MEMORANDUM FOR WHITE HOUSE OFFICE STAFF
OFFICE OF POLICY DEVELOPMENT STAFF
NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL STAFF

FROM: ALBERTO R. GONZALES, COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT: NATIONAL COMMISSION ON TERRORIST ATTACKS "EOP

Please read this entire memorandum carefully. It deals with legal obligations that apply to you.

The National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States ("Commission") was established in the legislative branch, principally to inquire into, and report to the President and Congress on, the terrorists attacks of September 11, 2001 and the extent of U.S. preparedness for and immediate response to the attacks (Public Law 107-306, November 27, 2002). The Executive Office of the President (EOP) is cooperating with the Commission effort, consistent with the policy set forth in the memorandum of March 19, 2003 from the President's Chief of Staff.

The Commission has submitted "EOP Document Request No. 2" (attached) seeking executive materials from the EOP. The first category of materials sought by "EOP Document Request No. 2" will be the subject of a separate memorandum. The remaining categories are:

2. The President's Daily Diary for September 11, 2001, and logs from the White House Situation Room, the Presidential Emergency Operations Center (PEOC), and the White House Military Office for September 11, 2001.
3. Contemporaneous notes of individuals present in the PEOC or accompanying the President on September 11, 2001, including notes of White House officials other than the President.
4. The briefing materials prepared or compiled by White House staff and distributed to attendees for; any summaries prepared or compiled by White House staff and distributed to attendees of the discussions held at and/or conclusions emerging from; and any minutes prepared or compiled by White House staff of meetings at the principals or deputies level, including the Domestic Consequences Principals Committee, from September 11 through September 20, 2001 that concerned domestic policy responses to the terrorist attacks upon the United States.
5. Information sufficient to describe the activation and implementation of continuity of operations and emergency response plans and measures for the White House complex on September 11, 2001.

You must complete the following steps expeditiously:

1. Search for all materials you possess or control that fall within any of the categories set forth above. Your search for materials must be reasonable, diligent, and conducted in good faith, and must include any materials which may previously have been sent to the Office of Records Management. Retrieve all materials that fall within any of the categories set forth above and photocopy them.
2. Complete the attached certification, attach any photocopies produced under Step 1, and submit the certification and photocopies to Elizabeth Farrell 456-5942, EEOB Room 154, as early as possible but in all events not later than the close of business on Monday, June 16, 2003. NSC staff should submit their signed certification, along with any photocopies produced under Step 1, to William Leary, in the NSC Records Directorate, EEOP Room 392, 456-9201, as early as possible but in all events not later than the close of business on Monday, June 16, 2003.

Also, please be aware that we anticipate additional Commission requests for information concerning the extent of U.S. preparedness for and immediate response to the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001. It is important that you and your staff preserve all records which may potentially be responsive to this or a future request.

Please call Jennifer Newstead, Associate White House Counsel, at 456-1984, if you have any questions. Thank you for your assistance.

CERTIFICATION BY EMPLOYEE

EOP DOCUMENT REQUEST No. 2

The National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States (the "Commission") requests that the Executive Office of the President (the "respondent") provide the Commission with the following documents and information no later than June 25, 2003 (the "production date"). The Commission requests that the respondent inform the Commission promptly if the production date poses a problem for certain categories of documents, such as documents from the previous Administration that may be in the custody of the National Archives and Records Administration, and meet promptly with the Commission staff to set a schedule for the production of those documents.

1. The briefing materials prepared or compiled by NSC staff and distributed to attendees for; any summaries prepared or compiled by NSC staff and distributed to attendees of the discussions held at and/or conclusions emerging from; and any minutes prepared or compiled by NSC staff of Principals and Deputies Committee meetings held from January 1, 1998, through September 20, 2001 that concerned:

- (a) Al-Qa'ida, Usama bin Laden, and/or Afghanistan;
- (b) the policy and budget development, implementation, or review of the overall counterterrorism policies of the United States, including PDD-62 (1998), the Five Year Counterterrorism Plan, and any successor NSPDs; and/or
- (c) counterterrorism issues involving threats to or attacks on the United States or American persons or assets in relations with Malaysia, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Sudan, the United Arab Emirates, and Yemen, other than materials that focus only on Palestinian terrorist activities.

Principals meetings include any such meeting whether chaired by the President or by the National Security Adviser. This request applies to principals or deputies level meetings addressing these topics wholly or in part regardless of the title used for the group or whether conducted in person or by SVTS, including meetings of the "Foreign Policy Team," the "Small Group," and the Counterterrorism Security Group (including CSG meetings chaired by the National Coordinator), as well as relevant meetings at Camp David.

2. The President's Daily Diary for September 11, 2001, and logs from the White House Situation Room, the Presidential Emergency Operations Center (PEOC), and the White House Military Office for September 11, 2001.

3. Contemporaneous notes of individuals present in the PEOC or accompanying the President on September 11, 2001, including notes of White House officials other than the President. (A request for such documents directed to the Office of the Vice President will be submitted separately.)
4. The briefing materials prepared or compiled by White House staff and distributed to attendees for; any summaries prepared or compiled by White House staff and distributed to attendees of the discussions held at and/or conclusions emerging from; and any minutes prepared or compiled by White House staff of meetings at the principals or deputies level, including the Domestic Consequences Principals Committee, from September 11 through September 20, 2001, that concerned domestic policy responses to the terrorist attacks upon the United States.
5. Information sufficient to describe the activation and implementation of continuity of operations and emergency response plans and measures for the White House complex on September 11, 2001.

The Commission requests that the documents requested above be provided as soon as they are available, even though all requested documents may not be provided at the same time, through means of a "rolling" production.

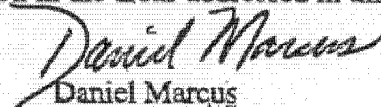

If any requested documents are withheld from production, even temporarily, based on an alleged claim of privilege or for any other reason, the Commission requests that the respondent, as soon as possible and in no event later than the production date, identify and describe each such document or class of documents, as well as the alleged basis for not producing it, with sufficient specificity to allow a meaningful challenge to any such withholding.

If the respondent does not have possession, custody or control of any requested documents but has information about where such documents may be located, the Commission requests that the respondent provide such information as soon as possible and in no event later than the production date.

If the respondent has any questions or concerns about the interpretation or scope of these document requests, the Commission requests that any such questions or concerns be raised with the Commission as soon as possible so that any such issues can be addressed and resolved prior to the production date.

The Commission intends to make further document requests as its work develops and reserves the right to request additional documents and information in the areas addressed in this request.

MEMORANDUM FOR WHITE HOUSE OFFICE STAFF

FROM: ALBERTO R. GONZALES, COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

Please read this entire memorandum carefully. It deals with legal obligations that apply to you.

The National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States ("Commission") was established in the legislative branch, principally to inquire into, and report to the President and Congress on, the terrorists attacks of September 11, 2001 and the extent of U.S. preparedness for and immediate response to the attacks (Public Law 107-306, November 27, 2002). The Executive Office of the President (EOP) is cooperating with the Commission effort, consistent with the policy set forth in the memorandum of March 19, 2003 from the President's Chief of Staff.

The Commission has submitted "EOP Document Request No. 2" (attached) seeking executive materials from the EOP. The first category of materials sought by "EOP Document Request No. 2" will be the subject of a separate memorandum. The remaining categories are:

2. The President's Daily Diary for September 11, 2001, and logs from the White House Situation Room, the Presidential Emergency Operations Center (PEOC), and the White House Military Office for September 11, 2001.
3. Contemporaneous notes of individuals present in the PEOC or accompanying the President on September 11, 2001, including notes of White House officials other than the President.
4. The briefing materials prepared or compiled by White House staff and distributed to attendees for; any summaries prepared or compiled by White House staff and distributed to attendees of the discussions held at and/or conclusions emerging from; and any minutes prepared or compiled by White House staff of meetings at the principals or deputies level, including the Domestic Consequences Principals Committee, from September 11 through September 20, 2001 that concerned domestic policy responses to the terrorist attacks upon the United States.
5. Information sufficient to describe the activation and implementation of continuity of operations and emergency response plans and measures for the White House complex on September 11, 2001.

You must complete the following steps expeditiously:

1. Search for all materials you possess or control that fall within any of the categories set forth above. Your search for materials must be reasonable, diligent, and conducted in good faith, and must include any materials which may previously have been sent to the Office of Records Management. Retrieve all materials that fall within any of the categories set forth above and photocopy them.
2. Complete the attached certification, attach any photocopies produced under Step 1, and submit the certification and photocopies to Elizabeth Farrell 456-5942, EEOB Room 154, as early as possible but in all events not later than the close of business on Monday, June 16, 2003. NSC staff should submit their signed certification, along with any photocopies produced under Step 1, to William Leary, in the NSC Records Directorate, EEOP Room 392, 456-9201, as early as possible but in all events not later than the close of business on Monday, June 16, 2003.

Also, please be aware that we anticipate additional Commission requests for information concerning the extent of U.S. preparedness for and immediate response to the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001. It is important that you and your staff preserve all records which may potentially be responsive to this or a future request.

Please call Jennifer Newstead, Associate White House Counsel, at 456-1984, if you have any questions. Thank you for your assistance.

CERTIFICATION BY EMPLOYEE

(in response to "EOP Document Request No. 2" dated June 4, 2003 from the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States) (Check one item as appropriate, sign, and date, and submit to the Office of the Counsel to the President by June 16, 2003)

_____ I certify that I performed a reasonable, diligent, and good faith search of all the materials in my possession or control for materials responsive to National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States' "EOP Document Request No. 2" dated June 4, 2003 and have produced with this certification photocopies of all such responsive documents to the Office of the Counsel to the President.

_____ I certify that I performed a reasonable, diligent, and good faith search of all the materials in my possession or control for materials responsive to National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States' "EOP Document Request No. 2" dated June 4, 2003 and have no such documents.

EOP DOCUMENT REQUEST No. 2

The National Commission on Terrorist Attacks Upon the United States (the "Commission") requests that the Executive Office of the President (the "respondent") provide the Commission with the following documents and information no later than June 25, 2003 (the "production date"). The Commission requests that the respondent inform the Commission promptly if the production date poses a problem for certain categories of documents, such as documents from the previous Administration that may be in the custody of the National Archives and Records Administration, and meet promptly with the Commission staff to set a schedule for the production of those documents.

1. The briefing materials prepared or compiled by NSC staff and distributed to attendees for; any summaries prepared or compiled by NSC staff and distributed to attendees of the discussions held at and/or conclusions emerging from; and any minutes prepared or compiled by NSC staff of Principals and Deputies Committee meetings held from January 1, 1998, through September 20, 2001 that concerned:

- (a) Al-Qa'ida, Usama bin Laden, and/or Afghanistan;
- (b) the policy and budget development, implementation, or review of the overall counterterrorism policies of the United States, including PDD-62 (1998), the Five Year Counterterrorism Plan, and any successor NSPDs; and/or
- (c) counterterrorism issues involving threats to or attacks on the United States or American persons or assets in relations with Malaysia, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Sudan, the United Arab Emirates, and Yemen, other than materials that focus only on Palestinian terrorist activities.

Principals meetings include any such meeting whether chaired by the President or by the National Security Adviser. This request applies to principals or deputies level meetings addressing these topics wholly or in part regardless of the title used for the group or whether conducted in person or by SVTS, including meetings of the "Foreign Policy Team," the "Small Group," and the Counterterrorism Security Group (including CSG meetings chaired by the National Coordinator), as well as relevant meetings at Camp David.

2. The President's Daily Diary for September 11, 2001, and logs from the White House Situation Room, the Presidential Emergency Operations Center (PEOC), and the White House Military Office for September 11, 2001.

3. Contemporaneous notes of individuals present in the PEOC or accompanying the President on September 11, 2001, including notes of White House officials other than the President. (A request for such documents directed to the Office of the Vice President will be submitted separately.)
4. The briefing materials prepared or compiled by White House staff and distributed to attendees for; any summaries prepared or compiled by White House staff and distributed to attendees of the discussions held at and/or conclusions emerging from; and any minutes prepared or compiled by White House staff of meetings at the principals or deputies level, including the Domestic Consequences Principals Committee, from September 11 through September 20, 2001, that concerned domestic policy responses to the terrorist attacks upon the United States.
5. Information sufficient to describe the activation and implementation of continuity of operations and emergency response plans and measures for the White House complex on September 11, 2001.

The Commission requests that the documents requested above be provided as soon as they are available, even though all requested documents may not be provided at the same time, through means of a "rolling" production.

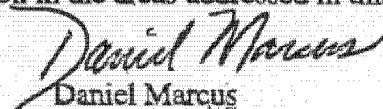

If any requested documents are withheld from production, even temporarily, based on an alleged claim of privilege or for any other reason, the Commission requests that the respondent, as soon as possible and in no event later than the production date, identify and describe each such document or class of documents, as well as the alleged basis for not producing it, with sufficient specificity to allow a meaningful challenge to any such withholding.

If the respondent does not have possession, custody or control of any requested documents but has information about where such documents may be located, the Commission requests that the respondent provide such information as soon as possible and in no event later than the production date.

If the respondent has any questions or concerns about the interpretation or scope of these document requests, the Commission requests that any such questions or concerns be raised with the Commission as soon as possible so that any such issues can be addressed and resolved prior to the production date.

The Commission intends to make further document requests as its work develops and reserves the right to request additional documents and information in the areas addressed in this request.

I would like to schedule a briefing on Pryor for all staff before Senators get bombarded with calls and to give staffs a chance to prepare their Senators with TP's for recess.

The earliest I can do is next Tuesday. Would you all be able to share the presentation if we scheduled it for Tuesday the 22nd at 10:00 or 3:00?

At that time we can give staffs a heads up about the post recess schedule and rally them a bit.

Hi Brett -- question for you: Bridge has been invited to speak at a mentoring awards ceremony for the National Mentoring Partnership, but it turns out that patrons have paid for some of the tables. The funds will go to support the operations of the NMP. What are the restrictions related to an event like this? This is fairly time-sensitive because the event will take place on Thursday, and he had previously agreed to speak because we were not made aware until now that fundraising would be going on. Thanks,
Britt

Any luck rounding up anyone at the WH for a McLean event for Delegate Jack Rust on June 30th. How about you Brett? Are you allowed to attend these sorts of occasions? Any interest?

Perhaps the First Lady or her Chief of Staff is available.

We are open to suggestions. - Alice

He definitely will not mention it; in fact, he may decide not to speak at all. I assume that their legal counsel has signed off, but even if they have not, that falls outside of our area of legal responsibility, does it not? I will see if we can check in with their counsel to ensure that everything is taken care of, but it would not have an effect on Bridge's ability to participate regardless, right?

Bridge should not refer to this during his remarks. As for them handing it out, that depends on their own legal restrictions, which I do not know. Has their legal counsel signed off?

Dear Chairman Specter:

Just 2.5 million of the 17.6 million young people who need mentors have them. The remaining 15 million young people fall into the "mentoring gap." High-quality mentoring programs continue to struggle to find money to help more young people.

Fortunately, you can help! I urge you to provide the $150 million requested by the President for mentoring in FY2004. Thank you for your consideration.

Hi Brett -- question for you: Bridge has been invited to speak at a mentoring awards ceremony for the National Mentoring Partnership, but it turns out that patrons have paid for some of the tables. The funds will go to support the operations of the NMP. What are the restrictions related to an event like this? This is fairly time-sensitive because the event will take place on Thursday, and he had previously agreed to speak because we were not made aware until now that fundraising would be going on. Thanks,
Britt

Dear Chairman Regula:

Just 2.5 million of the 17.6 million young people who need mentors have them. The remaining 15 million young people fall into the "mentoring gap." High-quality mentoring programs continue to struggle to find money to help more young people.

Fortunately, you can help! I urge you to provide the $150 million requested by the President for mentoring in FY2004. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Have you seen a letter that Sen. Daschle sent today about a process for nominating a Supreme Court Justice? A reporter from South Dakota called to see if we had any comment on the letter (which apparently is similar to requests from Schumer and Leahy).

If you have guidance on how to respond (if at all), I'd like to hear it. I'll let you know if I get a copy of the letter.

*****KEY POINTS*****

From remarks by Ambassador Bremer, Administrator of the Coalition Provisional Authority to Iraq, 6/17/03

-Security and rebuilding the economy to provide real jobs remain key priorities in Iraq.

-A group of Iraqi businessmen and women, economists, and politicians are advising the coalition on ways to revitalize the economy.

-Next week, Ambassador Bremer and advisors will attend the World Economic Forum in Jordan, where they will discuss rehabilitating the economy with international economic and political leaders.

-Also next week, a number of senior Iraqi civil servants will be leading a delegation to a donor conference for Iraq, hosted by the UN in New York.

-These two delegations will symbolize Iraq's reentry into the international community. For the first time in years, Iraqis will be able to freely participate in international discussions about ways to reverse the chronic economic mismanagement of their country.

-The coalition remains focused on security in Iraq. Coalition military and the Iraqi police force continue to arrest senior members of the old regime, and those who are trying to derail Iraq's reconstruction.

-The new Iraqi Police Force is being equipped and trained, and a management training course for senior police officers will begin.

-The Iraqi Judicial College has been rebuilt and the Judicial Review Committee has been created. This committee will review every judge and prosecutor in Iraq in order to establish a justice system run by people of integrity.

*****IRAQ HUMANITARIAN AND RECONSTRUCTION UPDATE*****

From USAID reports

In March, the U.S. government deployed a multi-agency Disaster Assistance Response Team (DART) to Iraq to assess and respond to humanitarian needs and to help coordinate the emergency relief effort.

-According to the Ministry of Trade, more than three million people in Baghdad have received or will soon receive food baskets.

-According to DART, 3,755 metric tons of food were delivered in Babil, and 19,295 metric tons were distributed in Al Basrah. In Maysan, 5,744 metric tons were distributed and in Al Muthanna, about 4,820 metric tons were distributed. Public distributions are proceeding in both Kirkuk and Mosul.

-UNICEF has dispatched teams of workers to fix blocked sewage lines and clean up piles of refuse in many parts of Baghdad, where more than 1.5 million people have benefited from UNICEF's services.

-USAID and its private sector partners have identified 18 schools in low-income communities in Al Basrah for reconstruction and refurbishment. They proposed that the school reconstruction begin in the next few weeks.

-The target date for opening the Baghdad International Airport is July 1. USAID private sector partner, Skylink, is mobilizing the local Iraqi labor force to get many of the basic functions in the terminal - such as water and electricity - up and running.

Dear Joseph,

Thank you so much for the May 22 letter outlining your thoughts about the President and the upcoming election.

As you know, New York is the site of the 2004 convention and is an amazing representative of America. I sincerely appreciate you taking the time to write me with your thoughts and offering to help in New York. I am sure there will be many opportunities for you and others to volunteer locally when the time comes.

Again, thank you for the insightful letter, and thank you also for your support of President Bush.

Sincerely,

Bush-Cheney paid campaign advance staff will not be used to do advance for the President or VP when the events are for Congressional candidates. ;Two reasons (1) cost.; It doesn,t make sense for the B-C campaign to pay for advance staff to do events that are not B-C events. (2) Legally (this is what I,ve been told, but I,m not a lawyer, so check it out) agency employees (schedule C,s) can be used to do advance work for Congressional events.

Bush Rejects Collaboration on Judicial Appointments
President Won't Consult Democrats on Supreme Court Vacancies

By Mike Allen
Washington Post Staff Writer
Wednesday, June 18, 2003; 1:13 PM

President Bush today rejected an overture from Democratic senators who offered to head off a bitter fight over a future Supreme Court vacancy with a collaboration between the White House and Capitol Hill.

Senate Minority Leader Thomas A. Daschle (D-S.D.) wrote to Bush on Tuesday to say Democrats want any vacancies "filled by nominees who unite all Americans," and he suggested a bipartisan meeting of Senate leaders.

This morning, White House press secretary Ari Fleischer called the idea "a novel new approach to how the Constitution guides the appointment process." The Constitution gives the president sole power to nominate Supreme Court justices, who then need to be confirmed by the Senate.

Bush is declining to meet with Democrats on the topic. Fleischer said at a briefing that White House Counsel Alberto R. Gonzales "is always happy to meet and talk with these individual senators and of course he will, if they want to do that."

"But the Constitution is clear, the Constitution will be followed," Fleischer added. "We always welcome thoughts, but certainly no one wants to suggest that the Constitution be altered."

Fleischer brushed off questions about why Bush himself will not consult with the senators and about why Bush would not seize the opportunity to avoid a divisive process. "Unless and until there is a vacancy, this is idle chit-chat and I'd just leave it at chit-chat," Fleischer said.

A twist is that Gonzales, a former justice of the Texas Supreme Court, is one of Bush's most obvious potential nominees. Fleischer laughed off an inquiry about that. "Nice try, very clever," he said. "Good, direct front door effort to speculate--on a position that's not even open."

On Tuesday, Gonzales sent a two-paragraph response to Sen. Charles E. Schumer (D-N.Y.), a Judiciary Committee member who wrote to the White House a week ago, suggesting several potential consensus nominees.

"If a Supreme Court vacancy arises during his Presidency," Gonzales replied, "President Bush will nominate an individual of high integrity, intellect, and experience. The Senate will have an opportunity to assess the President's nominee and exercise its constitutional responsibility to vote up or down on the nominee."

Hi Brett,

Can you advise us on the type of communication that is acceptable between Matt and the campaign? For example: Can he fax documents to Ken? Can he e-mail from his WH account etc? He is hesitant do anything without guidance.

For tomorrow's tort reform meeting, I think Leg Affairs should come prepared to tell us exactly where we stand on class action, asbestos, and medical liability. You may want to alert them so they show up ready to go. Because first item on agenda I assume is to see how we can help in closing 1 or more of those 3.

I agree with you. I think you overreact a bit sometimes on these kinds of things, but not on this one. This was a mistake on his part. I think he and you need to do something to repair the damage. The problem is that he made it sound like you were serious. And moreover, she was in fact a very valuable contributor on homeland who did very much to improve the legislation. Perhaps you could call her and joke around a bit about general friendly social stuff but then say seriously, "Just to be clear, I was not remotely serious when I made that joke and I would not want you to think I was serious in any way." She will say you are overreacting, paranoid, etc, but I still think it would be good to get yourself on record with her.

Thanks. With that understanding would it be ok if we circulate the email?
Just want to be sure we don't have uniformed officers unwittingly violate the law by giving to Bush-Cheney 04 since they are military. Assume this would not be big news at DOD but I fear it's a thing that our people aren't as up to speed on.
I thought that was not a bad story at all for you in the post today.

7 General” means the Attorney General, acting jointly
8 with the Administrator of the Environmental Protec-
9 tion Agency.

1           (2) ASBESTOS-CONTAINING PRODUCT.—The
2           term “asbestos-containing product” means any prod-
3           uct (including any part) to which asbestos is delib-
4           erately or knowingly added or in which asbestos is
5           deliberately or knowingly used in any concentration.

6           (3) CONTAMINANT-ASBESTOS PRODUCT.—The
7           term “contaminant-asbestos product” means any
8           product—

9                   (A) that contains asbestos as a contami-
10                  nant of any mineral or other substance, in any 11                  concentration; and

12                  (B) to which the asbestos is not delib-
13                  erately or knowingly added or in which asbestos
14                  is not deliberately or knowingly used in any
15                  concentration.

16           (4) DISTRIBUTE IN COMMERCE.—

17                   (A) IN GENERAL.—The term “distribute in 18                  commerce” has the meaning given the term in 19                  section 3 of the Toxic Substances Control Act
20                  (16 U.S.C. 2602).

21                   (B) EXCLUSIONS.—The term “distribute
22                  in commerce” does not include—

23                           (i) an action taken with respect to an
24                           asbestos-containing product in connection
25                           with the end use of the asbestos-containing

1 product by a person that is an end user;
2 or

3 (ii) distribution of an asbestos-con-
4 taining product by a person solely for the
5 purpose of disposal of the asbestos-con-
6 taining product in compliance with applica-
7 ble Federal, State, and local requirements.

8 (5) PERSON.—The term “person” means—

9 (A) any individual;

10 (B) any corporation, company, association,
11 firm, partnership, joint venture, sole proprietor-
12 ship, or other for-profit or nonprofit business
13 entity (including any manufacturer, importer,
14 distributor, or processor);

15 (C) any Federal, State, or local depart-
16 ment, agency, or instrumentality; and

17 (D) any interstate body.

18 SEC. 502. PROHIBITION ON ASBESTOS-CONTAINING PROD-
19 UCTS.

20 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsection (b), the At-
21 torney General shall promulgate—

22 (1) not later than 1 year after the date of en-
23 actment of this Act, proposed regulations that—

1 (A) prohibit persons from manufacturing,
2 processing, or distributing in commerce asbes-
3 tos-containing products; and

4 (B) provide for implementation of sub-
5 sections (b) and (c); and

6 (2) not later than 2 years after the date of en-
7 actment of this Act, final regulations that, effective
8 60 days after the date of promulgation, prohibit per-
9 sons from manufacturing, processing, or distributing
10 in commerce asbestos-containing products.

11 (b) INAPPLICABILITY TO CONTAMINANT-ASBESTOS
12 PRODUCTS.—The regulations under subsection (a) shall
13 not apply to contaminant-asbestos products.

14 (c) EXEMPTIONS.—

15 (1) IN GENERAL.—The products and processes
16 described in paragraph (2) shall be exempt from the 17 regulations under subsection (a) unless the Attorney
18 General determines that any such product should 19 not be exempt, based on information that has be-
20 come available since 1989 suggesting that an exemp-
21 tion would result in an unreasonable risk of injury
22 to public health or the environment.

23 (2) PRODUCTS AND PROCESSES.—The products
24 and processes referred to in paragraph (1) are—

- 1 (A) asbestos diaphragms for regulated use
2 in the manufacture of chloralkali;
3 (B) acetylene cylinders;
4 (C) arc chutes;
5 (D) battery separators;
6 (E) high-grade electrical paper;
7 (F) missile liners;
8 (G) packing reinforced plastic;
9 (H) sealant tape;
10 (I) specialty industrial gaskets; and
11 (J) textiles.

12 (3) PETITIONS FOR EXEMPTION.—

13 (A) IN GENERAL.—Any person may peti-
14 tion the Attorney General for, and the Attorney
15 General may grant, an exemption from the re-
16 quirements of subsection (a) if the Attorney
17 General determines that—

18 (i) the exemption would not result in
19 an unreasonable risk of injury to public
20 health or the environment; and

21 (ii) the person has made good faith ef-
22 forts to develop, but has been unable to de-
23 velop, a substance, or identify a mineral,
24 that—

1 (I) does not present an unreason-
2 able risk of injury to public health or
3 the environment; and

4 (II) may be substituted for an
5 asbestos-containing product.

6 (B) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—An exemp-
7 tion granted under this paragraph shall be in
8 effect for such period (not to exceed 1 year)
9 and subject to such terms and conditions as the 10 Attorney General may prescribe.

11 (d) DISPOSAL.—

12 (1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in para-
13 graph (2), not later than 3 years after the date of 14 enactment of this Act, each person that possesses an 15 asbestos-containing product that is subject to the 16 prohibition established under this section shall dis-
17 pose of the asbestos-containing product, by a means
18 that is in compliance with applicable Federal, State,
19 and local requirements.

20 (2) EXEMPTION.—Nothing in paragraph (1)—

21 (A) applies to an asbestos-containing prod-
22 uct that—

23 (i) is no longer in the stream of com-
24 merce; or

1 (ii) is in the possession of an end
2 user; or

3 (B) requires that an asbestos-containing
4 product described in subparagraph (A) be re-
5 moved or replaced.

6 (e) PENALTIES.—

7 (1) CIVIL PENALTIES.—

8 (A) IN GENERAL.—The Attorney General
9 may impose on a person that violates a regula-
10 tion under subsection (a) a civil penalty of not
11 more than $25,000 for each such violation.

12 (B) PROCEDURE.—

13 (i) IN GENERAL.—The Attorney Gen-
14 eral shall impose a civil penalty under sub-
15 paragraph (A) by an order made on the 16 record after opportunity for a hearing in
17 accordance with section 554 of title 5,
18 United States Code.

19 (ii) NOTICE.—Before issuing an order
20 under clause (i), the Attorney General
21 shall—

22 (I) give the person on which a
23 civil penalty is to be imposed written
24 notice of the proposal to issue the 25 order; and

1 (II) provide the person an oppor-
2 tunity to request, not later than 15
3 days after the date on which the no-
4 tice is received by the person, a hear-
5 ing on the order.

6 (C) AMOUNT.—In determining the amount
7 of a civil penalty, the Attorney General shall
8 take into account—

9 (i) the nature, circumstances, extent,
10 and gravity of the violation; and

11 (ii) with respect to the violator—

12 (I) ability to pay;

13 (II) effect on ability to continue
14 to do business;

15 (III) any history of prior such
16 violations;

17 (IV) degree of culpability; and

18 (V) such other matters as justice
19 may require.

20 (D) COMPROMISE, MODIFICATION, OR RE-
21 MISSION.—The Administrator may compromise,
22 modify, or remit, with or without conditions, a
23 civil penalty imposed under this paragraph.

24 (E) DEDUCTION FROM AMOUNT OWED.—
25 The amount of a civil penalty imposed on a person under this paragraph may be deducted from any sums owed by the United States to the person.

(F) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—Not later than 30 days after the date on which the Attorney General issues an order imposing a civil penalty under subparagraph (B), a person that requested a hearing under subparagraph (B)(ii)(II) with respect to the civil penalty and that is aggrieved by an the order may file a petition for judicial review of the order in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit or for the United States court of appeals for any other circuit in which the person resides or transacts business.

(G) FAILURE TO PAY CIVIL PENALTY.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—If a person fails to pay a civil penalty imposed under this paragraph—

(I) after the order imposing the civil penalty has become final and if person does not file a petition for judicial review of the order under subparagraph (F); or

2 other factors; and”

3 On page 25, line 19, re-designate existing paragraph
4 122(b)(4) as paragraph 122(b)(3).

DURBIN AMENDMENT TO S. 1125

Purpose: To exempt from the Act asbestos claims currently pending in state or federal courts.

On page 114, line 1, after the word “claim,” insert the following:

“filed after June 1, 2003.”

On page 114, line 6, after the period, insert the following new sentence:

“Nothing in this Act shall affect the jurisdiction of any federal or state court to hear, adjudicate, render judgment on or enforce any asbestos claim filed prior to June 1, 2003.”

On page 114, line 8, after the word “claim” insert the following:

“filed after June 1, 2003.”

On page 116 after line 2 insert the following new subsection:

(e): NON APPLICABILITY TO CLAIMS FILED BEFORE JUNE 1, 2003. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any asbestos claim in any state or federal court filed prior to June 1, 2003.

EXPLANATION: This amendment would exempt from coverage under the Act all asbestos claims that were filed in state or federal courts prior to June 1, 2003.

DURBIN AMENDMENT TO S. 1125

Purpose: To restore the rights of railroad workers under the Federal Employers' Liability Act (FELA)

On page 5, line 6, strike "." and insert ", or claims brought pursuant to the Act of April 22, 1908 (45 U.S.C. 51 et seq.)."

On page 8, line 20, strike "does not include" and insert "includes"

On page 8, line 22, strike "or" and insert "and"

On page 47, at the end of line 2, add "and"

On page 47, line 6, strike "and"

On page 64, strike lines 13-21

EXPLANATION: This amendment would allow railroad workers with asbestos claims to seek their legal claims under the Federal Employers' Liability Act (FELA).

DURBIN AMENDMENT TO S. 1125

Purpose: To increase the amount of financial hardship and inequity adjustments.

On page 66, line 17, strike “3 percent” and insert “6 percent”.

On page 67, line 18, strike “2 percent” and insert “4 percent”.

Increase the contribution amounts of Tier II defendant participants as necessary to compensate for the increases in the financial hardship and inequity adjustments.

On page 66, lines 20-24, insert the underlined text:

(A) IN GENERAL- A defendant may qualify for an adjustment based on inequity by demonstrating that the amount of its contribution under the statutory allocation is exceptionally inequitable when measured against that percentage of the defendant’s prior asbestos expenditures that were incurred with respect to claims that neither resulted in an adverse judgment against the defendant nor were the subject of a settlement that required a payment to a plaintiff by or on behalf of that defendant; or the amount of the likely cost to the defendant of its future liability in the tort system in the absence of the Fund.

EXPLANATION: This amendment would double the current caps for the financial hardship and inequity adjustments while revising the definition of “inequity adjustments” to include costs incurred in cases where the defendant mounted a successful defense.

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by Mr. HATCH

Viz:

1 At the end, add the following:

2 TITLE V- PROHIBITION OF ASBESTOS

3 CONTAINING PRODUCTS

4 At the end of Chapter 39 of Title 18 of the United States Code,
5 insert the following new Chapter:

6 Chapter 39A – Ban of Asbestos Containing Products

7 § 838. Ban of Asbestos Containing Products

8 (a) DEFINITIONS: For the purposes of this Chapter,

1 (1) ASBESTOS. - The term “Asbestos” includes –

2 (A) chrysotile;

3 (B) amosite;

4 (C) crocidolite;

5 (D) tremolite asbestos;

6 (E) winchite asbestos;

7 (F) richterite asbestos;

8 (G) anthophyllite asbestos;

9 (H) actinolite asbestos;

10 (I) any of the minerals listed under subparagraphs (A)
11 through (H) that has been chemically treated or altered,
12 and any asbestiform variety, type or component
13 thereof.

14 (2) ASBESTOS CONTAINING PRODUCT.- The term “Asbestos
15 Containing Product” means any product (including any part) to 16 which asbestos is deliberately or knowingly added or used because 17 the specific properties of asbestos are necessary for product use or 18 function. Under no circumstances shall ‘asbestos containing
19 product’ be construed to include products that contain de minimus
20 levels of naturally occurring asbestos as defined by the 21 Administrator not later than one year after the date of enactment of 22 this Chapter.

1 (3) DISTRIBUTE IN COMMERCE.- The term “Distribute in
2 Commerce”-

3 a. has the meaning given the term in 15 U.S.C. § 2602; and

4 b. shall not include –

5 i. an action taken with respect to an asbestos
6 containing product in connection with the end use
7 of the asbestos containing product by a person
8 that is an end user, or an action taken by a person
9 who purchases or receives a product, directly or
10 indirectly from an end user; or

11 ii. distribution of an asbestos-containing product by 12 a person solely for the purpose of disposal of the 13 asbestos containing product in compliance with
14 applicable Federal, State and local requirements.

15 (4) ADMINISTRATOR- The term “Administrator” shall mean the 16 Administrator for the Environmental Protection Agency.

17 (b) IN GENERAL – Subject to subsection (c), the Administrator
18 shall, after consultation with the Assistant Attorney General for 19 the Environmental and Natural Resources Division of the United
20 States Department of Justice, promulgate –

21 (1) not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this
22 subtitle, proposed regulations that –

1 (A) prohibit persons from manufacturing, processing,
2 or distributing in commerce asbestos-containing
3 products; and

4 (B) provide for implementation of subsections (c)
5 and (d); and

6 (2) not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this
7 subtitle, final regulations that, effective 60 days after the 8 date of promulgation, prohibit persons from
9 manufacturing, processing, or distributing in commerce
10 asbestos-containing products.

11 (c) EXEMPTIONS-

12 (1) IN GENERAL- Any person may petition the 13 Administrator for, and the Administrator may grant an 14 exemption from the requirements of subsection (b) if the 15 Administrator determines that –

16 (A) the exemption would not result in an
17 unreasonable risk of injury to public health or the 18 environment; and

19 (B) the person has made good faith efforts to 20 develop, but has been unable to develop, a
21 substance, or identify a mineral that does not
22 present an unreasonable risk of injury to public

1 health or the environment and may be substituted
2 for an asbestos containing product.

3 (2) TERMS AND CONDITIONS- An exemption granted
4 under this subsection shall be in effect for such period
5 (not to exceed 5 years) and subject to such terms and
6 conditions as the Administrator may prescribe.

7 (3) GOVERNMENTAL USE- The Administrator shall
8 provide an exemption from the requirements of 9 subsection (a), without review or limit on duration, if 10 such exemption for an asbestos containing product is
11 sought by the Secretary of Defense or the Administrator
12 of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

13 (4) SPECIFIC EXEMPTIONS-

14 (A) Asbestos diaphragms for use in the manufacture or 15 chlor-alkali and the products and derivative
16 therefrom;

17 (B) Roofing cements, coatings and mastics utilizing
18 asbestos that is totally encapsulated with asphalt.

19 (d) DISPOSAL-

20 (1) IN GENERAL- Except as provided in paragraph (2), not
21 later than 3 years after the date of enactment of this
22 subtitle, each person that possesses an asbestos
23 containing product that is subject to the prohibition

1 established under this section shall dispose of the
2 asbestos-containing product, by a means that is in
3 compliance with applicable Federal, State, and local
4 requirements.

5 (2) EXEMPTION- Nothing in paragraph (1) –

6 (A) applies to an asbestos containing product that –

7 (i) is no longer in the stream of 8 commerce; or

9 (ii) is in the possession of an end user; or

10 (B) requires that an asbestos containing product
11 described in subparagraph (A) be removed or 12 replaced.

Ordered to lie on the table and to be printed

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by Mr. HATCH

Viz:

- 1 On page 37, after line 11, insert new section 126 as follows:
- 2 SEC. 126. INSTITUTE OF MEDICINE STUDY.
- 3 (a) Not later than two years after date of enactment, the
- 4 Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences shall
- 5 complete a study of the causal link between asbestos exposure
- 6 and other cancers, including, but not limited to, colorectal,

1 laryngeal, esophageal, pharyngeal, and stomach cancers, except
2 for mesothelioma and lung cancers. The Institute of Medicine
3 shall issue a report on its findings on causation, which shall be
4 transmitted to the Congress, the Asbestos Court, and the Medical
5 Advisory Committee. The Asbestos Court and the Medical
6 Advisory Committee shall consider the results of the report for
7 purposes of determining whether asbestos exposure is a
8 substantial contributing factor under section 124(6)(F).

9 (b) If the Asbestos Court has evidence that there have been
10 advancements in science that would require additional study, the 11 Court may request that the Institute of Medicine conduct a 12 subsequent study to determine if asbestos exposure is a cause of 13 other cancers.

3           On p. 66 line 11 before the word “defendant” strike the following:
4 “A”

5           On p. 66, line 19 after the entire section “(D) LIMITATION.” Insert
6 the following new section:

7           (E) REINSTATEMENT. Following the expiration of the

1 hardship adjustment period provided for under this section and
2 during the mandatory funding period, the Administrator shall
3 annually determine whether there has been a material change in the 4 financial condition of the defendant such that the Administrator
5 may, consistent with the policies and legislative intent underlying 6 this Act, reinstate under terms and conditions established by the 7 administrator any part or all of the defendant's contribution under
8 the statutory allocation that was not paid during the hardship
9 adjustment term.

10 On p. 67, line 8, strike "for the life of the Fund" and insert in its place: "for

12 On p. 67, line 9 before section "(C) LIMITATION" insert the following:

- 13 (i) RENEWAL. – After an inequity adjustment is 14 granted by this section, a defendant may renew every 15 3 years its inequity adjustment by demonstrating that 16 it remains justified.
- 17 (ii) REINSTATEMENT.- Following the expiration of 18 the inequity adjustment period provided for under
19 this section and during the mandatory funding period,
20 the Administrator shall annually determine whether 21 there has been a material change in conditions which 22 would support a finding that the amount of the 23 defendant's contribution under the statutory

1 allocation was not inequitable. Based on this
2 determination, the Administrator may, consistent
3 with the policies and legislative intent underlying this
4 Act, reinstate under terms and conditions established
5 by the administrator any part or all of the defendant's
6 contribution under the statutory allocation that was

- 1 AMENDMENT.—To Section 131(4) of S. 1125 to index scheduled awards
2 for future inflation;
3 (4)(A) Beginning January 1, 2006, award amounts set forth in paragraph
4 (1) shall be increased annually by an amount equal to such dollar
5 amount multiplied by the cost-of-living adjustment, rounded to the 6 nearest $1,000 increment.
7 (B) For purposes of subparagraph (A), the cost of living adjustment for any
8 calendar year is the percentage (if any) by which the CPI for the 9 succeeding calendar year exceeds the CPI for the calendar year
10 2004.

1 (C) For purposes of subparagraph (B), the CPI for any calendar year is the
2 average of the Consumer Price Index as of the close of the 12-month
3 period ending on August 31 of such calendar year.

4 (D) For the purposes of subparagraph (C), the term “Consumer Price
5 Index” means the Consumer Price Index published by the
6 Department of Labor. The Consumer Price Index series to be used
7 for award escalations shall include the Consumer Price Index used

Purpose: PROPOSED MEDICAL CRITERIA—DRAFT LANGUAGE
NEW SECTION 124This amendment replaces the current section 124 on medical criteria. It adds a level for severe asbestosis, and utilizes the weighted exposure framework, which recognizes the heavier exposure in earlier years. It also creates three categories for the lung cancer claimants – smoker, former smoker and non-smoker.

“Certified B-reader” means an individual who has successfully completed the x-ray interpretation course sponsored by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) and whose NIOSH certification is up to date.

——(4) CT SCAN. — The term “CT Scan” means an image produced by computed tomography.

——(5) DLCO. — The term “DLCO” means the single-breath diffusing capacity of the lung (carbon monoxide) technique used to measure of the volume of carbon monoxide transferred from the alveoli to blood in the pulmonary capillaries for each unit of driving pressure of the carbon monoxide.

(6) FEV1.—The term “FEV1” means a forced expiratory volume (1 second), which is the maximal volume of air expelled in 1 second during

15 follows:

16 (c) EXCEPTIONAL MEDICAL CLAIMS. — A claimant who
17 does not meet the medical criteria requirements under 18 subsections (a) and (b) may apply for designation of his or her
19 claim as an exceptional medical claim under this subsection. To 20 submit an application for review of an exceptional medical

1 claim, the claimant must (i) state that the claim does not meet the
2 medical criteria requirements in subsections (a) and (b), or (ii)
3 seek designation as an exceptional medical claim within sixty
4 (60) days after a determination that the claim is ineligible solely
5 for failure to meet the medical criteria requirements under
6 subsections (a) and (b).

7 (1) Any claimant applying for designation of his
8 or her claim as an exceptional medical claim must support
9 his or her application with a report from a physician
10 meeting the requirements of section 122. In addition to 11 the requirements of section 122, the report must include:
12 (i) a complete review of the exposed person's medical
13 history and current condition; (ii) such additional material
14 by way of analysis and documentation as shall be 15 prescribed by regulation; and (iii) a detailed explanation as 16 to why the claim meets the standard for acceptance under 17 paragraph (2).

18 (2) At regular intervals, the Asbestos Court shall 19 refer the applications and supporting documentation to the 20 Medical Advisory Committee established pursuant to

1 section 114(h) to review all applications for designation as
2 an exceptional medical claim that were submitted during
3 the prior relevant period. The standard to be applied for
4 designation as an exceptional medical claim shall be that
5 the claimant, for reasons beyond his or her control, cannot
6 satisfy the requirements under subsections (a) and (b), but
7 is able, through comparably reliable evidence that meets
8 the standards under section 122, to show that the claimant
9 has an asbestos-related condition that is substantially
10 comparable to that of a medical condition that would
11 satisfy the requirements of a category under subsection
12 (b). The Medical Advisory Committee, if it deems
13 necessary, may request additional, reasonable testing to 14 support the claimant's application.

15 (3) A claimant may submit a CT Scan in addition
16 to an x-ray.

17 (4) If the Medical Advisory Committee
18 determines that the medical evidence is sufficient to show
19 a comparable asbestos-related condition, it shall issue a
20 certificate of medical eligibility which shall designate the

1 disease category under subsection (b) as to which the
2 claimant may be eligible to seek compensation. Any
3 claim as to which such certificate shall issue shall then be
4 referred to a magistrate pursuant to section 114(b), who
5 shall determine whether the claimant meets all of the other
6 requirements for compensation under this Act.

7 (5) Any claimant whose application for
8 designation as an exceptional medical claim is rejected
9 may resubmit his or her application if new evidence
10 becomes available, but no more frequently than once every 11 two years. Upon resubmission of an application, the 12 claimant shall identify any prior applications and state the 13 new evidence that is the basis for the resubmission.

14 (6) The chief judge shall promulgate regulations
15 consistent with the statute governing the procedures for 16 seeking designation of a claim as an exceptional medical 17 claim.

Medical Screening/Monitoring

This amendment would set up an efficient and reliable screening program for people in high risk occupations to be sure that those who were injured are identified and paid, and then to provide regular monitoring of those who have less serious medical problems that cannot yet be compensated under the bill.

Sec XXX: Education, Consultation, Screening and Monitoring

(a) General: - There is established within the Asbestos Trust Fund a program for the education, consultation, medical screening and medical monitoring of persons with exposure to asbestos. The program shall be funded by the Asbestos Trust Fund and administered by the Administrator.

(b) Outreach and Education Within 180 days after the implementation of this Act, the Administrator shall establish an outreach and education program designed to provide information about asbestos-related medical conditions to members of populations at risk of developing these conditions.

1. The information provided to these populations will include information about the signs and symptoms of asbestos-related medical conditions; the value of appropriate medical screening programs; and actions that the individuals at risk can take to reduce their future health risks related to asbestos.
2. The administrator is encouraged to contract with outside organizations to provide these educational programs. Preference shall be given to providers which are existing not-for-profit organizations with a history and experience of providing occupational health outreach and educational programs for asbestos-exposed workers.

(c) Coverage and Application: Each person who can demonstrate through work histories or other documentation an exposure to asbestos (as described below) his or hers voluntary discretion, is entitled to participate in the medical screening and medical monitoring program established by this Act.

(d ) Medical Screening Program: Within 180 days after the implementation of this act, the Administrator shall establish a medical screening program for persons with past exposure to asbestos who have not yet been diagnosed with an asbestos-related illness. For the purposes of this section medical screening program means an initial program consultation, medical examination and work history of persons previously exposed to asbestos who have not been diagnosed with an asbestos-related illness.

The Program shall establish:

1. Eligibility criteria for the medical screening program based on a past history of occupational exposure to asbestos. To the extent feasible (and in order to ease application to the program), such criteria shall establish eligibility for screening based on a history of work in an asbestos-related occupation and/or industry during a specific time period and for a minimum duration. These industries and occupations shall include, but not be limited to, the occupations and industries identified as meeting the weighted exposure criteria for lung cancer, (asbestosis and pleural disease) specified in Disease Categories Level I, II, III, VII and VIII.

2. Protocols for medical screening, which shall include but not be limited to:
  - i. Administration of a health evaluation and work history questionnaire;
  - ii. Physical examination including blood pressure measurement, chest examination and examination for clubbing.
  - iii. AP and lateral chest x-ray;
  - iv. Spirometry performed according to ATS standards;
  - v. Educational sessions on asbestos exposures, asbestos-related diseases and asbestos disease compensation criteria.
3. The frequency with this medical screening shall be provided or available to eligible individuals, which initially shall not be less than every five years.
4. The qualifications of the medical and/or program providers administering these protocols.
5. A list of medical and/or program providers eligible to provide these protocols who meet minimal medical and program standards established by the Administrator. Preference shall be given to medical providers and program providers which are existing not-for-profit organization with a history and experience of providing or contracting for medical screening programs for persons previously exposed to asbestos; and with a demonstrated capacity for identifying, contacting, and evaluating populations of workers or others previously exposed to asbestos; and with experience in establishing networks of medical providers to conduct medical screening and medical monitoring examinations. To the extent possible, these screening programs should be coordinated with the outreach and education programs described above.

Section (d) Medical Monitoring Program and Protocols: Within 180 days after the implementation of this act, the Administrator shall promulgate procedures (regulations) establishing a medical monitoring program for persons exposed to asbestos who have been approved for Category I and II compensation.

In consultation with the Directors of The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) and the National Cancer Institute (NCI), the Administrator shall promulgate procedures/regulations establishing:

1. Specific medical tests to be provided to eligible individuals and the periodicity of those tests. Initially these tests shall be provided every two years and include the following:
  - i. Administration of a health evaluation and work history questionnaire;
  - ii. Physical examination including blood pressure measurement, chest examination and examination for clubbing.
  - iii. AP and lateral chest x-ray;
  - iv. Spirometry performed according to ATS standards;
  - v. Educational sessions on asbestos exposures, asbestos-related diseases and asbestos disease compensation criteria.
2. Qualifications for medical providers to provide those tests.
3. A list of medical and/or program providers eligible to provide these protocols who meet minimal medical and program standards established by the Administrator. Preference shall be given to medical providers and program providers as defined in this section. Persons exposed to asbestos who elect to participate in the program shall be provided with the list of approved providers in their geographic area at the time they become eligible for the program.
4. Administrative provisions for reimbursing the costs of these monitoring tests.

Section (e): The Administrator may enter into contracts with qualified program providers that would permit the program providers to undertake large-scale medical screening and medical monitoring programs by means of subcontracts a network of medical providers and other health providers.

Section (f): The Administrator shall review and as necessary and appropriate update these requirements and protocols at least every five years.

Structured Payments Clarification

As we understand the desire of the bill's sponsors, awards may be paid out to successful claimants over a period of three years, in part to reduce the stress on the "front-end" of the fund. But as written, the bill requires payments to be made over at least three years, and they could be made over 5 or 10 or 25 years. This amendment would ensure that payments are made over a period not to exceed three years. (Presumably in later years, the Administrator could decide to make payments over two years or immediately, if the finances of the Fund made that possible. That would not be permissible under the current language.)

On page 40, line 4, strike "less" and insert "more".

DURBIN AMENDMENT TO S. 1125

Purpose: To amend the definition of “prior asbestos expenditure.”

On page 46, lines 17-21, insert the underlined text:

(A) means the gross total amount paid by or on behalf of a person at any time before December 31, 2002, in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity costs related to all asbestos claims that ultimately resulted in an adverse judgment against that person or that were the subject of a settlement that required a payment to a plaintiff by or on behalf of that person;

EXPLANATION: This amendment would exclude from the calculation of “prior asbestos expenditures” those costs incurred in cases where the defendant mounted a successful defense.

Proposed changes to “Fairness in Asbestos Injury Resolution Act of 2003”; changes are highlighted in purple.

