Time running short on nomination

By M.E. Sprengelmeyer, Rocky Mountain News
June 15, 2006

WASHINGTON — Time is running out before a Colorado judicial nomination could get stalled in the U.S. Senate's summer swoon.

President Bush has nominated attorney and legal scholar Neil Gorsuch to fill a seat on the Denver-based 10th Circuit Court of Appeals, and backers hope he gets a hearing in the Senate Judiciary Committee in the next few weeks.

But if there's a delay and the committee can't agree to advance the nomination by the Senate's August recess, it's unlikely he can be win final Senate confirmation by the end of the year, said Sean Conway, chief of staff to Sen. Wayne Allard, R-Loveland.

That prospect, and the lengthy delay in confirming an earlier 10th Circuit nominee, Tim Tymkovich, prompted Allard to hand-deliver a letter to Senate Judiciary Committee chairman Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., this week asking him to expedite Gorsuch's confirmation.

"What we're trying to do is get this process moving," Allard chief of staff Sean Conway said Thursday. "What pushed this is we do not want a repeat of the Tymkovich situation where we had a vacancy on the court for over two years."

"Sen. Allard just doesn't feel it's prudent to have a vacancy on an important appeals court like this, particularly with a non-controversial nominee."

So far, no overt opposition has emerged to Gorsuch's nomination, but arcane Senate procedures have left the timing of his pending confirmation hearings up in the air.

By Senate tradition, the Judiciary Committee does not move forward with confirmation hearings until a nominee's two home-state Senators deliver so-called "blue slips" indicating they approve going forward.

In the past, Allard has used that procedure to block two of former President Bill Clinton's Colorado judicial nominees.

As of Thursday afternoon, Sen. Ken Salazar, D-Denver, had not delivered his "blue slip" on Gorsuch, but spokesman Drew Nannis said there was no intent to delay Gorsuch and that Salazar's sign-off could come within a day or two.

Stop the nomination games:
It's time to pass Specter's reforms to the irresponsible handling of judicial nominations.
By Jeffrey Lord

There they go again.

It's bad enough that one political party in charge of the U.S. Senate plays games with the federal judiciary when the other party controls the White House. Now we have members of the same party playing games when their own party controls the White House. Either way, the result is bad for federal judges.

The latest incident involves Sen. Lindsey Graham (R., S.C.) and a Bush nominee for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. The nominee, William "Jim" Haynes, is currently the general counsel at the Pentagon. As such, he has played a role in the issue of the treatment of detainees captured on the battlefields of Afghanistan and Iraq. Graham, a military lawyer himself, apparently objects to Haynes and is responding to critics in the military community that the policies on detainees Haynes helped to construct make him unfit for the appeals court.

Fair enough. While I disagree with this assessment, this has been used as yet another excuse to abuse the Senate's judicial confirmation process.

Haynes' nomination has been sitting in the Senate Judiciary Committee for three years without a vote. Repeated news accounts finger Graham, a committee member, as the senator who is quietly keeping Haynes from getting that vote. Even more amazing, there are multiple media stories that Sen. John McCain (R., Ariz.), a potential presidential candidate, is urging Graham on.

Once again, members of the U.S. Senate are vividly demonstrating why the public has such increasing contempt for things political. Not unlike the way Pennsylvania state legislators of both parties united to give themselves a pay raise in the middle of the night, Republican and Democratic U.S. senators seem determined to show the public that there are not two political parties in Washington, but three: the Republicans, the Democrats and the Senate Party. The latter has a mere 100 members and is thoroughly bipartisan.

So Graham quietly signals his colleagues that he wants to obstruct the confirmation process and - presto! - the senator gets his wish. Never mind that the rules for selecting senators are hard and fast and not to be tampered with. Forget that McCain and any other interested presidential candidate depend on the rules for how we elect a president. It's only the third branch of government that doesn't get the same respect.

If Graham were informed today that his next election were moved up from 2008 to next week, he would correctly cry foul. Yet he shows not the slightest concern over letting a judicial nominee cool his heels for three years.

Even more amazing is the reported conduct of McCain. Forget the sheer politics of his infuriating the very conservatives he will need to get nominated. Does he seriously believe that his conduct in this matter will not provide some ammunition for some future senator to stymie the judicial nominations of a President McCain?

For that matter, every senator with an eye on the White House in 2008 should be hustling to make sure Haynes and other nominees are treated fairly. After senatorial abuse of the process reaching back to at least the Reagan administration, what makes any Democrat think things will change if the next president's name is Clinton, Kerry or Feingold?

Several years ago, Pennsylvania's own Sen. Arlen Specter proposed a series of excellent reforms that would bring a halt to what has become an out-of-control judicial confirmation process. They featured a timeline for hearings, committee votes and floor votes. If adopted, the rule changes would apply to all nominees of all presidents, regardless of which party controlled the Senate.

For no other reason than simple fairness, not to mention respect for the federal judiciary, it's time to pass those Specter reforms.

Of course, there will be bipartisan resistance from senators more interested in self-granted perks than the kind of impartial rules senators themselves look to as the lifeblood of their role as elected officials under the Constitution.

But Specter believes in these reforms and, as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, he is in exactly the right place to get fair treatment for Haynes and finally reform the U.S. Senate's judicial confirmation process for good. After decades of senatorial mistreatment of judicial nominees, isn't it about time?

Pennsylvanians of all political stripes who are interested in seeing that the federal judiciary gets the same fairness senators demand for themselves should insist that their senior senator use his considerable yet momentary power to pass the Specter reforms.

Republican Activists Urge Senate to Vote on Judicial Nominees
By James Rowley

June 12 (Bloomberg) -- Republican activists want their allies in the U.S. Senate to revive the debate over President George W. Bush's judicial nominees to mobilize the party's core voters for the November elections.

Republicans risk losing one or both houses of Congress unless the base is motivated to vote, the activists warned at a news conference in Washington. They urged Senate Republican leader Bill Frist of Tennessee to focus on judicial nominees instead of a proposed constitutional amendment to ban flag burning that is set for debate this month.

"Our constituents will not be put off being told that the Senate has more pressing business than judicial nominees," said Jan LaRue, chief counsel of Concerned Women For America. Unless Senate Republicans confirm more judicial nominees, "come Nov. 8, the votes they want may not be there."

The flag-burning amendment is more a symbolic issue than judicial nominations, which have concerned voters in past elections since Bush took office, said Manuel Miranda, a former Senate Republican aide who heads the Third Branch Conference.

"Appealing only with symbolic issues, is, in essence, patronizing," Miranda told reporters. Still, he defended Frist's doomed effort to pass legislation to ban same-sex marriage because that issue "is very much linked to our concern for the judiciary."

Making a Difference

David Keene, chairman of the American Conservative Union, said a debate on judges is a good way for Republicans to distinguish themselves from Democrats in November.

Conservatives are more likely to vote "if they are happy, active and energized," he told reporters.

Frist has tried to avoid battles over nominees who have generated the most controversy. After vowing earlier this year to seek a vote on Terrence Boyle, nominated to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, he has ducked questions about plans to seek Senate votes on Boyle and another nominee for the same Richmond-based court, William J. Haynes II.

Boyle, 60, a federal trial court judge in North Carolina, is accused of breaking a conflict-of-interest law by purchasing stock in General Electric Co. while overseeing a case involving an employee in a pension dispute with the company. Boyle ruled in favor of the company. Those allegations emerged after Frist had announced his plan to seek a Senate vote on Boyle, who Bush first nominated five years ago.

Suspected Terrorists

Haynes, 48, the Defense Department's general counsel, faces questions from Republicans and Democrats alike over his role in drafting the policies for detaining and interrogating suspected terrorists.

Critics say those policies blur legal prohibitions on abuse of prisoners, leading to the torture of captives at the Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq. About a dozen soldiers have been prosecuted for the alleged mistreatment.

Activists last week urged South Carolina Republican Senator Lindsey Graham to drop his objections to Haynes and permit a vote by the Judiciary Committee on his nomination.

Graham, acknowledging he has concerns about Haynes's role in drafting the detention and interrogation policies, has declined to say how he would vote on the nomination.

In a June 8 letter to the activists, he said he took "very seriously" the criticisms by two retired Navy judge advocate generals who opposed Haynes. "I am troubled that very distinguished military leaders have expressed strong opposition to the Haynes nomination," the letter said.

Second Hearing

Miranda said he wouldn't oppose a second confirmation hearing for Haynes, who was questioned by the committee before the revelations about Abu Ghraib.

Haynes's nomination is still in the Judiciary Committee, where Democrats say they would ask for another hearing before the panel votes to send the appointment to the full Senate.

"Jim Haynes does not condone torture," Republican activist Pat M. Woodward Jr., told reporters. Opponents "are trying to blame Jim Haynes for this administration's policies in the war on terror."

More than 60 activists, including Paul Weyrich of Coalitions for America and Donald E. Wildmon of the American family Association, have signed a letter urging Republican leaders to drop the flag-burning debate in favor of judicial nominations.

Conservative Leaders Ask Frist To Emphasize Judges

CONGRESS DAILY PM
by Greta Wodele

More than 60 conservative leaders today called on Senate Majority Leader Frist to set aside this month's planned debate on a constitutional amendment to ban flag burning and instead schedule votes on several pending appellate court nominations. "We write to remind you of your duty, but also because we are concerned that if the majority that assured the confirmation votes of Chief Justice Roberts and Justice [Samuel] Alito lose just one seat in the next election, the future of the Supreme Court and the federal appellate bench will again be imperiled by use of filibusters," members of the coalition of conservative groups wrote in a letter to Frist and Republican senators. The group, which is expected to pick up nearly 100 signatures, plans to send the letter Tuesday. The coalition argued the judges debate, which has pitted Republicans against Democrats, ranks higher in surveys with conservatives than the flag burning proposal.

Frist's spokeswoman today responded that the flag burning amendment is a key proposal to Americans, especially for veterans as well as soldiers in Iraq and Afghanistan. She added that Frist has "methodically" pushed through several of President Bush's judicial picks and would continue to do so this year. The spokeswoman declined to give a timeline for scheduling a vote on pending nominees. The Senate is slated to vote on the flag proposal at the end of the month. One conservative group, Americans for Tax Reform, opted against signing onto the coalition's letter and instead sent its own letter encouraging Frist to schedule votes on judicial nominees.

Manuel Miranda, executive director of the conservative Third Branch Conference, praised Frist today for his previous efforts on judicial nominees, but argued Republicans must demand the majority leader schedule votes for the pending judicial nominees in order to help energize conservative voters this fall. "It will get out small margins," Miranda told reporters, conceding the issue would not mobilize large numbers of conservative voters. "It is by small margins that several [GOP] senators currently hold their seats." Miranda said the judge debate is a "signature issue" for Frist, who would need conservatives for a potential White House bid in 2008. "He began with a bang, but if he ends on a whimper that could hurt him," Miranda said. "We want to help him." One GOP Senate aide dismissed Miranda's news conference today as a media ploy to pressure Republicans on a single issue. "The 'Flag Amendment' is not preventing movement on judges," said the aide, arguing the flag proposal gave conservatives a "juicier hook" than other legislative measures slated for floor debate this year.

Miranda said he expects Frist to commit to a vote on Terrence Boyle's nomination to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals before the July Fourth recess. But conservatives worry that Frist and GOP leaders will not continue pushing votes on other pending judges in the months leading up to the November elections. "Under the old Senate tradition, judges stop after June and July," said Miranda. Frist's spokeswoman declined to comment about whether Frist would schedule a vote on Boyle's nomination before next month.

Justice Kennedy's Culture War
How gay marriage became a federal case, alas.

The Supreme Court is busy this week, but Justice Anthony Kennedy should take a moment to tune into the Senate debate on gay marriage. As the man who enabled this latest front in the culture wars, it's the least he can do.

That's the most efficient way to think about the Senate debate this week on the Marriage Protection Amendment, which would create a national definition of marriage as a "union of a man and a woman." We remain opposed to federal interference in this issue, believing that issues of family life and law are best settled in state legislatures. Yet given the way activist courts have turned gay marriage into a national issue, it's no surprise that Congress joined the fray.

Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist knows he's unlikely to get many more than the 48 votes he got the last time he brought up this amendment, in 2004. Constitutional amendments require a two-thirds majority, and only one Democrat, Nebraska's Ben Nelson, is publicly on board. So some of this is about rallying a demoralized conservative base.

But the amendment vote can't be understood outside of the anxiety created by activist courts. Justice Kennedy wrote the majority opinion in the 2003 Lawrence case that banned state anti-sodomy laws. So sweeping was his "privacy right" language that it took only a few months for the Massachusetts Supreme Court to use Lawrence to justify its decision to impose a right to gay marriage there. Politicians in New York and San Francisco began issuing gay marriage licenses, never mind state law.

So here we go again with another values issue about to become an endlessly polarizing national debate. Beltway politicians can posture knowing nothing much will change. This is the history of abortion since Roe v. Wade, with both sides at the same barricades 30 years on. The Founders left such thorny social issues to the states precisely to allow the democratic give and take that can reach a rough consensus, as well as adjust as social mores change.

That's what the states have been doing in recent years. Some 19 states now have constitutional amendments protecting "traditional" marriage; another 26 have statutes doing the same. Alabama voters yesterday endorsed such an amendment, and six more states will have the question on November ballots.

States have also devised a range of policies for civil partnerships or other legal rights for gay couples. These innovations reflect the reality that most Americans oppose extending the term "marriage" to gays but are open to other legal arrangements. Colorado voters may face ballot initiatives this fall dealing with both a definition of marriage and domestic partnership rights.

Supporters of the national ban say an amendment is necessary because willful courts won't honor those voter verdicts. They have a point. A federal court struck down Nebraska's ban on gay marriage last year even though 70% of the state's residents voted for it. Bans have been overturned in Washington, California, Maryland and New York.

But it's far from clear that a Constitutional amendment is necessary to stop this just now. Congress passed the Defense of Marriage Act in the 1990s, and sooner or later the Supreme Court will decide if this clashes with the Constitution's "full faith and credit" clause that applies one state's laws to the other 49 (i.e., easy Nevada divorce). If the High Court overturns the Defense of Marriage Act, there'd be a much stronger case for something as rare, and politically difficult, as passing a Constitutional amendment. Meantime, this is another argument for confirming President Bush's judicial nominees.

As for liberals, they might consider that their best chance to change minds is through open state debate, not coercive courts. Polls show Americans are becoming more comfortable with civil unions and other gay rights. In fact, the best thing gay activists could do for themselves at the federal level would be to support repeal of the death tax, since under current law gay couples often lack inheritance rights. That would accomplish more than anything that will emerge from this week's political spectacle over amending the Constitution.

A Different Judicial Battle

The Senate is back in session, and we'll soon see if Republicans are serious about confirming President Bush's nominees for the appeals courts. Majority Leader Bill Frist kept his promise to confirm Brett Kavanaugh to the D.C. Circuit before Memorial Day, after he'd waited three years for a vote.

So who's next? Mr. Frist wanted to move Fourth Circuit nominee Terrence Boyle by Memorial Day too, but no go. A federal judge in North Carolina, Mr. Boyle has the honor of waiting longer than any appeals-court nominee in history for a floor vote. He was in Mr. Bush's first group of nominees announced on May 9, 2001 and was first nominated by Mr. Bush's father in 1991, though Democrats denied him a vote.

Democrats now say they'll filibuster his nomination. They are distorting a couple of Judge Boyle's civil rights decisions and making conflict-of-interest allegations that add up at worst to minor infractions. But Republicans don't want a fight in an election year over race or ethics. And Judge Boyle's onetime Senate champion -- Jesse Helms -- has long since retired. A controversial nominee without an angel to guide him through today's polarized Senate is in trouble.

Which brings us to William "Jim" Haynes II, another stalled Fourth Circuit nominee. Mr. Haynes was named on September 29, 2003, had a hearing two months later, and was voted out of committee in March 2004. But don't blame this delay only on Democrats. Two Republicans -- Senators John McCain and Lindsey Graham -- are also causing the holdup.

Mr. Haynes is the Pentagon's general counsel, and his transgression is to have offered legal advice on the treatment of detainees in the war on terror. The big point of contention is his role in Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld's decision in December 2002 to allow "coercive" interrogation techniques against al Qaeda detainees at Guantanamo.

The Pentagon says Mr. Haynes offered legal analysis; his critics distort this to say he was instrumental in forging a policy that could be used to justify "torture." But there is no evidence that anyone condoned torture, and it was the CIA, not the Pentagon, that used "waterboarding" that critics cite as the most coercive sanctioned technique.

In any case, Mr. Rumsfeld rescinded his decision within six weeks after Pentagon lawyers took their concerns to Mr. Haynes, who then took them to Mr. Rumsfeld. Even if you believe the "coercive" techniques policy was a mistake, its reversal was due in no small part to Mr. Haynes, who did his duty of providing legal analysis. Mr. Haynes met with Senator McCain for an hour last month and agreed to answer written questions about the issue.

Senator McCain's anger over the Air Force's tanker deal with Boeing also unfairly extends to Mr. Haynes. As general counsel, Mr. Haynes had the job of reviewing and, in some cases, redacting the small library's worth of documents the Senator demanded. A McCain spokeswoman tells us that the Senator has not made a decision about whether to support the nomination.

It's hard to see how opposing Mr. Haynes would achieve anything except win the Senators some fleeting praise in the establishment media. It wouldn't impress GOP primary voters in Mr. Graham's home state of South Carolina, an important Presidential primary state in 2008 and home to many Haynes supporters. In defeating Mr. Haynes, Mr. McCain would mainly be validating those critics who want to punish anyone associated with the war in Iraq. Is this how a President McCain would treat his appointees who come under political fire for offering honest counsel?

There are 18 vacancies on the appeals-court bench -- 10% of the total -- and not many weeks left to fill them before election-year campaigning makes judicial confirmations next to impossible. Seven nominees are currently waiting for a hearing or vote. With Republicans in danger of losing Senate seats, if not their majority, now is the time to honor one of their campaign pledges from 2004 by confirming Mr. Bush's judicial nominees.

White House Renews Push for Nominees
By Alexander Bolton

White House officials are making a concerted effort to cooperate with outside conservative groups to support and defend President Bush's nominees to the federal bench, and they are also planning to work more closely with the Senate on confirming the nominees.

The greater focus on judges comes in the wake of privately expressed criticism from conservative leaders that the White House and the GOP-controlled Senate were doing little to defend high-profile nominees such as William "Jim" Haynes and Terrence Boyle, both picked for the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, from attacks by liberals.

The White House and Senate Republicans offered spirited defenses of prior embattled nominees, such as Priscilla Owen, who now sits on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and Janice Rogers Brown, who is a member of the D.C. Circuit Court. But since their confirmations and the Supreme Court confirmations of Chief Justice John Roberts and Justice Samuel Alito, GOP leaders have done little to defend other controversial nominees.

The lack of an organized defense of languishing nominees such as Haynes, Boyle and William Myers, a nominee to the 9th Circuit, prompted former clerks of the nominees and conservative activists to take matters into their own hands. Boyle's former clerks, many of whom are now prominent lawyers, joined together on their own accord to defend him from accusations that he acted improperly while a district-court judge.

Conservative activists and intellectual leaders, such as Sean Rushton, executive director of the Committee for Justice, and Professor John Yoo of the University of California at Berkeley, also began laying plans to form committees to defend other embattled nominees. Yoo was in the national spotlight earlier this year during the Alito hearings because of his writings on the legal theory of the unitary executive, which Bush has used to justify his wartime powers.

But since the Senate confirmation of Brett Kavanaugh to the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals two weeks ago, the White House has begun to take a more active role in defending the nominees. For example, talking points circulated at the end of last week defending Boyle from accusations that he did not recuse himself from cases where he may have had conflicts of interest were written in the signature style of the White House and its ally the Republican National Committee. And administration officials are also working more closely with conservative activists to defend the nominees. Also, the Department of Justice is crafting a memo on Boyle's conduct as a judge and activists close to the White House such as Edward Whelan, president of the Ethics and Public Policy Center who authored a recent article in the conservative Weekly Standard, are stepping up their advocacy on behalf of the judicial nominees.

"I sense that," said Sen. Jeff Sessions (R-Ala.), a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, when asked yesterday if he noticed more effort by the White House to support the judicial nominees. He added that he met with Boyle and a White House aide Monday in a meeting he said he assumed was set up by the administration.

"I guess that represents a stepping up and talking about judges," Sessions acknowledged.

Sessions also said that conservatives are right to be concerned about the lack of action by Senate Republicans to defend the nominees, something he attributed to distractions caused by the busy schedule and big political issues such as immigration reform.

"I think it's time to get more serious in defending the nominees," he said.

Sen. Jim DeMint (R-S.C.), a rising star in the upper chamber's conservative circles, said that the White House is working more closely with Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.) on the judicial nominees.

"We've got to get moving faster on judicial nominees," said DeMint, who added that Frist has told him judicial nominees are a priority.

A White House official said that several of the nominees have sat in the Senate for a long time and that the administration is asking senators to make a decision about whether to confirm them or not, whether to "fish or cut bait."

The greater cooperation between the White House and conservative groups comes several weeks after White House political adviser Karl Rove and counsel Harriet Miers told conservatives in a private meeting that they would begin sending more judicial nominees to the Hill. But so far few nominees have been sent.

The White House official said that to the extent there is a push on judges it is an effort to wrap up background checks on judicial nominees and send them to the Senate more quickly. The effort is a direct recognition that the window of opportunity for getting nominees confirmed in the Senate may be closing as Election Day and the end of the 109th Congress approaches.

Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.), a member of the Judiciary Committee, has come under heavy fire from conservatives for blocking Haynes's nomination.

Yesterday, nearly 80 prominent conservative leaders including David Keene, chairman of the American Conservative Union; Paul Weyrich, chairman of Coalitions for America; Manuel Miranda, chairman of the Third Branch Conference; and Saul Anuzis, chairman of the Michigan Republican Party, delivered a letter to Graham rebuking him for "effectively blocking" Haynes's nomination in the Judiciary Committee.

"We understand that you and Senator [John] McCain [R-Ariz.] have concerns about the Bush Administration's policies on prisoners captured in the War on Terror, and about Mr. Haynes's role in implementing those policies at the Defense Department," the conservative leaders wrote.

Graham defended himself yesterday by saying that he is not blocking Haynes in committee and arguing that the conservative leaders who signed the letter do not represent all conservatives. But Graham refused to say whether he would cast a crucial vote to pass Haynes out of committee.

Jim Haynes' listening skills

Last night, I discussed the incoherent criticism directed at Fourth Circuit nominee Jim Haynes by two retired military legal officers. It since has been pointed out to me that one of the officers, Retired Admiral Hutson, served as the Navy Judge Advocate General during the Clinton Administration, retiring in 2000. Thus, he never worked directly with Haynes, and presumably lacks first hand knowledge as to whether Haynes listens to others. The other Retired Admiral, Donald Guter, was the Navy JAG from 2000 to 2002. He retired in 2002, and so had a relatively brief overlap with Haynes.

By contrast, Major General (ret.) Michael Marchand served with Haynes until July 2005. He was an Army JAG for 31 years. During the last 12 of them, he served in positions that provided him with "significant exposure" to the various General Counsels of the Department of Defense. Marchand states, in a letter to Senators Specter and Leahy that

> In my experience Mr. Haynes has been more inclusive of the Judge Advocates General and the senior service lawyers of the armed services than any General Counsel of the Department of Defense. He has consistently and repeatedly reached out to the senior lawyers of the Department of Defense on some of the most difficult legal issues to confront our armed services, our Department, and our Country. He has done so throughout his tenure in formal and informal ways. He has been respectful of our views, even on those occasions when he may not have agreed with one of more of us. The Department and its legal community -- and the Country -- have been well served.

UPDATE: William Suter, Major General, USA (Ret.), and clerk of the U.S. Supreme Court, served in the JAG Corps from 1962-1991. He worked closely with Jim Haynes in 1990-1991 when Haynes was General Counsel of the Army. Suter has written to various Senators in support of Haynes. He states:

> Mr. Haynes is a superb lawyer in every respect. He performed his duties as the Army General Counsel with great distinction. He was very knowledgeable concerning military matters and fully supported the Army's mission. I found him easy to work with and considered him a valuable provessional colleague. He was always available to discuss pending legal issues and we kept each other informed about important matters. He respected Judge Advocates and their opinions. He is also a man of great character and integrity.

Mr. Haynes deserves a vote on his nomination. I am confident that he will be an outstanding appellate judge.

Conservatives Rap Graham Over Judge; He Defends Stance

More than 80 conservative leaders today sent a letter to Sen. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C., accusing him of waging a "silent filibuster" against the nomination of William Haynes to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. While Graham today dismissed the coalition's charges, he also outlined his concerns with the nominee. "We represent a coalition of organizations that cares deeply about putting constitutionalist judges on the federal courts," wrote the leaders. "We are writing to express our concern about your lack of support for the nomination of William Haynes to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, effectively blocking him in [the Judiciary] committee." The leaders further accused Graham of violating the constitutional prerogative of the president and the GOP majority to have an up-or-down vote on nominations, comparing his opposition to "Democrats' minority-obstructionist tactics."

Graham brushed off the group's efforts to demand he support the nominee. "They are a group of people that organize around a specific event. That doesn't mean they represent conservatives," said Graham. "I represent a conservative state with a conservative philosophy on judges. But I also believe added scrutiny is needed. And I am ready to vote on all nominees that I know about." Graham said Bush administration officials that worked with Haynes on the administration's policies involving torture of war prisoners have expressed to him their concerns with Haynes' role in the "formulation of the interrogation policy. I'm listening to those people." But Graham insisted he is not officially blocking the Judiciary Committee from voting on Haynes' nomination and predicted other senators would "call for more hearings" on controversial nominees, including Haynes. Graham declined to say how he would vote on the nominee if requests for additional hearings are not met. Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., also shares Graham's concerns with Haynes' nomination.

Despite their anger over Graham's participation in the Gang of 14 last year, the conservative coalition declined to mention Graham's role in today's letter. The bipartisan Gang of 14 prevented Majority Leader Frist from changing Senate rules to prohibit the minority from filibustering a president's judicial nomination. The Committee for Justice, which signed today's letter, said recently the conservative groups would launch a national campaign via e-mails and telephone calls to Graham in hope of persuading the senator to support Haynes' nomination. One conservative leader predicted recently that Graham's conservative base could lash out against the senator when he runs for re-election in 2008. Haynes, who was nominated three years ago, has twice received the American Bar Association's highest rating. The group today defended Haynes' involvement in the 2003 torture scandal when he served as the Pentagon's general counsel, arguing Haynes had an "obligation to defend the legal rights of his client, the Defense Department, and to follow the legal advice of the Justice Department." -- by Greta Wodele

The incoherence of Jim Haynes' critics

According to the Washington Post, "some retired military officers have served notice" that they will oppose the nomination of Jim Haynes in the event of a confirmation battle. The two officers mentioned by the Post are both former military lawyers.

This is old news to anyone who has been reading Power Line. Indeed, as we have long noted, Sen. Lindsey Graham reportedly has been preventing a confirmation battle based partly on reports from military lawyers who are unhappy with Haynes about his role regarding the administration's policy towards war on terrorism detainees.
One of the officers, retired Rear Admiral John Hutson, claims that Haynes' "unwillingness to listen to others caused him to preside over the DOD legal system during the time of its greatest debacle in memory, the abuse of detainees by military personnel around the world." This is the familiar argument of the bureaucrat on the losing side -- "they didn't listen to me," which almost always means "they didn't agree with me." In Haynes' case, moreover, it was his obligation to defer to the legal advice and policy preferences of the Justice Department and the White House, not those of career military lawyers.

As for the "great debacle" claim, Hutson's tortured formulation, ("caused [Haynes] to preside over the legal system in the time of its greatest debacle," not "caused a debacle"), betrays the weakness of his argument. And what precisely was the debacle? If Hutson is referring to Abu Ghraib, he's talking nonsense. Nothing Haynes (or Justice Department lawyers) did caused that debacle; otherwise, whatever they did to cause it would have caused other Abu Ghraibs. Indeed, the controversial memo that Haynes produced (which adhered to the legal position laid out by the Justice Department) did not include sexual humiliation as one of the permitted interrogation devices. If Hutson is referring to Guantanamo Bay, then there is no debacle. Evidence of mistreatment of prisoners there is scant. It can be argue that the decision to hold so many people at Gitmo indefinitely (regardless of how they are treated) has been a public relations set-back. But that decision was not made by Haynes.

Meanwhile, retired Rear Admiral Donald Guter, apparently in response to the argument that Haynes was following Justice Department policy as he was obliged to, doubts that as a judge Haynes would have the independence or judgment to oppose unwise policies being pushed by his superiors. Either Guter is being misquoted or he was absent the day they taught law in law school. As an appeals court judge, Haynes' "superiors" would be the Supreme Court, and it would be Haynes' obligation not to oppose their decisions. It would also be Haynes' obligation as a judge not to focus on whether policies being "pushed" by the executive or the legislature are "unwise," as opposed to unlawful.

Against the incoherent views of the retired admirals, we have the testimony of Bernard Meltzer, a distinguished law professor and former assistant trial counsel at Nuremberg, who worked with Haynes in formulating the procedure for trying detainees before military tribunals. Meltzer apparently had no difficulty in getting Haynes to "listen." He reports that Haynes showed "informed and sensitive concern for the rights and legitimate interests of those who might be tried before a military commission."
No wonder Lindsey Graham has been trying to prevent a debate on the merits of Haynes.

Opposition to Nominee
By Shailagh Murray and Charles Babington

Some retired military officers have served notice that if conservatives keep pressing for a Senate confirmation vote for judicial nominee William J. Haynes II, it won't come without a fight.

Haynes, the Defense Department's general counsel, is President Bush's choice for a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 4th Circuit. Democrats have opposed Haynes since 2003, and now some Republicans are joining them. They object to his role as the Pentagon's top lawyer when controversial policies were adopted regarding harsh treatment of detainees captured in Afghanistan, Iraq and elsewhere.

The conservative group Committee for Justice has launched a telephone and e-mail campaign against one of those Republicans, Sen. Lindsey O. Graham (S.C.). Last week, some retired military lawyers came to Graham's defense, sending letters to the Judiciary Committee that call Haynes unfit for a lifetime appointment to the appellate court.

Haynes's "unwillingness to listen to others caused him to preside over the DOD legal system during the time of its greatest debacle in memory, the abuse of detainees by military personnel around the world," wrote John D. Hutson, a retired rear admiral who was a senior Navy lawyer. Donald J. Guter, who held the same rank, wrote that he doubted Haynes would have the independence or judgment to oppose unwise policies being pushed by his superiors.

Among those praising Haynes in letters to the committee is Bernard D. Meltzer, a retired law professor and former assistant trial counsel in the trials before the International Military Tribunal in Nuremberg. Meltzer wrote that he got to know Haynes while consulting with the Pentagon and that "I was impressed by his informed and sensitive concern for the rights and legitimate interests of those who might be tried before a military commission."

Lowering the Bar
The corrupt ABA judicial evaluation process.

By Edward Whelan

IF THERE WERE A LIST of lawyers least suited to assess Brett Kavanaugh's fitness to serve as a judge on the D.C. Circuit, Marna Tucker would be very high on it. Tucker's narrow specialty, divorce law, is far removed, in both substance and sophistication, from the work of the federal appellate courts--especially from the complex cases of administrative law that are the staple of the D.C. Circuit. Even worse, Tucker could hardly pretend to be impartial towards Kavanaugh. A fervent gender activist and supporter of other left-wing causes, she is a longtime ally of those who have vituperated the conservative Kavanaugh on account of his work for Kenneth Starr's independent-counsel investigation and his service as White House lawyer and staff secretary under President George W. Bush.

After nearly three years of Democratic obstruction, Kavanaugh's nomination was recently confirmed by the Senate, and he has taken his seat on the D.C. Circuit. But the untold story of his recent treatment by the ABA's Committee on the Federal Judiciary, which rates all federal judicial nominees, deserves attention, for it illustrates a longstanding defect that periodically plagues the committee's evaluations of Republican nominees.

When President Bush first nominated Kavanaugh in July 2003, the ABA committee gave him its top overall rating of "well qualified" (with a "substantial majority"--10 to 13 of the 14 voting members--rating him "well qualified" and the remaining minority rating him "qualified"). When Kavanaugh was renominated in early 2005, the committee's supplemental evaluation yielded the same "well qualified" rating. Then, as the Senate's 2005 session was wrapping up, Democratic leadership in the Senate, in a curious move, insisted that Kavanaugh's nomination, alone among all the pending judicial nominations, be sent back to the White House. The Democrats' insistence seemed at the time peevish, requiring President Bush to go through the formality of renominating Kavanaugh in January 2006. Little noticed was the fact that, under the ABA committee's practices, the renomination would trigger yet another supplemental evaluation of Kavanaugh.

