuller "transparency," for campaign donations. The simpler and clearer those laws are, the better. Despite his good intentions, Sen. Feingold's own complicated legislation might only make transparency more difficult to achieve.

one is about the RAGA campaign contribution issue.

— More From The Mobile Register

Criticism has failed to rattle Bill Pryor
06/13/03

ALABAMA ATTORNEY General Bill Pryor handled himself splendidly in Wednesday's Senate committee hearing to consider his nomination for a judgeship on the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. For every serious argument against him, Mr. Pryor had a clear, convincing answer. Unlike some nominees who, fearful of making mistakes, have provided canned and vague answers, the AG gave testimony in a manner specific, open, and forthright. Indeed, Mr. Pryor parried his Democratic critics so effectively that not a single Democratic senator returned to the hearing after the lunch break to continue grilling him. Presidential candidate John Edwards of North Carolina, an accomplished trial attorney, avoided asking any questions -- a sign from a good lawyer that he sees no openings to exploit. His critics, in short, drew no blood directly from Mr. Pryor -- although Sen. Russ Feingold (see editorial below) did raise a policy issue worth legislative consideration.

H.R. 660 - Small Business Health Fairness Act of 2003
(Rep. Fletcher (R) KY and 158 cosponsors)

The Administration supports House passage of H.R. 660, which would establish association health plans, thereby helping provide affordable, quality health insurance to millions of American workers and their families. Today, 85 percent of the 41 million uninsured Americans are members of working families. H.R. 660 would give small employers many of the economic and legal advantages currently enjoyed only by large employers and union plans to purchase health care coverage for their employees.

Workers, especially those in small businesses, are facing a crisis in health care. Not only are employees of small businesses half as likely as employees of larger firms to receive insurance through their employers, but the cost for that coverage is 20 to 30 percent higher. Also, insurance costs are rising more than 60 percent more rapidly for small businesses than for larger firms. Association health plans are designed to address the gap in coverage for employees of small businesses. By banding small companies together, association health plans present an ideal opportunity to expand access to affordable health insurance coverage for working Americans.

[The Administration will work with the Congress to make a technical correction to the implementation of the investment authority provision associated with the establishment of an Association Health Plan Fund.]

Pay-As-You-Go Scoring

The Budget Enforcement Act's pay-as-you-go requirements and discretionary spending caps expired on September 30, 2002. The Administration supports the extension of these budget enforcement mechanisms in a manner that ensures fiscal discipline and is consistent with the President's budget. OMB's cost estimate currently is under development.

I would really like to hurt Specter right now (does that give you a good indication?) - he is the most frustrating Member by far right now. He doesn't even understand the bill. We have gone back and forth with his staff - iteration number 4 or 5 will be exchanged Monday I think. He doesn't want any mass actions going to the MDL court for one! UGH. I am supposed to be finishing up the class action committee report so that we can circulate it, but asbestos has been in the way.

How am I? soooooo tired. Soooo very tired. But I shouldn't complain to you - I bet you are really swamped. I wish we knew for sure if there was going to be a S.Ct nominee - I am supposed to be going to Ireland in August - and I can't go if we have one, but I would like to work on a nomination (so I am conflicted).

Much more info than you probably expected - but this is sort of procrastination -I am in the middle of doing a memo summarizing back end and intermediate risk options (yawn)and not really wanting to get back to it....life in asbestos hell goes on.....:)

How are you?????? Haven't seen you over here in ages!

Brett--I'd like to meet briefly to fill you in on what we have been doing with regard for the handling of the Federal Excise Tax that applies to Press Charters. This was something that was impacted by the recent changes to the handling of Press charters, such as Air Partner and the new billing using Amex accounts. We've reached a stage where I would like to speak to offices in the IRS which we have spoken to and corresponded with in the past regarding the FET to confirm our resolution of this situation. Previously, we were required to collect and pay the tax directly to the IRS, now we believe it is appropriate for Air Partner to do this (as we no longer handle the funds), and our contact would of course be limited to confirming that resolution. Also, in working this issue and reviewing the charter agreement Eric uses with Air Partner, there are some changes I would like to suggest. I know that we have discussed this briefly before, but my inclination was that this was at a stage where it would be a good idea to fill you in.

It would be great if you can indicate some times and we can accommodate to you. Adam

I met with Greg Jenkins on Thursday to try to hammer out more of the details about how the White House advance staff will interact with the campaign advance staff.

In addition to the press credentialing question, there were a couple of others that grew out of the meeting for you to consider:

1) Equipment: Do we need to send a campaign laptop out on the road with our Staff leads or can they use White House equipment and email to communicate back and forth with the White House advance staff? If so determined, then do we need to have our own telephone lines dropped for political computers, as well -- or reimburse whca for a phone line for the computer?

2) As we discussed, the campaign will be hiring advance staff that Greg Jenkins and his staff will direct for political trips. Greg wanted to know if it is permissible for these campaign staffers to help out on official travel as well.

Thanks for your help.

Senator Seeks a Consensus in Replacing Any Justice

By NEIL A. LEWIS

WASHINGTON, June 15 — Senator Patrick J. Leahy of Vermont has urged President Bush to avoid a traumatic national battle over the Supreme Court by consulting with him and other leading Democrats before choosing a nominee, should a vacancy occur.

In two recent letters to the White House, Mr. Leahy, the ranking Democrat on the Judiciary Committee, said that if Mr. Bush took advantage of a vacancy on the court to select a staunchly conservative judge, it would produce a political war that would upset the nation and diminish respect for the courts.

"Though the landscape ahead is sown with the potential for controversy and contention over vacancies that may arise on the court, contention is avoidable, and consensus should be our goal," Mr. Leahy wrote on Wednesday. "I would hope your objective will not be to send the Senate nominees so polarizing that their confirmations are eked out in narrow margins."

Mr. Leahy said his two letters urging a bipartisan process, the one on Wednesday and one sent on May 14, had not been answered.

A White House official said the second letter had not yet been received. But this official made it sound as if that did not matter.

"There are no vacancies on the Supreme Court, so these kinds of discussions are premature," this official said.

Mr. Leahy said in an interview that he believed that Mr. Bush had an opportunity to defuse a potentially explosive situation precisely because there was no vacancy.

The next few weeks, he said, will provide an opportunity for a bipartisan agreement that will be lost if a Supreme Court retirement is announced at the end of the term in a few weeks.

Conservatives and liberals have been planning for the possibility that at least one justice will retire at the end of the term, given the age of several of them and the belief that this is Mr. Bush's last chance to choose a justice before the presidential campaign begins in earnest.

"The courts are the one part of government people yearn to believe is free of politics," Mr. Leahy said.

REV_00404613

"That's why the Florida case shook people so much," a reference to the Supreme Court ruling in Bush v. Gore that resulted in Mr. Bush's presidency.

Underlying the latest proposal by Mr. Leahy are the myriad political calculations each side has been making for any Supreme Court resignation, nomination and confirmation fight.

So far, the Bush White House and Senate Democrats have chosen confrontation over several nominees for the federal appeals courts, the level just below the Supreme Court.

Although the Senate has 51 Republicans, a bare majority, Democrats have blocked votes on two appeals court nominees and are likely to do so with other candidates, by mounting filibusters, or extended debates.

Mr. Leahy would not name any candidate conservative enough to satisfy Mr. Bush but nonideological enough to win broad support in the Senate.

Senator Charles E. Schumer of New York, a Democrat on the Judiciary Committee, offered such a list to the White House last week. His recommendations included Senator Arlen Specter, Republican of Pennsylvania, who is also on the committee; Judge Edward Prado of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, who was nominated by Mr. Bush; and Judge Michael Mukasey of the Southern District of New York, who was nominated by President Ronald Reagan.

Mr. Leahy and Mr. Schumer noted that the chairman of the committee, Senator Orrin G. Hatch, Republican of Utah, had taken some credit for advising President Bill Clinton in his selection of Ruth Bader Ginsburg and Stephen G. Breyer for the Supreme Court.

In his book "Square Peg" (Basic Books, 2002), Mr. Hatch asserts that he advised Mr. Clinton not to select Bruce Babbitt, one of his cabinet officers and a former Arizona governor, because that would produce a divisive fight. Mr. Hatch said he recommended Judge Ginsburg and Judge Breyer, Mr. Clinton's eventual appointments.

During the midterms they used oa laptops and full whca support.

Also, regarding rooms, can WHO pay for the countdown room and staff office? You thought so, but were going to confirm. Also, what about the "official activity room?" Can WHO pay for those suites as long as no political activity is done?

On press credentialing, we can handle same way as it was handled in mid-terms and I assume the WH printed those. On the advance question, campaign advance people can do advance for official trips in the same way that volunteers would advance official trips, for example. On the equipment issue, how was that done in mid-terms?

I met with Greg Jenkins on Thursday to try to hammer out more of the details about how the White House advance staff will interact with the campaign advance staff.

In addition the the press credentialling question, there were a couple of others that grew out of the meeting for you to consider:

1)Equipment: Do we need to send a campaign laptop out on the road with our Staff leads or can they use White House equipment and email to communicate back and forth with the White House advance staff? If so determined, then do we need to have our own telephone lines dropped for political computers, as well -- or reimburse whca for a phone line for the computer?

2) As we discussed, the campaign will be hiring advance staff that Greg Jenkins and his staff will direct for political trips. Greg wanted to know if it is permissible for these campaign staffers to help out on official travel as well.

Thanks for your help.

Following are hearing listings for this coming week concerning the FCRA, ID theft, electronic check processing, mutual funds, the awarding of a gold medal, and S corporations. There is one markup this week - asbestos.

It looks like there will only be an Administration witness at one of these events - a Secret Service witness at a Thursday Senate Banking Committee hearing on identity theft; I hope to receive that testimony sometime today.

The effort by business interests to extend federal pre-emptions included in the Fair Credit Reporting Act kicks into overdrive this week, as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce hosts a Tuesday morning forum to release what Chamber officials are calling "the most significant statistical analysis" of the economic costs should Congress fail to extend FCRA's pre-emption of state laws, which expires at the end of the year.

Among those scheduled to speak at the session are House Financial Services Chairman Oxley and Wayne Abernathy, assistant Treasury secretary for financial institutions.

Rep. Spencer Bachus, R-Ala., chairman of the Financial Institutions and Consumer Credit Subcommittee, declined the invitation to appear -- because he is chairing a hearing at the same time on the role of FCRA in employee background checks, the latest in a series of hearings his subcommittee has held on FCRA.

The FTC holds an all-day workshop Wednesday about the costs and benefits about the data flows of consumer credit, with top officials from Wells Fargo, credit scoring company Fair Isaac, and the credit bureau Experian slated to appear.

And Senate Banking Chairman Shelby Thursday rounds out the week, with his committee's first multiwitness hearing on FCRA -- including government, business, and consumer group representatives.

Electronic Check Bill Set for Markup in Senate Banking <>

By Siobhan Hughes, CQ Staff

The Senate <> Banking <> Committee will vote June 18 on a draft bill to speed check clearing by making it easier for <> banks <> to use electronic processing.

The House passed similar legislation (HR 1474) on June 5 on a 405-0 vote.

The measure is designed to fix a problem in current law that permits processing of checks electronically only through specific agreements among financial institutions. Because there are more than 15,000 <> banks <>, credit unions and thrifts, widespread electronic processing is not feasible.

"The way in which <> banks <> currently handle check transfers is totally outdated," Rep. Mike Ferguson,

R-N.J., said in supporting the House bill earlier this month.

The bill would give digital reproductions of checks the same legal status as cancelled checks. <> Banks <> then could transmit digital check images to financial intermediaries for processing, bypassing the trucks and planes currently used to haul checks from one <> bank <> to another.

Federal Reserve policymakers have long supported the change.

Customers would receive check images in their monthly statements each month, instead of their original checks. Check writers also potentially would be able to access their cancelled checks online shortly after processing.

Efforts to make digital checking the industry standard gained momentum after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, when commercial air service was grounded and <> banks had to hire trucks to deliver checks around the country to keep the payment system operating.

Senate Judiciary Committee Ready to Mark Up Asbestos Liability Shield

By Keith Perine, CQ Staff

Lawmakers, business lobbyists and union officials are negotiating over the details of legislation to shield businesses and insurers from liability related to asbestos claims, in advance of a scheduled June 19 markup by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Substantial disagreements remain, and the markup is expected to be lengthy. But the committee's chairman, Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, is pushing to move the bill (S 1125 <> ) before the end of June.

Hatch is keeping one eye on the crowded Senate calendar and the other on the Supreme Court, where one or more retirements could be announced before the end of the month.

"We're going to have to do it. We can't let it go any longer," Hatch said. "If it goes much longer, eventually, I think we're going to have one heck of a time."

Hatch is trying to balance the concerns of corporations, the AFL-CIO, insurance companies and many of his fellow senators.

Aides and representatives from business and labor planned to meet over the weekend to try to iron out as many issues as possible before the markup.

Asbestos, a fire-resistant substance linked to lung cancer and other illnesses, has been used for centuries. The cost of past and future asbestos-related claims against thousands of U.S. corporations has been estimated as high as $275 billion.