(4) INDEMNITEE. — The term “indemnitee” means a person against whom any asbestos claim has been asserted before December 31, 2002, who has received from any other person, or on whose behalf a sum has been paid by such other person to any third person, in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity in connection with an alleged duty with respect to the defense or indemnification of such person concerning that asbestos claim, other than under a policy of insurance.

(5) INDEMNITOR. — The term “indemnitor” means a person who has paid under a written agreement at any time before December 31, 2002, a sum in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity to or on behalf of any person defending against an asbestos claim, in connection with an alleged duty with respect to the defense or indemnification of such person concerning that asbestos claim, except that payments by an insurer or reinsurer under a contract of insurance or reinsurance shall not make the insurer or reinsurer an indemnitor for purposes of this subtitle.

(6) PRIOR ASBESTOS EXPENDITURE. — The term “prior asbestos expenditures” —

(A) means the gross total amount paid by or on behalf of a person at any time before December 31, 2002, in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity costs related to all asbestos claims against that person;

(B) includes payments made by insurance carriers to or for the benefit of such person or on such person’s behalf with respect to such asbestos claims, except as provided in section 204(g);

(C) shall not include any payment made by a person in connection with or as a result of changes in insurance reserves as required by contract or any activities or disputes related to insurance coverage matters for asbestos-related liabilities; and

(D) shall not include any payment made by or on behalf of persons who are or were common carriers by railroad for asbestos claims brought under the Act of April 22, 1908 (45 U.S.C. 51 et seq.), commonly known as the Federal Employers’ Liability Act, including settlement, judgment, defense or indemnity costs associated with these claims.

facie showing of physical impairment as a result of a medical condition to which exposure to asbestos was a substantial contributing factor.

(2) REQUIREMENTS OF PRIMA FACIE SHOWING- A prima facie showing under this subsection shall include all of the following minimum requirements:

(A) PERMANENT RESPIRATORY IMPAIRMENT RATING- A determination by a qualified physician, on the basis of a medical examination and pulmonary function testing, that the exposed person has a permanent respiratory impairment rating of at least Class 2 as defined by and evaluated under the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment.

(B) DIAGNOSIS- A diagnosis by a qualified physician of asbestosis or diffuse pleural thickening, based at a minimum on pathological evidence of asbestosis, radiological evidence of asbestosis, or radiological evidence of diffuse pleural thickening.

(C) SUBSTANTIAL CONTRIBUTING FACTOR- A determination by a qualified physician that asbestosis or diffuse pleural thickening (rather than solely chronic obstructive pulmonary disease) is a substantial contributing factor to the exposed person's physical impairment, based at a minimum on a determination that the exposed person has either--

(i) a ratio of FEV1 to FVC that is equal to or greater than the predicted lower limit of normal; or

(ii) a chest x-ray showing small, irregular opacities (s,t) graded by a certified B-reader at least 2/1 on the ILO scale.

SEC. 5. EXPOSURE CRITERIA REQUIREMENTS.

(a) REQUIREMENT- To be eligible to receive an award under this title for an asbestos-related injury, the claim submitted by the asbestos claimant shall contain information to demonstrate that--

(1) the claimant meets the minimum exposure requirements under this subtitle; and

(2) such exposure to asbestos occurred within the United States, its territories, or possessions.

(b) BURDEN OF PROOF-

(1) IN GENERAL- An asbestos claimant has the burden of demonstrating meaningful and credible exposure to asbestos for purposes of this subtitle.

(2) EVIDENCE- The demonstration under paragraph (1) may be established by-

(A) an affidavit submitted by the claimant, a coworker of the claimant, or a family member, in the case of a deceased claimant;

(B) employment records;

(C) invoices;

(D) construction or other similar records; or

(E) other credible evidence.

(c) RULES-

(1) EXPOSURE INFORMATION- The Asbestos Court shall issue rules prescribing specific exposure information that shall be submitted to permit the Court to process an asbestos claim and prescribing a proof of claim form. Such rules may provide that a claims examiner or magistrate, as applicable, may require the submission of other or additional evidence of exposure when determined to be appropriate and necessary.

(2) REBUTTABLE PRESUMPTIONS- The Asbestos Court may prescribe rules identifying specific industries, occupations within those industries, time periods, and employment periods for which significant occupational exposure may be a rebuttable presumption for asbestos claimants who provide meaningful and credible evidence that the claimant worked in that industry and occupation for the requisite period of time. The Administrator may provide evidence to rebut this presumption.

(c) COMPLIANCE WITH TECHNICAL STANDARDS-

(1) IN GENERAL- Evidence relating to physical impairment under this section, including pulmonary function testing and diffusing studies, shall comply with--

(A) the technical recommendations for examinations, testing procedures, quality assurance and quality control, and equipment of the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment; or

(B) if the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment are not applicable, other authoritative standards.

(2) ADJUSTMENTS- No adjustments with respect to pulmonary function testing shall be made on the basis of race.

(d) NO PRESUMPTION AT TRIAL- Presentation of prima facie evidence of asbestos-related impairment meeting the requirements of this section shall not result in any presumption at trial that the exposed person is impaired by an asbestos-related condition, and evidence that the exposed person made a prima facie showing of impairment shall not be admissible at trial.

SEC. 6. PROCEDURES; REMOVAL.

(a) CONSOLIDATION- A court may consolidate for trial any number and type of asbestos claims with consent of all the parties. In the absence of such consent, the court may consolidate for trial only asbestos claims relating to the same exposed person and members of the household of the exposed person.

(b) VENUE-

(1) IN GENERAL- A civil action asserting an asbestos claim may only be brought in the State of the plaintiff's domicile or a State in which there occurred exposure to asbestos that is a substantial contributing factor to the physical impairment on which the claim is based.

(c) PRELIMINARY PROCEEDINGS- The plaintiff in any civil action involving an asbestos claim shall file with the complaint or other initial pleading a written report and supporting test results constituting prima facie evidence of the exposed person's asbestos-related impairment meeting the requirements of section 4(b). The defendant shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to challenge the adequacy of the proffered prima facie evidence of asbestos-related impairment. The plaintiff's claim shall be dismissed without prejudice upon a finding of failure to make the required prima facie showing.

SEC. 7. FILING OF CLAIMS.

(a) WHO MAY SUBMIT-

(1) GENERAL RULE- Any individual who has suffered from an eligible disease or condition that is believed to meet the requirements established (or the spouse, parent, child, or other relative of such individual in a representative capacity, or the executor of the estate of such individual) may file a claim with the court for an award with respect to such injury.

(2) LIMITATION- An asbestos claim may not be filed by any person seeking contribution or indemnity.

(b) REQUIRED INFORMATION- To be valid, an asbestos claim filed under subsection

(a) shall be notarized and include--

(1) the name, social security number, gender, date of birth, and, if applicable, date of death of the claimant;

(2) information relating to the identity of dependents and beneficiaries of the claimant;

(3) a detailed description of the work history of the claimant, including social security records or a signed release permitting access to such records;

(4) a detailed description of the asbestos exposure of the claimant, including information on the identity of any product or manufacturer, site, or location of exposure, plant name, and duration and intensity of exposure;

(5) a detailed description of the tobacco product use history of the claimant, including frequency and duration;

(6) an identification and description of the asbestos-related diseases of the claimant, including a written report by the claimant's physician with medical diagnoses and test results necessary to make a determination of medical eligibility that complies with the applicable requirements of this subtitle.

(7) a description of any prior or pending civil action or other claim brought by the claimant for asbestos-related injury or any other pulmonary, parenchymal or pleural injury, including an identification of any recovery of compensation or damages through settlement, judgment, or otherwise; and

(8) any other information that is required to be included under procedural rules issued by the court.

(d) REMOVAL-

(1) IN GENERAL- If a State court refuses or fails to apply this section, any party in a civil action for an asbestos claim may remove such action to a district court of the United States in accordance with chapter 89 of title 28, United States Code.

(2) JURISDICTION OVER REMOVED ACTIONS- The district courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction of all civil actions removed under this subsection, without regard to the amount in controversy and without regard to the citizenship or residence of the parties.

(3) REMOVAL BY ANY DEFENDANT- A civil action may be removed to the district court of the United States under this subsection by any defendant without the consent of all defendants.

(4) REMAND- The district court shall remand any civil action removed solely under this subsection, unless the court finds that--

(A) the State court failed to comply with procedures prescribed by law; or

(B) the failure to dismiss by the State court lacked substantial support in the record before the State court.

SEC. 8. DISMISSAL OF PENDING CLAIMS.

(a) EFFECT ON PENDING CLAIMS- If an asbestos claimant has any timely filed claim for an asbestos-related injury that is pending in a Federal or State court or with a trust established under title 11, United States Code, on the date of enactment of this Act, such claimant shall file an asbestos claim under this section within 180 days or the pending suits shall be dismissed without prejudice.

SEC. 9. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS; TWO-DISEASE RULE.

(a) STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS- Notwithstanding any other provision of law, with respect to any nonmalignant asbestos claim not barred on the effective date of this Act, the limitations period shall not begin to run until the exposed person discovers, or through the exercise of reasonable diligence should have discovered, that the exposed person is physically impaired by an asbestos-related nonmalignant condition.

(b) TWO-DISEASE RULE- An asbestos claim arising out of a nonmalignant condition shall be a distinct cause of action from an asbestos claim relating to the same exposed person arising out of asbestos-related cancer. No damages shall be awarded for fear or risk of cancer in any civil action asserting only a nonmalignant asbestos claim.

(c) GENERAL RELEASES FROM LIABILITY PROHIBITED- No settlement of a nonmalignant asbestos claim concluded after the date of enactment of this Act shall require, as a condition of settlement, release of any future claim for asbestos-related cancer.

SEC. 10. PUNITIVE DAMAGES.

SEC. 11. MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

(a) CONSTRUCTION WITH OTHER LAWS- This Act shall not be construed to--

- (1) affect the scope or operation of any workers' compensation law or veterans' benefit program;
- (2) affect the exclusive remedy or subrogation provisions of any such law; or
- (3) authorize any lawsuit which is barred by any such provision of law.

(b) CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY- The Constitutional authority for this Act is contained in Article I, section 8, clause 3 and Article III, section 1 of the Constitution of the United States.

SEC. 12. EFFECTIVE DATE.

This Act shall take effect on the date of enactment of this Act and apply to any civil action asserting an asbestos claim in which trial has not commenced as of that date.

AMENDMENT NO. Calendar No.

Purpose: To provide for the fair and efficient judicial consideration of personal injury and wrongful death claims arising out of asbestos exposure, to ensure that individuals who suffer harm, now or in the future, from illnesses caused by exposure to asbestos receive compensation for their injuries, and for other purposes.

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES—108th Cong., 1st Sess.

S. 1125

To create a fair and efficient system to resolve claims of victims for bodily injury caused by asbestos exposure, and for other purposes.

Strike sections 101-403 and insert the following:

A BILL

To provide for the fair and efficient judicial consideration of personal injury and wrongful death claims arising out of asbestos exposure, to ensure that individuals who suffer harm, now or in the future, from illnesses caused by exposure to asbestos receive compensation for their injuries, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

(a) SHORT TITLE- This Act may be cited as the 'Asbestos Claims Criteria and Compensation Act of 2003'.

(b) TABLE OF CONTENTS- The table of contents is as follows:

Sec. 1. Short title; table of contents.

Sec. 2. Findings and purposes.

Sec. 3. Definitions.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS- Congress finds that--

- (1) asbestos is a mineral that was widely used before the 1980s for insulation, fireproofing, and other purposes;
- (2) millions of American workers and others were significantly exposed to asbestos, especially during and after World War II and before the advent of regulation by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration in the early 1970s;
- (3) exposure to asbestos has been associated with various types of cancer, including mesothelioma and lung cancer, and such nonmalignant conditions as asbestosis, pleural plaques, and diffuse pleural thickening;
- (4) the diseases caused by asbestos have latency periods of up to 40 years or more, but the most serious asbestos-related disease, mesothelioma, is fatal within 1 to 2 years, and other related cancers are often fatal;
- (5) although the use of asbestos has dramatically declined since 1980 and workplace exposures have been regulated since 1971 by the

Occupational Safety and Health Administration, past exposures will continue to result in significant death and disability from mesothelioma and other cancers well into the 21st century;

(6) exposure to asbestos has created a flood of litigation targeting approximately 8,400 defendant companies in Federal and State courts that the United States Supreme Court has characterized as 'an elephantine mass' of cases that 'defies customary judicial administration and calls for national legislation,' Ortiz v. Fibreboard Corporation, 119 S. Ct. 2295, 2302 (1999);

(7) the American Bar Association supports enactment of Federal legislation that would--

(A) allow persons alleging non-malignant asbestos-related disease claims to file a cause of action in Federal or State court only if those persons meet the medical criteria in the 'ABA Standard for Non-Malignant Asbestos-Related Disease Claims' dated February 2003 or an appropriate similar medical standard; and

(B) toll all applicable statutes of limitations until such time as the medical criteria in such standard are met;

(8) asbestos personal injury litigation can be unfair and inefficient, imposing a severe burden on litigants and taxpayers alike, in most cases involving defendant companies that were never involved in the production of asbestos;

(9) the extraordinary volume of nonmalignant asbestos cases continues to strain Federal and State courts, with over 200,000 cases pending and over 50,000 new cases filed each year;

(10) asbestos personal injury litigation has already contributed to the bankruptcy of more than 60 companies and the rate of asbestos-driven bankruptcies is accelerating;

(11) the vast majority of asbestos claims are filed by individuals who--

- (A) have been exposed to asbestos;
- (B) may have some physical sign of exposure; and
- (C) suffer no present asbestos-related impairment;

(12) the cost of compensating exposed persons who are not sick--

- (A) jeopardizes the ability of defendants to compensate people with cancer and other serious asbestos-related diseases, now and in the future; and
- (B) strains the ability of courts to manage the deluge of cases involving nonimpaired plaintiffs;

(13) an estimated 50,000 to 60,000 workers have lost their jobs as a direct result of asbestos litigation and related bankruptcies of defendant companies and each displaced worker will, on average, lose between $25,000 and $50,000 in lost wages;

(14) employees of defendant companies declaring bankruptcy (who are often stockholders of those companies) will, on average, lose 25 percent of the value of their retirement investment under section 401(k) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 because of lost stock value;

(15) concerns about statutes of limitations can force claimants who have been exposed to asbestos but who have no current injury to bring premature lawsuits in order to protect against losing their rights to future compensation should those claimants become impaired;

(16) consolidations, joinder, and similar procedures, to which some courts have resorted in order to deal with the mass of asbestos cases, can undermine the appropriate functioning of the judicial process and encourage the filing of thousands of cases by exposed

persons who are not yet sick and who may never become sick;

(17) the availability of sympathetic forums in States with no connection to the plaintiff or to the exposures that form the basis of a lawsuit has encouraged the filing of thousands of cases on behalf of exposed persons who are not yet sick and may never become sick;

(18) asbestos litigation, if left unchecked by reasonable congressional intervention, will--

(A) continue to inhibit the economy and run counter to plans to stimulate economic growth and the creation of new jobs;

(B) threaten the savings, retirement benefits, and employment of defendants' current and retired employees;

(C) affect adversely the communities in which these defendants operate; and

(D) impair interstate commerce and national initiatives, including national security; and

(19) the public interest and the interest of interstate commerce requires deferring the claims of exposed persons who are not sick in order to--

(A) preserve, now and for the future, defendants' ability to compensate people who develop cancer and other serious asbestos-related injuries; and

(B) safeguard the jobs, benefits, and savings of American workers and the well-being of the national economy.

(b) PURPOSES- It is the purpose of this Act to--

(1) give priority to those asbestos claimants who can demonstrate actual physical harm or illness caused by asbestos;

(2) fully preserve the rights of claimants who were exposed to asbestos to pursue compensation should those claimants become sick

in the future;

(3) enhance the ability of the Federal and State judicial systems to supervise and control asbestos litigation and asbestos-related bankruptcy proceedings; and

(4) conserve the scarce resources of the defendants, and marshal assets in bankruptcy, to allow compensation of cancer victims and others who are physically harmed by exposure to asbestos while securing the right to similar compensation for those who may suffer physical harm in the future.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) AMA GUIDES TO THE EVALUATION OF PERMANENT IMPAIRMENT- The term 'AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment' means the American Medical Association's Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment (Fifth Edition 2000).

(2) ASBESTOS- The term 'asbestos' includes all minerals defined as 'asbestos' under section 1910 of title 29 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

(3) ASBESTOS CLAIM- The term 'asbestos claim'--

(A) means any claim for damages or other relief presented in a civil action or bankruptcy proceeding, arising out of, based on, or related to the health effects of exposure to asbestos, including loss of consortium and any other derivative claim made by or on behalf of any exposed person or any representative, spouse, parent, child or other relative of any exposed person; and

(B) does not include claims for benefits under a workers' compensation law or veterans' benefits program, or claims brought by any person as a subrogee by virtue of the payment of benefits under a workers' compensation law or punitive damages.

(4) ASBESTOSIS- The term 'asbestosis' means bilateral diffuse interstitial fibrosis of the lungs caused by inhalation of asbestos fibers.

(5) CERTIFIED B-READER- The term 'certified B-reader' means an individual qualified as a 'final' or 'B-reader' under section 37.51(b) of title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

(6) CIVIL ACTION- The term 'civil action'--

(A) means all suits of a civil nature in Federal or State court, whether cognizable as cases at law or in equity or in admiralty; and

(B) does not include an action relating to any workers' compensation law, or a proceeding for benefits under any veterans' benefits program.

(7) EXPOSED PERSON- The term 'exposed person' means any person whose exposure to asbestos or to asbestos-containing products is the basis for an asbestos claim.

(8) FEV1- The term 'FEV1' means forced expiratory volume in the first second, which is the maximal volume of air expelled in 1 second during performance of simple spirometric tests.

(9) FVC- The term 'FVC' means forced vital capacity, which is the maximal volume of air expired with maximum effort from a position of full inspiration.

(10) ILO SCALE- The term 'ILO Scale' means the system for the classification of chest x-rays set forth in the International Labour Office's Guidelines for the Use of ILO International Classification of Radiographs of Pneumoconioses (1980) as amended by the International Labour Office.

(11) NONMALIGNANT CONDITION- The term 'nonmalignant condition' means any condition that is caused or may be caused by asbestos other than a diagnosed cancer.

(12) PATHOLOGICAL EVIDENCE OF ASBESTOSIS- The term 'pathological evidence of asbestosis' means a statement by a Board-certified pathologist that--

(A) more than 1 representative section of lung tissue uninvolved with any other disease process demonstrates a pattern of peribronchiolar or parenchymal scarring in the presence of characteristic asbestos bodies; and

(B) there is no other more likely explanation for the presence of the fibrosis.

(13) PREDICTED LOWER LIMIT OF NORMAL- The term 'predicted lower limit of normal' for any test means the fifth percentile of healthy populations based on age, height, and gender, as referenced in the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment.

(14) RADIOLOGICAL EVIDENCE OF ASBESTOSIS- The term 'radiological evidence of asbestosis' means a chest x-ray showing small, irregular opacities (s,t) graded by a certified B-reader as at least 1/1 on the ILO scale.

(15) RADIOLOGICAL EVIDENCE OF DIFFUSE PLEURAL THICKENING- The term 'radiological evidence of diffuse pleural thickening' means a chest x-ray showing bilateral pleural thickening of at least B2 on the ILO scale and blunting of at least 1 costophrenic angle.

(16) STATE- The term 'State' means any State of the United States, the District of Columbia, Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Northern Mariana Islands, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and any other territory or possession of the United States or any political subdivision of any of the entities under this paragraph.

(17) VETERANS' BENEFITS PROGRAM- The term `veterans' benefits program' means any program for benefits in connection with military service administered by the Veterans' Administration under title 38, United States Code.

(18) WORKERS' COMPENSATION LAW- The term `workers' compensation law'--

(A) means a law respecting a program administered by a State or the United States to provide benefits, funded by a responsible employer or an insurance carrier of that employer, for occupational diseases or injuries or for disability or death caused by occupational diseases or injuries;

(B) includes the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act (33 U.S.C. 901 et seq.) and chapter 81 of title 5, United States Code; and

(C) does not include the Federal Employer's Liability Act (45 U.S.C. 51 et seq.).

SEC. 4. PHYSICAL IMPAIRMENT.

(a) IMPAIRMENT ESSENTIAL ELEMENT OF CLAIM- Physical impairment of the exposed person, to which asbestos exposure was a substantial contributing factor, shall be an essential element of an asbestos claim. For purposes of this section, cancer shall be presumed to involve physical impairment.

(b) PRIMA FACIE EVIDENCE OF PHYSICAL IMPAIRMENT-

(1) IN GENERAL- No person shall bring or maintain a civil action alleging a nonmalignant asbestos claim in the absence of a prima

19   666).”.

1       On page 95, between lines 9 and 10, insert the fol-
2       lowing:

3               (4) ENHANCED PENALTIES.—If the criminal
4       violations referred to in paragraphs (1), (2), and (3)
5       result in conviction and involve occupational expo-
6       sure to asbestos, or asbestos as a toxic substance or
7       hazardous air pollutant—

8               (A) in the case of a convicted individual,
9       that individual shall be subject to the greater
10      of—

11              (i) the applicable fine established by 12      the statute of conviction; or

13              (ii) not more than $250,000, and im-
14      prisonment of not more than 15 years, or 15      both; and

16              (B) in the case of a convicted entity (other
17      than an individual), that entity shall be subject
18      to the greater of—

19              (i) the applicable fine established by 20      the statute of conviction; or

21              (ii) a fine of not more than 22      $1,000,000.

23              (5) REVIEW OF FEDERAL SENTENCING GUIDE-
24      LINES FOR ENVIRONMENTAL CRIMES RELATED TO
25      ASBESTOS.—Under section 994 of title 28, United

1 States Code, and in accordance with this section, the
2 United States Sentencing Commission shall review
3 and amend, as appropriate, the United States Sen-
4 tencing Guidelines and related policy statements to 5 ensure that—

6 (A) appropriate changes are made within
7 the guidelines to reflect any statutory amend-
8 ments that have occurred since the time that
9 the current guideline was promulgated;

10 (B) the base offense level, adjustments and
11 specific offense characteristics contained in sec-
12 tion 2Q1.2 of the United States Sentencing
13 Guidelines (relating to mishandling of haz-
14 ardous or toxic substances or pesticides; record
15 keeping, tampering, and falsification; and un-
16 lawfully transporting hazardous materials in
17 commerce) are increased as appropriate to en-
18 sure that future asbestos-related offenses reflect
19 the seriousness of the offense, the harm to the 20 community, the need for ongoing reform, and
21 the highly regulated nature of asbestos;

22 (C) the base offense level, adjustments and
23 specific offense characteristics are sufficient to
24 deter and punish future activity and are ade-

1           quate in cases in which the relevant offense
2           conduct—

3                   (i) involves asbestos as a hazardous or
4                   toxic substance; and

5                   (ii) occurs after the date of enactment
6                   of this Act;

7           (D) the adjustments and specific offense
8           characteristics contained in section 2B1.1 of 9           the United States Sentencing Guidelines related
10          to fraud, deceit and false statements, ade-
11          quately take into account that asbestos was in-
12          volved in the offense, and the possibility of 13          death or serious bodily harm as a result;

14          (E) the guidelines that apply to organiza-
15          tions in chapter 8 of the United States Sen-
16          tencing Guidelines, are sufficient to deter and
17          punish organizational criminal misconduct that
18          involves the use, handling, purchase, sale, dis-
19          posal, or storage of asbestos; and

20          (F) the guidelines that apply to organiza-
21          tions in chapter 8 of the United States Sen-
22          tencing Guidelines, are sufficient to deter and
23          punish organizational criminal misconduct that
24          involves fraud, deceit, or false statements

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by MR. KOHL (for himself, Mr. LEAHY, and Mr. KENNEDY)

Viz:

1 In section 223, add at the end the following:

2 (f) CONTINGENT CALL FOR ADDITIONAL MANDA-
3 TORY FUNDING.—

4 (1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding sections
5 202(a)(2) and 212(a)(3)(A), unless the Adminis-
6 trator certifies under this subsection that there are
7 adequate funds available to compensate past, pend-
8 ing, and projected future claimants at the scheduled
9 award values provided in section 131(b), the Admin-

1       istrator shall assess additional contributions from all
2       participants during first 27 years of the Fund (in
3       this section, the “mandatory funding period”), as
4       provided in this subsection.

5           (2) ALLOCATION.— Any additional contribu-
6       tions assessed under this subsection shall be allo-
7       cated among each participant as provided under
8       paragraphs (4) and (5).

9           (3) REDUCTION ADJUSTMENT CERTIFI-
10       CATION.—

11           (A) IN GENERAL.—Before making any re-
12       duction adjustment under section 204(a) or sec-
13       tion 212(a)(3)(B), the Administrator shall cer-
14       tify, after consultation with appropriate experts,
15       that during the time period in which such re-
16       duction adjustment would apply there will be
17       adequate funds available to compensate past,
18       pending, and projected future claimants at the
19       scheduled award values provided in section
20       131(b) of this Act.

21           (B) INITIAL NOTICE.—Before making any
22       certification under subparagraph (A), the Ad-
23       ministrator shall publish a notice in the Federal
24       Register of the proposed certification, including
25       a description and explanation of the Adminis-

1           trator's analysis supporting the certification of
2           the Administrator.

3           (C) COMMENTS FROM PARTICIPANTS.—
4           Not later than 60 days after the publication of
5           the notice under subparagraph (B), a partici-
6           pant may provide the Administrator with addi-
7           tional information to support a determination
8           that additional contributions from participants
9           are not required.

10          (D) FINAL CERTIFICATION.—

11           (i) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator
12           shall publish a notice in the Federal Reg-
13           ister of the final certification after consid-
14           eration of all comments submitted under
15           subparagraph (C).

16           (ii) WRITTEN NOTICE.—Not later
17           than 30 days of publishing a final certifi-
18           cation under clause (i), the Administrator
19           shall provide each participant with notice
20           of that participant's final contribution as-
21           sessment after application of any reduction
22           adjustment under section 204(a) or section
23           212(a)(3)(B), subject to paragraphs (4)
24           and (5).

25          (4) DEFENDANT PARTICIPANTS.—

1           (A) IN GENERAL.—Any additional con-
2           tributions from the defendant participants
3           under paragraph (1) shall be allocated in ac-
4           cordance with subparagraphs (B) through (H).

5           (B) YEARS 6 THROUGH 8.—If the Adminis-
6           trator fails to certify that there are adequate
7           funds during years 6 through 8 of the manda-
8           tory funding period, the Administrator shall
9           maintain after year 5 of the mandatory funding
10          period the contribution levels assessed under
11          section 203 and not make any reduction adjust-
12          ments as provided in section 204(a) for years 6
13          through 8.

14          (C) YEARS 9 THROUGH 11.—If the Admin-
15          istrator fails to certify that there are adequate
16          funds during years 9 through 11 of the manda-
17          tory funding period, the Administrator shall
18          maintain after year 8 of the mandatory funding
19          period the contribution levels assessed under
20          section 203 and not make any reduction adjust-
21          ments as provided in section 204(a) for years 9
22          through 11.

23          (D) YEARS 12 THROUGH 14.—If the Ad-
24          ministrator fails to certify that there are ade-
25          quate funds during years 12 through 14 of the

1 mandatory funding period, the Administrator
2 shall maintain after year 11 of the mandatory
3 funding period the contribution levels assessed
4 under section 203 and not make reduction ad-
5 justments as provided in section 204(a) for
6 years 12 through 14.

7 (E) YEARS 15 THROUGH 17.—If the Ad-
8 ministrator fails to certify that there are ade-
9 quate funds available during years 15 through
10 17 of the mandatory funding period, the Ad-
11 ministrator shall maintain after year 14 of the 12 mandatory funding period the contribution lev-
13 els assessed under section 203 and not make
14 any reduction adjustments as provided in sec-
15 tion 204(a) for years 15 through 17.

16 (F) YEARS 18 THROUGH 20.—If the Ad-
17 ministrator fails to certify that there are ade-
18 quate funds available during years 18 through
19 20 of the mandatory funding period, the Ad-
20 ministrator shall maintain after year 17 of the
21 mandatory funding period the contribution lev-
22 els assessed under section 203 and not make
23 any reduction adjustments as provided in sec-
24 tion 204(a) for years 18 through 20.

1 (G) YEARS 21 THROUGH 26.—If the Ad-
2 ministrator fails to certify that there are ade-
3 quate funds available during years 21 through
4 26 of the mandatory funding period, the Ad-
5 ministrator shall maintain until year 26 of the
6 mandatory funding period the contribution lev-
7 els assessed under section 203 and not make
8 any reduction adjustments as provided in sec-
9 tion 204(a) for years 21 through 26.

10 (H) YEAR 27.—If the Administrator fails
11 to certify that there are adequate funds avail-
12 able during year 27 of the mandatory funding
13 period, the Administrator shall maintain the
14 contribution levels assessed under section 203
15 and not make any reduction adjustments as
16 provided in section 204(a) for year 27.

17 (I) DETERMINATION OF REDUCTION AD-
18 JUSTMENTS.—In administering subparagraphs
19 (C) through (H), if a reduction was not made
20 in any preceding 3-year period and the Admin-
21 istrator certifies there are adequate funds under
22 paragraph (3), the amount of any reduction ad-
23 justment under section 204(a) shall be deter-
24 mined as though all preceding reductions had
25 been made.

1           (J) LIMITATION OF REQUIRED CONTRIBU-
2           TION.—Notwithstanding subparagraphs (B)
3           through (H), if the Administrator certifies,
4           after consultation with appropriate experts,
5           there will be adequate funds available to com-
6           pensate past, pending, and projected future
7           claimants at the scheduled award values pro-
8           vided in section 131(b) after applying a smaller
9           reduction adjustment than otherwise required
10          under this paragraph, during the time period in
11          which such reduction adjustment would apply,
12          the Administrator shall apply such smaller re-
13          duction adjustment.

14          (K) NO ORPHAN SHARE.—The additional
15          contributions collected by the Administrator
16          under this subsection shall not be considered
17          excess monies under subsection (e) to be placed
18          in the orphan share reserve account and shall
19          be credited to the Fund only for the payment
20          of claims.

21          (5) INSURER PARTICIPANTS.—

22               (A) IN GENERAL.—The total amount of
23               any contributions allocated by the Adminis-
24               trator to the insurer participants shall equal the 25               total amount of additional contributions allo-

1 cated to the defendant participants under para-
2 graph (4) for any 3-year period.

3 (B) ALLOCATION.—Of the amount of addi-
4 tional contributions required under subpara-
5 graph (A), each insurer participant shall be al-
6 located an additional contribution equal to the 7 insurer participant's proportionate share of an-
8 nual contributions to the Fund under section
9 212.

10 (6) ENFORCEMENT.—The additional contribu-
11 tions required under this subsection may be enforced
12 in the same manner and to the same extent as the
13 enforcement of a contribution under section 224.

14 On page 64, line 23, strike “The” and insert “Sub-
15 ject to section 223(f), the”.

16 On page 79, line 20, after “time” insert “, subject

AMENDMENTS intended to be proposed by Mr. KENNEDY

Viz:

1 In section 114, at the appropriate place insert the
2 following:

3 (h) MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE.—

4 (1) IN GENERAL.—The chief judge may appoint
5 a Medical Advisory Committee of the Asbestos Court
6 consisting of qualified physicians for purposes of 7 providing appropriate medical advice relating to the 8 review of claims.

1           (2) QUALIFICATIONS.—To be eligible for ap-
2           pointment to the Medical Advisory Committee under
3           paragraph (1), a person shall—

4                   (A) be a physician licensed in any State;

5                   (B) be board-certified in pulmonary medi-
6           cine, occupational medicine, internal medicine,
7           oncology, or pathology; and

8                   (B) be actively and primarily practicing
9           medicine in a field directly related to the board
10          certification of the physician.

11          (3) DUTIES.—Magistrates and claims exam-
12          iners may refer questions concerning the medical eli-
13          gibility of claimants to the committee for its advice
14          and recommendations.

15          In section 124, at the appropriate place insert the
16          following:

17          (c) EXCEPTIONAL MEDICAL CLAIMS.—

18                  (1) IN GENERAL.—A claimant who does not
19          meet the medical criteria requirements under sub-
20          section (a) and (b) may apply for designation of the 21          claim as an exceptional medical claim.

22                  (2) APPLICATION.—When submitting an appli-
23          cation for review of an exceptional medical claim, the 24          claimant shall—

1 (A) state that the claim does not meet the
2 medical criteria requirements in subsection (a)
3 and (b); or

4 (B) seek designation as an exceptional
5 medical claim within 60 days after a determina-
6 tion that the claim is ineligible solely for failure
7 to meet the medical criteria requirements under
8 subsections (a) and (b).

9 (3) REPORT OF PHYSICIAN.—

10 (A) IN GENERAL.—Any claimant applying
11 for designation of a claim as an exceptional
12 medical claim shall support an application filed
13 under paragraph (1) with a report from a phy-
14 sician meeting the requirements of section 122.

15 (B) CONTENTS.—A report filed under
16 paragraph (A) shall include—

17 (i) a complete review of the claimant's
18 medical history and current condition;

19 (ii) such additional material by way of 20 analysis and documentation as shall be
21 prescribed by rule of the Asbestos Court;
22 and

23 (iii) a detailed explanation as to why
24 the claim meets the requirements of para-
25 graph (4)(B).

1 (4) REVIEW.—

2 (A) IN GENERAL.—The Asbestos Court
3 shall refer all applications and supporting docu-
4 mentation submitted under paragraph (2) to 5 the Medical Advisory Committee for review for
6 eligibility as an exceptional medical claim.

7 (B) STANDARD.—A claim shall be des-
8 ignated as an exceptional medical claim if the 9 claimant, for reasons beyond his or her con-
10 trol, cannot satisfy the requirements under sub-
11 sections (a) and (b), but is able, through com-
12 parably reliable evidence that meets the stand-
13 ards under section 122, to show that the claim-
14 ant has an asbestos-related condition that is 15 substantially comparable to that of a medical 16 condition that would satisfy the requirements of 17 a category under subsection (b).

18 (C) ADDITIONAL INFORMATION.—The
19 Medical Advisory Committee may request addi-
20 tional reasonable testing to support the claim-
21 ant's application.

22 (D) CT SCAN.—A claimant may submit a
23 CT Scan in addition to an x-ray.

24 (5) APPROVAL.—

1           (A) IN GENERAL.—If the Medical Advisory
2           Committee determines that the medical evi-
3           dence is sufficient to show a comparable asbes-
4           tos-related condition, it shall issue a certificate
5           of medical eligibly designating the category of
6           asbestos-related injury under subsection (b) for
7           which the claimant may be eligible to seek com-
8           pensation.

9           (B) REFERRAL.—Upon the issuance of a
10          certificate under paragraph (A), the Medical
11          Advisory Committee shall submit the claim to a
12          magistrate, who shall proceed to determine
13          whether the claimant meets the requirements
14          for compensation under this Act.

15          (6) RE-SUBMISSION.—Any claimant whose ap-
16          plication for designation as an exceptional medical 17          claim is rejected may resubmit an application if new 18          evidence becomes available. The application shall
19          identify any prior applications and state the new evi-
20          dence that forms the basis of the re-submission.

21          (7) RULES.—The Chief Judge shall promulgate
22          rules governing the procedures for seeking designa-
23          tion of a claim as an exceptional medical claim.

Viz:

- 1      INSERT on page 7 at line 10 as subparagraph 11(C) the following language:
- 2            (C)    any successor in interest of a participant.
- 3      INSERT on page 8 at line 3 as subparagraphs 14 and 15 the following language:
- 4            (14)   SUBSTANTIALLY CONTINUES - The term “substantially continues”
- 5      means that the business operations have not been significantly modified by the change in
- 6      ownership.
- 7            (15)   SUCCESSOR IN INTEREST - The term “successor in interest” means
- 8      any person that acquires assets, and substantially continues the business operations, of a
- 9      participant. The factors to be considered in determining whether a person is a successor
- 10     in interest include, but are not limited to: (i) retention of the same facilities or location,
- 11     (ii) retention of the same employees, (iii) maintaining the same jobs under the same
- 12     working conditions, (iv) retention of the same supervisory personnel, (v) continuity of
- 13     assets, (vi) production of the same product or offer of the same service, (vii) retention of
- 14     the same name, (viii) maintenance of the same customer base, (ix) identity of stocks,

- 1 stockholders, and directors between the asset seller and the purchaser, or (x) whether the
- 2 successor holds itself out as continuation of previous enterprise, but expressly does not
- 3 include whether the person actually knew of the liability of the participant under this Act.

- 4 RENUMBER the rest of the subparagraphs accordingly.

Summary of “Successor in Interest” Amendment to S. 1125 –

This amendment would include among the “participants” in the Asbestos Trust Fund any “Successor in interest” to a participant. As developed in the case law, a successor in interest – one who is obliged to take on the obligations of the predecessor corporation – is one that carries on substantially continues the same business, with substantially the same people involved, assets utilized, and products produced. The amendment attempts to insure that mandatory participants will not be able to evade their responsibilities to the Fund by simple changes in their corporate structures or operations.

Summary of Amendment to S 1125 [PDF: SHU03.214]

The Amendment requires the Administrator to refer any information he obtains about possible asbestos violations under OSHA, the Toxic Substances Control Act or the Clean Water Act to the appropriate law enforcement authorities. The Amendment provides a sentencing enhancement for such environmental/health violations that involve asbestos.

Based on the new Title 18 crimes for fraud and false statements (included in the agreed-upon amendments), and the enhanced statutory maximums, the Amendment instructs the U.S. Sentencing Commission to consider appropriate amendments to the Sentencing Guidelines suggesting upward enhancements for asbestos-related crimes.

Summary of Agreed Amendments to S.1125

- X Sections 3(7) & 134 (Reduction in benefit payments for collateral sources): Strike Collateral Sources (Disability Insurance, Health Insurance, Medicare, Medicaid, and death benefit programs; keep as offsets payments from defendants, insurers and compensation trusts)
- X Section 124 (Take Home Exposure): Includes Take Home/Community Exposure (Manville in-shoes filing)
- X Section 122 (Diagnostic criteria Requirements): Strike independent physician verification on exposure, and add dead claimant exception for in-person exam.
- X Section 131 (Amount): Index all awards for annual future inflation based on CPI
- X Section 111 (Filing of Claims): Increase statute of limitations in which to file a claim from 2 to 4 years from the time claimant received a medical diagnosis of an eligible disease or should have known he would receive such a diagnosis. Deletes rule of construction paragraph of Administrator.
- X Section 125 (Exposure Criteria Requirements): include U.S. citizens exposed to asbestos while working for U.S. companies overseas or while on U.S.-flagged ships.
- X Section 204 (Assessment Administration): Add recoupment provision for any financial hardship or inequity adjustments in future years if company can afford it and limits term on inequity adjustment to 3 years.
- X Requires Administrator to provide Congress with annual report of trust funds payments, contributions, etc.
- X Section 401 (False information): Add crime and criminal penalties for defendant/insurer fraud and false statements
- X Section 224 (Enforcement of Contributions): Permits Administrator cause of action against contributing penalties; adds new remedies (punitive damages, injunctive relief – similar to PROTECT Act) to Administrator for failures to pay Fund and penalties for willful failures to pay.
- X Section 202 (Authority and Tiers/Treatment of Tier I Business entities in Bankruptcy): Replaces CEO Certification requirement that asbestos liability was not sole or precipitating cause of bankruptcy filing with bankruptcy court finding

Sunset of Liability Protection

This amendment would create a checkpoint relatively early on in the Fund's 27 year term where the Administrator has to certify that the Fund is operating as envisioned and claimants are being fully compensated. If the Fund isn't functioning properly either because of backlogs or inadequate funding, claimants are allowed to go back to the tort system.

On page 113 at the end of line 7 insert the following:

"The provisions of subsections (c) and (d) shall have no effect after January 1, 2010, unless the Administrator certifies prior to that date that at least 95 percent of all compensable claims filed on or before May 1, 2006 have been paid in full."

Most definitely (. And I think we would want to know exactly which cities (once they have it figured out), have a special case built for it for some additional protection, etc. and it still makes me a bit nervous. It's interesting to note that when we first made the loan to them for the exhibit, the person to whom it was delivered by Mary Ann Hanusa made some comment that he didn't think it would be of too much interest (. Now they say it's a key component of the exhibit! Imagine that.

I have no legal objection to this proposal, but I have been struggling (and delaying) because of my grave concerns about the security of the bullhorn. This is an extraordinarily significant and valuable American artifact, and hauling it around the country from city to city seems destined to pose security problems. Do you agree?

Thanks. With that understanding would it be ok if we circulate the email? Just want to be sure we don't have uniformed officers unwittingly violate the law by giving to Bush-Cheney 04 since they are military. Assume this would not be big news at DOD but I fear it's a thing that our people aren't as up to speed on.
I thought that was not a bad story at all for you in the post today.

Phone calls from the plane

Here is a potential solution. We can have two air phones put on the plane that have a label that says "political phone." Staff can use those phones for any political calls. These phones do not go to the air force one operator. In fact, political staff can call up to these phones directly as well. The calls are about 3.99 per minute - with a minimum of 2-3 minutes. It's just like a phone on a commercial plane.

Then the bill will come to WHCA for these phones only. WHCA will get me the bills and I will give them to Susan. You get the bill monthly, after the fact. The bill would come in itemized, but wouldn't have the callers name identified. You could put a little card next to the phone that gave some sort of policy direction for usage. For example, "please note this is a political phone that costs 3.99 per minute. That's a lot of bumper stickers. Please use sparingly." Or, "this phone may only be used by("

Please let me know if you would like me to make this happen and put this process in place.

Could you two please let me know your thoughts on this question from Mary? I assume we could set some sort of billing procedure set up with WHCA. It also raises another question: if a snack or meal is served on board either plane when we have political travellers, will there be a

What are the rules regarding campaign staff using the phones on AF1 or 2?
I assume that if we can use them, we need some sort of billing card, but are we allowed to use them at all?

D.C. Circuit calculus: Today's edition of The Washington Post reports here that "President Bush plans to nominate White House lawyer Brett M. Kavanaugh, an author of independent counsel Kenneth W. Starr's report on President Bill Clinton, for a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, Republican sources said yesterday." As the article goes on to explain, "The D.C. Circuit court has openings on its 11th and 12th seats. Republicans blocked Clinton from filling at least one of them by arguing that additional judges were not needed." In fact, the D.C. Circuit currently has three vacancies and one pending nominee, Miguel A. Estrada.

The challenge facing the White House is that if it nominates someone to the D.C. Circuit whom the Democratic leadership views as more acceptable than Estrada, that nominee will be confirmed, and Estrada -- whose nomination occurred more than two years ago and is now the subject of a filibuster -- will be left behind, holding a nomination to a seat that in the recent past Republicans have said did not need to be filled. So, if the White House indeed does nominate individuals to the eleventh and twelfth seats on the D.C. Circuit, we are likely to receive answers to the trivia question "Which D.C. Circuit nominees does the White House believe the Democratic leadership will find even more unpalatable than Miguel A. Estrada?" Anything less would represent a clear sign from the White House that the Estrada filibuster battle cannot be won and is no longer worth fighting. posted at 7:21 AM by Howard Bashman

Brett,

We're all set for the call at 9:20. I told Brian you would be speaking 3 - 5 minutes. Is that about right?

Is there any paper you will want us to distribute either before or after you speak on the call?

Thanks,

Tevi

I was the speaker last week at the Commerce Department Ethics retreat and I was asked several Hatch Act questions; I advised that you were the lead on Hatch Act questions. This appears to be a follow up on that.

Subject: Guidance on Political Activities

Nanette, as I mentioned to you last week it would be helpful to get further guidance on a number of issues relating to employees engaging in political activities, as identified below. ¶We have had to face most of these issues during the past few years and any advice regarding them would be appreciated. ¶Specifically, we would appreciate answers or guidance regarding the following questions. ¶

-- ¶ ¶ ¶ ¶ What formula should be used when assessing costs for a Presidential campaign trip? ¶It is our understanding that although a "hypothetical trip" formula is usually used to calculate costs owed to the Government when an event ¶on a mixed official/political trip is for a Presidential campaign, this formula is not used when the campaign is not accepting Federal matching funds. ¶In such cases, the "hard line" formula is used. ¶It would be helpful to receive guidance with regard to trips involving events relating to the President's re-election campaign and what events are to be considered Presidential campaign trips. ¶ ¶ ¶ ¶
-- ¶ ¶ ¶ ¶ When does a short "drop-by" by a Presidential appointee at an event sufficient participation to trigger political activity rules regarding travel reimbursement requirements and other rules applicable to engaging in political activities? ¶ -- ¶ ¶ ¶ ¶ ¶Are there any restrictions or guidance on the grant of leave without pay (LWOP) to employees (particularly noncareer employees) when the time will be used to participate in political events? ¶ ¶ ¶
-- ¶ ¶ ¶ ¶ Will there be any rules regarding charging a campaign for travel costs for official events taking place in states holding a primary during the campaign season (or in key electoral states during the Presidential election campaign season)? ¶ ¶
-- ¶ ¶ ¶ ¶ Is the White House establishing a general policy against the use of official vehicles for political events, even if paid for in advance? ¶ The White House memorandum specifically allows for the use of cars for political events only by the President and Vice President. ¶Commerce

policy allows the use of Government cars for political events by the Secretary (but not others). Should the White House policy be read as discouraging vehicle use even by the Secretary (except, of course, when use of an official vehicle for personal purposes is otherwise authorized, such as for security reasons)?

-- Are employees (particularly Presidential appointees) still required to obtain clearance from the White House before agreeing to participate in a political fund-raiser? If so, how and to whom do you want these clearance requests submitted? It seems to us that this should not be through a legal office but directly from the PAS (or the PAS's staff) to the White House office that is coordinating such events. We also question whether it would be appropriate to require clearance from anyone other than Presidential appointees, since such procedures might create an appearance of helping to coordinate political activities and might infringe on employees' individual rights.

-- Are Presidential appointees still barred from accepting offers of travel on corporate (and union) aircraft, even for political trips? Any guidance the White House could provide on privately-owned aircraft would be helpful.

Barbara

- (ii) no reasonable alternatives to the asbestos containing product exist for the intended purpose; and
- (iii) use of the asbestos containing product will not result in an unreasonable risk to health or the environment.

(B) Sought by the Administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration certifies, and provides a copy of that certification to Congress, that-

- (i) the asbestos containing product is necessary to the critical functions of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration;
- (ii) no reasonable alternatives to the asbestos containing product exist for the intended purpose; and
- (iii) the use of the asbestos containing product will not result in an unreasonable risk to health or the environment.”

(b) ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURES ACT-

Any certification required under subparagraph (a) shall not be subject to the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. § 500 et seq.

(4) Specific Exemptions

(A) Asbestos diaphragms for use in the manufacture of chlor-alkali and the products and derivative therefrom;

(B) Roofing cements, coating and mastic utilizing asbestos that are totally encapsulated with asphalt, subject to a determination by the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency in subsection (5).

(5) Environmental Protection Agency Review

(A) Review in 18 months – Not later than 18 months after the enactment of this Act, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency shall complete a review of the exemption for roofing cements, coating and mastic utilizing asbestos that are totally encapsulated with asphalt to determine whether:

(i) the exemption would result in an unreasonable risk of injury to public health or the environment; and

(ii) there are reasonable, commercial alternatives to the roofing cements, coatings and mastics utilizing asbestos that is totally encapsulated with asphalt.

(B) Revocation of Exemption - Upon completion of the review, the Administrator of the EPA shall have the authority to revoke the exemption for the products exempted in 4(b) if warranted.

Ordered to lie on the table and to be printed

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by Mrs. FEINSTEIN

Viz:

1       At the end, add the following:

2       TITLE V—COMMERCIAL USE OF
3       ASBESTOS

4       SEC. 501. DEFINITIONS.

5       In this title:

6           (1) ATTORNEY GENERAL.—The term “Attorney
7       General” means the Attorney General, acting jointly
8       with the Administrator of the Environmental Protec-
9       tion Agency.

1           (2) ASBESTOS-CONTAINING PRODUCT.—The
2           term “asbestos-containing product” means any prod-
3           uct (including any part) to which asbestos is delib-
4           erately or knowingly added or in which asbestos is
5           deliberately or knowingly used in any concentration.

6           (3) CONTAMINANT-ASBESTOS PRODUCT.—The
7           term “contaminant-asbestos product” means any
8           product—

9                   (A) that contains asbestos as a contami-
10                  nant of any mineral or other substance, in any 11                  concentration; and

12                  (B) to which the asbestos is not delib-
13                  erately or knowingly added or in which asbestos
14                  is not deliberately or knowingly used in any
15                  concentration.

16           (4) DISTRIBUTE IN COMMERCE.—

17                   (A) IN GENERAL.—The term “distribute in 18                  commerce” has the meaning given the term in 19                  section 3 of the Toxic Substances Control Act
20                  (16 U.S.C. 2602).

21                   (B) EXCLUSIONS.—The term “distribute
22                  in commerce” does not include—

23                           (i) an action taken with respect to an
24                           asbestos-containing product in connection
25                           with the end use of the asbestos-containing

1 product by a person that is an end user;
2 or

3 (ii) distribution of an asbestos-con-
4 taining product by a person solely for the
5 purpose of disposal of the asbestos-con-
6 taining product in compliance with applica-
7 ble Federal, State, and local requirements.

8 (5) PERSON.—The term “person” means—

9 (A) any individual;

10 (B) any corporation, company, association,
11 firm, partnership, joint venture, sole proprietor-
12 ship, or other for-profit or nonprofit business
13 entity (including any manufacturer, importer,
14 distributor, or processor);

15 (C) any Federal, State, or local depart-
16 ment, agency, or instrumentality; and

17 (D) any interstate body.

18 SEC. 502. PROHIBITION ON ASBESTOS-CONTAINING PROD-
19 UCTS.

20 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsection (b), the At-
21 torney General shall promulgate—

22 (1) not later than 1 year after the date of en-
23 actment of this Act, proposed regulations that—

1 (A) prohibit persons from manufacturing,
2 processing, or distributing in commerce asbes-
3 tos-containing products; and

4 (B) provide for implementation of sub-
5 sections (b) and (c); and

6 (2) not later than 2 years after the date of en-
7 actment of this Act, final regulations that, effective
8 60 days after the date of promulgation, prohibit per-
9 sons from manufacturing, processing, or distributing
10 in commerce asbestos-containing products.