There was every reason to expect the ABA's 2006 supplemental evaluation to be routine, as its purpose was simply to cover the one-year period since the previous rating. But a key fact had changed over that year: Tucker had been assigned to the ABA committee as the member responsible for the D.C. Circuit. Instead of focusing on the previous year--the only period of time not covered in the earlier evaluations--Tucker launched a scorched-earth review of Kavanaugh's entire career. She conducted 91 witness interviews--far more than the 55 that underlay the original 2003 evaluation--but showed little interest in witnesses identified by Kavanaugh. When ABA judiciary committee chairman Stephen Tober discovered (in his words) that "this was a nominee that Ms. Tucker was spending a considerable amount of time on," he did not rein her in but instead enlisted a second committee member--liberal civil-rights activist John Payton--to assist her.

Kavanaugh's relations with the previous D.C. Circuit member--also a Democratic woman--had been cordial and professional. In sharp contrast--according to administration officials whom Kavanaugh spoke with at the time--Tucker and Payton were adversarial and partisan when they interviewed Kavanaugh. Tucker criticized the White House for ending the ABA committee's privileged role in reviewing judicial candidates before they were formally nominated. Tucker and Payton displayed a bizarre interest in an internal Senate dispute (not involving Kavanaugh) that arose in late 2003 after a Republican staffer discovered on a shared computer directory a Democratic strategy memo that urged that a Sixth Circuit nominee be stonewalled in order to affect the outcome of the University of Michigan racial-preferences cases pending in that court. And Payton, who had argued those same cases in the Supreme Court in 2003, tried to probe what part Kavanaugh had played in the White House's formulation of the administration's position in those cases.

Returning from the interview, Kavanaugh told his White House colleagues that Tucker's conduct of the interview deeply concerned him. Fortunately for Kavanaugh, his strong record and the previous ratings he had received from the ABA committee made it difficult for Tucker to do him serious damage. Her evaluation reduced his overall rating from "well qualified" to "qualified" (with a minority of the committee still finding him well qualified), but even that rating meant that he had met the committee's "very high standards with respect to integrity, professional competence and judicial temperament."

But the ABA committee and Tucker weren't through with Kavanaugh. Responding to hyperbolic Democratic rhetoric about Kavanaugh's downgrade, Tober took the extraordinary step of submitting to the Senate Judiciary Committee a statement that presented, in isolation and without attribution, the committee's supposed dirt on Kavanaugh. And Tober and Tucker supplemented this statement in a telephone conference with senators and staffers.

One witness, Tober explained, had charged that Kavanaugh had "dissembled" in an oral argument. And (among a few other criticisms) several witnesses, all supposedly using the same word, had characterized Kavanaugh's White House work as "insulated." Tober and Tucker asserted that, consistent with their committee's policies, Kavanaugh had been informed of all negative items and had been given a full opportunity to answer them.

The ABA's disclosures, and the manner in which they were presented, astounded Kavanaugh and his advisers. Tucker had never told him the incendiary charge about having "dissembled" in court, he explained to White House colleagues. Had he heard it, he pointed out compellingly, he certainly would have tried to learn more about it from Tucker in order to dispute it. And, indeed, it appears that in the original charge the term "dissembled" was misused. Questioned in the telephone conference about the charge, Tucker stated that the "quote was 'He did not handle the case well as an advocate; he was not forceful, and when he dissembled, he did not argue his case clearly.'" The quoted statement makes little sense: It would be peculiar to criticize dissembling (a form of lying) merely for its effect on clarity, rather than as an intrinsic evil. Tucker herself, according to an unpublished transcript of the telephone conference, interpreted the charge merely to mean that Kavanaugh "did not respond appropriately" to questions. But Kavanaugh was never given a chance to contest the charge. And Senate Democrats, handed the ammunition by Tober and Tucker, profligately highlighted the "dissembling" charge to impugn Kavanaugh's integrity.

As for the charge that Kavanaugh's White House experience was "insulated": It was clear to Kavanaugh that Tucker herself was committed to that view. She even ignorantly insisted that, as staff secretary overseeing the full range of executive-branch decisions, he was exposed only to a "very narrow band" of views.

With hindsight, only a naif would believe that Tucker and Senate Democrats did not work together to engineer the return of Kavanaugh's nomination in December 2005. The most sensible hypothesis is that Tucker signaled that she was well positioned to inflict damage on Kavanaugh--and that sending the nomination back to the White House would enable her to do so through a supplemental evaluation. Why else would Senate Democrats have insisted on sending the nomination back?

The bigger question is why a highly partisan divorce lawyer was ever appointed to the committee in the first place. The sitting ABA president, during his one-year term, has plenary authority to fill the five or so vacancies that arise each year. (The committee chairman and the 14 other members serve staggered three-year terms.) With the ABA's transformation over the last few decades from an apolitical professional organization into a liberal interest group, ABA presidents and the bar activists who vie for influential ABA positions have trended leftwards. Current ABA president Michael S. Greco, a zealous liberal, presumably selected Tucker because of, not in spite of, her partisan credentials.

Tober's role in Tucker's excesses is also significant. Under the committee's procedures, the chairman and the circuit member who conducts the investigation have extraordinary practical clout in shaping the views of the other committee members, as they prepare the report that goes to the full committee. That Tober did not try to restrain Tucker, but instead teamed her up with another liberal activist, suggests a woeful inattention on his part to partisan conflicts of interest.

Not coincidentally, Tober recently oversaw the committee's remarkable "not qualified" rating of Fifth Circuit nominee Michael B. Wallace, a highly respected attorney and former Supreme Court law clerk for the late William Rehnquist. In 1987, when Wallace served on the board of the Legal Services Corporation, Tober presented strikingly intemperate testimony to an LSC committee that Wallace chaired. Opposing a proposed regulation to require that boards receiving LSC funds have bipartisan membership (as does the LSC itself), Tober flamboyantly accused Wallace of attempting to "fashion a political bias litmus test" and of having a "hidden agenda," and he vowed to disobey the regulation if it became law.

The transcript of Tober's testimony, which also includes a number of loopy constitutional arguments, makes one wonder why Tober has any role in evaluating judicial nominees. It's even more disturbing that he would not see fit to recuse himself from reviewing the nomination of Wallace, for whom he plainly bears a strong animus.

Perhaps Tober will provide a persuasive explanation for the committee's negative rating of Wallace. But one lesson from the Kavanaugh process is that Tober's explanations should not be accepted at face value. In any event, it's long past time for the ABA to take serious steps to ensure the selection of committee members who will not let political bias infect their evaluations of judicial nominees. Absent such steps, the Senate Judiciary Committee should deprive the ABA committee of the privileged status it has long been accorded.

Arlen Specter or Tom Daschle, take your pick

This lead in today's Post story by Chris Cillizza about Sen. Lindsey Graham is priceless:

No longer content with bashing Democrats for their obstruction of President Bush's judicial nominees, a coalition of conservative groups is now turning its attention to a prominent Republican -- Sen. Lindsey O. Graham (S.C.).

Give that liberal a blog!

The story is great news, though. I've referred to Senator Graham as "the Arlen Specter of the south." In same ways, though, the better comparison is to Tom Daschle. As with Daschle, the voters in Graham's conservative home state probably have little idea of Graham's true ideological stance. Sean Rushton makes this point when he says;

A key reason why Lindsey Graham is Senator Graham is because he ran as opposed to the obstruction of the president's judicial nominees. We hope he'll remember that.
Graham is widely thought (along with Senator McCain) to be obstructing the nomination of Jim Haynes, the general counsel of the defense department. Graham apparently has tight connections with military lawyers who disliked the Pentagon's legal position on detainee interrogations. The Post quotes a spokesman for Graham who expresses concern that Haynes may not have been receptive enough to "advice from the military." However, Haynes was obliged to take his legal advice (if that's what the spokesman is referring to) from the Justice Department and the Office of White House Counsel, and he did so.

If Senator Graham nonetheless feels that Haynes is unfit to serve on the Fourth Circuit by virtue of his legal memos (or for any other reason) that's fine. But let's have the debate and the vote.

Conservatives Backing Nominee Look at Graham

WASHINGTON POST
By Chris Cillizza

No longer content with bashing Democrats for their obstruction of President Bush's judicial nominees, a coalition of conservative groups is now turning its attention to a prominent Republican -- Sen. Lindsey O. Graham (S.C.).

The campaign, led by the Committee for Justice, is aimed at persuading Graham to allow a vote on William James Haynes II, the general counsel at the Department of Defense and a nominee for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 4th Circuit. Although the campaign is in its infancy, organizers expect it to develop into a national e-mail and telephone lobbying effort.

"A key reason why Lindsey Graham is Senator Graham is because he ran as opposed to the obstruction of the president's judicial nominees," said Sean Rushton, executive director of the Committee for Justice. "We hope he'll remember that."

Graham insists he has engaged in no formal obstruction of Haynes, nor has he enlisted other senators to do so. Along with colleague and political ally John McCain (R-Ariz.), Graham has expressed concern regarding the advice Haynes provided the Bush administration on the treatment of detainees captured in the war on terrorism. "The role Mr. Haynes played as DOD general counsel formulating these policies and whether he was receptive to legal advice from the military will be a line of inquiry when his nomination is brought up," said Kevin D. Bishop, communications director for Graham.

Haynes was nominated in 2003.

Opposing conservatives on one of their pet issues carries political risks for both Graham and McCain. Since winning the seat vacated by the late Sen. Strom Thurmond (R) in 2002, Graham has faced occasional opposition from his party's base, a resistance that hardened when he joined a bipartisan group of senators -- the "Gang of 14" -- to defuse a showdown on judicial nominees.

Charleston developer Thomas Ravenel, who narrowly lost a bid for the GOP Senate nomination in 2004, has encouraged speculation that he might mount a primary challenge to Graham in 2008 but is seeking state office in 2006.

McCain, who has made clear his intentions to run for president in 2008, has openly courted conservatives over the past year in an attempt to heal rifts caused by his primary challenge to George W. Bush in 2000. That effort has met with considerable success to date, progress that could be jeopardized by another high-profile battle over judicial nominations.

Questions Were Raised About Judge Ginsburg And Recusals From Cases Affecting Her Husband's Work:

"Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg May Have Violated A Federal Law 21 Times Since 1995 By Participating In Cases Involving Companies In Which Her Husband Owned Stock." (Richard Carelli, "Justice Took Part In Cases Involving Husband's Stocks," The Associated Press, 7/10/97)

"Appointed To The Nation's Highest Court By President Clinton In 1993, Justice Ginsburg Did Not Disqualify Herself In Cases Involving Eight Companies In Which Her Husband Owned Common Stock In 1995 And 1996. The Companies Are Nynex, Exxon, General Electric, American International Group, Procter & Gamble, Johnson & Johnson, American Home Products And AT&T." (Richard Carelli, "Justice Took Part In Cases Involving Husband's Stocks," The Associated Press, 7/10/97)

- "The Problematic Stock Holdings Are Traceable To A Smith Barney Account Martin Ginsburg Opened Sometime In 1995." (Richard Carelli, "Justice Took Part In Cases Involving Husband's Stocks," The Associated Press, 7/10/97)

- "The Nomination Of Ruth Bader Ginsburg To The Supreme Court Poses Anew A Question That Two-Career Couples Are Making More And More Common: When Can The Legal Work Of A Judge's Spouse Or Other Loved One Require That He Or She Bow Out Of A Case?" (Jonathan Groner, "Ruth Bader Ginsburg's Recusal Questions," Legal Times, 6/28/93)

- "Never Has A Supreme Court Justice Been Married To Someone With As High A Profile As Martin Ginsburg's. The Voluble Federal-Tax Expert, Law Professor, And Private Attorney Has Been A Prolific Writer And An Adviser To The Internal Revenue Service, To The Department Of Justice, And To A Dozen Private Tax Publishers And Bar Panels." (Jonathan Groner, "Ruth Bader Ginsburg's Recusal Questions," Legal Times, 6/28/93)

"[That] Clearly Doesn't Mean That Ruth Ginsburg, Assuming She Is Confirmed, Would Have Any Reason Not To Hear Tax Cases At The Supreme Court. She Would, Of Course, Have To Recuse Herself From Any Matter In Which Her Husband Was Directly Involved As A Lawyer." (Jonathan Groner, "Ruth Bader Ginsburg's Recusal Questions," Legal Times, 6/28/93)

"A Judge Must Recuse In A Case When His Or Her Spouse Or Other Close Relative Has A 'More Than De Minimis Interest' That Could Be Substantially Affected By The Case." (Jonathan Groner, "Ruth Bader Ginsburg's Recusal Questions," Legal Times, 6/28/93)

IN 1994, DEMOCRATS DISMISSED SIMILAR CONFLICTS OF INTEREST AGAINST SUPREME COURT NOMINEE STEPHEN BREYER

Then Judge Stephen Breyer Ruled On Several Cases That Had The Potential For An Enormous Financial Impact On His Own Holdings In Lloyds Of London:

"Supreme Court Nominee Stephen Breyer, Who As A Federal Appeals Court Judge Has Ruled In A Number Of Toxic Waste Cases, Had A Major Financial Interest In The Outcome Of Similar Liability Suits Against U.S. Polluters ..." (Timothy M. Phelps and Michael Weber, "Supreme Court Conflict?" Newsday, 6/24/94)

- "While Breyer Was Not Involved With Any Of The Parties In The Toxic Waste Cases He Handled ... He Could Conceivably Stand To Benefit In General If Standards Were Relaxed In Toxic Waste Clean-Up Efforts." (Ana Puga, "Breyer's Financial Interests Detailed," The Boston Globe, 6/25/94)

"Breyer's Financial Disclosure Statements Filed With The Judicial Ethics Committee In Washington Reveal That The Judge — Who Has Written A Book Critical Of The Environmental Protection Agency's Handling Of Superfund Cases As Well As Ruling On Them — Had Between $ 250,000 And $ 500,000 Invested In The Lloyd's Of London

Insurance Company In The Mid And Late 1980s." (Timothy M. Phelps and Michael Weber, "Supreme Court Conflict?" Newsday, 6/24/94)

- "The Forms Do Not Reveal Which Syndicates Breyer Invested In. But Internal Lloyd's Documents Obtained By Newsday In The United States And Britain Indicate That One Of Breyer's Investments Was A Syndicate Known As Merrett 418 (1985), Whose Liabilities For American Superfund And Asbestos Claims Were So Great For That Underwriting Year That The Group Is Unable To Close Its Books Nine Years After It Stopped Operating. Lloyd's Investors (Known In England As 'Names') Are Personally Liable For All Claims." (Timothy M. Phelps and Michael Weber, "Supreme Court Conflict?" Newsday, 6/24/94)

- "As A Federal Appeals Court Judge In Boston For The Past 13 Years, Breyer Has Ruled On A Number Of Superfund Cases, Including Two That Environmental Lawyers Describe As Major Legal Precedents. In Both Of Those, Breyer Ruled Against The Government And In Favor Of The Defendants In Cases Brought Under The 1986 Law That Authorized A Sweeping Program To Clean Up 375 Of The Nation's Most Contaminated Sites." (Timothy M. Phelps and Michael Weber, "Supreme Court Conflict?" Newsday, 6/24/94)

"Only After He Was Nominated By President Bill Clinton To The Court Last Month To Replace The Retiring Harry Blackmun Did Breyer Reveal To The Senate Judiciary Committee That He Had Liabilities At Lloyd's That He Said 'Cannot Be Reasonably Estimated.'" (Timothy M. Phelps and Michael Weber, "Supreme Court Conflict?" Newsday, 6/24/94)

"According To Judge Breyer's Answers To The Judiciary Committee's Questionnaire, He Is A Member Of A 1985 Syndicate That Is Not Closed, Meaning It Is Still Liable For Losses." (Neil A. Lewis, "Nominee Has A Net Worth Of $8 Million," The New York Times, 6/11/94)

- "A Person Who Is A Name In Lloyd's Agrees To Help Underwrite A Group Of Policies. Many People Who Became Names In Syndicates In The 1980's Were Bankrupted After They Had Insured Companies Against Environmental Cleanup Costs And Damages Resulting From Lawsuits Involving Asbestos, Both Of Which Generated Huge, Huge Liabilities." (Neil A. Lewis, "Nominee Has A Net Worth Of $8 Million," The New York Times, 6/11/94)

- "[White House Counsel Lloyd] Cutler Said That Breyer Did Decide To Recuse, Or Remove, Himself From Sitting On Asbestos Cases 'Once It Became Generally Clear That Lloyd's Had Some Risk In Asbestos Cases.'" (Timothy M. Phelps and Michael Weber, "Supreme Court Conflict?" Newsday, 6/24/94)

"Asked Why Breyer Did Not Then Step Out Of Superfund Cases As Well, Cutler Said There Was 'A Great Deal Of Publicity' About Lloyd's Involvement With Asbestos And That He Had Recused Himself There 'Out Of An Abundance Of Caution.'" (Timothy M. Phelps and Michael Weber, "Supreme Court Conflict?" Newsday, 6/24/94)

- "In Fact There Have Been Numerous News Articles About Lloyds' Exposure To Superfund Liability." (Timothy M. Phelps and Michael Weber, "Supreme Court Conflict?" Newsday, 6/24/94)

"Lloyd's is a market, rather than a corporation, and individual investors face unlimited liability. Breyer invested in a syndicate, Merrett 418, that underwrote risks whose extent are still unknown -- covering asbestos, pollution and other environmental hazards." Liability Week, Aug. 1, 1994.

Ethics Experts Questioned Breyer Ruling On Cases Where He Had Financial Interest:

"Breyer's Financial Disclosure Statements Filed With The Judicial Ethics Committee In Washington Reveal That The Judge ... Had Between $ 250,000 And $ 500,000 Invested In The Lloyd's Of London Insurance Company In The Mid And Late 1980s." (Timothy M. Phelps and Michael Weber, "Supreme Court Conflict?" Newsday, 6/24/94)

- "Judge Breyer Was A Member Of Lloyd's From 1978 Through 1988. His Syndicate Memberships Included Marine Syndicate 418 In 1985, An Account That Remains Open With Reported Total Losses Of $245 Million Through 1993." (Gavin Souter, "Breyer Superfund Rulings Raise Ethics Questions," Business Insurance, 7/4/94)

"Monroe Freedman, A Law Professor At Hofstra University And A Leading Expert On Legal Ethics, Said In An Interview That Because Of Breyer's Interest In Lloyd's He Should Have, Under Federal Law, Either Recused Himself From Participation In Superfund And Asbestos Cases Or, At The Very Least, Informed The Parties To The Lawsuits So That They Could Raise An Objection." (Timothy M. Phelps and Michael Weber, "Supreme Court Conflict?" Newsday, 6/24/94)

- Freeman: "There was conflict of interest. He still stands to lose money (at Lloyd's), but somewhat less money than he would have because of the decisions he made." (Gavin Souter, "Breyer Superfund Rulings Raise Ethics Questions," Business Insurance, 7/4/94)

In 1994, Sen. Ted Kennedy (D-MA) Took The High Road When Judge Stephen Breyer Was Questioned Over Recusals:

"Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, A Strong Supporter Who Is Expected To Introduce The Judge At The Hearing, Issued A Statement Backing Breyer. 'Judge Breyer's Actions Were Fully Consistent With The Code Of Judicial Ethics. He Recused Himself From Asbestos Cases, And Participated In No Other Cases Where He Knew He Might Have Any Financial Interest. It Is Hard To See How He Could Have Done More,' Kennedy Said." (Ana Puga, "Breyer's Financial Interests Detailed," The Boston Globe, 6/25/94)

"Sen. Edward M. Kennedy And Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, Democrat Of Ohio, Squabbled Over Whether Breyer Had Exercised Poor Judgment In Ruling On Environmental Cases While He Held Investments In A Firm That Insures Polluters." (Ana Puga, "Biden Accuses Breyer Of Elitism," The Boston Globe, 7/15/94)

- "Metzenbaum Appeared To Irritate Kennedy, Biden And Sen. Orrin G. Hatch Of Utah, The Committee's Senior Republican, By Raising Questions About Breyer's Investments In Lloyd's Of London, A Subject The Committee Leaders Had Hoped To Dismiss On Tuesday When Breyer Vowed To Divest Himself Of The Investment." (Ana Puga, "Biden Accuses Breyer Of Elitism," The Boston Globe, 7/15/94)

- Kennedy: "You've asked for my opinion whether Judge Breyer's committed a violation of judicial ethics in investing in Lloyds name and insurance underwriting while being a Federal Judge. In my opinion, there was no violation of judicial ethics." (Sen. Edward Kennedy, Committee On The Judiciary, U.S. Senate, Hearing, 7/14/94)

IN 2006: DEMOCRATS PLAY PARTISAN POLITICS AGAINST CIRCUIT COURT NOMINEE TERRENCE BOYLE

Ethics Experts And Lawyers In The Cases Dismiss Claims Against Boyle:

Jonathan Turley, A Legal Ethics Expert And Professor Of Law At George Washington University: "For Judge Boyle, the problem may be more political than legal." ("Ethics Allegations Stir Democrats Opposed To Boyle Nomination," The Associated Press, 5/5/06)

"[Doug Kendall, Executive Director Of Community Rights Counsel, A Nonprofit Group That Works To Expose Ethical Conflicts Of Judges], Who Also Reviewed Boyle's Records, Said There's Not Enough Money Involved To Conclude That Boyle Made Any Rulings For Personal Financial Gain." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

- "All Of The Stock Holdings At Issue Were Valued Below The $15,000 Mark According To His Financial Disclosure Forms, And Many Were Worth Substantially Less." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

"Several Lawyers Litigating Against The Companies In Which Boyle Had Financial Interests Said They Trusted Boyle And Were Not Bothered By His Participation In The Cases, Even When He Had Ruled Against Them." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

- "Jerry Leonard, For Example, Is A Raleigh Lawyer Who Brought A Case Against AT&T, In Which Boyle Made Only One Routine, Administrative Order." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)
    - "A Former Judge And Self-Described 'Wide-Eyed Liberal,' Leonard Said He Shares The View Of Many Local Lawyers That Boyle Is Fair-Minded, And 'Probably The Best Judge We Have Around Here.'" (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)
- "Andy Whiteman Of Hartzell & Whiteman In Raleigh, Who Had A Client In One Of The Cases Cited In The Report, Told The News & Observer Of Raleigh That Boyle Was Not Unfair To His Client In His Handling Of The Disability Case Against General Electric." ("Ethics Allegations Stir Democrats Opposed To Boyle Nomination," The Associated Press, 5/5/06)

Judge Terrence Boyle Is Accused Of Deciding Cases Where He Had A Financial Interest:

"[S]ince His May 2001 Nomination, Boyle Has Issued Orders In At Least Nine Cases That Involved Five Different Corporations In Which He Reported Stock Holdings, According To Financial And Court Documents." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

- "In March 2004 ... He Also Ruled In Favor Of Midway Airlines In A Bankruptcy Case. At That Time, Boyle Owned Stock In Midway In A Trust Account. (The Stock Was Basically Worthless Because Of The Bankruptcy, Though He Still Listed It As A Financial Investment.)" (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

- "On Sept. 17, 2004, He Ruled Against Deborah Virgil, Whose 11-Year-Old Son, Craig, Had Been Hit And Killed By An Amtrak Train In Elm City, N.C., In March 2003." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

    - "Virgil Sued The Conductor, Amtrak And CSX Transportation, The Company That Owned And Operated The Tracks. Boyle Reported Stock Holdings In Parent Company CSX Corp. While He Presided Over The Case." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

- "Starting In 2002, Terrence W. Boyle, A Longtime Federal District Court Judge In North Carolina, Presided Over A Lawsuit Against General Electric, In Which The Corporation Stood Accused Of Illegally Denying Disability Benefits To A Long-Standing Employee." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

    - "Deep Into The Case, On Jan. 15, 2004, Judge Boyle Bought Stock In General Electric, According To A Review Of His Financial Filings. Two Months Later, He Made His Ruling: Boyle Shot Down The Plaintiff's Claims ... Granting Him Only A Fraction Of The Money In Short-Term Compensation ..." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

- "In A Case In 2002 Against America Online And Other Companies, One Plaintiff Did Request That Judge Boyle Recuse Himself, But Boyle Refused. The Plaintiff Alleged He Was Biased Against Her – Though, Ironically, She Did Not Know At The Time Of Boyle's Reported Stock Holdings In AOL Time Warner, The Parent Company Of America Online." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

- "Early In His Nomination Process In 2001 ... [Boyle] Was In The Middle Of A Case Involving Quintiles Transnational, A Pharmaceutical Services Company In Which He Reported Stock Holdings, And On Whose Behalf He Had Been Issuing Favorable Rulings." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

"In Most Of The Cases, Boyle Ruled In Favor Of The Companies In Which He Had Financial Interests -- Though His Participation Was A Violation Of The Law Regardless Of How He Ruled." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

- "Federal Law And The Official Code Of Conduct For U.S. Judges Explicitly Prohibit Judges From Sitting On Such Cases – No Matter How Small Their Stock Holdings – In Order To Ensure Public Trust In The Judicial System." (Will Evans, "Controversial Bush Judge Broke Ethics Law," Salon.Com, 5/1/06)

Democrats Using Conflict Of Interest Allegations To Obstruct Boyle's Nomination:

"[Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV)] Said He Is Considering A Filibuster Of [Judge Terrance Boyle Because He] ... Ruled In A Case In Which He Had A Clear Conflict Of Interest." (Laurie Kellman, "Reid Mulls Filibuster Of Judicial Nominees," The Associated Press, 5/2/06)

- "Reid Said He Had Read In An Online Article That Boyle Had Bought Stock In General Electric Midway Through Presiding Over A Pension Lawsuit Against The Company. Then Boyle Ruled Against The Plaintiff's Claims Of Long-Term And Pension Disability Benefits." (Laurie Kellman, "Reid Mulls Filibuster Of Judicial Nominees," The Associated Press, 5/2/06)

"This Time, Reid And Other Democrats Are Pointing To A Report By Salon.Com And The Center For Investigative Reporting. The Report Said That Since Boyle's May 2001 Nomination To The Appeals Court, He Has Issued Orders In At Least Nine Cases That Involved Five Different Corporations In Which He Reported Stock Holdings." (Laurie Kellman, "Reid Mulls Filibuster Of Judicial Nominees," The Associated Press, 5/2/06)

- Sen. Harry Reid (D-NV): "He not only shouldn't be a trial court Judge as he is, but to think that he should be elevated to a Circuit Court of Appeals is outrageous." (Laurie Kellman, "Reid Mulls Filibuster Of Judicial Nominees," The Associated Press, 5/2/06)

- Sen. Patrick Leahy (D-VT): "Whether or not it turns out that Judge Boyle broke federal law or canons of judicial ethics, these types of conflicts of interest have no place on the federal bench." ("Ethics Allegations Stir Democrats Opposed To Boyle Nomination," The Associated Press, 5/5/06)

Besides the body blow from the Court this week that has me doubting Article III, I'm great. Family is good, Keisler is nominated to the dc circuit, McCallum is confirmed as ambaSsador to Australia (both this week), Gorsuch is through committee for the 10th Circuit. Soon I'll have friends in high places!

Time running short on nomination
By M.E. Sprengelmeyer, Rocky Mountain News

WASHINGTON — Time is running out before a Colorado judicial nomination could get stalled in the U.S. Senate's summer swoon.

President Bush has nominated attorney and legal scholar Neil Gorsuch to fill a seat on the Denver-based 10th Circuit Court of Appeals, and backers hope he gets a hearing in the Senate Judiciary Committee in the next few weeks.

But if there's a delay and the committee can't agree to advance the nomination by the Senate's August recess, it's unlikely he can be win final Senate confirmation by the end of the year, said Sean Conway, chief of staff to Sen. Wayne Allard, R-Loveland.

That prospect, and the lengthy delay in confirming an earlier 10th Circuit nominee, Tim Tymkovich, prompted Allard to hand-deliver a letter to Senate Judiciary Committee chairman Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., this week asking him to expedite Gorsuch's confirmation.

"What we're trying to do is get this process moving," Allard chief of staff Sean Conway said Thursday. "What pushed this is we do not want a repeat of the Tymkovich situation where we had a vacancy on the court for over two years."

"Sen. Allard just doesn't feel it's prudent to have a vacancy on an important appeals court like this, particularly with a non-controversial nominee."

So far, no overt opposition has emerged to Gorsuch's nomination, but arcane Senate procedures have left the timing of his pending confirmation hearings up in the air.

By Senate tradition, the Judiciary Committee does not move forward with confirmation hearings until a nominee's two home-state Senators deliver so-called "blue slips" indicating they approve going forward.

In the past, Allard has used that procedure to block two of former President Bill Clinton's Colorado judicial nominees.

As of Thursday afternoon, Sen. Ken Salazar, D-Denver, had not delivered his "blue slip" on Gorsuch, but spokesman Drew Nannis said there was no intent to delay Gorsuch and that Salazar's sign-off could come within a day or two.

Frist Sets Stage for Vote on 9th Circuit Nominee
By Robert Bluey
A well-placed source tells me tonight that Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R.-Tenn.) has scheduled time on Monday at 5:30 p.m. to vote on the confirmation of Sandra Segal Ikuta, a nominee for the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Ikuta doesn't have the name recognition of some other appellate court nominees, but with pressure mounting on Senate Republicans to act on judges, Frist's move demonstrates once again that he is listening to the base.

According to Law.com, Ikuta is a "moderate conservative," who is supported by both Republicans and Democrats. [T]he list of people who do know her is significant. Among them, former Secretary of State Warren Christopher (who put in a good word with Sen. Dianne Feinstein), 9th Circuit Judge Alex Kozinski, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor (she clerked for both) and Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger (her current boss).

Ikuta currently serves as the general counsel to the California Resources Agency. She'll be replacing Judge James R. Browning, who is apparently the last appellate court judge remaining from the Kennedy Administration

UPDATE -- 1:27 a.m.: I'm hearing back from people with a stake in the judicial fight, and while they're pleased to see Frist move Ikuta to a vote, they're disappointed he didn't pick one of the well-known nominees I alluded to in my post. They include Terrence Boyle, William Haynes, William Myers or Michael Wallace.

One source remarked:
"If the leader was listening to his base, he would be mounting defenses of Boyle, Haynes, Myers, and Wallace, and considering moving any of them -- especially Boyle, who will be on the floor one year this Friday -- rather than giving the Dems an easy pass to vote for Ikuta. It creates the illusion of action while avoiding the hard work conservatives are actually advocating."

The friends of Lindsey Graham
By Paul Mirengoff

Sen. Lindsey Graham has written a "Dear Friends" letter in which he explains his reservations about the nomination of Jim Haynes to the Fourth Circuit. He states that these reservations are based on the opposition of "very distinguished military leaders" to the Haynes nomination. These leaders turn out to be Retired Rear Admiral John Hutson and Retired Rear Admiral Donald Guter. As I have noted, Hutson is a partisan Democrat who served as Navy JAG under Clinton and retired before Haynes became General Counsel of the Defense Department. Guter, Hutson's successor and crony, worked with Haynes for only a short period of time. His opposition apparently is based on the incoherent prediction that, as a judge, Haynes would be unable to resist orders from his superiors.

Graham also cites Retired Brigadier General Edward Rodriguez of the United States Air Force Reserves. But, as I understand it, Rodriguez left active duty in 1974, stayed with the reserves until 1999, and never worked with Haynes. Why Graham relies on partisans with little or no first hand knowledge, while ignoring the pro-Haynes views of, say, Major General (ret.) Michael Marchand who served with Haynes until mid-2005, is unclear.

Graham also refers darkly to "memos written by military legal officers to the civilian leaders in the Department of Defense regarding detainees." He notes that military lawyers "express[ed] grave concerns about confusing and legally flawed interrogation policies" and the potential adverse consequences to the service men who would carry them out.

As I understand it, Graham is talking here about memos that the JAGs wrote about proposed interrogation methods when they participated in the interrogation working group in 2003. The JAGs in fact did express concerns, but the concerns were addressed in the final set of interrogation methods. This final document achieved general consensus (even Haynes critic Alberto Mora apparently was on board), although the document did not conform entirely to the wishes of the JAGs.

Thus, contrary to the claim that Haynes was unwilling to listen to the military, the JAGs were heard out, and their concerns were addressed. As Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Romig, the Army's top lawyer, testified before a subcommittee chaired by Sen. Graham (as reported in the Washington Post), the criticism "was accepted in some cases, maybe not in all cases. It did modify the proposed list of policies and procedures."