Hatch's bill would remove such cases from regular courts, and establish a special court to handle no-fault claims.

Payments to claimants who meet certain medical criteria would be drawn from a $108 billion fund, established largely by contributions from businesses and insurers, who would be shielded from civil liability.

Adequate Coverage?

Labor officials say they want to ensure that all eligible claimants are provided adequate compensation.

They say the Hatch bill, which for the most part covers only those people who can demonstrate significant occupational exposure before 1983, would leave too many people out.

"There's no way that a fair system that isn't going to result in large numbers of victims falling through the cracks can be accommodated in a system capped at $108 billion," said AFL-CIO general counsel Jon Hiatt.

Furthermore, labor officials say the medical criteria in the measure are too restrictive.

Adequate Funds?

One of the most important questions bedeviling negotiators is how to provide for the very real possibility that the fund might run out of money before all claims are paid. Labor officials have proposed a government backstop, but that idea has been rejected by Republicans.

Business lobbyists have suggested providing for a surcharge on commercial insurance policyholders to make up any shortfall in the fund. Insurance companies are against that proposal.

Besides dealing with business and labor, Hatch is working to assuage the concerns of some of his fellow lawmakers.

Republican Conrad Burns and Democrat Max Baucus, both of Montana, are concerned the bill would not apply to many residents of Libby, Mont., who were exposed to asbestos from a vermiculite mine.

Baucus and other Democrats are concerned the bill would require that "collateral source" payments, such as from health insurance, be subtracted from awards.

Sen. Patty Murray, D-Wash., has introduced a bill (S 1115 <>) that largely would ban asbestos. Dianne Feinstein, D-Calif., has said she would offer that language as an amendment in the Judiciary Committee markup.

Insurers Seek a Formula

For their part, insurance companies are still wrestling with how to divide their $45 billion contribution to the fund.

Insurers are considering an allocation formula that would require primary insurance companies to contribute $27.3 billion, with the rest to come from domestic and foreign reinsurers, which insure the insurers.

The formula would calculate each primary insurance company's contribution using weighted averages of written premiums, paid asbestos losses and reserves held for asbestos claims.

The legislation would apply to cases currently pending in federal and state courts. Hatch has said he might add a provision that would allow attorneys who have done substantial work on pending cases to collect as much as 10 percent of claims payments made to their clients.

The legislation would give businesses and their insurers something they have wanted for years: certainty about how much money they will have to pay for asbestos claims.

The markup is scheduled for June 19 in 226 Dirksen. The time has not yet been set.

I've been talking to Johnny Sutton about scheduling a WW tour for all of the U.S. Attorneys, their spouses and children on July 16th when they are all going to be in town for a conference with Ashcroft. The total number of people could be 180, which makes a WW tour on a week night almost impossible. I talked to M&A, and they are holding the evening for me, but with the understanding that we could only get 36 people in for a tour - six shifts of six people.

Are there any other options for getting this crew into the White House while they are here - besides the regular East Wing tour, which they've all done already. Do you think there is any possibility of a photo with the President on the Navy steps or in the Rose Garden or something? Johnny is pushing pretty hard on this because he says it's important to Ashcroft to get the attorneys together and make them feel special. He also mentioned that Judge Gonzalez would probably be willing to weigh in. I'm just not sure what's appropriate here. What do you think?

Thanks,
Sarah

Subject: need guidance

I've been talking to Johnny Sutton about scheduling a WW tour for all of the U.S. Attorneys, their spouses and children on July 16th when they are all going to be in town for a conference with Ashcroft. The total number of people could be 180, which makes a WW tour on a week night almost impossible. I talked to M&A, and they are holding the evening for me, but with the understanding that we could only get 36 people in for a tour - six shifts of six people.

Are there any other options for getting this crew into the White House while they are here - besides the regular East Wing tour, which they've all done already. Do you think there is any possibility of a photo with the President on the Navy steps or in the Rose Garden or something? Johnny is pushing pretty hard on this because he says it's important to Ashcroft to get the attorneys together and make them feel special. He also mentioned that Judge Gonzalez would probably be willing to weigh in. I'm just not sure what's appropriate here. What do you think?

Thanks,
Sarah

Thank you.

It was regarding participation from one of your counsels in a conference call with agency chiefs of staff regarding Hatch Act memo (sent by Sec. Card last week). No one ever responded. While it is a big deal (Hatch Act), without direction we went ahead forwarded the memos from Card etc on this topic to the agency chiefs of staff. We told them to talk with their counsels. After all, the President discussed the issue during the Cabinet meeting and we wanted to move it forward while it was on everyone's radar. Consider it a dead issue but thanks for offering.

Since some on your staff do not respond to emails, thought I'd send this one to you (separate issue). Would the Judge have an opinion one way or the other if we submitted an SP on DOJ's behalf for POTUS to participate in a photo with US Attorneys in town for a meeting? (meeting would be here on Navy Steps or South Lawn balcony). Thank you.

Oh sure. There are 94 U.S. attorneys, but only 51 have RSVPd for the conference thus far. If we were going to put a request in today, I think we could safely assume there would be 60 or so.

Senator Seeks a Consensus in Replacing Any Justice

By NEIL A. LEWIS

ASHINGTON, June 15 * Senator Patrick J. Leahy of Vermont has urged President Bush to avoid a traumatic national battle over the Supreme Court by consulting with him and other leading Democrats before choosing a nominee, should a vacancy occur.

In two recent letters to the White House, Mr. Leahy, the ranking Democrat on the Judiciary Committee, said that if Mr. Bush took advantage of a vacancy on the court to select a staunchly conservative judge, it would produce a political war that would upset the nation and diminish respect for the courts.

"Though the landscape ahead is sown with the potential for controversy and contention over vacancies that may arise on the court, contention is avoidable, and consensus should be our goal," Mr. Leahy wrote on Wednesday. "I would hope your objective will not be to send the Senate nominees so polarizing that their confirmations are eked out in narrow margins."

Mr. Leahy said his two letters urging a bipartisan process, the one on Wednesday and one sent on May 14, had not been answered.

A White House official said the second letter had not yet been received. But this official made it sound as if that did not matter.

"There are no vacancies on the Supreme Court, so these kinds of discussions are premature," this official said.

Mr. Leahy said in an interview that he believed that Mr. Bush had an opportunity to defuse a potentially explosive situation precisely because there was no vacancy.

The next few weeks, he said, will provide an opportunity for a bipartisan agreement that will be lost if a Supreme Court retirement is announced at the end of the term in a few weeks.

Conservatives and liberals have been planning for the possibility that at least one justice will retire at the end of the term, given the age of several of them and the belief that this is Mr. Bush's last chance to choose a justice before the presidential campaign begins in earnest.

"The courts are the one part of government people yearn to believe is free of politics," Mr. Leahy said. "That's why the Florida case shook people so much," a reference to the Supreme Court ruling in Bush v. Gore that resulted in Mr. Bush's presidency.

Underlying the latest proposal by Mr. Leahy are the myriad political calculations each side has been making for any Supreme Court resignation, nomination and confirmation fight.

So far, the Bush White House and Senate Democrats have chosen confrontation over several nominees for the federal appeals courts, the level just below the Supreme Court.

Although the Senate has 51 Republicans, a bare majority, Democrats have blocked votes on two appeals court nominees and are likely to do so with other candidates, by mounting filibusters, or extended debates.

Mr. Leahy would not name any candidate conservative enough to satisfy Mr. Bush but nonideological enough to win broad support in the Senate.

Senator Charles E. Schumer of New York, a Democrat on the Judiciary Committee, offered such a list to the White House last week. His recommendations included Senator Arlen Specter, Republican of Pennsylvania, who is also on the committee; Judge Edward Prado of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, who was nominated by Mr. Bush; and Judge Michael Mukasey of the Southern District of New York, who was nominated by President Ronald Reagan.

Mr. Leahy and Mr. Schumer noted that the chairman of the committee, Senator Orrin G. Hatch, Republican of Utah, had taken some credit for advising President Bill Clinton in his selection of Ruth Bader Ginsburg and Stephen G. Breyer for the Supreme Court.

In his book "Square Peg" (Basic Books, 2002), Mr. Hatch asserts that he advised Mr. Clinton not to select Bruce Babbitt, one of his cabinet officers and a former Arizona governor, because that would produce a divisive fight. Mr. Hatch said he recommended Judge Ginsburg and Judge Breyer, Mr. Clinton's eventual appointments.

CLASS-ACTION

Monday, June 16, 2003

Sometimes it's near impossible to tell what is worse: the cure or the disease. The effort under way in Congress to federalize all class-action suits fits that situation to a "T."

Last week, the House of Representatives voted 253-170 -- with local Reps. Todd Platts, R-York County, Tim Holden, D-Schuylkill County, and Bill Shuster, R-Blair County, in the majority -- to move virtually all class-action lawsuits, including ones already filed, from the state courts to the federal courts.

While class- action suits can serve a valuable function, too often this avenue of redress is grossly abused, resulting in outrageous cases of legal blackmail, in which attorneys receive millions of dollars in fees and the "class," those supposedly harmed, peanuts.

Certain sections of the country are notorious for verdicts and awards that pervert the basic guarantees of justice and fairness that are the hallmark of any system of justice worthy of the name.

On the other hand, employees and stockholders at such companies as Enron, WorldCom, and many others who were effectively swindled out of their pension funds and life savings are looking to class-action suits to recover at least a portion of their substantial losses. Moving these existing cases to the federal courts will almost certainly delay any recovery they might receive.

The federal judiciary itself opposes the shift to the already overburdened federal court system.

A Senate version of the bill, which has been approved in committee, would not be retroactive. That sparks fear in the House that, if it is approved, there will be a last-minute rush to the state courts.

It was striking to see majority Republicans in the House overcome their usual aversion to empowering the federal government at the expense of the states to overwhelmingly support passage of the bill, with the help of 32 Democrats. But they had plenty to motivate that flip-flop.

This may not be the best solution, but it appears to be the only means of establishing a national norm for class-action suits, which usually involve multi-state parties. The intent is to weed out those suits filed to scavenge for easy money among accommodating jurisdictions that are more than willing to play the game. Some of the resulting sham class-action verdicts have been absolutely disgraceful.

It's good that Congress has grown intolerant of perpetuating such blatant abuse of the legal system.

But in making this change, it also needs to see that the federal court system is given the resources to effectively address this new burden. Not to do so would merely create another wrong.

Tucker's Whitewater conviction upheld

By CARYN ROUSSEAU
The Associated Press
6/16/2003, 7:37 p.m. PT

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) * A federal judge on Monday upheld the Whitewater fraud conviction of former Gov. Jim Guy Tucker, rejecting his claim that the government withheld information about benefits afforded a key witness.

In a telephone interview Monday, Tucker said he wouldn't make a decision to appeal the ruling until after he had reviewed it and sought counsel from his attorney.

The decision by U.S. District Judge George Howard Jr. was the latest ruling in the long-running Whitewater saga, the Arkansas land deal that also involved Bill and Hillary Clinton.

Tucker's appeal attacked the credibility of David Hale, who was the primary witness in the government's case against Tucker and James and Susan McDougal. The McDougals were business partners with the Clintons in the Whitewater partnership.

Tucker claimed Whitewater prosecutor Kenneth Starr knew that Hale was receiving assistance from people who opposed him and President Clinton, and failed to disclose the aid. At the time, the FBI and the Office of Independent Counsel were supervising Hale.

Tucker was convicted on bank fraud and conspiracy charges and sentenced to 18 months home detention.

In a 47-page decision, Howard wrote that Tucker failed to show a reason to set aside the sentence but even if he had provided evidence to back his claim, "it would not in the least have changed the outcome of the trial."

Howard noted that jurors split on the indictment's allegations against Tucker and acquitted the ex-governor on charges that relied solely on Hale's testimony.

The judge also rejected Tucker's claim that Starr was biased against him because Starr had once represented the Republican National Committee. Tucker is a Democrat.

Tucker resigned in July 1996, six weeks after his conviction, and later pleaded guilty in an unrelated tax case. He was disbarred and claimed in his motion that his resulting inability to practice law or work at a financial institution prevents him from seeking employment in his field.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. -- A federal judge on Monday upheld the Whitewater fraud conviction of former Gov. Jim Guy Tucker, rejecting his claim that the government withheld information about benefits afforded a key witness.

In a telephone interview Monday, Tucker said he wouldn't make a decision to appeal the ruling until after he had reviewed it and sought counsel from his attorney.

The decision by U.S. District Judge George Howard Jr. was the latest ruling in the long-running Whitewater saga, the Arkansas land deal that also involved Bill and Hillary Clinton.

Tucker's appeal attacked the credibility of David Hale, who was the primary witness in the government's case against Tucker and James and Susan McDougal. The McDougals were business partners with the Clintons in the Whitewater partnership.

Tucker claimed Whitewater prosecutor Kenneth Starr knew that Hale was receiving assistance from people who opposed him and President Clinton, and failed to disclose the aid. At the time, the FBI and the Office of Independent Counsel were supervising Hale.

