- b. The American Bar Association's Commentary to its Code of Judicial Conduct states that it is inappropriate for a judge to hold membership in any organization that invidiously discriminates on the basis of race, sex, or religion, or national origin. Indicate whether any of these organizations listed in response to 11a above currently discriminate or formerly discriminated on the basis of race, sex, religion or national origin either through formal membership requirements or the practical implementation of membership policies. If so, describe any action you have taken to change these policies and practices.

It is my understanding that Kiwanis and Rotary International previously restricted their membership to men. To the best of my knowledge, none of the other organizations listed above discriminates or formerly discriminated on the basis of race, sex, or religion, or national origin, either through formal membership requirements or the practical implementation of membership policies.

In Marshall County, the District judges also served as Marshall County Juvenile Court judges. Juvenile court has original jurisdiction over dependency and delinquency matters. From 2008 until 2011, I also served as Acting Circuit Judge for Marshall County where I handled a large portion of the civil and criminal jury docket. Circuit Court has original jurisdiction over civil matters in exceeding $3000.00, felony criminal matters, and domestic matters. However, I did not hear Circuit Court domestic matters except sporadically if the other judges recused.

From 2011 until the present time I have served as an Associate Judge on the Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals. I was appointed to this position by Governor Robert Bentley and was unopposed for election to a six-year term in 2012. The Court of Criminal Appeals is a five-member court which has original jurisdiction of all criminal appeals from the Circuit Courts of Alabama.

1. McWhorter v. State, 142 So. 3d 1195 (Ala. Crim. App. 2011)
(Marshall County Circuit Court, CC93-200077)

The defendant was convicted of capital murder in 1994 and sentenced to death. After his direct appeals were exhausted, he filed a petition for postconviction relief. The circuit judge who presided over his trial retired before the petition was filed and I was appointed as a special circuit court judge to hear the case. In his petition, the defendant raised claims of juror misconduct during jury selection and deliberation; ineffective assistance of penalty-phase counsel in failing to object to the sentencing order and in failing to further investigate and present additional mitigating evidence; improper exclusion of evidence at the postconviction hearing on the grounds that it was hearsay or was not set forth in the amended Rule 32 petition for postconviction relief; a Brady violation for the State's alleged failure to disclose mitigation evidence; and ineffective assistance of trial counsel. After conducting a lengthy evidentiary hearing at which the defendant was allowed to present evidence to prove his claims, I denied relief. Order supplied. It was my determination that the defendant failed to meet his burden of proof. The Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed my decision in McWhorter v. State, 142 So. 3d 1195 (Ala. Crim. App. 2011). I was a member of the Court of Criminal Appeals when that case was decided. As I note in Section 14 below, I recused myself from the case.

App. 2009) (table)
(Marshall County Circuit Court, CC-07-398)

In this case the defendant was charged with second-degree rape. I presided over the case as a specially appointed circuit judge and allowed the State to present expert testimony from two witnesses regarding the victim's statements about the alleged crime. The jury returned a guilty verdict and I sentenced the defendant to ten years' imprisonment. I also denied a motion for new trial. Order supplied. The defendant appealed and the Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals held that I did not exceed my discretion in allowing the expert witnesses to testify. Accordingly, the defendant's conviction was affirmed.

3. Scott v. Scott, 38 So. 3d 79 (Ala. Civ. App. 2009), overruled in part by Henderson v. Mogren, 149 So. 3d 629 (Ala. Civ. App. 2014) (Jefferson County Circuit Court, DR-01-1601.01)

A former husband petitioned the circuit court to modify his divorce judgment by terminating his obligation to make alimony payments. He alleged that his former wife was cohabitating with a member of the opposite sex and that her financial situation had improved while his had deteriorated. The former husband unilaterally ceased making alimony payments to the former wife and instead, based on his interpretation of recent caselaw, began making the payments into an escrow account held by his law firm. Sitting as a specially appointed circuit judge, I found that the husband failed to prove that the former wife was cohabitating, as the former husband alleged. However, I did find that there were changes in the parties' respective financial situations and modified the amount of alimony owed by the husband. Additionally, I held the former husband in contempt for ceasing to make alimony payments directly to his former wife as required by the original divorce decree. Order supplied. The Alabama Court of Civil Appeals affirmed my decision insofar as it related to the modification of alimony payments. However, it reversed my decision to hold the former husband in contempt based on its determination that the husband properly relied on existing caselaw and did not act in bad faith by deciding to pay alimony payments into an escrow account. The case that the former husband relied on in deciding to pay alimony into an escrow account was overruled in a subsequent decision of the Court of Civil Appeals.

