The Company believes, based on existing information, that the costs of completing environmental remediation of all sites for which the Company has a remediation responsibility have been adequately reserved, and that the ultimate resolution of these matters will not have a material adverse effect upon the Company's financial condition, results of operations or cash flows.

Product Liability Matters

As a consumer goods manufacturer and distributor, the Company faces the constant risks of product liability and related lawsuits involving claims for substantial money damages, product recall actions and higher than anticipated rates of warranty returns or other returns of goods. These claims could result in liabilities that could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's financial position, results of operations and cash flows. Some of the product lines Sunbeam acquired in the 1998 acquisitions have increased its exposure to product liabilities and related claims.

The Company is party to various personal injury and property damage lawsuits relating to its products and incidental to its business. Annually, the Company sets its product liability insurance program based on the Company's current and historical claims experience and the availability and cost of insurance. The Company's program for 1998 was comprised of a self-insurance retention of $2.5 million per occurrence.

Cumulative amounts estimated to be payable by the Company with respect to pending and potential claims for all years in which the Company is liable under its self-insurance retention have been accrued as liabilities. Such accrued liabilities are necessarily based on estimates taking into account prior experience, numbers of claims and other relevant factors; thus, the Company's ultimate liability may exceed or be less than the amounts accrued. The methods of making such estimates and establishing the resulting liability are reviewed periodically and any adjustments resulting therefrom are reflected in current operating results.

Historically, product liability awards have rarely exceeded the Company's individual per occurrence self-insured retention. There can be no assurance, however, that the Company's future product liability experience will be consistent with its past experience. Based on existing information, the Company believes that the ultimate conclusion of the various pending product liability claims and lawsuits of the Company, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect on the financial position, results of operations or cash flows of the Company.

Commitment Fee

Under the terms of the April 15, 1999 amendment to the New Credit Facility, the Company is obligated to pay a loan commitment fee of between $4.2 million and $17.0 million. The ultimate amount of the fee is determined based on multiplying the sum of the outstanding borrowings and amounts available for borrowings as of April 15, 1999 by a factor that is determined at the earlier of September 30, 2000 or upon repayment of the New Credit Facility. This fee is payable at the earlier of September 30, 2000 or upon repayment of the New Credit Facility. At a minimum, the Company is obligated under these terms to pay $4.2 million. The ultimate amount due could be as high as $17.0 million if the sum of the outstanding borrowings and amounts available for borrowings at September 30, 2000 (the "aggregate availability") exceeds $1.2 billion. If the aggregate availability is between $1.0 billion and $1.2 billion, a fee of $8.4 million will be due. If the aggregate availability is $1.0 billion or less, the $4.2 million minimum will be due. Under any circumstances, the $4.2 million will be due; therefore, the Company will accrue the minimum liability and record an offsetting asset in the second quarter of 1999, which will be amortized and included in interest expense through April 10, 2000, the term of the current amendment extension period.

The Company will not accrue for amounts in excess of the $4.2 million as there are numerous uncertainties which may individually or in the aggregate impact the level of aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. These uncertainties include, but are not limited to: the ability to obtain an amendment or further waiver of existing covenants from the lenders under the New Credit Facility for the period beyond April 10, 2000; proceeds from the sales of assets or businesses, if any; changes in debt structure, including the effects of refinancing, if any; and cash flows generated or used by future operations. Given these uncertainties, the Company is currently not able to predict the probable level of aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. As events develop, the Company will periodically review the expected aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. If it becomes likely that an amount in excess of $4.2 million will be paid, the Company will recognize that change in estimate over the remaining period of the New Credit Facility Amendment.

Leases

The Company rents certain facilities, equipment and retail stores under operating leases. Rental expense for operating leases amounted to $28.1 million in 1998, $7.4 million for 1997 and $8.0 million for 1996. The minimum future rentals due under noncancelable operating leases as of December 31, 1998 aggregated to $167.6 million. The amounts payable in each of the years 1999-2003 and thereafter are $34.6 million, $33.7 million, $17.1 million, $13.5 million, $9.7 million and $59.0 million, respectively.

In connection with a warehouse expansion related to the electric blanket business, the Company entered into a $5 million capital lease obligation in 1996.

Certain Debt Obligations

Responsibility for servicing certain debt obligations of the Company's predecessor were assumed by third parties in connection with the acquisition of former businesses, although the Company's predecessor remained the primary obligor in accordance with the respective loan documents. Such obligations, which amounted to approximately $17.3 million at December 31, 1998, and the corresponding receivables from the third parties, are not included in the Consolidated Balance Sheets since these transactions occurred prior to the issuance of SFAS No. 76, Extinguishment of Debt. Management believes that the third parties will continue to meet their obligations pursuant to the assumption agreements.

Purchase and other Commitments

In conjunction with the sale of the Biddeford, Maine textile mill in 1997, the Company entered into a five-year agreement to purchase blanket shells from the mill. The agreement provides for a minimum purchase commitment each year of the contract. As of December 31, 1998, the Company had remaining minimum commitments under the contract of approximately $104 million.

In connection with Coleman's 1995 purchase of substantially all of the assets of Active Technologies, Inc. ("ATI"), the Company may be required to make payments to the predecessor owner of ATI of up to $18.8 million based on the Company's sales of ATI related products and royalties received by the Company for licensing arrangements related to ATI patents. As of December 31, 1998, the amounts paid under the terms of this agreement have been immaterial.

16. Related Party Transactions

Services Provided by M&F

Pursuant to the settlement agreement with M&F, M&F agreed to make certain executive management personnel available to the Company and to provide certain management assistance to Sunbeam. The Company does not reimburse M&F for such services, other than reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses paid to third parties. (See Note 2.)

Liquidation of Options

The Company expects to acquire the remaining approximately 20% equity interest in Coleman in the second half of 1999. Upon the consummation of the merger transaction, the unexercised options under Coleman's stock option plans will be cashed out at a price per share equal to the difference between $27.50 per share and the exercise price of such options. Ronald O. Perelman, the sole stockholder of M&F, holds 500,000 options for which he will receive a net payment of $6,750,000. Mr. Shapiro and Ms. Clark, executive officers of the Company, hold 77,500 and 25,000 options, respectively, for which they will receive net payments of $823,000 and $275,005, respectively.

Arrangements Between Coleman and M&F

Coleman and an affiliate of M&F are parties to a cross-indemnification agreement pursuant to which Coleman has agreed to indemnify such affiliate, its officers, directors, employees, control persons, agents and representatives against all past, present and future liabilities, including product liability and environmental matters, related to the initial assets of Coleman, which Coleman acquired from such affiliate in December 1991. In addition, pursuant to this cross-indemnification agreement, the M&F affiliate has agreed to indemnify Coleman and its officers, directors, employees, agents and representatives against all other liabilities of such M&F affiliate or any of its subsidiaries, including liabilities relating to the assets it did not transfer to Coleman in December 1991. This cross-indemnification agreement will survive the Coleman merger.

16. Related Party Transactions—(Continued)

Coleman previously was included in the consolidated tax group for the M&F companies and was a party to a tax sharing agreement with a M&F affiliate, pursuant to which Coleman paid to such affiliate the amount of taxes which would have been paid by Coleman if it were required to file separate federal, state or local income tax returns. The tax sharing agreement was terminated upon the acquisition of Coleman; however, the acquisition agreement provides for certain tax indemnities and tax sharing payments among the Company and the M&F affiliates relating to periods prior to the acquisition.

During 1998, the Company sublet office space in New York City from an affiliate of M&F. The expense for such rent during 1998 was approximately $130,000. The lease was terminated in 1999.

During the first, second, third and fourth quarters of fiscal 1997, approximately $0.5 million, $4.5 million, $1.5 million and $21.5 million, respectively, of pre-tax liabilities no longer required were reversed and taken into income. Included in these reserves is the $8.1 million litigation reserve reversal discussed in Note 15. Also, during the third and fourth quarters of fiscal 1997, approximately $5.8 million and $8.8 million, respectively, of restructuring reserves no longer required were reversed and taken into income, as discussed in Note 12. Additionally, during the fourth quarter of fiscal 1997, approximately $13.3 million of tax liabilities related to the 1993 and 1994 tax years were determined to be no longer required and were reversed and taken into income. These accruals were no longer required because during the fourth quarter of 1997 the Company reached a resolution with the Internal Revenue Service on its audits of the 1993 and 1994 tax years.

1. Operations and Basis of Presentation

Organization

Sunbeam Corporation ("Sunbeam" or the "Company") is a leading designer, manufacturer and marketer of branded consumer products. The Company's primary business is the manufacturing, marketing and distribution of durable household and outdoor leisure consumer products through mass market and other distribution channels in the United States and internationally. The Company also sells its products to professional and commercial end users such as small businesses, health care providers, hotels and other institutions. The Company's principal products include household kitchen appliances; health monitoring and care products for home use; scales for consumer and professional use for weight management and business uses; electric blankets and throws; clippers and trimmers for consumer, professional and animal uses; smoke and carbon monoxide detectors; outdoor barbecue grills; camping equipment such as tents, lanterns, sleeping bags and stoves; coolers; backpacks and book bags; and portable generators and compressors.

In 1998 the Company acquired an indirect controlling interest in The Coleman Company, Inc. ("Coleman") and all the outstanding common stock of Signature Brands USA, Inc. ("Signature Brands") and First Alert, Inc. ("First Alert").

Basis of Presentation

The Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet of the Company as of September 30, 1999 and the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Operations and Cash Flows for the nine months ended September 30, 1999 and 1998 are unaudited. The unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles for interim financial information and with the instructions of Form 10-Q and Rule 10-01 of Regulation S-X. The December 31, 1998 Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet was derived from the consolidated financial statements contained in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K/A for the year ended December 31, 1998. The condensed consolidated financial statements contained herein should be read in conjunction with the consolidated financial statements and related notes contained in the Company's 1998 Annual Report on Form 10-K/A. In the opinion of management, the unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements contained herein include all adjustments (consisting of only recurring adjustments) necessary for a fair presentation of the results of operations for the interim periods presented. These interim results of operations are not necessarily indicative of results for the entire year or future periods.

Basic and Diluted Loss per Share of Common Stock

Loss per common share calculations are determined by dividing loss attributable to common shareholders by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding. Loss per share for the nine months ended September 30, 1999 and 1998, is based only on the weighted average number of common shares outstanding, as potential common shares have been excluded as a result of the loss during the periods presented. Loss per share for the nine months ended September 30, 1999 excluded 78,562 shares related to stock options, as their effect would have been anti-dilutive. Stock options to purchase 19,420,292 common shares for the nine months ended September 30, 1999, were excluded from potential common shares as the option exercise prices were greater than the average market price of the Company's common stock during the period. The nine months ended September 30, 1998 loss per share excluded 3,017,516 shares related to stock options, as their effect would have been anti-dilutive. The nine month 1998 period also excluded 63,016 shares related to restricted stock. Stock options to purchase 9,609,033 common shares for the nine months ended September 30, 1998 were excluded from potential common shares as the option exercise prices were greater than the average market price of the Company's common stock during the period. Diluted average common shares outstanding for all periods presented excluded 13,242,050 shares issuable upon the conversion of the Zero Coupon Convertible Senior

Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the "Debentures"). In addition, diluted average common shares outstanding for the period ended September 30, 1999 excluded 23,000,000 shares issuable on the exercise of warrants.

New Accounting Standards

Effective January 1, 1999, the Company adopted Statement of Position 98-1, Accounting for the Costs of Computer Software Developed or Obtained for Internal Use ("SOP 98-1"). SOP 98-1 requires computer software costs associated with internal use software to be expensed as incurred until certain capitalization criteria are met. Adoption of this statement did not have a material impact on the Company's consolidated financial position, results of operations, or cash flows.

In June 1998, the Financial Accounting Standards Board issued Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 133 ("SFAS No. 133"), Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities, which, as amended, is effective for fiscal years beginning after June 15, 2000. SFAS No. 133 requires the recognition of all derivatives in the Consolidated Balance Sheets as either assets or liabilities measured at fair value. The Company has not yet determined the impact SFAS No. 133 will have on its consolidated financial position, results of operations, or cash flows.

Reclassifications

Certain prior year amounts have been reclassified to conform with the 1999 presentation.

2. Acquisitions

On March 30, 1998, the Company, through a wholly-owned subsidiary, acquired approximately 81% of the total number of then outstanding shares of common stock of Coleman from a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings, Inc. ("M&F"), in exchange for 14,099,749 shares of the Company's common stock and approximately $160 million in cash. In addition, the Company assumed approximately $1,016 million in debt. The value of the common stock issued at the date of acquisition was derived by using the average closing stock price as reported on the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE") Composite Tape for the day before and day of the public announcement of the acquisition. Immediately thereafter, as a result of the exercise of employee stock options, Sunbeam's indirect beneficial ownership of Coleman decreased to approximately 79% of the total number of the outstanding shares of Coleman common stock. (See Note 10.)

On August 12, 1998, the Company announced that, following investigation and negotiation conducted by a Special Committee of the Board consisting of four outside directors not affiliated with M&F, the Company had entered into a settlement agreement with a subsidiary of M&F pursuant to which the Company was released from certain threatened claims of M&F and its subsidiaries arising from the Coleman acquisition and M&F agreed to provide certain management personnel and assistance to the Company in exchange for the issuance to the M&F subsidiary of a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase up to 23 million shares of the Company's common stock at a cash exercise price of $7.00 per share, subject to anti-dilution adjustments. The Company concluded that the agreement to issue this warrant did not result in a new measurement date for the purposes of determining the purchase price for Coleman and has accounted for the issuance of this warrant in the third quarter of 1998 as a cost of settling a potential claim. Accordingly, a $70.0 million non-cash SG&A expense was recorded in the third quarter of 1998, based upon a valuation performed as of August 1998 using facts existing at that time. The valuation was conducted by an independent consultant engaged by the special committee of the board of directors.

The Company expects to acquire the remaining equity interest in Coleman pursuant to a merger transaction in which the existing Coleman minority shareholders will receive 0.5677 of a share of the Company's common stock and $6.44 in cash for each share of Coleman common stock outstanding. In addition, unexercised options

under Coleman's stock option plans will be cashed out at a price per share equal to the difference between $27.50 and the exercise price of such options. The Company expects to issue approximately 6.7 million shares of common stock and expend approximately $87 million in cash to complete the Coleman acquisition. Although there can be no assurance, it is anticipated the Coleman merger will occur in the fourth quarter of 1999 or early in the first quarter of 2000. The acquisition of the remaining outstanding shares of Coleman common stock will be accounted for under the purchase method of accounting from the date of consummation of the Coleman merger.

On October 21, 1998, the Company announced that it had entered into a Memorandum of Understanding to settle class action claims made by minority shareholders of Coleman relating to the Coleman merger. Under the terms of the settlement, the Company will issue to the Coleman public shareholders, and plaintiff's counsel in this action, warrants to purchase up to 4.98 million shares of the Company's common stock at a cash exercise price of $7.00 per share, subject to certain anti-dilution provisions. These warrants would generally have the same terms as the warrants issued to a subsidiary of M&F and will be issued when the Coleman merger is consummated. Issuance of these warrants will be accounted for as additional purchase consideration. As a consequence of entering into the Memorandum of Understanding and agreeing to issue additional consideration in the form of warrants to purchase Sunbeam common stock, a new measurement date was established for the remaining equity interest in Coleman. The total consideration to be paid (cash, Sunbeam common stock and Sunbeam warrants) to the Coleman shareholders will therefore be measured as of October 21, 1998.

On April 6, 1998, the Company completed the acquisitions of First Alert, valued at approximately $182 million (including $133 million of cash and $49 million of assumed debt) and Signature Brands, valued at approximately $255 million (reflecting cash paid, including the required retirement of defeasance of debt).

As of the date of the acquisition of Coleman, management of the Company determined approximately 117 employees of Coleman would need to be involuntarily terminated in order to eliminate duplicate activities and functions and fully integrate Coleman into Sunbeam's operations. The Company recognized a liability of approximately $8 million representing severance and benefit costs related to 117 employees pursuant to the termination plan. This liability was included in the allocation of purchase price. As of September 30, 1999, 113 employees were terminated and paid benefits of approximately $7 million. The four remaining employees are expected to be terminated by March 31, 2000. Remaining termination costs are expected to be paid by December 31, 2000 and no additional charges are anticipated in future periods related to this issue.

All of these acquisitions were accounted for by the purchase method of accounting. Accordingly, the results of operations of the acquired entities are included in the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Statements of Operations from their respective dates of acquisition.

The following pro forma financial information for the Company gives effect to the Coleman and Signature Brands acquisitions as if they had occurred at the beginning of the period presented. No pro forma adjustments have been made for the First Alert acquisition as its effects are not significant. These pro forma results have been prepared for informational purposes only and do not purport to be indicative of the results of operations which actually would have occurred had the acquisitions been consummated on the date indicated, or which may result in the future. The pro forma results follow (in millions, except per share data):

3. Debt

In order to finance the acquisitions described in Note 2 and to refinance substantially all of the indebtedness of the Company and the acquired companies, the Company consummated an offering of the Debentures at a yield to maturity of 5.0% (approximately $2,014 million principal amount at maturity) in March 1998, which resulted in approximately $730 million of net proceeds and entered into a revolving and term credit facility ("New Credit Facility").

The Debentures are exchangeable for shares of the Company's common stock at an initial conversion rate of 6.575 shares for each $1,000 principal amount at maturity of the Debentures, subject to adjustment upon occurrence of specified events. The Debentures are subordinated in right of payment to all existing and future senior indebtedness of the Company. The Debentures are not redeemable by the Company prior to March 25, 2003. On or after such date, the Debentures are redeemable for cash with at least 30 days' notice, at the option of the Company. The Company is required to purchase Debentures at the option of the holder as of March 25, 2003, March 25, 2008 and March 25, 2013, at purchase prices equal to the issue price plus accrued original discount to such dates. The Company may, at its option, elect to pay any such purchase price in cash or common stock, or any combination thereof. However, the New Credit Facility prohibits the Company from redeeming or repurchasing Debentures for cash. The Company was required to file a registration statement with the SEC to register the Debentures by June 23, 1998. This registration statement was filed on February 4, 1999 and, as amended, was declared effective on November 8, 1999. The Company's failure to file the registration statement by June 23, 1998 did not constitute default under the terms of the Debentures. From June 23, 1998 until the registration statement was declared effective, the Company was required to pay to the Debenture holders cash liquidated damages accruing, for each day during such period, at a rate per annum equal to 0.25% during the first 90 days and 0.50% thereafter multiplied by the total of the issue price of the Debentures plus the original issue discount thereon on such day. The Company has made total payments for liquidated damages since June 23, 1998 of $4.5 million, of which $1.5 million related to damages for the period through December 31, 1998. A final payment of approximately $0.5 million, representing liquidated damages from September 26, 1999 until the registration statement was declared effective, will be payable on March 25, 2000.

Concurrent with the acquisitions, the Company replaced its $250 million syndicated unsecured five-year revolving credit facility with the New Credit Facility. The New Credit Facility provided for aggregate borrowings of up to $1.7 billion and in addition to other customary covenants, required the Company to maintain specified consolidated leverage, interest coverage and fixed charge coverage ratios as of the end of each fiscal quarter occurring after March 31, 1998 and on or prior to the latest stated maturity date for any of the borrowings under the New Credit Facility.

As a result of, among other things, its operating losses incurred during the first half of 1998, the Company did not achieve the specified financial ratios for June 30, 1998 and it appeared unlikely that the Company would achieve the specified financial ratios for September 30, 1998. Consequently, the Company and its lenders entered into an agreement dated as of June 30, 1998 that waived through December 31, 1998 all defaults arising from the failure of the Company to satisfy the specified financial ratios for June 30, 1998 and September 30, 1998. Pursuant to an agreement with the Company dated as of October 19, 1998, the Company's lenders extended all of the waivers under the June 30, 1998 agreement through April 10, 1999 and also waived through such date all defaults arising from any failure by the Company to satisfy the specified financial ratios for December 31, 1998. As part of the October 19, 1998 agreement, the Company agreed to a minimum monthly earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization ("EBITDA") covenant (as defined in the New Credit Facility) which covenant the Company has been able to satisfy.

On April 10, 1999, among other things, the lenders extended all of the waivers set forth in the October 19, 1998 agreement through April 15, 1999. On April 15, 1999, the Company and its lenders entered into a comprehensive amendment to the New Credit Facility that, among other things, extended all of the waivers under the April 10, 1999 agreement until April 10, 2000 and waived until such date all defaults arising from any failure by the Company to satisfy the specified financial ratios for any fiscal quarter end occurring during 1999 and for March 31, 2000. The Company intends to negotiate with its lenders an amendment to the New Credit Facility, or to negotiate further waiver of such covenants and other terms beyond April 10, 2000, or to refinance the New Credit Facility. There can be no assurance that an amendment, further waiver of existing covenants and other terms, or refinancing will be entered into by April 10, 2000. The failure to obtain such an amendment, further waiver or debt refinancing would likely result in violation of the existing covenants and compliance with other terms, which would permit the bank lenders to accelerate the maturity of all outstanding borrowings under the New Credit Facility and could otherwise have a material adverse effect on the Company. Accordingly, debt related to the New Credit Facility and all debt containing cross-default provisions is classified as current in the September 30, 1999 Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet.

As part of the April 15, 1999 New Credit Facility amendment, the Company agreed to a minimum cumulative EBITDA covenant that is based on post-December 31, 1998 consolidated EBITDA and is tested at the end of each month occurring on or prior to March 31, 2000, as well as a covenant limiting the amount of revolving loans (other than those used to fund the Coleman merger) that may be outstanding under the New Credit Facility as of the end of each such month. The minimum cumulative EBITDA was initially $6.3 million for the period January 1, 1999 through April 30, 1999 and generally grows on a monthly basis until it reaches $121.0 million for the period from January 1, 1999 through March 31, 2000.

The New Credit Facility provides for aggregate borrowings of up to $1.7 billion through: (i) a revolving credit facility in an aggregate principal amount of up to $400.0 million maturing March 30, 2005 ($52.5 million of which may only be used to complete the Coleman merger); (ii) up to $800.0 million in term loans maturing on March 30, 2005 (of which $35.0 million may only be used to complete the Coleman merger); and (iii) a $500.0 million term loan maturing September 30, 2006 (of which $5.0 million has already been repaid through September 30, 1999). As of September 30, 1999, approximately $1.5 billion was outstanding and approximately $0.2 billion was available for borrowing under the New Credit Facility.

Under the New Credit Facility, interest accrues, at the Company's option: (i) at the London Interbank Offered Rate ("LIBOR"); or (ii) at the base rate of the administrative agent which is generally the higher of the prime commercial lending rate of the administrative agent or the Federal Funds Rate plus 0.50%; in each case plus an interest margin which is currently 4.00% for LIBOR loans and 2.50% for base rate loans. The current interest rates reflect an increase of 0.25% for LIBOR loans and base rate loans which occurred on September 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date and an increase of 0.50% for LIBOR loans and 0.25% for base rate loans which occurred on October 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date. The interest margin is subject to potential decreases in the future, including a decrease to 3.00% for LIBOR loans and 1.75% for base rate loans upon consummation of the Coleman merger and the effectiveness of the pledge of substantially all of Coleman's and its domestic subsidiaries' assets to secure the obligations under the New Credit Facility. Borrowings under the New Credit Facility are secured by a pledge of the stock of the Company's material subsidiaries, including Coleman, and by a security interest in substantially all of the assets of the Company and its material domestic subsidiaries, other than Coleman and its material subsidiaries except as described below. Currently, Coleman's inventory and related assets are pledged to secure its obligations for letters of credit issued for its account under the New Credit Facility. Additionally, as security for Coleman's note payable to the Company, Coleman pledged substantially all of its domestic assets, other than real property, including 66% of the stock of its direct foreign subsidiaries and domestic holding companies for its foreign subsidiaries, and all of the stock of its other direct domestic subsidiaries (but not the assets of Coleman's subsidiaries). The pledge runs in favor of the Company's lending banks, to which the Coleman note has been pledged as security for the Company's obligations to them. Upon completion of the Coleman merger, substantially all of Coleman's assets and the assets of Coleman's domestic subsidiaries will be pledged to secure the obligations under the New Credit Facility. In addition, borrowings under the New Credit Facility are guaranteed by a number of the Company's wholly-owned material domestic subsidiaries and these subsidiary guarantees are secured as described above. Upon completion of the Coleman merger, Coleman and each of its United States subsidiaries will become guarantors of the obligations under the New Credit Facility. To the extent extensions of credit are made to any subsidiaries of the Company, the obligations of such subsidiaries are guaranteed by the Company.

In addition to the above described ratios and tests, the New Credit Facility contains covenants customary for credit facilities of a similar nature, including limitations on the ability of the Company and its subsidiaries, including Coleman, to, among other things, (i) declare dividends or repurchase stock, (ii) prepay, redeem or repurchase debt, incur liens and engage in sale-leaseback transactions, (iii) make loans and investments, (iv) incur additional debt, including revolving loans under the New Credit Facility, (v) amend or otherwise alter material agreements or enter into restrictive agreements, (vi) make capital and year 2000 compliance expenditures, (vii) engage in mergers, acquisitions and asset sales, (viii) engage in certain transactions with affiliates, (ix) settle certain litigation, (x) alter its cash management system and (xi) alter the businesses they conduct. The Company is also required to comply with specified financial covenants and ratios. The New Credit Facility provides for events of default customary for transactions of this type, including nonpayment, misrepresentation, breach of covenant, cross-defaults, bankruptcy, material adverse change arising from compliance with ERISA, material adverse judgments, entering into guarantees and change of ownership and control. It is also an event of default under the New Credit Facility, as amended November 16, 1999, if the Company's registration statement in connection with the Coleman merger is not declared effective by the SEC on or before January 10, 2000, or if the merger does not occur within 25 business days of the effectiveness of the registration statement or if the cash consideration (including any payments on account of the exercise of any appraisal rights, but excluding related legal, accounting and other customary fees and expenses) to consummate the Coleman merger exceeds $87.5 million. Although there can be no assurance, the Company anticipates that it will satisfy these conditions. Furthermore, the New Credit Facility requires the Company to prepay term loans on December 31, 1999 to the extent that cash on hand in the Company's concentration accounts plus the aggregate amount of unused revolving loan commitments on this date exceeds $125 million, but the Company is not required to prepay more than $69.3 million as a result of the provision. Unless waived by the bank lenders, the failure to satisfy any of the financial ratios and tests contained in the New Credit Facility or the occurrence of any other event of default under the New Credit Facility would entitle the bank lenders to (a) receive a 2.00% increase in the interest rate applicable to outstanding loans and increase the trade letter of credit fees to 1.00% and (b) accelerate the maturity of the outstanding borrowings under the New Credit Facility and exercise all or any of their other rights and remedies. Any such acceleration or other exercise rights and remedies would likely have a material adverse effect on the Company. The New Credit Facility also includes provisions for the deferral of the September 30, 1999 and the March 31, 2000 scheduled term loan payments of $69.3 million each until April 10, 2000 as a result of the satisfaction by the Company of the agreed upon conditions to the deferral.

In March 1998, the Company prepaid a $75.0 million 7.85% industrial revenue bond related to its Hattiesburg facility originally due in 2009. In connection with the early extinguishment of this debt, the Company recognized an extraordinary charge in the first quarter of 1998. As a result of repayment of certain indebtedness assumed in the Coleman acquisition, the Company also recognized an extraordinary charge in the second quarter of 1998. The debt assumed in connection with the Coleman acquisition was repaid as a result of the requirements under the terms of the New Credit Facility. These extraordinary charges consisted of redemption premiums ($106.9 million), unamortized debt discount ($13.8 million) and unamortized deferred financing costs ($1.7 million) and were net of an income tax benefit ($10.7 million).

In connection with the acquisition of Signature Brands, the Company was required to defease $70.0 million of acquired debt. Cash was placed with a trustee to provide for the defeasance, including the related prepayment penalty. This cash was used to purchase Treasury Notes. Accordingly, $74.4 million of restricted investments held by the trustee for the August 1999 liquidation of this acquired debt are reflected as an asset at December 31, 1998. The prepayment penalty is reflected as part of the acquisition price of Signature Brands. This debt was redeemed in August 1999 utilizing the proceeds from investments restricted for this purpose.

4. Accounts Receivable Securitization

The Company has entered into a receivables securitization program that expires in March 2000. The Company has received $228.4 million and $130.6 million in the first nine months of each 1999 and 1998, respectively, for the sale of trade accounts receivable. Trade accounts receivable at September 30, 1999 and 1998 reflect a reduction of $36.9 million and $10.5 million, respectively, for receivables sold under this program. Costs of the program, which primarily consist of the purchaser's financing cost of issuing commercial paper backed by the receivables, totaled $1.7 million and $1.9 million in the first nine months of 1999 and 1998, respectively, and have been classified as interest expense in the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Statements of Operations. The Company, through a wholly-owned subsidiary, retains collection and administrative responsibilities for the purchased receivables. This agreement contains cross-default provisions that provide the purchaser of the receivables an option to cease purchasing receivables from the Company if the Company is in default under the New Credit Facility.

7. Asset Impairment and Other Charges

In the second quarter of 1998, decisions were made to outsource or discontinue a substantial number of products previously made by the Company (principally breadmakers, toasters and certain other appliances, air and water filtration products and the elimination of certain stock keeping units ("SKU's")) within existing product lines, primarily relating to appliances, grills and grill accessories). As a result, certain facilities and equipment would either no longer be used or would be utilized in a significantly different manner. Accordingly, a charge of $29.6 million was recorded in Cost of Goods Sold to write certain of these assets down to their estimated fair market value. Approximately 80% of this charge related to machinery, equipment and tooling at the Company's Mexico City, Mexico and Hattiesburg, Mississippi manufacturing plants, the estimated fair value for which was derived through an auction process. The remainder of this charge related to tooling and equipment at various other facilities, which either had a nominal value or the fair market value of which was derived through an auction process. These assets were taken out of service at the time of the write-down and consequently were not depreciated further after the write-down. The net carrying value of these assets after the write-down approximated $2.2 million and these assets are expected to be substantially disposed of by December 31, 1999. Depreciation expense associated with these assets approximated $2.6 million in the first half of 1998.

Personnel at the Mexico City facility were notified in the second quarter of 1998 that the plant was scheduled for closure at year-end 1998, accordingly, at that time, a liability of $1.8 million was recorded in Cost of Goods Sold primarily for employee severance. The employee severance related to approximately 1,200 positions of which 100 employees, representing a $0.4 million severance obligation, remained to be terminated at December 31, 1998. Substantially all of these remaining positions had been eliminated and the severance payments had been made as of June 30, 1999. Subsequent to the decisions made in conjunction with the acquisitions, management decided to discontinue certain SKU's within product lines (principally generators, compressors and propane cylinders). As a result, in the third quarter of 1998, the Company recorded as Cost of Goods Sold, an additional provision for impairment of fixed assets of $3.1 million in an acquired entity, relating to assets taken out of service for which there was no remaining value. These fixed assets were taken out of service at the time of the write-down and consequently were not depreciated further after the write-down. Depreciation expense associated with these assets approximated $0.8 million in 1998.

(Unaudited)

7. Asset Impairment and Other Charges—(Continued)

During 1997 and the first half of 1998, the Company built inventories in anticipation of 1998 sales volumes which did not materialize. As a result, it has been and will continue to be necessary to dispose of some portions of excess inventories at amounts less than cost. Accordingly, during 1998, when the facts and circumstances were known that such sales volume would not materialize, the Company recorded $48.6 million in charges (of which $46.4 million and $2.2 million were recorded in the second and third quarters, respectively) to properly state this inventory at the lower-of-cost-or-market. This inventory primarily related to certain appliances, grills and grill accessories.

The Company also recorded a charge during the second quarter of 1998 of $11.0 million for excess inventories for raw material and work in process that will not be used due to outsourcing the production of breadmakers, toasters, and certain other appliances. In addition, during the second quarter of 1998, the Company made the decision to exit certain product lines, primarily air and water filtration products and eliminate certain SKU's within existing product lines, primarily relating to appliances, grills and grill accessories. As a result of this decision, a $26.6 million charge was recorded during the second quarter to properly state this inventory at the lower-of-cost-or-market. Total charges for excess inventory recorded at the lower-of-cost-or-market, based upon management's best estimate of net realizable value, amounted to $86.2 million through September 30, 1998.

In the fourth quarter of 1998, in connection with management's decision to outsource the production of certain appliances (principally irons) the Company recorded $0.4 million of severance costs related to the elimination of approximately 45 production positions. During the nine months ended September 30, 1999, 8 positions were eliminated and $0.1 million of the severance was paid. The remaining positions are expected to be eliminated by December 31, 1999.

At December 31, 1998, the Company had $1.7 million of restructuring accruals relating to its 1996 restructuring plan. This $1.7 million was comprised of $1.2 million relating to lease payments and termination fees and $0.5 million relating to discontinued operations. During the nine months ended September 30, 1999, the Company expended $0.2 million for lease payments and termination fees and $0.4 million relating to discontinued operations, respectively. It is anticipated that the remaining restructuring accrual of $1.1 million ($1.0 million relating to lease payments and termination fees and $0.1 million relating to discontinued operations) will be paid through 2006.

8. Shareholders' Equity

Compensatory Stock Grants

On February 20, 1998, the Company entered into new three-year employment agreements with its then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other senior officers of the Company (the "February 1998 Employment Agreements"). These agreements replaced previous employment agreements entered into in July 1996 that were scheduled to expire in July 1999. The new employment agreements provided for, among other items, the acceleration of vesting of restricted stock and the forfeiture of unvested restricted stock that had been granted under the July 1996 agreement, new restricted stock grants and options to purchase the Company's common stock. In addition, the new employment agreements provided for income tax gross-ups with respect to any tax assessed on the restricted stock grants and acceleration of vesting of restricted stock.

Compensation expense attributed to the equity grant, the acceleration of vesting of restricted stock and the related income tax gross-ups was recognized in the first quarter of 1998 and compensation expense related to the new restricted stock grants and related tax gross-ups was amortized to expense beginning in the first quarter of 1998 with amortization to continue over the period in which the restrictions lapse. Total compensation expense recognized in the first quarter of 1998 related to these items was approximately $31 million.

On June 15, 1998, the Company's Board of Directors announced the removal of the then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and subsequently announced the removal or resignation of other senior officers, including the Company's then Chief Financial Officer. The Company and certain of its former officers are in litigation as to the Company's obligations to these individuals under prior agreements and arising from their termination. (See Note 10).

Purchase of Coleman Preferred Stock

On July 12, 1999, the Company acquired 3,000,000 shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $31 million. These shares, together with the shares of Coleman common stock the Company owns, enable Sunbeam to exercise 80.01% of the total voting power of Coleman's outstanding capital stock as of July 12, 1999. This class of preferred stock was created by Coleman and acquired by the Company in order to enable Coleman and the Company to file consolidated federal income tax returns, and in certain jurisdictions, consolidated state income tax returns, prior to the consummation of the Coleman merger. The issue price per share of the voting preferred stock was equal to 110% of the average closing price per share of common stock of Coleman over the five trading days prior to the date of issuance of the voting preferred stock. Except as required by law, the holders of the voting preferred stock vote as a single class with the holders of the Coleman common stock on all matters submitted to a vote of the holders of Coleman common stock, with each share of voting preferred stock and each share of Coleman common stock having one vote. The voting preferred stock has an annual dividend equal to 7% of $10.35 per share, the issue price per share of the voting preferred stock, which accrues but will not be paid in cash unless a liquidation of Coleman occurs or certain transactions are consummated as described below. In addition, the voting preferred stock will participate ratably with the Coleman common stock in all other dividends and distributions (other than liquidating distributions) made by Coleman to the holders of its common stock. The voting preferred stock will participate with the Coleman common stock in any merger, consolidation, or any other transaction (other than a merger of a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company with Coleman, including the Coleman merger) and will receive on a per share basis the same type and amount of consideration as the Coleman common stock. On liquidations of Coleman: (1) the holders of the voting preferred stock would receive a preferential distribution equal to $10.35 per share, plus accrued and unpaid dividends, (2) next, the holders of the Coleman common stock would receive an amount equal to $10.35 per share of Coleman common stock and (3) any assets remaining after such distributions would be shared by the holders of voting preferred stock and the Coleman common stock on a share for share basis. In connection with the issuance of the shares of preferred stock, Coleman entered into a tax sharing agreement with the Company pursuant to which Coleman will pay to Sunbeam amounts equal to the federal and state income taxes that would have been payable by Coleman had Coleman not been included in the consolidated income tax return of the Company. The terms of the voting preferred stock, their issue price and the terms of the tax sharing agreement were approved on Coleman's behalf by Coleman's then sole independent director. The net proceeds from the issuance of the shares by Coleman of its voting preferred stock to the Company were used by Coleman to make a partial repayment of loans outstanding from Sunbeam under the Intercompany Note.

Litigation

On April 23, 1998, two class action lawsuits were filed on behalf of purchasers of the Company's common stock in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against the Company and some of its present and former directors and former officers alleging violations of the federal securities laws as discussed below. After that date, approximately fifteen similar class actions were filed in the same Court. One of the lawsuits also named as defendant Arthur Andersen, the Company's independent accountants for the period covered by the lawsuit.

On June 16, 1998, the court entered an order consolidating all these suits and all similar class actions subsequently filed (collectively, the "Consolidated Federal Actions") and providing time periods for the filing of a consolidated amended complaint and defendants' response thereto. On June 22, 1998, two groups of plaintiffs made motions to be appointed lead plaintiffs and to have their selection of counsel approved as lead counsel. On July 20, 1998, the court entered an order appointing lead plaintiffs and lead counsel. This order also stated that it shall apply to all subsequently filed actions that are consolidated with the other actions. On August 28, 1998, plaintiffs in one of the subsequently filed actions filed an objection to having their action consolidated pursuant to the June 16, 1998 order, arguing that the class period in their action differs from the class periods in the originally filed consolidated actions. On December 9, 1998, the court entered an order overruling plaintiffs' objections and affirming its prior order appointing lead plaintiffs and lead counsel.

On January 6, 1999, plaintiffs filed a consolidated amended class action complaint against the Company, some of its present and former directors and former officers, and Arthur Andersen. The consolidated amended class action complaint alleges that, in violation of section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and SEC Rule 10b-5, defendants made material misrepresentations and omissions regarding the Company's business operations, future prospects and anticipated earnings per share, in an effort to artificially inflate the price of the Company's common stock and call options, and that, in violation of section 20(a) of the Exchange Act, the individual defendants exercised influence and control over the Company, causing the Company to make material misrepresentations and omissions. The consolidated amended complaint seeks an unspecified award of money damages. On February 5, 1999, plaintiffs moved for an order certifying a class consisting of all persons and entities who purchased the Company's common stock or who purchased call options or sold put options with respect to the Company's common stock during the period April 23, 1997 through June 30, 1998, excluding the defendants, their affiliates, and employees of the Company. Defendants' response to the motion for class certification was filed on May 6, 1999. On March 8, 1999, all defendants who had been served with the consolidated amended class action complaint moved to dismiss it. Under the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, all discovery in the consolidated action is stayed pending resolution of the motions to dismiss.

On April 7, 1998, a purported derivative action was filed in the Circuit Court for the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County, Florida against the Company and some of its present and former directors and former officers. The action alleged that the individual defendants breached their fiduciary duties and wasted corporate assets when the Company granted stock options on or about February 2, 1998 at an exercise price of $36.85 to three of its officers and directors who were subsequently terminated by the Company. On June 25, 1998, all defendants filed a motion to dismiss the complaint for failure to make a pre-suit demand on the Company's board of directors. On October 22, 1998, the plaintiff amended the complaint against all but one of the defendants named in the original complaint. On February 19, 1999, plaintiffs filed a second amended derivative complaint nominally on behalf of the Company against some of its present and former directors and former officers and Arthur Andersen. The second amended complaint alleges, among other things, that Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh, the Company's former Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and former Chief Financial Officer, respectively, caused the Company to employ fraudulent accounting procedures in order to enable them to secure new employment contracts, and seeks a declaration that the individual defendants have violated fiduciary duties, an injunction against the payment of compensation to Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh or the imposition of a constructive trust on such payments, and unspecified money damages. The defendants have each moved to dismiss the second amended complaint in whole or in part.

On June 25, 1998, four purported class actions were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County by minority shareholders of Coleman against Coleman, the Company and certain of the Company's and Coleman's present and former officers and directors. An additional class action was filed on August 10, 1998 against the same parties. The complaints in these class actions allege, in essence, that the existing exchange ratio for the proposed Coleman merger is no longer fair to Coleman minority shareholders as a result of the decline in the market value of the Company's common stock. On October 21, 1998, the Company announced that it had entered into a memorandum of understanding to settle, subject to court approval, the class actions. The court approved the settlement on November 12, 1999. Under the terms of the settlement, the Company will issue to Coleman minority shareholders and plaintiffs' counsel in this action warrants to purchase up to approximately 4.98 million shares of the Company's common stock at $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution adjustments. Coleman minority shareholders who elect an appraisal under Delaware law will not receive warrants. These warrants will generally have the same terms as the warrant issued to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary and will be issued when the Coleman merger is consummated, which is now expected to occur in the fourth quarter of 1999 or early in the first quarter of 2000. Issuance of the warrants will be accounted for as additional purchase consideration.

During the months of August and October 1998, purported class action and derivative lawsuits were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County and in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida by shareholders of the Company against the Company, MacAndrews & Forbes and some of the Company's present and former directors. These complaints allege that the defendants breached their fiduciary duties when the Company entered into a settlement agreement with the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary that sold the Company a controlling interest in Coleman. In the settlement agreement the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary released the Company from threatened claims arising out of the Company's acquisition of its interest in Coleman, and MacAndrews & Forbes agreed to provide management support to the Company. Under the settlement agreement, the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary was granted a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase up to an additional 23 million shares of the Company's common stock at an exercise price of $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution provisions. The plaintiffs have requested an injunction against the issuance of stock to MacAndrews & Forbes upon the exercise of its warrant and unspecified money damages. These complaints also allege that the rights of the minority shareholders have been compromised, as the settlement would normally require shareholder approval under the rules and regulations of the NYSE. The audit committee of the Company's board of directors determined that obtaining such shareholder approval would have seriously jeopardized the financial viability of the Company which is an allowable exception to the NYSE shareholder approval requirements. By order of the Delaware Court of Chancery dated January 7, 1999, the derivative actions filed in that court were consolidated, and the Company and the other defendants have moved to dismiss these actions. The action filed in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida has been dismissed.

On September 16, 1998, an action was filed in the 56th Judicial District Court of Galveston County, Texas alleging various claims in violation of the Texas Securities Act and Texas Business and Commercial Code as well as common law fraud as a result of the Company's alleged misstatements and omissions regarding the Company's financial condition and prospects during a period beginning May 1, 1998 and ending June 16, 1998, in which the U.S. National Bank of Galveston, Kempner Capital Management, Inc. and Legacy Trust Company engaged in transactions in the Company's common stock on their own behalf and on behalf of their respective clients. The Company is the only named defendant in this action. The complaint requests recovery of compensatory damages, punitive damages and expenses in an unspecified amount. This action was removed to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas and subsequently transferred to the Southern District of Florida and consolidated with the Consolidated Federal Actions. Plaintiffs in this action have objected to the consolidation and have sought reconsideration by the Southern District of Florida of the order of the Southern District of Texas denying plaintiffs' motion to remand the case to state court and transferring it to Florida. A similar suit was brought by the same group of plaintiffs in the above action against Arthur Andersen. In that action, the plaintiffs allege that Arthur Andersen violated the Texas Securities Act, committed statutory and common law fraud and was negligent in its audits of the Company's 1996 and 1997 financial statements. On September 29, 1999, Arthur Andersen filed a motion for leave to join the Company and certain of its former officers as responsible third parties and contribution defendants. Their motion was denied.

On October 30, 1998, a class action lawsuit was filed on behalf of certain purchasers of the Debentures in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against the Company and some of the Company's former officers and directors, alleging violations of the federal securities laws and common law fraud. The complaint alleges that the Company's offering memorandum used for the marketing of the Debentures contained false and misleading information regarding the Company's financial position and that the defendants engaged in a plan to inflate the Company's earnings for the purpose of defrauding the plaintiffs and others. The plaintiffs seek a declaration that defendants violated federal securities laws and either unspecified monetary damages or rescission of their purchase of the Debentures. The parties have negotiated a proposed coordination plan in order to coordinate proceedings in this action with those in the Consolidated Federal Actions.

The Company has been named as a defendant in an action filed in the District Court of Tarrant County, Texas, 48th Judicial District, on November 20, 1998. The Company was served in this action through the Secretary of State of Texas on January 15, 1999. The plaintiffs in this action are purchasers of the Debentures. The plaintiffs allege that the Company violated the Texas Securities Act and the Texas Business & Commercial Code and committed state common law fraud by materially misstating the financial position of the Company in connection with the offering and sale of the Debentures. The complaint seeks rescission, as well as compensatory and exemplary damages in an unspecified amount. The Company specially appeared to assert an objection to the Texas court's exercise of personal jurisdiction over the Company, and a hearing on this objection took place on April 15, 1999. On April 23, 1999, the court entered an order granting the Company's special appearance and dismissing the case without prejudice. The plaintiffs moved for reconsideration of the court order, which motion the court denied on May 24, 1999. The plaintiffs have appealed to the Texas Court of Appeals the order dismissing the case and that appeal is pending.

On April 12, 1999, a class action lawsuit was filed in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida. The lawsuit was filed on behalf of persons who purchased Debentures during the period of March 20, 1998 through June 30, 1998, inclusive, but after the initial offering of such Debentures. The complaint asserts that the Company made material omissions and misrepresentations that had the effect of inflating the market price of the Debentures. The complaint names as defendants the Company, its former auditor, Arthur Andersen, and two former Company officers, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh. The plaintiff is an institution which allegedly acquired in excess of $150,000,000 face amount of the Debentures and now seeks unspecified money damages. The Company was served on April 16, 1999 in connection with this pending lawsuit. The Company has requested that this action be coordinated with the Consolidated Federal Actions.

On February 9, 1999, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh filed with the American Arbitration Association demands for arbitration of claims under their respective employment agreements with the Company. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh are requesting a finding by the arbitrators that the Company terminated their employment without cause and that they should be awarded certain benefits based upon their respective employment agreements. On March 12, 1999, the Company asked the Circuit Court for the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County,

Florida to issue an injunction prohibiting Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh from pursuing their arbitration proceedings against the Company on the grounds, among others, that the simultaneous litigation of the action filed in that court on April 7, 1998, described above, and the arbitration proceedings would subject the Company to the threat of inconsistent adjudications with respect to certain rights to compensation asserted by Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh and would cause irreparable harm to the Company and its shareholders. On March 19, 1999, the plaintiff in the April 7, 1998 action discussed above moved for an injunction on similar grounds. On May 11, 1999, the court denied the motions for a preliminary injunction filed by the Company and the plaintiff. The Company has answered the arbitration demands of Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh and has filed counterclaims seeking, among other things, the return of all consideration paid, or to be paid, under the February 1998 Employment Agreements between the Company and Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh. An answer was filed by Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh generally denying the Company's counterclaims. Discovery is pending.

On May 24, 1999, an action naming the Company as defendant was filed in the Circuit Court for Ozaukee County, Wisconsin. Prior to service of the complaint, the plaintiff dismissed its claims, voluntarily, without prejudice. The plaintiff in this action was a purchaser of the Debentures. The plaintiff alleged that the Company violated the Wisconsin Uniform Securities Act and committed acts of false advertising and misrepresentation in connection with the offering and sale of the Debentures. The plaintiff sought rescission, as well as compensatory and exemplary damages in an unspecified amount.

On September 13, 1999, an action naming the Company and Arthur Andersen as defendants was filed in the Circuit Court for Montgomery County, Alabama. The plaintiffs in this action are purchasers of the Company's common stock during the period March 19, 1998 through May 6, 1998. The plaintiffs allege, among other things, that the defendants violated the Alabama Security Laws and SEC Rule 10b-5. The plaintiffs seek compensatory and punitive damages in an unspecified amount. The Company has removed this case to the U.S. District Court for the District of Alabama. In addition, Arthur Andersen has filed a cross claim against the Company for contribution and indemnity. The Company has filed a motion with the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation to consolidate this action with the Consolidated Federal Actions.

The Company intends to vigorously defend each of the foregoing lawsuits other than those as to which a memorandum of understanding to settle has been reached, but cannot predict the outcome and is not currently able to evaluate the likelihood of the Company's success in each case or the range of potential loss. However, if the Company were to lose these lawsuits, judgments would likely have a material adverse effect on the Company's consolidated financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

On March 23, 1999, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh filed a complaint in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware seeking an order directing the Company to advance attorneys' fees and other expenses incurred in connection with various state and federal class and derivative actions and an investigation instituted by the SEC. The complaint alleges that such advancements are required by the Company's by-laws and by a forbearance agreement entered into between the Company and Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh in August, 1998. A trial of this summary proceeding was held on June 15 and 16, 1999. On June 23, 1999, the court issued a memorandum opinion directing the Company to pay about $1.4 million on account of expenses incurred to date and to advance the reasonable future expenses in those actions and investigations. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh have agreed to repay all amounts advanced to them if it is ultimately determined that they are not entitled to indemnification under Delaware law.

On July 2, 1998, the American Alliance Insurance Company filed suit against the Company in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York requesting a declaratory judgment of the court that the directors' and officers' liability insurance policy for excess coverage issued by American Alliance was invalid and/or had been properly canceled by American Alliance. American Alliance has filed a motion for summary judgment on the ground that coverage was never bound. The Company has opposed that motion. As a result of a motion made by the Company, this case has been transferred to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida for coordination and consolidation of pre-trial proceedings with the various actions pending in that court. On October 20, 1998, an action was filed by Federal Insurance Company in the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Florida requesting the same relief as that requested by American Alliance in the previously filed action as to additional coverage levels under the Company's directors' and officers' liability insurance policy. This action has been transferred to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida and is currently in discovery. The Company is seeking a stay of discovery to coordinate discovery in this action with any discovery that may occur in the Consolidated Federal Actions. Plaintiff has moved to compel production of various documents. On December 22, 1998, an action was filed by Executive Risk Indemnity, Inc. in the Circuit Court of the Seventeenth Judicial Circuit in and for Broward County, Florida requesting the same relief as that requested by American and Federal in their previously filed actions as to additional coverage levels under the Company's directors' and officers' liability insurance policy. On April 15, 1999, the Company filed an action in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against National Union Fire Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, PA, Gulf Insurance Company and St. Paul Mercury Insurance Company requesting, among other things, a declaratory judgment that National Union is not entitled to rescind its directors' and officers' liability insurance policies to the Company and a declaratory judgment that the Company is entitled to coverage from these insurance companies for the various lawsuits described herein under directors' and officers' liability insurance policies issued by each of the defendants. In response to the Company's complaint, defendants St. Paul and Gulf have answered and asserted counterclaims seeking rescission and declaratory relief that no coverage is available to the Company. The Company has denied the allegations of Gulf's and St. Paul's counterclaims. Defendant National Union has filed a motion to dismiss or stay the claims filed by the Company against National Union on the basis, among others, that the Company must submit the dispute to arbitration or mediation. The Company has filed a response opposing that motion. The Company intends to pursue recovery from all of its insurers if damages are awarded against the Company or its indemnified officers and/or directors under any of the foregoing actions and to recover attorneys' fees covered under those policies. The Company's failure to obtain such insurance recoveries following an adverse judgment in any of the actions described above could have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

By letter dated June 17, 1998, the staff of the Division of Enforcement of the SEC advised the Company that it was conducting an informal inquiry into the Company's accounting policies and procedures and requested that the Company produce certain documents. On July 2, 1998, the SEC issued a Formal Order of Private Investigation, designating SEC officers to take testimony and pursuant to which a subpoena was served on the Company requiring the production of certain documents. On November 4, 1998, another SEC subpoena requiring the production of additional documents was received by the Company. The Company has provided numerous documents to the SEC staff and continues to cooperate with the SEC staff. The Company has, however, declined to provide the SEC with material that the Company believes is subject to the attorney-client privilege and the work product immunity.

The SEC has not commenced any civil or administrative proceedings as a result of its investigation, and the Company cannot predict at this time whether the SEC will seek to impose any monetary or other penalties against the Company. Under these circumstances, the Company cannot estimate the duration of the investigation or its outcome.

The Company and its subsidiaries are also involved in various other lawsuits arising from time to time which the Company considers to be ordinary routine litigation incidental to its business. In the opinion of the Company, the resolution of these routine matters, and of certain matters relating to prior operations, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect upon the financial position, results of operations or cash flows of the Company.

Amounts accrued for litigation matters represent the anticipated costs (damages and/or settlement amounts) in connection with pending litigation and claims and related anticipated legal fees for defending such actions. The costs are accrued when it is both probable that an asset has been impaired or a liability has been incurred and the amount can be reasonably estimated. The accruals are based upon the Company's assessment, after consultation with counsel, of probable loss based on the facts and circumstances of each case, the legal issues involved, the nature of the claim made, the nature of the damages sought and any relevant information about the plaintiffs and other significant factors which vary by case. When it is not possible to estimate a specific expected cost to be incurred, the Company evaluates the range of probable loss and records the minimum end of the range. As of September 30, 1999, the Company had established accruals for litigation matters of $22.6 million (representing $11.3 million and $11.3 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively.) As of December 31, 1998 the Company had established accruals for litigation matters of $31.2 million (representing $17.5 million and $13.7 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively). It is anticipated that the $22.6 million accrual will be paid as follows: $5.2 million in 1999, $14.9 million in 2000, and $2.5 million in 2001. The Company believes, based on information known to the Company on September 30, 1999, that anticipated probable costs of litigation matters existing as of September 30, 1999 have been adequately reserved, to the extent determinable.

Products Liability

As a consumer goods manufacturer and distributor, the Company faces the constant risks of product liability and related lawsuits involving claims for substantial money damages, product recall actions and higher than anticipated rates of warranty returns or other returns of goods. These claims could result in liabilities that could have a material adverse effect on the Company's consolidated financial position, results of operations, or cash flows. Some of the product lines the Company acquired in the 1998 acquisitions have increased its exposure to product liability and related claims.

BRK Brands, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company, was a defendant in the case Gordon v. BRK Brands, Inc., et al. in the Circuit Court for the City of St Louis. In Gordon, the plaintiff alleged, among other things, that the plaintiff's smoke detector (which had been manufactured by a predecessor of BRK Brands) did not alarm quickly enough. In July 1999, the jury in the Gordon case awarded $20 million in compensatory damages and $30 million in punitive damages. This case has been settled and BRK's obligation under the settlement is to pay the balance of its self-insured retention.

The Company is party to various personal injury and property damage lawsuits relating to its products and incidental to its business. Annually, the Company sets its product liability insurance program based on the Company's current and historical claims experience and the availability and cost of insurance. The Company's program for 1999 was comprised of a self-insurance retention of $3.5 million per occurrence, and was limited to $28.0 million in the aggregate.

Cumulative amounts estimated to be payable by the Company with respect to pending and potential claims for all years in which the Company is liable under its self-insurance retention have been accrued as liabilities. Such accrued liabilities are necessarily based on estimates (which include actuarial determinations made by independent actuarial consultants as to liability exposure, taking into account prior experience, numbers of claims and other relevant factors); thus, the Company's ultimate liability may exceed or be less than the amounts accrued. The methods of making such estimates and establishing the resulting liability are reviewed continually and any adjustments resulting therefrom are reflected in current operating results.

Historically, product liability awards have rarely exceeded the Company's individual per occurrence self-insured retention. There can be no assurance, however, that the Company's future product liability experience will be consistent with its past experience. Based on existing information, the Company believes that the ultimate conclusion of the various pending product liability claims and lawsuits of the Company, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect on the financial position, results of operations or cash flows of the Company.

Environmental Matters

The Company's operations, like those of comparable businesses, are subject to certain federal, state, local and foreign environmental laws and regulations in addition to laws and regulations regarding labeling and packaging of products and the sales of products containing certain environmentally sensitive materials. The Company believes it is in substantial compliance with all environmental laws and regulations which are applicable to its operations. Compliance with environmental laws and regulations involves certain continuing costs; however, such costs of ongoing compliance have not resulted, and are not anticipated to result, in a material increase in the Company's capital expenditures or to have a material adverse effect on the Company's results of operations, financial condition or competitive position.

In addition to ongoing environmental compliance at its operations, the Company also is actively engaged in environmental remediation activities many of which are related to divested operations. As of December 31, 1998, the Company has been identified by the United States Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA") or a state environmental agency as a potentially responsible party ("PRP") in connection with seven sites subject to the federal Superfund Act and five sites subject to state Superfund laws comparable to the federal law (collectively, the "Environmental Sites"), exclusive of sites at which the Company has been designated (or expects to be designated) as a de minimis (less than 1%) participant.

The Superfund Act, and related state environmental remediation laws, generally authorize governmental authorities to remediate a Superfund site and to assess the costs against the PRPs or to order the PRPs to remediate the site at their expense. Liability under the Superfund Act is joint and several and is imposed on a strict basis, without regard to degree of negligence or culpability. As a result, the Company recognizes its responsibility to determine whether other PRPs at a Superfund site are financially capable of paying their respective shares of the ultimate cost of remediation of the site. Whenever the Company has determined that a particular PRP is not financially responsible, it has assumed for purposes of establishing reserve amounts that such PRP will not pay its respective share of the costs of remediation. To minimize the Company's potential liability with respect to the Environmental Sites, the Company has actively participated in steering committees and other groups of PRPs established with respect to such sites. The Company currently is engaged in active remediation activities at 11 sites, six of which are among the Environmental Sites referred to above, and five of which have not been designated as Superfund sites under federal or state law. The remediation efforts in which the Company is involved include facility investigations, including soil and groundwater investigations, corrective measure studies, including feasibility studies, groundwater monitoring, extraction and treatment, soil sampling, excavation and treatment relating to environmental clean-ups. In certain instances, the Company has entered into agreements with governmental authorities to undertake additional investigatory activities and in other instances has agreed to implement appropriate remedial actions. The Company has also established reserve amounts for certain non-compliance matters including those involving air emissions.

The Company has established reserves to cover the anticipated probable costs of investigation and remediation, based upon periodic reviews of all sites for which the Company has, or may have, remediation responsibility. The Company accrues environmental investigation and remediation costs when it is both probable that a liability has been incurred and the amount can be reasonably estimated and the Company's responsibility is established. Generally, the timing of these accruals coincides with the earlier of formal commitment to an investigation plan, completion of a feasibility study or the Company's commitment to a formal plan of action. As of September 30, 1999 and December 31, 1998, the Company's environmental reserves were $23.3 million (representing $21.6 million for the estimated costs of facility investigations, corrective measure studies or known remedial measures, and $1.7 million for estimated legal costs) and $25.0 million (representing $22.9 million for the estimated costs of facility investigations, corrective measure studies or known remedial measures, and $2.1 million for estimated legal costs), respectively. It is anticipated that the $23.3 million accrual at September 30, 1999 will be paid as follows: $5.2 million in 1999, $3.9 million in 2000, $1.8 million in 2001, $2.0 million in 2002, $0.6 million in 2003 and $9.8 million, thereafter. The Company has accrued its best estimate of investigation and remediation costs based upon facts known to the Company at such dates and because of the inherent difficulties in estimating the ultimate amount of environmental costs, which are further described below, these estimates may materially change in the future as a result of the uncertainties described below. Estimated costs, which are based upon experience with similar sites and technical evaluations, are judgmental in nature and are recorded at undiscounted amounts without considering the impact of inflation and are adjusted periodically to reflect changes in applicable laws or regulations, changes in available technologies and receipt by the Company of new information. It is difficult to estimate the ultimate level of future environmental expenditures due to a number of uncertainties surrounding environmental liabilities. These uncertainties include the applicability of laws and regulations, changes in environmental remediation requirements, the enactment of additional regulations, uncertainties surrounding remediation procedures including the development of new technology, the identification of new sites for which the Company could be a PRP, information relating to the exact nature and extent of the contamination at each site and the extent of required cleanup efforts, the uncertainties with respect to the ultimate outcome of issues which may be actively contested and the varying costs of alternative remediation strategies. The Company continues to pursue the recovery of some environmental remediation costs from certain of its liability insurance carriers; however, such potential recoveries have not been offset against potential liabilities and have not been considered in determining the Company's environmental reserves.

Due to uncertainty over remedial measures to be adopted at some sites, the possibility of changes in environmental laws and regulations and the fact that joint and several liability with the right of contribution is possible at federal and state Superfund sites, the Company's ultimate future liability with respect to sites at which remediation has not been completed may vary from the amounts reserved as of September 30, 1999.

The Company believes, based on existing information for sites where costs are estimable, that the costs of completing environmental remediation of all sites for which the Company has a remediation responsibility have been adequately reserved and that the ultimate resolution of these matters will not have a material adverse effect upon the Company's financial condition, results of operations or cash flows.

Commitment Fee

Under the terms of the April 15, 1999 amendment to the New Credit Facility, the Company is obligated to pay a loan commitment fee of between $4.2 million and $17.0 million. The ultimate amount of the fee is determined based on multiplying the sum of the outstanding borrowings and amounts available for borrowings as of April 15, 1999 by a factor that is determined at the earlier of September 30, 2000 or upon repayment of the New Credit Facility. This fee is payable at the earlier of September 30, 2000 or upon repayment of the New Credit Facility. At a minimum, the Company is obligated under these terms to pay $4.2 million. The ultimate amount due could be as high as $17.0 million if the sum of the outstanding borrowings and amounts available for borrowings at September 30, 2000 (the "aggregate availability") exceeds $1.2 billion. If the aggregate availability is between $1.0 billion and $1.2 billion, a fee of $8.4 million will be due. If the aggregate availability is $1.0 billion or less, the $4.2 million minimum will be due. Under any circumstances, the $4.2 million will be due; therefore, the Company has accrued the minimum liability and an offsetting asset which is being amortized and included in interest expense through April 10, 2000, the term of the current amendment extension period.

The Company has not accrued for amounts in excess of the $4.2 million, as there are numerous uncertainties which may individually or in the aggregate impact the level of aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. These uncertainties include, but are not limited to: the ability to obtain an amendment or further waiver of existing covenants from the lenders under the New Credit Facility for the period beyond April 10, 2000; proceeds from the sales of assets or businesses, if any; changes in debt structure, including the effects of refinancing, if any; and cash flows generated or used by future operations. Given these uncertainties, the Company is currently not able to predict the probable level of aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. As events develop, the Company will periodically review the expected aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. If it becomes likely that an amount in excess of $4.2 million will be paid, the Company will recognize that change in estimate over the remaining period of the New Credit Facility Amendment.

11. Subsequent Event

On November 9, 1999, the Company announced a plan to divest Eastpak and certain non-essential assets. Net proceeds from these assets sales are estimated to be $200 million and will be primarily used to pay down debt.

referred to in this Section 3.1(a) being sometimes referred to herein as the "Per Share Merger Consideration").

(iii) Each of the shares of Company Common Stock converted in accordance with paragraph (i) of this Section 3.1(a) shall no longer be outstanding and shall automatically be cancelled and retired and shall cease to exist, and each holder of a certificate representing any such shares of Company Common Stock shall cease to have any rights with respect thereto, except the right to receive the Per Share Merger Consideration and cash in lieu of any fractional share of Laser Common Stock (determined in accordance with Section 3.4 hereof), to be issued or paid in consideration therefor upon the surrender of such certificate in accordance with Section 3.2 hereof, without interest.

Upon surrender of a certificate for shares of Company Common Stock for cancellation to the Exchange Agent, together with such letter of transmittal, duly executed and completed in accordance with the instructions thereto, the holder thereof shall be entitled to receive in exchange therefor that portion of the Exchange Fund which such holder has the right to receive pursuant to the provisions of this Article III, after giving effect to any required withholding Tax, and the certificate for shares of Company Common Stock so surrendered shall forthwith be cancelled. No interest will be paid or accrued on the cash portion of the Exchange Fund. In the event of any transfer of ownership of shares of Company Common Stock which has not been registered in the transfer records of the Company, certificates representing the proper number of shares of Laser Common Stock, if any, and a check in an amount equal to the proper amount of the cash component, if any, of the Exchange Fund, will be issued to the transferee of the certificate representing the transferred shares of Company Common Stock, only upon presentation to the Exchange Agent of a certificate or certificates representing such shares of Company Common Stock, accompanied by all documents required to evidence and effect the prior transfer thereof and to evidence that any applicable stock transfer Taxes associated with such transfer were paid.

Section 3.3 Dividends; Transfer Taxes. No dividends that are declared on Laser Common Stock will be paid to persons entitled to receive certificates representing shares of Laser Common Stock until such persons surrender their certificates representing shares of Company Common Stock. Upon such surrender, there shall be paid to the person in whose name the certificates representing such shares of Laser Common Stock shall be issued, any dividends which shall have become payable with respect to such shares of Laser Common Stock between the Company Effective Time and the time of such surrender. In no event shall the person entitled to receive such dividends be entitled to receive interest on such dividends. If any certificates for any shares of Laser Common Stock are to be issued in a name other than that in which the certificate representing shares of Company Common Stock surrendered in exchange therefor is registered, it shall be a condition of such exchange that the person requesting such exchange shall pay to the Exchange Agent any transfer or other Taxes required by reason of the issuance of certificates for such shares of Laser Common Stock in a name other than that of the registered holder of the certificate surrendered or shall establish to the satisfaction of the Exchange Agent that such Tax has been paid or is not applicable. Notwithstanding the foregoing, (i) neither the Exchange Agent nor any party hereto shall be liable to a holder of shares of Company Common Stock for any shares of Laser Common Stock or dividends thereon, any cash payments to be made pursuant to Section 3.1(a)(i)(B) hereof or, in accordance with Section 3.4 hereof, any cash in lieu of fractional share interests, in each case, delivered to a public official pursuant to applicable escheat Laws and (ii) any shares of Laser Common Stock held by the Exchange Agent prior to surrender of certificates representing shares of Company Common Stock shall not be deemed issued.

Section 3.4 No Fractional Shares. No certificates or scrip representing fractional shares of Laser Common Stock shall be issued upon the surrender for exchange of certificates representing shares of Company Common Stock pursuant to this Article III, and no dividend, stock split or other change in the capital structure of Laser shall relate to any fractional security, and such fractional interests shall not entitle the owner thereof to vote or to any rights of a security holder. In lieu of any such fractional shares of Laser Common Stock, each holder of shares of Company Common Stock who would otherwise have been entitled to a fraction of a share of Laser Common Stock upon surrender of stock certificates for exchange pursuant to this Article III will be paid cash upon such surrender in an amount equal to the product of such fraction multiplied by the closing sale price of one share of Laser Common Stock on the NYSE on the day of the Company Effective Time, or, if shares of Laser Common Stock are not so traded on such day, the closing sale price of one such share on the next preceding day on which such share was traded on the NYSE. For purposes of this Section 3.4, shares of Company Common Stock of any holder represented by two or more certificates shall be aggregated, and in no event shall any holder be paid an amount of cash pursuant to this Section 3.4 in respect of more than one share of Laser Common Stock.

Section 3.5 Termination of Exchange Fund. Any portion of the Exchange Fund which remains undistributed to the holders of the Company Common Stock for six (6) months after the Company Effective Time shall be delivered to Laser, upon demand, and any holders of the Company Common Stock who have not theretofore complied with this Article III shall thereafter look only to Laser for payment of their claim for the shares of Laser Common Stock and cash and dividends or other distributions, if any, pursuant to this Article III.

Section 3.6 Investment of Exchange Fund. Without prejudice to the rights of any holder of Company Common Stock to receive the Per Share Merger Consideration, the Exchange Agent shall invest any cash included in the Exchange Fund, as directed by Laser, on a daily basis. Any interest and other income resulting from such investments shall be paid to Laser.

Section 3.7 Closing of Company Transfer Books. At the Company Effective Time, the stock transfer books of the Company shall be closed and no transfer of shares of Company Common Stock shall thereafter be made. If, after the Company Effective Time, certificates representing shares of Company Common Stock are presented to the Surviving Corporation, they shall be cancelled and exchanged for the Per Share Merger Consideration applicable thereto.

Section 3.8 Dissenting Shares. Each outstanding share of Company Common Stock as to which a written demand for appraisal is filed in accordance with Section 262 of the DGCL and not withdrawn, and with respect to which a consent is not given in favor of the Company Merger shall not be converted into or represent a right to receive the Per Share Merger Consideration unless and until the holder thereof shall have failed to perfect, or shall have effectively withdrawn or lost, the right to appraisal of and payment for each such share of Company Common Stock under Section 262, at which time each such share shall be converted into the right to receive the Per Share Merger Consideration. All such shares of Company Common Stock as to which such a written demand for appraisal is so filed and not withdrawn and with respect to which a consent is not given in favor of the Company Merger, except any such shares of Company Common Stock the holder of which, prior to the Company Effective Time, shall have effectively withdrawn or lost such right to appraisal and payment for such shares of Company Common Stock under Section 262, are herein referred to as "Dissenting Shares." The Company shall give Laser prompt notice upon receipt by the Company of any written demands for appraisal rights, withdrawal of such demands, and any other written communications delivered to the Company pursuant to Section 262, and the Company shall give Laser the opportunity, to the extent permitted by Law, to participate in all negotiations and proceedings with respect to such demands. Except with the prior written consent of Laser, the Company shall not voluntarily make any payment with respect to any demands for appraisal rights and shall not settle or offer to settle any such demands. Each holder of Dissenting Shares who becomes entitled, pursuant to the provisions of Section 262, to payment for such shares of Dissenting Shares under the provisions of Section 262 shall receive payment therefor from the Surviving Corporation and such shares of Company Common Stock shall be cancelled thereafter.

REPRESENTATIONS AND WARRANTIES OF THE COMPANY

Except as otherwise disclosed to Laser in a schedule delivered to Laser prior to the execution hereof (which schedule shall contain appropriate references to identify the representations and warranties herein to which the information in such schedule relates) (the "Company Disclosure Schedule"), the Company represents and warrants to Laser and Merger Sub as follows:

The Company is duly qualified as a foreign corporation to do business, and is in good standing, in each jurisdiction where the character of its properties owned or held under lease or the nature of its activities makes such qualification necessary, except where the failure to be so qualified would not individually or in the aggregate have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operations or financial condition of the Company and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole (a "Company Material Adverse Effect").

Section 4.2 Capitalization. The authorized capital stock of the Company consists of 80,000,000 shares of Company Common Stock and 20,000,000 shares of Company Preferred Stock. As of such date, no shares of Company Common Stock were held as treasury shares. All of the issued and outstanding shares of Company Common Stock are validly issued, fully paid and nonassessable and free of preemptive rights. As of the date hereof, except as set forth above, there are no shares of capital stock of the Company issued or outstanding or any options, warrants, subscriptions, calls, rights, convertible securities or other agreements or commitments obligating the Company to issue, transfer, sell, redeem, repurchase or otherwise acquire any shares of its capital stock or securities. There are no notes, bonds, debentures or other indebtedness of the Company having the right to vote (or convertible into or exchangeable for securities having the right to vote) on any matters upon which stockholders of the Company may vote.

Except for the capital stock of the Company's subsidiaries and except as set forth in Section 4.3 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, the Company does not own, directly or indirectly, any capital stock or other ownership interest in any corporation, partnership, limited liability company, joint venture or other entity. Each of the Company's subsidiaries that is a corporation is a corporation duly organized, validly existing and in good standing under the Laws of its jurisdiction of incorporation. Each of the Company's subsidiaries that is a partnership or a limited liability company is duly formed and validly existing under the Laws of its jurisdiction of formation. Each of the Company's subsidiaries has the corporate power or the partnership power, as the case may be, to carry on its business as it is now being conducted or presently proposed to be conducted. Each the Company's subsidiaries that is a corporation is duly qualified as a foreign corporation to do business, and is in good standing, in each jurisdiction where the character of its properties owned or held under lease or the nature of its activities makes such qualification necessary, except where the failure to be so qualified would not individually or in the aggregate have a Company Material Adverse Effect. Each of the Company's subsidiaries that is a partnership is duly qualified as a foreign partnership authorized to do business, and is in good standing, in each jurisdiction where the character of its properties owned or held under lease or the nature of its activities makes such qualification necessary, except where the failure to be so qualified would not individually or in the aggregate have a Company Material Adverse Effect. Except as set forth in Section 4.2 hereof, there are no outstanding options, warrants, subscriptions, calls, rights, convertible securities or other agreements or commitments obligating the Company or any of its subsidiaries to issue, transfer or sell any securities of any Company subsidiary. There are no voting, stockholder or other agreements or understandings to which the Company or any of the Company's subsidiaries is a party or is bound with respect to the voting of the capital stock of the Company or any of the Company's subsidiaries.

Section 4.4 Authority Relative to this Agreement. The Company has the corporate power and authority to enter into this Agreement and to perform its obligations hereunder and to consummate the transactions contemplated hereby. The execution and delivery of this Agreement by the Company and the consummation by the Company of the transactions contemplated hereby have been duly authorized by the Board of Directors of the Company, and no other corporate actions or proceedings on the part of the Company (including any action on the part of its stockholders) are necessary to authorize this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby. This Agreement has been duly executed and delivered by the Company and, assuming the due authorization and valid execution and delivery by Laser and Merger Sub, constitutes a valid and binding agreement of the Company, enforceable against the Company in accordance with its terms, subject to bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, moratorium or similar Laws now or hereafter in effect relating to creditors' rights generally and to general principles of equity.

Section 4.5 Consents and Approvals; No Violations. Except for applicable requirements of the HSR Act, the Securities Act, the Exchange Act, Competition Laws and state securities or blue sky Laws, and the filing and recordation of the Certificate of Merger as required by the DGCL, no filing with, and no permit, authorization, consent or approval of, any governmental or regulatory authority is necessary for the consummation by the Company of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement, except for such filings, permits, authorizations, consents or approvals the failure of which to be made or obtained would not individually or in the aggregate have a Company Material Adverse Effect. Except as set forth in Section 4.5 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, neither the execution and delivery of this Agreement by the Company, nor the consummation by the Company of the transactions contemplated hereby, nor compliance by the Company with any of the provisions hereof, will (a) conflict with or result in any breach of any provisions of the certificate of incorporation or by-laws of the Company or the certificate of incorporation or by-laws of any of the Company's subsidiaries; (b) result in a violation or breach of, or constitute (with or without due notice or lapse of time or both) a default (or give rise to any right of termination, cancellation or acceleration) under, any of the terms, conditions or provisions of any material (as defined for purposes of Form 10-K) Contract to which the Company or any of the Company's subsidiaries is a party or by which any of them or any of their properties or assets may be bound; or (c) violate any order, writ, injunction, decree, statute, rule or regulation applicable to the Company, any of the Company's subsidiaries or any of their properties or assets, except in the case of clauses (b) and (c) for violations, breaches or defaults which would not individually or in the aggregate have a Company Material Adverse Effect.

Section 4.6 Reports and Financial Statements.

(a) The Company has filed all reports, forms, registrations, schedules, statements and other documents required to be filed by it with the SEC since January 1, 1997 (the "Company SEC Reports"). As of their respective dates, the Company SEC Reports complied in all material respects with the requirements of the Securities Act or the Exchange Act, as the case may be, and the applicable rules and regulations promulgated thereunder. Except to the extent that information contained in any Company SEC Report has been amended, revised or superseded by a later Company SEC Report filed and publicly available prior to the date of this Agreement (as amended, revised or superseded by a later Company SEC Report filed and publicly available prior to the date of this Agreement, the "Filed Company SEC Reports"), none of the Filed Company SEC Reports, when filed, contained any untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state any material fact required to be stated therein or necessary to make the statements therein, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading.

Section 4.7 Absence of Certain Changes or Events. Except as set forth in the Filed Company SEC Reports, since the Company Balance Sheet Date, the business of the Company and its subsidiaries has been conducted only in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice, and there has not been any event, change or development which individually or in the aggregate has had or would reasonably be expected to have a Company Material Adverse Effect or would impair or delay the ability of the Company to consummate the transactions contemplated by, or to satisfy its obligations under, this Agreement. Except as set forth in Section 4.7 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, during the period from the Company Balance Sheet Date through the date of this Agreement, neither the Company nor any of its subsidiaries has:

(iii) in the case of the Company, amended its certificate of incorporation or by-laws;

(iv) acquired or agreed to acquire by merging or consolidating with, or in purchasing a substantial portion of the assets of, or in any other manner, any business or any corporation, limited liability company, partnership, association or other business organization or division thereof material to the Company;

Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports and as set forth in Section 4.8 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, as of the date hereof, to the Company's knowledge there is no suit, action, proceeding or investigation pending or, to the knowledge of the Company, threatened against or affecting the Company or any of its subsidiaries that individually or in the aggregate would reasonably be expected to (i) have a Company Material Adverse Effect (taking into account any reserve therefor as of the Company Balance Sheet Date), or (ii) delay in any material respect or prevent the consummation of any of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement, nor is there any judgment, order, decree, statute, Law, ordinance, rule or regulation of any Governmental Entity or arbitrator outstanding against the Company or any of its subsidiaries having, or which would reasonably be expected to have, any effect referred to in clause (i) or (ii) above.

Section 4.9 Information in Disclosure Documents and Registration Statement. None of the information to be supplied by the Company for inclusion or incorporation by reference in the information statement to be distributed in connection with the Company Merger (as amended or supplemented, the "Information Statement") or the related filing on Schedule 13E-3 (as amended or supplemented, the "Schedule 13E-3") or the notice to be provided to the Company's stockholders pursuant to Section 14(f) of the Exchange Act (as amended or supplemented, the "Section 14(f) Notice") or the registration statement on Form S-4 under the Securities Act for the purpose of registering the shares of Laser Common Stock to be issued in the Company Merger (as amended or supplemented, the "Registration Statement") will, in the case of the Registration

The Information Statement, the Schedule 13E-3 and the Section 14(f) Notice will comply as to form in all material respects with the provisions of the Exchange Act, and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

Section 4.10 Taxes. Except as would not have a Company Material Adverse Effect or as set forth in Section 4.10 of the Company Disclosure Schedule:

(a) Each of the Company and each of its subsidiaries has (i) filed (or there has been filed on its behalf) with the appropriate Governmental Entities all Tax Returns required to be filed by it, and all such Tax Returns are true, correct and complete and (ii) has paid all Taxes due by it;

(b) there is no action, suit, investigation, audit, claim or assessment pending or proposed in writing or threatened in writing with respect to Taxes of the Company or any of its subsidiaries and, to the best of the Company's knowledge, no basis exists therefor;

(c) there are no Liens for Taxes upon the assets of the Company or any of its subsidiaries except Liens relating to current Taxes not yet due;

(d) the United States federal income Tax Returns which include the Company and the Company's subsidiaries have been examined, and such examinations have been completed, by the Internal Revenue Service (or the applicable statutes of limitation for the assessment of federal income Taxes for such periods have expired) for all periods through and including 1985.

Section 4.11 Compliance with Applicable Law. Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, the Company and its subsidiaries have received such certificates, permits, licenses, franchises, consents, approvals, orders, authorizations and clearances from appropriate Governmental Entities (the "Company Licenses") as are necessary to own or lease and operate their respective properties and to conduct their respective businesses substantially in the manner described in the Company SEC Reports and as currently owned or leased and conducted, and all such Company Licenses are valid and in full force and effect, except for any such certificates, permits, licenses, franchises, consents, approvals, orders, authorizations and clearances which the failure to have or to be in full force and effect would not reasonably be expected to have, individually or in the aggregate, a Company Material Adverse Effect. Except as disclosed in Filed Company SEC Reports, the Company and the Company's subsidiaries are in compliance with their respective obligations under the Company Licenses, with only such exceptions as, individually or in the aggregate, would not reasonably be expected to have a Company Material Adverse Effect. Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, the Company and its subsidiaries are in compliance with all judgments, orders, decrees, statutes, Laws, ordinances, rules and regulations of any Governmental Entity applicable to them, except for such noncompliance which individually or in the aggregate would not have a Company Material Adverse Effect.

Section 4.12 Labor Matters. Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, neither the Company nor any of the Company's subsidiaries has any labor contracts, collective bargaining agreements or material employment or consulting agreements with any persons employed by or otherwise performing services primarily for the Company or any of the Company's subsidiaries (the "Company Business Personnel") or any representative of any Company Business Personnel. Except as set forth in the Filed Company SEC Reports, neither the Company nor any of its subsidiaries has engaged in any unfair labor practice with respect to Company Business Personnel, and there is no unfair labor practice complaint pending against the Company or any of its subsidiaries with respect to Company Business Personnel which, in either such case, would reasonably be expected to have, individually or in the aggregate, a Company Material Adverse Effect. Except as set forth in the Filed Company SEC Reports, there is no material labor strike, dispute, slowdown or stoppage pending or, to the knowledge of the Company, threatened against the Company or any of its subsidiaries, and neither the Company nor any of its subsidiaries has experienced any material primary work stoppage or other material labor difficulty involving its employees during the last three (3) years.

Section 4.13 ERISA Compliance.

(a) The Company has delivered to Laser or will deliver to Laser prior to the Company Effective Time each "employee pension benefit plan" (as defined in Section 3(2) of ERISA) (a "Pension Plan"), each "employee welfare benefit plan" (as defined in Section 3(1) of ERISA) (a "Welfare Plan"), each material bonus, stock option, stock purchase, stock ownership, stock bonus, restricted stock, deferred compensation plan or arrangement and each other material employee fringe benefit plan or arrangement maintained, contributed to or required to be maintained or contributed to by the Company or any of its subsidiaries or any other person or entity that, together with the Company, is or was treated as a single employer under Section 414(b), (c), (m) or (o) of the Code (each, a "Commonly Controlled Entity") which is currently in effect for the benefit of any current or former directors, officers, employees or independent contractors of the Company or any of its subsidiaries (collectively, the "Company Plans"). The Company has delivered to Laser or will deliver to Laser prior to the Company Effective Time true, complete and correct copies of (x) the two most recent annual reports on Form 5500 filed with the Internal Revenue Service with respect to each Company Plan (if any such report was required), (y) the most recent summary plan description for each Company Plan for which such summary plan description is required and (z) each currently effective trust agreement, insurance or group annuity contract and each other material funding or financing arrangement relating to any Company Plan.

(b) No Commonly Controlled Entity has incurred any liability under Title IV of ERISA, other than for contributions not yet due to a defined benefit pension plan subject to Title IV of ERISA and other than for the payment of premiums to the PBGC not yet due, and no condition exists that presents a material risk of incurring any such liability, which liability, to the extent currently due, has not been fully paid as of the date hereof and would individually or in the aggregate be reasonably likely to result in a Company Material Adverse Effect.

(c) Except as set forth in Company SEC reports or in Section 4.13 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, neither the Company nor any of its subsidiaries has any obligation to provide any welfare benefits to employees or former employees following termination of employment except (i) for benefits the cost of which is borne entirely by the employee or former employee, (ii) as required under Section 4980 of the Code or other applicable law or (iii) obligations to provide such benefits to Company employees employed in non-U.S. jurisdictions.

(d) No Commonly Controlled Entity has engaged in a transaction described in Section 4069 of ERISA that could subject the Company or any of its subsidiaries or Laser to liability at any time after the date hereof, which liability would be reasonably likely to result in a Company Material Adverse Effect.

(e) No Commonly Controlled Entity has withdrawn from any multiemployer plan where such withdrawal has resulted in any actual or potential "withdrawal liability" (as defined in Section 4201 of ERISA) that has not been fully paid, which liability would be reasonably likely to result in a Company Material Adverse Effect.

(f) Except as set forth in Section 4.13 of the Company Disclosure Schedule or as specifically provided in this Agreement, the transactions contemplated by this Agreement will not, either alone or in connection with another event, cause there to be paid or become payable any additional benefits or any acceleration of the time of payment or vesting of any benefits under any Company Plan or under any employment, severance, termination or compensation agreement to which the Company is a party as of the Company Effective Time.

Section 4.14 Environmental Matters.

(a) Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, the Company and its subsidiaries are in compliance with all applicable Environmental Laws, which compliance includes the possession of permits and governmental authorizations required under applicable Environmental Laws ("Environmental Permits") and compliance with the terms and conditions thereof, except where such non-compliance would not result in a Company Material Adverse Effect.

(b) Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, there are no Environmental Claims pending or, to the knowledge of the Company, threatened against the Company or any of its subsidiaries that would reasonably be expected to result in a Company Material Adverse Effect.

(c) Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, the properties presently or to the knowledge of the Company formerly owned, leased or operated by the Company or its subsidiaries (including groundwater under the properties) (the "Properties") do not contain any Hazardous Substance other than as permitted under applicable Environmental Law; provided, however, that with respect to Properties formerly owned, leased or operated by the Company or its subsidiaries, such representation is limited to the period prior to the disposition of such Properties by the Company or its subsidiaries.

(d) Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, to the knowledge of the Company, no Hazardous Substance has been disposed of or transported from any of the Properties during the time any such Property was owned, leased or operated by the Company or any of its subsidiaries, other than as permitted under applicable Environmental Law and in effect at the time of such disposal or transportation.

(e) Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, to the knowledge of the Company, the Company and its subsidiaries have not become obligated, whether by operation of Law or through contractual agreement, to indemnify any other person or otherwise to assume liability for any claim brought pursuant to any Environmental Law which could reasonably be expected to have a Company Material Adverse Effect.

Section 4.15 Intellectual Property. The Company has previously delivered to Laser a list, which, to the knowledge of the Company, is true and correct as of the date hereof in all material respects, of all material issued patents and registered trademarks of the Company. Except as set forth in Section 4.15 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, the Company and its subsidiaries own or have sufficient rights to use all material Intellectual Property used in connection with the business of the Company and its subsidiaries as currently conducted. As used in this Section 4.15, the term "material," when applied to Intellectual Property, means that such Intellectual Property is used in a significant manner to conduct the business of the Company and its subsidiaries as it is currently conducted.

Section 4.16 Contracts. Except as set forth in Section 4.16 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, neither the Company nor any of its subsidiaries is a party to or bound by any material Contract, other than (i) the Affiliate Agreements listed in Section 4.10 of the Holdings Disclosure Schedule, (ii) any Contract filed or incorporated by reference as an exhibit to any Filed Company SEC Report or (iii) any Contract (other than the Affiliate Agreements listed in Section 4.10 of the Holdings Disclosure Schedule) entered into in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice.

Section 4.17 Opinion of Financial Advisor. The Board of Directors of the Company has received the opinion of Credit Suisse First Boston, dated the date hereof to the effect that the Per Share Merger Consideration is fair to the holders of shares of Company Common Stock (other than Worldwide) from a financial point of view.

NOT A PUBLIC DOCUMENT

Section 4.18 Takeover Statute. The Board of Directors of the Company has approved the Holdings Merger solely for the purpose of rendering inapplicable, and such approval is sufficient to render inapplicable, to the Company Merger and the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement the provisions of Section 203 of the DGCL. To the best of the Company's knowledge, no other state takeover statute or similar statute or regulation applies or purports to apply to the Company Merger, this Agreement or any of the transactions contemplated hereby, and no provision of the certificate of incorporation or by-laws of the Company or certificates of incorporation or by-laws (or comparable organizational documents) of any subsidiary of the Company would, directly or indirectly, restrict or impair the ability of Laser to vote, or otherwise to exercise the rights of a stockholder with respect to, shares of capital stock of the Company or any of its subsidiaries that may be acquired or controlled by Laser.

Section 4.19 Brokers. No broker, investment banker or other person, other than Credit Suisse First Boston, the fees and expenses of which will be paid by the Company (as reflected in an agreement between Credit Suisse First Boston and the Company, a copy of which has been furnished to Laser), is entitled to any broker's, finder's or other similar fee or commission in connection with the transactions contemplated by this Agreement based upon arrangements made by or on behalf of the Company.

Section 5.2 Capitalization. The authorized capital stock of Laser consists of 200,000,000 shares of Laser Common Stock, and 2,000,000 shares of Laser Preferred Stock. As of February 23, 1998, (i) 85,988,627 shares of Laser Common Stock were issued and outstanding; (ii) 16,129,197 shares of Laser Common Stock were issuable upon exercise of employee and non-employee stock options (the "Laser Stock Options") outstanding under all stock option plans of Laser (the "Laser Stock Option Plans") or granted pursuant to employment agreements; and (iii) no shares of Laser Preferred Stock were issued and outstanding. As of such date, 4,568,959 shares of Laser Common Stock were held as treasury shares. All of the issued and outstanding shares of Laser Common Stock are validly issued, fully paid and nonassessable and free of preemptive rights. All of the shares of Laser Common Stock issuable as consideration in the Company Merger at the Company Effective Time in accordance with this Agreement will be, when so issued, duly authorized, validly issued, fully paid and nonassessable and free of preemptive rights. As of such date, except as set forth above, there are no shares of capital stock of Laser issued or outstanding or, as of such date or as of the date hereof, except as set forth above, any options, warrants, subscriptions, calls, rights, convertible securities or other agreements or commitments obligating Laser to issue, transfer, sell, redeem, repurchase or otherwise acquire any shares of its capital stock or securities, or the capital stock or securities of Laser. There are no notes, bonds, debentures or other indebtedness of Laser having the right to vote (or convertible into or exchangeable for securities having the right to vote) on any matters upon which stockholders of Laser may vote.

Section 5.3 Merger Sub. Merger Sub is a corporation duly organized, validly existing and in good standing under the Laws of the State of Delaware. Merger Sub is a newly incorporated company formed solely for purposes of consummating the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and has engaged in no activity other than as provided in, or contemplated by, this Agreement. The authorized capital stock of Merger Sub consists of 1,000 shares of Merger Sub Common Stock, all of which are validly issued, fully paid and nonassessable and are owned by Laser. Except as set forth above there are no shares of capital stock of Merger Sub issued or outstanding or any options, warrants, subscription, calls, rights, convertible securities or other agreements or commitments obligating Merger Sub to issue, transfer, sell, redeem, repurchase or otherwise acquire any shares of its capital stock or securities.

Section 5.4 Authority Relative to this Agreement. Each of Laser and Merger Sub has the corporate power and authority to enter into this Agreement and to perform its obligations hereunder and to consummate the transactions contemplated hereby. The execution and delivery of this Agreement by Laser and Merger Sub and the consummation by Laser and Merger Sub of the transactions contemplated hereby have been duly authorized by the Boards of Directors of Laser and Merger Sub, and no other corporate action or proceedings on the part of Laser or Merger Sub (including any action on the part of its stockholders) is necessary to authorize this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby. This Agreement has been duly executed and delivered by Laser and Merger Sub and, assuming it is a valid and binding obligation of the Company, constitutes a valid and binding agreement of Laser and Merger Sub, enforceable against Laser and Merger Sub in accordance with its terms, except that such enforcement may be subject to any bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, moratorium or similar Laws now or hereafter in effect relating to creditors' rights generally and other forms of equitable relief may be subject to equitable defenses and the discretion of the court before which any proceedings therefor may be brought.

Section 5.5 Consents and Approvals; No Violations. Except for applicable requirements of the HSR Act, the Securities Act, the Exchange Act, Competition Laws, and state securities or blue sky Laws, and the filing of the Certificate of Merger in such form as required by, and executed in accordance with the relevant provisions of, the DGCL, no filing with, and no permit, authorization, consent or approval of, any governmental or regulatory authority is necessary for the consummation by Laser or Merger Sub of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement, except for such filings, permits, authorizations, consents or approvals the failure of which to be made or obtained would not (i) individually or in the aggregate have a Laser Material Adverse Effect or (ii) delay in any material respect or prevent the consummation of any of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement. Neither the execution and delivery of this Agreement by Laser or Merger Sub nor the consummation by Laser or Merger Sub of the transactions contemplated hereby, nor compliance by Laser with any of the provisions hereof, will (a) conflict with or result in any breach of any provisions of the certificate of incorporation or by-laws of Laser or Merger Sub; (b) result in a violation or breach of, or constitute (with or without due notice or lapse of time or both) a default (or give rise to any right of termination, cancellation or acceleration) under, any of the terms, conditions or provisions of any material (as defined for purposes of Form 10-K) Contract to which Laser, Merger Sub or any of their subsidiaries is a party or by which any of them or any of their properties or assets may be bound; or (c) violate any order, writ, injunction, decree, statute, rule or regulation applicable to Laser, Merger Sub, any of their subsidiaries or any of their properties or assets, except, in the case of clauses (b) and (c), for violations, breaches or defaults which would not individually or in the aggregate have a Laser Material Adverse Effect.

Section 5.6 Reports and Financial Statements

(a) Laser has filed all reports, forms, registrations, schedules, statements and other documents required to be filed by it with the SEC since January 1, 1997 (the "Laser SEC Reports"). As of their respective dates, the Laser SEC Reports complied in all material respects with the requirements of the Securities Act or the Exchange Act, as the case may be, and the applicable rules and regulations promulgated thereunder. Except to the extent that information contained in any Laser SEC Report has been amended, revised or superseded by a later Laser SEC Report filed and publicly available prior to the date of this Agreement (as amended, revised or superseded by a later filed Laser SEC Report to the date of this Agreement, the "Filed Laser SEC Reports"), none of the Filed Laser SEC Reports, when filed, contained any untrue statement of a material fact or omitted to state any material fact required to be stated therein or necessary to make the statements therein, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading.

(b) The consolidated financial statements of Laser included in the Filed Laser SEC Reports complied as to form in all material respects with the applicable accounting requirements and the published rules and regulations of the SEC with respect thereto, have been prepared in accordance with GAAP (except, in the case of the unaudited statements, as permitted by Form 10-Q of the SEC) applied on a consistent basis during the periods involved (except as may be indicated therein or in the notes thereto) and fairly present the consolidated financial position of Laser and its consolidated subsidiaries as of the dates thereof and the consolidated results of their operations and their consolidated cash flows for the periods then ended (subject, in the case of the unaudited statements, to normal year-end audit adjustments and to any other adjustments described therein).

(c) Except as set forth in the Filed Laser SEC Reports and except for liabilities and obligations incurred in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice since the date of the most recent consolidated balance sheet included in the Filed Laser SEC Reports (the "Laser Balance Sheet Date"), neither Laser nor any of the Laser subsidiaries has any material liabilities or obligations of any nature (whether accrued, absolute, contingent or otherwise) required by GAAP to be recognized or disclosed on a consolidated balance sheet of Laser and its consolidated subsidiaries or in the notes thereto.

Section 5.7 Absence of Certain Changes or Events. Except as set forth in the Filed Laser SEC Reports, since the Laser Balance Sheet Date, the business of Laser and its subsidiaries has been conducted only in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice, and there has not been any event, change or development which individually or in the aggregate has had or would reasonably be expected to have a Laser Material Adverse Effect or would impair or delay the ability of Laser to consummate the transactions contemplated by, or to satisfy its obligations under, this Agreement.

Section 5.8 Litigation. Except as disclosed in the Filed Laser SEC Reports, there is no suit, action, proceeding or investigation pending or, to the knowledge of Laser, threatened against or affecting Laser or any of its subsidiaries that individually or in the aggregate would reasonably be expected to (i) have a Laser Material Adverse Effect (taking into account any reserve therefor as of the most recent balance sheet included in the Filed Laser SEC Reports) or (ii) delay in any material respect or prevent the consummation of any of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement, nor is there any judgment, order, decree, statute, Law, ordinance, rule or regulation of any Governmental Entity or arbitrator outstanding against Laser or any of its subsidiaries having, or which would reasonably be expected to have, any effect referred to in clause (i) or (ii) above.

Section 5.9 Information in Disclosure Documents and Registration Statement. None of the information to be supplied by Laser for inclusion or incorporation by reference in (a) the Registration Statement or (b) the Information Statement, the Schedule 13E-3 or the Section 14(f) Notice will, in the case of the Registration Statement, at the time it becomes effective and at the Company Effective Time contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state any material fact required to be stated therein or necessary to make the statements therein not misleading, or, in the case of the Information Statement, the Schedule 13E-3 and the Section 14(f) Notice, at the time of the mailing thereof and, in the case of the Information Statement and the Schedule 13E-3, at the Company Effective Time, contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state any material fact required to be stated therein or necessary in order to make the statements therein, in light of the circumstances under which they are made, not misleading. The Registration Statement will comply as to form in all material respects with the provisions of the Securities Act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder. The Schedule 13E-3 will comply as to form in all material respects with the provisions of the Exchange Act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

Section 5.10 Taxes.

(a) Laser and its subsidiaries have filed (or there have been filed on their behalf) with the appropriate governmental authorities all material Tax Returns required to be filed by them and such Tax Returns are true, correct and complete in all material respects and disclose all Taxes required to be paid by them for the periods covered thereby; and

(b) all material Taxes (whether or not shown on any Tax Return) owed by Laser and its subsidiaries and required to be paid on or before the Closing Date have been (or will be) timely paid or, in the case of Taxes which Laser or any of its subsidiaries is presently contesting in good faith, an adequate reserve has been established for such Taxes in accordance with GAAP.

Section 5.11 Compliance with Applicable Law. Except as disclosed in the Filed Laser SEC Reports, Laser and its subsidiaries have received such certificates, permits, licenses, franchises, consents, approvals, orders, authorizations and clearances from appropriate Governmental Entities (the "Laser Licenses") as are necessary to own or lease and operate their respective properties and to conduct their respective businesses substantially in the manner described in the Laser SEC Reports and as currently owned or leased and conducted, and all such Laser Licenses are valid and in full force and effect, except for any such certificates, permits, licenses, franchises, consents, approvals, orders, authorizations and clearances which the failure to have or to be in full force and effect would not reasonably be expected to have, individually or in the aggregate, a Laser Material Adverse Effect. Except as disclosed in the Filed Laser SEC Reports, Laser and its subsidiaries are in compliance in all material respects with their respective obligations under the Laser Licenses, with only such exceptions as, individually or in the aggregate, would not reasonably be expected to have a Laser Material Adverse Effect. Except as disclosed in the Filed Laser SEC Reports, Laser and its subsidiaries are in compliance with all judgments, orders, decrees, statutes, Laws, ordinances, rules and regulations of any Governmental Entity applicable to them, except for such noncompliance which individually or in the aggregate would not have a Laser Material Adverse Effect.

Section 5.12 Brokers. No broker, investment banker or other person, other than Morgan Stanley, the fees and expenses of which will be paid by Laser (as reflected in an agreement between Morgan Stanley and Laser) is entitled to any broker's, finder's or other similar fee or commission in connection with the transactions contemplated by this Agreement based upon arrangements made by or on behalf of Laser.

ARTICLE VI

COVENANTS RELATING TO CONDUCT OF BUSINESS

Section 6.1 Conduct of Business by the Company. During the period from the date of this Agreement to the Holdings Effective Time, except as expressly permitted by this Agreement or with the prior written consent of Laser or as set forth in Section 6.1 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, the Company shall, and shall cause its subsidiaries to, carry on the business of the Company and its subsidiaries in the usual, regular and ordinary course in substantially the same manner as heretofore conducted and in compliance in all material respects with all applicable Laws and regulations and, to the extent consistent therewith, use all reasonable efforts to preserve intact the current business organizations of the Company and its subsidiaries, and to preserve its relationships with those persons having business dealings with the Company and its subsidiaries to the end that the goodwill and ongoing businesses of the Company and its subsidiaries shall be unimpaired at the Holdings Effective Time. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, during the period from the date of this Agreement to the Holdings Effective Time, the Company agrees as to itself and its subsidiaries that, except as expressly permitted by this Agreement or with the prior written consent of Laser or as set forth in Section 6.1 of the Company Disclosure Schedule:

(i) Neither the Company nor any of its subsidiaries shall (x) declare, set aside or pay any distributions (whether in cash, stock or property) with respect to its capital stock or (y) split, combine, or reclassify any of its capital stock or issue or authorize the issuance of any other securities in respect of, in lieu of or in substitution for shares of its capital stock (other than dividends or stock issuances by a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company to the Company or another wholly owned subsidiary of the Company);

(ii) Neither the Company nor any of its subsidiaries shall issue, deliver, sell, pledge or otherwise encumber any shares of its capital stock, any other voting securities or any securities convertible into, or any options, warrants or rights to acquire, any such shares, voting securities or convertible securities (other than the issuance of Company Common Stock upon the exercise of Employee Stock Options in accordance with their terms and issuances by a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company to the Company or another wholly owned subsidiary of the Company);

(iii) The Company shall not amend its certificate of incorporation or by-laws;

(iv) Other than as would not be material to the Company, the Company and its subsidiaries shall not acquire or agree to acquire (x) by merging or consolidating with, or by purchasing a substantial portion of the assets of, or in any other manner, any business or any corporation, limited liability company, partnership, joint venture, association or other business organization or division thereof or (y) any assets that individually or in the aggregate are material to the Company and its subsidiaries;

(v) Other than as would not be material to the Company, the Company and its subsidiaries shall not sell, lease, license or otherwise encumber or subject to any Lien or otherwise dispose of any of the properties or assets of the Company and its subsidiaries, other than in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice or pursuant to existing contractual obligations, if any, set forth in Section 6.1 of the Company Disclosure Schedule;

(vi) Other than in the ordinary course of business or as would not be material to the Company, the Company and its subsidiaries shall not (x) incur any indebtedness or (y) make any loans, advances or capital contributions to, or investments in, any other person (other than the Company or a subsidiary of the Company), other than to officers and employees of the Company and its subsidiaries for travel, business or relocation expenses in the ordinary course of business;

(vii) Other than in the ordinary course of business or consistent with the Company's 1998 capital budget;

(viii) Other than in the ordinary course of business, the Company and its subsidiaries shall not make any material Tax election or settle or compromise any material income Tax liability;

(ix) Except in the ordinary course of business or except as would not reasonably be expected to have a Company Material Adverse Effect, the Company and its subsidiaries (i) shall not enter into any Contracts and (ii) shall not modify, amend or terminate any material Contract or agreement to which the Company or any of its subsidiaries is, or as of the Company Effective Time will be, a party or waive, release or assign any material rights or claims thereunder;

(x) Except as required by Law or previously existing contractual arrangements, in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice or as disclosed or otherwise provided in this Agreement, the Company will not, nor will it permit any of its subsidiaries to, (a) increase the compensation of any of its employees, (b) enter into any Contract with any of its employees regarding his or her employment, compensation or benefits, or (c) adopt any plan, arrangement or policy which would become a Company Plan or amend any Company Plan to the extent such adoption or amendment would create or materially increase any material liability or obligation on the part of the Company or its subsidiaries;

(xi) The Company and its subsidiaries shall not make any change to their accounting methods, principles or practices, except as may be required by GAAP or Regulation S-X promulgated by the SEC or by Law;

(xii) The Company shall not, and shall not permit any of its subsidiaries to, create, incur, suffer to exist or assume any material Lien on any of their assets, except as would not have a Company Material Adverse Effect or materially impair the Company's conduct of the business and operations of the Company and its subsidiaries, as presently conducted;

(xiii) The Company shall not, and shall not permit any of its subsidiaries to enter into any transaction or contract with, or (except pursuant to the Affiliate Agreements) make any payment to, any Affiliate of the Company (other than the Company's subsidiaries or its or their officers or directors in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice); and

(xiv) The Company and its subsidiaries shall not authorize, or commit or agree to take, any of the foregoing actions.

Section 6.2 Other Actions. During the period from the date hereof to the Holdings Effective Time, the Company and Laser shall not, and shall not permit any of their respective subsidiaries to, take any action that would, or that could reasonably be expected to, result in (i) any of the representations and warranties of such party set forth in this Agreement that are qualified as to materiality becoming untrue, (ii) any of such representations and warranties that are not so qualified becoming untrue in any material respect or (iii) any of the conditions to the Company Merger set forth in Article VIII hereof not being satisfied.

Section 6.3 Advice of Changes. Upon obtaining knowledge of any such occurrence, the Company and Laser shall promptly advise the other party orally and in writing of (i) any representation or warranty made by it contained in this Agreement that is qualified as to materiality becoming untrue or inaccurate in any respect or any such representation or warranty that is not so qualified becoming untrue or inaccurate in any material respect, (ii) the failure by it to comply with or satisfy in any material respect any covenant, condition or agreement to be complied with or satisfied by it under this Agreement or (iii) any change or event (x) having, or which, insofar as can reasonably be foreseen, would have, in the case of Laser, a Laser Material Adverse Effect and, in the case of the Company, a Company Material Adverse Effect, (y) having, or which, insofar as can reasonably be foreseen, would have, the effect set forth in clause (i) above or (z) which has resulted, or which, insofar as can reasonably be foreseen, would result, in any of the conditions set forth in Article VIII hereof not being satisfied; provided, however, that no such notification shall affect the representations, warranties, covenants or agreements of the parties or the conditions to the obligations of the parties under this Agreement.

Section 6.4 Conduct of Business of Merger Sub. From the date hereof to the Company Effective Time, Merger Sub shall not (i) engage in any activities of any nature, (ii) acquire any assets, or (iii) incur any indebtedness or assume any liabilities or obligations, in each case, except as provided in or contemplated by this Agreement.

Section 6.5 Section 14(f) Notice. Promptly after the date hereof, Laser shall provide to the Company in writing the information with respect to the Laser Designees (as defined in the Holdings Merger Agreement) required by Section 14(f) of the Exchange Act and Rule 14f-1 of the SEC. Promptly after its receipt of such information, the Company shall file with the SEC and mail to all stockholders of record of the Company the Section 14(f) Notice.

ARTICLE VII

ADDITIONAL AGREEMENTS

Section 7.1 Preparation of the Registration Statement, the Information Statement, the Schedule 13E-3 and the Section 14(f) Notice. As soon as reasonably practicable following the date of this Agreement, Laser and the Company shall prepare and file with the SEC the Information Statement and Laser shall prepare and file with the SEC the Registration Statement, in which the Information Statement will be included as a prospectus (including the financial statements and pro forma financial information required to be set forth therein), and the Schedule 13E-3 and the Section 14(f) Notice. Laser shall use all reasonable best efforts to have the Registration Statement declared effective under the Securities Act and the Schedule 13E-3 and the Section 14(f) Notice cleared by the SEC and mailed as promptly as practicable after such filing. The Company will use all reasonable best efforts to cause the Information Statement and the Schedule 13E-3 and the Section 14(f) Notice to be mailed to the Company's stockholders as promptly as practicable after it has been cleared by the SEC. Each of Laser and the Company shall also take any action (other than qualifying to do business in any jurisdiction in which it is not now so qualified or to file a general consent to service of process) required to be taken under any applicable state securities Laws in connection with the issuance of Laser Common Stock in connection with the Company Merger and the Holdings Merger. The Company shall furnish all information concerning the Company, its subsidiaries and the holders of the Company Common Stock and Laser shall furnish all information concerning Laser and its subsidiaries, in each case, as may be reasonably requested in connection with any such action.

Section 7.2 Access and Information; Confidentiality. The Company and Laser shall each afford to the other and to the other's financial advisors, legal counsel, accountants, consultants and other representatives full access at all reasonable times throughout the period prior to the Company Effective Time to all of its books, records, properties, plants and personnel (provided that all such access shall be on reasonable advance notice and shall not disrupt normal business operations) and, during such period, each shall furnish promptly to the other (a) a copy of each report, schedule and other document filed or received by it pursuant to the requirements of federal or state securities Laws, and (b) all other information as such other party may reasonably request, provided that no investigation pursuant to this Section 7.2 shall affect any representations or warranties made herein or the conditions to the obligations of the respective parties to consummate the Company Merger. Each party and their respective affiliates, representatives and agents shall hold in confidence all nonpublic information in accordance with the terms of the Confidentiality Agreements between Laser and the Company dated February 4, 1998 and February 23, 1998.

(a) The Company shall use its reasonable best efforts to cause to be delivered to Laser "comfort" letters of Ernst & Young, LLP, the Company's independent public accountants, dated the date on which the Registration Statement shall become effective and as of the date on which the Information Statement is mailed to the Company's stockholders, and addressed to Laser and the Company, in form and substance reasonably satisfactory to Laser and as is reasonably customary in scope and substance for letters delivered by independent public accountants in connection with transactions such as those contemplated by this Agreement.

(b) Laser shall use its reasonable best efforts to cause to be delivered to the Company "comfort" letters of Arthur Andersen, LLP, Laser's independent public accountants, dated the date on which the Registration Statement shall become effective and as of the date on which the Information Statement is mailed to the Company's stockholders, and addressed to the Company and Laser, in form and substance reasonably satisfactory to the Company and as is reasonably customary in scope and substance for letters delivered by independent public accountants in connection with transactions such as those contemplated by this Agreement.

Section 7.4 Listing Application. Laser shall prepare and submit to the NYSE a listing application covering the Laser Shares to be issued in connection with the Company Merger, and shall use its reasonable best efforts to obtain, prior to the Company Effective Time, approval for the listing of such Laser Shares, subject to official notice of issuance.

Section 7.5 Affiliates. Prior to the Company Effective Time, the Company shall cause to be prepared and delivered to Laser a list (reasonably satisfactory to counsel for Laser) identifying each person who, at the time the Information Statement is mailed to the Company's stockholders, may be deemed to be an "affiliate" of the Company, as such term is used in paragraphs (c) and (d) of Rule 145 under the Securities Act (the "Company Rule 145 Affiliates"). The Company shall use its reasonable best efforts to cause such person who is identified as a Company Rule 145 Affiliate in such list to deliver to Laser on or prior to the Company Effective Time a written agreement, in customary form, that such Company Rule 145 Affiliate will not (i) sell, pledge, transfer or otherwise dispose of, or in any other way reduce such Company Rule 145 Affiliate's risk relative to, any Laser Shares issued to such Company Rule 145 Affiliate in connection with the Company Merger, except pursuant to an effective registration statement or in compliance with such Rule 145 or another exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act or (ii) sell or in any other way reduce such Rule 145 Affiliate's risk relative to any Laser Shares received in the Company Merger (within the meaning of Section 201.01 of the SEC's Financial Reporting Release No. 1) during the period commencing thirty (30) days prior to the Company Effective Time and ending at such time as the financial results (including combined sales and net income) covering at least thirty (30) days of post-Merger operations have been published, except as permitted by Staff Accounting Bulletin No. 76 issued by the SEC.

Section 7.6 HSR Act; Competition Laws. As soon as reasonably practicable, the Company, Laser and Merger Sub shall make or cause to be made all filings and submissions under the HSR Act (if applicable) and any other applicable Competition Laws as may be reasonably required to be made in connection with this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby. Subject to Section 7.2 hereof, the Company will furnish to Laser and Laser will furnish to the Company, such information and assistance as the other may reasonably request in connection with the preparation of any such filings or submissions. Subject to Section 7.2 hereof, the Company will provide Laser, and Laser will provide the Company, with copies of all correspondence, filings or communications (or memoranda setting forth the substance thereof) between such party or any of its representatives, on the one hand, and any governmental agency or authority or members of their respective staffs, on the other hand, with respect to this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby. The Company and Laser shall consult with one another with respect to any such correspondence, filings or communications and shall engage in discussions with any Governmental Entity on a joint basis.

Section 7.7 Employee Matters.

(a) From and after the Holdings Effective Time, Laser shall honor, and shall cause the Company to honor, all employment, severance, termination, consulting and retirement agreements to which the Company is a party as of the Holdings Effective Time; provided, however, that (i) neither Laser nor the Company shall have any responsibility for the Company's obligations under that certain employment agreement entered into as of October 1, 1997, between the Company and Jerry W. Levin (except for the incentive payment provided for in section 3.2(b) thereof (relating to the divestiture of Coleman Safety & Security Products, Inc.), which shall be the responsibility of the Company and paid in accordance with the terms of section 3.2(b) thereof), and (ii) neither Laser nor the Company shall have any responsibility for the Company's obligations under that certain employment agreement entered into as of July 1, 1997, between the Company and Paul E. Shapiro. Except as provided in the first sentence of Section 7.7(b) or the proviso to this sentence, from and after the Holdings Effective Time, Laser will cause the Company to allow Company employees to participate in Laser employee benefit plans on substantially the same basis as similarly situated Laser employees; provided, however, that Laser will cause the Company to continue the Company Plans for at least six (6) months following the Holdings Effective Time. Laser will or will cause the Company to give Company employees full credit for purposes of eligibility and vesting of benefits and benefit accrual for service with the Company and its affiliates prior to the Holdings Effective Time under each Laser employee benefit plan; provided, however, that no such crediting of service results in duplication of benefits. With respect to any welfare benefit plans maintained for the benefit of Company employees from and after the Holdings Effective Time, Laser shall (i) cause there to be waived any pre-existing condition limitations and (ii) give effect, in determining any deductible and maximum out-of-pocket limitations, to claims incurred and amounts paid by, and amounts reimbursed to, such employees with respect to similar plans maintained by the Company for such employee's benefit immediately prior to the Holdings Effective Time. Laser acknowledges that, for the purposes of certain of such Company Plans and certain of such other employment, severance, termination, consulting and retirement agreements to which the Company is currently a party, the consummation of the Holdings Merger will constitute a "change in control" of the Company (as such term is defined in such plans and agreements). Laser agrees to cause the Company, after the Holdings Effective Time, to pay all amounts provided under such Company Plans and agreements as a result of a change in control of the Company in accordance with their respective terms and to honor, and to cause the Company to honor, all rights, privileges and modifications to or with respect to any such Company Plans or agreements which become effective as a result of such change in control.

(b) Laser shall cause the Company to continue the Company's Executive Annual Incentive Policy for the remainder of 1998, and participants therein shall not be eligible for participation in an analogous Laser incentive plan in respect of 1998. Laser shall honor, and shall cause the Company to honor, the Company's Executive Severance Policy without any amendment adverse to participants. Laser shall provide severance benefits for employees of the Company, who are not participants in Company's Executive Severance Policy and who do not have employment agreements with the Company, under the Laser severance policy on the same basis as similarly situated Laser employees provided that severance benefits shall be no less than those set forth on Schedule 7.7(b).

(c) Effective as of the ninety-first (91st) day following the Holdings Effective Time, the participants in the Executive Severance Policy set forth on Schedule 7.7(c) may voluntarily terminate their employment, which termination will be deemed to be for "Good Reason" under the Executive Severance Policy as a result of the consummation of the Holdings Merger.

(d) Laser and the Company agree to take all necessary action to provide that, effective as of the Holdings Effective Time, all outstanding Employee Stock Options shall be vested and exercisable as of the Holdings Effective Time, and between the Holdings Effective Time and the Company Effective Time, Laser shall cause the Company to maintain a broker-dealer cashless exercise procedure for the exercise of Employee Stock Options. Laser and the Company agree to take all other actions necessary to provide for the cancellation, effective at the Company Effective Time, of each outstanding Employee Stock Option and, in settlement therefor, a payment to the holder of the Employee Stock Option in cash by Laser or the Company at the Company Effective Time equal to the product of (i) the total number of shares of Company Common Stock subject to such Employee Stock Option, and (ii) the excess of $27.50 over the exercise price per share of Company Common Stock subject to such Employee Stock Option, less any applicable withholding taxes.

(e) Laser agrees that, at or prior to the Holdings Effective Time, Holdings may cause the Company to (i) assume sponsorship of the pension, retirement, savings, retiree health care and life insurance and other plans maintained by New Coleman Holdings, Inc. that are reflected in footnotes 7 and 12 to the 1996 financial statements included in the Company's 1996 Annual Report on SEC Form 10-K (as such plans may have been changed in the ordinary course of business since December 31, 1996) (the "Plans"), and (ii) assume the liabilities and obligations of New Coleman Holdings, Inc. under the Plans to the extent reflected in such footnotes (as such liabilities and obligations may have changed in the ordinary course of business since December 31, 1996). The documents used to effect such assumption shall be in form and substance reasonably satisfactory to Parent Holdings and Laser.

Section 7.8 Continuance of Existing Indemnification Rights.

(a) For six (6) years after the Company Effective Time (and during the period following the Holdings Effective Time but prior to the Company Effective Time), Laser shall, or shall cause the Surviving Corporation to, indemnify, defend and hold harmless any person who is now, or has been at any time prior to the date hereof, or who becomes prior to the Company Effective Time, a director or officer of the Company (an "Indemnified Person") against all losses, claims, damages, liabilities, costs and expenses (including attorneys' fees and expenses), judgments, fines, losses and amounts paid in settlement in connection with any actual or threatened action, suit, claim, proceeding or investigation (each, a "Claim") to the extent that any such Claim is based on, or arises out of: (i) the fact that such Indemnified Person is or was a director or officer of the Company or is or was serving at the request of the Company as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust or other enterprise; or (ii) this Agreement or the Holdings Merger Agreement or any of the transactions contemplated hereby or thereby, in each case to the extent that any such Claim pertains to any matter or fact arising, existing or occurring prior to or at the Company Effective Time, regardless of whether such Claim is asserted or claimed prior to, at or after the Company Effective Time, to the full extent permitted under the DGCL, the Company's certificate of incorporation or by-laws or any indemnification agreement in effect at the date hereof, including provisions relating to advancement of expenses incurred in the defense of any such Claim; provided, however, that neither Laser nor the Surviving Corporation shall be required to indemnify any Indemnified Person in connection with any proceeding (or portion thereof) involving any Claim initiated by such Indemnified Person against the Company unless the initiation of such proceeding (or portion thereof) was authorized by the Board of Directors of the Company or unless such proceeding is brought by an Indemnified Person to enforce rights under this Section 7.8; and provided further that in the event any Claim is asserted or made within such period, all such rights, liabilities and limitations in respect of any such Claim shall continue until disposition thereof. Without limiting the generality of the preceding sentence, in the event any Indemnified Person becomes involved in any Claim after the Company Effective Time, Laser shall, or shall cause the Surviving Corporation to, periodically advance to such Indemnified Person its legal and other expenses (including the cost of any investigation and preparation incurred in connection therewith), subject to the providing by such Indemnified Person of an undertaking to reimburse all amounts so advanced in the event of a final non-appealable determination by a court of competent jurisdiction that such Indemnified Person is not entitled thereto.

(b) Laser and the Company agree that all rights to indemnification, and all limitations with respect thereto, existing in favor of any Indemnified Person, as provided in the Company's certificate of incorporation or by-laws and any indemnification agreement in effect at the date hereof, shall survive the Holdings Merger and the Company Merger and shall continue in full force and effect, without any amendment thereto, for a period of six (6) years from the Company Effective Time (and during the period following the Holdings Effective Time but prior to the Company Effective Time) to the extent such rights and limitations are consistent with the DGCL; provided, however, that in the event any Claim is asserted or made within such period, all such rights, liabilities and limitations in respect of any such Claim shall continue until disposition thereof; provided further that any determination required to be made with respect to whether an Indemnified Person's conduct complies with the standards set forth under the DGCL, the Company's certificate of incorporation or by-laws or any such agreement, as the case may be, shall be made by independent legal counsel selected by such Indemnified Person and reasonably acceptable to Laser; and provided further that nothing in this Section 7.8 shall impair any rights or obligations of any current or former director or officer of the Company.

(c) Laser or the Surviving Corporation shall use reasonable best efforts to obtain a liability insurance policy ("D&O Insurance") for the benefit of the Company's existing and former directors and officers commencing at the Holdings Effective Time and for a period of not less than six (6) years after the Company Effective Time providing substantially similar coverage in amounts and on terms no less advantageous than that currently provided to such existing and former directors and officers; provided further that neither Laser nor the Surviving Corporation shall be required to pay an annual premium for D&O Insurance in excess of 200% of the last annual premium paid prior to the date hereof, but in such case shall purchase as much coverage as possible for such amount.

(d) The provisions of this Section 7.8 are intended to be for the benefit of, and shall be enforceable by, each Indemnified Person, his or her heirs and his or her personal representatives.

Section 7.9 Expenses. Whether or not the Company Merger is consummated, all costs and expenses incurred in connection with this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby shall be paid by the party incurring such expenses.

Section 7.10 Public Announcements. Laser and the Company shall consult with each other before issuing their respective initial press releases to be issued with respect to the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and the Holdings Merger.

Section 7.11 Reasonable Best Efforts. Upon the terms and subject to the conditions set forth in this Agreement, each of the parties hereto agrees to use its reasonable best efforts to take, or cause to be taken, all actions, and to do, or cause to be done, and to assist and cooperate with the other parties in doing, all things necessary, proper or advisable, to consummate and make effective, in the most expeditious manner practicable, the Company Merger and the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement, including, but not limited to: (i) the obtaining of all necessary actions or nonactions, waivers, consents and approvals from all Governmental Entities and the making of all necessary registrations and filings with, and the taking of all other reasonable steps as may be necessary to obtain an approval or waiver from, or to avoid an action or proceeding by, any Governmental Entity (including those in connection with the HSR Act, if applicable); (ii) the obtaining of all necessary consents, approvals or waivers from persons other than Governmental Entities; (iii) the defending of any lawsuits or other legal proceedings, whether judicial or administrative, challenging this Agreement or the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby, including seeking to have any stay or temporary restraining order entered by any court or other Governmental Entity vacated or reversed; and (iv) the execution and delivery of any additional instruments necessary to consummate the transactions contemplated by this Agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed to require any party hereto to enter into any agreement with any Governmental Entity or to consent to any order, decree or judgment requiring such party to hold, separate or divest, or to restrict the dominion or control of such party or any of its Affiliates over, any of the assets, properties or businesses of such party or its Affiliates in existence on the date hereof.

ARTICLE VIII

CONDITIONS TO CONSUMMATION OF THE MERGER

Section 8.1 Conditions to Each Party's Obligation to Effect the Company Merger. The respective obligations of each party to effect the Company Merger shall be subject to the satisfaction or waiver, to the extent permitted by Law, at or prior to the Company Effective Time of the following conditions:

(a) The Registration Statement shall have become effective in accordance with the provisions of the Securities Act and no stop order suspending the effectiveness of the Registration Statement shall be in effect and no proceeding for such purpose shall be pending before or threatened by the SEC; and all applicable time periods required under the Securities Act and the Exchange Act following the mailing of the Information Statement to the Company's stockholders shall have lapsed.

(b) The Laser Shares shall have been approved for listing on the NYSE, subject to official notice of issuance.

(c) No preliminary or permanent injunction or other order by any federal or state court in the United States of competent jurisdiction which prohibits the consummation of the Company Merger shall have been issued and remain in effect.

(d) The Holdings Merger shall have been consummated in accordance with its terms and the applicable provisions of the DGCL.

ARTICLE IX

TERMINATION, AMENDMENT AND WAIVER

Section 9.1 Termination. This Agreement shall terminate automatically upon the termination of the Holdings Merger Agreement in accordance with its terms.

Section 9.2 Effect of Termination. In the event of termination of this Agreement as provided in Section 9.1 hereof, this Agreement shall forthwith become void and there shall be no liability on the part of any of the parties; provided that the provisions of Sections 7.2 and 7.9 and of this Article IX shall continue and that nothing herein shall relieve any party from liability for any willful breach hereof.

Section 9.3 Amendment. This Agreement may be amended by the parties pursuant to a writing adopted by action taken by all of the parties at any time prior to (but not following) the consummation of the Holdings Merger. This Agreement may not be amended except by an instrument in writing signed by all the parties hereto.

Section 9.4 Extension; Waiver. At any time prior to (but not following) the consummation of the Holdings Merger any party hereto may (a) extend the time for the performance of any of the obligations or other acts of the other parties, (b) waive any inaccuracies in the representations and warranties contained herein or in any document delivered pursuant hereto and (c) waive compliance with any of the agreements or conditions contained herein. Any agreement on the part of a party to any such extension or waiver shall be valid only as against such party and only if set forth in an instrument in writing signed by such party. The failure of any party to this Agreement to assert any of its rights under this Agreement or otherwise shall not constitute a waiver of such rights.

ARTICLE X

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 10.1 No Survival of Representations and Warranties. No representations or warranties contained herein shall survive beyond the Company Effective Time. This Section 10.1 shall not limit any covenant or agreement of the parties which by its terms contemplates performance after the Company Effective Time.

This Agreement (including the Exhibits, Disclosure Schedules and other documents and instruments referred to herein) (a) constitutes the entire agreement and supersedes all other prior agreements and understandings, both written and oral, among the parties or any of them, with respect to the subject matter hereof; (b) except for the provisions of Sections 7.7(c) and 7.8 hereof, is not intended to confer upon any other person any rights or remedies hereunder.

Section 10.5 Interpretation. When a reference is made in this Agreement to an Article, Section or Annex, such reference shall be to an Article or Section of, or an Annex to, this Agreement unless otherwise indicated.

Whenever the words "include", "includes" or "including" are used in this Agreement, they shall be deemed to be followed by the words "without limitation". The words "hereof", "herein" and "hereunder" and words of similar import when used in this Agreement shall refer to this Agreement as a whole and not to any particular provision of this Agreement. The phrase "made available" in this Agreement shall mean that the information referred to has been made available if requested by the party to whom such information is to be made available. All terms defined in this Agreement shall have the defined meanings used in any certificate or other document made or delivered pursuant hereto unless otherwise defined therein. The definitions contained in this Agreement are applicable to the singular as well as the plural forms of such terms and to the masculine as well as to the feminine and neuter genders of such term. Any agreement, instrument or statute defined or referred to herein or in any agreement or instrument that is referred to herein means such agreement, instrument or statute as from time to time amended, modified or supplemented, including (in the case of agreements or instruments) by waiver or consent and (in the case of statutes) by succession of comparable successor statutes and references to all attachments thereto and instruments incorporated therein. References to a person are also to its permitted successors and assigns and, in the case of an individual, to his heirs and estate, as applicable.

Section 10.6 Severability. If any provision of this Agreement or the application thereof to any person or circumstance is determined by a court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, void or unenforceable, the remaining provisions hereof, or the application of such provision to persons or circumstances other than those as to which it has been held invalid or unenforceable, shall remain in full force and effect and shall in no way be affected, impaired or invalidated thereby. Upon any such determination, the parties shall negotiate in good faith in an effort to agree upon a suitable and equitable substitute provision to effect original intent of the parties.

Section 10.7 Assignment. Neither this Agreement nor any of the rights, interests or obligations under this Agreement shall be assigned, in whole or in part, by operation of Law or otherwise by any of the parties without the prior written consent of the other parties. Any assignment in violation of the preceding sentence shall be void. Subject to the preceding sentence, this Agreement will be binding upon, inure to the benefit of, and be enforceable by, the parties and their respective successors and assigns.

Section 10.8 Disclosure Schedules. Matters reflected on the Company Disclosure Schedule are not necessarily limited to matters required by this Agreement to be reflected therein and the inclusion of such matters shall not be deemed an admission that such matters were required to be reflected on the Company Disclosure Schedule. Such additional matters are set forth for informational purposes only and do not necessarily include other matters of a similar nature. Capitalized terms used in the Company Disclosure Schedule but not otherwise defined therein shall have the respective meanings assigned to such terms in this Agreement.

Section 10.9 Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the Laws of the State of Delaware without giving effect to the provisions thereof relating to conflicts of Law.

Section 10.10 Specific Performance. The parties hereto agree that irreparable damage would occur in the event any of the provisions of this Agreement were not performed in accordance with the terms hereof and that the parties shall be entitled to specific performance of the terms hereof, in addition to any other remedy at Law or equity.

Section 10.11 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed to be an original but all of which shall constitute one and the same agreement.

Section 10.12 Certain Terms. As used herein, (i) the term "material adverse effect" (including as used in any definition), with respect to any Person, shall exclude any change, event, effect or circumstance (a) arising in connection with the announcement or performance of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement or the Holdings Merger Agreement and (b) affecting the United States economy generally or such Person's industries generally; and (ii) "to the knowledge of the Company" shall mean to the actual knowledge of Paul E. ANNEX II

262 APPRAISAL RIGHTS. (a) Any stockholder of a corporation of this State who holds shares of stock on the date of the making of a demand pursuant to subsection (d) of this section with respect to such shares, who continuously holds such shares through the effective date of the merger or consolidation, who has otherwise complied with subsection (d) of this section and who has neither voted in favor of the merger or consolidation nor consented thereto in writing pursuant to Section 228 of this title shall be entitled to an appraisal by the Court of Chancery of the fair value of the stockholder's shares of stock under the circumstances described in subsections (b) and (c) of this section. As used in this section, the word "stockholder" means a holder of record of stock in a stock corporation and also a member of record of a nonstock corporation; the words "stock" and "share" mean and include what is ordinarily meant by those words and also membership or membership interest of a member of a nonstock corporation; and the words "depository receipt" mean a receipt or other instrument issued by a depository representing an interest in one or more shares, or fractions thereof, solely of stock of a corporation, which stock is deposited with the depository.

(1) Provided, however, that no appraisal rights under this section shall be available for the shares of any class or series of stock, which stock, or depository receipts in respect thereof, at the record date fixed to determine the stockholders entitled to receive notice of and to vote at the meeting of stockholders to act upon the agreement of merger or consolidation, were either (i) listed on a national securities exchange or designated as a national market system security on an interdealer quotation system by the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. or (ii) held of record by more than 2,000 holders; and further provided that no appraisal rights shall be available for any shares of stock of the constituent corporation surviving a merger if the merger did not require for its approval the vote of the stockholders of the surviving corporation as provided in subsection (f) of section 251 of this title.

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph (1) of this subsection, appraisal rights under this section shall be available for the shares of any class or series of stock of a constituent corporation if the holders thereof are required by the terms of an agreement of merger or consolidation pursuant to sections 251, 252, 254, 257, 258, 263 and 264 of this title to accept for such stock anything except:

a. Shares of stock of the corporation surviving or resulting from such merger or consolidation, or depository receipts in respect thereof;

b. Shares of stock of any other corporation, or depository receipts in respect thereof, which shares of stock or depository receipts at the effective date of the merger or consolidation will be either listed on a national securities exchange or designated as a national market system security on an interdealer quotation system by the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. or held of record by more than 2,000 holders;

c. Cash in lieu of fractional shares or fractional depository receipts described in the foregoing subparagraphs a. and b. of this paragraph; or

d. Any combination of the shares of stock, depository receipts and cash in lieu of fractional shares or fractional depository receipts described in the foregoing subparagraphs a., b. and c. of this paragraph.

(3) In the event all of the stock of a subsidiary Delaware corporation party to a merger effected under section 253 of this title is not owned by the parent corporation immediately prior to the merger, appraisal rights shall be available for the shares of the subsidiary Delaware corporation.

(c) Any corporation may provide in its certificate of incorporation that appraisal rights under this section shall be available for the shares of any class or series of its stock as a result of an amendment to its certificate of incorporation, any merger or consolidation in which the corporation is a constituent corporation or the sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the corporation. If the certificate of incorporation contains such a provision, the procedures of this section, including those set forth in subsections (d) and (e) of this section, shall apply as nearly as is practicable.

(d) Appraisal rights shall be perfected as follows:

(1) If a proposed merger or consolidation for which appraisal rights are provided under this section is to be submitted for approval at a meeting of stockholders, the corporation, not less than 20 days prior to the meeting, shall notify each of its stockholders who was such on the record date for such meeting with respect to shares for which appraisal rights are available pursuant to subsections (b) or (c) hereof that appraisal rights are available for any or all of the shares of the constituent corporations, and shall include in such notice a copy of this section. Each stockholder electing to demand the appraisal of his shares shall deliver to the corporation, before the taking of the vote on the merger or consolidation, a written demand for appraisal of his shares. Such demand will be sufficient if it reasonably informs the corporation of the identity of the stockholder and that the stockholder intends thereby to demand the appraisal of his shares. A proxy or vote against the merger or consolidation shall not constitute such a demand. A stockholder electing to take such action must do so by a separate written demand as herein provided. Within 10 days after the effective date of such merger or consolidation, the surviving or resulting corporation shall notify each stockholder of each constituent corporation who has complied with this subsection and has not voted in favor of or consented to the merger or consolidation of the date that the merger or consolidation has become effective; or

(2) If the merger or consolidation was approved pursuant to Section 228 or Section 253 of this title, each constituent corporation, either before the effective date of the merger or consolidation or within ten days thereafter, shall notify each of the holders of any class or series of stock of such constituent corporation who are entitled to appraisal rights of the approval of the merger or consolidation and that appraisal rights are available for any or all shares of such class or series of stock of such constituent corporation, and shall include in such notice a copy of this section; provided that, if the notice is given on or after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, such notice shall be given by the surviving or resulting corporation to all such holders of any class or series of stock of a constituent corporation that are entitled to appraisal rights. Such notice may, and, if given on or after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, shall, also notify such stockholders of the effective date of the merger or consolidation. Any stockholder entitled to appraisal rights may, within 20 days after the date of mailing of such notice, demand in writing from the surviving or resulting corporation the appraisal of such holder's shares. Such demand will be sufficient if it reasonably informs the corporation of the identity of the stockholder and that the stockholder intends thereby to demand the appraisal of such holder's shares. If such notice did not notify stockholders of the effective date of the merger or consolidation, either (i) each such constituent corporation shall send a second notice before the effective date of the merger or consolidation notifying each of the holders of any class or series of stock of such constituent corporation that are entitled to appraisal rights of the effective date of the merger or consolidation or (ii) the surviving or resulting corporation shall send such a second notice to all such holders on or within 10 days after such effective date; provided, however, that if such second notice is sent more than 20 days following the sending of the first notice, such second notice need only be sent to each stockholder who is entitled to appraisal rights and who has demanded appraisal of such holder's shares in accordance with this subsection. An affidavit of the secretary or assistant secretary or of the transfer agent of the corporation that is required to give either notice that such notice has been given shall, in the absence of fraud, be prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein. For purposes of determining the stockholders entitled to receive either notice, each constituent corporation may fix, in advance, a record date that shall be not more than 10 days prior to the date the notice is given, provided, that if the notice is given on or after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, the record date shall be such effective date. If no record date is fixed and the notice is given prior to the effective date, the record date shall be the close of business on the day next preceding the day on which the notice is given.

(e) Within 120 days after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, the surviving or resulting corporation or any stockholder who has complied with subsections (a) and (d) hereof and who is otherwise entitled to appraisal rights, may file a petition in the Court of Chancery demanding a determination of the value of the stock of all such stockholders. Notwithstanding the foregoing, at any time within 60 days after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, any stockholder shall have the right to withdraw his demand for appraisal and to accept the terms offered upon the merger or consolidation. Within 120 days after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, any stockholder who has complied with the requirements of subsections (a) and (d) hereof, upon written request, shall be entitled to receive from the corporation surviving the merger or resulting from the consolidation a statement setting forth the aggregate number of shares not voted in favor of the merger or consolidation and with respect to which demands for appraisal have been received and the aggregate number of holders of such shares. Such written statement shall be mailed to the stockholder within 10 days after his written request for such a statement is received by the surviving or resulting corporation or within 10 days after expiration of the period for delivery of demands for appraisal under subsection (d) hereof, whichever is later.

(f) Upon the filing of any such petition by a stockholder, service of a copy thereof shall be made upon the surviving or resulting corporation, which shall within 20 days after such service file in the office of the Register in Chancery in which the petition was filed a duly verified list containing the names and addresses of all stockholders who have demanded payment for their shares and with whom agreements as to the value of their shares have not been reached by the surviving or resulting corporation. If the petition shall be filed by the surviving or resulting corporation, the petition shall be accompanied by such a duly verified list. The Register in Chancery, if so ordered by the Court, shall give notice of the time and place fixed for the hearing of such petition by registered or certified mail to the surviving or resulting corporation and to the stockholders shown on the list at the addresses therein stated. Such notice shall also be given by 1 or more publications at least 1 week before the day of the hearing, in a newspaper of general circulation published in the City of Wilmington, Delaware or such publication as the Court deems advisable. The forms of the notices by mail and by publication shall be approved by the Court, and the costs thereof shall be borne by the surviving or resulting corporation.

(g) At the hearing on such petition, the Court shall determine the stockholders who have complied with this section and who have become entitled to appraisal rights. The Court may require the stockholders who have demanded an appraisal for their shares and who hold stock represented by certificates to submit their certificates of stock to the Register in Chancery for notation thereon of the pendency of the appraisal proceedings; and if any stockholder fails to comply with such direction, the Court may dismiss the proceedings as to such stockholder.

(h) After determining the stockholders entitled to an appraisal, the Court shall appraise the shares, determining their fair value exclusive of any element of value arising from the accomplishment or expectation of the merger or consolidation, together with a fair rate of interest, if any, to be paid upon the amount determined to be the fair value. In determining such fair value, the Court shall take into account all relevant factors. In determining the fair rate of interest, the Court may consider all relevant factors, including the rate of interest which the surviving or resulting corporation would have had to pay to borrow money during the pendency of the proceeding. Upon application by the surviving or resulting corporation or by any stockholder entitled to participate in the appraisal proceeding, the Court may, in its discretion, permit discovery or other pretrial proceedings and may proceed to trial upon the appraisal prior to the final determination of the stockholder entitled to an appraisal. Any stockholder whose name appears on the list filed by the surviving or resulting corporation pursuant to subsection (f) of this section and who has submitted his certificates of stock to the Register in Chancery, if such is required, may participate fully in all proceedings until it is finally determined that he is not entitled to appraisal rights under this section.

(i) The Court shall direct the payment of the fair value of the shares, together with interest, if any, by the surviving or resulting corporation to the stockholders entitled thereto. Interest may be simple or compound, as the Court may direct. Payment shall be so made to each such stockholder, in the case of holders of uncertificated stock forthwith, and the case of holders of shares represented by certificates upon the surrender to the corporation of the certificates representing such stock. The Court's decree may be enforced as other decrees in the Court of Chancery may be enforced, whether such surviving or resulting corporation be a corporation of this State or of any state.

(j) The costs of the proceeding may be determined by the Court and taxed upon the parties as the Court deems equitable in the circumstances. Upon application of a stockholder, the Court may order all or a portion of the expenses incurred by any stockholder in connection with the appraisal proceeding, including, without limitation, reasonable attorney's fees and the fees and expenses of experts, to be charged pro rata against the value of all the shares entitled to an appraisal.

(k) From and after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, no stockholder who has demanded his appraisal rights as provided in subsection (d) of this section shall be entitled to vote such stock for any purpose or to receive payment of dividends or other distributions on the stock (except dividends or other distributions payable to stockholders of record at a date which is prior to the effective date of the merger or consolidation); provided, however, that if no petition for an appraisal shall be filed within the time provided in subsection (e) of this section, or if such stockholder shall deliver to the surviving or resulting corporation a written withdrawal of his demand for an appraisal and an acceptance of the merger or consolidation, either within 60 days after the effective date of the merger or consolidation as provided in subsection (e) of this section or thereafter with the written approval of the corporation, then the right of such stockholder to an appraisal shall cease. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no appraisal proceeding in the Court of Chancery shall be dismissed as to any stockholder without the approval of the Court, and such approval may be conditioned upon such terms as the Court deems just.

(l) The shares of the surviving or resulting corporation to which the shares of such objecting stockholders would have been converted had they assented to the merger or consolidation shall have the status of authorized and unissued shares of the surviving or resulting corporation.

[THE COLEMAN COMPANY, INC. LETTERHEAD]

December 6, 1999

Dear Stockholder:

On or about January 6, 2000, Coleman plans to merge with a subsidiary of Sunbeam Corporation. Under the February 1998 agreement relating to the merger, you will receive $6.44 in cash and 0.5677 of a share of Sunbeam common stock for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed. In addition, under a court-approved litigation settlement, you will receive warrants each entitling you to purchase one Sunbeam share at a cash price of $7 per share until August 24, 2003. You will receive 0.381 of a warrant for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed (assuming no further increase in the number of outstanding Coleman shares).

The merger was approved by Coleman's board of directors and majority stockholder, a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings Inc., on February 27, 1998. AS A RESULT, NO FURTHER ACTION BY YOU OR ANY OTHER COLEMAN STOCKHOLDER IS REQUIRED TO COMPLETE THE MERGER.

At the same time that Coleman's board and majority stockholder approved the merger, Sunbeam agreed to acquire indirectly about 81% of the then outstanding Coleman common stock from a MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary. That transaction was completed on March 30, 1998. Sunbeam now owns indirectly about 79% of the outstanding Coleman common stock, as well as shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock purchased from Coleman in July 1999, which together enable Sunbeam to exercise just over 80% of the total voting power of Coleman's outstanding capital stock.

As a result of several negative developments affecting Sunbeam, the market price of Sunbeam common stock has declined sharply since the transaction was first announced. Sunbeam's stock closed at $41.75 on February 27, 1998; it closed at $4.75 on December 3, 1999. The financial advisor which advised the then Coleman board on February 27, 1998 that the merger was fair to you has since indicated that its opinion, although correct when given, should no longer be relied upon because of the subsequent negative developments affecting Sunbeam. In addition, Sunbeam's financial advisor has advised Sunbeam that its opinion regarding the fairness to Sunbeam of the consideration payable to you under the merger agreement, although correct when given, should no longer be relied upon.

The February 1998 merger agreement provides that it cannot be amended or terminated and the amount of merger consideration has not been adjusted to reflect the decline in the market price of Sunbeam's stock. However, litigation brought on behalf of you and the other Coleman minority stockholders relating to the merger has been settled and, under the terms of the court-approved litigation settlement, you and the other Coleman minority stockholders will receive the warrants, in addition to the cash and stock provided under the merger agreement, when the merger is completed.

Instead of receiving cash, Sunbeam stock and warrants upon completion of the merger, you have the right to dissent from the merger and have the fair value of your Coleman shares appraised by a court and paid to you in cash. These appraisal rights are granted to you by Delaware law and were not affected by the litigation settlement. IN ORDER TO PURSUE YOUR APPRAISAL RIGHTS, YOU MUST SUBMIT A WRITTEN DEMAND TO COLEMAN ON OR BEFORE DECEMBER 27, 1999 AND SATISFY THE OTHER REQUIREMENTS OUTLINED IN THE ATTACHED DOCUMENT.

The attached document contains important information about the merger, Coleman, Sunbeam, your Delaware law appraisal rights and the litigation settlement. You should read it carefully.

Very truly yours,

/s/ Jerry W. Levin

SUMMARY

This summary highlights information that may be found in greater detail elsewhere in this document. In this summary, we have attempted to describe those matters which we believe will be of the greatest importance to you in considering the merger. This summary may not, however, contain all information that is important to you. For that reason, we urge you to read this document carefully in its entirety, including the Annexes at the back of this document and the additional documents we refer you to under "WHERE YOU CAN FIND MORE INFORMATION" beginning on page 155. In particular, you are urged to read carefully the information contained in this document under the caption "RISK FACTORS," beginning on page 18.

<TABLE>

<S> <C>

Q: WHAT WILL I RECEIVE IN THE MERGER?

022164

A: Under the February 1998 agreement relating to the merger, you will receive $6.44 in cash share of Sunbeam common stock for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed. In addition, under a court-approved litigation settlement, you will receive warrants each purchase one Sunbeam share at a cash price of $7 per share until August 24, 2003. You will receive one warrant for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed (as an increase in the number of outstanding Coleman shares). For further information regarding the litigation settlement, including the terms of the warrants, see "LITIGATION SETTLEMENT AND WARRANTS" page 60.

You will not receive fractional shares of Sunbeam common stock in the merger. Instead, you will receive a check in payment for any fractional share based on the closing share price of Sunbeam common stock on the day the merger is completed. Nor will you receive any fractional warrants under the litigation settlement. Any fractional warrant will be rounded up or down to the nearest whole number.

Q: WHAT CHOICE DO I HAVE?

A: Your basic choice is whether to receive the cash, stock and warrants Sunbeam proposes to pay when the merger is completed, or to take action to pursue your Delaware law appraisal rights to have the value of your Coleman shares determined and to receive that value as determined by the cash.

Q: WHAT RISKS SHOULD I CONSIDER?

A: First, you should understand that you are receiving a fixed number of Sunbeam shares in the merger (one share of Sunbeam for each Coleman share you own) and no more than a fixed number of Sunbeam warrants (0.381 of a warrant for each Coleman share you own). Since the merger was approved in 1998, subsequent developments affecting Sunbeam have caused the market price of the Sunbeam shares to decline (from $41.75 per share on February 27, 1998 to $4.75 per share on December 3, 1999). The market price of Sunbeam shares may further decrease before or after the merger.

Second, please understand that the financial advisor which advised the then Coleman board in 1998 that the merger was fair to you has since indicated that its opinion, although correct at the time, should no longer be relied upon because of subsequent negative developments affecting Sunbeam. Another financial advisor has been asked to provide a fairness opinion with respect to the merger. You will receive the merger consideration as a result, you do not have the benefit of an independent evaluation of the fairness of the merger consideration in deciding whether to accept the merger consideration or to exercise your Delaware law appraisal rights. In addition, Sunbeam's financial advisor has advised Sunbeam regarding the fairness to Sunbeam of the consideration payable to you under the merger agreement. This opinion, if correct when given, should no longer be relied upon.

<TABLE>

<S> <C>

You also should realize that Sunbeam faces the following risks that could negatively affect the value of the shares and warrants you receive:

- o Sunbeam is highly leveraged which impairs its ability to obtain financing and limits cash available for Sunbeam's operations and may limit its competitiveness in the market place,
- o Sunbeam's bank credit facility contains covenants which Sunbeam may not be able to satisfy and provisions it may not be able to avoid, and if Sunbeam cannot, the banks could demand repayment of Sunbeam's bank debt,
- o Sunbeam's bank debt could become due on April 10, 2000, if Sunbeam does not get another loan from the banks or refinance its bank debt by then, and there can be no assurance that Sunbeam will be able to repay the bank debt on that date,
- o Sunbeam may not be able to service its large debt burden, which may force it to restructure its debt,

- o Because many members of Sunbeam's current management and board of directors recently jo not have a long history of managing Sunbeam, there can be no assurance that Sunbeam's c and board of directors will be able to successfully manage Sunbeam, and
- o Sunbeam relies on its key personnel and the loss of one or more of those personnel coul adverse effect on Sunbeam's business, financial condition and results of operations.

For more detail about these and other risks, please carefully read "RISK FACTORS" beginni "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM" beginning on page 26.

Q: WHEN DO YOU EXPECT THE MERGER TO BE COMPLETED?

A: We plan to complete the merger on or about January 6, 2000, which is the twenty-first bus the date on which this document was first mailed to you.

Q: WHAT ARE THE TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGER TO COLEMAN STOCKHOLDERS?

A: Your receipt of cash, Sunbeam common stock and warrants to purchase Sunbeam common stock shares of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed is expected to be a t for United States Federal income tax purposes and may also be a taxable transaction under local, foreign and other tax laws. However, the tax consequences of the merger are subjec qualifications, as discussed below under the caption "UNITED STATES FEDERAL INCOME TAX CC beginning on page 60.

THE TAX CONSEQUENCES TO YOU OF THE MERGER WILL DEPEND ON YOUR OWN SITUATION. YOU SHOULD C ADVISOR FOR A FULL UNDERSTANDING OF THESE TAX CONSEQUENCES.

Q: AM I BEING ASKED TO VOTE ON THE MERGER?

A: No. The merger agreement was approved on February 27, 1998 by Coleman's former board of c majority stockholder, a MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary. AS A RESULT, NO FURTHER ACTION BY COLEMAN STOCKHOLDER IS REQUIRED TO COMPLETE THE MERGER.

Q: WHAT IF I WANT TO ACCEPT THE CASH, STOCK AND WARRANTS SUNBEAM PROPOSES TO GIVE ME? SHOULD COLEMAN COMMON STOCK CERTIFICATES NOW?

A: If you wish to accept the cash, stock and warrants described above in exchange for the sh common stock you own when the merger is completed, you need not take any action now. Afte completed, you will receive written instructions on how to surrender your Coleman common in exchange for the merger consideration.

Q: WHAT IF I DO NOT WISH TO ACCEPT THE CASH, STOCK AND WARRANTS SUNBEAM PROPOSES TO GIVE ME?

A: If you object to the merger and do not wish to accept the cash, stock and warrants descri exchange for the shares of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed, you dissent from the merger and have the fair value of your Coleman shares appraised by a court and the amount determined by the court will be paid to you in cash by Coleman. IF Y THIS RIGHT, YOU MUST SUBMIT A WRITTEN DEMAND TO COLEMAN ON OR BEFORE DECEMBER 27, 1999. Y SATISFY THE OTHER REQUIREMENTS OUTLINED UNDER "APPRAISAL RIGHTS" BEGINNING ON PAGE 62. FA OF THE REQUIRED STEPS ON A TIMELY BASIS MAY RESULT IN THE LOSS OF YOUR APPRAISAL RIGHTS.

THE MERGER

The merger agreement is attached as Annex I at the back of this document. We encourage you to read the merger agreement carefully as it is the legal document that governs the merger.

Merger Consideration. Under the February 1998 agreement relating to the merger, you will receive $6.44 in cash and 0.5677 of a share of Sunbeam common stock for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed. In addition, under a court-approved litigation settlement, you will receive warrants each entitling you to purchase one Sunbeam share at a cash price of $7 per share until August 24, 2003. You will receive 0.381 of a warrant for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed (assuming no further increase in the number of outstanding Coleman shares). On March 30, 1998, in connection with the acquisition by Sunbeam of about 81% of the then outstanding shares of Coleman common stock from a subsidiary of MacAndrew & Forbes, all outstanding Coleman employee stock options vested and became exercisable. Accordingly, holders of Coleman employee stock options now have the choice of exercising their options prior to the merger or having their options cashed out in the merger at a price equal to $27.50 minus the per share exercise price of the option. Under the terms of the settlement, the pool of warrants available to Coleman minority stockholders will be distributed pro rata based on the number of Coleman shares held by Coleman minority stockholders at the time of the merger. The number of warrants available for distribution will not be increased in the event that additional Coleman shares are issued to Coleman minority stockholders prior to the completion of the merger. Therefore, if Coleman employee stock option holders were to exercise their options prior to the merger, the outstanding number of Coleman shares would increase and the fraction of a warrant you would receive in the merger for each of your Coleman shares would be reduced. Sunbeam and Coleman do not anticipate that Coleman employee stock option holders will exercise their options prior to the merger, however, because the exercise prices of these options are substantially above the current market price of Coleman common stock. For further information regarding the terms of the settlement, including the terms of the warrants, see

"LITIGATION SETTLEMENT AND WARRANTS" beginning on page 60.

You will not receive fractional shares of Sunbeam common stock in the merger. Instead, you will receive a check in payment for any fractional share based on the closing share price of Sunbeam common stock on the day the merger is completed. Nor will you receive any fractional warrants under the terms of the litigation settlement. Any fractional warrant will be rounded up or down to the nearest whole number.

Instead of receiving the cash, stock and warrants Sunbeam proposes to give you, you may exercise your Delaware law appraisal rights if you follow the procedures and satisfy the other requirements outlined below under the caption "APPRAISAL RIGHTS" beginning on page 62.

Ownership of Sunbeam After the Merger. In the merger, Sunbeam will issue about 6,676,135 shares of Sunbeam common stock, assuming all currently outstanding options to acquire Coleman common stock are cashed out in the merger and no Coleman stockholders exercise their Delaware law appraisal rights. See "THE MERGER--Ownership Interest of Coleman Stockholders in Sunbeam After the Merger" beginning on page 58. These 6,676,135 shares of Sunbeam common stock will constitute about 6.2% of the outstanding Sunbeam shares after the merger.

On March 30, 1998, Sunbeam issued 14,099,749 shares of Sunbeam common stock to a MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary in the transaction in which Sunbeam acquired indirectly about 81% of the then outstanding Coleman common stock (the "M&F Transaction"). These 14,099,749 shares will constitute about 13.1% of the outstanding Sunbeam shares after the merger.

In addition, under a court-approved litigation settlement, Sunbeam will issue warrants expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase about 4.98 million Sunbeam shares at a cash price of $7 per share when the merger is completed, assuming no Coleman stockholders exercise their Delaware law appraisal rights. Sunbeam has already issued a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase 23 million Sunbeam shares at a cash price of $7 per share to a MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary in settlement of claims relating to the M&F Transaction. The warrants to be issued to you will have the same terms as the warrant issued to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary except that the warrants issued to you, unlike the warrants issued to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary, will be freely tradeable upon issuance. See "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

AFFECTING SUNBEAM--Settlement of Claims Relating to the M&F Transaction" beginning on page 32 and "LITIGATION SETTLEMENT AND WARRANTS" beginning on page 60. If all these warrants were exercised promptly after the merger, the shares owned by the former Coleman minority stockholders would represent about 8.6% of the then outstanding Sunbeam shares, and the shares owned by the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary would represent about 27.4% of the then outstanding Sunbeam shares.

The current stockholders of Sunbeam, other than the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary, will own about 81% of the outstanding Sunbeam shares after the merger, or about 64% if all the warrants are exercised promptly after the merger.

Conditions. The completion of the merger was originally subject to the following conditions contained in the merger agreement:

- o this document had to be declared effective by the SEC;
- o the shares of Sunbeam common stock to be issued in the merger had to be listed for trading on the NYSE; and
- o the M&F Transaction had to be completed.

All of these conditions have already been satisfied. Therefore, assuming no court order is entered which prevents the merger from being completed, we expect that the merger will be completed on or about January 6, 2000, which is the twenty-first business day following the date on which this document was first mailed to you.

Accounting Treatment. The merger will be accounted for under the "purchase" method in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Therefore, the aggregate consideration paid by Sunbeam to Coleman stockholders in the merger and in the M&F Transaction will be allocated to Coleman's assets and liabilities based upon their fair market value with any excess being treated as goodwill.

Coleman's Financial Advisor. Credit Suisse First Boston Corporation acted as Coleman's financial advisor in connection with the merger. On February 27, 1998, when the merger agreement was approved by Coleman's former board of directors, Credit Suisse First Boston delivered to Coleman's former board an oral opinion, which was subsequently confirmed in writing, to the effect that, as of that date and based upon and subject to the matters described in the opinion, the cash and stock consideration you will receive under the merger agreement was fair to you from a financial point of view. Because Sunbeam did not plan to issue the warrants at the time the merger agreement was signed, Credit Suisse First Boston did not take the warrants into account when evaluating the fairness of the merger agreement consideration.

Since the date of the Credit Suisse First Boston opinion, numerous events have occurred that significantly adversely affected the price of Sunbeam common stock. WHEN CREDIT SUISSE FIRST BOSTON WAS ENGAGED BY COLEMAN, THEY WERE NOT ASKED TO RENDER AN UPDATED OPINION AS OF THE DATE OF THIS DOCUMENT AND NEITHER SUNBEAM NOR COLEMAN HAS REQUESTED THAT THEY DO SO. MOREOVER, CREDIT SUISSE FIRST BOSTON HAS ADVISED SUNBEAM THAT ITS OPINION, ALTHOUGH CORRECT WHEN GIVEN, SHOULD NO LONGER BE RELIED UPON BECAUSE OF SUBSEQUENT NEGATIVE DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM. See "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM" beginning on page 26.