Tucker was convicted on bank fraud and conspiracy charges and sentenced to 18 months home detention.

In a 47-page decision, Howard wrote that Tucker failed to show a reason to set aside the sentence but even if he had provided evidence to back his claim, "it would not in the least have changed the outcome of the trial."

Howard noted that jurors split on the indictment's allegations against Tucker and acquitted the ex-governor on charges that relied solely on Hale's testimony.

The judge also rejected Tucker's claim that Starr was biased against him because Starr had once represented the Republican National Committee. Tucker is a Democrat.

Tucker resigned in July 1996, six weeks after his conviction, and later pleaded guilty in an unrelated tax case. He was disbarred and claimed in his motion that his resulting inability to practice law or work at a financial institution prevents him from seeking employment in his field.

Attached are draft regulations (please do not forward these outside the Administration) that DHS is about to send over to OIRA for clearance. These regulations would implement the SAFETY Act, which provides liability protections for anti-terrorism technologies that are designated or approved by DHS for SAFETY Act coverage. These regs largely track the statute. This is just a proposed rule w/ a short comment period, but DHS will begin accepting applications for coverage even before DHS issues a final rule. OIRA will clear this very quickly b/c they have already had a chance to review this informally. This could get some attention because the SAFETY Act contained significant tort reform measures. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns. Thanks.

Support Anti-terrorism by Fostering Effective Technologies Act of 2002

Action: Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

---

SUMMARY: This Proposed Rule would implement Subtitle G of Title VIII of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 – the Support Anti-terrorism by Fostering Effective Technologies Act of 2002 (“the SAFETY Act” or “the Act”). As discussed in detail below, the SAFETY Act, through regulations promulgated by the Department, will provide critical incentives for the development and deployment of anti-terrorism technologies by providing liability protections for Sellers of “qualified anti-terrorism technologies” and others.

DATES: Comments in response to this notice are due by [insert date of 30 days from publication in the Federal Register].

ADDRESSES: Comments on this Proposed Rule should be submitted by e-mail to: _____@dhs.gov, or by facsimile to _____. Comments may also be mailed to _____. The Department encourages commenters to submit their comments by e-mail or facsimile. Comments received are public records. The name and address of the commenter should be included with all submissions. Comments will be available for public inspection at a reading room in Washington, DC. Arrangements to visit the reading room must be made in advance by calling _____.

the courts. Indeed, it is hard to imagine that Congress would have intended a statute designed to provide certainty and protection to Sellers of anti-terrorism technologies to be subject to future developments of a judicially-created doctrine. In fact, there is evidence that Congress rejected such a construction. See, e.g., 148 Cong. Rec. E2080 (November 13, 2001) (statement of Rep. Armev)("[Companies] will have a government contractor defense as is commonplace in existing law.") (emphasis added).

Procedurally, the presumption of applicability of the government contractor defense is conferred by the Secretary's "approval" of a qualified anti-terrorism technology specifically for the purposes of the government contractor defense. This approval is a separate act from the Secretary's "designation" of a qualified anti-terrorism technology. Importantly, the Seller may submit applications for both designation as a qualified anti-terrorism technology and approval for purposes of the government contractor defense at the same time, and the Secretary may review and act upon both applications simultaneously. The distinction between the Secretary's two actions is important, however, because the approval process for the government contractor defense includes a level of review that is not required for the designation of a qualified anti-terrorism technology. Specifically, the Act provides that during the process of approval for the government contractor defense the Secretary will conduct a "comprehensive review of the design of such technology and determine whether it will perform as intended, conforms to the Seller's specifications, and is safe for use as intended." § 863(d)(2). The Department believes that certain Sellers will be able to obtain the protections that come with designation as a qualified anti-terrorism technology even if they have not satisfied the requirements for the government contractor defense.

Similarly, even if the applicability of the government contractor defense were rebutted under the test set forth in Section 863(d)(1) of the Act, the technology may still retain the designation and protections as a qualified anti-terrorism technology.

Specific Issues Regarding the Act and this Rule

1. Definition of Anti-Terrorism Technologies. The Department recognizes that the universe of technologies that can be deployed against terrorism includes far more than physical products. Rather, the defense of the homeland will require deployment of a broad range of technologies that includes services, software, and other forms of intellectual property. Thus, consistent with Section 865 of the Act, Section 101.3(a) of the proposed rule defines qualified anti-terrorism technologies very broadly to include “any products, equipment, service (including support services), device, or technology (including information technology)” that the Secretary, as an exercise of discretion and judgment, determines to merit designation under the statutory criteria.

2. Development of New Technologies. The Act’s success depends not only upon encouraging Sellers to provide existing anti-terrorism technologies, but also upon encouraging Sellers to develop new and innovative technologies to respond to the ever-changing threats to the American people. The proposed rule is thus designed to allow the Department to assist would-be Sellers during the invention, design, and manufacturing phases in two important respects. First, Section 101.3(h) of the proposal makes clear that the Department, within its discretion and where feasible, may provide feedback to manufacturers regarding whether proposed or developing anti-terrorism technologies might meet the qualification factors under the Act. To be sure, the Department cannot provide advance certification, as some of the factors for the Secretary's consideration cannot be addressed in advance. The Department may, however, provide feedback regarding other factors, with the goal of giving potential Sellers some understanding of whether it might be advantageous to proceed with further development of the technology. Departmental feedback at the design, prototyping, or testing stage of development, to the extent feasible, may provide manufacturers with added incentive to commence and/or complete production of cutting-edge anti-terrorism technology that otherwise might not be produced or deployed in the absence of the risk and litigation management protections in the Act. The Department will perform these consultations with potential Sellers in a manner consistent with the protection of intellectual property and trade secrets, as discussed below.

Second, Section 101.3(g) of the proposal recognizes that Federal agencies will often be the purchasers of anti-terrorism technologies. The Department recognizes that terms on which Sellers are able to provide anti-terrorism technologies to Federal agencies may vary depending on whether the technologies receive SAFETY Act coverage or not. The proposal thus provides that the Department may coordinate SAFETY Act reviews with agency procurements. The Department also intends to review SAFETY Act applications relating to technologies that are the subject of agency procurements on an expedited basis.

The Department requests public comments regarding the best way for the Department to provide feedback to potential Sellers regarding SAFETY Act coverage and the best way for the Department to coordinate SAFETY Act review with an agency procurement.

3. Protection of Intellectual Property and Trade Secrets. The Department believes that successful implementation of the Act requires that applicants' intellectual property interests and trade secrets remain protected in the application process and beyond. Toward that end, the Department will create an application and review process in which the Department maintains the confidentiality of an applicant's proprietary information. The Department notes that laws mandating disclosure of information submitted to the government generally contain exclusions or exceptions for such information. The Freedom of Information Act, for instance, provides specific exceptions for proprietary information submitted to federal agencies. The Department seeks further input on this issue.

4. Evaluation of Scientific Studies; Consultation with Scientific and Technical Experts. Section 862(b)(6) of the Act provides that, as one of many factors in determining whether to designate a particular technology under the Act, the Secretary shall consider evaluation of all scientific studies "that can be feasibly conducted" in order to assess the capability of the technology to substantially reduce the risks of harm. An important part of this provision is that it contemplates review only of such studies as can "feasibly" be conducted. The Department believes that the need to protect the American public by facilitating the manufacture and marketing of anti-terrorism technologies might render it infeasible to defer a designation decision until after every conceivable scientific study is completed. In many cases, existing information (whether based on scientific studies, experience with the technology or a related technology, or other factors) might enable the Secretary to perform an appropriate assessment of the capability of the technology to reduce risks of harm. In other cases, even where less information is available about the capability of a technology to reduce risks of harm, the public interest in making the technology available as soon as practicable may render it infeasible to await the conduct of further scientific studies on that issue. In considering whether or to what extent it is feasible to defer a designation decision until additional scientific studies can be conducted, the Department will bring to bear its expertise concerning the protection of the American homeland and will consider the urgency of the need for the technology and other relevant factors and circumstances.

5. "Exclusive Federal Jurisdiction" and "Scope" of Insurance Coverage under § 864(a)(3). The Act creates an exclusive Federal cause of action "for any claim for loss of property, personal injury, or death arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism when qualified anti-terrorism technologies have been deployed in defense against or response or recovery from such act and such claims result or may result in loss to the Seller." § 863(a)(2); see also § 863(a)(1). This exclusive "Federal cause of action shall be brought only for claims for injuries that are proximately caused by Sellers that provide qualified anti-terrorism technology." § 863(a)(1). The best reading of § 863(a), and the reading the Department is inclined to adopt, is that (1) only one Federal cause of action exists for loss of property, personal injury, or death when a claim relates to performance or non-performance of the Seller's qualified and deployed anti-terrorism technology, and (2) such cause of action may be brought only against the Seller.

The exclusive Federal nature of this cause of action is evidenced in large part by the exclusive jurisdiction provision in § 863(a)(2). That subsection states: "Such appropriate district court of the United States shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction over all actions for any claim for loss of property, personal injury or death arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism when qualified anti-terrorism technologies have been deployed in defense against or response or recovery from such act and such claims result or may result in loss to the Seller." Id. Any presumption of concurrent causes of action (between State and Federal law) is overcome by two basic points. First, Congress would not have created in this Act a Federal cause of action to complement State law causes of action. Not only is the substantive law for decision in the Federal action derived from State law (and thus would be surplusage), but in creating the Act Congress plainly intended to limit rather than increase the liability exposure of Sellers. Second, the granting of exclusive jurisdiction to the Federal district courts provides further evidence that Congress wanted an exclusive Federal cause of action. Indeed, a Federal district court (in the absence of diversity) does not have jurisdiction over state law claims, and the statute makes no mention of diversity claims anywhere in the Act.

Further, it is clear that the Seller is the only appropriate defendant in this exclusive Federal cause of action. First and foremost, the Act unequivocally states that a "cause of action shall be brought only for claims for injuries that are proximately caused by sellers that provide qualified anti-terrorism technology." § 863(a)(1) (emphasis added). Second, if the Seller of the qualified anti-terrorism technology at issue was not the only defendant, would-be plaintiffs could, in an effort to circumvent the statute, bring claims (arising out of or relating to the performance or non-performance of the Seller's qualified anti-terrorism technology) against arguably less culpable persons or entities, including but not limited to contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, vendors, and customers of the Seller of the technology. Because the claims in the cause of action would be predicated on the performance or non-performance of the Seller's qualified anti-terrorism technology, those persons or entities, in turn, would file a third-party action against the Seller. In such situations, the claims against non-Sellers thus “may result in loss to the Seller” under § 863(a)(2). The Department believes Congress did not intend through the Act to increase rather than decrease the amount of litigation arising out of or related to the deployment of qualified anti-terrorism technology. The scope of federal preemption of state laws is highly relevant to the Department’s implementation of the Act, as the Department will have to determine the amount of insurance that Sellers must obtain. Accordingly, the Department seeks comment on that matter.

6. Amount of Insurance. The Act requires that Sellers obtain liability insurance “of such types and in such amounts” certified by the Secretary “to satisfy otherwise compensable third-party claims arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism when qualified anti-terrorism technologies have been deployed.” § 864(a)(1). However, the Act makes clear that Sellers are not required to obtain liability insurance beyond “the maximum amount of liability insurance reasonably available from private sources on the world market at prices and terms that will not unreasonably distort the sales price of Seller’s anti-terrorism technologies.” § 864(a)(2).

As explained above, the Department eschews any “one-size-fits all” approach to the insurance coverage requirement. Instead, the Department construes the Act as contemplating the examination of several factors. Section 101.4(b) of the proposed rule therefore sets forth a nonexclusive list of several factors that the Department may consider. These include the amount of insurance the Seller has previously maintained; the amount of insurance maintained by the Seller for other technologies or for the Seller’s business as a whole; the amount of insurance typically maintained by sellers of comparable technologies; data and history regarding mass casualty losses; information regarding the amount of liability insurance offered on the world market; the particular technology at issue and its intended use; and the point at which the cost of coverage would “unreasonably distort” the price of the technology. The proposed rule also provides that the Secretary may consider the amount of terrorism-related liability insurance that insurance companies are required to provide under the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act of 2002 (“TRIA”). This amount is relevant because Congress mandated the provision of certain amounts of insurance under TRIA in response to the unwillingness or inability of insurers to provide sufficient liability coverage for terrorism-related events. See TRIA § 101(a), (b) (statement of findings and purpose). While it is possible in some cases that insurers will provide more than the amount of insurance required under TRIA, it may be appropriate in many instances for the Secretary to presume, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that a Seller need not purchase liability insurance coverage for terrorism-related claims in an amount greater than that required to be offered under TRIA.

In the course of determining the amount of insurance required under the Act for a particular technology, the Department may consult with the Seller, the Seller’s insurer, and others. While the decision regarding the amount of insurance required will generally be specific to each Seller or each technology, the Department recognizes that the incentive-based purposes of the Act may be furthered if the Department provides information to potential Sellers regarding the types and amounts of insurance that they will likely be required to obtain. Thus the Secretary may, where appropriate, give guidance to potential Sellers regarding the type and amounts of insurance that may be sufficient under the Act for particular technologies or categories of technologies.