4. R.T. v. B.N.H., 66 So. 3d 807 (Ala. Civ. App. 2011)
(Marshall County Circuit Court, CS-08-900001.02)

The original parties in this case were a mother and father who had a child out of wedlock. The mother filed an emergency petition with the juvenile court alleging that the father was abusing the child and sought to have his visitation rights terminated. I ultimately granted that petition and ordered that the father have no visitation rights with the child. The child's paternal grandmother, R.T., then filed a petition seeking visitation rights with the child. I ultimately denied that petition. The grandmother appealed but the Alabama Court of Civil Appeals dismissed her appeal after finding that the juvenile court did not have jurisdiction to modify the custody arrangement except as it related to terminating the father's visitation rights due to alleged abuse. Copies of my orders in the case are supplied.

(Marshall County Circuit Court, CC-05-142)

This case involved a defendant who was charged with first-degree sodomy, child abuse, and first-degree sexual abuse. Before the trial began, the defendant accepted the State's offer that he plead guilty to the sexual-abuse charges in exchange for the remaining charges being dismissed. The defendant later sought to withdraw those guilty pleas and proceed to trial on all counts. The defendant claimed that his guilty pleas were not entered knowingly and voluntarily. I conducted an evidentiary hearing at which the defendant was represented by new counsel. The defendant testified that he was not guilty of the crimes and that he only pleaded guilty because he was afraid that he would be arrested for failing to pay child support. I did not find his testimony to be credible and determined that he fully understood the rights he was giving up by pleading guilty. Therefore, after holding a hearing, I denied his motion to withdraw his guilty pleas and sentenced him to consecutive terms of ten years' imprisonment. The Alabama Court of Criminal appeals ultimately affirmed the defendant's conviction on return to remand in an unpublished memorandum.

(Marshall County Circuit Court, CC-08-44)

The defendant in this case was charged with and convicted of the attempted-murder of his common-law wife. I sentenced him under Alabama's Habitual Felony Offender Act to life imprisonment. Prior to his trial, the defendant filed several motions to dismiss, which I denied. Order supplied. The crux of his argument in those motions was that he was unlawfully arrested prior to being indicted. The Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed those decisions on appeal in an unpublished memorandum.

(Marshall County Circuit Court, CC-93-170.62)

The defendant in this case pleaded guilty to first-degree assault in 1994 and was sentenced as a habitual felony offender to 20 years' imprisonment. In 2008, he filed a pro se petition for postconviction relief. In that petition, he argued that the circuit court did not have jurisdiction to render judgment or to impose sentence because, he claimed, he was never indicted and did not recall ever being arraigned. Although he couched his arguments in jurisdictional terms, they did not actually implicate the subject-matter jurisdiction of the trial court. Accordingly, after holding a hearing, I denied his petition for relief because it was not filed within the applicable time period set out in the Alabama Rules of Criminal Procedure regarding such petitions. My ruling was affirmed by the Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals.

(Marshall County Circuit Court, CC-90-289.60)

The defendant in this case was convicted of capital murder in 1993 and was sentenced to life imprisonment without the possibility of parole. In 2009, she filed a petition for postconviction relief in which she argued that the jury who convicted her was unconstitutionally selected because the venire was drawn from the county at-large as opposed to the district in which the crime was committed. I conducted an evidentiary hearing in which the petitioner was represented by counsel. After considering the arguments of counsel and the State's response, I ultimately determined that these were issues that could have been, but were not, raised at trial or on direct appeal. Because such claims are precluded, I denied relief. Order supplied. The Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed my decision in an unpublished memorandum.