For its services to Coleman, Credit Suisse First Boston has received fees of about $4 million. See "SPECIAL FACTORS--Financial Advisors' Opinions" beginning on page 42.

Sunbeam's Financial Advisor. Morgan Stanley & Co., Incorporated acted as Sunbeam's financial advisor in connection with its acquisition of Coleman. On February 27, 1998, when the merger agreement was approved by Sunbeam's board of directors, Morgan Stanley rendered to Sunbeam's board of directors an oral opinion, which was subsequently confirmed in writing, to the effect that, as of that date and based upon and subject to certain matters described in the opinion, the cash and stock consideration payable in the M&F Transaction and under the merger agreement was fair to Sunbeam from a financial point of view.

Because Sunbeam did not plan to issue the warrants at the time the merger agreement was signed, Morgan Stanley did not take the warrants into account when evaluating the fairness to Sunbeam of the consideration payable in the M&F Transaction and under the merger agreement.

Since the date of the Morgan Stanley opinion, a number of negative developments have occurred affecting Sunbeam and the price of Sunbeam common stock. WHEN MORGAN STANLEY WAS ENGAGED BY SUNBEAM, THEY WERE NOT ASKED TO RENDER AN UPDATED OPINION AS OF THE DATE OF THIS DOCUMENT AND NEITHER SUNBEAM NOR COLEMAN HAS REQUESTED THAT THEY DO SO. MOREOVER, MORGAN STANLEY HAS ADVISED SUNBEAM THAT ITS OPINION, ALTHOUGH CORRECT WHEN GIVEN, SHOULD NO LONGER BE RELIED UPON BECAUSE OF THE SUBSEQUENT NEGATIVE DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM. See "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM" beginning on page 26.

For its services to Sunbeam in connection with the Coleman acquisition, Morgan Stanley has received fees from Sunbeam totaling about $9.6 million. The amended engagement letter between Sunbeam and Morgan Stanley provides for the payment to Morgan Stanley of an additional transaction fee of $680,000 when the merger is completed, based on the average market price of Sunbeam common stock on the last trading day prior to the date of this document. Sunbeam's obligation to pay this additional transaction fee to Morgan Stanley will not be affected by the fact that Sunbeam is no longer entitled to rely on Morgan Stanley's fairness opinion. See "SPECIAL FACTORS--Financial Advisors' Opinions" beginning on page 42.

Interests of Certain Persons in the Merger. You should be aware that a number of persons, including current directors and executive officers of Sunbeam and former directors and executive officers of Coleman, some of whom have subsequently rejoined Coleman, have interests in the merger that are different from or in addition to yours. See "THE MERGER--Interests of Certain Persons in the Merger" beginning on page 50. These interests include:

- o the accelerated vesting, as a result of the M&F Transaction, of options to purchase Coleman common stock held by Coleman employees, officers and directors, including options exercised as a result of such accelerated vesting by two current executive officers of Sunbeam and Coleman, one of whom is a current director of Sunbeam and Coleman and a former director and executive officer of Coleman, as described below,
- o the right under the merger agreement of holders of Coleman employee stock options--including one former director of Coleman and three current executive officers of Sunbeam and Coleman, as described below--to have their options to purchase shares of Coleman common stock cashed out in the merger at a price equal to $27.50 per share minus the per share exercise price of the options,
- o the right of Coleman's current and former officers, directors, employees and consultants to continued indemnification,
- o the right of Coleman's officers, directors, employees and consultants--including two current executive officers of Sunbeam and Coleman and one former executive officer of Coleman, as described below--to receive severance payments as a result of the M&F Transaction, and

- o the right of the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary from which Sunbeam acquired a controlling interest in Coleman in the M&F Transaction and former directors and executive officers of Coleman to require the registration under the federal and state securities laws of the shares of Sunbeam common stock held by them and the warrants held by the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary and the shares issuable upon exercise of that warrant.

Immediately after the completion of the M&F Transaction, two current executive officers of Sunbeam and Coleman exercised options which vested as a result of the M&F Transaction. Jerry W. Levin, the then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Coleman and the current Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Sunbeam and Coleman, exercised 500,000 Coleman stock options at per share exercise prices ranging from $12.25 to $14.00 and Mr. Levin received net proceeds upon the sale of such shares of about $9.94 million. Bobby G. Jenkins, the current Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Sunbeam and Executive Vice President of Coleman, exercised 20,000 Coleman stock options at per share exercise prices ranging from $16.125 to $16.434 and Mr. Jenkins received net proceeds upon the sale of such shares of about $288,360.

Ronald O. Perelman, the sole stockholder of MacAndrews & Forbes and a member of the Coleman board at the time the agreement relating to the M&F Transaction and the merger agreement were executed, holds 500,000 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $14.00 per share. Paul E. Shapiro, the current Executive Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer of Sunbeam and Coleman, holds 62,500 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $17.062 per share and 15,000 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $16.125 per share. Karen K. Clark, the current Senior Vice President, Finance of Sunbeam and Senior Vice President, Finance of Coleman, holds 10,000 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $17.062 per share and 15,000 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $16.125 per share. Steven R. Isko, the current Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Sunbeam and Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Coleman, holds 10,000 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $17.062 per share, 7,500 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $16.125 per share and 2,500 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $12.937 per share. Upon completion of the merger, in settlement of their Coleman stock options, Messrs. Perelman, Shapiro and Isko and Ms. Clark will receive cash payments of $6,750,000, $823,000, $226,009 and $275,005, respectively.

In connection with the change in control resulting from the completion of the M&F Transaction, Sunbeam has paid, or has caused Coleman to pay or recognize as payable, a total of $7,903,765 in severance compensation and related benefits for approximately 117 former Coleman employees. Of that amount, $7,597,936 was in respect of base salary and related benefits, and $305,829 was in respect of extra pension credits. In addition, Coleman paid $454,277 for management incentive bonuses to 37 former Coleman employees. The only principal executive officer of Coleman to receive severance compensation from Coleman as a result of the change in control was Joseph Page, the former Chief Financial Officer of Coleman, who received severance payments totaling $280,000. Bobby G. Jenkins, the current Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Sunbeam and Executive Vice President of Coleman, received severance payments totaling $18,583 as a result of his resignation from Coleman following the M&F Transaction, and prior to his being rehired by both Sunbeam and Coleman in the capacities mentioned above. Steven R. Isko, the current Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Sunbeam and Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Coleman, received severance payments totaling $185,634 as a result of his resignation from Coleman following the M&F Transaction, and prior to his being rehired by both Sunbeam and Coleman in the capacities mentioned above.

Governmental and Regulatory Approvals. Under the Hart-Scott-Rodino

16div-028078

Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended, Sunbeam and Coleman were required to make filings with the Federal Trade Commission and the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice about the merger and observe a waiting period before completing the merger. These filings were made and the waiting period was terminated in March 1998.

UNITED STATES FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSIDERATIONS

Your receipt of cash, Sunbeam common stock and warrants to purchase Sunbeam common stock in exchange for the shares of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed is expected to be a taxable transaction for United States Federal income tax purposes and may also be a taxable transaction under applicable state, local, foreign and other tax laws. In general, for United States Federal income tax purposes, you will recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between:

- o the sum of the cash and the fair market value of the Sunbeam common stock and warrants you receive, and
- o your adjusted tax basis in the shares of Coleman common stock you exchange in the merger.

This gain or loss will be capital gain or loss if you hold the shares of Coleman common stock as a capital asset and will be long-term capital gain or loss if you have held the shares for more than twelve months.

However, the tax consequences of the merger are subject to a number of qualifications, discussed below under the caption "UNITED STATES FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSIDERATIONS" beginning on page 60.

THE TAX CONSEQUENCES TO YOU OF THE MERGER WILL DEPEND ON YOUR OWN SITUATION. YOU SHOULD CONSULT YOUR OWN TAX ADVISOR FOR A FULL UNDERSTANDING OF ALL OF THESE TAX CONSEQUENCES.

LITIGATION SETTLEMENT AND WARRANTS

On October 21, 1998, Sunbeam announced that it had entered into a memorandum of understanding to settle class action and derivative lawsuits brought by minority stockholders of Coleman challenging the merger. A stipulation of settlement was executed on August 6, 1999. The Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware held a hearing on September 29, 1999 to consider approving the settlement. The court approved the settlement on November 12, 1999.

Under the terms of the settlement, unless you have demanded your Delaware law appraisal rights, you will receive 0.381 of a warrant for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed (assuming no further increase in the number of outstanding Coleman shares). Each warrant will entitle you to purchase one share of Sunbeam common stock at a cash price of $7 per share until August 24, 2003. The total number of warrants you receive will be based on the number of shares of Coleman common stock outstanding and the number of shares you own at the time of the merger and will be equal to the product of (A) 4,979,663, less the 497,966 warrants awarded by the court to counsel for the Coleman minority stockholders in the litigation as their fee multiplied by (B) a fraction, the numerator of which is the number of shares of Coleman common stock you hold when the merger is completed (other than any shares with respect to which Delaware law appraisal rights have been demanded) and the denominator of which is the total number of shares of Coleman common stock outstanding and owned by Coleman stockholders other than Sunbeam and its subsidiaries at the time of the merger (approximately 11,759,970 shares, assuming no further exercises of Coleman employee stock options). Sunbeam does not anticipate any further exercises of Coleman employee stock options. The warrants will be subject to anti-dilution adjustments. No fractional warrants will be issued. Instead, the number of warrants to which you are entitled will be rounded up or down to the closest whole number. Thus, for example, if there are no further exercises of Coleman options and no anti-dilution adjustments, a Coleman stockholder who holds 100 shares of Coleman common stock at the time of the merger and does not demand Delaware law appraisal rights would be entitled to receive 38 warrants, calculated as follows:

<TABLE>
<CAPTION>

$$(4,979,663 - 497,966) \times (100 / 11,759,970) = 38.109$$

<S>	<C>	<C>	<C>
total # of warrants available	-	total # of warrants paid to plaintiffs' counsel	X
			# of shares owned
			total # of shares owned by the Coleman minority stockholders at th time the merger is completed

</TABLE>

The result of this equation would then be rounded down from 38.109 to 38, the closest whole number. However, because of the possibility (although unlikely) that Coleman options will be exercised prior to the completion of the merger, you will not be able to determine the precise number of warrants you will be entitled to receive in the merger before December 27, 1999, the date by which you must submit to Coleman a written demand for your appraisal rights under Delaware law if you wish to exercise those rights. See "APPRAISAL RIGHTS" beginning on page 62. However, for a description of the warrants, see "LITIGATION SETTLEMENT AND WARRANTS" beginning on page 60.

MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM AND ITS AFFILIATES

Financial Transactions Between Coleman and Sunbeam. In connection with the M&F Transaction, Coleman repaid substantially all of its outstanding indebtedness with the proceeds of borrowings from Sunbeam. Since then, Coleman has borrowed from, and repaid funds to, Sunbeam. Through April 15, 1999, Coleman's obligations to Sunbeam were evidenced by an unsecured subordinated demand note payable by

Coleman to Sunbeam. This note was pledged by Sunbeam to its lenders as security for Sunbeam's obligations under its bank credit facility.

In connection with the April 15, 1999 amendment to Sunbeam's bank credit facility, the Coleman note was revised to, among other things:

- o lower the interest rate,
- o make the note payable on April 15, 2000 rather than on demand,
- o add customary representations, warranties, covenants and events of default, and
- o provide that an event of default under Sunbeam's bank credit facility would constitute an event of default under the Coleman note.

As security for the revised Coleman note, Coleman pledged:

- o substantially all of its domestic assets, other than real property,
- o 66% of its ownership interests in its direct foreign subsidiaries and in its domestic holding companies for its foreign subsidiaries (but not the assets of these subsidiaries), and
- o all of its ownership interests in its other direct domestic subsidiaries (but not the assets of these subsidiaries).

The revised Coleman note had an unpaid principal balance of $303.2 million on September 30, 1999. Sunbeam pledged the revised Coleman note as security for Sunbeam's obligations to its lending banks under its bank credit facility and assigned to these lending banks the security pledged by Coleman for the revised Coleman note. Coleman also gave the lending banks a direct pledge of the assets securing the revised Coleman note to secure the obligations under Sunbeam's bank credit facility, subject to a cap equal to the balance due from time to time on the revised Coleman note. The revision of the Coleman note and the pledge of Coleman's assets were approved on behalf of Coleman by A. Whitman Marchand, Coleman's only disinterested director, acting as a duly authorized independent committee of the Coleman board of directors.

Under Sunbeam's bank credit facility, an event of default will occur if this document is not declared effective by the SEC on or before January 10, 2000, if the merger is not completed within 25 business days after the effectiveness of this document or if Sunbeam has to pay more than $87.5 million in cash (excluding expenses) to complete the merger (including any amounts paid with respect to appraisal rights). An event of default of this kind would also constitute an event of default under the Coleman note, and Sunbeam's lenders would be entitled to foreclose on the Coleman note and the Coleman assets pledged as security for the Coleman note. The Coleman note, by its terms, will not be affected by the merger and will remain outstanding. For more information concerning Sunbeam's bank credit facility, including the aggregate amount of borrowings outstanding thereunder, the amount available for future borrowings and the maturity date, see "SOURCE AND AMOUNT OF FUNDS AND OTHER CONSIDERATION" beginning on page 64. See also "MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM AND ITS AFFILIATES--Financial Transactions Between Coleman and Sunbeam" beginning on page 68.

M&F Transaction. In the M&F Transaction, which was completed on March 30, 1998, Sunbeam acquired indirectly about 81% of the then outstanding Coleman common stock (reduced to about 79% as a result of the exercise of Coleman employee stock options immediately following the M&F Transaction). As a result of a purchase by Sunbeam of shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock in July 1999, Sunbeam now has the right to exercise just over 80% of the total voting power of Coleman's outstanding capital stock.

In the M&F Transaction, a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes received 14,099,749 shares of Sunbeam common stock, which represent about 14% of the currently outstanding Sunbeam common stock, and about $160 million in cash. In addition, in connection with the M&F Transaction, Sunbeam assumed about $1,016 million in debt of Coleman and its parent corporations, including $497 million of indebtedness of Coleman.

Immediately following the M&F Transaction, all the directors of Coleman resigned, the number of directors constituting the Coleman board of directors was fixed at five, and five designees of Sunbeam were elected as directors of Coleman. In addition, Sunbeam designees were appointed to senior management positions at Coleman. Subsequently, as a result of changes in Sunbeam's management and board of directors, in June 1998, Jerry W. Levin, the current Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Sunbeam and Coleman, was reelected to the Coleman board. In addition, Paul E. Shapiro, the current Executive Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer of Sunbeam and Coleman, was elected to the Coleman board. The other members of the Coleman board resigned or were removed by Sunbeam. In April 1999, the size of the Coleman board was fixed at three members and A. Whitman Marchand, who is not otherwise affiliated with either Sunbeam or Coleman, was elected to the Coleman board. In July 1999, the size of the Coleman board was fixed at four and John H. Klein, an outside director of Sunbeam, was elected to the Coleman board. See "MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM AND ITS AFFILIATES--Appointments of Former Coleman and MacAndrews & Forbes Officers to Sunbeam's Management and Board," "--Settlement of Claims Relating to the M&F Transaction" and "--Services Provided by MacAndrews & Forbes" beginning on pages 71, 71 and 72, respectively.

Registration Rights Agreement. The shares of Sunbeam common stock issued to a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes in the M&F Transaction were not registered under federal or state securities laws. Accordingly, in connection with the issuance, Sunbeam entered into a registration rights agreement with the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary. Under the registration rights agreement, the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary can require Sunbeam to register under federal and applicable state securities laws the shares of Sunbeam common stock it received in the M&F Transaction. The registration rights agreement was amended in August 1998 to provide that the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary can also require Sunbeam to register under federal and applicable state securities laws the warrant, and the shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrant, issued to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary in settlement of legal claims related to the M&F Transaction.

Directors, officers and other affiliates of Coleman who receive shares of Sunbeam common stock in the merger can also require Sunbeam to register those shares under federal and applicable state securities laws. To exercise this right, these individuals must agree to be bound by the terms of the registration rights agreement.

Appointments of Former Coleman and MacAndrews & Forbes Officers to Sunbeam's Management and Board. In June 1998, following the removal of Sunbeam's former Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, Sunbeam announced that Jerry W. Levin of MacAndrews & Forbes had been elected as Sunbeam's Chief Executive Officer. Mr. Levin and other Sunbeam executives that were affiliated with MacAndrews & Forbes later signed three-year employment agreements with Sunbeam. The other executives include Paul E. Shapiro, Executive Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer of Sunbeam, and Bobby G. Jenkins, Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Sunbeam. Mr. Levin and Howard Gittis of MacAndrews & Forbes also were elected to the Sunbeam board. For a description of the terms of the employment agreements entered into by Messrs. Levin, Shapiro and Jenkins, see "MANAGEMENT--Executive Compensation--Employment Agreement with Mr. Levin"; "Employment Agreements with Executives Shapiro, Jenkins and Clark" beginning on pages 142 and 143, respectively. For a further discussion of the events leading up to the appointment of Mr. Levin as Sunbeam's Chief Executive Officer and the appointment of Messrs. Levin and Gittis to the Sunbeam board, see "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--Changes in Sunbeam's Management and Board" beginning on page 30.

Settlement of Claims Relating to the M&F Transaction. On August 12, 1998, Sunbeam announced that, following investigation and negotiation by a special committee of the Sunbeam board consisting of four directors not affiliated with MacAndrews & Forbes, Sunbeam had entered into a settlement agreement with a MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary. The settlement:

- o released Sunbeam from threatened claims of MacAndrews & Forbes and its affiliates arising from the M&F Transaction,
- o enabled Sunbeam to retain the services of executive personnel affiliated with MacAndrews & Forbes who had been managing Sunbeam since mid-June of 1998, including Jerry W. Levin, Sunbeam's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Paul E. Shapiro, Sunbeam's Executive Vice President and 12

Chief Administrative Officer, and Bobby G. Jenkins, Sunbeam's Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, and

- o provided for the continuing management assistance and other support by MacAndrews & Forbes and its affiliates to Sunbeam described in "MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM AND ITS AFFILIATES--Services Provided by MacAndrews & Forbes" beginning on page 72.

As part of the settlement, the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary received from Sunbeam a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase 23 million shares of Sunbeam common stock at a cash exercise price of $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution adjustments. For a description of the settlement agreement and the terms of the warrant issued to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary, see "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--Settlement of Claims Relating to the M&F Transaction" beginning on page 32.

Services Provided by MacAndrews & Forbes. Under Sunbeam's August 1998 settlement agreement with a MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary, in addition to the services of MacAndrews & Forbes' former executive personnel who have been managing Sunbeam since mid-June 1998, MacAndrews & Forbes agreed to provide management assistance and other support to Sunbeam at its request in a wide variety of areas. Sunbeam does not pay MacAndrews & Forbes and its affiliates for the services of their employees, but does reimburse them for out-of-pocket expenses. See "MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM AND ITS AFFILIATES--Services Provided by MacAndrews & Forbes" beginning on page 72.

Acquisition of Coleman Preferred Stock. On July 12, 1999, one of Sunbeam's wholly owned subsidiaries acquired 3,000,000 shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $31 million. These shares, together with the shares of Coleman common stock already indirectly owned by Sunbeam, enable Sunbeam to exercise just over 80% of the total voting power of Coleman's outstanding capital stock as of July 12, 1999. This class of preferred stock was created by Coleman and acquired by Sunbeam in order to enable Sunbeam and Coleman to file consolidated federal income tax returns and, in certain jurisdictions, consolidated state income tax returns, prior to the completion of the merger. In connection with the acquisition of these shares, Sunbeam entered into a tax sharing agreement with

Coleman pursuant to which Coleman will pay to Sunbeam amounts equal to the federal and state income taxes that would have been payable by Coleman had Coleman not been included in the consolidated income tax return of Sunbeam. The terms of the voting preferred stock, the per share issue price and the terms of the tax sharing agreement were approved on Coleman's behalf by Coleman's then sole independent director. The net proceeds from the sale of the preferred stock to Sunbeam were used by Coleman to make a partial repayment on Coleman's note payable to Sunbeam. For further information regarding the terms of the preferred stock issued to Sunbeam's subsidiary, see "DESCRIPTION OF COLEMAN CAPITAL STOCK--Coleman Preferred Stock beginning on page 154."

SUMMARY HISTORICAL AND PRO FORMA FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The following summary historical financial information is derived from Sunbeam's audited consolidated financial statements and unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements. The following summary pro forma financial information is derived from Sunbeam's unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements beginning on page 72. The summary unaudited pro forma financial information gives effect to the following "Pro Forma Transactions":

- o the corporate acquisitions Sunbeam made in 1998, excluding the acquisition of First Alert, Inc., the effect of which is not significant;
- o the proposed acquisition by Sunbeam of the Coleman common stock held by the Coleman minority stockholders upon completion of the merger for cash, shares of Sunbeam common stock and warrants;
- o the initial borrowing of approximately $1,325 million under Sunbeam's bank credit facility;
- o the original offering of an aggregate principal amount at maturity of $2,014 million of Sunbeam's Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 on March 25, 1998, for net proceeds of about $730 million; and

- o the use of most of the net proceeds of the original bank borrowing and the original offering of the debentures to acquire Coleman and Signature Brands and to refinance indebtedness.

The summary unaudited pro forma financial information is not necessarily indicative of what Sunbeam's results would have been if the Pro Forma Transactions actually had occurred as of the dates indicated or of what Sunbeam's future operating results will be.

This summary historical and pro forma financial information should be read in conjunction with Sunbeam's audited consolidated financial statements beginning on page F-1, "MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS" beginning on page 86 and "UNAUDITED PRO FORMA CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS" beginning on page 72.

While reviewing the summary historical and pro forma financial information, please note the following:

- o Sunbeam accounted for the March 30, 1998 acquisition of a controlling interest in Coleman and the April 6, 1998 acquisitions of First Alert and

Signature Brands under the purchase method of accounting. Accordingly, Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements include the financial position and results of operations of each of the acquired companies from the respective dates of acquisition.

- o For the fiscal year ended December 31, 1998, Sunbeam took an extraordinary charge of $122.4 million related to the early extinguishments of debt and took other charges of:
 - o $70.0 million related to the issuance of warrants to a MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary;
 - o $62.5 million related to the write-off of goodwill;
 - o $39.4 million related to fixed asset impairments;
 - o $31 million related to compensation expense for the new employment agreements with Sunbeam's former Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other former senior officers; and
 - o $95.8 million related to write-downs of inventory.

See Notes 2, 3 and 11 to Sunbeam's audited consolidated financial statements.

- o For the fiscal year ended December 28, 1997, Sunbeam reversed $28.0 million of pre-tax liabilities no longer required and $13.3 million of tax liabilities no longer required.
- o For the fiscal year ended December 29, 1996, Sunbeam took restructuring, asset impairment and other charges of $239.2 million before taxes. See Notes 12 and 13 to Sunbeam's audited consolidated financial statements.
- o The unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated balance sheet as of September 30, 1999 gives pro forma effect to the proposed acquisition of the shares of Coleman common stock held by the Coleman minority stockholders as if it had occurred on September 30, 1999. The unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated statement of operations for the fiscal year ended December 31, 1998 and the nine months ended September 30, 1999 give effect to the Pro Forma Transactions, as if they had occurred on December 29, 1997, the beginning of Sunbeam's 1998 fiscal year. Also, pro forma net losses are from continuing operations and do not include extraordinary items.
- o In computing the ratio of earnings to fixed charges:
 - o earnings represent income (loss) from continuing operations before income taxes and fixed charges (exclusive of interest capitalized); and
 - o fixed charges consist of interest expense, capitalized interest and the estimated interest portion of rental expense.

For the fiscal years ended December 29, 1996 and December 31, 1998, historical earnings were insufficient to cover fixed charges by $262.2 million and $797.1 million, respectively. For the nine months ended September 30, 1998 and 1999, historical earnings were insufficient to cover fixed charges by $476.7 million and $130.1 million, respectively. For the fiscal year ended December 31, 1998 and for the nine months ended September 30, 1999, on a pro forma basis, earnings were insufficient to cover fixed charges by $834.9 million and $139.1 million, respectively.

- o At September 30, 1999, Sunbeam had goodwill and other intangible assets of $1,809.9 million.

COMPARATIVE PER SHARE DATA

The tables below show comparative per share data for Sunbeam (on a historical and consolidated pro forma basis) and for Coleman (on a historical and pro forma equivalent basis). Historical information for Sunbeam and Coleman has been derived from the respective selected financial data for the two companies which can be found elsewhere in this document. Pro forma information for Sunbeam was derived from the Unaudited Pro Forma Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements of Sunbeam as of and for the year ended December 31, 1998 and the nine months ended September 30, 1999 which are included in "UNAUDITED PRO FORMA CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS" beginning on page 72. Pro forma equivalent information for Coleman was calculated by multiplying the pro forma per share amounts for Sunbeam by 0.5677, the exchange ratio of Coleman

The shares of Sunbeam common stock to be issued in the merger have been listed for trading on the NYSE. Sunbeam intends to file an application with the NYSE to list the shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants. For a discussion of matters relating to Sunbeam's continued listing on the NYSE, see "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--New York Stock Exchange Listing" beginning on page 34.

For a discussion of matters relating to Coleman's continued listing on the NYSE, see "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING COLEMAN" beginning on page 35. Following the completion of the merger, the Coleman common stock will be delisted from all of the stock exchanges on which it is listed and deregistered under the Exchange Act.

Sunbeam Dividend Policy. Through the first quarter of 1998, Sunbeam's practice had been to pay a dividend at a quarterly rate of $.01 per share. Sunbeam discontinued paying dividends after the first quarter of 1998 and has no present intention to pay any dividends for the foreseeable future. Moreover, Sunbeam's bank credit facility, as amended, prohibits Sunbeam from paying cash dividends.

Coleman Dividend Policy. Coleman has not declared a cash dividend on its common stock since its initial public offering in February 1992. Under the merger agreement, Coleman is prohibited from paying any cash dividends prior to the completion of the merger.

RISK FACTORS

In reviewing the information contained in this document and in deciding whether to accept the cash, stock and warrants Sunbeam proposes to give you, or to dissent from the merger and have the fair value of your shares appraised by a court and paid to you in cash, you should consider the following:

THE NUMBER OF SUNBEAM SHARES AND WARRANTS YOU RECEIVE FOR EACH COLEMAN SHARE HAS NOT BEEN AND WILL NOT BE ADJUSTED

Unless you pursue your appraisal rights, you will receive $6.44 in cash, .05677 of a share of Sunbeam common stock and 0.381 of a Sunbeam warrant (assuming no further increase in the number of outstanding Coleman shares), for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed. The number of Sunbeam shares and warrants you will receive has not been adjusted to reflect the decrease in the market price of Sunbeam common stock and will not be adjusted to reflect any future changes in the market price of either Sunbeam common stock or Coleman common stock. Since February 27, 1998, the market price of Sunbeam common stock reached a high of $53 on March 4, 1998 and a low of $4.125 on November 5 and 8, 1999. It was $4.75 on December 3, 1999, the last trading day prior to the date of this document, and may increase or decrease between the date of this document and the date on which the merger is completed. Variations in the price of Sunbeam common stock may be the result of changes in the business, operations or prospects of Sunbeam or Coleman, general market and economic conditions and other factors. See "--Negative developments since March 1998 have caused Sunbeam's common stock price to drop significantly, and the risks described in the "RISK FACTORS" section of this document may cause further declines in the price of Sunbeam common stock." Stockholders of Coleman are urged to obtain current market quotations for Sunbeam common stock and Coleman common stock. See "SUMMARY--Market Prices and Dividends."

COLEMAN'S FINANCIAL ADVISOR HAS ADVISED COLEMAN THAT ITS OPINION AS TO THE FAIRNESS OF THE CONSIDERATION TO BE PAID TO YOU UNDER THE FEBRUARY 1998 MERGER AGREEMENT UPON COMPLETION OF THE MERGER SHOULD NO LONGER BE RELIED UPON AND NO OTHER FINANCIAL ADVISOR HAS BEEN ASKED TO PROVIDE A FAIRNESS OPINION. THEREFORE, YOU DO NOT HAVE THE BENEFIT OF AN INDEPENDENT EVALUATION OF THE FAIRNESS OF THE MERGER TO YOU FROM A FINANCIAL POINT OF VIEW IN DECIDING WHETHER TO ACCEPT THE CASH, STOCK AND WARRANTS SUNBEAM PROPOSES TO GIVE YOU OR PURSUE YOUR DELAWARE LAW APPRAISAL RIGHTS

As a result of the adverse developments affecting Sunbeam described in the section of this document captioned "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM" beginning on page 26, Coleman's financial advisor, Credit Suisse First Boston, has advised Coleman that its February 1998 opinion as to the fairness of the consideration payable to you under the merger agreement should no longer be relied upon. Therefore, you should no longer rely on the Credit Suisse First Boston opinion or on the February 1998 determination of the then Coleman board that the consideration payable under the merger agreement was fair to you from a financial point of view, since that determination was based, at least in part, on the Credit Suisse First Boston opinion. As a result, you do not have the benefit of an independent evaluation of the fairness of the merger to you from a financial point of view in deciding whether to accept the cash, stock and warrants Sunbeam proposes to give you or pursue your Delaware law appraisal rights.

SUNBEAM IS HIGHLY LEVERAGED WHICH IMPAIRS ITS ABILITY TO OBTAIN FINANCING AND LIMITS CASH FLOW AVAILABLE FOR SUNBEAM'S OPERATIONS AND MAY LIMIT ITS COMPETITIVENESS IN THE MARKET PLACE

Sunbeam is highly leveraged, with indebtedness that is very large when compared to its stockholders' equity. Much of its indebtedness was incurred to finance three corporate acquisitions in 1998. At September 30, 1999, Sunbeam's consolidated indebtedness was approximately $2,322.7 million and its stockholders' equity was approximately $94.7 million, including approximately $1,809.9 million of goodwill and other intangible assets. If required, Sunbeam may incur additional indebtedness under the bank credit facility or, subject to restrictions in the bank credit facility, through other borrowings. The indenture governing Sunbeam's zero coupon convertible senior subordinated debentures does not limit Sunbeam's ability to incur additional indebtedness. You should carefully read Sunbeam's audited consolidated financial statements beginning on page F-1.

Sunbeam's high leverage has important consequences. For example:

- o Sunbeam's ability to obtain additional financing for working capital, capital expenditures, acquisitions or general corporate purposes is and may continue to be impaired,

022186

- o all or a substantial portion of Sunbeam's cash flow from operations must be dedicated to the payment of principal and interest on Sunbeam's indebtedness; therefore cash available for its operations and other purposes will be limited,
- o Sunbeam may be substantially more leveraged than some of its competitors, which may place it at a competitive disadvantage,
- o Sunbeam may be less able to adjust rapidly to changing market conditions, and
- o Sunbeam's results of operations could be adversely affected, particularly in the event of a downturn in general economic conditions or Sunbeam's business.

SUNBEAM'S BANK CREDIT FACILITY CONTAINS COVENANTS WHICH SUNBEAM MAY NOT BE ABLE TO SATISFY AND DEFAULT PROVISIONS IT MAY NOT BE ABLE TO AVOID, AND, IF SUNBEAM CANNOT, THE BANKS COULD DEMAND IMMEDIATE REPAYMENT OF SUNBEAM'S BANK DEBT

As of September 30, 1999, Sunbeam had incurred about $1,500 million in borrowings and had availability to borrow about $200 million under the bank credit facility. The bank credit facility contains covenants which require Sunbeam to meet financial tests and ratios relating to Sunbeam's future performance which it may not be able to satisfy. If Sunbeam cannot satisfy these tests and ratios it would be in default. The bank credit facility also provides that the occurrence of any of the following events, which Sunbeam may not be able to avoid, would be an event of default:

- o if Sunbeam fails to have the SEC declare this document effective by January 10, 2000,
- o if Sunbeam fails to complete the merger within 25 business days after this document is declared effective by the SEC, or
- o if Sunbeam has to pay more than $87.5 million in cash to complete the merger, including any payments on account of the exercise of any appraisal rights, but excluding related legal, accounting and other customary fees and expenses.

An event of default would give the banks the right to demand immediate repayment--a demand Sunbeam might not be able to meet.

SUNBEAM'S BANK DEBT COULD BECOME DUE ON APRIL 10, 2000, IF SUNBEAM DOES NOT GET ANOTHER WAIVER FROM THE BANKS OR REFINANCE ITS BANK DEBT BY THEN, AND THERE CAN BE NO ASSURANCE THAT SUNBEAM WOULD BE ABLE TO REPAY THE BANK DEBT ON THAT DATE

In 1998, Sunbeam was in violation of some of the covenants of the bank credit facility, but the banks waived these violations first until December 31, 1998, then until April 10, 1999, then until April 15, 1999 and now until April 10, 2000. However, if Sunbeam does not get another waiver or refinance the bank debt by April 10, 2000, the banks would have the right to demand immediate repayment--a demand which Sunbeam might not be able to meet.

SUNBEAM MAY NOT BE ABLE TO SERVICE ITS LARGE DEBT BURDEN, WHICH MAY FORCE IT TO RESTRUCTURE OR REFINANCE ITS DEBT

To meet its debt service requirements, Sunbeam must be able to successfully implement its business strategy and integrate into its operations the three companies Sunbeam acquired in 1998. In addition, Sunbeam's future financial and operating performance will affect its ability to repay or to refinance its indebtedness. Sunbeam's future financial and operating performance is subject to prevailing economic and competitive conditions and to financial, business and other factors which may be beyond Sunbeam's control.

Sunbeam cannot assure you that its operating cash flow and capital resources will be sufficient to meet its debt service requirements. For the nine months ended September 30, 1999 and the year ended December 31, 1998 Sunbeam's earnings were insufficient to cover its fixed charges by approximately $130.1 million and $797.1 million, respectively. If Sunbeam does not have enough cash flow and capital resources to meet its debt service obligations, Sunbeam may be forced to reduce or delay capital expenditures, sell assets, or seek to obtain additional equity capital. Sunbeam also might be forced to refinance or restructure its debt, including its zero coupon convertible subordinated debentures. Although Sunbeam does not have any firm plans or arrangements to restructure its debt, a restructuring, if Sunbeam decided to pursue one, could involve one or more exchange offers, tender offers or consent solicitations involving the debentures.

19

SUNBEAM'S OUTSIDE AUDITORS DETERMINED THAT SUNBEAM'S 1997 INTERNAL CONTROLS WERE INADEQUATE AND SUNBEAM CANNOT ASSURE YOU THAT THE CORRECTIVE MEASURES IT HAS ADOPTED OR WILL ADOPT TO ADDRESS THESE INADEQUACIES WILL BE EFFECTIVE

In October 1998, Sunbeam's auditors at the time, Arthur Andersen LLP, told Sunbeam that the design and effectiveness of its internal controls were inadequate to detect material misstatements in the preparation of Sunbeam's 1997 annual and quarterly financial statements. As described further in "CHANGES IN AND DISAGREEMENTS WITH ACCOUNTANTS ON ACCOUNTING AND FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE" beginning on page 118, Sunbeam has restated its financial results for a six-quarter period from the fourth quarter of 1996 through the first quarter of 1998. Sunbeam cannot assure you that any interim or final corrective measures Sunbeam has adopted or will adopt to address the inadequacies in its internal controls will be effective.

SUNBEAM HAD SIGNIFICANT LOSSES AND ITS OPERATIONS CONSUMED SIGNIFICANT AMOUNTS OF CASH IN THE FIRST NINEMONTHS OF 1999 AND IN FISCAL YEAR 1998 AND SUNBEAM CANNOT ASSURE YOU THAT IT WILL BE ABLE TO GENERATE PROFITS OR POSITIVE CASH FLOW FROM OPERATIONS IN THE FUTURE

For the nine months ended September 30, 1999 and the year ended December 31, 1998, Sunbeam had consolidated net losses of approximately $155.0 million and $897.9 million, respectively, and net cash used in operations of $73.2 million and $190.4 million, respectively. Sunbeam cannot assure you that it will be able to generate profits or positive cash flow from operations in the future. See "MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS" beginning on page 86 for a further discussion.

MAJOR LAWSUITS HAVE BEEN BROUGHT AGAINST SUNBEAM, INCLUDING LAWSUITS UNDER FEDERAL AND STATE SECURITIES LAWS, AND THE SEC IS CONDUCTING A FORMAL INVESTIGATION OF SUNBEAM; SUNBEAM CANNOT PREDICT THE OUTCOME OF THESE LAWSUITS OR THE SEC INVESTIGATION, BUT IF SUNBEAM WERE TO LOSE THE LAWSUITS, THE RESULTING JUDGMENTS WOULD LIKELY HAVE A NEGATIVE EFFECT ON ITS FINANCIAL POSITION, RESULTS OF OPERATIONS AND CASH FLOW

Litigation. Beginning in April 1998 many lawsuits alleging claims arising under Delaware law, Texas law and federal and state securities laws have been filed against Sunbeam and some of its former directors and officers, some of its current directors and its former auditor in various federal and state courts. Many of these lawsuits relate to Sunbeam's financial performance from the second quarter of 1997 through the second quarter of 1998. Many plaintiffs are claiming that Sunbeam's prior management misrepresented and omitted material information in its public filings and in their statements concerning its historical and expected future results of operations for the purpose of artificially inflating the market price of Sunbeam common stock. Currently Sunbeam cannot predict the outcome of these lawsuits, evaluate the likelihood of Sunbeam's success in any particular case, or evaluate the range of potential loss. If Sunbeam were to lose these lawsuits, judgments would likely have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

Sunbeam's insurers are attempting to have the directors' and officers' liability policies it has with them voided or canceled or have advised Sunbeam that they do not intend to provide coverage with respect to these lawsuits. Failure by Sunbeam to obtain insurance recoveries from its liability insurers following an adverse judgment against Sunbeam or any persons it is obligated to indemnify in any of the lawsuits discussed above could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's financial position, results of operations and cash flow.

SEC Investigation. In July 1998, the SEC commenced a formal investigation of Sunbeam after informing Sunbeam in the previous month of an informal investigation. Although Sunbeam believes that it has cooperated with the SEC and furnished the SEC with documents they requested, Sunbeam has, however, declined to provide the SEC with material that Sunbeam believes is subject to the attorney-client privilege and the work product immunity. Sunbeam cannot predict how long this investigation will last or its outcome. In addition, Sunbeam cannot at this time determine what actions, if any, the SEC might take against it or what effect any action might have on Sunbeam. For further information regarding the SEC investigation of Sunbeam, please see "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--SEC Investigation" beginning on page 32.

Product-Related Liabilities. As a consumer goods manufacturer and distributor, Sunbeam faces the constant risks of product liability and related lawsuits involving claims for substantial money damages, product recall actions and higher than anticipated rates of warranty returns or other returns of goods. These claims could result in liabilities that could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's financial position and results of operations. Some of the product lines Sunbeam acquired in the 1998 acquisitions have increased its exposure to product liability and related claims.

See "BUSINESS OF SUNBEAM--Litigation and Other Contingent Liabilities" beginning on page 126 for more information about lawsuits Sunbeam is involved in, the SEC investigation and other contingent liabilities.

SUNBEAM'S 1998 ACQUISITIONS HAVE INCREASED THE SIZE OF THE OPERATIONS SUNBEAM HAS TO MANAGE AND SUNBEAM'S FAILURE TO MANAGE ITS OPERATIONS EFFECTIVELY WOULD LIKELY CAUSE SUNBEAM TO HAVE POOR OPERATING RESULTS

The 1998 acquisitions of Coleman, First Alert, and Signature Brands have resulted in a substantial increase in the size of Sunbeam's operations. As a result, Sunbeam must effectively use its employees and management, operational, and financial resources to manage its expanded operations. A failure on Sunbeam's part to successfully integrate and effectively manage its expanded operations would likely cause Sunbeam to have poor operating results.

SUNBEAM'S INTERNATIONAL OPERATIONS EXPOSE SUNBEAM TO UNCERTAINTIES AND RISKS FROM ABROAD WHICH COULD NEGATIVELY AFFECT ITS OPERATIONS AND SALES

Sunbeam currently has sales in countries where economic growth has slowed, primarily Japan and Korea; or where economies have been unstable or hyperinflationary in recent years, primarily Mexico and Venezuela. The economies of other foreign countries important to Sunbeam's operations, including other countries in Latin America and Asia, could also suffer slower economic growth or instability in the future.

The following are among the risks that could negatively affect Sunbeam's operations and sales in foreign markets:

- o new restrictions on access to markets,
- o currency devaluation,
- o new tariffs,
- o adverse changes in monetary and/or tax policies,
- o inflation, and
- o governmental instability.

Should any of these risks occur, it could impair Sunbeam's ability to export its products and result in a loss of sales from its international operations.

THE NATURE OF SUNBEAM'S BUSINESSES REQUIRES SUNBEAM TO SUCCESSFULLY DEVELOP NEW AND INNOVATIVE PRODUCTS ON A CONSISTENT BASIS IN ORDER TO REGAIN PROFITABILITY AND INCREASE REVENUES AND SUNBEAM MAY NOT BE ABLE TO DO SO

Sunbeam must develop new and innovative products to regain profitability and increase revenues. In the past Sunbeam has experienced difficulties in developing and introducing quality new products on a timely basis. Sunbeam may not be able to meet its schedules for future product development. Failure to develop and manufacture successful new products could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's future financial performance.

SUNBEAM'S BUSINESSES ARE VERY SENSITIVE TO THE STRENGTH OF THE U.S. RETAIL MARKET AND ANY WEAKNESS IN THIS MARKET COULD ADVERSELY AFFECT SUNBEAM'S FINANCIAL RESULTS

The strength of the retail economy in the United States has a significant impact on Sunbeam's performance. Weakness in consumer confidence and poor financial performance by retail outlets, including the financial weakness or bankruptcy of retail outlets, especially mass merchants, may adversely impact Sunbeam's future financial results.

SUNBEAM OPERATES IN A HIGHLY COMPETITIVE MARKET AND SUNBEAM'S INABILITY TO COMPETE EFFECTIVELY COULD CAUSE IT TO LOSE MARKET SHARE AND COULD ADVERSELY AFFECT ITS FINANCIAL RESULTS

Sunbeam operates in a highly competitive environment. Sunbeam has numerous domestic and foreign competitors, and many of them are financially strong and capable of competing effectively with Sunbeam. Competitors may take actions to match Sunbeam's new product introductions and other initiatives. Some competitors may be willing to reduce prices and accept lower profit margins to compete with Sunbeam. As a result of this competition, Sunbeam could lose market share and sales and suffer losses, which could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's future financial performance.

Sunbeam's future success will significantly depend upon its ability to remain competitive in the areas of price, quality, marketing, product development, manufacturing, distribution, order processing and customer service. Sunbeam cannot assure you that it will be able to compete effectively in all these areas in the future.

SUNBEAM'S SALES ARE HIGHLY DEPENDENT ON PURCHASES FROM SEVERAL LARGE CUSTOMERS AND ANY SIGNIFICANT DECLINE IN THESE PURCHASES OR PRESSURE FROM THESE CUSTOMERS TO REDUCE PRICES COULD HAVE A NEGATIVE EFFECT ON SUNBEAM'S FUTURE FINANCIAL PERFORMANCE; SUNBEAM HAS NO LONG-TERM SUPPLY CONTRACTS WITH ANY OF ITS CUSTOMERS

Due to the consolidation of the U.S. retail industry, Sunbeam's customer base has become relatively concentrated. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., Sunbeam's largest single customer, accounted for 18% of Sunbeam's net sales in 1998, and its five largest customers combined accounted for 38% of its 1998 net sales.

Sunbeam has no long-term supply contracts with any of its customers. As a result, Sunbeam must receive a continuous flow of new orders from its large, high-volume retailing customers. Sunbeam has responded to the challenges of its markets by pursuing strategic relationships with large, high-volume merchandisers. However, Sunbeam cannot assure you that it can continue to successfully meet the needs of Sunbeam's customers. In addition, failure to obtain anticipated orders or delays or cancellations of orders or significant pressure to reduce prices from key customers could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's future financial performance.

RAW MATERIALS AND COMPONENTS ARE CRITICAL INPUTS FOR SUNBEAM'S PRODUCTS AND PRICE HIKES OR PROBLEMS WITH THEIR SUPPLY COULD ADVERSELY AFFECT SUNBEAM

Raw materials and components constitute a significant portion of the cost of Sunbeam's goods. Factors which are largely beyond Sunbeam's control, such as movements in commodity prices for the specific materials Sunbeam requires, may affect the future cost of such raw materials and components. In addition, any inability of Sunbeam's suppliers to timely deliver raw materials and components or any unanticipated change in Sunbeam's suppliers could be disruptive and costly to Sunbeam.

A significant failure by Sunbeam to contain raw material or component costs could have a material adverse effect on its future financial performance. In addition, delays or cancellations by suppliers could adversely affect results.

SUNBEAM'S OPERATIONS ARE DEPENDENT UPON THIRD-PARTY SUPPLIERS AND SERVICE PROVIDERS WHOSE FAILURE TO PERFORM ADEQUATELY COULD DISRUPT SUNBEAM'S BUSINESS OPERATIONS

Sunbeam currently manufactures many of its products, but it sources many of its parts and products from third parties. Sunbeam's ability to select reliable vendors who provide timely deliveries of quality parts and products will impact its success in meeting customer demand for timely delivery of quality products. Any inability of Sunbeam's suppliers to timely deliver quality parts and products or any unanticipated change in suppliers or pricing of products could be disruptive and costly to Sunbeam.

022191

Sunbeam has entered into various arrangements with third parties for the provision of back-office administrative services that it used to perform internally. Sunbeam now outsources accounts payable, collection of accounts receivable, customer service and some necessary computer systems servicing, among other things. If any of these third-party service providers failed to perform adequately, Sunbeam's normal business operations could be disrupted. Among other things, this could hurt Sunbeam's sales, collections, customer service, cash flow and profitability.

SUNBEAM IS SUBJECT TO SEVERAL PRODUCTION-RELATED RISKS WHICH COULD JEOPARDIZE ITS ABILITY TO REALIZE ANTICIPATED SALES AND PROFITS

To realize sales and operating profits at anticipated levels, Sunbeam must manufacture, source and deliver in a timely manner products of high quality. Among others, the following factors can have a negative effect on Sunbeam's ability to do these things:

- o labor difficulties,
- o scheduling and transportation difficulties,
- o management dislocation,
- o substandard product quality, which can result in higher warranty, product liability and product recall costs,
- o delays in development of quality new products,
- o changes in laws and regulations, including changes in tax rates, accounting standards, environmental laws and occupational health and safety laws, and
- o changes in the availability and costs of labor.

THE EFFECTS OF SUNBEAM'S PRIOR MANAGEMENT'S OUTSOURCING OF CRITICAL OPERATING TASKS AND SALES POLICIES MAY CONTINUE TO CAUSE SUNBEAM SUBSTANTIAL DIFFICULTY

Sunbeam's prior management substantially reduced the number of its employees and hired third parties to perform many of its critical operating tasks, including handling of accounts payable, computer support, customer service and collection of accounts receivable. Sunbeam is currently evaluating the effectiveness of outsourcing these activities and are hiring personnel to perform some of these tasks in-house once again. Sunbeam may experience disruption in critical services and other difficulties while it implements necessary staff increases and changes in prior management's outsourcing policy.

Sunbeam's prior management increased sales of products in some prior periods by providing retailers with substantial price discounts or attractive payment terms to induce them to purchase more products than they needed at the time. Sunbeam believes this caused many of its customers to build up inventory in its products which reduced Sunbeam's sales and profitability through 1998. Although Sunbeam believes that the excess inventory maintained by retailers has been eliminated, Sunbeam may not have correctly evaluated the amount of or the impact of such inventory practices, which may continue to negatively impact its sales and profitability.

WEATHER CONDITIONS CAN HURT SALES OF SOME OF SUNBEAM'S PRODUCTS

Weather conditions may negatively impact sales of some of Sunbeam's products. For instance, Sunbeam may not sell as many portable generators as anticipated if there are fewer natural disasters such as hurricanes and ice storms; mild winter weather may negatively impact sales of electric blankets, some health products and smoke detectors; and the late arrival of summer weather may negatively impact sales of outdoor camping equipment and grills.

SUNBEAM REMAINS VULNERABLE TO YEAR 2000 COMPLIANCE PROBLEMS IN ITS SYSTEMS AND THOSE OF ITS SUPPLIERS AND CUSTOMERS WHICH COULD POTENTIALLY DISRUPT SUNBEAM'S OPERATIONS AND MAY REQUIRE GREATER THAN ANTICIPATED REMEDIAL EXPENSES

Sunbeam is preparing for the impact of the Year 2000 on its operations. Year 2000 issues could include potential problems in Sunbeam's information technology and other systems that it use in its operations. Year 2000 system failures could affect routine but critical operations such as:

- o forecasting,
- o purchasing,
- o production,
- o order processing,
- o inventory control,
- o shipping, and
- o billing and collections.

In addition, system failures could affect security, payroll operations and employee safety. Third parties who fail to adequately address their own Year 2000 issues could also expose Sunbeam to potential risks.

Systems and applications that Sunbeam had identified as not Year 2000 ready and which are critical to its operations include:

- o financial software systems, which process:
 - o order entry,
 - o purchasing,
 - o production management,
 - o general ledger,
 - o accounts receivable,
 - o accounts payable functions, and
 - o payroll applications, and
- o critical applications in Sunbeam's manufacturing and distribution facilities, such as warehouse management applications.

Sunbeam has largely implemented the corrective work described above and expects to complete final testing and implementation of such systems in the fourth quarter of 1999.

Sunbeam's failure to timely complete its Year 2000 compliance work could have a material adverse impact on Sunbeam. In addition, the failure of its third-party suppliers and customers to become Year 2000 compliant could have a material adverse impact on Sunbeam.

At this time, Sunbeam believes that the most likely "worst-case" scenario relating to Year 2000 involves potential disruptions in areas in which its operations must rely on third parties, such as suppliers, whose systems may not work properly after January 1, 2000. While these system failures could significantly affect some of Sunbeam's important operations, currently it cannot estimate either the likelihood or the potential cost of such failures. If Sunbeam does not develop appropriate contingency plans before January 1, 2000, the impact on its operations could be material.

Sunbeam currently estimates that the total cost of addressing and remedying Year 2000 issues and enhancing its operating systems is about $64 million. Through the first nine months of 1999, including costs incurred in 1998, Sunbeam spent about $60 million to address Year 2000 issues, with approximately $41 million of these expenditures occurring in the first nine months of 1999. As Sunbeam completes its assessment of the Year 2000 issues, it may determine that the actual expenditures it must incur may be materially higher than its current estimates. The bank credit facility does not permit Sunbeam to spend more than $50 million on Year 2000 testing and remediation during 1999.

See "MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS--Year 2000 Readiness Disclosure" beginning on page 113 for more details of its Year 2000 assessment and compliance efforts.

SUNBEAM'S DEBT COVENANTS CURRENTLY DO NOT ALLOW SUNBEAM TO PAY CASH DIVIDENDS ON SUNBEAM COMMON STOCK

The bank credit facility prohibits Sunbeam from paying cash dividends on Sunbeam common stock. Accordingly, Sunbeam cannot assure you that Sunbeam will be able to pay dividends on Sunbeam common stock. In any event, Sunbeam currently does not intend to pay dividends on Sunbeam common stock. Sunbeam discontinued paying dividends beginning in the second quarter of 1998. See the "SUMMARY--Comparative Per Share Data" section beginning on page 15 for information concerning the history of Sunbeam's dividend payments.

NEGATIVE DEVELOPMENTS SINCE MARCH 1998 HAVE CAUSED SUNBEAM'S COMMON STOCK PRICE TO DROP SIGNIFICANTLY, AND THE RISKS DESCRIBED IN THE "RISK FACTORS" SECTION OF THIS DOCUMENT MAY CAUSE FURTHER DECLINES IN THE PRICE OF SUNBEAM COMMON STOCK

The price of Sunbeam common stock has dropped significantly since March 1998. Sunbeam believes this was the result of many of the negative developments described in the "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM" section beginning on page 26. On March 18, 1998, the last trading day prior to former management's announcement of lower than expected net sales for the first quarter of 1998, the last reported sale price of Sunbeam common stock was $50.625 per share. On December 3, 1999, the last reported sale price of Sunbeam common stock was $4.750 per share. Sunbeam cannot assure you that the market price of Sunbeam common stock will not experience further declines as a result of the risks described in this "RISK FACTORS" section or otherwise. See the "SUMMARY--Market Prices and Dividends" section beginning on page 16 for details of Sunbeam common stock's recent trading prices.

BECAUSE MANY MEMBERS OF SUNBEAM'S CURRENT MANAGEMENT AND BOARD OF DIRECTORS RECENTLY JOINED SUNBEAM AND DO NOT HAVE A LONG HISTORY OF MANAGING SUNBEAM, THERE CAN BE NO ASSURANCE THAT SUNBEAM'S CURRENT MANAGEMENT AND BOARD OF DIRECTORS WILL BE ABLE TO SUCCESSFULLY MANAGE SUNBEAM

Sunbeam's board of directors replaced several members of Sunbeam's management in June of 1998, including Albert J. Dunlap, Sunbeam's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. Since that time, six new directors have been appointed or elected to the Sunbeam board. Although Sunbeam's current management has significant experience in the consumer products industry, including working at Coleman, most of Sunbeam's current management and many members of its board of directors had no direct exposure to Sunbeam's operations prior to June 1998. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that Sunbeam's current management and board of directors will be able to successfully manage Sunbeam.

SUNBEAM RELIES ON ITS KEY PERSONNEL AND THE LOSS OF ONE OR MORE OF THOSE PERSONNEL COULD HAVE A MATERIAL ADVERSE EFFECT ON SUNBEAM'S BUSINESS, FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS.

Sunbeam's operations and prospects depend in large part on the performance of its senior management team. There can be no assurance that Sunbeam would be able to find qualified replacements for any of these individuals if their services were no longer available. The loss of the services of one or more members of Sunbeam's senior management team could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's business, financial condition and results of operations. For further information regarding Sunbeam's senior management team, see the discussion below under the caption "MANAGEMENT" beginning on page 133.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM

THE 1998 ACQUISITIONS

On March 2, 1998, in addition to announcing its agreement to acquire Coleman, Sunbeam announced that it had entered into separate agreements to acquire Signature Brands and First Alert, companies not affiliated with Coleman or MacAndrews & Forbes.

In the M&F Transaction, which was completed on March 30, 1998, Sunbeam acquired about 81% of the then outstanding shares of Coleman common stock from Coleman (Parent) Holdings, Inc., a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes. This represented MacAndrews & Forbes' entire interest in Coleman. In exchange, the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary received about 14% of the currently outstanding shares of Sunbeam common stock and about $160 million in cash. Sunbeam also assumed about $1,016 million of debt, including $497 million of indebtedness of Coleman. Immediately after the M&F Transaction, as a result of the exercise of Coleman employee stock options, Sunbeam's ownership of Coleman decreased to about 79% of the outstanding shares of Coleman common stock.

At the same time Sunbeam agreed to acquire the Coleman shares from the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary, Sunbeam also agreed to acquire the remaining shares of Coleman common stock in the merger and the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary voted its shares to approve the merger. Under the February 1998 merger agreement, you will receive $6.44 in cash and 0.5677 of a share of Sunbeam common stock for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed. In addition, unless you exercise and perfect your Delaware law appraisal rights, you will receive warrants each entitling you to purchase one Sunbeam share at a cash price of $7 per share until August 24, 2003, under a court-approved settlement of litigation relating to the merger. Under the terms of the settlement, you will receive 0.381 of a warrant for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed, assuming the number of outstanding shares of Coleman common stock does not increase prior to the completion of the merger as a result of further exercises of Coleman employee stock options. In the aggregate, the Coleman minority stockholders will receive about 6.7 million shares of Sunbeam common stock, about $87 million in cash, including cash outs of Coleman's remaining employee stock options, and warrants to purchase about 4.98 million shares of Sunbeam common stock (less the warrants awarded by the court to plaintiffs' counsel as their fee), assuming no Coleman stockholders exercise their Delaware law appraisal rights. See "--Settlement of Claims Relating to the M&F Transaction" for information regarding the settlement of legal claims of a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes relating to the M&F Transaction. See "LITIGATION SETTLEMENT AND WARRANTS" for information regarding the settlement of legal claims of Coleman stockholders relating to the merger.

On April 3, 1998, Sunbeam acquired more than 90% of the stock of each of Signature Brands and First Alert in cash tender offers. On April 6, 1998, Sunbeam acquired the remaining shares of each of Signature Brands and First Alert in merger transactions. Signature Brands is a leading manufacturer of a comprehensive line of consumer and professional products, including coffee makers marketed under the Mr. Coffee(Registered) brand name and consumer health products marketed under the Health-o-Meter(Registered), Counselor(Registered) and Borg(Registered) brand names. Signature Brands had revenues of about $279 million in 1997. First Alert is the worldwide leader in residential fire safety equipment, including smoke and carbon monoxide detectors marketed under the First Alert(Registered) brand name. First Alert had revenues of about $187 million in 1997. Sunbeam paid about $255 million in cash, including the paying down of debt, to acquire Signature Brands. Sunbeam paid about $133 million in cash and assumed about $49 million in debt--a total consideration of about $182 million--to acquire First Alert.

On July 12, 1999, one of Sunbeam's wholly owned subsidiaries acquired 3,000,000 shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $31 million. These shares, together with the shares of Coleman common stock already indirectly owned by Sunbeam, enable Sunbeam to exercise just over 80% of the total voting power of Coleman's outstanding capital stock. Coleman created these shares and Sunbeam acquired them in order to enable Sunbeam and Coleman to file consolidated federal income tax returns and, in certain jurisdictions, consolidated state income tax returns, prior to the completion of the merger. In connection with the acquisition of these shares,

Sunbeam entered into a tax sharing agreement with Coleman pursuant to which Coleman will pay to Sunbeam amounts equal to the federal and state income taxes that would have been payable by Coleman had Coleman not been included in the consolidated income tax return of Sunbeam. The terms of the voting preferred stock, the per share issue price and the terms of the tax sharing agreement were approved on Coleman's behalf by Coleman's then sole independent director. The net proceeds from the sale of the preferred stock to Sunbeam were used by Coleman to make a partial repayment on Coleman's note payable to Sunbeam.

On November 9, 1999, Sunbeam announced its intention to divest Coleman's Eastpak business, as well as certain non-essential assets. Sunbeam anticipates that these asset sales will produce net proceeds of approximately $200 million, which will be used primarily to pay down its bank debt.

ISSUANCE OF DEBENTURES AND BANK CREDIT FACILITY

In order to finance the 1998 acquisitions and to refinance substantially

all of the indebtedness of Sunbeam, Coleman and its parent corporations, CLN Holdings and Coleman Worldwide, First Alert and Signature Brands, Sunbeam completed an offering of an aggregate principal amount at maturity of $2,014 million of its Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures Due 2018 on March 25, 1998, for net proceeds of about $730 million, and borrowed about $1,325 million under a new bank credit facility.

The debentures are due March 25, 2018, are subject to earlier repurchase at the option of the holders on specified dates beginning in 2003 and are convertible into up to 13,242,050 shares of Sunbeam common stock, subject to adjustment in certain events.

The bank credit facility, as amended, allows Sunbeam to borrow up to $1,700 million under:

- o a $400 million revolving credit facility maturing on March 30, 2005, of which $52.5 million may be used only to complete the merger,
- o up to $800 million in term loans maturing on March 30, 2005, of which $35 million may be used only to complete the merger, and
- o a $500 million term loan maturing on September 30, 2006, of which $5.0 million has already been repaid through September 30, 1999.

Unless Sunbeam further amends its bank credit facility or refinances its bank debt by April 10, 2000, Sunbeam's lenders will be able to accelerate the maturities listed above at any time after April 10, 2000.

Until March 31, 2000, Sunbeam has agreed to limit the total amount of revolving loans (other than those used to fund the merger) at the end of each month as follows:

<TABLE>

Borrowings under the bank credit facility are secured by, among other things, substantially all of Sunbeam's assets, including a pledge of Sunbeam's stock in Coleman, First Alert, Signature Brands and its other material subsidiaries. See "SOURCE AND AMOUNT OF FUNDS AND OTHER CONSIDERATION--Security and Guarantees."

<PAGE>

This credit facility accrues interest, at Sunbeam's option:

- o at LIBOR, or

022197

- o at the base rate of the administrative agent which is generally the higher of the prime commercial lending rate of the administrative agent or the Federal Funds Rate plus 0.50%, in each case, plus an interest rate margin which varies depending on the occurrence of specified events. The interest rate margin is currently 4.00% for LIBOR loans and 2.50% for base rate loans, and is subject to potential decreases in the future, including a decrease to 3.00% for LIBOR loans and 1.75% for base rate loans upon consummation of the merger and the effectiveness of the pledge of substantially all of Coleman's and its domestic subsidiaries' assets to secure the obligations under the bank credit facility. See "--Covenants Under Bank Credit Facility."

Under an April 15, 1999 amendment to the bank credit facility, Sunbeam agreed to pay the bank lenders a loan commitment fee of between 0.25% to 1.00% of the commitments under the bank credit facility as of April 15, 1999. The percentage used to calculate the fee will be determined by reference to the bank lenders' aggregate commitments and loan exposure under the bank credit facility as they may be reduced on or before September 30, 2000. The fee is payable on the earlier of September 30, 2000 and the date the commitments are terminated and the loans and other amounts payable under the bank credit facility are repaid.

At September 30, 1999, Sunbeam owed about $1,500 million under the bank credit facility (including $200 million of outstanding revolving credit facility borrowings) and had about $200 million available for borrowing. See "SOURCE AND AMOUNT OF FUNDS AND OTHER CONSIDERATION."

COVENANTS UNDER BANK CREDIT FACILITY

Sunbeam's bank credit facility contains a number of covenants, including covenants requiring Sunbeam to meet various financial tests and ratios. As a result of Sunbeam's operating losses, among other things, at June 30, 1998 Sunbeam was not in compliance with these financial covenants of the bank credit facility. As of June 30, 1998, Sunbeam entered into an agreement with its bank lenders which waived Sunbeam's compliance with these covenants and terms through December 31, 1998. On October 19, 1998, Sunbeam's bank lenders agreed to extend this waiver through April 10, 1999, then until April 15, 1999. In April 1999, the waiver was extended to April 10, 2000, and the bank credit facility was amended to, among other things:

- o require Sunbeam to meet new financial tests and ratios,
- o decrease the interest rate margins to 3.75% for LIBOR loans and 2.50% for base rate loans,
- o further reduce the interest rate margins to 3.25% for LIBOR loans and 2.00% for base rate loans as a result of Sunbeam's satisfaction on May 14, 1999 of the agreed upon conditions to this reduction. However, such margins increased to 3.50% for LIBOR loans and 2.25% for base rate loans on September 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date and increased to 4.00% for LIBOR loans and 2.50% for base rate loans on October 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date,
- o defer until April 10, 2000 principal payments of $69.3 million otherwise due September 30, 1999 and principal payments of $69.3 million otherwise due March 31, 2000, as a result of Sunbeam's satisfaction on May 14, 1999 of the agreed upon conditions to this deferral,
- o provide that the following events relating to the merger will be events of default under the bank credit facility:
 - o if Sunbeam fails to have the SEC declare this document effective by

October 30, 1999 (which was subsequently amended to January 10, 2000),

- o if Sunbeam fails to complete the merger within 25 business days after this document is declared effective by the SEC, or

- o if Sunbeam has to pay more than $87.5 million in cash to complete the merger, including any payments on account of the exercise of appraisal rights, but excluding related legal, accounting and other customary fees and expenses,
- o require Sunbeam and Coleman to amend Coleman's note payable to Sunbeam and to have Coleman secure the note, which is pledged by Sunbeam to secure the obligations under the bank credit facility, with substantially all of Coleman's assets other than real property,
- o impose restrictions on the total amount of revolving loans (other than those used to fund the merger) permitted to be outstanding at the end of each month under the bank credit facility,
- o require Sunbeam to maintain a concentration cash management system and to repay to the banks (subject to reborrowing) revolving loans to the extent that cash on hand in Sunbeam's concentration accounts on any business day exceeds $15 million,
- o require Sunbeam to prepay term loans under the bank credit facility on December 31, 1999 to the extent that cash on hand in Sunbeam's concentration accounts plus the total amount of unused revolving loan commitments on this date exceeds $125 million, but Sunbeam is not required to prepay more than $69.3 million in total as a result of this provision,
- o require Sunbeam to reserve $52.5 million of availability under the revolving credit facility for use solely to pay the required cash portion of the merger consideration,
- o limit the amount that Sunbeam may spend on Year 2000 testing and remediation to $50 million in total during the fiscal year ending December 31, 1999,
- o require Sunbeam to obtain the bank lenders' consent to any litigation settlement concerning the restatement of Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 fiscal year and first quarter 1998 financial statements if such settlements require the payment of money, not paid by insurance carriers or other third parties, of more than $1 million in total,
- o impose new informational reporting requirements, and
- o provide Sunbeam with a $40 million foreign currency revolving loan subfacility.

See "SOURCE AND AMOUNT OF FUNDS AND OTHER CONSIDERATION."

DELAYED FILING OF REGISTRATION STATEMENT

On March 25, 1998, Sunbeam entered into a registration rights agreement with Morgan Stanley relating to the original issuance of the debentures. The registration rights agreement required Sunbeam to file a registration statement with the SEC by June 23, 1998 to register the debentures and the shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon conversion of the debentures for resale by the holders. However, Sunbeam did not file that registration statement until February 4, 1999 and the SEC did not declare the registration statement effective until November 8, 1999. The delay resulted from Sunbeam's need to review and restate its historical financial statements following the refusal of its former independent auditors, Arthur Andersen, to consent to the inclusion in that registration statement of their opinion on Sunbeam's 1997 financial statements.

Sunbeam's failure to file that registration statement by June 23, 1998 did not constitute a default under the debentures. However, from June 23, 1998 until the day on which that registration statement was declared effective, cash liquidated damages payable to the holders of the debentures accrued:

- o on a daily basis at a rate per annum equal to 0.25% during the first 90 days, and
- o on a daily basis at a rate per annum equal to 0.50% thereafter, multiplied, in each case, by the sum of the issue price of the debentures plus the accrued original issue discount on the debentures on each day for which damages are calculated. Sunbeam has made total payments for liquidated damages since June 23, 1998 of $4.5 million, of which $1.5 million related to damages for the period through December 31, 1998. A final payment of approximately $0.5 million, representing liquidated damages from September 26, 1999 until the registration statement was declared effective, will be payable on March 25, 2000.

PRESS RELEASES RELATING TO SUNBEAM'S FIRST QUARTER 1998 RESULTS

On March 19, 1998, Sunbeam's prior management issued a press release stating that Sunbeam's net sales for the first quarter of 1998 might be lower than the range of Wall Street analysts' estimates of $285 million to $295 million, but that net sales for the quarter were expected to exceed 1997 first quarter net sales of $253.4 million. On April 3, 1998, Sunbeam's prior management issued a press release announcing that net sales for the first quarter of 1998 were expected to be about 5% lower than those achieved in the first quarter of 1997 and, due to the lower sales and significant one-time charges, a loss was expected for the quarter.

On May 11, 1998, Sunbeam's prior management announced 1998 first quarter results and made forecasts for the remainder of 1998 and beyond. They reported net sales of $244.3 million for the quarter, as compared to $253.4 million in the first quarter of 1997. Before one-time charges of $36.8 million for early retirement of debt and compensation expense relating to new employment agreements with three former Sunbeam executives, they reported a net loss from continuing operations of $7.8 million in the first quarter of 1998 versus net income from continuing operations of $20.6 million in the first quarter of 1997. After one-time charges of $0.43 per share, Sunbeam lost $0.52 per share in the 1998 quarter, compared with earnings per share of $0.08 in the comparable 1997 period. Sunbeam's prior management also stated that it expected earnings per share in the range of $1.00 for 1998 and $2.00 for 1999. On June 15, 1998, Sunbeam's new management announced that these previously announced forecasts should not be relied upon.

Following each of these press releases, the market price of Sunbeam common stock fell substantially. On October 20, 1998, Sunbeam issued a press release restating operating results for fiscal years 1996 and 1997, as well as the first quarter of fiscal 1998. See "--Restatement of Financial Results," "--Changes in Sunbeam's Management and Board" and "RISK FACTORS."

CHANGES IN SUNBEAM'S MANAGEMENT AND BOARD

On June 15, 1998, Sunbeam's board of directors removed Albert J. Dunlap as Sunbeam's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. Three days later, Sunbeam's board of directors removed Russell A. Kersh as Sunbeam's Vice Chairman and Chief Financial Officer. The Sunbeam board took these steps because Sunbeam's outside directors had lost confidence in Mr. Dunlap's leadership. On June 15, 1998, the Sunbeam board elected Peter A. Langerman as non-executive Chairman of the board and Jerry W. Levin as Sunbeam's new Chief Executive Officer. Mr. Langerman, an outside director of Sunbeam since 1990, is President and Chief Executive Officer of Franklin Mutual Advisers, Inc., the investment adviser to Franklin Mutual Series Fund, which owns about 17% of Sunbeam's common stock. Mr. Levin is an Executive Vice President of MacAndrews & Forbes. A subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes owns about 14% of Sunbeam's common stock and a warrant which, if exercised in full, would increase its ownership to about 29% of Sunbeam's outstanding common stock. Mr. Levin was Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Coleman at the time of the M&F Transaction and previously was the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Revlon, Inc., an affiliate of MacAndrews & Forbes.

On June 16, 1998, Paul E. Shapiro was appointed as Sunbeam's Executive Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer. Mr. Shapiro also serves as a director and Executive Vice President of Coleman. Mr. Shapiro was the Executive Vice President and General Counsel of Coleman at the time of the M&F Transaction. Bobby G. Jenkins was appointed as Sunbeam's Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer on June 15, 1998. Mr. Jenkins also serves as Executive Vice President of Coleman. On April 24, 1998, Karen K. Clark was appointed as Sunbeam's Vice President, Operations Finance. Since April 1999, Ms. Clark has served as Sunbeam's Senior Vice President, Finance. Ms. Clark also serves as Senior Vice President, Finance of Coleman. Jack D. Hall joined Sunbeam on October 1, 1998 as President, International. Steven R. Isko was appointed as Sunbeam's Senior Vice President and General Counsel on June 1, 1999. Mr. Isko also serves as Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Coleman.

In June 1998, Mr. Levin, Howard Gittis of MacAndrews & Forbes, and Lawrence Sondike of Franklin Mutual Advisers, Inc. were elected to the Sunbeam board. William T. Rutter resigned from the Sunbeam board effective July 8, 1998, and Faith Whittlesey was elected to fill the vacancy on the Sunbeam board of directors' audit committee resulting from Mr. Rutter's resignation. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh resigned from the Sunbeam board of directors effective August 5, 1998. In January 1999, Mr. Sondike resigned from the Sunbeam board of directors; in February 1999, John H. Klein, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Bi-Logix, Inc., was elected to the Sunbeam board of directors; and on June 29, 1999, Philip E. Beekman, President of Owl Hollow Enterprises, Inc., was elected to the Sunbeam board of directors at its annual stockholders meeting.

In March 1999, Mr. Levin became Chairman of the Sunbeam board of directors, succeeding Mr. Langerman, who remains a director of Sunbeam.

RESTATEMENT OF FINANCIAL RESULTS; CHANGE OF AUDITORS

On June 25, 1998, Sunbeam announced that its former independent auditors, Arthur Andersen, would not consent to the inclusion of their opinion on Sunbeam's 1997 financial statements in a registration statement Sunbeam was then planning to file with the SEC. On June 30, 1998, Sunbeam announced that the audit committee of its board of directors would review the accuracy of Sunbeam's prior financial statements and, therefore, those financial statements should not be relied upon. Sunbeam also announced that Deloitte & Touche LLP had been retained to assist the audit committee and Arthur Andersen in this review. On August 6, 1998, Sunbeam announced that the audit committee had determined that Sunbeam would be required to restate its financial statements for 1997, the first quarter of 1998, and possibly 1996, and that the adjustments, while not then quantified, would be material.

On October 20, 1998, Sunbeam announced the restatement of its financial results for a six-quarter period from the fourth quarter of 1996 through the first quarter of 1998. Sunbeam had to restate these financial results because its previously issued financial statements generally overstated losses for 1996, overstated profits for 1997 and understated losses for the first quarter of 1998. The audit committee concluded that Sunbeam had incorrectly recognized revenue during these periods from "bill and hold" and guaranteed sales transactions. The audit committee also concluded that some costs and allowances for sales returns, co-op advertising, customer deductions and reserves for product liability and warranty expense were not accrued or were incorrectly recorded. Finally, the audit committee concluded that various costs were incorrectly included in and charged to restructuring, asset impairment and other costs.

On November 20, 1998, Sunbeam announced that its audit committee had recommended, and its board of directors had approved, the appointment of Deloitte & Touche to replace Arthur Andersen as Sunbeam's independent auditors for fiscal year 1998. Arthur Andersen will continue to provide Sunbeam with limited professional services. For further information regarding Sunbeam's independent auditors, see "CHANGES IN AND DISAGREEMENTS WITH ACCOUNTANTS ON ACCOUNTING AND FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE."

REPORTING OF RESULTS FOR FIRST NINE MONTHS OF 1999 AND FISCAL YEAR 1998

On November 9, 1999, Sunbeam reported that for the first nine months of 1999 Sunbeam had net sales of $1,786.4 million and a net loss of $155.0 million, or a loss per diluted share of $1.54. Results for the nine months ended September 30, 1998 include Coleman, Signature Brands and First Alert from their respective acquisition dates. After adjusting 1998 sales to include sales of the acquired companies for the periods from the beginning of 1998 through the respective dates of acquisition, 1999 net sales increased approximately $162 million or approximately 10% over 1998 combined historical net sales of $1,624.0 million. Sunbeam also announced that net cash used in operations was $73.2 million for the first nine months of 1999 as compared to $224.7 million during the same period in the prior year.

On April 21, 1999, Sunbeam reported that, for the full year 1998, Sunbeam had net sales of $1,800 million and a net loss of $898 million, or a loss of $9.25 per diluted share. Excluding sales of Coleman, First Alert and Signature Brands, comparable sales declined 23% to $828 million in 1998 from about $1,100 million in 1997. Sunbeam also announced net cash provided by operations of about $30 million for the fourth quarter of 1998, compared with net cash used in operations of about $220 million during the first three quarters of 1998.

LITIGATION INVOLVING SUNBEAM

Since prior management's issuance of the April 3, 1998 press release concerning Sunbeam's 1998 first quarter results, many lawsuits alleging legal claims arising under federal and state securities and other laws have been filed against Sunbeam, some of Sunbeam's former directors and officers, some of Sunbeam's current directors and Arthur Andersen. Sunbeam is currently defending these lawsuits in a number of courts. Many of these suits relate to Sunbeam's financial performance from the second quarter of 1997 through the second quarter of 1998. Many plaintiffs are claiming that Sunbeam's prior management misrepresented and omitted material information in its public filings and in its statements concerning Sunbeam's historical and expected future results of operations. In many of these cases, the plaintiffs claim that the alleged actions were intended to artificially inflate the market price of Sunbeam's common stock. Sunbeam's insurers have also attempted to have Sunbeam's directors' and officers' liability policies voided or canceled or have advised Sunbeam that they do not intend to provide coverage with respect to these lawsuits. Sunbeam is unable to predict the outcome of these lawsuits or its potential exposure to damages. However, if Sunbeam were to lose these lawsuits, the judgments would likely have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's financial condition, results of operations and cash flow. For a more detailed description of these and other lawsuits, see "BUSINESS OF SUNBEAM--Litigation and Other Contingent Liabilities."

022202

SEC INVESTIGATION

The staff of the Division of Enforcement of the SEC advised Sunbeam in a letter dated June 17, 1998 that it was conducting an informal inquiry into Sunbeam's accounting policies and procedures. On July 2, 1998, the SEC advised Sunbeam that it had issued a formal order of investigation. The order indicates that the SEC is investigating whether Sunbeam, certain of its current or former officers, directors, employees and certain other persons and entities violated the federal securities laws and regulations by:

- o filing or causing to be filed inaccurate reports with the SEC,
- o failing to maintain accurate books, records and accounts,
- o failing to create or maintain adequate internal accounting controls, or circumventing such controls,
- o knowingly or recklessly making false or misleading statements in reports filed with the SEC or in other public statements, or
- o making false or misleading statements to an accountant in connection with audits or examinations of Sunbeam's financial statements or reports filed with the SEC.

At the time the formal order of investigation was issued, the SEC also subpoenaed various documents from Sunbeam. On November 4, 1998, Sunbeam received another SEC subpoena requiring the production of additional documents. Sunbeam has cooperated with the SEC and has furnished the SEC with documents they requested. Sunbeam has, however, declined to provide the SEC with material Sunbeam believes is subject to the attorney-client privilege and the work product immunity. Sunbeam cannot predict how long the SEC investigation will continue or its outcome.

SETTLEMENT OF CLAIMS RELATING TO THE M&F TRANSACTION

On August 12, 1998, Sunbeam announced that it had entered into an agreement to settle threatened claims of the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary that sold Sunbeam a controlling interest in Coleman in the M&F Transaction in March 1998, in exchange for consideration which included about 14 million shares of Sunbeam common stock. These shares had a market value of about $580 million when the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary agreed to the M&F Transaction, but their market value was less than $100 million at the time of the settlement.

The claims of the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary were substantially the same as the claims made in a number of the stockholder lawsuits filed in the second and third quarters of 1998 alleging that Sunbeam, in 1997 and the first quarter of 1998 under its prior management, made material misstatements and omissions of fact that artificially inflated the market price of Sunbeam common stock. The MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary also alleged that Sunbeam had breached representations made in the agreement relating to the M&F Transaction. The settlement:

- o released Sunbeam from threatened claims arising out of Sunbeam's acquisition of the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary's controlling interest in Coleman,
- o enabled Sunbeam to retain the services of executive personnel affiliated with MacAndrews & Forbes who had been managing Sunbeam since mid-June of 1998, including Jerry W. Levin, Sunbeam's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Paul E. Shapiro, Sunbeam's Executive Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer, and Bobby G. Jenkins, Sunbeam's Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, and
- o provided for continuing management assistance and other support by MacAndrews & Forbes to Sunbeam at its request.

In exchange, Sunbeam issued to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase 23 million shares of Sunbeam common stock at a cash exercise price of $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution adjustments. Sunbeam has agreed that the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary can require Sunbeam to register under federal and applicable state securities laws the warrant and the shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrant. See "BUSINESS--Litigation and Other Contingent Liabilities."

The terms of the settlement and warrant were negotiated and approved on Sunbeam's behalf by a special committee of four of Sunbeam's outside directors, none of whom has any affiliation with MacAndrews & Forbes. The members of the special committee were Howard Kristol (Chairman), Charles Elson, Peter Langerman and Faith Whittlesey. They were assisted by independent financial advisors and legal counsel.

For their services as members of the special committee in connection with the settlement, Mr. Kristol received additional compensation of $50,000 and Messrs. Elson and Langerman and Mrs. Whittlesey each received additional compensation of $35,000. Sunbeam also agreed to indemnify each of the members of the special committee to the fullest extent allowed by applicable law and Sunbeam's certificate of incorporation and by-laws for any liabilities arising out of their services on the special committee.

The settlement normally would have required approval by Sunbeam's stockholders under the rules of the NYSE because of the issuance of the warrant as part of the settlement. However, Sunbeam's audit committee determined that the delay that would be necessary to secure stockholder approval prior to issuing the warrant would:

- o be lengthy due to the SEC's ongoing investigation of Sunbeam's accounting practices and policies and the need to complete the restatement of Sunbeam's historical financial statements,
- o inhibit Sunbeam's ability to reach a settlement with the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary and to retain and hire essential senior management personnel, and
- o seriously jeopardize Sunbeam's financial viability.

Based on these determinations, Sunbeam's audit committee, relying on an exception provided in the applicable NYSE stockholder approval policy, expressly approved Sunbeam's omission to seek stockholder approval. The NYSE accepted Sunbeam's application of the exception.

022204

In connection with the settlement agreement, Messrs. Levin, Shapiro and Jenkins each signed three-year employment agreements with Sunbeam. See "MANAGEMENT."

OPTIONS EXCHANGE

In August 1998, Sunbeam approved an exchange plan for outstanding options held by its employees to purchase shares of Sunbeam common stock. The exchange plan, which has been completed, provided for the outstanding options with exercise prices in excess of $10.00 per share to be valued by reference to the generally accepted Black-Scholes option pricing model, and permitted Sunbeam employees to exchange old options for new options with an exercise price of $7.00 per share having a value equivalent to the value of the old options. See Note 9 to Sunbeam's Consolidated Financial Statements.

33

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE LISTING

In May 1998, the NYSE advised Sunbeam that it did not meet the NYSE's continuing listing standards because Sunbeam did not have tangible net assets of at least $12 million at December 31, 1997 and average annual net income of at least $600,000 for 1995, 1996 and 1997. Sunbeam representatives met with NYSE officials, and in March 1999, the NYSE informed Sunbeam that Sunbeam common stock would not be delisted at that time, although the NYSE would continue to monitor Sunbeam's financial condition and operating performance. On August 5, 1999, the NYSE advised Sunbeam that the NYSE had revised its continuing listing standards, and that Sunbeam is in compliance with the revised standards.

MATTERS INVOLVING FORMER MANAGEMENT

In early August 1998, Sunbeam entered into a six-month agreement with Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh in which the parties agreed not to assert claims against each other and to exchange information relating to the pending stockholder lawsuits. Sunbeam also agreed to pay a portion of the accrued vacation and employment benefits of Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh.

After the agreement expired, by letters dated February 9, 1999, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh submitted demands for arbitration to the American Arbitration Association alleging that Sunbeam terminated their employment without cause. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh are seeking lump sum payments of about $5,250,000 and $2,296,875, respectively. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh also are seeking:

- o amounts for accrued but unused vacation,
- o amounts in respect of certain benefit plans,
- o a ruling that their options to acquire shares of Sunbeam common stock are fully vested and that they will receive the economic equivalent of their participation in Sunbeam's program for repricing of options, and
- o in the case of Mr. Kersh, more than $3 million, including tax gross-ups, with respect to his restricted stock.

Sunbeam is vigorously contesting the claims of Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh. To date, Sunbeam has not made any severance payments to either of Messrs. Dunlap or Kersh.

On March 23, 1999, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh filed a complaint in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware seeking an order directing Sunbeam to advance attorneys' fees and other expenses incurred in connection with the defense of the stockholder lawsuits and the SEC investigation. A trial of this summary proceeding was held on June 15 and 16, 1999, and the court ordered Sunbeam to advance Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh about $1.4 million for their expenses incurred through the date of their complaint and to advance expenses reasonably incurred by them in the future. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh have agreed to repay to Sunbeam all amounts reimbursed or advanced if it is ultimately determined that they are not entitled to indemnification under Delaware law.

ACQUISITION OF COLEMAN PREFERRED STOCK

On July 12, 1999, one of Sunbeam's wholly owned subsidiaries acquired 3,000,000 shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock, for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $31 million. These shares, together with the shares of Coleman common stock already indirectly owned by Sunbeam, enable Sunbeam to exercise just over 80% of the total voting power of Coleman's outstanding capital stock. Coleman created these shares and Sunbeam acquired them in order to enable Sunbeam and Coleman to file consolidated federal income tax returns and, in certain jurisdictions, consolidated state income tax returns, prior to the completion of the merger. In connection with the acquisition of these shares, Sunbeam entered into a tax sharing agreement with Coleman pursuant to which Coleman will pay to Sunbeam amounts equal to the federal and state income taxes that would have been payable by Coleman had

Coleman not been included in the consolidated income tax return of Sunbeam. The terms of the voting preferred stock, the per share issue price and the terms of the tax sharing agreement were approved on Coleman's behalf by Coleman's then sole independent director. The net proceeds from the sale of the preferred stock to Sunbeam were used by Coleman to make a partial repayment on Coleman's note payable to Sunbeam.

For information concerning the terms of the new preferred stock issued to Sunbeam, see "DESCRIPTION OF COLEMAN CAPITAL STOCK--Coleman Preferred Stock."

PROPOSED SALE OF COLEMAN EASTPAK BUSINESS

On November 9, 1999, Sunbeam announced its intention to divest Coleman's Eastpak business, as well as certain non-essential assets. Sunbeam anticipates that these asset sales will produce net proceeds of approximately $200 million, which will be used primarily to pay down its bank debt.

RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING COLEMAN

In April 1999, the NYSE advised Coleman that it did not meet the NYSE's continuing listing standards because Coleman did not have tangible net assets of at least $12 million at September 30, 1998 and average annual net income of at least $600,000 for fiscal years 1997, 1996 and 1995. At that time, Coleman requested the NYSE to continue to list the Coleman common stock until completion of the merger. The NYSE subsequently advised Coleman that Coleman also failed to satisfy certain non-financial continuing listing standards. On August 5, 1999, the NYSE advised Coleman that the NYSE had revised its continuing listing standards, and that Coleman is in compliance with the revised financial standards. Coleman and the NYSE have agreed upon a program whereby Coleman will correct the deficiencies in its non-financial continuing listing standards by the end of 1999. Coleman is currently complying with such program. If Coleman were to be delisted from the NYSE, it could adversely affect the market price of Coleman's common stock and Coleman's ability to sell its capital stock to third parties. However, Sunbeam's bank credit facility currently restricts Coleman from taking such action.

Following the M&F Transaction, Sunbeam caused Coleman to repay substantially all of its outstanding indebtedness (which had been assumed by Sunbeam in the M&F Transaction) with the proceeds of borrowings from Sunbeam. Since the completion of the M&F Transaction, Coleman has borrowed additional funds from Sunbeam. During 1998 and through April 15, 1999, these borrowings were evidenced by an unsecured subordinated demand note payable by Coleman to Sunbeam. This note was pledged by Sunbeam to its lenders as security for Sunbeam's obligations under its bank credit facility. In April 1999, Coleman's note payable to Sunbeam was revised and secured by a pledge of Coleman assets in favor of Sunbeam's lending banks. The revised Coleman note had an unpaid principal amount of $303.2 million on September 30, 1999. See "MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM AND ITS AFFILIATES--Financial Transactions Between Coleman and Sunbeam."

As described above, on July 12, 1999, Coleman issued 3,000,000 shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock to one of Sunbeam's wholly owned subsidiaries. See "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--Acquisition of Coleman Preferred Stock."

SPECIAL FACTORS

BACKGROUND OF THE MERGER

In the spring of 1997, as part of a long-term strategic planning process, Sunbeam's prior management began exploring a possible sale of Sunbeam or the making of one or more major acquisitions. On April 22, 1997, representatives of Morgan Stanley & Co., Incorporated, Sunbeam's financial advisor, met with Albert J. Dunlap, Sunbeam's then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, and Russell A. Kersh, Sunbeam's then Vice Chairman and Chief Financial Officer, to discuss, among other things, the retention of Morgan Stanley as Sunbeam's financial advisor in connection with a possible sale of Sunbeam or one or more major acquisitions by Sunbeam.

On September 11, 1997, Morgan Stanley was formally retained by Sunbeam to assist in connection with a possible sale of Sunbeam, one or more possible acquisitions by Sunbeam and the consideration of other strategic alternatives. Thereafter, representatives of Morgan Stanley contacted five companies in the branded consumer products business to determine whether any of these companies would be interested in exploring a possible acquisition of Sunbeam. Morgan Stanley contacted only those companies which it believed were large enough to finance an acquisition of Sunbeam and to successfully integrate Sunbeam's operations. In addition, Morgan Stanley selected only companies with product lines and operations which it believed were compatible with or complementary to those of Sunbeam. One of the companies contacted was MacAndrews & Forbes, which Morgan Stanley from time to time advises on a variety of business and financial matters. None of the companies contacted by Morgan Stanley expressed interest in acquiring Sunbeam at a price which would have constituted a premium over the then current market price of the Sunbeam common stock. Based on Morgan Stanley's initial contacts with potential acquirors of Sunbeam, Sunbeam's then senior management concluded that it was unlikely that any major consumer products company would be likely to pursue an acquisition of Sunbeam at a price or on terms that would be acceptable to Sunbeam. Morgan Stanley then explored the impact on Sunbeam of various other strategic alternatives, including a sale of one or more of Sunbeam's businesses, a spin-off of one or more of Sunbeam's subsidiaries or a recapitalization of Sunbeam. These strategic alternatives were rejected by Sunbeam's former management because of former management's stated belief that one or more acquisitions by Sunbeam would have a more positive impact on stockholder value. Former management then directed Morgan Stanley to shift its focus to one or more possible major acquisitions.

On December 12, 1997, Mr. Kersh, David C. Fannin, Sunbeam's then Executive Vice President, General Counsel and Secretary, and Peter A. Langerman, a director of Sunbeam, met with Jerry W. Levin, then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Coleman, Paul E. Shapiro, then Coleman's Executive Vice President and General Counsel, and Joseph P. Page, then Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Coleman, and discussed Coleman's businesses and the potential cost savings, efficiencies and other benefits that could result from a combination of Sunbeam and Coleman. The December 12 meeting was initiated by Morgan Stanley on Sunbeam's behalf. Notwithstanding MacAndrews & Forbes' previous rejection of Sunbeam's overtures regarding an acquisition of Sunbeam by MacAndrews & Forbes, both Morgan Stanley and Sunbeam believed that the complementary nature of the product offerings of Sunbeam and Coleman, the asset base of Coleman, including its ownership of various brand names which enjoy substantial consumer recognition, the potential revenue and operational benefits associated with a Sunbeam/Coleman combination and the then current trading prices of Coleman's common stock all favored an acquisition of Coleman by Sunbeam.

At that time, MacAndrews & Forbes indirectly owned about 81% of the Coleman common stock through various subsidiaries, including Coleman (Parent) Holdings. Other stockholders then owned about 19% of the outstanding Coleman common stock. For further information regarding the organizational structure of MacAndrews & Forbes and the structure of the M&F Transaction, see "MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM AND ITS AFFILIATES--M&F Transaction."

On December 18, 1997, Mr. Dunlap and Michael Price, the then President and Chief Executive Officer of Franklin Mutual Advisers, Inc., Sunbeam's largest stockholder, met with Ronald O. Perelman, MacAndrews & Forbes' Chairman, Chief Executive Officer and sole stockholder, and another senior executive of MacAndrews & Forbes. Mr. Dunlap suggested a possible transaction in which Sunbeam would acquire Coleman for consideration valued in the range of $18 to $22 per share of Coleman common stock. Mr. Perelman advised Mr. Dunlap that the price range was too low and indicated that he would not support a transaction in that price range.

On or about January 22, 1998, in an effort to revive a possible transaction, a representative of Morgan Stanley contacted a representative of MacAndrews & Forbes and indicated that Sunbeam might consider a possible transaction involving both cash and shares of Sunbeam common stock at a price higher than the price range suggested by Mr. Dunlap at the December 18 meeting. MacAndrews & Forbes' representative indicated his willingness to discuss a possible transaction on those terms. On January 23, 1998, representatives of Morgan Stanley met with representatives of MacAndrews & Forbes to begin discussions regarding a possible transaction between Sunbeam and Coleman. On January 29, 1998, representatives of Sunbeam and Morgan Stanley met with representatives of Coleman and MacAndrews & Forbes, as well as representatives of Credit Suisse First Boston Corporation, Coleman's financial advisor. During the meeting, the parties discussed the potential cost savings, revenue and operational efficiencies and other benefits that might be associated with a business combination of Sunbeam and Coleman and a preliminary schedule for mutual due diligence. During the week of February 2, 1998, Morgan Stanley submitted to MacAndrews & Forbes an outline of a possible transaction structure which focused on Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman in a one-step merger of a wholly owned Sunbeam subsidiary with and into Coleman in which all outstanding shares of Coleman common stock, including the shares owned indirectly by MacAndrews & Forbes, would be exchanged for consideration consisting solely of Sunbeam common stock. The proposal was rejected because it did not contemplate the assumption by Sunbeam of the indebtedness of two subsidiaries of MacAndrews & Forbes which were corporate parents of Coleman holding MacAndrews & Forbes' interest in Coleman--CLN Holdings (the subsidiary of Coleman (Parent) Holdings) and Coleman Worldwide (the subsidiary of CLN Holdings)--or the payment of any cash consideration. At that time, Coleman Worldwide and CLN Holdings had aggregate outstanding indebtedness of about $518.7 million.

On February 6, 1998, representatives of Morgan Stanley met with representatives of MacAndrews & Forbes and Credit Suisse First Boston to again discuss a possible acquisition of Coleman by Sunbeam. At this meeting, the possibility of Sunbeam's acquisition of MacAndrews & Forbes' interest in Coleman, including Sunbeam's assumption of the indebtedness of Coleman Worldwide and CLN Holdings, as the first step in an acquisition of Coleman was discussed. Although the parties had not yet reached agreement on price or the value of Coleman, the parties began to discuss this structure.

On February 13, 1998 and February 19, 1998, representatives of Sunbeam and Morgan Stanley participated in conference calls with a representative of MacAndrews & Forbes and discussed the terms of a possible transaction, including structure and price. The parties tentatively agreed that the transaction would be structured as a stock purchase in which Sunbeam would acquire all of the outstanding capital stock of CLN Holdings from Coleman (Parent) Holdings, an indirect subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes. Under this structure, Sunbeam in effect would assume the indebtedness of CLN Holdings and Coleman Worldwide. The consideration payable by Sunbeam was not, however, agreed upon. Due diligence meetings were held at various times on and after February 21, 1998 during which representatives of Sunbeam and Morgan Stanley, as well as Sunbeam's accountants and consultants, met with representatives of Coleman, MacAndrews & Forbes and Credit Suisse First Boston, as well as Coleman's accountants, to discuss Coleman's financial results for fiscal year 1997, strategic plans and financial projections for fiscal year 1998.

Due diligence meetings were also held on February 23 and 24, 1998 during which representatives of Sunbeam met with representatives of Coleman, along with representatives of MacAndrews & Forbes and Credit Suisse First Boston, to discuss Sunbeam's long-term strategic plan and financial projections for fiscal years 1998 through 2000.

On February 24, 1998, Messrs. Kersh and Fannin and representatives of Morgan Stanley participated in conference calls with representatives of MacAndrews & Forbes to finalize the transaction structure and negotiate the remaining terms of the transaction. During these conference calls, the parties reached agreement on the type of consideration payable by Sunbeam in the acquisition, although neither the amount of cash consideration nor the precise exchange ratio of Sunbeam common stock for Coleman common stock was agreed upon. On February 25 and 26, 1998, meetings and conference calls were held between representatives of Sunbeam and its legal advisors, representatives of Coleman and its legal advisors, and representatives of MacAndrews & Forbes and its legal advisors. During the February 26, 1998 meetings and conference calls, the parties agreed that the final transaction structure would consist of a merger of CLN Holdings and a wholly owned Sunbeam subsidiary, followed by a second-step merger of a wholly owned Sunbeam subsidiary with Coleman. At that time, the parties also reached final agreement on the consideration payable by Sunbeam in the acquisition, including the amount of cash consideration and the precise exchange ratio of Sunbeam common stock for Coleman common stock. The parties and their advisors then finalized definitive agreements reflecting the agreed upon transaction structure and consideration.

On February 25, 1998, Coleman's then board of directors met and received and considered the presentations of the management of Coleman, Credit Suisse First Boston and Coleman's legal counsel regarding the transactions. The presentation of Credit Suisse First Boston was addressed, primarily, to the fairness to the Coleman minority stockholders of the consideration payable under the merger agreement. As part of this presentation, representatives of Credit Suisse First Boston evaluated the following factors:

- o the proposed structure of the transaction;
- o the type and amount of consideration payable to the Coleman minority stockholders in the merger and to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary, Coleman (Parent) Holdings, in the M&F Transaction, including the assumption by Sunbeam of the indebtedness of Coleman Worldwide, CLN Holdings and Coleman;
- o the premium represented by the then value of the merger consideration when compared to:
 - o historical trading prices of the Coleman common stock;
 - o Coleman's EBITDA for fiscal years 1997 and 1998; and
 - o Coleman's earnings per share for fiscal years 1997 and 1998; and
- o the value of Coleman, as measured by:
 - o an analysis of the then present value of Coleman's future unlevered cash flows generated by its then current assets;
 - o the public market trading values of comparable companies; and
 - o the prices paid in recent acquisitions of comparable companies.

On Friday, February 27, 1998, meetings of the boards of directors of Coleman and Sunbeam were held to consider and act upon the proposed transactions. At the meeting of the Coleman board Credit Suisse First Boston delivered its opinion to the Coleman board to the effect that, as of that date, the consideration of 0.5677 of a share of Sunbeam common stock and $6.44 in cash, without interest thereon, in exchange for each share of Coleman common stock, was fair, from a financial point of view, to the stockholders of Coleman, other than MacAndrews & Forbes and its subsidiaries.

At the meeting of the Sunbeam board, the directors of Sunbeam received and considered presentations of Morgan Stanley regarding the transactions. The presentation of Morgan Stanley was addressed to the fairness to Sunbeam of the consideration payable under the merger agreement. As part of this presentation, representatives of Morgan Stanley, among other things, discussed with the Sunbeam board the following factors:

- o the strategic rationale for the transaction, including:
 - o the strength of Coleman's brand names and the potential revenue benefits they presented to Sunbeam;
 - o the benefits associated with an acquisition by Sunbeam in terms of market expectations, Sunbeam's ability to remain a market leader and the increased leverage over distribution channels associated with increased size; and
- o the potential for synergies and cost savings as a result of the merger;

022210

- o the proposed structure of the transaction;

38

<PAGE>

- o the financial condition of Coleman and Sunbeam;
- o the nature of Coleman's and Sunbeam's business operations and their future prospects;
- o estimates of the revenue and operational benefits expected to be realized as a result of the transaction as prepared by the management of Sunbeam;
- o an analysis of the present value of Coleman's projected cash flows with a terminal value applied;
- o the public market trading values of comparable companies with a projected control premium included; and
- o prices paid in recent acquisitions of comparable companies.

In addition, at the February 27, 1998 Sunbeam board meeting, Morgan Stanley delivered its opinion to the Sunbeam board to the effect that, as of that date, the consideration payable in the merger and the M&F Transaction was fair, from a financial point of view, to Sunbeam.

Following the receipt of the respective fairness opinions, the boards of directors of Sunbeam and Coleman each approved the merger and the M&F Transaction. Definitive agreements were executed by the parties late that night and a press release announcing the transactions was issued before the opening of trading on the NYSE on Monday, March 2, 1998.

On February 27, 1998, Coleman Worldwide, as the owner of about 81% of the then outstanding shares of Coleman common stock, executed a written consent and voted its shares to approve the merger agreement and the merger. As a result, no further action on the part of any stockholder of Coleman is required to complete the merger.

As described above under the caption "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM," since the merger agreement was approved and signed in February 1998 and the M&F Transaction was completed in March 1998, adverse developments affecting Sunbeam have caused a substantial decrease in the market value of the Sunbeam common stock. As a result, the value of the consideration paid to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary in the M&F Transaction and the value of the consideration to be paid to Coleman's other stockholders under the merger agreement have also declined substantially. Coleman and Sunbeam have not considered amending or terminating the merger agreement because the merger agreement, by its terms, cannot be amended or terminated. Instead, Coleman and Sunbeam determined to provide additional consideration to the Coleman minority stockholders in connection with the settlement of the Coleman minority stockholders' litigation claims.

COLEMAN'S REASONS FOR THE MERGER AND APPROVAL OF THE COLEMAN BOARD

At its meetings on February 25 and 27, 1998, the then Coleman board received and considered the presentations of Coleman management, Credit Suisse First Boston and Coleman's legal counsel regarding the merger agreement and the merger. At its February 27 meeting, the then Coleman board unanimously approved and adopted the merger and approved the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement. See "--Background of the Merger."

In reaching its determination to approve the merger, the then Coleman board considered a number of factors. Listed below are the material factors, both positive and negative, considered. In view of the number and variety of factors considered in connection with its evaluation of the merger, the then Coleman board did not consider it practicable to, nor did it attempt to, quantify or otherwise assign relative weights to the specific factors considered in reaching its determination. In addition, individual members of the then Coleman board may have given different weight to the different factors.

The then Coleman board identified and considered a variety of positive factors in its deliberations concerning the merger, including those set forth below.

Coleman's Business, Condition and Prospects. The Coleman board reviewed Coleman's business, its then current financial condition and results of operations and its future prospects, including Coleman's ability to maintain its position in the consumer products business at its present size, and the current and anticipated developments in Coleman's business. The Coleman board received and reviewed presentations from, and discussed the terms and conditions of the merger agreement with, executive officers of Coleman and Coleman's financial and legal advisors. The Coleman board considered the views of its management and financial advisor regarding recent trends in the industry in which Coleman operates, including recent acquisitions and business combinations. Based on its familiarity with the business, current financial condition and results of operations and future prospects of Coleman, and in light of the various presentations it received, the Coleman board concluded that a business combination of Coleman with Sunbeam would be in the best interests of Coleman and its stockholders.

Terms and Structure of the Transaction. The Coleman board of directors considered the fact that the merger agreement does not contain any provisions that either (1) limit the effect of changes in the market price of the Sunbeam common stock prior to the completion of the merger on the value of the consideration to be received by Coleman stockholders in the merger or (2) permit Coleman or Sunbeam to terminate the merger agreement based upon changes in stock price and that, accordingly, the value of the consideration could change based on the performance of the Sunbeam common stock between the execution of the merger agreement and the completion of the merger. While recognizing that the absence of these provisions exposed Coleman's stockholders to market risk, the Coleman board considered this risk to be mitigated to some extent by the trading history of Sunbeam common stock during the period from January 1, 1997 through February 24, 1998 and the fact that the Sunbeam common stock had outperformed both the Coleman common stock and the Standard and Poor's 500 Stock Index during that period.

The Coleman board reviewed the economic terms of the transaction based upon the closing prices of the Coleman common stock and the Sunbeam common stock on February 24, 1998 and February 26, 1998, the days prior to each of the meetings of the Coleman board. As reported on the NYSE Composite Transactions Tape, the closing prices of Sunbeam common stock and Coleman common stock were $40.625 and $20.688, respectively, on February 24, 1998, and $41.875 and $20.188, respectively, on February 26, 1998. The Coleman board considered that, in each case, the merger consideration implied a per share premium of about 44.2% when the market value of the merger consideration was compared to the then market price per share of Coleman common stock. The Coleman board also considered that the merger consideration was higher than the value implied by the historical stock market prices of the Coleman common stock and Sunbeam common stock.

The Coleman board also considered the fact that the transaction was structured as a two-step acquisition which, among other things, would enable Sunbeam to acquire control of Coleman as quickly as possible in order to reduce disruption to Coleman's business. The two-step structure would enable Sunbeam to acquire control of Coleman more quickly than in a one-step transaction, since Sunbeam could issue shares of its common stock to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary that owned the shares of Coleman common stock without having to register the Sunbeam shares under the federal securities laws, thereby avoiding the delay inherent in the registration process. The agreement relating to the M&F Transaction was signed on February 27, 1998 and the transaction was completed thirty days later on March 30, 1998. As described below under "--Purposes and Effects of the Merger," Sunbeam believed that it was in the best interests of its stockholders that Sunbeam acquire Coleman for consideration consisting, at least in part, of shares of its common stock. Accordingly, Sunbeam believed that a cash tender offer for all outstanding shares of Coleman common stock, which also would have avoided the registration process, was not an acceptable alternative.

Opinion of Credit Suisse First Boston. The Coleman board considered the oral opinion delivered by Credit Suisse First Boston at the meeting of the Coleman board on February 27, 1998, which was subsequently confirmed in writing, to the effect that, as of that date and based upon and subject to the matters described in the opinion, the cash and stock consideration payable in the merger was fair from a financial point of view to Coleman's minority stockholders. WHEN CREDIT SUISSE FIRST BOSTON WAS ENGAGED BY COLEMAN, THEY WERE NOT ASKED TO RENDER AN UPDATED OPINION AS OF THE DATE OF THIS DOCUMENT AND NEITHER SUNBEAM NOR COLEMAN HAS REQUESTED THAT THEY DO SO. MOREOVER, CREDIT SUISSE FIRST BOSTON HAS ADVISED SUNBEAM THAT ITS OPINION, ALTHOUGH CORRECT WHEN GIVEN, SHOULD NO LONGER BE RELIED UPON BECAUSE OF SUBSEQUENT NEGATIVE DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM.

Ability of Coleman's Stockholders to Obtain a Continuing Interest in Sunbeam. The Coleman board considered that, under the terms of the merger agreement, Coleman's stockholders will receive equity securities of Sunbeam, thus enabling Coleman's stockholders to participate in increases in the value of Sunbeam, including any value that may be generated through Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman's businesses. The Coleman board also noted that the price of the Sunbeam common stock had more than doubled since the time Mr. Dunlap had become Chief Executive Officer of Sunbeam.

Ownership of Coleman Voting Stock. The Coleman board considered the fact that prior to the merger the Coleman minority stockholders were stockholders in a company controlled by MacAndrews & Forbes, but that following the merger they would be stockholders in a public company without any controlling stockholder and therefore the Coleman minority stockholders, as stockholders of Sunbeam, may be able to obtain a control premium with respect to their Sunbeam common stock in the future. The ability of Coleman's stockholders to receive dividends or other distributions declared and paid by Coleman was not considered material by the Coleman board because Coleman had not declared a dividend since its initial public offering in February 1992 and at the time of the approval of the merger, the then Coleman board had no plans to declare any dividends.

Availability of Appraisal Rights. The Coleman board considered the fact that the Coleman minority stockholders would have the right to pursue appraisal rights under Delaware law. Accordingly, any Coleman public stockholder who did not wish to accept the cash and stock consideration payable under the merger agreement would have the right to dissent from the merger and have the fair value of his Coleman shares determined by a court and paid to him in cash.

In addition, the then Coleman board identified and considered a variety of potentially negative factors, including those set forth below.

Failure to Realize Expected Benefits. The then Coleman board considered the possibility that the operational and revenue benefits expected to be realized as result of the transaction might not be fully realized. For example, some of the benefits of the transaction projected by the then Coleman board depended upon the ability of Sunbeam to cut costs, streamline operations and capitalize on the revenue and operational benefits derived from a combination of the two companies and the unrealized potential of Coleman's assets. Any such projected benefits are inherently subject to risks and uncertainties beyond the control of either Sunbeam or Coleman. The then Coleman board considered that any failure by Sunbeam to successfully implement its business strategies and cost-saving initiatives could have a material adverse effect on the market price of the Sunbeam common stock and thereby adversely affect former Coleman stockholders who receive Sunbeam shares in the merger.

Possible Failure to Complete the Transaction. The then Coleman board considered that the M&F Transaction was subject to customary closing conditions and, therefore, was subject to the risk that the M&F Transaction and the merger would not be completed. The then Coleman board considered that non-consummation of the two transactions could negatively affect the market price of the Coleman common stock and the financial community's perception of the stability and future prospects of Coleman. Moreover, a failure to complete the two transactions following their public announcement could negatively affect Coleman's sales and operating results, its ability to attract and retain key management and marketing personnel and its ability to successfully complete long-term strategic projects.

Substantial Charges Incurred in Connection with the Transaction. The then Coleman board considered that Coleman would be required to incur significant expenses in order to complete the M&F Transaction and the merger. These expenses include costs of integrating the businesses of Coleman and Sunbeam, fees of Coleman's legal and financial advisors and the expenditure of corporate resources in support of the transaction generally. The then Coleman board recognized that these expenses would be borne solely by Coleman in the event that the transaction was not completed.

Possible Loss of Key Personnel. The then Coleman board considered that, despite the efforts of the combined company, key management and marketing personnel might not remain employed by Coleman or Sunbeam. The loss of any such key personnel could have a material adverse effect on Coleman's financial position, results of operations and cash flow.

Tax Treatment. The Coleman board considered the fact that the merger is expected to be a taxable transaction for United States Federal income tax purposes and may be taxable under state, local or foreign laws as well. For a discussion of the tax consequences of the merger to Coleman minority stockholders, see "UNITED STATES FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSIDERATIONS."

The then Coleman board believed, however, that the foregoing negative factors were outweighed by the projected benefits of the transactions.

The terms of the merger were arrived at through arms'-length negotiations between two unaffiliated parties, MacAndrews & Forbes and Sunbeam. The then Coleman board believed that the interests of MacAndrews & Forbes, as the then indirect owner of about 81% of the outstanding Coleman common stock, were substantially aligned with the interests of Coleman's minority stockholders. The merger agreement also contains provisions designed to protect Coleman's minority stockholders. The merger agreement prevents Sunbeam from altering the consideration payable to Coleman's minority stockholders in the merger or otherwise amending or terminating the merger agreement after completion of the M&F Transaction. Furthermore, the merger is subject to very few conditions, consisting only of (1) this document had to be declared effective by the SEC, (2) the Sunbeam common stock to be issued in the merger had to be listed on the NYSE, (3) the M&F Transaction had to be completed and (4) there can be no preliminary or permanent injunction preventing the merger. In addition, the merger agreement was approved by a unanimous vote of the Coleman board, including by those members of the Coleman board who were not employees or affiliates of Coleman or MacAndrews & Forbes. In light of the foregoing, the then Coleman board did not deem it necessary to institute additional procedural safeguards such as a requirement that the merger be approved by a majority of Coleman's minority stockholders or the formation of a special committee of Coleman's outside directors to negotiate the terms of the merger.

FINANCIAL ADVISORS' OPINIONS

Coleman's Financial Advisor. Credit Suisse First Boston acted as Coleman's financial advisor in connection with the merger at the time the merger agreement was signed. Credit Suisse First Boston was selected by Coleman based on Credit Suisse First Boston's experience, expertise and familiarity with Coleman and its business. Credit Suisse First Boston is an internationally recognized investment banking firm and is regularly engaged in the valuation of businesses and securities in connection with mergers and acquisitions, leveraged buyouts, negotiated underwritings, competitive biddings, secondary distributions of listed and unlisted securities, private placements and valuations for corporate and other purposes.

On February 27, 1998, Credit Suisse First Boston delivered to the Coleman board an oral opinion, which was subsequently confirmed in writing, to the effect that, as of that date and based upon and subject to the matters described in the opinion, the cash and stock consideration payable under the merger agreement was fair from a financial point of view to Coleman's minority stockholders. However, since the date of Credit Suisse First Boston's opinion, numerous events have occurred that significantly affected the price of Sunbeam common stock. WHEN CREDIT SUISSE FIRST BOSTON WAS ENGAGED BY COLEMAN, THEY WERE NOT ASKED TO RENDER AN UPDATED OPINION AS OF THE DATE OF THIS DOCUMENT AND NEITHER SUNBEAM NOR COLEMAN HAS REQUESTED THAT THEY DO SO. MOREOVER, CREDIT SUISSE FIRST BOSTON HAS ADVISED SUNBEAM THAT ITS OPINION, ALTHOUGH CORRECT WHEN GIVEN, SHOULD NO LONGER BE RELIED UPON BECAUSE OF SUBSEQUENT NEGATIVE DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM. Because Sunbeam did not plan to issue the warrants at the time the merger agreement was signed, Credit Suisse First Boston did not take the warrants into account when evaluating the fairness of the merger consideration.

Terms of Credit Suisse First Boston's Engagement. Under the letter agreement dated December 10, 1997 between Coleman and Credit Suisse First Boston, Coleman agreed to pay Credit Suisse First Boston for services rendered in connection with the merger a fee of about $4 million. Coleman also agreed to reimburse Credit Suisse First Boston for all reasonable out-of-pocket expenses, including the reasonable fees and expenses of its legal counsel and any other advisor retained by Credit Suisse First Boston, resulting from or arising out of the engagement. Coleman further agreed to indemnify Credit Suisse First Boston and related persons and entities for losses, claims, damages or liabilities (including related actions or proceedings) related to or arising out of, among other things, its engagement as Coleman's financial advisor.

In the past, Credit Suisse First Boston has performed investment banking services for Coleman and MacAndrews & Forbes and their affiliates and has received customary fees for these services. In the ordinary course of its business, Credit Suisse First Boston and its affiliates may actively trade the debt and equity securities of Coleman, MacAndrews & Forbes and its affiliates and Sunbeam for their own accounts and for the accounts of customers and, accordingly, may at any time hold a long or short position in those securities.

Sunbeam's Financial Advisor. Morgan Stanley was retained by Sunbeam to assist in connection with a possible sale of Sunbeam, one or more possible acquisitions by Sunbeam and/or other strategic alternatives. As part of that engagement, Morgan Stanley acted as Sunbeam's financial advisor in connection with its acquisition of Coleman. Sunbeam retained Morgan Stanley based on its qualifications, expertise and reputation, as well as upon its prior investment banking relationships with Sunbeam and its familiarity with Sunbeam and its business.

On February 27, 1998, Morgan Stanley rendered to the Sunbeam board an oral opinion, which was later confirmed in writing, to the effect that, as of that date and based upon and subject to the matters described in the opinion, the cash and stock consideration payable in the M&F Transaction and under the merger agreement was fair from a financial point of view to Sunbeam. WHEN MORGAN STANLEY WAS ENGAGED BY SUNBEAM, THEY WERE NOT ASKED TO RENDER AN UPDATED OPINION AS OF THE DATE OF THIS DOCUMENT AND NEITHER SUNBEAM NOR COLEMAN HAS REQUESTED THAT THEY DO SO. MOREOVER, MORGAN STANLEY HAS ADVISED SUNBEAM THAT ITS OPINION, ALTHOUGH CORRECT WHEN GIVEN, SHOULD NO LONGER BE RELIED UPON BECAUSE OF SUBSEQUENT NEGATIVE DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM. Because Sunbeam did not plan to issue the warrants at the time the merger agreement was signed, Morgan Stanley did not take the warrants into account when evaluating the fairness to Sunbeam of the consideration payable in the merger. On the basis of Morgan Stanley's advice, the Sunbeam board has determined not to rely on the opinion of Morgan Stanley as a basis for its plans to complete the merger.

Terms of Morgan Stanley's Engagement. Under an amended engagement letter between Sunbeam and Morgan Stanley, Sunbeam agreed to pay Morgan Stanley (1) an exposure fee equal to 25% of the estimated transaction fee referred to below, payable upon execution of the agreement relating to the M&F Transaction and the merger agreement, and (2) a transaction fee equal to a percentage of the aggregate value of the consideration payable by Sunbeam in the M&F Transaction and the merger (including the amount of any debt assumed or repaid by Sunbeam), payable, as to the M&F Transaction, upon its completion and, as to the merger, upon its completion. For purposes of calculating the transaction fee, the value of the Sunbeam common stock issued in the M&F Transaction and the merger will be the average of the closing sale prices for the Sunbeam common stock for the ten trading days prior to the completion of the M&F Transaction and the merger, respectively. For its services to Sunbeam in connection with the Coleman acquisition, Morgan Stanley has received fees from Sunbeam totaling about $9.6 million. The amended engagement letter between Sunbeam and Morgan Stanley provides for the payment to Morgan Stanley of an additional transaction fee of $680,000 when the merger is completed, based on the average market price of Sunbeam common stock on the last trading day prior to the date of this document. Sunbeam's obligation to pay this additional transaction fee to Morgan Stanley will not be affected by the fact that Sunbeam is no longer entitled to rely on Morgan Stanley's fairness opinion. Sunbeam has also agreed to reimburse Morgan Stanley for its expenses, including fees and expenses of its counsel, and to indemnify Morgan Stanley and related parties against various liabilities and expenses, which may include liabilities under the federal securities laws, arising out of its engagement. Morgan Stanley also acted as an initial purchaser for the private placement of the Sunbeam debentures and an affiliate of Morgan Stanley is a lender under Sunbeam's bank credit facility. Morgan Stanley also advised Sunbeam in connection with its acquisitions of Signature Brands and First Alert.

SUNBEAM'S REASONS FOR ACQUIRING COLEMAN AND APPROVAL OF THE SUNBEAM BOARD

Sunbeam's Reasons for Acquiring Coleman. While Sunbeam's current management does not know all the reasons why prior management agreed to acquire Coleman, Sunbeam's current management believes that the following reasons were provided by prior management to the then Sunbeam board.

As part of its 1997 review of strategic alternatives, Sunbeam's then management team concluded that it was unlikely that Sunbeam could be sold at a price or on terms that would be acceptable to Sunbeam. Sunbeam shifted its strategic focus to identify underperforming companies with strong brand names that Sunbeam could acquire. Sunbeam's former management intended to capitalize on its perceived capability in cost containment and operational improvement by acquiring one or more of these companies and their premier brand names, thereby broadening the Sunbeam product offering spectrum and presenting opportunities to eliminate redundant or inefficient operations.

Sunbeam acquired its current interest in Coleman and agreed to acquire the remaining equity interest in Coleman primarily due to Coleman's strong and established brand names, the potential opportunity to streamline operations, the diversification these brand names provide to Sunbeam's product base and the potential for revenue and operational benefits associated with a combination of Sunbeam and Coleman. In addition, Sunbeam believed that its existing international geographic marketing and distribution strengths and those of Coleman would significantly complement each other. Sunbeam's former management believed that the acquisition of Coleman would give Sunbeam a platform from which to capitalize on the fragmentation and potential consolidation of the durable household consumer products sector.

Approval of the Sunbeam Board. In February 1998, the then Sunbeam board approved the agreement relating to the M&F Transaction and the merger agreement and determined that the terms of the agreements were fair to Sunbeam's stockholders. The then Sunbeam board identified and considered a variety of positive factors in its deliberations concerning the merger, including, but not limited to, the following:

- o the opinion of Sunbeam's financial advisor, Morgan Stanley, to the effect that the consideration to be paid by Sunbeam for Coleman was fair to Sunbeam from a financial point of view; MORGAN STANLEY HAS SINCE ADVISED SUNBEAM THAT ITS OPINION, ALTHOUGH CORRECT WHEN GIVEN, SHOULD NO LONGER BE RELIED UPON BECAUSE OF SUBSEQUENT NEGATIVE DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM;
- o the terms of the agreements, including the fact that the exchange ratio of Sunbeam common stock for Coleman common stock would not change even in the event of a decrease in the market price of the Sunbeam common stock;
- o the then Sunbeam board's belief that the then per share premium of about 44.2% implied by the then current value of the consideration compared to the then market price per share of Coleman common stock was reasonable in light of other comparable transactions involving companies in the consumer products and sporting goods industries;
- o the belief of Sunbeam's prior management that Coleman presented unrealized potential which could be exploited once Coleman's operations were added to those of Sunbeam;
- o the anticipated operational efficiencies and revenue benefits associated with the acquisition of Coleman's product lines; and
- o the belief of Sunbeam's prior management that Coleman's operations could be streamlined to enhance efficiency.

022217

In addition, the Sunbeam board identified and considered a variety of potentially negative factors, including the following:

- o the possibility that the operational and revenue benefits expected to be realized as result of the transaction might not be fully realized;
- o the difficulties associated with integrating Coleman's operations with those of Sunbeam and managing the combined enterprise;
- o the fact that the M&F Transaction was subject to customary closing conditions and, therefore, was subject to the risk that the M&F Transaction and the merger would not be completed; the Sunbeam board considered that non-consummation could negatively affect the market price of the Sunbeam common stock and the financial community's perception of the stability and future prospects of Sunbeam;
- o the significant expenses Sunbeam would be required to incur in order to complete the M&F Transaction and the merger, including costs of integrating the businesses of Coleman and Sunbeam, fees of Sunbeam's legal and financial advisors and the expenditure of corporate resources in support of the transaction generally;
- o the risks associated with managing a highly leveraged business; and

- o the risks associated with managing operations at different locations.

The Sunbeam board believed, however, that the foregoing negative factors were outweighed by the projected benefits of the transactions.

PURPOSES AND EFFECTS OF THE MERGER

The purpose of the merger is to enable Sunbeam to acquire the entire equity interest in Coleman. In the M&F Transaction, which was completed on March 30, 1998, Sunbeam acquired indirectly about 81% of the then outstanding shares of Coleman common stock. Sunbeam's ownership interest in Coleman was immediately thereafter reduced to about 79% as a result of the exercise of Coleman employee stock options immediately following the M&F Transaction. As a result of the merger, Sunbeam will acquire the remaining equity interest in Coleman, and Coleman will become an indirect, wholly owned subsidiary of Sunbeam.

In addition, under the April 15, 1999 amendment to Sunbeam's bank credit facility, it is an event of default under the bank credit facility:

- o if Sunbeam fails to have the SEC declare this document effective by October 30, 1999 (which was subsequently amended to January 10, 2000)
- o if Sunbeam fails to complete the merger within 25 business days after this document is declared effective by the SEC, or
- o if Sunbeam has to pay more than $87.5 million in cash to complete the merger including any amounts paid with respect to appraisal rights, but excluding related legal, accounting and other customary fees and expenses.

If an event of default were to occur, a default would also occur under the Coleman note payable to Sunbeam and, among other things, the lenders under Sunbeam's credit agreement would be entitled to foreclose on the Coleman note and the Coleman assets pledged under the Coleman note. The Coleman note, by its terms, will not be affected by the merger and will remain outstanding. See

"MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN SUNBEAM AND COLEMAN AND ITS AFFILIATES--Financial Transactions Between Coleman and Sunbeam."

The interest rate margins on Sunbeam's bank credit facility increased to 3.50% for LIBOR loans and 2.25% for base rate loans on September 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date and increased to 4.00% for LIBOR loans and 2.50% for base rate loans on October 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date. The interest rate margins will be decreased to 3.00% for LIBOR loans and 1.75% for base rate loans upon consummation of the merger and the effectiveness of the pledge of substantially all of Coleman's and its domestic subsidiaries' assets to secure the obligations under the bank credit facility.

Coleman and Sunbeam adopted a two-step acquisition structure for several reasons, including to enable Sunbeam to acquire control of Coleman as quickly as possible. Alternative transaction structures were considered by Sunbeam and Coleman, including a one-step merger without first completing the M&F Transaction and a direct purchase by Sunbeam of Coleman Worldwide's equity interest in Coleman prior to completion of the merger. MacAndrews & Forbes rejected these transaction structures. The parties agreed that the final transaction would be structured as a merger of CLN Holdings and a wholly owned Sunbeam subsidiary, followed by a second-step merger of another wholly owned Sunbeam subsidiary with Coleman. See "--Background of the Merger."

Sunbeam also considered paying alternative types of consideration to Coleman stockholders. Sunbeam initially proposed consideration consisting exclusively of Sunbeam common stock. Sunbeam's prior management believed that the use of Sunbeam common stock as consideration would enhance stockholder value by allowing Sunbeam to capitalize on the then recent rise in Sunbeam's stock price. This consideration, however, was rejected by MacAndrews & Forbes. Other types of consideration were also briefly discussed, including the use of Sunbeam preferred stock instead of the cash portion of the merger consideration. This type of consideration was not seriously considered by the parties.

As a result of the merger, the minority stockholders of Coleman:

- o will cease to hold any direct equity interest in Coleman,
- o will no longer directly share in the profits and losses of Coleman, but will indirectly share in such profits and losses as stockholders of Sunbeam,
- o will not be entitled to receive dividends or other distributions, if any, declared and paid by Coleman, and
- o will not be entitled to vote or otherwise participate in the corporate governance of Coleman, except through their ability to vote and participate in the corporate governance of Sunbeam through their ownership of Sunbeam common stock.

As a result of the M&F Transaction and the merger, Sunbeam will have the entire indirect interest in the net book value and net earnings of Coleman. Sunbeam will also be entitled to all benefits resulting from that interest, including all income generated by Coleman's operations, any future increase in Coleman's value and the right to elect all members of the Coleman board of directors. Similarly, Sunbeam will bear the entire risk of losses generated by Coleman's operations and any decrease in the value of Coleman after the merger. The minority stockholders of Coleman will have only an indirect interest in the net book value and net earnings of Coleman and future increases, if any, in the value of Coleman through their holdings of Sunbeam common stock to be received in the merger and upon any exercise of the warrants.

Upon completion of the merger, there will no longer be any publicly held shares of Coleman common stock and the Coleman common stock will be delisted from the NYSE, the Pacific Stock Exchange and the Chicago Stock Exchange and deregistered under the Exchange Act.

The tax consequences of the merger are subject to a number of qualifications, as discussed below under the caption "UNITED STATES FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSIDERATIONS."

SUNBEAM'S PLANS AND PROPOSALS FOR COLEMAN

On May 11, 1998, Sunbeam's former management announced its plans to commence a restructuring intended to integrate Sunbeam's operations with those of Coleman, First Alert and Signature Brands. The planned restructuring was also intended to centralize the operations of the four companies, close or divest some of Sunbeam's plants and reduce Sunbeam's workforce. Following the changes in Sunbeam's management that were announced in June 1998, plans for the proposed restructuring were postponed pending further review of Sunbeam's organizational structure. On August 24, 1998, Sunbeam's new management announced a revised organizational structure which provided for some plant closings and reductions in workforce, but eliminated the previously announced centralization of Sunbeam's operations.

Upon completion of the M&F Transaction, which occurred on March 30, 1998, all of the members of the Coleman board resigned, the number of directors constituting the Coleman board of directors was fixed at five, and five designees of Sunbeam were elected as directors of Coleman. In addition, Sunbeam designees were appointed to senior management positions at Coleman. Subsequently, as a result of changes in Sunbeam's management and board of directors, Jerry W. Levin, the current Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Sunbeam and Coleman, was reelected to the Coleman board. In addition, Paul E. Shapiro, the current Executive Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer of Sunbeam and Coleman, was elected to the Coleman board of directors. The other members of the Coleman board of directors resigned or were removed by Sunbeam. In April 1999, the size of the Coleman board of directors was fixed at three members and A. Whitman Marchand, who is not affiliated with either Sunbeam or Coleman, was elected to the Coleman board of directors. In July 1999, the size of the Coleman board was fixed at four and John H. Klein, an outside director of Sunbeam, was elected to the Coleman board. See "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--Changes in Sunbeam's Management and Board" and "--Settlement of Claims Relating to the M&F Transaction" and "MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM AND ITS AFFILIATES--Appointments of Former Coleman and MacAndrews & Forbes Officers to Sunbeam's Management and Board" and "---Services Provided by MacAndrews & Forbes."

Following the completion of the M&F Transaction, Sunbeam prepaid substantially all of the $1,016 million aggregate outstanding indebtedness of Coleman, Coleman Worldwide, CLN Holdings and certain of Coleman's subsidiaries with a portion of the net proceeds from the offering of the debentures and borrowings under Sunbeam's bank credit facility. See "SOURCE AND AMOUNT OF FUNDS AND OTHER CONSIDERATION."

POSITION OF SUNBEAM AND COLEMAN ON THE FAIRNESS OF THE MERGER AND THE SETTLEMENT

SUNBEAM'S INTEREST IS TO COMPLETE THE MERGER AS SOON AS POSSIBLE ON TERMS BENEFICIAL TO SUNBEAM, AND COLEMAN IS CONTROLLED BY SUNBEAM. THEREFORE, THE

16div-028124

COLEMAN MINORITY STOCKHOLDERS SHOULD NOT NECESSARILY RELY ON ANY VIEWS OF SUNBEAM OR COLEMAN REGARDING THE FAIRNESS OF THE MERGER.

The original February 1998 merger agreement, which provided for consideration of $6.44 in cash and 0.5677 of a share of Sunbeam common stock for each share of Coleman common stock, was negotiated at arms'-length between parties that were unaffiliated at the time; was unanimously approved by the then Coleman board; and was approved by written consent of Coleman's then majority stockholder. These approvals constituted all the approvals required by Delaware law in connection with the merger. Following these approvals and the completion of the M&F Transaction, the merger agreement by its terms could not be amended or terminated, and the only unfulfilled condition to the merger was the effectiveness with the SEC of this document.

Thereafter, major adverse developments affecting Sunbeam caused a substantial decrease in the market value of Sunbeam's stock and, therefore, the value of the consideration to be paid to the Coleman minority stockholders under the merger agreement. The Coleman minority stockholders instituted litigation in the Delaware Court of Chancery claiming that the consideration payable to them under the merger agreement was inadequate. In October 1998, the litigation claims of the Coleman minority stockholders were settled in arms'-length negotiations between counsel to plaintiffs and counsel to Sunbeam. The settlement, which was approved by the Court on November 12, 1999, effectively increased the consideration payable to the Coleman minority stockholders in connection with the merger by providing them with warrants, each entitling them to purchase one Sunbeam share at $7 per share, at the rate of 0.381 of a warrant for each Coleman share (after deducting the warrants to be issued to counsel for the Coleman minority stockholders as their legal fees), in addition to their receiving $6.44 in cash and 0.5677 of a Sunbeam share for each Coleman share, upon completion of the merger.

Sunbeam and Coleman believe that the transaction consisting of the merger and the settlement is substantively fair to the Coleman minority stockholders, and that the process which arrived at the transaction was procedurally fair to them. This belief is based solely on the following considerations:

- (1) The merger agreement was negotiated at arms'-length between parties that were unaffiliated at the time--Sunbeam, on the one hand, and, on the other hand, Coleman and its then 81% stockholder, MacAndrews & Forbes.
- (2) The merger agreement provides that it cannot be amended (whether to change the merger consideration, to add conditions to the merger or otherwise) or terminated.
- (3) The settlement of the litigation claims of the Coleman minority stockholders was negotiated at arms'-length between parties that were and are unaffiliated--counsel to Sunbeam and counsel to the Coleman minority stockholders.
- (4) The settlement was approved by the Delaware Court of Chancery on November 12, 1999 as being fair, reasonable and in the best interests of the Coleman minority stockholders after a hearing on September 29, 1999 at which all Coleman minority stockholders had an opportunity to be heard and only one stockholder objected to the settlement.

- (5) Notwithstanding the settlement, any Coleman minority stockholder who objects to the terms of the merger agreement and settlement can pursue his Delaware law appraisal rights and seek payment in cash of the judicially determined fair value of his Coleman shares.

In transactions such as the merger, the SEC has stated that certain factors normally are considered to be important when reaching a determination regarding the fairness of the proposed transaction to unaffiliated security holders. However, for the reasons set forth below, Sunbeam and Coleman believe that none of these factors is relevant to an evaluation of the fairness of the consideration payable to Coleman minority stockholders under the merger agreement and in the settlement:

- o Current Market Prices. The trading price of Coleman common stock has been linked to the trading price of Sunbeam common stock since the execution of the merger agreement and the announcement of the merger in February 1998. Therefore, the Coleman common stock has no market value independent of its relationship to the Sunbeam common stock and the value of the consideration payable under the merger agreement and in the settlement;
- o Historical Market Prices. The trading price of Coleman common stock has been linked to the trading price of Sunbeam common stock since the execution of the merger agreement and the announcement of the merger in February 1998. Sunbeam and Coleman do not believe that market prices prior to February 1998--more than 20 months ago--provide any indication of the current value of Sunbeam or Coleman;
- o Net Book Value. Sunbeam and Coleman believe that net book value is not a true indication of the value of Sunbeam or the value of Coleman on a stand-alone basis;
- o Prior Coleman Common Stock Repurchases. Coleman has not repurchased any of its common stock since March 1996 and Sunbeam and Coleman do not believe that the prices paid in connection with any such transactions more than three and one half years ago provide any indication of the current value of Coleman;
- o Going Concern Value; Liquidation Value. Any current estimate of the going concern value or liquidation value of Sunbeam or Coleman would require a detailed financial analysis by an appraiser, financial advisor or other outside party. No such analysis was requested or obtained and it was considered impractical to request or obtain such an analysis;
- o Reports, Opinions or Appraisals. Coleman's financial advisor, Credit Suisse First Boston, has advised Sunbeam that its February 1998 opinion regarding the fairness to the Coleman minority stockholders from a financial point of view of the consideration payable under the merger agreement, although correct when given, should no longer be relied upon because of subsequent negative developments affecting Sunbeam. Moreover, Sunbeam's financial advisor, Morgan Stanley, has advised Sunbeam that its February 1998 opinion regarding the fairness to Sunbeam from a financial point of view of the consideration payable under the merger agreement, although correct when given, should no longer be relied upon because of subsequent negative developments affecting Sunbeam. No other report, opinion or appraisal was requested or obtained by Sunbeam or Coleman in connection with the merger or the settlement and it was considered impractical to request or obtain any such report, opinion or appraisal, and

- o Offers or Proposals by Unaffiliated Persons. During the past 18 months, neither Sunbeam nor Coleman has received any offer or proposal from an unaffiliated person regarding a merger or consolidation involving, or the acquisition of all or any substantial part of the assets of, or the acquisition of securities conferring control of, Sunbeam or Coleman.

Sunbeam and Coleman have not performed, and (as stated above) have not requested or obtained from any financial advisor or other outside expert, any current valuation of Coleman or the minority stockholders' interest in Coleman based on any of the analyses typically employed in such a valuation (such as a comparable company or comparable transaction analysis or an analysis of the discounted present value of projected future cash flows and terminal values). Nor have they performed, or requested or obtained, any current valuation of the warrants which are part of the consideration to be paid to the Coleman minority stockholders upon completion of the merger.

The Delaware Court of Chancery, in its November 12, 1999 opinion approving the settlement, accepted a September 1999 valuation of the warrants by plaintiffs' expert based on the Black-Scholes option-pricing model of $2.475 per warrant. Based on such valuation (which may no longer be applicable because it assumed a $6.00 per share Sunbeam stock price), and assuming a market price of $4.75 per Sunbeam share (the NYSE closing price on December 3, 1999), the consideration to be received by the Coleman minority stockholders upon completion of the merger would have a value of approximately $10.08 per Coleman share ($6.44 in cash, $2.70 in Sunbeam stock and [$0.94] in Sunbeam warrants). However, Sunbeam and Coleman cannot and will not try to predict the prices at which the Sunbeam shares and warrants will trade upon completion of the merger, or whether an active trading market for the warrants will develop.

Because the merger agreement was approved by all action of the Coleman board and stockholders required under Delaware law and by its terms cannot be amended, Sunbeam and Coleman have not considered amending the merger agreement to add procedural safeguards as conditions to the merger, such as a condition that the merger be approved by a majority of Coleman's minority stockholders or by independent Coleman directors or a condition requiring a favorable opinion of a financial advisor on the fairness of the consideration to be received by stockholders upon completion of the merger. Instead, Sunbeam and Coleman decided to settle the claims of the Coleman minority stockholders challenging the fairness of the consideration provided under the merger agreement through arms'-length negotiations with their litigation counsel on terms that the Delaware Court of Chancery would approve as being fair to the Coleman minority stockholders. Notwithstanding the absence of the procedural safeguards discussed in the first sentence of this paragraph, based solely on the factors listed under items (1) through (5) above, Sunbeam and Coleman believe that the transaction consisting of the merger and the settlement is procedurally fair to the Coleman minority stockholders.

Camper Acquisition Corp. is a wholly owned subsidiary of Sunbeam which was formed solely for the purpose of acting as an acquisition vehicle in connection with the merger. Camper Acquisition Corp expressly adopts the foregoing statements of Sunbeam.

THE MERGER

The description of the merger and the merger agreement contained in this document does not purport to be complete and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the merger agreement, a copy of which is attached as Annex I at the back of this document and is incorporated in this document by reference.

GENERAL

The merger will become effective when a certificate of merger is filed with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware. It is currently anticipated that the certificate of merger will be filed, and the merger will become effective, on or about January 6, 2000, which is the twenty-first business day following the date on which this document was first mailed to you.

Prior to the completion of the merger, the outstanding capital stock of Camper Acquisition Corp., all of which is currently owned directly by Sunbeam, will be contributed to Coleman Worldwide Corporation. In the merger, Camper Acquisition Corp., which will then be directly owned by Coleman Worldwide Corporation, will be merged into Coleman, which is currently 80.01% directly owned by Coleman Worldwide Corporation.

INTERESTS OF CERTAIN PERSONS IN THE MERGER

In considering the approval of the merger by the former Coleman board of directors, you should be aware that a number of persons, including current and former directors and executive officers of Coleman, have interests in the merger that are different from or in addition to yours, as described below.

Coleman Options. Under the merger agreement, after the completion of the M&F Transaction, which occurred on March 30, 1998, all of the then outstanding options to purchase shares of Coleman common stock under Coleman's stock option plans became fully vested and exercisable. During the period between the completion of the M&F Transaction and the completion of the merger, Sunbeam is obligated, under the merger agreement, to cause Coleman to maintain a broker-dealer cashless exercise procedure for the exercise of the Coleman stock options. Upon the completion of the merger, each outstanding Coleman stock option that has not been exercised will be cancelled and each holder of an unexercised Coleman stock option will be paid an amount in cash equal to the product of (1) the total number of shares of Coleman common stock subject to the

Coleman stock option, multiplied by (2) the excess of $27.50 over the exercise price per share of Coleman common stock subject to the Coleman stock option, less any applicable withholding taxes.

Immediately after the completion of the M&F Transaction, two current executive officers of Sunbeam and Coleman exercised options that vested as a result of the M&F Transaction. Jerry W. Levin, the then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Coleman and the current Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Sunbeam and Coleman, exercised 500,000 Coleman stock options at per share exercise prices ranging from $12.25 to $14.00 and Mr. Levin received net proceeds upon the sale of such shares of about $9.94 million. Bobby G. Jenkins, the current Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Sunbeam and Executive Vice President of Coleman, exercised 20,000 Coleman stock options at per share exercise prices ranging from $16.125 to $16.434 and Mr. Jenkins received net proceeds upon the sale of such shares of about $288,360.

Ronald O. Perelman, the sole stockholder of MacAndrews & Forbes and a member of the Coleman board at the time the agreement relating to the M&F Transaction and the merger agreement were executed, holds 500,000 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $14.00 per share. Paul E. Shapiro, the current Executive Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer of Sunbeam and Coleman and a director of Coleman, holds 62,500 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $17.062 per share and 15,000 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $16.125 per share. Karen K. Clark, the current Senior Vice President, Finance of Sunbeam and Senior Vice President, Finance of Coleman, holds 10,000 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $17.062 per share and 15,000 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $16.125 per share. Steven R. Isko, the current Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Sunbeam and Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Coleman, holds 10,000 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $17.062 per share, 7,500 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $16.125 and 2,500 Coleman stock options with an exercise price of $12.937 per share. Upon completion of the merger, in settlement of their Coleman stock options, Messrs. Perelman, Shapiro and Isko and Ms. Clark will receive cash payments of $6,750,000, $823,000, $226,009 and $275,005 respectively.

Severance Arrangements. The M&F Transaction constituted a "change in control" of Coleman under the terms of some Coleman employee benefit plans and various employment, severance, termination, consulting and retirement agreements to which Coleman was a party. As a result, at the effective time of the M&F Transaction, Coleman became obligated to pay all amounts provided under those plans and agreements as a result of the change in control. Under the merger agreement, Sunbeam agreed that after completion of the M&F Transaction it would honor, and cause Coleman to honor, all employment, severance, termination, consulting and retirement agreements to which Coleman was a party on that date. Accordingly, all rights and obligations of Coleman under these agreements have become rights and obligations of Sunbeam and except as noted below with respect to the former employment agreements between Coleman and Messrs. Levin and Shapiro, Sunbeam has agreed to cause Coleman to pay all amounts provided under these employee benefit plans and agreements as a result of the change in control of Coleman in accordance with their respective terms and to honor, and to cause Coleman to honor, all rights, privileges and modifications to or with respect to any such employee benefit plans of Coleman or agreements which become effective as a result of the change in control. However, neither Sunbeam nor Coleman has any responsibility for Coleman's obligations under the former employment agreements between Coleman and Jerry W. Levin, Coleman's then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, and Paul E. Shapiro, Coleman's then Executive Vice President and General Counsel, except, in the case of Mr. Levin, for an incentive payment in the amount of $1.5 million due from Coleman (and subsequently paid) related to the sale of Coleman Safety & Security Products, Inc. to an unrelated third party, which transaction was pending at the time the merger agreement was signed. The former employment agreements with Messrs. Levin and Shapiro were terminated upon completion of the M&F Transaction.

In connection with the change in control resulting from the completion of the M&F Transaction, Sunbeam has paid, or has caused Coleman to pay or recognize as payable, a total of $7,903,765 in severance compensation and related benefits for approximately 117 former Coleman employees. Of that amount, $7,597,936 was in respect of base salary and related benefits, and $305,829 was in respect of extra pension credits. In addition, Coleman paid $454,277 for management incentive bonuses to 37 former Coleman employees. The only principal executive officer of Coleman to receive severance compensation from Coleman as a result of the change in control was Joseph Page, the former Chief Financial Officer of Coleman, who received severance payments totaling $280,000. Bobby G. Jenkins, the current Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Sunbeam and Executive Vice President of Coleman, received severance payments totaling $18,583 as a result of his resignation from Coleman following the M&F Transaction, and prior to his being rehired by both Sunbeam and Coleman in the capacities mentioned above. Steven R. Isko, the current Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Sunbeam and Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Coleman, received severance payments totaling $185,634 as a result of his resignation from Coleman following the M&F Transaction, and prior to his being rehired by both Sunbeam and Coleman in the capacities mentioned above.

Indemnification. The merger agreement provides that all rights to indemnification existing in favor of any director or officer of Coleman in office at or prior to the completion of the merger, as provided in Coleman's Certificate of Incorporation, Coleman's By-laws, as amended, or indemnification agreements in effect as of February 27, 1998, will survive the merger and continue in full force and effect for a period of six years after the effective time of the merger (and during the period from the completion of the M&F Transaction to the completion of the merger), to the extent these rights are consistent with Delaware law. In addition, Sunbeam agreed that, from and after the completion of the M&F Transaction and for a period of six years following the completion of the merger, Sunbeam or Coleman, as the surviving corporation in the merger, will cause to be maintained a liability insurance policy for the benefit of Coleman's former directors and officers providing coverage substantially similar to the policies in effect as of February 27, 1998. Neither Sunbeam nor Coleman will be required to pay an annual premium for such insurance in excess of 200% of the last annual premium paid by Coleman prior to the date of the merger agreement, but in such case will purchase as much coverage as possible for such amount. See "THE MERGER--Continuation of Existing Indemnification Rights."

Registration Rights Agreement. The shares of Sunbeam common stock issued to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary from which Sunbeam acquired indirectly about 81% of the then outstanding Coleman common stock in the M&F Transaction were not registered under federal or state securities laws. Accordingly, in connection with the completion of the M&F Transaction, Sunbeam entered into a registration rights agreement with the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary, permitting the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary and other affiliates of Coleman to require Sunbeam to register their shares of Sunbeam common stock under federal and applicable state securities laws. The registration rights agreement was subsequently amended in August 1998 to provide that the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary can also require Sunbeam to register the warrant and the shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrant issued to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary in connection with the settlement of legal claims related to the M&F Transaction. See "MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM AND ITS AFFILIATES--Registration Rights Agreement."

CONVERSION OF COLEMAN COMMON STOCK

Upon completion of the merger, each outstanding share of Coleman common stock--other than shares held indirectly by Sunbeam and shares, if any, with respect to which Delaware appraisal rights are sought and perfected--will no longer be outstanding and will automatically be cancelled. After completion of the merger, you will no longer have any rights under the certificate representing your shares of Coleman common stock, except the right to receive $6.44 in cash and 0.5677 of a share of Sunbeam common stock for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed, a cash payment equal to the value of any fractional shares of Sunbeam common stock you would otherwise be entitled to receive upon surrender of the certificate, and warrants entitling you to purchase one share of Sunbeam common stock at a cash price of $7 per share until August 24, 2003 to be issued under the recent settlement of litigation relating to the merger. Under the terms of the settlement, you will receive 0.381 of a warrant for each share of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed, assuming no further increase in the number of outstanding shares of Coleman common stock prior to the completion of the merger as a result of further exercises of Coleman employee stock options. The number of warrants you will receive will be rounded up or down to the nearest whole number to avoid the issuance of fractional warrants. See "LITIGATION SETTLEMENT AND WARRANTS."

Upon completion of the merger, all shares of Coleman common stock held indirectly by Sunbeam through Coleman Worldwide will remain outstanding and unchanged as a result of the merger. Each share of Coleman common stock, if any, held in the treasury of Coleman, by any subsidiary of Coleman, by Sunbeam or by any subsidiary of Sunbeam (other than Coleman Worldwide) immediately prior to the completion of the merger will be automatically cancelled. In addition, upon completion of the merger, each outstanding share of common stock of Camper Acquisition Corp., the wholly owned subsidiary of Sunbeam that will be merged with Coleman in the merger, will be automatically cancelled.

EXCHANGE OF COLEMAN COMMON STOCK

The exchange of the shares of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed will occur as follows:

- o upon completion of the merger, Sunbeam will deposit, with an exchange agent selected by Sunbeam, (1) certificates for the shares of Sunbeam common stock to be issued to you in the merger; (2) cash sufficient to pay the cash portion of the merger consideration and any fractional share payments you are entitled to receive; and (3) warrants to purchase Sunbeam common stock at a cash price of $7 per share to which you are entitled under the court-approved settlement of litigation relating to the merger;
- o as soon as reasonably practicable after the completion of the merger, Sunbeam will cause the exchange agent to mail a letter of transmittal and exchange instructions to you;

<PAGE>

- o upon surrender of your Coleman common stock certificate(s) for cancellation to the exchange agent, together with a properly completed and duly executed letter of transmittal, you will receive, in exchange for your Coleman certificate(s), (1) a certificate for the shares of Sunbeam common stock you are entitled to receive in the merger, (2) a cash payment in respect of the cash portion of the merger consideration, after giving effect to any required withholding tax, and any fractional share payment you are entitled to receive, and (3) warrants to purchase Sunbeam common stock at a cash price of $7 per share to which you are entitled under the court-approved litigation settlement relating to the merger based on the number of shares of Coleman common stock you own when the merger is completed; your certificate(s) will then be cancelled;

- o until you surrender your Coleman stock certificates, you will not be entitled to vote the shares of Sunbeam common stock you are entitled to receive in the merger or receive any dividends or distributions with a record date after the completion of the merger with respect to such Sunbeam common stock, although any such dividends or distributions will accrue and be payable to you, without interest, upon surrender of your certificate(s); it should be noted, however, that Sunbeam does not pay, and is prohibited from paying under the bank credit facility, cash dividends;
- o any merger consideration and warrants that remain undistributed for six months after the completion of the merger will be delivered to Sunbeam, upon demand, and any holders of unsurrendered Coleman common stock certificates may thereafter look only to Sunbeam, as general creditors, for payment of the merger consideration and warrants. In no event will Sunbeam, Coleman or the exchange agent be liable to any holder of unsurrendered certificates for any merger consideration or warrants that are delivered to a public official under applicable escheat laws; and
- o upon completion of the merger, the stock transfer books of Coleman will be closed and no further transfer of shares of Coleman common stock will be made; if, after the completion of the merger, Coleman common stock certificates are presented to Coleman, they will be cancelled and exchanged for the merger consideration and warrants.

YOU SHOULD NOT FORWARD YOUR CERTIFICATES TO THE EXCHANGE AGENT UNTIL YOU RECEIVE A LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL AND EXCHANGE INSTRUCTIONS.

NO FRACTIONAL SHARES OR WARRANTS

No fractional shares of Sunbeam common stock or warrants will be issued to you, and no dividend, stock split or other change in the capital structure of Sunbeam will relate to any fractional shares. Any Coleman stockholder who would otherwise be entitled to fractional shares will not be entitled to vote or to exercise any rights of a security holder with respect to such fractional shares.

Instead of any fractional shares of Sunbeam common stock, each Coleman stockholder who would otherwise be entitled to a fraction of a share of Sunbeam common stock will be paid cash, without interest, in an amount equal to the fraction of a share of Sunbeam common stock to which such stockholder would otherwise be entitled, multiplied by the closing sale price of one share of Sunbeam common stock on the NYSE Composite Transactions Tape on the day of the completion of the merger, or, if shares of Sunbeam common stock are not so traded on that day, the closing sale price on the next preceding day on which the shares were traded on the NYSE. Shares of Coleman common stock of any holder represented by two or more certificates will be aggregated, and in no event will any holder of Coleman common stock be paid an amount of cash for fractional shares in respect of one or more than one share of Sunbeam common stock.

Instead of any fractional warrants, each Coleman stockholder who would otherwise be entitled to a fraction of a warrant will receive a number of whole warrants determined by rounding up or down to the nearest whole number.

CONDITIONS

Under the terms of the merger agreement, the completion of the merger was subject to the following conditions: (1) this document had to be declared effective by the SEC, (2) the shares of Sunbeam common stock to be issued by Sunbeam in the merger had to be listed for trading on the NYSE, and (3) the M&F

Transaction had to be completed. All of these conditions have already been satisfied. Therefore, assuming that no court order is entered which prevents the merger from being completed, the merger will be completed on or about January 6, 2000, which is the twenty-first business day following the date on which this document was first mailed to you.

GOVERNMENTAL AND REGULATORY APPROVALS

Completion of the M&F Transaction was conditioned on the expiration or termination of the applicable waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended. On March 4, 1998, Sunbeam and Ronald O. Perelman, as the then ultimate parent of Coleman, filed notifications and report forms under the HSR Act with the Federal Trade Commission and the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice relating to the M&F Transaction and the merger. The applicable waiting period under the HSR Act was terminated on March 27, 1998. However, notwithstanding the termination of the waiting period under the HSR Act, the FTC, the Antitrust Division, a state or a private person or entity could seek under federal or state antitrust laws, among other things, to enjoin or rescind the M&F Transaction or the merger. Although Sunbeam and Coleman believe that the M&F Transaction and the merger do not violate United States antitrust laws, there can be no assurance that if such a challenge is made, it would not be successful.

In addition to the filings under the HSR Act, Sunbeam and Coleman filed a pre-merger notification form with the German Federal Cartel Office relating to the M&F Transaction and the merger, which was approved by the Federal Cartel Office on March 20, 1998. Neither Sunbeam nor Coleman is aware of any other material approval or other action by any governmental, administrative or regulatory agency or authority, domestic or foreign, that would be required in order to complete the merger.

EMPLOYEE MATTERS

Sunbeam agreed that, from and after the completion of the M&F Transaction, it would honor, and cause Coleman to honor, all employment, severance, termination, consulting and retirement agreements to which Coleman was a party on that date. Accordingly, all rights and obligations of Coleman under these agreements became rights and obligations of Sunbeam. However, neither Sunbeam nor Coleman has any responsibility for Coleman's obligations under the former employment agreements between Coleman and Jerry W. Levin, Coleman's then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, and Paul E. Shapiro, Coleman's then Executive Vice President and General Counsel, except in the case of Mr. Levin for an incentive payment in the amount of $1.5 million due from Coleman (and subsequently paid) related to the sale of Coleman Safety & Security Products, Inc. to an unrelated third party, which transaction was pending at the time the merger agreement was signed. The former employment agreements with Messrs. Levin and Shapiro were terminated upon completion of the M&F Transaction. Sunbeam agreed to cause Coleman to allow Coleman employees to participate in Sunbeam employee benefit plans, from and after the completion of the M&F Transaction, on substantially the same basis as similarly situated Sunbeam employees. With respect to welfare benefit plans, Sunbeam also agreed to waive any pre-existing condition limitations and give effect, in determining any deductible and maximum out-of-pocket limitations, to claims incurred and amounts paid by, and reimbursed to, those employees with respect to similar plans maintained by Coleman. Sunbeam has, or has caused Coleman to, give Coleman employees full credit for purposes of eligibility and vesting of benefits and benefit accrual for service with Coleman and its affiliates prior to the completion of the M&F Transaction under each employee benefit plan, so long as such crediting of service did not result in duplication of benefits. See "--Interests of Certain Persons in the Merger."

The M&F Transaction constituted a "change in control" of Coleman under some Coleman employee benefit plans and employment, severance, termination, consulting and retirement agreements. Except as noted above with respect to the employment agreements of Messrs. Levin and Shapiro, Sunbeam agreed to cause Coleman to pay all amounts provided under these employee benefit plans and agreements as a result of the change in control of Coleman in accordance with their respective terms and to honor, and to cause Coleman to honor, all rights, privileges and modifications to or with respect to any such employee benefit plans of Coleman or agreements which became effective as a result of the change in control. See "--Interests of Certain Persons in the Merger."

Sunbeam caused Coleman to continue Coleman's Annual Incentive Plan for Management Employees for the remainder of 1998, and participants in the Management Incentive Plan were not eligible to participate in Sunbeam's incentive plan in respect of 1998. Under the terms of the Management Incentive Plan, participants were eligible for cash bonuses payable upon the attainment of certain performance goals, which performance goals were determined by reference to (1) earnings before interest, taxes and amortization, (2) operating working capital per sales dollar and (3) other quantitative goals as approved from time to time. Cash bonuses paid were equal to a percentage of a participant's base salary, depending on the percentage of the target attained by Coleman. Coleman paid a total of about $2.9 million to participants in the Management Incentive Plan with respect to 1998. Eligible participants include select employees of Coleman and its subsidiaries who are (1) designated to participate by the Chief Executive Officer of Coleman, (2) are employed prior to the start of the last fiscal quarter in the plan year and (3) are not participants in another short-term incentive program of Coleman.

Sunbeam will honor, and will cause Coleman to honor, Coleman's Executive Severance Policy without any amendments adverse to participants. The Coleman Executive Severance Policy applies to certain terminations of employment of employees of Coleman and its subsidiaries who are participants in Coleman's Management Incentive Plan or who are in the position of country general manager/president and above. Participation in the Executive Severance Policy is limited to those participants in the Management Incentive Plan described above. Benefits are payable to a participant in the event of a termination of the participant's employment by Coleman within three years following the M&F Transaction other than for Cause (as defined in the Executive Severance Policy) or by the participant with Good Reason (as defined in the Executive Severance Policy). The benefits payable under the Executive Severance Policy generally include the following:

- o salary continuation for twelve, nine or six months, depending on the participant's level of participation in the Management Incentive Plan;
- o medical and/or dental coverage under COBRA until the end of the severance period at the same contribution level in effect for active participants, with Coleman paying the portion of the premiums it was paying for such participant prior to the M&F Transaction;

- o in the event of a termination prior to December 31, 1998, a pro rata payment under the Management Incentive Plan through the date of such termination;
- o a lump sum cash payment in an amount equal to the aggregate benefit that the participant would have accrued had he or she remained employed during the severance period under Coleman's qualified defined benefit retirement plans and its excess or supplemental defined benefit retirement plans, less any actual vested benefit of the participant under such plans;
- o a lump sum payment in an amount equal to the value of the participant's accrued vacation, determined in accordance with Coleman's vacation policy; and
- o an additional payment to hold the participant harmless from the excise taxes imposed by sections 280G and 4999 of the tax code, if the severance payments and benefits payable under the Executive Severance Policy exceed certain minimum thresholds.