The Department also recognizes that the amount of insurance available at prices that will not unreasonably distort the price of the anti-terrorism technology may vary over time. Thus, the proposed rule is written to give the Department flexibility to address fluctuating insurance prices by providing that, during the term of the designation, the Seller may request reconsideration of the insurance certification due to changed circumstances or other reasons.

The Department believes that if the Seller fails to maintain coverage at the certified level during the effective period of the certification, the liability protections of the Act will continue to apply, but the Seller's liability limit will remain at the certified insurance level. This is because subsection (c) of Section 864 makes clear that the Seller's liability is capped at the amount of insurance "required" to be maintained under Section 864, rather than the amount of coverage actually obtained. The limitation of liability thus relates entirely to the amount of insurance required and makes no reference to whether such insurance is, in fact, maintained by the Seller.

It is also apparent that the technology is not stripped of any of the other protections of the SAFETY Act if the Seller fails to maintain the requisite insurance. The Act requires that Sellers obtain liability insurance to protect not only the Seller, but also to protect (to the extent specified under § 864(a)(3)) the contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, vendors, and customers of the Seller, as well as the contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, and vendors of the customer. § 864(a)(3). It would be unjust to deprive all others covered by the SAFETY Act of their SAFETY Act protections because of the

Seller's malfeasance. Of course, this does not mean that there are no consequences to a Seller's failure to maintain the required insurance. Rather, in addition to exposing the Seller to uninsured liability up to the amount of insurance that the Seller was required to maintain, the Seller's failure to maintain the insurance may adversely affect the Seller's ability to obtain a renewal of the designation for the technology, and may even adversely affect the Seller's ability to obtain future designations of "qualified anti-terrorism technologies."

The Department, as part of each certification, will specify the Seller or Sellers of the anti-terrorism technology for purposes of SAFETY Act coverage. The Department may, but need not, specify in the certification the others who are covered by the liability insurance required to be purchased by the Seller.

7. Relationship of SAFETY Act to Indemnification under Public Law 85-804.

The Department recognizes that Congress intended that the SAFETY Act's liability protections would substantially reduce the need for the United States to provide indemnification under Public Law 85-804 to Sellers of anti-terrorism technology. The strong liability protections of the SAFETY Act should, in most circumstances, make it unnecessary to provide indemnification to Sellers. The Department recognizes, however, that there might be, in some limited circumstances, technologies or services with respect to which both SAFETY Act coverage and indemnification might be warranted. See 148 Cong. Rec. E2080 (statement by Rep. Arme y) (November 13, 2002) (stating that in some situations the SAFETY Act protections will "complement other government risk-sharing measures that some contractors can use such as Public Law 85-804").

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

INTRODUCTION

The Department intends to implement the SAFETY Act as quickly as possible. Our twin aims are these:

- (1) To produce by regulation as much certainty as possible regarding the application of the liability protections created by the Act;
- (2) To provide the Department with sufficient program flexibility to address the specific circumstances of each particular request for SAFETY Act coverage.

The Department does not intend to resolve every conceivable programmatic issue through this proposed rule. Instead, the Department will set out a basic set of regulations and commence the implementation of the SAFETY Act program while considering possible supplemental regulations as experience with the Act grows.

The Department invites comment on all aspects of these proposed regulations and on the policies that underlie them. The initial comment period is relatively brief (30 days) in order to permit the Department to begin implementation of this critical program as soon as possible. After reviewing the comments, the Department may issue an interim final rule and seek additional comment on some or all aspects of the program. In any event, the Department will begin implementation of the SAFETY Act immediately with regard to Federal acquisitions of anti-terrorism technologies and will begin accepting other SAFETY Act applications on July 15, 2003.

BACKGROUND

In recognition of this close relationship between the SAFETY Act and indemnification authority, in Section 73 of Executive Order 13286 of February 28, 2003, the President recently amended the existing Executive Order on indemnification-- Executive Order 10789 of November 14, 1958, as amended. The amendment granted the Department of Homeland Security authority to indemnify under Public Law 85-804. At the same time, it requires that all agencies – not just the Department of Homeland Security – follow certain procedures to ensure that the potential applicability of the SAFETY Act is considered before any indemnification is granted for an anti-terrorism technology. Specifically, the amendment provides that federal agencies cannot provide indemnification “with respect to any matter that has been, or could be, designated by the Secretary of Homeland Security as a qualified anti-terrorism technology” unless the Secretary of Homeland Security has advised whether SAFETY Act coverage would be appropriate and the Director of the Office and Management and Budget has approved the exercise of indemnification authority. The amendment includes an exception for the Department of Defense where the Secretary of Defense has determined that indemnification is “necessary for the timely and effective conduct of United States military or intelligence activities.”

Application of various laws and Executive Orders to this rulemaking.

Executive Order 12866 – Regulatory Planning and Review

DHS has examined the economic implications of this proposed rule as required by Executive Order 12866. Executive Order 12866 directs agencies to assess all costs and benefits of available regulatory alternatives and, when regulation is necessary, to select regulatory approaches that maximize net benefits (including potential economic, environmental, public health and safety, and other advantages; distributive impacts; and equity). Executive Order 12866 classifies a rule as significant if it meets any one of a number of specified conditions, including: having an annual effect on the economy of $100 million, adversely affecting a sector of the economy in a material way, adversely affecting competition, or adversely affecting jobs. A regulation is also considered a significant regulatory action if it raises novel legal or policy issues.

DHS concludes that this proposed rule is a significant regulatory action under the Executive Order because it will have a positive, material effect on public safety under Section 3(f)(1), and it raises novel legal and policy issues under Section 3(f)(4). DHS tentatively concludes, however, that this proposed rule does not meet the significance threshold of $100 million effect on the economy in any one year under Section 3(f)(1), due to the relatively low estimated burden of applying for this technology program, the unknown number of certifications and designations that the Department will dispense, and the unknown probability of a terrorist attack that would have to occur in order for the protections put in place in this proposed rule to have a large impact on the public. The agency requests comments regarding this determination, and invites commenters to submit any relevant data that will assist the agency in estimating the impact of this rule.

Need for the Regulation and Market Failure

This regulation implements the SAFETY Act and is intended to implement the provisions set forth in that Act. DHS believes the current development of anti-terrorism technologies has been slowed due to the potential liability risks associated with their development and eventual deployment. In a fully functioning insurance market, technology developers would be able to insure themselves against excessive liability risk; however, the terrorism risk insurance market appears to be in disequilibrium. The attacks of September 11 fundamentally changed the landscape of terrorism insurance. Congress, in the findings of the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act (TRIA) of 2002, concluded that temporary financial assistance in the insurance market is needed to “allow for a transition period for the private markets to stabilize, resume pricing of such insurance, and build capacity to absorb any future losses.” This rulemaking addresses a similar concern, to the extent that potential technology developers are unable to efficiently insure against large losses due to an ongoing reassessment of terrorism issues in insurance markets.

Even after a temporary insurance market adjustment, purely private terrorism risk insurance markets may exhibit negative externalities. Because the risk pool of any single insurer may not be large enough to efficiently spread and therefore insure against the risk of damages from a terrorist attack, and because the potential for excessive liability may render any terrorism insurance prohibitively expensive, society may suffer from less than optimal technological protection against terrorist attacks. The measures set forth in this proposed rule are designed to meet this goal; they will provide certain liability protection from lawsuits and consequently will increase the likelihood that businesses will pursue important technologies that may not be pursued without this protection.

Costs and Benefits to Technology Development Firms

Since this rulemaking puts in place an additional voluntary option for technology developers, the expected direct net benefits to firms of this rulemaking will be positive; companies presumably will not choose to pursue the designation of “anti-terrorism technology” unless they believe it to be a profitable endeavor. DHS cannot predict with certainty the number of applicants for this program. An additional source of uncertainty is the reaction of the insurance market to this designation. As mentioned above, insurance markets appear to currently be adjusting their strategy for terrorism risk, so little market information exists that would inform this estimate. DHS invites comments on these issues.

Given that a firm chooses to invest effort in pursuing SAFETY Act liability protection, the direct costs will be the time and money required to submit the required paperwork and other information to DHS. Only companies that choose to request this protection will incur costs. In the preliminary Paperwork Reduction Act analysis, we estimate the reporting burden assuming that each applicant will spend at least 40 hours, and perhaps 200 hours, to prepare the information required by DHS for consideration. For the purposes of this analysis, we assume a loaded labor rate of the personnel preparing the information package of $100 per hour. Consequently, the total cost of the application requirements is estimated to be at least $4,000 per application for a relatively simple application. DHS does not yet have sufficient information to estimate the number of applicants annually. If we assume 1,000 applications annually, the total cost of the application requirement is estimated to range from $4,000,000 to $20,000,000 annually (1,000 applicants X 40 to 200 hours X $100 per hour). The regulation further requires that firms conduct safety and hazard analyses and provide them to the Secretary in the course of applying for this designation. We do not have quantified estimates of the impact of this provision, but we expect that much of the safety and hazard analysis activity will already take place in the normal course of technology development, since the safety and hazards of a firm's products are fundamental characteristics. DHS acknowledges considerable uncertainty in these estimates, but even if the estimates were considerably higher, this does not represent a large investment by firms relative to overall development costs.

The direct benefits to firms include lower potential losses from liability for terrorist attacks, and as a consequence a lower burden from liability insurance for this type of technology. In this assessment, we were careful to only consider benefits and costs specifically due to the proposed rulemaking and not costs that would have been incurred by companies absent the proposed rulemaking. The SAFETY Act requires the sellers of the technology to obtain liability insurance “of such types and in such amounts” certified by the Secretary. The entire cost of insurance is not a cost specifically imposed by the proposed rulemaking, as companies in the course of good business practice routinely purchase insurance absent Federal requirements to do so. Any difference in the amount or price of insurance purchased as a result of the SAFETY Act would be a cost or benefit of this rule for firms.

The wording of the SAFETY Act clearly states that sellers are not required to obtain liability insurance beyond the maximum amount of liability insurance reasonably available from private liability sources on the world market at prices and terms that will not unreasonably distort the sales price of the seller’s anti-terrorism technologies. We tentatively conclude, however, that this rulemaking will impact both the prices and terms of liability insurance relative to the amount of insurance coverage absent the SAFETY Act. The probable effect of this rule is to lower the quantity of liability coverage needed in order for a firm to protect itself from terrorism liability risks, which would be considered a benefit of this rule to firms. This change will most likely be a shift back in demand that leads to a movement along the supply curve for technology firms already in this market; they probably will buy less liability coverage. This will have the effect of lowering the price per unit of coverage in this market.

DHS also expects, however, that this rulemaking will lead to greater market entry, which will generate surplus for both technology firms and insurers. DHS expects that the mandated amounts of liability coverage in the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act of 2002 may be the best estimate of the structure of the future terrorism risk insurance market, and as stated in the preamble, the Secretary may presume that firms need not purchase liability insurance for terrorism-related claims in an amount greater than that required to be offered under TRIA. Again, this market is still in development, and DHS solicits comments on exactly how to predict the effect of this rulemaking on technology development.

Costs and Benefits to Insurers

DHS has little information on the future structure of the terrorism risk insurance market, and how this rulemaking will affect that structure. As stated above, this type of intervention could serve to lower the demand for insurance in the current market, thus the static effect on the profitability of insurers is negative. The benefits of the lower insurance burden to technology firms would be considered a cost to insurers; the static changes to insurance coverage would cause a transfer from insurers to technology firms. On the other hand, this type of intervention should serve to increase the surplus of insurers by making some types of insurance products possible that would have been prohibitive to customers or impossible for insurers to design in the absence of this rulemaking. DHS is interested in public comment on any possible negative or positive impacts to insurers caused by the SAFETY Act and this rulemaking, and whether these impacts would result in transfers within this market or an efficiency change not captured by another party. We encourage commenters to be as specific as possible.

Costs and Benefits to the Public

The benefits to the public of this proposed rulemaking are very difficult to put in dollar value terms since its ultimate objective is the development of new technologies that will help prevent or limit the damage from terrorist attacks. It is not possible to even determine whether these technologies could help prevent large or small scale attacks, as the SAFETY Act applies to a vast range of technologies, including products, services, software, and other forms of intellectual property that could have a widespread impact. In qualitative terms, the SAFETY Act removes a great deal of the risk and uncertainty associated with product liability and in the process creates a powerful incentive that will help fuel the development of critically needed anti-terrorism technologies. Additionally, we expect the SAFETY Act to reduce the research and development costs of these technologies.