9. T.K. v. M.G., 82 So. 3d 1 (Ala. Civ. App. 2011)
(Marshall Juvenile Court, JU-09-300249)

The father of a minor child filed a dependency petition alleging that the mother, who was the custodial parent, was unable to care for the child because, he said, the mother was addicted to methamphetamine and had been convicted of a DUI. After an evidentiary hearing, I found that the Petitioners proved that the mother had a long history of drug abuse, had attempted suicide, and was married to a man who was under indictment for manufacturing illegal drugs. Accordingly, I awarded primary physical custody to the father. The mother argued in a postjudgment motion that the juvenile court did not have subject-matter jurisdiction over the case because, she said, the case involved a custody dispute and was not truly a dependency action. I denied the motion and the mother appealed. The Alabama Court of Civil Appeals affirmed my decision. A copy of my judgment is supplied.

(Marshall County Circuit Court, CV-07-900047)

Gaddis filed suit alleging personal injury and physical damages arising out of a motor-vehicle accident. The plaintiff, Gaddis, alleged that Veal had operated his motor vehicle in a negligent fashion causing it to collide with Gaddis's vehicle. After a jury trial, the jury found in favor of the defendant on all counts. To my knowledge, the matter was not appealed. There was no written judgment or opinion in this matter, only the jury verdict.

Acosta v. State, 208 So. 3d 645 (Ala. Crim. App. 2015), rev'd by Ex parte State (In re Acosta v. State), 208 So. 3d 651 (Ala. 2016). In the trial of this case, the defendant sought to introduce hearsay testimony through a police officer to establish that he was not present when the crime was committed. I held that the trial court deprived the defendant of a fair trial by mechanistically applying the rule against hearsay to exclude that evidence. The Alabama Supreme Court held that the testimony in question was not "critical evidence" and would have been cumulative to other testimony indicating that the defendant was not involved in the crime. Therefore, the Court held, the exclusion of that evidence did not deprive the defendant of a fair trial.

Harris v. State, --- So. 3d --- (Ala. Crim. App. 2016) 2016 WL 3364685, rev'd by Ex parte State (In re Harris v. State), --- So. 3d --- (Ala. 2016) 2016 WL 7321573. This case involved the trial court's acquiescence to a jury's request, after deliberations had begun, to view the defendant in order to compare his appearance to a photograph of the alleged burglar. Following established precedent, I held that it was error to allow the jury to view the defendant after the case had been submitted. The Alabama Supreme Court found that the factual situation in this case was distinguishable from the situations in the preexisting cases on which I based my decision.

Wagner v. State, 197 So. 3d 511 (Ala. Crim. App. 2015), rev'd by Ex parte State (In re Wagner v. State), 197 So. 3d 517 (Ala. 2015). The issue in this case was whether the trial court followed the Alabama Rules of Criminal Procedure when it accepted a defendant's admission that he violated the conditions of his probation. I held that the trial court failed to properly ascertain whether the defendant's admission was voluntary and whether the defendant understood that his admission could be used against him in a subsequent criminal proceeding. The Alabama Supreme Court held that the revocation hearing was adequate and that any omissions by the trial court constituted harmless error.

Parker v. State, (CR-10-0833, December 16, 2011) 130 So. 3d 583 (Ala. Crim. App. 2012) (table), rev'd by Ex parte Parker (In re Parker v. State), 136 So. 3d 1092 (Ala. 2013). In this case, I held that the State presented sufficient evidence to sustain the defendant's conviction for conspiracy to commit a controlled-substance crime and, therefore, affirmed the conviction. The Alabama Supreme Court believed that the State's evidence was too speculative and, therefore, was insufficient to sustain the conviction. A copy of the memorandum opinion is supplied.

In the following cases, the United States Supreme Court, without opinion, vacated the judgment of the Court of Criminal Appeals and remanded the cases for further consideration in light of recent Supreme Court decisions:

Floyd v. State, 190 So. 3d 987 (Ala. Crim. App. 2012), cert. granted and judgment vacated by Floyd v. Alabama 136 S. Ct. 2484 (2016) (mem). Remanded to the Alabama Supreme Court for further consideration in light of Foster v. Chatman, 578 U.S. ___, 136 S. Ct. 1737 (2016). This was a death penalty case in which the defendant confessed to robbing and murdering a store owner. On appeal, the appellant (a white male) challenged the State's use of peremptory strikes to remove African-American and female jurors. After remand, the trial court found that the State had race- and gender-neutral reasons for its peremptory strikes. Applying a well-settled standard of review, the Court of Criminal Appeals held that the trial court's findings were not "clearly erroneous" and affirmed its decision. The Alabama Supreme Court subsequently affirmed that decision.