11 (b) INAPPLICABILITY TO CONTAMINANT-ASBESTOS
12 PRODUCTS.—The regulations under subsection (a) shall
13 not apply to contaminant-asbestos products.

14 (c) EXEMPTIONS.—

15 (1) IN GENERAL.—The products and processes
16 described in paragraph (2) shall be exempt from the 17 regulations under subsection (a) unless the Attorney
18 General determines that any such product should
19 not be exempt, based on information that has be-
20 come available since 1989 suggesting that an exemp-
21 tion would result in an unreasonable risk of injury
22 to public health or the environment.

23 (2) PRODUCTS AND PROCESSES.—The products
24 and processes referred to in paragraph (1) are—

- 1 (A) asbestos diaphragms for regulated use
2 in the manufacture of chloralkali;
3 (B) acetylene cylinders;
4 (C) arc chutes;
5 (D) battery separators;
6 (E) high-grade electrical paper;
7 (F) missile liners;
8 (G) packing reinforced plastic;
9 (H) sealant tape;
10 (I) specialty industrial gaskets; and
11 (J) textiles.

12 (3) PETITIONS FOR EXEMPTION.—

13 (A) IN GENERAL.—Any person may peti-
14 tion the Attorney General for, and the Attorney
15 General may grant, an exemption from the re-
16 quirements of subsection (a) if the Attorney
17 General determines that—

18 (i) the exemption would not result in
19 an unreasonable risk of injury to public
20 health or the environment; and

21 (ii) the person has made good faith ef-
22 forts to develop, but has been unable to de-
23 velop, a substance, or identify a mineral,
24 that—

1 (I) does not present an unreason-
2 able risk of injury to public health or
3 the environment; and

4 (II) may be substituted for an
5 asbestos-containing product.

6 (B) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—An exemp-
7 tion granted under this paragraph shall be in
8 effect for such period (not to exceed 1 year)
9 and subject to such terms and conditions as the 10 Attorney General may prescribe.

11 (d) DISPOSAL.—

12 (1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in para-
13 graph (2), not later than 3 years after the date of 14 enactment of this Act, each person that possesses an 15 asbestos-containing product that is subject to the
16 prohibition established under this section shall dis-
17 pose of the asbestos-containing product, by a means
18 that is in compliance with applicable Federal, State,
19 and local requirements.

20 (2) EXEMPTION.—Nothing in paragraph (1)—

21 (A) applies to an asbestos-containing prod-
22 uct that—

23 (i) is no longer in the stream of com-
24 merce; or

1 (ii) is in the possession of an end
2 user; or

3 (B) requires that an asbestos-containing
4 product described in subparagraph (A) be re-
5 moved or replaced.

6 (e) PENALTIES.—

7 (1) CIVIL PENALTIES.—

8 (A) IN GENERAL.—The Attorney General
9 may impose on a person that violates a regula-
10 tion under subsection (a) a civil penalty of not
11 more than $25,000 for each such violation.

12 (B) PROCEDURE.—

13 (i) IN GENERAL.—The Attorney Gen-
14 eral shall impose a civil penalty under sub-
15 paragraph (A) by an order made on the 16 record after opportunity for a hearing in
17 accordance with section 554 of title 5,
18 United States Code.

19 (ii) NOTICE.—Before issuing an order
20 under clause (i), the Attorney General
21 shall—

22 (I) give the person on which a
23 civil penalty is to be imposed written
24 notice of the proposal to issue the
25 order; and

1 (II) provide the person an oppor-
2 tunity to request, not later than 15
3 days after the date on which the no-
4 tice is received by the person, a hear-
5 ing on the order.

6 (C) AMOUNT.—In determining the amount
7 of a civil penalty, the Attorney General shall
8 take into account—

9 (i) the nature, circumstances, extent,
10 and gravity of the violation; and

11 (ii) with respect to the violator—

12 (I) ability to pay;

13 (II) effect on ability to continue
14 to do business;

15 (III) any history of prior such
16 violations;

17 (IV) degree of culpability; and

18 (V) such other matters as justice
19 may require.

20 (D) COMPROMISE, MODIFICATION, OR RE-
21 MISSION.—The Administrator may compromise,
22 modify, or remit, with or without conditions, a
23 civil penalty imposed under this paragraph.

24 (E) DEDUCTION FROM AMOUNT OWED.—
25 The amount of a civil penalty imposed on a person under this paragraph may be deducted from any sums owed by the United States to the person.

(F) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—Not later than 30 days after the date on which the Attorney General issues an order imposing a civil penalty under subparagraph (B), a person that requested a hearing under subparagraph (B)(ii)(II) with respect to the civil penalty and that is aggrieved by an the order may file a petition for judicial review of the order in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit or for the United States court of appeals for any other circuit in which the person resides or transacts business.

(G) FAILURE TO PAY CIVIL PENALTY.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—If a person fails to pay a civil penalty imposed under this paragraph—

(I) after the order imposing the civil penalty has become final and if person does not file a petition for judicial review of the order under subparagraph (F); or

Calendar No. _____

Purpose: This amendment requires that a physician “evaluate” rather than “independently verify” asbestos exposure.

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES—108th Cong., 1st Sess.

S. 1125

To create a fair and efficient system to resolve claims of victims for bodily injury caused by asbestos exposure, and for other purposes.

Referred to the Committee on _____
And ordered to be printed

Ordered to lie on the table and to be printed

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by Mr. HATCH

Viz:

- 1           On page 25, beginning on line 12, delete sections
- 2   122(b)(2) and 122(b)(3), and insert in lieu thereof:
- 3           “(2) includes a review by the physician of the
- 4           claimant’s work history and asbestos exposure pattern in
- 5           order to evaluate the duration, proximity, regularity and

1 intensity of the exposure, and smoking history, among
2 other factors; and”

3 On page 25, line 19, re-designate existing paragraph
4 122(b)(4) as paragraph 122(b)(3).

DURBIN AMENDMENT TO S. 1125

Purpose: To exempt from the Act asbestos claims currently pending in state or federal courts.

On page 114, line 1, after the word “claim,” insert the following:

“filed after June 1, 2003.”

On page 114, line 6, after the period, insert the following new sentence:

“Nothing in this Act shall affect the jurisdiction of any federal or state court to hear, adjudicate, render judgment on or enforce any asbestos claim filed prior to June 1, 2003.”

On page 114, line 8, after the word “claim” insert the following:

“filed after June 1, 2003.”

On page 116 after line 2 insert the following new subsection:

(e): NON APPLICABILITY TO CLAIMS FILED BEFORE JUNE 1, 2003. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any asbestos claim in any state or federal court filed prior to June 1, 2003.

EXPLANATION: This amendment would exempt from coverage under the Act all asbestos claims that were filed in state or federal courts prior to June 1, 2003.

DURBIN AMENDMENT TO S. 1125

Purpose: To restore the rights of railroad workers under the Federal Employers' Liability Act (FELA)

On page 5, line 3, strike "or"

On page 5, line 6, strike "." and insert ", or claims brought pursuant to the Act of April 22, 1908 (45 U.S.C. 51 et seq.)."

On page 8, line 20, strike "does not include" and insert "includes"

On page 8, line 22, strike "or" and insert "and"

On page 47, at the end of line 2, add "and"

On page 47, line 6, strike "and"

On page 64, strike lines 13-21

EXPLANATION: This amendment would allow railroad workers with asbestos claims to seek their legal claims under the Federal Employers' Liability Act (FELA).

DURBIN AMENDMENT TO S. 1125

Purpose: To increase the amount of financial hardship and inequity adjustments.

On page 66, line 17, strike “3 percent” and insert “6 percent”.

On page 67, line 18, strike “2 percent” and insert “4 percent”.

Increase the contribution amounts of Tier II defendant participants as necessary to compensate for the increases in the financial hardship and inequity adjustments.

On page 66, lines 20-24, insert the underlined text:

(A) IN GENERAL- A defendant may qualify for an adjustment based on inequity by demonstrating that the amount of its contribution under the statutory allocation is exceptionally inequitable when measured against that percentage of the defendant’s prior asbestos expenditures that were incurred with respect to claims that neither resulted in an adverse judgment against the defendant nor were the subject of a settlement that required a payment to a plaintiff by or on behalf of that defendant; or the amount of the likely cost to the defendant of its future liability in the tort system in the absence of the Fund.

EXPLANATION: This amendment would double the current caps for the financial hardship and inequity adjustments while revising the definition of “inequity adjustments” to include costs incurred in cases where the defendant mounted a successful defense.

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by Mr. HATCH

Viz:

1 At the end, add the following:

2 TITLE V- PROHIBITION OF ASBESTOS

3 CONTAINING PRODUCTS

4 At the end of Chapter 39 of Title 18 of the United States Code,
5 insert the following new Chapter:

6 Chapter 39A – Ban of Asbestos Containing Products

7 § 838. Ban of Asbestos Containing Products

8 (a) DEFINITIONS: For the purposes of this Chapter,

1 (1) ASBESTOS. - The term “Asbestos” includes –

2 (A) chrysotile;

3 (B) amosite;

4 (C) crocidolite;

5 (D) tremolite asbestos;

6 (E) winchite asbestos;

7 (F) richterite asbestos;

8 (G) anthophyllite asbestos;

9 (H) actinolite asbestos;

10 (I) any of the minerals listed under subparagraphs (A)
11 through (H) that has been chemically treated or altered,
12 and any asbestiform variety, type or component
13 thereof.

14 (2) ASBESTOS CONTAINING PRODUCT.- The term “Asbestos
15 Containing Product” means any product (including any part) to 16 which asbestos is deliberately or knowingly added or used because 17 the specific properties of asbestos are necessary for product use or 18 function. Under no circumstances shall ‘asbestos containing
19 product’ be construed to include products that contain de minimus
20 levels of naturally occurring asbestos as defined by the 21 Administrator not later than one year after the date of enactment of 22 this Chapter.

1 (3) DISTRIBUTE IN COMMERCE.- The term “Distribute in
2 Commerce”-

3 a. has the meaning given the term in 15 U.S.C. § 2602; and

4 b. shall not include –

5 i. an action taken with respect to an asbestos
6 containing product in connection with the end use
7 of the asbestos containing product by a person
8 that is an end user, or an action taken by a person
9 who purchases or receives a product, directly or
10 indirectly from an end user; or

11 ii. distribution of an asbestos-containing product by 12 a person solely for the purpose of disposal of the 13 asbestos containing product in compliance with
14 applicable Federal, State and local requirements.

15 (4) ADMINISTRATOR- The term “Administrator” shall mean the 16 Administrator for the Environmental Protection Agency.

17 (b) IN GENERAL – Subject to subsection (c), the Administrator
18 shall, after consultation with the Assistant Attorney General for 19 the Environmental and Natural Resources Division of the United
20 States Department of Justice, promulgate –

21 (1) not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this
22 subtitle, proposed regulations that –

1 (A) prohibit persons from manufacturing, processing,
2 or distributing in commerce asbestos-containing
3 products; and

4 (B) provide for implementation of subsections (c)
5 and (d); and

6 (2) not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this
7 subtitle, final regulations that, effective 60 days after the 8 date of promulgation, prohibit persons from
9 manufacturing, processing, or distributing in commerce
10 asbestos-containing products.

11 (c) EXEMPTIONS-

12 (1) IN GENERAL- Any person may petition the 13 Administrator for, and the Administrator may grant an
14 exemption from the requirements of subsection (b) if the
15 Administrator determines that –

16 (A) the exemption would not result in an
17 unreasonable risk of injury to public health or the 18 environment; and

19 (B) the person has made good faith efforts to 20 develop, but has been unable to develop, a
21 substance, or identify a mineral that does not
22 present an unreasonable risk of injury to public

1 health or the environment and may be substituted
2 for an asbestos containing product.

3 (2) TERMS AND CONDITIONS- An exemption granted
4 under this subsection shall be in effect for such period
5 (not to exceed 5 years) and subject to such terms and
6 conditions as the Administrator may prescribe.

7 (3) GOVERNMENTAL USE- The Administrator shall
8 provide an exemption from the requirements of
9 subsection (a), without review or limit on duration, if
10 such exemption for an asbestos containing product is
11 sought by the Secretary of Defense or the Administrator
12 of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

13 (4) SPECIFIC EXEMPTIONS-

14 (A) Asbestos diaphragms for use in the manufacture or 15 chlor-alkali and the products and derivative
16 therefrom;

17 (B) Roofing cements, coatings and mastics utilizing
18 asbestos that is totally encapsulated with asphalt.

19 (d) DISPOSAL-

20 (1) IN GENERAL- Except as provided in paragraph (2), not
21 later than 3 years after the date of enactment of this
22 subtitle, each person that possesses an asbestos
23 containing product that is subject to the prohibition

1 established under this section shall dispose of the
2 asbestos-containing product, by a means that is in
3 compliance with applicable Federal, State, and local
4 requirements.

5 (2) EXEMPTION- Nothing in paragraph (1) –

6 (A) applies to an asbestos containing product that –

7 (i) is no longer in the stream of 8 commerce; or

9 (ii) is in the possession of an end user; or

10 (B) requires that an asbestos containing product
11 described in subparagraph (A) be removed or 12 replaced.

3           On page 20, after line 20, insert new section 114(c)(3) as

4   follows:

5           “(3) INDEPENDENT REVIEWS OF MEDICAL EVIDENCE. —

1 – The Asbestos Court shall establish procedures for
2 independently evaluating the medical evidence submitted in
3 support of claims. At a minimum, the Court shall prescribe
4 procedures for magistrates to randomly assign claims for
5 confirmation by certified B readers of x-rays submitted in
6 support of claims, the cost of which shall be borne by the Fund.
7 If an independent B reader disagrees with the quality grading or
8 ILO level assigned to an x-ray submitted in support of a claim,
9 the procedures shall require a second independent B reading. If 10 neither independent B reader agrees with the quality grading and 11 the ILO level assigned to the film as part of the claim, the 12 magistrate shall recommend denial of the claim pursuant to 13 subsection (f).

- 2 SEC. 126. INSTITUTE OF MEDICINE STUDY.
- 3 (a) Not later than two years after date of enactment, the
- 4 Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences shall
- 5 complete a study of the causal link between asbestos exposure
- 6 and other cancers, including, but not limited to, colorectal,

1 laryngeal, esophageal, pharyngeal, and stomach cancers, except
2 for mesothelioma and lung cancers. The Institute of Medicine
3 shall issue a report on its findings on causation, which shall be
4 transmitted to the Congress, the Asbestos Court, and the Medical
5 Advisory Committee. The Asbestos Court and the Medical
6 Advisory Committee shall consider the results of the report for
7 purposes of determining whether asbestos exposure is a
8 substantial contributing factor under section 124(6)(F).

9 (b) If the Asbestos Court has evidence that there have been
10 advancements in science that would require additional study, the 11 Court may request that the Institute of Medicine conduct a 12 subsequent study to determine if asbestos exposure is a cause of 13 other cancers.

Viz:

- 1 Page 49, line 9 strike section (C) and replace with the following;
- 2 (C) The bankruptcy court presiding over the business
- 3 entity's case determines, after notice and a hearing upon
- 4 motion filed by the entity within 30 days of the effective
- 5 date of this Act, which motion shall be supported by:

- 1           (i)     an affidavit or declaration of the Chief Executive
2                   Officer, Chief Financial Officer or Chief Legal
3                   Officer of the business entity, and
- 4           (ii)  copies of the entity's public statements and
5                   securities filings made in connection with the
6                   entity's filing for chapter 11 protection that asbestos
7                   liability was not the sole or precipitating cause of 8                   the entity's chapter 11 filing. Notice of such motion 9                   shall be as directed by the bankruptcy court and the 10                  hearing shall be limited to consideration of the 11                  question of whether or not asbestos liability was the 12                  sole or precipitating cause of the entity's chapter 11
13                  filing. The bankruptcy court shall hold a hearing
14                  and make its determination with respect to the 15                  motion within 60 days after the date the motion is 16                  filed. In making its determination, the bankruptcy
17                  court shall take into account the affidavits, public
18                  statements and securities filings, and other
19                  information, if any, submitted by the entity and all

1           other facts and circumstances presented by an
2           objecting party.

3       (iii) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—Any review of this
4           determination must be an expedited appeal and
5           limited to whether the decision was against the
6           weight of the evidence presented.

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by _____

Viz:

1           On p. 66, line 11, insert after “(C) RENEWAL.” The following
2 language: “After an initial hardship adjustment is granted by this section, a”

3           On p. 66 line 11 before the word “defendant” strike the following:
4 “A”

5           On p. 66, line 19 after the entire section “(D) LIMITATION.” Insert
6 the following new section:

7           (E) REINSTATEMENT. Following the expiration of the

1 hardship adjustment period provided for under this section and
2 during the mandatory funding period, the Administrator shall
3 annually determine whether there has been a material change in the 4 financial condition of the defendant such that the Administrator
5 may, consistent with the policies and legislative intent underlying
6 this Act, reinstate under terms and conditions established by the 7 administrator any part or all of the defendant's contribution under
8 the statutory allocation that was not paid during the hardship
9 adjustment term.

10 On p. 67, line 8, strike "for the life of the Fund" and insert in its place: "for 11 a term of 3 years."

12 On p. 67, line 9 before section "(C) LIMITATION" insert the following:

- 13 (i) RENEWAL. – After an inequity adjustment is 14 granted by this section, a defendant may renew every 15 3 years its inequity adjustment by demonstrating that 16 it remains justified.
- 17 (ii) REINSTATEMENT.- Following the expiration of 18 the inequity adjustment period provided for under
19 this section and during the mandatory funding period,
20 the Administrator shall annually determine whether
21 there has been a material change in conditions which 22 would support a finding that the amount of the 23 defendant's contribution under the statutory

1 allocation was not inequitable. Based on this
2 determination, the Administrator may, consistent
3 with the policies and legislative intent underlying this
4 Act, reinstate under terms and conditions established
5 by the administrator any part or all of the defendant's
6 contribution under the statutory allocation that was
7 not paid during the inequity adjustment term.

Viz:

- 1 AMENDMENT.—To Section 131(4) of S. 1125 to index scheduled awards
2 for future inflation;
3 (4)(A) Beginning January 1, 2006, award amounts set forth in paragraph
4 (1) shall be increased annually by an amount equal to such dollar
5 amount multiplied by the cost-of-living adjustment, rounded to the 6 nearest $1,000 increment.
7 (B) For purposes of subparagraph (A), the cost of living adjustment for any
8 calendar year is the percentage (if any) by which the CPI for the 9 succeeding calendar year exceeds the CPI for the calendar year
10 2004.

1 (C) For purposes of subparagraph (B), the CPI for any calendar year is the
2 average of the Consumer Price Index as of the close of the 12-month
3 period ending on August 31 of such calendar year.

4 (D) For the purposes of subparagraph (C), the term “Consumer Price
5 Index” means the Consumer Price Index published by the
6 Department of Labor. The Consumer Price Index series to be used
7 for award escalations shall include the Consumer Price Index used
8 for all-urban consumers, with an area coverage of the U.S. City
9 Average, for all items, and based on the 1982-84 index base period.

Viz:

1   SEC. 125. EXPOSURE CRITERIA REQUIREMENTS.

2           On page 37, line 12, add:

3                   (d) WAIVER FOR WORKERS AND RESIDENTS

4           OF LIBBY,

1 MONTANA. Because of the unique nature of the asbestos
2 exposure related to the vermiculite mining and milling
3 operations in Libby, Montana, the Asbestos Court shall
4 waive the exposure requirements under this subtitle for
5 individuals who (a) worked at the vermiculite mining and
6 milling facility in Libby, Montana; or (b) lived or worked
7 in within a 20-mile radius of Libby, Montana, for at least
8 12 consecutive months prior to December 31, 2003.
9 Claimants under this section must provide meaningful and
10 credible evidence to establish eligibility for the waiver of 11 the otherwise applicable exposure criteria under this
12 subtitle, and shall provide such supporting documentation
13 as the Asbestos Court shall require.

AMENDMENT NO. Calendar No.

Purpose: This amendment replaces the current section 124 on medical criteria. It adds a level for severe asbestosis, and utilizes the weighted exposure framework, which recognizes the heavier exposure in earlier years. It also creates three categories for the lung cancer claimants – smoker, former smoker and non-smoker.

PROPOSED MEDICAL CRITERIA - DRAFT
AMENDMENTS TO EXPOSURE CRITERIA

[We are awaiting language from Democratic Staff related to exposures on U.S. flagships.]

[Although we have provided language for how the time-weighting for historical exposures might work, we are still awaiting language from Labor.]

On page 35, after line 23, insert new subsection (b) as follows:

(b) SUBSTANTIAL OCCUPATIONAL EXPOSURE. —
For purposes of section 124, years of substantial occupational exposure shall be calculated as follows:
Each year or years of exposure that occurred prior to 1976 shall be counted fully; each year from 1976 to 1986 shall be counted as one-half; and each year after 1986 shall be counted as one-fourth.

For Settlement Purposes Only

On page 36, after line 14, amend section 125, by inserting new subsection (c), as follows:

(cb) WEIGHTED OCCUPATIONAL YEARS OF EXPOSURE. — The period of occupational exposure for purposes of paragraphs (6), (7), and (8) of Weighted years of substantial occupational exposure and moderate, heavy and very heavy occupational exposure under subsection 124(b) shall be calculated as follows:

(1) MODERATE EXPOSURE. — Subject to paragraph (4), each year that a claimant's primary occupation, during a substantial portion of a normal work year for that occupation, involved working in areas immediate to where asbestos-containing products were being installed, repaired, or removed under circumstances that involved regular airborne emissions of asbestos fibers, shall count as one year of significant occupational exposure; (2) HEAVY EXPOSURE. —
Subject to paragraph (4), Each year prior to 1976 that a claimant's primary occupation, during a substantial

For Settlement Purposes Only

portion of a normal work year for that occupation, involved the direct installation, repair, or removal of asbestos-containing products such that the person was exposed on a regular basis to asbestos fibers, shall count as two years of significant occupational exposure;

(3) VERY HEAVY EXPOSURE. — Each year [prior to 1976] that a claimant's primary occupation, during a substantial portion of a normal work year for that occupation, was in the following industries, (a) primary asbestos manufacturing, (b) World War II shipyard during World War II, or (c) asbestos insulation trades, such that the person was exposed on a regular basis to asbestos fibers, shall count as 4 years of significant occupational exposure;

(4) DATES OF EXPOSURE. — Each year or years of exposure calculated under paragraphs (1), (2), and (3) that occurred prior to 1976 shall be counted fully; each year from 1976 to 1986 shall be counted as one-half; and each year after 1986 shall be counted as one-tenth.

(A) a diagnosis that meets the requirements of section 122 of one of the following —

(i) interstitial fibrosis based on a Certified B-reader x-ray reading of ILO grade 1/0 or greater and showing small irregular opacities of shape/size either ss, st, or tt and present in both lower lung zones;

(ii) bilateral pleural plaques based on a reading of an x-ray by a Certified B-reader; or

12 (iii) be actively and primarily practicing medicine in a 13 field directly related to the physician's board certification.]

15 follows:

16 (c) EXCEPTIONAL MEDICAL CLAIMS. — A claimant who
17 does not meet the medical criteria requirements under 18 subsections (a) and (b) may apply for designation of his or her
19 claim as an exceptional medical claim under this subsection. To 20 submit an application for review of an exceptional medical

1 claim, the claimant must (i) state that the claim does not meet the
2 medical criteria requirements in subsections (a) and (b), or (ii)
3 seek designation as an exceptional medical claim within sixty
4 (60) days after a determination that the claim is ineligible solely
5 for failure to meet the medical criteria requirements under
6 subsections (a) and (b).

7 (1) Any claimant applying for designation of his
8 or her claim as an exceptional medical claim must support
9 his or her application with a report from a physician
10 meeting the requirements of section 122. In addition to 11 the requirements of section 122, the report must include:
12 (i) a complete review of the exposed person's medical
13 history and current condition; (ii) such additional material
14 by way of analysis and documentation as shall be 15 prescribed by regulation; and (iii) a detailed explanation as 16 to why the claim meets the standard for acceptance under
17 paragraph (2).

18 (2) At regular intervals, the Asbestos Court shall 19 refer the applications and supporting documentation to the 20 Medical Advisory Committee established pursuant to

1 section 114(h) to review all applications for designation as
2 an exceptional medical claim that were submitted during
3 the prior relevant period. The standard to be applied for
4 designation as an exceptional medical claim shall be that
5 the claimant, for reasons beyond his or her control, cannot
6 satisfy the requirements under subsections (a) and (b), but
7 is able, through comparably reliable evidence that meets
8 the standards under section 122, to show that the claimant
9 has an asbestos-related condition that is substantially
10 comparable to that of a medical condition that would
11 satisfy the requirements of a category under subsection
12 (b). The Medical Advisory Committee, if it deems
13 necessary, may request additional, reasonable testing to 14 support the claimant's application.

15 (3) A claimant may submit a CT Scan in addition
16 to an x-ray.

17 (4) If the Medical Advisory Committee
18 determines that the medical evidence is sufficient to show
19 a comparable asbestos-related condition, it shall issue a
20 certificate of medical eligibility which shall designate the

1 disease category under subsection (b) as to which the
2 claimant may be eligible to seek compensation. Any
3 claim as to which such certificate shall issue shall then be
4 referred to a magistrate pursuant to section 114(b), who
5 shall determine whether the claimant meets all of the other
6 requirements for compensation under this Act.

7 (5) Any claimant whose application for
8 designation as an exceptional medical claim is rejected
9 may resubmit his or her application if new evidence
10 becomes available, but no more frequently than once every 11 two years. Upon resubmission of an application, the 12 claimant shall identify any prior applications and state the 13 new evidence that is the basis for the resubmission.

14 (6) The chief judge shall promulgate regulations
15 consistent with the statute governing the procedures for 16 seeking designation of a claim as an exceptional medical 17 claim.

2   follows:

3           “(3) the procedures for notifying claimants who are 4   eligible for medical monitoring and providing such claimants
5   a list of approved medical care providers in their geographic 6   area who are approved to provide reimbursable medical 7   monitoring services.”

Medical Screening/Monitoring

This amendment would set up an efficient and reliable screening program for people in high risk occupations to be sure that those who were injured are identified and paid, and then to provide regular monitoring of those who have less serious medical problems that cannot yet be compensated under the bill.

Sec XXX: Education, Consultation, Screening and Monitoring

(a) General: - There is established within the Asbestos Trust Fund a program for the education, consultation, medical screening and medical monitoring of persons with exposure to asbestos. The program shall be funded by the Asbestos Trust Fund and administered by the Administrator.

(b) Outreach and Education Within 180 days after the implementation of this Act, the Administrator shall establish an outreach and education program designed to provide information about asbestos-related medical conditions to members of populations at risk of developing these conditions.

1. The information provided to these populations will include information about the signs and symptoms of asbestos-related medical conditions; the value of appropriate medical screening programs; and actions that the individuals at risk can take to reduce their future health risks related to asbestos.
2. The administrator is encouraged to contract with outside organizations to provide these educational programs. Preference shall be given to providers which are existing not-for-profit organizations with a history and experience of providing occupational health outreach and educational programs for asbestos-exposed workers.

(c) Coverage and Application: Each person who can demonstrate through work histories or other documentation an exposure to asbestos (as described below) his or hers voluntary discretion, is entitled to participate in the medical screening and medical monitoring program established by this Act.

(d ) Medical Screening Program: Within 180 days after the implementation of this act, the Administrator shall establish a medical screening program for persons with past exposure to asbestos who have not yet been diagnosed with an asbestos-related illness. For the purposes of this section medical screening program means an initial program consultation, medical examination and work history of persons previously exposed to asbestos who have not been diagnosed with an asbestos-related illness.

The Program shall establish:

1. Eligibility criteria for the medical screening program based on a past history of occupational exposure to asbestos. To the extent feasible (and in order to ease application to the program), such criteria shall establish eligibility for screening based on a history of work in an asbestos-related occupation and/or industry during a specific time period and for a minimum duration. These industries and occupations shall include, but not be limited to, the occupations and industries identified as meeting the weighted exposure criteria for lung cancer, (asbestosis and pleural disease) specified in Disease Categories Level I, II, III, VII and VIII.

2. Protocols for medical screening, which shall include but not be limited to:
  - i. Administration of a health evaluation and work history questionnaire;
  - ii. Physical examination including blood pressure measurement, chest examination and examination for clubbing.
  - iii. AP and lateral chest x-ray;
  - iv. Spirometry performed according to ATS standards;
  - v. Educational sessions on asbestos exposures, asbestos-related diseases and asbestos disease compensation criteria.
3. The frequency with this medical screening shall be provided or available to eligible individuals, which initially shall not be less than every five years.
4. The qualifications of the medical and/or program providers administering these protocols.
5. A list of medical and/or program providers eligible to provide these protocols who meet minimal medical and program standards established by the Administrator. Preference shall be given to medical providers and program providers which are existing not-for-profit organization with a history and experience of providing or contracting for medical screening programs for persons previously exposed to asbestos; and with a demonstrated capacity for identifying, contacting, and evaluating populations of workers or others previously exposed to asbestos; and with experience in establishing networks of medical providers to conduct medical screening and medical monitoring examinations. To the extent possible, these screening programs should be coordinated with the outreach and education programs described above.

Section (d) Medical Monitoring Program and Protocols: Within 180 days after the implementation of this act, the Administrator shall promulgate procedures (regulations) establishing a medical monitoring program for persons exposed to asbestos who have been approved for Category I and II compensation.

In consultation with the Directors of The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) and the National Cancer Institute (NCI), the Administrator shall promulgate procedures/regulations establishing:

1. Specific medical tests to be provided to eligible individuals and the periodicity of those tests. Initially these tests shall be provided every two years and include the following:
  - i. Administration of a health evaluation and work history questionnaire;
  - ii. Physical examination including blood pressure measurement, chest examination and examination for clubbing.
  - iii. AP and lateral chest x-ray;
  - iv. Spirometry performed according to ATS standards;
  - v. Educational sessions on asbestos exposures, asbestos-related diseases and asbestos disease compensation criteria.
2. Qualifications for medical providers to provide those tests.
3. A list of medical and/or program providers eligible to provide these protocols who meet minimal medical and program standards established by the Administrator. Preference shall be given to medical providers and program providers as defined in this section. Persons exposed to asbestos who elect to participate in the program shall be provided with the list of approved providers in their geographic area at the time they become eligible for the program.
4. Administrative provisions for reimbursing the costs of these monitoring tests.

Section (e): The Administrator may enter into contracts with qualified program providers that would permit the program providers to undertake large-scale medical screening and medical monitoring programs by means of subcontracts a network of medical providers and other health providers.

Section (f): The Administrator shall review and as necessary and appropriate update these requirements and protocols at least every five years.

Structured Payments Clarification

As we understand the desire of the bill's sponsors, awards may be paid out to successful claimants over a period of three years, in part to reduce the stress on the "front-end" of the fund. But as written, the bill requires payments to be made over at least three years, and they could be made over 5 or 10 or 25 years. This amendment would ensure that payments are made over a period not to exceed three years. (Presumably in later years, the Administrator could decide to make payments over two years or immediately, if the finances of the Fund made that possible. That would not be permissible under the current language.)

On page 40, line 4, strike "less" and insert "more".

DURBIN AMENDMENT TO S. 1125

Purpose: To amend the definition of “prior asbestos expenditure.”

On page 46, lines 17-21, insert the underlined text:

(A) means the gross total amount paid by or on behalf of a person at any time before December 31, 2002, in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity costs related to all asbestos claims that ultimately resulted in an adverse judgment against that person or that were the subject of a settlement that required a payment to a plaintiff by or on behalf of that person;”

EXPLANATION: This amendment would exclude from the calculation of “prior asbestos expenditures” those costs incurred in cases where the defendant mounted a successful defense.

Proposed changes to “Fairness in Asbestos Injury Resolution Act of 2003”; changes are highlighted in purple.

(4) INDEMNITEE. — The term “indemnitee” means a person against whom any asbestos claim has been asserted before December 31, 2002, who has received from any other person, or on whose behalf a sum has been paid by such other person to any third person, in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity in connection with an alleged duty with respect to the defense or indemnification of such person concerning that asbestos claim, other than under a policy of insurance.

(5) INDEMNITOR. — The term “indemnitor” means a person who has paid under a written agreement at any time before December 31, 2002, a sum in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity to or on behalf of any person defending against an asbestos claim, in connection with an alleged duty with respect to the defense or indemnification of such person concerning that asbestos claim, except that payments by an insurer or reinsurer under a contract of insurance or reinsurance shall not make the insurer or reinsurer an indemnitor for purposes of this subtitle.

(6) PRIOR ASBESTOS EXPENDITURE. — The term “prior asbestos expenditures” —

(A) means the gross total amount paid by or on behalf of a person at any time before December 31, 2002, in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity costs related to all asbestos claims against that person;

(B) includes payments made by insurance carriers to or for the benefit of such person or on such person’s behalf with respect to such asbestos claims, except as provided in section 204(g);

(C) shall not include any payment made by a person in connection with or as a result of changes in insurance reserves as required by contract or any activities or disputes related to insurance coverage matters for asbestos-related liabilities; and

(D) shall not include any payment made by or on behalf of persons who are or were common carriers by railroad for asbestos claims brought under the Act of April 22, 1908 (45 U.S.C. 51 et seq.), commonly known as the Federal Employers’ Liability Act, including settlement, judgment, defense or indemnity costs associated with these claims.

* * * * *

facie showing of physical impairment as a result of a medical condition to which exposure to asbestos was a substantial contributing factor.

(2) REQUIREMENTS OF PRIMA FACIE SHOWING- A prima facie showing under this subsection shall include all of the following minimum requirements:

(A) PERMANENT RESPIRATORY IMPAIRMENT RATING- A determination by a qualified physician, on the basis of a medical examination and pulmonary function testing, that the exposed person has a permanent respiratory impairment rating of at least Class 2 as defined by and evaluated under the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment.

(B) DIAGNOSIS- A diagnosis by a qualified physician of asbestosis or diffuse pleural thickening, based at a minimum on pathological evidence of asbestosis, radiological evidence of asbestosis, or radiological evidence of diffuse pleural thickening.

(C) SUBSTANTIAL CONTRIBUTING FACTOR- A determination by a qualified physician that asbestosis or diffuse pleural thickening (rather than solely chronic obstructive pulmonary disease) is a substantial contributing factor to the exposed person's physical impairment, based at a minimum on a determination that the exposed person has either--

(i) a ratio of FEV1 to FVC that is equal to or greater than the predicted lower limit of normal; or

(ii) a chest x-ray showing small, irregular opacities (s,t) graded by a certified B-reader at least 2/1 on the ILO scale.

SEC. 5. EXPOSURE CRITERIA REQUIREMENTS.

(a) REQUIREMENT- To be eligible to receive an award under this title for an asbestos-related injury, the claim submitted by the asbestos claimant shall contain information to demonstrate that--

(1) the claimant meets the minimum exposure requirements under this subtitle; and

(2) such exposure to asbestos occurred within the United States, its territories, or possessions.

(b) BURDEN OF PROOF-

(1) IN GENERAL- An asbestos claimant has the burden of demonstrating meaningful and credible exposure to asbestos for purposes of this subtitle.

(2) EVIDENCE- The demonstration under paragraph (1) may be established by-

(A) an affidavit submitted by the claimant, a coworker of the claimant, or a family member, in the case of a deceased claimant;

(B) employment records;

(C) invoices;

(D) construction or other similar records; or

(E) other credible evidence.

(c) RULES-

(1) EXPOSURE INFORMATION- The Asbestos Court shall issue rules prescribing specific exposure information that shall be submitted to permit the Court to process an asbestos claim and prescribing a proof of claim form. Such rules may provide that a claims examiner or magistrate, as applicable, may require the submission of other or additional evidence of exposure when determined to be appropriate and necessary.

(2) REBUTTABLE PRESUMPTIONS- The Asbestos Court may prescribe rules identifying specific industries, occupations within those industries, time periods, and employment periods for which significant occupational exposure may be a rebuttable presumption for asbestos claimants who provide meaningful and credible evidence that the claimant worked in that industry and occupation for the requisite period of time. The Administrator may provide evidence to rebut this presumption.

(c) COMPLIANCE WITH TECHNICAL STANDARDS-

(1) IN GENERAL- Evidence relating to physical impairment under this section, including pulmonary function testing and diffusing studies, shall comply with--

(A) the technical recommendations for examinations, testing procedures, quality assurance and quality control, and equipment of the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment; or

(B) if the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment are not applicable, other authoritative standards.

(2) ADJUSTMENTS- No adjustments with respect to pulmonary function testing shall be made on the basis of race.

(d) NO PRESUMPTION AT TRIAL- Presentation of prima facie evidence of asbestos-related impairment meeting the requirements of this section shall not result in any presumption at trial that the exposed person is impaired by an asbestos-related condition, and evidence that the exposed person made a prima facie showing of impairment shall not be admissible at trial.

SEC. 6. PROCEDURES; REMOVAL.

(a) CONSOLIDATION- A court may consolidate for trial any number and type of asbestos claims with consent of all the parties. In the absence of such consent, the court may consolidate for trial only asbestos claims relating to the same exposed person and members of the household of the exposed person.

(b) VENUE-

(1) IN GENERAL- A civil action asserting an asbestos claim may only be brought in the State of the plaintiff's domicile or a State in which there occurred exposure to asbestos that is a substantial contributing factor to the physical impairment on which the claim is based.

(c) PRELIMINARY PROCEEDINGS- The plaintiff in any civil action involving an asbestos claim shall file with the complaint or other initial pleading a written report and supporting test results constituting prima facie evidence of the exposed person's asbestos-related impairment meeting the requirements of section 4(b). The defendant shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to challenge the adequacy of the proffered prima facie evidence of asbestos-related impairment. The plaintiff's claim shall be dismissed without prejudice upon a finding of failure to make the required prima facie showing.

SEC. 7. FILING OF CLAIMS.

(a) WHO MAY SUBMIT-

(1) GENERAL RULE- Any individual who has suffered from an eligible disease or condition that is believed to meet the requirements established (or the spouse, parent, child, or other relative of such individual in a representative capacity, or the executor of the estate of such individual) may file a claim with the court for an award with respect to such injury.

(2) LIMITATION- An asbestos claim may not be filed by any person seeking contribution or indemnity.

(b) REQUIRED INFORMATION- To be valid, an asbestos claim filed under subsection

(a) shall be notarized and include--

(1) the name, social security number, gender, date of birth, and, if applicable, date of death of the claimant;

(2) information relating to the identity of dependents and beneficiaries of the claimant;

(3) a detailed description of the work history of the claimant, including social security records or a signed release permitting access to such records;

(4) a detailed description of the asbestos exposure of the claimant, including information on the identity of any product or manufacturer, site, or location of exposure, plant name, and duration and intensity of exposure;

(5) a detailed description of the tobacco product use history of the claimant, including frequency and duration;

(6) an identification and description of the asbestos-related diseases of the claimant, including a written report by the claimant's physician with medical diagnoses and test results necessary to make a determination of medical eligibility that complies with the applicable requirements of this subtitle.

(7) a description of any prior or pending civil action or other claim brought by the claimant for asbestos-related injury or any other pulmonary, parenchymal or pleural injury, including an identification of any recovery of compensation or damages through settlement, judgment, or otherwise; and

(8) any other information that is required to be included under procedural rules issued by the court.

(d) REMOVAL-

(1) IN GENERAL- If a State court refuses or fails to apply this section, any party in a civil action for an asbestos claim may remove such action to a district court of the United States in accordance with chapter 89 of title 28, United States Code.

(2) JURISDICTION OVER REMOVED ACTIONS- The district courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction of all civil actions removed under this subsection, without regard to the amount in controversy and without regard to the citizenship or residence of the parties.

(3) REMOVAL BY ANY DEFENDANT- A civil action may be removed to the district court of the United States under this subsection by any defendant without the consent of all defendants.

(4) REMAND- The district court shall remand any civil action removed solely under this subsection, unless the court finds that--

(A) the State court failed to comply with procedures prescribed by law; or

(B) the failure to dismiss by the State court lacked substantial support in the record before the State court.

SEC. 8. DISMISSAL OF PENDING CLAIMS.

(a) EFFECT ON PENDING CLAIMS- If an asbestos claimant has any timely filed claim for an asbestos-related injury that is pending in a Federal or State court or with a trust established under title 11, United States Code, on the date of enactment of this Act, such claimant shall file an asbestos claim under this section within 180 days or the pending suits shall be dismissed without prejudice.

SEC. 9. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS; TWO-DISEASE RULE.

(a) STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS- Notwithstanding any other provision of law, with respect to any nonmalignant asbestos claim not barred on the effective date of this Act, the limitations period shall not begin to run until the exposed person discovers, or through the exercise of reasonable diligence should have discovered, that the exposed person is physically impaired by an asbestos-related nonmalignant condition.

(b) TWO-DISEASE RULE- An asbestos claim arising out of a nonmalignant condition shall be a distinct cause of action from an asbestos claim relating to the same exposed person arising out of asbestos-related cancer. No damages shall be awarded for fear or risk of cancer in any civil action asserting only a nonmalignant asbestos claim.

(c) GENERAL RELEASES FROM LIABILITY PROHIBITED- No settlement of a nonmalignant asbestos claim concluded after the date of enactment of this Act shall require, as a condition of settlement, release of any future claim for asbestos-related cancer.

SEC. 10. PUNITIVE DAMAGES.

SEC. 11. MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

(a) CONSTRUCTION WITH OTHER LAWS- This Act shall not be construed to--

- (1) affect the scope or operation of any workers' compensation law or veterans' benefit program;
- (2) affect the exclusive remedy or subrogation provisions of any such law; or
- (3) authorize any lawsuit which is barred by any such provision of law.

(b) CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY- The Constitutional authority for this Act is contained in Article I, section 8, clause 3 and Article III, section 1 of the Constitution of the United States.

SEC. 12. EFFECTIVE DATE.

This Act shall take effect on the date of enactment of this Act and apply to any civil action asserting an asbestos claim in which trial has not commenced as of that date.

AMENDMENT NO. Calendar No.

Purpose: To provide for the fair and efficient judicial consideration of personal injury and wrongful death claims arising out of asbestos exposure, to ensure that individuals who suffer harm, now or in the future, from illnesses caused by exposure to asbestos receive compensation for their injuries, and for other purposes.

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES—108th Cong., 1st Sess.

S. 1125

To create a fair and efficient system to resolve claims of victims for bodily injury caused by asbestos exposure, and for other purposes.

Strike sections 101-403 and insert the following:

A BILL

To provide for the fair and efficient judicial consideration of personal injury and wrongful death claims arising out of asbestos exposure, to ensure that individuals who suffer harm, now or in the future, from illnesses caused by exposure to asbestos receive compensation for their injuries, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; TABLE OF CONTENTS.

(a) SHORT TITLE- This Act may be cited as the 'Asbestos Claims Criteria and Compensation Act of 2003'.

(b) TABLE OF CONTENTS- The table of contents is as follows:

- Sec.12. Effective date.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS- Congress finds that--

- (1) asbestos is a mineral that was widely used before the 1980s for insulation, fireproofing, and other purposes;
- (2) millions of American workers and others were significantly exposed to asbestos, especially during and after World War II and before the advent of regulation by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration in the early 1970s;
- (3) exposure to asbestos has been associated with various types of cancer, including mesothelioma and lung cancer, and such nonmalignant conditions as asbestosis, pleural plaques, and diffuse pleural thickening;
- (4) the diseases caused by asbestos have latency periods of up to 40 years or more, but the most serious asbestos-related disease, mesothelioma, is fatal within 1 to 2 years, and other related cancers are often fatal;
- (5) although the use of asbestos has dramatically declined since 1980 and workplace exposures have been regulated since 1971 by the

Occupational Safety and Health Administration, past exposures will continue to result in significant death and disability from mesothelioma and other cancers well into the 21st century;

(6) exposure to asbestos has created a flood of litigation targeting approximately 8,400 defendant companies in Federal and State courts that the United States Supreme Court has characterized as 'an elephantine mass' of cases that 'defies customary judicial administration and calls for national legislation,' Ortiz v. Fibreboard Corporation, 119 S. Ct. 2295, 2302 (1999);

(7) the American Bar Association supports enactment of Federal legislation that would--

(A) allow persons alleging non-malignant asbestos-related disease claims to file a cause of action in Federal or State court only if those persons meet the medical criteria in the 'ABA Standard for Non-Malignant Asbestos-Related Disease Claims' dated February 2003 or an appropriate similar medical standard; and

(B) toll all applicable statutes of limitations until such time as the medical criteria in such standard are met;

(8) asbestos personal injury litigation can be unfair and inefficient, imposing a severe burden on litigants and taxpayers alike, in most cases involving defendant companies that were never involved in the production of asbestos;

(9) the extraordinary volume of nonmalignant asbestos cases continues to strain Federal and State courts, with over 200,000 cases pending and over 50,000 new cases filed each year;

(10) asbestos personal injury litigation has already contributed to the bankruptcy of more than 60 companies and the rate of asbestos-

driven bankruptcies is accelerating;

(11) the vast majority of asbestos claims are filed by individuals who--

- (A) have been exposed to asbestos;
- (B) may have some physical sign of exposure; and
- (C) suffer no present asbestos-related impairment;

(12) the cost of compensating exposed persons who are not sick--

- (A) jeopardizes the ability of defendants to compensate people with cancer and other serious asbestos-related diseases, now and in the future; and
- (B) strains the ability of courts to manage the deluge of cases involving nonimpaired plaintiffs;

(13) an estimated 50,000 to 60,000 workers have lost their jobs as a direct result of asbestos litigation and related bankruptcies of defendant companies and each displaced worker will, on average, lose between $25,000 and $50,000 in lost wages;

(14) employees of defendant companies declaring bankruptcy (who are often stockholders of those companies) will, on average, lose 25 percent of the value of their retirement investment under section 401(k) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 because of lost stock value;

(15) concerns about statutes of limitations can force claimants who have been exposed to asbestos but who have no current injury to bring premature lawsuits in order to protect against losing their rights to future compensation should those claimants become impaired;

(16) consolidations, joinder, and similar procedures, to which some courts have resorted in order to deal with the mass of asbestos cases, can undermine the appropriate functioning of the judicial process and encourage the filing of thousands of cases by exposed

persons who are not yet sick and who may never become sick;

(17) the availability of sympathetic forums in States with no connection to the plaintiff or to the exposures that form the basis of a lawsuit has encouraged the filing of thousands of cases on behalf of exposed persons who are not yet sick and may never become sick;

(18) asbestos litigation, if left unchecked by reasonable congressional intervention, will--

(A) continue to inhibit the economy and run counter to plans to stimulate economic growth and the creation of new jobs;

(B) threaten the savings, retirement benefits, and employment of defendants' current and retired employees;

(C) affect adversely the communities in which these defendants operate; and

(D) impair interstate commerce and national initiatives, including national security; and

(19) the public interest and the interest of interstate commerce requires deferring the claims of exposed persons who are not sick in order to--

(A) preserve, now and for the future, defendants' ability to compensate people who develop cancer and other serious asbestos-related injuries; and

(B) safeguard the jobs, benefits, and savings of American workers and the well-being of the national economy.

(b) PURPOSES- It is the purpose of this Act to--

(1) give priority to those asbestos claimants who can demonstrate actual physical harm or illness caused by asbestos;

(2) fully preserve the rights of claimants who were exposed to asbestos to pursue compensation should those claimants become sick

in the future;

(3) enhance the ability of the Federal and State judicial systems to supervise and control asbestos litigation and asbestos-related bankruptcy proceedings; and

(4) conserve the scarce resources of the defendants, and marshal assets in bankruptcy, to allow compensation of cancer victims and others who are physically harmed by exposure to asbestos while securing the right to similar compensation for those who may suffer physical harm in the future.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) AMA GUIDES TO THE EVALUATION OF PERMANENT IMPAIRMENT- The term 'AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment' means the American Medical Association's Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment (Fifth Edition 2000).

(2) ASBESTOS- The term 'asbestos' includes all minerals defined as 'asbestos' under section 1910 of title 29 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

(3) ASBESTOS CLAIM- The term 'asbestos claim'--

(A) means any claim for damages or other relief presented in a civil action or bankruptcy proceeding, arising out of, based on, or related to the health effects of exposure to asbestos, including loss of consortium and any other derivative claim made by or on behalf of any exposed person or any representative, spouse, parent, child or other relative of any exposed person; and

(B) does not include claims for benefits under a workers' compensation law or veterans' benefits program, or claims brought by any person as a subrogee by virtue of the payment of benefits under a workers' compensation law or punitive damages.

(4) ASBESTOSIS- The term 'asbestosis' means bilateral diffuse interstitial fibrosis of the lungs caused by inhalation of asbestos fibers.

(5) CERTIFIED B-READER- The term 'certified B-reader' means an individual qualified as a 'final' or 'B-reader' under section 37.51(b) of title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

(6) CIVIL ACTION- The term 'civil action'--

(A) means all suits of a civil nature in Federal or State court, whether cognizable as cases at law or in equity or in admiralty; and

(B) does not include an action relating to any workers' compensation law, or a proceeding for benefits under any veterans' benefits program.

(7) EXPOSED PERSON- The term 'exposed person' means any person whose exposure to asbestos or to asbestos-containing products is the basis for an asbestos claim.

(8) FEV1- The term 'FEV1' means forced expiratory volume in the first second, which is the maximal volume of air expelled in 1 second during performance of simple spirometric tests.

(9) FVC- The term 'FVC' means forced vital capacity, which is the maximal volume of air expired with maximum effort from a position of full inspiration.

(10) ILO SCALE- The term 'ILO Scale' means the system for the classification of chest x-rays set forth in the International Labour Office's Guidelines for the Use of ILO International Classification of Radiographs of Pneumoconioses (1980) as amended by the International Labour Office.

(11) NONMALIGNANT CONDITION- The term 'nonmalignant condition' means any condition that is caused or may be caused by asbestos other than a diagnosed cancer.

(12) PATHOLOGICAL EVIDENCE OF ASBESTOSIS- The term 'pathological evidence of asbestosis' means a statement by a Board-certified pathologist that--

(A) more than 1 representative section of lung tissue uninvolved with any other disease process demonstrates a pattern of peribronchiolar or parenchymal scarring in the presence of characteristic asbestos bodies; and

(B) there is no other more likely explanation for the presence of the fibrosis.

