I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Govt./Pltf. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

_____
Person Rec. Exhibits

_____ _____
Office Date

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Deft./Resp. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

_____
Person Rec. Exhibits

_____ _____
Office Date

16d-002594

You must print five copies of this form.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Exhibit Summary

NCRIC, Inc.

vs.

Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

"E" No.

Govt./Pltf. Atty. Rodney F. Page & Scott M. Badami — Judge: Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

Deft./Resp. Atty. Eli C. Schulman — Clerk:

Case No. 00-0007308 — Date: July 24, 2003 (amended 11/14/03)

Court Exh. No.	Govt. Pltf. Exh.	Deft. Resp. Exh.	Item Description	Qt.	ID	Adm.	Over Obj.	No. Obj.
	91		Memorandum from D. Osborn to file
	92		Memorandum from B. Burgess to NCRIC Case
	93		Facsimile from D. Osborn to M. Feldman
	94		Email from Osborn to Pate, Crunk, Fargis, Burges
	95		Facsimile from M. Feldman to Fargis & Osborn
	96		Memorandum from J. Hughes to L. Wilson
	97		Letter from D. Osborn to M. Feldman
	98		Memorandum from D. Osborn to file
	99		CHWMC Executive Committee Meeting Minutes
	100		CHW Financial Info for June 2000-June 2003

(Use this section only when exhibits are returned in open court.)

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Govt./Pltf. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office Date

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Deft./Resp. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office Date

16d-002595

You must print five copies of this form.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Exhibit Summary

NCRIC, Inc.

vs.

Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

"E" No.

Govt./Pltf. Atty. Rodney F. Page & Scott M. Badami

Judge Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

Deft./Resp. Atty. Eli C. Schulman

Clerk

Case No. 00-0007308

Date July 24, 2003 (amended 11/14/03)

Court Exh. No.	Govt. Pltf. Exh.	Deft. Resp. Exh.	Item Description	Qt.	ID	Adm.	Over Obj.	No. Obj.
	101		Letter from M. Feldman to D. Osborn
	102		Draft Actuarial Funding Analysis Columbia
	103		Letter from D. Osborn to M. Feldman
	104		Letter from D. Osborn to L. Wilson
	105		CHWMC Meeting Minutes
	106		Letter from D. Osborn to L. Wilson
	107		Letter from G. Sohm to L. Wilson
	108		Facsimile from D. Osborn to R. Greenfield
	109		Letter from L. Wilson to G. Sohm
	110		NCRIC Group Audit Committee Agenda

(Use this section only when exhibits are returned in open court.)

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Govt./Pltf. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office

Date

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Deft./Resp. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office

Date

16d-002596

You must print five copies of this form.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Exhibit Summary

NCRIC, Inc.

vs.

Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

"E" No.

Govt./Pltf. Atty. Rodney F. Page & Scott M. Badami — Judge: Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

Deft./Resp. Atty. Eli C. Schulman — Clerk:

Case No. 00-0007308 — Date: July 24, 2003 (amended 11/14/03)

Court Exh. No.	Govt. Pltf. Exh.	Deft. Resp. Exh.	Item Description	Qt.	ID	Adm.	Over Obj.	No. Obj.
	111		CHWMC Executive Committee Meeting Minutes
	112		Letter from L. Wilson to L. Mirel
	113		Letter from D. Osborn to L. Wilson
	114		Letter from L. Wilson to D. Osborn
	115		Facsimile from L. Wilson to D. Osborn
	116		Facsimile from D. Osborn to L. Wilson
	117		Letter from G. Sohm to L. Wilson
	118		Letter from L. Wilson to D. Osborn
	119		Letter from D. Osborn to L. Wilson
	120		CHWMC Executive Committee Meeting Minutes

(Use this section only when exhibits are returned in open court.)

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Govt./Pltf. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

_____
Person Rec. Exhibits

_____ _____
Office Date

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Deft./Resp. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

_____
Person Rec. Exhibits

_____ _____
Office Date

16d-002597

You must print five copies of this form.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Exhibit Summary

NCRIC, Inc.

vs.

Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc

"E" No.

Govt./Pltf. Atty. Rodney F. Page & Scott M. Badami — Judge: Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

Deft./Resp. Atty. Eli C. Schulman — Clerk:

Case No. 00-0007308 — Date: July 24, 2003 (amended 11/14/03)

Court Exh. No.	Govt. Pltf. Exh.	Deft. Resp. Exh.	Item Description	Qt.	ID	Adm.	Over Obj.	No. Obj.
	121		Letter from L. Wilson to D. Osborn
	122		Facsimile from D. Osborn to L. Wilson
	123		Facsimile from D. Osborn to M. Feldman
	124		Letter from L. Wilson to N. Asterbadi
	125		Letter from N. Trujillo to Physicians Participants
	126		Retro Plan Reconciliation Calculation
	127		CHW Retro-Program Calculations
	128		Letter from G. Sohm
	129		Various letters from G. Sohm
	130		Letter from G. Sohm to V. Taleon

(Use this section only when exhibits are returned in open court.)

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Govt./Pltf. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

_____
Person Rec. Exhibits

_____ _____
Office Date

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Deft./Resp. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

_____
Person Rec. Exhibits

_____ _____
Office Date

16d-002598

You must print five copies of this form.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Exhibit Summary

NCRIC, Inc.

vs.

Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

"E" No.

Govt./Pltf. Atty. Rodney F. Page & Scott M. Badami

Judge Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

Deft./Resp. Atty. Eli C. Schulman

Clerk

Case No. 00-0007308

Date July 24, 2003 (amended 11/14/03)

Court Exh. No.	Govt. Pltf. Exh.	Deft. Resp. Exh.	Item Description	Qt.	ID	Adm.	Over Obj.	No. Obj.
	131		NCRIC Territory D.C. at 1/1/00 Premium Rates
	132		Facsimile from S. Fargis
	133		Insurance Commission Ruling
	134		Def's Objs & Resps to Pl 1st Req for Admissions
	135		NCRIC Conf Working Rpt of Retro Rating Plan
	136		Defections Hurt D.C. Hospital, Washington Post
	137		Letter from S. Fargis to T. Hampton
	138		Insurance Commission Ruling
	139		NCRIC's Conf Working Rpt of Retro Rating Plan
	140		Memorandum from Carmen to Ed

(Use this section only when exhibits are returned in open court.)

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Govt./Pltf. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

_____
Person Rec. Exhibits

_____ _____
Office Date

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Deft./Resp. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

_____
Person Rec. Exhibits

_____ _____
Office Date

16d-002599

You must print five copies of this form.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Exhibit Summary

NCRIC, Inc.

vs.

Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

"E" No.

Govt./Pltf. Atty. Rodney F. Page & Scott M. Badami

Judge Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

Deft./Resp. Atty. Eli C. Schulman

Clerk

Case No. 00-0007308

Date July 24, 2003 (amended 11/14/03)

Court Exh. No.	Govt. Pltf. Exh.	Deft. Resp. Exh.	Item Description	Qt.	ID	Adm.	Over Obj.	No. Obj.
	141		Insurance Commission Ruling
	142		NCRIC's Conf Working Rpt.of Retro Rating Plan
	143		Revised 1995 Printout
	144		Document
	145		Revised 2000 Printout
	146		Exp 1998 File Printout
	147		Exp 2000 File Printout
	148		Schedule of Expenses
	149		Def's Rule 26(B)(4) Statement (excerpts)
	150		Resume of Peter Ben Ezra

(Use this section only when exhibits are returned in open court.)

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Govt./Pltf. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office

Date

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Deft./Resp. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office

Date

16d-002600

You must print five copies of this form.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Exhibit Summary

NCRIC, Inc.

vs.

Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

"E" No.

Govt./Pltf. Atty.	Rodney F. Page & Scott M. Badami	Judge	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
Deft./Resp. Atty.	Eli C. Schulman	Clerk
Case No.	00-0007308	Date	July 24, 2003 (amended 11/14/03)

Court Exh. No.	Govt. Pltf. Exh.	Deft. Resp. Exh.	Item Description	Qt.	ID	Adm.	Over Obj.	No. Obj.
	151		Charges Printout
	152		Sept. 1, 2001 Reconciliation under Retro Plan
	153		Patient Billing Report
	154		NCRIC Conf Working Rpt of Retro Rating Plan
	155		Retro Plan Reconciliation Calc as of 11/30/01
	156		FY 1997-1998 Doctor Bill Report
	157		List of Adjunct & Part time faculty for Elliott School
	158		NCRIC Case Summary Report
	159		Report of Claims relating to policies w/ Columbia
	160		Report of Peter Ben Ezra

(Use this section only when exhibits are returned in open court.)

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Govt./Pltf. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office Date

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Deft./Resp. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office Date

16d-002601

You must print five copies of this form.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Exhibit Summary

NCRIC, Inc.

vs.

Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

"E" No.

Govt./Pltf. Atty. Rodney F. Page & Scott M. Badami — Judge: Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

Deft./Resp. Atty. Eli C. Schulman — Clerk:

Case No. 00-0007308 — Date: July 24, 2003 (amended 11/14/03)

Court Exh. No.	Govt. Pltf. Exh.	Deft. Resp. Exh.	Item Description	Qt.	ID	Adm.	Over Obj.	No. Obj.
	161		Retro Plan Reconciliation Calc as of 2/28/02
	162		Letter from M. Barch & R. Newton
	163		Retro Plan Reconciliation Calc as of 2/28/03
	164		Retro Plan Reconcilation as of 5/31/03
	165		Columbia Hospital's Chronology
	166		List of Physicians
	167		Section 2-32 from textbook
	168		Reports of Births, Admisssions & Surgery
	169		CHW Retro Rating Plan Experience Updates
	170		Retro Rating Program Years: 1993-1996 Calcs.

(Use this section only when exhibits are returned in open court.)

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Govt./Pltf. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office _____ Date _____

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Deft./Resp. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office _____ Date _____

16d-002602

You must print five copies of this form.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Exhibit Summary

NCRIC, Inc.

vs.

Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

"E" No.

Govt./Pltf. Atty. Rodney F. Page & Scott M. Badami — Judge: Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

Deft./Resp. Atty. Eli C. Schulman — Clerk:

Case No. 00-0007308 — Date: July 24, 2003 (amended 11/14/03)

Court Exh. No.	Govt. Pltf. Exh.	Deft. Resp. Exh.	Item Description	Qt.	ID	Adm.	Over Obj.	No. Obj.
	171		Retro Plan calculations as of various dates
	172		Spreadsheet of Prem Calcs under NCRIC & MIIX
	173		Draft letter from S. Fargis
	174		CHW Physician Listing
	175		Charge 1995 Printout
	176		Spreadsheet regarding Patient Billing
	177		Calculations Chart created by Defense Counsel
	178		Retro Plan Reconciliation Calc as of 8/31/03

(Use this section only when exhibits are returned in open court.)

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Govt./Pltf. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office Date

I hereby acknowledge Receipt of Deft./Resp. Exhibits No. _____ through _____

Person Rec. Exhibits

Office Date

16d-002603

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Next Event: Status Hearing – December 19, 2003
Defendant/Counter-Claimant.

NCRIC'S SUPPLEMENTAL OBJECTIONS TO COLUMBIA'S TRIAL EXHIBITS

Pursuant to this Court's order given to the parties at the October 15, 2003 pretrial conference, Plaintiff NCRIC Inc. ("NCRIC") submits this supplemental brief with regard to NCRIC's objections to Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.'s ("Columbia") trial exhibits as submitted with the Joint Pretrial Statement on July 24, 2003. NCRIC reasserts all of its objections stated and provided to counsel for Columbia at the meetings required by Rule 16, the objections contained in the pretrial submissions, as well as the objections raised during the pretrial conference. This brief does not attempt to detail every objectionable exhibit submitted by Columbia, but instead focuses on specific documents to which NCRIC objects on admissibility and/or authenticity grounds.

As a preliminary matter, NCRIC notes that it was agreed at the pretrial conference on October 15, 2003 that the parties would confer and attempt to resolve amongst themselves a number of objections raised by both sides with respect to certain identified trial exhibits. NCRIC restates its willingness to work with Columbia in a good faith effort to resolve these issues.

A. Objections to Documents Created by Columbia's Counsel

NCRIC specifically objects to Columbia's proposal to introduce as substantive evidence numerous charts created by Columbia's former trial counsel, Joseph Leahy. Specifically, NCRIC's objection is directed to Columbia's trial exhibits numbered 8, 82-86, and 93. These exhibits should be excluded before the start of trial. Columbia cannot offer any witness with personal knowledge regarding the creation of these documents and who can lay an adequate foundation for admission of these exhibits into evidence. They are merely argument of counsel and cannot be elevated into admissible "evidence."

The background of these exhibits is this: Each time NCRIC has requested factual evidence to support Columbia's allegations of "miscalculations" by NCRIC and the "correct" calculations under the Retro Plan, Columbia has failed to provide a substantive response. First, Columbia refused to allow its designated Rule 30(b)(6) witnesses, such as Columbia's then-CEO, Larry Wilson, to testify regarding the alleged miscalculations and proper calculations because Columbia reserved such testimony to its designated expert witnesses. See Wilson Dep. at 139-141; 162-164, attached as Exhibit A. Columbia then withdrew its expert witness designation on this topic before any such analysis was presented to NCRIC. At this point, Columbia was left without any evidence in the record supporting its allegations against NCRIC and claims of damages.

Columbia finally provided its purported "evidence" of alleged miscalculations and counter-calculations under the Retrospective Ratings Plan (the "Retro Plan") by submitting a series of spreadsheets accompanied by a sworn declaration from Columbia's lawyer, Joseph Leahy, in support of its motion for summary judgment on the contract claims. As explained in his declaration, Columbia's lawyer created these spreadsheets specifically for the purposes of the summary judgment motion. In addition, Columbia attached another new piece of "evidence" – a memorandum entitled "Performing a Proper Reconciliation of the Retrospective Rating Plan Agreement" – to its reply brief, without any declaration as to its authorship. It appears that this document was also prepared by Columbia's lawyer during the litigation. Columbia has now designated these same spreadsheets and summary as exhibits to be used at trial, as if they are evidence rather than lawyer briefing and argument.

These exhibits are spreadsheets purporting to illustrate the "proper" calculations under the Retro Plan first surfaced as exhibits to Columbia's motion seeking summary judgment on the contract claims. The Declaration of Joseph Leahy submitted with those documents clearly reveals their origin:

> In addition, attached as exhibits to Defendant's Motion for Summary Judgment are several spreadsheets created by persons in my office, on behalf of Defendant, for the purpose of this motion.
>
> See Leahy Decl. ¶ 5, attached as Exhibit B.

Based on counsel's own sworn statement, these proposed exhibits are inadmissible hearsay created by Columbia's legal team. These documents are not factual evidence created at or near the time of the events in question, nor an expert's analysis to accompany expert testimony at trial. There is no witness whom NCRIC could cross-examine at trial about the reliability of the assertions in these documents. Mr. Leahy has since left the Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans firm, and he is not listed as a potential witness on Columbia's trial witness list. Columbia cannot now state that these spreadsheets were created by another witness, as Mr. Leahy's declaration clearly establishes that counsel's office was the author and creator.

The author of the summary listed as Trial Exhibit 93 is not identified. Columbia cannot dispute that this document was first produced to NCRIC as an exhibit to Columbia's Reply Brief in Support of its Motion for Summary Judgment. Columbia did not include any declaration attesting to the authorship of this document. Because Columbia has withdrawn its expert witnesses previously designated to testify about the Retro Plan calculations, and no other witness has testified to creating such an explanatory document, it is clear that this summary was also the work of Mr. Leahy's office for the purposes of the summary judgment briefing.

There is simply no way for Columbia to authenticate and lay a foundation for admissibility of these documents. Moreover, these spreadsheets and summary serve no other purpose than as evidence to prove the truth of the matter asserted therein, and are therefore inadmissible hearsay.

B. Objections to Documents Regarding Mr. Ben Ezra's Testimony

NCRIC also objects to the admission of Peter Ben Ezra's report and testimony as an "expert opinion" in this case. Specifically, NCRIC objects to Columbia's trial exhibits numbered 103 and 104. The testimony of this alleged expert is inherently defective, speculative, and inadmissible. Columbia cannot be permitted to put forward and rely upon a witness: (1) who without independent verification accepted Columbia's counsel's representations concerning the group of physicians who allegedly stopped (or reduced) admitting patients at Columbia, a fact upon which his entire damage analysis is premised; (2) who used unaudited and speculative data having no reliable support; (3) who simply presumed causation of damages; (4) who performed no analysis or investigation related to the other factors which may have been involved in a physician's decision to leave or reduce the number of patients he or she admitted to Columbia; and (5) who cannot be independent or objective because he was the Chairman of the Board of Columbia – and indeed as admitted by Columbia's counsel during the pretrial conference – who is still designated as a responsible individual with decision making authority on behalf of the hospital with regard to this litigation.

With respect to the single damage claim for which he attempted to establish a damage number (estimated lost cash flow), Mr. Ben Ezra: (a) simply accepted as true the representation of counsel with respect to the doctors who allegedly left Columbia (Ben Ezra Dep. at 140); (b) did no analysis or investigation why doctors left Columbia (Ben Ezra Dep. at 140); (c) used unaudited data (Ben Ezra Dep. at 164); (d) did no analysis or research to determine causation (Ben Ezra Dep. at 133);[1] (e) presumed that each doctor would work until he or she turned age 65 without reviewing any studies or analysis concerning the retirement age of physicians (Ben Ezra Dep. at 154-55); and (f) simply assumed a 20 year damage projection without offering any facts as to why he selected that time period (Ben Ezra Dep. at 151-153). See Ben Ezra Dep. at 133, 140, 151-55, 164, attached as Exhibit C. Based upon these "facts," Columbia seeks to have Mr. Ben Ezra opine that Columbia will incur over $20 million in damages over the next 20 years based on the conduct of NCRIC. Mr. Ben Ezra's report is fundamentally flawed, prejudicial and must be excluded as a matter of law.

Mr. Ben Ezra's report and its findings are based on unreliable data, which is not the type reasonably relied upon by experts calculating damages. See Dyas v. United States, 376 A.2d 827, 832 (D.C. 1977); In re Melton, 597 A.2d 892, 901 n.10 (D.C. 1991) (en banc). Mr. Ben Ezra's opinion fails to satisfy even the minimal standard for admissibility of expert opinion testimony imposed by District of Columbia courts. See Washington Metro. Area Transit Auth. v.

---

1 "Question: 'I just want to make clear, you don't have any information with respect to causation? You're not here for that purpose, are you?' Answer: 'No. I was just given a list and ran my analysis.' " (Ben Ezra Dep. at 133).

16d-002608

Davis, 606 A.2d 165, 177-78 (D.C. 1992) (holding that speculative expert testimony about lost earnings should be excluded where unsupported by sufficient facts); Toy v. District of Columbia, 549 A.2d 1, 7-8 (D.C. 1988) (finding that expert testimony lacked a sufficient factual basis to establish national standard of care for police departments). To be admissible, expert opinion testimony must be based on facts or data "of a type reasonably relied upon by experts in the particular field," although "the facts or data need not be admissible in evidence." Melton, 597 A.2d at 901-02 (adopting Federal Rule of Evidence 703 in the District of Columbia). While Mr. Ben Ezra purported to use a "scientifically valid methodology"-- a discounted cash flow analysis -- his application of this method warrants exclusion because: (1) there is no evidence that the underlying benchmark data he used was statistically meaningful or appropriate; (2) he applied a marginal cost percentage strictly (and literally) based on an accounting textbook example with no assurance that such percentage approximates Columbia's true variable costs; and (3) he relied upon a list of doctors provided by Columbia counsel which finds no support in the record.

Although a discounted cash flow analysis may well in theory be based on sound economic principles, Mr. Ben Ezra's application of this methodology here is unreasonable and unreliable. See K.W. Plastics v. United States Can Co., 131 F. Supp. 2d 1289, 1292 (M.D. Ala. 2001) (excluding expert's calculation of lost profits, which was based on "impermissibly flawed" application of "sound economic principles").

The reasons for excluding the proffered expert testimony here are magnified by the involvement of the witness as a Board Member of Columbia, and the recent disclosure at the pretrial conference that Mr. Ben Ezra is a designated representative of Columbia with regard to decisions made in this litigation. Counsel for Columbia identified Mr. Ben Ezra as the person with settlement authority for the hospital's board. Mr. Ben Ezra is far from a disinterested expert witness in this matter. By claiming he is an expert, Columbia and its counsel hope to dress up their speculative damage claim and pass it off in front of a jury as if it has a sound economic or scientific basis. The unfair prejudice to NCRIC and very real possibility of misleading the jury are cause to exclude these exhibits regarding Mr. Ben Ezra's "expert" testimony.

Finally, Columbia's counsel indicated at the pretrial conference that Columbia would not be actually be introducing all the exhibits listed in the Joint Pretrial Statement. As provided in the Joint Pretrial Statement, both parties reserved the right "to offer all exhibits listed on the opposing party's exhibit list, as well as all deposition exhibits and rebuttal exhibits that have not been identified herein." See Joint Pretrial Statement at 20. As such, NCRIC reserves the right to introduce and use at trial any exhibit identified by Columbia in the Joint Pretrial Statement, regardless of whether or not that exhibit is contained on Columbia's revised exhibit list to be submitted to the court on November 14, 2003.

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP

Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar No. 435375
Margaret G. Perl, D.C. Bar No. 472003
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005
(202) 508-6116

Roy I. Niedermayer, D.C. Bar No. 180380
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, Maryland 20814

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: November 14, 2003

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that a true and correct copy of NCRIC's Supplemental Objections to Columbia's Trial Exhibits was served this 14 day of November 2003, via hand delivery, to:

Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center

Scott M. Badami

EXHIBIT A

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,

vs. C.A. No. 00-007308
Cal. 8 - Judge Davis

COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,
Defendant.

****

Washington, D.C.
June 27, 2001

Deposition of
LARRY WILSON, JR.
a witness, called for examination by counsel for the Plaintiff, pursuant to notice, held at the offices of NCRIC, 1115 30th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C., beginning at 11:34 a.m., before Lynell C.S. Abbott, a Notary Public, RMR.

Page 139

the hospital that it didn't have to do something under the plan that it was obligated to do?

MR. LEAHY: Object to the extent it calls for a legal conclusion.

MR. NIEDERMAYER: It does not because it is a report of another person to him saying "you don't have to do something you're obligated under the plan to do."

MR. LEAHY: It calls for him to make a judgment with regard to whether or not the plan calls for something and whether he was told not to. I'm going to object. It's just an objection. You can answer.

THE WITNESS: No.

BY MR. NIEDERMAYER:

Q. Are you able to describe for me what damages that the hospital suffered that are being claimed under Count One of the counterclaims?

MR. LEAHY: I'm going to object and instruct you not to answer to the extent any of your knowledge might come from your attorney and be otherwise solely your attorney's knowledge and not be knowledge of the hospital. I'm also going to object to the extent that any knowledge might come from the expert, because you're not designated as an expert. You may speak to the hospital's knowledge only.

Page 140

MR. NIEDERMAYER: Let's go off the record a second.

(Discussion off the record.)

BY MR. NIEDERMAYER:

Q. Mr. Wilson, may I have your answer, please?

A. State the question again.

Q. Are you able to describe for me the damages that the hospital is claiming under Count One, breach of contract, in its counterclaims?

MR. LEAHY: I'm going to instruct you not to answer to the extent that there's knowledge that is from your attorney or that's expert knowledge. You may answer to the extent that Columbia knows what its damages are.

Page 141

THE WITNESS: I can give you an example of damages.

BY MR. NIEDERMAYER:

Q. Why don't you do that to start with.

A. Okay. Well, in my opinion we've suffered damages in the tens of millions of dollars to the extent that our reputation has been damaged, we've lost volume, we've lost face in the community, and I could go on just as an example of a few.

Q. Some of those have to do with reputation, they are in later counts. This says breach of contract. I just want to know what damages you claim the hospital claims have been suffered as a result of NCRIC's breach of contract. Can you tell me that?

A. Yes. The part of the reputation that goes back to that dim day in August when our physicians came in one morning to go to work in the clinic and they didn't go as a result of information that some physicians claim they got from NCRIC. It was that morning that I talked with at least Mike Feldman and spoke with Dave Osborne to pass the word on to our physicians that it was in fact okay for them to go to work. That did a heck of a lot of damage to the reputation of Columbia Hospital for Women. It probably did a lot of damage to patient care, a possibility of damages in patient care.

Page 142

Q. When did that happen?

A. It was on the 31st of August if that was a Friday. Or September 1st, to be more specific. Friday, September 1st.

Q. Which physicians said these things to you?

A. I could tell you physicians that was reported to me that was said, not heard by myself.

Q. Tell me their names.

Page 159

individual doctor's policy. We only assume part of the risk in exchange for a discount. So to the extent that there are special provisions in a doctor's policy, I don't know.

Q. Do you contend that NCRIC offers insurance programs at other hospitals that it doesn't offer at Columbia Hospital for Women?

A. That's what it appears to me.

Q. Why does it appear that way to you?

A. Because I have not heard of any other hospital with a clinic that excluded, where the physicians were excluded.

Q. Do you contend that NCRIC offers a Retro program at other hospitals but won't offer one to Columbia?

A. Not on the terms and conditions that I wanted or the hospital wanted. I mean you can get anything for a price. In my opinion, the Retro plan as constituted with NCRIC was a bad business deal for the hospital. I think NCRIC agreed to that.

Page 160

Q. My question was, let me make it more pointed, do you think that NCRIC offers an insurance program at Sibley Hospital that's not available to be implemented at Columbia Hospital?

A. I don't know what the plan is at Sibley.

Q. Do you contend that NCRIC offers an insurance plan at George Washington Hospital that's not available to be implemented to Columbia Hospital for Women?

A. I don't know the specifics of that plan. I have heard that the plans at Sibley and George Washington are subsidized plans.

Q. Isn't it true that the plan that is currently in effect at Columbia Hospital is less expensive than the plan offered by NCRIC?

MR. LEAHY: Object to the form. It assumes a fact not in the record.

MR. NIEDERMAYER: What fact?

MR. LEAHY: That there is a plan in effect.

Page 161

BY MR. NIEDERMAYER:

Q. Mr. Wilson, is there a plan in effect at Columbia Hospital for Women for physicians?

A. No. We don't have an attending faculty plan.

Q. Do you have insurance coverage for physicians at Columbia Hospital?

A. The hospital does not have coverage for attending faculty.

Q. Does it have a plan whereby it offers a discount to physicians at Columbia Hospital through some plan with an insurance company?

A. It does not offer a discount, not for the plan. We offer a discount for risk management incentives.

Q. Do you know whether the premiums being paid by doctors who practice at Columbia Hospital are the same or less than doctors practicing at Sibley or George Washington Hospital?

Page 162

A. I think the premiums at Columbia are less.

Q. Let's see if we can go back --

A. That's how we made our comparisons and the rates that were quoted by NCRIC were certainly higher than the ones we had at the time.

Q. Let's go back to Count One. Can you describe for me each type of damage that you claim under Count One has been incurred by the hospital?

MR. LEAHY: I'm going to object and instruct you not to answer to the extent that you got knowledge from work product of your attorney, that it's not Columbia's knowledge. If you have information that's Columbia Hospital's, give it.

THE WITNESS: As you know, this has been discussed with attorneys. So maybe I should not answer that.

MR. NIEDERMAYER: This witness has been proffered as being able to answer these questions. Are you telling me he can't answer any of these questions?

Page 163

MR. LEAHY: He's not our expert. To the extent the party has knowledge, the party can answer. To the extent the knowledge is the party's lawyer's knowledge or the expert witness' knowledge, you'll have to depose those people. To the extent the party has information, go ahead and answer. I'm sure the party has some information. But don't answer about what your lawyer knows.
THE WITNESS: Yeah. We contend there were damages as a result. Damage to reputation, damage to lost opportunities, damage to loss of volume.
BY MR. NIEDERMAYER:
Q. Those aren't breach of contract, but tell me how much is the damages for loss of reputation.
A. We haven't been able to quantify that. Considerable.
Q. Who is going to quantify it?

Page 164

A. Our damage expert.
Q. When will that be done?
MR. LEAHY: You can answer to the extent you know.
THE WITNESS: We're working on it now.
BY MR. NIEDERMAYER:
Q. What's the basis on which he's quantifying it?
A. The best information we have available, whatever that is.
Q. Did you provide any information to that expert?
A. We've provided some information.
Q. What information have you provided?
A. We had discussions about inflammatory remarks that were made that caused damage to the hospital. We are trying to quantify or will quantify the loss of opportunities as a result of physicians not coming to, physicians leaving the clinic that day; damages to the extent that we may have exposure through future lawsuits because of inadequate coverage in the clinic that day, as an example.

Page 165

Q. What are the inflammatory comments that you referred to in your testimony?
A. Inflammatory remarks like the clinic is an unsafe place to work.
Q. You contend that someone at NCRIC said that?
A. It was reported to me that someone at -- let me see. It was third-hand, but I heard something to that effect. I don't recall exactly.
Q. Who at NCRIC said that?
A. The comment was not made to me directly, I can say that.
Q. Who was it made to?
A. That was anecdotal comments I heard all along.
Q. Are they from the people other than Dr. Cook and Dr. Glassman?

Page 166

A. Not from NCRIC. I can't tell you I heard anyone from NCRIC make that statement.
Q. So if I understand your testimony, you cannot identify any person at NCRIC that made the statement that had been attributed to NCRIC.
A. Not firsthand, no, I cannot.
Q. Do you know of anyone other than Drs. Cook and Glassman who have firsthand knowledge that NCRIC made any inflammatory statements about the hospital?
A. No.
MR. LEAHY: What was that answer?
(Record read by the reporter.)
BY MR. NIEDERMAYER:
Q. Can you tell me what facts you have provided to your experts for their calculation of damages to the reputation of the hospital?
A. We provided facts to substantiate that our foundation board did in fact cancel a gala that we had planned; provided the fact to

CERTIFICATE FOR READING AND SIGNING

I hereby certify that I have read and examined the within transcript and the same is a true and accurate record of the testimony given by me.

Any corrections I have listed on the separate errata sheet enclosed, indicating the page and line number of each correction.

Larry Wilson, Jr.

08-06-01

Date

District of Columbia) ss.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of August, 2001.

Sylena L. Slaughter, Notary Public

My Commission Expires: January 31, 2002

EXHIBIT B

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 -- Judge Blackburn-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Oppositions to Dispositive Motions Filed, February 28, 2002
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

DECLARATION OF JOSEPH K. LEAHY IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANT'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

JOSEPH K. LEAHY, an attorney admitted to practice before this Court, affirms the following under penalty of perjury:

1. I am an associate with the firm of Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, P.L.L.C., which is counsel for Defendant in the above-captioned case. I submit this declaration in support of Defendant's Motion for Summary Judgment.

September 1, 2001 Reconciliation

2. In January, at the deposition of Stephen Fargis, I learned that NCRIC, Inc. had not provided Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center ("Columbia") with a September 1, 2001 Reconciliation of the Retrospective Rating Plan Agreement ("Retro Plan"). Mr. Fargis testified that a September 5, 2001 spreadsheet it had provided to Columbia was, in all likelihood, not the Reconciliation.

3. I followed up with Columbia after that, in an attempt to locate the Reconciliation. The client was unable to locate any Reconciliation it received during the relevant time, except the September 5, 2001 document, which Mr. Fargis testified probably was not the Reconciliation.

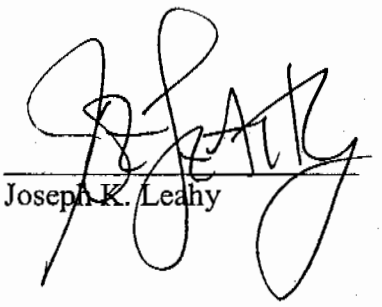
4. In addition, I repeatedly contacted opposing counsel to determine whether we had received the Reconciliation, but to no avail. For example, I called counsel on January 31, 2002, and sent at least one follow-up email during this week, in an attempt to find out the status of the Reconciliation. I never heard back from opposing counsel about the matter, even though I had asked counsel to get back to me on an expedited basis – even if the answer was that the spreadsheet did not exist or had been produced. Due to my inability to obtain the Reconciliation from opposing counsel, I must assume that it does not exist.

Reconciliation Spreadsheets

5. In addition, attached as exhibits to Defendant's Motion for Summary are several spreadsheets that were created by my office, on behalf of Defendant, for the purpose of this motion. To the best of my knowledge, these spreadsheets are exactly what they purport to be: reproductions of NCRIC's Reconciliations, but with one or more multipliers changed.

6. I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

Dated: Washington, DC
February 11, 2002



Joseph K. Leahy

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Joseph K. Leahy, hereby certify that on this 12th day of February, 2002, a copy of Defendant's Praecipe was served upon the following by facsimile and first class United States mail:

Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20005-3960

I further certify that, on the same date, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned Praecipe was served upon the Chambers for Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.

Joseph K. Leahy/SLS
Joseph K. Leahy

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that a true and correct copy of the foregoing Motion, Statement of Points and Authorities in Support and Proposed Order were served this 5th day of June 2003, via hand delivery, to:

Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women

Scott M. Badami

EXHIBIT C

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

NCRIC, INC., :

:

Plaintiff, :

:

vs. : CA No. 00-0007308

: Calendar # 8

COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN : Judge Davis

MEDICAL CENTER, INC., :

:

Defendant. :

January 24, 2002

Washington, D.C.

Deposition of:

PETER BEN EZRA

called for examination by counsel for the Plaintiff, pursuant to Agreement, taken at the offices of Bryan Cave, LLP, 700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 700, Washington, D.C. 20005-3960, before John W. Whitman, RMR, Notary Public in and for the District of Columbia, commencing at 10:04 a.m., when were present on behalf of the respective parties:

MR. LEAHY: Do you want a representation?
MR. BADAMI: If you can tell me when he talked to you about the counterclaim, sure.
MR. LEAHY: My representation is that my recollection with regard to when I spoke with Mr. Ben Ezra is sometime shortly before the 26(b)(4) Statement in which the tens of millions of dollars figure that he used was drafted and filed, at about that time.
MR. BADAMI: I'll accept that representation.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. But you haven't read the counterclaim that was filed by Columbia against NCRIC in this case?
A. I haven't read it. We did discuss that particular wording.
Q. How did you come up with the tens of millions figure that you used in your Rule 26(b)(4) Statement?
A. I'm not even sure. If you're going to represent that's where it was.
Q. That's what Mr. Leahy just represented to us.

MR. LEAHY: I represented on the record that is what a pleading filed in this action to summarize what it is expected the expert will testify to, Mr. Ben Ezra was consulted with regard to, although he didn't have the data at the time, what it was he expected he would testify to. That's my representation.
THE WITNESS: That is correct.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. Can you tell me how you estimated at that time the tens of millions of dollars?
A. That was an educated guess.
Q. What's on what data?
A. I didn't have data. I had a feeling or belief.
Q. Where did you get the feeling or belief?
A. Based upon my knowledge of the hospital and what was going on and its financial condition.
Q. There is nothing specific you can point to?
A. No.

MR. BADAMI: I would like to show you the 26(b)(4) Statement, if I might. I would ask the court reporter to mark it as Ben Ezra Exhibit No. 11.
(Ben Ezra Exhibit 11 was marked for identification.)
MR. BADAMI: Mr. Ben Ezra, I'm showing you what's been marked as Ben Ezra Exhibit No. 11, and I'll ask you, sir, if you have ever seen it. I'll represent to you that it's two pages long. The document was originally longer, but No. 1 on the first two pages references you, which is what's been copied, which is what identifies you, and what's been copied.
MR. LEAHY: Are you going to represent who this has been signed by?
MR. BADAMI: Off the record.
(Discussion off the record.)
MR. LEAHY: This document was signed by myself, I believe if this is, in fact, the document counsel purports it to be.
MR. BADAMI: I believe it is.
THE WITNESS: I have received Exhibit No.

11. I have not seen Exhibit 11 before.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. Can I ask you to look at the paragraph closest to the bottom on Page 1 where it talks about the substance of the facts and opinions to which Mr. Ben Ezra is expected to testify is, and then it talks about as a proximate result of NCRIC's torts, do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. I want to just make clear, you don't have any information with respect to causation? You're not here for that purpose, are you?
A. No. I was just given a list and ran my analysis.
Q. Have you reviewed any other pleadings or filings in this case?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Have you reviewed any deposition transcripts in this case?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Have you done any interviews or had any to show the model and the procedure I used to generate those estimates.

Q. But with the exception, then, of that one, I guess, group, or one line in your report, was the rest of your report the same?

A. It was basically the same, yes.

Q. When you say basically the same, I don't mean to split hairs with you, what else?

A. Basically, the model was there. It may have had a couple of typos, but, basically, what you see is that model.

Q. You mentioned this draft report. Were there other previous drafts of your report?

A. No.

Q. So you consider what you produced to us today Version 2?

A. I would say this would be Version 1.

Q. What do you --

A. The draft was, basically, a working paper, a draft of this version.

MR. BADAMI: Off the record.

(Discussion off the record.)

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q. Mr. Ben Ezra, I'd like to focus your attention now on your report.

A. Yes.

Q. On the first page of your report, which is marked 8708, you refer to the NCRIC group of doctors?

A. That's correct.

Q. We've talked about this a little bit, but I would like to confirm again who the NCRIC group of doctors is.

A. The NCRIC group of doctors are the physicians that are listed on Page 8713.

Q. Right.

A. Where I defined the NCRIC group of doctors by their physician name and their number.

Q. Did you determine if any of these doctors maintained hospital privileges at any other District of Columbia hospital?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you determine if any of these physicians maintained hospital admitting privileges in either Suburban Maryland or Northern Virginia?

A. No, I did not. However, I know from my own knowledge that Dr. Edward G. Koch does maintain an office in, I guess it is, Virginia.

Q. We also briefly touched upon this, but I like to focus on the first page with respect to leaving or cutting back. Obviously, leaving means they stopped referring patients at all to Columbia, is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And tell me how you defined cutting back.

A. That the amount of business they brought to the hospital was less than the previous year.

Q. But, again, you made no analysis or investigation into why those doctors may have cut back or left Columbia?

A. No. It was from -- this is a subset of the list that was furnished to me by counsel, which is Exhibit No. 8.

Q. In doing your analysis, Mr. Ben Ezra, did you take into account that some of these doctors might switch back to Columbia Hospital in the future?

A. It's my hope that they will.

Q. Is that included anywhere in your report?

A. No, it is not.

Q. So if a doctor made the decision two years from now to go back to Columbia your numbers would be in error?

A. That's correct. Without saying error, if you would tell me which doctors are going to return, I could run the numbers accordingly and determine the net economic lost.

Q. You indicated a moment ago it is your hope, I believe is your word, that these doctors would return to Columbia. Why is it your hope?

A. So we would not have the scope and magnitude of damages, that the hospital would have their business.

Q. I asked you earlier a little bit about insurance. Do you have any knowledge with respect to the effective dates or the insurance coverages of the breakdown?

A. No, I did not break it down into a subset.
Q. Would that have been helpful to do that analysis?
A. Probably not.
Q. Why not?
A. We don't have the data available. That's part of -- I would like to break it down between inpatient and outpatient, major procedure, minor procedure, even mix of payers, but I don't have that data.
Q. But you'd like to do that if you had the data?
A. If the data was available I certainly would like to do that analysis.
Q. But your testimony is Columbia has not provided you that data?
A. That is correct, has not provided me with the data.
Q. Have you asked for that data?
A. Yes, I have.

Q. Do you know if they have that data?
A. As late as yesterday evening, no, they did not.
Q. You did a projection over the next 20 years?
A. Two different ways.
Q. I'm trying to -- I would like to start, I guess, with how you picked 20 years out in the way you did your analysis?
A. The reason I did 20 years was when you look at the present value of future cash flow, and I draw your attention to the column 20 years will be on Page 8712.
Q. Right.
A. As you go further and further out in time that discount rate eventually goes to zero. So if I had done it for a hundred years the result would not have been much different.
I did it for 20 years in this analysis. I, also, did it by expected age of retirement, which we presumed or I presumed to be 65, and actually I took the month in which the doctor would turn 65.

Q. We'll get to that. Let's start with the 20 years, first.
A. This analysis shows the present value of future cash flow over a 20-year period, but if you were to say, for example -- let's do only ten years, then I have the results for ten years. So for 20 years, using this approach the present value of the lost cash flows would be approximately $22 million. If you were to say, "What if it's only ten," the answer would be a little over $16.5 million.
Q. I recognize that. I recognize that you picked 20 years as the front page of your report.
A. That's correct.
Q. I'm trying to figure out what facts led you to take that 20-year period?
A. That was my experience. I assumed, and this is an assumption, that the lost cash flow would be over a period of 20 years. If you want to say, well, we think ten is better than 20, then the answer would be different, but that answer is disclosed in this report.

Q. Again, you just assumed it. You didn't do any further investigative analysis with respect to why the 20-year number works?
MR. LEAHY: Objection to form.
THE WITNESS: My initial approach was to do it for the 20 years. Then when I did it based on the age of the physician, the result was not much different than the 20 years. Actually, the first approach I used was the 20 years. Then, when I found I could get the data for how old they were and when I could presume, that's an assumption that they would retire on their 65th birthday, I ran those numbers. The results are not materially different between the two.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. You mentioned the age 65 issue and I was going to come to that. How did you make the decision to choose 65 as the date that the physician would retire?
A. Okay, again, that's a presumption. My experience has been many doctors work past 65. At the Columbia Hospital there is a Dr. Savarese who I believe is still working, but has worked into his 70s.

16d-002627

Page 154

At the World Bank, where I'm also a consultant, there is a mandatory retirement around that happens to be 65.

I have a client that found he was separated at age 65 and he had about four days' notice.

Q. I appreciate that. Have you done any studies or analysis with respect to what the average retirement date of a physician in the District of Columbia is?

A. No, I have not.

Q. Do you know what that number would be?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Sixty-five is your presumption?

A. That is a presumption, yes.

Q. Specifically, with respect to OB/GYN doctors, do you know if there is a -- let me start the question over.

With respect to OB/GYN physicians, do you know if they typically practice longer, in other words, years, an opposed to, say, surgeons?

Page 155

A. No, I have not done any formal analysis, but, however, Dr. Savarese, I believe was an OB/GYN that has practiced into his 70s.

Q. But do certain OB/GYNs retire when they are 50?

A. I would assume that some do.

Q. Some retire in their early 60s?

A. I assume that there would be a continuum. I assume it's going to be some sort of a bell-shaped curve.

Q. You did no analysis as to when the doctors retire?

A. No. However, when you do the present value of future cash flows as the years go out the value that's contributing to that present value declines tremendously. So even if I was off by one year that present value is way off in time, as you can see in the analysis. So the dollar today is worth a lot more than, let's say, a dollar 20 years from now.

Page 156

Q. We talked about this a little bit in the beginning, we're back to Page 8710, the 94.22 percentage?

A. Right.

Q. Did you do any analysis with respect to hospitals and their collection rates here in the District of Columbia?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Why not?

A. It's not necessary for this analysis.

Q. If other hospitals collected, say, 60 percent, wouldn't that be relevant to your analysis?

A. Negative.

Q. Why not?

A. I'd like to refer you to Page 8715.

Q. Sure.

A. This is why I felt very comfortable with this model. I had from the printouts, and let's look under total NCRIC doctors group.

Q. That's the top of the chart?

A. The top of the chart. I point your direction to that top third --

Page 157

Q. Okay.

A. -- which represents a year ago. Okay, my presumption is if I take the total charges, subtract total adjustments, I will arrive at total charges less adjustments; okay.

I was given by the hospital the total charges and the total adjustments. I imputed mathematically the difference, okay, then I compared the actual payments against that difference and found that they had collected about 94.22 percent, okay, and I still know that they still have about another six percent to collect, and maybe they won't collect all that six percent, so in my analysis I'm trying to be objective and free from bias. I used the conservative 94.22 percent, what they have actually collected to date, in imputing the net realizable value.

So your question is why didn't I look at anybody else's. I see that I've got a good indicator here of the difference between total charges and total adjustments as to the amount that is collectable, and

16d-002628

MR. BADAMI: It's a good time for a lunch break.

(Whereupon, at 1:10 p.m. a luncheon recess was taken until 2:05 p.m. that same day.)

AFTERNOON SESSION.

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q. Mr. Ben Ezra, when we left off I had asked you some questions about data which you said did not look right. I believe that is the data for 1997 and 1998?

A. Right, it's data I did not use. It appeared to me to be a subset of the entire file. It did not appear to me to be the entire file.

Q. To your knowledge, does audited data for 1997 and 1998 exist?

A. I'm not sure.

Q. Should it exist? Let me try it that way.

MR. LEAHY: Object to the form of the question.

THE WITNESS: I'm not sure. I know that there were audits that were performed. Whether there is an actual audit report, I don't recall. Was it furnished for the record, here?

MR. LEAHY: Let me just ask, are you asking audited financial status or this type of data that has actually been produced to him?

MR. BADAMI: Data that was produced to him that he would have relied on for his report.

MR. LEAHY: We produced audited financial statements. I'm not aware of anything else, but if you are, ask for it and he'll produce it.

THE WITNESS: To my knowledge, this data has not been audited.

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q. Would it have been helpful to your analysis to have data for 1997 and 1998, as well?

MR. LEAHY: Object to the form.

THE WITNESS: No, not for this purpose.

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q. Why not?

A. The most current data was the most useful data. I don't have audited data. I don't think I would have utilized it.

Q. I guess where I'm trying to go is you chose one year as your benchmark where you had the data, correct?

A. Correct.

Q. What if that year was a particularly good year or a particularly bad year, away from the mean, wouldn't that skew your result?

MR. LEAHY: Object to the form.

THE WITNESS: That year's data was the most current data, and then the next year we have the comparable results. I'm not sure what a good year or a bad year would be. What I'm trying to do is find that delta, that change.

Basically, I came up with the difference and tried to quantify that in terms of cash. I need to caution, when you're talking about audited financial data you're talking about the accrual basis of accounting.

I used the cash basis. I'm looking for cash collections, not what they earned on the accrual basis, how much cash did they collect, how much cash will they collect.

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q. Could I turn now to Page 8710, Section 2?

16d-002629

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Next Event: Status Hearing - December 19, 2003
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.

NCRIC'S MEMORANDUM IN OPPOSITION TO COLUMBIA'S OBJECTIONS TO NCRIC'S PROPOSED TRIAL EXHIBITS

Pursuant to this Court's scheduling order given during the October 15, 2003 Pretrial Conference, Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC") submits this Memorandum in Opposition to the objections to NCRIC's trial exhibits filed by Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia"). Renewing objections raised orally at the Pretrial Conference, Columbia seeks to limit NCRIC's trial exhibits through specious and untimely hearsay objections. Indeed, in its zeal to keep NCRIC's relevant evidence away from the jury, Columbia has taken a number of positions which directly contradict its arguments on the merits of this case made throughout the litigation.

As an initial matter, as NCRIC stated during the Pretrial Conference and the Court agreed, since the determination of whether documentary evidence is excludable as hearsay depends upon: (1) whether the document is offered for the truth of the matter asserted; and (2) whether a proper foundation is laid through testimony to meet a recognized hearsay exception, it is premature to consider Columbia's hearsay objections prior to trial. The proper time to consider any hearsay objections is when a foundation has been offered and a party moves for admission of the document. Consideration of Columbia's objections at this time requires theoretical discussions regarding how the documents might be used at trial, what witness might testify as to foundational elements, and which hearsay exception might be used for each document. Indeed, Columbia has failed to consider the possibility that many of these exhibits are, in fact, not hearsay at all because NCRIC will not be using them to prove the truth of the matter asserted in the document, but for other valid and admissible purposes. Such shear speculation and conjecture is a waste of judicial time and resources. As the Court ruled in October, the Court should again reserve judgment on all of Columbia's hearsay objections until such time as the exhibits in question are offered into evidence at trial.

Nevertheless, in the event that the Court chooses to consider Columbia's hearsay objections at this time, those objections fail as a matter of law and NCRIC's exhibits should be deemed admissible for the reasons described in this memorandum.

I. INTRODUCTION

Columbia seeks to exclude 94 of NCRIC's proposed exhibits on the ground that they do not fall within the business records exception to the hearsay rule. At the outset, it should be noted that the District of Columbia recognizes a number of exceptions to the hearsay rule in addition to the business records exception,[1] and at no time has NCRIC indicated that the business records exception is the only justification for admission of its exhibits. Further, Columbia is under the mistaken impression that the business records exception codified in Federal Rule of Evidence 803, and the case law interpreting that exception, are controlling in this case. The [1] See D.C. Sup. Ct. R. Civ. P. 44 (official documents exception to the hearsay rule) and Pratt v. District of Columbia, 407 A.2d 612, 616 (D.C. 1979) (recognizing hearsay exception for admissions by an agent or employee of a party-opponent) are two such exceptions that may be relevant in this case.

Federal Rules of Evidence are generally inapplicable in D.C. Superior Court. Goldsberry v. United States, 598 A.2d 376, 379 (D.C. 1991). As this Court is well aware, the District of Columbia has adopted a distinct business records exception to the hearsay rule, which is codified in D.C. Sup. Ct. R. Civ. P. 43-I. That exception provides that:

> Any writing or record, whether in the form of an entry in a book or otherwise, made as a memorandum or record of any act, transaction, occurrence, or event, shall be admissible as evidence of such act, transaction, occurrence, or event, if made in regular course of any business, and if it was the regular course of such business to make such memorandum or record at the time of such act, transaction, occurrence, or event or within a reasonable time thereafter. All other circumstances of the making of such writing or record, including lack of personal knowledge by the entrant or maker, may be shown to affect its weight, but such circumstances shall not affect its admissibility....

D.C. Sup. Ct. R. Civ. P. 43-I (emphasis added). The federal business records exception as codified in 28 U.S.C. § 1732(a) (1970) before the adoption of the Federal Rules of Evidence, contained the exact language which concludes the D.C. exception. When the Federal Rules of Evidence were adopted by Congress, that language was omitted in favor of language which allows admission of documents kept in the course of business "unless the source of information or the method or circumstances of preparation indicate lack of trustworthiness." Fed. R. Evid. 803(6); see D.C. Sup. Ct. R. Civ. P. 43-II (noting that Rule 43 "does not refer to the Federal Rules of Evidence or to rules adopted by the Supreme Court, and it contains its own evidentiary rules"). The District of Columbia's business records exception is thus substantially (and unmistakably) broader than Federal Rule of Evidence 803(6). Because Superior Court Rule 43-I is not "virtually identical" to Federal Rule of Evidence 803(6), decisions by federal courts construing the federal rule should not be given special weight. Cf. Beckwith v. Beckwith, 379 A.2d 955, 959 (D.C. 1977) (ruling that, where a Superior Court rule is "virtually identical" to a federal rule, it should be "construed in light of cases ...which have involved the federal counterpart"). Columbia's constant reliance on federal cases interpreting the federal business records exception is therefore misplaced. Columbia's motion to exclude NCRIC's proposed trial exhibits should be denied.

II. COLUMBIA INACCURATELY DEFINES THE D.C. BUSINESS RECORDS EXCEPTION

Columbia cites New York Life Insurance Co. v. Taylor, 147 F.2d 297, 79 U.S. App. D.C. 66 (D.C. Cir. 1944), which it characterizes as "the seminal D.C. case construing the business records exception to the hearsay rule," for the unfounded proposition that documents containing opinion do not fall within the business records exception. Columbia is flat wrong. New York Life concerned the admissibility of documents under the Federal Shop Book Act (a precursor to Federal Rule of Evidence 803), and is thus inapplicable here. Further, even if this Court were inclined to weigh federal court interpretations of Rule 803, New York Life does not support exclusion of any of NCRIC's exhibits. In New York Life, the court merely held that certain hospital records were inadmissible where they were unaccompanied by custodial witnesses subject to cross-examination. The court noted that: "these records, or at least a large portion of them, would have been admissible in connection with the testimony of witnesses to the events or opinions contained in [them]." New York Life, 147 F.2d at 300, 79 U.S. App. D.C. at 99 (emphasis added).

Columbia also cites Adkins v. Morton, 494 A.2d 652 (D.C. 1985), for the proposition that only regularly recorded facts, and not opinions, are admissible under the business records exception. In Adkins, as in New York Life, hospital records were offered unaccompanied by a witness who could testify to the "conjectural or ... complex technical character" of the assertions contained within them. Adkins, 494 A.2d at 662 (quoting Christensen v. Gammons, 197 A.2d 450, 453 (D.C. 1964)). As NCRIC noted at the Pretrial Conference, NCRIC intends to have live testimony at trial, subject to cross examination by Columbia, supporting the foundation for admission of its exhibits. Thus, the concerns of the New York Life and Adkins courts are simply not present in this case.

16d-002633

Columbia further relies on another federal circuit case, Timberlake Construction Co. v. U.S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 71 F.3d 335, 342 (10th Cir. 1995), to support its assertion that documents containing opinion "lack the indicia of reliability that would justify treatment as business records." (Columbia's Memorandum in Support of Objections to NCRIC's Proposed Exs. ("Col. Mem.") at 3). Even if Timberlake were controlling authority, it does nothing to bolster Columbia's argument. As discussed above, the plain language of Federal Rule 803 differs dramatically from D.C.'s business records exception, which indicates that the circumstances surrounding the creation of a record affect weight but not admissibility. See D.C. Sup. Ct. R. 43-I. Further, even Columbia does not contend, nor could it, that NCRIC seeks to admit business records prepared by individuals acting in anything other than the regular course of business.[2]

Columbia does not object to the authenticity of any of the challenged exhibits, and is well aware of the deposition testimony in this case regarding the authorship and use of the documents in question. As shown below with regard to each category of exhibits questioned, Columbia's hearsay objections are without merit, premature, and should be overruled.

---

[2] Elsewhere in its brief, Columbia asserts that Timberlake and United States v. Smith, 521 F.2d 957, 964 n.16 (D.C. Cir. 1975), support exclusion of certain correspondence. As in Timberlake, in Smith the D.C. Circuit merely held that the federal business records exception allows admission of hearsay only "if it was reported to the maker…by one who is himself acting in the regular course of business, and who has personal knowledge." Id. at 964. NCRIC will satisfy the "regular course of business" requirement of D.C.'s business records exception when it lays a foundation for the admission of any business records at trial. As stated above, in D.C. "personal knowledge" is not a requirement for admissibility. Cf. Clyburn v. District of Columbia, 741 A.2d 395, 397-99 (D.C. 1999) (recognizing some personal knowledge requirement in the context of medical records).

16d-002634

III. COLUMBIA'S OBJECTIONS TO SPECIFIC EXHIBITS ARE WITHOUT MERIT

A. Correspondence

Columbia objects to a number of letters on NCRIC's proposed exhibit list because it claims they were "created on an ad-hoc basis" and are thus inadmissible as business records. (Col. Mem. at 4). Columbia cites Allstate Insurance Co. v. Curtis, 781 A.2d 725, 726-27 (D.C. 2001), for the holding of "reversible error where [the] trial court ruled that [an] insurance company's letters were business records." In fact, in Allstate the court merely ruled that admission of documents cannot be based on counsel's unsupported assertion that they qualify as business records. Id. As stated above, provided a party lays a proper foundation at trial for the admission of all exhibits which it seeks to admit under the business records exception, a hearsay objection will fail.

As "proof" that certain NCRIC letters were not kept in the ordinary course of business, Columbia relies on the following alleged facts: (1) some letters were never mailed; (2) some letters contained no addressees; (3) one document responded to an "isolated" question from a doctor; and (4) a number of letters "reflect nothing more than NCRIC's characterizations." (Col. Mem. at 4-5). In making such arguments, Columbia blatantly ignores D.C. precedent which holds that "'insofar as irregularities such as inconsistencies, inaccuracies, or omissions are concerned, these matters bear on the weight to be given...[business records] and not on their admissibility.'" Pryor v. United States, 503 A.2d 678, 681 (D.C. 1986) (emphasis added), citing Petworth Pharmacy, Inc. v. District of Columbia, 335 A.2d 256, 258 (D.C. 1975) (admitting daily cash reports, cash register tapes, and summary book under the D.C. business records exception even though the records were not verifiable by the bookkeeper). The fact that some letters were not sent or that they omit addressees, clearly does not affect their admissibility.

16d-002635

Further, Columbia does not attempt to show that it was not within the regular course of NCRIC's business to answer doctors' questions, nor does it attempt to show that NCRIC's "characterizations" were not made in the ordinary course of business. Based on the untimely and incomplete showing made by Columbia, its objections to NCRIC's correspondence exhibits must fail.

B. Calculations and Demand Letters

Columbia next asserts that proposed NCRIC exhibits containing calculations related to the Retrospective Ratings Plan (the "Retro Plan") are inadmissible under the business records exception because: (1) NCRIC's proposed Exhibit 152 (containing calculations) was part of settlement discussions; (2) calculations were not generated according to a specific timetable; (3) one reconciliation was presented to the finance committee; and (4) some calculations were preliminary. (Col. Mem. at 5-6.) As detailed below, none of these arguments support exclusion of any exhibit.

Columbia cites Beckman v. Farmer, 579 A.2d 618, 647 (D.C. 1990) for the wholly unremarkable proposition that evidence of settlement talks "is patently inadmissible." (Col. Mem. at 6.) In Beckman, the court held that under Federal Rule of Evidence 408, "[e]vidence of conduct or statements made in compromise negotiations" is inadmissible at trial. Beyond the fact that Federal Rule of Evidence 408 is inapplicable here, NCRIC's proposed exhibit 152 does not contain such statements. Rather, that exhibit includes one snap-shot of a regularly maintained spreadsheet used to calculate the status of the Retro Plan. The fact that this spreadsheet was submitted to Columbia does not merit its exclusion.

Columbia's other objections to NCRIC's proposed calculations exhibits are also meritless. Under applicable law, as long as NCRIC's calculations were made "in the regular course of business," it is immaterial that they were not made according to a set timetable, that they were presented to the finance committee, or that they were preliminary. Before offering any calculation under the business records exception at trial, NCRIC will show what is already quite obvious: it was within the ordinary course of NCRIC's business, and indeed a contractual obligation, to regularly calculate the status of the Retro Plan. Columbia's attempt to exclude these calculations is premature and inappropriate.

Columbia also seeks to exclude exhibits containing demand letters and quarterly reconciliation calculations for the Retro Plan.[3] Columbia asserts that these letters, and their accompanying calculations, are particularly unreliable because they were prepared "purely for litigation purposes." (Col. Mem. at 7.) Columbia admits, as it must, that the Retro Plan called for "NCRIC's performance of quarterly updates." Therefore, Columbia cannot legitimately claim that these required updates were made purely in anticipation of litigation; nor can Columbia claim that the updates were not prepared "in the regular course of business." Indeed, NCRIC's performance of these calculations and transmittal of demand letters fulfills explicit contractual obligations under the Retro Plan. It is simply inconsistent for Columbia to simultaneously argue that it is entitled to damages for NCRIC's improper performance of calculations under the Retro Plan, but that the calculations and transmittal letters sent to Columbia over the years of that plan are inadmissible and prepared purely for litigation.[4]

Likewise, it is wholly disingenuous for Columbia to argue that any reconciliation calculations prepared and sent to Columbia pursuant to the Retro Plan after this litigation began

---

[3] Columbia refers to Exhibits 155, 161, 163, and 164 alternatively as "letters sent by NCRIC to Columbia demanding payment for an amount purportedly detailed in accompanying charts," and as "quarterly updates."

[4] Indeed, one basis for Columbia's summary judgment motion was the alleged failure of NCRIC to send a reconciliation calculation and demand for payment in 2000 and 2001 – clearly after the litigation began. Yet, now Columbia argues such documents are inadmissible.

is an attempt for NCRIC to improperly amend its Complaint or use documents produced after the close of discovery. (Col. Mem. at 7). Contrary to Columbia's characterization, it is clear from the face of NCRIC's Complaint that the amount sought by NCRIC would fluctuate based on continuous reconciliations as the periods close out. The Complaint states that the amount due is based upon "calendar quarterly recalculations of premium pursuant to the contract between the parties." (Compl. ¶ 8). Moreover, as Columbia has argued consistently in this litigation that the Retro Plan cannot end and all contractual obligations continue until all claims are closed out, NCRIC is required to continue to perform its contractual duty to calculate and send updated reconciliations to Columbia notwithstanding this litigation. The reconciliations and demand letters from 1996 to the present all were prepared "in the regular course of business" pursuant to contractual obligations and should are not subject to exclusion months before being offered at trial.

Finally, Columbia argues for exclusion based on the fact that each update contains a different "amount due" and the fluctuation and alleged unreliability of the quarterly updates. Throughout this litigation, Columbia's case has largely rested upon its allegedly reasonable reliance on quarterly updates provided by NCRIC to support its fraud, negligent misrepresentation, breach of fiduciary duty, and breach of good faith and fair dealing claims. In a radical shift, Columbia now argues that it is plainly clear that such calculations were unreliable and interim only. If this is Columbia's position, it casts a fatal blow to Columbia's contract-based counterclaims. Columbia cannot be allowed to vacillate its position throughout this litigation.

C. Business Proposals and Presentations

Columbia claims that certain NCRIC exhibits containing business proposals and presentations are inadmissible under the business records exception because they were not incorporated into the final Retro Plan entered into by Columbia and NCRIC. Columbia cites Boca Investerings Partnership v. United States, 128 F. Supp. 2d 16, 18-22 (D.D.C. 2000), for the proposition that business proposals are inadmissible under the business records exception. However, Boca only dealt with the personal knowledge requirement of Federal Rule of Evidence 803(6). Not only has Columbia failed to show (or assert) that NCRIC's business proposals and presentations were created by individuals without personal knowledge, but as stated above, personal knowledge is not required for admissibility under D.C.'s business records exception to the hearsay rule. Thus, Columbia's argument has no relevance to NCRIC's exhibits in this case.

Moreover, the fact that NCRIC's business proposals and presentations were not incorporated into the final Retro Plan does not warrant their exclusion, as this fact has no bearing on whether these documents were created in the ordinary course of business – for which NCRIC will provide adequate foundational testimony at trial. The Retro Plan's merger clause is only relevant if NCRIC attempts to use a document to illustrate an inconsistent term of the contract. In a case where Columbia targets NCRIC with baseless charges of tortuous interference and defamation regarding NCRIC's alleged statements, and breach of contract claims regarding NCRIC's handling of the contract negotiations, these documents are clearly relevant – some of which are not hearsay at all because they will be not offered for the truth of the matter asserted therein. Exclusion of these exhibits is not warranted.

D. NCRIC Minutes

In yet another example of Columbia's attempt to stretch the business records rules in order to keep probative evidence from the jury, Columbia cites a Fifth Circuit case from almost 30 years ago for the incredible proposition that the regularly recorded minutes of NCRIC board meetings do not fall within the business records exception to the hearsay rule. (Col. Mem. at 10 citing United States v. Beasley, 513 F.2d 309 (5th Cir. 1975)). The Fifth Circuit, however, has not issued a blanket ruling denying the admissibility of board minutes. Rather, Beasley held that the federal business records exception could not be used to "facilitate the introduction of hearsay as to which the reporter, if he appeared in person, would not be allowed to testify." Id. at 314. NCRIC is not attempting to use the D.C. business records exception as a back-door in order to introduce otherwise inadmissible evidence. It is undeniable that the minutes of NCRIC's board meetings were maintained in the ordinary course of business. With proper foundational testimony by NCRIC officials as to the taking and keeping of board meeting minutes, it is clear that such documents are the quintessential "business record" admissible under the rule. Indeed, Columbia's trial exhibit list includes minutes of various Columbia board meetings as well. This argument is nothing more than spurious.

E. Internal Memoranda

Columbia cites United States v. Lemire, 720 F.2d 1327, 1350-51 (D.C. Cir. 1983), for the proposition that internal memoranda are inadmissible under the business records exception because they are not "objectively reliable." The Lemire court, applying Federal Rule of Evidence 803(6), excluded memoranda that it found to be untimely recorded and not prepared for a regular business purpose. Columbia fails to allege what characteristics of NCRIC's internal memoranda make them unreliable, and it cannot allege that memoranda sent within NCRIC on its dealings with Columbia were not maintained in the ordinary course of business – as testimony offered by NCRIC at trial will show. Exclusion of these exhibits is inappropriate.

F. Insurance Commission Rulings

Columbia seeks the exclusion of five exhibits based on its claim that "correspondence to and from the insurance commissioner cannot be deemed business records" as such correspondence was created in anticipation of litigation. First and foremost, of the five letters Columbia seeks to exclude, three were written by personnel in the commissioner's office, and one was authored by Columbia itself. It can hardly be argued that the insurance commissioner "self-consciously [drafted letters] with an eye toward litigation," nor can Columbia seek exclusion of its own admissions. Further, Columbia characterizes these documents as "run-of-the-mill letters." Routine, regularly sent letters between the insurance commissioner and NCRIC fall squarely within D.C.'s business records exception. The real reason, of course, that Columbia seeks to exclude these materials is because it shows, contrary to Columbia's claims in this case, that NCRIC's conduct with respect to its handling of the Retro Plan was specifically approved by the D.C. Insurance Commission and is prejudicial to Columbia's case. Exclusion is not warranted.

G. Documents Created By Third Parties

Columbia alleges that certain documents are inadmissible as business records because they contain the statements of third parties, such as NCRIC consultants. According to Columbia, the Seventh Circuit held in United States v. Santos, 201 F.3d 953, 963 (7th Cir. 2000), that "documents received—as opposed to prepared—by a business are not that firm's business record." To the contrary, Santos actually held that, under Federal Rule of Evidence 803(6), statements by outside parties do not become part of a business' records unless the business verifies or adopts the statements. Id. Columbia does not allege that NCRIC failed to adopt or verify the statements contained in these documents, nor has the time come for NCRIC to prove such adoption. Exclusion at this juncture is premature and inappropriate.

H. Newspaper Articles/Textbook Excerpt

Columbia is correct that neither the newspaper articles, nor the textbook excerpt included on NCRIC's proposed exhibit list, qualify as records kept in the ordinary course of NCRIC's business. Columbia incorrectly assumes, however, that NCRIC seeks admission of these documents based on the business records exception to the hearsay rule. There are legitimate non-hearsay uses of these newspaper articles in this case where Columbia alleges damages to its reputation and defamation by NCRIC. Moreover, as this Court noted at the Pretrial Conference, to the extent Columbia officials are quoted in newspaper articles, these statements are properly admitted as party admissions. Thus, these documents are admissible.

It is ironic that Columbia objects to the admissibility of the textbook excerpt identified as NCRIC Exhibit 136 as this document was offered by Peter Ben Ezra, Columbia's alleged expert witness, to support the margin calculations in his purported expert analysis. Thus, this document has many non-hearsay uses for NCRIC – not the least of which impeachment of Mr. Ben Ezra. Indeed, NCRIC will most definitely not be using this document to prove the truth of the matter asserted therein – but indeed the opposite. Thus, the document is not hearsay and it is admissible.

IV. CONCLUSION

As the Court noted when declining Columbia's initial efforts at excluding these materials during the Pretrial Conference, Columbia's supplemental objections to NCRIC's proposed exhibits are untimely and wholly without merit. In an apparent effort to bolster a weak case, Columbia is attempting to limit the damaging evidence that will be offered against it by making objections that are not appropriate until trial. Columbia cannot be permitted to state the basis upon which it believes NCRIC will offer an exhibit and then move to exclude based on its own speculation and conjecture. This litigation tactic must not be permitted to succeed.

As detailed above, Columbia seeks exclusion of more than half of NCRIC's exhibits based on Federal Rule of Evidence 803(6), which is markedly more narrow than the applicable exception adopted in the District of Columbia. Moreover, Columbia has refused to consider the possibility that NCRIC will use these documents for non-hearsay purposes, or lay foundations for other exceptions to hearsay outside of the business records exception. As illustrated by Columbia's flawed speculation as to what NCRIC intends to present at trial, Columbia's objections are entirely premature. To exclude any of NCRIC's exhibits at this time based on Columbia's obvious bias would be inappropriate. For the foregoing reasons, the Court should overrule Columbia's objections to NCRIC's exhibits, or in the alternative, reserve judgment until NCRIC has presented foundation testimony at trial.

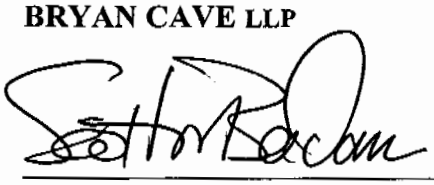
Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP



Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar No. 435375
Margaret G. Perl, D.C. Bar No. 472003
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005
(202) 508-6116

Roy I. Niedermayer (D.C. Bar No. 180380)
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, Maryland 20814

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: November 26, 2003

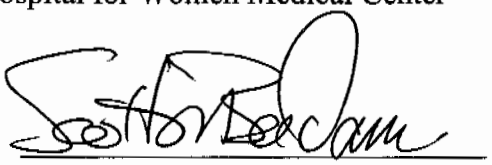
16d-002643

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that pursuant to a telephone discussion between counsel on November 26, 2003, it is NCRIC's understanding that Columbia will file and serve its submission on Monday, December 1, 2003. Therefore, a true and correct copy of the foregoing Notice Regarding Columbia's Withdrawal of Trial Exhibits will be served on December 1, 2003, via hand delivery, to:

Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center



Scott M. Badami

16d-002644

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Next Event: Status Hearing – December 19, 2003
Defendant/Counter-Claimant.

NCRIC'S NOTICE REGARDING COLUMBIA'S PURPORTED WITHDRAWAL OF TRIAL EXHIBITS

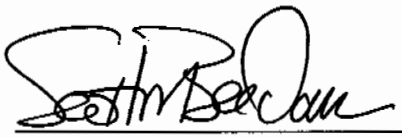
Pursuant to the scheduling order entered in this case, Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC") and Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center Inc. ("Columbia") first exchanged exhibit lists on May 30, 2003 and submitted those exhibits to the Court on July 24, 2003. On November 14, 2003, Columbia filed a Revised List of Trial Exhibits. This revised list purported to withdraw 28 exhibits which were previously submitted with the Joint Pretrial Statement on July 24, 2003. (See Columbia Exhibits 2, 3, 4, 12, 20, 21, 24, 27, 28, 31-33, 48-51, 55, 59, 63, 66, 68, 73, 87, 88, 91, 92, 94, 101).

However, as provided in the Joint Pretrial Statement, both parties reserved the right "to offer all exhibits listed on the opposing party's exhibit list, as well as all deposition exhibits and rebuttal exhibits that have not been identified herein." See Joint Pretrial Statement at 20. Both parties agreed to this language and reservation of rights when drafting and submitting the Joint Pretrial Statement.

Therefore, NCRIC specifically reserves the right to introduce and use at trial any of the above exhibits which were previously identified by Columbia in the Joint Pretrial Statement, notwithstanding the fact that Columbia subsequently attempted to withdraw the exhibits.

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP



Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar No. 435375
Margaret G. Perl, D.C. Bar No. 472003
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005
(202) 508-6116

Roy I. Niedermayer (D.C. Bar No. 180380)
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, Maryland 20814

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: November 26, 2003

16d-002646

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that pursuant to a telephone discussion between counsel on November 26, 2003, it is NCRIC's understanding that Columbia will file and serve its submission on Monday, December 1, 2003. Therefore, a true and correct copy of the foregoing Notice Regarding Columbia's Withdrawal of Trial Exhibits will be served on December 1, 2003, via hand delivery, to:

Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center

Scott M. Badami

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

RECEIVED
Civil Clerk's Office
DEC 1 2003
Superior Court of the
District of Columbia
Washington, D.C.

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Trial, January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

COLUMBIA'S RESPONSE TO NCRIC'S OBJECTIONS REGARDING COLUMBIA'S PROPOSED TRIAL EXHIBITS

In one more attempt to derail trial of this case, NCRIC now wastefully attempts to re-litigate two issues already settled by the Court. Cutting and pasting – virtually word for word – from two of its motions in limine, NCRIC again challenges Columbia's exhibits that detail the correct calculations under the Retro Plan, and NCRIC seeks to exclude the report of Columbia's damages expert, Peter Ben Ezra. But NCRIC adds nothing to the arguments that the Court rejected just last month when the Court denied NCRIC's in limine motions. Those rulings were unequivocal, and at the pretrial conference NCRIC itself expressly conceded that they disposed of its stated objections to these exhibits. (Point I, infra.)

Tellingly, NCRIC has chosen not to brief the only objection raised by NCRIC on which the Court did seek briefing. That objection was NCRIC's flawed suggestion at the pretrial conference that the Court's summary-judgment ruling, which found that certain 1998 statements made by NCRIC were not "of and concerning" Columbia and therefore were not actionable for defamation by Columbia, somehow barred Columbia from introducing certain exhibits dating from 1998 to support other Columbia claims apart from defamation. Apparently realizing that this suggestion lacks any good-faith basis, NCRIC now appears to have abandoned the objection. And with good reason: evidence from 1998, even if not probative of defamation, remains admissible to prove other claims. Indeed, the 1998 exhibits are particularly relevant to illustrate the pattern of NCRIC's heavy-handed, tortious conduct of threatening to take Columbia's doctors to other hospitals if Columbia did not renew the Retro Plan on NCRIC's terms. (Point II, infra.)

Finally, NCRIC proposes to add as its Exhibit 178 a recent demand letter enclosing purported Retro Plan calculations, but that document is inadmissible hearsay created specifically for litigation purposes, and it therefore cannot qualify as a business record. It also represents, in effect, a stealth attempt to amend NCRIC's complaint to seek greater damages on NCRIC's contract claim. The Court, however, denied an express attempt by NCRIC to amend its complaint filed almost six months ago. This attempt is even more untimely and would prejudice Columbia by allowing NCRIC to try its case on the basis of calculations not subjected to the scrutiny of discovery, when discovery revealed similar calculations performed by NCRIC to be replete with errors. (Point III, infra.)

Columbia respectfully suggests that the Court should (again) overrule NCRIC's objections, should find Columbia's exhibits from 1998 relevant and admissible, and should hold NCRIC's proposed Exhibit 178 inadmissible.

Discussion

I. NCRIC'S OBJECTIONS HAVE ALREADY BEEN OVERRULED BY THE COURT

A. Summaries

NCRIC objects to Columbia Exhibits 8, 82-85, and 93. But the status of these summary exhibits has already been resolved by a motion in limine that NCRIC filed nearly six months ago.

NCRIC expressly objected to the admission of Exhibits 82-85 and 93 in its Motion to Exclude Certain Documents and Calculations (filed June 5, 2003). NCRIC's present "[s]upplemental" objections simply cut and paste almost entirely verbatim from this earlier motion. Refusing to accept NCRIC's suggestion that these exhibits be excluded, the Court on October 6, 2003 denied NCRIC's motion in limine. At the pretrial conference a week later, the Court reiterated that it would not prevent Columbia from having an opportunity to lay the proper foundation for admission of these documents at trial. The Court pointed out that the same conclusion – that NCRIC's objection would be resolved at trial – applied to Exhibit 8, as well.

Ironically, NCRIC now adds to its list of supposedly objectionable summaries Exhibit 86, arguing that it, too, is an "inadmissible creation of [Columbia's] counsel." But that document was not created by Columbia or its counsel. Rather, as NCRIC Senior Vice President Stephen Fargis explained in his deposition, that document was created by NCRIC, see Fargis Tr. at 255, and thus is plainly admissible as an admission of a party opponent.

B. Ben Ezra Report and Declaration

NCRIC seeks now – for the first time – to exclude Exhibit 104, the declaration of Columbia's expert, Peter Ben Ezra. But under Superior Court rules, any objection to this document was required months ago. See SCR 16(e)(5) ("Objections, if any, by a party to the exhibits submitted by any other party also must be made . . . as part of the joint pretrial statement. . . . The Court will not consider any objection or alternate language which is filed beyond the time frames prescribed by this Rule unless the party making the objection or suggestion can establish that the objection or suggestion could not, for reasons beyond that party's control, be timely filed."). NCRIC chose not to object at the appropriate time, and therefore it cannot be heard to complain now.

As for Ben Ezra's expert report, Exh. 103, NCRIC objected in the Joint Pretrial Statement as follows: "Objection – see motion to exclude testimony of Columbia's expert." Joint Pretrial Statement Exh. L-4 at 14 (emphasis added). That is, the only basis for objecting to Ben Ezra's report was set out in NCRIC's motion in limine to exclude his testimony altogether, NCRIC's Motion to Exclude the Statements and Testimony of Columbia's Designated Damages Expert, filed on June 5, 2003. But that motion, like the summaries motion addressed above, was denied by the Court on October 6, 2003, and the Court at the pretrial reiterated that its ruling was dispositive of NCRIC's objection to Exhibit 103. In short, NCRIC offers nothing new here, but instead regurgitates stale arguments that the Court already has rejected.[1]

II. COLUMBIA'S EXHIBITS DATING FROM 1998 ARE RELEVANT AND SHOULD BE ADMITTED IN EVIDENCE

At the pretrial conference, NCRIC objected to certain Columbia exhibits dating from 1998 – Exhibits 18, 19, 22, 23, and 25 (the "1998 Exhibits") – on the ground that these exhibits were "irrelevant." According to NCRIC, the Court's summary judgment ruling, which held that statements made in 1998 by NCRIC were not actionable by Columbia for defamation, purportedly meant that no evidence from 1998 remained relevant to any of Columbia's claims.

This is plainly wrong. Indeed, NCRIC (tellingly) does not even press the point in its papers now, despite the Court's express invitation to do so. It is well-established that "the test

[1] NCRIC also suggests that it should be allowed to rely on documents that Columbia has withdrawn per Columbia's revised list of trial exhibits. But the Court provided an opportunity to narrow exhibit lists in order to streamline the presentation of proof at trial. NCRIC's suggestion would render that effort a wholesale waste of time. Moreover, because NCRIC never designated those exhibits as NCRIC exhibits, under Rule 16 NCRIC has waived the chance to do so. See SCR 16(e)(5). And, indeed, a document admissible when offered by one party may be entirely inadmissible when offered by another party: A document authored by NCRIC and proffered by Columbia, for instance, is admissible against NCRIC as an admission of a party opponent; when proffered by NCRIC, however, the same document is inadmissible hearsay. Accordingly, NCRIC should not be entitled to utilize exhibits that it has not designated.

16d-002651

for relevance is not a particularly stringent one." Street v. United States, 602 A.2d 141, 143 (D.C. 1992). "[E]vidence is relevant if it could reasonably show that a fact is slightly more probable than it would appear without that evidence." Id. (citing E. Cleary, McCormick on Evidence § 185, at 542 (3d ed. 1984)) (internal quotation marks omitted); see also Fed. R. Evid. 401 (evidence is relevant if the evidence has "any tendency to make the existence of any fact that is of consequence to the determination of the action more probable or less probable than it would be without the evidence"). The trial court enjoys broad discretion to determine whether an item of evidence is relevant. See, e.g., Hamling v. United States, 418 U.S. 87, 124-25 (1974).

Columbia's complaint alleges, and the evidence adduced in discovery shows, that well-before 2000, NCRIC devised a two-pronged plan for its dealings with Columbia. Aware of Columbia's tenuous financial situation and of Columbia's need to retain its doctors in order to continue functioning as a viable hospital, NCRIC sought to exploit that leverage over Columbia to force Columbia to renew the Retro Plan on NCRIC's terms. In the event that NCRIC did not get what it wanted through that route, NCRIC had a back-up plan: to take Columbia's doctors to competitor hospitals with which NCRIC had arrangements that it preferred to its deal with Columbia. Though NCRIC's intentional interference with the relationship between Columbia and its doctors climaxed in 2000, when NCRIC broke off its relationship with Columbia and lured Columbia's doctors to other hospitals, those events were but the culmination of a plan that was hatched much earlier and that included a pattern of NCRIC conduct exposed by the 1998 Exhibits. The 1998 evidence is therefore admissible to show a pattern of conduct probative of NCRIC's tortious plan and intent.

That evidence is compelling. While in bankruptcy in August 1998, Columbia determined that it could not afford to continue the Retro Plan. Columbia therefore explored other options and succeeded in working out a deal with Medical Inter-Insurance Exchange ("MIIX"), a national insurance company. The MIIX proposal offered significant advantages over the NCRIC plan, as detailed in the chart included in Columbia Exhibit 19. The chart, which compares the two proposals, illustrates that Columbia's doctors collectively stood to save $500,000 in premium payments by using MIIX rather than NCRIC, with the hospital saving another $500,000. The chart also notes that MIIX enjoyed a higher rating than NCRIC, and that MIIX's assets were worth about ten times as much as NCRIC's. Notably, Exhibit 19 was produced by NCRIC to Columbia in this litigation, demonstrating NCRIC's awareness of the MIIX proposal's superiority to NCRIC's plan – though NCRIC communicated precisely the opposite to Columbia's doctors.

NCRIC's awareness of the advantages of the MIIX proposal is also evident from an internal NCRIC memorandum in which NCRIC acknowledged that MIIX could in fact offer a plan as attractive as its proposal to Columbia (Columbia Exhibit 23), despite NCRIC's apparent hope that the MIIX proposal would not be tenable. See Exh. 23 at 1 ("Ray [i.e., Ray Pate, NCRIC's CEO,] has twice inquired as to whether the MIIX program currently on file with the DC Insurance Commissioner allows sufficient discounts to permit the rates quoted in their proposal to Columbia Hospital's OB's. The simple answer is, yes it does.").

Unable to compete with MIIX's proposal, NCRIC resolved to find an alternate way to pressure Columbia to renew its plan with NCRIC – by threatening to take Columbia's doctors to other hospitals with which NCRIC did business. In an August 28, 1998 letter (Columbia Exhibit 18), NCRIC President and CEO Ray Pate informed Gerald Beaulieu, Columbia's Acting President and CEO, that NCRIC had learned Columbia was exploring an alternative to NCRIC's Retro Plan. Pate unabashedly threatened Columbia: "You should understand that NCRIC intends to continue providing its much needed insurance protection to the physicians in this program with or without the support of CHW." Exh. 18 at 1.

Next, NCRIC called secret meetings of the Attending Faculty at which NCRIC urged the physicians to leave Columbia if the Retro Plan was not renewed. In a PowerPoint presentation made by NCRIC to Columbia physicians on October 1, 1998 (Columbia Exhibit 22), NCRIC straightforwardly suggested that the doctors had three "[a]vailable options":

- "MIIX proposal"
- "NCRIC retro plan"
- "If hospital does not want to continue relationship with NCRIC, your coverage is portable to other programs."

Exh. 22 at 3 (emphasis added). Seeking to ensure that only the second or third options came to pass, Mr. Pate and NCRIC Senior Vice President Stephen Fargis misled Columbia's doctors about MIIX's proposal to Columbia, claiming, among other things:

> (1) that MIIX was an unreliable insurance company that would not remain in the District of Columbia insurance market; (2) that MIIX would not stand by its guarantee not to raise premiums for two years; (3) that the MIIX proposal was the result of cronyism that would benefit members of Columbia's Board rather than the Attending Faculty; and (4) that Columbia had lied to the Attending Faculty by stating that it could not afford to continue the Plan.

Statement of Material Facts in Dispute ¶¶ 149-52.

NCRIC followed up on these meetings with letters to the doctors. In an October 28, 1998 "Dear Doctor" letter from Fargis (Columbia Exhibit 25), NCRIC again pressed doctors to leave Columbia in the event that Columbia chose not to renew the Retro Plan on NCRIC's terms. The letter began: "As you are aware, NCRIC has proposed the continuation of our Retrospective Rating Program with CHW . . . . Unfortunately, we have not received yet agreement from CHW that it desires to continue this program for you." Id. Therefore, the letter encouraged the doctors, "you may have the opportunity to participate with a NCRIC-sponsored plan at Sibley Memorial Hospital, or, The George Washington University Hospital." Id.

Just as NCRIC hoped and planned, many Attending Faculty members threatened to move their practices to other hospitals if Columbia proceeded with the MIIX program instead of renewing the Retro Plan. Among those who threatened to move were several large groups of OB/GYNs, who together referred nearly one-third of the hospital's total patients. Faced with the prospect of losing one-third of its revenue, Columbia had no choice but to accept NCRIC's dictated terms and decline the MIIX proposal.

NCRIC's conduct in 1998 revealed a plan that it deployed in 2000, when again it pushed its renew-the-Retro-Plan-on-NCRIC's-terms-or-NCRIC-will-take-your-doctors-elsewhere plan. See generally Statement of Material Facts in Dispute ¶¶ 160-228. In June 2000, Columbia and NCRIC negotiated the possibility of closing out the Retro Plan. When Columbia indicated that it could not afford NCRIC's close-out proposal, NCRIC informed Columbia that the Plan was "terminated" effective September 1, 2000. Two days later, without any warning, NCRIC cancelled an entirely separate NCRIC group insurance policy that covered Columbia's clinic. When, however, certain physicians continued to practice at the clinic under their individual malpractice policies, NCRIC issued an unprecedented exclusionary endorsement under which the doctors' individual policies specifically excluded care provided at Columbia's clinic.

Meanwhile, with Columbia's Retro Plan set to expire as of September 1, 2000, NCRIC contacted Attending Faculty physicians over the summer of 2000 and encouraged them to leave Columbia for other hospitals at which NCRIC had existing plans. NCRIC already had a plan in place at Sibley, and NCRIC developed a similar plan for GW – to take effect on the date that Columbia's Retro Plan ended. NCRIC began processing the paperwork necessary for the doctors to begin practicing at these other locations. NCRIC representatives made false and defamatory statements about Columbia that led doctors to believe they should leave Columbia, including the spurious assertion that Columbia was imminently to close.

Columbia continued to negotiate a possible deal with NCRIC over the summer, but the negotiations turned out to be a sham. When Columbia refused to accede to NCRIC's terms, NCRIC went forward with its "Plan B" of taking the doctors away from Columbia. With no deal in place on September 1, 2000 to continue the Retro Plan, nearly 30 Attending faculty physicians moved their practices to other hospitals, particularly Sibley or GW, where NCRIC had its plans in place.[2]

Thus, the evidence from 1998 – and specifically from Columbia Exhibits 18, 19, 22, 23, and 25 – is directly relevant to establishing NCRIC's tortious intent in 2000, including for claims of fraud, breach of NCRIC's fiduciary duty to Columbia, and tortious interference with Columbia's existing and expected business relationships. NCRIC engaged in the same pattern of conduct in 1998 and 2000, in both instances following a plan of demanding that Columbia agree to NCRIC's terms for renewing the Retro Plan, or face the consequences of NCRIC's taking away Columbia's doctors. In 1998, Columbia gave in to NCRIC's threats and assented to its unreasonable demands; in 2000, Columbia refused to give in, and NCRIC carried out its threats to take Columbia's doctors to competitor hospitals.

---

[2] Further demonstrating NCRIC's pattern of tortious conduct before, as well as after, September 1998, NCRIC acted in a similar fashion when the parties negotiated a renewal in January 1998. At that time, NCRIC presented Columbia with a bill for $1.7 million in Additional Premium, together with an ultimatum: pay up immediately or the Retro Plan would not be renewed. Even though no payment was due under the terms of the parties' agreement because claims remained open, Columbia had no reasonable alternative but to pay NCRIC. Had Columbia not paid at least $1 million, the Plan would have ended and, with no alternative in place, a large percentage of the Attending Faculty would have transferred to competing hospitals. See, e.g., Statement of Material Facts in Dispute ¶ 35.

16d-002656

Courts have routinely admitted evidence of such prior acts to prove motive or intent. Indeed, far more attenuated evidence has been deemed admissible by court after court. See, e.g., Curry v. United States, 793 A.2d 479 (D.C. 2002) (in trial for second-degree murder where defendant's dump truck overturned, killing occupant of another vehicle, trial court properly admitted evidence regarding defendant's prior convictions for mere speeding and for traffic-signal violations to prove intent – namely, that defendant acted with wanton and willful disregard for known, unreasonable risk to human life); Riley v. United States, 790 A.2d 538 (D.C. 2000) (in trial for aiding and abetting armed robbery by driving getaway car, trial court properly admitted evidence regarding prior incident in which defendant and co-defendant were stopped together in a car shortly after a store robbery, as relevant to proof of intent in face of defendant's claim that he did not know co-defendant was going to rob store and force him to drive); Flores v. United States, 698 A.2d 474 (D.C. 1997) (in trial for assault on defendant's former girlfriend, trial judge correctly admitted evidence of two prior assaults defendant committed against her to demonstrate motive in face of his claim that he acted in self-defense). See also United States v. Bowie, 232 F.3d 923, 930-31 (D.C. Cir. 2000) (in trial for possession of counterfeit currency, defendant's prior possession of such currency probative of his knowledge and intent to defraud); United States v. Washington, 969 F.2d 1073, 1080-81 (D.C. Cir. 1992) (drug sale preceding charged transaction admissible to show intent, knowledge, and plan, as similarity and timing of events suggests that "prior act is highly probative"); Miller v. Poretsky, 595 F.2d 780, 784 (D.C. Cir. 1978) (in action alleging racial discrimination by landlord, evidence of past acts of discrimination involving other tenants relevant to prove landlord's motive in action toward appellant); Ansell v. Green Acres Contracting Co., No. 02-3251, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 22275, at *7-18 (3d Cir. Oct. 28, 2003) (in age-discrimination suit, evidence that defendant employer invited older employee to stay with company on prior occasion was relevant to establish employer's intent when terminating plaintiff); id. at *13 ("other acts are admissible under Rule 404(b) in the employment discrimination context for the proper purpose of establishing or negating discriminatory intent"); Northview Motors, Inc. v. Chrysler Motors Corp., 227 F.3d 78, 85-86 (3d Cir. 2000) (noting in affirmance that district court admitted evidence of certain business conduct to show intent with respect to a claim for bad-faith termination of franchises – "i.e., that Chrysler terminated the [sales and service agreements] in July 1991 to force [franchisee] out of business in furtherance of its business plan to terminate stand alone Jeep and Eagle dealerships and replace them with dealerships selling other Chrysler lines"); Union Carbide Corp. v. Montell N.V., 28 F. Supp. 2d 833, 842 (S.D.N.Y. 1998) (deeming evidence of price-fixing agreement that occurred years before conspiracy at issue admissible "to give historical background to [party's] continuing course of behavior in order to prove motive [its] for anti-competitive conduct"); Fed. R. Evid. 404(b).

NCRIC's suggestion that the Court's summary-judgment ruling precludes the admissibility of evidence from 1998 cannot be squared with that very ruling. In its decision, the Court found that "the 1998 statements can not be defamatory to Columbia as a matter of law because the alleged statements were not concerning Columbia." Apr. 10, 2003 Order at 15. NCRIC makes two erroneous extrapolations from this holding. First, NCRIC incorrectly assumes the 1998 statements themselves were relevant only to defamation and not to Columbia's other tort claims. Second, NCRIC incorrectly assumes that if the 1998 statements could not establish defamation of Columbia, then no other evidence from 1998 apart from those statements could be relevant to Columbia's remaining tort claims. But both assumptions are baseless. The Court merely held that the 1998 statements could not be deemed to be about Columbia for defamation purposes. The Court did not exclude the 1998 statements as irrelevant to claims other than defamation, and even if it had excluded the 1998 statements entirely, the Court certainly did not exclude other evidence from 1998 as irrelevant to non-defamation torts.

NCRIC's false statements, even if not relevant to prove defamation, remain probative of NCRIC's other tortious conduct. See Restatement (Second) of Torts § 767 cmt. c, at 30 (1977) ("one may be subject to liability for intentional interference even when his fraudulent representation is not of such a character as to subject him to liability for the other torts [such as defamation]"); Browning v. Clinton, 292 F.3d 235, 244 (D.C. Cir. 2002) (affirming dismissal of plaintiff's defamation claim against former President Clinton but permitting her tortious interference claim to proceed where she "allege[d] that Clinton and his unidentified 'agents' intentionally interfered with her business opportunity through conduct other than defamation"). In short, though defamation may be one type of "egregious" behavior that supports a claim for tortious interference, see Genetic Sys. Corp., 691 F. Supp. at 423, it is hardly the only type, see Browning, 292 F.3d at 244. Because the only basis for NCRIC's objection to the 1998 Exhibits is relevance, and that objection cannot survive scrutiny, the objection should be overruled and the exhibits should be admitted in evidence.

III. NCRIC'S PROPOSED EXHIBIT 178 IS INADMISSIBLE HEARSAY

Finally, NCRIC proposes to add as its Exhibit 178 another self-serving demand letter enclosing inaccurate reconciliation calculations. This hearsay exhibit is inadmissible much like NCRIC Exhibits 155, 161, 163, and 164, as Columbia explained in its recent submission. See Memorandum in Support of Objections to NCRIC's Proposed Trial Exhibits at 7-9 (filed Nov. 14, 2003).

First, this hearsay document – sent by NCRIC after the pretrial conference and mere weeks before trial – does not fall under the business records exception, SCR 43-I, because it plainly was prepared for litigation purposes and thus cannot be deemed reliable. See, e.g., Timberlake Constr. Co. v. U.S. Fidelity & Guar. Co., 71 F.3d 335, 342 (10th Cir. 1995); Palmer v. Hoffman, 318 U.S. 109, 113-14 (1943). As Palmer put it, the document is "calculated for use essentially in the court, not in the business." Palmer, 318 U.S. at 114. In fact, given the current interactions between the parties, plainly the document was created for no purpose other than litigation.

Second, by seeking via this document to change (substantially – by over $700,000) the amount that NCRIC claims in purported contract damages, this document constitutes, in effect, an effort by NCRIC to amend its complaint by letter. NCRIC's express attempt to amend its complaint was rejected by the Court, see Oct. 8, 2003 Memorandum and Order, and NCRIC certainly cannot covertly amend its complaint. See Exh. A (Letter from Schulman to Perl of 10/29/03). Moreover, as NCRIC's proposed amendment was untimely when sought in June 2003, NCRIC's present attempt months later – three years after the filing of NCRIC's complaint, and over twenty months after the close of discovery – most certainly comes too late. See, e.g., Gordon v. Raven Sys. & Research, Inc., 462 A.2d 10 (D.C. 1983) (affirming denial of leave to amend as untimely where sought 18 months after party's initial filing, and one month after close of discovery); see also Gaetan v. Weber, 729 A.2d 895, 898 (D.C. 1999) (denial of leave to amend appropriate because of, inter alia, "length of time that the trial has been pending"); Eagle Wine and Liquor Co. v. Silverberg Elec. Co., 402 A.2d 31, 35 (D.C. 1979) (upholding denial of leave to amend where sought "two years after the initiation of the action").

Third, this document does not represent some sort of mechanical supplementation, but calculation of the precise numbers in dispute between the parties. The calculations contained in this version, however, were not examined in discovery, and their use plainly would prejudice Columbia – particularly because NCRIC repeatedly conceded in discovery that prior charts of this kind contained numerous errors. See, e.g., Fargis Tr. at 325 ("Even looking at this [NCRIC calculation] sheet off the top of my head, the 258 was calculated incorrectly. But this is what we presented. Unfortunately, this is what we presented, even though our numbers were wrong.");[3] id. at 325-26 ("[T]he retrospective premium line on this sheet shows the cumulative is $6,422,396. It is not added up correctly. That is what I am saying is the mistake on this sheet, and, in fact, it is probably close to one million dollars. It is our mistake but when we presented this, we presented this and we should have checked our math."); id. at 477-79 (admitting to errors in other reconciliation spreadsheet); id. at 510-11 ("Q. Do you know why you used those deposit factors [for '94-95 and '95-96] in this spreadsheet? A. I could have made a mistake in the Excel spreadsheet. Q. But you don't recall any specific reason – A. No. This is not in agreement with the deposit factors that we had agreed to."); id. at 676 ("For '93-94, it does look like a mistake was made on the subject premium."); id. at 678 ("And it appears that that's just, that mathematically that can't be. . . . [T]here may be an explanation . . . . But this just looks like a calculation error [concerning subject premium].").

Admission of NCRIC's proposed Exhibit 178 a mere month before trial would leave Columbia with no opportunity to discover similar errors in this latest chart, absent the reopening of discovery and delay of trial. See, e.g., Gaetan, 729 A.2d at 898-99 (affirming denial of leave to amend where sought one month before trial, because amendment "would have . . . severely prejudiced the appellees who had spent significant time and expense during two years of litigation to defend against appellant's assertions"); Sherman v. Adoption Ctr. of Washington, 741 A.2d 1031, 1039 (D.C. 1999) (denial of leave to amend proper where "trial would have to be delayed and discovery reopened"); Gordon, 462 A.2d at 13 (same). After the investment of substantial resources, time, and money in litigating the figures identified in NCRIC's complaint, NCRIC is not entitled to a repeat of discovery so that it may use at trial the calculations that it prefers; nor, in the face of NCRIC's numerous admissions concerning the inaccuracy of its prior calculations, is NCRIC entitled to use its new numbers at trial without those numbers having been subjected to prior examination. Indeed, as with NCRIC's prior effort to amend its complaint, "prejudice caused by delays and postponements of this type affect not only the individual litigants but the court system as a whole and others who invoke its aid in dispute resolution." Sherman, 741 A.2d at 1039.

[3] Deposition excerpts cited here are attached as Exhibit B.

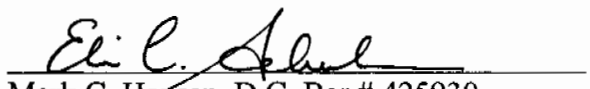
In sum, trial of this case must concern the case that NCRIC pleaded in its complaint and that the parties explored in discovery. NCRIC should not be permitted, on the eve of trial, to change the very case being litigated.

Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the Court should overrule NCRIC's objections to Columbia's Exhibits 8, 82-86, 93, 103, and 104; the Court should admit in evidence Columbia Exhibits 18, 19, 22, 23, and 25; and the Court should sustain Columbia's objection to NCRIC's proposed Exhibit 178.

DATED: December 1, 2003

Respectfully submitted,



Mark C. Hansen, D.C. Bar # 425930
Neil M. Gorsuch, D.C. Bar # 456411
Eli C. Schulman, D.C. Bar # 472879
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

16d-002663

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Trial, January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

ORDER

UPON CONSIDERATION of NCRIC's objections to Columbia's proposed trial exhibits, and response thereto, it is hereby ORDERED that:

(1) NCRIC's objections to Columbia's Exhibits 8, 82-85, 93, 103, and 104 are MOOT in light of the Court's rulings of October 6, 2003 denying NCRIC's motions in limine with respect to these exhibits;

(2) NCRIC's objection to Columbia's Exhibit 85 is DENIED, as that document is admissible as an admission of a party opponent;

(3) NCRIC's relevancy objections to Columbia Exhibits 18, 19, 22, 23, and 25 are hereby OVERRULED, and these documents are hereby ADMITTED in evidence; and

(4) Columbia's objection to the admission of NCRIC's proposed Exhibit 178 is SUSTAINED.

ENTERED this ____ day of _____, 2003.

_____
Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

Copies to:

Mark C. Hansen, Esq.
Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(fax) (202) 326-7999

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(fax) (202) 508-6200

Roy I. Niedermayer, Esq.
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814
(fax) (301) 951-4456

Attorneys for:
PLAINTIFF/COUNTER-DEFENDANT NCRIC, INC.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Eli C. Schulman, hereby certify that, on this 1st day of December 2003, a copy of the foregoing Columbia's Response to NCRIC's Objections Regarding Columbia's Proposed Trial Exhibits was served upon the following by hand delivery:

Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

I further certify that, on this 1st day of December 2003, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned papers was served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.

Eli C. Schulman

EXHIBIT A

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

October 29, 2003

By Facsimile and U.S. Mail

Margaret G. Perl, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20005-3960

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

Dear Peg:

I have received NCRIC's "document production" bates-numbered NCRIC 005278 to NCRIC 005288, which purports to include revised reconciliation calculations. NCRIC should not expect Columbia to agree to the admission of this document in evidence at trial. Indeed, this document is even more objectionable than the purported calculations to which Columbia has already objected.

NCRIC's amended complaint sets forth the amount that NCRIC seeks in this litigation. NCRIC cannot seek, in effect, to amend its complaint by a "supplemental document production" on the eve of trial. Indeed, the Court rejected as untimely an open attempt by NCRIC to amend its complaint four months ago; this covert attempt to amend is even more untimely and inappropriate. NCRIC's late production, moreover, leaves Columbia with no opportunity to conduct discovery regarding the accuracy of the new chart and the calculations that support it. I note in this regard that, during discovery, NCRIC repeatedly admitted that comparable reconciliation charts were replete with inaccuracies.

Sincerely,

Eli C. Schulman

cc: Neil M. Gorsuch

EXHIBIT B

Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.	:
	:
Plaintiff	:
	:
vs.	:	Civil Action No.
	:	00-007308
	:	Calendar 8
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN	:	Judge Davis
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.	:
	:
Defendant	:

Washington, D.C.
Monday, July 30, 2001

Deposition of:

STEPHEN S. FARGIS

called for oral examination by counsel for Defendant, pursuant to notice, at the offices of Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, 1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400, Washington, D.C. 20036, before Renee A Feder, CSR, a Notary Public in and for the District of Columbia, beginning at 8:45 a.m., when were present on behalf of the respective parties:

you can see, have any column under deposit, reflects 5.5 million to be paid to NCRIC over a three year period. Does it?

A. I don't see 5.5 million in here.

Q. And this is dated October 1, 1996. Correct?

A. Right.

(Document referred to marked Deposition Exhibit No. 14 for identification.)

BY MR. LEAHY:

Q. I will now show you what is marked as Exhibit 14, which is another spreadsheet. Do you recognize that spreadsheet?

A. Yes.

Q. What is that?

A. This is a reconciliation but this seems to me more like what we presented to the finance committee.

Q. Do you see, is that your handwriting on the top right hand corner?

A. Yes.

Q. It says "through." Can you see what says there is a one million shortfall. Do you recall going back and correcting some numbers for the finance committee?

A. No. Even looking at this sheet off the top of my head, the 258 was calculated incorrectly. But this is what we presented. Unfortunately, that is what we presented, even though our numbers were wrong.

Q. Do you understand what the sentence means, the two sentences mean -- the one starting with "as noted" and the next one "however," do you have an understanding regarding what they mean?

A. What I was referring to as noted is if you take each year on its own and add it up, what we talked about earlier it is a little more than one million dollars. If you roll the three years together it is only 258,016. But again the retrospective premium line on this sheet shows the cumulative is $6,422,396. It is not added up correctly. That is what I am saying is the mistake on this sheet, and, in fact, it is probably close to one million dollars. It is our mistake but when we presented this, we presented this and we should have checked our math.

I would suspect you pretty much arrive at the same number.

Q. The next sentence, an example of a retro paid loss rating program, is that something that NCRIC presented?

A. It says we presented it. I don't recall it. If there are documents to possibly refresh my memory. I don't -- I don't recall doing an analysis for that. There is a possibility we did, but I just don't recall.

Q. How about the next sentence? And I am assuming here by consultants they mean their consultants. But, that is -- that is your -- I guess I am asking for your understanding. Is the next sentence true with regard to there was a recommendation by consultants that the plan be continued effective January 1, 1997?

in fact 75 percent, would you accept that or would you like to confirm for your own self whether or not 75 percent was used?

A. I'll confirm. Okay.

Q. So would you agree that on both spreadsheets 75 percent was used as the minimum factor for all three years?

A. Yes.

Q. If you could take a moment to look at Exhibit 10, in the row that says ALAE it says, "Per Loss Run." Earlier you testified that that means that comes from the loss run that's attached here. Is that correct?

A. I believe I testified that it would appear that it may come from this.

Q. Could I ask you to look at Page 2 of the loss run and see if you can determine if in fact it does come from there, referring you to the bottom three rows on that second page in the loss run. See how the total for ALAE, reserve total is 358,500? And that's the number that you have there for ALAE for the '91-93 year. Is that correct? I mean the number is incorrect. Right?

MR. NIEDERMAYER: Objection. One question at a time, please.

BY MR. LEAHY:

Q. The first question is is it correct that 358,500 is the number that you have under ALAE in the first column?

A. Yes.

Q. But that's not the correct number to have in that column. Correct?

A. It should just be open files. This includes open and closed files as a total.

Q. So the 89,500 is the right number to have. Correct?

A. It would be, it should be.

Q. So if you refer to the other spreadsheet, Exhibit 18, that has the correct number. Right?

A. Yes.

Q. And if you turn to the next page of the loss run, you see the same thing has been done for the '94-95 year?

A. That's correct.

Q. And the same thing for the '95-96 year.

A. Yes.

Q. So the ALAE factor row has been corrected on the Exhibit 18 from the Exhibit 10. Correct?

A. Correct.

Q. Just to make sure I understand, that's because you don't include closed years under ALAE reserves. Right?

A. No.

Q. No, you do not?

A. No, you do not.

Q. If we can take a look at the development factors on here, too, they're actually shown in their own individual row. These spreadsheets use different development factors. Correct?

A. Yes.

because I'm a lawyer not a mathematician.

A. I'm not a mathematician either.

Q. It's also possible I used Excel incorrectly. That's why I'm asking you to check it.

A. Okay.

Q. Have you confirmed what the actual subject -- strike that.

A. Your Row D divided by Row A, these are the same factors I get.

Q. So that means the deposit premium factor that you used in this spreadsheet for the year 1993-94 was approximately .78 or .77934.

A. Right.

Q. And for the year '94-95 it was .7392, et. cetera?

A. Right.

Q. And for the year 1995-96 it was .5533, et. cetera?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know why you used those deposit factors in this spreadsheet?

A. I could have made a mistake in the Excel spreadsheet.

Q. But you don't recall any specific reason--

A. No. This is not in agreement with the deposit factors that we had agreed to.

Q. Referring you down, at the bottom of Exhibit 45 and 46, there's a line that looks like the title -- does that look like the title of the name of that spreadsheet, COL93_96.XLS?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if you still have this spreadsheet on your computer on the NCRIC system?

A. I'm not sure. I can check again.

Q. The ."XLS" as part of this name indicates this is an Excel spreadsheet. Right?

A. Yes.

Q. I'm going to ask if you have that you agree that the subject premium remains the same for that year in the latter three reconciliations among the four you're looking at right now?

A. Yes. It is less by about $27,000.

Q. Right, not very much. You also see though that for the '93-94 year it's the same in two consecutive spreadsheets. The subject premium on the '98 spreadsheet and the '99 spreadsheet are both $2,765,000 and change, and it's much higher on the '93-94. Does that fact lead you to conclude that the '97 spreadsheet is erroneous with regard to subject premium for '93-94?

A. For '93-94, it does look like a mistake was made on the subject premium. But in the calculation of this it gets capped at the minimum. All right?

Q. I'm not asking you whether it had any -- I'm just trying to figure out --

A. Yeah, I'm just trying to see what the implication is.

wait, for the past year I've been part time. Can you adjust my premium?"

Q. Retroactively?

A. Retroactively. And from time to time we would do that. Now, as I'm looking at this, and, again, I would have to look at this spreadsheet, but it seems to me Subject First 500 Layer is arrived at by deducting 4.6 and the three prior numbers.

Q. And you're referring to 45.

A. Yes. And it appears that that's just, that mathematically that can't be. You would arrive at 2.6. So when I look at the 2.6 and latter years of 2.765, again, there may be an explanation of some individual physicians' adjustments to premiums. But this just looks like a calculation error.

Q. It's too large an error.

A. Yes, it's too large.

Q. Maybe I should ask it this way: You see how the '97 spreadsheet, as you said, you were providing more information and in the

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

December 1, 2003

By Hand

The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Room 3540
Washington, D.C. 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.,
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Judge Blackburne-Rigsby:

Enclosed is a courtesy copy of Columbia's Response to NCRIC's Objections Regarding Columbia's Proposed Trial Exhibits, which was filed today in the above-captioned matter.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at (202) 326-7936.

Sincerely,

Eli C. Schulman

Enclosure

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

RECEIVED
Civil Clerk's Office
DEC 10 2003
Superior Court of the
District of Columbia
Washington, D.C.

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Trial, January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

CONSENT MOTION FOR ADMISSION PRO HAC VICE OF PRIYA R. AIYAR

The undersigned counsel, an active member in good standing of the Bar of the District of Columbia, respectfully moves, pursuant to SCR Civil 101, that Priya R. Aiyar be permitted to participate in the above-captioned matter pro hac vice as counsel for Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc., and states in support the following:

Ms. Aiyar is an associate of the firm Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC, 1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400, Washington, D.C. 20036-3209, telephone (202) 326-7900. She has been admitted to the bar of California and has not been disciplined by any bar. She has not previously been admitted pro hac vice in this Court, and she has filed an application for membership in the District of Columbia Bar.

Counsel for NCRIC, Inc. has represented to counsel for Columbia that NCRIC has no objection to Ms. Aiyar's admission pro hac vice.

Dated: December 10, 2003

Respectfully submitted,

Eli C. Schulman
DC Bar No. 472879
KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN,
TODD & EVANS, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900 (telephone)
(202) 326-7999 (facsimile)

Counsel for Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

Dated: December 10, 2003

Respectfully submitted,

Priya R. Aiyar

Eli C. Schulman
DC Bar No. 472879
KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN,
TODD & EVANS, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900 (telephone)
(202) 326-7999 (facsimile)

Counsel for Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Trial, January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

ORDER

Upon consideration of the Consent Motion for Admission Pro Hac Vice of Priya R. Aiyar, it is this ____ day of December 2003 hereby ORDERED, that the motion is GRANTED.

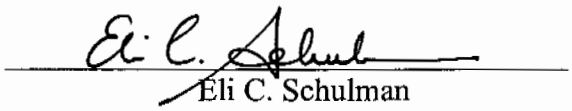
_____
Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Eli C. Schulman, hereby certify that, on this 10th day of December 2003, a copy of the foregoing Consent Motion for Admission Pro Hac Vice of Priya R. Aiyar was served upon the following by first-class mail:

Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

I further certify that, on this 10th day of December 2003, courtesy copies of the aforementioned papers were served by hand delivery upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby and upon the District of Columbia Court of Appeals' Committee on Unauthorized Practice.



Eli C. Schulman

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
COURT OF APPEALS or
SUPERIOR COURT OF THE
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Case No. 00-0007308

NCRIC, Inc.
Plaintiff/Appellant

v.

APPLICATION FOR ADMISSION
PRO HAC VICE

Columbia Hospital For Women Medical Center, Inc.
Defendant/Appellee

I, Priya R. Aiyar, under penalty of perjury:
Name of Attorney seeking admission

(1) That I have not applied for admission pro hac vice in more than five cases in courts of the District of Columbia this calendar year;

(2) That I am a member in good standing of the highest court(s) of the State(s) of California (state all states);

(3) That there are no disciplinary complaints pending against me for violation of the rules of the courts of those states;

(4) That I have not been suspended or disbarred for disciplinary reasons from practice in any court;

(5) That I am associated with Eli C. Schulman (name the D.C. Bar member under S.C.R. Rule 101; DC Bar No. 472879 and give his/her D.C. Bar Number)

(6) That I do not practice or hold out to practice law in the District of Columbia; and

(7) That I have read all of the rules of the relevant division of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia and the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, and have complied fully with District of Columbia Court of Appeals Rule 49 and, as applicable, Super. Ct. Civ. R. 101. The reason(s) I am applying for admission pro hac vice are as follows:

I am practicing law in D.C. pursuant to Rule 49(c)(8) during the pendency of my first application for admission to the D.C. Bar.

I acknowledge the jurisdiction of the courts of the District of Columbia over my professional conduct, and I agree to be bound by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals Rules of Professional Conduct, in this matter, if I am admitted pro hac vice. I have applied for admission pro hac vice in the courts of the District of Columbia Ø times previously in this calendar year.

I attach hereto the receipt issued by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals Committee on the Unauthorized Practice of law as proof of my prior payment of the pro hac vice fee.

Signature of Certifier 12/10/03 Date

Print or type: Name Priya R. Aiyar

Address Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036-3209

Phone (202) 326-7927

16d-002688

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

December 10, 2003

By Hand

Clerk of the Court
Civil Division Clerk's Office
Superior Court of the District of Columbia
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Room JM170
Washington, D.C. 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Sir or Madam:

Enclosed for filing is the original and one copy of Columbia's Consent Motion for Admission Pro Hac Vice of Priya R. Aiyar. Please date-stamp one copy and return it to the messenger in the enclosed self-addressed envelope.

Thank you for your assistance in this matter. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at (202) 326-7936.

Sincerely,

Eli C. Schulman

Enclosures

16d-002689

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

December 10, 2003

By Hand

The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Room 3540
Washington, D.C. 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.,
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Judge Blackburne-Rigsby:

Enclosed is a courtesy copy of Columbia's Consent Motion for Admission Pro Hac Vice of Priya R. Aiyar, which was filed today in the above-captioned matter.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at (202) 326-7936.

Sincerely,

Eli C. Schulman

Enclosure

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

December 10, 2003

By Hand

District of Columbia Court of Appeals
Committee on Unauthorized Practice
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.,
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Sir or Madam:

Enclosed is a copy of the Consent Motion for Admission Pro Hac Vice for Priya R. Aiyar, which will be filed today in the above-captioned matter.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at (202) 326-7936.

Sincerely,

Eli C. Schulman

Enclosure

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

December 10, 2003

By U.S. Mail

Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.*,
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Scott:

Enclosed is a copy of Columbia's Consent Motion for Admission Pro Hac Vice of Priya R. Aiyar, which was filed today in the above-captioned matter.

Sincerely,

Eli C. Schulman

Enclosure

DEC 10 2003

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
COURT OF APPEALS
or
SUPERIOR COURT OF THE
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Case No. 00-0007308

NCRIC, Inc.
Plaintiff/Appellant

v.

APPLICATION FOR ADMISSION
PRO HAC VICE

Columbia Hospital For Women Medical Center, Inc.
Defendant/Appellee

I, Priya R. Aiyar, under penalty of perjury:
Name of Attorney seeking admission

(1) That I have not applied for admission pro hac vice in more than five cases in courts of the District of Columbia this calendar year;

(2) That I am a member in good standing of the highest court(s) of the State(s) of California (state all states);

(3) That there are no disciplinary complaints pending against me for violation of the rules of the courts of those states;

(4) That I have not been suspended or disbarred for disciplinary reasons from practice in any court;

(5) That I am associated with Eli C. Schulman (name the D.C. Bar member DC Bar No. 472879 and give his/her D.C. Bar Number) under S.C.R. Rule 101;

(6) That I do not practice or hold out to practice law in the District of Columbia; and

(7) That I have read all of the rules of the relevant division of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia and the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, and have complied fully with District of Columbia Court of Appeals Rule 49 and, as applicable, Super. Ct. Civ. R. 101. The reason(s) I am applying for admission pro hac vice are as follows:

I am practicing law in D.C. pursuant to Rule 49(c)(8) during the pendency of my first application for admission to the D.C. Bar.

16d-002693

YOUR RECEIPT

THANK YOU

D.C. COURT OF APPEALS
DA & UPL

DATE 12.10.'03 WED

PHV	$100.00
TOTAL	$100.00
CHECK	$100.00
CLERK 1	NO.009927
TIME 16:01	0001

District of Columbia Court of Appeals

Committee on Admissions
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W. — Room 4200
Washington, D. C. 20001
202 / 879-2710

R E C E I P T

MOTION TO APPEAR PRO HAC VICE

of Priya R. Aiyar
Name of Attorney

Case No. 00-0007308

NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals Committee on Unauthorized Practice of Law, in accordance with the provisions of D.C. App. Rule 49 (c)(7) or (9), has received a copy of the motion to appear pro hac vice and the applicable filing fee. As of this date, the Committee's records indicate that the attorney is eligible to appear in the case identified above.

December 10, 2003
Date

for the Committee on Unauthorized Practice of Law
Room 4200 -- 202/879-2777

16d-002694

D.C. SUPERIOR COURT
WASHINGTON, DC

12/10/2003 3:37 PM

Case #
2003CA007308

MOTION	20.00
Total	20.00
Cash	20.00
Change	0.00

Over MT 20593536 CREDIT #
Civil Action

Please Save This Receipt.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Trial, January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

ORDER

Upon consideration of the Consent Motion for Admission Pro Hac Vice of Priya R. Aiyar, it is this 12th day of December 2003 hereby ORDERED, that the motion is GRANTED.

Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby

DEC 12 2003

DEC 12

Copies to:
Eli Schulman
1615 M St., NW
Suite 400
Washington D.C. 20036-3209

Scott M. Badami
Bryan Cave LLP
700 13th St., NW
Washington D.C. 20005-3960

16d-002696

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Trial, January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

COLUMBIA'S RESPONSE TO NCRIC'S ATTEMPT TO INTRODUCE INCOMPLETE DOCUMENTS AS TRIAL EXHIBITS

More than a full month after the deadline set by the Court to resolve objections to exhibits and less than 72 hours before the final status conference scheduled before trial, NCRIC served upon Columbia a letter purporting to "resolve certain outstanding issues" regarding nine of its trial exhibits that are manifestly – and by NCRIC's own admission – incomplete. NCRIC's letter, however, resolves nothing. First, it comes over a month late under the schedule set by the Court, and it therefore does not warrant the Court's or Columbia's attention. Regardless, NCRIC does not even try to fix the problem for two-thirds of the incomplete exhibits and ignores D.C. precedent recognizing the importance of requiring that trial evidence be complete to avoid the danger of misleading the jury. Finally, where NCRIC has in fact attempted to rectify the problem, its efforts do not suffice. Accordingly, the Court should sustain Columbia's objections to NCRIC's incomplete exhibits.

Background

At the October 15, 2003 pretrial conference, the Court set November 14, 2003 as the deadline for the parties to revise the exhibits to be used at trial. That procedure was expressly designed to allow the parties to resolve, among other things, the many completeness objections raised in the July 24, 2003 Joint Pretrial Statement and at the Court's pretrial hearing. The parties were also to file by November 14, 2003 opening briefs regarding any objections to exhibits, and responses two weeks later. In accordance with this timetable set by the Court, Columbia served its revisions on NCRIC – including, prominently, revisions addressing all objections raised by NCRIC as to the completeness of Columbia's exhibits – and Columbia expressly solicited any remaining objections from NCRIC. See Letter from Schulman to Badami of 11/12/03 (attached as Exh. 2). NCRIC did not lodge any further objections, and Columbia filed its revised exhibits in accordance with the Court's November 14, 2003 deadline.

Well aware of the deadline, NCRIC sought to introduce an additional exhibit and filed that with the Court on November 14, 2003, as well. Notably, however, NCRIC made no effort to respond to Columbia's completeness objections to nine NCRIC exhibits: Nos. 2, 6, 18, 48, 56, 68, 112, 149, and 176. Surprisingly, on December 16, 2003, more than a full month after the Court's deadline and the parties' respective submissions of revised exhibits to the Court, NCRIC served upon Columbia a letter purporting to address nine additional NCRIC exhibits to which Columbia had objected as incomplete. See Letter from Perl to Schulman of 12/16/03 (attached as Exh. 1). NCRIC informed Columbia that it intended to submit its revised exhibits to the Court in advance of the December 19, 2003 status conference. Id. at 2.

Discussion

1. NCRIC is too late. The Court set a deadline of November 14, 2003 for revising the exhibits to be used at trial and resolving completeness objections, and both parties were aware of and acted in accordance with that deadline. NCRIC cannot come a month later, mere hours before the final status conference, when Columbia is busy preparing for trial, and seek to remedy objections at its leisure – objections, moreover, it has known about since Columbia propounded them nearly five months ago in the July 24, 2003 Joint Pretrial Statement. This is not a procedure contemplated by Rule 16 or the Court's instructions at the pretrial conference, and it serves only to enmesh the parties and the Court in a side-show dispute at a time when the parties should be engaged in preparing for a trial that is just weeks off.

2. Even if NCRIC's letter had been timely, it does not resolve the objections to the documents at issue. The letter expressly concedes that NCRIC makes no attempt to remedy six of the nine incomplete documents – NCRIC Exhibits 2, 6, 18, 48, 56, and 176. See Exh. 1 at 1. Nonetheless, NCRIC suggests, the lack of completeness, "goes to the weight of the document[s] at trial, not admissibility." Id. at 1. NCRIC cites no authority for this assertion and, to the contrary, D.C. law recognizes the critical role of completeness in avoiding the possibility of misleading the trier of fact. See Butler v. United States, 614 A.2d 875, 882 (D.C. 1992) (applying "rule of completeness" designed to "secure for the tribunal a complete understanding of the total tenor and effect" of a recorded statement or document) (internal quotation marks omitted); see also Fed. R. Evid. 106 advisory committee's note (requiring completeness of documents avoids "the misleading impression created by taking matters out of context" and rectifies "the inadequacy of repair work when delayed to a point later in the trial"). Indeed, though NCRIC now claims that missing attachments do not affect the admissibility of minutes taken at its Board of Directors meetings, it argued precisely the opposite at the last pretrial conference when it objected to Columbia's exhibits, including the Columbia Board of Directors meeting minutes that comprise Columbia Exhibit 16. Columbia addressed the objection and supplied the missing pages, and did so in a timely manner, sending NCRIC a complete version of that exhibit more than a month ago and then filing the exhibit with the Court on November 14, 2003 in accordance with the Court's Pretrial Order. NCRIC chose not to follow suit – and still refuses to do so.

3. Apart from the six documents that NCRIC concedes are still incomplete, NCRIC has now sought to complete three other documents – NCRIC Exhibits 68, 112, and 149. Even if the supplementation of Exhibit 149 had been timely, however, it still would not suffice. As Columbia explained at the pretrial conference, that exhibit – Columbia's Rule 26(B)(4) Statement designating Peter Ben Ezra and Julia Brill as experts – is prejudicially incomplete in the absence of Ben Ezra's ultimate expert report: it is the substance of his actual report that is relevant, not his designation as an expert by Columbia. Further, inclusion of information about Brill, a second expert conditionally designated by Columbia and subsequently withdrawn, would be unduly prejudicial and in any event is not relevant. Though Columbia determined that expert testimony was not necessary from Brill because fact-witness testimony would suffice, the jury might be misled by NCRIC into drawing a negative inference against Columbia from her absence at trial, such as that Brill was excluded by the Court or that Columbia itself believed that it needed her expert testimony in order to prove its claims (when exactly the opposite is true). In sum, that to which Ben Ezra has testified is relevant, but that to which he has not testified is not relevant, and that to which another individual has not testified is likewise not relevant; admission of such irrelevant evidence would only serve to confuse the jury and prejudice Columbia. See Eastern Natural Gas Corp. v. Aluminum Co. of Am., 126 F.3d 996, 1001 (7th Cir. 1997) (upholding district court's refusal to admit in evidence withdrawn pleading, because potential for jury confusion from consideration of withdrawn pleading outweighed any probative value).

Exhibit 68 fares no better. On its face, the cover letter that comprises part of the proposed exhibit purports to enclose at least four additional documents. NCRIC's "corrected" version adds a single page that had been missing from one of the four enclosures, but still fails to supply any pages from three of the four enclosures. The document remains anything but "complete."

Conclusion

The Court should sustain Columbia's objections to NCRIC's incomplete Exhibits 2, 6, 18, 48, 56, 68, 112, 149, and 176.

DATED: December 18, 2003

Respectfully submitted,

Mark C. Hansen, D.C. Bar # 425930
Neil M. Gorsuch, D.C. Bar # 456411
Eli C. Schulman, D.C. Bar # 472879
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Attorneys for:
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Trial, January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)

ORDER

UPON CONSIDERATION of Columbia's objections to NCRIC's proposed Exhibits 2, 6, 18, 48, 56, 68, 112, 149, and 176 as incomplete, and NCRIC's response thereto, it is hereby ORDERED that Columbia's objections to these exhibits are SUSTAINED.

ENTERED this ____ day of _____, 2003.

_____
Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

Copies to:

Mark C. Hansen, Esq.
Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(fax) (202) 326-7999

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(fax) (202) 508-6200

Roy I. Niedermayer, Esq.
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814
(fax) (301) 951-4456

Attorneys for:
PLAINTIFF/COUNTER-DEFENDANT NCRIC, INC.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Eli C. Schulman, hereby certify that, on this 18th day of December 2003, a copy of the foregoing Columbia's Response to NCRIC's Attempt To Introduce Incomplete Documents as Trial Exhibits was served upon the following by hand delivery:

Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

I further certify that, on this 18th day of December 2003, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned papers was served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.

Eli C. Schulman

EXHIBIT 1

BRYAN CAVE

Margaret G. Perl
Direct: (202) 508-6094
mgperl@bryancave.com

December 16, 2003

BY HAND

Eli Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd &
Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W.
Suite 400
Washington D.C. 20036-3209

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

Dear Eli:

Pursuant to the parties' agreement at the pretrial conference to resolve certain outstanding issues involving the completeness of trial exhibits, NCRIC provides these responses to Columbia's objections.