Johnson v. State, ___ So. 3d ___ (Ala. Crim. App. 2014), cert. granted and judgment vacated by Johnson v. Alabama, 136 S. Ct. 1837 (2016 ) (mem). Remanded for further consideration in light of Hurst v. Florida, 577 U.S. ___, 136 S. Ct. 1837 (2016) (mem). This was a death penalty case in which the appellant was filmed on a police cruiser dash camera shooting a police officer in the head as the police officer handed him a traffic citation. The appellant argued, among other things, that the State's capital sentencing scheme was unconstitutional. Applying Alabama Supreme Court precedent, the Court of Criminal Appeals held that the State's capital sentencing scheme was constitutional.

Lane v. State, 169 So. 3d 1076 (Ala. Crim. App. 2013), cert. granted and judgment vacated by Lane v. Alabama, 136 S. Ct. 91 (2015) (mem). Remanded for further consideration in light of Hall v. Florida, 572 U.S. ___, 134 S. Ct. 1986 (2014) (mem). This was a death penalty case in which the Defendant was convicted of shooting and robbing the victim, and then burning the victim's vehicle. The Defendant gave a full confession on video to shooting the victim multiple times but maintained at trial that the robbery was a mere afterthought. The case involved, among other things, the Defendant's alleged intellectual disability. However, the trial court conducted a hearing and considered expert testimony from both parties. The trial court then found that the Defendant was not mentally retarded under the current legal standard and, accordingly, could be sentenced to death. The Court of Criminal Appeals agreed and affirmed Lane's conviction and sentence.

Scott v. Scott, 38 So. 3d 79 (Ala. Civ. App. 2009), overruled in part by Henderson v. Mogren, 149 So. 3d 629 (Ala. Civ. App. 2014) (Jefferson County Circuit Court, DR-01-1601.01). A former husband petitioned the circuit court to modify his divorce judgment by terminating his obligation to make alimony payments. He alleged that his former wife was cohabitating with a member of the opposite sex and that her financial situation had improved while his had deteriorated. The former husband unilaterally ceased making alimony payments to the former wife and instead, based on his interpretation of recent caselaw, began making the payments into an escrow account held by his law firm. Sitting as a specially appointed circuit judge, I found that the husband failed to prove that the former wife was cohabitating, as the former husband alleged. However, I did find that there were changes in the parties' respective financial situations and modified the amount of alimony owed by the husband. Additionally, I held the former husband in contempt for ceasing to make alimony payments directly to his former wife as required by the original divorce decree. The Alabama Court of Civil Appeals affirmed my decision insofar as it related to the modification of alimony payments. However, it reversed my decision to hold the former husband in contempt based on its determination that the husband properly relied on existing caselaw and did not act in bad faith by deciding to pay alimony payments into an escrow account. The case that the former husband relied on in deciding to pay alimony into an escrow account was overruled in a subsequent decision of the Court of Civil Appeals. A copy of the decision was previously supplied in response to Question 13c.

- g. Provide a description of the number and percentage of your decisions in which you issued an unpublished opinion and the manner in which those unpublished opinions are filed and/or stored.

Court records indicate that, from February 18, 2011, when I assumed my current position, to April 4, 2017, I have issued unpublished memorandum opinions in 1,107 cases. Thus, approximately 90% of my cases were issued as unpublished memorandums. That percentage is roughly the same as the Court of Criminal Appeals as a whole for the same time period. Unpublished memorandum opinions are sent to the parties in the case and are kept on file in the office of the Clerk of the Court of Criminal Appeals.

- h. Provide citations for significant opinions on federal or state constitutional issues, together with the citation to appellate court rulings on such opinions. If any of the opinions listed were not officially reported, provide copies of the opinions.

Ogburn v. State, 104 So. 3d 267 (Ala. Crim. App. 2012)

- i. Provide citations to all cases in which you sat by designation on a federal court of appeals, including a brief summary of any opinions you authored, whether majority, dissenting, or concurring, and any dissenting opinions you joined.