(13) PREDICTED LOWER LIMIT OF NORMAL- The term 'predicted lower limit of normal' for any test means the fifth percentile of healthy populations based on age, height, and gender, as referenced in the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment.

(14) RADIOLOGICAL EVIDENCE OF ASBESTOSIS- The term 'radiological evidence of asbestosis' means a chest x-ray showing small, irregular opacities (s,t) graded by a certified B-reader as at least 1/1 on the ILO scale.

(15) RADIOLOGICAL EVIDENCE OF DIFFUSE PLEURAL THICKENING- The term 'radiological evidence of diffuse pleural thickening' means a chest x-ray showing bilateral pleural thickening of at least B2 on the ILO scale and blunting of at least 1 costophrenic angle.

(16) STATE- The term 'State' means any State of the United States, the District of Columbia, Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Northern Mariana Islands, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and any other territory or possession of the United States or any political subdivision of any of the entities under this paragraph.

(17) VETERANS' BENEFITS PROGRAM- The term `veterans' benefits program' means any program for benefits in connection with military service administered by the Veterans' Administration under title 38, United States Code.

(18) WORKERS' COMPENSATION LAW- The term `workers' compensation law'--

(A) means a law respecting a program administered by a State or the United States to provide benefits, funded by a responsible employer or an insurance carrier of that employer, for occupational diseases or injuries or for disability or death caused by occupational diseases or injuries;

(B) includes the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act (33 U.S.C. 901 et seq.) and chapter 81 of title 5, United States Code; and

(C) does not include the Federal Employer's Liability Act (45 U.S.C. 51 et seq.).

SEC. 4. PHYSICAL IMPAIRMENT.

(a) IMPAIRMENT ESSENTIAL ELEMENT OF CLAIM- Physical impairment of the exposed person, to which asbestos exposure was a substantial contributing factor, shall be an essential element of an asbestos claim. For purposes of this section, cancer shall be presumed to involve physical impairment.

(b) PRIMA FACIE EVIDENCE OF PHYSICAL IMPAIRMENT-

(1) IN GENERAL- No person shall bring or maintain a civil action alleging a nonmalignant asbestos claim in the absence of a prima

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by MR. KOHL (for himself, Mr. LEAHY, and Mr. KENNEDY)

Viz:

1 In section 223, add at the end the following:

2 (f) CONTINGENT CALL FOR ADDITIONAL MANDA-
3 TORY FUNDING.—

4 (1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding sections
5 202(a)(2) and 212(a)(3)(A), unless the Adminis-
6 trator certifies under this subsection that there are
7 adequate funds available to compensate past, pend-
8 ing, and projected future claimants at the scheduled
9 award values provided in section 131(b), the Admin-

1       istrator shall assess additional contributions from all
2       participants during first 27 years of the Fund (in
3       this section, the “mandatory funding period”), as
4       provided in this subsection.

5           (2) ALLOCATION.— Any additional contribu-
6       tions assessed under this subsection shall be allo-
7       cated among each participant as provided under
8       paragraphs (4) and (5).

9           (3) REDUCTION ADJUSTMENT CERTIFI-
10       CATION.—

11           (A) IN GENERAL.—Before making any re-
12       duction adjustment under section 204(a) or sec-
13       tion 212(a)(3)(B), the Administrator shall cer-
14       tify, after consultation with appropriate experts,
15       that during the time period in which such re-
16       duction adjustment would apply there will be
17       adequate funds available to compensate past,
18       pending, and projected future claimants at the
19       scheduled award values provided in section
20       131(b) of this Act.

21           (B) INITIAL NOTICE.—Before making any
22       certification under subparagraph (A), the Ad-
23       ministrator shall publish a notice in the Federal
24       Register of the proposed certification, including
25       a description and explanation of the Adminis-

1           trator's analysis supporting the certification of
2           the Administrator.

3           (C) COMMENTS FROM PARTICIPANTS.—

4           Not later than 60 days after the publication of
5           the notice under subparagraph (B), a partici-
6           pant may provide the Administrator with addi-
7           tional information to support a determination
8           that additional contributions from participants
9           are not required.

10          (D) FINAL CERTIFICATION.—

11           (i) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator
12           shall publish a notice in the Federal Reg-
13           ister of the final certification after consid-
14           eration of all comments submitted under
15           subparagraph (C).

16           (ii) WRITTEN NOTICE.—Not later
17           than 30 days of publishing a final certifi-
18           cation under clause (i), the Administrator
19           shall provide each participant with notice
20           of that participant's final contribution as-
21           sessment after application of any reduction
22           adjustment under section 204(a) or section
23           212(a)(3)(B), subject to paragraphs (4)
24           and (5).

25          (4) DEFENDANT PARTICIPANTS.—

1           (A) IN GENERAL.—Any additional con-
2           tributions from the defendant participants
3           under paragraph (1) shall be allocated in ac-
4           cordance with subparagraphs (B) through (H).

5           (B) YEARS 6 THROUGH 8.—If the Adminis-
6           trator fails to certify that there are adequate
7           funds during years 6 through 8 of the manda-
8           tory funding period, the Administrator shall
9           maintain after year 5 of the mandatory funding
10          period the contribution levels assessed under
11          section 203 and not make any reduction adjust-
12          ments as provided in section 204(a) for years 6
13          through 8.

14          (C) YEARS 9 THROUGH 11.—If the Admin-
15          istrator fails to certify that there are adequate
16          funds during years 9 through 11 of the manda-
17          tory funding period, the Administrator shall
18          maintain after year 8 of the mandatory funding
19          period the contribution levels assessed under
20          section 203 and not make any reduction adjust-
21          ments as provided in section 204(a) for years 9
22          through 11.

23          (D) YEARS 12 THROUGH 14.—If the Ad-
24          ministrator fails to certify that there are ade-
25          quate funds during years 12 through 14 of the

1 mandatory funding period, the Administrator
2 shall maintain after year 11 of the mandatory
3 funding period the contribution levels assessed
4 under section 203 and not make reduction ad-
5 justments as provided in section 204(a) for
6 years 12 through 14.

7 (E) YEARS 15 THROUGH 17.—If the Ad-
8 ministrator fails to certify that there are ade-
9 quate funds available during years 15 through
10 17 of the mandatory funding period, the Ad-
11 ministrator shall maintain after year 14 of the
12 mandatory funding period the contribution lev-
13 els assessed under section 203 and not make
14 any reduction adjustments as provided in sec-
15 tion 204(a) for years 15 through 17.

16 (F) YEARS 18 THROUGH 20.—If the Ad-
17 ministrator fails to certify that there are ade-
18 quate funds available during years 18 through
19 20 of the mandatory funding period, the Ad-
20 ministrator shall maintain after year 17 of the
21 mandatory funding period the contribution lev-
22 els assessed under section 203 and not make
23 any reduction adjustments as provided in sec-
24 tion 204(a) for years 18 through 20.

1           (G) YEARS 21 THROUGH 26.—If the Ad-
2           ministrators fail to certify that there are ade-
3           quate funds available during years 21 through
4           26 of the mandatory funding period, the Ad-
5           ministrators shall maintain until year 26 of the 6           mandatory funding period the contribution lev-
7           els assessed under section 203 and not make
8           any reduction adjustments as provided in sec-
9           tion 204(a) for years 21 through 26.

10          (H) YEAR 27.—If the Administrator fails
11          to certify that there are adequate funds avail-
12          able during year 27 of the mandatory funding
13          period, the Administrator shall maintain the
14          contribution levels assessed under section 203
15          and not make any reduction adjustments as
16          provided in section 204(a) for year 27.

17          (I) DETERMINATION OF REDUCTION AD-
18          JUSTMENTS.—In administering subparagraphs
19          (C) through (H), if a reduction was not made
20          in any preceding 3-year period and the Admin-
21          istrator certifies there are adequate funds under
22          paragraph (3), the amount of any reduction ad-
23          justment under section 204(a) shall be deter-
24          mined as though all preceding reductions had
25          been made.

1           (J) LIMITATION OF REQUIRED CONTRIBU-
2           TION.—Notwithstanding subparagraphs (B)
3           through (H), if the Administrator certifies,
4           after consultation with appropriate experts,
5           there will be adequate funds available to com-
6           pensate past, pending, and projected future
7           claimants at the scheduled award values pro-
8           vided in section 131(b) after applying a smaller
9           reduction adjustment than otherwise required
10          under this paragraph, during the time period in
11          which such reduction adjustment would apply,
12          the Administrator shall apply such smaller re-
13          duction adjustment.

14          (K) NO ORPHAN SHARE.—The additional
15          contributions collected by the Administrator
16          under this subsection shall not be considered
17          excess monies under subsection (e) to be placed
18          in the orphan share reserve account and shall
19          be credited to the Fund only for the payment
20          of claims.

21          (5) INSURER PARTICIPANTS.—

22               (A) IN GENERAL.—The total amount of
23               any contributions allocated by the Adminis-
24               trator to the insurer participants shall equal the 25               total amount of additional contributions allo-

1 cated to the defendant participants under para-
2 graph (4) for any 3-year period.

3 (B) ALLOCATION.—Of the amount of addi-
4 tional contributions required under subpara-
5 graph (A), each insurer participant shall be al-
6 located an additional contribution equal to the
7 insurer participant's proportionate share of an-
8 nual contributions to the Fund under section
9 212.

10 (6) ENFORCEMENT.—The additional contribu-
11 tions required under this subsection may be enforced
12 in the same manner and to the same extent as the
13 enforcement of a contribution under section 224.

14 On page 64, line 23, strike “The” and insert “Sub-
15 ject to section 223(f), the”.

16 On page 79, line 20, after “time” insert “, subject

AMENDMENTS intended to be proposed by Mr. KENNEDY

Viz:

1 In section 114, at the appropriate place insert the
2 following:

3 (h) MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE.—

4 (1) IN GENERAL.—The chief judge may appoint
5 a Medical Advisory Committee of the Asbestos Court
6 consisting of qualified physicians for purposes of
7 providing appropriate medical advice relating to the 8 review of claims.

1           (2) QUALIFICATIONS.—To be eligible for ap-
2           pointment to the Medical Advisory Committee under
3           paragraph (1), a person shall—

4                   (A) be a physician licensed in any State;

5                   (B) be board-certified in pulmonary medi-
6           cine, occupational medicine, internal medicine,
7           oncology, or pathology; and

8                   (B) be actively and primarily practicing
9           medicine in a field directly related to the board
10          certification of the physician.

11          (3) DUTIES.—Magistrates and claims exam-
12          iners may refer questions concerning the medical eli-
13          gibility of claimants to the committee for its advice
14          and recommendations.

15          In section 124, at the appropriate place insert the
16          following:

17          (c) EXCEPTIONAL MEDICAL CLAIMS.—

18                  (1) IN GENERAL.—A claimant who does not
19          meet the medical criteria requirements under sub-
20          section (a) and (b) may apply for designation of the 21          claim as an exceptional medical claim.

22                  (2) APPLICATION.—When submitting an appli-
23          cation for review of an exceptional medical claim, the 24          claimant shall—

1 (A) state that the claim does not meet the
2 medical criteria requirements in subsection (a)
3 and (b); or

4 (B) seek designation as an exceptional
5 medical claim within 60 days after a determina-
6 tion that the claim is ineligible solely for failure
7 to meet the medical criteria requirements under
8 subsections (a) and (b).

9 (3) REPORT OF PHYSICIAN.—

10 (A) IN GENERAL.—Any claimant applying
11 for designation of a claim as an exceptional
12 medical claim shall support an application filed
13 under paragraph (1) with a report from a phy-
14 sician meeting the requirements of section 122.

15 (B) CONTENTS.—A report filed under
16 paragraph (A) shall include—

17 (i) a complete review of the claimant's
18 medical history and current condition;

19 (ii) such additional material by way of
20 analysis and documentation as shall be
21 prescribed by rule of the Asbestos Court;
22 and

23 (iii) a detailed explanation as to why
24 the claim meets the requirements of para-
25 graph (4)(B).

1 (4) REVIEW.—

2 (A) IN GENERAL.—The Asbestos Court
3 shall refer all applications and supporting docu-
4 mentation submitted under paragraph (2) to
5 the Medical Advisory Committee for review for
6 eligibility as an exceptional medical claim.

7 (B) STANDARD.—A claim shall be des-
8 ignated as an exceptional medical claim if the
9 claimant, for reasons beyond his or her con-
10 trol, cannot satisfy the requirements under sub-
11 sections (a) and (b), but is able, through com-
12 parably reliable evidence that meets the stand-
13 ards under section 122, to show that the claim-
14 ant has an asbestos-related condition that is 15 substantially comparable to that of a medical 16 condition that would satisfy the requirements of 17 a category under subsection (b).

18 (C) ADDITIONAL INFORMATION.—The
19 Medical Advisory Committee may request addi-
20 tional reasonable testing to support the claim-
21 ant's application.

22 (D) CT SCAN.—A claimant may submit a
23 CT Scan in addition to an x-ray.

24 (5) APPROVAL.—

1           (A) IN GENERAL.—If the Medical Advisory
2           Committee determines that the medical evi-
3           dence is sufficient to show a comparable asbes-
4           tos-related condition, it shall issue a certificate
5           of medical eligibly designating the category of
6           asbestos-related injury under subsection (b) for
7           which the claimant may be eligible to seek com-
8           pensation.

9           (B) REFERRAL.—Upon the issuance of a
10          certificate under paragraph (A), the Medical
11          Advisory Committee shall submit the claim to a
12          magistrate, who shall proceed to determine
13          whether the claimant meets the requirements
14          for compensation under this Act.

15          (6) RE-SUBMISSION.—Any claimant whose ap-
16          plication for designation as an exceptional medical 17          claim is rejected may resubmit an application if new 18          evidence becomes available. The application shall
19          identify any prior applications and state the new evi-
20          dence that forms the basis of the re-submission.

21          (7) RULES.—The Chief Judge shall promulgate
22          rules governing the procedures for seeking designa-
23          tion of a claim as an exceptional medical claim.

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by MR. LEAHY

Viz:

- 1     INSERT on page 7 at line 10 as subparagraph 11(C) the following language:
- 2             (C)     any successor in interest of a participant.
- 3     INSERT on page 8 at line 3 as subparagraphs 14 and 15 the following language:
- 4             (14)    SUBSTANTIALLY CONTINUES - The term “substantially continues”
- 5     means that the business operations have not been significantly modified by the change in
- 6     ownership.
- 7             (15)    SUCCESSOR IN INTEREST - The term “successor in interest” means
- 8     any person that acquires assets, and substantially continues the business operations, of a
- 9     participant. The factors to be considered in determining whether a person is a successor
- 10    in interest include, but are not limited to: (i) retention of the same facilities or location,
- 11    (ii) retention of the same employees, (iii) maintaining the same jobs under the same
- 12    working conditions, (iv) retention of the same supervisory personnel, (v) continuity of
- 13    assets, (vi) production of the same product or offer of the same service, (vii) retention of
- 14    the same name, (viii) maintenance of the same customer base, (ix) identity of stocks,

- 1 stockholders, and directors between the asset seller and the purchaser, or (x) whether the
- 2 successor holds itself out as continuation of previous enterprise, but expressly does not
- 3 include whether the person actually knew of the liability of the participant under this Act.

- 4 RENUMBER the rest of the subparagraphs accordingly.

Summary of “Successor in Interest” Amendment to S. 1125 –

This amendment would include among the “participants” in the Asbestos Trust Fund any “Successor in interest” to a participant. As developed in the case law, a successor in interest – one who is obliged to take on the obligations of the predecessor corporation – is one that carries on substantially continues the same business, with substantially the same people involved, assets utilized, and products produced. The amendment attempts to insure that mandatory participants will not be able to evade their responsibilities to the Fund by simple changes in their corporate structures or operations.

The Amendment requires the Administrator to refer any information he obtains about possible asbestos violations under OSHA, the Toxic Substances Control Act or the Clean Water Act to the appropriate law enforcement authorities. The Amendment provides a sentencing enhancement for such environmental/health violations that involve asbestos.

Based on the new Title 18 crimes for fraud and false statements (included in the agreed-upon amendments), and the enhanced statutory maximums, the Amendment instructs the U.S. Sentencing Commission to consider appropriate amendments to the Sentencing Guidelines suggesting upward enhancements for asbestos-related crimes.

Summary of Agreed Amendments to S.1125

- X Sections 3(7) & 134 (Reduction in benefit payments for collateral sources): Strike Collateral Sources (Disability Insurance, Health Insurance, Medicare, Medicaid, and death benefit programs; keep as offsets payments from defendants, insurers and compensation trusts)
- X Section 124 (Take Home Exposure): Includes Take Home/Community Exposure (Manville in-shoes filing)
- X Section 122 (Diagnostic criteria Requirements): Strike independent physician verification on exposure, and add dead claimant exception for in-person exam.
- X Section 131 (Amount): Index all awards for annual future inflation based on CPI
- X Section 111 (Filing of Claims): Increase statute of limitations in which to file a claim from 2 to 4 years from the time claimant received a medical diagnosis of an eligible disease or should have known he would receive such a diagnosis. Deletes rule of construction paragraph of Administrator.
- X Section 125 (Exposure Criteria Requirements): include U.S. citizens exposed to asbestos while working for U.S. companies overseas or while on U.S.-flagged ships.
- X Section 204 (Assessment Administration): Add recoupment provision for any financial hardship or inequity adjustments in future years if company can afford it and limits term on inequity adjustment to 3 years.
- X Requires Administrator to provide Congress with annual report of trust funds payments, contributions, etc.
- X Section 401 (False information): Add crime and criminal penalties for defendant/insurer fraud and false statements
- X Section 224 (Enforcement of Contributions): Permits Administrator cause of action against contributing penalties; adds new remedies (punitive damages, injunctive relief – similar to PROTECT Act) to Administrator for failures to pay Fund and penalties for willful failures to pay.
- X Section 202 (Authority and Tiers/Treatment of Tier I Business entities in Bankruptcy): Replaces CEO Certification requirement that asbestos liability was not sole or precipitating cause of bankruptcy filing with bankruptcy court finding

Sunset of Liability Protection

This amendment would create a checkpoint relatively early on in the Fund's 27 year term where the Administrator has to certify that the Fund is operating as envisioned and claimants are being fully compensated. If the Fund isn't functioning properly either because of backlogs or inadequate funding, claimants are allowed to go back to the tort system.

On page 113 at the end of line 7 insert the following:

"The provisions of subsections (c) and (d) shall have no effect after January 1, 2010, unless the Administrator certifies prior to that date that at least 95 percent of all compensable claims filed on or before May 1, 2006 have been paid in full."

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by Mr. HATCH

Viz:

- 1        On p. 36, insert after line 14, new section 125(b)(3) (Burden of Proof) as
- 2 follows:
- 3    (3) TAKE-HOME EXPOSURE.— A claimant may alternatively satisfy the
- 4 exposure criteria requirements of this section by showing that the claimant's
- 5 exposure to asbestos was the result of living with a person who, if the claim had
- 6 been filed by such person, would have met the exposure criteria for a claimed

1   Disease Level and the claimant lived with such person for the time period
2   necessary to satisfy the exposure requirement for the claimed Disease Level. To
3   satisfy the exposure criteria under this subparagraph, a claimant shall present
4   meaningful and credible evidence of circumstances of exposure demonstrating that
5   the claimant has asbestos exposure comparable to those of the person who
6   otherwise would have met the exposure criteria. Such claimants may apply for 7   designation of his or her claim as an exceptional medical claim under section
8   124(c).

7           term “contaminant-asbestos product” means any
8           product—

9                   (A) that contains asbestos as a contami-
10                  nant of any mineral or other substance, in any 11                  concentration; and

12                  (B) to which the asbestos is not delib-
13                  erately or knowingly added or in which asbestos
14                  is not deliberately or knowingly used in any
15                  concentration.

16           (4) DISTRIBUTE IN COMMERCE.—

17                   (A) IN GENERAL.—The term “distribute in 18                  commerce” has the meaning given the term in
19                  section 3 of the Toxic Substances Control Act
20                  (16 U.S.C. 2602).

21                   (B) EXCLUSIONS.—The term “distribute
22                  in commerce” does not include—

23                           (i) an action taken with respect to an
24                           asbestos-containing product in connection
25                           with the end use of the asbestos-containing

1 product by a person that is an end user;
2 or

3 (ii) distribution of an asbestos-con-
4 taining product by a person solely for the
5 purpose of disposal of the asbestos-con-
6 taining product in compliance with applica-
7 ble Federal, State, and local requirements.

8 (5) PERSON.—The term “person” means—

9 (A) any individual;

10 (B) any corporation, company, association,
11 firm, partnership, joint venture, sole proprietor-
12 ship, or other for-profit or nonprofit business
13 entity (including any manufacturer, importer,
14 distributor, or processor);

15 (C) any Federal, State, or local depart-
16 ment, agency, or instrumentality; and

17 (D) any interstate body.

18 SEC. 502. PROHIBITION ON ASBESTOS-CONTAINING PROD-
19 UCTS.

20 (a) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subsection (b), the At-
21 torney General shall promulgate—

22 (1) not later than 1 year after the date of en-
23 actment of this Act, proposed regulations that—

1 (A) prohibit persons from manufacturing,
2 processing, or distributing in commerce asbes-
3 tos-containing products; and

4 (B) provide for implementation of sub-
5 sections (b) and (c); and

6 (2) not later than 2 years after the date of en-
7 actment of this Act, final regulations that, effective
8 60 days after the date of promulgation, prohibit per-
9 sons from manufacturing, processing, or distributing
10 in commerce asbestos-containing products.

11 (b) INAPPLICABILITY TO CONTAMINANT-ASBESTOS
12 PRODUCTS.—The regulations under subsection (a) shall
13 not apply to contaminant-asbestos products.

14 (c) EXEMPTIONS.—

15 (1) IN GENERAL.—The products and processes
16 described in paragraph (2) shall be exempt from the 17 regulations under subsection (a) unless the Attorney
18 General determines that any such product should
19 not be exempt, based on information that has be-
20 come available since 1989 suggesting that an exemp-
21 tion would result in an unreasonable risk of injury
22 to public health or the environment.

23 (2) PRODUCTS AND PROCESSES.—The products
24 and processes referred to in paragraph (1) are—

- 1 (A) asbestos diaphragms for regulated use
2 in the manufacture of chloralkali;
3 (B) acetylene cylinders;
4 (C) arc chutes;
5 (D) battery separators;
6 (E) high-grade electrical paper;
7 (F) missile liners;
8 (G) packing reinforced plastic;
9 (H) sealant tape;
10 (I) specialty industrial gaskets; and
11 (J) textiles.

12 (3) PETITIONS FOR EXEMPTION.—

13 (A) IN GENERAL.—Any person may peti-
14 tion the Attorney General for, and the Attorney
15 General may grant, an exemption from the re-
16 quirements of subsection (a) if the Attorney
17 General determines that—

18 (i) the exemption would not result in
19 an unreasonable risk of injury to public
20 health or the environment; and

21 (ii) the person has made good faith ef-
22 forts to develop, but has been unable to de-
23 velop, a substance, or identify a mineral,
24 that—

1 (I) does not present an unreason-
2 able risk of injury to public health or
3 the environment; and

4 (II) may be substituted for an
5 asbestos-containing product.

6 (B) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—An exemp-
7 tion granted under this paragraph shall be in
8 effect for such period (not to exceed 1 year)
9 and subject to such terms and conditions as the 10 Attorney General may prescribe.

11 (d) DISPOSAL.—

12 (1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in para-
13 graph (2), not later than 3 years after the date of 14 enactment of this Act, each person that possesses an 15 asbestos-containing product that is subject to the
16 prohibition established under this section shall dis-
17 pose of the asbestos-containing product, by a means
18 that is in compliance with applicable Federal, State,
19 and local requirements.

20 (2) EXEMPTION.—Nothing in paragraph (1)—

21 (A) applies to an asbestos-containing prod-
22 uct that—

23 (i) is no longer in the stream of com-
24 merce; or

1 (ii) is in the possession of an end
2 user; or

3 (B) requires that an asbestos-containing
4 product described in subparagraph (A) be re-
5 moved or replaced.

6 (e) PENALTIES.—

7 (1) CIVIL PENALTIES.—

8 (A) IN GENERAL.—The Attorney General
9 may impose on a person that violates a regula-
10 tion under subsection (a) a civil penalty of not
11 more than $25,000 for each such violation.

12 (B) PROCEDURE.—

13 (i) IN GENERAL.—The Attorney Gen-
14 eral shall impose a civil penalty under sub-
15 paragraph (A) by an order made on the 16 record after opportunity for a hearing in
17 accordance with section 554 of title 5,
18 United States Code.

19 (ii) NOTICE.—Before issuing an order
20 under clause (i), the Attorney General
21 shall—

22 (I) give the person on which a
23 civil penalty is to be imposed written
24 notice of the proposal to issue the
25 order; and

1 (II) provide the person an oppor-
2 tunity to request, not later than 15
3 days after the date on which the no-
4 tice is received by the person, a hear-
5 ing on the order.

6 (C) AMOUNT.—In determining the amount
7 of a civil penalty, the Attorney General shall
8 take into account—

9 (i) the nature, circumstances, extent,
10 and gravity of the violation; and

11 (ii) with respect to the violator—

12 (I) ability to pay;

13 (II) effect on ability to continue
14 to do business;

15 (III) any history of prior such
16 violations;

17 (IV) degree of culpability; and

18 (V) such other matters as justice
19 may require.

20 (D) COMPROMISE, MODIFICATION, OR RE-
21 MISSION.—The Administrator may compromise,
22 modify, or remit, with or without conditions, a
23 civil penalty imposed under this paragraph.

24 (E) DEDUCTION FROM AMOUNT OWED.—
25 The amount of a civil penalty imposed on a person under this paragraph may be deducted from any sums owed by the United States to the person.

(F) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—Not later than 30 days after the date on which the Attorney General issues an order imposing a civil penalty under subparagraph (B), a person that requested a hearing under subparagraph (B)(ii)(II) with respect to the civil penalty and that is aggrieved by an the order may file a petition for judicial review of the order in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit or for the United States court of appeals for any other circuit in which the person resides or transacts business.

(G) FAILURE TO PAY CIVIL PENALTY.—

(i) IN GENERAL.—If a person fails to pay a civil penalty imposed under this paragraph—

(I) after the order imposing the civil penalty has become final and if person does not file a petition for judicial review of the order under subparagraph (F); or

3 On page 25, line 19, re-designate existing paragraph
4 122(b)(4) as paragraph 122(b)(3).

DURBIN AMENDMENT TO S. 1125

Purpose: To exempt from the Act asbestos claims currently pending in state or federal courts.

On page 114, line 1, after the word “claim,” insert the following:

“filed after June 1, 2003.”

On page 114, line 6, after the period, insert the following new sentence:

“Nothing in this Act shall affect the jurisdiction of any federal or state court to hear, adjudicate, render judgment on or enforce any asbestos claim filed prior to June 1, 2003.”

On page 114, line 8, after the word “claim” insert the following:

“filed after June 1, 2003.”

On page 116 after line 2 insert the following new subsection:

(e): NON APPLICABILITY TO CLAIMS FILED BEFORE JUNE 1, 2003. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any asbestos claim in any state or federal court filed prior to June 1, 2003.

EXPLANATION: This amendment would exempt from coverage under the Act all asbestos claims that were filed in state or federal courts prior to June 1, 2003.

On page 47, at the end of line 2, add "and"

On page 47, line 6, strike "and"

On page 64, strike lines 13-21

EXPLANATION: This amendment would allow railroad workers with asbestos claims to seek their legal claims under the Federal Employers' Liability Act (FELA).

DURBIN AMENDMENT TO S. 1125

Purpose: To increase the amount of financial hardship and inequity adjustments.

On page 66, line 17, strike “3 percent” and insert “6 percent”.

On page 67, line 18, strike “2 percent” and insert “4 percent”.

Increase the contribution amounts of Tier II defendant participants as necessary to compensate for the increases in the financial hardship and inequity adjustments.

On page 66, lines 20-24, insert the underlined text:

(A) IN GENERAL- A defendant may qualify for an adjustment based on inequity by demonstrating that the amount of its contribution under the statutory allocation is exceptionally inequitable when measured against that percentage of the defendant’s prior asbestos expenditures that were incurred with respect to claims that neither resulted in an adverse judgment against the defendant nor were the subject of a settlement that required a payment to a plaintiff by or on behalf of that defendant; or the amount of the likely cost to the defendant of its future liability in the tort system in the absence of the Fund.

EXPLANATION: This amendment would double the current caps for the financial hardship and inequity adjustments while revising the definition of “inequity adjustments” to include costs incurred in cases where the defendant mounted a successful defense.

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by Mr. HATCH

Viz:

1 At the end, add the following:

2 TITLE V- PROHIBITION OF ASBESTOS

3 CONTAINING PRODUCTS

4 At the end of Chapter 39 of Title 18 of the United States Code,
5 insert the following new Chapter:

6 Chapter 39A – Ban of Asbestos Containing Products

7 § 838. Ban of Asbestos Containing Products

8 (a) DEFINITIONS: For the purposes of this Chapter,

1 (1) ASBESTOS. - The term “Asbestos” includes –

2 (A) chrysotile;

3 (B) amosite;

4 (C) crocidolite;

5 (D) tremolite asbestos;

6 (E) winchite asbestos;

7 (F) richterite asbestos;

8 (G) anthophyllite asbestos;

9 (H) actinolite asbestos;

10 (I) any of the minerals listed under subparagraphs (A)
11 through (H) that has been chemically treated or altered,
12 and any asbestiform variety, type or component
13 thereof.

14 (2) ASBESTOS CONTAINING PRODUCT.- The term “Asbestos
15 Containing Product” means any product (including any part) to 16 which asbestos is deliberately or knowingly added or used because 17 the specific properties of asbestos are necessary for product use or 18 function. Under no circumstances shall ‘asbestos containing
19 product’ be construed to include products that contain de minimus
20 levels of naturally occurring asbestos as defined by the 21 Administrator not later than one year after the date of enactment of 22 this Chapter.

1 (3) DISTRIBUTE IN COMMERCE.- The term “Distribute in
2 Commerce”-

3 a. has the meaning given the term in 15 U.S.C. § 2602; and

4 b. shall not include –

5 i. an action taken with respect to an asbestos
6 containing product in connection with the end use
7 of the asbestos containing product by a person
8 that is an end user, or an action taken by a person
9 who purchases or receives a product, directly or
10 indirectly from an end user; or

11 ii. distribution of an asbestos-containing product by 12 a person solely for the purpose of disposal of the 13 asbestos containing product in compliance with
14 applicable Federal, State and local requirements.

15 (4) ADMINISTRATOR- The term “Administrator” shall mean the 16 Administrator for the Environmental Protection Agency.

17 (b) IN GENERAL – Subject to subsection (c), the Administrator
18 shall, after consultation with the Assistant Attorney General for 19 the Environmental and Natural Resources Division of the United
20 States Department of Justice, promulgate –

21 (1) not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this
22 subtitle, proposed regulations that –

1 (A) prohibit persons from manufacturing, processing,
2 or distributing in commerce asbestos-containing
3 products; and

4 (B) provide for implementation of subsections (c)
5 and (d); and

6 (2) not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this
7 subtitle, final regulations that, effective 60 days after the 8 date of promulgation, prohibit persons from
9 manufacturing, processing, or distributing in commerce
10 asbestos-containing products.

11 (c) EXEMPTIONS-

12 (1) IN GENERAL- Any person may petition the 13 Administrator for, and the Administrator may grant an 14 exemption from the requirements of subsection (b) if the 15 Administrator determines that –

16 (A) the exemption would not result in an
17 unreasonable risk of injury to public health or the 18 environment; and

19 (B) the person has made good faith efforts to 20 develop, but has been unable to develop, a
21 substance, or identify a mineral that does not
22 present an unreasonable risk of injury to public

1 health or the environment and may be substituted
2 for an asbestos containing product.

3 (2) TERMS AND CONDITIONS- An exemption granted
4 under this subsection shall be in effect for such period
5 (not to exceed 5 years) and subject to such terms and
6 conditions as the Administrator may prescribe.

7 (3) GOVERNMENTAL USE- The Administrator shall
8 provide an exemption from the requirements of
9 subsection (a), without review or limit on duration, if
10 such exemption for an asbestos containing product is
11 sought by the Secretary of Defense or the Administrator
12 of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

13 (4) SPECIFIC EXEMPTIONS-

14 (A) Asbestos diaphragms for use in the manufacture or 15 chlor-alkali and the products and derivative
16 therefrom;

17 (B) Roofing cements, coatings and mastics utilizing
18 asbestos that is totally encapsulated with asphalt.

19 (d) DISPOSAL-

20 (1) IN GENERAL- Except as provided in paragraph (2), not
21 later than 3 years after the date of enactment of this
22 subtitle, each person that possesses an asbestos
23 containing product that is subject to the prohibition

1 established under this section shall dispose of the
2 asbestos-containing product, by a means that is in
3 compliance with applicable Federal, State, and local
4 requirements.

5 (2) EXEMPTION- Nothing in paragraph (1) –

6 (A) applies to an asbestos containing product that –

7 (i) is no longer in the stream of 8 commerce; or

9 (ii) is in the possession of an end user; or

10 (B) requires that an asbestos containing product
11 described in subparagraph (A) be removed or 12 replaced.

Ordered to lie on the table and to be printed

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by Mr. HATCH

Viz:

- 1 On p. 25, before line 21:
- 2 “(c) DECEASED CLAIMANTS.—In the case of a claimant who is deceased
- 3 at the time of an application is filed, the claim may be supported by either—
- 4 (1)evidence from a prior physical medical examination of the
- 5 claimant by a physician that resulted in a diagnosis of an asbestos
- 6 related injury or permits such a diagnosis to be made by a

1           physician examining those records; or

2           (2)pathological evidence of an asbestos-related injury.”

3           Strike “(c)” on line 21 on p. 25 and insert “(d)”.

4           Strike “(d)” on line 14 on p. 26 and insert “(e)”.

5           Strike “(e)” on line 20 on p. 26 and insert “(f)”.

AMENDMENT NO. _____

Viz:

1           On page 15, line 23, after “diagnoses” insert “, x-ray
2 films,”

3           On page 20, after line 20, insert new section 114(c)(3) as
4 follows:

5           “(3) INDEPENDENT REVIEWS OF MEDICAL EVIDENCE. —

1 – The Asbestos Court shall establish procedures for
2 independently evaluating the medical evidence submitted in
3 support of claims. At a minimum, the Court shall prescribe
4 procedures for magistrates to randomly assign claims for
5 confirmation by certified B readers of x-rays submitted in
6 support of claims, the cost of which shall be borne by the Fund.
7 If an independent B reader disagrees with the quality grading or
8 ILO level assigned to an x-ray submitted in support of a claim,
9 the procedures shall require a second independent B reading. If
10 neither independent B reader agrees with the quality grading and 11 the ILO level assigned to the film as part of the claim, the 12 magistrate shall recommend denial of the claim pursuant to 13 subsection (f).

AMENDMENT NO. _____

Calendar No. _____

Purpose: This amendment directs the Institute of Occupational Medicine to study the connection between “other cancers” (not lung-related).

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by Mr. HATCH

Viz:

- 1 On page 37, after line 11, insert new section 126 as follows:
- 2 SEC. 126. INSTITUTE OF MEDICINE STUDY.
- 3 (a) Not later than two years after date of enactment, the
- 4 Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences shall
- 5 complete a study of the causal link between asbestos exposure
- 6 and other cancers, including, but not limited to, colorectal,

1 laryngeal, esophageal, pharyngeal, and stomach cancers, except
2 for mesothelioma and lung cancers. The Institute of Medicine
3 shall issue a report on its findings on causation, which shall be
4 transmitted to the Congress, the Asbestos Court, and the Medical
5 Advisory Committee. The Asbestos Court and the Medical
6 Advisory Committee shall consider the results of the report for
7 purposes of determining whether asbestos exposure is a
8 substantial contributing factor under section 124(6)(F).

9 (b) If the Asbestos Court has evidence that there have been
10 advancements in science that would require additional study, the 11 Court may request that the Institute of Medicine conduct a 12 subsequent study to determine if asbestos exposure is a cause of 13 other cancers.

- 2 (C) The bankruptcy court presiding over the business
- 3 entity's case determines, after notice and a hearing upon
- 4 motion filed by the entity within 30 days of the effective
- 5 date of this Act, which motion shall be supported by:

- 1           (i)     an affidavit or declaration of the Chief Executive
2                   Officer, Chief Financial Officer or Chief Legal
3                   Officer of the business entity, and
- 4           (ii)  copies of the entity's public statements and
5                   securities filings made in connection with the
6                   entity's filing for chapter 11 protection that asbestos
7                   liability was not the sole or precipitating cause of 8                   the entity's chapter 11 filing. Notice of such motion
9                   shall be as directed by the bankruptcy court and the
10                  hearing shall be limited to consideration of the 11                  question of whether or not asbestos liability was the 12                  sole or precipitating cause of the entity's chapter 11
13                  filing. The bankruptcy court shall hold a hearing
14                  and make its determination with respect to the 15                  motion within 60 days after the date the motion is 16                  filed. In making its determination, the bankruptcy
17                  court shall take into account the affidavits, public
18                  statements and securities filings, and other
19                  information, if any, submitted by the entity and all

1           other facts and circumstances presented by an
2           objecting party.

3           (iii) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—Any review of this
4           determination must be an expedited appeal and
5           limited to whether the decision was against the
6           weight of the evidence presented.

Viz:

1           On p. 66, line 11, insert after “(C) RENEWAL.” The following
2 language: “After an initial hardship adjustment is granted by this section, a”

3           On p. 66 line 11 before the word “defendant” strike the following:
4 “A”

5           On p. 66, line 19 after the entire section “(D) LIMITATION.” Insert
6 the following new section:

7           (E) REINSTATEMENT. Following the expiration of the

1 hardship adjustment period provided for under this section and
2 during the mandatory funding period, the Administrator shall
3 annually determine whether there has been a material change in the 4 financial condition of the defendant such that the Administrator
5 may, consistent with the policies and legislative intent underlying
6 this Act, reinstate under terms and conditions established by the 7 administrator any part or all of the defendant's contribution under
8 the statutory allocation that was not paid during the hardship
9 adjustment term.

10 On p. 67, line 8, strike "for the life of the Fund" and insert in its place: "for 11 a term of 3 years."

12 On p. 67, line 9 before section "(C) LIMITATION" insert the following:

- 13 (i) RENEWAL. – After an inequity adjustment is 14 granted by this section, a defendant may renew every 15 3 years its inequity adjustment by demonstrating that 16 it remains justified.
- 17 (ii) REINSTATEMENT.- Following the expiration of 18 the inequity adjustment period provided for under
19 this section and during the mandatory funding period,
20 the Administrator shall annually determine whether
21 there has been a material change in conditions which 22 would support a finding that the amount of the 23 defendant's contribution under the statutory

1 allocation was not inequitable. Based on this
2 determination, the Administrator may, consistent
3 with the policies and legislative intent underlying this
4 Act, reinstate under terms and conditions established
5 by the administrator any part or all of the defendant's
6 contribution under the statutory allocation that was
7 not paid during the inequity adjustment term.

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by _____

Viz:

- 1 AMENDMENT.—To Section 131(4) of S. 1125 to index scheduled awards
2 for future inflation;
3 (4)(A) Beginning January 1, 2006, award amounts set forth in paragraph
4 (1) shall be increased annually by an amount equal to such dollar
5 amount multiplied by the cost-of-living adjustment, rounded to the 6 nearest $1,000 increment.
7 (B) For purposes of subparagraph (A), the cost of living adjustment for any
8 calendar year is the percentage (if any) by which the CPI for the 9 succeeding calendar year exceeds the CPI for the calendar year
10 2004.

1 (C) For purposes of subparagraph (B), the CPI for any calendar year is the
2 average of the Consumer Price Index as of the close of the 12-month
3 period ending on August 31 of such calendar year.

4 (D) For the purposes of subparagraph (C), the term “Consumer Price
5 Index” means the Consumer Price Index published by the
6 Department of Labor. The Consumer Price Index series to be used
7 for award escalations shall include the Consumer Price Index used
8 for all-urban consumers, with an area coverage of the U.S. City
9 Average, for all items, and based on the 1982-84 index base period.

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by Mr. HATCH

Viz:

1   SEC. 125. EXPOSURE CRITERIA REQUIREMENTS.

2           On page 37, line 12, add:

3                   (d) WAIVER FOR WORKERS AND RESIDENTS

4           OF LIBBY,

1 MONTANA. Because of the unique nature of the asbestos
2 exposure related to the vermiculite mining and milling
3 operations in Libby, Montana, the Asbestos Court shall
4 waive the exposure requirements under this subtitle for
5 individuals who (a) worked at the vermiculite mining and
6 milling facility in Libby, Montana; or (b) lived or worked
7 in within a 20-mile radius of Libby, Montana, for at least
8 12 consecutive months prior to December 31, 2003.
9 Claimants under this section must provide meaningful and
10 credible evidence to establish eligibility for the waiver of 11 the otherwise applicable exposure criteria under this
12 subtitle, and shall provide such supporting documentation
13 as the Asbestos Court shall require.

Purpose: PROPOSED MEDICAL CRITERIA—DRAFT LANGUAGE
NEW SECTION 124This amendment replaces the current section 124 on medical criteria. It adds a level for severe asbestosis, and utilizes the weighted exposure framework, which recognizes the heavier exposure in earlier years. It also creates three categories for the lung cancer claimants – smoker, former smoker and non-smoker.

15 follows:

16 (c) EXCEPTIONAL MEDICAL CLAIMS. — A claimant who
17 does not meet the medical criteria requirements under 18 subsections (a) and (b) may apply for designation of his or her
19 claim as an exceptional medical claim under this subsection. To 20 submit an application for review of an exceptional medical

1 claim, the claimant must (i) state that the claim does not meet the
2 medical criteria requirements in subsections (a) and (b), or (ii)
3 seek designation as an exceptional medical claim within sixty
4 (60) days after a determination that the claim is ineligible solely
5 for failure to meet the medical criteria requirements under
6 subsections (a) and (b).

7 (1) Any claimant applying for designation of his
8 or her claim as an exceptional medical claim must support
9 his or her application with a report from a physician
10 meeting the requirements of section 122. In addition to 11 the requirements of section 122, the report must include:
12 (i) a complete review of the exposed person's medical
13 history and current condition; (ii) such additional material
14 by way of analysis and documentation as shall be 15 prescribed by regulation; and (iii) a detailed explanation as 16 to why the claim meets the standard for acceptance under
17 paragraph (2).

18 (2) At regular intervals, the Asbestos Court shall 19 refer the applications and supporting documentation to the 20 Medical Advisory Committee established pursuant to

1 section 114(h) to review all applications for designation as
2 an exceptional medical claim that were submitted during
3 the prior relevant period. The standard to be applied for
4 designation as an exceptional medical claim shall be that
5 the claimant, for reasons beyond his or her control, cannot
6 satisfy the requirements under subsections (a) and (b), but
7 is able, through comparably reliable evidence that meets
8 the standards under section 122, to show that the claimant
9 has an asbestos-related condition that is substantially
10 comparable to that of a medical condition that would
11 satisfy the requirements of a category under subsection
12 (b). The Medical Advisory Committee, if it deems
13 necessary, may request additional, reasonable testing to 14 support the claimant's application.

15 (3) A claimant may submit a CT Scan in addition
16 to an x-ray.

17 (4) If the Medical Advisory Committee
18 determines that the medical evidence is sufficient to show
19 a comparable asbestos-related condition, it shall issue a
20 certificate of medical eligibility which shall designate the

1 disease category under subsection (b) as to which the
2 claimant may be eligible to seek compensation. Any
3 claim as to which such certificate shall issue shall then be
4 referred to a magistrate pursuant to section 114(b), who
5 shall determine whether the claimant meets all of the other
6 requirements for compensation under this Act.

7 (5) Any claimant whose application for
8 designation as an exceptional medical claim is rejected
9 may resubmit his or her application if new evidence
10 becomes available, but no more frequently than once every 11 two years. Upon resubmission of an application, the 12 claimant shall identify any prior applications and state the 13 new evidence that is the basis for the resubmission.

14 (6) The chief judge shall promulgate regulations
15 consistent with the statute governing the procedures for 16 seeking designation of a claim as an exceptional medical 17 claim.

Medical Screening/Monitoring

This amendment would set up an efficient and reliable screening program for people in high risk occupations to be sure that those who were injured are identified and paid, and then to provide regular monitoring of those who have less serious medical problems that cannot yet be compensated under the bill.

Sec XXX: Education, Consultation, Screening and Monitoring

(a) General: - There is established within the Asbestos Trust Fund a program for the education, consultation, medical screening and medical monitoring of persons with exposure to asbestos. The program shall be funded by the Asbestos Trust Fund and administered by the Administrator.

(b) Outreach and Education Within 180 days after the implementation of this Act, the Administrator shall establish an outreach and education program designed to provide information about asbestos-related medical conditions to members of populations at risk of developing these conditions.

1. The information provided to these populations will include information about the signs and symptoms of asbestos-related medical conditions; the value of appropriate medical screening programs; and actions that the individuals at risk can take to reduce their future health risks related to asbestos.
2. The administrator is encouraged to contract with outside organizations to provide these educational programs. Preference shall be given to providers which are existing not-for-profit organizations with a history and experience of providing occupational health outreach and educational programs for asbestos-exposed workers.

(c) Coverage and Application: Each person who can demonstrate through work histories or other documentation an exposure to asbestos (as described below) his or hers voluntary discretion, is entitled to participate in the medical screening and medical monitoring program established by this Act.

(d ) Medical Screening Program: Within 180 days after the implementation of this act, the Administrator shall establish a medical screening program for persons with past exposure to asbestos who have not yet been diagnosed with an asbestos-related illness. For the purposes of this section medical screening program means an initial program consultation, medical examination and work history of persons previously exposed to asbestos who have not been diagnosed with an asbestos-related illness.

The Program shall establish:

1. Eligibility criteria for the medical screening program based on a past history of occupational exposure to asbestos. To the extent feasible (and in order to ease application to the program), such criteria shall establish eligibility for screening based on a history of work in an asbestos-related occupation and/or industry during a specific time period and for a minimum duration. These industries and occupations shall include, but not be limited to, the occupations and industries identified as meeting the weighted exposure criteria for lung cancer, (asbestosis and pleural disease) specified in Disease Categories Level I, II, III, VII and VIII.

2. Protocols for medical screening, which shall include but not be limited to:
  - i. Administration of a health evaluation and work history questionnaire;
  - ii. Physical examination including blood pressure measurement, chest examination and examination for clubbing.
  - iii. AP and lateral chest x-ray;
  - iv. Spirometry performed according to ATS standards;
  - v. Educational sessions on asbestos exposures, asbestos-related diseases and asbestos disease compensation criteria.
3. The frequency with this medical screening shall be provided or available to eligible individuals, which initially shall not be less than every five years.
4. The qualifications of the medical and/or program providers administering these protocols.
5. A list of medical and/or program providers eligible to provide these protocols who meet minimal medical and program standards established by the Administrator. Preference shall be given to medical providers and program providers which are existing not-for-profit organization with a history and experience of providing or contracting for medical screening programs for persons previously exposed to asbestos; and with a demonstrated capacity for identifying, contacting, and evaluating populations of workers or others previously exposed to asbestos; and with experience in establishing networks of medical providers to conduct medical screening and medical monitoring examinations. To the extent possible, these screening programs should be coordinated with the outreach and education programs described above.

Section (d) Medical Monitoring Program and Protocols: Within 180 days after the implementation of this act, the Administrator shall promulgate procedures (regulations) establishing a medical monitoring program for persons exposed to asbestos who have been approved for Category I and II compensation.

In consultation with the Directors of The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) and the National Cancer Institute (NCI), the Administrator shall promulgate procedures/regulations establishing:

1. Specific medical tests to be provided to eligible individuals and the periodicity of those tests. Initially these tests shall be provided every two years and include the following:
  - i. Administration of a health evaluation and work history questionnaire;
  - ii. Physical examination including blood pressure measurement, chest examination and examination for clubbing.
  - iii. AP and lateral chest x-ray;
  - iv. Spirometry performed according to ATS standards;
  - v. Educational sessions on asbestos exposures, asbestos-related diseases and asbestos disease compensation criteria.
2. Qualifications for medical providers to provide those tests.
3. A list of medical and/or program providers eligible to provide these protocols who meet minimal medical and program standards established by the Administrator. Preference shall be given to medical providers and program providers as defined in this section. Persons exposed to asbestos who elect to participate in the program shall be provided with the list of approved providers in their geographic area at the time they become eligible for the program.
4. Administrative provisions for reimbursing the costs of these monitoring tests.

Section (e): The Administrator may enter into contracts with qualified program providers that would permit the program providers to undertake large-scale medical screening and medical monitoring programs by means of subcontracts a network of medical providers and other health providers.

Section (f): The Administrator shall review and as necessary and appropriate update these requirements and protocols at least every five years.

Structured Payments Clarification

As we understand the desire of the bill's sponsors, awards may be paid out to successful claimants over a period of three years, in part to reduce the stress on the "front-end" of the fund. But as written, the bill requires payments to be made over at least three years, and they could be made over 5 or 10 or 25 years. This amendment would ensure that payments are made over a period not to exceed three years. (Presumably in later years, the Administrator could decide to make payments over two years or immediately, if the finances of the Fund made that possible. That would not be permissible under the current language.)

On page 40, line 4, strike "less" and insert "more".

DURBIN AMENDMENT TO S. 1125

Purpose: To amend the definition of “prior asbestos expenditure.”

On page 46, lines 17-21, insert the underlined text:

(A) means the gross total amount paid by or on behalf of a person at any time before December 31, 2002, in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity costs related to all asbestos claims that ultimately resulted in an adverse judgment against that person or that were the subject of a settlement that required a payment to a plaintiff by or on behalf of that person;”

EXPLANATION: This amendment would exclude from the calculation of “prior asbestos expenditures” those costs incurred in cases where the defendant mounted a successful defense.

Proposed changes to “Fairness in Asbestos Injury Resolution Act of 2003”; changes are highlighted in purple.

(4) INDEMNITEE. — The term “indemnitee” means a person against whom any asbestos claim has been asserted before December 31, 2002, who has received from any other person, or on whose behalf a sum has been paid by such other person to any third person, in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity in connection with an alleged duty with respect to the defense or indemnification of such person concerning that asbestos claim, other than under a policy of insurance.