In addition, any participant who was a party to an employment contract or other written agreement with Coleman was entitled to choose between the severance benefits, if any, payable under such contract and the severance benefits payable under the Executive Severance Policy.

Since the ninety-first day following completion of the M&F Transaction, some of the participants in the Executive Severance Policy have been entitled to voluntarily terminate their employment with Coleman and to have such termination deemed to be for Good Reason under the Executive Severance Policy, as a result of the completion of the M&F Transaction.

Since the date of the M&F Transaction, Coleman has paid or become obligated to pay about $4.2 million to participants under the Executive Severance Policy.

For the benefit of those employees of Coleman who were not participants in the Executive Severance Policy and who did not have employment agreements with Coleman, Sunbeam provided severance benefits under Sunbeam's Severance Pay Plan on substantially the same basis as similarly situated Sunbeam employees. To date, Sunbeam has made aggregate payments of about $470,000 to former Coleman employees under the Sunbeam Severance Pay Plan. Under the terms of the Severance Pay Plan, a participant who is a Coleman employee and whose employment is terminated as the direct result of the closure of a facility or the elimination of the participant's position will be entitled to receive the following severance benefits:

- o a lump sum cash payment in an amount equal to (1) six months', three months' or six weeks' base pay, depending on the number of years of service, in the case of an exempt employee or (2) one week of base pay for each completed year of service, in the case of a non-exempt employee; and
- o health coverage under COBRA until the end of the severance pay period at the same contribution level in effect for active participants, with Sunbeam paying the same portion of the premiums that it would pay for active participants.

CONTINUATION OF EXISTING INDEMNIFICATION RIGHTS

For a period of six years after the completion of the merger, and during the period between the completion of the M&F Transaction and the completion of the merger, Sunbeam agreed to indemnify directors and officers of Coleman in office at or prior to the completion of the merger in connection with any threatened or actual legal proceeding to the fullest extent allowed by Delaware law, the Coleman Certificate of Incorporation, the Coleman By-laws and any indemnification agreement in effect at the date of the merger agreement, including any provisions relating to advancement of expenses. This indemnification does not, however, extend to any legal proceeding initiated against Coleman by an indemnified person unless the proceeding was (1) authorized by the Coleman board of directors or (2) brought by an indemnified person to enforce his or her right to indemnification under the merger agreement. In addition, the right to indemnification under the merger agreement extends only to legal proceedings arising from:

022231

- o the fact that the indemnified person was a director or officer of Coleman or was serving at the request of Coleman as a director, officer, employee or agent of another entity, or
- o the agreement relating to the M&F Transaction, the merger agreement or any of the transactions contemplated by those agreements.

Moreover, the right to indemnification provided by the merger agreement extends only to claims which pertain to matters arising, existing or occurring prior to or at the completion of the merger. To give rise to an indemnification right, however, the claim need not have been asserted prior to the completion of the merger. If any claim is asserted against an indemnified person within the period during which indemnification is provided, all rights to indemnification under the merger agreement continue until disposition of the claim. In the event any indemnified person becomes involved in a legal proceeding after the completion of the merger, Sunbeam will, or will cause Coleman to, periodically advance legal and other expenses to the indemnified person, including the cost of any investigation and preparation incurred in connection with the legal proceeding. However, as a condition to advancement of expenses, the indemnified person must provide Sunbeam with an undertaking to reimburse all amounts so advanced in the event that the indemnified person is determined not to be entitled to indemnification.

Sunbeam and Coleman also agreed that all rights to indemnification, and all limitations with respect to indemnification, existing in favor of any indemnified person, as provided in the Coleman Certificate of Incorporation, the Coleman By-Laws or any indemnification agreement in effect at the date of the merger agreement, will survive the merger and will, to the extent permitted by Delaware law, continue in full force and effect, without any amendment, for a period of six years after the completion of the merger and during the period from the completion of the M&F Transaction to the completion of the merger. If any claim is asserted against any indemnified person within that period, all rights to indemnification will continue until final disposition of the legal proceeding. Any determination required to be made with respect to whether an indemnified person's conduct complies with the standards set forth under Delaware law, the Coleman certificate of incorporation, the Coleman by-laws or any agreement, as the case may be, will be made by independent legal counsel selected by the indemnified person and reasonably acceptable to Sunbeam.

Sunbeam also agreed that, from and after the completion of the M&F Transaction, Sunbeam or Coleman will maintain, for a period of not less than six years after the completion of the merger, a liability insurance policy for the benefit of Coleman's former directors and officers providing coverage substantially similar to the policies in place prior to the completion of the

M&F Transaction. However, neither Sunbeam nor Coleman will be required to pay an annual premium for this insurance which exceeds 200% of the last annual premium paid by Coleman prior to the date of the merger agreement. In the event that the premium does exceed that amount, Sunbeam or Coleman will purchase as much coverage as possible for such amount.

ACCOUNTING TREATMENT

The merger will be accounted for under the "purchase" method of accounting in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Therefore, the aggregate consideration paid by Sunbeam in the merger and in the M&F Transaction will be allocated to Coleman's assets and liabilities based upon their fair market value with any excess being treated as excess of investment over net assets acquired or "goodwill". The assets and liabilities and results of operations of Coleman have been consolidated for financial accounting (but not tax) purposes with the assets and liabilities and results of operations of Sunbeam since the completion of the M&F Transaction.

STOCK EXCHANGE LISTING

The NYSE has approved for listing on the NYSE the shares of Sunbeam common stock to be issued to Coleman stockholders in the merger, subject to official notice of issuance. Sunbeam intends to file an application with the NYSE to list the shares of Sunbeam common stock that will be issued when the warrants are exercised. For a description of matters relating to the continued listing of Sunbeam common stock on the NYSE, see "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--New York Stock Exchange Listing."

DELISTING AND DEREGISTRATION OF COLEMAN COMMON STOCK

Upon completion of the merger, there will no longer be any publicly held shares of Coleman common stock and the Coleman common stock will be delisted from the NYSE, the Pacific Stock Exchange and the Chicago Stock Exchange and deregistered under the Exchange Act. For a description of matters relating to the continued listing of Coleman common stock on the NYSE, see "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING COLEMAN."

OWNERSHIP OF COLEMAN COMMON STOCK

At the close of business on December 3, 1999, there were outstanding 55,827,490 shares of Coleman common stock held by about 548 holders of record. In the M&F Transaction, which was completed on March 30, 1998, Sunbeam became the indirect beneficial owner of 44,067,520 shares of Coleman common stock, representing about 81% of the then outstanding shares of Coleman common stock. As a result of option exercises by employees and former employees of Coleman immediately following the completion of the M&F Transaction, these shares represent about 79% of the currently outstanding shares of Coleman common stock. On July 12, 1999, Sunbeam acquired 3,000,000 shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock. These shares, together with the shares of Coleman common stock acquired by Sunbeam in the M&F Transaction, enable Sunbeam to exercise just over 80% of the total voting power of Coleman's outstanding capital stock.

At its February 27, 1998 meeting, the then Coleman board of directors unanimously approved the merger agreement. See "--Coleman's Reasons for the Merger and Approval of the Coleman Board." Since the completion of the M&F Transaction, however, the composition of Coleman's management and board of directors has changed significantly. See "MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM AND ITS AFFILIATES--M&F Transaction." Mr. Levin voted on February 27, 1998 as a member of the Coleman board of directors to approve the merger agreement. However, neither Mr. Levin nor any other director or officer of Coleman is currently making any recommendation to Coleman stockholders regarding the merger.

Since January 1, 1996, Coleman has completed one purchase of Coleman common stock. On March 1, 1996, Coleman purchased 50,000 shares of Coleman common stock (or 100,000 shares, adjusted for the two-for-one stock split of Coleman common stock on June 28, 1996) in the open market at a purchase price of $46.54 per share ($23.26 per share, as adjusted), or an aggregate of $2.33 million. On May 23, 1997, Coleman Worldwide commenced an offer to accept for exchange its Liquid Yield Option(Trademark) Notes due 2013 ("LYONs") for cash at a price equal to their redemption price of $343.61 per $1,000 principal amount at maturity. The LYONs were exchangeable for shares of Coleman common stock at the rate of 15.706 shares for each $1,000 principal amount at maturity of LYONs. The holders of $545,053,000 aggregate principal amount at maturity of LYONs out of the $561,553,000 aggregate principal amount at maturity then outstanding accepted Coleman Worldwide's offer, which expired on June 20, 1997. On April 20, 1998, Coleman Worldwide gave notice of its intention to redeem all LYONs remaining outstanding on May 27, 1998 for cash at their redemption price of $343.61 per $1,000 principal amount at maturity, unless, prior to that date, the holders of the LYONs elected to exchange their LYONs for shares of Coleman common stock. All of the LYONs that remained outstanding on May 27, 1998 were redeemed by Coleman Worldwide.

Based on the number of shares of Sunbeam common stock and Coleman common stock outstanding on December 3, 1999 and assuming no Coleman stockholders exercise their Delaware law appraisal rights, upon completion of the merger there will be about 107,578,527 shares of Sunbeam common stock outstanding, of which the former stockholders of Coleman, including a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes, will own about

<PAGE>

19.3%. The former holders of Coleman common stock will own about 36% of the outstanding Sunbeam common stock after the merger, assuming the exercise of (1) the warrant issued to a MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary in settlement of threatened legal claims related to the M&F Transaction and (2) the warrants to be issued to the Coleman minority stockholders upon completion of the merger under the recent settlement of litigation related to the merger.

EXPENSES

All costs and expenses incurred in connection with the M&F Transaction and the merger will be paid by the party incurring such expenses.

Sunbeam and Coleman have incurred, and will incur, fees and expenses in connection with the M&F Transaction and the merger, including filing fees in connection with the registration of the shares to be issued in connection with the merger and upon exercise of the warrants and other required filings, fees of counsel, accountants' fees and printing costs. These expenses are estimated to be as follows:

UNITED STATES FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSIDERATIONS

The following discussion is a summary of the anticipated material United States Federal income tax consequences of the merger to a holder of Coleman common stock (a "holder"). The discussion is based on laws, regulations, rulings and decisions in effect on the date of mailing of this document, all of which are subject to change, possibly with retroactive effect. This discussion deals only with holders who hold their shares of Coleman common stock as capital assets and does not address all aspects of United States Federal taxation that may be relevant to particular holders in light of their personal circumstances or to holders (1) who are not citizens or residents of the United States, (2) who may be subject to special tax rules, such as rules relating to financial institutions and banks, tax-exempt organizations, insurance companies, dealers in securities, and persons who hold Coleman common stock as part of a hedge, conversion or constructive sale transaction, straddle or other risk reduction transaction (3) who perfect their appraisal rights under Delaware law, or (4) who acquired their shares of Coleman common stock pursuant to the exercise of employee stock options or other compensation arrangements with Coleman. In addition, the discussion does not address the tax consequences of the merger arising under the laws of any state, local or foreign jurisdiction.

EACH HOLDER OF COLEMAN COMMON STOCK IS URGED TO CONSULT ITS OWN TAX ADVISOR WITH RESPECT TO THE PARTICULAR TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGER TO SUCH HOLDER.

The receipt of the cash, Sunbeam common stock and warrants to purchase Sunbeam common stock upon completion of the merger is expected to be a taxable transaction for United States Federal income tax purposes and may also be a taxable transaction under applicable state, local, foreign and other tax laws. In general, for United States Federal income tax purposes, a holder will recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between (1) the sum of cash, the fair market value of the Sunbeam common stock received in exchange for such holder's shares of Coleman common stock, and the fair market value of the warrants to purchase additional shares of Sunbeam common stock and (2) the adjusted tax basis of such shares of Coleman common stock. This gain or loss will be capital gain or loss and will be long-term capital gain or loss if the shares have been held for more than twelve months.

Beginning on June 25, 1998, several class action lawsuits were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware by minority stockholders of Coleman against Coleman, Sunbeam and several of Coleman's former officers and directors. These actions were later consolidated into a single class action lawsuit. The class action alleged, among other things, that the consideration to be paid to the minority stockholders of Coleman under the February 1998 merger agreement was no longer fair as a result of the decline in the market price of Sunbeam's common stock. See "BUSINESS OF SUNBEAM--Litigation and Other Contingent Liabilities."

On October 21, 1998, Sunbeam announced that it had entered into a memorandum of understanding to settle the class action, subject to court approval. On August 6, 1999, a stipulation of settlement was executed and on August 25, 1999, notice of the settlement and of a September 29, 1999 hearing in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware to consider approval of the settlement was mailed to the members of the class (consisting of all Coleman stockholders owning shares at any time from February 27, 1998 until the date of the merger other than Coleman Worldwide). The Court held a hearing on September 29, 1999 and approved the settlement on November 12, 1999.

Under the terms of the settlement, Sunbeam will issue to the Coleman minority stockholders and their litigation counsel warrants expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase about 4.98 million shares of Sunbeam common stock at a cash exercise price of $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution adjustments. Each Coleman minority stockholder will receive 0.381 of a warrant for each share of Coleman common stock owned by such stockholder when the merger is completed, assuming the number of outstanding shares of Coleman common stock does not increase prior to the completion of the merger as a result of further exercises of Coleman employee stock options. Warrants will be issued when the merger is completed to all Coleman stockholders of record as of the completion of the merger, other than Coleman Worldwide and those stockholders who choose to dissent from the merger and have the fair value of their shares appraised by a court, and to counsel for the Coleman minority stockholders in the litigation as their court-awarded fee.

The warrants will be freely transferrable and are exempt from registration under the Securities Act. The shares of Sunbeam common stock to be issued upon exercise of the warrants will be freely transferrable and will be registered under the Securities Act. Sunbeam intends to file an application with the NYSE to list the shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants. In the settlement, all members of the class released Coleman, Sunbeam, MacAndrews & Forbes and its affiliates and the former and present directors of Coleman from all claims arising out of or relating to the merger, other than their Delaware law appraisal rights.

The number of warrants that each Coleman minority stockholder will receive will be based on the number of shares of Coleman common stock owned by the stockholder at the time of the merger and will be equal to the product of (A) 4,979,663, less the 497,966 warrants awarded by the court to counsel for the Coleman minority stockholders in the litigation as their fee and (B) a fraction, the numerator of which is equal to the number of shares of Coleman common stock held by such stockholder immediately prior to the merger (other than any shares with respect to which Delaware law appraisal rights have been exercised) and the denominator of which is equal to the total number of shares of Coleman common stock outstanding and owned by Coleman minority stockholders at the time of the merger (approximately 11,759,970 shares assuming no further exercises of Coleman options).

The warrants to be issued under the settlement will have the same terms as the warrant issued to Coleman (Parent) Holdings, a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes, in August 1998 in the settlement of its claims against Sunbeam. The number of warrants to be issued in the settlement (4,979,663) was determined by multiplying the number of shares issuable upon exercise of the warrant received by Coleman (Parent) Holdings (23,000,000) by a fraction of which the numerator is the number of Coleman shares owned by its minority stockholders on February 27, 1998 (9,540,930) and the denominator is the number of Coleman shares then owned by Coleman (Parent) Holdings (44,067,520). Since February 27, 1998, the number of Coleman shares held by the Coleman stockholders entitled to receive warrants in the settlement has increased to 11,759,970 through exercises of previously granted Coleman employee stock options, but the settlement did not provide for any increase in the number of warrants to be issued thereunder as a result of the issuance of Coleman shares after February 27, 1998.

No fractional warrants will be issued in the merger. A Coleman public stockholder who would otherwise be entitled to receive fractional warrants will receive a number of warrants determined by rounding up or down to the nearest whole number of warrants.

General. The warrants to be issued in the merger will be issued under a Warrant Agreement to be entered into prior to the completion of the merger by Sunbeam and The Bank of New York, as Warrant Agent. The description of the Warrant Agreement contained in this document does not purport to be complete and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the form of Warrant Agreement, a copy of which, including the form of warrant certificate, is included as an exhibit to the registration statement of which this document forms a part.

Each warrant issued in the merger will be evidenced by a warrant certificate which will entitle the warrant holder, at any time prior to

August 24, 2003, to purchase one share of Sunbeam common stock at a cash exercise price of $7 per share. Warrants that are not exercised prior to that date will expire and become void.

Exercise of Warrants. In order to exercise any or all of your warrants, you will be required to surrender to The Bank of New York, as Warrant Agent: (1) the warrant certificate, (2) a duly executed copy of the exercise subscription form set forth in the warrant certificate and (3) payment in full of the exercise price for each share of Sunbeam common stock as to which the warrants are exercised. Payment may be made in cash (including wire transfer of immediately available funds) or by certified or official bank check or bank cashier's check payable to the order of Sunbeam Corporation.

Upon the exercise of any warrants in accordance with the Warrant Agreement, Sunbeam will transfer the appropriate number of shares of Sunbeam common stock to the warrant holder or to a designee specified by the warrant holder. All shares of Sunbeam common stock issued upon the exercise of warrants will be validly issued, fully paid and nonassessable.

Antidilution Provisions. The number of shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of each warrant is subject to adjustments in the event that Sunbeam, among other things: (1) pays a dividend or makes any other distribution in shares of Sunbeam common stock, (2) subdivides the Sunbeam common stock, (3) combines the Sunbeam common stock into a smaller number of shares, (4) issues any shares of Sunbeam common stock in a reclassification (including any reclassification in connection with a merger, consolidation or other business combination in which Sunbeam is the continuing corporation), (5) distributes, by dividend or otherwise, options, rights or warrants to purchase any such securities, cash or other assets, (6) issues non-convertible and non-exchangeable preferred stock (or other debt or equity securities or evidences of indebtedness of Sunbeam or options, rights or warrants to purchase any of such securities) at a price per share that is lower (at the record date for the issuance) than the fair market value of the shares or other securities issued, (7) repurchases, by self-tender offer or otherwise, any shares of Sunbeam common stock (or options, rights or warrants to purchase shares of Sunbeam common stock or any securities convertible into or exchangeable for Sunbeam common stock) at a price per share that is higher (at the record date for the issuance) than the then current market value per share of Sunbeam common stock or (8) repurchases, by self-tender offer or otherwise, any non-convertible and non-exchangeable preferred stock (or other debt or equity securities or evidences of indebtedness of Sunbeam or options, rights or warrants to purchase any of such securities) at a price per share that is higher (at the record date for the issuance) than the fair market value of the shares or other securities repurchased.

No fractional shares will be issued upon exercise of warrants. In the event of any transaction in which Sunbeam stockholders receive stock, securities, cash or other assets in exchange for their Sunbeam common stock, each warrant holder will, upon exercise of the warrant at any time after the transaction, have the right to the stock, securities, cash or other assets the warrant holder would have been entitled to receive if the warrant had been exercised immediately prior to the transaction.

No Stock Rights. Prior to the exercise of his or her warrants, no warrant holder will be entitled to vote or be deemed the holder of the shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants and will have no rights of a stockholder of Sunbeam.

APPRAISAL RIGHTS

Under Delaware law, Coleman stockholders have appraisal rights in connection with the merger. Any stockholder who is eligible to exercise appraisal rights and properly does so will be paid in cash the "fair value" (exclusive of any element of value arising from the accomplishment or expectation of the merger) for his or her shares of Coleman common stock as determined by the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware. Any shares of Coleman common stock for which a written demand for appraisal is properly filed and not withdrawn in accordance with the procedures set forth under Delaware law, except any shares as to which the holder effectively withdraws or loses the right to appraisal and payment for such shares prior to the effective time of the merger, are referred to in this document as "Dissenting Shares."

Any holder of Dissenting Shares will be paid the "fair value" of the shares, as described below, and will not receive, upon completion of the merger, cash, shares of Sunbeam common stock and warrants payable in the merger, as described in "THE MERGER--Conversion of Coleman Common Stock."

Only holders of record of Coleman common stock who are eligible for appraisal rights and comply with the applicable statutory procedures summarized in this document will be entitled to appraisal rights under Delaware law. A person having a beneficial interest in shares of Coleman common stock held of record in the name of another person, such as a broker or nominee, must act promptly to cause the record holder to follow the steps summarized below properly and in a timely manner to perfect appraisal rights.

THIS DOCUMENT. ALL REFERENCES IN SECTION 262 AND IN THIS SUMMARY TO A "STOCKHOLDER" OR "HOLDER" ARE TO THE RECORD HOLDERS OF DISSENTING SHARES.

Under Delaware law, when a merger is approved by written consent in lieu of a stockholders meeting under Section 228 of Delaware law, as the merger was, each constituent corporation, either before the effective date of the merger or within ten days after that date, must notify each holder of any class or series of stock of the constituent corporation that is entitled to appraisal rights of the approval of the merger and the availability of appraisal rights for any or all shares of that class or series of stock, and must include in the notice a copy of Section 262 of Delaware law.

This document constitutes the required notice to the stockholders of Coleman and the applicable statutory provisions of Delaware law are attached as Annex II at the back of this document. Any stockholder who wishes to exercise his or her appraisal rights or who wishes to preserve his or her right to do so should review the following discussion and Annex II carefully, because failure to timely and properly comply with the procedures specified will result in the loss of appraisal rights under Delaware law.

DISREGARDED. This demand must reasonably inform Coleman of the identity of the stockholder and of the stockholder's intent to demand appraisal of his or her shares of Coleman common stock. A holder of Coleman common stock wishing to exercise his or her appraisal rights must be the holder of record of the Coleman common stock on the date the written demand for appraisal is made and must continue to hold the Coleman common stock until the completion of the merger. Accordingly, a Coleman stockholder who is the holder of record of Coleman common stock on the date the written demand for appraisal is made, but who subsequently transfers the Coleman common stock prior to completion of the merger, will lose any right to appraisal of such holder's shares of Coleman common stock. Similarly, any person who acquires Coleman common stock after December 27, 1999 will not be entitled to appraisal rights.

Only a stockholder of record is entitled to assert appraisal rights for the Coleman common stock registered in that holder's name. A demand for appraisal should be executed by or on behalf of the holder of record, fully and correctly, as the holder's name appears on the holder's stock certificates. If the Coleman common stock is held of record in a fiduciary capacity, such as by a trustee, guardian or custodian, execution of the demand should be made in that capacity. If the Coleman common stock is held of record by more than one owner, as in a joint tenancy or tenancy in common, the demand should be executed by or on behalf of all joint owners. An authorized agent, including one or more joint owners, may execute a demand for appraisal on behalf of a holder of record. However, the agent must identify the holder of record and expressly disclose the fact that, in executing the demand, the agent is agent for the holder. A holder of record, such as a broker who holds Coleman common stock as nominee for several beneficial owners, may exercise appraisal rights with respect to the Coleman common stock held for one or more beneficial owners while not exercising appraisal rights with respect to the Coleman common stock held for other beneficial owners. In that case, the written demand should set forth the number of shares of Coleman common stock as to which appraisal is sought. When no number of shares of Coleman common stock is expressly mentioned, the demand will be presumed to cover all shares of Coleman common stock in brokerage accounts or other nominee forms. Those stockholders whose shares of Coleman common stock are held in brokerage accounts or other nominee forms who wish to exercise appraisal rights under Delaware law are urged to consult with their brokers or nominees to determine the appropriate procedures for the making of a demand for appraisal.

ALL WRITTEN DEMANDS FOR APPRAISAL SHOULD BE SENT OR DELIVERED TO THE COLEMAN COMPANY, INC., 2111 E. 37TH STREET NORTH P.O. BOX 2931, WICHITA, KANSAS 67201, ATTENTION: CORPORATE SECRETARY.

Within 120 days after the completion of the merger, but not after that date, the surviving corporation in the merger, or any stockholder who has complied with the statutory requirements summarized above, may file a petition in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware demanding a determination of the fair value of the Dissenting Shares. Coleman, as the surviving corporation in the merger, is under no obligation, and Coleman has no present intention, to file a petition for the appraisal of the fair value of the Dissenting

Shares. Accordingly, it is the obligation of stockholders wishing to assert appraisal rights to initiate all necessary action to perfect their appraisal rights within the time prescribed in Section 262 of Delaware law.

Within 120 days after the completion of the merger, any stockholder who has complied with the requirements for exercise of appraisal rights will be entitled, upon written request, to receive from Coleman a statement setting forth the aggregate number of Dissenting Shares as to which demands for appraisal have been received and the aggregate number of holders of those

022240

Dissenting Shares. Such statements must be mailed within ten days after a written request therefor has been received by Coleman.

If a petition for an appraisal is timely filed, after a hearing on the petition, the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware will determine the stockholders entitled to appraisal rights and will appraise the "fair value" of their Dissenting Shares, exclusive of any element of value arising from the accomplishment or expectation of the merger, together with a fair rate of interest, if any, to be paid upon the amount determined to be the fair value. Stockholders considering seeking appraisal should be aware that the fair value of their Dissenting Shares as determined under Section 262 of Delaware law could be more than, the same as or less than the value of the merger consideration they are entitled to receive under the merger agreement if they do not seek appraisal of their shares of Coleman common stock and that investment banking opinions as to fairness from a financial point of view are not necessarily opinions as to fair value under Section 262 of Delaware law. The Supreme Court of the State of Delaware has stated that "proof of value by any techniques or methods which are generally considered acceptable in the financial community and otherwise admissible in court" should be considered in the appraisal proceedings.

The Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware will determine the amount of interest, if any, to be paid upon the amounts to be received by stockholders whose Dissenting Shares have been appraised. The costs of the action may be determined by the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware and imposed upon the parties as the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware deems equitable. The Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware may also order that all or a portion of the expenses incurred by any stockholder in connection with an appraisal, including reasonable attorneys' fees and the fees and expenses of experts utilized in the appraisal proceeding, be charged pro rata against the value of all of the Dissenting Shares entitled to appraisal.

Any holder of Coleman common stock who has duly demanded an appraisal in compliance with Section 262 of Delaware law will not, after the completion of the merger, be entitled to vote the Dissenting Shares for any purpose or be entitled to the payment of dividends or other distributions on those Dissenting Shares.

If any stockholder who properly demands appraisal of Coleman common stock under Section 262 of Delaware law fails to perfect, or effectively withdraws or loses, the right to appraisal, as provided in Section 262 of Delaware law, the shares of Coleman common stock owned by such stockholder upon completion of the merger will be converted into the right to receive the cash, stock and warrants referred to above. A stockholder will fail to perfect, or effectively lose or withdraw, the right to appraisal if, among other things, no petition for appraisal is filed within 120 days after the completion of the merger, or if the stockholder delivers to Coleman a written withdrawal of the demand for appraisal. Any attempt to withdraw an appraisal demand more than sixty days after the completion of the merger will require the written approval of Coleman.

SOURCE AND AMOUNT OF FUNDS AND OTHER CONSIDERATION

General. The total amount of funds and other consideration required by Sunbeam to complete the merger and to pay related expenses is about $16,737,669 in cash, 6,676,135 shares of Sunbeam common stock and warrants to purchase about 4.98 million shares of Sunbeam common stock, assuming all outstanding Coleman stock options are cashed out in the merger and no Coleman stockholders exercise their Delaware law appraisal rights.

Bank Credit Facility. Sunbeam expects to obtain the cash portion of the merger consideration and amounts necessary to pay related expenses from cash on hand and additional borrowings under its bank credit facility. Sunbeam's bank credit facility, as amended, provides for aggregate borrowings of up to $1,700 million under: (1) a revolving credit facility in an aggregate principal amount of up to $400 million, maturing on March 30, 2005, of which $52.5 million may be used only to complete the merger; (2) up to $800 million in Tranche A term loans maturing on March 30, 2005, of which $35 million may be used only to complete the merger; and (3) a Tranche B $500 million term loan maturing on September 30, 2006, of which $5.0 million has already been repaid through September 30, 1999. Absent a further extension by Sunbeam's bank lenders of the April 15, 1999 waiver or a refinancing of the bank credit facility, the foregoing maturities could be accelerated by Sunbeam's bank lenders at any time after April 10, 2000.

Under the bank credit facility, interest accrues, at Sunbeam's option: (1) at LIBOR; or (2) at the base rate of the administrative agent, which is generally the higher of the prime commercial lending rate of the administrative agent or the Federal Funds Rate plus 0.50%, in each case, plus, an interest rate margin which varies depending upon the occurrence of specified events. These events relate to:

- o the execution and delivery by Coleman and its domestic subsidiaries of guarantees and related security documents which will become effective upon the completion of the merger;
- o the filing with the SEC of this document;
- o the completion of the merger; and
- o the reduction of the bank lenders' commitment and loan exposure under the bank credit facility.

The interest rate margin is currently 4.00% for LIBOR loans and 2.50% for base rate loans and is subject to potential decreases in the future, including a decrease to 3.00% for LIBOR loans and 1.75% for base rate loans upon consummation of the merger and the effectiveness of the pledge of substantially all of Coleman's and its domestic subsidiaries' assets to secure the obligations under the bank credit facility.

Security and Guarantees. Borrowings under the bank credit facility are secured by a pledge of the stock of Sunbeam's material subsidiaries, including Coleman and by a security interest in substantially all of the assets of Sunbeam and its material domestic subsidiaries, other than Coleman and its subsidiaries except as described below. Currently, Coleman's inventory and related assets are pledged to secure its obligations for letters of credit issued for its account under the bank credit facility. Additionally, as security for Coleman's note payable to Sunbeam, Coleman pledged substantially all of its domestic assets, other than real property, including 66% of its ownership interests in Coleman's direct foreign subsidiaries and domestic holding companies for its foreign subsidiaries and all of its ownership interests in other direct domestic subsidiaries (but not the assets of any of these subsidiaries). The pledge runs in favor of Sunbeam's lending banks, to which the Coleman note has been pledged as security for Sunbeam's obligations to them. The Coleman note, by its terms, will not be affected by the completion of the merger. Upon completion of the merger, substantially all of Coleman's assets and the assets of Coleman's domestic subsidiaries will be pledged to secure the obligations under the bank credit facility.

Borrowings under the bank credit facility are guaranteed by a number of Sunbeam's wholly owned material domestic subsidiaries and these subsidiary guarantees are secured as described above. Upon completion of the merger,

Coleman and each of its domestic subsidiaries will become guarantors of the obligations under the bank credit facility. To the extent extensions of credit are made by any subsidiaries of Sunbeam, the obligations of these subsidiaries are guaranteed by Sunbeam.

Repayment and Refinancing. Sunbeam has made no decision with respect to the repayment or refinancing of indebtedness incurred or to be incurred under the bank credit facility and may repay this indebtedness out of its internally generated funds or from proceeds of a subsequent financing. Any decisions with respect to such repayment or refinancing will be made based on a review from time to time of the advisability of particular transactions, as well as on prevailing interest rates and financial and economic conditions.

Covenants. The bank credit facility contains covenants customary for credit facilities of a similar nature, including limitations on the ability of Sunbeam and its subsidiaries, including Coleman, to, among other things:

- o declare dividends or repurchase stock;
- o prepay, redeem or repurchase debt, incur liens and engage in sale-leaseback transactions;

65

<PAGE>

- o make loans and investments;
- o incur additional debt, including revolving loans under the bank credit facility;
- o amend or otherwise alter material agreements or enter into restrictive agreements;
- o make capital and Year 2000 compliance expenditures;
- o engage in mergers, acquisitions and asset sales;
- o engage in certain transactions with affiliates;
- o alter its fiscal year or accounting policies;
- o enter into hedging agreements;
- o settle certain litigation;
- o alter its cash management system; and
- o alter the businesses they conduct.

Sunbeam is also required to comply with specified financial covenants and ratios. As a result of Sunbeam's operating losses, among other things, at June 30, 1998 Sunbeam was not in compliance with these financial covenants and other terms of its bank credit facility. As of June 30, 1998, Sunbeam entered into an agreement with its bank lenders which waived Sunbeam's compliance through December 31, 1998. On October 19, 1998, Sunbeam's bank lenders agreed to extend this waiver through April 10, 1999. In April 1999, the waiver was extended to April 10, 2000, and the bank credit facility was amended to, among other things:

- o require Sunbeam to meet new financial tests and ratios;
- o decrease the interest rate margins to 3.75% for LIBOR loans and 2.5% for base rate loans;

022243

- o further reduce the interest rate margins to 3.25% for LIBOR loans and 2.00% for base rate loans as a result of Sunbeam's satisfaction on May 14, 1999 of the agreed upon conditions to this reduction. However, such margins increased to 3.50% for LIBOR loans and 2.25% for base rate loans on September 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date and increased to 4.00% for LIBOR loans and 2.50% for base rate loans on October 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date;
- o defer until April 10, 2000 principal payments of $69.3 million otherwise due September 30, 1999 and principal payments of $69.3 million otherwise due March 31, 2000, as a result of the satisfaction by Sunbeam on May 14, 1999 of the agreed upon conditions to this deferral;
- o provide that the following events relating to the merger will be events of default under the bank credit facility:
 - o if Sunbeam fails to have the SEC declare this document effective by October 30, 1999 (which was subsequently amended to January 10, 2000);
 - o if Sunbeam fails to complete the merger within 25 business days after this document is declared effective by the SEC; or
 - o if Sunbeam has to pay more than $87.5 million in cash to complete the merger, including any payments on account of the exercise of any appraisal rights, but excluding related legal, accounting and other customary fees and expenses;
- o require Sunbeam and Coleman to amend Coleman's note payable to Sunbeam and to have Coleman secure the note, which is pledged by Sunbeam to secure the obligations under Sunbeam's bank credit facility, with substantially all of Coleman's domestic assets other than real property including 66% of its ownership interests in Coleman's direct foreign subsidiaries and domestic holding companies for its foreign subsidiaries, and all of its ownership interests in other direct domestic subsidiaries;

- o impose restrictions on the aggregate revolving loan (other than loans used to fund the merger) principal balance permitted to be outstanding at the end of each month under the bank credit facility;
- o require Sunbeam to maintain a concentration cash management system and to repay revolving loans, which may be reborrowed subject to satisfaction of the bank credit facility's borrowing conditions, to the extent that cash on hand in the concentration accounts on any business day exceeds $15 million;
- o require Sunbeam to prepay term loans under the bank credit facility on December 31, 1999 to the extent that cash on hand in Sunbeam's concentration accounts plus the aggregate amount of unused revolving loan commitments on this date exceeds $125 million, but Sunbeam is not required to prepay more than $69.3 million in the aggregate as a result of this provision;
- o require Sunbeam to reserve $52.5 million of availability under the revolving credit facility for use solely to pay required cash portion of the merger consideration;
- o limit the amount that Sunbeam and its subsidiaries may spend on Year 2000 compatibility testing and remediation to $50 million in the aggregate

during the fiscal year ending December 31, 1999;

- o require Sunbeam to obtain the bank lenders' consent to any litigation settlement concerning the restatement of Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 fiscal year and first quarter 1998 financial statements if such settlements require the payment of money, not paid by insurance carriers or other third parties, of more than $1 million in total;
- o impose new informational reporting requirements; and
- o provide Sunbeam with a $40 million foreign currency revolving loan subfacility.

At September 30, 1999, approximately $1,500 million was outstanding and approximately $200 million was available for borrowing under the credit facility. Of the approximately $1,500 million outstanding under the new credit facility, $1,300 million was outstanding under the Tranche A and Tranche B term loans and $200 million was outstanding under the revolving credit facility.

Defaults. The bank credit facility provides for events of default customary for transactions of this type, including nonpayment, misrepresentation, breach of covenant, cross-defaults, bankruptcy, material adverse change arising from compliance with ERISA, material adverse judgments, entering into guarantees and change of ownership and control. It is also an event of default under the bank credit facility if this document is not declared effective by the SEC on or before January 10, 2000 or if the merger does not occur within 25 business days of the effectiveness of this document or if the cash consideration--including any payments on account of the exercise of any appraisal rights, but excluding related legal, accounting and other customary fees and expenses--to consummate the merger exceeds $87.5 million. Although there can be no assurance, Sunbeam anticipates that it will satisfy these conditions.

Issuance of Sunbeam Common Stock in the Merger and upon Exercise of the Warrants. The stock portion of the merger consideration and the shares of stock to be issued upon exercise of the warrants will consist of newly issued shares of Sunbeam common stock. The issuance of the shares of Sunbeam common stock in the merger and upon exercise of the warrants is being registered under the registration statement of which this document forms a part.

MATERIAL CONTACTS BETWEEN
COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM AND ITS AFFILIATES

FINANCIAL TRANSACTIONS BETWEEN COLEMAN AND SUNBEAM

In connection with the M&F Transaction, Coleman repaid substantially all of its outstanding indebtedness with the proceeds of borrowings from Sunbeam. These borrowings, together with loans made by Sunbeam to Coleman after March 30, 1998, were evidenced by an unsecured subordinated demand note payable by Coleman to Sunbeam. The note bore interest at a floating rate equivalent to the weighted average interest rate incurred by Sunbeam on borrowings under its bank credit facility and on its debentures (about 5.9% per annum during the first half of 1999). The note was pledged by Sunbeam as security for its obligations under its bank credit facility.

In connection with the April 15, 1999 amendment to Sunbeam's bank credit facility, the Coleman note payable to Sunbeam was revised to, among other things:

- o lower the interest rate to 4% if the three-month LIBOR quoted on the 022245

16div-028149

tolerate system is less than 6%, or 5% if the three-month LIBOR quoted on the tolerate system is 6% or higher,

- o make the note payable on April 15, 2000 rather than on demand,
- o add customary representations, warranties, covenants and events of default, and
- o provide that an event of default under Sunbeam's bank credit facility would constitute an event of default under the Coleman note.

The revised Coleman note had an unpaid principal amount of $303.2 million on September 30, 1999. As security for the revised Coleman note, Coleman pledged substantially all of its domestic assets, other than real property, including 66% of its ownership interests in its direct foreign subsidiaries and in its domestic holding companies for its foreign subsidiaries, and all of its ownership interests in its other direct domestic subsidiaries, but Coleman's subsidiaries have not pledged their assets or the stock of their subsidiaries. Sunbeam pledged the revised Coleman note as security for Sunbeam's obligations to its lending banks and Sunbeam assigned to these lending banks the security pledged by Coleman for the revised Coleman note. Coleman also gave the lending banks a direct pledge of the assets securing the revised Coleman note to secure the obligations under Sunbeam's bank credit facility, subject to a cap equal to the balance due from time to time on the revised Coleman note. The Coleman note, by its terms, will not be affected by the completion of the merger. The revision of the Coleman note and the pledge of Coleman assets were approved on behalf of Coleman by A. Whitman Marchand, Coleman's then only disinterested director, acting as a duly authorized independent committee of the Coleman board of directors. Coleman paid Mr. Marchand $25,000 for his services as an independent director and agreed to indemnify him to the fullest extent permitted by Delaware law.

Since the Sunbeam bank credit facility provides that Sunbeam will not contribute capital to Coleman or, with some exceptions, permit Coleman to borrow money from any source other than Sunbeam, Coleman's ability to meet its cash operating requirements, including working capital requirements, capital expenditures and other obligations, is dependent upon its cash flow from operations and loans from Sunbeam. Sunbeam intends, and believes it will have the ability, to fund any Coleman requirements for borrowed funds through April 10, 2000. All loans from Sunbeam to Coleman will be added to the Coleman note payable to Sunbeam.

M&F TRANSACTION

Prior to the M&F Transaction, MacAndrews & Forbes indirectly owned about 81% of the issued and outstanding Coleman common stock through various subsidiaries, including Coleman (Parent) Holdings, CLN Holdings and Coleman Worldwide.

OWNERSHIP STRUCTURE BEFORE THE M&F TRANSACTION

[FLOWCHART APPEARS HERE]

In the M&F Transaction, which was completed on March 30, 1998, CLN Holdings merged with Laser Acquisition Corp., a subsidiary of Sunbeam, and Sunbeam, through its then indirect ownership of Coleman Worldwide, became the owner of

022246

MacAndrews & Forbes' shares of Coleman common stock. In exchange for the Coleman shares, Coleman (Parent) Holdings received 14,099,749 shares of Sunbeam common stock and $159,956,756 in cash. In addition, in the M&F Transaction, Sunbeam assumed about $1,016 million in debt of Coleman and its parent corporations, including $497 million of indebtedness of Coleman.

OWNERSHIP STRUCTURE AFTER THE M&F TRANSACTION

[FLOWCHART APPEARS HERE]

Sunbeam's ownership interest in Coleman was reduced to about 79% as a result of the exercise of Coleman employee stock options immediately following the M&F Transaction. On July 12, 1999, Sunbeam acquired 3,000,000 shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock. These shares, together with the shares of Coleman common stock acquired by Sunbeam in the M&F Transaction, enable Sunbeam to exercise just over 80% of the total voting power of Coleman's outstanding capital stock. Following the completion of the M&F Transaction, Coleman (Parent) Holdings remained a wholly owned subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes.

As a result of the M&F Transaction, MacAndrews & Forbes, as the indirect parent corporation of Coleman (Parent) Holdings, became Sunbeam's second largest stockholder with shares representing about 14% of the currently outstanding Sunbeam common stock. As part of the August 1998 settlement with MacAndrews & Forbes of threatened claims related to the M&F Transaction, Coleman (Parent) Holdings received from Sunbeam a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase an additional 23 million shares of Sunbeam common stock at a cash exercise price of $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution adjustments. Accordingly, MacAndrews & Forbes may now be deemed to be the beneficial owner of 29.9% of the total number of shares of Sunbeam common stock that would be outstanding following the exercise of the warrant. See "--Settlement of Claims Relating to the M&F Transaction."

Under the agreement relating to the M&F Transaction, upon completion of the M&F Transaction, all the directors of Coleman resigned, the number of directors constituting the board of directors of Coleman was fixed at five, and five designees of Sunbeam were elected as directors of Coleman. In addition, Sunbeam designees were appointed to senior management positions at Coleman. Subsequently, as a result of changes in Sunbeam's management and board of directors, Jerry W. Levin, the current Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Sunbeam and Coleman, was reelected to the Coleman board. In addition, Paul E. Shapiro, the current Executive Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer of Sunbeam and Coleman, was elected to the Coleman board. The other members of the Coleman board resigned or were removed by Sunbeam. In April 1999, the size of the Coleman board was fixed at three members and A. Whitman Marchand, who is not affiliated with either Sunbeam or Coleman, was elected to the Coleman board. In July 1999, the size of the Coleman board was fixed at four and John H. Klein, an outside director of Sunbeam, was elected to the Coleman board. See "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--Changes in Sunbeam's Management and Board," "--Settlement of Claims Relating to the M&F Transaction" and "--Services Provided by MacAndrews & Forbes."

Under the agreement relating to the M&F Transaction, Coleman (Parent) Holdings agreed not to transfer the shares of Sunbeam common stock it received in the M&F Transaction (other than to specified affiliates) for a period of nine months from and after the completion of the M&F Transaction, subject to certain exceptions. This nine-month period expired on November 30, 1998. Notwithstanding the lapse of these restrictions, to date Coleman (Parent) Holdings has not transferred any such shares.

The agreement relating to the M&F Transaction has been filed as an exhibit to the Registration Statement of which this document forms a part and is incorporated in this document by reference.

REGISTRATION RIGHTS AGREEMENT

The shares of Sunbeam common stock issued to Coleman (Parent) Holdings in the M&F Transaction were not registered under federal or state securities laws. Accordingly, in connection with the issuance, Sunbeam entered into a Registration Rights Agreement with Coleman (Parent) Holdings. Under the Registration Rights Agreement, Coleman (Parent) Holdings can require Sunbeam to register under federal and applicable state securities laws the shares of Sunbeam common stock it received in the M&F Transaction. The Registration Rights Agreement was amended in August 1998 to provide that Coleman (Parent) Holdings can also require Sunbeam to register under federal and applicable state securities laws the warrant, and the shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrant, issued to Coleman (Parent) Holdings in connection with a settlement of legal claims related to the M&F Transaction.

Sunbeam has also agreed to use its reasonable best efforts to permit any registration statement filed by Sunbeam in connection with the Registration Rights Agreement to be used by former affiliates of Coleman for resales of Sunbeam common stock received by those affiliates in the merger. Any affiliate seeking to register shares of Sunbeam common stock for resale must agree in writing to be bound by the terms of the Registration Rights Agreement.

The Registration Rights Agreement, and the August 1998 amendment thereto, have been filed as exhibits to the Registration Statement of which this document forms a part and are incorporated in this document by reference.

In June 1998, concurrently with the removal of Sunbeam's former Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, Sunbeam announced that Jerry W. Levin of MacAndrews & Forbes had been elected as Sunbeam's Chief Executive Officer. Mr. Levin and other Sunbeam executives who were affiliated with MacAndrews & Forbes later signed three-year employment agreements with Sunbeam. The other executives include Paul E. Shapiro, Executive Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer of Sunbeam, and Bobby G. Jenkins, Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Sunbeam. Mr. Levin and Howard Gittis of MacAndrews & Forbes also were elected to the Sunbeam board of directors. For a description of the terms of the employment agreements entered into by Messrs. Levin, Shapiro and Jenkins, see "MANAGEMENT--Executive Compensation." For a further discussion of the events leading up to the appointment of Mr. Levin as Sunbeam's Chief Executive Officer and the election of Messrs. Levin and Gittis to the Sunbeam board of directors, see "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--Changes in Sunbeam's Management and Board."

SETTLEMENT OF CLAIMS RELATING TO THE M&F TRANSACTION

On August 12, 1998, Sunbeam announced that, following investigation and negotiation by a special committee of the Sunbeam board, Sunbeam had entered into a settlement agreement with Coleman (Parent) Holdings, the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary from which Sunbeam acquired a controlling interest in Coleman in the M&F Transaction. The settlement:

- o released Sunbeam from threatened claims of MacAndrews & Forbes and its affiliates arising from the M&F Transaction,

- o enabled Sunbeam to retain the services of executive personnel affiliated with MacAndrews & Forbes who had been managing Sunbeam since mid-June 1998, including Jerry W. Levin, Sunbeam's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Paul E. Shapiro, Sunbeam's Executive Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer, and Bobby G. Jenkins, Sunbeam's Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, each of which signed a three-year employment agreement with Sunbeam in connection with the settlement, and
- o provided for continuing management assistance and other support by MacAndrews & Forbes and its affiliates to Sunbeam, at its request, as described below.

As part of the settlement, Coleman (Parent) Holdings received from Sunbeam a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase 23 million shares of Sunbeam common stock at a cash exercise price of $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution adjustments. Accordingly, MacAndrews & Forbes may now be deemed to be the beneficial owner of 29.9% of the total number of shares of Sunbeam common stock that would be outstanding following the exercise of the warrant. In connection with the settlement agreement, Sunbeam and Coleman (Parent) Holdings entered into an amendment to the Registration Rights Agreement executed in connection with the M&F Transaction. Under this amendment, Coleman (Parent) Holdings can require Sunbeam to register under federal and applicable state securities laws the warrant received by Coleman (Parent) Holdings in the settlement and the shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrant. For a description of the settlement agreement and the terms of the warrant issued to Coleman (Parent) Holdings, see "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--Settlement of Claims Relating to the M&F Transaction."

The special committee that negotiated and approved the terms of the settlement agreement with Coleman (Parent) Holdings, including the terms of the warrant issued to Coleman (Parent) Holdings, consisted of four outside directors, none of whom has any affiliation with MacAndrews & Forbes. The members of the special committee were Howard Kristol (Chairman), Charles Elson, Peter Langerman and Faith Whittlesey. They were assisted by independent financial advisors and independent legal counsel. The special committee considered the services of Messrs. Levin, Shapiro and Jenkins and MacAndrews & Forbes' commitment to provide assistance and support to Sunbeam to be essential and of substantial (although incalculable) value to Sunbeam.

In connection with the settlement agreement with Coleman (Parent) Holdings, Messrs. Levin, Shapiro and Jenkins each signed three-year employment agreements with Sunbeam. See "MANAGEMENT."

SERVICES PROVIDED BY MACANDREWS & FORBES

Under Sunbeam's August 1998 settlement agreement with Coleman (Parent) Holdings, in addition to the services of MacAndrews & Forbes' former executive personnel who have been managing Sunbeam since mid-June 1998, MacAndrews & Forbes agreed to provide management assistance and other support to Sunbeam at its request in a wide variety of areas. Although the nature and extent of this assistance and support had not been determined at the time of the settlement, Sunbeam has significantly benefited from this assistance and support in connection with the following areas:

- o negotiations with Sunbeam's lending banks;
- o the defense of the many lawsuits brought against Sunbeam and certain of its present and former directors and officers;

022249

- o the prosecution of claims against Sunbeam's liability insurance providers;
- o the defense of claims against Sunbeam by its former Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer;
- o the restatement of certain of Sunbeam's historical financial statements;
- o the preparation of various SEC filings by Sunbeam and Coleman; and
- o various other insurance, regulatory, litigation and executive compensation matters.

MacAndrews & Forbes employees provide this assistance and support to Sunbeam. Sunbeam does not pay MacAndrews & Forbes and its affiliates for the services or its employees, but does reimburse them for out-of-pocket expenses. Execution of the settlement agreement was a condition to Sunbeam's continued employment of Messrs. Levin, Shapiro and Jenkins as officers of Sunbeam.

UNAUDITED PRO FORMA CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED
FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

The following unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements were prepared to give effect to the following "Pro Forma Transactions":

- o Sunbeam's acquisition on March 30, 1998 of about 81% of the then outstanding shares of Coleman common stock in exchange for 14,099,749 shares of Sunbeam's common stock and approximately $160 million in cash. Immediately thereafter, as a result of the exercise of Coleman employee stock options, Sunbeam's beneficial ownership of Coleman decreased to approximately 79% of the total number of outstanding shares of Coleman common stock;
- o Sunbeam's acquisition on April 6, 1998 of all of the outstanding stock of Signature Brands in exchange for approximately $255 million in cash;
- o Sunbeam's proposed acquisition of the shares of Coleman common stock held by the Coleman minority stockholders, in exchange for about 6.7 million shares of Sunbeam common stock, about $87 million in cash, including cash-outs of Coleman options and warrants to purchase up to approximately 4.98 million shares of Sunbeam common stock at $7 per share;
- o the initial borrowing of approximately $1,325 million under Sunbeam's bank credit facility;
- o the original offering of the debentures producing net proceeds of approximately $730 million; and
- o the use of most of the net proceeds from the original bank borrowing and offering of the debentures.

The bank credit facility, as amended, consists of:

- o a revolving credit facility in an aggregate principal amount of up to $400 million maturing March 30, 2005, of which $52.5 million may only be used to complete the merger;
- o up to $800 million in term loans maturing on March 30, 2005, of which

16div-028154

$35.0 million may only be used to complete the merger; and

- o a $500 million term loan maturing September 30, 2006, of which $5.0 million has already been repaid through September 30, 1999.

Interest accrues, at the Company's option:

- o at LIBOR, or
- o at the base rate of the administrative agent which is generally the higher of the prime commercial lending rate of the administrative agent or the Federal Funds Rate plus 0.50%,

in each case, plus an interest margin which is currently 4.00% for LIBOR borrowings and 2.50% for base rate borrowings and is subject to potential decreases in the future, including a decrease to 3.00% for LIBOR borrowings and 1.75% for base rate borrowings upon consummation of the merger and the effectiveness of the pledge of substantially all of Coleman's and its domestic subsidiaries' assets to secure the obligations under the bank credit facility. Past defaults have been waived through April 10, 2000.

The original offering in March 1998 of $2,014 million aggregate principal amount of the debentures at a yield to maturity of 5.0% resulted in net proceeds of approximately $730 million. The debentures are exchangeable for shares of Sunbeam common stock at an initial conversion rate of 6.575 shares for each $1,000 principal amount at maturity of the debentures, subject to adjustment upon occurrence of certain events. The debentures are subordinated in right of payment to all of our existing and future senior indebtedness. The debentures are not redeemable by Sunbeam prior to March 25, 2003.

Proceeds from the initial bank borrowing and the original offering of debentures of $1,176 million, $255 million and $182 million were used to acquire and repay the debt of Coleman and its parent corporations, CLH Holdings and Coleman Worldwide, Signature Brands and First Alert, respectively. Also, approximately $300 million of Sunbeam's outstanding indebtedness was repaid from such proceeds. In addition, the financing provided funds to pay the $106.9 million of redemption premiums associated with debt extinguishments and also provided working capital and funds for general corporate purposes.

The unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated balance sheet as of September 30, 1999 gives pro forma effect to Sunbeam's proposed acquisition of the shares of Coleman common stock held by the Coleman minority stockholders as if it had occurred on September 30, 1999. The unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated statements of operations for the year ended December 31, 1998 and the nine months ended September 30, 1999 give effect to the Pro Forma Transactions as if they had occurred on December 29, 1997, the beginning of Sunbeam's 1998 fiscal year.

The unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements do not include pro forma adjustments relating to the acquisition of First Alert because the effects of that acquisition are not significant.

Sunbeam's consolidated historical results of operations for the year ended December 31, 1998 includes Coleman and Signature Brands from the respective acquisition dates and has been derived from the audited financial statements of Sunbeam as of and for the year ended December 31, 1998. The results of operations of the acquired entities from the beginning of the period through the respective acquisition dates have been derived from the unaudited statements of operations of the acquired entities for the three months ended March 31, 1998. The acquisitions have been accounted for under the purchase method of accounting.

Reclassifications were made to the net sales, cost of goods sold and selling, general and administrative expense as reported in the historical financial statements of Coleman and Signature Brands. These reclassifications were made to conform to the classifications of Sunbeam and consist of promotional allowances and cooperative advertising expenses. Sunbeam classifies these amounts as a deduction to arrive at net sales.

Included in the historical statement of operations of Coleman for the three months ended March 31, 1998, are certain pretax charges for costs relating to the acquisition of Coleman by Sunbeam in the amount of $7.1 million, a $3.6 million write-off of capitalized costs associated with the installation of a company-wide computer software system which was abandoned following its acquisition by Sunbeam and $2.2 million to cancel a licensing agreement with an affiliate. Additionally, the expense of the early extinguishment of debt of $1.2 million shown as an extraordinary charge on Coleman's historical statement of operations for the three months ended March 31, 1998, has been excluded from the unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated statement of operations for the year ended December 31, 1998.

The pro forma adjustments are based upon available information and certain assumptions that Sunbeam believes are reasonable under the circumstances.

The unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements should be read in conjunction with "MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS" and the financial statements of Sunbeam and the notes thereto, and the other financial information included elsewhere in this document. These unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements are provided for informational purposes only and do not purport to be indicative of the financial position or results of operations which would have been obtained had the Pro Forma Transactions been completed as of the dates indicated above or the results of operations for any future period.

AS OF SEPTEMBER 30, 1999 AND FOR THE YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31, 1998
 AND THE NINE MONTHS ENDED SEPTEMBER 30, 1999
 (IN THOUSANDS, EXCEPT PERCENTAGES, SHARE DATA AND AS NOTED)

- (a) Represents the historical statements of operations of Coleman and Signature Brands for the three months ended March 31, 1998.
- (b) Represents the reclassifications made to net sales, cost of goods sold and selling, general and administrative expense as reported in the historical financial statements of Coleman and Signature Brands for the three months ended March 31, 1998. These reclassifications were made to conform to the classifications of Sunbeam and consist of promotional allowances and cooperative advertising. Sunbeam classifies these amounts as a deduction to arrive at net sales, as follows:

- (c) Represents the elimination of Coleman's net sales, cost of goods sold and selling, general and administrative expense for the two days ended March 31, 1998. These amounts are included in the Coleman historical statement of operations for the three months ended March 31, 1998 and are also reflected in the Sunbeam historical statement of operations since March 30, 1998.
- (d) Represents the increase in depreciation and amortization to reflect the pro forma effect of the acquisitions occurring at the beginning of the period. In each acquisition, the purchase price paid has been allocated to the fair value, as determined by independent appraisals, of tangible and identified intangible assets acquired and liabilities assumed as follows (in millions):

The value of approximately $44 per share for the Sunbeam common stock issued at the date of the M&F Transaction was derived by using the average closing stock price for the day before and day of the public announcement of the M&F Transaction. Subsequent to the M&F Transaction, Coleman Spas, Inc. was sold for $17 million and the related proceeds are therefore presented above as a deduction to arrive at the net cash paid and equity issued for the businesses retained. The $17 million is similarly excluded from the amount of $1,113 million described as "fair value of assets acquired." Immediately after the M&F Transaction, employee stock options were exercised generating proceeds of $9 million.

<PAGE>

This amount is presented above as a reduction to arrive at the net cash paid for the M&F Transaction and a proportionate corresponding increase is included in the minority interest liability assumed.

The pro forma amounts are derived as follows:

The pro forma purchase price allocation to the acquired property, plant and equipment of Coleman and Signature Brands represents the aggregate amount recorded for financial statement purposes as detailed by an independent appraisal. The remaining economic useful lives for the acquired property, plant and equipment range from 17 to 34 years for buildings, 6 to 12 years for machinery and equipment and 1 to 5 years for tooling and other depreciable assets. The average life of 7.9 years represents the weighted average of the depreciable lives used for financial reporting purposes.

(e) Represents the net increase in interest expense to reflect the pro forma effect of acquisition and refinancing borrowings as if such transactions occurred at the beginning of the period. Amounts are derived as follows:

The assumed effective interest rate was derived using the 1998 effective rates, including amortization of deferred financing costs, of 9.05% for the term loan borrowings, which represent approximately 59% of Sunbeam's acquisition and refinancing borrowings, and 5.20% for the debentures, which represent approximately 41% of Sunbeam's acquisition and refinancing borrowings. The effect on operations of a 1/8% variance in interest rates on the acquisition and refinancing borrowings would be approximately $1.1 million per year and $0.3 million per quarter.

(f) Represents the net increase in interest expense to reflect the pro forma effect of higher interest rates on the new financing compared with historical financing. The amount is derived as follows:

(g) Represents the domestic income tax provision accrued by Coleman of $4.4 million for the three months ended March 31, 1998. On a pro forma basis this accrual would not have been required as a consequence of the net operating losses generated by Sunbeam for the year ended December 31, 1998. No adjustment is required to the Signature Brands tax benefit since the Signature Brands loss in the first quarter of 1998 was available for carryback. No tax benefit is provided on the pro forma adjustments since the adjustments for depreciation and amortization are not deductible for income tax purposes and the deferred tax asset resulting from the remaining pro forma adjustments results in an additional valuation allowance since it is more likely than not that such deferred tax assets will not be realized from future taxable income.

(h) Represents approximately 21% of the loss from continuing operations before extraordinary charge of Coleman for the three months ended March 31, 1998.

(i) Represents the pro forma effects associated with completing the merger and acquiring the remaining Coleman shares outstanding. The total consideration is derived as follows:

The portion of the consideration consisting of approximately 6.7 million shares of Sunbeam common stock is valued at $6.75 per share, the closing price of Sunbeam's common stock on October 21, 1998, the date the Company announced the terms of the Memorandum of Understanding. The warrants to purchase approximately 4.98 million shares of Sunbeam common stock at $7 per share are valued at $3.04 per warrant, the same value ascribed to the warrant issued to a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes in August 1998 based on a valuation performed by an independent consultant. The pro forma allocation of the consideration is based on independent appraisals prepared in connection with the M & F transaction. Allocation of the total consideration and its effect on the pro forma condensed consolidated financial statements is as follows:

The pro forma adjustment for the nine months ended September 30, 1999, assumes that the depreciation and amortization are charged to operations ratably over the year.

In deriving the above pro forma adjustments, Sunbeam assumed that the fair values used in connection with the acquisition of the initial 79% interest in Coleman were reasonable approximations of the appropriate fair values to be used in connection with the second half of this step acquisition. Accordingly, the purchase price amounts allocated above to inventories, property, plant and equipment, trademarks, assembled workforce and patents reflect 21% of the fair values used in the acquisition of the initial 79% interest of Coleman.

The pro forma adjustment to deferred income taxes represents the recording in purchase accounting of the deferred income tax effects of the temporary differences which result from the allocation of $91.5 million of the consideration to tangible and identifiable intangible assets. The deferred income taxes have been established based on an estimated federal, state and foreign income tax rate of approximately 40%.

The pro forma adjustments also reflect:

- o additional interest expense of $7.439 million and $5.579 million for the year ended December 31, 1998 and nine months ended September 30, 1999, respectively, on the $87 million portion of the consideration which is expected to be funded from Sunbeam's revolving credit facility at an interest rate of 8.55% (the rate in effect at December 31, 1998). The effect on operations of a 1/8% variance in interest rates on these borrowings would be approximately $109,000 per year and $27,000 per quarter.
 - o the elimination of the minority interest in the loss on Coleman in the pro forma statement of operations.
- (j) Represents the increase in the weighted average shares of Sunbeam common stock outstanding as of December 31, 1998, adjusted for the 14,099,749 shares issued in connection with the acquisition of Coleman as if it had occurred at the beginning of the period and the approximately 6.7 million shares of Sunbeam common stock to be issued in connection with the acquisition of the remaining Coleman shares outstanding. Since the Coleman acquisition occurred at the end of the first quarter of 1998, the weighted average shares outstanding would have increased on a pro forma basis by one quarter of the 14,099,749 shares issued, or 3,524,937 shares. The shares of common stock issuable upon conversion of the debentures, the MacAndrews & Forbes warrants, and the warrants to be issued in connection with the merger have not been included, as they would be anti-dilutive.
- (k) Represents the increase in the weighted average shares of Sunbeam common stock outstanding as of September 30, 1999, adjusted for the approximately 6.7 million shares of Sunbeam common stock to be issued in connection with the acquisition of the remaining Coleman shares outstanding. The shares of common stock issuable upon conversion of the debentures, the MacAndrews & Forbes warrants, and the warrants to be issued in connection with the merger have not been included, as they would be anti-dilutive.
- (l) In computing the ratio of earnings to fixed charges: (a) earnings represents income (loss) from continuing operations before income taxes and fixed charges, exclusive of capitalized interest; and (b) fixed charges consist of interest expense, capitalized interest and the estimated interest portion of rental expense. For the fiscal year ended December 31, 1998 and the nine months ended September 30, 1999, historical earnings were insufficient to cover fixed charges by $797.1 million and $130.1 million, respectively. For the fiscal year ended December 31, 1998 and the nine months ended September 30, 1999, on a pro forma basis, earnings were insufficient to cover fixed charges by $834.9 million and $139.1 million, respectively.

SELECTED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL INFORMATION OF SUNBEAM

The following selected historical financial information has been derived from the consolidated financial statements and the condensed consolidated financial statements of Sunbeam. This information should be read in conjunction with Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements and related notes, which are included elsewhere in this prospectus.

While reviewing the following selected historical financial information, please note the following:

- o All amounts in the table are expressed in millions, except per share and ratio data.
- o On March 30, 1998, Sunbeam acquired approximately 81% of the then outstanding shares of common stock of Coleman, which immediately thereafter was reduced to about 79% through exercises of Coleman employee stock options. On April 6, 1998, Sunbeam completed the cash acquisitions of First Alert and Signature Brands. The acquisitions were accounted for under the purchase method of accounting and, accordingly, the financial position and results of operations of each acquired entity are included in the Consolidated Financial Statements from the respective dates of acquisition.
 - o For the fiscal year ended December 31, 1998, Sunbeam took an extraordinary charge of $122.4 million related to the early extinguishments of debt and took other charges of:
 - o $70.0 million related to the issuance of warrants;
 - o $62.5 million related to the write-off of goodwill;
 - o $39.4 million related to fixed asset impairments;
 - o $31 million related to compensation expense for the new employment agreements with Sunbeam's former Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other former senior officers; and
 - o $95.8 million related to write-downs of inventory.

See Notes 2, 3 and 11 to Sunbeam's Consolidated Financial Statements.

- o The "earnings (loss) from discontinued operations, net of taxes" and "loss on sale of discontinued operations, net of taxes" represent results from Sunbeam's furniture business, net of taxes and the estimated loss on disposal. See Note 13 to Sunbeam's consolidated financial statements included in this prospectus.
- o In computing the ratio of earnings to fixed charges:
 - o earnings represent income (loss) from continuing operations before income taxes and fixed charges (exclusive of capitalized interest); and
 - o fixed charges consist of interest expense, capitalized interest and the estimated interest portion of rental expense.

For the fiscal year ended December 29, 1996 and the fiscal year ended December 31, 1998, historical earnings were insufficient to cover fixed charges by $262.2 million and $797.1 million, respectively. For the nine months ended September 30, 1998 and 1999, historical earnings were insufficient to cover fixed charges by $476.7 million and $130.1 million, respectively. For the fiscal year ended December 31, 1998 and for the nine months ended September 30, 1999, on a pro forma basis, earnings were insufficient to cover fixed charges by $834.9 million and $139.1 million, respectively.

- o At September 30, 1999, total assets include goodwill and other intangible assets of $1,809.9 million.

MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

The following discussion should be read in conjunction with the accompanying Consolidated and Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements (and related notes), Selected Consolidated Financial Information of Sunbeam and Unaudited Pro Forma Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements appearing elsewhere in this document.

On March 30, 1998, Sunbeam, through a wholly owned subsidiary, acquired approximately 81% of the outstanding shares of common stock of Coleman from a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes in exchange for 14,099,749 shares of Sunbeam's common stock and approximately $160 million in cash. In addition, Sunbeam assumed approximately $1,016 million in debt. Immediately afterwards, as a result of the exercise of Coleman employee stock options, Sunbeam's indirect beneficial ownership of Coleman decreased to approximately 79%. Sunbeam's agreement for the acquisition of the remaining publicly held Coleman shares in a merger transaction provides that the remaining Coleman shareholders will receive:

- o approximately 6.7 million shares of Sunbeam common stock--0.5677 of a share for each outstanding Coleman share; and
- o approximately $87 million in cash--$6.44 for each outstanding Coleman share and cash outs of unexercised Coleman employee stock options equal to the difference between $27.50 per share and the exercise price of the options.

Sunbeam expects to complete the merger in the fourth quarter of 1999 or early in the first quarter of 2000, although there can be no assurance that the merger will occur during that time. See Notes 2 and 15 to Sunbeam's Consolidated Financial Statements and "LITIGATION SETTLEMENT AND WARRANTS" for information regarding the settlement of claims relating to the Coleman acquisition, the terms of which provide for the issuance at the time of the merger of warrants to purchase up to approximately 4.98 million shares of Sunbeam's common stock at $7 per share.

On April 6, 1998, Sunbeam completed the cash acquisitions of First Alert, a leading manufacturer of smoke and carbon monoxide detectors, and Signature Brands, a leading manufacturer of consumer and professional products. The First Alert and the Signature Brands acquisitions were valued at approximately $182 million, including $133 million of cash and $49 million of assumed debt, and $255 million, reflecting cash paid, including the required retirement or defeasance of debt, respectively.

The acquisitions were recorded under the purchase method of accounting and accordingly, the financial position and results of operations of each acquired entity are included in the Consolidated Financial Statements from the respective dates of acquisition. The purchase prices of the acquired entities have been allocated to individual assets acquired and liabilities assumed based on estimates of fair values determined by independent appraisals at the dates of acquisition.

FISCAL YEAR

To standardize the fiscal period ends of Sunbeam and the acquired entities, effective with its 1998 fiscal year, Sunbeam has changed its fiscal year end from the Sunday nearest December 31 to a calendar year. See Note 1 to Sunbeam's Consolidated Financial Statements.

ASSET IMPAIRMENT AND OTHER CHARGES

Goodwill

When changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying value of goodwill may not be recoverable, Sunbeam estimates future cash flows using the recoverability method -undiscounted future cash flows and including related interest charges--as a basis for recording any impairment loss. An impairment loss is then recorded to adjust the carrying value of goodwill to the recoverable amount. The impairment loss taken is no greater than the amount by which the carrying value of the net assets of the business exceeds its fair value. Due to First Alert's financial performance in 1998 and its prospects for 1999 and beyond, Sunbeam determined that the goodwill relating to this acquisition was impaired. Accordingly, based on its determination of fair value, Sunbeam has written off the net carrying value of goodwill of $62.5 million in the fourth quarter of 1998.

Fixed Asset Impairment and Excess and Obsolete Inventory Reserves

In the second quarter of 1998, Sunbeam decided to outsource or discontinue a substantial number of products--principally breadmakers, toasters and certain other appliances, air and water filtration products, and the elimination of certain stock keeping units ("SKUs") within existing product lines, primarily relating to appliances, grills and grill accessories--previously made by Sunbeam, resulting in some facilities and equipment that will either no longer be used or will be utilized in a significantly different manner. Accordingly, a charge of $29.6 million was recorded in Cost of Goods Sold to write some of these assets down to their estimated fair market value. Approximately 80% of this charge related to machinery, equipment and tooling at Sunbeam's Mexico City and Hattiesburg, Mississippi manufacturing plants, the estimated fair value for which was derived through an auction process. The remainder of this charge related to tooling and equipment at various other facilities, which either had a nominal value or the fair market value of which was derived through an auction process. These assets were taken out of service at the time of the write-down and consequently were not depreciated further after the write-down. The net carrying value of these assets after the write-down approximated $2.2 million and these assets are expected to be disposed of by September 30, 1999. Depreciation expense associated with these assets approximated $2.6 million in 1998, $4.2 million in 1997 and $3.5 million in 1996.

Personnel at the Mexico City facility were notified in the second quarter of 1998 that the plant was scheduled for closure at year-end 1998; accordingly, at that time a liability of $1.8 million was recorded in Cost of Goods Sold primarily for employee severance. The employee severance was related to approximately 1,200 positions of which approximately 1,100 were terminated, and $1.4 million paid in severance, as of December 31, 1998. Substantially all of the remaining positions were eliminated and severance payments were paid by July 31, 1999. In the third quarter of 1998, Sunbeam recorded in Cost of Goods Sold an additional provision for impairment of fixed assets of $3.1 million in an acquired entity relating to assets taken out of service for which there was no remaining value. The asset impairment resulted from management's decision, during the third quarter, to discontinue certain SKU's within product lines, principally generators, compressors and propane cylinders. These fixed assets were taken out of service at the time of the write-down and consequently were not depreciated further after the write-down. Depreciation expense associated with these assets approximated $0.8 million in 1998. In the fourth quarter of 1998, Sunbeam recorded a $7.1 million charge as a result of management's decision, during the fourth quarter, to outsource the production of some appliances (principally irons). This charge to Cost of Goods Sold primarily consists of a provision for certain tooling and equipment ($6.7 million) and severance and related benefits ($0.4 million). This tooling and equipment, which had no remaining value, was written off and depreciation of this equipment was discontinued at the time of the write-down. Depreciation expense associated with these assets approximated $2.4 million in 1998, $2.3 million in 1997 and $0.9 million in 1996. The severance costs related to approximately 45 production employees, none of whom was terminated as of December 31, 1998. It is anticipated that these employees' positions will be eliminated and the severance obligation paid by December 31, 1999.

During 1997 and the first half of 1998, Sunbeam built inventories in anticipation of 1998 sales volumes which did not materialize. As a result, it has been and will continue to be necessary to dispose of some portions of excess inventories at amounts less than cost. Accordingly, during 1998, when it became evident that the anticipated sales volumes would not materialize, Sunbeam recorded $58.2 million in charges (of which $46.4 million, $2.2 million and $9.6 million, were recorded during the second, third and fourth quarters, respectively) to properly state this inventory at the lower-of-cost-or-market. This inventory primarily related to some appliances, grills and grill accessories. Sunbeam also recorded a charge of $11.0 million during the second quarter for excess inventories for raw materials and work in process which will not be used due to outsourcing the production of breadmakers, toasters and some other appliances. In addition, during 1998, Sunbeam made the decision to exit some product lines, primarily air and water filtration products, and to eliminate some SKUs within existing product lines, primarily relating to appliances, grills and grill accessories. As a result of this decision, a $26.6 million charge was recorded during the second quarter to properly state this inventory at the lower-of-cost-or-market. Total charges for excess inventories recorded at the lower-of-cost-or-market based upon management's best estimate of net realizable value, amounted to approximately $95.8 million at December 31, 1998. See Note 12 to Sunbeam's Consolidated Financial Statements for asset impairment and other charges recorded in conjunction with a 1996 restructuring plan.

022268

RESTATEMENTS

On June 30, 1998, Sunbeam announced that the audit committee of its board of directors was initiating a review into the accuracy of Sunbeam's prior financial statements. The audit committee's review has since been completed and, as a result of its findings, Sunbeam has restated its previously issued consolidated financial statements for 1996 and 1997 and the first quarter of 1998. Based upon the review, it was determined that some revenue had been inappropriately recognized, some costs and allowances had not been accrued or were improperly recorded, and some costs were inappropriately included in, and subsequently charged to, restructuring, asset impairment and other costs within the Consolidated Statement of Operations for the years ended December 29, 1996 and December 28, 1997 and the three months ended March 31, 1998. The financial statements for the years ended December 28, 1997 and December 29, 1996 were restated, audited and filed on Form 10-K/A with the SEC on November 9, 1998. The accompanying 1996 and 1997 Consolidated Financial Statements and 1998 Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements of Sunbeam present the restated results.

In connection with the restatements referred to above, Arthur Andersen advised Sunbeam that it believed there were material weaknesses in Sunbeam's internal controls. In order to address these material weaknesses, Sunbeam has increased the number of senior financial personnel and has implemented comprehensive review procedures of operating and financial information. Additionally, as explained in more detail under "Year 2000 Readiness Disclosure" below, Sunbeam is in the process of significantly enhancing its operating systems. Sunbeam anticipates that its systems enhancements will be completed in 1999. See "CHANGES IN AND DISAGREEMENTS WITH ACCOUNTANTS ON ACCOUNTING AND FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE."

NINE MONTHS ENDED SEPTEMBER 30, 1999 COMPARED TO NINE MONTHS ENDED SEPTEMBER 30, 1998

Net sales for the nine months ended September 30, 1999 and 1998 were $1,786.4 million and $1,322.1 million respectively, an increase of $464.3 million. Results for the nine months ended September 30, 1998 include Coleman, Signature Brands and First Alert from their respective acquisition dates. After adjusting 1998 sales to include sales of the acquired companies for the periods from the beginning of 1998 through the respective dates of acquisition, combined historical net sales would be $1,624.0 million. 1999 net sales increased approximately $162 million or approximately 10% over 1998 combined historical net sales. Information that adjusts for the results of the acquisitions prior to the actual acquisition dates (the "combined historical" information) is provided for informational purposes only and is to enhance comparability of the period presented. This information is not necessarily indicative of what the combined results would have been had these acquisitions occurred at the beginning of the periods presented or the results for any future period. The increase in net sales is driven by the Outdoor Leisure group which had an increase of approximately $123 million in 1999 as compared to the combined historical net sales in the same period in the prior year. This increase over combined historical net sales was largely due to sales of outdoor recreation products and Powermate(Registered) generators. The higher level of sales of these products is believed to be partially attributable to heightened consumer sensitivity to the need for emergency preparedness. Sunbeam believes that this heightened sensitivity is reflective of a combination of factors, including weather conditions and Year 2000 considerations. Household net sales in 1999 increased approximately $11 million compared to 1998 combined historical net sales. Sunbeam believes that the decrease in shipments in the prior year in order to allow trade inventories to return to a normal level is primarily responsible for this increase. This factor affects the year to year comparisons for each of the operating groups. Excluding the effect on 1998 of loading, Sunbeam believes that Household net sales in 1999 were approximately the same as in the prior year. Within the Household segment, net sales of personal care products increased as a result of a strengthening retail environment largely offset by decreases in sales of appliances. International net sales in 1999 increased $30.3 million over 1998 combined historical net sales. Higher sales in Canada, Europe and Japan resulted predominantly from strong retail demand of Powermate(Registered) and outdoor recreation products. This increase was partially offset by the impact of weak economic conditions in Latin America.

022269

Gross margin for the first nine months of 1999 was $452.3 million or $403.6 million higher than the comparable period in 1998. During 1998, Sunbeam recorded a number of largely non-recurring charges which affect the comparability of gross margin in the first nine months of 1999 over the same period in the prior year. These charges are summarized below:

- o In the second and third quarters of 1998, Sunbeam recorded charges totaling $86.2 million relating to fixed asset impairments and provisions for excess and obsolete inventory totaling $32.7 million. These charges, which were recorded in Cost of Goods Sold, are discussed above in the section "Fixed Asset and Excess Obsolete Inventory Reserves."

In addition to the charge taken in 1998, the excess and obsolete inventory referenced above has impacted Sunbeam's operating results in several ways, with two primary effects. First, gross margins have been impacted by sales, at below normal prices, of obsolete inventory into non-traditional channels and excess inventory into traditional channels. In addition, due to the high levels of excess inventory at the end of 1998, Sunbeam's usage of its manufacturing facilities has been lower than normal, resulting in lower fixed cost absorption, which in turn, reduced gross margins in 1999.

- o Cost of Goods Sold for the first nine months of 1998 also reflects the non-recurring impact ($28.1 million) of Sunbeam recording the 1998 acquisitions using the purchase method of accounting. In accordance with this accounting method, inventory pertaining to acquisitions was recorded at fair value. The fair value of the inventory exceeded the book value reflected on the balance sheets of the acquired companies as of the respective acquisition dates. The excess of the fair value of inventory over its pre-acquisition book value was recorded in cost of sales as the inventory was sold.

Adjusting for the combined results of the acquired companies and excluding the effects of 1998 non-recurring items, which are summarized above, gross margin for the first nine months of 1999 increased approximately $182 million over the 1998 combined historical gross margin. As a percentage of net sales, gross margin improved to approximately 25% in the first nine months of 1999 as compared to approximately 4% in the 1998 period. The gross margin percentage for the 1998 period adjusted for the non-recurring charges and for the effect of the acquired companies was approximately 17% of combined historical net sales. The Household group contributed approximately 30% of the 1999 gross margin improvement over the 1998 combined historical gross margin. The improvement in the Household group's gross margin resulted primarily from lower sales deduction rates, improved manufacturing processes and controls, additional sales volume, and improved product mix. The Outdoor Leisure group contributed approximately 50% of the 1999 gross margin improvement over the 1998 combined historical gross margin. Approximately 80% of the improvement in the Outdoor Leisure group's gross margin resulted from additional volume and related improved manufacturing overhead absorption, as well as improvements in manufacturing. The balance of the increase resulted from improved product mix. The International group contributed approximately 20% of the 1999 gross margin improvement over 1998 combined historical gross margin. Approximately 40% of the improvement in the International group's gross margin resulted from the shut down of the Mexico City manufacturing facility which had experienced high material usage costs and employee benefit costs in the prior year. The remaining improvement resulted from increased sales volume, a lower level of product returns and improved product mix.

SG&A expense for the first nine months of 1999 was $449.3 million, an increase of $8.9 million or 2.0% over the same period in the prior year. After adjusting 1998 SG&A expense to include the acquired companies' SG&A expense for the period from the beginning of 1998 through the respective dates of acquisition ($100.9 million), combined historical SG&A expense was $541.3 million. Since the combined historical 1998 SG&A expenses were derived by adding the acquired companies' pre-acquisition period costs to the reported nine months' results of Sunbeam, the combined historical SG&A expenses include $30.4 million of amortization of intangibles expense representing both pre- and post-acquisition periods, as well as approximately $12 million of transaction costs incurred by the acquired companies relating to them being purchased by Sunbeam. Excluding these costs and the effects of the following, adjusted 1998 SG&A expenses were approximately $378 million.

- o $70.0 million recorded in the third quarter of 1998 related to the issuance of a warrant to a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes, as discussed below,
- o approximately $31 million of 1998 compensation expense recorded in connection with the new February 1998 employment agreement with Sunbeam's former Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other senior officers of Sunbeam and approximately $3.8 million of severance for former employees. The new employment agreements provided for, among other items, the acceleration of vesting of restricted stock and the forfeiture of unvested restricted stock that had been granted under the executives' prior employment agreements, new restricted stock grants and options to purchase common shares. In addition, the new employment agreements provided for income tax gross-ups with respect to any tax assessed on the restricted stock grants and acceleration of vesting of restricted stock. (See Note 8 to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements);
- o $10.8 million, $4.0 million, and $2.1 million of costs recorded in 1998 related to expenses associated with the restatement efforts (principally representing legal, accounting and auditing costs of $6.1 million and $4.7 million, respectively), a corporate office relocation and Year 2000 compliance efforts, respectively.

Excluding amortization of intangibles expense of $38.4 million for the first nine months of 1999 and $18.7 million of costs related to Year 2000 compliance efforts, adjusted 1999 SG&A costs were $392.2 million, an increase of approximately $14 million over adjusted 1998 SG&A expense. As previously discussed, this increase is primarily attributable to higher levels of selling and administrative costs driven by increased net sales, headcount increases to support future growth and costs associated with certain redundant operations resulting from Sunbeam's 1998 acquisitions which operations Sunbeam is integrating and the decision to bring in-house certain functions that had previously been outsourced. Sunbeam is in the process of fully integrating certain of these functions and expects that when this process has been completed consolidated SG&A expense for these functions will be reduced. Partially offsetting these increases in SG&A expense are certain 1998 expenses which did not reoccur in 1999. These 1998 expenses include increases associated with restructuring reserve at Coleman (approximately $7 million) and higher bad debt expense (approximately $5 million).

On August 12, 1998, Sunbeam announced that, following investigation and negotiation conducted by a Special Committee of the Board of Directors consisting of four outside directors not affiliated with M&F, Sunbeam had entered into a settlement agreement with a subsidiary of M&F pursuant to which Sunbeam was released from certain threatened claims of M&F and its subsidiaries arising from the Coleman acquisition and M&F agreed to provide certain management personnel and assistance to Sunbeam in exchange for the issuance to the M&F subsidiary of a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase up to 23 million shares of the Company's common stock at a cash exercise price of $7.00 per share, subject to anti-dilution adjustments. Sunbeam concluded that the agreement to issue this warrant did not result in a new measurement date for the purposes of determining the purchase price for Coleman and accounted for the issuance of this warrant in the third quarter of 1998 as a cost of settling a potential claim. Accordingly, a $70.0 million non-cash SG&A expense was recorded in the third quarter of 1998, based upon a valuation performed as of August 1998 using facts existing at that time. The valuation was conducted by an independent consultant engaged by the special committee of the board of directors.

Operating results for the first nine months of 1999 and 1998, were a profit of $3.0 million in 1999 and a loss of $391.7 million in 1998. Adjusted for the historical results of the acquired companies and excluding non-recurring charges, as previously described, operating results for the 1999 and 1998 periods were a profit of $21.7 million and a loss of $149.2 million, respectively. This change resulted from the factors discussed above.

Interest expense increased from $88.5 million in 1998 to $136.6 million in 1999. Approximately 75% of the change related to higher borrowing levels in 1999 resulting primarily from borrowings for the acquisitions that were outstanding for the entire 1999 nine-month period as compared to only a portion of the 1998 period. The balance of this increase was primarily driven by the amortization of the loan commitment fee (approximately $2 million) Sunbeam is obligated to pay under the terms of Sunbeam's bank credit facility and the expense related to liquidated damages payable to debenture holders (approximately $3 million).

Other income, net of $4.6 million in 1999 included a gain of approximately $4 million relating to the sale of the Mexico City facility. This gain was partially offset by losses from other miscellaneous asset sales of approximately $0.3 million. The remaining other income, net in 1999 resulted from favorable foreign exchange rates, primarily from Sunbeam's operations in Japan. Other income, net of $4.1 million in 1998 included $8.0 million from the settlement of a lawsuit partially offset by net foreign exchange losses, primarily from Mexico.

The minority interest reported in 1999 and 1998 relates to the minority interest held in Coleman by public shareholders.

Approximately $6 million of the $12.7 million income tax expense recorded in 1999 related to U.S. tax liability generated by Coleman as a separate U.S. tax filing entity. As previously discussed, in July 1999, Sunbeam acquired a sufficient ownership interest in Coleman to permit it to file consolidated U.S. tax returns with Coleman for all future periods. The remaining tax expense recorded in 1999 related to taxes on foreign income and was partially offset by the favorable resolution of an income tax audit. Tax expense recorded in 1998 was nearly all related to foreign taxes. No net tax benefit was recorded on Sunbeam's losses in either year as it is management's assessment that Sunbeam cannot demonstrate that it is more likely than not that deferred tax assets resulting from these losses would be realized through future taxable income.

On July 12, 1999, Sunbeam acquired 3,000,000 shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $31 million. These shares, together with the shares of Coleman common stock Sunbeam owns, enable Sunbeam to exercise 80.01% of the total voting power of Coleman's outstanding capital stock as of July 12, 1999. This class of preferred stock was created by Coleman and acquired by Sunbeam in order to enable Coleman and Sunbeam to file consolidated federal income tax returns, and in certain jurisdictions, consolidated state income tax returns, prior to the consummation of the Coleman merger. In connection with the issuance of the shares of preferred stock, Sunbeam entered into a tax sharing agreement with Coleman, pursuant to which Coleman will pay to Sunbeam amounts equal to the federal and state income taxes that would have been payable by Coleman had Coleman not been included in the consolidated income tax return of Sunbeam. The net proceeds from the issuance of the shares by Coleman of its voting preferred stock to Sunbeam were used by Coleman to make a partial repayment of loans outstanding from Sunbeam under Coleman's intercompany note. (See Note 8 to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements.)

In March 1998, Sunbeam prepaid a $75.0 million 7.85% industrial revenue bond related to its Hattiesburg facility originally due in 2009. In connection with the early extinguishment of this debt, Sunbeam recognized an extraordinary charge in the first quarter of 1998. As a result of repayment of certain indebtedness assumed in the Coleman acquisition, Sunbeam also recognized an extraordinary charge in the second quarter of 1998. The debt assumed in connection with the Coleman acquisition was repaid as a result of the requirements under the terms of Sunbeam's bank credit facility. These extraordinary charges consisted of redemption premiums ($106.9 million), unamortized debt discount ($13.8 million) and unamortized deferred financing costs ($1.7 million) and were net of income taxes ($10.7 million).

On November 9, 1999, Sunbeam announced a plan to divest Eastpak and also plans to divest certain non-essential assets. Proceeds from these assets sales are estimated to be $200 million and will be primarily used to pay down debt.

Results of operations for the year ended December 31, 1998 include the results of Coleman from March 30, 1998 and of Signature Brands and First Alert from April 6, 1998, the respective dates of the acquisitions. The acquired companies generated net sales of $1,009.0 million from the acquisition dates noted above through December 31, 1998, with corresponding gross margin of $205.1 million, or 20% of sales.

SG&A costs recorded by the acquired companies were $329.9 million in the period, yielding an operating loss of $124.8 million.

For the acquired companies, net sales from the dates of the acquisitions through fiscal year-end were approximately $152 million lower than the same period in the prior year. This decline was caused by lower net sales at Coleman ($81.5 million), Signature Brands ($31.2 million) and First Alert ($39.2 million). Excluding the effects of Coleman's sale of its safety and security business in March 1998 and the discontinuation of its pressure washer business during 1997, Coleman's 1998 sales would have been approximately $4 million lower than in 1997. Sunbeam believes that Signature Brands' decline, primarily in its coffee and tea products, resulted largely from lost distribution and insufficient attention to the business during part of 1998. Sunbeam believes that all of the acquired businesses were, to some extent, impacted by the disruption that arose from the integration with Sunbeam and the related management changes, both at the acquired companies and at Sunbeam. First Alert's sales decline related predominantly to increased inventory positions in the domestic channel in 1997 as compared to 1998 with the remaining decrease primarily related to more favorable weather conditions in the fourth quarter of 1997 as compared to the same period in 1998 which affected consumer shopping patterns. Excluding the effects from purchase accounting and the write-off of First Alert's goodwill, as discussed in Note 2 to the Consolidated Financial Statements, operating profit for these three companies declined by approximately $45 million since the acquisitions in 1998 as compared to the same period in the prior year, resulting primarily from lower net sales. Although there can be no assurance, management anticipates that results from the acquired companies will significantly improve during 1999 due to, among other things, the absence of the factors causing disruption and insufficient focus at these three companies during 1998.

Consolidated net sales for the year ended December 31, 1998 were $1,836.9 million, an increase of $763.8 million versus the year ended December 28, 1997. After excluding:

- o $1,009.0 million of sales generated by the acquired companies;
- o $5.5 million of sales in 1998 resulting from the change in fiscal year end, as described in Note 1 to the Consolidated Financial Statements;
- o $12.7 million in 1998 and $31.3 million in 1997 from sales of excess or discontinued inventory for which the inventory carrying value was substantially equivalent to the sales value;
- o $4.2 million from 1997 sales relating to divested product lines which are not classified as discontinued operations - time and temperature products and Counselor and Borg branded scales; and
- o a $5.4 million benefit in 1997 from the reduction of cooperative advertising accruals no longer required (cooperative advertising costs are recorded as deductions in determining net sales);

net sales on an adjusted basis ("Adjusted Sales") of $809.7 million in 1998 decreased approximately 22% from Adjusted Sales of $1,032.2 million in 1997. Product sales were adversely impacted by a number of factors, with the largest being changes in retail inventory levels from channel loading which took place in 1997. Sunbeam believes the year-to-year effect of these inventory reductions amounted to over $100 million. Additionally, losses in distribution of outdoor cooking products estimated at approximately $60 million, the estimated effect of price discounting on appliance and grill products of approximately $14 million, and estimated higher provisions for customer returns and allowances of approximately $30 million contributed to the lower sales in 1998. The increase in customer returns and allowances resulted from:

- o increased returns of approximately $16 million principally resulting from channel loading and other aggressive sales practices (estimated at approximately $9 million) which began in the fourth quarter of 1997 and continued in the first quarter of 1998, a blanket recall ($3.0 million) and the discontinuance of certain product lines (approximately $4 million) principally air and water products; and
- o additional customer allowances of approximately $14 million primarily to induce sales during the first quarter of 1998.

The remaining sales decline was due in part to exiting some product SKUs.

Domestic Adjusted Sales declined approximately 21% or $170 million from 1997. Sunbeam believes more than half of the sales decline was due to increased retail inventory levels in 1997 versus decreased inventory positions at customers in 1998. Excluding this effect, sales were still lower than the prior year throughout the business, with the most significant decline occurring in outdoor cooking products sales. During 1997, Sunbeam lost a significant portion of its outdoor cooking products distribution, including the majority of its grill parts and accessories products distribution. The outdoor cooking products sales decline was attributable predominantly to this lost distribution and to price discounting. The majority of the remaining sales decline was due to higher provisions for customer returns and allowances.

International Adjusted Sales, which represented 22% of Adjusted Sales for 1998, decreased approximately 24% compared with the International Adjusted Sales for the same period a year ago. Sunbeam believes this sales decline was primarily attributable to decreasing customer inventory levels as compared with the prior year. Sales were also adversely impacted by a decision to stop selling to some export distributors in Latin America and by poor economic conditions in that region. In addition, lost distribution in Canada contributed to the sales decline from the prior year.

Excluding the effects of:

- o the gross margin generated from the inclusion of the acquired companies' operations in the period of $205.1 million;
- o $0.8 million from the impact of the change in fiscal year-end;
- o $128.4 million in 1998 in charges recorded in the second and fourth quarters related to excess inventory and fixed assets impairments;
- o $15.8 million from the benefit in 1997 from the reversal of reserves no longer required, including $5.4 million of cooperative advertising accruals; and
- o a $2.8 million benefit recorded in the second quarter of 1997 resulting from capitalizing some manufacturing supplies inventories which were previously expensed;

there was a negative gross margin of $29.4 million for 1998 versus a gross margin of $223.5 million for 1997. This reduction in gross margin was principally attributable to the following:

- o approximately $145 million related to lower sales volume and unfavorable manufacturing efficiencies resulting from lower production levels associated with the lower sales volumes and high inventory levels in 1998;
- o approximately $65 million related to lower price realization, higher costs of customer returns and allowances, and adverse sales mix in 1998;
- o approximately $12 million related to higher costs in 1998 associated with warranty, of which $3.0 million related to a blanket recall, with the remaining increase attributable to increased provisions in response to higher overall warranty expense experiences; and
- o approximately $20 million related to unfavorable inventory adjustments, of which the most significant single factor was physical inventory adjustments in the domestic business.

Adverse product sales mix was due to the loss of a majority of the grill accessory products distribution as accessories generate significantly better margins than the average margins on sales of most of Sunbeam's other products.

022275

Excluding the effects of the following, SG&A expenses were approximately $254 million in 1998, approximately $105 million, or 70% higher than in 1997:

- o $329.9 million of SG&A charges in the acquired companies, including the $62.5 million goodwill write-off related to First Alert;
- o $70.0 million recorded in the third quarter of 1998 related to the issuance of a warrant to a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes, as discussed below;

- o $2.3 million of SG&A expense in 1998 from the change in the fiscal period;
- o a $3.0 million benefit in 1998 and a $12.1 million benefit in 1997 from the reversal of reserves no longer required. The 1998 benefit consists of a $3.0 million reversal in the first quarter of 1998 of environmental reserves which are no longer required as a result of a favorable development at a remediation site. The 1997 benefit consists primarily of a $8.1 million reversal of litigation reserves, established in 1996, which were no longer required in the fourth quarter of 1997 due to a favorable settlement during 1997. The remaining $4.0 million 1997 benefit consists of reversals of other accruals primarily relating to consulting fees, health insurance and advertising. For further information see Note 17 to the Consolidated Financial Statements;
- o approximately $31 million of 1998 compensation expense recorded in connection with new February 1998 employment agreements with Sunbeam's former Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other former senior officers and approximately $3 million of severance in 1998 for some former employees. The new employment agreements provided for Sunbeam to pay these former employees amounts which reimbursed them for their personal tax liabilities resulting from shares issued in connection with the accelerated vesting of restricted stock granted under their July 1996 agreements ($6.9 million), as well as on the new unrestricted stock grants under the February 1998 agreements ($9.8 million). The charge also includes the value, at approximately $39 per share, of 300,000 restricted shares and 45,000 restricted shares which vested in February 1998 for Sunbeam's then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other then senior officers, respectively ($13.6 million). In addition, $0.4 million was expensed during 1998 relating to the amortization of the 1996 restricted stock awards. See Note 8 to Sunbeam's Consolidated Financial Statements for information regarding the terms of these employment agreements;
- o $20.4 million, $6.1 million and $4.0 million of costs recorded in 1998 related to costs associated with the restatement efforts, principally representing legal, accounting and auditing, and consulting costs of $14.1 million, $5.7 million and $0.6 million, respectively, Year 2000 compliance efforts and a corporate office relocation, respectively; and
- o $15.8 million of restructuring related charges recorded in 1997, charged to operations as incurred, represent employee relocation and recruiting ($6.2 million), equipment relocation and installation ($5.6 million) and package redesign costs ($4.0 million).

The increase of approximately $105 million in SG&A expense in 1998 over 1997 is principally due to several factors:

- o Corporate administrative costs increased by approximately $47 million, reflecting additional personnel and related relocation, travel and other costs, as well as increased outside provider fees, telecommunications expense and insurance.
- o Higher allowances for accounts receivable in 1998, accounting for approximately $20 million of the increase, related primarily to collection issues with customers in the United States and in Latin America, including several major customers who have filed and/or threatened bankruptcy.
- o Advertising, marketing and selling expenses increased by approximately $13 million, reflecting a national television campaign for grills and increased activity in market research, package design and sales efforts. Higher inventory levels in 1998 and costs associated with outsourcing small parts fulfillment led to higher distribution and warehousing costs of approximately $12 million.
- o Increased environmental reserves for divested and closed facilities added approximately $5 million. Approximately half of the environmental reserve increase reflected revisions to estimates of costs to remediate existing sites. These revisions were based on obtaining additional information in the fourth quarter of 1998 about costs of planned remediation actions and costs associated with additional remediation actions. The remaining amount was to provide for revisions to reserves for estimated losses for damages related to environmental sites. These revisions were based on obtaining additional information in the fourth quarter of 1998 regarding the level of damages sought and the costs and probability of defending Sunbeam's position in these actions.

- o Settlement of a patent infringement action resulted in additional expense of approximately $4 million. Remaining legal expenses recorded in the year of approximately $1 million for investigation, defense and settlement of both new and previously existing issues were nearly equal to amounts incurred for similar items in 1997. Additionally, as described above, SG&A includes $14.1 million of legal costs recorded in 1998 associated with the restatement efforts. Amounts accrued for litigation matters represent the anticipated costs (damages and/or settlement amounts) in connection with pending litigation and claims and related anticipated legal fees. The costs are accrued when it is both probable that an asset has been impaired or a liability has been incurred and the amount can be reasonably estimated. The accruals are based upon Sunbeam's assessment, after consultation with counsel, of probable loss based on the facts and circumstances of each case, the legal issues involved, the nature of the claim made, the nature of the damages sought and any relevant information about the plaintiff, and other significant factors which vary by case. When it is not possible to estimate a specific expected amount of loss to be incurred, Sunbeam evaluates the range of possible losses and records the minimum end of the range. As of December 31, 1998 and December 28, 1997, Sunbeam had established accruals for litigation matters of $31.2 million (representing $17.5 million and $13.7 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively) and $9.9 million (representing $3.0 million and $6.9 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively), respectively. It is anticipated that the $31.2 million accrual will be paid as follows: $22.4 million in 1999, $7.5 million in 2000 and $1.3 million in 2001. Sunbeam believes, based on information known to it on December 31, 1998, that anticipated probable costs of litigation matters existing as of December 31, 1998 have been adequately reserved to the extent determinable.

During 1997, Sunbeam determined that the amounts accrued at December 29, 1996 for Restructuring and Asset Impairment Charges recorded in fiscal 1996 exceeded amounts ultimately required. Accordingly, the 1997 Consolidated Statement of Operations reflects the reversal of accruals no longer required, resulting in a Restructuring and Asset Impairment Benefit of $14.6 million. This reversal was reflected in the third ($5.8 million) and fourth ($8.8 million) quarters of 1997 when it became evident that such accruals were no longer required.

On August 12, 1998, Sunbeam announced that, following investigation and negotiation conducted by a special committee of the board of directors consisting of four outside directors not affiliated with MacAndrews & Forbes, Sunbeam had entered into a settlement agreement with a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes, pursuant to which Sunbeam was released from certain threatened claims of MacAndrews & Forbes and its affiliates arising from the Coleman acquisition and MacAndrews & Forbes agreed to provide certain management personnel and assistance to Sunbeam in exchange for the issuance to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase up to 23 million shares of Sunbeam's common stock at a cash exercise price of $7.00 per share, subject to antidilution adjustments. Sunbeam concluded that the agreement to issue this warrant did not result in a new measurement date for the purposes of determining the purchase price for Coleman and has accounted for the issuance of this warrant as a cost of settling a potential claim. Accordingly, a $70.0 million non-cash SG&A expense was recorded in the third quarter of 1998, based on a valuation performed as of August 1998 using facts existing at that time. The valuation was conducted by an independent consultant engaged by the special committee of the board of directors.

Operating results for 1998 and 1997, on an adjusted basis as described above, were a loss of approximately $283 million in 1998 and a profit of approximately $74 million in 1997. This change resulted from the factors discussed above.

Interest expense increased from $11.4 million for the twelve months of 1997 to $131.1 million for the same period in 1998. Approximately 70% of the change related to higher borrowing levels in 1998 for the acquisitions, with the remainder due to increased borrowings to fund working capital, capital expenditures and the operating losses.

Other income, net increased in 1998 by $4.8 million due to approximately $8 million from the settlement of a lawsuit, and approximately $4 million of increased net gains from foreign exchange in the period. The foreign exchange net gains were primarily from Mexico. Increased losses on sales of fixed assets of approximately $5 million and increased expenses related to the bank credit facility partially offset the above mentioned income. The increased credit facility expenses largely related to unused facility fees.

The minority interest reported in 1998 relates to the minority interest held in Coleman by minority stockholders.

During 1998, the current tax provision arose largely from taxes on the earnings of foreign subsidiaries as well as franchise taxes. Deferred tax benefits were recognized in 1998 principally due to net operating losses incurred subsequent to the acquisitions. These benefits were realized through the use of deferred tax credits that were established in connection with the acquisitions to the extent that such credits are expected to be realized in the loss carryforward period. Throughout 1998, Sunbeam increased the income tax valuation allowance on deferred tax assets to $290.5 million. This increase reflects management's assessment that it is more likely than not that these deferred tax assets will not be realized through future taxable income. This assessment, which was initially made in the fourth quarter of 1997, resulted from the significant leverage undertaken by Sunbeam in connection with its acquisitions and the continuing decline in Sunbeam's net sales and earnings, as well as the operating losses incurred throughout the 1998 year. The 1997 effective tax rate was higher than the federal statutory income tax rate primarily due to state taxes, the effects of foreign earnings and dividends taxed at other rates and the impact of providing a valuation allowance on deferred tax assets.

In 1998, Sunbeam prepaid debt assumed in the acquisitions and prepaid an industrial revenue bond related to its Hattiesburg facility. The debt assumed in connection with the Coleman acquisition was repaid as a result of the requirements under the terms of Sunbeam's new credit facility. In connection with these early extinguishments of debt, Sunbeam recognized an extraordinary charge of $122.4 million, consisting of redemption premiums ($106.9 million), unamortized debt discount ($13.8 million) and unamortized deferred financing costs ($1.7 million).

Sunbeam's discontinued furniture business, which was sold in March 1997, had revenues of $51.6 million in the first quarter of 1997 prior to the sale and nominal earnings for that period. As a result of the sale of Sunbeam's furniture business assets (primarily inventory, property, plant and equipment), Sunbeam received $69.0 million in cash, retained approximately $50 million in accounts receivable and retained some liabilities. The final purchase price for the furniture business was subject to a post-closing adjustment based on the terms of the sale agreement and in the first quarter of 1997, after completion of the sale, Sunbeam recorded an additional loss on disposal of $14.0 million net of applicable income tax benefits of $8.5 million.

1996 Restructuring Plan and Other Charges and Benefits

In November 1996, Sunbeam announced the details of a restructuring plan. The plan included:

- o the consolidation of administrative functions;
- o the reduction of manufacturing and warehouse facilities;
- o the centralization of Sunbeam's procurement function;
- o the reduction of Sunbeam's product offerings and SKUs; and
- o the elimination of some businesses and product lines.

As part of the restructuring plan, Sunbeam consolidated six divisional and regional headquarters functions into a single worldwide corporate headquarters and outsourced some back office activities resulting in a reduction in total back-office/administrative headcount. Overall, the restructuring plan called for a reduction in the number of production facilities from 26 to 8 and the elimination of over 6,000 positions from Sunbeam's workforce, including 3,300 from the disposition of some business operations and the elimination of approximately 2,800 other positions, some of which were outsourced. Sunbeam completed the major phases of the restructuring plan by July 1997.

The 1996 restructuring plan was unable to improve earnings over the long term for a number of reasons, including, but not limited to, its failure to realize some of the anticipated costs savings and the negative impact that implementation of the restructuring plan had on sales, product quality, customer service, research and development and the introduction of new products. Sunbeam's current strategy is to create innovative new products that anticipate consumer needs, develop effective marketing and advertising programs, build relationships, create the right culture and choose the right people.

In conjunction with the implementation of the restructuring plan, Sunbeam recorded a pre-tax charge of $239.2 million in the fourth quarter of 1996. This amount is recorded as follows in the Consolidated Statements of Operations:

- o $110.1 million recorded in Restructuring and Asset Impairment Charges, as further described below;
- o $60.8 million in Cost of Goods Sold related principally to inventory write-downs to net realizable value as a result of a reduction in SKUs and costs of inventory liquidation programs;
- o $10.1 million in SG&A expense, for period costs, which were charged to operations as incurred, principally relating to employee relocation and recruiting, equipment relocation and installation ($3.2 million), transitional fees relating to outsourcing arrangements ($4.9 million) and package redesign costs ($2.0 million); and
- o $58.2 million ($39.1 million net of taxes) in Loss on Sale of Discontinued Operations related to the divestiture of its furniture business.

In 1997, upon completion of the sale of the furniture business, Sunbeam recorded an additional pre-tax loss of $22.5 million from discontinued operations ($14.0 million net of taxes) due primarily to lower than anticipated sales proceeds relating to the post closing adjustment that was part of the sale agreement.

Amounts included in Restructuring and Asset Impairment Charges in 1996 in the accompanying Consolidated Statements of Operations included anticipated cash charges such as severance and other employee costs of $24.7 million, lease obligations of $12.6 million and other exit costs associated with facility closures and related to the implementation of the restructuring plan of $4.1 million, principally representing costs related to clean-up and restoration of owned and leased facilities for either sale or return to the landlord.

Included in Restructuring and Asset Impairment Charges of $110.1 million in 1996 was $68.7 million of non-cash charges principally consisting of:

- o asset write-downs to net realizable value of $22.5 million for disposals of excess facilities and equipment and product lines;
- o write-offs of redundant computer systems of $12.3 million from the administrative back-office consolidations and outsourcing initiatives;
- o write-off of intangibles of $10.1 million relating to discontinued product lines;
- o write-off of capitalized product and package design costs and other expenses of $9.0 million related to exited product lines and SKU reductions. Prior to 1996, Sunbeam had capitalized certain costs related to international product development and package design, which were amortized over the period of related benefit. The product development costs ($1.9 million) related to international operations and represented the costs necessary to modify products for introduction to the international markets. As the restructuring plan included the closure of the International Group office and elimination of a number of products to which these costs pertained, the related capitalized costs were written off. Additionally, in connection with the restructuring plan, as a result of the elimination of many products and SKUs, Sunbeam updated its package designs. Accordingly, the unamortized balance of the capitalized package design costs which had been capitalized prior to 1996 ($5.0 million) was written off. Sunbeam discontinued incurring costs of a significant nature relating to these items and consequently has discontinued capitalizing such costs subsequent to 1995; and

- o asset write-downs of $14.8 million related to the divestiture of some non-core products and businesses.

The asset write-downs of $22.5 million and write-offs of $12.3 million discussed above included equipment taken out of service in 1996 (either abandoned in 1996 or sold in 1997) and, accordingly, depreciation was not recorded subsequent to the date of the impairment charge. The asset write-downs of $14.8 million related to the divestiture of non-core products and businesses resulted from divesting the time and temperature business in March 1997 and Counselor and Borg scale product lines in May 1997 and the sale of the textile mill in Biddeford, Maine in May 1997. These charges primarily represented the estimated non-cash losses resulting from the sale or abandonment of facilities and equipment, based on the estimated net proceeds from the sale of these assets compared to their recorded net book value, related to exiting these product lines.

The $24.7 million for severance and other employee costs, including COBRA and other fringe benefits, related to approximately 3,700 positions that were planned to be eliminated as a result of the restructuring plan, excluding approximately 2,400 employees terminated from the furniture business for which severance was included in Loss on Sale of Discontinued Operations. See Note 13 to Sunbeam's Consolidated Financial Statements. The furniture business was sold in 1997. In 1996 and 1997, approximately 1,200 employees and 1,800 employees, respectively, were terminated from continuing operations. Due largely to attrition, the remaining planned terminations were not required. In 1997, Sunbeam determined that its severance and employee benefit costs were less than originally accrued principally due to lower than expected COBRA and workers compensation costs and, accordingly, reversed accruals of $7.9 million in the third ($2.1 million) and fourth ($5.8 million) quarters. At December 31, 1997, the balance accrued of $1.2 million represented the remaining severance and employee benefit costs for some employees terminated during 1997. During 1998, all amounts were expended.

The amounts accrued at December 29, 1996 for Restructuring and Asset Impairment Charges recorded in fiscal 1996, exceeded amounts ultimately required principally due to reductions in anticipated severance and employee benefit costs of $7.9 million, as discussed above, and reductions in estimated lease payments of $6.7 million ($3.7 million and $3.0 million recognized in the third and fourth quarters, respectively) resulting from better than anticipated rentals received under sub-leases and favorable negotiation of lease terminations. Accordingly, the fiscal 1997 Consolidated Statement of Operations included $14.6 million of benefit ($5.8 million in the third quarter and $8.8 million in the fourth quarter of 1997) related to the reversal of accruals no longer required, which were recorded as these reduced obligations became known.

In 1996, in conjunction with the initiation of the restructuring plan, Sunbeam recorded additional charges totaling $129.1 million, reflected in Cost of Goods Sold, SG&A expense, and Loss on Sale of Discontinued Operations. The charge included in Cost of Goods Sold of $60.8 million principally represented inventory write-downs to net realizable value and anticipated losses on the disposition of the inventory as a result of the significant reduction in SKUs provided for in the restructuring plan. The write-down to net realizable value, based upon management's best estimates, included $26.9 million related to raw materials, work-in process and finished goods for discontinued outdoor cooking products, principally grills and grill accessories and the balance related to raw materials, work-in process and finished goods for other discontinued products including appliances ($27.8 million), clippers ($1.0 million) and blankets ($5.1 million). For inventory which management determined was saleable, the estimated write-down was based upon the difference between the expected net sales proceeds of the inventory, depending upon distribution channel, and the recorded value of the inventory. In the case of abandoned inventory, the write-down was equal to the recorded value of the inventory. The resulting difference between carrying value and estimated net realizable value represented the $60.8 million write-down necessary to record the inventory at its net realizable value. SG&A expense included period costs, charged to operations as incurred, in 1997 and 1996 of $15.8 million and $10.1 million, respectively, relating to employee relocation and recruiting and equipment installation and relocation ($11.8 million in 1997 and $3.2 million in 1996) transitional fees relating to outsourcing arrangements ($4.9 million in 1996), and package redesign costs ($4.0 million in 1997 and $2.0 million in 1996) expended as a result of the implementation of the restructuring plan. The 1996 Loss on Sale of Discontinued Operations related to the divestiture of Sunbeam's furniture business. In 1996, Sunbeam decided to divest its furniture operations and recorded an estimated pre-tax loss of $58.2 million related to the sale of assets, primarily fixed assets and inventory. In 1997, Sunbeam recorded an additional pre-tax loss of $22.5 million due primarily to lower than anticipated sales proceeds resulting from the post closing adjustment as provided for in the sale agreement. See Notes 12 and 13 to Sunbeam's Consolidated Financial Statements.

At December 28, 1997, Sunbeam had $5.2 million in liabilities accrued related to the 1996 restructuring plan, including $1.2 million of severance related costs and $4.0 million related to facility closures, which principally represented future lease payments, net of sub-leases, on exited facilities. During 1998, this liability was reduced by $4.0 million as a result of cash expenditures. At December 28, 1997, Sunbeam had $3.0 million of warranty liabilities related to the discontinued furniture operations. During 1998, $2.5 million of this liability was liquidated.

The charges and benefit described above are included in the following categories in the 1997 and 1996 Consolidated Statements of Operations (in millions):

At December 29, 1996, the net realizable value of the remaining inventory written-down as part of the restructuring and asset impairment charges was approximately $37.3 million. During 1997, this inventory, a portion of which was product of discontinued operations, was sold for amounts substantially equivalent to its net carrying value.

As further discussed in Note 15 to the Consolidated Financial Statements, during the fourth quarter of 1996, Sunbeam charged SG&A for increases of $9.0 million in environmental reserves and $12.0 million in litigation reserves. In the fourth quarter of 1996, Sunbeam performed a comprehensive review of all environmental exposures in an attempt by the then new senior management team to accelerate the resolution and settlement of environmental claims. As a result, upon the conclusion of the review, Sunbeam recorded additional environmental reserves of $9.0 million in the fourth quarter of 1996. The litigation charge of $12.0 million was recorded due to an unfavorable court ruling in January 1997, which held that Sunbeam was liable for environmental remediation costs related to the operations of a successor company. As a result of this ruling, Sunbeam provided for this liability in the fourth quarter of 1996. In the fourth quarter of 1997, this case was settled and, as a result, $8.1 million of the charge was reversed into income, primarily in the fourth quarter of 1997.

As described in Note 8 to the Consolidated Financial Statements, Sunbeam also charged $7.7 million to SG&A expenses in 1996 for compensation costs associated with restricted stock awards and other costs related to the employment of the then new senior management team.

During the first, second, third and fourth quarters of 1997, approximately $0.5 million, $4.5 million, $1.5 million and $21.5 million, respectively, of pre-tax liabilities provided in prior years and determined to be no longer required were reversed and taken into income. These amounts were primarily related to:

- o the litigation reserve of $8.1 million discussed above, resulting in a reduction in SG&A expenses;
- o inventory valuation allowances of $7.0 million, resulting in a reduction in Costs of Goods Sold;
- o cooperative advertising allowances of $5.4 million, resulting in an increase in net sales;
- o liabilities for exiting of facilities and plant consolidations provided for prior to 1996 of $3.5 million, resulting in a decrease in Cost of Goods Sold; and
- o consulting fee accruals of $1.3 million, which resulted in a decrease in SG&A expenses.

These liabilities were provided for by Sunbeam, principally in 1996, based upon its best available estimate at the time of the probable liabilities. When information became available that the amounts provided were in excess of what was required, Sunbeam reduced the applicable reserves and recorded increases in Net Sales of $5.4 million, reductions in Cost of Goods Sold of $10.5 million and reductions in SG&A expenses of $12.1 million.

Additionally, effective in the second quarter of fiscal 1997, Sunbeam changed its method of accounting to capitalize manufacturing supplies inventories, whereas, previously these inventories were charged to operations when purchased. This change reduced Cost of Goods Sold in fiscal 1997 by $2.8 million.

Results of Operations for 1997 Compared to 1996

Net sales for 1997 were $1,073.1 million, an increase of $88.9 million or 9% over 1996. After excluding the following, Adjusted Sales increased 8% over the prior year to $1,032.2 million from $953.4 million in 1996:

- o $4.2 million and $30.8 million in 1997 and 1996, respectively, related to divested product lines which were not classified as discontinued operations (time and temperature products, decorative bedding and Counselor and Borg branded scales);
- o $31.3 million of sales in 1997 of discontinued inventory which resulted primarily from the reduction of SKUs as part of the 1996 restructuring plan and for which the inventory carrying value was substantially equivalent to the sales value; and
- o a $5.4 million benefit from the reduction of cooperative advertising accruals no longer required in 1997.

Adjusted Sales, on a worldwide basis, increased during 1997 primarily from new product introductions, expanded distribution, particularly with Sunbeam's top ten customers, international geographic expansion and increased inventory positions at some customers. Adjusted Sales growth was approximately 19% for appliances and approximately 12% in outdoor cooking. Adjusted Sales for health products increased approximately 5% while Adjusted Sales of personal care products and blankets decreased approximately 13% during 1997.

022284

Sales increases in appliances of approximately $69 million were driven by new products, such as redesigned blenders and mixers, coffeemakers, irons, deep fryers and toasters, and by increased distribution with large national mass retailers, combined with higher inventory levels at some customers. Sales of outdoor cooking products increased approximately $30 million in 1997 attributed to increased merchandising and advertising programs, new distribution and higher inventory levels at some customers. During 1997, Sunbeam lost a significant portion of its outdoor cooking products distribution, including the majority of its grill accessory products distribution. Accessories, which accounted for just over 10% of the outdoor cooking sales volume in 1997; generate significantly better margins than the average margins on sales of grills. These distribution changes are expected to adversely impact outdoor cooking sales and margins in the future, until such time as the distribution is regained.

Sales of personal care products and blankets suffered during the fourth quarter of 1997 as a result of lower than expected retail sell through of electric blankets in key northern markets in late 1997 coupled with the inability to service demand for king and queen sized blankets due to shortages of blanket shells. Sunbeam shifted to a more level production for blankets in 1998 in order to more adequately service the seasonal demand for bedding products. Sales of health products as well as personal care and bedding products were impacted by increased inventory positions at customers in 1997.

International sales, which represented 21% of total revenues in 1997, grew 25% during the year. This sales growth was driven primarily by 54 new 220 volt product introductions and a general improvement in demand in export operations and in Mexico. Net sales growth of approximately 35% was achieved in the Latin American export sales organization. Most of this growth came from increased business with three exporters. In Mexico and Venezuela, sales grew 30% and 24%, respectively. Canada accounted for the majority of the remaining international sales growth.

Excluding the effects of:

- o charges of $60.8 million to Cost of Goods Sold related to the restructuring plan in 1996;
- o the $15.9 million benefit of reducing reserves no longer required in 1997; and
- o the $2.8 million benefit in 1997 of capitalizing manufacturing supplies inventories;

gross margin as a percent of Adjusted Sales would have been approximately 22% in 1997, an improvement of approximately 6 percentage points from 16% in 1996. This increase reflects the results of lower overhead spending, improved factory utilization and labor cost benefits resulting from Sunbeam's restructuring plan, coupled with reductions in materials costs. The lower overhead spending resulted from a reduction in the number of facilities operated by Sunbeam. With fewer facilities used for production purposes, the capacity of the remaining plants was more fully utilized. The labor cost benefits were realized principally from shifting production to Mexico. In addition, a broad based program to obtain lower costs for materials contributed to the 1997 margin improvement.

Excluding the impact of:

- o the restructuring and asset impairment period costs to SG&A expense of $15.8 million in 1997 and $10.1 million in 1996;

022285

- o the 1996 charges for the environmental accrual of $9.0 million, litigation accrual of $12.0 million and restricted stock grant compensation of $7.7 million; and
- o the 1997 benefit from the reversal of reserves no longer required of $12.1 million;

SG&A improved to 14% of Adjusted Sales in 1997, down 5 percentage points from 19% in 1996. This improvement was partially the result of benefits from the consolidation of six divisional and regional headquarters into one corporate headquarters and one administrative operations center, reduced staffing levels, a reduction in the number of warehouses, and Company-wide cost control initiatives. Higher expenditures in 1996 for market research, new packaging and other discretionary charges and higher bad debt expenses associated with some of Sunbeam's customers also contributed to the decrease in SG&A expense from 1996 to 1997. The expense for doubtful accounts and cash discounts was $17.3 million in 1997 as compared to $27.1 million in 1996. The principal factor in the decrease in bad debt expenses during this period was the acceleration of the consolidation of the U.S. retail industry and the related competitive environment, which resulted in a number of troubled retailers and related bankruptcies during 1996. This resulted in the significant amount of bad debt write-offs--$19.9 million--in 1996.

The restructuring accrual, which existed at January 1, 1996 ($13.8 million), was initially established as part of a "rightsizing program" during fiscal 1992. During 1996, approximately $3 million of this accrual was utilized and the remaining $10.8 million became part of the reserve requirements of the 1996 restructuring plan. In effect, in 1996, Sunbeam reversed the $10.8 million prior year accrual determined to be no longer required and provided a corresponding amount in connection with the 1996 restructuring charge.

Operating results for 1997 and 1996, on a comparable basis as described above, were earnings of $74.5 million in 1997 and a loss of $34.8 million in 1996. On the same basis, operating margin increased 11 percentage points to 7% of Adjusted Sales in 1997 versus a loss of 4% in 1996. This improvement resulted from the factors discussed above.

Interest expense decreased from $13.6 million in 1996 to $11.4 million in 1997 primarily as a result of lower average borrowing levels in 1997.

The 1997 effective income tax rate for continuing operations was higher than the federal statutory income tax rate primarily due to state taxes plus the effect of foreign earnings and dividends taxed at other rates and the increase to the valuation reserve for deferred tax assets, offset in part by the reversal of tax liabilities no longer required. During the fourth quarter of 1997, approximately $13.3 million of tax liabilities related to the 1993 and 1994 tax years were determined to be no longer required and were reversed and taken into income. These accruals were no longer required because during the fourth quarter of 1997 Sunbeam reached a resolution with the Internal Revenue Service on its audits of the 1993 and 1994 tax years. Additionally, in the fourth quarter of 1997, Sunbeam increased the valuation allowance by $23.2 million reflecting management's assessment that it was more likely than not that the deferred tax asset will not be realized through future taxable income. Of this amount, $18.9 million related to deferred tax assets, the majority of which was recognized as a benefit in the first three quarters of 1997. The remainder related to minimum pension liabilities and was therefore recorded as an adjustment to shareholders' equity. This assessment was made as a result of the significant leverage incurred by Sunbeam to finance the acquisitions and the significant decline in net sales and earnings from anticipated levels during the fourth quarter of 1997 and the first quarter of 1998. For 1996, the effective income tax rate for continuing operations equaled the federal statutory income tax rate.

Sunbeam's diluted earnings per share from continuing operations was $0.60 per share in 1997 versus a loss per share from continuing operations in 1996 of $2.05. Sunbeam's share base utilized in the diluted earnings per share calculation increased approximately 6% during 1997 as a result of an increase in the number of shares of common stock outstanding due to the exercise of stock options in 1997 and the inclusion of common stock equivalents in the 1997 calculation.

Sunbeam's discontinued furniture business, which was sold in March 1997, had revenues of $51.6 million in the first quarter of 1997 prior to the sale and nominal earnings. In 1996, the discontinued furniture business had net income of $0.8 million on revenues of $227.5 million and an estimated loss on disposal of the business of $39.1 million, net of applicable income tax benefits. The sale of Sunbeam's furniture business assets--primarily inventory, property, plant and equipment--was completed in March 1997. Sunbeam received $69.0 million in cash, retained approximately $50.0 million in accounts receivable and retained some liabilities related to the furniture business. The final purchase price for the furniture business was subject to a post-closing adjustment under the terms of the sale agreement, and in the first quarter of 1997, after completion of the sale, Sunbeam recorded an additional pre-tax loss on disposal of $22.5 million. Although the discontinued furniture business was profitable, net income had declined from $21.7 million in 1994 to $0.8 million in 1996. This decline, along with Sunbeam's announcement that it intended to divest this line of business contributed to the loss on the sale. See discussion of restructuring and asset impairment (benefit) charges in Note 12 and discontinued operations in Note 13 to the Consolidated Financial Statements for further information regarding sale of the furniture business.

After consideration of the adjustments above, 1998 and 1996 results from continuing operations reflect losses and 1997 continuing operations are marginally profitable. Due to a variety of factors, including increased inventory positions at some customers and manufacturing and sourcing activities during 1997 and the first half of 1998 which increased Sunbeam's inventory position, the results for each of 1998 and 1997 are not indicative of future results. Results for 1999 are expected to be impacted by the continuing effects of Sunbeam's excess inventory position, as well as costs related to Year 2000 compliance efforts.

FOREIGN OPERATIONS

Approximately 75% of Sunbeam's business is conducted in U.S. dollars, including domestic sales, U.S. dollar denominated export sales, primarily to Latin American markets, Asian sales and the majority of European sales. Sunbeam's non-U.S. dollar denominated sales are made principally by subsidiaries in Europe, Canada, Japan, Latin America and Mexico. Mexico reverted to a hyperinflationary status for accounting purposes in 1997; therefore, translation adjustments related to Mexican net monetary assets are included as a component of net (loss) earnings. Mexico is no longer considered hyperinflationary as of January 1, 1999. This change in Mexico's hyperinflationary status is not expected to have a material effect on Sunbeam's financial results. Translation adjustments resulting from Sunbeam's non-U.S. denominated subsidiaries have not had a material impact on Sunbeam's financial condition, results of operations or cash flows.

While revenues generated in Asia have traditionally not been significant, economic instability in this region is expected to have a negative effect on earnings. Economic instability and the political environment in Latin America have also affected sales in that region. It is anticipated that sales in and exports to these regions will continue to decline so long as the economic environments in those regions remain unsettled.

On a limited basis, Sunbeam selectively uses derivatives--foreign exchange option and forward contracts--to manage foreign exchange exposures that arise in the normal course of business. No derivative contracts are entered into for trading or speculative purposes. The use of derivatives has not had a material impact on Sunbeam's financial results. See Note 4 to the Consolidated Financial Statements.

EXPOSURE TO MARKET RISK

Qualitative Information

Sunbeam uses a variety of derivative financial instruments to manage its foreign currency and interest rate exposures. Sunbeam does not speculate on 022288

- (1) The fair value of fixed rate debt is estimated using either reported transaction values or discounted cash flow analysis. The carrying value of variable rate debt is assumed to approximate market value based on the periodic adjustments of the interest rates to the current market rates in accordance with the terms of the agreements. The fair value of the interest rate swaps is based on estimates of the cost of terminating the swaps.
- (2) The total amount of debentures maturing in future periods exceeds the balance as of December 31, 1998 due to the accretion of the debentures. See Note 3 to Sunbeam's Consolidated Financial Statements.

Exchange Rate Sensitivity. The table below provides information about Sunbeam's derivative financial instruments, other financial instruments and forward exchange agreements by functional currency and presents such information in U.S. dollar equivalents. The table summarizes information on instruments and transactions that are sensitive to foreign currency exchange rates, including foreign currency variable rate credit lines, foreign currency forward exchange agreements and foreign currency purchased put option contracts. For debt obligations, the table presents principal cash flows and related weighted average interest rates by expected maturity dates. For foreign currency forward exchange agreements and foreign currency put option contracts, the table presents the notional amounts and weighted average exchange rates by expected (contractual) maturity dates. These notional amounts generally are used to calculate the contractual payments to be exchanged under the contract. None of the instruments listed in the table have maturity dates beyond 1999.

EURO CONVERSION

On January 1, 1999, certain member countries of the European Union established fixed conversion rates between their existing currencies and the European Union's common currency (the "Euro"). The transition period for the introduction of the Euro is between January 1, 1999 and January 1, 2002. Sunbeam has been preparing for the introduction of the Euro and continues to evaluate and address the many issues involved, including the conversion of information technology systems, recalculating currency risk, strategies concerning continuity of contracts, and impacts on the processes for preparing taxation and accounting records. Based on the work to date, Sunbeam believes the Euro conversion will not have a material impact on its results of operations.

SEASONALITY

Sunbeam's consolidated sales are not expected to exhibit substantial seasonality; however, sales are expected to be strongest during the second quarter of the calendar year. Furthermore, sales of a number of products, including warming blankets, vaporizers, humidifiers, grills, First Alert products, camping and generator products may be impacted by unseasonable weather conditions.

LIQUIDITY AND CAPITAL RESOURCES

Debt Instruments

In order to finance the acquisition of Coleman, First Alert and Signature Brands and to refinance substantially all of the indebtedness of Sunbeam and the three acquired companies, Sunbeam consummated an offering of debentures at a yield to maturity of 5%--approximately $2,014 million principal amount at maturity--in March 1998, which resulted in approximately $730 million of net proceeds and borrowed about $1,325 million under its new bank credit facility.

The debentures are exchangeable for shares of Sunbeam's common stock at an initial conversion rate of 6.575 shares for each $1,000 principal amount at maturity of the debentures, subject to adjustments upon occurrence of specified events. The debentures are subordinated in right of payment to all existing and future senior indebtedness of Sunbeam. The debentures are not redeemable by Sunbeam prior to March 25, 2003. On or after such date, the debentures are redeemable for cash with at least 30 days notice, at the option of Sunbeam. Sunbeam is required to purchase debentures at the option of the holder as of March 25, 2003, March 25, 2008 and March 25, 2013, at purchase prices equal to the issue price plus accrued original discount to such dates. Sunbeam may, at its option, elect to pay any such purchase price in cash or common stock or any combination thereof. However, the bank credit facility prohibits Sunbeam from redeeming or repurchasing debentures for cash. Sunbeam was required to file a registration statement with the SEC to register the debentures by June 23, 1998. This registration statement was filed on February 4, 1999 and, as amended, was declared effective on November 8, 1999. Sunbeam's failure to file the registration statement by June 23, 1998 did not constitute default under the terms of the debentures. From June 23, 1998 until the registration statement was declared effective, Sunbeam was required to pay to the debenture holders cash liquidated damages accruing, for each day during such period, at a rate per annum equal to 0.25% during the first 90 days and 0.50% thereafter multiplied by the total of the issue price of the debentures plus the original issue discount thereon on such day. Sunbeam has made total payments for liquidated damages since June 23, 1998 of $4.5 million, of which $1.5 million related to damages for the period through December 31, 1998. A final payment of approximately $0.5 million, representing liquidated damages from September 26, 1999 until the registration statement was declared effective, will be payable on March 25, 2000.

Concurrent with the acquisitions, Sunbeam replaced its $250 million syndicated unsecured five-year revolving credit facility with the bank credit facility. The bank credit facility provided for aggregate borrowings of up to $1.7 billion and in addition to other customary covenants, required Sunbeam to maintain specified consolidated leverage, interest coverage and fixed charge coverage ratios as of the end of each fiscal quarter occurring after March 31, 1998 and on or prior to the latest stated maturity date for any of the borrowings under the bank credit facility.

As a result of, among other things, its operating losses incurred during the first half of 1998, Sunbeam did not achieve the specified financial ratios for June 30, 1998 and it appeared unlikely that Sunbeam would achieve the specified financial ratios for September 30, 1998. Consequently, Sunbeam and its lenders entered into an agreement dated as of June 30, 1998 that waived through December 31, 1998 all defaults arising from the failure of Sunbeam to satisfy the specified financial ratios for June 30, 1998 and September 30, 1998. Pursuant to an agreement with Sunbeam dated as of October 19, 1998, Sunbeam's lenders extended all of the waivers under the June 30 agreement through April 10, 1999 and also waived through such date all defaults arising from any failure by Sunbeam to satisfy the specified financial ratios for December 31, 1998. As part of the October 19, 1998 agreement, Sunbeam agreed to a minimum monthly earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization ("EBITDA") covenant for each of February, March and April of 1999, which covenant Sunbeam was able to satisfy.

On April 10, 1999, among other things, the lenders extended all of the waivers set forth in the October 19, 1998 agreement through April 15, 1999. On April 15, 1999, Sunbeam and its lenders entered into a comprehensive amendment to the bank credit facility that, among other things, extended all of the waivers under the April 10, 1999 agreement until April 10, 2000 and waived until such date all defaults arising from any failure by Sunbeam to satisfy the specified financial ratios for any fiscal quarter end occurring during 1999 and for March 31, 2000. As part of the April 15, 1999 amendment, Sunbeam agreed to a minimum cumulative EBITDA covenant that is based on post-December 31, 1998 consolidated EBITDA and is tested at the end of each month occurring on or prior to March 31, 2000, as well as a covenant limiting the amount of revolving loans (other than those used to fund the merger) that may be outstanding under the bank credit facility as of the end of each such month. The minimum cumulative EBITDA was initially $6.3 million for the period January 1, 1999 through April 30, 1999 and generally grows on a monthly basis until it reaches $121 million for the period from January 1, 1999 through March 31, 2000. The following description of the bank credit facility reflects the terms of the bank credit facility as amended to date.

The bank credit facility provides for aggregate borrowings of up to $1.7 billion through:

- o a revolving credit facility in an aggregate principal amount of up to $400.0 million maturing March 30, 2005, $52.5 million of which may be used only to complete the merger;
- o up to $800.0 million in term loans maturing on March 30, 2005, of which $35.0 million may be used only to complete the merger; and
- o a $500.0 million term loan maturing September 30, 2006 (of which $5.0 million has already been repaid through June 30, 1999).

As of September 30, 1999, approximately $1.5 billion was outstanding and approximately $0.2 billion was available for borrowing under the bank credit facility.

Under the bank credit facility, interest accrues, at Sunbeam's option:

o at LIBOR; or

o at the base rate of the administrative agent which is generally the higher of the prime commercial lending rate of the administrative agent or the Federal Funds Rate plus 0.50%;

in each case plus an interest margin which is currently 4.00% for LIBOR borrowings and 2.50% for base rate borrowings. The current interest rates reflect an increase of 0.25% for LIBOR loans and base rate loans which occurred on September 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date and an increase of 0.50% for LIBOR and 0.25% for base rate loans which occurred on October 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date. The applicable interest margin is subject to downward adjustment upon the occurrence of specified events, including a decrease to 3.00% for LIBOR borrowings and 1.75% for base rate borrowings upon completion of the merger and the effectiveness of the pledge of substantially all of Coleman's and its domestic subsidiaries' assets to secure the obligations under the bank credit facility.

Under an April 15, 1999 amendment to the bank credit facility, Sunbeam agreed to pay the bank lenders a loan commitment fee of between 0.25% to 1.00% of the commitments under the bank credit facility as of April 15, 1999. The percentage used to calculate the fee will be determined by reference to the bank lenders' aggregate commitments and loan exposure under the bank credit facility as they may be reduced on or before September 30, 2000. The fee is payable on the earlier of September 30, 2000 and the date the commitments are terminated and the loans and other amounts payable under the bank credit facility are repaid. See Note 15 to the Consolidated Financial Statements.

Borrowings under the bank credit facility are secured by a pledge of the stock of Sunbeam's material subsidiaries, including Coleman, and by a security interest in substantially all of the assets of Sunbeam and its material domestic subsidiaries, other than Coleman and its material subsidiaries except as described below. Currently, Coleman's inventory and related assets are pledged to secure its obligations for letters of credit issued for its account under the bank credit facility. Additionally, as security for Coleman's note payable to Sunbeam, Coleman pledged substantially all of its domestic assets, other than real property, including 66% of the stock of its direct foreign subsidiaries and domestic holding companies for its foreign subsidiaries and all of the stock of its other direct domestic subsidiaries but not the assets of Coleman's subsidiaries. The pledge runs in favor of Sunbeam's lending banks, to which the Coleman note has been pledged as security for Sunbeam's obligations to them. Upon completion of the merger, substantially all of Coleman's assets and the assets of Coleman's domestic subsidiaries will be pledged to secure the obligations under the bank credit facility.

In addition, borrowings under the bank credit facility are guaranteed by a number of Sunbeam's wholly owned material domestic subsidiaries and these subsidiary guarantees are secured as described above. Upon completion of the merger, Coleman and each of its United States subsidiaries will become guarantors of the obligations under the bank credit facility. To the extent extensions of credit are made to any subsidiaries of Sunbeam, the obligations of such subsidiaries are guaranteed by Sunbeam.

In addition to the above described financial ratios and tests, the bank credit facility contains covenants customary for credit facilities of a similar nature, including limitations on the ability of Sunbeam and its subsidiaries, including Coleman, to, among other things:

- o declare dividends or repurchase stock;
- o prepay, redeem or repurchase debt, incur liens and engage in sale-leaseback transactions;
- o make loans and investments;
- o incur additional debt, including revolving loans under the bank credit facility;
- o amend or otherwise alter material agreements or enter into restrictive agreements;
- o make capital and Year 2000 compliance expenditures;
- o engage in mergers, acquisitions and asset sales;
- o engage in certain transactions with affiliates;
- o settle certain litigation;
- o alter its cash management system; and
- o alter the businesses they conduct.

Sunbeam is also required to comply with specified financial covenants and ratios.

The bank credit facility provides for events of default customary for transactions of this type, including nonpayment, misrepresentation, breach of covenant, cross-defaults, bankruptcy, material adverse change arising from compliance with ERISA, material adverse judgments, entering into guarantees and change of ownership and control. It is also an event of default under the bank credit facility, as amended November 16, 1999, if Sunbeam's registration statement in connection with the merger is not declared effective by the SEC on or before January 10, 2000 or if the merger does not occur within 25 business days of the effectiveness of the registration statement or if the cash consideration--including any payments on account of the exercise of any appraisal rights, but excluding related legal, accounting and other customary fees and expenses--to consummate the merger exceeds $87.5 million. Although there can be no assurance, Sunbeam anticipates that it will satisfy these conditions. Furthermore, the bank credit facility requires Sunbeam to prepay term loans under the bank credit facility on December 31, 1999 to the extent that cash on hand in Sunbeam's concentration accounts plus the aggregate amount of unused revolving loan commitments on this date exceeds $125 million, but Sunbeam is not required to prepay more than $69.3 million in the aggregate as a result of the provision.

Unless waived by the bank lenders, the failure of Sunbeam to satisfy any of the financial ratios and tests contained in the bank credit facility or the occurrence of any other event of default under the bank credit facility would entitle the bank lenders to (a) receive a 2.00% increase in the interest rate applicable to outstanding loans and increase the trade letter of credit fees to 1.00% and (b) accelerate the maturity of the outstanding borrowings under the bank credit facility and exercise all or any of their other rights and remedies. Any such acceleration or other exercise of rights and remedies would likely have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam.

The bank credit facility also includes provisions for the deferral of the September 30, 1999 and March 31, 2000 scheduled term loan payments of $69.3 million due on each such date until April 10, 2000 as a result of the satisfaction by Sunbeam on May 14, 1999 of the agreed upon conditions to the deferral. See Note 3 to the Consolidated and Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements.

Cash Flows

As of September 30, 1999, Sunbeam had cash and cash equivalents of $29.1 million and total debt of $2.3 billion. Because the waivers granted by Sunbeam's lenders expire on April 10, 2000, the borrowings under the bank credit facility, as well as other debt containing cross-default provisions, are classified as current in the September 30, 1999 Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet. Cash used in operating activities during the first nine months of 1999 was $73.2 million compared to $224.7 million in the first nine months of 1998. This change is primarily attributable to improved operating results after giving effect to non-cash items, partially offset by increased working capital needs during the 1999 period. The increase in cash used for working capital during the 1999 period was primarily driven by accounts receivable, which increased $159.4 million as compared to the 1998 period, primarily attributable to Sunbeam's Outdoor Leisure division which experienced stronger second and third quarters sales in 1999 than in 1998. Additionally, working capital for the 1998 period was positively affected by the timing of Sunbeam's acquisition of Coleman, which was at the peak of its inventory build for the 1998 selling season. Cash used for this acquired inventory is not reflected in working capital for the 1998 period. As a result of the effect of Company's management of inventory levels in 1999, cash flow improved approximately $81 million as compared to 1998 despite the favorable impact of the inventory acquired in connection with the 1998 acquisitions. Increases in accounts payable of approximately $30 million in the first nine months of 1999 positively impacted cash flow whereas payables used approximately $76 million of cash in the same period of 1998, resulting in an improvement in cash flow period-to-period of approximately $106 million. The increase in payables in the current period resulted from payable balances having been reduced to a low level by year-end 1998. This reduction in payables, which included an effort to reduce delinquent payables, began in the second quarter of 1998. Decreases in other liabilities, primarily accrued interest, account for the majority of the balance of the cash used for working capital in 1999. Sunbeam participates in an accounts receivable securitization program to finance a portion of its accounts receivable. See Note 4 to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements.

In the first nine months of 1999, cash used in investing activities was driven by capital expenditures of $63.2 million, primarily for information systems, including expenditures for Year 2000 readiness and equipment and tooling for new products. Capital spending in the comparable 1998 period was $32.8 million and was primarily for several manufacturing efficiency initiatives, equipment and tooling for new products and management information systems and software licenses. The new product capital spending in the 1998 period principally related to the appliance category and included costs related to water and air filtration products which were discontinued in the second quarter, blenders, standmixers and irons. Cash used in investing activities in the first nine months of 1998 also reflects $379.2 million for the acquisitions of the shares of Coleman from a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes, as well as the acquisitions of Signature Brands and First Alert. Sunbeam anticipates 1999 capital spending to be less than 5% of net sales. Capital expenditures in the current year are expected to primarily relate to information systems and related support, including expenditures for Year 2000 readiness, new product introductions and capacity additions.

Cash provided by financing activities totaled $99.2 million in the first nine months of 1999 and reflected net borrowings under Sunbeam's bank credit facility. Cash provided by financing activities in the first nine months of 1998 was $636.1 million and reflected net proceeds from the debentures of $729.6 million, the cancellation and repayment of all outstanding balances under Sunbeam's $250 million September 1996 revolving credit facility, the repayment of certain debt assumed in connection with the Coleman, Signature Brands and First Alert acquisitions, and the early extinguishment of the $75.0 million Hattiesburg industrial revenue bond. In addition, cash provided by financing activities in 1998 is net of $26.2 million of financing fees related to Sunbeam's $1.7 billion bank credit facility and $19.6 million of proceeds from the exercise of stock options. See Note 3 to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements.

As of December 31, 1998, Sunbeam had cash and cash equivalents of $61.4 million, working capital excluding cash and cash equivalents of $427.1 million and total debt of $2,261 million. Cash used in operating activities during 1998 was $190.4 million compared to $6.0 million used in operating activities in 1997. This change is primarily attributable to lower earnings after giving effect to non-cash charges partially offset by improvements in working capital. During 1998, $184.2 million in cash was generated by reducing receivables, including through the revolving trade accounts receivable securitization program described below, and reducing inventories, which was partially offset by a $68.2 million reduction in accounts payable levels. In the fourth quarter of 1998, cash provided by operating activities totaled $34.3 million, principally due to cash generated by reducing receivables and inventories of $181.9 million. The decrease in cash provided by operations from 1996 to 1997 is primarily attributable to increased inventory levels in 1997 and spending in 1997 related to the restructuring initiatives accrued for in 1996, largely offset by an increase in cash generated by earnings in 1997 and an income tax refund (net of payments) in 1997. Cash used in operating activities reflects proceeds of $200.0 million in 1998 and $58.9 million in 1997 from Sunbeam's revolving trade accounts receivable securitization program, described below.

Cash used in investing activities in 1998 reflects $522.4 million for the acquisitions. In 1997, cash provided by investing activities reflected $91.0 million in proceeds from the sales of divested operations and other assets. Capital spending totaled $53.7 million in 1998 and was primarily for manufacturing efficiency initiatives, equipment and tooling for new products, and management information systems hardware and software licenses. The new product capital spending principally related to the air and water filtration products which were discontinued in the second quarter of 1998, electric blankets, grills, clippers and appliances. Capital spending in 1997 was $60.5 million and was primarily attributable to manufacturing capacity expansion, cost reduction initiatives and equipment to manufacture new products. The new product capital spending in 1997 principally related to appliances and included costs related to blenders, toasters, stand mixers, slow cookers and a soft serve ice cream product. Capital spending in 1996 was $75.3 million, including $14.5 million related to the discontinued furniture business, and was primarily attributable to equipment for new product development and cost reduction initiatives. As discussed above, Sunbeam's capital and Year 2000 compliance expenditures are limited under the terms of the bank credit facility.

Cash provided by financing activities totaled $766.2 million in 1998 and reflects:

- o the net proceeds from the sale of debentures of $729.6 million;
- o the cancellation and repayment of all outstanding balances under Sunbeam's $250 million September 1996 revolving credit facility;
- o the repayment of debt in connection with the acquisitions;
- o the early extinguishment of the $75.0 million Hattiesburg industrial revenue bond; and
- o net borrowings under the bank credit facility.

In addition, cash provided by financing activities during 1998 includes $19.6 million of proceeds from the exercise of stock options.

During 1997, cash provided by financing activities of $16.4 million reflected:

- o net borrowings of $5.0 million under Sunbeam's September 1996 revolving credit facility;
- o $12.2 million of debt repayments related to the divested furniture business and other assets sold; and

- o $26.6 million in cash proceeds from the exercise of stock options.

During 1996, cash provided by financing activities of $45.3 million primarily reflected:

- o revolving credit facility borrowings of $30.0 million to support working capital and capital spending requirements;
- o $11.5 million in new issuances of long-term debt; and
- o $4.6 million in proceeds from the sale of treasury shares to certain executives of Sunbeam.

In December 1997, Sunbeam entered into a revolving trade accounts receivable securitization program, which as amended expires in March 2000, to sell without recourse, through a wholly owned subsidiary, up to a maximum of $70 million in trade accounts receivable. Sunbeam, as agent for the purchaser of the receivables, retains collection and administrative responsibilities for the purchased receivables. For the nine months ended September 30, 1999 and for the year ended December 31, 1998, Sunbeam sold approximately $228.4 million and $200 million of accounts receivable, respectively, under this program. At September 30, 1999 and December 31, 1998, Sunbeam had reduced accounts receivable by $36.9 million and $20.0 million, respectively, for receivables sold under this program. Sunbeam expects to continue to utilize the securitization program to finance a portion of its accounts receivable. See Note 4 to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements and Note 5 to the Consolidated Financial Statements.

At September 30, 1999, standby and commercial letters of credit aggregated $68.9 million and were predominantly for insurance, pension, environmental, workers' compensation, and international trade activities. In addition, as of September 30, 1999, surety bonds with a contract value of $67.5 million were outstanding largely for Sunbeam's pension plans and as a result of litigation judgments that are currently under appeal.

For additional information relating to the debentures, the bank credit facility and the repayment of debt, see Note 3 to the Consolidated and Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements.

Sunbeam expects to acquire the remaining equity interest in Coleman in a merger transaction in which the existing Coleman minority stockholders will receive 0.5677 share of Sunbeam's common stock and $6.44 in cash for each share of Coleman common stock outstanding. In addition, under a court-approved litigation settlement, Coleman minority stockholders (other than those who exercise and perfect their Delaware law appraisal rights) will receive for each share of Coleman common stock 0.381 of a warrant, entitling them to purchase one Sunbeam share at a cash price of $7 per share until August 24, 2003 (assuming no further increases in the number of outstanding shares of Coleman common stock). Furthermore, unexercised options under Coleman's stock option plans will be cashed out at a price per share equal to $27.50 minus the per share exercise price of such options. Sunbeam expects to issue approximately 6.7 million shares of common stock and expend approximately $87 million in cash, including cash paid to option holders, to complete the Coleman transaction. See Note 2 to the Unaudited Condensed Consolidated and Consolidated Financial Statements. Also, see Note 15 to the Consolidated Financial Statements. Although there can be no assurance, it is anticipated that the merger will occur late in the fourth quarter of 1999 or early in the first quarter of 2000.

Sunbeam believes its borrowing capacity under the bank credit facility, cash flow from the combined operations of Sunbeam and its acquired companies, existing cash and cash equivalent balances, and its receivable securitization program will be sufficient to support working capital needs, capital expenditure and Year 2000 compliance spending, and debt service through April 10, 2000. Sunbeam intends to negotiate with its lenders on an amendment to the bank credit facility, negotiate with its lenders on further waiver of such covenants and other terms or refinance the bank credit facility. Any decisions with respect to such amendment, waiver, or refinancing will be made based on a review from time to time of the advisability of particular transactions. There can be no assurance that an amendment, further waiver of existing covenants and other terms, or refinancing will be entered into by April 10, 2000. The failure to obtain such an amendment, further waiver or debt refinancing would likely result in violation of existing covenants and non-compliance with other terms, which would permit the bank lenders to accelerate the maturity of all outstanding borrowings under the bank credit facility, and could otherwise have a material adverse effect on

Sunbeam. Accordingly, debt related to the bank credit facility and all debt containing cross-default provisions is classified as current in the Unaudited Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet at September 30, 1999.

In May 1998, the NYSE advised Sunbeam that it did not meet the NYSE's continuing listing standards because Sunbeam did not have tangible net assets of $12.0 million at December 31, 1997 and average annual net income of at least $0.6 million for fiscal years 1997, 1996 and 1995. Sunbeam representatives met with NYSE officials, and in March 1999, the NYSE informed Sunbeam that Sunbeam common stock would not be delisted at that time, although the NYSE would, however, continue to monitor Sunbeam's financial condition and operations. On August 5, 1999, the NYSE advised Sunbeam that the NYSE had revised its continuing listing standards, and that Sunbeam is in compliance with the revised standards.

In April 1999, the NYSE advised Coleman that it did not meet the NYSE's continuing listing standards because Coleman did not have tangible net assets of at least $12.0 million at September 30, 1998 and average annual net income of at least $0.6 million for fiscal years 1997, 1996 and 1995. At that time, Coleman requested the NYSE to continue to list the Coleman common stock until completion of the merger. The NYSE subsequently advised Coleman that Coleman also failed to satisfy certain non-financial continuing listing standards. On August 5, 1999, the NYSE advised Coleman that the NYSE had revised its continuing listing standards, and that Coleman is in compliance with the revised financial standards. Coleman and the NYSE have agreed upon a program whereby Coleman will correct the deficiencies in its non-financial continuing listing standards by the end of 1999. Coleman is currently complying with such program. If Coleman were to be delisted from the NYSE, it could adversely affect the market price of Coleman's common stock and Coleman's ability to sell its capital stock to third parties. However, Sunbeam's bank credit facility currently restricts Coleman from taking such actions.

By letter dated June 17, 1998, the staff of the Division of Enforcement of the SEC advised Sunbeam that it was conducting an informal inquiry into Sunbeam's accounting policies and procedures and requested that Sunbeam produce documents. On July 2, 1998, the SEC issued a Formal Order of Private Investigation, designating officers to take testimony and pursuant to which a subpoena was served on Sunbeam requiring the production of documents. On November 4, 1998, Sunbeam received another SEC subpoena requiring the production of additional documents. Sunbeam has provided numerous documents to the SEC staff and continues to cooperate with the SEC staff. Sunbeam has, however, declined to provide the SEC with material that Sunbeam believes is subject to the attorney-client privilege and the work product immunity. Sunbeam cannot predict the term of such investigation or its potential outcome.

Sunbeam is involved in significant litigation, including class and derivative actions, relating to events which led to the restatement of its consolidated financial statements, the issuance of the MacAndrews & Forbes warrant, the sale of the debentures and the employment agreements, of Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh. Sunbeam intends to vigorously defend each of the actions, but cannot predict the outcome and is not currently able to evaluate the likelihood of Sunbeam's success in each case or the range of potential loss. However, if Sunbeam were to lose these suits, judgments would likely have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's financial position, results of operations and cash flows. Additionally, Sunbeam's insurance carriers have filed various suits requesting a declaratory judgment that the directors' and officers' liability insurance policies for excess coverage was invalid and/or had been properly canceled by the carriers or have advised Sunbeam of their intent to deny coverage under such policies. Sunbeam intends to pursue recovery from all of its insurers if damages are awarded against Sunbeam or its indemnified officers and/or directors under any of the foregoing actions and to recover attorneys' fees covered under those policies. Sunbeam's failure to obtain such insurance recoveries following an adverse judgment against Sunbeam on any of the foregoing actions could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

Amounts accrued for litigation matters represent the anticipated costs (damages and/or settlement amounts) in connection with pending litigation and claims and related anticipated legal fees. The costs are accrued when it is both probable that an asset has been impaired or a liability has been incurred and the amount can be reasonably estimated. The accruals are based upon Sunbeam's assessment, after consultation with counsel, of probable loss based on the facts and circumstances of each case, the legal issues involved, the nature of the claim made, the nature of the damages sought and any relevant information about the plaintiffs, and other significant factors which vary by case. When it is not possible to estimate a specific expected cost to be incurred, Sunbeam evaluates the range of probable loss and records the minimum end of the range. As of September 30, 1999, Sunbeam had established accruals for litigation matters of $22.6 million (representing $11.3 million and $11.3 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively). As of December 31, 1998, Sunbeam had established accruals for litigation matters of $31.2 million (representing $17.5 million and $13.7 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively) and $9.9 million as of December 28, 1997, (representing $3.0 million and $6.9 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively). It is anticipated that the $22.6 million accrual will be paid as follows: $5.2 million in 1999, $14.9 million in 2000, and $2.5 million in 2001. Sunbeam believes, based on information known to Sunbeam on September 30, 1999, that anticipated probable costs of litigation matters existing as of September 30, 1999 have been adequately reserved to the extent determinable.

As a consumer goods manufacturer and distributor, Sunbeam faces the constant risks of product liability and related lawsuits involving claims for substantial money damages, product recall actions and higher than anticipated rates of warranty returns or other returns of goods. These claims could result in liabilities that could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's financial position, results of operations and cash flows. Some of the product lines Sunbeam acquired in the 1998 acquisitions have increased its exposure to product liability and related claims.

Sunbeam and its subsidiaries are also involved in various lawsuits from time to time that Sunbeam considers to be ordinary routine litigation incidental to its business. In the opinion of Sunbeam, the resolution of these routine matters, and of matters relating to prior operations, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect on the financial position, results of operations or cash flows of Sunbeam.

For additional information relating to litigation, see "BUSINESS OF SUNBEAM--Litigation and Other Contingent Liabilities."

NEW ACCOUNTING STANDARDS

In March 1998, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants ("AICPA") issued Statement of Position 98-1, Accounting for the Costs of Computer Software Developed or Obtained for Internal Use ("SOP 98-1"). SOP 98-1 requires computer software costs associated with internal use software to be expensed as incurred until certain capitalization criteria are met. Sunbeam adopted SOP 98-1 effective January 1, 1999. Adoption of this statement did not have a material impact on Sunbeam's consolidated financial position, results of operations, or cash flows. Actual charges incurred due to systems projects may be material.

In April 1998, the AICPA issued Statement of Position 98-5, Reporting on the Cost of Start-up Activities ("SOP 98-5"). SOP 98-5 requires all costs associated with pre-opening, pre-operating and organization activities to be expensed as incurred. Sunbeam adopted SOP 98-5 beginning January 1, 1999. Adoption of this statement did not have a material impact on Sunbeam's consolidated financial position, results of operations, or cash flows.

In June 1998, the FASB issued SFAS No. 133, Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities, which is effective for fiscal years beginning after June 15, 2000. SFAS No. 133 requires the recognition of all derivatives in the Consolidated Balance Sheets as either assets or liabilities measured at fair value. Sunbeam has not yet determined the impact SFAS No. 133 will have on its consolidated financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

YEAR 2000 READINESS DISCLOSURE

Sunbeam is preparing for the impact of the Year 2000 on its operations. Year 2000 issues could include potential problems in the information technology ("IT") and non-IT systems that Sunbeam uses in its operations and problems in

022300

Sunbeam's products. Year 2000 system failures could affect routine but critical operations such as forecasting, purchasing, production, order processing, inventory control, shipping, billing and collection. In addition, system failures could affect Sunbeam's security, payroll operations, or employee safety. Sunbeam may also be exposed to potential risks from third parties with whom Sunbeam interacts who fail to adequately address their own Year 2000 issues.

113

Sunbeam's Approach to Year 2000 Issues

While Sunbeam's Year 2000 readiness planning has been underway for over one year, during the third quarter of 1998 Sunbeam established a cross-functional project team consisting of senior managers, assisted by three external consulting firms which were retained to provide consulting services and to assist Sunbeam in implementing its Year 2000 strategy. This team is headed by Sunbeam's Chief Financial Officer who reports directly to Sunbeam's Chief Executive Officer on this issue. The audit committee of the board of directors is advised periodically on the status of Sunbeam's Year 2000 readiness program.

The Year 2000 project team has developed a phased approach to identify and resolve Year 2000 issues with many of these activities conducted in parallel. Sunbeam's approach and the anticipated timing of each phase are described below.

Phase 1--Inventory and Assessment. During the first phase of Sunbeam's Year 2000 readiness program, Sunbeam established a Year 2000 program management office to centralize the management of all of Sunbeam's Year 2000 projects. Through this office, Sunbeam developed a corporate-wide, uniform strategy for assessing and addressing the Year 2000 issues.

Sunbeam has completed an inventory of its hardware and software systems, manufacturing equipment, electronic data interchange, telecommunications and other technical assets potentially subject to Year 2000 problems, such as security systems and controls for lighting, air conditioning, ventilation and facility access. This inventory was then entered into Sunbeam's Year 2000 database along with a determination of the item's level of criticality to operations. For those inventory items anticipated to have a significant effect on the business if not corrected, Sunbeam's Year 2000 program envisions repair or replacement and testing of such items. All information relative to each item is being tracked in Sunbeam's Year 2000 database. Sunbeam completed most of this phase during the third and fourth quarters of 1998. Sunbeam has completed a review of the readiness of embedded microprocessors in its products and determined that none of Sunbeam's products have Year 2000 date sensitive systems.