I have never sat by designation on a federal court of appeals.

14. Recusal: If you are or have been a judge, identify the basis by which you have assessed the necessity or propriety of recusal (If your court employs an “automatic” recusal system by which you may be recused without your knowledge, please include a general description of that system.) Provide a list of any cases, motions or matters that have come before you in which a litigant or party has requested that you recuse yourself due to an asserted conflict of interest or in which you have recused yourself sua sponte. Identify each such case, and for each provide the following information:

- a. whether your recusal was requested by a motion or other suggestion by a litigant or a party to the proceeding or by any other person or interested party; or if you recused yourself sua sponte;
- b. a brief description of the asserted conflict of interest or other ground for recusal;
- c. the procedure you followed in determining whether or not to recuse yourself;
- d. your reason for recusing or declining to recuse yourself, including any action taken to remove the real, apparent or asserted conflict of interest or to cure any other ground for recusal.

I base recusal decision in all cases on the principles set forth in the Alabama Canons of Judicial Ethics. The Court of Criminal Appeals does not have an automatic system for recusal. As a judge on the Court of Criminal Appeals, I am not aware of any instance in which a party has requested that I recuse. However, I recused myself sua sponte in the following cases:

McWhorter v. State, (CR-09-1129): I was the trial judge who presided over the case in the circuit court.

L.L.A. v. State, (CR-10-0091): I was the trial judge who presided over the case in the circuit court.

Kenamer v. State, (CR-12-0084): I was involved with this case at the trial level.

Phillips v. State, (CR-12-0197): This case was based on facts that occurred in my home county while I served as a District Judge. I was a privy to a great deal of pretrial information.

E.S.M. v. State, (CR-12-0259): This case was based on facts that occurred in my home county while I served as a District Judge. I was a privy to a great deal of pretrial information.

Pate v. State, (CR-12-0643): I was involved with this case at the trial level.

Scarver v. State, (CR-12-2115): The appellant's attorney was my commander in the Alabama National Guard.

Gericke v. State, (CR-13-0433): I was aware of many of the facts of this case based on my service in the Alabama National Guard.

Morrow v. State, (CR-13-0988): This case was based on facts that occurred in my home county while I served as a District Judge. I was a privy to a great deal of pretrial information.

Deramus v. State, (CR-13-1112): The appellant's attorney is married to a member of my staff.

McKleroy v. State, (CR-15-1271): I conducted the sentencing hearing and signed the sentencing order as a trial judge in the case.

Towles v. State, (CR-09-0396): This case was based on facts that occurred in my home county while I served as a District Judge. I was a privy to a great deal of pretrial information.

Jones v. State, (CR-16-0113): I was involved with this case at the trial level.

As a specially appointed circuit judge, I was asked to recuse by the defendant in State v. Marks, CC-08-44, because, Marks claimed, I ordered that he be incarcerated without a warrant. The record refuted his contention and I did not find it necessary to recuse. The Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals subsequently affirmed that decision in Marks v. State, (CR-09-0832, September 24, 2010) 84 So. 3d 1020 (Ala. Crim. App. 2010) (table).

- i. the general character of your law practice and indicate by date when its character has changed over the years.

I was in private practice with the firm now known as Burke, Beuoy & Maze, P.C. from 1994 until 2007. I represented both plaintiffs and defendants in a wide variety of criminal and civil matters. The character of my law practice was about 40% real estate, 50% litigation, and 10% business and probate.

- ii. your typical clients and the areas at each period of your legal career, if any, in which you have specialized.

I have represented a wide variety of clients, including individuals, businesses, banks, corporations, municipalities and real estate developers. During my years of private practice, I specialized in real estate law, family law, probate law, and municipal law.

- c. Describe the percentage of your practice that has been in litigation and whether you appeared in court frequently, occasionally, or not at all. If the frequency of your appearances in court varied, describe such variance, providing dates.