(5) INDEMNITOR. — The term “indemnitor” means a person who has paid under a written agreement at any time before December 31, 2002, a sum in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity to or on behalf of any person defending against an asbestos claim, in connection with an alleged duty with respect to the defense or indemnification of such person concerning that asbestos claim, except that payments by an insurer or reinsurer under a contract of insurance or reinsurance shall not make the insurer or reinsurer an indemnitor for purposes of this subtitle.

(6) PRIOR ASBESTOS EXPENDITURE. — The term “prior asbestos expenditures” —

(A) means the gross total amount paid by or on behalf of a person at any time before December 31, 2002, in settlement, judgment, defense, or indemnity costs related to all asbestos claims against that person;

(B) includes payments made by insurance carriers to or for the benefit of such person or on such person’s behalf with respect to such asbestos claims, except as provided in section 204(g);

(C) shall not include any payment made by a person in connection with or as a result of changes in insurance reserves as required by contract or any activities or disputes related to insurance coverage matters for asbestos-related liabilities; and

(D) shall not include any payment made by or on behalf of persons who are or were common carriers by railroad for asbestos claims brought under the Act of April 22, 1908 (45 U.S.C. 51 et seq.), commonly known as the Federal Employers’ Liability Act, including settlement, judgment, defense or indemnity costs associated with these claims.

* * * * *

facie showing of physical impairment as a result of a medical condition to which exposure to asbestos was a substantial contributing factor.

(2) REQUIREMENTS OF PRIMA FACIE SHOWING- A prima facie showing under this subsection shall include all of the following minimum requirements:

(A) PERMANENT RESPIRATORY IMPAIRMENT RATING- A determination by a qualified physician, on the basis of a medical examination and pulmonary function testing, that the exposed person has a permanent respiratory impairment rating of at least Class 2 as defined by and evaluated under the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment.

(B) DIAGNOSIS- A diagnosis by a qualified physician of asbestosis or diffuse pleural thickening, based at a minimum on pathological evidence of asbestosis, radiological evidence of asbestosis, or radiological evidence of diffuse pleural thickening.

(C) SUBSTANTIAL CONTRIBUTING FACTOR- A determination by a qualified physician that asbestosis or diffuse pleural thickening (rather than solely chronic obstructive pulmonary disease) is a substantial contributing factor to the exposed person's physical impairment, based at a minimum on a determination that the exposed person has either--

(i) a ratio of FEV1 to FVC that is equal to or greater than the predicted lower limit of normal; or

(ii) a chest x-ray showing small, irregular opacities (s,t) graded by a certified B-reader at least 2/1 on the ILO scale.

SEC. 5. EXPOSURE CRITERIA REQUIREMENTS.

(a) REQUIREMENT- To be eligible to receive an award under this title for an asbestos-related injury, the claim submitted by the asbestos claimant shall contain information to demonstrate that--

(1) the claimant meets the minimum exposure requirements under this subtitle; and

(2) such exposure to asbestos occurred within the United States, its territories, or possessions.

(b) BURDEN OF PROOF-

(1) IN GENERAL- An asbestos claimant has the burden of demonstrating meaningful and credible exposure to asbestos for purposes of this subtitle.

(2) EVIDENCE- The demonstration under paragraph (1) may be established by-

(A) an affidavit submitted by the claimant, a coworker of the claimant, or a family member, in the case of a deceased claimant;

(B) employment records;

(C) invoices;

(D) construction or other similar records; or

(E) other credible evidence.

(c) RULES-

(1) EXPOSURE INFORMATION- The Asbestos Court shall issue rules prescribing specific exposure information that shall be submitted to permit the Court to process an asbestos claim and prescribing a proof of claim form. Such rules may provide that a claims examiner or magistrate, as applicable, may require the submission of other or additional evidence of exposure when determined to be appropriate and necessary.

(2) REBUTTABLE PRESUMPTIONS- The Asbestos Court may prescribe rules identifying specific industries, occupations within those industries, time periods, and employment periods for which significant occupational exposure may be a rebuttable presumption for asbestos claimants who provide meaningful and credible evidence that the claimant worked in that industry and occupation for the requisite period of time. The Administrator may provide evidence to rebut this presumption.

(c) COMPLIANCE WITH TECHNICAL STANDARDS-

(1) IN GENERAL- Evidence relating to physical impairment under this section, including pulmonary function testing and diffusing studies, shall comply with--

(A) the technical recommendations for examinations, testing procedures, quality assurance and quality control, and equipment of the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment; or

(B) if the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment are not applicable, other authoritative standards.

(2) ADJUSTMENTS- No adjustments with respect to pulmonary function testing shall be made on the basis of race.

(d) NO PRESUMPTION AT TRIAL- Presentation of prima facie evidence of asbestos-related impairment meeting the requirements of this section shall not result in any presumption at trial that the exposed person is impaired by an asbestos-related condition, and evidence that the exposed person made a prima facie showing of impairment shall not be admissible at trial.

SEC. 6. PROCEDURES; REMOVAL.

(a) CONSOLIDATION- A court may consolidate for trial any number and type of asbestos claims with consent of all the parties. In the absence of such consent, the court may consolidate for trial only asbestos claims relating to the same exposed person and members of the household of the exposed person.

(b) VENUE-

(1) IN GENERAL- A civil action asserting an asbestos claim may only be brought in the State of the plaintiff's domicile or a State in which there occurred exposure to asbestos that is a substantial contributing factor to the physical impairment on which the claim is based.

(c) PRELIMINARY PROCEEDINGS- The plaintiff in any civil action involving an asbestos claim shall file with the complaint or other initial pleading a written report and supporting test results constituting prima facie evidence of the exposed person's asbestos-related impairment meeting the requirements of section 4(b). The defendant shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity to challenge the adequacy of the proffered prima facie evidence of asbestos-related impairment. The plaintiff's claim shall be dismissed without prejudice upon a finding of failure to make the required prima facie showing.

SEC. 7. FILING OF CLAIMS.

(a) WHO MAY SUBMIT-

(1) GENERAL RULE- Any individual who has suffered from an eligible disease or condition that is believed to meet the requirements established (or the spouse, parent, child, or other relative of such individual in a representative capacity, or the executor of the estate of such individual) may file a claim with the court for an award with respect to such injury.

(2) LIMITATION- An asbestos claim may not be filed by any person seeking contribution or indemnity.

(b) REQUIRED INFORMATION- To be valid, an asbestos claim filed under subsection

(a) shall be notarized and include--

(1) the name, social security number, gender, date of birth, and, if applicable, date of death of the claimant;

(2) information relating to the identity of dependents and beneficiaries of the claimant;

(3) a detailed description of the work history of the claimant, including social security records or a signed release permitting access to such records;

(4) a detailed description of the asbestos exposure of the claimant, including information on the identity of any product or manufacturer, site, or location of exposure, plant name, and duration and intensity of exposure;

(5) a detailed description of the tobacco product use history of the claimant, including frequency and duration;

(6) an identification and description of the asbestos-related diseases of the claimant, including a written report by the claimant's physician with medical diagnoses and test results necessary to make a determination of medical eligibility that complies with the applicable requirements of this subtitle.

(7) a description of any prior or pending civil action or other claim brought by the claimant for asbestos-related injury or any other pulmonary, parenchymal or pleural injury, including an identification of any recovery of compensation or damages through settlement, judgment, or otherwise; and

(8) any other information that is required to be included under procedural rules issued by the court.

(d) REMOVAL-

(1) IN GENERAL- If a State court refuses or fails to apply this section, any party in a civil action for an asbestos claim may remove such action to a district court of the United States in accordance with chapter 89 of title 28, United States Code.

(2) JURISDICTION OVER REMOVED ACTIONS- The district courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction of all civil actions removed under this subsection, without regard to the amount in controversy and without regard to the citizenship or residence of the parties.

(3) REMOVAL BY ANY DEFENDANT- A civil action may be removed to the district court of the United States under this subsection by any defendant without the consent of all defendants.

(4) REMAND- The district court shall remand any civil action removed solely under this subsection, unless the court finds that--

(A) the State court failed to comply with procedures prescribed by law; or

(B) the failure to dismiss by the State court lacked substantial support in the record before the State court.

SEC. 8. DISMISSAL OF PENDING CLAIMS.

(a) EFFECT ON PENDING CLAIMS- If an asbestos claimant has any timely filed claim for an asbestos-related injury that is pending in a Federal or State court or with a trust established under title 11, United States Code, on the date of enactment of this Act, such claimant shall file an asbestos claim under this section within 180 days or the pending suits shall be dismissed without prejudice.

SEC. 9. STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS; TWO-DISEASE RULE.

(a) STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS- Notwithstanding any other provision of law, with respect to any nonmalignant asbestos claim not barred on the effective date of this Act, the limitations period shall not begin to run until the exposed person discovers, or through the exercise of reasonable diligence should have discovered, that the exposed person is physically impaired by an asbestos-related nonmalignant condition.

(b) TWO-DISEASE RULE- An asbestos claim arising out of a nonmalignant condition shall be a distinct cause of action from an asbestos claim relating to the same exposed person arising out of asbestos-related cancer. No damages shall be awarded for fear or risk of cancer in any civil action asserting only a nonmalignant asbestos claim.

(c) GENERAL RELEASES FROM LIABILITY PROHIBITED- No settlement of a nonmalignant asbestos claim concluded after the date of enactment of this Act shall require, as a condition of settlement, release of any future claim for asbestos-related cancer.

SEC. 10. PUNITIVE DAMAGES.

SEC. 11. MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

(a) CONSTRUCTION WITH OTHER LAWS- This Act shall not be construed to--

- (1) affect the scope or operation of any workers' compensation law or veterans' benefit program;
- (2) affect the exclusive remedy or subrogation provisions of any such law; or
- (3) authorize any lawsuit which is barred by any such provision of law.

(b) CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY- The Constitutional authority for this Act is contained in Article I, section 8, clause 3 and Article III, section 1 of the Constitution of the United States.

SEC. 12. EFFECTIVE DATE.

This Act shall take effect on the date of enactment of this Act and apply to any civil action asserting an asbestos claim in which trial has not commenced as of that date.

SEC. 2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) FINDINGS- Congress finds that--

- (1) asbestos is a mineral that was widely used before the 1980s for insulation, fireproofing, and other purposes;
- (2) millions of American workers and others were significantly exposed to asbestos, especially during and after World War II and before the advent of regulation by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration in the early 1970s;
- (3) exposure to asbestos has been associated with various types of cancer, including mesothelioma and lung cancer, and such nonmalignant conditions as asbestosis, pleural plaques, and diffuse pleural thickening;
- (4) the diseases caused by asbestos have latency periods of up to 40 years or more, but the most serious asbestos-related disease, mesothelioma, is fatal within 1 to 2 years, and other related cancers are often fatal;
- (5) although the use of asbestos has dramatically declined since 1980 and workplace exposures have been regulated since 1971 by the

Occupational Safety and Health Administration, past exposures will continue to result in significant death and disability from mesothelioma and other cancers well into the 21st century;

(6) exposure to asbestos has created a flood of litigation targeting approximately 8,400 defendant companies in Federal and State courts that the United States Supreme Court has characterized as 'an elephantine mass' of cases that 'defies customary judicial administration and calls for national legislation,' Ortiz v. Fibreboard Corporation, 119 S. Ct. 2295, 2302 (1999);

(7) the American Bar Association supports enactment of Federal legislation that would--

(A) allow persons alleging non-malignant asbestos-related disease claims to file a cause of action in Federal or State court only if those persons meet the medical criteria in the 'ABA Standard for Non-Malignant Asbestos-Related Disease Claims' dated February 2003 or an appropriate similar medical standard; and

(B) toll all applicable statutes of limitations until such time as the medical criteria in such standard are met;

(8) asbestos personal injury litigation can be unfair and inefficient, imposing a severe burden on litigants and taxpayers alike, in most cases involving defendant companies that were never involved in the production of asbestos;

(9) the extraordinary volume of nonmalignant asbestos cases continues to strain Federal and State courts, with over 200,000 cases pending and over 50,000 new cases filed each year;

(10) asbestos personal injury litigation has already contributed to the bankruptcy of more than 60 companies and the rate of asbestos-

driven bankruptcies is accelerating;

(11) the vast majority of asbestos claims are filed by individuals who--

- (A) have been exposed to asbestos;
- (B) may have some physical sign of exposure; and
- (C) suffer no present asbestos-related impairment;

(12) the cost of compensating exposed persons who are not sick--

- (A) jeopardizes the ability of defendants to compensate people with cancer and other serious asbestos-related diseases, now and in the future; and
- (B) strains the ability of courts to manage the deluge of cases involving nonimpaired plaintiffs;

(13) an estimated 50,000 to 60,000 workers have lost their jobs as a direct result of asbestos litigation and related bankruptcies of defendant companies and each displaced worker will, on average, lose between $25,000 and $50,000 in lost wages;

(14) employees of defendant companies declaring bankruptcy (who are often stockholders of those companies) will, on average, lose 25 percent of the value of their retirement investment under section 401(k) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 because of lost stock value;

(15) concerns about statutes of limitations can force claimants who have been exposed to asbestos but who have no current injury to bring premature lawsuits in order to protect against losing their rights to future compensation should those claimants become impaired;

(16) consolidations, joinder, and similar procedures, to which some courts have resorted in order to deal with the mass of asbestos cases, can undermine the appropriate functioning of the judicial process and encourage the filing of thousands of cases by exposed

persons who are not yet sick and who may never become sick;

(17) the availability of sympathetic forums in States with no connection to the plaintiff or to the exposures that form the basis of a lawsuit has encouraged the filing of thousands of cases on behalf of exposed persons who are not yet sick and may never become sick;

(18) asbestos litigation, if left unchecked by reasonable congressional intervention, will--

(A) continue to inhibit the economy and run counter to plans to stimulate economic growth and the creation of new jobs;

(B) threaten the savings, retirement benefits, and employment of defendants' current and retired employees;

(C) affect adversely the communities in which these defendants operate; and

(D) impair interstate commerce and national initiatives, including national security; and

(19) the public interest and the interest of interstate commerce requires deferring the claims of exposed persons who are not sick in order to--

(A) preserve, now and for the future, defendants' ability to compensate people who develop cancer and other serious asbestos-related injuries; and

(B) safeguard the jobs, benefits, and savings of American workers and the well-being of the national economy.

(b) PURPOSES- It is the purpose of this Act to--

(1) give priority to those asbestos claimants who can demonstrate actual physical harm or illness caused by asbestos;

(2) fully preserve the rights of claimants who were exposed to asbestos to pursue compensation should those claimants become sick

in the future;

(3) enhance the ability of the Federal and State judicial systems to supervise and control asbestos litigation and asbestos-related bankruptcy proceedings; and

(4) conserve the scarce resources of the defendants, and marshal assets in bankruptcy, to allow compensation of cancer victims and others who are physically harmed by exposure to asbestos while securing the right to similar compensation for those who may suffer physical harm in the future.

SEC. 3. DEFINITIONS.

In this Act:

(1) AMA GUIDES TO THE EVALUATION OF PERMANENT IMPAIRMENT- The term 'AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment' means the American Medical Association's Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment (Fifth Edition 2000).

(2) ASBESTOS- The term 'asbestos' includes all minerals defined as 'asbestos' under section 1910 of title 29 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

(3) ASBESTOS CLAIM- The term 'asbestos claim'--

(A) means any claim for damages or other relief presented in a civil action or bankruptcy proceeding, arising out of, based on, or related to the health effects of exposure to asbestos, including loss of consortium and any other derivative claim made by or on behalf of any exposed person or any representative, spouse, parent, child or other relative of any exposed person; and

(B) does not include claims for benefits under a workers' compensation law or veterans' benefits program, or claims brought by any person as a subrogee by virtue of the payment of benefits under a workers' compensation law or punitive damages.

(4) ASBESTOSIS- The term 'asbestosis' means bilateral diffuse interstitial fibrosis of the lungs caused by inhalation of asbestos fibers.

(5) CERTIFIED B-READER- The term 'certified B-reader' means an individual qualified as a 'final' or 'B-reader' under section 37.51(b) of title 42 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

(6) CIVIL ACTION- The term 'civil action'--

(A) means all suits of a civil nature in Federal or State court, whether cognizable as cases at law or in equity or in admiralty; and

(B) does not include an action relating to any workers' compensation law, or a proceeding for benefits under any veterans' benefits program.

(7) EXPOSED PERSON- The term 'exposed person' means any person whose exposure to asbestos or to asbestos-containing products is the basis for an asbestos claim.

(8) FEV1- The term 'FEV1' means forced expiratory volume in the first second, which is the maximal volume of air expelled in 1 second during performance of simple spirometric tests.

(9) FVC- The term 'FVC' means forced vital capacity, which is the maximal volume of air expired with maximum effort from a position of full inspiration.

(10) ILO SCALE- The term 'ILO Scale' means the system for the classification of chest x-rays set forth in the International Labour Office's Guidelines for the Use of ILO International Classification of Radiographs of Pneumoconioses (1980) as amended by the International Labour Office.

(11) NONMALIGNANT CONDITION- The term 'nonmalignant condition' means any condition that is caused or may be caused by asbestos other than a diagnosed cancer.

(12) PATHOLOGICAL EVIDENCE OF ASBESTOSIS- The term 'pathological evidence of asbestosis' means a statement by a Board-certified pathologist that--

(A) more than 1 representative section of lung tissue uninvolved with any other disease process demonstrates a pattern of peribronchiolar or parenchymal scarring in the presence of characteristic asbestos bodies; and

(B) there is no other more likely explanation for the presence of the fibrosis.

(13) PREDICTED LOWER LIMIT OF NORMAL- The term 'predicted lower limit of normal' for any test means the fifth percentile of healthy populations based on age, height, and gender, as referenced in the AMA Guides to the Evaluation of Permanent Impairment.

(14) RADIOLOGICAL EVIDENCE OF ASBESTOSIS- The term 'radiological evidence of asbestosis' means a chest x-ray showing small, irregular opacities (s,t) graded by a certified B-reader as at least 1/1 on the ILO scale.

(15) RADIOLOGICAL EVIDENCE OF DIFFUSE PLEURAL THICKENING- The term 'radiological evidence of diffuse pleural thickening' means a chest x-ray showing bilateral pleural thickening of at least B2 on the ILO scale and blunting of at least 1 costophrenic angle.

(16) STATE- The term 'State' means any State of the United States, the District of Columbia, Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Northern Mariana Islands, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, and any other territory or possession of the United States or any political subdivision of any of the entities under this paragraph.

(17) VETERANS' BENEFITS PROGRAM- The term `veterans' benefits program' means any program for benefits in connection with military service administered by the Veterans' Administration under title 38, United States Code.

(18) WORKERS' COMPENSATION LAW- The term `workers' compensation law'--

(A) means a law respecting a program administered by a State or the United States to provide benefits, funded by a responsible employer or an insurance carrier of that employer, for occupational diseases or injuries or for disability or death caused by occupational diseases or injuries;

(B) includes the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act (33 U.S.C. 901 et seq.) and chapter 81 of title 5, United States Code; and

(C) does not include the Federal Employer's Liability Act (45 U.S.C. 51 et seq.).

SEC. 4. PHYSICAL IMPAIRMENT.

(a) IMPAIRMENT ESSENTIAL ELEMENT OF CLAIM- Physical impairment of the exposed person, to which asbestos exposure was a substantial contributing factor, shall be an essential element of an asbestos claim. For purposes of this section, cancer shall be presumed to involve physical impairment.

(b) PRIMA FACIE EVIDENCE OF PHYSICAL IMPAIRMENT-

(1) IN GENERAL- No person shall bring or maintain a civil action alleging a nonmalignant asbestos claim in the absence of a prima

5       result in conviction and involve occupational expo-
6       sure to asbestos, or asbestos as a toxic substance or
7       hazardous air pollutant—

8               (A) in the case of a convicted individual,
9       that individual shall be subject to the greater
10      of—

11              (i) the applicable fine established by 12      the statute of conviction; or

13              (ii) not more than $250,000, and im-
14      prisonment of not more than 15 years, or 15      both; and

16              (B) in the case of a convicted entity (other
17      than an individual), that entity shall be subject
18      to the greater of—

19              (i) the applicable fine established by 20      the statute of conviction; or

21              (ii) a fine of not more than 22      $1,000,000.

23              (5) REVIEW OF FEDERAL SENTENCING GUIDE-
24      LINES FOR ENVIRONMENTAL CRIMES RELATED TO
25      ASBESTOS.—Under section 994 of title 28, United

1 States Code, and in accordance with this section, the
2 United States Sentencing Commission shall review
3 and amend, as appropriate, the United States Sen-
4 tencing Guidelines and related policy statements to
5 ensure that—

6 (A) appropriate changes are made within
7 the guidelines to reflect any statutory amend-
8 ments that have occurred since the time that
9 the current guideline was promulgated;

10 (B) the base offense level, adjustments and
11 specific offense characteristics contained in sec-
12 tion 2Q1.2 of the United States Sentencing
13 Guidelines (relating to mishandling of haz-
14 ardous or toxic substances or pesticides; record
15 keeping, tampering, and falsification; and un-
16 lawfully transporting hazardous materials in
17 commerce) are increased as appropriate to en-
18 sure that future asbestos-related offenses reflect
19 the seriousness of the offense, the harm to the 20 community, the need for ongoing reform, and
21 the highly regulated nature of asbestos;

22 (C) the base offense level, adjustments and
23 specific offense characteristics are sufficient to
24 deter and punish future activity and are ade-

1           quate in cases in which the relevant offense
2           conduct—

3                   (i) involves asbestos as a hazardous or
4                   toxic substance; and

5                   (ii) occurs after the date of enactment
6                   of this Act;

7           (D) the adjustments and specific offense
8           characteristics contained in section 2B1.1 of
9           the United States Sentencing Guidelines related
10          to fraud, deceit and false statements, ade-
11          quately take into account that asbestos was in-
12          volved in the offense, and the possibility of 13          death or serious bodily harm as a result;

14          (E) the guidelines that apply to organiza-
15          tions in chapter 8 of the United States Sen-
16          tencing Guidelines, are sufficient to deter and
17          punish organizational criminal misconduct that
18          involves the use, handling, purchase, sale, dis-
19          posal, or storage of asbestos; and

20          (F) the guidelines that apply to organiza-
21          tions in chapter 8 of the United States Sen-
22          tencing Guidelines, are sufficient to deter and
23          punish organizational criminal misconduct that
24          involves fraud, deceit, or false statements

1           against the Asbestos Insurers Commission or 2           the Office of Asbestos Injury Claim Resolution.

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by MR. KOHL (for himself, Mr. LEAHY, and Mr. KENNEDY)

Viz:

- 1 In section 223, add at the end the following:
- 2 (f) CONTINGENT CALL FOR ADDITIONAL MANDA-
- 3 TORY FUNDING.—
- 4 (1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding sections
- 5 202(a)(2) and 212(a)(3)(A), unless the Adminis-
- 6 trator certifies under this subsection that there are
- 7 adequate funds available to compensate past, pend-
- 8 ing, and projected future claimants at the scheduled
- 9 award values provided in section 131(b), the Admin-

1       istrator shall assess additional contributions from all
2       participants during first 27 years of the Fund (in
3       this section, the “mandatory funding period”), as
4       provided in this subsection.

5           (2) ALLOCATION.— Any additional contribu-
6       tions assessed under this subsection shall be allo-
7       cated among each participant as provided under
8       paragraphs (4) and (5).

9           (3) REDUCTION ADJUSTMENT CERTIFI-
10       CATION.—

11           (A) IN GENERAL.—Before making any re-
12       duction adjustment under section 204(a) or sec-
13       tion 212(a)(3)(B), the Administrator shall cer-
14       tify, after consultation with appropriate experts,
15       that during the time period in which such re-
16       duction adjustment would apply there will be
17       adequate funds available to compensate past,
18       pending, and projected future claimants at the
19       scheduled award values provided in section
20       131(b) of this Act.

21           (B) INITIAL NOTICE.—Before making any
22       certification under subparagraph (A), the Ad-
23       ministrator shall publish a notice in the Federal
24       Register of the proposed certification, including
25       a description and explanation of the Adminis-

1           trator's analysis supporting the certification of
2           the Administrator.

3           (C) COMMENTS FROM PARTICIPANTS.—
4           Not later than 60 days after the publication of
5           the notice under subparagraph (B), a partici-
6           pant may provide the Administrator with addi-
7           tional information to support a determination
8           that additional contributions from participants
9           are not required.

10          (D) FINAL CERTIFICATION.—

11           (i) IN GENERAL.—The Administrator
12           shall publish a notice in the Federal Reg-
13           ister of the final certification after consid-
14           eration of all comments submitted under
15           subparagraph (C).

16           (ii) WRITTEN NOTICE.—Not later
17           than 30 days of publishing a final certifi-
18           cation under clause (i), the Administrator
19           shall provide each participant with notice
20           of that participant's final contribution as-
21           sessment after application of any reduction
22           adjustment under section 204(a) or section
23           212(a)(3)(B), subject to paragraphs (4)
24           and (5).

25          (4) DEFENDANT PARTICIPANTS.—

1 (A) IN GENERAL.—Any additional con-
2 tributions from the defendant participants
3 under paragraph (1) shall be allocated in ac-
4 cordance with subparagraphs (B) through (H).

5 (B) YEARS 6 THROUGH 8.—If the Adminis-
6 trator fails to certify that there are adequate
7 funds during years 6 through 8 of the manda-
8 tory funding period, the Administrator shall
9 maintain after year 5 of the mandatory funding
10 period the contribution levels assessed under
11 section 203 and not make any reduction adjust-
12 ments as provided in section 204(a) for years 6
13 through 8.

14 (C) YEARS 9 THROUGH 11.—If the Admin-
15 istrator fails to certify that there are adequate
16 funds during years 9 through 11 of the manda-
17 tory funding period, the Administrator shall
18 maintain after year 8 of the mandatory funding
19 period the contribution levels assessed under
20 section 203 and not make any reduction adjust-
21 ments as provided in section 204(a) for years 9
22 through 11.

23 (D) YEARS 12 THROUGH 14.—If the Ad-
24 ministrator fails to certify that there are ade-
25 quate funds during years 12 through 14 of the

1 mandatory funding period, the Administrator
2 shall maintain after year 11 of the mandatory
3 funding period the contribution levels assessed
4 under section 203 and not make reduction ad-
5 justments as provided in section 204(a) for
6 years 12 through 14.

7 (E) YEARS 15 THROUGH 17.—If the Ad-
8 ministrator fails to certify that there are ade-
9 quate funds available during years 15 through
10 17 of the mandatory funding period, the Ad-
11 ministrator shall maintain after year 14 of the
12 mandatory funding period the contribution lev-
13 els assessed under section 203 and not make
14 any reduction adjustments as provided in sec-
15 tion 204(a) for years 15 through 17.

16 (F) YEARS 18 THROUGH 20.—If the Ad-
17 ministrator fails to certify that there are ade-
18 quate funds available during years 18 through
19 20 of the mandatory funding period, the Ad-
20 ministrator shall maintain after year 17 of the
21 mandatory funding period the contribution lev-
22 els assessed under section 203 and not make
23 any reduction adjustments as provided in sec-
24 tion 204(a) for years 18 through 20.

1 (G) YEARS 21 THROUGH 26.—If the Ad-
2 ministrator fails to certify that there are ade-
3 quate funds available during years 21 through
4 26 of the mandatory funding period, the Ad-
5 ministrator shall maintain until year 26 of the
6 mandatory funding period the contribution lev-
7 els assessed under section 203 and not make
8 any reduction adjustments as provided in sec-
9 tion 204(a) for years 21 through 26.

10 (H) YEAR 27.—If the Administrator fails
11 to certify that there are adequate funds avail-
12 able during year 27 of the mandatory funding
13 period, the Administrator shall maintain the
14 contribution levels assessed under section 203
15 and not make any reduction adjustments as
16 provided in section 204(a) for year 27.

17 (I) DETERMINATION OF REDUCTION AD-
18 JUSTMENTS.—In administering subparagraphs
19 (C) through (H), if a reduction was not made
20 in any preceding 3-year period and the Admin-
21 istrator certifies there are adequate funds under
22 paragraph (3), the amount of any reduction ad-
23 justment under section 204(a) shall be deter-
24 mined as though all preceding reductions had
25 been made.

1           (J) LIMITATION OF REQUIRED CONTRIBU-
2           TION.—Notwithstanding subparagraphs (B)
3           through (H), if the Administrator certifies,
4           after consultation with appropriate experts,
5           there will be adequate funds available to com-
6           pensate past, pending, and projected future
7           claimants at the scheduled award values pro-
8           vided in section 131(b) after applying a smaller
9           reduction adjustment than otherwise required
10          under this paragraph, during the time period in
11          which such reduction adjustment would apply,
12          the Administrator shall apply such smaller re-
13          duction adjustment.

14          (K) NO ORPHAN SHARE.—The additional
15          contributions collected by the Administrator
16          under this subsection shall not be considered
17          excess monies under subsection (e) to be placed
18          in the orphan share reserve account and shall
19          be credited to the Fund only for the payment
20          of claims.

21          (5) INSURER PARTICIPANTS.—

22               (A) IN GENERAL.—The total amount of
23               any contributions allocated by the Adminis-
24               trator to the insurer participants shall equal the 25               total amount of additional contributions allo-

1 cated to the defendant participants under para-
2 graph (4) for any 3-year period.

3 (B) ALLOCATION.—Of the amount of addi-
4 tional contributions required under subpara-
5 graph (A), each insurer participant shall be al-
6 located an additional contribution equal to the
7 insurer participant's proportionate share of an-
8 nual contributions to the Fund under section
9 212.

10 (6) ENFORCEMENT.—The additional contribu-
11 tions required under this subsection may be enforced
12 in the same manner and to the same extent as the
13 enforcement of a contribution under section 224.

14 On page 64, line 23, strike “The” and insert “Sub-
15 ject to section 223(f), the”.

16 On page 79, line 20, after “time” insert “, subject
17 to section 223(f).

AMENDMENTS intended to be proposed by Mr. KENNEDY

Viz:

1 In section 114, at the appropriate place insert the
2 following:

3 (h) MEDICAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE.—

4 (1) IN GENERAL.—The chief judge may appoint
5 a Medical Advisory Committee of the Asbestos Court
6 consisting of qualified physicians for purposes of
7 providing appropriate medical advice relating to the 8 review of claims.

1           (2) QUALIFICATIONS.—To be eligible for ap-
2           pointment to the Medical Advisory Committee under
3           paragraph (1), a person shall—

4                   (A) be a physician licensed in any State;

5                   (B) be board-certified in pulmonary medi-
6           cine, occupational medicine, internal medicine,
7           oncology, or pathology; and

8                   (B) be actively and primarily practicing
9           medicine in a field directly related to the board
10          certification of the physician.

11          (3) DUTIES.—Magistrates and claims exam-
12          iners may refer questions concerning the medical eli-
13          gibility of claimants to the committee for its advice
14          and recommendations.

15          In section 124, at the appropriate place insert the
16          following:

17          (c) EXCEPTIONAL MEDICAL CLAIMS.—

18                  (1) IN GENERAL.—A claimant who does not
19          meet the medical criteria requirements under sub-
20          section (a) and (b) may apply for designation of the 21          claim as an exceptional medical claim.

22                  (2) APPLICATION.—When submitting an appli-
23          cation for review of an exceptional medical claim, the 24          claimant shall—

1 (A) state that the claim does not meet the
2 medical criteria requirements in subsection (a)
3 and (b); or

4 (B) seek designation as an exceptional
5 medical claim within 60 days after a determina-
6 tion that the claim is ineligible solely for failure
7 to meet the medical criteria requirements under
8 subsections (a) and (b).

9 (3) REPORT OF PHYSICIAN.—

10 (A) IN GENERAL.—Any claimant applying
11 for designation of a claim as an exceptional
12 medical claim shall support an application filed
13 under paragraph (1) with a report from a phy-
14 sician meeting the requirements of section 122.

15 (B) CONTENTS.—A report filed under
16 paragraph (A) shall include—

17 (i) a complete review of the claimant's
18 medical history and current condition;

19 (ii) such additional material by way of
20 analysis and documentation as shall be
21 prescribed by rule of the Asbestos Court;
22 and

23 (iii) a detailed explanation as to why
24 the claim meets the requirements of para-
25 graph (4)(B).

1 (4) REVIEW.—

2 (A) IN GENERAL.—The Asbestos Court
3 shall refer all applications and supporting docu-
4 mentation submitted under paragraph (2) to
5 the Medical Advisory Committee for review for
6 eligibility as an exceptional medical claim.

7 (B) STANDARD.—A claim shall be des-
8 ignated as an exceptional medical claim if the
9 claimant, for reasons beyond his or her con-
10 trol, cannot satisfy the requirements under sub-
11 sections (a) and (b), but is able, through com-
12 parably reliable evidence that meets the stand-
13 ards under section 122, to show that the claim-
14 ant has an asbestos-related condition that is 15 substantially comparable to that of a medical 16 condition that would satisfy the requirements of 17 a category under subsection (b).

18 (C) ADDITIONAL INFORMATION.—The
19 Medical Advisory Committee may request addi-
20 tional reasonable testing to support the claim-
21 ant's application.

22 (D) CT SCAN.—A claimant may submit a
23 CT Scan in addition to an x-ray.

24 (5) APPROVAL.—

1           (A) IN GENERAL.—If the Medical Advisory
2           Committee determines that the medical evi-
3           dence is sufficient to show a comparable asbes-
4           tos-related condition, it shall issue a certificate
5           of medical eligibly designating the category of
6           asbestos-related injury under subsection (b) for
7           which the claimant may be eligible to seek com-
8           pensation.

9           (B) REFERRAL.—Upon the issuance of a
10          certificate under paragraph (A), the Medical
11          Advisory Committee shall submit the claim to a
12          magistrate, who shall proceed to determine
13          whether the claimant meets the requirements
14          for compensation under this Act.

15          (6) RE-SUBMISSION.—Any claimant whose ap-
16          plication for designation as an exceptional medical 17          claim is rejected may resubmit an application if new 18          evidence becomes available. The application shall
19          identify any prior applications and state the new evi-
20          dence that forms the basis of the re-submission.

21          (7) RULES.—The Chief Judge shall promulgate
22          rules governing the procedures for seeking designa-
23          tion of a claim as an exceptional medical claim.

AMENDMENT intended to be proposed by MR. LEAHY

Viz:

- 1      INSERT on page 7 at line 10 as subparagraph 11(C) the following language:
- 2            (C)    any successor in interest of a participant.
- 3      INSERT on page 8 at line 3 as subparagraphs 14 and 15 the following language:
- 4            (14)   SUBSTANTIALLY CONTINUES - The term “substantially continues”
- 5      means that the business operations have not been significantly modified by the change in
- 6      ownership.
- 7            (15)   SUCCESSOR IN INTEREST - The term “successor in interest” means
- 8      any person that acquires assets, and substantially continues the business operations, of a
- 9      participant. The factors to be considered in determining whether a person is a successor
- 10     in interest include, but are not limited to: (i) retention of the same facilities or location,
- 11     (ii) retention of the same employees, (iii) maintaining the same jobs under the same
- 12     working conditions, (iv) retention of the same supervisory personnel, (v) continuity of
- 13     assets, (vi) production of the same product or offer of the same service, (vii) retention of
- 14     the same name, (viii) maintenance of the same customer base, (ix) identity of stocks,

- 1 stockholders, and directors between the asset seller and the purchaser, or (x) whether the
- 2 successor holds itself out as continuation of previous enterprise, but expressly does not
- 3 include whether the person actually knew of the liability of the participant under this Act.
- 4 RENUMBER the rest of the subparagraphs accordingly.

Summary of “Successor in Interest” Amendment to S. 1125 –

This amendment would include among the “participants” in the Asbestos Trust Fund any “Successor in interest” to a participant. As developed in the case law, a successor in interest – one who is obliged to take on the obligations of the predecessor corporation – is one that carries on substantially continues the same business, with substantially the same people involved, assets utilized, and products produced. The amendment attempts to insure that mandatory participants will not be able to evade their responsibilities to the Fund by simple changes in their corporate structures or operations.

Summary of Amendment to S 1125 [PDF: SHU03.214]

The Amendment requires the Administrator to refer any information he obtains about possible asbestos violations under OSHA, the Toxic Substances Control Act or the Clean Water Act to the appropriate law enforcement authorities. The Amendment provides a sentencing enhancement for such environmental/health violations that involve asbestos.

Based on the new Title 18 crimes for fraud and false statements (included in the agreed-upon amendments), and the enhanced statutory maximums, the Amendment instructs the U.S. Sentencing Commission to consider appropriate amendments to the Sentencing Guidelines suggesting upward enhancements for asbestos-related crimes.

Summary of Agreed Amendments to S.1125

- X Sections 3(7) & 134 (Reduction in benefit payments for collateral sources): Strike Collateral Sources (Disability Insurance, Health Insurance, Medicare, Medicaid, and death benefit programs; keep as offsets payments from defendants, insurers and compensation trusts)
- X Section 124 (Take Home Exposure): Includes Take Home/Community Exposure (Manville in-shoes filing)
- X Section 122 (Diagnostic criteria Requirements): Strike independent physician verification on exposure, and add dead claimant exception for in-person exam.
- X Section 131 (Amount): Index all awards for annual future inflation based on CPI
- X Section 111 (Filing of Claims): Increase statute of limitations in which to file a claim from 2 to 4 years from the time claimant received a medical diagnosis of an eligible disease or should have known he would receive such a diagnosis. Deletes rule of construction paragraph of Administrator.
- X Section 125 (Exposure Criteria Requirements): include U.S. citizens exposed to asbestos while working for U.S. companies overseas or while on U.S.-flagged ships.
- X Section 204 (Assessment Administration): Add recoupment provision for any financial hardship or inequity adjustments in future years if company can afford it and limits term on inequity adjustment to 3 years.
- X Requires Administrator to provide Congress with annual report of trust funds payments, contributions, etc.
- X Section 401 (False information): Add crime and criminal penalties for defendant/insurer fraud and false statements
- X Section 224 (Enforcement of Contributions): Permits Administrator cause of action against contributing penalties; adds new remedies (punitive damages, injunctive relief – similar to PROTECT Act) to Administrator for failures to pay Fund and penalties for willful failures to pay.
- X Section 202 (Authority and Tiers/Treatment of Tier I Business entities in Bankruptcy): Replaces CEO Certification requirement that asbestos liability was not sole or precipitating cause of bankruptcy filing with bankruptcy court finding

Sunset of Liability Protection

This amendment would create a checkpoint relatively early on in the Fund's 27 year term where the Administrator has to certify that the Fund is operating as envisioned and claimants are being fully compensated. If the Fund isn't functioning properly either because of backlogs or inadequate funding, claimants are allowed to go back to the tort system.

On page 113 at the end of line 7 insert the following:

"The provisions of subsections (c) and (d) shall have no effect after January 1, 2010, unless the Administrator certifies prior to that date that at least 95 percent of all compensable claims filed on or before May 1, 2006 have been paid in full."

Viz:

- 1        On p. 36, insert after line 14, new section 125(b)(3) (Burden of Proof) as
- 2 follows:
- 3    (3) TAKE-HOME EXPOSURE.— A claimant may alternatively satisfy the
- 4 exposure criteria requirements of this section by showing that the claimant's
- 5 exposure to asbestos was the result of living with a person who, if the claim had
- 6 been filed by such person, would have met the exposure criteria for a claimed

1 Disease Level and the claimant lived with such person for the time period
2 necessary to satisfy the exposure requirement for the claimed Disease Level. To
3 satisfy the exposure criteria under this subparagraph, a claimant shall present
4 meaningful and credible evidence of circumstances of exposure demonstrating that
5 the claimant has asbestos exposure comparable to those of the person who
6 otherwise would have met the exposure criteria. Such claimants may apply for 7 designation of his or her claim as an exceptional medical claim under section

Brett:

I'm having our subject matter experts look at this, but my initial reaction is that 5 CFR Part 734 expressly does not apply to military members. DoD has issued internal guidance for many years that does apply to military members, but I don't know the legal basis for it (other than the SecDef's statutory authority, direction, and control over DoD). I will get back to you with a more refined answer.

Does DOD view uniformed officers as subject to 5 CFR Part 734 or are there separate rules for them? See definitional differences in 5 CFR and 5 USC 7322.

Brett:

Here's the take of our expert on political activities. I'm attaching the DoD Directive (I tried to send previously, but your email system returned it). I'll let you know if I get any further input.

Whit,

In my opinion, the drafting dissimilarities concerning the definitions of "employee" found at 5 CFR Part 734.101 and 5 USC 7322 amount to quintessential distinctions without a difference. Both definitions expressly exclude military members.

To the best of my knowledge, the most significant legal authority governing the political activity of military members is DoD Directive 1344.10. I am unaware of any other government-wide law or regulation on the same topic.

All:

Please give me any thoughts on how to respond to Brett Kavanaugh's question as soon as possible. The WH is trying to issue additional political activities guidance.

It appears to me that 5 CFR 734 does not apply to military members, but I'm not sure what does, other than our internal guidance. Thanks!

Does DOD view uniformed officers as subject to 5 CFR Part 734 or are there separate rules for them? See definitional differences in 5 CFR and 5 USC 7322.

D.C. Circuit calculus: Today's edition of The Washington Post reports here that "President Bush plans to nominate White House lawyer Brett M. Kavanaugh, an author of independent counsel Kenneth W. Starr's report on President Bill Clinton, for a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, Republican sources said yesterday." As the article goes on to explain, "The D.C. Circuit court has openings on its 11th and 12th seats. Republicans blocked Clinton from filling at least one of them by arguing that additional judges were not needed." In fact, the D.C. Circuit currently has three vacancies and one pending nominee, Miguel A. Estrada.

The challenge facing the White House is that if it nominates someone to the D.C. Circuit whom the Democratic leadership views as more acceptable than Estrada, that nominee will be confirmed, and Estrada -- whose nomination occurred more than two years ago and is now the subject of a filibuster -- will be left behind, holding a nomination to a seat that in the recent past Republicans have said did not need to be filled. So, if the White House indeed does nominate individuals to the eleventh and twelfth seats on the D.C. Circuit, we are likely to receive answers to the trivia question "Which D.C. Circuit nominees does the White House believe the Democratic leadership will find even more unpalatable than Miguel A. Estrada?" Anything else would represent a clear sign from the White House that the Estrada filibuster battle cannot be won and is no longer worth fighting.

No votes on amendments today. Spent the majority of time this am with 2 doctors on Medical Criteria.

We broke for lunch, came back at 3pm without quorum present. So, Hatch and Leahy went thru agreed upon items they will vote on next Tuesday. They are:

Penalties for Willful Failure to Pay
Recoupment Authority
Criminal Penalties for Fraud or False Statements
Indexe Claim Awards for Inflation
Double Statute of Limitations
Removes Collateral Sources
Us Flagged Vessels Exposure
Physician Evaluation
Medical Monitoring Options
New Medical Exceptions
Libby
Ban
Annual Report to Congress
Certification on Cause of Bankruptcy
Strike Product I'd
10 year latency period

Mark-up will begin Tuesday at 9:30 am, staff negotiations with other members and interested parties will continue over the weekend. Tone is positive.

There will be a meeting on Wednesday June 25 at 10am to discuss how CEA can assist in making our case for Tort Reform.
If you are not able to make it at that time please send Diana any thoughts
you have for specific tasks CEA should be given along these lines.

Please confirm your attendance with me.

thanks,
Emily

Update: Joe is out of town but left him a voice mail this morning .. haven't heard back. He usually is pretty good at returning calls so hopefully I'll hear something soon.

Talking Points: The President,s Framework to Strengthen & Improve
 Medicare
 Private Health Care Choices within Medicare * a Major Step in Medicare
 Reform

America has the world,s best health care system because it relies on the innovations of the private sector. A competitive free market system provides incentives to develop better drugs, better treatments, better care, and better forms of health care delivery.

The President,s Framework for Medicare reform would apply the best practices of the private health care market to Medicare. As successful as Medicare has been, it has not kept pace with dramatic improvements in health care because it is a government program immune to many market forces. Medicare still does not provide seniors with an outpatient prescription drug benefit, full coverage for preventive care, or limits on high out of pocket expenses. As a result, seniors lack many of the choices and benefits available to millions of Americans who have private health insurance.

The President,s goal is a strong, up-to-date Medicare system that relies on innovation and competition, not bureaucratic rules and regulations. This would allow seniors more choices and better benefits. It would also help modernize the program and improve its long-term finances.

The leading Medicare bills in the House and Senate include the following key elements of reform from the President,s Framework:

Individual Choice vs. One-size-fits-all

Seniors would be able to choose the health plan that best meets their own personal health needs*rather than having only the choice of a one-size-fits-all government plan. There would be flexibility for private plans to offer a variety of benefit designs, not just standard coverage.

Providing seniors with more choices will give them*not the government*more control. When seniors retain the power of choice, there will be competition among health care providers and insurers. The result? Seniors will get the best coverage, services and quality of care.

Private Sector Competition vs. Government Price Setting and Price Controls
Private insurers would deliver drug benefits to seniors, and costs would be controlled using marketplace competition, not government price setting. This is a fundamental departure from the current Medicare command and control pricing system.

Under the President,s Framework and the House and Senate bills, health plans would compete for seniors, business on the basis of quality and price. Federal employees and members of Congress enjoy the benefits of a competitive market for their health insurance, as do millions of working Americans. Seniors should have the same opportunity.

Currently, Medicare fixes payments to doctors and hospitals. The result is that Medicare does not often cover the true cost of care. Under the President,s Framework, private plans would bid against one another and then the government will select the lowest three bids that qualify. Such competition will be good for seniors and for taxpayers.

Innovation vs. Bureaucratic Delays

Whenever government gets involved in the business of micromanaging health care, innovation suffers and access to the newest and most effective treatments depends on the often arbitrary decisions of a slow-moving bureaucracy. When prescription drugs and medical devices are approved by the Food and Drug Administration, private insurers can adopt them for use soon after*but not Medicare. For example, Medicare did not cover mammograms until nearly a decade after private insurers made them a standard benefit. It even took an act of Congress to get Medicare to cover mammograms.

The participation of private health plans in Medicare will help ensure more up-to-date coverage for breakthrough medical technologies. This is a significant improvement over the way benefits are provided in the traditional Medicare program today*where politicians and regulators, rather than the market, decide what is covered.

Long-Term Savings vs. Spiraling Costs

The President and Congress have budgeted $400 billion over 10 years to make these reforms a reality. By contrast, Democratic leadership proposals in both the House and Senate would likely cost more than double the amount*perhaps nearly $1 trillion*pumped into an unreformed, one-size-fits-all government-run system.

Over time, reforming the Medicare system to allow more choices and private sector competition is expected to bring savings to the program. Medicare actuaries estimate that the most efficient private plans have the potential to beat Medicare,s costs by an average of 2.3 percent.

Far from being an open-ended entitlement, most seniors will be responsible for a deductible, and co-pays, and, for the first time, the Medicare Part B deductible would be indexed to inflation, which will help reduce government expenditures. At the same time, seniors with the lowest incomes and the highest prescription drug bills will receive the most assistance and protection under the bill. This focuses resources on those individuals who need the most help.

Free Market vs. Government Dictates

The President's vision for a reformed Medicare stands in stark contrast to a centralized, government-run health care system that dictates coverage and stifles innovation and quality.

The President's Framework for Medicare reform would combine the best practices of traditional Medicare with those of the competitive free market system that benefits Americans so well. By keeping the existing government system, building on its strengths and incorporating the best ideas of the private sector, we can create a modern and efficient Medicare program for the 21st century.

The President is encouraged by the bipartisan progress that has been made to date and is urging Congress to seize the opportunity to pass legislation this year that will reform Medicare for the first time in its 38-year history.

Received 6/10/03, from Cathy Goeggel, Animal Rights Hawaii, requesting records regarding the transfer of captive dolphins to public display.

Received 6/10/03, from Patti Goldman, Earthjustice, requesting records concerning Section 7 consultations regarding pesticides and endangered or threatened species.

Received 6/11/03, from Melanie Sloan, Citizens for Responsibilities and Ethics in Washington (CREW), requesting documents related to the "Bacardi," "Havana Club," trademark dispute.

Received 6/12/03, from Angie Pearson, Marriott, requesting purchase orders and contracts between NOAA and any lodging facility.

DoEd

Meghann K. Peterlin has submitted a FOIA request for copies of Congressional correspondence and related documents between the Department and Senators Boxer, Daschle, Dodd, Dorgan, Feingold, Hollings, Leahy, Lincoln, Milkulski, Murray, Reid, and Schumer for the period January 1997 through May 2003.

Charles Edwards, representing the Education Funding Research Council, has requested copies of all correspondence related to the NCLB accountability workbooks.

David J. Huff, representing Education Week, has requested copies of all documents related to the competition for funds under the Voluntary School Choice Program in Fiscal Year 2002.

HHS

7/2/03

The Detroit Free Press requested grant applications and HRSA communications regarding unsuccessful Federally Qualified Health Center applicants from the Detroit area during the past 5 years.

EPA

During the week of June 9, 2003, the Agency received 245 FOIA requests. Of the total, 38 were received in Headquarters. Year-to-date totals are 1,677 for Headquarters and 8,994 agency-wide. Significant FOIA requests received this week include:

- 1) Thomas W. Wetterer of Greenpeace has requested a copy of the Office of Enforcement and Compliance Assurance's National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System Report Analysis by Amy Porter of the Office of Water;
- 2) Alison Cassady of the U.S. Public Interest Research Group has requested the underlying data that was used to compile the water compliance facility reports in EPA's ECHO database;
- 3) Tom Lyden of KMSP-TV Fox 9 has requested the names of chemical plants or facilities in Minnesota that are on the EPA's "Worst Case Scenario List" and relevant reports including Risk Management Plans or Off-Site Consequence Analyses;
- 4) Mal Leary of the Maine Capitol News Service has requested a copy of the February 2003 internal report on compliance conducted by the EPA's Office of Enforcement and Compliance Assurance;
- 5) James Pew of EarthJustice has requested certain records of communication between the Assistant Administrator for the Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response and others pertaining to revisions to the definition of solid waste.