First, Columbia objected that NCRIC Exhibits 2, 6, 18, 48, 56, and 176 were incomplete. Although these documents are excerpts of larger documents, they are still admissible. Indeed, these exhibits are documents which have been jointly used by the parties throughout this litigation without objection (e.g. NCRIC Ex. 2 – the 1993 signed Retro Plan, regardless that certain exhibits may not be attached to that agreement). Some of these exhibits, such as NCRIC Ex. 6 and 176, are sample pages of documents which are hundreds of pages in length. Finally, the absence of all referenced documents does not affect the admissibility of the Board of Directors meeting minutes in NCRIC Ex. 18 and 48. Any complaint Columbia has regarding missing attachments to these documents goes to weight of the document at trial, not admissibility. Therefore, particularly given the uncertainty surrounding why any such document will be offered at trial, NCRIC is not revising its submission of these exhibits at this time.

Columbia also objected that NCRIC Exhibits 68, 112 and 149 were incomplete. NCRIC has added the extra pages necessary to complete those exhibits, as they were omitted due to a copying error.

We believe this addresses all concerns regarding completeness of exhibits previously raised by Columbia. All other objections to NCRIC's exhibits have been addressed in NCRIC's opposition brief to Columbia's memorandum filed last month.

Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street NW
Washington, DC 20005-3960
Tel (202) 508-6000
Fax (202) 508-6200
www.bryancave.com

Hong Kong
Irvine
Jefferson City
Kansas City
Kuwait
Los Angeles
New York
Overland Park
Phoenix
Riyadh
Shanghai
St. Louis
United Arab Emirates
Abu Dhabi
Dubai
Washington, DC

In Association With Bryan Cave (Illinois)
Chicago

and Bryan Cave, A Multinational Partnership
London

We will also submit these revised exhibits to the Court prior to the status conference on Friday.

Sincerely,

Margaret Perl

Margaret G. Perl

MGP
Enclosures

National Capital Reciprocal Insurance Company
1115 30th Street, N.W. • Washington, D.C. 20007 • (202) 969-1866 • Fax: 969-1881

November 9, 1998

BY MESSENGER

RECEIVED
NOV 10 1998
Risk Management Legal Affairs
by messenger

Ms. Ann D. Gaffey
Risk Manager
Columbia Hospital for Women
2425 L Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20037

Dear Ms. Gaffey:

Further to your letter dated November 6 and your meeting today with Mr. Fargis and Mr. Beaulieu, please find enclosed a revised proposed Addendum B to the Plan which amends the Plan and would extend the Plan for one year to September 1, 1999. As was discussed, this Addendum and Plan must be properly executed and approved by the United States Bankruptcy Court, or the Plan cannot be continued beyond January 1, 1999.

Additionally, please find enclosed a copy of the proposed preliminary quote for coverage for CPG physicians. This preliminary quote is based on those physicians previously identified by you, who render services to the Columbia Free Clinic and/or Columbia Teen Health Center under the Columbia Physicians Group (CPG).

As we have discussed this coverage would be provided through the issuance of an entity policy. Based on our discussions and information provided, this policy would be issued on the basis of FTE's resulting in 4.5 full time mature slots. These slots would provide prior acts from the date of hire for each physician so identified by CHWMC and would allow CHWMC to rotate physicians through the slots without having to purchase a reporting endorsement each time a physician leaves. I have enclosed a copy of a census developed from the information provided by you, and ask if you could please review this census for accuracy and advise me of any changes or corrections. Please also find a current listing of the physicians participating in the Plan.

Thank you for your assistance in gathering the data and information and should you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact Steve or me at 202-969-1866. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Marsh
Vice President, Policyholder Services

c:
Stephen Fargis, Senior Vice President

KiPKa
EXHIBIT 5
CASE# 1:18-02

PLAINTIFF'S EXHIBIT 68

CHW MC 000768

16d-002708

ADDENDUM B TO RETROSPECTIVE RATING PLAN AGREEMENT

This Addendum amends the Retrospective Rating Plan Agreement ("Agreement") and Exhibit A, attached, made and entered into effective the first day of September 1, 1993 and Addendum amending Agreement January 1, 1997, by and between National Capital Reciprocal Insurance Company, 2170 Wisconsin Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20007 ("NCRIC" or the "Company"), and Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, 2425 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20037 ("CHWMC").

This Addendum extends the Agreement, Addendum and Exhibit A from September 1, 1998 to September 1, 1999. For purposes of Modifications, only language amended in the Agreement is noted below and for purposes of Plan calculations in the Agreement, a full Exhibit A, with modifications is included.

Page 3, Item 10:

10. NCRIC, a Medical Center representative and a Physicians Claims Committee representative will meet quarterly to review the status of the operation of the Retrospective Rating Plan.

A. At such meetings, NCRIC will provide the following:

(I) for purposes of cross-reference and confirmation of participating or termination of participation in the Plan, a list of all Plan Participants participating in the Plan, together with their effective date of participation and termination date, as applicable;

(II) a loss run detailing the following information:

Date of Loss
Date Claim Made
Claimant's Name
Location of Claim (hospital, office)
Brief Description of Claim
Status (Claim/Suit)
Total Indemnity Reserve (in the aggregate only)
Total Expense Reserve (in the aggregate only)

(III) a review of Medical Center risk management activities and risk management issues presented by the claims.

CHW MC 000769

16d-002709

Page 5, Item 18.:

18. This Agreement shall not be assignable under any circumstances, whether in connection with the bankruptcy cases in which CHWMC are currently debtors or otherwise, by any party hereto without the express written consent of other parties, provided that the obligations of NCRIC hereunder shall be assigned to any admitted insurer which is a successor to NCRIC by reason of conversion, reorganization or merger approved by the District of Columbia Commissioner of Insurance. This agreement shall terminate (i) upon the conversion of the CHWMC case to Chapter 7 case, or (ii) if greater than 50% of Plan Participants resign their affiliation with CHWMC.

Page 5, New Item 19.:

19. This agreement is contingent upon CHWMC obtaining prior approval of all of its terms by the bankruptcy court in the currently pending bankruptcy cases of CHWMC, in a form of order acceptable to NCRIC, on or before November 18, 1998.

Page 5, Old Items 19 & 20 are renumbered 20 & 21.

CHW MC 000770

16d-002710

NATIONAL CAPITAL UNDERWRITERS, INC.
Attorney-in-Fact for NATIONAL CAPITAL RECIPROCAL INSURANCE COMPANY (NCRIC)

ATTEST:

_____ BY:_____

(Corporate Seal)

R. Ray Pate, Jr.
President and CEO

COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN
MEDICAL CENTER

ATTEST:

_____ BY:_____

(Corporate Seal)

Gerald Beaulieu
Acting President and CEO

CHW MC 000771

16d-002711

MODIFICATIONS TO

EXHIBIT A

SIX YEAR RETROSPECTIVE RATING PLAN

The National Capital Reciprocal Insurance Company Retrospective Rating Plan, hereinafter referred to as the "Plan," is available only to physicians insured by National Capital Reciprocal Insurance Company ("NCRIC") who are participants in the CHWMC's Attending Faculty Program ("AFP") referenced in the Retrospective Rating Plan Agreement between NCRIC and Medical Center first entered into on September 1, 1993 and subsequently amended January 1, 1997, and added to by this plan through September 1, 1999 (the "Agreement") and who have been issued a retrospective rating plan premium adjustment endorsement by NCRIC. The AFP has been established for the primary purpose of implementing practice protocols relating to delivery of patient health care. Individual medical professional liability policies issued to Plan Participants are subject to retrospective rating in accordance with the following terms and conditions:

1. Plan Term. The term of the Plan shall be six years, beginning on September 1, 1993 and ending on September 1, 1999. The Plan shall consist of six separate and distinct Experience Periods of:

Beginning 12:01 a.m. on	and Ending 12:01 a.m. on
September 1, 1993	September 1, 1994
September 1, 1994	September 1, 1995
September 1, 1995	September 1, 1996
September 1, 1996	September 1, 1997
September 1, 1997	September 1, 1998
September 1, 1998	September 1, 1999

2. Premiums Charged to Plan Participants. The premium charged to and paid by Plan Participants for coverage limits of $500,000 each claim for Coverage A, "Physicians and Surgeons Individual Professional Liability" shall be discounted by 19%of the otherwise applicable premium for such coverage in the first two years of the Plan and 33% of the otherwise applicable premium for such coverage in the remaining years of the Plan. Although that premium is subject to retrospective adjustment as set forth below, no Plan Participant shall be responsible for, or entitled to, any additional or return premium. The obligation to pay additional premium (if any), and the right to receive return (if any), shall be solely that of CHWMC.

3. Retrospective Rating Premium Formula. The retrospective premium for any Reconciliation will be calculated as follows:

Retrospective Premium (Subject to established Minimum and Maximum Premiums) = {[(Loss Reserves) x (Development Factor)] + Paid Losses] x Discount Factor}+Basic Premium.

Note: The amount of Losses included in the calculation of the retrospective premium is subject to the Loss Limitation as hereinafter defined.

4. Combination of Experience Periods. Each Experience Period shall be reconciled individually utilizing applicable premium amounts, plan factors and the retrospective rating premium formula. As reconciliations become due for each Experience Period, the completed, individually reconciled retrospective premiums for applicable Experience Periods shall be combined to determine the total Retrospective Premium.

5. Reconciliations. Reconciliations to determine additional or return premium amounts which may be due will be performed according to the following schedules:

Experience Period	First Reconciliation Date
September 1, 1993 to September 1, 1994	September 1, 1995
September 1, 1994 to September 1, 1995	September 1, 1996
September 1, 1995 to September 1, 1996	September 1, 1997
September 1, 1996 to September 1, 1997	September 1, 1998
September 1, 1997 to September 1, 1998	September 1, 1999
September 1, 1998 to September 1, 1999	September 1, 2000

Reconciliation calculations will continue to be conducted at subsequent twelve month intervals until all losses reported during the applicable Experience Period are finally closed. A reported loss shall not be deemed finally closed until the earlier of payment to the claimant and execution of a release by the claimant, or the expiration of the statute of limitations for the claim. Any claim closed without payment shall be not deemed finally closed; any claim closed without payment shall be subject to reopening, and any payments made on behalf of such reopened claims shall be subject to, and part of, the reconciliation process.

Within sixty (60) days of the end of an Experience Period, reconciliations will be performed by NCRIC and a report containing the Plan calculations and a statement reflecting amounts which are due to ("return premium") or due from ("additional premium") CHWMC under the terms of the Plan will be presented to CHWMC. Any amounts due either to or from CHWMC shall be due and payable within thirty (30) days of the date of the statement for same.

6. Determination of Additional or Return Premiums Due. The amount of additional or return premium due after each Reconciliation will be calculated by subtracting the retrospective premium from the applicable Deposit Premium for the subject Experience Period(s).

CHW MC 000773

16d-002713

7. Definitions. As used herein, the following terms shall have the meanings indicated:

"Basic Premium" means the combined amount of the administrative expense charge and the insurance charge due to NCRIC. The administrative expense charge shall be 14.04% of the Subject Premium; the insurance charge shall be calculated by multiplying the Subject Premium by the insurance charge factor set forth below:

Six (6) Year Subject Premium	Insurance Charge Factor
$1,539,000 - $2,565,999	20.7%
$2,566,000 - $3,591,999	13.2%
$ 3,592,000 - $ 4,617,999	8.4%
$ 4,618,000 - $ 5,643,999	6.9%
$ 5,644,000 - $ 6,669,999	5.7%
$ 6,670,000 - $ 7,696,999	5.0%
$ 7,697,000 - $ 8,722,999	4.3%
$ 8,723,000 - $ 9,748,999	3.9%
$ 9,749,000 - $10,774,999	3.5%
$10,775,000 - $11,800,999	3.1%
$11,801,000 - and over	2.8%

"Deposit Premium" means the Subject Premium multiplied by sixty-seven (67%). This percentage shall remain unchanged for the one year term of the Plan, unless both parties agree to a change and amend this Agreement hereunder.

"Development Factor" means the factors by which Loss Reserves are multiplied for purposes of determining developed losses. These factors shall apply as follows and all reconciliations applicable thereto, unless NCRIC claims trending, as actuarially noted, indicates otherwise development at which time applicable development factors of NCRIC will apply.

Year 1 Reconciliation	-	55.0%
Year 2 Reconciliation	-	65.0%
Year 3 Reconciliation	-	80.0%
Year 4 Reconciliation	-	105.0%
Year 5 Reconciliation	-	105.0%
All Subsequent Reconciliations	-	100.0%

"Discount Factor" means the factor currently used by NCRIC at the time of the reconciliation. At the time of this Agreement 86.33% will apply.

CHW MC 000774

16d-002714

"Experience Period" shall mean the initial twelve (12) month period commencing September 1, 1993 and each subsequent twelve (12) month period during which the Plan is in effect. Should the Plan be terminated prior to the end of any Experience Period, the prorated period involved shall be deemed to be an Experience Period.

"Insurance Policy" means the Company's Physicians and Surgeons Modified Claims-Made Medical Professional Liability Coverage Policy, Revised January 1, 1993, or any replacement policy subsequently issued, and any endorsements thereto.

"Losses" means the obligations assumed by the Company on behalf of Plan Participants in accordance with the terms and conditions contained in and applicable to Coverage A of Section I of the Insurance Policy.

"Loss Limitation" - for the purpose of application of the retrospective rating premium formula, losses shall be limited to Allocated Loss Adjustment Expenses plus the lower of (I) $500,000 in indemnity, or (ii) the actual amount of the loss. Notwithstanding the foregoing, however, for claim amounts in excess of $500,000, the amount Allocated Loss Adjustment Expenses shall be limited to a pro-rated amount equal to the ratio of $500,000 to the total indemnity amount applicable.

"Loss Reserves" means allocations to pay losses that have been incurred, or are likely to be incurred, and reported during the time the Plan is in effect, but that have not yet been paid.

"Maximum Premium" means the maximum retrospective premium which shall be due under the Plan. The Maximum Premium shall be equal to one hundred and thirty three percent (133%) of the Subject Premium amount.

"Minimum Premium" means the minimum retrospective premium which shall be due under the Plan. The Minimum Premium shall be equal to sixty percent (60%) of the Subject Premium amount.

"Paid Losses" means loss amounts paid by NCRIC on behalf of Plan Participants in accordance with Coverage A - Physicians and Surgeons Individual Professional Liability - Section I, Subsection 2 (Coverage Agreements) and Subsection 6 (Supplementary Payments) of the Insurance Policy. Paid losses are subject to Loss Limitation, defined above.

"Plan Participants" means those physicians insured by NCRIC pursuant to Insurance Policies endorsed with the retrospective rating plan premium adjustment endorsement and who are members of the AFP.

"Subject Premium" means the total of the undiscounted premiums that would be charged to physician-insureds for coverage limits of $500,000 each claim under Section I, Subsection 2, Coverage A, of the Insurance Policy if said physician-insured were not Plan Participants. For the second and third Experience Periods, the Subject Premium shall not exceed 85%, nor be less than 70% of the undiscounted premium charged for coverage limits of $1 million each claim/ $3 million aggregate.

CHW MC 000776

16d-002716

COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN ❀ MEDICAL CENTER

July 13, 2000

Lawrence Mirel
Commissioner of Insurance
Insurance Administration
Department of Consumer & Regulatory Affairs
P.O. Box 37200
Washington, DC 20013

Re: Notice of Cancellation
NCRIC, Inc. Policy #700999
Columbia Hospital for Women -- Columbia Physicians Group

Dear Mr. Mirel:

I am attaching a Notice of Cancellation for the above referenced policy.

For your information, this policy provides medical malpractice insurance for a group of part-time physicians who provide medical services at the Columbia Hospital for Women.

We are hereby appealing this cancellation for the following reasons:

1. Our interpretation of the cancellation provisions of the policy (attached) indicates that "refusal to pay premium" is the only valid reason for a midterm policy cancellation. We have diligently paid the premium for this coverage.

2. The claim and loss history for this group is very good. There is no underwriting justification for this cancellation.

3. We do not believe that a 45-day notice is an adequate time period to find replacement coverage for medical malpractice in the District of Columbia.

4. Medical malpractice coverage is mandatory and critical for physicians and hospitals practicing in the District of Columbia. Cancellation of this coverage, on such a short notice, could prevent the delivery of needed healthcare to the citizens of the District of Columbia.

EXHIBIT
Witness Wilson II
Date 7/16/01
Lynell C.S. Abbott, RMR

Sincerely,

Larry Wilson
President and CEO

COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

PLAINTIFF'S EXHIBIT 112

Enclosure

CHW 000323

16d-002718

1115 30th Street, NW
Washington, DC
20007

800.613.3615
202.969.1866
202.969.1881 fax

June 30, 2000

NCRIC, Inc.

Mr. Larry Wilson
Columbia Physicians Group
2425 L St., NW
Washington, DC 20037

Dear Mr. Wilson:

In accordance with the enclosed Notice, your Medical Entity Policy is cancelled effective August 15, 2000.

To satisfy your obligation through the cancellation date of your policy, an outstanding balance of $3,956 exists on your account. Please remit no later than 7 days from the date of this letter.

Naturally, if you wish to terminate your coverage at an earlier date than August 15, please advise us accordingly. Your outstanding balance would diminish as your earned premium would be prorated to reflect an earlier cancellation date.

As you know, your policy is written on a claims-made basis, retroactively to January 1, 1988. You have 30 days from the cancellation date of the policy to purchase Extended Reporting Period ("tail") Coverage. This would extend the reporting period for claims otherwise covered by your policy during the period 1/1/88 to 8/15/2000. Please advise us should you desire a quotation.

Thank you for your attention to this matter. Should you have any questions, please contact me.

Sincerely,

Grant Sohm
Director of Underwriting

1115 30th Street, NW
Washington, DC
20007

800.613.3615
202.969.1866
202.969.1881 fax

NCRIC, Inc.

June 30, 2000

Mr. Larry Wilson
Columbia Physicians Group
2425 L Street, NW
Washington, DC 20037

Dear Gentlemen:

Notice of Cancellation

You are hereby notified that Policy Number 700999 issued by NCRIC, Inc., with an effective date of December 1, 1999, is cancelled. Under the terms of the Policy, this cancellation is effective August 15, 2000.

You may be eligible for insurance under the District of Columbia Insurance Placement Act, the District of Columbia Automobile Plan or other similar plans. Information regarding your eligibility for coverage under such plans may be obtained by contacting:

Superintendent of Insurance, Insurance Administration
Department of Consumer & Regulatory Affairs
PO Box 37200, Washington DC 20013

Appeal Procedures

a. If you dispute the validity of this cancellation, you may at any time before the effective date of this cancellation, send written notification of the reasons you believe the cancellation is invalid to the Superintendent of Insurance at the address noted above. A copy of such notification shall also be sent to NCRIC at the same time.

b. The Superintendent shall, unless the matter has been settled, proceed to determine the cancellation was authorized under the terms of Chapter 3 of Title 26, District of Columbia Municipal Regulations.

c. Decisions of the Superintendent shall be appealed under the applicable of the District of Columbia Code.

Sincerely,

Grant Sohm
Director of Underwriting

CHW 000325
16d-002720

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 -- Judge Davis
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN	)	Next Event: Proponent's Rule 26(b)(4)
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Statement Due: June 26, 2001
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

DEFENDANT'S RULE 26(B)(4) STATEMENT
AS A PROPONENT OF A CLAIM

Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia"), by counsel, hereby states, pursuant to District of Columbia Superior Court Rules of Civil Procedure 16(b)(3) and 26(b)(4), that it expects to call at trial, as an expert witness on its behalf:

1. Peter Ben Ezra, 4930 Fort Sumner Drive, Bethesda, MD 20816-1945.

Mr. Ben Ezra (whose curriculum vitae is attached hereto as Exhibit A) is expected to testify with regard to the calculation of damages proximately caused by NCRIC's torts, including (1) the economic effects, such as lost revenue from decreased patient volume, of certain practice groups moving their practices from Columbia to competing hospitals, and any reputational harms stemming from related events; (2) the lost revenue resulting from the non-occurrence of specific fundraising activities and events; and (3) the loss of specific sources of financing and partnership opportunities that otherwise would have been available to Columbia.

The substance of the facts and opinions to which Mr. Ben Ezra is expected to testify is: that, as a proximate result of NCRIC's torts, Columbia has suffered and will suffer economic harm including loss of revenue, damaged reputation in the community, and loss of good will; and further, that the total sum of economic harm that Columbia has suffered and will suffer as a result of NCRIC's torts runs in the tens of millions of dollars.

For his expected opinion testimony, Mr. Ben Ezra, a Certified Public Accountant and Professorial Lecturer in the Department of Accountancy at the George Washington University, draws upon his professional training, knowledge and experience in the fields of financial accounting, managerial accounting, and financial statement analysis. The factual data upon which Mr. Ben Ezra's expected testimony depends includes his analysis of Columbia's historical records and reports, operating statistics and financial results, and other relevant market and financial data. Mr. Ben Ezra's expected testimony also will draw upon the intimate knowledge of Columbia's financial affairs the he developed as a financial advisor and consultant to the hospital for several years, from the period of receivership through the period of bankruptcy.

2. Ms. Julia M. Brill, Esq. 2105 Bay Front Terrace, Annapolis, MD 21401

Ms. Brill (whose curriculum vitae is attached hereto as Exhibit B), or any similarly-qualified expert who may assist her, is expected to testify with regard to (1) methods, formulas and criteria for setting loss reserves by hospitals and/or insurers for medical malpractice liability claims in the District of Columbia and/or surrounding metropolitan area; and (2) the reasonableness and propriety, in light of the industry standards for setting loss reserves for medical malpractice liability claims in the District of Columbia and/or surrounding metropolitan area, and in light of other loss reserves of the same nature set by NCRIC in the same region, of the loss reserves set by NCRIC under the Retrospective Rating Plan Agreement.

Due to NCRIC, Inc.'s untimely production of documents, Ms. Brill has not had an adequate opportunity to review and analyze all of the documents necessary for her to evaluate the reasonableness and propriety of NCRIC's loss reserves. As such, Ms. Brill has not yet fully developed her factual and opinion testimony. However, Columbia expects that, once Ms. Brill complete her review of the relevant NCRIC claim files, she may testify that NCRIC's loss reserves are unreasonable and improper, in light of the aforementioned industry standards.

The factual basis for Ms. Brill's opinions, should she complete her review of NCRIC's claim files and fully develop her testimony, will be a detailed understanding of each claim for which NCRIC set a loss reserve, developed through a careful review of the files. Ms. Brill's opinion will be based, it is expected, on her experience as an attorney and risk management consultant in this area.

* * *

Columbia makes the forgoing statements regarding the experts it expects to call at trial subject to the following qualifications: (1) Columbia reserves the right to call any witness listed in Defendant's Initial Rule 26(B)(4) Statement as a Proponent of a Claim (March 12, 2001), or any other suitable person later discovered by Columbia, if it is unable to retain Ms. Brill as an expert; (2) Columbia reserves its right to supplement or change this statement, including its expert witness designations, at any time during the course of discovery, or if its currently-pending motion to extend the time for filing this statement is granted; and (3) Columbia reserves its right to designate any of the foregoing, or others, as rebuttal expert witnesses at a later time.

DATED: June 26, 2001

Respectfully submitted,

Mark C. Hansen, D.C. Bar # 425930
Steven F. Benz, D.C. Bar # 428026
Joseph K. Leahy, D.C. Bar # 465773
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

202-326-7999

Peter Ben Ezra
4930 Fort Sumner Drive
Bethesda, Maryland 20816
(301) 229-0028

OBJECTIVE — Expert Witness

EXPERIENCE — PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

06/01/77 to Present

Peter Ben Ezra, Certified Public Accountant
4930 Fort Sumner Drive, Bethesda, Maryland 20816-1945
Certified Public Accountant
Provides tax, financial, and management advisory services to individuals, corporations, partnerships, non-profit, international, and governmental organizations.

11/27/94 to 09/30/96

Corporation for National and Community Service
1201 New York Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20250
Director, Corporate Analysis, GS-510/10, $95,531
Responsible for the preparation of Corporate-wide financial statements, management (internal) controls, performance measurements, tax compliance, and special studies and analysis. Also responsible for corporate re-invention initiatives.

12/31/79 to 11/26/94

Financial Systems Division, Office of Finance and Management
U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250
Chief, Financial Systems Division, GM-510-15/10, $90,252
Responsible for USDA's financial systems including accounting systems, cash management, debt collection and credit management, management (internal) controls, performance measurement, and preparation of consolidated USDA-wide financial statements.

07/01/78 to Present

The George Washington University, Department of Accountancy.
Washington, D.C.
Professorial Lecturer
Teach Financial Accounting and Managerial Accounting at the graduate level. Taught Introduction to Financial Accounting and Introduction to Managerial Accounting at the undergraduate level. Taught undergraduate Governmental Accounting and Advanced Accounting.

07/01/79 to Present

D.C. Institute of CPA's Education Foundation
1023 15th Street, N.W., 8th Floor, Washington, D.C. 20005
Discussion Leader
Taught regularly scheduled Continuing Professional Education seminars to Certified Public Accountants in such areas as accounting, taxation, auditing, law, practice management, personal financial planning, and computers.

EDUCATION

The George Washington University
Washington, D.C. 20052
Masters of Science in Managerial Accounting, 1975
GPA: 4.0

University of Maryland
College Park, Maryland
Bachelor of Science in Information Systems Mgmt., 1972
Minor: Accounting
GPA: 3.6 High Honors

Kaufman-Cades CPA School
Washington, D.C.
1976
Passed Uniform CPA Exam on the first try. Scored as follows: Auditing 83, Practice 80, Theory 89, and Law 92.

Continuing Professional Education

PERSONAL

Born:	August 24, 1949 Washington, D.C.
Height:	5'10"
Weight:	210 lbs
Race:	Hispanic
Married:	1975 Wife graduate of University of Puerto Rico
Service:	U.S. Army National Guard (1970 to 1976) Honorably discharged No reserve obligation

ORGANIZATIONS/SOCIETIES

1976 to Present — American Institute of Certified Public Accountants
Member and Discussion Leader for AICPA Continuing Professional Education programs.

1976 to Present — D.C. Institute of Certified Public Accountants
Member. Participated on the Executive Search Committee (1995), Board of Directors, and the Ethics, Government, and (Chairman) Business Information Systems committees.

1972 to Present — Association of Government Accountants, Washington Chapter
Member. Board of Directors 1993-1994 and 1994-1995.
Chairman, Education Committee 1990-1991.
Organized National Performance Review Event (Sept. 1993).

1990 to Present — Beta Alpha Psi (Honorary Member), Accounting Honor Society

AWARDS

- USDA Superior Service Award as Group Leader of the Interest Penalty Task Group for reducing USDA's interest penalties (6/92).
- Association of Government Accountants: National Award for Chapter Service (6/91) & Washington, D.C. Chapter, Chapter Service Awards (5/93 and 5/91)
- Award for Special Recognition and a cash award of $1,000 from the Agricultural Research Service (4/90).

- Award for Distinction at the 5th Annual Cash Management and Credit Management/Debt Collection Awards Ceremony, U.S. Department of Treasury-1989, $3,000 Cash Award (3/89).
- Certificate of Appreciation and cash award (10/87) of $750 for implementing cash and debt management initiatives with tangible benefits and annual savings of over $29 million.
- Certificate from the DCICPA in recognition of outstanding contributions to the accounting profession as a member of the board of governors for 5 years (6/85).
- Letter of Commendation from the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture for a program review and analysis study improving Federal/State relations (6/79).
- Certificate of Appreciation from the Federal Railroad Administration in recognition of innovative and effective professional services rendered (10/77).
- Assistant Secretary for Administration letters commending outstanding performance in preparing USDA's Consolidated Financial Statements (2/91) and work ethics (5/90).

PUBLICATIONS

Several Articles in D.C. Institute of Certified Public Accountants' publications.

Profile

Julia M. Brill

Attorney and Health Care Consultant

Julia M. Brill, Esq., is an attorney and risk management consultant with 17 years experience in the area of employment issues, risk management, and health care law. Since 1988, after leaving Johns Hopkins, she has maintained a regional practice specializing in employment, worker's compensation, risk and claims consulting, and health care law. Continuing a career-long focus on employment issues, she has specialized in the design and implementation of worker's compensation claims and cost management programs, having achieved considerable savings on behalf of her clients. Clients in the Baltimore-Washington region, Northern Virginia, Eastern Shore of Maryland, and Delaware have included hospital systems, insurance companies and brokers, multi-system physician-hospital organizations, medical specialty independent practice organizations, and managed care companies.

From 1983-1985, Ms. Brill's private law practice included worker's compensation, employment discrimination, and education law, (a former teacher). Highlights included participation as co-counsel in stress claim under Maryland Worker's Compensation laws, and cases brought under the Fair Labor Standards Act, including one resulting in a shared published opinion.

From 1985-1988, Ms. Brill, Senior Attorney, the Johns Hopkins Hospital and Medical Institutions, performed a variety of operational legal, risk and claims management activities: participation, design and implementation of the risk management program; employment defense and worker's compensation claims activities; periodic review and implementation of the professional and general liability insurance program; participation, claims review meetings; and both direct and oversight of litigation. Featured were extensive counsel in defense of involuntary admissions and court-ordered information releases, direct litigation of guardianships, and developing joint procedures for safety and abuse reporting between the Baltimore City State's Attorney and the Hopkins institutions. Corporate and transactional counsel to all departments was also key to the Hopkins experience. Leaving Hopkins in 1988, she established a health care practice, which she subsequently carried to a large law firm setting. After three years in the corporate department of a large regional law firm, from 1990-1993, Ms. Brill re-established of her sole practice and consulting activities, including an engagement as consultant to and Vice President, Legal Affairs, of an MCO, first to accomplish licensure under the Maryland Medicaid Managed Care Program, then for contracts compliance, network development and oversight of risk management & quality, April, 1997-February, 1998. Extensive counsel over time to providers as in-house counsel, in direct representation or as part of the insurance broker's team, result in Ms. Brill's unique perspective.

Ms. Brill, a graduate of Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, a former teacher of nine years, received her J.D. and admission to the Maryland Bar in 1983. Ms. Brill has lectured and written nationally and regionally in risk management, employment, corporate contracting, and various health care legal issues. Lectures and contributions to publications include to the American Health Lawyers Association, Society of Women in Emergency Medicine, Maryland Psychological Association, American Nurses Association, Maryland Society for Health Care Risk Management (MSHRM) and the Maryland Medical Records Association, co-authored audiotape series for the American Nurses Association and national broker's risk management quarterly.

Ms. Brill holds membership in the Maryland Bar Association, Maryland Society for Healthcare Risk Management, the American Health Lawyers Association, and the American Society for Healthcare Risk Management, and has been a member of the Health Law Section of the Maryland Bar Association, and on the MSBA Committees on Advanced Directives and Elder Law. Ms. Brill maintains her office at 2105 Bay Front Terrace, Annapolis, Maryland, 21401. Tel. & Fax. (410)974-4671.

JULIA M. BRILL, ESQ.

Health Care Attorney & Consultant

Selected Accomplishments

Johns Hopkins Health System Corporation September, 1985- February, 1988
Baltimore, Maryland.

- As a Senior Attorney, participated in claims management program for general and professional liability exposures as related to the creation and implementation of risk management policy and procedures, the training and support of new system risk managers and in concert with appropriate management of exposures in general and professional liability settings.

- Responded to a variety of physician practice and appointment issues, including those affecting the FMG, the review, drafting and negotiating of academic affiliation agreements, and the credentialing and professional liability insurance exposures.

- Reviewed and negotiated agreements with pharmaceutical companies and documents utilized in investigational protocols from the perspective of both the physician's and the Hospital System's professional and general liability exposures and in preparation for presentation at the Institutional Review Board.

- Developed risk management curricula for delivery of periodic compulsory education series and international symposium and based upon current claims and risk experience of health system. Lecture: International ophthalmology symposium, Wilmer Institute: "Legal Implications of Non-FDA Approved Uses of Drugs and Devices in Experimental Protocols".

- Counsel to System Risk Management Committee formulated to address risk management issues, and achieve consistency in policies, and programs throughout the system while considering some individuality of system components.

- Counsel to large teaching hospital AIDS Committee and to System AIDS Committee, which functions were to develop and implement system-wide consistent approaches to blood-borne pathogens issues.

- Authored the JHHS Employee Aids Policy and Co-authored the patient policies subsequently adopted and approved by the JHHS AIDS Task Force during the initial stages of the AIDS crisis.

- Direct litigation of guardianships & defense of EEO cases at local, state , & federal jurisdictional levels for the system and oversight of external counsel on various cases assigned to outside defense counsel for JHHS Corp.

16d-002731

Hopkins, Cont'd.

- Reviewed, drafted, and negotiated all manner of contracts on behalf of the hospital, including large equipment purchase agreements and license agreements for various departments, including for the purchase of MRI, CT, and other select radiological systems from both a corporate legal and professional liability perspective.

Lectured nationally on a variety of health care legal topics, including healthcare contracts and professional liability issues effecting physicians, hospitals, and healthcare systems, for such entities as the American Health Lawyers Association Contracts Institute, Women In Emergency Medicine, the Maryland Medical Records Association, the Maryland Psychological Association and the Maryland Society for Health Care Risk Management.*

Partner, Health Care Lawyer, Baltimore, Maryland. February, 1988 - November, 1990

- Represented physicians in the organization of a PHO formed principally for the delivery of managed care medical services at the beginning of the trend to establish such entities.

- Co-authored "Risk Management Issues In Nursing", AudioTape Series on behalf of the American Nurses Association.

Lectured nationally on a variety of topics including healthcare contracts issues effecting physicians, hospitals, and healthcare systems, for such entities as Women In Emergency Medicine, Maryland Psychological Association and Maryland Medical Records Association on the Confidentiality of Medical Information, American Nurses Association on risk management and legal issues affecting nurse professionals, Maryland Society for Healthcare Risk Management on a variety of topics, including its first educational program relative to AIDS and HIV, physician-hospital contracting, risk management, AIDS, & legislative issues.

Miles & Stockbridge, Baltimore, Maryland. November, 1990 - November, 1993.

- Acted as Counsel to regional division of a national behavioral health provider and, with a national insurer drafted and negotiated the agreements resulting in the design and implementation of an employer-sponsored behavioral health services delivery system in 4 states for a large, regional manufacturer.

- As health care counsel to several multi-hospital systems in the Baltimore, Washington and on the Eastern Shore, reviewed and developed health standard forms in response to new initiatives in the areas of informed consent, including advance directives, medical staff governance, medical services agreements, motions and pleadings in pursuit of orders of guardianship and other general counsel duties.

16d-002732

Health Care Attorney & Consultant, Annapolis, Maryland. November, 1993 to Present

- As Senior Attorney and in-house counsel at Johns Hopkins and since, Ms. Brill has served as risk management consultant to several large brokerage entities charged with the analysis and design of risk financing and risk management systems for small to large multi-faceted health and non-healthcare corporations, thus developing knowledge of claims systems, and general and professional coverages and exposures. In concert with brokers and their Account Executives, she has developed and implemented risk management programs, including for the control and management of worker's compensation costs.

- As health care consultant to the captive insurance trust of a newly formed multi-hospital delivery system, Ms. Brill has had an extensive one year engagement with involvement in the 'beta' phase of the implementation of the electronic risk and loss prevention system developed by the Harvard Risk Management Foundation. With responsibility for the creation of a ten-year claims history database, her activities are key to the implementation of its newly acquired electronic claims and risk management system. Responsibilities include: determination of the appropriate levels of risk, responsibility and identification of risk management and legal issues arising in the course of the claims or lawsuits of member institutions; and, the input of those determinations to create a history for effective risk financing, management and loss prevention. Identification and reporting of systems issues arising in the course of database creation resulting in system enhancements have been key features of Ms. Brill's role.

- As Chair, Legislative Committee, and its first registered lobbyist, Maryland Society for Healthcare Risk Management, presented testimony to the Maryland Legislature's House of Delegates Committee on Economic Matters urging the consideration of operational, practice and risk management issues in the design and implementation of healthcare reform initiatives prior to the adoption of Maryland's health care reform initiatives.

- Charged with oversight of Risk Management and the successful creation of risk management programs on behalf of managed care organization for peer review, credentialing, and quality, to name a few, for inspection and licensure by the State as an MCO in the Maryland Medicaid Program, as well as other large commercial payers.

- In 1997-98, first as consultant to and then as Vice President of Legal Affairs, completed managed care contracts on behalf of a multi-hospital owned managed care MCO to achieve a statewide physician delivery system for the successful licensure with Maryland's Medicaid Managed Care Program. In addition, drafting and negotiating contracts and administering the successful completion of annual contracts and credentialing audits with the major HMOs.

16d-002733

EXHIBIT 2

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

November 12, 2003

By Hand

Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20005-3960

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

Dear Scott:

As you know, the parties agreed at the pretrial conference to resolve certain outstanding issues involving trial exhibits. To that end, Columbia encloses revised exhibits to address the following objections raised by NCRIC:

First, NCRIC objected that Exhibits 2, 37, 43, & 69 included extra pages. Columbia has removed the extra pages from those exhibits.

Second, NCRIC objected that Exhibits 16, 38, 97, 98, 101, & 102 were incomplete. Columbia has added the pages necessary to complete those exhibits.

Third, NCRIC objected to the redactions in Exhibits 5 & 35. These documents were mistakenly redacted, and Columbia has included unredacted copies of those exhibits. This production should not be taken as a waiver of the attorney-client privilege.

Fourth, NCRIC suggested that it was missing a copy of Exhibit 56. Columbia has reproduced that exhibit.

Finally, as we alerted the court at the pretrial conference, Columbia has included as Exhibit 71A a copy of NCRIC's most recent Form 10-Q, filed by NCRIC after the parties submitted their exhibits in the Joint Pretrial Statement. Like NCRIC's 10-Ks already admitted by the court, the 10-Q is relevant to the issue of punitive damages.

If you have any remaining concerns, please advise us promptly; otherwise, we plan to file these revised exhibits with the court on November 14, 2003.

Sincerely,

Eli C. Schulman

Eli C. Schulman

Enclosures

cc: Neil M. Gorsuch

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Trial, January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

ORDER

WHEREAS the use of computer technology can assist in the orderly and efficient presentation of the evidence at trial; and

WHEREAS the Parties wish to use such technology to that end, including the following equipment needed to facilitate use of such technology:

1. laptop computers
2. LCD projectors and tripod
3. cabling
4. theater screen (80" measured diagonally)
5. flat-screen monitors, if needed
6. other equipment, as necessary to facilitate use of this technology; it is hereby ORDERED that the use of such equipment shall be permitted at trial; and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the Parties shall be permitted to bring such items into the courthouse.

ENTERED this 19th day of December 2003.

A. Blackburne-Rigsby

Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

16d-002739

Copies to:

Mark C. Hansen, Esq.
Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(fax) (202) 326-7999

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(fax) (202) 508-6200

Roy I. Niedermayer, Esq.
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814
(fax) (301) 951-4456

Attorneys for:
PLAINTIFF/COUNTER-DEFENDANT NCRIC, INC.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Next Event: Trial -- January 26, 2004
Defendant.

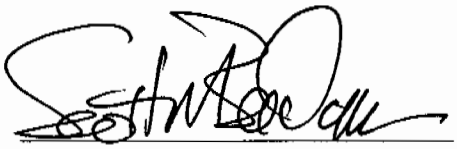
NCRIC'S MOTION TO VOIR DIRE
PETER BEN EZRA PRIOR TO IMPANELING THE JURY

Pursuant to the applicable standards governing the admission of expert testimony and the equitable power of the Court, for the reasons stated in the attached Statement of Points and Authorities in Support, Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC") moves that the Court conduct voir dire to exclude the opinions and expected testimony of Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center Inc.'s ("Columbia's") designated damages witness, prior to impaneling the jury in the above-captioned case. Pursuant to D.C. Superior Court Rule 12-I(e), a Proposed Order and Statement of Points and Authorities in Support of this Motion are also attached.

Oral Hearing Requested.

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP



Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar 435375
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(202) 508-6116 telephone
(202) 508-6200 facsimile

Roy I. Niedermayer, D.C. Bar No. 180380
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, Maryland 20814

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: January 9, 2004

CERTIFICATION REQUIRED BY D.C. SUPERIOR COURT RULE 12-I(a)

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. certifies pursuant to Rule 12-I(a) that the parties discussed this motion during a telephone conference on January 9, 2004 and consent from counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women could not be and was not obtained. Accordingly, this motion is necessary for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. to obtain the necessary relief.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Next Event: Trial -- January 26, 2004
Defendant/Counter-Claimant.

NCRIC'S MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF ITS MOTION TO VOIR DIRE PETER BEN EZRA PRIOR TO IMPANELING THE JURY

Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC") respectfully requests the Court to permit the voir dire of Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.'s ("Columbia's") proposed expert witness, Peter Ben Ezra ("Mr. Ben Ezra"), prior to impaneling the jury in this case.

As previously stated and for the reasons discussed in more detail below, NCRIC objects to the admission of Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony as "expert opinion" on the grounds that it is inherently defective, wholly speculative, and improperly biased as a matter of law. At the December 19, 2003, Pre-trial Conference in this matter, the Court acknowledged that Columbia faces "hurdles that still need to be met" before Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony reaches the jury. The Court further indicated that, prior to his taking the stand, Mr. Ben Ezra would be subject to voir dire and that NCRIC would have the opportunity to cross examine him with respect to issues such as the reliability of his data, his methodology, and bias.

In light of the Court's decision this week to postpone the start of the trial until 1:00 p.m. on January 26, 2004, conducting voir dire of Mr. Ben Ezra prior to impaneling the jury will promote efficiency in selecting a jury and conducting the trial. No party will be prejudiced, but instead each party, the Court and the process will benefit from the parties' ability to more accurately evaluate the length and structure of the trial and to organize their cases accordingly.

A. Mr. Ben Ezra's Testimony is Biased, Inherently Defective and Speculative

As noted previously, NCRIC objects to the admission of Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony as "expert opinion" in this case on the grounds that it is inherently defective, wholly speculative, and improperly biased as a matter of law. Columbia cannot be permitted to put forward to the jury and rely upon a witness: (1) who without independent verification accepted Columbia's counsel's representations concerning the group of physicians who allegedly stopped (or reduced) admitting patients at Columbia, a fact upon which his entire damage analysis is premised; (2) who used unaudited and speculative data having no reliable support; (3) who simply presumed causation of damages; (4) who performed no analysis or investigation related to the other factors which may have been involved in a physician's decision to leave or reduce the number of patients he or she admitted to Columbia; and (5) who cannot be independent or objective because he was the Chairman of the Board of Columbia – and indeed as admitted by Columbia's counsel during the pretrial conference – who is still designated as a responsible individual with decision making authority on behalf of the hospital with regard to this litigation.

Moreover, with respect to the single damage claim for which he attempted to establish a damage number (estimated lost cash flow), Mr. Ben Ezra: (a) simply accepted as true the representation of counsel with respect to the doctors who allegedly left Columbia (Ben Ezra Dep. at 140); (b) did no analysis or investigation why doctors left Columbia (Ben Ezra Dep. at 140); (c) used one year of unaudited data (Ben Ezra Dep. at 164); (d) did no analysis or research to determine causation (Ben Ezra Dep. at 133);[1] (e) presumed that each doctor would work until he or she turned age 65 without reviewing any studies or analysis concerning the retirement age of physicians (Ben Ezra Dep. at 154-55); and (f) simply assumed a 20 year damage projection without offering any facts as to why he selected that time period (Ben Ezra Dep. at 151-153). See Ben Ezra Dep. at 133, 140, 151-55, 164, attached as Exhibit A. Based upon these "facts," Columbia seeks to have Mr. Ben Ezra opine that Columbia will incur over $20 million in damages over the next 20 years based on the conduct of NCRIC. Mr. Ben Ezra's report is fundamentally flawed, unfairly prejudicial and must be excluded as a matter of law.

16d-002744

Mr. Ben Ezra's report and its findings are based on unreliable data, which is not the type reasonably relied upon by experts calculating damages. See Dyas v. United States, 376 A.2d 827, 832 (D.C. 1977); In re Melton, 597 A.2d 892, 901 n.10 (D.C. 1991) (en banc). Mr. Ben Ezra's opinion fails to satisfy even the minimal standard for admissibility of expert opinion testimony imposed by District of Columbia courts. See Washington Metro. Area Transit Auth. v. Davis, 606 A.2d 165, 177-78 (D.C. 1992) (holding that speculative expert testimony about lost earnings should be excluded where unsupported by sufficient facts); Toy v. District of Columbia, 549 A.2d 1, 7-8 (D.C. 1988) (finding that expert testimony lacked a sufficient factual basis to establish national standard of care for police departments). To be admissible, expert opinion testimony must be based on facts or data "of a type reasonably relied upon by experts in the particular field," although "the facts or data need not be admissible in evidence." Melton, 597

---

1 "Question: 'I just want to make clear, you don't have any information with respect to causation? You're not here for that purpose, are you?' Answer: 'No. I was just given a list and ran my analysis.' " (Ben Ezra Dep. at 133).

A.2d at 901-02 (adopting Federal Rule of Evidence 703 in the District of Columbia). While Mr. Ben Ezra purported to use a "scientifically valid methodology"-- a discounted cash flow analysis -- his application of this method warrants exclusion because: (1) there is no evidence that the underlying benchmark data he used was statistically meaningful or appropriate; (2) he applied a marginal cost percentage strictly (and literally) based on an accounting textbook example with no assurance that such percentage approximates Columbia's true variable costs; and (3) he relied upon a list of doctors provided by Columbia counsel which finds no support in the record.

Although a discounted cash flow analysis may well in theory be based on sound economic principles, Mr. Ben Ezra's application of this methodology here is unreasonable and unreliable. See K.W. Plastics v. United States Can Co., 131 F. Supp. 2d 1289, 1292 (M.D. Ala. 2001) (excluding expert's calculation of lost profits, which was based on "impermissibly flawed" application of "sound economic principles").

The reasons for excluding the proffered expert testimony here are magnified by the involvement of the witness as a Board Member of Columbia. Counsel for Columbia identified Mr. Ben Ezra as the person with settlement authority for the hospital's board. Mr. Ben Ezra is far from a disinterested expert witness in this matter. By claiming he is an expert, Columbia and its counsel hope to dress up their speculative damage claim and pass it off in front of a jury as if it has a sound economic or scientific basis. The unfair prejudice to NCRIC and very real possibility of misleading the jury are cause to exclude these exhibits regarding Mr. Ben Ezra's "expert" testimony.

B. Conducting Voir Dire of Mr. Ben Ezra Prior to Impaneling the Jury is in the Best Interests of the Court, the Jury and the Parties

In light of the Court's intention, as stated at the December 19, 2003 Pre-trial Conference in this matter, to conduct voir dire of Mr. Ben Ezra prior to his taking the stand,

16d-002746

NCRIC submits that it would be in the best interests of the Court, the jury and the parties, for the examination to occur prior to the impaneling of the jury. Due to the postponement of the start of the trial until 1:00 p.m. on January 26, 2004, NCRIC proposes that afternoon could be efficiently and effectively used to conduct the voir dire. Doing so would prevent prospective jurors from being called for one-half day, or alternatively, being forced to wait for jury selection to begin during the afternoon of January 26th. It would also prevent a disruption later during the trial to conduct the voir dire of Mr. Ben Ezra, outside the presence of the jury. Finally and most importantly, should Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony be excluded, as NCRIC submits it should be, the length of the projected two week trial will likely be significantly reduced.

Making a determination of the admissibility of Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony prior to impaneling the jury will allow the parties to better organize and present their cases and will reduce disruptions and delays during the trial. Moreover, because the exclusion of Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony could significantly impact the length of the trial, making this determination at the start of the case will result in a better organized trial for all involved.

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP

Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar No. 435375
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005
(202) 508-6116

Roy I. Niedermayer, D.C. Bar No. 180380
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, Maryland 20814

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: January 9, 2004

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Next Event: Trial -- January 26, 2004
Defendant.

ORDER PERMITTING VOIR DIRE OF
PETER BEN EZRA PRIOR TO IMPANELING THE JURY

Pending before the Court is NCRIC's Motion to permit voir dire of Columbia's purported damages expert, Peter Ben Ezra, prior to impaneling the jury in the above-captioned action. For the reasons stated in the Motion, and the issues being fully considered, the Court finds that good cause exists to grant the Motion, and, therefore it is so:

ORDERED, that the motion is GRANTED and the voir dire of Peter Ben Ezra shall take place on _____, 2004 prior to impaneling the jury in this case.

_____
The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

16d-002748

Copies to:

Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Eli Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg Huber Hansen Todd & Evans
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

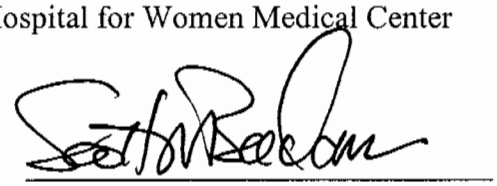
16d-002749

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that a true and correct copy of NCRIC's Motion to Voir Dire Peter Ben Ezra Prior to Impaneling the Jury was served this 9th day of January 2004, via hand delivery, to:

Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center



Scott M. Badami

EXHIBIT A

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

NCRIC, INC., :

:

Plaintiff, :

:

vs. : CA No. 00-0007308

: Calendar # 8

COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN : Judge Davis

MEDICAL CENTER, INC., :

:

Defendant. :

January 24, 2002

Washington, D.C.

Deposition of:

PETER BEN EZRA

called for examination by counsel for the Plaintiff, pursuant to Agreement, taken at the offices of Bryan Cave, LLP, 700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 700, Washington, D.C. 20005-3960, before John W. Whitman, RMR, Notary Public in and for the District of Columbia, commencing at 10:04 a.m., when were present on behalf of the respective parties:

of which are called major procedures, some of which are called minor procedures. I have the quantities for those procedures; I don't have the prices; and until I get prices that I can depend on I can't do that extension, price times quantity equals total. It would be a good way of checking the results in the model that we have in front of us today.

Q. Have you made a request of Columbia or its lawyers to provide you with this additional data?

A. Yes, I have. But to this point in time there is not acceptable data. In other words, I can't rely on the data they have given me.

MR. LEAHY: I represent on the record Mr. Ben Ezra has been working for about four or five months to try and get this and hasn't yet successfully gotten this data. He can testify to that if you want.

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q. I would like to ask you just a couple questions about what you were designated to do in this case. Does your expert report contain any information with respect to any loss of goodwill suffered by Columbia Hospital?

A. Negative. It does not.

Q. Does your report contain any calculations for damages related to the reputation of Columbia in the community?

A. No, it does not.

Q. Does your report contain any information or calculations concerning the loss of specific sources of financing and partnership opportunities that otherwise would have been made available to Columbia?

A. No, it does not.

Q. Does your report contain any information concerning the lost revenue resulting from the non-occurrence of specific fund raising activities?

A. No, it does not.

Q. How about any reputational harms stemming from related events?

MR. LEAHY: Objection; asked and answered.

Whenever I object, you can answer the question.

THE WITNESS: No, it does not.

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q. Do you anticipate doing any further calculations or analysis with respect to goodwill?

A. If I'm requested to, I will.

Q. Have you been requested to?

A. At this point I have not been requested.

Q. Would your answer be the same for damages to reputation in the community?

A. Yes, it is. If requested I will be glad to furnish an expert opinion on that.

Q. But you haven't been requested to do so at this point?

A. No, I have not been requested to do that.

Q. Can I get you to confirm, sir, that you are the witness who will be testifying at trial in this case?

A. I assume I am.

Q. Has anybody been working with you, try it that way, on this report?

A. No. I did this report. I'm the only person that worked on this report. This is my product.

Q. In addition to the other forms of damages, which I have just asked you about, are you aware of other damages that you did not calculate?

A. There was supposed to be a series of galas for fund raising. I know that the hospital was planning to receive net proceeds, in the order of magnitude of about $2 million on an annual basis, I believe, for about two or three years. That has not happened.

Q. Have you done any work related to those?

A. I have been at meetings where that has been discussed.

Q. I'm sorry, for the purposes of this case, have you done any damage calculation with respect to those issues?

A. No, I haven't, other than I am aware that they expected about $2 million a year.

Q. But that's not contained in your report?

A. No, it is not contained in my report.

Q. And you're not going to testify about that today?

A. I don't think so. I thought the subject was going to be my report.
Q. I'm just asking all the things you considered, sir, that's all.
A. In addition, it was my understanding that they were trying to seek financing from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.
Q. When you say, "they," do you mean Columbia Hospital?
A. It's interesting. When we say Columbia Hospital, there is really a Columbia Hospital Foundation and then there is also a Columbia Hospital Medical Center and so we'll just talk about an entity called Columbia Hospital, but legally they are different legal entities.
Q. I appreciate that.
A. Yes. As I recall, the scope of magnitude was somewhere in the order of about $15 million to $20 million on a refinancing, which would have allowed the hospital to borrow funds from HUD at the Treasury cost of borrowing plus maybe a quarter or a half a point, but that would be very favorable.

Q. That's not contained in that report?
A. That is not contained in that report at all.
Q. And you're not expected to testify about that?
A. No. However, would it would have affected the calculations here if they had obtained that financing, because I used the cost of capital being the current cost of financing on the real estate, which is the highest cost of capital.
So for purposes of discussion the Treasury cost of borrowing today for 30 years is five percent, and if HUD were to put a quarter or a half point on that the cost of borrowing to the hospital would be 5 1/4 or 5 1/2 as opposed to 10 1/2 that I did use for my analysis.
MR. BADAMI: I would like to ask the court reporter to mark this as Exhibit No. 2.

(Ben Ezra Exhibit 2 was marked for identification.)
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. Mr. Ben Ezra, I'm showing you what's been marked as Ben Ezra Exhibit No. 2 and ask you, sir, if you recognize this?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell me what it is, please?
A. It's basically my curriculum vitae. It's like a resume. It explains my professional experience.
Q. Is this resume accurate?
A. Yes, it is.
Q. Can you tell me about your post-high school education?
A. I graduated Montgomery Blair High School. Then I went to the University of Maryland. My major was information systems management, and my minor was accounting. I graduated with high honors from the University of Maryland.
I then got my graduate degree at George Washington University. My major was managerial accounting.

From there I passed the CPA exam on the first sitting and was one of the highest scorers in the State of Maryland on the CPA exam.
Subsequently, I've been working at George Washington University from about 1976 --
Q. You have '78, I believe.
A. -- from 1978 to current. I'm an adjunct professor.
Q. What does that mean?
A. Basically, a part-time professor. I don't get full benefits as a full-time professor would. I'm called a professorial lecturer, which is the highest rank for an adjunct professor. And I've been doing that since 1978 to the current time.
And I brought a couple of my textbooks, if you're interested in them. I encourage everybody to take a managerial accounting course and a financial accounting course.
Q. I appreciate that. Let me ask you about might have reached back then?

A. Yes.
Q. Could you tell me about them, please?
A. The conclusions were, basically, that the former board of directors of Columbia Hospital for Women had major conflicts of interest with the hospital, and they obtained significant amounts of money as a result of their arrangements or their being on the board of Columbia Hospital for Women. They mostly were in the financial and the construction area.

For example, one of the board members, we came to find out, had under his control or he was an employee of an organization who had under their control two construction companies. Both construction companies worked on the hospital, and built the old professional office building, and as I recall received, perhaps, $30 million as a result.

MR. LEAHY: Can we go off the record for a minute?

MR. BADAMI: Sure.

(Discussion off the record.)

THE WITNESS: So that was one individual.

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q. I'm asking you for the conclusions you reached at that time.

A. We had on the board two CPAs from two different accounting firms. One of those firms received approximately $800,000 for doing the management study on the hospital, and when we looked at that study we didn't think we received full value for $800,000. It was some sort of a long-range, strategic study.

Another board member had a travel agency. We found out that the hospital had a policy to only use one travel agency, that was his, and we came to find out there was a feeling of the doctors when they used that travel agency that they did not have the lowest tickets when they got on a plane and started comparing prices.

Q. You mentioned three different board members. Are those individuals still on the board of Columbia today?

A. No, they are not.
Q. Can you tell me who they are and when they left?
A. I don't remember the names, but there was a court case that was handled by the law firm of Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans. Mark Hansen was our attorney. All that information is in the various filings and that should be part of the public record and they will have names and dates. But the conflict of interest was --
Q. Do you remember about what year this was?
A. If I went there in '96, the following spring, maybe, approximately, March or April the board, basically, imploded, and requested that the Corporation Counsel, here, in D.C. take over the receivership of the hospital.

So the hospital went into or was requested to go into receivership. The medical staff fought it, and actually the receivership never -- although they appointed a receiver that was short lived, and approximately three or four weeks later the hospital was taken out of receivership and a new board was constituted, made up of some former board members and then new board members, which included members of the medical staff.

I've lost track of the question.

MR. LEAHY: I was going to say if he can ask you questions.

(Discussion off the record.)

MR. LEAHY: Peter, whenever you're ready, let him know.

THE WITNESS: Would you ask the question again?

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q. I was asking about the board of directors, and you were saying it imploded and a number of members of the medical staff came on the board and other members left the board?

MR. LEAHY: Object to the form. You may answer.

THE WITNESS: That's basically the case.

16d-002755

BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. Can you tell me which members of the medical staff joined the board?
A. To my best recollection, it would have been Safa Rifka, Nabil Asterbadi, Marty Dukes, John Berryman, Joe Gutierrez. It will be on the record.
Q. You mentioned earlier that you were the one who put Columbia in bankruptcy?
A. Yes.
Q. Can you tell me about that?
A. Basically, in order to go into bankruptcy the Foundation Board did not go into bankruptcy, the Medical Center Board did go into bankruptcy, and there was a Columbia Hospital for Women, which was a real estate corporation, that went into bankruptcy.
So as Chairman of the Medical Center Board I signed the papers to put the Medical Center into bankruptcy. I believe the real estate company was signed by Safa Rifka.
Q. Can you tell me why the Medical Center went into bankruptcy?

MR. LEAHY: Objection to form.
THE WITNESS: There was litigation at that point in time. The bank of Tokyo, Mitsubishi was attempting to grab approximately $12 million to $14 million that was in a fund, and in order to prevent the grab of that money we filed for bankruptcy within a few minutes of losing a hearing in the same courthouse.
Q. When you say losing a hearing, losing a hearing in the lawsuit filed by the Bank of Tokyo?
A. I'm not sure it was a lawsuit, I think we may have asked for an injunction and failed to obtain that injunction.
Q. Were there any other reasons why Columbia filed for bankruptcy at that time?
A. That was the major one that I'm aware of.
Q. Did my client, NCRIC, have anything to do with Columbia's bankruptcy filing at that time?
MR. LEAHY: Objection to the form.
THE WITNESS: As I recall, the hospital had to make a deposit of approximately $1 million to NCRIC. Obviously, that affected their cash flow.

BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. Do you know why they had to make that deposit to NCRIC?
A. If that was at that point in time, I believe that was sort of a good faith, escrow payment on the Retro Plan, as I recall.
Q. Can you better describe a good faith escrow payment? What do you mean by that?
MR. LEAHY: Object to the form.
THE WITNESS: I think NCRIC was concerned that we would file for bankruptcy, and to protect their interest and nature they had some collateral that they could go against in the possibility that the Retro Plan went negative, my term. They asked for, like, a security deposit, when you're a landlord and you have a new tenant you ask for a security deposit just in case something happens further down the line that you need the money.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. From what you've just testified, then, is it your belief that that money wasn't already owed to NCRIC?

A. Yes, that's my belief, that that was not owed to NCRIC. This was, basically, a deposit, just like if you're a landlord you get a security deposit, even though you're not owed the rent, because at the time the rent is going to be in the future, but you have a security deposit on hand to protect your financial interest.
Q. Do you know what facts lead you to have that belief that it was an escrow payment?
MR. LEAHY: Object to the form.
THE WITNESS: I'll use the facts. I was at a meeting with this gentleman and his boss and somebody else. I don't know their names.
MR. LEAHY: By, "this gentleman," he was pointing to Mr. Fargis.
THE WITNESS: Mr. Fargis.
I made a presentation.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. Do you remember when you made the

16d-002756

the, quote, net realizable value.
Q. Do you know or are you familiar, let's say, with the competitive status of the local hospital marketplace here in D.C.?
A. Yes. Obviously, hospitals are in competition with each other to acquire patients as well as doctors, and it is a very competitive environment.
Q. Would you say in your experience Columbia is well positioned to compete against, say, GW and Sibley?
MR. LEAHY: Object to the form. You may answer.
THE WITNESS: I forgot the question.
MR. BADAMI: Can you read it back, please?
(The record was read by the Reporter.)
THE WITNESS: Yes.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. And why would you say that?
MR. LEAHY: Object to the form.
THE WITNESS: Columbia is really a specialty hospital, sort of a boutique. They do a few things and they do it very well. Whereas Sibley and GW are more general hospitals, they do a lot of different procedures, and they don't specialize, for example, in plastic surgery or in birthing.

BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. So you called Columbia, I think you said, a small boutique?
A. It's a boutique, they do a few things, but they do it very well.
Q. You said they have had losses for every year you can recall?
A. I recall they made money many, many years ago.
Q. For the past decade?
A. I think it's fair to say for the past decade they have been operating at a loss.
Q. How would you describe Columbia's financial performance over the past decade?
MR. LEAHY: Object to the form.
THE WITNESS: Basically, they're in trouble.

BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. They have not been performing well, try it that way.
MR. LEAHY: Objection to the form.
THE WITNESS: Financial performance, yes. Medical performance --
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. I was asking financial.
A. Okay.
Q. If I used the term, liquidity, with respect to Columbia, would you have an opinion with respect to whether Columbia would be considered liquid?
MR. LEAHY: Object to the form.
THE WITNESS: I prefer not to use the word, opinion.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. Okay.
A. Basically, the very act of filing for bankruptcy shows poor liquidity. In emerging from bankruptcy you have to show the judge that you have a plan to meet your future cash requirements to emerge from bankruptcy, and the hospital was able to do so, and was allowed by the bankruptcy court to emerge from bankruptcy.

Q. How would you define Columbia's liquidity today?
A. Poor.
Q. How would you define Columbia's ability to access capital?
MR. LEAHY: Object to the form. Are you asking him to define the concept or are you asking him to just describe Columbia's --
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. Describe Columbia's ability to access capital in today's market.
A. They are able to obtain capital; however, it is not at the most favorable rates. Their current cost of capital that I used for my analysis was 10.5 percent, which is what they were paying for their real estate loan, and they have a real estate loan on the hospital building, and that is the cost of capital

Q. You don't know if it's all the doctors or a subset?
A. No.
Q. You didn't do any analysis to determine that?
A. I did read the SEC filing and I did see a reference to, I believe it was, 70 doctors, as I recall, in the SEC filing.
Q. And when did you read that SEC filing?
A. Within the last two weeks.
Q. And did you use any information in the SEC filing for the conclusions you've drawn in your report today?
A. No, I did not.
Q. Can you tell me which SEC filing that might have been?
A. It was either a 10 K or a 10 Q or both; it would be both.
Q. Did you just pull it off the internet?
A. Yes. I should have pulled myself off.
Q. Do you have any knowledge of the Columbia self-insurance malpractice trust fund?

A. Yes, I do.
Q. What do you know about that?
MR. LEAHY: Object to the form.
THE WITNESS: Basically, that is a separate legal entity that's been established to pay malpractice claims against the hospital.
In the past it had a sizeable amount of money, probably in the neighborhood of $10 million or $12 million.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. You say, in the past. When are you referring to?
A. Maybe, six years ago.
Q. So, approximately, 1996?
A. Yes, roughly.
Q. And what happened to the self-insurance trust since then?
A. It's been depleted.
Q. Why has it been depleted?
A. Because they have used it to pay insurance claims and insurance premiums.

Q. Do you know if they have attempted to replenish the trust fund?
A. If they had excess cash available they would have replenished it. I don't believe they have excess cash available at this time.
Q. Do you know if the self-insurance trust fund is currently solvent?
MR. LEAHY: Objection to the form.
THE WITNESS: I don't have the financial records. I would assume there is probably a small balance, but not a large balance.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. When you say small, can you give me whether you're referring to $100 or $1 million?
A. Probably less than $1 million, probably more than $100.
Q. Can you be any more specific?
A. I don't know.
Q. In preparing your report did you review the counter-claim that was filed by Columbia in this case?

A. No.
MR. LEAHY: Are you talking about any particular counterclaim?
MR. BADAMI: The last counterclaim you filed.
MR. LEAHY: Inclusive of all the individual counts?
MR. BADAMI: Correct. Eleven counts.
MR. LEAHY: I'm sorry.
THE WITNESS: I did not review it. I did provide some input. I was asked at an early stage what I thought the results were and I think the wording was tens of millions of dollars.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. Who asked you? What conversation are you referring to?
A. I think that was with counsel, and --
Q. When was it?
A. Early on.
Q. I'm sorry, I don't know when early on is.
A. I'm not sure.

MR. LEAHY: Do you want a representation?
MR. BADAMI: If you can tell me when he talked to you about the counterclaim, sure.
MR. LEAHY: My representation is that my recollection with regard to when I spoke with Mr. Ben Ezra is sometime shortly before the 26(b)(4) Statement in which the tens of millions of dollars figure that he used was drafted and filed, at about that time.
MR. BADAMI: I'll accept that representation.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. But you haven't read the counterclaim that was filed by Columbia against NCRIC in this case?
A. I haven't read it. We did discuss that particular wording.
Q. How did you come up with the tens of millions figure that you used in your Rule 26(b)(4) Statement?
A. I'm not even sure. If you're going to represent that's where it was.
Q. That's what Mr. Leahy just represented to us.

MR. LEAHY: I represented on the record that is what a pleading filed in this action to summarize what it is expected the expert will testify to, Mr. Ben Ezra was consulted with regard to, although he didn't have the data at the time, what it was he expected he would testify to. That's my representation.
THE WITNESS: That is correct.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. Can you tell me how you estimated at that time the tens of millions of dollars?
A. That was an educated guess.
Q. What's on what data?
A. I didn't have data. I had a feeling or belief.
Q. Where did you get the feeling or belief?
A. Based upon my knowledge of the hospital and what was going on and its financial condition.
Q. There is nothing specific you can point to?
A. No.

MR. BADAMI: I would like to show you the 26(b)(4) Statement, if I might. I would ask the court reporter to mark it as Ben Ezra Exhibit No. 11.
(Ben Ezra Exhibit 11 was marked for identification.)
MR. BADAMI: Mr. Ben Ezra, I'm showing you what's been marked as Ben Ezra Exhibit No. 11, and I'll ask you, sir, if you have ever seen it. I'll represent to you that it's two pages long. The document was originally longer, but No. 1 on the first two pages references you, which is what's been copied, which is what identifies you, and what's been copied.
MR. LEAHY: Are you going to represent who this has been signed by?
MR. BADAMI: Off the record.
(Discussion off the record.)
MR. LEAHY: This document was signed by myself, I believe if this is, in fact, the document counsel purports it to be.
MR. BADAMI: I believe it is.
THE WITNESS: I have received Exhibit No.

11. I have not seen Exhibit 11 before.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. Can I ask you to look at the paragraph closest to the bottom on Page 1 where it talks about the substance of the facts and opinions to which Mr. Ben Ezra is expected to testify is, and then it talks about as a proximate result of NCRIC's torts, do you see that?
A. Yes.
Q. I want to just make clear, you don't have any information with respect to causation? You're not here for that purpose, are you?
A. No. I was just given a list and ran my analysis.
Q. Have you reviewed any other pleadings or filings in this case?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Have you reviewed any deposition transcripts in this case?
A. No, I have not.
Q. Have you done any interviews or had any to show the model and the procedure I used to generate those estimates.

Q. But with the exception, then, of that one, I guess, group, or one line in your report, was the rest of your report the same?

A. It was basically the same, yes.

Q. When you say basically the same, I don't mean to split hairs with you, what else?

A. Basically, the model was there. It may have had a couple of typos, but, basically, what you see is that model.

Q. You mentioned this draft report. Were there other previous drafts of your report?

A. No.

Q. So you consider what you produced to us today Version 2?

A. I would say this would be Version 1.

Q. What do you --

A. The draft was, basically, a working paper, a draft of this version.

MR. BADAMI: Off the record.

(Discussion off the record.)

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q. Mr. Ben Ezra, I'd like to focus your attention now on your report.

A. Yes.

Q. On the first page of your report, which is marked 8708, you refer to the NCRIC group of doctors?

A. That's correct.

Q. We've talked about this a little bit, but I would like to confirm again who the NCRIC group of doctors is.

A. The NCRIC group of doctors are the physicians that are listed on Page 8713.

Q. Right.

A. Where I defined the NCRIC group of doctors by their physician name and their number.

Q. Did you determine if any of these doctors maintained hospital privileges at any other District of Columbia hospital?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you determine if any of these physicians maintained hospital admitting privileges in either Suburban Maryland or Northern Virginia?

A. No, I did not. However, I know from my own knowledge that Dr. Edward G. Koch does maintain an office in, I guess it is, Virginia.

Q. We also briefly touched upon this, but I like to focus on the first page with respect to leaving or cutting back. Obviously, leaving means they stopped referring patients at all to Columbia, is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And tell me how you defined cutting back.

A. That the amount of business they brought to the hospital was less than the previous year.

Q. But, again, you made no analysis or investigation into why those doctors may have cut back or left Columbia?

A. No. It was from -- this is a subset of the list that was furnished to me by counsel, which is Exhibit No. 8.

Q. In doing your analysis, Mr. Ben Ezra, did you take into account that some of these doctors might switch back to Columbia Hospital in the future?

A. It's my hope that they will.

Q. Is that included anywhere in your report?

A. No, it is not.

Q. So if a doctor made the decision two years from now to go back to Columbia your numbers would be in error?

A. That's correct. Without saying error, if you would tell me which doctors are going to return, I could run the numbers accordingly and determine the net economic lost.

Q. You indicated a moment ago it is your hope, I believe is your word, that these doctors would return to Columbia. Why is it your hope?

A. So we would not have the scope and magnitude of damages, that the hospital would have their business.

Q. I asked you earlier a little bit about insurance. Do you have any knowledge with respect to the effective dates or the insurance coverages of the breakdown?

A. No, I did not break it down into a subset.
Q. Would that have been helpful to do that analysis?
A. Probably not.
Q. Why not?
A. We don't have the data available. That's part of -- I would like to break it down between inpatient and outpatient, major procedure, minor procedure, even mix of payers, but I don't have that data.
Q. But you'd like to do that if you had the data?
A. If the data was available I certainly would like to do that analysis.
Q. But your testimony is Columbia has not provided you that data?
A. That is correct, has not provided me with the data.
Q. Have you asked for that data?
A. Yes, I have.

Q. Do you know if they have that data?
A. As late as yesterday evening, no, they did not.
Q. You did a projection over the next 20 years?
A. Two different ways.
Q. I'm trying to -- I would like to start, I guess, with how you picked 20 years out in the way you did your analysis?
A. The reason I did 20 years was when you look at the present value of future cash flow, and I draw your attention to the column 20 years will be on Page 8712.
Q. Right.
A. As you go further and further out in time that discount rate eventually goes to zero. So if I had done it for a hundred years the result would not have been much different.
I did it for 20 years in this analysis. I, also, did it by expected age of retirement, which we presumed or I presumed to be 65, and actually I took the month in which the doctor would turn 65.

Q. We'll get to that. Let's start with the 20 years, first.
A. This analysis shows the present value of future cash flow over a 20-year period, but if you were to say, for example -- let's do only ten years, then I have the results for ten years. So for 20 years, using this approach the present value of the lost cash flows would be approximately $22 million. If you were to say, "What if it's only ten," the answer would be a little over $16.5 million.
Q. I recognize that. I recognize that you picked 20 years as the front page of your report.
A. That's correct.
Q. I'm trying to figure out what facts led you to take that 20-year period?
A. That was my experience. I assumed, and this is an assumption, that the lost cash flow would be over a period of 20 years. If you want to say, well, we think ten is better than 20, then the answer would be different, but that answer is disclosed in this report.

Q. Again, you just assumed it. You didn't do any further investigative analysis with respect to why the 20-year number works?
MR. LEAHY: Objection to form.
THE WITNESS: My initial approach was to do it for the 20 years. Then when I did it based on the age of the physician, the result was not much different than the 20 years. Actually, the first approach I used was the 20 years. Then, when I found I could get the data for how old they were and when I could presume, that's an assumption that they would retire on their 65th birthday, I ran those numbers. The results are not materially different between the two.
BY MR. BADAMI:
Q. You mentioned the age 65 issue and I was going to come to that. How did you make the decision to choose 65 as the date that the physician would retire?
A. Okay, again, that's a presumption. My

A. My experience is if a doctor spends time building up their practice they're not going to be willing to give it up.

Q. Are you aware of other hospitals in the District of Columbia metropolitan area who actively try to recruit physicians away from Columbia?

A. No. I do know that that happens.

Q. Would this impact your analysis, if, say, Sibley Hospital recruited doctors to come practice at Sibley?

A. I assume the same is true for Columbia trying to recruit doctors at Sibley to come and work at Columbia.

Q. What I'm asking you, is that contained in your analysis, if the group was recruited to go to Sibley or GW?

A. I make the assumption that they will continue. The doctors that I have met have been at Columbia for, in many cases, several decades, maybe 30 or 40 years. It seems to me from my perception a degree of entropy that a doctor at Columbia is going to stay at Columbia unless they are hit by an outside force hard enough to get off of that track.

Q. What are those outside forces?

A. In this case it may be -- it could be NCRIC.

Q. Do you have any facts to back that up?

A. No. I have a presumption.

Q. But no facts?

A. No facts.

Q. What are the other outside forces that you just referenced? How about Columbia's bankruptcy, could that be an outside force?

A. It's interesting, Columbia's bankruptcy, at least I didn't see any major changes in the doctors I didn't see doctors dropping out of Columbia.

In fact, it looked to me that maybe they increased while we were in bankruptcy. Certainly, there was a lot more support. I mean, the doctors were very supportive of Columbia and they wanted it to stay. As you look at the history of the bankruptcy and taking it out of receivership, it was the doctors that put their blood, sweat and tears to take it out of receivership and take it out of bankruptcy.

Q. Am I understanding your testimony, and I want to be clear that it's your words, the bankruptcy in your view wasn't an outside influence to have doctors leave?

A. I didn't view it as such, no. I don't recall any doctors that left because of the bankruptcy.

Q. How about staffing problems with nurses at Columbia?

A. There is a nursing shortage in Washington, D.C.

Q. I'm specifically referring to a nursing shortage at Columbia which might be one of those outside influences.

A. I don't think it would be a major influence, because, as I understand, all hospitals are undergoing a nursing shortage and they make up for any shortages using outside nursing agencies.

Q. When you say those outside influences, you are not talking about nursing issue?

A. No, I don't think it would be a nursing issue.

Q. How about supply problems; for example, the doctors can't get the supplies they need at the hospital?

A. I don't think that that has been a major problem. Certainly, if there is a supply shortage I'm sure it gets the attention of management very quickly.

Q. I've tried to come up with some things that I thought might have been the outside forces?

A. We're talking entropy, like in the laws of physics, that basically a doctor at Columbia, I will presume, will stay at Columbia, and at least it is my experience and observation that that is true.

Q. Do you have any empirical data to back that up?

A. It would be available at the medical staff. They would have a number of years that the physician has been at Columbia.

Q. You didn't review any of that for the

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

RECEIVED
JAN

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN	)	Next Event: Trial,
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

COLUMBIA'S MOTION TO EXCLUDE EVIDENCE BASED ON DOCUMENTS PRODUCED THREE BUSINESS DAYS BEFORE TRIAL AND DEMONSTRATIVES PRODUCED AFTER THE COURT ORDERED DEADLINE

Nearly three years after they were requested by Columbia, and just three business days before the scheduled start of this trial, NCRIC produced to Columbia 1232 pages of documents that, it represented, NCRIC's experts had "referred to, relied upon, [and] consulted" in forming the opinions to which they intend to testify. Of the 1232 pages produced at the eleventh hour before trial, some 735 are not part of the record in this case, having never been produced in discovery. The day after this belated document production, and two days after the passing of the deadline for the exchange of demonstrative aids, NCRIC produced 50 power point slides based on these newly produced documents, making clear that NCRIC intends to expose the jury to the information contained in NCRIC's untimely document production using untimely demonstrative aids. NCRIC's conduct – two years after the close of discovery and just days before trial – can only be described as sandbagging. It is also fundamentally unfair and prejudicial to Columbia. For this reason, court after court has found that this sort of conduct requires that the newly produced material, as well as any testimony based on that material, be excluded.

BACKGROUND

In March of 2001, Columbia served document requests seeking "any document[s] that [NCRIC's] expert[s] referred to, relied upon, or consulted (whether or not provided by [NCRIC]) in developing a conclusion, preparing a report, or rendering an opinion." Ex. A, Request No. 47. NCRIC responded in April of 2001, claiming that it "ha[d] no documents in [that] category." Ex. B.[1] Shortly after NCRIC's August 9, 2001 designation of its experts in a Rule 26(b)(4) statement, Columbia requested that NCRIC supplement its responses to the document requests. Ex. C. NCRIC ignored this request until late in the evening of January 20, 2004, just three business days before trial was slated to start. That night, NCRIC produced to Columbia over 1200 pages and, quoting from Columbia's 2001 document requests, NCRIC described the materials as documents "'referred to, relied upon or consulted'" by NCRIC's experts "in developing their conclusions in this case." Ex. D. Seven hundred and thirty-five pages of this production represent materials never before seen in this case.

NCRIC did not stop there. The very next day it produced 50 additional pages, comprising slides created for use by its experts as demonstrative aids. Ex. E. The slides were themselves two days late under the Joint Pretrial Statement, which required the parties to exchange any demonstrative aids to be used in their cases-in-chief one week before trial. Ex. F. These demonstratives, moreover, repeatedly cite to and make use of NCRIC's January 20 document production, making entirely clear that NCRIC wishes to put before the jury the substance of the materials contained in that late production. The demonstratives are also rife with rank hearsay, including excerpts from newspaper and journal articles.[2]

[1] While not necessary to make NCRIC's actions sanctionable, it is notable that these documents are responsive to a number of additional requests by Columbia. See Ex. A, No. 27 (seeking all documents "relating to Columbia's finances or financial situation"); id. No. 37 (seeking all documents relating to the "financial health" of Columbia); id. Request No. 44 (seeking all documents relating to "competition between hospitals in the District of Columbia metropolitan area for physicians or staff").

16d-002764

ARGUMENT

It is undisputed that trial courts possess the "inherent power to protect the integrity of the discovery process by imposing a wide range of sanctions for a party's violation of the discovery rules, including the exclusion of evidence." See NCRIC's Motion to Exclude the Testimony of Columbia's Newly Named Witnesses at 3 (filed June 5, 2003) (quoting Nolan v. Nolan, 568 A.2d 479, 487 (D.C. 1990)). It is equally clear that courts deter these kinds of abuses by excluding reliance on such documents at trial precisely because of the prejudice to the opposing party when the producing party flouts the rules. NCRIC's conduct merits such a sanction.

NCRIC's newly produced documents fall within several of the document requests that Columbia served in 2001. And there can be no doubt that NCRIC, even if it lacked these materials when it first responded to Columbia's document requests, had a duty to produce these materials long ago. Rule 26(f)(1) requires parties "seasonably to supplement" their responses with respect to "the substance of [an expert witness]'s testimony." SCR 26(f)(1)(B). Nothing could bear more directly on the substance of an expert witness's testimony than the documents that the expert has referred to, relied upon, or consulted to reach an opinion. NCRIC was further "under a duty seasonably to amend a prior response" to Columbia's document requests once it "obtain[ed] information" showing that its response, although correct at the time, was "no longer true and the circumstances [we]re such that a failure to amend the response [wa]s in substance a knowing concealment." SCR 26(f)(2)(B). Having served these documents upon Columbia with [2] See Ex. E at Moore Expert Report Slides at 16 (quoting a magazine article that in turn quotes a consultant from New York); id. at Henderson Expert Report Slides at 6 (quoting a Washington Post article that in turn quotes a "veteran D.C. health care executive").

---

16d-002765

a cover letter quoting one of the document requests Columbia issued in 2001, NCRIC cannot deny that it was obligated by the Rules to supplement its response. It failed, however, to do just that until late at night three business days before trial.

Trial courts have the "inherent power to apply sanctions for a breach of the duty to supplement responses, including the power to exclude evidence." Sowell v. Walker, 755 A.2d 438, 446 (D.C. 2000) (quoting Corley v. BP Oil Corp., 402 A.2d 1258, 1261 (D.C. 1979)) (affirming decision to exclude testimony not contained in Rule 26(b)(4) statement). And court after court has found the exclusion of evidence to be an appropriate sanction for analogous conduct, even when the prejudice to the opposing party was not nearly as substantial as the prejudice faced by Columbia:

- Courts have imposed such a sanction even when the documents were disclosed well in advance of trial. See, e.g., Giesting v. Storz Instrument Co., 171 F.R.D. 311, 312 (D. Kan. 1997) (excluding documents produced as part of a purported Second Supplemental Final Exhibit List "one month before the scheduled trial date"; the plaintiff was "essentially precluded . . . from having an adequate opportunity to question defendant's witnesses with regard to the newly disclosed documents"); Gallup, Inc. v. Kenexa Corp., No. 00-5523, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9821, at *3, *12-*14 (E.D. Pa. June 2, 2003) (excluding testimony regarding information withheld by defendants during the discovery period, and disclosed months before trial, after plaintiff had filed its expert report; the plaintiff had "prepared for trial using only the more general information" that had been produced earlier and could not "adequately incorporate this new financial information into its case").

- Courts have also imposed the sanction of exclusion when far fewer documents were at issue. See In re Omeprazole Patent Litig., No. M-21-81, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3225, at *4, *7, *11 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 27, 2002) (court excluded both document and related testimony when defendant served upon plaintiff a supplemental expert report discussing a single document that had allegedly been found the month before, shortly before trial began; if the plaintiff "had been given proper notice of the [document] during discovery," it might have collected other documents and interviewed witnesses, investigated the bona fides of those persons who claimed to have received the document, or sought discovery from third parties relating to the document).

- Courts do not hesitate to exclude demonstrative exhibits when circumstances require. See, e.g., Fusco v. General Motors Corp., 11 F.3d 259, 265 (1st Cir. 1993) (affirming exclusion of demonstrative evidence slated to be used by expert at trial when litigant should have seasonably supplemented discovery by producing the evidence but failed to do so).[3]

Here, NCRIC dropped 735 pages of never before seen documents on Columbia three business days prior to the scheduled start of trial, followed thereafter by 50 slides that were two days late under the pretrial statement and replete with references to NCRIC's improper document production. Columbia barely has time even to review the newly disclosed documents and slides,

[3] As additional evidence of the rigor with which such rules are enforced, last Fall, months before trial, the Court granted NCRIC's motion in limine to exclude five of Columbia's witnesses – even though the identities of these individuals had been disclosed to NCRIC for 18 months – because Columbia had not named those witnesses on its initial witness list at the outset of the case, in June of 2001.

16d-002767

much less to explore them fully, or develop any rebuttal to them. Under these circumstances, prejudice is a certainty; and the documents and demonstrative slides at issue – as well as any testimony or argument based upon them – should be excluded.[4]

This remedy is also separately mandated by the hearsay rules. The newly produced documents contain articles clipped from periodicals making assertions that are not subject to cross-examination and quoting persons who will not testify at trial, as well as hearsay reports, whose accuracy cannot reasonably be investigated at this late date, produced by a panoply of private firms and advocacy groups. The slides, which draw heavily upon this rank hearsay, suffer from the same evidentiary infirmities and NCRIC clearly intends to use them as a vehicle to place such hearsay before the jury as substantive evidence.[5] Both Federal Rule of Evidence 703 and its Advisory Committee notes require that hearsay evidence relied on by an expert in forming his or her opinion "shall not be disclosed to the jury . . . unless the court determines that their probative value in assisting the jury to evaluate the expert's opinion substantially outweighs their prejudicial effect." Fed. R. Evid. 703. NCRIC cannot begin to carry the substantial burden that it bears: it cannot show that the probative value of its documents and slides "substantially outweighs" the unquestionably significant prejudice that Columbia faces from the use of evidence produced on the eve of trial, in defiance of long outstanding document requests and the deadline for demonstratives prescribed by the Joint Pretrial Statement.

[4] Nor can NCRIC remotely suggest that it just discovered these documents. Many of them are several years old. As just a few examples, the production includes reports by the American Institute for Certified Public Accountants from 1993 and 1999; a survey of "physician recruitment trends" that purports to have been completed in September of 2002; articles from periodicals such as the Washington Post, Washington Times, and Healthline ranging in dates from 1998 to 2003; District of Columbia Hospital Association Financial Indicators reports for fiscal years 1997 to 2001; and a draft briefing paper for the D.C. Department of Health dated February of 2002.

CONCLUSION

NCRIC has, in a flurry of activity at the eleventh hour, produced a vast collection of hearsay documents and demonstratives, without providing Columbia any notice or time to analyze and rebut the assertions that they contain. For reasons of fairness, as well as the undue prejudice that exposing the jury to hearsay of this sort creates, this Court should enter an order prohibiting NCRIC or its witnesses from making any use of the withheld documents and the late-produced slides that depend upon and make repeated use of them. A proposed order is attached.

---

[5] E.g., Ex. E at Moore Expert Report Slides at 6 (graph based on DCHA Financial Indicators); id. at 9 (graph based on DCHA Utilization Indicators); id. at 10 (graph based on D.C. Infant Mortality Study); id. at 12 (graph including information from Ingenix Financial Indicators); id. at 13 (graph based on DCHA Financial Indicators); id. at 16 (quoting Modern Healthcare magazine); id. at 18-19 (quoting a Solucient report); id. at 21-22 (graph including information from Ingenix Financial Indicators); id. at 24 (quoting a report by the HHS Inspector General); id. at 25-27 (graph based on a report by the HHS Inspector General and DCHA Utilization Indicators); id. at 28 (graph based in part on a report by the HHS Inspector General); Henderson Expert Report Slides at 6 (quoting a Washington Post article); id. at 8 (graph based on D.C. Infant Mortality Study).

16d-002769

DATED: January 28, 2004

Respectfully submitted,

Neil M. Gorsuch, D.C. Bar # 456411
Eli C. Schulman, D.C. Bar # 472879
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

16d-002770

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 -- Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Trial, January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

ORDER

UPON CONSIDERATION of Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff Columbia Hospital For Women Medical Center, Inc.'s Motion to Exclude Evidence Based on Documents Produced Three Business Days Before Trial and Demonstratives Produced After the Court Ordered Deadline, it is hereby ORDERED that plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. is precluded from offering testimony or evidence at trial related to or based on the 735 pages of material that NCRIC produced for the first time on January 20, 2004. NCRIC is further precluded from using the demonstrative aids it provided on January 21, 2004, after the deadline prescribed by the Court for the exchange of such materials.

ENTERED this ____ day of _____, 2004.

_____
Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

Copies to:

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(fax) (202) 326-7999

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20005-3960
(fax) (202) 508-6200

Roy I. Niedermayer, Esq.
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814
(fax) (301) 951-4456

Attorneys for:
PLAINTIFF/COUNTER-DEFENDANT
NCRIC, INC.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Jessica Bartlow, hereby certify that on this 28th day of January, 2004, a copy of the foregoing was served upon the following by hand delivery:

Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20005-3960

I further certify that, on this 28th day of January, 2004, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned papers was served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.

Jessica Bartlow

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

January 28, 2004

Via Hand Delivery
Clerk of the Court
Civil Division Clerk's Office
Superior Court of the District of Columbia
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Room JM170
Washington, D.C. 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Sir or Madam:

Enclosed for filing is an original and one copy of Columbia's Response to NCRIC's Attempt to Introduce Incomplete Documents as Trial Exhibits. Please date-stamp one copy and return it to the messenger in the enclosed self-addressed envelope.

Thank you for your assistance in this matter. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at (202) 326-7978.

Sincerely,

Neil M. Gorsuch

Enclosures

16d-002774

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

January 28, 2004

Via Hand Delivery
The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Room 3540
Washington, D.C. 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Judge Blackburne-Rigsby:

Please find enclosed a courtesy copy of Columbia's Motion to Exclude Evidence Based on Documents Produced Three Business Days Before Trial and Demonstratives Produced After the Court Ordered Deadline.

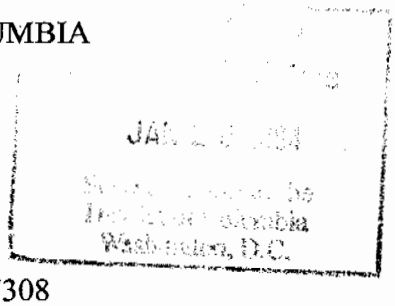
Respectfully submitted,

Neil M. Gorsuch

Enclosures

16d-002775

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division



NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Trial, January 27, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

PRAECIPE REGARDING DEPOSITION DESIGNATIONS RIPE FOR DECISION

Columbia hereby submits this Praecipe to notify the Court that certain objections associated with the deposition designations Columbia intends to read at trial are ripe for decision.

Pursuant to the Court's directive at the Status Conference of December 19, 2003, the parties embarked on a process for exchange of deposition designations. Columbia designated certain deposition excerpts that it wishes to read during its case-in-chief. In turn, NCRIC was provided with an opportunity to offer any counter-designations and objections it wished. NCRIC chose to offer various counter-designations, but it raised no objections. Finally, Columbia designated certain rebuttal designations and made a handful of objections to NCRIC's counter-designations; it is these objections that are now ready for the Court's review and ruling.

The relevant deposition transcripts are attached. At the front of each deposition transcript is a chart summarizing the parties' designations, counter-designations, rebuttal designations, as well as the objections at issue before the Court. A column for the Court's rulings on those objections is also provided for the Court's convenience. Columbia wishes to read these depositions during the second or third day of trial, in advance of its expert taking the stand, and appreciates the Court's attention to this matter.

For the Court's ease of use, the enclosed deposition transcripts also have been color-coded, and the objections have been noted in the margins. Columbia designations are coded in blue; NCRIC's counter-designations in yellow; and Columbia's rebuttal designations in pink.

DATED: January 28, 2004

Respectfully submitted,

Mark C. Hansen, D.C. Bar # 425930
Neil M. Gorsuch, D.C. Bar # 456411
Eli C. Schulman, D.C. Bar # 472879
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

16d-002777

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Eli C. Schulman, hereby certify that, on this 28th day of January 2004, copies of the foregoing Praecipe Regarding Deposition Designations Ripe for Decision were served upon the following by hand delivery:

Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

I further certify that, on this 28th day of January 2004, courtesy copies of the aforementioned papers were served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.

Jessica Bartlow

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

January 28, 2004

Via Hand Delivery
Clerk of the Court
Civil Division Clerk's Office
Superior Court of the District of Columbia
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Room JM170
Washington, D.C. 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Sir or Madam:

Enclosed for filing is an original and one copy of Praecipe Regarding Deposition Designations Ripe for Decision. Please date-stamp one copy and return it to the messenger in the enclosed self-addressed envelope.

Thank you for your assistance in this matter. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at (202) 326-7978.

Sincerely,

Neil M. Gorsuch

Enclosures

16d-002779

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

January 28, 2004

Via Hand Delivery
The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Room 3540
Washington, D.C. 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Judge Blackburne-Rigsby:

Please find enclosed a courtesy copy of Praecipe Regarding Deposition Designations Ripe for Decision.

Respectfully submitted,

Neil M. Gorsuch

Enclosures

16d-002780

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC., Plaintiff.
V.	Civil Action No. 7308-00
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, Defendant.

Washington, D.C.
Wednesday
January 28, 2004

The above-entitled action came on for a trial before the Honorable ANNA BLACKBURN-RIGSBY, Associate Judge, and a jury empaneled and sworn, in Courtroom Number 48A, commencing at approximately 11:32 a.m.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS THE TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

APPEARANCES:

On behalf of the Plaintiff:

RODNEY F. PAGE, Esquire
SCOTT M. BADAMI, Esquire
Washington, D.C.

On behalf of the Defendant:

NEIL M. GORSUCH, Esquire
ELI C. SCHULMAN, Esquire
PRIYA AIYAR, Esquire
Washington, D.C.

16d-002781

THE JUROR: Yes, I served before on one jury.

THE COURT: Here in Washington, D.C.?

THE JUROR: Yes.

THE COURT: Do you remember how long ago it was?

THE JUROR: Just a few years.

THE COURT: Do you recall whether it was a criminal or civil case?

THE JUROR: I'm not sure. But it was a charge against two police officers.

THE COURT: And question number eight was whether you or a family member were born at Columbia Hospital for Women or ever received treatment at Columbia Hospital for Women.

THE JUROR: Yes, two of my sister's children were born there and I have received treatment there.

THE COURT: Do you have an opinion, either positive or negative, about the hospital?

THE JUROR: Not extreme but it is basically positive or I wouldn't want to continue going there.

THE COURT: And you answered yes to question 20 with a question mark that you may have recognized one of the names.

16d-002782

THE JUROR: Yes, Dr. Morton Roberts may be an associate of my gynecologist.

THE COURT: And I don't recall whose witness that was.

MR. PAGE: Both.

THE COURT: And question number 26 was whether you had ever brought a claim against an insurance company.

THE JUROR: Just for my medical -- regular, ordinary medical and dental claims.

THE COURT: Okay. Any follow-up questions from counsel?

MR. PAGE: Nothing for us.

MR. GORSUCH: No, thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you.

THE JUROR: Your Honor, could I offer something in addition?

THE COURT: Sure.

THE JUROR: I did not write down number 12 because I don't think that it would affect my ability to be fair in the deliberations but I would like the parties to know that my sister has a severely-challenged child who has been accepted at Kennedy Kreiger Institute at Johns Hopkins in a

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC., Plaintiff.	:
V.	:	Civil Action No. 7308-00
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, Defendant.	:

Washington, D.C.
Thursday
January 29, 2004

The trial in the above-entitled action was resumed before the Honorable ANNA BLACKBURN-RIGSBY, Associate Judge, and a jury empaneled and sworn, in Courtroom Number 48A, commencing at approximately 9:46 a.m.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS THE TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

APPEARANCES:

[As previously noted.]

16d-002784

Q Did the hospital have adequate staffing?
A Yes.
Q Supplies?
A Uh-huh.
Q Was the equipment up to date?
A Yes.
Q Were you aware of the community outreach committee of the board as well?
A I was. I was very much aware of it because when I went onto the board, at some point when I was on the board, I said to the CEO, Pat Caine at the time, that I noticed that there wasn't anything called a community outreach committee. So there wasn't really a function -- there didn't seem to be a function that was apparent. And I said as a nonprofit organization there really should be. So they developed -- the administration developed an ad hoc community outreach committee. And later I said, if you're really going to be a nonprofit, this committee should not be ad hoc. It should be a standing committee of the board, which it became. And you sometimes have to be careful what you ask for because then I was asked to be chair of the community outreach committee. So I spent probably a number of years as chair of the outreach committee.

Q Was the teen center one of the things you were involved in that capacity?

A Yes, it was. Capitol Hill Hospital actually started a teen center and then later the hospital -- the Capitol Hill Hospital was unable to keep it going and so Columbia took over the facility. First I think it was actually in Capitol Hill Hospital and then later on we expanded it and moved it out of the hospital. So that it could serve more people and was accessible I think to a subway line.

Q Where was the teen center located?

A It was on Capitol Hill somewhere at a point -- the Northeast and the Southeast and -- it becomes a little bit difficult to tell which sector you're in.

Q Is that geographically separated from the hospital?

A Oh, absolutely, it was on the other side of town from the hospital. That was very important because it was more accessible to the people that needed it in that location, rather than being at the hospital. Although we had a clinic at the hospital as well.

So I would go after work or on Saturdays or that sort of thing. The remainder of my time on the board.

Q And you said you served as chairman of the board as well --

A Yes.

Q -- during this period '97?

A Yes.

Q In your decade plus of experience with Columbia as a patient and a board member, did you observe whether Columbia doctors have short or long tenures at the hospital?

A Long tenures. Very long tenures user.

Q What do you mean by that?

A Well, you know, I saw the same doctors -- I got to know the doctors. And certainly the years I was on the performance improvement committee where I had significant contact with doctors because they were on my committee, and through the time I was chair of the board, you know, I saw people constantly. I was in the office or in the hospital for ten hours a day. So I knew a lot of the doctors and so I knew that they'd been there for a long time.

Q Did you also attend meetings of the medical staff, the doctors staff?

A I did. As chair of the board I attended all the medical staff monthly meetings because I just felt it was important that they know what was going on in the hospital. And I wanted them to know that I was concerned about them and their welfare and wanted to give them as up-to-date and good information as I could give them.

Q Can you explain what the medical staff is?

A The doctors. Basically the doctors that practice in the hospital.

Q Do they have privileges at other hospitals?

A They can have privileges at other hospitals but they certainly have to have privileges at Columbia.

Q What makes them distinct as a body of medical staff of Columbia?

A I'm not sure I understand your question.

Q Is there some expectation that the medical staff would refer their patients predominantly to Columbia?

A Well, of course.

Q Could you explain that?

A Well, the medical staff, that's how your patients really come. I mean, you have to have a person that practices at the hospital to admit the patient and to take care of the patient. And so a significant amount of your patient population comes through the doctors at your hospital.

THE DEPUTY CLERK: Excuse me.

(The courtroom tape ran out.)

THE DEPUTY CLERK: Your Honor, for the record NCRIC versus Columbia Hospital for Women. Counsel you may proceed.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q I think the question pending, Ms. Chamblee, did the hospital have any expectations whether its medical staff would refer most of its patients to the hospital.

A Yes, it expected its medical staff to refer patients to the hospital.

Q Why is that?

A Because that was basically the way patients came into the hospital, is through the medical staff.

Q Doctors who chose to serve at Columbia?

A That's right.

Q And send most of their patients there?

A Yes.

Q Did you ever during your service from '87 all the way through '97 ever see an exodus of 30 attending faculty members?

A No, never.

Q How about in a six-month period, did you ever see anything like that happen, over six months?

A No.

Q Over a year?

A No.

Q Did you ever see anything like that happen over two years?

A No, I never saw an exodus like that.

Q As a board member and chairman, would you have known about a mass exodus of doctors if it had occurred during your tenure?

A Of course, I would have known. First of all, as chair of the performance improvement committee, I would have clearly known and been very concerned about it. But as a board member and certainly as chair of the board, I would have been very concerned about such an exodus. You know because the medical staff is the life blood of the hospital. When you have medical staff, you have medicine?

A 1989.

Q What's your medical speciality.

A OB/GYN.

Q I'd like to move on and talk about your involvement with Columbia. Did you work in Columbia's clinic?

A Yes.

Q When was that?

A I believe I worked in the clinic in -- I may have started working in the clinic in about 1998 maybe.

Q And what were your responsibilities for the clinic?

A I was assigned a half a day in the general OB/GYN clinic to essentially take care of the clinic patients. And also I did some night call where we actually covered labor and delivery, covered the whole hospital essentially as a physician that was in the house, in the hospital.

Q So when you were on call for the clinic were you on call from home or actually from the hospital?

A In the clinic -- you know, the clinic setting is just like a private office setting. You just see patients in the clinic. You're there from the time the clinic starts until you finishing seeing patients. The night call, you know, was a requirement that you in the hospital during that period. It could be 12 hours, it could be 24 hours. But it was in-hospital coverage.

Q So what hours would you typically be on call?

A I believe call always started at 8:00 a.m. and would last for 24 hours.

Q And what sorts of problems or medical emergencies would you deal with while you were on call?

A In general mostly it was management of labor, you know, doing deliveries and taking care of the few emergencies that may arise. Because there was no emergency room, we didn't have an actual emergency room, periodically there were clinic patients with an urgent problem. We had a way to see them in the hospital and manage and take care of their urgent problems.

Q And was that a benefit to the attending faculty at Columbia, that doctors like you were on call at the hospital 24 hours?

A Certainly. You know, in our specialty gynecology.

Q And was there also a specialized oncology clinic of sort?

A Yeah, I believe there was a -- there was a physician who had an office upstairs. I think his name was Dr. Boyce. And he would receive referrals from our clinic on those patients who had issues that were -- that could potentially be cancerous. I don't know whether he actually saw patients down in the actual physical clinic setting but I know that we at times would refer our patients up to his office, which was I believe on the second floor of the hospital.

Q So when you saw clinic patients, if they needed specialized care, could you refer them to any one of these other specialized clinics?

A Yes.

Q And what happened when a patient came into the clinic who didn't have medical insurance and couldn't afford to pay for care?

A That was a frequent issue and there was a system set up that would assist those patients in getting insurance. So there would be some counselors there that would assess their financial state and, you know, see whether they were eligible for D.C. medical assistance or whatever kind of, you know, assistance that was available to them. So there were dedicated counselors that were there on a full-time basis that did that type of assessment and help for the people who didn't have insurance.

Q Did you treat the patients first before you sent them to these counselors?

A Sometimes, yes. Sometimes, no. Sometimes we knew beforehand that they needed to go through the counselor. And then there were times where we provided care first and then had them referred to the counselors so they could have their insurance in order or whatever it is -- whatever kind of financial arrangements in order. It was primarily the pregnant patient where you had a little more time, you know, you had an idea about when they were going to deliver. You had a little more time to work with them to get their insurance issues resolved. You could see them, refer them to the counselors. You know, they would work while we were continuing to provide care. So, you know, care wasn't restricted because of inability to pay.

Q And where did clinic patients tend to come from geographically?

A Most of the patients came from Southeast. There was a good number of the population that came from Southeast. There was a good percentage of the population that came from Southwest. They traveled across town. Initially I thought that was -- you know, was pretty strange they would travel all the way across town passing other hospitals to come to Columbia. And there was also a group of patients that had chartered health plan or chartered insurance. And there would be a bus that would come every day that would bring patients, you know, to the back of the hospital. They would come in and come to the clinic and the bus would wait and take them back home. So -- but, you know, in looking at the demographics there was a large population of patients that came from east of the river.

Q Now, Doctor, do you recall a time when NCRIC stopped insuring physicians for their work in the Columbia clinic?

A I recall a time when there was an insurance issue where there was a change in the insurance.

Q And did that change affect -- how did that affect whether physicians could work in the Columbia clinic if they were insured by NCRIC?

A There was a period of time where there were a lot of physicians who elected to work either on call in the hospital and work in the clinic. So getting hours was something that was a little difficult to do for a long period of time. And then there was -- if something happened and then we didn't have enough physicians to cover all of the slots that, you know, were available. There were times where clinics had to be canceled because there wasn't enough physicians. And there were physicians who actually left the hospital and left the clinic at that time. Whatever that -- whatever occurred caused, you know -- caused an exodus of physicians and, you know, it affected the scheduling of clinics.

Q So the NCRIC insurance issue affected whether physicians were able to work in the clinic?

MR. PAGE: Objection, leading.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MS. AIYAR:

Q How did this NCRIC insurance issue affect physicians?

MR. PAGE: Objection, no foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained.

A I believe, again, that was in 2000. That was, you know, somewhere like in the fall of 2000.

Q Do you remember whether doctors left Columbia around that time?

A Yes.

Q Do you remember about how many doctors left?

A It seemed that about half of the doctors that were delivering care at Columbia, you know, left within a short period of time, you know, right around the time that that occurred.

Q And based on your personal observations, did you know why these doctors left?

A Based on not only my personal observation but what was actually conveyed to me was --

MR. PAGE: Objection, hearsay.

BY MS. AIYAR:

Q Just based on your personal observations.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, I object if any of this is based on conversations, which is what he started to say. He should be instructed --

THE COURT: The objection is sustained. The doctor can testify based on his own personal observations only.

THE WITNESS: Based on my personal observation there was a period of time where there was a number of doctors leaving at one time.

BY MS. AIYAR:

Q Had you ever seen this many doctors leave Columbia all at around the same time?

A No.

Q And was this period of time close to the time when NCRIC announced that it was terminating the retro plan?

A Yes.

Q Do you know where most of these doctors went?

A Yes.

Q What hospitals did they go to or most of them?

A Most of them went to really three hospitals: Washington Hospital Center, George Washington Hospital, and Sibley.

Q Did Sibley and George Washington have retro plans with NCRIC?

A Yes.

Q How did this loss of doctors affect how busy the hospital was?

A Well, it had a tremendous impact. A labor and delivery area where at times there would

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC., Plaintiff.
V.	Civil Action No. 7308-00
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, Defendant.

Washington, D.C.
Friday
January 30, 2004

The trial in the above-entitled action was resumed before the Honorable ANNA BLACKBURN-RIGSBY, Associate Judge, and a jury empaneled and sworn, in Courtroom Number 48A, commencing at approximately 2:45 p.m., pursuant to the continuance on January 29, 2004.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS THE TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

APPEARANCES:

[As previously noted.]

16d-002799

Now, the center has a component for it. We have a low income mammography center in Betty Ford. Which means for those who cannot afford, we give them free mammograms. And not only free mammograms. If we found something abnormal, we take them to Columbia and we treat them.

Q I ask you to turn to page 2179 of that same exhibit. Just ask you what is that?

A This is the low income mammography, something about the description of the low mammography program in the Betty Ford Comprehensive Breast Center.

Q Were you aware of any other hospital in the District that gave away free cancer surgery to low income patients?

A I'm aware of mammograms but I'm not aware in any place where if they diagnose you have a problem, they take care of you.

Q How many free mammograms did Columbia give out every year?

A In excess of 2000.

Q How many members of the attending faculty on the staff were there, Doctor?

A About 80.

Q Did Columbia have reason to expect that its doctors would refer their patients to Columbia?

A Yes.

Q Can you explain that?

A Yes. The attending faculty at Columbia are self-selected and self-elected. They have elected to band together to form what we call the faculty of Columbia. And they are bound by their history of admitting the bulk of their patients to Columbia and by their futuristic expectation that they're going to admit all their future patients to Columbia Hospital.

Q Even though they had privileges at other hospitals?

A Yes, even if they had privileges in other hospitals.

Q Like you had privileges at other hospitals?

A Yes. When I was at Columbia, I had privileges at Sibley but I admitted all my patients to Columbia.

Q And that's what it meant to be on the medical staff?

A Yes.

Q Do you know if other hospitals had similar expectations of their doctors?

A Probably some of them did.

Q How significant were these attending faculty doctors to the financial help of Columbia insuring its future?

A These physicians brought the bulk of the income to Columbia Hospital for Women.

Q What did that mean though in terms of the hospital's ability to operate?

A This means that the hospital depended on the business that its attending faculty bring in to continue to operate. No doctors, no patients, no hospital.

Q Columbia couldn't survive without its doctors?

A Not for a minute.

Q Do you know whether the executives at NCRIC were aware of this fact?

A I'm sure they were.

Q How long did doctors at Columbia intend to stay? Did they stay a few years or their entire careers?

A For a long, long, long years.

Q Were they loyal?

A They were.

Q Do you know what age attending faculty tended to retire?

A They stayed for a long time beyond 65.

Q Did the hospital also have full time doctors? Did it employ full time doctors who work simply in the clinic?

A Yes, the hospital did.

Q Was Dr. Proctor one of these?

A Yes, sir.

Q He was an employee of the hospital?

A To work in the clinic in Columbia Hospital for Women, yes, sir.

Q Did the existence of the clinic doctors also help and have any role in recruiting attending faculty doctors?

A The clinic doctors, while they administered and gave care to people who want it, had another function. Their function was they were present in the hospital 24 hours a day, seven days a week so that if a physician is late to deliver his or her patient, the clinic doctor would step in. Because he or she were board certified obstetrician and gynecologist. And if a physician is stuck in a case, then that clinic doctor will be there to help and to manage. So it added an extra layer or an extra net of safety to the whole thing.

Q Safety to the patients?

A Safety to the patients, absolutely.

Q Comfort to the doctors?

A Comfort to the doctors. And making sure that clinical care is administered by competent people all the time.

Q Did that fact and the existence of the clinical doctors being there all the time help as a recruiting tool to attending faculty doctors?

A Absolutely. Because obstetricians need, in case of emergency, somebody to be there in the hospital who's a board certified obstetrician/gynecologist to take care of the patients all the time. And if obstetrician is in some other Hospital's or stuck in traffic or cannot make it for the delivery, there is a competent, specialized physician in Columbia to take care of events.

Q If you lose the clinic doctors and they can't work, what effect does that have on the operations of the hospital?

A You lose your safety net.

Q Does that also make it difficult to recruit other doctors to come work on the attending faculty?

A It will make it very difficult to recruit obstetricians to admit to a hospital that has no coverage from physicians in case there is an emergency.

Q Directing your attention to the early 1990s. Do you know what the trends were in terms of costs for medical malpractice insurance for OB/GYN doctors?

A They were going up.

Q How bad is the problem?

A Bad.

Q Did Columbia decide to do something about it for its doctors?

A Yes, Columbia decided to do something to retain, first, doctors in the city in Washington, D.C., so that doctors do not get out of the city and, second, to retain them for Columbia Hospital for Women, yes.

Q Was this Columbia's initiative or was this NCRIC's idea?

A Columbia's initiative.

Q What did Columbia decide to do?

A Columbia decided to do give the physicians a discount of a certain percentage and Columbia will shoulder the responsibility for that

16d-002805

Q Why not?

A Because we want to see the closure of each year and wait for all the claims have closed and then make our final calculations.

Q Did you trust NCRIC?

A Of course.

Q And trust them to hold your $150,000 safe?

A Absolutely.

Q To pay interest?

A Yes, we trusted them.

Q As president of the medical staff and later chairman of the board, would you have known if there were an agreement -- if the agreement to wait until all claims had closed and resolved had changed, if that agreement had changed or ended in any way?

A I'm not aware of that.

Q But as chairman of the board would you have known if there had been such a change in the parties' agreement?

A Absolutely.

Q Let me turn your attention to 1997. Was there a written contract in place between NCRIC and Columbia at that time?

A No.
Q When did it expire?
A The retro plan expired in September of '96.
Q Did the parties continue to operate without a contract?
A Yes, we continued to operate without a contract as if there was a retro plan.
Q How long?
A Till 1998, beginning of 1998.
Q Did NCRIC send out termination notices?
A No.
Q Did it send out bills without undiscounted premiums to the doctors?
A No.
Q Did the doctors continue to receive your discounts even though there wasn't a written contract in place?
A They continued to receive their discounts.
Q At some point in time did the parties start discussing a new contract?
A Yes.
Q And what was NCRIC's position?
A In 1997, late 1997 NCRIC came to administration, a structured meeting. I remember I was there. Dr. Asterbadi was there. The CO was there. Mr. Fargis and Mr. Burgess were in attendance. And they told us that if we ever want to continue with retro plan and have a contract that we need to come up with some money.

16d-002807

Q How much?

A They told us that they are aware of the hospital's precarious financial condition and that they would require, in the beginning they said $1.7 million. Which they admit is not due them under the plan but that they needed because of what they described as the hospital's bad financial condition. And that unless we pay that there is going to be no contract, no retro plan, and no discount.

Q What did Columbia do?

A Well, Columbia asked what would happen first to the money. And NCRIC continued to characterize that this money is Columbia's money. It will stay on Columbia's books. It will be with NCRIC as a custodian and it will earn the same interest rate, between 12 and 6 percent, but that if we cannot pay it, there's going to be no contract and there's going to be no retro plan.

Q Who told you all this?
A Mr. Fargis and Mr. Burgess.
Q Did anyone ever say this is a payment of money?
A There was no payment due under any plan. They admit that. They just needed the money to -- as a deposit with them. It will remain on our books. It's actually our money. They are the custodians. And they mandated this not because the plan mandated it because they came and told us that they know we are in a precarious financial condition and, therefore, they demanded $1.7 million, which later they put it down to a million dollars.
Q If you could turn your attention to Defendant's Exhibit 79. Doctor, what is this?
A This is something that -- about the retro program that we have received on October of '99.
Q The date in upper left-hand corner?
A Yes.
Q And who provided this?
A NCRIC.
Q And what does this document purport to be?
A This is the document to explain on the year-to-date plan '94 to '95, '95 to '96, '96 to '97 going onward.

Q Is a million dollars recorded in there?

A Yes, it's recorded as a Columbia deposit.

Q Can you show us where it is?

A It is actually just towards the three quarters down the page under losses. There is a retro premium due and there is Columbia deposit. And Columbia deposit between parenthesis a million dollars.

Q And that's just highlighted up on the screen at the moment?

A Yes, sir.

Q And so this is a NCRIC document and this is how they describe it to you?

A Yes.

Q I'm going to ask that we push that up to one side and bring up Defendant's Exhibit 81. What is this document, Doctor?

A This is a document provided by NCRIC in September 1 of 2000.

Q And it's another reconciliation statement of the parties dealings?

A Actually, this was one of their communications with reconciliation which was interest that we can -- counted on our money. They converted it suddenly to a payment. They took the money.

Q Did you agree to that?

A Never.

Q Was it discussed with you?

A No.

Q Anyone at the hospital?

A With nobody.

Q Have you asked for the million dollars back?

A We did.

Q Has NCRIC ever returned a million dollars security deposit?

A NCRIC's answer to that was the lawsuit on October 3rd.

Q Let's talk for a minute about where Columbia got the million dollars for the security deposit to give to NCRIC. Where did it come from?

A The million dollars came from the self-insurance trust.

Q What's a self-insurance trust?

A Self-insurance trust is money that Columbia put one way, doesn't come back. Once it goes to the trust, it stays there and that money the board concerned about there?

A That NCRIC will switch from being physician owned to become a wall street company.

Q Why was that of concern for a not-for-profit hospital?

A Because that makes the profits for NCRIC of paramount importance.

Q There's another con under NCRIC. Reads has had a near monopoly in the past. What was the board's discussion of consideration here?

A The board was discussing that there is a near monopoly on the insurance market in Washington, D.C., by NCRIC. And that the board was cognizant of the fact that you're not going to get lower premium if you don't get competitors to the area if monopoly still holds.

Q Do you know how malpractice premiums in the District compare with those in Maryland?

A In the District they're much higher.

Q How about compare them to Virginia?

A In the District they are much higher.

Q Do you know whether there is more competition among insurance companies in Maryland as compared to D.C.?

MR. PAGE: Objection, Your Honor. There is no foundation for this testimony.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Do you know, Doctor, whether there is more competition? Just yes or no, do you know whether there is more competition in Virginia among insurance companies?

A Yes.

Q Do you know whether there's more competition among insurance companies in Maryland?

A Yes.

Q Was the board interested in bringing competition to the District?

A The board was interested in saving money for the hospital. We were in bankruptcy and we were interested in making sure we get the best deal for us and for the hospital and for the physician.

Q Did the board make any finding about why the costs were so much more expensive in D.C.?

A Yes. Because with no competition there's always high premiums.

Q I'm going to ask you to turn to one of the pros under MIIX, Doctor. It's the last one actually. Lower total final cost for all participants?

Q Goes on to say, NCRIC stands ready to discuss with Columbia other needs they may have and alternatives that may better suit them. However, should Columbia not wish to continue its program with NCRIC, we will be contacting the members shortly to discuss alternatives for the renewal on January 1, '99, that will provide everyone the same savings opportunities that they currently enjoy.

What was your understanding about the phrase alternatives to renewal? Alternatives for renewal on January 1, 1999.

A That they're going to take our doctors away.

Q Why?

A Because we are not having a retro plan with them.

Q There was going to be no alternative with NCRIC at Columbia?

A We already voted to go with MIIX at that time.

Q Talks about some savings opportunities that the doctors currently enjoy. What were those?

A The doctors had no savings with the NCRIC program. The savings was for NCRIC.

Q I'm sorry, Doctor, the savings was what?

and to the physicians of the hospital that I am the chairman of the board of. And I thought I'm going to attend anyhow, uninvited, because I was a NCRIC policy holder.

Q You were insured personally by NCRIC at that time?

A Yes, I was.

Q Again, who's present for NCRIC at these meetings?

A Mr. Pate and Mr. Fargis, I think Mr. Burgess.

Q Did Mr. Fargis or Mr. Pate discuss what the Columbia doctors should do if the hospital in fact went with MIIX?

A Yes, they did.

Q Who talked about that issue.

A Mr. Pate.

Q What did he say?

A He says that the doctors -- Columbia does not have a retro plan. The doctors should leave and go to another hospital that has it.

Q Did they specify which hospitals?

A The hospitals that have it. Other programs they said.

Q With NCRIC, programs with NCRIC?

A Yes.

THE COURT REPORTER: I'm sorry, wait a minute. Would you say that again.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q I'm sorry. Did he specify what kind of hospitals?

A No, he said other programs with NCRIC.

Q Did Mr. Fargis or Mr. Pate say anything about the leaders of Columbia Hospital at this meeting?

A Yes, he did.

Q Let's start with Mr. Pate. Did he say something to that effect?

A He did.

Q What did he say?

A He said that Columbia's leadership saying that it cannot afford the payment of cash is not true. They're not saying the truth. Although at that time we were in chapter 11. And, second, he said that bringing MIIX to Washington does not benefit the physicians, it benefits some of the board members part of Columbia Hospital for Women.

Q Could you explain what he meant by that?

A He meant that some members of the board were stand to benefit from the MIIX proposal.

Q Personally?
A That's what I understood, personally.
Q How many doctors did he say that in front of?
A 15.
Q Is that true?
A That was untrue.
Q Did any of the Columbia leadership have anything personal to gain out of MIIX coming, other than lower premiums?
A Nothing.
Q Let's talk about the second meeting. Were you invited to that one?
A The second meeting was more public. So I read the poster and I went. It was in a hotel in front of the hospital and I went there.
Q Did NCRIC bother to contact you as chairman of the board and president of the medical staff about it?
A No.
Q You had to read the poster on a notice board?
A I knew it by reading something, either a poster or a circular.
Q Did NCRIC show doctors power point slides

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

RECEIVED
Civil Clerk's Office
JAN 23

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN	)	Next Event: Trial,
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

COLUMBIA'S MOTION FOR ADDITIONAL SANCTIONS WITH RESPECT TO NCRIC'S LATE-PRODUCED EXPERT DOCUMENTS AND SLIDES

On January 28, 2004, the Court invited Columbia to propose additional sanctions to address NCRIC's production of 50 separate slides and 735 pages worth of never before seen hearsay documents three business days before the scheduled start of trial. Columbia respectfully submits that an additional ruling is in order. A brief review of NCRIC's slides and underlying materials demonstrate that NCRIC wishes to use its experts in at least three distinct ways that it never disclosed in its Rule 26(b)(4) statements. Lacking any time to prepare a rebuttal to expert theories that should have been revealed years ago, Columbia would be irreparably prejudiced should NCRIC's experts be permitted to testify to these never-disclosed opinions. Columbia therefore seeks an order limiting NCRIC's experts to testifying within the scope of their Rule 26(b)(4) statements.

Discussion

I. NCRIC HAS SOUGHT – AT THE LAST MINUTE – TO INTRODUCE AT LEAST THREE NEW, PREVIOUSLY UNDISCLOSED EXPERT THEORIES

A. NCRIC's Seasonably Disclosed Expert Theories

On August 9, 2001, NCRIC served Columbia with its Rule 26(b)(4) statement. Ex. A. In that filing, NCRIC disclosed several potential expert witnesses, including Steven Moore, W. McKay Henderson, and Mary Woodford. NCRIC stated that Moore would "provide testimony involving a market analysis of the hospital and healthcare market in the District of Columbia Metro area, impact of certain financial and market factors such as admissions, reimbursement levels, demographics, staffing, revenue cycles, etc. on the financial stability of a hospital and the defendant." Id. at 2 (emphasis added). NCRIC disclosed that Henderson and Woodford would testify to an "assess[ment] of the various damage elements that defendants have stated." Id. at 1. All three of these witnesses were also designated to testify that "the damages allegedly suffered by defendant are . . . the result of factors other than those alleged by defendant," and that if any damages were found to be related to tortious activity on NCRIC's part, "the amount of damages caused by plaintiff's activities is less than as calculated by defendant's experts." Id. at 1-2 (emphasis added).

On February 14, 2002, NCRIC expressly acknowledged its duty to supplement seasonably its Rule 26(b)(4) disclosures, revealing that Woodford would also testify to her opinion that Peter Ben Ezra's damages calculations "have not been made to a reasonable degree of economic certainty due to his lack of independent inquiry and lack of reasonable and supportable bases for the assumptions underlying his conclusions." Ex. B at 2. NCRIC also specifically stated that its previous, August 9, 2001, disclosures for its other experts, including Moore and Henderson, "remain[ed] valid." Id.

B. NCRIC's Three Brand New Theories

NCRIC's last-minute production of documents and slides reveals that NCRIC intends to elicit opinions and testimony from Moore and Henderson that fall outside the scope of its Rule 26(b)(4) disclosures in at least three respects.

1. Moore's materials indicate that he does not intend to confine his analysis to the D.C. Metro area healthcare market. Rather, half of Moore's 30 slides make clear that he wishes to discuss and opine on trends nationally with respect to "urban hospitals" and the "women's specialty" hospital business. For example, one of his slides sets forth the opinion that "[f]ew hospitals in the U.S. are similar to [Columbia]," and another relies on a nationwide survey to draw the conclusion that Columbia's business model as a women's specialty hospital could not capture all of its potential revenues. A series of additional slides compares performance and financial statistics for Columbia to those for other "National Urban Hospitals." Far from discussing Columbia's place in the D.C. Metro area healthcare market, Moore plainly plans to discuss features of the market for hospitals nationwide, and compare Columbia to hospitals well outside the D.C. metropolitan area market.[1]

2. Other slides indicate that Moore and Henderson both intend to opine that Columbia would have closed regardless whether NCRIC engaged in tortious conduct. But Columbia was never put on notice that these professionals would be called to offer an opinion on the reasons for Columbia's closure. Rather, Henderson and Moore were designated to address

---

[1] Moore's underlying materials reinforce the point, including: A Summary Report by Merritt, Hawkins & Associates ("MHA") entitled "2003 Survey of Hospital Physician Recruitment Trends." MHA is "a national physician search and consulting firm" that is headquartered in Irving, Texas; a report from Solucient, which deals with the bottom lines of hospitals, cites "data from more than 3,700 hospitals," uses "operating profit margins for the median U.S. hospital," and discusses distinctions between urban and rural hospitals; and a 150 page almanac of national the cause of the damages that Columbia alleged. And none of Columbia's alleged damages flow from the closing of the hospital. Instead, they constitute predominantly cash flows lost as a result of doctors leaving Columbia because of NCRIC's tortious activities -- not all of the cash flows lost as a result of the hospital closing. See Ex. C (Joint Pre-Trial Statement (July 24, 2003)) at 16-17.[2] Indeed, if Columbia had sought damages for the closure of the hospital, that would be an amount many times larger than what is sought here. (For example, Peter Ben Ezra opines that Columbia lost approximately $2.5 million per year in revenues as a result of the doctors leaving after NCRIC's tortious conduct. By contrast, the closing of the hospital meant the loss of over $40 million in revenues per year.)

16d-002820

3. Henderson's materials contain articles by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants on issues relating to professional ethics and standards with respect to independence and bias among professional accountants. While NCRIC seasonably supplemented its Rule 26(b)(4) statement to disclose that Woodford would testify on this score, it never so supplemented for Henderson; it has designated him to testify only about the calculations made by Peter Ben Ezra, not Mr. Ben Ezra's compliance with actual or imagined professional ethical standards. Meanwhile, NCRIC has apparently elected to withdraw Woodford as a witness.

---

healthcare statistics, which does not offer a single separate statistic for D.C. hospitals – all of its tables contain "N/A" under the District of Columbia category.

[2] Columbia's damages also include lesser amounts attributable to the cancellation of the Columbia gala fundraiser and the denial of a HUD loan; expenses incurrent connection with its bankruptcy proceedings; the improperly retained $1 million security deposit; and amounts due under the contract. Id. Additionally, Columbia seeks pre-judgment interest and punitive damages. Id.

II. THE COURT SHOULD EXCLUDE NCRIC'S NEWLY-REVEALED EXPERT THEORIES

"Common sense suggests that when a party makes a last-minute change that adds a new theory of liability, the opposing side is likely to suffer undue prejudice." Macaulay v. Anas, 321 F.3d 45, 52 (1st Cir. 2003).

That is exactly the case here. In order even to begin to digest and rebut NCRIC's new expert opinions, Columbia would have defend not only arguments about the D.C. hospital market, but also about the market for hospitals in fifty different states – something it never had any reason to believe would be part of this case.