Phase 2--Correction and Testing. The second phase of Sunbeam's Year 2000 readiness program is structured to replace, upgrade or remediate, as necessary, those items identified during Phase 1 as requiring corrective action.

Sunbeam relies on its IT functions to perform many tasks that are critical to its operations. Significant transactions that could be impacted by not being ready for any Year 2000 issues include, among others:

- o purchases of materials;
- o production management;
- o order entry and fulfillment;
- o payroll processing; and 022301

- o billing and collections.

Systems and applications that have been identified by Sunbeam to date as not currently Year 2000 ready and which are critical to Sunbeam's operations include:

- o financial software systems, which process:
 - o order entry;
 - o purchasing;
 - o production management;
 - o general ledger;
 - o accounts receivable; and 114

<PAGE>

- o accounts payable functions;
- o payroll applications; and
- o critical applications in Sunbeam's manufacturing and distribution facilities, such as warehouse management applications.

Recognizing how dependent the entire company is on IT, Sunbeam decided in 1997 to replace its primary business applications with a uniform international business and accounting information system to address the systems or applications listed above as well as to improve internal reporting processes. Based upon representations from the manufacturer that the current version of this uniform information system is Year 2000 ready, Sunbeam upgraded its business sites that currently utilize this uniform system to the Year 2000 ready version. In addition to the pre-acquisition Sunbeam locations which had already utilized an earlier non-Year 2000 ready version of this uniform business and accounting information system, Eastpak, Mr. Coffee, Health-o-Meter, and Sunbeam Latin America replaced their current non-Year 2000 ready systems with this new uniform system. In addition, Coleman Europe also has replaced key business components with this new system.

Sunbeam is also actively replacing and/or upgrading a number of business systems that are not Year 2000 ready, including those that use localized business system packages which were not candidates to be replaced by the uniform business and accounting information system. For example, at Coleman approximately 2,000 mainframe software programs that are used in lieu of Sunbeam's uniform business and accounting information system have been remediated and tested to be Year 2000 ready. With respect to Sunbeam's non-IT systems, including time and attendance, security, and in-line manufacturing hardware, Sunbeam has analyzed these items to assess any Year 2000 issues, and is testing and correcting such items, if necessary.

Phase 3--Customers, Suppliers and Business Partners. The third phase of Sunbeam's Year 2000 readiness program which was initiated during the third and fourth quarters of 1998 is designed to assess and interact with Sunbeam's customers, suppliers, and business partners. As part of this effort, Sunbeam surveyed 1,100 vendors and suppliers, a portion of which did not provide an initial response. During the first half of 1999, "high risk" vendors were contacted directly and the number of non-respondents has since decreased substantially. In fact, currently only 7% of Sunbeam's vendors who were surveyed are categorized as "high risk," which includes non-respondents. Based on the most recent responses to the survey and continued evaluation, Sunbeam believes that there is only a low to a medium risk of Year 2000 issues for the remaining vendors. Sunbeam will continue to monitor the Year 2000 progress of the "high risk" vendors and has resurveyed these companies to determine the appropriate course of action. Furthermore, Sunbeam has contacted alternate vendors who are Year 2000 ready to replace critical vendors deemed "high risk" in the event that these vendors are not found to be Year 2000 ready. Sunbeam is in the process of completing a verification of the Year 2000 survey responses for the most critical vendors to Sunbeam.

Sunbeam has responded to numerous customer inquiries about Sunbeam's Year 2000 readiness. Sunbeam has verified that all of Sunbeam's major customers have planned programs to deal with Year 2000 issues and is currently completing the process of contacting its major customers to confirm they are implementing their planned programs to address Year 2000 issues. In order to improve Sunbeam's communication with its customers, suppliers and business partners, Sunbeam has set up a Sunbeam Year 2000 telephone number and is providing Year 2000 information on a Company web site.

Phase 4--Contingency Planning. This phase involves contingency planning for unresolved Year 2000 issues, particularly any issues arising with third party suppliers. Sunbeam has designed and documented its Year 2000 contingency plan and is in the process of implementing it. The development of the contingency plan included a process whereby Sunbeam's critical IT and non-IT systems were evaluated for Year 2000 readiness. As a result of this evaluation, Sunbeam does not expect to require additional operational equipment or significant process contingency measures. Although Sunbeam does not currently believe there is significant risk associated with its third party suppliers, the contingency plan includes the continuing evaluation of the readiness of Sunbeam's suppliers and minor increases in Sunbeam's inventory requirements to protect against supply disruption.

The Risks of Sunbeam's Year 2000 Approach

The independent consultants assisting Sunbeam in its Year 2000 readiness program have reviewed and concurred with Sunbeam's approach, have assisted in developing cost estimates and have monitored costs for the largest single component (upgrade or installation of Sunbeam's uniform system) of Sunbeam's Year 2000 program. Since Sunbeam's Year 2000 program was developed and is monitored with the help of independent consultants, Sunbeam did not engage another independent third party to verify the program's overall approach or total cost; based on this, Sunbeam believes that Sunbeam's exposure in this regard is mitigated. In addition, through the use of external third-party diagnostic software packages that are designed to analyze the Year 2000 readiness of business software programs, Sunbeam was able to identify potential Year 2000 issues at Coleman. Given this, Sunbeam believes that it has also mitigated its risk by validating and verifying key program components.

Management believes that, although there are significant systems that are being modified or replaced, including the uniform business and accounting information system, Sunbeam's information systems environment will be made Year 2000 ready prior to January 1, 2000. Sunbeam's failure to timely complete such corrective work could have a material adverse impact on Sunbeam.

With respect to customers, suppliers and business partners, the failure of some of these third parties to become Year 2000 ready could also have a material adverse impact on Sunbeam. For example, the failure of some of Sunbeam's principal suppliers to have Year 2000 ready internal systems could impact Sunbeam's ability to manufacture and/or ship its products or to maintain adequate inventory levels for production.

At this time, Sunbeam believes that the most likely "worst-case" scenario relating to Year 2000 involves potential disruptions in areas in which Sunbeam's operations must rely on third parties, such as suppliers, whose systems may not work properly after January 1, 2000. While such system failures could either directly or indirectly affect important operations of Sunbeam and its subsidiaries in a significant manner, Sunbeam cannot at present estimate either the likelihood or the potential cost of such failures. Subject to the nature of the goods or services provided to Sunbeam by third parties whose operations are not made ready for Year 2000 issues, the impact on Sunbeam's operations could be material. However, Sunbeam believes that it has mitigated such risks through the development and implementation of the contingency plans discussed above.

The nature and focus of Sunbeam's efforts to address the Year 2000 problem may be revised periodically as interim goals are achieved or new issues are identified. In addition, it is important to note that the description of Sunbeam's efforts and assessments necessarily involves estimates and projections with respect to activities required in the future. These estimates and projections are subject to change as work continues, and such changes may be substantial.

The Costs to Address Sunbeam's Year 2000 Issues

Through the first nine months of 1999, including costs incurred in 1998, Sunbeam had expended approximately $60 million to address Year 2000 issues of which approximately 50% was recorded as capital expenditures and the remainder as SG&A expense. Sunbeam's current assessment of the total costs to address and remedy Year 2000 issues and enhance its operating systems, including costs for the acquired companies, is approximately $64 million.

This estimate includes the following categories:

o uniform international business and accounting system	$44 million
o localized business system software upgrades and remediation	$9 million
o Year 2000 readiness assessment and tracking	$6 million
o upgrade of personal computers and related software	$5 million

The amount to be incurred for Year 2000 issues during 1999 of approximately $44 million represents over 50% of Sunbeam's total 1999 budget for information systems and related support, including Year 2000 costs. A large majority of these costs are expected to be incremental expenditures that will not recur in the

Year 2000 or thereafter. Fees and expenses related to third party consultants, who are involved in the program management office as well as the modification and replacement of software, represent approximately 75% of the total estimated cost. The balance of the total estimated cost relates primarily to software license fees and new hardware, but excludes the costs associated with company employees. Sunbeam expects these expenditures to be financed through operating cash flows or borrowings, as applicable. A significant portion of these expenditures will enhance Sunbeam's operating systems in addition to resolving the Year 2000 issues. As Sunbeam completes its assessment of the Year 2000 issues, the actual expenditures incurred or to be incurred may differ materially from the amounts shown above. The bank credit facility does not permit Sunbeam to spend more than $50 million on Year 2000 testing and remediation during 1999.

Because Year 2000 readiness is critical to the business, Sunbeam has redeployed some resources from non-critical system enhancements to address Year 2000 issues. In addition, due to the importance of IT systems to Sunbeam's business, management has deferred non-critical systems enhancements as much as possible. Sunbeam does not expect these redeployments and deferrals to have a material impact on Sunbeam's financial condition, results of operations or cash flows.

16div-028208

EFFECTS OF INFLATION

For each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 1998, and in the nine-month period ended September 30, 1999, Sunbeam's cost of raw materials and other product remained relatively stable. To the extent possible, Sunbeam's objective is to offset the impact of inflation through productivity enhancements, cost reductions and price increases.

117

CHANGES IN AND DISAGREEMENTS WITH ACCOUNTANTS ON ACCOUNTING AND FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE

On November 20, 1998, the audit committee recommended and Sunbeam's board approved the appointment of Deloitte & Touche as its independent auditors for 1998, to replace Arthur Andersen, Sunbeam's former auditor. Arthur Andersen is continuing to provide certain professional services to Sunbeam.

On June 25, 1998, Sunbeam announced that Arthur Andersen would not consent to the inclusion of its opinion on Sunbeam's 1997 financial statements in a registration statement Sunbeam was planning to file with the SEC. On June 30, 1998, Sunbeam announced that the audit committee of its board of directors would conduct a review of Sunbeam's prior financial statements and that, therefore, those financial statements should not be relied upon. Sunbeam also announced that Deloitte & Touche had been retained to assist the audit committee and Arthur Andersen in their review of Sunbeam's prior financial statements. On August 6, 1998, Sunbeam announced that the audit committee had determined that Sunbeam would be required to restate its financial statements for 1997, the first quarter of 1998 and possibly 1996, and that the adjustments, while not then quantified, would be material. On October 20, 1998 Sunbeam announced the restatement of its financial results for a six-quarter period from the fourth quarter of 1996 through the first quarter of 1998. On November 12, 1998, Sunbeam filed a Form 10-K/A for the year ended December 28, 1997, which contains an unqualified opinion by Arthur Andersen on Sunbeam's restated consolidated financial statements as of December 29, 1996 and December 28, 1997 and for each of the three years in the period ended December 28, 1997.

Arthur Andersen's report on Sunbeam's financial statements for the two fiscal years of Sunbeam ended December 28, 1997 contained no adverse opinion or disclaimer of opinion and was not qualified or modified as to uncertainty, audit scope or accounting principles. In connection with its audits for those periods and through November 20, 1998, there were no disagreements with Arthur Andersen on any matter of accounting principles or practices, financial statement disclosure, or auditing scope or procedure, which disagreements if not resolved to the satisfaction of Arthur Andersen would have caused Arthur Andersen to make reference thereto in their report on the financial statements for such years. Sunbeam has not consulted with Deloitte & Touche on any matter that was either the subject of a disagreement or a reportable event between Sunbeam and Arthur Andersen.

In connection with the restatements referred to above, in a letter dated October 16, 1998, Arthur Andersen advised Sunbeam that there existed the following conditions that Arthur Andersen believed to be material weaknesses in Sunbeam's internal controls:

"In our opinion, [Sunbeam's] design and effectiveness of its internal control were inadequate to detect material misstatements in the preparation of [Sunbeam's] 1997 annual (before audit) and quarterly financial statements."

As part of its audit of Sunbeam's 1997 consolidated financial statements that led to the restatement of these financial statements, Arthur Andersen was required to consider Sunbeam's internal controls in determining the scope of its audit procedures. Arthur Andersen has advised management of its concerns regarding Sunbeam's internal controls. Management is addressing these concerns and although Sunbeam has not yet fully implemented all additional planned controls, management believes that the interim measures Sunbeam has adopted to prevent material misstatements in its financial statements will be effective until the remainder of the additional controls can be implemented.

International

Sunbeam markets a variety of products outside the United States. While Sunbeam sells many of the same products domestically and internationally, it also sells products designed specifically to appeal to foreign markets. Sunbeam, through its foreign subsidiaries, has manufacturing facilities in France, Indonesia, Italy, Mexico, and Venezuela, and sales administration offices, warehouse and distribution facilities in Canada, Europe, the Mideast, Asia and Latin America. Sunbeam also sells its products directly to international customers in certain other markets through Sunbeam sales managers, independent distributors and commissioned sales representatives. The products sold by the international group are sourced from Sunbeam's manufacturing operations or from vendors primarily located in Asia. International sales accounted for approximately 23%, 21% and 19% of Sunbeam's consolidated net sales in 1998, 1997 and 1996, respectively. Sunbeam's international operations are managed through the following geographic areas:

Europe. Sunbeam's European operations are managed from Lyon, France and the sales are dominated by the product lines acquired by Sunbeam as part of the Coleman acquisition, including the Campingaz product lines and Eastpak products.

022310

Sunbeam's European office also manages the sale and distribution of Sunbeam products throughout Africa and the Middle East.

Japan. Sunbeam's sales in Japan are almost exclusively sales of camping equipment such as tents, stoves, lanterns, sleeping bags and accessories.

Latin America. The activities of Sunbeam outside the United States were primarily focused in Mexico and Latin America prior to the 1998 acquisition of Coleman. Sunbeam enjoys a strong market position in a number of product lines in Latin America. The Oster brand has the leading market share in small appliances in a number of Latin American countries. Sunbeam's sales in Latin America are derived primarily from household appliances, particularly the Oster blender and the recently introduced Oster arepa maker.

Canada. Sunbeam sells substantially all of its products in Canada through a distribution sales office located in Toronto.

East Asia. During 1998, Sunbeam's sales in East Asia were hampered by the economic downturn particularly in South Korea where Sunbeam had developed a strong market for Eastpak bags, and in Indonesia where Sunbeam sells Campingaz products. Sunbeam has established a sales office in Australia, from which it sells primarily clippers and appliances, and distributes First Alert products in Australia and New Zealand. Sales offices have also been established in Manila and Hong Kong.

Sunbeam has sales and facilities in countries where economic growth has slowed, primarily Japan, Korea and Latin America. The economies of other foreign countries important to Sunbeam's operations could also suffer instability in the future. The following are among the factors that could negatively affect Sunbeam's operations in foreign markets: (1) access to markets; (2) currency devaluation; (3) new tariffs; (4) changes in monetary and/or tax policies; (5) inflation; and (6) governmental instability. See "MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS--Foreign Operations."

CORPORATE

Retail. Sunbeam sells many of its products through its retail outlet stores which are operated under the Sunbeam, Oster and Camp Coleman(Registered) names. In addition, Sunbeam currently has 37 retail outlet stores in the United States and Canada which primarily carry discontinued, overstock and refurbished products for retail sale to consumers. Net sales from retail stores were not significant in any of the last three fiscal years.

Licensing. Sunbeam licenses the Sunbeam name and the Coleman name and logo under two types of licensing arrangements: general merchandise licenses and licenses to purchasers of businesses divested by Sunbeam. Sunbeam's general merchandise licensing activities involve licensing the Sunbeam and/or Coleman name and logo, for a royalty fee, to certain companies that manufacture and sell products that complement Sunbeam's product lines. Revenue from licensing activities in 1998 in the amount of $4 million was generated primarily from the license of the Coleman name. In addition, Sunbeam licenses trade names from third parties for use in connection with Sunbeam's products. Revenue from licensing activities was not significant in 1997 and 1996.

COMPETITION

The markets in which Sunbeam operates are generally highly competitive, based primarily on product quality, product innovation, price and customer service and support, although the degree and nature of such competition vary by location and product line. Sunbeam believes that no other company produces and markets the breadth of household appliance, camping and outdoor recreation products marketed by Sunbeam.

Sunbeam competes with various manufacturers and distributors with respect to its household appliances. Primary competitors in the kitchen appliance area have been Black & Decker (which recently sold its appliance division to Windmere), Hamilton Beach/Procter Silex, West Bend, Melita, Salton-Maxim, Cuisinart, Regal, Krups, Kitchen Aid, Braun and Rival. Sunbeam's primary competitor in the consumer scale market is Metro Corporation. Sunbeam's health care products compete with those of numerous small manufacturers and distributors, none of which dominates the home health care market. Sunbeam has limited domestic competition for its electric blankets and heated throws and enjoys a market share in excess of 90% for these products. Sunbeam's primary competitors for retail clippers and trimmers are Wahl and Conair; the primary competitors in the professional products lines are Wahl and Andis. Sunbeam enjoys a leading market share with respect to its smoke and carbon monoxide detectors where Ranco, American Sensor, Nighthawk and Siebe are the primary competitors. Sunbeam competes with Micro General with respect to its Pelouze scales.

Sunbeam's Outdoor Leisure products compete with numerous products sold by other manufacturers. Lanterns and stoves compete with, among others, products offered by Century Primus, American Camper and Dayton Hudson Corporation, while Desa & Schau and Mr. Heater are the primary competitors for heaters. The primary competitors for Sunbeam's portable furniture are a variety of import companies. Sunbeam's insulated cooler and jug products compete with products offered by Rubbermaid Incorporated, Igloo Products Corp. and The Thermos Company. Sunbeam's sleeping bags compete with, among others, American Recreation, Slumberjack, Academy Broadway Corp. and MZH Inc., as well as certain private label manufacturers. In the tent market, Sunbeam competes with, among others, Wenzel, Eureka and Mountain Safety Research, as well as certain private label manufacturers. Sunbeam competes with W.C. Bradley, Meco, Fiesta, Ducane, Weber and Keanall for sales of outdoor grills and accessories. Sunbeam's backpack products compete with, among others, American Camper, JanSport, Nike, Outdoor Products, The North Face, and Kelty, as well as certain private label manufacturers. Sunbeam's competition in the electric light business includes, among others, Eveready and Rayovac Corporation. Sunbeam's camping accessories compete primarily with Coughlan's. Sunbeam's primary competitors in the generator business are Generac Corporation, Honda Motor Co., Ltd., Kawasaki and Yamaha. Primary competitors in the air compressor business include DeVilbiss and Campbell Hausfield. In addition, Sunbeam competes with various other entities in international markets.

CUSTOMERS

Sunbeam markets its products through virtually every category of retailer including mass merchandisers, catalog showrooms, warehouse clubs, department stores, catalogues, Sunbeam-owned outlet stores, television shopping channels, hardware stores, home improvement centers, office products centers, drug and grocery stores, and pet supply retailers, as well as independent distributors and military post exchange outlets. In

1998, Sunbeam sold products to virtually all of the top 100 U.S. retailers, including Wal-Mart/Sam's Club, Kmart, Price Costco, Target Stores and Home Depot. Sunbeam's largest customer, Wal-Mart, accounted for approximately 18%, 20% and 19% of consolidated net sales in 1998, 1997 and 1996, respectively. Sunbeam has the majority of its U.S. customer sales on electronic data interchange (EDI) systems.

022312

16div-028216

The amount of backlog orders at any point in time is not a significant factor in Sunbeam's business.

PATENTS AND TRADEMARKS

Sunbeam believes that an integral part of its strength is its ability to capitalize on the Sunbeam(Registered), Coleman(Registered), Oster(Registered), Eastpak(Registered), Mr. Coffee(Registered), Health-o-Meter(Registered), First Alert(Registered) and Campingaz(Registered), trademarks which are registered in the United States and in numerous foreign countries. Widely recognized throughout North America, Latin America and Europe, these registered trademarks, along with Powermate(Registered), Pelouze(Registered), Peak One(Registered), Osterizer(Registered), Mixmaster(Registered), Toast Logic(Registered), Steammaster(Registered), Oskar(Registered), Grillmaster(Registered) and "Blanket with a Brain(Registered)" brands are important to the success of Sunbeam's products. Other important trademarks within Sunbeam include Oster Designer(Registered), Cuddle-Up(Registered) and A5(Registered). The loss of any single trademark would not have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's business; however, the Sunbeam, Coleman and Mr. Coffee trademarks are integral to certain of Sunbeam's continuing operations and Sunbeam aggressively monitors and protects these and other brands.

Sunbeam holds numerous design and utility patents covering a wide variety of products, the loss of any one of which would not have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's business taken as a whole.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

New products and improvements to existing products are developed based upon the perceived needs and demands of consumers. Research and development expenditures are expensed as incurred. The amounts charged to operations for the nine months ended September 30, 1999 and 1998 and for the fiscal years ended 1998, 1997 and 1996 were $18.8 million, $13.2 million, $18.7 million, $5.7 million and $6.5 million, respectively.

EMPLOYEES

As of September 30, 1999, Sunbeam had approximately 13,700 full-time and part-time employees of which approximately 8,700 are employed domestically. Sunbeam is a party to collective bargaining agreements with its hourly employees located at the Aurora, Illinois, Glenwillow, Ohio and Bridgeview, Illinois plants. Sunbeam's Canadian warehouse employees are represented by a union, as are all of the production employees at Sunbeam's operations in France and Italy. Sunbeam has had no material labor-related work stoppages and, in the opinion of management, relations with its employees are generally good.

SEASONALITY

Sunbeam's consolidated sales are not expected to exhibit substantial seasonality; however, sales are expected to be strongest during the second quarter of the calendar year. Furthermore, sales of a number of products, including warming blankets, vaporizers, humidifiers, grills, First Alert products, camping and generator products, may be impacted by unseasonable weather conditions.

RAW MATERIALS/SUPPLIERS

The raw materials used in the manufacture of Sunbeam's products are available from numerous suppliers in quantities sufficient to meet normal requirements. Sunbeam's primary raw materials include aluminum, steel, plastic resin, copper, electrical components, various textiles or fabrics and corrugated cardboard for cartons. Sunbeam also purchases a substantial number of finished products. Sunbeam is not dependent upon any single supplier for a material amount of such sourced products.

Sunbeam also maintains gas filling plants in Indonesia, the Philippines and the United Kingdom. Sunbeam also leases a total of 172,469 square feet for the operation of its retail outlet stores. Sunbeam management considers Sunbeam's facilities to be suitable for

Sunbeam's operations, and believes that Sunbeam's facilities provide sufficient capacity for its production requirements.

LITIGATION AND OTHER CONTINGENT LIABILITIES

On April 23, 1998, two class action lawsuits were filed on behalf of purchasers of Sunbeam common stock in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against Sunbeam and some of its present and former directors and former officers alleging violations of the federal securities laws as discussed below. After that date, approximately fifteen similar class actions were filed in the same Court. One of the lawsuits also named as defendant Arthur Andersen, Sunbeam's independent accountants for the period covered by the lawsuit.

On June 16, 1998, the court entered an order consolidating all these suits and all similar class actions subsequently filed (collectively, the "Consolidated Federal Actions") and providing time periods for the filing of a consolidated amended complaint and defendants' response thereto. On June 22, 1998, two groups of plaintiffs made motions to be appointed lead plaintiffs and to have their selection of counsel approved as lead counsel. On July 20, 1998, the court entered an order appointing lead plaintiffs and lead counsel. This order also stated that it shall apply to all subsequently filed actions that are consolidated with the other actions. On August 28, 1998, plaintiffs in one of the subsequently filed actions filed an objection to having their action consolidated pursuant to the June 16, 1998 order, arguing that the class period in their action differs from the class periods in the originally filed consolidated actions. On December 9, 1998, the court entered an order overruling plaintiffs' objections and affirming its prior order appointing lead plaintiffs and lead counsel.

On January 6, 1999, plaintiffs filed a consolidated amended class action complaint against Sunbeam, some of its present and former directors and former officers, and Arthur Andersen. The consolidated amended class action complaint alleges that, in violation of section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and SEC Rule 10b-5, defendants made material misrepresentations and omissions regarding Sunbeam's business operations, future prospects and anticipated earnings per share, in an effort to artificially inflate the price of Sunbeam common stock and call options, and that, in violation of section 20(a) of the Exchange Act, the individual defendants exercised influence and control over Sunbeam, causing Sunbeam to make material misrepresentations and omissions. The consolidated amended complaint seeks an unspecified award of money damages. On February 5, 1999, plaintiffs moved for an order certifying a class consisting of all persons and entities who purchased Sunbeam common stock or who purchased call options or sold put options with respect to Sunbeam common stock during the period April 23, 1997 through June 30, 1998, excluding the defendants, their affiliates, and employees of Sunbeam. Defendants' response to the motion for class certification was filed on May 6, 1999. On March 8, 1999, all defendants who had been served with the consolidated amended class action complaint moved to dismiss it. Under the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, all discovery in the consolidated action is stayed pending resolution of the motions to dismiss.

On April 7, 1998, a purported derivative action was filed in the Circuit Court for the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County, Florida against Sunbeam and some of its present and former directors and former officers. The action alleged that the individual defendants breached their fiduciary duties and wasted corporate assets when Sunbeam granted stock options on or about February 2, 1998 at an exercise price of $36.85 to three of its officers and directors who were subsequently terminated by Sunbeam. On June 25, 1998, all defendants filed a motion to dismiss the complaint for failure to make a pre-suit demand on Sunbeam's board of directors. On October 22, 1998, the plaintiff amended the complaint against all but one of the defendants named in the original complaint. On February 19, 1999, plaintiffs filed a second amended derivative complaint nominally on behalf of Sunbeam against some of its present and former directors and former officers and Arthur Andersen. The second amended complaint alleges, among other things, that Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh, Sunbeam's former Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and former Chief Financial Officer, respectively, caused Sunbeam to employ fraudulent accounting procedures in order to enable them to secure new employment contracts, and seeks a declaration that the individual defendants have violated fiduciary duties, an injunction against the payment of compensation to Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh or the imposition of a constructive trust on such payments, and unspecified money damages. The defendants have each moved to dismiss the second amended complaint in whole or in part.

On June 25, 1998, four purported class actions were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County by minority stockholders of Coleman against Coleman, Sunbeam and certain of Sunbeam's and Coleman's present and former officers and directors. An additional class action was filed on August 10, 1998, against the same parties. The complaints in these class actions alleged, in essence, that the existing exchange ratio for the proposed merger is no longer fair to Coleman minority stockholders as a result of the decline in the market value of Sunbeam common stock. On October 21, 1998, Sunbeam announced that it had entered into a memorandum of understanding to settle, subject to court approval, the class actions. The court approved the settlement on November 12, 1999. Under the terms of the settlement, Sunbeam will issue to Coleman minority stockholders and plaintiffs' counsel in this action warrants to purchase up to approximately 4.98 million shares of Sunbeam common stock at $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution adjustments. Coleman minority stockholders who elect an appraisal under Delaware law will not receive warrants. These warrants will generally have the same terms as the warrant issued to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary and will be issued when the merger is consummated, which is now expected to occur during the fourth quarter of 1999 or early in the first quarter of 2000.

During the months of August and October 1998, purported class action and derivative lawsuits were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County and in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida by stockholders of Sunbeam against Sunbeam, MacAndrews & Forbes and some of Sunbeam's present and former directors. These complaints allege that the defendants breached their fiduciary duties when Sunbeam entered into a settlement agreement with the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary that sold Sunbeam a controlling interest in Coleman. In the settlement agreement the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary released Sunbeam from threatened claims arising out of Sunbeam's acquisition of its interest in Coleman, and MacAndrews & Forbes agreed to provide management support to Sunbeam. Under the settlement agreement, the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary was granted a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase up to an additional 23 million shares of Sunbeam's common stock at an exercise price of $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution provisions. The plaintiffs have requested an injunction against the issuance of stock to MacAndrews & Forbes upon the exercise of its warrant and unspecified money damages. These complaints also allege that the rights of the minority stockholders have been compromised, as the settlement would normally require stockholder approval under the rules and regulations of the NYSE. The audit committee of Sunbeam's board of directors determined that obtaining such stockholder approval would have seriously jeopardized the financial viability of Sunbeam which is an allowable exception to the NYSE stockholder approval requirements. By order of the Delaware Court of Chancery dated January 7, 1999, the derivative actions filed in that court were consolidated, and Sunbeam and other defendants have moved to dismiss these actions. The action filed in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida has been dismissed.

On September 16, 1998, an action was filed in the 56th Judicial District Court of Galveston County, Texas alleging various claims in violation of the Texas Securities Act and Texas Business and Commercial Code as well as common law fraud as a result of Sunbeam's alleged misstatements and omissions regarding Sunbeam's financial condition and prospects during a period beginning May 1, 1998 and ending June 16, 1998, in which the U.S. National Bank of Galveston, Kempner Capital Management, Inc. and Legacy Trust Company engaged in transactions in Sunbeam common stock on their own behalf and on behalf of their respective clients. Sunbeam is the only named defendant in this action. The complaint requests recovery of compensatory damages, punitive damages and expenses in an unspecified amount. This action was removed to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas and subsequently transferred to the Southern District of Florida and consolidated with the Consolidated Federal Actions. Plaintiffs in this action have objected to the consolidation and have sought reconsideration by the Southern District of Florida of the order of the Southern District of Texas denying plaintiffs' motion to remand the case to state court and transferring it to Florida. A similar suit was brought by the same group of plaintiffs in the above action against Arthur Andersen. In that action, the plaintiffs allege that Arthur Andersen violated the Texas Securities Act, committed statutory and common law fraud and was negligent in its audits of Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial statements. On September 29, 1999, Arthur Andersen had filed a motion for leave to join Sunbeam and certain of its former officers as responsible third parties and contribution defendants. Their motion was denied.

On October 30, 1998, a class action lawsuit was filed on behalf of certain purchasers of the debentures in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against Sunbeam and some of Sunbeam's former officers and directors, alleging violations of the federal securities laws and common law fraud. The complaint alleges that Sunbeam's offering memorandum used for the marketing of the debentures contained false and misleading information regarding Sunbeam's financial position and that the defendants engaged in a plan to inflate Sunbeam's earnings for the purpose of defrauding the plaintiffs and others. The plaintiffs seek a declaration that defendants violated federal securities laws and either unspecified monetary damages or rescission of their purchase of the debentures. The parties have negotiated a proposed coordination plan in order to coordinate proceedings in this action with those in the Consolidated Federal Actions.

Sunbeam has been named as a defendant in an action filed in the District Court of Tarrant County, Texas, 48th Judicial District, on November 20, 1998. Sunbeam was served in this action through the Secretary of State of Texas on January 15, 1999. The plaintiffs in this action are purchasers of the debentures. The plaintiffs allege that Sunbeam violated the Texas Securities Act and the Texas Business & Commercial Code and committed state common law fraud by materially misstating the financial position of Sunbeam in connection with the offering and sale of the debentures. The complaint seeks rescission, as well as compensatory and exemplary damages in an unspecified amount. Sunbeam specially appeared to assert an objection to the Texas court's exercise of personal jurisdiction over Sunbeam, and a hearing on this objection took place on April 15, 1999. On April 23, 1999, the court entered an order granting Sunbeam's special appearance and dismissing the case without prejudice. The plaintiffs moved for reconsideration of the court order, which motion the court denied on May 24, 1999. The plaintiffs have appealed the order dismissing the case to the Texas Court of Appeals, and the appeal is pending.

On April 12, 1999, a class action lawsuit was filed in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida. The lawsuit was filed on behalf of persons who purchased debentures during the period of March 20, 1998 through June 30, 1998, inclusive, but after the initial offering of such debentures. The complaint asserts that Sunbeam made material omissions and misrepresentations that had the effect of inflating the market price of the debentures. The complaint names as defendants Sunbeam, its former auditor, Arthur Andersen, and two former Sunbeam officers, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh. The plaintiff is an institution which allegedly acquired in excess of $150,000,000 face amount of the debentures and now seeks unspecified money damages. Sunbeam was served on April 16, 1999 in connection with this pending lawsuit. Sunbeam has requested that this action be coordinated with the Consolidated Federal Actions.

On February 9, 1999, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh filed with the American Arbitration Association demands for arbitration of claims under their respective employment agreements with Sunbeam. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh are requesting a finding by the arbitrator that Sunbeam terminated their employment without cause and that they should be awarded certain benefits based upon their respective employment agreements. On March 12, 1999, Sunbeam asked the Circuit Court for the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County, Florida to issue an injunction prohibiting Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh from pursuing their arbitration proceedings against Sunbeam on the grounds, among others, that the simultaneous litigation of the action filed in that court on April 7, 1998, described above, and the arbitration proceedings would subject Sunbeam to the threat of inconsistent adjudications with respect to certain rights to compensation asserted by Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh and would cause irreparable harm to Sunbeam and its stockholders. On March 19, 1999, the plaintiff in the April 7, 1998 action discussed above moved for an injunction on similar grounds. On May 11, 1999, the court denied the motions for a preliminary injunction filed by Sunbeam and the plaintiff. Sunbeam has answered the arbitration demands of Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh and has filed counterclaims seeking, among other things, the return of all consideration paid, or to be paid, under the February 1998 Employment Agreements between Sunbeam and Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh. An answer was filed by Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh generally denying Sunbeam's counterclaim. Discovery is pending.

On May 24, 1999, an action naming Sunbeam as defendant was filed in the Circuit Court for Ozaukee County, Wisconsin. Prior to service of the complaint, the plaintiff dismissed its claims, voluntarily, without prejudice. The plaintiff in this action was a purchaser of the debentures. The plaintiff alleged that Sunbeam violated the Wisconsin Uniform Securities Act and committed acts of false advertising and misrepresentation in connection with the offering and sale of the debentures. The plaintiff sought rescission, as well as compensatory and exemplary damages in an unspecified amount.

On September 13, 1999, an action naming Sunbeam and Arthur Andersen as defendants was filed in the Circuit Court for Montgomery County, Alabama. The plaintiffs in this action are purchasers of Sunbeam common stock during the period March 19, 1998 through May 6, 1998. The plaintiffs allege, among other things, that the defendants violated the Alabama Security Laws and SEC Rule 10b-5. The plaintiffs seek compensatory and punitive damages in an unspecified amount. Sunbeam has removed this case to the U.S. District Court for the District of Alabama. In addition, Arthur Andersen has filed a cross claim against Sunbeam for contribution and indemnity. Sunbeam has filed a motion with the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation to consolidate this action with the Consolidated Federal Actions.

Sunbeam intends to vigorously defend each of the foregoing lawsuits other than those as to which a memorandum of understanding to settle has been reached, but cannot predict the outcome and is not currently able to evaluate the likelihood of Sunbeam's success in each case or the range of potential loss. However, if Sunbeam were to lose these lawsuits, judgments would likely have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's consolidated financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

On March 23, 1999, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh filed a complaint in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware seeking an order directing Sunbeam to advance attorneys' fees and other expenses incurred in connection with various state and federal class and derivative actions and an investigation instituted by the SEC. The complaint alleges that such advancements are required by Sunbeam's by-laws and by a forbearance agreement entered into between Sunbeam and Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh in August, 1998. A trial of this summary proceeding was held on June 15 and 16, 1999. On June 23, 1999, the court issued a memorandum opinion directing Sunbeam to pay about $1.4 million on account of expenses incurred to date and to advance the reasonable future expenses in those actions and investigations. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh have agreed to repay all amounts advanced to them if it is ultimately determined that they are not entitled to indemnification under Delaware law.

On July 2, 1998, the American Alliance Insurance Company filed suit against Sunbeam in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York requesting a declaratory judgment of the court that the directors' and officers' liability insurance policy for excess coverage issued by American Alliance was invalid and/or had been properly canceled by American Alliance. American Alliance has filed a motion for summary judgment on the ground that coverage was never bound. Sunbeam has opposed that motion. As a result of a motion made by Sunbeam, this case has been transferred to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida for coordination and consolidation of pre-trial proceedings with the various actions pending in that court. On October 20, 1998, an action was filed by Federal Insurance Company in the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Florida requesting the same relief as that requested by American in the previously filed action as to additional coverage levels under Sunbeam's directors' and officers' liability insurance policy. This action has been transferred to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida and is currently in discovery. Sunbeam is seeking a stay of discovery to coordinate discovery in this action with any discovery that may occur in the Consolidated Federal Actions. Plaintiff has moved to compel production of various documents. On December 22, 1998, an action was filed by Executive Risk Indemnity, Inc. in the Circuit Court of the Seventeenth Judicial Circuit in and for Broward County, Florida requesting the same relief as that requested by American and Federal in their previously filed actions as to additional coverage levels under Sunbeam's directors' and officers' liability insurance policy. On April 15, 1999, Sunbeam filed an action in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against National Union Fire Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, PA, Gulf Insurance Company and St. Paul Mercury Insurance Company requesting, among other things, a declaratory judgment that National Union is not entitled to rescind its directors' and officers' liability insurance policies to Sunbeam and a declaratory judgment that Sunbeam is entitled to coverage from these insurance companies for the various lawsuits described herein under directors' and officers' liability insurance policies issued by each of the defendants. In response to Sunbeam's complaint, defendants St. Paul and Gulf have answered and asserted counterclaims seeking rescission and declaratory relief that no coverage is available to Sunbeam. Sunbeam has denied the allegations of Gulf's and St. Paul's counterclaims. Defendant National Union has filed a motion to dismiss or stay the claims filed by Sunbeam against National Union on the basis, among others, that Sunbeam must submit the dispute to arbitration or mediation. Sunbeam has filed a response opposing that motion. Sunbeam intends to pursue recovery from all of its insurers if damages are awarded against Sunbeam or its indemnified officers and/or directors under any of the foregoing actions and to recover attorneys' fees covered under those policies. Sunbeam's failure to obtain such insurance recoveries following an adverse judgment in any of the actions described above could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

129

By letter dated June 17, 1998, the staff of the Division of Enforcement of the SEC advised Sunbeam that it was conducting an informal inquiry into Sunbeam's accounting policies and procedures and requested that Sunbeam produce certain documents. On July 2, 1998, the SEC issued a Formal Order of Private Investigation, designating SEC officers to take testimony and pursuant to which a subpoena was served on Sunbeam requiring the production of certain documents. On November 4, 1998, another SEC subpoena requiring the production of additional documents was received by Sunbeam. Sunbeam has provided numerous documents to the SEC staff and continues to cooperate with the SEC staff. Sunbeam has, however, declined to provide the SEC with material that Sunbeam believes is subject to the attorney-client privilege and the work product immunity.

The SEC has not commenced any civil or administrative proceedings as a result of its investigation, and Sunbeam cannot predict at this time whether the SEC will seek to impose any monetary or other penalties against Sunbeam. Under these circumstances, Sunbeam cannot estimate the duration of the investigation or its outcome.

Sunbeam and its subsidiaries are also involved in various other lawsuits arising from time to time which Sunbeam considers to be ordinary routine litigation incidental to its business. In the opinion of Sunbeam, the resolution of these routine matters, and of certain matters relating to prior operations, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect upon the financial position, results of operations or cash flows of Sunbeam.

Amounts accrued for litigation matters represent the anticipated costs (damages and/or settlement amounts) in connection with pending litigation and claims and related anticipated legal fees for defending such actions. The costs are accrued when it is both probable that an asset has been impaired or a liability has been incurred and the amount can be reasonably estimated. The accruals are based upon Sunbeam's assessment, after consultation with counsel, of probable loss based on the facts and circumstances of each case, the legal issues involved, the nature of the claim made, the nature of the damages sought and any relevant information about the plaintiffs and other significant factors which vary by case. When it is not possible to estimate a specific expected cost to be incurred, Sunbeam evaluates the range of probable loss and records the minimum end of the range. As of September 30, 1999, Sunbeam had established accruals for litigation matters of $22.6 million (representing $11.3 million and $11.3 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively.) As of December 31, 1998 Sunbeam had established accruals for litigation matters of $31.2 million (representing $17.5 million and $13.7 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively) and $9.9 million as of December 28, 1997 (representing $3.0 million and $6.9 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively). It is anticipated that the $22.6 million accrual will be paid as follows: $5.2 million in 1999, $14.9 million in 2000, and $2.5 million in 2001. Sunbeam believes, based on information known to Sunbeam on September 30, 1999, that anticipated probable costs of litigation matters existing as of September 30, 1999 have been adequately reserved to the extent determinable.

As a consumer goods manufacturer and distributor, Sunbeam faces the constant risks of product liability and related lawsuits involving claims for substantial money damages, product recall actions and higher than anticipated rates of warranty returns or other returns of goods. These claims could result in liabilities that could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's consolidated financial position, results of operations or cash flows. Some of the product lines Sunbeam acquired in the 1998 acquisitions have increased its exposure to product liability and related claims.

BRK Brands, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Sunbeam, is a defendant in an ongoing products liability case in which the plaintiff alleged, among other things, that the plaintiff's smoke detector (which had been manufactured by a predecessor company to BRK Brands, Inc.) did not alarm quickly enough. In July 1999, the jury in the case awarded $20 million in compensatory damages and $30 million in punitive damages. This case has been settled and BRK Brands, Inc.'s obligation under the settlement is limited to payment of the balance of its self-insured retention.

Sunbeam is party to various personal injury and property damage lawsuits relating to its products and incidental to its business. Annually, Sunbeam sets its product liability insurance program based on Sunbeam's current and historical claims experience and the availability and cost of insurance. Sunbeam's program for 1999 was comprised of a self-insurance retention of $3.5 million per occurrence, and was limited to $28.0 million in the aggregate.

Cumulative amounts estimated to be payable by Sunbeam with respect to pending and potential claims for all years in which Sunbeam is liable under its self-insurance retention have been accrued as liabilities. Such accrued liabilities are necessarily based on estimates (which include actuarial determinations made by independent actuarial consultants as to liability exposure, taking into account prior experience, numbers of claims and other relevant factors); thus, Sunbeam's ultimate liability may exceed or be less than the amounts accrued. The methods of making such estimates and establishing the resulting liability are reviewed continually and any adjustments resulting therefrom are reflected in current operating results.

Historically, product liability awards have rarely exceeded Sunbeam's individual per occurrence self-insured retention. There can be no assurance, however, that Sunbeam's future product liability experience will be consistent with its past experience. Based on existing information, Sunbeam believes that the ultimate conclusion of the various pending product liability claims and lawsuits of Sunbeam, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect on the financial position, results of operations or cash flows of Sunbeam.

ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS

Sunbeam's operations, like those of comparable businesses, are subject to certain federal, state, local and foreign environmental laws and regulations in addition to laws and regulations regarding labeling and packaging of products and the sales of products containing certain environmentally sensitive materials. Sunbeam believes it is in substantial compliance with all environmental laws and regulations which are applicable to its operations. Compliance with environmental laws and regulations involves certain continuing costs; however, such costs of ongoing compliance have not resulted, and are not anticipated to result, in a material increase in Sunbeam's capital expenditures or to have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's results of operations, financial condition or competitive position.

In addition to ongoing environmental compliance at its operations, Sunbeam also is actively engaged in environmental remediation activities many of which related to divested operations. As of December 31, 1998, Sunbeam has been identified by the United States Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA") or a state environmental agency as a potentially responsible party ("PRP") in connection with seven sites subject to the federal Superfund Act and five sites subject to state Superfund laws comparable to the federal law (collectively the "Environmental Sites"), exclusive of sites at which Sunbeam has been designated (or expects to be designated) as a de minimis (less than 1%) participant.

The Superfund Act, and related state environmental remediation laws, generally authorize governmental authorities to remediate a Superfund site and to assess the costs against the PRPs or to order the PRPs to remediate the site at their expense. Liability under the Superfund Act is joint and several and is imposed on a strict basis, without regard to degree of negligence or culpability. As a result, Sunbeam recognizes its responsibility to determine whether other PRPs at a Superfund site are financially capable of paying their respective shares of the ultimate cost of remediation of the site. Whenever Sunbeam has determined that a particular PRP is not financially responsible, it has assumed for purposes of establishing reserve amounts that such PRP will not pay its respective share of the costs of remediation. To minimize Sunbeam's potential liability with respect to the Environmental Sites, Sunbeam has actively participated in steering committees and other groups of PRPs established with respect to such sites. Sunbeam currently is engaged in active remediation activities at 11 sites, six of which are among the Environmental Sites referred to above, and five of which have not been designated as Superfund sites under federal or state law. The remediation efforts in which Sunbeam is involved include facility investigations, including soil and groundwater investigations, corrective measure studies, including feasibility studies, groundwater monitoring, extraction and treatment, soil sampling, excavation and treatment relating to environmental clean-ups. In certain instances, Sunbeam has entered into agreements with governmental authorities to undertake additional investigatory activities and in other instances has agreed to implement appropriate remedial actions. Sunbeam has also established reserve amounts for certain non-compliance matters including those involving air emissions.

Sunbeam has established reserves to cover the anticipated probable costs of investigation and remediation, based upon periodic reviews of all sites for which Sunbeam has, or may have remediation responsibility. Sunbeam accrues environmental investigation and remediation costs when it is both probable that a liability has been incurred and the amount can be reasonably estimated and Sunbeam's responsibility is established. Generally, the timing of these accruals coincides with the earlier of formal commitment to an investigation plan, completion of a feasibility study or Sunbeam's commitment to a formal plan of action. As of September 30, 1999, December 31, 1998 and 1997, Sunbeam's environmental reserves were $23.3 million (representing $21.6 million for the estimated costs of facility investigations, corrective measure studies, or known remedial measures, and $1.7 million for estimated legal costs), $25.0 million (representing $22.9 million for the estimated costs of facility investigations, corrective measure studies, or known remedial measures, and $2.1 million for estimated legal costs) and $24.0 million (representing $21.8 million for the estimated costs of facility investigations, corrective measure studies, or known remedial measures, and $2.2 million for estimated legal costs), respectively. It is anticipated that the $23.3 million accrual at September 30, 1999 will be paid as follows: $5.2 million in 1999, $3.9 million in 2000, $1.8 million in 2001, $2.0 million in 2002, $0.6 million in 2003 and $9.8 million thereafter. Sunbeam has accrued its best estimate of investigation and remediation costs based upon facts known to Sunbeam at such dates and because of the inherent difficulties in estimating the ultimate amount of environmental costs, which are further described below, these estimates may materially change in the future as a result of the uncertainties described below. Estimated costs, which are based upon experience with similar sites and technical evaluations, are judgmental in nature and are recorded at undiscounted amounts without considering the impact of inflation and are adjusted periodically to reflect changes in applicable laws or regulations, changes in available technologies and receipt by Sunbeam of new information. It is difficult to estimate the ultimate level of future environmental expenditures due to a number of uncertainties surrounding environmental liabilities. These uncertainties include the applicability of laws and regulations, changes in environmental remediation requirements, the enactment of additional regulations, uncertainties surrounding remediation procedures including the development of new technology, the identification of new sites for which Sunbeam could be a PRP, information relating to the exact nature and extent of the contamination at each site and the extent of required cleanup efforts, the uncertainties with respect to the ultimate outcome of issues which may be actively contested and the varying costs of alternative remediation strategies. Sunbeam continues to pursue the recovery of some environmental remediation costs from certain of its liability insurance carriers; however, such potential recoveries have not been offset against potential liabilities and have not been considered in determining Sunbeam's environmental reserves.

Due to uncertainty over remedial measures to be adopted at some sites, the possibility of changes in environmental laws and regulations and the fact that joint and several liability with the right of contribution is possible at federal and state Superfund sites, Sunbeam's ultimate future liability with respect to sites at which remediation has not been completed may vary from the amounts reserved as of September 30, 1999.

Sunbeam believes, based on existing information for sites where costs are estimable, that the costs of completing environmental remediation of all sites for which Sunbeam has a remediation responsibility have been adequately reserved and that the ultimate resolution of these matters will not have a material adverse effect upon Sunbeam's financial condition, results of operations or cash flows.

REGULATORY MATTERS

Sunbeam is subject to various laws and regulations in connection with its business operations, including but not limited to laws related to relations with employees, maintenance of safe manufacturing facilities, truth in packaging and advertising, regulation of medical products and safety of consumer products. Sunbeam does not anticipate that its business or operations will be materially adversely affected by compliance with any of these provisions.

- (8) Grant date values were calculated using the Black-Scholes options pricing model which has been adjusted to take dividends into account for the period prior to announced discontinuance of dividends. Use of this model should not be viewed in any way as a forecast of the future performance of the common stock. The estimated present value of each stock option as set forth above is based on the following inputs:

The model assumes: (a) an expected option term of six years; (b) a risk-free interest rate based on closing six-year U.S. Treasury strip yield on the date of valuation; and (c) no forfeitures. Stock price volatility is calculated using weekly stock prices for a period of five years ended as of the valuation date and believed to reflect volatility in the absence of unusual corporate transactions. Notwithstanding the fact that these options are, with limited exceptions, non-transferable, no discount for lack of marketability was taken.

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT WITH MR. LEVIN

On August 12, 1998, Sunbeam entered into an employment agreement with Mr. Levin (the "Levin Agreement") in which Sunbeam has agreed to employ Mr. Levin as Chief Executive Officer, and Mr. Levin has agreed to serve in such capacity, for an initial period ending June 14, 2001.

Compensation

Under the Levin Agreement, Mr. Levin will be paid a base salary at an annual rate of not less than $1,000,000. Effective April 1, 1999, Mr. Levin's base compensation was increased to $1,150,000. Additionally, Mr. Levin was paid a guaranteed bonus for 1998 of $541,667 and, thereafter, is eligible to receive a performance-based target annual bonus of 100% of his base salary and, if specified performance objectives are met, up to a bonus of 200% of his base salary under Sunbeam's incentive plan subject to a maximum award of $2,000,000. Mr. Levin participates in the other benefit plans available generally to employees or other senior executives of Sunbeam. Sunbeam also reimburses Mr. Levin for the cost of membership in a country club.

Equity Grants

Mr. Levin received grants effective as of August 12, 1998 of options to purchase 1,750,000 shares of Sunbeam common stock at a price of $7.00 per share:

022336

500,000 shares of Sunbeam common stock at a price of $14.00 per share; and 500,000 shares of Sunbeam common stock at a price of $10.50 per share (the "Levin Options"). The term of each of the Levin Options is ten years, and they will vest and become exercisable in full on June 14, 2001 if Mr. Levin remains employed by Sunbeam as of such date. In addition, effective March 29, 1999, Mr. Levin received grants of options under the Option Plan to purchase 250,000 shares of Sunbeam common stock at $5.57 per share. These options will vest equally on the first, second and third anniversaries of the grant date. Upon the occurrence of a "Change in Control" of Sunbeam as defined in the Option Plan, all of the options granted to Mr. Levin will vest in full.

Termination and Change in Control Provisions

Sunbeam may terminate Mr. Levin's employment under the Levin Agreement due to his disability, or for Cause. As defined in the Levin Agreement, "Cause" means (1) gross neglect of his duties, (2) his conviction for a felony or any lesser crime or offense involving the property of Sunbeam, (3) willful misconduct in connection with the performance of any material portion of his duties, (4) willful breach of any material provision of the Levin Agreement, or (5) any conduct on Mr. Levin's part which would make his continued employment materially prejudicial to the best interests of Sunbeam. In addition, he may terminate his employment following a Company Breach upon 60 days' written notice to Sunbeam. As defined in the Levin Agreement, "Company Breach" means (1) any material breach of the Levin Agreement by Sunbeam, including the failure to obtain stockholder approval of the grant of the Levin Options, or (2) a "Change in Control" of Sunbeam, as defined in the Levin Agreement.

The Levin Agreement provides that, if Sunbeam terminates Mr. Levin's employment for Cause or if he voluntarily terminates his employment, all obligations, other than accrued obligations, of Sunbeam will cease and all unvested Levin Options will be immediately forfeited. If a Company Breach occurs, and Mr. Levin terminates the Levin Agreement, Sunbeam is obligated to continue to pay Mr. Levin's base salary and target bonus for the balance of the term and continue his benefits until his reemployment. In addition, all of the Levin Options vest and remain exercisable for three years.

The Levin Agreement provides that, if Mr. Levin's employment is terminated due to his death or his continued disability for six months, his legal representatives or designated beneficiary, or Mr. Levin, will receive continued payments in an amount equal to 60% of base salary until the longer of 12 months or the end of the term in effect at the time of his death or termination due to disability. The Levin Options will become vested and remain exercisable for three years thereafter.

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENTS WITH EXECUTIVES SHAPIRO, JENKINS AND CLARK

Sunbeam entered into employment agreements with Messrs. Shapiro and Jenkins and Ms. Clark in August 1998. Messrs. Shapiro and Jenkins and Ms. Clark are referred to as the "Executives." The agreements with Messrs. Shapiro and Jenkins are for an initial period of approximately three years ending on June 14, 2001; and the agreement with Ms. Clark has a term ending on June 14, 2000. The Executives' agreements are referred to individually as an "Executive Agreement" and collectively as the "Executive Agreements."

Compensation

Under the Executive Agreements, Messrs. Shapiro and Jenkins and Ms. Clark will be paid a base salary at annual rates not less than $600,000, $365,000 and $270,000, respectively. Effective April 1, 1999, the annual base salary for each of Messrs. Shapiro and Jenkins was increased to $750,000 and $425,000, respectively. Effective June 1, 1999, the annual base salary of Ms. Clark was increased to $297,000. Additionally, under the Executive Agreements, Messrs. Shapiro and Jenkins and Ms. Clark were paid a guaranteed bonus for 1998 equal to $243,750, $118,625 and $73,125, respectively, and, thereafter, are eligible to receive a performance-based annual target bonus equal to 75%, 60% and 50% of their respective annual salaries. The Executives also participate in the other benefit plans available generally to employees or other senior executives of Sunbeam.

022337

Equity Grants

Under the Executive Agreements, Messrs. Shapiro and Jenkins and Ms. Clark also received grants effective as of June 15, 1998, June 15, 1998 and August 31, 1998, respectively, of options to purchase 600,000 shares, 450,000 shares and 50,000 shares, respectively, of Sunbeam common stock at a price of $7.00 per share (the "Executive Options"). The term of each of the Executive Options is ten years, and they will vest and become exercisable in full on June 14, 2001, June 14, 2001 and June 14, 2000, respectively, if the Executive remains employed as of such date. Mr. Jenkins was also granted an option, effective March 29, 1999, to acquire 100,000 shares of Sunbeam common stock at a purchase price of $5.57 per share. This option will vest in equal increments on the first, second and third anniversaries of the grant date. Upon the occurrence of a "Change in Control" of Sunbeam, as defined in the Option Plan, the Executive Options will vest in full. In addition, under her employment agreement, Ms. Clark exchanged 75,000 options she had previously received upon joining Sunbeam for 50,000 options with an exercise price of $7.00 per share, as part of Sunbeam's option exchange program.

Termination and Change in Control Provisions

Sunbeam may terminate an Executive's employment under his or her Executive Agreement due to disability, or for Cause. As defined in the Executive Agreements, "Cause" means (1) gross neglect of duties, (2) conviction for a felony or any lesser crime or offense involving the property of Sunbeam, (3) willful misconduct in connection with the performance of any material portion of the Executive's duties, (4) willful breach of any material provision of the agreement by Executive, or (5) any conduct on the Executive's part which would make continued employment materially prejudicial to the best interests of Sunbeam. The Executive may terminate his or her employment under the Executive Agreement at any time. In addition, he or she may terminate his or her employment for Company Breach upon 60 days' written notice to Sunbeam. As defined in the Executive Agreements, "Company Breach" means any material breach of the Executive Agreement by Sunbeam. In the case of the agreements with Messrs. Shapiro and Jenkins, a material breach includes the failure to obtain stockholder approval of the grants of the Executive Options to Messrs. Shapiro and Jenkins and a "Change of Control" of Sunbeam, as defined in their respective Executive Agreements.

The Executive Agreements provide that, if Sunbeam terminates an Executive's employment for Cause or if the Executive voluntarily terminates his or her employment, all obligations, other than accrued obligations of Sunbeam will cease and all unvested Executive Options shall be immediately forfeited. If a Company Breach occurs, and an Executive terminates his or her Executive Agreement, Sunbeam is obligated to continue to pay the Executive's base salary and target bonus for the balance of the term and continue the Executive's benefits until his reemployment. In addition, all of the Executive Options will vest and remain exercisable for three years.

The Executive Agreements provide that, if an Executive's employment is terminated due to death, his or her legal representatives or designated beneficiary will receive continued payments in an amount equal to 60% of base salary until the longer of 12 months or the end of the term in effect at the time of death. Upon an Executive's death, the Executive Options will be vested upon such death and will remain exercisable for three years thereafter.

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT WITH MR. DUNLAP

As of February 1, 1998, Sunbeam entered into an employment agreement with Mr. Dunlap (the "Dunlap Agreement") in which Sunbeam agreed to continue to employ Mr. Dunlap as Chairman of the board of directors and Chief Executive Officer, and Mr. Dunlap agreed to serve in such capacities, for a period of three years ending January 31, 2001, and for successive one-year renewal periods unless advance notice of termination was given by either party by no later than August 1 of the immediately preceding year. The Dunlap Agreement was not renewable beyond January 31, 2003. The Dunlap Agreement replaced and superseded Mr. Dunlap's prior employment agreement.

Dispute with Mr. Dunlap. On June 13, 1998, the Sunbeam board of directors removed Mr. Dunlap as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. The Sunbeam board took this step because Sunbeam's outside directors had lost confidence in Mr. Dunlap's leadership. Mr. Dunlap has asserted that Sunbeam terminated his employment without cause in breach of the Dunlap Agreement, and Sunbeam is vigorously contesting these claims, including claims regarding the validity of grants of Sunbeam common stock and stock options to him. Nothing in this prospectus should be construed to support his claims or to limit or otherwise affect Sunbeam's claims against Mr. Dunlap, including claims with respect to his entitlement to equity grants.

Compensation. Under the Dunlap Agreement, Mr. Dunlap was to be paid a base salary at an annual rate of $2,000,000. Sunbeam could increase Mr. Dunlap's base salary, but could not reduce it after any such increase. Mr. Dunlap was eligible to participate in the other benefit plans available generally to employees or other senior executives of Sunbeam. However, he was not eligible to participate in any incentive plan of Sunbeam. Sunbeam also provided Mr. Dunlap with various perquisites on a grossed-up basis. Upon Mr. Dunlap's termination, he did not receive any compensation from Sunbeam. Sunbeam subsequently agreed to pay $52,000 of the accrued vacation and employment benefits of Mr. Dunlap as part of a six-month agreement with Mr. Dunlap in which the parties agreed not to assert claims against each other and to exchange information relating to the pending stockholder lawsuits.

Equity Grants. The Dunlap Agreement provided that all of Mr. Dunlap's then outstanding options to purchase shares of Sunbeam common stock, which were granted under Mr. Dunlap's prior employment agreement, vested as of February 20, 1998; 40% of Mr. Dunlap's shares of restricted Sunbeam common stock were canceled as of such date; and all of Mr. Dunlap's remaining shares of restricted Sunbeam common stock vested as of such date. The Dunlap Agreement also provided that Sunbeam reimburse Mr. Dunlap on a grossed-up basis with respect to any income tax assessed in connection with the vesting of such shares of restricted Sunbeam common stock.

Mr. Dunlap received a grant as of February 1, 1998 of 300,000 shares of Sunbeam common stock. Mr. Dunlap also received a grant effective as of February 1, 1998 of options to purchase 3,750,000 shares of Sunbeam common stock at a price of $36.85 per share (the "Dunlap Options"), which grant was approved by Sunbeam's stockholders at the 1998 annual meeting. The Dunlap Options provided for a term of ten years, and for vesting with respect to one-third of the shares subject thereto on the grant date and for an additional one-third to vest on each of the first and second anniversaries of the grant date if Mr. Dunlap had remained employed by Sunbeam. The Dunlap Agreement provided that upon the occurrence of a "Change in Control" of Sunbeam, as defined in the Option Plan, the Dunlap Options would have vested in full.

Termination and Change in Control Provisions. The Dunlap Agreement

provided that Sunbeam could terminate Mr. Dunlap's employment at any time, or due to his disability, or for Cause. The Dunlap Agreement defined "Cause" to mean (1) willful failure substantially to perform Mr. Dunlap's duties under the Dunlap Agreement, except if such failure results from disability, or (2) his conviction for a felony or a plea of guilty or no contest thereto.

The Dunlap Agreement provided that, if Sunbeam terminated Mr. Dunlap's employment other than for Cause and not due to his disability, or if he terminated his employment for a "Good Reason," as defined in the Dunlap Agreement:

(1) he would receive as liquidated damages a lump sum payment in an amount equal to the base salary that would have been payable through the period ending January 31, 2001, or any then applicable renewal period;

(2) the Dunlap Options would become fully vested, and he would be entitled to exercise the Dunlap Options as well as previously granted options for the balance of their original ten-year term; and

(3) he would be entitled to continue participating in the employee benefit plans in which he had been entitled to participate before termination, for three years after termination, or to receive substantially equivalent benefits.

The Dunlap Agreement provided that, if Sunbeam terminated Mr. Dunlap's employment for Cause or if he terminated his employment other than for Good Reason, all obligations, other than accrued obligations, of Sunbeam would cease, except that Mr. Dunlap would be able to exercise the Dunlap Options as well as previously granted options which were exercisable on the date of termination within 90 days, if the termination were for Cause, and within one year, if it were by Mr. Dunlap without Good Reason.

In addition, the Dunlap Agreement provided that Mr. Dunlap would be entitled to receive a gross-up with respect to any excise tax applicable under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, to "excess parachute payments."

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENTS WITH MESSRS. KERSH AND FANNIN

Sunbeam entered into employment agreements with each of Messrs. Kersh and Fannin as of February 1, 1998. Messrs. Kersh and Fannin are referred to herein as the "Prior Executives." The employment agreements with Messrs. Kersh and Fannin had terms ending on January 31, 2001. The employment agreements with Messrs. Kersh and Fannin (referred to individually as a "Prior Executive Agreement" and collectively as the "Prior Executive Agreements") replaced and superseded their respective previous employment agreements with Sunbeam.

Dispute with Mr. Kersh. On June 16, 1998, the Sunbeam board of directors terminated Mr. Kersh as Vice Chairman and Chief Financial Officer. Mr. Kersh has asserted that Sunbeam terminated his employment without cause in breach of his Prior Executive Agreement, and Sunbeam is vigorously contesting these claims, including claims regarding the validity of grants of restricted Sunbeam common stock and options to him. Nothing in this prospectus should be construed to support his claims or to limit or otherwise affect Sunbeam's claims against Mr. Kersh, including claims with respect to his entitlement to equity grants.

Compensation. Under their respective Prior Executive Agreements, Messrs. Kersh and Fannin were each to be paid a base salary at annual rates of $875,000 and $595,000, respectively. The Prior Executives were also eligible to participate in those benefit plans available generally to employees or other senior executives of Sunbeam. However, the Prior Executives were not eligible to participate in any cash incentive plan of Sunbeam. Upon Mr. Kersh's termination, he did not receive any compensation from Sunbeam. Sunbeam subsequently agreed to pay $68,000 of the accrued vacation and employment benefits of Mr. Kersh as part of a six-month agreement with Mr. Kersh in which the parties agreed not to assert claims against each other and to exchange information relating to the pending stockholder lawsuits.

Equity Grants. The Prior Executive Agreements provided that all of Mr. Kersh's then outstanding options to acquire shares of Sunbeam common stock, which were granted under Mr. Kersh's previous employment agreement, and all of Mr. Fannin's then outstanding options to acquire shares of Sunbeam common stock vested as of February 20, 1998; 40% of each of Mr. Kersh's and Mr. Fannin's shares of restricted Sunbeam common stock were canceled as of such date; and all of Mr. Kersh's and Mr. Fannin's remaining shares of restricted Sunbeam common stock vested as of such date. The Prior Executive Agreements provided that Sunbeam was to reimburse Messrs. Kersh and Fannin on a grossed-up basis with respect to any income tax assessed in connection with the vesting of such shares of restricted Sunbeam common stock.

As of February 1, 1998, Messrs. Kersh and Fannin each received a grant of 150,000 and 30,000 shares of restricted Sunbeam common stock (the "Prior Executive Restricted Shares"), respectively. These Prior Executive Restricted Shares provided for vesting in four equal installments on each of February 1, 1998 and the first, second and third anniversaries of February 1, 1998. Messrs. Kersh and Fannin also received grants, effective as of February 1, 1998, of options to purchase 1,125,000 and 750,000 shares of Sunbeam common stock, respectively, at a price of $36.85 per share which were approved by Sunbeam's stockholders at the 1998 annual meeting (the "Prior Executive Options"). These Prior Executive Options provided for vesting in four equal installments on the grant date of February 1, 1998 and the first, second and third anniversaries of February 1, 1998.

Termination and Change in Control Provisions. The Prior Executive Agreements with Messrs. Kersh and Fannin provided that Sunbeam may terminate either Prior Executive's employment at any time, or due to the Prior Executive's disability, or for "Cause," as defined in the Prior Executive Agreement.

Each Prior Executive Agreement provided that, if Sunbeam terminated the Prior Executive's employment other than for Cause and not due to his disability, or if the Prior Executive terminated his employment for "Good Reason," as defined in the Prior Executive Agreements, or following a "Change in Control," as defined in the Prior Executive Agreements:

- (1) such Prior Executive would receive as liquidated damages a lump sum payment in an amount equal to the base salary that would have been payable to him through the end of the employment term;
- (2) the Options and Executive Restricted Shares granted to such Prior Executive would become fully vested, and the Prior Executive will be entitled to exercise his Prior Executive Options and previously granted options for the balance of their original ten-year term; and
- (3) the Prior Executive would be entitled to continue participating in the employee benefit plans in which he had been entitled to participate before termination, through the end of the employment term, or to receive substantially equivalent benefits.

Each Prior Executive Agreement provided that if Sunbeam terminated the Prior Executive's employment for Cause or if the Prior Executive terminated his employment other than for Good Reason or following a Change in Control, all obligations, other than accrued obligations, of Sunbeam would cease, except that such Prior Executive would be able to exercise Prior Executive Options and previously granted options granted to him which were exercisable on the date of termination or within 90 days thereof, if the termination were for Cause, and within one year thereof, if the termination were by the Executive other than for Good Reason or following a Change in Control.

In addition, each Prior Executive Agreement provided that the Prior Executive would be entitled to receive a gross-up with respect to any excise tax applicable under the Internal Revenue Code to "excess parachute payments."

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT WITH MS. KELLEY

Sunbeam entered into an employment agreement with Ms. Kelley in December 1998. The agreement had an initial term extending until December 31, 2000, but expired upon her resignation from employment effective May 31, 1999. In 1999, while this agreement was in effect, Ms. Kelley's annual base salary rate was $275,000. In addition, Ms. Kelley was paid a guaranteed bonus of $112,500 for 1998. Under the agreement, Ms. Kelley received a grant effective as of December 16, 1998 of options to purchase 60,000 shares of common stock at a price of $7.00 per share.

Ms. Kelley's agreement provided that if Sunbeam terminated her employment for Cause (as defined in Ms. Kelley's agreement) or if she voluntarily terminated her employment, all obligations of Sunbeam, other than accrued obligations, would cease and all unvested stock options would be immediately forfeited. If a Company Breach (as defined in Ms. Kelley's agreement) occurred, and Ms. Kelley terminated her employment, under the agreement, Sunbeam was obligated to pay Ms. Kelley's base salary and target bonus for the balance of the term and continue her benefits until her reemployment. In addition, all of Ms. Kelley's options would have vested and remained exercisable for three years.

In connection with her resignation, the options to purchase 60,000 shares of common stock at $7.00 per share were made fully exercisable on June 13, 1999 in exchange for the forfeiture by Ms. Kelley of 68,583 exercisable options having exercise prices ranging from $20.30 per share to $38.34 per share.

SUBSEQUENT ARRANGEMENTS WITH MESSRS. DUNLAP, KERSH AND FANNIN

In early August 1998, Sunbeam entered into a six-month agreement with Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh in which all parties agreed not to assert claims against each other and to exchange information relating to the various lawsuits in which Sunbeam and Messrs. Dunlap Kersh are named as defendants. Sunbeam also agreed to pay, and has paid, to Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh amounts related to accrued vacation and employment benefits and to advance litigation defense costs subject to the receipt of an undertaking from each of them, which Sunbeam has received, to repay all amounts so advanced if it is determined that they did not meet the applicable standard of conduct for indemnification under Delaware law. This agreement has expired and Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh have commenced an arbitration action against Sunbeam claiming recovery of amounts they allege are payable to them under their agreements. Sunbeam is vigorously contesting these claims and is seeking the return of all amounts they received under their February 1998 employment agreements. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh have obtained an order from the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware requiring Sunbeam to advance reasonable litigation defense costs to each of them.

In connection with the termination of Mr. Fannin's employment by mutual agreement, Sunbeam entered into an agreement with him providing that, under the terms of his employment agreement and in consideration of the execution of the agreement, including a release and covenant not to sue contained therein, he would receive the following payments, all subject to applicable withholding taxes:

16div-028246

022342

(a) $825,000 in severance payments, of which $575,001 was paid in 1998 and the balance of which is payable in monthly installments of $16,667;

(b) consulting payments of $250,000 of which $41,667 was paid in 1998 and the balance of which is payable in monthly installments of $13,889; and

(c) $50,000 payable for the three year extension of Mr. Fannin's non-compete agreement, of which $8,334 was paid in 1998 and the balance of which is payable in equal monthly installments of $2,778.

In addition, Mr. Fannin received the value of his accrued vacation for 1996, 1997 and 1998, continuation of health, dental and life insurance coverage, on the same basis as prior to termination of employment for an additional 18 months or until his earlier employment providing such benefits. The termination agreement with Mr. Fannin also provided for a three-year term for his outstanding vested stock options, confirmed the amount of his unrestricted Sunbeam common stock grants and provided for the mutually agreed cancellation of all other equity awards.

OTHER TRANSACTIONS

Settlement of Claims; Issuance of Warrant

On August 12, 1998, Sunbeam announced that, following investigation and negotiation conducted by a special committee of the Sunbeam board of directors, consisting of four outside directors not affiliated with MacAndrews & Forbes, Sunbeam had entered into the settlement agreement with the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary from which Sunbeam had acquired a controlling interest in Coleman in March 1998. Under the settlement agreement, Sunbeam was released from threatened claims arising from that acquisition, and MacAndrews & Forbes agreed to provide management personnel and assistance to Sunbeam, in exchange for the issuance to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary of a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase 23 million shares of Sunbeam common stock at an exercise price of $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution provisions.

Services Provided by MacAndrews & Forbes

Under the settlement agreement referred to in the previous paragraph, in addition to making the services of Messrs. Levin, Shapiro and Jenkins available to Sunbeam, MacAndrews & Forbes agreed to provide management assistance to Sunbeam with respect to specified matters. Sunbeam does not reimburse MacAndrews & Forbes for these services or for expenses incurred in providing these services to Sunbeam, other than reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses paid to third parties. Execution of the settlement agreement was a condition to Sunbeam's continued employment of Messrs. Levin, Shapiro and Jenkins as officers of Sunbeam.

Registration Rights

Sunbeam and the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary which sold Sunbeam its controlling interest in Coleman have entered into a registration rights agreement. Under the registration rights agreement, the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary can require Sunbeam to register under the federal and applicable state securities laws the shares of Sunbeam common stock the subsidiary received when it sold its controlling interest in Coleman to Sunbeam. Sunbeam has also agreed to permit former affiliates of Coleman that received Sunbeam common stock in the March 1988 acquisition to join the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary in any registration of the subsidiary's shares of Sunbeam common stock.

The registration rights agreement was amended in August 1998 to permit the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary to require Sunbeam to also register (1) the warrant issued to it by Sunbeam under its settlement agreement with Sunbeam and (2) the shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrant.

Settlement of Coleman Options

Under Sunbeam's agreement providing for the merger, the unexercised options under Coleman's stock option plans will be cashed out at a price per share equal to the difference between $27.50 and the exercise price of the options. Ronald O. Perelman, the sole stockholder of MacAndrews & Forbes, holds 500,000 options for which he will receive a net payment of $6,750,000 upon completion of the merger. Messrs. Shapiro and Isko and Ms. Clark, executive officers of Sunbeam, hold 77,500, 20,000 and 25,000 options, respectively, for which they will receive net payments of $823,000, $226,099 and $275,005, respectively.

Arrangements with Coleman

Coleman and a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes are parties to a cross-indemnification agreement in which Coleman has agreed to indemnify the subsidiary, its officers, directors, employees, control persons, agents and representatives against all past, present and future liabilities, including product liability and environmental matters, related to the initial assets of Coleman, which Coleman acquired from such affiliate in December 1991. In addition, under this cross-indemnification agreement, the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary has agreed to indemnify Coleman and its officers, directors, employees, agents and representatives against all other liabilities of this MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary or any of its subsidiaries, including liabilities relating to the assets it did not transfer to Coleman in December 1991. This cross-indemnification agreement will survive the merger.

Coleman previously was included in the consolidated tax group for the MacAndrews & Forbes companies and was a party to a tax sharing agreement with a MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary, under which Coleman paid to this subsidiary the amount of taxes which would have been paid by Coleman if it were required to file separate Federal, state or local income tax returns. The obligations of MacAndrews & Forbes under the tax sharing agreement were terminated when Sunbeam bought a controlling interest in Coleman in March 1998. As described under the section titled "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--Acquisition of Coleman Preferred Stock," one of Sunbeam's wholly owned subsidiaries recently acquired shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock. These shares were created and purchased in order to enable Sunbeam and Coleman to file consolidated federal income tax returns prior to the completion of the merger. In connection with the acquisition of these shares, Sunbeam entered into a tax sharing agreement with Coleman pursuant to which Coleman will pay to Sunbeam amounts equal to the federal and state income taxes that would have been payable by Coleman had Coleman not been included in the consolidated income tax return of Sunbeam.

Office Space

During 1998, Sunbeam sublet office space in New York City from an affiliate of MacAndrews & Forbes. The expense for such rent during 1998 was approximately $130,000. The lease was terminated in 1999.

Employment of Law Firms

022344

Sunbeam employed the law firms of Reboul, MacMurray, Hewitt, Maynard and Kristol, of which Mr. Kristol is a partner, and Holland & Knight, of which Mr. Elson is Of Counsel, to perform some legal services for Sunbeam during 1998. The total fees paid to these firms during 1998 were less than $20,000. Neither Mr. Kristol nor Mr. Elson was involved in the provision of legal services to Sunbeam.

DESCRIPTION OF SUNBEAM CAPITAL STOCK

The following statements are summaries of provisions of Sunbeam's capital stock.

SUNBEAM COMMON STOCK

Sunbeam's authorized capital stock currently consists of 500,000,000 shares of Sunbeam common stock, par value $.01 per share, and 2,000,000 shares of preferred stock, par value $.01 per share. As of December 3, 1999, there were 100,902,392 shares of Sunbeam common stock outstanding. Each share of Sunbeam common stock entitles its holder to one vote on all matters upon which Sunbeam stockholders are entitled or permitted to vote, including the election of directors. There are no cumulative voting rights. Shares of Sunbeam common stock would participate ratably in any distribution of assets in a liquidation, dissolution or winding up of Sunbeam, subject to prior distribution rights of any shares of preferred stock then outstanding. The Sunbeam common stock has no preemptive rights or conversion rights nor are there any redemption or sinking fund provisions applicable to the Sunbeam common stock. Holders of Sunbeam common stock are entitled to participate in dividends as and when declared by the Sunbeam board out of funds legally available therefor. Sunbeam's ability to pay cash dividends is subject to restrictions under Delaware law. In addition, Sunbeam's bank credit facility prohibits Sunbeam from paying cash dividends.

The transfer agent and registrar for the Sunbeam common stock is The Bank of New York.

SUNBEAM PREFERRED STOCK

There are no shares of Sunbeam preferred stock currently outstanding. Sunbeam's Certificate of Incorporation provides that the Sunbeam board of directors may authorize the issuance of one or more series of preferred stock having such rights, including voting, conversion and redemption rights, and such preferences, including dividend and liquidation preferences, as the Sunbeam board may determine without any further action by the stockholders of Sunbeam.

WARRANTS

022318

Sunbeam currently has outstanding one warrant which entitles the holder to purchase up to 23 million shares of Sunbeam common stock. This warrant was issued on August 24, 1998 under the terms of the Settlement Agreement, dated August 12, 1998, by and between Sunbeam and Coleman (Parent) Holdings, Inc., the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary from which Sunbeam acquired about 81% of the then outstanding Coleman common stock in the M&F Transaction. In the merger, Sunbeam will issue warrants which will entitle their holders to purchase up to 4.98 million shares of Sunbeam common stock. These warrants will be issued under a Warrant Agreement to be entered into by Sunbeam and The Bank of New York, as Warrant Agent, prior to the completion of the merger.

The warrant to be issued in the merger will be substantially similar to the warrant issued to Coleman (Parent) Holdings.

The warrant issued to Coleman (Parent) Holdings and each of the warrants to be issued in the merger will be exercisable at a cash exercise price of $7 per share and will expire on August 24, 2003. In addition, the warrant issued to Coleman (Parent) Holdings and each of the warrants to be issued in the merger is subject to anti-dilution adjustments in the event that Sunbeam completes one or more transactions having a dilutive effect on its existing stockholders. Under the settlement with Coleman (Parent) Holdings, Sunbeam has agreed that Coleman (Parent) Holdings can require Sunbeam to register under the federal and applicable state securities laws the shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrant. The shares of Sunbeam common stock issuable upon exercise of the warrants to be issued in the merger are being registered under the registration statement of which this document forms a part.

For further information regarding the warrant issued to Coleman (Parent) Holdings, see "RECENT DEVELOPMENTS AFFECTING SUNBEAM--Settlement of Claims Relating to the M&F Transaction." For further information regarding the terms of the warrants to be issued in the merger, see "SETTLEMENT OF LITIGATION AND WARRANTS."

DESCRIPTION OF COLEMAN CAPITAL STOCK

The following statements are summaries of provisions of Coleman's capital stock.

COLEMAN COMMON STOCK

The authorized capital stock of Coleman consists of 100,000,000 shares of capital stock, 80,000,000 of which are common stock, par value $.01 per share, and 20,000,000 of which are preferred stock, par value $.01 per share. Of these authorized shares, as of December 3, 1999, 55,827,490 shares of Coleman common stock were issued and outstanding and 923,670 shares of Coleman common stock were issuable upon exercise of Coleman stock options outstanding under Coleman's employee stock option plans (all of which options are currently exercisable).

Subject to the rights of holders of any Coleman preferred stock then outstanding, holders of Coleman common stock are entitled to receive dividends as may from time to time be declared by the Coleman board subject to certain limitations under Delaware law. The merger agreement prohibits Coleman from paying dividends and Sunbeam's credit facility only permits Coleman to pay dividends in additional shares of its capital stock until the merger is completed. Holders of Coleman common stock are entitled to one vote per share on all matters on which the holders of Coleman common stock are entitled to vote. Because holders of Coleman common stock do not have cumulative voting rights, the holders of a majority of the shares of Coleman common stock represented at a meeting can elect all of the directors. In the event of liquidation, dissolution or winding up of Coleman, holders of Coleman common stock would be entitled to share ratably in assets of Coleman available for distribution to the holders of Coleman common stock.

Holders of Coleman common stock are not liable for any liabilities of Coleman. There are no preemptive rights for the Coleman common stock. The outstanding shares of Coleman common stock are fully paid and nonassessable.

American Stock Transfer & Trust Co. acts as transfer agent and registrar for the Coleman common stock.

COLEMAN PREFERRED STOCK

As of December 3, 1999, there were 3,000,000 shares of Coleman preferred stock issued and outstanding. Coleman's Certificate of Incorporation authorizes the Coleman board of directors to provide for the issuance, from time to time, of shares of preferred stock in series, to establish from time to time the number of shares to be included in any such series and to fix the designation, powers, preferences and rights of the shares of each such series and any qualifications, limitations or restrictions thereof.

On July 12, 1999, Coleman issued to Coleman Worldwide Corporation 3,000,000 shares of a newly created series of voting preferred stock, par value $.01 per share, denominated as "Series A Participating Preferred Stock." Each share of Series A Participating Preferred Stock entitles the holder thereof to one vote on all matters submitted to a vote of the stockholders of Coleman. Except as required by law, the holders of the Series A Participating Preferred Stock vote together as a single class with the holders of Coleman common stock on all matters submitted to a vote of the Coleman stockholders. The Series A Participating Preferred Stock is entitled to an annual dividend. Dividends on the Series A Participating Preferred Stock will accrue and be payable at the earlier of (1) the time any liquidating distribution is made to the holders of the Series A Participating Preferred Stock and (2) the time the shares of Series A Participating Preferred Stock are exchanged or changed into other stock or securities, cash and/or any other property, in connection with a consolidation, merger, combination or other transaction involving Coleman (other than the merger of a wholly owned Sunbeam subsidiary with Coleman). However, Sunbeam's credit facility only permits Coleman to pay dividends in additional shares of its capital stock until the merger is completed. The holders of shares of Series A Participating Preferred Stock share ratably in all other dividends and distributions received by the holders of Coleman common stock. In addition, the holders of shares of Series A Participating Preferred Stock are entitled to a per share liquidation preference equal to the price the Series A Participating Preferred Stock was initially issued to Sunbeam and, once the holders of shares of Coleman common stock have received a like per share amount, the holders of shares of Series A Participating Preferred Stock will share ratably with the holders of shares of Coleman common stock in all remaining amounts available for distribution upon liquidation of Coleman.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Board of Directors and Shareholders of
Sunbeam Corporation and subsidiaries:

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheet of Sunbeam Corporation and subsidiaries (the "Company") as of December 31, 1998, and the related consolidated statements of operations, shareholders' equity, and cash flows for the year then ended. Our audit also included the financial statement schedule as of and for the year ended December 31, 1998, listed in the Index to Financial Statements. These financial statements and financial statement schedule are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements and financial statement schedule based on our audit. We did not audit the consolidated financial statements of The Coleman Company, Inc. and subsidiaries (consolidated subsidiaries), which statements reflect total assets constituting 27% of consolidated total assets as of December 31, 1998, and total revenues constituting 40% of consolidated total revenues for the year then ended. Those consolidated financial statements were audited by other auditors whose report has been furnished to us, and our opinion, insofar as it relates to the amounts included for The Coleman Company, Inc. and subsidiaries, is based solely on the report of such other auditors.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit and the report of the other auditors provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, based on our audit and the report of the other auditors, such consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Sunbeam Corporation and subsidiaries as of December 31, 1998, and the results of their operations and their cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Also, in our opinion, based on our audit and (as to the amounts included for The Coleman Company, Inc. and subsidiaries) the report of other auditors, such financial statement schedule as of and for the year ended December 31, 1998, when considered in relation to the basic consolidated financial statements taken as a whole, presents fairly in all material respects the information set forth therein.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT AUDITORS

Stockholders and Board of Directors
The Coleman Company, Inc.

We have audited the consolidated balance sheets of The Coleman Company, Inc. and subsidiaries as of December 31, 1998 and 1997, and the related consolidated statements of operations, stockholders' equity, and cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 1998 (not presented separately herein). These financial statements are the responsibility of Sunbeam's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the consolidated financial position of The Coleman Company, Inc. and subsidiaries at December 31, 1998 and 1997, and the consolidated results of their operations and their cash flows for each of the three years in the period ended December 31, 1998, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

To the Board of Directors and Shareholders of Sunbeam Corporation:

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheet of Sunbeam Corporation (a Delaware corporation) and subsidiaries as of December 28, 1997 and the related consolidated statements of operations, shareholders' equity and cash flows for each of the two fiscal years in the period ended December 28, 1997. These consolidated financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Sunbeam Corporation and subsidiaries as of December 28, 1997, and the results of their operations and their cash flows for each of the two fiscal years in the period ended December 28, 1997 in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Our audits were made for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. Schedule II for each of the two years in the period ended December 28, 1997 is presented for the purpose of complying with the Securities and Exchange Commission's rules and is not part of the basic financial statements. This Schedule has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audits of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, fairly states in all material respects the financial data required to be set forth therein in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. OPERATIONS AND SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Organization

Sunbeam Corporation ("Sunbeam" or the "Company") is a leading designer, manufacturer and marketer of branded consumer products. The Company's primary business is the manufacturing, marketing and distribution of durable household and outdoor leisure consumer products through mass market and other distribution channels in the United States and internationally. The Company also sells its products to professional and commercial end users such as small businesses, health care providers, hotels and other institutions. The Company's principal products include household kitchen appliances; health monitoring and care products for home use; scales for consumer and professional use for weight management and business uses; electric blankets and throws; clippers and trimmers for consumer, professional and animal uses; smoke and carbon monoxide detectors; outdoor barbecue grills; camping equipment such as tents, lanterns, sleeping bags and stoves; coolers; backpacks and book bags; and portable generators and compressors.

In 1998 the Company acquired an indirect controlling interest in The Coleman Company, Inc. ("Coleman") and all the outstanding common stock of Signature Brands USA, Inc. ("Signature Brands") and First Alert, Inc. ("First Alert").

Principles of Consolidation

The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Company and all majority-owned subsidiaries that it controls. All material intercompany balances and transactions have been eliminated.

Presentation of Fiscal Periods

To standardize the fiscal period ends of the Company and its acquired entities, effective with its 1998 fiscal year, the Company has changed its fiscal year end from the Sunday nearest December 31 to a calendar year. The impact of this change in fiscal period on net sales for 1998 was to increase sales by approximately $5.5 million, and the impact on operating results for the period was to increase the net loss by approximately $1.5 million.

Fiscal years 1997 and 1996 ended on December 28, 1997 and December 29, 1996, respectively, which encompassed 52-week periods.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of the consolidated financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the consolidated financial statements and accompanying notes. Actual results could differ from those estimates. Significant accounting estimates include the establishment of the allowance for doubtful accounts, tax valuation allowances, reserves for sales returns and allowances, product warranty, product liability, excess and obsolete inventory, litigation and environmental exposures.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers highly liquid investments purchased with an original maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents.

Concentrations of Credit Risk

Substantially all of the Company's trade receivables are due from retailers

022361 and distributors located throughout the United States, Europe, Latin America, Canada, and Japan. Approximately 38% of the Company's sales in 1998 were to its five largest customers. The Company establishes its credit policies based on an ongoing evaluation of its customers' creditworthiness and competitive market conditions and establishes its allowance for

F-9

1. OPERATIONS AND SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES--(CONTINUED)

doubtful accounts based on an assessment of exposures to credit losses at each balance sheet date. The Company believes its allowance for doubtful accounts is sufficient based on the credit exposures outstanding at December 31, 1998. However, certain retailers filed for bankruptcy protection in the last several years and it is possible that additional credit losses could be incurred if other retailers seek bankruptcy protection or if the trends of retail consolidation continue.

Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower-of-cost-or-market with cost being determined principally by the first-in, first-out method.

In certain instances, the Company receives rebates from vendors based on the volume of merchandise purchased. Vendor rebates are recorded as reductions in the price of the purchased merchandise and are recognized in operations as the related inventories are sold.

Effective in fiscal 1997, as a consequence of the initial outsourcing of the supplies inventories management function, the Company began capitalizing the cost of manufacturing supplies, whereas previously the cost of these supplies was charged to operations when purchased. This change, which management believes is preferable in that it provides for a more appropriate matching of revenues and expenses, increased pre-tax operating earnings in fiscal 1997 by $2.8 million. Additional disclosures pursuant to Accounting Principles Board ("APB") Opinion No. 20, Accounting Changes, are not provided since supplies inventories were not monitored for financial reporting purposes prior to the initial outsourcing of the inventory management function and, consequently, the information is not available.

Property, Plant and Equipment

Property, plant and equipment are stated at cost. The Company provides for depreciation using primarily the straight-line method in amounts that allocate the cost of property, plant and equipment over the following useful lives:

<TABLE>

<S>

Buildings and improvements.....	5 to 45 years
Machinery, equipment and tooling.....	3 to 15 years
Furniture and fixtures.....	3 to 10 years

</TABLE>

Leasehold improvements are amortized on a straight-line basis over the shorter of its estimated useful life or the term of the lease.

Long-lived Assets

The Company accounts for long-lived assets pursuant to Statement of Financial Accounting Standards ("SFAS") No. 121, Accounting for the Impairment of Long-Lived Assets and for Long-Lived Assets to be Disposed of. The Company periodically evaluates factors, events and circumstances which include, but are not limited to, the historical and projected operating performance of the business operations, specific industry trends and general economic conditions to assess whether the remaining estimated useful lives of long-lived assets may warrant revision or whether the remaining asset values are recoverable through future operations. When such factors, events or circumstances indicate that long-lived assets should be evaluated for possible impairment, the Company uses an estimate of cash flows (undiscounted and without interest charges) over the remaining lives of the assets to measure recoverability. If the estimated cash flows are less than the carrying value of the asset, the loss is measured as the amount by which the carrying value of the asset exceeds fair value.

With respect to enterprise level goodwill, the Company reviews impairment when changes in circumstances, similar to those described above for long-lived assets, indicate that the carrying value may not be recoverable. Under these circumstances, the Company estimates future cash flows using the recoverability method

(undiscounted and including related interest charges), as a basis for recording any impairment loss. An impairment loss is then recorded to adjust the carrying value of goodwill to the recoverable amount. The impairment loss taken is no greater than the amount by which the carrying value of the net assets of the business exceeds its fair value.

Derivative Financial Instruments

The Company enters into interest rate swap agreements and foreign exchange rate contracts as part of the management of its interest rate and foreign currency exchange rate exposures. The Company has no derivative financial instruments held for trading purposes and none of the instruments is leveraged. All financial instruments are put into place to hedge specific exposures. To qualify as a hedge, the item to be hedged must expose the Company to price, interest rate or foreign currency exchange rate risk and the hedging instrument must reduce that exposure. Any contracts held or issued that do not meet the requirements of a hedge are recorded at fair value in the Consolidated Balance Sheets and any changes in that fair value recognized in operations.

Interest rate swap agreements--Interest rate differentials to be paid or received as a result of interest rate swap agreements are accrued and recognized as an adjustment of interest expense related to the designated debt. Amounts receivable or payable under the agreements are included in receivables or other current liabilities in the Consolidated Balance Sheets. The fair value of the swap agreements and changes in the fair value as a result of changes in market interest rates are not recognized in the financial statements. Related premiums are amortized to interest expense ratably during the life of the swap agreement.

Gains and losses on termination of interest rate swap agreements are deferred and amortized as an adjustment to interest expense over the original period of interest exposure, provided the designated liability continues to exist. Realized and unrealized changes in the fair value of interest rate swaps designated with liabilities that no longer exist are recorded as a component of the gain or loss arising from the disposition of the designated liability.

Foreign currency options and forward contracts--Foreign currency contracts designated and effective as hedges are marked to market with realized and unrealized gains and losses deferred and recognized in operations when the designated transaction occurs. Foreign currency contracts not designated as hedges, failing to be hedges or failing to continue as effective hedges are included in operations as foreign exchange gains or losses.

Discounts or premiums on forward contracts designated and effective as hedges are accreted or amortized to expense using the straight-line method over the term of the related contract. Discounts or premiums on forward contracts not designated or effective as hedges are included in the mark to market adjustment and recognized in income as foreign exchange gains or losses. Initial premiums paid for purchased option contracts are amortized over the related option period.

Capitalized Interest

Interest costs for the construction of certain long-term assets are capitalized and amortized over the related assets' estimated useful lives. Total interest costs during 1998, 1997 and 1996 amounted to $131.9 million, $12.3 million and $14.0 million, respectively, of which $0.8 million, $0.9 million and $0.4 million, respectively, was capitalized as a cost of the related long-term assets.

1. OPERATIONS AND SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES--(CONTINUED)

Deferred Financing Costs

Costs incurred in connection with obtaining financing are deferred and amortized as a charge to interest expense over the terms of the related borrowings using the interest method.

Amortization Periods

Trademarks, tradenames and goodwill are being amortized on a straight-line basis over 20 to 40 years.

Revenue Recognition

The Company recognizes sales and related cost of goods sold from product sales at the latter of the time of shipment or when title passes to the customers. In some situations, the Company has shipped product with the right of return where the Company is unable to reasonably estimate the level of returns and/or the sale is contingent upon the resale of the product. In these situations, the Company does not recognize revenue upon product shipment, but rather when the buyer of the product informs the Company that the product has been sold. Net sales is comprised of gross sales less provisions for estimated customer returns, discounts, promotional allowances, cooperative advertising allowances and costs incurred by the Company to ship product to customers. Reserves for estimated returns are established by the Company concurrently with the recognition of revenue. Reserves are established based on a variety of factors, including historical return rates, estimates of customer inventory levels, the market for the product and projected economic conditions. The Company monitors these reserves and makes adjustments to them when management believes that actual returns or costs to be incurred differ from amounts recorded.

022364

Warranty Costs

The Company provides for warranty costs in amounts it estimates will be needed to cover future warranty obligations for products sold during the year. Estimates of warranty costs are periodically reviewed and adjusted, when necessary, to consider actual experience.

Product Liability

The Company provides for product liability costs it estimates will be needed to cover future product liability costs for product sold during the year. Estimates of product liability costs are periodically reviewed and adjusted, when necessary, to consider actual experience, and other relevant factors.

Legal Costs

The Company records charges for the costs it anticipates incurring in connection with litigation and claims against the Company when management can reasonably estimate these costs.

Income Taxes

The Company accounts for income taxes under the liability method in accordance with SFAS No. 109, Accounting for Income Taxes. The provision for income taxes includes deferred income taxes resulting from items reported in different periods for income tax and financial statement purposes. Deferred tax assets and liabilities represent the expected future tax consequences of the differences between the financial statement carrying amounts of existing assets and liabilities and their respective tax bases. The effects of changes in tax rates on deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized in the period that includes the enactment date.

Advertising Costs

Media advertising costs included in Selling, General and Administrative Expense ("SG&A") are expensed as incurred. Allowances provided to customers for cooperative advertising are charged to operations, as earned, based on revenues and are included as a deduction from gross sales in determining net sales. The amounts charged to operations for media and cooperative advertising during 1998, 1997 and 1996 were $124.5 million, $55.7 million and $78.7 million, respectively.

Research and Development

Research and development expenditures are expensed in the period incurred. The amounts charged against operations during 1998, 1997 and 1996 were $18.7 million, $5.7 million and $6.5 million, respectively.

Foreign Currency Translation

The assets and liabilities of subsidiaries, other than those operating in highly inflationary economies, are translated into U.S. dollars with resulting translation gains and losses accumulated in a separate component of shareholders' equity. Income and expense items are converted into U.S. dollars at average rates of exchange prevailing during the year.

For subsidiaries operating in highly inflationary economies (Venezuela and Mexico), inventories and property, plant and equipment are translated at the rate of exchange on the date the assets were acquired, while other assets and liabilities are translated at year-end exchange rates. Translation adjustments for those operations are included in Other (Income) Expense, Net in the accompanying Consolidated Statements of Operations. Effective January 1, 1999, Mexico will no longer be considered highly inflationary.

Stock-Based Compensation Plans

SFAS No. 123, Accounting for Stock-Based Compensation allows either adoption of a fair value method for accounting for stock-based compensation plans or continuation of accounting under APB Opinion No. 25, Accounting for Stock Issued to Employees, and related interpretations with supplemental disclosures.

The Company has chosen to account for its stock options using the intrinsic value based method prescribed in APB Opinion No. 25 and, accordingly, does not recognize compensation expense for stock option grants made at an exercise price equal to or in excess of the fair market value of the stock at the date of grant. Pro forma net income and earnings per share amounts as if the fair value method had been adopted are presented in Note 9. SFAS No. 123 does not impact the Company's results of operations, financial position or cash flows.

Basic and Diluted (Loss) Earnings Per Share of Common Stock

Basic (loss) earnings per common share calculations are determined by dividing (loss) earnings available to common shareholders by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding. Diluted (loss) earnings per share are determined by dividing (loss) earnings available to common shareholders by the weighted average number of shares of common stock and dilutive common stock equivalents outstanding (all related to outstanding stock options, restricted stock, warrants and the Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures).

For the years ended December 31, 1998 and December 29, 1996, respectively, 1,902,177 and 1,552,684 shares related to stock options, were not included in diluted average common shares outstanding because their effect would be antidilutive. Diluted average common shares outstanding as of December 29, 1996 also excluded (78,654) shares related to restricted stock. Diluted average common shares outstanding as of December 31, 1998 also excluded 13,242,050 shares related to the conversion feature of the Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures (see Note 3) and 23,000,000 shares issuable on the exercise of warrants, due to antidilution. For the year ended December 28, 1997, the dilutive effect of 2,718,649 equivalent shares related to stock options and (120,923) equivalent shares of restricted stock were used in determining the dilutive average shares outstanding.

New Accounting Standards

In March 1998, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants ("AICPA") issued Statement of Position 98-1, Accounting for the Costs of Computer Software Developed or Obtained for Internal Use ("SOP 98-1"). SOP 98-1 requires computer software costs associated with internal use software to be expensed as incurred until certain capitalization criteria are met. The Company will adopt SOP 98-1 on January 1, 1999. Adoption of this statement is not expected to have a material impact on the Company's consolidated financial position, results of operations, or cash flows. Actual charges incurred due to systems projects may be material.

In April 1998, the AICPA issued Statement of Position 98-5, Reporting on the Cost of Start-Up Activities ("SOP 98-5"). SOP 98-5 requires all costs associated with pre-opening, pre-operating and organization activities to be expensed as incurred. The Company will adopt SOP 98-5 beginning January 1, 1999. Adoption of this statement is not expected to have a material impact on the Company's consolidated financial position, results of operations, or cash flows.

In June 1998, the FASB issued SFAS No. 133, Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities, which is effective for fiscal years beginning after June 15, 1999. SFAS No. 133 requires the recognition of all derivatives in the Consolidated Balance Sheets as either assets or liabilities measured at fair value. The Company will adopt SFAS No. 133 for the 2000 fiscal year. The Company has not yet determined the impact SFAS No. 133 will have on its consolidated financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

Reclassification

Certain prior year amounts have been reclassified to conform with the 1998 presentation.

2. ACQUISITIONS

On March 30, 1998, the Company, through a wholly-owned subsidiary, acquired approximately 81% of the total number of then outstanding shares of common stock of Coleman from an affiliate of MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings, Inc. ("M&F"), in exchange for 14,099,749 shares of the Company's common stock and approximately $160 million in cash. In addition, the Company assumed approximately $1,016 million in debt. The value of the common stock issued at the date of acquisition was derived by using the average closing stock price as reported on the New York Stock Exchange Composite Tape for the day before and day of the public announcement of the acquisition. Immediately thereafter, as a result of the exercise of employee stock options, Sunbeam's indirect beneficial ownership of Coleman decreased to approximately 79% of the total number of the outstanding shares of Coleman common stock.

On August 12, 1998, the Company announced that, following investigation and negotiation conducted by a Special Committee of the Board consisting of four outside directors not affiliated with M&F, the Company had entered into a settlement agreement with an affiliate of M&F pursuant to which the Company was released from certain threatened claims of M&F and its affiliates arising from the Coleman acquisition and M&F agreed to provide certain management personnel and assistance to the Company in exchange for the issuance to the M&F affiliate of a five year warrant to purchase up to 23 million shares of the Company's common stock at a cash exercise price of $7.00 per share, subject to antidilution adjustments. The Company concluded that the agreement to issue this warrant did not result in a new measurement date for the purposes of determining the purchase price for Coleman and has accounted for the issuance of this warrant as a cost of settling a potential claim. Accordingly, a $70.0 million non-cash SG&A expense was recorded in the third quarter of 1998, based on a valuation performed as of August 1998 using facts existing at that time. The valuation was conducted by an independent consultant engaged by the Special Committee of the board of directors.

The Company expects to acquire the remaining equity interest in Coleman pursuant to a merger transaction in which the existing Coleman minority shareholders will receive 0.5677 shares of the Company's common stock and $6.44 in cash for each share of Coleman common stock outstanding. In addition, unexercised options under Coleman's stock option plans will be cashed out at a price per share equal to the difference between $27.50 and the exercise price of such options. The Company expects to issue approximately 6.7 million shares of common stock and expend approximately $87 million in cash to complete the Coleman acquisition. Although there can be no assurance, it is anticipated the Coleman merger will occur in the second half of 1999. The acquisition of the remaining outstanding shares of Coleman common stock will be accounted for under the purchase method of accounting on the date of consummation of the Coleman merger. (Also see Note 15 for information regarding the proposed issuance of warrants related to this transaction.)

On April 6, 1998, the Company completed the acquisitions of First Alert, valued at approximately $182 million (including $133 million of cash and $49 million of assumed debt) and Signature Brands valued at $255 million, (reflecting cash paid, including the required retirement or defeasance of debt).

All of these acquisitions were accounted for by the purchase method of accounting. Accordingly, the results of operations of the acquired entities are included in the accompanying Consolidated Statements of Operations from their respective dates of acquisition.

In each acquisition, the purchase price paid has been allocated to the fair value (determined by independent appraisals) of tangible and identified intangible assets acquired and liabilities assumed as follows (in millions):

The excess of purchase price over the fair value of net assets acquired has been classified as goodwill. Goodwill related to the Coleman and Signature Brands acquisitions is being amortized on a straight-line basis over 40 years. During the fourth quarter of 1998, as a result of the significant loss incurred by First Alert, as well as its future prospects, the Company determined that the goodwill relating to this acquisition was impaired and, based on the determination of fair value, has written-off the net carrying value of goodwill approximating $62.5 million. This one-time charge is reflected in SG&A expense in the Consolidated Statements of Operations.

As of the date of the acquisition of Coleman, management of the Company determined approximately 117 employees of Coleman would need to be involuntarily terminated in order to eliminate duplicate activities and functions and fully integrate Coleman into Sunbeam's operations. The Company recognized a liability of approximately $8 million representing severance and benefit costs related to 117 employees pursuant to the termination plan. This liability was included in the allocation of purchase price. As of December 31, 1998, the Company had paid severance benefits of approximately $5 million and 8 employees remained to be terminated. Remaining termination costs are expected to be paid by December 31, 2000 and no additional charges are anticipated in future periods related to this issue.

The following unaudited pro forma financial information for the Company gives effect to the Coleman and Signature Brands acquisitions as if they had occurred at the beginning of the periods presented. No pro forma adjustments have been made for the First Alert acquisition as its effects are not significant. These pro forma results have been prepared for informational purposes only and do not purport to be indicative of the results of operations which actually would have occurred had the acquisitions been consummated on the dates indicated, or which may result in the future. Concurrent with the acquisitions, the Company replaced its $250 million syndicated unsecured five-year revolving credit facility with a revolving and term credit facility (the "New Credit Facility"). The New Credit Facility provided for aggregate borrowings of up to $1.7 billion and in addition to other customary covenants, required Sunbeam to maintain specified consolidated leverage, interest coverage and fixed charge coverage ratios as of the end of each fiscal quarter occurring after March 31, 1998 and on or prior to the latest stated maturity date for any of the borrowings under the New Credit Facility.

As a result of, among other things, its operating losses incurred during the first half of 1998, Sunbeam did not achieve the specified financial ratios for June 30, 1998 and it appeared unlikely that Sunbeam would achieve the specified financial ratios for September 30, 1998. Consequently, Sunbeam and its lenders entered into an agreement dated as of June 30, 1998 that waived through December 31, 1998 all defaults arising from the failure of Sunbeam to satisfy the specified financial ratios for June 30, 1998 and September 30, 1998. Pursuant to an agreement with Sunbeam dated as of October 19, 1998, Sunbeam's lenders extended all of the waivers under the June 30, 1998 agreement through April 10, 1999 and also waived through such date all defaults arising from any failure by Sunbeam to satisfy the specified financial ratios for December 31, 1998. As part of the October 19, 1998 agreement, Sunbeam agreed to a minimum monthly earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization ("EBITDA") covenant for each of February, March and April of 1999, which covenant Sunbeam was able to satisfy.

On April 10, 1999, among other things, the lenders extended all of the waivers set forth in the October 19, 1998 agreement through April 15, 1999. On April 15, 1999, Sunbeam and its lenders entered into a comprehensive amendment to the New Credit Facility that, among other things, extended all of the waivers under the April 10, 1999 agreement until April 10, 2000 and waived until such date all defaults arising from any failure by Sunbeam to satisfy the specified financial ratios for any fiscal quarter end occurring during 1999 and for March 31, 2000. As part of the April 15, 1999 amendment, Sunbeam agreed to a minimum cumulative EBITDA covenant that is based on post-December 31, 1998 consolidated EBITDA and is tested at the end of each month occurring on or prior to March 31, 2000, as well as a covenant limiting the amount of revolving loans (other than those used to fund the Coleman merger) that may be outstanding under the New Credit Facility as of the end of each such month. The minimum cumulative EBITDA was initially $6.3 million for the period January 1, 1999 through April 30, 1999 and generally grows on a monthly basis until it reaches $121 million for the period from January 1, 1999 through March 31, 2000. The following description of the New Credit Facility reflects the terms of the New Credit Facility as amended.

The New Credit Facility provides for aggregate borrowings of up to $1.7 billion pursuant to: (i) a revolving credit facility in an aggregate principal amount of up to $400 million maturing March 30, 2005 ($52.5 million of which may only be used to complete the Coleman merger); (ii) up to $800 million in term loans maturing on March 30, 2005 (of which $35.0 million may only be used to complete the Coleman merger) and (iii) a $500 million term loan maturing September 30, 2006 (of which $5.0 million has already been repaid through March 31, 1999). As of December 31, 1998, $1.4 billion was outstanding and $0.3 billion was available for borrowing under the New Credit Facility.

Pursuant to the New Credit Facility, interest accrues, at the Company's option: (i) at the London Interbank Offered Rate ("LIBOR"), or (ii) at the base rate of the administrative agent which is generally the higher of the prime commercial lending rate of the administrative agent or the Federal Funds Rate plus 0.50%, in each case plus an interest margin which is currently 3.75% for LIBOR borrowings and 2.50% for base rate borrowings. The applicable interest margin is subject to upward or downward adjustment upon the occurrence of certain events. Borrowings under the New Credit Facility are secured by a pledge of the stock of the Company's material subsidiaries, including Coleman, and by a security interest in substantially all of the assets of Sunbeam and its material domestic subsidiaries, other than Coleman and its material subsidiaries except as described below. Currently, Coleman's inventory and related assets are pledged to secure its obligations for letters of credit issued for its account under the New Credit Facility. Additionally, as security for Coleman's note payable to the Company, Coleman pledged substantially all of its domestic assets, other than real property, including 66% of the stock of its direct foreign subsidiaries and domestic holding companies for its foreign subsidiaries, and all of the stock of its other direct domestic subsidiaries (but not the assets of Coleman's subsidiaries). The pledge runs in favor of Sunbeam's lending banks, to which the Coleman note has been pledged as security for Sunbeam's obligations to them. Upon completion of the Coleman merger, substantially all of Coleman's assets and the assets of Coleman's domestic subsidiaries will be pledged to secure the obligations under the New Credit Facility. In addition, borrowings under the New Credit Facility are guaranteed by a number of the Company's wholly owned material domestic subsidiaries and these subsidiary guarantees are secured as described above. Upon completion of the Coleman merger, Coleman and each of its United States subsidiaries will become guarantors of the obligations under the New Credit Facility. To the extent extensions of credit are made to any subsidiaries of the Company, the obligations of such subsidiaries are guaranteed by the Company.

In addition to the above described ratios and tests, the New Credit Facility contains covenants customary for credit facilities of a similar nature, including limitations on the ability of Sunbeam and its subsidiaries, including Coleman, to, among other things, (i) declare dividends or repurchase stock, (ii) prepay, redeem or repurchase debt, incur liens and engage in sale-leaseback transactions, (iii) make loans and investments, (iv) incur additional debt, including revolving loans under the New Credit Facility, (v) amend or otherwise alter material agreements or enter into restrictive agreements, (vi) make capital and year 2000 compliance expenditures, (vii) engage in mergers, acquisitions and asset sales, (viii) engage in certain transactions with affiliates, (ix) settle certain litigation, (x) alter its cash management system and (xi) alter the businesses they conduct. Sunbeam is also required to comply with specified financial covenants and ratios. The New Credit Facility provides for events of default customary for transactions of this type, including nonpayment, misrepresentation, breach of covenant, cross-defaults, bankruptcy, material adverse change arising from compliance with ERISA, material adverse judgments, entering into guarantees and change of ownership and control. It is also an event of default under the New Credit Facility if Sunbeam's registration statement in connection with the Coleman merger is not declared effective by the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") on or before October 30, 1999 or if the merger does not occur within 25 business days of the effectiveness of the registration statement or if the cash consideration (including any payments on account of the exercise of any appraisal rights, but excluding related legal, accounting and other customary fees and expenses) to consummate the Coleman merger exceeds $87.5 million. Although there can be no assurance, the Company anticipates that it will satisfy these conditions. Unless waived by the bank lenders, the failure of Sunbeam to satisfy any of the financial ratios and tests contained in the New Credit Facility or the occurrence of any other event of default under the New Credit Facility would entitle the bank lenders to (a) receive a 2.00% increase in the interest rate applicable to outstanding loans and increase the trade letter of credit fees to 1.00% and (b) accelerate the maturity of the outstanding borrowings under the New Credit Facility and exercise all or any of their other rights and remedies. Any such acceleration or other exercise of rights and remedies would likely have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam. The New Credit Facility also includes provisions for the deferral of the 1999 scheduled term loan payments of $69.3 million, subject to delivery of certain collateral documents and the filing of an amendment to the Company's registration statement on Form S-4 relating to the Coleman merger. If these conditions are met, and there are no events of default, the scheduled loan payments will be extended until April 10, 2000. The Company anticipates that it will satisfy these conditions and, accordingly, has classified these amounts as long-term in the Consolidated Balance Sheet.

In March 1998, the Company completed an offering of Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the "Debentures") at a yield to maturity of 5.0% (approximately $2,014 million principal amount at maturity) which resulted in approximately $730 million of net proceeds. The Debentures are exchangeable for shares of the Company's common stock at an initial conversion rate of 6.575 shares for each $1,000 principal amount at maturity of the Debentures, subject to adjustment upon occurrence of certain events. The Debentures are subordinated in right of payment to all existing and future senior indebtedness of the Company. The Debentures are not redeemable by the Company prior to March 25, 2003. On or after such date, the Debentures are redeemable for cash with at least 30 days notice, at the option of the Company. The Company is required to purchase Debentures at the option of the holder as of March 25, 2003, March 25, 2008 and March 25, 2013, at purchase prices equal to the issue price plus accrued original discount to such dates. The Company may, at its option, elect to pay any such purchase price in cash or common stock, or any combination thereof. The Company was required to file a registration statement with the SEC to register the Debentures by June 23, 1998. This registration statement was filed February 4, 1999 and the SEC has not declared the registration statement effective. Sunbeam's failure to file the registration statement by June 23, 1998 did not constitute a default under the terms of the Debentures. As part of the normal review process by the SEC, a number of comments have been made by the staff of the division of Corporation Finance relating to the registration statement and the restated 1996 and 1997 financial statements included therein. The Company expects to resolve these comments when it files an amendment to the registration statement. From June 23, 1998 until the registration statement is declared effective, the Company is required to pay to the Debenture holders cash liquidated damages accruing, for each day during such period, at a rate per annum equal to 0.25% during the first 90 days and 0.50% thereafter multiplied by the total of the issue price of the Debentures plus the original issue discount thereon on such day. The Company made its first payment of approximately $0.5 million to the Debenture holders on September 25, 1998. As of December 31, 1998 the Company had accrued additional payments totaling $1.0 million. The Company made a payment to Debenture holders in March 1999 of approximately $2.0 million. This amount included liquidated damages that accrued during the first quarter of 1999.

In connection with the acquisition of Signature Brands, the Company was required to defease $70.0 million of acquired debt. Cash was placed with a trustee to provide for the defeasance, including the related prepayment penalty. This cash was used to purchase Treasury Notes. Accordingly, $74.4 million of restricted investments held by the trustee for the August 1999 liquidation of this acquired debt are reflected as an asset and $70.0 million is reflected as short-term debt in the Consolidated Balance Sheet at December 31, 1998. The prepayment penalty is reflected as part of the acquisition price of Signature Brands.

In March 1998, the Company prepaid the $75.0 million 7.85% industrial revenue bond related to its Hattiesburg facility originally due in 2009. In connection with the early extinguishment of this debt, the Company recognized an extraordinary charge of $7.5 million. As a result of repayment of certain indebtedness assumed in the Coleman acquisition, the Company also recognized an extraordinary charge of $114.9 million. The debt assumed in connection with the Coleman acquisition was repaid as a result of the requirements under the terms of the New Credit Facility Credit Agreement. These extraordinary charges consisted of redemption premiums ($106.9 million), unamortized debt discount ($13.8 million) and unamortized deferred financing costs ($1.7 million).

During 1997, the Company repaid $12.2 million of long-term borrowings related to the divested furniture operations and other assets sold.

At December 31, 1998, the aggregate annual maturities on short-term and long-term debt in each of the years 1999-2003, and thereafter, were $119 million, $1,355 million, $1 million, $1 million, $1 million, and $5 million, respectively. In addition, the fully accreted Debenture amount of $2,014 million matures in 2018. The total of annual debt maturities for all years presented does not agree to the balance of debt outstanding at December 31, 1998 as a result of the accretion of discount on the Debentures. The outstanding balances relating to the New Credit Facility are included in the maturity schedule in 2000, consistent with the expiration of the covenant waiver. Sunbeam has made no decision with respect to the repayment or refinancing of indebtedness incurred or to be incurred under the New Credit Facility and may repay such indebtedness out of its internally generated funds or from proceeds of a subsequent financing. Any decisions with respect to such repayment or refinancing will be made based on a review from time to time of the advisability of particular transactions, as well as on prevailing interest rates and financial and economic conditions.

4. FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Fair Value of Financial Instruments

The fair value of the Company's financial instruments as of December 31, 1998 and December 28, 1997 was estimated based upon the following methods and assumptions:

Cash and Cash Equivalents--The carrying amount of cash and cash equivalents is assumed to approximate fair value as cash equivalents include all highly liquid, short-term investments with original maturities of three months or less.

Short and Long Term Debt--The fair value of the Company's fixed rate debt is estimated using either reported transaction values or discounted cash flow analysis. The fair value of the Company's fixed rate debt was $319 million as of December 31, 1998 as compared to the carrying value of $859 million. The carrying value of the Company's variable rate debt is assumed to approximate market based upon periodic adjustments of the interest rate to the current market rate in accordance with the terms of the debt agreements. The carrying value of the Company's various debt outstanding as of December 28, 1997 approximated market.

Letters of Credit and Surety Bonds--The Company utilizes stand-by letters of credit to back certain financing instruments and insurance policies and commercial letters of credit guaranteeing various international trade activities. In addition, the Company also entered into surety bonds largely as a result of litigation judgements that are currently under appeal. The contract amounts of the letters of credit and surety bonds approximate their fair values. The contract value of letters of credit were $82.3 million and $29.0 million as of December 31, 1998 and December 28, 1997, respectively. Contract values for surety bonds as of December 31, 1998 were approximately $26.5 million and were not significant at December 28, 1997.

Derivative Financial Instruments--The Company utilizes interest rate swap agreements to reduce the impact on interest expense of fluctuating interest rates on its floating rate debt. The use of derivatives did not have a material impact on the Company's operations in 1998, 1997 and 1996. At December 31, 1998, the Company held three floating to fixed interest rate swap agreements, one with a notional value of $25 million and two with notional amounts of $150 million each. The swap agreements are contracts to exchange floating rate for fixed interest payments periodically over the lives of the agreements without the exchange of the underlying notional principal amounts. The swaps expire in January 2003, June 2001 and June 2003, respectively. Under these agreements, the Company received an average floating rate of 5.64%, 5.59% and 5.59%, respectively, and paid an average fixed rate of 6.12%, 5.75% and 5.58%, respectively, during 1998. The fair value of the interest rate swaps at December 31, 1998 is estimated to be $7.3 million. This estimate is based upon quotes received from the Company's lending institutions and represents the cash requirement if the existing agreements had been terminated at the end of the year. Interest rate swaps are off-balance-sheet instruments and therefore have no carrying value. The Company had no swap agreements outstanding at December 28, 1997.

In order to mitigate the transaction exposures that may arise from changes in foreign exchange rates, the Company purchases foreign currency option and forward contracts to hedge specific transactions, principally the purchases of inventories. The option contracts typically expire within one year. The options are accounted for as hedges pursuant to SFAS No. 52, Foreign Currency Translation, accordingly gains and losses thereon are deferred and recorded in operations in the period in which the underlying transaction is recorded. At December 31, 1998, the Company held purchased option contracts with a notional value of $32.3 million and a fair value of $0.3 million and forward contracts with a notional value of $30.9 million and a fair value of $30.5 million. The Company did not hold any such contracts at December 28, 1997.

The fair values of the Company's foreign currency contracts were based on quoted market prices of comparable contracts, adjusted through interpolation where necessary for maturity differences.

Exposure to market risk on interest rate and foreign currency financial instruments results from fluctuations in interest and currency rates, respectively, during the periods in which the contracts are outstanding. The counterparties to the Company's interest rate swap agreements and currency exchange contracts consist of a diversified group of major financial institutions, each of which is rated investment grade A or better. The Company is exposed to credit risk to the extent of potential nonperformance by counterparties on financial instruments. The Company believes the risk of incurred losses due to credit risk is remote.

5. ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE SECURITIZATION

In December 1997, the Company entered into a receivable securitization program, that expires March 2000, to sell without recourse, through a wholly owned subsidiary, certain trade accounts receivable, up to a maximum of $70.0 million. During 1998, the Company has received approximately $200.0 million under this arrangement. At December 31, 1998, the Company had reduced accounts receivable by $20.0 million for receivables sold under this program. At December 28, 1997, the Company had received $58.9 million under this arrangement, of which $39.1 million related to sales recorded in fiscal 1997 and the balance related to sales to be recognized in the first quarter of 1998. During 1997, the Company sold $19.8 million of receivables related to bill and hold and consignment sales that had been initially recognized in its Consolidated Financial Statements and were subsequently reversed in the restatement process. The conditions for recognizing these sales were met in the first quarter of 1998. Accordingly, at December 28, 1997, the accompanying Consolidated Balance Sheet reflects a reduction in accounts receivable of $39.1 million and an increase in other current liabilities of $19.8 million. Proceeds from the sales of receivables were used to reduce borrowings under the Company's revolving credit facility or to provide cash flow for working capital purposes, thereby reducing the need to borrow under the credit facility. Costs of the program, which primarily consist of the purchaser's financing cost of issuing commercial paper backed by the receivables, totaled $2.3 million and $0.2 million during 1998 and 1997, respectively, and have been classified as interest expense in the accompanying Consolidated Statements of Operations. The Company, through a wholly-owned subsidiary, retains collection and administrative responsibilities for the purchased receivables. This agreement contains cross-default provisions that provide the purchaser of the receivables an option to cease purchasing receivables from the Company if the Company is in default under the New Credit Facility.

The Company establishes valuation allowances in accordance with the provisions of SFAS No. 109. The Company continually reviews the adequacy of the valuation allowances and recognizes tax benefits when it is more likely than not that the benefits will be realized. In the fourth quarter of 1997, the Company increased the valuation allowance by $23.2 million, reflecting management's assessment that it was more likely than not that the deferred tax assets would not be realized through future taxable income. Of this amount, approximately $18.9 million related to deferred tax assets, the majority of which was recognized as a benefit in the first three quarters of 1997. The remainder related to minimum pension liabilities and was therefore recorded as an adjustment in shareholders' equity. This assessment was made as a result of the significant leverage undertaken by the Company as part of the acquisitions (see Note 2) and the significant decline in net sales and earnings from anticipated levels during the fourth quarter of 1997 and the first quarter of 1998.

Throughout 1998, the Company increased the valuation allowance to $290.5 million, which increase reflects management's assessment that it is more likely than not that the deferred tax asset will not be realized through future taxable income. As described above, this assessment was made as a result of the significant leverage undertaken by the Company and the continuing decline in Sunbeam's net sales and earnings, as well as the operating losses incurred throughout the 1998 year. At December 31, 1998, the Company had net operating loss carryforwards ("NOL's") of approximately $725 million for domestic income tax purposes and $169 million for foreign income tax purposes. The domestic NOL's begin expiring in 2018. Of the foreign tax NOL's, $3 million, $4 million, $19 million, $18 million and $16 million expire in the years ending December 31, 1999 through 2003, respectively, and $91 million of such NOL's have an unlimited life.

The Company has not provided U.S. income taxes on undistributed foreign earnings of approximately $32 million at December 31, 1998, as the Company intends to permanently reinvest these earnings in the future growth of the business. Determination of the amount of unrecognized deferred U.S. income tax liability is not practicable because of the complexities associated with its hypothetical calculation.

7. EMPLOYEE BENEFIT PLANS

Pension and Other Postretirement Benefit Plans

The Company sponsors several defined benefit pension plans covering eligible U.S. salaried and hourly employees. Benefit accruals under such plans covering all U.S. salaried employees were frozen, effective December 31, 1990. Accordingly, no credit in the pension formula is given for service or compensation after that date. However, these employees continue to earn service toward vesting in their interest in the frozen plans as of December 31, 1990. The Company also provides health care and life insurance benefits to certain former employees who retired from the Company prior to March 31, 1991. The Company has consistently followed a policy of funding the cost of postretirement health care and life insurance benefits on a pay-as-you-go basis.

As a result of the Company's acquisitions of Coleman and First Alert (see Note 2), the liabilities for their respective defined benefit pension plans (the "Plans") were assumed and have been accounted for in accordance with Accounting Principles Board Opinion No.16 ("APB 16"), Accounting for Business Combinations. Effective January 1, 1999, the Coleman and First Alert salaried pension plans were amended to change the pension benefit formula to a cash balance formula from the existing benefit calculation. The benefits accrued under these plans as of December 31, 1998 were frozen and converted to the new cash balance plan using a 7.0% interest rate assumption. The effect of the amendment of the Plans is reflected in the projected benefit obligation as of the date of acquisition as required by APB 16. Under the cash balance plan, the Company will credit certain participants' accounts annually. At the date of acquisition the pension benefit obligation and the fair value of the plan assets attributable to these Plans were $43.4 million and $27.7 million, respectively, and are reflected in the table below.

In addition, Coleman provided certain unfunded postretirement health and life insurance benefits for certain retired employees. At the date of acquisition the postretirement benefit obligation associated with this plan was $19.5 million as reflected in the table below, and has been accounted for in accordance with APB 16.

The Company funds all pension plans in amounts consistent with applicable laws and regulations. Pension plan assets include corporate and U.S. government bonds, corporate stocks, mutual funds, fixed income securities, and cash equivalents.

Employees of non-U.S. subsidiaries generally receive retirement benefits from Company sponsored plans or from statutory plans administered by governmental agencies in their countries. The assets, liabilities and pension costs of the Company's non-U.S. defined benefit retirement plans are not material to the consolidated financial statements.

On January 1, 1998, the Company adopted SFAS No. 132, Employers' Disclosures About Pensions and Other Postretirement Benefits ("SFAS No. 132"). This statement revises employers' disclosures about pension and other postretirement benefit plans. SFAS No. 132 does not change the method of accounting for such plans.

In determining the actuarial present value of the benefit obligation, the weighted average discount rate was 6.75% and 7.25% as of December 31, 1998 and December 28, 1997, respectively; the expected return on plan assets ranged from 6.75% to 9.00% for 1998 and was 7.25% for 1997. The expected increase in future compensation levels was 4.00% for Coleman for 1998.

The assumed health care cost trend rates used in measuring the accumulated postretirement benefit obligation were 7.0% to 8.0% for the plans for 1999 and were assumed to decrease gradually to 5.0% by 2003 and remain at that level thereafter.

Defined Contribution Plans

As a result of the Company's acquisitions of Coleman, First Alert and Signature Brands, the Company amended its Savings & Investment and Profit Sharing Plan ("Savings Plan") to assume the assets of the respective savings plans at each of the acquired companies and establish parity with the benefits provided by Sunbeam. Effective January 1, 1999, all eligible employees could participate in the Savings Plan. Company contributions to these plans include employer matching contributions as well as discretionary contributions depending on the performance of the Company, in an amount up to 10% of eligible compensation. The Company provided $1.9 million in 1998, $1.8 million in 1997 and $1.7 million in 1996 for its defined contribution plans.

At December 31, 1998, the Company had 500,000,000 shares of $0.01 par value common stock authorized and there were 14,094,158 shares of common stock reserved for issuance upon the exercise of outstanding stock options.

Compensatory Stock Grants

In July 1996, the Company granted 1,100,000 shares of restricted stock in connection with the employment of a then new Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other senior officers of the Company. Compensation expense attributable to the restricted stock awards was amortized to expense beginning in 1996 over the periods in which the restrictions lapse (which in the case of 333,333 shares, was immediately upon the date of grant, in the case of 666,667 shares, was to be amortized equally over two years from the date of grant and in the case of the remaining 100,000 shares, was equally over three years from the date of grant). These restricted stock awards resulted in a $7.7 million charge to SG&A expense in 1996.

On February 20, 1998, the Company entered into new three-year employment agreements with its then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other then senior officers of the Company. These agreements replaced previous employment agreements entered into in July 1996 that were scheduled to expire in July 1999.

The new employment agreement for the Company's then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer provided for, among other items, the acceleration of vesting of 200,000 shares of restricted stock and the forfeiture of the remaining 133,334 shares of unvested restricted stock granted under the July 1996 agreement, a new equity grant of 300,000 shares of unrestricted stock, a new grant of a ten-year option to purchase 3,750,000 shares of the Company's common stock with an exercise price equal to the fair market value of the stock at the date of grant and exercisable in three equal annual installments beginning on the date of grant and the acceleration of vesting of 833,333 outstanding stock options granted under the July 1996 agreement, as further described in Note 9. In addition, the new employment agreement with the then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer provided for income tax gross-ups with respect to any tax assessed on the equity grant and acceleration of vesting of restricted stock.

The new employment agreements with the two other then senior officers provided for, among other items, the grant of a total of 180,000 shares of restricted stock that were to vest in four equal annual installments beginning on the date of grant, the acceleration of vesting of 44,000 shares of restricted stock and the forfeiture of the remaining 29,332 shares of unvested restricted stock granted under the July 1996 agreements, new grants of ten-year options to purchase a total of 1,875,000 shares of the Company's common stock with an exercise price equal to the fair market value of the stock at the date of grant and exercisable in four equal annual installments beginning on the date of grant and the acceleration of vesting of 383,334 outstanding stock options granted under the July 1996 agreements. In addition, the new employment agreements provided for income tax gross-ups with respect to any tax assessed on the restricted stock grants and acceleration of vesting of restricted stock.

Compensation expense attributed to the equity grant, the acceleration of vesting of restricted stock and the related income tax gross-ups was recognized in the first quarter of 1998 and compensation expense related to the new restricted stock grants and related tax gross-ups was amortized to expense beginning in the first quarter of 1998 with amortization to continue over the period in which the restrictions lapse. Total compensation expense recognized in 1998 related to these items was approximately $31 million.

On June 15, 1998, the Company's board of directors announced the removal of the then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and subsequently announced the removal or resignation of other senior officers, including the Company's then Chief Financial Officer. In connection with the removal or resignation of the senior officers and the termination of their restricted stock grants, the unamortized portion of the deferred compensation expense attributable to the restricted stock grants was reversed. The Company and certain of its former officers are in disagreement as to the Company's obligations to these individuals under prior employment agreements and arising from their terminations. (See Note 15.)

9. EMPLOYEE STOCK OPTIONS AND AWARDS

The Company has one stock-based compensation plan, the Amended and Restated Sunbeam Corporation Stock Option Plan (the "Plan"). Under the Plan, all employees are eligible for grants of options to purchase up to an aggregate of 16,300,000 shares of the Company's common stock at an exercise price equal to or in excess of the fair market value of the stock on the date of grant. The term of each option commences on the date of grant and expires on the tenth anniversary of the date of grant subject to earlier cancellation. Options generally become exercisable over a three to five year period.

The Plan also provides for the grant of restricted stock awards of up to 200,000 shares, in the aggregate, to employees and non-employee directors. The Plan provides that each non-employee director of the Company is automatically granted 1,500 shares of restricted common stock upon his or her initial election or appointment and upon each subsequent re-election to the Company's board of directors. In the event of an election or appointment to the Company's board of directors at any time other than at the annual meeting of stockholders, the director receives a prorated amount of restricted common shares. These restricted common shares vest immediately upon the non-employee director's acceptance of his or her election or appointment to the Company's board of directors. The Company granted 6,000, 6,000, and 7,818 shares of restricted stock to non-employee directors in 1998, 1997 and 1996, respectively, and recognized compensation expense related to these grants of $0.2 million in each of 1998, 1997 and 1996. See Note 8 for a discussion of restricted stock awards made outside the Plan.

In July 1996, options to purchase an aggregate of 3,000,000 shares (of which 2,750,000 options were outstanding at December 28, 1997) were granted outside of the Plan at exercise prices equal to the fair market value of the Company's common stock on the dates of grant in connection with the employment of a then new Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other senior officers of the Company. These outstanding options have terms of ten years and, with respect to options for 2,500,000 shares, were exercisable in three annual installments beginning July 17, 1996. Options for the remaining 250,000 shares still outstanding were exercisable in three annual installments beginning on the first anniversary of the July 22, 1996 grant date. On February 20, 1998 the vesting provisions of the options granted outside the Plan were accelerated. Additional stock option grants outside the Plan were made in February 1998, with a portion thereof subsequently terminated in connection with the removal of the then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. The then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and another senior officer are disputing termination of their stock option grants. (See Notes 8 and 15.)

In the third and fourth quarters of 1998, options to purchase an aggregate of 4,200,000 shares were granted outside of the Plan in connection with the employment of the new Chief Executive Officer and certain members of the new senior management team. The options were granted to certain senior executives at exercise prices equal to or greater than the fair market value of the Company's common stock on the dates of the grant. The senior officers were granted options to purchase 3,200,000 shares of common stock at a price of $7.00 per share; 500,000 shares of common stock at a price of $10.50 per share and 500,000 shares at a price of $14.00 per share.

All of these outstanding options have terms of ten years and become fully exercisable at the end of two to three year periods if the executive remains employed by the Company as of such date. These grants are subject the shareholder approval at the 1999 Annual Meeting. A measurement date pursuant to APB Opinion No. 25 will be established for these grants upon shareholder approval. These options have been included in the following tables summarizing the Company's stock option activity for the year ended December 31, 1998.

In August 1998, the Company approved a plan to exchange outstanding common stock options held by the Company's employees. The exchange program, which has been completed, provided for outstanding options with exercise prices in excess of $10.00 per share to be exchanged for new options on a voluntary basis in an exchange ratio ranging from approximately two to three old options for one new option, (as determined by reference to a Black-Scholes option pricing model) with the exercise price of the new options set at $7.00 per share. These options were repriced at an exercise price approximating the market value of the Company's common stock at the date of the repricing and, consequently, there was no related compensation expense.

The Company applies APB Opinion No. 25 and related interpretations in accounting for its stock options. Accordingly, no compensation cost has been recognized for outstanding stock options. Had compensation cost for the Company's outstanding stock options been determined based on the fair value at the grant dates for those options consistent with SFAS No. 123, the Company's net (loss) earnings and basic and diluted (loss) earnings per share would have differed as reflected by the pro forma amounts indicated below (in thousands except per share amounts):

The Company's pro forma net loss for 1998 includes approximately $68 million of compensation cost relating to options issued to the former Chairman and Chief Executive Officer (3,750,000) and a former senior officer (1,125,000) in connection with their February 1998 employment agreements. These options are included in the outstanding and exercisable options issued outside the plan in the following table. The Company and these individuals are in dispute regarding the status of these options.

11. ASSET IMPAIRMENT AND OTHER CHARGES

In the fourth quarter of 1998, the Company recorded a $62.5 million charge for the write-off of the carrying value of First Alert's goodwill (see Note 2).

In the second quarter of 1998, as a result of decisions to outsource or discontinue a substantial number of products previously made by the Company (principally breadmakers, toasters and certain other appliances, air and water filtration products and the elimination of certain stock keeping units ("SKU's") within existing product lines, primarily relating to appliances, grills and grill accessories), certain facilities and equipment will either no longer be used or will be utilized in a significantly different manner. Accordingly, a charge of $29.6 million was recorded in Cost of Goods Sold to write certain of these assets down to their estimated fair market value. Approximately 80% of this charge related to machinery, equipment and tooling at the Company's Mexico City and Hattiesburg, Mississippi manufacturing plants, the estimated fair value for which was derived through an auction process. The remainder of this charge related to tooling and equipment at various other facilities, which either had a nominal value or the fair market value of which was derived through an auction process. These assets were taken out of service at the time of the write-down and consequently were not depreciated further after the write-down. The net carrying value of these assets after the write-down approximated $2.2 million and these assets are expected to be disposed of by September 30, 1999.

Depreciation

expense associated with these assets approximated $2.6 million in 1998, $4.2 million in 1997 and $3.5 million in 1996.

Personnel at the Mexico City facility were notified in the second quarter of 1998 that the plant was scheduled for closure at year-end 1998, accordingly, at that time, a liability of $1.8 million was recorded in Cost of Goods Sold primarily for employee severance. The employee severance related to approximately 1,200 positions of which approximately 1,100 were terminated, and $1.4 million paid in severance, as of December 31, 1998. It is anticipated that the remaining 100 employees will be terminated and the balance of the severance obligation ($0.4 million) paid by July 31, 1999. In the third quarter of 1998, the Company recorded as Cost of Goods Sold, an additional provision for impairment of fixed assets of $3.1 million in an acquired entity, relating to assets taken out of service for which there was no remaining value. The asset impairment resulted from management's decision, during the third quarter, to discontinue certain SKU's within product lines (principally generators, compressors and propane cylinders) subsequent to the acquisition. These fixed assets were taken out of service at the time of the write-down and consequently were not depreciated further after the write-down. Depreciation expense associated with these assets approximated $0.8 million in 1998. In the fourth quarter of 1998, the Company recorded a $7.1 million charge as a result of management's decision, during the fourth quarter, to outsource the production of certain appliances (principally irons). This charge to Cost of Goods Sold primarily consists of a provision for certain tooling and equipment ($6.7 million) and severance and related benefits ($0.4 million). This tooling and equipment, which had no remaining value, was written off. These fixed assets were taken out of service at the time of the write-down, and consequently depreciation was discontinued at the time of the write-down. Depreciation expense associated with these assets approximated $2.4 million in 1998, $2.3 million in 1997 and $0.9 million in 1996. The severance costs related to approximately 45 production employees, none of whom were terminated, as of December 31, 1998. It is anticipated that these employees will be terminated and the severance obligation paid by September 30, 1999.

During 1997 and the first half of 1998, the Company built inventories in anticipation of 1998 sales volumes which did not materialize. As a result, it has been and will continue to be necessary to dispose of some portions of excess inventories at amounts less than cost. Accordingly, during 1998, when the facts and circumstances were known that such sales volume would not materialize, the Company recorded $58.2 million in charges (of which $46.4 million, $2.2 million and $9.6 million, were recorded during the second, third and fourth quarters, respectively) to properly state this inventory at the lower-of-cost-or-market. This inventory primarily related to certain appliances, grills and grill accessories. The Company also recorded a charge of $11.0 million during the second quarter for excess inventories for raw materials and work in process that will not be used due to outsourcing the production of breadmakers, toasters and certain other appliances. In addition, during 1998, the Company made the decision to exit certain product lines, primarily air and water filtration products and eliminate certain SKU's within existing product lines, primarily relating to appliances, grills and grill accessories. As a result of this decision, a $26.6 million charge was recorded during the second quarter to properly state this inventory at the lower-of-cost-or-market. Total charges for excess inventories recorded at the lower-of-cost-or-market, based on management's best estimate of net realizable value, amounted to approximately $95.8 million at December 31, 1998. (See Note 12 for asset impairment and other charges recorded in conjunction with a 1996 restructuring plan.)

12. RESTRUCTURING

In November 1996, the Company announced the details of a restructuring plan. The plan included the consolidation of administrative functions within the Company, the reduction of manufacturing and warehouse facilities, the centralization of the Company's procurement function, and reduction of the Company's product offerings and SKU's. The Company also announced plans to divest several lines of business (see Note 13).

As part of the restructuring plan, the Company consolidated six divisional and regional headquarter's functions into a single worldwide corporate headquarters and outsourced certain back office activities resulting in

12. RESTRUCTURING-- (CONTINUED)

a reduction in total back-office/administrative headcount. Overall, the restructuring plan called for a reduction in the number of production facilities from 26 to 8 and the elimination of over 6,000 positions from the Company's workforce, including 3,300 from the disposition of certain business operations and the elimination of approximately 2,800 other positions, some of which were outsourced. The Company completed the major phases of the restructuring plan by July 1997.

In conjunction with the implementation of the restructuring plan, the Company recorded a pre-tax charge of $239.2 million in the fourth quarter of 1996. This amount is recorded as follows in the accompanying Consolidated Statements of Operations: $110.1 million in Restructuring and Asset Impairment Charges, as further described below; $60.8 million in Cost of Goods Sold related principally to inventory write-downs to net realizable value as a result of a reduction in SKU's and costs of inventory liquidation programs; $10.1 million in SG&A expense, for period costs which were charged to operations as incurred, principally relating to employee relocation and recruiting and equipment relocation and installation ($3.2 million), transitional fees relating to outsourcing arrangements ($4.9 million) and package redesign costs ($2.0 million), and $58.2 million ($39.1 million net of taxes) in Loss on Sale of Discontinued Operations related to the divestiture of its furniture business. In 1997, upon completion of the sale of the furniture business, the Company recorded an additional pre-tax loss of $22.5 million from discontinued operations ($14.0 million net of taxes) due primarily to lower than anticipated sales proceeds relating to the post closing adjustment process that was part of the sale agreement.

Amounts included in Restructuring and Asset Impairment Charges in 1996 in the accompanying Consolidated Statements of Operations included cash items such as severance and other employee costs of $24.7 million, lease obligations of $12.6 million and other exit costs associated with facility closures and related to the implementation of the restructuring plan of $4.1 million, principally representing costs related to clean-up and restoration of facilities owned and leased for either sale or return to the landlord.

Included in Restructuring and Asset Impairment Charges in 1996 was $68.7 million of non-cash charges (classified within the $110.1 million restructuring charge) principally consisting of: (a) asset write-downs to net realizable value for disposals of excess facilities and equipment and certain product lines ($22.5 million); (b) write-offs of redundant computer systems from the administrative back-office consolidations and outsourcing initiatives ($12.3 million); (c) write-off of intangibles relating to discontinued product lines ($10.1 million); (d) write-off of capitalized product and package design costs and other expenses related to exited product lines and SKU reductions ($9.0 million) (Prior to 1996, Sunbeam had capitalized certain costs related to international product development and package design, which were amortized over the period of related benefit. The product development costs ($1.9 million) related to international operations and represented the costs necessary to modify products for introduction to the international markets. As the restructuring plan included the closure of International Group office and elimination of a number of products to which these costs pertained, the related capitalized costs were written off. Additionally, in connection with the restructuring plan, as a result of the elimination of many products and SKU's, Sunbeam updated its package designs. Accordingly, the unamortized balance of the capitalized package design costs which had been capitalized prior to 1996, ($5.0 million) was written off. Sunbeam discontinued incurring costs of a significant nature relating to these items and consequently has discontinued capitalizing such costs subsequent to 1995 and (e) asset write-downs related to the divestiture of certain non-core products and businesses ($14.8 million). The asset write-downs of $34.8 million (representing (a) and (b) discussed above) included equipment taken out of service in 1996 (either abandoned in 1996 or sold in 1997) and accordingly, depreciation was not recorded subsequent to the date of the impairment charge. The asset write-downs of $14.8 million related to the divestiture of non-core products and businesses resulted from divesting of the time and temperature business (sold in March 1997) and Counselor(Registered) and Borg(Registered) scale product lines (sold in May 1997) and the sale of the textile mill in Biddeford, Maine in May 1997. These charges primarily represented the estimated non-cash losses resulting from the sale or abandonment of facilities and equipment related to exiting these product lines. The Company continued to record depreciation expense on these fixed assets, based on historical rates, until such time that the assets were disposed of. For these fixed assets, the

impairment charges represented write-downs to net realizable values (based on the estimated net proceeds from the sale of these assets compared to their recorded net book value), less estimated depreciation expense at historical rates through the period of estimated use. The net carrying value of these assets at December 29, 1996 approximated $42.5 million.

The $24.7 million for severance and other employee costs, including COBRA and other fringe benefits, related to approximately 3,700 positions that were planned to be eliminated as a result of the restructuring plan, excluding approximately 2,400 employees terminated from the furniture business for which severance was included in Loss on Sale of Discontinued Operations (see Note 13). The furniture business was sold in 1997. In 1996 and 1997, approximately 1,200 employees and 1,800 employees, respectively, were terminated from continuing operations. Due largely to attrition, the remaining planned terminations were not required. In 1997, the Company determined that its severance and employee benefit costs were less than originally accrued principally due to lower than expected COBRA and workers compensation costs, and accordingly reversed accruals of $7.9 million in the third quarter ($2.1 million) and fourth quarter ($5.8 million). At December 31, 1997, the balance accrued of $1.2 million represented the remaining severance and employee benefit costs for certain employees terminated during 1997. During 1998, all amounts were expended.

The amounts accrued at December 29, 1996, for Restructuring and Asset Impairment Charges recorded in fiscal 1996, exceeded amounts ultimately required principally due to reductions in anticipated severance and employee benefit costs of $7.9 million, as discussed above, and reductions in estimated lease payments of $6.7 million ($3.7 million and $3.0 million recognized in the third and fourth quarters, respectively) resulting from better than anticipated rentals received under sub-leases and favorable negotiation of lease terminations. Accordingly, the fiscal 1997 Consolidated Statement of Operations included $14.6 million of benefit ($5.8 million in the third quarter and $8.8 million in the fourth quarter of 1997) related to the reversal of accruals no longer required, which were recorded as these reduced obligations became known.

In 1996, in conjunction with the initiation of the restructuring plan, the Company recorded additional charges totaling $129.1 million, reflected in Cost of Goods Sold, SG&A expense and Loss on Sale of Discontinued Operations. The charge included in Cost of Goods Sold ($60.8 million) principally represented inventory write-downs to net realizable value, based upon management's best estimates, and anticipated losses on the disposition of the inventory as a result of the significant reduction in SKU's provided for in the restructuring plan. The write-down included $26.9 million related to raw materials, work-in-process and finished goods for discontinued outdoor cooking products, principally grills and grills accessories and the balance related to raw materials, work-in-process and finished goods for other discontinued products including appliances ($27.8 million), clippers ($1.0 million) and blankets ($5.1 million). For inventory which management determined was salable, the estimated write-down was based upon the difference between the expected net sales proceeds of the inventory, depending on distribution channel, and the recorded value of the inventory. In the case of abandoned inventory, the write-down was equal to the recorded value of the inventory. The resulting difference between carrying value and estimated net realizable value represented the $60.8 million write-down necessary to record the inventory at its net realizable value. SG&A expense included period costs, charged to operations as incurred, in 1997 and 1996 of $15.8 million and $10.1 million, respectively, relating to employee relocation and recruiting and equipment relocation and installation ($11.8 million in 1997 and $3.2 million in 1996), transitional fees related to outsourcing arrangements ($4.9 million in 1996) and package redesign costs ($4.0 million in 1997 and $2.0 million in 1996) expended as a result of the implementation of the restructuring plan. The Loss on Sale of Discontinued Operations of $58.2 million is discussed further in Note 13.

At December 28, 1997, the Company had $5.2 million in liabilities accrued related to the 1996 restructuring plan, including $1.2 million of severance related costs and $4.0 million related to facility closures, which principally represented future lease payments (net of sub-leases) on exited facilities. During 1998, this liability was reduced by $4.0 million as a result of cash expenditures. At December 28, 1997, the Company had

The restructuring accrual, which existed at January 1, 1996 ($13.8 million), was initially established as part of a "rightsizing program" during fiscal 1992. During 1996 approximately $3 million of this accrual was utilized and the remaining $10.8 million became part of the reserve requirements of the 1996 restructuring plan. In effect, in 1996, the Company reversed the $10.8 million prior year accrual determined to be no longer required and provided a corresponding amount in connection with the 1996 restructuring charge.

13. DISCONTINUED OPERATIONS

As part of the 1996 restructuring plan, the Company also announced the divestiture of the furniture business, by a sale of assets. In February 1997, the Company entered into an agreement to sell the business to U.S. Industries, Inc. in a transaction that was completed on March 17, 1997. In connection with the furniture divestiture, the Company recorded a provision for estimated losses to be incurred on the sale of $39.1 million in 1996, net of applicable income tax benefits of $19.9 million. Although the discontinued furniture operations were profitable, net income had declined from $21.7 million in 1994 to $0.8 million in 1996. This decline, along with the Company's announcement that it intended to divest this line of business contributed to the loss on sale. Revenues for the discontinued furniture business were $51.6 million in the first quarter of 1997, $227.5 million in 1996 and $185.6 million in 1995. Results of operations were nominal in 1997 and 1996, down from $12.9 million (net of $7.9 million in taxes) in 1995. In connection with the sale of these assets (primarily inventory, property, plant and equipment), the Company received $69.0 million in cash. The Company retained accounts receivable related to the furniture business of approximately $50 million as of the closing date and retained certain liabilities. The final purchase price for the furniture business was subject to a post-closing adjustment based on the terms of the asset purchase agreement and in the first quarter of 1997, after completion of the sale, the Company recorded an additional loss of $14.0 million, net of applicable income tax benefits of $8.5 million.

In addition to the furniture business divestiture, the Company also completed the sale of other product lines and assets in 1997 as part of its restructuring plan, including time and temperature products, Counselor(Registered) and Borg(Registered) scales and a textile facility. Losses incurred on the disposal of these assets, which consist primarily of write-downs of assets to net realizable value, are included in Restructuring and Asset Impairment Charges in 1996 in the Consolidated Statements of Operations.

14. SEGMENT, CUSTOMER AND GEOGRAPHIC DATA

Throughout 1998 Sunbeam's operations were managed through four reportable segments: Household, Outdoor Leisure, International and Corporate. Reportable segments are identified by the Company based upon the distinct products manufactured (Household and Outdoor Leisure) or based upon the geographic region in which its products are distributed (International). The Company's reportable segments are all separately managed.

The Household group consists of appliances (including mixers, blenders, food steamers, bread makers, rice cookers, coffee makers, toasters, irons and garment steamers), health products (including vaporizers, humidifiers, air cleaners, massagers, hot and cold packs and blood pressure monitors), scales, personal care products (including hair clippers and trimmers and related products for the professional beauty, barber and veterinarian trade and sales of products to commercial and institutional channels), blankets (including electric blankets, heated throws and mattress pads) and First Alert(Registered) products (smoke and carbon monoxide detectors, fire extinguishers and home safety equipment).

The Outdoor Leisure group includes outdoor recreation products (which encompass tents, sleeping bags, coolers, camping stoves, lanterns and outdoor heaters), outdoor cooking products (including gas and charcoal outdoor grills and grill parts and accessories), Powermate(Registered) products (including portable power generators and air compressors), and Eastpak(Registered) products (including backpacks and bags).

The International group is managed through five regional subdivisions: Europe, Latin America, Japan, Canada and East Asia. Europe includes the manufacture, sales and distribution of Campingaz(Registered) products and sales and distribution in Europe, Africa and the Middle East of other Company products. The Latin American region includes the manufacture, sales and distribution throughout Latin America of small appliances, and sales and distribution of personal care products, professional clippers and related products, camping products and Powermate products. Japan includes the sales and distribution of primarily outdoor recreation products. Canada includes sales of substantially all the Company's products and East Asia encompasses sales and distribution in all areas of East Asia other than Japan of substantially all the Company's products.

information services to all operating groups and also includes the operation of the Company's retail stores and the conduct of the Company's licensing activities.

The accounting policies of the operating segments are the same as those described in the summary of significant accounting policies (see Note 1) except that certain bad debt expense is recorded at a consolidated level and included in the Corporate group. Sunbeam evaluates performance and allocates resources based upon profit or loss from operations before amortization, income taxes, minority interest, interest expense, non-recurring gains and losses and foreign exchange gains and losses. Intersegment sales and transfers are primarily recorded at cost.

The following tables include selected financial information with respect to Sunbeam's four operating segments. Business segment information for prior years has been reclassified to conform to the current year presentation.

Revenue from one retail customer in the United States in Sunbeam's Household and Outdoor Leisure segments accounted for approximately 18%, 20% and 19% of consolidated net sales in 1998, 1997 and 1996, respectively. Receivables from this customer approximated $62.6 million and $51.9 million at December 31, 1998 and December 27, 1997, respectively. The Company establishes its credit policies based on an ongoing evaluation of its customers' creditworthiness and competitive market conditions and establishes its allowance for doubtful accounts based on an assessment of exposures to credit losses at each balance sheet date. The Company believes its allowance for doubtful accounts is sufficient based on the credit exposures outstanding.

SEC Investigation

By letter dated June 17, 1998, the staff of the Division of Enforcement of the SEC advised the Company that it was conducting an informal inquiry into the Company's accounting policies and procedures and requested that the Company produce certain documents. On July 2, 1998, the SEC issued a Formal Order of Private Investigation, designating officers to take testimony and pursuant to which a subpoena duces tecum was served on the Company requiring the production of certain documents. On November 4, 1998, the Company received another SEC subpoena duces tecum requiring the production of further documents. The Company has provided numerous documents to the SEC staff and continues to cooperate with the SEC staff. The Company has, however, declined to provide the SEC with material that the Company believes is subject to the attorney-client privilege and the work product immunity. The Company cannot predict the term of such investigation or its potential outcome.

Litigation

On April 23, 1998, two class action lawsuits were filed on behalf of purchasers of the Company's common stock in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against the Company and some of its present and former directors and former officers alleging violations of the federal securities laws as discussed below.

After that date, approximately fifteen similar class actions were filed in the same Court. One of the lawsuits also named as defendant Arthur Andersen LLP, the Company's independent accountants for the period covered by the lawsuit.

On June 16, 1998, the Court entered an Order consolidating all these suits and all similar class actions subsequently filed (collectively, the "Consolidated Federal Actions") and providing time periods for the filing of a consolidated amended complaint and defendants' response thereto. On June 22, 1998, two groups of plaintiffs made motions to be appointed lead plaintiffs and to have their selection of counsel approved as lead counsel. On July 20, 1998, the Court entered an Order appointing lead plaintiffs and lead counsel. This Order also stated that it "shall apply to all subsequently filed actions which are consolidated herewith." On August 28, 1998, plaintiffs in one of the subsequently filed actions filed an objection to having their action consolidated pursuant to the June 16, 1998 Order, arguing that the class period in their action differs from the class periods in the originally filed consolidated actions. On December 9, 1998, the Court entered an Order overruling plaintiffs' objections and affirming its prior Order appointing lead plaintiffs and lead counsel.

On January 6, 1999, plaintiffs filed a consolidated amended class action complaint against the Company, some of its present and former directors and former officers, and Arthur Andersen LLP. The consolidated amended class action complaint alleges that, in violation of section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and SEC Rule 10b-5, defendants made material misrepresentations and omissions regarding the Company's business operations, future prospects and anticipated earnings per share, in an effort to artificially inflate the price of the common stock and call options, and that, in violation of section 20(a) of the Exchange Act, the individual defendants exercised influence and control over the Company, causing the Company to make material misrepresentations and omissions. The consolidated amended complaint seeks an unspecified award of money damages. On February 5, 1999, plaintiffs moved for an order certifying a class consisting of all persons and entities who purchased Sunbeam common stock or who purchased call options or sold put options with respect to Sunbeam common stock during the period April 23, 1997 through June 30, 1998, excluding the defendants, their affiliates, and employees of Sunbeam. Defendants have filed a response to the motion for class certification. On March 8, 1999, all defendants who had been served with the consolidated amended class action complaint moved to dismiss it. Under the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, all discovery in the consolidated action is stayed pending resolution of the motions to dismiss.

On April 7, 1998, a purported derivative action was filed in the Circuit Court for the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County, Florida against the Company and some of its present and former directors and former officers. The action alleged that the individual defendants breached their fiduciary duties and wasted corporate assets when the Company granted stock options at an exercise price of $36.85 to three of its officers and directors (who were subsequently terminated) on or about February 2, 1998. On June 25, 1998, all defendants filed a motion to dismiss the complaint for failure to make a presuit demand on Sunbeam's board of directors. On October 22, 1998, the plaintiff amended the complaint against all but one of the defendants named in the original complaint. On February 19, 1999, plaintiffs filed a second amended derivative complaint nominally on behalf of Sunbeam against some of its present and former directors and former officers and Arthur Andersen LLP. The second amended complaint alleges, among other things, that Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh (the Company's former Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, respectively) caused Sunbeam to employ fraudulent accounting procedures in order to enable them to secure new employment contracts, and seeks an award of damages and other declaratory and equitable relief. The plaintiff has agreed that defendants need not respond to the second amended complaint until May 14, 1999. As described below, the Company and the plaintiffs have moved the Court for injunctive relief against Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh with respect to the arbitration action brought by them.

On June 25, 1998, four purported class actions were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County by minority shareholders of Coleman against Coleman, the Company and some of the Company's and Coleman's present and former officers and directors. An additional class action was filed on August 10, 1998, against the same parties. The complaints in these class actions allege, in essence, that the existing exchange ratio for the proposed Coleman merger is no longer fair to Coleman's public shareholders as a result of the decline in the market value of the common stock. On October 21, 1998, the Company announced that it had entered into a Memorandum of Understanding to settle, subject to court approval, the class actions. Under the terms of the proposed settlement, if approved by the court the Company will issue to the Coleman public shareholders, and plaintiff's counsel in this action, warrants to purchase up to approximately 4.98 million shares of the Company's common stock at a cash exercise price of $7 per share, subject to certain anti-dilution provisions. These warrants will generally have the same terms as the warrants issued to an affiliate of M&F (see Note 2) and will be issued when the Coleman merger is consummated, which is now expected to be during the second half of 1999. As a consequence of entering the Memorandum of Understanding and agreeing to issue additional consideration in the form of warrants to purchase Sunbeam common stock, a new five year measurement date was established. The total consideration to be paid (cash, Sunbeam common stock, and Sunbeam warrants) to the Coleman shareholders will therefore be measured as of October 21, 1998. There can be no assurance that the Court will approve the settlement as proposed.