Finally, Graham's letter fails to address the most important questions that arise from his course of conduct -- what has his role been in preventing the Haynes nomination from coming to a vote, and will he now commit to allowing such a vote following a full and fair debate?

Stop the nomination games
It's time to pass Specter's reforms to the irresponsible handling of judicial nominations.
By Jeffrey Lord

Jeffrey Lord is the author of "The Borking Rebellion," an inside look at the U.S. Senate's judicial confirmation process

There they go again.

It's bad enough that one political party in charge of the U.S. Senate plays games with the federal judiciary when the other party controls the White House. Now we have members of the same party playing games when their own party controls the White House. Either way, the result is bad for federal judges.

The latest incident involves Sen. Lindsey Graham (R., S.C.) and a Bush nominee for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. The nominee, William "Jim" Haynes, is currently the general counsel at the Pentagon. As such, he has played a role in the issue of the treatment of detainees captured on the battlefields of Afghanistan and Iraq. Graham, a military lawyer himself, apparently objects to Haynes and is responding to critics in the military community that the policies on detainees Haynes helped to construct make him unfit for the appeals court.

Fair enough. While I disagree with this assessment, this has been used as yet another excuse to abuse the Senate's judicial confirmation process.
Haynes' nomination has been sitting in the Senate Judiciary Committee for three years without a vote. Repeated news accounts finger Graham, a committee member, as the senator who is quietly keeping Haynes from getting that vote. Even more amazing, there are multiple media stories that Sen. John McCain (R., Ariz.), a potential presidential candidate, is urging Graham on.

Once again, members of the U.S. Senate are vividly demonstrating why the public has such increasing contempt for things political. Not unlike the way Pennsylvania state legislators of both parties united to give themselves a pay raise in the middle of the night, Republican and Democratic U.S. senators seem determined to show the public that there are not two political parties in Washington, but three: the Republicans, the Democrats and the Senate Party. The latter has a mere 100 members and is thoroughly bipartisan.

So Graham quietly signals his colleagues that he wants to obstruct the confirmation process and - presto! - the senator gets his wish. Never mind that the rules for selecting senators are hard and fast and not to be tampered with. Forget that McCain and any other interested presidential candidate depend on the rules for how we elect a president. It's only the third branch of government that doesn't get the same respect.

If Graham were informed today that his next election were moved up from 2008 to next week, he would correctly cry foul. Yet he shows not the slightest concern over letting a judicial nominee cool his heels for three years.

Even more amazing is the reported conduct of McCain. Forget the sheer politics of his infuriating the very conservatives he will need to get nominated. Does he seriously believe that his conduct in this matter will not provide some ammunition for some future senator to stymie the judicial nominations of a President McCain?

For that matter, every senator with an eye on the White House in 2008 should be hustling to make sure Haynes and other nominees are treated fairly. After senatorial abuse of the process reaching back to at least the Reagan administration, what makes any Democrat think things will change if the next president's name is Clinton, Kerry or Feingold?

Several years ago, Pennsylvania's own Sen. Arlen Specter proposed a series of excellent reforms that would bring a halt to what has become an out-of-control judicial confirmation process. They featured a timeline for hearings, committee votes and floor votes. If adopted, the rule changes would apply to all nominees of all presidents, regardless of which party controlled the Senate.

For no other reason than simple fairness, not to mention respect for the federal judiciary, it's time to pass those Specter reforms.
Of course, there will be bipartisan resistance from senators more interested in self-granted perks than the kind of impartial rules senators themselves look to as the lifeblood of their role as elected officials under the Constitution.

But Specter believes in these reforms and, as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, he is in exactly the right place to get fair treatment for Haynes and finally reform the U.S. Senate's judicial confirmation process for good. After decades of senatorial mistreatment of judicial nominees, isn't it about time?
Pennsylvanians of all political stripes who are interested in seeing that the federal judiciary gets the same fairness senators demand for themselves should insist that their senior senator use his considerable yet momentary power to pass the Specter reforms.

Quit De Wining about the Santorum Spectercle
By Jill Stanek

A few weeks ago, I sent an e-mail to my list, encouraging Pennsylvania pro-lifers to support Republican Rick Santorum in his rebid for the U.S. Senate against Democrat Bob Casey.

Both are pro-life, but because Santorum and the White House supported pro-abortion incumbent Arlen Specter in the 2004 Republican primary against pro-lifer Pat Toomey, pro-lifers consider him a traitor. Specter won 51-49 percent. Pro-lifers blame Santorum and Bush for the edge.

This was typical of negative responses I received regarding my e-mail:

Sorry – just can't do it. ... These Republicans must understand there is a price to be paid for going against their pro-life/Christian base.

Pro-abort politicians understand that with one just false step, their liberal base will leave them. ... We, on the other hand, keep forgiving and forgiving our politicians for stabbing us in the back. No more.

Let Rick Santorum be the example to all the other Republican politicians that we will not allow them to play games with the lives of our unborn children, and if they do, they will be gone.

I wish Santorum had not supported Specter. But would turning from Santorum help or hurt the pro-life cause?

I submit it would hurt, badly.

Read what Manuel Miranda wrote. Miranda is an attorney and former U.S. Senate staffer who lost his job over the Democrat judicial memo flak. Miranda now leads the Third Branch Conference, a group promoting the advancement of conservative federal judges through the confirmation process. He said:

In my time in the Senate, I came to meet the vain and vainglorious, all with certificates of election. I came to learn that most senators are quite replaceable. ...

I want to tell you that in my observation there was one Republican senator who is not replaceable. In fact, he was the indispensable man on all of the issues that values voters care about. Even if we can nitpick, no one represents us more consummately. That man, of course, is Rick Santorum. ...

Simply put, without him many things that you and I care about would simply not be championed by anyone else, or at least not as effectively. Even now when you hear me express disappointment on the judge issue, I suspect that lack of vision from the GOP may well be because Rick is understandably busy with his overwhelming campaign. Remember that it was Santorum who led the 40-hour debate of 2003. ...

As the chairman of the Senate Republican Conference, the third-ranking leadership position, Rick ... asks senators to take one for the team from time to time. Rick stands by them in moments when loyalty counts. And in a leader, I have learned the hard way that loyalty counts.

That includes in elections. ... [B]ecause Rick asked Arlen Specter very often to take one for the team, Rick stood by him in 2004. And I can tell you, as one who doubted, that the loyalty has been repaid and it has worked out well. ...

Leaders in the Senate speak to the press all the more often, where others hide, and all the more often they are targeted. It is all the more difficult when, as Rick does, you speak in the language of Judeo Christian morality, or say the obvious that no one else dare speak. ...

[Here is] what I said of Rick in September in an Opinion Journal article:

"No Republican senator has done more to make the confirmation of John Roberts possible, because no Republican senator is more responsible for making the judiciary issue a national electoral winner for Republicans, or for making colleagues understand its significance to constituents. ..."

Judges are key to the pro-life issue, and their significance in our battle points to a second reason we cannot lose Santorum. It would risk losing the Republican Senate majority.

Wrote Hugh Hewitt in World Magazine May 27:

If the Republicans lose control of the United States Senate, or even forfeit a net of three seats in the upper body of the Congress, it is almost certain that George W. Bush will not be able to get a third conservative justice confirmed should the opportunity arise.

If Patrick Leahy returns to the chairmanship of the Senate's Judiciary Committee ... no genuine judicial conservative will clear the first hurdle on the way to confirmation. Sen. Leahy's record proves that.

Even if the GOP holds a nominal majority after the smoke clears in November, expect unbreakable filibusters if there are not at least 50 solid votes to invoke the "constitutional option" which the Democrats dread. ...

So a Supreme Court poised to return to originalist practices and traditional decision making will in fact be just a vote or two in the Senate beyond reach.
And then the "purists" will have their "victory."

Politics is a messy business. But majorities require compromise and commitment. The best result is to threaten disengagement, and then to work harder than ever for a conservative triumph.

On June 3, Hewitt wrote in World about pro-life malaise surrounding Ohio Republican Sen. Mike DeWine. He could have been speaking of Santorum:
[O]pposition to a DeWine re-election seems almost bizarrely contrary to the approach a pro-life, pro-Second Amendment, pro-property rights, or pro-national security conservative should take. ...

If Buckeye State evangelicals carefully and prudently consider the best interests of the country and the enormous power of a single Senate vote as well as the closeness of the division on the U.S. Supreme Court, they should not withhold support from Mike DeWine; they should instead send in their small or large checks and volunteer to walk precincts.

A Senate majority is a terrible thing to throw away.

Conservative Coalition Wants Flag Amendment on Back Burner
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) -- A coalition of conservative groups wants time set aside later this month for debate on the proposed constitutional amendment to be spent instead on pending judicial nominations.
At least 100 groups signed a letter that was to be sent Tuesday to Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn.; Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah and the Senate sponsor of the amendment; and all the Republican senators.
Among the groups were the Third Branch Conference, Coalitions for America, American Family Association, 60 Plus Association and the Family Research Council.
The groups do not oppose the amendment, which would allow Congress to pass a law outlawing the physical desecration of the U.S. flag, but say a majority of conservatives would rather see the time spent on getting judges approved, the Deseret Morning News reported.
"You are planning to devote valuable Senate floor time to debating a flag-desecration constitutional amendment," according to the letter. "While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time."
Out of 125 conservative organization leaders who responded to a survey on whether the flag-burning amendment is a priority to get done before Nov. 1, only 18 put it toward the top of the list, according to the letter. And those 18 agreed to put judges over the flag amendment when told to pick between the two.
"We all agree that debate on judicial nominations is time better spent, and time well spent early to build up steam," according to the letter.
The letter points to 9th Circuit nominee William Myers, and 4th Circuit nominees Terrence Boyle and William Haynes as those waiting for confirmation that should be addressed.
Hatch said, "There's no reason why we can't consider the flag amendment along with pending judicial nominations.
"Ultimately, the majority leader runs the floor schedule. He knows that with 60 senators publicly behind the amendment, and several more who have voted for it in the past, we're primed to bring this to the floor for a vote. But that doesn't mean we can't consider nominations as well."
Third Branch Conference Chairman Manuel Miranda, a former Hatch aide, said time is precious on the Senate's election-year calendar and that the flag amendment is "kind of yesterday's issue."
Frist's office said he has not seen the letter yet but is committed to the judicial nominees and the flag amendment. "Both issues are important," a spokeswoman said.

Conservative Grassroots Demand Senate Action on Stalled Judicial Nominees
Over 5,000 Messages to Senate GOP in One Day
WASHINGTON, DC – William Greene, President of the conservative online activist organization RightMarch.com, has announced that over five thousand messages were sent through his group's website to Senate Republicans in a single day, demanding that they move circuit nominees to an honest up-or-down vote, and that they spend scheduled Senate floor time in vigorous debate.
"Senate Republicans have 'dropped the ball' on pushing President Bush's conservative judicial nominees," said William Greene, President of RightMarch.com. "Their conservative base will simply not accept the status quo on this issue. They recognize that it's time to demand that they devote more effort on and off the Senate floor to confirming the President's circuit court nominees."
Today the circuit courts have 18 vacancies. They are nearly 10 percent vacant and President Bush has the lowest confirmation rate of circuit court nominations for any president, below 75 percent. "From where I sit, it looks like the Majority is ignoring the impact of the nominations debate on its ability to gain the support of those small margins of voters that the Majority needs to secure unobstructed confirmations," said Greene. "We need to not only remind GOP Senators of their duty, but we also should be concerned that if the Majority that assured the confirmation votes of Chief Justice Roberts and Justice Alito lose just one seat in the next election, the future of the Supreme Court and the federal appellate bench will again be imperiled by use of filibusters. The conservative grassroots – the base that elected this majority – is demanding that this issue be given 'front-burner' status immediately."
RightMarch.com is a web-based, conservative organization, dedicated to giving hundreds of thousands of hardworking, patriotic Americans across the country a strong collective voice in the political process. For more information, visit www.RightMarch.com.

Proceed with Haynes' nomination

Nominees for judicial appoint-ments deserve to be voted on, and William James Haynes II, a nominee to the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, is no exception. In view of his service and qualifications, and the Senate's previous consideration of Mr. Haynes for the judgeship, as well as for Defense posts, it's safe to say that his nomination is long overdue for debate.

Mr. Haynes was nominated initially by President Bush in 2003, and his nomination was sent to the Senate by its Judiciary Committee in 2004. But before the nomination could be considered by the full Senate, the congressional session ended. Consequently, the administration had to renominate him in 2005.

Advancing judicial nominations hasn't been easy in the partisan atmosphere of the Senate, but some of Mr. Haynes' advocates are pointing the finger at a prominent Republican on the Judiciary Committee, South Carolina's Lindsey Graham. That's surprising, since Sen. Graham has taken a leadership role in getting the judicial logjam unstuck, and at some political risk.

But Mr. Haynes' nomination is expressly opposed by Sen. John McCain, an ally of Sen. Graham. And both have cited concerns over Mr. Haynes' advice to the administration on captured enemy combatants facing potential terrorist charges, according to a report in Monday's Post and Courier. But Sen. Graham denies that he is delaying Mr. Haynes' nomination in committee, in comments to The Hill, a newspaper covering Congress.

Mr. Haynes' professional qualifications are outstanding. So is his long service to the nation. A Harvard Law School graduate, he was previously confirmed unanimously by the Senate as general counsel of the Department of Defense in 2001 and as general counsel of the Department of the Army in 1990.

As former Judiciary Committee Chairman Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, told The Hill newspaper, 'Haynes is one of the better nominees that I've seen. I can't believe what the Democrats are doing to him. I sure hope no Republican is doing it.'

Sen. Graham's spokesman, Kevin Bishop, had this to say in our report: 'The role Mr. Haynes played as DOD general counsel formulating these [detainee] policies and whether he was receptive to legal advice from the military will be a line of inquiry when his nomination is brought up.'

Fair enough. The sooner his nomination is brought up the better.

Republican Activists Urge Senate to Vote on Judicial Nominees
By James Rowley

June 12 (Bloomberg) -- Republican activists want their allies in the U.S. Senate to revive the debate over President George W. Bush's judicial nominees to mobilize the party's core voters for the November elections. Republicans risk losing one or both houses of Congress unless the base is motivated to vote, the activists warned at a news conference in Washington. They urged Senate Republican leader Bill Frist of Tennessee to focus on judicial nominees instead of a proposed constitutional amendment to ban flag burning that is set for debate this month.
"Our constituents will not be put off being told that the Senate has more pressing business than judicial nominees,'" said Jan LaRue, chief counsel of Concerned Women For America. Unless Senate Republicans confirm more judicial nominees, ``come Nov. 8, the votes they want may not be there."
The flag-burning amendment is more a symbolic issue than judicial nominations, which have concerned voters in past elections since Bush took office, said Manuel Miranda, a former Senate Republican aide who heads the Third Branch Conference.
"Appealing only with symbolic issues, is, in essence, patronizing," Miranda told reporters. Still, he defended Frist's doomed effort to pass legislation to ban same-sex marriage because that issue "is very much linked to our concern for the judiciary."
Making a Difference
David Keene, chairman of the American Conservative Union, said a debate on judges is a good way for Republicans to distinguish themselves from Democrats in November.

Conservatives are more likely to vote "if they are happy, active and energized," he told reporters.
Frist has tried to avoid battles over nominees who have generated the most controversy. After vowing earlier this year to seek a vote on Terrence Boyle, nominated to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, he has ducked questions about plans to seek Senate votes on Boyle and another nominee for the same Richmond-based court, William J. Haynes II.

Boyle, 60, a federal trial court judge in North Carolina, is accused of breaking a conflict-of-interest law by purchasing stock in General Electric Co. while overseeing a case involving an employee in a pension dispute with the company. Boyle ruled in favor of the company. Those allegations emerged after Frist had announced his plan to seek a Senate vote on Boyle, who Bush first nominated five years ago.
Suspected Terrorists
Haynes, 48, the Defense Department's general counsel, faces questions from Republicans and Democrats alike over his role in drafting the policies for detaining and interrogating suspected terrorists.
Critics say those policies blur legal prohibitions on abuse of prisoners, leading to the torture of captives at the Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq. About a dozen soldiers have been prosecuted for the alleged mistreatment.
Activists last week urged South Carolina Republican Senator Lindsey Graham to drop his objections to Haynes and permit a vote by the Judiciary Committee on his nomination.
Graham, acknowledging he has concerns about Haynes's role in drafting the detention and interrogation policies, has declined to say how he would vote on the nomination.
In a June 8 letter to the activists, he said he took "very seriously" the criticisms by two retired Navy judge advocate generals who opposed Haynes. "I am troubled that very distinguished military leaders have expressed strong opposition to the Haynes nomination," the letter said.
Second Hearing
Miranda said he wouldn't oppose a second confirmation hearing for Haynes, who was questioned by the committee before the revelations about Abu Ghraib.
Haynes's nomination is still in the Judiciary Committee, where Democrats say they would ask for another hearing before the panel votes to send the appointment to the full Senate.
"Jim Haynes does not condone torture," Republican activist Pat M. Woodward Jr., told reporters. Opponents "are trying to blame Jim Haynes for this administration's policies in the war on terror."
More than 60 activists, including Paul Weyrich of Coalitions for America and Donald E. Wildmon of the American family Association, have signed a letter urging Republican leaders to drop the flag-burning debate in favor of judicial nominations.

Conservative Leaders Ask Frist To Emphasize Judges
CONGRESS DAILY PM
by Greta Wodele

More than 60 conservative leaders today called on Senate Majority Leader Frist to set aside this month's planned debate on a constitutional amendment to ban flag burning and instead schedule votes on several pending appellate court nominations. "We write to remind you of your duty, but also because we are concerned that if the majority that assured the confirmation votes of Chief Justice Roberts and Justice [Samuel] Alito lose just one seat in the next election, the future of the Supreme Court and the federal appellate bench will again be imperiled by use of filibusters," members of the coalition of conservative groups wrote in a letter to Frist and Republican senators. The group, which is expected to pick up nearly 100 signatures, plans to send the letter Tuesday. The coalition argued the judges debate, which has pitted Republicans against Democrats, ranks higher in surveys with conservatives than the flag burning proposal.

Frist's spokeswoman today responded that the flag burning amendment is a key proposal to Americans, especially for veterans as well as soldiers in Iraq and Afghanistan. She added that Frist has "methodically" pushed through several of President Bush's judicial picks and would continue to do so this year. The spokeswoman declined to give a timeline for scheduling a vote on pending nominees. The Senate is slated to vote on the flag proposal at the end of the month. One conservative group, Americans for Tax Reform, opted against signing onto the coalition's letter and instead sent its own letter encouraging Frist to schedule votes on judicial nominees.

Manuel Miranda, executive director of the conservative Third Branch Conference, praised Frist today for his previous efforts on judicial nominees, but argued Republicans must demand the majority leader schedule votes for the pending judicial nominees in order to help energize conservative voters this fall. "It will get out small margins," Miranda told reporters, conceding the issue would not mobilize large numbers of conservative voters. "It is by small margins that several [GOP] senators currently hold their seats." Miranda said the judge debate is a "signature issue" for Frist, who would need conservatives for a potential White House bid in 2008. "He began with a bang, but if he ends on a whimper that could hurt him," Miranda said. "We want to help him." One GOP Senate aide dismissed Miranda's news conference today as a media ploy to pressure Republicans on a single issue. "The 'Flag Amendment' is not preventing movement on judges," said the aide, arguing the flag proposal gave conservatives a "juicier hook" than other legislative measures slated for floor debate this year.

Miranda said he expects Frist to commit to a vote on Terrence Boyle's nomination to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals before the July Fourth recess. But conservatives worry that Frist and GOP leaders will not continue pushing votes on other pending judges in the months leading up to the November elections. "Under the old Senate tradition, judges stop after June and July," said Miranda. Frist's spokeswoman declined to comment about whether Frist would schedule a vote on Boyle's nomination before next month.

Conservative activists question Sen. Bill Frist's floor priorities
By Jonathan Allen

Senate Republican leaders hope to rally their base this week by passing a constitutional amendment banning flag desecration, but some GOP activists are balking at the move.

"While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time," a coalition of dozens of interest-group leaders wrote to Republican senators in a letter they will send today.

The broadside by nomination-focused conservatives raises the prospect that an effort to fire up conservatives could backfire on Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.) as Republicans try to draw distinctions between the parties before the November election.

The line of attack echoes that of liberal Democrats who argued that last week's debate over a constitutional amendment banning gay marriage showed a Republican Party out of touch with the American public.

The conservative activists, led by Third Branch Conference chairman and former Frist aide Manuel Miranda, warned that Republicans will suffer damage to their majority if they do not escalate a simmering battle over judges before the November elections.

"If Americans continue to see obstruction and hear excuses rather than debate and votes on nominees, senators should not be surprised that, come Nov. 8, the votes they want may not be there," said Jan LaRue, Concerned Women for America's chief counsel.

Miranda, LaRue and others have been pushing Frist to adopt a more confrontational strategy on nominations before the election, in part because they fear Republican losses could doom nominees who are in the pipeline. To this point the conservatives have been on the losing end of a battle over whether to circumvent Senate rules to force simple majority votes on judicial nominations.

That maneuver, known as the "nuclear option," was placed on the shelf last year after a bipartisan group of 14 senators struck a deal in which the seven Republicans said they would oppose the move in exchange for a promise from the seven Democrats that they would support filibusters of judicial nominees only under "extraordinary circumstances," a nebulous term that leaves senators significant wiggle room.

Miranda predicted yesterday that Frist will bring the nomination of 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals nominee Terrence Boyle to the floor soon but that Frist may be reluctant to move other judges.

"They are ready to give us Boyle and end there," he said.

But the Gang of 14 has not given its blessing to Boyle, whose nomination has been plagued by conflict-of-interest allegations. The Gang's seven Democrats wrote to Judiciary Committee Chairman Arlen Specter (R-Pa.) last month to ask for another hearing on Boyle. At the same time, Republicans declined to offer support, raising questions about Boyle's viability on the Senate floor.

But some Republicans argue Frist should schedule "prime time" debates over the nominees and try to force floor votes, even if he is stymied by Democratic filibusters. The battle, they say, will rally the base.

"If opponents engage, we believe the debate itself is a gain," they wrote. "If opponents obstruct through abuse of Senate rules, highlighting that obstruction is vitally important, and not just for political advantage."

While Miranda and his allies raised hackles at a press conference yesterday, many conservatives are clearly pleased with the effort to ban flag burning. It has been among the highest priorities for some conservative interest groups for years.

Tom McClusky, vice president of government affairs for the Family Research Council, acknowledged yesterday that he was "going a little off message" when he thanked Frist for bringing up the amendments to ban flag burning and gay marriage.

The flag-burning issue does not cut neatly across party lines. Majority Whip Mitch McConnell and fellow GOP Sens. Bob Bennett (Utah) and Lincoln Chafee (R.I.) have voted against similar constitutional flag-burning bans, while past Democratic supporters number in double digits.

Democrats said conservatives who think the flag-burning amendment should be on the back burner are half-right.

"The push to confirm radical judicial nominees and the flag amendment both reflect misplaced Republican priorities," said Rebecca Kirszner, spokeswoman for Minority Leader Harry Reid (D-Nev.).

Reid has supported the amendment and will again if it comes to a vote, Kirszner said. "But he still believes this is not what the Senate should be debating right now," she said.

It does not appear that the flag-burning measure will attract enough votes to clear the two-thirds threshold for passage of constitutional amendments.

DESERET MORNING NEWS (Utah)
Flag debate may be superseded
By Suzanne Struglinski

WASHINGTON — A coalition of conservative groups wants Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist to focus Senate floor debate on pending judicial nominations during time set aside later this month for Sen. Orrin Hatch's amendment on flag desecration.

At least 100 groups signed a letter to be sent to Frist, R-Tenn.; Hatch, R-Utah; and all the Republican senators today by the Third Branch Conference, Coalitions for America, American Family Association, 60 Plus Association, the Family Research Council and a long list of others.

The groups do not oppose Hatch's proposed constitutional amendment, which would allow Congress to pass a law outlawing the physical desecration of the U.S. flag, but say a majority of conservatives would rather see the time spent on getting judges approved.

"You are planning to devote valuable Senate floor time to debating a flag-desecration constitutional amendment," according to the letter. "While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time."

Out of 125 conservative organization leaders who responded to a survey on whether the flag-burning amendment is a priority to get done before Nov. 1, only 18 put it toward the top of the list, according to the letter. But all 18 agreed to put judges over the flag amendment when told to pick between the two.

"We all agree that debate on judicial nominations is time better spent, and time well spent early to build up steam," according to the letter.

The letter points to 9th Circuit nominee William Myers, and 4th Circuit nominees Terrence Boyle and William Haynes as those waiting for confirmation that should be addressed.

"There's no reason why we can't consider the flag amendment along with pending judicial nominations," Hatch said. "Ultimately, the majority leader runs the floor schedule. He knows that with 60 senators publicly behind the amendment, and several more who have voted for it in the past, we're primed to bring this to the floor for a vote. But that doesn't mean we can't consider nominations as well."

The amendment had 58 co-sponsors last week, but Sen. Mary Landrieu, D-La., signed on as a co-sponsor Monday moving it up to 59, with Hatch's support making it 60. It will need 67 votes to pass.

Third Branch Conference Chairman Manuel Miranda said "time is precious" on the Senate's election-year calendar and that the flag amendment is "kind of yesterday's issue" so he would rather see the time spent on filling the vacant bench positions.

Miranda, a former Hatch aide who resigned from a position in Frist's office in 2004 amidst a scandal involving accessing Democrat computer files on judicial nominees, said this is nothing personal but that Hatch just happens to be tied to the amendment the majority of the group's members think should be put on hold — at least for now.

"These are important times and that's just the way it is," Miranda said.

Frist's office said he has not seen the letter yet but is committed to the judicial nominees and the flag amendment.

"Both issues are important," a spokeswoman said.

Vote on Judges, Not Flags, Say Conservatives
By Monisha Bansal
CNSNews.com Staff Writer
June 13, 2006

(CNSNews.com) - Sixty conservative leaders sent a letter to Republican senators Monday, urging them to vote on judicial nominations and not "waste time" on a constitutional amendment to ban flag burning.

"We write because we fear that the Majority is ignoring the impact of the nominations debate on its ability to gain the support of those small margins of voters that the Majority needs to secure unobstructed nominations," the letter states.

"By contrast, and for example, you are planning to devote valuable Senate floor time to debating a flag-desecration constitutional amendment," it continues. "While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time."

"Our constituents will not be put off by being told that the Senate has more pressing business than judicial nominees," said Jan LaRue, chief counsel for Concerned Women for America. "We know that judges affect every area of our lives and certainly the most important issues of life, liberty and property.

"We want actions, not excuses," LaRue said at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C. "If Americans continue to see obstruction and hear excuses rather than debate and votes on nominees, senators should not be surprised that come November 8, the votes they want may not be there."

But Carolyn Weyforth, press secretary for Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.), said that since 2003, the Senate has made "considerable progress" on confirming President Bush's judicial nominees, noting that two Supreme Court justices, 28 Circuit Court judges and 116 District Court judges have been confirmed.

"[Frist] remains committed to working hard to confirm qualified judicial nominees and is still discussing with his colleagues which nominee will be brought forward next," Weyforth told Cybercast News Service.

"Both issues of judicial nominees and flag burning are important to him," Weyforth added, "and he feels that both can be addressed on the Senate floor."

The conservative coalition is pushing for votes on William Myers, a nominee for the 9th Circuit, and 4th Circuit nominees Jim Haynes and Judge Terrence Boyle. The group's letter noted that there are currently 18 Circuit Court vacancies, but these three nominees have been waiting more than a year for a vote.

Kim Gandy, president of the National Organization for Women, is strongly opposed to the three nominees.

"The three who are currently being held up are also extremely problematic in terms of their judicial record and their record of their decisions and past political involvement," Gandy told Cybercast News Service . "I think that senators who respect the Constitution and respect individual rights really should be filibustering those nominations."

Gandy added that the push by conservatives is not new.

"The Right has tried to accomplish a vote on judicial nominees from the beginning, and have in fact succeeded in getting onto the bench some of the worst nominees in the history of the planet," Gandy said.

"The reason that so many of the other nominations have gone forward and these haven't is because there is such a strong feeling that they would not be fair judges," Gandy said.

But Manuel Miranda, chairman of the Third Branch Conference, said the appropriate response for senators who agree with such criticisms of the three nominees is to argue and vote against them on the Senate floor, not to filibuster the nominations.

"We need scheduled floor time, as if [confirming judicial nominees] was a priority," Miranda said, "like it is to us."

American Spector's Blog
Waiving the Flag for Judges - Monday, June 12, 2006
Yes, that is supposed to be "waiving," not "waving."
Just a little earlier today, a coalition of conservative groups organized by Manny Miranda of the Third Branch Conference held an important press conference to announce an overwhelming agreeement that, if the choice is between passing an amendment banning flag burning, as the Senate is scheduled to consider this week, or spending the time necessary to confirm more judicial nominees, the groups strongly prefer the confirmation of judges. (In other words, they would waive the flag issue in favor of the judges.) Not that they don't approve of the flag amendment but, in the words of the American Conservative Union's David Keene, the flag issue is "more symbolic than substantive," whereas the confirmation battles are of highest substantive AND political importance. The flag issue, Keene said, Is "not very salient" right now.
Of course, a bunch of GOP senators obviously consider both issues to be the equivalent of "boob bait for the Bubbas," in other words just throwaway crumbs every once in a while to keep the natives on the right from getting too restless. IN other words, the senators consider themselves to be sort of slumming with us either way, rather than understanding that judicial confirmations are crucially important not just for right-wing hot-button issues but for the protection of the Constitution itself more broadly -- AND important as well for political reasons, because voters motivated by the issue can mean the difference between victory and defeat. Such is not necessarily the case with an 18-year-old issue like flag burning. (Of course, in the best of all worlds, the Senate would consider both issues, because it wouldn't waste so much time either on other issues or, even worse, out of session. But that's a topic for another day.)
Random notes and quotes from the press conference:
From Keene: "The purpose of our gathering here today is to let members of the Senate know that we do not have a 29-miute attention span." "On the right, people are CONTINUALLY concerned" about judges. "We hope that people in the Senate don't just say, 'oh, we've done some of that' (i.e. confirmed a single judge or two judges) and move on." Also, making judicial confirmations an issue in Senate campaigns "will work to the benefit of Republican candidates."
From Jan LaRue of Concerned Women of America: Senators must understand that is is "their constitutional DUTY...[to perform their jobs] of advice and consent." "Our constituents will not be put off by being told 'we have more pressing business." LaRue also took direct shots at South Carolina Republican U.S. Sen. Lindsey Graham and, to a lesser extent, at Sen. John McCain, for obstructing 4th Circuit nominee Jim Haynes, a counsel at the Department of Defense.
William Greene of RightMarch.com said judicial confirmations are one of the two or three biggest issues for conservative activists nationwide, and he echoed LaRue (in effect) when he also said that the senators "better answer to their constituents" and that "they have a duty" to give final floor votes to the nominees.
Lars Liebler, a former law clerk for long-embattled circuit court nominee Terrence Boyle (now a federal district judge), noted that of the 16,000 opinions Boyle has joined, a whopping 99% hvae been either NOT appealed or, if appealed, not overturned -- and that of the ones that have been appealed, 93% have been affirmed by higher courts -- which is higher than the national average.
Jeff Lord, author of "The Borking Rebellion" and sometime contributor to the American Spectator web site, called on the Senate to pass reforms long pushed by Judiciary Committee Chairman Arlen Specter that would establish more formal rules and a formal timetable for considering all nominees.
Also speaking were the wonderful Jim Martin of "60-Plus," Tom McClusky of the Family Research Council, and

Pat Woodward of the Republican National Lawyers Association, while Sean Rushton of the Committee for Justice also took questions (as did Miranda, who answered them at length, but I wasn't taking notes as extensively during Q&A).
All I have to add is that these speakers were all correct. Confirming good judicial nominees with dispatch preserves the Constitution, it's good politics...and it's only fair to the nominees themselves to let them know, up or down/yes or no, whether they will become judges, rather than forcing them to put their lives on hold, often at great personal and financial cost, while waiting for senators to preen and play nasty political games.