The tradeoff, however, may be that a greater number of technologies may qualify for this program and be developed that have a lower average effectiveness against terrorist attacks than technologies currently on the market, or technologies that would be developed in the absence of this rulemaking. In the absence of this rulemaking, strong liability discouragement implies that the fewer products that are deployed in support of anti-terrorist efforts would be especially effective. Profit maximizing firms will always choose to develop the technologies with the highest demand first. It is the tentative conclusion of DHS that liability discouragement in this market is too strong or prohibitive, for the reasons mentioned above. DHS tentatively concludes that this rule will have positive net benefits to the public, since it serves to strike a better balance between consumer protection and technological development. DHS welcomes comments informing this tradeoff argument, and public input on whether this rulemaking does strike the correct balance.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act requires DHS to determine whether this proposed rulemaking will have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities. Although we expect that many of the applicants for SAFETY Act protection are likely to meet the Small Business Administration's criteria for being a small entity, we do not believe this proposed rulemaking will impose a significant financial impact on them. In fact, we believe this proposed rule will be a benefit to technology development businesses, especially small businesses, by presenting them with an attractive, voluntary option of pursuing a potentially profitable investment by reducing the amount of risk and uncertainty of lawsuits associated with developing anti-terrorist technology. The requirements of this proposed rulemaking will only be imposed on such businesses that voluntarily seek the liability protection of the SAFETY Act. If a company does not request that protection, the company will bear no cost.

To the extent that demand for insurance falls, however, insurers may be adversely impacted by this rule. DHS believes that eventual new entry into this market and further opportunities to insure against terrorism risk implies that the long-term impact of this rulemaking on insurers is ambiguous but could very well be positive. We also expect that this rulemaking will affect relatively few firms and relatively few insurers either positively or negatively, as this appears to be a specialized industry. Therefore, we preliminarily certify this notice of proposed rulemaking will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities, and we request comments on this certification.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995

This rule will not result in the expenditure by State, local and tribal governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of $100 million or more in any one year, and it will not significantly or uniquely affect small governments. Therefore, no actions were deemed necessary under the provisions of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995.

Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

The Department of Homeland Security will submit the following information collection request to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review in accordance with procedures of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995. The proposed information collection will be published to obtain comments from the public and affected agencies.

DHS will request comments on at least the following four points:

(1) Whether the proposed collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the agency, including whether the information will have practical utility;

(2) The accuracy of the agency's estimate of the burden of the proposed collection of information, including the validity of the methodology and assumptions used;

(3) The quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected; and

(4) The burden of the collection of information on those who are to respond, including through the use of appropriate automated, electronic, mechanical, or other technological collection techniques or other forms of information technology, e.g., permitting electronic submission of responses.

Overview of this information collection:

(1) Type of Information Collection: New Collection

(2) Title of the Form/Collection: [Application Form for Designation of Qualified Anti-terrorism Technology under the SAFETY Act; Application Form for Approval of Qualified Anti-terrorism Technology under the SAFETY Act.]

(3) Agency form number and applicable component sponsoring the collection: Form Number: __-001, Directorate of Science and Technology, Department of Homeland Security.

(4) Affected public who will be asked or required to respond, as well as a brief abstract: Primary: Sellers and potential Sellers of qualified anti-terrorism technology. Abstract: The Application Form for Designation and/or Approval of Qualified Anti-terrorism Technology will be used to provide information to the Under Secretary for Science and Technology of the Department of Homeland Security in determining whether Sellers qualify for risk and litigation management protections under the SAFETY Act.

(5) An estimate of the total number of respondents and the amount of time estimated for an average respondent to respond: 1,000 applicants annually. 40 to 200 hours per application.

(6) An estimate of the total public burden (in hours) associated with the collection: 40,000 to 200,000 hours.

As part of the Homeland Security Act of 2002, Public Law 107-296, Congress enacted several liability protections for providers of anti-terrorism technologies. The SAFETY Act provides incentives for the development and deployment of anti-terrorism technologies by creating a system of “risk management” and a system of “litigation management.” The purpose of the Act is to ensure that the threat of liability does not deter potential manufacturers or Sellers of anti-terrorism technologies from developing and commercializing technologies that could save lives. Together, the risk and litigation management provisions provide the following protections:

- Exclusive jurisdiction in federal court for suits against the Sellers of “qualified anti-terrorism technologies” (§ 863(a)(2));
- A limitation on the liability of Sellers of qualified anti-terrorism technologies to an amount of liability insurance coverage specified for each individual technology, provided that Sellers will not be required to obtain any more liability insurance coverage than is reasonably available “at prices that will not unreasonably distort the sales price” of the technology. (§ 864(a));
- A prohibition on joint and several liability for noneconomic damages, so that Sellers can only be liable for that percentage of noneconomic damages proportionate to their responsibility for the harm (§ 863(b)(2));
- A complete bar on punitive damages and prejudgment interest (§ 863(b)(1));

Small Business Regulatory Fairness Act of 1996

As noted above, the Department has tentatively determined that this proposed rule would not qualify as a "major rule" as defined by section 804 of the Small Business and Regulatory Enforcement Act of 1996.

Executive Order 13132 - Federalism

The Department of Homeland Security does not believe this proposed rule will have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. States will, however, benefit from this rule to the extent that they are purchasers of approved anti-terrorism technologies. DHS requests comment on the federalism impact of this Rule. In particular, the Department seeks comment on whether this proposed rule will raise significant federalism implications and, if so, what is the nature of those implications.

PART __ -- SUPPORT ANTI-TERRORISM BY FOSTERING EFFECTIVE TECHNOLOGIES ACT OF 2002

[table of contents]

Authority: Subtitle G of Title VIII of the Pub. L. 107-296, __ Stat. __, __ U.S.C. __.

§ 101.1 Purpose.

This Part implements the Support Anti-terrorism by Fostering Effective Technologies Act of 2002, Subtitle G of Title VIII of Public Law 107-296 (“the SAFETY Act” or “the Act”).

§ 101.2 Delegation.

All of the Secretary’s responsibilities, powers, and functions under the SAFETY Act may be exercised by the Under Secretary for Science and Technology of the Department of Homeland Security (“the Under Secretary”) or the Under Secretary’s designees.

§ 101.3 Designation of Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technologies.

(a) General- The Under Secretary may designate as a qualified anti-terrorism technology for purposes of protections set forth in Subtitle G of Title VIII of Public Law 107-296 any qualifying product, equipment, service (including support services), device, or technology (including information technology) designed, developed, modified, or procured for the specific purpose of preventing, detecting, identifying, or deterring acts of terrorism or limiting the harm such acts might otherwise cause.

(b) Criteria to be Considered- In determining whether to grant the designation under paragraph (a) (a “Designation”), the Under Secretary may exercise discretion and judgment in interpreting and weighting the various criteria in each case in determining whether to grant a Designation:

(i) Prior United States Government use or demonstrated substantial utility and effectiveness.

(ii) Availability of the technology for immediate deployment in public and private settings.

(iii) Existence of extraordinarily large or extraordinarily unquantifiable potential third party liability risk exposure to the Seller or other provider of such anti-terrorism technology.

(iv) Substantial likelihood that such anti-terrorism technology will not be deployed unless protections under the system of risk management provided under Subtitle G of Title VIII of Public Law 107-296 are extended.

(v) Magnitude of risk exposure to the public if such anti-terrorism technology is not deployed.

(vi) Evaluation of all scientific studies that can be feasibly conducted in order to assess the capability of the technology to substantially reduce risks of harm.

(vii) Anti-terrorism technology that would be effective in facilitating the defense against acts of terrorism, including technologies that prevent, defeat or respond to such acts.

(viii) Any other factor that the Under Secretary may consider to be relevant to the determination or to the homeland Security of the United States.

(c) Use of Standards- From time to time the Under Secretary may develop, issue, revise, and adopt safety and effectiveness standards for various categories of anti-terrorism technologies. Such standards will be published by the Department at www.dhs.gov, and copies may also be obtained by mail sending a request to

_____ . Compliance with any such standards that are applicable to a particular anti-terrorism technology may be considered before any Designation will be granted for such technology under paragraph (a); in such cases, the Under Secretary may consider test results produced by an independent laboratory or other entity engaged to test or verify the safety, utility, performance, or effectiveness of such technology.

(d) Consideration of Substantial Equivalence- In determining whether a particular technology satisfies the criteria in paragraph (b) and complies with any applicable standards referenced in paragraph (c), the Under Secretary may take into consideration evidence that the technology is substantially equivalent to other, similar technologies (“predicate technologies”) that have been previously designated as “qualified anti-terrorism technologies” under the SAFETY Act. A technology may be deemed to be substantially equivalent to a predicate technology if (i) it has the same intended use as the predicate technology, and (ii) it has the same or substantially similar technological characteristics as the predicate technology.

(e) Duration and Depth of Review- Recognizing the urgency of certain security measures, the Under Secretary will make a judgment regarding the duration and depth of review appropriate for a particular technology. This review will include submissions by the applicant for SAFETY Act coverage, along with information that the Under Secretary can feasibly gather from other sources. For technologies with which the Federal Government or other governmental entity already has substantial experience or data (through the procurement process or through prior use or review), the review may rely in part upon that prior experience and, thus, may be expedited. The Under Secretary may consider any scientific studies, testing, field studies, or other experience with the technology that he deems appropriate and that are available or can be feasibly conducted or obtained in order to assess the capability of the technology to substantially reduce risks of harm. Such studies may, in the Under Secretary's discretion, include:

- (i) Public source studies;
- (ii) Classified and otherwise confidential studies;
- (iii) Studies, test, or other performance records or data provided by or available to the producer of the specific technology; and
- (iv) Proprietary studies that are available to the Under Secretary.

In considering whether or the extent to which it is feasible to defer a decision on a Designation until additional scientific studies can be conducted on a particular technology, the Under Secretary will bring to bear his or her expertise concerning the protection of the security of the American homeland and will consider the urgency of the need for the technology.

(f) Content of Designation- A Designation shall specify the technology and the Seller(s) of the technology. The Designation may, but need not, also specify others who are required to be covered by the liability insurance required to be purchased by the Seller. The Designation shall include the certification required by Section 101.4 herein. The Designation may also include such other specifications as the Under Secretary may deem to be appropriate. Failure to specify a covered person or party in a Designation will not preclude application of the Act's protections to that person or party.

(g) Government Procurements- The Under Secretary may coordinate a SAFETY Act review in connection with an agency procurement of an anti-terrorism technology in any manner he or she deems appropriate and consistent with the Act and other applicable laws.

(h) Pre-Application Consultations- To the extent that he or she deems it appropriate, the Under Secretary may consult with potential SAFETY Act applicants regarding the need for or advisability of particular types of anti-terrorism technologies, although no pre-approval of any particular technology may be given. The confidentiality provisions in Section 101.8 hereof shall be applicable to such consultations.

101.4 Obligations of Seller.

(a) Liability Insurance Required- Any person or entity that sells or otherwise provides a qualified anti-terrorism technology to Federal and non-Federal Government customers shall obtain liability insurance of such types and in such amounts as shall be required in accordance with this section and certified by the Under Secretary to satisfy otherwise compensable third-party claims arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism when qualified anti-terrorism technologies have been deployed in defense against, response to, or recovery from, such act. The Under Secretary may request at any time (before or after the certification process established under this section) that the Seller or any other provider of qualified anti-terrorism technology submit any information that would (i) assist in determining the amount of liability insurance required, or (ii) show that the Seller or any other provider of qualified anti-terrorism technology otherwise has met all the requirements of this section.

(b) Maximum Amount- For the total claims related to one such act of terrorism, the Seller will not be required to obtain liability insurance of more than the maximum amount of liability insurance reasonably available from private sources on the world market at prices and terms that will not unreasonably distort the sales price of the Seller's anti-terrorism technology. The Under Secretary will determine the amount of liability insurance required for each technology, or, to the extent feasible and appropriate, a particular group of technologies. The Under Secretary or his designee may find that – notwithstanding the level of risk exposure for a particular technology, or group of technologies – the maximum amount of liability insurance from private sources on the world market is set at a price or contingent on terms that will unreasonably distort the sales price of a Seller's technology, thereby necessitating liability insurance coverage below the maximum amount available. In determining the amount of liability insurance required, the Under Secretary may consider any factor, including, but not limited to, the following:

- (i) the particular technology at issue;
- (ii) the amount of liability insurance the Seller maintained prior to application;
- (iii) the amount of liability insurance maintained by the Seller for other technologies or for the Seller's business as a whole;
- (iv) the amount of liability insurance typically maintained by sellers of comparable technologies;
- (v) information regarding the amount of liability insurance offered on the world market;
- (vi) data and history regarding mass casualty losses;
- (vii) the intended use of the technology;

(viii) the requirements of the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act of 2002 regarding the provision of liability insurance for third-party claims arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism;

(ix) the possible effects of the cost of insurance on the price of the product, and the possible consequences thereof for development, production, or deployment of the technology; and

(x) in the case of a Seller seeking approval to self-insure, the factors described in Section 28.308(d) of the Federal Acquisition Regulation.

(c) Scope of Coverage- Liability insurance obtained pursuant to this subsection shall, in addition to the Seller, protect the following, to the extent of their potential liability for involvement in the manufacture, qualification, sale, use, or operation of qualified anti-terrorism technologies deployed in defense against, response to, or recovery from, an act of terrorism:

(i) Contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, vendors and customers of the Seller.

(ii) Contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, and vendors of the customer.