During the months of August and October 1998, purported class action and derivative lawsuits were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County and in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida by shareholders of the Company against the Company, M&F and certain of the Company's present and former directors. These complaints allege that the defendants breached their fiduciary duties when the Company entered into a settlement agreement whereby M&F and its affiliates released the Company from certain claims they may have had arising out of the Company's acquisition of M&F's interest in Coleman, and M&F agreed to provide management support to the Company. Under the settlement agreement, M&F was granted a five year warrant to purchase up to an additional 23 million shares of Sunbeam's common stock at an exercise price of $7 per share, subject to certain anti-dilution provisions. The plaintiffs have requested an injunction against issuance of stock to M&F pursuant to exercise of the warrants and unspecified money damages. These complaints also allege that the rights of the public shareholders have been compromised, as the settlement would normally require shareholders' approval under the rules and regulations of the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE"). The Audit Committee of the Company's board of directors determined that obtaining such shareholders' approval would have seriously jeopardized the financial viability of the Company, which is an allowable exception to the NYSE shareholders' approval requirements. By Order of the Court of Chancery dated January 7, 1999, the derivative actions filed in that Court were consolidated and the Company has moved to dismiss such action. The action filed in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida has been dismissed.

On September 16, 1998, an action was filed in the 56th Judicial District Court of Galveston County, Texas alleging various claims in violation of the Texas Securities Act and Texas Business & Commercial Code as well as common law fraud as a result of the Company's alleged misstatements and omissions regarding the Company's financial condition and prospects during a period beginning May 1, 1998 and ending June 16, 1998, in which the plaintiffs engaged in transactions in the Company's common stock. The Company is the only named defendant in this action. The complaint requests recovery of compensatory damages, punitive damages and expenses in an unspecified amount. This action was removed to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas and subsequently has been transferred to the Southern District of Florida, the forum for the Consolidated Federal Actions.

On October 30, 1998, a class action lawsuit was filed on behalf of certain purchasers of the Debentures in the U.S. District Court of the Southern District of Florida against the Company and some of the Company's former officers and directors, alleging violations of the federal securities laws and common law fraud. The complaint alleges that the Company's offering memorandum used for the marketing of the Debentures contained false and misleading information regarding the Company's financial position and that the defendants engaged in a plan to inflate the Company's earnings for the purpose of defrauding the plaintiffs and others. This action has been transferred to the Southern District of Florida, the forum for the Consolidated Federal Actions, and the parties have negotiated a proposed coordination plan in order to coordinate proceedings in this action with those in the Consolidated Federal Actions.

The Company has been named as a defendant in an action filed in the District Court of Tarrant County, Texas, 48th Judicial District, on November 20, 1998, which was served on the Company through the Secretary of State of Texas on January 15, 1999. The plaintiffs in this action are purchasers of the Debentures. The plaintiffs allege that the Company violated the Texas Securities Act and the Texas Business & Commercial Code and committed state common law fraud by materially misstating the financial position of the Company in connection with the offering and sale of the Debentures. The complaint seeks rescission, as well as compensatory and exemplary damages in an unspecified amount. The Company specially appeared to assert an objection to the Texas Court's exercise of personal jurisdiction over the Company, and a hearing on this objection was held on April 15, 1999. The Court has issued a letter ruling advising the parties that it would grant the Company's special appearance and sustain the challenge to personal jurisdiction. The plaintiffs have moved for reconsideration of this decision. Plaintiffs had also moved for partial summary judgment on their Texas Securities Act claims, but, in light of the Court's decision on the special appearance, the hearing on the summary judgment motion has been cancelled.

On April 12, 1999, a class action lawsuit was filed in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida. The lawsuit was filed on behalf of persons who purchased the Debentures during the period of March 20, 1998 through June 30, 1998, inclusive, but after the initial offering of such Debentures. The complaint asserts that Sunbeam made material omissions and misrepresentations that had the effect of inflating the market price of the Debentures. The complaint names as defendants the Company, its former auditor, Arthur Andersen LLP and two former Sunbeam officers, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh. The plaintiff is an institution which allegedly acquired in excess of $150,000,000 face amount of the Debentures and now seeks unspecified money damages. The Company was served on April 16, 1999 in connection with this pending lawsuit. The Company will advise the Court of the pending Consolidated Federal Actions and request transfer of the action.

On February 9, 1999, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh filed with the American Arbitration Association demands for arbitration of claims under their respective employment agreements with Sunbeam. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh are requesting a finding by the arbitrator that they were terminated by the Company without cause and should be awarded the corresponding benefits set forth in their respective employment agreements. On March 12, 1999, Sunbeam asked the Circuit Court for the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County, Florida to issue an injunction prohibiting Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh from pursuing their arbitration proceedings against Sunbeam on the ground that the simultaneous litigation of the April 7, 1998 action and these arbitration proceedings would subject Sunbeam to the threat of inconsistent adjudications with respect to certain rights to compensation asserted by Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh. On March 19, 1999, the plaintiff in the April 7, 1998 action discussed above moved for a similar injunction on the ground that the arbitration proceedings threatened irreparable harm to Sunbeam and its shareholders. On March 26, 1999, Messrs., Dunlap and Kersh filed a response in opposition to the motions for injunctive relief. A hearing on the motions for injunctive relief has been held and, as a result of Sunbeam's motion for preliminary injunction, administration of the arbitrations has been suspended until May 10, 1999.

On March 23, 1999, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh filed a complaint in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware seeking an order directing Sunbeam to advance attorneys' fees and other expenses incurred in connection with various state and federal class and derivative actions and an investigation instituted by the SEC. The complaint alleges that such advancements are required by Sunbeam's by-laws and by a forbearance agreement entered into between Sunbeam and Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh in August 1998. The Company has filed its answer to the complaint and the Court of Chancery has scheduled a trial of this summary proceeding to be held on June 15, 1999.

The Company intends to vigorously defend each of the foregoing lawsuits other than those as to which a Memorandum of Understanding to settle has been reached, but cannot predict the outcome and is not currently able to evaluate the likelihood of the Company's success in each case or the range of potential loss. However, if the foregoing actions were determined adversely to the Company, such judgements would likely have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

On July 2, 1998, the American Insurance Company ("American") filed suit against the Company in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York requesting a declaratory judgment of the Court that the directors' and officers' liability insurance policy for excess coverage issued by American was invalid and/or had been properly canceled by American. The Company's motion to transfer such action to the federal district court in which the Consolidated Federal Actions are currently pending was recently denied. The case is now in discovery. On October 20, 1998, an action was filed by Federal Insurance Company in the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Florida requesting the same relief as that requested by American in the previously filed action as to additional coverage levels under the Company's directors' and officers' liability insurance policy. This action has been transferred to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida and is currently in discovery. On December 22, 1998, an action was filed by Executive Risk Indemnity, Inc. in the Circuit Court of the Seventeenth Judicial Circuit in and for Broward County, Florida requesting the same relief as that requested by

American and Federal in their previously filed actions as to additional coverage levels under the Company's directors' and officers' liability insurance policy. On April 15, 1999, the Company filed an action in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against the National Union Fire Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, PA, Gulf Insurance Company and St. Paul Mercury Insurance Company requesting, among other things, a declaratory judgment that National Union is not entitled to rescind its liability insurance policy to the Company and a declaratory judgment that the Company is entitled to coverage from these insurance companies for various lawsuits described herein under liability insurance policies issued by each of the defendants. The Company intends to pursue recovery from all of its insurers if damages are awarded against the Company or its indemnified officers and/or directors under any of the foregoing actions. The Company's failure to obtain such insurance recoveries following an adverse judgement in any of the foregoing actions could have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

The Company and its subsidiaries are also involved in various lawsuits arising from time to time that the Company considers to be ordinary routine litigation incidental to its business. In the opinion of the Company, the resolution of these routine matters, and of certain matters relating to prior operations, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect upon the financial position, results of operations, or cash flows of the Company.

In the fourth quarter of 1996, the Company recorded a $12.0 million charge related to a case for which an adverse development arose near year-end. In 1997, this case was favorably resolved and, as a result, $8.1 million of the charge established in 1996 was reversed into income primarily in the fourth quarter of 1997.

Amounts accrued for litigation matters represent the anticipated costs (damages and/or settlement amounts) in connection with pending litigation and claims and related anticipated legal fees. The costs are accrued when it is both probable that an asset has been impaired or a liability has been incurred and the amount can be reasonably estimated. The accruals are based upon the Company's assessment, after consultation with counsel, of probable loss based on the facts and circumstances of each case, the legal issues involved, the nature of the claim made, the nature of the damages sought and any relevant information about the plaintiffs, and other significant factors which vary by case. When it is not possible to estimate a specific expected cost to be incurred, the Company evaluates the range of probable loss and records the minimum end of the range. As of December 31, 1998 Sunbeam had established accruals for litigation matters of $31.2 million (representing $17.5 million and $13.7 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively) and $9.9 million as of December 28, 1997 (representing $3.0 million and $6.9 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively). It is anticipated that the $31.2 million accrual will be paid as follows: $22.4 million in 1999, $7.5 million in 2000, and $1.3 million in 2001. The Company believes, based on information known at December 31, 1998, that anticipated probable costs of litigation matters existing as of December 31, 1998 have been adequately reserved to the extent determinable.

Environmental Matters

The Company's operations, like those of comparable businesses, are subject to certain federal, state, local and foreign environmental laws and regulations in addition to laws and regulations regarding labeling and packaging of products and the sales of products containing certain environmentally sensitive materials ("Environmental Laws"). The Company believes it is in substantial compliance with all Environmental Laws which are applicable to its operations. Compliance with Environmental Laws involves certain continuing costs; however, such costs of ongoing compliance have not resulted, and are not anticipated to result, in a material increase in the Company's capital expenditures or to have a material adverse effect on the Company's results of operations, financial condition or competitive position.

In addition to ongoing environmental compliance at its operations, the Company also is actively engaged in certain environmental remediation activities many of which relate to divested operations. As of December 31, 1998, the Company has been identified by the United States Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA") or a state environmental agency as a potentially responsible party ("PRP") in connection with seven sites subject to the federal Superfund Act and five sites subject to state Superfund laws comparable to the federal law (collectively the "Environmental Sites"), exclusive of sites at which the Company has been designated (or expects to be designated) as a de minimis (less than 1%) participant.

The Superfund Act, and related state environmental remediation laws, generally authorize governmental authorities to remediate a Superfund site and to assess the costs against the PRPs or to order the PRPs to remediate the site at their expense. Liability under the Superfund Act is joint and several and is imposed on a strict basis, without regard to degree of negligence or culpability. As a result, the Company recognizes its responsibility to determine whether other PRPs at a Superfund site are financially capable of paying their respective shares of the ultimate cost of remediation of the site. Whenever the Company has determined that a particular PRP is not financially responsible, it has assumed for purposes of establishing reserve amounts that such PRP will not pay its respective share of the costs of remediation. To minimize the Company's potential liability with respect to the Environmental Sites, the Company has actively participated in steering committees and other groups of PRPs established with respect to such sites. The Company currently is engaged in active remediation activities at 12 sites, seven of which are among the Environmental Sites referred to above, and five of which have not been designated as Superfund sites under federal or state law. The remediation efforts in which the Company is involved include facility investigations, including soil and groundwater investigations, corrective measure studies, including feasibility studies, groundwater monitoring, extraction and treatment, soil sampling, excavation and treatment relating to environmental clean-ups. In certain instances, the Company has entered into agreements with governmental authorities to undertake additional investigatory activities and in other instances has agreed to implement appropriate remedial actions. The Company has also established reserve amounts for certain non-compliance matters including those involving air emissions.

The Company has established reserves, in accordance with SFAS No. 5, Accounting for Contingencies, to cover the anticipated probable costs of investigation and remediation, based upon periodic reviews of all sites for which the Company has, or may have remediation responsibility. The Company accrues environmental investigation and remediation costs when it is both probable that a liability has been incurred and the amount can be reasonably estimated and the Company's responsibility is established. Generally, the timing of these accruals coincides with the earlier of formal commitment to an investigation plan, completion of feasibility study or the Company's commitment to a formal plan of action. As of December 31, 1998 and 1997, the Company's environmental reserves were $25.0 million (representing $22.9 million for the estimated costs of facility investigations, corrective measure studies and known remedial measures and $2.1 million for estimated legal costs) and $24.0 million, (representing $21.8 million for the estimated cost of facility investigations, corrective measure studies and known remedial measures and $2.2 million for estimated legal costs), respectively. It is anticipated that the $25.0 million accrual at December 31, 1998 will be paid as follows: $5.3 million in 1999, $4.9 million in 2000, $3.2 million in 2001, $1.0 million in 2002, $1.0 million in 2003 and $9.6 million thereafter. The Company has accrued its best estimate of investigation and remediation costs (based upon a range of exposure of $13.0 million to $46.3 million) based upon facts known to the Company and because of the inherent difficulties in estimating the ultimate amount of environmental costs, which are further described below, these estimates may materially change in the future as a result of the uncertainties described below. Estimated costs, which are based upon experience with similar sites and technical evaluations, are judgmental in nature and are recorded at undiscounted amounts without considering the impact of inflation and are adjusted periodically to reflect changes in applicable laws or regulations, changes in available technologies and receipt by the Company of new information. It is difficult to estimate the ultimate level of future environmental expenditures due to a number of uncertainties surrounding environmental liabilities. These uncertainties include the applicability of laws and regulations, changes in environmental remediation requirements, the enactment of additional regulations, uncertainties surrounding remediation procedures including the development of new technology, the identification of new sites for which the Company could be a PRP, information relating to the exact nature and extent of the contamination at each site and the extent of required cleanup efforts, the uncertainties with respect to the ultimate outcome of issues which may be actively contested and the varying costs of alternative remediation strategies. The Company continues to pursue the recovery of some environmental remediation costs from certain of its liability insurance carriers; however, such potential recoveries have not been offset against potential liabilities and have not been considered in determining the Company's environmental reserves. Due to uncertainty over remedial measures to be adopted at some sites, the possibility of changes in Environmental Laws and regulations and the fact that joint and several liability with the right of contribution is possible at federal and state Superfund sites, the Company's ultimate future liability with respect to sites at which remediation has not been completed may vary from the amounts reserved as of December 31, 1998.

In the fourth quarter of 1996, the Company performed a comprehensive review of all environmental exposures in an attempt by the then new senior management team to accelerate the resolution and settlement of environmental claims. As a result, upon conclusion of the review, the Company recorded additional environmental reserves of approximately $9.0 million in the fourth quarter of 1996.

The Company believes, based on existing information, that the costs of completing environmental remediation of all sites for which the Company has a remediation responsibility have been adequately reserved, and that the ultimate resolution of these matters will not have a material adverse effect upon the Company's financial condition, results of operations or cash flows.

As a consumer goods manufacturer and distributor, the Company faces the constant risks of product liability and related lawsuits involving claims for substantial money damages, product recall actions and higher than anticipated rates of warranty returns or other returns of goods. These claims could result in liabilities that could have a material adverse effect on Sunbeam's financial position, results of operations and cash flows. Some of the product lines Sunbeam acquired in the 1998 acquisitions have increased its exposure to product liabilities and related claims.

The Company is party to various personal injury and property damage lawsuits relating to its products and incidental to its business. Annually, the Company sets its product liability insurance program based on the Company's current and historical claims experience and the availability and cost of insurance. The Company's program for 1998 was comprised of a self-insurance retention of $2.5 million per occurrence.

Cumulative amounts estimated to be payable by the Company with respect to pending and potential claims for all years in which the Company is liable under its self-insurance retention have been accrued as liabilities. Such accrued liabilities are necessarily based on estimates taking into account prior experience, numbers of claims and other relevant factors; thus, the Company's ultimate liability may exceed or be less than the amounts accrued. The methods of making such estimates and establishing the resulting liability are reviewed periodically and any adjustments resulting therefrom are reflected in current operating results.

Historically, product liability awards have rarely exceeded the Company's individual per occurrence self-insured retention. There can be no assurance, however, that the Company's future product liability experience will be consistent with its past experience. Based on existing information, the Company believes that the ultimate conclusion of the various pending product liability claims and lawsuits of the Company, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect on the financial position, results of operations or cash flows of the Company.

Commitment Fee

Under the terms of the April 15, 1999 amendment to the New Credit Facility, the Company is obligated to pay a loan commitment fee of between $4.2 million and $17.0 million. The ultimate amount of the fee is determined based on multiplying the sum of the outstanding borrowings and amounts available for borrowings as of April 15, 1999 by a factor that is determined at the earlier of September 30, 2000 or upon repayment of the New Credit Facility. This fee is payable at the earlier of September 30, 2000 or upon repayment of the New Credit Facility. At a minimum, the Company is obligated under these terms to pay $4.2 million. The ultimate amount due could be as high as $17.0 million if the sum of the outstanding borrowings and amounts available for borrowings at September 30, 2000 (the "aggregate availability") exceeds $1.2 billion. If the aggregate availability is between $1.0 billion and $1.2 billion, a fee of $8.4 million will be due. If the aggregate availability is $1.0 billion or less, the $4.2 million minimum will be due. Under any circumstances, the $4.2 million will be due; therefore, the Company will accrue the minimum liability and record an offsetting asset in the second quarter of 1999, which will be amortized and included in interest expense through April 10, 2000, the term of the current amendment extension period.

The Company will not accrue for amounts in excess of the $4.2 million as there are numerous uncertainties which may individually or in the aggregate impact the level of aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. These uncertainties include, but are not limited to: the ability to obtain an amendment or further waiver of existing covenants from the lenders under the New Credit Facility for the period beyond April 10, 2000; proceeds from the sales of assets or businesses, if any; changes in debt structure, including the effects of refinancing, if any; and cash flows generated or used by future operations. Given these uncertainties, the Company is currently not able to predict the probable level of aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. As events develop, the Company will periodically review the expected aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. If it becomes likely that an amount in excess of $4.2 million will be paid, the Company will recognize that change in estimate over the remaining period of the New Credit Facility Amendment.

Leases

The Company rents certain facilities, equipment and retail stores under operating leases. Rental expense for operating leases amounted to $28.1 million in 1998, $7.4 million for 1997 and $8.0 million for 1996. The minimum future rentals due under noncancelable operating leases as of December 31, 1998 aggregated to $167.6 million. The amounts payable in each of the years 1999-2003 and thereafter are $34.6 million, $33.7 million, $17.1 million, $13.5 million, $9.7 million and $59.0 million, respectively.

In connection with a warehouse expansion related to the electric blanket business, the Company entered into a $5 million capital lease obligation in 1996.

Certain Debt Obligations

Responsibility for servicing certain debt obligations of the Company's predecessor were assumed by third parties in connection with the acquisition of former businesses, although the Company's predecessor remained the primary obligor in accordance with the respective loan documents. Such obligations, which amounted to approximately $17.3 million at December 31, 1998, and the corresponding receivables from the third parties, are not included in the Consolidated Balance Sheets since these transactions occurred prior to the issuance of SFAS No. 76, Extinguishment of Debt. Management believes that the third parties will continue to meet their obligations pursuant to the assumption agreements.

Purchase and other Commitments

In conjunction with the sale of the Biddeford, Maine textile mill in 1997, the Company entered into a five-year agreement to purchase blanket shells from the mill. The agreement provides for a minimum purchase commitment each year of the contract. As of December 31, 1998, the Company had remaining minimum commitments under the contract of approximately $104 million.

In connection with Coleman's 1995 purchase of substantially all of the assets of Active Technologies, Inc. ("ATI"), the Company may be required to make payments to the predecessor owner of ATI of up to $18.8 million based on the Company's sales of ATI related products and royalties received by the Company for licensing arrangements related to ATI patents. As of December 31, 1998, the amounts paid under the terms of this agreement have been immaterial.

16. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

Services Provided by M&F

Pursuant to the settlement agreement with M&F, M&F agreed to make certain executive management personnel available to the Company and to provide certain management assistance to Sunbeam. The Company does not reimburse M&F for such services, other than reimbursement of out-of-pocket expenses paid to third parties. (See Note 2.)

Liquidation of Options

The Company expects to acquire the remaining approximately 20% equity interest in Coleman in the second half of 1999. Upon the consummation of the merger transaction, the unexercised options under Coleman's stock option plans will be cashed out at a price per share equal to the difference between $27.50 per share and the exercise price of such options. Ronald O. Perelman, the sole stockholder of M&F, holds 500,000 options for which he will receive a net payment of $6,750,000. Mr. Shapiro and Ms. Clark, executive officers of the Company, hold 77,500 and 25,000 options, respectively, for which they will receive net payments of $823,000 and $275,005, respectively.

Arrangements Between Coleman and M&F

Coleman and an affiliate of M&F are parties to a cross-indemnification agreement pursuant to which Coleman has agreed to indemnify such affiliate, its officers, directors, employees, control persons, agents and representatives against all past, present and future liabilities, including product liability and environmental matters, related to the initial assets of Coleman, which Coleman acquired from such affiliate in December 1991. In addition, pursuant to this cross-indemnification agreement, the M&F affiliate has agreed to indemnify Coleman and its officers, directors, employees, agents and representatives against all other liabilities of such M&F affiliate or any of its subsidiaries, including liabilities relating to the assets it did not transfer to Coleman in December 1991. This cross-indemnification agreement will survive the Coleman merger.

Coleman previously was included in the consolidated tax group for the M&F companies and was a party to a tax sharing agreement with a M&F affiliate, pursuant to which Coleman paid to such affiliate the amount of taxes which would have been paid by Coleman if it were required to file separate federal, state or local income tax returns. The tax sharing agreement was terminated upon the acquisition of Coleman; however, the acquisition agreement provides for certain tax indemnities and tax sharing payments among the Company and the M&F affiliates relating to periods prior to the acquisition.

Lease of Office Space

During 1998, the Company sublet office space in New York City from an 022410

affiliate of M&F. The expense for such rent during 1998 was approximately $130,000. The lease was terminated in 1999.

Additionally, during the fourth quarter of fiscal 1997, approximately $13.3 million of tax liabilities related to the 1993 and 1994 tax years were determined to be no longer required and were reversed and taken into income. These accruals were no longer required because during the fourth quarter of 1997 the Company reached a resolution with the Internal Revenue Service on its audits of the 1993 and 1994 tax years.

NOTES TO CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
(UNAUDITED)

1. OPERATIONS AND BASIS OF PRESENTATION

Organization

Sunbeam Corporation ("Sunbeam" or the "Company") is a leading designer, manufacturer and marketer of branded consumer products. The Company's primary business is the manufacturing, marketing and distribution of durable household and outdoor leisure consumer products through mass market and other distribution channels in the United States and internationally. The Company also sells its products to professional and commercial end users such as small businesses, health care providers, hotels and other institutions. The Company's principal products include household kitchen appliances; health monitoring and care products for home use; scales for consumer and professional use for weight management and business uses; electric blankets and throws; clippers and trimmers for consumer, professional and animal uses; smoke and carbon monoxide detectors; outdoor barbecue grills; camping equipment such as tents, lanterns, sleeping bags and stoves; coolers; backpacks and book bags; and portable generators and compressors.

In 1998 the Company acquired an indirect controlling interest in The Coleman Company, Inc. ("Coleman") and all the outstanding common stock of Signature Brands USA, Inc. ("Signature Brands") and First Alert, Inc. ("First Alert").

Basis of Presentation

The Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet of the Company as of September 30, 1999 and the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Operations and Cash Flows for the nine months ended September 30, 1999 and 1998 are unaudited. The unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles for interim financial information and with the instructions of Form 10-Q and Rule 10-01 of Regulation S-X. The December 31, 1998 Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet was derived from the consolidated financial statements contained in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K/A for the year ended December 31, 1998. The condensed consolidated financial statements contained herein should be read in conjunction with the consolidated financial statements and related notes contained in the Company's 1998 Annual Report on Form 10-K/A. In the opinion of management, the unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements contained herein include all adjustments (consisting of only recurring adjustments) necessary for a fair presentation of the results of operations for the interim periods presented. These interim results of operations are not necessarily indicative of results for the entire year or future periods.

Basic and Diluted Loss per Share of Common Stock

Loss per common share calculations are determined by dividing loss attributable to common shareholders by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding. Loss per share for the nine months ended September 30, 1999 and 1998, is based only on the weighted average number of common shares outstanding, as potential common shares have been excluded as a result of the loss during the periods presented. Loss per share for the nine months ended September 30, 1999 excluded 78,562 shares related to stock options, as their effect would have been anti-dilutive. Stock options to purchase 19,420,292 common shares for the nine months ended September 30, 1999, were excluded from potential common shares as the option exercise prices were greater than the average market price of the Company's common stock during the period.

The nine months ended September 30, 1998 loss per share excluded 3,017,516 shares related to stock options, as their effect would have been anti-dilutive. The nine month 1998 period also excluded 63,016 shares related to restricted stock. Stock options to purchase 9,609,033 common shares for the nine months ended September 30, 1998 were excluded from potential common shares as the option exercise prices were greater than the average market price of the Company's common stock during the period. Diluted average common shares outstanding for all periods presented excluded 13,242,050 shares issuable upon the conversion of the Zero Coupon Convertible Senior

Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the "Debentures"). In addition, diluted average common shares outstanding for the period ended September 30, 1999 excluded 23,000,000 shares issuable on the exercise of warrants.

New Accounting Standards

Effective January 1, 1999, the Company adopted Statement of Position 98-1, Accounting for the Costs of Computer Software Developed or Obtained for Internal Use ("SOP 98-1"). SOP 98-1 requires computer software costs associated with internal use software to be expensed as incurred until certain capitalization criteria are met. Adoption of this statement did not have a material impact on the Company's consolidated financial position, results of operations, or cash flows.

In June 1998, the Financial Accounting Standards Board issued Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 133 ("SFAS No. 133"), Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities, which, as amended, is effective for fiscal years beginning after June 15, 2000. SFAS No. 133 requires the recognition of all derivatives in the Consolidated Balance Sheets as either assets or liabilities measured at fair value. The Company has not yet determined the impact SFAS No. 133 will have on its consolidated financial position, results of operations, or cash flows.

Reclassifications

Certain prior year amounts have been reclassified to conform with the 1999 presentation.

2. ACQUISITIONS

On March 30, 1998, the Company, through a wholly-owned subsidiary, acquired approximately 81% of the total number of then outstanding shares of common stock of Coleman from a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings, Inc. ("M&F"), in exchange for 14,099,749 shares of the Company's common stock and approximately $160 million in cash. In addition, the Company assumed approximately $1,016 million in debt. The value of the common stock issued at the date of acquisition was derived by using the average closing stock price as reported on the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE") Composite Tape for the day before and day of the public announcement of the acquisition. Immediately thereafter, as a result of the exercise of employee stock options, Sunbeam's indirect beneficial ownership of Coleman decreased to approximately 79% of the total number of the outstanding shares of Coleman common stock. (See Note 10.)

On August 12, 1998, the Company announced that, following investigation and negotiation conducted by a Special Committee of the Board consisting of four outside directors not affiliated with M&F, the Company had entered into a settlement agreement with a subsidiary of M&F pursuant to which the Company was released from certain threatened claims of M&F and its subsidiaries arising from the Coleman acquisition and M&F agreed to provide certain management personnel and assistance to the Company in exchange for the issuance to the M&F subsidiary of a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase up to 23 million shares of the Company's common stock at a cash exercise price of $7.00 per share, subject to anti-dilution adjustments. The Company concluded that the agreement to issue this warrant did not result in a new measurement date for the purposes of determining the purchase price for Coleman and has accounted for the issuance of this warrant in the third quarter of 1998 as a cost of settling a potential claim. Accordingly, a $70.0 million non-cash SG&A expense was recorded in the third quarter of 1998, based upon a valuation performed as of August 1998 using facts existing at that time. The valuation was conducted by an independent consultant engaged by the special committee of the board of directors.

The Company expects to acquire the remaining equity interest in Coleman pursuant to a merger transaction in which the existing Coleman minority shareholders will receive 0.5677 of a share of the Company's common stock and $6.44 in cash for each share of Coleman common stock outstanding. In addition, unexercised options

<PAGE>

SUNBEAM CORPORATION AND SUBSIDIARIES

under Coleman's stock option plans will be cashed out at a price per share equal to the difference between $27.50 and the exercise price of such options. The Company expects to issue approximately 6.7 million shares of common stock and expend approximately $87 million in cash to complete the Coleman acquisition. Although there can be no assurance, it is anticipated the Coleman merger will occur in the fourth quarter of 1999 or early in the first quarter of 2000. The acquisition of the remaining outstanding shares of Coleman common stock will be accounted for under the purchase method of accounting from the date of consummation of the Coleman merger.

On October 21, 1998, the Company announced that it had entered into a Memorandum of Understanding to settle class action claims made by minority shareholders of Coleman relating to the Coleman merger. Under the terms of the settlement, the Company will issue to the Coleman public shareholders, and plaintiff's counsel in this action, warrants to purchase up to 4.98 million shares of the Company's common stock at a cash exercise price of $7.00 per share, subject to certain anti-dilution provisions. These warrants would generally have the same terms as the warrants issued to a subsidiary of M&F and will be issued when the Coleman merger is consummated. Issuance of these warrants will be accounted for as additional purchase consideration. As a consequence of entering into the Memorandum of Understanding and agreeing to issue additional consideration in the form of warrants to purchase Sunbeam common stock, a new measurement date was established for the remaining equity interest in Coleman. The total consideration to be paid (cash, Sunbeam common stock and Sunbeam warrants) to the Coleman shareholders will therefore be measured as of October 21, 1998.

On April 6, 1998, the Company completed the acquisitions of First Alert, valued at approximately $182 million (including $133 million of cash and $49 million of assumed debt) and Signature Brands, valued at approximately $255 million (reflecting cash paid, including the required retirement of defeasance of debt).

As of the date of the acquisition of Coleman, management of the Company determined approximately 117 employees of Coleman would need to be involuntarily terminated in order to eliminate duplicate activities and functions and fully integrate Coleman into Sunbeam's operations. The Company recognized a liability of approximately $8 million representing severance and benefit costs related to 117 employees pursuant to the termination plan. This liability was included in the allocation of purchase price. As of September 30, 1999, 113 employees were terminated and paid benefits of approximately $7 million. The four remaining employees are expected to be terminated by March 31, 2000. Remaining termination costs are expected to be paid by December 31, 2000 and no additional charges are anticipated in future periods related to this issue.

All of these acquisitions were accounted for by the purchase method of accounting. Accordingly, the results of operations of the acquired entities are included in the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Statements of Operations from their respective dates of acquisition.

The following pro forma financial information for the Company gives effect to the Coleman and Signature Brands acquisitions as if they had occurred at the beginning of the period presented. No pro forma adjustments have been made for the First Alert acquisition as its effects are not significant. These pro forma results have been prepared for informational purposes only and do not purport to be indicative of the results of operations which actually would have occurred had the acquisitions been consummated on the date indicated, or which may result in the future. The pro forma results follow (in millions, except per share data):

3. DEBT

In order to finance the acquisitions described in Note 2 and to refinance substantially all of the indebtedness of the Company and the acquired companies, the Company consummated an offering of the Debentures at a yield to maturity of 5.0% (approximately $2,014 million principal amount at maturity) in March 1998, which resulted in approximately $730 million of net proceeds and entered into a revolving and term credit facility ("New Credit Facility").

The Debentures are exchangeable for shares of the Company's common stock at an initial conversion rate of 6.575 shares for each $1,000 principal amount at maturity of the Debentures, subject to adjustment upon occurrence of specified events. The Debentures are subordinated in right of payment to all existing and future senior indebtedness of the Company. The Debentures are not redeemable by the Company prior to March 25, 2003. On or after such date, the Debentures are redeemable for cash with at least 30 days' notice, at the option of the Company. The Company is required to purchase Debentures at the option of the holder as of March 25, 2003, March 25, 2008 and March 25, 2013, at purchase prices equal to the issue price plus accrued original discount to such dates. The Company may, at its option, elect to pay any such purchase price in cash or common stock, or any combination thereof. However, the New Credit Facility prohibits the Company from redeeming or repurchasing Debentures for cash. The Company was required to file a registration statement with the SEC to register the Debentures by June 23, 1998. This registration statement was filed on February 4, 1999 and, as amended, was declared effective on November 8, 1999. The Company's failure to file the registration statement by June 23, 1998 did not constitute default under the terms of the Debentures. From June 23, 1998 until the registration statement was declared effective, the Company was required to pay to the Debenture holders cash liquidated damages accruing, for each day during such period, at a rate per annum equal to 0.25% during the first 90 days and 0.50% thereafter multiplied by the total of the issue price of the Debentures plus the original issue discount thereon on such day. The Company has made total payments for liquidated damages since June 23, 1998 of $4.5 million, of which $1.5 million related to damages for the period through December 31, 1998. A final payment of approximately $0.5 million, representing liquidated damages from September 26, 1999 until the registration statement was declared effective, will be payable on March 25, 2000.

Concurrent with the acquisitions, the Company replaced its $250 million syndicated unsecured five-year revolving credit facility with the New Credit Facility. The New Credit Facility provided for aggregate borrowings of up to $1.7 billion and in addition to other customary covenants, required the Company to maintain specified consolidated leverage, interest coverage and fixed charge coverage ratios as of the end of each fiscal quarter occurring after March 31, 1998 and on or prior to the latest stated maturity date for any of the borrowings under the New Credit Facility.

As a result of, among other things, its operating losses incurred during the first half of 1998, the Company did not achieve the specified financial ratios for June 30, 1998 and it appeared unlikely that the Company would achieve the specified financial ratios for September 30, 1998. Consequently, the Company and its lenders entered into an agreement dated as of June 30, 1998 that waived through December 31, 1998 all defaults arising from the failure of the Company to satisfy the specified financial ratios for June 30, 1998 and September 30, 1998. Pursuant to an agreement with the Company dated as of October 19, 1998, the Company's lenders extended all of the waivers under the June 30, 1998 agreement through April 10, 1999 and also waived through such date all defaults arising from any failure by the Company to satisfy the specified financial ratios for December 31, 1998. As part of the October 19, 1998 agreement, the Company agreed to a minimum monthly earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization ("EBITDA") covenant (as defined in the New Credit Facility) which covenant the Company has been able to satisfy.

On April 10, 1999, among other things, the lenders extended all of the waivers set forth in the October 19, 1998 agreement through April 15, 1999. On April 15, 1999, the Company and its lenders entered into a comprehensive amendment to the New Credit Facility that, among other things, extended all of the waivers under the April 10, 1999 agreement until April 10, 2000 and waived until such date all defaults arising from any failure by the Company to satisfy the specified financial ratios for any fiscal quarter end occurring during 1999 and for March 31, 2000. The Company intends to negotiate with its lenders an amendment to the New Credit Facility, or to negotiate further waiver of such covenants and other terms beyond April 10, 2000, or to refinance the New Credit Facility. There can be no assurance that an amendment, further waiver of existing covenants and other terms, or refinancing will be entered into by April 10, 2000. The failure to obtain such an amendment, further waiver or debt refinancing would likely result in violation of the existing covenants and compliance with other terms, which would permit the bank lenders to accelerate the maturity of all outstanding borrowings under the New Credit Facility and could otherwise have a material adverse effect on the Company. Accordingly, debt related to the New Credit Facility and all debt containing cross-default provisions is classified as current in the September 30, 1999 Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet.

As part of the April 15, 1999 New Credit Facility amendment, the Company agreed to a minimum cumulative EBITDA covenant that is based on post-December 31, 1998 consolidated EBITDA and is tested at the end of each month occurring on or prior to March 31, 2000, as well as a covenant limiting the amount of revolving loans (other than those used to fund the Coleman merger) that may be outstanding under the New Credit Facility as of the end of each such month. The minimum cumulative EBITDA was initially $6.3 million for the period January 1, 1999 through April 30, 1999 and generally grows on a monthly basis until it reaches $121.0 million for the period from January 1, 1999 through March 31, 2000.

The New Credit Facility provides for aggregate borrowings of up to $1.7 billion through: (i) a revolving credit facility in an aggregate principal amount of up to $400.0 million maturing March 30, 2005 ($52.5 million of which may only be used to complete the Coleman merger); (ii) up to $800.0 million in term loans maturing on March 30, 2005 (of which $35.0 million may only be used to complete the Coleman merger); and (iii) a $500.0 million term loan maturing September 30, 2006 (of which $5.0 million has already been repaid through September 30, 1999). As of September 30, 1999, approximately $1.5 billion was outstanding and approximately $0.2 billion was available for borrowing under the New Credit Facility.

Under the New Credit Facility, interest accrues, at the Company's option: (i) at the London Interbank Offered Rate ("LIBOR"); or (ii) at the base rate of the administrative agent which is generally the higher of the prime commercial lending rate of the administrative agent or the Federal Funds Rate plus 0.50%; in each case plus an interest margin which is currently 4.00% for LIBOR loans and 2.50% for base rate loans. The current interest rates reflect an increase of 0.25% for LIBOR loans and base rate loans which occurred on September 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date and an increase of 0.50% for LIBOR loans and 0.25% for base rate loans which occurred on October 1, 1999 as a result of the merger not occurring by such date. The interest margin is subject to potential decreases in the future, including a decrease to 3.00% for LIBOR loans and 1.75% for base rate loans upon consummation of the Coleman merger and the effectiveness of the pledge of substantially all of Coleman's and its domestic subsidiaries' assets to secure the obligations under the New Credit Facility. Borrowings under the New Credit Facility are secured by a pledge of the stock of the Company's material subsidiaries, including Coleman, and by a security interest in substantially all of the assets of the Company and its material domestic subsidiaries, other than Coleman and its material subsidiaries except as described below. Currently, Coleman's inventory and related assets are pledged to secure its obligations for letters of credit issued for its account under the New Credit Facility. Additionally, as security for Coleman's note payable to the Company, Coleman pledged substantially all of its domestic assets, other than real property, including 66% of the stock of its direct foreign subsidiaries and domestic holding companies for its foreign subsidiaries, and all of the stock of its other direct domestic subsidiaries (but not the assets of Coleman's subsidiaries). The pledge runs in favor of the Company's lending banks, to which the Coleman note has been pledged as security for the Company's obligations to them. Upon completion of the Coleman merger, substantially all of Coleman's assets and the assets of Coleman's domestic subsidiaries will be pledged to secure the obligations under the New Credit Facility. In addition, borrowings under the New Credit Facility are guaranteed by a number of the Company's wholly-owned material domestic subsidiaries and these subsidiary guarantees are secured as described above. Upon completion of the Coleman merger, Coleman and each of its United States subsidiaries will become guarantors of the obligations under the New Credit Facility. To the extent extensions of credit are made to any subsidiaries of the Company, the obligations of such subsidiaries are guaranteed by the Company.

In addition to the above described ratios and tests, the New Credit Facility contains covenants customary for credit facilities of a similar nature, including limitations on the ability of the Company and its subsidiaries, including Coleman, to, among other things, (i) declare dividends or repurchase stock, (ii) prepay, redeem or repurchase debt, incur liens and engage in sale-leaseback transactions, (iii) make loans and investments, (iv) incur additional debt, including revolving loans under the New Credit Facility, (v) amend or otherwise alter material agreements or enter into restrictive agreements, (vi) make capital and year 2000 compliance expenditures, (vii) engage in mergers, acquisitions and asset sales, (viii) engage in certain transactions with affiliates, (ix) settle certain litigation, (x) alter its cash management system and (xi) alter the businesses they conduct. The Company is also required to comply with specified financial covenants and ratios. The New Credit Facility provides for events of default customary for transactions of this type, including nonpayment, misrepresentation, breach of covenant, cross-defaults, bankruptcy, material adverse change arising from compliance with ERISA, material adverse judgments, entering into guarantees and change of ownership and control. It is also an event of default under the New Credit Facility, as amended November 16, 1999, if the Company's registration statement in connection with the Coleman merger is not declared effective by the SEC on or before January 10, 2000, or if the merger does not occur within 25 business days of the effectiveness of the registration statement or if the cash consideration (including any payments on account of the exercise of any appraisal rights, but excluding related legal, accounting and other customary fees and expenses) to consummate the Coleman merger exceeds $87.5 million. Although there can be no assurance, the Company anticipates that it will satisfy these conditions. Furthermore, the New Credit Facility requires the Company to prepay term loans on December 31, 1999 to the extent that cash on hand in the Company's concentration accounts plus the aggregate amount of unused revolving loan commitments on this date exceeds $125 million, but the Company is not required to prepay more than $69.3 million as a result of the provision. Unless waived by the bank lenders, the failure to satisfy any of the financial ratios and tests contained in the New Credit Facility or the occurrence of any other event of default under the New Credit Facility would entitle the bank lenders to (a)

receive a 2.00% increase in the interest rate applicable to outstanding loans and increase the trade letter of credit fees to 1.00% and (b) accelerate the maturity of the outstanding borrowings under the New Credit Facility and exercise all or any of their other rights and remedies. Any such acceleration or other exercise rights and remedies would likely have a material adverse effect on the Company. The New Credit Facility also includes provisions for the deferral of the September 30, 1999 and the March 31, 2000 scheduled term loan payments of $69.3 million each until April 10, 2000 as a result of the satisfaction by the Company of the agreed upon conditions to the deferral.

In March 1998, the Company prepaid a $75.0 million 7.85% industrial revenue bond related to its Hattiesburg facility originally due in 2009. In connection with the early extinguishment of this debt, the Company recognized an extraordinary charge in the first quarter of 1998. As a result of repayment of certain indebtedness assumed in the Coleman acquisition, the Company also recognized an extraordinary charge in the second quarter of 1998. The debt assumed in connection with the Coleman acquisition was repaid as a result of the requirements under the terms of the New Credit Facility. These extraordinary charges consisted of redemption premiums ($106.9 million), unamortized debt discount ($13.8 million) and unamortized deferred financing costs ($1.7 million) and were net of an income tax benefit ($10.7 million).

In connection with the acquisition of Signature Brands, the Company was required to defease $70.0 million of acquired debt. Cash was placed with a trustee to provide for the defeasance, including the related prepayment penalty. This cash was used to purchase Treasury Notes. Accordingly, $74.4 million of restricted investments held by the trustee for the August 1999 liquidation of this acquired debt are reflected as an asset at December 31, 1998. The prepayment penalty is reflected as part of the acquisition price of Signature Brands. This debt was redeemed in August 1999 utilizing the proceeds from investments restricted for this purpose.

4. ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE SECURITIZATION

The Company has entered into a receivables securitization program that expires in March 2000. The Company has received $228.4 million and $130.6 million in the first nine months of each 1999 and 1998, respectively, for the sale of trade accounts receivable. Trade accounts receivable at September 30, 1999 and 1998 reflect a reduction of $36.9 million and $10.5 million, respectively, for receivables sold under this program. Costs of the program, which primarily consist of the purchaser's financing cost of issuing commercial paper backed by the receivables, totaled $1.7 million and $1.9 million in the first nine months of 1999 and 1998, respectively, and have been classified as interest expense in the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Statements of Operations. The Company, through a wholly-owned subsidiary, retains collection and administrative responsibilities for the purchased receivables. This agreement contains cross-default provisions that provide the purchaser of the receivables an option to cease purchasing receivables from the Company if the Company is in default under the New Credit Facility.

7. ASSET IMPAIRMENT AND OTHER CHARGES

In the second quarter of 1998, decisions were made to outsource or discontinue a substantial number of products previously made by the Company (principally breadmakers, toasters and certain other appliances, air and water filtration products and the elimination of certain stock keeping units ("SKU's") within existing product lines, primarily relating to appliances, grills and grill accessories). As a result, certain facilities and equipment would either no longer be used or would be utilized in a significantly different manner. Accordingly, a charge of $29.6 million was recorded in Cost of Goods Sold to write certain of these assets down to their estimated fair market value. Approximately 80% of this charge related to machinery, equipment and tooling at the Company's Mexico City, Mexico and Hattiesburg, Mississippi manufacturing plants, the estimated fair value for which was derived through an auction process. The remainder of this charge related to tooling and equipment at various other facilities, which either had a nominal value or the fair market value of which was derived through an auction process. These assets were taken out of service at the time of the write-down and consequently were not depreciated further after the write-down. The net carrying value of these assets after the write-down approximated $2.2 million and these assets are expected to be substantially disposed of by December 31, 1999. Depreciation expense associated with these assets approximated $2.6 million in the first half of 1998.

Personnel at the Mexico City facility were notified in the second quarter of 1998 that the plant was scheduled for closure at year-end 1998, accordingly, at that time, a liability of $1.8 million was recorded in Cost of Goods Sold primarily for employee severance. The employee severance related to approximately 1,200 positions of which 100 employees, representing a $0.4 million severance obligation, remained to be terminated at December 31, 1998. Substantially all of these remaining positions had been eliminated and the severance payments had been made as of June 30, 1999. Subsequent to the decisions made in conjunction with the acquisitions, management decided to discontinue certain SKU's within product lines (principally generators, compressors and propane cylinders). As a result, in the third quarter of 1998, the Company recorded as Cost of Goods Sold, an additional provision for impairment of fixed assets of $3.1 million in an acquired entity, relating to assets taken out of service for which there was no remaining value. These fixed assets were taken out of service at the time of the write-down and consequently were not depreciated further after the write-down. Depreciation expense associated with these assets approximated $0.8 million in 1998.

During 1997 and the first half of 1998, the Company built inventories in anticipation of 1998 sales volumes which did not materialize. As a result, it has been and will continue to be necessary to dispose of some portions of excess inventories at amounts less than cost. Accordingly, during 1998, when the facts and circumstances were known that such sales volume would not materialize, the Company recorded $48.6 million in charges (of which $46.4 million and $2.2 million were recorded in the second and third quarters, respectively) to properly state this inventory at the lower-of-cost-or-market. This inventory primarily related to certain appliances, grills and grill accessories.

The Company also recorded a charge during the second quarter of 1998 of $11.0 million for excess inventories for raw material and work in process that will not be used due to outsourcing the production of breadmakers, toasters, and certain other appliances. In addition, during the second quarter of 1998, the Company made the decision to exit certain product lines, primarily air and water filtration products and eliminate certain SKU's within existing product lines, primarily relating to appliances, grills and grill accessories. As a result of this decision, a $26.6 million charge was recorded during the second quarter to properly state this inventory at the lower-of-cost-or-market. Total charges for excess inventory recorded at the lower-of-cost-or-market, based upon management's best estimate of net realizable value, amounted to $86.2 million through September 30, 1998.

In the fourth quarter of 1998, in connection with management's decision to outsource the production of certain appliances (principally irons) the Company recorded $0.4 million of severance costs related to the elimination of approximately 45 production positions. During the nine months ended September 30, 1999, 8 positions were eliminated and $0.1 million of the severance was paid. The remaining positions are expected to be eliminated by December 31, 1999.

At December 31, 1998, the Company had $1.7 million of restructuring accruals relating to its 1996 restructuring plan. This $1.7 million was comprised of $1.2 million relating to lease payments and termination fees and $0.5 million relating to discontinued operations. During the nine months ended September 30, 1999, the Company expended $0.2 million for lease payments and termination fees and $0.4 million relating to discontinued operations, respectively. It is anticipated that the remaining restructuring accrual of $1.1 million ($1.0 million relating to lease payments and termination fees and $0.1 million relating to discontinued operations) will be paid through 2006.

8. SHAREHOLDERS' EQUITY

Compensatory Stock Grants

On February 20, 1998, the Company entered into new three-year employment agreements with its then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other senior officers of the Company (the "February 1998 Employment Agreements"). These agreements replaced previous employment agreements entered into in July 1996 that were scheduled to expire in July 1999. The new employment agreements provided for, among other items, the acceleration of vesting of restricted stock and the forfeiture of unvested restricted stock that had been granted under the July 1996 agreement, new restricted stock grants and options to purchase the Company's common stock. In addition, the new employment agreements provided for income tax gross-ups with respect to any tax assessed on the restricted stock grants and acceleration of vesting of restricted stock.

022426

Compensation expense attributed to the equity grant, the acceleration of vesting of restricted stock and the related income tax gross-ups was recognized in the first quarter of 1998 and compensation expense related to the new restricted stock grants and related tax gross-ups was amortized to expense beginning in the first quarter of 1998 with amortization to continue over the period in which the restrictions lapse. Total compensation expense recognized in the first quarter of 1998 related to these items was approximately $31 million.

On June 15, 1998, the Company's Board of Directors announced the removal of the then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and subsequently announced the removal or resignation of other senior officers, including the Company's then Chief Financial Officer. The Company and certain of its former officers are in litigation as to the Company's obligations to these individuals under prior agreements and arising from their termination. (See Note 10).

Purchase of Coleman Preferred Stock

On July 12, 1999, the Company acquired 3,000,000 shares of a newly created series of Coleman voting preferred stock for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $31 million. These shares, together with the shares of Coleman common stock the Company owns, enable Sunbeam to exercise 80.01% of the total voting power of Coleman's outstanding capital stock as of July 12, 1999. This class of preferred stock was created by Coleman and acquired by the Company in order to enable Coleman and the Company to file consolidated federal income tax returns, and in certain jurisdictions, consolidated state income tax returns, prior to the consummation of the Coleman merger. The issue price per share of the voting preferred stock was equal to 110% of the average closing price per share of common stock of Coleman over the five trading days prior to the date of issuance of the voting preferred stock. Except as required by law, the holders of the voting preferred stock vote as a single class with the holders of the Coleman common stock on all matters submitted to a vote of the holders of Coleman common stock, with each share of voting preferred stock and each share of Coleman common stock having one vote. The voting preferred stock has an annual dividend equal to 7% of $10.35 per share, the issue price per share of the voting preferred stock, which accrues but will not be paid in cash unless a liquidation of Coleman occurs or certain transactions are consummated as described below. In addition, the voting preferred stock will participate ratably with the Coleman common stock in all other dividends and distributions (other than liquidating distributions) made by Coleman to the holders of its common stock. The voting preferred stock will participate with the Coleman common stock in any merger, consolidation, or any other transaction (other than a merger of a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company with Coleman, including the Coleman merger) and will receive on a per share basis the same type and amount of consideration as the Coleman common stock. On liquidations of Coleman: (1) the holders of the voting preferred stock would receive a preferential distribution equal to $10.35 per share, plus accrued and unpaid dividends, (2) next, the holders of the Coleman common stock would receive an amount equal to $10.35 per share of Coleman common stock and (3) any assets remaining after such distributions would be shared by the holders of voting preferred stock and the Coleman common stock on a share for share basis. In connection with the issuance of the shares of preferred stock, Coleman entered into a tax sharing agreement with the Company pursuant to which Coleman will pay to Sunbeam amounts equal to the federal and state income taxes that would have been payable by Coleman had Coleman not been included in the consolidated income tax return of the Company. The terms of the voting preferred stock, their issue price and the terms of the tax sharing agreement were approved on Coleman's behalf by Coleman's then sole independent director. The net proceeds from the issuance of the shares by Coleman of its voting preferred stock to the Company were used by Coleman to make a partial repayment of loans outstanding from Sunbeam under the Intercompany Note.

10. COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES

Litigation

On April 23, 1998, two class action lawsuits were filed on behalf of purchasers of the Company's common stock in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against the Company and some of its present and former directors and former officers alleging violations of the federal securities laws as discussed below. After that date, approximately fifteen similar class actions were filed in the same Court. One of the lawsuits also named as defendant Arthur Andersen, the Company's independent accountants for the period covered by the lawsuit.

On June 16, 1998, the court entered an order consolidating all these suits and all similar class actions subsequently filed (collectively, the "Consolidated Federal Actions") and providing time periods for the filing of a consolidated amended complaint and defendants' response thereto. On June 22, 1998, two groups of plaintiffs made motions to be appointed lead plaintiffs and to have their selection of counsel approved as lead counsel. On July 20, 1998, the court entered an order appointing lead plaintiffs and lead counsel. This order also stated that it shall apply to all subsequently filed actions that are consolidated with the other actions. On August 28, 1998, plaintiffs in one of the subsequently filed actions filed an objection to having their action consolidated pursuant to the June 16, 1998 order, arguing that the class period in their action differs from the class periods in the originally filed consolidated actions. On December 9, 1998, the court entered an order overruling plaintiffs' objections and affirming its prior order appointing lead plaintiffs and lead counsel.

On January 6, 1999, plaintiffs filed a consolidated amended class action complaint against the Company, some of its present and former directors and former officers, and Arthur Andersen. The consolidated amended class action complaint alleges that, in violation of section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and SEC Rule 10b-5, defendants made material misrepresentations and omissions regarding the Company's business operations, future prospects and anticipated earnings per share, in an effort to artificially inflate the price of the Company's common stock and call options, and that, in violation of section 20(a) of the Exchange Act, the individual defendants exercised influence and control over the Company, causing the Company to make material misrepresentations and omissions. The consolidated amended complaint seeks an unspecified award of money damages. On February 5, 1999, plaintiffs moved for an order certifying a class consisting of all persons and entities who purchased the Company's common stock or who purchased call options or sold put options with respect to the Company's common stock during the period April 23, 1997 through June 30, 1998, excluding the defendants, their affiliates, and employees of the Company. Defendants' response to the motion for class certification was filed on May 6, 1999. On March 8, 1999, all defendants who had been served with the consolidated amended class action complaint moved to dismiss it. Under the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995, all discovery in the consolidated action is stayed pending resolution of the motions to dismiss.

On April 7, 1998, a purported derivative action was filed in the Circuit Court for the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County, Florida against the Company and some of its present and former directors and former officers. The action alleged that the individual defendants breached their fiduciary duties and wasted corporate assets when the Company granted stock options on or about February 2, 1998 at an exercise price of $36.85 to three of its officers and directors who were subsequently terminated by the Company. On June 25, 1998, all defendants filed a motion to dismiss the complaint for failure to make a pre-suit demand on the Company's board of directors. On October 22, 1998, the plaintiff amended the complaint against all but one of the defendants named in the original complaint. On February 19, 1999, plaintiffs filed a second amended derivative complaint nominally on behalf of the Company against some of its present and former directors and former officers and Arthur Andersen. The second amended complaint alleges, among other things, that Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh, the Company's former Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and former Chief Financial Officer, respectively, caused the Company to employ fraudulent accounting procedures in order to enable them to secure new employment contracts, and seeks a declaration that the individual defendants have violated fiduciary duties, an injunction against the payment of compensation to Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh or the imposition of a constructive trust on such payments, and unspecified money damages. The defendants have each moved to dismiss the second amended complaint in whole or in part.

On June 25, 1998, four purported class actions were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County by minority shareholders of Coleman against Coleman, the Company and certain of the Company's and Coleman's present and former officers and directors. An additional class action was filed on August 10, 1998 against the same parties. The complaints in these class actions allege, in essence, that the existing exchange ratio for the proposed Coleman merger is no longer fair to Coleman minority shareholders as a result of the decline in the market value of the Company's common stock. On October 21, 1998, the Company announced that it had entered into a memorandum of understanding to settle, subject to court approval, the class actions. The court approved the settlement on November 12, 1999. Under the terms of the settlement, the Company will issue to Coleman minority shareholders and plaintiffs' counsel in this action warrants to purchase up to approximately 4.98 million shares of the Company's common stock at $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution adjustments. Coleman minority shareholders who elect an appraisal under Delaware law will not receive warrants. These warrants will generally have the same terms as the warrant issued to the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary and will be issued when the Coleman merger is consummated, which is now expected to occur in the fourth quarter of 1999 or early in the first quarter of 2000. Issuance of the warrants will be accounted for as additional purchase consideration.

During the months of August and October 1998, purported class action and derivative lawsuits were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County and in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida by shareholders of the Company against the Company, MacAndrews & Forbes and some of the Company's present and former directors. These complaints allege that the defendants breached their fiduciary duties when the Company entered into a settlement agreement with the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary that sold the Company a controlling interest in Coleman. In the settlement agreement the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary released the Company from threatened claims arising out of the Company's acquisition of its interest in Coleman, and MacAndrews & Forbes agreed to provide management support to the Company. Under the settlement agreement, the MacAndrews & Forbes subsidiary was granted a warrant expiring August 24, 2003 to purchase up to an additional 23 million shares of the Company's common stock at an exercise price of $7 per share, subject to anti-dilution provisions. The plaintiffs have requested an injunction against the issuance of stock to MacAndrews & Forbes upon the exercise of its warrant and unspecified money damages. These complaints also allege that the rights of the minority shareholders have been compromised, as the settlement would normally require shareholder approval under the rules and regulations of the NYSE. The audit committee of the Company's board of directors determined that obtaining such shareholder approval would have seriously jeopardized the financial viability of the Company which is an allowable exception to the NYSE shareholder approval requirements. By order of the Delaware Court of Chancery dated January 7, 1999, the derivative actions filed in that court were consolidated, and the Company and the other defendants have moved to dismiss these actions. The action filed in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida has been dismissed.

On September 16, 1998, an action was filed in the 56th Judicial District Court of Galveston County, Texas alleging various claims in violation of the Texas Securities Act and Texas Business and Commercial Code as well as common law fraud as a result of the Company's alleged misstatements and omissions regarding the Company's financial condition and prospects during a period beginning May 1, 1998 and ending June 16, 1998, in which the U.S. National Bank of Galveston, Kempner Capital Management, Inc. and Legacy Trust Company engaged in transactions in the Company's common stock on their own behalf and on behalf of their respective clients. The Company is the only named defendant in this action. The complaint requests recovery of compensatory damages, punitive damages and expenses in an unspecified amount. This action was removed to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas and subsequently transferred to the Southern District of Florida and consolidated with the Consolidated Federal Actions. Plaintiffs in this action have objected to the consolidation and have sought reconsideration by the Southern District of Florida of the order of the Southern District of Texas denying plaintiffs' motion to remand the case to state court and transferring it to Florida. A similar suit was brought by the same group of plaintiffs in the above action against Arthur Andersen. In that action, the plaintiffs allege that Arthur Andersen violated the Texas Securities Act, committed statutory and common law fraud and was negligent in its audits of the Company's 1996 and 1997 financial statements. On September 29, 1999, Arthur Andersen filed a motion for leave to join the Company and certain of its former officers as responsible third parties and contribution defendants. Their motion was denied.

On October 30, 1998, a class action lawsuit was filed on behalf of certain purchasers of the Debentures in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against the Company and some of the Company's former officers and directors, alleging violations of the federal securities laws and common law fraud. The complaint alleges that the Company's offering memorandum used for the marketing of the Debentures contained false and misleading information regarding the Company's financial position and that the defendants engaged in a plan to inflate the Company's earnings for the purpose of defrauding the plaintiffs and others. The plaintiffs seek a declaration that defendants violated federal securities laws and either unspecified monetary damages or rescission of their purchase of the Debentures. The parties have negotiated a proposed coordination plan in order to coordinate proceedings in this action with those in the Consolidated Federal Actions.

The Company has been named as a defendant in an action filed in the District Court of Tarrant County, Texas, 48th Judicial District, on November 20, 1998. The Company was served in this action through the Secretary of State of Texas on January 15, 1999. The plaintiffs in this action are purchasers of the Debentures. The plaintiffs allege that the Company violated the Texas Securities Act and the Texas Business & Commercial Code and committed state common law fraud by materially misstating the financial position of the Company in connection with the offering and sale of the Debentures. The complaint seeks rescission, as well as compensatory and exemplary damages in an unspecified amount. The Company specially appeared to assert an objection to the Texas court's exercise of personal jurisdiction over the Company, and a hearing on this objection took place on April 15, 1999. On April 23, 1999, the court entered an order granting the Company's special appearance and dismissing the case without prejudice. The plaintiffs moved for reconsideration of the court order, which motion the court denied on May 24, 1999. The plaintiffs have appealed to the Texas Court of Appeals the order dismissing the case and that appeal is pending.

June 30, 1998, inclusive, but after the initial offering of such Debentures. The complaint asserts that the Company made material omissions and misrepresentations that had the effect of inflating the market price of the Debentures. The complaint names as defendants the Company, its former auditor, Arthur Andersen, and two former Company officers, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh. The plaintiff is an institution which allegedly acquired in excess of $150,000,000 face amount of the Debentures and now seeks unspecified money damages. The Company was served on April 16, 1999 in connection with this pending lawsuit. The Company has requested that this action be coordinated with the Consolidated Federal Actions.

On February 9, 1999, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh filed with the American Arbitration Association demands for arbitration of claims under their respective employment agreements with the Company. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh are requesting a finding by the arbitrators that the Company terminated their employment without cause and that they should be awarded certain benefits based upon their respective employment agreements. On March 12, 1999, the Company asked the Circuit Court for the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County,

Florida to issue an injunction prohibiting Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh from pursuing their arbitration proceedings against the Company on the grounds, among others, that the simultaneous litigation of the action filed in that court on April 7, 1998, described above, and the arbitration proceedings would subject the Company to the threat of inconsistent adjudications with respect to certain rights to compensation asserted by Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh and would cause irreparable harm to the Company and its shareholders. On March 19, 1999, the plaintiff in the April 7, 1998 action discussed above moved for an injunction on similar grounds. On May 11, 1999, the court denied the motions for a preliminary injunction filed by the Company and the plaintiff. The Company has answered the arbitration demands of Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh and has filed counterclaims seeking, among other things, the return of all consideration paid, or to be paid, under the February 1998 Employment Agreements between the Company and Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh. An answer was filed by Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh generally denying the Company's counterclaims. Discovery is pending.

On May 24, 1999, an action naming the Company as defendant was filed in the Circuit Court for Ozaukee County, Wisconsin. Prior to service of the complaint, the plaintiff dismissed its claims, voluntarily, without prejudice. The plaintiff in this action was a purchaser of the Debentures. The plaintiff alleged that the Company violated the Wisconsin Uniform Securities Act and committed acts of false advertising and misrepresentation in connection with the offering and sale of the Debentures. The plaintiff sought rescission, as well as compensatory and exemplary damages in an unspecified amount.

On September 13, 1999, an action naming the Company and Arthur Andersen as defendants was filed in the Circuit Court for Montgomery County, Alabama. The plaintiffs in this action are purchasers of the Company's common stock during the period March 19, 1998 through May 6, 1998. The plaintiffs allege, among other things, that the defendants violated the Alabama Security Laws and SEC Rule 10b-5. The plaintiffs seek compensatory and punitive damages in an unspecified amount. The Company has removed this case to the U.S. District Court for the District of Alabama. In addition, Arthur Andersen has filed a cross claim against the Company for contribution and indemnity. The Company has filed a motion with the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation to consolidate this action with the Consolidated Federal Actions.

The Company intends to vigorously defend each of the foregoing lawsuits other than those as to which a memorandum of understanding to settle has been reached, but cannot predict the outcome and is not currently able to evaluate the likelihood of the Company's success in each case or the range of potential loss. However, if the Company were to lose these lawsuits, judgments would likely have a material adverse effect on the Company's consolidated financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

On March 23, 1999, Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh filed a complaint in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware seeking an order directing the Company to advance attorneys' fees and other expenses incurred in connection with various state and federal class and derivative actions and an investigation instituted by the SEC. The complaint alleges that such advancements are required by the Company's by-laws and by a forbearance agreement entered into between the Company and Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh in August, 1998. A trial of this summary proceeding was held on June 15 and 16, 1999. On June 23, 1999, the court issued a memorandum opinion directing the Company to pay about $1.4 million on account of expenses incurred to date and to advance the reasonable future expenses in those actions and investigations. Messrs. Dunlap and Kersh have agreed to repay all amounts advanced to them if it is ultimately determined that they are not entitled to indemnification under Delaware law.

On July 2, 1998, the American Alliance Insurance Company filed suit against the Company in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York requesting a declaratory judgment of the court that the directors' and officers' liability insurance policy for excess coverage issued by American Alliance was invalid and/or had been properly canceled by American Alliance. American Alliance has filed a motion for summary judgment on the ground that coverage was never bound. The Company has opposed that motion. As a result of a motion made by the Company, this case has been transferred to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida for coordination and consolidation of pre-trial proceedings with the various actions pending in that court. On October 20, 1998, an action was filed by Federal Insurance Company in the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Florida requesting the same relief as that requested by American Alliance in the previously filed action as to additional coverage levels under the Company's directors' and officers' liability insurance policy. This action has been transferred to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida and is currently in discovery. The Company is seeking a stay of discovery to coordinate discovery in this action with any discovery that may occur in the Consolidated Federal Actions. Plaintiff has moved to compel production of various documents. On December 22, 1998, an action was filed by Executive Risk Indemnity, Inc. in the Circuit Court of the Seventeenth Judicial Circuit in and for Broward County, Florida requesting the same relief as that requested by American and Federal in their previously filed actions as to additional coverage levels under the Company's directors' and officers' liability insurance policy. On April 15, 1999, the Company filed an action in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against National Union Fire Insurance Company of Pittsburgh, PA, Gulf Insurance Company and St. Paul Mercury Insurance Company requesting, among other things, a declaratory judgment that National Union is not entitled to rescind its directors' and officers' liability insurance policies to the Company and a declaratory judgment that the Company is entitled to coverage from these insurance companies for the various lawsuits described herein under directors' and officers' liability insurance policies issued by each of the defendants. In response to the Company's complaint, defendants St. Paul and Gulf have answered and asserted counterclaims seeking rescission and declaratory relief that no coverage is available to the Company. The Company has denied the allegations of Gulf's and St. Paul's counterclaims. Defendant National Union has filed a motion to dismiss or stay the claims filed by the Company against National Union on the basis, among others, that the Company must submit the dispute to arbitration or mediation. The Company has filed a response opposing that motion. The Company intends to pursue recovery from all of its insurers if damages are awarded against the Company or its indemnified officers and/or directors under any of the foregoing actions and to recover attorneys' fees covered under those policies. The Company's failure to obtain such insurance recoveries following an adverse judgment in any of the actions described above could have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

By letter dated June 17, 1998, the staff of the Division of Enforcement of the SEC advised the Company that it was conducting an informal inquiry into the Company's accounting policies and procedures and requested that the Company produce certain documents. On July 2, 1998, the SEC issued a Formal Order of Private Investigation, designating SEC officers to take testimony and pursuant to which a subpoena was served on the Company requiring the production of certain documents. On November 4, 1998, another SEC subpoena requiring the production of additional documents was received by the Company. The Company has provided numerous documents to the SEC staff and continues to cooperate with the SEC staff. The Company has, however, declined to provide the SEC with material that the Company believes is subject to the attorney-client privilege and the work product immunity.

The SEC has not commenced any civil or administrative proceedings as a result of its investigation, and the Company cannot predict at this time whether the SEC will seek to impose any monetary or other penalties against the Company. Under these circumstances, the Company cannot estimate the duration of the investigation or its outcome.

The Company and its subsidiaries are also involved in various other lawsuits arising from time to time which the Company considers to be ordinary routine litigation incidental to its business. In the opinion of the Company, the resolution of these routine matters, and of certain matters relating to prior operations, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect upon the financial position, results of operations or cash flows of the Company.

Amounts accrued for litigation matters represent the anticipated costs (damages and/or settlement amounts) in connection with pending litigation and claims and related anticipated legal fees for defending such actions. The costs are accrued when it is both probable that an asset has been impaired or a liability has been incurred and the amount can be reasonably estimated. The accruals are based upon the Company's assessment, after consultation with counsel, of probable loss based on the facts and circumstances of each case, the legal issues involved, the nature of the claim made, the nature of the damages sought and any relevant information about the plaintiffs and other significant factors which vary by case. When it is not possible to estimate a specific expected cost to be incurred, the Company evaluates the range of probable loss and records the minimum end of the range. As of September 30, 1999, the Company had established accruals for litigation matters of $22.6 million (representing $11.3 million and $11.3 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively.) As of December 31, 1998 the Company had established accruals for litigation matters of $31.2 million (representing $17.5 million and $13.7 million for estimated damages or settlement amounts and legal fees, respectively). It is anticipated that the $22.6 million accrual will be paid as follows: $5.2 million in 1999, $14.9 million in 2000, and $2.5 million in 2001. The Company believes, based on information known to the Company on September 30, 1999, that anticipated probable costs of litigation matters existing as of September 30, 1999 have been adequately reserved, to the extent determinable.

As a consumer goods manufacturer and distributor, the Company faces the constant risks of product liability and related lawsuits involving claims for substantial money damages, product recall actions and higher than anticipated rates of warranty returns or other returns of goods. These claims could result in liabilities that could have a material adverse effect on the Company's consolidated financial position, results of operations, or cash flows. Some of the product lines the Company acquired in the 1998 acquisitions have increased its exposure to product liability and related claims.

BRK Brands, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of the Company, was a defendant in the case Gordon v. BRK Brands, Inc., et al. in the Circuit Court for the City of St Louis. In Gordon, the plaintiff alleged, among other things, that the plaintiff's smoke detector (which had been manufactured by a predecessor of BRK Brands) did not alarm quickly enough. In July 1999, the jury in the Gordon case awarded $20 million in compensatory damages and $30 million in punitive damages. This case has been settled and BRK's obligation under the settlement is to pay the balance of its self-insured retention.

The Company is party to various personal injury and property damage lawsuits relating to its products and incidental to its business. Annually, the Company sets its product liability insurance program based on the Company's current and historical claims experience and the availability and cost of insurance. The Company's program for 1999 was comprised of a self-insurance retention of $3.5 million per occurrence, and was limited to $28.0 million in the aggregate.

Cumulative amounts estimated to be payable by the Company with respect to pending and potential claims for all years in which the Company is liable under its self-insurance retention have been accrued as liabilities. Such accrued liabilities are necessarily based on estimates (which include actuarial determinations made by independent actuarial consultants as to liability exposure, taking into account prior experience, numbers of claims and other relevant factors); thus, the Company's ultimate liability may exceed or be less than the amounts accrued. The methods of making such estimates and establishing the resulting liability are reviewed continually and any adjustments resulting therefrom are reflected in current operating results.

Historically, product liability awards have rarely exceeded the Company's individual per occurrence self-insured retention. There can be no assurance, however, that the Company's future product liability experience will be consistent with its past experience. Based on existing information, the Company believes that the ultimate conclusion of the various pending product liability claims and lawsuits of the Company, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect on the financial position, results of operations or cash flows of the Company.

The Company's operations, like those of comparable businesses, are subject to certain federal, state, local and foreign environmental laws and regulations in addition to laws and regulations regarding labeling and packaging of products and the sales of products containing certain environmentally sensitive materials. The Company believes it is in substantial compliance with all environmental laws and regulations which are applicable to its operations. Compliance with environmental laws and regulations involves certain continuing costs; however, such costs of ongoing compliance have not resulted, and are not anticipated to result, in a material increase in the Company's capital expenditures or to have a material adverse effect on the Company's results of operations, financial condition or competitive position.

In addition to ongoing environmental compliance at its operations, the Company also is actively engaged in environmental remediation activities many of which are related to divested operations. As of December 31, 1998, the Company has been identified by the United States Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA") or a state environmental agency as a potentially responsible party ("PRP") in connection with seven sites subject to the federal Superfund Act and five sites subject to state Superfund laws comparable to the federal law (collectively, the "Environmental Sites"), exclusive of sites at which the Company has been designated (or expects to be designated) as a de minimis (less than 1%) participant.

The Superfund Act, and related state environmental remediation laws, generally authorize governmental authorities to remediate a Superfund site and to assess the costs against the PRPs or to order the PRPs to remediate the site at their expense. Liability under the Superfund Act is joint and several and is imposed on a strict basis, without regard to degree of negligence or culpability. As a result, the Company recognizes its responsibility to determine whether other PRPs at a Superfund site are financially capable of paying their respective shares of the ultimate cost of remediation of the site. Whenever the Company has determined that a particular PRP is not financially responsible, it has assumed for purposes of establishing reserve amounts that such PRP will not pay its respective share of the costs of remediation. To minimize the Company's potential liability with respect to the Environmental Sites, the Company has actively participated in steering committees and other groups of PRPs established with respect to such sites. The Company currently is engaged in active remediation activities at 11 sites, six of which are among the Environmental Sites referred to above, and five of which have not been designated as Superfund sites under federal or state law. The remediation efforts in which the Company is involved include facility investigations, including soil and groundwater investigations, corrective measure studies, including feasibility studies, groundwater monitoring, extraction and treatment, soil sampling, excavation and treatment relating to environmental clean-ups. In certain instances, the Company has entered into agreements with governmental authorities to undertake additional investigatory activities and in other instances has agreed to implement appropriate remedial actions. The Company has also established reserve amounts for certain non-compliance matters including those involving air emissions.

The Company has established reserves to cover the anticipated probable costs of investigation and remediation, based upon periodic reviews of all sites for which the Company has, or may have, remediation responsibility. The Company accrues environmental investigation and remediation costs when it is both probable that a liability has been incurred and the amount can be reasonably estimated and the Company's responsibility is established. Generally, the timing of these accruals coincides with the earlier of formal commitment to an investigation plan, completion of a feasibility study or the Company's commitment to a formal plan of action. As of September 30, 1999 and December 31, 1998, the Company's environmental reserves were $23.3 million (representing $21.6 million for the estimated costs of facility investigations, corrective measure studies or known remedial measures, and $1.7 million for estimated legal costs) and $25.0 million (representing $22.9 million for the estimated costs of facility investigations, corrective measure studies or known remedial measures, and $2.1 million for estimated legal costs), respectively. It is anticipated that the $23.3 million accrual at September 30, 1999 will be paid as follows: $5.2 million in 1999, $3.9 million in 2000, $1.8 million in 2001, $2.0 million in 2002, $0.6 million in 2003 and $9.8 million, thereafter. The Company has accrued its best estimate of investigation and remediation costs based upon facts known to the Company at such dates and because of the inherent difficulties in estimating the ultimate amount of environmental costs, which are further described below, these estimates may materially change in the future as a result of the uncertainties described below. Estimated costs, which are based upon experience with similar sites and technical evaluations, are judgmental in nature and are recorded at undiscounted amounts without considering the impact of inflation and are adjusted periodically to reflect changes in applicable laws or regulations, changes in available technologies and receipt by the Company of new information. It is difficult to estimate the ultimate level of future environmental expenditures due to a number of uncertainties surrounding environmental liabilities. These uncertainties include the applicability of laws and regulations, changes in environmental remediation requirements, the enactment of additional regulations, uncertainties surrounding remediation procedures including the development of new technology, the identification of new sites for which the Company could be a PRP, information relating to the exact nature and extent of the contamination at each site and the extent of required cleanup efforts, the uncertainties with respect to the ultimate outcome of issues which may be actively contested and the varying costs of alternative remediation strategies. The Company continues to pursue the recovery of some environmental remediation costs from certain of its liability insurance carriers; however, such potential recoveries have not been offset against potential liabilities and have not been considered in determining the Company's environmental reserves.

Due to uncertainty over remedial measures to be adopted at some sites, the possibility of changes in environmental laws and regulations and the fact that

joint and several liability with the right of contribution is possible at federal and state Superfund sites, the Company's ultimate future liability with respect to sites at which remediation has not been completed may vary from the amounts reserved as of September 30, 1999.

The Company believes, based on existing information for sites where costs are estimable, that the costs of completing environmental remediation of all sites for which the Company has a remediation responsibility have been adequately reserved and that the ultimate resolution of these matters will not have a material adverse effect upon the Company's financial condition, results of operations or cash flows.

Commitment Fee

Under the terms of the April 15, 1999 amendment to the New Credit Facility, the Company is obligated to pay a loan commitment fee of between $4.2 million and $17.0 million. The ultimate amount of the fee is determined based on multiplying the sum of the outstanding borrowings and amounts available for borrowings as of April 15, 1999 by a factor that is determined at the earlier of September 30, 2000 or upon repayment of the New Credit Facility. This fee is payable at the earlier of September 30, 2000 or upon repayment of the New Credit Facility. At a minimum, the Company is obligated under these terms to pay $4.2 million. The ultimate amount due could be as high as $17.0 million if the sum of the outstanding borrowings and amounts available for borrowings at September 30, 2000 (the "aggregate availability") exceeds $1.2 billion. If the aggregate availability is between $1.0 billion and $1.2 billion, a fee of $8.4 million will be due. If the aggregate availability is $1.0 billion or less, the $4.2 million minimum will be due. Under any circumstances, the $4.2 million will be due; therefore, the Company has accrued the minimum liability and an offsetting asset which is being amortized and included in interest expense through April 10, 2000, the term of the current amendment extension period.

The Company has not accrued for amounts in excess of the $4.2 million, as there are numerous uncertainties which may individually or in the aggregate impact the level of aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. These uncertainties include, but are not limited to: the ability to obtain an amendment or further waiver of existing covenants from the lenders under the New Credit Facility for the period beyond April 10, 2000; proceeds from the sales of assets or businesses, if any; changes in debt structure, including the effects of refinancing, if any; and cash flows generated or used by future operations. Given these uncertainties, the Company is currently not able to predict the probable level of aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. As events develop, the Company will periodically review the expected aggregate availability at September 30, 2000. If it becomes likely that an amount in excess of $4.2 million will be paid, the Company will recognize that change in estimate over the remaining period of the New Credit Facility Amendment.

11. SUBSEQUENT EVENT

On November 9, 1999, the Company announced a plan to divest Eastpak and certain non-essential assets. Net proceeds from these assets sales are estimated to be $200 million and will be primarily used to pay down debt.

(iii) Each of the shares of Company Common Stock converted in accordance with paragraph (i) of this Section 3.1(a) shall no longer be outstanding and shall automatically be cancelled and retired and shall cease to exist, and each holder of a certificate representing any such shares of Company Common Stock shall cease to have any rights with respect thereto, except the right to receive the Per Share Merger Consideration and cash in lieu of any fractional share of Laser Common Stock (determined in accordance with Section 3.4 hereof), to be issued or paid in consideration therefor upon the surrender of such certificate in accordance with Section 3.2 hereof, without interest.

(b) Company Common Stock Held by Worldwide or Holdings to Remain Outstanding. Notwithstanding Section 3.1(a) hereof, at the Company Effective Time all shares of Company Common Stock held by Worldwide or Holdings shall remain outstanding and unchanged as a result of the Company Merger.

(b) As soon as reasonably practicable after the Company Effective Time, Laser shall cause the Exchange Agent to mail (or deliver to its principal office) to each holder of record of a certificate or certificates representing shares of Company Common Stock (i) a letter of transmittal which shall specify that delivery shall be effected, and risk of loss and title to the certificates for shares of Company Common Stock shall pass, only upon delivery of the certificates for such shares of Company Common

022449

Stock to the Exchange Agent and which shall be in such form and have such other provisions, including appropriate provisions with respect to back-up withholding, as Laser may reasonably specify, and (ii) instructions for use in effecting the surrender of the certificates for shares of Company Common Stock. Upon surrender of a certificate for shares of Company Common Stock for cancellation to the Exchange Agent, together with such letter of transmittal, duly executed and completed in accordance with the instructions thereto, the holder thereof shall be entitled to receive in exchange therefor that portion of the Exchange Fund which such holder has the right to receive pursuant to the provisions of this Article III, after giving effect to any required withholding Tax, and the certificate for shares of Company Common Stock so surrendered shall forthwith be cancelled. No interest will be paid or accrued on the cash portion of the Exchange Fund. In the event of any transfer of ownership of shares of Company Common Stock which has not been registered in the transfer records of the Company, certificates representing the proper number of shares of Laser Common Stock, if any, and a check in an amount equal to the proper amount of the cash component, if any, of the Exchange Fund, will be issued to the transferee of the certificate representing the transferred shares of Company Common Stock, only upon presentation to the Exchange Agent of a certificate or certificates representing such shares of Company Common Stock, accompanied by all documents required to evidence and effect the prior transfer thereof and to evidence that any applicable stock transfer Taxes associated with such transfer were paid.

I-6

SECTION 3.3 DIVIDENDS; TRANSFER TAXES. No dividends that are declared on Laser Common Stock will be paid to persons entitled to receive certificates representing shares of Laser Common Stock until such persons surrender their certificates representing shares of Company Common Stock. Upon such surrender, there shall be paid to the person in whose name the certificates representing such shares of Laser Common Stock shall be issued, any dividends which shall have become payable with respect to such shares of Laser Common Stock between the Company Effective Time and the time of such surrender. In no event shall the person entitled to receive such dividends be entitled to receive interest on such dividends. If any certificates for any shares of Laser Common Stock are to be issued in a name other than that in which the certificate representing shares of Company Common Stock surrendered in exchange therefor is registered, it shall be a condition of such exchange that the person requesting such exchange shall pay to the Exchange Agent any transfer or other Taxes required by reason of the issuance of certificates for such shares of Laser Common Stock in a name other than that of the registered holder of the certificate surrendered or shall establish to the satisfaction of the Exchange Agent that such Tax has been paid or is not applicable. Notwithstanding the foregoing, (i) neither the Exchange Agent nor any party hereto shall be liable to a holder of shares of Company Common Stock for any shares of Laser Common Stock or dividends thereon, any cash payments to be made pursuant to Section 3.1(a)(i)(B) hereof or, in accordance with Section 3.4 hereof, any cash in lieu of fractional share interests, in each case, delivered to a public official pursuant to applicable escheat Laws and (ii) any shares of Laser Common Stock held by the Exchange Agent prior to surrender of certificates representing shares of Company Common Stock shall not be deemed issued.

SECTION 3.4 NO FRACTIONAL SHARES. No certificates or scrip representing fractional shares of Laser Common Stock shall be issued upon the surrender for exchange of certificates representing shares of Company Common Stock pursuant to this Article III, and no dividend, stock split or other change in the capital structure of Laser shall relate to any fractional security, and such fractional interests shall not entitle the owner thereof to vote or to any rights of a security holder. In lieu of any such fractional shares of Laser Common Stock, each holder of shares of Company Common Stock who would otherwise have been entitled to a fraction of a share of Laser Common Stock upon surrender of stock certificates for exchange pursuant to this Article III will be paid cash upon such surrender in an amount equal to the product of such fraction multiplied by the closing sale price of one share of Laser Common Stock on the NYSE on the day of the Company Effective Time, or, if shares of Laser Common Stock are not so traded on such day, the closing sale price of one such share on the next preceding day on which such share was traded on the NYSE. For purposes of this Section 3.4, shares of Company Common Stock of any holder represented by two or more certificates shall be aggregated, and in no event shall any holder be paid an amount of cash pursuant to this Section 3.4 in respect of more than one share of Laser Common Stock.

SECTION 3.5 TERMINATION OF EXCHANGE FUND. Any portion of the Exchange Fund which remains undistributed to the holders of the Company Common Stock for six (6) months after the Company Effective Time shall be delivered to Laser, upon demand, and any holders of the Company Common Stock who have not theretofore complied with this Article III shall thereafter look only to Laser for payment of their claim for the shares of Laser Common Stock and cash and dividends or other distributions, if any, pursuant to this Article III.

SECTION 3.6 INVESTMENT OF EXCHANGE FUND. Without prejudice to the rights of any holder of Company Common Stock to receive the Per Share Merger Consideration, the Exchange Agent shall invest any cash

included in the Exchange Fund, as directed by Laser, on a daily basis. Any interest and other income resulting from such investments shall be paid to Laser.

SECTION 3.7 CLOSING OF COMPANY TRANSFER BOOKS. At the Company Effective Time, the stock transfer books of the Company shall be closed and no transfer of shares of Company Common Stock shall thereafter be made. If, after the Company Effective Time, certificates representing shares of Company Common Stock are presented to the Surviving Corporation, they shall be cancelled and exchanged for the Per Share Merger Consideration applicable thereto.

SECTION 3.8 DISSENTING SHARES. Each outstanding share of Company Common Stock as to which a written demand for appraisal is filed in accordance with Section 262 of the DGCL and not withdrawn, and with respect to which a consent is not given in favor of the Company Merger shall not be converted into or represent a right to receive the Per Share Merger Consideration unless and until the holder thereof shall have failed to perfect, or shall have effectively withdrawn or lost, the right to appraisal of and payment for each such share of Company Common Stock under Section 262, at which time each such share shall be converted into the right to receive the Per Share Merger Consideration. All such shares of Company Common Stock as to which such a written demand for appraisal is so filed and not withdrawn and with respect to which a consent is not given in favor of the Company Merger, except any such shares of Company Common Stock the holder of which, prior to the Company Effective Time, shall have effectively withdrawn or lost such right to appraisal and payment for such shares of Company Common Stock under Section 262, are herein referred to as "Dissenting Shares." The Company shall give Laser prompt notice upon receipt by the Company of any written demands for appraisal rights, withdrawal of such demands, and any other written communications delivered to the Company pursuant to Section 262, and the Company shall give Laser the opportunity, to the extent permitted by Law, to participate in all negotiations and proceedings with respect to such demands. Except with the prior written consent of Laser, the Company shall not voluntarily make any payment with respect to any demands for appraisal rights and shall not settle or offer to settle any such demands. Each holder of Dissenting Shares who becomes entitled, pursuant to the provisions of Section 262, to payment for such shares of Dissenting Shares under the provisions of Section 262 shall receive payment therefor from the Surviving Corporation and such shares of Company Common Stock shall be cancelled thereafter.

SECTION 4.11 COMPLIANCE WITH APPLICABLE LAW. Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, the Company and its subsidiaries have received such certificates, permits, licenses, franchises, consents, approvals, orders, authorizations and clearances from appropriate Governmental Entities (the "Company Licenses") as are necessary to own or lease and operate their respective properties and to conduct their respective businesses substantially in the manner described in the Company SEC Reports and as currently owned or leased and conducted, and all such Company Licenses are valid and in full force and effect, except for any such certificates, permits, licenses, franchises, consents, approvals, orders, authorizations and clearances which the failure to have or to be in full force and effect would not reasonably be expected to have, individually or in the aggregate, a Company Material Adverse Effect. Except as disclosed in Filed Company SEC Reports, the Company and the Company's subsidiaries are in compliance with their respective obligations under the Company Licenses, with only such exceptions as, individually or in the aggregate, would not reasonably be expected to have a Company Material Adverse Effect. Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, the Company and its subsidiaries are in compliance with all judgments, orders, decrees, statutes, Laws, ordinances, rules and regulations of any Governmental Entity applicable to them, except for such noncompliance which individually or in the aggregate would not have a Company Material Adverse Effect.

SECTION 4.12 LABOR MATTERS. Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, neither the Company nor any of the Company's subsidiaries has any labor contracts, collective bargaining agreements or material employment or consulting agreements with any persons employed by or otherwise performing services primarily for the Company or any of the Company's subsidiaries (the "Company Business Personnel") or any representative of any Company Business Personnel. Except as set forth in the Filed Company SEC Reports, neither the Company nor any of its subsidiaries has engaged in any unfair labor practice with respect to Company Business Personnel, and there is no unfair labor practice complaint pending against the Company or any of its subsidiaries with respect to Company Business Personnel which, in either such case, would reasonably be expected to have, individually or in the aggregate, a Company Material Adverse Effect. 022457

under Section 414(b), (c), (m) or (o) of the Code (each, a "Commonly Controlled Entity") which is currently in effect for the benefit of any current or former directors, officers, employees or independent contractors of the Company or any of its subsidiaries (collectively, the "Company Plans"). The Company has delivered to Laser or will deliver to Laser prior to the Company Effective Time true, complete and correct copies of (x) the two most recent annual reports on Form 5500 filed with the Internal Revenue Service with respect to each Company Plan (if any such report was required), (y) the most recent summary plan description for each Company Plan for which such summary plan description is required and (z) each currently effective trust agreement, insurance or group annuity contract and each other material funding or financing arrangement relating to any Company Plan.

(b) No Commonly Controlled Entity has incurred any liability under Title IV of ERISA, other than for contributions not yet due to a defined benefit pension plan subject to Title IV of ERISA and other than for the payment of premiums to the PBGC not yet due, and no condition exists that presents a material risk of incurring any such liability, which liability, to the extent currently due, has not been fully paid as of the date hereof and would individually or in the aggregate be reasonably likely to result in a Company Material Adverse Effect.

(c) Except as set forth in Company SEC reports or in Section 4.13 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, neither the Company nor any of its subsidiaries has any obligation to provide any welfare benefits to employees or former employees following termination of employment except (i) for benefits the cost of which is borne entirely by the employee or former employee, (ii) as required under Section 4980 of the Code or other applicable law or (iii) obligations to provide such benefits to Company employees employed in non-U.S. jurisdictions.

(d) No Commonly Controlled Entity has engaged in a transaction described in Section 4069 of ERISA that could subject the Company or any of its subsidiaries or Laser to liability at any time after the date hereof, which liability would be reasonably likely to result in a Company Material Adverse Effect.

(e) No Commonly Controlled Entity has withdrawn from any multiemployer plan where such withdrawal has resulted in any actual or potential "withdrawal liability" (as defined in Section 4201 of ERISA) that has not been fully paid, which liability would be reasonably likely to result in a Company Material Adverse Effect.

(f) Except as set forth in Section 4.13 of the Company Disclosure Schedule or as specifically provided in this Agreement, the transactions contemplated by this Agreement will not, either alone or in connection with another event, cause there to be paid or become payable any additional benefits or any acceleration of the time of payment or vesting of any benefits under any Company Plan or under any employment, severance, termination or compensation agreement to which the Company is a party as of the Company Effective Time.

SECTION 4.14 ENVIRONMENTAL MATTERS.

(a) Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, the Company and its subsidiaries are in compliance with all applicable Environmental Laws, which compliance includes the possession of permits and governmental authorizations required under applicable Environmental Laws ("Environmental Permits") and compliance with the terms and conditions thereof, except where such non-compliance would not result in a Company Material Adverse Effect.

(b) Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, there are no Environmental Claims pending or, to the knowledge of the Company, threatened against the Company or any of its subsidiaries that would reasonably be expected to result in a Company Material Adverse Effect.

(c) Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, the properties presently or to the knowledge of the Company formerly owned, leased or operated by the Company or its subsidiaries (including groundwater under the properties) (the "Properties") do not contain any Hazardous Substance other than as permitted under applicable Environmental Law; provided, however, that with respect to Properties formerly owned, leased or operated by the Company or its subsidiaries, such representation is limited to the period prior to the disposition of such Properties by the Company or its subsidiaries.

(d) Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, to the knowledge of the Company, no Hazardous Substance has been disposed of or transported from any of the Properties during the time any such Property was owned, leased or operated by the Company or any of its subsidiaries, other than as permitted under applicable Environmental Law and in effect at the time of such disposal or transportation.

(e) Except as disclosed in the Filed Company SEC Reports, to the knowledge of the Company, the Company and its subsidiaries have not become obligated, whether by operation of Law or through contractual agreement, to indemnify any other person or otherwise to assume liability for any claim brought pursuant to any Environmental Law which could reasonably be expected to have a Company Material Adverse Effect.

SECTION 4.15 INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY. The Company has previously delivered to Laser a list, which, to the knowledge of the Company, is true and correct as of the date hereof in all material respects, of all material issued patents and registered trademarks of the Company. Except as set forth in Section 4.15 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, the Company and its subsidiaries own or have sufficient rights to use all material Intellectual Property used in connection with the business of the Company and its subsidiaries as currently conducted. As used in this Section 4.15, the term "material," when applied to Intellectual Property, means that such Intellectual Property is used in a significant manner to conduct the business of the Company and its subsidiaries as it is currently conducted.

SECTION 4.16 CONTRACTS. Except as set forth in Section 4.16 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, neither the Company nor any of its subsidiaries is a party to or bound by any material Contract, other than (i) the Affiliate Agreements listed in Section 4.10 of the Holdings Disclosure Schedule, (ii) any Contract filed or incorporated by reference as an exhibit to any Filed Company SEC Report or (iii) any Contract (other than the Affiliate Agreements listed in Section 4.10 of the Holdings Disclosure Schedule) entered into in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice.

SECTION 4.17 OPINION OF FINANCIAL ADVISOR. SECTION 4.18 TAKEOVER STATUTE. The Board of Directors of the Company has approved the Holdings Merger solely for the purpose of rendering inapplicable, and such approval is sufficient to render inapplicable, to the Company Merger and the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement the provisions of Section 203 of the DGCL. To the best of the Company's knowledge, no other state takeover statute or similar statute or regulation applies or purports to apply to the Company Merger, this Agreement or any of the transactions contemplated hereby, and no provision of the certificate of incorporation or by-laws of the Company or certificates of incorporation or by-laws (or comparable organizational documents) of any subsidiary of the Company would, directly or indirectly, restrict or impair the ability of Laser to vote, or otherwise to exercise the rights of a stockholder with respect to, shares of capital stock of the Company or any of its subsidiaries that may be acquired or controlled by Laser.

SECTION 4.19 BROKERS. No broker, investment banker or other person, other than Credit Suisse First Boston, the fees and expenses of which will be paid by the Company (as reflected in an agreement between Credit Suisse First Boston and the Company, a copy of which has been furnished to Laser), is entitled to any broker's, finder's or other similar fee or commission in connection with the transactions contemplated by this Agreement based upon arrangements made by or on behalf of the Company.

Laser is duly qualified as a foreign corporation to do business, and is in good standing, in each jurisdiction where the character of its properties owned or held under lease or the nature of its activities makes such qualification necessary, except where the failure to be so qualified would not individually or in the aggregate have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operations or financial condition of Laser and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole (a "Laser Material Adverse Effect").

SECTION 5.2 CAPITALIZATION. The authorized capital stock of Laser consists of 200,000,000 shares of Laser Common Stock, and 2,000,000 shares of Laser Preferred Stock. As of such date, except as set forth above, there are no shares of capital stock of Laser issued or outstanding or, as of such date or as of the date hereof, except as set forth above, any options, warrants, subscriptions, calls, rights, convertible securities or other agreements or commitments obligating Laser to issue, transfer, sell, redeem, repurchase or otherwise acquire any shares of its capital stock or securities, or the capital stock or securities of Laser. There are no notes, bonds, debentures or other indebtedness of Laser having the right to vote (or convertible into or exchangeable for securities having the right to vote) on any matters upon which stockholders of Laser may vote.

SECTION 5.4 AUTHORITY RELATIVE TO THIS AGREEMENT. Each of Laser and Merger Sub has the corporate power and authority to enter into this Agreement and to perform its obligations hereunder and to consummate the transactions contemplated hereby. The execution and delivery of this Agreement by Laser and Merger Sub and the consummation by Laser and Merger Sub of the transactions contemplated hereby have been duly authorized by the Boards of Directors of Laser and Merger Sub, and no other corporate action or proceedings on the part of Laser or Merger Sub (including any action on the part of its stockholders) is necessary to authorize this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby. SECTION 5.5 CONSENTS AND APPROVALS; NO VIOLATIONS. Except for applicable requirements of the HSR Act, the Securities Act, the Exchange Act, Competition Laws, and state securities or blue sky Laws, and the filing of the Certificate of Merger in such form as required by, and executed in accordance with the relevant provisions of, the DGCL, no filing with, and no permit, authorization, consent or approval of, any governmental or regulatory authority is necessary for the consummation by Laser or Merger Sub of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement, except for such filings, permits, authorizations, consents or approvals the failure of which to be made or obtained would not (i) individually or in the aggregate have a Laser Material Adverse Effect or (ii) delay in any material respect or prevent the consummation of any of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement. Neither the execution and delivery of this Agreement by Laser or Merger Sub nor the consummation by Laser or Merger Sub of the transactions contemplated hereby, nor compliance by Laser with any of the provisions hereof, will (a) conflict with or result in any breach of any provisions of the certificate of incorporation or by-laws of Laser or Merger Sub; (b) result in a violation or breach of, or constitute (with or without due notice or lapse of time or both) a default (or give rise to any right of termination, cancellation or acceleration) under, any of the terms, conditions or provisions of any material (as defined for purposes of Form 10-K) Contract to which Laser, Merger Sub or any of their subsidiaries is a party or by which any of them or any of their properties or assets may be bound; or (c) violate any order, writ, injunction, decree, statute, rule or regulation applicable to Laser, Merger Sub, any of their subsidiaries or any of their properties or assets, except, in the case of clauses (b) and (c), for violations, breaches or defaults which would not individually or in the aggregate have a Laser Material

None of the information to be supplied by Laser for inclusion or incorporation by reference in (a) the Registration Statement or (b) the Information Statement, the Schedule 13E-3 or the Section 14(f) Notice will, in the case of the Registration Statement, at the time it becomes effective and at the Company Effective Time contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state any material fact required to be stated therein or necessary to make the statements therein not misleading, or, in the case of the Information Statement, the Schedule 13E-3 and the Section 14(f) Notice, at the time of the mailing thereof and, in the case of the Information Statement and the Schedule 13E-3, at the Company Effective Time, contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state any material fact required to be stated therein or necessary in order to make the statements therein, in light of the circumstances under which they are made, not misleading. The Registration Statement will comply as to form in all material respects with the provisions of the Securities Act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder. The Schedule 13E-3 will comply as to form in all material respects with the provisions of the Exchange Act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

SECTION 6.1 CONDUCT OF BUSINESS BY THE COMPANY. During the period from the date of this Agreement to the Holdings Effective Time, except as expressly permitted by this Agreement or with the prior written consent of Laser or as set forth in Section 6.1 of the Company Disclosure Schedule, the Company shall, and shall cause its subsidiaries to, carry on the business of the Company and its subsidiaries in the usual, regular and ordinary course in substantially the same manner as heretofore conducted and in compliance in all material respects with all applicable Laws and regulations and, to the extent consistent therewith, use all reasonable efforts to preserve intact the current business organizations of the Company and its subsidiaries, and to preserve its relationships with those persons having business dealings with the Company and its subsidiaries to the end that the goodwill and ongoing businesses of the Company and its subsidiaries shall be unimpaired at the Holdings Effective Time. (iii) The Company shall not amend its certificate of incorporation or by-laws;

(iv) Other than as would not be material to the Company, the Company and its subsidiaries shall not acquire or agree to acquire (x) by merging or consolidating with, or by purchasing a substantial portion of the assets of, or in any other manner, any business or any corporation, limited liability company, partnership, joint venture, association or other business organization or division thereof or (y) any assets that individually or in the aggregate are material to the Company and its subsidiaries;

(v) Other than as would not be material to the Company, the Company and its subsidiaries shall not sell, lease, license or otherwise encumber or subject to any Lien or otherwise dispose of any of the properties or assets of the Company and its subsidiaries, other than in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice or pursuant to existing

(x) Except as required by Law or previously existing contractual arrangements, in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice or as disclosed or otherwise provided in this Agreement, the Company will not, nor will it permit any of its subsidiaries to, (a) increase the compensation of any of its employees, (b) enter into any Contract with any of its employees regarding his or her employment, compensation or benefits, or (c) adopt any plan, arrangement or policy which would become a Company Plan or amend any Company Plan to the extent such adoption or amendment would create or materially increase any material liability or obligation on the part of the Company or its subsidiaries;

(xi) The Company and its subsidiaries shall not make any change to their accounting methods, principles or practices, except as may be required by GAAP or Regulation S-X promulgated by the SEC or by Law;

(xii) The Company shall not, and shall not permit any of its subsidiaries to, create, incur, suffer to exist or assume any material Lien on any of their assets, except as would not have a Company Material Adverse Effect or materially impair the Company's conduct of the business and operations of the Company and its subsidiaries, as presently conducted;

(xiv) The Company and its subsidiaries shall not authorize, or commit or agree to take, any of the foregoing actions.

SECTION 6.2 OTHER ACTIONS. During the period from the date hereof to the Holdings Effective Time, the Company and Laser shall not, and shall not permit any of their respective subsidiaries to, take any action that would, or that

SECTION 6.4 CONDUCT OF BUSINESS OF MERGER SUB. Promptly after its receipt of such information, the Company shall file with the SEC and mail to all stockholders of record of the Company the Section 14(f) Notice.

ARTICLE VII ADDITIONAL AGREEMENTS

SECTION 7.1 PREPARATION OF THE REGISTRATION STATEMENT, THE INFORMATION STATEMENT, THE SCHEDULE 13E-3 AND THE SECTION 14(F) NOTICE. As soon as reasonably practicable following the date of this Agreement, Laser and the Company shall prepare and file with the SEC the Information Statement and Laser shall prepare and file with the SEC the Registration Statement, in which the Information Statement will be included as a prospectus (including the financial statements and pro forma financial information required to be set forth therein), and the Schedule 13E-3 and the Section 14(f) Notice. Laser shall use all reasonable best efforts to have the Registration Statement declared effective under the Securities Act and the Schedule 13E-3 and the Section 14(f) Notice cleared by the SEC and mailed as promptly as practicable after such filing. The Company will use all reasonable best efforts to cause the Information Statement and the Schedule 13E-3 and the Section 14(f) Notice to be mailed to the Company's stockholders as promptly as practicable after it has been cleared by the SEC. Each of Laser and the Company shall also take any action (other than qualifying to do business in any jurisdiction in which it is not now so qualified or to file a general consent to service of process) required to be taken under any applicable state securities Laws in connection with the issuance of Laser Common Stock in connection with the Company Merger

and the Holdings Merger. The Company shall furnish all information concerning the Company, its subsidiaries and the holders of the Company Common Stock and Laser shall furnish all information concerning Laser and its subsidiaries, in each case, as may be reasonably requested in connection with any such action.

SECTION 7.2 ACCESS AND INFORMATION; CONFIDENTIALITY. The Company and Laser shall each afford to the other and to the other's financial advisors, legal counsel, accountants, consultants and other representatives full access at all reasonable times throughout the period prior to the Company Effective Time to all of its books, records, properties, plants and personnel (provided that all such access shall be on reasonable advance notice and shall not disrupt normal business operations) and, during such period, each shall furnish promptly to the other (a) a copy of each report, schedule and other document filed or received by it pursuant to the requirements of federal or state securities Laws, and (b) all other information as such other party may reasonably request, provided that no investigation pursuant to this Section 7.2 shall affect any representations, or warranties made herein or the conditions to the obligations of the respective parties to consummate the Company Merger. Each party and their respective affiliates, representatives and agents shall hold in confidence all nonpublic information in accordance with the terms of the Confidentiality Agreements between Laser and the Company dated February 4, 1998 and February 23, 1998.

SECTION 7.3 COMFORT LETTERS.

(a) The Company shall use its reasonable best efforts to cause to be delivered to Laser "comfort" letters of Ernst & Young, LLP, the Company's independent public accountants, dated the date on which the Registration Statement shall become effective and as of the date on which the Information Statement is mailed to the Company's stockholders, and addressed to Laser and the Company, in form and substance reasonably satisfactory to Laser and as is reasonably customary in scope and substance for letters delivered by independent public accountants in connection with transactions such as those contemplated by this Agreement.

(b) Laser shall use its reasonable best efforts to cause to be delivered to the Company "comfort" letters of Arthur Andersen, LLP, Laser's independent public accountants, dated the date on which the Registration Statement shall become effective and as of the date on which the Information Statement is mailed to the Company's stockholders, and addressed to the Company and Laser, in form and substance reasonably satisfactory to the Company and as is reasonably customary in scope and substance for letters delivered by independent public accountants in connection with transactions such as those contemplated by this Agreement.

SECTION 7.4 LISTING APPLICATION. Laser shall prepare and submit to the NYSE a listing application covering the Laser Shares to be issued in connection with the Company Merger, and shall use its reasonable best efforts to obtain, prior to the Company Effective Time, approval for the listing of such Laser Shares, subject to official notice of issuance.

SECTION 7.5 AFFILIATES. Prior to the Company Effective Time, the Company shall cause to be prepared and delivered to Laser a list (reasonably satisfactory to counsel for Laser) identifying each person who, at the time the Information Statement is mailed to the Company's stockholders, may be deemed to be an "affiliate" of the Company, as such term is used in paragraphs (c) and (d) of Rule 145 under the Securities Act (the "Company Rule 145 Affiliates"). The Company shall use its reasonable best efforts to cause such person who is identified as a Company Rule 145 Affiliate in such list to deliver to Laser on or prior to the Company Effective Time a written agreement, in customary form, that such Company Rule 145 Affiliate will not (i) sell, pledge, transfer or otherwise dispose of, or in any other way reduce such Company Rule 145 Affiliate's risk relative to, any Laser Shares issued to such Company Rule 145 Affiliate in connection with the Company Merger, except pursuant to an effective registration statement or in compliance with such Rule 145 or another exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act or (ii) sell or in any other way reduce such Rule 145 Affiliate's risk relative to any Laser Shares received in the Company Merger (within the meaning of Section 201.01 of the SEC's Financial Reporting Release No. 1) during the period commencing thirty (30) days prior to the Company Effective Time and ending at such time as the financial results (including combined sales and net income) covering at least thirty (30) days of post-Merger operations have been published, except as permitted by Staff Accounting Bulletin No. 76 issued by the SEC.

SECTION 7.6 HSR ACT; COMPETITION LAWS. As soon as reasonably practicable, the Company, Laser and Merger Sub shall make or cause to be made all filings and submissions under the HSR Act (if applicable) and any other applicable Competition Laws as may be reasonably required to be made in connection with this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby. Subject to Section 7.2 hereof, the Company will furnish to Laser and Laser will furnish to the Company, such information and assistance as the other may reasonably request in connection with the preparation of any such filings or submissions. Subject to Section 7.2 hereof, the Company will provide Laser, and Laser will provide the Company, with copies of all correspondence, filings or communications (or memoranda setting forth the substance thereof) between such party or any of its representatives, on the one hand, and any governmental agency or authority or members of their respective staffs, on the other hand, with respect to this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby. The Company and Laser shall consult with one another with respect to any such correspondence, filings or communications and shall engage in discussions with any Governmental Entity on a joint basis.

SECTION 7.7 EMPLOYEE MATTERS.

(a) From and after the Holdings Effective Time, Laser shall honor, and shall cause the Company to honor, all employment, severance, termination, consulting and retirement agreements to which the Company is a party as of the Holdings Effective Time; provided, however, that (i) neither Laser nor the Company shall have any responsibility for the Company's obligations under that certain employment agreement entered into as of October 1, 1997, between the Company and Jerry W. Levin (except for the incentive payment provided for in section 3.2(b) thereof (relating to the divestiture of Coleman Safety & Security Products, Inc.), which shall be the responsibility of the Company and paid in accordance with the terms of section 3.2(b) thereof), and (ii) neither Laser nor the Company shall have any responsibility for the Company's obligations under that certain employment agreement entered into as of July 1, 1997, between the Company and Paul E. Shapiro. Except as provided in the first sentence of Section 7.7(b) or the proviso to this sentence, from and after the Holdings Effective Time, Laser will cause the Company to allow Company employees to participate in Laser employee benefit plans on substantially the same basis as similarly situated Laser employees; provided, however, that Laser will cause the Company to continue the Company Plans for at least six (6) months following the Holdings Effective Time. Laser will or will cause the Company to give Company employees full credit for purposes of eligibility and vesting of benefits and benefit accrual for service with the Company and its affiliates prior to the Holdings Effective Time under each Laser employee benefit plan; provided, however, that no such crediting of service results in duplication of benefits. With respect to any welfare benefit plans maintained for the benefit of Company employees from and after the Holdings Effective Time, Laser shall (i) cause there to be waived any pre-existing condition limitations and (ii) give effect, in determining any deductible and maximum out-of-pocket limitations, to claims incurred and amounts paid by, and amounts reimbursed to, such employees with respect to similar plans maintained by the Company for such employee's benefit immediately prior to the Holdings Effective Time. Laser acknowledges that, for the purposes of certain of such Company Plans and certain of such

022468

other employment, severance, termination, consulting and retirement agreements to which the Company is currently a party, the consummation of the Holdings Merger will constitute a "change in control" of the Company (as such term is defined in such plans and agreements). Laser agrees to cause the Company, after the Holdings Effective Time, to pay all amounts provided under such Company Plans and agreements as a result of a change in control of the Company in accordance with their respective terms and to honor, and to cause the Company to honor, all rights, privileges and modifications to or with respect to any such Company Plans or agreements which become effective as a result of such change in control.

(b) Laser shall cause the Company to continue the Company's Executive Annual Incentive Policy for the remainder of 1998, and participants therein shall not be eligible for participation in an analogous Laser incentive plan in respect of 1998. Laser shall honor, and shall cause the Company to honor, the Company's Executive Severance Policy without any amendment adverse to participants. Laser shall provide severance benefits for employees of the Company, who are not participants in Company's Executive Severance Policy and who do not have employment agreements with the Company, under the Laser severance policy on the same basis as similarly situated Laser employees provided that severance benefits shall be no less than those set forth on Schedule 7.7(b).

(c) Effective as of the ninety-first (91st) day following the Holdings Effective Time, the participants in the Executive Severance Policy set forth on Schedule 7.7(c) may voluntarily terminate their employment, which termination will be deemed to be for "Good Reason" under the Executive Severance Policy as a result of the consummation of the Holdings Merger.

(d) Laser and the Company agree to take all necessary action to provide that, effective as of the Holdings Effective Time, all outstanding Employee Stock Options shall be vested and exercisable as of the Holdings Effective Time, and between the Holdings Effective Time and the Company Effective Time, Laser shall cause the Company to maintain a broker-dealer cashless exercise procedure for the exercise of Employee Stock Options. Laser and the Company agree to take all other actions necessary to provide for the cancellation, effective at the Company Effective Time, of each outstanding Employee Stock Option and, in settlement therefor, a payment to the holder of the Employee Stock Option in cash by Laser or the Company at the Company Effective Time equal to the product of (i) the total number of shares of Company Common Stock subject to such Employee Stock Option, and (ii) the excess of $27.50 over the exercise price per share of Company Common Stock subject to such Employee Stock Option, less any applicable withholding taxes.

(e) Laser agrees that, at or prior to the Holdings Effective Time, Holdings may cause the Company to (i) assume sponsorship of the pension, retirement, savings, retiree health care and life insurance and other plans maintained by New Coleman Holdings, Inc. that are reflected in footnotes 7 and 12 to the 1996 financial statements included in the Company's 1996 Annual Report on SEC Form 10-K (as such plans may have been changed in the ordinary course of business since December 31, 1996) (the "Plans"), and (ii) assume the liabilities and obligations of New Coleman Holdings, Inc. under the Plans to the extent reflected in such footnotes (as such liabilities and obligations may have changed in the ordinary course of business since December 31, 1996). The documents used to effect such assumption shall be in form and substance reasonably satisfactory to Parent Holdings and Laser.

022469

(a) For six (6) years after the Company Effective Time (and during the period following the Holdings Effective Time but prior to the Company Effective Time), Laser shall, or shall cause the Surviving Corporation to, indemnify, defend and hold harmless any person who is now, or has been at any time prior to the date hereof, or who becomes prior to the Company Effective Time, a director or officer of the Company (an "Indemnified Person") against all losses, claims, damages, liabilities, costs and expenses (including attorneys' fees and expenses), judgments, fines, losses and amounts paid in settlement in connection with any actual or threatened action, suit, claim, proceeding or investigation (each, a "Claim") to the extent that any such Claim is based on, or arises out of: (i) the fact that such Indemnified Person is or was a director or officer of the Company or is or was serving at the request of the Company as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust or other enterprise; or (ii) this Agreement or the Holdings Merger Agreement or any of the transactions contemplated hereby or thereby, in each case to the extent that any such Claim pertains to any matter or fact arising, existing or occurring prior to or at the Company Effective Time, regardless of whether such Claim is asserted or claimed prior to, at or after the Company Effective Time, to the full extent permitted under the DGCL, the Company's certificate of incorporation or by-laws or any indemnification agreement in effect at the date hereof, including provisions relating to advancement of expenses incurred in the defense of any

such Claim; provided, however, that neither Laser nor the Surviving Corporation shall be required to indemnify any Indemnified Person in connection with any proceeding (or portion thereof) involving any Claim initiated by such Indemnified Person against the Company unless the initiation of such proceeding (or portion thereof) was authorized by the Board of Directors of the Company or unless such proceeding is brought by an Indemnified Person to enforce rights under this Section 7.8; and provided further that in the event any Claim is asserted or made within such period, all such rights, liabilities and limitations in respect of any such Claim shall continue until disposition thereof. Without limiting the generality of the preceding sentence, in the event any Indemnified Person becomes involved in any Claim after the Company Effective Time, Laser shall, or shall cause the Surviving Corporation to, periodically advance to such Indemnified Person its legal and other expenses (including the cost of any investigation and preparation incurred in connection therewith), subject to the providing by such Indemnified Person of an undertaking to reimburse all amounts so advanced in the event of a final non-appealable determination by a court of competent jurisdiction that such Indemnified Person is not entitled thereto.

(b) Laser and the Company agree that all rights to indemnification, and all limitations with respect thereto, existing in favor of any Indemnified Person, as provided in the Company's certificate of incorporation or by-laws and any indemnification agreement in effect at the date hereof, shall survive the Holdings Merger and the Company Merger and shall continue in full force and effect, without any amendment thereto, for a period of six (6) years from the Company Effective Time (and during the period following the Holdings Effective Time but prior to the Company Effective Time) to the extent such rights and limitations are consistent with the DGCL; provided, however, that in the event any Claim is asserted or made within such period, all such rights, liabilities and limitations in respect of any such Claim shall continue until disposition thereof; provided further that any determination required to be made with respect to whether an Indemnified Person's conduct complies with the standards set forth under the DGCL, the Company's certificate of incorporation or by-laws or any such agreement, as the case may be, shall be made by independent legal counsel selected by such Indemnified Person and reasonably acceptable to Laser; and provided further that nothing in this Section 7.8 shall impair any rights or obligations of any current or former director or officer of the Company.

(c) Laser or the Surviving Corporation shall use reasonable best efforts to obtain a liability insurance policy ("D&O Insurance") for the benefit of the Company's existing and former directors and officers commencing at the Holdings Effective Time and for a period of not less than six (6) years after the Company Effective Time providing substantially similar coverage in amounts and on terms no less advantageous than that currently provided to such existing and former directors and officers; provided further that neither Laser nor the Surviving Corporation shall be required to pay an annual premium for D&O Insurance in excess of 200% of the last annual premium paid prior to the date hereof, but in such case shall purchase as much coverage as possible for such amount.

(d) The provisions of this Section 7.8 are intended to be for the benefit of, and shall be enforceable by, each Indemnified Person, his or her heirs and his or her personal representatives.

SECTION 7.9 EXPENSES. Whether or not the Company Merger is consummated, all costs and expenses incurred in connection with this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby shall be paid by the party incurring such expenses.

SECTION 7.10 PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENTS. Laser and the Company shall consult with each other before issuing their respective initial press releases to be issued with respect to the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and the Holdings Merger.

SECTION 7.11 REASONABLE BEST EFFORTS. Upon the terms and subject to the conditions set forth in this Agreement, each of the parties hereto agrees to use its reasonable best efforts to take, or cause to be taken, all actions, and to do, or cause to be done, and to assist and cooperate with the other parties in doing, all things necessary, proper or advisable, to consummate and make effective, in the most expeditious manner practicable, the Company Merger and the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement, including, but not limited to: (i) the obtaining of all necessary actions or nonactions, waivers, consents and approvals from all Governmental Entities and the making of all necessary registrations and filings with, and the taking of all other reasonable steps as may be necessary to obtain an approval or waiver from, or to avoid an action or proceeding by, any Governmental Entity (including those in connection with the HSR Act, if applicable); (ii) the obtaining of all necessary consents, approvals or waivers from persons other than Governmental Entities; (iii) the defending of any lawsuits or other legal proceedings, whether judicial or administrative, challenging this Agreement or the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby, including seeking to have any stay or temporary restraining order entered by any court or other Governmental Entity vacated or reversed; and (iv) the execution and delivery of any additional instruments necessary to consummate the transactions contemplated by this Agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed to require any party hereto to enter into any agreement with any Governmental Entity or to consent to any order, decree or judgment requiring such party to hold, separate or divest, or to restrict the dominion or control of such party or any of its Affiliates over, any of the assets, properties or businesses of such party or its Affiliates in existence on the date hereof.

ARTICLE VIII CONDITIONS TO CONSUMMATION OF THE MERGER

SECTION 8.1 CONDITIONS TO EACH PARTY'S OBLIGATION TO EFFECT THE COMPANY MERGER. The respective obligations of each party to effect the Company Merger shall be subject to the satisfaction or waiver, to the extent permitted by Law, at or prior to the Company Effective Time of the following conditions:

(a) The Registration Statement shall have become effective in accordance with the provisions of the Securities Act and no stop order suspending the effectiveness of the Registration Statement shall be in effect and no proceeding for such purpose shall be pending before or threatened by the SEC; and all applicable time periods required under the Securities Act and the Exchange Act following the mailing of the Information Statement to the Company's stockholders shall have lapsed.

(b) The Laser Shares shall have been approved for listing on the NYSE, subject to official notice of issuance.

(c) No preliminary or permanent injunction or other order by any federal or state court in the United States of competent jurisdiction which prohibits the consummation of the Company Merger shall have been issued and remain in effect.

(d) The Holdings Merger shall have been consummated in accordance with its terms and the applicable provisions of the DGCL.

ARTICLE IX TERMINATION, AMENDMENT AND WAIVER

SECTION 9.1 TERMINATION. This Agreement shall terminate automatically upon the termination of the Holdings Merger Agreement in accordance with its terms.

SECTION 9.2 EFFECT OF TERMINATION. In the event of termination of this Agreement as provided in Section 9.1 hereof, this Agreement shall forthwith become void and there shall be no liability on the part of any of the parties; provided that the provisions of Sections 7.2 and 7.9 and of this Article IX shall continue and that nothing herein shall relieve any party from liability for any willful breach hereof.

SECTION 9.3 AMENDMENT. This Agreement may be amended by the parties pursuant to a writing adopted by action taken by all of the parties at any time prior to (but not following) the consummation of the Holdings Merger. This Agreement may not be amended except by an instrument in writing signed by all the parties hereto.

SECTION 9.4 EXTENSION; WAIVER. Any agreement on the part of a party to any such extension or waiver shall be valid only as against such party and only if set forth in an instrument in writing signed by such party. The failure of any party to this Agreement to assert any of its rights under this Agreement or otherwise shall not constitute a waiver of such rights.

ANNEX II

262 APPRAISAL RIGHTS. (a) Any stockholder of a corporation of this State who holds shares of stock on the date of the making of a demand pursuant to subsection (d) of this section with respect to such shares, who continuously holds such shares through the effective date of the merger or consolidation, who has otherwise complied with subsection (d) of this section and who has neither voted in favor of the merger or consolidation nor consented thereto in writing pursuant to Section 228 of this title shall be entitled to an appraisal by the Court of Chancery of the fair value of the stockholder's shares of stock under the circumstances described in subsections (b) and (c) of this section. As used in this section, the word "stockholder" means a holder of record of stock in a stock corporation and also a member of record of a nonstock corporation; the words "stock" and "share" mean and include what is ordinarily meant by those words and also membership or membership interest of a member of a nonstock corporation; and the words "depository receipt" mean a receipt or other instrument issued by a depository representing an interest in one or more shares, or fractions thereof, solely of stock of a corporation, which stock is deposited with the depository.

(b) Appraisal rights shall be available for the shares of any class or series of stock of a constituent corporation in a merger or consolidation to be effected pursuant to section 251 (other than a merger effected pursuant to section 251(g) of this title), section 252, section 254, section 257, section 258, section 263, or section 264 of this title:

(1) Provided, however, that no appraisal rights under this section shall be available for the shares of any class or series of stock, which stock, or depository receipts in respect thereof, at the record date fixed to determine the stockholders entitled to receive notice of and to vote at the meeting of stockholders to act upon the agreement of merger or consolidation, were either (i) listed on a national securities exchange or designated as a national market system security on an interdealer quotation system by the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. or (ii) held of record by more than 2,000 holders; and further provided that no appraisal rights shall be available for any shares of stock of the constituent corporation surviving a merger if the merger did not require for its approval the vote of the stockholders of the surviving corporation as provided in subsection (f) of section 251 of this title.

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph (1) of this subsection, appraisal rights under this section shall be available for the shares of any class or series of stock of a constituent corporation if the holders thereof are required by the terms of an agreement of merger or consolidation pursuant to sections 251, 252, 254, 257, 258, 263 and 264 of this title to accept for such stock anything except:

a. Shares of stock of the corporation surviving or resulting from such merger or consolidation, or depository receipts in respect thereof;

b. Shares of stock of any other corporation, or depository receipts in respect thereof, which shares of stock or depository receipts at the effective date of the merger or consolidation will be either listed on a national securities exchange or designated as a national market system security on an interdealer quotation system by the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. or held of record by more than 2,000 holders;

c. Cash in lieu of fractional shares or fractional depository receipts described in the foregoing subparagraphs a. and b. of this paragraph; or

d. Any combination of the shares of stock, depository receipts and cash in lieu of fractional shares or fractional depository receipts described in the foregoing subparagraphs a., b. and c. of this paragraph.

(3) In the event all of the stock of a subsidiary Delaware corporation party to a merger effected under section 253 of this title is not owned by the parent corporation immediately prior to the merger, appraisal rights shall be available for the shares of the subsidiary Delaware corporation.

(c) Any corporation may provide in its certificate of incorporation that appraisal rights under this section shall be available for the shares of any class or series of its stock as a result of an amendment to its certificate of incorporation, any merger or consolidation in which the corporation is a constituent corporation or the sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the corporation. If the certificate of incorporation contains such a provision, the procedures of this section, including those set forth in subsections (d) and (e) of this section, shall apply as nearly as is practicable.

(d) Appraisal rights shall be perfected as follows:

(1) If a proposed merger or consolidation for which appraisal rights are provided under this section is to be submitted for approval at a meeting of stockholders, the corporation, not less than 20 days prior to the meeting, shall notify each of its stockholders who was such on the record date for such meeting with respect to shares for which appraisal rights are available pursuant to subsections (b) or (c) hereof that appraisal rights are available for any or all of the shares of the constituent corporations, and shall include in such notice a copy of this section. Each stockholder electing to demand the appraisal of his shares shall deliver to the corporation, before the taking of the vote on the merger or consolidation, a written demand for appraisal of his shares. Such demand will be sufficient if it reasonably informs the corporation of the identity of the stockholder and that the stockholder intends thereby to demand the appraisal of his shares. A proxy or vote against the merger or consolidation shall not constitute such a demand. A stockholder electing to take such action must do so by a separate written demand as herein provided. Within 10 days after the effective date of such merger or consolidation, the surviving or resulting corporation shall notify each stockholder of each constituent corporation who has complied with this subsection and has not voted in favor of or consented to the merger or consolidation of the date that the merger or consolidation has become effective; or

(2) If the merger or consolidation was approved pursuant to Section 228 or Section 253 of this title, each constituent corporation, either before the effective date of the merger or consolidation or within ten days thereafter, shall notify each of the holders of any class or series of stock of such constituent corporation who are entitled to appraisal rights of the approval of the merger or consolidation and that appraisal rights are available for any or all shares of such class or series of stock of such constituent corporation, and shall include in such notice a copy of this section; provided that, if the notice is given on or after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, such notice shall be given by the surviving or resulting corporation to all such holders of any class or series of stock of a constituent corporation that are entitled to appraisal rights. Such notice may, and, if given on or after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, shall, also notify such stockholders of the effective date of the merger or consolidation. Any stockholder entitled to appraisal rights may, within 20 days after the date of mailing of such notice, demand in writing from the surviving or resulting corporation the appraisal of such holder's shares. Such demand will be sufficient if it reasonably informs the corporation of the identity of the stockholder and that the stockholder intends thereby to demand the appraisal of such holder's shares. If such notice did not notify stockholders of the effective date of the merger or consolidation, either (i) each such constituent corporation shall send a second notice before the effective date of the merger or consolidation notifying each of the holders of any class or series of stock of such constituent corporation that are entitled to appraisal rights of the effective date of the merger or consolidation or (ii) the surviving or resulting corporation shall send such a second notice to all such holders on or within 10 days after such effective date; provided, however, that if such second notice is sent more than 20 days following the sending of the first notice, such second notice need only be sent to each stockholder who is entitled to appraisal rights and who has demanded appraisal of such holder's shares in accordance with this subsection. An affidavit of the secretary or assistant secretary or of the transfer agent of the corporation that is required to give either notice that such notice has been given shall, in the absence of fraud, be prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein. For purposes of determining the stockholders entitled to receive either notice, each constituent corporation may fix, in advance, a record date that shall be not more than 10 days prior to the date the notice is given, provided, that if the notice is given on or after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, the record date shall be such effective date. If no record date is fixed and the notice is given prior to the effective date, the record date shall be the close of business on the day next preceding the day on which the notice is given.

(e) Within 120 days after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, the surviving or resulting corporation or any stockholder who has complied with subsections (a) and (d) hereof and who is otherwise entitled to appraisal rights, may file a petition in the Court of Chancery demanding a determination of the value of the stock of all such stockholders. Notwithstanding the foregoing, at any time within 60 days after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, any stockholder shall have the right to withdraw his demand for appraisal and to accept the terms offered upon the merger or consolidation. Within 120 days after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, any stockholder who has complied with the requirements of subsections (a) and (d) hereof, upon written request, shall be entitled to receive from the corporation surviving the merger or resulting from the consolidation a statement setting forth the aggregate number of shares not voted in favor of the merger or consolidation and with respect to which demands for appraisal have been received and the aggregate number of holders of such shares. Such written statement shall be mailed to the stockholder within 10 days after his written request for such a statement is received by the surviving or resulting corporation or within 10 days after expiration of the period for delivery of demands for appraisal under subsection (d) hereof, whichever is later.

(f) Upon the filing of any such petition by a stockholder, service of a copy thereof shall be made upon the surviving or resulting corporation, which shall within 20 days after such service file in the office of the Register in Chancery in which the petition was filed a duly verified list containing the names and addresses of all stockholders who have demanded payment for their shares and with whom agreements as to the value of their shares have not been reached by the surviving or resulting corporation. If the petition shall be filed by the surviving or resulting corporation, the petition shall be accompanied by such a duly verified list. The Register in Chancery, if so ordered by the Court, shall give notice of the time and place fixed for the hearing of such petition by registered or certified mail to the surviving or resulting corporation and to the stockholders shown on the list at the addresses therein stated. Such notice shall also be given by 1 or more publications at least 1 week before the day of the hearing, in a newspaper of general circulation published in the City of Wilmington, Delaware or such publication as the Court deems advisable. The forms of the notices by mail and by publication shall be approved by the Court, and the costs thereof shall be borne by the surviving or resulting corporation.

(g) At the hearing on such petition, the Court shall determine the stockholders who have complied with this section and who have become entitled to appraisal rights. The Court may require the stockholders who have demanded an appraisal for their shares and who hold stock represented by certificates to submit their certificates of stock to the Register in Chancery for notation thereon of the pendency of the appraisal proceedings; and if any stockholder fails to comply with such direction, the Court may dismiss the proceedings as to such stockholder.

(h) After determining the stockholders entitled to an appraisal, the Court shall appraise the shares, determining their fair value exclusive of any element of value arising from the accomplishment or expectation of the merger or consolidation, together with a fair rate of interest, if any, to be paid upon the amount determined to be the fair value. In determining such fair value, the Court shall take into account all relevant factors. In determining the fair rate of interest, the Court may consider all relevant factors, including the rate of interest which the surviving or resulting corporation would have had to pay to borrow money during the pendency of the proceeding. Upon application by the surviving or resulting corporation or by any stockholder entitled to participate in the appraisal proceeding, the Court may, in its discretion, permit discovery or other pretrial proceedings and may proceed to trial upon the appraisal prior to the final determination of the stockholder entitled to an appraisal. Any stockholder whose name appears on the list filed by the surviving or resulting corporation pursuant to subsection (f) of this section and who has submitted his certificates of stock to the Register in Chancery, if such is required, may participate fully in all proceedings until it is finally determined that he is not entitled to appraisal rights under this section.

(i) The Court shall direct the payment of the fair value of the shares, together with interest, if any, by the surviving or resulting corporation to the stockholders entitled thereto. Interest may be simple or compound, as the Court may direct. Payment shall be so made to each such stockholder, in the case of holders of uncertificated stock forthwith, and the case of holders of shares represented by certificates upon the surrender to the corporation of the certificates representing such stock. The Court's decree may be enforced as other decrees in the Court of Chancery may be enforced, whether such surviving or resulting corporation be a corporation of this State or of any state.

(j) The costs of the proceeding may be determined by the Court and taxed upon the parties as the Court deems equitable in the circumstances. Upon application of a stockholder, the Court may order all or a portion of the expenses incurred by any stockholder in connection with the appraisal proceeding, including, without limitation, reasonable attorney's fees and the fees and expenses of experts, to be charged pro rata against the value of all the shares entitled to an appraisal.

(k) From and after the effective date of the merger or consolidation, no stockholder who has demanded his appraisal rights as provided in subsection (d) of this section shall be entitled to vote such stock for any purpose or to receive payment of dividends or other distributions on the stock (except dividends or other distributions payable to stockholders of record at a date which is prior to the effective date of the merger or consolidation); provided, however, that if no petition for an appraisal shall be filed within the time provided in subsection (e) of this section, or if such stockholder shall deliver to the surviving or resulting corporation a written withdrawal of his demand for an appraisal and an acceptance of the merger or consolidation, either within 60 days after the effective date of the merger or consolidation as provided in subsection (e) of this section or thereafter with the written approval of the corporation, then the right of such stockholder to an appraisal shall cease. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no appraisal proceeding in the Court of Chancery shall be dismissed as to any stockholder without the approval of the Court, and such approval may be conditioned upon such terms as the Court deems just.

(l) The shares of the surviving or resulting corporation to which the shares of such objecting stockholders would have been converted had they assented to the merger or consolidation shall have the status of authorized and unissued shares of the surviving or resulting corporation.

PART II. INFORMATION NOT REQUIRED IN PROSPECTUS

ITEM 20. INDEMNIFICATION OF DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS

Section 145 of the Delaware General Corporation Law (the "DGCL") permits a Delaware corporation to indemnify officers, directors, employees and agents for actions taken in good faith and in a manner they reasonably believed to be in, or not opposed to, the best interests of the corporation, and with respect to any criminal action, which they had no reasonable cause to believe was unlawful. The DGCL provides that a corporation may pay expenses (including attorneys' fees) incurred by an officer or director in defending any civil, criminal, administrative or investigative action (upon receipt of a written undertaking to reimburse the corporation if indemnification is not appropriate), and must reimburse a successful defendant for expenses, including attorneys' fees, actually and reasonably incurred, and permits a corporation to purchase and maintain liability insurance for its directors and officers. The DGCL provides that indemnification may be made for any claim, issue or matter as to which a person has been adjudged by a court of competent jurisdiction, after exhaustion of all appeals therefrom, to be liable to the corporation, unless and only to the extent a court determines that the person is entitled to indemnity for such expenses as the court deems proper.

The Sunbeam by-laws provide that every person will be indemnified against any and all judgments, fines, amounts paid in settling or otherwise disposing of threatened, pending or completed actions, suits or proceedings, whether by fact that he is or was a director or officer of Sunbeam or is or was serving at the request of Sunbeam as a director or officer of another corporation. Expenses so incurred by any such person defending or investigating a threatened or pending civil or criminal action or proceeding shall at his request be paid by Sunbeam, in advance of the final disposition of such action or proceeding upon receipt of an undertaking by or on behalf of such director or officer to repay such amount if it shall ultimately be determined that such person is not entitled to be indemnified by Sunbeam.

The DGCL permits a Delaware corporation to include a provision in its certificate of incorporation eliminating or limiting the personal liability of a director to the corporation or its stockholders for monetary damages for a breach of the director's fiduciary duty as a director, except for liability (1) for any breach of the Director's duty of loyalty to the corporation or its stockholders, (2) for acts or omissions not in good faith or which involve intentional misconduct or a knowing violation of law, (3) under Section 174 of the DGCL, which concerns unlawful payments of dividends, stock purchases or redemptions or (iv) for any transaction from which the director derived an improper personal benefit. The Sunbeam certificate of incorporation contains provisions limiting the liability of Sunbeam's directors to the fullest extent currently permitted by the DGCL for monetary damages for breach of their fiduciary duty as directors. While these provisions provide directors with protection from awards for monetary damages for breaches of their duty of care, they do not eliminate such duty. Accordingly, these provisions will have no effect on the availability of equitable remedies such as an injunction or rescission based on a director's breach of his or her duty of care.

 - (i) To include any prospectus required by Section 10(a)(3) of the Securities Act of 1933.
 - (ii) To reflect in the prospectus any facts or events arising after the effective date of the Registration Statement (or the most recent post-effective amendment thereof) which, individually or in the aggregate, represent a fundamental change in the information set forth in the Registration Statement.
 - (iii) To include any material information with respect to the plan of distribution not previously disclosed in the Registration Statement or any material change to such information in the Registration Statement.

- (2) That, for the purpose of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each such post-effective amendment shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.
 - (3) To remove from registration by means of a post-effective amendment any of the securities being registered which remain unsold at the termination of the offering.
- (b) The undersigned Registrant hereby undertakes that, for purposes of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each filing of the Registrant's annual report pursuant to Section 13(a) or Section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (and, where applicable, each filing of an employee benefit plan's annual report pursuant to Section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934) that is incorporated by reference in the registration statement shall be deemed to be a new Registration Statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at the time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.
- (c)
 - (1) The undersigned Registrant hereby undertakes as follows: that prior to any public reoffering of the securities registered hereunder through use of a prospectus which is a part of this Registration Statement, by any person or party who is deemed to be an underwriter within the meaning of Rule 145(c), the issuer undertakes that such reoffering prospectus will contain the information called for by the applicable registration form with respect to reofferings by persons who may be deemed underwriters, in addition to the information called for by the other items of the applicable form.
 - (2) The Registrant undertakes that every prospectus: (i) that is filed pursuant to the paragraph immediately preceding, or (ii) that purports to meet the requirements of section 10(a)(3) of the Securities Act and is used in connection with an offering of securities subject to Rule 415, will be filed as a part of an

- (d) Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act of 1933 may be permitted to directors, officers and controlling persons of the Registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions, or otherwise, the Registrant has been advised that, in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission, such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act of 1933 and is, therefore, unenforceable. In the event that a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the Registrant of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer or controlling person of the Registrant in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the Registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Securities Act of 1933 and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.

Section 2. The Warrant Certificates. (a) Upon issuance, each Warrant

Certificate shall evidence one or more Warrants. The Warrant Certificates shall be in registered form only and substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A. The Warrant Certificates shall be dated the date on which they are countersigned by the Warrant Agent and may have such legends and endorsements typed, stamped, printed, lithographed or engraved thereon as the Company may deem appropriate and as are not inconsistent with the provisions of this Agreement, or as may be required to comply with applicable laws, rules or regulations including any rule or regulation of any securities exchange on which the Warrants may be listed.

(b) Warrant Certificates substantially in the form of Exhibit A hereto and evidencing Warrants to purchase an aggregate of up to 4,979,663 (Four Million Nine Hundred Seventy Nine Thousand Six Hundred and Sixty Three) shares of Common Stock (subject to adjustment pursuant to Sections 8 and 9) shall be executed, on or after the date of this Agreement, by the Company and delivered to the Warrant Agent for countersignature, and the Warrant Agent shall thereupon countersign and deliver such Warrant Certificates upon the order and at the direction of the Company. The names and addresses of the Warrant Recipients shall be specified by the Company pursuant to a list of Warrant Recipients provided to the Warrant Agent by the Company, which shall consist of the names of those Persons who were stockholders of record of Coleman as of the Effective Time, subject only to the elimination of the names of (i) any such Persons as are entitled to receive only a payment in lieu of a fractional Warrant in accordance with the terms of this Agreement and (ii) any such Persons who have perfected their right to have the fair value of their shares of Coleman Common Stock judicially appraised and paid to them in cash. The Warrant Agent is hereby authorized to countersign and deliver Warrant Certificates as required by this Section 2(b) or by Section 3(b), 4(f) or 6 hereof. The Warrant Certificates shall be executed on behalf of the Company by any of its duly authorized officers, either manually or by facsimile signature printed thereon, and shall be dated the date of issuance. The Warrant Agent shall countersign the Warrant Certificates either manually or by facsimile signature printed thereon, and the Warrant Certificates shall not be valid for any purpose until so countersigned. In case any duly authorized officer of the Company whose signature shall have been placed upon any of the Warrant Certificates shall cease to be such officer of the Company before countersignature by the Warrant Agent and issue and delivery thereof, such Warrant Certificates may, nevertheless, be countersigned by the Warrant Agent and issued and delivered with the same force and effect as though such person had not ceased to be such officer of the Company.

Section 3. Registration, Exchange and Transfer of Warrants. (a) The Warrant Agent shall keep at the principal corporate trust office of the Warrant Agent, specified in or pursuant to Section 4(d), a register (the "Register") in which, subject to such regulations as the Company may reasonably prescribe, the Warrant Agent shall provide for the registration of Warrant Certificates and of transfers or exchanges of Warrant Certificates as herein provided.

(b) At the option of the Holder, Warrant Certificates may be exchanged at such office and upon payment of the charges hereinafter provided. Whenever any Warrant Certificates are so surrendered for exchange, the Company shall execute, and the Warrant Agent shall countersign and deliver, the Warrant Certificates that the Holder making the exchange is entitled to receive; provided, however, that the Company shall not be required to issue and deliver Warrant Certificates representing fractional warrants.

(c) Each Warrant Certificate issued upon any registration of transfer or exchange of Warrant Certificates shall be the valid obligation of the Company, evidencing the same obligations, and entitled to the same benefits under this Agreement as the Warrant Certificates surrendered for such registration of transfer or exchange.

(d) Each Warrant Certificate surrendered for registration of transfer or exchange shall (if so required by the Company or the Warrant Agent) be duly endorsed, or be accompanied by a written instrument of transfer in form satisfactory to the Company and the Warrant Agent, duly executed by the Holder thereof or his attorney duly authorized in writing.

(e) No service charge shall be made for any registration of transfer or exchange of Warrant Certificates. The Company may require payment of a sum sufficient to cover any tax or other governmental charge that may be imposed in connection with any registration of transfer or exchange of Warrant Certificates.

(f) Each Warrant Certificate when duly endorsed in blank shall be negotiable and when a Warrant Certificate shall have been so endorsed, the Holder thereof may be treated by the Company, the Warrant Agent and all other persons dealing therewith as the sole and absolute owner thereof for any purpose and as the person solely entitled to exercise the rights represented thereby or to request the Warrant Agent to record the transfer thereof on the Register any notice to the contrary notwithstanding; but until such transfer on such Register, the Company and the Warrant Agent may treat the Holder thereof as the owner for all purposes.

Section 4. Exercise Price, Payment of The Exercise Price, Duration And Exercise of Warrants Generally. (a) Each Warrant Certificate shall, when counter

signed by the Warrant Agent, entitle the Holder thereof, upon payment of the Exercise Price and subject to the provisions of this Agreement, to receive one share of Common Stock for each whole Warrant represented thereby, subject to adjustment as herein provided, upon payment of the Exercise Price for each of such shares.

(b) Subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein, the Warrants shall be exercisable at any time, or from time to time, until the Expiration Date or, if such day is not a Business Day, then on the next succeeding day that shall be a Business Day.

(c) The Warrants shall terminate and become void as of 5:00 P.M. (New York City time) on the Expiration Date or, if such day is not a Business Day, then as of 5:00 P.M. on the next succeeding day that shall be a Business Day, and all rights of any Holder of a Warrant Certificate evidencing such Warrants under this Agreement or otherwise shall cease.

(d) Subject to Sections 5 and 10 hereof, in order to exercise a Warrant, the Holder thereof must surrender the Warrant Certificate evidencing such Warrant, with one of the forms on the reverse of or attached to the Warrant Certificates duly executed (with signature guaranteed), to the Warrant Agent at its office at 101 Barclay Street, New York, New York 10286, or at such other address as the Warrant Agent may specify in writing to the Holders at their respective addresses specified in the Register, together with payment-in-full of the Exercise Price thereof. Upon such delivery and payment, the Holder shall be deemed to be the holder of record of the number of shares of Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the Warrant (or, in the case of a partial exercise of this Warrant, the number of such shares as to which the Warrant has been exercised), notwithstanding that the stock transfer books of the Company shall then be closed or that certificates representing such shares shall not then be actually delivered to the Holder.

(e) At the option of the Holder, the Exercise Price may be paid in cash (including by wire transfer of immediately available funds) or by certified or official bank check or bank cashier's check payable to the order of the Company or by any combination of such cash or check. At the option of the Holder, the Exercise Price may in the alternative be paid in whole or in part by reducing the number of shares of Common Stock issuable to the Holder by a number of shares of Common Stock that have a Fair Market Value equal to the Exercise Price which otherwise would have been paid (so that the net number of shares of Common Stock issued in respect of such exercise shall equal the number of shares of Common Stock that would have been issuable had the Exercise Price been paid entirely in cash, less a number of shares of Common Stock with a Fair Market Value equal to the portion of the Exercise Price paid in kind); provided, however, that this option shall be available only with respect to the exercise of not more than one-half of the total number of Warrants represented by such Holder's Warrant Certificate.

(f) The Warrants evidenced by a Warrant Certificate shall be exercisable either as an entirety or, from time to time, for part only of the number of whole Warrants evidenced thereby. If fewer than all of the Warrants evidenced by a Warrant Certificate are exercised at any time, the Warrant Certificate representing such Warrants shall be surrendered and a new Warrant Certificate of the same tenor and for the number of Warrants that were not exercised shall be issued by the Company. The Warrant Agent shall countersign the new Warrant Certificate, register it in such name or names as may be directed in writing by the Holder and deliver the new Warrant Certificate to the person or persons entitled to receive the same.

(g) As soon as practicable on or after the Exercise Date, the Warrant Agent shall notify the Company, and the Warrant Agent shall, within five Business Days of the Exercise Date, deliver or cause to be delivered to or upon any written order of any Holder appropriate evidence of ownership of any shares of Common Stock issuable upon exercise of the Warrants or other securities or property (including any cash, subject to any required withholding) to which the Holder is entitled hereunder, subject to Section 5. All funds received upon the exercise of Warrants shall be deposited by the Warrant Agent for the account of the Company, unless otherwise instructed in writing by the Company.

Section 5. Payment of Taxes. The Company shall pay any and all documen tary, or similar issue or transfer taxes payable in respect of the issuance or delivery of the Warrant Shares. The Company shall not, however, be required to pay any transfer tax which may be payable in respect of any transfer involved in the issue or delivery of Warrants or Warrant Shares (or other securities or assets) in a name other than that in which the Warrants so exercised were registered, and no such issue or delivery shall be made unless and until the Person requesting such issue has paid to the Company the amount of such transfer tax or has established, to the satisfaction of the Company, that such transfer tax has been paid.

Section 6. Mutilated or Missing Warrant Certificates. If (a) any mutilated Warrant Certificate is surrendered to the Warrant Agent or (b) the Company and the Warrant Agent receive evidence to their satisfaction of the destruction, loss or theft of any Warrant Certificate, and there is delivered to the Company and the Warrant Agent (in the case of destruction, loss or theft) such security or indemnity as may be required by them to save each of them harmless, then, in the absence of notice to the Company or the Warrant Agent that such Warrant Certificate has been acquired by a bona fide purchaser, the Company shall execute and the Warrant Agent shall countersign and deliver, in exchange for any such mutilated Warrant Certificate or in lieu of any such destroyed, lost or stolen Warrant Certificate, a new Warrant Certificate of like tenor and for a like aggregate number of Warrants. Upon the issuance of any new Warrant Certificate under this Section 6, the Company may require the payment of a sum sufficient to cover any tax or other governmental charge that may be imposed in relation thereto and other expenses in connection therewith. Every new Warrant Certificate executed and delivered pursuant to this Section 6 in lieu of any destroyed, lost or stolen Warrant Certificate shall constitute an original contractual obligation of the Company, whether or not the destroyed, lost or stolen Warrant Certificate shall be at any time enforceable by anyone, and shall be entitled to the benefits of this Agreement equally and proportionately with any and all other Warrant Certificates duly executed and delivered hereunder. The provisions of this Section 6 are exclusive and shall preclude (to the extent lawful) all other rights or remedies with respect to the replacement of mutilated, destroyed, lost or stolen Warrant Certificates.

Section 7. Reservation of Shares; Listing. The Company shall at all times reserve and keep available, free from preemptive rights, and out of its authorized but unissued Common Stock, solely for the purpose of issuance upon exercise of Warrants as herein provided, such number of shares of Common Stock as shall then be issuable upon exercise of all outstanding Warrants. The Company covenants that all shares of Common Stock which shall be issuable upon exercise of the Warrants shall, upon issue in accordance with the terms of this Agreement, be duly and validly issued and fully paid and non-assessable and free from all taxes, liens, and charges with respect to the issue thereof and that upon issuance, such shares shall be listed on each national securities exchange on which any other shares of outstanding Common Stock are then listed.

Section 8. Anti-dilution Provisions. So long as any Warrants are outstanding, the Exercise Price and the number of shares of Common Stock issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall be subject to adjustment from time to time as follows:

(a) Common Stock Dividends, Subdivisions, Combinations. In case the Company shall (i) pay or make a dividend or other distribution to all holders of its

Common Stock in shares of Common Stock, (ii) subdivide or split the outstanding shares of its Common Stock into a larger number of shares, or (iii) combine the outstanding shares of its Common Stock into a smaller number of shares (which shall not in any event be done without the express written approval of Holders of a majority of the outstanding Warrants), then in each such case the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall be adjusted to equal the number of such shares to which the Holder of the Warrant would have been entitled upon the occurrence of such event had the Warrant been exercised immediately prior to the happening of such event or, in the case of a stock dividend or other distribution, prior to the record date for determination of stockholders entitled thereto. An adjustment made pursuant to this Section 8(a) shall become effective immediately after the effective date of such event retroactive to the record date, if any, for such event.

(b) Reorganization or Reclassification. In case of any capital reorganization or any reclassification of the capital stock of the Company (whether pursuant to a merger or consolidation or otherwise), or in the event of any similar transaction, each whole Warrant shall thereafter be exercisable for the number of shares of stock or other securities or property receivable upon such capital reorganization or reclassification of capital stock or other transaction, as the case may be, by a holder of the number of shares of Common Stock into which such Warrant was exercisable immediately prior to such capital reorganization or reclassification of capital stock; and, in any case, appropriate adjustment (as determined in good faith by the Board of Directors of the Company) shall be made for the application of the provisions herein set forth with respect to the rights and interests thereafter of the Holders of the Warrants to the end that the provisions set forth herein shall thereafter be applicable, as nearly as reasonably practicable, in relation to any shares of stock or other securities or property thereafter deliverable upon the exercise of the Warrants. An adjustment made pursuant to this Section 8(b) shall become effective immediately after the effective date of such event retroactive to the record date, if any, for such event.

(c) Distributions of Assets or Securities Other than Common Stock. In case the Company shall, by dividend or otherwise, distribute to all holders of its Common Stock shares of any class of its capital stock (other than Common Stock), or other debt or equity securities or evidences of indebtedness of the Company, or options, rights or warrants to purchase any of such securities, cash or other assets, then in each such case the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall be adjusted by multiplying the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant immediately prior to the date of such dividend or distribution by a fraction, of which the numerator shall be the Fair Market Value per share of Common Stock at the record date for determining share holders entitled to such dividend or distribution, and of which the denominator shall be such Fair Market Value per share less the Fair Market Value of the portion of the securities, cash, other assets or evidences of indebtedness so distributed applicable to one share of Common Stock. An adjustment made pursuant to this Section 8(c) shall become effective immediately after the effective date of such event retroactive to the record date, if any, for such event.

(d) Below Market Issuances of Common Stock and Convertible Securities. In case the Company shall issue Common Stock (or options, rights or warrants to purchase shares of Common Stock (collectively, "Options") or other securities convertible into or exchangeable or exercisable for shares of Common Stock (such other securities, collectively, "Convertible Securities")) at a price per share (or having an effective exercise, exchange or conversion price per share together with the purchase price thereof) less than the Fair Market

Value per share of Common Stock on the date such Common Stock (or Options or Convertible Securities), is sold or issued (provided that no sale of securities pursuant to an underwritten public offering shall be deemed to be for less than Fair Market Value), then in each such case the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall thereafter be adjusted by multiplying the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant immediately prior to the date of issuance of such Common Stock (or Options or Convertible Securities) by a fraction, the numerator of which shall be (x) the sum of (i) the number of Common Share Equivalents represented by all securities outstanding immediately prior to such issuance and (ii) the number of additional Common Share Equivalents represented by all securities so issued multiplied by (y) the Fair Market Value of a share of Common Stock immediately prior to the date of such issuance, and the denominator of which shall be (x) the product of (A) the Fair Market Value of a share of Common Stock immediately prior to the date of such issuance and (B) the number of Common Share Equivalents represented by all securities outstanding immediately prior to such issuance plus (y) the aggregate consideration received by the Company for the total number of securities so issued plus, (z) in the case of Options or Convertible Securities, the additional consideration required to be received by the Company upon the exercise, exchange or conversion of such securities; provided, however, that no adjustment shall be required in respect of issuances of Common Stock (or options to purchase Common Stock) pursuant to stock option or other employee benefit plans in effect on the date hereof, or approved by the Board of Directors of the Company after the date hereof. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, (1) no further adjustment to the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole

Warrant shall be made upon the issuance or sale of Common Stock pursuant to (x) the exercise of any Options or (y) the conversion or exchange of any Convertible Securities, if in each case the adjustment in the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant was made as required hereby upon the issuance or sale of such Options or Convertible Securities or no adjustment was required hereby at the time such Option or Convertible Security was issued, and (2) no adjustment to the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall be made upon the issuance or sale of Common Stock upon the exercise of any Options existing on the original issue date hereof, without regard to the exercise price thereof. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no adjustment to the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall be made pursuant to this paragraph upon the issuance or sale of Common Stock, Options, or Convertible Securities in a bona fide arm's-length transaction to any Person or group that, at the time of such issuance or sale, is not an Affiliate of the Company. An adjustment made pursuant to this Section 8(d) shall become effective immediately after such Common Stock, Options or Convertible Securities are sold.

(e) Below Market Distributions or Issuances of Preferred Stock or Other Securities. In case the Company shall issue non-convertible and non-exchangeable preferred stock (or other debt or equity securities or evidences of indebtedness of the Company (other than Common Stock or Options or Convertible Securities) or options, rights or warrants to purchase any of such securities) at a price per share (or other similar unit) less than the Fair Market Value per share (or other similar unit) of such preferred stock (or other security) on the date such preferred stock (or other security) is sold (provided that no sale of preferred stock or other security pursuant to an underwritten public offering shall be deemed to be for less than its fair market value), then in each such case the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall thereafter be adjusted by multiplying the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant immediately prior to the date of issuance of such preferred stock (or other security) by a fraction, the numerator of which shall be the product of (i) the number of Common Share Equivalents represented by all securities outstanding immediately prior to such issuance and (ii) the Fair Market Value of a share of Common Stock immediately prior to the date of such issuance, and the denominator of which shall be (x) the product of (A) the number of Common Share Equivalents represented by all securities outstanding immediately prior to such issuance and (B) the Fair Market Value of a share of the Common Stock immediately prior to the date of such issuance minus (y) the difference between (1) the aggregate Fair Market Value of such preferred stock (or other security) and (2) the aggregate consideration received by the Company for such preferred stock (or other security). Notwithstanding the foregoing, no adjustment to the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall be made pursuant to this paragraph upon the issuance or sale of preferred stock (or other securities of the Company other than Common Stock or Options or Convertible Securities) in a bona fide arm's-length transaction to any Person or group that, at the time of such issuance or sale, is not an Affiliate of the Company. An adjustment made pursuant to this Section 8(e) shall become effective immediately after such preferred stock (or other security) is sold.

12

(f) Above Market Repurchases of Common Stock. If at any time or from time to time the Company or any Subsidiary thereof shall repurchase, by self-tender offer or otherwise, any shares of Common Stock of the Company (or any Options or Convertible Securities) at a purchase price in excess of the Fair Market Value thereof, on the Business Day immediately prior to the earliest of (i) the date of such repurchase, (ii) the commencement of an offer to repurchase, or (iii) the public announcement of either (such date being referred to as the "Determination Date"), the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall be adjusted by multiplying the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant immediately prior to such Determination Date by a fraction, the numerator of which shall be the product of (1) the number of Common Share Equivalents represented by all securities outstanding immediately prior to such Determination Date minus the number of Common Share Equivalents represented by the securities repurchased or to be purchased by the Company or any Subsidiary thereof in such repurchase and (2) the Fair Market Value of a share of Common Stock immediately prior to such Determination Date, and the denominator of which shall be (x) the product of (A) the number of Common Share Equivalents represented by all securities outstanding immediately prior to the Determination Date and (B) the Fair Market Value of a share of Common Stock immediately prior to such Determination Date minus (y) the sum of (1) the aggregate consideration paid by the Company in connection with such repurchase and (2) in the case of Options or Convertible Securities, the additional consideration required to be received by the Company upon the exercise, exchange or conversion of such securities. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no adjustment to the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall be made pursuant to this paragraph upon the repurchase, by self-tender offer or otherwise, of Common Stock (or any Options or Convertible Security) in a bona fide arm's-length transaction from any Person or group that, at the time of such repurchase, is not an Affiliate of the Company.

(g) Above Market Repurchases of Preferred Stock or Other Securities. If at any time or from time to time the Company or any Subsidiary thereof shall repurchase, by self-tender offer or otherwise, any shares of non-convertible and non-exchangeable preferred stock (or other debt or equity securities or evidences of indebtedness of the Company (other than Common Stock or Options or Convertible Securities) or options, rights or warrants to purchase any of such securities), at a purchase price in excess of the Fair Market Value thereof, on the Business Day immediately prior to the Determination Date, the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall be adjusted by multiplying the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant immediately prior to the Determination Date by a fraction, the numerator of which shall be the product of (i) the number of Common Share Equivalents represented by all securities outstanding immediately prior to such Determination Date and (ii) the Fair Market Value of a share of Common Stock immediately prior to such Determination Date, and the denominator of which shall be (x) the product of (A) the number of Common Share Equivalents represented by all securities outstanding immediately prior to such Determination Date and (B) the Fair Market Value of a share of Common Stock immediately prior to such Determination Date minus (y) the difference between (1) the aggregate consideration paid by the Company in connection with such repurchase and (2) the aggregate Fair Market Value of such preferred stock (or other security). Notwithstanding the foregoing, no adjustment to the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall be made pursuant to this paragraph upon the repurchase, by self-tender offer or otherwise, of non-convertible and non-exchangeable preferred stock (or other securities of the Company other than Common Stock or Options or Convertible Securities) in a bona fide arm's-length transaction from any Person or group that, at the time of such repurchase, is not an Affiliate of the Company.

(h) Readjustment of the Number of Warrant Shares Issuable Upon Exercise of Each Whole Warrant. If (i) the purchase price provided for in any Option or the additional consideration, if any, payable upon the conversion or exchange of any Convertible Securities or the rate at which any Convertible Securities, in each case as referred to in paragraphs (b) and (f) above, are convertible into or exchangeable for Common Stock shall change at any time (other than under or by reason of provisions designed to protect against dilution upon an event which results in a related adjustment pursuant to this Section 8), or (ii) any of such Options or Convertible Securities shall have irrevocably terminated, lapsed or expired, the number of Warrant Shares then issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant shall forthwith be readjusted (effective only with respect to any exercise of Warrants after such readjustment) to the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant which would then be in effect had the adjustment made upon the issuance, sale, distribution or grant of such Options or Convertible Securities been made based upon such changed purchase price, additional consideration or conversion rate, as the case may be (in the case of any event referred to in clause (i) of this paragraph (h)) or had such adjustment not been made (in the case of any event referred to in clause (ii) of this paragraph (h)).