Columbia would likewise suffer prejudice if NCRIC's experts are permitted to discuss the previously undisclosed theory that Columbia would have failed even if NCRIC did commit tortious acts. While the hospital's closure is certainly a relevant fact to this case, as both sides admit, Columbia does not seek damages for the hospital's closure. Rather, it seeks damages only for physician-driven revenues lost in the immediate aftermath of NCRIC's tortious conduct, lost fundraising opportunities, and a lost HUD loan – all events that immediately followed NCRIC's tortious conduct. In its Rule 26(b)(4) report, NCRIC said that its experts would testify that Columbia's claimed damages were not the result of NCRIC's conduct but the result of other causes, and it is free to do so. NCRIC never told Columbia or the Court that its experts would opine on the distinct question whether the hospital would have closed even if NCRIC did cause the losses Columbia alleges. NCRIC's experts now, in essence, want to tell the jury to ignore Columbia's damages – even if NCRIC did cause them – because the hospital would have died anyway. That involves an entirely new and different expert opinion than that which NCRIC ever disclosed, one that Columbia has never had an opportunity to investigate, test, or challenge – and one that would be grossly prejudicial if it were permitted to be aired before the jury.

Finally, Columbia would be prejudiced if Henderson is permitted to testify on professional ethics topics on which only Woodford was disclosed as having formed an opinion. During discovery, Woodford submitted a supplemental 26(b)(4) report and declaration, which would have been used to cross-examine her vigorously at trial. By maneuvering to substitute Henderson for Woodford at the last minute, NCRIC plainly seeks to deny Columbia that right and opportunity.

Columbia could have undertaken to address each of NCRIC's newly-disclosed expert theories had they been revealed seasonably, literally years ago. Columbia, however, was denied that opportunity. Under similar circumstances, court after court has refused to permit last-minute expert theories to go to the jury.[3] Indeed, some courts have gone much further in sanctioning last-minute expert disclosures, as this Court would be well within its rights to do. See Mems v. City of St. Paul, No. 97-1589, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3517, at *4 (D. Minn. Feb. 20, 2002), aff'd, 327 F.3d 771 (8th Cir. 2003) (reaffirming decision to exclude expert's testimony in its entirety when expert's supplemental notes were not provided to opposing counsel until night before scheduled testimony).

---

[3] See, e.g., Macaulay, 321 F.3d at 51 (affirming trial court ruling that litigant could not rely at trial on a theory revealed in an untimely supplemental expert report; rather, "the parties were bound by the tenor of the reports that had been submitted" in a timely fashion); In re Omeprazole Patent Litig., No. M-21-81, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3225, at *10 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 27, 2002) (precluding expert "from testifying to the opinions and facts expressed in his Supplemental Expert Report" when that report was not timely disclosed); Shalley v. City of Philadelphia, No. 94-5883, 1996 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5690, at *9-*10 (E.D. Pa. May 1, 1996) (refusing to admit untimely filed supplemental expert report; "[a]t trial, plaintiff's expert's testimony will be narrowly confined to the specific findings and opinions contained in plaintiff's original expert report").

Conclusion

Columbia seeks an order precluding NCRIC from offering expert testimony or opinions not previously disclosed in NCRIC's Rule 26(b)(4) disclosures, including without limitation, about (1) trends in the healthcare market outside the D.C. metropolitan area; (2) the reasons why Columbia closed; and (3) professional accounting ethics. A proposed order is attached.

DATED: February 2, 2004

Respectfully submitted,

Neil M. Gorsuch / EAP by permission

Neil M. Gorsuch, D.C. Bar # 456411
Eli C. Schulman, D.C. Bar # 472879
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

16d-002824

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 -- Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Trial, January 26, 2004
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

ORDER

UPON CONSIDERATION of Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff Columbia Hospital For Women Medical Center, Inc.'s Motion for Additional Sanctions With Respect To NCRIC's Late-Produced Expert Documents and Slides, it is hereby ORDERED that Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant NCRIC, Inc. is precluded from offering expert testimony at trial related to the information contained in its late-produced documents that does not fall within the subject matter of its Rule 26(b)(4) disclosures. This includes testimony relating to (1) trends in the healthcare market outside the D.C. metropolitan area; (2) the reasons why Columbia closed; and (3) professional accounting ethics.

ENTERED this ____ day of _____, 2004.

_____
Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

Copies to:

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(fax) (202) 326-7999

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20005-3960
(fax) (202) 508-6200

Roy I. Niedermayer, Esq.
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814
(fax) (301) 951-4456

Attorneys for:
PLAINTIFF/COUNTER-DEFENDANT NCRIC, INC.

EXHIBIT A

8/9/01

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.	)
	)
Plaintiff,	)
	)
v.	) Civil Action No. 0007308-00
	) Calendar #8
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.	) Judge Linda K. Davis ) Next Event: Discovery close 8/12/01
	)
Defendant.	)

RULE 26(b)(4) STATEMENT AS OPPONENT OF A CLAIM

Plaintiff, by and through its attorney Roy Niedermayer, hereby states in accordance with SCR 26(b)(4) that it expects to call the following expert witnesses at the trial of this matter:

1. W. McKay Henderson and Mary Woodford
   1900 K Street, NW Suite 900
   Washington DC, 20006

Mr. Henderson and Ms. Woodford, whose curriculum vitae are attached hereto as Exhibits A and B, are expected to testify with regard to analysis and rebuttal to the calculation of damages as alleged by the experts for Columbia Hospital for Women. While defendant has not provided a report or the detailed substance of calculations for the damages it alleges or the bases for any opinions which he will render, and the deposition of defendant's expert noticed for August 22, 2001 has not yet taken place, and defendant has informed plaintiff that its expert Mr. Peter Ben Ezra has not yet prepared his calculations or analysis, it is anticipated that Mr. Henderson and Ms. Woodford will be assessing the various damage elements that defendants have stated, including loss of revenue, damaged reputation in the community, and the loss of good will. Mr. Henderson and Ms. Woodford are expected to testify that the damages allegedly suffered by defendant are substantially if not wholly the result of factors other than those alleged by defendant. To the extent the damages are found to be related to any tortious activity by plaintiff, Mr. Henderson and Ms. Woodford are further expected to testify that the amount of damages caused by plaintiff's activities is less than as calculated by defendant's experts.

Upon receipt of damage information from defendant, Mr. Henderson and Ms. Woodford can provide the substance and facts to which they are expected to testify. It would be expected that the factual data Mr. Henderson and Ms. Woodford will consider in evaluating alleged damages may include analysis of Columbia's historical records and reports, operating statistics and financial results for the Hospital and specific doctors that were impacted and other relevant market data.

For his expected opinion testimony, Mr. Henderson, a Partner with PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP, and a Certified Public Accountant, will draw upon his professional training, knowledge and experience in the fields of accounting and financial analysis, knowledge of the healthcare field and knowledge of methodologies for the calculation of economic damages. He has been qualified as an expert to testify on economic damages in other courts.

Ms. Woodford, a Director with PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP, with a Masters in Business Administration, will draw upon her professional training, knowledge and experience in the fields of accounting and financial analysis, and knowledge of methodologies for the calculation of economic damages. She has been qualified as an expert to testify on economic damages in other courts.

2. Steve Moore
1900 K Street, NW Suite 900
Washington DC, 20006.

Mr. Moore, whose curriculum vitae is attached hereto as Exhibit C, is expected to testify with regard to analysis and rebuttal of damages as alleged by Columbia Hospital for Women. While defendant has not provided a report or the detail substance or calculations for the tens of millions of dollars in damages it alleges, it is anticipated that Mr. Moore will provide testimony involving a market analysis of the hospital and healthcare market in the District of Columbia Metro area, impact of certain financial and market factors such as admissions, reimbursement levels, demographics, staffing, revenue cycles, etc. on the financial stability of a hospital and the defendant. Mr. Moore is expected to testify that the damages allegedly suffered by defendant are the result of factors other than those alleged by defendant. To the extent the damages are found to be related to any tortious activity by plaintiff, Mr. Moore is further expected to testify that the amount of damages caused by plaintiff's activities is less than as calculated by defendant's experts.

Upon receipt of damage information from the plaintiffs Mr. Moore can provide the substance and facts to which he is expected to testify. It is expected that the factual data Mr. Moore will consider in evaluating alleged damages may include analysis of Columbia's historical records and reports, financial statements, operating statistics and financial results for the Hospital.

For his expected opinion testimony, Mr. Moore, a Partner with PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP, and a Certified Public Accountant, will draw upon his professional training, knowledge and experience in the fields of accounting and financial analysis, knowledge of the healthcare operations, and knowledge of financial and market factors effecting hospitals in the District of Columbia Metro area.

3. Martin Cohen
1900 K Street, NW Suite 900
Washington DC, 20006.

Mr. Cohen, whose curriculum vitae is attached hereto as Exhibit D, is expected to testify with regard to analysis and rebuttal of damages as alleged by Columbia Hospital for Women. While defendant has not provided a report or the detail substance or calculations for the tens of millions of damages it alleges, it is anticipated that Mr. Cohen will provide testimony on the impact from a financial, competitive market, and staffing position that bankruptcy filings have on a hospital and various related issues that arise in negotiations and relationships with physicians. Mr. Cohen is expected to testify that the damages allegedly suffered by defendant are the result of factors other than those alleged by defendant. To the extent the damages are found to be related to any tortious activity by plaintiff, Mr. Cohen is further expected to testify that the amount of damages caused by plaintiff's activities is less than as calculated by defendant's experts.

Upon receipt of damage information from the plaintiffs, Mr. Cohen can provide the substance and facts to which he is expected to testify. It is expected that the factual data Mr. Moore will consider in evaluating alleged damages might include analysis of Columbia's historical financial records and reports, bankruptcy filings, financial statements, and operating statistics.

For his expected opinion testimony, Mr. Cohen, a Partner with PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP, will draw upon his professional training, knowledge and experience in the fields of finance and financial analysis, knowledge of the healthcare operations, and knowledge of the bankruptcy process as related to healthcare entities.

Respectfully submitted,

Roy I. Niedermayer, DJK

Roy Niedermayer, Esq. #180380
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814
Telephone: 301-951-4456

Attorney for Plaintiff

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I HEREBY CERTIFY, that on August 9, 2001, a copy of plaintiff's Rule 26(b)(4) Statement as Opponent of a Claim was mailed first class mail, postage prepaid, to:

Mark C. Hansen, Esq.
Joseph K. Leahy, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, DC 20006

Roy I. Niedermayer/DJK

Roy I. Niedermayer, Esq. #180380
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814
Telephone: 301-951-4456

Attorney for Plaintiff

W. Mckay Henderson
w.mckay.henderson@us.pwcglobal.com

POSITION

Partner, Financial Advisory Services, PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP

EDUCATION

Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, emphasis-Accounting - University of North Carolina - Chapel Hill - (1976 to 1981)

Appalachian State University, Boone, NC (1974 to 1976, Transferred to UNC-CH)

RANGE OF EXPERIENCE

Mr. Henderson is a Partner in PricewaterhouseCoopers' Financial Advisory Services practice, specializing in dispute analysis and investigations. He has assisted law firms and corporate clients in financial and operational analysis and damages calculations in a variety of litigation matters, including breach of contract, franchising matters, minority shareholder disputes, insurance fraud, business interruption claims, wrongful termination/lost wages, lender liability, and securities litigation. He has been named and testified as an expert witness in many of these matters. He also has extensive experience with investigative/forensic accounting matters including assisting clients with the allegations of vendor kickbacks, embezzlements by employees, insurance fraud, and healthcare fraud both investigating third parties and defending against Government actions. Mr. Henderson has been involved with dispute analysis and investigations since 1984.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

PRICEWATERHOUSECOOPERS LLP., Washington, DC (1998-present), Financial Advisory Services,

COOPERS & LYBRAND L.L.P., Philadelphia, PA (1990-1998), Financial Advisory Services, LAVENTHOL & HORWATH., Philadelphia, PA (1987 – 1990), Litigation and Insurance Claims,

GRANT THORNTON., Philadelphia, PA (1985 – 1987), Litigation Consulting Services, ARTHUR YOUNG & COMPANY., Charlotte, NC (1983-1985), Management Consulting,

DUKE POWER., Philadelphia, PA (1981-1983)

PUBLICATIONS & SPEECHES

Co-authored article entitled "Proceed with Caution" published in the Summer 1993 in Chester County Business & Industry.

"Taming the Liability Monster" – L&H Perspective, Vol. 15, Number 1, 1989

"What Every Non-Profit Director Needs to Know" – Philadelphia Business Journal, January 1994

"Making the Best of Corporate Integrity Agreements" – Healthcare Financial Management – July 2001.

TESTIMONY EXPERIENCE

* Testified at trial on the value of chemical distributor related to a divorce action. (Montgomery County Court of Common Pleas)

* Testified at disposition and trial concerning lost profits and value of a custom van dealership. (United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania)

* Testified at trial on the value of partnership interest related to the dissolution of a physician practice. (Bucks County Court of Common Pleas)

* Testified at trial in a defamation matter as to analysis of lost earnings of an OB-GYN practice. (Court of Common Pleas-Philadelphia, PA)

* Testified at trial and deposition in an insurance fraud matter related to the trucking industry as to the calculation of insurance premiums owed by plaintiff. (Superior Court of Delaware)

* Testified at deposition on behalf of insurance carrier as to income reported per filed tax returns.

*Testified at deposition on behalf of quick lube franchiser as to value of potential franchises. (Federal Court – Camden, NJ)

* Testified as a fact witness at deposition on behalf of client related to internal investigation of travel and entertainment expenses. (District Court Western District of Washington at Seattle)

* Testified at trial on behalf of charter service as to lost profits in a breach of contract matter. (Superior Court of New Jersey – Atlantic County)

* Testified at deposition on behalf of investment banking firm as to investigation of the misappropriation of investments by management of an investment fund. (Superior Court of New York)

OTHER EXPERIENCE

Economic Damages

* Engaged to assist counsel with the analysis of alleged lost profits related to termination of a contract involving water purification equipment.

* Involved in dispute between a contractor and municipality on cost overruns and lost profits on the reconstruction of a housing development.

* Engaged to assist franchisor of fast food restaurants with the calculation of damages related to alleged breach of contract by franchisee.

* Engaged by franchisor of national quick lube chain to analyze franchisee's damage calculation and developed alternative damage theories.

* Engaged to investigate alleged lost profits and potential fraud related to claims made by owner of restaurant to their insurance carrier.

OTHER EXPERIENCE

* Engaged to analyze plaintiff's damage calculations involving losses allegedly substantiated due to contaminated product injuring livestock.

* Engaged to analyze lost profits alleged by various roofing contractors related to allegations of price fixing and anti-trust violations.

* Engaged by a hospital to assist with breach of contract claims against a third party-billing agency related to collections and fees charged.

* Engaged by a large physician practice at assist with breach of contract claims against a third party billing company.

Accounting Investigations

* Engaged on behalf of the majority shareholders of a family owned business to assist with the defense of allegations by minority shareholders of the misuse of corporate assets. Assistance included analysis of the corporation's accounting records, analysis of capital expenditures, dividend payments, officer' s compensation and retirement benefits.

* Assisted with the identification and tracing of assets misappropriated by the president and other officers of a corporation. Our team traced over $70 million of funds that were originally invested by individual investors through private placement offerings. The president used over 20 corporations for the movement of investor funds and acquisition of assets.

* Engaged by majority owners of a start-up corporation. The owners were concerned that the president was misappropriating corporate assets. Analyzed the corporation accounting records, interviewed the president and other employees, confirmed certain assets through physical observation and performed searches of public records.

* Engaged by a church organization to investigate allegations that checks were

PROFESSIONAL CREDENTIALS	Certified Public Accountant – P.A., N.C., D.C. Certified Fraud Examiner
PROFFESIONAL MEMBERSHIP	American Institute of Certified Public Accountants Pennsylvania and North Carolina Institute of Certified Public Accountants National Association of Fraud Examiners

Mary A. Woodford
mary.a.woodford@us.pwcglobal.com

POSITION

Director, Financial Advisory Services, PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP

EDUCATION

MBA/General Management, Colgate Darden Graduate School of Business Administration, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, VA (1976-78). Recipient of the William Michael Shermet Award (1977).

AB/Economics, Summa Cum Laude, Sweet Briar College, Virginia (1972-76). Ranked first in graduating class. Phi Beta Kappa. Junior year at University of Southhampton, England.

RANGE OF EXPERIENCE

Ms. Woodford is a Director in PricewaterhouseCoopers' Financial Advisory Services practice, specializing in dispute consulting and financial analysis. She has assisted law firms and corporate clients in financial and operational analysis and damages calculations in a variety of litigation matters, including patent and trademark infringement, theft of trade secrets, antitrust, breach of contract, consumer fraud, unfair competition, lender liability, solvency and bank fraud. In addition to specializing in litigation consulting since 1989, Ms. Woodford has 10 years of financial management experience with a Fortune 200 company, including assignments in the United States and in Barcelona, Spain.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

PRICEWATERHOUSECOOPERS LLP., Washington, DC (1998-present), Financial Advisory Services, Director (1998-present)

COOPERS & LYBRAND L.L.P., Philadelphia, PA (1993-1998), Financial Advisory Services, Director (1997-1998); Manager (1993-97)

PRICE WATERHOUSE, Philadelphia, PA (1989-93), Litigation Services, Senior Manager (promotion announced April 1993); Manager, (1990-93); Senior Consultant, (1989-90)

FMC CORPORATION, Chicago, IL (1979-89)

- Foret SA, Barcelona, Spain (Subsidiary of FMC Corporation) (1987-89), Financial Manager
- Peroxygen Chemicals Division, Philadelphia, PA (1984-87), Financial Analyst
- Special Products Group, Philadelphia, PA (1982-84), Planning Manager
- Corporate Development, Chicago, IL (1979-82)
- Senior Acquisitions Analyst

CONTINENTAL ILLINOIS BANK, Chicago, IL (1978-79), Multinational Banking Associate

PUBLICATIONS & SPEECHES

"Financial Aspects of LICENSE NEGOTIATION, LESSONS FROM GEORGIA PACIFIC", Les Nouvelles, September 1995.

"The Prejudgment Interest Award in Alpex Computer Corp. v. Nintendo Co. Ltd": The Pittsburgh Legal Journal, April 1996; Les Nouvelles, December 1996.

Panelist at Stakeholder Session held by USPTO, October 1998, to discuss the role of intellectual property and of the USPTO in the US economy.

Presentation on the Use of Financial Statements for Lawyers, American Corporate Counsel Association, November 1998.

Instructor, PricewaterhouseCoopers Internal Training. Advanced Intellectual Property Course, 1998 and 2000; Introductory Intellectual Property Course, April 1999.

Calculating Monetary Relief: Damages and Profits, ALI-ABA Litigating Trademark, Trade Dress, and Unfair Competition Cases, December 2000.

Patent Damages, LEI Intellectual Property Law Conference, January 2001.

Did Grain Processing Murder Panduit in the Conservatory with a Candlestick? Or, Are Rumors of Panduit's Demise Exaggerated?, ABA IP Section Newsletter, Winter 2001.

Review of Chapter on "Damages Issues of Trademark, Trade Secret, False Advertising and Copyright Cases," Litigation Services Handbook, 3rd Edition, Wiley 2001.

TESTIMONY EXPERIENCE

* Testified at deposition on behalf of plaintiff in misappropriation of trade secrets involving health care practice management computer systems. (U. S. District Court Western District of Wisconsin)

* Testified at deposition on behalf of defendant in a Lanham Act matter involving retail of women's apparel. (U.S. District Court Southern District of New York)

* Testified at arbitration on behalf of defendant in a breach of contract, and misappropriation of trade secrets matter involving interactive electronic program guides used on cable television set-top boxes. (AAA, San Francisco)

* Testified at deposition on behalf of defendant in class action matter involving potential excess interest on consumer credit cards. Submitted expert affidavit in connection with approval of settlement. (U.S. District Court of Delaware)

* Testified at deposition on behalf of defendant in breach of warranty matter involving defective shoes. (U. S. District Court of Maine)

* Testified at trial on behalf of defendant in patent infringement matter, as to lost profits, price erosion, and reasonable royalty in office products industry. (U. S. District Court Western District of Wisconsin)

* Testified at deposition and in a Daubert hearing on behalf of defendant in breach of contract matter involving the distribution of a consumer product in the Baltics. (U.S. District Court, New Jersey)

* Testified at deposition on behalf of Chapter 11 debtor-plaintiff in breach of contract matter involving a critical raw material in a start-up venture. Matter settled prior to trial. (U.S. Bankruptcy Court, New Jersey)

* Testified at deposition and at trial on behalf of plaintiff in breach of contract matter involving the distribution of specialty paper. (U.S. District Court, New York – Southern District)

* Testified at trial on behalf of hospital in breach of contract matter involving a cardiac surgery practice. (Pennsylvania State Court)

* Testified as to the adequacy of a university environmental laboratory's cost accounting system relative to compliance with state regulations. (Iowa State Court)

* Testified to the appropriate methodology of determining the damages to a bank resulting from the fraudulent use of a working capital line of credit. (U.S. District Court; Eastern District of Pennsylvania)

OTHER INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY EXPERIENCE

* Issued expert report on reasonable royalty rate and damages involving toy software.

* Directed engagement on lost profits, unjust enrichment, and reasonable royalty damages involving genetically modified seed in a breach of contract matter.

* Directed engagement on reasonable royalty rate and damages involving a pharmaceutical product. Matter settled before trial.

* Directed engagement on reasonable royalty rate and damages involving a sensor used in carbon monoxide detectors. Matter settled before trial.

* Directed engagement on royalty revenue recovery for multinational telecommunications client in Europe and Far East.

* Issued expert opinion as to lost profits and reasonable royalty in design patent matter involving novelty items. Matter settled before trial.

* Selected as the expert to lead engagement team on patent infringement damages, including lost profits and reasonable royalty on behalf of alleged infringer in sports equipment industry. Issues also involved evaluating impact of infomercials. Matter settled before expert discovery was completed.

* Lead engagement team on patent infringement damages, including lost profits, reasonable royalty, and price erosion, on behalf of alleged infringer in television transmitter industry.

* Lead engagement team on patent infringement damages, including lost profits and reasonable royalty, of both claimant and counterclaimant in multi-billion dollar consumer product industry.

* Directed engagement team in two engagements on determination of the infringing revenue base for reasonable royalty determination involving process patent in semiconductor industry. Assisted counsel in analysis and rebuttal of reasonable royalty opinions issued by opposing experts.

* On behalf of defendant, analyzed and prepared critique of damage claims for tens of millions of dollars related to alleged theft of trade secrets by major publicly owned entertainment company.

* Issued expert opinion as to reasonable royalty in patent infringement matter involving automotive product.

* Issued report and expert opinion involving reasonable royalty involving textiles and bedding products. Matter settled before trial.

* Lead engagement team in determining trademark infringement damages in consumer mail order business. Matter settled before trial.

OTHER INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY EXPERIENCE

* Lead engagement team in matter involving breach of contract on software/networking product development.

* Lead engagement team in insurance coverage dispute involving an approximately $26 million settlement of litigation involving past and future rights to certain trademarks and logos involving personal computers and musical products.

* Issued expert rebuttal report addressing damages in a dispute involving the installation of a computer system at a food processing company.

OTHER EXPERIENCE

* Directed engagement concerning performance of software of an Internet product in a network environment. Coordinated with counsel and technical computer experts.

* Directed multidisciplinary engagement team in analysis of and reconstruction of multi-billion dollar mortgage-backed securities portfolio, analysis of institutional performance and other issues associated with a savings and loan.

* Assisted testifying witness and counsel in analysis and discovery of breach of contract claim involving the distribution of novelty gift items. Client was awarded approximately $46 million in damages.

* Assisted counsel in discovery and rebuttal of plaintiff's damages claim in antitrust matter involving electronic funds transfer.

* Directed engagement team to assist expert witness and counsel for defendant in analysis of liability and damages issues in a lender liability matter involving a real estate construction loan.

* Directed engagement to assist expert witness and counsel in defense of lender liability claim involving government contracts for a regional fuel oil distributor.

* Directed engagement team to assist expert witness in analysis of liability and damages issues in lender liability claim involving a retail clothing company.

* Issued expert report on the value to a debtor's estate of an exclusive distribution contract for beverages.

* Assisted expert witness in development of solvency opinion in connection with a fraudulent conveyance claim for a bankrupt airline. Analyzed company projections, aircraft purchase contracts and lease agreements, and coordinated analysis with technical airline industry experts.

STEPHEN M. MOORE

Partner

Steve serves as partner-in-charge of our Healthcare Consulting Practice in the Mid-Atlantic Region. He is an integral part of our Firm's healthcare practice from our Washington office with eighteen years of experience serving a variety of healthcare clients. He also serves as the National partner-in-charge of PwC's finance team within the Healthcare Consulting Practice, dealing with consulting engagements in the areas of financial analysis and feasibility studies, mergers and acquisitions, merger efficiency studies, operations improvement, managed care, reimbursement issues, decision support, internal controls reviews, and revenue cycle re-engineering. He has most recently spent the past twenty-four months dealing with many of these issues at a major Academic Medical Center in assisting management in developing and implementing a performance improvement plan.

Steve is an active member of the Healthcare Financial Management Association ("HFMA") where he served on a statewide Board of Directors as President. He currently serves on the National Advisory Board of the Healthcare Financial Management Association.

Professional Experience:

- Responsible for planning and execution of financial audits in the healthcare field, including academic medical centers, healthcare systems, long-term care providers, senior housing and assisted living providers, and home health entities.
- Consulting with healthcare providers on various matters ranging from reimbursement issues to strategic planning and compliance issues.
- Mergers and acquisitions consulting for healthcare and other clients, including merger efficiency studies.
- Internal controls reviews.
- Compliance program development and implementation.
- Numerous agreed-upon procedures engagements.
- Management of engagements for providers issuing bonds or other forms of debt for capital expansion.

Education:

B.S.B.A., Phi Beta Kappa honors graduate, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Concentration - Accounting 1983

Professional Affiliations:

North Carolina Chapter of the Healthcare Financial Management Association (HFMA)
North Carolina Association of Certified Public Accountants
American Association of Certified Public Accountants

POSITION

Principal, Business Recovery Services
PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP, Washington DC

EDUCATION

Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University
B.A., Political Science, 1973

Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University
MBA (concentration in Finance), 1974

RANGE OF EXPERIENCE

Mr. Cohen has over 25 years experience in the Healthcare Industry. During this time, he has served as Chief Financial Officer, Chief Marketing, Strategic Planning and Business Development Officer, Chief Operating Officer, President, Director and advisor to numerous healthcare companies.

Mr. Cohen has represented both creditors and debtors in formal bankruptcy and out-of-court settlements. Activities performed in this area include: analysis of cash flow projections and development of cash management programs; operational reviews and development of business/strategic plans; bankruptcy planning; assessment and development of asset sale/liquidation plans; facilitation and negotiation of asset sales in and out of bankruptcy and negotiations with parties in interest.

Mr. Cohen has extensive experience representing various parties in interest in the health care arena including the hospital, post acute, physician practice management, ambulatory and medical supply segments. Representative engagements in the hospital and post acute segments include Integrated Health Services (post acute care); New American Healthcare (rural hospitals); Charter Behavioral (freestanding psychiatric hospitals); and Mariner Post Acute Network (post acute care). Representative engagements in the physician practice management segment include PhyCor, ProMedCo Management Company, a leading single-specialty ENT PPM, and Response Oncology.

In addition, Mr. Cohen has represented parties in interest in the manufacturing and distribution sectors including Crown Simplimatic, a manufacturer of bottling and packaging systems and USA Floral, a floral importer and distributor.

Prior to joining PricewaterhouseCoopers Mr. Cohen was Senior Vice President with Inova Health System, one of the nations leading integrated health care systems with net revenues in excess of $1.0 billion annually. During his 12-year tenure at Inova, he led the division responsible for the development and operation of Inova's post acute, ambulatory, and behavioral services. Mr. Cohen was also responsible for all of Inova's strategic planning, marketing, and business development.

RANGE OF EXPERIENCE, Continued

Mr. Cohen has extensive experience in the development and operation of Hospital services. Prior to his tenure at Inova, Mr. Cohen served as a financial officer for the Greater Southeast Community Hospital, a 450 bed hospital located in Washington, D.C. Mr. Cohen has also advised numerous hospitals on utilization management, cost management, new program development, and mergers and acquisition as a principal with a regional management consulting firm that specialized in health care. During his tenure at Inova Mr. Cohen had primary responsibility for growing the system. In this capacity, he was responsible for strategic planning, marketing, new business development, mergers, and acquisitions, joint ventures, and relationships with affiliated health care systems. Mr. Cohen was also responsible for the development of Inova's strategies for integrating with it's affiliated physicians. As a senior executive with Inova Mr. Cohen was extensively involved in the development and implementation of system-wide operating plans.

Mr. Cohen has extensive experience in the development and operation of behavioral services. While at Inova he was responsible for all inpatient and outpatient mental health services which included hospital based psychiatric units at each Inova hospital, freestanding outpatient child and adolescent services, substance abuse services, a large multi-disciplinary group practice, and managed mental health products covering over 275,000 lives.

Mr. Cohen has extensive experience in the development and operation of freestanding ambulatory services. While at Inova he was responsible for various ambulatory services including occupational health, employee assistance, urgent care centers emergency care centers, rehabilitation centers, and radiation therapy. Mr. Cohen was also responsible for Inova's development of freestanding ambulatory centers.

Mr. Cohen has extensive experience in post acute care having led the development and operation of these services for most of his tenure at Inova. Inova's post acute services included nursing homes, subacute units, assisted living facilities, a wide range of home health services, and case management services. The home health services operated by Mr. Cohen included home intermittent services (over 300,000 visits per annum), private duty services, infusion services, durable medical equipment, and respiratory services.

As a consultant, Mr. Cohen has also provided services in the areas of bond financing and feasibility studies. Mr. Cohen has served as Director to various health care organizations including the Genetics & IVF Institute and several HMO's.

EXHIBIT B

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN	Next Event: Opposition to
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Summary Judgment Motions -- February 28, 2002
Defendant.

PLAINTIFF NCRIC'S SUPPLEMENTAL RULE 26(B)(4) STATEMENT AS OPPONENT OF A CLAIM

Pursuant to District of Columbia Superior Court Rule 26(b)(4) plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC"), hereby supplements its prior statement filed August 9, 2001 regarding the following expert witnesses NCRIC expects to call at trial:

1. Mary Woodford
PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP
1900 K Street, NW Suite 900
Washington DC 20006

As stated in NCRIC's prior Rule 26(b)(4) statement, Ms. Woodford will testify with regard to analysis and rebuttal of the calculation of damages presented by defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia") through defendant's designated damages witness, Peter Ben Ezra. On January 23, 2001, NCRIC received the damages calculations report by Mr. Ben Ezra, and NCRIC deposed Mr. Ben Ezra regarding his damages calculations on January 24, 2001. Mr. Ben Ezra's opinion relates to Columbia's claim for lost income as a result of alleged conduct by NCRIC as detailed in Columbia's Amended Counterclaim.

Upon review of the materials submitted by Columbia's expert, Ms. Woodford will testify regarding the reasonableness of Mr. Ben Ezra's damages calculations. Specifically, Ms. Woodford will testify that Mr. Ben Ezra's calculations have not been made to a reasonable degree of economic certainty due to his lack of independent inquiry and lack of reasonable and supportable bases for the assumptions underlying his conclusions. Ms. Woodford will testify that due to the significant defects in Mr. Ben Ezra's conclusions, Columbia's damages calculations are baseless and speculative.

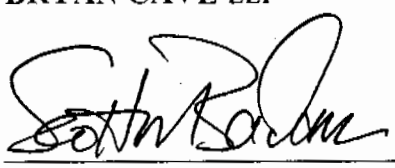
Ms. Woodford will base her testimony on a review of the documents Columbia designated and produced as the data relied upon by Mr. Ben Ezra in his calculations and preparation of his report. Ms. Woodford will also analyze available documents produced by Columbia regarding Columbia's historical operating and financial statistics and relevant market data.

Ms. Woodford is a Director with PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP, and has a Masters in Business Administration, as indicated on her curriculum vitae submitted with NCRIC's 26(b)(4) Statement filed August 9, 2001. Ms. Woodford has extensive professional training, knowledge and experience in the fields of accounting and financial analysis, and specific expertise in calculation of economic damages. Ms. Woodford has been qualified to testify as an expert on economic damages in other courts.

NCRIC respectfully reserves the right to supplement this disclosure should a more detailed review of Mr. Ben Ezra's report reveal that additional testimony is required. Finally, the other disclosures contained in NCRIC's initial Rule 26(b)(4) report remain valid.

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP



Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar No. 435375
Margaret G. Perl, D.C. Bar No. 472003
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005
(202) 508-6116

Roy I. Niedermayer, D.C. Bar No. 180380
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, Maryland 20814

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: February 14, 2002.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that a true and correct copy of the foregoing Supplemental Rule 26(b)(4) Statement as Opponent of Claim was served this 14th day of February 2002, via first class mail, postage prepaid, to:

Joseph K. Leahy, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women

Margaret Perl

16d-002848

EXHIBIT C

RECEIVED
Civil Clerk's Office
JUL 24 2003
Superior Court of the
District of Columbia
Washington, D.C.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC., Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant, v. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC., Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby Pretrial Date: July 31, 2003, 4:30 p.m. Trial Date: To be determined (Jury)

JOINT PRETRIAL STATEMENT

The parties, Plaintiff and Counter-Defendant, NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC"), and Defendant and Counter-Plaintiff, Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia"), by and through their respective counsel, hereby submit this Joint Pretrial Statement in accordance with Rule 16(e) and the Court's Form for Pretrial Statement.

A. CERTIFICATION OF RULE 16(c) MEETING

On May 29, 2003 at 6:30 p.m., the parties met at the offices of NCRIC's counsel, Bryan Cave LLP, 700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. Scott M. Badami, Margaret G. Perl, and Jenifer Berger attended on behalf of NCRIC; Eli C. Schulman attended on behalf of Columbia. The parties made a good-faith effort to reach agreement on all of the matters listed in Rule 16(c).

The parties also met on June 22, 2003 at 2:30 p.m. at the offices of Columbia's counsel, Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, P.L.L.C., 1615 M Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. Margaret G. Perl and Eileen Weiss attended on behalf of NCRIC; Eli C. Schulman attended on behalf of Columbia. The parties made further good-faith efforts to reach agreement on outstanding matters included in this Joint Pretrial Statement.

B. PARTIES AND COUNSEL

Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant

NCRIC, Inc.
1115 30th Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20007
(202) 969-1866

Counsel for Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Margaret G. Perl, Esq.
Jenifer Berger, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(202) 508-6000

Roy I. Niedermayer, Esq.
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814
(301) 951-4456

Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff

Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.
2425 L Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20037
(202) 293-6500

Counsel for Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff

Mark C. Hansen, Esq.
Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

16d-002851

C. NATURE OF THE CASE

In October 1993, Columbia, a non-profit hospital specializing in care for women, and NCRIC, a provider of malpractice liability insurance to physicians in the District of Columbia, entered into an agreement called the Retrospective Rating Plan (or, "Retro Plan"). The purpose of the plan was to establish a malpractice liability program for physicians at Columbia to help reduce the costs to physicians through a sharing of malpractice risk.

In October 2000 NCRIC filed a breach of contract claim against Columbia contending that Columbia refused to pay the Additional Premium due under the Retro Plan when it expired on September 1, 2000.

Columbia countersued in November 2000, contending that NCRIC breached the contract and owes Columbia money under the plan. Columbia also contends that NCRIC communicated that it would administer a medical malpractice plan for Columbia so that the hospital did not have to do so itself, and, after assuring Columbia that it would act in the hospital's best interests, deceived Columbia about the terms of the Plan and overcharged the hospital, failing to perform required calculations honestly and accurately. In addition, Columbia contends that NCRIC interfered with Columbia's existing and expected business relationships with the doctors who worked at Columbia by disparaging Columbia and inducing Columbia's doctors to move their practices to other hospitals. Columbia contends that NCRIC also made false and defamatory statements about Columbia that caused harm to Columbia's reputation in the community. Additionally, Columbia contends that NCRIC improperly demanded a $1 million deposit not called for by the parties' contract on threat of discontinuing malpractice coverage to the hospital and later refused to return Columbia's money. Columbia seeks damages in the multiple millions of dollars.

16d-002852

D. CLAIMS AND DEFENSES

1. NCRIC's Claim

NCRIC and Columbia are parties to a Retrospective Rating Plan Agreement ("Retro Plan") which provided medical malpractice insurance to physicians from 1993 through September 1, 2000. Pursuant to the Retro Plan, NCRIC provided insurance at discounted premiums to doctors practicing at Columbia, and in return Columbia agreed to share a portion of the risk of future malpractice claims. The Retro Plan requires a "reconciliation" that looks back over the term of each year to compare the discounted premiums to the actual claims for a given year. Each reconciliation follows the calculation formula presented in the Retro Plan to determine: (1) if Columbia was required to pay "Additional Premium" to NCRIC, because losses under the plan exceeded the physician premiums by a predetermined calculated amount, or (2) if NCRIC was required to pay "Return Premium" to Columbia, should the losses have been less than the predetermined amount.

NCRIC's breach of contract claim is based upon Columbia's refusal to pay NCRIC the Additional Premium due under the Retro Plan calculations. In November 1996, the parties orally agreed to avoid interim payments of Additional and Return Premium by exchanging money only when a year was "closed-out" under the plan or the Retro Plan ended. After a series of renewals from 1993 to 2000, the parties chose not to further renew the plan. The Retro Plan expired on September 1, 2000. As obligated under the Retro Plan and the parties' oral agreement, NCRIC performed the reconciliation calculation and sent the reconciliation with a notice and request for payment of Additional Premium due from Columbia on September 1, 2000. Columbia has not paid NCRIC any of the Additional Premium owed to NCRIC under the terms of the Retro Plan since September 1, 2000. NCRIC's breach of contract claim seeks to recover this amount.

16d-002853

Finally, NCRIC contends that none of the alleged misconduct detailed in Columbia's counterclaims, assuming arguendo that Columbia proves such conduct, negates the Retro Plan and relieves Columbia of the obligation to pay NCRIC the amount owed for the premiums as calculated under the Retro Plan.

2. Columbia's Claims

1. Breach of Contract: NCRIC breached the Retro Plan by, inter alia, failing to pay Columbia Return Premium that Columbia was due. NCRIC further breached the parties' agreement by seeking payment from Columbia in violation of the parties' oral agreement.

2. Breach of Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing: NCRIC evaded the spirit of the contract, willfully rendered imperfect performance, and/or interfered with Columbia's performance by, inter alia, performing Reconciliations inaccurately.

3. Breach of Fiduciary Duty: NCRIC breached its fiduciary duty to Columbia by, inter alia, failing to perform Reconciliations honestly and accurately; demanding a $1 million deposit when it was not due and then refusing to return the $1 million; refusing to allow Columbia to audit NCRIC's calculations; and causing Columbia to overpay Additional Premium.

4. Tortious Interference with Business Relations: NCRIC wrongfully interfered with Columbia's business relations with the Attending Faculty doctors, causing about 30 Attending Faculty members to terminate their association with Columbia and move the bulk of their practices to Sibley and/or George Washington University hospitals.

5. Tortious Interference with Prospective Business Advantage: NCRIC wrongfully interfered with Columbia's reasonable expectation of continuing its business relations with the Attending Faculty doctors, causing about 30 Attending Faculty members to terminate their association with Columbia and move the bulk of their practices to Sibley and/or GW hospitals.

6. Actual and/or Constructive Fraud: NCRIC made false representations of material facts to Columbia, including, for example, those relating to NCRIC's improper Retro Plan calculations, and concealed from Columbia material facts that amounted to a misrepresentation by refusing to provide Columbia information as provided for by the Retro Plan and by refusing to provide Columbia access to data necessary independently to verify NCRIC's bookkeeping.

7. Negligent Misrepresentation: NCRIC negligently made false representations by, inter alia, miscalculating Reconciliations.

8. Defamation and Libel: NCRIC published material false statements about Columbia that disparaged Columbia, causing Columbia harm to its reputation and substantial economic loss.

9. Trade Libel/Commercial Disparagement/Injurious Falsehood: NCRIC published false and misleading statements that disparaged the quality of Columbia's services as a health care facility, causing Columbia harm to its reputation and substantial economic loss.

10. Conversion: NCRIC unlawfully exercised ownership, dominion, and control over Columbia's $1 million deposit, in denial or repudiation of Columbia's rights to the money.[1]

Columbia reserves the right to offer evidence of additional facts in support of any of its claims.

3. NCRIC's Defenses

Columbia's Breach of Contract and Breach of Implied Duty of Good Faith and Fair Dealing (Counts 1 and 2)

NCRIC denies all allegations of improper calculations of premiums and intends to present fact and expert testimony in support of its position that all calculations were valid and

[1] The negligence claim originally pleaded by Columbia as Count Six was dismissed by order of July 3, 2001.

16d-002855

that the amount of Additional Premium owed by Columbia is proper and correct. Columbia's evidence regarding the alleged miscalculations of the Retro Premium is inadmissible and non-credible as it consists of calculations performed by Columbia's counsel for the purposes of this litigation. NCRIC will also present credible and undisputed evidence that NCRIC maintained the loss reserves under the Retro Plan in accordance with the requirements of the plan and according to "industry standards." Columbia has not presented any credible evidence that NCRIC's alleged breach caused Columbia's financial problems or proximately caused Columbia's bankruptcy filing such that NCRIC is liable for these damages. NCRIC has performed all duties properly under the Retro Plan and has not "evaded the spirit of the contract," therefore NCRIC is not liable for breach of contract or breach of the implied duty of good faith and fair dealing.

Columbia's Breach of Fiduciary Duty Claim (Count 3)

NCRIC denies all allegations that it was under a duty to act on Columbia's behalf in a fiduciary capacity. The parties in this case were two sophisticated business entities which negotiated a commercial contract, the Retro Plan, which did not contemplate the creation of a fiduciary relationship. The Retro Plan and all subsequent amendments and renewals were negotiated instruments between the parties and their counsel and consultants. There is no evidence of unequal bargaining power. Finally, a fiduciary relationship did not evolve over time during the course and dealings of the parties.

Columbia's Tortious Interference Claims (Counts 4 and 5)

NCRIC further denies all allegations of tortious activity which allegedly interfered with current or prospective business relations between Columbia and its attending faculty. There is no evidence that any physician terminated his or her relationship with Columbia based on the alleged defamatory statements by NCRIC in 2000, because NCRIC representatives urged them to do so, or because the parties did not agree to renew the Retro Plan in September 2000. To the extent the tortious interference claims rely upon the alleged defamatory statements, NCRIC incorporates the defenses to the defamation claims below. Finally, NCRIC contends that Columbia's future business expectancy in patient referrals is too remote to support a tortious interference claim. NCRIC intends to present fact and expert testimony in support of its position that any economic loss suffered by Columbia during the time of alleged tortious acts in 2000 was caused by a number of other market factors and conditions at the hospital itself, as opposed to the alleged tortious interference Columbia attributes to NCRIC. Moreover, NCRIC contends that Columbia has failed to mitigate any such damages which it claims.

Columbia's Fraudulent and Negligent Misrepresentation Claims (Counts 7 and 8)

NCRIC denies all allegations that it made fraudulent and/or negligent misrepresentations of fact to Columbia regarding the Retro Plan. As discussed with regard to the breach of contract claims above, NCRIC's calculations were proper and did not constitute a fraudulent misrepresentation regarding the amount of Additional Premium due from Columbia. Columbia cannot prove that any reconciliations were false because there is no credible evidence from any witnesses regarding the alleged "proper" calculations under the Retro Plan. Moreover, as discussed above, any statements with regard to the loss reserves set for the Retro Plan were true as the loss reserves were set and maintained properly under the Retro Plan and industry standards. NCRIC did not have any intent to defraud Columbia at any time, nor did Columbia and NCRIC have a "confidential relationship" to support a negligent misrepresentation claim in the absence of fraudulent intent.

Columbia's Defamation and Injurious Falsehood Claims (Counts 9 and 10)

NCRIC denies all allegations of defamatory statements by NCRIC representatives in 2000. The Court has found in favor of NCRIC on summary judgment with regard to all defamation and injurious falsehood claims based upon alleged statements by NCRIC in 1998; therefore, these statements are not properly presented by Columbia at trial. There is no evidence that the "rumors" of September 2000 regarding the possible closure of Columbia were attributable to any NCRIC representative. Any defamatory statements allegedly made by Dr. Glassman in September 2000 do not support a claim against NCRIC because (1) Dr. Glassman was not speaking as a representative of NCRIC, (2) these alleged statements were not properly "published" to third parties, and (3) these alleged statements were true. Moreover, these alleged statements do not support an injurious falsehood claim because these statements do not concern a product or service of Columbia. Finally, as discussed with regard to the tortious interference claims above, NCRIC intends to present fact and expert testimony in support of its position that any economic loss suffered by Columbia during the time of alleged defamatory statements in September 2000 was caused by a number of other market factors and conditions at the hospital itself, as opposed to the alleged defamation and harm to reputation which Columbia attributes to NCRIC.

Columbia's Conversion Claim (Count 11)

NCRIC denies all allegations of conversion with regard to the $1 million partial payment of Additional Premium made by Columbia in 1998. The $1 million payment was a negotiated partial payment towards a balance of approximately $1.7 million in Additional Premium due in 1997. NCRIC consistently applied this amount towards the premium due in all subsequent reconciliations under the Retro Plan. There is no evidence that the parties agreed that this payment would be held by NCRIC as a "deposit" which would accrue interest. Nor is there any evidence that Columbia demanded the money be returned as it was allegedly held by NCRIC unlawfully. Finally, Columbia has not presented any credible evidence that NCRIC's alleged conversion caused the hospital's financial problems or proximately caused Columbia's bankruptcy filing such that NCRIC is liable for these damages.

16d-002858

4. Columbia's Defenses

1. Columbia did not breach the contract and does not owe NCRIC any Additional Premium because NCRIC miscalculated the Deposit Premium, Minimum Premium, and Development Factors under the Retro Plan. When the proper calculations are made, NCRIC in fact owes Columbia premium.

2. Columbia did not breach the contract and does not owe NCRIC any Additional Premium because NCRIC's demand for Additional Premium violates the parties' November 1996 oral agreement that the parties would not exchange Additional or Return Premium for any year of the Plan until all outstanding claims for that year had closed. The only closed years are those for which NCRIC owes Columbia premium.

3. Columbia did not breach the contract and does not owe NCRIC any Additional Premium because NCRIC, the Plan's bookkeeper, failed to notify Columbia of any amount of premium due, as required by the Plan. Such notice is a precondition to any obligation of Columbia to pay NCRIC Additional Premium.

4. Columbia fully performed all of its duties and obligations under the alleged agreement between it and NCRIC.

5. NCRIC's claim is barred as a result of NCRIC's failure to satisfy conditions precedent, including, but not limited to, failing to perform Reconciliations properly, and failing to calculate and inform Columbia of the correct amount of Additional or Return Premium due.

6. NCRIC's claim is barred by the doctrines of estoppel, waiver and/or unclean hands.

7. The alleged agreement between Columbia and NCRIC is unenforceable, in whole or in part, due to NCRIC's material breach of the express and/or implied terms thereof.

8. The alleged agreement between Columbia and NCRIC is unenforceable, in whole or in part, due to modification, novation, and/or accord and satisfaction.

9. The alleged agreement between Columbia and NCRIC is void, in whole or in part, because Columbia renewed and/or amended it while under duress caused by NCRIC.

10. The Amended Complaint fails to state a cause of action upon which relief may be granted.

11. Columbia denies all allegations in the Amended Complaint not specifically admitted, and demands strict proof thereof.

E. UNDISPUTED ISSUES/STIPULATIONS

1. On or about October 23, 1993, Columbia and NCRIC entered into the Retrospective Rating Plan Agreement ("Retro Plan"). NCRIC drafted the Retro Plan.

2. The original term of the Retro Plan was three years.

3. A retrospective rating plan, such as the Retro Plan, requires a "reconciliation" that looks back over each year to compare the premium to the claims to determine: (1) if additional premium is due to the insurance company; or (2) if a return of premium is due the hospital, should losses have been favorable based on a predetermined calculation.

4. All premiums under the Retro Plan are calculated by applying multipliers to the subject premium.

5. To determine if the appropriate premium amounts were collected to pay losses under the Retro Plan, the Retro Premium (as calculated based on a preset formula) is then compared to the Deposit Premium. If the Retro Premium is less than the Deposit Premium, the premium is due to Columbia. If the Retro Premium is more than the Deposit Premium, Columbia owes NCRIC the additional premium to pay against the losses. But any amount of Retro Premium is limited by the set Minimum Premium and Maximum Premium.

6. A "floor" and a "ceiling" are set to financially protect both Columbia and NCRIC from large swings in risk. If total losses were large (130% of total), then this would cap Columbia's risk. If losses were extremely favorable (60% of total), then NCRIC is protected. The "floor" is the Minimum Premium, and the "ceiling" is the Maximum Premium.

7. When the parties entered into the Retro Plan, the premium discount ("Attending Faculty discount") was 19% off the cost of $500,000 in malpractice coverage.

8. In November 1996, NCRIC representatives met with Columbia's Finance Committee. The NCRIC representatives presented the first Reconciliation under the Retro Plan and proposed new revisions to the discount and premium calculations.

9. During these meetings, the NCRIC representatives explained that claims from prior years were still pending and therefore calculations of premium for those years were subject to change.

10. NCRIC's Reconciliation for the 1993-94 Experience Period showed a balance $172,815 in Return Premium due to Columbia for this Experience Period.

16d-002861

11. In 1997, Columbia was fighting a lawsuit by one of its largest creditors, The Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi, regarding Columbia's line of credit.

12. In February 1998, Columbia filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code.

13. Columbia emerged from bankruptcy in January 1999.

14. The Medical Entity Policy issued by NCRIC was a standard group insurance policy which covered the physicians practicing medicine at Columbia's Clinic for professional liability in return for the payment of a set premium each year.

15. In the fall of 1999, NCRIC and Columbia renewed both the Retro Plan and the Medical Entity Policy until September 1, 2000 and December 1, 2000, respectively.

16. During the spring of 2000, Columbia requested NCRIC propose a transitional plan to replace the Retro Plan with a new program which did not require a retroactively calculated premium.

17. NCRIC proposed a method of "closing out" the Retro Plan and converting the program to a guaranteed cost contract which would discontinue the retroactive calculations from previous years of the Retro Plan.

18. The parties negotiated the one-time cost that Columbia would have to pay to accomplish such a close out throughout the spring and summer of 2000.

19. The endorsement excluded from coverage any activities in the Clinic after November 15, 2000.

F. DISPUTED ISSUES

NCRIC's Issues

1. Whether Columbia breached the Retro Plan by not remitting Additional Premium due under the Retro Plan Reconciliations when the Retro Plan expired on September 1, 2000. NCRIC contends that Columbia breached the agreement; Columbia contends that it did not.

Columbia's Issues

2. Whether NCRIC breached the Retro Plan by, inter alia, failing to pay Columbia Return Premium that Columbia was due and seeking payment from Columbia in violation of the parties' oral agreement? Columbia contends that NCRIC breached the agreement; NCRIC contends that it did not.

3. Whether NCRIC evaded the spirit of the contract, willfully rendered imperfect performance, and/or interfered with Columbia's performance by, inter alia, performing Reconciliations inaccurately? Columbia contends that NCRIC did; NCRIC contends that it did not.

4. Whether NCRIC breached its fiduciary duty to Columbia by, inter alia, failing to perform Reconciliations honestly and accurately; demanding a $1 million deposit when it was not due and then refusing to return the $1 million; refusing to allow Columbia to audit NCRIC's calculations; and causing Columbia to overpay Additional Premium? Columbia contends that NCRIC did; NCRIC contends that it did not.

5. Whether NCRIC wrongfully interfered with Columbia's business relations with the Attending Faculty doctors, causing about 30 Attending Faculty members to terminate their association with Columbia and move the bulk of their practices to Sibley and/or George Washington University hospitals? Columbia contends that NCRIC did; NCRIC contends that it did not.

16d-002863

6. Whether NCRIC wrongfully interfered with Columbia's reasonable expectation of continuing its business relations with the Attending Faculty doctors, causing about 30 Attending Faculty members to terminate their association with Columbia and move the bulk of their practices to Sibley and/or GW hospitals? Columbia contends that NCRIC did; NCRIC contends that it did not.

7. Whether NCRIC made false representations of material facts to Columbia, including those relating to NCRIC's improper Retro Plan calculations, and concealed from Columbia material facts that amounted to a misrepresentation by refusing to provide Columbia information as provided for by the Retro Plan and by refusing to provide Columbia access to data necessary independently to verify NCRIC's bookkeeping? Columbia contends that NCRIC did; NCRIC contends that it did not.

8. Whether NCRIC negligently made false representations by, inter alia, miscalculating Reconciliations? Columbia contends that NCRIC did; NCRIC contends that it did not.

9. Whether NCRIC published material false statements about Columbia that disparaged Columbia, causing Columbia harm to its reputation and substantial economic loss? Columbia contends that NCRIC did; NCRIC contends that it did not.

10. Whether NCRIC published false and misleading statements that disparaged the quality of Columbia's services as a health care facility, causing Columbia harm to its reputation and substantial economic loss? Columbia contends that NCRIC did; NCRIC contends that it did not.

16d-002864

11. Whether NCRIC unlawfully exercised ownership, dominion, and control over Columbia's $1 million deposit, in denial or repudiation of Columbia's rights to the money. Columbia contends that NCRIC did; NCRIC contends that it did not.

G. REQUESTED STIPULATIONS

Attached at Tab G are the parties' Proposed Stipulations and objections, as follows:

1. NCRIC's Proposed Stipulations
2. Columbia's Objections to NCRIC's Proposed Stipulations
3. Columbia's Proposed Stipulations
4. NCRIC's Objections to Columbia's Proposed Stipulations

H. RELIEF SOUGHT

1. NCRIC seeks the following relief:

NCRIC seeks to recover money owed by Columbia pursuant to the calculations agreed to by the parties in the Retro Plan. The amount of Return Premium owed is calculated in quarterly reconciliations of premium according to methodology contained in the Retro Plan. Columbia currently owes NCRIC the sum of $3,090,693, or such amount as is calculated periodically under the plan.

2. Columbia seeks the following relief:

- lost profits in the amount of approximately $21.5 million;
- lost proceeds from annual fundraiser (more than $1.5 million per year);
- loss of $35 million, low-interest HUD loan, reasonably expected to reduce the hospital's cost of capital from 10.5% to 4.5% per month (resulting in lost savings for Columbia of approximately $2 million per year);
- more than $1.5 million for expenses incurred in connection with bankruptcy;

- return of $1 million deposit;
- $765,347.49 in Return Premium;
- prejudgment interest;
- punitive damages;
- costs, including reasonable attorney fees;
- further relief as the Court may deem just and equitable.

I. CITATIONS

Attached at Tab I are lists of citations that the parties wish to call to the Court's attention.

1. NCRIC's Citations

2. Columbia's Citations

Each party is providing the Court with copies of those authorities not found in D.C. Code, A.2d, or U.S. App. D.C. Because of the volume of the authorities, each party is submitting for the Court's convenience two separate stand-alone volumes to accompany the citation lists – one volume with citations relevant to the substantive claims, and a second volume with citations relevant to the pending motions listed in Section J below.

J. PENDING MOTIONS

NCRIC

The following motions were filed by NCRIC on June 5, 2003:

1. NCRIC's Motion To Require Defendant to Provide Security for Costs

2. NCRIC's Motion for Leave to Amend the Complaint

3. NCRIC's Motion for Reference to a Special Master

4. NCRIC's Motion To Exclude the Opinions and Testimony of Defendant Columbia's Designated Damages Expert

16d-002866

5. NCRIC's Motion to Exclude Evidence of Certain Counterclaim Damages

6. NCRIC's Motion to Exclude the Testimony of Columbia's Newly Named Witnesses

7. NCRIC's Motion to Exclude Certain Documents and Calculations

8. NCRIC's Motion To Compel and for Sanctions Pursuant to Rules 33(b) and 37(a)

Columbia

The following motions were filed by Columbia on June 5, 2003:

1. Motion in Limine of Defendant To Exclude Testimony of NCRIC's Purported Expert Witnesses

2. Motions in Limine of Defendant

   a. Motion To Re-Order Presentation of Proof to Conform to Evidence

   b. Motion To Establish Admissibility of Documentary Exhibits Before Trial

K. WITNESSES

Attached at Tab K are the parties' respective Witness Lists.

1. NCRIC's Witness List

2. Columbia's Witness List

The matters about which experts will, if allowed by the Court, testify are as follows:

1. NCRIC's Experts

A) James McGuire, Esq.: Mr. McGuire's testimony will support NCRIC's claim that the loss reserves set by NCRIC under the Retro Plan were valid, adequate, proper and correctly calculated based upon appropriate insurance industry methods.

16d-002867

B) James D. Hurley: Mr. Hurley's testimony will support NCRIC's claim that the premiums owed by Columbia are calculated using the proper deposit factors which were derived as a result of mathematical and actuarial computation.

C) Steve Moore: Mr. Moore's testimony will support NCRIC's rebuttal of the damages alleged by Columbia to have been caused by NCRIC's commission of various alleged torts. Mr. Moore will support NCRIC's position that any losses experienced by Columbia (such as decreased profits) are the result of other factors outside of any alleged misconduct by NCRIC.

D) W. McKay Henderson and Mary Woodford: Mr. Henderson and Ms. Woodford's testimony will support NCRIC's rebuttal of Columbia's expert testimony regarding damages allegedly suffered as a result of NCRIC's alleged misconduct. Mr. Henderson and Ms. Woodford's testimony will support NCRIC's position that any losses experienced by Columbia (such as decreased profits) are the result of other factors outside of any alleged misconduct by NCRIC.

2. Columbia's Expert

Peter Ben Ezra: In his role as an expert, Mr. Peter Ben Ezra, Professor of Accountancy at the George Washington University's School of Business and Public Management, will testify with respect to the calculation of lost profits incurred by Columbia as a result of NCRIC's tortious conduct.

L. EXHIBITS

Attached at Tab L are the parties' Exhibit Lists and objections to exhibits, as follows:

1. NCRIC's Exhibit Summary Form
2. Columbia's Objections to NCRIC's Exhibits

16d-002868

3. Columbia's Exhibit Summary Form

4. NCRIC's Objections to Columbia's Exhibits

Each party is also submitting separately a copy of its objections, together with copies of the exhibits to which the objections are made.

Both parties reserve the right to offer all exhibits listed on the opposing party's exhibit list, as well as all deposition exhibits and rebuttal exhibits that have not been identified herein. To the extent one party has identified a document as an exhibit, at this time, that party is not stipulating to the authenticity or admissibility of that document. To the extent Columbia and NCRIC identify the same exhibit, both parties preserve the right to object to its admission.

M. DEPOSITIONS

Attached at Tab M are the parties' respective deposition designations, as follows:

1. NCRIC's Deposition Designations

2. Columbia's Deposition Designations

Both parties reserve the right to object at trial to any designation of deposition testimony included in this submission pursuant to Superior Court Rule 32(b) and/or to require additional parts of depositions that ought in fairness to be considered with the part designated pursuant to Superior Court Rule 32(a)(5).

N. PLEADINGS AND DISCOVERY RESPONSES

Attached at Tab N are the parties' respective designations of pleadings and discovery responses, as follows:

1. NCRIC's Designations of Pleadings and Discovery Responses

2. Columbia's Designations of Pleadings and Discovery Responses

O. DEMONSTRATIVE OR PHYSICAL EVIDENCE

The parties have agreed to exchange the demonstrative aids they intend to use in their opening statements and cases-in-chief one week prior to trial. Both sides reserve the right to prepare additional demonstratives aids based on the evidence actually adduced at trial, subject to 24 hours' advance notice to the opposing party.

P. VIDEOTAPES

The parties do not expect to use videotapes at trial.

Q. REQUESTED VOIR DIRE QUESTIONS

Attached at Tab Q are the requested questions that the parties have agreed upon and those that the parties have not agreed upon.

R. LIST OF STANDARD JURY INSTRUCTIONS REQUESTED

1. The following standard instructions have been agreed upon:

Instruction 1-1	Function of the Court
Instruction 1-2	Function of the Jury
Instruction 1-4	Juror's Duty To Deliberate
Instruction 1-5	Attitude and Conduct of Jurors
Instruction 1-6	Instructions To Be Considered as a Whole
Instruction 1-7	Court's Commenting on the Evidence
Instruction 1-8	Court's Questions to Witnesses
Instruction 1-9	Jury Not To Take Cue from Judge
Instruction 1-10	Rulings on Objections
Instruction 1-11	Equality of Litigants – Corporations
Instruction 2-1	Evidence in the Case
Instruction 2-2	Evidence in the Case – Judicial Notice
Instruction 2-3	Inferences
Instruction 2-4	Inadmissible and Stricken Evidence
Instruction 2-5	Statements of Counsel
Instruction 2-6	Jury's Recollection of Controls
Instruction 2-7	Evidence Admitted Against One Party Only
Instruction 2-9	Evidence Produced by Adversary

16d-002870

Instruction 2-10	Direct and Circumstantial Evidence
Instruction 3-1	Jury To Determine Credibility of Witnesses
Instruction 3-2	Number of Witnesses
Instruction 3-3	Expert Opinion
Instruction 3-4	Failure To Produce Stronger Available Evidence
Instruction 3-5	Depositions as Evidence
Instruction 3-8	Impeachment by Prior Inconsistent Statements
Instruction 3-9	Adopting Prior Inconsistent Statements
Instruction 3-10	Charts and Summaries
Instruction 4-4	Columbia's Claims, Cross-Claims, and Third-Party Complaints
Instruction 4-5	Consideration of the Evidence – Corporate Party's Agents and Employees
Instruction 6-2	Vicarious Liability – Basis
Instruction 11-12	Contract To Be Construed as a Whole
Instruction 11-13	Terms of a Contract – Evidence
Instruction 12-2	Extent of Damages – Proximate Cause
Instruction 12-3	Burden of Proof – Speculative Damages
Instruction 17-4	Interpretation/Defamatory Meaning
Instruction 17-5	Identification
Instruction 17-14	Punitive Damages
Instruction 20-7	Fraudulent Misrepresentation – Reliance on Actionability of Misrepresentation
Instruction 20-8	Fraud – Opinion
Instruction 20-10	Reliance Where Falsity Obvious – Duty To Investigate

2. The following instructions have not been agreed upon:

Standard Instructions Requested by NCRIC

None.

Standard Instructions Requested by Columbia

General Instructions

Instruction 2-8	Burden of Proof

16d-002871

Columbia's Claim 1 & NCRIC's Claim 1 (Breach of Contract)

Instruction 11-1	Contract – Defined
Instruction 11-2	Contract Formation – Elements
Instruction 11-3	Offer
Instruction 11-4	Acceptance
Instruction 11-5	Consideration
Instruction 11-6	Past Act Not Consideration
Instruction 11-7	Intent To Be Bound
Instruction 11-8	Certainty
Instruction 11-9	Express and Implied Contracts
Instruction 11-10	Oral Contracts
Instruction 11-14	Contract Interpretation – Course of Performance
Instruction 11-16	Condition Precedent
Instruction 11-17	Breach of Contract – Defined
Instruction 11-19	Excuse from Performance
Instruction 11-20	Prevention of a Condition
Instruction 11-22	Estoppel
Instruction 11-23	Modification
Instruction 11-24	Substantial Performance
Instruction 11-25	Waiver
Instruction 11-26	Novation
Instruction 11-27	Mistake
Instruction 11-28	Fraud in the Inducement
Instruction 11-29	Undue Influence
Instruction 11-30	Duress
Instruction 11-31	Breach of Contract – Damages
Instruction 11-32	Nominal Damages

Columbia's Claim 6 (Fraud)

Instruction 20-1	Fraudulent Misrepresentation – Elements of the Claim
Instruction 20-2	Fraudulent Misrepresentation – Elements Defined
Instruction 20-3	Fraudulent Misrepresentation – Burden of Proof
Instruction 20-4	Fraudulent Misrepresentation – Determination of Liability and Damages
Instruction 20-5	Fraudulent Misrepresentation – Misrepresentation Made Through Third Person
Instruction 20-6	Fraudulent Misrepresentation – Plaintiff's Reliance Upon Own Investigation
Instruction 20-9	Fraud – Predictions

16d-002872

Columbia's Claim 8 (Defamation or Libel)

Instruction 17-1	Defamation – Private Plaintiff/Non-Media Defendant
Instruction 17-6	Substantial Truth
Instruction 17-7	Consent
Instruction 17-13	Compensatory Damages

Damages

Instruction 12-1	Damages – Jury To Award
Instruction 12-7	Duty To Mitigate Damages
Instruction 16-1	Punitive Damages
Instruction 16-2	Punitive Damages Against a Corporation
Instruction 16-3	Computation of Punitive Damages Award

S. NON-STANDARD JURY INSTRUCTIONS

Attached at Tab S are proposed non-standard jury instructions, as follows:

1. NCRIC's Proposed Jury Instructions
2. Columbia's Objections to NCRIC's Proposed Jury Instructions
3. Columbia's Proposed Jury Instructions
4. NCRIC's Objections to Columbia's Proposed Jury Instructions

T. VERDICT FORM

Attached at Tab T are proposed verdict forms, as follows:

1. NCRIC's Proposed Verdict Form
2. Columbia's Objections to NCRIC's Proposed Verdict Form
3. Columbia's Proposed Verdict Form
4. NCRIC's Objections to Columbia's Proposed Verdict Form

U. SETTLEMENT

1. NCRIC Statement Regarding Settlement:

The parties engaged in extensive settlement negotiations, including the exchange of draft agreements, throughout the Fall of 2001. Although NCRIC believes it is owed the amounts due as calculated under the Retro Plan, the parties agreed in principle on an amount of $1.5 million for NCRIC to hold as collateral while reconciliation calculations under the Retro Plan continue over the next few years. Unfortunately, previous settlement negotiations have stalled due to Columbia's repeated attempts to push NCRIC down farther in priority behind a group of Columbia's secured and unsecured creditors. Columbia has also consistently imposed additional conditions into the draft settlement agreement which are unnecessarily prejudicial to NCRIC. At subsequent settlement meetings and court-sponsored mediation attempts in 2002, Columbia appears to have had essentially an unexplained $5 million swing in how the hospital values this case. Despite Columbia's drastic shift in position, NCRIC has again within the last month extended a proposal for resolution of this case by the parties. Columbia has not responded to that proposal.

2. Columbia Statement Regarding Settlement:

The parties have engaged in court-ordered mediation and private settlement discussions, neither of which yielded any meaningful progress. Columbia respectfully submits that settlement of this matter is not likely.

V. ESTIMATED LENGTH OF TRIAL

NCRIC estimates that the trial will run approximately 5-10 days.

Columbia estimates that the trial will run approximately 5 days.

16d-002874

The foregoing Joint Pretrial Statement, as revised at the pretrial conference in the presence of the parties and counsel, shall stand as the pretrial order in this case.

Dated: July 24, 2003

Respectfully submitted,

Scott M. Badami by ECS with permission

Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar No. 435375
Margaret G. Perl, D.C. Bar No. 472003
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005
(202) 508-6000

Attorneys for:
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant NCRIC, Inc.

Eli C. Schulman

Mark C. Hansen, D.C. Bar No. 425930
Neil M. Gorsuch, D.C. Bar No. 456411
Eli C. Schulman, D.C. Bar No. 472879
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Attorneys for:
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Pretrial Conference, July 31, 2003
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

JOINT PRETRIAL STATEMENT
CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

We hereby certify that, on this 24th day of July 2003, a copy of the Joint Pretrial Statement, and all attachments thereto, was served upon opposing counsel by hand delivery.

We further certify that, on this 24th day of July 2003, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned papers was served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.

Scott M. Badami by ECS with permission

Scott M. Badami

Eli C. Schulman

Eli C. Schulman

****
 TX REPORT ***
****

TRANSMISSION OK

TX/RX NO	4762
CONNECTION TEL	7988001982025086200
SUBADDRESS
CONNECTION ID	BRYAN CAVE,DC
ST. TIME	02/02 16:00
USAGE T	15'54
PGS.	61
RESULT	OK

FAXED

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
Sumner Square
1615 M Street, N.W.
Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

FACSIMILE TRANSMISSION

TO: Rodney Page, Esq. Fax: (202) 508-6200
Scott Badami, Esq.

FROM: Eugene M. Paige

PHONE: (202) 326-7988

DATE: February 2, 2004

Matter: 00198

TOTAL NUMBER OF PAGES: 60 (INCLUDING THIS SHEET)

IF YOU DO NOT RECEIVE ALL PAGES, PLEASE CALL OUR SERVICE CENTER AT (202) 326-7949
OUR FAX NUMBER: (202) 326-7999

THE INFORMATION CONTAINED IN THIS FACSIMILE MESSAGE IS PRIVILEGED AND CONFIDENTIAL

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, Inc.,	*
	*
Plaintiff,	*
	*	Civil Action No.: 00-7308
vs.	*	Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
	*	Calendar 8
	*
Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.	*
	*
	*
Defendant.	*
	*

ORDER DENYING DEFENDANT COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.'S MOTION TO EXCLUDE EVIDENCE BASED ON DOCUMENTS PRODUCTED THREE BUSINESS DAYS BEFORE TRIAL AND DEMONSTRATIVES PRODUCED AFTER THE COURT ORDERED DEADLINE

This motion came before the Court on January 28, 2004 prior to the impaneling of the jury in the above-captioned trial. Upon consideration of the defendant's motion and oral argument, and the plaintiff's oral argument in opposition thereto, the Court DENIED the motion without prejudice.

Accordingly, it is this 3rd day of February, 2004 hereby ordered that the record shall reflect that the motion was denied in open court on January 28, 2004.

A. Blackburne-Rigsby
Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby

MAILED

16d-002878

Copies to:
Kellogg, Huber, Hanson, Todd & Evans, PLLC
Neil M. Gorsuch
Eli C. Schulman
1615 M Street, NW
Suite 400
Washington D.C. 20036

Bryan Cave, LLP
Rodney F. Page
Scott M. Badami
700 Thirteenth St., NW
Washington D.C. 20005-3960

Roy I. Niedermayer
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, Inc.,	*
	*
Plaintiff,	*
	*	Civil Action No.: 00-7308
vs.	*	Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
	*	Calendar 8
	*
Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.	*
	*
	*
Defendant.	*
	*

FILED
CIVIL ACTIONS BRANCH
FEB 0 3 2004
Superior Court
of the District of Columbia

ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFF'S MOTION TO PERMIT VOIR DIRE OF COLUMBIA'S PURPORTED DAMAGE EXPERT, PETER BEN EZRA, PRIOR TO IMPANELING THE JURY

This motion came before the Court on January 28, 2004 prior to the impaneling of the jury in the above-captioned trial. Upon consideration of the plaintiff's motion and oral argument, and the defendant's oral argument in opposition thereto, the Court DENIED the motion without prejudice.

Accordingly, it is this 3rd day of February, 2004 hereby ordered that the record shall reflect that the motion was denied in open court on January 28, 2004.

A. Blackburne-Rigsby
Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby

DOCKETED FEB 0 4 2004

MAILED FEB 0 4 2004

Copies to:
Kellogg, Huber, Hanson, Todd & Evans, PLLC

16d-002880

Neil M. Gorsuch
Eli C. Schulman
1615 M Street, NW
Suite 400
Washington D.C. 20036

Bryan Cave, LLP
Rodney F. Page
Scott M. Badami
700 Thirteenth St., NW
Washington D.C. 20005-3960

Roy I. Niedermayer
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814

16d-002881

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC., Plaintiff/ Counter-Defendant,
v.	Civil Action No. 7308-00
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC., Defendant/ Counter-Plaintiff.

Washington, D. C.

Tuesday, February 3, 2004

The above-entitled action resumed for a jury trial before the Honorable ANNA BLACKBURN-RIGSBY, Associate Judge, in Courtroom Number 48-A.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS HER ORIGINAL NOTES AND RECORDS OF TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

2004 MAR -3 P 3:51
SUPERIOR COURT/DIVISION
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
COURTS

APPEARANCES:

On behalf of the Plaintiff:

RODNEY PAGE, Esquire
SCOTT M. BADAMI, Esquire

On behalf of the Defendant:

NEIL GORSUCH, Esquire
ELI SCHULMAN, Esquire
PRIYA AIYAR, Esquire

DONNA K. HAWKINS
Official Court Reporter Telephone: 879-1035

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002882

from Columbia to -- I would like the total if you know -- George Washington and Sibley?

A I do not have a breakout between the two. I believe it to be in the range of thirty to forty, but a specific number I do not have.

Q What about the reasons? Do you know why those physicians left Columbia to move their practices to Sibley and George Washington?

A I do not know why.

Q Was it your understanding that it was -- had to do with the termination of the Retro Plan that they could no longer get the discount on NCRIC's insurance at Columbia?

A It was my understanding that that was one issue related to the decision, although I didn't speak to the physicians directly about their individual decisions.

Q Was it your understanding that the physicians who did leave did leave around the time -- when I say leave, I mean move their practices -- around the time the Retro Plan was terminated?

A That is my understanding.

Q Do you know what his understanding is?

A I do not know.

Q You said that it was your understanding that one of the rasons was the Retro Plan; correct?

A That is correct.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002883

of Marketing.

Q Does that entail any contact with actual policyholders?

A Yes.

Q Let me be specific. Does your job entail contact?

A Yes.

Q Can you give me an example of the types of policyholders that you speak with on a daily basis?

A Physicians, Ancillary Specialists, Hospital Directors.

Q Have any endorsements similar to Columbia been issued with regard to ambulatory clinics, i.e., the physicians will not be covered in the clinic, but they can practice there?

A I don't recall any specifics applying to ambulatory clinics. There have been a number of endorsements generated that exempt certain activities of physicians, but from coverage under the policy.

Q Can you give me some specific examples of those endorsements?

A Sure. Physicians who do work for a hospital under the coverage of the hospital insurance or trust that practice would be excluded from coverage under the NCRIC policy. Physicians at the hospital who serve in a voluntary capacity such that it's protected under the hospital coverage, that activity would be excluded. Physicians who practice on behalf of the Government and, therefore, are subject to immunity under the Government statute, that practice would be excluded from coverage under the policy.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q Do you know who would have made that decision with regard to whether or not NCRIC considered the clinic a prudent underwriting risk?

A I would assume senior management, but I don't know specifically.

Q Is this why the endorsement was issued?

A I'm sorry?

Q Is that why the endorsement was issued because NCRIC no longer considered it a prudent underwriting risk to insure activities at the clinic?

A From my standpoint, the endorsement was issued because I was directed to do so by my superior.

Q And you haven't speculated ever as to why that occurred?

A No.

Q So you don't know whether or not anyone at NCRIC in your level of management or above no longer considered it to be prudent underwriting risk to insure activities at the clinic at that time?

A I don't know independently. I see it stated that

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

way in the letter.

Q You don't know whether it's just words on paper or if it's a true statement?

A I don't know.

Q Do you know of any other exclusionary endorsements that were issued in the District of Columbia up to the time of this letter for the reasons stated in that last sentence, that it was no longer a prudent underwriting risk to insure activities at that facility?

A (No response.)

Q Which means you can ask to rephrase it if you want?

A Let me think for a moment. I don't recall any speficially within my stand of employment, no.

Q Do you know whether any NCRIC has any policies with regards to situations and/or facilities that are too dangerous so that you wouldn't underwrite the risk of practicing in those situations?

A There is no specific policy that I'm aware of.

Q Are there any facilities in the District that NCRIC has determined it's not a prudent underwriting risk to insure activity at that particular facility?

A In the District, not that I'm aware of.

Q How about the three-state area?

A Within that three-state area, I'm not aware of

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

any facilities.

Q You have no idea why NCRIC's senior management above yourself decided not to insure any activity of the clinic; is that correct?

A Correct.

Q Do you know who was involved with the decision to terminate the policy as well?

A I was given instructions by either Mr. Fargis, Mr. Pate or Mr. Osborn to terminate the policy.

Q Do you remember whether any information was conveyed to you at that time in addition to simply, "this policy must be terminated?"

A I don't recall.

Q Was there any reason given?

A No.

Q Did you know why it was being terminated?

A No.

Q Did you not speculate why it was being terminated?

A No.

Q Have you subsequently speculated as to why it was terminated?

A No.

Q Is there a reason why you don't speculate about these types of things?

A Because when I'm given an order by my superiors,

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

I carry it out. And if they choose to share their rationale with me, it's their privilege to do so.

Q Who generally at that time -- at the time that this letter was sent out had the authority to decide for underwriting reasons to terminate a policy?

A Mr. Pate, Mr. Osborn, Mr. Fargis.

Q Did you have authority?

A I suppose I did. If I did, I never exercised it independently. I certainly would not have exercised it without consulting them first.

Q Was this the type of decision you would consult them for?

A Because any cancellation outside of normal expiration dates of the policy is something that I kept them informed of.

Q Has anyone subsequent at this time in senior management given an explanation of the reason for the termination of this policy?

A No.

Q Have you ever asked?

A No.

Q I'm going to ask you to look on the June 30 letter. Can you see, is there a reason for the termination given in that letter or the attached notice of cancellation?

A The August 1 first letter cites the reason for

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002888

cancellation as material change with respect to insurability?

Q Right. Did you see that at all in the June 30 letter?

A No, I don't.

Q Do you know if at the time Columbia was told why the termination occurred?

A I don't know.

Q Is it typical that the cancellation of a policy occurs mid-policy and no reason given for the termination?

A No.

Q An entity policy?

A To the best of my knowledge of the twenty or so entity policies we have, this is the only one that has been cancelled.

Q No other entity policy has been cancelled for people not being current on their premium?

A No, entity policy has ever been cancelled for any reason except this one.

Q So even out of a hundred or so, can you think of any instances that you know of where an entity policy has been cancelled where the premium is cancelled and no claims have been made?

A Yes. When practices are discontinued, the premium is current and there are no claims made and the entity simply goes out of business.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A Yes, I have.

Q How much was at issue in that lawsuit?

A It was tens of millions of dollars. It was for the Agriculture Research Service. I did the Discounted Cash Flow Analysis and it was used in a court of law.

Q What was the result of that lawsuit for the Government?

A The Federal Government won and the contractor had to pay and the bonding company had to pay.

Q Did you receive a citation from the Government for your service?

A Yes, I received an award from the Government for that particular project.

Q Have you used Discounted Cash Flow Analysis of the sort employed here in this case for private clients as well as Government clients?

A Yes, I have.

Q How much money have private clients spent or invested in reliance of Discounted Cash Flow Analysis?

A Millions of dollars.

Q Do you teach accounting on a part-time basis?

A Yes. I'm an adjunct faculty professor of George Washington University and I have taught for them for twenty-six years.

Q What courses do you teach at George Washington?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002890

A I teach Financial Accounting, Managerial Accounting, Financial Statement Analysis.

Q What kind of students do you teach?

A I teach undergraduate students and graduate students and I also teach MBA candidates because they are taking their MBA when they take my course.

Q What is your title at Georgetown?

A Not Georgetown.

Q At George Washington University?

A I'm a professor.

Q And how long again have you been teaching?

A Since about 1978.

Q And do you teach Discounted Cash Flow Analysis and accounting techniques like you employed in this case?

A Yes, I do. I teach it every semester. Each class gets one or two class periods in which that is all we do is Discounted Cash Flow Analysis.

Q Have you contributed to any textbooks in the field?

A Yes, I have. I contributed to the Eighth Edition of the Managerial Accounting Textbook that we use in our graduate program. And I have also written the +- bank for that, the Eighth Edition and for the Seventh Edition also.

Q You also teach Continued Education Seminars?

A Yes, I teach Continuing Education Seminars for

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

the D. C. Institute of CPA and I have also taught for Maryland CPA and also the New York Society of CPA's.

Q Who attends those kind of Continuing Education Seminars?

A Those are primarily attended by CPA's who are seeking continued professional education and they are specialty type courses.

Q To professionals?

A Yes.

Q And how long have you taught professional CPA?

A Since approximately 1978.

Q Twenty-six years?

A Yes.

Q Do you teach about Discounted Cash Flow Analysis techniques to these CPA's?

A Yes, I do, especially in the real estate courses.

Q And how many students in total would you say that you have taught Discounted Cash Flow Analysis to over the years?

A At least two thousand. Probably more.

Q Have you held any positions within professional CPA organizations?

A Yes, I have. I have been on the D. C. Institute of CPA Board of Governors for five years. I was also on their Ethics Committee for seven years. I was Chairman of

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q Did the data you used in order to determine how much was left come from the hospital's normal business records?

A Yes, it did.

Q Was it the sort of financial data that was relied upon by the Board in making business decisions?

A Yes, it was.

Q Now, did you use the hospital's revenue data or the cash flow data?

A I used the cash flow data.

Q And who does that favor, Columbia or NCRIC?

A That favors NCRIC.

Q Why?

A Because if we used the financial statement data, we would use revenues, but revenues are what's earned and not necessarily what is corrected.

Q So, you focused on the cash flow which was what was actually collected by Columbia?

A That's correct which is a stronger -- I used the term more asset test.

Q Any why did you choose to use cash flow instead of revenues?

A One, because it was conservative, and two, the issue really is cash flow and so the important thing was to figure out what was the lost cash flow to the loss

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

as a result of a group of doctors leaving.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, I object on grounds that lost cash flow is not relevant to this case and not a proper element of damages.

THE COURT: Sustained. You can rephrase the question, please.

MR. GORSUCH: Sure.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Did you conduct any test to determine whether the cash flow data you used would be a reliable basis?

A Yes, I did.

Q And did you compare the cash flow data that you relied upon with the revenue statement from the hospital?

A Yes, I did.

Q Did you seek to use cash flow data from earlier years too?

A Yes, I did.

Q Ultimately did you conclude that the prior year data was reliable or unreliable?

A I concluded it was unreliable after applying some tests to it.

Q Did you try and reconstruct it?

A I tried to go back, have counsel go back to the information technology people to try to generate the data.

Q How much time did you spend seeking to try and

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002894

gather cash flow data for the hospital?

A I would say about forty hours.

Q And did you determine that the before data that you used for the year immediately preceding the doctors as part of your test were reliable?

A Yes, I did.

Q Were you aware of any other reliable data regarding cash flow before or after that you didn't employ?

A No, I was not.

Q Are you aware that NCRIC has offered an expert in this case?

A Yes, I am.

Q Did they point out to you in their report or efforts any other cash flow data that you should have used?

MR. PAGE: I object, Your Honor. That hearsay at this point.

MR. GORSUCH: It's what he relied on, Your Honor. It goes to explain the basis for his opinion.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained at this point.

MR. GORSUCH: I will ask it this way.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Are you aware of any other reliable data on cash flow that you chose not to use?

A No, I used the best available data.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q In comparing the cash flow data from the year immediately before and the year immediately after the doctors left, what did you find?

A I found out there was a major dive.

Q Did it go up or down?

A It went down.

Q And what was the damages you found the difference before and after before you made any reductions?

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, I object to this point again. The cash flow is not a proper measure of damages and he's not testifying about lost profit. He's testifying about cash flow.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, this is straight out of the report.

THE COURT: The objection is overruled.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q What did you find?

A I found there was approximately a four million dollar difference.

Q Annually?

A Annually.

Q And did you run that out over twenty years?

A Yes, I ran it out over a period of twenty years.

Q And so, what was the total number that you came up with?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002896

A I came up with under that analysis was approximately as I recall fifty-two million dollars.

Q Now, did you stop there at that point and say damages are fifty-two million dollars?

A No, I did not.

Q Did you make some reductions to NCRIC's statement?

A Yes, I did.

Q Beyond using cash flow, did you reduce damages to take into account for potential collection difficulties?

A Yes, I did.

Q And what data did you use there?

A I used the actual collection rate. In other words, they bill at the hospital basically at retail and then they have to adjust that amount down and the adjustments are usually because of contracts that are made with insurance companies to accept something less than full retail price. Also, they are adjusted down to reflect charity care and Columbia did between three and five million dollars a year in charity care. And so that's adjusted out and arrived at a number which I call the most realizable value. And then I compare the cash collections against that realizable value and found they only collected about ninety-five percent of that net realizable value.

Q So, did you reduce your initial assessment to

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002897

Q So as the number of doctors or patients increase, so do the marginal costs?

A That's correct. It's a marginal cost.

Q And you took out the marginal cost; is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q Okay. What marginal cost rate did you use in your analysis?

A I used thirty percent which I consider a very high rate.

Q Can you explain why you considered it a high rate?

A Because basically it's out of pocket cost to the hospital, the cost of supplies and medication which is relatively small. If I were to come in as a patient, they would have to pay for three meals, there would be breakfast, lunch and dinner. That's a relatively small cost to the hospital. There would be the cost of the laundry for doing the bedsheets and the blankets. That's a small cost. The medications that aren't billed is a small cost. Most of the medications are billed.

Q Well, first of all, why did you consider thirty percent?

A Well, because of my knowledge and experience in accounting for almost thirty years. I have done indirect cost rates for the Federal Government for almost

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002898

twenty years and I was responsible for indirect cost rates. I know what costs should be and personally it should have been something closer to twenty percent, but if I were to err, I would err on the high side. And so I took thirty percent which is in NCRIC's favor.

Q Who does the higher marginal cost rate favor and why?

A It favors NCRIC because if I were to use a lower amount, then that would increase the cash flow to the hospital for the analysis. Again, to be conservative, I took that alternative which was less favorable to Columbia Hospital for Women and more favorable to NCRIC in this case. That's part of conservatism.

Q In terms of getting to the thirty percent marginal rate numbers, what material did you look and rely upon?

A I used an accounting textbook that I teach from, in fact, in undergrad school. That is a problem that I use in class. It talks about a St. Vincent Hospital that has a thirty percent variable cost or marginal cost rate and forty-two million dollars in fixed costs. And then it asks the students to determine what is the break even point. And it's then asked the number of patient days it would take for that hospital to break even.

Q And what is the marginal rate used in that problem in the textbook?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002899

A It's thirty percent. The same thirty percent I used in your analysis.

Q At your deposition were you sure whether or not that was a real problem for a real hospital?

A At the deposition, you have to understand I was under a lot of stress in that deposition. That was one of the few depositions I ever had in my lifetime, and I was not sure whether that was, in fact, an actual case or not.

Q Did you subsequently investigate that?

A Yes, I did.

Q What did you find?

A I found in the preface to the book, it talks about the cases and it says that they used real life cases in the preface to the book.

Q Did you rely on anything else in coming to your thirty percent figure?

A Yes. Right after I left the Federal Government, I did some independent contractor work for the Columbia Hospital for Women medical staff.

Now, in that role I did ask -- the then Comptroller, Warren Danfield, what rate should I use for the term indirect cost but we can use marginal costs or variable costs in the same term, what rate could I use to do a break even analysis. And he suggested to me to use the thirty percent rate.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002900

Q And did you, in fact, use that in conducting work for the medical staff, the doctors at Columbia Hospital?

A Yes, I did.

Q And they relied on that in their ordinary business?

A Yes, the medical staff relied upon that analysis.

Q Is there anyone at Columbia who is more familiar with the marginal cost sector of the hospital than the Comptroller?

A No, the best source of that information would be the Comptroller of the Hospital. The Comptroller is responsible for preparing the financial reports and responsible for doing the tax statements and the tax reports and the tax returns. The person to go to would be the Comptroller.

Q And is that a generally accepted accounting practice in your profession to rely on information provided by Comptrollers of companies in estimating marginal cost rates?

A Yes, the Comptroller is in the best position to give me that guidance.

Q Did you also review other cases where marginal cost rates have been used?

A Yes, I did. I found a case called Coventry out of Kansas. It's in the Federal Court system where the Court found that fixed costs were seventy percent and that the marginal costs were thirty percent.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q For hospitals?

A Yes, it was a hospital case. The same thirty percent that I used.

Q Did you review any articles in the Journal of American Medical Society?

A Yes, I did.

Q What did you find?

A I found that thirty percent was actually too high. It should be a lower amount.

Q What did you find from these articles?

A Sixteen to eighteen percent.

Q If you had used sixteen or eighteen percent, who would that have favored?

A That would have favored Columbia.

Q But you didn't?

A No, I didn't.

Q And you didn't change your opinion. You continued to stick with thirty percent?

A No, I did not.

Q How many hours did you spend researching the marginal cost application?

A I would say about forty hours.

Q A week?

A Yeah.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002902

highest cost of capital to the hospital. There were lower costs of capital which I could have blended in and normally you would, but again, if I was going to err, let's err on the high side of 10.5 percent which favors NCRIC.

Q When you say cost of capital and discount rates, we're talking like the interest charge.

A Right, the cost of borrowing money.

Q Like a mortgage rate?

A Exactly. If you have a lower mortgage rate, you pay less interest. If you have a higher mortgage rate, you pay higher interest. If you were to do a mortgage and look at that form that they give you with the three hundred and sixty payments, if your interest rate is higher, you will pay more out, okay. So, therefore, it will have a lower present value. And so again, I wanted to be conservative in my estimation. I used that highest cost of capital or interest rate being charged to the hospital which is 10.5 percent.

Q What are interest rates usually today?

A Today I just negotiated a mortgage for 5.875 percent. No points.

Q But you used 10.5 percent anyway?

A That's correct. Again, I used the highest cost of capital to the hospital.

Q Were you aware that Columbia was negotiating

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q If you had used that, how would that have affected your analysis?

A That would have significantly increased the present value of the future cash flows by almost eight million dollars.

Q Are you aware of any evidence in this case suggesting that you should have used a higher discount rate than 10.5 percent?

A No, I'm not.

Q Have you reviewed all of the materials supplied by NCRIC and its experts?

A Yes, I have.

Q Is there anything in there that caused you to believe that you should have used a higher discount rate?

A No, nothing is there.

Q Besides the factors we discussed already, collectibility and marginal cash rates and the high discount rate, did you make any other reductions in favor of NCRIC?

A I think that's it.

Q Well, let me ask you about this. You took the before and after and you came up with four million dollars?

A Right.

Q Did you ever assume that Columbia might be able to increase that amount over the years?

A No, I did not.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002904

Q Did you take into account inflation?

A No, I did not factor in any growth factor at all. And again, to be conservative. It turns out that over the last four years for hospitals in general, the CPI index according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics shows that hospital rates have gone up 7.6 percent on average over those four years.

I criticize my students when they bring their phones to class. I apologize. I'm really embarrassed. And that's my daughter's phone which makes it even worse.

Q Mr. Ben Ezra, just so I understand your testimony, the inflation in the medical industry is 7.6 percent?

A On average over the last four years that's correct, and over thirty percent in total for the last four years.

Q And you found that before and after was a four million dollar drop?

A That's correct, without factoring the inflation or any growth.

Q Over any years?

A None.

Q You just said no inflation?

A I assume zero inflation, again to be as conservative as possible.

Q And over what length of period did you use for

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

measuring damages?

A In the first alternative I used twenty years.

Q Why did you select twenty years?

A Because I had talked to the doctors at the hospital and Safa Rifka and Nabil Asterbadi and asked them, and this was a majority hit to the hospital. The doctors that left were their top producers. The top admissioners. And I asked them point-blank, how long would it take to recover. And they said it would be at least a generation. That's why I used twenty years.

Now, remember, I did this report two years ago.

Q Before the hospital closed?

A Before the hospital closed. Unfortunately, it's not a generation. It's forever.

Q Why do you say that?

A There is no way that the hospital itself will ever reopen. As you know, the property has been sold. And so Columbia coming back as it was is not going to happen.

Q So, you could have run out damages longer; is that your view?

A Yeah, I could have done it for literally thirty years or forty years or fifty years. But again, to be conservative, I took twenty.

Q And taking into account all of these deductions we talked about, did you come to a final conclusion about future cash flow that is discounted at 10.5 percent for that second year.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

The third year -- if I'm going too fast slow me down.

Q Go ahead, Doctor.

A In the third year, using a discount rate of roughly eighty cents on the dollar.

Q Now, why is that? Let me stop you. What does the eighty cent represent?

A The eighty cents is two years out with compounding.

Q So 10.5 plus 10.5?

A Right. And that's roughly the math is pretty evident. Roughly ten percent each year, and so that's why it's eighty percent. And so if you were to take two million, 77 thousand 412.57, that amount that's in the net present value column and invest that for two years at an interest rate of 10.5 percent compounded annually, you would have at the end of those two years the 2 million five hundred and ninety-three 442.86.

So, each year as you go out, the present value of the future cash flows for each individual year goes out and goes down because of the time value of money.

Q And who does that favor?

A It favors NCRIC.

Q In fact, the total lost cash flow that estimated --

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

that you estimated was 51 million dollars; is that right?

A That's right, it's 51.868 which I guess rounded would be 52 million dollars.

Q And you discounted all the way down to what?

A To 22 million dollars.

Q And that was your final view?

A That was for that alternative. It was 22 million dollars on a present value basis and 52 million dollars on a total amount of dollar basis.

Q Now, how does this number compare, 22 million dollars, with the lost cash flow that you estimated with one year of lost cash flow for the hospital?

A It would be approximately half.

Q So, if I took the one lost year, if the hospital died one year earlier because of NCRIC, the damages are half that number?

A That is correct.

Q Did that favor NCRIC?

A Yes, very much so. If I had known that the hospital was going to close, then the damages would have been a lot more. When I wrote the report, when I did my analysis, the hospital was in business and the assumption was that the hospital would continue in business.

Q But you developed and you learned that those doctors are never coming back?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002908

A That is correct. I used another alternative.

Q And was it necessary for accounting professional standards to do a second test?

A No, it wasn't. I wanted to check myself and so I did it a completely different way and then compare the results and took the lower of the two.

Q And your second test, did that involve specific doctors?

A Yes, that represented twenty-four doctors and three practice groups.

Q And how did you get the names of the doctors you used?

A I got the name of the doctors that I used from counsel. It represented about thirty-seven names as I recall. And then I called those down to the twenty-four doctors and the three practice units.

Q And what were the twenty-four doctors and three practice units left that were on your list? What do they represent?

A Those represented the doctors that left Columbia or cut back at Columbia. And I was able to test and see if, in fact, that did happen. And it did. So, their numbers are basically -- those were reductions that resulted from the doctors leaving or cutting back. So, I performed some tests.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002909

Q How many doctors who left in the last half of 2000 -- only the doctors who left in the last half of 2000?

A That's correct.

Q And what kind of test? Did you compare it against your own personal knowledge from working at the hospital?

A Yes, I did. In addition, I performed mathematical tests on the data also. There were some data that although they had left and they cut back, it was not material in amount. And so I elected to exclude that amount again in NCRIC's favor.

Q And did you speak with hospital administrators to conform that those doctors were the ones that left?

A I knew from my experience on the Board for the Medical Center, as well as being a financial advisor to the Foundation Board, that the reason those doctors left was because of NCRIC.

MR.PAGE: Objection, Your Honor. Move to strike that.

THE COURT: Sustained. And that statement will be stricken from the record.

MR. GORSUCH: I'm not asking why the doctors left. We're talking about solely about how did you check the list to see that those were the doctors that left as opposed to doctors who had stayed.

THE WITNESS: Well, one of the reasons as you see in the practice groups, some of them had just initials, and

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002910

so I had to check with the administration to see which doctors were included within that practice unit.

Q Practice unit with acronyms as names?

A Yes.

Q You didn't include any doctors on your list for doctors who stayed?

A No, I did not.

Q Your analysis was limited to doctors who left?

A That is correct. It's the lost cash flow.

Q Are you aware of any other evidence suggesting that the list of doctors you ultimately wound up with was unreasonable or wrong?

A No. In fact, it's probably too conservative. It's my understanding that Mr. Pate has testified in his deposition that the number of doctors that left were between thirty and forty. Remember, I ended up using twenty-four doctors in three practice units.

Q Who is Mr. Pate?

A Mr. Pate, I believe is in NCRIC.

Q Why did you use a lower number?

A Again, to be conservative. If I'm going to err, let me err in favor of NCRIC.

Q In the second analysis, did you use assumption about the retirement age of the doctors who left?

A Yes, I did.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002911

Q Why?

A I tried to figure out how long they would continue to practice at the hospital. Sixty-five is the normal retirement age and I used sixty-five even though I know that there are many doctors at that worked into their seventies.

Q Did you, in fact, look at any reports about the hospital?

A Yes, I have.

Q And what did you find about the retirement age of doctors in the hospital?

A I found that approximately nine percent of the doctors were sixty-five and older and so, therefore, I felt that sixty-five years of an assumption was probably conservative because doctors don't like to retire. And remember, they are self-employed and they are independent businessmen under a small closely held company or individual and they tend to work longer than the normal retirement age.

Q Did you look at any information from Social Security about retirement?

A Yes, I did. Currently someone retiring today had to be sixty-five years old and four months in order to retire under normal retirement at Social Security. I was born in 1949 and so my normal retirement age is sixty-six. Somebody born in 1960, their retirement age -- or after --

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002912

A No, except for the ones prescribed earlier.

Q You used cash flow rather than revenue?

A That is correct.

Q You reused reductions for the collection data?

A That is correct.

Q You used that thirty percent high marginal rate?

A Marginal cost rate.

Q You used the 10.5; is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q And didn't all five of those favor NCRIC?

A Absolutely.

Q And based on your estimate on the second damage analysis, what did you estimate Columbia's lost cash flow to be?

A About fifty million dollars.

Q And did you discount it again?

A Yes, I discounted it 10.5 and it yielded about 21.5 million dollars.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, may we put that on the screen?

MR. PAGE: Same objection.

THE COURT: All right. The objection is noted and I will allow it to be published on the screen.

BY MR. GORSCUH:

Q Is this the summary of your second damage analysis?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002913

A Yes, it is.

Q And it lists the names of various doctors?

A That is correct.

Q And it assumes a retirement date based on age sixty-five?

A That is correct.

Q And then you accounted for the total cumulative loss to the hospital?

A That is correct.

Q And that's the fifty million dollar figure?

A That is correct.

Q And then you try the net present value?

A That is correct.

Q And that's again what you explained about the value of a dollar today not being worth as much tomorrow?

A That is correct.

Q And what figure did you use here?

A 10.5 percent was the discount rate.

Q And what was the total damage you came up with using the second?

A Okay. The present value for lost cash flow says 21.5 million dollars. The total dollar amount, however, is a little bit over fifty million dollars.

Q And again, if you used a different discount rate, say the HUD loan rate of 5.5 percent, what would the 21 million dollar figure be?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002914

A That would be 28.3 million dollars.

Q It increases the number by seven million dollars?

A Yes.

Q And again, how does that net present value cash flow compare to one year of lost cash flow from the hospital?

A It's almost half.

MR. GORSUCH: If I could, Your Honor, put both of the summaries up on the screen so that you can compare it. May we, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. GORSUCH: Thank you.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Mr. Ben Ezra, is what's depicted on the screen, does that summarize your findings using the two different analysis that you did?

A Yes, they do. But as you will notice, they are very similar.

Q In one analysis the total damages are 51 million 800 thousand dollars?

A That's correct.

Q And the other is 50 million 25 thousand dollars?

A That's correct. So, I took the lower of the two.

Q So your final opinion is to take the lower of the two?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A Again, there are two alternatives. Take that which is less favorable to Columbia Hospital for Women.

Q And the net present value of these items is 22 million versus 21.5?

A That's correct.

Q And again, both of those are approximately half the cash flow of the hospital in one year of operation?

A That's absolutely correct. And again, I took the lower of the two. Again, if you give two alternatives, take that which is less favorable to Columbia Hospital for Women and so that's the 21.5 there.

Q Has NCRIC in the two years since you supplied your report and your opinions in this case, January of 2002, caused you to revise your estimated damages?

A Yes, it has.

Q When did you receive information that caused you to revise your damages?

A About a week before the trial began, I got an indication that there were some clerical errors and that the amount needed to be adjusted down a little bit.

Q And how much did you adjust them down?

A Okay. The fifty million at the top is now adjusted down to 47.2 million, and the 21.5 million is now adjusted down to 20.4. And so the new numbers are 47.2 and 20.4. And that's my revised estimate, but again, I only got that a week ago and they had the report for two years.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002916

Q Did your damage analysis include anything for the last HUD loan?

A No, it did not.

Q The lost fund raising efforts?

A No.

Q The million dollar security deposit?

A No.

Q The money owed under the Retro contract to Columbia?

A No.

Q Fees associated with the bankruptcy?

A No.

Q And does your damage analysis cover the losses associated with the closure of the hospital?

A No, it does not because that occurred subsequent to my publishing of the report two years ago.

Q Has your involvement in this case as a witness for Columbia resulted in any harm to you personally?

A Yes, it has.

Q Can you explain?

A I was given notice by NCRIC that they would pursue me personally. They would sue me.

MR. PAGE: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q What was Columbia's financial condition at the time?

A I wasn't well aware of the financial condition. I was really moving into the Risk Manager role. I don't know that it was strong.

Q Did the hospital end up filing for bankruptcy shortly thereafter?

A Yes, in February of 1998.

Q And did Columbia give NCRIC money at the time?

A Yes.

Q Were you involved with that?

A I was involved with the transactions, yes.

Q What do you mean involved with the transaction?

A I was asked by Gerry Beaulieu to set up four disbursements for NCRIC of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars each beginning in January of 1998.

Q Did you have an understanding as to the reason for those payments?

A My understanding was that it was a deposit against future claims.

Q Did you have an understanding as to whether Columbia was supposed to receive interest for those payments?

A I would have imagined so. I would have expected interest.

Q You did expect it?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002918

to hold as a deposit, you would be accruing interest on that.

Q It was understood that Columbia would be getting interest?

A Yes.

Q The only question you raised was documentation of the interest; is that right?

A Yes.

Q What was Mr. Pate's response? Did he pay the interest?

A No.

Q He refused to pay the interest?

A We were told we weren't going to get interest.

Q Was the one million dollars referred to as a deposit by NCRIC in the course of your time at Columbia?

A Yes.

Q When was that?

A On the Retro Plan reconciliation sheet that we reviewed quarterly.

Q It was referred to on those sheets as a deposit?

A Yes.

Q Thank you. Why couldn't Columbia decide not to give NCRIC the one million dollars?

Q Well, at the point this occurred, we were already -- we did not have an agreement in place and the physicians typically renewed their professional liability policies

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q Good afternoon, Dr. Rifka.

A Good afternoon, sir.

Q I have a few questions and I'm going to try real hard to get finish today. We talked a little bit the other day, it was only yesterday, about your practice at Columbia. You were there as part of a partnership; am I correct?

A Which year and when? I was there part of a partnership?

Q Yes.

A No.

Q Let me ask the question this way. In your medical practice, you practice alone or do you practice with partners?

A Which year?

Q Well, let's say currently?

A Currently, yes, I do.

Q And while you were working at Columbia Hospital, did you practice with partners?

A No.

Q And when you testified as to the arrangement that you had at the hospital in terms of offices and staff, did any of that apply to partners that you had?

A There were no partners. We were two people in the Division of Reproducted Endocrinology, Richard Faulk

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

but I'm only asking you to tell me. And I think you have done it. It's accurate except for the one correction you made?

A No, for several corrections. Georgetown University was not purchased for profit. It was purchased by a non-for-profit. And the second is, I said that on the surgery that we don't have open surgery while we have a NICU and there is something which I said, that we continue to stand alone non-for-profit, in addition, no university medical school affiliation or endowment. And I told them not to do that.

MR. PAGE: All right. I'm going to ask no further questions of this witness.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, very briefly.

THE COURT: All right.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Dr. Rifka, even though there were no written contracts with the doctors in the hospital, is that an expectation that members would prefer to --

MR. PAGE: Objection. Scope, Your Honor.

MR. GORSUCH: He asked about written contracts yesterday.

THE COURT: Overruled. Yes, there was an expectation.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002921

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Can you explain that?

A Well, these physicians historically over decades have brought all their patients to Columbia Hospital for Women. They banded together to form the attending faculty, meaning that they have not only the history of bringing patients to the hospital, but the common objective of bringing all their patients to Columbia futuristically.

Q And before the event of this case in the summer of 2000, was there any reason to believe that was going to change?

A No, there wasn't any reason before the NCRIC clip.

Q And before the NCRIC clip, was there any reason to believe the hospital was going to close?

A No, on the contrary, the hospital at that time was doing fantastic. And we had a bright future in front of us.

Q Was there any talk of the hospital closing?

A Never.

Q We heard about the cleaning staff being out-sourced. Did they do a good job?

A The cleaning staff was out-sourced. They did a great job. This cleaning staff, the story is we out-sourced the cleaning services, but guess what we did, we

16d-002922

Laser stock Form FMRRN

Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Dr. Rifka returned to the stand in response to one of his questions from Mr. Page, he responded that one of partners was Dr. Maurice Butler who was my doctor formerly. And I wanted to disclose that to the parties. I was not aware of these relationships until I heard his testimony today. And I wanted to bring that to the parties' attention at this time.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, may I ask a question?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. PAGE: And I'm sorry to do it. You say you're a former patient.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. PAGE: The question I'm getting to is this. Is there any history that you have had being a patient of a practice in which Dr. Rifka is a partner or principal?

THE COURT: I don't know the answer to that. I know that Dr. Maurice Butler has been my doctor off and on, I guess maybe the last time I seen him was about a year ago. And so I don't know at what point in time he was with or practicing with other doctors because he's the only doctor that I saw.

MR. PAGE: I appreciate the Court's disclosure. I would like the opportunity to at least discuss it with my client.

THE COURT: All right.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,	:
Plaintiff/ Counter-Defendant,	:
v.	:	Civil Action No. 7308-00
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	:
Defendant/ Counter-Plaintiff.	:

Washington, D. C.

Wednesday, February 4, 2004

The above-entitled action resumed for a jury trial before the Honorable ANNA BLACKBURN-RIGSBY, Associate Judge, in Courtroom Number 48-A.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS HER ORIGINAL NOTES AND RECORDS OF TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

APPEARANCES:

On behalf of the Plaintiff:

RODNEY PAGE, Esquire
SCOTT M. BADAMI, Esquire

On behalf of the Defendant:

NEIL GORSUCH, Esquire
ELI SCHULMAN, Esquire
PRIYA AIYAR, Esquire

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002924

Court, the issue for us is simply to clarify if it were the case that you had any prior relationship with Dr. Rifka in a patient-doctor relationship, that would be a concern to us and is something that we had known it earlier, we might have said something about it. And so with great respect and deference to the Court, but feeling I have an obligation given that history to at least clarify it so my client knows. And then as they ask me what the story is, I will at least be able to state with complete accuracy what the situation is.

THE COURT: That's fine.

MR. PAGE: I'm asking for a clarification.

THE COURT: I have never been a patient of Dr. Rifka's. I have never seen Dr. Rifka. I don't know Dr. Rifka. I have been a patient of Dr. Butler's and as I stated yesterday, off and on for about ten years. And the last time I saw him was about a year ago.

Dr. Butler's name has never come up in this trial and it had never come up in any of the pre-trial matters. There have been a number of doctors listed by name. His name has never come up until the first time yesterday late in the afternoon. And as soon as I heard the name, I felt it was important to disclose the relationship. And so I don't know Dr. Rifka. I have not had contact with Dr. Rifka. He has never, as far as I know,

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002925

had any role in my care in terms of seeing Dr. Butler. I don't know what Dr. Butler's arrangement is or has been with Dr. Rifka. And I don't know what else to say. Dr. Rifka, I don't know.

MR. PAGE: Okay.

THE COURT: And I mean, as far as you can certainly discuss it some more because I don't want this to become an issue in the case. This is a jury trial, of course, and so I don't have any role in terms of assessing the credibility of any of the witnesses or making any determinations ultimately about the verdict or the damages. It's not a patient care case. It's a case involving a contract between Columbia Hospital for Women and NCRIC.

So, for all those reasons, it wasn't until yesterday when my doctor who I know I have seen and been a patient of came up in this trial for the first time that I felt it was important to disclose. I don't see it as an issue for recusal, but I'm certainly open to hearing any concerns before we proceed any further.

MR. PAGE: Just a final point. May I assume from your statement that you were a patient at Columbia?

THE COURT: Yes. Well, I think that's a fair statement. Dr. Butler's offices are in the Physicians Office Building at Columbia on the grounds of Columbia.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002926

MR. PAGE: All right.

MR. GORSUCH: For the record, Your Honor, the office building is not owned by the hospital and is a separate facility.

THE COURT: Well, I don't know. It says Columbia. I think the name of his practice group is Columbia Fertility Association. And so you go into the door of Columbia Hospital.

MR. GORSUCH: It's next door to the hospital. It's a separate building.

THE COURT: That may be the case. I just know I go into his office building.

MR. GORSUCH: Yes, Your Honor.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, the issue for us and I will only take a short more time on this, but the medical community in the District of Columbia is fractionized. There are some doctors who are pro-Columbia and some aren't. There are some doctors who are pro-NCRIC and some aren't. And some are anti and other factions as well. And our concern is and has been if there is any trier of fact, for example, who had a relationship that might color that even subconsciously or unconsciously, that would have been of concern to us. And I think that we did also in the voir dire express concern about people and we used preemptories on people who had been treated at

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002927

A Dr. Rifka.

Q And what was the assignment?

A I was -- the assignment?

Q What did he ask you to do to come on board to do?

A Yes. I had served on the Board and I was President, CEO, and as President and CEO, I was responsible for the administration, the management, controlling, organizing, planning for the hospital. And I was also really charged with carrying out the recovery plan that we had started as -- we had started while I was a member of the Board.

Q The hospital at this point was coming out of bankruptcy?

A Just coming out of bankruptcy.

Q And you were charged with administering the plan to recover the hospital?

A Exactly.

Q How did giving up that million dollars in 1997 to NCRIC for a security deposit affect Columbia?

MR. PAGE: Objection. Foundation.

THE COURT: Sustained. You may ask some foundational questions first.

MR. GORSUCH: I would be happy to.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q You were on the Board in 1997?

A Yes, I was.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002928

Q You were aware of Columbia's finances?

A Yes, I am.

Q How did the million dollars affect -- how did giving up the million dollars to NCRIC affect Columbia?

A It had a tremendous effect. It was one of our primary causes of our bankruptcy.

Q And how much money was involved?

A About 3.5 million dollars.

Q Did the Bankruptcy Court approve these expenses?

A Yes.

Q And they were paid?

A Yes.

MR. PAGE: I object and move to strike all of the testimony about the bankruptcy expenses.

MR. GORSUCH: It's an element of damages, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I will sustain it at this point. We're talking about the losses to the hospital first and we may be able to come back to this area later.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, I wanted to add one thing. I also object on grounds that this is not the best evidence and there is no foundation for any of the testimony.

THE COURT: All right. With respect to the best evidence, the objection is overruled. Counsel can ask a few more foundational questions.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002929

A Yes.

Q With the Retro Plan set to expire on September 1st, 2000, if I could move to 2000 now, did you personally begin negotiations with NCRIC yourself?

A Yes, I did.

Q And when did you begin those negotiations?

A I started those negotiations February - March of 2000.

Q And who was the point person at NCRIC that you were negotiating with?

A David Osborn.

Q It wasn't Mr. Pate who was the point person at NCRIC that you negotiated with?

A No.

Q It wasn't Mr. Fargis?

A No.

Q It was Mr. Osborn?

A It was Mr. David Osborn.

Q What was NCRIC's initial demand in early 2000?

A In early 2000 the first demand was nine hundred and forty-four thousand dollars.

Q Plus keeping the million dollar deposit?

A Plus retaining the million dollars. It came to a total of one million, nine hundred and forty-four thousand dollars.

Q Did you agree to that with Mr. Osborn?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A No, I did not.

Q Why not?

A The number was high. We had always contested the one million dollar deposit issue and so we thought that we could negotiate it downward. We had planned or we did negotiate it downward.

Q How about the nine hundred and forty-four thousand dollars, did you agree with that assessment?

A Definitely not.

Q Why not?

A That number was -- Number One, we didn't understand the calculation. We didn't understand everything that went into it. We didn't have all the information to render a fair judgment on it.

Q Had you, in fact, at this point in time already retained Mr. Feldman?

A Yes. By the time we started with negotiations -- by the time I started negotiations with Mr. Osborn which was around March, I had already retained Feldman.

Q And you had received his initial analysis?

A Yes.

Q That NCRIC owed Columbia money and not the other way around?

A That is correct.

Q So you rejected the nine hundred and forty-four

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002931

thousand dollars?

A I did. Actually, we rejected it at that point, yes.

Q Did NCRIC come back and revise the demand in response to this?

A Yes, they did.

Q What did they demand the second time around?

A The second time around they demanded seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars, retaining the one million dollar deposit.

Q Did they respond to any of the concerns that you or Mr. Feldman and Ann Gaffey had raised about their analysis and calculations?

A They did not.

Q What was your initial reaction to the demand for seven hundred and fifty thousand?

A My initial reaction was that it was still too high, but we didn't have any basis to know exactly what it should be.

Q It was just a number?

A It was just a number too high.

Q And there was no basis for it that you could determine?

A That's exactly correct.

Q And you looked into it with Mr. Feldman and Ms. Gaffey?

A That is correct.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002932

A Yes.

Q Was it a regular habit of his to stop by your office out of the blue?

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, he's leading. I object.

THE COURT: Sustained.

THE WITNESS: That was the first time.

MR. GORSUCH: Let me rephrase the question.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Was it the regular habit of Mr. Pate to stop by your office?

A No, definitely not.

Q Were you personal friends with Mr. Pate?

A No.

Q What did Mr. Pate say to you when he stopped by your office?

A Mr. Pate stopped by to tell me, to encourage me to accept the seven hundred and fifty thousand dollar demand that they had made on Columbia Hospital for Women. At that point I was definitely discouraged and distraught because again, NCRIC had not addressed any of the issues that Mr. Feldman had raised in his analysis. And at that point Mr. Pate indicated to me that if I didn't accept the seven hundred and fifty thousand dollar demand, that there was going to be a train wreck.

Q Did he use those words, train wreck?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002933

Q Were you expecting this?

A No, I was not.

Q Was there any advance warning at all that this was coming?

A None. Absolutely none.

Q Had NCRIC done anything like this in prior years in negotiations over the Retro Plan?

A No.

Q Did NCRIC cancel the clinic policy just forty-eight hours later?

A Yes.

Q Defendant's Exhibit No. 62, is that the letter you received? Let's put them both up side-by-side?

A Yes, it is.

Q Two termination notices within days after the Board rejected the demand?

A That is correct.

Q Both sent to you and received by you?

A That is correct.

Q Neither expected?

A Neither expected.

Q No advance warning?

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, it's cumulative. I would object and it's leading

THE COURT: The objection is sustained on the

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002934

grounds that the question is leading. If you would rephrase your question.

MR. GORSUCH: Yes, Your Honor.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Did you expect either of these notices?

A Didn't expect either.

Q Did you pick up the phone to complain?

A Yes, I did.

Q Were you able to reach somebody?

A Well, I had been negotiating with Dave Osborn. I called Dave Osborn at his office.

Q You didn't have any problem reaching him?

A I did not reach him. I also called him on his cellphone.

Q Did you eventually reach him and talk to him about these termination notices?

A I did not. I could not reach him.

Q Did you speak to Mr. Fargis?

A I did not speak with Mr. Fargis.

Q After the fact, after you received these two letters, did NCRIC offer any reason for these termination notices?

A No, they did not.

Q Had there been any material change to the clinic's financial health?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A None.

Q They just renewed the policy six months earlier?

A That is correct.

Q And did NCRIC have access to the status of -- information --

MR. GORSUCH: Strike that, Your Honor. I apologize.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Did NCRIC have access to information about the status of Columbia's self-insurance trust?

A Yes.

Q Was that public information?

A It was.

Q Because you're not for-profit?

A We're not for-profit.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, I object. Again, cumulative.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: We're non-for-profit and the information is in our tax returns and et cetera.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q And those tax returns were public?

A Public.

Q Were there members of NCRIC's Board that had served on Columbia's Board of Directors and who had, therefore, heard regular reports about the status of the trust?

A Yes.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002936

Q And who were those people?

A Dr. Catares and Dr. Dukes.

Q Is Dr. Dukes in the courtroom today?

A Dr. Dukes is sitting right here.

Q Did Columbia ever refuse to provide financial information that NCRIC asked?

A Never.

Q If it had asked for any more information about the self-insurance trust fund status, would you have given it to them?

A Absolutely.

Q Did the hospital have an excess insurer?

A Yes, we did.

Q What is an excess insurer?

A An excess insurer is an insurance company designed to cover catastrophic levels of insurance. It goes over and above the regular insurance policy.

Q Over and above what you had with NCRIC?

A For big losses.

Q Did that insurance ever cancel Columbia's policy in 2000?

A No.

Q Did the Insurance Commissioner ever address NCRIC's cancellation of the clinic policy?

A I didn't hear that.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q I'm sorry, Dr. Wilson. Did the Insurance Commissioner ever address NCRIC's termination of the clinic policy?

A Yes, he did.

Q What was the result?

A The result was the Commissioner said to us after I complained to him about the cancellation and wanted to know why is that NCRIC had followed the administrative process from the Commission.

Q Did he say anything about the merits of your complaint?

A No, the Commissioner said to us the merits of the case should be taken to court. And that's why we're here today.

Q And if you turn to Defense Exhibit No. 48 and turn to the last paragraph, is this the letter?

A This is the letter.

Q "This Department does not intervene in matters of determining damages and negligence to settle a contractual dispute. Therefore, you may seek resolution from a Court of competent jurisdiction." Is that what you're speaking about?

A Yes, it is.

Q After terminating the Retro Plan and then terminating the clinic plan, did NCRIC within ten days

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002938

send out bills to doctors?

A Yes, they did. They sent out bills the first week in July or the second week in July.

Q Did these contain the usual Retro Plan discounts?

A They were undiscounted bills.

Q So it didn't include?

A It didn't include the Retro Plan discount at all.

Q And how much of a magnitude are we talking about these bills on discount?

A Oh, thirty percent, twenty, twenty-two thousand dollars or so.

Q Twenty thousand or more higher than what the doctors expected?

A That is correct.

Q Had NCRIC done anything like that before?

A Never.

Q Had they done it before in contract negotiations in '97?

A No.

Q '98?

A No.

Q '99?

A No.

Q What effect did the termination of the Retro Plan, the termination of the clinic policy and undiscounted bills,

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002939

what kind of effect did it have on the doctors at Columbia that you were able to observe?

A Tremendous effect. Morale was low. That was the topic of conversation. Physicians were calling almost hourly. They were concerned.

MR. PAGE: Objection, Your Honor. This is hearsay.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q I will not ask you what they said. I'm just going to ask you what effect did it have on the doctors that you could observe?

A It had a detrimental effect that I could observe.

Q Were people coming up to you?

A People were coming up to me asking about --

MR. PAGE: Objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Just answer the question, Dr. Wilson. Did people come up to you?

THE WITNESS: Yes.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Was their demeanor concerned?

A Yes.

Q Were they worried?

A Yes.

Q People who hadn't done this before?

A People who had not done this before, right.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002940

Q And that's part of why you agreed to pay the seven hundred and fifty thousand dollar ultimately?

A That is correct.

Q Did you call Mr. Osborn to discuss this issue with him on August 15th?

A I did.

Q The same day that he sent it to you?

A Yes.

Q Were you able to reach Mr. Osborn?

A I was not able to reach Mr. Osborn.

Q Did you try him at the office?

A I tried him at the office.

Q Did you try him on his cellphone?

A I tried him on his cellphone.

Q Had you ever had problems reaching Mr. Osborn in the prior days and weeks of negotiating this deal?

A No, I had not.

Q When is the last time you had spoken to Mr. Osborn?

A The day before.

Q And how many times have you two spoken in the previous week alone?

A During that time at least twice a day.

Q Do you know whether Mr. Osborn was aware that you planned to finalyze the deal on August 15th after four months of negotiations?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A No, I was not able to reach him.

Q Do you have personal knowledge of ultimately what happened to Mr. Osborn?

A Yes, he was terminated.

Q Fired?

A Fired.

Q After being unable to reach Mr. Osborn, did you hear from Mr. Pate?

A Yes, I did.

Q He returned some of the calls you left at NCRIC?

A Yes.

Q Were you expecting to hear from him?

A I was surprised. This was the first time that I had heard from Mr. Pate since that conversation about the train wreck he promised.

Q What did Mr. Pate tell you this time?

A This time Mr. Pate told me that the agreement that Mr. Osborn had reached with me was canceled.

Q No deal?

A No deal.

Q Even though you had a signed letter from NCRIC?

A That's correct.

Q Were you shocked?

A I was shocked. Totally surprised.

Q Expecting any of this?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002942

years that hadn't closed out?

A No.

Q Around this time did you receive letters from doctors saying that they were leaving?

A Yes.

Q And if you could take a look at Exhibit No. 41.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, this is cumulative. We are going over the same testimony that other witnesses have done.

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. PAGE: I'm concerned about timing. That's the reason for my objection.

THE COURT: The objection is noted and if counsel would move quickly through this line.

MR. GORSUCH: Yes, Your Honor. I have ten more minutes tops.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Did you receive this letter?

A Yes, I did.

Q Defense Exhibit No. 46. Did you receive that letter?

A Yes, I did.

Q Defense Exhibit No. 52, did you receive this letter?

A Yes, I did.

Q Defense Exhibit No. 54, did you receive this letter?

A Yes, I did.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002943

Q If you could put them all up, 41, 46, 52 and 54. You can't do it, okay. You received all four of those letters about the same time?

A I did.

Q Did any of them complain to you about supplies?

A No.

Q Equipment?

A No.

Q Patient safety?

A No.

Q What were they complaining about?

A About NCRIC. About the cancellation of the insurance policy.

Q These were all doctors who left?

A Yes.

Q Did you review the financial results of the hospital on a regular basis as CEO?

A Yes, I did.

Q How often?

A Monthly.

Q And the hospital accounts for its finances on a fiscal year that runs from July 1st through June 30th?

A Yes.

Q What were the revenues of the hospital in the fiscal year ending June 30th, 2000? The year before the doctors left?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A The year before the doctors left, forty-seven million dollars.

Q And what were revenues of the hospital for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 2001? After the doctors left?

A After, thirty-seven million dollars.

Q What's the difference?

A Ten million dollars.

Q Had you seen any drop of that magnitude during your years at the hospital as CEO?

A No.

Q As CEO, did Columbia have any plans to close the hospital before the doctors left?

A Oh, no, to the contrary. We were on the road to make money. The volume or the admittance leveled off and had gone into fiscal year 2001 and given the increase in our -- well, the revenue enhancement initiatives we had in place and the cost containment initiatives we had in place, we were on track to make a profit that year for the first time in many years.

Q Before the doctors left?

A Before the doctors left.

Q You were expanding services into new areas that were profitable?

A That's correct.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

out of bankruptcy.

Q And was the hospital able to meet all its obligations in '99 and 2000 before the doctors left?

A Yes.

Q And if referrals from the doctors had just remained stable and hadn't dropped, would the cost containment measures and revenue enhancement measures we talked about put the hospital in the black in fiscal year 2000?

A It would have ensured a profit.

Q And where, in fact, doctors referrals and revenue stable up until September 1st, 2000?

A Yes.

Q Did anyone at NCRIC during any of this period in 2001 ever tell you that they thought the hospital was unsafe?

A Never.

Q Did they ever show you any safety studies about the hospital?

A No.

Q Did they ever say it was badly equipped?

A No.

Q Did NCRIC ever tell you that the hospital was dirty?

A No.

Q Did they ever tell you that the number of claims

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002946

against doctors was increasing?

A No.

Q When was the first time you heard these supposed reasons for terminating the Retro Plan?

MR. PAGE: Objection to the Retro, to the termination.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Did you come to hear these reasons?

A Yes.

MR. PAGE: Same objection. Nobody ever said the Retro Plan was terminated.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Did you hear about those things, about safety studies, badly equipped, dirty, number of claims rising?

A Yes, I did.

Q When is the first time you heard about those things?

A The first time I heard those characterizations was from Mr. Page right here in this courtroom.

Q We heard about borrowing supplies from George Washington. Do you remember that earlier in this case?

A Yes, I do.

Q Well, did G.W. ever ask to borrow supplies from Columbia?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002947

the Columbia Board had decided to terminate the Retro Plan; correct?

A One of the conditions as set forward by NCRIC was that in order to enter into a new plan, the only way we could do that was to close the old plan. I communicate that to the Board.

Q Okay. The last sentence of the first paragraph, you advised that the Board desired to terminate the agreement quote unquote. Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q The agreement being referred to as the Retrospective Rating Agreement; right?

A Yes.

Q The Columbia Board is the Board referred to; right?

A That is correct.

Q And you in fact advised NCRIC that the Board had decided, the Board of Columbia had decided to terminate the Retrospective Rating Plan; right?

A Yes, but it didn't stop there. They also instructed me because of the reasons I stated earlier to continue to negotiate.

Q To negotiate over the buy-out dollar amount; right?

A No, to continue to negotiate a new Retro Plan.

Q A new Retro Plan?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q Now, there was no obligation of NCRIC to enter into a new Retro Plan?

A Oh, to the contrary. We thought there was an obligation, at least a moral obligation, we had negotiated and worked with NCRIC for all this time in good faith. Mr. Osborn and I had talked daily for the whole summer. We had -- he had actually come up with some of these conditions that he had set out. And so I thought there was an obligation. I thought we had an agreement.