(d) Third Party Claims- Any liability insurance required to be obtained under this section shall provide coverage against third party claims arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism when the applicable qualified anti-terrorism technologies have been deployed in defense against, response to, or recovery from such act.

(e) Reciprocal Waiver Of Claims- The Seller shall enter into a reciprocal waiver of claims with its contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, vendors, and customers, and contractors and subcontractors of the customers, involved in the manufacture, sale, use, or operation of qualified anti-terrorism technologies, under which each party to the waiver agrees to be responsible for losses, including business interruption losses, that it sustains, or for losses sustained by its own employees resulting from an activity resulting from an act of terrorism when qualified anti-terrorism technologies have been deployed in defense against, response to, or recovery from such act.

(f) Information to be Submitted by the Seller— The Seller shall provide a statement, executed by a duly authorized representative of the Seller, of all liability insurance coverage applicable to third-party claims arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism when the Seller’s Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technology has been deployed in defense against, response to, or recovery from such act, including:

- (i) Names of insurance companies, policy numbers, and expiration dates;
- (ii) A description of the types and nature of such insurance (including the extent to which the Seller is self-insured or intends to self-insure);
- (iii) Dollar limits per occurrence and annually of such insurance, including any applicable sublimits;
- (iv) Deductibles or self-insured retentions, if any, that are applicable;
- (v) Any relevant exclusions from coverage under such policies;
- (vi) The price for such insurance, if available, and the per-unit amount or percentage of such price directly related to liability coverage for the Seller’s Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technology deployed in defense against or response or recovery from an act of terror;
- (vii) Where applicable, whether the liability insurance, in addition to the Seller, protects contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, vendors and customers of the Seller and contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, vendors and customers of the customer to the extent of their potential liability for involvement in the manufacture, qualification, sale, use or operation of Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technologies deployed in defense against, response to, or recovery from an act of terrorism;

(viii) Any limitations on such liability insurance; and

(ix) In the case of a Seller seeking approval to self-insure, all of the information described in Section 28.308(a)(1)-(10) of the Federal Acquisition Regulation.

(g) Seller's Continuing Obligation—The Seller must notify the Under Secretary of any changes in types or amounts of liability insurance coverage for any Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technology.

(h) Under Secretary's Certification—For each Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technology, the Under Secretary shall certify the amount of insurance required under Section 864 of the Act. The Under Secretary shall include the certification under this section as a part of the applicable Designation. The certification may specify a period of time for which the certification will apply. The Seller of a Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technology may at any time petition the Under Secretary for a revision or termination of the certification under this section. The Under Secretary or his designee may at any time request information from the Seller regarding the insurance maintained by the Seller or the amount of insurance available to the Seller.

101.5 Procedures for Designation of Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technologies

(a) Application Procedure- Any Seller seeking a Designation shall submit all information supporting such request to the Assistant Secretary for Plans, Programs, and Budget of the Department of Homeland Security Directorate of Science and Technology,

- A reduction of plaintiffs’ recovery by amounts that plaintiffs received from “collateral sources,” such as insurance benefits or other government benefits (§ 863(c)); and
- A rebuttable presumption that the Seller is entitled to the “government contractor defense” (§ 863(d)).

The Act provides that these liability protections are conferred by two separate actions by the Secretary. The Secretary’s designation of a technology as a “qualified anti-terrorism technology” confers all of the liability protections except the rebuttable presumption in favor of the government contractor defense. The presumption in favor of the government contractor defense requires an additional “approval” by the Secretary under § 863(d) of the Act. In many cases, however, the designation and the approval can be conferred simultaneously.

This preamble to the Proposed Rule first addresses the two major aspects of the Act – the designation of qualified anti-terrorism technologies and the approval of technologies for purposes of the government contractor defense. Following that discussion, the preamble addresses specific issues regarding the Proposed Rule and the Department’s interpretation of the Act.

Designation of Qualified Anti-terrorism Technologies

As noted above, the designation of a technology as a qualified anti-terrorism technology confers all of the liability protections provided in the Act, except for the presumption in favor of the government contractor defense. The Act gives the Secretary broad discretion in determining whether to designate a particular technology as a or such other official of such Directorate as may be designated from time to time by the Under Secretary (“the Assistant Secretary”). The Under Secretary shall make application forms available at www.dhs.gov or by mail upon request sent to _____.

(b) Initial Notification- Within 30 days after receipt of an Application for a Designation, the Assistant Secretary or his or her designee shall notify the applicant in writing that (i) the Application is complete and will be reviewed, or (ii) that the Application is incomplete, in which case the missing or incomplete parts will be specified.

(c) Review Process- The Assistant Secretary or his or her designee will review each complete Application and any included supporting materials. In performing this function, the Assistant Secretary or his or her designee may, but is not required to:

- (i) request additional information from the Seller;
- (ii) meet with representatives of the Seller;
- (iii) consult with, and rely upon the expertise of, any other federal or nonfederal entity;
- (iv) perform studies or analyses of the technology or the insurance market for such technology; and
- (v) seek information from insurers regarding the availability of insurance for such technology.

(d) Recommendation of the Assistant Secretary- Within 90 days after receipt of a complete Application for a Designation, the Assistant Secretary shall make one of the following recommendations to the Under Secretary regarding such Application: (i) that the Application be approved and a Designation be issued to the Seller; (ii) that the Seller be notified that the technology is potentially eligible for a Designation, but that additional specified information is needed before a decision may be reached; or (iii) that the Application be denied. If approval is recommended, the recommendation shall include a recommendation regarding the certification required by Section 101.4 of this Part. The Assistant Secretary may extend the time period beyond 90 days upon notice to the Seller; the Assistant Secretary is not required to provide a reason or cause for such extension.

(e) Discretionary Notice of Recommendation- The Assistant Secretary may provide notice to the Seller of his recommendation to the Under Secretary and an opportunity for the Seller to provide additional information in support of the Seller's Application. In no event is the Assistant Secretary required to provide such notice or opportunity to provide additional information.

(f) Action by the Under Secretary- Within 30 days after receiving a recommendation from the Assistant Secretary pursuant to paragraph (d) of this Section, the Under Secretary shall take one of the following actions: (i) approve the Application and issue an appropriate Designation to the Seller, which shall include the certification required by Section 101.4 of this Part; (ii) notify the Seller in writing that the technology is potentially eligible for a Designation, but that additional specified information is needed before a decision may be reached; or (iii) deny the Application, and notify the Seller in writing of such decision. The Under Secretary may extend the time period beyond 30 days upon notice to the Seller; the Under Secretary is not required to provide a reason or cause for such extension. The Under Secretary's decision shall be final and not subject to review, except at the discretion of the Under Secretary.

(g) Term of Designation; Renewal- A Designation shall be valid and effective for a term of five to eight years (as determined by the Under Secretary based upon the technology) commencing on the date of issuance, and the protections conferred by the Designation shall continue in full force and effect indefinitely, after the expiration of the Designation, to all sales of qualified anti-terrorism technologies covered by the Designation that were consummated during such term. At any time after the third anniversary of such issuance, the Seller may apply for renewal of the Designation. The Under Secretary shall make the application form for renewals available at www.dhs.gov or by mail upon request sent to _____.

(h) Transfer of Designation- Any Designation may be transferred and assigned to any other person or entity to which the Seller transfers and assigns all right, title, and interest in and to the technology covered by the Designation, including the intellectual property rights therein (or, if the Seller is a licensee of the technology, to any person or entity to which such Seller transfers all of its right, title, and interest in and to the applicable license agreement). Such transfer and assignment of a Designation will not be effective unless and until (i) the Under Secretary is notified in writing of the transfer using the “Application for Transfer of Designation” form issued by the Under Secretary (the Under Secretary shall make this application form available at www.dhs.gov, or by mail by written request sent to _____), and (ii) the transferee complies with all applicable provisions of the SAFETY Act, this Part, and the relevant Designation as if the transferee were the Seller. Upon the effectiveness of such transfer and assignment, the transferee will be deemed to be a Seller in the place and stead of the transferor with respect to the applicable technology for all purposes under the SAFETY Act, this Part, and the transferred Designation. The transferred Designation will continue to apply to the transferor with respect to all transactions and occurrences that occurred through the time at which the transfer and assignment of the Designation became effective, as specified in the applicable Application for Transfer of Designation.

(i) Application of Designation to Licensees- Any Designation shall apply to any other person or entity to which the Seller licenses (exclusively or nonexclusively) the right to manufacture and sell the technology, in the same manner and to the same extent that such Designation applies to the Seller, effective as of the date of commencement of the license, provided that the Seller notifies the Under Secretary of such license by submitting, within 30 days after such date of commencement, a “Notice of License of Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technology” form issued by the Under Secretary. The Under Secretary shall make this form available at www.dhs.gov or by mail upon request sent to _____ . Such notification shall not be required for any licensee listed as a Seller on the applicable Designation.

(j) Termination of Designation Resulting from Substantial Modification- A Designation shall terminate automatically, and have no further force or effect, if the designated Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technology is significantly changed or modified in design, components, or method of manufacture. A change or modification in the technology that could significantly affect the safety or effectiveness of the device (e.g., a significant change or modification in design, material, chemical composition, energy source, or manufacturing process) constitutes a significant change or modification. If a Seller is planning a significant change or modification to a designated technology as defined above, such Seller may apply for a corresponding modification of the applicable

Designation in advance of the implementation of such modification. Application for such a modification must be made using the “Application for Modification of Designation” form issued by the Under Secretary. The Under Secretary shall make this application form available at www.dhs.gov or by mail upon request sent to

101.6 Government Contractor Defense.

The Under Secretary may certify a qualified anti-terrorism technology as an Approved Product for Homeland Security for purposes of establishing a rebuttable presumption of the applicability of the government contractor defense. In determining whether to grant such certification, the Under Secretary or his or her designee shall conduct a comprehensive review of the design of such technology and determine whether it will perform as intended, conforms to the Seller's specifications, and is safe for use as intended. The Seller shall provide safety and hazard analyses and other relevant data and information regarding such technology to the Department in connection with an application. The Under Secretary or his designee may require that the Seller submit any information that the Under Secretary or his designee considers relevant to the application for approval. The Under Secretary or his designee may consult with, and rely upon the expertise of, any other governmental or non-governmental person or entity, and may consider test results produced by an independent laboratory or other person or entity engaged by the Seller.

101.7 Procedures for Certification of Approved Products for Homeland Security

(a) Application Procedure- A Seller seeking certification of anti-terrorism technology as an Approved Product for Homeland Security under Section 101.6 (a “Certification”) shall submit all information supporting such request to the Assistant Secretary. The Under Secretary shall make application forms available at www.dhs.gov, and copies may also be obtained by mail by sending a request to _____.

An Application for a Certification may not be filed unless the Seller has also filed an Application for Designation of Qualified Anti-Terrorism Technology for the same technology. The two applications may be filed simultaneously and may be reviewed simultaneously.

(b) Initial Notification- Within 30 days after receipt of an Application for a Certification, the Assistant Secretary or his or her designee shall notify the applicant in writing that (i) the Application is complete and will be reviewed, or (ii) that the Application is incomplete, in which case the missing or incomplete parts will be specified.

(c) Review Process- The Assistant Secretary or his or her designee will review each complete Application for a Certification and any included supporting materials. In performing this function, the Assistant Secretary or his or her designee may, but is not required to:

- (i) request additional information from the Seller;
- (ii) meet with representatives of the Seller;
- (iii) consult with, and rely upon the expertise of, any other federal or nonfederal entity; and
- (iv) perform or seek studies or analyses of the technology.

(d) Recommendation of the Assistant Secretary- Within 90 days after receipt of a complete Application for a Certification, the Assistant Secretary shall make one of the following recommendations to the Under Secretary regarding such Application: (i) that the Application be approved and a Certification be issued to the Seller; (ii) that the Seller be notified that the technology is potentially eligible for a Certification, but that additional specified information is needed before a decision may be reached; or (iii) that the Application be denied. The Assistant Secretary may extend the time period beyond 90 days upon notice to the Seller; the Assistant Secretary is not required to provide a reason or cause for such extension.

(e) Discretionary Notice of Recommendation- The Assistant Secretary may provide notice to the Seller of his or her recommendation to the Under Secretary and an opportunity for the Seller to provide additional information in support of the Seller's Application. In no event is the Assistant Secretary required to provide such notice or opportunity to provide additional information.

(f) Action by the Under Secretary- Within 30 days after receiving a recommendation from the Assistant Secretary pursuant to paragraph (d) of this Section, the Under Secretary shall take one of the following actions: (i) approve the Application and issue an appropriate Certification to the Seller; (ii) notify the Seller in writing that the technology is potentially eligible for a Certification, but that additional specified information is needed before a decision may be reached; or (iii) deny the Application, and notify the Seller in writing of such decision. The Under Secretary may extend the time period beyond 30 days upon notice to the Seller, and the Under Secretary is not required to provide a reason or cause for such extension. The Under Secretary's decision shall be final and not subject to review, except at the discretion of the Under Secretary.

(g) Designation is a Pre-Condition- The Under Secretary may approve an Application for a Certification only if the Under Secretary has also approved an Application for a Designation for the same technology under Section 101.3.