(i) Exercise Price Adjustment. Upon each adjustment of the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant pursuant to this Section 8, the Exercise Price of each Warrant outstanding immediately prior to such adjustment shall thereafter be equal to an adjusted Exercise Price per Warrant Share determined (to the nearest cent) by multiplying the Exercise Price for each whole Warrant immediately prior to such adjustment by a fraction, the numerator of which shall be the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant immediately prior to such adjustment and the denominator of which shall be the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant immediately after such adjustment.

(j) Consideration. If any shares of Common Stock, Options or Convertible Securities shall be issued, sold or distributed for cash, the consideration received in respect thereof shall be deemed to be the amount received by the Company therefor, before deduction therefrom of any reasonable, customary and adequately documented expenses incurred in connection therewith. If any shares of Common Stock, Options or Convertible Securities shall be issued, sold or distributed for a consideration other than cash, the amount of the consideration other than cash received by the Company shall be deemed to be the Fair Market Value of such consideration, before deduction of any reasonable, customary and adequately documented expenses incurred in connection therewith. If any shares of Common Stock, Options or Convertible Securities shall be issued in connection with any merger in which the Company is the surviving corporation, the amount of consideration therefor shall be deemed to be the Fair Market Value of such portion of the assets and business of the non-surviving corporation as shall be attributable to such Common Stock, Options or Convertible Securities, as the case may be. If any Options shall be issued in connection with the issuance and sale of other securities of the Company, together comprising one integral transaction in which no specific consideration is allocated to such Options by the parties thereto, such Options shall be deemed to have been issued without consideration.

(k) No Impairment. The Company will not, by amendment of its Certificate of Incorporation or through any reorganization, transfer of assets, consolidation, merger, dissolution, issue or sale of securities or any other voluntary action, avoid or seek to avoid the observance or performance of any of the terms to be observed or performed hereunder by the Company, but will at all times in good faith assist in the carrying out of all the provisions of this Section 8 and in the taking of all such action as may be necessary or appropriate in order to protect the conversion rights of the Holders of the Warrants against impairment. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Company will not increase the par value of any shares of Common Stock issuable on the exercise of the Warrants above the amount payable therefor on such exercise.

(l) Certificate as to Adjustments. Upon the occurrence of each adjustment or readjustment of the number of Warrant Shares issuable upon exercise of each whole Warrant pursuant to this Section 8, the Company, at its expense, shall promptly compute such adjustment or readjustment in accordance with the terms hereof and furnish to the Warrant Agent a certificate setting forth such adjustment or readjustment and showing in detail the facts upon which such adjustment or readjustment is based. The Company shall, upon the written request at any time of any Holder of the Warrants, furnish or cause to be furnished to such Holder a like certificate setting forth (1) such adjustments and readjustments and (2) the number of Warrant Shares and the amount, if any, of other property which at the time would be received upon the exercise of this Warrant.

(m) Proceedings Prior to Any Action Requiring Adjustment. As a condition precedent to the taking of any action which would require an adjustment pursuant to this Section 8, the Company shall take any action which may be necessary, including obtaining regulatory approvals or exemptions, in order that the Company may thereafter validly and legally issue as fully paid and nonassessable all Warrant Shares which the Holders are entitled to receive upon exercise thereof.

(n) Notice of Adjustment. Upon the record date or effective date, as the case may be, of any action which requires or might require an adjustment or readjustment pursuant to this Section 8, the Company shall forthwith file in the custody of its Secretary or an Assistant Secretary at its principal executive office and with its transfer agent and the Warrant Agent, an officers' certificate showing the adjusted number of Warrant Shares determined as herein provided, setting forth in reasonable detail the facts requiring such adjustment and the manner of computing such adjustment. Each such officers' certificate shall be signed by the chairman, president or chief financial officer of the Company and by the secretary or any assistant secretary of the Company. Each such officers' certificate shall be made available at all reasonable times for inspection by the Holder or any Holder of a Warrant executed and delivered pursuant to Section 3(b) and the Company shall, forthwith after each such adjustment, mail a copy, by first-class mail, of such certificate to the Holder or any such Holder.

(o) Payments in Lieu of Adjustment. The Holder shall, at its option, be entitled to receive, in lieu of the adjustment pursuant to Section 8(c) otherwise required thereof, on (but not prior to) the date of exercise of the Warrants, the evidences of indebtedness, other securities, cash, property or other assets which such Holder would have been entitled to receive if it had exercised its Warrants for Warrant Shares immediately prior to the record date with respect to such distribution. Any Holder may exercise its option under this Section 8(o) by delivering to the Company a written notice of such exercise simultaneously with its notice of exercise of this Warrant.

Section 9. Consolidation, Merger or Sale of Assets. In case of any consolidation of the Company with, or merger of the Company into, any other Person, any merger of another Person into the Company (other than a merger which does not result in any reclassification, conversion, exchange or cancellation of outstanding shares of Common Stock) or any sale or transfer of all or substantially all of the assets of the Company to the Person formed by such consolidation or resulting from such merger or which acquires such assets, as the case may be, each Holder of Warrants shall have the right thereafter to exercise its Warrants for the kind and amount of securities, cash and other property receivable upon such consolidation, merger, sale or transfer by a holder of the number of shares of Common Stock for which such Holder's Warrants may have been exercised immediately prior to such consolidation, merger, sale or transfer. Adjustments for events subsequent to the effective date of such a consolidation, merger, sale or transfer of assets shall be as nearly equivalent as may be practicable to the adjustments provided for herein. In any such event, effective provisions shall be made in the certificate or articles of incorporation of the resulting or surviving corporation, in any contract of sale, merger, conveyance, lease, transfer or otherwise so that the provisions set forth herein for the protection of the rights of the Holders of the Warrants shall thereafter continue to be applicable; and any such resulting or surviving corporation shall expressly assume the obligation to deliver, upon exercise, such shares of stock, other securities, cash and property. The provisions of this Section 9 shall similarly apply to successive consolidations, mergers, sales, leases or transfers.

Section 10. Fractional Shares. No fractional shares or scrip representing fractional shares shall be issued upon the exercise of the Warrants and in lieu of delivery of any such fractional share upon any exercise thereof, the Company shall pay to the Holder an amount in cash equal to such fraction multiplied by the Fair

17

Market Value thereof; provided, however, that, in the event that the Company combines or reclassifies the outstanding shares of its Common Stock into a smaller number of shares, it shall be required to issue fractional shares to a Holder if the Holder exercises all or any part of its Warrants, unless the Holder has consented in writing to such reduction and provided the Company with a written waiver of its right to receive fractional shares in accordance with this Section 10. If more than one Warrant shall be presented for exercise in full at the same time by the same Holder, the number of full shares of Common Stock that shall be issuable upon such exercise thereof shall be computed on the basis of the aggregate number of shares of Common Stock acquirable on exercise of the Warrants so presented. The Holders, by their acceptance of the Warrant Certificates, expressly waive any and all rights to receive any fraction of a share of Common Stock or a stock certificate representing a fraction of a share of Common Stock.

Section 11. No Stock Rights. Prior to the exercise of the Warrants, no

Holder of a Warrant Certificate, as such, shall be entitled to vote or be deemed the holder of shares of Common Stock or any other securities of the Company that may at any time be issuable on the exercise thereof, nor shall anything contained herein be construed to confer upon any Holder of a Warrant Certificate, as such, the rights of a stockholder of the Company or the right to vote for the election of directors or upon any matter submitted to stockholders at any meeting thereof, or to give or withhold consent to any corporate action, to exercise any preemptive right, to receive notice of meetings or other actions affecting stockholders (except as provided herein), or to receive dividends or subscription rights or otherwise.

Section 12. The Warrant Agent. (a) The Company hereby appoints the Warrant Agent to act as agent of the Company as set forth in this Agreement. The Warrant Agent hereby accepts the appointment as agent of the Company and agrees to perform that agency upon the terms and conditions herein set forth, by all of which the Company and the Holders of Warrants, by their acceptance thereof, shall be bound. No implied duties or obligations shall be read into this

022505

Agreement against the Warrant Agent. The Warrant Agent shall not by countersigning Warrant Certificates or by any other act hereunder be deemed to make any representation as to validity or authorization of the Warrants or the Warrant Certificates (except as to its countersig nature thereon) or of any securities or other property delivered upon exercise of any Warrant, or as to the number or kind or amount of stock or other securities or other property deliverable upon exercise of any Warrant. The Warrant Agent shall not have any duty to calculate or determine any adjustments with respect either to the kind and amount of shares or other securities or any property receivable by Holders upon the exercise or tender of Warrants required from time to time, and the Warrant Agent shall have no duty or responsibility in determining the accuracy or correctness of any such calculation, other than to apply any adjustment, notice of which is given by the Company to the Warrant Agent to be mailed to the Holders in accordance with Section 8(i). The Warrant Agent shall not (i) be liable for any recital or statement of fact contained herein or in the Warrant Certificates or for any action taken, suffered or omitted by it in good faith on the belief that any Warrant Certificate or any other documents or any signatures are genuine or properly authorized, (ii) be responsible for any failure on the part of the Company to comply with any of its covenants and obligations contained in this Agreement or in the Warrant Certificates, or (iii) be liable for any act or omission in connection with this Agreement except for its own negligence or willful misconduct. The Warrant Agent is hereby authorized to accept instructions with respect to the performance of its duties hereunder from any officer of the Company and to apply to any such officer for instructions (which instructions will be promptly given in writing when requested) and the Warrant Agent shall not be liable for any action taken or suffered to be taken by it in good faith in accordance with the instructions of any such officer, except for its own negligence or willful misconduct, but in its discretion the Warrant Agent may in lieu thereof accept other evidence of such or may require such further or additional evidence as it may deem reasonable.

18

(b) The Warrant Agent shall not be under any obligation or duty to institute, appear in or defend any action, suit or legal proceeding in respect hereof, unless first indemnified to its satisfaction, but this provision shall not affect the power of the Warrant Agent to take such action as the Warrant Agent may consider proper, whether with or without such indemnity. The Warrant Agent shall promptly notify the Company in writing of any claim made or action, suit or proceeding instituted against it arising out of or in connection with this Agreement.

(c) The Company will perform, execute, acknowledge and deliver or cause to be performed, executed, acknowledged and delivered all such further acts, instruments and assurances as may reasonably be required by the Warrant Agent in order to enable it to carry out or perform its duties under this Agreement.

(d) The Company agrees to pay to the Warrant Agent compensation for all services rendered by it hereunder as the Company and the Warrant Agent may agree from time to time, and to reimburse the Warrant Agent for reasonable expenses and disbursements incurred in connection with the execution and administration of this Agreement (including the reasonable compensation and the expenses of its counsel), and further agrees to indemnify the Warrant Agent for, and to hold it harmless against any loss, liability or expense incurred without gross negligence or bad faith on its part, arising out of or in connection with the acceptance and administration of this Agreement, including the reasonable costs and expenses of defending itself against any claim or liability in connection with the exercise or performance of any of its powers or duties hereunder.

(e) The Warrant Agent and any stockholder, director, officer or employee of the Warrant Agent may buy, sell and deal in any of the Warrants or other securities of the Company or its Affiliates or become pecuniarily interested in transactions in which the Company or its Affiliates may be interested, or contract with or lend money to the Company or its Affiliates or otherwise act as fully and freely as though it were not the Warrant Agent under this Agreement. Nothing herein shall preclude the Warrant Agent from acting in any other capacity for the Company or for any other legal entity.

(f) Anything in this Agreement to the contrary notwithstanding, in no event shall the Warrant Agent be liable for special, indirect or consequential loss or damage of any kind whatsoever (including but not limited to loss of profits), even if the Warrant Agent has been advised of the form of action.

Section 13. Resignation And Removal of Warrant Agent; Appointment of Successor. (a) No resignation or removal of the Warrant Agent and no appointment of a successor warrant agent shall become effective until the acceptance of appointment by the successor warrant agent provided herein. The Warrant Agent may resign its duties and be discharged from all further duties and liability hereunder (except liability arising as a result of the Warrant Agent's own negligence, bad faith or willful misconduct) after giving written notice to the Company. The Company may remove the Warrant Agent upon written notice, and the Warrant Agent thereupon in like manner be discharged from all further duties and liabilities hereunder, except as aforesaid. Upon such resignation or removal, the Company shall appoint in writing a new warrant agent. If the Company shall fail to make such appointment within a period of 60 days after it has been notified in writing of such resignation by the resigning Warrant Agent or after such removal, then a Holder may apply to any court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a new warrant agent. Any new warrant agent, whether appointed by the Company or by such a court, shall be a corporation doing business under the laws of the United States or any State thereof, in good standing and having a combined capital and surplus of not less than $50,000,000. The combined capital and surplus of any such new warrant agent shall be deemed to be the combined capital and surplus as set forth in the most recent annual report of its condition published by such warrant agent prior to its appointment, provided that such reports are published at least annually pursuant to law or to the requirements of a Federal or state supervising or examining authority. After acceptance in writing of such appointment by the new warrant agent, it shall be vested with the same powers, rights, duties and responsibilities as if it had been originally named herein as the Warrant Agent, without any further assurance, conveyance, act or deed; but if for any reason it shall be necessary or expedient to execute and deliver any further assurance, conveyance, act or deed, the same shall be done at the expense of the Company and shall be legally and validly executed and delivered by the resigning or removed Warrant Agent. Not later than the effective date of any such appointment, the Company shall give notice thereof to the resigning or removed Warrant Agent. Failure to give any notice provided for in this Section, however, or any defect therein, shall not affect the legality or validity of the resignation of the Warrant Agent or the appointment of a new warrant agent, as the case may be.

20

(b) Any corporation into which the Warrant Agent or any new warrant agent may be merged or any corporation resulting from any consolidation to which the Warrant Agent or any new warrant agent shall be a party, or any corporation succeeding to all or substantially all of the corporate trust business of the Warrant Agent, shall be a successor Warrant Agent under this Agreement without any further act, provided that such corporation (i) would be eligible for appointment as successor to the Warrant Agent under the provisions of Section 12(a) or (ii) is a wholly owned subsidiary of the Warrant Agent. Any such successor Warrant Agent shall promptly cause notice of its succession as Warrant Agent to be mailed first-class mail, postage prepaid) to each Holder at such Holder's last address as shown on the Register.

Section 14. Money And Other Property Deposited With The Warrant Agent.

Any moneys, securities or other property that at any time shall be deposited on behalf of the Company with the Warrant Agent pursuant to this Agreement shall be and are hereby assigned, transferred and set over to the Warrant Agent in trust for the purpose for which such moneys, securities or other property shall have been deposited; provided, however, such moneys, securities or other property need not be segregated from other funds, securities or other property except to the extent required by law.

Section 15. NOTICES. (a) Except as otherwise provided in Section 15(b), any notice, demand or delivery authorized by this agreement shall be sufficiently given or made when mailed if sent by first-class mail, postage prepaid, addressed to any Holder at such Holder's address shown on the Register and to the Company or the Warrant Agent as follows:

(b) Any notice required to be given by the Company to the Holders shall be made by mailing by registered mail, return receipt requested, to the Holders at their respective addresses shown on the Register. The Company hereby irrevocably authorizes the Warrant Agent, in the name and at the expense of the Company, to mail any such notice upon receipt thereof from the Company. Any notice that is mailed in the manner herein provided shall be conclusively presumed to have been duly given when mailed, whether or not the Holder receives the notice.

SECTION 16. Amendments; Waivers. (a) The Company may from time to time supplement or amend this Agreement without the consent of any Holder, in order to (i) cure any ambiguity or correct or supplement any provision herein that may be defective or inconsistent with any other provision herein or (ii) add to the covenants and agreements of the Company for the benefit of the Holders, or surrender any rights or powers reserved to or conferred upon the Company in this Agreement. Upon the delivery of a certificate from an appropriate officer of the Company which states that the proposed supplement or amendment is in compliance with the terms of this Section 16, the Warrant Agent shall join with the Company in the execution and delivery of any such supplemental agreements unless it affects the Warrant Agent's own rights, duties or immunities hereunder in which case such party may, but shall not be required to, join in such execution and delivery.

(b) With the consent of the registered Holders of at least a majority in number of the Warrants at the time outstanding, the Company and the Warrant Agent may at any time and from time to time by supplemental agreement or amendment add any provisions to or change in any manner or eliminate any of the provisions of this Agreement or of any supplemental agreement or modify in any manner the rights and obligations of the Warrant holders and of the Company; provided, however, that no such supplemental agreement or amendment shall, without the consent of the registered Holder of each outstanding Warrant affected thereby:

(i) alter the provisions of this Agreement so as to affect adversely the terms upon which the Warrants are exercisable; or

(ii) reduce the number of Warrants outstanding the consent of whose Holders is required for any such supplemental agreement or amendment.

Upon the delivery of a certificate from an appropriate officer of the Company which states that the proposed supplement or amendment is in compliance with the terms of this section, the Warrant Agent shall join with the Company in the execution and delivery of any such supplemental agreements unless it affects the Warrant Agent's own rights, duties or immunities hereunder in which case such party may, but shall not be required to, join in such execution and delivery.

(c) No failure or delay by either party in exercising any right, power or privilege hereunder shall operate as a waiver thereof nor shall any single or partial exercise thereof preclude any other or further exercise thereof or the exercise of any other right, power or privilege. The rights and remedies herein provided shall be cumulative and not exclusive of any rights or remedies provided by law.

Section 17. Persons Benefitting. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the Company and the Warrant Agent, and their respective successors, assigns, beneficiaries, executors and administrators, and each registered Holder of the Warrants. Nothing in this Agreement is intended or shall be construed to confer upon any person, other than the Company, the Warrant Agent and the Holders of the Warrants, any right, remedy or claim under or by reason of this Agreement or any part hereof.

23

Section 18. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original, but all of which together constitute one and the same instrument.

Section 19. Surrender of Certificates. Any Warrant Certificate surrendered for exercise or purchase or otherwise acquired by the Company shall, if surrendered to the Company, be delivered to the Warrant Agent, and all Warrant Certificates surrendered or so delivered to the Warrant Agent shall be promptly cancelled by such Warrant Agent and shall not be reissued by the Company. The Warrant Agent shall deliver such cancelled Warrant Certificates to the Company.

Section 20. Termination of Agreement. This Agreement shall terminate and be of no further force and effect on the earliest of (a) the Expiration Date or (b) the date on which all of the Warrants have been exercised, except that the provisions of Sections 11 and 13 shall continue in full force and effect after such termination date.

Section 21. Governing Law. This Agreement and the Warrants issued hereunder and all rights arising hereunder and thereunder shall be construed and determined in accordance with the internal laws of the state of Delaware, and the performance hereof and thereof shall be governed and enforced in accordance with such laws.

Section 22. Interpretation. When a reference is made in this Agreement to a Section, such reference shall be to a Section of this Agreement unless otherwise indicated. Whenever the words "include", "includes" or "including" are used in this Agreement, they shall be deemed to be followed by the words "without limitation". The words "hereof", "herein" and "hereunder" and words of similar import when used in this Agreement shall refer to this Agreement as a whole and not to any particular provision of this Agreement. [LETTERHEAD OF STEVEN R. ISKO-SUNBEAM CORPORATION]

December 6, 1999

Re: Sunbeam Corporation -
Registration Statement on Form S-4

16div-028420

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am the Senior Vice President and General Counsel of Sunbeam Corporation, a Delaware corporation ("Sunbeam"), and am rendering this opinion in connection with the preparation of a Registration Statement on Form S-4 (the "Registration Statement") filed by Sunbeam with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission") under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act"). The Registration Statement relates to (i) the issuance of shares of Common Stock, par value $.01 per share, of Sunbeam ("Sunbeam Common Stock") in exchange for shares of Common Stock, par value $.01 per share ("Coleman Common Stock"), of The Coleman Company, Inc., a Delaware corporation ("Coleman"), in the merger (the "Coleman Merger") of Camper Acquisition Corp., a Delaware corporation and a wholly owned subsidiary of Sunbeam ("CAC"), with and into Coleman pursuant to the Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of February 27, 1998, among Sunbeam, CAC and Coleman (the "Coleman Merger Agreement") and (ii) the issuance of shares of Sunbeam Common Stock upon exercise of warrants (the "Warrants") to purchase shares of Sunbeam Common Stock that were granted to the Coleman minority stockholders in settlement of litigation brought by such stockholders against Coleman, Sunbeam and several of Coleman's former officers and directors alleging, among other things, that the consideration to be paid to the minority stockholders of Coleman under the Coleman Merger Agreement was no longer fair as a result of the decline in the market price of the Sunbeam Common Stock. The shares of Sunbeam Common Stock to be issued in the Coleman Merger and upon exercise of the Warrants and registered pursuant to the Registration Statement are hereinafter collectively referred to as the "Shares."

This opinion is being rendered in accordance with the requirements of Item 601(b)(5) of Regulation S-K under the Securities Act. Capitalized terms used and not otherwise defined herein have the respective meanings ascribed to such terms in the Coleman Merger Agreement.

In connection with this opinion, I have examined originals or copies, certified or otherwise identified to my satisfaction, of (a) the Registration Statement, as amended to date; (b) the Coleman Merger Agreement; (c) a specimen certificate representing the Shares; (d) the Restated Certificate of Incorporation and By-laws of Sunbeam, each as presently in effect; and (e) certain resolutions of the Board of Directors of Sunbeam. I have also examined originals or copies, certified or otherwise identified to my satisfaction, of such other documents, certificates and records as I have deemed necessary or appropriate as a basis for the opinions set forth herein.

In my examination, I have assumed the legal capacity of all natural persons, the genuineness of all signatures, the authenticity of all documents submitted to me as originals, the conformity to original documents of all documents submitted to me as certified, facsimile, conformed or photostatic copies and the authenticity of the originals of such copies. In making my examination of documents executed by parties other than Sunbeam or CAC, I have assumed that all such parties had the power, corporate or other, to enter into and perform their obligations thereunder and have also assumed the due authorization by all requisite action, corporate or other, and execution and delivery by such parties of such documents and the validity and binding effect of such documents on such parties. As to any facts material to the opinions expressed herein which I did not independently establish or verify, I have relied upon the oral or written statements and representations of officers and other representatives of Sunbeam and others.

I am admitted to the bar of the State of New York, and express no opinion as to the laws of any other jurisdiction except the corporate law of the State of Delaware.

Based upon and subject to the foregoing, I am of the opinion that the issuance of the Shares has been duly authorized and, in the case of Shares issuable upon (A) consummation of the Coleman Merger, when (i) the Coleman Merger becomes effective and (ii) certificates representing the Shares in the form of the specimen certificates examined by me have been duly executed and delivered in exchange for shares of Coleman Common Stock as provided in the Coleman Merger Agreement, and (B) upon exercise of the Warrants, when (i) the Warrants are exercised in accordance with their terms and (ii) Sunbeam has received the exercise price payable by the Warrant holder upon exercise of the Warrants, the Shares will be validly issued, fully paid and nonassessable.

I hereby consent to the filing of this opinion with the Commission as an exhibit to the Registration Statement. I also hereby consent to the references to me contained in the Registration Statement under the caption "LEGAL MATTERS." In giving this consent, I do not thereby admit that I am included in the category of persons whose consent is required under Section 7 of the Securities Act or the rules and regulations of the Commission.

Very truly yours,

Steven R. Isko

and General Counsel

NOTES TO CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
(UNAUDITED)

1. OPERATIONS AND BASIS OF PRESENTATION

ORGANIZATION

Sunbeam Corporation ("Sunbeam" or the "Company") is a leading manufacturer and marketer of branded consumer products. The Sunbeam(R) and Oster(R) brands have been household names for generations, and the Company is a market share leader in many of its product categories.

The Company markets its products through virtually every category of retailer including mass merchandisers, catalog showrooms, warehouse clubs, department stores, catalogs, television shopping channels, Company-owned outlet stores, hardware stores, home centers, drug and grocery stores, pet supply retailers, as well as independent distributors and the military. The Company also sells its products to commercial end users such as hotels and other institutions.

As further described in Note 2, on March 30, 1998, the Company, through a wholly-owned subsidiary, acquired approximately 81% of the total number of then outstanding shares of common stock of The Coleman Company, Inc. ("Coleman"). Coleman is a leading manufacturer and marketer of consumer products for the worldwide outdoor recreation market. Its products have been sold domestically under the Coleman(R) brand name since the 1920's.

PRESENTATION OF FISCAL PERIODS

To standardize the fiscal period ends of the Company and its acquired entities, as further described in Notes 2 and 10, effective with its 1998 fiscal year, the Company has changed its fiscal year end from the Sunday nearest December 31 to a calendar year. Accordingly, quarterly reporting will follow the calendar quarters. Excluding the impact of the Coleman acquisition which occurred on March 30, 1998, the impact of this change in fiscal periods on net sales for the first quarter of 1998 was to increase sales by approximately $4 million and the impact on operating results for the quarter was to increase earnings by approximately $0.2 million.

BASIS OF PRESENTATION

The Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet of the Company as of March 31, 1998 and the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Operations and Cash Flows for the three months ended March 31, 1998 and March 30, 1997 are unaudited. The unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles for interim financial information and with the instructions of Form 10-Q and Rule 10-01 of Regulation S-X. The December 28, 1997 Condensed Consolidated Balance Sheet was derived from the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K/A for the year ended December 28, 1997. The condensed consolidated financial statements contained herein should be read in conjunction with the consolidated financial statements and related notes contained in the Company's 1997 Annual Report on Form 10-K/A. In the opinion of management, the unaudited condensed consolidated financial statements furnished herein include all adjustments (consisting of only recurring adjustments) necessary for a fair presentation of the results of operations for the interim periods presented. These interim results of operations are not necessarily indicative of results for the entire year.

RESTATEMENT

On June 30, 1998, the Company announced that the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors was initiating a review into the accuracy of prior financial statements. The Audit Committee's review has since been completed and, as a result of its findings, the Company has restated its previously issued financial statements for 1996, 1997 and the first quarter of 1998. (See Note 8).

1. OPERATIONS AND BASIS OF PRESENTATION - (CONTINUED)

BASIC AND DILUTED LOSS PER COMMON SHARE

In 1997, the Company adopted SFAS No. 128, EARNINGS PER SHARE. Basic earnings per common share calculations are determined by dividing earnings available to common shareholders by the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding. Diluted earnings per share are determined by dividing earnings available to common shareholders by the weighted average number of shares of common stock and dilutive common stock equivalents outstanding (all related to outstanding stock options, restricted stock and the Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures).

For the first quarter of 1998, 4,758,565 shares related to stock options, (58,065) shares related to restricted stock and 13,150,000 shares related to the conversion feature of the Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures were not included in the diluted average common shares outstanding, as the effect would have been antidilutive. For the first quarter of 1997, the dilutive effect of 2,174,154 equivalent shares and (225,915) equivalent shares related to restricted stock were used in determining the diluted average shares outstanding. SFAS No. 128 requires the use of dilutive potential common shares in the determination of diluted earnings per share if an entity reports earnings from continuing operations. Given Sunbeam's Loss from Discontinued Operations in the first quarter of 1997, the use of dilutive potential common shares in the determination of the diluted per share loss from discontinued operations and net loss per share is antidilutive. (See Note 10.)

NEW ACCOUNTING STANDARDS

In June 1997, the Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") issued Statement of Financial Accounting Standards ("SFAS") No. 131, DISCLOSURES ABOUT SEGMENTS OF AN ENTERPRISE AND RELATED INFORMATION. SFAS No. 131 establishes standards for the way that public business enterprises report information about operating segments in annual financial statements and requires that those enterprises report selected information about operating segments in interim financial reports issued to shareholders. It also establishes standards for related disclosures about products and services, geographic areas, and major customers. SFAS No. 131 is effective for financial statements for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 1997 and will be presented in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ending December 31, 1998. Financial statement disclosures for prior periods are required to be restated. The Company is in the process of evaluating the disclosure requirements. The adoption of SFAS No. 131 will have no impact on consolidated results of operations, financial position or cash flow.

In March 1998, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants ("AICPA") issued Statement of Position 98-1, ACCOUNTING FOR THE COSTS OF COMPUTER SOFTWARE DEVELOPED OR OBTAINED FOR INTERNAL USE ("SOP 98-1"). SOP 98-1 requires computer software costs associated with internal use software to be expensed as incurred until certain capitalization criteria are met. The Company will adopt SOP 98-1 on January 1, 1999. Adoption of this Statement is not expected to have a material impact on the Company's consolidated financial position or results of operations, although actual charges incurred may be material due to Year 2000 issues.

See Note 10 for new accounting standards issued subsequent to March 31, 1998.

2. ACQUISITION

On March 30, 1998, the Company, through a wholly-owned subsidiary, acquired approximately 81% of the total number of then outstanding shares of common stock of Coleman from a subsidiary of MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings, Inc. ("M&F"), in exchange for 14,099,749 shares of the Company's common stock and approximately $160 million in cash as well as the assumption of $1,016 million in debt. The value of the common stock issued at the date of acquisition ($524 million) was derived by using the average ending stock price as reported by the New York Stock Exchange Composite Tape for the day before and day of the public announcement of the acquisition discounted by 15% due to the restrictive nature of the securities. (See Note 10.)

2. ACQUISITION - (CONTINUED)

The Coleman acquisition was accounted for under the purchase method of accounting; and accordingly, the results of operations of Coleman for March 30 and March 31, 1998 are included in the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Statement of Operations. The purchase price of Coleman has been allocated to individual assets acquired and liabilities assumed based on preliminary estimates of fair market value at the date of acquisition. The preliminary fair value of tangible assets acquired was approximately $747 million (of which $27 million was cash) and approximately $1,331 million of liabilities were assumed. The excess of purchase price over net tangible assets acquired of $1,270 million has been classified as goodwill and is being amortized on a straight-line basis over 40 years. The allocation of purchase price for the acquisition of Coleman will be revised when additional information concerning asset and liability valuations is obtained. Adjustments, which could be significant, will be made during the allocation period based on detailed reviews of the fair values of assets acquired and liabilities assumed and could result in a substantial change in goodwill and other intangible assets.

The Company expects to acquire the remaining equity interest in Coleman pursuant to a merger transaction in which the existing Coleman minority shareholders will receive .5677 shares of the Company's common stock and $6.44 in cash for each share of Coleman common stock outstanding. In addition, unexercised options under Coleman's stock option plans will be cashed out at a price per share equal to the difference between $27.50 and the exercise price of such options. The Company expects to issue approximately 6.7 million shares of common stock and expend approximately $87 million in cash to complete the Coleman acquisition. Although there can be no assurance, it is anticipated the Coleman merger will occur in the first quarter of fiscal 1999. The acquisition of the remaining outstanding shares of Coleman will be accounted for under the purchase method of accounting on the date of consummation. Minority interest in the results from Coleman's operations for March 30 and 31, 1998, is reflected in Other Expense, net in the Condensed Consolidated Statement of Operations for the three months ended March 31, 1998. (See Note 10.)

The following unaudited pro forma financial information for the Company gives effect to the Coleman acquisition as if it had occurred at the beginning of 1998. These pro forma results have been prepared for informational purposes only and do not purport to be indicative of the results of operations which actually would have occurred had the acquisition been consummated on the date indicated, or which may result in the future. The unaudited pro forma results follow (in millions, except per share data):

	THREE MONTHS ENDED
	MARCH 31, 1998	MARCH 30, 1997
Net sales (a)	$ 477.3	$ 548.0
Loss before extraordinary charge (a), (b), (c)	(64.7)	(4.8)
Basic and diluted loss per share before extraordinary items (d)	(0.65)	(0.05)

- (a) Adjusted to remove sales of $14.8 million and loss before extraordinary charge of $0.8 million from Coleman operations for March 30 and 31, 1998 included in Sunbeam's results.
- (b) Coleman's loss before extraordinary items has been adjusted to exclude the following one time after tax benefits and charges: (i) a $15.8 million gain from the sale of Coleman Safety and Security Products, Inc., (ii) $7.1 million of costs incurred by Coleman associated with the Company's acquisition of Coleman, (iii) the write off of $2.1 million of capitalized costs associated with the installation of new software which will be abandoned as a result of the acquisition by the Company, (iv) $1.3 million of costs to terminate a license agreement with a former affiliate of Coleman, and (v) the write off of $1.7 million of unrealized deferred tax assets as a result of the change of control of Coleman.
- (c) In 1998 and 1997, respectively, after tax interest expense was increased $11.5 million and $9.8 million, and goodwill amortization, after tax, was increased $5.5 million in each year to reflect the pro forma effect of the acquisition occurring at the beginning of the period. In addition, the minority shareholder percentage was adjusted to reflect the change in the portion of Coleman held by minority shareholders following the transaction. The minority interest in Coleman's losses from continuing operations was adjusted by $0.6 million in 1998 and $0.4 million in 1997 to reflect both the change in the proportion of the ownership of Coleman held by minority shareholders and the effects of the pro forma adjustments.
- (d) The shares outstanding were adjusted in each period to reflect the pro forma effect of the shares issued in the Coleman acquisition being outstanding from the beginning of the period.

(UNAUDITED)

3. CREDIT FACILITIES, LONG-TERM DEBT AND FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

In order to finance the acquisitions described in Notes 2 and 10, and refinance substantially all of the indebtedness of the Company and its acquired entities, the Company consummated: (i) an offering (the "Offering") of Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the "Debentures") at a yield to maturity of 5% (approximately $2,014 million principal amount at maturity) in March 1998, which resulted in approximately $730 million of net proceeds and, (ii) entered into a revolving and term credit facility ("New Credit Facility"). (See Note 10.)

The Debentures are exchangeable for shares of the Company's common stock at an initial conversion rate of 6.575 shares for each $1,000 principal amount at maturity of the Debentures, subject to adjustment upon occurrence of certain events. (See Note 10.)

The New Credit Facility provided for an aggregate borrowings of up to $1.7 billion pursuant to: (i) a revolving credit facility in an aggregate principal amount of up to $400 million, maturing March 31, 2005; (ii) an $800 million term loan maturing on March 31, 2005, and (iii) a $500 million term loan maturing September 30, 2006. Interest accrues at a rate selected at the Company's option of: (i) the London Interbank Offered Rate ("LIBOR") plus an agreed upon interest margin which varies depending upon the Company's leverage ratio, as defined, and other items or, (ii) the base rate of the administrative agent (generally the higher of the prime commercial lending rate of the administrative agent or the Federal Funds Rate plus 1/2 of 1%), plus an agreed upon interest margin which varies depending upon the Company's leverage ratio, as defined, and other items. The New Credit Facility contains certain covenants, including limitations on the ability of the Company and its subsidiaries to engage in certain transactions and the requirement to maintain certain financial covenants and ratios. (See Note 10.)

The Company selectively uses derivatives to manage interest rate and foreign exchange exposures that arise in the normal course of business. No derivatives are entered into for trading or speculative purposes. Foreign exchange option and forward contracts are used to hedge a portion of the Company's underlying exposures denominated in foreign currency. Although the market value of derivative contracts at any single point in time will vary with changes in interest and/or foreign exchange rates, the differences between the carrying value and fair value of such contracts at March 31, 1998 and March 30, 1997 were not considered to be material, either individually or in the aggregate. The Company enters into derivative contracts with counterparties that it believes to be creditworthy. The Company does not enter into any leveraged derivative transactions. At March 31, 1998, the Company held an interest rate swap agreement with a notional value of $25.0 million to exchange floating rate interest for a fixed rate of 6.115%. (See Note 10.)

In March 1998, the Company prepaid a $75.0 million 7.85% industrial revenue bond related to its Hattiesburg facility originally due in 2009. In connection with the early extinguishment of this debt, the Company recognized an extraordinary charge of $8.6 million ($0.10 per share) in the first quarter of 1998.

In December 1997, the Company entered into a receivables securitization program under which the Company has received approximately $34.8 million from the sale of trade accounts receivable in the first quarter of 1998. Costs of the program, which primarily consist of the purchaser's financing cost of issuing commercial paper backed by the receivables, totaled $0.6 million during the first quarter of 1998. The Company, as agent for the purchaser of the receivables, retains collection and administrative responsibilities for the purchased receivables.

6. RESTRUCTURING AND ASSET IMPAIRMENT

At December 28, 1997, the Company, before consideration of the Coleman acquisition, had $5.2 million in liabilities accrued related to a 1996 restructuring plan. The majority of these liabilities related to facility closures and related exit costs. In the first quarter of 1998, this liability was reduced by $0.5 million as a result of cash expenditures.

The restated restructuring reserve details and activity as of and for the quarter ended March 30, 1997 are as follows (in millions):

	RESERVE BALANCE AT DECEMBER 29, 1996	CASH REDUCTIONS	NON-CASH REDUCTIONS	ACCRUAL BALANCE AT MARCH 30, 1997

7. DISCONTINUED OPERATIONS

The Company's discontinued furniture business, which was sold in March 1997, had revenues of $51.6 million in the first quarter of 1997 prior to the sale and nominal earnings. As a result of the sale of the Company's furniture business assets (primarily inventory, property, plant and equipment), the Company received $69.0 million in cash, retained approximately $50.0 million in accounts receivable and retained certain liabilities. The final purchase price for the furniture business was subject to a post-closing adjustment based on the terms of the Asset Purchase Agreement and in the first quarter of 1997, after completion of the sale, the Company recorded an additional loss on disposal of $22.5 million pre-tax.

8. RESTATEMENT

Subsequent to the issuance of the Company's condensed consolidated financial statements for the three months ended March 31, 1998, it was determined that for the years ended December 29, 1996 and December 28, 1997 and the three months ended March 31, 1998, certain revenue was improperly recognized (principally "bill and hold" and guaranteed sales transactions), certain costs and allowances were not accrued or were improperly recorded (principally allowances for returns, cooperative advertising, and customer charge-backs as well as deductions and reserves for product liability and warranty expense) and certain costs were inappropriately included in, and subsequently charged to, restructuring, asset impairment and other costs within the Consolidated Statements of Operations. As a result, the consolidated financial statements as of December 28, 1997 and December 29, 1996 and for the years then ended were restated and a Form 10-K/A was filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on November 12, 1998. The accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements as of March 31, 1998 and March 30, 1997 and for the three months then ended, present restated results.

A summary of the effects of the restatement for the three months ended March 31, 1998 and March 30, 1997 follows (in thousands, except per share data):

9. NEW EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENTS

On February 20, 1998 the Company entered into new three-year employment agreements with its then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and two other senior officers of the Company. These agreements replaced previous employment agreements entered into in July 1996 that were scheduled to expire in July 1999.

The new employment agreement for the Company's then Chairman provided for, among other items, the acceleration of vesting of 200,000 shares of restricted stock and the forfeiture of the remaining 133,333 shares of unvested restricted stock granted under the July 1996 agreement, a new equity grant of 300,000 shares of unrestricted stock, a new grant of a ten-year option to purchase 3,750,000 shares of the Company's common stock with an exercise price equal to the fair market value of the stock at the date of grant and exercisable in three equal annual installments beginning on the date of grant and the acceleration of vesting of 833,333 outstanding stock options granted under the July 1996 agreement. In addition, the new employment agreement with the then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer provided for income tax gross-ups with respect to any tax assessed on the equity grant and acceleration of vesting of restricted stock.

The new employment agreements with the two other then senior officers provided for, among other items, the grant of a total of 180,000 shares of restricted stock that vest in four equal annual installments beginning the date of grant, the acceleration of vesting of 44,000 shares of restricted stock and the forfeiture of the remaining 29,332 shares of unvested restricted stock granted under the July 1996 agreements, new grants of ten-year options to purchase a total of 1,875,000 shares of the Company's common stock with an exercise price equal to the fair market value of the stock at the date of grant and exercisable in four equal annual installments beginning on the date of grant and the acceleration of vesting of 383,334 outstanding stock options granted under the July 1996 agreements. In addition, the new employment agreements provided for income tax gross-ups with respect to any tax assessed on the restricted stock grants and acceleration of vesting of restricted stock.

Compensation expense attributed to the equity grant, the acceleration of vesting of restricted stock and the related income tax gross-ups was recognized in the first quarter of 1998 and compensation expense related to the new restricted stock grants and related tax gross-ups was amortized to expense beginning in the first quarter of 1998 with amortization to continue over the period in which the restrictions lapse. Total compensation expense recognized in the first quarter of 1998 related to these items was approximately $31 million. (See Note 10.)

10. SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

SENIOR MANAGEMENT CHANGES

On June 15, 1998, the Company's Board of Directors announced the removal of the then Chairman and Chief Executive Officer and subsequently announced the removal or resignation of other senior officers, including the Company's then Chief Financial Officer. In connection with the removal or resignation of the senior officers and the termination of their restricted stock grants, the unamortized portion of the deferred compensation expense attributable to the restricted stock grants will be reversed and compensation expense of approximately $0.9 million recognized in the first quarter of 1998 for unvested restricted stock grants will be reversed into income in the second and third quarters of 1998. Other costs related to the resignations and terminations will be recognized, as appropriate, in 1998. The Company and certain of its former officers are in disagreement as to the Company's obligations to these individuals under prior employment agreements and arising from their terminations. The Board of Directors has installed a new Chief Executive Officer and senior management team.

COLEMAN ACQUISITION

On August 12, 1998, the Company announced that, following investigation and negotiation conducted by a Special Committee of the Board consisting of four outside directors not affiliated with M&F, the Company had entered into a settlement agreement with a subsidiary of M&F pursuant to which the Company was released from certain threatened claims of M&F and its affiliates arising from the Coleman acquisition and M&F agreed to provide certain management personnel and assistance to the Company in exchange for the issuance to the M&F subsidiary of five-year warrants to purchase up to 23 million shares of the Company's common stock at an exercise price of $7.00 per share, subject to anti-dilution provisions. The financial statement impact of the settlement, which will be material in amount, will be recorded in the third quarter of 1998. (See Litigation, below.)

OTHER ACQUISITIONS

On April 6, 1998, the Company completed the cash acquisitions of First Alert, Inc. ("First Alert"), a leading manufacturer of smoke and carbon monoxide detectors, and Signature Brands USA, Inc. ("Signature Brands"), a leading manufacturer of a comprehensive line of consumer and professional products. The First Alert and the Signature Brands acquisitions were valued at approximately $178 million and $253 million, respectively, including the assumption of debt. These acquisitions will be accounted for by the purchase method of accounting and the results of operations of the acquired entities will be included in the Company's Consolidated Statement of Operations from the respective acquisition dates.

DEBENTURES, NEW CREDIT FACILITY AND FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

The Company was required to file a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission to register the Debentures by June 23, 1998, which registration statement has not been filed. From June 23, 1998 until the day on which the registration statement is filed and declared effective, the Company is required to pay to the Debenture holders cash liquidated damages accruing, for each day during such period, at a rate per annum equal to 0.25% during the first 90 days and 0.50% thereafter multiplied by the total of the issue price of the Debentures plus the original issue discount thereon on such day. The Company made its first payment of approximately $525,000 to the Debenture holders on September 25, 1998.

At June 30, 1998, the Company was not in compliance with the financial covenants and ratios required under the New Credit Facility. The Company and its lenders entered into an agreement dated June 30, 1998, which provided that compliance with the covenants would be waived through December 31, 1998. Borrowings under the New Credit Facility are secured by certain of the Company's assets, including its stock interest in Coleman and certain other subsidiaries and certain of the Company's tangible and intangible personal property. Pursuant to an amendment dated October 19, 1998, the Company is not required to comply with the original financial covenants and ratios under the New Credit Facility until April 10, 1999, but will be required to comply with an earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization covenant, the amounts of which are to be determined, beginning February 1999. Concurrent with each of these amendments, interest margin was increased. The margin continues to increase monthly through March 1999 to a maximum of 400 basis points over LIBOR. At September 30, 1998, following the scheduled repayment of a portion of the term loan, the New Credit Facility was reduced to $1,698 million in total, of which approximately $1,453 million was outstanding and approximately $245 million was available. In addition, the Company's cash balance available for debt repayment at September 30, 1998 was approximately $43 million.

The Company is working closely with its bank lenders and hopes to reach agreement with the bank lenders on a further amendment to the New Credit Facility containing revised financial covenants which the bank lenders and the Company find mutually acceptable. There can be no assurance that such an amendment, or a further waiver of the existing financial covenants, will be entered into with the bank lenders by April 10, 1999. The failure to obtain such an amendment or further waiver would result in violation of the existing covenants, which would permit the bank lenders to accelerate the maturity of all outstanding borrowing under the New Credit Facility.

The Company selectively uses derivatives to manage interest rate and foreign exchange exposures that arise in the normal course of business. In the second quarter of 1998, the Company entered into two swap transactions in a notional amount of $150 million each, in connection with the New Credit Facility. The swap agreements are contracts to exchange floating rate for fixed interest payments periodically over the life of the agreements without the exchange of the underlying notional principal amounts. The swaps expire in June 2001 and 2003 and have strike rates of 5.75% and 5.58%, respectively. The notional amounts of the agreements do not represent the amount of exposure to credit loss.

As a result of repayment of certain indebtedness assumed in the Coleman acquisition, the Company will recognize an extraordinary charge of approximately $104 million in the second quarter of 1998.

SEC INVESTIGATION

By letter dated June 17, 1998, the staff of the Division of Enforcement of the SEC advised the Company that it was conducting an informal inquiry into the Company's accounting policies and procedures and requested that the Company produce certain documents. On July 2, 1998, the SEC issued a Formal Order of Private Investigation, designating officers to take testimony and pursuant to which a subpoena duces tecum was served on the Company requiring the production of certain documents. On November 4, 1998, another SEC subpoena duces tecum requiring the production of further documents was received by the Company. The Company has provided numerous documents to the SEC staff and continues to cooperate fully with the SEC staff. The Company cannot predict the term of such investigation or its potential outcome.

LITIGATION

On April 23, 1998, two class action lawsuits were filed on behalf of purchasers of the Company's common stock in the U. S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against the Company and certain of its present and former officers and directors alleging violations of the federal securities laws as discussed below (the "Consolidated Federal Actions"). Since that date, approximately fifteen similar class actions have been filed in the same Court. One of the lawsuits also names as defendant Arthur Andersen LLP, the Company's independent accountants for the period covered by the lawsuit.

The complaints in the Consolidated Federal Actions allege to varying degrees that the defendants (i) failed to disclose that the Company pre-sold approximately $50 million of products pursuant to its "early buy" marketing program in an effort to boost its 1997 sales and net income figures and (ii) made material misrepresentations regarding the Company's business operations, future prospects and anticipated earnings per share, in an effort to artificially inflate the price of the Company stock long enough for the Company to complete a $2 billion debt financing (supported with stock incentives) necessary to complete the acquisitions of Coleman, Signature Brands and First Alert, and for the individual defendants to enter into lucrative long-term employment agreements with the Company. Each complaint alleges two counts of securities fraud; one count against all defendants and one count against the individual defendants.

On June 16, 1998, the Court entered an Order consolidating all such filed and all such subsequently filed class actions and providing time periods for the filing of a Consolidated Amended Complaint and defendants' response thereto. On June 22, 1998, two groups of plaintiffs made motions to be appointed lead plaintiffs and to have their selection of counsel approved as lead counsel. On July 20, 1998, the Court entered an Order appointing lead plaintiffs and lead counsel (the "Smith Plaintiffs' Group"). This Order also stated that it "shall apply to all subsequently filed actions which are consolidated herewith". On August 28, 1998, plaintiffs in one of the subsequently filed actions filed an objection to having their action consolidated pursuant to the June 16, 1998 Order, arguing that the class period in their action differs from the class periods in the originally filed consolidated actions. On September 29, 1998, the Smith Plaintiffs' Group filed its memorandum in opposition to this objection.

On April 7, 1998, a purported derivative action was filed in the Circuit Court for the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County, Florida against the Company and certain of its present and former officers and directors. The action alleged that the individual defendants breached their fiduciary duties and wasted corporate assets when the Company granted stock options to three of its officers and directors on or about February 2, 1998 at an exercise price of $36.85. On June 25, 1998, all defendants filed a motion to dismiss the complaint for failure to make a presuit demand on the board of directors of the Company. On October 22, 1998, the plaintiff amended the complaint against all but one of the defendants named in the original complaint. The amended complaint no longer challenges the stock options, but instead alleges that the individual defendants breached their fiduciary duties by failing to have in place adequate accounting and sales controls, which failure caused the inaccurate reporting of financial information to the public, thereby causing an artificial inflation of the Company's financial statements and stock price.

On June 25, 1998, four purported class actions were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County by minority shareholders of Coleman against the Company and certain of the Company's present and former officers and directors. An additional class action was filed on August 10, 1998, against the same parties. All of the plaintiffs are represented by the same Delaware counsel and have agreed to consolidate the class actions. These actions allege, in essence, that the existing exchange ratio for the proposed merger between the Company and Coleman is no longer fair to Coleman shareholders as a result of the recent decline in the market value of the Company stock. On October 21, 1998, the Company announced that it had entered into a Memorandum of Understanding to settle, subject to court approval, certain class actions brought by shareholders of Coleman challenging the proposed Coleman Merger. Under the terms of the proposed settlement, the Company will issue to the Coleman public shareholders five-year warrants to purchase 4.98 million shares of the Company's common stock at $7.00 per share. These warrants will generally have the same terms as the warrants previously issued to a subsidiary of M&F and will be issued when the Coleman Merger is consummated, which is now expected to be in the first quarter of 1999. There can be no assurance that the Court will approve the settlement as proposed.

During the months of August and October 1998, purported class and derivative actions were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County and in the U. S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida by shareholders of the Company against the Company, M&F and certain of the Company's present and former directors. These complaints allege that the defendants breached their fiduciary duties when the Company entered into a settlement agreement with M&F whereby M&F released the Company from any claims it may have had arising out of the Company's acquisition of its interest in Coleman and agreed to provide management support to the Company (the "Settlement Agreement"). Pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, M&F was granted five-year warrants to purchase an additional 23 million shares of the Company's common stock at an exercise price of $7.00 per share. These complaints also allege that the rights of the public shareholders have been compromised, as the settlement would normally require shareholder approval under the rules and regulations of the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE"). The Audit Committee of the Company's board determined that obtaining such shareholder approval would have seriously jeopardized the financial viability of the Company which is an allowable exception to the NYSE shareholder approval requirements.

On September 16, 1998, an action was filed in the 56th Judicial District Court of Galveston County, Texas alleging various claims in violation of the Texas Securities Act and Texas Business and Commercial Code as well as common law fraud as a result of the Company's alleged misstatements and omissions regarding the Company's financial condition and prospects during a period beginning May 1, 1998 and ending June 16, 1998, in which the plaintiffs engaged in transactions in the Company's stock. The Company is the only named defendant in this action. The complaint requests recovery of compensatory damages, punitive damages and expenses in an unspecified amount. This action has been removed to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas and the Company has filed a motion to transfer this case to the Southern District of Florida, the forum for the Consolidated Federal Actions. Plaintiffs have moved to remand the case to Texas state court.

On October 30, 1998, a class action lawsuit was filed on behalf of certain purchasers of the Company's Debentures in the U.S. District Court of the Southern District of Florida against the Company and its prior Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, alleging violations of the federal securities laws and common law fraud. The complaint alleges that the Company's offering memorandum used for the marketing of the Debentures contained false and misleading information regarding the Company's financial position and that the defendants engaged in a plan to inflate the Company's earnings for the purpose of defrauding the plaintiffs and others. The Company is seeking to consolidate this lawsuit with the other Consolidated Federal Actions.

The Company intends to vigorously defend each of the foregoing lawsuits, but cannot predict the outcome and is not currently able to evaluate the likelihood of the Company's success in each case or the range of potential loss. However, if the foregoing actions were determined adversely to the Company, such judgments would likely have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial position, results of operations and cash flows.

On July 2, 1998, the American Insurance Company ("American") filed suit against the Company in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York requesting a declaratory judgment of the court that the directors' and officers' liability insurance policy for excess coverage issued by American was invalid and/or had been properly cancelled by American. The Company has moved to transfer such action to the federal district court in which the Consolidated Federal Actions are currently pending; American is opposing such motion. On October 20, 1998, an action was filed by Federal Insurance Company in the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Florida requesting the same relief as that requested by American in the previously filed action as to additional coverage levels under the Company's directors' and officers' liability insurance policy. The Company intends to pursue recovery from all of its insurers if damages are awarded against the Company or its indemnified officers and/or directors under any of the foregoing actions. The Company's failure to obtain such insurance recoveries following an adverse judgement against the Company in any of the foregoing actions could have a material adverse impact on the Company's financial position, results of operations and cash flow.

The Company and its subsidiaries are also involved in various lawsuits arising from time to time which the Company considers to be ordinary routine litigation incidental to its business. In the opinion of the Company, the resolution of these routine matters, and of certain matters relating to prior operations of the Predecessor, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect upon the financial position or results of operations of the Company.

ASSET IMPAIRMENT, INVENTORY RESERVES AND RELATED LIABILITIES

In 1998, as a result of decisions to outsource a substantial number of products previously made by the Company, certain facilities and equipment will either no longer be used or will be used in a significantly different manner. Accordingly, certain assets recorded at March 31, 1998 will be written down in future periods to reflect the fair market value of items held for disposition or to reflect impairment for items where the future utility is altered by the sourcing change. Personnel at the Mexico City manufacturing plant were notified in the second quarter of 1998 that the plant is scheduled for closure at year-end 1998. Accordingly, a liability related to plant closure will be recorded in the second quarter. As certain inventories built in 1997 and the first quarter of 1998 in anticipation of 1998 sales volumes exceed the actual requirements, it will be necessary to dispose of some portions of excess inventories at amounts less than cost. The Company is also in the process of assessing the expected future performance of its business operations and the impact of this assessment on the valuation of assets in the business. This assessment is expected to be completed in the fourth quarter.

NEW ACCOUNTING STANDARDS

In April 1998, the AICPA issued Statement of Position 98-5, REPORTING ON THE COSTS OF START-UP ACTIVITIES ("SOP 98-5"). SOP 98-5 requires all costs associated with pre-opening, pre-operating and organization activities to be expensed as incurred. The Company will adopt SOP 98-5 beginning January 1, 1999. Adoption of the Statement is not expected to have a material impact on the Company's consolidated financial position or results of operations.

In June 1998, the FASB issued SFAS No. 133, ACCOUNTING FOR DERIVATIVE INSTRUMENTS AND HEDGING ACTIVITIES for fiscal years beginning after June 15, 1999. SFAS No. 133 requires the recognition of all derivatives in the Consolidated Balance Sheet as either assets or liabilities measured at fair value. The Company will adopt SFAS No. 133 effective for the 2000 calendar year end. The Company has not yet determined the impact SFAS No. 133 will have on its financial position or results of operations when such statement is adopted.

ITEM 2. MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

On June 30, 1998, the Company announced that the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors was initiating a review into the accuracy of prior financial statements. The Audit Committee's review has since been completed and, as a result of its findings, the Company has restated its previously issued consolidated financial statements for 1996 and 1997 and the first quarters of 1998 and 1997 (see Note 8 to the accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements and the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K/A for the year ended December 28, 1997). The following discussion should be read in conjunction with the accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements as of and for the three months ended March 31, 1998 and March 30, 1997.

OVERVIEW

On March 30, 1998, the Company, through a wholly-owned subsidiary, acquired approximately 81% of the total number of then outstanding shares of common stock of The Coleman Company, Inc. ("Coleman"), in exchange for 14,099,749 shares of the Company's common stock and approximately $160 million in cash as well as the assumption of $1,016 million in debt. The Company expects to acquire the remaining equity interest in Coleman pursuant to a merger transaction in which the existing Coleman minority shareholders will receive approximately 6.7 million shares of common stock and approximately $87 million in cash. Although there can be no assurance, it is anticipated the Coleman merger will occur in the first quarter of fiscal 1999. (See Note 10 to the condensed consolidated financial statements and Part II, Item 1. "Legal Proceedings"). Coleman is a leading manufacturer and marketer of consumer products for the worldwide outdoor recreation market. Its products have been sold domestically under the Coleman /registered trademark/ brand name since the 1920's.

The Coleman acquisition was recorded under the purchase method of accounting; and accordingly, the results of operations of Coleman for March 30 and 31, 1998 are included in the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Statement of Operations. The purchase price of Coleman has been allocated to individual assets acquired and liabilities assumed based on preliminary estimates of fair market value at the date of acquisition. The allocation of purchase price for the acquisition of Coleman will be revised when additional information concerning asset and liability valuations is obtained. Adjustments, which could be significant, will be made during the allocation period based on detailed reviews of the fair values of assets acquired and liabilities assumed and could result in a substantial change in goodwill and other intangible assets.

To standardize the fiscal period ends of the Company, Coleman and two companies acquired after March 31, 1998, effective with its 1998 fiscal year, the Company has changed its fiscal year end from the Sunday nearest December 31 to a calendar year. (See Notes 1 and 10 to the condensed consolidated financial statements.)

THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 31, 1998 COMPARED TO THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 30, 1997

Net sales is comprised of gross sales less provisions for estimated customer returns, discounts, promotional allowances, cooperative advertising allowances and costs incurred by the Company to ship product to customers. Net sales for the three months ended March 31, 1998 were $247.6 million, a decrease of $4.9 million or 2% versus the three months ended March 30, 1997. After excluding: (i) $14.8 million of Coleman's sales for March 30 and 31, 1998, (ii) approximately $4 million in 1998 sales resulting from the change in year end described above, (iii) $4.2 million from 1997 sales relating to divested product lines which are not classified as discontinued operations (time and temperature products and Counselor /registered trademark/ and Borg /registered trademark/ branded scales), and (iv) $13.7 million from 1997 sales of discontinued inventory which resulted primarily from the reduction of SKU's as part of the 1996 restructuring plan and for which the inventory carrying value was substantially equivalent to the sales value, net sales on an adjusted basis ("Adjusted Sales") reflected a 2% decrease from the first quarter of 1997.

Overall, product sales were adversely impacted by price discounting and approximately $13 million of higher provisions for estimated returns, costs to ship products to customers, rebates and other customer allowances.

Domestic Adjusted Sales declined approximately $10 million from the first quarter of 1997. Outdoor Cooking category sales accounted for the majority of this decline. During 1997, the Company lost a significant portion of its Outdoor Cooking products distribution, including the majority of its grill accessory products distribution. As compared with the first quarter of 1997, the Outdoor Cooking products sales decline was also attributed to a lower than anticipated retail sell-through during the early stages of the 1998 retail selling season. Based on the sales levels achieved in the first quarter of 1998, distribution losses and retail inventory levels for Outdoor Cooking products, and a significant sales decline experienced subsequent to the first quarter as compared with the same period in the prior year, sales for the remainder of 1998 will be significantly lower as compared to the prior year. Adjusted Sales for Appliance category products increased approximately $7 million but were offset by declines in other product categories, primarily Away From Home products.

International sales, which represented 26% of Adjusted Sales in the first quarter of 1998, grew approximately 16% over the first quarter of 1997's Adjusted Sales. This sales growth was attributed to improved distribution, new product sales and increased retail inventory levels in Latin America, including Mexico and Venezuela, offset by declines in sales of Outdoor Cooking products in Europe and Canada.

Excluding $4.1 million of gross margin generated from the inclusion of the Coleman operations for two days in the first quarter of 1998 and approximately $0.6 million in gross margin from the change in the fiscal period, gross margin declined to $29.1 million, or 12.7% of Adjusted Sales in 1998 versus $58.3 million, or 24.8% of Adjusted Sales for the same period a year ago. The margin erosion was due to lower price realization and higher costs of customer allowances, rebates and similar incentives in 1998, coupled with a higher product return reserve and an adverse product sales mix in 1998. The adverse product sales mix was due in part to the loss of a majority of the grill accessory products distribution. Accessories generate significantly better margins than the average margins on sales of grills. During the first quarter of each year, grill and grill accessory sales are traditionally a higher portion of overall sales in the period than during other quarters of the year.

NOT A CLEAR COPY

Due to the level of Outdoor Cooking products sales in the first quarter and the levels of retail inventories for these products, the Company began the season-end ramp down of production at the Neosho Outdoor Cooking products facility earlier than previously planned. As a result, operating results for the 1998 grill season will be adversely impacted due to unabsorbed fixed factory overhead during the second and third quarters and higher inventory carrying costs.

Excluding the effect of: (i) $3.7 million of selling, general and administrative ("SG&A") charges from Coleman, (ii) approximately $0.8 million of SG&A expenses in 1998 from the change in the fiscal period, (iii) a $3.0 million benefit in the first quarter of 1998 and a $0.5 million benefit in the first quarter of 1997 from the reversal of reserves no longer required, (iv) $31.2 million of charges recorded in 1998 related to compensation for former executives, and (v) $4.1 million of restructuring related charges recorded in 1997, SG&A expenses were 2% higher in 1998 than 1997. Higher distribution and warehousing costs due to increased levels of inventory were primarily responsible for the increase in costs between years.

Operating results for the first quarters of 1998 and 1997, on a comparable basis as described above, were a loss of $9.4 million in 1998 and a profit of $20.7 million in 1997. On the same basis, operating margins as a percent of Adjusted Sales decreased to a loss of 4.1% from a profit of 8.8% in the prior year. This change resulted from the factors discussed above.

Interest expense increased from $2.0 million in the first quarter of 1997 to $5.1 million in the first quarter of 1998 primarily related to higher borrowing levels in 1998 for the acquisitions and increased working capital. (See Note 3 to the condensed consolidated financial statements.)

Other expense, net of $3.2 million in 1998 and $0.1 million in 1997 primarily represents foreign exchange losses. Losses in both years arose from Sunbeam's operations in Mexico. In addition, the 1998 losses were impacted by Sunbeam's operations in Venezuela and Coleman's operations in Japan.

The effective income tax rate was 0.3% in the first quarter of 1998, as compared to 39.8% in the first quarter of 1997. The 1998 rate is lower than the statutory federal rate principally as a result of a valuation allowance for deferred tax assets provided in 1998. The 1997 rate was higher than the federal statutory income tax rate primarily due to state and local taxes plus the effect of foreign earnings taxed at other rates.

The Company's loss per share from continuing operations in the first quarter of 1998, excluding: (i) Coleman's results for March 30 and 31, 1998, (ii) the effect of the change in fiscal periods, (iii) the reversals of reserves no longer required in each year's first quarter, (iv) the restructuring related charges in 1997, and (v) the 1998 charge related to management compensation was a loss of $0.20 per share versus earnings per share from continuing operations in the first quarter of 1997 of $0.13 per share. Due to increased inventory positions at certain customers from sales in 1997 and the first quarter of 1998, as well as increased inventory positions at the Company, sales and operating income will be materially affected during the remainder of 1998. In addition, 1998 results will be impacted materially by charges related to, among other items, a change in management, changes in business operations resulting in part from acquisitions in 1998, interest costs associated with higher debt levels, costs associated with litigation and asset impairment costs, as well as costs related to Year 2000 issues. (See "Liquidity and Capital Resources", below, and Note 10 to the condensed consolidated financial statements.)

In March 1998, the Company prepaid a $75.0 million 7.85% industrial revenue bond related to its Hattiesburg facility originally due in 2009. In connection with the early extinguishment of this debt, the Company recognized an extraordinary charge of $8.6 million ($0.10 per share) in the first quarter of 1998.

The Company's discontinued furniture business, which was sold in March

1997, had revenues of $51.6 million in the first quarter of 1997 prior to the sale and nominal earnings. As a result of the sale of the Company's furniture business assets (primarily inventory, property, plant and equipment), the Company received $69.0 million in cash, retained approximately $50.0 million in accounts receivable and retained certain liabilities. The final purchase price for the furniture business was subject to a post-closing adjustment based on the terms of the Asset Purchase Agreement and in the first quarter of 1997, after completion of the sale, the Company recorded an additional loss on disposal of $22.5 million pre-tax.

FOREIGN OPERATIONS

Approximately 90% of the Company's business is conducted in U.S. dollars (including both domestic sales, U.S. dollar denominated export sales, primarily to certain Latin American markets, Asian sales and the majority of European sales). The Company's exposure to market risk from changes in foreign currency and interest rates is generally insignificant. The Company's non-U.S. dollar denominated sales are made principally by subsidiaries in Mexico, Venezuela and Canada. Venezuela is considered a hyperinflationary economy for accounting purposes for 1998 and 1997 and Mexico reverted to a hyperinflationary status for accounting purposes in 1997; therefore, translation adjustments related to Venezuelan and Mexican net monetary assets are included as a component of net earnings. Mexico is not expected to be hyperinflationary at some point in 1998.

While Sunbeam's revenues generated in Asia have traditionally not been significant, economic instability in this region is expected to have a negative effect on Coleman's earnings. It is anticipated that sales in and exports to this region will continue to decline so long as the economic environment remains unsettled. It is not anticipated that this impact will be materially adverse to the Company's results of operations taken as a whole.

On a limited basis, the Company selectively uses derivatives (foreign exchange option and forward contracts) to manage foreign exchange exposures that arise in the normal course of business. No derivative contracts are entered into for trading or speculative purposes. The use of derivatives did not have a material impact on the Company's financial results in 1998 and 1997. (See Note 3 to the condensed consolidated financial statements.)

SEASONALITY

On a consolidated basis, the Company's sales have not traditionally exhibited substantial seasonality; however, sales have been strongest during the fourth quarter of the calendar year. Additionally, sales of Outdoor Cooking products are strongest in the first half of the year, while sales of Appliances and Personal Care and Comfort products are strongest in the second half of the year. Furthermore, sales of a number of the Company's traditional products, including warming blankets, vaporizers, humidifiers and grills may be impacted by unseasonable weather conditions. After considering the seasonality of the acquired entities, the Company's consolidated sales are not expected to exhibit substantial seasonality; however, sales are expected to be strongest during the second quarter of the calendar year. Additionally, sales of many products sold by Coleman may be impacted by unseasonable weather conditions.

In order to finance the acquisition of Coleman in the first quarter of 1998 and the anticipated acquisitions of First Alert, Inc. ("First Alert") and Signature Brands USA, Inc. ("Signature Brands") and to refinance substantially all of the indebtedness of the Company and the acquired entities, the Company consummated: (i) an offering (the "Offering") of Zero Coupon Convertible Senior Subordinated Debentures due 2018 (the "Debentures") at a yield to maturity of 5% (approximately $2,014 million principal amount at maturity) in March 1998, which resulted in approximately $730 million of net proceeds and, (ii) entered into a revolving and term credit facility ("New Credit Facility"). (See Note 10.)

The New Credit Facility provided for an aggregate borrowings of up to $1.7 billion pursuant to: (i) a revolving credit facility in an aggregate principal amount of up to $400 million, maturing March 31, 2005; (ii) an $800 million term loan maturing on March 31, 2005, and (iii) a $500 million term loan maturing September 30, 2006. Interest accrues at a rate selected at the Company's option of: (i) the London Interbank Offered Rate ("LIBOR") plus an agreed upon interest margin which varies depending upon the Company's leverage ratio, as defined, and other items or, (ii) the base rate of the administrative agent (generally the higher of the prime commercial lending rate of the administrative agent or the Federal Funds Rate plus 1/2 of 1%), plus an agreed upon interest margin which varies depending upon the Company's leverage ratio, as defined, and other items. (See Notes 3 and 10 to the condensed consolidated financial statements.)

As of March 31, 1998, the Company had cash and cash equivalents of $193.5 million, working capital excluding cash and cash equivalents of $707.5 million and total debt of $1.7 billion. Cash used in operating activities during the first quarter of 1998 was $134.7 million compared to $22.6 million in the first quarter of 1997. This increase is primarily attributable to lower earnings before non-cash charges and an increased investment in working capital. The majority of the increase in working capital is a result of higher inventory and receivables levels in 1998. Inventories increased $312.2 million from December 28, 1997, of which $246.3 million related to Coleman and $65.9 million related to Sunbeam's household and grill products. Receivables increased $272.2 million from December 28, 1997, with $215.1 million due to the Coleman acquisition and $57.1 million from Sunbeam's historical operating units. Extended dating terms contributed to the increase in Sunbeam's receivables. Cash used in operating activities for the 1998 first quarter reflects proceeds of $34.8 million from the Company's revolving trade accounts receivable securitization program entered into in December 1997. The Company expects to continue to use the securitization program to finance a portion of its accounts receivable. The Company anticipates that cash used in operating activities will increase in the second and third quarters of 1998, principally from losses incurred in operations and increases in inventory. As certain inventories built in 1997 and the first quarter of 1998 in anticipation of 1998 sales volumes exceed the actual requirements, it will be necessary to dispose of some portions of excess inventories at amounts less than cost.

Cash used in investing activities in the first quarter of 1998 reflects $160.6 million for the acquisition of approximately 81% of Coleman. In the first quarter of 1997, cash provided by investing activities reflected $70.4 million in proceeds from the sales of divested operations. Capital spending totaled $19.5 million in 1998 and was primarily for capacity expansion initiatives primarily at the Neosho grill manufacturing facility, and equipment and tooling for new products. Capital spending in 1997 was $10.9 million and was primarily attributable to manufacturing capacity expansion and equipment to manufacture new products. The new product capital spending in 1998 principally related to the Appliance category and included costs related to water and air filtration products, blenders, standmixers and irons. The Company anticipates 1998 capital spending to be approximately 5% of sales, primarily related to new product introductions, capacity additions and certain facility rationalization initiatives.

Cash provided by financing activities totaled $456.1 million in the first quarter of 1998 and reflects net proceeds from the Debentures of $729.6 million, the cancellation and repayment of all outstanding balances under the Company's $250 million September 1996 revolving credit facility, the repayment of certain Coleman debt and the early extinguishment of the $75.0 million Hattiesburg bond. In addition, cash provided by financing activities is net of $25.1 million of financing fees related to the Company's $1.7 billion New Credit Facility and $19.0 million of proceeds from the exercise of stock options. (See Note 3 to the condensed consolidated financial statements.)

In April 1998, the Company drew from the term loans under the New Credit Facility to fund the acquisitions of Signature Brands and First Alert as further described in Note 10 to the condensed consolidated financial statements and to refinance certain debt of the acquired companies. The Company drew an additional $550 million of term loans and $50 million of revolving loans in May 1998 to finance the prepayment of certain debt assumed in connection with the Coleman acquisition. In connection with these debt refinancings, the Company expects to record an extraordinary charge of approximately $104 million in the second quarter of 1998.

At June 30, 1998, the Company was not in compliance with the covenants and ratios under the New Credit Facility. The Company and its lenders entered into an agreement dated June 30, 1998, which provided that compliance with the covenants would be waived through December 31, 1998. Subsequently, pursuant to an amendment dated October 19, 1998, the Company is not required to comply with the original financial covenants and ratios under the New Credit Facility until April 10, 1999, but will be required to comply with an earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization covenant, the amounts of which are to be determined, beginning February 1999. At September 30, 1998, following the scheduled repayment of a portion of the term loan, the New Credit Facility was reduced to $1,698 million in total, of which approximately $1,453 million was outstanding and approximately $245 million was available. In addition, the Company's cash balance available for debt repayment at September 30, 1998 was approximately $43 million.

The Company is working closely with its bank lenders and hopes to reach agreement with the bank lenders on a further amendment to the New Credit Facility containing revised financial covenants which the bank lenders and the Company find mutually acceptable. There can be no assurance that such an amendment, or a further waiver of the existing financial covenants, will be entered into with the bank lenders by April 10, 1999. The failure to obtain such an amendment or further waiver would result in violation of the existing covenants, which would permit the bank lenders to accelerate the maturity of all outstanding borrowing under the New Credit Facility.

The Company expects to acquire the remaining equity interest in Coleman pursuant to a merger transaction in which the existing Coleman minority shareholders will receive approximately 6.7 million shares of common stock and approximately $87 million in cash. In addition, as a result of litigation related to the merger consideration, the Company has entered into a memorandum of understanding (subject to court approval) pursuant to which the holders of the remaining equity interest in Coleman will also receive five-year warrants to purchase 4.98 million shares of Sunbeam common stock at $7.00 per share. There can be no assurance that the court will approve the settlement as proposed. Although there can be no assurance, it is anticipated the Coleman merger will occur in the first quarter of fiscal 1999. (See Note 10 to the condensed consolidated financial statements.)

The Company believes its borrowing capacity under the New Credit Agreement, cash flow from the combined operations of the Company and its acquired companies, existing cash and cash equivalent balances, and its receivable securitization program will be sufficient to support working capital needs, capital spending, and debt service for the foreseeable future. However, if the Company is unable to satisfactorily amend the financial covenants and ratio requirements of the New Credit Facility or obtain a further waiver of the existing covenants and ratio requirements prior to April 10, 1999, the Company expects it would, at that time, be in default of the requirements under the New Credit Facility and, as noted above, the lenders could then require the repayment of all amounts then outstanding under the New Credit Facility.

NEW ACCOUNTING STANDARDS

See Notes 1 and 10 to the Company's condensed consolidated financial statements for a discussion of Statement of Financial Accounting Standards ("SFAS") No. 131, DISCLOSURES ABOUT SEGMENTS OF AN ENTERPRISE AND RELATED INFORMATION, SFAS No. 133, ACCOUNTING FOR DERIVATIVE INSTRUMENTS AND HEDGING ACTIVITIES, Statement of Position ("SOP") 98-1, ACCOUNTING FOR THE COSTS OF COMPUTER SOFTWARE DEVELOPED OR OBTAINED FOR INTERNAL USE and SOP 98-5, REPORTING ON THE COSTS OF START-UP ACTIVITIES, which are required to be adopted for periods beginning after December 15, 1997. The adoption of these standards is not expected to have a material effect on the Company's consolidated results of operations, financial position, or cash flows, although actual charges incurred may be material due to Year 2000 issues, as discussed below.

YEAR 2000

The Company is in the process of assessing the impact of the Year 2000 on its operations, including the Coleman, First Alert and Signature Brands companies which were acquired by the Company in the spring of 1998. The Company established a Year 2000 Program Management Office in the third quarter of 1998 to conduct such assessment with assistance from three consulting firms. The Company's assessment encompasses the Company's information technology functions along with the impact of the effects of noncompliance by its vendors, service providers, customers, and financial institutions. Additionally, the Company is assessing the impact of noncompliance of embedded microprocessors in its products as well as equipment, such as security and telephone systems and controls for lighting, heating/ventilation, and facility access.

The Company relies on its information technology functions to perform many tasks that are critical to its operations. Significant transactions that could be impacted by Year 2000 noncompliance include, among others, purchases of materials, production management, order entry and fulfillment, and payroll processing. Systems and applications that have been identified by the Company to date as not currently Year 2000 compliant and which are critical to the Company's operations include its financial software systems, which process the order entry, purchasing, production management, general ledger, accounts receivable, and accounts payable functions, and critical applications in the Company's manufacturing and distribution facilities, such as the warehouse management application. The Company plans to complete corrective work with respect to the Company's systems by the second quarter of 1999 with final testing and implementation of such systems occurring in the third quarter of 1999. Management believes that, although there are significant systems that will need to be modified or replaced, the Company's information systems environment will be made Year 2000 compliant prior to January 1, 2000. The Company's failure to timely complete such corrective work could have a material adverse impact on the Company. The Company is not able to estimate possible lost profits arising from such failure.

The Company is in the process of contacting its vendors and suppliers of products and services to determine their Year 2000 readiness and plans. This review includes third party providers to whom the Company has outsourced the processing of its cash receipt and cash disbursement transactions. The Company plans to complete this review during the fourth quarter of 1998. The failure of certain of these third party suppliers to become Year 2000 compliant could have a material adverse impact on the Company.

The Company's preliminary assessment of the total costs to address and remedy Year 2000 issues, including costs for the acquired companies, is at least $50 million. This estimate includes the costs of software and hardware modifications and replacements and fees to third party consultants, but excludes internal resources. The Company expects these expenditures to be financed through operating cash flows or borrowings, as applicable. Through March 31, 1998, the Company had expended less than $1 million related to new systems and remediation to address Year 2000 issues, of which the majority was for software licenses and was therefore recorded as capital expenditures. Of the remaining estimated expenditures, it is anticipated that approximately 25% will be incurred by year-end 1998, with the remainder in 1999. A significant portion of these expenditures will enhance the Company's operating systems in addition to resolving the Year 2000 issues. As the Company completes its assessment of the Year 2000 issues, the actual expenditures incurred or to be incurred may differ materially from the amounts shown above.

After completing the assessment of the Year 2000 on its operations, the Company plans to establish a contingency plan for addressing any effects of the Year 2000 on its operations, whether due to noncompliance of the Company's systems or those of third parties. The Company expects to complete such contingency plan by September 30, 1999; such contingency plan will address alternative processes, such as manual procedures to replace those processed by noncompliant systems, potential alternative service providers, and plans to address compliance issues as they arise. Subject to the nature of the systems and applications which are not made Year 2000 compliant, the impact of such non-compliance on the Company's operations could be material if appropriate contingency plans cannot be developed prior to January 1, 2000.

SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

See Note 10 of Notes to the condensed consolidated financial statements for information relating to, among other matters, a change in management, litigation and anticipated asset impairment, inventory reserves and related liabilities.

RESTATEMENT OF RESULTS OF OPERATIONS FOR THE THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 30, 1997 COMPARED TO THE THREE MONTHS ENDED MARCH 31, 1996

The results of operations previously reported for the three months ended March 30, 1997 as compared with the three months ended March 31, 1996 generally understated the level of expenses incurred in 1997. Gross margin was previously reported to have improved 5.8 percentage points from the level achieved in 1996. After restatement, the gross margin improvement was 2.2 percentage points. Operating income was previously reported to have improved $19.2 million or 123.9% from 1996's first quarter to the first quarter of 1997. After reflecting the results of the restatement, operating earnings were $17.1 million for the first quarter of 1997, an improvement of $1.5 million or 9.9% from the prior year. On November 12, 1998, the Company filed a Form 10-K/A setting forth its restated financial statements for December 28, 1997 and December 29, 1996, and the fiscal years then ended. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations for the fiscal years 1997 and 1998 as well as 1996 and 1995 are contained therein. (See Note 8 to the condensed consolidated financial statements.)

The Company cautions investors that any forward-looking statements made by the Company are not guarantees of future performance. Important assumptions and other important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those in the forward-looking statements with respect to the Company include, but are not limited to risks associated with (i) high leverage, (ii) Sunbeam's ability to enter into an amendment to its credit agreement containing financial covenants which it and its bank lenders find mutually acceptable, or to continue to obtain waivers from its bank lenders with respect to its compliance with the existing covenants contained in such agreement, and to continue to have access to its revolving credit facility, (iii) Sunbeam's ability to integrate the recently acquired Coleman, Signature Brands and First Alert companies and expenses associated with such integration, (iv) Sunbeam's sourcing of products from international vendors, including the ability to select reliable vendors and to avoid delays in shipments, (v) Sunbeam's ability to maintain and increase market share for its products at anticipated margins, (vi) Sunbeam's ability to successfully introduce new products and to provide on-time delivery and a satisfactory level of customer service, (vii) changes in laws and regulations, including changes in tax rates, accounting standards, environmental laws, occupational, health and safety laws, (viii) access to foreign markets together with foreign economic conditions, including currency fluctuations, (ix) uncertainty as to the effect of competition in existing and potential future lines of business, (x) fluctuations in the cost and availability of raw materials and/or products, (xi) changes in the availability and relative costs of labor, (xii) effectiveness of advertising and marketing programs, (xiii) economic uncertainty in Japan, Korea and other Asian countries, as well as in Mexico, Venezuela, and other Latin American countries, (xiv) product quality, including excess warranty costs, product liability expenses and costs of product recalls, (xv) weather conditions which can have an unfavorable impact upon sales of Sunbeam's products, (xvi) the numerous lawsuits against the Company and the SEC investigation into the Company's accounting practices and policies, and uncertainty regarding the Company's available coverage on its directors' and officers' liability insurance, (xvii) the possibility of a recession in the United States or other countries resulting in a decrease in consumer demands for the Company's products, and (xviii) failure of the Company and/or its suppliers of goods or services to timely complete the remediation of computer systems to effectively process Year 2000 information. Other factors and assumptions not included in the foregoing may cause the Company's actual results to materially differ from those projected. The Company assumes no obligation to update any forward-looking statements or these Cautionary Statements to reflect actual results or changes in other factors affecting such forward-looking statements.

PART II - OTHER INFORMATION

ITEM 1. LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

On April 23, 1998, two class action lawsuits were filed on behalf of purchasers of the Company's common stock in the U. S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida against the Company and certain of its present and former officers and directors alleging violations of the federal securities laws as discussed below (the "Consolidated Federal Actions"). Since that date, approximately fifteen similar class actions have been filed in the same Court. One of the lawsuits also names as defendant Arthur Andersen LLP, the Company's independent accountants.

The complaints in the Consolidated Federal Actions allege to varying degrees that the defendants (i) failed to disclose that the Company pre-sold approximately $50 million of products pursuant to its "early buy" marketing program in an effort to boost its 1997 sales and net income figures and (ii) made material misrepresentations regarding the Company's business operations, future prospects and anticipated earnings per share, in an effort to artificially inflate the price of the Company stock long enough for the Company to complete a $2 billion debt financing (supported with stock incentives) necessary to complete the acquisitions of Coleman, Signature Brands and First Alert, and for the individual defendants to enter into lucrative long-term employment agreements with the Company. Each complaint alleges two counts of securities fraud; one count against all defendants and one count against the individual defendants.

On June 16, 1998, the Court entered an Order consolidating all such filed and all such subsequently filed class actions and providing time periods for the filing of a Consolidated Amended Complaint and defendants' response thereto. On June 22, 1998, two groups of plaintiffs made motions to be appointed lead plaintiffs and to have their selection of counsel approved as lead counsel. On July 20, 1998, the Court entered an Order appointing lead plaintiffs and lead counsel (the "Smith Plaintiffs' Group"). This Order also stated that it "shall apply to all subsequently filed actions which are consolidated herewith". On August 28, 1998, plaintiffs in one of the subsequently filed actions filed an objection to having their action consolidated pursuant to the June 16, 1998 Order, arguing that the class period in their action differs from the class periods in the originally filed consolidated actions. On September 29, 1998, the Smith Plaintiffs' Group filed its memorandum in opposition to this objection.

On April 7, 1998, a purported derivative action was filed in the Circuit Court for the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit in and for Palm Beach County, Florida against the Company and certain of its present and former officers and directors. The action alleged that the individual defendants breached their fiduciary duties and wasted corporate assets when the Company granted stock options to three of its officers and directors on or about February 2, 1998 at an exercise price of $36.85. On June 25, 1998, all defendants filed a motion to dismiss the complaint for failure to make a presuit demand on the board of directors of the Company. On October 22, 1998, plaintiff filed an amended complaint against all but one of the defendants named in the original complaint. The amended complaint no longer challenges the stock options, but instead alleges that the individual defendants breached their fiduciary duties by failing to have in place adequate accounting and sales controls, which failure caused the inaccurate reporting of financial information to the public, thereby causing an artificial inflation of the Company's financial statements and stock price.

On June 25, 1998, four purported class actions were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County by minority shareholders of Coleman against the Company and certain of the Company's present and former officers and directors. An additional class action was filed on August 10, 1998, against the same parties. All of the plaintiffs are represented by the same Delaware counsel and have agreed to consolidate the class actions. These actions allege, in essence, that the existing exchange ratio for the proposed merger between the Company and Coleman is no longer fair to Coleman shareholders as a result of the recent decline in the market value of the Company stock. On or about October 21, 1998, the parties signed a memorandum of understanding to settle these class actions, subject to court approval.

During the months of August and October 1998, purported class and derivative actions were filed in the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware in New Castle County and in the U. S. District Court for the Southern District of Florida by shareholders of the Company against the Company, M&F and certain of the Company's present and former directors. These complaints allege that the defendants breached their fiduciary duties when the Company entered into a settlement agreement whereby M&F released the Company from any claims it may have had arising out of the Company's acquisition of its interest in Coleman and agreed to provide management support to the Company (the "Settlement Agreement"). Pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, a M&F subsidiary was granted five-year warrants to purchase up to an additional 23 million shares of the Company's common stock at an exercise price of $7.00 per share. These complaints also allege that the rights of the public shareholders have been compromised, as the settlement would normally require shareholder approval under the rules and regulations of the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE"). The Audit Committee of the Company's board determined that obtaining such shareholder approval would have seriously jeopardized the financial viability of the Company which is an allowable exception to the NYSE shareholder approval requirement. An amended complaint has been filed on this action.

On September 16, 1998, an action was filed in the 56th Judicial District Court of Galveston County, Texas alleging various claims in violation of the Texas Securities Act and Texas Business and Commercial Code as well as common law fraud as a result of the Company's alleged misstatements and omissions regarding the Company's financial condition and prospects during a period beginning May 1, 1998 and ending June 16, 1998, in which the plaintiffs engaged in transactions in the Company's stock. The Company is the only named defendant in this action. The complaint requests recovery of compensatory damages, punitive damages and expenses in an unspecified amount. This action has been removed to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas and the Company has filed a motion to transfer this case to the Southern District of Florida, the forum for the Consolidated Federal Actions. Plaintiffs have moved to remand the case to Texas state court.

On October 30, 1998, a class action lawsuit was filed on behalf of certain purchasers of the Company's Debentures in the U.S. District Court of the Southern District of Florida against the Company and its prior Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, alleging violations of the federal securities laws and common law fraud. The complaint alleges that the Company's offering memorandum used for the marketing of the Debentures contained false and misleading information regarding the Company's financial position and that the defendants engaged in a plan to inflate the Company's earnings for the purpose of defrauding the plaintiffs and others. The Company is seeking to consolidate this lawsuit with the other Consolidated Federal Actions.

The Company intends to vigorously defend each of the foregoing lawsuits, but cannot predict the outcome and is not currently able to evaluate the likelihood of the Company's success in each case or the range of potential loss. However, if the foregoing actions were determined adversely to the Company, such judgments would likely have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial position, results of operations and cash flow.

On July 2, 1998, the American Insurance Company ("American") filed suit against the Company in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York requesting a declaratory judgment of the court that the directors' and officers' liability insurance policy for excess coverage issued by American was invalid and/or had been properly cancelled by American. The Company has moved to transfer such action to the federal district court in which the Consolidated Federal Actions are currently pending; American is opposing such motion. On October 20, 1998, an action was filed by Federal Insurance Company in the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Florida requesting the same relief as that requested by American in the previously filed action as to additional coverage levels under the Company's directors' and officers' liability insurance policy. The Company intends to pursue recovery from all of its insurers if damages are awarded against the Company or its indemnified officers and/or directors under any of the foregoing actions. The Company's failure to obtain such insurance recoveries following an adverse judgement against the Company in any of the lawsuits referred to above could have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial position, results of operations and cash flow.

The Company and its subsidiaries are also involved in various lawsuits arising from time to time which the Company considers to be ordinary routine litigation incidental to its business. In the opinion of the Company, the resolution of these routine matters, and of certain matters relating to prior operations of the Company's predecessor, individually or in the aggregate, will not have a material adverse effect upon the financial position or results of operations of the Company.

IN THE FIFTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
IN AND FOR PALM BEACH COUNTY,
FLORIDA

COLEMAN (PARENT) HOLDINGS INC.,
Plaintiff,

CASE NO. CA 03-5045 AI

vs.

MORGAN STANLEY & CO., INC.,
Defendant.

COLEMAN (PARENT) HOLDINGS INC.'S MOTION FOR ADVERSE INFERENCE INSTRUCTION DUE TO MORGAN STANLEY'S
DESTRUCTION OF E-MAILS AND MORGAN STANLEY'S
NONCOMPLIANCE WITH THE COURT'S APRIL 16, 2004 AGREED ORDER

Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. ("CPH") respectfully requests that the Court instruct the jury that it can draw an adverse inference from the destruction of e-mails and other electronic documents by Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc. ("Morgan Stanley") and from Morgan Stanley's noncompliance with this Court's April 16, 2004 Agreed Order entered in response to CPH's Motion to Compel Concerning E-mails and Other Electronic Documents. Ex. A. Morgan Stanley was required by that Order to produce, by May 14, 2004, all of the responsive e-mails that survived Morgan Stanley's general destruction of e-mails in 1999. But Morgan Stanley recently has disclosed that it has failed to produce all of those e-mails, and further, has revealed that it still has backup tapes that have not even been searched — despite the fact that trial is only three weeks away. Accordingly, because of Morgan Stanley's non-compliance with this Court's Order, CPH requests that the Court instruct the jury that it can infer that the contents of the missing e-mails would be harmful to Morgan Stanley's defense in this case.

1. As this Court is aware, since the beginning of this litigation, CPH has been seeking e-mails and other materials that are relevant to the issues in this litigation. Morgan

Stanley's document custodian testified that by no later than February 1999, he had gathered files and documents in anticipation of the Sunbeam litigation. Ex. B, Plotnick Dep. at 46. At that time, Morgan Stanley also kept backup tapes of all e-mails from the previous 12 months (see id. at 64-66), so e-mails dating back to at least February 1998 should have been gathered. But instead, Morgan Stanley destroyed most or all of the 1998 e-mails concerning Sunbeam, producing only a small handful of e-mails in response to CPH's document requests.

2. Morgan Stanley's destruction of 1998 e-mails was improper for two reasons. First, throughout the relevant period, Morgan Stanley anticipated Sunbeam-related litigation — indeed, Morgan Stanley has invoked work-product immunity for documents dated as early as March 25, 1998. See Ex. C, Privilege Log at 58. Second, SEC regulations required Morgan Stanley to retain e-mails in a readily accessible fashion for at least two years. See 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-4 (1997). Morgan Stanley's violation of those regulations led the SEC to impose a $1.65 million fine against Morgan Stanley. See Ex. D, SEC Orders, Findings, and Penalties at 2, 5.

3. A long process by which CPH sought to have Morgan Stanley find and restore its lost e-mails began in October 2003, when CPH filed a motion to compel, which led to the entry of the Agreed Order at issue in this motion. Ex. A. The April 16, 2004 Agreed Order required Morgan Stanley to (1) search the oldest full e-mail backups for the Morgan Stanley employees involved in the Sunbeam transaction, (2) review e-mails dated from February 15, 1998 through April 15, 1998 and e-mails containing specified search terms such as "Sunbeam" and "Coleman" regardless of their date, (3) produce by May 14, 2004 all non-privileged e-mails responsive to CPH's document requests, (4) give CPH a privilege log, and (5) also provide CPH a certificate confirming compliance with the foregoing requirements.

4. On May 14, 2004, Morgan Stanley produced about 1,300 pages of e-mails pursuant to the Agreed Order, but provided no privilege log or certificate of compliance. See Ex. F. After repeated inquiries by CPH (see Ex. G & Ex. H), on June 23, 2004, Morgan Stanley finally produced a privilege log and a certificate. *See Ex. I.*¹

5. On November 17, 2004, more than six months after the May 14, 2004 deadline for producing e-mails in response to the Agreed Order, Morgan Stanley sent CPH a letter revealing that its June 23 certificate of compliance was incorrect. See Ex. O. The letter stated (id.):

Morgan Stanley has discovered additional e-mail backup tapes since our e-mail production in May 2004. The data on some of [the] newly discovered tapes has been restored and, to ensure continued compliance with the agreed order, we have re-run the searches described in the order. Some responsive e-mails have been located as a result of that process. We will produce the responsive documents to you as soon as the production is finalized.

The letter also foreshadowed further delays: "Some of the backup tapes are still being restored. To ensure continued compliance with the agreed order, we intend to re-run the searches again when the restoration process is complete and will produce any responsive documents that result."

Id.

6. On November 19, 2004, Morgan Stanley produced some of the new e-mails, but no privilege log. After a follow-up inquiry by CPH (see Ex. P), on December 17, 2004, Morgan

¹ The Court entered a second Agreed Order on April 16 covering e-mails in the possession of Bloomberg, Inc., a third party vendor, because several Morgan Stanley employees had used Bloomberg e-mail accounts while working on the Sunbeam transaction. See Ex. E. That Order required Morgan Stanley to produce Bloomberg e-mails within 25 days of Morgan Stanley's receipt of them from Bloomberg. Id. at 2. On July 9, 2004, Morgan Stanley produced about 20 pages of Bloomberg e-mails. See Ex. J. After an inquiry by CPH (see Ex. K), on July 19, 2004, Morgan Stanley produced a certificate of compliance, which covered some but not all of the paragraphs in the Agreed Order relating to Bloomberg. See Ex. L. On July 29, 2004, Morgan Stanley produced a certificate covering the remaining aspects of the Bloomberg Agreed Order (Ex. M), and on August 2, 2004, Morgan Stanley informed CPH that no documents had been withheld from the Bloomberg production on the basis of privilege. See Ex. N.

Stanley produced a privilege log and advised CPH that “[n]o additional responsive e-mails have been located since our November production.” Ex. Q. But Morgan Stanley refused to answer CPH’s questions about whether Morgan Stanley had restored all the backup tapes as promised in its November 17 letter and about why the tapes had only recently been located. Ex. Q.

7. On December 30, 2004, CPH sent Morgan Stanley a letter seeking confirmation that all e-mail backup tapes had been reviewed and that all responsive e-mails had been produced, and if not, asking when the review would be completed. Ex. R. On January 11, 2005, Morgan Stanley informed CPH that the “restoration of e-mail backup tapes is ongoing. Restoration of the next set of backup tapes is estimated to be completed at the end of January. We intend to re-run the searches described in the agreed order at that time.” Ex. S.

8. On January 19, 2005, CPH wrote asking Morgan Stanley to explain the circumstances under which Morgan Stanley located the recently discovered backup tapes and to disclose when the tapes were located. Ex. T. CPH also asked Morgan Stanley to explain why the next set of backup tapes could not be restored sooner. Id.

9. On January 21, Morgan Stanley sent CPH a letter that failed to answer CPH’s questions. Ex. U. Instead, Morgan Stanley described its efforts to restore the backup tapes as “ongoing;” informed CPH that “there is no way for Morgan Stanley to know or accurately predict the type or time period of data that might be recovered;” and stated that “Morgan Stanley cannot accurately estimate when all of the tapes will be restored or whether any recoverable data will be found on the remaining tapes.” Id. Ominously, the letter closed by noting that, “when the agreed-upon searches are run again,” they “will include approximately one terabyte of additional data.” Id. One terabyte equals 1 million megabytes, or about 405,000,000,000,000 pages of data.

10. More than eight months after the deadline for producing e-mails, and only three weeks before trial, Morgan Stanley has yet to comply with this Court's April 16, 2004 Agreed Order. Nor has it disclosed when it plans to comply. Morgan Stanley's disregard of the letter and the spirit of the April 16 Order should not be tolerated.

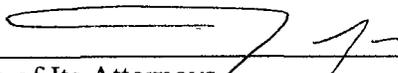

Wherefore, CPH requests that the Court instruct the jury that Morgan Stanley's destruction of e-mails and other electronic documents and Morgan Stanley's noncompliance with the April 16, 2004 Agreed Order can give rise to an adverse inference that the contents of the missing e-mails would be harmful to Morgan Stanley's defense in this case. See Amlan, Inc. v. Detroit Diesel Corp., 651 So. 2d 701, 703 (Fla. 4th DCA 1995) ("in cases in which the misconduct alleged is the destruction or unexplained disappearance of crucial evidence . . . an instruction may be given concerning the inference that the withheld or missing evidence would be unfavorable to the party failing to produce the evidence"); see also Martino v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 835 So. 2d 1251, 1257 (Fla. 4th DCA 2003) (concluding that adverse inference argument should be permitted "where potentially self-damaging evidence is in the possession of a party and that party either loses or destroys the evidence"); see also Palmas y Bambu, S.A. v. E.I. Dupont de Nemours & Co., 881 So. 2d 565, 581-83 (Fla. 3d DCA 2004) (allowing counsel to argue that the jury should draw an adverse inference from the defendant's destruction of evidence); Jordan ex rel. Shealey v. Masters, 821 So. 2d 342, 346-48 (Fla. 4th DCA 2002) ("Lawyers are entitled to argue adverse inferences from the evidence as part of their closing arguments.").

8 A. I don't think we've gotten there

10 Q. When the policy went into effect, I
11 think you said it was January, 2001?

12 A. I believe so.

13 Q. Did the company have back up of 14 e-mail from January, 1998?

15 A. I don't believe so.

16 Q. What was the most recent backup of 17 e-mail that the company had when the new 18 policy went into effect in January, 2001?

19 A. I'm not positive.

20 Q. Do you have any idea?

21 A. I believe prior to January 1, 2001,
22 e-mail was saved for a year afterwards and
23 then the tapes may have been rewritten.

3 Q. When were Morgan Stanley first

5 A. I don't know precisely.

6 Q. Do you have any general idea?

7 A. 1998 or 1999.

8 Q. When did you personally become
9 involved in Sunbeam-related litigation?

10 A. 1998 or 1999.

11 Q. Did any legal assistant at Morgan

13 Sunbeam-related litigation?

14 A. No.

15 Q. At any point were Morgan Stanley
16 employees directed to preserve any materials
17 they may have relating to Sunbeam?

18 A. I recall identifying the people who 19 were involved in the Sunbeam transaction, and 20 I directed them to send me -- I collected
21 everything, so they didn't retain it, they 22 sent it to me, all their files.

23 Q. And when did you do that?

4 A. I'm sure, I'm pretty sure that at 6 bankers.

7 Q. Was a firm-wide preservation notice
8 ever circulated directing Morgan Stanley
9 employees to preserve materials relating to 10 Sunbeam?

11 A. I'm not aware of it. We called the 12 individual bankers and other professionals who 13 were involved in Sunbeam transactions
14 directly.

15 Q. Okay. And I believe you just 16 testified that as of February of 99, that had 17 been completed?

18 A. I called the investment bankers I'm 19 pretty sure in February of 99, at least by 20 February of 99. I may have called them
21 earlier.

22 Q. Okay. How shortly after hearing of 23 Sunbeam litigation did you make those phone
24 calls?

25 A. I don't know if there was

3 colleagues to start collecting the files. But 4 I'm not aware of when I was aware of

6 but I don't think we were a party.

7 Q. And then in response to your phone
8 calls to the bankers, did you receive any 9 materials relating to Sunbeam?

10 A. Yes, I did.

11 Q. How much?

12 MR. CLARE: Which time period?

13 Q. Your initial calls, which were
14 completed at the latest I think February, 99.

15 A. How voluminous were the documents
16 directly from the bankers?

17 Q. Yes.

18 A. I don't recall, because in addition

I.

Incorporated, Salomon Smith Barney Inc., and U.S. Bancorp Piper Jaffray Inc. (collectively, "Respondents").

II.

In anticipation of the institution of these proceedings, the Respondents have each submitted Offers of Settlement ("Offers") to the Commission, which the Commission has determined to accept. Solely for the purpose of these proceedings, and any other proceedings brought by or on behalf of the Commission or to which the Commission is a party, the Respondents, without admitting or denying the findings herein, except as to the Commission's jurisdiction over them and over the subject matter of these proceedings, consent to the entry of this Order Instituting Proceedings Pursuant to Section 15(b)(4) and Section 21C of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, Making Findings and Imposing Cease-and-Desist Orders, Penalties, And Other Relief ("Order").

029347

Accordingly, it is ordered that proceedings pursuant to Exchange Act Section 15(b)(4) and Section 21C be, and hereby are, instituted.

III.

On the basis of this Order and the Respondents' Offers, the Commission finds that:

Salomon Smith Barney is a broker-dealer registered with the Commission pursuant to Section 15(b) of the Exchange Act, and is a member of NASD and the New York Stock Exchange. Salomon Smith Barney engages in a nationwide securities business.

U.S. Bancorp Piper Jaffray Inc. is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in Minneapolis, Minnesota. U.S. Bancorp Piper Jaffray engages in a nationwide securities business.

B. SUMMARY

This action concerns Respondents' violations of the record-keeping requirements of Section 17(a) of the Exchange Act and Rule 17a-4 thereunder during the period from 1999 to at least 2001 (the "relevant period"). During all or part of the relevant period, each Respondent failed to preserve for three years, and/or to preserve in an accessible place for two years, electronic mail communications (including inter-office memoranda and communications) received and sent by its agents and employees that related to its business as a member of an exchange, broker or dealer. Each Respondent lacked adequate systems or procedures for the preservation of electronic mail communications.

029348

C. FACTS

The facts specific to these proceedings are set forth below:

1. The employees of each Respondent used electronic mail communications in part to conduct the Respondent's business as a broker, dealer and member of an exchange.
2. Respondents failed to preserve copies of electronic mail communications for three years, and/or maintain electronic mail communications for the first two years in an accessible place. Respondents did not have adequate systems or procedures in place during all or part of the relevant period to retain and/or make accessible electronic mail communications. Each Respondent's failure to preserve electronic mail communications and/or to maintain them in an accessible place was discovered during investigations being conducted jointly and separately by the Commission, the New York Stock Exchange, and NASD. The deficiencies in Respondents' systems and procedures for the preservation of electronic mail communications preexisted these investigations.
3. Some Respondents backed up electronic mail communications on tape or other media that Respondents represent was part of a process designed as a disaster recovery or business continuity measure, or for another business purpose. While some Respondents relied on these backups to preserve electronic mail communications during the relevant period, Respondents had inadequate systems or procedures to ensure the retention of such back-ups for three years and/or to maintain such data in a readily accessible manner for two years. These Respondents discarded, or recycled and overwrote their back-up tapes and other media, often a year or less after back-up occurred. In those instances in which Respondents did retain electronic mail communications, those electronic mail communications were often stored in an unorganized fashion on backup tapes, other media, or on the hard drives of computers used by individual employees of Respondents. Before the filing of these proceedings, one or more Respondents took steps to develop new database systems for the retention of electronic mail communications.
4. While some Respondents relied upon employees to preserve copies of their electronic mail communications on the hard drives of their individual personal computers or elsewhere, and many e-mails were preserved, there were inadequate systems or procedures to ensure that employees did so for the requisite record-keeping period. In some instances, hard drives of computers were erased when individuals left the employment of the Respondent.

D. LEGAL DISCUSSION

Section 17(a)(1) of the Exchange Act provides that each member of a national securities exchange, broker, or dealer "shall make and keep for prescribed periods such records, furnish copies thereof, and make and disseminate such reports as the Commission, by rule, prescribes as necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of this title."

The Commission has emphasized the importance of the records required by the rules as "the basic source documents" of a broker-dealer. Statement Regarding the Maintenance of Current Books and Records by Brokers and Dealers, 4 SEC Docket 195 (April 6, 1974). The record keeping rules are "a keystone of the surveillance of broker and dealers by [Commission] staff and by the securities industry's self-regulatory bodies." Edward J. Mawod & Co., 46 S.E.C. 865, 873 n.39 (1977) (citation omitted), aff'd sub nom. Mawod & Co. v. SEC, 591 F.2d 588 (10th Cir. 1979).

Pursuant to its authority under Section 17(a)(1) of the Exchange Act, the Commission promulgated Rule 17a-4. Rule 17a-4(b)(4) in turn requires each Respondent to "preserve for a period of not less than 3 years, the first two years in an accessible place.... [o]riginals of all communications received and copies of all communications sent by such member, broker or dealer (including inter-office memoranda and communications) relating to his business as such." Rule 17a-4 is not by its terms limited to physical documents. The Commission has stated that internal electronic mail communications relating to a broker-dealer's "business as such" fall within the purview of Rule 17a-4 and that, for the purposes of Rule 17a-4, "the content of the electronic communication is determinative" as to whether that communication is required to be retained and accessible. Reporting Requirements for Brokers or Dealers under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, Rel. No. 34-38245 (Feb. 5, 1997).

Based on the foregoing and Respondents' Offers of Settlement, the Commission finds that with respect to electronic mail communications during the relevant period, each Respondent willfully violated Section 17(a) of the Exchange Act and Rule 17a-4 promulgated thereunder by failing to preserve electronic mail communications for three years, and/or by failing to preserve electronic mail communications for the first two years in an accessible place.¹

IV.

Each Respondent has undertaken to review its procedures regarding the preservation of electronic mail communications for compliance with the federal securities laws and regulations, and the rules of NASD and New York Stock Exchange. Within 90 days of the issuance of this Order, unless otherwise extended by the staff of the Commission for good cause shown, each Respondent undertakes and agrees to inform the Commission in writing that it has completed its review and that it has established systems and procedures reasonably designed to achieve compliance with those laws, regulations, and rules concerning the preservation of electronic mail communications.

V.

In view of the foregoing, the Commission deems it appropriate and in the public interest to impose the sanctions specified in Respondents' Offers.

ACCORDINGLY, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

029350

- A. Respondents, and each of them, pursuant to Section 21C of the Exchange Act, cease and desist from committing or causing any violations and any future violations of Section 17(a) of the Exchange Act and Rule 17a-4 promulgated thereunder.
- B. Respondents, and each of them, are censured pursuant to Section 15(b)(4) of the Exchange Act.
- C. Each Respondent shall, within ten days of the entry of this Order, pay the amount of $1,650,000, for a total of $8,250,000 by all named Respondents. Each Respondent shall make payment as follows: (i) pursuant to Section 15(b)(4) and Section 21B of the Exchange Act, Respondent shall pay a civil monetary penalty of $550,000 to the United States Treasury; (ii) pursuant to Respondent's agreement with NASD in related proceedings, Respondent shall pay a fine in the amount of $550,000 to NASD; and (iii) pursuant to Respondent's agreement with the New York Stock Exchange in related proceedings, Respondent shall pay a fine in the amount of $550,000 to the New York Stock Exchange. Such payment to the U.S. Treasury shall be: (A) made by United States postal money order, certified check, bank cashier's check or bank money order; (B) made payable to the Securities and Exchange Commission; (C) hand-delivered or mailed to the Office of Financial Management, Securities and Exchange Commission, Operations Center, 6432 General Green Way, Stop 0-3, Alexandria, VA 22312; and (D) submitted under cover letter that identifies the payor as a Respondent in these proceedings, the file number of these proceedings, a copy of which cover letter and money order or check shall be sent to Antonia Chion, Associate Director, Division of Enforcement, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 5th Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20549-0801.
- D. Each Respondent shall comply with the undertaking contained in Section IV., above.

By the Commission.

Jonathan G. Katz
Secretary

¹ "Willfully" as used in this Order means intentionally committing the act which constitutes the violation. See Wonsover v. SEC, 205 F.3d 408, 414 (D.C. Cir. 2000); Tager v. SEC, 344 F.2d 5, 8 (2d Cir. 1965). There is no requirement that the actor also be aware that he is violating one of the Rules or Acts.

Re: Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. v. Morgan Stanley & Co.
Morgan Stanley Senior Funding, Inc. v. MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings Inc., et al.

Dear Tom:

I write with regard to MSSF/Morgan Stanley's May 14, 2004 production of emails pursuant to Court order.

Any privilege log identifying documents withheld from that production on privilege or work product grounds was due on June 14, 2004. Are we to assume that MSSF/Morgan Stanley did not withhold any documents from that production based on the assertion of privilege? Please provide a privilege log or advise us that no documents were withheld from the May 14, 2004 production.

In addition, Morgan Stanley failed to comply with Paragraph 5 of the Court's April 16, 2004 Order, which requires a Morgan Stanley representative to "certify compliance with [the Order]" and to "identify the date of the backup utilized for each employee or former employee for whom email is being produced."

Please provide a privilege log (or advise us that no documents were withheld) and comply with Paragraph 5 of the Order by close of business on June 23, 2004, or we will be at an impasse.

Re: Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. v. Morgan Stanley & Co.
Morgan Stanley Senior Funding, Inc. v. MacAndrews & Forbes Holdings Inc., et al.

Dear Kathryn:

I write with regard to your letter dated July 9, 2004, which accompanied your production of Bloomberg emails on that date.

As we discussed on the telephone, your July 9, 2004 letter identifies production numbers 95729-95740, but your July 9 production was numbered 95709-28. When I inquired about the apparent discrepancy, you informed me that the production numbers identified in your letter mistakenly relate to a different production that Morgan Stanley has not yet made. Please produce whatever documents bear production numbers 95729-95740 by July 19, 2004.

In addition, as required by the Court's order, please provide us with a certification of the Bloomberg production by July 19, 2004.

Dear Mike:

I write in response to your July 15, 2004 letter, which does not accurately reflect our telephone conversation. As I informed you during our telephone conversation, the Bates range reflected in my July 9, 2004 cover letter enclosing the Bloomberg e-mail production was an error. That range should have read 95709-95728. MS & Co. and MSSF have no additional documents to produce.

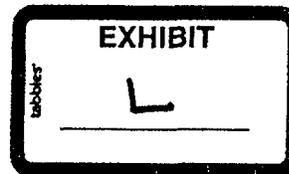

Also enclosed is a certification of compliance for paragraphs two through four of the Court's April 16, 2004 order. We will provide to you a certification of compliance for paragraph one (which will be prepared by Bloomberg or its counsel) as soon as we receive it.

Dear Mike:

I write regarding supplementation of Morgan Stanley's document production.

Morgan Stanley has discovered additional e-mail backup tapes since our e-mail production in May 2004. The data on some of newly discovered tapes has been restored and, to ensure continued compliance with the agreed order, we have re-run the searches described in the order. Some responsive e-mails have been located as a result of this process. We will produce the responsive documents to you as soon as the production is finalized.

Some of the backup tapes are still being restored. To ensure continued compliance with the agreed order, we intend to re-run the searches again when the restoration process is complete and will produce any responsive documents that result.

Sincerely,

Thomas A. Clare 1/4

Re: Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. v. Morgan Stanley & Co.

Dear Tom:

I write concerning your letter of November 17, 2004 relating to Morgan Stanley's discovery of additional emails.

In that letter, you state that Morgan Stanley located additional email backup tapes, and that you would be producing documents soon. Within two days of that letter, you produced some emails to us. In your November 17, 2004 letter, however, you also indicate that "some of the backup tapes are still being restored." Have those backup tapes been restored? Have you found additional, responsive emails? If so, when will Morgan Stanley produce those emails? How is it that the tapes were only recently located?

Finally, as required by the Court, we assume that you will produce a privilege log for any responsive emails that you withheld from your recent email production.

Very truly yours,

Michael T. Brody

Dear Tom:

I write in response to your letter dated December 17, 2004 concerning Morgan Stanley's recent production of emails.

In that letter, you state that Morgan Stanley has not located any additional, responsive emails. You do not inform us whether the review of the recently-located backup tapes still is ongoing. Please confirm that all email backup tapes from the relevant time period have been reviewed and all responsive emails have been produced. If the review still is proceeding, please let us know when the review will be completed.

Re: Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. v. Morgan Stanley & Co.

Dear Tom:

I write in response to your January 11, 2005 letter concerning e-mails back-up tapes. Unfortunately, your letter raises more questions than it answers. As I requested in my December 14, 2004 letter, please explain the circumstances under which Morgan Stanley located these backup tapes and advise us of the date on which the tapes were located.

Further, please explain your statement that that "the next set of backup tapes" is scheduled to be restored "at the end of January." How many tapes will be restored by the end of January? When exactly in January will Morgan Stanley complete the process of restoring and searching these tapes for responsive documents? Are there other backup tapes that are not yet in the process of being restored? If so, please advise us of (a) the number of tapes that are not yet in the process of being restored; (b) the time period of the data contained on those tapes; and (c) Morgan Stanley's timetable for restoring and searching those tapes. In addition, please explain why those tapes are not yet in the process of being restored. Please also explain why Morgan Stanley cannot complete the restoration and searching of all remaining backup tapes before "the end of January." As you know, our trial is scheduled to begin on February 22, 2005.

We look forward your complete response to these questions no later than January 21, 2005 so that we can bring this matter to the Court's attention, if necessary.

Very truly yours,

Michael T. Brody

Re: Coleman (Parent) Holdings, Inc. v. Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc.

Dear Mike:

I write in response to your January 19, 2005 letter regarding Morgan Stanley's production of e-mails restored from backup tapes.

Morgan Stanley completed its initial production of restored e-mail messages on May 14, 2004. The May 2004 production was conducted in accordance with the agreed-upon order governing, and the searches that resulted in that production encompassed data from all of the backup tapes known to exist at the time. Subsequent to the May 2004 production, additional tapes were found in various locations at Morgan Stanley. The discovered tapes were not clearly labeled as to their contents, were not found in locations where e-mail backup tapes customarily were stored, and many of the tapes were in a different format than other e-mail backup tapes. In November 2004, once it was determined at least some of the discovered tapes contained recoverable e-mail data, Morgan Stanley re-ran the searches described in the agreed-upon order. Those searches resulted in Morgan Stanley's November 2004 production.

Morgan Stanley's efforts to restore the backup tapes discovered after the May 2004 production are ongoing. It is a time-consuming and painstaking process and, given the absence of clear labels or other index information for the backup tapes, there is no way for Morgan Stanley to know or accurately predict the type or time period of data that might be recovered from tapes that have yet to be restored. While Morgan Stanley cannot accurately estimate when all of the tapes will be restored or whether any recoverable data will be found on the remaining tapes, we understand from Morgan Stanley that, when the agreed-upon searches are run again at the end of January, those searches will include approximately one terabyte of additional data restored since the prior production.

IN THE FIFTEENTH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT
IN AND FOR PALM BEACH COUNTY,
FLORIDA

COLEMAN (PARENT) HOLDINGS INC.,

Plaintiff,

vs.

CASE NO: CA 03-5045 AI

MORGAN STANLEY & CO. INCORPORATED,

Defendant.

MORGAN STANLEY'S OPPOSITION TO CPH'S MOTION
FOR ADVERSE INFERENCE INSTRUCTION DUE TO MORGAN STANLEY'S
DESTRUCTION OF E-MAILS AND MORGAN STANLEY'S
NONCOMPLIANCE WITH THE COURT'S APRIL 16, 2004 AGREED ORDER

Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc.'s ("CPH") motion is factually baseless and squarely contrary to settled law. CPH's conclusory allegations that Morgan Stanley destroyed e-mails relating to Sunbeam are not supported by any evidence, and its allegations that Morgan Stanley failed to comply with the April 16, 2004 Agreed Order are contradicted by the written record. Morgan Stanley has spent enormous sums to locate, restore, and produce Sunbeam-related e-mails to CPH in this litigation, as evidenced by its production of more than 9,000 pages of e-mail messages responsive to CPH's requests. Moreover, Morgan Stanley did exactly what it was supposed to do when it learned that some backup tapes had not been searched: it promptly notified CPH, began restoring the additional tapes and searching the discovered data, and produced additional responsive e-mails to CPH.

CPH's motion also runs afoul of Florida law. Florida courts have repeatedly held that the instruction sought by CPH improperly "invades the province of the jury" and constitutes reversible error where, as here, the party seeking the instruction (1) has not established the existence of any "missing" evidence; (2) has not established that the missing evidence is “essential” to its prima facie case; and (3) has not established that the evidence is missing due to an intentional or deliberate act of the opposing party. CPH has not (and cannot) establish any one of these requirements, and its motion must therefore be denied.

FACTS

1. This lawsuit arises from Sunbeam’s acquisition of The Coleman Company. The acquisition was negotiated in late 1997 and early 1998 and closed on March 30, 1998. CPH filed this lawsuit against Morgan Stanley in May 2003, more than five years after the relevant events.

2. On April 16, 2004, this Court entered an Agreed Order governing the search and production of Morgan Stanley e-mail messages restored from e-mail backup tapes. (Apr. 16, 2004 Agreed Order on CPH’s Motion to Compel Concerning E-mails & Other Elec. Docs. (“Agreed Order”).) The Agreed Order was necessary because due to the passage of time and technical limitations, Morgan Stanley only was able to reliably restore electronic documents on backup tapes created after January 2000. Nevertheless, pursuant to the Agreed Order, Morgan Stanley agreed that it would undertake an electronic search of data from the oldest available backup tapes for certain employees’ e-mail accounts, using certain agreed-upon keywords. (Id. ¶ 2.)

3. Morgan Stanley produced e-mails pursuant to the Agreed Order on May 14, 2004. Morgan Stanley’s May 14, 2004 production consisted of more than 1300 pages of responsive e-mails. (May 14, 2004 Letter from K. DeBord to M. Brody (Ex. 1).)

4. At the end of October 2004, James F. Doyle, the attorney at Morgan Stanley who directed Morgan Stanley’s prior search for e-mail messages, learned that additional e-mail backup tapes had been located within Morgan Stanley, and that the data on those tapes had not been restored or searched prior to the May 14, 2004 e-mail production. (J. Doyle Decl. ¶ 3 (Ex. 2)). Mr. Doyle directed that the electronic searches described in the Agreed Order be conducted for any backup tapes that had been restored and made searchable at that point. (Id.) Mr. Doyle further directed that the process of restoring the remaining backup tapes continue as expeditiously as possible. (Id.)

5. In early November 2004, Morgan Stanley's Information Technology Department conducted electronic searches on all e-mail data that had been restored and made searchable since May 14, 2004. (G. Jonas Decl. ¶ 2 (Ex. 3).) The results of those searches were provided to Morgan Stanley's outside counsel in mid-November. (Id.)

6. On November 15, 2004, Morgan Stanley's outside counsel first determined that the data generated by the new searches included e-mail messages responsive to CPH's discovery requests. (T. Clare Decl. ¶ 2 (Ex. 4).) Two days later, on November 17, 2004, counsel for Morgan Stanley wrote to CPH and informed it that: (1) additional e-mail backup tapes had been discovered; (2) additional responsive e-mails had been identified; and (3) e-mail backup tapes were still being restored. (Nov. 17, 2004 Letter from T. Clare to M. Brody (Ex. 5).)

7. On November 18, 2004, Morgan Stanley produced all responsive e-mails located on the backup tapes that had been restored and made searchable at that point. (Nov. 18, 2004 Letter from M. Occhuzzo to M. Brody (Ex. 6).) Morgan Stanley's November 18, 2004 production consisted of over 8,000 pages of e-mail messages.

8. Since November 2004, Morgan Stanley has worked continuously and diligently to migrate the data from the remaining backup tapes onto a searchable database. (A. Nachtigal Decl. ¶ 2 (Ex. 7).) The restoration of these tapes is still underway, but Morgan Stanley is proceeding with the restoration of the remaining tapes as quickly and accurately as possible. (Id.)

9. The restoration of the remaining backup tapes has been one of Morgan Stanley's priorities since November 2004. (Id.) However, given the technical limitations and other difficulties associated with restoring e-mail backup tapes, Morgan Stanley's Information Technology staff is unable to estimate with certainty when the data from all of the remaining backup tapes will be restored. (Id. ¶ 3.)

10. To ensure continued compliance with the Agreed Order, Morgan Stanley intends, in parallel with finalizing the restoration of the remaining tapes, to run the electronic searches described in the Agreed Order periodically as the restored data becomes available in searchable form. This process will allow Morgan Stanley to provide the results of those searches to outside counsel on a rolling basis and determine, as expeditiously as possible, whether any additional responsive e-mails exist. (Id. ¶ 4.) Morgan Stanley's technical staff estimates that the results of these searches will begin to be available on or about February 7, 2005. (Id.) Until these searches have been conducted and the resulting data reviewed by counsel, there is no way to determine whether there are any additional materials responsive to the Agreed Order. (Id. ¶ 5.)

ARGUMENT

I. THE LEGAL STANDARD

It is well-established in Florida that, except in "limited" situations not applicable here, an adverse inference instruction "invades the province of the jury" and constitutes reversible error. See Jordan ex rel. Shealey v. Masters, 821 So. 2d 342, 346-47 (Fla. 4th DCA 2002) (discussing the "limited function of the presumption"). Indeed, virtually every case cited in CPH's motion rejects the propriety of adverse inference instructions and reverses judgments entered in trials where such instructions were given. See Palmas Y. Bambu v. E.I. Dupont de Nemours & Co., 881 So. 2d 565, 580 (Fla. 3d DCA 2004) (adverse inference instruction "invaded the province of the jury and constitute[d] reversible error"); Jordan, 821 So. 2d at 348 (reversing in part on an adverse inference jury instruction which “constituted a comment on the evidence by the trial court and approval for the jury to conclude that all of that evidence would be unfavorable”); Martino v. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., 835 So. 2d 1251, 1257 n.2 (Fla. 4th DCA 2003) (conclusion that jury instruction concerning the adverse inference created by Wal-Mart’s failure to produce a shopping cart and security videotape “is not appropriate”).¹ Other Florida cases reach the same conclusion. See, e.g., Southern Pine Co. v. Powell, 37 So. 570 (Fla. 1904) (concluding that a jury instruction on the facts constituted error sufficient to warrant reversal); Bessett v. Hackett, 66 So. 2d 694, 701 (Fla. 1953) (“The rule is that the court’s instructions to the jury must not assume the truth of facts which are controverted, or impose upon either party a duty not shown by the evidence to exist.”).

The only exception to the general rule prohibiting adverse inference instructions was established (and carefully circumscribed) in Public Health Trust of Dade County v. Valcin, 507 So. 2d 596 (Fla. 1987). In Valcin, the Florida Supreme Court approved the adoption of a rebuttable presumption of negligence in a medical malpractice case where the operative notes were either missing or inadequate due to the negligence of the hospital or doctors. Id. at 599-600. The Florida Supreme Court stressed the “limited” function of an adverse inference instruction, and expressly limited such instructions to situations in which the plaintiff establishes

“to the satisfaction of the court that the absence of the records hinders his ability to establish a prima facie case.” Id. at 599.

Jordan ex rel. Shelly v. Masters establishes the rigorous showing that must be made by a party seeking an adverse inference instruction in the Fourth District. First, the party seeking an adverse inference instruction must establish that “the allegedly missing evidence should have or did exist.” Jordan, 821 So. 2d at 347. Then, the Court must determine whether the missing evidence “hindered the plaintiff’s ability to proceed.” Id. To satisfy this requirement, the Fourth District held, “Valcin requires that the missing evidence be essential to the opposing party’s prima facie case.” Id. (emphasis added).² The trial court must make both of these findings before giving an adverse inference instruction. Jordan, 821 So. 2d at 347 (reversing judgment where “the trial court . . . should have determined both issues before giving Jordan’s adverse inference instruction, but it determined neither”) (emphasis in original).

Similarly, the law is clear that an adverse inference jury instruction is not permitted where the only allegation is a failure to produce evidence. See id. at 346 (“We have found no case approving an instruction for an adverse inference to be drawn from the failure to produce evidence.”); Palmas Y. Bambu, 881 So. 2d at 581 (“Like the Fourth District, we have been unable to locate any Florida decision approving an instruction for an adverse inference to be drawn from the failure to produce nonessential evidence.”).

Finally, it is improper — and risks reversible error — to allow one party to argue to the jury an inference of misconduct, where that party has not (and cannot) show that the opposing party engaged in a pattern of discovery misconduct, committed fraud on the Court, or willfully defied a court order. Indeed, one of the primary cases cited by CPH recognizes that “[e]vidence related to the history of pretrial discovery conduct should normally not be a matter submitted for the jury’s consideration on the issues of liability.” Amlan, Inc., 651 So. 2d at 703 (citing Emerson Elec. Co. v. Garcia, 623 So. 2d 523, 525 (Fla. 3d DCA 1993)).

II. CPH HAS NOT OFFERED ANY EVIDENCE TO SUPPORT ITS CLAIMS.

CPH has had ample opportunity to develop evidence, if any existed, in support of its motion. On September 9, 2003, CPH deposed a Morgan Stanley corporate representative, John Plotnick, to address topics related to Morgan Stanley’s document collection efforts in this case, and its document retention policies for hard copy and electronic documents.³ In addition, on February 10, 2004, CPH deposed a Morgan Stanley corporate representative, Robert Saunders, regarding Morgan Stanley’s e-mail retention policies and its ability to restore e-mail. CPH also deposed numerous fact witness regarding e-mail messages. Despite these extensive discovery efforts, CPH has not offered a any evidence to support its required showing that (1) additional Sunbeam-related e-mails existed; (2) Sunbeam-related e-mails were destroyed; and (3) the “missing” Sunbeam-related e-mails are “essential” to its prima facie case.

³ CPH has cited Mr. Plotnick’s testimony for the proposition that Morgan Stanley did not retain e-mail messages from 1997 and 1998, when Morgan Stanley was not a party to any Sunbeam-related litigation. It is absurd for CPH to attempt to make an issue of Morgan Stanley’s retention of e-mail when, by its own admission, CPH has never enacted or enforced a written document retention policy to prevent destruction of relevant documents, including emails, by its employees. See Part III.

A. There Are No “Missing” E-Mails

CPH argues — without any evidentiary support whatsoever — that “Morgan Stanley destroyed most or all of its 1998 e-mails concerning Sunbeam.” (Jan. 26, 2005 CPH’s Mot. for Adverse Inference Instruction Due to MS Destruction of E-Mails and MS’s Noncompliance with the Court’s Apr. 16, 2004 Agreed Order at 2 (“Mot.”).) As “proof” of this allegation, CPH states that Morgan Stanley produced “only a small handful of e-mails in response to CPH’s document requests.” (Id.) But this is a gross mischaracterization of Morgan Stanley’s prior production. Morgan Stanley has produced more than 9,000 pages of e-mail. (See Facts ¶¶ 3, 7.) Virtually all of these e-mails “concern Sunbeam,” and many are from the relevant 1997 and 1998 time period.

CPH’s motion misleadingly describes, again without any evidentiary support, a “general destruction of e-mails in 1999” (Motion at 1) and refers, without any explanation, to a industry-wide 2002 settlement with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) (Id. at 2). CPH juxtaposes these arguments in an attempt to create the false impression that the SEC fined Morgan Stanley for destroying e-mail messages. That is not the case. The SEC settlement, which was industry-wide, addressed only the failure of certain registered broker-dealers, including Morgan Stanley, to comply with regulatory requirements that require broker-dealers to preserve certain electronic communications for a three-year period, and to preserve those electronic communications for the first two years in a readily accessible place.⁴ Nothing in the SEC settlement supports a “general destruction of e-mails in 1999,” or any inference that any Sunbeam-related e-mails were ever destroyed.

Simply put, conclusory allegations are not enough. If CPH believes it has evidence that additional Sunbeam-related e-mails existed and were destroyed, it should have provided that evidence in its motion. Otherwise, its motion is deficient and must be denied. See Jordan, 821 So. 2d at 347 (finding reversible error where a negative inference instruction was given and the requesting party “failed to offer any evidence to support the existence of the videotape”). CPH has not offered any such evidence here, and its motion should be denied on this ground alone.

B. CPH Is Not Entitled To An Adverse Inference Instruction Based On Materials That Might Exist On The Tapes Still Being Restored

CPH argues that a negative inference is warranted because Morgan Stanley produced additional responsive e-mails in November 2004 and is still in the process of restoring and searching e-mail backup tapes that were not identified or searched as part of Morgan Stanley’s May 14, 2004 e-mail production. But Morgan Stanley did exactly what a responsible litigant is supposed to do when it discovers the existence of additional materials that are (or may be) responsive to an opposing party’s discovery requests or a court order. As set forth in detail above, Morgan Stanley’s in-house and outside counsel: (1) notified CPH that Morgan Stanley had discovered additional potentially responsive materials; (2) searched restored data for responsive emails; (3) produced responsive documents; and (4) took affirmative steps to continue the process of restoring the remaining tapes. (See Facts ¶¶ 6-8.) Clearly, no adverse inference instruction is warranted under these circumstances.

CPH next argues that an adverse inference instruction is warranted because responsive materials might exist on backup tapes that are still in the process of being restored. First, such an assertion is purely speculative. Until the data from those tapes is restored, searched, and received by counsel, there is no way to determine whether the additional tapes contain any responsive materials. (See Facts ¶ 10.) Second, even if the contents of the additional tapes were known, such allegations are insufficient, as a matter of Florida law, to entitle CPH to the instruction it seeks. See Jordan, 821 So. 2d at 346 (holding it was reversible error to give adverse inference instruction and noting that “[w]e have found no case approving an instruction for an adverse inference to be drawn from the failure to produce evidence”).

Morgan Stanley has worked hard and with great diligence to complete the restoration of the additional backup tapes located since its May 14, 2004 production, and it expects that data from those tapes will begin to be available for review. If and when additional responsive e-mails are located, Morgan Stanley will promptly produce them. But there is no basis — in fact or in law — for CPH to bootstrap the mere possibility that additional responsive e-mails exist into an entitlement to an adverse inference instruction.

C. CPH Has Not Offered Any Proof That “Missing” E-Mails Are “Essential” To Its Prima Facie Case.

“Valcin requires that the missing evidence be essential to the opposing party’s prima facie case.” Jordan, 821 So. 2d at 347. Here, CPH has offered no evidence whatsoever regarding the subject matter of the allegedly “missing” e-mails, no explanation how the allegedly “missing” e-mails might relate to the subject matter of this lawsuit, and no argument as to how such e-mails are “essential” to its ability to establish its prima facie case. These defects are fatal to CPH’s motion. See Palmas Y. Bambu, 881 So. 2d at 580-81 (finding reversible error where a negative inference instruction was given and the requesting party “has not demonstrated an inability to proceed without the [missing] evidence”); Bulkmatic Transport Co. v. Taylor, 860 So. 2d 436, 449 (Fla. 1st DCA 2003) (instruction improper where plaintiff’s ability to establish prima facie case is not hindered by the absence of evidence).

III. CPH'S OWN FAILURE TO RETAIN E-MAILS PRECLUDES THE ADVERSE INSTRUCTION IT NOW SEEKS.

It is absurd for CPH to attempt to make an issue of Morgan Stanley's retention of e-mail when, by its own admission, CPH has never enacted or enforced a written document retention policy to prevent destruction of relevant documents, including emails, by its employees and has maintained a policy of recycling its own e-mail backup tapes every month — even after it threatened Sunbeam with a lawsuit, even after its executives became named parties to litigation related to the Sunbeam/Coleman transaction, even after it sued Arthur Andersen, and even after the onset of litigation in the present case. (See Sept. 15, 2003 Fasman Dep. at 31, 49 (Ex. 8); MS 1 (Ex. 9).)

CONCLUSION

CPH's motion invites the Court to commit reversible error at a critical stage of the case. Morgan Stanley has produced thousands of e-mails, and it acted reasonably and expeditiously when additional potentially responsive materials were discovered. CPH failed to offer any evidence to support the existence of additional Sunbeam-related e-mails, the destruction of a single Sunbeam-related e-mail, or its inability to present a prima facie case without them. Accordingly, its motion should be denied.

Dear Mike:

I write regarding supplementation of Morgan Stanley's document production.

Morgan Stanley has discovered additional e-mail backup tapes since our e-mail production in May 2004. The data on some of newly discovered tapes has been restored and, to ensure continued compliance with the agreed order, we have re-run the searches described in the order. Some responsive e-mails have been located as a result of this process. We will produce the responsive documents to you as soon as the production is finalized.

Some of the backup tapes are still being restored. To ensure continued compliance with the agreed order, we intend to re-run the searches again when the restoration process is complete and will produce any responsive documents that result.

DECLARATION OF ALLISON GORMAN NACHTIGAL

1. I am Allison Gorman Nachtigal. I am an Executive Director in Morgan Stanley's Enterprise and Client Technology Division in New York, New York. In that capacity, I have personal knowledge of the matters set forth herein.

2. Since November 2004, Morgan Stanley has worked continuously and diligently to migrate the data from the additional e-mail backup tapes onto a searchable database. Morgan Stanley is proceeding with the restoration process as quickly and accurately as possible. The restoration of those tapes has been one of my priorities.

3. Given the technical limitations and difficulties associated with restoring e-mail backup tapes, Morgan Stanley's Information Technology staff is unable to estimate with certainty when the data from all of the remaining e-mail backup tapes will be restored. To ensure continued compliance with the April 16, 2004 Agreed Order ("Agreed Order"), Morgan Stanley intends, in parallel with finalizing the restoration of the remaining tapes, to run the electronic searches described in the Agreed Order periodically as the restored data becomes available in searchable form. This process will allow Morgan Stanley to provide the results of those searches to outside counsel on a rolling basis.

4. I estimate that the results of the parallel searches described in Paragraph 3 will begin to be available on or about February 7, 2005. In my judgment and experience, this approach is the fastest way to determine whether any of the restored additional tapes include materials responsive to the Agreed Order.

5. Until the searches described in Paragraph 3 have been conducted and the resulting data reviewed by counsel, there is no way to determine whether the restored tapes include materials responsive to the Agreed Order.

UNDER PENALTY OF PERJURY, I HEREBY DECLARE THAT THE FOREGOING IS TRUE AND CORRECT.

Material Redacted Without Prior Determination of Protectability by Court

MORGAN STANLEY'S MOTION IN LIMINE (NO. 22)
TO EXCLUDE TESTIMONY AND EVIDENCE
REGARDING PREJUDGMENT INTEREST

Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc. ("CPH") has disclosed that it intends to offer expert testimony endeavoring to

Under Florida law, the Court — not experts and not the jury — ultimately computes prejudgment interest. In fact, such computation occurs only after the jury renders its verdict. The Court therefore should preclude CPH from introducing any testimony, evidence, or argument to the jury regarding prejudgment interest.

In support of its position, Morgan Stanley states as follows:

CPH damages expert Blaine F. Nye, Ph.D., in his report dated December 7, 2004,

KJM

FILED

05 FEB 14 PM 4: 12

SHARON BOCK, CLERK
PALM BEACH COUNTY, FL
CRIMINAL DIVISION

031565

2. “[T]he assessment of prejudgment interest is a ministerial act, a mathematical calculation, to be performed by the trial judge after the jury renders its verdict.” Bennett v. Morales, 845 So. 2d 1002, 1004 (Fla. 5th DCA 2003) (citing Argonaut Ins. Co. v. May Plumbing Co., 474 So. 2d 212 (Fla. 1985); Maingate Dev., Inc. v. Lakeview Mktg. Group, Inc., 758 So. 2d 1290, 1291 (Fla. 4th DCA 2000)). See generally 17 Fla. Jur. 2d Damages § 90 (2004) (same).

3. The award of prejudgment interest, which is based on statutory interest rates, is strictly a “matter of law.” Argonaut, 474 So. 2d at 215. “There is no ‘finding of fact’ needed.” Id. Thus, CPH’s presentation of expert testimony to a jury regarding prejudgment interest calculations would be a wholly improper usurpation of the Court’s post-verdict ministerial function and would run contrary to controlling Florida law. Id.

4. In addition, introducing such evidence would confuse the jury and cause unfair prejudice. Morgan Stanley would be forced to cross-examine a non-lawyer expert witness on a matter of law. And the jury likely would be influenced by improperly inflated figures and perplexed by what to do with the prejudgment interest figures. Given the Florida Supreme Court’s acknowledgement of the “conflict and confusion in the treatment of prejudgment interest” by courts as a matter of law, id. at 213-14, CPH’s groundbreaking attempt to have the jury usurp the Court’s ministerial function would only exacerbate that confusion.

5. Moreover, Dr. Nye’s computation is self-contradictory and completely at odds with Florida law, which states that prejudgment interest is not triggered until damages are liquidated, i.e., the date certain that CPH suffered an actual, fixed loss. Id. at 215.

Dr. Nye's inconsistent analysis in this case only reinforces why the Florida Supreme Court observed that "tort claims are generally excepted from the rule allowing prejudgment interest, primarily because tort damages are generally too speculative to liquidate before final judgment." Lumbermens Mut. Cas. Co. v. Percefull, 653 So. 2d 389, 390 (Fla. 1995) (citing Parker v. Brinson Constr. Co., 78 So. 2d 873, 875 (Fla. 1955)).

6. Here, the Court must protect and retain its ministerial role and only address prejudgment interest in the event the jury were to render a verdict awarding compensatory damages. Until then, the Court should bar CPH from introducing testimony and evidence that will only lead to juror confusion.

NOT A CERTIFIED COPY

031567

WHEREFORE, Morgan Stanley respectfully requests that this Court preclude CPH's witnesses and attorneys from introducing any evidence, testimony, and argument to the jury regarding the applicability or amount of prejudgment interest in CPH's damages claim.

MOTION IN LIMINE NO. 21 TO PERMIT CROSS-EXAMINATION OF ARTHUR ANDERSEN LLP WITNESSES REGARDING SUNBEAM'S FINANCIAL CONDITION

Before any Andersen witness has been called to testify, and without knowing the precise scope of any such witness' direct examination, Morgan Stanley is asking for this Court for a broad license to cross-examine any Andersen witness called during CPH's case-in-chief about a wide array of matters relating to: (1) Sunbeam's financial condition while Morgan Stanley was advising Sunbeam; (2) Andersen's 1996 and 1997 audits of Sunbeam; and (3) Andersen's restatement of Sunbeam's 1996 and 1997 financial results. Morgan Stanley's request, which amounts to an attempt by Morgan Stanley to try its case in CPH's case, is both premature and without merit.

First, contrary to Morgan Stanley's contention (at ¶ 7), it is impossible at this point to rule that the broad areas of cross-examination that Morgan Stanley wishes to explore would be within the scope of CPH direct examination because no one has testified yet. If Mr. Bornstein were to testify and confine his testimony to the incident at the printer, for example, clearly, the broad areas of inquiry identified by Morgan Stanley would be beyond the scope of the direct examination. This is a matter on which this Court cannot rule in a vacuum without having heard the direct testimony involved.

Second, contrary to Morgan Stanley's assertion that the subjects it has identified for cross-examination "bear directly on the credibility of [Andersen] witnesses" (at ¶ 9), Morgan Stanley has not begun to tie any of the potential Andersen witnesses to any purported wrongdoing. And even if the potential witnesses were involved in the wrongdoing in some way, Morgan Stanley has not shown that such evidence would be proper cross-examination.

Third, Morgan Stanley's motion should be rejected for one more reason: Morgan Stanley has subpoenaed the Andersen witnesses and can present them in its own case. So if Morgan Stanley truly wishes to explore in detail Sunbeam's finances and Andersen's role in various audits, and to attempt to challenge the creditability of the Andersen witnesses by delving into issues that are unrelated to the scope of CPH's direct examinations, Morgan Stanley is free to do so in its case. Morgan Stanley, however, should not be allowed to obstruct and confuse the presentation of CPH's proofs by questioning witnesses about matters that fall well outside CPH direct examination.

WHEREFORE, for the foregoing reasons, CPH requests that this Court deny Morgan Stanley's motion in limine No. 21 concerning the cross-examination of Arthur Andersen LLP witnesses.

MORGAN STANLEY'S COMBINED OPPOSITION TO CPH'S MOTIONS AND REQUESTS FOR DOCUMENTS RELATING TO WILLIAM STRONG

Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc.'s ("CPH") has filed four related motions and discovery requests to obtain documents relating to the exoneration of William Strong from accusations made against him in 1998 in Italy involving a 1992 transaction when he was an employee of Salomon Brothers. The accusations have been a matter of public record since at least late 1998, and have been of record before the NASD since Mr. Strong filed his Form U-4 in November 2001. Notwithstanding the public nature of the allegations, CPH waited nearly two years to discover this information — after the close of discovery and only days before trial.

The Court should deny discovery and related matters for three reasons. First, contrary to CPH's assertion, the new documents CPH seeks were not covered by CPH's prior document requests. Second, CPH's request is egregiously untimely, as it falls two and one-half months outside of the close of fact discovery, and CPH has provided no grounds whatsoever for re-opening discovery two weeks before trial. Third, the documents at issue have no possible relevance to any issue in this case because they relate to an accusation made after the Sunbeam-Coleman transaction about events that occurred in Italy before William Strong's employment at Morgan Stanley, and Strong was acquitted of the charge on the merits and absolved of any and all wrongdoing.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

1. On October 8, 1998, William Strong committed for trial in an Italian court of law on a charge of contributing toward causing the carrying out of the crime of corruption. (See Feb. 9, 2005 CPH's Motion to Compel Prod. of Doc. Relating to William Strong ("Mot. to Compel") at Ex. B.)

2. On November 10, 1998, Bloomberg published an article reporting that William Strong had been ordered to stand trial in Italy on corruption-related charges relating to his position as head of the European investment banking branch of Salomon Brothers.

3. On June 18, 2001, Mr. Strong filed a Uniform Application for Securities Industry Registration or Transfer on Form U-4 with the National Association of Securities Dealers ("NASD"). In this form, Mr. Strong disclosed that on October 8, 1998, an Italian Magistrate Judge in Milan charged him with "contributing toward causing the carrying out of the crime of corruption." (See Mot. to Compel at Ex. B.)

4. On January 8, 2003, the Court of Appeal of Milan absolved Mr. Strong of the crime for which he was charged "on the grounds that he did not commit the crime." (See Mot. to Compel at Ex. D.)

5. On May 8, 2003, CPH filed suit in the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit for Palm Beach County, Florida against Morgan Stanley Inc. alleging, inter alia, fraudulent and negligent misrepresentation in connection with Morgan Stanley's role in Sunbeam's March 1998 acquisition of the Coleman Company. CPH has repeatedly alleged that Mr. Strong has a propensity for "bad acts."

6. On May 9, 2003, CPH filed its First Request for Production of Documents. Request No. 44 called for "[a]ll documents concerning employment contracts, performance evaluations, and/or personnel files (including without limitation any documents that describe or discuss the training, experience, competence, and accomplishments) of all Morgan Stanley personnel who performed services for or on behalf of Sunbeam in 1997 or 1998.” (May 9, 2003 Plaintiff’s First Req. for Prod. of Docs., Req. 44 (Ex. 1).) In accordance with the Court’s March 3, 2004 Order, Morgan Stanley searched for and produced documents responsive to CPH’s Request No. 44.

7. On December 4, 2003, CPH deposed Mr. Strong in Chicago, Illinois. At no time during the deposition was Mr. Strong asked if he had ever been charged with or convicted of a crime.

8. In its October 14, 2004 Order Concerning Pretrial Schedule And Following Case Management Conference, this Court provided for the close of fact discovery on November 24, 2004.

9. After the close of discovery, between December 6 and December 14, 2004, CPH was given the opportunity to depose four of Morgan Stanley senior executives, Joseph Perella, Robert Scott, Tarek Abdel-Meguid, and Bruce Fiedorek, who either reviewed Mr. Strong as part of Morgan Stanley’s personnel evaluation process or who served as Mr. Strong’s evaluation director. Despite ample opportunity, at no time did counsel for CPH ever ask the deponents whether they knew if Mr. Strong had ever been charged with or convicted of a crime.

10. Commencing on February 4, 2005, CPH filed numerous motions and discovery related requests to obtain documents relating to the charges brought against Mr. Strong in Italy in 1998. (See Feb. 4, 2005 CPH’s Tenth Request For Production of Documents; Feb. 5, 2005, Plaintiff’s Notice to Produce At Trial; Feb. 9, 2005 Mot. to Compel; Feb. 9, 2005 CPH’s Motion To Advance Morgan Stanley’s Time For Answering CPH’s Tenth Request For Production (“Mot. to Advance Time”).)

11. On February 18, 2005, jury selection for this action begins.

ARGUMENT

12. CPH has had nearly two years to investigate its case and take discovery of Morgan Stanley. On February 4 — less than three weeks before the trial is set to begin and less than two weeks before the Pretrial Conference — CPH served a Tenth Request for Production of Documents (“Tenth Request”) on Morgan Stanley that has no colorable relevance to any issue in this case, and a simultaneous motion to accelerate Morgan Stanley’s response to its requests. This discovery request was then followed by a Notice to Produce At Trial and a Motion to Compel Production of Documents. Morgan Stanley opposes CPH’s untimely gamesmanship and cross-moves the Court to strike many of the various motions and requests. This Court should not permit CPH to interfere with Morgan Stanley’s trial preparation at the eleventh hour when CPH could have requested the document during discovery, but did not, and when the documents are not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence in the case. Fla. R. Civ. P. 1.280(b)(1).

I. CPH Did Not Request The Documents At Issue Or Inquire About The Italian Proceeding During Discovery.

13. In support of its Motion to Compel and Motion to Advance Time, CPH erroneously states that, “Morgan Stanley has improperly withheld documents responsive to document requests made on May 9, 2003.” (Mot. to Compel at 1; see id. at 5 (indicating that the requested documents were responsive to CPH’s First Request for Production No. 44).) This statement is plainly false.

14. CPH’s First Request for Production No. 44 requests, “[a]ll documents concerning employment contracts, performance evaluations, and/or personnel files (including without limitation any documents that describe or discuss the training, experience, competence, and accomplishments) of all Morgan Stanley personnel who performed services for or on behalf of Sunbeam in 1997 or 1998.” (May 9, 2004 Plaintiff’s First Req. for Prod. of Docs. at Req. 44 (Ex. 1).) Morgan Stanley objected to this request, CPH filed a motion to compel, which the Court granted in part and denied in part. (June 25, 2003 Morgan Stanley Objs. to Pls. First Req. for Prod. of Docs. at Resp. 44 (Ex. 2); March 3, 2004 Order Granting in Part & Denying In Part Pl.’s Mot. to Compel Prod. of Docs. Relating To Employee Performance.)

15. The Court’s March 3, 2004 Order required Morgan Stanley to produce “documents responsive to Plaintiff’s May 9, 2003 Request to Produce number 44 for the Morgan Stanley employees who worked on the 1997-1998 Sunbeam-related engagements. Specifically, Morgan Stanley shall produce, for those employees and for the time period from 1992 through and including 1998:

- (a) All references (positive or negative) to work performed by the employee on Sunbeam - related engagements and/or to the general quality of work performed in 1997 and/or 1998.
- (b) All references (positive or negative) to the employee’s performance in fee generation.
- (c) All references (positive or negative) to the employee’s performance of due diligence activities, regardless of whether designated specifically as such.
- (d) All references (positive or negative) to the employee’s truthfulness, veracity, or moral turpitude.”

(March 3, 2004 Order at 2.)

16. In accordance with the Court’s Order, Morgan Stanley searched for and produced documents responsive to CPH’s Request No. 44. Morgan Stanley limited the scope of its search, as the Order directed, to “documents responsive to CPH’s Request No. 44.” Morgan Stanley searched for documents “concerning employment contracts, performance evaluations, and/or personnel files” and produced those documents to CPH.

17. CPH now argues that documents not concerning Mr. Strong's "employment contracts, performance evaluations, and/or personnel files" should have been produced in response to this request and the Court's Order. In support of this argument CPH cites a November 10, 1998 Bloomberg article in which a Morgan Stanley employee states that, "Based on the firm's (own) investigation, we have no reason to believe that William Strong engaged in any wrongdoing in connection with this matter." Contrary to CPH's unsupported assertion, whatever documents in Morgan Stanley may have outside of the requested "employment contracts, performance evaluations, and/or personnel files" relating to an investigation in which Morgan Stanley concluded Mr. Strong had committed no wrong would be outside the scope of CPH's Request No. 44 and outside of the Court's March 3, 2004 Order.

18. CPH concedes as much by the fact that it served new, totally different requests in its Tenth Request.

II. CPH Cites No Good Cause For The Court To Re-Open Discovery On The Eve Of Trial.

19. CPH's virtually concedes the untimeliness of its discovery requests. The Court's October 14, 2004 Order Concerning Pretrial Schedule And Following Case Management Conference provides for the close of fact discovery on November 24, 2004.¹ CPH attempts to gloss over the fact that its requests would have had to be served over three months ago in order to fall inside the discovery cut-off. CPH does not directly address the untimeliness issue other than to say that CPH “recently obtained information” and more specifically, “on January 25, 2005, counsel for CPH obtained a copy of a November 10, 1998 Bloomberg article” that led it to desire additional documents related to Mr. Strong. (Mot. to Compel at 1.)

¹ Despite the fact that CPH seeks to ignore the discovery cut-off now that it is convenient, CPH sought to use the cut-off to complain that Morgan Stanley was untimely in seeking leave of Court to take the deposition of Mr. Donald Uzzi. In CPH's Response To Morgan Stanley's Motion For Leave To Take Deposition of Donald R. Uzzi, CPH stated explicitly: "Given that this litigation has been pending since May 2003, and given Morgan Stanley has known about Uzzi's role in the underlying events since the beginning, CPH questions whether Morgan Stanley could have sought Uzzi's deposition sooner." (Dec. 21, 2004 CPH's Resp. To Morgan Stanley's Mot. For Leave To Take Dep. of Donald R. Uzzi at 1.) In this instance, therefore, CPH is hoisted with its own petard.

20. The fact that CPH chose not to do its investigation of Mr. Strong during the discovery period, or before his deposition (Dec. 4, 2003) and the depositions of Strong’s evaluators, Joseph Perella, Robert Scott, Tarek Abdel-Meguid,, and Bruce Fiedorek (Dec. 6-14, 2004) is no reason to re-open fact discovery now. Morgan Stanley should not be required to submit to new discovery in the midst of its trial preparation merely because CPH failed to obtain the November 10, 1998 Bloomberg article in the six and one-half years since its publication or ask the right questions in its depositions.

21. CPH’s transparent admission that it desires additional discovery merely because it “recently obtained” public information available to CPH during the entire discovery period is mandates that the motion be denied.²

III. Strong’s Italian Charge And Acquittal Are Irrelevant, Highly Prejudicial And Misleading.

22. In its Motion to Compel, CPH admits, as it must, that Mr. Strong was absolved of the charges against him “on the ground that he did not commit the crime for which he was charged.”³ (Mot. to Compel at 3.) This admission is fatal to CPH’s motion.

² Discovery is a two way street. If the Court is inclined to re-open fact discovery two weeks before trial — rewarding CPH for its procrastination and delay in conducting its investigation of this case and requiring Morgan Stanley to divert resources from trial preparation — then Morgan Stanley has its own additional sets of document requests, interrogatories and requests for admissions that it will serve on CPH.

23. To get the discovery CPH seeks — even if the discovery were timely, which it is not — CPH must demonstrate that the evidence is relevant to the subject matter of this action. See Fla. R. Civ. P. 1.280(b)(1). The Florida Evidence Code defines relevant “evidence as evidence tending to prove or disprove a material fact.” Fla. Evid. Code § 90.401. The fact that William Strong “did not commit the crime for which he was charged” is the end of the story. Mr. Strong’s acquittal on the merits means that the charge and the proceedings in Italy cannot prove or disprove any material fact in this case. See Fla. Evid. Code § 90.401. Florida law is clear: “[E]vidence of crimes for which a defendant has been acquitted is not admissible in a subsequent trial.” State v. Perkins, 349 So. 2d 161, 164 (Fla. 1977); see also Metropolitan Dade County v. Wilkey, 414 So. 2d 269, 271 (Fla. 3d DCA 1982) (“An indictment is an accusatory pleading; pleadings are not admissible in evidence to prove or disprove a fact in issue.”) (internal citations omitted).

24. CPH tries to make an end-run around this unequivocal Florida law by muddying the waters and reframing the relevant issue in terms of Morgan Stanley’s state of mind. CPH asserts that “Morgan Stanley’s knowledge of and response to those 1998 circumstances, regardless of the exoneration by the appellate court in 2003, are pertinent to Morgan Stanley’s state of mind concerning Strong’s conduct in the time period relevant to this litigation.” (Mot. to Compel at 3.). At its root, CPH’s theory sounds in negligent entrustment; but CPH has not pled negligent entrustment or vicarious liability. In fact, it would have been impossible for CPH to have negligently entrusted the Sunbeam engagement to Mr. Strong based on Morgan Stanley's knowledge of the Italian indictment because Mr. Strong was not indicted until October 8, 1998, over six months after the closing of the Sunbeam — Coleman transaction. (See Mot. to Compel at Ex. B.)

25. But even if CPH's pleadings were not deficient as a matter of law, evidence of Mr. Strong's acquittal would nonetheless remain irrelevant to any material fact at issue in this case. CPH claims that "[i]f Morgan Stanley knew of the allegations and chose to ignore them, or investigated the allegations, concluded they were well-founded, and nevertheless continued to entrust Strong with important corporate responsibilities, such circumstances are clearly indicative of a reckless disregard for the interests of third parties relying on Morgan Stanley's corporate integrity." (Mot. to Compel at 3.)⁴

26. CPH's theory requires evidence of two things: first, that Strong committed certain bad acts in Italy over a decade ago while employed by another investment banking firm; and second, that Morgan Stanley knew or should have known of these bad acts at the time it assigned Strong to the Sunbeam engagement. But because Strong "did not commit the crime for which he was charged," CPH's theory falls apart. And because Mr. Strong was not even charged with any crime until after the Sunbeam transaction closed, Morgan Stanley could not have known about the Italian indictment until after Mr. Strong's involvement with the transaction had already come to an end.

⁴ Evidence that is barred by Florida law from being used directly against Mr. Strong cannot be used against others even further removed who might merely have knowledge of the wrongful indictment or acquittal.

27. In addition, CPH argues that the Italian charge and acquittal might be relevant “[i]f Morgan Stanley knew of the allegations and chose to ignore them, or investigated the allegations, concluded that they were well-founded, and nevertheless continued to entrust Strong with important corporate responsibilities.” (Mot. to Compel at 3.) This argument for hypothetical relevance is nothing more than smoke and mirrors given CPH’s acknowledgement of Morgan Stanley’s 1998 statement that, “[b]ased on the firm’s (own) investigation, we have no reason to believe that William Strong engaged in any wrongdoing in connection with this matter.” (Mot. to Compel at Ex. A).

28. As a matter of law, Morgan Stanley cannot be found negligent in assigning the wrongfully accused Mr. Strong to the Sunbeam engagement. CPH clearly seeks this evidence for the sole improper purpose of misleading or prejudicing the jury against Mr. Strong on the grounds of the false charge alone. This is precisely what the Florida legislature intended to prevent when it barred such evidence through Fla. Evid. Code § 90.403. See Brown v. State, 719 So. 2d 882 (Fla. 1998) (“‘Unfair prejudice,’ contemplated in evidentiary rule excluding relevant evidence outweighed by danger of unfair prejudice, means undue tendency to suggest decision on an improper basis, commonly, though not necessarily, an emotional one.”). This evidence lacks any potential probative value, and is highly likely to mislead the jury and unfairly prejudice Morgan Stanley and Mr. Strong. See Fla. Evid. Code § 90.403; Morowitz v. Vistaview Apartments, Ltd., 613 So. 2d 493 (Fla. 3d DCA 1993), review denied, 626 So. 2d 210 (Fla. 1993).

29. Thus, any evidence of the accusations against Mr. Strong and his later acquittal are inadmissible under Florida evidentiary rules and highly irrelevant to any issue the jury will be asked to decide in the case. The only reason CPH is pursuing this “evidence” is to prejudice the jury against Mr. Strong and Morgan Stanley.

CONCLUSION

Morgan Stanley cannot be blamed for the fact that CPH failed to avail itself of public information and failed to serve its new discovery requests within the discovery period. CPH’s requests are untimely and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence in the case. Accordingly, the Court should enter an Order: (i) Striking CPH's Feb. 4, 2005 Tenth Requests for Production of Documents as untimely and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence; (ii) Denying CPH's Feb. 9, 2005 Motion to Advance Morgan Stanley's Time for Answering CPH's Tenth Request for Production; (iii) Denying CPH's Feb. 9, 2005 Motion to Compel Production of Documents Related to William Strong; and (iii) Striking Plaintiff's Feb. 5, 2005 Notice to Produce at Trial these same documents.