Approximately 50% of my practice was devoted to litigation. I appeared in court frequently, often several times each week. As an attorney in a small rural town, I appeared often in municipal, probate, district, and circuit courts. The following estimates are an attempt to provide an average of my experience over my years in private practice.

i. Indicate the percentage of your practice in:

- |                             |     |
|-----------------------------|-----|
| 1. federal courts:          | 1%  |
| 2. state courts of record:  | 38% |
| 3. other courts:            | 60% |
| 4. administrative agencies: | 1%  |

ii. Indicate the percentage of your practice in:

- |                          |     |

| 2. criminal proceedings: | 10% |

d. State the number of cases in courts of record, including cases before administrative law judges, you tried to verdict, judgment or final decision (rather than settled), indicating whether you were sole counsel, chief counsel, or associate counsel.

I appeared in court more than 1000 times over the course of my private law practice, handling motions, pleas, settlements, and other matters. I have tried more than 500 cases, acting as sole or chief counsel and associate counsel in approximately 10 cases.

i. What percentage of these trials were:

- |              |     |
|--------------|-----|
| 1. jury:     | 1%  |
| 2. non-jury: | 99% |

was litigated; and

- c. the individual name, addresses, and telephone numbers of co-counsel and of principal counsel for each of the other parties.

1. Sutton v. Elrod, 724 So. 2d 551 (Ala. Civ. App. 1998), Marshall County Circuit Court, DR-90-271.01, Judge William D. Jetton

In 1998 a divorced father petitioned the circuit court to establish visitation rights with his eight-year-old child whom he had not seen for seven years. I represented the mother who cross-petitioned to terminate the father's parental rights. Evidence at the hearing indicated that the father had lived and worked in another state for the past seven years and had made minimal efforts to have contact with his child. Additionally, the father had never paid child support. The mother testified that her son was well-adjusted and doing well in school and that establishing a relationship with his estranged father would be detrimental at that point. The circuit court agreed and entered an order terminating the father's parental rights. The Alabama Court of Civil Appeals affirmed that judgment.

2. Chappel v. Esty, 655 So. 2d 1011 (Ala. Civ. App. 1995), Marshall County Circuit Court, DR-1992-000312.02, Judge William C. Gullahorn

In 1992, my firm's client and her former husband entered into a divorce settlement agreement wherein the former husband was required, among other things, to pay her a lump sum. When he failed to make that payment, the wife petitioned the court to hold him in contempt. The circuit court refused to hold the husband in contempt because, it reasoned, the judgment of divorce did not "order" the parties to abide by the settlement agreement. Although the case was handled by my law partner at trial, I had primary responsibility for the appellate brief. On appeal, I pointed out that the settlement agreement was incorporated into the judgment of divorce and, therefore, became part of the judgment and was enforceable. The Alabama Court of Civil Appeals agreed and reversed the judgment of the circuit court.

3. Hathcock v. Hathcock, 685 So. 2d 736 (Ala. Civ. App. 1996), Marshall County Circuit Court, DR-94-386, Judge William D. Jetton

In 1994, my firm represented a father in a post-divorce modification case. The mother had primary custody and the father had visitation rights on certain weekends. At some point after the divorce, the father moved to a different town. According to the mother, this increased her transportation costs in facilitating visitation and she sought to have the father pay half of that expense. Part of the circuit court's order required the father to pay a monetary penalty to the mother in the event he missed a scheduled visitation. This case was handled at trial by my law partner, however I had primary responsibility for preparing the appellate brief. On appeal, I argued that the mother did not ask for such a penalty in her complaint and that the issue was not tried by express or implied consent before the court. Additionally, I argued that the penalty violated Alabama law. The Court of Civil Appeals agreed and reversed that part of the circuit court's judgment.

4. City of Arab v. The Zoning Board of Adjustment of the City of Arab, Marshall County Circuit Court, CV-2000-000033.00, Judge Tim Jolley

From January 26, 2000 to August 22, 2000, I represented the City of Arab against the Zoning Board of Adjustment. The Zoning Board granted a variance to a business allowing them to construct a building several feet past the front set-back line established by the City zoning ordinance. The Circuit Court held for the Defendant, finding that the City was partly responsible in that its' own building inspector granted a building permit. The case was not appealed.

