

Dear Senator Grassley,

The actions taken by the Senate Judiciary Committee and you as Chairman over the past four years are nothing less than remarkable, and for that, I and my family, and many friends impacted by collaboration of the Swiss banks with the Nazis are immensely grateful.

Bringing to light significant historical facts through a congressional hearing is not only historic but presents us all with an opportunity to understand past events more fully.

Indeed, it is an opportunity to clarify history and ensure that future generations can access documented truths about historical collaborations through a public repository.

Importantly, it is also an opportunity to demand both bold and significant accountability where deception has occurred over many decades.

Thank you, thank you, thank you.