Plaintiff,

v.

MORGAN STANLEY & CO., INC.,

MORGAN STANLEY & CO. INCORPORATED'S OBJECTIONS TO COLEMAN (PARENT) HOLDINGS, INC. FIRST REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS

Pursuant to Rules 1.280 and 1.350 of the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure, defendant, Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated ("MS & Co.") hereby interposes the following objections to Coleman (Parent) Holdings, Inc.'s ("CPH") First Request for Production of Documents ("Request for Production").

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

The following general objections apply to all specifications of CPH's Request for Production. Each General Objection is hereby incorporated in the response to each request herein as if fully set forth:

1. MS & Co. objects to the entire Request for Production on the ground that discovery at this stage of the litigation would result in unnecessary burden and expense to MS & Co. On June 25, 2003, MS & Co. filed a Motion to Dismiss Or In the Alternative For Judgment on the Pleadings that is potentially dispositive of all of CPH's claims and will allow the Court to objects to this request because it is duplicative of other document requests, including, but not limited to Request Nos. 49 and 59.

MS & Co. further objects to this request on the ground that it is an overbroad request for documents for entities other than MS & Co. and Morgan Stanley Senior Funding.

DOCUMENT REQUEST NO. 43

All documents concerning MS & Co.'s policies, procedures, manuals, guidelines, reference materials, or checklists that were in effect from and including January 1, 1997 through and including December 31, 1998 for the performance of due diligence, including without limitation due diligence performed in connection with underwriting the sale of equity or debt securities.

MS & Co.'s Objections:

MS & Co. objects to this request to the extent that it is vague, ambiguous, over broad and unduly burdensome. To the extent that it seeks documents concerning MS & Co.'s policies, procedures, manuals, etc... for the performance of due diligence other than that due diligence performed in the course of MS & Co.'s engagement for Sunbeam, the request is requesting documents which are irrelevant to this litigation and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. MS & Co. further objects to this request to the extent that it seeks the production of documents which do not exist.

Subject to and without waiving its specific or general objections, MS & Co. will, if necessary following the Court's determination of the pending case-dispositive motions, endeavor to produce any non-privileged documents in its possession, responsive to this request.

DOCUMENT REQUEST NO. 44

All documents concerning employment contracts, performance evaluations, and/or personnel files (including without limitation any documents that describe or discuss the training, experience, competence, and accomplishments) of all MS & Co. personnel who performed services for or on behalf of Sunbeam in 1997 or 1998.

MS & Co.'s Objections:

MS & Co. objects to this request to the extent that it seeks documents which are protected by the attorney-client, attorney work product, other common law or statutory privileges, or which are otherwise immune from discovery. MS & Co. expressly reserves the right to assert any and all common law or statutory privileges to which MS & Co. and its attorneys are entitled under applicable law.

This request seeks to compel production of personnel files and performance evaluations of individual MS & Co. employees that are neither relevant to CPH's claims nor reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence and, in addition, would unnecessarily infringe on the privacy interests of those employees.

MS & Co. will not produce documents responsive to this request.

DOCUMENT REQUEST NO. 45

All documents concerning MS & Co.'s performance evaluation criteria or guidelines in effect from and including January 1, 1997 through and including December 31, 1998.

MS & Co.'s Objections:

MS & Co. objects to this request in that it seeks the production of documents which are irrelevant to this litigation and not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.

MS & Co. will not produce documents responsive to this request.

DOCUMENT REQUEST NO. 46

All documents concerning MS & Co.'s compensation criteria or guidelines in effect from and including January 1, 1997 through and including December 31, 1998.

MORGAN STANLEY'S SUPPLEMENTAL OPPOSITION TO CPH'S MOTION FOR ADVERSE INFERENCE INSTRUCTION

INTRODUCTION

As ordered by the Court, Morgan Stanley now has processed and produced responsive emails from the additional tapes. Moreover, the testimony of witnesses deposed pursuant to the Court's Order shows that Morgan Stanley acted with good faith and diligence in searching for and processing data from these tapes.

I. CPH'S MOTION IS MOOT BECAUSE THE TAPES HAVE NOW BEEN PROCESSED AND THE RESPONSIVE E-MAILS HAVE NOW BEEN PRODUCED.

During the February 2, 2005 hearing on CPH's motion for an adverse inference instruction, this Court recognized that "it would be a mistake to impose evidentiary sanctions when if we wait two weeks we'll know whether there's any prejudice or not. I mean we've come this far. I'm not interested in doing that." (Ex. 1, 2/2/05 Tr. at 150). That is precisely the case.

Since the hearing on February 5th, Morgan Stanley has reviewed thousands of e-mails for privilege and responsiveness and has produced a total of 21 documents. (Ex. 2, T. Clare Aff. at ¶ 6) Out of these 21 documents, 10 are exact duplicates of documents previously produced to CPH. (Id. at ¶ 6(a)) One of the 21 documents contains the same text as an e-mail document Morgan Stanley previously produced to CPH but bears a different date. (Id. at ¶ 6(b)) Two of the 21 e-mails are duplicates of each other with the only difference that they contain a message that the e-mail was not delivered to one of the intended recipients. (Id. ¶ 6(c)) One of the 21 e-mails is a computer-generated e-mail message informing the recipient that Sunbeam made a public form 10-K/A filing. (Id. at ¶ 6(d)) And two more of the 21 documents are substantial duplicates of e-mails Morgan Stanley already produced to CPH with the only slight difference being the inclusion of a reply message. (Id. at ¶ 6(e))

As a result, Morgan Stanley produced only 8 documents that contain e-mail threads that were not produced, in whole or in substantial part, to CPH. (Id. at ¶ 7) And none of the e-mail threads in this production are dated between February 1998 and April 30, 1998. (Id. at ¶¶ 7-8)

II. THE EVIDENCE IS CLEAR THAT THE LAWYERS IN THIS LITIGATION WERE RESPONSIBLE FOR SPEEDING UP THE PROCESSING OF THE TAPES AT ISSUE

Affidavit of Counsel

Morgan Stanley has previously submitted an affidavit of James F. Doyle, the lawyer with responsibility for the Coleman case, attesting that it was only at the end of October, 2004, that he first “learned that additional e-mail backup tapes had been located within Morgan Stanley, and that the data insert on those tapes had not been restored or searched prior to Morgan Stanley’s May 14, 2004 e-mail production.” (Ex. 3, Doyle Aff. at ¶ 3) He further states that “[u]pon learning that information, I directed that the electronic searches described in the April 16, 2004 Agreed Order be conducted for any backup tapes that had not been restored and made searchable at that point, and that the process of restoring the remaining backup tapes continue as expeditiously as possible.” (Doyle Aff. at ¶ 3) From this October discovery by Mr. Doyle, Morgan Stanley outside counsel reviewed the output of this work and produced the first batch of additional documents in November. The reason that the outside counsel and the in-house lawyer responsible for this case did not learn until October/November of a limited number of additional backup tapes is because of a series of missteps by a Morgan Stanley employee, issues that did not come to light until after he was placed on administrative leave in August 2004. The employee is Arthur Riel, who was the architect of Morgan Stanley's newly implemented optical disk e-mail archivel system. Unknown to Morgan Stanley, this employee took advantage of access to the emails of other employees. (Ex. 4, 02/09/05 A. Gorman Dep. at 13). His replacement, Ms. Allison Gorman, discovered a number of issues with Mr. Riel's work in connection with the email archiving project—problems which hampered her ability to more quickly process the emails into the archive system.

The Testimony of Allison Gorman – Replacement for the Employee Placed on Administrative Leave

As described by Ms. Gorman, Mr. Riel and his team were placed on administrative leave for taking advantage of access to people's emails without authorization. (Gorman Dep. at 12-13) She took over certain of his responsibilities in August of 2004 and brought in her own team. The result was a nearly complete turnover in the entire group responsible for setting up and using Morgan Stanley's archive system to review e-mails. (Gorman Dep. at 13-14) Mr. Riel's team designed the tools that allowed the archive system to be searched. (Gorman Dep. at 28) When Ms. Gorman's team took over the system in 2004, they were faced with lots of time sensitive and critical issues left from Mr. Riel's performance. (Gorman Dep. at 51) She discovered that the system was out of disk space, that the code which was written to allow searches to be run had technical issues, and the system was dangerously close to not capturing live content. (Gorman Dep. at 52) Throughout September and October,

031392

Ms. Gorman and her team worked diligently to try to correct these issues. Ms. Gorman and her team were able to create “space” for additional archives in October 2004 with the purchase of new hardware which allowed them to store more data. (Gorman Dep. at 53) Allowing the system to run out of space was one of the problems that occurred under Mr. Riel. (Gorman Dep. at 58) In addition, Mr. Riel did not keep a proper development environment, such that when the new group took over they did not know where the source codes used to run the system were located. (Gorman Dep. at 58).

One of the issues facing Ms. Gorman was a large amount of data in the “staging area.” The “staging area” is a part of the e-mail archive system that is used after backup tapes are processed by a third-party vendor, National Data Conversion, Inc. (“NDCI”) The data returned from NDCI is stored in this “staging area” until the system is properly programmed to allow the new data to be migrated into the e-mail archive. Because of the numerous challenges she faced in just keeping the current system operating when she first came on the job, Ms. Gorman did not make the processing of data in the “staging area” a priority until after an October meeting with Morgan Stanley’s counsel. (Gorman Dep. at 64-65, 69-70) After her conversations with counsel, Ms. Gorman made it a priority to ensure that all data currently in the “staging area” would be migrated to the e-mail archive system as soon as possible. (Gorman Dep. at 66-67)

Among the data in the “staging area” at this time, were e-mails harvested from backup tapes in a security room in Brooklyn. (Gorman Dep. at 65-66) The total data in the staging area was approximately 600 gigabytes of data. (Gorman Dep. at 66-67) There would have been no way for Ms. Gorman to migrate this data from the “staging area” in August 2004 because of the instability and lack of space in the system at that time. (Gorman Dep. at 55) As noted above, Ms. Gorman and her team worked diligently in August, September and October to correct these issues.

Processing the data required the use of scripts, which are computer programming “that index the context on [Morgan Stanley’s] database” that assist in inserting the data into Morgan Stanley’s file system.¹ (Gorman Dep. at 39-40) The data in the “staging area” could not be completely migrated into the e-mail archive system because of problems with the “scripts” needed to complete the task. (Gorman Dep. at 67) Ms. Gorman’s predecessor had not properly documented where the “scripts” were located and they could not be found until November 2004 - - where they were found in a completely different directory than would be expected. (Gorman Dep. at 70-71) When Ms. Gorman’s team tested these “scripts,” they realized they did not process the data in the “staging area” correctly. (Gorman Dep. at 71) Ms. Gorman and her team did more testing on the scripts in December and by January had completely debugged the system by recoding the piece that was not working properly. On January 14, 2005, Ms. Gorman’s team started processing the data. (Gorman Dep. at 71)

Simply put, Ms. Gorman and her team worked diligently to correct the issues that they inherited from a previous team. Ms. Gorman was provided with all the resources she needed to complete the task. Processing e-mail into the e-mail archive system is a time-consuming and technical task. Indeed, it would take anyone doing the work two to three months to even get up to speed on the various technicalities inherent in the project. (Gorman Dep. at 71)

Mr. Riel's responsibilities included apprising legal staff of the existence of emails on back-up recovery tapes. But this was another of his failings. He learned of the existence of additional tapes in approximately May of 2004 and learned that they contained email in July 2004, but it was only after his departure, and replacement by Ms. Gorman that legal staff learned of the existence of additional backup tapes that needed to be migrated onto the e-mail archive system. (Doyle Aff. at ¶ 3; Gorman Dep. at 69-70) After learning that there was additional data that needed to be migrated into the e-mail archive system, Morgan Stanley's in-house legal staff made sure that the IT staff understood that this task needed to be completed accurately and as soon as practicable. (Doyle Aff. at ¶ 3.)

III. ALTHOUGH MORGAN STANLEY'S INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY DEPARTMENT EXPERIENCED SOME SET-BACKS IN ITS ATTEMPT TO COMPREHENSIVELY IDENTIFY, AND RETRIEVE BACKUP E-MAILS FROM BEFORE 2003, THE EVIDENCE SHOWS IT SUCCESSFULLY IMPLEMENTATED A NEW AND IMPROVED MIGRATION SYSTEM

Development of the Email Archive System

On April 16, 2004, this Court entered an Agreed Order governing the search and production of Morgan Stanley e-mail messages restored from e-mail backup tapes. The Agreed Order was necessary because due to the passage of time and technical limitations, Morgan Stanley only was able to reliably restore electronic documents on backup tapes created after January 2000. Nevertheless, pursuant to the Agreed Order, Morgan Stanley agreed that it would undertake an electronic search of data from the oldest available backup tapes for certain employees' e-mail accounts, using certain agreed-upon keywords.

031395

Before this Agreed Order, Morgan Stanley, for reasons unrelated to this particular litigation, had set in motion a process by which it could more efficiently and quickly restore and review these older backup tapes -- those from before January 1, 2003. Discussed more fully below, these efforts coincided with the requirements outlined in the Agreed Order.

As background, beginning in the 2001 and 2002 timeframe, Morgan Stanley frequently received "ad hoc requests" to search its backup tapes for e-mail responsive to various and sundry litigation and regulatory matters. (Ex. 5, 02/10/05 Saunders Dep. at 11, 48) In response to these requests, Morgan Stanley used its in-house resources to retrieve e-mails from backup tapes that it believed captured data relevant to the particular litigation or regulatory matter at issue. The result, however, was that the Company was often unsuccessful in retrieving significant data, often reinvented the wheel -- searching time and again the same backup tapes on an individual basis -- and often did so at a pace perceived by the Company to be too slow to satisfy its legal and regulatory obligations. (Saunders Dep. at 48)

As a result of these inefficiencies, the company implemented what it believed at the time were two improvements to the retrieval and review process. First, Morgan Stanley contracted with an outside vendor, NDCI, to extract from raw backup tapes (known as "DLT Legato tapes") relevant information and place that information on a SDLT tape. NDCI would then return those tapes to Morgan Stanley's back-up and restore group ("BURP"), which would arrange to load the SDLTs onto a disk and into a staging area where Arthur Riel's group would take over and further process the tapes. Morgan Stanley implemented this process because it believed it would allow it to "more expeditiously provid[e] search capability of e-mail prior to

2003 for litigations or for regulatory requests.” (Saunders Dep. at 11, 17)² This e-mail restoration project is what is referred to as the “migration process.” (Saunders Dep. at 6-8)

The second improvement related to the uploading and review of those tapes. As noted earlier, Arthur Riel, on behalf of the company, had designed a program that Morgan Stanley at the time believed would allow the Company to upload information into a searchable archive system where, with search terms, Morgan Stanley could locate potentially relevant e-mails housed anywhere in the ENTIRE e-mail backup collection. (Saunders Dep. at 11 (noting the benefits of a “comprehensive” process)) No longer would individual tapes have to be searched; instead, ALL e-mails collected in Morgan Stanley backup tapes would be housed in an archived and searchable database.

The Migration Process From December 2003 to May 2004

The migration process for these DLT Legato tapes began in approximately December, 2003. (Saunders Dep. at 10) Morgan Stanley monitored this process through a group dubbed the E-mail Archive group, comprised of representatives from BURP, Arthur Riel’s group and NDCI. For a period of time, the group met almost every week to review and record its own progress. (Saunders Dep. at 16; Ex. 6, 02/10/05 Seickel Dep. at 88-89.)

The process began with the BURP group. It brought back backup tapes being housed at Recall, its outside storage vendor, and forwarded those tapes to its e-mail retrieval vendor, NDCI. At the beginning of the process, Morgan Stanley had approximately 35,000 backup tapes at Recall, which it endeavored to bring back and forward to NDCI. The backup

² Morgan Stanley has identified both Glenn Seickel, the operational manager of BURP, and his boss, Robert Saunders, as individuals with knowledge about this process. Both have been deposed.

tapes were at Recall because Morgan Stanley had sent them there over the course of the past several years as part of its standard backup business practices. (Saunders Dep. at 34.) At the time, Morgan Stanley believed that the 35,000 tapes represented the complete universe of Morgan Stanley backup tapes. (Saunders Dep. at 35.)

With the approximately 35,000 tapes in hand, NDCI worked on retrieving and deduping e-mail data from the tapes during the early months of 2004. Although this process was fraught with problems (broken tapes, read errors, etc.), NDCI was able to report by May 6, 2004, that it had finished processing 32,832 of 35,000 tapes, resulting in the restoration of 114 SDLTs. (MS 0112286, attached as Ex. 7) As Robert Saunders noted, by the summer of 2004, the “project had been moving along . . . at a run rate capacity.” (Saunders Dep. at 16.) And NDCI’s performance had been “timely” and “very satisfactory.” (Saunders Dep. at 89) Pursuant to the Morgan Stanley protocol, these tapes were then placed in a staging area where Arthur Riel’s group was tasked with the responsibility of uploading the data into the new optical disc e-mail archive system for review.

The Brooklyn Tapes

Although Morgan Stanley believed during this early phase of the restoration process that it had identified all the backup tapes that needed to be converted (i.e., those that had, over time, been sent to Morgan Stanley’s Recall off-site facility), on or around May 6, 2004, over a thousand additional unlabeled DLT tapes were found in a security room in Brooklyn. (Saunders Dep. at 33-34.) According to Glenn Seickel, a facilities worker at the security room alerted John Pamula, a member of the E-Mail Archive group, that tapes had been found and needed to be moved. Pamula then notified Mr. Seickel. (Seickel Dep. at 37) Being unlabeled, it was unclear how old these tapes were, whether the tapes contained e-mails, and whether those emails were recoverable. The tapes were found in a bin in a cage in a locked room. (Seickel Dep. at 43.) After this discovery, the BURP group did a sweep and physically looked for any additional tapes that may have been missed or misplaced. (Saunders Dep. at 32, 37-38; Seickel Dep. at 44.) They found none.

Having found these "Brooklyn" tapes, Morgan Stanley tasked John Pamula, a contract employee from Siemens, to ship them to NDCI for processing. (Ex. 8, May 20, 2004 Minutes; 0112291) By June 18, 2004, the minutes to the E-mail archive group meeting reflect that these additional tapes (determined to number 1423 DLTs) had, in fact, been shipped to NDCI for processing. (Ex. 9, June 18, 2004 Minutes, 0112296) It is not clear when NDCI finished restoring and converting these tapes to SDLTs, but a mid-summer e-mail from NDCI's Bruce Buchanan to Arthur Riel suggests that by July 2, 2004, NDCI had restored at least some of the tapes and determined that 90 of those found in Brooklyn contained e-mails. Of the 90, Buchanan was able to determine dates for four of those tapes, three of the four falling in the May or August, 1999 timeframe, and one in 2001. (Ex. 10; MS 0112327) By July 2, 2004, NDCI had not yet identified any tapes with e-mails dated from February 15th to April 15th, 1998 -- the relevant timeframe identified in this Court's April Order.

By July 16, 2004, NDCI reported that it had identified an additional 22 tapes that contained e-mails data, bringing the total tally to 112 DLTs that contained e-mail data (Ex. 11, MS 0112889). The processed data from these tapes were in the staging area when Arthur Riel ~~was dismissed for integrity issues~~ placed on administrative leave in August 2004. (Gorman Dep. at 66-67)

The 8 mm Tapes

In addition to the Brooklyn tapes, there were also 738 8 mm tapes that were not uploaded into the e-mail archive system until ~~the Fall~~^{February} of 2004. Like the Brooklyn tapes, these tapes were placed at the end of the NDCI processing queue, and their processing progress was tracked during each of the E-mail archive meetings. (See, e.g., Ex. 12, MS 0112286, 0112291, 0112296, 0112301, 0112306, 0112311, 0112312, 0112313, 0112314) As Allison Gorman noted, once the script problems with the archival system were resolved, these tapes were promptly reviewed and any responsive documents produced.

¹⁶⁹The 168 Tapes Found at Recall

In November or December, 2004, Glenn Seickel and John Pamula came to believe that there might be some backup tape containers at Recall that had not yet been processed by NDCI. (Seickel Dep. at 64-66) They learned this after identifying some discrepancies between boxes retrieved from Recall and those on the Recall Inventory List. (Id.) Legal counsel was alerted within no more than two days. (Seickel Dep. at 65) By ~~and January~~^{February}, NDCI had processed the tapes found within these misplaced boxes and returned them to Morgan Stanley for uploading and archival review. (Seickel Dep. at 74).

CONCLUSION

The Morgan Stanley E-mail Restoration And Review Process was a major undertaking, and has been a success. It has resulted in the production of thousands of pages of email messages in this litigation. The fact that the tapes found in the Brooklyn security room, the 8 millimeter tapes, and the tapes at Recall yielded virtually nothing is testament that Morgan Stanley was right in its prioritization, organization and processing of tapes as a part of the comprehensive E-mail Restoration and Review Process. Moreover, rather than delaying the processing of tapes potentially relevant to this case, the Morgan Stanley lawyers actually sped up the processing of those tapes. Accordingly, Plaintiff's motion should be dismissed as moot and without merit.

1 BE IT REMEMBERED that the
2 foregoing proceedings were had before the HONORABLE
3 ELIZABETH T. MAASS, in Chambers, in the Palm Beach
4 County Courthouse, West Palm Beach, Florida, on
5 Wednesday, February 2, 2005, starting at 9:21 a.m.,
6 with appearances as hereinabove noted, to wit:

7 * * *

8 MR. IANNO: I hope the schedule we 9 proposed to the court --

10 THE COURT: Some of them I didn't think
11 would take as long to argue as I guess you
12 guys think it would take. But I guess
13 we'll find that out as we get in. And we 14 can't start tomorrow until 2:30; is that 15 right?

16 MR. IANNO: There's two motions in 17 limine we can start earlier, but the three 18 Coleman motions we have to wait because of 19 availability after 2:30. But what we 20 proposed to do, Judge, if it's okay with 21 you, is to argue the two motions from 22 yesterday this morning.

23 THE COURT: Right.

24 MR. IANNO: We've agreed, as I think we 25 conveyed to your office, on the motion to

1 remove the confidentiality designations so
2 there's no argument necessary on that.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MR. IANNO: And then if we can come
5 back at 1:30, 2:00 o'clock this afternoon,
6 we can argue the two Morgan Stanley
7 motions in limine, and Mr. Bemis can be 8 here to argue the remaining motions after 9 2:30.

10 THE COURT: Wait. Today or tomorrow?
11 I'm confused.

12 MR. IANNO: Today.

13 THE COURT: Then what are we doing
14 tomorrow?

15 MR. IANNO: Then we have four motions in 16 limine tomorrow.

17 THE COURT: I had three motions in 18 limine tomorrow and that we couldn't do
19 until 2:30; is that right?

20 MR. IANNO: It's three. But we can
21 start those at 1:30 tomorrow, I think. I
22 believe that's what my letter says.

23 THE COURT: You'll have to look at your 24 letter. I'll be right back. And then
25 we'll be straight.

031405

1 (A recess was taken from 9:22 a.m. to
 2 9:33 a.m.)
 3 THE COURT: Okay. Where -- first of all,
 4 did we figure out what we're doing?
 5 MR. IANNO: Yes. This is what happens
 6 when a lawyer types a document, judge.
 7 The 2:30 reference was supposed to refer
 8 to the motions that immediately preceded 9 it, not the Thursday afternoon. For some 10 reason on the fax copy it printed twice.
 11 What we had intended was we had listed
 12 five motions for this afternoon.
 13 THE COURT: At 2:30.
 14 MR. IANNO: No, three of them -- three
 15 of them are Coleman motions. Since
 16 Mr. Bemis is arguing those motions, he 17 wasn't going to be prepared to argue those 18 until 2:30. Mr. Clare and I are prepared
 19 to argue the Morgan Stanley motion first.
 20 That's why we suggested probably
 21 2:00 o'clock argue those motions.
 22 MR. SCAROLA: We don't have any problem
 23 with that.
 24 MR. IANNO: And tomorrow we can start
 25 at 1:30 or whatever time the court

1 prefers.
 2 THE COURT: Sure.
 3 MR. SCAROLA: Let me introduce
 4 Joanne Sweeney.
 5 THE COURT: Good morning.
 6 MR. SCAROLA: Joanne's name may be
 7 familiar to you from having reviewed the 8 Downey transcript. She's the attorney from 9 Jenner & Block who represented the 10 plaintiffs in that deposition.
 11 MR. CLARE: Mr. Doyle.
 12 MR. SCAROLA: Doyle, yes. Doyle,
 13 Downey. This is --
 14 THE COURT: What is this?
 15 MR. SCAROLA: This is the agreed order
 16 on the confidentiality issue.
 17 THE COURT: Don't we have to give the 18 clerk directions, then? I mean, this
 19 doesn't tell the clerk what to do.
 20 MR. SCAROLA: Actually, I think all
 21 that we would need to do is to file the 22 unredacted copies.
 23 THE COURT: Okay. You want me just to 24 add that?
 25 MR. SCAROLA: That will be fine.

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

8

1 THE COURT: Plaintiff shall file the
 2 unredacted copies referred to in the 3 motion.
 4 MR. IANNO: That's fine.
 5 MR. SCAROLA: That works. Thank you.
 6 MR. IANNO: It's not that it's
 7 insubstantial, I guess.
 8 MR. SCAROLA: It is not insubstantial.
 9 THE COURT: They don't even send me
 10 files anymore. I hate to think what 11 volume we're up to. Okay. Would you put 12 this... While I'm thinking about it, when 13 do we want to go down to the jury assembly
 14 room just so I can let them know?
 15 MR. SCAROLA: Whenever it's convenient.
 16 THE COURT: Do you want to do it with 17 Mr. Bemis?
 18 MR. SCAROLA: Pardon me?
 19 THE COURT: Do we want to do it with 20 Mr. Bemis? Does he care?
 21 MR. IANNO: He will be here this
 22 afternoon, judge. We can do it later this
 23 afternoon. We can do it sometime
 24 tomorrow.
 25 THE COURT: Okay. I'll check with them

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

031406

1 within the law department since October of
2 2000. He tells us at page 12, actually
3 the bottom of page 11 and the top of page
4 12 that his preparation for the deposition
5 as corporate representative consisted of a
6 two-hour meeting with litigation counsel
7 that occurred the day before the 8 deposition was taken.

9 At pages 15, 41, 42, 67 and 147, and
10 I'll refer to those briefly as we go
11 through the deposition, he makes it very 12 clear that apart from that two-hour
13 meeting he has done nothing else to inform 14 himself in order to be in a position to 15 speak on behalf of the corporation with 16 regard to each of the documents that had 17 been previously designated and about which 18 testimony was to be taken.

19 He describes at page 15 his 20 understanding of the responsibility that 21 he has undertaken as corporate
22 representative and says, "My understanding
23 is that I am to testify on behalf of the 24 corporation as to authenticity and
25 authorship."

1 Again, at page 13 he's directly asked,
2 line 13, "Other than your meeting with
3 counsel where you reviewed documents did
4 you do anything else to prepare for 5 today's deposition?"

6 And he answers, "No."

7 He subsequently refuses to answer
8 questions as a corporate representative as 9 to anything except authenticity and 10 authorship. And an example of where that 11 occurs is at page 29 of the deposition
12 where at line 3 he says, "As I testified
13 earlier, it's my understanding that I was 14 here to discuss authorship and 15 authenticity."

16 Question, "Are you refusing to answer
17 the question about whether this was the 18 regular practice of Morgan Stanley to 19 create this document?"

20 Answer, "I can answer the question in 21 my personal capacity." And then his 22 answer is, "I don't know."

23 And you will see as we go through the 24 deposition that Mr. Doyle draws a
25 distinction between responses that he is

1 providing as corporate representative and
2 responses that he is providing personally.
3 But with regard to both responses that he
4 provides in his capacity as a corporate
5 representative and with regard to 6 responses that he provides personally, he
7 refuses to disclose attorney-client
8 privileged communications when the only
9 preparation he did was to consult with 10 litigation counsel. And he refuses to 11 disclose any work product basically
12 asserting that the personal knowledge that 13 he has is as a consequence of work that he
14 performed in contemplation of litigation.
15 So inquiry is shut off both with regard to 16 his role as a corporate representative on 17 the basis of attorney-client privilege and 18 with regard to personal knowledge on the 19 basis of attorney-client privilege and 20 work product.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. SCAROLA: Moving on, he makes it
23 clear that what he knows is limited solely 24 and exclusively to what he has read in the 25 depositions in this case. If you take a

1 look at the exchange that occurs beginning
2 at -- well, let's take it from page 17,
3 line 12, he's asked, "Other than the fact
4 that it says Morgan Stanley, do you know
5 what that is?"

6 Answer, "I don't."

7 "Do you know how that appears on
8 documents?"

9 Nope.

10 And we're talking about the footer, the 11 computer footer on the document. "This 12 document was drafted by Morgan Stanley; is 13 that correct?"

14 Answer, "Can I see our response to the 15 request for admissions?" RFA is request
16 for admissions.

17 "Let me ask you why you need to see the 18 response to the RFAs. I'm asking you
19 independently as you sit here today."

20 Answer, "Independently as I sit here
21 today?"

22 Question, "Did Morgan Stanley draft
23 that document?"

24 Answer, "If you're asking me in my 25 personal capacity, I have no idea."

031407

1 Question, "I'm not asking you into your
2 personal capacity, sir. I'm asking you in
3 your representative capacity as a
4 representative of Morgan Stanley as you've
5 been identified as the person
6 knowledgeable about these documents."

7 Going down to line 22, "Without looking 8 at the response to the RFAs but before
9 looking at that sir, without looking at 10 the response to the RFAs, do you know
11 whether Morgan Stanley drafted that
12 document?"

13 Answer, "I don't know."

14 He then refers to deposition testimony
15 at least at the following pages and 16 basically says, his answer is I refer to 17 whatever deposition testimony exists with 18 regard to this point, but I can't tell you
19 what the depositions are or what they say.
20 I'm just telling you if there's deposition
21 testimony, that's what I refer to.

22 Now if you go to page 52, there's a
23 very interesting exchange that occurs with 24 regard to what Mr. Downey means when
25 Mr. Downey says I refer to deposition

1 testimony, beginning at line four,
2 question, "Just so we can clear this up,
3 we obviously today can't go through every
4 deposition that has been taken in this
5 case or we would be here for a long time.
6 What I think I understand you saying is 7 you are not going -- you're not going to 8 contradict something that was said about
9 these documents in deposition testimony
10 if something was said about a document.
11 Is that true or am I understanding that 12 incorrectly?"

13 Response, "Let me answer it this way.
14 I have no personal knowledge as to any 15 document in this litigation. So,
16 accordingly, if there has been deposition
17 testimony taken by counsel for CPH as to 18 these documents during the pendency of 19 this litigation, then I would refer to 20 that deposition testimony. If counsel for 21 CPH has not taken testimony as to this 22 document, then I am without knowledge as 23 to any particular document."

24 Go to page 45, then, if you would,
25 Actually at the bottom of page 44. "I'm

1 going to represent to you that Mr. Webber
2 testified that this document was prepared
3 by or created by Morgan Stanley. Mr. Yoo
4 testified that this was Morgan Stanley's
5 description of Sunbeam and its situation,
6 and Mr. Burchill testified that it was
7 definitely a Morgan Stanley document.
8 Accepting that for purposes of my
9 question, does that change at all your
10 testimony with regard to whether, you
11 know, whether someone from Morgan Stanley
12 typed the document?"

13 Answer, "It doesn't because I would 14 have to see the deposition testimony in 15 its entirety as well as the deposition
16 testimony of other witnesses from Morgan
17 Stanley who testified as to this
18 document".

19 Now the entire purpose of obtaining the 20 order from the court to have a corporate
21 representative designated to be deposed
22 with regard to these issues was because of 23 the inadequacy of the responses that we 24 had received both in depositions and in 25 response to the request for admissions.

1 That was the -- that was the issue that
2 was specifically argued before Your Honor
3 in support of our motion to compel the 4 testimony of a corporate representative
5 with regard to these issues in order to 6 establish a predicate.

7 And when they produce someone, we have
8 someone who tells us the only thing I did
9 to prepare for this deposition was to talk
10 to counsel; I reviewed depositions; I know
11 there was some things in the depositions
12 about these documents, and those
13 depositions say whatever they say, but I'm 14 not even prepared to accept what those 15 depositions say even when it's our own
16 witnesses.

17 We wasted our time, and the defendant
18 failed to comply in good faith with an 19 express order of the court that obviously 20 was intended to get to the substance of 21 issues with regard to admissibility.

22 Now Your Honor already focused at the 23 time we briefly began the hearing on this 24 motion on the misinterpretation of this 25 court's order upon which the defendant

031408

1 proceeded. It was clearly the intent of
2 the court, regardless of what ambiguity
3 may have existed in the actual language of 4 the order entered, it was the intent of 5 the court that we were to have an
6 opportunity to examine a corporate
7 representative with regard to those issues
8 necessary to establish the predicate for 9 the admissibility of specified documents
10 as business records. And we were clearly
11 frustrated in our effort to be able to do
12 that.

13 Moving on, it is absolutely clear
14 beginning at page 41 that there was no
15 investigation --

16 THE COURT: Can I just ask them first
17 whether they disagree with what you said?

18 MR. SCAROLA: Yes.

19 THE COURT: Was there any sort of 20 misinterpretation of my order?

21 MR. IANNO: I don't believe so, judge.
22 I think the fundamental problem and the 23 overriding issue that has to be determined
24 by this court is what is the scope of a
25 1.310 (b)(6) deposition.

1 THE COURT: That's fine. I mean, I'm
2 looking at the order myself. It's the
3 December 3rd order, and it said you had to 4 produce a deposition witness in accordance
5 with CPH's notice of taking depositions.

6 Then it said the date. To be deposed on 7 the listed topics. By listed topics I
8 obviously meant the topics listed in the 9 request for admission. I mean, that's --

10 MR. IANNO: And those topics are 11 authenticity, business record and 12 authorship.

13 THE COURT: No.

14 MR. IANNO: It says authenticity,
15 source, creation, use, maintenance and 16 business purpose. That's the deposition
17 notice, judge.

18 THE COURT: Do you have a copy of the 19 deposition notice?

20 MR. IANNO: It's Tab 4 of our binder,
21 judge.

22 THE COURT: Thank you.

23 MR. IANNO: And it's paragraph one of 24 Exhibit A.

25 THE COURT: But we agree it was much

1 subjects?

2 MR. IANNO: To the extent the
3 corporation has knowledge.

4 THE COURT: We're arguing about that.

5 MR. IANNO: That's really the issue.
6 That's what we're arguing about.

7 THE COURT: But we agree that's what
8 was ordered.

9 MR. SCAROLA: So let's get to that 10 issue about whether the corporation has 11 knowledge and this corporate
12 representative reasonably determined
13 whether the corporation had knowledge.
14 Page 41.

15 THE COURT: Let me go back to the depo.
16 Okay.

17 MR. SCAROLA: Do you know, and I'm just 18 picking up --

19 THE COURT: What line are you at?

20 MR. SCAROLA: I'm at line three. "Do
21 you know whether a document like this 22 without those two things on it is in 23 Morgan Stanley's files or on its computer
24 system?"

25 The answer is on line 19, "I don't 031409

1 know. I can endeavor to find out, but I
 2 don't know sitting here today."
 3 Question, "If on CPH Exhibit 9 in the 4 lower left-hand corner that is a Morgan
 5 Stanley word processing stamp, do you
 6 believe that you would be able to search
 7 on the computer and find that document?"
 8 The answer is at line 13, "I don't
 9 know, but, again, we can endeavor to find
 10 out."

11 The same kind of exchange occurs at 12 page 80, page 93, page 109, page 144, page
 13 149 where the witness specifically says, I
 14 can not answer that foundation question.
 15 I haven't made any effort to determine
 16 whether the information exists or not, but 17 I can endeavor to do it. He specifically 18 says at each of those pages this is 19 information that may be available. I've 20 made no effort whatsoever to determine
 21 whether it is available.

22 Go then, if you will, please, to page
 23 53. This is actually the testimony I was 24 trying to find earlier with regard to what 25 Mr. Doyle means when he says I refer to 1 depositions.

 2 THE COURT: Okay.
 3 MR. SCAROLA: Line 13, "When you say
 4 you would refer to deposition testimony,
 5 would you say you'd defer to deposition
 6 testimony?"

7 Answer, "I would say I would refer to
 8 deposition testimony."

9 Question, "Can you explain what you
 10 mean by I would refer to deposition
 11 testimony?"

12 Answer, "To the extent that there has
 13 been deposition testimony by a Morgan
 14 Stanley witness with personal knowledge as 15 to the events underlying this litigation,
 16 I would refer to their deposition
 17 testimony for the substance as to Morgan
 18 Stanley's statements as to these 19 particular documents."

20 Question, "When you say -- I'm not 21 understanding what you mean by, 'I would
 22 refer to that.' Do you mean that you
 23 would read the deposition testimony and 24 agree with it? I just don't understand
 25 what you mean by I would refer to the

1 deposition testimony."
 2 Answer at line 14, "I don't think I can
 3 explain any more curtly than I just did."
 4 Going to page 55, line 22, "I would
 5 have no basis to agree or disagree with 6 that testimony. The testimony is what it
 7 is."

8 The entire purpose of taking a
 9 corporate representative deposition is to 10 obtain the corporation's position with 11 regard to issues of significance in the 12 litigation. In this case those issues are 13 issues with regard to establishing a
 14 foundation for documents. This witness
 15 appears and says, I can read my own
 16 employees' testimony with regard to this
 17 document. I can tell you what it says,
 18 but I will not tell you what the 19 corporation's position is with regard to 20 whether that testimony is or is not to be 21 relied upon.

22 Now I suggest that simply is not a good
 23 faith response to fulfilling the 24 responsibilities that a corporate
 25 representative has. If there is contrary

1 information somewhere, they're responsible
 2 for uncovering that contrary information
 3 and coming in and saying, yes, Mr. Jones
 4 said A. However, it is the corporation's
 5 position that it is indeed B because we
 6 disagree with Mr. Jones.

7 THE COURT: How large was the universe
 8 of documents he was expected to testify
 9 about under my order?

10 MR. IANNO: Everything attached to Tab
 11 14. That is the January 12th deposition
 12 notice.

13 THE COURT: Well, no, because my order
 14 limited that.

15 MR. IANNO: I believe, and maybe --
 16 this is the limited universe.

17 THE COURT: Are you sure? My order was 18 December 3rd. When was this -- December
 19 29th. Is that right? No. Hold on. Oh,
 20 14 is the amended notice of taking depo.

21 MR. IANNO: For the deposition at issue
 22 today.

23 THE COURT: Okay. But it listed the
 24 same --

25 MR. IANNO: No, I think the original

031410

1 list was more than --
 2 THE COURT: Was the list of topics the
 3 same?
 4 MR. IANNO: Yes. I think they did that
 5 throughout for all of these corporate
 6 notices, Judge, on these documents. They
 7 use the same introductory language.
 8 MR. SCAROLA: Your Honor, Miss Sweeney
 9 informs me that prior to the deposition
 10 the scope of inquiry was narrowed. There
 11 were 20 documents. Some of them may well
 12 have been composites, but there was a very 13 limited number of documents about which 14 the witness was expected to give
 15 testimony.
 16 THE COURT: Okay.
 17 MR. SCAROLA: I might also comment that 18 there's some reference made during the 19 deposition to the fact that you can't 20 expect one person to know all these 21 things. Well, there is no obligation that 22 one person know all these things. They 23 could have produced 20 people to speak on 24 behalf of the corporation.
 25 THE COURT: Did we get the documents

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

25

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

27

1 marked for identification in the depo?
 2 MR. SCAROLA: Yes.
 3 THE COURT: Do we have -- some place do
 4 I have the universe of documents?
 5 MR. IANNO: Judge, the first tabs to 6 our binder, all of the documents at issue
 7 in the motion except one the plaintiff has 8 apparently given up on are attached to the 9 beginning of Tab 1.
 10 THE COURT: Is that the narrowed list?
 11 MR. IANNO: It's the list that's 12 included in their motion. Their motion is 13 limited to certain documents.
 14 MR. SCAROLA: Your Honor, at the time
 15 of the last hearing I think I provided
 16 both the court and Mr. Ianno with a
 17 summary that identified.
 18 THE COURT: Is that this?
 19 MR. SCAROLA: That's it, yes.
 20 MR. IANNO: And then, Judge, for 21 instance, the first page is CPH-9 that's 22 Tab 1 of our binder.
 23 THE COURT: So how many -- I didn't go
 24 through and count. How many documents are 25 we talking about? Ten?

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

26

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

1 you can certainly look at the responses to
 2 the request to admit, that Morgan Stanley
 3 originally admitted that it authored this
 4 document.
 5 Okay. Question, "Yesterday, however,
 6 we received a letter stating that Morgan
 7 Stanley did not author the document. Are 8 you aware of that?"
 9 Answer, "Yes."
 10 Question, "Do you know why Morgan
 11 Stanley changed its position as to the 12 authorship of this document?"
 13 Miss Brown then instructs the witness
 14 not to answer.
 15 Question, "Were you involved in the 16 decision to change Morgan Stanley's
 17 position as to the authorship of this
 18 document?"
 19 The witness again is instructed not to 20 answer. He says, "I don't think I can 21 answer that question without revealing
 22 confidential attorney-client
 23 communications." Now I don't know how the 24 response to the request involved invades a
 25 privileged communication between a lawyer

031411

1 and a client. It is simply a question
 2 with regard to what act the witness
 3 himself engaged in.
 4 Nonetheless, question, "I'm not asking
 5 about a communication or conversation you
 6 had with counsel. I'm just asking if you
 7 were involved in the decision to change
 8 Morgan Stanley's position as to whether 9 they authored this document."

10 Answer, "I don't think I can answer
 11 that question without revealing
 12 attorney-client work product."

13 So we have both an invocation of a
 14 communication privilege and an invocation
 15 of the work-product privilege. And that 16 occurs also at page 145 of the deposition.
 17 And I don't think we need to go through 18 that. But it's a second time where that 19 happens as well. Even where Morgan
 20 Stanley admits that documents were made in
 21 the ordinary course of Morgan Stanley's
 22 business, Mr. Doyle will not admit that 23 Morgan Stanley made, created, or typed the 24 document. That exchange occurs at page
 25 117, line 20. "Despite the fact that you

1 know that Morgan Stanley has admitted that
 2 this document, CPH-155, was made in the 3 ordinary course of its business, it's your
 4 testimony that you don't know whether it
 5 was made, created or typed by Morgan
 6 Stanley?"

7 Answer, "That is correct. I have no
 8 personal knowledge whether it was made,
 9 created or typed by Morgan Stanley,
 10 although I would refer," not defer, but 11 "refer to the testimony, if any, by Morgan
 12 Stanley employees on the substance of this
 13 document."

14 There's another very interesting
 15 position that Mr. Doyle takes, and that 16 position is that Morgan Stanley has a
 17 document retention policy. That document
 18 retention policy apparently is to retain
 19 for some limited period of time documents
 20 that -- I don't remember the exact
 21 description that Mr. Doyle gives, but 22 basically what he says is we only retain 23 the material last final version of the 24 document pursuant to our retention
 25 policies and only that for a limited

1 period of time.

2 So even if a document comes out of a
 3 Morgan Stanley employee's file which that
 4 employee was maintaining in connection
 5 with his employment, the position of 6 Morgan Stanley is if this is not a final
 7 version of the document or if it was
 8 acquired after pursuant to the document
 9 retention policy it would have been 10 destroyed, it is automatically not kept in
 11 the ordinary course of Morgan Stanley's
 12 business, because in the ordinary course
 13 of our business we throw these documents
 14 away.

15 Now I think there's a legal issue there
 16 for the court to determine, and I can not
 17 believe, and, quite frankly, I haven't
 18 found any case on point because I've never 19 heard this position taken before, but I
 20 can not believe that the intent of the 21 evidence code is to enable a party to 22 establish a document destruction policy.

23 THE COURT: I mean, I think what you're
 24 suggesting is whether it's a business
 25 record attaches at the time it's made, and

1 if they subsequently have a policy of
 2 destroying it, it's not like all of a
 3 sudden it is no longer a business record.

4 MR. SCAROLA: Exactly.

5 THE COURT: I understand.

6 MR. SCAROLA: The fact that there may 7 be some internal policy that says get rid 8 of these documents, if they're still
 9 there, they were created as business
 10 records. They remain business records.

11 THE COURT: It doesn't deprive them of 12 their characteristic as a business
 13 record --

14 MR. SCAROLA: That's right.

15 THE COURT: -- because they choose to 16 change it or destroy it later. Do we 17 agree with that, that a business record,
 18 whether it attaches, attaches at the time
 19 the document is made?

20 MR. IANNO: I agree that that's a
 21 question that the court is going to 22 determine. I don't agree that that was a
 23 question that's appropriate to be decided 24 on this motion. That wasn't part of 25 Mr. Scarola's argument.

031412

1 THE COURT: Do you agree with the
2 proposition that the character of an item
3 as a business record is -- attaches at the 4 time the document is made?

5 MR. IANNO: I haven't looked at it,
6 Judge, and I would be hesitant to agree
7 with the court without looking at it. I
8 just don't know the answer to it. I don't
9 know one way or another.

10 THE COURT: Absent some really
11 overwhelming argument, that to me seems 12 intuitive.

13 MR. SCAROLA: The reason I bring that up
14 is because it is illustrative of the 15 extent to which the defendant has gone to 16 frustrate the fundamental purpose of this 17 discovery. To deny that documents even 18 admitted by them to have been created by 19 them are not business records, that 20 documents admittedly coming out of their
21 files are not kept in the ordinary course
22 of business because -- or were not created
23 in the ordinary course of business because 24 we've got a policy to trash these 25 documents, those are the kinds of

1 circumstances that I suggest provide a
2 strong foundation for the court to
3 determine that these documents, by virtue
4 of the defendant's effort to frustrate the 5 ability to lay a predicate, shall be 6 deemed admissible before we ever get to an
7 individual examination of the documents.
8 The bad faith failure to comply with the 9 express order of the court given the 10 history of the discovery efforts on the 11 part of the plaintiff to lay an 12 appropriate foundation should excuse the 13 plaintiff from having to lay a foundation
14 with regard to these documents. They 15 should be deemed admissible as a matter of 16 law on that basis.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Now you made an 18 assertion to me that they have a policy
19 where they retain only the final version
20 of a document and that they've taken the 21 position in this litigation that means the 22 prior versions are not business records.
23 Was that asserted in the deposition, or 24 what are you basing that --

25 MR. SCAROLA: That was asserted in the

1 deposition.

2 THE COURT: Can you tell me where?

3 MR. SCAROLA: Yes, if I can have just a
4 moment. If we take a look at page 131,
5 line 9, "Is it your testimony that if a
6 document does not fall under the 7 guidelines of Morgan Stanley's document
8 retention policy and someone kept the 9 document that they necessarily kept it
10 outside of the ordinary course of Morgan
11 Stanley's business?"

12 The question is repeated for the 13 witness and he answers, "What my testimony
14 is is that documents that are not retained
15 pursuant to Morgan Stanley -- well, let me
16 rephrase it. Documents that are retained
17 pursuant to Morgan Stanley's document
18 retention policy would be documents that 19 Morgan Stanley would retain in its
20 ordinary course of business. Documents
21 that are retained outside of that scope
22 are retained for the personal reasons of 23 the employee who kept it, not because it's 24 Morgan Stanley's policy to retain those
25 documents."

1 There is another section where that
2 document retention policy is specifically
3 described, and, Joanne, could you find
4 that?

5 MS. SWEENEY: Yes.

6 MR. SCAROLA: We'll get that and bring
7 that to the court's attention, Your Honor,
8 but the policy is expressly described by 9 the witness. He basically says we only
10 keep the last version, and we only keep it
11 for a limited period of time, and it's 12 destroyed after that. Even if it remains
13 on the computer, you know, even if
14 somebody has kept it as part of their job
15 and for their reasons within the 16 performance of their responsibilities, we 17 don't consider it a business record, and 18 we deny it is a business record on that 19 basis.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Is that the 21 preliminary statement?

22 MR. SCAROLA: Yes.

23 THE COURT: Did you want to respond?

24 MR. IANNO: Judge, just briefly, the 25 statement that Mr. Scarola made -- and if 031413

1 it's okay, I'll just stand here for a
 2 moment. I don't want to address every one
 3 of Mr. Scarola's statements because 4 they're not relevant to what the issues
 5 were to the particular questions. If you
 6 ask a corporate representative is this
 7 document kept in the ordinary course of 8 your business, and that corporate
 9 representative honestly answers as 10 Mr. Doyle did, not Mr. Downey, that, no,
 11 this is not kept pursuant to our ordinary
 12 business, but then later a court
 13 determines it is a business record, those 14 are two separate and very very distinct
 15 issues. A document may be admissible
 16 pursuant to the evidence code --

17 THE COURT: Sure, but let me ask you
 18 this. When you were asked to admit that 19 certain documents were admissible as 20 business records exceptions, were you
 21 relying on the retention policy or were 22 you relying on the law?

23 MR. IANNO: We didn't answer whether 24 they were admissible. We answered the 25 specific question, is this a true and

1 correct copy, is it authentic, do you know
 2 if Morgan Stanley drafted it. Those are 3 the foundational things. The question was
 4 specifically asked by Mr. Scarola and read
 5 to the court is this kept in the ordinary
 6 course of Morgan Stanley's business, and 7 the answer is, no, it is not kept in the
 8 ordinary course of Morgan Stanley's
 9 business because we have a policy that 10 says we don't. But if it is, judge -- but 11 the point is if it is kept, will it be 12 admissible in court? That's a decision
 13 Your Honor will make.

14 THE COURT: Let me ask you this. What's 15 the purpose of such a policy other than to 16 try to thwart exactly this kind of 17 discovery?

18 MR. IANNO: My law firm has a document
 19 retention policy, judge. The way it is 20 nowadays with the volume of documents is 21 you can not deep every single piece of 22 paper.

23 THE COURT: Sure, but if you have it,
 24 would you ever maintain it's not a
 25 business record?

1 this case. Every witness that could
 2 possibly have knowledge together with the 3 interrogatory answers testified and gave
 4 the best knowledge that they can in these
 5 documents.

6 For instance, when we go through it,
 7 you're going to see Tab 1 is a Sunbeam
 8 document. They keep asking Morgan Stanley
 9 drafted it, Morgan Stanley drafted it.
 10 They didn't. I think when we go through 11 them document by document the court's
 12 concerns are going to be alleviated.

13 THE COURT: Even things when like it
 14 had the little Morgan Stanley computer
 15 whatever logo thingamajig on it, was 16 anybody ever deposed about when in the 17 course of Morgan Stanley's business that's 18 added?

19 MR. IANNO: Mr. Doyle testified --

20 THE COURT: That wasn't my question.
 21 Doyle apparently didn't really know the 22 significance of that. Was there ever
 23 somebody who wasn't sort of a fact witness
 24 in this case but who was ever deposed
 25 about what's the significance of that?

031414

1 MR. IANNO: I don't think they ever
 2 asked for that.
 3 THE COURT: Well, then why didn't Doyle
 4 go ask?
 5 MR. IANNO: What Mr. Doyle said is that
 6 stamp is put on any time a document is 7 printed, not when it's created. For 8 instance, Miss Raffi did testify on the 9 Metadata (phonetic). She was shown a
 10 document that showed she was the author.
 11 And whenever a document is put on Morgan
 12 Stanley's system, it inputs certain data
 13 into it. And she said I don't believe I
 14 was the author of this document even 15 though it says on the Metadata it was.
 16 For instance, if Mr. Scarola's law firm
 17 sends me a document, I put it on my 18 document management system. It may input
 19 information into it that I was the author
 20 because I am the only one in the 21 corporation that does that. That doesn't
 22 mean I authored the document.
 23 THE COURT: Did you actually -- did
 24 Doyle make these inquiries?
 25 MR. IANNO: He said the document

1 stamping process comes on every time a
 2 document is printed. It does not
 3 necessarily -- the question was doesn't
 4 that mean Morgan Stanley authored, and he
 5 said, no, not necessarily.
 6 The other thing about Mr. Doyle is he 7 has been the primary attorney involved in 8 this. He has read every deposition.
 9 He's, in fact, attended some depositions,
 10 so he has more knowledge than he was 11 inquired about as well. He prepared for 12 this deposition by meeting with counsel as 13 he testified to. He is familiar with the 14 depositions. He reviewed the deposition
 15 testimony on these topics, and at certain
 16 points he couldn't recall who said exactly
 17 what, but he did recall that there was 18 deposition testimony regarding these very 19 documents. And he said, I would refer to 20 that. Those people know about these 21 documents. And sometimes the answer is 22 simply I don't know; we've done everything
 23 we could, and they've failed to establish
 24 we haven't. I think we should just go
 25 through document by document.

1 their own system, whether there was
 2 Metadata embedded in the document that
 3 indicated who the author was. They did
 4 none of those things.
 5 THE COURT: Okay. I do think we need
 6 to do a document-by-document inquiry
 7 although -- well, let's start document by 8 document. First is document nine which is 9 found at tab --
 10 MR. IANNO: One.
 11 THE COURT: Okay.
 12 MR. SCAROLA: Your Honor, we have 13 located the testimony with regard to the 14 document retention policy if you'd like me
 15 to --
 16 THE COURT: Where else was that?
 17 MR. SCAROLA: It is at page 99,
 18 beginning at line 6.
 19 THE COURT: Okay.
 20 MR. SCAROLA: "Do you know whether this
 21 document was kept in the ordinary course
 22 of Morgan Stanley's business?"
 23 Answer, "It does not appear to be."
 24 Question, "Why is that, sir?"
 25 Answer, "As I mentioned earlier, my 031415

1 understanding of Morgan Stanley's document
2 retention policy at the time was that
3 Morgan Stanley would retain documents that
4 were -- memorialized the essential terms
5 of the transaction and would otherwise be
6 required to retain by law or regulation.
7 This does not appear to be such a
8 document, although I do note that this
9 document did come from Morgan Stanley's
10 files."

11 Question, "So you'll agree with me that 12 this document was kept in Morgan Stanley's
13 files; is that correct?"

14 Answer, that's correct."

15 Question, "But you don't agree it was 16 kept in the ordinary course of Morgan
17 Stanley's business?"

18 Answer, "That's correct."

19 That's not the only place where he says
20 similar things.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Let's start with 22 document one.

23 MR. SCAROLA: Document number one is 24 CPH-9, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: I have it in front of me.

1 MR. SCAROLA: For purposes of
2 efficiency I've provided both Your Honor
3 and Mr. Ianno I guess last week or the 4 week before that now with this same
5 summary, and it might be most efficient to 6 just have Mr. Ianno to respond to our
7 assertions with regard to this document
8 and then I'll reply.

9 THE COURT: Hold on a second. Okay.
10 What did you want to respond?

11 MR. IANNO: Judge, if we look at CPH-9,
12 it is a document that is written by 13 Sunbeam. It is an executive summary and a
14 PowerPoint presentation of Sunbeam
15 Corporation. It was not drafted by Morgan
16 Stanley. The content came from Sunbeam,
17 and that is the testimony.

18 In Mr. Scarola hand-up he quotes the 19 testimony of Mr. Webber that he believed
20 the document was prepared by Morgan
21 Stanley. Well, what Mr. Webber actually
22 testified is it was a type of document,
23 but he did not recognize it. More
24 importantly, Mr. Burchill testified that 25 it's definitely Morgan Stanley's format.

1 Mr. Doyle should have received, but he
2 didn't?

3 MR. IANNO: But he did, judge. That's
4 the point.

5 THE COURT: No, he told us he only
6 looked at the depositions.

7 MR. IANNO: That's who you would ask.
8 That's the fatal assumption of plaintiff's
9 case.

10 THE COURT: Let me ask you this --

11 MR. IANNO: Remember, Judge, these are 12 six, maybe seven-years-old at this point,
13 some of them eight-years-old. Everybody
14 that had knowledge was inquired of. Did
15 you draft this document? No, the content
16 came from Sunbeam. Everyone said that.

17 THE COURT: Do we agree that that's the 18 word processing stamp?

19 MR. IANNO: Of -- we agree it's a word
20 processing stamp, yes. Do we agree it
21 came from --

22 THE COURT: So what's answer to that?

23 MR. IANNO: But we don't know where it
24 came from. The answer is I simply don't 25 know. There's nothing wrong with that 031416

1 answer.
 2 THE COURT: Did Mr. Doyle go back and
 3 say at the time this document was created
 4 in 1998 what was the significance of 5 having that word processing stamp in the 6 bottom right-hand corner and is there any 7 information we can figure out from that?
 8 MR. IANNO: And the answer is, no, we 9 can't.
 10 THE COURT: But he didn't do it.
 11 MR. IANNO: But, judge, everyone he 12 would have gone to was deposed.
 13 THE COURT: Why wouldn't he go to the 14 word processor people and say what's the 15 significance of that down there, what does
 16 that tell us, if anything?
 17 MR. IANNO: But, Judge, there is no one
 18 else to ask.
 19 THE COURT: How do we know that? The 20 only people he asked were sort of the fact
 21 witnesses, not the people who would have 22 been sort of the nitty-gritty people in 23 how the word processing equipment worked
 24 at the time.
 25 MR. IANNO: That assumes there was a

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

49

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

51

1 word processing department who would have
 2 done it.
 3 THE COURT: Right.
 4 MR. IANNO: The people responsible for
 5 this presentation are the people who were 6 inquired about.
 7 THE COURT: Sure. But if -- you may
 8 show me something that I authored 20 years
 9 ago and I may have zero recollection, but
 10 there may be five word processing stamps
 11 that indicate it was generated by my firm
 12 and I was the author of it. And the fact
 13 that I don't remember, even though I was 14 the one involved in the transaction,
 15 doesn't mean that there's not information
 16 that would suggest I authored it.
 17 MR. IANNO: And you go back and ask
 18 people and they say I don't know.
 19 THE COURT: I would go back to Dorothy
 20 at the word processor and say what does
 21 this stamp mean.
 22 MR. IANNO: There's no information like
 23 that.
 24 THE WITNESS: How do they know? Doyle
 25 didn't ask.

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

50

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

1 would know. I mean, those are the people
 2 that would know.
 3 THE COURT: Did any of them testify to
 4 the significance of the Morgan Stanley
 5 word processing stamp on the document?
 6 MR. IANNO: Mr. Doyle said it looks
 7 like -- he's seen some documents.
 8 Mr. Scarola read the testimony.
 9 THE COURT: That was like I really
 10 don't know anything about this.
 11 MR. IANNO: Because it's not -- I don't 12 know how else to answer it, judge. But 13 the people that have the knowledge, the 14 corporation exhausted its knowledge. If 15 you're saying Mr. Doyle should go back and 16 try to find a word processor that may have 17 been there seven or eight years ago when 18 the people that were actually responsible
 19 for this transaction don't know, we can
 20 try to do that. I submit that that's not 21 what we are required to do and that's not
 22 what plaintiff asked us to do. We asked
 23 the authenticity source creation, not
 24 whether or not Morgan Stanley typed it.
 25 The source of this document is Sunbeam.

031417

1 The authenticity is not at issue. The
 2 business purpose was asked. I defy
 3 Mr. Scarola to say where in the amended
 4 deposition notice whether the fact that it
 5 resides on Morgan Stanley's computer
 6 system at one time fits into the 7 authenticity source, creation --
 8 THE COURT: Wouldn't there be some
 9 information potentially by source? Why
 10 would it ever be on your computer system?
 11 MR. IANNO: The source is Sunbeam. The 12 testimony is the content came from 13 Sunbeam. There's no dispute about that,
 14 judge. The testimony of all the 15 individuals is the source of this document
 16 was Sunbeam.
 17 THE COURT: What do you mean when you
 18 say "source"? Do you mean they were the 19 publisher?
 20 MR. IANNO: That's where the -- well, I
 21 don't know what they meant by source. I
 22 can tell you what we meant by source.
 23 Where did the information in this document
 24 come from, the source of this document.
 25 The source of this document was Sunbeam.

1 believe Morgan Stanley drafted the
 2 document. That's not going to change. I
 3 don't know how anyone else can say
 4 differently, judge. Everyone that was
 5 involved in this transaction has testified
 6 to that.
 7 MR. SCAROLA: Mr. Strong testified that
 8 Morgan Stanley likely typed the document,
 9 but the content came from Sunbeam, page
 10 166 of his deposition. Mr. Burchill, page
 11 38, testified that it's definitely Morgan
 12 Stanley's format. Mr. Yoo testified that 13 the document was Morgan Stanley's
 14 description of Sunbeam and its current 15 situation. Mr. Webber testified that he 16 believed the document was prepared by 17 Morgan Stanley. We've provided page and 18 line citations. We've described what the 19 testimony is, and for their corporate
 20 representative to come in without having 21 conducted a reasonable investigation under 22 these circumstances should result in the 23 admission of this document.
 24 MR. IANNO: Judge, Mr. Burchill,
 25 testified, "Do you know if anyone within

1 Which question --
 2 THE COURT: When you say the
 3 information came from Sunbeam, who put
 4 together the document? Is that different
 5 than who put it together? I mean, if all
 6 you're saying is it includes figures
 7 Sunbeam gave us, that's real different
 8 than saying Sunbeam is the source of it.
 9 MR. IANNO: Well, the testimony was the
 10 content came from Sunbeam.
 11 THE COURT: The content meaning it
 12 extracts figures and items that Sunbeam
 13 provided to Morgan Stanley? Who put the 14 document together? Who drafted it.
 15 MR. IANNO: No one knows.
 16 THE COURT: Are you prepared to say
 17 Morgan Stanley did not draft it?
 18 MR. IANNO: The testimony was the
 19 content came from Sunbeam.
 20 THE COURT: You know, that's like
 21 saying I write a biography of 22 George Washington and the content came
 23 from his life. Well, yeah, but did I
 24 write it.
 25 MR. IANNO: The testimony is they don't

1 Morgan Stanley put this together?" "I
 2 don't know." He didn't testify that
 3 Morgan Stanley put it together. The 4 testimony is there, judge. And the 5 sanctions do not deem it admissible.
 6 THE COURT: I agree, but -- maybe not
 7 for this document, but I would also agree
 8 I don't think Morgan Stanley has done near 9 enough to determine whether this was a
 10 document produced by Morgan Stanley or 11 not.
 12 MR. IANNO: The only possible thing we
 13 could have done, judge, is go to the word
 14 processing department, if one even existed
 15 back in --
 16 THE COURT: You can't tell me whether
 17 you did because you didn't do it.
 18 MR. IANNO: Well, because we conducted a
 19 good faith investigation with the people.
 20 Now the court obviously has a different
 21 interpretation of that. But in response
 22 to their deposition notice we had somebody
 23 who was capable of testifying to the 24 corporate knowledge of authenticity, the 25 corporate knowledge of source.

031418

1 THE COURT: I don't think so.
 2 MR. IANNO: Okay. Then we can go back
 3 and see if the testimony would be any
 4 different. I think on that one, though,
 5 most we can do is say is that our word
 6 processing stamp. I don't know how that 7 changes.

8 THE COURT: I don't know. I don't know
 9 what other information -- it strikes me
 10 that you guys are probably a pretty
 11 sophisticated entity, and there probably 12 is other information included in that. I
 13 mean, I frankly would almost be surprised
 14 if you couldn't tell who made changes to 15 the document when --

16 MR. IANNO: Eight years ago, though,
 17 judge... The other thing is, Judge, you
 18 saw this in earlier motions. The --
 19 Coleman has given you examples of 20 Metadata. They've asked for the Metadata.
 21 If Metadata existed for this document, we 22 would have produced it to Coleman. They 23 didn't give it to you for this motion, so
 24 I think we can assume that there is no
 25 Metadata for this document that is

1 relevant to this. So where are we
 2 supposed to go is my concern.
 3 THE COURT: I don't know because you
 4 guys didn't make any inquiry at all. You
 5 know, all I'm saying is you guys
 6 apparently made no inquiry to anybody
 7 other than sort of the principal players
 8 that would have helped you identify how
 9 this document migrated to Morgan Stanley's
 10 word processing system and what it was 11 doing there and how, if at all, it was 12 changed.

13 MR. IANNO: I would submit to the court
 14 that they did as much as an inquiry as is 15 possible under the circumstances. Maybe
 16 Mr. Doyle didn't testify to it because he 17 wasn't asked specifically, but counsel
 18 spent hours going through each one of 19 these documents and trying to figure out
 20 whether Morgan Stanley authored it.

21 THE COURT: When you say counsel, to 22 whom are you referring, Mr. Doyle or 23 somebody else?

24 MR. IANNO: Outside counsel, judge.

25 THE COURT: Then all you're saying is,

1 THE COURT: No, but isn't it sufficient
 2 to say sort of the same way about the
 3 first document, we probably didn't make a
 4 sufficient inquiry?

5 MR. IANNO: I understand that to be
 6 their position, Judge, and, once again,
 7 everyone that had knowledge of this
 8 document was asked about this document.
 9 If the court's position is we have to go
 10 to try to find a word processor or word
 11 processing department that existed in '97
 12 and '98, obviously we're going to comply
 13 with the court order and do that. But the 14 people that are at knowledge here, if you
 15 look at the document, it's a Sunbeam
 16 document.

17 THE COURT: You say that because 18 Sunbeam -- I mean, face it, attorneys and 19 entities all the time ghostwrite things
 20 for others. That happens all the time.
 21 And, frankly, it's disingenuous to testify
 22 that just because Sunbeam's name is on it
 23 that must mean Sunbeam wrote it.

24 MR. IANNO: Well, Mr. Savarie testified
 25 that it was a Sunbeam document.

031419

1 THE COURT: What does that mean? That
 2 they published it. Well, you know, big
 3 whoop.
 4 MR. IANNO: He also testified about the
 5 word processing stamp, judge. On page
 6 148, line 14 -- page 149 in his deposition
 7 he says, "Whose word processing system was 8 the presentation kept on?"
 9 "I don't know. It may have changed
 10 hands a couple of times at various points
 11 in the process. It's not uncommon for 12 that to happen. I don't know whether or 13 not -- I don't recall specifically, you
 14 know, where it started. It may have been 15 an outline that lead to a first draft."
 16 That's the problem with electronics,
 17 Judge, if it resided on Morgan Stanley's
 18 computer system because Sunbeam sent us an 19 electronic copy of it, for instance, does
 20 that mean Morgan Stanley drafted it?
 21 THE COURT: I understand what you're
 22 telling me, but I think the problem I'm 23 having is because we don't know what 24 information is there, it's real hard to 25 argue this. All we know is there may be

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

61

63

1 information there, but nobody has asked
 2 yet.
 3 MR. IANNO: Well, we've asked -- we
 4 haven't asked the word processing people.
 5 Mr. Doyle didn't testify that he requested
 6 it. It may have happened, Judge, and the 7 answer is still I don't know.
 8 THE COURT: It may have, but there
 9 would be no way for me to know that.
 10 What's plaintiff's position? And right
 11 now we're talking about CPH-75.
 12 MR. SCAROLA: That is a word processing
 13 stamp which by -- or a computer footer, I
 14 think, is a more accurate description.
 15 This is a computer footer that appears to 16 be formatted exactly the same as other
 17 documents which Morgan Stanley has 18 admitted it authored. And when you get 19 another document that's got exactly the 20 same formatted footer on it with Morgan
 21 Stanley's name stamped on it, there's at 22 least an obligation to make some inquiry
 23 as to is this on our computer system, what
 24 does the footer itself tell us, is there a
 25 date that's incorporated into the footer,

62

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

1 THE COURT: Source, creation, use,
 2 maintenance.
 3 MR. IANNO: The creation we testified
 4 to. Mr. Scarola still hasn't said which 5 one of those specific topics was not
 6 addressed, authenticity, source, I
 7 understand.
 8 THE COURT: You're saying on some of 9 these you have insufficient information
 10 because there wasn't -- I understand you
 11 guys disagree. I think this is clearly 12 something you guys could go look at. We 13 need to finish going through the documents
 14 and then talk about whether there's time
 15 to get this done and if there's not, what 16 do we do.
 17 Let's go on to the next one, which is 18 CPH-130. That's number three.
 19 MR. IANNO: No, it's actually number
 20 three, Your Honor, was their most
 21 egregious error.
 22 THE COURT: That they've abandoned.
 23 MR. IANNO: Yes, because the testimony
 24 was absolutely clear on this just like we 25 believe all the others are.

031420

1 THE COURT: We're going to number four,
 2 then.
 3 MR. IANNO: Number four. And it's the
 4 same argument, Judge, with CPH-130.
 5 They're different versions of the same
 6 document. For instance, CPH-130 is a
 7 different version of CPH-75. They're
 8 slide show presentations of Sunbeam.
 9 THE COURT: It would be the same thing.
 10 We have to go figure out...
 11 Okay. Next one we have is 155, which 12 is -- is that Tab 5?
 13 MR. IANNO: Tab 5.
 14 THE COURT: Okay.
 15 MR. IANNO: And here's another
 16 illustrative point, judge. When you're 17 asking about Morgan Stanley's name is on 18 that, take a look at Tab 5, page five.
 19 Morgan Stanley Dean Witter's name is on 20 it; Bank of America's name is on it; First 21 Union's name is on it; Coleman's name is 22 on it.
 23 THE COURT: Isn't that done in sort of 24 a different capacity? Those weren't
 25 identifying information that -- places a

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

65

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

67

1 document can be located. That's just
 2 saying who was involved in this
 3 transaction.
 4 MR. IANNO: My point is the mere
 5 fact --
 6 THE COURT: I would agree the mere fact
 7 Morgan Stanley's name is on a document
 8 doesn't mean that you guys -- it would 9 suggest you probably had some input into 10 it. I think there is obviously a 11 different significance between having your 12 name included in a title of a document and 13 having your name included in a word
 14 processing stamp.
 15 MR. IANNO: And it also -- just to have 16 it included in the footer anywhere. This 17 is another one, Judge, that -- this is an 18 information memorandum under the 19 securities laws prepared by Sunbeam.
 20 THE COURT: That doesn't -- I'm not
 21 sure that answers the question.
 22 MR. IANNO: When we go back to exactly
 23 what was Morgan Stanley supposed to do, we 24 said we didn't author it. The source of 25 the document is Sunbeam. The creation of

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

66

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

1 but you're not prepared to say anything
 2 other than that.
 3 MR. IANNO: What I'm prepared to tell
 4 you, Judge, is there's testimony on it, on 5 all these things -- these issues that is 6 sufficient corporate knowledge and 7 corporate testimony for what Mr. Scarola's
 8 purpose is.
 9 MR. SCAROLA: Which they will refer to 10 but not defer to.
 11 MR. IANNO: I think Mr. Doyle's
 12 testimony, as the court heard, was they 13 know.
 14 THE COURT: So he was deferring to it.
 15 He just said refer because he didn't like
 16 it.
 17 MR. IANNO: That's the testimony. They
 18 have the testimony. How do you establish 19 the admissibility of any document, judge?
 20 Through testimony.
 21 THE COURT: Let me ask you,
 22 Mr. Scarola, on CPH-155, what are the list
 23 of topics do you think Mr. Doyle was not 24 prepared to address?
 25 MR. SCAROLA: I don't think he was 031421

1 prepared to address any of this list of
2 topics. This is another document -- and
3 in this case Morgan Stanley has admitted
4 that this was a document prepared in the
5 ordinary course of Morgan Stanley's
6 business. We have a response to a request
7 for admission which acknowledges that it
8 was prepared in the ordinary course of 9 Morgan Stanley's business.

10 THE COURT: Does it acknowledge that 11 they prepared it?

12 MR. SCAROLA: No. All they acknowledge
13 is it was prepared in the ordinary course
14 of Morgan Stanley's business. We have 15 acknowledgments in testimony from Mr. Seth
16 that he contributed to its preparation,
17 and Mr. Rankin testified that he and 18 Mr. Seth were involved in writing the 19 document, so we have -- we have that much
20 independent of Mr. Doyle. But Mr. Doyle
21 had no knowledge of who drafted or who 22 typed the document. As the corporate
23 representative, he wasn't prepared to come
24 in and say anything about this document.

25 THE COURT: Is your concern that, for

1 going to say Mr. Seth is a liar and he had
2 no role?

3 MR. SCAROLA: I'd like to know that,
4 sure. I would like to know -- I'd like to 5 know is Morgan Stanley going to 6 acknowledge that they prepared -- are they
7 going to acknowledge that they, in fact,
8 prepared this document. No matter where 9 they gathered information from, was this a
10 document that they themselves prepared for 11 whatever the sources were that they had?
12 Did they, in fact, themselves contribute
13 to the content of the document? And what 14 contributions did they make as opposed to 15 simply gathering information from others?
16 What efforts did they make to determine
17 the reliability of the information? Are 18 they contesting the content of the 19 document in some respect? When was it
20 prepared and how was it maintained within 21 Morgan Stanley?

22 THE COURT: Let me go back and --

23 MR. SCAROLA: Remember that this is the 24 document about which they changed their 25 position. This is the document that they

1 instance, he wasn't prepared to say
2 whether or not Morgan Stanley typed it?

3 MR. SCAROLA: Whether --

4 THE COURT: Whether Morgan Stanley
5 typed it or somebody at Sunbeam typed it
6 or somebody else typed it.

7 MR. SCAROLA: He was not prepared to 8 say whether it was typed by Morgan
9 Stanley. He was not prepared to say that,
10 yes, indeed, the corporation acknowledges
11 that our employees contributed to the 12 content of the document. He was prepared
13 to refer to that testimony but not to 14 defer to it. He would not state what the 15 corporation's position was with regard to 16 any issue relating to this document. And 17 that's what we're trying to find out at 18 this point in time, what is the defendant
19 going to say about this document.

20 THE COURT: Let me ask you this. Is 21 what you want to know -- or is it
22 sufficient for your purposes today if 23 Morgan Stanley acknowledges that it had 24 some role in drafting the document? Or 25 are you really asking him, look, are you

1 said yes about first and then sent a
2 letter saying, no, we're no longer
3 acknowledging the authenticity and
4 authorship of this document.

5 MR. IANNO: We changed authorship,
6 Judge, not authenticity.

7 THE COURT: Do you have any information
8 that would indicate Morgan Stanley was not 9 the author?

10 MR. IANNO: Yes, because Mr. Seth who 11 testified on it says the content came from 12 Sunbeam. He may have had a role in it.
13 It's fair to say he did have some role in 14 drafting it. The questions Mr. Scarola
15 wants answered were answered to the best
16 of the fact witness's ability. What
17 Morgan Stanley's role was in this 18 document, the only people that are going
19 to know that, judge, are the people who
20 were actually involved in the transaction
21 and they've testified. There's no place
22 to go for that information regardless of 23 whether the court thinks we should go to 24 our computer department to find out
25 computer related information about the 031422

1 document.
 2 THE COURT: Let me ask you this. When
 3 you say -- as I understand it, what Morgan
 4 Stanley has done is back off its admission
 5 that it authored the document.
 6 MR. IANNO: Correct.
 7 THE COURT: And the only information I
 8 understand that you have today that would
 9 indicate you did not author the document
 10 is that content came from somebody else?
 11 MR. IANNO: No. That's true for those 12 PowerPoint presentations, judge. This 13 document would have been authored by 14 Sunbeam and Coopers & Lybrand according to 15 the testimony with Morgan Stanley --
 16 THE COURT: Where would I look for that
 17 testimony?
 18 MR. IANNO: It's in Mr. Seth and
 19 Mr. Rankin's testimony as I believe quoted
 20 by Mr. Scarola that he gave to the court.
 21 For instance --
 22 THE COURT: The testimony he gave me is 23 the testimony that says they were involved
 24 in writing it, not what you just referred 25 to, that Sunbeam and Coopers & Lybrand

1 were the authors.
 2 MR. IANNO: That's the complete from --
 3 THE COURT: Do you have the complete
 4 quote?
 5 MR. IANNO: I have it on the computer,
 6 judge. I can bring it over. I just did
 7 it in preparing for this. I don't think
 8 we have Mr. Rankin's.
 9 THE COURT: I probably have it.
 10 MR. IANNO: For instance, Mr. Rankin
 11 testified 48, line 15, "So this is the 12 bank book you referred to earlier in your 13 testimony?"
 14 "Yes."
 15 "Were there some portions of this 16 document that you yourself wrote?"
 17 His answer was, "Not that I recall."
 18 THE COURT: What I asked you about,
 19 your statement that they testified Sunbeam
 20 and -- was it Coopers & Lybrand?
 21 MR. IANNO: Coopers, yes. I'll find
 22 that for the court.
 23 THE COURT: Let me go do this warrant
 24 and you can find it while we're gone.
 25 (A recess was taken from 10:44 a.m. to

1 10:59 a.m.)
 2 Okay. Did we find that testimony?
 3 MR. IANNO: Yes, judge. It's tab 19 of 4 our binder. It was quoted in our
 5 opposition. I was looking in
 6 Mr. Scarola's papers, and that's why I
 7 couldn't find it.
 8 THE COURT: Let me get back to that.
 9 Okay. What page?
 10 MR. IANNO: Your Honor, these are the 11 excerpts about this Exhibit. It's called 12 the bank book.
 13 THE COURT: Wait, wait. Tab 19?
 14 MR. IANNO: Yes.
 15 THE COURT: Of what?
 16 MR. IANNO: The binder I sent. It's 17 the excerpts of the deposition of 18 Mr. Ishaan Seth. What we're talking about 19 is where I got the quote that the 20 information came from Sunbeam and Coopers.
 21 It's contained within these deposition
 22 excerpts.
 23 THE COURT: What pages?
 24 MR. IANNO: These are the excerpts that 25 specifically talk about it. There's only

1 two or three pages.
 2 THE COURT: I don't honestly remember.
 3 MR. IANNO: Specifically, judge, if you
 4 go to page 27 of the deposition, line 6,
 5 you have to put it together. What
 6 Mr. Seth testifies to is the information
 7 came from Sunbeam from part of the M&A
 8 team from Morgan Stanley and from a
 9 consulting firm, and then he was asked was 10 that other consulting firm Coopers &
 11 Lybrand. He says I believe it was.
 12 THE COURT: Let me look at this real
 13 quick. Who was Mr. Seth?
 14 MR. IANNO: He was involved on the 15 financing side of the transaction on 16 behalf of Morgan Stanley.
 17 THE COURT: Okay. This is about
 18 sources of information, correct?
 19 MR. IANNO: Right. And that's what we 20 were talking about is who authored the 21 document. It's clear, you know, what
 22 happened was it was -- what Mr. Seth
 23 testified to and the corporate knowledge
 24 was it was a collaborative effort that 25 came from Sunbeam personnel, which is a

031423

1 key source that Mr. Seth testified to.
 2 Some information came from Morgan Stanley,
 3 and other information came --
 4 THE COURT: Who put it together?
 5 MR. IANNO: Well, that's what he
 6 testified to. It went back and forth on 7 the system. It was -- not one company put 8 it together.
 9 THE COURT: Who produced the first
 10 draft?
 11 MR. IANNO: I would have to say
 12 Sunbeam, judge. Or -- I think Sunbeam
 13 would have produced the first draft since
 14 it's their information memorandum. But I
 15 don't know if anyone was specifically
 16 asked who produced the first draft.
 17 THE COURT: When you say source of 18 information, do you mean -- do you use
 19 that to mean drafted or is that -- I
 20 wouldn't use those to be the same thing,
 21 but it sounds like you are.
 22 MR. IANNO: I interpret that to mean
 23 where did the information come from that's 24 in this document, the source of the 25 information.

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

77

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

79

1 THE COURT: That's different than the
 2 drafting.
 3 MR. IANNO: Correct. The source of the 4 information is what I thought they were 5 getting after. If they're asking who
 6 drafted the document, that's a different
 7 issue to me.
 8 THE COURT: Okay.
 9 MR. IANNO: The testimony was that 10 sources for this information, CPH-155, was 11 various individual -- various companies,
 12 including Sunbeam, including some Morgan
 13 Stanley and including Coopers & Lybrand.
 14 That's the source of this document.
 15 THE COURT: Okay. What's the response?
 16 MR. SCAROLA: Your Honor, I have the 17 problem that I think the court is having.
 18 The source of the information is distinct
 19 from the source of the document. And what 20 we are trying to determine is who prepared
 21 the document. And they keep saying the 22 source of the document was Sunbeam when 23 what they are really saying is we now know
 24 based upon Mr. Ianno's, quote,
 25 clarification, unquote, is Morgan Stanley

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

78

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

1 put the document together from information
 2 that was provided by a whole lot of
 3 different people. And if that's what
 4 they're saying, that's what they ought to 5 say. But they have done everything they 6 can to avoid stating clearly and 7 unequivocally Morgan Stanley put this
 8 document together from sources of 9 information provided by others.
 10 They ought to be obliged. They were 11 obliged. They had an obligation to 12 produce a corporate representative who 13 would say those things clearly and 14 unequivocally, and instead through months
 15 of effort on our part they have done
 16 everything they could to evade accepting 17 the responsibility that they had and 18 clearly acknowledging the role that they 19 played. That's the problem that we're
 20 having just two weeks prior or three weeks
 21 prior to the commencement of trial.
 22 MR. IANNO: Judge, I don't know how you
 23 can state anything clearly and
 24 unequivocally when the people that know
 25 about it say I don't know if it was on

031424

1 portion of it does not make this document
2 admissible or have anything to do with it.
3 And when Mr. Scarola says clearly and
4 unequivocally, the answer can be I don't
5 know. It doesn't have to be a clear and 6 unequivocal yes or no.

7 THE COURT: That one I want to think
8 about.

9 What's next?

10 MR. IANNO: CPH-170, Judge, which should 11 be in Tab 6.

12 THE COURT: Yep.

13 MR. IANNO: This is the one where 14 Miss Raffi testifies to, and this is the 15 one where they actually show someone the 16 Metadata from this document. And they ask
17 Miss Raffi clearly on the Metadata, page
18 92 beginning on line 23, "This document --
19 the Metadata would indicate that Morgan
20 Stanley was involved in preparing this 21 biographical information?"

22 Miss Raffi says, "Not necessarily."
23 This is the one where the Metadata shows
24 her as the author, and she says, no, that 25 doesn't mean we compiled this information.

1 What it means is that it shows up on
2 Morgan Stanley's system. This is a
3 basically a CV --

4 THE COURT: Is this sort of what I was 5 talking about before, this is someone who 6 says I don't know if I did it or not, but 7 we didn't go back? Or are you saying
8 there is no information within Morgan
9 Stanley's word processing equipment that 10 would have shown?

11 MR. IANNO: The word processing is the 12 Metadata, judge. It's the document, the 13 electronic document properties that was 14 produced that shows where this document
15 resides on Morgan Stanley's system.

16 THE COURT: So it shows she was the 17 author, but she doesn't remember.

18 MR. IANNO: She says, no, I was not the 19 author of this document.

20 THE COURT: She says she doesn't know
21 or she doesn't remember?

22 MR. IANNO: The question was doesn't 23 this mean that you're the author of the 24 document.

25 THE COURT: What does she say?

1 could have been edited or this could have
2 been typed out based on something the 3 company gave us. It doesn't mean that
4 Morgan Stanley compiled this information.
5 I don't remember this document."

6 THE COURT: Sure, but that doesn't --
7 it doesn't mean that -- Morgan Stanley
8 gathered the information is different than 9 whether Morgan Stanley produced the 10 document. You're unwilling to admit that 11 Morgan Stanley produced this document?

12 MR. IANNO: Produced it as far as in 13 this litigation, judge?

14 THE COURT: No.

15 MR. IANNO: It resided on Morgan
16 Stanley's system.

17 THE COURT: That it was the source of 18 the document. Not the source of the 19 information contained in the document, but 20 the source of the document.

21 MR. IANNO: I think the only thing that 22 we can admit based on the corporate
23 knowledge is it resided on Morgan
24 Stanley's computer system and that it was 25 printed from Morgan Stanley's system and 031425

1 given to the plaintiffs in this case.
2 Because when you say the source of the 3 information, Morgan Stanley did not
4 compile Mr. Dunlop's credentials.

5 THE COURT: I understand that, you
6 know --

7 MR. IANNO: Was the document given to
8 Morgan Stanley? Was it placed on Morgan
9 Stanley's server? Was it then printed
10 from Morgan Stanley's server? Those are 11 all accurate statements. Did Morgan
12 Stanley create this information? The 13 corporate knowledge is we don't think so.
14 It would have been given to us by the 15 company.

16 THE COURT: Did Raffi have any
17 information about how a document could be 18 edited and the authorship -- edited by 19 somebody other than the original
20 authorship -- edited by the person --
21 other than the person who originally 22 authored it and not have the authorship of 23 the document change?

24 MR. IANNO: I don't know if she was 25 asked that, but that would happen, Judge,

1 as a matter of computers when a document
2 came from outside the native servers. For 3 instance, like the example I gave you if
4 Mr. Scarola sends me the joint pretrial
5 stip in Word Perfect Microsoft Word, his 6 information won't show up as the author on 7 my system because it can only store the 8 employees of my company on the system.
9 And that's one -- I don't know if she was 10 specifically asked in this situation, but 11 that's my understanding of how computers
12 work today and how they worked back in '97
13 and '98.

14 THE COURT: What's plaintiff's
15 position?

16 MR. SCAROLA: Our first response is 17 that Mr. Ianno is not a witness in this 18 case. He didn't work in the word
19 processing department of Morgan Stanley,
20 and his responses are really speculation.
21 They are nothing but speculation on his 22 part.

23 Mr. Doyle testified I don't even know
24 whether that's Morgan Stanley's word
25 processing stamp. He wouldn't -- he

1 more -- to prepare for the deposition that
2 would have given you more information than 3 you already had?

4 MR. IANNO: At the very least he could
5 have made a determination with regard to 6 whether that is Morgan Stanley's word
7 processing stamp, whether the computer
8 footer is theirs, could have been prepared
9 on behalf of the corporation to either
10 confirm or deny that or tell us, I tried
11 and could not. And he never even made
12 that effort. And he could have made an 13 effort if it was, in fact, Morgan
14 Stanley's footer to make a determination
15 as to what information can be derived from 16 that footer.

17 Clearly the testimony from Miss Raffi
18 does not deny the authorship of the 19 document. All she says is I don't 20 remember. The footer indicates that she 21 is the author. There's apparently an 22 acknowledgment of that. Is the corporate 23 position in this case going to be that 24 information is wrong? I want to know not 25 what Miss Raffi, an employee of the 031426

1 corporation, says. I want to know what
2 Morgan Stanley's position is. Are they
3 going to come in and say she did author
4 it, she didn't author it or I don't know.
5 I did everything I could to find out and I
6 don't know? Instead, we get a witness who 7 says I don't know, and I did nothing to 8 find out.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. IANNO: This is a prime example,
11 judge. The only information that could 12 possibly be contained in the footer is the 13 electronic information, the Metadata that
14 plaintiff already has in its possession
15 for every one of these documents. There
16 is no better knowledge than Miss Raffi.
17 She says I don't remember authoring this 18 document. It would have come from 19 Sunbeam. The fact that it's on our system
20 does not mean Morgan Stanley compiled it.
21 Where else are we supposed to go other
22 than the person who's listed in the 23 electronic document properties as the 24 author to get different information? And 25 we do have to defer to Miss Raffi.

1 THE COURT: Okay. Let's move on. 182.

2 MR. IANNO: 182, Judge, I believe is
3 going to be subsumed within 75 and 130
4 because it's just another version of the 5 Sunbeam presentation.

6 THE COURT: I appreciate your candor.

7 MR. IANNO: Then we get to number --

8 THE COURT: 209.

9 MR. IANNO: Tab 8, Judge, which this is 10 the offering memorandum that's given in 11 connection with the sale of the 12 subordinated debentures, which the court
13 has heard so much about. It's our 14 position this is a Sunbeam document.

15 THE COURT: When you say it's a Sunbeam
16 document, what do you mean, that they were 17 the publisher of it?

18 MR. IANNO: Morgan Stanley is just the 19 underwriter of these debentures.

20 THE COURT: We're still trying to find
21 out Morgan Stanley's role in the creation
22 of these documents.

23 MR. IANNO: The testimony is that,
24 Mr. Doyle testified at page 48, line 10
25 through 20 and 59, line 14 through 20 that

1 He can't come in and say I spent two
2 hours yesterday talking to my lawyer. I
3 won't tell you what was said because 4 that's privileged. I may have had some 5 involvement while I was working as
6 in-house counsel, but I won't tell you
7 what I did because that's privileged, but
8 what I'm going to tell you is that I don't 9 believe that this document was created by
10 Morgan Stanley.

11 I just don't see how that works. They
12 can't designate a corporate representative
13 who is going to hide behind privilege and 14 then make an assertion that we can not 15 test with regard to the adequacy of the 16 corporate knowledge regarding this 17 document and the adequacy of the 18 investigation conducted with regard to the
19 document.

20 THE COURT: Did any of the deponents
21 ever testify that Morgan Stanley had a
22 hand in it?

23 MR. SCAROLA: I don't know that there
24 was any specific testimony on that point.

25 THE COURT: Okay. 217.

031427

1 MR. IANNO: Judge, I think we've lumped
 2 217 together with 155, which --
 3 THE WITNESS: It's the same thing.
 4 MR. IANNO: Yes. Those two should be
 5 treated together.
 6 MR. SCAROLA: I would agree.
 7 THE COURT: Appreciate your candor.
 8 And then we're on to --
 9 MR. IANNO: 264. And this begins some 10 handwritten note Exhibits, Judge. 264 and 11 265 we lumped together as well. These are 12 handwritten notes, judge. Everyone has 13 been asked are these your notes. I
 14 don't -- there's no footer here. There's 15 no electronic document properties. We've 16 answered interrogatories on this. We've 17 made an inquiry on these documents, and 18 nobody recognizes the handwriting of these
 19 documents.
 20 THE COURT: What was the source of the 21 document? How did we get them?
 22 MR. IANNO: Morgan Stanley.
 23 THE COURT: In response to request for 24 production or something else?
 25 MR. IANNO: Yes, response to request to

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

93

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

95

1 produce, this is a document Morgan Stanley
 2 produced to us.
 3 THE COURT: In its original form?
 4 MR. IANNO: Probably a copy.
 5 MR. SCAROLA: It was a photocopy, but 6 it was a photocopy that includes all the 7 handwriting.
 8 THE COURT: Right. But do we know
 9 where the original notes are?
 10 MR. IANNO: No, judge.
 11 THE COURT: Do we know where Morgan --
 12 do we know if Morgan Stanley had the 13 original when it produced a copy?
 14 MR. IANNO: Not actually, Judge. This 15 comes from a -- production in other
 16 lawsuits. This is not Bates stamped -- if 17 you look at Exhibits 10 and 11, I don't
 18 believe those are Bates stamps from this 19 lawsuit. So these are reproduced from 20 previous productions.
 21 THE COURT: Did you go back and trace
 22 where you got them?
 23 MR. IANNO: I don't know if we did
 24 that, judge. We asked everyone are these 25 your notes.

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

94

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

1 originals, but it's still not going to
 2 find out whose handwriting it is.
 3 THE COURT: No, but it might let us
 4 know what file it originally came from or 5 how they originally came into your 6 possession.
 7 MR. IANNO: I don't even know if that's
 8 possible, but we'll be glad to try that.
 9 THE COURT: What's the response?
 10 MR. SCAROLA: That's exactly what 11 should have been done, that what the 12 corporate representative was obliged to do
 13 pursuant to court order was to make a
 14 determination about where this document
 15 came from. It was produced to us by 16 Morgan Stanley. The content of the 17 document strongly suggests that someone
 18 within Morgan Stanley made these 19 handwritten notes. They won't even tell
 20 us whether this was a document that they
 21 themselves maintained or whether somebody
 22 walked by Sunbeam headquarters and picked
 23 it out of the trash can there. You know,
 24 that's what we're trying to find out, is 25 this part of your files, and we can't even 031428

1 find out whether it's part of their files
2 because they made no effort to determine
3 whether it was part of their files.

4 MR. IANNO: Judge, we've tried to find
5 out whose documents these are, whose
6 handwriting it is. We don't know.

7 MR. SCAROLA: That's an entirely
8 different issue.

9 THE COURT: I would agree. Okay. 264
10 and 265 were lumped together so we're on 11 to 278. And that is Tab 12; is that
12 right?

13 MR. IANNO: That's correct, judge.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. IANNO: And in support of Coleman's
16 position on this, they cite Mr. Fannin's
17 testimony or they use, quote Mr. Fannin
18 who was not deposed in this case, I don't
19 believe. He said the document was a
20 collaborative effort between Morgan
21 Stanley and Sunbeam. That's typical,
22 Judge. There's a citation, but there's no
23 support for that citation whatever.

24 MR. SCAROLA: Actually, there's not a
25 citation there. And I am just informed,

1 Your Honor, that that information came not
2 from deposition testimony but through a
3 separate conversation, and I was probably 4 in error having produced that page and
5 that reference, so I would ask the court
6 to disregard it.

7 THE COURT: You're talking about the 8 bullet point --

9 MR. SCAROLA: The second bullet point
10 under number two that refers Mr. Fannin's
11 statement is not a matter of record before
12 the court at this time. That is, in fact,
13 as a consequence of attorney work product,
14 and we'd ask that it be withdrawn, ignored
15 and returned to us.

16 THE COURT: You mean --

17 MR. SCAROLA: Just that page including
18 that line. That was an inadvertent
19 disclosure.

20 THE COURT: From mine or Mr. Ianno's?

21 MR. SCAROLA: From Mr. Ianno's.

22 THE COURT: Was a copy of this filed,
23 the document?

24 MR. SCAROLA: Yes. That page that has
25 been filed includes an inadvertent

1 that this document is a Sunbeam
2 presentation to Morgan Stanley. It's not
3 a document that's prepared by Morgan
4 Stanley. He testified to it. Mr. Doyle
5 referred to that testimony. And we will
6 defer to that testimony that we didn't
7 author it, we're not the source of it. It
8 is a document that was a presentation by 9 Sunbeam to Morgan Stanley.

10 THE COURT: Wait. I'm sorry. Where
11 would I look to see that testimony?

12 MR. IANNO: Seth's deposition page 47,
13 line 13 to 25.

14 THE COURT: Where is the deposition?
15 Where am I going to?

16 MR. IANNO: It is the last page of Tab
17 19 in our binder.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Let me go to that.
19 This is just saying they gave us a copy of 20 it.

21 MR. IANNO: It says, it's basically a
22 PowerPoint presentation Sunbeam Management
23 went through during the course of the 24 meeting. To be honest, I don't remember
25 specifically. I imagine so. That's the 031429

1 best testimony on this document.
 2 MR. SCAROLA: May I make a comment that
 3 perhaps will focus the court's attention
 4 on what our concern is?
 5 THE COURT: Yes.
 6 MR. SCAROLA: Your Honor, Mr. Doyle's
 7 testimony with regard to this document
 8 appears at page 155, beginning at line 3.
 9 And what we are attempting to establish is 10 a predicate for the introduction of this 11 document, and one way in which to do that,
 12 obviously, is to establish that it is a
 13 document that was made or kept in the
 14 ordinary course of Morgan Stanley's
 15 business. We acknowledge the testimony
 16 indicates that this was not made by Morgan
 17 Stanley, so we're focusing on whether it
 18 was kept by Morgan Stanley in the ordinary 19 course of its business. And we get the 20 same position asserted by Mr. Doyle that 21 if it is kept outside the record retention
 22 policies of Morgan Stanley, then it's not 23 kept in the ordinary course of our
 24 business. That's what he says, page 155,
 25 lines 3 through 22.

101

103

1 And we go back to the legal issue that
 2 we discussed earlier, whether by virtue of
 3 the fact that they have a document
 4 destruction policy they can rely upon that 5 policy to say, no, this was not kept in 6 the ordinary course of our business.
 7 THE COURT: Okay. So for your purposes
 8 is it sufficient if I find that sort of 9 the business purpose -- business records
 10 characterization attaches at the time the 11 document is created or kept, originally 12 kept and they can't be destroyed by 13 subsequent destruction of the document?
 14 Is that all you need from this is to show
 15 they had it and they transmitted it?
 16 MR. SCAROLA: Well, because Mr. Doyle
 17 took the position that he did, we don't
 18 get that answer from him. In other words,
 19 Your Honor can say if you kept it at some 20 time in the ordinary course of your 21 business or received it in the ordinary
 22 course of your business, it does not lose
 23 its character by virtue of the fact that 24 it's continued retention violates an 25 internal policy, but we don't get

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

102

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

1 THE COURT: I just want to make sure
 2 I'm not missing some basic proposition.
 3 It was always sort of my understanding of 4 the business records exception that the 5 business had to be the one that created
 6 the document and kept the document, that
 7 you couldn't sort of create a hearsay
 8 objection by having something given by a
 9 third party to the business and having the 10 business find it in its file. That 11 doesn't mean that item provided by the 12 third party has an exception to the 13 hearsay rule.
 14 MR. IANNO: Right.
 15 THE COURT: And it looks to me like
 16 that's what we're trying to somehow morph
 17 this into. And I just want to be clear
 18 where we're going. If all we're trying to 19 say is Morgan Stanley had this, and 20 clearly they had a copy because they faxed
 21 it, that's fine. But what else are we 22 looking for? I don't know that that's 23 sufficient to say this is -- meets the 24 business records exception in the hearsay
 25 rule. So I just want to be clear what 031430

1 information we're trying to get out of
 2 this.
 3 MR. SCAROLA: Well, I'm not sure that I
 4 understood what Your Honor just said. I
 5 don't know that it is necessary in order
 6 to meet the business records exception to 7 the hearsay rule that the business from 8 whom the document is obtained created the 9 document. If they received and maintained
 10 the document in the ordinary course of 11 business, I suggest it can qualify as a
 12 business record. There may be other
 13 hearsay objections to the content of the 14 document, but the document can qualify as 15 a business record if it is received and 16 maintained in the ordinary course of 17 business even if it is not created and 18 maintained in the ordinary course of that 19 business's business.
 20 THE COURT: I'll be honest, I certainly
 21 have never thought the business records
 22 exception allowed you to receive a
 23 document from a third party, have it be in 24 your general course to keep it and all of 25 a sudden have that be a sufficient course

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

105

107

1 to get around the business records
 2 exception. If you can show the document
 3 was created by this third-party entity in 4 the ordinary course of its business by 5 somebody with contemporaneous knowledge,
 6 all those predicates, and they don't keep 7 it, but they mail it to you and you keep 8 it in your file, can you cut and paste the 9 business records exception that way? I've 10 never honestly thought about it. I don't
 11 know if that's what you're implying. I
 12 certainly don't think you can have a third
 13 party mail a document to a business, have 14 the business keep the document as part of 15 its ordinary business practice and without 16 more say that that then meets the 17 evidentiary predicate.
 18 MR. SCAROLA: Well, what I am suggesting 19 to you is that it will depend upon the 20 purpose for which the document is being 21 introduced. If what we are attempting to 22 establish is, as is the case here, what
 23 Morgan Stanley knew and when it knew it,
 24 its receipt of the document and
 25 maintenance of the document as a business

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

106

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

1 record establishes what it knew and when
 2 it knew.
 3 THE COURT: Sure. But that's not
 4 trying to meet the hearsay exception. In 5 the evidence code that's just saying we
 6 want proof you have this. We are not sure
 7 it's true. We just want to know.
 8 MR. IANNO: That's not something within
 9 Mr. Doyle's.
 10 THE COURT: I don't know that we need
 11 anything else if we are all on the same
 12 page that the fact that Morgan Stanley
 13 faxed it to somebody certainly shows they 14 had it.
 15 MR. IANNO: There's been no dispute
 16 about that, judge.
 17 THE COURT: Good. Where are we going
 18 next?
 19 MR. IANNO: Morgan Stanley number 40 is 20 the same. We treated that the same as I
 21 think 209, judge. And Morgan Stanley 40
 22 is Tab 13. Once again, this is the 23 debenture offering memorandum.
 24 THE COURT: And I'm sorry. We're
 25 treating that how?

1 MR. IANNO: The same as 209, which is
 2 tab 8. So Tab 8 and 13 of our binder.
 3 There's both offering memorandum. One is 4 CPH and one is Morgan Stanley. The 5 position is the same for both of those
 6 documents.
 7 MR. SCAROLA: I would point out there
 8 are some differences between 209 and 40.
 9 It appears that MS-40 is the final version
 10 of CPH-209. And this is the version that 11 was produced by Morgan Stanley who tells 12 us that they only keep final versions in 13 accordance with their document policy.
 14 But this is another circumstance where 15 Mr. Doyle states that he did not believe 16 anyone from Morgan Stanley wrote the 17 document. Someone may have reviewed and 18 commented on it. He's not sure. Then he 19 tells us the document was issued by 20 Sunbeam.
 21 THE COURT: Okay.
 22 MR. IANNO: The testimony on that,
 23 judge, is the same as 209, that it was 24 prepared by Sunbeam, kept by its counsel,
 25 sent out to other lawyers in Morgan

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

031431

1 Stanley. And Mr. Doyle on this one did
 2 admit because it was the final version, it
 3 was, quote, kept in the ordinary course of
 4 Morgan Stanley's business.
 5 THE COURT: Let's talk about where we
 6 need to go. I find that Doyle's testimony
 7 was sufficient on CPH-155, 278, 209 and 8 MS-40. I think it was insufficient as to 9 CPH-9, 75, 130, 155, 170, 182 and 217, as 10 well as 264 and 265. For all the 11 documents but MS-170, 264 and 265, I think 12 what's missing is any inquiry into what 13 information, if any, can be explained from 14 the word processing stamp or the footer.
 15 I think Mr. Doyle's testimony was woefully
 16 insufficient, though the inquiry was
 17 woefully insufficient on 75, 264 and 265
 18 on virtually every area.
 19 Now what can we do to see what we fix?
 20 MR. IANNO: Judge, before we go there
 21 you said 155 twice.
 22 THE COURT: You're right. That's 23 because -- let me go back and look at it.
 24 I think I wrote it up and then -- it's Tab
 25 5, right? Let me go back and look at it

1 and I'll remember real quick.
 2 MR. SCAROLA: This is the document
 3 about which they changed their position,
 4 so it certainly makes sense that Your
 5 Honor might have it on both lists.
 6 THE COURT: We're not rearguing,
 7 although that's a really nice try. Let me
 8 go back and see what I was thinking.
 9 No. I'm sorry. 155 is okay. What are 10 we going to do on the other ones?
 11 MR. IANNO: Let us go back after lunch
 12 and -- come back.
 13 THE COURT: You want to come back with
 14 a proposal?
 15 MR. IANNO: Hopefully we'll be able to 16 find something out over the lunch hour.
 17 THE COURT: Any objection to their 18 trying to come back with a proposal how to 19 address these deficiencies?
 20 MR. SCAROLA: No, Your Honor. We've
 21 made our argument with regard to what we 22 believe is appropriate, and certainly
 23 giving them until after lunch is fine.
 24 THE COURT: Okay. We have 22 minutes
 25 left. Do we want to try to argue the

1 motion for adverse inference instruction?
 2 MR. SCAROLA: Yes.
 3 THE COURT: Okay.
 4 MR. SCAROLA: If I can just have one
 5 moment to shift gears, Your Honor.
 6 Your Honor, our motion details the 7 history with regard to our efforts to 8 obtain e-mails in this case.
 9 THE COURT: Can I ask just one stupid
 10 question? I mean, I know there was some 11 reference I made that you guys found this 12 stuff in November or something. Do I have 13 any explanation of where? Like was it in 14 a corner? Was this with the dust bunnies
 15 or where was it?
 16 MR. SCAROLA: That was primarily one of 17 our concerns is that we repeatedly
 18 inquired why are we finding them now; how 19 did you find them --
 20 THE COURT: Do we have anything under 21 oath that would suggest why we found in 22 November there was this other information?
 23 MR. CLARE: This information -- And 24 we're talking about now specifically about 25 the backup tapes that were located at
 1 various points in time at various
 2 locations after the May 2004 production of
 3 e-mails. I can speak from my own
 4 knowledge of it. There's nothing under
 5 oath is the short answer to Your Honor's
 6 question. We have represented to 7 Mr. Coleman's counsel when we initially
 8 located this --
 9 THE COURT: I'm confused. I thought
 10 you said they were found at different
 11 points in time.
 12 MR. CLARE: Sure.
 13 THE COURT: When was the first one
 14 found?
 15 MR. CLARE: I don't know the answer to 16 that. What we do have under oath is 17 what -- Mr. Doyle's sworn declaration that 18 when he became aware that there were 19 additional tapes that had been located by 20 the IT department, for example -- I
 21 know -- I'm not going to testify or I'm 22 not going to comment, lest it be declared
 23 a waiver later on.
 24 THE COURT: Then we'll be asking you
 25 everything your client told you. Where's

031432

1 Mr. Bemis when we need him?
 2 MR. CLARE: I'm not going to fall under
 3 the same -- let me say this. Mr. Doyle
 4 submitted a declaration to Your Honor that
 5 says in late October the law division
 6 became aware that additional tapes had 7 been located that were not covered by our
 8 prior search. Within days those tapes
 9 began to be searched and within days
 10 documents were produced.

11 THE COURT: Aren't we sort of missing
 12 an important link, which is when and how 13 these were found and did the person who 14 found them understand their significance?

15 MR. CLARE: Well, I don't think so.

16 THE COURT: Why not? What you're
 17 suggesting is as long as the attorney did
 18 something as soon as he found out, that's 19 sufficient. But what we're talking about 20 is the client.

21 MR. CLARE: Let me give you a
 22 hypothetical. An intern in the 23 intellectual -- the information technology
 24 department goes into a back room where 25 e-mail backup tapes are not ordinarily

1 kept and finds in the corner or on a shelf
 2 or behind some boxes three e-mail tapes,
 3 and he brings them to the attention of his
 4 supervisor. Is that --

5 THE COURT: No, but don't you think
 6 there are a lot of hypotheticals that
 7 would show guilt and knowledge on behalf
 8 of Morgan Stanley or some -- you know,
 9 plan, then, to not allow these to be
 10 searched?

11 MR. CLARE: Well, I think the evidence
 12 is to the contrary.

13 THE COURT: We don't have any evidence.
 14 You just told me that.

15 MR. CLARE: There's no evidentiary
 16 information provided whatsoever by the 17 plaintiff that any document was destroyed
 18 or not retained or not produced in good
 19 faith.

20 THE COURT: This information is solely 21 within your client's control. Why would 22 you expect plaintiff to come forward with 23 it?

24 MR. CLARE: Because they're seeking an
 25 adverse inference.

1 THE COURT: Sure, pursuant to an agreed
 2 order where you agreed you were going to
 3 produce this stuff, and it turns out you
 4 have this stuff, and you haven't produced
 5 it, but you're unwilling to come forward
 6 and say, hey, this is why, this is the 7 explanation of why we didn't.

8 MR. CLARE: Well, the explanation that
 9 has been put forward -- and if Your Honor
 10 thinks it's insufficient and would like us
 11 to come back with further explanation, we 12 can do that. The explanation we put 13 forward, we believe, is more than 14 sufficient to overcome their request,
 15 which is as soon as parties who are 16 responsible for this litigation and with 17 the knowledge of the agreed upon order
 18 came to learn that information,
 19 affirmative steps were taken to search the 20 tapes to produce documents within days.

21 That is undisputed. And if Your Honor
 22 thinks that there's an earlier point in 23 time that is relevant to the question of 24 whether they're entitled to an adverse
 25 inference or our good faith compliance

with an agreed upon order, I'm happy to go back and try to get that information.
 THE COURT: I think the answer is, no,
 we don't really have an explanation of why
 we didn't find out about this stuff until
 October. So why don't you go ahead.
 MR. SCAROLA: Thank you very much. The history of efforts to obtain e-mail production is outlined in our motion. We are dealing with a corporation that that was fined $1.65 million.

MR. CLARE: If Mr. Scarola is making an evidentiary proffer based on the SEC
 findings cited in his paper, I object to that evidentiary proffer on the grounds of hearsay.
 THE COURT: Okay. I think it would be fair to say that for today's purposes I don't have any evidence from either side
 other than in October we first found out
 there were other backup tapes.

MR. SCAROLA: What you do have, because it is attached to the motion, is a record
 of our efforts to try to get an explanation. So as the record stands

031433

1 before Your Honor right now, we have a
2 record of repeated efforts to obtain the
3 information, the entry of an order
4 imposing a deadline on production, and
5 acknowledgment that substantial
6 information existed but was not produced
7 in accordance with the deadline and
8 silence in the face of requests for an
9 explanation.

10 Now I suggest that that shifts the
11 burden because of the entry of the order,
12 it shifts the burden to Morgan Stanley to 13 come forward and to explain its
14 noncompliance.

15 They have failed to do that in any way
16 whatsoever. Now Your Honor may choose to
17 give them another chance to do it,
18 although I suggest that it should have
19 been done in response to the motion that
20 was already filed. If you give them
21 another chance, you give them another
22 chance. But in the absence of a
23 reasonable explanation for their failure
24 to comply with the court order with regard
25 to what obviously is extremely important

1 circumstances the information that has not
2 been produced is information that would
3 have been hurtful to the defendant and
4 helpful to the plaintiff.

5 I recognize that there is a significant
6 burden that must be met in order to obtain
7 that kind of instruction. The case law is 8 very clear about that. But in the absence
9 of any explanation at all I suggest that 10 burden has been met.

11 THE COURT: Okay. What's your 12 response?

13 MR. CLARE: Your Honor, I disagree with 14 Mr. Scarola's characterization of the 15 record initially. He characterizes the 16 record as insufficient with regard to 17 Morgan Stanley's efforts to comply. We 18 have submitted declarations from the legal 19 department and also from individuals who
20 have been responsible since those tapes
21 were directed to be restored that they 22 have been restored expeditiously and have 23 been worked on continuously. We also have 24 sworn declaration indicating that given
25 the technical parameters there's no way to

1 information -- we've narrowed our focus to
2 the period of time in February of 1998 and
3 March of 1998 and April of 1998 when the
4 communications going on within Morgan
5 Stanley are of critical importance to
6 demonstrate what they knew and when they
7 knew it.

8 And to be told that there are trillions
9 of bits of information that have just been
10 discovered, to be told that we are making
11 an effort to examine them, and we don't
12 know when that effort is going to be
13 completed, we can't give you any idea, we
14 refuse to tell you when we might complete
15 this job with trial two to three weeks
16 away, I suggest, is just unacceptable.
17 And there needs to be a judicial response
18 to that circumstance.

19 And there are alternatives, but the one
20 that I suggest is most appropriate on the
21 basis of the record that currently exists,
22 unless they are given an opportunity to
23 supplement that record is to tell the jury
24 what they did and to tell them that it's 25 reasonable to assume that under these

1 know.

2 I also think Mr. Scarola made a point
3 about the time period to which these 4 e-mails relate. There is no way for 5 anyone to know, and this is in 6 Ms. Gorman's declaration, whether any of 7 the information on the tape, these tapes
8 that we're talking about comes from 1997,
9 1998, 1999, 2000, 2003. Nobody knows.
10 And so to create some presumption that 11 these tapes come from a relevant time
12 period is incorrect.

13 THE COURT: What do you think is 14 appropriate?

15 MR. CLARE: What exactly Morgan Stanley
16 has done. When the tapes were
17 identified --

18 THE COURT: Let's assume you don't --
19 you're unable to extract everything by the 20 time we start the trial. What do you
21 think is appropriate? Should there be no
22 sanctions?

23 MR. CLARE: Absolutely. Morgan Stanley
24 has done everything it can within 25 technical reason to comply with this 031434

1 order, the court's order. And we came
2 forward with this information. We
3 disclosed it to plaintiffs in November.
4 We produced 8,000 additional pages of
5 documents that came out of the search.
6 There's a much smaller subset of data that 7 hasn't been searched because it's in the 8 process of being restored. The 9 information that we provided to the 10 plaintiff was at the end of January we 11 would rerun all of the searches again. We 12 stand by that commitment. We're prepared
13 to do that.

14 THE COURT: Well, it's the end of 15 January. Did we do it?

16 MR. CLARE: We're in the process of 17 doing it. Searches are being run as I
18 stand here and talk to you.

19 THE COURT: They're still backup tapes
20 that have not been searched or restored to 21 be searched?

22 MR. CLARE: There are additional tapes
23 in parallel -- and this is what Miss
24 Gorman says. In parallel with the 25 restoration efforts, Morgan Stanley is

1 MR. CLARE: If I could change your
2 hypothetical to make it more accurate, it
3 would be as if the attorney came in and
4 said, Your Honor, we have discovered a
5 series of file cabinets that are 6 unlabeled, and we don't know whether they 7 have anything to do with the litigation or
8 not.

9 THE COURT: Please understand I have 10 nothing from the client itself telling me
11 that.

12 MR. CLARE: Actually, you do, Your
13 Honor. Your Honor, you have the 14 declaration of Miss Gorman, who is an
15 executive director in Morgan Stanley's
16 information technology department.

17 THE COURT: Where do I find that?

18 MR. CLARE: That is attached as Exhibit
19 7 to our opposition.

20 THE COURT: Hang on a minute. Let me
21 find that. Exhibit 7. Well, yeah.

22 MR. CLARE: Paragraph number five of 23 the declaration says until the searches
24 are completed.

25 THE COURT: That's just going to say

1 running the searches. It is estimated,
2 although we can not say for sure, and we
3 can not commit to a schedule because these 4 are tapes whose condition and contents are
5 unknown, but it is estimated all the tapes
6 will be restored within the next few
7 weeks, and we can continue to run the 8 searches.

9 THE COURT: I'll be honest with you,
10 this sort of strikes me as your typical -- 11 let's assume this was a typical breach of 12 contract case between two small companies
13 here in West Palm Beach, and there's a 14 request for production of documents, and 15 they -- you know, I do an order
16 compelling. They produce it, and on the 17 eve of trial the attorney walks in and 18 says, I'm so sorry. My client just 19 produced six boxes of little pieces of 20 paper that we think may be relevant. But 21 please don't sanction us because I just 22 got this stuff from my client."

23 MR. CLARE: Actually, I would disagree
24 with that hypothetical.

25 THE COURT: What's the difference?

1 it's going to take us a lot of time to
2 unwind the pieces of paper that are in the 3 box. That doesn't tell us anything about
4 why the client didn't give us the box for 5 more than a year, which is what disturbs
6 me.

7 MR. CLARE: Well, we provided this --
8 we made these disclosures to plaintiff in 9 November.

10 THE COURT: Right. But you also made
11 an oral representation to me at the 12 beginning of your presentation that you
13 guys found these, you know, Morgan Stanley
14 found these backup tapes over a period of 15 time, but you're not prepared to tell me
16 when. For all I know you guys found these 17 in March and either recognized the 18 significance and nobody brought them to 19 the legal department's attention or simply 20 didn't recognize the significance. But I
21 have no way of making that factual
22 determination.

23 MR. CLARE: There's a two-step inquiry,
24 then, for Your Honor. If you want to 25 understand the chronology that lead to 031435

1 this point, we'll need to have an
2 evidentiary hearing.
3 THE COURT: All I'm suggesting is, in
4 all honesty, I think the ball is in your 5 court to come up and give me some kind of 6 coherent explanation as to why this stuff
7 wasn't found until October. You've not
8 offered anything. You're not even
9 prepared to tell me when it was found.

10 MR. CLARE: What I'm prepared to tell
11 you is what Mr. Doyle has sworn to in his 12 declaration.

13 THE COURT: I think it's wholly
14 insufficient to be honest with you. It
15 strikes me -- you guys need to go do some 16 work real quick on this is.

17 MR. CLARE: Then we would request the 18 opportunity to present evidence to you.

19 THE COURT: At a minimum I want a sworn 20 affidavit that tells me what we're looking 21 at. In all honesty, you want to walk in 22 and say, hey, we're the lawyers; we just 23 got this stuff; as soon as we got it, we 24 told you; we're done. And that's not the 25 way it works.

1 MR. CLARE: Well, no, that's not the
2 position that we're taking, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: What part have I missed?

4 MR. CLARE: We've made a good faith
5 effort -- as soon as individuals who were
6 in any way responsible or knowledgeable
7 about --

8 THE COURT: Tell me where I look in the 9 declarations for those factual assertions.

10 MR. CLARE: Mr. Doyle's declaration.

11 THE COURT: What Exhibit is it so I can 12 look at it?

13 MR. CLARE: Exhibit Number 2. And 14 Mr. Doyle, as we've heard this morning, is 15 the individual at Morgan Stanley who has 16 been responsible and who conducted the 17 initial e-mail search back in May.

18 THE COURT: You tell me where in this
19 it says that the first time anybody
20 understood the legal significance of these 21 was November.

22 MR. CLARE: As opposed -- I guess what
23 I'm -- what you're missing or what we're
24 missing in our evidentiary statement is a
25 statement that Mr. Doyle was the person

1 didn't because the attorney just got it
2 and that's enough.

3 MR. CLARE: It is entirely possible as 4 I stand here right now based on
5 Miss Gorman's declaration, it is entirely
6 possible that there are no additional
7 documents to produce.

8 THE COURT: When are we going to know
9 that?

10 MR. CLARE: As soon as the searches are 11 run.

12 THE COURT: And when is that going to 13 be?

14 MR. CLARE: The data will be given to 15 counsel to review on February 7th.

16 THE COURT: This is something I think
17 we need to raise after lunch. I think you
18 need to go find out whatever you can real
19 quick.

20 MR. CLARE: Beyond when we can advise 21 the court whether there is additional
22 responsive documents?

23 THE COURT: I think there are two sort
24 of glaring omissions, one more glaring
25 than the other. The first glaring

031436

1 omission, in my opinion, is a complete
2 failure to offer an explanation of why
3 this stuff only came to the attention of 4 counsel in October. I mean, that's the 5 black box. I have no idea why that 6 happened.

7 The second, frankly, I need a whole lot
8 of information about when these tapes can 9 be restored and the information made
10 available.

11 MR. CLARE: Okay. We'll endeavor to 12 find that information out. The latest
13 information that I have as of this morning
14 is that the searches are being run. At 15 the end of January as we --

16 THE COURT: It's now early February so
17 I'm thinking they're done.

18 MR. CLARE: The tapes have been
19 restored. The searches are being run.
20 That data becomes available to counsel for 21 review for responsiveness. It could be 22 that it kicks out nothing. It could be 23 that these --

24 THE COURT: Do we know how many tapes
25 there are?

1 we find out? Which one do we want to go
2 back to first?

3 MR. CLARE: We'd like to close the loop
4 on the e-mail issue where we left off.

5 THE COURT: Sure.

6 MR. CLARE: Happy to report on what
7 we've been able to find out over the lunch
8 break.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. CLARE: And I'll give you the 11 headlines first, and then I'll walk you
12 through as much detail as I've been able 13 to uncover in the last two hours.

14 THE COURT: Just like to see an end.

15 MR. CLARE: Just like to see an end.
16 I'd like to hand up to the court, if I
17 might, the beginning of what I think the 18 headline is, which is the Certificate of 19 Compliance that was provided by Morgan
20 Stanley in connection with the court's
21 order. This will be the beginning point
22 of the chronology that I'm going to walk
23 the court through. It's dated June 23rd,
24 2004. It relates to our May production.

25 THE COURT: Right.

1 MR. CLARE: I do not know.

2 THE COURT: Do we know how many tapes
3 have been restored?

4 MR. CLARE: I do not know that.

5 THE COURT: I think probably after 6 lunch we should know that.

7 MR. CLARE: Okay.

8 THE COURT: In my capacity as mentor
9 coordinator I have to have lunch with one
10 of my mentees, so if we could not meet
11 until 1:30, that would be helpful.

12 Normally I would have taken a shorter
13 lunch.

14 MR. IANNO: That's fine.

15 MR. SCAROLA: That's fine.

16 THE COURT: Would you rather do it at 17 2:00?

18 MR. IANNO: 2:00 gives us more time.

19 THE COURT: And you're going to be 20 trying to reach who you're going to be 21 trying to reach. Okay. We'll do it at
22 2:00, then.

23 (A lunch recess was taken from 11:56 a.m.
24 to 1:58 p.m.)

25 THE COURT: Okay. Have a seat. What did

1 MR. CLARE: The headline is that the
2 first time that anyone -- that anyone at 3 Morgan Stanley knew that there was
4 recoverable e-mail data that might fall
5 within the court's order was not until 6 late October 2004 consistent with
7 Mr. Doyle's declaration. And I'm prepared
8 to walk the court through and explain
9 where the tapes were found, how they were 10 found.

11 THE COURT: Why don't you make a
12 proffer, and we'll figure out where we're 13 going.

14 MR. CLARE: Very good. In the summer of 15 2004 -- I do not have a precise date on 16 that, but sometime during the summer,
17 1,400 DLT tapes were found in a closet, in 18 a closet in an off-site storage facility
19 in Brooklyn. Those tapes --

20 THE COURT: What's DLT mean?

21 MR. CLARE: DLT is a type of tape that 22 describes the capacity of the tape. It's 23 a digital tape. And DLT is an indication
24 that indicates how much data it can
25 containment and I'll get to how -- who wit

031437

1 would down that number in a minute. Those
2 tapes were sent to an outside vendor to
3 determine what, if anything was on them.
4 There was no indication that there was
5 anything on them at all.

6 In late October of 2004, which is the 7 date that Mr. Doyle alluded to in his
8 declaration and the date that I'm
9 representing to the court is the first 10 time anybody knew that there was 11 recoverable e-mail data --

12 THE COURT: Do we know when the tapes
13 were sent to the outside vendor?

14 MR. CLARE: They were sent shortly after 15 they were discovered.

16 THE COURT: We don't know that date
17 yet?

18 MR. CLARE: We do not know the date.
19 That is one of the irons that we still 20 have in the fire. But we have reason to 21 believe throughout the summer of 2004
22 there were constant updates that were 23 being provided on this, all of which 24 indicated that the tapes were still at the 25 vendor, so we believe they were at the

1 vendor for a while during the summer of 2 2004.

3 In late October 2004, the report came
4 back the from the vendor that 112 of those
5 tapes had e-mail, recoverable e-mail data
6 on them. And they immediately or promptly
7 within days of learning that began to be
8 uploaded onto a system to make them
9 searchable so that we could run the 10 searches. It was at that point that 11 counsel learned that these tapes existed
12 and that they might have recoverable
13 e-mail data and so the searches were run
14 in early November as described in 15 Mr. Jonas's declaration, which is before
16 the court, on all of the tapes that had 17 been restored up to that point. Some 18 portion of those 112 tapes had been 19 restored and made searchable by the middle 20 of November.

21 THE COURT: We do not know how many?

22 MR. CLARE: We do not know how many.

23 The other portion was being uploaded
24 continuously since then, and those tapes
25 are what came online today or early

1 this moment.

2 On November 4th, 2004, additional tapes
3 were located at not a central Morgan
4 Stanley facility. I don't know exactly
5 where they were found. I can't give you
6 the analog to the closet in Brooklyn, but 7 it was found, again, at a place where
8 e-mail tapes are not normally kept. These 9 were 728 eight-millimeter tapes. And it's 10 important for the court and to make the 11 record that these eight-millimeter tapes
12 are of a format different than the type
13 that Morgan Stanley had customarily and 14 historically used to back up e-mail tapes.
15 They're a different type of tape.

16 Those 728 tapes were then also sent to 17 a vendor. The result was that two SDLT
18 tapes resulted in recoverable e-mail data.

19 THE COURT: Okay. And when did they 20 become recoverable?

21 MR. CLARE: Those -- the data that came
22 from the eight-millimeter tapes, as well
23 as the remaining portion of the 112, came
24 online and recoverable within Morgan
25 Stanley a day or two ago. They will be 031438

1 searchable, using best efforts to make
2 them searchable, as fast as possible the 3 week of the 7th, which is what we
4 represented to the court. That was the
5 estimate given by Miss Gorman in her
6 declaration.

7 THE COURT: Why once they're 8 recoverable, what's the delay in having 9 them searched?

10 MR. CLARE: This is an area I'm not
11 competent to provide Your Honor with 12 information other than what Miss Gorman
13 and her colleagues inform me is this a 14 multi-step process. These tapes are 15 received back from the vendor. You can't 16 just search them on the tape. They have to 17 be uploaded to a system. They have to be 18 formatted to go into Morgan Stanley's
19 database archive system. And it takes a 20 period of time to work their way through 21 the staging period.

22 I'll tell Your Honor also that the 23 process of uploading them and making that 24 complete is slowed down if you have to 25 access the system to run searches in the

1 searches.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. CLARE: The client has committed to
4 move with deliberate speed and use best
5 efforts.

6 THE COURT: Is that different than old
7 deliberate speed?

8 MR. CLARE: Whatever standard you want
9 they're willing to and they have committed
10 and did commit back in November to do
11 that. And so we, the outside counsel,
12 have committed to turn the data around as 13 soon as it's provided to us by the client
14 to provide them with responsive data with 15 the goal being that by the date of the 16 first pretrial conference we will know
17 whether there are any additional e-mails
18 to be produced.

19 That's the other point of this that I
20 alluded to before the lunch break, and I
21 don't want it to get lost, is that we just 22 don't know as we sit here.

23 THE COURT: Sure. But then the 24 question is -- that's precisely the point,
25 we don't know. The question is if we

1 system. So that's the tension that you
2 can't process as many tapes if you're
3 interrupting the processing of tapes to 4 run searches.

5 THE COURT: If they're going to search
6 them the week of February 7th, how long is 7 that process going to take?

8 MR. CLARE: The searchable data will be
9 available -- we can, you know, know on a
10 daily basis.

11 THE COURT: But when's it going to be 12 completed?

13 MR. CLARE: We will have it completed by 14 no later than the 14th.

15 THE COURT: It takes a week is what
16 you're telling me.

17 MR. CLARE: It might take a week. I
18 don't want to commit to the court a date.
19 That is using best efforts as represented
20 to me by Morgan Stanley. That is the best
21 that they can do given the dates that they 22 found the tape, the dates that they were 23 returned from the vendor, the amount of 24 time it takes to process them and the 25 amount of time it takes to run the

1 don't find out, whose fault is that? And
2 I have to assume it's sort of Morgan
3 Stanley's fault, and then we talk about
4 what's appropriate.

5 MR. CLARE: Let me respond to that in a
6 couple ways. First, I don't think that 7 there's any evidence from what we've
8 submitted to the court or from what I've 9 been told, and the proffer we'd be happy
10 to make under oath, supplemental proffer
11 if that's the way the court wants to 12 handle it, of any intentional delay of 13 this. At worst, at the absolute worst it
14 can be said that an outside vendor took a 15 long time to get these tapes to us and 16 that the technical limitations limit our 17 ability to upload and search them quickly.
18 There's no indication any of this was 19 intentional or anything of the like.

20 Morgan Stanley's executive director of 21 the information technology department has 22 given you a sworn affidavit that this has 23 been a priority of her department since
24 December of 2004.

25 THE COURT: Mr. Scarola, let me ask you

031439

1 this. Wouldn't the more conservative
2 approach be to set an evidentiary hearing
3 on this to start first thing on the 14th?
4 And if we have the information by then and
5 there's no prejudice to your client, it
6 may be a pain, and we can talk about what 7 other sanctions may be appropriate, but
8 there wouldn't be evidentiary sanctions.

9 MR. SCAROLA: Your Honor, I can't argue
10 that that is not the more conservative
11 approach. It clearly is the more
12 conservative approach. I can suggest that 13 it is an unnecessarily conservative
14 approach under these circumstances. And I
15 do suggest that.

16 THE COURT: I'll be real honest with 17 you, what my real concern is is if that's 18 the approach we take is we come to 19 February 14th, it turns out that there is 20 relevant information in some of these
21 newly discovered e-mails, we have now
22 either forced your client to go to trial
23 on less than complete discovery or Morgan
24 Stanley has gotten the continuance it's 25 tried so hard all along to get. I'm going

1 monitored the vendor, but it took a real
2 long time to get it done. And we didn't
3 even bother to tell Coleman at the time
4 that we found these tapes. I appreciate
5 the effort you made in a very short period
6 of time to fill in some of the gaps. The 7 gaps are still not all filled in.

8 MR. CLARE: The key, and I think this is 9 the key, there would be nothing to tell
10 Coleman or anyone until the existence of 11 recoverable e-mail data is confirmed or 12 understood by anybody.

13 THE COURT: Well, I understand that 14 would be your client's position. I'm not 15 sure I would accept it.

16 MR. CLARE: The court's order
17 specifically says that the oldest
18 available backup tape has to be searched
19 for certain individuals as it existed at 20 the time. What's the oldest available
21 backup tapes for these individuals? Until 22 you know that there's even e-mail data on 23 these tapes --

24 THE COURT: That's sort of like going
25 back to the outstanding discovery request.

1 to need you to respond to that.
2 In all honesty, my initial inclination
3 is to say, look, if you're telling me
4 February 14th, we're going to know what's 5 in these additional tapes, you know, we
6 maybe should wait and see what's in them.
7 My real concern is then all of a sudden
8 we're in a rock and a hard place because 9 then plaintiffs have to make a decision of 10 what do they do.

11 MR. CLARE: I recognize that. Can I
12 just respond briefly to what I think might 13 be implicit in Your Honor's comments is I
14 can represent on behalf of Morgan Stanley
15 this is not any tactical effort to obtain
16 a delay in the trial.

17 THE COURT: I understand you guys are 18 telling me that. I still have sort of 19 nothing from the client itself. You know,
20 I'm getting these sort of vague things.
21 Sometime in September we found these
22 tapes. We sent them to an outside vendor.
23 It's still not clear to me whether the 24 people who found them understood the 25 importance of them or not. We sort of

1 You discover a warehouse full of
2 documents, and you know there's been a
3 discovery request for certain things
4 outstanding. You haven't had time to go
5 through the warehouse. And rather than 6 tell your opposing counsel we found this
7 warehouse of stuff and we haven't had time
8 to go through it it's like saying, well,
9 we'll wait until we have time to go
10 through it all and then we'll tell them.
11 And that deprives them the ability to try
12 to expedite the recovery.

13 But what's your client's position?

14 MR. SCAROLA: Your Honor, I think that 15 last question focuses on my client's
16 position. This is a certification of 17 compliance that we've both been handed.
18 And it says it is my understanding that
19 counsel from Kirkland & Ellis, LLP
20 produced all nonprivileged responsive
21 documents on May 14, 2004. Now from what
22 we've heard from Mr. Clare, as of sometime
23 in the summer of 2004, and I don't know
24 when that is -- we don't know when that 25 is.

031440

1 THE COURT: We can guess it's within
 2 three months of signing this document
 3 which was the almost first day of summer.
 4 MR. SCAROLA: Well, clearly it's
 5 sometime after this document and sometime
 6 before the next production is made in the 7 middle of November because summer is over
 8 by then. So sometime long before we were 9 ever alerted to any of these possibilities
 10 these folks knew that the certification
 11 that they had made may be inaccurate. I
 12 won't tell you that they knew it was 13 inaccurate, but at the very least if we 14 accept Mr. Clare's representations, they 15 knew that it might be inaccurate, that 16 they've got this huge box that they
 17 haven't been able to unwrap yet, and it
 18 may contain information that renders this 19 certification inaccurate.
 20 I suggest that the moment they knew
 21 that, as soon as they found out that their 22 certification was questionable, they had
 23 an obligation to come to you and to come
 24 to us and say we just found this 25 additional source of information. We

1 don't know what's in there, and it's going
 2 to take us time to find out so that we
 3 could explore the details at that point of 4 what was necessary and participate
 5 together in a determination as to with
 6 what priority and expediency these tasks
 7 needed to be addressed, not be in a
 8 position less than three weeks before
 9 trial of having to deal with the issues
 10 that have now been presented to us.
 11 That's simply unfair.
 12 MR. CLARE: And if I could respond to 13 that, that is exactly what we did. You
 14 can argue -- we can argue.
 15 THE COURT: What's exactly what you
 16 did?
 17 MR. CLARE: In November we wrote to 18 plaintiff's counsel and we said exactly
 19 what Mr. Scarola described.
 20 THE COURT: I'm sure you understand his
 21 point.
 22 MR. CLARE: I understand his point
 23 completely. The certification of 24 compliance, for Mr. Scarola to question
 25 that it was untrue when given or became

1 untrue.
 2 THE COURT: No, he's just saying at
 3 some point when you found these tapes, you
 4 no longer knew whether it was true or not.
 5 MR. CLARE: And that point was when we
 6 alerted them that discoverable e-mail data
 7 was available.
 8 THE COURT: No, no, it was when you
 9 discovered tapes that you didn't know what 10 was on them and you didn't know what they 11 were, then you no longer knew whether this 12 certification was correct or not. You're 13 telling me as you stand here you don't 14 know whether this certification is 15 correct. As soon as you found the tapes,
 16 you knew that this was no longer true.
 17 MR. CLARE: And that was October 2004.
 18 THE COURT: No, it wasn't. You just
 19 told me it was in the summer.
 20 MR. CLARE: That individuals in Morgan
 21 Stanley's IT department in Brooklyn found
 22 some tapes. In October, the legal 23 department is advised saying there's 24 recoverable e-mail on these tapes; what 25 are the implications to this. And we

1 promptly wrote to them. Three months go
 2 by and plaintiff does nothing. I
 3 understand Mr. Scarola's position, and I'm 4 not standing here saying that it's -- that
 5 we're happy to be where we are three weeks
 6 before trial and not knowing --
 7 THE COURT: I frankly don't know if you
 8 are or not.
 9 MR. CLARE: I will represent to the 10 court that we're not happy to be in this 11 position, nor is the client. But we 12 promptly advised him when we had 13 information we believed called into
 14 question the certificate. We advised them
 15 in November. We produced 8,000 additional
 16 pages of documents in November. Radio
 17 silence up through the end of January.
 18 I'm not saying it's plaintiff's
 19 responsibility and that they put
 20 themselves in this position. But months
 21 went by when we were working to restore
 22 these tapes, and now we're in a position
 23 where we are attempting to restore them as 24 quickly as we can.
 25 THE COURT: Did you want to respond to 031441

1 that? Is there correspondence?
 2 MR. SCAROLA: Here's the letter of
 3 December 14 asking what's going on; here's 4 the letter of December 17 asking what's 5 going on; here's the letter of 6 December 30th asking what's going on;
 7 here's the letter of January 11th asking
 8 what's going on; here's the letter of 9 January 19 asking what's going on. I
 10 guess Mr. Clare is right, there was radio
 11 silence, but there sure wasn't e-mail
 12 silence.
 13 MR. CLARE: And to each of those
 14 requests there were responses made that no
 15 additional information was available to 16 provide to them as we represented to him.
 17 THE COURT: You just gave me a bunch --
 18 you know, you got these from lunchtime.
 19 No. All right. This is what we're going 20 to do for now. I'm going to set an 21 evidentiary hearing on this. Are we here
 22 on the 14th? Is that right?
 23 Can you get the book, please? I want
 24 to make sure I'm not screwing up the 25 dates.

1 MR. SCAROLA: Your Honor, obviously --
 2 THE COURT: I understand you disagree,
 3 and please understand that I'm very
 4 sensitive to your client's position that
 5 this could just be a back door way to try
 6 to get a continuance and that I just think
 7 it would be a mistake to impose
 8 evidentiary sanctions when if we wait two 9 weeks we'll know whether there's any
 10 prejudice or not. I mean, we've come this 11 far. I'm not interested in doing that.
 12 MR. SCAROLA: I understand that concern.
 13 I'm just worried about a new task to be 14 completed between now and the start of 15 trial.
 16 THE COURT: I understand your client's
 17 consternation, and that actually brings me
 18 to something else. But first let's do
 19 this. Yes, we start here on 20 February 14th. So this is going to be 21 number one up, okay?
 22 MR. SCAROLA: Yes, Your Honor. Is it
 23 Your Honor's intention that we engage in 24 any discovery?
 25 THE COURT: That's what I was going to

1 bring up. And then I also -- and I hate
 2 to be a suspicious sort, but the other
 3 question I have is obviously it's in 4 Morgan Stanley's best interest to find
 5 nothing relevant in these tapes. And I
 6 guess the real question I have is is there
 7 any way your client wants to try to check
 8 that assertion?
 9 MR. SCAROLA: Well, that, Your Honor, is 10 precisely my concern. There is obviously
 11 now an enormous incentive for Morgan
 12 Stanley to find nothing of value. I think
 13 at the very least we ought to have direct 14 access to that data at this point. At the 15 very least we ought not to be in a
 16 position of having to trust this
 17 defendant.
 18 THE COURT: Do you know how you would 19 propose you guys have direct access as 20 opposed to taking custody of the tapes
 21 versus having your own representative
 22 present while the process is done?
 23 MR. SCAROLA: What I am lead to believe
 24 is these tapes have now been placed in 25 searchable form. I want the searchable
 1 form of the data to conduct our own
 2 search. That's what I suggest is 3 reasonable under these circumstances as an 4 alternative to the harsher sanctions that 5 we have been requesting.
 6 THE COURT: What would be the response
 7 to that? Why would that not be 8 reasonable?
 9 MR. CLARE: Because there are concerns
 10 that Morgan Stanley would have, legitimate
 11 concerns about giving raw e-mail data
 12 about other deals, other commercial
 13 situations.
 14 THE COURT: Can you guys agree on a
 15 third party to do it?
 16 MR. SCAROLA: I can't answer that 17 question, Your Honor. I just am not in a
 18 position to do that.
 19 MR. CLARE: We're open, of course, to 20 anything that is reasonable that protects
 21 Morgan Stanley's business interest and 22 maintaining the confidentiality of 23 nonrelevant nonresponsive materials. But 24 if that means a third party, then we're 25 open to exploring that.

031442

1 MR. SCAROLA: The one concern I have
2 about having a third party conduct the
3 search is the ability to educate the third
4 party as to what the third party is
5 looking for and what is of significance.

6 THE COURT: We're looking -- aren't
7 there specific terms we're searching for?

8 MR. CLARE: Yes.

9 MR. SCAROLA: Well, there are specific
10 terms that we are searching for outside a
11 temporal period. I think, if I recall
12 correctly, Your Honor defined a time
13 period during which we were to get -- they 14 were to search completely, and then
15 outside that time period they were only to 16 be searching for things like the word
17 "Coleman" or the word "Sunbeam."

18 THE COURT: Let me double-check, see if 19 we've got that. That might be for like a
20 three-month period we're searching
21 everything, and beyond that we're
22 searching words.

23 MR. SCAROLA: I think within that period
24 they were to be searching everything, and 25 beyond that period the search was to be

1 limited to specific key words.

2 THE COURT: Wait a minute. I have the
3 agreed order. Hold on. We have some that 4 are signed for employee and some that are
5 searched --

6 MR. SCAROLA: I think some of them
7 specifically identified employees --

8 THE COURT: Here's the order. Why
9 don't you guys look at that.

10 MR. CLARE: It contemplates that there
11 is a certain list of employees that are 12 agreed upon, and then for those employees
13 electronic searches are run based on a
14 list of key words. That -- the data that 15 is generated from those searches are then
16 provided to counsel for responsiveness.

17 THE COURT: Tell you what, is this
18 something we should revisit again tomorrow
19 once you guys have had a chance to talk to 20 whomever you need to talk to just to come
21 up with a proposal?

22 MR. SCAROLA: Probably not a bad idea.

23 THE COURT: In the meantime I'm going
24 to generate a notice of hearing setting
25 this for hearing on February the 14th at

1 9:30 which is the second part you brought
2 up. Do you need to do discovery --
3 presumably you do -- of the people that
4 they would present to testify, or do you
5 not want to?

6 MR. IANNO: No, I -- I don't want to 7 from the standpoint of the additional 8 burden it imposes upon us, but if an 9 evidentiary hearing is going to be held,
10 I'd like the opportunity to be able to 11 conduct discovery.

12 THE COURT: Can we pick a date now
13 pretty quick where you're going to list
14 everybody that's going to testify at this 15 hearing? Let's see. Today is the 2nd.
16 We're coming on the 14th. By Tuesday the 17 8th, and you need to make them available
18 for deposition, Wednesday, Thursday,
19 Friday.

20 MR. SCAROLA: Here.

21 THE COURT: Here. So it would be the 22 person and sort of a summary of the 23 expected subject matter.

24 MR. SCAROLA: With any relevant
25 documents produced by the same deadline as

1 the witnesses will be identified.

2 THE COURT: Any documents that the
3 witness will rely on.

4 MR. SCAROLA: Any documents that the 5 witnesses intend to rely upon or any
6 documents intended to be introduced.

7 THE COURT: I'm trying to think how
8 we're going to write this where it would 9 make sense.

10 MR. SCAROLA: I would imagine, for 11 example, that there are written documents
12 that relate to the discovery of these 13 materials. Somebody wrote a memo to 14 someone. Someone e-mailed somebody. I
15 would certainly like to have produced to 16 us all documents relating to the discovery
17 of any materials that are involved in this 18 consideration.

19 And apparently there have been outside
20 vendors involved in the reconstituting,
21 reformatting and searching these
22 documents. I'd like to see all
23 correspondence with those outside vendors
24 and any and all agreements reflecting the 25 terms of their retention, as well as 031443

1 proposals received in connection with any
2 task to be performed in reformatting or 3 searching the documents. It would be very 4 interesting to know, for example, if
5 someone said we can get the job done in 48
6 hours, but it's going to cost you more.

7 THE COURT: Anybody have a hand at 8 this, a good global definition of
9 document?

10 MR. SCAROLA: I don't know that I have 11 it handy. Plaintiff's definition of 12 document contained within prior requests
13 to produce, I think that's been pretty
14 standardized in our earlier discovery
15 requests.

16 THE COURT: It includes like telephone
17 messages, e-mails, all that?

18 MR. SCAROLA: Yes.

19 THE COURT: I'll have this order typed
20 for you by tomorrow unless you want to try 21 to get it -- I want to play with the 22 language a little bit. But the basic 23 concept is going to be by Tuesday at noon
24 Morgan Stanley needs to designate
25 everybody who's going to testify at the

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

157

159

1 hearing; needs to provide copies of all
2 the documents that are sort of relevant to 3 the issues before the court and all the 4 documents, correspondence between Morgan
5 Stanley and any outside or prospective
6 outside vendors. I want to play with the 7 language a little bit.

8 And, again, I know it's harsh for the 9 parties now to have to go through these 10 hoops, but it's a combination of two
11 things. It's a combination of my concern
12 about doing an evidentiary sanction where 13 we wait a couple weeks, we know if there's 14 any true prejudice. Coupled with that, I
15 sort of see as a very half-hearted effort
16 before today of Morgan Stanley to try to 17 provide this information. And, again,
18 that doesn't give me any level of 19 confidence in going forward with the 20 motion today.

21 Want to take this to Nancy?

22 Now we are going to go back and come up
23 with -- Good afternoon, Mr. Bemis.

24 MR. BEMIS: Good afternoon, Your Honor.
25 I hope I wasn't late. I was told 2:30.

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

158

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

1 1.310 (b)(6), this is our corporate
2 knowledge, and this is what the witness
3 would testify to. Then the parties follow
4 up with this, can you tell me more about
5 this. We did this with the debentures and 6 other things in this case.

7 What I suggest to do, the documents the 8 court identified and the areas of concern
9 the court identified, together with some 10 questions Mr. Scarola raised, I suggest
11 that Morgan Stanley file a written
12 response under oath verified as to those 13 documents; Coleman can review it, say,
14 well, I need more information on this or I
15 don't think that's sufficient; I want to 16 take -- I want the deposition on this, and 17 then we provide the deposition. And that 18 way we're not wasting our time where they 19 ask a question that, you know, we don't 20 honestly expect to be coming on some
21 things. We'll respond to the footer
22 issue. We'll do more searches and 23 discovery into those handwritten
24 documents.

25 THE COURT: I think what you're

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

031444

1 suggesting to me is that within -- and
2 presumably a very short period of time you
3 guys would do a sworn statement addressing
4 what you believe to be my concerns about
5 sort of failures of Mr. Doyle's testimony.

6 MR. IANNO: Correct.

7 THE COURT: And then plaintiff within a
8 short period of time would either say,
9 yeah, this is sufficient for our purposes;
10 we might not be happy, but we realize this
11 is the best we're going to get or is going 12 to be able to say, no, we still want the 13 corporate rep to testify.

14 MR. IANNO: Two things in the 15 alternative. They could say if you just 16 tell us this under oath, that may be okay
17 because that's what they've done in the 18 past. They say, well, what did you mean
19 by. That may be a simple question. You
20 know, they didn't understand a term or 21 they didn't -- they just need a little
22 more information.

23 THE COURT: I don't think that that was 24 the kind of thing we were talking about 25 this morning.

1 short period of time.

2 MR. SCAROLA: Perfectly reasonable --

3 THE COURT: But...

4 MR. SCAROLA: -- if we were three months
5 away from trial and not three weeks away
6 from trial. And that's really what my 7 concern is, Your Honor. It is not as if 8 this is an area that we have not 9 diligently pursued for many, many, many 10 months. This has been the subject of 11 repeated hearings before Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: I understand that, and sort
13 of an aside to all of this is whether at a
14 minimum plaintiffs should be entitled to 15 attorney's fees for the depo. The depo
16 was really wholly a waste. All Mr. Doyle
17 did is come and say he read the other
18 depositions. Well, they had the other depositions.

19 MR. IANNO: I understand the court's
20 position on that.

21 MR. SCAROLA: I can't add any more to 22 what I've said, Your Honor. I've told you
23 that I think that the time has come where 24 they face the consequences of their
25 conscious choices. There is clearly

1 MR. IANNO: I'm just saying this is what
2 we've done in the past. It was an
3 either/or. They can either do that or 4 say, no, we want the corporate rep depo on
5 this.

6 THE COURT: Let's assume the proposal
7 on the table for discussion purposes is 8 that within some very short period of time
9 we're going to give a sworn statement, you
10 know, at least on the ones about the word
11 processing standpoint, computer footer,
12 you know, disclosing every possible piece
13 of information that could be gleaned from 14 that and then that they pursued it, and 15 this is what they believed, and then we 16 still have the three documents where sort
17 of the testimony was just insufficient
18 and then I guess on those three documents,
19 giving a sworn answer that they think
20 addresses the deficiencies, and then you
21 either say this is fine for us or, you
22 know what, we need to go back and take
23 another corporate rep depo.

24 MR. SCAROLA: Perfectly --

25 THE COURT: Provided we do it in a

1 evidence of a deliberate stonewalling, and
2 they ought to -- they ought to be held
3 accountable for that. And the only
4 reasonable way that avoids prejudicing the 5 plaintiff at this stage of the proceedings
6 is simply by deeming those documents that 7 they have failed to respond to 8 appropriately, as Your Honor has
9 identified, to be admissible.

10 MR. IANNO: I think the Court has 11 already stated that sanctions of 12 admissibility are not the sanctions that 13 are appropriate.

14 THE COURT: Yeah. Hold on.

15 What's the subsection of what we're 16 dealing with?

17 MR. IANNO: 803.6.

18 THE COURT: No, 1.310 of the rule.

19 MR. IANNO: (b)(6). We always refer to 20 it as a 30(b)(6) depo pursuant to federal 21 rules.

22 THE COURT: Again, I have to play with 23 the language, but the basic concept is 24 going to be -- I have to go back and see
25 the time frame I was contemplating. I

031445

1 think it was two business days. Yeah, by
2 12 noon on Monday that you all need to
3 file a sworn statement, and I'm going to
4 play with -- according to all information
5 conveyed or referable by what's been
6 referred to as the word process stamp,
7 together with a statement of methodology
8 by which the information can be conveyed
9 or inferred. Some explanation of how
10 you're getting this from this and what 11 that information shows for each of those 12 listed document.

13 And you also need to -- And all I'm 14 doing is copying what were the designated 15 topics from their Notice of Deposition for 16 those three additional documents we talked
17 about. You just need to give all that 18 information. And then within two business
19 days after that is served on you, you have 20 your option to either say, okay, that's 21 enough or we want to depose the 22 1.310(b)(6) witness as to any of these
23 items in which case they have to produce
24 the deponent within two business days for 25 depo.

1 Do we care where this person is
2 produced for depo?
3 MR. SCAROLA: Yes, Your Honor.
4 THE COURT: And where would we want
5 this person to be produced?
6 MR. SCAROLA: Here. Our litigation team
7 is now in residence.
8 THE COURT: I'm sorry. Who's in 9 residence?
10 MR. SCAROLA: Our litigation team is now
11 in residence.
12 MR. IANNO: We're all trying to help
13 the Palm Beach economy.
14 THE COURT: I'm sure you guys are 15 helping it.
16 MR. SCAROLA: May I suggest that the 17 court expressly reserve the right to 18 impose additional economic sanctions?
19 THE COURT: I am. I'm just writing now
20 we're determining fees for bringing the 21 motions and related efforts; we're 22 reserving jurisdiction to determine the 23 amount and figure out whatever other
24 sanctions we need to do with a process.
25 MR. SCAROLA: With similar language as

1 in the motion for sanctions?
2 THE COURT: I'm trying to remember.
3 Okay. I'll have to play with the 4 language.
5 Are we ready to start the motions in
6 limine, then?
7 MR. SCAROLA: Yes, ma'am. Are we going
8 to take it in the order in which you
9 described?
10 MR. IANNO: Pick one. Whichever one you
11 guys want to start with.
12 THE COURT: The first one we're going
13 to do is which one?
14 MR. IANNO: Morgan Stanley's motion in 15 limine number three.
16 THE COURT: Okay. Okay. Go ahead.
17 MR. CLARE: Good afternoon, Your Honor,
18 again, Thomas Clare for Morgan Stanley.
19 This is Morgan Stanley's motion in limine
20 number three. The scope of this motion is 21 to exclude evidence, argument or reference
22 at the trial to corporate corruption in 23 accounting scandals. Examples of these 24 types of scandals are well-known and have 25 been littered throughout the pleadings,

1 Enron, WorldCom, Arthur Andersen, Tyco and
2 others. People in the community have a
3 very strong feeling about these scandals,
4 and even mere references to them bring out
5 very emotionally charged feelings.
6 THE COURT: Can I ask you, do you
7 intend to offer any evidence or testimony
8 that it would have been against your 9 client's economic interest to do what
10 Coleman suggested you did? Or do you
11 intend just to argue that?
12 MR. CLARE: Well, our executives will
13 testify that they would not have loaned
14 Sunbeam its -- Morgan Stanley's own money
15 if they had any inkling of fraud or any
16 other misconduct at Sunbeam.
17 THE COURT: Okay.
18 MR. CLARE: That is absolutely going to 19 be --
20 THE COURT: Because they did some sort
21 of economic analysis of what their 22 expected profit was and what were the 23 chances they would be found out?
24 MR. CLARE: No, there's nothing like
25 that. Morgan Stanley acted as a lender to 031446

1 Sunbeam, lent its own money to Sunbeam.
2 And the Morgan Stanley executives who were
3 involved in the decision to loan the money
4 have testified and will testify that had 5 they known there was any financial
6 misdeeds at Sunbeam or things were other
7 than as they had been represented to 8 Morgan Stanley, they would not have
9 proceeded to commit Morgan Stanley's own
10 capital as a lender and as an underwriter
11 of the debentures.

12 THE COURT: Yes.

13 MR. CLARE: Because Morgan Stanley would 14 not have lent money to a corporation whose 15 audited financials, as represented by the 16 auditors, Sunbeam's auditors were not in 17 compliance with GAAP as ultimately turned 18 out to be the case.

19 THE COURT: Okay. And why? I mean,
20 because your client is just -- and I'm not
21 being facetious, but because your client
22 is ethical or because your client is in 23 the business to make a profit and you know
24 that there's a chance that if the audited
25 financials are incorrect, there's a chance

1 the whole thing is going to unravel and
2 you're going to lose money or why?

3 MR. CLARE: It is both. I mean, it is
4 Morgan Stanley would not knowingly
5 affiliate itself with a transaction as a
6 lender, as an underwriter or as an advisor
7 with a company that it knew was involved
8 in any sort of fraud or financial 9 misdealings.

10 THE COURT: So it's both because you're 11 ethical so you wouldn't do that and 12 because you're afraid you'd lose money?

13 MR. CLARE: Certainly the idea of 14 loaning money to an institution that is 15 committing fraud is a bad business
16 decision in addition to being unethical
17 and against Morgan Stanley' business
18 principles.

19 THE COURT: It's not always a bad
20 business decision, which is presumably 21 what plaintiff is going to respond, that 22 lots of companies have done it because
23 it's not always a bad economic decision
24 because the chances are that fraud won't
25 be uncovered in time to make your client

1 liable.

2 MR. CLARE: In order for that argument
3 by the plaintiff to make any sense, there
4 would have to be a showing or some sort of 5 an evidentiary proffer that the other
6 dealings to which they want to refer are 7 substantially similar to in circumstances
8 to the ones at issue here, and that is not 9 the case with any of the ones that 10 plaintiff has raised so far or any of the 11 other corporate scandals that are out
12 there so far.

13 The sweeping assertion of Enron, Tyco,
14 WordCom, JP Morgan or Citigroup doesn't 15 get them all the way home. There are 16 substantial differences between the 17 transactions that are involved, the 18 financial incentives, the type of payback,
19 consideration that a company would have to 20 go through if they were going to do that
21 type of analysis, and it would be unfairly
22 prejudicial to Morgan Stanley to have that 23 emotionally charged comparison made
24 without a showing that the other
25 transactions were substantially similar.

1 The case law is in accord.

2 THE COURT: Okay. And so sort of we're
3 acknowledging other companies have made
4 business decisions that had them go
5 through with deals even in the face of 6 fraud presumably because they thought at 7 the time it was in their economic 8 self-interest, and we're just saying that
9 that's not Morgan Stanley, there's nothing
10 to suggest Morgan Stanley has done that.

11 MR. CLARE: I'm not acknowledging
12 anything about what other companies did or 13 how -- what other companies' incentives
14 were at some point in time. That's not an 15 issue in this case.

16 THE COURT: You're just saying you guys
17 didn't do it and wouldn't do it. Okay.
18 What's the response? How is this relevant
19 and how would you intend to use it if at 20 all?