5. A.R. and A.R. v. S.W. and S.W., Marshall County Juvenile Court, JU-2002-000194 and JU-2002-000195, Judge Howard Hawk

From January 28, 2004 to March 5, 2004, I represented A.R. and A.R. seeking custody of two children who were not related to them. The facts at trial indicated that the children of A.R. and A.R. went to daycare with the minor children E.W. and C.W. Following daycare one after noon, the mother of E.W. and C.W. offered A.R. and A.R. custody of her two children despite the fact that she did not know them. A.R. and A.R. took custody because they suspected that something was wrong. It quickly became apparent that E.W. and C.W. had been physically and sexually abused. A.R. and A.R. sought custody of both children and sought the termination of parental rights of the children's parents. After a bench trial, including a recommendation by the guardian ad litem in favor of A.R. and A.R., the juvenile court terminated the parental rights of the parents and awarded custody to A.R. and A.R.

6. State v. Warden, Marshall County Circuit Court, CC-2001-000146, Judge Tim Jolley

From 2001 to 2003, I represented Robert Warden, who was the Chief of the Georgia Mountain Volunteer Fire Department. Warden was employed full-time by the City of Guntersville, Alabama as a fireman. Warden took some old light bars (the flashing lights on top of emergency vehicles) from the City of Guntersville shop for use on vehicles with his volunteer fire department. Warden was charged with theft. Warden's position was that the light bars were scrap and had been discarded by the City of Guntersville. The case was dismissed after a hearing, but then the State re-indicted him. The trial court again dismissed the matter with prejudice.

7. Jarmon v. Jarmon, CV-1998-000158, Judge William C. Gullahorn

In this matter, I represented Mrs. Ophie Jarmon. Mrs. Jarmon was at the time in her seventies. Many years earlier she had conveyed her home and real property to her son and grandson in return for a promise that they would care for her in her old age. At some point following the conveyance, they ceased to care for her. She asked that they convey her home and real property back to her and they refused. After a bench trial, the Circuit Court ruled in favor of my client and awarded her title to her home and real property.

From 2003 to 2005, I represented James Morris, the former men's basketball coach at Snead State Community College. Morris was terminated from his position. The College's position was that Morris was not a tenured employee under his contract. Morris disagreed and filed suit for damages and reinstatement. From 2001 to 2002, I represented B.D. and C.D. in an action seeking custody of a minor child, S.S. S.S. was the niece of B.D. and C.D. Additionally, B.D. and C.D.

sought to terminate the parental rights of S.S.'s father. The evidence at trial indicated that S.S. had been physically and sexually abused by her father and that S.S.'s mother was deceased. After a bench trial, the juvenile court terminated the parental rights of the father and awarded sole custody of S.S. to the petitioners. To the best of my recollection, the matter was appealed to the Alabama Court of Civil appeals and was affirmed with no opinion.

18. Legal Activities: Describe the most significant legal activities you have pursued, including significant litigation which did not progress to trial or legal matters that did not involve litigation. Describe fully the nature of your participation in these activities. List any client(s) or organization(s) for whom you performed lobbying activities and describe the lobbying activities you performed on behalf of such client(s) or organizations(s). (Note: As to any facts requested in this question, please omit any information protected by the attorney-client privilege.)

Upon taking office Marshall County District Judge in 2007, I helped create and implement two specialty courts that directly addressed the issues of domestic violence and drug addiction.

The first of these, the Marshall County Domestic Violence Court, was created in partnership with Judge Tim Riley and local stakeholders. Our goal was to create a court that was "safe" for victims and also provided thorough treatment and monitoring of those who were found guilty of domestic violence. The program provided victims with a counselor and a place apart from the alleged perpetrator to await proceedings. Those participating in the program appeared before me regularly to discuss their progress in the program. While jail remained a well-used option for perpetrators of domestic violence, the program also offered extensive options for treatment and rehabilitation. The results of this new court greatly increased the number of victims who felt safe to testify against a perpetrator, and it helped change the behavior of perpetrators in the future.

The second program, the Marshall County Family Drug Court, was created with local stakeholders to help drug addicted parents regain custody of their children by providing free or reduced drug testing and treatment for those parents. Previously, children would be removed from the custody of their drug addicted parents and placed in Foster Care. Parents would be given so many months in order to become drug free, or they risked losing custody of their children forever. Family Drug Court affirmatively provided parents with drug treatment, testing, and counseling. I required all the participants to appear before me on a regular basis to discuss and monitor their progress in the program. As a result, many more parents were able to stay drug free and regain custody of their children.