Q So your view was that because you had an existing arrangement with the insurance company, they had an obligation to continue dealing with you regardless. Is that what you're saying?

A Not regardless, but there was a moral obligation because the kind of relationship we had in the past.

Q The relationship being that you had a contract; right?

A It was more than a contract in our opinion.

Q Now, I noticed in this letter you don't make any reference to being threatened by Mr. Pate; do you?

A I do not.

Q There is not a single document in here where you say I have been threatened by Mr. Pate?

A I do not.

Q The Board Minutes don't reflect that the President

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

MR. PAGE: May I be heard, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, on behalf of NCRIC --

THE COURT: Parties may be seated.

MR. PAGE: On behalf of NCRIC, Your Honor, I move for judgment as a matter of law on elements of the counterclaim, and while I don't want to prolong things, I would like to be heard briefly on the matter.

There are, I think, if I counted right, ten counterclaims, ten separate claims like this. There was one that had been dismissed, Count VI of the complaint, and I think there were a total of eleven counts otherwise.

Your Honor, we would move for judgment as a matter of law on all of the counterclaims except Count I. Count I is a breach of contract claim and the issue, as I understand it, is a dispute as to the amount owed and whether they owed money. But all of the other counts, in our view, the evidence presented is insufficient as a matter of law for the jury to consider the claims.

If you would allow me, I'm going to do them a little bit out of the numerical order and I might even start at the back with Count, I think it's Count XI which is called Conversion.

The conversion claim as we understand it is the pleadings and in the Pre-trial files it's a claim that the

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002950

in giving the benefit of the doubt to Columbia that they can infer from the evidence that there was some intentional misrepresentation of the amount owed, there is no indication of reliance by Columbia for damages. They have not been damaged in any way because actually they haven't paid anything. And this case is about whether or not they owe money under the Retro Plan. It seems to us they have not established the elements of fraud and in particular, we would say they have not established any reliance or any change of behavior on the part of the hospital with regard to the statements made by Columbia. And again, I point out the very statements they are relying upon ultimately are part of their breach of contract claims. All of this is another twist on the argument that the amount that are claimed is not the right amount and that there should be a different amount owed.

Counts IV and V are tortuous interference claims and I think the thrust of the case that they have presented is really about this tortuous interference claim. And we know that there is no written contract. We also know that in the District of Columbia the law is business expectancy could be that contract and they have put on evidence of that. What they have not shown, however, Your Honor, is that any of these doctors left because NCRIC either induced them coerced them or encouraged them to leave.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002951

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, I think Dr. Glassman's statement alone is legally sufficient, and that's what I would point you to most pointedly. Dr. Lenny Glassman was at the time Chairman of the Board of NCRIC, Inc.

THE COURT: And that was in --

MR. GORSUCH: Dr. Rifka's testimony. He testified after --

THE COURT: What's the exhibit number that's in evidence?

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, it was an oral admission. It was an admission against interest testified to by Dr. Rifka.

MR. PAGE: May I be heard on that, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. PAGE: Just on that single point. This is the way I wrote it down. It was in testimony and it was the single reference. I wrote it down as follows: Dr. Rifka testified that Glassman told doctors in staff meeting quote, if they did not have the Retro Plan with NCRIC, they should pack their bags and leave, unquote.

Now, the reason I say that is two things. First, nothing was said about Columbia closing. That was counsel's fortuitous spin on those words. Secondly, Dr. Glassman as a matter of law is entitled to give his opinion and opinion testimony of Dr. Glassman or even of

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

NCRIC is not libel.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, briefly, not only my recollection but I think the record will reflect that Dr. Rifka testified to both of those things that Mr. Page said correctly, but he also said that the hospital was going to close; that he did say. That came off of the witness stand and that, Your Honor, is defamation per se under District law.

MR. PAGE: And it's true as to the defense as well, Your Honor.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, they are entitled to argue that to the jury. I completely agree with Mr. Page that Page 16 of our Proposed Jury Instruction outlines the law of defamation per se and financial insolvency among those reasons to, to constitute defamation per se.

THE COURT: All right. Before I address the motion and the response, I want to talk a little bit about scheduling the remainder of the day.

MR. PAGE: May I, Your Honor? We have waiting two witnesses. They are both doctors. We had thought we were going to moving faster than this. If we can get them on before lunch, they will be able to testify today. If not, they will have to be rescheduled for a later day. I had planned to have a total of four or five witnesses today.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002953

Q Is it your testimony you referred a patient to a specialist to Columbia even after you had left the hospital? Isn't that right?

A Yes.

Q You wouldn't have done so if the standard of care had been inadequate; isn't that right?

A We haven't discussed the standard of care. I haven't made any comment about the standard of care.

Q Until mid-2000, Doctor, isn't it true that you have never seen a group of thirty or so doctors leave Columbia at one time?

A That's correct. To the best of my knowledge.

Q Isn't it true when those doctors left, admission decreased dramatically?

A You know, we were probably the first group of doctors to leave Columbia and so I can't comment on what the admission status was after we left because during that time period there were doctors here or there that had left. But as we were probably the largest group at the time that left, I can't comment on what the number of admissions were after we left.

Q Doctor, you said that you stopped referring patients around October 31st; is that right? You stopped referring patients to Columbia at that time?

A There is a difference between admitting patients

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002954

in your practice; isn't that right?

MR. BADAMI: Objection, Your Honor. Same question, asked another way.

MR. SCHULMAN: Your Honor, it's bias.

THE COURT: What's your question? Is your question who is his malpractice insurer?

MR. SCHULMAN: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Then ask that question.

MR. SCHULMAN: Okay.

BY MR. SCHULMAN:

Q Isn't it true that NCRIC has paid over six hundred and ninety thousand dollars --

THE COURT: No, that's not the question. If you want to know who his insurance providers are, you can ask that question.

MR. SCHULMAN: Okay.

BY MR. SCHULMAN:

Q Isn't it the case that your insurance provider is NCRIC?

A Yes, it is.

Q Isn't it the case that NCRIC has paid substantial sums for you personally and your practice for malpractice?

MR. BADAMI: Objection. That's the same question?

THE COURT: I will allow the witness to answer.

THE WITNESS: I don't know the amount, but I have been and members of my group have been -- we have been sued before and NCRIC has paid monies. I don't know the exact amount of monies, but we have been involved in some lawsuits.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

BY MR. SCHULMAN:

Q Isn't it the case that NCRIC has paid over six hundred and ninety thousand dollars for your cases personally?

MR. BADAMI: Asked and answered, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. SCHULMAN:

Q Isn't it the case that NCRIC has paid more than a million dollars for your practice group in claims and expenses?

MR. BADAMI: Same objection.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. SCHULMAN:

Q It's important to you to have a good relationship with NCRIC?

A It's important for me to have a good relationship with everybody; yes.

THE COURT: Any redirect?

MR. BADAMI: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Doctor. You're excused and free to go.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

care to people who otherwise would not have been able to receive it. They could have insurance or have less insurance than they needed, but they would make arrangements for people to receive the care, no matter what kind of monies they had.

Q And it gave the same excellent standard of care whether you were a princess or someone just off the street; isn't that right?

A Yes.

Q And you often delivered teenage mothers in your clinic with no insurance?

A Yes, I did.

Q What was the youngest girl for whom you delivered a child at Columbia's clinic?

MR. BADAMI: Objection, Your Honor. Relevance.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q How many patients did you see at the clinic every year?

A I only worked in the clinic for two or maybe three years and I did mostly covering labor and delivery rather than seeing them downstairs in the clinic. And so, you know, probably just a few dozen in the clinic itself.

Q Isn't it true that you quit treating clinic patients on September 1st, 2000?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A I don't know the date, but that's -- it was around August or September.

Q Wasn't it September 1st, Doctor?

A I don't remember the date.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, with your permission, I would ask leave to give a binder of documents.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. GORSUCH: Thank you.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Doctor, could you please turn to what has been labeled and admitted into evidence as Defense Exhibit No. 41 and if we could put that on the screen. Doctor, this is a letter from one of your partners? Is that DX 41?

A Yes.

Q Okay. This is a letter from one of your partners, Jeanette Sheffield; correct?

A Sheffield, yes.

Q And what's the date on that letter?

A September 1, 2000.

Q And that's the very date the Retro Plan terminated; isn't that correct?

A I know that coverage for clinic positions ended that day. I don't know if the Retro Plan ended that day, but I know the reason for this was --

Q Doctor, isn't it correct that the clinic coverage

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Kolby USA 1-800-255-5040

ended that day.

A Yes.

Q And you don't know whether the Retro Plan ended that day?

A It seems to me that the coverage we had for the clinic ended sooner. I may be mistaken about that, but we found our coverage had been taken away. And so we did not want to work without malpractice insurance.

Q And that's why you stopped treating patients at the clinic because of the lack of malpractice insurance; isn't that correct?

A Yes.

Q In fact, that's what you say in this letter; isn't it, that you're stopping the practice because you lack liability insurance; isn't that right?

A Yes, our contract had been that the hospital would provide us that malpractice insurance. And they took that insurance away and so we no longer wanted to work for them.

Q And in fact, you go on to say, should NCRIC insurance Company be reinstated, please advise us. We agree to work for the clinic as most people when they will do extra work have to have malpractice insurance and the physicians don't pay for that separately. And so the agreement, the contract with the hospital was that in return for our work we would receive a certain amount of monies and they would pay our malpractice insurance. And they stopped paying it and so we stopped working, you know.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q Doctor, a simple question. You wanted to be advised if the NCRIC insurance was reinstated?

A If we were given malpractice as we had been promised, then we would consider going back to work. Uncovered, we were not going to expose ourselves to legal liability, and so the assumption was it would be with NCRIC, but we needed malpractice coversage.

Q And you don't know whether NCRIC terminated that policy legally or illegally?

A What mattered to us is that we were not covered and the things that went before that weren't the issue. The issue was we were not covered. We were promised coverage. It was taken away. We were not going to work until or unless we had coverage.

Q Doctor, a simple question. You didn't know whether NCRIC terminated that policy legally or not, did you?

A I don't know why they did what they did.

Q When your practice group wrote in the letter about stopping treating patients in the clinic, you didn't cite safety concerns at the clinic, did you?

THE COURT: Whose letter is it?

MR. GORSUCH: This is Dr. Sheffield on behalf

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

of your practice group; isn't that correct?

THE WITNESS: Yeah, that wasn't the intent of the letter.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Doesn't mention safety, does it?

A That wasn't the intent of the letter.

Q Doesn't mention equipment?

A That wasn't the intent of the letter.

Q Doesn't mention supplies?

A No.

Q And you never mentioned any of those concerns with Dr. Rifka, the Chairman of the Board of the Hospital, did you?

A Dr. Rifka and the rest of the hospital were very aware on a daily basis of our concerns about supplies and --

Q But the issue, Doctor --

THE COURT: I'm sorry. Was the witness finished with her answer?

THE WITNESS: I can be.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Isn't it true that the reason why you left the clinic is because of the lack of insurance; Doctor?

A That was the precipitating factor, yes.

Q Thank you. And you wrote a letter on October 6th

16d-002961

Laser stock Form FMRRN

Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

anyone and we appreciated the work everyone worked so hard at the hospital to keep it going. We didn't want them to think -- everyone had to make their own personal choices as to whether they wanted to continue to stay there. We didn't want them to think that they needed to leave because we left. We wanted to leave on good terms. We had very many friends there, physicians, front desk workers, janitors, you know, OR technicians, every thing. We were just saying goodbye. We didn't want to talk about people, or you know, make complaints. We had already made up our minds that this is what we were going to do and we wanted to say goodbye and thank you.

Q If you would answer my question, it's not in there; correct?

A No, we didn't want it to be in there.

Q And you stayed at the hospital all the way through receivership in 1997?

A Yes, I guess that's a technical term for it, okay.

Q And the bankruptcy in '98?

A Yes, I remember that.

Q And the reorganization plan?

A Yes.

Q And all the way through the first half of 2000?

A Yes.

Q And you wouldn't have treated a single patient

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002962

weeks.

A That's my point. So we would then have them go to G.W.

Q So they couldn't go to Sibley which is where you took your patients?

A They could, but it wouldn't be the right place for them to be.

Q And until mid-2000, you never saw thirty doctors leave Columbia within a matter of weeks, did you?

A No.

Q You would agree that Columbia's closure and the loss of the clinic was a loss to the community?

A Oh, it was a tremendous loss.

Q You would agree it's important for OB/GYN doctors to have malpractice insurance?

A You have to have it.

Q Foolish to practice without it?

A I don't think that you can. Well, I guess you can, but yeah, it's pretty foolish.

Q You could risk losing your personal assets in a lawsuit?

A Yes.

Q Your home?

A Yes.

Q So it's important that you have a good relationship

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q And the reason you left the Board, would you tell the jury?

A Okay. Insurance was an issue, the physical plan of Columbia Hospital was an issue and the direction that the hospital was heading in also was an issue so far as my decision to leave. I think also the fact some of my patients had mentioned certain things that occurred also influenced me.

Q All right. Now, let's skip ahead to the point where you actually began to transition your practice from Columbia. When approximately did that occur?

A This happened in the fall of 2000.

Q And that was in your relationsip to your leaving the Board; how long after that?

A Probably two to three months on that time span.

Q All right. And at the time you were practicing principally at -- well, let me start over. At the time you were referring to, you had admitting privileges at Columbia; is that correct?

A I did.

Q Did you have admitting privileges at any other hospital at that time?

A Yes, I did. I had admitting privileges at George Washington Hospital and I had earlier applied but I did not officially have privileges at Sibley.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q When you began or when you did transition your practice from Columbia, where did you end up referring most of your patients?

A I ended up at Sibley Memorial Hospital.

Q Now, you said that involved in your decision in disengaging from Columbia, there was an insurance issue. Do you recall saying that?

A Yes, I do.

Q Tell the jury what you mean by the insurance issue?

A Well, I was concerned about my premium and when I say my premium, the amount I would have to pay.

Now, certainly I had the option of staying with Columbia Hospital but that certainly would mean that I would have to change to another insurance company.

Q If the Retro Plan from NCRIC had continued in effect with Columbia, would you have left Columbia?

A Well, at this point with all that had happened, it would have been difficult to reverse the process of my move.

Q If the Retro Plan had continued in effect, would it have had an impact on the timing of your decision?

A Would you repeat the question?

Q If the Retro Plan from NCRIC had continued in effect on September 1 of 2000, would that continuation have

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q And when was that?

A It's been about two and half to three years ago.

Q And how many members of the Board of Directors are there?

A We now have twelve and we will probably be downsizing soon, but at this point twelve.

Q And how many of the twelve directors are physicans practicing in the District of Columbia?

A Seven if memory serves me correctly.

Q A majority of the Board?

A Yes.

Q And do you hold any particular assignment as part of the NCRIC Board?

A Yes, I'm Vice Chair of the Claims Committee.

Q What is the Claims Committee of NCRIC?

A The Claims Committee is a committee that reviews all suits that come in. Not only suits, but what we would call incidents of NCRIC's insured, so that if anyone is either sued or has an incident where they expect that legal action may be taken, we have meetings that review the suit. I wouldn't be able to say a lot. The work product is privileged, but we assess the suit for merit.

Q And who is on the Claims -- well, how many people are on the Claims Committee?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002966

Q Dr. Dukes, isn't it true that you weren't listed as a likely witness in this case?

MR. PAGE: Objection. That's a mischaracterization.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q For the time that you indicated that you sat on the Board of Directors at Columbia; is that right?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q And when you did so, you received regular updates about the financial status of the self-insurance trust from Ann Gaffey and others?

A Well, when you say I received regular updates, I did in the context of any Board member if these matters were discussed at our meetings.

Q And were you here when Ann Gaffey testified that she gave regular updates to the Board?

A Unfortunately, I was not here.

Q You don't dispute that you received regular updates about the self-insurance trust from Ann Gaffey and others?

A In the same context as any Board member.

Q Until mid-2000, you have never seen thirty doctors leave Columbia within weeks, had you?

A That's correct.

Q First and only time?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Isn't it true you have seen letters in this courtroom from doctors citing the lack of insurance as a reason why they stopped working at Columbia?

A If you would add the clinic, I may be able to agree with you.

Q Okay. The clinic then, Doctor?

A Yes, I would agree with that.

Q You have seen those letters?

A I have seen those letters.

Q You haven't seen any letters from doctors citing safety at the hospital, have you?

A No, but this has been something that has been mentioned by certain witnesses that have come to the stand today.

Q Four years later; right?

A It was mentioned today.

Q And today is four years after the fact; isn't it?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And the only letters you have seen from the time citing insurance; isn't that right?

A That's correct.

Q They don't mention the cleanliness of the hospital, do they?

A No, they do not.

Q And you would agree that even after you left --

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q And insurance is one of the reasons?

A That's correct.

Q You stayed on NCRIC's Board?

A Yes.

Q And you're being paid for your presence here today; isn't that right, by NCRIC?

A That's correct.

Q How much are you going to be paid, Doctor?

A I think you heard in my early testimony that this is not yet been worked out, but I will be reimbursed for my time away from my own office for patients that I have not seen.

Q How much per hour?

A We would take the patient list. It has not been worked out.

Q More than a hundred dollars an hour for sitting in the courtroom?

A If my patient list indicates that, I would hope I would get that.

Q More than two hundred dollars an hour?

A I rarely get that, but if it indicates that, I would expect to get it.

Q You wouldn't hesitate to give a bill for over two hundred dollars an hour for your presence in this courtroom?

A Absolutely not.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

one hundred and forty-four shares from another Stock Award Plan?

A Yes.

Q Those are free shares; right, Doctor?

A Yes, they are.

Q How much are those shares worth today?

A I think the stock is being traded at somewhere between nine and twelve dollars.

Q And in fact, if youadd those up, that's over eighty-two hundred shares; right?

A Well, I really can't see, but I will take your word for it.

Q Do you have any reason to disagree with my math that it's over eight thousand shares of stock?

A Yes.

Q All of which was free except for seven hundred and forty-six; right?

A Yes.

Q And at ten dollars a share, that's over eighty thousand dollars worth of stock; isn't that correct?

A Correct.

Q You're also insured by NCRIC?

A Yes, I am.

Q And NCRIC has spent over a hundred thousand dollars defending you in lawsuits?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A Yes.

Q And NCRIC provides your insurance to this day?

A That's correct.

MR. GORSUCH: Thank you, Doctor.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

THE COURT: Any redirect?

MR. PAGE: No redirect, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right, Dr. Dukes. You're free to step down at this time.

THE WITNESS: Thank you.

(Thereupon, the witness was excused at 4:40 p.m.)

THE COURT: All right. This may be a good point to stop for the day and excuse the jury at this time. And again, thank you all for your attention. We have a lot of things going on in the building and so I know you have all heard the drilling and the banging. And I appreciate your ability to focus on the trial at hand. The jury stands excused.

(Thereupon, the jury was excused at 4:40 p.m.)

THE COURT: Okay. If we could spend about five minutes before everyone leaves talking about scheduling for tomorrow. What witnesses do you have?

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, we know that we have Messrs. Fargis and Pate, and we have the two witnesses from Price Waterhouse Cooper.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002971

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NRCRIC, INC., Plaintiff/ Counter-Defendant,
v.	Civil Action No. 7308-00
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC., Defendant/ Counter-Plaintiff.

Washington, D. C.

Thursday, February 5, 2004

The above-entitled action resumed for a jury trial before the Honorable ANNA BLACKBURN-RIGSBY, Associate Judge, in Courtroom Number 48-A.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS HER ORIGINAL NOTES AND RECORDS OF TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

2004 MAR 10 P 4:01
CIVIL DIVISION
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
COURTS

APPEARANCES:

On behalf of the Plaintiff:

RODNEY PAGE, Esquire
SCOTT M. BADAMI, Esquire

On behalf of the Defendant:

NEIL GORSUCH, Esquire
ELI SCHULMAN, Esquire
PRIYA AIYAR, Esquire

DONNA K. HAWKINS
Official Court Reporter
Telephone: 879-1035

16d-002972

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

in the Plan. And that lower limit and we have to use nineteen percent just because -- we have to use a larger percentage on a smaller number to get back to that fifteen percent of the million dollars.

Q The idea of using a lower amount to calculate was part of the original Retro Plan; isn't that correct?

A Yes, it was.

Q That was a negotiated term between Columbia and NCRIC back at the beginning of the Plan; right?

A That's my understanding.

Q Now, you then indicate that that deposit premium will change to another number if the discount increases from fifteen to -- excuse me, fifteen to thirty percent; right?

A That's correct.

Q And what is the new number in the deposit premium that would be indicated?

A It's sixty-two percent and sort of simply it was nineteen before and they doubled it. And so the double would take the nineteen to thirty-eight. It can only be sixty-two percent.

Q Now, did this number have an impact on the amount of money collected by NCRIC under the Plan?

A Yes, we were collecting in essence seventy cents on the dollar from the physicians.

Q Now, let me turn now -- you included the

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

contract effective --

Q Before you go into the letter, let me get it admitted if I could. And does this letter reflect the discussions that you had with Mr. Beaulieu at that time?

A It does.

MR. PAGE: All right. Your Honor, I would move into evidence Exhibit No. 43. Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 43.

THE COURT: All right. We will admit that into evidence at this time.

MR. PAGE: May I publish it to the jury, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MR. PAGE:

Q Now, does your letter, Mr. Fargis, deal with the continuation of the Retrospective Plan?

A It does.

Q And what was proposed by the new letter?

A What we were proposing in October, late October '97 was that they sign the current contract for 1997 that had been effective since January 1st of that year. Also that they provide financial security of a million dollars on the outstanding contingent liability of 1.7 million dollars. And then just the time and date that they meet both of those conditions.

Q Did you have any meetings personally face-to-face with representatives of Columbia about this proposal?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002974

Q Now, the Retro Plan ended on September 1 of 2000 and in the exhibit that we looked at, Mr. Osborn informed the hospital of that on June 28th of 2000. Do you recall that?

A Yes.

Q Did there come a time after that when NCRIC mailed statements or bills to the insured doctors reflecting the undiscounted premiums?

A Yes, following --

Q Before you go on and testify, just listen to the question. Did there come a time when it happened?

A Yes.

Q Do you know when?

A It was in late June-July.

Q Was it soon after the letter to Columbia saying that the Plan would be ending on September 1?

A Yes.

Q Within a matter of less than two weeks, the bills went out; is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q And how many doctors did those bills go to?

A I belive at the time we had about seventy participants in the Columbia Plan.

Q So those doctors received a bill and did the bills show that they now owed a hundred percent of the premium?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A Yes.

Q And why is it that NCRIC sent out a bill to the doctors almost immediately asking them to pay a hundred percent of the premium?

A Well, we had confirmation and acceptance of Columbia's Board saying they did not want to continue the Retro Plan. We had no agreement on the go-forward plan. We are required by the regulators, the Department of Insurance that if a premium increases above a certain amount, we have to give due notice. And so we were in a position because the credit was going away that they were going to get a thirty percent increase in their premium. And so we had to meet our obligation under the law and at the same time, the program had ended and the credit was no longer available. And so we billed the physicians.

Q Now, under the Retro Plan, what was the proper treatment of these premiums at the point the Plan ended?

A I'm not sure I understand.

Q Did the Plan make any reference to the premium returning to one hundred percent?

A Yes. There is actually -- there is actually a document in the original plan that indicated upon termination or notice that we were allowed to bill for the hundred percent.

Q And was NCRIC receiving any communication from

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

discussions?

A Yes.

Q And you told Columbia doctors that the hospital had on deposit with NCRIC a million dollars?

A I don't know if we used that exact term, but again, a credit.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, may I approach the witness?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. GORSUCH: I'm going to hand you a copy of the jury notebook and ask you to turn to Defense Exhibit No. 22.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Mr. Fargis, would you turn to the first page of this document. This is a presentation?

A I'm sorry. Did you say 22?

Q Twenty-two, yes, sir.

A I don't have a 22.

Q Oh, you don't. I apologize. Here, you can have mine.

A Okay.

Q This is a presentation you made to Columbia doctors on or about October 1st, 1998?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q Okay. And if you could turn with us to the third

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002977

page, I believe it is in the upper right-hand corner. You indicated it was on deposit with NCRIC; right?

A Okay. Yes, I see that.

Q And that's what you told the doctors?

A Yes.

Q Okay. When it came to September of 2000 do you remember that? Do you remember September of 2000, Mr. Fargis?

A Yes.

Q September of 2000?

A Yes.

Q That's when the Retro Plan terminated; correct?

A September 1, 2000, yes, sir.

Q And that very day you sent Columbia a bill?

A Shortly thereafter.

Q Do you have any reason to disagree it was that day?

A It may have been on that day.

Q And that day you called the million dollars a payment; isn't that correct?

A That's correct.

Q And today you told the jury this morning that the money is a credit; isn't that correct?

A That's correct.

Q You testified this morning that it was Columbia

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002978

correct if we can blow up the heading, Retrospective Rating Plan Agreement for September 1, 2000, and then the next paragraph thereunder. Mr. Osborn offered to continue a Retrospective Rating Program with Columbia; isn't that correct?

A That's correct.

Q What happened to Mr. Osborn?

A Mr. Osbonn is no longer with the company.

Q He was fired?

A Mr. Osborn was terminated.

Q Mr. Osborn was terminated beginning 2001; isn't that correct?

A That's correct.

Q Is he going to be a witness in this case; do you know?

A I don't know.

Q You would agree with me that NCRIC sued Columbia Hospital for Women?

A I'm sorry?

Q Would you agree with me, Mr. Fargis, that it was NCRIC that sued Columbia Hospital for Women?

A Yes, we did.

Q And you said that Columbia owed NCRIC money?

A That's correct.

Q And you did the math for the bill that formed

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

right?

A I'm sorry, which line are you looking at?

Q I'm looking at subject premium under 1998-'99, the subject premium is 3.6 million?

A Yes.

Q And deposit premium 2.2 million?

A That's correct.

Q And if you do the math, 2.2 is sixty-two percent of 3.6?

A Yes, that's how it should work out.

Q The deposit premium you used is sixty-two percent of the subject premium?

A Yes, we had always used sixty-two percent. Since we had changed the agreement when Columbia wanted to increase the credit.

Q Now, you didn't write anywhere on the bill that you were using sixty-two percent?

A No, not on the bill we didn't.

Q To determine that, you have to do the math?

A Yes.

Q Mr. Fargis, isn't it true that the governing contract expressly says that the parties are to use a deposit premium of sixty-seven percent and not sixty-two percent?

A Yes, I explained earlier I don't know why it says

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002980

sixty-seven percent because mathematically, it just can't be.

Q If we could bring up Defense Exhibit No. 76.

A Is that in this book also?

Q It is.

A Did yousay 76?

Q I believe it is. If it's not in your book, I apologize. Let me get it for you.

MR. GORSUCH: If I may approach the witness.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. GORSUCH: And Your Honor, may we publish this to the jury?

THE COURT: I'm sorry. This is --

MR. GORSUCH: This is in evidence. It has not, however, been included in the jury notebook to date, and with your permission, I would like to do so.

THE COURT: And it's Defendants' Exhibit 76 for the record?

MR. GORSUCH: That's correct, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, you can publish it.

THE JURY: We have it.

MR. GORSUCH: I apologize, Your Honor. My book doesn't have it but I guess it's in there.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q This is the governing addendum concerning the deposit premium?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002981

A Yes, this was an addendum added to the Plan. It looks like for the '98-'99 years.

As I indicated -- well, it was an original agreement of three years, and then every year after we would addendum for the new year.

Q You're not aware of any subsequent amendment to this document relating to the deposit premium; right?

A Well, yes, there was the amendment that we made with Sue Hansen when she changed it to sixty-two percent.

Q That was an earlier amendment; correct?

A Well, except Columbia wanted to change the credit and give the physicians thirty percent and it's set forth what the deposit premium was to be.

Q Well, the one you're talking about with Ms. Hansen is Defense Exhibit No. 74; right, and that's in the white notebook that you and your counsel discussed. That's the sixty-two percent. It's in there; right, in Defense Exhibit No. 74?

A It's not in here but I know what you're talking about.

Q Okay. That's it. Mr. Fargis, Defendant's Exhibit No. 74, the one you discussed with your counsel this morning was dated 1996; correct?

A Yes, that's when they wanted to affect the change in that third year of the program.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q And that does say sixty-two percent; right?

A Yes, sir, it does.

Q You subsequently amended this document, though; isn't that correct, in 1998?

A Well, we amended the document and each year the Plan, if there were any changes or anything to the Plan that the hospital and us might work out, but as far as the credit never changed for the physicians. They were always getting thirty percent. And so the deposit premium is always going to be sixty-two percent as long as they get a thirty percent credit.

Q That's your view. That's your position; right, sixty-two percent always; right?

A Yes. I mean, that's the only way it can work out.

Q Let's take a look at the 1998 addendum, Defendants' Exhibit No. 96 in the black binder. Page 6, Mr. Fargis. Do you see the reference to deposit premiums, Mr. Fargis?

A I do.

Q Would you read for us the figure that the parties agreed upon?

A It says deposit premium means the subject premium multiplied by sixty-seven paren 67% end paren.

Q That's what the contract says; correct?

A Yes. As I explained before, I admit it's a typo.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002983

It's a mistake.

Q That's a typo?

A That's a mistake. It's a mistake on our part. As I tried to explain when they were at fifteen and went thirty, they were at eighty-one percent. It can only go to sixty-two percent.

Q That's just the math; right, in your mind?

A Well, it's the math that we were trying to honor.

Q This is the contract, though, Mr. Fargis. This is the contract.

THE COURT: If the witness could please finish his answer.

THE WITNESS: Again, we were trying to honor what Columbia wanted. The physicians were benefitting from the thirty percent, and Columbia was benefitting from what the doctors were getting. Again, this was brought to our attention in the meeting with Mike Feldman. And we immediately rectified it and corrected it, but we had always done the calculations at sixty-two percent and we had always gone over the reconciliations with Columbia.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q And you continued to use sixty-two percent, didn't you?

A Oh, yes.

Q After Mr. Feldman brought this to your attention?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002984

A Yes.

Q And you continue to use sixty-two percent to this day?

A We do continue to use sixty-two percent to this day. In the most recent one done, we used sixty-two percent.

Q If you could turn to the signature page a couple of pages earlier. You would agree with me, would you not, that this addendum was signed by Ray Pate, President and CEO of NCRIC?

A That's correct.

Q NCRIC can't just unilaterally change the terms of the contract when it wants to, can it, Mr. Fargis?

A No, we honor our contracts.

Q And you honored this contract by using sixty-two percent instead of sixty-seven percent, that's your position?

A Well, that's the only way it can be correct.

Q It can't be correct to follow what's written in the contract, Mr. Fargis? That's your position? It can't be?

A No. Like I say, hopefully I have been able to explain that. It can't be sixty-seven percent.

Q Let's talk about that for a second. Isn't it true that that contract in 1998 specified a discount for the doctors of thirty-three percent?

A No, the discount has always been thirty percent of their one million, three million premium.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002985

Q Mr. Fargis, would you turn to Page 4, the modifications to Exhibit A, six-year Retrospective Rating Plan. Your testimony has been that the discount was supposed to be what?

A The discount to the physicians is thirty percent of their one million-three million premium.

Q Thirty percent. That's what you have been calling all these years?

A Well, that's what we have been giving the physicians for all these years.

Q Doesn't the contract, in fact, call for a thirty-three percent discount?

A Well, this indicates what the discount -- that's the discount at the five hundred thousand dollars limit.

Q It says thirty-three percent?

A Yes. And that's not correct.

Q You would agree thirty-three plus sixty-seven equals a hundred?

A It does.

Q Let's go back to Defense Exhibit No. 81, Mr. Fargis.

A I'm sorry, which book was that in?

Q Eight-one, that's in the black book.

A Okay.

Q Do you have two copies of the white book at the moment?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002986

A Yes.

Q May I have mine back? Thank you very much, Mr. Fargis.

THE COURT: Mr. Fargis, I'm sorry to keep interrupting you, but it's very difficult to hear you. If you could just try to keep your voice up, please.

THE WITNESS: Sure. You said 81?

MR. GORSUCH: Yes, sir, and that's the bill that was based on this lawsuit; right?

THE WITNESS: Yes, that was a bill that we sent out September 1.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q And if I could draw your attention to the minimum premium, Mr. Fargis, do you see that at the bottom?

A I do.

Q And you used as a minimum factor seventy-five percent for one year and sixty percent for the others?

A Yes, the sixty percent reflects when the hospital wanted to change the credit to thirty percent. And so as I was explaining earlier, that's the other factors that have changed when the deposit premium changed, you change your minimal. You change your maximum premium factor. The one before is when we were giving the fifteen percent credit to the physicians.

Q Mr. Fargis, it's correct that you used seventy-five

16d-002987

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

percent for one year; correct?

A No, that's not correct. We used it on the year previous to that also.

Q Okay. For two years then, but this year is still open, '94-'95 and you're using seventy-five percent?

A That's correct.

Q Isn't it true that the minimum premium prescribed by the contract is sixty percent?

A Once we started giving them a thirty percent discount, then yes, the minimum factor of sixty percent would apply.

Q Mr. Fargis, you would agree that the contract specified sixty percent?

A The contract specifies .60 1.33. We made the change -- the deposit premium, you lower -- the minimum factor lowers below the factor, the deposit premium factor.

Q If we could go back to the contract, Defense Exhibit No. 76, Page 7, Mr. Fargis.

A I'm sorry, what page?

Q It's Defense Exhibit No. 76, Page 7.

A Yes.

Q Do you see the middle of the premium defined there?

A Yes, it's sixty percent.

Q That's what the contract says; right?

A That's correct.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002988

Q But you continue to use seventy-five percent for some years?

A Well, we used it on the first two years when the credit was fifteen percent.

Q Now, if NCRIC had wanted to use different numbers for different years, you agree it would have written that into the contract?

A We would have written it if it made business sense.

Q You could have written it into the contract, Mr. Fargis. You agree with me?

A Theoretically I guess you can write any number in there.

Q Mr. Fargis, isn't it correct that when NCRIC wanted to use different discounts for different years, it wrote that into the contract?

A No, that is not correct.

Q Okay. If you could take a look at Defense Exhibit No. 76, Page 4, Paragraph 2?

A I'm sorry. Page 4.

Q That's right. If we have Exhibit A and blow up Paragraph No. 2. It provides that the discount is nineteen percent for the first two years of the Plan and thirty-three percent otherwise. Isn't that correct, Mr. Fargis?

A It does.

Q So when NCRIC wanted to use different factors for

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

different years, it knew how to put that into the contract; correct?

A No, it was to amend the contract. You know, we keep going back and forth over this. I think what we need to keep in mind is that the Plan was first set out to give the doctors a fifteen percent discount for three years. And then the third year, the Plan Columbia approached us and wanted to increase it for the doctors to thirty percent. And at that point in time that's when the Plan changed and that's the only thing that changed to give the doctors an additional discount. And we honored that and we gave them thirty percent. And so it changes the deposit premium and it changes the other two at that point in time, but you've got to remember the first two years of the Plan had already passed and they had been set. We had given the fifteen percent discount to the physicians.

Q Mr. Fargis, don't you agree with me that when NCRIC wanted to use different discounts for years, they put that into the contract. Nineteen percent and thirty-three percent.

A We were to amend the contract to reflect the change of thirty percent. There was only one change to change it from a fifteen percent credit program to a thirty percent credit program.

Q Well, it actually says nineteen and thirty-three?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002990

A But again as I tried to explain that's because we lowered the premium amount to a half million dollars in limits and mostly they all buy a million in limits. But by dropping that down --

Q Mr. Fargis --

A I'm sorry. Could I explain?

Q Go ahead, please.

A I'm just trying to explain why. It can be confusing why the doctors get fifteen percent and it says nineteen, because at nineteen percent multiplied by a physician's premium that had a half million dollars in limits, it equals the same dollar amount that their million dollars carried. And that's what they actually carried and that's what the hospital chose to be at risk for. So again, if I could find a better way to explain it, I will try.

Q My point here, though, the question is simply that you did incidate that you were going to use two different discounts?

A Yes, the first two years of the Plan and then the remaining years.

Q And when we go back and look at the minimum premium, we don't see two different numbers. We just see sixty percent; right?

A Yes.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002991

Q Thank you. Now, when Mr. Feldman and Ms. Gaffey raised some of these concerns with you in the spring of 2000, you told them that you were concerned that Columbia was relying on a direct reading of the contract; right?

A I believe so.

Q And you said you were puzzled by what the contract said?

A I'm still puzzled how sixty-seven percent is in there.

Q Isn't it true, Mr. Fargis, that by late 2000 when NCRIC sued Columbia, NCRIC had collected almost eleven million dollars in premiums through the Retro Plan?

A I can look at the sheet, but --

Q Please do. It's Defense Exhibit No. 81 and I would reference you to the deposit line which is the second line. And if you would take that all the way across, the cumulative total by September 1st was just about eleven million dollars?

A Yeah, and again, that reflects the amount of that premium.

Q That you had actually collected?

A We had collected that much.

Q And you also got the million dollars from Columbia which is listed as a payment for their value paid; right?

A That's correct.

16d-002992

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q So all told NCRIC had collected very nearly twelve million dollars from the Retro Plan?

A That's correct.

Q Now, you would agree with me that as of the date you sued Columbia, NCRIC had paid out less than six million dollars in this program?

A Yes, our total -- well, that is not necessarily true. Again, remember that we cap the losses at a half million dollars. And so any cases that are above a half million dollars, like a million dollars, and we had some million dollar verdicts, one hasn't been reflected in there.

Q The total loss as agreed to by the parties was less than six million dollars?

A By these terms, yes.

Q And in fact, that's reflected under total losses, 5.7, eight million dollars?

A That would have been paid.

Q Collected, twelve, paid, six?

A Yeah. But you can't forget what is called a basic premium of the 2.7 million. The second million reflects, if you will, exactly what was paid to plaintiffs and injured parties as well as defense counsel in that we had to hire defense counsel. The basic premium line you see up there is a charge which is the administrative charge we have to have where claim reps we have to issue parties and this is calculable. And so you're right, it's six million dollars in lawsuits, but it takes people behind that to manage and administer. Without that, you wouldn't have this and so you have got to add that back as a cost to the program.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002993

Q Just a simple question. You would agree with me you collected twelve million and paid out in total losses less than six?

A We collected twelve and we paid out six in losses as well as having to pay for administrative. But what you're assuming is that we ignore reserves.

Q I will get to reserves in just a moment, Mr. Fargis.

A Well, I just don't want that to be left that we got twelve and paid six and there was six left over. We have got a contract for reserves also.

Q We will get to reserves.

A Okay.

Q But would you agree with me just so the record is clear that NCRIC had collected twelve and paid out in total losses six?

A At the point in time of this, that's correct.

Q And yet at this point in time, NCRIC wanted more money from Columbia and that's why it sued?

A That's correct. We wanted to be paid securities on the remaining amounts so that we would be able to pay

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002994

all those other cases that are still on reserve, if you will, notice, and that's an additional seven million dollars.

Q Let's talk about reserves. You believe your reserves are guesses, educated guesses?

A I don't set our reserves. Our reserves are set by another office in the company who handles claims. I can't answer for them except for the fact that we have got twenty years of experience of trying cases here in the District of Columbia and we have got a pretty good idea of reserves.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, may I approach the witness?

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Mr. Fargis, I'm going to hand you a copy of your deposition. Do you remember being deposed in this case?

A I want to say which time. There were three days of depositions.

Q And Dr. Rifka was deposed for three days too; isn't that right?

A I don't know.

Q If we could put up 91, Lines 11 through 8. Mr. Fargis, you were asked and you gave the following --

A I'm sorry, which one of these boxes?

Q Ninety-one. I have opened it for you. Do you see

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-002995

it there?

A Yes.

Q And I direct your attention to Line 11. You have stated that you determined it's an educated guess to be based on many factors. It could be a highly educated guess. That being true at this time, is this the way NCRIC in your personal understanding calculates ARAE reserves, an educated guess? That was your testimony?

A Yes. Again, my personal understanding.

Q And that was true of your testimony when you gave it?

A Yes.

Q And you were also asked at Page 92, Line 5, "Is that same true with regard to indemnity reserves at this time, to your personal knowledge?" And you answered "yes;" correct?

A I'm just trying to see what the -- oh, yes.

Q And that was truthful testimony?

A Yes.

Q And it's true you can't really know how much a claim is worth until it's resolved?

A Well, of course, once it's resolved, that's the final judgment.

Q Some cases are dismissed; right?

A That's true.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

sure it was every quarter, I would have to go back and just look at it.

Q Would you like to look at the contract?

A No, I'm fine with that.

Q You don't disagree it was Paragraph 10A2 of the contract; right?

A Just to make sure.

Q Defense Exhibit No. 72, you looked at that this morning with your contract on it?

A I'm sure. I just wanted to make sure I'm looking at the right one.

Q I think it's numbered F. I know it's numbered in the white book but it indicates that NCRIC and the Medical Center, Columbia, will meet quarterly?

A Yes.

Q And at those meetings, NCRIC promised to provide under A2 a verification by NCRIC consulting actuaries?

A That's correct.

Q And Mr. Fargis, NCRIC has no such verifications in its possession?

A I'm sorry. We don't. Is that your question?

Q It has no such verifications in its possession?

A No, we have our losses as I stated are verified by our consulting actuaries twice a year and signed off on and filed with the Department of Insurance.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q Isn't it true that Ann Gaffey asked you for such verifications?

A I believe she did ask in 2000.

Q Isn't it true that NCRIC sent a notice terminating the clinic policy just forty-eight hours after sending a notice terminating the Retro Plan?

A I'm sorry. You switched subjects. Could you repeat it?

Q I have and you're right. I apologize. I will talk briefly about 2000. We're back in 2000 again. And isn't it true that in June of 2000, twenty-four hours after receiving the Board's rejection of your seven hundred and fifty thousand dollar proposal, NCRIC terminated the Retro Plan?

A Of June 4th?

Q June 28th of 2000, Mr. Fargis, do you remember that date?

A Yes.

Q And that was the date NCRIC terminated the Retro Plan?

A We received notice that Columbia wanted it. We acknowledged Columbia's request to terminate the Plan and we sent notice it was terminated.

Q Columbia didn't terminate it. NCRIC did; right?

A That's not correct.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

to the courthouse and filed and said oh, this is an additional amount that the hospital owes. And I called Gerry Beaulieu specifically and said, I understand there is a problem, but rest assured, and yeah, maybe it wasn't the smartest business decision to try to become a secured creditor at that time, but we knew we weren't going to go in and ask that there be an additional amount added to what Columbia was already in bankruptcy for. That's what our involvement with the bankruptcy was during that period.

Q If you could just answer my question, I would be grateful.

A Okay. I thought I did.

Q You received all of the notices that Columbia issued publicly as part of the bankruptcy process; isn't that right?

A Again, I'm not sure if we received all of them, but we stopped the attorney from getting the request.

Q Do you remember being deposed in this case on July 31, 2001?

A Yes.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, may I approach?

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Mr. Fargis, you could turn to Page 436; Line 17?

A I'm sorry. Which line?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-002999

Q Line 17.

Do you know if NCRIC received the notices of Columbia's bankruptcy? Do you know?

A I believe we received all notices.

Q Do you know who at the company -- was there someone at the company, NCRIC itself, that reviewed those notices?

A I received all the notices.

Q That was truthful testimony?

A Yes. That's what I'm saying. I believe we received them all. I can't recall when we had the attorney stopped receiving them, and whenever they came in, I was receiving them. I just can't recall when, how long it went on and when we stopped receiving them.

Q You testified at your deposition that you received all notices; right?

A Again, I'm trying -- I said I believe we did, and I just can't remember when we stopped receiving the notices.

Q Mr. Fargis, isn't it a fact you simply didn't bother to review all the notices?

A No, I didn't review all the notices.

Q Could you turn to Page 447, Lines 4through 7, please. QUESTION: "Did you have a chance to review them all?" ANSWER: "I didn't have a chance to review all of them."

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003000

A No, I didn't.

Q That was truthful testimony?

A Right. That's what I just said. Was that not clear?

Q You would agree with me that there was no contract between the parties in 1997? I'm sorry, go back. I apologize. I'm shifting gears a bit.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, I'm still having trouble hearing everybody. If both counsel and Mr. Fargis would speak up, it might help.

MR. GORSUCH: I will try.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q You would agree there was a period in 1997 when there wasn't a written contract in place between the parties?

A Yes, that's correct.

Q And you would agree with me that NCRIC didn't send out undiscounted bills to doctors during that period?

A No, we did not.

Q You would agree with me that the first time they severed their relationship with Columbia, that NCRIC sent out undiscounted bills to the doctors, was July 2000?

A That's correct.

Q And you would agree with me that that occurred twelve days after the termination notice for the Retro Plan was sent?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

for insured physicians that they could get into an alternative plan, we would try to assist them to do that." That was your testimony in your deposition?

A Yes.

Q And that was truthful testimony when you gave it?

A Yes, it was.

Q You also reported to the Board in your plan of action that you were assisting physicians with potential new programs at George Washington University?

A Yes, George Washington had approached us about creating a plan to absorb some of the OB/GYNs who were interested in going over to G.W.

Q And it just happened to happen, this report, the day after you sent out the discounts; right?

A What happened?

Q You met with the Board to tell them about this; right?

A No, we had a scheduled audit committee meeting and it was put on the Audit Committee agenda.

Q And you would agree that G.W. didn't previously have a discount plan at this time?

A They had not. They never approached.

Q It just came to fruition during the summer of 2002; right?

A I believe again they had been approached by some of the physicians in the community about creating a plan there?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003002

Q And would you agree with me that it just came to fruition around this time in the summer of 2002?

A Yes.

Q Do you remember the discussion this morning about exclusions with the clinic?

A Yes.

Q And that's the endorsement you issued on doctors' personal policies suspending coverage for them for work done at the clinic; correct?

A That excludes the coverage.

Q You can't work at the clinic and be covered; right?

A It's not covered on our policy because it's covered by whatever policy the clinic has.

Q Well, you testified this morning that the reason why you issued those exclusions was because the physicians had double coverage; right?

A They would have had double coverage if the clinic had one policy and they also had our policy that covered them also.

Q Now, you wrote letters to the doctors at the time telling them about the exclusion; right?

A That's correct.

Q And you didn't mention double coverage anywhere anywhere in that letter, did you?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A I can't recall. Could I take a look at the letter to verify it.

Q Defense Exhibit No. 45, and I believe it's in your notebook, the black one. And if it's not, please let me know?

A Yes.

Q This is the letter?

A Yes, sir.

Q And this letter was sent out to all of the doctors who you issued the exclusion for at this period of time in October of 2000?

A That's correct.

Q And you can't find anywhere in there that NCRIC mentioned the issue of double coverage; can you?

A No, we do not mention that.

Q You sent letters to people like Dr. Heather Johnson about this; correct?

A That's correct.

Q And all of the other clinic doctors who had policies that still covered them at the clinic?

A That's correct.

Q Now, you had no explanation why NCRIC doesn't issue this exclusion years earlier when it first issued the doctors individual policies or first issued the clinic policy, do you?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A No, we did issue some endorsements on some of the policies. It was after canceling the clinic and going through an audit of all of the physicians that we found out that we had not endorsed all of them.

Q You have no explanation why you didn't do it earlier; correct?

A Well, I don't have an explanation about why everybody didn't get the endorsement.

Q You cannot explain it as anything other than a mistake; correct?

A I can explain why the endorsement was left off of some and some got the endorsement. All of them should have gotten the endorsements who were insured with us. Now, we covered others who had other policies.

Q This was just another mistake; right?

A Well, it was in their favor, but --

Q Well, without regard to whose favor NCRIC's conduct was in, this was just another mistake you made, Mr. Fargis; correct?

A We did not endorse all the policies; that's correct.

Q It's a mistake; right?

A As I said, we didn't endorse them.

Q It's a mistake, Mr. Fargis; correct?

A If you want to -- sure, it's a mistake.

Q You can't explain it any other way, can you?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003005

A I can't.

Q Isn't it true, Mr. Fargis, that Ann Gaffey had told you almost two years earlier all of the Columbia doctors who had individual policies with NCRIC? She gave you a list?

A Oh, yes, we had a list of all those and also those who aren't insured with us.

Q So it's true that you knew exactly which clinic doctors had personal coverage with NCRIC since the beginning of the clinic policy?

A That's true.

Q And you just got around to correcting this mistake on October 1, 2000?

A No, what this endorsement -- again, these are physicians who have practiced at the Clinic that we no longer covered. We were excluding coverage now for practice at the clinic after -- I'm sorry.

Q Go ahead, Mr. Fargis, please.

A After we had canceled the policy.

Q Now, you previously testified that your failure to do it earlier was a mistake; correct?

A Well, when we accepted the policy, the endorsement should have gotten in everyone's policy. We cancelled and we made sure the endorsement was done on everyone's policy.

Q Isn't true, Mr. Fargis, you had the information

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

necessary to correct your mistake since the day the clinic policy was issued?

A Well, we had a list of all of the physicians and all of the endorsements should have been issued then.

Q And you didn't get around to it until Octber lst, 2000; right?

A That's correct.

Q And isn't it true that after you cancelled the clinic policy and then issued these exclusions that the doctors personal policies, the clinic doctors had no coverage and not double coverage?

A I don't know that. I don't know where the clinic had placed that coverage.

Q You don't know whether the answer is that doctors had no coverage; right, other than double coverage, do you?

A No, I don't know if they had placed the clinic policy with another carrier. I don't know where they had put it.

Q For all you know, those doctors were left with no coverage; isn't that correct, Mr. Fargis?

A No, I don't know that.

Q You don't know one way or the other?

A I don't know.

Q You would agree with me that within just a few months after this dispute with Columbia in 2000 that by February

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

of 2001, you were promoted?

A I'm sorry. I'm trying to follow that after --

Q You were promoted to president of NCRIC in February of 2001?

A I was promoted to president of the subsidiary of ours, it's a management services company in February of 2001.

Q And Mr. Osborn conducted many of the negotiations with Mr. Wilson. And he was let go around that same time?

A I believe it was January 5th, 2001.

Q Do you know if Eric Hempelman will appear in this trial?

A I don't know.

Q In 1998 when Columbia was considering MIIX rather than NCRIC, you were aware that NCRIC had a higher premium than MIIX for every single doctor in Columbia's plan?

MR. PAGE: Objection. Scope, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Would you repeat the question, please?

MR. GORSUCH: Yes, Your Honor. In 1998 when Columbia was considering MIIX versus NCRIC, you were aware that every single doctor would have had lower premiums in the MIIX plan?

THE COURT: All right. The objection is sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Isn't it true that NCRIC intended to continue

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003008

MR. PAGE: But I don't think we will finish tomorrow with only two hours of testimony.

THE COURT: So, it looks like we're in a position then where we can -- you can conclude Monday about 12:30 and we can break, and allow time for Juror No. 6 to attend her medical appointment, and either recess early on Monday and just plan to do closings on Tuesday and instructions as well.

MR. PAGE: That's a plan we would shoot for.

THE COURT: Okay. We will still have an outstanding issue with respect to the testimony and the scope of the testimony of Mr. Moore and Mr. Henderson, and those were issues raised by Columbia in their motion for additional sanctions.

MR. PAGE: Correct, Your Honor. And we filed a response to that in writing.

THE COURT: I have the written response. I guess we could spend five minutes now going through this.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, if it would aid the Court, there are three points we have and we're withdrawing one of them, the second point, Your Honor. So that there are two points that are left.

THE COURT: And the second point was?

MR. GORSUCH: The scope of --

THE COURT: The geographic scope.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003009

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q Mr. Moore, were you retained in this case to conduct an analysis?

A Yes, I was.

Q Can you tell the jury the first part of your analysis?

A Yeah. The first part was to do an analysis of the health care and hospital markets in the District of Columbia.

Q We will get to some of the specific factors in a moment, but can you tell the jury your conclusion on your first part of your analysis?

A Yes, the conclusion is this is a highly competitive health care market and some of those market forces that are in place here really led to the continued deterioration of the financial performance of Columbia Hospital for Women starting in the early nineties.

Q Was there a second part of the analysis you were retained to do in this case?

A Yes, the second part was to look at those specific trends and market forces and demographic and financial and operating type data and determine the impact of those on Columbia Hospital for Women.

Q And what was your conclusion with respect to the second part of your analysis in this case?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003010

A It really was that Columbia Hospital for Women was in a bad financial position, and due to these market forces would have failed really regardless of the actions which this case is addressing.

Q Let's talk about some of the specifics now, Mr. Moore. Could you describe for the jury the D. C. market for hospitals and health care?

A Yeah. In order to understand that, there are three things you really have to focus on and understand about the health care market here. One, there are multiple providers. Over this time period it ranges anywhere from ten to twelve hospitals in the District of Columbia independently owned and separately managed hospitals. And so it's competetive. And so, that's one thing. The second piece that is important to understand is that there is excess capacity in this system. You may hear that referred to as overbedded. The market is overbedded.

Q What does that mean?

A It really means we have excess capacity in the District when you look at the numbers. If you step back and look at the numbers that the D. C. Hospital Association keeps, you would see that over the last five, probably even ten years, that the average occupancy of the hospitals in the District has been -- hovers around two-third and three-quarters full. And so there is about three thousand

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003011

determine what Columbia's future would have been had the doctors stayed?

A Financial projection really wasn't called for in this case. There was no ongoing entity for which would be the subject of a financial projection.

Q And you could do a financial projection with hypothetical assumptions; correct?

A No, sir, not if there is an ongoing institute, I can't.

Q You're not aware of the American Institute rules about this?

A I'm very much aware of those rules.

Q And they say you can do hypothetical assumptions, for instance, if the doctors had stayed and you could have examined what the effects would have been on a hypothetical basis; right?

A No, sir, not in this case. There was no entity.

Q You would agree you did not perform any financial projections in this case?

A It wasn't called for, no.

Q You didn't examine in a financial projection what the impact of profitable services Columbia had added like plastic surgery; correct?

A No.

Q You didn't look at how the HMO imbursements they

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003012

out and see what the impact would have been for Columbia?

A Again, there was no HUD loan to project.

Q I understand that. You make hypothetical assumptions in doing financial projections, don't you?

A But you can't assume something that is not even realistic. That's one of the basic principles behind financial projections and such assumption is that they have to have reasonable basis to be valid. And there was no HUD loan. There was an attempt to get a HUD loan and there was never any completed transaction there.

Q We will get to that in a minute, Mr. Moore, but for right now, I'm just asking I think a straightforward question. You didn't do a financial projection to see what Columbia would have looked like if it had gotten the HUD loan, did you?

A No, there was no financial projection as a part of this engagement.

Q Isn't it true that without doing a financial projection, you can't render a formal opinion on what Columbia's future viability would have been if the doctors had stayed?

A I can have an expert opinion on what the outcome of the hospital would have been which is what I am testifying to.

Q Isn't it true that your firm, Price Waterhouse

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Coopers, three years ago this very month told HUD it could not render a future without performing financial projections?

A It's just a totally different circumstance. There was an entity and there was a reason that a projection could have been done at that time, but there is no -- again, there is no basis for projections at this point because there is no entity.

Q Mr. Moore, isn't that what Price Waterhouse Coopers, your firm --

A In the context of that engagement, you're correct. That's a clarifying statement of what that work was and what it wasn't is a more accurate statement.

Q Mr. Moore, I think my question calls for a yes or no and I will ask you for a yes or no. Did you or did you not tell HUD you couldn't render a formal opinion on Columbia's viability without doing a financial projection?

A Two points there. One, I was not involved in that work and so I didn't tell HUD or Columbia anything related to that, Number One; and, Number Two, that statement is a clarification of the work that was done on behalf of our client, HUD, at the time and has nothing --

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, may I approach the witness?

THE COURT: I don't think the witness is finished with his answer.

16d-003014

Laser stock Form FMRRN

Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

MR. GORSUCH: I'm sorry.

THE WITNESS: I guess I'm finished.

THE COURT: Yes, you may approach.

MR. BADAMI: Your Honor, may I ask what document he's showing Mr. Moore?

MR. GORSUCH: The Price Waterhouse report.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Mr. Moore, I would ask you to turn to Page 2 of the January 1, 2001 letter to Mr. Whitehead at HUD. Do you see that there?

A I don't see it.

Q I would be happy to hand you my copy, Page 2.

MR. BADAMI: Your Honor, with all due respect, I would object to it being shown to the jury at this time. It's not in evidence.

MR. GORSUCH: No, it's not in evidence, Your Honor. That's correct. This is for impeachment purposes.

THE COURT: I guess you need to ask some foundational questions.

MR. GORSUCH: Sure.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q What I have handed you is a letter from Price Waterhouse Coopers?

A Yes.

Q To the Department of Housing and Urban Development?

16d-003015

Laser stock Form FMRRN

Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A That's correct.

Q On or about January 8, 2001?

A That's correct.

Q Signed by Price Waterhouse Coopers as a firm; correct?

A That's correct.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, may I please publish the document?

MR. BADAMI: Your Honor, I would object. It's still not in evidence.

MR. GORSUCH: It's for impeachment purposes.

THE COURT: May I see the document, please?

THE WITNESS: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: I need a few more foundational questions because I thought the witness' testimony was that he was not involved in this particular transaction.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, if we may approach just a moment on this.

THE COURT: Actually, if you could just ask him a few more questions about his knowledge or involvement with this particular document.

MR. GORSUCH: Sure.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q You're aware Price Waterhouse did a report for the Housing and Urban Development Department; right?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A Yes, we were engaged by HUD, Housing and Urban Development in advance of part of their consideration of whether to give a loan -- to extend a loan to Columbia Hospital for Women.

Q And you relied in part on this document in forming your opinion in this case: right?

A It was one of the documents that was made available for review, but my opinion is not based on this document.

Q And you told the jury you're a partner of Price Waterhouse Coopers; right?

A Yes.

Q And you have been for a number of years?

A Yes.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, I would move that is foundation enough.

MR. BADAMI: Your Honor, he stated that he had no part of that Price Waterhouse audit years ago.

THE COURT: I will allow the use of that document. That objection is overruled.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q If you could turn your attention to Page 2 of the document. "It is important to note that we have not performed a financial projection of any kind with respect to CHW, that's Columbia Hospital for Women; right??

A Yes.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003017

Q And therefore, are unable to render a formal opinion on Columbia's future viability or ability to meet a level of incremental debt service; correct?

A What's the question?

Q That's what Price Waterhouse wrote in 2001 to HUD?

A Yes. It came out of a letter we wrote to our client, Housing and Urban Development.

Q And you told HUD the truth?

A This was a statement as part of that deliverable to that client to make sure they understood what we had done and what we had not done, so that our deliverable in that case would not be misconstrued as being a projection when really it was an analysis and review of the financial conditions or market conditions of Columbia Hospital for Women.

Q Sir, your company told the Federal Government the truth when it said it couldn't render a formal opinion on Columbia's viability without doing a financial projection; correct?

A No, I think you're misunderstanding the deliverable there which is part of the issue here. Again, there was the subject of this letter which is a report which you have just handed me that details many of the financial problems that were being caused at Columbia Hospital for Women because of the market forces that we're talking about here today. And when you deliver a report like that, as part of our professional standards, to be clear so that the user doesn't misconstrue what they are receiving, and in this case, that statement is simply that. It doesn't say we can't do a projection. It just says there is not a projection and in this context, you know, you're not rendering an opinion on anything because a projection is not done.

16d-003018

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q Correct. And that was the truth.

A It was part of the deliverable to the client, yes.

Q When you told HUD that you couldn't render a formal opinion on the viability of Columbia Hospital without doing a formal financial projection, you were telling the truth?

A On behalf of our client HUD, we were going to give them a formal opinion, we couldn't do it without doing more work and doing a projection.

Q Now, it's also true, isn't it, that you haven't been asked to give an opinion of exactly how much longer Columbia would have survived if it hadn't lost all those doctors in 2000; right?

A That's correct. How much longer.

Q So, even though you say Columbia would have died at some point, you're not saying it would have died in the year 2002 if the doctors had stayed. You have no opinion on that; right?

A Yes. As a matter of fact, it could have died

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003019

sooner if the doctors would have stayed.

Q And it could have died later, for all you know; right?

A Yes.

Q It could have been a year later?

A Its destiny was sealed is the way I see it in the market place.

Q Right. But it could have survived another year; for all you know?

A Hypothetically, anything is possible, I guess.

Q You didn't study it. You have no opinion on that issue?

A I have an opinion that it would fail. The timing is not part of the subject here.

Q Not part of your opinion; is that right?

A It would have failed, yes.

Q It could have been two years later, for all you know?

A I very seriously doubt that.

Q It could have been --

A No, my opinion is it was all going to be pretty tightly around the time that it actually happened.

Q But you don't know, do you?

A Well, I tell you why I do know it was going to be pretty quick and it actually could have been quicker.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A I don't remember the exact number, but it was substantial in all those years.

Q Did you see a drop like that between '99 and 2000?

A I think the revenue was dropping consistently.

Q Isn't it true in the fiscal year ending '99, total revenues were forty-six million dollars?

A Can I see the document you're looking at?

Q I'm just asking a question at the moment.

A I don't have that data here handy.

Q Do you have any reason to disagree with that?

A I have no reason to disagree with that.

Q And isn't it true the following year total revenues were about forty-six million?

A I don't have that data handy.

Q You don't have any reason to disagree with that, do you?

A No, but I don't have the data --

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, may I approach the witness?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. GORSUCH: Handing the witness the Form 99 for the fiscal years ending 1999 and 2000, the total revenue lines if you look at those on the first page, you looked at these in forming your opinion in this case?

A These were part of the documents, yes.

Q Isn't it true that the total revenue for both

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003021

years is around forty-six million dollars?

A What I would have looked at which is probably in my opinion a more accurate document to look at to judge revenues is the audited financial statement for 1999. But according to these documents, it's 45.6 million in 2000 and 46.4 million in '99.

Q That's what was reported to the Internal Revenue Service; right?

A Yes, it's on the Form 990; right.

Q So, it's about the same in those two years; isn't it?

A Yeah.

But I will point out in looking at this very same comparison you're trying to make in other years, it's not true that you can rely on the tax return data to be the same as audited financial statement in this particular case as we looked at it all the way back to 1995. And there are differences in all those years and so --

Q So, the question I had is they are about the same, what's on the page in front of you, total revenues for those two years?

A Yes, according to that, yes.

Q And isn't it true the following year, the year after the doctors left, the total revenue reported was ten million dollars less?

A I would have to see that document that you have there.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, may I approach?

THE COURT: Yes.

THE WITNESS: This says 36.6 million.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q It's about a ten million dollar drop.

A Yes.

And also the net revenue was sixty-five million the year 1995, and so I think to have an accurate picture you would have to look at this trend over multiple years. And that's where my analysis was focused is what was happening over the long term.

Q Before and after the doctors left in a single year, it was a ten million dollar drop of revenue; right?

A Yes, according to this year. The other observation I have, the difference between those two years is that the hospital actually did better bottom line-wise financially. And so --

Q Now, you talked about the status of the births generated in the D. C. area and the trends; right?

A Of births generally, yes.

Q Did you look at Defense Exhibit No. 47 in forming your opinion?

A I would have to get a copy of that. I'm pretty sure I did, but --

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, this is in evidence and

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003023

I think the jury knows this.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. GORSUCH: If you would turn to the page marked births and it's up on the screen. Would you agree with me that in 1998 and 1999 and up to September 2000 births at Columbia were pretty steady?

THE WITNESS: What page are you on again?

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q It's labeled births.

A Yes, it's going up and down, yes.

Q Pretty steady, though; above three hundred?

A About three hundred.

Q And then there is a steep down function; isn't there?

A According to the chart it does drop off, yes.

Q And it resumes at a lower level?

A Yes.

Q It's pretty steady there too; isn't it?

A Well, it's up and down.

Q Well, it's somewhere a hundred and fifty and two hundredish thereafter; isn't it?

A Yes.

Q Something happened in September of 2000; isn't that right?

A Yes.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003024

Q Between 1998 and 1999 after Columbia emerged from bankruptcy, Columbia's market share in obstetrics and its primary service rate increased 1.5 percent; right?

A Give me that statistic again.

Q Between 1998 and 1999 after Columbia emerged from bankruptcy, its market share in obstetrics and in its primary service area, it increased 1.5 percent?

A I don't have access to that data here, but --

Q If you could take a look at the Price Waterhouse report with me, your company's report. Could you turn to Page 3-5 and take a look at the top line. You would agree with me that Columbia increased its market share in '99 over '98 by 1.5 percent?

A Yes, it looks like that's what happened, yes.

Q And you would agree with me that Columbia's market share increase was almost four times larger than Sibley's market share increase?

A Yes.

Q You would agree with me it was almost eight times larger than George Washington's market share increase?

A Yes.

Q You would agree with me that Georgetown and Holy Cross and Howard all lost market shares during the same period?

A According to this page, yes.

Q This page was prepared by Price Waterhouse; right?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003025

A That's correct.

A JUROR: I'm sorry, Your Honor. I don't know if the jury has this document and I'm saying no one can see.

MR. GORSUCH: I'm sorry. We can blow it up.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q So, just so we're clear, Georgetown and Holy Cross and Howard all lost market shares during the same period?

A It looks like it, yes.

Q Columbia is doing pretty well in its turn-around program, wasn't it?

A I don't know if I would conclude that from this chart, no, sir.

Q Thank you very much.

It's also correct that in Fiscal year 2000, Columbia's cost per adjusted discharge had a favorable decrease in trend; right?

A That's possible, yes.

Q You don't have any reason to disagree with that, do you?

A I don't have any reason to disagree with it, no.

Q And isn't it correct that as of January, 2001, Columbia's cost was also showing a favorable decreasing trend for the previous three years?

A Like I said before, because of the revenue was dropping so dramatically over the extended period and so

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003026

were the costs and therefore that statistic would be dropping as well. That doesn't mean the financial performance was following, though.

Q Mr. Moore, isn't it true that Price Waterhouse represented in 2000 that it was a favorable decrease in trend?

A That would be a favorable decreasing trend, yes.

Q Isn't that correct that as of January 2001, Columbia renegotiated most of the managed care contracts to increase per patient reimbursements and total net patient revenues?

A It's true that it was reported that they increased their managed care contract rate, yes.

Q Is it, in fact, correct that Columbia management had done an admirable job of cutting costs in 2000?

A This very report I think says they were working hard at cutting costs, yes.

Q Didn't you find they had done an admirable job?

A I didn't find anything because I wasn't involved in this, but if you can find what it says in this report, at least one person's opinion was that they were doing an admirable job.

Q You don't have any reason to disagree that that was Price Waterhouse's opinion that they were doing an admirable job?

A If you show me where they said that.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003027

Q On Page 2-7. First of all, look at the right-hand side, the first sentence. "First, from an operating perspective, management has done an admirable job of controlling costs." That was true when this case was presented to the Federal Government?

A That was the case.

Q And isn't it true that Price Waterhouse found that in October of 2000 immediately, almost immediately following the cancellation of the Retro Plan, Columbia's total patient discharges had decreased twenty-two percent as compared with the year before?

A That sounds right, yes.

Q And isn't it correct that Price Waterhouse found that Columbia was experiencing decreasing volumes due to physician retention problems?

A Yeah, and also I think in the report, it says that we were -- we did not find what we would normally find in a hospital, and that is a physician recruiting a retention program which is really the issue. It's not that you lose physicians because hospitals lose physicians. The question is do you have a program to replace them and retain them.

Q Do you know if Columbia had ever lost thirty physicians in a month before?

A I don't know but I can tell you it's not unusual

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003028

A We absolutely have, yes.

MR. BADAMI: Thank you very much.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

(Thereupon, the witness was excused.)

Thereupon, (4:11 p.m.)

WILLIAM McKAY HENDERSON,

having been called as a witness for and on behalf of the Plaintiffs, and having been first duly sworn by the Deputy Clerk, was examined and testified, as follows:

THE COURT: All right. Good afternoon, and just for timing, we're going to go a little bit past 4:30 since we got started a few mintues late today.

MR. BADAMI: Thank you, your Honor. May I proceed?

THE COURT: Yes.

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. BADAMI:

Q Mr. Henderson, I would ask you to introduce yourself to the jury, please.

A My name is William McKay Henderson.

Q And can you tell the jury your occupation and business address?

A Yes, I'm a partner with Price Waterhouse Coopers and my business address is 1900 K Street, Washington, D. C.

Q How long have you been a partner at Price Waterhouse Coopers?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003029

A Since 1995.

Q Is Steve Moore one of your partners?

A Yes, he is.

Q Do you have an area of specialty?

A Yes, I'm a partner in the Financial Advisory Services.

Q And can you describe for the jury what Financial Advisory Services are?

A Financial Advisory Service is a practice unit in Price Waterhouse Coopers that specializes in providing financial and business advice to clients in a variety of matters including forensic instant accounting investigation.

Q And do you also do work with respect to health care fraud and abuse investigation?

A Yes, I'm the national leader of Health Care Abuse and I run a unit that deals with health care fraud across the country.

Q How long have you worked in this field?

A The health care fraud?

Q Yes.

A I started the practice in 1992.

Q Does that work involve reviewing financial materials in an effort to assess damages?

A The practice includes health care fraud, but the other practice, we evaluate financial business records, market

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

factors and other relevant information and evaluate potential economic impact.

Q Does your work involve an understanding of accounting and financial records?

A Yes.

Q I would like to have you talk to the jury about your background just for a moment. Would you tell the jury your educational background and history.

A I have a B.S./B.S. from the University of Chapel Hill with concentration in accounting.

Q What year did you earn that?

A 1981.

Q Are you also a Certified Public Accountant?

A Yes, I am.

Q And how long have you been a CPA?

A I got my CPA in 1984.

Q And how about are you a certified fraud examiner?

A Yes, I am.

Q And can you tell the jury some of your professional memberships?

A I'm a member of the American Board of Certified Public Accountants and a member of the Pennsylvania and North Carolina State of Certified Fraud Examiners.

Q Have you authored any publications in your professional career dealing with damages?

16d-003031

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

A Not specifically damages, but financial issues.

Q And can you tell the jury about some of the financial issues you authored?

A Most recent was Corporate Integrity Agreements which is a settlement agreement that entities enter into when they settle investigative issues with the Department of Justice and part of that requires review and analysis by an independent accounting firm of certain operations of the business.

Q Following your graduation from the University of NC., could you give the jury a brief overview of the companies you worked at and some of the engagements you have been tasked to take on?

A Coming out of school I joined a company called Duke Power as a staff accountant and I went on to join an accounting firm called Arthur Young and I was involved in their financial consulting group. And in that group we designed accounting systems for clients and we developed the design of sort of the books and records and what they would need to account for their revenue sales and expenses and those type of things. Then I moved on to an acocunting firm, actually in Philadelphia called Grant Thornton and I continued to do accounting design systems and design work, but also began to get involved in what they called their litigation consulting practice which was a group that was involved with evaluation of economic damages and other types of financial services for clients. And then I ultimately joined the Price Waterhouse Coopers and have been with them since 1990.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003032

Q Have you been qualified, Mr. Henderson, previously in Federal and State court to testify with respect to damage calculations?

A Yes, I have.

Q Can you tell the jury about some of those times?

A I have two of those involved where I was qualified to calculate damages and one was with a urologist where we value a piece of his partnership and the other one was the lost earnings for a physician who happened to be an OB/GYN.

Q As a part of your work, Mr. Henderson, have you interviewed witnesses?

A Yes.

Q Have you performed forensic reviews of accounting records?

A Yes, I have.

Q Can you tell the jury what a forensic review of an accounting record is?

A Forensic review is a specialty where we're brought in to help investigate various allegations or misappropriations. It often involves determining whether or not simply how cash was taken out of a business, where the records were falsified in order to cover up a transaction and then includes often interviewing company employees and individuals, some of these being the subject of our investigation.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003033

Q Have you reviewed financial records?

A Yes.

Q Have you calculated claims involving economic damages?

A Yes.

Q About how many times would you say?

A Cases where there was some element of lost profit or economic damage is probably a hundred cases.

Q And the experience that you have been describing to the jury, did that assist you to obtain the skills necessary to evaluate damages in this case?

A Yes.

Q Is the work that you did in this case based on the same type of data and the same type of, I guess of data experience that you have talked about in these other cases?

A Yes, it is.

MR. BADAMI: Your Honor, at this time NCRIC would offer Mr. Henderson as an expert witness with respect to damages.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Coby USA 1-800-255-5040

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,	:
Plaintiff/ Counter-Defendant,	:
v.	:	Civil Action No. 7308-00
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	:
Defendant/ Counter-Plaintiff.	:

Washington, D. C.

Monday, February 9, 2004

The above-entitled action resumed for a jury trial before the Honorable ANNA BLACKBURN-RIGSBY, Associate Judge, in Courtroom Number 48-A.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS HER ORIGINAL NOTES AND RECORDS OF TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

2004 MAR 1 P 4:58

APPEARANCES:

On behalf of the Plaintiff:

RODNEY PAGE, Esquire
SCOTT M. BADAMI, Esquire

On behalf of the Defendant:

NEIL GORSUCH, Esquire
ELI SCHULMAN, Esquire
PRIYA AIYAR, Esquire

DONNA K. HAWKINS
Official Court Reporter Telephone: 879-1035

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003035

Q You don't know?

A It's not so specific. If you want me to quote a Social Security Administration review, no.

Q So you didn't look at the Social Security retirement numbers either?

A I said I looked at the work life tables.

Q But you didn't look at the Social Security numbers; correct?

A No.

Q Isn't it true that nine percent of Columbia's doctors in 2001 were over sixty-five?

A I didn't see any of that data in what I looked at and if there is some data there, I will look at it, but in Mr. Ben Ezra's data that he looked at, I didn't see specifics on it.

Q Isn't it correct that Price Waterhouse Coopers in 2001 found that nine percent of Columbia's doctors were over the age of sixty-five?

A I don't know what you're referring to, but --

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, may I approach the witness?

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Mr. Henderson, I would ask you to trun to Page 61 and in the right-hand column, the second bullet point, if we could publish that to the jury. Isn't it correct -- I'm

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003036

sorry. Page 6-1. Price Waterhouse specifically found in 2001 that nine percent of the physicians staff at Columbia was over the age of sixty-five; isn't that correct?

A I mean, this is a report that was prepared by the firm and there's a statement in here that says nine percent of the doctors are over sixty-five.

Q And Price Waterhouse would have been telling the truth in 2001; isn't that right?

A Yes, they would.

Q You also relied on an article by a Lawrence Farber about retirement funding; correct?

A Relied on an article?

Q That was one of the materials you looked at in forming your opinion in this case?

A I reviewed it, yes.

Q And isn't it true that that found that among doctors sixty years of age and older, more than half wouldn't quit until the age of seventy?

A I would have to look at the specific article.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, may I approach the witness?

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q If you could turn with me to Page 5 of ten, and in the second to the last paragraph, isn't it true the

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003037

if that hospital is not financially viable, then that may be more than an overriding factor than the twenty or sixty-five.

Now, one of the issues I raised on that we also consider, for example, Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony raised auditor's going concern opinion and a going concern opinion is whether the hospital would be able to stay in business for more than a year. He mentioned that and so those are all the factors that I'm raising as to how were all these things, how were these facts evaluated in his making an assumption of sixty-five and twenty. I didn't see that.

Q It's just a simple question. You did not offer any alternative retirement age besides sixty-five; correct?

A I just raised the issue that there was nothing.

Q And as to the viability of the hospital, you did no financial projections to determine the viability of the hospital, did you?

A I didn't do specific projections, but I looked at the financial statement, the tax returns and various market data.

Q Let's talk about the marginal cost rate and the thirty percent used by Mr. Ben Ezra. Do you remember that testimony?

A Right.

Q You didn't interview the Comptroller of the hospital,

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003038

did you?

A I did not interview the Comptroller, no.

Q And you were hired in 2001 when the hospital was still open; right?

A I was what?

Q You were hired in 2001 when the hospital was still open?

A Yes.

Q Did you review the case that Mr. Ben Ezra cited from Kansas, the Coventry case where thirty percent was used as a marginal cost rate?

A I don't recall Mr. Ben Ezra reciting that case. I recall the example out of the textbook and his knowledge.

Q You don't recall the Federal case, Coventry that he also relied on?

A I don't recall it, no.

Q Do you recall the American Medical Association Article Journal where sixteen percent was used for hospitals as a marginal cost rate?

A I don't recall that testimony.

Q Now, you talked about Mr. Ben Ezra's independence. Do you remember that? Oh, before we get to that, I'm sorry. You didn't perform any studies to determine an alternative marginal cost rate, did you?

A No, I did not.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003039

A Yes.

Q Would you agree that the conflict of interest would have existed for Price Waterhouse if both NCRIC and Columbia were clients?

A A conflict of interest if they were both clients?

Q Uh-huh.

A It may be. It depends on what the issue is.

Q Isn't it true your firm prepared a report on behalf of Columbia's management in 2001?

A Are you referring to this report?

Q I am, sir.

A My understanding is that this report was prepared on behalf of HUD.

Q Well, could you turn to Page 11, the very first page on the report. I would reference you to the last paragraph in the first sentence. Isn't it true that Price Waterhouse said, "Due to purposes outlined above, this report is being prepared on behalf of both HUD and Columbia Management?"

A Where are you, 11? Yeah, I think that's what that sentence said, but you have to read the sentence in context of the entire paragraph, if you're trying to apply this to a standard. And I think a couple of things you have to start off at the beginning of the paragraph all the way up at the top, and you know, it says "That given CHW current and raised additional capital.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003040

Q All right. Is the stock, the forty percent of the company that was sold in 1999, is that traded publicly on a stock exchange?

A At the time it was traded publicly. It was traded on the NASDAC, that's called their small caps.

Q Is that still true today?

A Today it's traded on NADAC's national market and so it has a little bit larger trading volume, but not significantly.

Q What is the current stock price of the company, by the way?

A Stock is trading in the range of eleven and a quarter to eleven seventy-five; somewhere in that range. It has been pretty steady for the last couple of months.

Q Is NCRIC Insurance Company the only company?

A No, it's not.

Q Has it ever been the only company in the District of Columbia to provide medical malpractice insurance coverage?

A If it has, perhaps it was back when it formed in 1980, but since that time I think there have been companies that have come and gone in the District.

Q What is the market share that NCRIC has in the District of Columbia on insurance for doctors?

A According to AMF who is again, that rating agency

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003041

we talked about, they also accumulate market data, our market shares ranges between fifty and sixty percent.

Q And has that share, fifty to sixty percent of the market, has that been relatively in that range for a number of years now?

A It's been within that range since I've been here for the last eight years.

Q Since 1996?

A That's right.

Q Tell the jury what your duties as CEO and President are? What do they include?

A Well, I work first with the Board of Directors in developing a strategic plan, our mission. Our vision of the company. Where we're taking the company. Once that's developed, I then work with our management team to develop goals and objective for us to meet to be able to meet that strategic plan.

Q By the way, when you talk about the Board, I forgot to ask you, how members of the Board are there today?

A Today we have thirteen directors on the Board.

Q And how many of those are practicing physicians in the District of Columbia?

A All but four of us. We have nine physicians -- most of whom -- I guess all of whom are carryovers from the previous Board. We have added to the Board of Directors

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Plan are based on your lost estimate for years that have not even closed out?

A That's right.

Q You're suing Columbia based on -- educated guesswork; isn't that right?

A We're suing Columbia under the terms and conditions of the contract to which they agreed.

Q Isn't it true that the terms and conditions of what the contract, the parties agreed to, one component was that the money would change hands only for closed out years?

A I believe there was an original agreement that was made that had a second part that is missing from your question and that is up until the time that the agreement terminated and when the agreement terminated, that oral agreement ended.

Q You have no recollection about that personally in terms of the oral agreement, do you?

A Sure, I do.

Q You were not personally involved in the forming of the oral agreement, were you?

A No.

Q You weren't there?

A No.

Q So you don't know anything about the terms of 1996

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040
16d-003043

oral agreement between NCRIC and Columbia that money would be exchanged only for years where all claims had been resolved; correct?

A That's not correct. I have people reporting to me who make oral agreements all the time.

MR. GORSUCH: May I have his deposition, please? Your Honor, may I approach?

THE COURT: Yes.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Mr. Pate, I would turn your attention to Page 57. You were asked -- Mr. Pate, let me just get to our place before we go to the deposition. "Isn't it true that you were not even aware that NCRIC and Columbia had formed an oral agreement?"

A That was my testimony, that's right.

Q And you're not aware about the terms of that agreement, therefore, are you?

A I'm aware of it.

Q Sir, you were not present for such a meeting; isn't that correct?

A That's correct.

Q And you're not aware whether there was an agreement formed between the parties; isn't that correct?

A As I sit here today?

Q Is it your testimony in your case you were not

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

aware whether there was an agreement between the parties?

A As I sit here today, I'm aware that there was an oral agreement between the parties.

Q At the time of your deposition in this case, you weren't even aware of such an agreement, were you?

A That's right.

Q You have all of a sudden since your deposition become aware of the terms of this agreement?

A Sure.

Q Even though all of a sudden you magically know what the terms of the agreement are, that's what you're telling the jury?

A It's not magic. It's called being prepared for trial and finding out about the details.

Q Isn't it true that when you testified under oath in your deposition, you said you were not familiar with it one way or the other?

A It is true.

Q Mr. Pate, NCRIC terminated the clinic policy just two days after it terminated the Retro Plan?

MR. PAGE: Objection to the scope, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. GORSUCH: You're not here to tell the jury about why you terminated the clinic plan; is that your testimony?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

THE COURT: Can you repeat the question, please?

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q It's your position the termination of the clinic plan and the Retro Program were totally unrelated?

A That is correct.

Q Even though those two events took place within forty-eight hours of each other?

A That's correct

Q And they just happened to involve all the same people. Mr. Fargis, Mr. Osborn and Mr. Hempelman and not yourself?

A That's correct.

Q You talked a little bit about the trust fund being underfunded. Do you remember that testimony?

MR. PAGE: Objection, Your Honor. I don't think the witness was asked anything about that on direct.

MR. GORSUCH: He absolutely was.

THE COURT: I don't recall any questions about a trust fund to this particular witness.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, we talked about why he terminated the policy.

MR. PAGE: Objection. He's mischaracterizing the evidence.

MR. GORSUCH: Strike that. I will move along. That's easy enough.

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003046

A That's correct.

Q And you have no idea whether Mr. Osborn expressly told Mr. Wilson that NCRIC and Columbia had a deal; correct?

A I'm sorry. Could you repeat that, please?

Q Sure. You have no idea whether Mr. Osborn expressly told Mr. Wilson that NCRIC and Columbia had reached a deal?

A No, I do not.

Q And you don't know whether Mr. Osborn told Mr. Wilson that he had authority to reach a binding agreement on behalf of NCRIC?

A That's right.

Q And Mr. Osborn doesn't work at NCRIC any longer; does he?

A No, he does not.

Q In fact, he has been terminated?

A That's correct.

Q And you terminated Mr. Osborn because of his inability to perform the duties required of him?

A We terminated Mr. Osborn in, I think it was January of the next year because he was unable to fulfill all of his duties. None of it related to his negotiation discussion with Columbia.

Q Your testimony is that he failed to perform the duties required of him?

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

16d-003047

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INCORPORATED Plaintiff VS. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER Defendant.	CIVIL ACTION NUMBER: CA-73 8-00 D

Washington, D. C.
Tuesday, February 10th, 2004.

The above-entitled action came on for a Hearing before the Honorable ANNA BLACKBURN-RIGSBY, Associate Judge, in Courtroom Number 48-A at or about 9:30 o'clock a.m.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS HIS ORIGINAL NOTES AND RECORDS OF TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

APPEARANCES:

FOR THE PLAINTIFF:
RODNEY PAGE, SCOTT BADAMI, Esquire

FOR THE DEFENDANT:
LARRY WILSON, PRYIA AIYAR, Esquire
EPI SCHULMAN, NEAL GORSUCH, Esquire

DERRICK CONEY
OFFICIAL COURT REPORTER Telephone: 879-1053

16d-003048

truthful because public shareholders rely on them?

A. Yes.

Q. And you certify NCRIC's 10-Q disclosure of November, 2003, you signed that, right?

A. That's right.

Q. And you certified in doing so that it didn't omit any material fact necessary to make the filing true and accurate, right?

A. That's right.

Q. Isn't it true, however, Mr. Pate that even before you were deposed two years ago, back in January, 2002 -- strike that.

In the FCC filing, the 10-Q of November 2003, isn't it true that NCRIC stated that Columbia Hospital's counterclaims do not specify the amount of damages sought?

A. That's correct.

Q. And isn't it true, however, that even before you were deposed two years ago, back in January 2002, you knew that Columbia's counterclaims sought millions of dollars?

A. An unspecified amount of money.

Q. You knew that it specified millions of dollars; isn't that correct?

A. Yes. I would add that, however, our filings -- are regulatory filings before we sign them go through legal counsel review as well as auditing reviews those types of statements and we sought advice from our counsel specifically on that issue. And our legal counsel said that the representation that we made was accurate and fair.

Q. Mr. Pate, isn't it correct that you signed those statements and certified them personally as true and accurate?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And that they do not omit any material information necessary to make them true?

A. That's right.

Q. And isn't it true that in November, 2003, you said Columbia's counterclaims don't specify the damages sought?

A. That's right.

Q. And it's also true that you knew two years earlier, in your deposition in January of 2002, that Columbia was seeking millions of dollars?

MR. PAGE: Asked and answered, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled. I'll allow the witness to respond.

THE WITNESS: That's correct.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

16d-003050

Q. And, in fact, at your deposition in 2002 you were even aware that Peter Ben Ezra's report indicated that Columbia was seeking tens of millions of dollars?

A. That's correct.

Q. And isn't it true that prior to November, 2003, when you finally disclosed the existence of Columbia's counterclaims, prior to that time you had never even disclosed the existence of Columbia's counterclaims?

MR. PAGE: Objection. Relevance. Beyond the scope, Your Honor.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, it goes to this truthfulness.

THE COURT: His truthfulness about what?

MR. GORSUCH: About his disclosures about this case, Your Honor.

MR. PAGE: The disclosures are not relevant.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q. Isn't it true that part of November, 2003, you disclosed to the public NCRIC's claims against Columbia?

A. Yes.

Q. But you never disclosed Columbia's counterclaims against NCRIC, did you?

MR. PAGE: Same objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I'll allow the witness to answer that question.

THE WITNESS: Our disclosure relevant to the action by Columbia against the company was disclosed in incriminate amounts as the facts of the case became clearer and clearer to us.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q. Isn't it true that Columbia's counterclaims have been on file since 2001?

A. Yes.

Q. And you didn't disclose their existence to your investigators until November of 2003?

A. No, that's not true.

Q. When did you disclose them beforehand?

A. There was -- there was a segment in the 10-Q's that we filed. I can't recall when we first started disclosing. There was an action and a counterclaim, but I'm fairly certain that we had some level of disclosure within the Q's.

Q. I'm going to hand what's been -- What is your S-1 Statement. If I may have that, please.

You know what an S-1 Statement is, Mr. Pate?

A. I do.

Q. You want to tell the jury?

A. It's a document that we filed for offering.

Q. It's what, in fact, an order to offer the $66 million worth of stock you sold last Summer, right? Correct?

A. We did not sell $66 million worth of stock.

Q. How much stock did you sell, Mr. Pate?

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, objection. This is not relevant. It's beyond the scope. It has nothing to do with any issue in this case.

THE COURT: The objection is sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q. Isn't it true, Mr. Pate, that in that S-1 you never disclosed the existence of Columbia's counterclaims?

A. I don't know, offhand. I'd have to go through the document.

Q. I'd refer you to Page 37. Tell me if you can find it in there.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, I object. It's beyond the disclosure. Whether it occurred or not has nothing to do with this case.

MR. GORSUCH: He already testified he did disclose it. I'm asking him to find it.

THE COURT: I'm not sure what the relevance of this line of questioning is, but I'll allow the witness to respond.

MR. GORSUCH: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: It's not on this Page 36.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q. And that's when -- That is the registration statement for when NCRIC sold over $60 million worth of stock last Summer?

MR. PAGE: Objection to the characterization. You've already sustained it.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q. You can't find it anywhere in that registration statement, can you?

A. This registration statement is fairly lengthy. I could take -- I could take and look through it if you'd like, but --

Q. Mr. Pate, 36 and 37 is where you disclosed the existence of NCRIC's claims, right?

A. My sense is that there's probably other sections within this document that talk about ongoing litigation.

Q. In fact, Pages 36 and 37 talk about this litigation, right?

A. Yes. It does.

Q. And it doesn't mention the existence of Columbia's counterclaims?

A. 36 and 37 do not, that's correct.

Insurance And Securities Department measures your market share at over 72 percent?

MR. PAGE: Objection, Your Honor. There's no foundation. The witness said he had never seen it before.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q. Do you have any reason to believe your market share, according to D. C. Department of Insurance and Securities Regulations is over 72 percent in 2002?

A. No.

Q. You recall saying on direct testimony that doctors are free to practice anywhere they'd like under their individual insurance policies?

You remember that testimony?

A. I do.

Q. Isn't it true that NCRIC issued an exclusion preventing doctors from working at Columbia's Community Health Clinic?

MR. PAGE: Objection. Scope, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, his testimony was they could practice anywhere under the individual policies.

THE COURT: I'll allow the witness to respond.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, first, I want to renew the motion, as I stated it, at the close of the case when Columbia rested on its counterclaims. You did dismiss Count 3, the breach of fiduciary duty. As I did before, Your Honor, I'm going to address them in reverse order just because it seems to me that it makes a little sense to do that.

MR. GORSUCH: I apologize. I do apologize. I'm sorry for interrupting, but before we rest, I apologize, we need to move in evidence of documents pertaining to punitive damages. I just don't want to, before we start this argument, to have been waived anything.

I think everyone knows we plan to move in 71, 71-A and 71-B. So just the record is very clear on that.

THE COURT: All right. And those documents, again, were the --

MR. GORSUCH: The 10-K and Q's, Your Honor. The financial public statements of NCRIC for punitive damages purposes.

THE COURT: All right. Is there any objection to that?

MR. PAGE: Well, yes. Goes to the punitive damage issue.

16d-003056

is not a defamatory statement about Columbia. It speaks not to Columbia.

It says -- It doesn't even use Columbia as a -- The word, Columbia, is not named. It would only be by same inference and leap that Columbia is somehow maligned in any way by that statement. It is equally possible the statement is a statement about NCRIC. That if the Retro Plan ends, the inference being NCRIC perhaps ended it, you guys should pack your bags and get out of here.

The very statement, itself, is clearly and inherently independent.

There is no other statement that has been attributed to NCRIC.

They're definitely is no statement, as counsel has suggested, that speaks to the financial stability of Columbia.

Now the way we heard counsel characterizing Dr. Glassman's testimony it was broader and it was -- There's a problem at the hospital. The hospital is at fault. The hospital is creating an issue. You guys should leave and get out of here because of the hospital and its financial condition. That's why we offered the reputation testimony.

But I repeat that -- And we know have the additional testimony that Dr. Glassman was not authorized by the NCRIC management to speak to this and has no personal involvement in the administration of the contract.

16d-003057

I have just made a proffer to you as well in which I have recited our view that Columbia is a limited purpose public figure, if not a general purpose public figure, but the actual malice standard would apply. And that the evidence here, in no way, approaches the actual malice standard. And so we would move additionally that applying the public figure rules, these counts must fail. But even if they didn't, we think that the statements are so vague, none defamatory, none specific, that they cannot give rise to any defamatory damages or any reputational injuries.

So we move for judgment as a matter of law on those counts, 9 and 10.

I will take up Counts 8 and 7 together, if I could. Those are actual or constructive fraud and negligent misrepresentation.

And they're very similar. And they share elements that are similar. And we believe that the totality of the evidence indicates that the elements of the causes of action have not been established.

And, specifically, what has not been established is any reliance by Columbia on any

16d-003058

The negligence count, which was Count 6, is out. And we're now to the tortious interference counts which are 4 and 5.

One is tortious interference with perspective economic advantage and one is with present or contractual relationships.

I repeat the arguments that I made at the close of the case previously when Columbia rested, but I would say that the evidence, Your Honor, does not show the level of aggravated behavior, egregious conduct or tort necessary to change what is an ordinary contractual change of circumstances to change that into tortious interference.

And we believe that those counts should be dismissed because they fail the adequate standard of proof.

Count 3, as I mentioned ago, was dismissed.

Count 2, we move again for a judgment as a matter of law. The breach of implied duty of good faith and fair dealing does not have damages or claims that are independent of the breach of contract claim, which is Count 1.

It adds nothing to the cause of action that exist as Count 1 as to which we are not moving for judgment as a matter of law. And it is simply going to

16d-003059

I asked each one of those three doctors on cross examination did NCRIC ever come to you and ask you to leave?

Did NCRIC encourage you to leave?

Did NCRIC tell you to go to some other hospital Retro Plan?

The answer from all three of those witnesses called by Columbia was, no, NCRIC had done none of those things.

They did say, by the way -- as did Heather Johnson and Ken Blank and others -- that they were being heavily recruited by other hospitals. And they chose, none the less, to stay at Columbia.

So now you have the testimony of the doctors. And you've heard it and I think it is very telling in this case.

The key to the Columbia claim is that NCRIC destroyed this hospital because NCRIC forced this group, by name, of doctors away from the hospital and allegedly all their damages flow from that. That's what caused inevitably the collapse.

And yet you have seen three of the doctors on that list. Two of them in large groups who testified as to unanimous decisions. And their testimony is unequivocally they did not leave because of NCRIC.

16d-003060

You've heard three other doctors called by Columbia. They stayed at Columbia. And their testimony is not relevant, frankly, to this issue of why these doctors left.

Now, I need to make more one point about this. We don't dispute that there were doctors who left. And we don't dispute -- NCRIC does not dispute that the timing occurred at the time that the insurance arrangements came to an end in the Summer of 2000.

And there were doctors, clearly, who made their individual decisions, economically, about what was best for them. But as the Judge will instruct you tortious interference is not merely offering somebody a different deal. Tortious interference would contract is more than that.

What Columbia has to show in this case is that NCRIC took some extraordinary action to try to intimidate these doctors or coerce them or lie to them about what was going on. The evidence, ladies and gentlemen, is devoid of that.

The mere fact that doctors left at a time when the insurance changed is not a reason for NCRIC to be liable. So if that's not what really happened -- In other words, if the Columbia story is not the real story here, then what is the real story here?

16d-003061

sort. You didn't ask him about that. And Moore said, no.

And Mr. Gorsuch says, well, what about those plans that might have turned the hospital around. And what Steve Moore said was, well, I've studied a lot of hospitals and I've looked at a lot of them. And the management always thinks it's going to turn these hospitals around, but the reality is they can't. And that's why hospitals, like Columbia, close.

That's the small point of disagreement in this case between the expert that we called and Dr. Rifka. They actually agree on all of the problems that were facing Columbia but you are being asked to believe, contrary in our view to the reality, that somehow this was just going to go turn around overnight after a series of problems that are undisputed that had gone on at Columbia over the years.

Now, ladies and gentlemen, that's the real story of what happened here.

The real story is that it is sad and inevitable that Columbia Hospital was going to have these problems and that it was going to close.

The real story is that NCRIC had nothing to do with that. If anything, NCRIC in this situation, is a victim.

16d-003062

gentlemen, because it is owed money. It sued before Columbia went out of business.

Mr. Fargis said that they sued hoping that they could find a way to get a judgment before the hospital closed. It didn't work. We're here today. We have no judgment.

We don't think, frankly, that there's any way we could collect a judgment from them. We still want a judgment for $2.6 million and we're asking you to do that for the amount that's shown there, 2.67. And the reason is because it's right because Columbia has a duty to honor its contracts. It did not.

NCRIC went out of its way in dealing with Columbia.

NCRIC has extended credit when, probably, it was foolish to do so.

I want to also make this point: NCRIC has no obligation as an independent company to do anything for Columbia.

NCRIC had no moral obligation to continue to do business with Columbia. It did so because it was trying to be a good partner in the medical community.

I want you to remember the sequence of events and take a look at the evidence. And I'm not going to belabor because you have heard a lot of this and I'm safety or equipment. Not a single contemporaneous document.

16d-003063

Don't you think that if they had one, they would have shown it to you.

Even Dr. Dukes had to admit, their own board member, that one reason he left Columbia was because of the insurance.

The closest NCRIC came to delivering on this promise was Dr. Johnson. You remember her. But she had to admit as her group wrote in a letter back in 2000, Defendant's 41, that it left the hospital. That it had stopped working at clinic because it had to do with insurance, not safety. Should the NCRIC insurance coverage be reinstated, please advise us.

Finally, NCRIC told you that they would prove that Columbia was mismanaged but Dr. Dukes admitted that Columbia was the best place he ever worked. And he actually helped run Columbia serving on the board of directors all the way until 2000 when he finally had to choose his allegiance between the money at NCRIC or Columbia's nonprofit mission.

Mr. Moore even admitted that Price Waterhouse, found in 2001, that Columbia's management had done a quote, "Admiral job", in cutting costs.

That Columbia's market share was increasing at a time when all the competitors were not. That losses were cut in half in one year. And you heard that the Bankruptcy Court had approved a turnaround plan that within 18 months left the hospital with a profit in June, 2000. Ladies and gentlemen, that's unrefuted testimony.

16d-003064

You heard from Mr. Page who said cash was tight at Columbia. We've never denied that. Of course, it was. That's true at every hospital in Washington. But the fact that Columbia turned a profit in June, 2000, is unrefuted.

So much for what NCRIC promised to deliver.

You've heard the evidence and you know that what NCRIC did to Columbia was bad. It wasn't a Retro Plan, it was a retribution plan.

Did you ever hear Mr. Page even try to defend here for you what they did to Columbia's clinic.

When the 800 pound insurance guerilla just didn't get its way, it decided to take what it called it's doctors and get them absorbed into other hospitals where it controlled the insurance business.

Let's talk about what the evidence really did show. Columbia made certain promises to you as well in opening statement and I think the record reflects that we delivered on them.

1996, Defense Exhibit 5, here it is. NCRIC and

16d-003065

Columbia reached an oral agreement that the parties would exchange money only when all claims for year closed out and NCRIC promised to pay interest on that money. However, it was a recommendation of that interest settlements be paid pending final analysis of the full three years of the program.

And there's the promise of interest. An admission that the hospital was due money. That's 1996.

In 1997 you saw Defendant's Exhibit 10 that NCRIC was aware of the challenges facing the hospital. And instead of being its friend demanded as a condition for renewal a one million dollar security deposit. It exploited Columbia's weakness supposedly because it was worried about potential future liabilities but you know that 1997, not a single year under the plan enclosed out.

And the parties had agreed to wait to exchange money until they had. You just saw it in Defense Exhibit Number 5. They wanted money for a contingency that was pure fabrication.

You know that under the contract it's turned out that Columbia's owed money, not NCRIC. And that's because the quality of the doctors at Columbia was so high, Columbia was willing to bet on its doctors and that meant succeeded.

16d-003066

Mr. Pate said that he never heard about anyone complaining from Columbia about the million dollars. You remember that testimony this morning. But Mr. Pate had no personal involvement in the million dollar story. You know that, too.

And you know that Dr. Rifka did complain to Steve Fargis about the million dollars. He told you that the books were cooked and it was a holdup. And you know that was true.

You heard, as well, that the loss of the million dollars was a prime contributing factor to Columbia's bankruptcy's. Those were Mr. -- Dr. Wilson's words. No one has told you that it was the only factor. No one is denied that Columbia had financial problems, but every hospital had financial problems. But it's unrebutted testimony from Dr. Wilson and Dr. Rifka that that million dollar payment was the straw that broke the camel's back and sent Columbia into bankruptcy.

Let's talk about 1998. You heard that Columbia considered brining MIIX into D. C., and that it was cheaper for every single doctor at Columbia. Defense Exhibit 19, there it is. Again, Mr. Page doesn't want to talk about what happened in 1998.

You heard, too, that NCRIC responded when it found out about this program and the threat it meant to

16d-003067

Exhibit 95 and instead just drooped its demand to $750,000. Picked a new number.

As if these demands weren't intimidation enough, NCRIC's CEO, Mr. Pate, appeared in Larry Wilson's office late one afternoon in June -- not a phone call in August -- to warn of a train wreck if Columbia didn't back down again like it had in '97 over the security deposit and like it had in 1998 over MIIX.

You heard that testimony from Dr. Wilson and he was truthful to you.

Dr. Wilson took that threat seriously and he agreed to NCRIC's demands subject to board approval. And you saw in Defendant's Exhibit 35 that the board met on June 27th, 2000. That it wanted to go forward with the deal and told Dr. Wilson to continue negotiations but it had rejected a $750,000 demand when all the information it had from Mr. Feldman showed that Columbia, not NCRIC, was owed money under the contract but still Columbia decided to continue negotiating. Yet, the next day, without warning, you know that NCRIC, not Columbia, issued a termination notice. And there it is, Defendant's Exhibit 36, on NCRIC letterhead.

They might try and tell you differently, but there is it. It's a NCRIC termination notice. And you know NCRIC issued this to intensify the pressure on

16d-003068

Columbia to back down again on its demands for $750,000.

Now, NCRIC said to you, well, we had to comply with some insurance negotiation rule and that's why we issued this letter, but where's the evidence of that?

Why didn't they mention it in their termination letter if there's some insurance rule?

Have you seen the rule?

And if there was such a rule, why didn't they issue a termination notice in '96 when the parties operated without a contract for over a year?

There was no notice from then. Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, you know that this explanation is just so much spin developed after the fact to try and defend what is indefensible.

The only insurance ruling in this case that's in evidence is this one, Defense Exhibit 48 where the commission told Columbia that it was free to bring these counterclaims. That's the only evidence from any insurance function.

You know NCRIC is spinning, too, with its explanations about the termination notice because two days later -- less than 48 hours -- it turned up the pressure on Columbia by terminating the clinic policy, defense Exhibit 62. It's another thing Mr. Page didn't tell you about in his closing remarks. Didn't want to talk about the clinic.

16d-003069

Mr. Pate didn't want to talk about the clinic. NCRIC was willing to threaten Columbia's ability to serve the four. And in order to skis another $750,000 that it wanted for renewal of the contract. It's that simple and stark.

Mr. Pate asked you to believe, on cross examination, that the two day difference between the termination notice and the clinic notice was just a, quote, "coincidence ", but it's not connected in any way. That sounds pretty slick. But you heard Mr. Hempleman's deposition testimony when NCRIC didn't bring to this courtroom. And he told you that NCRIC had never done anything like this before in over 100 places like the clinic that NCRIC had insured.

Mr. Hempleman said he didn't know why his superiors wanted the clinic terminated but he was following orders. Think about that. Threatening a nonprofit suability to serve the community as a pressure tactic in negotiations like some overgrown sand pit bully picking on a small trusting kid.

NCRIC now says it cancelled the clinic policy because it learned in the Kessler Case that the trust fund was depleted. This is just so much more spent.

No such reason was provided in the termination notice, Defendant Exhibit 62. It's not there. And it just doesn't make sense. The clinic was renewed only six months earlier. It was current on its premiums.

Mr. Fargis admitted on cross examination that he knew about the trust fund's financial troubles as early as 1997. Three years earlier.

And you know as well that NCRIC used that trust fund status as a scare tactic with the doctors in the MIIX negotiations in 1995 -- 1998 when it looked like Columbia might go with MIIX. And there it is. There is Mr. Pate and Mr. Fargis' own words, scaring the doctors about the status of the trust fund two years before it issued the termination notice.

And you know that in 1998 and 1999, NCRIC received all the bankruptcy notices disclosing the status of Columbia's trust funds finances.

You also heard that Mr. Fargis admits that he didn't bother to review all those notices. You know it's undisputed as well that the trust funds tax returns are public records. Available because Columbia is a nonprofit. All they had to do was look that that was really the explanation, but it just doesn't hold together.

NCRIC points you only to Plaintiff's Exhibit 92 but that document doesn't say a thing about any new trust fund discovery. It just says the hospital had financial troubles. Now, ladies and gentlemen of the jury, that has never been a secret.

16d-003071

It doesn't say a single thing about any trust fund discovery. In fact, the document reveals that NCRIC's own lawyer, Brian Nash, admitted that Columbia had an edge over NCRIC from plaintiff's perspectives in terms of relative liability.

The only thing that happened in the Kessler Case, as Mr. Nash knows and said, was that the mediator ordered Columbia to pay $875,000 and NCRIC to pay a little over a million, finding that Columbia's liability was less than NCRIC's. Those are this facts of the Kessler Case and Columbia paid what it owed, as it always has. So much for that sham defense.

After cancelling the Retro Plan and the Clinic Plan when Columbia still hadn't rolled over, you know that NCRIC decided that there had been a failure to communicate. And so on July 10th it issued massive new bills with $20,000 increases, Defendant's Exhibit 57. And you heard that NCRIC never done anything like this in any negotiating before even when the contract didn't exist in '96 and '97 and the parties just continued to operate. They didn't go back and issue undiscounted bills, they continued to issue discounted bills.

Mr. Pate offered you know explanation for this. Mr. Fargis didn't either. And there is none.

In fact we know the very next day, the day after issuing these bills, on July 11th, NCRIC adopted a plan of action aimed at getting doctors absorbed into Sibley and G. W., back to back.

And at the very same time you heard that NCRIC's chairman of the board, Dr. Glassman, told all the leaders of Columbia -- doctors, nurses and staff on the executive committee -- that they should pack their bags and go. Columbia's going to die if it doesn't renew the Retro Plan.

The train wreck had arrived just as NCRIC had planned.

And, now, did Dr. Glassman bother to come in here to testify to deny that allegation that Dr. Rifka heard?

He did not.

And you heard the panic ensued after these bills and the termination of notices and Dr. Glassman's warnings. And the doctors did start leaving.

Dr. Wilson thought he was still involved in good faith negotiations. He didn't know about NCRIC's secret plan of action. So Dr. Wilson continued to negotiate in good faith. And Defendant's Exhibit 61, on August 15th, he thought he reached an agreement when Mr. Osborne for a new Retro Plan. A new Retro Plan. But just then Mr. Osborne literally disappeared off the face of the earth. He didn't return Dr. Wilson's calls. He was never to be heard from again. Terminated just like the Retro Plan.

16d-003073

Then Mr. Pate suddenly reappears and says that there's no deal even though, as you know, there was a deal. In fact, he admitted in a private E-mail, Plaintiff's Exhibit 94, that Osborne -- Dave Osborne and Larry reached agreement on 11 monthly payments of $45,000. That's his own E-mail that Osborne and Larry Wilson reached an agreement.

After Mr. Pate scotched that deal, Columbia was left to scramble. It found an insurer really to enter into the District. A good one. A G. E. Company. A company that was cheaper and better, according to Dr. Proctor, but it was too little too late. Doctors can't wait until the last week before making arrangements about where to operate on patients. And 30 to 40 doctors were gone to Sibley and G. W.

That wasn't all. On September 1st, NCRIC issued its bogus bill, Defendant's Exhibit 81. Even under its calculations NCRIC owed Columbia money for '94 and '95, which had just closed out. But rather than issuing a check, NCRIC issued a lawsuit on October 3rd demanding money three years that have not closed out -- even to this day -- in violation of the party's agreement based on educated guesses about years where claims are still outstanding without any verification after collecting more than $12 million on this policy and paying out less than six.

16d-003074

And you heard testimony this morning that even to this day they have collected substantially more money than they've actually paid out, and that they want a judgment based on guesses about lost reserves for years that haven't closed out. That was never a part of any deal with Columbia.

And then in an act that can only be described as purely malicious, on October 1st, two days before filing this lawsuit, NCRIC issued exclusions preventing the doctors from working in the clinic.

You didn't hear about that from Mr. Page but you did hear from Mr. Hempleman, one of NCRIC'S many absent witnesses that he had never seen anything like this before.

You heard from Mr. Feldman as well that in 25 years -- 25 years in the insurance business he's never seen an exclusion like that either.

He's seen exclusions for things he told you like nuclear war or terrorists or if someone commits a felony. He's seen those kinds of exclusions, but not for community health clinic. Part of what NCRIC's own expert found as a center of excellence in 2001.

16d-003075

What is the defense for that conduct?

NCRIC offers another, after the fact spin, it wants you to believe; says it was double coverage but you know by now that that really meant no coverage.

NCRIC cancelled the clinic policy. And then it turned around and cancelled the policies of the individual doctors for working in the clinic. Even the doctors with no insurance coverage were working in the clinic. It take quite a leap of the imagination and -- to ask anyone to believe that that's double coverage.

NCRIC's own board member, Dr. Cook -- another witness they did not bring to this trial -- wrote a letter, defendant's Exhibit 46. Another one of the flaming documents that NCRIC just hopes you will ignore admitting that he left the clinic because NCRIC yanked the insurance.

And you heard that NCRIC knew about this suppose double coverage issue since 1998 before it eve sold the clinic policy.

You heard Ann Gaffey. You remember Ann Gaffey. She told the truth when she was on the stand but here it is, if you will, a top five list of the lies we've heard.

16d-003076

Number 5: Mr. Fargis' claim that the deposit premium has to be 62 percent even though the contract says 67.

Number 4: That NCRIC is Columbia's friend. Who wants friends like this?

Number 3: That Columbia terminated the Retro Plan. Where did they come up with that one?

Number 2: That NCRIC doesn't care where the doctors practice. Only the monopolist who controls nearly the whole city can say that. Of course, NCRIC cares of doctors practice some place that does business with a competition like MIIX or Med Pro. Of course they care.

And here are just three of many possible candidates for the number one untruth told to you in this courtroom: First, Mr. Pate's testimony that it was a coincidence that the Retro Plan and the clinic plan were terminated within 48 hours of each.

Number 1: Mr. Fargis' claim that it was just another mistake that NCRIC issued the clinic exclusion only two days before issuing this lawsuit.

And finally, perhaps the biggest whopper of them all: That the doctors didn't leave because of insurance. We all know that didn't matter.

16d-003077

Now let's talk about the specific claims. First, let's talk about the breach of contract and the breach of duty of good faith and fair dealing.

For each of these claims we would seek two sorts of damages. First, we would like the security deposit back.

It was demanded back in 1997 before any years closed out and NCRIC said it was entitled to security because Columbia might some day owe it some money but it's's now seven years later and it's clear that NCRIC owes Columbia money for both of the years that closed out.

NCRIC has no basis for holding Columbia's money on the ground that some day, somewhere over the rainbow Columbia might owe it some money some day. Deposit, payment, credit, you've heard all the different liability they attached to it. Whatever it is, give it back.

The deal was to pay when the years closed out. There are only two years that are closed out. Columbia's owed money under both of those years and there's no basis for NCRIC holding on to Columbia's money.

And NCRIC is proven it is not a trustworthy custodian of Columbia's money.

Second: Under both of these claims, we also

16d-003078

seek money for the correct calculation of a contract using the actual contract terms and giving NCRIC full credit for the partial payment it made for '93 and '94.

You saw Mr. Feldman in Defense Exhibit Number 85 means that the correct calculation of the contract means that Columbia's owed $559,797.67. And that's just for the years -- the two years that it closed out. Columbia's not seeking any money for open years. There's no guesswork in that number.

So for the breach of contract and the breach of duty of good faith and fair dealing, we ask you for $1,559,797.67, exactly. Not a penny more or less.

Now, let's talk about the two tortious interference claims you will consider.

Can there be any question that NCRIC intentionally interfered with the hospital's relationship with its doctors when it promised to engage in good faith negotiations even after they adopted a secret plan of action to move the doctors. And then proceeded to carry out that plan by sending out the Retro Plan termination notice; by sending out the clinic notice; by sending out the massive bills to intimidate doctors when its own chairman of the board told Columbia's doctors to pack their bags. And then, in a slap in the face, turned around and issued exclusions making it impossible for doctors to serve in Columbia's community clinic.

16d-003079

For that conduct, under both of the tortious interference counts you will be instructed about, we ask you for 21 -- $21.5 million for damages due to Columbia before the hospital closed. This is before the hospital closed.

You will hear that in the 22 months between July 2000 and May 2002, that's the amount of money we seek. And here's how we get that: You heard from Dr. Rifka and Mr. Moore that Columbia lost $10 million a year in revenue before versus after the doctors.

Mr. Moore was shown those numbers and he agreed that's what was in the IRS tax form.

Now, you also know from Peter Ben Ezra that you have to deduct marginal costs. And that those are 30 percent, using a conservative number that favors NCRIC. So you take 30 percent off of 10 million, that's $7 million a year.

Now, for 22 months that works out to be 13 million. Not 14, 13 million.

Plus you heard about the congressional funds that were appropriated and available from Congress ready for Columbia, but Columbia had closed and couldn't access them. That was money that was ready, sit there to go straight to the bottom line.

Plus, you heard about the bankruptcy fees.

You heard the million dollar payment was a major precipitating factor. And not a single witness is come in here to tell you about the contrary. Now, NCRIC knew Columbia was weak and still demanded that money anyway even though there had been no closing out of any years. And the only years to close out so for are all in Columbia's favor.

NCRIC was a substantial factor in causing that bankruptcy and it cannot evade responsibility for the losses it caused by pointing out that Columbia had other financial troubles, too.

The evidence about bankruptcy fees is between 1.5 and $3.5 million. So if you add up those numbers, that's the number we come to for what happened to Columbia before the doctors left and those numbers are basically uncontested.

Mr. Moore and Dr. Rifka agree that before versus after the doctors left was a $10 loss of revenue.

Let's a talk about what happened after the hospital died. We know that no doctors means no revenues for a hospital and that means no hospital. That the loss of 30 doctors meant that Columbia was dead.

NCRIC's expert, Mr. Moore, literally suggested the hospital was sick. So NCRIC could just put it out of its misery but notice none of their doctors said anything like that.

16d-003081

Dr. Dukes said it was the best place he had ever worked and Dr. Johnson said it was a loss to the community. It's not okay to murder a hospital even it wasn't in peak financial condition. So the question is for you how much.

There are two ways to get there. First, you saw Peter Ben Ezra's analyses. And he did two separate analyses. One of which depended on a list of doctors -- of 24 doctors -- where NCRIC admits that 30 to 40 left. Mr. Pate admits that. So that's one method he used.

And you know he also used the revenue with it that didn't have to do with the names of specific doctors. So while Mr. Page criticizes Peter Ben Ezra for one method of calculation, he had two. And they both reached the same number.

And you know that after deducting for the math errors, it was $20.4 million that Peter Ben Ezra came up to for lost damages after the hospital. But there's another way to get to this same number that confirms the righteousness of that number and that's this: You heard that it was $7 million in lost revenue per year after deducting marginal costs. Mr. Moore and Dr. Rifka agreed on that.

16d-003082

So that's $7 million a year that was lost to Columbia in revenue due to the lost doctors that killed the hospital. And the question becomes how many years would you use that number. Peter Ben was very conservative in all of his assumptions. Nobody disagrees with that.

If you take that $7 million number and consider just three years that the hospital had survived -- just three years -- that would be $21 million. Almost the same exact same number Peter Ben Ezra came up with.

Their own expert, Mr. Moore, said that the hospital might have survived another year. That was his testimony. And don't you think he might have been shading it just a little at $465 an hour for NCRIC.

We ask you for three years, calculated at 7 million and Peter Ben Ezra numbers $21 million for what happened after the hospital closed.

Let's talk about punitive damages.

You have seen that NCRIC lied.

That it used its weight and power to intimidate a hospital in 1997 over the security cost.

In 1998, over MIIX. And time after time in 2000. Cancelling the Retro Plan, the Clinic Plan.

The chairman of the board scaring doctors; issuing massive bills; exclusions that vindictively ending September, 2003. It represents less than one year's worth of sales.

16d-003083

One way of thinking about what might be an appropriate punishment in this case -- and that's your decision -- is weather NCRIC ought to spend a year working for a foundation whose mission it is to serve the health care of the women and children of this community.

Think of it as NCRIC's year of community service. Maybe some of them will have to go without their stock options and bonuses for a year.

While NCRIC has yet to perform its community service, ladies and gentlemen, you've done yours.

You know what happened in this case. You know how NCRIC bullied Columbia and threatened it and sued a charity for money it does not owe.

The time has come for fair compensation and, yes, a measure of punishment.

Now it is the time to take just some of NCRIC's huge assets and give them back to Columbia to give this long and sad story a dignified ending it deserves.

Ladies and gentleman, it took two full weeks of your lives. What you're doing is important to this community.

We're sorry to have taken up so much of your time, but you've gotten to the bottom of it and that's was repeated to you at a minimum of three times in the argument you just heard. What was overlooked was that although there were a lot of details, the conclusion from that witness was that Columbia would inevitably fail. And that witness said it was impossible for that hospital to survive with its current business model. So beware of the facts taken out of context.

16d-003084

Beware of the exaggeration.

You've heard about the plan of action. Again something mentioned numerous times.

I think the witnesses from NCRIC adequately explained what the plan of action came about because of phone calls they received from doctors saying how can you help us and tell us what to do about our insurance coverage and keep our premiums low. That NCRIC responded to do phone call from Sibley saying meet with us.

Ladies and gentlemen, NCRIC had no obligation to deal exclusively with Columbia.

NCRIC had no obligation to extend credit to Columbia. This was a business transaction where NCRIC was acting in a business like fashion. And it's a business that does business with all of the hospitals in the District of Columbia.

Here is another example -- and that's what I would call -- I can't think of a better word for it -- dumbing down the evidence.

16d-003085

You heard this evidence -- this comment about the evidence that the loss reserves are educated guesses. And that as that is repeated to you three times, the only word that you keep hearing is, guess because Columbia conveniently fails to mention that it's an educated guess.

An educated guess and something that's required by the contract because the whole purpose of Retro Plan was to set up a schedule where lost reserves would be reported. They're referred to in the planned document, itself. And, accordingly, the idea of having an educated guess is the very heart of the plan.

Finally, one more technique that I want you to be careful about is what I would simply call the appeal to sympathy.

As I said no one is happy about Columbia failing. NCRIC has no incentive or motive to have the hospital fail.

The motive suggested has been, well, they just want to keep other insurance companies out but remember that -- the MIIX episode. Everything that NCRIC said about MIIX turned out to be true. That company failed. When Med Pro came along in the year, 2000, not one step was taken by NCRIC to keep Med Pro out of Columbia

16d-003086

Dr. Rifka is not entitled any damages. And we suggested to you that the only fair result is to honor that plan. And, as I said, we may never be able to collect it, but NCRIC should be entitled to a judgment for what it is opened. Thank you very much.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Ladies and gentlemen, we've come to the point in the proceedings where I'm going to give you the legal instructions that you're to use and apply during your jury deliberations.

And I have to tell you at the outset that the instructions are lengthy and I do have to read them to you so that we have an appropriate record of these proceedings. So I just ask for your patience a little longer and your attention a little longer.

I will provide a copy of the instructions -- a written instructions -- to you in the jury room during your deliberations. So you shouldn't feel like you have to write everything down verbatim. You'll receive a copy of the instructions along with a copy of the jury verdict form and a copy of all of the exhibits that have been properly admitted into evidence to have with you during your deliberations.

As I indicated at the beginning of the trial my function as the Judge in this trial has been to conduct an orderly, fair, and efficient trial; and to rule on questions of law that have arisen throughout the trial. It's your duty to accept the law as I state it to you now without questioning the wisdom of these instructions.

16d-003087

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, I'm sorry. Way I interrupt for a moment?

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. PAGE: And I say this with all due respect. I'm sorry to interrupt, but it was -- I was under the impression there was some open items on these instructions.

THE COURT: I don't think so at this point. What I will do at the conclusion of the instructions is if there are still some questions before we finalize excuse the jury, we can discuss them.

MR. PAGE: Thank you.

THE COURT: But based on the comments from counsel yesterday afternoon, I've taken those into account to fashion the final instructions.

In other words, even if you disagree or do not understand the reasons for a particular instruction that I'm about to give you, you are bound to follow the instructions.

Your function as jurors is to decide the facts.

You are the exclusive judges of the facts.

16d-003088

It is a violation of your sworn duty to base your verdict on anything other than the evidence in this case.

In reaching a verdict you must consider and decide this case as an action between two persons of equal standing in the community and of equal worth.

A corporation, whether large or small, has the right to a fair trial just as a private individual.

All persons, including corporations, stand equal under the law and are to be treated as equals in this court. In other words, the fact that the plaintiff or the defendant is a corporation must not affect your decision.

You may consider only the evidence that was properly admitted in this case.

Evidence includes the sworn testimony of witnesses, exhibits admitted into evidence, and facts stipulated to and agreed to by counsel.

You may consider any facts to which all counsel have agreed or stipulated to be undisputed evidence.

The statements and the arguments of the lawyers, such as their opening statements and closing arguments, are not evidence. They are only intended to help you understand and interpret the evidence from each party's perspective.

16d-003089

counterclaims against NCRIC by a preponderance of evidence, then your verdict should be for Columbia on those counterclaims.

If you find that the evidence on the issue is evenly balanced or that Columbia has failed to prove any of the counterclaims against NCRIC by a preponderance of the evidence, then your verdict should be for NCRIC on that counterclaim.

A corporation can act only through the individuals that are its agent or employees.

In general, if any agent or employee of a corporation acts or makes statements while acting within the scope of his or her authority as an agent or within the scope of his or her duties as an employee, then under the law those acts and statements are of the corporation.

Any injury or damage is proximately caused by an act or a failure to act whenever it appears from a preponderance of the evidence that the act or failure to act played a substantial part in bringing about the injury or damage.

It must be shown that the injury or damage was either a direct result or a reasonably probable consequence of the act or failure to act.

I think I'm going to stop here just for a

16d-003090

to punitive damages but no definition of punitive damages.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, it might simplify things if you just read 16.1 which is straight out of the jury instruction handbook.

MR. PAGE: That is right. That is -- Yesterday, when we discussed it --

THE COURT: It wasn't in yesterday's draft?

MR. PAGE: It was in yesterday's draft. So it would be 16.1.

The only other comment -- and you may have made a decision on this -- which I will respect if you've done this -- but you dropped the discussion of egregious conduct with respect to tortious interference.

THE COURT: I did. That was a conscious decision.

MR. PAGE: We note our exception to that.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, this is not by way of objection but by way of typographical error, I think. On Page 12 at the last -- last sentence under tortious interference with perspective business advantage, it indicates that if you find the Columbia's failed to prove its claim for tortious interference with business relations, you must also find that Columbia failed to

16d-003091

A contract is an agreement between two or more parties to do or not to do something. The party's allege that there was an oral contract between them in addition to the written contract.

A valid oral contract can exist between parties.

The elements of an oral contract are no different from those of any other contract.

Both NCRIC and Columbia have alleged that there was an oral contract in 1996 between the parties under which the parties agreed that the payment of premium under the Retro Plan would not automatically be paid every year.

Columbia claims that NCRIC breached this oral contract by requesting the $1 million deposit payment of additional premium from Columbia in 1997 and demanding payment of additional premium due when the Retro Plan expired in September of 2000.

You should consider the contract as a whole.

You should not ignore any section of the contract and you should not give undue weight to one section over another.

In determining the terms of contract, you should first consider what a reasonable person in the position of that parties would have believed was the meaning of the words.

16d-003092

Next, you may consider the circumstances that existed at the time the contract was made, including the apparent purpose of the parties in entering into the contract; the history of the negotiations leading up to the contract; and the statements of the parties about their statement of the contract.

In addition, you may consider the statements of any agent for a party about that party's actions in negotiating or drafting the contract, or about that party's understanding of the language of the contract.

In this case, the plaintiff claims that there was a breach of contract between the plaintiff and the defendant. Actually, each party has a breach of contract claim, just to be clear.

NCRIC claims that Columbia breached the contract and Columbia also claims that NCRIC breached the contract.

Under the law if one party without legal excuse fails to perform a duty owed under a contract, then the party has breached the contract.

In this case both parties agree that the Retro Plan is a valid and binding contract between NCRIC and Columbia.

The only issue for you to decide is if the --

16d-003093

is if the Retro Plan contract was breached by one or both of the parties.

Both NCRIC and Columbia claim that the other party breached the contract.

NCRIC claims that Columbia has breached the contract by not paying the additional premium now due.

Columbia claims that NCRIC breached the contract by not properly calculating the additional return premium.

Under the law if one party, without legal excuse, fails to fully perform a duty owed under the contract, then that party has breached the contract.

If you find that the either NCRIC or Columbia breached the contract, then the party is -- in breach is liable to the other party for damages.

If you find -- There are two types of breach of contract. One is called a material breach or a total breach of contract.

If one party breached the contract by failing to perform a contractual duty so important that it affects the central purpose of the contract, then that party has committed a material or total breach of contract.

If that party committed a material or total breach, then the other party has the right to terminate the contract.

16d-003094

If you find that the defendant or the plaintiff, either NCRIC or Columbia, committed a material or total breach of the contract, then the other party was entitled to terminate the contract and receive damages and the party who is not in breach had no further duty to perform under the contract.