Conservatives Say Senate Must Champion Judicial Nominees
by Pete Winn, associate editor
Some are setting records for length of time spent waiting for a vote.
At the National Press Club today, a coalition of conservative legal activists called on the Senate and Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn., to make up-or-down votes for the president's judicial nominees a top priority before the fall elections.
Sean Rushton, executive director of the Committee for Justice, said it's crucial the Senate proceed right away. "Many of these nominees have been waiting a record amount of time for a vote, either on the Senate floor or at the Senate Judiciary Committee," he told CitizenLink. "We think it's important to fill these vacancies for the sake of justice and the smooth operation of our federal courts."
But Rushton — along with Manuel Miranda's Third Branch Conference — said that a few Senate Republicans may be willing to allow some nominees languish in order to avoid a confrontation with Democrats over judicial filibusters. That, they say, is unacceptable.
"We're asking that the Senate not only debate those nominees, but take ownership and actually defend these nominees publicly," Rushton said. "The Democrats have been allowed to smear these nominees without adequate rebuttal."
Lars Liebeler, a Washington, D.C., attorney, said one nominee who has been attacked unfairly is his old boss, federal District Judge Terrence Boyle, who was nominated more than five years ago to a seat on the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.
"If you are a district-court judge, you don't have a press secretary or a PR firm who's going to be out there defending you, so you're open to attacks," the former Boyle law clerk said. "It's very difficult for you to stand up and defend yourself. That process, I think is frustrating."
Liebeler, who said he is part of an "apolitical" group of 20 or so former Boyle law clerks who have banded together to set the record straight, said the news media have wrongly attacked the judge's integrity and ethics. To say the allegations are wrong would be an understatement.
"I think people sometimes play pretty fast and loose with the facts," he said. "In this case, it's important to call people on those facts. Judge Boyle is a good judge, and his record proves that beyond question."
Emily Barton, a lawyer in private practice in Chicago who clerked for Boyle for two years, pointed to the fact that his nomination has been languishing for a record-setting time.
"In less than a week, he'll commemorate the fact that it has been one year since his nomination was voted out of committee," she said. "In a month, he'll set a second record by being the longest-standing nominee having been voted out of committee and not having received an up-or-down vote."
She called the situation simply outrageous.
"I think it's time those records stop being set — and we need to set a better precedent for future nominees."
Barton said the allegations against Boyle largely center on whether he ruled in a case in which it is alleged he had a financial interest — and the baseless charges, she said, came not from informed sources, but from a single Web article.
"This was a Web article published by a project which is funded by George Soros," the billionaire liberal activist, she said. "People can draw their own conclusions."
Barton believes the whole judicial-nominations process is in need of an overhaul.
"I think Judge Boyle is just one in a number of nominations that people have attempted to sidetrack for political reasons," she said. "I think the system is at one of the most contentious levels ever in history, and I think it is broken. We need to take a good look, as a policy matter, at what this is doing to the likelihood of getting fair, honest and experienced people on the bench when their personal lives can be attacked like this."
Bruce Hausknecht, judicial analyst at Focus on the Family Action, said one need only think of the name of Miguel Estrada to understand how broken the system is.
"He was filibustered for several years before he gave up and withdrew his own name," he said. "There was also Carolyn Kuhl, a California judge who experienced something similar with her nomination to the 9th Circuit, and she said — my interpretation — "I don't need this" and withdrew her nomination.

Add to the list Henry Saad, who was nominated for the 6th Circuit.
"Just this year, after three years of being filibustered, he withdrew his name and went home," Hausknecht said.
The real trouble, according to Hausknecht, is that good judges who want to serve their country are suffering abuse at the hands of liberal politicians who have a political agenda in obstructing judges.
"Because of that, other potential appellate judges are going to look very hard at whether they truly want to force their families to go through the same type of defamation and slander and obstruction and filibuster that these other good nominees have gone through."
TAKE ACTION:
Please let your senators know you think it's unfair to let the nominees of any president languish for years without the courtesy of an up-or-down vote. Please ask your lawmakers to champion the cause of Judge Terrence Boyle and other nominees.

Family Research Council Joins Conservative Leaders to Urge Action on Judicial Nominees

WASHINGTON, June 12 /U.S. Newswire/ -- Today, Tom McClusky, vice president for Government Affairs at the Family Research Council, joined conservative leaders at a press conference to urge Senate GOP leadership to move delayed judicial nominees to the floor for a final vote.
McClusky released the following statement today:
"Throughout our history, America's judiciary has expanded its power. This attitude of judicial supremacy even led judges in the Ninth Circuit to rule that the phrase 'under God' in the Pledge of Allegiance was unconstitutional.
"Constitutional amendments are but one step in the solution to address issues under attack. We are here today to ensure our courts are stocked by judges who interpret the law -- not those who seek to make it.
"Judges such as Terrence Boyle, who was first nominated in the spring of 2001, have been held up for years by inaction in the U.S. Senate. Michael Wallace has been subject to unwarranted attacks by the highly political and leftward leaning American Bar Association and is now awaiting action by the Senate Judiciary Committee.
"If we hope to return to the days when we had three equal branches of government instead of a court that overrules them all, President Bush must continue to nominate high caliber nominees and not succumb to political deals which weaken his Constitutional authority. The U.S. Senate must move quickly to bring these nominees to an up-or-down vote; our system of justice requires it, and the American people deserve nothing less."

CWA's Chief Counsel Urges Senators to Act on Judicial Nominees

Washington, D.C. – Concerned Women for America's (CWA's) Chief Counsel Jan LaRue joined other conservative leaders today at a press conference to urge U.S. Senators to stop delaying and start moving on the pending nominations of qualified judicial nominees. Senators must hold hearings and bring pending nominations to the floor in order to fill the remaining 49 vacancies in the federal courts.

LaRue said, "Concerned Women for America and our half million members in all 50 states expect the Senators they've supported in past elections to fulfill their constitutional duty in the judicial nomination process. Delay, neglect and obstruction are not advice and consent. Nominees deserve and must have a hearing and a Senate vote.

"Judge Terry Boyle has been waiting more than five years for a Senate vote. That is deplorable and can only be atoned for with an up-or-down vote. He must not wait any longer.

"Jim Haynes' nomination to the Fourth Circuit has been delayed in the Senate Judiciary Committee more than a year since his hearing. Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-South Carolina) needs to back up his statement of November 11, 2003: "[T]he President's nominees deserve a straight up-or-down vote. If they get this, they will be confirmed." Senators must show up at the hearing and vote and then vote on the Senate floor.

"Our people expect their senators to stand up for judicial nominees who are committed to preserving our constitutional republic by upholding the written Constitution and respecting the limited role of a judge. We expect them to vote. Vote yes or vote no, but vote.

"If Americans continue to see obstruction and hear excuses rather than debate and votes on nominees, senators should not be surprised that come November 8, the votes they want may not be there," concluded LaRue.

A Different Judicial Battle

The Senate is back in session, and we'll soon see if Republicans are serious about confirming President Bush's nominees for the appeals courts. Majority Leader Bill Frist kept his promise to confirm Brett Kavanaugh to the D.C. Circuit before Memorial Day, after he'd waited three years for a vote.

So who's next? Mr. Frist wanted to move Fourth Circuit nominee Terrence Boyle by Memorial Day too, but no go. A federal judge in North Carolina, Mr. Boyle has the honor of waiting longer than any appeals-court nominee in history for a floor vote. He was in Mr. Bush's first group of nominees announced on May 9, 2001 and was first nominated by Mr. Bush's father in 1991, though Democrats denied him a vote.

Democrats now say they'll filibuster his nomination. They are distorting a couple of Judge Boyle's civil rights decisions and making conflict-of-interest allegations that add up at worst to minor infractions. But Republicans don't want a fight in an election year over race or ethics. And Judge Boyle's onetime Senate champion -- Jesse Helms -- has long since retired. A controversial nominee without an angel to guide him through today's polarized Senate is in trouble.

Which brings us to William "Jim" Haynes II, another stalled Fourth Circuit nominee. Mr. Haynes was named on September 29, 2003, had a hearing two months later, and was voted out of committee in March 2004. But don't blame this delay only on Democrats. Two Republicans -- Senators John McCain and Lindsey Graham -- are also causing the holdup.

Mr. Haynes is the Pentagon's general counsel, and his transgression is to have offered legal advice on the treatment of detainees in the war on terror. The big point of contention is his role in Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld's decision in December 2002 to allow "coercive" interrogation techniques against al Qaeda detainees at Guantanamo.

The Pentagon says Mr. Haynes offered legal analysis; his critics distort this to say he was instrumental in forging a policy that could be used to justify "torture." But there is no evidence that anyone condoned torture, and it was the CIA, not the Pentagon, that used "waterboarding" that critics cite as the most coercive sanctioned technique. In any case, Mr. Rumsfeld rescinded his decision within six weeks after Pentagon lawyers took their concerns to Mr. Haynes, who then took them to Mr. Rumsfeld. Even if you believe the "coercive" techniques policy was a mistake, its reversal was due in no small part to Mr. Haynes, who did his duty of providing legal analysis. Mr. Haynes met with Senator McCain for an hour last month and agreed to answer written questions about the issue.

Senator McCain's anger over the Air Force's tanker deal with Boeing also unfairly extends to Mr. Haynes. As general counsel, Mr. Haynes had the job of reviewing and, in some cases, redacting the small library's worth of documents the Senator demanded. A McCain spokeswoman tells us that the Senator has not made a decision about whether to support the nomination.

It's hard to see how opposing Mr. Haynes would achieve anything except win the Senators some fleeting praise in the establishment media. It wouldn't impress GOP primary voters in Mr. Graham's home state of South Carolina, an important Presidential primary state in 2008 and home to many Haynes supporters. In defeating Mr. Haynes, Mr. McCain would mainly be validating those critics who want to punish anyone associated with the war in Iraq. Is this how a President McCain would treat his appointees who come under political fire for offering honest counsel?

There are 18 vacancies on the appeals-court bench -- 10% of the total -- and not many weeks left to fill them before election-year campaigning makes judicial confirmations next to impossible. Seven nominees are currently waiting for a hearing or vote. With Republicans in danger of losing Senate seats, if not their majority, now is the time to honor one of their campaign pledges from 2004 by confirming Mr. Bush's judicial nominees.

White House Renews Push for Nominees
By Alexander Bolton

White House officials are making a concerted effort to cooperate with outside conservative groups to support and defend President Bush's nominees to the federal bench, and they are also planning to work more closely with the Senate on confirming the nominees.

The greater focus on judges comes in the wake of privately expressed criticism from conservative leaders that the White House and the GOP-controlled Senate were doing little to defend high-profile nominees such as William "Jim" Haynes and Terrence Boyle, both picked for the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, from attacks by liberals.

The White House and Senate Republicans offered spirited defenses of prior embattled nominees, such as Priscilla Owen, who now sits on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and Janice Rogers Brown, who is a member of the D.C. Circuit Court. But since their confirmations and the Supreme Court confirmations of Chief Justice John Roberts and Justice Samuel Alito, GOP leaders have done little to defend other controversial nominees.

The lack of an organized defense of languishing nominees such as Haynes, Boyle and William Myers, a nominee to the 9th Circuit, prompted former clerks of the nominees and conservative activists to take matters into their own hands. Boyle's former clerks, many of whom are now prominent lawyers, joined together on their own accord to defend him from accusations that he acted improperly while a district-court judge.

Conservative activists and intellectual leaders, such as Sean Rushton, executive director of the Committee for Justice, and Professor John Yoo of the University of California at Berkeley, also began laying plans to form committees to defend other embattled nominees. Yoo was in the national spotlight earlier this year during the Alito hearings because of his writings on the legal theory of the unitary executive, which Bush has used to justify his wartime powers.

But since the Senate confirmation of Brett Kavanaugh to the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals two weeks ago, the White House has begun to take a more active role in defending the nominees. For example, talking points circulated at the end of last week defending Boyle from accusations that he did not recuse himself from cases where he may have had conflicts of interest were written in the signature style of the White House and its ally the Republican National Committee. And administration officials are also working more closely with conservative activists to defend the nominees. Also, the Department of Justice is crafting a memo on Boyle's conduct as a judge and activists close to the White House such as Edward Whelan, president of the Ethics and Public Policy Center who authored a recent article in the conservative Weekly Standard, are stepping up their advocacy on behalf of the judicial nominees.

"I sense that," said Sen. Jeff Sessions (R-Ala.), a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, when asked yesterday if he noticed more effort by the White House to support the judicial nominees. He added that he met with Boyle and a White House aide Monday in a meeting he said he assumed was set up by the administration.

"I guess that represents a stepping up and talking about judges," Sessions acknowledged.

Sessions also said that conservatives are right to be concerned about the lack of action by Senate Republicans to defend the nominees, something he attributed to distractions caused by the busy schedule and big political issues such as immigration reform.

"I think it's time to get more serious in defending the nominees," he said.

Sen. Jim DeMint (R-S.C.), a rising star in the upper chamber's conservative circles, said that the White House is working more closely with Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.) on the judicial nominees.

"We've got to get moving faster on judicial nominees," said DeMint, who added that Frist has told him judicial nominees are a priority.

A White House official said that several of the nominees have sat in the Senate for a long time and that the administration is asking senators to make a decision about whether to confirm them or not, whether to "fish or cut bait."

The greater cooperation between the White House and conservative groups comes several weeks after White House political adviser Karl Rove and counsel Harriet Miers told conservatives in a private meeting that they would begin sending more judicial nominees to the Hill. But so far few nominees have been sent.

The White House official said that to the extent there is a push on judges it is an effort to wrap up background checks on judicial nominees and send them to the Senate more quickly. The effort is a direct recognition that the window of opportunity for getting nominees confirmed in the Senate may be closing as Election Day and the end of the 109th Congress approaches.

Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.), a member of the Judiciary Committee, has come under heavy fire from conservatives for blocking Haynes's nomination.

Yesterday, nearly 80 prominent conservative leaders including David Keene, chairman of the American Conservative Union; Paul Weyrich, chairman of Coalitions for America; Manuel Miranda, chairman of the Third Branch Conference; and Saul Anuzis, chairman of the Michigan Republican Party, delivered a letter to Graham rebuking him for "effectively blocking" Haynes's nomination in the Judiciary Committee.

"We understand that you and Senator [John] McCain [R-Ariz.] have concerns about the Bush Administration's policies on prisoners captured in the War on Terror, and about Mr. Haynes's role in implementing those policies at the Defense Department," the conservative leaders wrote.

Graham defended himself yesterday by saying that he is not blocking Haynes in committee and arguing that the conservative leaders who signed the letter do not represent all conservatives. But Graham refused to say whether he would cast a crucial vote to pass Haynes out of committee.

Jim Haynes' listening skills
Last night, I discussed the incoherent criticism directed at Fourth Circuit nominee Jim Haynes by two retired military legal officers. It since has been pointed out to me that one of the officers, Retired Admiral Hutson, served as the Navy Judge Advocate General during the Clinton Administration, retiring in 2000. Thus, he never worked directly with Haynes, and presumably lacks first hand knowledge as to whether Haynes listens to others. The other Retired Admiral, Donald Guter, was the Navy JAG from 2000 to 2002. He retired in 2002, and so had a relatively brief overlap with Haynes.
By contrast, Major General (ret.) Michael Marchand served with Haynes until July 2005. He was an Army JAG for 31 years. During the last 12 of them, he served in positions that provided him with "sigificant exposure" to the various General Counsels of the Department of Defense. Marchand states, in a letter to Senators Specter and Leahy that
In my experience Mr. Haynes has been more inclusive of the Judge Advocates General and the senior service lawyers of the armed services than any General Counsel of the Department of Defense. He has consistently and repeatedly reached out to the senior lawyers of the Department of Defense on some of the most difficult legal issues to confront our armed services, our Department, and our Country. He has done so throughout his tenure in formal and informal ways. He has been respectful of our views, even on those occasions when he may not have agreed with one of more of us. The Department and its legal community -- and the Country -- have been well served.
UPDATE: William Suter, Major General, USA (Ret.), and clerk of the U.S. Supreme Court, served in the JAG Corps from 1962-1991. He worked closely with Jim Haynes in 1990-1991 when Haynes was General Counsel of the Army. Suter has written to various Senators in support of Haynes. He states:
Mr. Haynes is a superb lawyer in every respect. He performed his duties as the Army General Counsel with great distinction. He was very knowledgeable concerning military matters and fully supported the Army's mission. I found him easy to work with and considered him a valuable provessional colleague. He was always available to discuss pending legal issues and we kept each other informed about important matters. He respected Judge Advocates and their opinions. He is also a man of great character and integrity.
Mr. Haynes deserves a vote on his nomination. I am confident that he will be an outstanding appellate judge.

Conservatives Rap Graham Over Judge; He Defends Stance
More than 80 conservative leaders today sent a letter to Sen. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C., accusing him of waging a "silent filibuster" against the nomination of William Haynes to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. While Graham today dismissed the coalition's charges, he also outlined his concerns with the nominee. "We represent a coalition of organizations that cares deeply about putting constitutionalist judges on the federal courts," wrote the leaders. "We are writing to express our concern about your lack of support for the nomination of William Haynes to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, effectively blocking him in [the Judiciary] committee." The leaders further accused Graham of violating the constitutional prerogative of the president and the GOP majority to have an up-or-down vote on nominations, comparing his opposition to "Democrats' minority-obstructionist tactics." Graham brushed off the group's efforts to demand he support the nominee. "They are a group of people that organize around a specific event. That doesn't mean they represent conservatives," said Graham. "I represent a conservative state with a conservative philosophy on judges. But I also believe added scrutiny is needed. And I am ready to vote on all nominees that I know about." Graham said Bush administration officials that worked with Haynes on the administration's policies involving torture of war prisoners have expressed to him their concerns with Haynes' role in the "formulation of the interrogation policy. I'm listening to those people." But Graham insisted he is not officially blocking the Judiciary Committee from voting on Haynes' nomination and predicted other senators would "call for more hearings" on controversial nominees, including Haynes. Graham declined to say how he would vote on the nominee if requests for additional hearings are not met. Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., also shares Graham's concerns with Haynes' nomination.
Despite their anger over Graham's participation in the Gang of 14 last year, the conservative coalition declined to mention Graham's role in today's letter. The bipartisan Gang of 14 prevented Majority Leader Frist from changing Senate rules to prohibit the minority from filibustering a president's judicial nomination. The Committee for Justice, which signed today's letter, said recently the conservative groups would launch a national campaign via e-mails and telephone calls to Graham in hope of persuading the senator to support Haynes' nomination. One conservative leader predicted recently that Graham's conservative base could lash out against the senator when he runs for re-election in 2008. Haynes, who was nominated three years ago, has twice received the American Bar Association's highest rating. The group today defended Haynes' involvement in the 2003 torture scandal when he served as the Pentagon's general counsel, arguing Haynes had an "obligation to defend the legal rights of his client, the Defense Department, and to follow the legal advice of the Justice Department." -- by Greta Wodele

According to the Washington Post, "some retired military officers have served notice" that they will oppose the nomination of Jim Haynes in the event of a confirmation battle. The two officers mentioned by the Post are both former military lawyers.
This is old news to anyone who has been reading Power Line. Indeed, as we have long noted, Sen. Lindsey Graham reportedly has been preventing a confirmation battle based partly on reports from military lawyers who are unhappy with Haynes about his role regarding the administration's policy towards war on terrorism detainees. One of the officers, retired Rear Admiral John Hutson, claims that Haynes' "unwillingness to listen to others caused him to preside over the DOD legal system during the time of its greatest debacle in memory, the abuse of detainees by military personnel around the world." This is the familiar argument of the bureaucrat on the losing side -- "they didn't listen to me," which almost always means "they didn't agree with me." In Haynes' case, moreover, it was his obligation to defer to the legal advice and policy preferences of the Justice Department and the White House, not those of career military lawyers.
As for the "great debacle" claim, Hutson's tortured formulation, ("caused [Haynes] to preside over the legal system in the time of its greatest debacle," not "caused a debacle"), betrays the weakness of his argument. And what precisely was the debacle? If Hutson is referring to Abu Ghraib, he's talking nonsense. Nothing Haynes (or Justice Department lawyers) did caused that debacle; otherwise, whatever they did to cause it would have caused other Abu Ghraibs. Indeed, the controversial memo that Haynes produced (which adhered to the legal position laid out by the Justice Department) did not include sexual humiliation as one of the permitted interrogation devices. If Hutson is referring to Guantanamo Bay, then there is no debacle. Evidence of mistreatment of prisoners there is scant. It can be argue that the decision to hold so many people at Gitmo indefinitely (regardless of how they are treated) has been a public relations set-back. But that decision was not made by Haynes.
Meanwhile, retired Rear Admiral Donald Guter, apparently in response to the argument that Haynes was following Justice Department policy as he was obliged to, doubts that as a judge Haynes would have the independence or judgment to oppose unwise policies being pushed by his superiors. Either Guter is being misquoted or he was absent the day they taught law in law school. As an appeals court judge, Haynes' "superiors" would be the Supreme Court, and it would be Haynes' obligation not to oppose their decisions. It would also be Haynes' obligation as a judge not to focus on whether policies being "pushed" by the executive or the legislature are "unwise," as opposed to unlawful.
Against the incoherent views of the retired admirals, we have the testimony of Bernard Meltzer, a distinguished law professor and former assistant trial counsel at Nuremberg, who worked with Haynes in formulating the procedure for trying detainees before military tribunals. Meltzer apparently had no difficulty in getting Haynes to "listen." He reports that Haynes showed "informed and sensitive concern for the rights and legitimate interests of those who might be tried before a military commission."
No wonder Lindsey Graham has been trying to prevent a debate on the merits of Haynes.

Opposition to Nominee
By Shailagh Murray and Charles Babington
Some retired military officers have served notice that if conservatives keep pressing for a Senate confirmation vote for judicial nominee William J. Haynes II, it won't come without a fight.
Haynes, the Defense Department's general counsel, is President Bush's choice for a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 4th Circuit. Democrats have opposed Haynes since 2003, and now some Republicans are joining them. They object to his role as the Pentagon's top lawyer when controversial policies were adopted regarding harsh treatment of detainees captured in Afghanistan, Iraq and elsewhere.

The conservative group Committee for Justice has launched a telephone and e-mail campaign against one of those Republicans, Sen. Lindsey O. Graham (S.C.). Last week, some retired military lawyers came to Graham's defense, sending letters to the Judiciary Committee that call Haynes unfit for a lifetime appointment to the appellate court.
Haynes's "unwillingness to listen to others caused him to preside over the DOD legal system during the time of its greatest debacle in memory, the abuse of detainees by military personnel around the world," wrote John D. Hutson, a retired rear admiral who was a senior Navy lawyer. Donald J. Guter, who held the same rank, wrote that he doubted Haynes would have the independence or judgment to oppose unwise policies being pushed by his superiors.
Among those praising Haynes in letters to the committee is Bernard D. Meltzer, a retired law professor and former assistant trial counsel in the trials before the International Military Tribunal in Nuremberg. Meltzer wrote that he got to know Haynes while consulting with the Pentagon and that "I was impressed by his informed and sensitive concern for the rights and legitimate interests of those who might be tried before a military commission."

WEEKLY STANDARD
Lowering the Bar
The corrupt ABA judicial evaluation process.
By Edward Whelan
IF THERE WERE A LIST of lawyers least suited to assess Brett Kavanaugh's fitness to serve as a judge on the D.C. Circuit, Marna Tucker would be very high on it. Tucker's narrow specialty, divorce law, is far removed, in both substance and sophistication, from the work of the federal appellate courts--especially from the complex cases of administrative law that are the staple of the D.C. Circuit. Even worse, Tucker could hardly pretend to be impartial towards Kavanaugh. A fervent gender activist and supporter of other left-wing causes, she is a longtime ally of those who have vituperated the conservative Kavanaugh on account of his work for Kenneth Starr's independent-counsel investigation and his service as White House lawyer and staff secretary under President George W. Bush.
After nearly three years of Democratic obstruction, Kavanaugh's nomination was recently confirmed by the Senate, and he has taken his seat on the D.C. Circuit. But the untold story of his recent treatment by the ABA's Committee on the Federal Judiciary, which rates all federal judicial nominees, deserves attention, for it illustrates a longstanding defect that periodically plagues the committee's evaluations of Republican nominees.
When President Bush first nominated Kavanaugh in July 2003, the ABA committee gave him its top overall rating of "well qualified" (with a "substantial majority"--10 to 13 of the 14 voting members--rating him "well qualified" and the remaining minority rating him "qualified"). When Kavanaugh was renominated in early 2005, the committee's supplemental evaluation yielded the same "well qualified" rating. Then, as the Senate's 2005 session was wrapping up, Democratic leadership in the Senate, in a curious move, insisted that Kavanaugh's nomination, alone among all the pending judicial nominations, be sent back to the White House. The Democrats' insistence seemed at the time peevish, requiring President Bush to go through the formality of renominating Kavanaugh in January 2006. Little noticed was the fact that, under the ABA committee's practices, the renomination would trigger yet another supplemental evaluation of Kavanaugh.
There was every reason to expect the ABA's 2006 supplemental evaluation to be routine, as its purpose was simply to cover the one-year period since the previous rating. But a key fact had changed over that year: Tucker had been assigned to the ABA committee as the member responsible for the D.C. Circuit. Instead of focusing on the previous year--the only period of time not covered in the earlier evaluations--Tucker launched a scorched-earth review of Kavanaugh's entire career. She conducted 91 witness interviews--far more than the 55 that underlay the original 2003 evaluation--but showed little interest in witnesses identified by Kavanaugh. When ABA judiciary committee chairman Stephen Tober discovered (in his words) that "this was a nominee that Ms. Tucker was spending a considerable amount of time on," he did not rein her in but instead enlisted a second committee member--liberal civil-rights activist John Payton--to assist her.
Kavanaugh's relations with the previous D.C. Circuit member--also a Democratic woman--had been cordial and professional. In sharp contrast--according to administration officials whom Kavanaugh spoke with at the time--Tucker and Payton were adversarial and partisan when they interviewed Kavanaugh. Tucker criticized the White House for ending the ABA committee's privileged role in reviewing judicial candidates before they were formally nominated. Tucker and Payton displayed a bizarre interest in an internal Senate dispute (not involving Kavanaugh) that arose in late 2003 after a Republican staffer discovered on a shared computer directory a Democratic strategy memo that urged that a Sixth Circuit nominee be stonewalled in order to affect the outcome of the University of Michigan racial-preferences cases pending in that court. And Payton, who had argued those same cases in the Supreme Court in 2003, tried to probe what part Kavanaugh had played in the White House's formulation of the administration's position in those cases.
Returning from the interview, Kavanaugh told his White House colleagues that Tucker's conduct of the interview deeply concerned him. Fortunately for Kavanaugh, his strong record and the previous ratings he had received from the ABA committee made it difficult for Tucker to do him serious damage. Her evaluation reduced his overall rating from "well qualified" to "qualified" (with a minority of the committee still finding him well qualified), but even that rating meant that he had met the committee's "very high standards with respect to integrity, professional competence and judicial temperament."

But the ABA committee and Tucker weren't through with Kavanaugh. Responding to hyperbolic Democratic rhetoric about Kavanaugh's downgrade, Tober took the extraordinary step of submitting to the Senate Judiciary Committee a statement that presented, in isolation and without attribution, the committee's supposed dirt on Kavanaugh. And Tober and Tucker supplemented this statement in a telephone conference with senators and staffers.

One witness, Tober explained, had charged that Kavanaugh had "dissembled" in an oral argument. And (among a few other criticisms) several witnesses, all supposedly using the same word, had characterized Kavanaugh's White House work as "insulated." Tober and Tucker asserted that, consistent with their committee's policies, Kavanaugh had been informed of all negative items and had been given a full opportunity to answer them.

The ABA's disclosures, and the manner in which they were presented, astounded Kavanaugh and his advisers. Tucker had never told him the incendiary charge about having "dissembled" in court, he explained to White House colleagues. Had he heard it, he pointed out compellingly, he certainly would have tried to learn more about it from Tucker in order to dispute it. And, indeed, it appears that in the original charge the term "dissembled" was misused. Questioned in the telephone conference about the charge, Tucker stated that the "quote was 'He did not handle the case well as an advocate; he was not forceful, and when he dissembled, he did not argue his case clearly.'" The quoted statement makes little sense: It would be peculiar to criticize dissembling (a form of lying) merely for its effect on clarity, rather than as an intrinsic evil. Tucker herself, according to an unpublished transcript of the telephone conference, interpreted the charge merely to mean that Kavanaugh "did not respond appropriately" to questions. But Kavanaugh was never given a chance to contest the charge. And Senate Democrats, handed the ammunition by Tober and Tucker, profligately highlighted the "dissembling" charge to impugn Kavanaugh's integrity.

As for the charge that Kavanaugh's White House experience was "insulated": It was clear to Kavanaugh that Tucker herself was committed to that view. She even ignorantly insisted that, as staff secretary overseeing the full range of executive-branch decisions, he was exposed only to a "very narrow band" of views.

With hindsight, only a naïf would believe that Tucker and Senate Democrats did not work together to engineer the return of Kavanaugh's nomination in December 2005. The most sensible hypothesis is that Tucker signaled that she was well positioned to inflict damage on Kavanaugh--and that sending the nomination back to the White House would enable her to do so through a supplemental evaluation. Why else would Senate Democrats have insisted on sending the nomination back?

The bigger question is why a highly partisan divorce lawyer was ever appointed to the committee in the first place. The sitting ABA president, during his one-year term, has plenary authority to fill the five or so vacancies that arise each year. (The committee chairman and the 14 other members serve staggered three-year terms.) With the ABA's transformation over the last few decades from an apolitical professional organization into a liberal interest group, ABA presidents and the bar activists who vie for influential ABA positions have trended leftwards. Current ABA president Michael S. Greco, a zealous liberal, presumably selected Tucker because of, not in spite of, her partisan credentials.

Tober's role in Tucker's excesses is also significant. Under the committee's procedures, the chairman and the circuit member who conducts the investigation have extraordinary practical clout in shaping the views of the other committee members, as they prepare the report that goes to the full committee. That Tober did not try to restrain Tucker, but instead teamed her up with another liberal activist, suggests a woeful inattention on his part to partisan conflicts of interest.

Not coincidentally, Tober recently oversaw the committee's remarkable "not qualified" rating of Fifth Circuit nominee Michael B. Wallace, a highly respected attorney and former Supreme Court law clerk for the late William Rehnquist. In 1987, when Wallace served on the board of the Legal Services Corporation, Tober presented strikingly intemperate testimony to an LSC committee that Wallace chaired. Opposing a proposed regulation to require that boards receiving LSC funds have bipartisan membership (as does the LSC itself), Tober flamboyantly accused Wallace of attempting to "fashion a political bias litmus test" and of having a "hidden agenda," and he vowed to disobey the regulation if it became law.

The transcript of Tober's testimony, which also includes a number of loopy constitutional arguments, makes one wonder why Tober has any role in evaluating judicial nominees. It's even more disturbing that he would not see fit to recuse himself from reviewing the nomination of Wallace, for whom he plainly bears a strong animus.

Perhaps Tober will provide a persuasive explanation for the committee's negative rating of Wallace. But one lesson from the Kavanaugh process is that Tober's explanations should not be accepted at face value. In any event, it's long past time for the ABA to take serious steps to ensure the selection of committee members who will not let political bias infect their evaluations of judicial nominees. Absent such steps, the Senate Judiciary Committee should deprive the ABA committee of the privileged status it has long been accorded.

Arlen Specter or Tom Daschle, take your pick
This lead in today's Post story by Chris Cillizza about Sen. Lindsey Graham is priceless:
No longer content with bashing Democrats for their obstruction of President Bush's judicial nominees, a coalition of conservative groups is now turning its attention to a prominent Republican -- Sen. Lindsey O. Graham (S.C.).
Give that liberal a blog!
The story is great news, though. I've referred to Senator Graham as "the Arlen Specter of the south." In same ways, though, the better comparison is to Tom Daschle. As with Daschle, the voters in Graham's conservative home state probably have little idea of Graham's true ideological stance. Sean Rushton makes this point when he says:
A key reason why Lindsey Graham is Senator Graham is because he ran as opposed to the obstruction of the president's judicial nominees. We hope he'll remember that.
Graham is widely thought (along with Senator McCain) to be obstructing the nomination of Jim Haynes, the general counsel of the defense department. Graham apparently has tight connections with military lawyers who disliked the Pentagon's legal position on detainee interrogations. The Post quotes a spokesman for Graham who expresses concern that Haynes may not have been receptive enough to "advice from the military." However, Haynes was obliged to take his legal advice (if that's what the spokesman is referring to) from the Justice Department and the Office of White House Counsel, and he did so.
If Senator Graham nonetheless feels that Haynes is unfit to serve on the Fourth Circuit by virtue of his legal memos (or for any other reason) that's fine. But let's have the debate and the vote.