21 MR. CLARE: And not unfairly
22 prejudicial.

23 THE COURT: Sure. I understand that.
24 And, you know, you got to understand what 25 it is they're saying. These are 031447

1 emotionally charged issues.
 2 MR. SCAROLA: I understand exactly what
 3 they're saying, Your Honor. And I find it
 4 strange that they are saying it in light
 5 of what they are simultaneously doing with
 6 respect to complying with Your Honor's
 7 direction that we formulate a
 8 questionnaire for jurors, because on the 9 questionnaire that we received from them
 10 for our consideration, prominent among the 11 questions are have any of you been 12 investors in WorldCom; have any of you
 13 been investors in Enron; have any of you
 14 been investors in Tyco; did you experience
 15 any losses as a consequence of Enron,
 16 WorldCom or Tyco; how have those events
 17 affected your attitudes.
 18 Now they're asking those questions for 19 very obvious reasons because those real
 20 world recent events have a very 21 significant impact on the reality of the 22 financial world in which we are presently
 23 living.
 24 THE COURT: Sure, but what we're
 25 talking about is the legitimate

1 evidentiary value of those items in the
 2 case.
 3 MR. SCAROLA: I understand what the 4 motion asks for is that no one be
 5 permitted to reference those matters. And 6 what I am telling Your Honor is that they
 7 propose to reference them in voir dire.
 8 And I say that because that is an 9 acknowledgment of the significance of 10 those events in shaping current attitudes.
 11 If they are asking presumably because 12 they are concerned that the attitudes of 13 jurors have been influenced by those 14 recent world events, this is a case in 15 which they are arguing that we failed to 16 conduct reasonable due diligence in 1998
 17 before WorldCom, before Tyco, before
 18 Enron. The financial world that existed
 19 before Enron, before WorldCom and before
 20 Tyco was a very different world. It was 21 indeed an extremely different world. And 22 the level of suspicion that an investor --
 23 you were about to say something.
 24 THE COURT: If what you're getting to 25 is your experts might refer to some of

1 think is the legal relevancy of sort of
 2 any reference to this. And all I can
 3 hear -- maybe I'm misunderstanding -- that
 4 you're telling me now is you want to make
 5 sure the experts can explain that what was
 6 reasonable due diligence in '97 and '98
 7 before there was all this evidence of 8 corporate fraud is different and probably
 9 less global than what may be due diligence
 10 now.
 11 MR. SCAROLA: You got it. That's
 12 exactly what I'm saying.
 13 THE COURT: We're talking about
 14 retained experts, and we're talking about 15 only in reference to their explaining the 16 level of due diligence that was required
 17 in '97 and '98.
 18 MR. SCAROLA: That's point one.
 19 THE COURT: Is there any other legal
 20 relevance to this piece of information?
 21 MR. SCAROLA: I want our experts to be
 22 able to say although we're sitting here
 23 today, I would say that it was 24 unreasonable to do X; in 1998, it was 25 reasonable to do X because we didn't know

031448

1 about things like WorldCom and Enron and
2 Tyco. We have had our level of suspicions
3 raised today, and that didn't exist then,
4 and you need to understand, ladies and
5 gentlemen of the jury, when you're
6 deciding what is reasonable that you're
7 deciding what is reasonable in the context
8 of the world as it existed pre-Enron,
9 pre-WorldCom, pre-Tyco. I would like them
10 to be able to say that.

11 THE COURT: To convey that concept, do
12 you need to use specific examples of 13 illegitimate corporate deeds, or why
14 wouldn't it be appropriate for them to 15 testify benignly that there have been 16 recent examples of fraud and that the 17 level of due diligence has changed?

18 MR. SCAROLA: I don't need them to get 19 into a detailed description of those 20 frauds, but why should I not be able to 21 reference them specifically when we all
22 know what we're talking about?

23 THE COURT: I just don't want to open
24 up a whole mini trial about what Enron was 25 about or what Tyco was about.

1 MR. SCAROLA: I just want them to be
2 able to say what I just said. I want my
3 expert to be able to get on the witness
4 stand and say I am telling you that what
5 Ron Perlman and CPH did in 1997 was
6 unreasonable, also, the knowledge that it
7 may not be reasonable from what we've
8 learned from Enron, Tyco and WorldCom, but 9 back then we didn't have that level of 10 suspicion. That level of suspicion did
11 not exist.

12 To draw an analogy, if we were asking
13 people what's due diligence in terms of 14 airplane security before and after 15 September 11, 2001, if you were trying to 16 convince a jury in 1998 that people had to 17 take off their shoes in order to get on an 18 airplane, people are going to look at you
19 and say that's ridiculous; that's not
20 reasonable. But it has become reasonable 21 as a consequence of what we have 22 subsequently learned. So what I want to 23 be able to prove to this jury is that 24 subsequent events have altered what is 25 reasonable. What was reasonable then is

1 are companies that have knowingly
2 subjected themselves to engage in business
3 transactions with companies known to have
4 been engaging in fraud, don't you? You
5 know this isn't the first time -- this
6 isn't the only time. Arthur Andersen did.
7 You know that Arthur Andersen was involved
8 in a very similar transaction, don't you,
9 sir? So how can you credibly assert that 10 it couldn't happen, it wouldn't happen.
11 It does happen. It has happened. It's 12 been proven to happen. And you're aware
13 of that, Mr. Fritz, aren't you? You read
14 about it on the front pages of the Wall
15 Street Journal.

16 THE COURT: Any other evidence
17 relevance to this?

18 MR. SCAROLA: Those are the two contexts
19 I envision it coming up, cross-examination
20 of defense witnesses and direct
21 examination of plaintiff's witnesses to 22 explain the reasonable standard of care as 23 it existed in 1998.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Let's talk about
25 that latter thing first. Wouldn't it make 031449

1 sense that jurors come in with sort of
2 some expectation of what you would do for 3 due diligence and it's probably based on 4 more recent events?

5 MR. CLARE: I think that it is
6 reasonable for the jurors to come to the 7 jury box with a world view that is
8 current. I think that is reasonable.

9 THE COURT: Sure.

10 MR. CLARE: And that is the purpose of 11 voir dire is to be able to understand what 12 jurors' current --

13 THE COURT: How do you draw their
14 attention to their sort of view of world
15 events now is not what the parties were 16 faced with in 1997?

17 MR. CLARE: To the extent that is a
18 legitimate and relevant argument as set
19 forth by Mr. Scarola, I do not concede it
20 is because that is not the subject of this
21 motion. But assuming it can be done in a
22 way without reference to specific 23 corporate scandals that refers to 24 subsequent events or in the generic to 25 avoid the risk of prejudice and avoid the

1 confusion of the issues, both with respect
2 to that explanation of what intervening
3 events have changed attitudes about due
4 diligence --

5 THE COURT: Give me an example of what
6 you think is the kind of question and
7 answer that would be permissible.

8 MR. CLARE: Would be permissible?

9 THE COURT: Yes.

10 MR. CLARE: I would pick the formulation
11 that Mr. Scarola had used a moment ago
12 when he talked about subsequent corporate
13 events or subsequent world events.

14 THE COURT: No. That wouldn't even 15 tell them what we're talking about.

16 MR. CLARE: I would have to give more
17 thought specifically to what the 18 formulation would be that would be 19 acceptable, but I would submit that the 20 parameters should be that it should not 21 include any specific reference to a named
22 corporation, company, or investment bank
23 because it opens the door to confusion of 24 the issues and will lead, as Your Honor
25 pointed out, to the inevitable mini trial

1 on how each of those scandals are
2 different or the same.
3 Mr. Scarola's cross-examination example
4 is -- the correct point is that what will 5 happen if that line of questioning is 6 permitted, not just with regard to in 7 general, but with regard to specific
8 inquiry is that it will evolve into a
9 discussion of how the Enron scandal was 10 different than the Sunbeam scandal, how 11 the WorldCom scandal was different than 12 the Sunbeam scandal, how the commodity
13 transactions at issue in those types of 14 scandals were different than the merger
15 and acquisition transaction. We'll be 16 going down a path where we will have 17 experts on both sides opining as to 18 scandals that are not in front of the 19 court and will confuse the issues in front
20 of the jury.
21 The financial transactions in this case
22 are complex enough without injecting
23 additional complex financial transactions
24 into the mix for them to consider and sort
25 out. And the risk of prejudice to Morgan

1 Stanley from having been lumped together
2 with these dissimilar scandals overwhelms
3 whatever minimal probative value, those 4 lines of relevance that Mr. Scarola has
5 identified.
6 MR. SCAROLA: Defendants avoid that
7 aspect of this evidence by not having
8 their witnesses take the position that 9 they have taken. If they don't get up in 10 front of this jury and say this can not
11 happen because companies like Morgan
12 Stanley don't knowingly participate in 13 frauds, if they don't make those kinds of 14 statements, they don't open the door to 15 that line of inquiry. If they do make 16 those kinds of statements, they have 17 invited the cross-examination that I've 18 described. Just say Morgan Stanley didn't
19 do it. Don't come in here and try to say
20 Morgan Stanley wouldn't do it because
21 other companies don't; it hasn't happened
22 before, because then they're inviting
23 cross-examination about the fact that 24 indeed it has happened before. And they 25 know it.

031450

1 MR. CLARE: The court can certainly
2 fashion an order that would contemplate --
3 if Mr. Scarola's argument is credited that 4 would contemplate that plaintiffs should 5 not be permitted to make reference to 6 these corporate scandals in 7 cross-examination or otherwise without
8 first approaching the court and obtaining
9 permission based on the door opening
10 principle that Mr. Scarola has just 11 articulated.

12 THE COURT: Let me write this, and then
13 we'll talk where we're going. First of 14 all, the general order, sort of the form
15 of order I use on motions in limine has 16 language that says granted for purposes of 17 the motion, you know, means no, you know,
18 witness or counsel shall refer to the item
19 or attempt to place it before the jury
20 without first proffering the good faith
21 basis to believe the matter is now
22 admissible and relevant before. It
23 doesn't mean it doesn't come in. It means
24 it's not referred to unless we all talk
25 about it first.

1 the jury questionnaire, if it's still
2 there we'll talk about it then unless we
3 first talk about it in private.

4 Okay. Where are we going next?

5 MR. IANNO: Morgan Stanley's nine, Your
6 Honor.

7 MR. SCAROLA: Before Mr. Ianno makes his 8 presentation, may I perhaps narrow the 9 focus of the issues here?

10 THE COURT: Sure.

11 MR. BEMIS: Your Honor, can I just step 12 outside while Mr. Ianno makes his 13 presentation?

14 THE COURT: Sure. Do you want us to 15 wait?

16 MR. BEMIS: No. I just wanted to have
17 permission to step outside.

18 THE COURT: What did you want to try to 19 limit?

20 MR. SCAROLA: I simply wanted to make it
21 clear that it is the plaintiff's position
22 that evidence with regard to litigation
23 misconduct will be offered only in support
24 of our punitive damage claim and in a
25 bifurcated proceeding only in the second

1 Again, this is another one I'm going to
2 have to play with the language. I would
3 agree it's fair for plaintiff -- really
4 for either side to examine a retained
5 expert on the issue of due diligence of 6 whether the standard for due diligence has 7 changed since April of 1998. However, the 8 question and the answer should not refer
9 to any specific entity. Either identify 10 an entity or have an entity be 11 identifiable from the answer.

12 I would also agree that it's fair if a
13 witness testifies that sort of nobody, no
14 entity would complete this transaction or 15 make a loan where there's either fraud or 16 suspicion of fraud it's fair for that 17 person to be cross-examined about their 18 knowledge of whether that has ever
19 happened in the past. If they don't 20 testify in that fashion, they won't be 21 cross-examined on it.

22 But other than those two specific
23 instances, the motion would be granted,
24 which means we're not talking about this 25 stuff, although presumably when we get to

1 phase of that proceeding.

2 THE COURT: Okay. If that's the case,
3 do we want to do this now, or do we want
4 to wait and argue later?

5 MR. IANNO: I think we can do it now,
6 judge, and the reason is twofold. One,
7 there is no pending motion to bifurcate
8 I'm aware of unless it's come in since
9 lunchtime. It hasn't come in by fax as 10 long as I've been sitting here. And the 11 second thing is the litigation misconduct
12 that Mr. Scarola is referring to is a
13 separate case.

14 THE COURT: I mean, that would be, in 15 all honesty in reading this, my fear. And 16 I hate to short-circuit. Your argument
17 would be if we make reference to this,
18 suddenly we're trying that whole case
19 within the ambit of this. It's sort of 20 like the contempt. We're going to just 21 meet that train that goes off the tracks.

22 MR. IANNO: We're trying to streamline
23 this, not add that case back into the mix.

24 THE COURT: I agree. I mean, I'll be
25 real honest, I mean, how much do you guys

031451

1 really care about this? I mean, because
2 otherwise aren't we -- if you want to get
3 up and say, hey, they sued our affiliate
4 and dismissed it, they're really bad guys,
5 there were no merits, there's -- the only
6 way we address that is if we try that.

7 MR. SCAROLA: I understand the court's
8 concerns. My response is I believe those 9 issues can be dealt with in very summary
10 fashion and that they are indeed
11 appropriate in a second phase proceeding
12 where we're talking about the nature of 13 the defendant's response to having been
14 caught with its hand in the cookie jar.

15 THE COURT: We're talking about the 16 whole synergy stuff?

17 MR. SCAROLA: Pardon me?

18 MR. IANNO: No. What they're referring 19 to, judge, is they blamed us so we 20 automatically blame them. It's what they 21 say in their response.

22 THE COURT: Sure, but implicit in that
23 is that your other case was not 24 well-founded. Because if it was 25 well-founded, you guys could bring a

1 have to --

2 THE COURT: This is your motion. Why
3 don't you go back and argue.

4 MR. IANNO: We're going to have to go in 5 and prove the fraud we were trying to
6 avoid that CPH committed, the money Morgan
7 Stanley Senior Funding lost. We have to 8 go in and talk about that whole case.
9 This four-week trial now becomes eight.
10 And -- it's just not relevant to show
11 liability. And there is no bifurcated
12 proceedings here.

13 THE COURT: What's the response to that
14 it would be irrelevant and not punitive
15 damages?

16 MR. IANNO: If damages are being sought,
17 they wouldn't be against Morgan Stanley
18 Senior Funding. They're being sought
19 against Morgan Stanley Co., Incorporated.
20 It's Morgan Stanley Senior Funding that 21 brought that case.

22 THE COURT: What's the response?

23 MR. SCAROLA: We are talking about 24 Morgan Stanley's participation in 25 initiating that litigation.

1 well-founded claim and abandon it for
2 whatever reason you want.

3 MR. IANNO: That's our point. You know,
4 we're not here to try whether or not we
5 were defrauded. And the reasons for that
6 are irrelevant why we dropped it.

7 THE COURT: I guess I don't see any of 8 this is relevant unless you're prepared to 9 show that whole case was just woefully
10 baseless and they knew that from the 11 get-go.

12 MR. SCAROLA: We are prepared to show
13 that, and we believe that we can show it
14 very summarily.

15 THE COURT: Like how?

16 MR. SCAROLA: By showing that they not 17 only didn't suffer any damages, that
18 Morgan Stanley didn't suffer any damages
19 but that Morgan Stanley made a $42 million
20 profit on the transaction and participated
21 as a party in that lawsuit solely for 22 purposes of attempting to evade the 23 responsibility that it has in this case.

24 And that can be done very very briefly.

25 MR. IANNO: Except then we're going to

1 THE COURT: How would we ever show
2 that.

3 MR. SCAROLA: I think there's record
4 evidence of Morgan Stanley's participation
5 in that litigation in statements that were 6 made in open court going back into the 7 whole contempt issues.

8 THE COURT: I would grant the motion.
9 I think if we get into this, it is 10 pandora's box.

11 MR. IANNO: I have a proposed order and 12 envelopes.

13 THE COURT: Let me see what it is.

14 MR. IANNO: It doesn't have your 15 language so it isn't going to work.

16 THE COURT: We'll do it, but we'll take
17 your envelopes.

18 THE COURT: Now we're on to Coleman.
19 Let me get this notebook closed and get to 20 the other one.

21 MR. SCAROLA: Coleman's motion in limine
22 five.

23 THE COURT: Just so you know, I have a
24 warrant coming at about 3:30, so we'll
25 keep going and break when they show up.

031452

1 MR. BEMIS: I think these are going to
 2 go fast.
 3 MR. IANNO: Judge, do you mind if we
 4 come and go?
 5 THE COURT: Not at all. You guys feel
 6 free.
 7 THE COURT: I do have to thank you
 8 guys. I got to use one to update my one
 9 updating my administrative orders.
 10 MR. SCAROLA: You could probably start a 11 very lucrative office supply business on 12 the side.
 13 THE COURT: You know, we collect all
 14 the notebooks and we give them to school
 15 kids.
 16 MR. SCAROLA: I didn't realize that.
 17 THE COURT: We do that, yes.
 18 MR. SCAROLA: Very good.
 19 THE COURT: We're starting with number
 20 five, correct? Yes, sir. Go ahead.
 21 MR. SCAROLA: Your Honor, this is what I
 22 hope is a simple motion. Ruth Korit
 23 (phonetic), a key Morgan Stanley figure in 24 the Sunbeam transaction, had the 25 misfortune of some serious health problems

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

193

1 for a considerable period of time and,
 2 fortunately, has returned to work full
 3 time at Morgan Stanley. Indeed, she's 4 working 12 hours a day every day according 5 to her testimony. We're pleased that she
 6 has recovered. We believe that her
 7 illness is not relevant or material to any 8 issue in this case, and any reference to 9 it would simply be an effort to invoke
 10 sympathy on the part of the jury. We are 11 asking that there be no reference.
 12 THE COURT: What's the response?
 13 MR. BEMIS: We don't intend to do that,
 14 and we have no objection to --
 15 THE COURT: So we'll grant it, and if 16 something happens, we'll go back and 17 revisit it.
 18 MR. BEMIS: Correct. Out of the 19 presence of the jury and before the 20 evidence is offered.
 21 THE COURT: I'm still going to do my 22 own order just because that -- we have the 23 form so I can make sure all the language
 24 is the same. But we can do it. That can 25 go to Nancy, too. Thank you. I'm sure

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

194

1 she's thinned.
 2 Okay. Seven.
 3 MR. SCAROLA: Seven.
 4 THE COURT: Oh, yeah.
 5 MR. SCAROLA: Your Honor, the way in 6 which this motion is presented we have
 7 asked the court to exclude any reference
 8 to settlement of our claims against Arthur
 9 Andersen. In fact, I anticipate that
 10 avoiding reference to the fact that there
 11 were claims against Arthur Andersen and 12 indeed a resolution of that claim is 13 probably --
 14 THE COURT: Not realistic.
 15 MR. SCAROLA: -- probably not realistic.
 16 What is entirely realistic is to exclude
 17 any reference to the amount of settlement.
 18 There is no question at all about the fact
 19 that it is the court's province to deal
 20 with collateral source recoveries post
 21 verdict to make whatever setoffs are 22 appropriate post verdict, and,
 23 accordingly, there would be no reason for 24 the court -- for the jury to become 25 involved in making a determination or

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

195

1 considering at all what the amount of the
 2 Andersen settlement was.
 3 THE COURT: Is there any -- Let me ask
 4 you this. First of all, do you think
 5 there needs to be evidence --
 6 MR. BEMIS: No. Unless a circumstance
 7 arises that I don't perceive, I don't see
 8 that happening, bottom line, and I agree
 9 with Mr. Scarola, the amount of settlement
 10 is not something a jury considers.
 11 MR. SCAROLA: And, in fact, I agree it
 12 would be appropriate to instruct the jury
 13 -- to exclude any reference to a
 14 settlement with Arthur Andersen and that 15 the court will set off the amount of any 16 recoveries that may have been attained in 17 a post-trial determination. I mean,
 18 obviously that same thing would apply to 19 Sunbeam as well.
 20 MR. BEMIS: By my silence I'm not 21 agreeing with what the instruction should 22 be, but I'm aware of the concept, and I
 23 know we'll have an instruction of some 24 nature on that.
 25 THE COURT: Is the next one we have the

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

031453

1 same one but it's Sunbeam?
 2 MR. BEMIS: Yes, Your Honor.
 3 THE COURT: And it's the same as to 4 each.
 5 MR. BEMIS: We would not attempt to 6 introduce any evidence of the value of a
 7 settlement.
 8 THE COURT: Tomorrow afternoon is when
 9 we're going to do the other three at, you
 10 said, 1:30.
 11 MR. SCAROLA: 1:30 is fine for me.
 12 MR. BEMIS: I thought we had 2:30.
 13 THE COURT: Well, we had a little
 14 confusion about that earlier. I thought
 15 we had 2:30.
 16 MR. SCAROLA: 2:30 is fine.
 17 MR. BEMIS: I would prefer 2:30 because 18 there are many things due this Friday, and 19 we've been a little bit schedule disrupted
 20 if you can accommodate us at 2:30 --
 21 THE COURT: How long do you think we'll
 22 be?
 23 MR. BEMIS: The longest one, I think,
 24 will be the one related to Mr. William 25 Strong, the evaluation records. You have

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

197

2/11/2005 3:25 PM

199

1 heard my argument on that.
 2 MR. SCAROLA: I think we can finish all
 3 of them in under two hours. I don't see
 4 us going over two hours.
 5 THE COURT: Then my question is do we
 6 want to -- can we do it at 2:00 and go to 7 the jury assembly room first?
 8 MR. BEMIS: I could be here at 9 2:00 o'clock if that's what Your Honor --
 10 THE COURT: I got your answers.
 11 MR. SCAROLA: Or if you would like, we 12 can wait around and go down to the jury
 13 assembly room after 3:30.
 14 THE COURT: I haven't called them to 15 arrange it, but I can't imagine it would 16 be a problem. I have your little list.
 17 Do you want to try to do it now or --
 18 MR. SCAROLA: We can try to do it now.
 19 That's fine, too.
 20 THE COURT: Let me go call and see if
 21 we're able to do that. Okay. I'll be 22 right back. Thanks.
 23 (A recess was taken from 3:19 p.m.
 24 to 3:21 p.m.)
 25 THE COURT: Okay. She's waiting for us.

IN AND FOR PALM BEACH COUNTY,

COLEMAN (PARENT) HOLDINGS INC.,
Plaintiff,

CASE NO: CA 03-5045 AI

vs.

MORGAN STANLEY & CO. INCORPORATED,
Defendant.

DECLARATION OF THOMAS A. CLARE

1. I am Thomas A. Clare. I am a partner in the law firm of Kirkland & Ellis LLP. Kirkland & Ellis is counsel to Morgan Stanley in the above-captioned action. In that capacity, I have personal knowledge of the matters set forth herein.

2. I am familiar with the Court's Order on Coleman (Parent) Holdings Inc.'s Ore Tenus Motion To Participate In Search Of Additional E-mail Back Up Tapes Or Appoint Third Party To Conduct Search (the "Additional Tapes Order"). The Additional Tapes Order requires Morgan Stanley to search additional e-mail backup tapes that were not previously searched, and to produce to CPH each e-mail required by the April 16, 2004 Agreed Order on CPH's Motion To Compel Concerning E-mail And Other Electronic Documents.

3. I supervised the review of data from the additional e-mail backup tapes for responsiveness and privilege. I supervised the production of responsive e-mail messages to CPH, as well as the preparation and production of privilege logs associated with those productions.

4. Morgan Stanley completed the final installment of its production of e-mails to CPH at approximately 2:35 a.m. on February 11, 2005.

031456

5. I personally have reviewed every responsive e-mail document produced to CPH pursuant to the Additional Tapes Order, and every responsive e-mail document withheld by Morgan Stanley from those productions on grounds of privilege. I personally have compared every one of these e-mail documents to Morgan Stanley's prior productions to CPH.

6. Morgan Stanley produced twenty-one (21) documents to CPH pursuant to the Additional Tapes Order. That production can be summarized as follows:

- (a) Ten (10) of these documents are exact duplicates of documents Morgan Stanley previously produced to CPH;
- (b) One (1) of these documents contains exactly the same text as an e-mail document Morgan Stanley previously produced to CPH, but it bears a different date;
- (c) Two (2) of these documents are duplicates of each other, with the only difference being a series of computer-generated error messages informing the sender that the e-mail message was not delivered to one of the intended recipients;
- (d) One (1) of these documents is a computer-generated e-mail message informing the recipient that Sunbeam publicly filed a Form 10-K/A with the Securities and Exchange Commission in November 1998, seven months after the financial transactions that are the subject of this lawsuit;
- (e) Two (2) of these documents are substantial duplicates of documents Morgan Stanley previously produced to CPH, with the only difference being the inclusion of an additional e-mail reply message.

7. Only eight (8) newly-produced documents contain e-mail threads that were not previously produced, in whole or in substantial part, to CPH. None of the e-mail messages contained in those eight (8) documents are dated between February, 1998 and April 30, 1998.

8. At the February 2, 2005 hearing on CPH's Motion For Adverse Inference, counsel for CPH informed the Court that that "we [CPH] narrowed our focus to the period of time in February of 1998 and March of 1998 and April of 1998 when the communications going on within Morgan Stanley are of critical importance to demonstrate what they knew and when they knew it.” (Feb. 2, 2005 Hrg. at 118.) A true and correct copy of the relevant transcript pages is appended to this Declaration.

UNDER PENALTY OF PERJURY, I HEREBY DECLARE THAT THE FOREGOING IS TRUE AND CORRECT.

1 with an agreed upon order, I'm happy to go
2 back and try to get that information.

3 THE COURT: I think the answer is, no,
4 we don't really have an explanation of why
5 we didn't find out about this stuff until
6 October. So why don't you go ahead.

7 MR. SCAROLA: Thank you very much. The
8 history of efforts to obtain e-mail
9 production is outlined in our motion. We
10 are dealing with a corporation that that
11 was fined $1.65 million.

12 MR. CLARE: If Mr. Scarola is making an
13 evidentiary proffer based on the SEC
14 findings cited in his paper, I object to 15 that evidentiary proffer on the grounds of 16 hearsay.

17 THE COURT: Okay. I think it would be
18 fair to say that for today's purposes I
19 don't have any evidence from either side
20 other than in October we first found out
21 there were other backup tapes.

22 MR. SCAROLA: What you do have, because
23 it is attached to the motion, is a record
24 of our efforts to try to get an
25 explanation. So as the record stands

031461

1 before Your Honor right now, we have a
2 record of repeated efforts to obtain the
3 information, the entry of an order
4 imposing a deadline on production, and
5 acknowledgment that substantial
6 information existed but was not produced
7 in accordance with the deadline and
8 silence in the face of requests for an
9 explanation.

10 Now I suggest that that shifts the
11 burden because of the entry of the order,
12 it shifts the burden to Morgan Stanley to 13 come forward and to explain its
14 noncompliance.

15 They have failed to do that in any way
16 whatsoever. Now Your Honor may choose to
17 give them another chance to do it,
18 although I suggest that it should have
19 been done in response to the motion that
20 was already filed. If you give them
21 another chance, you give them another
22 chance. But in the absence of a
23 reasonable explanation for their failure
24 to comply with the court order with regard
25 to what obviously is extremely important

031462

1 information -- we've narrowed our focus to
2 the period of time in February of 1998 and
3 March of 1998 and April of 1998 when the
4 communications going on within Morgan
5 Stanley are of critical importance to
6 demonstrate what they knew and when they
7 knew it.

8 And to be told that there are trillions
9 of bits of information that have just been
10 discovered, to be told that we are making
11 an effort to examine them, and we don't
12 know when that effort is going to be
13 completed, we can't give you any idea, we
14 refuse to tell you when we might complete
15 this job with trial two to three weeks
16 away, I suggest, is just unacceptable.

17 And there needs to be a judicial response
18 to that circumstance.

19 And there are alternatives, but the one
20 that I suggest is most appropriate on the
21 basis of the record that currently exists,
22 unless they are given an opportunity to
23 supplement that record is to tell the jury
24 what they did and to tell them that it's
25 reasonable to assume that under these

DECLARATION OF JAMES F. DOYLE

1. I am James F. Doyle. I am employed as an Executive Director in the Law Division of Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated ("Morgan Stanley"). In that capacity, I have personal knowledge of the matters set forth herein.

2. On information and belief, Morgan Stanley produced restored e-mail documents in the above-captioned matter on May 14, 2004.

3. At the end of October 2004, I learned that additional e-mail backup tapes had been located within Morgan Stanley, and that the data on those tapes had not been restored or searched prior to Morgan Stanley's May 14, 2004 e-mail production. Upon learning that information, I directed that the electronic searches described in the April 16, 2004 Agreed Order be conducted for any backup tapes that had been restored and made searchable at that point, and that the process of restoring the remaining backup tapes continue as expeditiously as possible.

UNDER PENALTY OF PERJURY, I HEREBY DECLARE THAT THE FOREGOING IS TRUE AND CORRECT.

 21 A. Me neither.
 22 Q. Would you state your full name for the

 2 Q. I apologize for asking, but how old are you?
 3 A. 36.
 4 Q. What's your educational background?
 5 A. I went through and got a BA in computer
 6 science at Hamilton College.
 7 Q. In what year?
 8 A. I graduated in 1990.
 9 Q. Since 1990 how have you been employed?
 10 A. I worked for Morgan Stanley from August of 11 1990 through August of -- no, I'm sorry. Back up.
 12 July of 1996 I left for a year. I worked at Smith
 13 Barney. And I returned to Morgan Stanley in August of 14 1997. I've been there since.
 15 Q. When you were at Morgan Stanley for your 16 first tour of duty, what jobs did you hold?
 17 A. I joined as a trainee. I was a floor
 18 support person. I went into a rotation in our data
 19 center where I did development and a combination of 20 that and shift work. We operated the main frame
 21 systems.
 22 When I came off that rotation, I continued
 23 to do development, management for the back-end systems
 24 on the main frame.
 25 From there I started to manage a help desk

031468

1 part-time and that subsequently became my full-time
 2 job. And I did a help desk consolidation. That was my
 3 last role before going to Smith Barney.
 4 Q. What did you do at Smith Barney?
 5 A. I was brought over to do a help desk
 6 consolidation. Shifted gears about three times there
 7 managing a number of different help desk service-based 8 areas. And left.
 9 Q. And when you came back to Morgan Stanley in 10 1997 did you have a title?
 11 A. No, I came in as an associate and my job
 12 description was integration engineering.
 13 Q. Did there come a time when you did get a
 14 title?
 15 A. Yes, I was promoted to VP in 1999. No, I'm 16 sorry, 1998. And I made ED in 2000.
 17 Q. ED being executive director?
 18 A. Executive director.
 19 Q. As VP what were your duties?
 20 A. When, I came back and I was doing
 21 integration engineering, that job essentially developed
 22 over the next few years. And so I moved into being 23 responsible for the infrastructure that interconnected
 24 Morgan Stanley, the merger that we had done with Dean
 25 Witter and Discover. So there was infrastructure we

1 put in place to connect those. And I was responsible
 2 for that.
 3 I took on a service-based role and sort of 4 tacked that on to my responsibilities. That included
 5 providing frontline based services for our -- what we 6 consider our company functions like HR and legal.
 7 I shed that piece of the role, but kept the 8 cost company integration role and moved over into the 9 group that I'm a part of now, Enterprise and Client
 10 Technologies, at the end of 2000, which was when I got 11 the second promotion.
 12 Q. And that was the promotion to executive 13 director?
 14 A. Yes.
 15 Q. Have you had any promotions or changes in 16 job responsibilities since the year 2000?
 17 A. Yes.
 18 Q. Would you tell me what those are?
 19 A. I took on product management for a number of 20 intercompany based products that ECT, which is 21 Enterprise and Client Technologies, I was responsible
 22 for including the Internet, the firm-wide directory
 23 services. I took on a development team for our e-based 24 learning training team. I took on responsibility for 25 the on-demand product that we have for IBM, which is

1 used for records retention.
 2 I took on some risk management based sort of 3 responsibilities across ECT as well, which I still 4 carry. I got out of a few of those, not all, and took 5 on the e-mail archive responsibilities in August of 6 this year. That pretty much brings you to current.
 7 Q. Who had been in charge of e-mail archive
 8 responsibilities prior to your doing it in August of 9 2004?
 10 A. Arthur Reil.
 11 Q. Is Mr. Reil still with Morgan Stanley?
 12 A. He is on leave from Morgan Stanley.
 13 Q. Do you know where he's located?
 14 A. No.
 15 Q. Do you know if he's still on Morgan
 16 Stanley's payroll?
 17 A. I know he was for some time. I don't know
 18 currently if he is.
 19 Q. To your knowledge or understanding did he go
 20 on leave in August of 2004 or at some other time?
 21 A. He went on leave the same day I took over.
 22 Q. And I really don't mean to pry into his 23 personal affairs, but do you know if there was a
 24 medical reason for that or a --
 25 A. He was placed on administrative leave by the 1 firm.

 2 Q. Do you know what the reason for that was?
 3 A. I don't know the specifics.
 4 Q. Was it a disciplinary action?
 5 A. I think there were general concerns about
 6 his work.
 7 Q. Were there general concerns about his work
 8 on the e-mail archive project?
 9 A. Yes.
 10 Q. And what was the nature of those concerns?
 11 A. I don't know the details.
 12 Q. What did you do to get up to speed in order
 13 to perform your duties with respect to the e-mail
 14 archive project?
 15 A. We gathered together all of the people who 16 were familiar with the system and had, essentially, a
 17 turn over meeting with myself and a couple people that 18 I had collected within the day or so it took us to put 19 the meeting together.
 20 They started to train us as best they could 21 on how the system operated. And shortly following
 22 that, over the next two weeks, we conducted interviews
 23 with Arthur and two people -- actually, two people on 24 his team and then later in September we conducted an 25 interview with somebody in the offshore development

1 team that had previously supported the product.
 2 Q. Let me back up a bit. Is there something
 3 called the e-mail archive project? Is there some 4 official name we should call it?
 5 A. The e-mail archive system, yeah.
 6 Q. Had you had any exposure or knowledge of 7 that system prior to August of 2004?
 8 A. Peripherally.
 9 Q. You just knew that it existed?
 10 A. I knew it existed. Arthur -- and I knew
 11 Arthur and I supported him in other capacities, not 12 directly in that one, but we talked.
 13 Q. Prior to him being placed on administrative 14 leave was he in a co-equal position to you or superior
 15 position or inferior position?
 16 A. We were in different organizations, but 17 roughly equal in terms of level.
 18 Q. And when you were -- and I don't know if you
 19 were offered this job or were assigned to it. I guess
 20 I should figure that out first.
 21 Was this something you were told to do or 22 was it something that was an opportunity?
 23 A. It was something I was asked to do.
 24 Q. Did you view it as an opportunity?
 25 A. Yes, on some level.

1 Q. Who was it that gave you this opportunity or
 2 asked you to do it?
 3 A. My manager.
 4 Q. And who is that?
 5 A. Jonathan Saxe, S-A-X-E.
 6 Q. And had he also been Mr. Reil's manager?
 7 A. No.
 8 Q. Do you know who Mr. Reil's manager was?
 9 A. Yes, Moyra Kilcoyne, K-I-L-C-O-Y-N-E.
 10 Q. I take it from the fact that you were 11 offered this job by a different manager that the 12 project moved from one manager to another?
 13 A. Yes, there was a decision --
 14 Q. How did that happen?
 15 A. Arthur was a part of an organization called 16 company IT. It's an application development team that 17 is responsible for all of the systems that legal, HR
 18 and all these company-based functions run.
 19 When they -- there had actually been prior
 20 discussions about this, but when he was asked to leave,
 21 they decided to move ahead with the change that had 22 already been under discussion, which was to move it
 23 over to ECT. We have responsibility for e-mail, web,
 24 which is one of the other content types we're
 25 interested in. All the messaging type, instant

1 messenger, faxing. So, essentially, Arthur archived
 2 what ECT was generating. So since we generated it, we 3 would be better at archiving it. Therefore, the 4 decision between Moyra and John to move it over between 5 the organizations.
 6 Q. And when Mr. Saxe asked you to take on this
 7 responsibility what did he tell you your job was going 8 to be?
 9 A. He told me I was going to be responsible for 10 the applications, development of the e-mail archive and 11 actually the supervisory system, which is closely
 12 linked to that.
 13 Q. Did he tell you that there was some problem
 14 with the project up until that date that precipitated
 15 your taking it over?
 16 A. He told me that the team that supported the 17 system was put on leave. I knew the people were going.
 18 I didn't know anything about the system.
 19 Q. Well, in order to fix whatever it was that 20 put those people on leave, you had to know what the 21 problem was, didn't you?
 22 A. I didn't assume there was any problem with 23 the system. It was a problem with the people.
 24 Q. All right. But there was some problem
 25 somewhere that required a change in personnel. Did you

1 ever identify what the problem was?
 2 MR. JONES: Object to the form of the
 3 question, asked and answered.
 4 You can answer.
 5 THE WITNESS: It came out over the course of 6 discussions that they were concerned with Arthur
 7 and his team. They thought he was reading
 8 people's e-mail. They didn't trust the offshore
 9 that he had commissioned to do the work. And so
 10 they let them go.
 11 BY MR. BYMAN:
 12 Q. So this was an integrity issue as opposed to 13 a performance issue?
 14 A. It was an integrity issue.
 15 Q. When you took over in August of 2004, what 16 did you do to get up to speed other than what you've 17 just told me?
 18 A. One of the people -- we took two people from 19 the e-mail engineering team, which is essentially part 20 of ECT, and we put them on the team. Because they had 21 the most knowledge of the system since they had worked 22 closely with Arthur's team in order to feed him the 23 content. And from there we essentially dug into the 24 code.
 25 Q. Did you retain anybody who had been on 031470

1 Arthur's team?
 2 A. I did not.
 3 Q. I mean, did you keep on your team people
 4 that had been on his team?
 5 A. No.
 6 Q. So there was a complete turnover in
 7 personnel?
 8 A. There was one person who stayed, but that 9 person did not come to me.
 10 Q. Who was that person?
 11 A. Boy, I can't spell her name. It's 12 D-A-N-I-L-Y-A-N, I believe. She went to work for the 13 IT security team. They took over operating the inquiry
 14 tool.
 15 Q. What was the purpose of the e-mail archive
 16 project, what was it supposed to do?
 17 A. We built a system to meet the regulations
 18 from the various regulatory bodies to retain all of our 19 e-mail on worm compliance storage, meet all the 20 third-party supervisor requirements and make it
 21 possible to make inquiries into e-mail as required by 22 the SEC, HR.
 23 Q. Did you have any knowledge about any SEC
 24 requirements that you were supposed to meet? What did
 25 you do to find out what requirements you were meeting?

1 A. I read the 17A4 regulation, which the system
 2 was built to meet, so that I would be educated from 3 that perspective.
 4 I met with my key user in compliance.
 5 Q. Who is that?
 6 A. Scott Rockoff, to get an understanding of 7 the system.
 8 Q. Were you aware that there had been an SEC
 9 fine imposed against Morgan Stanley with respect to its 10 past e-mail practices?
 11 A. At that time, no.
 12 Q. You later learned that?
 13 A. I learned that later.
 14 Q. Were you aware that the e-mail archive
 15 project grew out of reacting to that fine?
 16 A. No.
 17 Q. Did you have any understanding as to what it
 18 grew out of other than to comply with the law?
 19 A. Yeah, just to comply with the law.
 20 Everybody on the street was building an e-mail archive.
 21 I didn't scratch my head too much.
 22 Q. The idea then was to archive e-mails on an 23 ongoing basis?
 24 A. Yes. The focus of the live system is to 25 pick messages out of the infrastructure as they flow

1 through and archive them.
 2 Q. And keep them in a searchable format for 3 three years?
 4 A. Yes.
 5 Q. Was part of the project, what, to 6 reconstruct and archive past e-mails?
 7 A. Yes.
 8 Q. How far back?
 9 A. Not reconstruct, but...
 10 Q. Was there any reconstruction involved?
 11 Recovery? I'm not going to speak the same language
 12 that you do, Ms. Gorman. I apologize.
 13 A. Reconstruction is a little different.
 14 Yes, recover. Migrate, as we say.
 15 Yes, there was a tape restoration process
 16 underway.
 17 Q. And what was the goal of that process? How 18 far back were you trying to go?
 19 A. I don't know if there was a date. I believe 20 we were basically migrating all the tapes that were 21 available. I never heard it associated with a date.
 22 Q. So anything you could find?
 23 A. So anything we could find we were putting 24 in.
 25 Q. What did you do to cast your net to make

1 sure you found as much as possible?
 2 MR. JONES: Object to the form.
 3 THE WITNESS: That's not my area to cover.
 4 BY MR. BYMAN:
 5 Q. Whose area is that?
 6 A. Bob Saunders, the enterprise competing
 7 group.
 8 Q. Does he report to you on the e-mail archive
 9 system?
 10 A. No.
 11 Q. Do you know who he does report to?
 12 A. Jerry DeMarco.
 13 Q. Who is Mr. DeMarco?
 14 A. Jerry DeMarco runs a group that we call
 15 enterprise computer, which is -- actually he probably 16 runs a subset of that, responsible for the UNIX and 17 Windows-based server infrastructure, and desktop
 18 infrastructure.
 19 Q. Do you still report to Mr. Saxe?
 20 A. Yes.
 21 Q. Do you know who he reports to?
 22 A. He has a dual report to Richard Anfang and 23 Guy Chiarello.
 24 Q. And who were they?
 25 A. Richard Anfang runs an organization called 01471

1 EI and guy is the CIO.
 2 Q. Chief institutional officer?
 3 A. Yes.
 4 Q. Do you know who Mr. DeMarco reports to?
 5 A. Jerry reports to Jeff Birnbaum.
 6 Q. And who is he?
 7 A. He oversees both enterprise computing and a
 8 group we call enterprise application infrastructure.
 9 Q. This may be above your pay grade, but is 10 there a point at which --
 11 A. All this comes together?
 12 Q. Yes.
 13 A. Richard. So John and Jeff both report
 14 directly to Richard.
 15 Q. Richard Anfang?
 16 A. Yes.
 17 Q. Let me back up a little bit about your 18 preparation today and your reason for being here today.
 19 Did you do anything to prepare for your
 20 deposition today?
 21 A. I met with the lawyers.
 22 Q. When did you meet with them?
 23 A. Last night and today on the plane.
 24 Q. And I don't want to know what you said, but 25 I would like to know how long you talked, how much time

1 did you spend in preparation?
 2 A. Last night we spoke just a little over an 3 hour.
 4 Q. And your plane ride couldn't have been more
 5 than --
 6 A. The plane ride I think we talked for about
 7 two hours maybe.
 8 Q. Other than last night and today on the 9 plane, have you had any other contact with the lawyers
 10 with respect to e-mail issues? And, again, I don't 11 want the substance, I just want to know if you've had 12 contact?
 13 A. I need you to be a little more specific. I
 14 talk to lawyers about e-mail every day.
 15 Q. Let me be more specific. In front of us is 16 a stack of documents that were provided to us
 17 yesterday. Again, the court order, which you may or 18 may not be aware of, but let me represent to you that 19 there was a court order that directed Morgan Stanley to 20 advise us of the identity of witnesses who would 21 testify at a hearing on Monday. You are one of three 22 persons who has been identified to us. And it also 23 directed Morgan Stanley to produce any document that 24 might be used in connection with the testimony of those 25 three witnesses.

1 I have the entire stack in front of you. My
 2 first question is: Did you help prepare any of those
 3 documents to your knowledge?
 4 A. I produced --
 5 MR. JONES: Hold on. You ought to look to 6 see what the documents are.
 7 THE WITNESS: That's a good point.
 8 MR. BYMAN: Please feel free.
 9 BY MR. BYMAN:
 10 Q. And what I'd like you to do, Ms. Gorman, if 11 you could, is let's keep them in numerical order and go
 12 through them and tell me if any of the documents as you
 13 go through them are documents that you provided to 14 counsel so that they could be provided to us.
 15 A. I'm assuming these are bundled in some way.
 16 Q. I think that's the way they were produced to 17 us.
 18 A. No, this isn't any of the stuff I gave them.
 19 MR. JONES: Why don't you look through it
 20 again, because there should be -- I wasn't in 21 charge of production, so I can't...
 22 I don't know if you guys brought everything.
 23 MR. BYMAN: It could be that she's looking
 24 for the supplemental things.
 25 BY MR. BYMAN:

1 Q. Ms. Gorman, I didn't mean to mislead you.
 2 That was the initial thing we got at noon yesterday.
 3 Then we got a small supplemental package later. And 4 I'm going to show you this. Does this look familiar?
 5 A. That one looks familiar.
 6 Q. Let me separately do those, but why don't
 7 you go through that stack and see if there's anything.
 8 A. I didn't produce anything that was a printed
 9 e-mail or report like this.
 10 Q. So nothing in that stack --
 11 A. No, nothing in that stack.
 12 Q. And for the record, the stack is Morgan
 13 Stanley confidential 0112286 through 113899.
 14 Nothing in that stack is something that 15 looks familiar to you?
 16 A. No.
 17 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 420 was marked for 18 identification.)
 19 BY MR. BYMAN:
 20 Q. And now let me mark a series of documents.
 21 I'm going to show you first what I'll mark
 22 as CPH 420, document 113912 through 918. Is that one 23 of the documents that you provided for production to 24 us?
 25 A. Yes.

031472

1 Q. And why did you produce that document?
 2 A. Legal asked me to produce documents that
 3 referred to the project and the taper store piece.
 4 Q. I'm sorry, I'm having trouble hearing you.
 5 A. All the documents that related to the e-mail
 6 archive.
 7 Q. All of the documents?
 8 MR. JONES: Well, you're not going to get
 9 into a conversation about the lawyers. You
 10 asked her why did she produce it and you know as 11 an order we asked her to gather documents. And 12 this is what we provided to you.
 13 BY MR. BYMAN:
 14 Q. Let's talk about what you have.
 15 And we can tell now, and I'll mark the rest
 16 of these, but we're talking about a fairly thin stack
 17 of documents?
 18 A. Yes.
 19 Q. Am I correct in understanding that you have 20 not worked for the last nearly seven months, five
 21 months, since August 2004 and generated only about 100
 22 pieces of paper?
 23 In other words, the documentary record of 24 your efforts on the e-mail project would consume, I
 25 presume, thousands of pieces of paper?

1 A. No, I produce monthly status reports. I've 2 done -- which actually we skipped December, so it would
 3 be one less. I produced two interim reports. I
 4 produced on -- and a working project list, which I've 5 tried to keep consolidated, so it's one document that I
 6 update on a regular basis.
 7 Q. But I take it you did not produce all of 8 those to counsel for production to us?
 9 A. I produced a lot of -- yeah. Did I? I
 10 pretty much produced all my notes and all my status
 11 reports and the project list.
 12 Q. All right. Then let me mark next as Exhibit
 13 421 a document with production numbers 113900
 14 through -- well, it's cut off, but there's a page 910
 15 and the next one doesn't have the number on it, so I
 16 presume it's 911.
 17 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 421 was marked for 18 identification.)
 19 BY MR. BYMAN:
 20 Q. Is that one of the documents that you
 21 produced?
 22 A. Yes.
 23 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 422 was marked for 24 identification.)
 25 BY MR. BYMAN:

1 Q. Then as Exhibit 422, a two-page document
 2 with numbers 113919 and 920.
 3 A. Yes.
 4 Q. Is that a document that you produced?
 5 A. Yes.
 6 Q. Next as Exhibit 423, document with
 7 production numbers 921 through 923.
 8 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 423 was marked for
 9 identification.)
 10 BY MR. BYMAN:
 11 Q. Is that a document that you produced?
 12 A. Yes.
 13 Q. And the last one I have is 924 through 926,
 14 which I'll mark as Exhibit 424.
 15 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 424 was marked for 16 identification.)
 17 BY MR. BYMAN:
 18 Q. Is that a document you produced?
 19 A. Yes.
 20 Q. Ms. Gorman, I'll represent to you that with 21 those five exhibits that we've just marked I've now
 22 given you everything that was produced to us yesterday
 23 pursuant to the court order.
 24 Is the stack of things that are now in front
 25 of you, Exhibits 420 through 424, the universe of what

1 you gave to counsel, or did you give them a greater
 2 quantity of documents?
 3 A. I gave them a greater quantity of documents.
 4 Q. Again, I don't want to know what's in 5 that -- actually I do want to know what's in it, but 6 he's not going to let me find out. But I'd like to 7 know the bulk difference. How big was the set you gave 8 them versus the set they gave us?
 9 A. I'd say roughly double.
 10 MR. BYMAN: Mike, I'm inclined to ask her
 11 what was in the other documents, but can I
 12 correctly presume you won't let her tell me?
 13 MR. JONES: That's right. Any documents
 14 that she provided to us that we did not provide 15 were held on the grounds of privilege.
 16 MR. BYMAN: We can expect a privilege log in 17 due course?
 18 MR. JONES: Actually, you may already have 19 one.
 20 MR. BYMAN: We didn't have it at the time we 21 left for this deposition.
 22 MR. JONES: There will be a privilege log.
 23 MR. BYMAN: On that representation, I will 24 not inquire now, but obviously we reserve the 25 right, if it's appropriate, to go further into

1 that.

2 BY MR. BYMAN:

3 Q. Let me go back, Ms. Gorman, to what you've

4 done that got you here today.

5 In addition to what you did to prepare for

6 the deposition, have you had any conversations relating

7 to the migration of e-mails or the restoration of 8 e-mails with Mr. Saunders?

9 A. Yes.

10 Q. How many conversations have you had with him

11 on those subjects?

12 MR. JONES: Object to the question as vague.

13 Time period.

14 BY MR. BYMAN:

15 Q. Well, is he somebody that you talk to 16 frequently?

17 A. I talk to Bob frequently about many things.

18 He provides infrastructure to us, so to quantify that 19 in abstract.

20 Q. Well, did you talk to him about the subject

21 of this upcoming hearing or your depositions?

22 A. We discussed the fact that we were both --

23 we didn't even talk verbally. I knew he was going. We

24 didn't discuss anything, other than we'd both be down

25 here.

1 Q. How often do you interface with

2 Mr. Saunders?

3 A. Sometimes once a week, sometimes not for two

4 weeks. It depends on the time of month. Again, he

5 provides us infrastructure. If I'm waiting for

6 something, I might talk to him every day.

7 Q. You and he are officed in the same building

8 in Manhattan; is that correct?

9 A. Yes.

10 Q. Are you on the same floor?

11 A. No.

12 Q. How many floors separate you?

13 A. About 23.

14 Q. What floor are you on?

15 A. I'm on 34.

16 Q. And what floor is he on?

17 A. He's on 9. I never see him.

18 Q. Are you in separate elevator banks?

19 A. Yes.

20 Q. What about Mr. -- is it pronounced Seickel

21 or Seickel, Glenn Seickel?

22 A. Glenn Seickel, yes.

23 Q. Have you spoken with him on the subject of 24 the upcoming hearing or your depositions?

25 A. No.

1 Q. Were you aware that he was one of the three

2 people that was identified?

3 A. Yes.

4 Q. Have you ever spoken to Mr. Seickel?

5 A. Yes.

6 Q. On what subjects?

7 A. Primarily because his team hands off the --

8 is responsible for taking the data off the tapes and

9 loading it into the staging area. My conversations

10 with Glenn are typically about whether he's passed

11 stuff over to us and status around that.

12 Q. Who is Grant Jonas?

13 A. Grant is responsible for running the inquiry

14 tool, which is the front end to the e-mail archive.

15 Q. By inquiry tool is that what a layman such 16 as myself would call a search engine?

17 A. That would be a little glorified, but, yes.

18 It's the way people pull results out of the e-mail

19 archive.

20 Q. And does he operate that tool, at least in 21 part, to find old e-mails?

22 A. Yes.

23 Q. Was he the designer of the tool?

24 A. No.

25 Q. He simply operates it?

1 A. Yes.

2 Q. Who did design the tool?

3 A. Arthur Reil's team designed the tool.

4 Q. Do you know who specifically designed it?

5 A. No.

6 Q. Once the tool identifies something and

7 actually extracts an e-mail, how does it get put into

8 searchable form?

9 A. That's not --

10 Q. That's not an articulate question because

11 I'm speaking the wrong language.

12 Let's take it in small steps.

13 My understanding is if you get an e-mail

14 while it's still on an operating system of some sort

15 it's searchable by various parameters, for example, an

16 idiot like me can search something by date or by

17 author. There are ways to search things, is that 18 correct?

19 A. Are you thinking of mail in a system where

20 you would have like Outlook in front of it?

21 Q. Yes.

22 A. That would not work based on the way we

23 store mail.

24 Q. How do you store mail?

25 A. We store mail in basically a flat file

031474

1 format. We search it -- closest equivalent I could
 2 give you would be a text file.
 3 Q. So it would be the equivalent of doing a
 4 word search in a Word document?
 5 A. Yes, only it's all UNIX, so you would have 6 to do a grep, which means you would have to take a
 7 class.
 8 Q. And the searches that you do, are they case
 9 sensitive or word sensitive?
 10 A. The searches that we do go against our 11 database, typically -- and our database is case
 12 sensitive.
 13 Q. So that if you were searching for Dunlap,
 14 for example, and you didn't capitalize the "D" you
 15 would not get the name if you did it in all small 16 letters?
 17 A. You wouldn't search for a word, but, yes.
 18 Q. How would you search?
 19 A. Well, the way the tool operates is it takes 20 e-mail addresses and date ranges and then it creates an 21 extract of e-mail that matches that criteria.
 22 Q. I'm sorry, we've been talking about two 23 different things, I think. And that's the problem with 24 my not knowing your field.
 25 In the first instance I understand that the

1 inquiry tool that we were talking about that Mr. Jonas
 2 is in charge of is designed to locate the e-mails, so
 3 it searches for the e-mail messages themselves.
 4 My question was: Once you found the 5 e-mails, in whatever way you do that, is it possible to 6 load them on to some sort of software so that somebody
 7 can do a search for substance within the e-mails?
 8 A. Yes.
 9 Q. And that's the search that I had moved on
 10 to.
 11 A. Yes. And that would be outside the system
 12 I'm responsible for.
 13 Q. So you don't know how that operates?
 14 A. I don't do that part. We do have limited
 15 key word functionality, if that's what you're asking
 16 me.
 17 Q. Well, what I'm looking for is, let's put it
 18 in the confines of what we actually care about for 19 purposes of today and Monday. We're looking for old 20 e-mail, e-mails from the 1998 time period when the 21 events of this lawsuit were. And we understand that 22 some of those e-mails may exist on backup tapes.
 23 So the first step is to find out if they 24 exist.
 25 The next step is to extract them into some

1 sort of searchable form.
 2 And the third is to actually search them so
 3 that we can find out if they really have something to 4 do with our case?
 5 A. Okay.
 6 Q. Is that a fair way of putting it?
 7 And you fall within the first two steps, if
 8 I understand correctly, and not the third?
 9 MR. JONES: Can I just have that read back?
 10 THE WITNESS: You're using very different
 11 terminology.
 12 (A portion of the record was read by the
 13 reporter.)
 14 MR. JONES: I guess I would first object to 15 the statement. I was going to say the form of 16 the statement. It's not clear to me that it was 17 a question.
 18 I object to the question as vague and 19 ambiguous.
 20 BY MR. BYMAN:
 21 Q. Were you able to understand that, are you
 22 able to answer it?
 23 A. I understand what you're asking, but it's 24 hard to answer you accurately based on the way you
 25 painted the system. Based on the steps as you

1 described it.
 2 Q. Put it in your words instead of how I
 3 described it. How do we get something that there might 4 be something on the backup tape to figure out what's on 5 the backup tape and finding it?
 6 A. Roughly, relating to the way you phrased it,
 7 we're responsible for the middle piece, the making that 8 e-mail searchable. Grant's team is responsible for 9 actually inquiring against that data. We do assist
 10 him. So I would say we do play some role on occasion
 11 in that last piece.
 12 Q. Let me make sure I understand this.
 13 By middle piece you mean you don't find the 14 missing backup tapes?
 15 A. I don't find the tapes.
 16 Q. But once somebody has found them, you figure
 17 out a way to put them into searchable form?
 18 A. Yes.
 19 Q. And then Mr. Jonas is the one that actually
 20 searches them?
 21 A. He searches them. And if he has a problem,
 22 he contacts my team and we help him.
 23 Q. Who is in charge of the first step of making
 24 sure that we have all of the backup tapes?
 25 A. Bob Saunders' team.

031475

1 MR. JONES: Hold it. Object to the form of
 2 the question, particularly the statement that
 3 "make sure that we have all the backup tapes."
 4 Are you talking about in the context -- it's 5 a different question to ask it generally, to 6 make sure that all the backup tapes have been 7 found. When you seem to be making it specific 8 to the Coleman case, I object to that. Because 9 it may assume a role for this witness that may 10 or may not exist.
 11 BY MR. BYMAN:
 12 Q. Okay. I think you understood my question
 13 because you already answered that it was Mr. Saunders.
 14 A. I think.
 15 MR. JONES: Fine.
 16 THE WITNESS: You understand the question a
 17 bit better than I did, but, yes.
 18 BY MR. BYMAN:
 19 Q. So Mr. Saunders brings to you whatever it is 20 he finds. You then load it on the system so that it
 21 becomes searchable in some way?
 22 A. Yes.
 23 Q. And once that's done, unless Mr. Jonas has 24 some problems doing it, your role is over and he's the 25 one that actually does the searches?

1 A. No.
 2 Q. Do you know Bruce Buchanan?
 3 A. No.
 4 Q. Have you heard of a firm called NDCI?
 5 A. Yes.
 6 Q. Have you heard of Mr. Buchanan in that
 7 context?
 8 A. No.
 9 Q. What is your understanding of NDCI's role?
 10 A. They're the vendor that was contracted to 11 take what were our smaller DLT, or any type of tape,
 12 and essentially compress it into a SDLT, a Super DLT
 13 tape, which is then processed, is then handed off and 14 loaded on to the system for us.
 15 Q. What does the acronym DLT stand for?
 16 A. I do not know.
 17 Q. Digital something?
 18 A. I don't know much about tapes.
 19 Q. But SDL tapes, which is whatever DLT is with 20 a super in front of it?
 21 A. They're bigger, they hold more data. The 22 whole purpose is to take lots of little tapes and put 23 it into one big tape.
 24 Q. And Morgan Stanley is able to internally
 25 work with the SDL tapes?

1 A. Yes.
 2 Q. Who is Wray Stewart,
 3 A. Wray, I believe, works on Bob's team. He's 4 in that group. I know him as a person.
 5 Q. Do you know what his position or title is?
 6 A. Not right now.
 7 Q. Let me represent to you that there are 8 e-mails that suggest that he was involved at the same
 9 time that Mr. Reil was involved. Would that suggest
 10 that maybe he is no longer involved if the whole team
 11 has changed, or is he somebody that carried over?
 12 A. His name has come up in the context of the 13 project; as having played a role from Bob's team.
 14 If you're asking what does he do today? I
 15 don't know the answer.
 16 Q. Who is Kay Gunn, G-U-N-N?
 17 A. I met her once. She works on Bob's team, I
 18 believe.
 19 Q. Who is Donald Haight, H-A-I-G-H-T?
 20 A. Don Haight is a consultant who worked for 21 Arthur Reil who is responsible for the system, the 22 archive system.
 23 Q. Is he with NDCI?
 24 A. No.
 25 Q. Do you know what his firm is?

1 A. Yes.
 2 Q. You don't have to go to an outside vendor to 3 do that?
 4 A. No.
 5 Q. Do you know how many DLT tapes could be put
 6 on an SDL tape?
 7 A. No.
 8 Q. Can you describe physically the size of the 9 DLT tape? Is it as big as a cassette tape or 10 videotape?
 11 A. Never saw one.
 12 Q. So you don't have any idea?
 13 A. Not since my main frame days have I seen a 14 tape or a tape drive.
 15 Q. If somebody was talking about 1,000 DLT
 16 tapes, then you would have no idea whether that would 17 fit in a bread box or a file cabinet or a book case?
 18 A. No.
 19 Q. Do you know someone named Annaline
 20 Dinkelmann?
 21 A. Yes.
 22 Q. Who is she?
 23 A. She is the integration engineer who -- I
 24 know her a few different ways. She works at Morgan
 25 Stanley. Her current role is she's an integration

031476

1 engineer.
 2 Q. Does she have anything to do with the e-mail
 3 archive project?
 4 A. She used to.
 5 Q. Was she part of Mr. Reil's team?
 6 A. No, she was in a different part of the 7 organization that supported Arthur's team.
 8 Q. Do you know John Pamula?
 9 A. No.
 10 Q. Mohammed Hasan?
 11 A. No.
 12 Q. Danny Bailey?
 13 A. No.
 14 Q. Who are the people that are on your team?
 15 A. Horace Sequeira, S-E-Q-U-E-I-R-A.
 16 Q. What is his function?
 17 A. He's the development manager.
 18 Q. Who else is on your team?
 19 A. Tim Brown.
 20 Q. What's Mr. Brown's role?
 21 A. Product manager.
 22 Q. What product does he manage?
 23 A. The e-mail archive and the supervisory
 24 system.
 25 Q. Who else is on your team?

1 A. David Matteo.
 2 Q. What's his role?
 3 A. He's a developer.
 4 Q. What does he develop?
 5 A. He supports the e-mail archive and the 6 supervisory system.
 7 Q. Who else is on the team?
 8 A. Andrew Brown.
 9 Q. Did we already have a Mr. Brown?
 10 A. Yes.
 11 Q. Different Brown?
 12 A. Yes.
 13 Q. What does the second Mr. Brown do?
 14 A. Same as David Matteo.
 15 Q. Anyone else?
 16 A. Sabita Arumalla, A-R-U-M-A-L-L-A. And she's
 17 also a developer for the two systems.
 18 Q. Anyone else?
 19 A. That's it.
 20 Q. What does Morgan Stanley do to migrate data
 21 from backup tapes on to a searchable database?
 22 A. We run a set of scripts that index the 23 content on our database and then insert it into our 24 file system.
 25 Q. And how do you do that? Can you explain it

1 in lay person's terms?
 2 I can tell you that I think the Judge's
 3 computer background is better than mine, but not
 4 perhaps that much better.
 5 A. All the e-mail content is sitting on a file
 6 system, just in a regular file directory structure.
 7 And so we run a set of code, what I would call a
 8 script, that reads through that content, creates
 9 entries on a key database which acts as our index.
 10 Those entries would contain header data, "to," "from,"
 11 "cc," "subject line," "date." Then the address or the 12 file system location path, really being the proper 13 word, of the content where it's been inserted into the 14 file system. And the file system represents where the 15 actual content, which is e-mails and attachments, sits.
 16 Did that help?
 17 Q. How long does it take once you have an SDLT
 18 tape to load it on and create it in some sort of 19 searchable form?
 20 A. It is dependent on -- there's no specific 21 number I could give you. Because the amount of content
 22 that comes off an SDLT can vary. And the insertion
 23 rate can vary depending on whether the messages are 24 perceived to be duplicates or not in our system.
 25 Q. What's the maximum amount of data that can

1 fit on an SDLT tape? Can you express it in some number
 2 of gigabytes or terabytes?
 3 A. I think it's 200 gig.
 4 Q. So if we assume the maximum amount, can you
 5 give me an approximate amount of time that it takes to 6 process it?
 7 A. If I were doing an estimate for the 8 business, I would say five days, give or take a day.
 9 Q. And a terabyte would be five SDLT tapes then
 10 if they were maxed out?
 11 A. Yeah, if it was maxed out.
 12 Q. Is it possible to load more than one tape at 13 a time? In other words, when you do your five-day
 14 estimate would you have to do one in five days, then 15 wait to do the next one?
 16 A. By the time we're loading it, it's no longer
 17 a tape. So it doesn't really equate that way. We will 18 run through as many messages that are in staging. And 19 as big as they make our file system that we call
 20 staging is as much as we can hold off a tape.
 21 Q. Let me put it this way, if you've got five
 22 full SDLT tapes at the same time and you started
 23 staging them immediately, would it take 25 days or 24 would it be some shorter period of time because you
 25 could overlap?

031177

1 A. There would be no overlap. It's not at that
 2 layer. We don't actually read it off the tape. We 3 copy it off the tape into the file system, then we
 4 process the file system in a serial fashion.
 5 Q. Right. But it doesn't take the five days to 6 copy the tape?
 7 A. No. No.
 8 Q. How long does that take?
 9 A. Normally -- I don't know. I don't know how 10 long the copy process takes. I've never calculated
 11 that.
 12 Q. So within the five days, some part is for 13 copying and some part is for processing?
 14 A. No, I was thinking solely about processing
 15 actually. I'm sorry, because in my mind I pick it up 16 once it's on disk. So I do not know how long it takes 17 to copy off the tape.
 18 Q. Can it take as much as a full day?
 19 A. I don't know how long it takes.
 20 MR. JONES: Can we take a
 21 short we've-been-at-this-an-hour break?
 22 MR. BYMAN: Sure.
 23 (A recess was taken.)
 24 BY MR. BYMAN:
 25 Q. Without regard to how long it may take to

1 load the data off of the tape and on to your, I presume
 2 some part of your hard drive?
 3 A. Uh-huh.
 4 Q. Once it's there, would it take 25 days to 5 process a terabyte of data or would it take less or 6 more?
 7 A. It would take approximately 25 days give or 8 take three days. It's not an exact science.
 9 Q. I think even I understand that much of it.
 10 A. Very much depends on what's there.
 11 Q. Does it also depend on what else the 12 computer is doing, or is this computer dedicated to 13 this work?
 14 A. It very much depends on what the rest of the 15 system is doing.
 16 Q. How much of the system's resources has 17 Morgan Stanley assigned for this particular project
 18 that has us here today?
 19 MR. JONES: Object to the form as vague and 20 ambiguous, lacking foundation.
 21 BY MR. BYMAN:
 22 Q. Well, let me be more specific. You filed a
 23 declaration in this case in which you said that this
 24 matter is one of your priorities?
 25 A. Yes.

1 Q. What other priorities have you had during
 2 this same period of time?
 3 A. We keep the system running, which is an
 4 operational task.
 5 We support the supervisory system with the 6 same team. And we have some changes that we're making
 7 to that system as well that are high priority.
 8 And we have been running inquiries
 9 supporting Grant's team, running inquiries.
 10 Q. Does your team for this project have its own
 11 dedicated hardware or does it work on a larger, as a
 12 part of Morgan Stanley's overall system?
 13 A. We have dedicated hardware on the tape side
 14 so the machines that run the tape restores are 15 dedicated, but the database that they insert into and 16 the file system that they insert into are the archive.
 17 So if we are running let's say an inquiry at the same
 18 time that we are inserting data, there might be some 19 contention at that level.
 20 Q. What I'm trying to drive at, Ms. Gorman, and 21 I'm having trouble articulating the question because of 22 my lack of education in your field.
 23 I presume that the speed with which you can 24 process this data has something to do with the speed of 25 your processors, but also the other tasks that the

1 processor is being asked to do simultaneously. So if
 2 we start with an optimum condition of absolutely
 3 nothing else is happening to the computer system at the 4 time that you're doing the processing, would it still 5 take 25 days give or take three?
 6 A. That estimate is based on minimal
 7 contention, yes.
 8 Q. And to the extent that it expands, it's 9 because there are other competing forces for that 10 processing capacity?
 11 A. Yes. Hence the give or take a couple days.
 12 Q. But is it only give or take a couple days?
 13 Is there some optimal bad set of circumstance where it
 14 would take 50 days, for example?
 15 A. Yeah. You could hammer a system to the 16 point where it breaks.
 17 Q. Has that happened to you?
 18 A. No.
 19 Q. When did you first learn that you had some 20 tapes to load to do your middle step in the process?
 21 A. I knew there was tape restore data waiting
 22 for us in staging in August when I took over.
 23 Q. And did you learn what the quantity was when 24 you took over in August?
 25 A. I was given rough estimates by nontechnical

031478

1 people.
 2 Q. Who gave you those rough estimates?
 3 A. Annaline Dinkelman.
 4 Q. What did she tell you?
 5 A. I don't remember exactly. There were some 6 number of tapes and some -- and some number of gig, a
 7 large number. I don't remember the exact number.
 8 Q. When did you first hear that there was a
 9 lawsuit that related in some way to the restoration of 10 e-mails?
 11 MR. JONES: Object to the form of the
 12 question.
 13 You can answer if you understand it.
 14 BY MR. BYMAN:
 15 Q. You seem to be confused, so let me step
 16 back.
 17 You're aware that you're here today because 18 this is a piece of a proceeding in a pending lawsuit?
 19 A. Yes.
 20 Q. You're aware that there's a lawsuit between 21 CPH, who is the plaintiff in this case?
 22 A. Yes.
 23 Q. And Morgan Stanley, your employer?
 24 A. Yes.
 25 Q. When did you first hear about that lawsuit?

1 A. That lawsuit. Let me just think for a
 2 second.
 3 Mid January.
 4 Q. Of this year?
 5 A. Of this year.
 6 Q. How did you hear about it?
 7 A. We were told there was --
 8 MR. JONES: We don't want to have any
 9 conversations between you and counsel.
 10 THE WITNESS: It was all counsel
 11 conversation.
 12 MR. BYMAN: Well, Mike, respectfully, I
 13 doubt this would be a privileged communication.
 14 MR. JONES: Okay, she can say she learned by 15 counsel.
 16 THE WITNESS: Yeah.
 17 BY MR. BYMAN:
 18 Q. When was the first time that you learned
 19 that there was some need or requirement that Morgan
 20 Stanley produce e-mails?
 21 A. In general?
 22 Q. For this lawsuit.
 23 A. For this lawsuit. The same time.
 24 Q. Did anyone ever tell you from the time that 25 you took over in August 2004 until mid January that

1 there was some need to identify and or produce e-mails
 2 for some external purpose?
 3 And what I'm driving at -- that was an
 4 oblique question. Let me try to explain my question,
 5 then maybe it will make more sense.
 6 I understand that you didn't know there was 7 a lawsuit until January. So you couldn't have known in 8 August that you needed to produce e-mails for a
 9 lawsuit.
 10 But did anybody tell you prior to mid
 11 January that you needed to produce e-mails, didn't tell 12 you precisely why, but when you found out later in 13 January that there's a lawsuit, you would then be able 14 to make the connection, oh, that's why I was asked to 15 produce the e-mails.
 16 Do you follow what I'm saying?
 17 You may not have known why somebody asked
 18 you to produce e-mails in August or September?
 19 A. To produce e-mails is part of what I'm --
 20 Q. To identify them?
 21 A. Again, I don't really run the inquiry tool
 22 unless Grant has a problem. So I'm typically not asked
 23 to produce e-mails, maybe that's why I'm having a hard
 24 time with your question.
 25 Q. Were you asked to process tapes and get them

1 into searchable form so that Grant could do his work
 2 and you later figured out, ah-ha, that must have been
 3 for the lawsuit?
 4 A. Yes, to the first part.
 5 Q. No, you never made the connection?
 6 A. I was processing the tapes ahead of the 7 lawsuit.
 8 Q. I understand. What I'm trying to say is now
 9 that you know that there's a lawsuit, do you realize
 10 that you were processing them at least in part for the 11 lawsuit?
 12 A. Yes.
 13 MR. JONES: Fine, if you understood it, then 14 fine.
 15 BY MR. BYMAN:
 16 Q. And that was something that was already --
 17 A. I mean, in January.
 18 Q. And that was something, the processing part 19 was something that was already underway when you took 20 over in August and you continued to do it?
 21 A. Yes.
 22 Q. Through the present day, I take it?
 23 A. Yes.
 24 Q. Where are you in that process? Is it almost 25 done? Is it completely done, is it nowhere near done?

031479

1 MR. JONES: Object to the question as vague
 2 and ambiguous.
 3 But if you understand it.
 4 THE WITNESS: We're almost done.
 5 BY MR. BYMAN:
 6 Q. What quantity of material have you
 7 processed?
 8 A. We have -- overall? Or in general? Have we 9 processed or is in the archive, I guess?
 10 Q. Have you processed from tapes that were
 11 discovered after May of 2004?
 12 MR. JONES: Object to the question as vague
 13 and ambiguous.
 14 THE WITNESS: I don't know that I have it
 15 quantified that way.
 16 BY MR. BYMAN:
 17 Q. Do you understand that there were some tapes
 18 discovered after May of 2004?
 19 A. Yes.
 20 Q. Do you have an understanding of the quantity
 21 of those tapes?
 22 A. I've heard a number that is associated with 23 those tapes, yes.
 24 Q. What number have you heard?
 25 A. 112.

1 Q. You haven't heard a larger number?
 2 A. I'm sorry. I heard 1400 of which 112
 3 contain e-mail.
 4 Q. Were you ever asked to process those 1400 or 5 112?
 6 A. Yes.
 7 Q. And have you?
 8 A. Yes.
 9 Q. When did you begin that process?
 10 A. Those were imbedded in what was in staging
 11 which we began processing in mid January. Processing
 12 meaning physically moving over.
 13 Q. Is there a reason that that migration didn't
 14 begin until mid January?
 15 A. The preparation for that process began back
 16 in November and it took that long to get the system
 17 ready to begin the processing again.
 18 Q. Why did the preparation only begin in 19 November?
 20 A. It was in November -- let me see.
 21 In October we prioritized needing to start
 22 the process, but it took us until November to locate 23 the code that we needed in order to restart the 24 process. And it took us through January to test, debug
 25 and restart that process.

1 Q. What happened in October, as opposed to some 2 other time, that suggested you should begin work on 3 these 112 tapes or 1400, whatever the number was?
 4 A. Conversations with legal that made it
 5 clear --
 6 MR. JONES: Not the content. You can just
 7 say you had a conversation.
 8 BY MR. BYMAN:
 9 Q. You already had the tapes prior to that
 10 conversation, right?
 11 A. We knew there was data in staging.
 12 Q. And you knew that as of the date you took 13 over in August, isn't that right?
 14 A. Yes.
 15 Q. Is there some reason why those had not been 16 given a priority until your conversations with counsel?
 17 A. Yes.
 18 Q. What was the reason?
 19 A. We had a small team. And we had a lot of 20 more critical and time sensitive issues that needed to 21 be handled.
 22 Q. What were the issues that were more critical
 23 and time sensitive?
 24 A. There were a series. When we took over the 25 system, we had to figure out what we were doing. And

1 that took several weeks. We had to, for example,
 2 understand an operational procedure that recovered
 3 rotating our database at the end of August, and then
 4 subsequently every month. And so that was our key
 5 focus because everything would have broken if we hadn't
 6 done that.
 7 We had no disk space to unpack our live
 8 content. And so we were focused on making sure that 9 the system didn't corrupt or drop any of our live
 10 content. And getting disk space in place and moving
 11 things around so if there was an open inquiry that 12 needed to get to content that was sitting in an 13 unprocessed fashion, we could get that done.
 14 We were supporting inquiries. And 15 understanding what it took to support an inquiry from 16 technical perspective. And we were supporting the 17 supervisory system, which is a live system, needs to 18 work every day correctly. And was having ultimately 19 little problems here and there, but we weren't trained
 20 in it, so.
 21 Q. One of the things you said was, if I heard
 22 you correctly, that you didn't have enough disk space?
 23 A. Yes.
 24 Q. To address the problem?
 25 A. We didn't have any place to unpack the stuff

031480

1 anyway, until the end of October.
 2 Q. You mean physically unpack the tapes?
 3 A. Physically unpack the tapes.
 4 Q. But once you unpacked the tapes, you also
 5 didn't have any room on your disk to unload them?
 6 A. The place that I call staging where we 7 actually take the tape and copy it over is a very 8 different place than our archive. It's locked down in 9 a very different way and it's a very different type of 10 disk. Our system is kind of technical. It's a 11 different kind of disk, think about it that way. So we 12 didn't have any space in the proper archive until the 13 end of October.
 14 Q. And what did it take to get that space? Did
 15 you have to buy more hardware?
 16 A. Yes, we did. They installed a whole new 17 device at the end of October.
 18 Q. Do you know what the cost of that was?
 19 A. No, not offhand.
 20 Q. More than $10,000, less than $10,000?
 21 A. More than $10,000. I assume. The way our 22 internal finances work, I don't know.
 23 Plus that order was already pending before I
 24 took over. I don't know offhand.
 25 Q. If someone, counsel or anyone had told you

1 in August 2004 that doing something to these 112 tapes
 2 or 1400 tapes, whatever the number was, was a priority,
 3 would you have been able to do something sooner than
 4 October?
 5 A. No.
 6 Q. Why not?
 7 A. We wouldn't have had any place to put the 8 data, because we didn't have space until October. That 9 space had been on order for months.
 10 Q. So there was nothing that could have been 11 moved sooner?
 12 A. It was more than space. No.
 13 Q. Could you have gone to an outside vendor to 14 have gone through that stage?
 15 A. Going to an outside vendor would not insert
 16 it in our system, so, no.
 17 Q. Well, it would have put it into that other 18 kind of disk that you needed to get it into that 19 system, right? Did I misunderstand what your space
 20 limitation was?
 21 A. It --
 22 Q. I thought your archive system itself didn't 23 have the space limitation, it was a limitation on this
 24 hardware that had this other kind of disk --
 25 A. The hardware is on our premise. A

1 conversation about how long it takes to get hardware
 2 installed is not a conversation that I am well versed
 3 in. I go to Bob's team in this case for disks. He 4 could speak more appropriately to lead times to getting
 5 disks or servers or anything like that installed.
 6 Q. So the simple answer to my question then
 7 could you have done something in August is something
 8 better addressed to Mr. Saunders than to you?
 9 MR. JONES: Objection, asked and answered.
 10 BY MR. BYMAN:
 11 Q. I genuinely don't understand, Ms. Gorman.
 12 You told me you couldn't have done it any sooner than 13 October, but then when I asked you why couldn't you go
 14 to a vendor or gotten hardware sooner you said
 15 Mr. Saunders?
 16 A. I said the lead time to getting that stuff
 17 in is something that you would need to talk to Bob 18 about. So the logistics of ordering a disk and getting 19 it installed and making it available to my team is 20 something that Bob would speak to better than myself.
 21 Q. And this thing that has to be done that you
 22 didn't have the capacity for until October, what does 23 that generate? Does it generate a disk that then gets 24 fed into the main archive system?
 25 A. We're having a terminology problem, I think.

1 Q. What does it generate?
 2 A. The archive, the container, you can think of 3 the mail sitting on a disk, it's a device from net app.
 4 So I don't know what your question is. Because I'm not
 5 sure --
 6 Q. Take me through the process. You have one
 7 of these SDLT tapes. You need to take it off of the 8 tape and put it on to some sort of hard disk drive,
 9 right?
 10 A. Yes.
 11 Q. And is that the same disk drive that then 12 processes it to make it searchable, or does it have to 13 migrate from there to something else?
 14 A. We run a script against it. And we take it
 15 and we insert it in the archive, which is a different 16 place also, hard disk. And we index it on our 17 database.
 18 Q. So there's a machine --
 19 A. The hard disk that was associated with our 20 archive was full.
 21 Q. Which you say associated with your archive,
 22 it's not the hard disk on the archive itself that's 23 full. It's the thing on your piece of hardware that 24 runs the script?
 25 A. No. Our archive had no more room in it to 031181

1 accept more content.
 2 Q. Not even current content?
 3 A. No, we were backlogged. They hadn't
 4 unpacked current content since the beginning of August.
 5 They ran out of space.
 6 Q. Did that sneak up on you?
 7 A. It was not my job then. I inherited it.
 8 MR. JONES: So the question is who is the 9 "you."
 10 MR. BYMAN: I didn't mean you personally.
 11 BY MR. BYMAN:
 12 Q. Couldn't somebody have predicted when the 13 hard drive was going to fill up?
 14 MR. JONES: Object to the form of the 15 question.
 16 THE WITNESS: Not a question for me.
 17 BY MR. BYMAN:
 18 Q. A question for Mr. Saunders?
 19 A. Question for Arthur Reil.
 20 Q. And Mr. Reil is in places unknown right now.
 21 A. By me.
 22 Q. So are you suggesting that it wasn't simply 23 an integrity issue, that it might have been an 24 incompetence issue with Mr. Reil?
 25 MR. JONES: Object to the form of the

1 question. Both asked and answered previously.
 2 THE WITNESS: It would be speculation on my
 3 part. I don't know.
 4 BY MR. BYMAN:
 5 Q. Well, you took over for the guy. You must
 6 have formed some impressions about whether he did a
 7 good or a bad job based upon what you inherited.
 8 What's your impression?
 9 A. My impression is that he didn't do a very
 10 good job.
 11 Q. And one of the things he didn't do a very 12 good job on was predicting when he would run out of 13 disk space?
 14 A. That's on the list.
 15 Q. Is that a pretty major thing on the list?
 16 A. It's huge. It's one of several things, but 17 it's a big one.
 18 Q. What are the other things?
 19 A. He didn't keep a proper development
 20 environment so when we took over we didn't know where 21 our source code was located, which is one of the 22 reasons we couldn't find our scripts right away.
 23 Every technologist has their opinion. So
 24 I'm trying to be a little bit thoughtful in terms of 25 the things that we think he didn't do well.

1 Not keeping a development environment is bad
 2 practice.
 3 Not predicting disk space well, while I
 4 appreciate the complexity now that I have to do it, it
 5 was bad practice.
 6 And there are certain other flaws in the 7 system I think they could have done a better job with.
 8 Q. Let me show you what I'm going to mark for 9 identification, a group of documents that come from 10 within this stack. And I'll represent to you that I've 11 taken them out. They are not necessarily in numerical 12 order. So I've put them together. They're various 13 production numbers 112286, 291, 296, 301, 306, 311,
 14 312, 313 and 314.
 15 And I've marked that as CPH 425.
 16 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 425 was marked for 17 identification.)
 18 BY MR. BYMAN:
 19 Q. Have you ever seen this collection of 20 documents either -- and of course you wouldn't have 21 seen them this way. I'll represent to you that each of 22 the cover documents had other documents either as 23 attachments or things for them.
 24 What I've done is I've pulled out what 25 appear to be the text of minutes of something called

1 Archive Meeting Minutes without putting the attachments
 2 for each of the minutes behind it, which are comprised
 3 of graphs and things.
 4 Bearing in mind that you may not have seen
 5 them in exactly this form, have you seen this type of 6 minutes?
 7 MR. JONES: Can I just ask, are you
 8 asking -- we started out by asking had she seen
 9 these. Now you're asking has she seen this 10 type.
 11 MR. BYMAN: I guess I'd like both.
 12 If she's seen these specific ones, great.
 13 Also if she's seen something like them, I'd also 14 like to know that.
 15 THE WITNESS: I have seen one of these.
 16 BY MR. BYMAN:
 17 Q. Which one have you seen?
 18 A. The last one that is September 9th.
 19 Q. And that would have been done when you were 20 in charge of this?
 21 A. Yes.
 22 Q. What about the one on August 13th?
 23 A. No, I don't think so. Looks surprisingly
 24 like the other one, but I recognize the format and I
 25 only saw one and I'm pretty sure it was this last one.

031482

1 Q. These particular ones appear to have been
2 faxed on October 21st, 2004. And I'll represent to you
3 that the fax number to which they're addressed is the 4 fax number of a law firm in Washington, D.C. Sidley
5 Austin, Brown and Wood I think it is. I keep 6 forgetting what their new name is.

7 Do you have any knowledge as to whether or
8 not these were faxed to a law firm?

9 A. No.

10 Q. Does the fax header of October 21st, 2004
11 help you place in time the directions you got from 12 counsel in October to prioritize the migration of these 13 missing tapes?

14 MR. JONES: Can you just read that back,
15 please?

16 (A portion of the record was read by the 17 reporter.)

18 MR. JONES: Object to the form of the 19 question. It's vague and ambiguous.

20 BY MR. BYMAN:

21 Q. Do you understand my question?

22 A. I think I do. No.

23 Q. At the risk of asking something I have 24 already, let me try to recap.

25 Until some time in October when counsel told

1 A. Okay.

2 Q. I'll show it to you if you'd like.

3 A. Sure.

4 Q. Some time in October of this year I think
5 you've already told us you were told --

6 MR. JONES: First of all, here's the problem
7 I have with that. She never talked about a
8 conversation with counsel. If you go back in 9 the record, you'll see she had a meeting with 10 counsel and then she further described how 11 she -- what she did with the tapes and the 12 processing after that.

13 You seem to, I guess you're assuming that 14 counsel told her to prioritize the tapes. And 15 you've used that in several of your questions.
16 I'm not going to comments as to whether that was 17 or wasn't told. That's really the problem I'm 18 having as to how you're phrasing your questions.

19 I don't know if that's something that could 20 be fixed or not, Bob. If it could be -- because 21 I don't mind her answering the question you
22 asked again about this document if that's 23 ultimately what you're trying to get to.

24 I don't know if all that was helpful or not.

25 MR. BYMAN: Let me try to meet that.

1 you to prioritize the migration of these 112 tapes or 2 1400, whatever the number was, until that time, these
3 were a low priority, is that fair?

4 MR. JONES: First of all, I object to the 5 form of the question. And I object to the 6 extent that you are trying to elicit
7 attorney-client communications.

8 That's my objection. And also it's been 9 asked and answered in a different form.

10 THE WITNESS: Although I lost track of it,
11 could you say it again?

12 BY MR. BYMAN:

13 Q. Sure. You told us earlier that some time in 14 October you had a conversation with counsel and moved
15 these -- let me stop.

16 Let's back up and try to get some shorthand
17 here. We talk about the tapes that you've been 18 processing that are the reason we're here today. We 19 talk about 112 tapes that have been represented to us
20 may contain e-mails that were part of a larger universe
21 of tapes that were reviewed. We've heard various 22 numbers of that. You've used the number 1400. Counsel
23 in a recent hearing said 2200. But whatever that 24 number is, can we call those the found tapes? And I'm 25 going to say that because it's in these e-mails.

1 BY MR. BYMAN:

2 Q. Until some time in October, you did not
3 place any priority on migrating the found tapes, is 4 that fair to say? They were in line, but they were 5 pretty far back in line?

6 A. I would say I didn't prioritize processing
7 the data that was in staging.

8 Q. From these found tapes?

9 A. There was more in staging than the found
10 tapes.

11 Q. I understand. And they were patiently
12 awaiting their turn, but they weren't going to the head
13 of the line?

14 A. I'm being careful. I didn't know about 15 found tapes. It wasn't -- that was not my focus.

16 Q. The set of minutes that you did look at, and 17 this is the last page 0112314.

18 A. I received it. I filed it. I actually
19 didn't read it until later.

20 Q. But I just want to direct your attention
21 towards the bottom there's a series of numbered pending
22 items, number 4 talks about 1423 DL tapes were found to 23 be in the Brooklyn security room, do you see that?

24 A. Right.

25 Q. That's the found tapes I'm talking about.

031483

1 A. Okay.
 2 Q. And they were patiently waiting their turn
 3 in line for processing in October, is that right?
 4 A. Yes.
 5 Q. And I'll represent to you that those found
 6 tapes have been waiting in somebody's line since at 7 least May of 2004. And if you'd look at the first page
 8 of the document you'll see that there's a reference, at 9 that time the number is 1,024 but by May it grows to 10 1421.
 11 A. Okay.
 12 MR. JONES: Was that a question or --
 13 MR. BYMAN: I'm representing to her that 14 they had been around since May.
 15 BY MR. BYMAN:
 16 Q. Is it fair to say that they were waiting for 17 processing for at least May, June, July, August,
 18 September, October, six months?
 19 A. I can only speak to August forward. They 20 were waiting since I took over.
 21 Q. Do you have any reason to believe that they 22 weren't waiting since May?
 23 A. No reason. I have no knowledge.
 24 Q. Whatever was ahead of them was ahead of 25 them, whatever was behind them was behind them. But

1 some time in October you moved them to the front of the 2 line, right?
 3 A. Again, I didn't move these specific tapes to 4 the front of the line. I prioritized processing the 5 data that was in the staging.
 6 Q. Meaning all of the data in staging?
 7 A. All of the data in staging.
 8 Q. What was in staging other than these found
 9 tapes?
 10 A. Content from other tapes. We had at the end
 11 about 600 gig in staging. This would have been a 12 subset of that.
 13 I mean, we didn't -- technically -- it
 14 probably would have taken us longer to identify and try 15 and put them at the top of the cue, because the data is 16 fairly extracted at that point. So we focused on 17 processing everything from staging.
 18 Q. So you had 600 gig in staging in mid
 19 October?
 20 A. Yes.
 21 Q. And I think you've told us that 200 gig, if 22 it was all on one SDLT tape, could be processing in 23 five days?
 24 A. But we didn't have scripts that worked in 25 October, yes. We didn't start in October.

1 Q. And the thing that made you get moving
 2 processing that 600 gigs of data was a conversation
 3 with counsel in October?
 4 A. Over the course of a series of conversations
 5 with counsel.
 6 MR. JONES: Don't talk about the content of 7 the conversation with counsel.
 8 Besides, this has already been asked and 9 answered.
 10 THE WITNESS: We prioritized the work.
 11 BY MR. BYMAN:
 12 Q. When in October?
 13 A. I don't remember the exact date.
 14 Q. Was it inside counsel or outside counsel?
 15 A. There was mixture on various calls.
 16 Q. Did you ever participate in a call in 17 October with anyone from Kirkland and Ellis?
 18 A. Yes.
 19 Q. Do you recall the individual's name?
 20 A. We talked with Lisa Horton, Andy Klubach.
 21 If I say it was a sea of lawyers will I
 22 insult anybody in the room?
 23 Unfortunately, I didn't really check the 24 names of external counsel in this. I spoke to them
 25 more than a couple of times. So I really couldn't get

1 specific --
 2 Q. But is it your recollection that somebody
 3 identified them as not a Morgan Stanley employee
 4 lawyer, but an outside lawyer?
 5 A. Yes, Kirkland was on the phone and swapped
 6 around enough that I couldn't accurately name who it
 7 was or remember.
 8 Q. Was Mr. Doyle on the phone? Do you know
 9 Mr. Doyle, who is a Morgan Stanley lawyer?
 10 A. Jim was not on the phone, no.
 11 Q. Do you recall what Morgan Stanley lawyers
 12 were on the phone?
 13 A. Again, it was --
 14 Q. By that I mean employees of Morgan Stanley.
 15 A. Different conversations and different
 16 combinations over the course of October. It would have 17 been Jim Cusick and Jimmy Lee.
 18 Q. In addition to Kirkland and Ellis, did you
 19 have any conversations in October or November with any 20 other outside lawyers?
 21 A. Not that I remember, no.
 22 Q. Do you recall ever having any conversations
 23 with anyone from Sidley and Austin?
 24 A. Sidley rings a bell, but I don't remember a
 25 specific conversation.

031184

1 Q. Is it fair to say that some time in October
2 of 2004 it became a priority to process the 600
3 gigabytes of data that had been in stage for
4 processing?

5 MR. JONES: Objection, asked and answered
6 four or five times.

7 THE WITNESS: I was going to say, could you
8 say it again? I'm starting to get a headache.

9 (A portion of the record was read by the
10 reporter.)

11 THE WITNESS: Yes.

12 BY MR. BYMAN:

13 Q. And what did you do to actually get it
14 processed once it became a priority?

15 A. In October we looked for the scripts in the 16 location that Don Haight had told us they should be in 17 and they weren't there.

18 So we spent more time hunting around and 19 trying to figure out if we had to rewrite --
20 reconstruct them from scratch what they might have been 21 doing. We knew at a high level what they were doing,
22 but the technical detail of what they're updating is 23 sort of a complicated thing to back into.

24 Somewhere in I think early November we 25 actually located the scripts in a different directory.

1 short months.

2 Q. Right.

3 A. So we weren't working in full staff mode.

4 Q. I understand that those 75 days weren't all
5 working days.

6 A. Yes. Interrupted by a vacation or two that
7 I couldn't force people to cancel.

8 Q. If you had been able to assign more
9 personnel, would you have been able to shorten that 10 75-day period?

11 A. No, because the person who was assigned had 12 spent two to three months coming up to speed on the 13 system. And assigning somebody who was not a part of 14 the team and not educated would have probably slowed it
15 down.

16 Q. Well, it sounds like it wasn't so much a
17 team as a one-person show the way you just described
18 it.

19 A. The staffing that I told you about has 20 grown. So it was pretty much a combination of Horace
21 and Andrew who were focusing on it. And really Horace
22 is the -- in the context of this -- the lead developer
23 on the site. So Andrew was assisting him. It's a
24 skill set break. So it was mostly Horace.

25 Q. Is the processing completed now?

1 And we ran a test. They didn't process the data
2 correctly. And since we hadn't found them where we had
3 been told, we were particularly concerned that we found
4 the right thing.

5 We had Thanksgiving, then it was December.
6 We did more testing. And juggled quite a number of 7 things through December between vacations and testing
8 and inquiries. And some issue on the supervisory
9 system.

10 Then we came into January. Early January we 11 debugged the scripts that we had found, recoded the 12 piece that wasn't working properly and started the 13 processing.

14 Q. When in January did you start the
15 processing?

16 A. On the 14th we kicked it off against, what I
17 would say we started. We had been running tests for 18 the prior two weeks.

19 Q. All right. So it became a priority in 20 October to process it. During all of November and 21 December you were locating the scripts, finally finding 22 them, testing them, debugging them and finally 23 approximately 75 days later were actually ready to 24 start processing?

25 A. Right. I would just keep in mind those were

1 A. All of the data that's been given to us is
2 processed, yes.

3 Q. When was it completely processed?

4 A. In the context of the found tapes?

5 Q. Yes.

6 A. Those were finished on February 2nd. The 7 terabyte -- the terabyte that turned out to be 600 gig
8 was finished on February 2nd, again, the 112 were in 9 there.

10 Q. Well, you anticipated my next question.

11 MR. JONES: Give me 30 seconds.

12 (There was an interruption in the 13 proceedings.)

14 BY MR. BYMAN:

15 Q. We have heard that there was a terabyte of 16 data that needed to be looked at. You've told us that 17 it was actually 600 gigabytes, which is of course 60
18 percent of a terabyte. And that 600 gigs included more
19 than the 112 tapes, is that right?

20 A. Yes.

21 Q. Of the 600 gigabytes that were actually
22 there and processing that you turned to as a priority
23 in October, how much of it was the 112 tapes?

24 A. I do not know.

25 Q. Was it the majority of it, a small fraction

031485

1 of it, can you give any estimation?
 2 A. I have no estimation because I don't know
 3 how big they were.
 4 Q. Okay. But in any event, the processing is 5 complete, at least your step of the processing is 6 complete as of February 2nd, right?
 7 A. Yes.
 8 Q. Then you've turned it over to Grant so he 9 can do the actual searches; is that correct?
 10 A. At that point my team was running the 11 searches.
 12 Q. So you actually did do some content
 13 searching?
 14 A. Yes.
 15 Q. And who designed those searches?
 16 A. David Matteo.
 17 Q. And what's your understanding of what the 18 searches were designed to do?
 19 A. Based on the criteria passed to us through 20 Grant, they pulled back e-mail for the people named in 21 the list and the date ranges that we were handed.
 22 Q. How long does it take to perform those 23 searches now that you've got it all on the archive?
 24 A. We were -- the first set of searches that we 25 ran took longer than they are taking now, because we've

1 optimized the process. So the first set took about a
 2 week. And now we're processing it in about 1 to 2
 3 days.
 4 Q. And what kinds of chunks are you processing?
 5 I take it you can't do a search on the entire 600
 6 gigabytes?
 7 A. No. The 600 gigabytes is inserted into the 8 archive, so it's now a part of the full body. There's 9 a -- so for example, all of our e-mail that's pre-2003
 10 is 15 terabytes of data. When we run a search against 11 the archive, we put the query against the database, the 12 index and pull all mail that matches that criteria, and 13 then pull it off the file system.
 14 So we are actually returning a super set,
 15 everything that matches the criteria, not just the mail
 16 that might have come out of the 600 terabytes.
 17 Q. Was that design necessitated by something,
 18 or was that just for your convenience?
 19 A. That is the design. There's no -- it would 20 be very difficult to -- there's no identifier in the 21 database telling us this specific mail was inserted as 22 a part of that 600, that concept is lost.
 23 Q. I take it it takes longer, let's say you're 24 searching for only one thing you want to find out where 25 the word "Dunlap" appears on any e-mail anywhere in the

1 system. I take it if you were doing that search
 2 against 600 gigabytes of information as opposed to 15
 3 terabytes, it would be faster if you could do it just 4 on the 600 gigabytes?
 5 A. Again, we're not searching the 600 gigabytes
 6 we're going against the data base. It would be faster,
 7 but the database doesn't know.
 8 Q. But if somebody had said to you: Speed is 9 important, so don't insert it into the 15 terabyte
 10 system, let's segregate this data. Let's apply some 11 sort of software to it so we can get it off by itself
 12 and search that, would it still be faster?
 13 A. I'd still be writing that code potentially.
 14 I'd have to write a whole new database and change the 15 scripts to write to that data.
 16 Q. What is it about Morgan Stanley's
 17 database --
 18 A. The database schema has no field on it to 19 indicate that the content is unique in some way that 20 you would want to identify it. If we really wanted to 21 keep that 600 gig separate, we would have built a new 22 database, inserted it into that database and ran it
 23 against that database, that would have probably taken
 24 longer.
 25 Q. So it would not have been possible to have

1 taken --
 2 A. It would have been longer on the front end.
 3 Q. It would not have been possible to have
 4 inserted the 600 gigabytes of data into some other form
 5 of database, some off-the-shelf database that already 6 exists?
 7 A. Then you wouldn't be using the Morgan
 8 Stanley system at all, so I would be evaluating a
 9 vendor product and installing it.
 10 Q. Could you have gone to a vendor that is in 11 the database business that already has a database,
 12 simply takes your data and searches it?
 13 MR. JONES: Object to the question.
 14 BY MR. BYMAN:
 15 Q. You know that such vendors exist, don't you?
 16 You know that we've hired a vendor that is going to do
 17 exactly that.
 18 A. It was not my judgment call. I was given 19 instruction to load that data into the system for the 20 system I'm responsible. You're asking me to speculate
 21 on a question I was never asked for.
 22 Q. I'm not criticizing you for making a
 23 judgment call when you weren't given the opportunity to 24 make the judgment.
 25 If somebody had said to you in October:

031485

1 What is the fastest way to find out what's on those 112
 2 tapes, would a faster way have been to give it to an
 3 outside vendor?
 4 A. I really don't know enough about this to 5 answer that question.
 6 Q. So you don't know yes or no whether it would 7 have been faster?
 8 MR. JONES: Objection, asked and answer.
 9 THE WITNESS: I don't know.
 10 BY MR. BYMAN:
 11 Q. Does Morgan Stanley have an outside vendor
 12 who is doing anything with respect to these 112 tapes
 13 presently?
 14 A. NDCI is processing this and handing it to 15 us. I don't know.
 16 Q. What are they doing? They're giving you the 17 thing that you then have to load on to your system,
 18 right?
 19 A. They are, yes.
 20 Q. I'm talking about do you have any outside
 21 vendors that are helping you either with the loading or 22 the analysis of your own database?
 23 A. I give results to legal. However they -- I
 24 believe they have vendors that they use. I'm not well
 25 versed in those vendors.

1 Q. Is there a reason why your team was doing
 2 the searches rather than Grant's team?
 3 A. Yes.
 4 Q. What was the reason?
 5 A. The inquiry tool was not searching the 6 pre-2003 data in a thorough fashion.
 7 Q. Why was that?
 8 A. There were issues with the way e-mail group
 9 membership was being evaluated. And there were issues
 10 with pulling out e-mail if it had been restored from 11 our notes, our Lotus Notes e-mail system.
 12 Q. What were those issues?
 13 A. The way that the system works for pulling 14 data -- when we store the information in the index we 15 don't actually store all the recipients, if the mail is 16 sent to a group, restore the e-mail group name. Which 17 implies you then need to be able to evaluate who was a
 18 part of any given mail group.
 19 The tool when we took it over for pre-2003
 20 e-mail was looking at a snapshot of e-mail group
 21 membership that had been created in early 2003.
 22 So we needed to physically create a data
 23 source that would tell us a more accurate
 24 representation of who was in a group at a point in time
 25 and then run scripts, code in abstract from the inquiry

1 tool in order to leverage that data.
 2 Does that make sense?
 3 Q. And why couldn't Mr. Jonas's team have done
 4 all of that?
 5 A. They're not developers.
 6 Q. So they're simply implementers --
 7 A. They use our tool.
 8 Q. Have you been able to develop it
 9 sufficiently that you've now passed it off to 10 Mr. Jonas's group?
 11 A. We are in the process of doing that, yes.
 12 We actually used the last set of queries to refine our 13 scripts, improve the speed of our scripts. And we are 14 in what I would call the 90 percent turned over so he 15 can operate them.
 16 Q. And, again, where are we in the process?
 17 When will we be done reviewing and searching all of 18 these 112 tapes? And when I say "we," I mean you.
 19 A. That should be done.
 20 Q. It was done as of February 2nd?
 21 A. We provided a -- okay, I know my end. So I
 22 don't know when it actually makes its way through all
 23 the other people. But we provided one pull at the end
 24 of last week, which would have been the 4th. That 25 should have included that data. And then we provided

1 another one early this week that should have also
 2 actually included any potential data that we -- we
 3 inserted some additional data over the weekend.
 4 Q. When you say it was pulled?
 5 A. I'm sorry, I refer to a pull. We run -- the 6 inquiry was -- all the data was extracted, put in a
 7 file and handed over.
 8 Q. To whom did you hand it over?
 9 A. We hand it to Grant's team.
 10 Q. And what else is left for Grant's team to 11 do?
 12 A. I'm not sure what he does. He gives it to 13 counsel or whoever he gives it to.
 14 Q. Is he something more than a messenger?
 15 there some work he has to do on it to your knowledge?
 16 MR. JONES: Object, asked and answered. You
 17 can answer again.
 18 THE WITNESS: There's no work he does on it.
 19 He passes it over.
 20 BY MR. BYMAN:
 21 Q. Does he do any review on it to cull out
 22 something from something else?
 23 A. I don't know. We have a very specific 24 division of responsibilities. I don't ask Grant what 25 he does with data when I hand it to him.

031487

1 Q. In terms of when you hand it over to him,
 2 what quantity of material did you give him?
 3 A. I don't know offhand.
 4 Q. Did you hand it over to him in electronic 5 form?
 6 A. We gave him the file, yes.
 7 Q. And when you say gave him a file, did you
 8 simply e-mail something to him?
 9 A. No, we're all on the -- we zipped up a file
 10 and put it in the file system. And his team had access
 11 to that.
 12 Q. So you don't know if it was 5 gigabytes or 13 50 gigabytes or 500 gigabytes?
 14 A. Personally, no.
 15 Q. If you don't know the size of the electronic 16 file I take it you can't tell me how many pages of 17 e-mails there might be on it?
 18 A. We would not look, no.
 19 Q. Once you've given him that file, is there 20 anything further that needs to be done to turn it into 21 something that would be readable? In other words, 22 somebody that was on your system with that file, would 23 you be able to see it on a screen and print off from 24 the screen whatever the information was?
 25 A. Yeah, you would have a giant file full of

1 e-mail.
 2 Q. Would it also be in searchable form at that
 3 point? You've already searched to find something, I
 4 take it, but...
 5 A. At that point we would have done the pull
 6 based on people and dates. And any key word type
 7 search that might need to be done would either be done
 8 with grep or, yeah, or a tool, there's a bunch of tools
 9 that do that.
 10 Q. So further searches could be done?
 11 A. Yeah. We would not be involved in that.
 12 Q. But you've given him a file that is 13 manipulable and searchable?
 14 A. Yes. There's no index at that point, it's a
 15 blob of mail and contents and attachments.
 16 Q. Would that file, for example, be able to be 17 reordered by date?
 18 A. I don't know.
 19 Q. Or by recipient?
 20 A. I have not personally seen the file and what 21 it looks like.
 22 Q. Who in your group has personally seen it?
 23 A. David Matteo wrote the scripts and created
 24 the file.
 25 Q. Have you ever heard of a vendor called

1 Forensic and Heat Restoration?
 2 A. No.
 3 MR. JONES: "And" or "in."
 4 MR. BYMAN: "And." Forensic & Heat
 5 Restoration.
 6 BY MR. BYMAN:
 7 Q. Were you aware that in June of 2004 Mr. Reil
 8 on behalf of Morgan Stanley signed a certification that 9 all relevant e-mail in this case had been produced?
 10 A. No.
 11 Q. Has anyone ever told you that other than me
 12 just now?
 13 A. That, no.
 14 MR. JONES: Well.
 15 BY MR. BYMAN:
 16 Q. Were you aware that in July of 2004 Morgan
 17 Stanley was aware that there were backup tapes which 18 contained e-mail going back to 1998 that had not been
 19 searched?
 20 MR. JONES: Object to the form of the 21 question. And perhaps lack of foundation.
 22 Why don't you read the question back.
 23 (A portion of the record was read by the 24 reporter.)
 25 MR. JONES: That was my objection to the

1 form and foundation.
 2 THE WITNESS: It's kind of a confusing
 3 question. In July I didn't know anything about 4 this project.
 5 BY MR. BYMAN:
 6 Q. Well, in terms of getting up to speed to do
 7 your job, did you look at anything that occurred prior 8 to your getting the job? Did you look at any of the 9 historical files?
 10 A. I did not look at anything having to do with 11 investigations. Unless Grant asked us to. And then we 12 only looked at it from a technical perspective. And 13 typically I did not personally look at it.
 14 Q. Do you know who Mr. Reil reported to in July 15 of 2004? Would it have been Mr. Saxe?
 16 A. No.
 17 Q. That's right. He reported to somebody
 18 different than you.
 19 A. Yeah. I'm just not sure when Moyra started.
 20 I can't remember when she started. Yes, in July I
 21 think it was Moyra, yes.
 22 Q. If I were to tell you that an estimate was 23 made that there were as many as 2,183,000 unique
 24 e-mails on the found tapes, would that be consistent
 25 with the amount of found data that was in processing in

1 October?
 2 MR. JONES: Can I have that read back,
 3 please?
 4 (A portion of the record was read by the
 5 reporter.)
 6 MR. JONES: I guess you can't type a frown,
 7 I better say that I object to the form of the 8 question as vague and ambiguous.
 9 THE WITNESS: Well, it's really that we 10 don't look at it in the context of messages. We 11 look at it in the context of size. I never knew 12 how many messages there were in the 600. And 13 since it's a mixture of messages and 14 attachments, you can't even apply a good
 15 fraction.
 16 BY MR. BYMAN:
 17 Q. If it were simply text, how many pages would 18 600 gigabytes be?
 19 A. I have no idea.
 20 Q. Would it be 10 million pages?
 21 A. I really don't know.
 22 Q. More than a million? You can't give me even 23 a --
 24 A. Pages? I really don't think in terms of 25 pages.

1 Q. All right. How many words?
 2 A. It's getting further away from how I think
 3 about it.
 4 MR. JONES: Let me object. Asked and
 5 answered. She said she didn't know. But you
 6 want to take another shot.
 7 THE WITNESS: I don't know those stats. We 8 do -- I could sit here and do a little math in 9 my head, but we don't think about it that way.
 10 Actually I couldn't. Part of the challenge
 11 of even doing the math in my head is that the 12 attachments are mixed in with the mails. So
 13 even if I tried to say a rough average message
 14 size and use some of the stats that I know from 15 current processing, it would be way different
 16 back then.
 17 BY MR. BYMAN:
 18 Q. Well, let me try to put it this way,
 19 Ms. Gorman, if I were to represent to you that Bruce 20 Buchanan of NDCI sent an e-mail to Wray Stewart in 21 July of 2004 in which he said that they had reviewed
 22 the found tapes and that there were 2,183,331 total
 23 unique messages within those tapes, would that be 24 consistent with the amount of data that you knew was in 25 line for processing in October?

1 MR. JONES: Okay. Objection, asked and
 2 answered three or four times already.
 3 BY MR. BYMAN:
 4 Q. You can answer.
 5 A. Again, I can't quantify -- I don't quantify
 6 it that way.
 7 Q. That's not what I'm asking. I'm asking --
 8 A. Try again, I'm sorry.
 9 MR. JONES: It is what you're asking, Bob.
 10 MR. BYMAN: Let me finish, Mike, or we're 11 going to be here all night.
 12 BY MR. BYMAN:
 13 Q. I want to know if the 600 gigabytes you're 14 talking about is 2 million individual e-mails a
 15 reasonable number or is it wildly wrong?
 16 A. It's probably a subset, yes.
 17 Q. I take it that you did not give any 18 instructions to Mr. Jonas, that whatever it is he did
 19 he got his instructions from somebody else?
 20 A. Yes.
 21 Q. Are you familiar with the term brick level
 22 backups?
 23 A. No.
 24 Q. Let me show you a document that I'm going to 25 mark as Exhibit 426 for identification.

1 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 426 was marked for
 2 identification.)
 3 BY MR. BYMAN:
 4 Q. It has production numbers 112593 through
 5 601.
 6 And of course I don't see your name on this.
 7 Do you have any recollection, however, of ever seeing
 8 it?
 9 A. This mail? No.
 10 Q. Do you see on the very last line on the 11 first page: "We have experienced restoring brick level 12 backups." And actually the subject of the e-mail is 13 brick level backups. Take a look at that and see if it
 14 refreshes your recollection about the term?
 15 A. Oh, no, I've never heard the term.
 16 Q. You've never heard the term?
 17 A. No.
 18 Q. Were you aware that some time in late
 19 January 2005 an issue had arisen with respect to 20 processing certain tapes?
 21 A. Late January 2005?
 22 Q. Yes.
 23 A. Meaning a couple weeks ago?
 24 Q. Yes.
 25 A. No. No.

1 Q. The information that you processed that was
 2 in line in October when you made it a priority, that
 3 began to be processed in mid January when the scripts
 4 were finally written and debugged, was that a static
 5 set of data?
 6 A. Yes, that was already on hard disk.
 7 Q. So it was data that was already there in 8 October and may have been there for months or weeks or 9 days, but it was already there?
 10 A. Yes.
 11 Q. Nobody added anything to it?
 12 A. No, there was no room.
 13 Q. Has any new data come in since then?
 14 A. Yes.
 15 Q. And from what source?
 16 A. There were additional tapes that needed to 17 be processed that were put on SDLTs and sent to us. In 18 the middle of December Bob's team asked us if we had 19 room. We didn't because we were still waiting to 20 process the stuff out of staging.
 21 We made room for it at the end of January.
 22 Q. And what quantity was that additional data?
 23 A. Although it was two SDLTs it ended up being 24 only about less than 50 gig.
 25 Q. Has all of that been processed?

1 A. Yes, that was done in two days.
 2 Q. Do you have any understanding where that
 3 data came from?
 4 A. 8 millimeter tapes that had been found.
 5 Very old tapes.
 6 Q. Do you know where they were found?
 7 A. No.
 8 Q. Is that a question better addressed to 9 Mr. Saunders?
 10 A. Probably.
 11 Q. Was there any e-mail on those tapes?
 12 A. They only give me what has e-mail on it. So 13 of the 8 millimeters, however much e-mail they found is 14 what I got.
 15 Q. By the time you get it --
 16 A. By the time I get it, it's e-mail.
 17 Q. Do you have any understanding of whether 18 anybody did any searches on any of the things that 19 became e-mail and were sent to you to see if there were 20 things that were possibly relevant to the lawsuit that 21 weren't e-mail on those 8 millimeter tapes or the other
 22 tapes?
 23 A. I don't have any knowledge of any searches
 24 that were done against those.
 25 Q. As a result of the search of the 50

1 gigabytes of data from the 8 millimeter tapes, was 2 there some product that was pulled and forwarded on to 3 Mr. Jonas?
 4 A. Yes.
 5 Q. So it didn't come up empty, it came up with 6 something?
 7 A. No. Well, again, we did a full super set.
 8 I do not know if there was a delta.
 9 Q. In other words, you don't know if it was 10 duplicated?
 11 A. I don't know -- yeah. I don't remember. I
 12 actually didn't get the numbers from my group, this all 13 happened -- I was actually on vacation the end of last 14 week.
 15 Q. Good for you.
 16 A. I don't particularly have all the details
 17 because I wasn't standing there. I just know we got 18 the work done.
 19 Q. I appreciate the fact that you don't know
 20 how many pages it is, how many individual e-mails it
 21 is, the content. But the point is out of the 600
 22 gigabytes of data you do know that your searches
 23 yielded something that was turned over to Mr. Jonas?
 24 A. Yes.
 25 Q. And your search of the 8 millimeter tapes,

1 the 50 gigabytes yielded something that was turned over
 2 to Mr. Jonas?
 3 A. Our next search as well as some additional 4 data that had been loaded. There were, I believe, some 5 additional tapes found very recently like in the last
 6 few weeks.
 7 Q. What tapes are those?
 8 A. More DLT tapes that were found. I don't
 9 know the context. I was told like two or three weeks
 10 ago that there were some more tapes coming our way.
 11 And that they need to be processed as quickly as 12 possible.
 13 Q. What quantity was that?
 14 A. That was also a very small amount. I know
 15 we finished it over the weekend, this last weekend at 16 the same time we finished the 8 millimeter. So on 17 February 2nd we finished the big bulk that had been 18 staging. And then these two smaller amounts came 19 represented what was on the 8 millimeters and what was 20 found very recently. We processed all of that by the 21 weekend and -- that's why we reran the search at the 22 beginning of this week.
 23 Q. I just want to be sure that I'm clear on 24 this. So there were three separate sources of things
 25 that you had. One was already in line for processing

1 when you got there?
 2 A. Yes.
 3 Q. Two was the output of the 8 millimeter tapes
 4 that was approximately 50 gigabytes?
 5 A. Yes.
 6 Q. And three was some quantity of tapes that 7 were found in some other location that were given to 8 you very recently?
 9 A. Yes.
 10 Q. And can you estimate the size of that third
 11 quantity? Was it also about 50 gigabytes?
 12 A. I know it was small because I know we 13 processed it very quickly. So I could say, you know,
 14 but that's all I could say. I never got a number from 15 the person in my group. Horace did the work over the 16 weekend, but it had to have been small. We did it very 17 quickly.
 18 Q. We know that as to the first group, the 19 things that were in line when you got there, there was 20 some output that you gave to Mr. Jonas.
 21 A. Yes.
 22 Q. As to two and three we know that there was 23 something for the combination of them, but we don't 24 know whether it was for both or for each?
 25 A. Again, well, we ran another full search and

1 gave them another, call it a super set. And that data
 2 had been inserted at that point. So anything found
 3 between -- any new data produced between the search --
 4 if you did a difference between what we gave them
 5 Friday and what we gave them Monday, you'd have the 6 answer to your question, but I don't know. I don't
 7 happen to know the answer.
 8 Q. I think I'm finally starting to get it. So
 9 the search you did most recently would have come up
 10 with the same things you did out of the things you
 11 already had in October?
 12 A. Yes.
 13 Q. So unless we know that the file you first 14 gave Mr. Jonas was smaller than the file you just gave 15 Mr. Jonas, we won't know if there's anything in the new 16 things?
 17 A. Right. And we just gave it to him, so I
 18 haven't had a chance to --
 19 Q. So either Mr. Jonas or Mr. Seickel will have 20 to tell us that?
 21 A. Glenn would not know that.
 22 Q. Is there anybody on the list of --
 23 A. Bob's team would not know anything about the 24 size of a pull that we gave to Grant. They shouldn't,
 25 it's not their job.

1 MR. BYMAN: Why don't we take a little
 2 break.
 3 (A recess was taken.)
 4 BY MR. BYMAN:
 5 Q. Ms. Gorman, do you have any reason to 6 believe, by rumor or by actual statement, that there's 7 anything else that you might be asked to process in 8 terms of e-mails that predate 2000?
 9 A. There is another set of data we are waiting
 10 for. And I don't know the dates.
 11 Q. And who has told you that there's more data
 12 coming?
 13 A. The last bucket of tapes that I mentioned we 14 didn't get all of the data. So the tapes were found,
 15 they were sent to NDCI, NDCI processed some percentage
 16 of that. Sent it to us, we did that and I'm waiting
 17 for the last bit.
 18 Q. Do you know what percentage they've
 19 processed?
 20 A. I don't know.
 21 Q. More than half, less than half?
 22 A. I don't know.
 23 Q. Do you have any information about when you
 24 will get them from NDCI?
 25 A. We're hoping any day, I don't know what day

1 it's going to show up. We're ready.
 2 Q. When was the last time you talked to NDCI
 3 about where they are?
 4 A. I don't talk directly to NDCI. I know I
 5 talked to Horace today, we did not have it yet.
 6 Q. I'm sorry, Horace's last name is?
 7 A. Sequeira.
 8 Q. And Mr. Sequeira is the one that's
 9 interfacing with NDCI?
 10 A. No, he interfaces with Bob Saunders' team.
 11 Q. So again, this is a question for 12 Mr. Saunders?
 13 A. Yes.
 14 Q. Well, that makes it easier and harder on 15 Mr. Saunders.
 16 MR. BYMAN: Unless Mr. Hirsch tackles me and 17 says I forgot something, I have no further 18 questions.
 19 MR. JONES: Thank you.

3 THEREUPON,

4 ROBERT JOHN SAUNDERS

5 having been first duly sworn, was examined and 6 testified as follows:

7 THE WITNESS: I do.

8 DIRECT EXAMINATION

9 BY MR. BYMAN:

10 Q. The record should reflect that this is the 11 deposition of Mr. Robert Saunders taken pursuant to the 12 order of Court dated February 3rd, 2005, and the 13 designation of Mr. Saunders as one of the three persons 14 that Morgan Stanley and Company intends to offer at an 15 evidentiary hearing on Monday.

16 Would you state your full name for the 17 record, please?

18 A. Robert John Saunders.

19 Q. Mr. Saunders, you've given a deposition in 20 this case already on February 10, 2004. Do you recall
21 that?

22 A. Yes.

23 Q. And at that time you told us that was the 24 first time you had ever given a deposition. Have you
25 given any depositions since then?

031494

1 A. I have not.
 2 Q. So we've had the honor of giving you all of
 3 your deposition experience?
 4 A. Yes.
 5 MR. KLAPPER: All on the same day, February
 6 10th.
 7 THE WITNESS: It was exactly a year ago
 8 today. Better weather, though.
 9 BY MR. BYMAN:
 10 Q. Have your titles or job responsibilities
 11 changed in the last year?
 12 A. They have not.
 13 Q. So you are still an executive director at 14 Morgan Stanley?
 15 A. Yes.
 16 Q. Do you still report to Joe Sidor?
 17 A. I do not. I have a new manager.
 18 Q. And who is your manager now?
 19 A. His name is Jerry DeMarco. D-E-M-A-R-C-O.
 20 Q. And when did that change occur?
 21 A. Change occurred this summer.
 22 Q. What happened to Mr. Sidor?
 23 A. Mr. Sidor was moved to another area within 24 information technology.
 25 Q. Are you familiar with an individual named

1 Q. When that team formed?
 2 A. The team has been in existence for several
 3 years. I wouldn't -- I couldn't give an exact time
 4 frame as to when it was formed.
 5 Q. Who are the members of the team?
 6 A. Glenn Seickel is the -- I would call him the 7 operational manager of that team. John Pamula is 8 basically the head of the BURP group. He is a Siemens
 9 contractor, and, in fact, the other members of that 10 team are also Siemens contractors.
 11 Q. So the only Morgan Stanley employees in that 12 group are yourself and Mr. Seickel?
 13 A. I'd say that's accurate.
 14 Q. And what is your role in the team? If 15 Mr. Seickel is the operations manager, are you over all
 16 in charge?
 17 A. I'm the senior manager responsible for UNIX
 18 and storage in North America. One of my duties -- one
 19 of the areas that I'm responsible for is the back up
 20 plant, and by nature of that, the backup tapes that 21 exist in our store.
 22 Q. And what precisely was your team charged
 23 with to help Mr. Reil in whatever it was he was doing?
 24 A. My team was responsible for providing access
 25 to what we call the Legacy Legato DLT tapes and

1 Arthur Reil?
 2 A. Yes.
 3 Q. Did Mr. Sidor's move have anything to do
 4 with the events that precipitated Mr. Reil's being
 5 placed on administrative leave?
 6 A. To my knowledge, no.
 7 Q. What, if anything, was your relationship
 8 with Mr. Reil prior to his being placed on 9 administrative leave?
 10 A. Can you elaborate on relationship?
 11 Q. Were you colleagues? Did you report to him?
 12 Did he report to you? Did you work together in any 13 way?
 14 A. I would say that we were colleagues. Part 15 of my team was responsible for working with Arthur in 16 providing him with services in order to complete the 17 e-mail restoration project.
 18 Q. And what services was your team providing to 19 him?
 20 A. Specifically, access to the DLT Legato tapes
 21 and working with our external vendor, NDCI, to process
 22 those tapes as part of the e-mail restoration project.
 23 Q. Did your team have a title?
 24 A. One of their names is the back up and
 25 restore team, also known as BURP, B-U-R-P.

1 basically working with Arthur Reil's team to have those
 2 tapes delivered from our off-site storage vendor,
 3 Recall -- capital R -- having those tapes delivered to 4 a third party vendor, a forensics data company called
 5 National Data Conversion Institution, NDCI.
 6 After NDCI was through with their part of 7 the project, they would deliver back to us SDLT tapes
 8 with the relevant information, a/k/a e-mails. Then my 9 team would take the information off of those SDLTs,
 10 move that information to disk -- so online storage --
 11 take it off of media, removable media, and basically 12 provide that to the e-mail archive team where they 13 could upload that information into the e-mail archive.
 14 Q. Let me go back and try to do this in small 15 steps. And I apologize, Mr. Saunders, my knowledge of 16 computers is the on/off button. So if I speak a
 17 different language than you do, please try to help me
 18 with terms.
 19 The Legato DLT tapes are some sort of 20 magnetic tape; is that correct?
 21 A. That's correct.
 22 Q. What is the storage capacity of each tape?
 23 A. My understanding -- and I am not the most 24 technical member of my team, as you might imagine --
 25 that the storage capability of a DLT tape is somewhere

031495

1 on the order of 35 gigabytes per tape.
 2 Q. And what is the storage capacity of a super
 3 DLT tape, an SDLT?
 4 A. Again, my general understanding is it's
 5 around 150 gigabytes per tape.
 6 Q. Is the data that's stored on an SDLT
 7 compressed data?
 8 A. My understanding is that it could either be 9 compressed or uncompressed, depending on the software
 10 that you use to record data.
 11 Q. On the SDLT tapes that are provided to you
 12 by NDCI, are those compressed or noncompressed?
 13 A. I don't know.
 14 Q. If they were compressed, do you know how 15 much data they would have when expanded?
 16 A. Again, I don't know.
 17 Q. And if I understand what you've said -- and 18 I'm going to try to repeat it in what I consider to be 19 layman's language, but that's a different thing for 20 different people. And if you could understand what 21 I've said, then that means I've understood what you've
 22 said.
 23 You take the raw DLT tapes, provide them to 24 NDCI. They extract what they understand to be the 25 relevant information you're looking for, and they take

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

1 it off of the DLT tapes and put it onto an SDLT,
 2 deliver it back to you so it can be processed in your
 3 system.
 4 A. That's correct.
 5 Q. Does NDCI have the technical capability to 6 put the information that it culls out of the DLT tapes
 7 into some sort of searchable database itself and 8 perform searches?
 9 A. I'm not aware of their capacity to do so.
 10 Q. Do you know that they cannot, or you just 11 don't know --
 12 A. I don't know.
 13 Q. Have you asked them?
 14 A. I personally have not asked.
 15 Q. To your knowledge has anyone at Morgan
 16 Stanley asked them?
 17 A. I don't know.
 18 Q. The work that you've been doing with 19 Mr. Reil's group -- or had been doing with Mr. Reil's
 20 group before he left, was that related to the e-mail
 21 archive project specifically, or was it related to 22 something else?
 23 A. The work that we had been performing with 24 Mr. Reil specifically was an effort chartered in 2003
 25 to go back to a store of tapes that were from prior to

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

1 the e-mail archive's existence, prior to January 1st,
 2 2003, take that sum of tapes, extract available e-mail,
 3 duplicate that e-mail, then upload it into the archive
 4 for the purpose of more expeditiously providing search
 5 capability of e-mail prior to 2003 for litigations or 6 for regulatory requests.
 7 Q. So it was a generic project, but could have 8 related to this litigation, for example?
 9 A. I was not party to the decision of why to do
 10 the effort. However, I do know that I have been 11 involved for several years, you know, with providing 12 response to ad hoc requests from various bodies, some 13 of them having to do with litigations. And that Morgan
 14 Stanley made a decision in good faith to move forward
 15 with taking that information off of the tapes in a
 16 comprehensive fashion rather than continuing with ad
 17 hoc queries over time, which take a lot more time and 18 basically were inefficient.
 19 Q. Well, they take a lot more time if you're 20 doing them one at a time because you're redoing things.
 21 But if you were doing a specific search it would take 22 less time than reconstructing the entire system,
 23 wouldn't it?
 24 A. It would depend. It would depend on the 25 scope of the request. Some of the requests we've

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

1 received have been, we need information over the period
 2 of 11 or 12 months for 100 people. So it needs to be 3 very clear what the request would be.
 4 Q. Let me show you something that we marked
 5 yesterday as Exhibit 425.
 6 MR. BYMAN: And I apologize, Tony, I don't 7 have extra copies of what I gave yesterday to 8 Mike.
 9 MR. JONES: I'll dig it out.
 10 MR. KLAPPER: You say Exhibit 425?
 11 MR. BYMAN: Yes.
 12 It's possible I have another copy of that.
 13 Let me see if I do.
 14 I do.
 15 BY MR. BYMAN:
 16 Q. Mr. Saunders, let me represent to you that 17 this is actually a cull of the documents that were 18 given to us. It does not bear sequential numbers.
 19 MR. KLAPPER: Let me also say if you feel
 20 like you want to review it before any questions
 21 are asked, feel free to do so.
 22 THE WITNESS: Actually, could I have two
 23 minutes to take a look at this?
 24 MR. BYMAN: Of course.
 25 THE WITNESS: Okay.

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

031496

1 BY MR. BYMAN:
2 Q. Again, I was starting to explain that I
3 suspect you have not seen these documents in this form,
4 because I have extracted them from a body of other
5 things. Let me tell you what I did so we're on the 6 same page.

7 The materials that were produced to us
8 included a somewhat thicker set of things, all of which 9 included fax headers dated October 21, 2004, with a
10 phone number indicated, that happens to be the fax
11 phone number of the Washington office of the law firm
12 Sidley and Austin.

13 It's apparently a series of different
14 transmissions, because they are different times, and 15 there are different headers for the pages. Some of 16 them, for example, just say page 23. Some say page 2
17 of 6. But they are each of what appear to be cover
18 pages that reflect minutes of e-mail archive meetings
19 on various dates.

20 Have you ever seen these documents, whether 21 or not in this collection?

22 A. Yes.

23 Q. Were you the one that provided these 24 documents to counsel so that they could be provided to 25 us?

13

1 A. I don't believe so.

2 Q. When did you first see any of these
3 documents?

4 A. Some of these documents I became aware of 5 through discussions with counsel over the last several 6 months.

7 Q. Do you see the "to" indication, e-mail
8 archive space core?

9 A. Uh-huh.

10 Q. Is that an address group?

11 A. Yes.

12 Q. Were you one of the people within that 13 address group?

14 A. I was not.

15 Q. Do you know who is within that address
16 group?

17 A. I could speculate, but I'm not sure.

18 Q. Give me your best estimate of who would be 19 in it?

20 A. My guess of the people that would have been 21 in that e-mail group would have been Arthur Reil, Don 22 Haight, Kay Gunn, Wray Stewart.

23 Q. John Pamula?

24 A. John Pamula, possibly.

25 Q. Annaline Dinkelman?

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

14

1 A. I don't know whether or not she would be in
2 that group.

3 Q. There's also a cc to DSMGR-NA; is that
4 another group?

5 A. That is.

6 Q. Who would be within that group?

7 A. I was within that group.

8 Q. Who else is in that group?

9 A. That group is a mix of managers and senior
10 members of the level to UNIX and Windows support team
11 of which I am a manager.

12 Q. And what other persons are within that
13 group?

14 A. Some folks that had previously been in our 15 area that are now affiliated with our area but no
16 longer directly in the group.

17 Q. Can you give me their names?

18 A. I think that Isaac Hollander was still in 19 the group.

20 Joe Peraglia, P-E-R-A-G-L-I-A.

21 Vaughn Turner.

22 I think that's the extent of my
23 recollection.

24 Q. Were you a member of DSMGR-NA as of May 25 2004?

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

15

1 A. Yes.

2 Q. Were you still a member of that group as of 3 September 2004?

4 A. Yes.

5 Q. So is it fair to say that you would have 6 received, more or less in real time, copies of each of 7 these documents when they were generated?

8 A. Yes.

9 Q. Did you ever forward any of these documents
10 to any other person?

11 A. No.

12 Q. What would you typically do when you
13 received copies of these minutes?

14 A. These minutes reflect meetings and updates
15 on the status of the e-mail archive restoration project
16 of which I testified a few minutes before. Wray
17 Stewart, who is one of the key members who helps to 18 keep this group moving forward, would send out weekly
19 minutes.

20 I would receive them on a weekly basis. By 21 the summer of 2004, the project had been moving along,
22 was certainly at a run rate capacity. I had stepped 23 away from the effort, and, in fact, my responsibility
24 was solely to provide care and feeding for my team
25 members that were assisting Arthur with the project.

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

031497

1 Arthur had responsibility for
2 decision-making and ultimate responsibility to IT
3 management for the successful completion of the effort.

4 So the way I would handle these documents is 5 I would receive them on a weekly basis, but as the 6 information and as the effort largely was well underway
7 and then appeared to be coming to conclusion, I was not
8 reviewing them in real time, as you said.

9 Q. Was there anyone on your team or who 10 reported to you that was charged with reviewing them in 11 greater detail?

12 A. Wray Stewart was -- continued to be
13 affiliated with this project in helping to make sure
14 that the flow of tapes between our vendors and making
15 sure that the information was getting into the staging
16 area so that Arthur's team could upload it. I would 17 say he was the closest to it.

18 Glenn Seickel was also my operational
19 manager, would obviously be continuing to be closely
20 involved to make sure that we were fulfilling our 21 obligations.

22 Q. Were you aware that Mr. Reil was placed on 23 administrative leave in August 2004?

24 A. Could you specify the time frame?

25 Q. Well, I'm not sure I know the date.

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

17

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

19

1 Ms. Gorman testified yesterday that it was August 2004,
2 and I don't recall --

3 A. So to be clear with your question, are you
4 asking me am I now aware, or if I was aware at some 5 point?

6 Q. Are you aware?

7 A. I am aware.

8 Q. When did you become aware?

9 A. I believe I became aware, and I think the 10 date you just said was the 18th.

11 Q. Actually, I didn't give you a date. It's 12 August of 2004.

13 A. Okay. I received a phone call in August of 14 '04, and I think my general recollection is it was the 15 18th, a Thursday, that Arthur was no longer with the 16 firm or was no longer responsible for the effort for 17 the e-mail archive effort.

18 Q. Who did you receive that phone call from?

19 A. From Rob Place, P-L-A-C-E. Rob is a direct
20 report of mine. He works in my group.

21 Q. What is Mr. Place's role in your group?

22 A. Rob is responsible for storage and 23 infrastructure. And Glenn Seickel reports to Rob.

24 Q. What did Mr. Place tell you about Mr. Reil?

25 A. He let me know that a meeting had been set

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

18

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

16div-028686

1 up -- had happened where it was announced that Arthur
2 was no longer responsible for the archive and that 3 where some decisions were made with respect to how to 4 continue to move forward with this effort.

5 Q. Were you aware during that phone call or 6 shortly thereafter that Mr. Reil was replaced by 7 Allison Gorman Nachtigal?

8 A. I was made aware, I believe, within several 9 weeks of that event.

10 Q. Were you consulted by anyone about 11 Mr. Reil's performance prior to the announcement of his 12 departure?

13 A. I was not.

14 Q. So far as you know, you did not play any 15 role in his jettison?

16 A. I do not believe I played any role.

17 Q. Were you ever asked to review his 18 performance?

19 A. No.

20 Q. Did you ever do a peer review of him?

21 A. I did not do a peer review of him.

22 Q. Did you do any kind of review of him?

23 A. I believe I may have been asked by, you
24 know, my previous boss, Joe Sidor, as to how it was to 25 work with Arthur. In sort of an informal kind of way,

1 but not a formal peer review.

2 Q. When did that conversation occur?

3 A. Generally I would guess that it was in 4 earlier -- in the first half of '04.

5 Q. Did you ever form any impressions, whether 6 or not you conveyed them to anybody, about Mr. Reil's
7 competence?

8 A. Could you be more specific?

9 Q. His competence for the e-mail archive
10 project.

11 A. Yes.

12 Q. What was your impression?

13 A. My impression is that Arthur was someone who 14 senior members of IT had entrusted with a large set of 15 responsibilities; that his responsibility was to not 16 only create an application, like a searchable,
17 indexable archive, but to -- so from an application
18 perspective, but also responsible for infrastructure
19 strategy and design.

20 That's a pretty large scope for one
21 individual. In general, in my experience, people are 22 generally experts at one or the other. Although 23 various IT groups, including my own, would provide 24 assistance with infrastructure strategy, et cetera.

25 My overall impression was that he had a

031498

1 previous history, a lengthy history of experience in
2 the industry and that people were of the opinion that
3 he could deliver over a several-year time frame a tool
4 that the firm needed.

5 Q. So is that a way of saying that you thought
6 he was performing his job adequately?

7 A. I would say the answer to your question
8 right there is, I wasn't going in that direction with 9 my answer. I was merely -- you asked my -- what my 10 understanding of his -- impressions of him were.

11 Q. Well, did you ever form an impression as to 12 whether he was or was not performing his job
13 adequately?

14 A. Yes.

15 Q. And what was your impression?

16 A. My impression was that the archive itself
17 did go live, as was previously planned, on January 1st,
18 2003. So he delivered on time.

19 In terms of working with him specifically on 20 the e-mail restoration project, his team was 21 coordinating getting this information, this Legacy
22 information, prior to 2003, working with various 23 different groups together that -- the group was working 24 together. The information was flowing between the 25 different vendors and coming back to Morgan Stanley,

1 With that understanding, you can answer the
2 question.

3 THE WITNESS: Sure. Since my team is one of 4 the groups responsible for data protection and 5 back ups of documents and information, we have 6 been involved in requests for documents,
7 information, e-mail over the past several years.

8 I've spoken already about the fact that we 9 have a number of tapes which were off-sited to 10 our vendor, Recall, and that we would -- when 11 requests would come in, ad hoc requests for 12 certain information, we would assist legal and 13 IT security in executing those search requests.

14 BY MR. BYMAN:

15 Q. Specifically to this case, first of all, you
16 are aware that this is a lawsuit between Coleman Parent
17 Holdings and Morgan Stanley and Company, Incorporated,
18 are you not?

19 A. Yes.

20 Q. Have you ever been asked by anyone to 21 provide support to the legal team for this specific 22 case?

23 And that's just a yes or no. I'm not trying 24 to find out what you did.

25 A. Yes.

1 and progress did appear to be made.

2 Q. So is that a way of saying that he was or 3 was not performing adequately?

4 A. So from my perspective, he was performing
5 adequately.

6 Q. Did you ever share that view with any of 7 your bosses or his bosses?

8 A. I don't know if I shared my view of his
9 competence with my superiors.

10 Q. Do you ever have interface with lawyers in 11 the performance of your duties, other than getting 12 ready for depositions?

13 A. Would you restate the question?

14 Q. Well, is any part of your duties over the 15 last couple of years been to supply support or other
16 services to legal counsel?

17 A. Yes.

18 Q. And would you describe what that function
19 has been?

20 MR. KLAPPER: And let me just interject,
21 Counsel.

22 You're not to reveal anything about the 23 specific services, conversations that you've had 24 with counsel relating to those services, or 25 discussions that you've had with counsel.

1 Q. And now to the extent that you can do it --
2 and I do not want to invade privileges, but to the 3 extent you can, tell me what task you've been given for 4 this case.

5 MR. KLAPPER: I'm going to object. Because
6 it's unclear to me that in describing the tasks
7 we can somehow protect the privilege. In terms
8 of description of the tasks, that gets into the 9 mental impression of the attorneys in terms of 10 what they've asked him to do in assisting
11 counsel.

12 If you want to ask him questions about who 13 he interacted with, when he had meetings with 14 attorneys, et cetera, those atmospheric, I'm 15 all for it. Go forth. But I believe you're 16 invading the privilege if we start getting into 17 the litany of tasks that he may or may not have 18 been asked to do.

19 MR. BYMAN: Let me see if I can get to at 20 least some specific.

21 BY MR. BYMAN:

22 Q. Have you ever been asked to attempt to 23 locate e-mails that might be relevant to this
24 litigation?

25 MR. KLAPPER: And let me confer with him

031499

1 with respect to whether or not -- and with
2 co-counsel -- with respect to whether or not
3 this is getting into the privilege area.

4 MR. BYMAN: Sure.

5 (A discussion was held off the record.)

6 (A portion of the record was read by the
7 reporter.)

8 MR. KLAPPER: And I'm just going to go on 9 the record and indicate that it's our position
10 that, feel free to ask him generally about what 11 he has done in terms of searching for e-mails
12 and things of that sort. But if we're going to 13 get into specific questions as to who asked him
14 to perform those functions, we're going to 15 invoke the privilege, and I'm going instruct him
16 not to answer that.

17 With the exception of any -- I guess the 18 order in place in this particular case for 19 purposes of this deposition required us to 20 identify documents that Mr. Saunders may have 21 had in his possession. And feel free to ask
22 about that pursuant to the order.

23 But other than that, in terms of specific 24 tasks asked by lawyers, I'm going to invoke the 25 privilege and instruct the witness not to

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

25

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

27

1 answer.

2 MR. BYMAN: I'm confused, Tony. Why would
3 the identity of someone who made the request be 4 privileged.

5 MR. KLAPPER: Because the nature of the 6 question is what are the tasks you've been asked
7 to do. Once you link that up to the attorney,
8 you're getting into the attorneys' mental 9 impressions in terms of what he has decided or 10 not decided to do or asked Mr. Saunders to do.

11 So I'm not suggesting you have nefarious
12 motives here, but it's a backdoor way of getting 13 at what the attorney is intending to do.

14 MR. BYMAN: Well, I disagree with your
15 definition of what falls within the privilege.
16 So I'm going to ask the question and ask you to 17 make whatever you -- instructions you need to 18 do.

19 BY MR. BYMAN:

20 Q. Has anyone ever asked you to aid in the 21 location and identification of e-mails relevant to this 22 specific litigation?

23 MR. KLAPPER: And let me just interject.

24 You can answer that question so long as you
25 don't reveal if it was attorney based or not

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

26

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

1 attorney based.

2 You may answer.

3 THE WITNESS: To be specific, are you asking
4 whether I've looked at my own e-mails, or I've 5 looked at all e-mails that are available to 6 Morgan Stanley?

7 BY MR. BYMAN:

8 Q. My question is: Have you been asked to 9 search Morgan Stanley files or aid in a search of 10 Morgan Stanley files for any e-mails that are related
11 to this litigation?

12 A. Okay. I was specifically asked to check my 13 own e-mail for any information or documents relevant to 14 this proceeding.

15 Q. And have you or your team provided any 16 support specifically related to this litigation to 17 extract, locate, or identify e-mails for production in 18 this litigation?

19 A. I guess the strict answer to that question
20 is yes, specifically related to the three tranches of 21 tapes that have been under discussion in the last
22 several weeks and in a hearing to which I was party. I
23 believe it was last Friday or Thursday. It was last 24 Friday, I think.

25 Q. Let's make sure that we get the definition

1 of what you mean by the three tranches of tapes. What
2 do you mean?

3 A. Sure. So outside of what we've talked about 4 in general as the 35,000 Legacy Legato tapes or the 5 universe of tapes prior to 2003, some of which 6 contained e-mail, some of which did not, there were 7 some groups of tapes which have become -- which 8 surfaced in this past year that may or may not have 9 contained additional information.

10 And I know that in this proceeding that 11 there's been some concern about that information,
12 whether it's discoverable, whether or not it's 13 privileged, and how to make that available to both 14 sides, the plaintiff and the defendant, in order to 15 help move this matter forward.

16 Q. So the first tranche is the 35,000 tapes?

17 A. So that makes it four tranches. The 35,000
18 would be the original set of tapes.

19 Q. The original set of what Morgan Stanley
20 believed to be the universe of pre-2003 tapes?

21 A. That's correct.

22 Q. And then something surfaced that expanded
23 the universe?

24 A. That's right.

25 Q. And that's tranche two?

031500

1 A. Sure.

2 Q. And what's the quantity of tranche two

3 tapes?

4 A. My understanding is that 1423 DLT tapes that

5 were found this past year.

6 Q. What's tranche three?

7 A. Tranche three is the 8-millimeter tapes.

8 Q. And what's the quantity of those tapes?

9 A. I'm not specifically aware of that number.

10 Q. Do you have any general estimate?

11 A. Somewhere -- I think somewhere around 700.

12 Q. You've told us what the storage capacity was 13 of a DLT tape. What's the storage capacity of an

14 8-millimeter tape?

15 A. I'm really not sure, but I'm thinking it's 16 under 10 gig per tape. But that's a guess.

17 Q. What is tranche four?

18 A. Tranche four would be the 169 tapes, DLT

19 tapes, that were found in the last couple of months.

20 Q. Let's go back to tranche two. As to the 21 1423 DLT tapes, when were those first discovered?

22 A. My understanding is that they were

23 discovered somewhere in -- early in the summer of 2004.

24 Q. Well, take a look at the first document in 25 Exhibit 425, which is dated May 6. Under pending

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

29

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

31

1 items, paragraph two, there's a reference to 1,024

2 unlabeled tapes that were found in the Brooklyn

3 security room. Is that a reference to what became the

4 1423 tapes?

5 And if you look at the next page, you'll see

6 it's already grown to 1421 on May 20th. And if you'll

7 look at the next page, we finally get to the 1423.

8 A. Is there a question?

9 Q. Yes. Is this a reference to the tranche two

10 tapes?

11 A. I believe so.

12 Q. So they were found at least as of May 6th,

13 2004; is that right?

14 A. According to this document, that sounds

15 right.

16 Q. Do you have any reason to believe that this

17 document is incorrect?

18 A. I don't.

19 Q. Or that it's dated incorrectly?

20 A. I don't.

21 Q. How were these tapes found on or before May

22 6th, 2004?

23 A. I'm not aware of how they were found.

24 Q. Do you know who found them?

25 A. I do not.

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

30

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

32

1 Q. Have you ever asked anyone?

2 A. I don't recall asking anyone how they were

3 found.

4 Q. There's a reference on the first page of

5 Exhibit 425 to Wray Stewart/Glenn to investigate the

6 origin of the tapes. Was someone tasked to find out

7 what the origin of the tapes was?

8 A. It would appear here that Wray or Glenn were

9 going to investigate.

10 Q. But you have no knowledge other than what's 11 on this document?

12 A. I specifically don't remember.

13 Q. Did anyone ever report to you that they

14 figured out why these tapes turned up?

15 A. There were conversations after this event

16 that I'm generally aware of regarding: How did this

17 happen? What do we know about it? What could we do to 18 make sure that we've located the universe of tapes?

19 Q. Who did you have those conversations with?

20 A. Glenn and Wray.

21 Q. When did you have those conversations?

22 A. Again, general knowledge, I would say in the 23 same time period, May, June.

24 Q. Did you come up with some answer as to how

25 you could make sure this wouldn't happen again?

1 A. I believe through conversations with Wray

2 and Glenn, and I'm not sure if it was a directive of

3 mine or whether they took action upon themselves, but

4 we did decide to do a sweep, a physical, visual search

5 of our communication rooms, to go out and look for any

6 other tapes that may have been missed or may have been

7 in a place that wasn't part of normal business

8 practice.

9 Q. Who conducted that sweep?

10 A. Again, general knowledge about what was

11 done, but I believe that the BURP team, that the 12 Siemens contractors, the tape handlers themselves, were

13 sent out to the different comm rooms.

14 Q. How many people would that involve?

15 A. I think it's six people.

16 Q. Were the instructions to the BURP team oral

17 or in writing?

18 A. Again, general knowledge, I do not know.

19 Q. Would it make sense that it be oral? It

20 would have been in writing, wouldn't it?

21 A. Again, I don't know.

22 Q. Let me represent to you that we haven't seen

23 anything in this stack that indicates that any such

24 instructions were sent out. If they were sent out,

25 would you have been copied with those instructions?

031501

1 A. As the senior manager of the team, I am not
 2 always copied on actions that are taken by the team in 3 this space. And I think that oral instructions were 4 often the way that we would ask people to take care of 5 one off requests.
 6 Q. However the instructions were given, you
 7 would have expected to see a report of the results,
 8 would you not, of that sweep?
 9 MR. KLAPPER: Objection, vague and ambiguous
 10 as to the report and whether you're referring 11 to --
 12 MR. BYMAN: Let me start over.
 13 BY MR. BYMAN:
 14 Q. Did you ever see a report?
 15 A. I generally recall either Wray or Glenn 16 coming back to me and indicating that a sweep had been 17 performed and that nothing was found.
 18 Q. So that was an oral report?
 19 A. Yes.
 20 Q. Did you ever see a written report?
 21 A. Not to my knowledge.
 22 Q. What is the Brooklyn security room?
 23 A. The Brooklyn security room is a separate 24 dedicated area, part of our communication rooms. And 25 by communication room we mean large floor spaces that

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

33

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

35

1 are cooled that contain our computer -- our computing
 2 equipment, so mainframes, Dell computers, Sun
 3 computers, our storage, EMC storage area network
 4 equipment.
 5 Specifically within that communication room
 6 there is a cage, which is actually a physical cage
 7 where some more critical equipment is kept, some 8 equipment that has higher levels of physical security
 9 than the rest of the room.
 10 Q. Is the Brooklyn security room part of the 11 same facility located in One Pier Point Plaza in 12 Brooklyn Heights that you testified about in your first 13 deposition?
 14 A. Yes.
 15 Q. Is there some reason why that room wasn't
 16 searched initially when the original tranche of 35,000
 17 tapes were put together?
 18 A. So -- with respect to the original universe
 19 of tapes, of the 35,000, those are the tapes that were 20 located at our Recall off-site facility. Our standard
 21 business practice is to off-site tapes on a regular 22 basis. And those were the tapes that we believed to be 23 the sum total of our DLT tapes.
 24 Q. Right. But that's not quite responsive to 25 my question. The question is: Why didn't somebody

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

34

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

36

1 think to look in the Brooklyn security room when you
 2 were developing the original universe?
 3 A. So at the time when the project was
 4 conceived, there was no reasonable -- there was no
 5 reason to believe that there were tapes outside of our
 6 Recall facility in New Jersey.
 7 Q. What changed? Why did you suddenly decide
 8 that you should look in the Brooklyn security room?
 9 A. Again, I testified that I'm not aware of how 10 they were found. So I can't speak to that question.
 11 Q. Do you have any knowledge as to why somebody
 12 thought that they found 1,024 and then two weeks later
 13 thought that they found 1421 and then a couple of weeks
 14 after that decided it was 1423?
 15 A. I have no knowledge.
 16 Q. How big is a DLT tape? Can you describe it
 17 physically?
 18 A. Not for something on the record.
 19 Q. Well, compare it to a video cassette, a VHS
 20 tape?
 21 A. I guess it's about two-thirds the size of a
 22 VHS tape.
 23 Q. So 1,000 of these would fill up a bookcase
 24 at least, maybe a couple of bookcases?
 25 A. It's possible.

1 Q. 1424 of them would fill up a larger bookcase
 2 or a couple of bookcases, right?
 3 A. Sure.
 4 Q. Have you ever been to the location where
 5 these tapes were found?
 6 A. I have not been in the security area -- the 7 caged area itself. But I have been to the room in 8 which that cage area sits.
 9 Q. How big is that caged area?
 10 A. I'm not aware specifically.
 11 Q. So you've never even looked at it from afar?
 12 A. No.
 13 Q. Do you have any understanding of its 14 dimensions?
 15 A. No, I don't.
 16 Q. So you don't know if this bookcase full of 17 tapes would be a big part of the room, a small part of 18 the room?
 19 A. I do not know.
 20 Q. Do you know how they were found? In other
 21 words, were they stored in a bookcase or in a file
 22 cabinet or in a bunch of boxes or behind a coat rack?
 23 A. I have a general knowledge that they were 24 found in a bin. So something that you might see --
 25 laundry bin kind of comes to mind. Like a cloth type

031502

1 of bin and that the dimensions would be something like
 2 4 feet by 3 feet by 3 feet high would be my general
 3 recollection.
 4 Q. Were there other similar bins in the room?
 5 A. My understanding of what I heard after the 6 event is that there was just one bin.
 7 Q. What did you hear after the event about this 8 bin?
 9 A. Merely of its existence and that the tapes
 10 were contained within it.
 11 Q. Who told you that?
 12 A. I do not recall.
 13 Q. Was it somebody on your team?
 14 A. I would guess that it would be Wray or 15 Glenn, most likely Wray.
 16 Q. Once the second tranche of tapes surfaced
 17 and you realized that Recall did not have the universe,
 18 did Morgan Stanley do anything to cast its net wide to 19 make sure that there weren't third and fourth tranches?
 20 A. I believe that I've testified already that 21 we did enter into a comm room sweep to do a visual 22 inspection of our premises to determine whether there
 23 were any other tapes out there that we weren't aware of 24 at the time.
 25 Q. And did that sweep result in the discovery

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

37

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

39

1 of tranches three and four, or was it something else?
 2 A. My understanding is that three and four were
 3 the result of something else.
 4 Q. What was the something else?
 5 A. For the third tranche, the 8-millimeters, I
 6 actually have very little knowledge about those tapes,
 7 about where they were found. With respect to the 169,
 8 I am aware of that circumstance.
 9 Q. Let's start with the third tranche, even 10 though you don't know much about it. What do you know
 11 about it?
 12 A. Merely of its existence.
 13 Q. Who told you about it?
 14 A. Again, I believe it was either Wray or 15 Glenn.
 16 Q. Do you know where those tapes were located?
 17 A. I do not know.
 18 Q. They weren't in Brooklyn?
 19 A. Again, I don't know. You can keep asking
 20 the questions, but I don't know.
 21 Q. I'm sorry. I have to ask the questions. I
 22 get paid by the word.
 23 A. Or the pound.
 24 Q. So you don't know if they were found in 25 Brooklyn, Houston, Barcelona, Spain, whatever?

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

38

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

40

1 A. No, sir.
 2 Q. Do you know when they were found?
 3 A. No.
 4 Q. Let's move on to the -- well, let me just 5 try to box this out.
 6 Have I exhausted your knowledge of the third
 7 tranche?
 8 A. Yes.
 9 Q. With respect to the fourth tranche, when 10 were they discovered?
 11 A. My understanding of that event is that John
 12 Pamula had been working with our off-site vendor,
 13 Recall, in late '04. He had knowledge of some tapes
 14 and some boxes of tapes that should have been at Recall
 15 that Recall was indicating they did not have, and that 16 he made repeated attempts to have those tapes delivered
 17 to Morgan Stanley. And after several attempts, Recall 18 did discover those tapes and did send them back to 19 Morgan Stanley.
 20 Q. How did Mr. Pamula, if you know, have 21 knowledge of these tapes at Recall?
 22 A. He was reviewing logs of deliveries from 23 Morgan Stanley, from the back up and recovery team, the 24 BURP team, in a time frame earlier than 2004 -- earlier
 25 than 2003, actually -- and came up with box numbers

1 that we were aware of having sent to Recall.
 2 Q. So these are tapes that should have been in 3 the universe that Recall had, but for some reason they
 4 didn't recall that they had them?
 5 Other than the Brooklyn facility, how many
 6 other communications rooms are there?
 7 A. From a building perspective, we have
 8 communication rooms in 1585 Broadway, which is Morgan
 9 Stanley's headquarters, a data center and a building in 10 PAVONIA NEWPORT, which is in Jersey City, New Jersey.
 11 We have a communication room in 757 Seventh
 12 Avenue, which is where a lot of IT staff are staffed
 13 and where my office is.
 14 And the Brooklyn facility.
 15 Each of those buildings has one or multiple
 16 of these comm room or communication room spaces.
 17 If needed, I could count the number of 18 floors in each of those buildings that specifically
 19 house communication rooms.
 20 Q. I'm going to mark as CPH 427 a piece of 21 paper, which apparently was faxed to our office this 22 morning, which bears production number 0113927.
 23 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 427 was marked for 24 identification.)
 25 BY MR. BYMAN:

031503

1 Q. Have you ever seen this document before?
 2 A. I have.
 3 Q. Did you provide this to counsel so it could 4 be provided to us?
 5 A. I did not.
 6 Q. Do you know who provided it?
 7 A. I do not.
 8 Q. When did you see this --
 9 A. Actually, I'm sorry, that's not quite
 10 correct. I believe that I heard that Glenn Seickel
 11 provided this to counsel.
 12 Q. There's a reference to canvassing both
 13 sites, Pavonia and Brooklyn, and finding three other 14 containers. Do you know what that reference is to?
 15 A. Could you be more specific with your
 16 question?
 17 Q. Well, does it refer to tapes that may
 18 contain e-mail?
 19 A. Could you restate the question?
 20 Q. Is there anything in this document, as you
 21 understand it, that relates to the location of any of 22 the tranches of documents -- tranches of tapes that 23 we've identified?
 24 A. My understanding is that this document
 25 speaks to the events around the fourth tranche of

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

1 tapes, the 169.
 2 Q. This actually is Mr. Pamula's. I don't know
 3 if this is a note or a letter or a memo, but whatever
 4 it is, this shows his process in figuring out that
 5 Recall should have these additional tapes?
 6 A. That is my understanding.
 7 Q. He ends up by saying, I believe there may be 8 additional containers at Recall that are not on the 9 Recall inventory.
 10 Does that refer to something over and above
 11 the 169 tapes, or does it refer simply to tranche four?
 12 A. This is John Pamula's document, and the 13 first time that I saw this document was this morning.
 14 I would hesitate to speculate about what John Pamula
 15 was indicating or what his state of mind was when he 16 wrote this document.
 17 Q. So you have not had any conversation with 18 him about this document?
 19 A. I have not.
 20 Q. Have you had any conversation with him about 21 whether he believes there may be a fifth tranche out
 22 there?
 23 A. I have not.
 24 Q. Do you have any reason to believe that there
 25 is something else out there?

2/11/2005 1:49 PM

41

42

1 A. I have no reason to believe.
 2 Q. Do you have any reason to believe that you
 3 have actually located everything that is out there?
 4 A. I believe that we have made repeated efforts
 5 to be comprehensive in our search of Morgan Stanley
 6 premises, areas where tapes have been stored in the 7 different communication rooms, and that John Pamula, in 8 addition to the BURP team, have been diligent in their 9 efforts to make sure that we have found everything that 10 is out there.
 11 Q. I'm not questioning what may have been done
 12 in the past, Mr. Saunders. Others may. And on Monday
 13 you can expect others will question you, maybe in a 14 harsher tone of voice.