The other type of breach of contract is called a simple or partial breach.

If you find that either party received substantially what it bargained for to receive under the contract, then the breach was a simple breach.

If one of the other party committed a simple or a partial breach of a contract, then the contract remained in force and could not be terminated by the party not in breach. In that case a party could still be entitled to receive damages caused by the partial or simple breach.

If you find that either party breached this contract and the breach was not excused, then you must award damages to the party that was not in breach.

The measure of damages for a breach of contract is that amount of money necessary to place the injured party in the same economic position that party would have been in if the contract had not been breached.

16d-003095

To calculate the damages first determine the amount of money the injured party would have received had the contract not been breached.

Lastly, subtract from that any money the injured party saved because that party did not have to complete the contract.

The plaintiff or the counter -- The party bringing the claim for breach of contract has the burden of proving all elements of damages by a preponderance of the evidence. You are to award damages to fully compensate the none breaching party.

You must not award damages for present or future harm which is speculative or remote or which is based on guesswork or conjecture.

If you find that either party breached the contract and you find that there are no proven damages resulting from that breach, or that the damages are only speculative, then you may award nominal damages to the party that is not in breach.

Nominal damages are a small amount of money, such as $1, awarded without regard to the amount of loss.

If you find that one or the other party breached the contract, then you must award the party that was injured by the breach a sum of money which will fairly and reasonably compensate that party for all the damage that that party experienced which was proximately caused by the breaching party.

16d-003096

The none breaching party is entitled to damages that the party who breached the contract negligence or wrongful conduct proximately caused.

A breaching party is only liable for damages that their conduct caused.

If you find that a breaching party's product -- conduct caused only part of the damages, then that party is liable only for that part of the damages that their conduct caused.

The burden of proof is upon the party bringing the claim to establish all elements of their damages by a preponderance of the evidence.

The party bringing the claim must prove that their -- must prove their damages with reasonable certainty. And you may only award damages to the party bringing a particular claim for past, present, or future harm that is not speculative.

Speculative damages are those that might be possible but are remote or based on guesswork.

A party does not have to prove their exact damages, however. You may award damages that are based on a just and reasonable estimate derived from relevant evidence.

16d-003097

Similarly, a party does not need to show that there is an absolute certainty that the injury or loss will continue into the future. You may award damages to compensate a party for injury and losses that probably will continue.

In addition to the compensatory damages Columbia seeks punitive damages against NCRIC for some of its claims.

Punitive damages are damages above and beyond the amount of compensatory damages that you may award.

Punitive damages are awarded to punish a party for their conduct and to serve as an example to prevent others from acting in a similar way.

You may award punitive damages only if they are proved by clear and convincing evidence. This is a different and slightly higher standard than the standard of proof by a preponderance of the evidence.

So you may award punitive damages only if Columbia has proved with clear and convincing evidence that NCRIC acted with evil motive, actual malice, deliberate violence, or omission or with intent to injure or a willful disregard for the rights of Columbia and that NCRIC's conduct was, itself, outrageous, grossly fraudulent or reckless toward the safety of Columbia.

a preponderance of the evidence, first, that NCRIC entered into a contract with Columbia.

If you find that NCRIC and Columbia entered into a contract, you must find that NCRIC owed Columbia an implied duty of good faith and fair dealing in connection with that contract.

Second, you must find that NCRIC breached the duty by evading the spirit of the contract, willfully rendering imperfect performance or interfering with Columbia's performance. And, third, that Columbia was damaged as a result of this breach.

Columbia also has a claim against NCRIC for intentional interference with business relations and its claim for intentional interference with a perspective business advantage.

First on the claim for intentional interference with business relations: In order for Columbia's claim to succeed, Columbia must prove by a preponderance of the evidence, one, the existence of a valid business relationship.

Two, NCRIC's knowledge of the relationship.

Three, intentional interference inducing or causing a breach or termination of the relationship.

And, four, damages resulting from that breach.

If you find that Columbia cannot prove any one of these elements, then you must find for NCRIC on Columbia's claim for tortious interference with business relations.

16d-003099

The elements that Columbia must prove by a preponderance of evidence to satisfy its tortious interference with perspective business advantage claim are, one, the existence of a valid business expectancy; two, NCRIC's knowledge of that expectancy; three, intentional interference inducing termination of that expectancy; and, four, damages resulting from that breach.

If you find that Columbia has failed to prove any of these elements, then you must find for NCRIC on Columbia's tortious interference with perspective business advantage claim.

You must not award compensatory damages more than once for the same injury. A party can only recover damages incurred as a proximate result of another's action one time.

Finally, ladies and gentlemen, just a few final words before you begin your deliberations in this case: Your deliberations in the jury room should not be just to support your own opinion but to ascertain the true facts in this case and to reach a unanimous verdict.

When you retire to the jury room, the first

16d-003100

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,

Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,

v.

COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,

Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.

Civil Action No. 00-0007308
Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

FILED
IN OPEN COURT
FEB 1 3 2004
Superior Court
of The District of Columbia
Washington, D.C.

VERDICT FORM

NCRIC'S CLAIM: BREACH OF CONTRACT

1. Do you find that NCRIC has proven, by a preponderance of the evidence, that Columbia breached its contract with NCRIC?

   Yes ___ No X

2. If you answered "Yes" to Question No. 1, do you find, by a preponderance of the evidence, that Columbia's breach of contract was the proximate cause of NCRIC's damages?

   Yes ___ No ___

3. If you answered "Yes" to Question No. 2, please answer the following questions:

   a. In what amount was NCRIC damaged? $_____

COLUMBIA'S CLAIM 1: BREACH OF CONTRACT

1. Do you find that Columbia has proven, by a preponderance of the evidence, that NCRIC breached its contract with Columbia?

   Yes X No ___

2. If you answered "Yes" to Question No. 1, do you find, by a preponderance of the evidence, that NCRIC's breach of contract was the proximate cause of Columbia's damages?

Yes X No ___

3. If you answered "Yes" to Question No. 2, please answer the following questions:

In what amount was Columbia damaged?

$ 220,002

COLUMBIA'S CLAIM 2: BREACH OF IMPLIED COVENANT OF GOOD FAITH AND FAIR DEALING

1. Do you find that Columbia has proven, by a preponderance of the evidence, that NCRIC breached an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing owed to Columbia?

Yes X No ___

2. If you answered "Yes" to Question No. 1, do you find, by a preponderance of the evidence, that NCRIC's breach of an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing was the proximate cause of Columbia's damages?

Yes ___ No X

3. If you answered "Yes" to Question No. 2, please answer the following questions:

In what amount was Columbia damaged?

$ _____

COLUMBIA'S CLAIM 3: TORTIOUS INTERFERENCE WITH BUSINESS RELATIONS

1. Do you find that Columbia has proven, by a preponderance of the evidence, that NCRIC intentionally interfered with Columbia's existing business relations?

   Yes X No ___

2. If you answered "Yes" to Question No. 1, do you find, by a preponderance of the evidence, that NCRIC's intentional interference was the proximate cause of Columbia's damages?

   Yes X No ___

3. If you answered "Yes" to Question No. 2, please answer the following questions:

   a. In what amount was Columbia damaged before the hospital closed?

   $ 13 Millions

   b. In what amount was Columbia damaged after the hospital closed?

   $ 5 million

   c. In what amount, if any, is Columbia entitled to punitive damages?

   $ 0

COLUMBIA'S CLAIM 4: TORTIOUS INTERFERENCE WITH PROSPECTIVE BUSINESS ADVANTAGE

1. Do you find that Columbia has proven, by a preponderance of the evidence, that NCRIC intentionally interfered with Columbia's continuing or prospective business relations?

   Yes ___ No X

2. If you answered "Yes" to Question No. 1, do you find, by a preponderance of the evidence, that NCRIC's intentional interference was the proximate cause of Columbia's damages?

Yes ___ No X

3. If you answered "Yes" to Question No. 2, please answer the following questions:

a. In what amount was Columbia damaged before the hospital closed?

$ _____

b. In what amount was Columbia damaged after the hospital closed?

$ _____

c. In what amount, if any, is Columbia entitled to punitive damages?

$ _____

DATED: February 13, 2004

#183
Foreperson

Juror Number: ~~#183~~

Juror Number #2

16d-003104

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, Inc.,	*
	*
Plaintiff,	*
	*	Civil Action No.: 00-7308
vs.	*	Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
	*	Calendar 8
	*
Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.	*
	*
	*
Defendant.	*
	*

ORDER DENYING IN PART AND GRANTING IN PART COLUMBIA'S MOTION FOR ADDITIONAL SANCTIONS WITH RESPECT TO NCRIC'S LATE PRODUCED EXPERT DOCUMENTS

This motion came before the Court during the above-captioned trial. Upon consideration of the defendant's motion and oral argument, and the plaintiff's oral argument in opposition thereto, the Court DENIED the motion regarding documentary evidence and GRANTED the motion regarding demonstrative evidence.

Accordingly, it is this 18th day of February, 2004 hereby ordered that the record shall reflect that the motion was denied in part and granted in part.

A. Blackburne-Rigsby
Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby

DOCKETED FEB 20 2004

MAILED FEB 20 2004

16d-003105

Copies to:
Kellogg, Huber, Hanson, Todd & Evans, PLLC
Neil M. Gorsuch
Eli C. Schulman
1615 M Street, NW
Suite 400
Washington D.C. 20036

Bryan Cave, LLP
Rodney F. Page
Scott M. Badami
700 Thirteenth St., NW
Washington D.C. 20005-3960

Roy I. Niedermayer
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, Inc.,	*
	*
Plaintiff,	*
	*	Civil Action No.: 00-7308
vs.	*	Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
	*	Calendar 8
	*
Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.	*
	*
	*
Defendant.	*
	*

ORDER DENYING IN PART AND GRANTING IN PART COLUMBIA'S MOTION FOR ADDITIONAL SANCTIONS WITH RESPECT TO NCRIC'S LATE PRODUCED EXPERT DOCUMENTS

This motion came before the Court during the above-captioned trial. Upon consideration of the defendant's motion and oral argument, and the plaintiff's oral argument in opposition thereto, the Court DENIED the motion regarding documentary evidence and GRANTED the motion regarding demonstrative evidence.

Accordingly, it is this 17th day of February, 2004 hereby ordered that the record shall reflect that the motion was denied in part and granted in part.

Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby

DOCKETED FEB 18 2004

MAILED FEB 18 2004

16d-003107

Copies to:
Kellogg, Huber, Hanson, Todd & Evans, PLLC
Neil M. Gorsuch
Eli C. Schulman
1615 M Street, NW
Suite 400
Washington D.C. 20036

Bryan Cave, LLP
Rodney F. Page
Scott M. Badami
700 Thirteenth St., NW
Washington D.C. 20005-3960

Roy I. Niedermayer
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, Inc.,	*
	*
Plaintiff,	*
	*	Civil Action No.: 00-7308
vs.	*	Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
	*	Calendar 8
	*
Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.	*
	*
	*
Defendant.	*
	*

ORDER DENYING IN PART AND GRANTING IN PART COLUMBIA'S MOTION FOR ADDITIONAL SANCTIONS WITH RESPECT TO NCRIC'S LATE PRODUCED EXPERT DOCUMENTS

This motion came before the Court during the above-captioned trial. Upon consideration of the defendant's motion and oral argument, and the plaintiff's oral argument in opposition thereto, the Court DENIED the motion regarding documentary evidence and GRANTED the motion regarding demonstrative evidence.

Accordingly, it is this 18th day of February, 2004 hereby ordered that the record shall reflect that the motion was denied in part and granted in part.

A. Blackburne-Rigsby
Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby

DOCKETED FEB 20 2004

MAILED FEB 20 2004

16d-003109

Copies to:
Kellogg, Huber, Hanson, Todd & Evans, PLLC
Neil M. Gorsuch
Eli C. Schulman
1615 M Street, NW
Suite 400
Washington D.C. 20036

Bryan Cave, LLP
Rodney F. Page
Scott M. Badami
700 Thirteenth St., NW
Washington D.C. 20005-3960

Roy I. Niedermayer
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, Inc.,	*
	*
Plaintiff,	*
	*	Civil Action No.: 00-7308
vs.	*	Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
	*	Calendar 8
	*
Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.	*
	*
	*
Defendant.	*
	*

ORDER DENYING IN PART AND GRANTING IN PART COLUMBIA'S MOTION FOR ADDITIONAL SANCTIONS WITH RESPECT TO NCRIC'S LATE PRODUCED EXPERT DOCUMENTS

This motion came before the Court during the above-captioned trial. Upon consideration of the defendant's motion and oral argument, and the plaintiff's oral argument in opposition thereto, the Court DENIED the motion regarding documentary evidence and GRANTED the motion regarding demonstrative evidence.

Accordingly, it is this 17th day of February, 2004 hereby ordered that the record shall reflect that the motion was denied in part and granted in part.

Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby

DOCKETED FEB 18 2004

MAILED FEB 18 2004

16d-003111

Copies to:
Kellogg, Huber, Hanson, Todd & Evans, PLLC
Neil M. Gorsuch
Eli C. Schulman
1615 M Street, NW
Suite 400
Washington D.C. 20036

Bryan Cave, LLP
Rodney F. Page
Scott M. Badami
700 Thirteenth St., NW
Washington D.C. 20005-3960

Roy I. Niedermayer
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC,INC.,

Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant

versus

FILED
CIVIL ACTIONS BRANCH
FEB 20 2004
Superior Court
of the District of Columbia
Washington, D.C.

00ca7308
Calendar Number 03
Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

COLUMBIA HOSPITOL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER,INC.,

Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff

JUDGMENT

This action came on for trial before the Court and a jury, Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby, Superior Court Judge, presiding, and the issues having been duly tried and the jury having duly rendered its verdict, it is this 13th day of February, 2004,

ORDERED

That judgment is hereby entered in favor of the defendant Columbia Hospital For Women Medical Center,Inc.,against the plaintiffs NCRIC,INC., and that the defendant recover of the plaintiffs its costs of action.

FURTHER ORDERED

That the Counter-Claimant COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER,INC.,recover of the counter Defendant NCRIC,INC., The sum of $18,220,002 with interest at the statutory rate and its costs of action.

DUANE B. DELANEY, ESQ.
Clerk of the Court

Jeffrey A. Woodson

Jeffrey A.Woodson,
Deputy Clerk

MAILED FEB 20 2004

DOCKETED FEB 20 2004

16d-003113

cc:

Rodney F.Page,Esq.
Scott M.Badami,Esq.
700 Thirteenth Street,N.W.
Suite 600
Washington,D.C. 20005-3960

Eli C.Schulman,Esq.
Kellogg,Huber,Hanson,Todd & Evans,PLLC
1615 M Street,N.W.,Suite 400
Washington,D.C. 20036

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
Defendant.

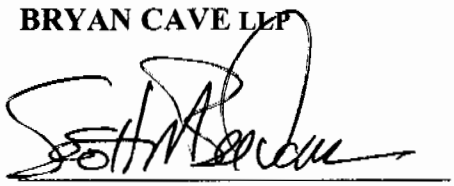
NCRIC'S MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL AND RENEWED MOTION FOR JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW

Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC"), pursuant to Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 50(b) and 59, hereby renews its motion for judgment as a matter of law on defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.'s ("Columbia's") tortious interference with business relations counterclaim. In the alternative, NCRIC moves for a new trial on Columbia's tortious interference with business relations and breach of contract counterclaims. NCRIC also seeks remittitur of Columbia's damage claims. NCRIC submits the accompanying Memorandum of Points and Authorities and Affidavit of Rodney Page in support of this motion.

As required by Rule 12-I, counsel for NCRIC contacted counsel for Columbia prior to filing this motion in an effort to obtain the requested relief.

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP



Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar 435375
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(202) 508-6116 telephone
(202) 508-6200 facsimile

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: March 5, 2004

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that a true and correct copy of NCRIC's Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law or in the Alternative for a New Trial was served this 5 day of March 2004, via hand delivery, to:

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center

Scott M. Badami

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,
Defendant.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT OF NCRIC'S MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL AND RENEWED MOTION FOR JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW

BRYAN CAVE LLP

Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar No. 435375
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(202) 508-6116 telephone
(202) 508-6200 facsimile

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT 1

BACKGROUND 2

STANDARD OF REVIEW 3

ARGUMENT 3

I. A NEW TRIAL IS REQUIRED. 4

A. The Jury Instructions Failed to Require that the Jury Find "Egregious" or Otherwise Wrongful Conduct Before Granting Liability for Tortious Interference with Business Relations. 4

B. The Jury's Findings on Columbia's Tortious-Interference and Breach-of-Contract Counts were Against the Substantial Weight of the Evidence. 8

1. Columbia Did Not Have Sufficient Support to Prove Causation for its Tortious-Interference-with-Business-Relations Counterclaim. 8

2. The Jury's Breach-of-Contract Damages Award Demonstrates Confusion or Improper Compromise. 12

C. The Expert Testimony from Peter Ben Ezra Should Have Been Excluded. 13

1. Mr. Ben Ezra's Testimony was Based on Speculative Factual Assumptions Lacking Support in the Record. 15

2. Mr. Ben Ezra Failed to Apply Generally Accepted Accounting Techniques. 17

D. The Court Should Recuse Itself Now and Order a New Trial Before a Different Judge. 18

E. In the Alternative, the Court Could Grant a New Trial Subject to a Remittitur. 21

II. NCRIC IS ENTITLED TO JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW 23

A. The Evidence, Even When Viewed in Columbia's Favor, Did Not Satisfy the Legal Elements of Tortious Interference With Business Relations. 23

1. The Evidence Failed to Establish "Egregious" or Otherwise Wrongful Conduct that Would Qualify as Tortious Interference. 24

2. The Evidence Failed to Establish a Legally Protected Business Relationship. 26

16d-003119

B. Columbia Failed to Prove Non-Speculative Damages Resulting From the Alleged Tortious Interference.....27

C. The $5 Million Post-Hospital-Closing Damages Should Be Stricken as a Matter of Law because they were Not Pleaded in Columbia's Counterclaim.....29

CONCLUSION 31

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

CASES

Allstate Insurance Co. v. Curtis,
781 A.2d 725 (D.C. 2001) 3

Allstate Insurance Co. v. Ramos,
782 A.2d 280 (D.C. 2001) 12

Bedell v. Inver Housing, Inc.,
506 A.2d 202 (D.C. 1986) 27

In re Bell,
373 A.2d 232 (D.C. 1977) 20

Bell v. Dow Chemical Co.,
847 F.2d 1179 (5th Cir. 1988) 16-17

Belton v. United States,
581 A.2d 1205 (D.C. 1990) 20

Bennett Enterprises, Inc. v. Domino's Pizza, Inc.,
45 F.3d 493, 310 U.S. App. D.C. 192 (D.C. Cir. 1995) 4, 5

Berdyck v. Shinde,
713 N.E.2d 1098 (Ohio Ct. App. 1998) 20

Breezevale Ltd. v. Dickinson,
759 A.2d 627 (D.C. 2000) 3

Capitol Hill Hospital v. Jones,
532 A.2d 89 (D.C. 1987) 21

Cooke v. Griffiths-Garcia Corp.,
612 A.2d 1251 (D.C. 1992) 5

Deoudes v. G.B. Macke Corp.,
153 A.2d 309 (D.C. 1959) 5

District of Columbia v. Jackson,
810 A.2d 388 (D.C. 2002) 21

Doe v. Binker,
492 A.2d 857 (D.C. 1985) 12

East Penn Sanitation, Inc. v. Grinnell Haulers, Inc.,
682 A.2d 1207 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. 1996) 6

In re Evans,
411 A.2d 984 (D.C. 1980) 20

Finkelstein v. District of Columbia,
593 A.2d 591 (D.C. 1991) 21

Fisher v. Best,
661 A.2d 1095 (D.C. 1995) 3, 4

FutureSource LLC v. Reuters Ltd.,
312 F.3d 281 (7th Cir. 2002) 5, 26

Garcia v. Llerena,
599 A.2d 1138 (D.C. 1991) 27

Gebremdhin v. Avis Rent-A-Car System, Inc.,
689 A.2d 1202 (D.C. 1997) 3

Genetic Systems Corp. v. Abbott Laboratoriess,
691 F. Supp. 407 (D.D.C. 1988) 5

Gibson v. United States,
792 A.2d 1059 (D.C. 2002) 19, 20

Ibn-Tamas v. United States,
407 A.2d 626 (D.C. 1979) 14, 17

International City Management Ass'n Retirement Corp. v.Watkins,
726 F. Supp. 1 (D.D.C. 1989) 5

In re J.A.,
601 A.2d 69 (D.C. 1991) 19, 20

Jones v. Federated Financial Reserve Corp.,
144 F.3d 961 (6th Cir. 1998) 8

Joy v. Bell Helicopter Textron, Inc.,
999 F.2d 549, 303 U.S. App. D.C. 1 (D.C. Cir. 1993) 14

KW Plastics v. United States Can Co.,
131 F. Supp. 2d 1289 (M.D. Ala. 2001) 17

Liebe v. City Finance Co.,
295 N.W.2d 16 (Wis. Ct. App. 1980) 6

Liljeberg v. Health Services Acquisition Corp., 486 U.S. 847 (1988) 19, 20

In re Melton,
597 A.2d 892 (D.C. 1991) 17

Mercer Management Consulting, Inc. v. Wilde,
920 F. Supp. 219 (D.D.C. 1996) 4-5

Mowery v. Standard Oil Co.,
463 F. Supp. 762 (N.D. Ohio 1976), aff'd, 590 F.2d 335 (6th Cir. 1978) 17

Nelson v. McCreary,
694 A.2d 897 (D.C. 1997) 8

Phillips v. District of Columbia,
458 A.2d 722 (D.C. 1983) 21

Pratt v. University of the District of Columbia,
691 A.2d 158 (D.C. 1997) 13, 23, 27

R & A, Inc. v. Kozy Korner, Inc.,
672 A.2d 1062 (D.C. 1996) 27, 29

Rose v. Fiedler,
855 So. 2d 122 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App.. 2003) 20

Scott v. United States,
559 A.2d 745 (D.C. 1989) 3, 20

Sheppard v. Dickstein, Shapiro, Morin & Oshinsky,
59 F. Supp. 2d 27 (D.D.C. 1999) ..... passim

Sierra Club v. Callaway,
499 F.2d 982 (5th Cir. 1974) 23

Sullivan v. Baptist Memorial Hospital-Golden Triangle, Inc., 722 So.2d 675 (Miss. 1998) 20

Turman v. United States,
555 A.2d 1037 (D.C. 1989) 20

Tyger Construction Co. v. Pensacola Construction Co.,
29 F.3d 137 (4th Cir. 1994) 16

United Educational Distributors, LLC v. Educational Testing Service,
564 S.E.2d 324 (S.C. Ct. App. 2002) 26

United States v. Chrysler Corp.,
157 F. Supp. 2d 849 (N.D. Ohio 2001) 23

Wagner v. Professional Engineers in California Government,
354 F.3d 1036 (9th Cir. 2004) 29

York v. United States,
785 A.2d 651 (D.C. 2001) 19, 20

Young-Henderson v. Spartanburg Area Mental Health Center,
945 F.2d 770 (4th Cir. 1991) 30

MISCELLANEOUS

Departments of Labor, Health & Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2002, Pub. L. 107-116, 115 Stat. 2177, 2187 (Jan. 10, 2002) 23, 29

Restatement (Second) Torts § 768 (1979) 5

Restatement (Second) Torts § 769 (1979) 25

Restatement (Second) Torts § 772(a) (1979) 5

D.C. Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 15(b) 30

D.C. Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 15(d) 30

D.C. Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 50(a)(1) 3

D.C. Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 50(b) 2, 3, 24

D.C. Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 59(a) 1

D.C. Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 63-I 19

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

The instructions given to the jury, and the evidence that was presented at trial, made it possible for this jury to award $18 million in damages against plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC") without first concluding that NCRIC engaged in any improper conduct. The instructions failed to direct the jury to consider only wrongful conduct when determining whether NCRIC "intentional[ly] interfere[d]" and thereby caused a breach or termination of specified physicians' relationships with defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia"). See Jury Instr. p. 12. Interference alone, which would include proper conduct such as advertising that convinces third parties to break one contract and enter another, does not give rise to a tort claim. The jury instructions for intentional interference given in this case cannot be squared with the case law – or indeed with this Court's own ruling on NCRIC's summary judgment motion in which it explained the type of "egregious" conduct necessary to prove this tort. See infra. p. 5. Particularly given NCRIC's defense at trial that its actions were justified in the normal course of its business, that crucial omitted instruction denied NCRIC a properly-instructed jury, and requires a new trial. See Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 59(a).

Further, NCRIC moves for a new trial because: (1) the weight of the evidence failed to support Columbia's causation argument; (2) the jury's damage award on the contract claim demonstrates that the jury was wholly confused; and (3) the Court permitted Peter Ben Ezra to testify as an expert even though his plainly biased conclusions fell far short of the standard for admission of expert testimony. Finally, NCRIC moves for a new trial because the Trial Judge should have recused herself in light of her years-long treatment at Columbia Fertility Associates by a physician who not only is personally associated with Columbia, but whose partner was Chairman of the Board of Columbia and a key witness at trial.

NCRIC also renews its motion for judgment as a matter of law. See Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 50(b). First, the evidence adduced at trial failed to give rise to even a reasonable inference that NCRIC engaged in the sort of "egregious" conduct legally required to satisfy a key element of tortious interference with business relations. Second, Columbia failed to prove a legally cognizable business relation with any of the physicians of the kind required by law to support a tortious-interference claim.

Finally, even if Columbia had established liability on its tortious-interference claim, NCRIC would be entitled to judgment as a matter of law because Columbia's damages evidence was wholly speculative. The $13 million pre-hospital-closing component of these damages is premised on an unsupported calculation of net revenue. Such guesswork, as a matter of law, is insufficient to support a damages award. Further, the $5 million post-hospital-closing award represents gross revenue as for which Columbia made no attempt at all to discount to produce a net-revenue-lost figure. Not only would it be wholly speculative to assume that all cash coming in would go straight to the bottom line, but such an assumption defies common sense. In any event, because Columbia offered no evidence to support this contention, the $5 million damages award should be stricken as well as a matter of law.

BACKGROUND

NCRIC sued Columbia for breach of contract. Columbia, in an attempt to inflate a straightforward contract dispute concerning premium calculations into a complex tort action concerning the course of the parties' business relationship, then filed an eleven-count counter-claim. This Court dismissed seven of the eleven counts as a matter of law, one before the trial began, one after Columbia closed its case-in-chief, and five more after the close of all the evidence. Of Columbia's remaining four counts, the jury awarded damages on Columbia's breach of contract and tortious-interference claims. It rejected Columbia's remaining two counts, and also rejected NCRIC's single breach-of-contract claim against Columbia.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

The Court has "broad" latitude to grant NCRIC's Rule 59 motion for a new trial. Fisher v. Best, 661 A.2d 1095, 1098 (D.C. 1995). Both improper jury instructions and admission of evidence that should have been excluded provide grounds to grant a new trial, see Gebremdhin v. Avis Rent-A-Car Sys., Inc., 689 A.2d 1202, 1204-05 (D.C. 1997) (jury instructions); Allstate Ins. Co. v. Curtis, 781 A.2d 725, 726 (D.C. 2001) (admission of evidence), as does a judge's improper refusal to recuse. See, e.g., Scott v. United States, 559 A.2d 745, 756 (D.C. 1989).

NCRIC also renews its motions for judgment as a matter of law pursuant to Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 50(b). If during a jury trial "a party has been fully heard on an issue and there is no legally sufficient evidentiary basis for a reasonable jury to find for that party on that issue, the Court may determine the issues against that party and grant a motion for judgment as a matter of law." Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 50(a)(1). While the Court considering a Rule 50 motion must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, when there is no legally sufficient evidence to support a claim "it is the duty of the trial court to enter judgment as a matter of law . . . ." Breezevale Ltd. v. Dickinson, 759 A.2d 627, 633 n.5 (D.C. 2000) (emphasis added).

ARGUMENT

NCRIC seeks a new trial based on a series of errors that prejudiced it as well as the insufficiency of the evidence. It also renews its motion for judgment as a matter of law on Columbia's tortious-interference claim.

I. A NEW TRIAL IS REQUIRED.

NCRIC seeks a new trial because of legal errors that prejudiced it, as well as a jury verdict that is against the weight of the evidence and demonstrates confusion. NCRIC also seeks a new trial based on the Court's refusal to recuse itself. Each of the issues discussed below independently supports the grant of a new trial. Taken together, they collectively require a new trial because letting the verdict stand would be "a miscarriage of justice, even though there may be substantial evidence which would prevent the direction of a verdict." Fisher, 661 A.2d at 1098 (citation omitted).

A. The Jury Instructions Failed to Require that the Jury Find "Egregious" or Otherwise Wrongful Conduct Before Granting Liability for Tortious Interference with Business Relations.

The jury instructions on the tortious-interference-with-business-relations count permitted the jury to find against NCRIC without first concluding that NCRIC committed "egregious" conduct. Perhaps by inadvertence, the instructions also did not even include any other limitation that would have explained that, for NCRIC to be subject to liability, its conduct had to be in any way wrongful or improper. That error was compounded by the omission from the special interrogatories on the jury verdict form of any mention of egregious conduct.

Under District of Columbia law, the elements of tortious interference with business relations are (1) the existence of a valid business relationship; (2) knowledge of the relationship on the part of the interferer; (3) intentional interference causing a breach or termination of the relationship; and (4) resultant damage. Sheppard v. Dickstein, Shapiro, Morin & Oshinsky, 59 F. Supp. 2d 27, 34 (D.D.C. 1999) (citing Bennett Enters., Inc. v. Domino's Pizza, Inc., 45 F.3d 493, 498, 310 U.S. App. D.C. 192, 197 (D.C. Cir. 1995)). The law limits tortious-interference actions to cases in which a party engages in conduct that not only interferes, but is in addition improper and wrongful. Mercer Mgmt. Consulting, Inc. v Wilde, 920 F. Supp. 219, 239

16d-003128

(D.D.C. 1996); International City Mgmt. Ass'n Retirement Corp. v. Watkins, 726 F. Supp. 1, 6 (D.D.C. 1989)(citing Restatement (Second) Torts § 768 cmt. e); Genetic Sys. Corp., 691 F. Supp. at 423.

It does so by requiring proof of such egregious and wrongful conduct as part of the "intentional interference" element of the tort. Columbia itself conceded that its tortious-interference claim required proof of egregious and otherwise wrongful conduct on the part of NCRIC. See Columbia's Opposition to NCRIC's Summary Judgment Mot. at 47. And this Court explicitly so held in its April 11, 2003 Order Denying Summary Judgment ("Order"). The Order states:

> Unfair competition is essentially an unprivileged interference with prospective advantage. Id. A general intent to interfere or knowledge that conduct will injure the plaintiff's business dealings is insufficient to impose liability. Id. A competitor's conduct must be more egregious, for example, it must involve libel, slander, physical coercion, fraud, misrepresentation, or disparagement.

Order at 10 (citing Genetic Sys. Corp. v. Abbott Labs., 691 F. Supp. 407, 423 (D.D.C. 1988)). Were the law otherwise, most ordinary business activities would become actionable as tortious interference.

As this Court already has pointed out, egregious and otherwise wrongful conduct for purposes of tortious interference is conduct such as "libel, slander, physical coercion, fraud, misrepresentation, or disparagement." Order at 10; accord Genetic Sys. Corp., 691 F. Supp. at 423; Cooke v. Griffiths-Garcia Corp., 612 A.2d 1251 (D.C. 1992) (citing Deoudes v. G.B. Macke Corp., 153 A.2d 309 (D.C. 1959)). A general intent to interfere, or knowledge that one's conduct will injure another's business dealings, is insufficient to create liability for tortious interference with business relations. Bennett, 45 F.3d at 499; Sheppard, 59 F. Supp. 2d at 34, 310 U.S. App. D.C. at 198; Genetic Sys., 691 F. Supp. at 423. Thus, as a matter of law, the provision of "truthful information" can never constitute tortious interference. See Restatement (Second) Torts § 772(a) (1979). FutureSource LLC v. Reuters Ltd., 312 F.3d 281, 284 (7th Cir. 2002) (rejecting tortious interference claim premised on defendant's provision of truthful information to its own customers); East Penn Sanitation, Inc. v. Grinnell Haulers, Inc., 682 A.2d 1207, 1218 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. 1996) ("a party may not be held liable for tortious interference for merely providing truthful information"); Liebe v. City Fin. Co., 295 N.W.2d 16, 18-20 (Wis. Ct. App. 1980) ("Transmission of truthful information is privileged and proper," and thus cannot support a claim for tortious interference).

Consistent with the case law and this Court's summary judgment order requiring proof of egregious conduct to satisfy the "intentional interference" element of the tort, NCRIC's proposed jury instructions included an instruction that the jury must find NCRIC's conduct was "egregious." See NCRIC's Proposed Jury Instructions No. 15, attached as Exhibit 1. The instruction then defined what conduct qualifies as egregious under the applicable law. See id. NCRIC's proposed verdict form also contained a special interrogatory on egregious conduct. See NCRIC's Proposed Verdict Form No. 16 at p. 8, attached as Exhibit 2. Although Columbia did not request a similar instruction in its proposed jury instructions, it conceded in response to NCRIC's proposed instructions that:

> Should the Court wish to give such an instruction, however, Columbia proposes the following instruction that is grounded in pertinent authority:
>
> A general intent to interfere or knowledge that conduct will injure the plaintiff's business dealings is insufficient to impose liability. A competitor's conduct must be more egregious, for example, it must involve libel, slander, physical coercion, fraud, misrepresentation, or disparagement"

Columbia's Objections to NCRIC's Proposed Jury Instructions at 18 (emphasis added). Thus, while Columbia may have taken issue with the specific "egregious" instruction NCRIC proposed, even Columbia acknowledged that some instruction on egregiousness would be appropriate.

Both NCRIC and Columbia proposed extensive jury instructions, which the Court distilled into a more limited set of instructions that was actually delivered to the jury. In the process, however, the Court omitted both NCRIC's proposed intent instruction concerning the need to prove "egregious" conduct as well as the substitute intent instruction that Columbia offered in its opposition as an alternative. The Court stated on the record that it intended to omit the word "egregious," 2/10/2004 Tr. at 160[1], but it never explained whether it intended to omit all mention of wrongful and improper conduct and therefore not offer any explanation as to what "intentionally interfere" means.

By omitting, inadvertently or not, any mention of egregious conduct – and indeed any mention of wrongful conduct at all -- the instructions actually left open the possibility that the jury could conclude that NCRIC intentionally interfered with the attending physicians' practice of admitting patients at Columbia, but that NCRIC did so only through legal and proper means. Because the jury was not given any instruction at all that the conduct to consider must, at a minimum, be wrongful – and particularly in light of NCRIC's evidence at trial that its actions were in conformity with its lawful obligations – the jury could have awarded damages based simply on a conclusion that NCRIC engaged in "intentional interference inducing or causing a breach or termination of the relationship," Jury Instr. at p. 12, even if it believed the "intentional

[1] NCRIC's exhibits include all of the transcript citations that have been made available to date. Relevant pages from each transcript day are contained as separate exhibits submitted along with this memorandum. Excerpts from the February 2, 2004 transcript are attached as Exhibit 3; excerpts from the February 3, 2004 transcript are attached as Exhibit 4; and excerpts from the February 10, 2004 transcripts are attached as Exhibit 5.

16d-003131

interference" involved only lawful and permissible conduct in the normal course of business. Thus even if Columbia had introduced evidence of egregious conduct, and NCRIC argues that it did not, see infra p. 8-11, a new trial still would be required. Under the incomplete instruction given, the jury was free to find liability without determining as a matter of fact that NCRIC engaged in any wrongful or egregious conduct.

As a result, the instructions given made it possible for the jury to have found liability without finding as a matter of fact that NCRIC's conduct satisfied each element of tortious interference. The only way to correct that error is for the Court to grant a new trial. See Nelson v. McCreary, 694 A.2d 897, 901 (D.C. 1997) (ordering new trial because jury instructions deficient); Jones v. Federated Fin. Reserve Corp., 144 F.3d 961, 966 (6th Cir. 1998) (A party is entitled to a new trial if the jury instructions, "taken as a whole, are misleading or give an inadequate understanding of the law.").

B. The Jury's Findings on Columbia's Tortious-Interference and Breach-of-Contract Counts were Against the Substantial Weight of the Evidence.

1. Columbia Did Not Have Sufficient Support to Prove Causation for its Tortious-Interference-with-Business-Relations Counterclaim.

The jury's conclusion that NCRIC caused physicians to stop admitting at Columbia was against the substantial weight of the evidence. Columbia argued that NCRIC tortiously interfered with its relationships with the attending faculty by somehow "luring" them to defect to other hospitals and "forcing" them to stop referring patients to Columbia. Columbia showed the jury a chart listing the names of 24 physicians and three practice groups who supposedly left because of actions by NCRIC.

But Columbia failed to introduce sufficient evidence to show that NCRIC caused the departures. Indeed not one attending-faculty physician over the course of the two-week trial testified that he or she was pressured by NCRIC to leave Columbia. The only attending-faculty physicians who addressed the reasons for their departure at trial stated that they left for reasons having nothing to do with NCRIC.

Columbia called to testify just three former attending-faculty physicians: Drs. Wayne Cooper, Odell McCants, and Steven Procter. On cross-examination, each testified that he was never asked, encouraged or pressured by NCRIC to leave Columbia. In fact, Drs. Cooper, McCants and Procter each decided to stay with Columbia after the NCRIC Retro Plan ended in September 2000. Thus their testimony provides no direct evidence concerning the basis for any physician's departure.

Perhaps recognizing this hole in its evidence, during closing argument, Columbia misled the jury concerning the factual basis for its claim that NCRIC caused attending-faculty physicians to stop admitting patients at Columbia. First, while purportedly laying out Columbia's causation case during closing arguments, Columbia's counsel described in dramatic detail testimony concerning the departure of clinic physicians who stopped practicing there after NCRIC issued its exclusion concerning the clinic. See 2/10/2004 Tr. at 126-27. But Columbia's tortious-interference claim is that it was damaged by the alleged loss of revenue when attending-faculty physicians who had received Retro Plan subsidies stopped admitting patients at Columbia. The discussion of the clinic physicians, who were not connected to Columbia's lost-revenue claim, was an inappropriate distraction. Indeed, the letters from the physicians so heavily relied upon by Columbia (from Drs. Cooper, Johnson, and Koch) do not provide any evidence that NCRIC tortiously interfered with any physician's relationship with the hospital. Even if, as Columbia's counsel argued, the letters show that the "doctors left because of [the] insurance" (2/10/2004 Tr. at 128) that does not prove any of the egregious conduct necessary to support a claim of tortious interference.

NCRIC called attending-faculty physicians to testify who confirmed that they left Columbia for reasons having nothing to do with NCRIC. Those physicians whom NCRIC called had actually left the hospital around the time that the Retro Plan ended. And each of them, in uncontroverted testimony, testified that NCRIC did not cause them to leave the hospital. Drs. Ken Blank, Heather Johnson and Martin Dukes all testified that they and the other physicians in their practices left Columbia for reasons relating to Columbia's declining patient care standards, decaying physical conditions, low staff morale, longstanding financial problems and reduced talent in its nursing and support staff. All of them confirmed that no one from NCRIC encouraged – let alone pressured – them to leave Columbia or to reduce their admissions to Columbia. They further testified that such was the case with the partners in their medical practices, all of whom made independent decisions to leave the hospital for reasons having nothing to do with NCRIC. Drs. Blank and Johnson both testified that, even if the Retro Plan had been renewed in September 2000, both of their practice groups (the OB/GYN Physicians of Washington and the Women's Physician's Association) would have left Columbia in any event.

Dr. Blank, for example, testified that he and his group of six doctors made a unanimous decision in the Spring of 2000 to leave Columbia due to the deteriorating financial condition of the hospital, poor morale of the staff, and the declining state of the equipment. Dr. Blank and his group made their decision months before the Retro Plan ended and before any of them even heard that the Retro Plan might be expiring.

Dr. Johnson, who spoke on behalf of a group of five physicians, testified that her practice group left because of deteriorating conditions at Columbia. Dr. Johnson also testified that, because of Columbia's financial problems, she had to bring in her own light bulbs and scrub suits; that Columbia ran out of towels and sutures; and that equipment would break and it took a long time to fix. She further testified that that good nurses got better offers and left the hospital, leaving the remaining nurses to work harder and cover more shifts and that morale was very low among the staff.[2]

Dr. Dukes, a member of the Board of Directors of Columbia Hospital for a number of years, noted that Columbia had to borrow supplies from other hospitals and that Columbia was in financial trouble. Paychecks to staff bounced and the hospital had to pay vendors cash for its purchases because Columbia could not get credit. Dr. Dukes also testified that Columbia lacked adequate equipment and that he had to reschedule patient procedures due to equipment problems. Dr. Dukes further testified that he reduced his patient admissions at Columbia due to the hospital's financial difficulties, dissatisfaction with the direction of the hospital, patient complaints, the declining physical appearance of the hospital and insurance. Although his desire to remain with NCRIC as an insured was one factor in his decision to leave, Dr. Dukes, stated under oath that no one from NCRIC encouraged, induced or pressured him to stop or reduce his patient admissions at Columbia.

Taken together, the physicians called by NCRIC represented 11 of the 24 physicians, and two of the three practice groups, whose departures formed the basis for Columbia's claim for damages. Moreover, according to the chart prepared by Mr. Ben Ezra, these physicians accounted for more than two-thirds of the claimed lost cash flow to the hospital. Their testimony was uncontroverted. Columbia produced not one former attending-faculty physician who testified that he or she left the hospital as a result of NCRIC's conduct, and Columbia couldn't elicit any testimony on cross-examination that NCRIC ever encouraged, induced or pressured attending faculty to leave or reduce admissions. For these reasons, the Court should grant a new trial because the verdict was against the substantial weight of the evidence.

[2] As noted above, Dr. Johnson's letters fail to support Columbia's tortious interference claim. Dr. Johnson testified she sent the letters as a "goodbye" to the staff at Columbia and that the purpose of the letters was not to review all of the reasons she and her group left Columbia. Additionally, one letter refers to the clinic policy, not to patient admissions at the hospital covered by the Retro Plan.

2. The Jury's Breach-of-Contract Damages Award Demonstrates Confusion or Improper Compromise.

Columbia did not ask for – and did not offer any evidence to support – an award of $220,002 on its breach-of-contract claim, yet that is what the jury delivered. While it is generally within the province of the jury to set the amount of damages, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals has recognized that, "[n]otwithstanding the jury's broad discretion in assessing damages, there must be substantial evidence upon which the award is predicated." Doe v. Binker, 492 A.2d 857, 860 (D.C. 1985). Where the evidence fails to support a jury's damages award, that award should be vacated and a new trial ordered. See Allstate Ins. Co. v. Ramos, 782 A.2d 280, 284 (D.C. 2001) (reversing damages award and remanding case where there was "no evidence in the record to support an award of damages" that exceeded the cap on an insurance policy).

No possible combination or permutation of the evidence in the record could result in the inexplicable $220,002 figure the jury selected. Columbia claimed that NCRIC's alleged breach of the Retro Plan caused damages totaling $559,797.67. In addition, Columbia claimed that NCRIC owed a $1,000,000 deposit made by Columbia in 1998. The jury's damage award apparently resulted from some sort of confusion or compromise that was not supported by any legally sufficient evidentiary basis. Indeed, the jury may well have been confused by Columbia's closing argument in which its counsel badly misstated the evidence in the record. In closing, Columbia's counsel explained that Columbia was seeking contract damages for only the two years of the Retro Plan for which all malpractice claims had been resolved and which were therefore closed. See 2/10/2004 Tr. at 130 ("There are only two years that are closed out. Columbia's owed money under both of those years . . . ."); id. at 131 ("Columbia's not seeking any money for open years."). Counsel then said that the evidence in the record from Mr. Feldman showed that "Columbia's owed $559,797.67. And that's just for the . . . two years that it closed out." Id. But in fact, Mr. Feldman's calculations, admitted into evidence as Defendant's Exhibit 85, clearly show that the $559,797.67 figure represents an estimate of amounts owed for all six years of the Retro Plan. Columbia's counsel's misstatement of the factual record likely confused the jury and left them groping for a way to settle on a damages award to support their conclusions as to the proper construction of the contract. In the end, they awarded a damages amount that cannot possibly be reconciled with the factual record. Because the damages award could only have been premised on confusion or compromise, a new trial is in order. See Pratt v. University of the District of Columbia, 691 A.2d 158,159 (D.C. 1997) ("[a] trial judge may reduce a damage award when 'it is apparent as a matter of law that certain identifiable sums included in the verdict should not have been there'") (citation omitted).

C. The Expert Testimony from Peter Ben Ezra Should Have Been Excluded.

The testimony of Peter Ben Ezra should have been excluded for two independent reasons: (1) it was based on wholly speculative factual assumptions not supported by the record; and (2) his analysis failed to apply a generally-accepted methodology. Over NCRIC's repeated objections, the Court allowed Mr. Ben Ezra to testify as an expert and to present entirely speculative testimony concerning damages in the guise of "expert opinion." Permitting his testimony improperly prejudiced NCRIC by cloaking Mr. Ben Ezra's statements with the authority of that of an expert and by misleading the jury into believing that his testimony represented more than speculation, and thus could provide a basis for the award of damages. Yet

16d-003137

Mr. Ben Ezra's conclusions were not grounded in evidence, data and reliable methodology, and their submission to the jury as evidence warrants a new trial.

This Court may not permit the jury to hear speculative and unreliable testimony couched as expert opinion. As the Court of Appeals has observed, "because expert or scientific testimony possesses an 'aura of special reliability and trustworthiness,' the proffer of such testimony must be carefully scrutinized." Ibn-Tamas v. United States, 407 A.2d 626, 632 (D.C. 1979) (citation omitted). Courts "must resist 'the temptation to answer objections to receipt of expert testimony with the shorthand remark that the jury will give it "the weight it deserves."' Indeed, we have already indicated that we will turn a 'sharp eye' to 'those instances, hopefully few, where . . . the decision to receive expert testimony was simply tossed off to the jury under a "let it all in" philosophy.'" Joy v. Bell Helicopter Textron, Inc., 999 F.2d 549, 569, 303 U.S. App. D.C. 1, 21 (D.C. Cir. 1993) (citations omitted).

At a December 19, 2003 pretrial conference in this matter, the Court explicitly acknowledged that Columbia faced "hurdles that still need[ed] to be met" before Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony could reach a jury. The Court had good reason to be reluctant to accept Mr. Ben Ezra as an expert. In addition to the problems with his testimony described above, his bias alone was grounds for his exclusion. Mr. Ben Ezra served on two occasions as Chairman of the Columbia Board of Directors, signed the papers putting Columbia into bankruptcy in 1998, and was appointed by the Columbia Board to oversee this very litigation. Permitting this insider to testify with the Court's apparent blessing as a "specially reliable" independent expert created a significant risk of impermissibly prejudicing NCRIC.

1. Mr. Ben Ezra's Testimony was Based on Speculative Factual Assumptions Lacking Support in the Record.

Columbia said it offered Mr. Ben Ezra for the limited purpose of explaining to the jury how to estimate the revenue lost to the hospital as a result of specified physicians reducing the number of patients they admitted to Columbia or ending their relationship with Columbia altogether. Mr. Ben Ezra testified that he did not conduct any independent analysis or investigation to support any of the underlying data that formed the basis for his computations at the time he made the calculations. Because the underlying data – which was provided to him by counsel and gleaned from a hypothetical example in an accounting textbook – lack any factual basis, his expert testimony should have been excluded.

Mr. Ben Ezra testified that he computed damages from lost patient admissions as follows. He first received a list from Columbia's trial counsel of the physicians he was to assume either stopped admitting patients to Columbia completely or reduced admissions to Columbia based on NCRIC's conduct. He then determined from Columbia's records the amount of revenue the hospital received in the year ending September 30, 2000, and the following year. He calculated the change in revenue between the two years and adjusted for uncollectible amounts. He then assumed, based on a hypothetical example from an accounting textbook called "Introduction to Management Accounting," that the hospital's marginal cost with respect to the lost patients would have been 30 percent of the collections, and deducted these marginal costs.[3] He then assumed that, for each of the next 20 years, the lost revenue would be the same as in the first year, but he applied a discount factor to the later years to calculate the present value. Based on that calculation, he produced an estimate of lost cash flow.

[3] "Marginal cost" is the amount of money the hospital would have had to spend on everything from bandages to laundry detergent had the lost patients come to the hospital. Mr. Ben Ezra estimated that these costs would total 30 percent of the total collected from these patients had they been admitted. The projected change in cash flow to the hospital does not include these marginal costs because, since these patients were never admitted, the hospital saved money by not having to care for them. In other words, while, on Columbia's theory, the hospital would have lost money by not receiving any payments for these patients, it would have saved some money by buying fewer bandages and less laundry detergent since these patients went elsewhere.

Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony should have been excluded because there was no factual support whatsoever for two of his key assumptions – (1) that the physicians on the list given to him by counsel either stopped admitting patients to Columbia or reduced their admissions to Columbia based on NCRIC's conduct, and (2) that the hospital's marginal costs totaled 30 percent of collections. First, not a single one of the 24 physicians whose admissions data Mr. Ben Ezra used as the basis for his damage calculations testified that he or she actually left Columbia or reduced admissions to the hospital because of conduct by NCRIC. Indeed, as described above, physicians representing practice groups which constituted a majority of the revenue included in Mr. Ben Ezra's analysis testified at trial that they left Columbia for reasons having nothing to do with NCRIC. See supra pp. 8-12. Second, at the time when Mr. Ben Ezra came up with the 30 percent marginal-cost assumption, it was based on a hypothetical example in a textbook, not on any actual data concerning Columbia that Mr. Ben Ezra knew about.

Mr. Ben Ezra's analysis was further distorted by the use of inaccurate data that he did not check. If fact, some of the data he used was inconsistent with data provided by Columbia in its audited financial statements. Specifically, as W. McKay Henderson, a partner in PricewaterhouseCoopers testified, the revenue figures Mr. Ben Ezra generated for Columbia did not tie with the figures contained in Columbia's audited financial statements and in its tax returns.

Courts regularly reject proffered expert testimony when the testimony is speculative and based on assumptions not supported by the record. See, e.g., Tyger Constr. Co. v. Pensacola Constr. Co., 29 F.3d 137, 142 (4th Cir. 1994); Bell v. Dow Chem. Co., 847 F.2d 1179 (5th Cir. 1988) (affirming summary judgment where expert testimony of relevant antitrust market rested on an erroneous assumption of fact); Mowery v. Standard Oil Co., 463 F. Supp. 762, 773 n.14 (N.D. Ohio 1976) ("[e]xpert testimony given without reference to the facts in evidence is clearly insufficient . . ."), aff'd, 590 F.2d 335 (6th Cir. 1978). Given the complete absence of competent evidence to support the underlying data on which Mr. Ben Ezra relied, the Court should have excluded his calculations in their entirety.

2. Mr. Ben Ezra Failed to Apply Generally Accepted Accounting Techniques.

The methodology relied on by an expert must be "generally accepted," Ibn-Tamas, 407 A.2d at 638, and the data underlying that methodology must be "of a type reasonably relied upon by experts in the particular field." In re Melton, 597 A.2d 892, 901-02 (D.C. 1991) (en banc). Mr. Ben Ezra purported to use a discounted cash flow analysis in his presentation to the jury. While such a methodology, if properly applied, is based on sound economic principles, Mr. Ben Ezra's application of it was fundamentally unreasonable and unreliable and thus should have been excluded. See KW Plastics v. United States Can Co., 131 F. Supp. 2d 1289, 1292 (M.D. Ala. 2001) (excluding expert's calculation of lost profits, which was based on "impermissibly flawed" application of "sound economic principles").

As noted above, Mr. Ben Ezra simply assumed, with no record basis whatsoever, that the hospital's change in revenue from decreased admissions for specified physicians from the year ending September 30, 2000 to the year ending September 30, 2001 would be constant for the following twenty years. See 2/3/04 Tr. at 355. There are several obvious reasons why that assumption is hopelessly inaccurate and thus does not qualify as generally accepted. First, if for any one of the selected physicians, the year ending September 30, 2000 was a particularly good year, then even if the physician stopped admitting at Columbia altogether after that date, using the year ending September 30, 2000 as the baseline would overstate lost cash flow because future years would most likely mirror an average year, not the abnormally high year. See 2/3/04 Tr. at 343-44. Second, Mr. Ben Ezra assumed that all of the decrease in revenue for the year ending September 30, 2001 for the specified doctors who reduced admissions to Columbia was caused by NCRIC. See 2/3/04 Tr. at 338-40. That analytical assumption ignores the fact that admissions naturally vary from year to year. Thus if a physician had a particularly bad year for the year ending September 30, 2001, that bad year would be assumed to continue indefinitely into the future, and to have been caused by NCRIC. Third, Mr. Ben Ezra assumed that, absent NCRIC's alleged tortious conduct, patient admissions for the selected physicians would have been the same for each of the next twenty years. But given the dire financial straits of the hospital, Mr. Ben Ezra should have assumed some greater attrition in affiliated physicians than the hospital had seen in the past. Under the circumstances, as Mr. Henderson testified, Mr. Ben Ezra's methodology simply could not be considered generally accepted.

D. The Court Should Recuse Itself Now and Order a New Trial Before a Different Judge.

The Court should have recused itself based on the Judge's extended treatment by a physician who was closely affiliated with Columbia, and was a partner of the Chairman of the Board of Columbia Hospital, Dr. Safa Rifka – who was Columbia's principal witness. During cross-examination, Dr. Rifka was asked about monetary benefits he and his practice group obtained from Columbia over the years. See Affidavit of Rodney F. Page ("Page Aff.") ¶ 3 (attached as Exhibit 6). Dr. Rifka testified that he was a partner in Columbia Fertility Associates with other physicians that had practiced at Columbia for years and had received numerous financial benefits from the hospital, including free office space and other amenities. See 2/2/04 Tr. at 226-28. When asked to identify his partners, Dr. Rifka named Dr. Maurice Butler, and confirmed that Dr. Butler had practiced with him for many years and shared in the financial benefits Columbia Fertility Associates had received from Columbia. Page Aff. ¶ 3.

During voir dire, the parties had specifically requested, and the Court had agreed, to ask prospective juror questions concerning treatment by specified doctors including Dr. Rifka as well as treatment at Columbia. See Page Aff. ¶ 6. The Judge at the time did not disclose her treatment. Rather, the Judge for the first time, in the middle of Dr. Rifka's testimony, informed counsel that Dr. Butler had been her physician for several years. The Judge stated that she had been treated by him in the practice group in which Dr. Rifka was the principal partner. Id. ¶ 5. On that day and on the next morning of trial, the Court revealed further that the treatment had extended over a significant period of time and had included treatment at Columbia Hospital itself. Id. On February 4, 2004, NCRIC moved that the Court recuse itself based on the information revealed, id. ¶ 7, but the Court denied the motion. NCRIC renews it now.

Canon 3(E)(1) of the Code of Judicial Conduct states "'[a] judge shall disqualify himself or herself in a proceeding in which the judge's impartiality might reasonably be questioned.'" York v. United States, 785 A.2d 651, 655 (D.C. 2001). D.C. Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 63-I provides for the disqualification of a judge due to personal bias or prejudice against either party or in favor of any adverse party.[4]

It is well established that actual bias or prejudice is unnecessary before recusal is required under the Canons; rather, the Court need only conclude that the facts "'might reasonably cause an objective observer to question the [judge's] impartiality.'" Gibson v. United States, 792 A.2d 1059, 1068 (D.C. 2002) (quoting Liljeberg v. Health Servs. Acquisition Corp., 486 U.S. 847, 865 (1988)). "Thus, even if there is no bias in fact, an appearance of bias or prejudice requires recusal if it is sufficient to raise a question in the mind of 'the average citizen' about the judge's impartiality." Gibson, 792 A.2d at 1068 (quoting York, 785 A.2d at 655). A judge's failure to recuse when there is an appearance of bias or lack of impartiality requires the grant of a new trial. See Scott v. United States, 559 A.2d 745, 749 (D.C. 1989); In re J.A., 601 A.2d 69, 79 (D.C. 1991); Belton v. United States, 581 A.2d 1205, 1213-15 (D.C. 1990); Turman v. United States, 555 A.2d 1037, 1039 (D.C. 1989); Gibson, 792 A.2d at 1068; In re Evans, 411 A.2d 984, 993 (D.C. 1980); In re Bell, 373 A.2d 232, 234 (D.C. 1977).

[4] The pretrial procedure of filing an affidavit asserting bias has been held to be inapplicable in cases where the alleged bias is unknown to the party until it is discovered during trial. See In re J.A., 601 A.2d 69 (D.C. 1991); see also York v. United States, 785 A.2d 651 (D.C. 2001). As noted above, attached as Exhibit 6 is the Affidavit of Rodney F. Page asserting the claims made here, as well as the required certificate of good faith.

The doctor-patient relationship between the Judge and Dr. Butler created, at a minimum, an appearance of impropriety that should have led to recusal. Indeed, in other cases, judges have recused for just this reason. See, e.g., Rose v. Fiedler, 855 So. 2d 122, 123 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2003) (judge recused after becoming a patient of physician-defendant); Berdyck v. Shinde, 713 N.E.2d 1098, 1106 (Ohio Ct. App. 1998) (judge recused because his wife previously had been patient of physician-defendant); Sullivan v. Baptist Mem'l Hosp.-Golden Triangle, Inc., 722 So.2d 675, 678 n.8 (Miss. 1998) (judge recused because he and members of his family had been treated by physician-plaintiff). The often intensely personal nature of the doctor-patient relationship is well recognized by society, courts and citizens. Particularly in light of the nature and length of the Court's course of treatment, the physician-patient relationship in these circumstances is especially strong. The facts here might reasonably cause an objective observer to question the Court's impartiality. Gibson, 792 A.2d at 1068 (quoting Liljeberg, 486 U.S. at 865). Accordingly, the Court should recuse itself and order a new trial.

E. In the Alternative, the Court Could Grant a New Trial Subject to a Remittitur.

Under District of Columbia law, a trial judge has broad discretion to order a new trial subject to a remittitur when a jury's damage award "'is so inordinately large as obviously to exceed the maximum limit of a reasonable range within which the jury may properly operate.'" Capitol Hill Hosp. v. Jones, 532 A.2d 89, 93 n.13 (D.C. 1987) (quoting Phillips v. District of Columbia, 458 A.2d 722, 724 (D.C. 1983)). "When a party moves to strike a verdict as excessive, the trial court must consider whether that verdict resulted from passion, prejudice, mistake, oversight, or consideration of improper elements." Finkelstein v. District of Columbia, 593 A.2d 591, 596 (D.C. 1991) (en banc) (affirming remittitur based on trial court's conclusion that the award likely resulted from the jury trying to send the D.C. Jail a message in response to the testimony it heard about jail conditions). See also District of Columbia v. Jackson, 810 A.2d 388 (D.C. 2002) (upholding trial court's remittitur of compensatory damage award from $2.5 million to $180,000 in wrongful death action on the grounds that the award was out of proportion to decedent's pain and suffering).

Remittitur would be appropriate here for three reasons. First, even assuming the jury credited Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony, which NCRIC contends should never have been admitted, see supra p. 13, the award of $13 million in pre-closing damages cannot be supported by his testimony. Mr. Ben Ezra estimated the lost cash flow from October 1, 2000 to September 30, 2002 – which is four months after the hospital closed, to be only $4,914,574.23. Moreover, of the 24 physicians and three practice groups whose admissions data he used for his computations, NCRIC (through the testimony of Drs. Blank, Johnson, and Dukes) introduced uncontroverted evidence showing that 13 physicians left for reasons unrelated to NCRIC, and that these 13 represented two-thirds of the cash flow Columbia claimed it lost. Thus Mr. Ben Ezra's calculation must be discounted by two-thirds, which produces a lost-cash-flow estimate for the two years of $1,638,191.41. Even that number overstates the evidence, because the hospital closed in May 2002, not September 30, 2002.

Second, Columbia's repeated inflammatory claims that, for example, when Columbia was "sick," NCRIC cavalierly "just put it out of its misery," 2/10/2004 Tr. at 133-34; that NCRIC was "the 800 pound insurance guerilla," id. at 109, and its Chief Executive Officer's testimony "sounds pretty slick," id. at 118, as well as by its request for huge punitive damages totaling almost $60 million, likely misled the jury to believe that such astronomical damages would be proper in this case. Columbia compounded its appeal to passion by grossly misstating NCRIC's annual earnings. During closing argument, Columbia's counsel stated that NCRIC "earned" "$59 million . . . in [the] nine months ending September, 2003." 2/10/2004 Tr. at 136-37. In fact, NCRIC's public financial statements show its net income for that period totaled only $1.4 million, which is a mere 2.4 percent of the amount Columbia claimed NCRIC earned. See Def. Exhibit 71B p. 13. Particularly given how weak Columbia's damages evidence actually was, a remittitur would be in order here to correct a clearly excessive damage award.

Third, as for the $5 million in post-closing damages, those funds should be stricken for two reasons. First, Columbia's counterclaim nowhere includes these post-hospital-closing damages, and Columbia cannot invent new theories for liability for the first time at trial. See infra at p. 29. Second, because the $5 million appropriation represents gross revenue, not the actual net revenue lost by the hospital due to its failure to receive a congressional appropriation, it is too speculative to support a damages award. See infra at p. 28-29.

Moreover, the amount of the appropriation that forms the basis of this award was not $5 million, as testified to at trial by Dr. Rifka and argued in closing by Columbia's counsel.

16d-003146

See 2/2/2004 Tr. at 175 (testimony); 2/10/2004 Tr. at 132-33 (closing argument).[5] In fact, Congress had appropriated only $4 million for the hospital. See Departments of Labor, Health & Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2002, Pub. L. 107-116, 115 Stat. 2177, 2187 (Jan. 10, 2002) ("2002 Appropriations Act"); Sierra Club v. Callaway, 499 F.2d 982, 989-90 (5th Cir. 1974) (court may take judicial notice of congressional appropriation); United States v. Chrysler Corp., 157 F. Supp. 2d 849, 860 n.19 (N.D. Ohio 2001) (same). "A trial judge may reduce a damage award when 'it is apparent as a matter of law that certain identifiable sums included in the verdict should not have been there.'" Pratt v. University of the District of Columbia, 691 A.2d 158, 159 (D.C. 1997) (citation omitted). Thus, at a minimum, the Court should grant a remittitur as to this $1 million.

II. NCRIC IS ENTITLED TO JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW.

NCRIC renews its previous motions for judgment as a matter of law. See Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 50(b).

A. The Evidence, Even When Viewed in Columbia's Favor, Did Not Satisfy the Legal Elements of Tortious Interference With Business Relations.

Even viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to Columbia, Columbia has failed to prove two essential elements necessary to establish tortious interference with business relations: (1) the existence of a valid business relationship; and (2) intentional interference causing a breach or termination of the relationship. See Sheppard, 59 F. Supp. 2d at 34.

---

[5] Columbia requested $21.5 million in its closing consisting of three components: $13 million in lost revenue from attending-faculty physicians, $3.5 million in bankruptcy costs, and an unspecified amount for the congressional appropriation. 2/10/2004 Tr. at 132-33. Deducting the other two components from the $21.5 million requested leaves $5 million for the congressional appropriation, which is the amount as to which Dr. Rifka testified. While Columbia included this amount in its "pre-closing" request, the jury properly labeled it damages for the period "after the hospital closed," Verdict form at 3, because Columbia contended it did not receive the funds because of its closure.

16d-003147

Because failure to prove any one of these elements defeats Columbia's claim, NCRIC is entitled to judgment as a matter of law on the tortious-interference claim.

1. The Evidence Failed to Establish "Egregious" or Otherwise Wrongful Conduct that Would Qualify as Tortious Interference.

NCRIC is entitled to judgment as a matter of law because the evidence, even when viewed in Columbia's favor, fails to show that NCRIC engaged in the sort of egregious or otherwise wrongful conduct that would qualify as "interference" for purposes of a tortious interference claim. As this Court itself previously recognized, to prevail on this claim, the law required Columbia to prove "egregious" or otherwise wrongful conduct such as "libel, slander, physical coercion, fraud, misrepresentation, or disparagement." Order Denying NCRIC's Motion for Summary Judgment at 10; see generally pp. 4-8, supra.

At trial Columbia attempted to satisfy its burden to prove improper conduct by arguing that NCRIC committed defamation, fraud, misrepresentation and disparagement, as alleged in various of its other counterclaims. All of these counterclaims, however, were dismissed by this Court as a matter of law, because as to all of them Columbia failed to carry its burden of proof. For example, Columbia argued that Dr. Leonard Glassman, a physician on NCRIC's Board, made a statement "to the effect that doctors might need to think about moving their practice someplace else if they weren't able to continue under the Retro Plan." 2/10/04 Tr. at 65. The Court rejected Columbia's defamation claim premised on those statements because the record did not contain "a clear causal connection . . . to show exactly who the statement was made to, under what circumstances, and for what purpose . . . ." Id. at 66. Columbia's failed claims cannot, as a matter of law, qualify as wrongful conduct that could give rise to a tortious-interference claim.

16d-003148

The other conduct Columbia claimed was intentional inference with business relations included routine business conduct – such as NCRIC's notifications of the applicability of NCRIC insurance to its physician-insureds working for the Columbia Physicians Group, and its billing of its physician-insureds who had participated in the Retro Plan. Those entirely proper – and indeed, as shown by the evidence at trial, contractually required – actions cannot qualify as improper conduct sufficient for a tortious-interference claim. Because NCRIC had an ongoing business relationship with the physicians whose conduct it is accused of interfering with, NCRIC quite properly gave its physician-insureds notifications, information and advice concerning the future status of subsidies under the Retro Plan, as well as of the risks of practicing at a financially unstable hospital. See Restatement (Second) Torts § 769 (1979)(no intentional interference for specified types of communications with third parties in whom an actor has a financial interest). Similarly, any decision to let the Retro Plan end cannot serve as a basis for a tortuous-interference claim because allowing a contract to expire without renewing it is not a tortious act – and certainly not an "egregious" act. No one claims that either NCRIC or Columbia was legally obligated to renew the Retro Plan after September 30, 2000 – and indeed evidence at trial showed that Columbia, not NCRIC, was the party that decided not to renew the Plan.

In short, the conduct Columbia relied upon does not qualify as any independent tort. Columbia failed to provide any other basis to conclude that NCRIC's actions were wrongful or otherwise improper. Indeed, even if Columbia could support its claim that NCRIC engaged in a strategy to encourage its physician-insureds to stop practicing at Columbia, Columbia provided no evidence that NCRIC was not lawfully and properly entitled or required to do so under its contracts with its physician-insureds and with Columbia. Thus Columbia's argument concerning NCRIC's plans to assist physician-insureds in moves to other hospitals, 2/10/04 Tr. at 107, does not support its tortious interference claim because NCRIC had a legitimate business interest in assisting and retaining its customers if its customers decided to practice at other hospitals. Indeed, as NCRIC's Senior Vice President Steve Fargis testified, NCRIC was required by the D.C. Department of Insurance to notify its physician-insureds, for example, concerning an increase in their premiums. Further, the contract permitted NCRIC to bill physicians the full amount of their premiums if the Retro Plan was terminated. Under these circumstances, the evidence fails as a matter of law to support a tortious-interference claim. FutureSource LLC, 312 F.3d at 284 (rejecting tortious interference claim premised on defendant's provision of truthful information to customers to whom defendant owed contractual duties); United Educ. Distribs., LLC v. Educational Testing Serv., 564 S.E.2d 324 (S.C. Ct. App. 2002) (no intentional interference absent evidence to suggest any purpose or motive by the defendant other than the proper pursuit of its own contractual rights with third parties).

2. The Evidence Failed to Establish a Legally Protected Business Relationship.

The business relationship as to which Columbia claimed NCRIC interfered was Columbia's relationship with "attending faculty"; physicians who participated in the NCRIC Retro Plan. Under the assumptions urged by Columbia, these physicians would be expected routinely to admit their patients to Columbia for the balance of their careers. They would do so year after year, and the hospital expected that each of the attending physicians would continue to do so for the indefinite future. Yet it is undisputed in the record, and Columbia does not and cannot dispute, that these attending faculty physicians had no written or oral contract requiring them to admit even one future patient to Columbia. They were absolutely free at any time to stop admitting patients to Columbia for any reason or for no reason at all.

Columbia's relationship with these attending faculty physicians simply was not the sort of business relationship as to which the common-law tort of tortious interference with business relations is designed to protect. Even when an employee has an at-will employment contract with an employer, such a relationship does not necessarily give rise to a "specific, future relationship" sufficient to predicate a tortious interference claim. See e.g., Sheppard, 59 F. Supp. 2d at 34. In this case, the attending faculty did not even have an at-will employment relationship with the hospital. Any expectation on the part of the hospital would not even be as specific as the at-will employment relationship found to be inadequate in Sheppard.

B. Columbia Failed to Prove Non-Speculative Damages Resulting From the Alleged Tortious Interference.

Columbia's tortious-interference claim fails as a matter of law for the separate and independent reason that all of the damages Columbia claims to have suffered are entirely speculative. See Pratt v. University of District of Columbia, 691 A.2d at 159 ("A jury verdict may not rest on speculation as to damages."). Both the award of $13 million for pre-closing lost-cash flow damages and the $5 million post-closing award for a missed congressional appropriation also lack the requisite certainty to support a judgment.

Columbia's $13 million pre-closure damages award is inherently speculative and is therefore, as a matter of law, insufficient. A request for lost profits (or in this case, lost cash flow) will be rejected as too speculative unless a party can prove its damages "to a reasonable degree of certainty." R & A, Inc. v. Kozy Korner, Inc., 672 A.2d 1062, 1068 (D.C. 1996) (internal citation omitted); accord Garcia v. Llerena, 599 A.2d 1138, 1143 (D.C. 1991); Bedell v. Inver Housing, Inc., 506 A.2d 202, 206 (D.C. 1986) (rejecting lost-profits claim premised on "vague, unsubstantiated statement" by trial witness). In Garcia, the Court of Appeals held that an estimate of lost profits was too speculative when it was premised on an estimate that the party's "net return was approximately a third" of his gross revenue. 599 A.2d at 1143. Similarly here, Mr. Ben Ezra estimated marginal costs – which is another term for the "net return" in Garcia, – to be 30 percent of collections even though he had no data from Columbia to support that figure when he came up with it. See supra p. 16. The Court of Appeals in Garcia rejected the "net return" estimate because the party "did not lay any foundation or identify any source for the formula . . . relied upon in estimating . . . net returns." Id. at 1144. So too should Columbia's net cash flow estimates be rejected because Columbia laid no foundation for the 30-percent figure relied on by Columbia when requesting pre-closing damages from the jury. See 2/10/2004 Tr. at 132.

16d-003151

Moreover, any estimate of lost future revenue would be particularly speculative because, as Dr. Rifka conceded at trial, 2/2/04 Tr. at 205-07, Columbia lost money every year since he joined the board in 1996 until it closed. Columbia had a receiver appointed in 1997. Columbia declared bankruptcy in 1998. Even assuming NCRIC engaged in wrongful conduct, which it did not, when the hospital's insolvency from causes independent of NCRIC would have either forced it to shut its doors or made conditions at the hospital so unbearable that attending faculty stopped admitting patients there is a matter of pure speculation. Under these circumstances, Columbia's projections of lost revenue as a result of NCRIC are, as a matter of law, too speculative to support judgment for Columbia.

Finally, the $5 million in post-closing damages for a congressional appropriation[6] is inherently speculative because Columbia made no attempt at all to estimate the damages it actually suffered when, after it closed, it did not receive these funds. The 2002 Appropriations

[6] In closing argument, Columbia's counsel referred to this amount as pre-closing damages, but the jury appropriately characterized it as post-closing. See supra p. 22-23 n. 5.

Act specified that Columbia was to receive the funds "to support community outreach programs for women." 115 Stat. at 2187. Of course, because Columbia closed and did not receive these funds, it did not incur any expenses with regard to providing outreach services. Any financial harm to the hospital would be the net revenue lost, i.e. the amount of the congressional appropriation minus the money not spent by the hospital by not providing the "community outreach programs" post-closing. See e.g., R & A, Inc., 672 A.2d at 1068 (deducting "primary variable expenses" from "gross sales" to arrive at the "lost profit" damages estimate). Because Columbia did not even attempt to provide a basis for that calculation, the $5 million post-closing damages award should be stricken as a matter of law.

C. The $5 Million Post-Hospital-Closing Damages Should Be Stricken as a Matter of Law because they were Not Pleaded in Columbia's Counterclaim.

The $5 million post-hospital-closing damages should also be stricken because they were not included in Columbia's counterclaim. Columbia filed its Amended Counterclaim on January 5, 2001. In paragraph 128, it listed the damages it claims to have suffered from NCRIC's alleged tortious interference as "loss of revenue resulting from loss of patient referrals." The congressional appropriation Columbia claims it could not access was a 2002 appropriation, and Dr. Rifka testified that Columbia could not access it because of the hospital's closure in 2002. See 2/2/2004 Tr. at 175. Those damages, of course, were not included in Columbia's January 2001 counterclaim.

When new claims for damages arise after the close of the pleadings, a party must request the court's permission to add the new claim by filing a motion to supplement the pleadings. See Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 15(d). When a party fails to do so, it cannot then seek recovery for the post-pleading damages that were not included in the party's pleading. See Wagner v. Professional Eng'rs in Calif. Gov't, 354 F.3d 1036, 1052 (9th Cir. 2004) (applying equivalent federal rule and denying request for damages accruing after the date of the amended complaint); Young-Henderson v. Spartanburg Area Mental Health Ctr., 945 F.2d 770, 775 (4th Cir. 1991) ("As a general rule, facts accruing after the suit is brought may not be inserted by way of amendment but must be added by supplemental pleading.").

While the parties may, by consent, allow an issue not raised in the pleadings to be tried without requiring amendment to the pleadings, Super. Ct. Civ. R. 15(b), here NCRIC specifically objected to the inclusion of this evidence. See 2/2/2004 Tr. at 174, 175-76. NCRIC was prejudiced by the inclusion of this evidence because it was denied a reasonable opportunity to conduct discovery about it. It specifically moved for supplemental discovery (which would have included post-closing damages), but the Court denied the motion. See Order denying NCRIC's Motion to Enlarge the Time for Discovery, docketed April 7, 2003. That ruling was compounded by Columbia's counsel's instructions during the Rule 30(b)(6) deposition of Columbia directing the witness not to answer questions concerning such damages. Thus Columbia refused to permit NCRIC to take discovery on this damages claim and then presented the claim for the first time at trial.

Columbia contended it was damaged when, in May 2002, the hospital closed and it could not access a congressional appropriation. Waiting eighteen months to raise this issue is not the "reasonable notice and upon such terms as are just" that Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 15(d) contemplates.

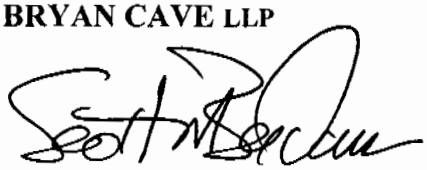
CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, NCRIC respectfully requests that the Court grant it a new trial. NCRIC also renews its requests for judgment as a matter of law in its favor on Columbia's tortious-interference-with-business-relations counterclaim.

ORAL ARGUMENT REQUESTED.

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP



Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar No. 435375
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(202) 508-6116 telephone
(202) 508-6200 facsimile

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: March 5, 2004

16d-003155

EXHIBIT 1

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Next Event: Pretrial Conference -- July 31, 2003
Defendant.

NCRIC'S PROPOSED JURY INSTRUCTIONS

16d-003157

NCRIC Proposed Jury Instructions No.15

TORTIOUS INTERFERENCE WITH BUSINESS RELATIONS/TORTIOUS INTERFERENCE WITH PROSPECTIVE BUSINESS ADVANTAGE

Intent

In order to prove that NCRIC tortiously interfered with Columbia's business relationships or prospective business advantage, you must find that NCRIC engaged in what is termed "egregious" conduct. You must find that any interference by NCRIC was wrongful by some measure beyond the fact of the interference itself. Obviously all interference by one business entity with another such as competition between competitors or related business entities is not illegal. In addition, it is insufficient that NCRIC may have possessed a general intent to interfere or possessed knowledge that its conduct may injure Columbia's business dealing. In these circumstances, you must find for NCRIC on both Columbia's tortious interference with business relations and tortious interference with prospective business advantage claims.

On the other hand, if you do find that NCRIC engaged in "egregious" conduct, you must find that Columbia has satisfied the intentional interference element of its tortious interference claims. "Egregious" conduct includes conduct such as libel, slander, physical coercion, fraud, misrepresentation or disparagement.

Source: Genetic Sys. Corp. v. Abbott Labs., 691 F. Supp. 407, 422-23 (D.D.C. 1988); Bennett Enters., Inc. v. Domino's Pizza, Inc., 45 F.3d 493, 499, 310 U.S. App. D.C. 192, 198 (D.C. Cir. 1995).

EXHIBIT 2

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Next Event: Pretrial Conference -- July 31, 2003.
Defendant.

NCRIC'S PROPOSED VERDICT FORMS

Pursuant to Superior Court Rule 16 and the Court's General Order regarding pretrial procedures, Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc., submits the following proposed verdict forms.

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP

Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar No. 435375
Margaret G. Perl, D.C. Bar No. 472003
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005
(202) 508-6116

Roy I. Niedermayer (D.C. Bar No. 180380)
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, Maryland 20814

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: July 24, 2003

EXHIBIT 3

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,

Plaintiff/
Counter-Defendant,

v. : Civil Action No. 7308-00

COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,

Defendant/
Counter-Plaintiff.

Washington, D. C.

Monday, February 2, 2004

The above-entitled action came on for a jury trial before the Honorable ANNA BLACKBURN-RIGSBY, Associate Judge, in Courtroom Number 48-A.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS HER ORIGINAL NOTES AND RECORDS OF TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

APPEARANCES:

On behalf of the Plaintiff:

RODNEY PAGE, Esquire
SCOTT M. BADAMI, Esquire

On behalf of the Defendant:

NEIL GORSUCH, Esquire
ELI SCHULMAN, Esquire
PRIYA AIYAR, Esquire

DONNA K. HAWKINS
Official Court Reporter Telephone: 879-1035

16d-003162

own and Mr. Wilson went with me to two of them to try to convince them or to try to merge with these non-for-profit entities.

Q Did anyone ever tell you they didn't want to merge with you because it was unsafe?

A No.

Q Was any other reason given other than the drop?

A Our drop in numbers made us not a good candidate to merge with a non-for-profit entity.

Q Did NCRIC's actions have any effect on Columbia's fund raising efforts?

A Yes, it did.

Q Did Columbia have a fund raising effort underway as part of your reorganization plan?

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, I object. This goes to damages which I would like to be heard on if we have a moment.

MR. GORSUCH: Personal knowledge, Your Honor.

MR. PAGE: It doesn't matter.

THE COURT: There was previous testimony and I will allow the witness to answer.

THE WITNESS: We had a Board, a Hospital Board, and the Board's job was to do fund raising events and fund raising from the community.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q Did you seek money from Congress?

16d-003163

A I did.

Q Were you able to get money from Congress?

A I was.

Q How much?

A It was for Columbia's Outreach Program, the money, the service that we do to the community because we have done it for about more than half a century for free. And now we felt we need some help from Congress and we were getting five million dollars for the year of 2001 and five million dollars for the year 2002.

Q Were you ever able to use that second year's money?

A The second year we were not able to access it. It closed.

Q Did you have private funding underway in 2000?

A Yes, we did.

Q What was planned?

A Many events planned to solicit corporations and private donors and it was planned to go to the community and raise funds. And all of this was the task of the Development Board that I have a seat on.

Q And how much were you expecting to raise with these fund raising efforts?

MR. PAGE: Objection. Counsel would ask to approach, please.

(Bench conference.)

Laser stock form FMRRN
Lorry USA 1-800-255-5040

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, my objection is that there are a series of items that one of them is lost fund raising, for example, In discovery in this case when Dr. Rifka was deposed, he was prevented from answering questions about how much money was lost on the grounds that they have an expert who would testify. And the witness was instructed not to answer questions as to how much the losses were calculated for any damages and instead, here is an insert from Mr. Rifka's deposition where he's instructed by counsel that he's not to prescribe the calculations and damages because it's a different witness. He says Dr. Wilson -- it turns out he did the same thing with Larry Wilson on the 26B4 statement with respect to all of these damages including lost fund raising activities.

Now, it's one thing for him to testify that he planned to have a fund raiser, but the intent here is to go into dollar amounts lost. They can't do that because only they stopped us from discovery and they made no disclosure. And Peter Ben Ezra did his report saying I haven't done that calculation. And so our view is they have waived that. They can't now surprise us at trial with dollar numbers that we have never heard, and that's what they are driving at.

MR. GORSUCH: This is a limited motion at best that should have been filed. The fact this is a fact witness and he has personal knowledge. And Peter Ben Ezra --

16d-003165
Laser stock FORM FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

Q Now, Doctor, you would certainly agree that the hospital never was able to make money in any fiscal year while you were associated with it?

A Associated in what capacity?

Q Any capacity?

A No, this is not a true sentence.

Q Well, let's go back over it. Let's start at the time you joined the Board.

A Yes.

Q And if I recall your testimony correctly, you joined the Board sometime in 1996; is that right?

A That's correct.

Q Because you had been elected as an officer of the medical staff?

A I was elected president of the medical staff which automatically gained me a spot on the Board of Directors.

Q And at the time you joined the Board, it was losing money; right?

A In '96 to my recollection they are losing money.

Q And the fiscal year of the hospital was from June to June?

A Correct.

Q Or the year ended on June 30th of each year, the fiscal year?

16d-003166

A Yes.

Q And it lost money again in the Fiscal Year 1997; isn't that right?

A Yes.

Q And it lost money in Fiscal Year 1998?

A It was in bankruptcy.

Q It lost money in Fiscal Year 1999?

A Yes.

Q And in Fiscal Year 2000 ending on June 30th of 2000, it lost money again?

A We lost less and we were making some money in 2000. If you look carefully, you will find that there is a month or two where we earned or scored a profit. And we were turning the corner. We were on our way up. Our admissions were up and we were making some money. Our cost-cutting measures had taken effect and our LMO Reorganization for reimbursement which were going up. We have already opened suites up on the fourth floor. We widened our services so we put in a Medical Center and we put in an Endoscopy Center and we did a lot of changes that were showing in a positive way in around June of 2000 because in a hospital you cannot microwave events. You have to take it slowly.

Q Let's look at those minutes again from June 27th, the ones you have in front of you.

A And the number is what?

16d-003167

Q Exhibit 35. We talked about it a minute ago. The same Minutes had a financial report on the same page that there was a discussion about the NCRIC Retrospective Plan. Do you see that, sir?

A Yes.

Q Look under the President's Report. The president was Mr. Wilson; correct?

A Yes.

Q He reported that for the period ending April 30th, the loss for that month was one million, two hundred and thirty thousand dollars; right?

A Correct.

Q He also said you were in a very tight cash position; right?

A We never said that we owned a bank.

Q And in fact, the reason you could not accept the proposal from NCRIC to pay seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars is that you didn't have enough cash?

A No, because your numbers were wrong. You cooked the books. You rigged the data and you're mandating us to pay money that we don't owe you. You have done this two other occasions. You have done this in '97 when you presented us with a bill of 1.7 million dollars only from your own generosity to squeeze it down to one million. Money that was not due you. You took it from us at the

16d-003168

A This is it. Melinda Murray left, I think, in '96 or early '97. Probably in '96 she left. That was the last in-house lawyer that Columbia had.

Q You also had a lawyer named Barbara Hutch; did you not?

A Barbara Hutch was a Risk Management. She was hired as a Risk Manager. Not as a lawyer.

Q So these were the employees of the hospital that were to give you advice on insurance and Risk Management; these lawyers?

A Risk Management.

Q Now, you yourself were recruited to come to Columbia Hospital sometime in the early nineties; right?

A No.

Q Did I have the date wrong?

A What's the date?

Q Sometime around 1990 you were recruited to come to the hospital; am I right about that?

A No.

Q What date?

A 1986.

Q But you were recruited; right?

A I was recruited.

Q And in fact, you were given a contract to bring your Infertility Clinic to the hospital?

16d-003169

A I didn't have a clinic. I was given a contract for Columbia and the contract was very simple. Columbia had recruited me from Georgetown because at that time the Georgeton-Columbia affiliation was terminated and they gave me an offer to come to Columbia under a contract which if you want me to explain I will explain. If not, then you ask me.

Q Well, the contract paid you a sum of 1.1 million dollars a year?

A The contract didn't pay me anything. I paid myself. These are my patients. The contract was Columbia will pay for my nurses and will pay for my rent and will pay for collection of my money. And I practiced in my own private practice. Columbia took forty percent first, initially thirty percent, and gave me seventy percent, and then that contract you're referring to in the nineties was forty percent for Columbia and sixty percent for me. And so they are collecting my own money from my own patients frdm my own practice from all over the world. Columbia was not paying me. I was paying myself and I was paying Columbia a percentage of it. And I was paying myself through my pratice insurance from you guys, NCRIC. I was paying my health insurance and I had my own retirement plan and I met all the safe harbor of the IRS for all independent contractors and that contract was terminated later

16d-003170

Laser Stock Form FMRRN
COPY USA 1-800-255-5040

on in 1999.

Q You received throughout this time office space from Columbia?

A For the forty percent that they took from me in their own professional building, they provided me with office space, nursing support, collection. And I gave them forty percent of the money that I made.

Q No other doctor --

A And I paid for my malpractice and I paid for my health insurance and I paid for my retirement plan separately. Separate from Columbia.

Q And no other doctors had that arrangement with Columbia Hospital, did they?

A Yes, there was another doctor, at least that I know of, who had that arrangement.

Q And that doctor was Dr. Asterbadi?

A No, that doctor was Dr. Richard Fault (phonetic) who was the second guy in the Fertility Division.

Q Now, let me ask you a little bit about the description you described in the hospital and cutting edge nature of it. You talked about it on Friday when you testified and you referred to certain microscopes and various instruments. What you were describing, Doctor, was equipment that is necessary for your infertility work; correct?

16d-003171

EXHIBIT 4

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

- - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - -x

NCRIC, INC.,

Plaintiff/
Counter-Defendant,

v. : Civil Action No. 7308-00

COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,

Defendant/
Counter-Plaintiff.

- - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - -x

Washington, D. C.

Tuesday, February 3, 2004

The above-entitled action resumed for a jury trial before the Honorable ANNA BLACKBURN-RIGSBY, Associate Judge, in Courtroom Number 48-A.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS HER ORIGINAL NOTES AND RECORDS OF TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

APPEARANCES:

On behalf of the Plaintiff:

RODNEY PAGE, Esquire
SCOTT M. BADAMI, Esquire

On behalf of the Defendant:

NEIL GORSUCH, Esquire
ELI SCHULMAN, Esquire
PRIYA AIYAR, Esquire

DONNA K. HAWKINS
Official Court Reporter Telephone: 879-1035

16d-003173

isn't that correct?

A Yes, in my role as an advisor to the Board. Remember, I didn't have the responsibility to make the decision. I was just an advisor. I was an invited guest. I did ask questions, but it was not my decision.

Q All right. Your analysis depends in its entirety on an assumption that NCRCI caused these doctors to leave the hospital. That's a correct statement, isn't it?

A That is correct.

Q You're not here today to testify in any manner as to whether NCRIC was, in fact, responsible for any damages to the hospital; right?

A That is my understanding.

Q Your testimony is limited strictly to the calculation of damages; right?

A That is correct.

Q And you were given a list of doctors from your lawyers and you used that list of doctors to make your damage calculation; correct?

A That's correct. I received a list from the Kellogg Huber Hansrn law firm, who are my clients. I performed tests on that list and I called out some of the doctors, and the remaining doctors, I then used for the report.

Q If any of those doctors left the hospital for

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

reasons other than being considered or forced by NCRIC, then they should not be included in your analysis; correct?

A That is correct. That's why my report has it broken out by each individual doctor, so that if it turns out that Doctor X left for another reason, then that amount is in the report and it can be taken off the total line.

Q For example, Dr. Martin Dukes is one of the doctors you're calculating as a doctor who left because he was coerced by NCRIC and his patient load creates a calculation of damages; right?

A That is correct. However --

Q Now, you assumed, did you not, -- excuse me. Go ahead.

THE COURT: Did you finish your answer?

THE WITNESS: No, I did not. I know in the case of Dr. Martin Dukes, he was also on the Board of Columbia Hospital for Women and he was also on the Board of NCRIC. I'm also aware that he gets favorable rates from NCRIC because he only paid a part-time premium instead of a full-time premium. And yet it appeared to me that he was practicing full-time at Columbia like the rest of his peers.

Q And did that affect anything in your calculation?

A No, it did not.

Q You just assumed that he left because he was part

16d-003175

Laser stock Form FMRRN

Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

of a damage claim; correct?

A That is correct. That NCRIC was the cause of his departure.

Q So once again, if any of the doctors on this list, in fact were motivated by other reasons, you did not take that into account; correct?

A No, the doctors that are on the list for the final report, those twenty-four doctors and three practice units, okay, if it turned out that one or more of those doctors left for another reason other than NCRIC, then those should be called off that list and the report has the doctor's names. And so you can subtract that from the total. That's why I did it as a group as well as individually.

Q You made no independent verfication by going around to those doctors to find out why they had left the hospital, did you?

A That is correct. It's my understanding that my role was to calculate the damages and not to figure out the cause.

Q The data that you used and associated with each doctor's name came from the financial records of Columbia Hospital; right?

A It came from the Information Techology Department of the Hospital.

Q So it did not come from the financial records of that times twenty in your first analysis?

16d-003176

A No. Well, remember what I did. I took the arithmetic different. I adjusted it for collectibility basically a little over five percent reduction and then I took this amount and reduced it by another thirty percent, which is to take care of the marginal costs. And then that difference is what I used for my projections.

Q All right. I agree and I didn't mean to imply otherwise. You made the adjustments first, but then you multiplied times twenty once you obtained that number?

A I didn't multiply. As you see, I added.

Q I will take that.

A And what the graph that was shown or the chart that was shown up on the screen shows is the addition. That is actually off of an Excel spread sheet.

Q You made no effort to determine whether any of those doctors during those two years had any trend as a part of their admission pattern, though, did you?

A That is correct.

Q So, you don't know, for example, whether in time period No. 1, particular doctors may have been in either an increasing or decreasing pattern of their admissions to Columbia?

A That is correct.

Q You took no account of the fact that the doctors'

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

practices may have gone up and down at Columbia individually? You just assumed a single point in time from which you could project all of your damages; correct?

A That is correct.

Q And the data was available to you to determine what those doctors had sent to the hospital and patient load in earlier years, wasn't it?

A No, it was not.

Q You had the data for the year preceding the twelve months. Are you saying that data from the earlier time period was not also available to you, sir?

A Data was made available to me. However, when I saw the data, it was quite apparent to me that it was incomplete. I sent it back to the Information Techology people through my client. They tried to run it several different ways, but were unable to obtain the data, so that the other data was not available. I know it was incomplete and I will not use incorrect data.

Q So the hospital records --

A Excuse me, please.

Q I'm sorry. I thought you were finished. Go right ahead.

THE COURT: Sometimes it's not clear when you have completed, in all fairness to counsel.

THE WITNESS: Okay. If I had used the data that I doctors that admitted or used to admit to Columbia. There is no opinion as to the rest of the operating activites.

16d-003178

Q Now, you chose for your analysis a period of twenty years to project the lossess that you said were accrued; correct?

A For this analysis I used a twenty year period. Now, knowing what I know now, the hospital closing, I could have used a period far geater than twenty years.

Q Well, in fact, wouldn't the appropriate period have been eighteen months since that was all that the hospital stayed open?

A No, because -- and I'm not a cause witness, but --

Q Well, in that case, don't speculate about costs, sir.

MR. GORSUCH: I would ask him to be able to answer the question, please.

THE COURT: Well, the answer is appropriate only if it does not relate to causation issues.

THE WITNESS: Okay. If the hospital had the necessary cash to operate after a group of doctors had left or cut back on their admissions to Columbia, then Columbia would be in business today.

BY MR. GORSUCH:

Q You're not, in fact, rendering an opinion as to whether Columbia would have survived -- whether the doctors

Laser stock Form FMRRN
Corby USA 1-800-255-5040

EXHIBIT 5

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INCORPORATED Plaintiff	:
VS.	:	CIVIL ACTION NUMBER: CA-7318-00
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER Defendant.	:

Washington, D. C.
Tuesday, February 10th, 2004.

The above-entitled action came on for a Hearing before the Honorable ANNA BLACKBURN-RIGSBY, Associate Judge, in Courtroom Number 48-A at or about 9:30 o'clock a.m.

THIS TRANSCRIPT REPRESENTS THE PRODUCT OF AN OFFICIAL REPORTER, ENGAGED BY THE COURT, WHO HAS PERSONALLY CERTIFIED THAT IT REPRESENTS HIS ORIGINAL NOTES AND RECORDS OF TESTIMONY AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE CASE AS RECORDED.

RECEIVED
FEB 25 7 36 AM '04
SUPERIOR COURT
CRIMINAL DIVISION

APPEARANCES:

FOR THE PLAINTIFF:
RODNEY PAGE, SCOTT BADAMI, Esquire

FOR THE DEFENDANT:
LARRY WILSON, PRYIA AIYAR, Esquire
EPI SCHULMAN, NEAL GORSUCH, Esquire

DERRICK CONEY
OFFICIAL COURT REPORTER Telephone: 879-1053

negligent misrepresentation claim; with respect to the defamation and liable claim, with respect to the trade liable and injurious falsehood claim; and respect to the conversion claim.

All right. And I'm take each one of those in turn in a moment. In -- when this matter was breached in summary judgment, I expressed some concerns about the viability of the defamation claim at that time but indicated -- denied it at that time so we can could wait and see what the evidence at trial was.

And if the parties will recall there was, as proffered for purposes of summary judgment, that there would be testimony about certain statements made in Columbia's cafeteria, in addition to some additional statements that were allegedly made by Dr. Glassman. However, the evidence at trial did not yield what may have been anticipated at the point we were in summary judgment.

The only evidence that we have at trial is testimony about statements that were made by Dr. Glassman to some doctors at the hospital that may have been overheard and that I believe Dr. Rifka testified to. Statements to the effect that doctors might need to think about moving their practice someplace else if they weren't able to continue under the Retro Plan.

Columbia's interpretation is that those were statements specifically about the financial viability about Columbia Hospital which were not true statements. And NCRIC's interpretation or recollection is that statements did not -- at least as they were characterized by the witness at trial -- the statements did not relate specifically to Columbia Hospital but were the opinion of Dr. Glassman in a conversation with a few other doctors that was overheard by someone.

And the question is whether that rises to the level of defamation and/or liable, per say. And I think it requires too many leaps. That there hasn't been a clear causal connection made to show exactly who the statement was made to, under what circumstances, and for what purpose it was made.

And that that statement by Dr. Glassman was false or that that statement by Dr. Glassman was, in fact, the cause of financial harm and injury to Columbia Hospital.

I think it would require the jury to take too many leaps and connect too many dots that should have been connected by evidence specifically presented here at trial.

Similarly, the injurious falsehood claim, which is very similar to the defamation and liable per say damaging documents that show its motive. It's like an elephant in this room that it hopes you won't notice.

For example Defendant's Exhibit 37 where they admit that they had a plan of action to assist doctors in moving to other hospitals, absorbing them into Sibley Hospitals and creating a new program at G. W. and Georgetown as well.

And Defendant's 18 where Mr. Pate writes Columbia Hospital saying, you should understand that NCRIC contends to continuing providing its much needed insurance protection to the physicians in this program with or without the support of Columbia.

NCRIC also promised to show you that the doctors left because the hospital is unsafe or lacked equipment, but you heard Dr. McCants and Dr. Proctor and Dr. Cooper and Dr. Rifka all say that the doctors left because of insurance.

And you heard NCRIC's own Mr. Moore, $465 an hour expert, admit that Columbia in 2001 was a center of excellence. That it provided high quality health care services and cutting edge technology. We didn't pay for $465 an hour for him to testify to that effect. They did.

NCRIC will show you no documents. Not a single document suggesting that the doctors left because of a time when all the competitors were not. That losses were cut in half in one year. And you heard that the Bankruptcy Court had approved a turnaround plan that within 18 months left the hospital with a profit in June, 2000. Ladies and gentlemen, that's unrefuted testimony.

16d-003184

You heard from Mr. Page who said cash was tight at Columbia. We've never denied that. Of course, it was. That's true at every hospital in Washington. But the fact that Columbia turned a profit in June, 2000, is unrefuted.

So much for what NCRIC promised to deliver.

You've heard the evidence and you know that what NCRIC did to Columbia was bad. It wasn't a Retro Plan, it was a retribution plan.

Did you ever hear Mr. Page even try to defend here for you what they did to Columbia's clinic.

When the 800 pound insurance guerilla just didn't get its way, it decided to take what it called it's doctors and get them absorbed into other hospitals where it controlled the insurance business.

Let's talk about what the evidence really did show. Columbia made certain promises to you as well in opening statement and I think the record reflects that we delivered on them.

1996, Defense Exhibit 5, here it is. NCRIC and talk about the clinic.

Mr. Pate didn't want to talk about the clinic. NCRIC was willing to threaten Columbia's ability to serve the four. And in order to skis another $750,000 that it wanted for renewal of the contract. It's that simple and stark.

Mr. Pate asked you to believe, on cross examination, that the two day difference between the termination notice and the clinic notice was just a, quote, "coincidence ", but it's not connected in any way. That sounds pretty slick. But you heard Mr. Hempleman's deposition testimony when NCRIC didn't bring to this courtroom. And he told you that NCRIC had never done anything like this before in over 100 places like the clinic that NCRIC had insured.

Mr. Hempleman said he didn't know why his superiors wanted the clinic terminated but he was following orders. Think about that. Threatening a nonprofit suability to serve the community as a pressure tactic in negotiations like some overgrown sand pit bully picking on a small trusting kid.

NCRIC now says it cancelled the clinic policy because it learned in the Kessler Case that the trust fund was depleted. This is just so much more spent.

No such reason was provided in the termination

What did he stand to gain from that testimony?

This $40 statutory witness fee.

Dr. McCants said that five doctors left the clinic. A significant number of all faculty left after the Retro Plan cancelled.

Dr. Proctor said five doctors left the clinic and half the doctors left shortly after NCRIC cancelled the Retro Plan.

And Dr. Rifka, who stands nothing to gain here except for the dignity of the hospital, five doctors left the clinic and thirty doctors left after NCRIC cancelled the Retro Plan. That's what our witnesses say, but just don't believe them. Look at what NCRIC's witnesses actually said.

Dr. Blank personally left one month after NCRIC terminated the insurance policy. That's when he left. He's insured by NCRIC and he's had $690,000 in claims against him covered by NCRIC.

Dr. Dukes admits that one reason why he left Columbia was due to insurance. He sites other reasons, but he admits insurance was one reason.

He's a director of NCRIC.

He has $80,000 in free stock after telling you that he had very little free stock.

He gets $50,000 director free. He's being paid

$200 an hour for sitting here in this courtroom and he's insured by NCRIC.

Dr. Johnson: Well, she had to admit because of her own letter, Defendant's Exhibit 41, that she stopped working in the clinic because of lack of insurance.

Dr. Cook, who they didn't bring, another one of their own board members resigned his position to delight the specific malpractice coverage for work in the clinic. Defendant's Exhibit 46.

And even if you don't want to believe the doctors, believe Mr. Pate on this one. He said, in both his deposition testimony you heard and then on the stand, that 30 to 40 doctors left around this time and insurance was quote,"One reason."

Our witnesses, ladies and gentlemen, had no incentive to lie to you about this. Their's, however, have everything to lose.

There's were confronted too by their own prior inconsistent statements over and over again. You remember it. And when you do, consider the credibility of people like Mr. Moore, Mr. Henderson, Mr. Fargis, and Mr. Pate.

Second, beyond the witnesses look at the numbers. The numbers don't lie.

Remember Defendant's Exhibit 47, Mr. Page showed that to you in opening statement and asked you to look at the trend line. You can put that up. But he didn't ask you to look at the actual data points.

Well, we asked Mr. Moore to do that while he was on the stand during cross examination and he admitted quote " Something happened in September 2000c". Well, Mr. Moore was right about, at least, that much. Something did happen. And what happened was that Columbia's oxygen supply was cut off. Its doctors had left and had proceeded to die slow and painful death until 400 employees were laid off at the end of May, 2002.

Finally, besides the witnesses and the data, look at the documents. NCRIC has no explanation for Defendant's Exhibit 41, 46, or 52, contemporaneous letters showing that doctors left because of insurance.

NCRIC is not presented a single document siting any other cause. So when they pick at Peter Ben Ezra's list, look at these three factors: What the witnesses said, what the data says, and what the letter said. They all support that a lot of doctors left in September, 2000. Even Mr. Pate says 30 to 40.

Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, there have been more than a few untruths spoken in this courtroom over the last couple of weeks. I can't address them all insurance. We all know that didn't matter.

Now let's talk about the specific claims. First, let's talk about the breach of contract and the breach of duty of good faith and fair dealing.

For each of these claims we would seek two sorts of damages. First, we would like the security deposit back.

It was demanded back in 1997 before any years closed out and NCRIC said it was entitled to security because Columbia might some day owe it some money but it's's now seven years later and it's clear that NCRIC owes Columbia money for both of the years that closed out.

NCRIC has no basis for holding Columbia's money on the ground that some day, somewhere over the rainbow Columbia might owe it some money some day. Deposit, payment, credit, you've heard all the different liability they attached to it. Whatever it is, give it back.

The deal was to pay when the years closed out. There are only two years that are closed out. Columbia's owed money under both of those years and there's no basis for NCRIC holding on to Columbia's money.

And NCRIC is proven it is not a trustworthy custodian of Columbia's money.

Second: Under both of these claims, we also seek money for the correct calculation of a contract using the actual contract terms and giving NCRIC full credit for the partial payment it made for '93 and '94.

You saw Mr. Feldman in Defense Exhibit Number 85 means that the correct calculation of the contract means that Columbia's owed $559,797.67. And that's just for the years -- the two years that it closed out. Columbia's not seeking any money for open years. There's no guesswork in that number.

So for the breach of contract and the breach of duty of good faith and fair dealing, we ask you for $1,559,797.67, exactly. Not a penny more or less.

Now, let's talk about the two tortious interference claims you will consider.

Can there be any question that NCRIC intentionally interfered with the hospital's relationship with its doctors when it promised to engage in good faith negotiations even after they adopted a secret plan of action to move the doctors. And then proceeded to carry out that plan by sending out the Retro Plan termination notice; by sending out the clinic notice; by sending out the massive bills to intimidate doctors when its own chairman of the board told Columbia's doctors to pack their bags. And then, in a slap in the face, turned around and issued exclusions making it impossible for doctors to serve in Columbia's community clinic.

For that conduct, under both of the tortious interference counts you will be instructed about, we ask you for 21 -- $21.5 million for damages due to Columbia before the hospital closed. This is before the hospital closed.

You will hear that in the 22 months between July 2000 and May 2002, that's the amount of money we seek. And here's how we get that: You heard from Dr. Rifka and Mr. Moore that Columbia lost $10 million a year in revenue before versus after the doctors.

Mr. Moore was shown those numbers and he agreed that's what was in the IRS tax form.

Now, you also know from Peter Ben Ezra that you have to deduct marginal costs. And that those are 30 percent, using a conservative number that favors NCRIC. So you take 30 percent off of 10 million, that's $7 million a year.

Now, for 22 months that works out to be 13 million. Not 14, 13 million.

Plus you heard about the congressional funds that were appropriated and available from Congress ready for Columbia, but Columbia had closed and couldn't access them. That was money that was ready, sit there to go straight to the bottom line.

Plus, you heard about the bankruptcy fees.

You heard the million dollar payment was a major precipitating factor. And not a single witness is come in here to tell you about the contrary. Now, NCRIC knew Columbia was weak and still demanded that money anyway even though there had been no closing out of any years. And the only years to close out so for are all in Columbia's favor.

NCRIC was a substantial factor in causing that bankruptcy and it cannot evade responsibility for the losses it caused by pointing out that Columbia had other financial troubles, too.

The evidence about bankruptcy fees is between 1.5 and $3.5 million. So if you add up those numbers, that's the number we come to for what happened to Columbia before the doctors left and those numbers are basically uncontested.

Mr. Moore and Dr. Rifka agree that before versus after the doctors left was a $10 loss of revenue.

Let's a talk about what happened after the hospital died. We know that no doctors means no revenues for a hospital and that means no hospital. That the loss of 30 doctors meant that Columbia was dead.

NCRIC's expert, Mr. Moore, literally suggested the hospital was sick. So NCRIC could just put it out of its misery but notice none of their doctors said anything like that.

Dr. Dukes said it was the best place he had ever worked and Dr. Johnson said it was a loss to the community. It's not okay to murder a hospital even it wasn't in peak financial condition. So the question is for you how much.

There are two ways to get there. First, you saw Peter Ben Ezra's analyses. And he did two separate analyses. One of which depended on a list of doctors -- of 24 doctors -- where NCRIC admits that 30 to 40 left. Mr. Pate admits that. So that's one method he used.

And you know he also used the revenue with it that didn't have to do with the names of specific doctors. So while Mr. Page criticizes Peter Ben Ezra for one method of calculation, he had two. And they both reached the same number.

And you know that after deducting for the math errors, it was $20.4 million that Peter Ben Ezra came up to for lost damages after the hospital. But there's another way to get to this same number that confirms the righteousness of that number and that's this: You heard that it was $7 million in lost revenue per year after deducting marginal costs. Mr. Moore and Dr. Rifka agreed on that.

punish doctors for working in a clinic. And then suing Columbia based on guesswork and speculation.

How do you punish NCRIC for that kind of comment, and how do you punish someone for killing a charity hospital chartered by Congress to serve the women and children of this community. Something it had done for 136 years without interruption through two world wars and a great depression.

We ask you to bear in mind three facts when you consider punitive damages: First, NCRIC has cash in the bank of $13 million.

Forget about what it has in investments -- $160 million in investments sitting in banks and in bonds and notes with the U. S. Security Treasuries. 13 million in cash. And that's 71-B at two.

Second, NCRIC has stockholder equity. Stockholder equity of $84 million. After paying off all of its liabilities, that's what it has. It's like the value it has in its home after it's paid off all of its mortgages, all of its debts. It's how much NCRIC has earned from the conduct like we've seen in this case off the backs of the hospital and its doctors and its nurses.

Columbia doesn't want more than it's entitled to. $59 million is how much NCRIC earned in nine months ending September, 2003. It represents less than one year's worth of sales.

16d-003195

One way of thinking about what might be an appropriate punishment in this case -- and that's your decision -- is weather NCRIC ought to spend a year working for a foundation whose mission it is to serve the health care of the women and children of this community.

Think of it as NCRIC's year of community service. Maybe some of them will have to go without their stock options and bonuses for a year.

While NCRIC has yet to perform its community service, ladies and gentlemen, you've done yours.

You know what happened in this case. You know how NCRIC bullied Columbia and threatened it and sued a charity for money it does not owe.

The time has come for fair compensation and, yes, a measure of punishment.

Now it is the time to take just some of NCRIC's huge assets and give them back to Columbia to give this long and sad story a dignified ending it deserves.

Ladies and gentleman, it took two full weeks of your lives. What you're doing is important to this community.

We're sorry to have taken up so much of your time, but you've gotten to the bottom of it and that's

16d-003196

to punitive damages but no definition of punitive damages.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, it might simplify things if you just read 16.1 which is straight out of the jury instruction handbook.

MR. PAGE: That is right. That is -- Yesterday, when we discussed it --

THE COURT: It wasn't in yesterday's draft?

MR. PAGE: It was in yesterday's draft. So it would be 16.1.

The only other comment -- and you may have made a decision on this -- which I will respect if you've done this -- but you dropped the discussion of egregious conduct with respect to tortious interference.

THE COURT: I did. That was a conscious decision.

MR. PAGE: We note our exception to that.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, this is not by way of objection but by way of typographical error, I think. On Page 12 at the last -- last sentence under tortious interference with perspective business advantage, it indicates that if you find the Columbia's failed to prove its claim for tortious interference with business relations, you must also find that Columbia failed to

16d-003197

EXHIBIT 6

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,
Defendant.

ORDER GRANTING NCRIC'S MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL AND RENEWED MOTION FOR JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW

Pending before the Court is NCRIC's Motion For a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law. For the reasons stated in the Motion, and upon consideration of the points and authorities submitted by the parties, any oral argument presented, and the issues being fully considered, the Court finds that good cause exists to grant the Motion, and, therefore it is so:

ORDERED, that NCRIC's Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law is GRANTED as to Columbia's Tortious Interference with Business Relations claim and that claim is hereby DISMISSED;

[ORDERED, that NCRIC's Motion for a New Trial is hereby GRANTED];

[ORDERED, that NCRIC's request for Remittutur with respect to Columbia's damages is hereby GRANTED and Columbia's judgment is hereby reduced to $_____.]

The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

Dated: _____ ___, 2004.

Copies to:

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
BRYAN CAVE LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg Huber Hansen Todd & Evans
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that true and correct copies of the foregoing Motion, Statement of Points and Authorities in Support and Proposed Order were served this 5 day of March 2004, via hand delivery, to:

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women and that true and correct copies of the foregoing have been provided by hand delivery to the Chambers of Judge Blackburne-Rigsby as required by this Court's rules.

Scott M. Badami

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,
Defendant.

AFFIDAVIT AND CERTIFICATE OF GOOD FAITH OF RODNEY F. PAGE IN SUPPORT OF THE POST-TRIAL MOTIONS FILED BY PLAINTIFF NCRIC, INC.

Rodney F. Page, being first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

1. I am a partner in the law firm Bryan Cave LLP. I served as lead trial counsel for plaintiff NCRIC Inc. ("NCRIC") in this matter. The facts set forth in this affidavit are based on my personal knowledge except where otherwise noted herein.

2. The facts set forth in this Affidavit did not become known to me prior to the trial in this matter and were revealed only during the course of testimony during the trial.

3. On Tuesday, February 3, 2004, during the cross-examination of the Chairman of the Board of Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia"), Dr. Safa Rifka, I cross-examined the witness concerning any monetary benefits Dr. Rifka and his practice obtained from Defendant Columbia. I asked him to name the doctors who practiced with him, and he named Dr. Jerome Maurice Butler. Dr. Butler is one of two partners of Dr. Rifka.

4. On information and belief, Columbia Fertility Associates maintained its offices at or next to the Columbia Hospital for Women location which were part of the Columbia "campus." Moreover, according to a website maintained by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the laboratory used by Columbia Fertility Associates, which is where patients' in vitro fertilizations would actually occur, was the "Columbia Hospital for Women ART Laboratory."

5. During the break in testimony following my cross-examination of Dr. Rifka on February 3, 2004, the trial judge, the Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby stated to counsel, outside the presence of the jury, that Dr. Maurice Butler had been her physician "on and off" for a number of years and that she had been treated by the practice group in which Dr. Rifka was a principal partner. The judge also indicated she had last been treated by Dr. Butler approximately one year before the trial. During the colloquy that followed, on that day and on the next morning of trial, the trial judge revealed further that the treatment had extended over a period of time, that it had taken place at the office of the practice at or near Columbia Hospital, and that she had not noted her connection with Dr. Rifka's practice until the name of Dr. Butler was mentioned.

6. During the voir dire of the jury panel, one of the questions specifically asked by the Court of prospective jurors was whether they had any relationship with any doctors who were identified as being potential witnesses, including Dr. Rifka, (Question No. 20) and, separately, whether they had been patients at Columbia Hospital (Question No. 8). Notwithstanding the parties' expressed interest in these questions as an area of potential bias, Judge Blackburne-Rigsby did not reveal during the voir dire, nor at any time prior to the trial, that she had been a patient of Columbia Fertility Associates.

7. On February 4, 2004, NCRIC moved for the court to recuse itself based on the information revealed. The grounds stated for this motion were that NCRIC believes that there is an appearance of prejudice or bias resulting from the trial judge's affiliation with, treatment by, and friendship with, doctors who have been a part of the practice at Columbia Hospital and whose practice was so closely affiliated with Columbia. I stated that, had NCRIC known of the Judge's status as a patient of Dr. Butler, the motion would have been made before trial. Further, NCRIC argued that, even if the Judge had not realized the fact of such treatment until the trial began, nonetheless the affiliation gave the appearance of a lack of impartiality that required immediate recusal.

8. In this case, the testimony of Dr. Rifka, the head of the practice at Columbia Fertility Associates, was central to Columbia's case. His credibility was a key issue in the case, particularly in light of his self-serving testimony that Columbia was on the verge in 2000 of reversing its decades-long financial distress and would have done so but for alleged "retaliation" by Plaintiff.

9. Because Columbia Fertility Associates is a small group practice, having only three partners physicians according to Dr. Rifka's testimony, there is the obvious possibility that any patient of one doctor in the practice would have had contact with and been treated by the other physicians in the practice.

10. The trial court denied NCRIC's motion for a recusal on February 4, 2004, and the trial continued to its conclusion.

Rodney F. Page

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 4th day of March 2004.

Melanie L. Roy
Notary Public

My Commission expires: 01-01-2008

Certificate of Good Faith: Pursuant to D.C. Superior Court Rule of Civil Procedure 63-I(b), undersigned counsel affirms that NCRIC's motion to recuse and affidavit in support are being filed in good faith.

Rodney F. Page

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,
Defendant.

NCRIC'S MOTION FOR APPROVAL OF SUPERSEDEAS BOND AND TO STAY EXECUTION PENDING DECISION ON ITS RULES 50 AND 59 MOTIONS AND ANY APPEAL

Pursuant to D.C. Superior Court Rules of Civil Procedure 62(b) and 62(d), plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC") respectfully moves this Court for an Order staying execution of the judgment in the above-captioned case docketed on February 20, 2004 pending the disposition of NCRIC's Rules 50 and 59 motions and any appeal, and for approval of its supersedeas bond.

A party filing a timely notice of appeal is entitled to a stay of enforcement as a matter of right under Rule 62(d) if a supersedeas bond is filed with the Court. Federal Prescription Serv, Inc. v. American Pharm. Ass'n, 636 F.2d 755, 760-61, 205 U.S. App. D.C. 47, 53 (D.C. Cir. 1980) (appealing party may obtain stay as a matter of right upon filing supersedeas bond with court, however, court may dispense with bond requirement under certain circumstances).[1] The stay becomes effective once the court has approved the bond. See Pierola v. Moschonas, 687 A.2d 942, 945 n.2 (D.C. 1997); see also Sup. Ct. R. Civ. P. 62(d).

While Courts in the District of Columbia have discretion to stay the execution of judgments "'whenever it is deemed necessary to accomplish the ends of justice,'" Finance Am. Corp. v. Moyler, 494 A.2d 926, 931 (D.C. 1985) (quoting Conrad v. Medina, 47 A.2d 562, 565 (D.C. 1946)), there is specific statutory authority for the stay of a money judgment pending disposition of: (1) a renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law; (2) a Motion for a New Trial; and/or (3) a Motion to Alter/Amend a Judgment. Sup. Ct. R. Civ. P. 62(b). Where, as here, a supersedeas bond is filed to secure a money judgment pending resolution of a timely motion, granting a stay of execution certainly accomplishes the ends of justice. See Consumers United Ins. Co. v. Smith, 644 A.2d 1328, 1336 (D.C. 1994) (Superior Court properly "granted [Consumers'] emergency motion, staying execution of the judgment pending its disposition of the motions for j.n.o.v. and a new trial, on the condition that [Consumers] post a supersedeas bond."). Timely filed along with this motion for a stay is NCRIC's Motion for Judgment a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law. Rule 62(b) clearly authorizes the relief NCRIC seeks in light of the supersedeas bond it is posting and its pending Rules 50 and 59 motions.

Attached as Exhibit A to this motion is a supersedeas bond in the amount of $19,500,000, an amount sufficient to cover the judgment, interest, costs, and delay while the post-trial motions are being considered by this Court. This bond will compensate the judgment creditor for the delay in execution in the event the judgment is not altered or amended. The form of this bond is that which has been approved by this Court in similar cases.

---

[1] D.C. Superior Court Rule of Civil Procedure 62 is identical to Fed.R.Civ.P. 62. in all material respects. See Hoban v. Washington Metro. Area Transit Auth., 841 F.2d 1157, 268 U.S. App. D.C. 332(D.C. Cir. 1988).

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP

Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar 435375
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(202) 508-6116 telephone
(202) 508-6200 facsimile

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: March 5, 2004

16d-003209

EXHIBIT A

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Bond No. 016030972
Defendant.

SUPERSEDAS BOND

Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC") has filed a Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law and a Motion for a New Trial to reverse or modify the judgment of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia in the above-captioned action docketed on February 20, 2004. In the event any portion of the judgment survives these motions, NCRIC intends to file a Notice of Appeal with the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

To supersede the judgment during the pendency of the aforesaid motions and any such appeal, NCRIC as principal and Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, a corporation incorporated under the law of the state of Massachusetts and duly authorized to do business in the District of Columbia, as surety, are bound and held unto the Superior Court of the District of Columbia and/or the District of Columbia Court of Appeals in an amount not to exceed $19,500,000 (nineteen million five hundred thousand dollars) for the satisfaction of the judgment in full with costs, interest, and damages for delay as set forth below.

Wherefore, the undersigned NCRIC as principal and Liberty Mutual Insurance Company as surety, appearing and submitting to the jurisdiction of the Court, hereby undertake for themselves and each of them, and each of their heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns to comply with the condition set forth above and do further agree that, if the judgment against NCRIC is affirmed following any final decision by the trial court and appeal, or if NCRIC fails to prosecute such appeal, or it is dismissed, if NCRIC then fails to satisfy the judgment in full with costs, interest, and damages for delay in an amount no greater than $19,500,000 (nineteen million five hundred thousand dollars), the damages and costs, not exceeding the cash sum identified herein, may be ascertained in such manner as this Court shall direct; that this Court may give a judgment in favor of any person aggrieved against them for the damages and costs suffered or sustained by such aggrieved party, and that said judgment may be rendered in the above-captioned case against all or any of them whose names are signed below.

If the judgment is set aside on resolution of the post trial motions or following any appeal or if NCRIC pays all sums awarded by the judgment in this action, this obligation shall become void.

Signed, sealed, and delivered this 4th day of March, 2004, in the presence of:

NCRIC Inc.

Witness: Melanie L. Dix By: William E Burgess

Liberty Mutual Insurance Company

Witness: Martha Whitlock By: Julia B. Taylor

Julia B. Taylor, Attorney-in-Fact

NOTICE FROM SURETY REQUIRED BY TERRORISM RISK INSURANCE ACT OF 2002

In accordance with the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act of 2002 (referred to hereinafter as the "Act"), this disclosure notice is provided for surety bonds on which one or more of the following companies is the issuing surety: Liberty Mutual Insurance Company; Liberty Mutual Fire Insurance Company; LM Insurance Corporation; The First Liberty Insurance Corporation; Liberty Insurance Corporation; Employers Insurance Company of Wausau (formerly "EMPLOYERS INSURANCE OF WAUSAU A Mutual Company"); Peerless Insurance Company; and any other company that is a part of or added to the Liberty Mutual Group for which surety business is underwritten by Liberty Bond Services (referred to collectively hereinafter as the "Issuing Sureties").

NOTICE FORMS PART OF BOND

This notice forms part of surety bonds issued by any one or more of the Issuing Sureties.

DISCLOSURE OF PREMIUM

The premium attributable to any bond coverage for "acts of terrorism" as defined in Section 102(1) of the Act is Zero Dollars ($0.00).

DISCLOSURE OF FEDERAL PARTICIPATION IN PAYMENT OF TERRORISM LOSSES

The United States will reimburse the Issuing Sureties for ninety percent (90%) of any covered losses from terrorist acts certified under the Act exceeding the applicable surety deductible.

1275975

THIS POWER OF ATTORNEY IS NOT VALID UNLESS IT IS PRINTED ON RED BACKGROUND.

This Power of Attorney limits the acts of those named herein, and they have no authority to bind the Company except in the manner and to the extent herein stated.

LIBERTY MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY
BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS POWER OF ATTORNEY

KNOW ALL PERSONS BY THESE PRESENTS: That Liberty Mutual Insurance Company (the "Company"), a Massachusetts stock insurance company, pursuant to and by authority of the By-law and Authorization hereinafter set forth, does hereby name, constitute and appoint DAVID C. MOYLAN, JULIA B. TAYLOR, SUSAN B. WILLETT, MATTHEW P. PILCONIS, TERESA E. WILLIAMS, ALL OF THE CITY OF WASHINGTON, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA .....

.....

, each individually if there be more than one named, its true and lawful attorney-in-fact to make, execute, seal, acknowledge and deliver, for and on its behalf as surety and as its act and deed, any and all undertakings, bonds, recognizances and other surety obligations in the penal sum not exceeding FIFTY MILLION AND 00/100*_____ DOLLARS ($ 50,000,000.00_____) each, and the execution of such undertakings, bonds, recognizances and other surety obligations, in pursuance of these presents, shall be as binding upon the Company as if they had been duly signed by the president and attested by the secretary of the Company in their own proper persons.

That this power is made and executed pursuant to and by authority of the following By-law and Authorization:

ARTICLE XIII - Execution of Contracts: Section 5. Surety Bonds and Undertakings.
Any officer of the Company authorized for that purpose in writing by the chairman or the president, and subject to such limitations as the chairman or the president may prescribe, shall appoint such attorneys-in-fact, as may be necessary to act in behalf of the Company to make, execute, seal, acknowledge and deliver as surety any and all undertakings, bonds, recognizances and other surety obligations. Such attorneys-in-fact, subject to the limitations set forth in their respective powers of attorney, shall have full power to bind the Company by their signature and execution of any such instruments and to attach thereto the seal of the Company. When so executed such instruments shall be as binding as if signed by the president and attested by the secretary.

By the following instrument the chairman or the president has authorized the officer or other official named therein to appoint attorneys-in-fact:

Pursuant to Article XIII, Section 5 of the By-Laws, Garnet W. Elliott, Assistant Secretary of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, is hereby authorized to appoint such attorneys-in-fact as may be necessary to act in behalf of the Company to make, execute, seal, acknowledge and deliver as surety any and all undertakings, bonds, recognizances and other surety obligations.

That the By-law and the Authorization set forth above are true copies thereof and are now in full force and effect.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, this Power of Attorney has been subscribed by an authorized officer or official of the Company and the corporate seal of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company has been affixed thereto in Plymouth Meeting, Pennsylvania this 30th day of April, 2003.

LIBERTY MUTUAL INSURANCE COMPANY

By Garnet W. Elliott
Garnet W. Elliott, Assistant Secretary

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA ss
COUNTY OF MONTGOMERY

On this 30th day of April, 2003, before me, a Notary Public, personally came Garnet W. Elliott, to me known, and acknowledged that he is an Assistant Secretary of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company; that he knows the seal of said corporation; and that he executed the above Power of Attorney and affixed the corporate seal of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company thereto with the authority and at the direction of said corporation.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my notarial seal at Plymouth Meeting, Pennsylvania, on the day and year first above written.

TERESA PASTELLA COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA NOTARY PUBLIC

Notarial Seal
Teresa Pastella, Notary Public
Plymouth Twp., Montgomery County
My Commission Expires Mar. 28, 2005
Member, Pennsylvania Association of Notaries

By Teresa Pastella
Teresa Pastella, Notary Public

CERTIFICATE

I, the undersigned, Assistant Secretary of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, do hereby certify that the original power of attorney of which the foregoing is a full, true and correct copy, is in full force and effect on the date of this certificate; and I do further certify that the officer or official who executed the said power of attorney is an Assistant Secretary specially authorized by the chairman or the president to appoint attorneys-in-fact as provided in Article XIII, Section 5 of the By-laws of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company.

This certificate and the above power of attorney may be signed by facsimile or mechanically reproduced signatures under and by authority of the following vote of the board of directors of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company at a meeting duly called and held on the 12th day of March, 1980.

VOTED that the facsimile or mechanically reproduced signature of any assistant secretary of the company, wherever appearing upon a certified copy of any power of attorney issued by the company in connection with surety bonds, shall be valid and binding upon the company with the same force and effect as though manually affixed.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed the corporate seal of the said company, this 4 day of March, 2004.

By David M. Carey
David M. Carey, Assistant Secretary

16d-003214

Currency rate, shipping and handling fee, and taxes may apply to international wire transfers.

To confirm the validity of this Power of Attorney call 1-610-832-8240 between 9:00 am and 4:30 pm EST on any business day.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,
Defendant.