Conservatives Backing Nominee Look at Graham
WASHINGTON POST
By Chris Cillizza
No longer content with bashing Democrats for their obstruction of President Bush's judicial nominees, a coalition of conservative groups is now turning its attention to a prominent Republican -- Sen. Lindsey O. Graham (S.C.).
The campaign, led by the Committee for Justice, is aimed at persuading Graham to allow a vote on William James Haynes II, the general counsel at the Department of Defense and a nominee for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 4th Circuit. Although the campaign is in its infancy, organizers expect it to develop into a national e-mail and telephone lobbying effort.
"A key reason why Lindsey Graham is Senator Graham is because he ran as opposed to the obstruction of the president's judicial nominees," said Sean Rushton, executive director of the Committee for Justice. "We hope he'll remember that."
Graham insists he has engaged in no formal obstruction of Haynes, nor has he enlisted other senators to do so. Along with colleague and political ally John McCain (R-Ariz.), Graham has expressed concern regarding the advice Haynes provided the Bush administration on the treatment of detainees captured in the war on terrorism.
"The role Mr. Haynes played as DOD general counsel formulating these policies and whether he was receptive to legal advice from the military will be a line of inquiry when his nomination is brought up," said Kevin D. Bishop, communications director for Graham.
Haynes was nominated in 2003.
Opposing conservatives on one of their pet issues carries political risks for both Graham and McCain. Since winning the seat vacated by the late Sen. Strom Thurmond (R) in 2002, Graham has faced occasional opposition from his party's base, a resistance that hardened when he joined a bipartisan group of senators -- the "Gang of 14" -- to defuse a showdown on judicial nominees.
Charleston developer Thomas Ravenel, who narrowly lost a bid for the GOP Senate nomination in 2004, has encouraged speculation that he might mount a primary challenge to Graham in 2008 but is seeking state office in 2006.
McCain, who has made clear his intentions to run for president in 2008, has openly courted conservatives over the past year in an attempt to heal rifts caused by his primary challenge to George W. Bush in 2000. That effort has met with considerable success to date, progress that could be jeopardized by another high-profile battle over judicial nominations.

FRIST HAILS CONTINUED PROGRESS ON JUDICIAL NOMINEES

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, M.D., (R–Tenn.) made the followin statement today after the Senate confirmed two federal appeals court judges and two district court judges:

> "Today, the Senate continued its progress on judicial nominees with the confirmation of four exceptionally qualified nominees to the federal bench. I will continue to fight to ensure that the Senate fulfills its constitutional duty of advice and consent by confirming qualified nominees to our judiciary who practice judicial restraint and respect the rule of law."

The Senate confirmed Neil M. Gorsuch to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 10th Circuit, Bobby E. Sl to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 8th Circuit, Daniel Porter Jordan III to the U.S. District Court for the Sou District of Mississippi, and Gustavo Antonio Gelpi to the U.S. District Court for the District of Puerto Rico.

Currently, 95 percent of all judgeships are filled, including 91.6 percent of all circuit court judgeships 95.8 percent of all district court judgeships. Since Sen. ATTORNEY GENERAL ALBERTO R. GONZALES ANNOUNCES

APPOINTMENTS TO INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY TASK FORCE

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Attorney General Alberto R. Gonzales today announced the appointment of several high-level Department of Justice officials to serve on the Department's Task Force on Intellectual Property.

The Task Force was created in 2004 by then-Attorney General John Ashcroft to examine the Department's efforts to protect the intellectual property rights of American citizens and businesses through criminal, civil, and antitrust enforcement; legislation; international coordination; and prevention. In October 2004, the Task Force issued a comprehensive report with recommendations to increase the Department's effectiveness in protecting intellectual property rights and enforcing federal intellectual property laws.

In February 2005, Attorney General Gonzales renewed the Department's commitment to the IP Task Force and appointed Kyle Sampson as Chairman and Arif Alikhan as Vice Chairman and Executive Director. The Attorney General also announced that the Department would implement all of the IP Task Force report's recommendations and would continue to aggressively enforce federal intellectual property laws.

The Attorney General has appointed the following Department of Justice officials to serve on the Intellectual Property Task Force:

* Thomas Barnett, Acting Assistant Attorney General, Antitrust Division
* Michael Battle, Director, Executive Office of United States Attorneys
* Rachel Brand, Assistant Attorney General, Office of Legal Policy
* Paul Clement, Solicitor General of the United States
* Alice Fisher, Assistant Attorney General, Criminal Division
* Neil Gorsuch, Principal Deputy Associate Attorney General, Office of the Associate Attorney General
* Peter Keisler, Assistant Attorney General, Civil Division
* William Moschella, Assistant Attorney General, Office of Legislative Affairs
* Louis Reigel, Assistant Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Cyber Division
* Debra Wong Yang, United States Attorney, Central District of California, and Chair of the Attorney General's Advisory Subcommittee on Cyber Crime and Intellectual Property.

"I appreciate the Attorney General appointing me to take on this important role for the Department and appointing such talented members of the Department to serve on the IP Task Force," said Kyle Sampson. "I look forward to working closely with all of the members to implement the recommendations and address the evolving challenges of intellectual property crime in the global marketplace."

Copies of the report of the Department of Justice's Task Force on Intellectual Property are available on the Department's website at www.usdoj.gov <http://www.usdoj.gov> or at www.cybercrime.gov <http://www.cybercrime.gov><http://www.cybercrime.gov>. For more information regarding the Intellectual Property Task Force, contact Vice Chairman and Executive Director Arif Alikhan at Arif.Alikhan2@usdoj.gov.

Time running short on nomination

By M.E. Sprengelmeyer, Rocky Mountain News

WASHINGTON — Time is running out before a Colorado judicial nomination could get stalled in the U.S. Senate's summer swoon.

President Bush has nominated attorney and legal scholar Neil Gorsuch to fill a seat on the Denver-based 10th Circuit Court of Appeals, and backers hope he gets a hearing in the Senate Judiciary Committee in the next few weeks.

But if there's a delay and the committee can't agree to advance the nomination by the Senate's August recess, it's unlikely he can be win final Senate confirmation by the end of the year, said Sean Conway, chief of staff to Sen. Wayne Allard, R-Loveland.

That prospect, and the lengthy delay in confirming an earlier 10th Circuit nominee, Tim Tymkovich, prompted Allard to hand-deliver a letter to Senate Judiciary Committee chairman Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., this week asking him to expedite Gorsuch's confirmation.

"What we're trying to do is get this process moving," Allard chief of staff Sean Conway said Thursday. "What pushed this is we do not want a repeat of the Tymkovich situation where we had a vacancy on the court for over two years."

"Sen. Allard just doesn't feel it's prudent to have a vacancy on an important appeals court like this, particularly with a non-controversial nominee."

So far, no overt opposition has emerged to Gorsuch's nomination, but arcane Senate procedures have left the timing of his pending confirmation hearings up in the air.

By Senate tradition, the Judiciary Committee does not move forward with confirmation hearings until a nominee's two home-state Senators deliver so-called "blue slips" indicating they approve going forward.

In the past, Allard has used that procedure to block two of former President Bill Clinton's Colorado judicial nominees.

As of Thursday afternoon, Sen. Ken Salazar, D-Denver, had not delivered his "blue slip" on Gorsuch, but spokesman Drew Nannis said there was no intent to delay Gorsuch and that Salazar's sign-off could come within a day or two.

HUMAN EVENTS

Frist Sets Stage for Vote on 9th Circuit Nominee

By Robert Bluey

A well-placed source tells me tonight that Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R.-Tenn.) has scheduled time on Monday at 5:30 p.m. to vote on the confirmation of Sandra Segal Ikuta <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sandra_Segal_Ikuta> , a nominee for the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Ikuta doesn't have the name recognition of some other appellate court nominees, but with pressure mounting on Senate Republicans to act on judges, Frist's move demonstrates once again that he is listening <http://www.humaneventsonline.com/blog-detail.php?id=14333> to the base.

According to Law.com <http://www.law.com/jsp/article.jsp?id=1139565914268> , Ikuta is a "moderate conservative," who is supported by both Republicans and Democrats.

[T]he list of people who do know her is significant. Among them, former Secretary of State Warren Christopher (who put in a good word with Sen. Dianne Feinstein), 9th Circuit Judge Alex Kozinski, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor (she clerked for both) and Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger (her current boss).

Ikuta currently serves as the general counsel to the California Resources Agency. She'll be replacing Judge James R. Browning, who is apparently the last appellate court <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/James_R._Browning> judge remaining from the Kennedy Administration

UPDATE -- 1:27 a.m.: I'm hearing back from people with a stake in the judicial fight, and while they're pleased to see Frist move Ikuta to a vote, they're disappointed he didn't pick one of the well-known nominees I alluded to in my post. They include Terrence Boyle, William Haynes, William Myers or Michael Wallace.

One source remarked:

"If the leader was <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/James_R._Browning> listening to his base, he would be mounting defenses of Boyle, Haynes, Myers, and Wallace, and considering moving any of them -- especially Boyle, who will be on the floor one year this Friday -- rather than giving the Dems an easy pass to vote for Ikuta. It creates the illusion of action while avoiding the hard work conservatives are actually advocating."

<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/James_R._Browning> The friends of Lindsey Graham

<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/James_R._Browning>

<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/James_R._Browning> Sen. Lindsey Graham has written a "Dear Friends" letter in which he explains his reservations about the nomination of Jim Haynes to the Fourth Circuit. He states that these reservations are based on the opposition of "very distinguished military leaders" to the Haynes nomination. These leaders turn out to be Retired Rear Admiral John Hutson and Retired Rear Admiral Donald Guter. As I have noted, Hutson is a partisan Democrat who served as Navy JAG under Clinton and retired before Haynes became General Counsel of the Defense Department. Guter, Hutson's successor and crony, worked with Haynes for only a short period of time. His opposition apparently is based on the incoherent prediction that, as a judge, Haynes would be unable to resist orders from his superiors.

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014317.php#014317> Graham also cites Retired Brigadier General Edward Rodriguez of the United States Air Force Reserves. But, as I understand it, Rodriguez left active duty in 1974, stayed with the reserves until 1999, and never worked with Haynes. Why Graham relies on partisans with little or no first hand knowledge, while ignoring the pro-Haynes views of, say, Major General (ret.) Michael Marchand who served with Haynes until mid-2005, is unclear.

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php#014324> Graham also refers darkly to "memos written by military legal officers to the civilian leaders in the Department of Defense regarding detainees." He notes that military lawyers "express[ed] grave concerns about confusing and legally flawed interrogation policies" and the potential adverse consequences to the service men who would carry them out.

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php#014324> As I understand it, Graham is talking here about memos that the JAGs wrote about proposed interrogation methods when they participated in the interrogation working group in 2003. The JAGs in fact did express concerns, but the concerns were addressed in the final set of interrogation methods. This final document achieved general consensus (even Haynes critic Alberto Mora apparently was on board), although the document did not conform entirely to the wishes of the JAGs.

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php#014324> Thus, contrary to the claim that Haynes was unwilling to listen to the military, the JAGs were heard out, and their concerns were addressed. As Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Romig, the Army's top lawyer, testified before a subcommittee chaired by Sen. Graham (as reported in the Washington Post), the criticism "was accepted in some cases, maybe not in all cases. It did modify the proposed list of policies and procedures."

Finally, Graham's letter fails to address the most important questions that arise from his course of conduct -- what has his role been in preventing the Haynes nomination from coming to a vote, and will he now commit to allowing such a vote following a full and fair debate?

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> There they go again.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html>

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> It's bad enough that one political party in charge of the U.S. Senate plays games with the federal judiciary when the other party controls the White House. Now we have members of the same party playing games when their own party controls the White House. Either way, the result is bad for federal judges.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html>

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> The latest incident involves Sen. Lindsey Graham (R., S.C.) and a Bush nominee for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. The nominee, William "Jim" Haynes, is currently the general counsel at the Pentagon. As such, he has played a role in the issue of the treatment of detainees captured on the battlefields of Afghanistan and Iraq. Graham, a military lawyer himself, apparently objects to Haynes and is responding to critics in the military community that the policies on detainees Haynes helped to construct make him unfit for the appeals court.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Fair enough. While I disagree with this assessment, this has been used as yet another excuse to abuse the Senate's judicial confirmation process.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Haynes' nomination has been sitting in the Senate Judiciary Committee for three years without a vote. Repeated news accounts finger Graham, a committee member, as the senator who is quietly keeping Haynes from getting that vote. Even more amazing, there are multiple media stories that Sen. John McCain (R., Ariz.), a potential presidential candidate, is urging Graham on.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Once again, members of the U.S. Senate are vividly demonstrating why the public has such increasing contempt for things political. Not unlike the way Pennsylvania state legislators of both parties united to give themselves a pay raise in the middle of the night, Republican and Democratic U.S. senators seem determined to show the public that there are not two political parties in Washington, but three: the Republicans, the Democrats and the Senate Party. The latter has a mere 100 members and is thoroughly bipartisan.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> So Graham quietly signals his colleagues that he wants to obstruct the confirmation process and - presto! - the senator gets his wish. Never mind that the rules for selecting senators are hard and fast and not to be tampered with. Forget that McCain and any other interested presidential candidate depend on the rules for how we elect a president. It's only the third branch of government that doesn't get the same respect.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> If Graham were informed today that his next election were moved up from 2008 to next week, he would correctly cry foul. Yet he shows not the slightest concern over letting a judicial nominee cool his heels for three years.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Even more amazing is the reported conduct of McCain. Forget the sheer politics of his infuriating the very conservatives he will need to get nominated. Does he seriously believe that his conduct in this matter will not provide some ammunition for some future senator to stymie the judicial nominations of a President McCain?

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> For that matter, every senator with an eye on the White House in 2008 should be hustling to make sure Haynes and other nominees are treated fairly. After senatorial abuse of the process reaching back to at least the Reagan administration, what makes any Democrat think things will change if the next president's name is Clinton, Kerry or Feingold?

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html>

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Several years ago, Pennsylvania's own Sen. Arlen Specter proposed a series of excellent reforms that would bring a halt to what has become an out-of-control judicial confirmation process. They featured a timeline for hearings, committee votes and floor votes. If adopted, the rule changes would apply to all nominees of all presidents, regardless of which party controlled the Senate.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> For no other reason than simple fairness, not to mention respect for the federal judiciary, it's time to pass those Specter reforms.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Of course, there will be bipartisan resistance from senators more interested in self-granted perks than the kind of impartial rules senators themselves look to as the lifeblood of their role as elected officials under the Constitution.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> But Specter believes in these reforms and, as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, he is in exactly the right place to get fair treatment for Haynes and finally reform the U.S. Senate's judicial confirmation process for good. After decades of senatorial mistreatment of judicial nominees, isn't it about time?

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Pennsylvanians of all political stripes who are interested in seeing that the federal judiciary gets the same fairness senators demand for themselves should insist that their senior senator use his considerable yet momentary power to pass the Specter reforms.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> By Jill Stanek

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> A few weeks ago, I sent an e-mail to my list, encouraging Pennsylvania pro-lifers to support Republican Rick Santorum in his rebid for the U.S. Senate against Democrat Bob Casey.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Both are pro-life, but because Santorum and the White House supported pro-abortion incumbent Arlen Specter in the 2004 Republican primary against pro-lifer Pat Toomey, pro-lifers consider him a traitor. Specter won 51-49 percent. Pro-lifers blame Santorum and Bush for the edge.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> This was typical of negative responses I received regarding my e-mail:

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Sorry – just can't do it. … These Republicans must understand there is a price to be paid for going against their pro-life/Christian base.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Pro-abort politicians understand that with one just false step, their liberal base will leave them. … We, on the other hand, keep forgiving and forgiving our politicians for stabbing us in the back. No more.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Let Rick Santorum be the example to all the other Republican politicians that we will not allow them to play games with the lives of our unborn children, and if they do, they will be gone.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> I wish Santorum had not supported Specter. But would turning from Santorum help or hurt the pro-life cause?

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> I submit it would hurt, badly.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Read what Manuel Miranda wrote. Miranda is an attorney and former U.S. Senate staffer who lost his job over the Democrat judicial memo flak. Miranda now leads the Third Branch Conference, a group promoting the advancement of conservative federal judges through the confirmation process. He said:

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> In my time in the Senate, I came to meet the vain and vainglorious, all with certificates of election. I came to learn that most senators are quite replaceable. ...

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> I want to tell you that in my observation there was one Republican senator who is not replaceable. In fact, he was the indispensable man on all of the issues that values voters care about. Even if we can nitpick, no one represents us more consummately. That man, of course, is Rick Santorum. ...

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Simply put, without him many things that you and I care about would simply not be championed by anyone else, or at least not as effectively. Even now when you hear me express disappointment on the judge issue, I suspect that lack of vision from the GOP may well be because Rick is understandably busy with his overwhelming campaign. Remember that it was Santorum who led the 40-hour debate of 2003. ...

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> As the chairman of the Senate Republican Conference, the third-ranking leadership position, Rick ... asks senators to take one for the team from time to time. Rick stands by them in moments when loyalty counts. And in a leader, I have learned the hard way that loyalty counts.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> That includes in elections. ... [B]ecause Rick asked Arlen Specter very often to take one for the team, Rick stood by him in 2004. And I can tell you, as one who doubted, that the loyalty has been repaid and it has worked out well. ...

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> Leaders in the Senate speak to the press all the more often, where others hide, and all the more often they are targeted. It is all the more difficult when, as Rick does, you speak in the language of Judeo Christian morality, or say the obvious that no one else dare speak. ...

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2005/07/14/AR2005071402187.html> [Here is] what I said of Rick in September in an Opinion Journal article:

<http://www.opinionjournal.com/nextjustice/?id=110007227> "No Republican senator has done more to make the confirmation of John Roberts possible, because no Republican senator is more responsible for making the judiciary issue a national electoral winner for Republicans, or for making colleagues understand its significance to constituents. ..."

<http://www.opinionjournal.com/nextjustice/?id=110007227> Judges are key to the pro-life issue, and their significance in our battle points to a second reason we cannot lose Santorum. It would risk losing the Republican Senate majority.

<http://www.opinionjournal.com/nextjustice/?id=110007227> Wrote Hugh Hewitt in World Magazine May 27:

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11893> If the Republicans lose control of the United States Senate, or even forfeit a net of three seats in the upper body of the Congress, it is almost certain that George W. Bush will not be able to get a third conservative justice confirmed should the opportunity arise.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11893> If Patrick Leahy returns to the chairmanship of the Senate's Judiciary Committee ... no genuine judicial conservative will clear the first hurdle on the way to confirmation. Sen. Leahy's record proves that.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11893> Even if the GOP holds a nominal majority after the smoke clears in November, expect unbreakable filibusters if there are not at least 50 solid votes to invoke the "constitutional option" which the Democrats dread. ...

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11893> So a Supreme Court poised to return to originalist practices and traditional decision making will in fact be just a vote or two in the Senate beyond reach.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11893> And then the "purists" will have their "victory."

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11893> Politics is a messy business. But majorities require compromise and commitment. The best result is to threaten disengagement, and then to work harder than ever for a conservative triumph.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11893> On June 3, Hewitt wrote in World about pro-life malaise surrounding Ohio Republican Sen. Mike DeWine. He could have been speaking of Santorum:

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> [O]pposition to a DeWine re-election seems almost bizarrely contrary to the approach a pro-life, pro-Second Amendment, pro-property rights, or pro-national security conservative should take. ...

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> If Buckeye State evangelicals carefully and prudently consider the best interests of the country and the enormous power of a single Senate vote as well as the closeness of the division on the U.S. Supreme Court, they should not withhold support from Mike DeWine; they should instead send in their small or large checks and volunteer to walk precincts.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> Conservative Coalition Wants Flag Amendment on Back Burner

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> SALT LAKE CITY (AP) -- A coalition of conservative groups wants time set aside later this month for debate on the proposed constitutional amendment to be spent instead on pending judicial nominations.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> At least 100 groups signed a letter that was to be sent Tuesday to Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn.; Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah and the Senate sponsor of the amendment; and all the Republican senators.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> Among the groups were the Third Branch Conference, Coalitions for America, American Family Association, 60 Plus Association and the Family Research Council.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> The groups do not oppose the amendment, which would allow Congress to pass a law outlawing the physical desecration of the U.S. flag, but say a majority of conservatives would rather see the time spent on getting judges approved, the Deseret Morning News reported.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> "You are planning to devote valuable Senate floor time to debating a flag-desecration constitutional amendment," according to the letter. "While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time."

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> Out of 125 conservative organization leaders who responded to a survey on whether the flag-burning amendment is a priority to get done before Nov. 1, only 18 put it toward the top of the list, according to the letter. And those 18 agreed to put judges over the flag amendment when told to pick between the two.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> "We all agree that debate on judicial nominations is time better spent, and time well spent early to build up steam," according to the letter.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> The letter points to 9th Circuit nominee William Myers, and 4th Circuit nominees Terrence Boyle and William Haynes as those waiting for confirmation that should be addressed.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> Hatch said, "There's no reason why we can't consider the flag amendment along with pending judicial nominations.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> "Ultimately, the majority leader runs the floor schedule. He knows that with 60 senators publicly behind the amendment, and several more who have voted for it in the past, we're primed to bring this to the floor for a vote. But that doesn't mean we can't consider nominations as well."

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> Third Branch Conference Chairman Manuel Miranda, a former Hatch aide, said time is precious on the Senate's election-year calendar and that the flag amendment is "kind of yesterday's issue."

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> Frist's office said he has not seen the letter yet but is committed to the judicial nominees and the flag amendment.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

Conservative Grassroots Demand Senate Action on Stalled Judicial Nominees

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> Over 5,000 Messages to Senate GOP in One Day

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> WASHINGTON, DC – William Greene, President of the conservative online activist organization RightMarch.com, has announced that over five thousand messages were sent through his group's website to Senate Republicans in a single day, demanding that they move circuit nominees to an honest up-or-down vote, and that they spend scheduled Senate floor time in vigorous debate.

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> "Senate Republicans have 'dropped the ball' on pushing President Bush's conservative judicial nominees," said William Greene, President of RightMarch.com. "Their conservative base will simply not accept the status quo on this issue. They recognize that it's time to demand that they devote more effort on and off the Senate floor to confirming the President's circuit court nominees."

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914>

<http://www.worldmag.com/articles/11914> Today the circuit courts have 18 vacancies. They are nearly 10 percent vacant and President Bush has the lowest confirmation rate of circuit court nominations for any president, below 75 percent. "From where I sit, it looks like the Majority is ignoring the impact of the nominations debate on its ability to gain the support of those small margins of voters that the Majority needs to secure unobstructed confirmations," said Greene. "We need to not only remind GOP Senators of their duty, but we also should be concerned that if the Majority that assured the confirmation votes of Chief Justice Roberts and Justice Alito lose just one seat in the next election, the future of the Supreme Court and the federal appellate bench will again be imperiled by use of filibusters. The conservative grassroots – the base that elected this majority – is demanding that this issue be given 'front-burner' status immediately."

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Proceed with Haynes' nomination

Nominees for judicial appoint-ments deserve to be voted on, and William James Haynes II, a nominee to the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, is no exception. In view of his service and qualifications, and the Senate's previous consideration of Mr. Haynes for the judgeship, as well as for Defense posts, it's safe to say that his nomination is long overdue for debate.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Mr. Haynes was nominated initially by President Bush in 2003, and his nomination was sent to the Senate by its Judiciary Committee in 2004. But before the nomination could be considered by the full Senate, the congressional session ended. Consequently, the administration had to renominate him in 2005.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Advancing judicial nominations hasn't been easy in the partisan atmosphere of the Senate, but some of Mr. Haynes' advocates are pointing the finger at a prominent Republican on the Judiciary Committee, South Carolina's Lindsey Graham. That's surprising, since Sen. Graham has taken a leadership role in getting the judicial logjam unstuck, and at some political risk.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> But Mr. Haynes' nomination is expressly opposed by Sen. John McCain, an ally of Sen. Graham. And both have cited concerns over Mr. Haynes' advice to the administration on captured enemy combatants facing potential terrorist charges, according to a report in Monday's Post and Courier. But Sen. Graham denies that he is delaying Mr. Haynes' nomination in committee, in comments to The Hill, a newspaper covering Congress.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Mr. Haynes' professional qualifications are outstanding. So is his long service to the nation. A Harvard Law School graduate, he was previously confirmed unanimously by the Senate as general counsel of the Department of Defense in 2001 and as general counsel of the Department of the Army in 1990.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> As former Judiciary Committee Chairman Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, told The Hill newspaper, 'Haynes is one of the better nominees that I've seen. I can't believe what the Democrats are doing to him. I sure hope no Republican is doing it.'

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Sen. Graham's spokesman, Kevin Bishop, had this to say in our report: 'The role Mr. Haynes played as DOD general counsel formulating these [detainee] policies and whether he was receptive to legal advice from the military will be a line of inquiry when his nomination is brought up.'

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Republican Activists Urge Senate to Vote on Judicial Nominees

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> By James Rowley

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> June 12 (Bloomberg) -- Republican activists want their allies in the U.S. Senate to revive the debate over President George W. Bush's judicial nominees to mobilize the party's core voters for the November elections.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Republicans risk losing one or both houses of Congress unless the base is motivated to vote, the activists warned at a news conference in Washington. They urged Senate Republican leader Bill Frist of Tennessee to focus on judicial nominees instead of a proposed constitutional amendment to ban flag burning that is set for debate this month.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> "Our constituents will not be put off being told that the Senate has more pressing business than judicial nominees,'" said Jan LaRue, chief counsel of Concerned Women For America. Unless Senate Republicans confirm more judicial nominees, ``come Nov. 8, the votes they want may not be there."

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> The flag-burning amendment is more a symbolic issue than judicial nominations, which have concerned voters in past elections since Bush took office, said Manuel Miranda, a former Senate Republican aide who heads the Third Branch Conference.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> "Appealing only with symbolic issues, is, in essence, patronizing," Miranda told reporters. Still, he defended Frist's doomed effort to pass legislation to ban same-sex marriage because that issue "is very much linked to our concern for the judiciary."

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Making a Difference

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> David Keene, chairman of the American Conservative Union, said a debate on judges is a good way for Republicans to distinguish themselves from Democrats in November.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Conservatives are more likely to vote "if they are happy, active and energized," he told reporters.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Frist has tried to avoid battles over nominees who have generated the most controversy. After vowing earlier this year to seek a vote on Terrence Boyle, nominated to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, he has ducked questions about plans to seek Senate votes on Boyle and another nominee for the same Richmond-based court, William J. Haynes II.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Boyle, 60, a federal trial court judge in North Carolina, is accused of breaking a conflict-of-interest law by purchasing stock in General Electric Co. while overseeing a case involving an employee in a pension dispute with the company. Boyle ruled in favor of the company. Those allegations emerged after Frist had announced his plan to seek a Senate vote on Boyle, who Bush first nominated five years ago.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Suspected Terrorists

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Haynes, 48, the Defense Department's general counsel, faces questions from Republicans and Democrats alike over his role in drafting the policies for detaining and interrogating suspected terrorists.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Critics say those policies blur legal prohibitions on abuse of prisoners, leading to the torture of captives at the Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq. About a dozen soldiers have been

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Activists last week urged South Carolina Republican Senator Lindsey Graham to drop his objections to Haynes and permit a vote by the Judiciary Committee on his nomination.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Graham, acknowledging he has concerns about Haynes's role in drafting the detention and interrogation policies, has declined to say how he would vote on the nomination.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> In a June 8 letter to the activists, he said he took "very seriously" the criticisms by two retired Navy judge advocate generals who opposed Haynes. "I am troubled that very <http://www.rightmarch.com/> distinguished military leaders have expressed strong opposition to the Haynes nomination," the letter said.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Second Hearing

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Miranda said he wouldn't oppose a second confirmation hearing for Haynes, who was questioned by the committee before the revelations about Abu Ghraib.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Haynes's nomination is still in the Judiciary Committee, where Democrats say they would ask for another hearing before the panel votes to send the appointment to the full Senate.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> "Jim Haynes does not condone torture," Republican activist Pat M. Woodward Jr., told reporters. Opponents "are trying to blame Jim Haynes for this administration's policies in the war on terror."

<http://www.rightmarch.com/>

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> More than 60 activists, including Paul Weyrich of Coalitions for America and Donald E. Wildmon of the American family Association, have signed a letter urging Republican leaders to drop the flag-burning debate in favor of judicial nominations.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Conservative Leaders Ask Frist To Emphasize Judges

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> CONGRESS DAILY PM

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> by Greta Wodele

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> More than 60 conservative leaders today called on Senate Majority Leader Frist to set aside this month's planned debate on a constitutional amendment to ban flag burning and instead schedule votes on several pending appellate court nominations. "We write to remind you of your duty, but also because we are concerned that if the majority that assured the confirmation votes of Chief Justice Roberts and Justice [Samuel] Alito lose just one seat in the next election, the future of the Supreme Court and the federal appellate bench will again be imperiled by use of filibusters," members of the coalition of conservative groups wrote in a letter to Frist and Republican senators. The group, which is expected to pick up nearly 100 signatures, plans to send the letter Tuesday. The coalition argued the judges debate, which has pitted Republicans against Democrats, ranks higher in surveys with conservatives than the flag burning proposal.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Frist's spokeswoman today responded that the flag burning amendment is a key proposal to Americans, especially for veterans as well as soldiers in Iraq and Afghanistan. She added that Frist has "methodically" pushed through several of President Bush's judicial picks and would continue to do so this year. The spokeswoman declined to give a timeline for scheduling a vote on pending nominees. The Senate is slated to vote on the flag proposal at the end of the month. One conservative group, Americans for Tax Reform, opted against signing onto the coalition's letter and instead sent its own letter encouraging Frist to schedule votes on judicial nominees.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Manuel Miranda, executive director of the conservative Third Branch

Conference, praised Frist today for his previous efforts on judicial nominees, but argued Republicans must demand the majority leader schedule votes for the pending judicial nominees in order to help energize conservative voters this fall. "It will get out small margins," Miranda told reporters, conceding the issue would not mobilize large numbers of conservative voters. "It is by small margins that several [GOP] senators currently hold their seats." Miranda said the judge debate is a "signature issue" for Frist, who would need conservatives for a potential White House bid in 2008. "He began with a bang, but if he ends on a whimper that could hurt him," Miranda said. "We want to help him." One GOP Senate aide dismissed Miranda's news conference today as a media ploy to pressure Republicans on a single issue. "The 'Flag Amendment' is not preventing movement on judges," said the aide, arguing the flag proposal gave conservatives a "juicier hook" than other legislative measures slated for floor debate this year.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Miranda said he expects Frist to commit to a vote on Terrence Boyle's nomination to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals before the July Fourth recess. But conservatives worry that Frist and GOP leaders will not continue pushing votes on other pending judges in the months leading up to the November elections. "Under the old Senate tradition, judges stop after June and July," said Miranda. Frist's spokeswoman declined to comment about whether Frist would schedule a vote on Boyle's nomination before next month.

<http://www.rightmarch.com/> Conservative activists question Sen. Bill Frist's floor priorities
By Jonathan Allen

<mailto:jallen@thehill.com>

<mailto:jallen@thehill.com> Senate Republican leaders hope to rally their base this week by passing a constitutional amendment banning flag desecration, but some GOP activists are balking at the move.

"While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time," a coalition of dozens of interest-group leaders wrote to Republican senators in a letter they will send today.

The broadside by nomination-focused conservatives raises the prospect that an effort to fire up conservatives could backfire on Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.) as Republicans try to draw distinctions between the parties before the November election.

The line of attack echoes that of liberal Democrats who argued that last week's debate over a constitutional amendment banning gay marriage showed a Republican Party out of touch with the American public.

The conservative activists, led by Third Branch Conference chairman and former Frist aide Manuel Miranda, warned that Republicans will suffer damage to their majority if they do not escalate a simmering battle over judges before the November elections.

"If Americans continue to see obstruction and hear excuses rather than debate and votes on nominees, senators should not be surprised that, come Nov. 8, the votes they want may not be there," said Jan LaRue, Concerned Women for America's chief counsel.

Miranda, LaRue and others have been pushing Frist to adopt a more confrontational strategy on nominations before the election, in part because they fear Republican losses could doom nominees who are in the pipeline. To this point the conservatives have been on the losing end of a battle over whether to circumvent Senate rules to force simple majority votes on judicial nominations.

That maneuver, known as the "nuclear option," was placed on the shelf last year after a bipartisan group of 14 senators struck a deal in which the seven Republicans said they would oppose the move in exchange for a promise from the seven Democrats that they would support filibusters of judicial nominees only under "extraordinary circumstances," a nebulous term that leaves senators significant wiggle room.