DOI

Meyer & Glitzenstein, on Behalf of the Fund for Animals. Request the following records: On March 1, 2002, Debra Hecox of the Department of the Interior Solicitor's Office issued a Memorandum entitled "Authority for Employees of Yellowstone National Park to Cooperate with the State of Montana in Implementing the Long-term Bison Management Plan." In that Memorandum, the Solicitor's Office concluded that is "well within the authority of the National Park Service employees to participate in the bison management activities" – including "lethally removing bison" – "outside the boundaries of Yellowstone National Park to conserve the bison in the Yellowstone Herd." The fund requests a copy of all records upon which Ms. Hecox, and the Park Service, bases this conclusion" etc.

DOJ

Christopher J. Farrell, of Judicial Watch, Inc., has requested all records pertaining to (1) "[t]he decision of Michael Chertoff not to recuse himself in any matter involving Peter F. Paul and Stanley Myatt," and (2) "[a]llegations of Justice Department misuse of an organized crime operative within the jurisdiction of the United States Attorney's Office for the state of New Jersey."

DOL

Dale Kasofsky, Esq., Law Offices of Kittleman, Thomas, Ramirez and Gonzales, McAllen, TX, is seeking:

to determine whether or not Omar Rodriguez, of Lexington, KY has ever been certified and/or registered pursuant to the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act found at 29 U.S.C. Section 18, et al. and the regulations promulgated located at 29 C.F.R. Section 500. Kasofsky also seeks to determine if any agency's action occurred effecting Mr. Rodriguez' standing to perform farm labor contracting activities.

Kasofsky is also interested in any investigations or actions taken pursuant to these acts and regulations concerning the following tobacco warehouses that are also located in Lexington, KY: Burley Services, Inc.; Southwestern Tobacco Company, Inc.; Universal Leaf North American NC, Inc.; Southwestern Tobacco Company, Inc.; Golden Burley Tobacco Warehouse

Violet Law, Editor, Pittsburgh Tribune-Review, Pittsburgh, PA, is seeking:

all records pertaining to the Department of Labor's 1985 judgment against the Salvation Army's violation of the Fair Labor Standards Act and all correspondence between the Salvation Army and the Department of Labor with regard to this judgment.

Timothy Baker, Department of Occupational Health and Safety, United Mine Workers of America, Fairfax, VA, is seeking:

copies of logs, appointment calendars, calendar markings, notes, correspondence and travel vouchers of MSHA officials indicating contact or meetings with representatives from Murray Energy Corporation, Ohio Valley Coal Company, or Powhatan #6 Mine regarding matters referencing the Powhatan #6 Mine. Baker also seeks copies of sign-in sheets showing the names of representatives from those companies for meetings with MSHA officials. Further, Baker also seeks copies records, correspondence and travel vouchers of the personal staff to David Lauriski, John Caylor, Mark Ellis, Timothy Thompson, William McGilton and any other MSHA officials indicating contact or meetings with representatives from Murray Energy Corporation, Ohio Valley Coal Company or Powhatan #6 Mine.

In addition to his request concerning Powhatan #6 mine, Baker also seeks information concerning the 100 most frequently cited surface mines and underground mines in the U.S. for 2002, ranked by total number of violations. Specifically, he is requesting the total violations and orders by type, both nationwide and for the specific operation, and by regulation cited.

Joseph Main, Administrator, Department of Occupational Health and Safety, United Mine Workers of America, Fairfax, VA, is seeking:

a list of mine operators consulted by MSHA contractor ICF Consulting during the preparation of a program evaluation of MSHA's current inspection program and the dates mine operators were consulted. He is also seeking a copy of the evaluation report when completed.

OPM

Reporter Tim Kauffman (Federal Times) submitted a FOIA request for “all of the raw data collected for inclusion in the 2003 Federal Human Capital Survey or (if that is ‘exceptionally onerous’) all of the data broken out by all of the subagencies, bureaus and, offices that participated, and all of the data broken out by individual occupations, occupational categories or job series of respondents.” The reporter requested the data in electronic format.

DOT

Your Lotus Notes has run out of memory In order to fix your problem, the first thing that needs to be done is for one of the techs to get in your Lotus notes. Is it alright if I turn off your computer w/out shutting down, or will you be back soon to do a proper shut-down? After that, you will need to go through and get rid of some things. Give me a call or email.

Joe thinks this is a good idea. Also, since the question originally came from Mary Cheney, do we need to make the same accommodations on the VPs plane?

Phone calls from the plane

Here is a potential solution. We can have two air phones put on the plane that have a label that says "political phone." Staff can use those phones for any political calls. These phones do not go to the air force one operator. In fact, political staff can call up to these phones directly as well. The calls are about 3.99 per minute - with a minimum of 2-3 minutes. It's just like a phone on a commercial plane.

Then the bill will come to WHCA for these phones only. WHCA will get me the bills and I will give them to Susan. You get the bill monthly, after the fact. The bill would come in itemized, but wouldn't have the callers name identified. You could put a little card next to the phone that gave some sort of policy direction for usage. For example, "please note this is a political phone that costs 3.99 per minute. That's a lot of bumper stickers. Please use sparingly." Or, "this phone may only be used by("

Please let me know if you would like me to make this happen and put this process in place.

Could you two please let me know your thoughts on this question from Mary? I assume we could set some sort of billing procedure set up with WHCA. It also raises another question: if a snack or meal is served on board either plane when we have political travellers, will there be a Bush-Cheney '04 account that is billed or how should we handle?

Thanks,

What are the rules regarding campaign staff using the phones on AF1 or 2?
I assume that if we can use them, we need some sort of billing card, but are we allowed to use them at all?

No votes on amendments today. Spent the majority of time this am with 2 doctors on Medical Criteria.

We broke for lunch, came back at 3pm without quorum present. So, Hatch and Leahy went thru agreed upon items they will vote on next Tuesday. They are:

Penalties for Willful Failure to Pay
Recoupment Authority
Criminal Penalties for Fraud or False Statements
Indexe Claim Awards for Inflation
Double Statute of Limitations
Removes Collateral Sources
Us Flagged Vessels Exposure
Physician Evaluation
Medical Monitoring Options
New Medical Exceptions
Libby
Ban
Annual Report to Congress
Certification on Cause of Bankruptcy
Strike Product I'd
10 year latency period

Mark-up will begin Tuesday at 9:30 am, staff negotiations with other members and interested parties will continue over the weekend. Tone is positive.

We thought you might be interested in the following summary of the Blue Dog vote on Class Action Reform from last week.

Twenty of the thirty-two Democratic supporters of the bill were members of the Blue Dogs. Four of the twenty are new members and five of them switched their vote from last year.

We in the coalition appreciate the great job that Congressmen Stenholm, Tanner and John did on behalf of the legislation.

The three Blue Dog co-chairs, the whip and the three PAC co-chairs all voted in favor of H.R. 1115.

There will be a meeting on Wednesday June 25 at 10am to discuss how CEA
can assist in making our case for Tort Reform.
If you are not able to make it at that time please send Diana any thoughts
you have for specific tasks CEA should be given along these lines.

Please confirm your attendance with me.

thanks,

MEMORANDUM FOR      HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES
WHITE HOUSE STAFF

FROM:                    ALBERTO R. GONZALES
COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT:                RULES REGARDING CORPORATE AND GOVERNMENT
AIRCRAFT ON POLITICAL TRIPS

This memorandum summarizes rules and policies with respect to use of corporate or government aircraft for political trips. (Note that this memorandum does not cover travel on a charter aircraft paid for by a political entity, which is treated the same as ordinary travel on a commercial aircraft where the cost is paid by a political entity.)

I. Corporate Aircraft

A political campaign or party may pay for air transportation of individuals to a political event, including of individuals employed in the Executive Branch who are otherwise allowed to attend the event. See 5 C.F.R. 2635.204(f). In addition, federal law authorizes political campaigns and parties to secure a corporate aircraft to provide air transportation, so long as the campaign or party reimburses the owner of the aircraft under relevant federal statutes and regulations. See 11 C.F.R. 114.9.

As a matter of policy, however, the following steps must occur when an Executive Branch employee travels on a corporate aircraft secured by a political campaign or party for the employee's travel to a political event:

1. The employee should not travel on a corporate aircraft for political travel unless commercial service would not be practically available under the circumstances, taking into account the employee's official schedule and the location and timing of the event.
2. The employee should not travel on an aircraft owned by an entity or individual that is regulated by or doing business with the employee's department or agency, or in circumstances that otherwise would be inappropriate.
3. The relevant political campaign or party must pay the owner of the aircraft in advance by paying the relevant first class airfare (or, in the case of travel to a city not served by a regularly scheduled commercial service, the usual charter rate).

4. For White House employees, advance approval of any use of a corporate aircraft for a political trip must be obtained from the Counsel to the President. For other Administration employees, advance approval of any use of corporate aircraft for a political trip must be obtained from the relevant department or agency General Counsel and the Counsel to the President.

5. When the trip is a mixed official-political trip involving campaign-related activity for Bush/Cheney '04, the re-election campaign will reimburse first-class airfare from the point of origin to each stop in which campaign-related activity is conducted and back to the point of origin. See 11 C.F.R. 106.3 and by policy 11 C.F.R. 9034.7. When the trip is a mixed official-political trip involving political activity other than campaign-related activity for Bush/Cheney '04, the political entity will reimburse first-class airfare based on the hard-time formula, which means that the reimbursable costs of the trip are divided based on time spent on official and political activity. See 5 C.F.R. 734.503. On all mixed trips, use of a corporate aircraft must also meet the standards for approval under 41 C.F.R. Part 304.

II. Government Aircraft

1. White House employees and other Administration employees should not use government aircraft for travel on political trips or mixed official-political trips unless the employee is required for security reasons to use government aircraft, or the employee is accompanying another official who requires use of a government aircraft for security reasons.

2. Advance approval of any use of a government aircraft for such a trip must be obtained from the Chief of Staff to the President and Counsel to the President. Appropriate first-class reimbursement for political travelers must be made by the campaign or relevant political entity. See 11 C.F.R. 106.3 and by policy 11 C.F.R. 9034.7(b)(5).

Conclusion

All Executive Branch employees must comply with relevant laws and regulations governing political activity and with the highest ethical standards. If White House employees have questions about these rules, they should contact the Counsel's office. If department or agency employees have questions about these rules, they should contact their department or agency General Counsel.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

June 19, 2003

MEMORANDUM FOR      HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES
WHITE HOUSE STAFF

FROM:                    ALBERTO R. GONZALES
COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT:                PAYMENT OF EXPENSES ASSOCIATED WITH POLITICAL TRAVEL DURING THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

This memorandum addresses the allocation of costs for travel on behalf of the President's authorized campaign committee.

The memorandum will be of primary assistance to those who calculate the costs for political and mixed travel. For reference, the rules of allocation and payment are summarized on pages 3-4 of this memorandum.

General Legal Principles

When considering the payment of travel expenses incurred on behalf of the President's authorized campaign committee (Bush/Cheney '04), three principles govern. First, appropriated funds may be spent only for the purposes for which they have been appropriated. See 31 U.S.C. 1301. Accordingly, funds appropriated for the official functions of the departments and agencies may be used for travel expenses only if the travel is reasonably related to an official purpose.

The second basic principle is that, in general, official activities should be paid only from funds appropriated for such purposes, unless Congress has authorized the support of those activities by other means. This principle prevents unauthorized augmentation of appropriations.

The third principle involves the requirements of the Federal election laws. Now that the President is a candidate for re-election, travel on behalf of the President's authorized campaign committee must be paid for by Bush/Cheney '04. See 11 C.F.R. 106.3 and by policy 11 C.F.R. 9034.7.

Political and Official Travel

Before an allocation of expenses for travel can be made, a determination must first be made as to whether an appearance is official or political; and, if it is political, whether it is on behalf of Bush/Cheney '04 or another political candidate or committee. For purposes of allocating travel costs during the Presidential campaign, there are three categories of events: 1) official events; 2) Bush/Cheney '04 political events, e.g., a Bush/Cheney '04 fundraiser; and 3) other political events, e.g., a fundraising event for a non-Presidential candidate.

In determining whether an activity is political or official, all relevant factors should be considered, including, but not limited to, the identity of the sponsor of the event, the group or organization being addressed, other participants, and the nature of the speech being delivered. There is considerable room for discretion in determining whether an event giving rise to an expense is political or official. Ultimately, the question is a factual one that can only be answered by those most familiar with the facts of a given event, trip or situation; accordingly, this determination must be made on a case-by-case basis. White House employees should consult the Counsel's Office, and department and agency employees should consult their General Counsel about these matters.

Generally speaking, appearing at party functions, fundraising, and campaigning for specific candidates should be considered political. In addition, any event that involves solicitation of campaign funds or express advocacy for a candidate or candidates for office will be political. Travel for inspections, meetings to discuss government business, official addresses, and the like ordinarily should be considered official travel, even though the event may have partisan consequences or concern matters on which opinion is politically divided. For a broader discussion of these issues, see 6 Op. O.L.C. 214, 216-217 (1982).

When allocating costs between political and official activities, an additional point should be kept in mind. There are some persons whose official duties may require them to be with the Administration official, whether or not that official is on government business. This group may include, among others, personal aides responsible for assisting in the conduct of official business while an official is traveling and the security detail responsible for an official's protection. Expenses incurred during travel by this group of individuals are official regardless of the character of the event that may be involved.

Bush/Cheney '04 Campaign Travel

The Bush/Cheney '04 campaign will carefully follow rules set forth in Federal Election Commission campaign travel allocation regulations. See 11 C.F.R. 106.3, 9034.7, 9035.1. The travel expenses for campaign-related travelers that are incurred for a stop in which an individual engages in campaign activity on behalf of the President are paid by Bush/Cheney '04. Please note that if any campaign activity for a Presidential candidate, other than incidental contacts, is conducted at a stop, that stop shall be considered campaign-related. Id. 9034.7(b)(2).

Campaign committees for non-Presidential candidates may not pay for the costs of campaign travel on behalf of the President. For example, if a Senatorial candidate schedules a fundraiser back-to-back with a Bush/Cheney '04 fundraiser, the President's campaign committee must pay the travel expenses for the entire stop. See 11 C.F.R. 106 and 9034.7. Also, when there is a question about the nature of a political event, particularly those involving the President and Vice President, the event will presumptively be considered campaign-related, and Bush/Cheney '04 will pay the appropriate travel costs.

Event costs associated with the individual events at a stop involving both Bush/Cheney '04 and official activity -- as opposed to the travel-related costs -- may be divided and allocated. Similarly, event costs associated with a trip involving both Bush/Cheney '04 and other political events likewise may be divided and allocated.

In instances where the same travel costs are incurred in conjunction with official and Bush/Cheney '04 activity, the portion of the trip allocable to the President's campaign committee is determined by using the hypothetical trip formula: calculating what the trip would have cost from the point of origin through each campaign-related stop and back to the point of origin. Cf. 11 C.F.R. 9034.7(b)(2). Where travel includes political, but not Bush/Cheney '04, activity and official activity, the portion of the trip allocable to the political entities is determined by using the hard-time formula, under which relevant costs are divided based on time spent on official and political activity. See 5 C.F.R. 734.503.

Rules of Allocation and Payment

The rules of allocation and payment are summarized below:

1. The President's campaign committee pays Presidential campaign-related travel costs. This includes transportation, hotel, and per diem costs for campaign-related travelers. For mixed trips, the hypothetical trip formula should be used for all campaign-related travelers: calculating what the trip would have cost from the point of origin through each campaign-related stop and back to the point of origin.
2. Costs associated with political activity that occurs on a mixed trip that does not involve any Bush/Cheney '04 activity are allocated according to the hard-time formula, under which relevant costs are divided based on the time spent on official and political activity. If any Bush/Cheney '04 campaign-related activities occur on a trip, the costs of the Bush/Cheney '04 campaign stops must be allocated according to the hypothetical trip formula.
3. If government aircraft (in accordance with applicable rules) is used for Bush/Cheney '04 travel, the campaign committee must pay the appropriate government entity the first-class commercial airfare for each traveler (except official travelers) in the case of travel to a city served by regularly scheduled first-class commercial service. In the case of travel to a city that is not served by regularly scheduled first-class commercial airline service, the campaign must reimburse the appropriate government entity the commercial coach airfare for each traveler (except official travelers). The campaign committee must pay the commercial charter rate in the case of travel to a city not served by regularly scheduled commercial service. (For political travel that is not Bush/Cheney '04 travel, the reimbursement is at commercial coach rate.)

4. If an Administration official travels to the political event by commercial airline, the campaign is obliged to pay the actual cost of the commercial airfare. The campaign may not take advantage of government rates.

5. If government cars (in accordance with applicable rules) are used for Bush/Cheney '04 campaign-related travelers on campaign-related trips, the government shall be reimbursed the commercial rental cost of comparable vehicles for the campaign-related travelers.

6. If a meeting room is rented for the purpose of campaign-related activity, the campaign should pay the costs of the room. The campaign may not take advantage of government rates.

7. The campaign must pay for the hotel rooms of campaign-related travelers. The campaign may not take advantage of government rates.

8. To document adequately these travel allocations and payments, all agencies should: (i) prepare, or otherwise have available, an itinerary for each trip involving Bush/Cheney '04 activity, and (ii) if government conveyance is used, prepare a list of all passengers, along with a designation as to which passengers are, or are not, campaign-related. A copy of the itinerary should be submitted to Bush/Cheney '04; the Bush/Cheney '04 campaign will maintain such information.

Conclusion

All Executive Branch employees must comply with relevant laws and regulations governing political activity and with the highest ethical standards. The regulations governing the payment of expenses for travel by federal officials on behalf of the President's campaign committee are in title 11, Code of Federal Regulations. If White House employees have questions about these rules, they should contact the Counsel's office. If department or agency employees have questions about these rules, they should contact their department or agency General Counsel.

Kim - let's discuss the full-size issue tomorrow first. Also, I thought we were only sending 4 advance folks for finance events.

Do you approve these travelers?

Please note that I will be asking Advance tomorrow to reduce rental cars to mid-size (unless there is justification for full-size). And we will speak with AMEX once more about trying to locate a cheaper fare for the first 2 travelers.

bc-bush-knee - a1901
(ATTN: National editors)
//Bush May Not Run ... as Fast as He Once Did// (Fridley, Minn.)
By Edwin Chen
(c) 2003, Los Angeles Times
FRIDLEY, Minn. * Hobbled by aching knees and an inflamed right calf, America's first runner has been all but sidelined from his favorite exercise and says his woes serve up a good lesson to all sports-minded baby boomers.
&Listen to your body. I tried to run through the pain and it didn't work, 8 President Bush said in remarks relayed to the Los Angeles Times on Thursday by White House press secretary Ari Fleischer.
The president first complained to a reporter about his knees during a private party in Washington in late April, blaming it on age. Bush is 56. At the Times, request, Bush on Thursday supplied new details of his injuries, during a day trip here to deliver a speech on the economy. Earlier Thursday, the president gave a public tip off to what he called &a runner,s injury8 on the tarmac at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland as he walked toward Air Force One, before traveling to Minnesota.
Playfully, he abruptly clutched his left knee with both hands, then broke into a wide grin, leaving most observers puzzled.
About 2 1/2 months ago, Bush, an avid runner for more than 15 years, noticed an aching right calf muscle after a hard run.
It turned out to be a minor muscle tear, Fleischer said, and Bush reined in his running about that time.
Bush consulted his physician, Air Force Col. Richard J. Tubb, about the injury, Fleischer said.
Amid the tensions of the Iraq war, Bush had pushed himself * on a treadmill in the White House and occasionally on the running track of the South Lawn * to perhaps the best times of his life, clocking a three-mile run at an average of 6 minutes, 45 seconds a mile * a strong pace for a man of any age.
A fierce competitor, Bush almost always times himself * &with an eye on +Can I beat it?, 8 Fleischer said.
Partial tears can be treated with either rest or heel lifts, which are cushioned pads inserted into shoes to relax the calf muscles, said Dr. Jacob E. Tauber, a Beverly Hills, Calif., orthopedic surgeon. &A more significant tear could actually require casting. No surgery is necessary if it is a partial muscular tear.8
Despite his injuries, the president is hardly idled.
He has increased other forms of exercise, including lifting weights and swimming * less jarring activities that allow his running injuries to heal. He continues to exercise six days a week.
Bush,s experience has taught him to &be sensitive to the aging process8 * a lesson he said he would like to share with everyone, but particularly baby boomers, Fleischer said.
Tauber echoed that advice. &If you don,t warm up and stretch, you are more predisposed to muscle tears,8 the surgeon said.
&This is a good lesson for people in their 50s who want to remain athletic,8 Bush said, adding: &I believe I,ll be running again.8

Indeed, the president recently tested his running, but at a more realistic pace.<sup>8</sup>
In his last time out, a week ago, Bush clocked in at 9 minutes a mile.

Times staff writer Justin Gest in Washington contributed to this report. AP-NY-06-19-03 2201EDT

Most definitely (. And I think we would want to know exactly which cities (once they have it figured out), have a special case built for it for some additional protection, etc. and it still makes me a bit nervous. It's interesting to note that when we first made the loan to them for the exhibit, the person to whom it was delivered by Mary Ann Hanusa made some comment that he didn't think it would be of too much interest (. Now they say it's a key component of the exhibit! Imagine that.

I have no legal objection to this proposal, but I have been struggling (and delaying) because of my grave concerns about the security of the bullhorn. This is an extraordinarily significant and valuable American artifact, and hauling it around the country from city to city seems destined to pose security problems. Do you agree?

We do not want to use EEOB for any events that could be characterized -- or even mischaracterized -- as donor maintenance events. Strategy and coordination meetings are fine, meetings with outside groups that may happen to include donors within them are of course fine, and standard visits of political groups to hear from OPA/OPL about the President's agenda are fine.

Colleen- here are the two memos we discussed earlier. If you've gone home, we can send them in the morning.

Subject line;for the admin alert: IMPORTANT: Memos on Political Travel from Counsel's Office

Sent to: WHO, DPC, NEC

Did we send the first memo to OVP, or only the three listed above?

Most definitely .... And I think we would want to know exactly which cities (once they have it figured out), have a special case built for it for some additional protection, etc. and it still makes me a bit nervous. It's interesting to note that when we first made the loan to them for the exhibit, the person to whom it was delivered by Mary Ann Hanusa made some comment that he didn't think it would be of too much interest .... Now they say it's a key component of the exhibit! Imagine that.

I have no legal objection to this proposal, but I have been struggling (and delaying) because of my grave concerns about the security of the bullhorn. This is an extraordinarily significant and valuable American artifact, and hauling it around the country from city to city seems destined to pose security problems. Do you agree?

Thank you so much for the kind email. As you know, nothing like my current job or this possible future announcement would have been remotely possible without all the guidance and help from Ken over the years. I am and will always be grateful to him and you for all of that. I will talk to you soon; I recently talked again to Ken about our long-planned lunch! I am sure he will be strapped until the BCRA brief is in, but we can plan for soon after that, I hope. Thanks again.

Colin L. Powell Holds News Conference With Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon 06/20/03

SHARON (THROUGH TRANSLATOR): First of all, good afternoon, everybody.

First of all, my friend, Secretary of State Mr. Colin Powell, I would like to welcome you to Jerusalem. You probably know, after all you're a frequent visitor, that you are among friends. I would also like to convey to you our appreciation for the extensive efforts that you invest with determination and devotion in order to promote the political process.

I'd like to take this opportunity to also welcome the special envoy sent by President George Bush, Ambassador Wolf, Ambassador Sutterfield, and to thank the U.S. ambassador to Israel, Dan Kurtzer, for his efforts and for his contribution to promoting the process.

Major developments in our area, which led to the Aqaba summit, present us with many opportunities, but also with quite a few threats. We now have an opportunity that we all hope will lead us to quiet and eventually, God willing, also to peace. I define it this week as birth pains, birth pains of a process. The State of Israel will make every effort, exhaust every avenue and will not miss any opportunity to try and embark on a political process that will also lead to a political arrangement.

The State of Israel has accepted the steps detailed in the road map, plus the 14 points in which the Israeli government has decided. And in this framework, we have also assumed upon ourselves further commitments. These are not easy things, and are even harder after almost three years of the war of terror that is being waged against us. But these are commitments that we have assumed upon ourselves in order to try and reach a political process, and we are executing these decisions and commitments.

But we must nevertheless remember, as long as terrorism continues, as long as violence continues, as long as this terrible incitement is raging, there will be no progress. Peace cannot coincide with terror.

Our Palestinian neighbors and their leaders must realize that the continuation of terror means no political progress. A true war on terrorism, on its infrastructure, on the entities that finance it, on those who initiate it and on the dispatchers is the way to make way and move ahead in a sincere and genuine process.

Mr. Secretary, I'm sure you practically feel at home here by now. Our talks are always good and friendly. As I said in our meeting, I will repeat here now, too. I will make every effort towards security and peace for the benefit of the people of Israel and for the peoples of the entire region. This is the commitments that I have assumed, and this is what I will do.

Thank you very much.

REV_00123828

COLIN POWELL, SECRETARY OF STATE: Thank you very much, Mr. Prime Minister, and thank you for your welcome. And I do always feel at home here, especially since this is my second visit to Jerusalem within the past five weeks, and including the Aqaba meetings, this is our third meeting over the past five weeks.

When we all met at Aqaba a little over two weeks ago, we all knew that we faced a moment of great opportunity, but also, as the prime minister has just noted, a time of great challenge.

With the end of the dictatorship in Iraq and the emergence of new Palestinian leadership, we have an opportunity to successfully tackle the difficult task of ending terrorism, ending violence, bringing hope to the Israeli and Palestinian people, and making progress on a road map to a peaceful solution of this terrible conflict that continues to take innocent lives.

The terrorists must not be, will not be allowed to deter us from confronting the challenges and solving those challenges peacefully. If at all possible, we must not be denied the chance to seize the opportunities that are before us.

We know that there can never be a justification for the sudden death by rifle fire of an innocent child singing a song in the back seat of her car with her sister. There can never be a justification of the sudden death and horrendous injuries of those who are simply riding a bus to their place of work or to their school. This has to end.

At Aqaba, President Bush, standing alongside Prime Minister Sharon and Prime Minister Abbas, recommitted his administration to the vision of a holy land that must be shared between the state of Palestine and the state of Israel, living at peace with each other and with every nation of the Middle East. We dispatched Ambassador John Wolf to work with Ambassador Kurtzer and Consul General Feldman to make sure that we all keep focused on the commitments made to the president and to the world at Aqaba, commitments that are critical to implementing the road map toward a negotiated peace.

There is much to be done. I am encouraged by the steps Israel has taken to release some prisoners and to dismantle some unauthorized outposts. These were the commitments that the Prime Minister made at Aqaba. And these efforts need to continue, along with intensive security cooperation with the Palestinians, in order to directly confront the threat of terror, to bring terror to an end, permanently. Only if both sides work together can they establish a true, lasting security arrangement for Israelis and Palestinians alike.

When I meet with Prime Minister Abbas this afternoon, I will urge him to move quickly, very quickly, to implement security reforms and to come forward with specific plans to take responsibility for security in Gaza and Bethlehem. The United States will stand at his side as he takes steps, courageous steps, to create new institutions and a prospect for a better life for Palestinians. We will work intensively with Prime Minister Sharon and Prime Minister Abbas. The pace and urgency of our work needs to be maintained in order to capitalize quickly and decisively on this moment that history has given to us.

Mr. Prime Minister, I thank you for your hospitality. I assure you once again of President Bush's commitment. I assure you once again that we will do everything we can to help end terror and violence, to push through, to overwhelm those who would try to stop us on the path to peace.

We have been working not only with you, Mr. Prime Minister, and Prime Minister Abbas, but with our friends in the European Union, members of the quartet and other friends around the world to make sure the world fully understands that terrorist organizations such as Hamas and the other similar organizations that are not committed to peace but committed to violence and to denying the dreams of the people of this land for a peaceful solution, we must make sure that all international pressure possible is brought to bear on these organizations so that they know they will not succeed, they will not prevail, they will be dealt with.

Mr. Prime Minister, I again thank you for your welcome and for your hospitality. Thank you, sir.

QUESTION: Mr. Secretary, am I coming through? Mr. Secretary, targeted assassinations has been a problem between the United States and Israel for some time. The two sides seem now to be coming closer together. Has this problem ceased to be an issue between the United States and Israel? And if so, could you explain how that came about?

POWELL: The Prime Minister and I have discussed this on a number of occasions, as I have with a number of Israeli officials over the last couple of years. As the president said at Aqaba, the security of Israel is uppermost in our mind and it has to be the priority of the Prime Minister of Israel to defend his people. And we know that there are occasions that arise when terrorists are coming in, and let's characterize them as ticking bombs, and we know a bomb is heading in. And we can understand the need to intercept such a terrorist and deal with that individual and make sure that innocent and lives are not lost.

When one goes beyond that and expands those kinds of activities to individuals or to situations where it might not be a ticking bomb, then, as we have discussed, the consequences of such action and how they play in to our broader efforts for peace must be taken into consideration. And that is the position that we have discussed with the Israelis on many occasions and I think it--the implications are rather clear and understanding of our position should be clear.

QUESTION: Thank you.

QUESTION: Mr. Secretary, Israel has agreed to a limited period of time under the title cessation of violence. We heard their foreign minister talking about it. At that time, what are your expectations from the Israeli side regarding military action and what are your expectation from the Palestinian side?

And if I may please, a quick question to the Prime Minister (SPEAKING IN FOREIGN LANGUAGE).

POWELL: Both sides made commitments at Aqaba. In addition, at Sharm El-Sheikh the day before, Arab nations made commitments. We expect all sides to meet their commitments and we expect all sides to exercise some patience in order for the other side to be able to meet their commitments. It's only been two weeks since Aqaba. Tragically, in the first week after Aqaba, we saw terrorists come forward to try to derail everything. This was not a surprise to anyone at Aqaba. We knew that those who were most threatened by this, those who do not want to see two people living side by side in peace would act, and they did. And they acted in a terrible, tragic way.

We have to punch through that, and it has now been a week or so since Ambassador Wolf has been on the ground to work with the parties. He will stay here to continue to work with the parties. So we hope that both sides will give this new start some time to take effect.

We have had a number of meetings with both sides concerning security arrangements in Gaza. There were meetings again last night. I hope more meetings will take place in the very near future. Some issues have been dealt with and resolved, some difficult issues still remain. And so the Prime Minister and I spoke about this and of course he always has the security of Israel uppermost in his mind, but he also has been quite faithful to the commitments made at Aqaba. And I hope that there will be enough time to find a peaceful solution, because the alternative is a return to where we were before Aqaba and that was not leading to peace and it was not leading to security by the Israelis or Palestinians.

SHARON (THROUGH TRANSLATOR): The question was whether Israel has decided to limit its operations in any way during the first period when the Palestinians are supposed to organize their own forces. And the answer was that my commitment is the commitment to the security of the citizens of Israel and to the security of the state of Israel. This is what I have assumed on myself and this is what I will do.

We have proposed to the Palestinian Authority to assume responsibility as fast as possible for those areas where they seem that they will be able to make sure that there will be peace and security. What we will do the moment that they assume responsibility, by they assume responsibility, until that time, we'll of course continue with our operations. We know that it might take a few days until they assume responsibility, but once they do, everything depends on their performance. One thing always takes precedence and priority and that is the security of the citizens of Israel. I am committed to that.

QUESTION: Mr. Prime Minister, your position on terrorism is well understood, but are you willing to accept a Palestinian cease-fire that ends terrorism but doesn't totally eliminate Hamas and Islamic Jihad as political movements that are allowed to run for office or as social movements providing services to Palestinian people? In other words, are still important and operating in the Palestinian Authority.

And, Mr. Secretary, is the United States seeking the total elimination of these groups as well?

SHARON (THROUGH TRANSLATOR): In order to reach peace, and we want to reach peace and I am committed to reach a political arrangement, which I hope will lead us to peace, in order to do that we have to make sure that there is no independent terror organization on the ground. The terror organizations must be fought. The Palestinian Authority must fight terror organizations. It must disarm them. It must make sure that their infrastructure no longer exists.

These are imperative measures, and they are important first and foremost for the government led by Mahmoud Abbas, Abu Mazen. This is certainly a condition that will enable us to live here in quiet.

So long as there is terror, there will be no political process. Political process cannot coincide with terror. That's why we expect the Palestinian Authority to wage a true, genuine struggle against terrorism, a true, genuine one. Without that, I believe we cannot reach peace or a political arrangement.

I don't deal with the question what happens if they turn into a political entity. As terrorist entities, they have to be fought. They have to be disarmed. They have to be put to justice. They have to be punished. You have to make sure that they do not exist anymore.

POWELL: Hamas takes credit for these terrorist acts. President Bush and Prime Minister Sharon and Prime Minister Abbas stood up at Aqaba and made a commitment to peace. And the enemy of peace has been Hamas, especially over the last two weeks, and I don't think it's possible any longer to separate out into various pieces.

The funding is fungible. The leadership takes credit. And despite whatever charitable or other social good these organizations may perform, as long as they have as an organizational culture a commitment to terror and violence and a desire to destroy the State of Israel, I think this is a problem we have to deal with in its entirety, and that's the message we are taking to our friends around the world as well. Thank you.

QUESTION: Mr. Secretary, what is the position of the United States regarding the fact that following your last visit to Damascus, the Syrians have not really met most of the American demands regarding the war against terror, dismantling offices and communications, ways of communications and financial infrastructure?

POWELL: They took some limited steps. Those limited steps are totally inadequate. We have gone back to the Syrians to let them know that we find their actions inadequate. We will continue to press them. We will work with our colleagues in the international community to put pressure on Syria.

We're going to make it clear to Syria that until they move in this more positive direction that we have outlined for them there will not be a better relationship with the United States, and ultimately it will affect their interests.

The region is changing. Saddam Hussein and that evil regime is gone. The leaders the Middle East are committed to a peace process using the process of a road map to get to our objective.

And Syria can either be a contributing member to this process or it can continue to be a terrorist-supporting regime that does not want to be a part of this process, in which case there will be consequences for such action in terms of an ability to have a more positive relationship with the United States and, we hope, other responsible members of the international community. And we will continue to convey that message to Syria in no uncertain terms.

STAFF: Thank you very much, everybody.

END

(It's styled Public Citizen v. DOT and as I understand it the petition would be due 7/9). Would you mind keeping us apprised? Many thanks.

The move back has been great and I'm very happy to be home.
Julie Corcoran has me out on the course and I'm whacking up more dirt than a groundhog. Let me know when you want to play a round.

Anyway, I hope that the Gen Xr's don't get interviewed!

Talk to you soon.

Hey Brett,

Congratulations!
I just read all about in the daily news! Glad to see that you are moving on up. Good luck. I'm rooting for ya! ( If I had any connections I would put a good word in for you.)

I moved back to the area a couple of months ago and am finally getting settled. I am trying to reconnect with old friends. I would love to take you to lunch and catch up.

Talk to you soon.

Some class action news:

1. An editorial from a Madison County paper on its growing bad reputation.
2. A Christian Science Monitor editorial on John Edwards mentioning calss action lawsuits.
3. ATLA releases tips and strategies for tort litigation.

There isn't much denying that Madison County is becoming an infamous "judicial hell hole" - Illinois, that is, not Iowa.

But you must be careful where you say that.

Heads of the American Tort Reform Association, U.S. Chamber of Commerce, Illinois Chamber of Commerce and Illinois Civil Justice League marched into Madison County recently to conduct a press conference condemning the judicial system there. They wound up getting a citation from one of the local class-action attorneys - a subpoena.

They were subpoenaed in a lawsuit in which none of the participants had any involvement or knew anything about. Maybe they were surprised, but people who follow the class-action lawsuit justice in Madison County probably weren't. The lawsuit involved a class-action lawsuit against Ford Motor Co. over automobile paint.

Sherman Joyce, president of ATRA, said it was obvious that the subpoenas were a form of intimidation to shut them up. They promised not to shut up until there is judicial reform in Madison County.

The tort reform group pounced on Madison County as among the 10 worst "judicial hell holes" in the United States. The label is given to trial courts where equal justice seems to be denied. "Madison County is notorious for abusive class actions where the lawyers earn millions and the plaintiffs get pennies," said Joyce.

From 1998 to 2002, Madison County had an 1,850 percent increase in class-action lawsuit filings, according to the ATRA, which did not release actual numbers.

People at State Farm Insurance and legislators throughout the state have become very cognizant of Madison County. State Farm was hit with a record $1.2 billion punitive damage award in Madison County from a class-action lawsuit against the Bloomington-based insurer. Success of that lawsuit may have spawned another by a Belleville woman who claimed the insurer did not renew her insurance based solely on a credit report. Her attorney has asked for the lawsuit to represent everyone in a similar position.

Before the appeal on that case could even be heard, the verdict record was overtaken in the same county when Philip Morris Inc. was smacked with a $3 billion punitive damage award over its marketing of "light cigarettes." In that case, the cigarette manufacturer was also hit with an award of $7.1 billion for compensatory (that is supposed to be the actual loss) damages plus another $1.775 billion in class-action fees for the attorneys involved.

The later case is still a major issue within state government. First, it was because the Madison County judge set Philip Morris' appeal bond so high that the company said it could force the manufacturer into bankruptcy protection.

While tears may not have been shed for a cigarette manufacturer going bankrupt, Illinois and other states squirmed for awhile because it threatened distribution of $2.5 billion to states ($306 million of that to Illinois) this year as part of a national tobacco settlement of $246 billion in 1998. Obviously, Illinois needed that money to help plug a budget deficit.

The judge in Madison County was eventually convinced to lower the bond, there was no bankruptcy protection filing and states did receive their payments this year.

Legislators have been aware of the notoriety of Madison County court awards for years. They need to address the issue of establishing guidelines for punitive damage awards, not just because of Madison County, but as a matter of fairness to all of the victims involved. There has to be a better balance between fairness to victims and punishment to those responsible. It will take legislators with intestinal fortitude because the powerful trial lawyers' lobby is not going to lead the way when they are major beneficiaries of outlandish awards.

WASHINGTON

Sen. John Edwards is a sign of the times. When listening to the election returns on that November morning in 1998, while I was not pleased to hear that the multimillionaire personal injury lawyer had won the North Carolina Senate race, I was not surprised. After all, it was mainly during the 1990s that a new class of the super-rich had come into being: those who made their money not by wealth creation, but by wealth coercion.

There are two principal ways to get rich: by getting other people to voluntarily transfer their money to you, or by having them do it against their will. The first method usually consists of wealth creation, where you produce something that other people consider valuable enough to exchange their assets for. Wealth coercion, by contrast, typically involves taking things from other people by force or threat, either legally or illegally.

Some wealth coercion is necessary. Having no other way to finance itself, the government needs to raise money through taxation. And when people break the law, or when contracts are not abided by, or in instances of egregious negligence, there has to be some penalty in the form of a fine.

It is when these institutions get abused that society is harmed. The all-powerful lure of money is why governments are so prone to raise taxes over time, or why some people are content to get fabulously wealthy by using the courts to take away what other people have produced.

Even the best legal system is full of imperfections. A defendant may be innocent but be punished anyway if all the stops are pulled out to sway a gullible jury or judge. Or laws can be unethically changed or manipulated to help ensure that defendants pay out millions or billions of dollars against their will. These practices have proliferated in recent years.

By the 1990s, "negligence" had come to mean the failure to prevent practically any conceivable injury, even to people in the act of committing a crime. It had become easier for lawyers to have "expert" witnesses testify, even though they may not be experts or may have a vested interest in the outcome of the trial. "Forum shopping" also had become easier, enabling trial lawyers to pick a judge who they deem will likely take their side. And lawyers can now sue with no real clients, thanks to the rise of class action lawsuits.

The $246 billion tobacco settlement was a watershed win for trial lawyers, not just in billions of dollars in fees but also in new legal precedents that further stack the deck in their favor. State governments made sweetheart deals with lawyers, writing new laws and applying them retroactively in order ensure a win against an industry operating within the law. In Florida, rules were changed to prevent defendants from presenting certain evidence or arguments. And multi-billion-dollar bonds were required before defendants could appeal, making it all but impossible to appeal.

All the while, trial lawyers' influence in writing and shaping laws was growing. They gave generous campaign contributions not only to legislators, but also to judges and state attorneys general. A vicious circle developed: government officials who are recipients of trial-lawyer money enact measures that help enrich the lawyers, who in turn recycle much of that money into political campaigns, and so on. In addition to producing a new class of multimillionaires, the result is ever-absurd lawsuits, such as the suing of innocents by the non-injured.

Some ill effects of this are highly visible, such as the exodus of doctors out of places like West Virginia or Pennsylvania because of unaffordable malpractice insurance. Most effects are less visible, such as goods and services that simply do not come into existence because of the oppressive legal climate, or higher prices for goods and services to cover legal bills or insurance costs.

And now, members of the new trial-lawyer multimillionaire class are tightening their iron grip on the polity by becoming lawmakers themselves, as the case of John Edwards shows. Flush with tens of millions of dollars he obtained from accident cases, Edwards spent $3.2 million on his Senate campaign in 1998. And he is not wasting any time, already running for president.

He says he is a helper of the little guy, but tell that to the Arizona woman who gave birth in her car because the legal climate forced her local hospital to no longer deliver babies. Or tell that to the kids who have no diving board at the local pool because of lawsuit fears. Or tell that to all the little guys out there paying higher prices and insurance rates because of out-of-control lawyers.

It would be a sad day in America if a champion of wealth coercion ever became president. (c) Copyright 2003. The Christian Science Monitor

ATLA AND WEST RELEASE FLAGSHIP PUBLICATION ON TORT STRATEGIES

West, a Thomson business, and the Association of Trial Lawyers of America (ATLA) have released ATLA's Litigating Tort Cases, which pulls together tips and strategies from highly respected trial lawyers across the country to provide an invaluable litigation resource.

ATLA's Litigating Tort Cases is an essential resource for both novice and seasoned lawyers. Its 66 chapters provide a how-to for litigation techniques, such as the opening statement, case selection and evaluation, complaint drafts, removal to federal court and multidistrict litigation, mass tort class actions, discovery devices and strategies, expert selection and monetary and non-economic damages, judgment and appeals, jury selection, and cross-examination of witnesses. The six-volume set also delves into the specifics of different types of cases, such as brain and connective tissue injuries, automobile cases, lead paint, firearms, premises liability, products liability, auto design defect cases, sexual abuse, drug and medical device cases, professional negligence, and environmental tort litigation. Further, it provides complete practice-proven forms from the authors' actual case files that users can customize for their cases.

"This extensive set of road maps is designed to prepare attorneys for all types of tort litigation," said Mary Alexander, president of ATLA. "The new trial lawyer will find practical advice on the basics of the practice, and the seasoned practitioner will learn new strategies and obtain valuable information to expand the scope of their practice. That means widening your practice to include more types of litigation or gaining the know-how to take on cases with more catastrophic injuries."

The co-editors of ATLA's Litigating Tort Cases are Roxanne Barton Conlin and Gregory S. Cusimano. Ms. Conlin is a nationally renowned and respected trial lawyer and a pioneer for women's rights. She served as ATLA's first female president in 1992, and in 2002 was named one of the 10 most influential women attorneys in the nation by the National Law Journal. Mr. Cusimano is one of only five recipients of the ATLA Lifetime Achievement Award. He is a member of the ATLA board of governors, has served on ATLA's president's council and is a past president of the Alabama Trial Lawyers Association.

About ATLA

Established in 1946, ATLA is the world's largest trial bar with 60,000 members in the U.S., Canada and abroad. ATLA was founded to safeguard victims rights, strengthen America's civil justice system, promote injury prevention, and foster the disclosure of information crucial to public health and safety. For more information about ATLA, please visit www.atla.org.

Peter Keisler called to report another win. CADC (affirming a ruling by DDC) today rejected a challenge by the the Hamas-linked Holy Land Foundation ("HLF") to Treasury's designation of HLF as a terrorist group ("Specially Designated Global Terrorist," or "SDGT"). This designation came under the IEEPA, and resulted in the blocking of all of HLF's assets.

This was another Sentelle opinion (joined by Ginsburg and Henderson).

CADC's opinion states, in relevant part: "Treasury's decision to designate HLF as an SDGT was based on ample evidence in a massive administrative record."

Here is a link to the decision:

This is fun, from Bill Buckley's column on Pryor.

tsg

The attorney general of Alabama, William Pryor, is the most refreshing thing to happen to Washington since William Faulkner said the reason he wouldn't be going to President Kennedy's Nobel prize-winner party at the White House was that Washington was a long way to go for dinner.

Listen to Pryor being grilled by Sen. Russ Feingold, D-Wis. The senator was fishing about trying to add to Mr. Pryor's list of disqualifications to serve as judge. Wasn't he associated with the Republican Attorneys General Association (RAGA), which made contributions to Republican contenders for election as attorneys general?

Feingold: Will you provide to the committee a comprehensive list of RAGA's contributors and the amounts and dates of their contribution?

Pryor: I don't have such a list, Senator.

Feingold: Who does?

Pryor: The Republican National Committee.

Feingold: Will you urge them to provide that list?

Pryor: If you need that kind of list, then you really need to seek it from them.

Feingold: You oppose a disclosure of this information?

Pryor: I'm not saying that I oppose it or I favor it.

Feingold: I'm taking this as a refusal to urge the release of this information.

In street talk, this would read: You want that? Well, stir ass and get it. Don't use me as your research assistant.

Justice Marshall has rendered extraordinary and distinguished service to his country as a pioneering civil rights lawyer, a judge on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, as Solicitor General, and in his tenure on the Supreme Court. His career is an inspiring example for all Americans. He grew up under segregation to achieve the highest office to which a lawyer can aspire. His accomplishments on the Bench will long be remembered. We wish him the best in his retirement. I intend to nominate a successor very soon.

Three memos from Judge Gonzales are going to heads of departments and agencies tomorrow -- one on general rules, one on travel cost allocations, and one on corporate planes. They do not answer all of these questions, but I will turn to them as well. Thanks.

Subject: Guidance on Political Activities

Nanette, as I mentioned to you last week it would be helpful to get further guidance on a number of issues relating to employees engaging in political activities, as identified below. We have had to face most of these issues during the past few years and any advice regarding them would be appreciated. Specifically, we would appreciate answers or guidance regarding the following questions.

-- What formula should be used when assessing costs for a Presidential campaign trip? It is our understanding that although a "hypothetical trip" formula is usually used to calculate costs owed to the Government when an event on a mixed official/political trip is for a Presidential campaign, this formula is not used when the campaign is not accepting Federal matching funds. In such cases, the "hard line" formula is used. It would be helpful to receive guidance with regard to trips involving events relating to the President's re-election campaign and what events are to be considered Presidential campaign trips.

-- When does a short "drop-by" by a Presidential appointee at an event sufficient participation to trigger political activity rules regarding travel reimbursement requirements and other rules applicable to engaging in political activities? -- Are there any restrictions or guidance on the grant of leave without pay (LWOP) to employees (particularly noncareer employees) when the time will be used to participate in political events?

-- Will there be any rules regarding charging a campaign for travel costs for official events taking place in states holding a primary during the campaign season (or in key electoral states during the Presidential election campaign season)?

-- Is the White House establishing a general policy against the use of official vehicles for political events, even if paid for in advance? The White House memorandum specifically allows for the use of cars for political events only by the President and Vice President. Commerce policy allows the use of Government cars for political events by the Secretary (but not others). Should the White House policy be read as discouraging vehicle use even by the Secretary (except, of course, when use of an official vehicle for personal purposes is otherwise authorized, such as for security reasons)?

-- Are employees (particularly Presidential appointees) still required to obtain clearance from the White House before agreeing to participate in a political fund-raiser? If so, how and to whom do you want these clearance requests submitted? It seems to us that this should not be through a legal office but directly from the PAS (or the PAS's staff) to the White House office that is coordinating such events. We also question whether it would be appropriate to require clearance from anyone other than Presidential appointees, since such procedures might create an appearance of helping to coordinate political activities and might infringe on employees' individual rights.

-- Are Presidential appointees still barred from accepting offers of travel on corporate (and union) aircraft, even for political trips? Any guidance the White House could provide on privately-owned aircraft would be helpful.

Kerry says he'll filibuster Supreme Court nominees who do not support abortion rights

NEDRA PICKLER, Associated Press Writer

Democratic presidential candidate John Kerry said Friday that he is prepared to block any Supreme Court nominee who would not uphold the Roe v. Wade decision that legalized abortion.

"I am prepared to filibuster, if necessary, any Supreme Court nominee who would turn back the clock on a woman's right to choose or the constitutional right to privacy, on civil rights and individual liberties and on the laws protecting workers and the environment," Kerry said in remarks prepared for delivery via satellite at a meeting of Democratic party officials in St. Paul, Minn.

"The test is basic -- any person who thinks it's his or her job to push an extreme political agenda rather than to interpret the law should not be a Supreme Court justice."

Kerry, a Massachusetts senator and one of nine Democrats seeking the party's presidential nomination, is staking out a position favorable to liberal women. Kerry also has said if elected president he would only appoint judges who support Roe v. Wade, while his opponents for the nomination say they would not impose a litmus test on nominees.

All nine Democratic presidential candidates support abortion rights. President Bush has said he would fill any Supreme Court vacancies with judges such as Antonin Scalia or Clarence Thomas, two of the most conservative justices on the high court who are presumed to favor the abolition of Roe v. Wade.

None of the nine current Supreme Court justices has announced plans to retire, but Chief Justice William Rehnquist, 78, and Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, 73, are considered the most likely possibilities. Both would prefer that a Republican president pick their successors.

Republicans control the Senate by two votes; there are 51 Republicans, 48 Democrats and one independent. But Democrats can block any potential nominee through a filibuster if they can get 41 votes.

Senate Democrats have used a filibuster to block President Bush's nominations of two federal judges this year. Several Senate Democrats recently sent letters to the White House asking Bush to meet with Senate leaders from both parties to talk about possible nominations and ways to avoid a bruising battle in the Senate. White House Counsel Alberto Gonzales indicated on Thursday that there was a possibility of consultations with senators, but said no final decision has been made.

She is writing story for National Journal on WH rules/regs for campaign. She says she is writing regardless whether we cooperate. Ari and Ashley Snee think I should talk to her -- on background -- and explain/emphasize the various briefings, memos, steps, etc. The press office thinks this is a better forum than most for this kind of story. We obviously would want to explain how we are being very careful without sounding arrogant about it.

Please let me know your thoughts.