ORDER APPROVING SUPERSEDEAS BOND AND STAYING EXECUTION

On March 5, 2004, plaintiff NCRIC Inc. ("NCRIC") filed a timely motion to stay execution of the judgment docketed February 20, 2004 in the above-captioned action, along with a proposed supersedeas bond. It appears to the Court that the proposed supersedeas bond is in the correct form, in a sufficient amount to provide adequate security, and is backed by a duly qualified surety. Accordingly, it is therefore ORDERED this ____ day of March, 2004 that:

1. The supersedeas bond in the form, amount, and with the surety as shown in Exhibit A to NCRIC's motion is approved by the Court.

2. The execution of the judgment docketed in this action on February 20, 2004, and any proceedings to enforce said judgment, are hereby stayed pending a determination of NCRIC's Motion for a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law, and any appeal taken from the judgment.

The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

16d-003216

Copies to:

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg Huber Hansen Todd & Evans
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

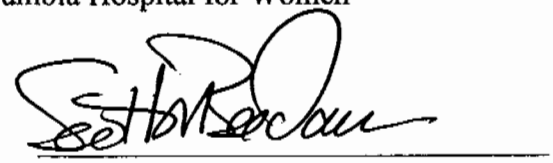
16d-003217

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that a true and correct copy of the foregoing Motion and Proposed Order were served this 5 day of March 2004, via hand delivery, to:

Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women



Scott M. Badami

16d-003218

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,
Defendant.

NCRIC'S NOTICE TO AMEND THE CERTIFICATE OF WITNESSES

Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC"), pursuant to Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 54-I(a), requests this Court amend the Certificate of Witnesses filed by Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia).

The Certificate of Witnesses should be amended to reduce the number of days Dr. Safa Rifka is credited for testifying at trial from three to two, because his appearance as a witness at trial on three separate days was necessitated by his own unavailability, not to the length of his testimony nor the trial schedule. NCRIC further requests that the Certificate of Witnesses be amended to strike Drs. Wayne Cooper, Odell McCants and Stephen Procter because their testimony was not relevant, material or reasonably necessary to the disposition of any issue in the case. See Ingber v. Ross, 479 A.2d 1256, 1265-66 (D.C. 1984)(citing Spiritwood Grain Co. v. Northern Pac. Ry., 179 F.2d 338, 344 (8th Cir. 1950); 6 James Wm. Moore et al., Moore's Federal Practice § 54.77[5-1] (2d ed. 1983)). The testimony of Drs. Cooper, McCants and Procter did not relate to Columbia's breach of contract, breach of duty of good faith and fair dealing or tortious interference counterclaims, nor to any of the counterclaims dismissed by the Court prior to submission of the case to the jury. Accordingly, costs for these witnesses should not be allowed.

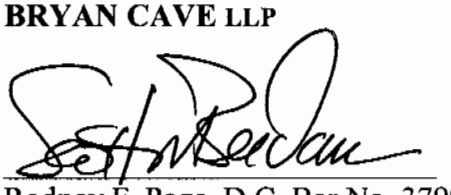
Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP



Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar 435375
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(202) 508-6116 telephone
(202) 508-6200 facsimile

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: March 5, 2004

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that a true and correct copy of the foregoing Notice was served this 5 day of March 2004, via hand delivery, to:

Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women

Scott M. Badami

NO CHAMBERS COPY REC'D

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

RECEIVED
Civil Clerk's Office
MAR 17 2004
Superior Court of the
District of Columbia
Washington, D.C.

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 -- Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Post-Trial Motions
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

CONSENT MOTION FOR EXTENSION OF TIME

The jury rendered its verdict in this case on February 13, 2004. Because judgment was not entered on the docket until one week later, NCRIC had a total of three weeks to prepare its post-trial papers, at which time it filed Rule 50 and 59 motions totaling over 30 pages. Columbia respectfully requests an extension of one week in which to respond to NCRIC's filings, thereby giving it also a total of three weeks. Counsel for NCRIC has authorized Columbia to represent that NCRIC does not object to this relief. A proposed order is attached.

DATED: March 17, 2004

Respectfully submitted,

Neil M. Gorsuch, D.C. Bar # 456411
Eli C. Schulman, D.C. Bar # 472879
Priya R. Aiyar, admitted pro hac vice
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Counsel to Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 -- Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Post-Trial Motions
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)

ORDER

UPON CONSIDERATION of the Consent Motion for Extension of Time, the record herein, and for good cause shown, it is hereby ORDERED that the Motion is GRANTED, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that Columbia's opposition to NCRIC's Motion for a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law shall be due March 26, 2004.

ENTERED this ____ day of _____, 2004.

_____
Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

Copies to:

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(fax) (202) 326-7999

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20005-3960
(fax) (202) 508-6200

Roy I. Niedermayer, Esq.
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814
(fax) (301) 951-4456

Attorneys for:
PLAINTIFF/COUNTER-DEFENDANT
NCRIC, INC.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Eli C. Schulman, hereby certify that on this 17th day of March, 2004, a copy of the foregoing Consent Motion for Extension of Time was served upon the following by first class United States mail:

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20005-3960

I further certify that, on this 17th day of March, 2004, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned papers was served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.

Eli C. Schulman

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

RECEIVED
CIVIL CLERK'S OFFICE
MAR 19 2004
SUPERIOR COURT
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
WASHINGTON, DC

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Post-Trial Motions
	)
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

COLUMBIA'S RESPONSE TO NCRIC'S NOTICE TO AMEND THE CERTIFICATE OF WITNESSES

1. On February 24, 2004, four days after judgment was entered in this matter, Columbia served its Certificate of Witnesses upon NCRIC pursuant to Superior Court Rule 54-I. Under the terms of that rule, any motion by NCRIC to amend or strike the certificate had to be made within five days thereafter. See SCR 54-I(a). NCRIC made no timely motion and sought no extension. Eight business days after Columbia filed its certificate, NCRIC filed a "notice," not a motion, on March 5, 2004. NCRIC's failure to comply with the Court's rules is sufficient to dispose of this matter.

2. With respect to Dr. Rifka, NCRIC urges that he be "credited" with testifying at trial for two, rather than three, days because the need for him to appear on a third day was caused by his own schedule. NCRIC's dispute over a single day's $40 witness fee is not only a waste of judicial resources, it is misguided. Though he appeared on three separate days, Dr. Rifka accepted only one day's witness fee of $40, and Columbia's bill of costs will reflect this fact. Pursuant to the express terms of Rule 54-I and CA Form 104, however, Columbia was expressly obligated in its Certificate of Witnesses to list the number of days that Dr. Rifka attended Court as a witness. Columbia complied with this Rule and its certificate is indisputably accurate; even NCRIC doesn't dispute this. Because Dr. Rifka refused more than a single day's witness fee, moreover, NCRIC's professed concern about paying an extra day's witness fee is no issue: under Columbia's bill of costs NCRIC will actually "save" $40 by not having to pay costs even for his second (let alone third) day of testimony.

3. NCRIC urges the Court to strike Drs. Wayne Cooper, Odell McCants, and Stephen Procter because, allegedly, "their testimony was not relevant, material or reasonably necessary." Notice at 1. As will be explained in greater detail in Columbia's opposition to NCRIC's post-trial motions, their testimony was highly relevant and material on two separate elements NCRIC contests. Each of the three testified about the loyalty of Columbia's doctors to the hospital, evidence probative of the first element of Columbia's tortious interference claim – i.e., the existence of a legally binding business relationship. E.g., 2/2 Tr. 19-21 (Cooper); 1/29 Tr. 285 (Procter); 2/2 Tr. 100-01 (McCants). Similarly, each testified to facts probative of NCRIC's causation of Columbia's injuries. E.g., 2/2 Tr. 15-16 (Cooper). In light of the jury's verdict, NCRIC's effort to strike these individuals from the Certificate of Witnesses – with a financial consequence of $120 – is inexplicable. Indeed, NCRIC cites no case declining to award costs – let alone under similar circumstances. The sole D.C. case cited by NCRIC, Ingber v. Ross, 479 A.2d 1256, 1265-66 (D.C. 1984), awarded the costs sought there, finding that the testimony at issue was "clearly relevant and material," and the Eighth Circuit case relied upon by NCRIC, Spiritwood Grain Co. v. Northern Pacific Ry., 179 F.2d 338, 344 (8th Cir. 1950), affirmed an award of costs for all of appellees' witnesses who attended trial even though none of them ended up testifying because the trial court granted appellees' motion for a directed verdict.

Conclusion

The Court should deny NCRIC's request to amend the Certificate of Witnesses. A proposed order is attached.

DATED: March 19, 2004

Respectfully submitted,

Neil M. Gorsuch, D.C. Bar # 456411
Eli C. Schulman, D.C. Bar # 472879
Priya R. Aiyar, admitted pro hac vice
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Attorneys for:
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

16d-003228

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

ORDER

UPON CONSIDERATION of NCRIC's Notice To Amend the Certificate of Witnesses, and Columbia's response thereto, it is hereby ORDERED that NCRIC's request that the Certificate of Witnesses be amended is DENIED.

ENTERED this ____ day of _____, 2004.

_____
Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

Copies to:

Mark C. Hansen, Esq.
Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(fax) (202) 326-7999

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(fax) (202) 508-6200

Roy I. Niedermayer, Esq.
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814
(fax) (301) 951-4456

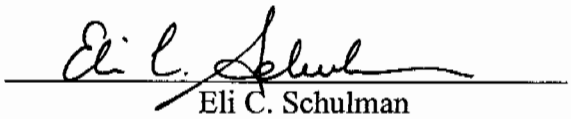
Attorneys for:
PLAINTIFF/COUNTER-DEFENDANT NCRIC, INC.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Eli C. Schulman, hereby certify that, on this 19th day of March 2004, a copy of the foregoing Columbia's Response to NCRIC's Notice To Amend the Certificate of Witnesses was served upon the following by hand delivery:

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

I further certify that, on this 19th day of March 2004, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned papers was served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.



Eli C. Schulman

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

March 19, 2004

By Hand

Clerk of the Court
Civil Division Clerk's Office
Superior Court of the District of Columbia
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Room JM170
Washington, D.C. 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Sir or Madam:

Enclosed for filing is the original and one copy of Columbia's Response to NCRIC's Notice To Amend the Certificate of Witnesses. Please date-stamp the copy and return it to the messenger. A courtesy copy will be delivered to Judge Blackburne-Rigsby under separate cover.

Thank you for your assistance in this matter. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at (202) 326-7936.

Sincerely,

Eli C. Schulman

Enclosures

BRYAN CAVE

Rebecca A. Ford
Direct: (202) 508-6086
raford@bryancave.com

March 25, 2004

BY HAND

Clerk of the Court
DC Superior Court
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W.
Washington, DC 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital For Women Medical Center, Inc.; Case No. 00-0007308

Dear Clerk:

Enclosed please find NCRIC's Reply In Support of its Notice to Amend the Certificate of Witnesses, for filing in the above-captioned case.

In addition to the original being submitted for filing, please date stamp the copy and return it to me in the enclosed, self-addressed, stamped envelope. If you have any questions about this matter, I can be reached at (202) 508-6086.

Sincerely yours,

Rebecca A. Ford

Rebecca A. Ford

Encls: (2)

Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street NW
Washington, DC 20005-3960
Tel (202) 508-6000
Fax (202) 508-6200
www.bryancave.com

Chicago
Hong Kong
Irvine
Jefferson City
Kansas City
Kuwait
Los Angeles
New York
Phoenix
Riyadh
Shanghai
St. Louis
United Arab Emirates (Dubai)
Washington, DC

And Bryan Cave,
A Multinational Partnership,
London

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,
Defendant.

NCRIC'S REPLY IN SUPPORT OF ITS
NOTICE TO AMEND THE CERTIFICATE OF WITNESSES

On February 24, 2004, Defendant, Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia") filed a Certificate of Witnesses and served it on Plaintiff, NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC") via First Class Mail. Despite Columbia's assertion to the contrary,[1] on March 5, 2004, NCRIC timely filed its Notice to Amend the Certificate of Witnesses. See Super. Ct. R. Civ. P. 6(a), (e) and 54-I(a).

In its Response, Columbia concedes, as it must, that Dr. Rifka should not be paid witness fees for three days of trial, when his attendance on three separate days was necessitated by his own unavailability. Response, ¶ 2. As to the testimony of Drs. Cooper, McCants and Procter, Columbia alleges their testimony was "highly relevant and material" to its tortious interference claim, and therefore, they should not be stricken from the Certificate of Witnesses. Response, ¶ 3. In support of its assertion, Columbia states that, "[e]ach of the three [doctors] testified about the loyalty of Columbia's doctors to the hospital, evidence probative of the first element of Columbia's tortious interference claim – i.e., the existence of a legally binding business relationship." Id. The testimony of Drs. Cooper, McCants and Procter, however, is not relevant to whether there was a legally binding business relationship between Columbia and the doctors who stopped or reduced patient admissions there. Drs. Cooper, McCants and Procter did not stop or reduce their admissions to Columbia. 2/2/2004 Tr. at 35 (Cooper); 2/2/2004 Tr. at 104 (McCants); and 1/29/04 Tr. at 299-300 (Procter).

[1] See Columbia's Response to NCRIC's Motion to Amend Certificate of Witnesses ("Response"), ¶ 1.

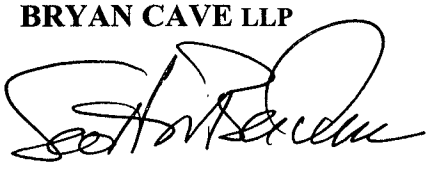
Columbia also asserts that, "each [doctor] testified to facts probative of NCRIC's causation of Columbia's injuries." Response, ¶ 3. In support of this argument, Columbia cites only to Dr. Cooper's testimony, which is not probative of causation. 2/2/2004 Tr. at 19-20. Dr. Cooper testified that he made an independent economic decision about whether to continue to practice at Columbia (2/2/2004 Tr. at 38), and that no one from NCRIC encouraged him to stop or reduce his patient admissions to Columbia. Id. at 37-38. Dr. Cooper's testimony is not relevant to causation, nor has Columbia cited to any other testimony by these witnesses that is.

Importantly, Columbia claimed damages for NCRIC insureds who stopped or reduced patient admissions at Columbia at or near the time the Retro Plan ended. Dr. McCants, however, was not a NCRIC insured and did not stop or reduce his patient admissions at Columbia (2/2/2004 Tr. at 104). Further, Drs. Cooper and Proctor, while NCRIC insureds, testified that they made independent decisions to drop their NCRIC insurance and continue to practice at Columbia (1/29/04 Tr. at 299-300 (Procter)), and that no one from NCRIC asked, suggested or encouraged them to leave Columbia (2/2/2004 Tr. at 37-38) (Cooper)). For these reasons, it is impossible for their testimony to be material to Columbia's tortious interference claim, or any other claim in the case. Accordingly, NCRIC requests that this Court amend the Certificate filed by Columbia to strike these witnesses.

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP



Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar 435375
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(202) 508-6116 telephone
(202) 508-6200 facsimile

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

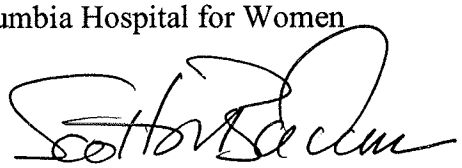
Dated: March 24, 2004

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that a true and correct copy of the foregoing Reply in Support of NCRIC's Notice to Amend the Certificate of Witnesses was served this 25 day of March 2004, via First Class Mail, to:

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women



Scott M. Badami

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	Calendar #8
v.
	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,
Defendant.

ORDER GRANTING NCRIC'S NOTICE
TO AMEND THE CERTIFICATE OF WITNESSES

Pending before the Court is NCRIC's Notice to Amend the Certificate of Witnesses. For the reasons stated in the Notice, and upon consideration of the Response and Reply submitted by the parties, and the issues being fully considered, the Court finds that good cause exists for the relief requested and, therefore it is so:

ORDERED, that the Certificate of Witnesses be amended to reduce the days Dr. Rifka is credited with testifying at trial from three to two; it is further ORDERED, that the Certificate of Witnesses be amended to strike Drs. Wayne Cooper, Odell McCants and Stephen Proctor, because their testimony was not relevant, material or reasonably necessary to the disposition of any issue in the case.

_____
The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

Dated: _____ ___, 2004.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC., Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant, v. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC., Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

COLUMBIA'S OPPOSITION TO NCRIC'S MOTIONS FOR NEW TRIAL, REMITTITUR, AND JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW

Neil M. Gorsuch
Eli C. Schulman
Priya R. Aiyar
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen
Todd & Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W.
Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

March 26, 2004

16d-003239

Table of Contents

Page

Introduction 1

Discussion 3

I. NCRIC IS NOT ENTITLED TO A NEW TRIAL 3

A. NCRIC Was Not Entitled to an Erroneous "Egregious Conduct" Instruction 4

1. The Court Properly Instructed the Jury 4

2. No "Miscarriage of Justice" Took Place Here 10

B. Ample Evidence Established Causation in Columbia's Tortious Interference Claim 11

1. The Jury's Finding of Causation Was Supported by Substantial Evidence 12

(a) Columbia's Witnesses 12

(b) Exhibits 15

(c) NCRIC's Witnesses 17

2. NCRIC's Causation Arguments Misstate the Evidence and Law 18

C. Sufficient Evidence Supported the Jury's Contract Damages Award 21

D. Ben Ezra's Testimony Was Properly Received 24

1. NCRIC Merely Rehashes Settled Rulings 24

2. Ben Ezra's Testimony Was Clearly Admissible Under Dyas 25

3. NCRIC's Daubert-Style Argument Are Irrelevant Under Dyas and Wrong on Their Own Terms 27

E. NCRIC's Recusal Motion Is Baseless 31

II. NCRIC IS NOT ENTITLED TO REMITTITUR 34

16d-003240

III. AMPLE EVIDENCE SUPPORTS THE JURY'S VERDICT AND NCRIC'S CONTRARY ARGUMENTS FOR JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW ARE WITHOUT MERIT 41

A. The Jury's Finding that NCRIC Tortiously Interfered With Columbia's Business Relations Was Supported by the Evidence 42

1. NCRIC Waived Its Challenge to the Sufficiency of the Evidence Regarding Tortious Interference 42

2. The Jury's Finding on Existing Business Relations Was Supported by Sufficient Evidence 43

3. The Jury's Finding of Intentional Interference Was Supported by the Record 45

B. Columbia's Evidence Far Exceeds the Requirements for Proof of Its Tort Damages 48

Conclusion 52

16d-003241

Table of Authorities

State Cases

Affordable Elegance Travel, Inc. v. Worldspan, L.P.,
774 A.2d 320 (D.C. 2001) 34, 37

Alfred A. Altimont, Inc. v. Chatelain, Samperton & Nolan,
374 A.2d 284 (D.C. 1977) 4, 7, 44

Allstate Ins. Co. v. Ramos,
782 A.2d 280 (D.C. 2001) 22

Anderson v. United States,
754 A.2d 920 (D.C. 2000) 31

Bedell v. Inver Housing, Inc.,
506 A.2d 202 (D.C. 1986) 49

Bragg v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp.,
734 A.2d 643 (D.C. 1999) 41

Brown v. Carr,
503 A.2d 1241 (D.C. 1986) 5

Capitol Hill Hospital v. Jones,
532 A.2d 89 (D.C. 1987) 37

Casco v. District of Columbia Dev., L.L.C.,
834 A.2d 77 (D.C. 2003) 4, 5, 44, 47

Castillo v. E.I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., 854 So. 2d 1264 (Fla. 2003) 26

Ceco Corp. v. Coleman,
441 A.2d 940 (D.C. 1982) 11

Coleman v. Chudnow,
35 A.2d 925 (D.C. 1944) 8

Corrado v. Thomas,
790 A.2d 1022 (Pa. Super. Ct. 2003) 34

Croley v. Republican Nat'l Comm.,
759 A.2d 682 (D.C. 2000) 29, 49, 51

District of Columbia v. Banks,
646 A.2d 972 (D.C. 1994) 9, 10, 11

District of Columbia v. Barnard,
144 A.2d 418 (D.C. 1958) 10

District of Columbia v. Freeman,
477 A.2d 713 (D.C. 1984) 11

District of Columbia v. Helen B. Hickey & Kenny Constr. Co.,
150 A.2d 463 (D.C. 1959) 42

District of Columbia v. Jackson,
810 A.2d 388 (D.C. 2002) 37

District of Columbia v. Mitchell,
533 A.2d 629 (D.C. 1987) 8

District of Columbia v. Murtaugh,
728 A.2d 1237 (D.C. 1999) 3

Doe v. Binker,
492 A.2d 857 (D.C. 1985) 22, 37

Doe v. Medlantic Health Care Group, Inc.,
814 A.2d 939 (D.C. 2003) 24, 38

Donaldson v. Central Illinois Public Serv. Co., 730 N.E.2d 68 (Ill. Ct.App. 2000), aff'd, 767 N.E.2d 314 (Ill. 2002) 27

Durphy v. Kaiser Found. Health Plan of Mid-Atl. States, Inc.,
698 A.2d 459 (D.C. 1997) 41

Dyas v. United States,
376 A.2d 827 (D.C. 1977) 2, 25, 26

Dyer v. William S. Bergman & Assocs., Inc.,
657 A.2d 1132 (D.C. 1995) 5, 18, 19, 46

Etheredge v. District of Columbia,
635 A.2d 908 (D.C. 1993) 41

Finkelstein v. District of Columbia,
593 A.2d 591 (D.C. 1990) 38

Garcia v. Llerena,
599 A.2d 1138 (D.C. 1991) 49

Gleason v. L. Frank Co.,
328 A.2d 96 (D.C. 1974) 42

Gregory v. United States,
393 A.2d 132 (D.C. 1978) 34

Haight v. District of Columbia,
783 A.2d 590 (D.C. 2001) 3

Hawthorne v. Canavan,
756 A.2d 397 (D.C. 2000) 4, 8, 10

House of Wines, Inc. v. Sumter,
510 A.2d 492 (D.C. 1986) 31

Ibn-Tamas v. United States,
407 A.2d 626 (D.C. 1979) 26

Johnson v. Cullman Medical Center,
615 So. 2d 621 (Ala. Ct. Civ. App. 1993) 34

Klindera v. Worley Mills, Inc.,
634 P.2d 1295 (N.M. Ct. App. 1981) 34

Knight v. Georgetown Univ.,
725 A.2d 472 (D.C. 1999) ..... passim

Lyons v. Barrazotto,
667 A.2d 314 (D.C. 1995) 41

McAdams v. Moser,
253 S.E.2d 496 (N.C. Ct. App. 1979) 23

McCullough v. United States,
827 A.2d 48 (D.C. 2003) 24, 39

Melton, In re,
597 A.2d 892 (D.C. 1991) 25, 27

Molovinsky v. Fair Employment Council of Greater Washington, Inc.,
683 A.2d 142 (D.C. 1996) 41, 43, 51

Moss v. Stockard,
580 A.2d 1011 (D.C. 1990) 10, 11

Nixon v. United States,
728 A.2d 582 (D.C. 1999) 25

Phillips v. District of Columbia,
458 A.2d 722 (D.C. 1983) 37

Pope v. Romac Int'l,
829 A.2d 945 (D.C. 2003) 44

Pratt v. University of the District of Columbia,
691 A.2d 158 (D.C. 1997) 22, 49

R & A, Inc. v. Kozy Korner, Inc.,
672 A.2d 1062 (D.C. 1996) 29, 49

Railan v. Katyal,
766 A.2d 998 (D.C. 2001) 3

Reed v. United States,
828 A.2d 159 (D.C. 2003) 27

Richbow v. District of Columbia,
600 A.2d 1063 (D.C. 1991) 3

Roberti v. Andy's Termite & Pest Control, Inc.,
6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 827 (Cal. Ct. App. 2003) 26

Scales v. United States,
687 A.2d 927 (D.C. 1996) 24

Scott v. United States,
559 A.2d 745 (D.C. 1989) 34

Shlopak v. Davison,
34 A.2d 126 (D.C. 1943) 23

Simons v. Federal Bar Bldg. Corp.,
275 A.2d 545 (D.C. 1971) 4, 8, 10

Sorrells v. Garfinckel's,
565 A.2d 290 (D.C. 1989) 5, 44, 47

Spar v. Obwoya,
369 A.2d 173 (D.C. 1977) 35

Thoma v. Kettler Bros. Inc.,
632 A.2d 725 (D.C. 1993) 9

United Educ. Distribs., LLC v. Educational Testing Serv.,
564 S.E.2d 324 (S.C. Ct. App. 2002) 48

Watts v. Smith,
226 A.2d 160 (D.C. 1967) 8

Williams v. Board of Trustee of Mount Jezreel Baptist Church,
589 A.2d 901 (D.C. 1991) 24

Woodruff v. Wright,
51 S.W.3d 727 (Tex. Ct. App. 2001) 34

York v. United States,
785 A.2d 651 (D.C. 2001) 34

Federal Cases

Bell v. Dow Chem. Co.,
847 F.2d 1179 (5th Cir. 1988) 27

Bennett Enters., Inc. v. Domino's Pizza, Inc.,
45 F.3d 493 (D.C. Cir. 1995) 6

Carter v. Duncan-Huggins Ltd.,
727 F.2d 1225 (D.C. Cir. 1984) 23, 40

Catts v. Phalen,
43 U.S. (2 How.) 376 (1844) 9

Conwood v. UST, Inc.,
290 F.3d 768 (6th Cir. 2002) 30

Cooper v. Sillers,
30 App. D.C. 567 (D.C. Cir. 1908) 51

Coventry Health Care of Kansas, Inc. v. Via Christi Health System Inc.,
176 F. Supp. 2d 1207 (D. Kan. 2001) 28

Daubert v. Merrell-Dow Pharm., Inc.,
509 U.S. 579 (1993) 27

Desert Palace, Inc. v. Costa,
123 S. Ct. 2148 (2003) 20

Esch v. Yazoo Manufacturing Co.,
510 F. Supp. 53 (E.D. Wis. 1981) 30

Frye v. United States,
293 F. 1013 (D.C. Cir. 1923) 26

FutureSource LLC v. Reuters Ltd.,
312 F.3d 281 (7th Cir. 2002) 48

Genetic Sys. Corp. v. Abbott Labs.,
691 F. Supp. 407 (D.D.C. 1988) 5, 6

George v. United States,
125 F.2d 559 (D.C. Cir. 1942) 9

Henry v. Champlain Enterprises, Inc.,
288 F. Supp. 2d 202 (N.D.N.Y. 2003) 26

Howard v. Capital Transit Co.,
163 F.2d 910 (D.C. Cir. 1947) 9

KW Plastics v. United States Can Co.,
131 F. Supp. 2d 1289 (M.D. Ala. 2001) 27

Knowledge Based Techs., Inv. v. IBM Corp.,
1998 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 4602 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 8, 1998) 26

Luck v. Baltimore & Ohio R.R.,
510 F.2d 663 (D.C. Cir. 1974) 22, 23

Mahon v. Reading Co.,
367 F.2d 25 (3d Cir. 1966) 9

McCann v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc.,
210 F.3d 51 (1st Cir. 2000) 9

Mowery v. Standard Oil Co.,
463 F. Supp. 762 (N.D. Ohio 1976) 27

Nissho-Iwai Co., Ltd. v. Occidental Crude Sales,
848 F.2d 613 (5th Cir. 1988) 23, 38

Norwest Bank Minnesota Nat'l Assoc. v. FDIC,
312 F.3d 447 (D.C. Cir. 2002) 51

Okusami v. Psychiatric Ins. of Wash.,
959 F.2d 1062 (D.C. Cir. 1992) 44

Peerless Corp. v. United States,
185 F.3d 922 (8th Cir. 1999) 21

Randy's Studebaker Sales, Inc. v. Nissan Motor Corp.,
533 F.2d 510 (10th Cir. 1976) 30

Ray v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc.,
120 F.3d 882 (8th Cir. 1997) 31

Rogers v. Ingersoll-Rand Co.,
144 F.3d 841 (D.C. Cir. 1998) 9

Sheppard v. Dickstein, Shapiro, Morin & Oshinsky,
59 F. Supp. 2d 27 (D.D.C. 1999) 45

Stewart v. Capital Transit Co.,
108 F.2d 1 (D.C. Cir. 1939) 9

Tyger Constr. Co. v. Pensacola Constr. Co.,
29 F.3d 137 (4th Cir. 1994) 27

United States v. Adams,
73 F. Supp. 2d 1 (D.D.C. 1999) 34

United States v. Neill,
964 F. Supp. 438 (D.D.C. 1997) 40

United States v. Park,
421 U.S. 658 (1975) 10

United States v. Sullivan,
1 F.3d 1191 (11th Cir. 1993) 23

Wagner v. Professional Eng'rs in Calif. Government,
354 F.3d 1036 (9th Cir. 2004) 52

Wilcox v. Plummer,
29 U.S. (4 Pet.) 172 (1829) 52

Young-Henderson v. Spartanburg Area Mental Health Ctr., 945 F.2d 770 (4th Cir. 1991) 52

Other Materials

9 James W. Moore, Moore's Federal Practice Sec. 50.43[3][b] 42

9A Charles A. Wright, et al., Federal Practice & Procedure
§ 2507 (2d ed. 1995) 9

11 Charles A. Wright et al., Federal Practice & Procedure
§ 2805 (2d ed. 1995) 21, 24, 38

Webster's II College Dictionary (1995) 5

ABA Code of Judicial Conduct Canon 3 33

Rules

D.C. Super. Ct. Rule 63-I 31

Super. Ct. Rule 51 4

Super. Ct. Rule 49 9

Super. Ct. Rule 50(b) 41, 43

Super. Ct. Rule 16(b)(5) 52

Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) 5

Introduction

After more than three years of pretrial proceedings and a two-week trial, the jury returned a verdict rejecting NCRIC, Inc.'s claim against Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia"), and awarding $18.2 million on the hospital's counterclaims. NCRIC seeks to overturn the jury's verdict with a grab-bag of arguments, some of which the Court has heard and rejected many times before, others of which NCRIC failed to preserve, and all of which lack merit.

Motion for New Trial. NCRIC has only a single quarrel with the Court's charge to the jury, claiming that the Court should have instructed that "egregious conduct" is the touchstone for liability in a claim for tortious interference. But NCRIC fails to cite a single authority requiring proof of "egregious conduct" to prevail on a claim for tortious interference. The Court properly rejected NCRIC's instruction and correctly stated the elements for a claim of tortious interference in the District. Moreover, given the evidence of NCRIC's conduct – including its retributive cancellation of an insurance policy covering a community health clinic and its unprecedented issuance of exclusionary endorsements to any doctor who sought to treat clinic patients – the jury's verdict is amply supported by the record.

NCRIC argues that the jury lacked sufficient evidence to find for Columbia on the causation element of its tortious interference claims, or to support its damages award for breach of contract. But NCRIC asks the Court to disregard the fact-finding province of the jury, rely exclusively on carefully selected snippets of NCRIC's favorite evidence, and turn a blind eye to the mass of contrary proof from which a reasonable jury could (and did) find for Columbia.

NCRIC again contests the admissibility of Peter Ben Ezra's testimony, rehashing arguments the Court has rejected before many times. Tellingly, NCRIC fails to cite, let alone seek to apply, the controlling legal standard for the admission of expert opinion in the District, Dyas v. United States, 376 A.2d 827 (D.C. 1977). In a final note of apparent desperation, NCRIC renews its recusal demand. NCRIC, however, ignores the obligation of courts not to recuse, overlooks the complete absence of case law to support its motion, and submits a statement of the facts that is incomplete and inaccurate in important respects. (Point I).

Motion for Reduced Damages. The jury's mid-range award fell easily within what the evidence supported and, thus, there is no ground for remittitur. Indeed, the jury would have been entitled, on the proof elicited at trial, to award millions more in compensatory and punitive damages. The fact that the jury did not speaks volumes about the carefulness of its deliberations and the reasonableness of its decision. NCRIC is not free to second-guess an award supported by sufficient evidence. (Point II).

Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law. In a few perfunctory pages, NCRIC suggests that insufficient proof supported the jury's finding that (a) Columbia had an ongoing business relationship with its doctors, and (b) NCRIC intentionally sought to interfere with Columbia's business expectancy. But there is ample evidence to support both findings; indeed, NCRIC conceded as much at trial with respect to the first element it now purports to contest. Finally, NCRIC's claim that Columbia failed to present sufficient evidence of its tort damages is contradicted by Columbia's presentation of multiple, independent, and corroborating sources of proof of its damages, including, in part, testimony from NCRIC's own expert. NCRIC especially attacks Columbia's post-closure damages and speculates that they must be associated with the lost congressional appropriation. But such speculation is not a ground for overturning the jury's verdict. Columbia's post-closure damages are independently and sufficiently supported by evidence of lost physician-driven revenues. In any event, NCRIC did not seek a special interrogatory asking the jury to identify the source for its post-closure damages award and thus waived this argument. Finally, record evidence supports the conclusion that the congressional appropriation Columbia lost was earmarked for programs the hospital already operated, with or without federal financing, so that these monies would have gone straight to aiding Columbia's bottom line. (Point III).

16d-003251

Discussion

I. NCRIC IS NOT ENTITLED TO A NEW TRIAL

A new trial is appropriate only if the jury's verdict is "against . . . the clear or great weight of the evidence," Richbow v. District of Columbia, 600 A.2d 1063, 1066 (D.C. 1991) (internal quotation marks omitted), or if allowing the verdict to stand would result in "a miscarriage of justice," District of Columbia v. Murtaugh, 728 A.2d 1237, 1241 (D.C. 1999). Neither such precondition exists here. When reviewing the evidence on a new trial motion, moreover, courts will not "set aside a jury verdict only because [they] would have reached a different result." Railan v. Katyal, 766 A.2d 998, 1013 (D.C. 2001); Haight v. District of Columbia, 783 A.2d 590, 597 (D.C. 2001) (reversing grant of new trial as an abuse of discretion and explaining that "the court does not simply replicate the jury's task").

A. NCRIC Was Not Entitled to an Erroneous "Egregious Conduct" Instruction

The "composition of instructions is largely a matter within the discretion of the trial court," and the Court of Appeals "refrain[s] from handing down any hard or fast rules." Simons v. Federal Bar Bldg. Corp., 275 A.2d 545, 549 (D.C. 1971). Trial courts thus have "broad discretion in fashioning appropriate jury instructions, and [the] refusal to grant a request for a particular instruction is not a ground for reversal if the court's charge, considered as a whole, fairly and accurately states the applicable law." Hawthorne v. Canavan, 756 A.2d 397, 402 n.7 (D.C. 2000). Further, it is well-settled that any objection to a jury instruction must state "distinctly the matter objected to and the grounds of the objection." Super. Ct. R. 51. And this requirement is strictly construed: "objections to jury instructions must be specific enough to direct the judge's attention to the correct rule of law." Knight v. Georgetown Univ., 725 A.2d 472, 482 (D.C. 1999). NCRIC does not come close to making a case for reversal under these binding standards.

1. The Court Properly Instructed the Jury

The Court of Appeals has explained repeatedly, and in a case decided just last year, that a prima facie claim of tortious interference requires a showing of four elements: (1) the existence of a valid business relationship; (2) knowledge of that relationship; (3) intentional interference with that relationship; and (4) resulting damage. Alfred A. Altimont, Inc. v. Chatelain, Samperton & Nolan, 374 A.2d 284, 289 (D.C. 1977); Casco v. District of Columbia Dev., L.L.C., 834 A.2d 77, 83-84 (D.C. 2003).

In this case, the Court followed such controlling precedent to the letter, providing instructions that tracked the elements described by the Court of Appeals precisely and word for word. Jury Instr. at 12; 2/10 Tr. 171-72. Under the Court's instruction and the Court of Appeals' precedent, Columbia was obliged to show that it had a valid business relationship with its doctors; that NCRIC knew of this relationship; that NCRIC interfered with that relationship; that NCRIC did so intentionally;[1] and that NCRIC's intentional inference was the proximate cause of Columbia's damages. The Court stated the law of the District clearly and correctly and, accordingly, NCRIC has no basis to complain.[2]

NCRIC does not cite – and we are unaware of – any controlling authority requiring a jury to find "egregious conduct" before finding a defendant liable for tortious interference. Certainly the cases cited by NCRIC do not support that contention. Genetic Systems Corp. v. Abbott Laboratories, 691 F. Supp. 407, 422-23 (D.D.C. 1988), from the federal system, simply granted a Rule 12(b)(6) dismissal where the only interference plaintiff alleged was the fact that defendant managed to win an exclusive contract for supplying blood screening equipment to the Red Cross, a contract plaintiff had hoped to

---

[1] The plain meaning – and, indeed, dictionary definition – of "intention" is to have a "plan of action." See Webster's II College Dictionary 576 (1995) (first definition). That is exactly what Columbia alleged and proved at trial. See infra Part I.B (discussing NCRIC's self-described "Plan of Action for Columbia").

[2] In fact, the Court of Appeals has held far less "egregious" conduct than that proven here sufficient to constitute tortious interference. For example, in Casco, the Court of Appeals reversed a trial court judgment as a matter of law in favor of a defendant landlord agency of the D.C. government, even though there was no showing of "egregious conduct," but only that defendant had issued a notice of default to a tenant in an effort to strike a better economic deal for itself under the parties' lease. 834 A.2d at 84. In doing so, the Court of Appeals expressly rejected cases from other jurisdictions holding that a defendant's pursuit of its own economic interests cannot be tortious interference. Id. In Dyer v. William S. Bergman & Associates, Inc., 657 A.2d 1132 (D.C. 1995), the Court of Appeals affirmed a tortious interference judgment based on a simple breach of contract where the defendant-former employee solicited business in violation of a non-compete agreement with his former employer. Id. at 1138. In Sorrells v. Garfinckel's, 565 A.2d 285 (D.C. 1989), the Court affirmed a judgment of tortious interference where defendant had merely failed to supply an employee with a stool or a phone to make sales calls, and had engaged in other similar conduct. See id. at 290-92. Plainly, this Court stated the law of the District correctly. See also Casco, 834 A.2d at 84 ("The elements of tortious interference with prospective business advantage mirror those of interference with contract."); Brown v. Carr, 503 A.2d 1241, 1247 (D.C. 1986) (intentional interference with business relations "runs parallel to that of interference with existing contracts").

win. See id. The district court held that these allegations standing alone do not suggest that defendant bore the intent to interfere with plaintiff's (purely prospective) business relations. The court nowhere laid down the hard and fast rule peddled by NCRIC that "egregious conduct" must be proved to establish a claim (let alone do so in a case where business relations are existing at the time of the tort, as here). To the contrary, the express holding of Genetic Systems was that "knowledge [that one's conduct will interfere] or such effects alone, without allegations of intent to interfere by Abbott, cannot support plaintiff's claim," and, in identical terms to the charge given by this Court, the court in Genetic Systems stated the elements of tortious interference with prospective economic advantage. Id.[3]

The only other case cited in NCRIC's proffered "egregious conduct" instruction nowhere mentions, let alone enforces, such a standard. Bennett Enters., Inc. v. Domino's Pizza, Inc., 45 F.3d 493 (D.C. Cir. 1995). That case held only that an "ill motive or intent to disrupt [an] economic advantage" is sufficient to establish tortious interference with prospective business relations. Id. at 499 (emphasis added). In this case, the Court expressly instructed that just such a finding of intent to disrupt existing business relations was necessary for the jury to establish liability. Jury Instr. at 12; 2/10 Tr. 171-72.

Not only was NCRIC's "egregious conduct" instruction without support in any case law, it would have improperly shifted the burden of proof. Under D.C. law, once the four prima facie elements of Altimont are established, including an intent to interfere, the burden shifts to the opposing party to demonstrate that its conduct was "legally justified or privileged." 374 A.2d at 289. NCRIC's proffered instruction, however, would have functionally undone this rule, requiring Columbia to show that NCRIC's actions were not legally justified or privileged – rather than requiring NCRIC to justify its intentional interference or prove that it was somehow privileged.

[3] To the extent Genetic Systems spoke of "egregious conduct," it did so in the context of rejecting an argument that mere knowledge by the defendants was sufficient. See 691 F. Supp. at 423. In any event, Genetic Systems explicitly noted uncertainty over which law applied in that case – the options were D.C., Illinois, and Washington state law – and the court viewed the elements as uncontroversial in those three jurisdictions. Tellingly, the court did not cite any District of Columbia Court of Appeals cases, but rather cited an Illinois case and a Ninth Circuit case in the passage where it used the word "egregious." See id.

NCRIC cites extraneous snippets from the Court's summary judgment opinion in purported support of its cause (Mot. 5-6), but that opinion merely acknowledged the variety of evidence that could prove tortious intent. SJ Order 10. Indeed, the Court denied NCRIC's motion because NCRIC's ongoing series of "scare tactics" had the effect of causing doctors to leave (exactly what was proved at trial). Id. Likewise, NCRIC seeks to make much of Columbia's proposed instructions, but it does not quote from Columbia's primary tortious interference instruction, citing instead only an alternative Columbia offered for use only in the event that the Court agreed with NCRIC's (mistaken) premise that "egregious conduct" is required. Nothing in those sources remotely establishes that NCRIC was entitled to an "egregious conduct" instruction.

To the extent that NCRIC's brief may now be understood to complain that the Court's instructions should have included something in addition to or other than a discussion of "egregious conduct," see Mot. 7, any such argument has been waived. Prior to the Court's charge on tortious interference, NCRIC noted that the Court had "dropped the discussion of egregious conduct." 2/10 Tr. 160. The Court responded that it made a "conscious decision" on that issue, and NCRIC "note[d] our exception to that." Id. That colloquy thus referred only to "egregious conduct" and nothing else.

The Court of Appeals has explained that, under Rule 51, "objections to jury instructions must be specific enough to direct the judge's attention to the correct rule of law." Knight, 725 A.2d at 482. NCRIC's objection did no such thing, directing the Court's attention not to any correct rule of law, but instead only to the absence of its erroneous "egregious conduct" instruction. See also District of Columbia v. Mitchell, 533 A.2d 629, 636-37 (D.C. 1987) (rejecting "broader objection raised for the first time on appeal" because objecting party "did not preserve the issue now before the court"); Watts v. Smith, 226 A.2d 160, 163 (D.C. 1967) ("failure to renew objections after the charge had been given to the jury" means that party "waived his objections and accepted them as satisfactory").

Moreover, to the extent that NCRIC now might be understood to suggest that this Court was obligated to take snippets from NCRIC's proffered instructions and reshape them into a correct statement of law, that assertion is also incorrect. Courts have broad discretion in accepting or rejecting explanatory elaborations when shaping jury instructions. See p. 4, supra (outlining broad discretion afforded in jury instructions); see also Simons, 275 A.2d at 550 (court had discretion whether to give explanatory charge that fraud may consist of suppression of a material fact); Hawthorne, 756 A.2d at 402 (no error where court declined to give an instruction regarding the quantum of proof required to establish proximate causation); Coleman v. Chudnow, 35 A.2d 925, 926-27 (D.C. 1944) (court was within its discretion to decline explanatory charge that negligence can be proved without reference to government regulations).

In this vein, it is long-settled that where a party offers an instruction that misstates the law in any respect, it cannot expect the "trial judge to recast or modify [that] erroneous or misleading instruction" to make it an accurate statement of law. Id. at 926. A trial court simply is under no duty "to rewrite an improper instruction to capture a kernel that may have some validity; it is counsel's job to present an unimpeachable instruction." McCann v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 210 F.3d 51, 55 (1st Cir. 2000). See also Rogers v. Ingersoll-Rand Co., 144 F.3d 841, 845 (D.C. Cir. 1998) (trial court is "under no obligation to tinker with [a] flawed proposed instruction until it [i]s legally acceptable"); Howard v. Capital Transit Co., 163 F.2d 910, 912 (D.C. Cir. 1947) (trial court has no duty "to rewrite an incorrect request to charge"); George v. United States, 125 F.2d 559, 563 (D.C. Cir. 1942) (same); Stewart v. Capital Transit Co., 108 F.2d 1, 3 (D.C. Cir. 1939) ("[t]he trial court was under no independent duty to supply correct instructions, the plaintiffs' requests being defective").[4]

Without such a rule, moreover, litigants would have every incentive to request, as NCRIC did, a legally overreaching, incorrect instruction; then sit back and watch as their instruction is rejected; offer no legally correct alternative instruction; fail to object after the jury is charged; and then take a "chance on a favorable verdict [while] reserving a right to impeach it if it happens to go the other way." District of Columbia v. Banks, 646 A.2d 972, 978 (D.C. 1994).[5]

---

[4] Accord Catts v. Phalen, 43 U.S. (2 How.) 376, 382 (1844) ("a party cannot assign for error, the refusal of an instruction to which he has not a right to the full extent as stated and in its precise terms"); Thoma v. Kettler Bros., Inc., 632 A.2d 725, 731 (D.C. 1993) (Sullivan, J., concurring); Mahon v. Reading Co., 367 F.2d 25, 33 (3d Cir. 1966) ("no error" for a court to decline to separate what was "partly right and partly wrong" in proffered instruction because there is "no duty on the court to redraw requested instructions").

[5] NCRIC obliquely complains about the omission of "egregious conduct" from the special interrogatories on the verdict form. Mot. 5. NCRIC failed, however, to raise any objection to the final verdict form and thus cannot be heard to complain now. Super. Ct. R. 49; 9A Charles A. Wright et al., Federal Practice & Procedure § 2507, at 182-83 (2d ed. 1995).

2. No "Miscarriage of Justice" Took Place Here

Like any other argument in support of a motion for new trial, a claim of instructional error will be reversed only if allowing the jury's verdict to stand would result in a miscarriage of justice. See Simons, 275 A.2d at 550 (affirming trial court's refusal to adopt proposed instruction and noting the "error, if any, was harmless"). And the Court of Appeals has explained that any "claim of instructional error must be 'considered in the context of the entire record at trial,' including argument" of counsel, before reversal can be justified. Moss v. Stockard, 580 A.2d 1011, 1027 (D.C. 1990) (quoting United States v. Park, 421 U.S. 658, 674-75 & n.16 (1975)); see also Hawthorne, 756 A.2d at 402 n.7; Simons, 275 A.2d at 549-50; District of Columbia v. Barnard, 144 A.2d 418, 420 (D.C. 1958).

Even if NCRIC had been entitled to its proffered "egregiousness" instruction, there is no basis for reversal taking this record as a whole. Columbia introduced ample evidence of just such egregious interference with Columbia's existing business relations. See Parts I.B & III.A, infra (recounting evidence). And the Court of Appeals has refused to overturn verdicts, even in the presence of genuine instructional error, under far more attenuated circumstances. In Banks, for example, the losing party failed to object to the trial court's instruction on the quantum of evidence necessary to impose liability, and the Court of Appeals noted that the trial judge's instruction was, unlike in this case, incorrect. 646 A.2d at 977. Nonetheless, the Court affirmed on the ground that "an impartial jury might reasonably find" gross negligence, even though the jury was "unambiguously told that the [defendant] could be liable" without a finding of gross negligence. Id. at 976-78. Banks thus holds that, where sufficient evidence would have supported a jury verdict based on a state of mind greater than charged in the instruction, the erroneous instruction will not constitute a "miscarriage of justice." Id. No different result should obtain in this case given the evidence adduced at trial. Confirming this, NCRIC was left entirely free to argue, and repeatedly did argue, its interpretation of what constitutes tortious interference to the jury – a factor the Court of Appeals found significant in Moss. See also Ceco Corp. v. Coleman, 441 A.2d 940, 947 (D.C. 1982).[6]

B. Ample Evidence Established Causation in Columbia's Tortious Interference Claim

Under settled law, a plaintiff need not show that the defendant's tortious actions were the sole cause of its injury to recover damages. Rather, as the Court instructed without objection, Columbia was required to prove only that NCRIC's conduct was one substantial factor in bringing about the damages sought. See Jury Instr. 5-12; 2/10 Tr. 158. See also Standardized Civil Jury Instruction for the District of Columbia No. 5-12 (same); District of Columbia v. Freeman, 477 A.2d 713, 715-16 (D.C. 1984) (same). Columbia presented overwhelming evidence, from multiple, corroborating sources, establishing that NCRIC's challenged conduct was a substantial factor in the doctors' decision to move their practices from Columbia. The jury's unanimous proximate cause

[6] See, e.g., 2/10 Tr. 86 ("[w]hat Columbia has to show in this case is that NCRIC took some extraordinary action to try to intimidate these doctors or coerce them or lie to them about what was going on"); 2/10 Tr. 85 ("The key to the Columbia claim is that NCRIC destroyed this hospital because NCRIC forced this group, by name, of doctors away from the hospital."); 2/10 Tr. 86 ("[T]ortious interference is not merely offering somebody a different deal."); 2/10 Tr. 103 ("NCRIC has no obligation as an independent company to do anything for Columbia."); 2/10 Tr. 140 ("NCRIC had no obligation to deal exclusively with Columbia."); 2/10 Tr. 141 ("NCRIC has no [motive] to have the hospital fail."). Notably, Columbia did not object to or contest any of this, but instead argued that NCRIC had threatened and then engaged in a deliberate – and egregious – scheme of intimidation and retribution against the hospital when Columbia refused to accede to NCRIC's demand that the hospital cough up hundreds of thousands of dollars for renewal at a time when it was NCRIC, not Columbia, who owed money. E.g., 2/10 Tr. 109-110, 111-12, 115-20, 122-24, 129-30, 131-32.

finding (confirmed by special interrogatory) was neither against the "great weight" of the evidence nor a "miscarriage of justice" sufficient to warrant a new trial.

1. The Jury's Finding of Causation Was Supported by Substantial Evidence

(a) Columbia's Witnesses. Columbia's witnesses testified that, as early as 1998, when Columbia contemplated introducing a new insurance company to the District, NCRIC prepared a plan of action to respond retributively by taking Columbia's physicians to other hospitals. 1/30 Tr. 387, 390-92 (Rifka). They also explained that NCRIC had a practice, begun during contract renegotiations in 1997 and 1998, of demanding from Columbia money that it did not owe as a condition for any future insurance coverage. 1/30 Tr. 362-64 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 476-77 (Wilson). Witnesses testified that NCRIC had the power to make and enforce such demands because of the paucity of competition and its dominant market position in the District. 1/30 Tr. 377-78 (Rifka); 2/2 Tr. 70 (Feldman); see also 2/9 Tr. 1008-09 (Pate); 2/10 Tr. 13 (Pate).

After Columbia backed down and acceded to NCRIC's demands in 1997 and 1998, Dr. Rifka and Dr. Wilson testified that the pattern repeated itself in 2000. That year, NCRIC first demanded $944,000, and then $750,000, as a condition for renewal, even though NCRIC, not Columbia, owed money under the parties' agreements. 2/2 Tr. 110-11 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 479-81 (Wilson); DX 35. When Columbia hesitated, NCRIC again began to threaten Columbia. NCRIC's CEO, out of the blue, appeared in Dr. Wilson's office and threatened a "train wreck" if Columbia did not bend to NCRIC's demands. 2/4 Tr. 483 (Wilson). And, when Columbia's Board of Directors ultimately refused to yield, NCRIC issued a notice of termination for the Retro Plan. DX 36. Though NCRIC sought to suggest at trial that it "had" to issue such a notice in the absence of an agreement for future years, the jury was free to discredit this testimony, especially when NCRIC never offered this explanation at the time or at any point prior to trial. 2/4 Tr. 488 (Wilson); 2/10 Tr. 117 (closing). Indeed, witnesses explained that NCRIC had never done anything like this in past years during prior renegotiations – even when the parties operated without any written agreement for over a year, between 1996 and 1997. 1/30 Tr. 361-62 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 492 (Wilson). On a motion for new trial, NCRIC simply is not free to substitute its credibility determinations for the jury's. Railan, 766 A.2d at 1013; Haight, 783 A.2d at 597.

16d-003261

Two days after issuing the Retro Plan termination notice – and without any explanation – NCRIC terminated a separate policy covering Columbia's community health clinic serving the poor, even though the clinic was current on its premium, its insurance contract had been renewed just six months earlier without a word of concern from NCRIC, and the policy was not up for renewal or renegotiation until the end of the year. 2/2 Tr. 114-16 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 487, 489 (Wilson); DX 62. Columbia's witnesses testified that NCRIC's actions, aimed at increasing pressure on Columbia to accede to NCRIC's renewal demands, struck panic within the hospital, and doctors began making arrangements to move their practices. 2/2 Tr. 15-16 (Cooper); 2/2 Tr. 113 (Rifka); DX 52; see also 2/4 Tr. 592-93 (Johnson); 2/4 Tr. 633 (Dukes).

Less than two weeks later, Columbia's problems were exacerbated when NCRIC issued undiscounted bills to the doctors, reflecting premium increases of tens of thousands of dollars. DX 57; 2/2 Tr. 122-24 (Rifka). While NCRIC now claims (again) that insurance rules "required" it to issue such bills, the jury was entitled to discredit this testimony, especially when NCRIC pointed to no such insurance rules at the time it issued the bills; it identified no such authority at trial; and it never issued bills like this during previous contract renegotiations, or even when the parties operated without any contract for over a year. 2/2 Tr. 125-28 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 491-92 (Wilson); 2/5 Tr. 773-74 (Fargis); DX 57; 2/10 Tr. 120-21 (closing). At approximately the same time that NCRIC issued the undiscounted bills, moreover, its Chairman told the assembled leadership of the hospital that, if Columbia did not agree to terms with NCRIC, the hospital would close and doctors should begin looking for work elsewhere. 2/2 Tr. 141-44 (Rifka). Such conduct reinforced the turmoil within the hospital, and doctors left in droves. 2/2 Tr. 144 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 504-05 (Wilson).[7]

Nor did NCRIC's plan of retribution stop there. Unsatisfied because Columbia still had not yielded to its demands, NCRIC issued an unprecedented "exclusionary endorsement" removing insurance coverage from doctors practicing at Columbia's clinic. Michael Feldman, an insurance broker with over 30 years of experience in the industry, testified that he had seen many exclusions, covering events such as nuclear war, terrorism, or felonious conduct, but that he had never seen an exclusion pinpointing a particular location, let alone a certified community health clinic. See 2/2 Tr. 68-69.

Testimony from Columbia's witnesses demonstrated that the hospital's doctors were extremely loyal to the hospital, and had remained so throughout previous financial

[7] A NCRIC employee, David Osborn, was used by senior NCRIC management as a pawn in these proceedings. Osborn told Dr. Wilson that he would continue negotiations in good faith with Columbia toward reaching a new agreement. 2/2 Tr. 122 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 522-23 (Wilson). And, in fact, Osborn and Dr. Wilson continued negotiations through August 15, 2000. 2/4 Tr. 494 (Wilson). Yet, when Dr. Wilson, who had spoken to Osborn by phone on a nearly daily basis throughout the summer, tried to reach Osborn multiple times on August 15 to finalize what was a favorable deal for Columbia, he was unable to reach him. 2/4 Tr. 497 (Wilson). Ultimately, NCRIC's CEO, Ray Pate, returned the call and told Dr. Wilson that NCRIC would not honor the deal Osborn had signed, though Pate acknowledged internally within NCRIC that a deal had been reached, PX 94; Osborn was never heard from again, and was fired by NCRIC in January 2001. 2/4 Tr. 499 (Wilson); 2/4 Tr. 810 (Fargis); 2/9 Tr. 1080 (Pate).

16d-003263

difficulties, including a receivership and bankruptcy. 1/29 Tr. 236 (Chamblee); 2/2 Tr. 19-20 (Cooper); 2/2 Tr. 151 (Rifka); 1/29 Tr. 290 (Proctor); 2/2 Tr. 100-01 (McCants); 2/4 Tr. 568-69 (Blank); 2/4 Tr. 600 (Johnson). Yet, they all testified, a mass "exodus" of doctors occurred in late 2000. E.g., 2/2 Tr. 19-20 (Cooper); 2/2 Tr. 151 (Rifka); 1/29 Tr. 289 (Proctor); 2/4 Tr. 604 (Johnson). And they testified that this exodus had nothing to do with causes other than NCRIC. E.g., 2/2 Tr. 19-20 (Cooper); 2/2 Tr. 151, 164 (Rifka); 1/29 Tr. 280-81 (Proctor); 2/2 Tr. 99-100 (McCants). Instead, they explained that doctors left Columbia specifically because of the scare tactics NCRIC employed, including the unprecedented "termination" of the Retro Plan, the out-of-the-blue and unjustified decision to pull coverage from the clinic, the (again unprecedented) issuance of huge new bills, Dr. Glassman's explicit and uncontroverted warnings to hospital doctors and staff, and the vindictive exclusionary endorsement of individual policies for doctors working in the clinic. 2/2 Tr. 99 (McCants); 2/2 Tr. 117, 128, 164-65 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 505 (Wilson); 2/2 Tr. 19-20 (Cooper). Such testimony, standing alone, establishes that NCRIC was a substantial cause of Columbia's damages.

(b) Exhibits. Columbia introduced evidence showing that, as early as 1998, when Columbia contemplated introducing a new insurance company to the District, NCRIC prepared an explicit plan of action to take Columbia's physicians to other hospitals where NCRIC controlled the insurance business. E.g., DX 18 (letter from CEO Pate to Columbia stating "[y]ou should understand that NCRIC intends to continue providing its much needed insurance protection to the physicians in this program with or without the support of CHW"); DX 22 (NCRIC presentation to doctors, stating "if [Columbia] does not want to continue its relationship with NCRIC, your coverage is portable to other programs"); DX 25 (draft letter from Fargis to Columbia doctors informing them that, "[s]hould you desire a continued premium reduction through a similar program, you may have the opportunity to participate with a NCRIC-sponsored plan at Sibley Memorial Hospital, or, The George Washington University Hospital . . . please contact us regarding your decision to participate with one of the above programs"); DX 15 & PX 172 (spreadsheets listing doctors' names and hospitals at which each had privileges, compiled by NCRIC's Fargis to evaluate where NCRIC might seek to move attending-faculty physicians upon learning that Columbia was considering plan with alternate carrier).

16d-003264

While Columbia eventually backed down in 1998, the evidence showed that, when Columbia did not immediately accede to NCRIC's contract renewal demands in 2000, NCRIC carried out its earlier threats. Indeed, after Columbia refused to give in to NCRIC's baseless financial conditions for renewal in June 2000, NCRIC management and a committee of its Board expressly adopted a "Plan of Action for Columbia" that detailed NCRIC's intention to have Columbia doctors "absorb[ed]" into its existing program at Sibley Hospital and into a "new program" at George Washington that NCRIC started specifically in response to Columbia's recalcitrance. DX 37. NCRIC's documents, too, offer examples of it carrying out this plan, facilitating the departure of doctors to other hospitals, and thus showing causation. E.g., DX 57 (NCRIC bills showing massive increase in premiums for doctors who stayed at Columbia, and discounts for doctors who moved to other hospitals).

Columbia also introduced exhibits from doctors specifically explaining that they or other doctors would be forced to stop practicing at Columbia because NCRIC had wrongfully terminated coverage. E.g., DX 41 (Women's Physician Group explaining that it would no longer work in the clinic because of insufficient liability coverage); DX 46 (letter from Dr. Koch, a NCRIC Board member, explaining that he "resigned my position due to the lack of specific malpractice coverage for my work in the clinic . . . [m]y malpractice carrier, NCRIC, will no longer cover my work through the clinic as of 11/15/00"); DX 52 (letter from Dr. Cooper, stating that Columbia "will probably lose 1/2 to 2/3 of your physicians and the patients that they bring to the hospital," and that "everyone seems to be making plans to leave Columbia and to go to either Sibley or G.W."). Plainly, the jury was free to credit such evidence.

Columbia's financial records prove causation as well. The evidence showed that Columbia's patient admissions were steady and increasing between 1998 and 2000. DX 47. At the same time, Columbia provided uncontroverted evidence that it turned a profit for the first time in many years in May and June 2000, and was on track for a profitable year. 2/2 Tr. 166-67 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 506 (Wilson). After the onset of NCRIC's tortious conduct, however, every one of Columbia's financial indicators – births, admissions, surgeries, and in-patient days – suddenly and precipitously fell. DX 47. Such dramatic declines, occurring at the exact moment of, and in tandem with, NCRIC's challenged conduct, were sufficient by themselves to prove causation.

(c) NCRIC's Witnesses. NCRIC's witnesses also provided overwhelming evidence of causation. For example, Stephen Moore conceded that Columbia's revenue records reflected steady performance through 1998 and 2000. 2/6 Tr. 928-29. Moore acknowledged as well that, between 1999 and 2000, Columbia's market share increased and was far outpacing competitors Sibley and George Washington. 2/6 Tr. 932-33.

16d-003266

Moore was further forced to concede that, at the very moment NCRIC undertook its tortious conduct, all of Columbia's financial indicators dropped in a dramatic "step down" function. 2/6 Tr. 931. Dr. Dukes, NCRIC's corporate representative and Board member, frankly admitted that insurance issues were "one reason" why he left Columbia, a place he said was the best place he had ever worked. 2/4 Tr. 632-33, 656. NCRIC's CEO admitted that 30 to 40 doctors left Columbia and insurance was "one issue related to the decision." 2/3 Tr. 252 (Pate). Dr. Johnson was forced to concede that she stopped work at the clinic only because NCRIC had discontinued coverage. 2/4 Tr. 594, 596. Dr. Dukes acknowledged, too, that he had seen letters from doctors citing insurance as the reason they stopped working in the clinic, and that he had not seen any letters citing other reasons for their departures. 2/4 Tr. 652. NCRIC's witnesses also testified that, prior to the exodus of doctors at the time of NCRIC's tortious conduct, they had never seen 30 or so doctors leave Columbia within a matter of weeks. 2/4 Tr. 573 (Blank); 2/4 Tr. 604 (Johnson); 2/4 Tr. 650 (Dukes).

2. NCRIC's Causation Arguments Misstate the Evidence and Law

NCRIC fails to cite a single case in which a new trial was granted on a remotely similar record. Nor does NCRIC disclose that the Court of Appeals has affirmed findings of causation on weaker records. E.g., Dyer, 657 A.2d at 1137-38 (holding that, although "there was no direct evidence" of tortious interference, entirely circumstantial evidence sufficed).

Operating in a vacuum of legal authority, NCRIC's entire argument consists of four pages spent recounting its favorite evidence and mischaracterizing Columbia's. NCRIC emphasizes, for example, that two of its doctor witnesses (Dr. Johnson and Dr.

16d-003267

Blank) claimed that they coincidentally happened to leave Columbia in the summer or fall of 2000. (The third doctor whom NCRIC mentions, Dr. Dukes, frankly admitted that insurance was a reason why he left.) A reasonable jury could choose to reject such explanations as unsatisfactory or unresponsive to the evidence described above, particularly because both witnesses still depended on NCRIC for insurance, 2/4 Tr. 578 (Blank); Dr. Blank had over $1 million paid out on his behalf by NCRIC, 2/4 Tr. 578-79; and Dr. Dukes had been paid large sums by NCRIC for serving on its Board, 2/4 Tr. 640-41, 659-60. Further, a reasonable jury could determine that Drs. Blank, Johnson, and Dukes – who, NCRIC submits, "represented" certain practice groups on the list used by Peter Ben Ezra in one of his damages calculations – did leave because of NCRIC, given the "coincidental" timing of their departures, Dr. Dukes's admission about the role of insurance in his decision to leave, and Dr. Johnson's admission (and letter reflecting) that she stopped working in the clinic only because NCRIC terminated coverage. Columbia expressly argued just such points to the jury. 2/10 Tr. 108 (closing); see also 2/4 Tr. 632 (Dukes); 2/4 Tr. 594 (Johnson); DX 41.

NCRIC also submits that Columbia's witnesses did not provide "direct" evidence concerning why doctors left. But Columbia witnesses repeatedly testified, from their personal observations and knowledge, that doctors left in the fall of 2000 because of NCRIC's challenged conduct – and this certainly qualifies as "direct" evidence. See p. 15, supra. Nor does the fact that some of a party's evidence is circumstantial rather than direct entitle it to any less weight. To the contrary, "[c]ircumstantial evidence is not only sufficient, but may also be more certain, satisfying and persuasive than direct evidence." Desert Palace, Inc. v. Costa, 123 S. Ct. 2148, 2154 (2003). See also Dyer, 657 A.2d at 1137.

Finally, NCRIC curiously claims that the evidence regarding the departure of clinic doctors is irrelevant. While NCRIC does not dispute that its conduct caused doctors to stop practicing in the clinic, it asserts that it should escape liability because Columbia did not seek damages for the loss of clinic physicians. NCRIC's assertion is baseless. Dr. Rifka and Dr. Wilson testified, and Columbia argued in closing, all without objection, that one measure of damages suffered by Columbia from NCRIC's tortious actions was the difference in revenue between the years before and after NCRIC's conduct. See 2/2 Tr. 165-66 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 505-06 (Wilson); 2/10 Tr. 132-35 (closing). This measure of damages took into account all revenue that Columbia lost because of the departure of doctors, including those who worked at the clinic. NCRIC's expert Moore testified to this same revenue loss, agreeing that Columbia's revenue for the year before NCRIC cancelled the Retro Plan and clinic policy was approximately $10 million more than its revenue for the year after such conduct. See 2/6 Tr. 929-30. Contrary to NCRIC's unsupported intimations, clinic physicians were critical to Columbia's successful operation, and their loss contributed to the damages suffered by the hospital. 1/29 Tr. 271-72 (Proctor); 1/30 Tr. 349-51 (Rifka); 2/2 Tr. 99-101 (McCants). NCRIC's inability to deny that it induced clinic physicians to leave underscores the strength of Columbia's causation evidence.[8]

[8]NCRIC fleetingly complains that the contemporaneous letters from Columbia doctors about their reasons for leaving, even if they do demonstrate causation, fail to show that NCRIC's conduct was "egregious." Mot. 9. As explained above, "egregious" conduct is not the law; intentional interference is. See Part I.A, supra. Besides, NCRIC's argument conflates different elements of tortious interference. NCRIC's motion for a new trial attacks only the jury's finding on causation, not its findings on other elements of tortious interference, such as intent. See Mot. 8. And, in all events, as discussed below, Columbia introduced ample evidence to support the jury's conclusions with respect to intent. See Part III.A, infra.

16d-003269

C. Sufficient Evidence Supported the Jury's Contract Damages Award

NCRIC argues that insufficient evidence exists to sustain the jury's breach of contract award. Mot. 12. At no point during trial, however, did NCRIC challenge the sufficiency of the evidence on Columbia's contract claim. Rather, NCRIC explicitly disavowed any such challenge. See 2/10 Tr. 39; 2/4 Tr. 535. Accordingly, NCRIC cannot now be heard to argue the sufficiency of Columbia's proof. See 11 Wright et al., § 2805, at 57-58 ("A principle that strikes very deep is that a new trial will not be granted on grounds not called to the court's attention during trial unless the error was so fundamental that gross injustice would result."); Peerless Corp. v. United States, 185 F.3d 922, 928-29 (8th Cir. 1999).

Even if NCRIC had preserved its current sufficiency challenge to Columbia's contract damages, it lacks merit. Under settled law, so long as the award fits within the range supported by the evidence, it will not be disturbed. See Knight, 725 A.2d at 486 ("a jury verdict is excessive when it is so inordinately large as obviously to exceed the maximum limit of a reasonable range within the jury may properly operate, or when it is beyond all reason, or is so great as to shock the conscience"); cases cited pp. 34-35, infra (explaining deferential standard of review applied to damages awards in post-trial review). Here, the jury's award of $220,002 was well within the range supported by the evidence, which would have supported damages from a nominal award of $1, as NCRIC argued, up to at least $1,559,797.67.[9] NCRIC disputes none of this and its primary case,

---

[9] 2/10 Tr. 130-31, 163-69. $1 million was given to NCRIC by Columbia in 1997 as a security deposit under the contract. See 1/30 Tr. 364-65, 367 (Rifka); 2/2 Tr. 51-52 (Feldman); 2/3 Tr. 387, 390 (Gaffey); DX 22, 79 (NCRIC documents describing the $1 million as a "deposit"). In addition, under any reasonable calculation of contract damages, Columbia was owed hundreds of thousands of dollars. E.g., DX 85 (identifying sums for each year, including over $500,000 due to Columbia for 1994-95 alone), PX 178 (NCRIC's own document conceding Columbia was owed nearly $200,000 for 1994-95).

16d-003270

Doe v. Binker, 492 A.2d 857 (D.C. 1985), confirms that the jury's award must be affirmed. In Doe, the Court of Appeals reversed a remittitur, even though the jury's award was nearly twice the amount testified to by plaintiff's expert; in doing so, the court expressly instructed that, to survive post-trial challenge, the evidence supporting damages "must be more than a scintilla, but it need not point entirely in one direction." Id. at 860 (internal quotation marks omitted).[10]

NCRIC resorts to suggesting that the jury's award was the result of improper compromise by speculating that various permutations of the evidence would not total the amount of the jury's award. Mot. 12. Notably, NCRIC cites no case granting a new trial based on such surmise. Nor can it: under settled law, the movant must present actual evidence of wrongful juror conduct. E.g., Luck v. Baltimore & Ohio R.R., 510 F.2d 663, 668 (D.C. Cir. 1974) ("Appellant also speculates that several factors may have caused the jury to render a compromise verdict. We find no reason to explore these factors, as mere speculation will not suffice to prove that the jury reached its verdict improperly."). NCRIC attempts no such showing.

In any event, the evidence presented the jury with a wide spectrum of possible contract awards; this was hardly a case in which the jury could only find that NCRIC was liable either for the full amount that Columbia requested or for nothing at all. A reasonable jury might have concluded that NCRIC applied the wrong deposit premium, or the correct one. See 2/5 Tr. 713, 718 (Fargis) (deposit premium had to be 62%, though [10]NCRIC's remaining cases are likewise inapposite. Allstate Insurance Co. v. Ramos, 782 A.2d 280 (D.C. 2001), reversed a verdict only after ruling that the four letters on which it was based were inadmissible hearsay. In Pratt v. University of the District of Columbia, 691 A.2d 158, 159 (D.C. 1997), the court affirmed the reduction of a jury award for back pay only after finding that liability for the period in question was based on "bare surmise" that the plaintiff might have extended his contract with the defendant university.

16d-003271

contract said 67%). The jury reasonably could have determined that NCRIC applied the wrong minimum premium for some years, but not others, see 2/5 Tr. 821 (Fargis) (correct minimum premium was 75% for two years, though contract said 60%). It also could have found that NCRIC should have applied either a discount of 33% (DX 76 at 6) or one of 30%, see 2/5 Tr. 817-18 (Fargis). The jury was likewise free to conclude that amounts were owed for some years (e.g., where all claims had closed out), but not others (e.g., where claims remained open). In fact, under its own calculations, NCRIC owed Columbia nearly $200,000 for the closed year of 1994-95. See PX 178 (NCRIC reconciliation).

Had NCRIC wanted a special interrogatory asking the jury about the manner in which it calculated its award, it could have sought one. But where, as here, no such interrogatory was sought and the jury had a variety of options available to it from the evidence, courts will not assign labels of "improper compromise," let alone do so on mere speculation. See, e.g., Luck, 510 F.2d at 668; Shlopak v. Davison, 34 A.2d 126, 128 (D.C. 1943) ("the evidence here revealed this is not" an "all or nothing" case; holding that "the jury was justified in striking what it found was a fair balance of debits and credits between the parties"); Carter v. Duncan-Huggins Ltd., 727 F.2d 1225, 1239-39 (D.C. Cir. 1984) (in reviewing a jury award, a court "need not – and indeed cannot – reconstruct the precise mathematical formula that the jury adopted; [n]or need we explore every possible quantitative analysis or compute the basis of each penny and dollar in the award").[11]

[11] Accord United States v. Sullivan, 1 F.3d 1191, 1196 (11th Cir. 1993) ("testimony throughout the trial indicated that numerous factors could affect" damages, so "[t]he jury was free to listen to the testimony, reject both figures offered by the parties, and arrive at a figure which seemed reasonable to it"); McAdams v. Moser, 253 S.E.2d 496, 499-500 (N.C. Ct. App. 1979) (no basis for setting verdict aside as improper

D. Ben Ezra's Testimony Was Properly Received

1. NCRIC Merely Rehashes Settled Rulings

NCRIC argues once again that Peter Ben Ezra should not have been permitted to testify. Compare S.J. Mot. 41-44 and Mot. in Limine 2-13, with Mot. 13-18. The Court has already rejected this argument multiple times, and it need not revisit its prior rulings. While the law of the case doctrine may not forbid a judge from reconsidering her own interlocutory orders, the doctrine "still has force in that situation because . . . the efficient disposition of the case demands that each stage of the litigation build on the last, and not afford an opportunity to reargue every previous ruling," Williams v. Board of Tr. of Mount Jezreel Baptist Church, 589 A.2d 901, 907 (D.C. 1991) (internal quotation marks omitted); see also Scales v. United States, 687 A.2d 927, 937 (D.C. 1996) ("pretrial ruling[s] [on admissibility are] the law of the case and cannot ordinarily be revisited").

---

compromise simply because it did not comport with either plantiff's or defendant's contention of the amount due; jury had to determine which of various materials and services were outside the parties' agreement).

While NCRIC speculates that counsel's characterization of Feldman's testimony and DX 85 in closing argument may have influenced the jury (Mot. 12-13), again such surmise is not a substitute for evidence of juror misconduct. Further, NCRIC never objected to counsel's argument and, thus, cannot be heard to argue for a new trial on that basis now. 11 Wright & Miller § 2805; Doe v. Medlantic Health Care Group, Inc., 814 A.2d 939, 953 (D.C. 2003) (refusing new trial despite "reprehensible" closing argument where party failed to object); Nissho-Iwai Co., Ltd. v. Occidental Crude Sales, 848 F.2d 613, 619 (5th Cir. 1988) (reversing order for new trial because party waived its right to challenge closing argument). The jury, too, was expressly instructed that arguments of counsel about the evidence are not evidence and it is presumed to have followed those instructions. See Jury Instr. §§ 2-1, 2-5; 2/10 Tr. 149; McCullough v. United States, 827 A.2d 48, 55 (D.C. 2003) ("It is well settled in this jurisdiction that jurors are presumed to follow instructions."). Last but not least, if anything, counsel understated Columbia's contract damages: DX 85 would have authorized damages, before the return of the $1 million deposit, of as much as $765,347.39 for the two closed years, 1993-94 and 1994-95. See DX 85, PX 69 (sum of $587,568.66 and $350,593.73, minus the $172,815 that NCRIC paid Columbia in 1998). It is inexplicable how the fact that Columbia chose to argue for a more conservative figure, as it did repeatedly, emphasizing that the hospital wanted no more than it was entitled to, 2/10 Tr. 131-35, can amount to reversible prejudice to NCRIC.

2. Ben Ezra's Testimony Was Clearly Admissible Under Dyas

Even if the Court were inclined to reconsider its prior rulings, NCRIC gives it no reason to alter course now. To the contrary, NCRIC fails even to direct the Court to the legal standard governing the admission of expert evidence in the District, the three-part Dyas test:

> (1) the subject matter must be so distinctively related to some science, profession, business or occupation as to be beyond the ken of the average [juror], (2) the witness must have sufficient skill, knowledge, or experience in that field or calling as to make it appear that his opinion or inference will probably aid the trier in his search for truth, and (3) expert testimony is inadmissible if the state of the pertinent art or scientific knowledge does not permit a reasonable opinion to be asserted even by an expert.

Nixon v. United States, 728 A.2d 582 (D.C. 1999) (quoting Dyas v. United States, 376 A.2d 832). A trial court's admission of evidence under this test is given "wide latitude," and when expert evidence is received, "reversals for abuse of discretion are rare." In re Melton, 597 A.2d 892, 897 (D.C. 1991) (en banc). In fact, NCRIC cites not a single case from the Court of Appeals reversing the admission of expert testimony.

Remarkably, too, NCRIC's motion fails to address, let alone contest, any of the Dyas elements. NCRIC does not dispute that the accounting and discounted cash flow issues on which Ben Ezra testified were issues suited for expert testimony; rather, NCRIC brought and qualified its own accounting expert to testify on the very same issues. See 2/6 Tr. 947-52 (Henderson). NCRIC nowhere contests that Ben Ezra had sufficient skill in the accounting profession.[12] And, finally, NCRIC does not dispute that the state of the [12] Ben Ezra has practiced accounting for more than twenty years, taught discounted cash flow and accounting techniques to thousands of university students and practicing C.P.A.s, and contributed to authoritative textbooks in the field, among many other accomplishments. 2/3 Tr. 272-74. While NCRIC briefly complains about Ben Ezra's supposed bias, it does not argue that his connection disqualifies him under the Dyas standard, nor could it: admissibility under Dyas turns on qualifications, and Ben Ezra's are unchallenged. Besides, Ben Ezra's connections to Columbia were fully disclosed and the jury was free to art in accounting permits an expert to come to a reasonable opinion in this case. To the contrary, NCRIC concedes just this, admitting that discounted cash flow analysis – the analysis Ben Ezra employed here – is a generally accepted accounting methodology. Mot. 17. See also Henry v. Champlain Enters., Inc., 288 F. Supp. 2d 202, 221 (N.D.N.Y. 2003) (citing authority for the conclusion that "the discounted cash flow method, is [generally] accepted").

16d-003274

To be sure, NCRIC does dispute how best to apply a discounted cash flow methodology to the facts of this case. See Mot. 15-18. But under Dyas, such disputes go to weight, not admissibility. As the Court of Appeals, in a case cited by NCRIC, has explained, the "satisfaction of the third Dyas criterion begins – and ends – with a determination of whether there is general acceptance of a particular scientific methodology, not an acceptance, beyond that, of particular study results based on that methodology." Ibn-Tamas v. United States, 407 A.2d 626, 638 (D.C. 1979) (emphasis added) (reversing trial court's exclusion of testimony and following Frye v. United States, 293 F. 1013 (D.C. Cir. 1923)). NCRIC's particularized arguments about Ben Ezra's application of the generally accepted discount cash flow methodology are squarely foreclosed under this holding.[13] weigh them in assessing his credibility. Indeed, courts have allowed opinion testimony on damages from individuals who, unlike Ben Ezra, stood to gain personally from any favorable verdict. E.g., Knowledge Based Technologies, Inc. v. IBM Corp., No. 96 CIV. 9461 (JSR), 1998 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 4602, at *1 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 8, 1998) (collecting cases and explaining that "courts routinely permit expert testimony by parties, employees, and others with financial and other plain interests in the outcome of the litigation").

---

[13] Other jurisdictions following Frye have likewise rejected challenges exactly such as NCRIC's. E.g., Castillo v. E.I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., 854 So. 2d 1264, 1276 (Fla. 2003) (reversing intermediate appellate court, explaining that it "erroneously assessed the Castillos' expert testimony under Frye by considering not just the underlying science, but the application of the data generated from that science in reaching the expert's ultimate conclusion"); Roberti v. Andy's Termite & Pest Control, Inc., 6 Cal. Rptr. 3d 827, 834 (Cal. Ct. App. 2003) (reversing trial court and holding that defendant's objections to conclusions, not methodology, "pertain[ed] to the weight of the underlying bases for the expert opinion, not its

3. NCRIC's Daubert*-Style Arguments Are Irrelevant Under* Dyas and Wrong on Their Own Terms

Having failed to address the controlling legal standard, NCRIC compounds its error by seeking exclusion entirely on federal cases decided under Daubert v. Merrell-Dow Pharm., Inc., 509 U.S. 579 (1993). But the Court of Appeals has expressly rejected overtures to discard Dyas and Frye as statements of the District's law in favor of Daubert. E.g., Reed v. United States, 828 A.2d 159, 164 n.3 (D.C. 2003).

Even if Dyas could somehow be ignored in favor of Daubert, NCRIC's smorgasbord of arguments against Ben Ezra would still fail. NCRIC offers KW Plastics v. United States Can Co., 131 F. Supp. 2d 1289 (M.D. Ala. 2001), as its paradigm Daubert-style case. But the expert there admitted that he was "guessing" about several variables. Id. at 1292-93. The court also found that assumptions made in the expert's report and in his deposition were so inconsistent as to be "at war" with each other. Id. No such glaring and conceded errors can be found here. Daubert itself commands, moreover, that "vigorous cross-examination [and the] presentation of contrary proof" – not exclusion – are the appropriate means for attacking allegedly "shaky" expert evidence. 509 U.S. at 596.[14] admissibility"); Donaldson v. Central Illinois Pub. Serv. Co., 730 N.E.2d 68, 78, 80 (Ill. Ct. App. 2000) (admitting expert testimony based on "extrapolation," an accepted methodology, despite noting that they were "not terribly strong opinions," and observing that "[t]he weight of the testimony simply does not affect its admissibility"), aff'd, 767 N.E.2d 314 (Ill. 2002).

---

[14] NCRIC's other federal cases are no more helpful to its cause. E.g., Tyger Constr. Co. v. Pensacola Constr. Co., 29 F.3d 137, 143-44 (4th Cir. 1994) (excluding expert when his assumption that defendant's conduct caused a delay was contradicted by every single witness who testified on the subject); Bell v. Dow Chem. Co., 847 F.2d 1179, 1184 (5th Cir. 1988) (granting summary judgment when expert did not have any evidence of the market share possessed in the relevant market and instead erroneously focused on distinct separate market); Mowery v. Standard Oil Co., 463 F. Supp. 762, 773 n.14 (N.D. Ohio 1976) (rejecting testimony when expert assumed facts "not established by the evidence"). NCRIC's sole citation to a D.C. case affirmatively undermines its motion: the court there admitted the expert testimony and emphasized that it did so in part because satisfaction of the third prong of Dyas was not "seriously . . . in doubt." In re Melton, 597 A.2d at 898.

16d-003276

NCRIC complains that Ben Ezra relied on a list, supplied by counsel, of physicians who stopped referring patients to Columbia, or reduced such referrals, without investigating whether those doctors did so because of NCRIC's conduct. Mot. 16. But the record shows that Ben Ezra did test the list of doctors supplied by counsel and culled it down from 37 potential candidates to just 24 doctors who left in the last half of 2000, the period of NCRIC's alleged – and proven – tortious interference. 2/3 Tr. 325-27 (Ben Ezra). Nor does NCRIC dispute that these doctors in fact left Columbia during this period. Instead, NCRIC complains merely that Drs. Blank, Dukes, and Johnson did not admit on the stand that they left because of NCRIC's financial pressure tactics. But such an admission is irrelevant. The jury was free to conclude from the evidence presented and its assessment of the credibility of the witnesses that these doctors – and many beyond Ben Ezra's list of 24 – did leave because of NCRIC's conduct. See pp. 12-18, supra.

NCRIC next complains that Ben Ezra's 30% marginal cost figure was unsupported by the evidence. Mot. 16. But Ben Ezra's figure was shown to be conservative and based on a wealth of evidence. Ben Ezra testified that, when preparing financials for use in the daily management and operation of the hospital prior to any lawsuit, he spoke with the Comptroller of Columbia, who is the best source for marginal cost information, and was instructed to employ a 30% figure. 2/3 Tr. 303-04. Ben Ezra also examined precedent and found that a federal court had expressly held that a 30% marginal cost rate was appropriate for hospitals. Id. at 304-05; see also Coventry Health Care of Kansas, Inc. v. Via Christi Health Sys. Inc., 176 F. Supp. 2d 1207, 1224 (D. Kan. 2001). Ben Ezra also referred to a textbook that used real-life problems, which employed a 30% marginal cost rate. 2/3 Tr. 302-03. Finally, articles in the Journal of the American Medical Association showed that hospital marginal costs range between 16% and 18% – far lower (and more favorable to Columbia) than the rate Ben Ezra employed. Id. at 305. NCRIC, meanwhile, offered no competing evidence on the marginal rate issue. 2/9 Tr. 992-93 (Henderson). NCRIC cites no case, even in the federal Daubert regime, precluding expert testimony under remotely analogous circumstances.

16d-003277

NCRIC also complains that Ben Ezra's use of data from fiscal years 2000 and 2001 (immediately before and after NCRIC's tortious conduct) might be unrepresentative "if" Columbia had a particularly good year before NCRIC's torts, or a particularly bad year afterward, even allowing for NCRIC's misconduct. Mot. 17-18 (emphasis added). But NCRIC only conjectures that data for fiscal years 2000 and 2001 were unrepresentative, without citing any record evidence. Id. In any event, Ben Ezra testified that he did test data from those years, and reached the conclusion that they were reliable. 2/3 Tr. 293-94. NCRIC's own expert, Stephen Moore, confirmed this conclusion in part, admitting that Columbia's revenues in fiscal year 2000 were "about the same" when compared with the prior year. 2/6 Tr. 929. Ben Ezra further testified that he used all of the reliable cash receipt information that was physically available. 2/3 Tr. 344. NCRIC cites no authority suggesting that any court requires an expert to do anything more than this. To the contrary, the D.C. Court of Appeals has reversed a trial court's exclusion of evidence in similar circumstances, holding that the calculation of damages by comparing two nine-month periods before and after alleged tortious conduct was an acceptable way to measure damages. See R & A, Inc. v. Kozy Korner, Inc., 672 A.2d 1062, 1068 (D.C. 1996). See also Croley v. Republican Nat'l Comm., 759 A.2d 682, 691-94 (D.C. 2000)

16d-003278

(reversing trial court's order vacating as speculative $600,000 in lost future earnings; estimates of lost future earnings based on studies of persons with comparable educational background and evidence of contracts secured by plaintiff in his business were sufficient to justify award).[15]

Finally, NCRIC suggests that Ben Ezra should have employed a higher attrition rate after NCRIC's tortious conduct because of the financial difficulties faced by Columbia. Mot. 18. But witness after witness explained that doctors had remained loyal to Columbia through prior financial troubles, including bankruptcy and receivership, and left only at the time when NCRIC committed its tortious acts. 2/2 Tr. 20-21 (Cooper), 2/2 Tr. 100-01 (McCants), 2/4 Tr. 600 (Johnson), 2/4 Tr. 569 (Blank), 2/2 Tr. 128, 144, 150 (Rifka), 2/4 Tr. 492-94 (Wilson). Ben Ezra was surely entitled to rely on such record evidence in giving his opinion; NCRIC offers no reason or authority to conclude otherwise.

Though NCRIC can identify no error in the admission of Ben Ezra's testimony, his opinion constituted only one way for the jury to measure lost physician-generated [15] Notably, despite prior complaints, NCRIC does not now expressly voice any complaint about Ben Ezra's selection of a 20-year period for damages. Nor would such an argument help it. Ben Ezra used a 20-year period only in one of his damages models, not the other which focused, instead, on physician retirement ages, another issue NCRIC once contested, but no longer does. 2/3 Tr. 327. Each model independently produced over $20 million in lost revenues. Besides, Ben Ezra testified that his decision to employ a 20-year period in one of his damages models was guided by two pieces of evidence. First, Columbia's physician managers told Ben Ezra that it would take the hospital at least a generation (i.e., 20 years) to recover, if it could ever recover, from the loss of the doctors caused by NCRIC's tortious conduct. 2/3 Tr. 311 (Ben Ezra). And, in fact, other witnesses confirmed this fact. See also 2/2 Tr. 17-18 (Cooper), 101-02 (McCants), 166 (Rifka); Tr. 2/4 506 (Wilson). Second, Ben Ezra explained that, economically, it would take approximately 20 years for Columbia to recoup the full value of the practices lost because of NCRIC's tortious conduct using a conservative (and now unchallenged, though previously contested) discount rate of 10.5%. 2/3 Tr. 310-11. NCRIC disputed neither of these record facts at trial and Ben Ezra was surely entitled to rely upon the facts in the record in offering his opinion. Even federal courts routinely allow experts to testify to substantial discounted future losses. E.g., Randy's Studebaker Sales, Inc. v. Nissan Motor Corp., 533 F.2d 510, 518 (10th Cir. 1976) (10 years of future damages); Esch v. Yazoo Mfg. Co., 510 F. Supp. 53, 56 (E.D. Wis. 1981); Conwood v. UST, Inc., 290 F.3d 768 (6th Cir. 2002) (damages 10 years into future).

revenues, and it was, in fact, more conservative than the alternative Rifka/Wilson/Moore method argued to the jury without objection. See pp. 35-36, infra (describing alternative). Accordingly, any conceivable error was plainly harmless. See House of Wines, Inc. v. Sumter, 510 A.2d 492, 498 (D.C. 1986) (any error in admission of a special master's recommendations was harmless when the jury awarded less than he recommended); Ray v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 120 F.3d 882, 885 (8th Cir. 1997) (asserted error in admission of damages expert was harmless where alternative evidence supported award).

E. NCRIC's Recusal Motion Is Baseless

"[A] judge has as strong an obligation not to recuse when the situation does not require [it]," and recusal was hardly required in this case. Anderson v. United States, 754 A.2d 920, 925 (D.C. 2000) (internal quotation marks omitted).

Late on the fifth day of trial, counsel for NCRIC, out of the blue, asked Dr. Rifka about his partnership arrangements. NCRIC had posed no similar questions to any other doctor witness, and its questions were not linked to any issue in the case. In response, Dr. Rifka explained that he did not practice with any partners when Columbia was still open. 2/3 Tr. 441. Dr. Rifka added that he currently practices with two partners, Preston Sachs and Maurice Butler. Id. at 442. Counsel for NCRIC displayed a particular interest in Dr. Butler, asking Dr. Rifka for Dr. Butler's full name. Id. Counsel asked no other follow-up questions. Promptly thereafter, the Court disclosed that she had been treated by Dr. Butler, but had been unaware of any relationship between Dr. Butler and Dr. Rifka until she heard that day's testimony. Id.[16]

[16] Notwithstanding his peculiar line of questioning, counsel for NCRIC represented that he also had just become aware of the relationship between Dr. Rifka and Dr. Butler, and Dr. Butler and the judge. Of

The undisputed facts show that: Dr. Butler was never named as a potential witness in this case by either party; his name had not come up in the context of any pre-trial matters or at any point in the trial prior to the afternoon of February 3, 2004, 2/4 Tr. 459; the Court had been unaware whether Dr. Butler practiced with any other doctors at the time she was his patient, 2/3 Tr. 452; and the judge had never been a patient of Dr. Rifka's and did not even know Dr. Rifka, 2/4 Tr. 459-60. The undisputed facts further reveal that, so far as the Court knew, Dr. Rifka never had any role in her care. Id. It is also undisputed that this case is not about patient care, and that the Court had no role in assessing the credibility of witnesses. Id. at 460.

NCRIC's motion and affidavit (badly) misstate the facts. NCRIC's affidavit refers to the "obvious possibility that any patient of one doctor in [Dr. Butler's] practice would have had contact with and been treated by the other physicians in the practice." Page Aff. ¶ 9. The record is clear, however, that the Court was never treated by, and had no contact with, Dr. Rifka. 2/4 Tr. 459-60. NCRIC asserts that Dr. Rifka "confirmed that Dr. Butler had practiced with him for many years and shared in the financial benefits Columbia Fertility Associates had received from Columbia." Mot. 19. But, in fact, Dr. Rifka testified without contradiction that he had no partners while he practiced at Columbia. 2/3 Tr. 441. NCRIC represents that "the Judge stated that she had been treated by [Dr. Butler] in the practice group in which Dr. Rifka was the principal partner." Mot. 29; Page Aff. ¶ 5. Yet, in fact, the Court stated that she did not know whether she had ever been a patient of a practice in which Dr. Rifka was a partner or principal. 2/3 Tr. 452. NCRIC alleges that the trial judge had been treated at Columbia course, had counsel been aware of these relationships earlier, he would have been required to make any motion to recuse in a timely fashion, rather than in the middle of trial. See D.C. Super. Ct. R. 63-I.

---

16d-003281

itself. Mot. 19. But that, too, is unsupported by the record: the judge explained that she had been treated in the physicians' office building next door to the hospital, and that office building was not owned by the hospital. 2/4 Tr. 461; see also 2/2 Tr. 187 (Rifka).

NCRIC's motion depends not only on a misstatement of the facts, but also on an entirely novel legal proposition: the Court was somehow compromised simply because she was treated by someone who, at some point (perhaps after the cessation of treatment) became a partner with someone else who was a witness at trial. NCRIC has cited, and can cite, absolutely no authority for such a proposition. Indeed, in each of the three cases it offers, trial judges recused because they or members of their families were patients of doctors who were parties to the case – a critical distinction that NCRIC overlooks. Moreover, two of NCRIC's cases (Rose and Berdyck) involved patient care allegations where the judge's care by those doctors conceivably might have led to concerns about an appearance of impropriety. By contrast, this litigation did not. Tellingly, too, all three of NCRIC's cases involved voluntary recusals; NCRIC cites no case reversing a trial judge's decision not to recuse.[17]

NCRIC ignores the fact that, applying the very judicial code of conduct provision that NCRIC cites here (ABA Code of Judicial Conduct Canon 3), courts routinely reject [17]NCRIC claims that it was concerned during voir dire about whether potential jurors had relationships with doctors who were identified as potential witnesses, and with whether jurors had been treated at Columbia. But this speaks not at all to the legal standard for judicial recusal. Besides, the judge was not treated at Columbia and NCRIC never sought to determine whether prospective jurors had been treated by partners of witnesses. Indeed, NCRIC never identified the partners of doctors whom it expected to call as witnesses; never requested that Columbia identify partners of its witnesses; and never sought to disqualify a juror on the ground that the juror had been a patient of a witness's partner. Finally, contrary to its current assertion, NCRIC did not move to exclude for cause all prospective jurors who were treated at Columbia. Juror #055, for example, had received treatment at Columbia and two of her sister's children had been born there. The juror also stated that Morton Roberts, a doctor on both NCRIC's and Columbia's witness lists, might be an associate of her gynecologist. NCRIC never moved to exclude this juror for cause. 1/28 Tr. 114-15.

16d-003282

recusal motions in the face of credible evidence of potential bias – far from anything presented here. For example, courts have held that:

- An allegation that the trial judge and the defendant had previously been opposing litigants in a suit was, even if taken as true, legally insufficient to warrant recusal (Gregory v. United States, 393 A.2d 132, 142-43 (D.C. 1978));

- A trial judge who was married to a Metropolitan Police Department ("MPD") detective, and whose brother had been Chief of the MPD, properly denied a motion to recuse in a case where the complainant and other witnesses were MPD officers (York v. United States, 785 A.2d 651 (D.C. 2001)). The D.C. Court of Appeals explicitly endorsed an opinion of the Advisory Committee on Judicial Conduct holding that a judge whose husband was an MPD Deputy Chief need not recuse herself from cases in which MPD officers were witnesses, or cases involving charges of assault on MPD officers, unless the officers were under her husband's command (id. at 656 n.9); and

- A trial judge had no obligation to recuse where he had previously represented the government in a civil lawsuit against a class of individuals including the defendant (United States v. Adams, 73 F. Supp. 2d 1 (D.D.C. 1999)).[18]

No different result should obtain in this case.

II. NCRIC IS NOT ENTITLED TO REMITTITUR

Remittitur is appropriate only where the verdict is so inordinately large as to exceed the maximum range supported by the evidence, or when it is so great as to shock

[18] Accord Corrado v. Thomas, 790 A.2d 1022, 1035 (Pa. Super. Ct. 2003) (trial judge had no obligation to recuse even though she knew one of the defendant physicians and was a friend of one of the named defense witnesses); Klindera v. Worley Mills, Inc., 634 P.2d 1295 (N.M. Ct. App. 1981) (recusal was not required – in fact, the judge had an obligation not to recuse – even though he, his wife, and his daughter had been treated by an orthopedic surgeon who testified for the defendants at trial); Woodruff v. Wright, 51 S.W.3d 727, 737-38 (Tex. Ct. App. 2001) (judge properly declined to recuse even though he knew one of the defendant physicians, the defendant had performed heart surgery on the judge's mother, and the judge had actually performed the defendant's wedding ceremony); Johnson v. Cullman Med. Ctr., 615 So. 2d 621 (Ala. Ct. Civ. App. 1993) (trial judge correctly declined to recuse even when his son served on the defendant hospital's board of directors).

Even if NCRIC could show that the trial judge had an obligation to recuse (something it manifestly has not done and cannot do), its demanded remedy – a new trial – is clearly inappropriate. In Scott v. United States, 559 A.2d 745, 749 (D.C. 1989) (en banc), the D.C. Court of Appeals held that a "special harmless error" test applies in determining whether to vacate a judgment based on a violation of ABA Canon 3(C)(1). Under that test, courts are required to consider "the risk of injustice to the parties in the particular case, the risk that the denial of relief will produce injustice in other cases, and the risk of undermining the public's confidence in the judicial process." Id. at 753. NCRIC has pointed to no evidence of bias by this Court or the remotest possibility that failing to order a new trial would produce injustice in other cases or undermine the public's confidence in the judicial process.

16d-003283

the conscience. Knight, 725 A.2d at 486. Indeed, once the "fact of damages" is proved, the proof necessary to establish the amount of damages is subject to a laxer standard; a party need only provide a "reasonable estimate." Affordable Elegance Travel, Inc. v. Worldspan, L.P., 774 A.2d 320, 329 (D.C. 2001) (internal quotation marks omitted). The Court of Appeals has further explained that a party should not "be deprived of compensatory damages merely because they cannot be computed with exactitude." Spar v. Obwoya, 369 A.2d 173, 180 (D.C. 1977). Far from shocking the conscience, the jury's $18 million tort award fits comfortably within the record evidence.

First, either one of Ben Ezra's two distinct damages models would have been sufficient to support a damages award in excess of $20 million, more than the jury awarded, based on annual losses of approximately $2.6 million before discounting. 2/3 Tr. 322-23, 330-33. The record reflects, moreover, that Ben Ezra's estimates were based on multiple inputs that favored NCRIC, not Columbia. 2/3 Tr. 292-93, 296, 302, 307, 309-10.

Second, separate evidence received without objection from Rifka, Wilson and Moore established that Columbia's revenues declined by approximately $10 million per year following NCRIC's tortious conduct. 2/3 Tr. 165-66 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 504-05 (Wilson); 2/6 Tr. 928-30 (Moore). A single piece of testimony from Ben Ezra – the conservative marginal-cost figure of 30% – reduces the $10 million to $7 million and yields two years of damages totaling $14 million, or $13 million for 22 months prior to the hospital's closure. 2/3 Tr. 301-05. That is precisely what Columbia argued at closing, without objection, and what the jury awarded for pre-closure damages. 2/10 Tr. 132. There was, moreover, evidence in the record that a more reasonable marginal cost figure would have been 16% to 18%, 2/3 Tr. 305 (Ben Ezra), and application of such a figure would have produced an even greater award of approximately $16 million for pre-closure lost revenues alone.

Third, with respect to post-closure lost revenues under the Rifka/Wilson/Moore model, even just three years of lost revenues, measured at $7 million per year using a 30% marginal rate, would have supported a post-closure award of as much as $21 million, as Columbia (again) argued without objection to the jury. 2/10 Tr. 135. And there was ample testimony from which the jury was entitled to infer that, but for NCRIC's conduct, Columbia would have remained open for three additional years, or even longer. Columbia turned profitable in the summer of 2000, it was on track for a profitable year, and the hospital's successful execution of its turnaround plan left no doubt among its senior management that the hospital was well positioned to remain open and flourish. 2/4 Tr. 506, 508 (Wilson); 2/2 Tr. 166-67, 206 (Rifka). Indeed, NCRIC's own expert admitted that Columbia: was taking market share from other area hospitals; had implemented "admirable" cost cutting measures; had introduced profitable new services; and could have remained open for some additional period but for the loss of doctors. 2/6 Tr. 914, 923-24, 932-35 (Moore). The jury's modest $5 million award for post-closure damages represents just 9 months of lost revenue under this model – and even NCRIC's own expert could not rule out that Columbia would have survived this long had its doctors remained. Id.

Fourth, on top of lost operational revenues, the trial record also supported an award of $1.5 to $3.5 million in pre-closure damages incurred from Columbia's bankruptcy. 2/10 Tr. 33 (closing); 2/4 Tr. 477 (Wilson).

16d-003285

Finally, there was evidence that Columbia lost a congressional appropriation of $5 million. 2/2 Tr. 174-75 (Rifka).

On the basis of the foregoing, the evidence unquestionably supported an award of $18 million in tort damages. Indeed, that amount falls in the very middle of the range supported by the evidence and argued without objection to the jury. See 2/10 Tr. 132-35 (arguing for up to $40 million in compensatory damages, depending on choices to be made by the jury). The reasonableness of the jury's award is further evidenced by its thoughtful deliberations and its decision not to award any punitive damages, even though such an award would have been fully supported by the record. Where, as here, the jury's award falls within the range supported by the evidence, a remittitur is unwarranted. E.g., Doe, 492 A.2d at 860 (reversing remittitur); Knight, 725 A.2d at 486; Affordable Elegance, 774 A.2d at 329.

NCRIC cites four cases in support of its argument. But in two of these cases, the courts found remittitur inappropriate. See Phillips v. District of Columbia, 458 A.2d 722, 724 (D.C. 1983) (reversing remittitur as abuse of discretion); Capitol Hill Hosp. v. Jones, 532 A.2d 89 (D.C. 1987) (affirming denial of remittitur where evidence supported jury's award, though, unlike here, the award was "at the high end of the permissible spectrum"). NCRIC's remaining two cases involved remittitur of damage awards for pain and suffering, which, unlike a business's lost revenues, are "difficult in any circumstances to quantify." Finkelstein v. District of Columbia, 593 A.2d 591, 602 (D.C. 1990); see also id. at 598. And in Finkelstein, the court ruled that remittitur was warranted only because there was "no support in the record for a compensatory award of that magnitude." Id. at 596 (emphasis added). See also District of Columbia v. Jackson,

16d-003286

810 A.2d 388, 397 (D.C. 2002) (finding damages of more than $2 million out of proportion with decedent's real but brief suffering of no more than eight seconds before losing consciousness). By contrast, Columbia's regularly kept financial statements and tax returns quantified the hospital's lost revenues and cash flow. Ben Ezra, NCRIC's expert Moore, and Columbia's Chairman of the Board Dr. Rifka and CEO Dr. Wilson all properly relied on those materials.

Absent case law support, NCRIC offers three arguments untethered to legal authority. First, NCRIC suggests that the $13 million award for pre-closure damages cannot be supported by Ben Ezra's testimony. Mot. 21. But NCRIC ignores testimony of Rifka, Wilson, and Moore that Columbia lost approximately $10 million in annual revenues after the departure of the doctors – $7 million yearly after deduction for marginal costs, or $13 million for the 22 months prior to closure. The jury was free to credit this wholly independent record proof; NCRIC does not argue otherwise now and did not object to that evidence at trial. Indeed, the jury could have awarded millions more in pre-closure damages. See pp. 35-37, supra (explaining that jury could have awarded up to $16 million in pre-closure lost doctor revenues, and an additional $3.5 million in bankruptcy expenses).

Second, NCRIC objects to various aspects of Columbia's summation on the ground that counsel "inflam[ed]" the passions of the jury. Mot. 22. But NCRIC did not object to a single remark it now disputes, so any claim of error is waived. Doe, 814 A.2d at 953; Nissho, 848 F.2d at 619; 11 Wright & Miller § 2805. Moreover, and despite NCRIC's representation otherwise, Columbia's counsel expressly stated in closing that the $59 million figure reflected NCRIC's "sales." 2/10 Tr. 137 (emphasis added). In doing so, moreover, counsel explicitly referenced NCRIC's financial statements, which were admitted in evidence and reflected that, in fact, NCRIC's sales exceeded $59 million over just a nine-month period. 2/10 Tr. 36-37; DX 71B. In any event, the jury was properly instructed that argument by counsel was not evidence (see Jury Instr. §§ 2-1, 2-5; 2/10 Tr. 149), and it is presumed to have followed these instructions. McCullough, 827 A.2d at 55. Plainly, too, the jury was not "inflame[ed]" as NCRIC now contends, because it awarded none of the punitive damages about which NCRIC now oddly complains.[19]

16d-003287

Third, NCRIC asks the Court to assume that the $5 million awarded by the jury in post-closure damages represents the lost congressional appropriation, and then proceeds to argue that a $1 million remittitur is required because the appropriation allegedly was in the amount of $4 million rather than $5 million – a fact that NCRIC asks the Court to find by judicial notice. Mot. 22-23. But, dispositively, NCRIC ignores trial proof establishing post-closure damages of $5 million (and more) entirely without reference to [19] The other objections NCRIC now raises about summation likewise: were never made at trial; depend on mischaracterizations of the jury argument; and are irrelevant because the judge properly instructed the jury that argument is not evidence. NCRIC complains, for example, that counsel argued that NCRIC cavalierly "put [the hospital] out its misery." Mot. 22. But this is a fair characterization of NCRIC's own defense at trial: NCRIC's expert, Stephen Moore, argued against the award of post-closure damages on the ground that Columbia was dying anyway and, thus, NCRIC's conduct, even if tortious, was harmless. 2/6 Tr. 898-99 (Moore). NCRIC's counsel made the same argument at closing: "[Columbia] was going to close." 2/10 Tr. 93. And while counsel did call NCRIC the "800 pound insurance gorilla," 2/10 Tr. 109, the record was replete with evidence that NCRIC possessed massive power and influence in the D.C. insurance market, and that the lack of meaningful competition allowed NCRIC to abuse Columbia by demanding money it was not owed, holding over the hospital the threat (made as early as 1998) of taking its doctors to other hospitals. 1/30 Tr. 362-64 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 476-77 (Wilson). Columbia also fairly commented on the credibility of NCRIC's senior executives and experts, many of whom were repeatedly confronted with their own prior inconsistent statements. E.g., 2/6 Tr. 917-23 (Moore); 2/5 Tr. 796-97, 821-23, 827-28, 832-33, 834-35, 847-48, 851-52, 859-60 (Fargis); 2/9 Tr. 988-89, 995 (Henderson); 2/9 Tr. 1074-76 (Pate). For example, NCRIC's own CEO admitted that he filed public SEC statements, supposedly free from any material omissions, that failed to mention Columbia's counterclaims or the amounts they sought – and did so even after he was aware that Columbia had filed such claims and sought multiple millions of dollars in damages. 2/10 Tr. 6-11.

16d-003288

the congressional appropriation, based instead on lost physician-driven revenues. See p. 36, supra ($5 million represents 9 months of lost revenues under the Rifka/Wilson/Moore model, or less than two years worth of lost revenues under Ben Ezra's models). Given the presence of sufficient alternative proof, NCRIC's argument is beside the point. The only question on a motion for remittitur is whether the jury's award obviously exceeds the record evidence from any source, not the particular source upon which NCRIC chooses to focus. See pp. 34-35, supra (citing authority); Carter, 727 F.2d at 1239 (court's role is not to "reconstruct the precise mathematical formula the jury adopted").

Of course, NCRIC could have proposed a special interrogatory asking the jury to identify the source of post-closure damages, but this it did not do. And, even if NCRIC could somehow properly speculate that the post-closure award was attributable to the lost congressional appropriation (it cannot), NCRIC offers no authority for remitting a damages award based on judicial notice of facts outside the closed evidentiary trial record. The case for such notice is particularly weak where, as here, NCRIC never objected to the admission of the testimony concerning congressional appropriations,[20] never conducted any cross-examination on the issue, never presented any contrary proof, and never objected to closing argument about those appropriations. NCRIC is not free to circumvent the trial process by asking the Court to take judicial notice of matters that it [20] Though NCRIC now claims that it offered the Court timely objection to exclude these damages, that simply is not so. NCRIC did not object at all to Dr. Rifka's testimony about congressional funding but rather, following that uncontested testimony, objected to testimony regarding private fundraising efforts. 2/2 Tr. at 174-76 ("Q: Did you seek money from Congress? A: I did. Q: How much? A: . . . [W]e were getting five million dollars for the year of 2001 and five million dollars for the year 2002. Q: Were you ever able to use that second year's money? A: The second year we were not able to access it. It closed. Q: Did you have private funding underway in 2000? A: Yes, we did. Q: What was planned? A: Many events . . . . Q: And how much were you expecting to raise with these fund raising efforts? MR. PAGE: Objection.").

16d-003289

simply failed to raise. E.g., United States v. Neill, 964 F. Supp. 438, 445 (D.D.C. 1997) (purpose of judicial notice "is not to provide an escape hatch for counsel's errors or to offer a strategic mechanism for a defendant to re-open the record after the jury begins to deliberate").

III. AMPLE EVIDENCE SUPPORTS THE JURY'S VERDICT AND NCRIC'S CONTRARY ARGUMENTS FOR JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW ARE WITHOUT MERIT

NCRIC's arguments for judgment as a matter of law run headlong into settled legal principles. First, under Rule 50, "a judgment notwithstanding the verdict is appropriate only in extreme cases." Lyons v. Barrazotto, 667 A.2d 314, 320 (D.C. 1995) (reversing trial court's entry of judgment notwithstanding the verdict). Second, the Court of Appeals has "emphasized frequently that when there is some evidence from which jurors could find the requisite elements of [the tort], or when the case turns on disputed facts and the credibility of witnesses, the case must be submitted to the jury for determination." Id. This Court must therefore review the evidence in the light most favorable to Columbia, "who is entitled to every legitimate inference therefrom." Etheredge v. District of Columbia, 635 A.2d 908, 915 (D.C. 1993). Only where there is "but one reasonable conclusion as to the proper judgment" may an issue be taken from the jury. Bragg v. Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., 734 A.2d 643, 648 (D.C. 1999); Durphy v. Kaiser Found. Health Plan of Mid-Atl. States, Inc., 698 A.2d 459, 465 (D.C. 1997).

Third, in making this determination, courts "must take care to avoid weighing the evidence, passing on the credibility of witnesses, or substituting [their] judgment for that of the jury." Bragg, 734 A.2d at 648. Fourth, the Court of Appeals has repeatedly emphasized its "literal construction" of Rule 50(b) and held that "the failure to include a particular ground in a motion for directed verdict will bar the consideration of this ground in a subsequent motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict." Molovinsky v. Fair Employment Council of Greater Washington, Inc., 683 A.2d 142, 147-48 (D.C. 1996); Gleason v. L. Frank Co., 328 A.2d 96, 98 (D.C. 1974). The prohibition against raising new grounds post-verdict is required by the Seventh Amendment. See 9 James W. Moore, et al., Moore's Federal Practice Sec. 50.43[3][b].

16d-003290

A. The Jury's Finding that NCRIC Tortiously Interfered With Columbia's Business Relations Was Supported by the Evidence

The Court correctly instructed that, to establish a claim for tortious interference with business relations, the evidence must demonstrate four elements. See pp. 4-5, supra. Purporting to renew its previous motions for judgment as a matter of law, NCRIC challenges the sufficiency of the evidence regarding only two of these elements: (1) the existence of a valid business relationship; and (2) intentional interference causing termination of the relationship. Neither attack is availing.

1. NCRIC Waived Its Challenge to the Sufficiency of the Evidence Regarding Tortious Interference

The only time NCRIC challenged the sufficiency of Columbia's evidence supporting the second element (intentional interference) was at the close of Columbia's case-in-chief. At the close of all evidence, NCRIC did no more than state that it "repeat[ed] the arguments that [it] made at the close of the case previously when Columbia rested," 2/10 Tr. 39. Such an allusion, however, is insufficient under settled D.C. law to preserve a Rule 50 argument previously made when Columbia rested. "Although lawyers and courts frequently refer to 'renewing' [a Rule 50] motion, the fact is that when a motion for directed verdict is made at the close of plaintiff's evidence and is denied, and the defendant then offers evidence, the motion for directed verdict is out of the case and cannot be renewed." District of Columbia v. Helen B. Hickey & Kenny Constr. Co., 150 A.2d 463, 466 (D.C. 1959). See also Gleason, 328 A.2d at 98. NCRIC's challenge to the sufficiency of Columbia's evidence on the intentional interference element is, accordingly, waived.

16d-003291

Even if NCRIC had preserved an objection to the second element it now seeks to challenge, it raised no issue – any time during trial – regarding the first element it now attacks, the existence-of-a-valid-business-relationship element of Columbia's tortious interference claim. To the contrary, NCRIC conceded the existence of sufficient evidence on this element at the close of Columbia's proof. See 2/4 Tr. 538 ("in the District of Columbia the law is business expectancy could be th[e] contract [which is the subject of interference] and they have put on evidence of that"). Accordingly, NCRIC waived any challenge to the sufficiency of this element. Super. Ct. R. 50(b); Molovinsky, 683 A.2d at 147-48.

2. The Jury's Finding on Existing Business Relations Was Supported by Sufficient Evidence

In any event, abundant evidence established that Columbia had ongoing business relationships with its attending faculty, and that Columbia reasonably expected those relationships to continue. Dr. Rifka testified, for example, that members of the attending faculty were doctors who historically referred the bulk of their patients to Columbia, and who were expected to do the same in the future. 1/30 Tr. 346-47; 2/3 Tr. 447-48. He explained, too, that attending faculty members were loyal and tended to stay at the hospital for their entire careers, often well beyond age 65; that Columbia depended for its survival upon the business brought in by its doctors; and that other hospitals had similar expectations of their physicians. 1/30 Tr. 347-49. Sandy Chamblee, who chaired Columbia's Board and headed the hospital's performance improvement committee, confirmed all of these points. 1/29 Tr. 233-36. So did Dr. McCants and Peter Ben Ezra. 2/2 Tr. 101 (McCants); 2/3 Tr. 328 (Ben Ezra). As Dr. Cooper, who himself practiced at Columbia for over 20 years before the hospital closed, explained: prior to the cancellation of the Retro Plan, "nobody ever left Columbia"; doctors "basically practiced there until they died or retired." 2/2 Tr. 20 (Cooper). Such testimony provided ample evidence from which the jury could conclude that Columbia and its doctors had a valid business relationship.

16d-003292

Faced with all this evidence, NCRIC argues only that physicians had no written contract. Mot. 26. But as NCRIC appeared to recognize at trial, 2/4 Tr. 538, black-letter D.C. law recognizes not only that a written contract is unnecessary to state a claim for tortious interference, but that even interference with purely prospective business relations (here, the jury found that such relations were existing) is actionable. Altimont, 347 A.2d at 289; Casco, 834 A.2d at 84. Cf. Okusami v. Psychiatric Inst. of Wash., 959 F.2d 1062, 1066 (D.C. Cir. 1992) (taking for granted in case regarding physician's application for admitting privileges that physician's business relationship with his patients satisfies requirement of valid business relationship for claim of tortious interference). NCRIC also now argues that an at-will employment relationship "does not necessarily" give rise to a cognizable business relationship for a claim of tortious interference, citing Sheppard v. Dickstein, Shapiro, Morin & Oshinsky, 59 F. Supp. 2d 27 (D.C. 1999). Mot. 27. But, although the facts in Sheppard were found insufficient to suggest a cognizable business relationship, the Court of Appeals has held that at-will employment relationships can support a claim of tortious interference on other facts. Sorrells, 565 A.2d at 288-89; Pope v. Romac Int'l, 829 A.2d 945, 947 n.4 (D.C. 2003). Indeed, in Sheppard, the court simply observed that the plaintiff had "failed to identify any facts" in that case demonstrating such a relationship. 59 F. Supp. 2d at 34. By contrast, the extensive evidence here, when viewed in the light most favorable to Columbia as it must be, demonstrates that a valid business relationship had existed for years between Columbia and its doctors.

3. The Jury's Finding of Intentional Interference Was Supported by the Record

A reasonable jury easily could conclude (and did conclude) that NCRIC intentionally induced Columbia doctors to leave the hospital for other institutions where NCRIC controlled the insurance business. See Part I.B, supra (outlining evidence).

Resisting this conclusion, NCRIC repeats its baseless assertion that Columbia was required to prove "egregious conduct." Mot. 24. But, even though proof of "egregious conduct" is unnecessary, ample evidence existed from which the jury could infer that NCRIC had engaged in such conduct. For example, the Chairman of NCRIC's Board told Columbia's doctors and staff to pack their bags and leave the hospital. 2/2 Tr. 144 (Rifka). NCRIC's CEO threatened Columbia's CEO with a "train wreck" if the hospital failed to pay an amount of money that it did not actually owe. 2/4 Tr. 483 (Wilson). NCRIC's COO frankly admitted, too, that the factors he used to calculate the amounts due were nowhere to be found in the parties' contract and, when confronted by Columbia personnel with these errors, he did not correct them but rather complained that Columbia was relying on the language of the contract. 2/5 Tr. 812-24 (Fargis); DX 89.

16d-003294

Moreover, when Columbia refused to accede to NCRIC's baseless demands, NCRIC vindictively terminated both the Retro Plan and a separate policy covering Columbia's community health clinic for the poor. 2/2 Tr. 94 (McCants), 113-15 (Rifka). NCRIC did so even though the clinic was current on its premiums and the policy was not up for renewal for months, an action that even NCRIC's Vice President admitted was unprecedented. 2/3 Tr. 261 (Hempelman). NCRIC's CEO, Ray Pate, could offer no explanation for the simultaneous termination of the Retro Plan and clinic policy, claiming that it was simply a coincidence. 2/9 Tr. 1078. Later, NCRIC issued an exclusionary endorsement under which doctors were not covered by their individual policies for work in Columbia's clinic. 2/2 Tr. 68-69 (Feldman); 2/2 Tr. 146-47 (Rifka). Hempelman and Feldman both testified, again without contradiction, that this action was unprecedented either within NCRIC or the entire insurance industry. 2/2 Tr. 69 (Feldman); 2/3 Tr. 261 (Hempelman). And Hempelman testified that none of his superiors had ever told him why NCRIC wanted to cancel the clinic policy or to issue the exclusions, and that he had never asked; he simply followed his superiors' orders. 2/3 Tr. 257-59. See also Part I.B, supra (recounting additional evidence).

As Dr. Rifka explained, the implications of the exclusion issued by NCRIC were striking: a physician's personal policy from NCRIC would cover that physician if he or she delivered a baby in a park or on a bus – but not at Columbia's community health clinic. 2/2 Tr. 145-47. NCRIC's COO offered no credible explanation for the exclusions, suggesting only that they were supposed to prevent "double coverage," even though they in fact left clinic physicians with no coverage, and he said it was simply a "mistake" that they had not been issued earlier. 2/5 Tr. 853-57 (Fargis). A reasonable jury, viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to Columbia, could easily find such explanations incredible and NCRIC's conduct egregious. Indeed, courts have found far less evidence than what Columbia produced to constitute malicious conduct sufficient even to sustain a punitive award. See, e.g., Dyer, 657 A.2d at 1138 (sustaining award of punitive damages for tortious interference simply for taking one client in violation of a non-compete agreement).

NCRIC insists that the actions identified by Columbia as constituting intentional interference included some actions NCRIC took to advance its own economic interests. Mot. 25. This argument misses the mark both legally and factually. Legally, a defendant's actions are not protected under District law merely because they are "taken in furtherance of its economic interests." Casco, 834 A.2d at 84 (rejecting contrary case law from other jurisdictions). Factually, Columbia adduced substantial evidence that various NCRIC actions were anything but "routine." See pp. 12-18, supra; 2/3 Tr. 256-61 (Hempelman admitting NCRIC's actions were unprecedented); 2/2 Tr. 68-69 (Feldman to same effect); 2/5 Tr. 812-24 (Fargis admitting that he disregarded plain terms of contract time after time); 2/2 Tr. 115-16, 123-25 (Rifka); 2/9 Tr. 1078 (Pate). Viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to Columbia, such anomalies plainly could have been interpreted by the jury as intentional, vindictive conduct on NCRIC's part.

NCRIC also maintains that its decision to terminate the contract cannot support a tortious interference claim because NCRIC was under no obligation to renew the Plan. This argument, too, fails both in law and fact. In Casco, 834 A.2d at 84, the Court of Appeals held that the termination of a contract, even in the absence of any breach and though within the party's rights, could support a claim for tortious interference if the circumstances surrounding the termination evinced an intent to interfere with business relations. Similarly, the court in Sorrells, 565 A.2d at 288-89, rejected the notion that tortious interference doctrine could not apply to the termination of an at-will employee on the ground that there is no obligation to renew such at-will contracts or otherwise continue the employment of an at-will employee. In any event, the evidence at trial provided an ample basis from which the jury could conclude that NCRIC did not innocently sit by and let the contract expire, but rather purposefully crafted (and then carried out) a deliberate plan to take doctors away from Columbia when Columbia refused to accede to NCRIC's baseless financial demands for renewal. See Part I.B, supra.[21]

16d-003296

B. Columbia's Evidence Far Exceeds the Requirements for Proof of Its Tort Damages

In this portion of its motion, NCRIC challenges damages for the third time in its post-trial briefing. See also Parts I.C & II, supra. But, once again, post-trial review of damages evidence is subject to limited judicial review and a jury's award will be overturned only if it exceeds the maximum amount supported by the evidence or shocks the conscience, see pp. 34-35, supra – standards which require the Court to uphold Columbia's tort award as to both pre-closure and post-closure damages.

---

[21] Though Casco made clear that a party can interfere in the District even when pursuing its own economic motives, rejecting authority from other jurisdictions suggesting otherwise, NCRIC nonetheless relies exclusively on such foreign authority. Mot. 26. Besides, one of its cases, United Educ. Distribs., LLC v. Educational Testing Serv., 564 S.E.2d 324, 328 (S.C. Ct. App. 2002), does nothing more than say that "[g]enerally" there will not be interference where a party is engaged in the "proper pursuit" of its own contractual relations, and then go on to state that a showing of an intent to interfere with another party's business relationship is essential. In NCRIC's other case, FutureSource LLC v. Reuters Ltd., 312 F.3d 281, 284 (7th Cir. 2002), the defendant merely informed the plaintiff's customers that it was ceasing to provide service to the plaintiff when the parties' contract terminated. NCRIC, of course, was proved to have done a great deal more than that with respect to Columbia's doctors, launching a deliberate strategy to lure them to other institutions where they could be absorbed into NCRIC insurance programs.

16d-003297

The jury's pre-closure award of $13 million equates to lost revenues based on the Rifka/Wilson/Moore model for 22 months, precisely the amount Columbia sought in closing. See p. 35, supra. On the evidence before it, moreover, the jury easily could have awarded several million dollars more in pre-closure damages. See id.

The jury's post-closure award of $5 million could have, as NCRIC speculates, been based on the lost congressional appropriation alone. See p. 37, supra. Alternatively, the jury was entitled to award Columbia additional lost revenue attributable to the lost doctors to compensate during the time which it would have continued in business beyond the point that it did, but for NCRIC's tortious acts. In that event, the award of $5 million in post-closure damages would have amounted to less than 2 years worth of lost physician revenues under the Ben Ezra model, or 9 months worth of such revenues under the Rifka/Wilson/Moore model. See id. Under any of these scenarios, Columbia's post-closure damages were fully supported by the evidence.

NCRIC argues for judgment as a matter of law on Columbia's pre-closure damages on the ground that the 30% marginal cost figure was "speculative." Mot. 27 (citing Garcia v. Llerena, 599 A.2d 1138 (D.C. 1991)). In Garcia, however, the plaintiff "did not use actual income or expense figures," id. at 1144 n.11, but instead used a "mysterious 'one-third of gross' formula" that was nowhere explained in the record, id., and "altered his own estimates" during the course of his testimony, id. at 1144 n.12. No such thing occurred here. Ben Ezra explained and provided multiple pieces of corroborating evidence for the 30% marginal cost figure to which he testified, and never strayed from the figures that he supplied. See pp. 28-29, supra. He testified, as well, that he relied on the best available data, and that no better data was available. See Croley, 759

16d-003298

A.2d at 691-94 (reversing trial court's rejection of estimates of lost future earnings based on studies of persons with similar educational background).[22]

Next, NCRIC argues that its wrongful conduct is irrelevant because the hospital would have closed or lost doctors anyway. Mot. 28. But this argument does not address the damages Columbia incurred before it closed. And, with respect to post-closure damages, the jury's award of $5 million is supported by three independent strands of evidence, any one of which was sufficient, standing alone, to support the jury's award: the congressional appropriation; less than 9 months worth of lost revenue under the Rifka/Wilson/Moore model; or less than 2 years of lost cash flow using Ben Ezra's more conservative model. See pp. 35-37, supra.

Finally, NCRIC suggests that the Court should grant judgment as a matter of law on post-closure damages because the $5 million congressional appropriation represented gross revenues, without deduction for marginal costs associated with performing the community services on which the appropriation was predicated. Mot. 28-29. But this argument again completely disregards the fact that two other, alternative strands of sufficient evidence (Rifka/Wilson/Moore and Ben Ezra) exist to support the post-closure award without reference to the congressional appropriation, and NCRIC never sought a special interrogatory asking the jury to identify the source of its post-closure award.