Miranda predicted yesterday that Frist will bring the nomination of 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals nominee Terrence Boyle to the floor soon but that Frist may be reluctant to move other judges.

"They are ready to give us Boyle and end there," he said.

But the Gang of 14 has not given its blessing to Boyle, whose nomination has been plagued by conflict-of-interest allegations. The Gang's seven Democrats wrote to Judiciary Committee Chairman Arlen Specter (R-Pa.) last month to ask for another hearing on Boyle. At the same time, Republicans declined to offer support, raising questions about Boyle's viability on the Senate floor.

But some Republicans argue Frist should schedule "prime time" debates over the nominees and try to force floor votes, even if he is stymied by Democratic filibusters. The battle, they say, will rally the base.

"If opponents engage, we believe the debate itself is a gain," they wrote. "If opponents obstruct through abuse of Senate rules, highlighting that obstruction is vitally important, and not just for political advantage."

While Miranda and his allies raised hackles at a press conference yesterday, many conservatives are clearly pleased with the effort to ban flag burning. It has been among the highest priorities for some conservative interest groups for years.

Tom McClusky, vice president of government affairs for the Family Research Council, acknowledged yesterday that he was "going a little off message" when he thanked Frist for bringing up the amendments to ban flag burning and gay marriage.

The flag-burning issue does not cut neatly across party lines. Majority Whip Mitch McConnell and fellow GOP Sens. Bob Bennett (Utah) and Lincoln Chafee (R.I.) have voted against similar constitutional flag-burning bans, while past Democratic supporters number in double digits.

Democrats said conservatives who think the flag-burning amendment should be on the back burner are half-right.

"The push to confirm radical judicial nominees and the flag amendment both reflect misplaced Republican priorities," said Rebecca Kirszner, spokeswoman for Minority Leader Harry Reid (D-Nev.).

Reid has supported the amendment and will again if it comes to a vote, Kirszner said. "But he still believes this is not what the Senate should be debating right now," she said.

It does not appear that the flag-burning measure will attract enough votes to clear the two-thirds threshold for passage of constitutional amendments.

<mailto:jallen@thehill.com> Flag debate may be superseded

<mailto:jallen@thehill.com> By Suzanne Struglinski

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html> WASHINGTON — A coalition of conservative groups wants Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist to focus Senate floor debate on pending judicial nominations during time set aside later this month for Sen. Orrin Hatch's amendment on flag desecration.

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html>

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html> At least 100 groups signed a letter to be sent to Frist, R-Tenn.; Hatch, R-Utah; and all the Republican senators today by the Third Branch Conference, Coalitions for America, American Family Association, 60 Plus Association, the Family Research Council and a long list of others.

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html>
The groups do not oppose Hatch's proposed constitutional amendment, which would allow Congress to pass a law outlawing the physical desecration of the U.S. flag, but say a majority of conservatives would rather see the time spent on getting judges approved.

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html> "You are planning to devote valuable Senate floor time to debating a flag-desecration constitutional amendment," according to the letter. "While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time."

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html>
Out of 125 conservative organization leaders who responded to a survey on whether the flag-burning amendment is a priority to get done before Nov. 1, only 18 put it toward the top of the list, according to the letter. But all 18 agreed to put judges over the flag amendment when told to pick between the two.

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html>
"We all agree that debate on judicial nominations is time better spent, and time well spent early to build up steam," according to the letter.

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html>
The letter points to 9th Circuit nominee William Myers, and 4th Circuit nominees Terrence Boyle and William Haynes as those waiting for confirmation that should be addressed.

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html>
"There's no reason why we can't consider the flag amendment along with pending judicial nominations," Hatch said. "Ultimately, the majority leader runs the floor schedule. He knows that with 60 senators publicly behind the amendment, and several more who have voted for it in the past, we're primed to bring this to the floor for a vote. But that doesn't mean we can't consider nominations as well."

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html>

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html> The amendment had 58 co-sponsors last week, but Sen. Mary Landrieu, D-La., signed on as a co-sponsor Monday moving it up to 59, with Hatch's support making it 60. It will need 67 votes to pass.

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html>
Third Branch Conference Chairman Manuel Miranda said "time is precious" on the Senate's election-year calendar and that the flag amendment is "kind of yesterday's issue" so he would rather see the time spent on filling the vacant bench positions.

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html>
Miranda, a former Hatch aide who resigned from a position in Frist's office in 2004 amidst a scandal involving accessing Democrat computer files on judicial nominees, said this is nothing personal but that Hatch just happens to be tied to the amendment the majority of the group's members think should be put on hold — at least for now.

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html>
"These are important times and that's just the way it is," Miranda said.

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html> Frist's office said he has not seen the letter yet but is committed to the judicial nominees and the flag amendment.

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html> "Both issues are important," a spokeswoman said.

By Monisha Bansal
CNSNews.com Staff Writer
June 13, 2006

(CNSNews.com) - Sixty conservative leaders sent a letter to Republican senators Monday, urging them to vote on judicial nominations and not "waste time" on a constitutional amendment to ban flag burning.

"We write because we fear that the Majority is ignoring the impact of the nominations debate on its ability to gain the support of those small margins of voters that the Majority needs to secure unobstructed nominations," the letter states.

"By contrast, and for example, you are planning to devote valuable Senate floor time to debating a flag-desecration constitutional amendment," it continues. "While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time."

"Our constituents will not be put off by being told that the Senate has more pressing business than judicial nominees," said Jan LaRue, chief counsel for Concerned Women for America. "We know that judges affect every area of our lives and certainly the most important issues of life, liberty and property.

"We want actions, not excuses," LaRue said at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C. "If Americans continue to see obstruction and hear excuses rather than debate and votes on nominees, senators should not be surprised that come November 8, the votes they want may not be there."

But Carolyn Weyforth, press secretary for Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.), said that since 2003, the Senate has made "considerable progress" on confirming President Bush's judicial nominees, noting that two Supreme Court justices, 28 Circuit Court judges and 116 District Court judges have been confirmed.

"[Frist] remains committed to working hard to confirm qualified judicial nominees and is still discussing with his colleagues which nominee will be brought forward next," Weyforth told Cybercast News Service.

"Both issues of judicial nominees and flag burning are important to him," Weyforth added, "and he feels that both can be addressed on the Senate floor."

The conservative coalition is pushing for votes on William Myers, a nominee for the 9th Circuit, and 4th Circuit nominees Jim Haynes and Judge Terrence Boyle. The group's letter noted that there are currently 18 Circuit Court vacancies, but these three nominees have been waiting more than a year for a vote.

Kim Gandy, president of the National Organization for Women, is strongly opposed to the three nominees.

"The three who are currently being held up are also extremely problematic in terms of their judicial record and their record of their decisions and past political involvement," Gandy told Cybercast News Service . "I think that senators who respect the Constitution and respect individual rights really should be filibustering those nominations."

Gandy added that the push by conservatives is not new.

"The Right has tried to accomplish a vote on judicial nominees from the beginning, and have in fact succeeded in getting onto the bench some of the worst nominees in the history of the planet," Gandy said.

"The reason that so many of the other nominations have gone forward and these haven't is because there is such a strong feeling that they would not be fair judges," Gandy said.

But Manuel Miranda, chairman of the Third Branch Conference, said the appropriate response for senators who agree with such criticisms of the three nominees is to argue and vote against them on the Senate floor, not to filibuster the nominations.

"We need scheduled floor time, as if [confirming judicial nominees] was a priority," Miranda said, "like it is to us."

<http://deseretnews.com/dn/staff/card/1,1228,2539,00.html> Waiving the Flag for Judges - Monday, June 12, 2006

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Yes, that is supposed to be "waiving," not "waving."

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Just a little earlier today, a coalition of conservative groups organized by Manny Miranda of the Third Branch Conference held an important press conference to announce an overwhelming agreeement that, if the choice is between passing an amendment banning flag burning, as the Senate is scheduled to consider this week, or spending the time necessary to confirm more judicial nominees, the groups strongly prefer the confirmation of judges. (In other words, they would waive the flag issue in favor of the judges.) Not that they don't approve of the flag amendment but, in the words of the American Conservative Union's David Keene, the flag issue is "more symbolic than substantive," whereas the confirmation battles are of highest substantive AND political importance. The flag issue, Keene said, Is "not very salient" right now.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Of course, a bunch of GOP senators obviously consider both issues to be the equivalent of "boob bait for the Bubbas," in other words just throwaway crumbs every once in a while to keep the natives on the right from getting too restless. IN other words, the senators consider themselves to be sort of slumming with us either way, rather than understanding that judicial confirmations are crucially important not just for right-wing hot-button issues but for the protection of the Constitution itself more broadly -- AND important as well for political reasons, because voters motivated by the issue can mean the difference between victory and defeat. Such is not necessarily the case with an 18-year-old issue like flag burning. (Of course, in the best of all worlds, the Senate would consider both issues, because it wouldn't waste so much time either on other issues or, even worse, out of session. But that's a topic for another day.)

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Random notes and quotes from the press conference:

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> From Keene: "The purpose of our gathering here today is to let members of the Senate know that we do not have a 29-miute attention span." "On the right, people are CONTINUALLY concerned" about judges. "We hope that people in the Senate don't just say, 'oh, we've done some of that' (i.e. confirmed a single judge or two judges) and move on." Also, making judicial confirmations an issue in Senate campaigns "will work to the benefit of Republican candidates."

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> From Jan LaRue of Concerned Women of America: Senators must understand that is is "their constitutional DUTY...[to perform their jobs] of advice and consent." "Our constituents will not be put off by being told 'we have more pressing business." LaRue also took direct shots at South Carolina Republican U.S. Sen. Lindsey Graham and, to a lesser extent, at Sen. John McCain, for obstructing 4th Circuit nominee Jim Haynes, a counsel at the Department of Defense.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> William Greene of RightMarch.com said judicial confirmations are one of the two or three biggest issues for conservative activists nationwide, and he echoed LaRue (in effect) when he also said that the senators "better answer to their constituents" and that "they have a duty" to give final floor votes to the nominees.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Lars Liebler, a former law clerk for long-embattled circuit court nominee Terrence Boyle (now a federal district judge), noted that of the 16,000 opinions Boyle has joined, a whopping 99% hvae been either NOT appealed or, if appealed, not overturned -- and that of the ones that have been appealed, 93% have been affirmed by higher courts -- which is higher than the national average.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Jeff Lord, author of "The Borking Rebellion" and sometime contributor to the American Spectator web site, called on the Senate to pass reforms long pushed by Judiciary Committee Chairman Arlen Specter that would establish more formal rules and a formal timetable for considering all nominees.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Also speaking were the wonderful Jim Martin of "60-Plus," Tom McClusky of the Family Research Council, and Pat Woodward of the Republican National Lawyers Association, while Sean Rushton of the Committee for Justice also took questions (as did Miranda, who answered them at length, but I wasn't taking notes as extensively during Q&A).

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> All I have to add is that these speakers were all correct. Confirming good judicial nominees with dispatch preserves the Constitution, it's good politics...and it's only fair to the nominees themselves to let them know, up or down/yes or no, whether they will become judges, rather than forcing them to put their lives on hold, often at great personal and financial cost, while waiting for senators to preen and play nasty political games.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Conservatives Say Senate Must Champion Judicial Nominees
by Pete Winn, associate editor

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Some are setting records for length of time spent waiting for a vote.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> At the National Press Club today, a coalition of conservative legal activists called on the Senate and Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn., to make up-or-down votes for the president's judicial nominees a top priority before the fall elections.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Sean Rushton, executive director of the Committee for Justice, said it's crucial the Senate proceed right away.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> "Many of these nominees have been waiting a record amount of time for a vote, either on the Senate floor or at the Senate Judiciary Committee," he told CitizenLink. "We think it's important to fill these vacancies for the sake of justice and the smooth operation of our federal courts."

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> But Rushton — along with Manuel Miranda's Third Branch Conference — said that a few Senate Republicans may be willing to allow some nominees languish in order to avoid a confrontation with Democrats over judicial filibusters. That, they say, is unacceptable.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> "We're asking that the Senate not only debate those nominees, but take ownership and actually defend these nominees publicly," Rushton said. "The Democrats have been allowed to smear these nominees without adequate rebuttal."

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Lars Liebeler, a Washington, D.C., attorney, said one nominee who has been attacked unfairly is his old boss, federal District Judge Terrence Boyle, who was nominated more than five years ago to a seat on the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> "If you are a district-court judge, you don't have a press secretary or a PR firm who's going to be out there defending you, so you're open to attacks," the former Boyle law clerk said. "It's very difficult for you to stand up and defend yourself. That process, I think is frustrating."

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Liebeler, who said he is part of an "apolitical" group of 20 or so former Boyle law clerks who have banded together to set the record straight, said the news media have wrongly attacked the judge's integrity and ethics. To say the allegations are wrong would be an understatement.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> "I think people sometimes play pretty fast and loose with the facts," he said. "In this case, it's important to call people on those facts. Judge Boyle is a good judge, and his record proves that beyond question."

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Emily Barton, a lawyer in private practice in Chicago who clerked for Boyle for two years, pointed to the fact that his nomination has been languishing for a record-setting time.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> "In less than a week, he'll commemorate the fact that it has been one year since his nomination was voted out of committee," she said. "In a month, he'll set a second record by being the longest-standing nominee having been voted out of committee and not having received an up-or-down vote."

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> "I think it's time those records stop being set — and we need to set a better precedent for future nominees."

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Barton said the allegations against Boyle largely center on whether he ruled in a case in which it is alleged he had a financial interest — and the baseless charges, she said, came not from informed sources, but from a single Web article.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> "This was a Web article published by a project which is funded by George Soros," the billionaire liberal activist, she said. "People can draw their own conclusions."

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Barton believes the whole judicial-nominations process is in need of an overhaul.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> "I think Judge Boyle is just one in a number of nominations that people have attempted to sidetrack for political reasons," she said. "I think the system is at one of the most contentious levels ever in history, and I think it is broken. We need to take a good look, as a policy matter, at what this is doing to the likelihood of getting fair, honest and experienced people on the bench when their personal lives can be attacked like this."

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Bruce Hausknecht, judicial analyst at Focus on the Family Action, said one need only think of the name of Miguel Estrada to understand how broken the system is.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> "He was filibustered for several years before he gave up and withdrew his own name," he said. "There was also Carolyn Kuhl, a California judge who experienced something similar with her nomination to the 9th Circuit, and she said — my interpretation — "I don't need this" and withdrew her nomination.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> Add to the list Henry Saad, who was nominated for the 6th Circuit.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> "Just this year, after three years of being filibustered, he withdrew his name and went home," Hausknecht said.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> The real trouble, according to Hausknecht, is that good judges who want to serve their country are suffering abuse at the hands of liberal politicians who have a political agenda in obstructing judges.

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> "Because of that, other potential appellate judges are going to look very hard at whether they truly want to force their families to go through the same type of defamation and slander and obstruction and filibuster that these other good nominees have gone through."

<http://www.spectator.org/blogger.asp?BlogID=3111> TAKE ACTION:
Please let your senators know you think it's unfair to let the nominees of any president languish for years without the courtesy of an up-or-down vote. Please ask your lawmakers to champion the cause of Judge Terrence Boyle and other nominees.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> "Throughout our history, America's judiciary has expanded its power. This attitude of judicial supremacy even led judges in the Ninth Circuit to rule that the phrase 'under God' in the Pledge of Allegiance was unconstitutional.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> "Constitutional amendments are but one step in the solution to address issues under attack. We are here today to ensure our courts are stocked by judges who interpret the law -- not those who seek to make it.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> "Judges such as Terrence Boyle, who was first nominated in the spring of 2001, have been held up for years by inaction in the U.S. Senate. Michael Wallace has been subject to unwarranted attacks by the highly political and leftward leaning American Bar Association and is now awaiting action by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> "If we hope to return to the days when we had three equal branches of government instead of a court that overrules them all, President Bush must continue to nominate high caliber nominees and not succumb to political deals which weaken his Constitutional authority. The U.S. Senate must move quickly to bring these nominees to an up-or-down vote; our system of justice requires it, and the American people deserve nothing less."

today at a press conference to urge U.S. Senators to stop delaying and start moving on the pending nominations of qualified judicial nominees. Senators must hold hearings and bring pending nominations to the floor in order to fill the remaining 49 vacancies in the federal courts.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> LaRue said, "Concerned Women for America and our half million members in all 50 states expect the Senators they've supported in past elections to fulfill their constitutional duty in the judicial nomination process. Delay, neglect and obstruction are not advice and consent. Nominees deserve and must have a hearing and a Senate vote.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> "Judge Terry Boyle has been waiting more than five years for a Senate vote. <http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home>

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> "Jim Haynes' nomination to the Fourth Circuit has been delayed in the Senate Judiciary Committee more than a year since his hearing. Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-South Carolina) needs to back up his statement of November 11, 2003: "[T]he President's nominees deserve a straight up-or-down vote. If they get this, they will be confirmed." Senators must show up at the hearing and vote and then vote on the Senate floor.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> "Our people expect their senators to stand up for judicial nominees who are committed to preserving our constitutional republic by upholding the written Constitution and respecting the limited role of a judge. <http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> "If Americans continue to see obstruction and hear excuses rather than debate and votes on nominees, senators should not be surprised that come November 8, the votes they want may not be there," concluded LaRue.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> The Senate is back in session, and we'll soon see if Republicans are serious about confirming President Bush's nominees for the appeals courts. Majority Leader Bill Frist kept his promise to confirm Brett Kavanaugh to the D.C. Circuit before Memorial Day, after he'd waited three years for a vote.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> So who's next? Mr. Frist wanted to move Fourth Circuit nominee Terrence Boyle by Memorial Day too, but no go. A federal judge in North Carolina, Mr. Boyle has the honor of waiting longer than any appeals-court nominee in history for a floor vote. He was in Mr. Bush's first group of nominees announced on May 9, 2001 and was first nominated by Mr. Bush's father in 1991, though Democrats denied him a vote.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> Democrats now say they'll filibuster his nomination. They are distorting a couple of Judge Boyle's civil rights decisions and making conflict-of-interest allegations that add up at worst to minor infractions. But Republicans don't want a fight in an election year over race or ethics. And Judge Boyle's onetime Senate champion -- Jesse Helms

-- has long since retired. A controversial nominee without an angel to guide him through today's polarized Senate is in trouble.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> Which brings us to William "Jim" Haynes II, another stalled Fourth Circuit nominee. Mr. Haynes was named on September 29, 2003, had a hearing two months later, and was voted out of committee in March 2004. But don't blame this delay only on Democrats. Two Republicans -- Senators John McCain and Lindsey Graham -- are also causing the holdup.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> Mr. Haynes is the Pentagon's general counsel, and his transgression is to have offered legal advice on the treatment of detainees in the war on terror. The big point of contention is his role in Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld's decision in December 2002 to allow "coercive" interrogation techniques against al Qaeda detainees at Guantanamo.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home>

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> The Pentagon says Mr. Haynes offered legal analysis; his critics distort this to say he was instrumental in forging a policy that could be used to justify "torture." But there is no evidence that anyone condoned torture, and it was the CIA, not the Pentagon, that used "waterboarding" that critics cite as the most coercive sanctioned technique.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> In any case, Mr. Rumsfeld rescinded his decision within six weeks after Pentagon lawyers took their concerns to Mr. Haynes, who then took them to Mr. Rumsfeld. Even if you believe the "coercive" techniques policy was a mistake, its reversal was due in no small part to Mr. Haynes, who did his duty of providing legal analysis. Mr. Haynes met with Senator McCain for an hour last month and agreed to answer written questions about the issue.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> Senator McCain's anger over the Air Force's tanker deal with Boeing also unfairly extends to Mr. Haynes. As general counsel, Mr. Haynes had the job of reviewing and, in some cases, redacting the small library's worth of documents the Senator demanded. A McCain spokeswoman tells us that the Senator has not made a decision about whether to support the nomination.

<http://vocusgr.vocus.com/GRSPACE2/dotnet/WebPublish/controller.aspx?SiteName=FOTF&Definition=Home&XSL=Home&SV_Section=Home> There are 18 vacancies on the appeals-court bench -- 10% of the total -- and not many weeks left to fill them before election-year campaigning makes judicial confirmations next to impossible. Seven nominees are currently waiting for a hearing or vote. With Republicans in danger of losing Senate seats, if not their majority, now is the time to honor one of their campaign pledges from 2004 by confirming Mr. Bush's judicial nominees.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> White House officials are making a concerted effort to cooperate with outside conservative groups to support and defend President Bush's nominees to the federal bench, and they are also planning to work more closely with the Senate on confirming the nominees.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> The greater focus on judges comes in the wake of privately expressed criticism from conservative leaders that the White House and the GOP-controlled Senate were doing little to defend high-profile nominees such as William "Jim" Haynes and Terrence Boyle, both picked for the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, from attacks by liberals.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> The White House and Senate Republicans offered spirited defenses of prior embattled nominees, such as Priscilla Owen, who now sits on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and Janice Rogers Brown, who is a member of the D.C. Circuit Court. But since their confirmations and the Supreme Court confirmations of Chief Justice John Roberts and Justice Samuel Alito, GOP leaders have done little to defend other controversial nominees.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> The lack of an organized defense of languishing nominees such as Haynes, Boyle and William Myers, a nominee to the 9th Circuit, prompted former clerks of the nominees and conservative activists to take matters into their own hands. Boyle's former clerks, many of whom are now prominent lawyers, joined together on their own accord to defend him from accusations that he acted improperly while a district-court judge.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> Conservative activists and intellectual leaders, such as Sean Rushton, executive director of the Committee for Justice, and Professor John Yoo of the University of California at Berkeley, also began laying plans to form committees to defend other embattled nominees. Yoo was in the national spotlight earlier this year during the Alito hearings because of his writings on the legal theory of the unitary executive, which Bush has used to justify his wartime powers.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> But since the Senate confirmation of Brett Kavanaugh to the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals two weeks ago, the White House has begun to take a more active role in defending the nominees. For example, talking points circulated at the end of last week defending Boyle from accusations that he did not recuse himself from cases where he may have had conflicts of interest were written in the signature style of the White House and its ally the Republican National Committee. And administration officials are also working more closely with conservative activists to defend the nominees. Also, the Department of Justice is crafting a memo on Boyle's conduct as a judge and activists close to the White House such as Edward Whelan, president of the Ethics and Public Policy Center who authored a recent article in the conservative Weekly Standard, are stepping up their advocacy on behalf of the judicial nominees.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> "I sense that," said Sen. Jeff Sessions (R-Ala.), a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, when asked yesterday if he noticed more effort by the White House to support the judicial nominees. He added that he met with Boyle and a White House aide Monday in a meeting he said he assumed was set up by the administration.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> "I guess that represents a stepping up and talking about judges," Sessions acknowledged.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> Sessions also said that conservatives are right to be concerned about the lack of action by Senate Republicans to defend the nominees, something he attributed to distractions caused by the busy schedule and big political issues such as immigration reform.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html>

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> Sen. Jim DeMint (R-S.C.), a rising star in the upper chamber's conservative circles, said that the White House is working more closely with Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.) on the judicial nominees.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html>

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> "We've got to get moving faster on judicial nominees," said DeMint, who added that Frist has told him judicial nominees are a priority.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html>

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> A White House official said that several of the nominees have sat in the Senate for a long time and that the administration is asking senators to make a decision about whether to confirm them or not, whether to "fish or cut bait."

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> The greater cooperation between the White House and conservative groups comes several weeks after White House political adviser Karl Rove and counsel Harriet Miers told conservatives in a private meeting that they would begin sending more judicial nominees to the Hill. But so far few nominees have been sent.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html>

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> The White House official said that to the extent there is a push on judges it is an effort to wrap up background checks on judicial nominees and send them to the Senate more quickly. The effort is a direct recognition that the window of opportunity for getting nominees confirmed in the Senate may be closing as Election Day and the end of the 109th Congress approaches.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html>

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.), a member of the Judiciary Committee, has come under heavy fire from conservatives for blocking Haynes's nomination.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> Yesterday, nearly 80 prominent conservative leaders including David Keene, chairman of the American Conservative Union; Paul Weyrich, chairman of Coalitions for America; Manuel Miranda, chairman of the Third Branch Conference; and Saul Anuzis, chairman of the Michigan Republican Party, delivered a letter to Graham rebuking him for "effectively blocking" Haynes's nomination in the Judiciary Committee.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html>

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> "We understand that you and Senator [John] McCain [R-Ariz.] have concerns about the Bush Administration's policies on prisoners captured in the War on Terror, and about Mr. Haynes's role in implementing those policies at the Defense Department," the conservative leaders wrote.

<http://www.thehill.com/thehill/export/TheHill/News/Frontpage/060706/news3.html> Graham defended himself yesterday by saying that he is not blocking Haynes in committee and arguing that the conservative leaders who signed the letter do not represent all conservatives. But Graham refused to say whether he would cast a crucial vote to pass Haynes out of committee.

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php> Jim Haynes' listening skills

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php>

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php> Last night, I discussed the incoherent criticism directed at Fourth Circuit nominee Jim Haynes by two retired military legal officers. It since has been pointed out to me that one of the officers, Retired Admiral Hutson, served as the Navy Judge Advocate General during the Clinton Administration, retiring in 2000. Thus, he never worked directly with Haynes, and presumably lacks first hand knowledge as to whether Haynes listens to others. The other Retired Admiral, Donald Guter, was the Navy JAG from 2000 to 2002. He retired in 2002, and so had a relatively brief overlap with Haynes.

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php>

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php> By contrast, Major General (ret.) Michael Marchand served with Haynes until July 2005. He was an Army JAG for 31 years. During the last 12 of them, he served in positions that provided him with "sigificant exposure" to the various General Counsels of the Department of Defense. Marchand states, in a letter to Senators Specter and Leahy that

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php>

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php> In my experience Mr. Haynes has been more inclusive of the Judge Advocates General and the senior service lawyers of the armed services than any General Counsel of the Department of Defense. He has consistently and repeatedly reached out to the senior lawyers of the Department of Defense on some of the most difficult legal issues to confront our armed services, our Department, and our Country. He has done so throughout his tenure in formal and informal ways. He has been respectful of our views, even on those occasions when he may not have agreed with one of more of us. The Department and its legal community -- and the Country -- have been well served.

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php>

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php> UPDATE: William Suter, Major General, USA (Ret.), and clerk of the U.S. Supreme Court, served in the JAG Corps from 1962-1991. He worked closely with Jim Haynes in 1990-1991 when Haynes was General Counsel of the Army. Suter has written to various Senators in support of Haynes. He states:

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php>

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php> Mr. Haynes is a superb lawyer in every respect. He performed his duties as the Army General Counsel with great distinction. He was very knowledgeable concerning military matters and fully supported the Army's mission. I found him easy to work with and considered him a valuable provessional colleague. He was always available to discuss pending legal issues and we kept each other informed about important matters. He respected Judge Advocates and their opinions. He is also a man of great character and integrity.

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php> Mr. Haynes deserves a vote on his nomination. I am confident that he will be an outstanding appellate judge.

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php> Conservatives Rap Graham Over Judge; He Defends Stance

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php>

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php> More than 80 conservative leaders today sent a letter to Sen. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C., accusing him of waging a "silent filibuster" against the nomination of William Haynes to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. While Graham today dismissed the coalition's charges, he also outlined his concerns with the nominee. "We represent a coalition of organizations that cares deeply about putting constitutionalist judges on the federal courts," wrote the leaders. "We are writing to express our concern about your lack of support for the nomination of William Haynes to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, effectively blocking him in [the Judiciary] committee." The leaders further accused Graham of violating the constitutional prerogative of the president and the GOP majority to have an up-or-down vote on nominations, comparing his opposition to "Democrats' minority-obstructionist tactics."

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php>

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php> Graham brushed off the group's efforts to demand he support the nominee. "They are a group of people that organize around a specific event. That doesn't mean they represent conservatives," said Graham. "I represent a conservative state with a conservative philosophy on judges. But I also believe added scrutiny is needed. And I am ready to vote on all nominees that I know about." Graham said Bush administration officials that worked with Haynes on the administration's policies involving torture of war prisoners have expressed to him their concerns with Haynes' role in the "formulation of the interrogation policy. I'm listening to those people." But Graham insisted he is not officially blocking the Judiciary Committee from voting on Haynes' nomination and predicted other senators would "call for more hearings" on controversial nominees, including Haynes. Graham declined to say how he would vote on the nominee if requests for additional hearings are not met. Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., also shares Graham's concerns with Haynes' nomination.

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php>

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014324.php> Despite their anger over Graham's participation in the Gang of 14 last year, the conservative coalition declined to mention Graham's role in today's letter. The bipartisan Gang of 14 prevented Majority Leader Frist from changing Senate rules to prohibit the minority from filibustering a president's judicial nomination. The Committee for Justice, which signed today's letter, said recently the conservative groups would launch a national campaign via e-mails and telephone calls to Graham in hope of persuading the senator to support Haynes' nomination. One conservative leader predicted recently that Graham's conservative base could lash out against the senator when he runs for re-election in 2008. Haynes, who was nominated three years ago, has twice received the American Bar Association's highest rating. The group today defended Haynes' involvement in the 2003 torture scandal when he served as the Pentagon's general counsel, arguing Haynes had an "obligation to defend the legal rights of his client, the Defense Department, and to follow the legal advice of the Justice Department." -- by Greta Wodele

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014317.php>

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014317.php> According to the Washington Post, "some retired military officers have served notice" that they will oppose the nomination of Jim Haynes in the event of a confirmation battle. The two officers mentioned by the Post are both former military lawyers.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/06/05/AR2006060501124.html> This is old news to anyone who has been reading Power Line. Indeed, as we have long noted, Sen. Lindsey Graham reportedly has been preventing a confirmation battle based partly on reports from military lawyers who are unhappy with Haynes about his role regarding the administration's policy towards war on terrorism detainees.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/06/05/AR2006060501124.html> One of the officers, retired Rear Admiral John Hutson, claims that Haynes' "unwillingness to listen to others caused him to preside over the DOD legal system during the time of its greatest debacle in memory, the abuse of detainees by military personnel around the world." This is the familiar argument of the bureaucrat on the losing side -- "they didn't listen to me," which almost always means "they didn't agree with me." In Haynes' case, moreover, it was his obligation to defer to the legal advice and policy preferences of the Justice Department and the White House, not those of career military lawyers.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/06/05/AR2006060501124.html> As for the "great debacle" claim, Hutson's tortured formulation, ("caused [Haynes] to preside over the legal system in the time of its greatest debacle," not "caused a debacle"), betrays the weakness of his argument. And what precisely was the debacle? If Hutson is referring to Abu Ghraib, he's talking nonsense. Nothing Haynes (or Justice Department lawyers) did caused that debacle; otherwise, whatever they did to cause it would have caused other Abu Ghraibs. Indeed, the controversial memo that Haynes produced (which adhered to the legal position laid out by the Justice Department) did not include sexual humiliation as one of the permitted interrogation devices. If Hutson is referring to Guantanamo Bay, then there is no debacle. Evidence of mistreatment of prisoners there is scant. It can be argue that the decision to hold so many people at Gitmo indefinitely (regardless of how they are treated) has been a public relations set-back. But that decision was not made by Haynes.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/06/05/AR2006060501124.html> Meanwhile, retired Rear Admiral Donald Guter, apparently in response to the argument that Haynes was following Justice Department policy as he was obliged to, doubts that as a judge Haynes would have the independence or judgment to oppose unwise policies being pushed by his superiors. Either Guter is being misquoted or he was absent the day they taught law in law school. As an appeals court judge, Haynes' "superiors" would be the Supreme Court, and it would be Haynes' obligation not to oppose their decisions. It would also be Haynes' obligation as a judge not to focus on whether policies being "pushed" by the executive or the legislature are "unwise," as opposed to unlawful.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/06/05/AR2006060501124.html> Against the incoherent views of the retired admirals, we have the testimony of Bernard Meltzer, a distinguished law professor and former assistant trial counsel at Nuremberg, who worked with Haynes in formulating the procedure for trying detainees before military tribunals. Meltzer apparently had no difficulty in getting Haynes to "listen." He reports that Haynes showed "informed and sensitive concern for the rights and legitimate interests of those who might be tried before a military commission."

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/06/05/AR2006060501124.html> No wonder Lindsey Graham has been trying to prevent a debate on the merits of Haynes.

Haynes, the Defense Department's general counsel, is President Bush's choice for a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 4th Circuit. Democrats have opposed Haynes since 2003, and now some Republicans are joining them. They object to his role as the Pentagon's top lawyer when controversial policies were adopted regarding harsh treatment of detainees captured in Afghanistan, Iraq and elsewhere.