(h) Term of Certification; Renewal- A Certification shall be valid and effective for the same period of time for which the related Designation is issued, and shall terminate upon the termination of such related Designation. The Seller may apply for renewal of the Certification in connection with an application for renewal of the related Designation. An application for renewal must be made using the “Application for Certification of an Approved Product for Homeland Security” form issued by the Under Secretary.

(i) Application of Certification to Licensees- Any Certification shall apply to any other person or entity to which the Seller licenses (exclusively or nonexclusively) the right to manufacture and sell the technology, in the same manner and to the same extent that such Certification applies to the Seller, effective as of the date of commencement of the license, provided that the Seller notifies the Under Secretary of such license by submitting, within 30 days after such date of commencement, a “Notice of License of Approved Anti-Terrorism Technology” form issued by the Under Secretary. The Under Secretary shall make this form available at www.dhs.gov or by mail upon request sent to _____ . Such notification shall not be required for any licensee listed as a Seller on the applicable Certification.

(j) Transfer of Certification- In the event of any permitted transfer and assignment of a Designation, any related Certification for the same anti-terrorism technology shall automatically be deemed to be transferred and assigned to the same transferee to which such Designation is transferred and assigned. The transferred Certification will continue to apply to the transferor with respect to all transactions and occurrences that occurred through the time at which such transfer and assignment of the Certification became effective.

(k) Issuance of Certificate; Approved Product List- For anti-terrorism technology reviewed and approved by the Under Secretary and for which a Certification is issued, the Under Secretary shall issue a certificate of conformance to the Seller and place the anti-terrorism technology on an Approved Product List for Homeland Security.

101.8 Confidentiality/Protection of Intellectual Property

The Secretary, in consultation with the Office of Management and Budget and appropriate Federal law enforcement and intelligence officials, and in a manner consistent with existing protections for sensitive or classified information, shall establish confidentiality protocols for maintenance and use of information submitted to the Department under the SAFETY Act and this Part. Such protocols shall, among other things, ensure that the Department will utilize all appropriate exemptions from the Freedom of Information Act.

101.9 Definitions

(1) ASSISTANT SECRETARY– The term “Assistant Secretary” means the Assistant Secretary for Plans, Programs, and Budget of the Department of Homeland Security Directorate of Science and Technology, or such other official of such Directorate as may be designated from time to time by the Under Secretary.

(2) CERTIFICATION– The term “Certification” means a certification that a qualified anti-terrorism technology for which a Designation has been issued will perform as intended, conforms to the Seller’s specifications, and is safe for use as intended.

(3) CONTRACTOR– The term “contractor” of a Seller means any person or entity with whom or with which the Seller has entered into a contract relating to the manufacture, sale, use, or operation of anti-terrorism technology for which a Designation is issued (regardless of whether such contract is entered into before or after the issuance of such Designation), including, without limitation, an independent laboratory or other entity engaged in testing or verifying the safety, utility, performance, effectiveness of such technology, or the conformity of such technology to the Seller’s specifications.

(4) DESIGNATION– The term “Designation” means a designation of a qualified anti-terrorism technology under the SAFETY Act issued by the Under Secretary under authority delegated by the Secretary of Homeland Security.

(5) LOSS– The term 'loss' means death, bodily injury, or loss of or damage to property, including business interruption loss (which is a component of loss of or damage to property).

(6) PHYSICAL HARM– The term 'physical harm' as used in the Act shall mean a physical injury to the body that caused, either temporarily or permanently, partial or total physical disability, incapacity or disfigurement. In no event shall physical harm include mental pain, anguish, or suffering, or fear of injury.

(7) SAFETY ACT or ACT– The term “SAFETY Act” or “Act” means the Support Anti-terrorism by Fostering Effective Technologies Act of 2002, enacted as Subtitle G of Title VIII of the Homeland Security Act of 2002, Public Law 107-296.

(8) SELLER– The term “Seller” means any person or entity that sells or otherwise provides anti-terrorism technology to Federal and non-Federal Government customers for “qualified anti-terrorism technology,” although the Act sets forth the following criteria that must be considered to the extent that they are applicable to the technology: (1) prior United States Government use or demonstrated substantial utility and effectiveness; (2) availability of the technology for immediate deployment; (3) the potential liability of the Seller; (4) the likelihood that the technology will not be deployed unless the SAFETY Act protections are conferred; (5) the risk to the public if the technology is not deployed; (6) evaluation of scientific studies; and (7) the effectiveness of the technology in defending against acts of terrorism. These criteria are not exclusive – the Secretary may consider other factors that he deems appropriate. The Secretary has discretion to give greater weight to some factors over others, and the relative weighting of the various criteria may vary based upon the particular technology at issue and the threats that the technology is designed to address. The Secretary may, in his discretion, determine that failure to meet a particular criterion justifies denial of an application under the SAFETY Act. However, the Secretary is not required to reject an application that fails to meet one or more of the criteria. Rather the Secretary, after considering all of the relevant criteria, may conclude that a particular technology merits designation as a “qualified anti-terrorism technology” even if a particular criterion is not satisfied. The Secretary’s considerations will also vary with the constantly evolving threats and conditions that give rise to the need for the technologies.

The SAFETY Act applies to a very broad range of technologies, including products, services, software, and other forms of intellectual property, as long as the Secretary, as an exercise of discretion and judgment, determines that a technology merits designation under the statutory criteria. Further, as the statutory criteria suggest, a which a Designation has been issued under this Part (unless the context requires otherwise).

(9) UNDER SECRETARY– The term “Under Secretary” means the Under Secretary for Science and Technology of the Department of Homeland Security.

“qualified anti-terrorism technology” is not necessarily required to be newly developed – it may have already been employed (e.g. “prior United States Government use”) or may be a new application of an existing technology.

The Act also provides that, before designating a “qualified anti-terrorism technology,” the Secretary will examine the amount of liability insurance the Seller of the technology proposes to maintain for coverage of the technology at issue. Under Section 864(a), the Secretary must certify that the coverage level is appropriate “to satisfy otherwise compensable third-party claims arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism when qualified anti-terrorism technologies have been deployed.” § 864(a)(1). The Act further provides that “the Seller is not required to obtain liability insurance of more than the maximum amount of liability insurance reasonably available in the world market at prices and terms that will not unreasonably distort the sales price of Seller’s anti-terrorism technologies.” § 864(a)(2).

The Secretary does not intend to set a “one-size-fits all” numerical requirement regarding required insurance coverage for all technologies. Instead, as the Act suggests, the inquiry will be specific to each application and may involve an examination of several factors, including the following: the amount of insurance the Seller has previously maintained; the amount of insurance maintained by the Seller for other technologies or for the Seller’s business as a whole; the amount of insurance typically maintained by sellers of comparable technologies; data and history regarding mass casualty losses; and the particular technology at issue. The Secretary will not require insurance beyond the point at which the cost of coverage would “unreasonably distort” the price of the technology. Once the Secretary concludes the analysis regarding the appropriate level of insurance coverage (which might include discussions with the Seller in appropriate cases), the Secretary will identify in a short certification a description of the coverage appropriate for the particular qualified anti-terrorism technology. If, during the term of the designation, the Seller would like to request reconsideration of that insurance certification due to changed circumstances or for other reasons, the Seller may do so. If the Seller fails to maintain coverage at the certified level during that time period, the liability protections of the Act will continue to apply, but the Seller's liability limit will remain at the certified insurance level. Such failure, however, will be regarded as a negative factor in the consideration of any future application by the Seller for renewal of the applicable designation, and perhaps in any other application by the Seller.

Government Contractor Defense

The Act creates a rebuttable presumption that the government contractor defense applies to qualified anti-terrorism technologies "approved by the Secretary" in accordance with certain criteria specified in § 863(d)(2). The government contractor defense is an affirmative defense that immunizes Sellers from liability for certain claims brought under § 863(a) of the Act. See § 863(d)(1). The presumption of this defense applies to all "approved" qualified anti-terrorism technologies for claims brought in a "product liability or other lawsuit" and "arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism when qualified anti-terrorism technologies . . . have been deployed in defense against or response or recovery from such act and such claims result or may result in loss to the Seller." Id. While the government contractor defense is a judicially-created doctrine, Section 863's express terms supplant many of the requirements in the case law for application of the defense.

First, and most obviously, the Act expressly provides that the government contractor defense is available not only to government contractors, but also to sales to state and local governments and the private sector. See § 863(d)(1) (“This presumption of the government contractor defense shall apply regardless of whether the claim against the Seller arises from a sale of the product to Federal Government or non-Federal Government customers.”).

Second, Sellers of qualified anti-terrorism technologies need not design their technologies to federal government specifications in order to obtain the government contractor defense under the SAFETY Act. Instead, the Act sets forth criteria for the Department's “approval” of technologies. Specifically, the Act provides that during the process of approval for the government contractor defense the Secretary will conduct a “comprehensive review of the design of such technology and determine whether it will perform as intended, conforms to the Seller's specifications, and is safe for use as intended.” § 863(d)(2). The Act also provides that the Seller will “conduct safety and hazard analyses” and supply such information to the Secretary. Id. This express statutory framework thus governs in lieu of the requirements developed in case law for the application of the government contractor defense.

Third, the Act expressly states the limited circumstances in which the applicability of the defense can be rebutted. The Act provides expressly that the presumption can be overcome only by evidence showing that the Seller acted fraudulently or with willful misconduct in submitting information to the Secretary during the course of the Secretary's consideration of such technology. See § 863(d)(1)(“This presumption shall only be overcome by evidence showing that the Seller acted fraudulently or with willful misconduct in submitting information to the Secretary during the course of the Secretary's consideration of such technology under this subsection.”).

The applicability of the government contractor defense to particular technologies is thus governed by these express provisions of the Act, rather than by the judicially-developed criteria for applicability of the government contractor defense outside the context of the SAFETY Act.

While the Act does not expressly delineate the scope of the defense (i.e., the types of claims that the defense bars), the Act and the legislative history make clear that the scope is broad. For example, it is clear that any Seller of an “approved” technology cannot be held liable under the Act for design defects or failure to warn claims, unless the presumption of the defense is rebutted by evidence that the Seller acted fraudulently or with willful misconduct in submitting information to the Secretary during the course of the Secretary's consideration of such technology.

The government contractor defense under Boyle and its progeny bars a broad range of claims. The Supreme Court in Boyle concluded that “state law which holds Government contractors liable for design defects” can present a significant conflict with federal policy (including the discretionary function exception to the Federal Tort Claims Act) and therefore “must be displaced.” Boyle v. United Technologies Corp., 487 U.S. 500, 512 (1988). The Department believes that Congress incorporated the Supreme Court's Boyle line of cases as it existed on the date of enactment of the SAFETY Act, rather than incorporating future developments of the government contractor defense in

Attached are draft regulations (please do not forward these outside the Administration) that DHS is about to send over to OIRA for clearance. These regulations would implement the SAFETY Act, which provides liability protections for anti-terrorism technologies that are designated or approved by DHS for SAFETY Act coverage. These regs largely track the statute. This is just a proposed rule w/ a short comment period, but DHS will begin accepting applications for coverage even before DHS issues a final rule. OIRA will clear this very quickly b/c they have already had a chance to review this informally. This could get some attention because the SAFETY Act contained significant tort reform measures. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns. Thanks.

---

SUMMARY: This Proposed Rule would implement Subtitle G of Title VIII of the Homeland Security Act of 2002 – the Support Anti-terrorism by Fostering Effective Technologies Act of 2002 (“the SAFETY Act” or “the Act”). As discussed in detail below, the SAFETY Act, through regulations promulgated by the Department, will provide critical incentives for the development and deployment of anti-terrorism technologies by providing liability protections for Sellers of “qualified anti-terrorism technologies” and others.

DATES: Comments in response to this notice are due by [insert date of 30 days from publication in the Federal Register].

ADDRESSES: Comments on this Proposed Rule should be submitted by e-mail to: _____@dhs.gov, or by facsimile to _____. Comments may also be mailed to _____. The Department encourages commenters to submit their comments by e-mail or facsimile. Comments received are public records. the courts. Indeed, it is hard to imagine that Congress would have intended a statute designed to provide certainty and protection to Sellers of anti-terrorism technologies to be subject to future developments of a judicially-created doctrine. In fact, there is evidence that Congress rejected such a construction. See, e.g., 148 Cong. Rec. E2080 (November 13, 2001) (statement of Rep. Armev)("[Companies] will have a government contractor defense as is commonplace in existing law.") (emphasis added).

Procedurally, the presumption of applicability of the government contractor defense is conferred by the Secretary's "approval" of a qualified anti-terrorism technology specifically for the purposes of the government contractor defense. This approval is a separate act from the Secretary's "designation" of a qualified anti-terrorism technology. Importantly, the Seller may submit applications for both designation as a qualified anti-terrorism technology and approval for purposes of the government contractor defense at the same time, and the Secretary may review and act upon both applications simultaneously. The distinction between the Secretary's two actions is important, however, because the approval process for the government contractor defense includes a level of review that is not required for the designation of a qualified anti-terrorism technology. Specifically, the Act provides that during the process of approval for the government contractor defense the Secretary will conduct a "comprehensive review of the design of such technology and determine whether it will perform as intended, conforms to the Seller's specifications, and is safe for use as intended." § 863(d)(2). The Department believes that certain Sellers will be able to obtain the protections that come with designation as a qualified anti-terrorism technology even if they have not satisfied the requirements for the government contractor defense.