Even if NCRIC could (somehow) ignore such independently sufficient evidence and focus on the sufficiency of the congressional appropriation evidence in isolation, its

---

[22] NCRIC's authorities are of no use to it. R & A, 672 A.2d 1062, reversed the trial court's decision that the evidence was insufficient to support an award of damages. Bedell v. Inver Housing, Inc., 506 A.2d 202 (D.C. 1986), featured a litigant who failed to put in any evidence of the level of his business prior to the tortious acts. See id. at 206. And Pratt v. University of the District of Columbia, 691 A.2d 158 (D.C. 1997), is inapposite because it dealt with a remittitur of damages to a plaintiff where there was a complete absence of evidence that his employment contract would have been renewed. See id. at 159.

16d-003299

argument asks the Court to assume that there would have been marginal costs associated with those funds. But the record entitled the jury to conclude that Columbia was already performing the community outreach programs for which it received the award and, thus, the congressional appropriation would have gone to Columbia's bottom line; indeed, Columbia's existing community outreach programs were well documented and NCRIC offered no contrary proof. 1/29 Tr. 226-27 (Chamblee); 2/2 Tr. 174-75 (Rifka); 1/29 Tr. 278-79 (Proctor). NCRIC cites no evidence that new community outreach programs were required to obtain the award; nor could it. Again, moreover, once the fact of injury is proved, the amount of damages awarded need only be a "reasonable estimate," and the Court of Appeals has reversed efforts to deny plaintiffs full recovery, based on a review of the evidence in the light most favorable to them. E.g., Croley, 759 A.2d at 694-95; Doe, 492 A.2d at 864.

Nor can NCRIC plausibly claim now that evidence about the congressional appropriation should be excluded because it amounts to a "new claim" that would have required the filing of an amended counterclaim pleading. Mot. 29-30. NCRIC did not raise any objection to the admission of the congressional appropriation evidence at trial, let alone one based on a supposed pleading deficiency, and thus has waived any "pleading deficiency" point. E.g., Molovinsky, 683 A.2d at 147-48. The damages at issue, moreover, hardly constitute a new "claim" for relief but, rather, reflect continuing harm arising from the already-pleaded nucleus of facts: as a result of NCRIC's tortious conduct, doctors fled, the hospital closed, and Columbia lost its appropriation. "It is well settled that, though damages accrue after the institution of the suit, they may be recovered, provided they are the natural and proximate consequences of the act complained of, and do not themselves constitute a new cause of action. Actual damages in such a case are assessable up to the date of the verdict." Cooper v. Sillers, 30 App. D.C. 567, 572 (1908). Accord Norwest Bank Minnesota Nat'l Ass'n v. FDIC, 312 F.3d 447, 452 (D.C. Cir. 2002) ("'it is perfectly clear, that the proof of actual damage may extend to facts that occur and grow out of the injury, even up to the day of the verdict'") (quoting Wilcox v. Plummer, 29 U.S. (4 Pet.) 172, 182 (1829)).[23]

Conclusion

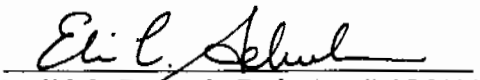
NCRIC's motions for new trial, remittitur, and judgment as a matter of law should be denied. A proposed order is attached.

[23] The two cases cited by NCRIC are not remotely to the contrary. Mot. 29-30. In Wagner v. Professional Eng'rs in Cal. Gov't, 354 F.3d 1036 (9th Cir. 2004), the plaintiffs sought to plead not new damages but new "transactions," and they voluntarily sought leave to file a supplemental pleading under Rule 15(d). Id. at 1052. When leave was denied, however, they sought – inconsistently – to argue that their original pleading could have been construed broadly so as to include the events at issue, and the court rejected that argument. Similarly, the reference in Young-Henderson v. Spartanburg Area Mental Health Ctr., 945 F.2d 770 (4th Cir. 1991), to the need to file a supplemental pleading does not concern an effort to seek subsequent damages from already-pleaded events, but rather an attempt by the plaintiff to pursue entirely new "claims." Id. at 775. NCRIC also complains that Columbia directed its Rule 30(b)(6) witness not to answer questions "concerning such damages." Mot. 30. But NCRIC offers not a single citation in support of this specious assertion, and the time for bringing any disputes over discovery has, in any event, long since passed. Super. Ct. R. 16(b)(5).

16d-003301

DATED: March 26, 2004

Respectfully submitted,



Neil M. Gorsuch, D.C. Bar # 456411
Eli C. Schulman, D.C. Bar # 472879
Priya R. Aiyar, admitted pro hac vice
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Attorneys for:
Columbia Hospital for Women
Medical Center, Inc.

16d-003302

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 -- Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

ORDER

UPON CONSIDERATION of NCRIC's Motion for a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law, Columbia's opposition thereto, and the record herein, it is hereby ORDERED that NCRIC's motions for new trial, remittitur, and judgment as a matter of law are all DENIED.

ENTERED this ____ day of _____, 2004.

_____
Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

Copies to:

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(fax) (202) 326-7999

Attorneys for:
DEFENDANT/COUNTER-PLAINTIFF COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20005-3960
(fax) (202) 508-6200

Roy I. Niedermayer, Esq.
3 Bethesda Metro Center, Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814
(fax) (301) 951-4456

Attorneys for:
PLAINTIFF/COUNTER-DEFENDANT NCRIC, INC.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Eli C. Schulman, hereby certify that, on this 26th day of March 2004, a copy of the foregoing Columbia's Opposition to NCRIC's Motions for New Trial, Remittitur, and Judgment as a Matter of Law was served upon the following by hand delivery:

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

I further certify that, on this 26th day of March 2004, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned papers was served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.

Eli C. Schulman

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC., Plaintiff, v. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC., Defendant.	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8 Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

REPLY MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF NCRIC'S MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL AND RENEWED MOTION FOR JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW

BRYAN CAVE LLP

Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar No. 435375
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(202) 508-6000 telephone
(202) 508-6200 facsimile

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

I. THE JURY'S TORTIOUS-INTERFERENCE LIABILITY FINDING SHOULD NOT STAND. 1

A. Columbia's Defense of the Jury Instructions Ignores the Law, Columbia's Prior Concessions, and This Court's Prior Rulings 1

B. Columbia's Argument that the Jury Could Have Found Egregious Conduct, and Thus the Omitted Jury Instruction Should Be Overlooked, Misses the Point. 6

C. Columbia's Tortious-Interference Evidence Fails as a Matter of Law. 7

II. THE COURT SHOULD STRIKE THE DAMAGES AWARD OR IN THE ALTERNATIVE GRANT A REMITTITUR. 12

A. The Jury's Award of $13 Million in Pre-Closing Damages Is Speculative and Against the Weight of the Evidence. 12

B. Columbia Cannot Now Disown Its Failure To Plead the $5 Million Congressional Appropriation in Its Counterclaim or Avoid Its Overstatement of Any Such Damages by $1 million 14

C. The Jury's Inexplicable Contract Damages Award Should Be Stricken. 16

III. COLUMBIA'S ARGUMENTS TO RESUSCITATE PETER BEN EZRA AS AN EXPERT ARE RED HERRINGS 17

IV. COLUMBIA'S ARGUMENT AGAINST RECUSAL CANNOT BE RECONCILED WITH ITS OWN AUTHORITY. 19

CONCLUSION 21

16d-003307

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

FEDERAL CASES

Bennett Enterprises, Inc. v. Domino's Pizza, Inc., 310 U.S. App. D.C. 192, 45 F.3d 493 (1995) 3, 4

FutureSource LLC v. Reuters Ltd., 312 F.3d 281 (7th Cir. 2002), cert. denied, 123 S. Ct. 1769 (2003) 9

Genetic Systems Corp. v. Abbott Laboratories, 691 F. Supp. 407 (D.D.C. 1988) 2, 3, 4

Luck v. Baltimore & Ohio R.R. Co., 166 U.S. App. D.C. 283, 510 F.2d 663 (1974) 17

Mercer Management Consulting, Inc. v. Wilde, 920 F. Supp. 219 (D.D.C. 1996) 2

STATE CASES

Bahura v. S.E.W. Investors, 754 A.2d 928 (D.C. 2000) 18

Breezevale Ltd. v. Dickinson, 759 A.2d 627 (D.C. 2000), aff'd en banc, 783 A.2d 573 (D.C. 2001) 8

CASCO Marina Development, L.L.C. v. D.C. Redevelopment Land Agency, 834 A.2d 77 (D.C. 2003) 4, 9

District of Columbia v. Banks, 646 A.2d 972 (D.C. 1994) 6

District of Columbia v. Helen B. Hickey & Kenny Construction Co., 150 A.2d 463 (D.C. 1959) 7

Doe v. Binker, 492 A.2d 857 (D.C. 1985) 17

Dyas v. United States, 376 A.2d 827 (D.C. 1977) 18

Dyer v. William S. Bergman & Associates, 657 A.2d 1132 (D.C. 1995) 4

Finkelstein v. District of Columbia, 593 A.2d 591 (D.C. 1991) 13-14

Fisher v. Best, 661 A.2d 1095 (D.C. 1995) 8

Gebremdhin v. Avis Rent-A-Car System, Inc, 689 A.2d 1202 (D.C. 1997) 6, 8

Howard University v. Best, 547 A.2d 144 (D.C. 1988) 7

Lyons v. Barrazotto, 667 A.2d 314 (D.C. 1995), aff'd en banc, 783 A.2d 573 D.C. 2001)....8

McCullough v. United States, 827 A.2d 48 (D.C. 2003)....7

Reed v. United States, 828 A.2d 159 (D.C. 2003)....18

Scott v. United States, 559 A.2d 745 (D.C. 1989)....21

Sorrells v. Garfinckel's, Brooks Brothers, Miller & Rhoads, Inc., 565 A.2d 285 (D.C. 1989)....4, 10

Wingfield v. Peoples Drug Store, Inc., 379 A.2d 685 (D.C. 1977)....6

York v. United States, 785 A.2d 651 (D.C. 2001)....19, 21

MISCELLANEOUS

115 Stat. 2177, 2187 (2002)....14

147 Cong. Rec. H10242 (daily ed. Dec. 18, 2001)....14

Code of Judicial Conduct for the District of Columbia Courts Canon 3(E)(1)....19

Columbia's sprawling Opposition attempts to escape the consequences of Columbia's overreaching and misstatements at trial. Columbia now seeks to defend the complete omission of any egregious-or-wrongful-conduct instruction from the jury instructions on tortious interference – even though Columbia previously had conceded, and indeed this Court twice previously had ruled, that such conduct must be proved to satisfy an element of the tort. Columbia attempts to show the sufficiency of the evidence simply by rehashing its theory of the case and its interpretation of the evidence presented at trial. But Columbia's spin on the evidence does not correct the fact that such evidence simply does not qualify as tortious interference. As for the damages calculation which Columbia first proposed to the jury during summation, and which the jury adopted, Columbia now disowns its misstatements about the damages evidence by proposing ways to explain the jury's verdict other than by acknowledging that the jury relied on the statements of Columbia's own counsel. And for those points as to which Columbia has no plausible explanation, Columbia pretends that NCRIC has waived its objections. But, as this Court is well aware, NCRIC objected early and often to Columbia's liability and damages evidence, and it plainly objected to the jury instructions.

I. THE JURY'S TORTIOUS-INTERFERENCE LIABILITY FINDING SHOULD NOT STAND.

A. Columbia's Defense of the Jury Instructions Ignores the Law, Columbia's Prior Concessions, and This Court's Prior Rulings.

Columbia argues that, because the jury instructions recited the four elements necessary to prove tortious interference, it is irrelevant that the Court failed to instruct the jury that satisfying one of those elements – intentional interference – requires proof of egregious or otherwise wrongful conduct. Columbia claims to be "unaware of . . . any controlling authority" establishing that the intentional interference necessary to prove this tort must be egregious and wrongful. Opp. 5. NCRIC's opening brief ("Memorandum" or "Mem."), however, cited a string of cases so holding. See Mem. at 4-5 (citing, e.g., Mercer Mgmt. Consulting, Inc. v. Wilde, 920 F. Supp. 219, 239 (D.D.C. 1996) ("Competitive activity does not by itself constitute intentional interference . . . unless accomplished by wrongful or improper means, such as fraud, violence, or civil suits." (internal quotations omitted) (emphasis added)); Genetic Sys. Corp. v. Abbott Labs., 691 F. Supp. 407, 423 (D.D.C. 1988) ("A competitor's conduct must be more egregious, for example, it must involve libel, slander, physical coercion, fraud, misrepresentation, or disparagement.")).

Columbia's search for controlling legal authority could have been as short as reading this Court's prior rulings in this case – rulings by not only the present judge, but likewise her predecessor. This Court twice has held that, to prove tortious interference, "conduct must be more egregious, for example, it must involve libel, slander, physical coercion, fraud, misrepresentation, or disparagement." Order Denying Summary Judgment at 10 (Apr. 11, 2003); accord Order on NCRIC's Motion To Dismiss at 3 (July 3, 2001) (Davis, J.) (defendant must "plead some form of 'egregious' behavior"). In fact, had Columbia consulted its own repeated prior arguments to this Court, it would have realized that it has conceded that it needed to prove wrongful conduct to prevail on its tortious-interference claim. See Tr. of Argument on Summary Judgment Mot. at 61, 63 (Dec. 12, 2002) (Columbia's counsel states: "that's what Judge Davis found was sufficient to state a claim for the kind of egregious conduct that supports a tortious interference claim; that's certainly the law of the case in this case" (emphasis added)); Columbia's Mem. of Points & Auth. in Opp. to NCRIC's Mot. for Sum. Judg. at 47 (Mar. 7, 2002) ("Whether NCRIC's malicious, retaliatory conduct was sufficiently 'egregious' or 'wrongful' is, at a minimum, a jury question" (capitalization changed)); Columbia's Supp. Mem. of Points & Auth. in Opp. to Pl.'s Mot. To Dismiss Counterclaims at 11 (Jan. 26, 2001) ("any type of malicious intent or egregious behavior will" satisfy the standard for tortious interference). Columbia even proposed one such version in response to NCRIC's proposed jury instructions. See Mem. 6-7. Columbia's position is not only contrary to what this Court repeatedly has ruled, but also contrary to Columbia's own previous acknowledgements of the law.

Columbia attempts to distinguish two cases cited by NCRIC that set forth the governing legal standard, Genetic Systems and Bennett Enterprises, but its attempts fail. Columbia argues that Genetic Systems should be disregarded both because it involved a motion to dismiss and because it did not rely on District of Columbia law. See Opp. 5-6 & n.3. But in the course of ruling on the motion to dismiss, Genetic Systems plainly did hold that "egregious" conduct such as "libel, slander, physical coercion, fraud, misrepresentation, or disparagement" is necessary to state an intentional interference claim. 691 F. Supp. at 423. That it so held on a motion to dismiss in no way undermines that ruling. As for Columbia's second objection, the court made explicitly clear that it was applying a rule that is consistent in the law of the District of Columbia as well as two other states, and that the differences in law among these states were "irrelevant" to the issues in the case. Id. at 422 n.75.

Columbia also argues that this Court's instruction satisfied Bennett Enterprises because it tracked that case's language concerning proof of "intent to disrupt [an] economic advantage." Opp. 6 (quoting Bennett Enters., Inc. v. Domino's Pizza, Inc., 310 U.S. App. D.C. 192, 198, 45 F.3d 493, 499 (1995)). But the pages of the record cited by Columbia to support its argument, Jury Instr. p. 12 and 2/10/04 Tr. 171-72, do not reflect a Bennett Enterprises instruction – the Court here instructed the jury only that it needed to find "intentional interference inducing termination of the expectancy," Jury Instr. p. 12, and "intentional interference inducing or causing a breach or termination of the relationship," 2/10/04 Tr. 171.

Moreover, contrary to Columbia's argument in its Opposition, Bennett Enterprises nowhere provides that an intent to disrupt, without egregious or otherwise wrongful conduct, would be actionable as tortious interference. In fact, Bennett Enterprises specifically relies on Genetic Systems as setting forth what constitutes "tortious interference . . . under District of Columbia law." Bennett Enters., 310 U.S. App. D.C. at 198, 45 F.3d at 499.

Columbia next argues that in prior cases, the Court of Appeals "has held far less 'egregious' conduct than that proven here sufficient to constitute tortious interference." Opp. 5 n.2. That argument misses the point – it is not known what the jury would consider "proven" here, and therefore how it compares to the cases Columbia cites, because the jury was never asked to resolve the factual dispute as to whether NCRIC engaged in the allegedly "egregious" conduct to which Columbia's witnesses testified. Id. Moreover, Columbia misstates the facts and holdings of the three cases it offers to support its argument that egregious conduct need not be proved. See Opp. 5 n.2. None of its cases suggests that egregious or otherwise wrongful conduct need not be proved to prevail on a tortious interference claim, and all involved egregious conduct. See CASCO Marina Dev., L.L.C. v. D.C. Redevelopment Land Agency, 834 A.2d 77, 84 (D.C. 2003) (requiring "improper" conduct to state a claim for tortious interference and denying a motion to dismiss based on allegations that a government agency, wrongfully and for the purpose of leveraging a better economic bargain, withheld consent even though, by law, it was required to provide such consent); Dyer v. William S. Bergman & Assocs., 657 A.2d 1132, 1137-38 (D.C. 1995) (affirming tortious-interference verdict based on conduct, including "misappropriating . . . records and . . . wrongfully stealing" a principal client, that was egregious enough to support a punitive damages award (emphasis added)); Sorrells v. Garfinckel's, Brooks Bros., Miller & Rhoads, Inc., 565 A.2d 285, 290-92 (D.C. 1989) (holding that a showing of "improper" conduct is required and finding sufficient evidence of malice based on evidence that defendant harmed plaintiff's sales by ridiculing her in public, denying her use of a telephone to call potential customers, and wrongfully withdrawing other materials necessary for plaintiff to do her job). While Columbia may disagree with the intricacies of the egregious-conduct standard, it cannot reinvent binding precedent, ignore its own concessions that some form of egregious conduct must be proved, and disown the law of the case.

Finally, Columbia asks the Court to ignore the erroneous jury instruction based on a far-fetched claim that NCRIC failed to object properly to the instructions. But Columbia itself concedes that NCRIC specifically objected on the record that the Court's proposed jury instructions "dropped the discussion of egregious conduct." Opp. 7 (quoting 2/10/04 Tr. 160). While Columbia's Opposition then shortens this quotation and contends that NCRIC's objection referred "only to 'egregious conduct' and nothing else," id., NCRIC's objection, read in context, clearly refers to the omission of NCRIC Proposed Jury Instruction No. 15. That proposed instruction provided a detailed egregious-and-wrongful-conduct instruction with citations to pertinent cases that, incidentally, included the Court's own description from its April 11, 2003 summary judgment ruling of the tortious-interference standard. The record also includes a second instance in which NCRIC insisted that the jury instructions include an egregious-and-wrongful-conduct instruction. See 2/9/04 Tr. 1106-07 (discussing previous version of same instruction, counsel for NCRIC explained the need for an instruction that "the intent [element] for these torts [requires proof of] aggravated conduct.").[1]

[1] Columbia's Opposition also suggests that any instructional error should be overlooked in light of the Court's latitude in fashioning appropriate jury instructions. Opp. 4. Such latitude, however, of course has important limits. There is no doubt that an instruction is erroneous and grounds for reversal if it excludes a major point of law which the jury should have been made

B. Columbia's Argument that the Jury Could Have Found Egregious Conduct, and Thus the Omitted Jury Instruction Should Be Overlooked, Misses the Point.

Perhaps recognizing that it did, in fact, need to prove that NCRIC engaged in egregious or otherwise wrongful conduct, Columbia argues also that the evidence could have supported such a finding. But that argument is irrelevant for purposes of considering whether the jury instructions were valid. For under the instructions actually given, and in light of the hotly contested factual dispute as to whether NCRIC engaged in egregious and wrongful conduct, it is impossible to determine whether the jury's verdict actually reflected a finding of egregious or wrongful conduct.

Columbia contends that the instructional error should be ignored because there has been no "miscarriage of justice." Opp. 10. The legal standard it recites, however, is premised on a case concerning the standard to apply when erroneous instructions are given but a party fails to object to the instructions. See id. 10-11 (discussing District of Columbia v. Banks, 646 A.2d 972, 977 (D.C. 1994) (defendant "never objected to this instruction, nor did it express any dissatisfaction with it, either directly or indirectly")). When, as here, a party properly objects to an instruction, the erroneous instruction provides grounds for a new trial if it is "misleading and prejudicial." Gebremdhin v. Avis Rent-A-Car Sys., Inc, 689 A.2d 1202, 1204 (D.C. 1997). That standard, and not Columbia's "miscarriage of justice" standard, applies here. Because the parties at trial disputed whether NCRIC's conduct was wrongful, the omission of an instruction requiring any such finding clearly and obviously prejudiced NCRIC.[2] aware in order to reach a fair and informed verdict. See Wingfield v. Peoples Drug Store, Inc., 379 A.2d 685, 688-89 (D.C. 1977).

---

[2] Columbia also attempts to argue that the instructional error was harmless because NCRIC's counsel argued the correct standard to the jury. See Opp. 11 n.6. But as Columbia acknowledges later in its brief, jurors are bound and presumed to follow the jury instructions

C. Columbia's Tortious-Interference Evidence Fails as a Matter of Law.

Columbia objects to NCRIC's challenge to the sufficiency of the evidence by providing an exhaustive recitation of two of its trial arguments – that NCRIC terminated the Retro Plan with a plan to help physicians move to other hospitals, and that NCRIC wrongfully interfered with Columbia's clinic. Opp. 12-20, 45-48. Its first argument fails because the conduct it describes is not in any way wrongful; its second argument fails because it has no relation whatsoever to the harm Columbia claims NCRIC caused.[3]

As a preliminary matter, Columbia's Opposition mistakenly states several times that the "miscarriage of justice" standard governs consideration of NCRIC's new-trial motion. See Opp. 7, 10, 12. That is totally incorrect. It is long settled that "[t]rial courts [also] have the given by the Court, not the argument of counsel. See Opp. 24 n.11 (citing McCullough v. United States, 827 A.2d 48, 55 (D.C. 2003) ("It is well settled in this jurisdiction that jurors are presumed to follow instructions.")).

---

[3] Through selective quotation of NCRIC's objection on the record, Columbia also argues that NCRIC waived this challenge because "[t]he only time NCRIC challenged the sufficiency of Columbia's evidence . . . was at the close of Columbia's case-in-chief." Opp. 42. Columbia cites a 1959 opinion stating that, when a party states solely that it is "renewing" a motion for judgment as a matter of law made at the end of the plaintiff's case-in-chief, such "renewal" is insufficient. Opp. 42-43 (discussing District of Columbia v. Helen B. Hickey & Kenny Constr. Co, 150 A.2d 463 (D.C. 1959)).

Here, however, NCRIC did much more than simply "renew" its motion. Columbia's Opposition says that NCRIC merely stated that it "repeated the arguments that [it] made at the close of the case previously when Columbia rested," Opp. 42, but in fact, immediately following that statement, NCRIC's counsel stated on the record that "I would say that the evidence, Your Honor, does not show the level of aggravated behavior, egregious conduct or tort necessary to change what is an ordinary contractual change of circumstances to change that into tortious interference. And we believe that those counts should be dismissed because they fail the [appropriate] standard of proof." 2/10/04 Tr. at 39. Thus unlike in Helen B. Hickey, NCRIC referenced its prior argument and then specifically explained the basis for its renewed motion. NCRIC's objection at the close of all of the evidence easily satisfies the Rule 50(a)(2) requirements for motions for judgment as a matter of law. See Howard Univ. v. Best, 547 A.2d 144, 147-48 (D.C. 1988) (detailing standard when considering sufficiency of Rule 50 motion and concluding that "'technical precision' is not required").

16d-003316

power and the duty to grant a new trial if the verdict is against the clear weight of the evidence." Gebremdhin, 689 A.2d at 1204 (internal quotation marks and brackets omitted). When considering such a motion, the Court is to consider "all the evidence both favorable and unfavorable." Breezevale Ltd. v. Dickinson, 759 A.2d 627, 638 (D.C. 2000) (quotation marks omitted) (citing Lyons v. Barrazotto, 667 A.2d 314, 324 (D.C. 1995)), aff'd en banc, 783 A.2d 573 (D.C. 2001). "[T]he trial judge need not view the evidence in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. Indeed, the Judge can, in effect, be the thirteenth juror, he may weigh evidence, disbelieve witnesses, and grant a new trial even when there is substantial evidence to sustain the verdict." Fisher v. Best, 661 A.2d 1095, 1098 (D.C. 1995) (internal quotation marks omitted; emphasis supplied).

As NCRIC explained in its opening brief, every one of the physicians who actually testified at trial made clear that NCRIC did not cause them to leave Columbia. Mem. 8-12. The evidence Columbia cites in its Opposition is either complete speculation or irrelevant. For example, while Columbia went to great pains at trial and in its Opposition to characterize the expiration of the Retro Plan as a "terminat[ion]" by NCRIC, e.g., 2/4/04 Tr. 590; Opp. 12, 46, absolutely no testimony at trial even suggested that either party had any obligation to continue the Retro Plan on or after September 1, 2000. Columbia does not now contend otherwise. Thus the question of which side sent the first notice of termination is irrelevant.

Columbia recites its version of the contract renewal negotiations and NCRIC's communications with its physician-insureds and then claims that such business conduct could qualify as tortious interference. See Opp. 12-14, 45-48. But even if Columbia had proven that physicians left Columbia because of the cancellation of the Retro Plan and that NCRIC engaged in aggressive negotiation tactics, as Columbia argues in its Opposition at 15, such evidence would be insufficient as a matter of law to prove causation. NCRIC had no obligation to continue the Retro Plan past August 31, 2000. Thus physicians reducing or ending their referrals after the proper expiration of the plan, which Columbia contends demonstrates tortious interference, Opp. 17-18, is in fact the normal, permissible change in business activity that one would expect upon the plan's expiration. Similarly, NCRIC's communications with its customers concerning the status of their policies, and its making plans to help its own customers if they decided to begin taking patients to other hospitals, is necessary business activity that is not tortious even if one result is that physicians stop admitting patients to Columbia. See, e.g., FutureSource LLC v. Reuters Ltd., 312 F.3d 281, 284 (7th Cir. 2002), cert. denied, 123 S. Ct. 1769 (2003) (The provision of truthful information to customers to whom a party owed contractual duties is not tortious interference.).

The cases Columbia cites to support its argument to the contrary do not, as Columbia incorrectly argues, hold that the business activity testified to by Columbia's witnesses can qualify as tortious interference. Columbia contends that in CASCO, the Court of Appeals found that liability could be premised on actions taken "merely . . . in furtherance of [a company's] economic interests." Opp. 47-48. In CASCO, plaintiff claimed tortious interference when a government agency with the authority to prohibit a transaction only if one of the transacting parties was in default exercised that authority and prohibited the transaction. The Court of Appeals held the complaint against the agency sufficient to survive a motion to dismiss because plaintiff alleged that the counter-party "was not in default" but that the agency nevertheless "asserted default solely in order to realize financial gain rather than for reasons related to performance under the contract." CASCO, 834 A.2d at 80. Labeling a party "in default" when it is not would of course be patently wrongful behavior. The other case on which Columbia relies, Sorrells, similarly involved wrongful conduct, including defendant's harming a department-store salesperson's sales, and therefore commissions, by ridiculing her in public, denying her use of a telephone to call potential customers, and wrongfully withdrawing other materials necessary for plaintiff to do her job. See Sorrells, 565 A.2d at 290-92.

Columbia also claims it provided sufficient evidence of wrongful conduct by soliciting testimony and introducing documents concerning NCRIC's cancellation of the policy covering Columbia's health clinic and NCRIC's issuance of exclusions to NCRIC-insureds practicing in the clinic. See Opp. 13-14, 16-17, 46-47. Of course, a physician's decision to stop practicing at the clinic would not affect hospital revenues from patient admissions because physician practice in the clinic is unrelated to private patient admissions to the hospital. Thus the effects of the expiration of the Retro Plan and of physicians moving their practices to other hospitals are completely distinct from any staffing problems at the clinic following NCRIC's cancellation of the clinic policy.

Both in its Opposition and in its argument to the jury, Columbia focused on the clinic policy even though the testimony at trial made clear that the clinic policy was completely distinct from the Retro Plan.[4] Columbia's tortious-interference claim was that NCRIC interfered with Retro Plan physicians admitting patients to the hospital, not that NCRIC interfered with [4] Columbia argues in its Opposition that its witnesses testified that NCRIC's cancellation of the clinic policy somehow caused physicians, presumably who had been participating in the Retro Plan, to begin "making arrangements to move their practices." Opp. 13. Columbia includes citations to the testimony of four physicians, Drs. Cooper, Rifka, Johnson and Dukes. But nothing in the testimony it cites includes any statement in which a physician says that the cancellation of the clinic policy led the physician to stop referring his or her private patients to Columbia. See 2/2/04 Tr. 15-16 (Dr. Cooper's testimony concerning cancellation of Retro Plan, not clinic policy); id. 113 (Dr. Rifka's testimony concerning cancellation of Retro Plan, not clinic policy); 2/4/04 Tr. 592-93 (Dr. Johnson's testimony concerning when she "quit treating clinic patients" and discussing a letter about practice at the clinic, not about admitting private patients to Columbia); id. 633 (Dr. Dukes' testimony concerning cancellation of Retro Plan, not clinic policy).

16d-003319

physicians practicing at the clinic. See Columbia's Am. Ans. and Counterclaims at 25 (Jan. 5, 2001) (alleging injury "due to loss of revenue resulting from loss of patient referrals").[5] Thus whether or not NCRIC properly cancelled the clinic policy and issued exclusions to clinic physicians – and NCRIC maintains that it properly did so – the issue is irrelevant because there was no evidence at trial that a physician's ability to practice in the clinic had any effect on a Retro Plan physician's decision to admit private patients to the hospital.

Finally, with regard to Columbia's obligation to prove "existence of a valid business relationship" Columbia places great weight on the testimony of physicians about their loyalty to Columbia (Opp. 14-15); in fact, it is the linchpin of Columbia's argument on this element. However, as Drs. Blank, Johnson and Dukes testified, their affinity for and loyalty to Columbia had already begun to wane in late 1999 and early 2000 because of the hospital's continuing difficulties which made it clear that the hospital was likely on the verge of closing (2/4/04 Tr. 564-65), was becoming an unsafe place for their patients (2/4/04 Tr. 583), and was not the hospital it once was (2/4/04 Tr. 621). These were the reasons cited by physicians for leaving Columbia, not any alleged actions taken by NCRIC. 2/4/04 Tr. 562-63, 585, 634.[6]

---

[5] Columbia now attempts to argue that its counterclaim sought damages for harm to the clinic. See Opp. 20. It bases that newly invented damages claim on its argument at trial that the appropriate measure of damages was the hospital's overall change in revenue before and after the hospital's dispute with NCRIC. See id. But, contrary to Columbia's claim, none of the testimony it cites provides any support for the proposition that the departure of clinic physicians actually contributed to the hospital's loss of revenue. See id. (citing testimony of Drs. Proctor, Rifka, and McCants). Given the description of the clinic at trial of serving the District's poor and uninsured, Columbia's claim that the clinic brought revenue into the hospital rings hollow.

[6] As it had at trial, Columbia claims that a NCRIC employee who had negotiated with Columbia through August 2000 concerning a possible extension of the Retro Plan, David Osborn, was "never heard from again." Opp. 14 n.7. Even Columbia is forced to concede, however, that the trial testimony explained that Mr. Osborn remained at NCRIC for months after August 2000 until ultimately being fired in January 2001, see id.; and the trial record reflects that Mr. Osborn's termination was not in any way "related to his negotiation discussion with Columbia," see 2/9/04 Tr. 1080.

II. THE COURT SHOULD STRIKE THE DAMAGES AWARD OR IN THE ALTERNATIVE GRANT A REMITTITUR.

A. The Jury's Award of $13 Million in Pre-Closing Damages Is Speculative and Against the Weight of the Evidence.

As was pointed out in NCRIC's Memorandum, the $13 million the jury awarded Columbia in pre-closing damages on the tortious-interference claim should be stricken because it is too speculative, Mem. 27-28, or at a minimum it should be remitted to $1,638,191.41, Mem. 21-22. In attempting to defend the award, Columbia's Opposition abandons the testimony of its own damages expert, Peter Ben Ezra, which was the model the Court held to be "a reasonable formula to apply in this instance," 2/3/04 Tr. 299. It instead invented a different damages model introduced for the first time during closing argument.

In closing argument, Columbia contended for the first time that $13 million is an appropriate measure of pre-closing damages to compensate for the departure of specified physicians upon expiration of the Retro Plan. It based that new theory, supported only by counsel's argument, on taking the hospital's overall change in revenue from its 2000 fiscal year to its 2001 fiscal year ($10 million/year), discounted by 30 percent to account for marginal costs (thereby reduced to $7 million/year), and then applied to the 22 months before the hospital closed (totaling $13 million). 2/10/04 Tr. 132. Columbia's Opposition pretends that this damages calculation had evidentiary support – it goes so far as to label it the "Rifka/Wilson/Moore model for 22 months" of damages. Opp. 49. But contrary to Columbia's assertions, see Opp. 20, the evidence at trial was only that the hospital's total revenues declined by $10 million over one year – neither Dr. Rifka nor Mr. Wilson nor Mr. Moore testified that all of this decline in revenue could possibly be attributed to reduced admissions from former Retro Plan physicians. See, e.g., 2/4/04 Tr. 505. In fact, no witness testified as to what all of the specific factors are that contribute to the hospital's revenues. (However, one witness, Mr.

Moore, testified that the hospital's revenue trend since 1995 – before the conduct at issue in this case – had been declining, and that between 2000 and 2001 – the period on which Columbia focused – "the hospital actually did better bottom line-wise financially." See 2/8/04 Tr. 930.) Only one person at trial took the inappropriate leap of attributing the entire decline in revenue from 2000 to 2001 to the departure of NCRIC-insured physicians: Columbia's counsel in closing argument.[7]

If the Court declines to strike these speculative damages in their entirety, NCRIC urges the Court to remit them to an amount consistent with what Columbia's own damages expert testified to: $1,638,191.41, Mem. 21-22. That amount is premised on Mr. Ben Ezra's contention that damages would total approximately $2.6 million per year, which Columbia now admits, see Opp. 35,[8] as there discounted to conform to the evidence presented at trial. See Mem. 21-22.

Columbia's Opposition pretends that a remittitur could be justified only if the Court determined that the damages award was "so inordinately large as to exceed the maximum range supported by the evidence, or when it is so great as to shock the conscience." Opp. 34-35. While those factors could certainly constitute a basis for remittitur, they are not the sole bases. The District of Columbia Court of Appeals has explained that, "[w]hen a party moves to strike a verdict as excessive, the trial court must consider whether that verdict resulted from . . . mistake, oversight, or consideration of improper elements." Finkelstein v. District of Columbia, 593 A.2d 591, 596 (D.C. 1991) (en banc). Because of Columbia's counsel's invention of a new measure of damages during closing arguments, the jury made a mistake and considered improper elements.[9]

---

[7] In closing argument, Columbia's counsel argued that Mr. Ben Ezra's analysis would produce the same calculation, but that argument grossly misstated the factual record. See 2/10/04 Tr. 135. Columbia's counsel told the jury that his $7 million-per-year number, when considered over three years, is $21 million, which is "exactly the number Peter Ben Ezra came up with." Id. But Mr. Ben Ezra actually testified that the hospital's decreased cash flow would total $22 million over twenty years, not three years. See 2/3/04 Tr. 311-12.

[8] Notwithstanding this admission, Columbia also states that Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony would have been sufficient to support a $20 million verdict, presumably as a way to make the $13 million verdict seem reasonable. See Opp. 35. But the jury's verdict form makes clear that the $13 million was for only the 22 months before the hospital closed, while Mr. Ben Ezra's $22 million estimate was for a twenty-year period.

B. Columbia Cannot Now Disown Its Failure To Plead the $5 Million Congressional Appropriation in Its Counterclaim or Avoid Its Overstatement of Any Such Damages by $1 million.

The entire $5 million component of the jury verdict for a missed congressional appropriation should be stricken. As for the $1 million above and beyond what Congress actually appropriated, Columbia's counsel urges the Court to ignore the public record reflecting a $4 million appropriation and instead credit Dr. Rifka's testimony of a $5 million appropriation. Columbia's witness's testimony, and its counsel's argument for $5 million, are flatly contradicted by what is publicly available in the Congressional Record and the Statutes at Large. See 147 Cong. Rec. H10242 (daily ed. Dec. 18, 2001); 115 Stat. 2177, 2187 (2002). In light of Columbia's counsel's misstatement of the public record at trial, see 2/10/04 Tr. 53-54; Mem. 23 n.5, it is amazing that Columbia has not now agreed to at least a $1 million remittitur.

Columbia has three lines of attack, none successful, to justify the jury's award of $5 million on its claim that it lost a congressional appropriation when the hospital closed. First, Columbia asks the Court to excuse the fact that it failed to include any such damages in its

---

[9] Columbia quite improperly intersperses a wholly irrelevant personal attack on the credibility of NCRIC's CEO. See Opp. 39 n.19. Its Opposition implies, but does not actually state, that NCRIC's CEO made filings with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission that were incomplete or inaccurate. In fact, the record reflects without dispute, from the uncontradicted testimony of NCRIC's CEO, that NCRIC's securities filings were: (1) totally proper; and (2) consistent with the advice of NCRIC's legal advisors and accountants with regard to compliance with the technical accounting rules governing such securities filings. See 2/10/04 Tr. 6-7.

16d-003323

counterclaim on the ground that the damages are not a "new claim," but rather reflect "continuing harm." Opp. 51. For this proposition it is forced to cite a case dating back to 1908. Opp. 51-52. In fact, the harm pleaded in the counterclaim is decreased income from lost patient referrals. See Columbia's Am. Ans. and Counterclaims at 25 (Jan. 5, 2001) (alleging injury "due to loss of revenue resulting from loss of patient referrals"). Any losses from decreased patient referrals occurring after the date of filing of the counterclaim, and that were tortiously caused by NCRIC, would qualify as "continuing harm" that would be recoverable. However, the opportunity to take advantage of a congressional appropriation is a completely distinct damages theory pleaded nowhere in NCRIC's counterclaim, and thus does not qualify as recoverable "continuing harm" damages. Columbia's authorities are not to the contrary.

Second, Columbia pretends that the $5 million in post-closing damages could be something other than what Columbia specifically asked for in its closing argument. Columbia argued to the jury that, in addition to the $5 million for the congressional appropriation, it should receive as post-closing damages the $7 million per year for the three years that it claimed the hospital would have stayed open, or $21 million. See 2/10/04 Tr. 135. In an effort to convince the Court that the $5 million awarded could somehow be part of the $21 million in overall lost revenue, Columbia says that $7 million per year would equal $5 million for nine months. Opp. 36. It then posits that, although it asked for three-years worth of post-closing lost revenue damages, "the modest $5 million award for post-closure damages represents just 9 months of lost revenue under this model." Id. Columbia's desperate permutations to reach a comprehensible explanation for the $5 million, other than that it was what Columbia asked for in its lost-congressional-appropriation damages request, do not pass the common-sense test. Moreover, nine-months' worth of the $7 million in annual revenue loss Columbia projected would be $5,250,000, not $5 million. This jury returned a verdict on the contract claim down to the dollar – had it done what Columbia hypothesizes for the tortious interference claim, it would not have simply ignored the last $250,000.

Finally, Columbia contends that NCRIC's challenge to this $5 million has been waived. Opp. 40 n.20, 51. But the record is clear that NCRIC objected to evidence concerning this missed congressional appropriation. When Dr. Rifka first testified (inaccurately) that Congress had appropriated $5 million for it, NCRIC objected on the record to his testimony on the ground that it had been denied discovery on the subject. 2/2/04 Tr. 176. Columbia's Opposition now contends that, because there were three questions between the testimony and the objection, the objection was untimely, see Opp. 40 n.20, but it cites no authority for that draconian proposition. Moreover, shortly before Columbia's closing argument, in which it requested the $5 million for the congressional appropriation, NCRIC specifically objected twice outside of the presence of the jury to Columbia arguing in closing concerning such alleged damages. See 2/10/04 Tr. 41, 55 (objecting to damages arising from "a grant from the federal government"). Columbia cites nothing to support its claim that NCRIC should have interrupted Columbia's counsel during his summation to renew its twice-made objection to the inclusion of such argument.

C. The Jury's Inexplicable Contract Damages Award Should Be Stricken.

NCRIC's opening Memorandum explained that the jury's award of $220,002 on Columbia's contract claim cannot be reconciled with any permutation of the evidence it had before it. Mem. 12-13. One reason for the jury's inexplicable verdict may be that Columbia's counsel sowed confusion during its closing argument by misstating the evidence in the record concerning the calculation of such damages. See id. 13. In its Opposition, Columbia nowhere attempts to defend its misstatement to the jury – instead it relies on inapposite case authority.

Columbia claims that Doe v. Binker, 492 A.2d 857 (D.C. 1985), supports its contention that any award within the range argued by the parties must stand. Opp. 21-22. Doe says no such thing. Rather, it found a jury's pain-and-suffering award proper only because there was "substantial circumstantial evidence presented" to support it. 492 A.2d at 861.

Columbia also contends, citing Luck v. Baltimore & Ohio R.R. Co., 166 U.S. App. D.C. 283, 510 F.2d 663 (1974), that NCRIC's contract-damages argument must be rejected absent "actual evidence of wrongful juror conduct." Opp. 22 (emphasis in original). But Luck requires such evidence when a party argues that the jury engaged in "misconduct." 166 U.S. App. D.C. at 288, 510 F.2d at 668. Here, Columbia's counsel engaged in the misconduct by misleading the jury during closing argument; the jury's ultimate verdict demonstrated not misconduct, but confusion or mistake.

Finally, Columbia illogically argues that, because before the jury returned its verdict NCRIC did not raise an objection, NCRIC cannot, post-verdict, be heard to object to the amount of the verdict. Opp. 21. Of course, NCRIC could not have raised an objection to the amount of the verdict until that verdict had first been returned by the jury. It was not until the jury returned its verdict that NCRIC was able to determine that its award represented mistake and confusion.

III. COLUMBIA'S ARGUMENTS TO RESUSCITATE PETER BEN EZRA AS AN EXPERT ARE RED HERRINGS.

Columbia would have this Court believe that, if Peter Ben Ezra qualified as an expert under the Dyas test, then it had no choice other than to let his testimony go to the jury. See Op. 25-26. But that is not the law in the District of Columbia – nowhere does Dyas suggest that, once a court determines that a witness is qualified to testify as an expert, the Court's gatekeeper function is complete. By its terms, Dyas sets forth only the "subject matter and testimonial qualifications governing the admissibility of expert testimony." Dyas v. United States, 376 A.2d 827, 832 (D.C. 1977).

NCRIC's Memorandum argues that Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony should have been excluded because, rather than being a disinterested expert, he was a plainly biased former Chairman of the Board of Columbia who had actually participated in Columbia's direction of this litigaiton, because his testimony was based on speculative factual assumptions lacking support in the record, and because he failed to apply generally accepted accounting techniques. Columbia retorts in its Opposition that the dispute of "how best to apply a discounted cash flow methodology to the facts of this case[, u]nder Dyas, . . . go[es] to weight, not admissibility." Opp. 26 (emphasis in original). But Columbia offers no citation to any specific passage in Dyas for that contention, and in fact Dyas says no such thing. Dyas' silence on the issue raised by NCRIC, admission of testimony based on rank speculation and a clearly flawed methodology, does not imply that admission of such testimony is required or even permitted.

Columbia's discussion of Daubert and Reed v. United States, 828 A.2d 159, (D.C. 2003) (declining to apply the Daubert-Kumho standard), similarly is irrelevant. District of Columbia law, following Frye v. United States, provides that expert testimony is to be excluded if it is not based on a methodology for which there is "'general acceptance.'" See Bahura v. S.E.W. Investors, 754 A.2d 928, 943 n.15 (D.C. 2000). NCRIC's motion does not argue that Daubert applies – it argues under the Frye standard that Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony should have been excluded because Mr. Ben Ezra failed to apply generally accepted accounting principles.[10]

[10] Columbia's most blatant red herring with regard to Mr. Ben Ezra is its extended discussion attempting to support Mr. Ben Ezra's use of a 20-year period for his damages projection. See Opp. 30 n.15. In light of this Court's prior rulings on this point, NCRIC did not actually raise this issue in its Memorandum. Columbia even acknowledges as much, see id. ("NCRIC does not

IV. COLUMBIA'S ARGUMENT AGAINST RECUSAL CANNOT BE RECONCILED WITH ITS OWN AUTHORITY.

Columbia contends that, because Dr. Butler was not listed or called as a witness at trial, the Court's extended treatment by him does not provide grounds for recusal. But Columbia's argument against recusal is not tethered to the law of this jurisdiction. Columbia fails even to state the operative legal standard, Code of Judicial Conduct for the District of Columbia Courts Canon 3(E)(1), which provides that a "judge shall disqualify himself or herself in a proceeding in which the judge's impartiality might reasonably be questioned." See York v. United States, 785 A.2d 651, 655 & n.7 (D.C. 2001) (explaining that the Canon is "binding on judges of . . . the Superior Court") (quotation marks omitted).

Columbia discusses the facts of York but ignores its holding that, when a judge has a close relationship to someone who is a witness at trial, recusal may be required under Canon 3(E)(1). York explains that recusal would be required where a judge is married to a commander of a police district and the witness is a police officer "under the command of her husband." 785 A.2d at 656 n.9. In York, "appellant failed to establish any significant connection between the judge's husband . . . [and the police-officer] witnesses involved in this case," and therefore recusal was not required. 785 A.2d at 656. The trial witnesses in York were police officers who were not under the judge's husband's direct command – the husband did not have "any connection whatsoever with those officers other than their common employment by the MPD." Id. at 657.

The relationship between Dr. Butler and Columbia's chief witness as trial, Dr. Rifka, was as close as, or closer than, that of a police officer and his direct commander. Dr. Butler and Dr. Rifka practiced together as part of a three-person partnership; the symbiotic now expressly voice any complaint about Ben Ezra's selection of a 20-year damages period"), but it then spends over 200 words responding to this phantom argument.

---

relationship between these two doctors bears no relationship to the mere common-employer situation found not to require recusal in York. Thus while Columbia argues strenuously that, because Dr. Butler was not identified as a witness, the Court has no reason to recuse, that argument is irrelevant. York makes clear that the judge's close association to someone who works closely with a key trial witness provides a basis for recusal.

Perhaps recognizing the weakness of its legal argument, Columbia also argues against recusal by unfairly accusing NCRIC of mischaracterizing the factual record. Columbia contends incorrectly that NCRIC's statement that the Court had received treatment "at Columbia itself" is "unsupported by the record." Opp. 32-33. The trial record reflects that, while the Court was describing her treatment "on the grounds of Columbia," counsel for Columbia interrupted her and insisted to her that she had not been treated at Columbia. 2/4/04 Tr. 460-61. The Court responded, "Well I don't know. It says Columbia. I think the name of his practice group is Columbia Fertility Association. And so you go into the door of Columbia Hospital." Id. 461. Thus while Columbia's counsel's testimony is that the Court was not treated at Columbia, the Court itself said no such thing. Similarly, Columbia notes that NCRIC's affidavit in support of its motion explained the "obvious possibility that any patient of one doctor in [Dr. Butler's] practice would have had contact with and been treated by other physicians in the practice." Opp. 32 (quoting Page Aff. ¶ 9). The fact that the Court stated on the record that she had not been treated by Dr. Rifka does not, as Columbia contends, contradict or even take away from the significance of the statement in the affidavit. The affidavit speaks to the appearance of impartiality given that, in a three-physician practice of this nature, patients routinely see all doctors in the practice. Whether the Court actually was treated by Dr. Rifka does not affect the appearance issue.

Finally, Columbia inexplicably contends that, even if recusal is required under Canon 3(E)(1), the Court should not recuse and order a new trial. See Opp. 34 n.18. But in the case it cites for this claim, Scott v. United States, 559 A.2d 745 (D.C. 1989), the Court required a new trial based on the judge's failure to recuse. See id. at 756. Moreover, the case for ordering a new trial here is greater than in Scott because, after Scott was decided, in 1995 the Code of Judicial Conduct was revised. Before the revision, the Canons stated that a judge "should" recuse based on an appearance of impartiality; they now provide that a judge "shall" recuse under such circumstances. York, 785 A.2d at 655 n.7. Moreover, Scott is a D.C. Court of Appeals decision but here the motion is directed to the trial court itself. While the Court of Appeals might be reluctant to second-guess a trial court's decision on recusal, the trial court itself obviously faces no such constraint.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated herein and previously, NCRIC's motions should be granted.

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP

Scott M Badami by RA Ford

Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar No. 435375
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(202) 508-6000 telephone
(202) 508-6200 facsimile

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: April 5, 2004

16d-003330

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that a true and correct copy of the foregoing Reply Memorandum In Support of NCRIC's Motion For New Trial and Renewed Motion For Judgment As A Matter of Law was served this 5th day of April 2004, by hand delivery upon:

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women

I further certify that, on this 5th day of April 2004, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned Reply was served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.

Scott M. Badami by RA Todd
Scott M. Badami

16d-003331

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,
Plaintiff,	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8
v.
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
Defendant.

NCRIC'S OPPOSITION TO COLUMBIA'S MOTION FOR ASSESSMENT OF COSTS

Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia") has moved for an assessment of costs totaling $35,896.83, including: deposition costs, photocopying costs, delivery costs, witness fees, witness travel expenses and court fees. NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC") opposes Columbia's Motion for Assessment of Costs both because its request is grossly excessive and because most of its counterclaims were rejected either as a matter of law or by the jury. Columbia should receive no – or, at most, a greatly reduced – award of costs.[1]

Additionally, NCRIC requests that Columbia's motion be denied outright as Columbia has violated Super. Ct. Civ. R. 12-I(a) by filing the instant motion without contacting opposing counsel as required by the Rule. Columbia's motion does not, and indeed could not, include the appropriate certification of good faith because Columbia never attempted to reach an agreement with NCRIC concerning taxation of costs. This is precisely the sort of motion where negotiation between the parties could lead to a compromise consent motion. By not even attempting to reach such a compromise, Columbia is unnecessarily burdening the Court.

[1] If the Court grants NCRIC's previously-filed Motion for Approval of Supersedeas Bond and to Stay Execution Pending Decision on its Rules 50 and 59 Motions and Any Appeal, any award of costs will be stayed. Columbia does not oppose NCRIC's motion for a stay. See 3/17/04 letter from Columbia's counsel, attached as Exhibit A. Accordingly, NCRIC respectfully requests that, either before or at the time the Court rules on Columbia's motion for costs, it also grant NCRIC's unopposed motion to stay execution.

I. DISCUSSION

A. Costs Should Not Be Awarded In This Case.

NCRIC challenges any award of costs to Columbia in this action.[2] Whether to award costs pursuant to Super. Ct. Civ. R. 54(d) is a decision within the discretion of the trial court. Harris v. Sears Roebuck & Co., 695 A.2d 108, 109 (D.C. 1997). "The trial court has broad discretion . . . in deciding whether to award costs at all or instead ruling that each side must bear its own costs." Sporicidin Co. v. Hauser, 126 Daily Wash. L. Rptr. 1905, 1906 (D.C. Super. Ct. July 2, 1998). Courts in this jurisdiction and others have declined to award costs to a party when it was not successful on all of its claims. See Sporicidin, 126 Daily Wash. L. Rptr. at 1906 (and federal cases cited therein).[3]

In Sporicidin, the court declined to award costs to plaintiff despite the successful resolution of two of its claims and a jury verdict in its favor in the amount of $250,000. The court ruled that, in light of defendant's success in defeating plaintiff's legal malpractice claim and its major damage claim, each party was to be responsible for its own costs. See id. Importantly, the court noted plaintiff's malpractice and major damage claim were particularly weak. Sporicidin explained that, at the conclusion of trial it was apparent that plaintiff had failed

---

[2] Without first hearing argument from the parties on the propriety of an award of costs in this case, the Court stated in its Judgment in this matter that Columbia is to be awarded its costs. See Judgment (Feb. 20, 2004). For the reasons explained herein, NCRIC respectfully requests that the Court reconsider that ruling.

[3] "Rule 54 is substantially identical to Fed. Rule of Civil Procedure 54." Comment to Super. Ct. Civ. R. 54. See also Harris, 695 A.2d at 110 n.1 (observing that "Super. Ct. Civ. R. 54(d) is substantially identical to Fed. R. Civ. P. 54 and that we consider federal decisional authority to be persuasive.").

to prove as a matter of law a key element of those claims. Id. at 1906 n.5. The court went on to say, had those claims not been part of the case, "the court system and the defense would have been spared a substantial investment of time and resources." Id. at 1906. Given the weakness of those claims and the time and resources spent toward proving them, the court held that it would not be appropriate to require defendant to pay plaintiffs' costs. Id.

In this case, in response to NCRIC filing a single-count breach of contract claim, Columbia filed an eleven-count counterclaim. This Court dismissed seven of the eleven counts as a matter of law, one before the trial began, one after Columbia closed its case-in-chief (2/5 Tr. at pp. 667-69), and five more after the close of all the evidence (2/10 Tr. at pp. 64-65). Of Columbia's remaining four counts, the jury rejected two of them and awarded damages only on Columbia's breach-of-contract and tortious-interference claims. 2/13 Tr. at pp. 1-9. Even as to the two claims on which it prevailed, the jury awarded much less than Columbia sought on its contract claim and with respect to its tort claim, properly refused Columbia's grossly overreaching punitive-damages request. In this situation, where nine of the eleven counterclaims brought by Columbia failed (seven as a matter of law), and the damages award was far less than requested by Columbia, Columbia should not be deemed a prevailing party. Even if this Court were to determine that Columbia is the prevailing party, costs should not be awarded based upon the time and expense to the Court system and to NCRIC of trying the counterclaims, the majority of which did not even merit consideration by the jury. See Sporicidin, 126 Daily Wash. L. Rptr. at 1906 ("even if a party is deemed 'prevailing,' the award of costs is nonetheless discretionary") (citing Talley v. Varma, 689 A.2d 547, 555 (D.C. 1997); Kleiman v. Aetna Cas. & Sur. Co., 581 A.2d 1263, 1267 (D.C. 1990); Ingber v. Ross, 479 A.2d 1256, 1265 (D.C. 1984)).

B. Objections to Specific Costs Sought by Columbia.

Subject to NCRIC's general objections to the award of any costs to Columbia in this matter, should the Court make such an award, NCRIC takes specific exception to the award of the following costs outlined in Columbia's Statement of Costs ("Stmt. of Costs"), attached as Exhibit A to its Motion for Assessment of Costs ("Motion for Costs"). In addition to striking the costs outlined below, should costs be awarded, NCRIC specifically requests a reduction in such award of two-thirds of the otherwise permissible costs to account for the claims dismissed by the Court as a matter of law. See Sporicidin, 126 Daily Wash. L. Rptr. at 1906 (and federal cases cited therein).

Any award of costs should be limited to those costs allowed pursuant to Super. Ct. Civ. R. 54-I,[4] and allocated fairly. "'The discretion given district judges to tax costs should be sparingly exercised with reference to expenses not specifically allowed by statute.'" Harris, 695 A.2d at 110 n.1 (citations omitted). See also Talley, 689 A.2d at 555 (while court fees and witness fees are ordinarily recoverable, absent unusual circumstances, parties must bear their personal expenses)(citing Robinson v. Howard Univ., 455 A.2d 1363, 1370) (D.C. 1983)). Keeping in mind the Court of Appeals' admonition that the discretion of trial courts to award costs "must be exercised with 'restraint and discretion'" Robinson, 455 A.2d at 1370 (citation omitted)), NCRIC urges the Court to decline to award as costs Columbia's exorbitant and unspecified claims for deposition costs, photocopying costs, delivery fees, and a witness fee for a witness who did not even appear at trial.[5] [4] Super. Ct. Civ. R. 54-I permits the court, in its discretion, to award costs for: depositions, reporters' transcripts on appeal, and premiums on bonds.

---

[5] See, e.g., Talley v. Varma, 689 A.2d 547(D.C. 1997) (reducing plaintiff 's requested photocopying costs of $6,351.29 to $500, for plaintiff's failure to provide specific information relating to copying costs or the reasons copies were necessary for trial).

1. Deposition Costs

Columbia seeks $10,886.45 in deposition costs. Stmt. of Costs at p. 1. While Columbia correctly cites cases from this jurisdiction that state that deposition costs may be awarded even if the deposition is not introduced at trial (see Harris, 695 A.2d at 110), the award of such costs is within the discretion of the trial court. See Super Ct. Civ. R. 54-I(b)); Talley, 689 A.2d at 556. Importantly, a prerequisite to the award of such costs is a finding by the trial court "that the deposition was necessary for case preparation." Talley, 689 A.2d at 556. See also Kleiman v. Aetna Cas. Sur. Co., 581 A.2d at 1267.

With the exception of the depositions of R. Ray Pate, Bernard Hempelman, and Steven Fargis, Columbia alleges only generally that the depositions were necessary for its case presentation. Declaration In Support of Columbia's Motion For Assessment of Costs ("Schulman Decl.") ¶ 5. Columbia presents no basis, however, for the Court to make such a finding as to all of the depositions for which it seeks costs. Furthermore, in light of the exorbitant amount Columbia seeks as costs for the depositions and the number of Columbia's counterclaims dismissed by the Court, such an award should be denied, or at least, be significantly reduced.

2. Photocopying Costs

Columbia seeks a staggering $20,859.35 in photocopying costs. Stmt. of Costs at p. 1. Despite this exorbitant request, Columbia provides only limited details to justify such an award. Specifically, Columbia's Statement of Costs lacks any comprehensive description of what was copied, how many pages were copied or the reasons the copies were necessary for trial. Instead Columbia attempts to rely on a single paragraph in Mr. Schulman's Declaration as justification for this substantial award. See Schulman Decl. ¶ 4. Although Mr. Schulman states that Columbia seeks copying costs for trial exhibits, pre-trial exhibits, summary judgment exhibits and documents produced in discovery, and that copying costs are "generally eight to ten cents per page," no further detail is provided. Without such detail, there is no way to know if such costs are reasonable or were in fact necessary for trial.

By way of example only, Columbia seeks an incredible $9,325.47 for the cost of photocopying six boxes of documents produced in discovery. Stmt. of Costs at p. 1; Schulman Decl. ¶ 4. Ten reams of paper, containing five-hundred pages each, fit into an average size litigation box. At 5,000 pages per box, a conservative estimate of the total number of pages required to fill the six boxes Columbia claims to have produced in discovery is 30,000. Using the midpoint of the copying costs cited in Mr. Schulman's declaration (id.), nine-cents per page, photocopying of the discovery documents would total only $2,700. There is no explanation that could justify $9,324.47 in photocopying costs requested by Columbia for these six boxes of discovery documents. Its overstatement of these costs casts doubt as to the legitimacy of the entire $20,859.35 requested by Columbia for photocopying. See Talley, 689 A.2d at 554-55 (upholding trial court's reduction of plaintiff's requested photocopying, duplication, photograph and medical record fees from $6,351.29 to $500, on the grounds that plaintiff's schedule of costs which was comprised of lists of generic charge items coupled with dates and monetary amounts only and failed to provide sufficient detail as to each claimed expense or to specify why each claimed expense was necessary for trial).

By providing dates and amounts of particular copying jobs, plaintiff in Talley provided more information in its statement of costs than Columbia provides here. Nevertheless, its copying costs were reduced to the reasonable sum of $500. A similar result is required here. Moreover, based on the dismissal of the majority of Columbia's counterclaims, the Court here should disallow such costs, or at a minimum, reduce them by two-thirds.

3. Delivery Costs

Columbia seeks an incredible $3,217.53 in delivery and service of process costs. Stmt. of Costs at p. 2. In support of its request, Columbia cites to a single, one page decision relying on federal court precedent from other jurisdictions, in which the total costs awarded were $109.53, including $40.13 in delivery and service costs. See Camper v. Stewart-Lange, 782 A.2d 762 (D.C. 2001). Delivery costs are not provided for in Rule 54 and should be denied. See Burns v. Greater Southeast Community Hospital, 119 Daily Wash. L. Rptr. 1869, 1873 (D.C. Super. Ct. July 11, 1991)("Although plaintiff seeks reimbursement for courier services, such services are not considered part of costs which may be taxed against the losing party."). See also Talley, 689 A.2d at 554 n.10 (defendant does not contest denial of costs for courier and messenger fees). Additionally, nowhere in its submission does Columbia provide sufficient detail to permit award of such costs. The Court should deny such costs in their entirety.

4. Witness Fees

Columbia seeks reimbursement of a witness fee for a witness who did not even testify at trial – Nabil Asterbadi. Stmt. of Costs at p. 2. In fact, to the best of NCRIC's knowledge, Mr. Asterbadi was not even present at the trial. Columbia has cited to no authority, and we are aware of none, allowing the award of witness fees for non-testifying witnesses when a trial was held. Cf. Pearce v. E.F. Hutton Group, Inc., (Civ. A. No. 87-0008, 1989 WL 4969, Civ.A.No. 87-0008, *3 n.4 (D.D.C. Jan. 10, 1989)(disallowing costs for witness who did not appear at trial). Accordingly, the Court should deny this cost.

II. CONCLUSION

Columbia's motion is as excessive as it is premature. For the reasons stated herein, it should be denied.

Respectfully submitted,

BRYAN CAVE LLP

Scott M. Badami by RA 2nd

Rodney F. Page, D.C. Bar No. 37994
Scott M. Badami, D.C. Bar 435375
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960
(202) 508-6116 telephone
(202) 508-6200 facsimile

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Dated: April 7, 2004

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that a true and correct copy of the foregoing Opposition to Columbia's Motion for Assessment of Costs was served this 7th day of April 2004, by hand delivery upon:

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women

I further certify that, on this 7th day of April 2004, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned paper was served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.

Scott M. Badami by RA

Scott M. Badami

16d-003340

EXHIBIT A

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

March 17, 2004

By Facsimile

Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20005-3960

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

Dear Scott:

I write to memorialize the substance of our phone conversation of yesterday. Columbia does not intend to oppose NCRIC's motion for a stay pending resolution of NCRIC's motions under Rules 50 and 59 and any appeal. Our position is predicated on the presence of the $19,500,000 surety bond with Liberty Mutual and NCRIC, Inc.'s assurance that the bond is currently in force and is not contingent on approval from the Court for its enforceability. As we discussed, Columbia reserves the right to withdraw its non-opposition to the stay request should there be any material change regarding NCRIC or the surety. Finally, you indicated that NCRIC had no objection to Columbia's having until March 26, 2004 to file its opposition to NCRIC's post-trial motions.

Sincerely,

Eli C. Schulman

Eli C. Schulman

RECEIVED
Civil Clerk's Office
APR 20 2004
Superior Court of the District of Columbia
Washington, D.C.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC., Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant, v. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC., Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby Next Event: Post-Trial Motions

COLUMBIA'S REPLY IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR ASSESSMENT OF COSTS

NCRIC's opposition offers the Court no reason to deny Columbia the costs it actually incurred in defeating NCRIC's meritless claim and succeeding on its counterclaims. NCRIC argues that Columbia should be denied all of its costs, because Columbia prevailed on some, but not all, of its counterclaims, even though the jury found for Columbia on NCRIC's claim and proceeded to award over $18 million in compensatory damages on Columbia's counterclaims. The D.C. Court of Appeals has already heard and rejected nearly identical efforts to deny parties who, like Columbia, have prevailed in substance, even if not on every single count.

NCRIC also argues that the specific costs Columbia incurred are excessive and seeks dramatically smaller awards (and sometimes none at all). But, again, NCRIC ignores binding precedent and its argument rests on self-serving speculation about what it considers to be reasonable costs, and does so without a shred of factual evidence to rebut Columbia's uncontested factual showings. Tellingly, too, NCRIC never remotely suggests that its own actual costs were less than Columbia's in any category covered by Columbia's motion for costs.

Columbia respectfully requests that the Court grant its motion and award the costs that Columbia has actually incurred in litigating this complex and hard-fought case for over three years.[1]

Discussion

I. THE COURT SHOULD REJECT NCRIC'S REQUEST THAT IT RECONSIDER ITS RULING THAT COLUMBIA IS ENTITLED TO AN AWARD OF COSTS

In entering judgment, the Court expressly ruled that Columbia is entitled to be awarded its costs. See Judgment (attached hereto as Ex. A) (ordering that "Counter-Claimant COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC. . . . recover . . . its costs of action"). NCRIC's opposition brief asks the Court to reconsider that ruling. See NCRIC Opp. at 2-4. NCRIC contends that Columbia should not be considered a "prevailing party" under Rule 54 because it did not win each and every one of its counterclaims and did not recover all of its damages. See id. at 3.

This argument has been heard and rejected by the Court of Appeals. Under D.C. law, a prevailing party is one that "succeed[s] on any significant issue in litigation which achieves some of the benefit the part[y] sought in bringing suit." Knight v. Georgetown Univ., 725 A.2d 472, 486 (D.C. 1999) (alterations in original) (quoting Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 433 (1983)). In language that could not be plainer, the Court of Appeals has instructed that "[e]ven if a party prevails on only one out of several related claims, that party is deemed a 'prevailing party' eligible for costs under Rule 54." Knight, 725 A.2d at 486-87. Here, the jury awarded Columbia over $18.2 million on its contract and tort claims. Columbia also defeated NCRIC's contract claim, defeating NCRIC's demand for $2.67 million in damages. These victories plainly qualify Columbia as the prevailing party. See also Hardi v. Mezzanotte, 818 A.2d 974, 986-87 (D.C. 2003) (affirming $14,000 costs award to a party awarded less than a million dollars in damages).

[1]NCRIC complains that Columbia failed to meet and confer before claiming to be the "prevailing party" and seeking costs. But the Court's Judgment expressly ruled that Columbia is the prevailing party and entitled to its costs of action. See Ex. A. Still, out of an abundance of caution, counsel for Columbia conferred with counsel for NCRIC on April 15-19, 2004 in a good faith effort to determine whether any common ground existed. See April 19, 2004 Letter (attached hereto as Ex. C). As it has argued in its opposition brief, however, NCRIC responded to Columbia's overture by insisting that Columbia is entitled to no costs of any kind, id., leaving no role for the very discussions between the parties that NCRIC had seemed to invite.

NCRIC's argument for reconsideration relies exclusively on a Superior Court decision in a highly unusual case, Sporicidin Co. v. Hauser, 126 Daily Wash. L. Rptr. 1905 (D.C. Super. Ct. July 2, 1998). There, a plaintiff brought a legal malpractice claim and a breach of fiduciary duty claim against Baker & Hostetler, seeking $71 million. Plaintiff also sought the return of every dollar in legal fees it had spent with that firm, totaling approximately $800,000. See id. at 1905. The jury rejected the malpractice and breach of fiduciary duty claims entirely, providing plaintiff instead with only $250,000 for what the jury adjudged to be unreasonable legal fees. Id. In deciding that this plaintiff did not deserve costs, the court observed that Sporicidin's verdict represented only a meager 0.3% of the damages sought, while the defendant had "fended off" a major claim. See id. at 1906 (internal quotation marks omitted). The court also specifically found the plaintiff failed to comply with its ruling limiting the time period for the presentation of witnesses, id., and the D.C. Court of Appeals has explained that a court's discretion to disallow costs in such cases stems in part from the inherent power of courts to respond to abusive litigation practices. See Robinson v. Howard University, 455 A.2d 1363, 1369 (D.C. 1983).

None of the factors that led the Sporicidin court to decline to award costs are present here. The jury expressly adopted Columbia's view that NCRIC was entitled to nothing under the parties' contract – so Columbia, not NCRIC, "fended off" a major claim. Columbia never abused the rules for trial. And while certain of Columbia's peripheral claims did not proceed to the jury, all of the counts that formed the core of its countersuit against NCRIC did, along with all of Columbia's fact evidence, not a piece of which was stricken or limited solely to counts that failed to go to the jury. The jury then proceeded to award Columbia over $18.2 million in damages in contract and tort, vindicating Columbia's view that it was NCRIC, the author of this lawsuit, that had engaged in tortious wrongdoing and contributed to the closure of a community hospital. This case can in no way be likened to the dubious claims and practices at issue in Sporacidin and NCRIC offers absolutely no basis for reversing the Court's decision that Columbia is entitled to its costs.

II. NCRIC'S OBJECTIONS TO SPECIFIC COSTS ARE WITHOUT MERIT.

NCRIC's remaining subsidiary challenges to Columbia's motion for costs are likewise without merit.

A. Deposition Costs.

NCRIC does not challenge the costs associated with three depositions. See NCRIC Opp. at 5 (noting that its argument does not apply to the Pate, Hempelman, and Fargis depositions). As to the remaining depositions for which Columbia seeks costs, NCRIC vaguely and generally asserts (without evidentiary support) that none was necessary for the trial of this case.

But NCRIC is well aware of the need for each of these depositions. In its motion and supporting declaration, Columbia explained that these depositions were necessary to gather evidence of NCRIC's conduct – including the breach of contract and tortious interference that formed the basis of the jury's verdict. See Schulman Decl. ¶ 5. NCRIC does not contest this evidentiary showing. Moreover, and most tellingly, all but two of the depositions now challenged by NCRIC as purportedly "unnecessary" were noticed by NCRIC. See id. ¶ 4 (depositions of Rifka, Wilson, Gasser, Asterbadi, Beaulieu, Johnson, Gaffey, and Ben Ezra were noticed by NCRIC). NCRIC can hardly contest the need for these depositions now.

As for the two remaining depositions – those of Grant Sohm and William Burgess – both were plainly necessary to the preparation of this case for trial.

Sohm served as NCRIC's Director of Underwriting, and, among other things, signed the June 30, 2000 letter to Larry Wilson canceling Columbia's clinic policy. See Supplemental Decl. of Eli Schulman ¶ 5 (attached hereto as Ex. B); see also DX 62. As such, he was a key potential witness of a central aspect of this case. As it turned out, Sohm pointed the finger at his superiors, saying that they were responsible for the content of his letter, thus directing Columbia's attention to them, rather than Sohm, during trial. Id. Columbia, however, could not have credibly prepared for trial without deposing the author of such a key piece of evidence. NCRIC does not contest any this with facts of its own but instead concedes that deposition costs may be awarded even if the deposition is not introduced at trial. See NCRIC Opp. at 5.

Burgess, meanwhile, served as NCRIC's Senior Vice President of Claims and Risk Management, attended numerous meetings with Columbia representatives relating to the Retro Plan, and testified at trial as a witness for NCRIC. See Schulman Supp. Decl. ¶ 5. Taking Burgess's deposition therefore was absolutely essential to Columbia's ability to prepare for cross-examination. Id.

B. Photocopying Costs.

NCRIC asks the Court to reduce these costs to the "reasonable sum of $500." NCRIC Opp. at 6. But NCRIC never explains how it arrives at that sum. And NCRIC's own hypothetical math assumes that the six boxes of documents produced in discovery could have led to costs of $2,700. Id.

NCRIC's various arguments are not only contradictory, they lack any evidentiary support and ignore the real costs of contemporary commercial litigation. NCRIC's purported math example leading to $2,700 in photocopying costs, for example, overlooks the copying costs associated with copying all documents that may be responsive to a document request, copying that set, carefully reviewing that set for responsiveness, and ultimately copying and producing a smaller subset of documents that are, in fact, responsive. See Schulman Supp. Decl. ¶ 6. NCRIC also overlooks the copying costs associated with copying documents, such as loose papers, bound papers, stapled papers, and tabbed papers, that are not easily fed through a copier and therefore are charged at rates almost double the general eight to ten cents copying charge. See id. NCRIC further overlooks the responsible practice of making a master copy set of documents before producing them. See id. All of these steps were reasonable, responsible, and led to the costs Columbia actually incurred and reported to the Court. Id.

Tellingly, NCRIC responds only with rhetoric and no facts – let alone any evidence suggesting that its own copying costs in this complex case were lower than Columbia's.

C. Delivery Costs.

NCRIC challenges any award of delivery costs by denigrating Camper v. Stewart-Lange, 782 A.2d 762, 762 (D.C. 2001) (per curiam) as a "single, one page decision relying on federal court precedent from other jurisdictions." NCRIC Opp. at 7. In Camper's place, NCRIC asks the Court to follow Burns v. Greater Southeast Community Hosp., 119 Daily Wash. L. Rptr. 1869, 1873 (D.C. Super. Ct. July 11, 1991). Camper, however, is controlling authority in this jurisdiction and, to the extent NCRIC asks the Court to rely on a contrary 1991 Superior Court decision instead, it improperly invites legal error.[2]

[2] NCRIC's argument that costs not specifically listed in Rule 54 are not recoverable is belied by the very case upon which it relies. See Burns, 119 Daily Wash. L. Rptr. at 1869 ("[I]t is clear that Rule 54-I does not appear to be intended to be a complete listing of the costs which are taxable in the District courts."); see also Camper, 782 A.2d at 762 ("'The authority of a court to assess a particular item as costs is partly a matter of statute (or court rule) and partly a matter of custom, practice and usage.'") (quoting Robinson, 455 A.2d at 1368-69).

D. Witness Fees.

NCRIC's challenge here is limited to a $40.00 in witness fees incurred for Nabil Asterbadi. See NCRIC Opp. at 7. Without evidentiary support, NCRIC speculates that, "to the best of [its] knowledge, Mr. Asterbadi was not even present at trial." NCRIC Opp. at 7.

NCRIC is incorrect. Dr. Asterbadi served as President of Columbia's Medical Staff during the time of the events in question, and was deposed by NCRIC in this case. See Schulman Supp. Decl. ¶ 7. Counsel for Columbia made a good-faith, reasonable determination that his testimony might be necessary to rebut NCRIC's case. See id. Dr. Asterbadi was, therefore, present on the final day of trial, held in reserve as a rebuttal witness. See id. Columbia ultimately decided that NCRIC had failed to present evidence warranting rebuttal. See id. In the interest of the time and resources of the court, the jury, and the parties, Columbia ultimately released Dr. Asterbadi without putting him on the stand. See id.

The Court should award Columbia Dr. Asterbadi's witness fee because counsel for Columbia made a good-faith, reasonable determination that his testimony might have been necessary to rebut NCRIC's case. See, e.g., Quy v. Air America, Inc., 667 F.2d 1059, 1065 (D.C. Cir. 1981) (holding that costs for nontestifying witness were reimbursable) ("The issue is not whether Mr. Stanley was in fact called to testify, but whether appellee's counsel made a good faith and reasonable judgment about the need for Mr. Stanley at trial."); see also Nissho-Iwai Co., Ltd. v. Occidental Crude Sales, Inc., 729 F.2d 1530, 1532-33 (5th Cir. 1984) (holding that costs should be reimbursed for rebuttal witness who appeared at trial and was held in reserve but was not called because rebuttal was deemed unnecessary).

E. Court Fees

NCRIC does not offer any specific challenge to the $400.00 in court fees sought by Columbia. See Mot. at 2. The Court should, therefore, consider those fees to be uncontested.

Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the Court should grant Columbia's motion.

DATED: April 20, 2004

Respectfully submitted,

Neil M. Gorsuch, D.C. Bar # 456411
Eli C. Schulman, D.C. Bar # 472879
Priya R. Aiyar, admitted pro hac vice
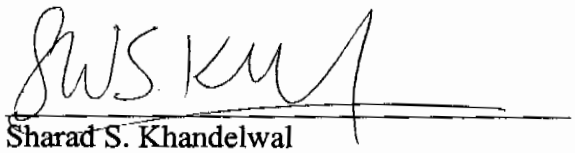
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Attorneys for:
Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

16d-003350

CERTIFICATE OF CONFERENCE

I, Sharad S. Khandelwal, hereby certify that, on April 15-19, 2004, I conferred with Rebecca Ford, counsel for NCRIC, Inc., in a good faith effort to resolve the issues presented in this motion. Despite our diligent efforts, resolution of these issues was not possible.



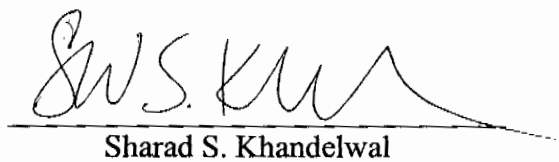
Sharad S. Khandelwal

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Sharad S. Khandelwal, hereby certify that, on this 20th day of April 2004, a copy of the foregoing Columbia's Reply in Support of Motion for Assessment of Costs was served upon the following by hand delivery:

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

I further certify that, on this 20th day of April, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned papers was served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.



Sharad S. Khandelwal

EXHIBIT A

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC,INC.,

Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant

versus

00ca7308
Calendar Number 03
Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

COLUMBIA HOSPITOL FOR WOMEN
MEDICAL CENTER,INC.,

Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff

JUDGMENT

This action came on for trial before the Court and a jury, Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby, Superior Court Judge, presiding, and the issues having been duly tried and the jury having duly rendered its verdict, it is this 13th day of February, 2004,

ORDERED

That judgment is hereby entered in favor of the defendant Columbia Hospital For Women Medical Center,Inc.,against the plaintiffs NCRIC,INC., and that the defendant recover of the plaintiffs its costs of action.

FURTHER ORDERED

That the Counter-Claimant COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER,INC.,recover of the counter Defendant NCRIC,INC., The sum of $18,220,002 with interest at the statutory rate and its costs of action.

DUANE B. DELANEY, ESQ.
Clerk of the Court

Jeffrey A.Woodson,
Deputy Clerk

DOCKETED FEB 20 2004

MAILED FEB 20 2004

16d-003354

cc:

Rodney F.Page,Esq.
Scott M.Badami,Esq.
700 Thirteenth Street,N.W.
Suite 600
Washington,D.C. 20005-3960

Eli C.Schulman,Esq.
Kellogg,Huber,Hanson,Todd & Evans,PLLC
1615 M Street,N.W.,Suite 400
Washington,D.C. 20036

EXHIBIT B

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Post-Trial Motions
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)

SUPPLEMENTAL DECLARATION OF ELI C. SCHULMAN IN SUPPORT OF COLUMBIA'S MOTION FOR ASSESSMENT OF COSTS

I, ELI C. SCHULMAN, declare as follows:

1. I am an attorney with the law firm of Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, P.L.L.C., attorneys of record for Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia") in this action.

2. I am over 18 years of age. Unless otherwise stated, I have personal knowledge of the facts contained herein, and the facts contained herein are true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

3. This declaration supplements the declaration I executed on March 26, 2004 in support of Columbia's Motion for Assessment of Costs.

4. Columbia seeks costs for the depositions of Safa Rifka, Larry Wilson, Charles Gasser, Nabil Asterbadi, Gerald Beaulieu, Elnora Johnson, Ann Gaffey, and Peter Ben Ezra. Each of these depositions was noticed by NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC") and was therefore necessary for Columbia's trial preparation.

5. Columbia also seeks costs for the depositions of Grant Sohm and William Burgess. Sohm served as NCRIC's Director of Underwriting, and, among other things, signed the June 30, 2000 letter to Larry Wilson canceling Columbia's clinic policy. As such, he was a key potential witness of a central aspect of this case. As it turned out, Sohm pointed the finger at his superiors, saying that they were responsible for the content of his letter, thus directing Columbia's attention to them, rather than Sohm, during trial. Burgess, meanwhile, served as NCRIC's Senior Vice President of Claims and Risk Management, attended numerous meetings with Columbia representatives relating to the Retro Plan, and testified at trial as a witness for NCRIC. The Sohm and Burgess depositions were therefore necessary for Columbia's trial preparation.

6. Columbia seeks costs for copying documents produced in discovery to NCRIC. This includes the copying costs associated with copying all documents that may be responsive to a document request, copying that set, carefully reviewing that set for responsiveness, and ultimately copying and producing a smaller subset of documents that are, in fact, responsive. This also includes the copying costs associated with copying documents, such as loose papers, bound papers, stapled papers, and tabbed papers, that are not easily fed through a copier and therefore are charged at rates almost double the general eight to ten cents copying charge. This also includes the copying costs associated with the responsible practice of making a master copy set of documents before producing them. All of these steps were reasonable, responsible, and led to the costs Columbia actually incurred and reported to the Court.

16d-003358

7. Columbia also seeks the witness fee for Dr. Nabil Asterbadi. Dr. Asterbadi served as President of Columbia's Medical Staff during the time of the events in question, and was deposed by NCRIC in this case. Counsel for Columbia made a good-faith, reasonable determination that his testimony might be necessary to rebut NCRIC's case. Dr. Asterbadi was, therefore, present at trial, held in reserve as a rebuttal witness. Columbia ultimately decided that NCRIC had failed to present evidence warranting rebuttal. In the interest of the time and resources of the court, the jury, and the parties, Columbia therefore released Dr. Asterbadi without putting him on the stand.

8. I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed this 20th day of April 2004, at Washington, D.C.

Eli C. Schulman

16d-003359

EXHIBIT C

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

April 19, 2004

VIA FACSIMILE AND U.S. MAIL

Rebecca Ford, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.,
No. 00-0007308 (Blackburne-Rigsby)

Dear Ms. Ford:

Last week I asked whether there are any items enumerated in Columbia's fee request about which NCRIC thought an agreement might be possible, thus reducing the scope of the parties' outstanding dispute and avoiding needless litigation.

Instead of a response to this question, I received your letter of April 19, 2004. In that letter, you simply repeat NCRIC's argument, already made in court papers, about the parties' meet and confer obligations and then go on to demand that Columbia "reconsider its request." This does not advance what we had intended to be good faith discussions.

Columbia stands willing to discuss any and all items detailed on our fee request, and we do hope you will take advantage of this opportunity to narrow the gap between us. We do not, however, see any point to prolonging discussions if doing so will mean only rhetorical posturing repeating arguments made in court papers.

If there are any specific items, detailed in Columbia's fee request, on which you believe we might be able to reach agreement, I would appreciate hearing from you with a proposal responsive to our own, as outlined in our filing. So that we might know where we stand and whether additional motions practice may be required, I would appreciate hearing from you by close of business today.

Very truly yours,

Sharad S. Khandelwal

16d-003361

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

April 20, 2004

By Hand

The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Room 3540
Washington, D.C. 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.*,
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Judge Blackburne-Rigsby:

Enclosed is a copy of Columbia's Reply in Support of Motion for Assessment of Costs, filed today in the above-captioned matter. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at (202) 326-7952.

Respectfully submitted,

Sharad S. Khandelwal

Enclosures

cc: Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.

16d-003362

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

April 20, 2004

By Hand

Clerk of the Court
Civil Division Clerk's Office
Superior Court of the District of Columbia
500 Indiana Avenue, N.W., Room JM170
Washington, D.C. 20001

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.
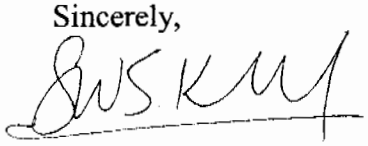
Civil Action No. 0007308-00

Dear Sir or Madam:

Enclosed for filing is the original and one copy of Columbia's Reply in Support of Motion for Assessment of Costs. Please date-stamp the copies and return them to the messenger. A courtesy copy will be delivered to Judge Blackburne-Rigsby under separate cover.

Thank you for your assistance in this matter. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at (202) 326-7952.

Sincerely,



Sharad S. Khandelwal

Enclosures

cc: Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.

16d-003363

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
	)	Next Event: Post-Trial Motions
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

COLUMBIA'S REPLY IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR ASSESSMENT OF COSTS

NCRIC's opposition offers the Court no reason to deny Columbia the costs it actually incurred in defeating NCRIC's meritless claim and succeeding on its counterclaims. NCRIC argues that Columbia should be denied all of its costs, because Columbia prevailed on some, but not all, of its counterclaims, even though the jury found for Columbia on NCRIC's claim and proceeded to award over $18 million in compensatory damages on Columbia's counterclaims. The D.C. Court of Appeals has already heard and rejected nearly identical efforts to deny parties who, like Columbia, have prevailed in substance, even if not on every single count.

NCRIC also argues that the specific costs Columbia incurred are excessive and seeks dramatically smaller awards (and sometimes none at all). But, again, NCRIC ignores binding precedent and its argument rests on self-serving speculation about what it considers to be reasonable costs, and does so without a shred of factual evidence to rebut Columbia's uncontested factual showings. Tellingly, too, NCRIC never remotely suggests that its own actual costs were less than Columbia's in any category covered by Columbia's motion for costs.

Columbia respectfully requests that the Court grant its motion and award the costs that Columbia has actually incurred in litigating this complex and hard-fought case for over three years.[1]

Discussion

I. THE COURT SHOULD REJECT NCRIC'S REQUEST THAT IT RECONSIDER ITS RULING THAT COLUMBIA IS ENTITLED TO AN AWARD OF COSTS

In entering judgment, the Court expressly ruled that Columbia is entitled to be awarded its costs. See Judgment (attached hereto as Ex. A) (ordering that "Counter-Claimant COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC. . . . recover . . . its costs of action"). NCRIC's opposition brief asks the Court to reconsider that ruling. See NCRIC Opp. at 2-4. NCRIC contends that Columbia should not be considered a "prevailing party" under Rule 54 because it did not win each and every one of its counterclaims and did not recover all of its damages. See id. at 3.

This argument has been heard and rejected by the Court of Appeals. Under D.C. law, a prevailing party is one that "succeed[s] on any significant issue in litigation which achieves some of the benefit the part[y] sought in bringing suit." Knight v. Georgetown Univ., 725 A.2d 472, 486 (D.C. 1999) (alterations in original) (quoting Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 433 (1983)). In language that could not be plainer, the Court of Appeals has instructed that "[e]ven if a party prevails on only one out of several related claims, that party is deemed a 'prevailing party' eligible for costs under Rule 54." Knight, 725 A.2d at 486-87. Here, the jury awarded Columbia over $18.2 million on its contract and tort claims. Columbia also defeated NCRIC's contract claim, defeating NCRIC's demand for $2.67 million in damages. These victories plainly qualify Columbia as the prevailing party. See also Hardi v. Mezzanotte, 818 A.2d 974, 986-87 (D.C. 2003) (affirming $14,000 costs award to a party awarded less than a million dollars in damages).

[1]NCRIC complains that Columbia failed to meet and confer before claiming to be the "prevailing party" and seeking costs. But the Court's Judgment expressly ruled that Columbia is the prevailing party and entitled to its costs of action. See Ex. A. Still, out of an abundance of caution, counsel for Columbia conferred with counsel for NCRIC on April 15-19, 2004 in a good faith effort to determine whether any common ground existed. See April 19, 2004 Letter (attached hereto as Ex. C). As it has argued in its opposition brief, however, NCRIC responded to Columbia's overture by insisting that Columbia is entitled to no costs of any kind, id., leaving no role for the very discussions between the parties that NCRIC had seemed to invite.

NCRIC's argument for reconsideration relies exclusively on a Superior Court decision in a highly unusual case, Sporicidin Co. v. Hauser, 126 Daily Wash. L. Rptr. 1905 (D.C. Super. Ct. July 2, 1998). There, a plaintiff brought a legal malpractice claim and a breach of fiduciary duty claim against Baker & Hostetler, seeking $71 million. Plaintiff also sought the return of every dollar in legal fees it had spent with that firm, totaling approximately $800,000. See id. at 1905. The jury rejected the malpractice and breach of fiduciary duty claims entirely, providing plaintiff instead with only $250,000 for what the jury adjudged to be unreasonable legal fees. Id. In deciding that this plaintiff did not deserve costs, the court observed that Sporicidin's verdict represented only a meager 0.3% of the damages sought, while the defendant had "fended off" a major claim. See id. at 1906 (internal quotation marks omitted). The court also specifically found the plaintiff failed to comply with its ruling limiting the time period for the presentation of witnesses, id., and the D.C. Court of Appeals has explained that a court's discretion to disallow costs in such cases stems in part from the inherent power of courts to respond to abusive litigation practices. See Robinson v. Howard University, 455 A.2d 1363, 1369 (D.C. 1983).

None of the factors that led the Sporicidin court to decline to award costs are present here. The jury expressly adopted Columbia's view that NCRIC was entitled to nothing under the parties' contract – so Columbia, not NCRIC, "fended off" a major claim. Columbia never abused the rules for trial. And while certain of Columbia's peripheral claims did not proceed to the jury, all of the counts that formed the core of its countersuit against NCRIC did, along with all of Columbia's fact evidence, not a piece of which was stricken or limited solely to counts that failed to go to the jury. The jury then proceeded to award Columbia over $18.2 million in damages in contract and tort, vindicating Columbia's view that it was NCRIC, the author of this lawsuit, that had engaged in tortious wrongdoing and contributed to the closure of a community hospital. This case can in no way be likened to the dubious claims and practices at issue in Sporacidin and NCRIC offers absolutely no basis for reversing the Court's decision that Columbia is entitled to its costs.

II. NCRIC'S OBJECTIONS TO SPECIFIC COSTS ARE WITHOUT MERIT.

NCRIC's remaining subsidiary challenges to Columbia's motion for costs are likewise without merit.

A. Deposition Costs.

NCRIC does not challenge the costs associated with three depositions. See NCRIC Opp. at 5 (noting that its argument does not apply to the Pate, Hempelman, and Fargis depositions). As to the remaining depositions for which Columbia seeks costs, NCRIC vaguely and generally asserts (without evidentiary support) that none was necessary for the trial of this case.

But NCRIC is well aware of the need for each of these depositions. In its motion and supporting declaration, Columbia explained that these depositions were necessary to gather evidence of NCRIC's conduct – including the breach of contract and tortious interference that formed the basis of the jury's verdict. See Schulman Decl. ¶ 5. NCRIC does not contest this evidentiary showing. Moreover, and most tellingly, all but two of the depositions now challenged by NCRIC as purportedly "unnecessary" were noticed by NCRIC. See id. ¶ 4 (depositions of Rifka, Wilson, Gasser, Asterbadi, Beaulieu, Johnson, Gaffey, and Ben Ezra were noticed by NCRIC). NCRIC can hardly contest the need for these depositions now.

As for the two remaining depositions – those of Grant Sohm and William Burgess – both were plainly necessary to the preparation of this case for trial.

Sohm served as NCRIC's Director of Underwriting, and, among other things, signed the June 30, 2000 letter to Larry Wilson canceling Columbia's clinic policy. See Supplemental Decl. of Eli Schulman ¶ 5 (attached hereto as Ex. B); see also DX 62. As such, he was a key potential witness of a central aspect of this case. As it turned out, Sohm pointed the finger at his superiors, saying that they were responsible for the content of his letter, thus directing Columbia's attention to them, rather than Sohm, during trial. Id. Columbia, however, could not have credibly prepared for trial without deposing the author of such a key piece of evidence. NCRIC does not contest any this with facts of its own but instead concedes that deposition costs may be awarded even if the deposition is not introduced at trial. See NCRIC Opp. at 5.

Burgess, meanwhile, served as NCRIC's Senior Vice President of Claims and Risk Management, attended numerous meetings with Columbia representatives relating to the Retro Plan, and testified at trial as a witness for NCRIC. See Schulman Supp. Decl. ¶ 5. Taking Burgess's deposition therefore was absolutely essential to Columbia's ability to prepare for cross-examination. Id.

B. Photocopying Costs.

NCRIC asks the Court to reduce these costs to the "reasonable sum of $500." NCRIC Opp. at 6. But NCRIC never explains how it arrives at that sum. And NCRIC's own hypothetical math assumes that the six boxes of documents produced in discovery could have led to costs of $2,700. Id.

NCRIC's various arguments are not only contradictory, they lack any evidentiary support and ignore the real costs of contemporary commercial litigation. NCRIC's purported math example leading to $2,700 in photocopying costs, for example, overlooks the copying costs associated with copying all documents that may be responsive to a document request, copying that set, carefully reviewing that set for responsiveness, and ultimately copying and producing a smaller subset of documents that are, in fact, responsive. See Schulman Supp. Decl. ¶ 6. NCRIC also overlooks the copying costs associated with copying documents, such as loose papers, bound papers, stapled papers, and tabbed papers, that are not easily fed through a copier and therefore are charged at rates almost double the general eight to ten cents copying charge. See id. NCRIC further overlooks the responsible practice of making a master copy set of documents before producing them. See id. All of these steps were reasonable, responsible, and led to the costs Columbia actually incurred and reported to the Court. Id.

Tellingly, NCRIC responds only with rhetoric and no facts – let alone any evidence suggesting that its own copying costs in this complex case were lower than Columbia's.

C. Delivery Costs.

NCRIC challenges any award of delivery costs by denigrating Camper v. Stewart-Lange, 782 A.2d 762, 762 (D.C. 2001) (per curiam) as a "single, one page decision relying on federal court precedent from other jurisdictions." NCRIC Opp. at 7. In Camper's place, NCRIC asks the Court to follow Burns v. Greater Southeast Community Hosp., 119 Daily Wash. L. Rptr. 1869, 1873 (D.C. Super. Ct. July 11, 1991). Camper, however, is controlling authority in this jurisdiction and, to the extent NCRIC asks the Court to rely on a contrary 1991 Superior Court decision instead, it improperly invites legal error.[2]

[2] NCRIC's argument that costs not specifically listed in Rule 54 are not recoverable is belied by the very case upon which it relies. See Burns, 119 Daily Wash. L. Rptr. at 1869 ("[I]t is clear that Rule 54-I does not appear to be intended to be a complete listing of the costs which are taxable in the District courts."); see also Camper, 782 A.2d at 762 ("'The authority of a court to assess a particular item as costs is partly a matter of statute (or court rule) and partly a matter of custom, practice and usage.'") (quoting Robinson, 455 A.2d at 1368-69).

D. Witness Fees.

NCRIC's challenge here is limited to a $40.00 in witness fees incurred for Nabil Asterbadi. See NCRIC Opp. at 7. Without evidentiary support, NCRIC speculates that, "to the best of [its] knowledge, Mr. Asterbadi was not even present at trial." NCRIC Opp. at 7.

NCRIC is incorrect. Dr. Asterbadi served as President of Columbia's Medical Staff during the time of the events in question, and was deposed by NCRIC in this case. See Schulman Supp. Decl. ¶ 7. Counsel for Columbia made a good-faith, reasonable determination that his testimony might be necessary to rebut NCRIC's case. See id. Dr. Asterbadi was, therefore, present on the final day of trial, held in reserve as a rebuttal witness. See id. Columbia ultimately decided that NCRIC had failed to present evidence warranting rebuttal. See id. In the interest of the time and resources of the court, the jury, and the parties, Columbia ultimately released Dr. Asterbadi without putting him on the stand. See id.

The Court should award Columbia Dr. Asterbadi's witness fee because counsel for Columbia made a good-faith, reasonable determination that his testimony might have been necessary to rebut NCRIC's case. See, e.g., Quy v. Air America, Inc., 667 F.2d 1059, 1065 (D.C. Cir. 1981) (holding that costs for nontestifying witness were reimbursable) ("The issue is not whether Mr. Stanley was in fact called to testify, but whether appellee's counsel made a good faith and reasonable judgment about the need for Mr. Stanley at trial."); see also Nissho-Iwai Co., Ltd. v. Occidental Crude Sales, Inc., 729 F.2d 1530, 1532-33 (5th Cir. 1984) (holding that costs should be reimbursed for rebuttal witness who appeared at trial and was held in reserve but was not called because rebuttal was deemed unnecessary).

E. Court Fees

NCRIC does not offer any specific challenge to the $400.00 in court fees sought by Columbia. See Mot. at 2. The Court should, therefore, consider those fees to be uncontested.

Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the Court should grant Columbia's motion.

DATED: April 20, 2004

Respectfully submitted,

Neil M. Gorsuch, D.C. Bar # 456411
Eli C. Schulman, D.C. Bar # 472879
Priya R. Aiyar, admitted pro hac vice
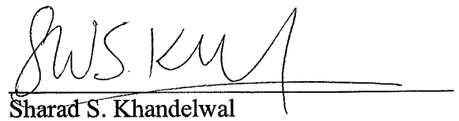
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd
& Evans, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036
(202) 326-7900

Attorneys for:
Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

16d-003371

CERTIFICATE OF CONFERENCE

I, Sharad S. Khandelwal, hereby certify that, on April 15-19, 2004, I conferred with Rebecca Ford, counsel for NCRIC, Inc., in a good faith effort to resolve the issues presented in this motion. Despite our diligent efforts, resolution of these issues was not possible.



Sharad S. Khandelwal

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I, Sharad S. Khandelwal, hereby certify that, on this 20th day of April 2004, a copy of the foregoing Columbia's Reply in Support of Motion for Assessment of Costs was served upon the following by hand delivery:

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

I further certify that, on this 20th day of April, a courtesy copy of the aforementioned papers was served upon the Chambers of Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby by hand delivery.

Sharad S. Khandelwal

16d-003374

EXHIBIT A

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC,INC.,

Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant

versus

00ca7308
Calendar Number 03
Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

COLUMBIA HOSPITOL FOR WOMEN
MEDICAL CENTER,INC.,

Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff

JUDGMENT

This action came on for trial before the Court and a jury, Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby, Superior Court Judge, presiding, and the issues having been duly tried and the jury having duly rendered its verdict, it is this 13th day of February, 2004,

ORDERED

That judgment is hereby entered in favor of the defendant Columbia Hospital For Women Medical Center,Inc.,against the plaintiffs NCRIC,INC., and that the defendant recover of the plaintiffs its costs of action.

FURTHER ORDERED

That the Counter-Claimant COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER,INC.,recover of the counter Defendant NCRIC,INC., The sum of $18,220,002 with interest at the statutory rate and its costs of action.

DUANE B. DELANEY, ESQ.
Clerk of the Court

Jeffrey A. Woodson

Jeffrey A.Woodson,
Deputy Clerk

DOCKETED FEB 20 2004

MAILED FEB 20 2004

16d-003375

cc:

Rodney F.Page,Esq.
Scott M.Badami,Esq.
700 Thirteenth Street,N.W.
Suite 600
Washington,D.C. 20005-3960

Eli C.Schulman,Esq.
Kellogg,Huber,Hanson,Todd & Evans,PLLC
1615 M Street,N.W.,Suite 400
Washington,D.C. 20036

16d-003377

EXHIBIT B

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.,	)
	)
Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant,	)
	)
v.	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
	)	Calendar 8 – Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Next Event: Post-Trial Motions
	)
Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff.	)
	)

SUPPLEMENTAL DECLARATION OF ELI C. SCHULMAN IN SUPPORT OF COLUMBIA'S MOTION FOR ASSESSMENT OF COSTS

I, ELI C. SCHULMAN, declare as follows:

1. I am an attorney with the law firm of Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, P.L.L.C., attorneys of record for Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia") in this action.

2. I am over 18 years of age. Unless otherwise stated, I have personal knowledge of the facts contained herein, and the facts contained herein are true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

3. This declaration supplements the declaration I executed on March 26, 2004 in support of Columbia's Motion for Assessment of Costs.

4. Columbia seeks costs for the depositions of Safa Rifka, Larry Wilson, Charles Gasser, Nabil Asterbadi, Gerald Beaulieu, Elnora Johnson, Ann Gaffey, and Peter Ben Ezra. Each of these depositions was noticed by NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC") and was therefore necessary for Columbia's trial preparation.

5. Columbia also seeks costs for the depositions of Grant Sohm and William Burgess. Sohm served as NCRIC's Director of Underwriting, and, among other things, signed the June 30, 2000 letter to Larry Wilson canceling Columbia's clinic policy. As such, he was a key potential witness of a central aspect of this case. As it turned out, Sohm pointed the finger at his superiors, saying that they were responsible for the content of his letter, thus directing Columbia's attention to them, rather than Sohm, during trial. Burgess, meanwhile, served as NCRIC's Senior Vice President of Claims and Risk Management, attended numerous meetings with Columbia representatives relating to the Retro Plan, and testified at trial as a witness for NCRIC. The Sohm and Burgess depositions were therefore necessary for Columbia's trial preparation.

6. Columbia seeks costs for copying documents produced in discovery to NCRIC. This includes the copying costs associated with copying all documents that may be responsive to a document request, copying that set, carefully reviewing that set for responsiveness, and ultimately copying and producing a smaller subset of documents that are, in fact, responsive. This also includes the copying costs associated with copying documents, such as loose papers, bound papers, stapled papers, and tabbed papers, that are not easily fed through a copier and therefore are charged at rates almost double the general eight to ten cents copying charge. This also includes the copying costs associated with the responsible practice of making a master copy set of documents before producing them. All of these steps were reasonable, responsible, and led to the costs Columbia actually incurred and reported to the Court.

7. Columbia also seeks the witness fee for Dr. Nabil Asterbadi. Dr. Asterbadi served as President of Columbia's Medical Staff during the time of the events in question, and was deposed by NCRIC in this case. Counsel for Columbia made a good-faith, reasonable determination that his testimony might be necessary to rebut NCRIC's case. Dr. Asterbadi was, therefore, present at trial, held in reserve as a rebuttal witness. Columbia ultimately decided that NCRIC had failed to present evidence warranting rebuttal. In the interest of the time and resources of the court, the jury, and the parties, Columbia therefore released Dr. Asterbadi without putting him on the stand.

8. I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed this 20th day of April 2004, at Washington, D.C.

Eli C. Schulman

16d-003381

EXHIBIT C

KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
SUMNER SQUARE
1615 M STREET, N.W.
SUITE 400
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036-3209

(202) 326-7900
FACSIMILE:
(202) 326-7999

April 19, 2004

VIA FACSIMILE AND U.S. MAIL

Rebecca Ford, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

Re: NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.,
No. 00-0007308 (Blackburne-Rigsby)

Dear Ms. Ford:

Last week I asked whether there are any items enumerated in Columbia's fee request about which NCRIC thought an agreement might be possible, thus reducing the scope of the parties' outstanding dispute and avoiding needless litigation.

Instead of a response to this question, I received your letter of April 19, 2004. In that letter, you simply repeat NCRIC's argument, already made in court papers, about the parties' meet and confer obligations and then go on to demand that Columbia "reconsider its request." This does not advance what we had intended to be good faith discussions.

Columbia stands willing to discuss any and all items detailed on our fee request, and we do hope you will take advantage of this opportunity to narrow the gap between us. We do not, however, see any point to prolonging discussions if doing so will mean only rhetorical posturing repeating arguments made in court papers.

If there are any specific items, detailed in Columbia's fee request, on which you believe we might be able to reach agreement, I would appreciate hearing from you with a proposal responsive to our own, as outlined in our filing. So that we might know where we stand and whether additional motions practice may be required, I would appreciate hearing from you by close of business today.

Very truly yours,

Sharad S. Khandelwal

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC., Plaintiff, v. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC., Defendant.	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8 Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

ORDER APPROVING SUPERSEDEAS BOND AND STAYING EXECUTION

On March 5, 2004, plaintiff NCRIC Inc. ("NCRIC") filed a timely motion to stay execution of the judgment docketed February 20, 2004 in the above-captioned action, along with a proposed supersedeas bond. It appears to the Court that the proposed supersedeas bond is in the correct form, in a sufficient amount to provide adequate security, and is backed by a duly qualified surety. Accordingly, it is therefore ORDERED this 20th day of APRIL, 2004 that:

1. The supersedeas bond in the form, amount, and with the surety as shown in Exhibit A to NCRIC's motion is approved by the Court.

2. The execution of the judgment docketed in this action on February 20, 2004, and any proceedings to enforce said judgment, are hereby stayed pending a determination of NCRIC's Motion for a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law, and any appeal taken from the judgment.

A. Blackburne Rigsby 4/20/04

The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

DOCKET APR. 21 2004
MAILED APR 21 2004

Copies to:

Rodney F. Page, Esq.
Scott M. Badami, Esq.
Bryan Cave LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, N.W., Suite 600
Washington, D.C. 20005

Counsel for Plaintiff NCRIC, Inc.

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli Schulman, Esq.
Kellogg Huber Hansen Todd & Evans
1615 M Street, N.W., Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

16d-003385

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, Inc.,	*
	*
Plaintiff,	*
	*	Civil Action No.: 00-7308
v.	*	Judge Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
	*	Calendar 8
	*
Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.,	*
	*
	*
Defendant.	*
	*

ORDER DENYING NCRIC'S MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL AND RENEWED MOTION FOR JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW

This matter is before the Court on the Plaintiff, National Capital Reciprocal Insurance Company, Inc.'s (hereinafter "NCRIC") Motion for a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law. For the reasons set forth below, the motion is Denied.

I. Introduction

This case involves a contract dispute between plaintiff, NCRIC, and defendant, Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center (hereinafter "Columbia"). NCRIC is an insurance company that provides medical malpractice insurance to doctors. Columbia is now and was at the time of trial defunct, but was a non-profit hospital specializing in medical care for women and children in the District of Columbia. In October 1993, NCRIC and Columbia entered into an agreement called the Retrospective Rating Plan (hereinafter "Retro Plan"). The purpose of the plan was to establish a malpractice

Case: 2000 CA 007308 B
0001610803S
Dkt: CIVDDM

liability program for physicians at Columbia to help reduce the costs to physicians through a sharing of malpractice risk.

In October 2000 NCRIC initiated this action against Columbia contending that Columbia refused to pay the Additional Premium due under the Retro Plan when it expired on September 1, 2000. Columbia countersued in November 2000, contending that NCRIC breached the contract and owes Columbia money under the plan. In its eleven-count counterclaim Columbia alleged breach of contract (Count I), breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing (Count II), breach of fiduciary duty (Count III), tortious interference with business relations (Count IV), tortious interference with prospective business advantage (Count V), negligence (Count VI)[1], fraud (Count VII), negligent misrepresentation (Count VIII), defamation (Count IX), injurious falsehood (Count X), and conversion (Count XI). The Court ultimately dismissed seven of the eleven counts as a matter of law, one before the trial began, one after Columbia concluded its case-in-chief, and five more after the close of all the evidence.

A two-week trial commenced on January 26, 2004 and the jury returned its verdict on February 13, 2004. The jury was instructed to deliberate on NCRIC's breach of contract claim and the four remaining counterclaims, which were: breach of contract (Count I), breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing (Count II), tortious interference with business relations (Count IV), and tortious interference with prospective business advantage (Count V). The jury returned a verdict rejecting NCRIC's breach of contract claim against Columbia, and awarding an $18.2 million verdict on Columbia's counterclaims.

[1] The negligence claim was dismissed by Judge Diaz on July 3, 2001 prior to the undersigned judge's assignment to the civil division.

16d-003387

On March 5, 2004, NCRIC filed its Motion for a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law pursuant to D.C. Super Ct. R. Civ. P. 50(b) and 59. Columbia filed its Opposition on March 26, 2004.

II. NCRIC is Not Entitled to a New Trial.

NCRIC alleges several reasons in support of the Motion for a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law. NCRIC moves pursuant to D.C. Super Ct. R. Civ. 50(b) and 59 to renew its motion for judgment as a matter of law on defendant Columbia Hospital's tortious interference with business relations counterclaim. In the alternative, NCRIC moves for a new trial on Columbia's tortious interference with business relations and breach of contract counterclaims. NCRIC also seeks remittitur of Columbia's damage claims.

Pursuant to Superior Court Civil Rule 59, motions for a new trial are granted where there has been legal error in proceedings, where damages are excessive, where the trial court was unfair, or where the verdict was contrary to the weight of the evidence. Baber v. Buckley, 322 A.2d 265,267 (D.C. 1974). A party has a right to a new trial pursuant to R. 59 only if the purported trial error denied the party substantial justice. Dada v. Children's Nat'l Medical Ctr., 715 A.2d 904 (D.C. 1998). Additionally, the trial court enjoys broad discretion when deciding whether to grant or deny a motion for new trial, and that decision will not be overturned on appeal absent an abuse of discretion. Queen v. District of Columbia Transit Sys., 364 A.2d 145,148 (D.C. 1976); Baber v. Buckley, 322 A.2d 265,266 (D.C. 1974).

a. The Jury was Properly Instructed that "Egregious Conduct" is not Required for a Finding of Tortious Interference with Business Relations.

NCRIC claims that the Court erroneously instructed the jury by failing to include "egregious conduct" as an element of a tortious interference with business relations claim. As a general rule, "[a] trial court has broad discretion in fashioning appropriate jury instructions, and its refusal to grant a request for a particular instruction is not a ground for reversal if the court's charge, considered as a whole, fairly and accurately states the applicable law." Washington Metro. Area Transit Auth. v. Cross, 849 A.2d 1021 n. 3 (D.C. 2004) (quoting Psychiatric Inst. of Wash v. Allen, 509 A.2d 619, 625 (D.C. 1986)).

In relevant part, the court's instruction was as follows:

> In order for Columbia to succeed on its claim for tortious interference with business relations, Columbia must prove, by a preponderance of the evidence:
> (1) the existence of a valid business relationship;
> (2) NCRIC's knowledge of the relationship;
> (3) Intentional interference inducing or causing a breach or termination of the relationship; and > (4) damages resulting from that breach.
> If you find that Columbia cannot prove any one of these elements, you must find for NCRIC on Columbia's claim for tortious interference with business relations.

It has been long held by the Court of Appeals that the elements required for a prima facie case of tortious interference with business advantage are: (1) the existence of a valid business relationship; (2) knowledge of that relationship; (3) intentional interference with that relationship; and (4) resulting damage. Casco v. District of Columbia Dev., L.L.C., 834 A.2d 77, 83-84 (D.C. 2003).

This Court can find no controlling authority, which requires that "egregious conduct" be included as an essential element of a tortious interference with business relations claim.[2] Accordingly, when taking the instruction as a whole, and in the absence of any controlling precedent requiring that "egregious conduct" be included as an element of tortious interference with business relations, the court finds that the instruction given at trial fairly and accurately stated the applicable law. See Hawthorne v. Canavan, 756 A.2d 397, 402 n. 7 (D.C. 2000) ("[T]he instructions as a whole were fair and accurate, and the judge did not abuse his discretion by refusing to give the specific instruction requested by the plaintiff.")

b. The Jury had Ample Evidence to Support its Findings on Columbia's Tortious-Interference and Breach-of-Contract Claims.

When it is claimed that the verdict is against the weight of the evidence, the court must exercise its discretion in ruling on a motion for new trial. Johnson v. Bernard, 388 A.2d 490 (D.C. 1978). Great deference must be given to a jury verdict. "Courts are not free to reweigh the evidence and set aside the jury verdict merely because the jury could have drawn different inferences or conclusions or because judges feel that other results are more reasonable." Baber v. Buckley, 322 A.2d 265, 267 (D.C. 1974). Additionally, a party challenging the quantum of a jury award on appeal "must first obtain a ruling from the trial court on a motion challenging the verdict on that ground." Keener v. Karr, 528 A.2d 1236 (D.C. 1987).

[2] Notably, NCRIC cites no cases that stand for the proposition that a jury must find "egregious conduct" before finding a defendant liable for tortious interference with business relations.

i. Columbia's Tortious Interference Claim

At trial Columbia argued that NCRIC tortiously interfered with its relationship with the attending physicians by "luring" them to other hospitals and effectively "forcing" them to stop referring and admitting patients to Columbia. NCRIC Motn. at 8. The jury concluded that NCRIC caused physicians practicing at Columbia to stop admitting patients at Columbia, and in the instant motion NCRIC alleges that finding is "against the weight of substantial evidence" presented at the trial. NCRIC Motn. at 8.

Pursuant to Civil Jury Instruction for D.C. § 5-12, Columbia had the burden of proving that NCRIC's actions caused an "injury or damage" that "appears from the evidence...played a substantial part in bringing about the injury or damage." Additionally, § 5-12 requires that the "injury or damage was either a direct result or a reasonably probable consequence of the act or failure to act." [3] Contrary to NCRIC's assertions, the jury need not find NCRIC's actions were the sole cause of the injury, but rather that they "played a substantial part in bringing about the injury or damage." See Civil Jury Instruction for D.C. § 5-12.

Columbia's evidence at trial supports the jury's finding that NCRIC played a substantial part in luring Columbia's physicians away from the hospital and then effectively forcing them to cease from admitting patients to Columbia. Both Columbia and NCRIC offered witness testimony, as well as, substantive evidence for the jury to consider on this issue. Specifically, Columbia's witnesses Dr. Rifka and Dr. Wilson testified without objection "that one measure of damages suffered by Columbia from [3] The committee notes offer alternative phrasing of this instruction, including that "[t]he acts or omissions of several persons might work together to cause injury. In such a case, each of the acts or omissions would be a proximate cause. For you to find that a particular act or omission is a proximate cause, however, you must find that the act or omission was more likely than not a substantial factor in causing the injury."

16d-003391

NCRIC's tortious actions was the difference in revenue between the years before and after NCRIC's conduct." Col. Opp. at 20 (citing 2/2 Tr. 165-66 (Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 505-506 (Wilson); 2/10 Tr. 132-35 (closing)). Additionally, NCRIC's own expert witness, Moore, testified that Columbia's revenue for the year before NCRIC cancelled the Retro Plan and clinic policy was approximately $10 million more than its revenue for the year after. Col. Opp. at 20 (citing 2/6 Tr. 929-30).

Columbia also offered witnesses who repeatedly testified that based on their personal observations and knowledge, doctors covered by NCRIC ceased practicing at Columbia because of NCRIC's attempts to lure them to other hospitals. Dr. Dukes testified on behalf of NCRIC that he left Columbia due to insurance coverage concerns, and similarly, Dr. Johnson testified that she stopped working at the clinic run by Columbia only because NCRIC terminated insurance coverage of clinic doctors. Col. Opp. at 19 (citing 2/10 Tr. 108; 2/4 Tr. 632 (Dukes); 2/4 Tr. 594 (Johnson); DX 41).

This evidence is sufficient to support the jury's findings, and this court is not "free to reweigh" the evidence. Therefore, the court finds that Columbia offered sufficient direct evidence to support the jury's findings, and that the jury's findings were not against the "great weight" of the evidence nor a "miscarriage of justice" sufficient to warrant a new trial.

ii. Columbia's Breach of Contract Claim

NCRIC alleges in its motion that Columbia did not offer sufficient evidence to support breach of contract claim, and that there was "[n]o possible combination or permutation of the evidence in the record" which "could result in the inexplicable $220,002 figure the jury selected." NCRIC Motn. at 12. NCRIC further alleges in this motion that the jury's award on the breach of contract claim must have been due to juror confusion resulting from Columbia's "badly misstated evidence" during closing arguments. Id.

16d-003392

The Court of Appeals has held that where the evidence at trial fails to support a jury's damages award, that award should be vacated and a new trial ordered. Allstate Ins. Co. v. Ramos, 782 A.2d 280, 284 (D.C. 2001) (case was reversed and remanded where there was "no evidence in the record to support an award of damages" that exceeded the cap on an insurance policy). However, a jury's verdict is considered "excessive" only when "it is so inordinately large as obviously to exceed the maximum limit of a reasonable range...or when it is beyond all reason, or is so great as to shock the conscience." Knight v. Georgetown Univ., 725 A.2d 472, 486 (D.C. 1999).

The evidence presented at trial provides support for the jury's award of $220,002 on Columbia's breach of contract claim. For example, Columbia's exhibit 85, which identifies sums for each year, indicates that there was over $500,000 due to Columbia for 1994-1995 alone. And, NCRIC's exhibit 178, which is NCRIC's own document concedes that Columbia was owed nearly $200,000 for 1994-1995. Additionally, several witnesses testified that $1 million was given to NCRIC by Columbia in 1997 as a security deposit under the contract, which was never returned.

Accordingly, the testimony and evidence at trial offered a wide range of possible damages values on Columbia's breach of contract claim that the jury was free to weigh and consider. The jury's decision was not outside of a "reasonable range," based on the evidence presented at trial.

16d-003393

III. Columbia's Expert Witness Peter Ben Ezra was Properly Allowed to Testify.

Columbia identified Peter Ben Ezra as an expert witness early in this litigation. Mr. Ezra has practiced accounting for more than twenty years, taught discounted cash flow and accounting techniques, and contributed to authoritative textbooks in the accounting field. Col. Opp. at n. 12 (citing 2/3 Tr. 272-74) Additionally, Mr. Ezra served as Chairman of the Columbia Board of Directors. In that capacity, he signed papers putting Columbia into bankruptcy in 1998. He was later appointed by the Columbia Board to oversee this litigation. NCRIC Motn. at 14(citing 2/3 Tr.) NCRIC argues that by allowing Mr. Ezra to be qualified as an independent expert on cash-flow analysis this court "created a significant risk of impermissibly prejudicing NCRIC." NCRIC Motn. at 14. At trial Mr. Ezra's connections to Columbia were fully disclosed to the jury, thus allowing the jury to include that fact when weighing and assessing his credibility.

In the instant motion, NCRIC argues that Mr. Ezra, should have been excluded from testifying at trial for two reasons: "(1) his [testimony] was based on wholly speculative factual assumptions not supported by the record; and (2) his analysis failed to apply a generally-accepted methodology."[4] NCRIC Motn. at 13. As a general rule, the trial court enjoys broad discretion to decide on the admission of expert testimony, "and a ruling either admitting or excluding such evidence will not be disturbed unless 'manifestly erroneous.'" Dyas v. United States, 376 A.2d 827, 831 (D.C. 1977) (citing Salem v. United States Lines Co., 370 U.S. 31,35 (1962)). The testimony of expert witnesses is admissible if it is "likely to aid the trier in the search for truth." Id. (internal

[4] NCRIC previously moved to preclude the testimony of Peter Ben Ezra in its Motion for Summary Judgment (pp. 41-44), Motion In Limine (pp. 2-13), and upon oral motion at trial. See Order Denying quotations omitted)(citing Jenkins v. United States, 307 F.2d 637 (D.D.C. 1962); 7 WIGMORE ON EVIDENCE § 1923 (3d ed., 1940)).

16d-003394

When determining whether or not to allow Mr. Ezra to be qualified as an expert, the court applied the three-part test applied by the Court of Appeals in Dyas. Specifically, the court analyzed whether:

> (1) the subject matter [was] distinctively related to some science, profession, business or occupation as to be beyond the ken of the average [juror], (2) [Mr. Ezra] has sufficient skill, knowledge, or experience in that field or calling as to make it appear that his opinion or inference will probably aid the [jury] in [its] search for truth, and (3) [the purported testimony] is inadmissible [when] the state of the pertinent art or scientific knowledge does not permit a reasonable opinion to be asserted even by an expert[5].

Nixon v. United States, 728 A.2d 582 (D.C. 1999)(quoting Dyas v. United States, 376 A.2d 832).

In applying these three factors the Court found: (1) that the subject matter of accounting and cash flow analysis was beyond the kin of the average layperson; (2) that Mr. Ezra's background, education and experience gave him sufficient expertise such that his testimony would aid the jury in the search for the truth; and (3) the field of accounting and cash flow analysis is one which does permit reasonable opinions to be asserted by experts in the field.[6] Therefore, the Court allowed Mr. Ezra to testify.

NCRIC asserts that Mr. Ezra's testimony should have been excluded because "there was not factual support for two of his key assumptions." (NCRIC Motn. at 16)

Motion In Limine Of Defendant To Exclude Testimony Of NCRIC's Purported Expert Witnesses, October 6, 2003.

[5] "Satisfaction of the third Dyas criterion begins and ends with a determination of whether there is general acceptance of a particular scientific methodology, not an acceptance, beyond that, of particular study results based on that methodology." Ibn-Tamas v. United States, 407 A.2d 626, 638 (D.C. 1979)(reversing trial court's exclusion of testimony and following Frye v. United States, 293 F. 1013 (D.C. Cir. 1923)).

16d-003395

Specifically, NCRIC alleges that Mr. Ben Ezra's calculation of estimated cash-flow loss to Columbia erroneously assumed that physicians on the list given to him by Columbia's counsel either stopped admitting patients to Columbia or reduced their admission to Columbia based on NCRIC's conduct, and that Columbia's marginal costs totaled 30 percent of its gross revenue. (NCRIC Motn. at 16) Additionally, NCRIC claims that Mr. Ben Ezra failed to utilize generally accepted accounting methods "of a type reasonably relied upon by experts" in his field. See Ibn-Tamas v. United States, 407 A.2d 626, 638 (D.C. 1979).

The evidence at trial indicated that Mr. Ben Ezra personally tested the list of doctors supplied to him by Columbia's lawyers. For example, on February 3, 2004, Mr. Ben Ezra testified that he narrowed down the list of doctors from 37 to 24, and that it was that list of 24 doctors, which served as the basis of his findings. (Col. Motn. at 28) Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony, which was supported by the information provided to him by Columbia's lawyers, indicated that those 24 doctors left Columbia in the last half of 2000, which was the period of time that Columbia alleged NCRIC tortiously interfered. The parties stipulated that the 24 doctors left Columbia in the last half of 2000. Whether Mr. Ben Ezra sufficiently tied their exodus to the alleged tortious interference of NCRIC was appropriately to be determined by the jury.

There is nothing in the record to suggest that Mr. Ben Ezra did not rely on the accounting methods "of a type reasonably relied upon by experts" in his field. NCRIC claims that Mr. Ben Ezra's 30% marginal cost figure was unsupported by evidence and that his use of data from fiscal years 2000 and 2001 was unrepresentative. However,

---

[6] See Order Denying NCRIC's Motion for Summary Judgment, April 10, 2003; Order Denying NCRIC's Motion to Exclude Certain Documents and Calculation, October 6, 2003; Order Denying NCRIC's Motion

16d-003396

NCRIC did not offer competing evidence at trial to refute or challenge the validity of the 30% marginal rate that Mr. Ezra utilized in his calculations. Nor did NCRIC offer evidence or testimony to challenge Mr. Ben Ezra's reliance on data from fiscal years 2000 and 2001 as unrepresentative. The data from the fiscal years 2000 and 2001 represents data immediately before and after NCRIC's alleged tortious conduct.

Mr. Ben Ezra's methodology represented one way for the jury to measure lost physician-generated revenue, and NCRIC was free to cross-examine Mr. Ben Ezra regarding his methodology or alternatively to produce their own expert to rebut Mr. Ezra's methodology and testimony. The jury is free to assign more or less weight to a particular witnesses' testimony. In this case the jury was given the following instructions: "You may consider the reasonableness or unreasonableness, and the probability or improbability, of the testimony of a witness in determining whether to accept it as true and accurate."[7] Additionally the jury was instructed: "Expert testimony should be judged just as any other evidence. You may accept it or reject it, or give it as much weight as you think it deserves, considering the witness's education and experience, the reasons given for the opinion, the expert's credibility and all the other evidence in the case."[8]

The Court cannot substitute its judgment for that of the jury's to discredit Mr. Ben Ezra's professional practices and methodology. See Ibn-Thomas, 407 A.2d at 638. While it is true that a trial court has broad discretion to exclude expert testimony "that is founded on incompetent evidence," NCRIC failed to produce any evidence in support of its allegation that Mr. Ben Ezra's methodology and findings were founded on to Exclude The Opinions and Testimony of Columbia's Designated Damages Expert, October 6, 2003.

---

[7] Civil Jury Instructions for the District of Columbia (2004 revised edition) §3.01.

16d-003397

incompetent evidence. See In re Tommie Lee Melton, 597 A.2d 892, 905 (D.C. 1991). NCRIC had the opportunity to "cross-examine on the underlying data and introduce contrary evidence", which it did not. Id. Ultimately, it is the jury's job, as the triers of fact, to "determine the reliability and weight" to be given to Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony, and absent a clear showing by NCRIC that the Court should have excluded such testimony, the jury's findings should stand. Id.

IV. There is no Basis for NCRIC's Request that the Court Recuse Itself.

There is no basis for NCRIC's mid-trial motion for recusal of the undersigned judge. NCRIC made the motion after it was discovered during the middle of the testimony of Columbia's corporate representative, Dr. Rifka that at one point in time Dr. Rifka was in a partnership with Dr. Maurice Butler, the undersigned judge's physician. The Court denied the motion for recusal determining (among other things) that since Dr. Butler was not and had not been identified as an interested party to the litigation and was not one of the doctors claimed to be affected by the litigation, which involved a contract claim, as opposed to doctor-patient issues, the circumstances did not warrant recusal.

The particular circumstances are as follows. During the second week of trial Dr.Rifka, the corporate representative of Columbia was on the witness stand undergoing cross-examination. In a response to a question from NCRIC's counsel, Dr. Rifka stated that at one point in time he was in a partnership with Dr. Maurice Butler. Dr. Rifka had previously testified on direct examination for two days and had responded to questions relating to his knowledge of Columbia's relationship with NCRIC. The focus of Dr. Rifka's testimony on direct examination was his understanding of a memorandum summarizing the state of the health care system in the District of Columbia and the nature of Georgetown University's clinical services. On the beginning of the fifth day of the trial, counsel for NCRIC continued his cross-examination by asking Dr. Rifka a somewhat unrelated question about his personal medical practice. Dr. Rifka had some trouble answering Mr. Page's question. The trial transcript, albeit long, best illustrates the line of questioning.