Last week, some retired military lawyers came to Graham's defense, sending letters to the Judiciary Committee that call Haynes unfit for a lifetime appointment to the appellate court.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> IF THERE WERE A LIST of lawyers least suited to assess Brett Kavanaugh's fitness to serve as a judge on the D.C. Circuit, Marna Tucker would be very high on it. Tucker's narrow specialty, divorce law, is far removed, in both substance and sophistication, from the work of the federal appellate courts--especially from the complex cases of administrative law that are the staple of the D.C. Circuit. Even worse, Tucker could hardly pretend to be impartial towards Kavanaugh. A fervent gender activist and supporter of other left-wing causes, she is a longtime ally of those who have vituperated the conservative Kavanaugh on account of his work for Kenneth Starr's independent-counsel investigation and his service as White House lawyer and staff secretary under President George W. Bush.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> After nearly three years of Democratic obstruction, Kavanaugh's nomination was recently confirmed by the Senate, and he has taken his seat on the D.C. Circuit. But the untold story of his recent treatment by the ABA's Committee on the Federal Judiciary, which rates all federal judicial nominees, deserves attention, for it illustrates a longstanding defect that periodically plagues the committee's evaluations of Republican nominees.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> When President Bush first nominated Kavanaugh in July 2003, the ABA committee gave him its top overall rating of "well qualified" (with a "substantial majority"--10 to 13 of the 14 voting members--rating him "well qualified" and the remaining minority rating him "qualified"). When Kavanaugh was renominated in early 2005, the committee's supplemental evaluation yielded the same "well qualified" rating. Then, as the Senate's 2005 session was wrapping up, Democratic leadership in the Senate, in a curious move, insisted that Kavanaugh's nomination, alone among all the pending judicial nominations, be sent back to the White House. The Democrats' insistence seemed at the time peevish, requiring President Bush to go through the formality of renominating Kavanaugh in January 2006. Little noticed was the fact that, under the ABA committee's practices, the renomination would trigger yet another supplemental evaluation of Kavanaugh.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> There was every reason to expect the ABA's 2006 supplemental evaluation to be routine, as its purpose was simply to cover the one-year period since the previous rating. But a key fact had changed over that year: Tucker had been assigned to the ABA committee as the member responsible for the D.C. Circuit. Instead of focusing on the previous year--the only period of time not covered in the earlier evaluations--Tucker launched a scorched-earth review of Kavanaugh's entire career. She conducted 91 witness interviews--far more than the 55 that underlay the original 2003 evaluation--but showed little interest in witnesses identified by Kavanaugh. When ABA judiciary committee chairman Stephen Tober discovered (in his words) that "this was a nominee that Ms. Tucker was spending a considerable amount of time on," he did not rein her in but instead enlisted a second committee member--liberal civil-rights activist John Payton--to assist her.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> Kavanaugh's relations with the previous D.C. Circuit member--also a Democratic woman--had been cordial and professional. In sharp contrast--according to administration officials whom Kavanaugh spoke with at the time--Tucker and Payton were adversarial and partisan when they interviewed Kavanaugh. Tucker criticized the White House for ending the ABA committee's privileged role in reviewing judicial candidates before they were formally nominated. Tucker and Payton displayed a bizarre interest in an internal Senate dispute (not involving Kavanaugh) that arose in late 2003 after a Republican staffer discovered on a shared computer directory a Democratic strategy memo that urged that a Sixth Circuit nominee be stonewalled in order to affect the outcome of the University of Michigan racial-preferences cases pending in that court. And Payton, who had argued those same cases in the Supreme Court in 2003, tried to probe what part Kavanaugh had played in the White House's formulation of the administration's position in those cases.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> Returning from the interview, Kavanaugh told his White House colleagues that Tucker's conduct of the interview deeply concerned him. Fortunately for Kavanaugh, his strong record and the previous ratings he had received from the ABA committee made it difficult for Tucker to do him serious damage. Her evaluation reduced his overall rating from "well qualified" to "qualified" (with a minority of the committee still finding him well qualified), but even that rating meant that he had met the committee's "very high standards with respect to integrity, professional competence and judicial temperament."

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> But the ABA committee and Tucker weren't through with Kavanaugh. Responding to hyperbolic Democratic rhetoric about Kavanaugh's downgrade, Tober took the extraordinary step of submitting to the Senate Judiciary Committee a statement that presented, in isolation and without attribution, the committee's supposed dirt on Kavanaugh. And Tober and Tucker supplemented this statement in a telephone conference with senators and staffers.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> One witness, Tober explained, had charged that Kavanaugh had "dissembled" in an oral argument. And (among a few other criticisms) several witnesses, all supposedly using the same word, had characterized Kavanaugh's White House work as "insulated." Tober and Tucker asserted that, consistent with their committee's policies, Kavanaugh had been informed of all negative items and had been given a full opportunity to answer them.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> The ABA's disclosures, and the manner in which they were presented, astounded Kavanaugh and his advisers. Tucker had never told him the incendiary charge about having "dissembled" in court, he explained to White House colleagues. Had he heard it, he pointed out compellingly, he certainly would have tried to learn more about it from Tucker in order to dispute it. And, indeed, it appears that in the original charge the term "dissembled" was misused. Questioned in the telephone conference about the charge, Tucker stated that the "quote was 'He did not handle the case well as an advocate; he was not forceful, and when he dissembled, he did not argue his case clearly.'" The quoted statement makes little sense: It would be peculiar to criticize dissembling (a form of lying) merely for its effect on clarity, rather than as an intrinsic evil. Tucker herself, according to an unpublished transcript of the telephone conference, interpreted the charge merely to mean that Kavanaugh "did not respond appropriately" to questions. But Kavanaugh was never given a chance to contest the charge. And Senate Democrats, handed the ammunition by Tober and Tucker, profligately highlighted the "dissembling" charge to impugn Kavanaugh's integrity.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> As for the charge that Kavanaugh's White House experience was "insulated": It was clear to Kavanaugh that Tucker herself was committed to that view. She even ignorantly insisted that, as staff secretary overseeing the full range of executive-branch decisions, he was exposed only to a "very narrow band" of views.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> With hindsight, only a naïf would believe that Tucker and Senate Democrats did not work together to engineer the return of Kavanaugh's nomination in December 2005. The most sensible hypothesis is that Tucker signaled that she was well positioned to inflict damage on Kavanaugh--and that sending the nomination back to the White House would enable her to do so through a supplemental evaluation. Why else would Senate Democrats have insisted on sending the nomination back?

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> The bigger question is why a highly partisan divorce lawyer was ever appointed to the committee in the first place. The sitting ABA president, during his one-year term, has plenary authority to fill the five or so vacancies that arise each year. (The committee chairman and the 14 other members serve staggered three-year terms.) With the ABA's transformation over the last few decades from an apolitical professional organization into a liberal interest group, ABA presidents and the bar activists who vie for influential ABA positions have trended leftwards. Current ABA president Michael S. Greco, a zealous liberal, presumably selected Tucker because of, not in spite of, her partisan credentials.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> Tober's role in Tucker's excesses is also significant. Under the committee's procedures, the chairman and the circuit member who conducts the investigation have extraordinary practical clout in shaping the views of the other committee members, as they prepare the report that goes to the full committee. That Tober did not try to restrain Tucker, but instead teamed her up with another liberal activist, suggests a woeful inattention on his part to partisan conflicts of interest.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> Not coincidentally, Tober recently oversaw the committee's remarkable "not qualified" rating of Fifth Circuit nominee Michael B. Wallace, a highly respected attorney and former Supreme Court law clerk for the late William Rehnquist. In 1987, when Wallace served on the board of the Legal Services Corporation, Tober presented strikingly intemperate testimony to an LSC committee that Wallace chaired. Opposing a proposed regulation to require that boards receiving LSC funds have bipartisan membership (as does the LSC itself), Tober flamboyantly accused Wallace of attempting to "fashion a political bias litmus test" and of having a "hidden agenda," and he vowed to disobey the regulation if it became law.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> The transcript of Tober's testimony, which also includes a number of loopy constitutional arguments, makes one wonder why Tober has any role in evaluating judicial nominees. It's even more disturbing that he would not see fit to recuse himself from reviewing the nomination of Wallace, for whom he plainly bears a strong animus.

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp>

<http://www.weeklystandard.com/Content/Public/Articles/000/000/012/290ixcht.asp> Perhaps Tober will provide a persuasive explanation for the committee's negative rating of Wallace. But one lesson from the Kavanaugh process is that Tober's explanations should not be accepted at face value. In any event, it's long past time for the ABA to take serious steps to ensure the selection of committee members who will not let political bias infect their evaluations of judicial nominees. Absent such steps, the Senate Judiciary Committee should deprive the ABA committee of the privileged status it has long been accorded.

<http://powerlineblog.com/archives/014292.php> This lead in today's Post story by Chris Cillizza about Sen. Lindsey Graham is priceless:

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/06/03/AR2006060300555.html> The story is great news, though. I've referred to Senator Graham as "the Arlen Specter of the south." In same ways, though, the better comparison is to Tom Daschle. As with Daschle, the voters in Graham's conservative home state probably have little idea of Graham's true ideological stance. Sean Rushton makes this point when he says:

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/06/03/AR2006060300555.html> A key reason why Lindsey Graham is Senator Graham is because he ran as opposed to the obstruction of the president's judicial nominees. We hope he'll remember that.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/06/03/AR2006060300555.html> If Senator Graham nonetheless feels that Haynes is unfit to serve on the Fourth Circuit by virtue of his legal memos (or for any other reason) that's fine. But let's have the debate and the vote.

Along with colleague and political ally John McCain (R-Ariz.), Graham has expressed concern regarding the advice Haynes provided the Bush administration on the treatment of detainees captured in the war on terrorism. "The role Mr. Haynes played as DOD general counsel formulating these policies and whether he was receptive to legal advice from the military will be a line of inquiry when his nomination is brought up," said Kevin D. Bishop, communications director for Graham.

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2006/06/03/AR2006060300555.html> Opposing conservatives on one of their pet issues carries political risks for both Graham and McCain.

Since winning the seat vacated by the late Sen. Strom Thurmond (R) in 2002, Graham has faced occasional opposition from his party's base, a resistance that hardened when he joined a bipartisan group of senators -- the "Gang of 14" -- to defuse a showdown on judicial nominees.

Time running short on nomination
By M.E. Sprengelmeyer, Rocky Mountain News

WASHINGTON — Time is running out before a Colorado judicial nomination could get stalled in the U.S. Senate's summer swoon.

President Bush has nominated attorney and legal scholar Neil Gorsuch to fill a seat on the Denver-based 10th Circuit Court of Appeals, and backers hope he gets a hearing in the Senate Judiciary Committee in the next few weeks.

But if there's a delay and the committee can't agree to advance the nomination by the Senate's August recess, it's unlikely he can be win final Senate confirmation by the end of the year, said Sean Conway, chief of staff to Sen. Wayne Allard, R-Loveland.

That prospect, and the lengthy delay in confirming an earlier 10th Circuit nominee, Tim Tymkovich, prompted Allard to hand-deliver a letter to Senate Judiciary Committee chairman Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., this week asking him to expedite Gorsuch's confirmation.

"What we're trying to do is get this process moving," Allard chief of staff Sean Conway said Thursday. "What pushed this is we do not want a repeat of the Tymkovich situation where we had a vacancy on the court for over two years."

"Sen. Allard just doesn't feel it's prudent to have a vacancy on an important appeals court like this, particularly with a non-controversial nominee."

So far, no overt opposition has emerged to Gorsuch's nomination, but arcane Senate procedures have left the timing of his pending confirmation hearings up in the air.

By Senate tradition, the Judiciary Committee does not move forward with confirmation hearings until a nominee's two home-state Senators deliver so-called "blue slips" indicating they approve going forward.

In the past, Allard has used that procedure to block two of former President Bill Clinton's Colorado judicial nominees.

As of Thursday afternoon, Sen. Ken Salazar, D-Denver, had not delivered his "blue slip" on Gorsuch, but spokesman Drew Nannis said there was no intent to delay Gorsuch and that Salazar's sign-off could come within a day or two.

Frist Sets Stage for Vote on 9th Circuit Nominee
By Robert Bluey
A well-placed source tells me tonight that Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R.-Tenn.) has scheduled time on Monday at 5:30 p.m. to vote on the confirmation of Sandra Segal Ikuta, a nominee for the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Ikuta doesn't have the name recognition of some other appellate court nominees, but with pressure mounting on Senate Republicans to act on judges, Frist's move demonstrates once again that he is listening to the base.

According to Law.com, Ikuta is a "moderate conservative," who is supported by both Republicans and Democrats. [T]he list of people who do know her is significant. Among them, former Secretary of State Warren Christopher (who put in a good word with Sen. Dianne Feinstein), 9th Circuit Judge Alex Kozinski, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor (she clerked for both) and Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger (her current boss).

Ikuta currently serves as the general counsel to the California Resources Agency. She'll be replacing Judge James R. Browning, who is apparently the last appellate court judge remaining from the Kennedy Administration

UPDATE -- 1:27 a.m.: I'm hearing back from people with a stake in the judicial fight, and while they're pleased to see Frist move Ikuta to a vote, they're disappointed he didn't pick one of the well-known nominees I alluded to in my post. They include Terrence Boyle, William Haynes, William Myers or Michael Wallace.

One source remarked:
"If the leader was listening to his base, he would be mounting defenses of Boyle, Haynes, Myers, and Wallace, and considering moving any of them -- especially Boyle, who will be on the floor one year this Friday -- rather than giving the Dems an easy pass to vote for Ikuta. It creates the illusion of action while avoiding the hard work conservatives are actually advocating."

The friends of Lindsey Graham
By Paul Mirengoff

Sen. Lindsey Graham has written a "Dear Friends" letter in which he explains his reservations about the nomination of Jim Haynes to the Fourth Circuit. He states that these reservations are based on the opposition of "very distinguished military leaders" to the Haynes nomination. These leaders turn out to be Retired Rear Admiral John Hutson and Retired Rear Admiral Donald Guter. As I have noted, Hutson is a partisan Democrat who served as Navy JAG under Clinton and retired before Haynes became General Counsel of the Defense Department. Guter, Hutson's successor and crony, worked with Haynes for only a short period of time. His opposition apparently is based on the incoherent prediction that, as a judge, Haynes would be unable to resist orders from his superiors.

Graham also cites Retired Brigadier General Edward Rodriguez of the United States Air Force Reserves. But, as I understand it, Rodriguez left active duty in 1974, stayed with the reserves until 1999, and never worked with Haynes. Why Graham relies on partisans with little or no first hand knowledge, while ignoring the pro-Haynes views of, say, Major General (ret.) Michael Marchand who served with Haynes until mid-2005, is unclear.

Graham also refers darkly to "memos written by military legal officers to the civilian leaders in the Department of Defense regarding detainees." He notes that military lawyers "express[ed] grave concerns about confusing and legally flawed interrogation policies" and the potential adverse consequences to the service men who would carry them out.

As I understand it, Graham is talking here about memos that the JAGs wrote about proposed interrogation methods when they participated in the interrogation working group in 2003. The JAGs in fact did express concerns, but the concerns were addressed in the final set of interrogation methods. This final document achieved general consensus (even Haynes critic Alberto Mora apparently was on board), although the document did not conform entirely to the wishes of the JAGs.

Thus, contrary to the claim that Haynes was unwilling to listen to the military, the JAGs were heard out, and their concerns were addressed. As Maj. Gen. Thomas J. Romig, the Army's top lawyer, testified before a subcommittee chaired by Sen. Graham (as reported in the Washington Post), the criticism "was accepted in some cases, maybe not in all cases. It did modify the proposed list of policies and procedures."

Finally, Graham's letter fails to address the most important questions that arise from his course of conduct -- what has his role been in preventing the Haynes nomination from coming to a vote, and will he now commit to allowing such a vote following a full and fair debate?

Stop the nomination games
It's time to pass Specter's reforms to the irresponsible handling of judicial nominations.
By Jeffrey Lord

Jeffrey Lord is the author of "The Borking Rebellion," an inside look at the U.S. Senate's judicial confirmation process

There they go again.

It's bad enough that one political party in charge of the U.S. Senate plays games with the federal judiciary when the other party controls the White House. Now we have members of the same party playing games when their own party controls the White House. Either way, the result is bad for federal judges.

The latest incident involves Sen. Lindsey Graham (R., S.C.) and a Bush nominee for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit. The nominee, William "Jim" Haynes, is currently the general counsel at the Pentagon. As such, he has played a role in the issue of the treatment of detainees captured on the battlefields of Afghanistan and Iraq. Graham, a military lawyer himself, apparently objects to Haynes and is responding to critics in the military community that the policies on detainees Haynes helped to construct make him unfit for the appeals court.

Fair enough. While I disagree with this assessment, this has been used as yet another excuse to abuse the Senate's judicial confirmation process.
Haynes' nomination has been sitting in the Senate Judiciary Committee for three years without a vote. Repeated news accounts finger Graham, a committee member, as the senator who is quietly keeping Haynes from getting that vote. Even more amazing, there are multiple media stories that Sen. John McCain (R., Ariz.), a potential presidential candidate, is urging Graham on.

Once again, members of the U.S. Senate are vividly demonstrating why the public has such increasing contempt for things political. Not unlike the way Pennsylvania state legislators of both parties united to give themselves a pay raise in the middle of the night, Republican and Democratic U.S. senators seem determined to show the public that there are not two political parties in Washington, but three: the Republicans, the Democrats and the Senate Party. The latter has a mere 100 members and is thoroughly bipartisan.

So Graham quietly signals his colleagues that he wants to obstruct the confirmation process and - presto! - the senator gets his wish. Never mind that the rules for selecting senators are hard and fast and not to be tampered with. Forget that McCain and any other interested presidential candidate depend on the rules for how we elect a president. It's only the third branch of government that doesn't get the same respect.

If Graham were informed today that his next election were moved up from 2008 to next week, he would correctly cry foul. Yet he shows not the slightest concern over letting a judicial nominee cool his heels for three years.

Even more amazing is the reported conduct of McCain. Forget the sheer politics of his infuriating the very conservatives he will need to get nominated. Does he seriously believe that his conduct in this matter will not provide some ammunition for some future senator to stymie the judicial nominations of a President McCain?

For that matter, every senator with an eye on the White House in 2008 should be hustling to make sure Haynes and other nominees are treated fairly. After senatorial abuse of the process reaching back to at least the Reagan administration, what makes any Democrat think things will change if the next president's name is Clinton, Kerry or Feingold?

Several years ago, Pennsylvania's own Sen. Arlen Specter proposed a series of excellent reforms that would bring a halt to what has become an out-of-control judicial confirmation process. They featured a timeline for hearings, committee votes and floor votes. If adopted, the rule changes would apply to all nominees of all presidents, regardless of which party controlled the Senate.

For no other reason than simple fairness, not to mention respect for the federal judiciary, it's time to pass those Specter reforms.
Of course, there will be bipartisan resistance from senators more interested in self-granted perks than the kind of impartial rules senators themselves look to as the lifeblood of their role as elected officials under the Constitution.

But Specter believes in these reforms and, as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, he is in exactly the right place to get fair treatment for Haynes and finally reform the U.S. Senate's judicial confirmation process for good. After decades of senatorial mistreatment of judicial nominees, isn't it about time?
Pennsylvanians of all political stripes who are interested in seeing that the federal judiciary gets the same fairness senators demand for themselves should insist that their senior senator use his considerable yet momentary power to pass the Specter reforms.

Quit De Wining about the Santorum Spectercle
By Jill Stanek

A few weeks ago, I sent an e-mail to my list, encouraging Pennsylvania pro-lifers to support Republican Rick Santorum in his rebid for the U.S. Senate against Democrat Bob Casey.

Both are pro-life, but because Santorum and the White House supported pro-abortion incumbent Arlen Specter in the 2004 Republican primary against pro-lifer Pat Toomey, pro-lifers consider him a traitor. Specter won 51-49 percent. Pro-lifers blame Santorum and Bush for the edge.

This was typical of negative responses I received regarding my e-mail:

Sorry – just can't do it. ... These Republicans must understand there is a price to be paid for going against their pro-life/Christian base.

Pro-abort politicians understand that with one just false step, their liberal base will leave them. ... We, on the other hand, keep forgiving and forgiving our politicians for stabbing us in the back. No more.

Let Rick Santorum be the example to all the other Republican politicians that we will not allow them to play games with the lives of our unborn children, and if they do, they will be gone.

I wish Santorum had not supported Specter. But would turning from Santorum help or hurt the pro-life cause?

I submit it would hurt, badly.

Read what Manuel Miranda wrote. Miranda is an attorney and former U.S. Senate staffer who lost his job over the Democrat judicial memo flak. Miranda now leads the Third Branch Conference, a group promoting the advancement of conservative federal judges through the confirmation process. He said:

In my time in the Senate, I came to meet the vain and vainglorious, all with certificates of election. I came to learn that most senators are quite replaceable. ...

I want to tell you that in my observation there was one Republican senator who is not replaceable. In fact, he was the indispensable man on all of the issues that values voters care about. Even if we can nitpick, no one represents us more consummately. That man, of course, is Rick Santorum. ...

Simply put, without him many things that you and I care about would simply not be championed by anyone else, or at least not as effectively. Even now when you hear me express disappointment on the judge issue, I suspect that lack of vision from the GOP may well be because Rick is understandably busy with his overwhelming campaign. Remember that it was Santorum who led the 40-hour debate of 2003. ...

As the chairman of the Senate Republican Conference, the third-ranking leadership position, Rick ... asks senators to take one for the team from time to time. Rick stands by them in moments when loyalty counts. And in a leader, I have learned the hard way that loyalty counts.

That includes in elections. ... [B]ecause Rick asked Arlen Specter very often to take one for the team, Rick stood by him in 2004. And I can tell you, as one who doubted, that the loyalty has been repaid and it has worked out well. ...

Leaders in the Senate speak to the press all the more often, where others hide, and all the more often they are targeted. It is all the more difficult when, as Rick does, you speak in the language of Judeo Christian morality, or say the obvious that no one else dare speak. ...

[Here is] what I said of Rick in September in an Opinion Journal article:

"No Republican senator has done more to make the confirmation of John Roberts possible, because no Republican senator is more responsible for making the judiciary issue a national electoral winner for Republicans, or for making colleagues understand its significance to constituents. ..."

Judges are key to the pro-life issue, and their significance in our battle points to a second reason we cannot lose Santorum. It would risk losing the Republican Senate majority.

Wrote Hugh Hewitt in World Magazine May 27:

If the Republicans lose control of the United States Senate, or even forfeit a net of three seats in the upper body of the Congress, it is almost certain that George W. Bush will not be able to get a third conservative justice confirmed should the opportunity arise.

If Patrick Leahy returns to the chairmanship of the Senate's Judiciary Committee ... no genuine judicial conservative will clear the first hurdle on the way to confirmation. Sen. Leahy's record proves that.

Even if the GOP holds a nominal majority after the smoke clears in November, expect unbreakable filibusters if there are not at least 50 solid votes to invoke the "constitutional option" which the Democrats dread. ...

So a Supreme Court poised to return to originalist practices and traditional decision making will in fact be just a vote or two in the Senate beyond reach.
And then the "purists" will have their "victory."

Politics is a messy business. But majorities require compromise and commitment. The best result is to threaten disengagement, and then to work harder than ever for a conservative triumph.

On June 3, Hewitt wrote in World about pro-life malaise surrounding Ohio Republican Sen. Mike DeWine. He could have been speaking of Santorum:
[O]pposition to a DeWine re-election seems almost bizarrely contrary to the approach a pro-life, pro-Second Amendment, pro-property rights, or pro-national security conservative should take. ...

If Buckeye State evangelicals carefully and prudently consider the best interests of the country and the enormous power of a single Senate vote as well as the closeness of the division on the U.S. Supreme Court, they should not withhold support from Mike DeWine; they should instead send in their small or large checks and volunteer to walk precincts.

A Senate majority is a terrible thing to throw away.

Conservative Coalition Wants Flag Amendment on Back Burner
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) -- A coalition of conservative groups wants time set aside later this month for debate on the proposed constitutional amendment to be spent instead on pending judicial nominations.
At least 100 groups signed a letter that was to be sent Tuesday to Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn.; Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah and the Senate sponsor of the amendment; and all the Republican senators.
Among the groups were the Third Branch Conference, Coalitions for America, American Family Association, 60 Plus Association and the Family Research Council.
The groups do not oppose the amendment, which would allow Congress to pass a law outlawing the physical desecration of the U.S. flag, but say a majority of conservatives would rather see the time spent on getting judges approved, the Deseret Morning News reported.
"You are planning to devote valuable Senate floor time to debating a flag-desecration constitutional amendment," according to the letter. "While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time."
Out of 125 conservative organization leaders who responded to a survey on whether the flag-burning amendment is a priority to get done before Nov. 1, only 18 put it toward the top of the list, according to the letter. And those 18 agreed to put judges over the flag amendment when told to pick between the two.
"We all agree that debate on judicial nominations is time better spent, and time well spent early to build up steam," according to the letter.
The letter points to 9th Circuit nominee William Myers, and 4th Circuit nominees Terrence Boyle and William Haynes as those waiting for confirmation that should be addressed.
Hatch said, "There's no reason why we can't consider the flag amendment along with pending judicial nominations.
"Ultimately, the majority leader runs the floor schedule. He knows that with 60 senators publicly behind the amendment, and several more who have voted for it in the past, we're primed to bring this to the floor for a vote. But that doesn't mean we can't consider nominations as well."
Third Branch Conference Chairman Manuel Miranda, a former Hatch aide, said time is precious on the Senate's election-year calendar and that the flag amendment is "kind of yesterday's issue."
Frist's office said he has not seen the letter yet but is committed to the judicial nominees and the flag amendment. "Both issues are important," a spokeswoman said.

Conservative Grassroots Demand Senate Action on Stalled Judicial Nominees
Over 5,000 Messages to Senate GOP in One Day
WASHINGTON, DC – William Greene, President of the conservative online activist organization RightMarch.com, has announced that over five thousand messages were sent through his group's website to Senate Republicans in a single day, demanding that they move circuit nominees to an honest up-or-down vote, and that they spend scheduled Senate floor time in vigorous debate.
"Senate Republicans have 'dropped the ball' on pushing President Bush's conservative judicial nominees," said William Greene, President of RightMarch.com. "Their conservative base will simply not accept the status quo on this issue. They recognize that it's time to demand that they devote more effort on and off the Senate floor to confirming the President's circuit court nominees."
Today the circuit courts have 18 vacancies. They are nearly 10 percent vacant and President Bush has the lowest confirmation rate of circuit court nominations for any president, below 75 percent. "From where I sit, it looks like the Majority is ignoring the impact of the nominations debate on its ability to gain the support of those small margins of voters that the Majority needs to secure unobstructed confirmations," said Greene. "We need to not only remind GOP Senators of their duty, but we also should be concerned that if the Majority that assured the confirmation votes of Chief Justice Roberts and Justice Alito lose just one seat in the next election, the future of the Supreme Court and the federal appellate bench will again be imperiled by use of filibusters. The conservative grassroots – the base that elected this majority – is demanding that this issue be given 'front-burner' status immediately."

Charleston Post and Courier
Proceed with Haynes' nomination

Nominees for judicial appoint-ments deserve to be voted on, and William James Haynes II, a nominee to the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, is no exception. In view of his service and qualifications, and the Senate's previous consideration of Mr. Haynes for the judgeship, as well as for Defense posts, it's safe to say that his nomination is long overdue for debate.

Mr. Haynes was nominated initially by President Bush in 2003, and his nomination was sent to the Senate by its Judiciary Committee in 2004. But before the nomination could be considered by the full Senate, the congressional session ended. Consequently, the administration had to renominate him in 2005.

Advancing judicial nominations hasn't been easy in the partisan atmosphere of the Senate, but some of Mr. Haynes' advocates are pointing the finger at a prominent Republican on the Judiciary Committee, South Carolina's Lindsey Graham. That's surprising, since Sen. Graham has taken a leadership role in getting the judicial logjam unstuck, and at some political risk.

But Mr. Haynes' nomination is expressly opposed by Sen. John McCain, an ally of Sen. Graham. And both have cited concerns over Mr. Haynes' advice to the administration on captured enemy combatants facing potential terrorist charges, according to a report in Monday's Post and Courier. But Sen. Graham denies that he is delaying Mr. Haynes' nomination in committee, in comments to The Hill, a newspaper covering Congress.

Mr. Haynes' professional qualifications are outstanding. So is his long service to the nation. A Harvard Law School graduate, he was previously confirmed unanimously by the Senate as general counsel of the Department of Defense in 2001 and as general counsel of the Department of the Army in 1990.

As former Judiciary Committee Chairman Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, told The Hill newspaper, 'Haynes is one of the better nominees that I've seen. I can't believe what the Democrats are doing to him. I sure hope no Republican is doing it.'

Sen. Graham's spokesman, Kevin Bishop, had this to say in our report: 'The role Mr. Haynes played as DOD general counsel formulating these [detainee] policies and whether he was receptive to legal advice from the military will be a line of inquiry when his nomination is brought up.'

Fair enough. The sooner his nomination is brought up the better.

Republican Activists Urge Senate to Vote on Judicial Nominees
By James Rowley

June 12 (Bloomberg) -- Republican activists want their allies in the U.S. Senate to revive the debate over President George W. Bush's judicial nominees to mobilize the party's core voters for the November elections. Republicans risk losing one or both houses of Congress unless the base is motivated to vote, the activists warned at a news conference in Washington. They urged Senate Republican leader Bill Frist of Tennessee to focus on judicial nominees instead of a proposed constitutional amendment to ban flag burning that is set for debate this month.
"Our constituents will not be put off being told that the Senate has more pressing business than judicial nominees,'" said Jan LaRue, chief counsel of Concerned Women For America. Unless Senate Republicans confirm more judicial nominees, ``come Nov. 8, the votes they want may not be there."
The flag-burning amendment is more a symbolic issue than judicial nominations, which have concerned voters in past elections since Bush took office, said Manuel Miranda, a former Senate Republican aide who heads the Third Branch Conference.
"Appealing only with symbolic issues, is, in essence, patronizing," Miranda told reporters. Still, he defended Frist's doomed effort to pass legislation to ban same-sex marriage because that issue "is very much linked to our concern for the judiciary."
Making a Difference
David Keene, chairman of the American Conservative Union, said a debate on judges is a good way for Republicans to distinguish themselves from Democrats in November.

Conservatives are more likely to vote "if they are happy, active and energized," he told reporters.
Frist has tried to avoid battles over nominees who have generated the most controversy. After vowing earlier this year to seek a vote on Terrence Boyle, nominated to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, he has ducked questions about plans to seek Senate votes on Boyle and another nominee for the same Richmond-based court, William J. Haynes II.

Boyle, 60, a federal trial court judge in North Carolina, is accused of breaking a conflict-of-interest law by purchasing stock in General Electric Co. while overseeing a case involving an employee in a pension dispute with the company. Boyle ruled in favor of the company. Those allegations emerged after Frist had announced his plan to seek a Senate vote on Boyle, who Bush first nominated five years ago.
Suspected Terrorists
Haynes, 48, the Defense Department's general counsel, faces questions from Republicans and Democrats alike over his role in drafting the policies for detaining and interrogating suspected terrorists.
Critics say those policies blur legal prohibitions on abuse of prisoners, leading to the torture of captives at the Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq. About a dozen soldiers have been prosecuted for the alleged mistreatment.
Activists last week urged South Carolina Republican Senator Lindsey Graham to drop his objections to Haynes and permit a vote by the Judiciary Committee on his nomination.
Graham, acknowledging he has concerns about Haynes's role in drafting the detention and interrogation policies, has declined to say how he would vote on the nomination.
In a June 8 letter to the activists, he said he took "very seriously" the criticisms by two retired Navy judge advocate generals who opposed Haynes. "I am troubled that very distinguished military leaders have expressed strong opposition to the Haynes nomination," the letter said.
Second Hearing
Miranda said he wouldn't oppose a second confirmation hearing for Haynes, who was questioned by the committee before the revelations about Abu Ghraib.
Haynes's nomination is still in the Judiciary Committee, where Democrats say they would ask for another hearing before the panel votes to send the appointment to the full Senate.
"Jim Haynes does not condone torture," Republican activist Pat M. Woodward Jr., told reporters. Opponents "are trying to blame Jim Haynes for this administration's policies in the war on terror."
More than 60 activists, including Paul Weyrich of Coalitions for America and Donald E. Wildmon of the American family Association, have signed a letter urging Republican leaders to drop the flag-burning debate in favor of judicial nominations.

