or' possum. He finally went behind some shrubs out of my sight. They operate in the dark. They are just like the Devil, they don't like the light. Now, I'm not a Devil hunter; I don't look under every rock for him. But neither do I hide my head under the sand and pretend he's not around. He is not playing games for fun, he plays for keeps.

The Bible is not silent about this enemy. We are not to be afraid of him. The Bible gives us the war plan.

After the Apostle Paul gave us the instructions of how to put on the armor of God, his final words to insure us victory after we had put on the whole armor of God, was to pray in the spirit.

I hope that ol' possum found something to eat. I don't like for anything to go hungry.

A CLOSER LOOK AT MIKE BOGGS

Mike Boggs, a graduate of Georgia Southern University and Mercer University School of Law, practices law in Ware County. His law practice focuses primarily on family law and real estate issues. In 1999, Mike was elected as president of the Waycross Area Bar Association. Prior to law school, Mike worked for Ware County's former United States Congressman, J. Roy Rowland in his Washington, D. C. office for two years. Mike worked as a legislative assistant where he met routinely with State and Federal lobbyist, drafted laws, and attended committee hearings on matters affecting Ware County. Mike knows first hand the importance of listening to the concerns of the citizens of Ware County, and helped arrange Congressman Rowland's Town Hall meetings with the people of Ware County from 1985-1987. Mike is married to Heather Haynes, a public school teacher, daughter of Porky and Becky Haynes, and he and Heather reside in Ware County.

"IT'S TIME FOR A CONSERVATIVE, COMMON SENSE & AGGRESSIVE APPROACH TO GOVERNMENT."
"...an approach based on personal responsibility, hard work, traditional values, and community service. I have chosen to become actively involved in many varied areas of our community through volunteer community service. I believe a true leader must firstly demonstrate a commitment to his community prior to asking to represent it's citizens. I have chosen to become involved and have learned through this service the many needs of our community. An aggressive, common sense approach to resolving these needs will stimulate economic growth, improve our public education services, stimulate continued growth in our medical community, reduce crime, and result in continuing to make Ware County a wonderful place to live and raise our families."

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

"As a member of the Waycross-Ware County Chamber of Commerce. I well know the needs of our community in attracting quality industry to Ware County. I have made it my business to educate myself on issues of economic growth. We are on the right track but need continued educated and aggressive economic recruitment."

The Problem

...The S

Mike Boggs Will Fight for Parental Involvement, and Hi

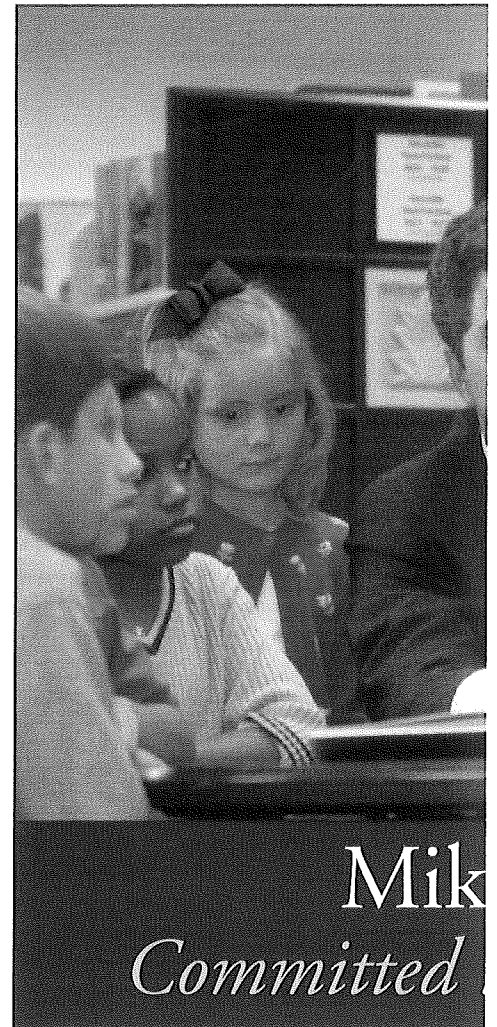

Here's the problem: too many of our public school students aren't performing up to grade levels. Too many are still falling behind. Go-along, get-along politicians are like an educational death sentence for our kids. It's going to take guts and real leadership to turn our schools around.

Meet Mike Boggs...the real solution for smaller class sizes in our children's schools.

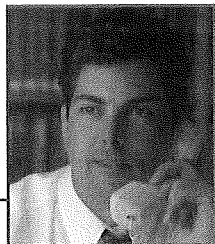

A Son-in-Law of Lifetime Educators

Mike Boggs is on the board at the YMCA and his wife Heather teaches kindergarten and was "Teacher of the Year" at Ruskin Elementary. He knows firsthand how important stronger standards, smaller class sizes,

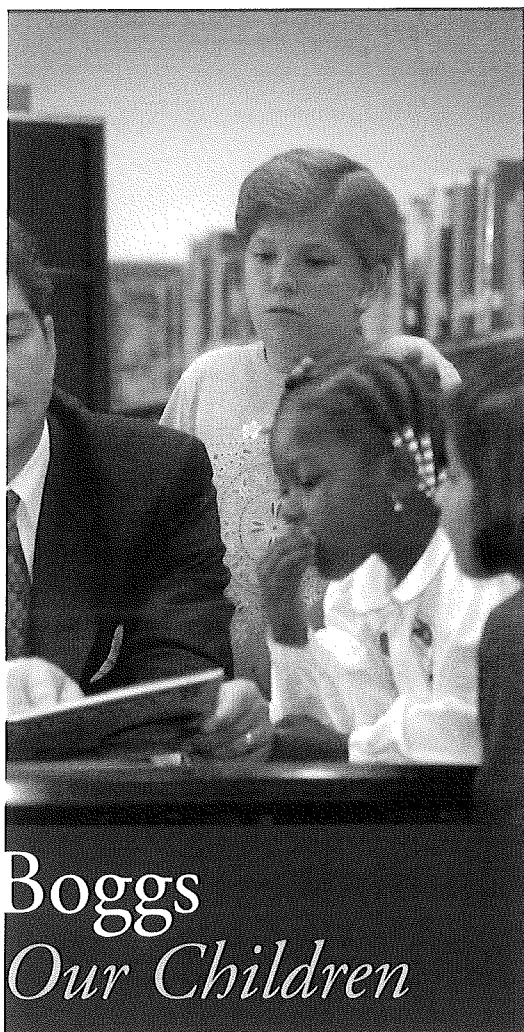

Mike
Committed

olution

Reduced Class Sizes, More Higher Standards in Our Schools

and more individual attention can be to our children's future. It's no secret: schools must improve. That starts with discipline and accountability. In the State House Mike will vote to involve parents in their children's education and to make it easier for teachers and principals to remove disruptive kids.

Respect & Decency

But what good is an education if it doesn't teach our children how to be better citizens? Mike will fight for legislation that gets important values like respect and decency back in the classroom. And you can bet he'll continue to protect and preserve the HOPE Scholarship and to expand the PROMISE Scholarship so more kids can afford college.

Elect Mike Boggs for State Representative on Tuesday, November 7th

Our children can't wait for better schools. Their future is now. Mike Boggs understands. A Family Man Who's Committed to Our Children. Elect him on Tuesday, November 7th.