In the Spring of 2015, I was elected President of the Alabama Appellate Judges Association. On many occasions over the past two years, I met with and discussed issues facing appellate courts with members of the legislature, mostly regarding budgets. Several other judges from Alabama's trial and appellate courts were involved in these discussions.

I have not performed any lobbying activities.

- a. Identify the family members or other persons, parties, categories of litigation, and financial arrangements that are likely to present potential conflicts-of-interest when you first assume the position to which you have been nominated. Explain how you would address any such conflict if it were to arise.

I do not have any family members or other persons, parties, categories of litigation, and financial arrangements that are likely to present potential conflicts-of-interest. If confirmed, I would carefully follow 28 U.S.C. 455 and Canon 3 of the Code of Conduct for United States Judges. I would also promptly review the parties, their affiliates, and the issues in all matters assigned to me so I could make a prompt and informed decision about the need for recusal.

- b. Explain how you will resolve any potential conflict of interest, including the procedure you will follow in determining these areas of concern.

If confirmed, I would carefully follow 28 U.S.C. 455 and Canon 3 of the Code of Conduct for United States Judges. I would also promptly review the parties, their affiliates, and the issues in all matters assigned to me so I could make a prompt and informed decision about the need for recusal.

25. Pro Bono Work: An ethical consideration under Canon 2 of the American Bar Association's Code of Professional Responsibility calls for "every lawyer, regardless of professional prominence or professional workload, to find some time to participate in serving the disadvantaged." Describe what you have done to fulfill these responsibilities, listing specific instances and the amount of time devoted to each.

I was a member of the Volunteer Lawyers Program of the Alabama State Bar Association from 1996 to 2007. During that time, I handled approximately ten pro bono cases for litigants who could not afford an attorney.

During my years as a practicing attorney, I was very involved in the United Way of Marshall County, serving for nine years on the Board of Directors, including one term as Chair of the Board. Additionally, after leaving the Board, I served as the Campaign Chairman for the 2005 Annual Fund Drive.

On two occasions I have traveled to Ecuador as a volunteer with United Methodists from across North Alabama on ten-day medical mission trips. During both of those trips, our group brought medical doctors, dentists, nurses, and optometrists to offer free care for those who could not afford it.

I was very involved in the Salvation Army of Marshall County, serving on the Board of Directors from 1996 to 2003.

From 2005 to 2007 I served on the Board of Marshall County Christian Services. One of the major missions of this organization was to provide job training for mothers who had been in the criminal justice system.

26. Selection Process:

- a. Please describe your experience in the entire judicial selection process, from beginning to end (including the circumstances which led to your nomination and the interviews in which you participated). Is there a selection commission in your jurisdiction to recommend candidates for nomination to the federal courts? If so, please include that process in your description, as well as whether the commission recommended your nomination. List the dates of all interviews or communications you had with the White House staff or the Justice Department regarding this nomination. Do not include any contacts with Federal Bureau of Investigation personnel concerning your nomination.

I am not aware of a selection commission in Alabama. In December of 2016, I wrote letters to U.S. Senators Richard Shelby and Jeff Sessions expressing my interest in one of the U.S. District Judges vacancies in the Northern District of Alabama. I also spoke with then Attorney General Luther Strange by telephone regarding the vacancies. During January of 2017, I had a conversation with Senator Shelby's staff regarding my interest in the position. On February 7, 2017, Senator Shelby telephoned to inform me that my name would be submitted to the Office of White House Counsel for consideration. During the middle part of March of 2017, I interviewed with officials from the White House Counsel's Office and the Office of Legal Policy at the Department of Justice in Washington, D.C. Since that time, I have been in contact with officials from the Office of Legal Policy at the Department of Justice. On July 19, 2017, the President submitted my nomination to the Senate.

- b. Has anyone involved in the process of selecting you as a judicial nominee discussed with you any currently pending or specific case, legal issue or question in a manner that could reasonably be interpreted as seeking any express or implied assurances concerning your position on such case, issue, or question? If so, explain fully.

No.