Similarly, even if the applicability of the government contractor defense were rebutted under the test set forth in Section 863(d)(1) of the Act, the technology may still retain the designation and protections as a qualified anti-terrorism technology.

Specific Issues Regarding the Act and this Rule

1. Definition of Anti-Terrorism Technologies. The Department recognizes that the universe of technologies that can be deployed against terrorism includes far more than physical products. Rather, the defense of the homeland will require deployment of a broad range of technologies that includes services, software, and other forms of intellectual property. Thus, consistent with Section 865 of the Act, Section 101.3(a) of the proposed rule defines qualified anti-terrorism technologies very broadly to include “any products, equipment, service (including support services), device, or technology (including information technology)” that the Secretary, as an exercise of discretion and judgment, determines to merit designation under the statutory criteria.

2. Development of New Technologies. The Act’s success depends not only upon encouraging Sellers to provide existing anti-terrorism technologies, but also upon encouraging Sellers to develop new and innovative technologies to respond to the ever-changing threats to the American people. The proposed rule is thus designed to allow the Department to assist would-be Sellers during the invention, design, and manufacturing phases in two important respects. First, Section 101.3(h) of the proposal makes clear that the Department, within its discretion and where feasible, may provide feedback to manufacturers regarding whether proposed or developing anti-terrorism technologies might meet the qualification factors under the Act. To be sure, the Department cannot provide advance certification, as some of the factors for the Secretary's consideration cannot be addressed in advance. The Department may, however, provide feedback regarding other factors, with the goal of giving potential Sellers some understanding of whether it might be advantageous to proceed with further development of the technology. Departmental feedback at the design, prototyping, or testing stage of development, to the extent feasible, may provide manufacturers with added incentive to commence and/or complete production of cutting-edge anti-terrorism technology that otherwise might not be produced or deployed in the absence of the risk and litigation management protections in the Act. The Department will perform these consultations with potential Sellers in a manner consistent with the protection of intellectual property and trade secrets, as discussed below.

Second, Section 101.3(g) of the proposal recognizes that Federal agencies will often be the purchasers of anti-terrorism technologies. The Department recognizes that terms on which Sellers are able to provide anti-terrorism technologies to Federal agencies may vary depending on whether the technologies receive SAFETY Act coverage or not. The proposal thus provides that the Department may coordinate SAFETY Act reviews with agency procurements. The Department also intends to review SAFETY Act applications relating to technologies that are the subject of agency procurements on an expedited basis.

The Department requests public comments regarding the best way for the Department to provide feedback to potential Sellers regarding SAFETY Act coverage and the best way for the Department to coordinate SAFETY Act review with an agency procurement.

3. Protection of Intellectual Property and Trade Secrets. The Department believes that successful implementation of the Act requires that applicants' intellectual property interests and trade secrets remain protected in the application process and beyond. Toward that end, the Department will create an application and review process in which the Department maintains the confidentiality of an applicant's proprietary information. The Department notes that laws mandating disclosure of information submitted to the government generally contain exclusions or exceptions for such information. The Freedom of Information Act, for instance, provides specific exceptions for proprietary information submitted to federal agencies. The Department seeks further input on this issue.

4. Evaluation of Scientific Studies; Consultation with Scientific and Technical Experts. Section 862(b)(6) of the Act provides that, as one of many factors in determining whether to designate a particular technology under the Act, the Secretary shall consider evaluation of all scientific studies "that can be feasibly conducted" in order to assess the capability of the technology to substantially reduce the risks of harm. An important part of this provision is that it contemplates review only of such studies as can "feasibly" be conducted. The Department believes that the need to protect the American public by facilitating the manufacture and marketing of anti-terrorism technologies might render it infeasible to defer a designation decision until after every conceivable scientific study is completed. In many cases, existing information (whether based on scientific studies, experience with the technology or a related technology, or other factors) might enable the Secretary to perform an appropriate assessment of the capability of the technology to reduce risks of harm. In other cases, even where less information is available about the capability of a technology to reduce risks of harm, the public interest in making the technology available as soon as practicable may render it infeasible to await the conduct of further scientific studies on that issue. In considering whether or to what extent it is feasible to defer a designation decision until additional scientific studies can be conducted, the Department will bring to bear its expertise concerning the protection of the American homeland and will consider the urgency of the need for the technology and other relevant factors and circumstances.

5. "Exclusive Federal Jurisdiction" and "Scope" of Insurance Coverage under § 864(a)(3). The Act creates an exclusive Federal cause of action "for any claim for loss of property, personal injury, or death arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism when qualified anti-terrorism technologies have been deployed in defense against or response or recovery from such act and such claims result or may result in loss to the Seller." § 863(a)(2); see also § 863(a)(1). This exclusive "Federal cause of action shall be brought only for claims for injuries that are proximately caused by Sellers that provide qualified anti-terrorism technology." § 863(a)(1). The best reading of § 863(a), and the reading the Department is inclined to adopt, is that (1) only one Federal cause of action exists for loss of property, personal injury, or death when a claim relates to performance or non-performance of the Seller's qualified and deployed anti-terrorism technology, and (2) such cause of action may be brought only against the Seller.

The exclusive Federal nature of this cause of action is evidenced in large part by the exclusive jurisdiction provision in § 863(a)(2). That subsection states: "Such appropriate district court of the United States shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction over all actions for any claim for loss of property, personal injury or death arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism when qualified anti-terrorism technologies have been deployed in defense against or response or recovery from such act and such claims result or may result in loss to the Seller." Id. Any presumption of concurrent causes of action (between State and Federal law) is overcome by two basic points. First, Congress would not have created in this Act a Federal cause of action to complement State law causes of action. Not only is the substantive law for decision in the Federal action derived from State law (and thus would be surplusage), but in creating the Act Congress plainly intended to limit rather than increase the liability exposure of Sellers. Second, the granting of exclusive jurisdiction to the Federal district courts provides further evidence that Congress wanted an exclusive Federal cause of action. Indeed, a Federal district court (in the absence of diversity) does not have jurisdiction over state law claims, and the statute makes no mention of diversity claims anywhere in the Act.

Further, it is clear that the Seller is the only appropriate defendant in this exclusive Federal cause of action. First and foremost, the Act unequivocally states that a "cause of action shall be brought only for claims for injuries that are proximately caused by sellers that provide qualified anti-terrorism technology." § 863(a)(1) (emphasis added). Second, if the Seller of the qualified anti-terrorism technology at issue was not the only defendant, would-be plaintiffs could, in an effort to circumvent the statute, bring claims (arising out of or relating to the performance or non-performance of the Seller's qualified anti-terrorism technology) against arguably less culpable persons or entities, including but not limited to contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, vendors, and customers of the Seller of the technology. Because the claims in the cause of action would be predicated on the performance or non-performance of the Seller's qualified anti-terrorism technology, those persons or entities, in turn, would file a third-party action against the Seller. In such situations, the claims against non-Sellers thus “may result in loss to the Seller” under § 863(a)(2). The Department believes Congress did not intend through the Act to increase rather than decrease the amount of litigation arising out of or related to the deployment of qualified anti-terrorism technology. The scope of federal preemption of state laws is highly relevant to the Department’s implementation of the Act, as the Department will have to determine the amount of insurance that Sellers must obtain. Accordingly, the Department seeks comment on that matter.

6. Amount of Insurance. The Act requires that Sellers obtain liability insurance “of such types and in such amounts” certified by the Secretary “to satisfy otherwise compensable third-party claims arising out of, relating to, or resulting from an act of terrorism when qualified anti-terrorism technologies have been deployed.” § 864(a)(1). However, the Act makes clear that Sellers are not required to obtain liability insurance beyond “the maximum amount of liability insurance reasonably available from private sources on the world market at prices and terms that will not unreasonably distort the sales price of Seller’s anti-terrorism technologies.” § 864(a)(2).

As explained above, the Department eschews any “one-size-fits all” approach to the insurance coverage requirement. Instead, the Department construes the Act as contemplating the examination of several factors. Section 101.4(b) of the proposed rule therefore sets forth a nonexclusive list of several factors that the Department may consider. These include the amount of insurance the Seller has previously maintained; the amount of insurance maintained by the Seller for other technologies or for the Seller’s business as a whole; the amount of insurance typically maintained by sellers of comparable technologies; data and history regarding mass casualty losses; information regarding the amount of liability insurance offered on the world market; the particular technology at issue and its intended use; and the point at which the cost of coverage would “unreasonably distort” the price of the technology. The proposed rule also provides that the Secretary may consider the amount of terrorism-related liability insurance that insurance companies are required to provide under the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act of 2002 (“TRIA”). This amount is relevant because Congress mandated the provision of certain amounts of insurance under TRIA in response to the unwillingness or inability of insurers to provide sufficient liability coverage for terrorism-related events. See TRIA § 101(a), (b) (statement of findings and purpose). While it is possible in some cases that insurers will provide more than the amount of insurance required under TRIA, it may be appropriate in many instances for the Secretary to presume, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that a Seller need not purchase liability insurance coverage for terrorism-related claims in an amount greater than that required to be offered under TRIA.

In the course of determining the amount of insurance required under the Act for a particular technology, the Department may consult with the Seller, the Seller’s insurer, and others. While the decision regarding the amount of insurance required will generally be specific to each Seller or each technology, the Department recognizes that the incentive-based purposes of the Act may be furthered if the Department provides information to potential Sellers regarding the types and amounts of insurance that they will likely be required to obtain. Thus the Secretary may, where appropriate, give guidance to potential Sellers regarding the type and amounts of insurance that may be sufficient under the Act for particular technologies or categories of technologies.

The Department also recognizes that the amount of insurance available at prices that will not unreasonably distort the price of the anti-terrorism technology may vary over time. Thus, the proposed rule is written to give the Department flexibility to address fluctuating insurance prices by providing that, during the term of the designation, the Seller may request reconsideration of the insurance certification due to changed circumstances or other reasons.

The Department believes that if the Seller fails to maintain coverage at the certified level during the effective period of the certification, the liability protections of the Act will continue to apply, but the Seller's liability limit will remain at the certified insurance level. This is because subsection (c) of Section 864 makes clear that the Seller's liability is capped at the amount of insurance "required" to be maintained under Section 864, rather than the amount of coverage actually obtained. The limitation of liability thus relates entirely to the amount of insurance required and makes no reference to whether such insurance is, in fact, maintained by the Seller.

It is also apparent that the technology is not stripped of any of the other protections of the SAFETY Act if the Seller fails to maintain the requisite insurance. The Act requires that Sellers obtain liability insurance to protect not only the Seller, but also to protect (to the extent specified under § 864(a)(3)) the contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, vendors, and customers of the Seller, as well as the contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, and vendors of the customer. § 864(a)(3). It would be unjust to deprive all others covered by the SAFETY Act of their SAFETY Act protections because of the

Seller's malfeasance. Of course, this does not mean that there are no consequences to a Seller's failure to maintain the required insurance. Rather, in addition to exposing the Seller to uninsured liability up to the amount of insurance that the Seller was required to maintain, the Seller's failure to maintain the insurance may adversely affect the Seller's ability to obtain a renewal of the designation for the technology, and may even adversely affect the Seller's ability to obtain future designations of "qualified anti-terrorism technologies."

The Department, as part of each certification, will specify the Seller or Sellers of the anti-terrorism technology for purposes of SAFETY Act coverage. The Department may, but need not, specify in the certification the others who are covered by the liability insurance required to be purchased by the Seller.

7. Relationship of SAFETY Act to Indemnification under Public Law 85-804.

The Department recognizes that Congress intended that the SAFETY Act's liability protections would substantially reduce the need for the United States to provide indemnification under Public Law 85-804 to Sellers of anti-terrorism technology. The strong liability protections of the SAFETY Act should, in most circumstances, make it unnecessary to provide indemnification to Sellers. The Department recognizes, however, that there might be, in some limited circumstances, technologies or services with respect to which both SAFETY Act coverage and indemnification might be warranted. See 148 Cong. Rec. E2080 (statement by Rep. Armev) (November 13, 2002) (stating that in some situations the SAFETY Act protections will "complement other government risk-sharing measures that some contractors can use such as Public Law 85-804").

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

INTRODUCTION

The Department intends to implement the SAFETY Act as quickly as possible.

Our twin aims are these:

- (1) To produce by regulation as much certainty as possible regarding the application of the liability protections created by the Act;
- (2) To provide the Department with sufficient program flexibility to address the specific circumstances of each particular request for SAFETY Act coverage.

The Department does not intend to resolve every conceivable programmatic issue through this proposed rule. Instead, the Department will set out a basic set of regulations and commence the implementation of the SAFETY Act program while considering possible supplemental regulations as experience with the Act grows.