Justice Marshall has rendered extraordinary and distinguished service to his country as a pioneering civil rights lawyer, a judge on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, as Solicitor General, and in his tenure on the Supreme Court. His career is an inspiring example for all Americans. He grew up under segregation to achieve the highest office to which a lawyer can aspire. His accomplishments on the Bench will long be remembered. We wish him the best in his retirement. I intend to nominate a successor very soon.

Kyle,

Two candidates currently in clearance for the IADB Board Member vacancies have questions regarding the boundries of their political/fundraising activities and/or contributions:

Roger Wallace was a pioneer for the 2000 campaign and would like the opportunity to be one again for 2004.
Ana Gamonal might have the chance to be treasurer for a Congressional campaign.

Please let me know what, if any, limitations there are to these types of activities as an IADB Board Member. Feel free to contact me at 6-6097 should you have any questions regarding this matter.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE CLERK

Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas first met Deputy Attorney General Larry Thompson in 1974 as they studied for the Missouri Bar exam. Next year, Thompson's son Larry Thompson Jr. will work for Justice Thomas in his chambers as a law clerk.

Thomas revealed the hire during a recent talk with students at Banneker High School in Washington, D.C. A student asked Thomas whether any of his contemporaries were as successful professionally as he is. Coincidentally, the student asking the question said his name was Larry Thompson. Thomas laughed that "that's a very important name" for him -- because of his friend, the Justice Department official, and Larry Jr., who will soon be one of Thomas' law clerks. Justice Thomas said the elder Thompson is "one of the smartest, most talented people I know," adding that Larry Jr. is "equally talented."

The younger Thompson just graduated from New York University School of Law, and this summer begins a one-year stint as a law clerk to J. Michael Luttig, a judge on the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and a leading supplier of clerks to the high court. When he heads to the Supreme Court, Thompson will be Thomas' second African-American law clerk. His first, Stephen Smith, is now an associate professor at the University of Virginia School of Law. During a C-SPAN interview earlier this month, the deputy attorney general was shown videotape of the comments by Justice Thomas. "My son is much more qualified than I am," he said.

Thompson the father was also asked if he himself might soon be working at the Supreme Court -- as a justice. With regularity, Thompson's name pops up in the D.C. rumor mill as a potential nominee. Though he did not completely reject the idea, Thompson said he intended to return to Atlanta after leaving the Justice Department. He also said it was "highly unlikely" that someone like himself, who has never been a judge, would be appointed to the high court.

Michael Luttig, a judge on the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and a leading supplier of clerks to the high court. When he heads to the Supreme Court, Thompson will be Thomas' second African-American law clerk. His first, Stephen Smith, is now an associate professor at the University of Virginia School of Law. During a C-SPAN interview earlier this month, the deputy attorney general was shown videotape of the comments by Justice Thomas. "My son is much more qualified than I am," he said.

Thompson the father was also asked if he himself might soon be working at the Supreme Court -- as a justice. With regularity, Thompson's name pops up in the D.C. rumor mill as a potential nominee. Though he did not completely reject the idea, Thompson said he intended to return to Atlanta after leaving the Justice Department. He also said it was "highly unlikely" that someone like himself, who has never been a judge, would be appointed to the high court.

Supreme Court judge Limbaugh nears end as chief justice

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. -- In addition to tackling the pressing legal issues of the day, the Missouri Supreme Court sits as a seven-member board of directors over the state's judicial branch. As chief justice for the last two years, Stephen N. Limbaugh Jr. of Cape Girardeau has been the chairman of the board. Though the job has been rewarding, Limbaugh said overseeing the judicial branch, which has 3,600 employees and a $160 million budget, has also meant a lot of extra work. &I suppose I've spent two-thirds of my time on administrative matters rather than on the work of the court, though I have kept a full caseload,8 Limbaugh said. While he will remain on the bench, his tenure as chief justice ends July 1. The post rotates among the court's members every two years, with the job going to the most senior judge who hasn't had a turn. Judge Ronnie L. White of St. Louis will succeed Limbaugh to become the court's first black chief. Given Missouri's role in the infamous Dred Scott case that helped precipitate the Civil War, Limbaugh said it's well past time for an African-American to serve in the position. &That is an important symbolic event and something for Missourians to celebrate,8 Limbaugh said. White, who was appointed in 1995 by Gov. Mel Carnahan, will also be the first Democratic appointee to hold the post since 1987. Though he sometimes disagrees with Limbaugh on legal interpretations, White said Limbaugh is a valued friend who will be a tough to replace as the court's leader. &I thought Steve was an outstanding chief justice,8 White said. &He had to take over at a time of severe financial difficulties in the state and in particular the judiciary. No other chief justice in my time had to face that.<sup>8</sup>

White, 56, deferred comment on his upcoming tenure until next week but said he is looking forward to the challenge.

&My only hesitation is if I can live up to the standard others have set,<sup>8</sup> White said.

Swing to Democrats

Until last year, Republican-appointees had dominated the court since the mid-1980s. Judges chosen by Democratic governors now hold a 4-3 majority.

White said the change has had little impact.

&I think everybody on the court still works together to come up with solutions everybody understands,<sup>8</sup> White said.

Although the court split along partisan lines in a pair of death penalty cases handed down this week, such divisions are an exception.

Limbaugh, appointed to the court by Republican Gov. John Ashcroft in 1992, said the judges strive for unanimity when possible, though disagreements occur.

&We come from broadly diverse backgrounds, and each one of the judges contributes special strengths,<sup>8</sup> Limbaugh said. &Diversity of opinion is a healthy thing.<sup>8</sup>

One of the chief justice's roles is to lobby the Missouri Legislature for funding. Instead of painting a dire picture of the consequences of funding cuts like some agency heads, Limbaugh simply asked lawmakers to do their best.

&I was smart enough to know asking for money would be pointless and only irritate legislators,<sup>8</sup> Limbaugh said, joking.

He regrets the fact that on his watch funding for various judicial initiatives was deeply slashed, which leaves the ongoing effort to automate state courts at a standstill.

The judge earned high marks from lawmakers for his low-key approach.

&He was never one to come over and use high-pressure influence,<sup>8</sup> said state Rep. Rob Mayer, R-Dexter.

Mayer also praised Limbaugh for championing reform of the family court and foster care systems before a joint legislative session in January.

&The great thing was he had a first-hand knowledge of the system and was aware of its flaws and places where it was broken,<sup>8</sup> Mayer said.

Limbaugh, who handled a number of child abuse cases as a Cape Girardeau County Circuit Court judge, established a special commission of members of all three branches of government to examine the problem. The panel's recommendations led to the passage of reform legislation last month.

The Supreme Court also took unilateral efforts to improve the judiciary's performance in such matters, such as mandating cross training of family court judges so they better understand the roles of foster care caseworkers and others in the system.

&We don't want it ever to be said a tragedy resulted from a failure to communicate between those various components of the system,<sup>8</sup> Limbaugh said.

Barring an unforeseen opportunity, Limbaugh, 51, plans to seek another 12-year term when his current one expires in 2006. It's entirely possible, he said, that he could remain on the high court until he reaches the mandatory retirement age of 70.

Draft answer to Evans question:

I would refer the Committee to two letters sent to it last year relating to Enron matters. Secretary Card wrote a letter to Congressman Waxman on February 1, 2002, noting Secretary Evans' public statements that he (Secretary Evans) had spoken with me about Enron's deteriorating condition and its potential impact on the trading markets. Judge Gonzales provided a copy of this letter to the Committee on April 19, 2002. In addition, Judge Gonzales' letter to the Committee of May 22, 2002, further summarized and discussed internal Executive Branch communications related to Enron's business failure, including the possible effects on the energy and financial markets. Judge Gonzales noted that these communications reflected "appropriate and responsible actions by government officials."

Holmes' judicial nomination still awaits action in Senate

BY KEVIN FREKING
ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT-GAZETTE

WASHINGTON - It has been seven weeks since the Senate Judiciary Committee forwarded the nomination of Leon Holmes to the full Senate, but Republicans have given no hint of when, or if, they will schedule a confirmation vote.

Holmes, a Little Rock lawyer, is President Bush's nominee to serve as a district judge for the Eastern District of Arkansas. The seven-week lag is unusually long. Indeed, the longest any other district court nominee has had to wait this year between a committee vote and a full Senate vote is three weeks. Of the 22 district judge nominees approved this year by the Senate, most did not even have to wait one week after the committee's vote before the full Senate took action.

Holmes' case, however, is unusual. Abortion-rights advocates have made defeating his confirmation one of their biggest goals. The opposition to his nomination was so great that the Judiciary Committee forwarded his nomination to the full Senate without making a recommendation - the first time that's been done with a district judge nominee since 1951. Democrats say, but not for attribution, that they believe the delay is a sign the nomination is in trouble.

"I do not believe there would be a filibuster of the nomination," said a senior Democratic aide. "Democrats have agreed to work with the Republican leaders in scheduling a debate on the Holmes nomination. Republican leaders have continually declined to do that."

A spokesman for Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn., said the delay should not be viewed as a sign the Republican leadership has given up on Holmes' nomination. Rather, it has to do with the myriad issues of importance that have dominated Senate debate in recent weeks, particularly tax cuts and Medicare reform.

"Simply, there are a number of issues coming to the floor. Medicare has taken much of the time, and certainly, that impacts our ability to get to all of the issues that we'd like to," said Nick Smith, the majority leader's spokesman.

"There is no specific date on Leon Holmes, but it's something we hope we can take up on the floor soon."

A spokesman for Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said that Hatch felt Holmes deserved a vote.

"However, as with the nominations of other pro-life Catholics, such as Carolyn Quhl and Bill Pryor, the chairman is concerned that Mr. Holmes' personal religious beliefs may be playing a role in the opposition to his nomination, orchestrated by the liberal Washington interest groups," said Hatch's spokesman, Margarita Tapia. Holmes declined comment, referring an inquiry to the Justice Department.

A spokesman there said the White House still supports the Holmes nomination.

"This administration fully supports all of its nominees," said spokesman Monica Goodling.

For the most part, Bush's district court nominees have received unanimous support at the committee level as well as in the Senate. The more divisive battles have been fought over appellate court nominations.

Holmes has received strong support from both Arkansas senators, Democrats Mark Pryor and Blanche Lincoln. Aides said neither senator could be reached for comment on Friday.

CONGRESS: Strange objections

Democratic senators clearly crossed the line in their zeal to find fault with President Bush's judicial nominees.
It was bad enough when qualified legal scholars were deemed unacceptable on the grounds that they were insufficiently supportive of abortion or guilty of being "conservative while Hispanic."
Sen. Russ Feingold took politically correct witch hunts to a new level, however, when he raised the issue of whether one nominee had done something wrong by not taking his daughters, ages 4 and 6, to Disney World during "gay days."
Alabama Attorney General Bill Pryor, under questioning from Feingold, repeatedly confirmed that he had rescheduled a trip to Disney to avoid the homosexual celebration.
Feingold may find that to be a terrible, homophobic thing to do. Most Americans, we are certain, would disagree.
There is nothing morally wrong or inherently evil about wanting to protect childhood innocence.
The fact that a man is a concerned father shouldn't be grounds to exclude him from the judiciary, but rather the reverse.

I have a basic paragraph for each of the three most likely scenarios.

But we will obviously have to do an instant analysis and then refine it.

In the event it is handed down tomorrow, is there any reason to have someone at the court to get it, or will it be available in real time online for us to review and discuss.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

June 19, 2003

MEMORANDUM FOR       HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES
                                  WHITE HOUSE STAFF

FROM:                   ALBERTO R. GONZALES
                                  COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT:               RULES REGARDING CORPORATE AND GOVERNMENT
                                  AIRCRAFT ON POLITICAL TRIPS

This memorandum summarizes rules and policies with respect to use of corporate or government aircraft for political trips. (Note that this memorandum does not cover travel on a charter aircraft paid for by a political entity, which is treated the same as ordinary travel on a commercial aircraft where the cost is paid by a political entity.)

I. Corporate Aircraft

A political campaign or party may pay for air transportation of individuals to a political event, including of individuals employed in the Executive Branch who are otherwise allowed to attend the event. See 5 C.F.R. 2635.204(f). In addition, federal law authorizes political campaigns and parties to secure a corporate aircraft to provide air transportation, so long as the campaign or party reimburses the owner of the aircraft under relevant federal statutes and regulations. See 11 C.F.R. 114.9.

As a matter of policy, however, the following steps must occur when an Executive Branch employee travels on a corporate aircraft secured by a political campaign or party for the employee's travel to a political event:

1. The employee should not travel on a corporate aircraft for political travel unless commercial service would not be practically available under the circumstances, taking into account the employee's official schedule and the location and timing of the event.
2. The employee should not travel on an aircraft owned by an entity or individual that is regulated by or doing business with the employee's department or agency, or in circumstances that otherwise would be inappropriate.
3. The relevant political campaign or party must pay the owner of the aircraft in advance by paying the relevant first class airfare (or, in the case of travel to a city not served by a regularly scheduled commercial service, the usual charter rate).

4. For White House employees, advance approval of any use of a corporate aircraft for a political trip must be obtained from the Counsel to the President. For other Administration employees, advance approval of any use of corporate aircraft for a political trip must be obtained from the relevant department or agency General Counsel and the Counsel to the President.

5. When the trip is a mixed official-political trip involving campaign-related activity for Bush/Cheney '04, the re-election campaign will reimburse first-class airfare from the point of origin to each stop in which campaign-related activity is conducted and back to the point of origin. See 11 C.F.R. 106.3 and by policy 11 C.F.R. 9034.7. When the trip is a mixed official-political trip involving political activity other than campaign-related activity for Bush/Cheney '04, the political entity will reimburse first-class airfare based on the hard-time formula, which means that the reimbursable costs of the trip are divided based on time spent on official and political activity. See 5 C.F.R. 734.503. On all mixed trips, use of a corporate aircraft must also meet the standards for approval under 41 C.F.R. Part 304.

II. Government Aircraft

1. White House employees and other Administration employees should not use government aircraft for travel on political trips or mixed official-political trips unless the employee is required for security reasons to use government aircraft, or the employee is accompanying another official who requires use of a government aircraft for security reasons.

2. Advance approval of any use of a government aircraft for such a trip must be obtained from the Chief of Staff to the President and Counsel to the President. Appropriate first-class reimbursement for political travelers must be made by the campaign or relevant political entity. See 11 C.F.R. 106.3 and by policy 11 C.F.R. 9034.7(b)(5).

Conclusion

All Executive Branch employees must comply with relevant laws and regulations governing political activity and with the highest ethical standards. If White House employees have questions about these rules, they should contact the Counsel's office. If department or agency employees have questions about these rules, they should contact their department or agency General Counsel.

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

June 19, 2003

MEMORANDUM FOR      HEADS OF EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES
WHITE HOUSE STAFF

FROM:                    ALBERTO R. GONZALES
COUNSEL TO THE PRESIDENT

SUBJECT:                PAYMENT OF EXPENSES ASSOCIATED WITH POLITICAL TRAVEL DURING THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN

This memorandum addresses the allocation of costs for travel on behalf of the President's authorized campaign committee.

The memorandum will be of primary assistance to those who calculate the costs for political and mixed travel. For reference, the rules of allocation and payment are summarized on pages 3-4 of this memorandum.

General Legal Principles

When considering the payment of travel expenses incurred on behalf of the President's authorized campaign committee (Bush/Cheney '04), three principles govern. First, appropriated funds may be spent only for the purposes for which they have been appropriated. See 31 U.S.C. 1301. Accordingly, funds appropriated for the official functions of the departments and agencies may be used for travel expenses only if the travel is reasonably related to an official purpose.

The second basic principle is that, in general, official activities should be paid only from funds appropriated for such purposes, unless Congress has authorized the support of those activities by other means. This principle prevents unauthorized augmentation of appropriations.

The third principle involves the requirements of the Federal election laws. Now that the President is a candidate for re-election, travel on behalf of the President's authorized campaign committee must be paid for by Bush/Cheney '04. See 11 C.F.R. 106.3 and by policy 11 C.F.R. 9034.7.

Political and Official Travel

Before an allocation of expenses for travel can be made, a determination must first be made as to whether an appearance is official or political; and, if it is political, whether it is on behalf of Bush/Cheney '04 or another political candidate or committee. For purposes of allocating travel costs during the Presidential campaign, there are three categories of events: 1) official events; 2) Bush/Cheney '04 political events, e.g., a Bush/Cheney '04 fundraiser; and 3) other political events, e.g., a fundraising event for a non-Presidential candidate.

In determining whether an activity is political or official, all relevant factors should be considered, including, but not limited to, the identity of the sponsor of the event, the group or organization being addressed, other participants, and the nature of the speech being delivered. There is considerable room for discretion in determining whether an event giving rise to an expense is political or official. Ultimately, the question is a factual one that can only be answered by those most familiar with the facts of a given event, trip or situation; accordingly, this determination must be made on a case-by-case basis. White House employees should consult the Counsel's Office, and department and agency employees should consult their General Counsel about these matters.

Generally speaking, appearing at party functions, fundraising, and campaigning for specific candidates should be considered political. In addition, any event that involves solicitation of campaign funds or express advocacy for a candidate or candidates for office will be political. Travel for inspections, meetings to discuss government business, official addresses, and the like ordinarily should be considered official travel, even though the event may have partisan consequences or concern matters on which opinion is politically divided. For a broader discussion of these issues, see 6 Op. O.L.C. 214, 216-217 (1982).

When allocating costs between political and official activities, an additional point should be kept in mind. There are some persons whose official duties may require them to be with the Administration official, whether or not that official is on government business. This group may include, among others, personal aides responsible for assisting in the conduct of official business while an official is traveling and the security detail responsible for an official's protection. Expenses incurred during travel by this group of individuals are official regardless of the character of the event that may be involved.

Bush/Cheney '04 Campaign Travel

The Bush/Cheney '04 campaign will carefully follow rules set forth in Federal Election Commission campaign travel allocation regulations. See 11 C.F.R. 106.3, 9034.7, 9035.1. The travel expenses for campaign-related travelers that are incurred for a stop in which an individual engages in campaign activity on behalf of the President are paid by Bush/Cheney '04. Please note that if any campaign activity for a Presidential candidate, other than incidental contacts, is conducted at a stop, that stop shall be considered campaign-related. Id. 9034.7(b)(2).

Campaign committees for non-Presidential candidates may not pay for the costs of campaign travel on behalf of the President. For example, if a Senatorial candidate schedules a fundraiser back-to-back with a Bush/Cheney '04 fundraiser, the President's campaign committee must pay the travel expenses for the entire stop. See 11 C.F.R. 106 and 9034.7. Also, when there is a question about the nature of a political event, particularly those involving the President and Vice President, the event will presumptively be considered campaign-related, and Bush/Cheney '04 will pay the appropriate travel costs.

Event costs associated with the individual events at a stop involving both Bush/Cheney '04 and official activity -- as opposed to the travel-related costs -- may be divided and allocated. Similarly, event costs associated with a trip involving both Bush/Cheney '04 and other political events likewise may be divided and allocated.

In instances where the same travel costs are incurred in conjunction with official and Bush/Cheney '04 activity, the portion of the trip allocable to the President's campaign committee is determined by using the hypothetical trip formula: calculating what the trip would have cost from the point of origin through each campaign-related stop and back to the point of origin. Cf. 11 C.F.R. 9034.7(b)(2). Where travel includes political, but not Bush/Cheney '04, activity and official activity, the portion of the trip allocable to the political entities is determined by using the hard-time formula, under which relevant costs are divided based on time spent on official and political activity. See 5 C.F.R. 734.503.

Rules of Allocation and Payment

The rules of allocation and payment are summarized below:

1. The President's campaign committee pays Presidential campaign-related travel costs. This includes transportation, hotel, and per diem costs for campaign-related travelers. For mixed trips, the hypothetical trip formula should be used for all campaign-related travelers: calculating what the trip would have cost from the point of origin through each campaign-related stop and back to the point of origin.
2. Costs associated with political activity that occurs on a mixed trip that does not involve any Bush/Cheney '04 activity are allocated according to the hard-time formula, under which relevant costs are divided based on the time spent on official and political activity. If any Bush/Cheney '04 campaign-related activities occur on a trip, the costs of the Bush/Cheney '04 campaign stops must be allocated according to the hypothetical trip formula.
3. If government aircraft (in accordance with applicable rules) is used for Bush/Cheney '04 travel, the campaign committee must pay the appropriate government entity the first-class commercial airfare for each traveler (except official travelers) in the case of travel to a city served by regularly scheduled first-class commercial service. In the case of travel to a city that is not served by regularly scheduled first-class commercial airline service, the campaign must reimburse the appropriate government entity the commercial coach airfare for each traveler (except official travelers). The campaign committee must pay the commercial charter rate in the case of travel to a city not served by regularly scheduled commercial service. (For political travel that is not Bush/Cheney '04 travel, the reimbursement is at commercial coach rate.)

4. If an Administration official travels to the political event by commercial airline, the campaign is obliged to pay the actual cost of the commercial airfare. The campaign may not take advantage of government rates.

5. If government cars (in accordance with applicable rules) are used for Bush/Cheney '04 campaign-related travelers on campaign-related trips, the government shall be reimbursed the commercial rental cost of comparable vehicles for the campaign-related travelers.

6. If a meeting room is rented for the purpose of campaign-related activity, the campaign should pay the costs of the room. The campaign may not take advantage of government rates.

7. The campaign must pay for the hotel rooms of campaign-related travelers. The campaign may not take advantage of government rates.

8. To document adequately these travel allocations and payments, all agencies should: (i) prepare, or otherwise have available, an itinerary for each trip involving Bush/Cheney '04 activity, and (ii) if government conveyance is used, prepare a list of all passengers, along with a designation as to which passengers are, or are not, campaign-related. A copy of the itinerary should be submitted to Bush/Cheney '04; the Bush/Cheney '04 campaign will maintain such information.

Conclusion

All Executive Branch employees must comply with relevant laws and regulations governing political activity and with the highest ethical standards. The regulations governing the payment of expenses for travel by federal officials on behalf of the President's campaign committee are in title 11, Code of Federal Regulations. If White House employees have questions about these rules, they should contact the Counsel's office. If department or agency employees have questions about these rules, they should contact their department or agency General Counsel.

First, how did they travel? I believe campaign should pay for cost of trip back and forth to Boston since that was the only campaign-related event. RNC and govt should pay the remains. But let's make sure Josefiak is ok with that.

*****KEY POINTS*****

From the President's Radio Address, 6/21/03

-In the 10 weeks since the fall of the Iraqi regime, the United States has focused its work in Iraq on making the country secure for its citizens and our military, improving the lives of the Iraqi people.

-Securing Iraq is important for both Iraqi citizens and our forces, who face a continuing risk of danger from pockets of the old regime.

-In Baghdad, more than 28,000 American combat forces and military police are enforcing the law and arresting criminals.

-We continue to pursue Saddam Hussein's weapons of mass destruction. Military and intelligence officials are interviewing scientists who know of the weapons programs. For more than a decade, Saddam Hussein went to great lengths to hide his weapons from the world.

-We are determined to discover the true extent of Saddam Hussein's weapons programs, no matter how long it takes.

-The United States has provided Iraq with more than $700 million in humanitarian and reconstruction assistance.

-Iraq's long-term success also depends on its economic development. We've established a $100 million fund to pay Iraqis who repair buildings and utilities.

-Billions of dollars taken from the Iraqi people by a corrupt regime have been recovered and will be spent on reconstruction.

REV_00124035

-Iraq will soon be open to the world. Over time, a free government in Iraq will show that liberty can flourish in the region.

-American soldiers continue to risk their lives to ensure Iraq's liberation. The President is grateful and so are the Iraqi people.

*****WORLD REFUGEE DAY-June 20*****

"We are... a nation of refugees. Immigration and the renewal it brings have always been a key source of strength for this country. Indeed, how we treat each other and the newcomers who keep our nation so vibrant will ultimately shape the future for our own children here at home."
--Deputy Secretary of State Armitage, 6/20/03

The United States joins the international community in recognizing June 20 as World Refugee Day.

Since World War II, more refugees have found permanent homes in the United States than in any other country. Nearly two million have been resettled here since 1975.

Even in the aftermath of September 11, 2001, the most serious attack on our nation's security, the United States has resettled more refugees than the total accepted by all other countries combined.

And, to date, the United States has provided more than $255 million to the UN High Commissioner for Refugees for fiscal year 2003.

WORLD REFUGEE DAY June 20

"We are... a nation of refugees. Immigration and the renewal it brings have always been a key source of strength for this country. Indeed, how we treat each other and the newcomers who keep our nation so vibrant will ultimately shape the future for our own children here at home."

--Deputy Secretary of State Armitage, 6/20/03

The United States joins the international community in recognizing June 20 as World Refugee Day.

Since World War II, more refugees have found permanent homes in the United States than in any other country. Nearly two million have been resettled here since 1975.

Even in the aftermath of September 11, 2001, the most serious attack on our nation's security, the United States has resettled more refugees than the total accepted by all other countries combined.

And, to date, the United States has provided more than $255 million to the UN High Commissioner for Refugees for fiscal year 2003.

KEY POINTS

From the President's Radio Address, 6/21/03

- In the 10 weeks since the fall of the Iraqi regime, the United States has focused its work in Iraq on making the country secure for its citizens and our military, improving the lives of the Iraqi people.
- Securing Iraq is important for both Iraqi citizens and our forces, who face a continuing risk of danger from pockets of the old regime.
- In Baghdad, more than 28,000 American combat forces and military police are enforcing the law and arresting criminals.
- We continue to pursue Saddam Hussein's weapons of mass destruction. Military and intelligence officials are interviewing scientists who know of the weapons programs. For more than a decade, Saddam Hussein went to great lengths to hide his weapons from the world.
- We are determined to discover the true extent of Saddam Hussein's weapons programs, no matter how long it takes.
- The United States has provided Iraq with more than $700 million in humanitarian and reconstruction assistance.
- Iraq's long-term success also depends on its economic development. We've established a $100 million fund to pay Iraqis who repair buildings and utilities.
- Billions of dollars taken from the Iraqi people by a corrupt regime have been recovered and will be spent on reconstruction.
- Iraq will soon be open to the world. Over time, a free government in Iraq will show that liberty can flourish in the region.
- American soldiers continue to risk their lives to ensure Iraq's liberation. The President is grateful and so are the Iraqi people.

Talking Points: The President,s Framework to Strengthen & Improve
Medicare
Private Health Care Choices within Medicare * a Major Step in Medicare
Reform

America has the world,s best health care system because it relies on the innovations of the private sector. A competitive free market system provides incentives to develop better drugs, better treatments, better care, and better forms of health care delivery.

The President,s Framework for Medicare reform would apply the best practices of the private health care market to Medicare. As successful as Medicare has been, it has not kept pace with dramatic improvements in health care because it is a government program immune to many market forces. Medicare still does not provide seniors with an outpatient prescription drug benefit, full coverage for preventive care, or limits on high out of pocket expenses. As a result, seniors lack many of the choices and benefits available to millions of Americans who have private health insurance.

The President,s goal is a strong, up-to-date Medicare system that relies on innovation and competition, not bureaucratic rules and regulations. This would allow seniors more choices and better benefits. It would also help modernize the program and improve its long-term finances.

The leading Medicare bills in the House and Senate include the following key elements of reform from the President,s Framework:

Individual Choice vs. One-size-fits-all

Seniors would be able to choose the health plan that best meets their own personal health needs*rather than having only the choice of a one-size-fits-all government plan. There would be flexibility for private plans to offer a variety of benefit designs, not just standard coverage.

Providing seniors with more choices will give them*not the government*more control. When seniors retain the power of choice, there will be competition among health care providers and insurers. The result? Seniors will get the best coverage, services and quality of care.

Private Sector Competition vs. Government Price Setting and Price Controls
Private insurers would deliver drug benefits to seniors, and costs would be controlled using marketplace competition, not government price setting. This is a fundamental departure from the current Medicare command and control pricing system.

Under the President,s Framework and the House and Senate bills, health plans would compete for seniors, business on the basis of quality and price. Federal employees and members of Congress enjoy the benefits of a competitive market for their health insurance, as do millions of working Americans. Seniors should have the same opportunity.

Currently, Medicare fixes payments to doctors and hospitals. The result is that Medicare does not often cover the true cost of care. Under the President,s Framework, private plans would bid against one another and then the government will select the lowest three bids that qualify. Such competition will be good for seniors and for taxpayers.

Innovation vs. Bureaucratic Delays

Whenever government gets involved in the business of micromanaging health care, innovation suffers and access to the newest and most effective treatments depends on the often arbitrary decisions of a slow-moving bureaucracy. When prescription drugs and medical devices are approved by the Food and Drug Administration, private insurers can adopt them for use soon after*but not Medicare. For example, Medicare did not cover mammograms until nearly a decade after private insurers made them a standard benefit. It even took an act of Congress to get Medicare to cover mammograms.

The participation of private health plans in Medicare will help ensure more up-to-date coverage for breakthrough medical technologies. This is a significant improvement over the way benefits are provided in the traditional Medicare program today*where politicians and regulators, rather than the market, decide what is covered.

Long-Term Savings vs. Spiraling Costs

The President and Congress have budgeted $400 billion over 10 years to make these reforms a reality. By contrast, Democratic leadership proposals in both the House and Senate would likely cost more than double the amount*perhaps nearly $1 trillion*pumped into an unreformed, one-size-fits-all government-run system.

Over time, reforming the Medicare system to allow more choices and private sector competition is expected to bring savings to the program. Medicare actuaries estimate that the most efficient private plans have the potential to beat Medicare,s costs by an average of 2.3 percent.

Far from being an open-ended entitlement, most seniors will be responsible for a deductible, and co-pays, and, for the first time, the Medicare Part B deductible would be indexed to inflation, which will help reduce government expenditures. At the same time, seniors with the lowest incomes and the highest prescription drug bills will receive the most assistance and protection under the bill. This focuses resources on those individuals who need the most help.

Free Market vs. Government Dictates

The President's vision for a reformed Medicare stands in stark contrast to a centralized, government-run health care system that dictates coverage and stifles innovation and quality.

The President's Framework for Medicare reform would combine the best practices of traditional Medicare with those of the competitive free market system that benefits Americans so well. By keeping the existing government system, building on its strengths and incorporating the best ideas of the private sector, we can create a modern and efficient Medicare program for the 21st century.

The President is encouraged by the bipartisan progress that has been made to date and is urging Congress to seize the opportunity to pass legislation this year that will reform Medicare for the first time in its 38-year history.

Talking Points: The President,s Framework to Strengthen & Improve
Medicare
Private Health Care Choices within Medicare * a Major Step in Medicare
Reform

America has the world,s best health care system because it relies on the innovations of the private sector. A competitive free market system provides incentives to develop better drugs, better treatments, better care, and better forms of health care delivery.

The President,s Framework for Medicare reform would apply the best practices of the private health care market to Medicare. As successful as Medicare has been, it has not kept pace with dramatic improvements in health care because it is a government program immune to many market forces. Medicare still does not provide seniors with an outpatient prescription drug benefit, full coverage for preventive care, or limits on high out of pocket expenses. As a result, seniors lack many of the choices and benefits available to millions of Americans who have private health insurance.

The President,s goal is a strong, up-to-date Medicare system that relies on innovation and competition, not bureaucratic rules and regulations. This would allow seniors more choices and better benefits. It would also help modernize the program and improve its long-term finances.

The leading Medicare bills in the House and Senate include the following key elements of reform from the President,s Framework:

Individual Choice vs. One-size-fits-all

Seniors would be able to choose the health plan that best meets their own personal health needs*rather than having only the choice of a one-size-fits-all government plan. There would be flexibility for private plans to offer a variety of benefit designs, not just standard coverage.

Providing seniors with more choices will give them*not the government*more control. When seniors retain the power of choice, there will be competition among health care providers and insurers. The result? Seniors will get the best coverage, services and quality of care.

Private Sector Competition vs. Government Price Setting and Price Controls
Private insurers would deliver drug benefits to seniors, and costs would be controlled using marketplace competition, not government price setting. This is a fundamental departure from the current Medicare command and control pricing system.

Under the President,s Framework and the House and Senate bills, health plans would compete for seniors, business on the basis of quality and price. Federal employees and members of Congress enjoy the benefits of a competitive market for their health insurance, as do millions of working Americans. Seniors should have the same opportunity.

Currently, Medicare fixes payments to doctors and hospitals. The result is that Medicare does not often cover the true cost of care. Under the President,s Framework, private plans would bid against one another and then the government will select the lowest three bids that qualify. Such competition will be good for seniors and for taxpayers.

Innovation vs. Bureaucratic Delays

Whenever government gets involved in the business of micromanaging health care, innovation suffers and access to the newest and most effective treatments depends on the often arbitrary decisions of a slow-moving bureaucracy. When prescription drugs and medical devices are approved by the Food and Drug Administration, private insurers can adopt them for use soon after*but not Medicare. For example, Medicare did not cover mammograms until nearly a decade after private insurers made them a standard benefit. It even took an act of Congress to get Medicare to cover mammograms.

The participation of private health plans in Medicare will help ensure more up-to-date coverage for breakthrough medical technologies. This is a significant improvement over the way benefits are provided in the traditional Medicare program today*where politicians and regulators, rather than the market, decide what is covered.

Long-Term Savings vs. Spiraling Costs

The President and Congress have budgeted $400 billion over 10 years to make these reforms a reality. By contrast, Democratic leadership proposals in both the House and Senate would likely cost more than double the amount*perhaps nearly $1 trillion*pumped into an unreformed, one-size-fits-all government-run system.

Over time, reforming the Medicare system to allow more choices and private sector competition is expected to bring savings to the program. Medicare actuaries estimate that the most efficient private plans have the potential to beat Medicare,s costs by an average of 2.3 percent.

Far from being an open-ended entitlement, most seniors will be responsible for a deductible, and co-pays, and, for the first time, the Medicare Part B deductible would be indexed to inflation, which will help reduce government expenditures. At the same time, seniors with the lowest incomes and the highest prescription drug bills will receive the most assistance and protection under the bill. This focuses resources on those individuals who need the most help.

Free Market vs. Government Dictates

The President's vision for a reformed Medicare stands in stark contrast to a centralized, government-run health care system that dictates coverage and stifles innovation and quality.

The President's Framework for Medicare reform would combine the best practices of traditional Medicare with those of the competitive free market system that benefits Americans so well. By keeping the existing government system, building on its strengths and incorporating the best ideas of the private sector, we can create a modern and efficient Medicare program for the 21st century.

The President is encouraged by the bipartisan progress that has been made to date and is urging Congress to seize the opportunity to pass legislation this year that will reform Medicare for the first time in its 38-year history.

Beyond the Pale

Many of the Bush administration's judicial nominees have been evasive about their positions on abortion, but not William Pryor. Mr. Pryor, Alabama's attorney general, has declared that Roe v. Wade, the landmark ruling upholding abortion rights, "ripped the Constitution and ripped out the life of millions of unborn children." He has shown the same lack of subtlety * and fierce ideological agenda * on issues ranging from civil rights to states' rights and gay rights. His extremism and disdain for the legal rights of many Americans make him unsuited to be a federal judge.

Mr. Pryor, who has been nominated to the Atlanta-based United States Court of Appeals for the 11th Circuit, has a record of incendiary comments that show a lack of judicial temperament and a cynical view of the law. When he disagreed with the Supreme Court's decision to delay an execution in a capital punishment case, he dismissed the court as "nine octogenarian lawyers." On another occasion, he ended a speech with a prayer for "no more Souters," a blast at Supreme Court Justice David Souter, a moderate.

As Alabama attorney general, Mr. Pryor has turned his office into a taxpayer-financed right-wing law firm. He has testified to Congress in favor of dropping a key part of the Voting Rights Act. In a Supreme Court case challenging the Violence Against Women Act, 36 state attorneys general urged the court to uphold the law. Mr. Pryor was the only one to argue that the law was unconstitutional. This term, he submitted a brief in favor of a Texas law that makes gay sex illegal, comparing it to necrophilia, bestiality, incest and pedophilia.

Mr. Pryor has taken particularly outlandish positions on "federalism," a dangerous states' rights movement that seeks to take away federal rights. This term, he urged the Supreme Court to make nearly five million state employees ineligible to sue for damages under the Family and Medical Leave Act. Chief Justice William Rehnquist, a strong supporter of federalism, wrote the opinion rejecting Mr. Pryor's position as too extreme. In another states' rights case this term, involving statutes of limitations, the court rejected Mr. Pryor 9 to 0.

Judicial nominees are often accused of undergoing "confirmation conversions," backing away from controversial stands to win Senate support. But there is no great honor in the positions Mr. Pryor stuck to at his confirmation hearing: that Roe was "morally wrong" and responsible for "the slaughter of millions of unborn children," that part of the Voting Rights Act should be repealed and that when he rescheduled his family's vacation to Disney World to avoid a day when many gays attend, it was a legitimate "value judgment."

If a far-right legal group needs a lawyer to argue extreme positions against abortion, women's rights, gay rights and civil rights, Mr. Pryor may be a suitable candidate. But he does not belong on the federal bench.

1. Advance Staff on mixed official/BC trips who work on both events -- split costs or BC pay entire?
2. Rooms used for both official and campaign purposes on BC or mixed trips -- split costs or BC pay entire?
3. Appearances by Admin officials as special guests at fundraisers for entities other than parties or candidates that raise more than fed limits (e.g., RGA or RAGA events) -- legal and policy review?
4. Spreadsheet/chart of Admin officials traveling for BC events/activities to ensure that BC campaign is paying all relevant costs for Admin officials
5. Official travelers

She is writing story for National Journal on WH rules/regs for campaign. She says she is writing regardless whether we cooperate. Ari and Ashley Snee think I should talk to her -- on background -- and explain/emphasize the various briefings, memos, steps, etc. The press office thinks this is a better forum than most for this kind of story. We obviously would want to explain how we are being very careful without sounding arrogant about it.

Please let me know your thoughts.

Subject: FEC Vetting

Brett -- In our efforts to better serve the President and White House Staff, we wanted to get Counsel's Office guidance on whether it is appropriate for the Scheduling Office to vet FEC records on those meeting with the President at his various events. As you know, we currently vet venues, greeters, and major participants for Presidential events. Adding checks on FEC records would make our efforts to protect the President politically a bit more thorough.

Before we started doing this, we wanted your guidance on whether or not this is appropriate. Thanks.

Talking Points: The President,s Framework to Strengthen & Improve
Medicare
Private Health Care Choices within Medicare * a Major Step in Medicare
Reform

America has the world,s best health care system because it relies on the innovations of the private sector. A competitive free market system provides incentives to develop better drugs, better treatments, better care, and better forms of health care delivery.

The President,s Framework for Medicare reform would apply the best practices of the private health care market to Medicare. As successful as Medicare has been, it has not kept pace with dramatic improvements in health care because it is a government program immune to many market forces. Medicare still does not provide seniors with an outpatient prescription drug benefit, full coverage for preventive care, or limits on high out of pocket expenses. As a result, seniors lack many of the choices and benefits available to millions of Americans who have private health insurance.

The President,s goal is a strong, up-to-date Medicare system that relies on innovation and competition, not bureaucratic rules and regulations. This would allow seniors more choices and better benefits. It would also help modernize the program and improve its long-term finances.

The leading Medicare bills in the House and Senate include the following key elements of reform from the President,s Framework:

Individual Choice vs. One-size-fits-all

Seniors would be able to choose the health plan that best meets their own personal health needs*rather than having only the choice of a one-size-fits-all government plan. There would be flexibility for private plans to offer a variety of benefit designs, not just standard coverage.

Providing seniors with more choices will give them*not the government*more control. When seniors retain the power of choice, there will be competition among health care providers and insurers. The result? Seniors will get the best coverage, services and quality of care.

Private Sector Competition vs. Government Price Setting and Price Controls
Private insurers would deliver drug benefits to seniors, and costs would be controlled using marketplace competition, not government price setting. This is a fundamental departure from the current Medicare command and control pricing system.

Under the President,s Framework and the House and Senate bills, health plans would compete for seniors, business on the basis of quality and price. Federal employees and members of Congress enjoy the benefits of a competitive market for their health insurance, as do millions of working Americans. Seniors should have the same opportunity.

Currently, Medicare fixes payments to doctors and hospitals. The result is that Medicare does not often cover the true cost of care. Under the President,s Framework, private plans would bid against one another and then the government will select the lowest three bids that qualify. Such competition will be good for seniors and for taxpayers.

Innovation vs. Bureaucratic Delays

Whenever government gets involved in the business of micromanaging health care, innovation suffers and access to the newest and most effective treatments depends on the often arbitrary decisions of a slow-moving bureaucracy. When prescription drugs and medical devices are approved by the Food and Drug Administration, private insurers can adopt them for use soon after*but not Medicare. For example, Medicare did not cover mammograms until nearly a decade after private insurers made them a standard benefit. It even took an act of Congress to get Medicare to cover mammograms.

The participation of private health plans in Medicare will help ensure more up-to-date coverage for breakthrough medical technologies. This is a significant improvement over the way benefits are provided in the traditional Medicare program today*where politicians and regulators, rather than the market, decide what is covered.

Long-Term Savings vs. Spiraling Costs

The President and Congress have budgeted $400 billion over 10 years to make these reforms a reality. By contrast, Democratic leadership proposals in both the House and Senate would likely cost more than double the amount*perhaps nearly $1 trillion*pumped into an unreformed, one-size-fits-all government-run system.

Over time, reforming the Medicare system to allow more choices and private sector competition is expected to bring savings to the program. Medicare actuaries estimate that the most efficient private plans have the potential to beat Medicare,s costs by an average of 2.3 percent.

Far from being an open-ended entitlement, most seniors will be responsible for a deductible, and co-pays, and, for the first time, the Medicare Part B deductible would be indexed to inflation, which will help reduce government expenditures. At the same time, seniors with the lowest incomes and the highest prescription drug bills will receive the most assistance and protection under the bill. This focuses resources on those individuals who need the most help.

Free Market vs. Government Dictates

The President's vision for a reformed Medicare stands in stark contrast to a centralized, government-run health care system that dictates coverage and stifles innovation and quality.

The President's Framework for Medicare reform would combine the best practices of traditional Medicare with those of the competitive free market system that benefits Americans so well. By keeping the existing government system, building on its strengths and incorporating the best ideas of the private sector, we can create a modern and efficient Medicare program for the 21st century.

The President is encouraged by the bipartisan progress that has been made to date and is urging Congress to seize the opportunity to pass legislation this year that will reform Medicare for the first time in its 38-year history.

Talking Points: The President,s Framework to Strengthen & Improve

Medicare

Private Health Care Choices within Medicare * a Major Step in Medicare
Reform

America has the world,s best health care system because it relies on the innovations of the private sector. A competitive free market system provides incentives to develop better drugs, better treatments, better care, and better forms of health care delivery.

The President's Framework for Medicare reform would apply the best practices of the private health care market to Medicare. As successful as Medicare has been, it has not kept pace with dramatic improvements in health care because it is a government program immune to many market forces. Medicare still does not provide seniors with an outpatient prescription drug benefit, full coverage for preventive care, or limits on high out of pocket expenses. As a result, seniors lack many of the choices and benefits available to millions of Americans who have private health insurance.

The President's goal is a strong, up-to-date Medicare system that relies on innovation and competition, not bureaucratic rules and regulations. This would allow seniors more choices and better benefits. It would also help modernize the program and improve its long-term finances.

The leading Medicare bills in the House and Senate include the following key elements of reform from the President's Framework:

Individual Choice vs. One-size-fits-all

Seniors would be able to choose the health plan that best meets their own personal health needs*rather than having only the choice of a one-size-fits-all government plan. There would be flexibility for private plans to offer a variety of benefit designs, not just standard coverage.

Providing seniors with more choices will give them*not the government*more control. When seniors retain the power of choice, there will be competition among health care providers and insurers. The result? Seniors will get the best coverage, services and quality of care.

Private Sector Competition vs. Government Price Setting and Price Controls

Private insurers would deliver drug benefits to seniors, and costs would be controlled using marketplace competition, not government price setting. This is a fundamental departure from the current Medicare command and control pricing system.

Under the President,s Framework and the House and Senate bills, health plans would compete for seniors, business on the basis of quality and price. Federal employees and members of Congress enjoy the benefits of a competitive market for their health insurance, as do millions of working Americans. Seniors should have the same opportunity.

Currently, Medicare fixes payments to doctors and hospitals. The result is that Medicare does not often cover the true cost of care. Under the President,s Framework, private plans would bid against one another and then the government will select the lowest three bids that qualify. Such competition will be good for seniors and for taxpayers.

Innovation vs. Bureaucratic Delays

Whenever government gets involved in the business of micromanaging health care, innovation suffers and access to the newest and most effective treatments depends on the often arbitrary decisions of a slow-moving bureaucracy. When prescription drugs and medical devices are approved by the Food and Drug Administration, private insurers can adopt them for use soon after*but not Medicare. For example, Medicare did not cover mammograms until nearly a decade after private insurers made them a standard benefit. It even took an act of Congress to get Medicare to cover mammograms.

The participation of private health plans in Medicare will help ensure more up-to-date coverage for breakthrough medical technologies. This is a significant improvement over the way benefits are provided in the traditional Medicare program today*where politicians and regulators, rather than the market, decide what is covered.

Long-Term Savings vs. Spiraling Costs

The President and Congress have budgeted $400 billion over 10 years to make these reforms a reality. By contrast, Democratic leadership proposals in both the House and Senate would likely cost more than double the amount*perhaps nearly $1 trillion*pumped into an unreformed, one-size-fits-all government-run system.

Over time, reforming the Medicare system to allow more choices and private sector competition is expected to bring savings to the program. Medicare actuaries estimate that the most efficient private plans have the potential to beat Medicare,s costs by an average of 2.3 percent.

Far from being an open-ended entitlement, most seniors will be responsible for a deductible, and co-pays, and, for the first time, the Medicare Part B deductible would be indexed to inflation, which will help reduce government expenditures. At the same time, seniors with the lowest incomes and the highest prescription drug bills will receive the most assistance and protection under the bill. This focuses resources on those individuals who need the most help.

Free Market vs. Government Dictates

The President,s vision for a reformed Medicare stands in stark contrast to a centralized, government-run health care system that dictates coverage and stifles innovation and quality.

The President,s Framework for Medicare reform would combine the best practices of traditional Medicare with those of the competitive free market system that benefits Americans so well. By keeping the existing government system, building on its strengths and incorporating the best ideas of the private sector, we can create a modern and efficient Medicare program for the 21st century.

The President is encouraged by the bipartisan progress that has been made to date and is urging Congress to seize the opportunity to pass legislation this year that will reform Medicare for the first time in its 38-year history.

Hi Brett,

Matt asked me to check with you re: Jane Abraham. She would like to send a fundraising letter to her personal pro-life list. Is there a problem with this?

Happy Monday. Not surprising.

June 23, 2003

Beyond the Pale

Many of the Bush administration's judicial nominees have been evasive about their positions on abortion, but not William Pryor. Mr. Pryor, Alabama's attorney general, has declared that Roe v. Wade, the landmark ruling upholding abortion rights, "ripped the Constitution and ripped out the life of millions of unborn children."

He has shown the same lack of subtlety - and fierce ideological agenda - on issues ranging from civil rights to states' rights and gay rights. His extremism and disdain for the legal rights of many Americans make him unsuited to be a federal judge.

REV_00124146

Mr. Pryor, who has been nominated to the Atlanta-based United States Court of Appeals for the 11th Circuit, has a record of incendiary comments that show a lack of judicial temperament and a cynical view of the law. When he disagreed with the Supreme Court's decision to delay an execution in a capital punishment case, he dismissed the court as "nine octogenarian lawyers." On another occasion, he ended a speech with a prayer for "no more Souters," a blast at Supreme Court Justice David Souter, a moderate.

As Alabama attorney general, Mr. Pryor has turned his office into a taxpayer-financed right-wing law firm. He has testified to Congress in favor of dropping a key part of the Voting Rights Act. In a Supreme Court case challenging the Violence Against Women Act, 36 state attorneys general urged the court to uphold the law. Mr. Pryor was the only one to argue that the law was unconstitutional. This term, he submitted a brief in favor of a Texas law that makes gay sex illegal, comparing it to necrophilia, bestiality, incest and pedophilia.

Mr. Pryor has taken particularly outlandish positions on "federalism," a dangerous states' rights movement that seeks to take away federal rights. This term, he urged the Supreme Court to make nearly five million state employees ineligible to sue for damages under the Family and Medical Leave Act. Chief Justice William Rehnquist, a strong supporter of federalism, wrote the opinion rejecting Mr. Pryor's position as too extreme. In another states' rights case this term, involving statutes of limitations, the court rejected Mr. Pryor 9 to 0.

Judicial nominees are often accused of undergoing "confirmation conversions," backing away from controversial stands to win Senate support. But there is no great honor in the positions Mr. Pryor stuck to at his confirmation hearing: that Roe was "morally wrong" and responsible for "the slaughter of millions of unborn children," that part of the Voting Rights Act should be repealed and that when he rescheduled his family's vacation to Disney World to avoid a day when many gays attend, it was a legitimate "value judgment."

If a far-right legal group needs a lawyer to argue extreme positions against abortion, women's rights, gay rights and civil rights, Mr. Pryor may be a suitable candidate. But he does not belong on the federal bench.

Stop abuse of class actions

June 23, 2003

Our position: Class-action suits can avoid gamesmanship by heading to federal courts.

When large groups of people are wronged by corporate misconduct, class-action lawsuits can be a useful tool for holding corporations accountable, forcing them to abandon their unfair or unsafe practices and compensating their victims.

But many lawyers who file class-action lawsuits are gaming the system. They're taking cases with national implications and filing them in the friendliest state courts they can find.

It's a warped system routinely yielding settlements that enrich lawyers with multimillion-dollar fees but leave crumbs for their "clients." Under a recent settlement in a Florida suit accusing credit-card companies of fudging payment-due dates, lawyers would pocket $2.2 million in fees and the 155 million plaintiffs they represented wouldn't collect a penny.

Fortunately, Congress is moving toward reforming the system.

The House has passed a proposal that would send class-action suits with plaintiffs from multiple states and damages exceeding $5 million to appointed judges in federal court. That's the appropriate venue for cases with multistate or national impact.

The Senate is now considering its own, similar measure. Both the House and Senate proposals are reasonable. Neither would give any industry immunity from class-action suits or place arbitrary caps on any damages.

But the House proposal would apply to class-action suits already filed -- essentially changing the rules in the middle of the game. The Senate proposal would not, making it the fairer and better version of class-action reform.