[8] Id. at § 3.03

16d-003398

> Q: I have a few questions and I'm going to try real hard to get finished today. We talked a little bit the other day, it was only yesterday, about your practice at Columbia. You were there as part of a partnership; am I correct?
> A: Which year and when? I was there part of a partnership.
> Q: Yes.
> A: No.
> Q: Let me ask the question this way. In your medical practice, you practice alone or do you practice with partners?
> A: Which year?
> Q: Well, let's say currently?
> A: Currently, yes, I do.
> Q: And while you were working at Columbia Hospital, did you practice with partners?
> A: No.
> Q: And when you testified as to the arrangement that you had at the hospital in terms of offices and staff, did any of that apply to partners that you had?
> A: There were partners. We were two people in the Division of Reproductive Endocrinology, Richard Faulk and myself at Georgetown and we got recruited from Georgetown to Columbia in 1996 until 1999. And then in 1999 totally in private practice.
> Q: And you're now in a partnership; am I correct?
> A: Yes. Currently I have two partners. Preston Sachs and Maurice Butler.
> Q: And what is Maurice Butler's first name?
> A: Maurice Butler, B-u-t-l-e-r.
> Q: Is it Jerome Maurice Butler, if you know?
> A: I don't know.
> (2/3 Tr. 441-442)

At this point, having heard the name Maurice Butler for the first time during the litigation, the undersigned judge excused the jury and disclosed to the parties that Dr. Butler had been her doctor on and off for several years. The colloquy was as follows:

> THE COURT: Counsel, you may be seated. When Dr. Rifka returned to the stand in response to one of his questions from Mr. Page, he responded that one of the partners was Dr. Maurice Butler who was my doctor formerly. And I wanted to disclose that to the parties. I was not aware of these relationships until I heard his testimony today. And I wanted to bring that to the parties' attention at this time.

16d-003399

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, may I ask a question?
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. PAGE: And I'm sorry to do it. You say you're a former patient?
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. PAGE: The question I'm getting to is this. Is there any history that you have had being a patient of a practice in which Dr. Rifka is a partner or principal?
THE COURT: I don't know the answer to that. I know that Dr. Maurice Butler has been my doctor off and on, I guess maybe the last time I saw him was about a year ago. And so I don't know at what point in time he was with or practicing with other doctors because he's the only doctor that I saw.
MR. PAGE: I appreciate the Court's disclosure. I would like the opportunity to at least discuss it with my client.
THE COURT: All right.
MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, there is no issue on this side.
THE COURT: All right. Okay. We will resume at 9:30 then.
(2/3 Tr. At 451-453)

At trial the following day Mr. Page again brought up the issue of the undersigned judge's relationship with Dr. Butler.

MR. PAGE: Your Honor, I would with some reluctance request you if we could, address the same issue that we addressed at the end of the day yesterday. And I don't know if you want to do that now or not.
THE COURT: Yes, I would appreciate it if only the attorneys would remain.
(Thereupon, the courtroom was cleared.)
MR. PAGE: Your Honor, it is with some reluctance that I bring this up, but after we had the colloquy last night with you at the end of the day, I want to go back over the situation and just make the following comments and perhaps, if you're willing, ask you for a further explanation on your part.
THE COURT: With respect to Dr. Maurice Butler?
MR. PAGE: Correct. And when I had a chance at the end of the day to check and find out what it was that we could do about the situation, our understanding is that Dr. Butler has been a colleague of Dr. Rifka's for a minimum of ten years. And that although the testimony indicated they were only recently partners, but prior to that time they may have been in a different arrangement other than a partnership. But essentially Dr. Butler works for Dr. Rifka.

It's also my understanding, and I would proffer this just as information, that we asked [sic] doctors who are working with us in the case that Dr. Rifka and his colleagues were known to cover for each other, see each other's patients. My concern is that we clarify whether you have been a patient that might have seen Dr. Rifka or knew about his affiliation with Dr. Rifka. And I mention this because just for the record, we had during voir dire been very interested in knowing whether the jurors were patients of doctors who were going to testify. We used preemptories on jurors who so indicated. We actually moved to strike for cause with respect to at least one who was a patient of a doctor identified by Columbia. And so with that background and with all due respect to the Court, the issue for us is simply to clarify if it were the case that you had any prior relationship with Dr. Rifka in a patient-doctor relationship, that would be a concern to us and is something that had we known it earlier, we might have said something about it. And so with great respect and deference to the court, but feeling I have an obligation given that history to at least clarify it so my client knows. And then as they ask me what the story is, I will at least be able to state with complete accuracy what the situation is.

THE COURT: That's fine.
MR. PAGE: I'm asking for a clarification.
THE COURT: I have never been a patient of Dr. Rifka's. I have never seen Dr. Rifka. I don't know Dr. Rifka. I have been a patient of Dr. Butler's and as I stated yesterday, off an on for about ten years. And the last time I saw him was about a year ago.

Dr. Butler's name has never come up in this trial and it had never come up in any of the pre-trial matters. There have been a number of doctors listed by name. His name has never come up until the first time yesterday late in the afternoon. And as soon as I heard the name, I felt it was important to disclose the relationship. And so I don't know Dr. Rifka. I have not had contact with Dr. Riftka. He has never, as far as I know, had any role in my care in terms of seeing Dr. Butler. I don't know what Dr. Butler's arrangement is or has been with Dr. Rifka. And I don't know what else to say. Dr. Rifka, I don't know.
MR. PAGE: Okay.
THE COURT: And I mean, as far as you can certainly discuss it some more because I don't want this to become an issue in this case. This is a jury trial, of course, and so I don't have any role in terms of assessing the credibility of any of the witnesses or making any determinations ultimately about the verdict or the damages. It's not a patient care case. It's a case involving a contract between Columbia Hospital for Women and NCRIC.
MR. PAGE: Just a final point. May I assume from your statement that you were a patient at Columbia?
THE COURT: Yes. Well, I think that's a fair statement. Dr. Butler's offices are in the Physicians Office Building at Columbia on the grounds of Columbia.
MR. PAGE: All right.
MR. GORSUCH: For the record, Your Honor, the office building is not owned by the hospital and is a separate facility.
THE COURT: Well, I don't know. It says Columbia. I think the name of his practice group is Columbia Fertility Association. And so you go into the door of Columbia Hospital.
(2/4 Tr. 457-461)(emphasis added)

Immediately following that conversation, Mr. Page requested that the court recess so that he could step outside of the courtroom to speak with NCRIC's corporate representative, Dr. Stark. The Court responded:

> I mean, obviously my relationship with my doctor was about my own personal care and treatment and not about his affiliation or connection or business setup or insurance arrangements. And I don't know any of that information. I only know what we talk about with respect to my patient care. And this case is not about patient care issues. But we can take a short recess and then we will reconvene after you have had a moment to speak with your client.

Mr. Page entered the courtroom after his discussions with Dr. Stark and alleged that Dr. Stark requested that he make a motion for recusal based on the Court's doctor-patient relationship with Dr. Butler. Mr. Gorsuch, Columbia's counsel, then made the following oral objections:

> Thank you, Your Honor. Very briefly. Yesterday afternoon, after 4 p.m. for the first time, a seemingly innocuous question was asked. Dr. Rifka, who is your partner? There was no follow-up. It had no linkage to any issue in the case and we all know why that question was asked and we all know why it was asked when it was asked. And I think that's very---
> THE COURT: Well, what do you mean by that when you say we all know why it was asked?
> MR. GORSUCH: Your Honor, it was a very curious question at a very curious time to come in. And I think it's very clear that somebody had some information that they shouldn't have had about your care. And I think Dr. Dukes is personal friends with Dr. Butler and that's a fact, Your Honor, and everyone in this room knows that's a fact. And Dr. Dukes has been sitting at this witness table all week. He could have raised this ages ago and we all know that. And they waited until four o'clock yesterday afternoon. That is inappropriate. That's No. 1. No. 2, let's talk about the law. You're under a strong obligation not to recuse yourself. That is the District of Columbia's standard as Your Honor knows better than I do. I can cite you a case, although a Judge has a strong obligation not to recuse if the situation does not require. Finally, Your Honor, let's talk about voir dire with the jurors. There was no motion to strike for cause several of the jurors, the fact finders in this case who had connections to Columbia – in fact, there were two former patients of Columbia who made it on the pass voir dire panel and were not dismissed. And, Your Honor, you're not, as I pointed out, and I can cite you literally a gazillion cases, Your Honor. I would be happy to give it to you if you really want to see them, but I don't think it's necessary. A gazillion cases in which jurors, the fact finders who had former relationships with doctors are allowed to sit on juries even when the case involved – doctors' malpractice.

16d-003402

The Fourth Circuit has so held. The Alabama Court held – has so held. Georgia Courts, Kentucky, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, these are all situations where jurors are patients of doctors who are accused. This is so far removed from the facts of this case and the behavior of NCRIC in this case, Your Honor. Thank you.

MR. PAGE: Just briefly, if I may, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Actually, I would like to say a few things on the record at this time. Since I have given both counsel an opportunity to be heard, this case has been pending for some time now and the issues in the initial suit involved a contract between NCRIC and Columbia for medical malpractice insurance. It has been briefed on a number of issues related to the counterclaims as well as the initial claim. This case does not involve patient care. It involves the contract dispute and the counterclaims of Columbia alleging certain business practices on the part of NCRIC. There are numerous, literally pages of witnesses that have been identified by both sides prior to the actual trial and throughout all of the pre-trial proceedings. Never before has Dr. Maurice Butler's name or any hint of his name or his involvement come up. He's not a witness in this trial. My patient care with him is personal and a private matter. It does not relate to any of his practices at Columbia. I have no idea, no knowledge of what his insurance or business arrangement is at Columbia Hospital in any way. That's simply not an issue in this trial.

I have been more than candid and forthright with the parties in this case throughout the trial from the day we walked into this court which is the first time I saw Dr. Dukes. And I immediately indicated that he's someone that I know and that I know him through his sister, Dr. Floretta Dukes McKinsey. And so as soon as Dr. Rifka gave any indication of his connection or business relationship, which he even had difficulty explaining when he was asked the question, out of an abundance of caution, I disclosed the fact that I do know Dr. Butler because he was my doctor. I indicated that I have seen him off and on for the past ten years and that the last time I saw him was approximately a year ago. I don't feel that that's an issue that impacts directly on this case.

We voir dired a number of jurors as Mr. Page said, some of whom identified connections or knowledge of Columbia Hospital for Women are still on the jury. Some were struck as preemptory challenges and some were struck for cause because of other reasons and so at this point in the trial which is not a medical malpractice trial related to patient care, it's not a trial where the doctor who was my personal doctor is going to appear or was ever even mentioned as being involved in this trial. And so at this point in time I decline to recuse myself and will note for the record the concerns raised by NCRIC.

I think I have a duty, given the time that the jury has invested in this trial at this point, to go further and we have spent so far five trial days or more. And I think it's my responsibility to continue on in this case at this point...

(2/4 Tr. 462-467)(emphasis added)

The District of Columbia Courts Code of Judicial Conduct (1995)[9] Canon 3(E)(1) requires that:

> A judge shall disqualify himself or herself in a proceeding in which the judge's impartiality might reasonably be questioned, including but not limited to instances where:
> (a) the judge has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party or a party's lawyer, or personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceeding;
> (b) the judge served as a lawyer in the matter in controversy, or a lawyer with whom the judge previously practiced law served during such associations as a lawyer concerning the matter or the judge or such lawyer has been a material witness concerning it;
> (c) the judge knows that he or she, individually or as a fiduciary or the judge's spouse, parent, or child wherever residing, or any other member of the judge's family residing in the judge's household, has an economic interest in the subject matter in controversy or in a party to the proceeding or has any other more than a de minimus interest that could be substantially affected by the proceedings;
> (d) the judge or the judge's spouse, or a person within the third degree of relationship to either of them, or the spouse of such a person:
>
> (i) is a party to the proceeding, or an officer, director or trustee of a party;
> (ii) is acting as a lawyer in the proceeding;
> (iii) is known by the judge to have a more than de minimus interest that could be substantially affected by the proceedings.

The Court must carefully consider competing duties when evaluating a request for recusal. While Canon 3(E)(1) of the District of Columbia Code of Judicial Conduct (1995) requires a judge to recuse herself in a proceeding in which the judge's "impartiality might reasonably be questioned," Canon 3(B) imposes on the judge a somewhat competing duty "to hear and decide matters assigned to the judge except those in which disqualification is required." Id. Accordingly, the judge has a duty to "hear and decide matters assigned to the judge" and that responsibility must be considered in the face of a situation that may require recusal. Canon 3(E) requires the Court to ultimately determine whether an average citizen, fully informed of the relevant facts, "might reasonably question whether the judge could decide the case with the requisite aloofness and disinterest"[10].

16d-003404

The two preeminent cases that offer guidance on the issue of recusal include facts, which vastly differ from the instant case. In Scott v. United States, 559 A.2d 745 (D.C. 1989) a criminal case, the trial judge presided at a trial prosecuted by an Assistant United States Attorney for the District of Columbia, a division of the United States Department of Justice, while the judge was negotiating for employment with the Executive Office for United States Attorneys in the Department of Justice. Scott, 559 A.2d at 745. Ultimately, the jury found the defendant guilty and the judge presided over his sentencing. It was not until after the defendant had been sentenced that he learned of the judge's employment negotiations with the United State's Attorney's Office. On appeal, the Court of Appeals reversed the jury's verdict and ordered a new trial finding that a new trial was warranted because the trial judge had not disclosed to the parties that during the trial and sentencing he was either actively seeking or had accepted employment in the executive office for all federal prosecutors while one of those prosecutors was prosecuting the case before him.

In the second case, Liljeberg v. Health Servs. Acquisition Corp., 486 U.S. 847 (1988), a Federal District Court Judge sitting without a jury, tried a case involving the

---

[9] The Joint Committee on Judicial Administration adopted the 1990 ABA Model Code of Judicial Conduct as amended. The Code of Judicial Conduct for the District of Columbia Courts took effect on June 1, 1995.
[10] Scott, 559 A.2d at 750 (quoting Pepsico, Inc. v. McMillen, 764 F.2d 458, 461 (7th Cir. 1985)). There must be "an appearance of bias or prejudice sufficient to permit the average citizen reasonably to question [the] judge's impartiality." Scott, 559 A.2d at 749 (quoting United States v. Heldt, 668 F.2d 1238, 1271 (D.C. Cir. 1981), cert denied, 456 U.S. 926(1982).

he was either actively seeking or had accepted employment in the executive office for all federal prosecutors while one of those prosecutors was prosecuting the case before him.

In the second case, Liljeberg v. Health Servs. Acquisition Corp., 486 U.S. 847 (1988), a Federal District Court Judge sitting without a jury, tried a case involving the potential pecuniary gain for Loyala University while, he was a member of the Board of Trustees for Loyola University. The Judge never disclosed his membership on the board to the parties. At the conclusion of the bench trial he entered judgment in favor of Liljeberg, which meant that Loyola University stood to gain financially. The proposed benefits to the University included not only the proceeds of the real estate itself, amounting to several million dollars, but also a substantial increase in value to the University of the re-zoned adjoining property. The progress of these negotiations was regularly reported to the University's Board of Trustees by its Real Estate Committee and discussed at Board meetings. Liljeberg, 486 U.S. at 853. The judgment following the bench trial required the Judge to credit Liljeberg's version of "crucial, disputed conversations." Liljeberg, 486 U.S. at 847. The Supreme Court found impropriety on the part of the Judge in Liljeberg, because "[t]he conflict arose not simply from the judge's service on the Board of Trustees, but from his service on the Board while the University was involved in its dealings with Liljeberg." Liljeberg, 486 U.S. at 864 n. 11.

The circumstances in Scott and Liljeberg differ vastly from the circumstances before this Court, such that a reasonable person fully informed of the facts of this case could not reasonably question the undersigned judge's impartiality. Here, as distinguished from the Scott case, Dr. Butler had not treated the undersigned judge for about one year (at the time of trial). In Scott the judge was involved in a series of discrete and ongoing negotiations with the executive office "for all federal prosecutors while one of those prosecutors was prosecuting Scott". Scott, 559 A.2d at 756. The undersigned judge was not a patient of Dr. Rifka, who testified at trial. This case involves a contract dispute between two business entities, NCRIC and Columbia Hospital for Women. The case does not involve patient care. Numerous doctors were identified pre-trial and during trial as witnesses or as doctors who were impacted by the contractual dispute between NCRIC and Columbia. Dr. Butler was never identified as a potential witness in this case, nor was he identified as an effected party. His name did not arise in the litigation until Dr. Rifka was asked on cross-examination, during the second week of trial about his business relationship with Dr. Butler. The instant case was a jury trial in which the jury determined the credibility of witnesses and the facts of the case.[11] As such, it was not the role of the undersigned judge to assess the credibility of Dr. Rifka's testimony or Dr. Butler's testimony since he did not testify at trial.

Additionally, as distinguished from Liljeberg, the undersigned judge was not aware of Dr. Butler's medical malpractice insurance arrangement or his business or financial arrangement with Dr. Rifka. Dr. Rifka, as the transcript indicates, even had difficulty explaining his financial and business arrangements with Dr. Butler at various points in time.[12] Unlike Scott and Liljeberg, there is no evidence in this case that Dr. Butler had any pecuniary interest (or any other interest) in this case.

---

[11] A trial judge is accorded more leeway regarding [her] participation in the trial when he or she sits with a jury. In re J.A. & L.A., 601 A.2d 69,78 (D.C. 1991)

[12] After describing several different types of working arrangements he had with various doctors, Dr. Rifka indicated that he currently has two partners, one of whom is Dr. Butler. See Transcript p. 442. He never testified about how long he has had a business partnership with Dr. Butler. Dr. Rifka was not asked nor did he testify that he had any involvement in the undersigned judge's medical case and treatment at any time during his partnership with Dr. Butler. Indeed, the undersigned judge stated to the parties that Dr. Rifka, to her knowledge, had never had a role in her care and treatment. (2/4 Tr. 452).

Ultimately, the Supreme Court in Liljeberg held that when determining whether disqualification is appropriate, the judge must consider three factors: (1) the risk of injustice to the parties in the particular case, (2) the risk that denial of relief will produce injustice in other cases, and (3) the risk of undermining the public's confidence in the judicial process. Liljeberg, 486 U.S. at 864.

The first prong of the Liljeberg test requires the judge who is contemplating recusal to consider the risk of injustice to the parties. In support of their oral motion for recusal at trial, plaintiffs' argued that during voir dire they were "very interested in knowing whether jurors were patients of doctors who were going to testify." (2/4 Tr. 457-461). Plaintiffs' further argued that they used preemptory challenges on jurors who so indicated and that they "moved to strike for cause...one who was a patient of a doctor identified by Columbia." Id. Dr. Butler did not testify, nor was he identified as a potential witness by either party. Finally, plaintiffs argued that they were concerned whether the undersigned judge "had any prior relationship with Dr. Rifka in a patient-doctor relationship." Id. The undersigned judge did not have a doctor-patient relationship with Dr. Rifka. Dr. Rifka testified in his capacity as the corporate representative of Columbia Hospital. This was not a medical negligence case, and therefore neither Dr. Rifka's personal business or clinical practices were at issue. The allegations of financial injury claimed by the defendants Columbia, pertain to the corporate entity, Columbia Hospital only.

The Supreme Court in Liljeberg, stated that "the statute does not call upon judges to perform the impossible – to disqualify themselves based on facts they do not know." Liljeberg, 486 U.S. at 861. A reasonable person viewing the proceedings could not question a judge's partiality about facts unknown to the judge. Id. The facts of this case taken in their totality, and taken in the light most favorable to the plaintiff, in no way prejudice the plaintiff. To the contrary, the risk of prejudice to defendants was great had the undersigned judge recused herself in the second week of the trial, since both parties had invested a great deal of time and resources into the trial. Additionally, plaintiff did not assert this alleged bias until well into the trial, which prejudiced defendant. Liljeberg, 486 U.S. at 864. Plaintiff's motion fails the first prong of the Liljeberg test.

16d-003408

The second prong of the Liljeberg test requires the undersigned judge to evaluate whether denial of recusal will cause injustice in other cases. Here, it is evident that the undersigned judge's decision declining to recuse herself will not cause harm in other cases. Crucial facts are absent here, that led the Court of Appeals in Scott to conclude that recusal was warranted to avoid causing injustice in other cases. In Scott, the Court of Appeals reasoned, "Had the connection between the prosecutor and the employment sought by the trial judge been more remote, our conclusion of the need for vacation of a conviction might well be different." Id. Dr. Butler's connection to this case is remote at best, and under the reasoning employed in Scott, the circumstances in this case suggest exactly the tenuous connections, likely to have led the Scott court to a different conclusion. A greater injustice would result if the undersigned judge recused, because it could lead to the misconception that mid-trial litigation tactics could derail a case for remote tangential reasons that do not rise to a level sufficient to give the appearance of partiality.

The third prong of the Liljeberg test is closely connected to the second prong. The court is required under the third prong, to evaluate the risk of undermining confidence in judicial process is undermined by attempts such as this. Perhaps the Court of Appeals has summed the instant situation up best when it wrote, "the court's intent has always been to remove this kind of question from the easy reach of frivolity or trial tactics and yet maintain the necessary core of judicial neutrality." In re: J.A. & L.A., 601 A.2d 69, 76 (D.C. 1991). The facts that NCRIC attempts to link in support of their argument that the undersigned judge's impartiality might reasonably be questioned are too remote from the issues in this case. A reasonable person, fully informed of the facts, could not reasonably conclude that the undersigned judge's doctor-patient relationship with a doctor who was not a party or a witness in the trial, and who was not shown to be impacted by this litigation, could call into question the judge's impartiality.

V. NCRIC Is Not Entitled to Remittitur

NCRIC alleges that it is entitled to remittitur due to the jury's award of $18 million in damages. In this jurisdiction a trial judge has broad discretion to order a new trial subject to remittitur if it determines that a jury's damage award "is so inordinately large as obviously to exceed the maximum limit of a reasonable range within which the jury may properly operate." Capitol Hill Hosp. v. Jones, 532 A.2d 89, 93 n. 13 (D.C.1987) (citations omitted); See also Knight v. Georgetown Univ., 725 A.2d 472, 486 (D.C. 1999)(Remittitur is appropriate only where the verdict is so inordinately large as to shock the conscience.) Once a party has proven that damages are appropriate, the proof necessary to establish an amount for damages need only be a "reasonable estimate." Affordable Elegance Travel, Inc. v. Worldspan, L.P., 774 A.2d 320, 329 (D.C. 2001). A party should not "be deprived of compensatory damages merely because they cannot be computed with exactitude." Spar v. Obwoya, 369 A.2d 173, 180 (D.C. 1977).

necessary to establish an amount for damages need only be a "reasonable estimate." Affordable Elegance Travel, Inc. v. Worldspan, L.P., 774 A.2d 320, 329 (D.C. 2001). A party should not "be deprived of compensatory damages merely because they cannot be computed with exactitude." Spar v. Obwoya, 369 A.2d 173, 180 (D.C. 1977).

In its motion, NCRIC claims that remittitur would be appropriate for three reasons: (1) the award of $13 million in pre-closing damages cannot be supported by Mr. Ben Ezra's testimony; (2) at trial Columbia grossly misstated NCRIC's annual earnings; and (3) the $5 million in post-closing damages was only first asserted at trial by Columbia and it represents gross revenue, not the actual net revenue lost by the hospital due to its failure to receive a congressional appropriation.

At trial Mr. Ben Ezra presented testimony using two damages models, which were based on multiple inputs that were sufficient to support the damages awarded by the jury. Additionally, there was testimony from Drs. Rifka, Wilson and Moore regarding the decline of Columbia's revenues by nearly $10 million in the year following NCRIC's tortious activity. Col. Opp. at 35; 2/3 Tr. 165-66(Rifka); 2/4 Tr. 504-05 (Wilson); 2/6 Tr. 928-30(Moore). There is nothing in the record to suggest that Columbia misstated NCRIC's annual earnings. In its closing argument, Columbia represented that NCRIC's sales totaled $59 million, not that its annual earnings were that sum. Col. Opp. at 38; 2/10 Tr. 137. NCRIC could have objected to Columbia's representation of their sales figure, but did not. Additionally, NCRIC offered no evidence at trial to disprove that their sales were $59 million.

NCRIC claims that evidence at trial suggested that Congress had only appropriated $4 million for Columbia, and that the award of $5 million of post-closing damages is excessive by $1 million dollars. In its request for the $1 million remittitur on post-closing damages, NCRIC asks the court to take judicial notice of facts outside the evidentiary trial record, but cites no authority which would allow the court to do so. At trial, Dr. Rifka testified at length about the lost congressional funding, and he testified that Columbia was going to receive $5million for the years 2001 and 2002. Col. Opp. at 40 n.20. At the time of Dr. Rifka's testimony, NCRIC did not object to the $5 million figure, but instead now objects and asks the court to effectively stand in the place of the jury, after the evidentiary record has been closed and to place less weight on the testimony of Dr. Rifka. Railan v. Katyal, 766 A.2d 998 (D.C. 2001).

16d-003411

In sum, there is nothing in the record, which would allow the court to order remittitur for the reasons proffered by NCRIC. The evidence presented at trial, and often not contested by NCRIC, could have reasonably permitted the jury to award $18 million, under the particular facts of this case.

VI. NCRIC Is Not Entitled to Judgment as a Matter of Law.

NCRIC renews its motions for judgment as a matter of law pursuant to D.C. Super. Ct. R. Civ. 50(b) and alleges that it is entitled to judgment because: (1) the evidence did not satisfy the legal elements of tortious interference with business relations; (2) the evidence failed to establish "egregious" or otherwise wrongful conduct that would qualify as tortious interference; (3) the evidence failed to establish a legally protected business relationship; (4) Columbia failed to prove non-speculative damages resulting from the alleged tortious interference; and (5) the $5 million post-closing damages were not pleaded in Columbia's Counterclaim.

16d-003412

Judgment notwithstanding the verdict (JNOV) is proper only in extreme cases. It is the responsibility of the jury (and not the judge) to weigh the evidence and to pass upon the credibility of the witnesses. If impartial triers of fact could reasonably find the plaintiff's evidence sufficient, the case may not be taken from the jury. Etheredge v. District of Columbia, 635 A.2d 908, 915 (D.C. 1993). The court "must take care to avoid weighing the evidence, passing on the credibility of witnesses, or substituting [their] judgment for that of the jury." Bragg v. Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp., 734 A.2d 643, 648 (D.C. 1999).

As discussed more fully above, the court finds that there was evidence to support the jury's verdict, and NCRIC's arguments for JNOV simply repeat their arguments for Motion for A New Trial. However, the court does note NCRIC's allegation that since the $5 million post-closing damages were not included in Columbia's Counterclaim they should have been excluded from reaching the jury. This issue is easily settled by longstanding case law, which instructs that damages which "accrue after the institution of the suit...may be recovered, provided they are the natural and proximate consequences of the act complained of, and do not themselves constitute a new cause of action." Norwest Bank Minnesota Nat'l Ass'n v. FDIC, 312 F.3d 447, 452 (D.C. Cir. 2002)("'it is perfectly clear, that the proof of actual damage may extend to facts that occur and grow out of the injury, even up to the day of the verdict.") Therefore, the jury's post-closing damages award is clearly permitted.

VII. Conclusion

Accordingly, for the foregoing reasons, and upon consideration of NCRIC's Motion for a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law,

VII. Conclusion

Accordingly, for the foregoing reasons, and upon consideration of NCRIC's Motion for a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law, Columbia's opposition thereto, and the entire record herein, it is this 30th day of September, 2005, hereby,

ORDERED that NCRIC's Motion for a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law is DENIED.

September 30, 2005
Date

A. Blackburne-Rigsby
Judge A. Blackburne-Rigsby

Copies to:
Kellogg, Huber, Hanson, Todd & Evans, PLLC
Neil M. Gorsuch
Eli C. Schulman
1615 M Street, NW
Suite 400
Washington D.C. 20036

Bryan Cave, LLP
Rodney F. Page
Scott M. Badami
700 Thirteenth St., NW
Washington D.C. 20005-3960

Roy I. Niedermayer
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814

MAILED From Chambers SEP 30 2005

DOCKETED In Chambers SEP 30 2005

16d-003414

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC.	)
	)
Plaintiff,	)
	)	Civil Action No. 00-0007308
v.	)	Calendar #8
	)
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,	)	Judge Blackburne-Rigsby
	)
Defendant.	)

PLAINTIFF'S NOTICE OF APPEAL

COMES NOW, Plaintiff NICRIC, Inc., by and through undersigned counsel, and hereby gives notice, pursuant to D.C. App. R. 3, of Plaintiff's Appeal of (1) the Judgment entered on February 20, 2004, and (2) the Order Denying NCRIC's Motion for a New Trial and Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law entered on September 30, 2005, from the Civil Division of the D.C. Superior Court.

Dated: October 26, 2005

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED,

Elliot E. Polebaum, #358748
Douglas W. Baruch, #414354
Stephen D. Robinson, #492090
FRIED, FRANK, HARRIS, SHRIVER
& JACOBSON LLP
1001 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, D.C. 20004
(202) 639-7000

Counsel for Plaintiff

Certificate of Service

I hereby certify that on October 26, 2005, I caused a true and exact copy of the foregoing Plaintiff's Notice of Appeal to be sent first-class mail, postage prepaid to:

Neil M. Gorsuch, Esq.
Eli C. Schulman, Esq.
Priya R. Aiyar, Esq.
Kellog, Huber, Hansen,
Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, N.W.
Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

Counsel for Defendant

Rodney F. Page
Scott M. Badami
Bryan Cave, LLP
700 Thirteenth Street, NW
Washington, D.C. 20005-3960

Roy I. Niedermayer
3 Bethesda Metro Center
Suite 430
Bethesda, MD 20814

Counsel for Plaintiff

Stephen D. Robinson

C[redacted] Number	Status	Judge
2000 CA 007308 B	Closed	BLACKBURNE-RIGSBY, ANNA

In The Matter Of	Action
NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN	Complaint for Breach of Contract Filed

Party		Attorneys
NCRIC INC 1115 30th St NW Washington, DC 20007	PLNTF	BADAMI, Mr SCOTT M BRYAN CAVE 700 13TH ST NW Washington, DC 20005 NIEDERMAYER, Mr ROY I LAW OFFICES OF ROY NIEDERMAYER 3 BETHESDA METRO CENTER SUITE 430 Bethesda, MD 20814 PAGE, Mr RODNEY F BRYAN CAVE LLP 700 13TH ST NW Washington, DC 20005
COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN Medical Ctr Inc 2425 L St NW Wa[redacted]ington, DC 20008	DFNDT	GORSUCH, Mr NEIL M KELLOGG HUBER HANSEN TODD & EVANS 1615 M STREET NW SUITE 400 Washington, DC 20036 HANSEN, Mr MARK C KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS 1615 M STREET NW SUITE 400 Washington, DC 20036 SCHULMAN, Mr ELI C KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD & EVANS 1615 M STREET, NW SUITE 400 Washington, DC 20036
AIYAR, PRIYA R , /9 99999-0000	CNVPTY	PRO SE

Opened	Disposed	Case Type
10/03/2000	Judgment from Jury Trial Entered on Docket	Civil II

Comments: Converted Comments from TDMS Parties: PARTY 0001: Priya R Aiyar
ADDRESS:
, /9 99999-0000

N[redacted]	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
1	09/30/05	Order Denying Motion fora new trial and renewed motion for judgment as a matter of law Entered on the Docket Order docketed and mailed from chambers on 9/30/05 - Judge Blackburne-Rigsby	0.00	0.00
2	04/20/05	STAY TDMS TYPE: JSD TDMS EVENT: 1442sta TDMS FLAG: sp CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 04-21-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 04-21-2004	0.00	0.00
3	02/03/05	Praecipe changing the firm name of deft's counsel to Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd, Evans & Figel, PLLC ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104pra* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 02-04-2005 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 02-04-2005	0.00	0.00
4	04/20/04	STAY ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: JSD TDMS EVENT: 1442sta CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 04-21-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 04-21-2004	0.00	0.00
5	04/20/04	Coluumbia 's reply in support of motion for assessment of cost ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000col CREATED BY/ON: #469 Wilson, 04-21-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #469 Wilson, 04-21-2004	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
6	04/20/04	ORDER GRANTING mot for approval of a supersedeas bond & to stay execution pending decision,see lg,fld 4-20-04,mld 4-21-04 on rule 50 & 59 mtns & any appeal, ORDERED that the supersedeas bondin the form, amt and with the surety as shown in exhibit A to ncric's mtn is approved by the court & that the execution of the judgment docketed in this action on 2-2 0-04 and any proceedings to enforce said judgment are hereby stayed pending a de termination of ncrics mtn for a new trial & renewed mtn for judgment as a matter of law & any appeal taken from the judgmentt ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 03-08-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 04-21-2004	0.00	0.00
7	04/07/04	NCRIC's opposition to Columbia's motion for assessment of costs ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000ncr* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 04-08-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 04-08-2004	0.00	0.00
8	04/06/04	(opp) Motion for a new trial and renewed motion for jdgmt as a matter of law ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1040mop CREATED BY/ON: #445 Terry, P 04-09-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #445 Terry, P 04-09-2004	0.00	0.00
9	04/05/04	Reply memo in support of NCRIC'S mot for a new trial and renewed mot for jurdgment as a matter of Law ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000rep CREATED BY/ON: #469 Wilson, 04-08-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #469 Wilson, 04-08-2004	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
10	03/26/04	(opp) Motion for a new trial and renewed motion for jdgmt as a matter of law TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1040mop TDMS FLAG: m* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-08-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #445 Terry, P 04-09-2004	0.00	0.00
11	03/25/04	Reply in support of its notice to amend the certificate of witnesses ENTRY BY: NCRIC,Inc TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9107rep* CREATED BY/ON: #2DE Vosh, Ja 03-26-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #2DE Vosh, Ja 03-26-2004	0.00	0.00
12	03/19/04	response to NCRIC's notice to amend the certificate of witnesses ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9107res* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 03-22-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 03-22-2004	0.00	0.00
13	03/18/04	ORDER GRANTING Motion to EXTEND time (Consent), See Lg., Fld 040318, Mld 040322 ORDERED, that the Motion is GRANTED, FURTHER ORDERED, that Columbia's opposition to NCRIC's Motion for a New Tri al & Renewed Motion for Judgment as a Matter of Law shall be due March 26, 2004 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-18-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 03-22-2004	0.00	0.00
14	03/17/04	Motion to EXTEND time (Consent) ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mot* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-18-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-18-2004	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
15	03/05/04	Notice to amend the certificate of witnesses ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9107not* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-10-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-10-2004	0.00	0.00
16	03/05/04	Motion for a new trial and renewed motion for jdgmt as a matter of law ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1040mot CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-08-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-08-2004	0.00	0.00
17	03/05/04	mot for approval of a supersedeas bond & to stay execution pending decision on its rules 50 & 59 mots and any appeal ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 03-08-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 03-08-2004	0.00	0.00
18	02/24/04	Witness list RECEIVED ENTRY BY: CHFWMC,Inc TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1457wit* CREATED BY/ON: #2DE Vosh, Ja 02-25-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #2DE Vosh, Ja 02-25-2004	0.00	0.00
19	02/24/04	(mot) mot to quash columbia's SUBPOENA duces tecum TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1048mot CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
20	02/19/04	ORDER DENYING IN PART Columbia's Motion for Add'l Sanctions w/Respect to NCRIC's Late Produced Expert Docs., fld 040219/mld 040220 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1132ord CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00
21	02/17/04	(ORDER GRANTING/DENYING IN PRT) Mot to add'l sanctions w/respect to NCRIC's late prod. expert docs. & slides, fld 040217/mld 040218 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9202mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 02-03-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 02-18-2004	0.00	0.00
22	02/13/04	(fin) JUDGMENT from JURY TRIAL for Deft against Pltf. In The Amount Of $18,220,002, See Lg., Fld 2-20-04, Mld. 2-20-04 FOR: Deft INTRATE J$AMT: 18,220.002 ?: (fin) JUDGMENT from JURY TRIAL for Deft against Pltf., ORDERED that judgment is entered in favor of the deft CHFWMC, Inc. agst the plaintiffs NCRIC, Inc, and that the deft recover of the plaintiffs its costs of action. FURTHER ORDERED th at the Counter-Claimant Columbia Hosp For Women Medical Ctr, Inc., recover of th e counter deft NCRIC, Inc, the sum of $18,220,002 with interest at the statutory rate and its costs of action ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: JSD TDMS EVENT: 1306fin+ TDMS FLAG: fj CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
23	02/13/04	case called for jury trial. all present. jury reached a verdict @ for the deft/counter-pltf for the amount of $18,220,002.00 (Jkt E ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00
24	02/12/04	case called for jury trial. trial respited until 2-13-04 @ 9:30am. no verdict. (Jkt Entry) ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas* CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00
25	02/11/04	case called for jury trial con't. no verdict trial respited until 2-12-04 @ 9:30am (Jkt Entry) ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas* CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00
26	02/10/04	case called for jury trial con't. oral exam of...con't & completed NCRICs Mot For Summ Judg Denied, See Lg (Jkt Entry) Pltf Mot as a matter of law Denied. trial respited until 2-11-04 @ 9:30am NCRIC's mot for judg on counterclaim denied. Mot granted on fraud claim. Plt f's mot as to punitive damages denied & pltf mot as to compensatory damages also denied ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas+ CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
27	02/09/04	case called for jury trial cont. All parties present. Oral exam of William Henderson con't & heard in full, See Lg (Jkt Entry) Oral exam of Mr...heard in part. Trial respited until 2-10-04 @ 9:30a m... ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas+ CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00
28	02/06/04	case called for jury trial cont. All parties present. Oral exam of Steven Moore heard in full, See Lg (Jkt Entry) Oral Exa, of William Henderson heard in part. Trial respited util 2-9-04 @ 9:30am ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas+ CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00
29	02/05/04	case called for jury trial cont. All parties present. mot for judg for fudiciary duties granted, See Lg (Jkt Entry) deft's counterclaim for mot for judg denied w/o prej. Oral exam of Steve Fa rus heard in full. Trial respited until 2-6-04 @ 2:30pm ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas+ CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
30	02/04/04	case called for jury trial cont. All parties present. Oral exam of Dr. Larry Wilson heard in full, See Lg (Jkt Entry) deft's judgment as a matter of law heard and denied w/o prej. Deft's mo t to recuse judge Blackburne-Rigsby is Denied. Pltfs opposition to Columbia's mo t for sanctions with respect to certain NCRIC's Expert documents and slides in o pen court. Oral exam of Der. Dukes heard in full. Trial respited until 2-5-04 @ 9:30am ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas+ CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00
31	02/03/04	mot to quash columbia's SUBPOENA duces tecum ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1048mot CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00
32	02/03/04	case called for jury trial cont. oral exam of Dr. Ben Ezra heard in full. NCRIC's Mot to quash Columbia's, See Lg. (Jkt Entry) subpoena duces tecum filed in open court. Oral exam of Dr Rifka Sifka c on't and completed case respited until 2-4-04 @ 9:30am ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas+ CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
33	02/03/04	ORDER DENYING mot to excude evidence based on documents produced 3e business days,see lg,fld 2-3-04,mld 2-5-04 before trial & demonstratives produced after the ct ordered deadline, ORDERED that the record shall reflect that the mtn was denied in open court on 1 -28-04 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 01-28-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 02-05-2004	0.00	0.00
34	02/03/04	(ORDER DENYING W/O PREJUDICE) Motion to voir dire Peter Ben Ezra prior to impaneling the jury, seelg, fld 040203, mld 040204 ORDERED that the record shall reflect that the motion was denied in open court on Jan. 28, 2004 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 01-12-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 02-04-2004	0.00	0.00
35	02/02/04	Motion to additional sanctions with respect to NCRIC's late produced expert documents and slides ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9202mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 02-03-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 02-03-2004	0.00	0.00
36	01/30/04	case called for jury trial. all present. oral exam of Dr Wayne Cooper heard in part Case respited until 2-2-04 @ 9:30 (Jkt Entry) ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
37	01/29/04	case called for jury trial con't. All Parties Present. Trial Respited Until 1-30-04 @ 2:30pm (Jkt Entry) ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas* CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00
38	01/28/04	case called for jury trial con't. All Parties Present. deft's mot to exclude Dr. Ben, Ezra testimony denied, See Lg (Jkt Entry) Pltf's mot to voire dire Dr. Ben Ezra prior to impaneling jury is deni ed. Deft's mot to exclude evidence is denied. Jury selection began @ 3pm. Trial respited until 1-29-04 @ 9:30am ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000cas+ CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 02-20-2004	0.00	0.00
39	01/28/04	mot to excude evidence based on documents produced three business days before trial and demonstratives produced after the see lg ct ordered deadline ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 01-28-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 01-28-2004	0.00	0.00
40	01/28/04	Praecipe re: deposition designations ripe for decision ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104pra* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 01-28-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 01-28-2004	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
41	01/26/04	(jsd) TRIAL @ 9:30am TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0102b2H CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 09-11-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 09-11-2003	0.00	0.00
42	01/26/04	(rst) PRE-TRIAL conference @ 9:30am NSDATE: 20031015pt cnt LSDATE: 20031015pt cnx TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0103b2H CREATED BY/ON: #437 Young, V 08-18-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 09-11-2003	0.00	0.00
43	01/09/04	Motion to voir dire Peter Ben Ezra prior to impaneling the jury ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 01-12-2004 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 01-12-2004	0.00	0.00
44	12/19/03	Status held. Parties present. Representations made + indicated on the record. Case ready for trial. Trial, SEE LG. (Jkt Entry) date previously set to remain in effect ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000sta+ CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 12-23-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 12-23-2003	0.00	0.00
45	12/19/03	ORDERED That The Use Of Such Equipment Shall Be Permitted @ Trial, See Lg., Fld. 12-19-03 & It Is FURTHER ORDERED that the Parties Shall Be Permitted To Bring Su ch Items Into The Courthouse. 1. laptop computers 2. LCD projectors and tripod 3 . Cabling 4. Theater screen (80" measured diagonally) 5. flat-screen monitors, i f needed 6. other equipment, as necessary to facilitate use of this technology. SEE ORIGINAL ORDER IN COURT JKT ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC	0.00	0.00

TDMS EVENT: 1133ord+

CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 12-23-2003
LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell,
12-23-2003

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
46	12/18/03	Response to NCRIC's attempt to introduce incomplete docs. as trial exhibits ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000res* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 12-24-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 12-24-2003	0.00	0.00
47	12/12/03	ORDER GRANTING Motion for admission Pro Hac Vice of Priya A Aiyar (consent),fld 12-12-03,mld 12-12-03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9202mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 12-12-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 12-12-2003	0.00	0.00
48	12/10/03	Motion for admission Pro Hac Vice of Priya A Aiyar (consent) ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9202mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 12-12-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 12-12-2003	0.00	0.00
49	12/01/03	columbia's response to ncric's objections re: columbia proposed trial exhibits ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000col* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 12-02-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 12-02-2003	0.00	0.00

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
50	11/26/03	Notice regarding Columbia's purported withdrawal of trial exhibits ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9107not* CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 12-02-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 12-02-2003	0.00	0.00
51	11/26/03	Memorandum in opposition to Columbia's objections to NCRIC's proposed trial exhibits ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000mem* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 11-28-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 11-28-2003	0.00	0.00
52	11/14/03	Memorandum in support of objections to NCRIC's proposed trial exhibits ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000mem* CREATED BY/ON: #4BZ Barnett, 11-17-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4BZ Barnett, 11-17-2003	0.00	0.00
53	11/14/03	Supplemental objections to Columbia's trial exhibits ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000sup* CREATED BY/ON: #4BZ Barnett, 11-17-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4BZ Barnett, 11-17-2003	0.00	0.00
54	11/14/03	NCRIC's revised exhibit list ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000ncr* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 11-17-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 11-17-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
55	10/15/03	PRETRIAL held. on 10-15-03 trial schedul for 1-26-04 at 9:30am transmittal forward to Civil A/O Copies of Pretrial Order SeeLg Given to parties following hearing ENTRY BY: (clerk) TDMS TYPE: MSC TDMS EVENT: 1168pre+ CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 10-22-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 10-22-2003	0.00	0.00
56	10/15/03	(jsd) PRE-TRIAL conference @ 4:00pm LSDATE: 20040126pt cnt TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0103b2H CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 09-11-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 09-11-2003	0.00	0.00
57	10/15/03	(rst) PRE-TRIAL conference @ 4:00pm NSDATE: 20040126pt cnx LSDATE: 20030731pt cnt TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0103b2H CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 08-13-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #437 Young, V 08-18-2003	0.00	0.00
58	10/08/03	Witness list RECEIVED ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1457wit* CREATED BY/ON: #445 Terry, P 10-09-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #445 Terry, P 10-09-2003	0.00	0.00
59	10/08/03	Witness list RECEIVED Amended ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1457ame* CREATED BY/ON: #4CM Haggins, 10-09-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4CM Haggins, 10-09-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
60	10/08/03	(ORDER DENYING) Mot for leave to AMEND the complaint, fld 031008, mld 031008 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9201mot* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 10-08-2003	0.00	0.00
61	10/06/03	(ORDER DENYING) Motion to join parties as defendants/counter-plaintiffs, fld 10/6/03, mailed 10/7/03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 08-21-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 10-07-2003	0.00	0.00
62	10/06/03	(ORDER DENYING) Motion for reference to a special master, fld 10/6/03, mailed 10/7/03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 10-07-2003	0.00	0.00
63	10/06/03	(ORDER DENYING) Motion to exclude the opinions & testimony of deft Columbia's designated damages expert, fld 10/6/03, mld 10/7/03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 10-07-2003	0.00	0.00
64	10/06/03	(ORDER DENYING) Motion to exclude certain documents and calculations, fld 10/6/03, mailed 10/7/03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 10-07-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
65	10/06/03	(RODER GRANTING) Motion in limine, seelg, fld 10/6/03, mailed 10/7/03 FURTHER ORDERED, that (1) the presentation of proof at trial shall conform to the evidence, such tht at trial Columbia shall present evidence on its ten cl aims, and it opening and closing statement, first; and (2) a pre-trial hearing t o address the admissibility of documentary exhibits at trial is set for October 15, 2003 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 10-07-2003	0.00	0.00
66	10/06/03	ORDER granting Motion to Exclude the testimony of Columbia's newly named witnesses See Lg fld 10-8-0,mld 10-8-03 ORDERED:That NCRICS Mot to Exclude the Testimony of Columbia newly named witness is granted The names ofthe following persons are stricken from th e witness list of columbia:Elizabeth Jackson,Francis Renee Perkins,Gideon kioko, Jerome O'Connell ,David Young ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne -Ri TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1131ord+ CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 10-08-2003	0.00	0.00
67	10/06/03	(ORDER DENYING) Motion to exclude evidence of certain counterclaim damages, fld 10/6/03, mailed 10/7/03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 10-07-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
68	10/06/03	(ORDER DENYING) Motion to compel and for sanctions, fld 10/6/03, mailed 10/7/03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9205mop* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 10-07-2003	0.00	0.00
69	10/06/03	(ORDER DENYING) Motion to require defendant to provide security for costs, fld 10/6/03, mailed 10/7/03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 10-07-2003	0.00	0.00
70	10/06/03	(ORDER DENYING) Motion in limine to exclude testimony of NCRIC's purported expert witnesses, seelg, fld 10/6/03, mailed 10/7/03 ORDERED, that plaintiff's R. 26(b)(4) statements were timely submitted on A ugust 9, 2001 and supplemented on February 2, 2002. Defendant's did not object to the inclusion of the experts in question until nearly two years after the R. 26(b)(4) statements were filed; and it is FURTHER ORDERED, that Mary A. Woodford meets the standards for expert witne sses pursuant to the controlling law in this jurisdiction ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop+ CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 10-07-2003	0.00	0.00
71	09/11/03	Continued to 20031015pt @ 4:00pm from 20040126pt - Per transmittal form LSDATE: 20040126pt cnt TDMS TYPE: SCX TDMS EVENT: 0218cnt CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 09-11-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 09-11-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
72	09/11/03	Set case for trial on 20040126tr @ 9:30am (per tm form) TDMS TYPE: SCH TDMS EVENT: 0102b2H CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 09-11-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 09-11-2003	0.00	0.00
73	09/04/03	(opp) Motion to join parties as defendants/counter-plaintiffs ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 09-09-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 09-09-2003	0.00	0.00
74	08/20/03	Motion to join parties as defendants/counter-plaintiffs ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 08-21-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 08-21-2003	0.00	0.00
75	08/18/03	Continued to 20040126pt @ 9:30am from 20031015pt (PER T.M. FORM) LSDATE: 20031015pt cnx TDMS TYPE: SCX TDMS EVENT: 0200cnx CREATED BY/ON: #437 Young, V 08-18-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #437 Young, V 08-18-2003	0.00	0.00
76	08/13/03	Continued to 20031015pt @ 4:00pm from 20030731pt - Per transmittal form LSDATE: 20030731pt cnt TDMS TYPE: SCX TDMS EVENT: 0218cnt CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 08-13-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 08-13-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
77	07/31/03	(rst)PRE-TRIAL conference @ 4:30pm NSDATE: 20031015pt cnt LSDATE: 20030619pt cnt TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0103b2H CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 06-11-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 08-13-2003	0.00	0.00
78	07/24/03	Defts Opp to NCRIC'S mot for leave to amend the complaint ENTRY BY: NCRIC,Inc TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000def* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-29-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-29-2003	0.00	0.00
79	07/24/03	(opp) motion for reference to a special master ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 07-28-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 07-28-2003	0.00	0.00
80	07/24/03	(opp) Motion to exclude evidence of certain counterclaim damages ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 07-28-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 07-28-2003	0.00	0.00
81	07/24/03	(opp) mot to exclude the opinions & testimony of deft Columbia's designated damages expert ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 07-28-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 07-28-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
82	07/24/03	(opp) Motion to require deft to provide security for costs ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 07-28-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 07-28-2003	0.00	0.00
83	07/24/03	(opp) mot to exclude certain documents and calculations ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 07-28-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 07-28-2003	0.00	0.00
84	07/24/03	Opposition to Pltfs Motion to exclude certain corroborating fact witnesses ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000opp* CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 07-28-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 07-28-2003	0.00	0.00
85	07/24/03	(opp) Motion in limine to exclude testimony of NCRIC's purported expert witnesses ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 07-25-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 07-25-2003	0.00	0.00
86	07/24/03	ncric's opposition to defts mtn to change the order of the proof of trial ENTRY BY: ncric TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000to * CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 07-25-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 07-25-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
87	07/24/03	PRETRIAL statement (Joint) ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1134pre CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 07-24-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 07-24-2003	0.00	0.00
88	07/08/03	PRAECIPE to enter appearance Neil M Gorsuch for Deft ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1120nei CREATED BY/ON: #445 Terry, P 07-09-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #445 Terry, P 07-09-2003	0.00	0.00
89	06/19/03	(opp) Motion to COMPEL and for sanctions ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9205mop* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 06-23-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 06-23-2003	0.00	0.00
90	06/19/03	(rst) PRE-TRIAL conference @ 4:30pm NSDATE: 20030731pt cnt LSDATE: 20030321pt cnt TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0103b2H CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 05-08-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 06-11-2003	0.00	0.00
91	06/11/03	Continued to 20030731pt @ 4:30pm from 20030619pt - Per transmittal form LSDATE: 20030619pt cnt TDMS TYPE: SCX TDMS EVENT: 0218cnt CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 06-11-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 06-11-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
92	06/05/03	Mot for leave to AMEND the complaint ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9201mot* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 06-10-2003	0.00	0.00
93	06/05/03	Motion to COMPEL and for sanctions ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9205mot* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 06-06-2003	0.00	0.00
94	06/05/03	motion for reference to a special master ENTRY BY: ncric,inc TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 06-06-2003	0.00	0.00
95	06/05/03	mot to exclude the opinions & testimony of deft Columbia's designated damages expert ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 06-06-2003	0.00	0.00
96	06/05/03	mot to exclude certain documents and calculations ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 06-06-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
97	06/05/03	mot in limine of deft ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 06-06-2003	0.00	0.00
98	06/05/03	Motion to Exclude the testimony of Columbia's newly named witnesses ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 06-06-2003	0.00	0.00
99	06/05/03	Motion to exclude evidence of certain counterclaim damages ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 06-06-2003	0.00	0.00
100	06/05/03	Motion to require deft to provide security for costs ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 06-06-2003	0.00	0.00
101	06/05/03	Motion in limine to exclude testimony of NCRIC's purported expert witnesses ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 06-06-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 06-06-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
102	05/19/03	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-20-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-20-2003	0.00	0.00
103	05/08/03	Continued to 20030619pt @ 4:30pm from 20030321pt - Per transmittal form LSDATE: 20030321pt cnt TDMS TYPE: SCX TDMS EVENT: 0218cnt CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 05-08-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 05-08-2003	0.00	0.00
104	05/06/03	(rst) PRE-TRIAL conference @ 4:30pm NSDATE: 20030731pt cnt LSDATE: 20030307pt cnt TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0103b2H CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 02-25-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 06-11-2003	0.00	0.00
105	05/02/03	ORDER GRANTING Motion to reschedule pretrial hearing, See Lg., Fld 030505, Mld 030506 ORDERED, that the pretrial conference is rescheduled for a date within 30 d ays from the date of this order. The clerk's office shall issue notice ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 05-05-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-06-2003	0.00	0.00
106	05/02/03	Motion to reschedule pretrial hearing ENTRY BY: NCRIC, Inc TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 05-05-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 05-05-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
107	04/14/03	ORDER DENYING Motion to continue pretrial hearing (consent),see lg,fld 4-15-03,mld 4-15-03 Because all outstanding mtns have been ruled on as of 4-10-03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 04-15-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 04-15-2003	0.00	0.00
108	04/11/03	Motion to continue pretrial hearing (consent) ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 04-15-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 04-15-2003	0.00	0.00
109	04/10/03	(ORDER DENYING) MOTION for summary judgment. FLD 4/11/03 MLD 4/11/03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1075mop CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 02-08-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 04-11-2003	0.00	0.00
110	04/03/03	ORDER GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING MOT to compel discovery by designation under SCR 30(b)(6) & See Lg FLD 4-4-03,mld 4-7-03 And appearance at deposition ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne -Ri TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1189mop+ CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 08-13-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 04-07-2003	0.00	0.00
111	04/02/03	(ORDER DENYING) Motion to EXTEND time for discovery. FLD 4/4/03 MLD 4/8/03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mop* CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 10-10-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 04-08-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
112	04/02/03	(ORDER DENYING) MOTION for summary judgment. FLD 4/3/03 MLD 4/3/03 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1075mot CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 02-11-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 04-03-2003	0.00	0.00
113	04/02/03	(ORDER GRANTING) Motion for protective order barring inquiry into subject matter areas, SEE LG. FLD 4/4/03 MLD 4/8/03 for 30(b)(6) deposition of pltf ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop+ CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 08-22-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 04-08-2003	0.00	0.00
11	03/21/03	* (rst) DELETED NSDATE: 20030619pt cnt TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0103b2H CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 12-19-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 05-08-2003	0.00	0.00
115	03/07/03	(rst) PRE-TRIAL conference @ 3:00pm NSDATE: 20030506pt cnt LSDATE: 20030321pt cnx TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0103b2H CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 02-25-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 02-25-2003	0.00	0.00
116	02/25/03	Continued to 20030506pt @ 4:30pm from 20030307pt - Per transmittal form LSDATE: 20030307pt cnt TDMS TYPE: SCX TDMS EVENT: 0218cnt CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 02-25-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 02-25-2003	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
117	02/06/03	ORDER GRANTING Motion to reschedule the pretrial conference, See Lg., Fld 030306, Mld 030307 ORDERED, that the Pretrial Conference is rescheduled for a date after May 5 , 2003. The clerk's office shall issue notice of the new date ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1131ord+ CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 03-07-2003 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 03-07-2003	0.00	0.00
118	01/21/03	(rst) PRE-TRIAL conference @ 4:00pm NSDATE: 20030321pt cnx TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0103b2H CREATED BY/ON: #521 Randall, 10-31-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 12-19-2002	0.00	0.00
119	12/19/02	Continued to 20030321pt @ 3:00pm from 20030121pt (per tm form) LSDATE: 20030121pt cnx TDMS TYPE: SCX TDMS EVENT: 0200cnx CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 12-19-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 12-19-2002	0.00	0.00
120	12/12/02	(jsd) MOTION hearing @11:00am TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0111b2H CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 11-12-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 11-12-2002	0.00	0.00
121	11/12/02	Set motion hearing for 20021212mh @11:00am (per tm form) TDMS TYPE: SCH TDMS EVENT: 0111b2H CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 11-12-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 11-12-2002	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
122	11/08/02	ORDER RE: Scheduling hearing on Summ judg., see lg., fld 11/8/02, mld 11/12/02 ORDERED, that the parties shall appear for a heraring on the outstanding su mmary jdugment motions. Pursuant to SUperior COurt Civil Procedure Rule 12-I(f) , "if the jduge assigned to the case determines to hold a hearing on the motion, that judge shall give to all parties appropriate notice of the hearing... and t he amount of time afforded to each party." Each party will have (10) ten minute s to present its argument. The opposition will also have (10) ten minutes to pr esent its argument. Further, the moving party shall be given an additional (5)f ive minutes for rebuttal, if necessary. Therfore, since each party has filed mo tions for summary jdugment , the oral arguments in this hearing will last (50) f ifty minutes. Therefore, it is hereby ORDERED that the parties shall appear on 12/12/02, at 11:00 am. for a hearing on the outstanding motins for summary jdugm ent and the other outstanding motinos listed above ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1133ord+ CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 11-12-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 11-12-2002	0.00	0.00
123	10/31/02	Set hearing on pre-trial calendar for 20030121pt @ 4:00pm after mediation TDMS TYPE: SCH TDMS EVENT: 0103b2H CREATED BY/ON: #521 Randall, 10-31-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #521 Randall, 10-31-2002	0.00	0.00
124	10/31/02	(jsd) MEDIATION conference @11:00am LSDATE: 20020228sw cnx CSSDUE: 20020920 TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0118bswl CREATED BY/ON: #437 Young, V 09-23-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #437 Young, V 09-23-2002	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
125	10/24/02	(opp) Motion to EXTEND time for discovery ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mop* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 10-25-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 10-25-2002	0.00	0.00
126	10/09/02	Motion to EXTEND time for discovery ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 10-10-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 10-10-2002	0.00	0.00
127	09/23/02	Continued to 021031sw @11:00am from 020228sw PER ORDER & TRANSMITTAL DATED 9/20/02 LSDATE: 20020228sw cnx TDMS TYPE: SCX TDMS EVENT: 0200cnx CREATED BY/ON: #437 Young, V 09-23-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #437 Young, V 09-23-2002	0.00	0.00
128	09/20/02	ORDER GRANTING Consent Motion to Clarify that mediation has been postponed, See Lg., Fld 020920, Mld 020923 The parties Consent Motion to Clarify that Mediation has be Postponed is GR ANTED. The scheduling order dated December 20, 2001, postponed the due date for the parties' Confidential Settlement Statements to May 19, 2002. The Mediation i n the above-captioned matter, which was previously scheduled for February 28, 20 02, at 11:00 a.m., is therefore continued. The Clerk's Office shall reschedule M ediation within 30 days & send notices to the parties ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1131ord+ CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 09-23-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 09-23-2002	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
129	09/20/02	ORDER GRANTING Motion to clarify that mediation has been postponed (consent) see lg., fld 9/20/02, mld 9/23/02 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-04-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 09-23-2002	0.00	0.00
130	05/20/02	PRAECIPE to enter appearance of Eli C. Schulman as attorney for the defendant ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1120app CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 05-21-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 05-21-2002	0.00	0.00
131	03/28/02	Reply in support of deft's motion for summary judgment ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000rep* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 04-01-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 04-01-2002	0.00	0.00
132	03/28/02	Pltf's reply in support of its motion for summary jdgmt ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000plt* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 04-01-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 04-01-2002	0.00	0.00
133	03/28/02	Opposition to Deft Columbia's statement of material facts not in dispute ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000opp* CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 03-29-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 03-29-2002	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
134	03/07/02	(opp) MOTION for summary judgment ENTRY BY: CHFW TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1075mop CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 03-08-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 03-08-2002	0.00	0.00
135	03/04/02	ORDER GRANTING Motion to EXTEND time for filing summary jdgmt papers,SEE LG,FLD 3-6-02,MLD 3-7-02 Further Ordered that the time for each party to file and serve its o pposition to the opposing party's mtn for summary judgment is hereby extended up through and including 3-07-02 & that the time for each party to file and serve its reply to the opposing party's summary judgment opposition is hereby extended up through & including 3-28-02 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-05-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 03-07-2002	0.00	0.00
136	03/04/02	Motion to EXTEND time for filing summary jdgmt papers ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mot* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-05-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-05-2002	0.00	0.00
137	02/28/02	ORDERED, that pursuant to the scheduling order dated December 20, 2001, which, See Lg., Fld 020304, Mld 020305 postponed the due date for the parties' Confidential Settlement Statement t o May 19, 2002, the ADR session in the above-captioned matter, which was previou sly scheduled for February 28, 2002 at 11:00 a.m. is POSTPONED until a to-be-det ermined date sufficiently after May 19, 2002 ENTRY BY: J/Blackburne-Rig TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1133ord+ CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 03-05-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 03-05-2002	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
138	02/28/02	(rst) MEDIATION conference @11:00am NSDATE: 20021031sw cnx CSSDUE: 20020118 TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0118bsw1 CREATED BY/ON: #2CJ Wilson, 11-27-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #437 Young, V 09-23-2002	0.00	0.00
139	02/27/02	Motion to clarify that mediation has been postponed (consent) ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-01-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-06-2002	0.00	0.00
140	02/26/02	Praecipe noting that pltf has consented to extend the following deadlines in the current sched. order: seelg, DEADLINE IN CURRENT SCHED. ORDER ORDER DATE NEW DATE Oppositions to dispositive motions filed 02/28/02 03/04/02 Replies to opps. to dispositive motions filed 03/18/02 03/25/02 ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104pra+ CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-04-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-04-2002	0.00	0.00
141	02/21/02	Praecipe noting the enclosed errata pgs. 6-9 & 14 to Statement of Material Facts Not In Dispute ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104pra* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-04-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 03-04-2002	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
142	02/14/02	Rule 26(b)(4) statement RECEIVED (supplemental) ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1458rul* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 02-15-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 02-15-2002	0.00	0.00
143	02/12/02	PRAECIPE to withdraw Exhibit 20 to deft's stmts of material facts not in dispute...& submits the attached copy of the, seelg, same exhibit ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1121pra+ CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 02-13-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 02-13-2002	0.00	0.00
14	02/11/02	Praecipe noting that deft hereby submits errata pages 6-9 & 14 of its statement of material facts not in dispute ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104???* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 02-13-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 02-13-2002	0.00	0.00
145	02/08/02	Defendant's statement of material facts not in dispute ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000???* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 02-12-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 02-12-2002	0.00	0.00
146	02/07/02	MOTION for summary judgment ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1075mot CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 02-11-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 02-11-2002	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
147	02/07/02	MOTION for summary judgment ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1075mot CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 02-08-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 02-08-2002	0.00	0.00
148	01/22/02	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 01-24-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 01-24-2002	0.00	0.00
149	01/22/02	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 01-23-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 01-23-2002	0.00	0.00
150	01/15/02	Praecipe extending deadlines in the current scheduling order by one week ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104pra* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 01-17-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 01-17-2002	0.00	0.00
151	01/14/02	(jsd) MEDIATION within 30 days following(Amended Per T.F. Date 8/31/01) TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0325med CREATED BY/ON: #DM1 DP (batc 01-18-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #2CJ Wilson, 09-05-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
152	01/11/02	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: COLUMBIA TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 01-14-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 01-14-2002	0.00	0.00
153	01/10/02	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 01-14-2002 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 01-14-2002	0.00	0.00
154	12/21/01	NCRIC's reply in support of its motions to compel designations & deposition testimony ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000ncr* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 12-26-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 12-26-2001	0.00	0.00
155	12/21/01	Reply in support of its motion for a protective order ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000rep* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 12-26-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 12-26-2001	0.00	0.00
156	12/21/01	ORDER GRANTING Motion to AMEND scheduling order (consent), See Lg., Fld 011227 The current scheduling order shall be amended as follows: Deadline Current As Amended Non-expert, non-party depositions first noticed prior to 8/13/01 discovery deadline shall be completed: 12/13/01 1/17/02 Rule 30(b)(6) depositions first noticed prior to 8/13/01 discovery deadline shall be completed 12/13/01 1/17/02 Expert depositions completed; 12/20/01 1/17/02 All discovery closes 12/20/01 1/17/02	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

Dispositive Motions filed
1/3/02 1/31/02
Oppositions to dispositive motions filed
1/31/02 2/28/02
Replies to oppositions to dispositive motins filed 2/18/02 3/18/02
Dispositive motions decided
4/11/02 5/9/02
Confidential Settlement due
4/22/02 5/19/02
. . . (SEE ORIGINAL ORDER)

ENTRY BY: J/Davis
TDMS TYPE: MOT
TDMS EVENT: 9201mot+

CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 12-14-2001
LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire,
12-28-2001

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
157	12/13/01	Motion to AMEND scheduling order (consent) ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9201mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 12-14-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 12-14-2001	0.00	0.00
158	12/11/01	PRAECIPE to enter appearance of Scott Badami as co-counsel for pltf ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1120pra CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 12-14-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 12-14-2001	0.00	0.00
159	12/04/01	ORDER GRANTING mot to stay proceedings to finalize settlement agreement (consent),see lg,fld 12-7-01 Ordered that discovery and other proceedings in this action shall be stayed until and up through 12-7-01 & that once the day ends on 12-7-01 the cur rent scheduling order shall be amended by extending all deadlines stated therein as follows: (see original order) Deadline in current scheduling order current As amende d Non-expert, non-party depositions first noticed prior 12-6-01 12-13-0 1 to 8-13-01 discovery deadline shall be completed: R. 30(b)(6)depositions 1st noticed prior to 8-3 1-01 discovery deadline shall be	0.00	0.00

16d-003453

completed: 12-6-01 12-13-01 Dam ages discovery closes:
12-6-01 12-13-01

ENTRY BY: J/Davis
TDMS TYPE: MOT
TDMS EVENT: 9103mot+

CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 12-04-2001
LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin
12-10-2001

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
160	12/03/01	mot to stay proceedings to finalize settlement agreement (consent) ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 12-04-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 12-04-2001	0.00	0.00
1	11/27/01	Set mediation conference for 20020228sw @11:00am PER. SR LIST TDMS TYPE: SCH TDMS EVENT: 0118bsw1 CREATED BY/ON: #2CJ Wilson, 11-27-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #2CJ Wilson, 11-27-2001	0.00	0.00
162	11/20/01	(opp) Motion for protective order barring inquiry into subject matter areas for 30(b)(6) deposition of pltf ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 11-28-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 11-28-2001	0.00	0.00
163	11/19/01	(opp) MOTION to compel discovery by designation under SCR 30(b)(6) & appearance at deposition ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1189mop CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 11-21-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 11-21-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
164	11/15/01	Praecipe noting that parties has consented to extend by 2 business days, the following deadlines in the current sched. order ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104pra* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 11-21-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 11-21-2001	0.00	0.00
165	11/08/01	STAY TDMS TYPE: JSD TDMS EVENT: 1442sta TDMS FLAG: sp CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 10-03-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 10-03-2001	0.00	0.00
166	11/06/01	(can) MEDIATION conference @ 9:00am CSSDUE: 20010926 TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0118bsw1 CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 08-13-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #2CJ Wilson, 09-05-2001	0.00	0.00
167	10/04/01	(mot) Motion to EXTEND time to FOR COLUMBIA TO OPPOSE NCRIC'S PENDING MOTIONS.TO COMPEL (Consent) TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mot* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 09-14-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 09-20-2001	0.00	0.00
168	09/28/01	STAY ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: JSD TDMS EVENT: 1442sta CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 10-03-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 10-03-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
169	09/28/01	(ORDER GRANTING) Motion to temporarily stay proceedings & amend scheduling order (consent), seelg, fld 011002 ORDERED that all discovery & other proceedings in this action (including but not limited to all deadlines for opps. to NCRIC's pending mtns) shall be sta yed until & up through 11/8/01; & FURTHER, the stay shall be lifted w/o further order of the Ct. if, prior to 11/1/01, either pty certifies in a Praecipe, filed with the Ct., that the settlement discussions are at an impasse; & FURTHER, if the stay is lifted by the filing of a Praecipe with the Ct., the stay shall end effective five business days after said Praecipe is served on the opposing pty; & FURTHER, if the stay ends as sched. on 11/8/01, the most recent Consent Order shall be amended by ext. the deadlines stated therein by 52 days as follows:...& , FURTHER, if the stay ends as sched. on 11/8/01, the current Sched. Order shall be amended by ext. all deadlines stated therein by 62 days as follows:...&, FUR THER, is the stay is lifted by the filing of a Praecipe with this Ct., the 2nd A mended Sched. Order shall be amended by ext. all deadlines set forth therein by the no. of cal. days from 9/24/01 up to (& including) the effective date on whic h the stay was lifted (including the 5-day notice period & any time added for se rvice by mail) plus 17 cal. days;...(see orig.) ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 09-27-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 10-03-2001	0.00	0.00
170	09/26/01	Motion to temporarily stay proceedings & amend scheduling order (consent) ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 09-27-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47F Newell, 09-27-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
171	09/13/01	Motion to EXTEND time to FOR COLUMBIA TO OPPOSE NCRIC'S PENDING MOTIONS...(Consent) ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mot* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 09-14-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 09-14-2001	0.00	0.00
172	09/10/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 09-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 09-12-2001	0.00	0.00
173	09/10/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 09-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 09-12-2001	0.00	0.00
174	09/10/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 09-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #47E Smith, N 09-12-2001	0.00	0.00
175	09/06/01	(ORDER GRANTING) Motion to EXTEND time to FOR COLUMBIA TO OPPOSE NCRIC'S PENDING MOTIONS TO COMPEL (Consent), seelg, fld 010918 ORDERED that the time for Columbia to file and serve its opps. to NCRIC's Motion to Compel Discovery By Designation Under SCR 30(b)(6) And Appearance at Deposition and Motion to Compel Deft's Designated Witnesses to Answer Questions Properly Posed at Deposition is hereby extended up through and including Sept. 13, 2001 ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 09-07-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G
09-20-2001

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
176	09/06/01	Motion to EXTEND time to FOR COLUMBIA TO OPPOSE NCRIC'S PENDING MOTIONS TO ENTRY BY: NCRIC,INC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mot* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 09-07-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 09-07-2001	0.00	0.00
177	09/06/01	(WITHDRAWN 8-22-01) Motion to COMPEL DEFT TO PRODUCE PRIVILEGE LOG TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9205mot* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-17-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 02-21-2002	0.00	0.00
178	08/31/01	(ORDER GRANTING) Motion to AMEND Scheduling Order (Consent), seelg, fld 010904 ORDERED: the deadlines for this case are hereby amended, as follows: DEADLINE CURRENT PROPOSED NON-expert, non-pty depos. lst noticed prior t o 8/13/01 discovery deadline shall be cmpltd: 9/14/01 10/5/01 R ULE 30(b)(6) depos. first noticed prior to 8 /31/01 discovery deadline shall be cmpltd: 9/14/01 10/5/01 D AMAGES discovery closes: 9/21/01 10/5/01 E XPERT depos. cmpltd: 10/5/01 10/12/01 D ISPOSITIVE motions filed: 9/10/01 10/19/01 O PPS. to dispositive motions filed: 10 days 10/19/01 R EPLIES to opps. to dispositive motions filed: -- 12/3/01 D ISPOSITIVE motions decided: 10/11/01 1/25/02 C ONFIDENTIAL Settlement Statement due: 9/26/01 2/1/02 A DR: 11/6/01 to be sched by AO P retrial: -- to be sched by AO S O ORDERED ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: MOT	0.00	0.00

TDMS EVENT: 9201mot+

CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-30-2001
LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G
09-05-2001

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
179	08/28/01	Motion to AMEND Scheduling Order (Consent) ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9201mot* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-30-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-30-2001	0.00	0.00
180	08/28/01	(mot) Motion to COMPEL dfts designated witnesses to answer questions properly posed at deposition TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9205mot* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 08-13-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 04-16-2003	0.00	0.00
181	08/23/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-28-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-28-2001	0.00	0.00
182	08/23/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-28-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-28-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
183	08/22/01	PRAECIPE to withdraw w/o prej. its Mot to compel deft to produce Privelege Log, Filed on 8/13/01 ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1121pra CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 08-29-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 08-29-2001	0.00	0.00
184	08/22/01	PRAECIPE to extend time for serving &/or filing papers by 14 calendar days ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1178pra CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 08-29-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 08-29-2001	0.00	0.00
185	08/22/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC,INC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-23-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-23-2001	0.00	0.00
186	08/22/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC,INC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-23-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-23-2001	0.00	0.00
187	08/20/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-22-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-22-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
188	08/17/01	Praecipe noting that dft by counsel hereby stipulate & agree that the following deadlines set forth in the sched order,see lg dated 5-16-01 & the order dated 7-20-01 shall be extended by 14 cale ndars days ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104pra+ CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 08-29-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 08-29-2001	0.00	0.00
189	08/15/01	Motion for protective order barring inquiry into subject matter areas for 30(b)(6) deposition of pltf ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 08-22-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 08-22-2001	0.00	0.00
190	08/15/01	Motion to COMPEL DEFT TO PRODUCE PRIVILEGE LOG ENTRY BY: NCRIC INC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9205mot* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-17-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-17-2001	0.00	0.00
191	08/13/01	Set mediation conference for 20011106sw @ 9:00am SR LIST TDMS TYPE: SCH TDMS EVENT: 0118bsw1 CREATED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 08-13-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #T99 Young, C 08-13-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
192	08/09/01	Rule 26(b)(4) statement as opponent of a claim ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1458rul* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 08-23-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 08-23-2001	0.00	0.00
193	08/09/01	(can) MEDIATION conference @11:00am FSDATE: 20010809sw CSSDUE: 20010629 TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0118bsw1 CREATED BY/ON: #2CJ Wilson, 05-11-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #2CJ Wilson, 05-23-2001	0.00	0.00
194	08/08/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: COLUMBIA TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-10-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-10-2001	0.00	0.00
195	08/07/01	Motion to COMPEL dfts designated witnesses to answer questions properly posed at deposition ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9205mot* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 08-13-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 08-13-2001	0.00	0.00
196	08/07/01	MOTION to compel discovery by designation under SCR 30(b)(6) & appearance at deposition ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1189mot CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 08-13-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 08-13-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
197	07/27/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-02-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-02-2001	0.00	0.00
198	07/27/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-02-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-02-2001	0.00	0.00
199	07/23/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-06-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-06-2001	0.00	0.00
200	07/20/01	ORDER GRANTING Pltf's Alternative Motion for additional time to file opponent's Rule 26(b)(4), See Lg statement ORDERED, that pltf's Alternative Motion for Additional Time to file Opponen t's Rule 26(b)(4) Statement be, & hereby is, granted with a new deadline of 8/9/ 01 FURTHER ORDERED, that pltf's Alternative Motion for leave to complete disco very on damages after the discovery deadline be, & hereby is granted with a dead line of 9/7/01 FURTHER ORDERED, that pltf's Alternative Motion for leave to depose deft's experts be, & hereby is, granted with a deadline of 9/21/01 ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1131ord+ CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 07-26-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 07-26-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
201	07/20/01	ORDER GRANTING Motion in limine to preclude defendant's expert testimony (renewed), Fld 010723 ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 07-16-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 07-26-2001	0.00	0.00
202	07/20/01	ORDER GRANTING Motion to EXTEND deadline for proponent's Rule 26(b)(4) Statement, Fld 010723 ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mop* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 07-02-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 07-26-2001	0.00	0.00
20	07/18/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-31-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-31-2001	0.00	0.00
204	07/17/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-01-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-01-2001	0.00	0.00
205	07/17/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-01-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-01-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
206	07/17/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-01-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-01-2001	0.00	0.00
207	07/17/01	ANSWER to amended counter claim ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: CAC TDMS EVENT: 1156atc CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 07-25-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 07-25-2001	0.00	0.00
208	07/16/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-01-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 08-01-2001	0.00	0.00
209	07/16/01	PRAECIPE to withdraw ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1121pra CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-31-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-31-2001	0.00	0.00
210	07/12/01	Rule 26(b)(4) statement RECEIVED ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1458rul* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-31-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-31-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
211	07/12/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-30-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-30-2001	0.00	0.00
212	07/11/01	(opp) Motion to EXTEND deadline for proponent's Rule 26(b)(4) Statement ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mop* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 07-16-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 07-16-2001	0.00	0.00
213	07/11/01	Motion in limine to preclude defendant's expert testimony (renewed) ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 07-16-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 07-16-2001	0.00	0.00
214	07/09/01	PRAECIPE to withdraw ENTRY BY: NCRIC INC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1121pra CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-27-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-27-2001	0.00	0.00
215	07/03/01	ORDER GRANTING & DENYING IN PART Motion to dismiss counterclaims, See Lg., Fld 010706 ORDERED, that pltf's motion is GRANTED IN PART & DENIED IN PART, as seth fo rth with particularity above ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1131ord+ CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 07-10-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 07-10-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
216	07/02/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: ncric TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-09-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-09-2001	0.00	0.00
217	07/02/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC INC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-03-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-03-2001	0.00	0.00
218	07/02/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC INC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-03-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-03-2001	0.00	0.00
219	07/02/01	Motion to EXTEND deadline for proponent's Rule 26(b)(4) Statement ENTRY BY: (clerk) TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9203mot* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 07-02-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 07-02-2001	0.00	0.00
220	06/27/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-02-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-02-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
221	06/27/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-02-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 07-02-2001	0.00	0.00
222	06/27/01	Deadline for ruling on DISPOSITIVE motions..... TDMS TYPE: EVS TDMS EVENT: 0332rul CREATED BY/ON: #G22 Bynum, F 01-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #EDD Hariss, 05-02-1988	0.00	0.00
223	06/22/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 06-27-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 06-27-2001	0.00	0.00
224	06/18/01	Witness list RECEIVED ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1457wit* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 06-21-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 06-21-2001	0.00	0.00
225	06/18/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 06-20-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 06-20-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
226	05/27/01	Deadline for filing MOTIONS..... TDMS TYPE: EVS TDMS EVENT: 0323mot CREATED BY/ON: #G22 Bynum, F 01-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #EDD Hariss, 05-02-1988	0.00	0.00
227	05/23/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 05-24-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 05-24-2001	0.00	0.00
228	05/23/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 05-24-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 05-24-2001	0.00	0.00
229	05/18/01	ANSWER to amended complaint ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: CAC TDMS EVENT: 1152aac CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 05-24-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 05-24-2001	0.00	0.00
230	05/16/01	Mots hrg held. Deft Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center Inc's mot to amend sched order granted &, See Lg the scheduling order dated January 12, 2001 is amended to Track IV. Order f ld (Jkt Entry) ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000hrg+ CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-24-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-24-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
231	05/16/01	ORDER GRANTING Motion to AMEND Scheduling Order, See Lg., Fld 010522 ORDER GRANTING Motion to Amend Scheduling Order is hereby GRANTED, & the sc heduling Order dated January 12, 2001 is amended as follows: 1. This case is transferred to Track 4 2. the deadlines for this case are amended to state as follows: Deadline for discovery requests 6/12/01 Exchange Witness Lists: 6/12/01 Proponent's Rule 26(b): 6/26/01 Opponent's Rule 26(b): 7/12/01 for deft/counter pltf 7/26/01 for pltf/couter deft Discovery Closes: 8/12/01 Deadline for filing motons: 8/27/01 Dispositive motions decided: 9/27/01 ADR: 10/12/01- 11/12/01 Pretrial: 30 days ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9201mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 03-14-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-24-2001	0.00	0.00
232	05/12/01	All DISCOVERY CLOSED..... ... TDMS TYPE: EVS TDMS EVENT: 0322dis CREATED BY/ON: #G22 Bynum, F 01-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #EDD Hariss, 05-02-1988	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
233	05/11/01	ORDER GRANTING & DENYING IN PART Motion for More Definite Statement of allegations of fraud, See Lg., Fld 010515 & misrepresentation & motion to strike insufficient defense ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1131ord+ CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-18-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-18-2001	0.00	0.00
234	05/11/01	Set mediation conference for 20010809sw @11:00am TDMS TYPE: SCH TDMS EVENT: 0118bsw1 CREATED BY/ON: #2CJ Wilson, 05-11-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #2CJ Wilson, 05-11-2001	0.00	0.00
235	05/11/01	ORDER DENYING Motion in limine to exclude experts of deft or, in the altern., to compel deft, See Lg., Fld 010515 to provide the answer to interrogatory or supplement its r. 26(b)(4) statem ent & for leave to take depositions of deft's experts ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop+ CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 04-24-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-18-2001	0.00	0.00
236	05/11/01	ORDER GRANTING Motion for protective order regarding confidentiality of documents &, See Lg., Fld 010515 other materials The Protective Order as amended by the Court is attached hereto ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop+ CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 04-06-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-18-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
237	05/07/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC, IN TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 05-10-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 05-10-2001	0.00	0.00
238	05/07/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC, IN TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 05-10-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 05-10-2001	0.00	0.00
239	05/01/01	(opp) Motion in limine to exclude experts of deft or, in the altern., to compel deft to provide the answer to, seelg, ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop+ CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-03-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-03-2001	0.00	0.00
240	05/01/01	Reply memorandum in support of motion to amend scheduling order ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000rep* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-02-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 05-02-2001	0.00	0.00
241	04/30/01	PRAECIPE to change address of Roy Niedermayer counsel for the plaintiff ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1177pra CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 05-07-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 05-07-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
242	04/23/01	sur-reply to deft ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000fin* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 04-24-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 04-24-2001	0.00	0.00
243	04/16/01	Motion in limine to exclude experts of deft or, in the altern., to compel deft to provide the answer to interrogatory, seelg, or supplement its r. 26(b)(4) statement & for leave to take depositions o f deft's experts ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 04-24-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 04-24-2001	0.00	0.00
244	04/12/01	(opp) Motion for protective order regarding confidentiality of documents & other materials ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mop* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 04-20-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 04-20-2001	0.00	0.00
245	04/12/01	OPPONENT'S Rule 26(b) (4) statements due..... TDMS TYPE: EVS TDMS EVENT: 0320opp CREATED BY/ON: #G22 Bynum, F 01-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #EDD Hariss, 05-02-1988	0.00	0.00
246	04/09/01	Reply memorandum in support of motion to compel ENTRY BY: NCRIC Inc TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000rep* CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 04-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 04-12-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
247	04/05/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 04-06-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 04-06-2001	0.00	0.00
248	04/03/01	Motion for protective order regarding confendiality of documents & other materials ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 04-06-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 04-06-2001	0.00	0.00
249	04/03/01	(opp) MOTION to compel discovery by production of documents from defendants TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1189mop CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 03-13-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 11-30-2001	0.00	0.00
250	03/29/01	(opp) MOTION to compel discovery by production of documents from defendants ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1189mop CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 04-03-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 04-03-2001	0.00	0.00
251	03/16/01	PRAECIPE to withdraw ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1121pra CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-22-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-22-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
252	03/15/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-20-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-20-2001	0.00	0.00
253	03/12/01	Motion to AMEND Scheduling Order ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9201mot* CREATED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 03-14-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 03-14-2001	0.00	0.00
254	03/12/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC,INC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-14-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-14-2001	0.00	0.00
255	03/12/01	Witness list RECEIVED ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1457wit* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-14-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-14-2001	0.00	0.00
256	03/12/01	Rule 26(b)(4) statement RECEIVED ENTRY BY: NCRIC Inc TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1458rul* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-14-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-14-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
257	03/12/01	Rule 26(b)(4) statement RECEIVED ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1458rul* CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-14-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-14-2001	0.00	0.00
258	03/12/01	MOTION to compel discovery by production of documents from defendants ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1189mot CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 03-13-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 03-13-2001	0.00	0.00
259	03/12/01	Deadline for DISCOVERY REQUESTS..... TDMS TYPE: EVS TDMS EVENT: 0301dis CREATED BY/ON: #G22 Bynum, F 01-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #EDD Hariss, 05-02-1988	0.00	0.00
260	03/12/01	EXCHANGE lists of fact WITNESSES..... TDMS TYPE: EVS TDMS EVENT: 0318exc CREATED BY/ON: #G22 Bynum, F 01-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #EDD Hariss, 05-02-1988	0.00	0.00
261	03/12/01	PROPONENT'S Rule 26(b) (4) statements due..... TDMS TYPE: EVS TDMS EVENT: 0319pro CREATED BY/ON: #G22 Bynum, F 01-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #EDD Hariss, 05-02-1988	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
262	03/06/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-09-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-09-2001	0.00	0.00
263	03/06/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-09-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 03-09-2001	0.00	0.00
264	02/22/01	(WITHDRAWN 010209) Motion for strike defense & supporting memorandum of points & authorities TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #432 Rogers, 02-05-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 02-12-2001	0.00	0.00
265	02/16/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 02-22-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 02-22-2001	0.00	0.00
266	02/16/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 02-22-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 02-22-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
267	02/09/01	Joint praecipe stating that (1) The Deft will withdraw its pending Motion to strike Defense & (2) Pltf, See Lg will withdraw the Sixth Defense in its Reply of Pltf to Amended Counterclai ms 1 & 2 of Deft. These actions shall both be effective upon the filing of this Joint Praecipe ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104joi+ CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 02-12-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 02-12-2001	0.00	0.00
268	02/07/01	reply memorandum in support of motion of dismiss ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000rep* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 02-09-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 02-09-2001	0.00	0.00
269	02/01/01	Motion for strike defense & supporting memorandum of points & authorities ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #432 Rogers, 02-05-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #432 Rogers, 02-05-2001	0.00	0.00
270	01/27/01	Memorandum of points & authorities in opposition to NCRIC's motion for more definite statement & motion to strike ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000mem* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 01-30-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 01-30-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
271	01/26/01	Supplemental memorandum of pts. & auths. in opp. to pltf's motion to dismiss counterclaims ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000sup* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 01-31-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 01-31-2001	0.00	0.00
272	01/26/01	Memorandum of Points & Authorities in opposition to NCRIC's motion for more definite statement & motion to strike ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000mem* CREATED BY/ON: #432 Rogers, 01-30-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #432 Rogers, 01-30-2001	0.00	0.00
27	01/19/01	Supplemental Memorandum in support of motion to dismiss counterclaim counts 4 & 5 ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000sup* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 01-24-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 01-24-2001	0.00	0.00
274	01/16/01	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC INC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 01-18-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 01-18-2001	0.00	0.00
275	01/12/01	present as indicated on the order. sched. conf. held. T-2 (med). columbia hosp. has until 1-26-00 to respond to pltfs,See lg mtn to dismiss counter claims (jkt entry) ENTRY BY: J/Davis TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000pre+ CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 01-25-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 01-25-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
276	01/12/01	(jsd) Initial SCHEDULING conference @ 9:15am FSDATE: 20010112ss TDMS TYPE: EVT TDMS EVENT: 0296b2H- CREATED BY/ON: #469 Wilson, 10-03-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #G22 Bynum, F 01-17-2001	0.00	0.00
277	01/09/01	(mot) Motion for enlargement of time to respond to counter-deft's motions (Consent) TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 12-19-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #4AU Russell, 04-06-2001	0.00	0.00
278	01/08/01	Memorandum of pts. & auths. in opp. to counter-deft's motion to dismiss counterclaims, motion for a more definite, seelg, statement, & motion to strike ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000mem+ CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 01-29-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 01-29-2001	0.00	0.00
279	01/05/01	AMENDED complaint for damages, chaning the pray amount ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: CAC TDMS EVENT: 1142nac CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 01-17-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 01-17-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
280	01/05/01	Praecipe noting that the parties consent to the filing by pltf of an Amended Complaint (tab 1) & by deft of an, seelg, Amended Answer & Counterclaims (tab 2) in the forms attached hereto pursu ant to SCR 15(a), which pleadings shall be deemed filed & served upon the filing of this Praecipe. This agreement shall not be construed as a waiver by either party of any defense to procedural defects in the opposing party's orig. pleadin g or response ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104pra+ CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 01-16-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 01-16-2001	0.00	0.00
281	01/05/01	ANSWER and counterclaim (amended) ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: CAC TDMS EVENT: 1148awc CREATED BY/ON: #409 Dew, Dor 01-09-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #409 Dew, Dor 01-09-2001	0.00	0.00
282	01/03/01	Praecipe noting that both pltf & deft by counsel consent to the filing by pltf of an amended complaint ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104pra* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 01-09-2001 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 01-09-2001	0.00	0.00
283	12/23/00	(ORDER GRANTING) Motion to dismiss counterclaims, fld 1/3/01, mailed 1/12/01 ENTRY BY: J/Diaz TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1076mot CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 12-12-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 01-12-2001	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
284	12/23/00	(ORDER GRANTING) Motion for more definite statement of allegations of fraud & misrepresentation &, seelg, fld 1/3/01, mld 1/12/01 motion to strike insufficient defense ENTRY BY: J/Diaz TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot+ CREATED BY/ON: #432 Rogers, 12-12-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 01-12-2001	0.00	0.00
285	12/18/00	Motion for enlargement of time to respond to counter-deft's motions (Consent) ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 12-19-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 12-19-2000	0.00	0.00
286	12/11/00	MOTION to dismiss counterclaims ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 1076mot CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 12-12-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 12-12-2000	0.00	0.00
287	12/11/00	Motion for more definite statement of allegations of fraud & misrepresentation & motion to strike insufficient defense ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #432 Rogers, 12-12-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #432 Rogers, 12-12-2000	0.00	0.00
288	12/11/00	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 12-12-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 12-12-2000	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
289	12/11/00	Reply of Pltf to counterclaims 1 & 2 of deft ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000rep* CREATED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 12-12-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #486 Colaire, 12-12-2000	0.00	0.00
290	12/01/00	CERTIFICATE regarding discovery filed ENTRY BY: columbia TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1440cer CREATED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 12-04-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #477 Hartfiel 12-04-2000	0.00	0.00
291	11/29/00	Stipulation for Enlargement of Time for pltf to file motion or responsive pleading to counterclaims of deft, seelg, Pltf shall have up to and including Dec. 11, 2000 within which to file it s responses to deft's Counterclaims ENTRY BY: NCRIC TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 0000sti+ CREATED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 12-06-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #465 Jones, G 12-06-2000	0.00	0.00
292	11/06/00	ANSWER and counterclaim ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: CAC TDMS EVENT: 1148awc CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 11-08-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 11-08-2000	0.00	0.00
293	10/30/00	ORDER GRANTING Motion for enlargement of time to answer and file counterclaims (consent), FLD 11-1-00, MLD 11-6-00 ENTRY BY: J/Diaz TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 10-25-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 11-06-2000	0.00	0.00

2000 CA 007308 B NCRIC INC Vs. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN

No.	Date of	Pleadings Filed, Orders and Decrees Journal Book-Page-Nbr Ref Nbr	Amount Owed/ Amount Dismissed	Balance Due
294	10/24/00	Motion for enlargement of time to answer and file counterclaims (consent) ENTRY BY: Columbia TDMS TYPE: MOT TDMS EVENT: 9103mot* CREATED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 10-25-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 10-25-2000	0.00	0.00
295	10/23/00	Praecipe of Service of Summons By Process Server ENTRY BY: NCRIC, Inc TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 9104pra* CREATED BY/ON: #456 Frye, Ka 10-26-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #456 Frye, Ka 10-26-2000	0.00	0.00
296	10/23/00	AFFIDAVIT of service of summons and complaint by special process server on Columbia Hospital for Women on 10/5/00 ENTRY BY: (clerk) TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1180sps CREATED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 10-26-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #468 Vaughn, 10-26-2000	0.00	0.00
297	10/03/00	ALIAS summons Issued on Nabil Asterbadi, Registered Agent ENTRY BY: (clerk) TDMS TYPE: DOC TDMS EVENT: 1162ali CREATED BY/ON: #456 Frye, Ka 10-04-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #456 Frye, Ka 10-04-2000	0.00	0.00
298	10/03/00	Complaint TDMS TYPE: CAC TDMS EVENT: 9101A01 CREATED BY/ON: #469 Wilson, 10-03-2000 LAST MODIFIED BY/ON: #485 Cox, Kin 12-12-2003	0.00	0.00
		Totals By: Cost	0.00	0.00
		Information	0.00	0.00

 End of Report ***

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC,INC.,

Plaintiff/Counter-Defendant

versus

FILED
CIVIL ACTIONS BRANCH
FEB 20 2004
Superior Court
of the District of Columbia
Washington, D.C.

00ca7308
Calendar Number 03
Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

COLUMBIA HOSPITOL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER,INC.,

Defendant/Counter-Plaintiff

JUDGMENT

This action came on for trial before the Court and a jury, Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby, Superior Court Judge, presiding, and the issues having been duly tried and the jury having duly rendered its verdict, it is this 13th day of February, 2004,

ORDERED

That judgment is hereby entered in favor of the defendant Columbia Hospital For Women Medical Center,Inc.,against the plaintiffs NCRIC,INC., and that the defendant recover of the plaintiffs its costs of action.

FURTHER ORDERED

That the Counter-Claimant COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER,INC.,recover of the counter Defendant NCRIC,INC., The sum of $18,220,002 with interest at the statutory rate and its costs of action.

DUANE E. DELANEY, ESQ.
Clerk of the Court

Jeffrey A. Woodson

Jeffrey A.Woodson,
Deputy Clerk

MAILED FEB 20 2004

cc:

Rodney F.Page,Esq.
Scott M.Badami,Esq.
700 Thirteenth Street,N.W.
Suite 600
Washington,D.C. 20005-3960

Eli C.Schulman,Esq.
Kellogg,Huber,Hanson,Todd & Evans,PLLC
1615 M Street,N.W.,Suite 400
Washington,D.C. 20036

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

RECEIVED
CIVIL CLERK'S OFFICE
FEB 10 2006
SUPERIOR COURT
OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
WASHINGTON, DC

NCRIC, INC.

Plaintiff,

v.

COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC.,

Defendant.

Civil Action No. 00-0007308
Calendar #8

Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

NCRIC'S CONSENT MOTION FOR APPROVAL OF REPLACEMENT SUPERSEDEAS BOND

Plaintiff and Appellant NCRIC, Inc. ("NCRIC"), pursuant to Rules 62 and 62-I of the Superior Court Rules of Civil Procedure, respectfully moves this Court for an order (1) approving a replacement Supersedeas Bond to secure the judgment pending appeal in this action, and (2) directing the Clerk of the Court to release the existing Supersedeas Bond previously approved. Pursuant to Superior Court Civil Rule 12-I, NCRIC has conferred with counsel for Defendant and Appellee Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("CHW") regarding this Motion, and undersigned counsel is authorized to represent that CHW does not oppose this Motion.

As more fully set forth in the accompanying Memorandum of Points and Authorities, NCRIC seeks this Order because (a) the existing Supersedeas Bond is in the amount of $19,500,000; (b) NCRIC's annual renewal of the existing bond, along with premium and associated costs, would be due on March 4, 2006; and (c) NCRIC has secured a replacement bond from another authorized surety in the amount of $20,500,000. Because no party opposes the Motion, and for good cause shown, NCRIC requests that its Motion be granted.

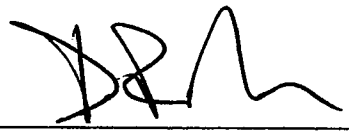
Dated: February 10, 2006

Respectfully submitted,



Elliot E. Polebaum (D.C. Bar. No. 358748)
Douglas W. Baruch (D.C. Bar. No. 414354)
Stephen D. Robinson (D.C. Bar No. 492090)
FRIED, FRANK, HARRIS, SHRIVER
& JACOBSON LLP
1001 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20004
(202) 639-7000

Counsel for NCRIC, Inc.

16d-003488

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC. Plaintiff, v. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC., Defendant.	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8 Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

ORDER REPLACING SUPERSEDEAS BOND

Upon consideration of Plaintiff and Appellant NCRIC, Inc.'s Consent Motion to Replace Supersedeas Bond in this action, and for good cause shown, the Court orders as follows:

WHEREAS, following a trial by jury, this Court entered Judgment in favor of Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. on February 20, 2004; and

WHEREAS, on April 20, 2004, this Court stayed execution of the Judgment pending appeal and approved a Supersedeas Bond in the amount of $19,500,000, issued by an approved surety, Liberty Mutual, to secure the Judgment; and

WHEREAS, on September 30, 2005, this Court denied NCRIC, Inc.'s post-trial motions; and

WHEREAS, on October 26, 2005, NCRIC, Inc. filed a timely Notice of Appeal to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals; and

WHEREAS, NCRIC, Inc.'s appeal is pending review in the Court of Appeals, and

Case: 2000 CA 007308 B
00024202880
DRT: CIVSUA

WHEREAS, NCRIC, Inc. has filed a Motion seeking to replace the Supersedeas Bond issued by Liberty Mutual with a bond in the amount of $20,500,000 issued by The Medical Assurance Company, Inc. (the "Medical Assurance Bond"); and

WHEREAS, the Court is satisfied that the Medical Assurance Bond is issued by an approved surety and is in the correct form and amount; and

WHEREAS, no party will be prejudiced by the issuance of the Replacement Bond; it is hereby

ORDERED, that, upon entry of this Order, the Medical Assurance Bond (as referenced in Exhibit B to NCRIC's Motion) is hereby accepted and approved as the Supersedeas Bond in this action pending appeal; and it is

FURTHER ORDERED, that upon entry of this Order, and submission of the original Medical Assurance Bond to the Clerk of the Court, the Liberty Mutual Bond is released: and it is

FURTHER ORDERED, that upon submission of the original Medical Assurance Bond, the Clerk of the Court shall return the Liberty Mutual Bond to Plaintiff's counsel.

SO ORDERED this 21st day of February 2006

A. Blackburne-Rigsby

The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

16d-003490

Copies to:

Elliot E. Polebaum, Esq.
Douglas W. Baruch, Esq.
Stephen D. Robinson, Esq.
FRIED, FRANK, HARRIS, SHRIVER
& JACOBSON LLP
1001 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20004

Mark C. Hansen, Esq.
Priya R. Aiyar, Esq.
KELLOG, HUBER, HANSEN,
TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W.
Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

MAILED From Chambers FEB 2 4 2005

DOCKETED In Chambers FEB 2 4 2005

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
Civil Division

NCRIC, INC. Plaintiff, v. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC., Defendant.	Civil Action No. 00-0007308 Calendar #8 Judge Blackburne-Rigsby

ORDER REPLACING SUPERSEDEAS BOND

Upon consideration of Plaintiff and Appellant NCRIC, Inc.'s Consent Motion to Replace Supersedeas Bond in this action, and for good cause shown, the Court orders as follows:

WHEREAS, following a trial by jury, this Court entered Judgment in favor of Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. on February 20, 2004; and

WHEREAS, on April 20, 2004, this Court stayed execution of the Judgment pending appeal and approved a Supersedeas Bond in the amount of $19,500,000, issued by an approved surety, Liberty Mutual, to secure the Judgment; and

WHEREAS, on September 30, 2005, this Court denied NCRIC, Inc.'s post-trial motions; and

WHEREAS, on October 26, 2005, NCRIC, Inc. filed a timely Notice of Appeal to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals; and

WHEREAS, NCRIC, Inc.'s appeal is pending review in the Court of Appeals, and

Case: 2000 CA 007308 B
00024202880
DRT: CIVSUA

WHEREAS, NCRIC, Inc. has filed a Motion seeking to replace the Supersedeas Bond issued by Liberty Mutual with a bond in the amount of $20,500,000 issued by The Medical Assurance Company, Inc. (the "Medical Assurance Bond"); and

WHEREAS, the Court is satisfied that the Medical Assurance Bond is issued by an approved surety and is in the correct form and amount; and

WHEREAS, no party will be prejudiced by the issuance of the Replacement Bond; it is hereby

ORDERED, that, upon entry of this Order, the Medical Assurance Bond (as referenced in Exhibit B to NCRIC's Motion) is hereby accepted and approved as the Supersedeas Bond in this action pending appeal; and it is

FURTHER ORDERED, that upon entry of this Order, and submission of the original Medical Assurance Bond to the Clerk of the Court, the Liberty Mutual Bond is released: and it is

FURTHER ORDERED, that upon submission of the original Medical Assurance Bond, the Clerk of the Court shall return the Liberty Mutual Bond to Plaintiff's counsel.

SO ORDERED this 21st day of February 2006

A. Blackburne-Rigsby

The Honorable Anna Blackburne-Rigsby
Superior Court of the District of Columbia

16d-003493

Copies to:

Elliot E. Polebaum, Esq.
Douglas W. Baruch, Esq.
Stephen D. Robinson, Esq.
FRIED, FRANK, HARRIS, SHRIVER
& JACOBSON LLP
1001 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20004

Mark C. Hansen, Esq.
Priya R. Aiyar, Esq.
KELLOG, HUBER, HANSEN,
TODD & EVANS, P.L.L.C.
1615 M Street, N.W.
Suite 400
Washington, D.C. 20036

MAILED From Chambers FEB 2 4 2005

DOCKETED In Chambers FEB 2 4 2005

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

LABORATORY CORPORATION OF AMERICA Plaintiff, v. COLUMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN MEDICAL CENTER, INC., et al. Defendants.	Case No. 2002 CA 004230 C

NOTICE OF BANKRUPTCY FILING

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on January 6, 2009 (the "Petition Date"), Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia Hospital"), defendant in the above-captioned case and the prevailing party in the case styled NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. (D.C. Super., Case No. 2000-CA-007308-B) (the "NCRIC Litigation"), filed its voluntary petition for relief under title 11 of chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Columbia (the "Bankruptcy Court"). Columbia Hospital continues in control and possession of its property as debtor and as debtor-in-possession pursuant to §§ 1107 and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 362 and 541 and 28 U.S.C. § 1334(e)(1), all proceedings against, or with respect to, the judgment in favor of Columbia Hospital in the NCRIC Litigation, as well as any proceeds therefrom or related thereto, are stayed from and after the Petition Date and no such proceedings, including, without limitation, any interpleader, garnishment, attachment, execution or condemnation proceedings, may be commenced or continued unless an order is entered by the Bankruptcy Court amending or terminating such stay to permit the commencement or continuation of such proceeding(s).

Dated: January 13, 2009

/s/ Mary Kim

George R. Pitts (DC Bar No. 417666)
Mary Kim (D.C. Bar. No. 488446)
DICKSTEIN SHAPIRO LLP
1825 Eye Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20006-5403
Tel: (202) 420-2200
Fax: (202) 420-2201
E-mail: pittsg@dicksteinshapiro.com
E-mail: kimm@dicksteinshapiro.com

Counsel for Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that on this 13th day of January 2009, a true and correct copy of the foregoing Notice of Bankruptcy Filing was served by first-class mail, postage prepaid or the Court's e-service system upon the following:

Dennis J. Early, Esq.
Assistant United States Trustee
Office of the United States Trustee
115 South Union St., Plaza Level
Suite 210
Alexandria, VA 22314

Mark Hansen, Esq.
Steven Benz, Esq.
Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, PLLC
1615 M Street, NW
Suite 400
Washington, DC 20036

Anton M. Weiss, Esq.
Pascal & Weiss PC
1008 Pennsylvania Ave SE
Washington, DC 20003-2142

Douglas W. Baruch, Esq.
Eugene N. Hansen, Esq.
Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson LLP
1001 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Suite 800
Washington, DC 20004-2505

Edward J. Krill, Esq.
Carr Maloney P.C.
1615 L Street, NW
Suite 500
Washington, DC 20036

/s/ Mary Kim
Mary Kim

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

NCRIC, Inc., Plaintiff and Counterclaim Defendant, v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc., Defendant and Counterclaim Plaintiff.	Case No. 2000-CA-007308-B

NOTICE OF ORDER GRANTING RELIEF FROM THE AUTOMATIC STAY

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on January 28, 2009, the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Columbia (the "Bankruptcy Court") issued its Order Granting Relief from the Automatic Stay To Allow Debtor's Continued Prosecution of Debtor's Litigation with NCRIC, Inc., Including Appellate and Collections Proceedings Related Thereto, in Case No. 09-0010 (Teel, J.) (attached as Exh. A) ("Lift-Stay Order"). In the Lift-Stay Order, the Bankruptcy Court > ORDERED, that . . . the automatic stay is hereby MODIFIED to permit Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia Hospital") to continue prosecution of its litigation against NCRIC, Inc. (the "NCRIC Litigation") and all proceedings, including appellate and any collection proceedings by Columbia Hospital relating to the NCRIC Litigation or the judgment entered in favor of Columbia Hospital in the NCRIC Litigation by the Superior Court of the District of Columbia in February 2004 (the "NCRIC Judgment") . . . .

Exh. A at 3.

PLEASE TAKE FURTHER NOTICE that, to the best of Defendant/Counterplaintiff's knowledge, the following proceeding "by Columbia Hospital relating to the NCRIC Litigation or the judgment entered in favor of Columbia Hospital in the NCRIC Litigation"[1] remains pending before this Court:

Motion for Assessment of Costs (filed March 26, 2004).[2]

Dated: February 27, 2009

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ Priya R. Aiyar
Steven F. Benz (D.C. Bar No. 428026)
Priya R. Aiyar (D.C. Bar No. 486248)
KELLOGG, HUBER, HANSEN, TODD,
EVANS & FIGEL, P.L.L.C.
Sumner Square
1615 M Street, N.W.
Suite 400
Washington, DC 20036
Tel: 202-326-7900
Fax: 202-326-7999

Counsel for Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.

[1] "NCRIC Litigation" refers to the above-captioned matter, NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc., Case No. 2000-CA-007308.

[2] The responsive briefs are NCRIC's Opposition to Columbia's Motion for Assessment of Costs (April 7, 2004); and Columbia's Reply in Support of Motion for Assessment of Costs (April 20, 2004).

16d-003499

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that on this 27th day of February 2009, a true and correct copy of the foregoing Notice of Order Granting Relief from the Automatic Stay was served by first-class mail, postage prepaid and by the Court's Electronic Filing System upon the following:

Martha L. Davis, Esq.
Assistant United States Trustee
Office of the United States Trustee
115 South Union St., Plaza Level
Suite 210
Alexandria, Virginia 22314

NCRIC, Inc.
c/o Daniel E. Loeb
Douglas W. Baruch
Eugene Hansen
Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson LLP
1001 Pennsylvania Ave., NW, Suite 800
Washington, D.C. 20004

/s/ Ashley M. Japngie
Ashley M. Japngie

Exhibit A

The order below is signed with the words "All parties on the Courts ECF service list" stricken from the list of entities to receive the order. Dated: January 28, 2009.

S. Martin Teel, Jr.
U.S. Bankruptcy Judge

IN THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

In re:	)
Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.,	)	Case No. 09-0010 (Teel, J.)
	)	Chapter 11
Debtor and Debtor in Possession.	)

ORDER GRANTING RELIEF FROM THE AUTOMATIC STAY TO ALLOW DEBTOR'S CONTINUED PROSECUTION OF DEBTOR'S LITIGATION WITH NCRIC, INC., INCLUDING APPELLATE AND COLLECTIONS PROCEEDINGS RELATED THERETO

UPON consideration of Debtor Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.'s Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay to Allow Continued Prosecution of Debtor's Litigation With NCRIC, Inc., Including Appellate and Collections Proceedings Relating Thereto (the "Motion"), the opposition thereto filed by GFS Holdings, Inc. fka Heller Healthcare Finance, Inc. ("GE") and the responses thereto filed by Scott D. Field, Chapter 7 Trustee for the Estate of Cynthia D. Sadler, M.D. and Watkins & Assmann Consulting LLC, and the joinder in open court, to the Opposition of GE, by Laboratory Corporation of America, and Karin M.

Barnes, individually and as next friend of Kobe Williams, a minor (collectively, "Barnes"), Artulies K. Smith, individually and as mother and next friend of Marcel D.L. Broadie, a minor (collectively, "Smith") and Michelle and Bryan Hutchinson, individually, and as parents and next friends of Kiernan Hutchinson (collectively, "Hutchinson"), and having heard the arguments of counsel at a hearing convened on January 14, 2009, including the argument of GE, joined by Laboratory Corporation of America, Barnes, Smith and Hutchinson, that the Court should defer ruling on this matter until it rules on GE's pending motion to dismiss or, alternatively, grant relief from stay, and good cause having been shown, it is hereby ORDERED, that the various Objections of GE, Laboratory Corporation of America, and the aforesaid Barnes, Smith and Hutchinson are all OVERRULED, and it is further,

ORDERED, that the Motion be, and the same hereby is, GRANTED; and it is further

ORDERED, that, subject to the requirements set forth in the decretal paragraphs below, the automatic stay is hereby MODIFIED to permit Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia Hospital") to continue prosecution of its litigation against NCRIC, Inc. (the "NCRIC Litigation") and all proceedings, including appellate and any collection proceedings by Columbia Hospital relating to the NCRIC Litigation or the judgment entered in favor of Columbia Hospital in the NCRIC Litigation by the Superior Court of the District of Columbia in February 2004 (the "NCRIC Judgment"); and it is further

ORDERED, that, except as expressly provided in the foregoing decretal paragraph, the automatic stay shall remain in full force and effect as to all proceedings with respect to the NCRIC Judgment, including without limitation, any execution, collection, condemnation, or garnishment proceedings relating to the NCRIC Litigation or the NCRIC Judgment by any creditor of Columbia Hospital or party-in-interest in this bankruptcy case as well as that certain interpleader action filed by NCRIC in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, Civil Action No. 09-cv-00016; and it is further

ORDERED, that the relief granted herein is not intended to prejudice, and shall be without prejudice to, any valid prepetition lien or other rights in the proceeds of the NCRIC Judgment; and it is further

ORDERED, that the relief ordered herein is not intended as, and shall not be deemed, a substitute for a turnover proceeding initiated by Columbia Hospital and Columbia Hospital shall not accept any proceeds of the NCRIC Judgment except after notice and an opportunity to be heard afforded to all creditors and parties in interest in this bankruptcy case and upon terms and conditions approved by further order of the Court; and it is further ORDERED, that this Order shall be effective immediately upon entry and the ten day stay of the effectiveness of this Order provided by Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 4001(a)(1) is hereby terminated.

Copies to:

Dennis J. Early, Esq.
Assistant United States Trustee
Office of the United States Trustee
115 South Union St., Plaza Level
Suite 210
Alexandria, Virginia 22314

George R. Pitts, Esq.
Dickstein Shapiro LLP
1825 Eye Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20006

Michael M. Barch, Liquidating Trustee of
Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc.
8101 Glenbrook Road
Bethesda, Maryland 20814

NCRIC, Inc.
c/o Douglas W. Baruch, Esq.
Daniel E. Loeb, Esq.
Eugene N. Hansen, Esq.
Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson
1001 Pennsylvania Ave., NW, Suite 800
Washington, DC 20004

All parties on the Court's ECF service list

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA
CIVIL DIVISION

NCRIC, INC.,

v. 2000 CA 7308

COLOMBIA HOSPITAL FOR WOMEN
MEDICAL CENTER, INC.

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANT'S MOTION FOR ASSESSMENT OF COSTS

The purpose of this order is to adjudicate the defendant's Motion for Assessment of Costs, filed on April 5, 2004. The plaintiff filed an Opposition, and the defendant filed a Reply. This motion has been pending for a significant period of time because of an appeal and because of an automatic bankruptcy stay. The record now reflects that on February 27, 2009 defendant filed a Notice of Order Granting Relief from the Automatic Stay. This motion is now in a posture for resolution.

Background of the Litigation. The history of the present litigation is set forth in great detail in the appellate decision published as NCRIC, Inc. v. Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc., 957 A.2d 890 (D.C. 2008).

In a nutshell, the case is summarized as follows. NCRIC, Inc. was at all times relevant a provider of medical malpractice insurance for District of Columbia physicians.

In October 2000, it sued the Columbia Hospital for Women Medical Center, Inc. ("Columbia") for breach of their insurance contract.

> Columbia counterclaimed, alleged, inter alia, that NCRIC breached the contract and also tortiously interfered with Columbia's business relations with its physicians. After a two-week trial, a jury rejected NCRIC's claim and found in favor of Columbia on its counterclaims. The jury awarded Columbia damages of $220,002 on its breach of contract claims and $18 million on its tortious interference claim.

Id. at 890.

In the original judgment, the Hon. Anna Blackburne-Rigsby stated that Columbia is to be awarded its costs. At this juncture, this Court's role is to determine the dollar amount of those costs so as to fashion a final award.

Relief Sought in the Motion. Defendant seeks an award of $35,896.83 in litigation costs. Those costs fall into the following categories: (1) witness fees and witness-travel expenses ($533.50); (2) court fees ($400.00); (3) deposition costs ($10,886.45); (4) photocopying costs ($20,859.35); and (5) delivery costs inclusive of service of process expenses ($3,217.53).

In support of its motion, defendant attached to the motion an affidavit executed by Eli C. Schulman, an attorney with the firm of Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd & Evans, P.L.L.C. This firm represented the defendant in the litigation. The affidavit contains an important Attachment, which is a detailed Statement of Costs broken into multiple categories and subcategories.

Legal Principles Regarding Award of Costs. As a foundation for exercising its discretion, the Court has considered helpful case law on the subject of how costs should be assessed in favor of a prevailing party. That case law, though not exhaustive, includes the following principles.

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals has stated, "The award of costs to the prevailing party under Super.Ct.Civ. R.54 (d) is 'within the trial court's discretion and may only be overturned upon our finding that the exercise of such discretion was an abuse.'" Kleiman v. Aetna Cas. & Sur. Co., 581 A.2d 1263, 1267 (D.C. 1990) (quoting Ingber v. Ross, 479 A.2d 1256, 1265 (D.C. 1984)).

Further, the trial court's discretion "lies in whether or not to award as costs items specifically authorized by 28 U.S.C. 1920 (1994) or by other statutes (or court rule). Talley v. Varma, 689 A.2d 547, 555 (D.C. 1997); see Crawford Fitting Co. v. J.T. Gibbons, Inc., 482 U.S. 437, 442-45 (1987) (interpreting Fed.R.Civ.P. 54(d), the federal counterpart to Super.Ct.Civ.R.54 (d).

Although the Superior Court Civil Rules do not elaborate explicitly on what constitutes "costs," the Court of Appeals has summarized the defining principles, saying > Costs [are understood in the law] . . . to mean something less than a litigant's total expenses in connection with the suit. Court fees and witness fees ordinarily are recoverable but, absent unusual circumstances, the parties must bear their personal expenses . . . . The authority of a court to assess a particular item as costs is partly a matter of statute (or court rule), and partly a matter of custom, practice, and usage.

Robinson v. Howard University, 455 A.2d 1363, 1368-69 (D.C. 1983) (citations omitted). "Costs which have been paid to the Clerk and entered on the docket are ordinarily allowed as a matter of course, but other costs, such as witness fees and costs of depositions must be taxed specially by the court." Talley v. Varma, supra, at 555; Panos v. Nefflen, 205 A.2d 600, 601-02 (D.C. 1964).

The categories of costs that tend to fuel disputes are (1) duplication and copying, (2) depositions, and (3) witness fees (both experts and others). It is useful to recapitulate the applicable law in each category, so as to apply the law to a particular demand for costs.

Duplication and Copying. On this subject, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals has approved and adopted the analytical approach of a trial judge who considered this subject in detail, in a published opinion. The trial court opinion is Burns v. Greater Southeast Community Hosp., 119 Daily Wash.L. Rptr. 1869 (D.C. Super.Ct. July 11, 1991) (Levie, J.). The Court of Appeals has endorsed and adopted the substance of that decision. Talley v. Varma, supra, at 555. In a nutshell, the Court of Appeals has determined that "the prevailing party may recover the costs of obtaining and copying records and other material necessary for case preparation and presentation. Id. at 555.

In Talley, the Court of Appeals affirmed the trial court's decision to deny most of the requests for copying expenses, because Varma failed to establish that all of the copies were necessary. In doing so, the appellate court examined the particular discretionary disposition of this issue. It affirmed the trial judge's decision to award only the lump sum of $500.00 for duplication and copying, where the judge found that "some copying was obviously necessary to provide courtesy copies to the court," even where the party had otherwise failed to demonstrate the need for such copies in preparing its own case. Id. at 556. Thus, the trial court has broad discretion to figure out whether the explanation of necessity is convincing, and whether to award a nominal sum as a method of adjudicating this particular kind of request.

Deposition Costs. Generally, the taxing of the expenses of depositions may be done as a discretionary matter, if the deposition was necessary for case preparation. See Kleiman, supra, at 1267. However, the Court of Appeals has reiterated that the trial court may award such expenses as costs only after making its own, independent assessment of whether the depositions were necessary for that party's own case preparation. Talley v. Varma, supra, at 556. "[T]he test is whether the deposition was necessary, not whether the requesting party alleges it was necessary." Id. To the extent that the discretion of the trial court must be based upon the quality of the record, it is clear that a party's failure to provide any explanatory detail as to the necessity for a deposition may well leave the trial judge no choice but to deny such costs, rather than relying on guesswork.

Witness Fees. "The awarding of witness fees is controlled by Super.Ct.Civ.R. 54-I (a), which requires proof of the attendance of witnesses by certificate of the attorney of record." Talley v. Varma, supra, at 556.

Where non-expert witness fees are concerned, they are certainly compensable. In fact, the party claiming such reimbursement need not even prove that the witness actually testified as long as securing the appearance of the witness was reasonably necessary. The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit has held, "The issue is not whether [the witness] was in fact called to testify, but whether [claimant's] counsel made a good faith and reasonable judgment about the need for [the witness] at trial." Quy v. Air America, Inc., 215 U.S.App.D.C. 181, 187, 667 F.2d 1059, 1065 (1981); see also Nissho-Iwai Co., Ltd. v. Occidental Crude Sales, Inc., 729 F.2d 1530, 1552-53 (5th Cir. 1984) (holding that costs should be reimbursed for a rebuttal witness held in reserve, whose testimony ultimately was not necessary).

Delivery and Service of Process Expenses. Such costs are compensable. Camper v. Stewart-Lange, 782 A.2d 762, 763 (D.C. 2001). See further discussion, infra.

Analysis of the Motion. As a threshold matter, the Court has looked closely at the plaintiff's suggestion that this Court should reconsider the trial court's original decision to award costs. This suggestion appears in the first footnote of the Opposition. The request appears to be founded upon the broader argument that the defendant was not actually a prevailing party at all. In its Opposition, the plaintiff posits that the defendant does not deserve to be treated as a prevailing party because portions of its 11-count Counterclaim were unsuccessful. The law does not specify how much of a Counterclaim must survive a trial before a defendant is considered to have "prevailed." However, this Court sees no room for quibbling on the unique facts of this case. First, the plaintiff's claim was defeated altogether. Second, the jury awarded money damages to the defendant in two distinct respects, one of which merited damages of $18 million. Any claimant who achieves a jury verdict of this magnitude cannot be dismissed as not "prevailing." Plaintiff's suggestion to the contrary is frivolous.

The points raised in the Opposition in some respects raise worthwhile questions. On the whole, however, the responses found in the Reply weigh against a large-scale denial of relief. The Court has made its own independent review of the motion, in any event. The Court makes the following dispositions of each category in which costs are sought.

Witness Fees. In the instant case, the plaintiff challenges only the fees for one witness. That individual was a classic rebuttal witness whose testimony was eventually not needed. In light of his role in the case, the Court is satisfied that expending a witness fee to secure his appearance was reasonable. The fact that he literally did not testify at trial should not preclude the reimbursement.

Court Fees. The plaintiff does not tender any reason why the Court should not grant relief as to ordinary court filings fees, and the Court will approve payment for such costs.

Deposition Costs. The deposition costs can be separated into three groups: (1) deposition costs for which there is no opposition, per plaintiff's filing; (2) depositions noticed by NCRIC and which obviously required the participation of defense counsel; and (3) two depositions of necessary witnesses.

While the plaintiff does not address this point, the Court is impressed with defendant's observation that many of the depositions that spawned compensable costs were actually depositions that were not discretionary for the defendant. This was due to the fact that the plaintiff noticed the depositions. In those circumstances, the Court cannot logically deny an award of costs against the plaintiff.

In its Reply, the defendant makes a specific explanation as to why it was necessary to depose the two remaining individuals: Grant Sohm and William Burgess. For the sake of brevity, the Court will not repeat those explanations. It suffices to say that they were most certainly necessary to investigating the case and preparing an effective defense.

For all of these reasons, the entire amount sought for the costs of depositions will be awarded.

Photocopying costs. The Court pays particular attention to the large sum of money attributable to copying costs. The approach of the plaintiff is to urge the Court to use one of two arbitrary means of adjudicating this issue: either award only a nominal sum of $500.00 (five hundred dollars) or reduce this particular claim by two-thirds, based solely on the fact that most parts of the Counterclaim were not successful. The Court cannot responsibly rely on either suggestion, for several reasons. One, given the complexity of this litigation, it would be capricious for the Court to award only $500.00 for copying many thousands of pages of discovery materials, not even counting court filings and service copies of such. Two, the Court rejects the notion that some numerical total of claims is a fair barometer of how much copying is compensable. The law does not prescribe any such formula, and using one would be too arbitrary to be a sound exercise of discretion. Instead, the Court looks to the overall reasonableness of the copying burden on this defendant in the practical context of the case itself.

In this case, it is no surprise that copying costs are substantial. The defendant not only had to prepare documents as responses to discovery requests, the defendant also had to prepare trial exhibits, books of exhibits for the jurors and the trial judge, in addition to copying material used by the opposing party. Obviously, the costs associated with those functions were necessary.

In its Reply, the defendant elaborates on why the copying charges are so high. One of the most useful points, according to the defendant's affiant, is that defendant was required to copy materials "such as loose papers, bound papers, stapled papers, and tabbed papers, that are not easily fed through a copier and therefore are charged at rates almost double the general eight to ten cents copying charge." Reply at 6. In fact, the Court is constrained to observe that with the advent of electronic filing in the Civil Division of the Superior Court, many parties are hobbled by not being able to file certain documents with the Court through any Internet provider, for the same reasons identified by the defendant, i.e. having to submit for hand-scanning items that are bound, tabbed, and otherwise unwieldy. For this reason, the Court should be fair to litigants who confront these challenges, whether they arise in the Court filing process or in discovery.

Ironically, since this case involved a malpractice insurer, counsel for the defendant chose to be careful in representing its own client by being sure to copy a "master copy set of documents before producing them" Reply at 6. This was truly a wise approach, and the defendant should not be punished for being appropriately careful.

The Court concludes that the entire sum claimed for copying costs is reasonable under the particular circumstances of this case, and such costs shall be compensable.

Delivery and Service of Process Costs. The costs in this category are a blend of the expenses incurred in service of process and expenses of delivering papers to the Court and opposing counsel.

The plaintiff asks the Court to deny this entire claim altogether, simply because delivery costs are not specifically cited as compensable costs in Rule 54. Strangely, the plaintiff suggests that this Court should ignore the appellate ruling on this subject in Camper v. Stewart-Lange, supra. The plaintiff does not realistically explain why this decision should be ignored except for the fact that it is only "one page" in length. Opposition at 7.

The length of a published appellate decision is certainly not a measure of how important it is. It would be disrespectful to the Court of Appeals for this Court to use that concept as its own basis for exercising discretion. Indeed, as short as it is, this particular appellate decision is utterly focused on the very issue at hand. The District of Columbia Court of Appeals specifically confronted the question whether a prevailing party is entitled to an award of costs for delivery and service of process expenses. Having determined that the litigant was entitled to an award of costs for photocopying (a separate issue in the case), the Court of Appeals stated the following:

> [S]ince this court has never addressed whether delivery and service costs are recoverable, we turn to that question now.
>
> 'The authority of a court to assess a particular item as costs is partly a matter of statute (or court rule), and partly a matter of custom, practice, and usage.' We are aware of no statute or rule that disallows these costs, and while mindful of the Supreme Court's admonition to tax costs sparingly in the absence of a statutory authorization, we also note that a majority of the United States Courts of Appeals allow recovery for such expenses. We join them, and hold that respondents may recover their delivery and service costs of $40.13 and direct applicant to pay respondents a total of $109.53 in costs.

Camper v. Stewart-Lange, supra, at 763 (citations and quotation omitted) (emphasis added).

Without question, the defendant herein is entitled to an award of costs for the expenses incurred for service of process and delivery of papers and filings.

WHEREFORE, it is by the Court this 17th day of March 2009

ORDERED that defendant's Motion for Assessment of Costs is granted; and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the sum of $35,896.83 is awarded to defendant as costs and shall be added to the money judgment already docketed.

Cheryl M. Long
Judge

Copies sent to:

Eli C. Shulman, Esq. [counsel for defendant]
Scott M. Badami, Esq. [counsel for plaintiff]