One of the great strengths of America is our diversity.; We should always strive to achieve diversity of all kinds, including racial diversity in higher education, but I believe that schools should;not;use racial preferences and quotas to achieve diversity.; In striking down the University of Michigan;undergraduate admissions system, the Supreme Court has made clear that racial quotas and set asides are inconsistent with the Constitution,s promise of equal opportunity for all Americans.;

The Departments of Justice and Education are reviewing the Court,s decision to evaluate its scope and its impact.; My Administration is; committed to promoting policies that expand opportunities for Americans from all racial, ethnic, and economic backgrounds, and I believe there are innovative ways for schools to reflect our diversity without using racial preferences or quotas, which unfairly reward or penalize prospective students based solely on their race.;

Yes we did (Ari had a change of heart). She asked us that first question too and we said that we would have to check or she could check with you. Basically, she wanted to know what guidance has been given to WH Staff regarding political activity. Her hook was the memo that went out - that she knows about - but unclear if she has a copy of. Brett walked her through the memo, but didn't get into her hypothetical scenarios about various activities and focused on the law and broad, big picture stuff. I can fill you in more in the morning.

she called and said that you 2 met with her today...true? where is she headed? should we play?
some things she mentioned that she would like to know from us...

- 1) Because Naval Obs is a military facility does can the VP use for calls, etc.
- 2) Have we done anything seperate or different from they way your system is set-up.
- 3) How many campaign events will he have on the schedule, what is his pace.

Subject: questions

These can use some work. To some extent they are a dodge. Thanks

Q: Is the Administration disappointed that the Court did not strike down the University of Michigan law school admissions system?

A: The President believes strongly in the value of diversity on our nation's campuses. The Supreme Court's decisions in the University of Michigan cases echo the President's views on this point. The brief that the Department of Justice filed argued that the law school program was not sufficiently narrowly tailored. But it was a very close case and the Court's decision seeks a careful balance between the goal of a diverse student body and the fundamental principle of equal treatment under law.

Q: Does the Administration believe it is okay to consider race as a factor?

A: In the context of higher education, race can be one of many factors considered in the admissions process, as long as quotas are not employed, race is not the decisive factor, and each individual is considered on his or her own merits.

Q: Will the Administration seek to have military academies pursue race-neutral approaches?

A: The Administration will continue to work to employ all constitutional means to ensure sure that our nation's military academies are ethnically and racially diverse, and that they are welcoming to students of all backgrounds. But we will not employ racial quotas in our efforts to attain this goal.

Colleen - Thought I forwarded this yesterday...but, apparently, did not. Please approve.

Brett - does the list of "official travelers" that we use for other political travel apply to campaign travel as well? The travelers below are personal aide and press secretary.

Help defeat William Pryor's nomination to the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals! We need volunteers to call our members to urge them to contact their Senators in opposition to Pryor.ÿ

What:
Phonebank against William Pryor
When:

REV_00124315

Wednesday, June 25, 6:00 - 8:00 pm

Where:

People for the American Way, 2000 M St. NW, Fifth Floor

Metro:

Dupont Circle (Red Line), Farragut West (Blue/Orange Lines)

Dinner will be served.

RSVP to Amy Campbell at 202 973 3016 or acampbell@ProChoiceAmerica.org.
Please bring your photo ID and tell the guard on duty that you're coming to PFAW on the fifth floor.

Pryor believes that the Constitution does not protect a woman's right to choose and has used extreme and inflammatory rhetoric opposing Roe v. Wade and related Supreme Court decisions. This raises serious questions about his judicial temperament and ability to fairly decide matters pertaining to a woman's right to choose. Pryor has worn his extreme anti-choice ideology on his sleeve throughout his political career.

Recalling his response in 1973 to the Roe v. Wade decision, Pryor stated: "I will never forget January 22, 1973, the day seven members of our highest court ripped the Constitution and ripped out the life of millions of unborn children."

For more information on Pryor's history of opposition to Roe v. Wade, visit http://www.prochoiceamerica.org/courts/wpryor\_facts.cfm.

Visit the web address below to tell your friends about volunteering to keep this anti-choice nominee off the bench.

Panel Makes Strides Toward A Consensus On Asbestos Bill
ÿÿÿÿÿÿ The Senate Judiciary Committee agreed to a series of major amendments during today's markup session, paving the way for broader consensus on legislation reforming the litigation system for asbestos cases. The amendments included those codifying a "breakthrough" agreement on the medical criteria that will determine who will be eligible for compensation for asbestos-related illnesses. The pact reached by Judiciary Chairman Hatch and ranking member Patrick Leahy , D-Vt., creates 10 categories of asbestos-related diseases, encompassing five kinds of cancer, some of which were not in the original bill. Hatch said he plans Thursday to finish work on the bill, which establishes a $108 billion trust fund to compensate the victims of illnesses caused by asbestos exposure.
ÿÿÿÿÿÿHatch and Leahy also agreed during intense negotiations over the weekend to eliminate the separate court system that the original Hatch bill called for to hear asbestos cases. Leahy had complained that establishing a separate court system would be burdensome and prevent victims from being compensated quickly. During today's markup session that was delayed because of a lack of quorum, Hatch said he hoped to keep additional amendments to a minimum and that the committee would quickly finish marking up the bill. But Leahy said medical criteria was not the only outstanding issue and that committee members needed more time to negotiate consensus on compensation awards to victims and a mechanism that would ensure that the fund does not run dry. "One down, two to go," Leahy said.
ÿÿÿÿÿÿMeanwhile, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Institute for Legal Reform released a study showing that while most people know very little about the problems plaguing the asbestos litigation system, they support the idea of a trust fund. The poll was conducted by Harris Interactive and surveyed 305 union members and 908 nonunion members to gauge public reaction to the proposal the Judiciary Committee is considering. Seventy-one percent of nonunion members and 70 percent of union members polled agreed that Congress should set up a fund for asbestos claims. -- by Emily Heil

Brett and Ashley,
Scott Lindlaw, below, got this sentence from "aides" for his story written after the NYC fundraiser. Question: Is this true that Bush and Cheney will not combine campaign travel with official appearances? Also, did the White House consider the 2002 cost split as 50-50 during the midterms? That was not my understanding about what the law provides. I understood that if there is campaign activity that involves the president during any trip, it's considered an overall political trip in terms of travel costs & staff, and the campaign pays for it at first-class rates. Why don't you let me see the actual instructions you disseminated regarding travel expenses? The topic is so mechanical, why would the contents be sensitive?

AP:
"Aides said Bush and Cheney do not plan to layer ``official'' events into their fund-raising travels this year, as they did last fall. Adding such events allowed the administration to bill taxpayers for half of every fund-raising trip."

Brett and Ashley --

Has the White House established a system of designated contact points between the re-election campaign and the government? Bush 41 established a system, for instance, that designated specific West Wing officials who were permitted to take calls and act on requests with/from campaign officials and transmit the campaign requests into the proper places inside the Executive Branch.

If the Bush-Cheney re-election campaign wanted to contact the public liaison person in charge of outreach to veterans, for instance, in order to arrange an event or meeting with President Bush, can a re-election campaign official call anyone in the West Wing or executive branch with that request, or would he/she first have to run through the White House counsel, the chief of staff, the senior adviser, or anyone else? If there are no required contact points, to clarify, the campaign can communicate with anyone in the West Wing, EOP, or Executive Branch without first checking with a gatekeeper for permission?

Thanks,
Alexis S.

A person from the 9/11 Commission just left a voicemail on my phone saying that she was collecting telephone, cell phone, fax, secure phone, and secure fax numbers for all the various government entities with whom the Commission is working. I wanted to give you a heads up, so that you could instruct your assistants not to give out such information (unless you want it given out with respect to yourselves).

For me, the Commission's general counsel has my regular phone and regular fax numbers, and that's all he needs to get in contact with me. (I am not interested in having random Commission employees calling me on my cell phone.)

Panel Makes Strides Toward A Consensus On Asbestos Bill

The Senate Judiciary Committee agreed to a series of major amendments during today's markup session, paving the way for broader consensus on legislation reforming the litigation system for asbestos cases. The amendments included those codifying a "breakthrough" agreement on the medical criteria that will determine who will be eligible for compensation for asbestos-related illnesses. The pact reached by Judiciary Chairman Hatch and ranking member Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., creates 10 categories of asbestos-related diseases, encompassing five kinds of cancer, some of which were not in the original bill. Hatch said he plans Thursday to finish work on the bill, which establishes a $108 billion trust fund to compensate the victims of illnesses caused by asbestos exposure.

Hatch and Leahy also agreed during intense negotiations over the weekend to eliminate the separate court system that the original Hatch bill called for to hear asbestos cases. Leahy had complained that establishing a separate court system would be burdensome and prevent victims from being compensated quickly. During today's markup session that was delayed because of a lack of quorum, Hatch said he hoped to keep additional amendments to a minimum and that the committee would quickly finish marking up the bill. But Leahy said medical criteria was not the only outstanding issue and that committee members needed more time to negotiate consensus on compensation awards to victims and a mechanism that would ensure that the fund does not run dry. "One down, two to go," Leahy said.

Meanwhile, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Institute for Legal Reform released a study showing that while most people know very little about the problems plaguing the asbestos litigation system, they support the idea of a trust fund. The poll was conducted by Harris Interactive and surveyed 305 union members and 908 nonunion members to gauge public reaction to the proposal the Judiciary Committee is considering. Seventy-one percent of nonunion members and 70 percent of union members polled agreed that Congress should set up a fund for asbestos claims. -- by Emily Heil

Subject: trip summaries

Will you be in tomorrow? Can I schedule about 10 minutes you to sign a stack of trip summaries?

I also have to do one for the first campaign trip (Georgia.) Did you have a chance to come up with some standard wording? Maybe we can discuss this tomorrow as well.

Just let me know when you will be around. Thanks!!!

When you say "costs paid by campaign directly," is the campaign paying for the plane tickets, rental cars, hotel rooms and per diem expenses in advance?; Or is the staff or volunteer incurring the expense, and seeking reimbursement from the campaign?

11 CFR 9034.6

§ 9034.6 Expenditures for transportation and services made available to media personnel; reimbursements.

(a) General. (1) Expenditures by an authorized committee for transportation, ground services or facilities (including air travel, ground transportation, housing, meals, telephone service, typewriters, and computers) provided to media personnel, Secret Service personnel or national security staff will be considered qualified campaign expenses, and, except for costs relating to Secret Service personnel or national security staff, will be subject to the overall expenditure limitations of 11 CFR 9035.1(a).

(2) Subject to the limitations in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, committees may seek reimbursement from the media for the expenses described in paragraph (a)(3) of this section, and may deduct reimbursements received from media representatives from the amount of expenditures subject to the overall expenditure limitation of 11 CFR 9035.1(a). Expenses for which the committee receives no reimbursement will be considered qualified campaign expenses, and, with the exception of those expenses relating to Secret Service personnel and national security staff, will be subject to the overall expenditure limitation.

(3) Committees may seek reimbursement from the media only for the billable items specified in the White House Press Corps Travel Policies and Procedures issued by the White House Travel Office.

(b) Reimbursement limits; billing.

(1) The amount of reimbursement sought from a media representative under paragraph (a)(2) of this section shall not exceed 110% of the media representative's pro rata share (or a reasonable estimate of the media representative's pro rata share) of the actual cost of the transportation and services made available. Any reimbursement received in excess of this amount shall be disposed of in accordance with paragraph (d)(1) of this section.

(2) For the purposes of this section, a media representative's pro rata share shall be calculated by dividing the total actual cost of the transportation and services provided by the total number of individuals to whom such transportation and services are made available. For purposes of this calculation, the total number of individuals shall include committee staff, media personnel, Secret Service personnel, national security staff and any other individuals to whom such transportation and services are made available, except that, when seeking reimbursement for transportation costs paid by the committee under 11 CFR 9034.7(b)(5)(i)(C), the total number of individuals shall not include national security staff.

(3) No later than sixty (60) days of the campaign trip or event, the committee shall provide each media representative attending the event with an itemized bill that specifies the amounts charged for air and ground transportation for each segment of the trip, housing, meals, telephone service, and other billable items specified in the White House Press Corps Travel Policies and Procedures issued by the White House Travel Office. Payments shall be due sixty (60) days from the date of the bill, unless the media representative disputes the charges.

(c) Deduction of reimbursements from expenditures subject to the overall expenditure limitation.

(1) The Committee may deduct from the amount of expenditures subject to the overall expenditure limitation:

(i) The amount of reimbursements received from media representatives in payment for the transportation and services described in paragraph (a) of this section, up to the actual cost of the transportation and services provided to media representatives; and

(ii) An additional amount of the reimbursements received from media representatives, representing the administrative costs incurred by the committee in providing these services to the media representatives and seeking reimbursement for them, equal to:

(A) Three percent of the actual cost of transportation and services provided to the media representatives under this section; or

(B) An amount in excess of 3% representing the administrative costs actually incurred by the committee in providing services to the media representatives, provided that the committee is able to document the total amount of administrative costs actually incurred.

(2) For the purposes of this paragraph, "administrative costs" includes all costs incurred by the committee in making travel arrangements and seeking reimbursement, whether these services are performed by committee staff or by independent contractors.

(d) Disposal of excess reimbursements. If the committee receives reimbursements in excess of the amount deductible under paragraph (c) of this section, it shall dispose of the excess amount in the following manner:

(1) Any reimbursement received in excess of 110% of the actual pro rata cost of the transportation and services made available to a media representative shall be returned to the media representative.

(2) Any amount in excess of the amount deductible under paragraph (c) of this section that is not required to be returned to the media representative under paragraph (d)(1) of this section shall be paid to the Treasury.

(e) Reporting. The total amount paid by an authorized committee for the services and facilities described in paragraph (a)(1) of this section, plus the administrative costs incurred by the committee in providing these services and facilities and seeking reimbursement for them, shall be reported as an expenditure in accordance with 11 CFR 104.3(b)(2)(i). Any reimbursement received by such committee under paragraph (b)(1) of this section shall be reported in accordance with 11 CFR 104.3(a)(3)(ix).

Michigan did not come up at Weyrich or Grover meetings today, according to Goeglein. That is good.

Also, at the Paul Weyrich lunch, Goeglein gave a statement about Judge noting who he has hired, who he has helped recommend as judges, what he has done on legal issues, and concluding that this is most conservative and most responsible White House Counsel's office in modern Presidency.
Then, Weyrich added he has been here for more than 30 years and agreed with Tim and said that this is best White House Counsel's office he has seen and best judicial nominees he has seen. All very good.

Not really. It's an event to raise money for the UJA Foundation of New York.

I think this will be a very useful tool for us to track expenses by event. We can use it to make sure we are keeping under budget and then share it as a report so that we can monitor expenses overall weekly.

Also, I think we should ask them tomorrow if this expense report can be filled out and emailed or faxed directly to the campaign - if there aren't receipts attached.; Steve - this is the version you were looking at that adds it all up.

The Advance team was booked to the Campaign for this trip because there is an official event and a fundraiser. Therese is going down only to do quality control for the official event. Can we send her down as an official traveler?

THE GLOBAL MESSENGER
Thursday, June 26, 2003

*****KEY POINTS: U.S.-EU SUMMIT*****
From President Bush's remarks on 6/25/03, East Room

-Since the end of World War II, the United States has strongly supported European unity as the best path to European peace and prosperity.

-On Wednesday, the U.S. and EU signed new agreements to increase our legal cooperation in the war on terror, and to expedite the extradition of terrorists. We will form joint investigative teams, share information on suspect bank accounts, and expand the range of offenses that qualify for extradition.

-The U.S. and EU also took new steps to help stop the proliferation of nuclear, biological and chemical weapons, including strengthening export controls on dangerous materials and active interdiction to stop illicit trade in weapons of mass destruction.

-Iran has pledged not to develop nuclear weapons, and the entire international community must hold the regime to its commitments. The United States and the EU are determined to make the world not only safer, but also better.

-The U.S. and EU will work together to help the people of Iraq build a future of security, prosperity and freedom. We will work together to confront global poverty, disease and oppression, and will stand together for a just and comprehensive peace in the Middle East.

-President Bush urges Europe's leaders and those around the world to take swift, decisive action against terror groups such as Hamas by cutting off their funding and support as we have in the United States.

-The vital trade relationship between the U.S. and EU brings growth and job creation to America, to all the nations of the EU, and to the world. Today, we are launching negotiations on Open Skies, have agreed to accelerate the commercial use of multilateral agreement to ban market-distorting steel subsidies, and agreed on the importance of making the upcoming World Trade Organization meeting a success.

*****TODAY'S SCHEDULE*****

All Times Eastern Daylight. Subject to Change.

TBA State Department briefing

*****HOUSE VOTES TO HONOR PM BLAIR*****

The House of Representatives voted Wednesday to award British Prime Minister Tony Blair a Congressional gold medal for "his outstanding and enduring contributions to maintaining the security of all freedom-loving nations."

Members of the House also acknowledged that the British Prime Minister "has clearly demonstrated during a very trying and historic time for our two countries, that he is a staunch and steadfast ally of the United States of America."

*****KEY QUOTE*****

"Look at what we've accomplished in the last 12 weeks. We've fought a very successful war with very few casualties, almost no collateral damage. We've liberated a people of 24 million from 30 years of dictatorship.

"We avoided all of the predictions everybody said would happen. There's been no humanitarian crisis. There's no refugee crisis. The oil wells were not set on fire. In fact, the refineries are back and operating now. We've restored the basic services - electricity, water, health care. And we're in the process of installing an interim Iraqi government here."

--Ambassador Bremer, Presidential Envoy to Iraq, 6/25/03 on NBC's "Today" show

What about having the Judge on to discuss the Supreme Court?

I know, a long shot. But do you see an advantage to doing so?

Brett, I need a ruling as soon as possible on a travel issue. We've got a boatload of advance folks out on the road right now on political (campaign) travel. From their last stops scattered around the country (mostly in California and Florida) I need to send many of those people on official travel to Africa. State Department wants to bill the campaign for the air fare difference assuming they had originated from Dulles. In some cases, the difference amount exceeds $3,000. All together we're talking about $9,000 differential.

I'd like to be able to tell State Department that it's legal for them to pay the flights from advance people's last stops to Africa without bringing them back home first. Please advise.

You can give me a buzz at 65301 if you'd like to chat.

They do not need to come home but campaign needs to pay/reimburse govt equivalent of a return flight back to DC for each. Does that help?

Greg Garre reports:

The Chief ended today's session by saying that he was, with sadness, "announcing the retirement of . . . the Court's librarian."; (You could hear the air being sucked out of the room until people figured out that he was referring to the librarian.)

United States Senate

OFFICE OF THE MAJORITY LEADER
WASHINGTON, DC 20510-7000

June 25, 2003

Dear Colleague,

In light of numerous letters of colleagues addressing the possibility of a Supreme Court nomination this summer, I wanted to write to outline my expectations of a fair and orderly process for Senate consideration of a Supreme Court nomination if any Justice retires at the end of this Supreme Court Term.

First, to perform our obligations to the Supreme Court and the American people, the Senate should act on any nominee within a reasonable time to ensure, if possible, that a new Justice can assume office before the Supreme Court resumes hearing cases this fall.

In most instances in the past, the Senate has acted promptly to consider a President's nominee to the Supreme Court. Most recently, for example, both of President Clinton's nominees to the Supreme Court received Senate votes before the Senate's August recess, after receiving Judiciary Committee hearings in July. Consistent with that schedule, if there is a retirement at the end of the Supreme Court's Term and a nomination is submitted shortly thereafter, I anticipate the Judiciary Committee would hold hearings in July and the full Senate would vote on the nomination before the Senate recess in August.

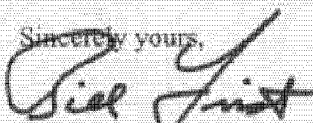

Second, the Senate must vote on the President's nominee to either confirm or reject the nominee. The Constitution provides that the Senate shall advise and consent on a President's nominees to the Supreme Court. Since 1789, in accord with the Constitution and to fulfill its Constitutional responsibility, the Senate has consistently afforded Presidential nominees to the Supreme Court a vote of the Senate (except, of course, when the nominee withdrew before a vote).

Any tactics to endlessly delay the process and prevent the Senate from performing its Constitutional responsibility to vote on a Supreme Court nomination would be inconsistent with the Constitution and contrary to the Senate's traditional practice for more than 200 years.

As Majority Leader, I will work to ensure that a Supreme Court nominee by a President of either party receives a fair up or down vote in the Senate.

The Senate has few Constitutional responsibilities as important as exercising its advice and consent on a President's nominee to the Supreme Court. I look forward to working with each of you to ensure a fair and orderly Senate process in the event of a Supreme Court nomination this summer or in the future.

Sincerely yours,

Bill Frist, M.D.

BILL FRIST TENNESSEE

United States Senate

OFFICE OF THE MAJORITY LEADER

WASHINGTON, DC 20510-7000

June 25, 2003

Dear Colleague,

In light of numerous letters of colleagues addressing the possibility of a Supreme Court nomination this summer, I wanted to write to outline my expectations of a fair and orderly process for Senate consideration of a Supreme Court nomination if any Justice retires at the end of this Supreme Court Term.

First, to perform our obligations to the Supreme Court and the American people, the Senate should act on any nominee within a reasonable time to ensure, if possible, that a new Justice can assume office before the Supreme Court resumes hearing cases this fall.

In most instances in the past, the Senate has acted promptly to consider a President's nominee to the Supreme Court. Most recently, for example, both of President Clinton's nominees to the Supreme Court received Senate votes before the Senate's August recess, after receiving Judiciary Committee hearings in July. Consistent with that schedule, if there is a retirement at the end of the Supreme Court's Term and a nomination is submitted shortly thereafter, I anticipate the Judiciary Committee would hold hearings in July and the full Senate would vote on the nomination before the Senate recess in August.

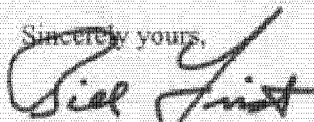

Second, the Senate must vote on the President's nominee to either confirm or reject the nominee. The Constitution provides that the Senate shall advise and consent on a President's nominees to the Supreme Court. Since 1789, in accord with the Constitution and to fulfill its Constitutional responsibility, the Senate has consistently afforded Presidential nominees to the Supreme Court a vote of the Senate (except, of course, when the nominee withdrew before a vote).

Any tactics to endlessly delay the process and prevent the Senate from performing its Constitutional responsibility to vote on a Supreme Court nomination would be inconsistent with the Constitution and contrary to the Senate's traditional practice for more than 200 years.

As Majority Leader, I will work to ensure that a Supreme Court nominee by a President of either party receives a fair up or down vote in the Senate.

The Senate has few Constitutional responsibilities as important as exercising its advice and consent on a President's nominee to the Supreme Court. I look forward to working with each of you to ensure a fair and orderly Senate process in the event of a Supreme Court nomination this summer or in the future.

Sincerely yours,

Bill Frist, M.D.

I may give a contribution and attend a political fundraiser for a Member of Congress. I am not participating in the event program or in any formal capacity. Is this permissible?

I assume the event itself would not be a fundraiser? If so, certainly not a problem. If it is, check back with me but still probably ok.

Greg Garre reports:

The Chief ended today's session by saying that he was, with sadness, "announcing the retirement of . . . the Court's librarian." (You could hear the air being sucked out of the room until people figured out that he was referring to the librarian.)

Per Matt and Jennifer's request, are you guys available for a meeting on Monday, June 30, at 2:30 PM in Matt's office?

This meeting is in regards to the appropriate procedure for photos-campaign vs. official.

Thank you,
Tracy

Not sure I agree with this, but here it is.

When to move off tenterhooks: The idea of a U.S. Supreme Court Justice announcing retirement from the bench on the last day of the Term is a bit overrated. Why hold your colleagues captive for that, and why share the spotlight (or divert the spotlight from today's newsworthy rulings)? Instead, in recent memory, the announcement usually comes from behind a podium before the press corps. Accordingly, I would suggest waiting until the end of the day tomorrow before moving off the tenterhooks.

When they are traveling for official purposes only, they are official travelers and need not be paid for by the campaign and may return on Afl. This applies to Keith and the Mil Aides, based on this description.

FYI that my draft memo is coming around today on some of these permutations, although there always will be new questions of course.

Colleen-

I have a campaign-related travel question for you... I'm sure it's your first one, right?!

When trips are mixed (official and political portions), what are the rules on staff traveling for the official portion only continuing on to the other stops? For example, Monday's trip to Florida. The first event of the day is in Miami and it's official - Keith Hennessey from OPD is requesting to travel. The other stop is Tampa and strictly political. Is he allowed to return to DC on Afl, or does he need to return commercially? Also in this category are Milaides requesting rides home from their stops.

We have been told that Advance representatives will not be approved to return home on Afl from political trips because the campaign would have to pay the equivalent of a 1st class ticket for them. Does this rule apply above as well?

I hope that I haven't confused you - I've confused myself.

Thanks,
Lindsay

I understand there,s a Kennedy letter on consultation. Is there someone in your office who could fax it over? (202) 228-2281 (fax). Thanks so much!

FYI- We received a bulk delivery of letters this week that are from February of 2002. Although many may regard issues which have been overtaken by events, I still logged them into the system using the normal process. We are still trying to discern if this delay was related to the anthrax scare or if it is all somehow Patrick's fault. I will be sure to let you know.

Have a good weekend.

Izzy explained that this is a standing meeting that takes place for all upcoming WH events. If a BC'04 event is on the schedule, the campaign personnel get to participate just for that portion of the discussion. For today's call, they did discuss Monday's BC'04 events in FL, but they also discussed 4th of July in OH. That's the background. I'll let Brett decide re: reimbursement of any cost. What is the cost associated for having a conference call like this?

Subject: Asbestos Meeting

EPA is scheduled to brief the EOP on the pros and cons of an asbestos ban on July 1st, from 1pm-2pm. This is not intended to be a decisional meeting, but to begin a process for understanding the use of asbestos in products in the US, and discuss the pros and cons of regulatory and/or legislative approaches to deal with asbestos. Attendees for the EOP are expected to include CEQ, OMB, CEA, OVP, and DPC (represented by one or all of you).

There is no clear link to the asbestos litigation reform issue DPC is working on, but you may be interested in looking at an asbestos issue from a different angle. Your participation would be appreciated if possible.

Please let me know. Thanks Dennis ú Are there any offices above that we do not need to include? I put an * next to the offices that I'm really wondering about.

ú Is it ok that we are not doing briefings for the following WH Offices: PPO, Counsel and HSC ú Should they be mandatory?

ú Should we take attendance and have make-up sessions?

I've held 450 for Tues, Wed and Thursday at both 9am and 4pm. Let me know if you want to go with morning or afternoon - so I can release the room.

THANKS

Bachelor Bush to Change His Ways Soon

STEPHEN M. SILVERMAN and SARAH ELKINS

The Bush family's most eligible bachelor . presidential nephew George Prescott Bush . seems to have found true love and wants to "start a family as soon as possible," reports PEOPLE.

The recent University of Texas Law School grad was in Washington on Friday with his girlfriend of two years, Amanda Williams, to support the Committee for Justice, a group that backs the President's <<http://people.aol.com/people/profiles/basicfacts/0,9855,104915,00.html>>
's judicial choices, and the younger Bush (who's the son of Florida Gov. Jeb Bush and Mexican-born Columba Bush), says he plans to work for his uncle's re-election campaign.

Bush, 27, and Williams, also a University of Texas Law School grad, will both be taking the bar in Texas in the next month, and he says he intends to practice in Texas. She intends to become a litigator.

When asked if his plans include entering politics, Bush said, "My grandmother (Barbara Bush), who I always seek advice from, told me that before you enter politics -- or even think about entering politics -- you should distinguish yourself outside of politics by doing something in the business world or any other world.

"Make a name for yourself, have a family, marry someone great, have some kids, buy a house, pay taxes, and do the things everyone also does instead of just running out and saying, 'Hey, I'm the nephew of or the son of or the grandson of..."

Bush met Williams in a trial advocacy class at the University of Texas Law School. He sat behind her and passed notes during class, asking her if she wanted to play golf with him.

His "most eligible" status and mention as one of PEOPLE's top Bachelors in 2000 didn't bother Williams, he said. "It was hard at first, but she's a very level-headed person so it hasn't really been that much of an issue."

Without revealing wedding plans, Bush told PEOPLE that he and Williams hope to start a family "as soon as possible. I'm very excited to. I want a lot of kids."

I'm sorry...I have no idea who to ask this to, so I thought I would start with you.

1.; Can we (as the White House Press Office) release dubbed tape copies of the President's Campaign events?!?; We always have requests for Presidential events that we release with out hesitation, we just wanted to make sure that we weren't doing anything wrong releasing the Campaign events.

2.; Can we release dubbed tape copies of the President's Presidential events to Partisan organizations?!?; For example, we have RepublicanTV.org requesting some footage of some events.; Is that okay to release to them?!?;

We just want to make sure we aren't mixing in places we shouldn't and doing anything wrong.

I didn't know who to ask in our office so I thought you might!; You are the best, thanks so much!

Ari today on Lawrence:

The Washington Post reports, "during the last presidential campaign, whenever George W. Bush was asked what he would seek in a Supreme Court appointee, the first name he brought up as his ideal was Justice Antonin Scalia." Justice Scalia's dissent in the Lawrence versus Texas sodomy case notes that "every single one of these laws against bigamy, same-sex marriage, adult incest, prostitution, adultery --

Q Question?

Q -- fornication, bestiality and obscenity is called into question by today's decision." And my question is, does the President now think that Justice Scalia is wrong about the Court's overruling a law of the state of which he was governor?

MR. FLEISCHER: No. The President said what he said because he meant it. When he was asked what justices he admires most, he answered that question, and that's because the President meant it.

Q But he did support it.

MR. FLEISCHER: Go ahead, Terry.

Q He did support that law.

MR. FLEISCHER: On this case, the administration did not file a brief because it is not a federal matter. As governor of Texas, the President supported the law in his capacity as governor of Texas, correct.

What kind of gifts are you referring to? If it were a gift for the purpose of influencing the election (e.g., equipment for the campaign headquarters), that obviously would be different. But I thought you were referring to the ordinary kinds of trinkets that he would receive?

We always get political contribution checks and return them with a note explaining that the WH can not accept political contributions. As for the gifts, you mentioned handling gifts given to the President during political events in the same fashion we do all other gifts. This is ok and won't be considered a political contribution?

The President on Fighting Terror

Tuesday, June 1, 2003

"Terrorists that remain can be certain of this: We will hunt them, by day and by night, in every corner of the world, until they are no longer a threat to America and our friends."
--President Bush

Today, President Bush thanked the men and women who chose to re-enlist in the United States Armed Forces, particularly at a time when America is confronting terror. As long as terrorists and their allies plot to harm America, he said, we are at war. He also said:

-Our servicemen and women are answering the highest call of citizenship by reenlisting. They have stood between the American people and the dangers of the world -- and we are grateful.

-In Iraq, coalition forces are engaging remnants of the former regime, as well as members of terrorist groups. We met the major combat objectives in Operation Iraqi Freedom. We ended a regime that possessed weapons of mass destruction, harbored and supported terrorists, suppressed human rights, and defied the just demands of the United Nations and the world.

-We've seen Saddam's mass graves, torture chambers, and the jail cells for children. Now we are moving forward with reconstruction, maintaining order, searching for hidden weapons, and helping Iraqis to establish a representative government.

-The rise of Iraq as an example of moderation, democracy, and prosperity, is a massive and long-term undertaking. The restoration of that country is critical to the defeat of terror and radicalism throughout the Middle East.

-In Iraq, we face challenges such as former Baath Party and security officials, who will stop at nothing to regain their power and privilege. But there will be no return of tyranny in Iraq.

-Terrorist groups seek to spread chaos in Iraq, and to attack American and coalition forces. Among these terrorists are members of Ansar al-Islam, which operated in Iraq before the war, and is now active in the Sunni heartland of the country. We suspect that the remnants of a group tied to al Qaeda associate al-Zarqawi are still in Iraq, waiting for an opportunity to strike. We are also beginning to see foreign fighters enter Iraq.

-Our goal is a swift transition to Iraqi control of their own affairs. The people of Iraq will be secure -- and the people of Iraq will run their own country.

-Some 230,000 Americans are serving in or near Iraq. The United States recognizes that our people in uniform face continuing danger. We appreciate their service under difficult circumstances, and their willingness to fight for American security and Iraqi freedom.

-Of those directly involved in organizing the September the 11th attacks, almost all are now in custody or confirmed dead. Of the senior al Qaeda leaders, operational managers, and key facilitators we have been tracking, 65 percent have been captured or killed.

-Still, we recognize that al Qaeda has trained thousands of foot soldiers in many nations and that new leaders may emerge. We suspect that some al Qaeda deserters will attach themselves to other terrorist groups in order to strike American targets. Terrorists that remain can be certain of this: We will hunt them by day and by night in every corner of the world until they are no longer a threat to America and our friends.

-American and allied forces continue the work of fighting terrorists and establishing order in Afghanistan. When we removed the Taliban from power, surviving al Qaeda members fled from most of that country. However, many terrorists sought sanctuary along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border, and some are still hiding there.

-These al Qaeda and Taliban holdouts have attacked allied bases with unguided rockets, conducted ambushes, and fired upon border posts. In close cooperation with the Afghan and Pakistani governments, America is engaged in operations to find and destroy these terrorists.

-Since the beginning of Operation Enduring Freedom, it is important for our fellow citizens to know that Pakistan has apprehended more than 500 terrorists, including hundreds of members of al Qaeda and the Taliban.

-The people of Afghanistan are moving forward with the reconstruction of their country and the founding of a democratic government. They have selected a President, are building a national army and are now in the final stages of drafting a new constitution.

-Afghanistan still has many challenges, but that country is making progress and its people are a world away from the nightmare they endured under the Taliban. Pakistan and Afghanistan are among many governments that understand the threat of terror and are determined to root it out.

The Conservative Case Against Al Gonzales
by Terence P. Jeffrey
Posted Jan 27, 2003

Presidential aides are floating White House Counsel Al Gonzales as a potential Supreme Court nominee.

But nominating Gonzales could pit President Bush against some of his own supporters in a bitter confirmation battle.

Citing "administration officials," the Washington Post reports that despite "frank opposition among conservative activists" Gonzales "is still very much in the running and might well be nominated-if not first, then eventually."

Many Senate Democrats will oppose any Bush pick. But why would conservatives oppose Gonzales? At first glance, he seems like the perfect nominee.

Gonzales is the President's longtime friend. Bush could make him the first Latino named to the court. Like Clarence Thomas, his life story (son of migrant laborers goes to Harvard Law) evokes the colorblind vision of America conservatives want to promote.

"Conservatives," says the Post, "are concerned about Gonzales's views on affirmative action and abortion."

In truth, the case against Gonzales revolves around one question: Is he a judicial activist?

The answer-Yes!-was delivered by none other than Justice Priscilla Owen, whom Bush has nominated twice for an appeals court seat, and with whom Gonzales served on the Texas Supreme Court.

Owen and Gonzales took opposite stands on Re Jane Doe, which involved Texas's parental notification law.

Jane Doe, 17, came from the sort of household most likely to support Bush. Her parents were church-going pro-lifers, who had just bought her a car and intended to pay her expenses when she attended college.

She did not tell them she planned to abort their grandchild.

The law said a judge could exempt a teenager from telling her parents if:
1) she was "mature and sufficiently well informed to make the decision,"
2) notification would not be in her "best interests," or 3) "notification might lead to physical, sexual or emotional abuse."

Doe sought the "mature and sufficiently well informed" exemption because, as Owen later noted, she "feared that her parents would no longer provide financial assistance to her if they knew she had an abortion."

A judge said Doe had to tell her parents. An appeals court agreed. The Texas Supreme Court said the judge and appeals courts had not erred, but remanded the case for a new trial anyway.

In doing so, the majority wrote a "rule" defining "sufficiently well informed" so that Doe need not be informed at all about the new life within her. She need only consult a health care provider about the risks of abortion (Doe consulted an abortion clinic), understand the alternatives (Doe consulted an abortion clinic) and be aware of abortion's emotional and psychological "aspects" (Doe consulted three friends, her home-economics teacher and an abortion clinic).

Gonzales co-wrote the rule. Owen dissented. Justice David Souter in Planned Parenthood v. Casey, she noted, conceded the state had a legitimate interest in compelling women to comprehend fetal life because, as Casey put it, "most women considering an abortion would deem the impact on the fetus relevant, if not dispositive to the decision."

Doe had a second trial. The judge did not issue a specific finding, but presumably failed her on the "mature" test. The appeals court upheld his ruling.

Less than 48 hours after receiving the trial record, the Texas Supreme Court, in a 5-to-4 decision, sent Doe to get an abortion in 15th week of pregnancy without telling her parents. Gonzales joined the decision. Owen dissented.

Ultimately, the issue was the legitimate power of the state Supreme Court.

"The question in this case is not whether this court would have ruled differently when confronted with all the evidence that the trial court heard," wrote Owen. "The question is whether legally sufficient evidence supports the trial court's judgment. The answer to this later question is yes. Longstanding principles of appellate review and our Texas Constitution do not permit this court to substitute its judgment for that of the trial court and or to ignore the evidence, as it has done."

Gonzales and four colleagues converted the Supreme Court into a trial court, retried a case in which they had not seen the witnesses, and sent a teenager to a secret abortion.

Don't take my word for it. Take Priscilla Owen's. "The court," she said, "has disregarded the law and has trampled the process on which the legitimacy of our law depends."

The Conservative Case Against Al Gonzales

by Terence P. Jeffrey

Posted Jan 27, 2003

Presidential aides are floating White House Counsel Al Gonzales as a potential Supreme Court nominee.

But nominating Gonzales could pit President Bush against some of his own supporters in a bitter confirmation battle.

Citing "administration officials," the Washington Post reports that despite "frank opposition among conservative activists" Gonzales "is still very much in the running and might well be nominated-if not first, then eventually."

Many Senate Democrats will oppose any Bush pick. But why would conservatives oppose Gonzales? At first glance, he seems like the perfect nominee.

Gonzales is the President's longtime friend. Bush could make him the first Latino named to the court. Like Clarence Thomas, his life story (son of migrant laborers goes to Harvard Law) evokes the colorblind vision of America conservatives want to promote.

"Conservatives," says the Post, "are concerned about Gonzales's views on affirmative action and abortion."

In truth, the case against Gonzales revolves around one question: Is he a judicial activist?

The answer-Yes!-was delivered by none other than Justice Priscilla Owen, whom Bush has nominated twice for an appeals court seat, and with whom Gonzales served on the Texas Supreme Court.

Owen and Gonzales took opposite stands on Re Jane Doe, which involved Texas's parental notification law.

Jane Doe, 17, came from the sort of household most likely to support Bush. Her parents were church-going pro-lifers, who had just bought her a car and intended to pay her expenses when she attended college.

She did not tell them she planned to abort their grandchild.

The law said a judge could exempt a teenager from telling her parents if: 1) she was "mature and sufficiently well informed to make the decision," 2) notification would not be in her "best interests," or 3) "notification might lead to physical, sexual or emotional abuse."

Doe sought the "mature and sufficiently well informed" exemption because, as Owen later noted, she "feared that her parents would no longer provide financial assistance to her if they knew she had an abortion."

A judge said Doe had to tell her parents. An appeals court agreed. The Texas Supreme Court said the judge and appeals courts had not erred, but remanded the case for a new trial anyway.

In doing so, the majority wrote a "rule" defining "sufficiently well informed" so that Doe need not be informed at all about the new life within her. She need only consult a health care provider about the risks of abortion (Doe consulted an abortion clinic), understand the alternatives (Doe consulted an abortion clinic) and be aware of abortion's emotional and psychological "aspects" (Doe consulted three friends, her home-economics teacher and an abortion clinic).

Gonzales co-wrote the rule. Owen dissented. Justice David Souter in Planned Parenthood v. Casey, she noted, conceded the state had a legitimate interest in compelling women to comprehend fetal life because, as Casey put it, "most women considering an abortion would deem the impact on the fetus relevant, if not dispositive to the decision."

Doe had a second trial. The judge did not issue a specific finding, but presumably failed her on the "mature" test. The appeals court upheld his ruling.

Less than 48 hours after receiving the trial record, the Texas Supreme Court, in a 5-to-4 decision, sent Doe to get an abortion in 15th week of pregnancy without telling her parents. Gonzales joined the decision. Owen dissented.

Ultimately, the issue was the legitimate power of the state Supreme Court.

"The question in this case is not whether this court would have ruled differently when confronted with all the evidence that the trial court heard," wrote Owen. "The question is whether legally sufficient evidence supports the trial court's judgment. The answer to this later question is yes. Longstanding principles of appellate review and our Texas Constitution do not permit this court to substitute its judgment for that of the trial court and or to ignore the evidence, as it has done."

Gonzales and four colleagues converted the Supreme Court into a trial court, retried a case in which they had not seen the witnesses, and sent a teenager to a secret abortion.

Don't take my word for it. Take Priscilla Owen's. "The court," she said, "has disregarded the law and has trampled the process on which the legitimacy of our law depends."

I appreciate being included in the bullhorn matter.

In all the years that I have been in this line of work, both at NARA and the WHO, I don't recall hearing or reading of any Smithsonian traveling exhibits that were damaged or stolen. I would assume that the Smithsonian is unsurpassed, both in experience and success, in the traveling exhibit field.

However, Mary Ann could very softly include some questions on that matter among many others if she were to meet with the Smithsonian reps.

I would hope that the Smithsonian would have a fairly firm itinerary in place before they would expect the White House to allow the bullhorn to be included in the exhibit. And I believe that it is reasonable to include in the agreement the right to recall the bullhorn for whatever reason.

BYLINE: Lawrence Hurley

BODY:

They won't admit it, but Maryland's two Democratic senators might just be wondering whether their decision to oppose a Bush administration nominee for the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals two years ago was such a good idea.

In 2001, both Sens. Paul S. Sarbanes and Barbara A. Mikulski blocked the nomination of Peter D. Keisler, a Washington lawyer whose residence was in Bethesda, because he was not admitted to the Maryland bar and they did not feel he had a strong track record of leadership here.

The conservative lawyer had been nominated to a seat on the court traditionally held by a Marylander, most recently vacated by the death of Francis D. Murnaghan Jr. in August 2000. As is usual in such circumstances, the senators from the state involved had a major influence on whether or not the nomination succeeded. Keisler (who could not be reached for comment) eventually withdrew his nomination in July of that year when he realized he would not get the support of the Maryland senators, which left him with no chance of making it through the Senate Judiciary Committee, then controlled by the Democrats.

They say a week is a long time in politics; that must make two years an eternity.

Fast forward to the summer of 2003 and Murnaghan's seat is still vacant, but the political map has drastically changed.

Another conservative White House nominee, Claude A. Allen, waits in the wings, eager to take the Murnaghan slot, but this time Sarbanes and Mikulski can do little about it for one simple reason: Allen's from Virginia.

And let's not forget that the Senate Judiciary Committee now happens to be Republican controlled, or that Virginia's senators are both Republicans.

Allen's Senate hearing has not been scheduled yet, although last week Allyson K. Duncan from North Carolina, who would become the first black woman to sit on the court, received an easy ride at her hearing.

Barring a filibuster like the one aimed at preventing Miguel Estrada taking a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit, the Democrats are pretty much out of the loop, although they haven't given up yet.

"There are a number of options," says Sarbanes' spokesman, Jesse Jacobs. "Any one senator can put a hold on nominations."

REV_00124984

Mikulski's reaction is that she is "disturbed" that the White House decided not to follow "the usual and customary procedure in making its nominations" and she hopes that the president will "reconsider" the nomination of Allen.

But there's no real reason Bush can't ignore the traditions of the past if he so chooses, notes William L. Reynolds II, a professor at the University of Maryland School of Law. After all, he is the president. And the present is a very different place from the past.

"In the old days it made sense to have people from different states because there were different legal cultures, but that is far from true today," Reynolds explains. "It's difficult to understand why a person's state of practice should be of much significance."

Reynolds is dismissive of the politics surrounding the nominations process, describing the senators' role as "a way of protecting political turf and preserving a political plum for the bars of that state."

His conclusion is that if Keisler were nominated now, he would probably have face little opposition, and questions whether it is even worth opposing Allen's candidacy.

"If Allen lived in Bethesda and was a member of the Maryland bar, what difference would it make?" he asks.

The Maryland State Bar Association disagrees, and has written a letter to President Bush stating its opinion that "precedent would dictate that another Maryland lawyer be nominated to fill this judicial vacancy."

The organization's stance is not surprising, says Byron L. Warnken, a University of Baltimore School of Law professor, who believes Bush needlessly trampled over the custom of replacing judges with a successor from the same state.

"It's not a constitutional mandate, but it's an important tradition that the states are represented," Warnken says.

Balancing act?

The White House claims that Bush sees things the same way.

Alberto R. Gonzales, counsel to the president, justified the administration's strategy in a letter he sent to senators in April, just before Allen was nominated.

He wrote that it is the president's intention to "nominate well-qualified and well-respected individuals in a manner that will bring the circuit closer to geographical balance."

The letter then outlined that, by tradition, Maryland has two or three judges and currently has two, while Virginia normally has four or five but only has three and North Carolina is due at least four and has none.

By this reasoning, Maryland is some ways down the pecking order.

As far as Warnken is concerned, the White House's actions are just the latest example of how the judicial nominations process has become politicized in recent years.

He points to the Bush administration's "unprecedented" refusal to listen to the advice of the American Bar Association -- "because it's more likely to be liberal than conservative," according to Warnken -- as further evidence.

Despite being sidelined by Bush, Mikulski and Sarbanes both claim to be willing to work with the president in the future (and the feeling is mutual according to the White House).

Mikulski also stresses that she supported the nomination of Richard D. Bennett and circuit court Judge William D. Quarles to the U.S. District Court in Maryland, indicating a willingness to work with "moderate" candidates.

What about Widener?

Meanwhile, the countdown to another 4th Circuit nomination carnival is on the horizon, sparked by 80-year-old Judge H. Emory Widener Jr.'s decision to step down in September.

This prompts an obvious question: As Allen, a Virginian, has been nominated to a Maryland seat, does a Marylander stand a chance of being nominated to replace Widener?

"I'm not going to comment on a seat that's not open yet," says Sarbanes' spokesman Jacobs. "We are focusing on the Murnaghan seat."

MSBA President Harry S. Johnson says it was not something he had considered either.

He explained that the MSBA's role is normally to follow the lead of the senators as "it's their responsibility."

Reynolds wonders whether Gov. Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. might have a role to play.

Although governors do not normally get involved in judicial nominations, Ehrlich's Republican affiliations, his past as a Maryland lawyer, and his Washington contacts could be utilized in this instance, Reynolds believes, but only if the governor feels strongly on the subject.

"Ehrlich must have some political capital in Washington but whether he wants to use it on this is questionable," says Reynolds.

Shareese N. DeLeaver, Ehrlich's spokeswoman, says the governor was "not surprised" by Allen's nomination, but will "continue to recommend highly qualified Maryland candidates" to President Bush.

She adds that "it's not out of the question" that Ehrlich could act as some kind of mediator between the White House and the Maryland senators.

Amidst all the brouhaha, one man is sitting pretty.

Earlier this year Peter Keisler was on the receiving end of another nomination, this time to the position of Assistant Attorney General in the Civil Division of the U.S. Department of Justice.

He was confirmed by the Senate last month.

Enraged Democratic Lefties Are Sabotaging Judicial Nominations
EDITORIAL
TAMPA TRIBUNE

Published: Jul 5, 2003

Some people bet President Bush is chafing at the bit to appoint a Supreme Court justice this year.

Others speculate he would prefer to gamble and wait until after the 2004 election in the hope that he will be returned to office (and so that abortion will not become a campaign issue, which it likely will be regardless).

Democratic presidential candidate and Massachusetts Sen. John Kerry offers a three-word summation of why he thinks Bush must be defeated: the Supreme Court.

One Senator's List Of Values

"I need you to join me in keeping the Supreme Court out of the hands of right-wing ideologues," Kerry writes in a letter seeking the support of members of the political action committee Move-On.

"I am prepared to filibuster, if necessary, any Supreme Court nominee who would turn back the clock on a woman's right to choose, on civil rights and individual liberties, and on the laws protecting workers and the environment."

Indeed, abortion-supporting Democrats, presuming that the president will appoint a pro-life lawyer to the high court, promise to fight any Bush appointment, and some groups have already put advertisements on the airwaves to stir up the party's left-wing base.

Moreover, left-wing ideologues in the Senate, who accuse Bush of filling the judiciary with right-wingers, have prevented confirmation votes on two of the president's nominees, even though both have enough senators supporting them to be confirmed.

In disgust, some GOP senators have hatched a plan to change Senate rules to make it easier to break the Senate filibusters.

The 10 Republicans on the Senate Rules Committee recently passed a resolution to change the rule to provide for a series of votes in which the 60-vote threshold for cloture would gradually decrease until a simple majority would overcome it.

Bill Frist, the Senate majority leader from Tennessee, says he will bring up the resolution for a Senate vote sometime after July 4, but it seems unlikely to pass, since the rule change itself would require 67 votes.

And so some Republicans are talking up the so-called nuclear option: having Vice President Cheney rule from the chair that Senate rules do not allow filibusters for judicial nominees. It would take only 51 votes to impose that ruling.

And it would start a war. The Democrats threaten further unpleasantness, which raises the question of just how much cooperation there really is between the parties now.

The truth is the angry base to which the Senate Democrats are appealing with their filibuster threats consists of voters who believe their party failed in 2000 to stand up to dastardly Republicans who will no doubt do anything to hold on to power.

That base does not want cooperation between the parties, and its ideological representatives in the Senate are controlling the confirmation process.

In the meantime, some Republicans worry that their leaders won't be tough enough, that they will keep backing down to subversive tactics like the judicial filibuster and continue to let the Democrats have their way.

Both parties are walking a fine line, and the senators would do well to remember they are but one election away from reversing roles.

Unjust Treatment Of Estrada And Owen

Judicial selection and the proper role of the Senate in the confirmation process will be a major election issue. It's not yet time to exercise the nuclear option.

But the filibusters of stymied nominees Miguel Estrada and Priscilla Owen are manifestly unfair, and if the Democrats continue along this track with other Bush nominees - most especially a nominee to the Supreme Court - the Republicans will have reason to exercise it.