Conservative Leaders Ask Frist To Emphasize Judges
CONGRESS DAILY PM
by Greta Wodele

More than 60 conservative leaders today called on Senate Majority Leader Frist to set aside this month's planned debate on a constitutional amendment to ban flag burning and instead schedule votes on several pending appellate court nominations. "We write to remind you of your duty, but also because we are concerned that if the majority that assured the confirmation votes of Chief Justice Roberts and Justice [Samuel] Alito lose just one seat in the next election, the future of the Supreme Court and the federal appellate bench will again be imperiled by use of filibusters," members of the coalition of conservative groups wrote in a letter to Frist and Republican senators. The group, which is expected to pick up nearly 100 signatures, plans to send the letter Tuesday. The coalition argued the judges debate, which has pitted Republicans against Democrats, ranks higher in surveys with conservatives than the flag burning proposal.

Frist's spokeswoman today responded that the flag burning amendment is a key proposal to Americans, especially for veterans as well as soldiers in Iraq and Afghanistan. She added that Frist has "methodically" pushed through several of President Bush's judicial picks and would continue to do so this year. The spokeswoman declined to give a timeline for scheduling a vote on pending nominees. The Senate is slated to vote on the flag proposal at the end of the month. One conservative group, Americans for Tax Reform, opted against signing onto the coalition's letter and instead sent its own letter encouraging Frist to schedule votes on judicial nominees.

Manuel Miranda, executive director of the conservative Third Branch Conference, praised Frist today for his previous efforts on judicial nominees, but argued Republicans must demand the majority leader schedule votes for the pending judicial nominees in order to help energize conservative voters this fall. "It will get out small margins," Miranda told reporters, conceding the issue would not mobilize large numbers of conservative voters. "It is by small margins that several [GOP] senators currently hold their seats." Miranda said the judge debate is a "signature issue" for Frist, who would need conservatives for a potential White House bid in 2008. "He began with a bang, but if he ends on a whimper that could hurt him," Miranda said. "We want to help him." One GOP Senate aide dismissed Miranda's news conference today as a media ploy to pressure Republicans on a single issue. "The 'Flag Amendment' is not preventing movement on judges," said the aide, arguing the flag proposal gave conservatives a "juicier hook" than other legislative measures slated for floor debate this year.

Miranda said he expects Frist to commit to a vote on Terrence Boyle's nomination to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals before the July Fourth recess. But conservatives worry that Frist and GOP leaders will not continue pushing votes on other pending judges in the months leading up to the November elections. "Under the old Senate tradition, judges stop after June and July," said Miranda. Frist's spokeswoman declined to comment about whether Frist would schedule a vote on Boyle's nomination before next month.

Conservative activists question Sen. Bill Frist's floor priorities
By Jonathan Allen

Senate Republican leaders hope to rally their base this week by passing a constitutional amendment banning flag desecration, but some GOP activists are balking at the move.

"While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time," a coalition of dozens of interest-group leaders wrote to Republican senators in a letter they will send today.

The broadside by nomination-focused conservatives raises the prospect that an effort to fire up conservatives could backfire on Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.) as Republicans try to draw distinctions between the parties before the November election.

The line of attack echoes that of liberal Democrats who argued that last week's debate over a constitutional amendment banning gay marriage showed a Republican Party out of touch with the American public.

The conservative activists, led by Third Branch Conference chairman and former Frist aide Manuel Miranda, warned that Republicans will suffer damage to their majority if they do not escalate a simmering battle over judges before the November elections.

"If Americans continue to see obstruction and hear excuses rather than debate and votes on nominees, senators should not be surprised that, come Nov. 8, the votes they want may not be there," said Jan LaRue, Concerned Women for America's chief counsel.

Miranda, LaRue and others have been pushing Frist to adopt a more confrontational strategy on nominations before the election, in part because they fear Republican losses could doom nominees who are in the pipeline. To this point the conservatives have been on the losing end of a battle over whether to circumvent Senate rules to force simple majority votes on judicial nominations.

That maneuver, known as the "nuclear option," was placed on the shelf last year after a bipartisan group of 14 senators struck a deal in which the seven Republicans said they would oppose the move in exchange for a promise from the seven Democrats that they would support filibusters of judicial nominees only under "extraordinary circumstances," a nebulous term that leaves senators significant wiggle room.

Miranda predicted yesterday that Frist will bring the nomination of 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals nominee Terrence Boyle to the floor soon but that Frist may be reluctant to move other judges.

"They are ready to give us Boyle and end there," he said.

But the Gang of 14 has not given its blessing to Boyle, whose nomination has been plagued by conflict-of-interest allegations. The Gang's seven Democrats wrote to Judiciary Committee Chairman Arlen Specter (R-Pa.) last month to ask for another hearing on Boyle. At the same time, Republicans declined to offer support, raising questions about Boyle's viability on the Senate floor.

But some Republicans argue Frist should schedule "prime time" debates over the nominees and try to force floor votes, even if he is stymied by Democratic filibusters. The battle, they say, will rally the base.

"If opponents engage, we believe the debate itself is a gain," they wrote. "If opponents obstruct through abuse of Senate rules, highlighting that obstruction is vitally important, and not just for political advantage."

While Miranda and his allies raised hackles at a press conference yesterday, many conservatives are clearly pleased with the effort to ban flag burning. It has been among the highest priorities for some conservative interest groups for years.

Tom McClusky, vice president of government affairs for the Family Research Council, acknowledged yesterday that he was "going a little off message" when he thanked Frist for bringing up the amendments to ban flag burning and gay marriage.

The flag-burning issue does not cut neatly across party lines. Majority Whip Mitch McConnell and fellow GOP Sens. Bob Bennett (Utah) and Lincoln Chafee (R.I.) have voted against similar constitutional flag-burning bans, while past Democratic supporters number in double digits.

Democrats said conservatives who think the flag-burning amendment should be on the back burner are half-right.

"The push to confirm radical judicial nominees and the flag amendment both reflect misplaced Republican priorities," said Rebecca Kirszner, spokeswoman for Minority Leader Harry Reid (D-Nev.).

Reid has supported the amendment and will again if it comes to a vote, Kirszner said. "But he still believes this is not what the Senate should be debating right now," she said.

It does not appear that the flag-burning measure will attract enough votes to clear the two-thirds threshold for passage of constitutional amendments.

DESERET MORNING NEWS (Utah)
Flag debate may be superseded
By Suzanne Struglinski

WASHINGTON — A coalition of conservative groups wants Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist to focus Senate floor debate on pending judicial nominations during time set aside later this month for Sen. Orrin Hatch's amendment on flag desecration.

At least 100 groups signed a letter to be sent to Frist, R-Tenn.; Hatch, R-Utah; and all the Republican senators today by the Third Branch Conference, Coalitions for America, American Family Association, 60 Plus Association, the Family Research Council and a long list of others.

The groups do not oppose Hatch's proposed constitutional amendment, which would allow Congress to pass a law outlawing the physical desecration of the U.S. flag, but say a majority of conservatives would rather see the time spent on getting judges approved.

"You are planning to devote valuable Senate floor time to debating a flag-desecration constitutional amendment," according to the letter. "While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time."

Out of 125 conservative organization leaders who responded to a survey on whether the flag-burning amendment is a priority to get done before Nov. 1, only 18 put it toward the top of the list, according to the letter. But all 18 agreed to put judges over the flag amendment when told to pick between the two.

"We all agree that debate on judicial nominations is time better spent, and time well spent early to build up steam," according to the letter.

The letter points to 9th Circuit nominee William Myers, and 4th Circuit nominees Terrence Boyle and William Haynes as those waiting for confirmation that should be addressed.

"There's no reason why we can't consider the flag amendment along with pending judicial nominations," Hatch said. "Ultimately, the majority leader runs the floor schedule. He knows that with 60 senators publicly behind the amendment, and several more who have voted for it in the past, we're primed to bring this to the floor for a vote.

But that doesn't mean we can't consider nominations as well."

The amendment had 58 co-sponsors last week, but Sen. Mary Landrieu, D-La., signed on as a co-sponsor Monday moving it up to 59, with Hatch's support making it 60. It will need 67 votes to pass.

Third Branch Conference Chairman Manuel Miranda said "time is precious" on the Senate's election-year calendar and that the flag amendment is "kind of yesterday's issue" so he would rather see the time spent on filling the vacant bench positions.

Miranda, a former Hatch aide who resigned from a position in Frist's office in 2004 amidst a scandal involving accessing Democrat computer files on judicial nominees, said this is nothing personal but that Hatch just happens to be tied to the amendment the majority of the group's members think should be put on hold — at least for now.

"These are important times and that's just the way it is," Miranda said.

Frist's office said he has not seen the letter yet but is committed to the judicial nominees and the flag amendment.

"Both issues are important," a spokeswoman said.

Vote on Judges, Not Flags, Say Conservatives
By Monisha Bansal
CNSNews.com Staff Writer
June 13, 2006

(CNSNews.com) - Sixty conservative leaders sent a letter to Republican senators Monday, urging them to vote on judicial nominations and not "waste time" on a constitutional amendment to ban flag burning.

"We write because we fear that the Majority is ignoring the impact of the nominations debate on its ability to gain the support of those small margins of voters that the Majority needs to secure unobstructed nominations," the letter states.

"By contrast, and for example, you are planning to devote valuable Senate floor time to debating a flag-desecration constitutional amendment," it continues. "While most of us would support such an amendment, we believe this is a misguided use of time."

"Our constituents will not be put off by being told that the Senate has more pressing business than judicial nominees," said Jan LaRue, chief counsel for Concerned Women for America. "We know that judges affect every area of our lives and certainly the most important issues of life, liberty and property.

"We want actions, not excuses," LaRue said at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C. "If Americans continue to see obstruction and hear excuses rather than debate and votes on nominees, senators should not be surprised that come November 8, the votes they want may not be there."

But Carolyn Weyforth, press secretary for Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.), said that since 2003, the Senate has made "considerable progress" on confirming President Bush's judicial nominees, noting that two Supreme Court justices, 28 Circuit Court judges and 116 District Court judges have been confirmed.

"[Frist] remains committed to working hard to confirm qualified judicial nominees and is still discussing with his colleagues which nominee will be brought forward next," Weyforth told Cybercast News Service.

"Both issues of judicial nominees and flag burning are important to him," Weyforth added, "and he feels that both can be addressed on the Senate floor."

The conservative coalition is pushing for votes on William Myers, a nominee for the 9th Circuit, and 4th Circuit nominees Jim Haynes and Judge Terrence Boyle. The group's letter noted that there are currently 18 Circuit Court vacancies, but these three nominees have been waiting more than a year for a vote.

Kim Gandy, president of the National Organization for Women, is strongly opposed to the three nominees.

"The three who are currently being held up are also extremely problematic in terms of their judicial record and their record of their decisions and past political involvement," Gandy told Cybercast News Service . "I think that senators who respect the Constitution and respect individual rights really should be filibustering those nominations."

Gandy added that the push by conservatives is not new.

"The Right has tried to accomplish a vote on judicial nominees from the beginning, and have in fact succeeded in getting onto the bench some of the worst nominees in the history of the planet," Gandy said.

"The reason that so many of the other nominations have gone forward and these haven't is because there is such a strong feeling that they would not be fair judges," Gandy said.

But Manuel Miranda, chairman of the Third Branch Conference, said the appropriate response for senators who agree with such criticisms of the three nominees is to argue and vote against them on the Senate floor, not to filibuster the nominations.

"We need scheduled floor time, as if [confirming judicial nominees] was a priority," Miranda said, "like it is to us."

Yes, that is supposed to be "waiving," not "waving."
Just a little earlier today, a coalition of conservative groups organized by Manny Miranda of the Third Branch Conference held an important press conference to announce an overwhelming agreeement that, if the choice is between passing an amendment banning flag burning, as the Senate is scheduled to consider this week, or spending the time necessary to confirm more judicial nominees, the groups strongly prefer the confirmation of judges. (In other words, they would waive the flag issue in favor of the judges.) Not that they don't approve of the flag amendment but, in the words of the American Conservative Union's David Keene, the flag issue is "more symbolic than substantive," whereas the confirmation battles are of highest substantive AND political importance. The flag issue, Keene said, Is "not very salient" right now.
Of course, a bunch of GOP senators obviously consider both issues to be the equivalent of "boob bait for the Bubbas," in other words just throwaway crumbs every once in a while to keep the natives on the right from getting too restless. IN other words, the senators consider themselves to be sort of slumming with us either way, rather than understanding that judicial confirmations are crucially important not just for right-wing hot-button issues but for the protection of the Constitution itself more broadly -- AND important as well for political reasons, because voters motivated by the issue can mean the difference between victory and defeat. Such is not necessarily the case with an 18-year-old issue like flag burning. (Of course, in the best of all worlds, the Senate would consider both issues, because it wouldn't waste so much time either on other issues or, even worse, out of session. But that's a topic for another day.)
Random notes and quotes from the press conference:
From Keene: "The purpose of our gathering here today is to let members of the Senate know that we do not have a 29-miute attention span." "On the right, people are CONTINUALLY concerned" about judges. "We hope that people in the Senate don't just say, 'oh, we've done some of that' (i.e. confirmed a single judge or two judges) and move on." Also, making judicial confirmations an issue in Senate campaigns "will work to the benefit of Republican candidates."
From Jan LaRue of Concerned Women of America: Senators must understand that is is "their constitutional DUTY...[to perform their jobs] of advice and consent." "Our constituents will not be put off by being told 'we have more pressing business." LaRue also took direct shots at South Carolina Republican U.S. Sen. Lindsey Graham and, to a lesser extent, at Sen. John McCain, for obstructing 4th Circuit nominee Jim Haynes, a counsel at the Department of Defense.
William Greene of RightMarch.com said judicial confirmations are one of the two or three biggest issues for conservative activists nationwide, and he echoed LaRue (in effect) when he also said that the senators "better answer to their constituents" and that "they have a duty" to give final floor votes to the nominees.
Lars Liebler, a former law clerk for long-embattled circuit court nominee Terrence Boyle (now a federal district judge), noted that of the 16,000 opinions Boyle has joined, a whopping 99% hvae been either NOT appealed or, if appealed, not overturned -- and that of the ones that have been appealed, 93% have been affirmed by higher courts -- which is higher than the national average.
Jeff Lord, author of "The Borking Rebellion" and sometime contributor to the American Spectator web site, called on the Senate to pass reforms long pushed by Judiciary Committee Chairman Arlen Specter that would establish more formal rules and a formal timetable for considering all nominees.

Also speaking were the wonderful Jim Martin of "60-Plus," Tom McClusky of the Family Research Council, and Pat Woodward of the Republican National Lawyers Association, while Sean Rushton of the Committee for Justice also took questions (as did Miranda, who answered them at length, but I wasn't taking notes as extensively during Q&A).
All I have to add is that these speakers were all correct. Confirming good judicial nominees with dispatch preserves the Constitution, it's good politics...and it's only fair to the nominees themselves to let them know, up or down/yes or no, whether they will become judges, rather than forcing them to put their lives on hold, often at great personal and financial cost, while waiting for senators to preen and play nasty political games.

Conservatives Say Senate Must Champion Judicial Nominees
by Pete Winn, associate editor
Some are setting records for length of time spent waiting for a vote.
At the National Press Club today, a coalition of conservative legal activists called on the Senate and Majority Leader Bill Frist, R-Tenn., to make up-or-down votes for the president's judicial nominees a top priority before the fall elections.
Sean Rushton, executive director of the Committee for Justice, said it's crucial the Senate proceed right away.
"Many of these nominees have been waiting a record amount of time for a vote, either on the Senate floor or at the Senate Judiciary Committee," he told CitizenLink. "We think it's important to fill these vacancies for the sake of justice and the smooth operation of our federal courts."
But Rushton — along with Manuel Miranda's Third Branch Conference — said that a few Senate Republicans may be willing to allow some nominees languish in order to avoid a confrontation with Democrats over judicial filibusters. That, they say, is unacceptable.
"We're asking that the Senate not only debate those nominees, but take ownership and actually defend these nominees publicly," Rushton said. "The Democrats have been allowed to smear these nominees without adequate rebuttal."
Lars Liebeler, a Washington, D.C., attorney, said one nominee who has been attacked unfairly is his old boss, federal District Judge Terrence Boyle, who was nominated more than five years ago to a seat on the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.
"If you are a district-court judge, you don't have a press secretary or a PR firm who's going to be out there defending you, so you're open to attacks," the former Boyle law clerk said. "It's very difficult for you to stand up and defend yourself. That process, I think is frustrating."
Liebeler, who said he is part of an "apolitical" group of 20 or so former Boyle law clerks who have banded together to set the record straight, said the news media have wrongly attacked the judge's integrity and ethics. To say the allegations are wrong would be an understatement.
"I think people sometimes play pretty fast and loose with the facts," he said. "In this case, it's important to call people on those facts. Judge Boyle is a good judge, and his record proves that beyond question."
Emily Barton, a lawyer in private practice in Chicago who clerked for Boyle for two years, pointed to the fact that his nomination has been languishing for a record-setting time.
"In less than a week, he'll commemorate the fact that it has been one year since his nomination was voted out of committee," she said. "In a month, he'll set a second record by being the longest-standing nominee having been voted out of committee and not having received an up-or-down vote."
She called the situation simply outrageous.
"I think it's time those records stop being set — and we need to set a better precedent for future nominees."
Barton said the allegations against Boyle largely center on whether he ruled in a case in which it is alleged he had a financial interest — and the baseless charges, she said, came not from informed sources, but from a single Web article.
"This was a Web article published by a project which is funded by George Soros," the billionaire liberal activist, she said. "People can draw their own conclusions."
Barton believes the whole judicial-nominations process is in need of an overhaul.
"I think Judge Boyle is just one in a number of nominations that people have attempted to sidetrack for political reasons," she said. "I think the system is at one of the most contentious levels ever in history, and I think it is broken. We need to take a good look, as a policy matter, at what this is doing to the likelihood of getting fair, honest and experienced people on the bench when their personal lives can be attacked like this."
Bruce Hausknecht, judicial analyst at Focus on the Family Action, said one need only think of the name of Miguel Estrada to understand how broken the system is.
"He was filibustered for several years before he gave up and withdrew his own name," he said. "There was also Carolyn Kuhl, a California judge who experienced something similar with her nomination to the 9th Circuit, and she said — my interpretation — "I don't need this" and withdrew her nomination.

Add to the list Henry Saad, who was nominated for the 6th Circuit.
"Just this year, after three years of being filibustered, he withdrew his name and went home," Hausknecht said.
The real trouble, according to Hausknecht, is that good judges who want to serve their country are suffering abuse at the hands of liberal politicians who have a political agenda in obstructing judges.
"Because of that, other potential appellate judges are going to look very hard at whether they truly want to force their families to go through the same type of defamation and slander and obstruction and filibuster that these other good nominees have gone through."
TAKE ACTION:
Please let your senators know you think it's unfair to let the nominees of any president languish for years without the courtesy of an up-or-down vote. Please ask your lawmakers to champion the cause of Judge Terrence Boyle and other nominees.

Family Research Council Joins Conservative Leaders to Urge Action on Judicial Nominees

WASHINGTON, June 12 /U.S. Newswire/ -- Today, Tom McClusky, vice president for Government Affairs at the Family Research Council, joined conservative leaders at a press conference to urge Senate GOP leadership to move delayed judicial nominees to the floor for a final vote.
McClusky released the following statement today:
"Throughout our history, America's judiciary has expanded its power. This attitude of judicial supremacy even led judges in the Ninth Circuit to rule that the phrase 'under God' in the Pledge of Allegiance was unconstitutional.
"Constitutional amendments are but one step in the solution to address issues under attack. We are here today to ensure our courts are stocked by judges who interpret the law -- not those who seek to make it.
"Judges such as Terrence Boyle, who was first nominated in the spring of 2001, have been held up for years by inaction in the U.S. Senate. Michael Wallace has been subject to unwarranted attacks by the highly political and leftward leaning American Bar Association and is now awaiting action by the Senate Judiciary Committee.
"If we hope to return to the days when we had three equal branches of government instead of a court that overrules them all, President Bush must continue to nominate high caliber nominees and not succumb to political deals which weaken his Constitutional authority. The U.S. Senate must move quickly to bring these nominees to an up-or-down vote; our system of justice requires it, and the American people deserve nothing less."

CWA's Chief Counsel Urges Senators to Act on Judicial Nominees

Washington, D.C. – Concerned Women for America's (CWA's) Chief Counsel Jan LaRue joined other conservative leaders today at a press conference to urge U.S. Senators to stop delaying and start moving on the pending nominations of qualified judicial nominees. Senators must hold hearings and bring pending nominations to the floor in order to fill the remaining 49 vacancies in the federal courts.

LaRue said, "Concerned Women for America and our half million members in all 50 states expect the Senators they've supported in past elections to fulfill their constitutional duty in the judicial nomination process. Delay, neglect and obstruction are not advice and consent. Nominees deserve and must have a hearing and a Senate vote.

"Judge Terry Boyle has been waiting more than five years for a Senate vote. That is deplorable and can only be atoned for with an up-or-down vote. He must not wait any longer.

"Jim Haynes' nomination to the Fourth Circuit has been delayed in the Senate Judiciary Committee more than a year since his hearing. Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-South Carolina) needs to back up his statement of November 11, 2003: "[T]he President's nominees deserve a straight up-or-down vote. If they get this, they will be confirmed."

Senators must show up at the hearing and vote and then vote on the Senate floor.

"Our people expect their senators to stand up for judicial nominees who are committed to preserving our constitutional republic by upholding the written Constitution and respecting the limited role of a judge. We expect them to vote. Vote yes or vote no, but vote.

"If Americans continue to see obstruction and hear excuses rather than debate and votes on nominees, senators should not be surprised that come November 8, the votes they want may not be there," concluded LaRue.

A Different Judicial Battle

The Senate is back in session, and we'll soon see if Republicans are serious about confirming President Bush's nominees for the appeals courts. Majority Leader Bill Frist kept his promise to confirm Brett Kavanaugh to the D.C. Circuit before Memorial Day, after he'd waited three years for a vote.

So who's next? Mr. Frist wanted to move Fourth Circuit nominee Terrence Boyle by Memorial Day too, but no go. A federal judge in North Carolina, Mr. Boyle has the honor of waiting longer than any appeals-court nominee in history for a floor vote. He was in Mr. Bush's first group of nominees announced on May 9, 2001 and was first nominated by Mr. Bush's father in 1991, though Democrats denied him a vote.

Democrats now say they'll filibuster his nomination. They are distorting a couple of Judge Boyle's civil rights decisions and making conflict-of-interest allegations that add up at worst to minor infractions. But Republicans don't want a fight in an election year over race or ethics. And Judge Boyle's onetime Senate champion -- Jesse Helms -- has long since retired. A controversial nominee without an angel to guide him through today's polarized Senate is in trouble.

Which brings us to William "Jim" Haynes II, another stalled Fourth Circuit nominee. Mr. Haynes was named on September 29, 2003, had a hearing two months later, and was voted out of committee in March 2004. But don't blame this delay only on Democrats. Two Republicans -- Senators John McCain and Lindsey Graham -- are also causing the holdup.

Mr. Haynes is the Pentagon's general counsel, and his transgression is to have offered legal advice on the treatment of detainees in the war on terror. The big point of contention is his role in Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld's decision in December 2002 to allow "coercive" interrogation techniques against al Qaeda detainees at Guantanamo.

The Pentagon says Mr. Haynes offered legal analysis; his critics distort this to say he was instrumental in forging a policy that could be used to justify "torture." But there is no evidence that anyone condoned torture, and it was the CIA, not the Pentagon, that used "waterboarding" that critics cite as the most coercive sanctioned technique. In any case, Mr. Rumsfeld rescinded his decision within six weeks after Pentagon lawyers took their concerns to Mr. Haynes, who then took them to Mr. Rumsfeld. Even if you believe the "coercive" techniques policy was a mistake, its reversal was due in no small part to Mr. Haynes, who did his duty of providing legal analysis. Mr. Haynes met with Senator McCain for an hour last month and agreed to answer written questions about the issue.

Senator McCain's anger over the Air Force's tanker deal with Boeing also unfairly extends to Mr. Haynes. As general counsel, Mr. Haynes had the job of reviewing and, in some cases, redacting the small library's worth of documents the Senator demanded. A McCain spokeswoman tells us that the Senator has not made a decision about whether to support the nomination.

It's hard to see how opposing Mr. Haynes would achieve anything except win the Senators some fleeting praise in the establishment media. It wouldn't impress GOP primary voters in Mr. Graham's home state of South Carolina, an important Presidential primary state in 2008 and home to many Haynes supporters. In defeating Mr. Haynes, Mr. McCain would mainly be validating those critics who want to punish anyone associated with the war in Iraq. Is this how a President McCain would treat his appointees who come under political fire for offering honest counsel?

There are 18 vacancies on the appeals-court bench -- 10% of the total -- and not many weeks left to fill them before election-year campaigning makes judicial confirmations next to impossible. Seven nominees are currently waiting for a hearing or vote. With Republicans in danger of losing Senate seats, if not their majority, now is the time to honor one of their campaign pledges from 2004 by confirming Mr. Bush's judicial nominees.

White House Renews Push for Nominees
By Alexander Bolton

White House officials are making a concerted effort to cooperate with outside conservative groups to support and defend President Bush's nominees to the federal bench, and they are also planning to work more closely with the Senate on confirming the nominees.
The greater focus on judges comes in the wake of privately expressed criticism from conservative leaders that the White House and the GOP-controlled Senate were doing little to defend high-profile nominees such as William "Jim" Haynes and Terrence Boyle, both picked for the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, from attacks by liberals.
The White House and Senate Republicans offered spirited defenses of prior embattled nominees, such as Priscilla Owen, who now sits on the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and Janice Rogers Brown, who is a member of the D.C. Circuit Court. But since their confirmations and the Supreme Court confirmations of Chief Justice John Roberts and Justice Samuel Alito, GOP leaders have done little to defend other controversial nominees.
The lack of an organized defense of languishing nominees such as Haynes, Boyle and William Myers, a nominee to the 9th Circuit, prompted former clerks of the nominees and conservative activists to take matters into their own hands. Boyle's former clerks, many of whom are now prominent lawyers, joined together on their own accord to defend him from accusations that he acted improperly while a district-court judge.
Conservative activists and intellectual leaders, such as Sean Rushton, executive director of the Committee for Justice, and Professor John Yoo of the University of California at Berkeley, also began laying plans to form committees to defend other embattled nominees. Yoo was in the national spotlight earlier this year during the Alito hearings because of his writings on the legal theory of the unitary executive, which Bush has used to justify his wartime powers.
But since the Senate confirmation of Brett Kavanaugh to the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals two weeks ago, the White House has begun to take a more active role in defending the nominees. For example, talking points circulated at the end of last week defending Boyle from accusations that he did not recuse himself from cases where he may have had conflicts of interest were written in the signature style of the White House and its ally the Republican National Committee. And administration officials are also working more closely with conservative activists to defend the nominees. Also, the Department of Justice is crafting a memo on Boyle's conduct as a judge and activists close to the White House such as Edward Whelan, president of the Ethics and Public Policy Center who authored a recent article in the conservative Weekly Standard, are stepping up their advocacy on behalf of the judicial nominees.
"I sense that," said Sen. Jeff Sessions (R-Ala.), a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, when asked yesterday if he noticed more effort by the White House to support the judicial nominees. He added that he met with Boyle and a White House aide Monday in a meeting he said he assumed was set up by the administration.
"I guess that represents a stepping up and talking about judges," Sessions acknowledged.
Sessions also said that conservatives are right to be concerned about the lack of action by Senate Republicans to defend the nominees, something he attributed to distractions caused by the busy schedule and big political issues such as immigration reform.
"I think it's time to get more serious in defending the nominees," he said.
Sen. Jim DeMint (R-S.C.), a rising star in the upper chamber's conservative circles, said that the White House is working more closely with Senate Majority Leader Bill Frist (R-Tenn.) on the judicial nominees.
"We've got to get moving faster on judicial nominees," said DeMint, who added that Frist has told him judicial nominees are a priority.
A White House official said that several of the nominees have sat in the Senate for a long time and that the administration is asking senators to make a decision about whether to confirm them or not, whether to "fish or cut bait."
The greater cooperation between the White House and conservative groups comes several weeks after White House political adviser Karl Rove and counsel Harriet Miers told conservatives in a private meeting that they would begin sending more judicial nominees to the Hill. But so far few nominees have been sent.
The White House official said that to the extent there is a push on judges it is an effort to wrap up background checks on judicial nominees and send them to the Senate more quickly. The effort is a direct recognition that the window of opportunity for getting nominees confirmed in the Senate may be closing as Election Day and the end of the 109th Congress approaches.
Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.), a member of the Judiciary Committee, has come under heavy fire from conservatives for blocking Haynes's nomination.
Yesterday, nearly 80 prominent conservative leaders including David Keene, chairman of the American Conservative Union; Paul Weyrich, chairman of Coalitions for America; Manuel Miranda, chairman of the Third Branch Conference; and Saul Anuzis, chairman of the Michigan Republican Party, delivered a letter to Graham rebuking him for "effectively blocking" Haynes's nomination in the Judiciary Committee.
"We understand that you and Senator [John] McCain [R-Ariz.] have concerns about the Bush Administration's policies on prisoners captured in the War on Terror, and about Mr. Haynes's role in implementing those policies at the Defense Department," the conservative leaders wrote.

Graham defended himself yesterday by saying that he is not blocking Haynes in committee and arguing that the conservative leaders who signed the letter do not represent all conservatives. But Graham refused to say whether he would cast a crucial vote to pass Haynes out of committee.

Jim Haynes' listening skills
Last night, I discussed the incoherent criticism directed at Fourth Circuit nominee Jim Haynes by two retired military legal officers. It since has been pointed out to me that one of the officers, Retired Admiral Hutson, served as the Navy Judge Advocate General during the Clinton Administration, retiring in 2000. Thus, he never worked directly with Haynes, and presumably lacks first hand knowledge as to whether Haynes listens to others. The other Retired Admiral, Donald Guter, was the Navy JAG from 2000 to 2002. He retired in 2002, and so had a relatively brief overlap with Haynes.
By contrast, Major General (ret.) Michael Marchand served with Haynes until July 2005. He was an Army JAG for 31 years. During the last 12 of them, he served in positions that provided him with "sigificant exposure" to the various General Counsels of the Department of Defense. Marchand states, in a letter to Senators Specter and Leahy that
In my experience Mr. Haynes has been more inclusive of the Judge Advocates General and the senior service lawyers of the armed services than any General Counsel of the Department of Defense. He has consistently and repeatedly reached out to the senior lawyers of the Department of Defense on some of the most difficult legal issues to confront our armed services, our Department, and our Country. He has done so throughout his tenure in formal and informal ways. He has been respectful of our views, even on those occasions when he may not have agreed with one of more of us. The Department and its legal community -- and the Country -- have been well served.
UPDATE: William Suter, Major General, USA (Ret.), and clerk of the U.S. Supreme Court, served in the JAG Corps from 1962-1991. He worked closely with Jim Haynes in 1990-1991 when Haynes was General Counsel of the Army. Suter has written to various Senators in support of Haynes. He states:
Mr. Haynes is a superb lawyer in every respect. He performed his duties as the Army General Counsel with great distinction. He was very knowledgeable concerning military matters and fully supported the Army's mission. I found him easy to work with and considered him a valuable provessional colleague. He was always available to discuss pending legal issues and we kept each other informed about important matters. He respected Judge Advocates and their opinions. He is also a man of great character and integrity.
Mr. Haynes deserves a vote on his nomination. I am confident that he will be an outstanding appellate judge.

Conservatives Rap Graham Over Judge; He Defends Stance
More than 80 conservative leaders today sent a letter to Sen. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C., accusing him of waging a "silent filibuster" against the nomination of William Haynes to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. While Graham today dismissed the coalition's charges, he also outlined his concerns with the nominee. "We represent a coalition of organizations that cares deeply about putting constitutionalist judges on the federal courts," wrote the leaders. "We are writing to express our concern about your lack of support for the nomination of William Haynes to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, effectively blocking him in [the Judiciary] committee." The leaders further accused Graham of violating the constitutional prerogative of the president and the GOP majority to have an up-or-down vote on nominations, comparing his opposition to "Democrats' minority-obstructionist tactics."
Graham brushed off the group's efforts to demand he support the nominee. "They are a group of people that organize around a specific event. That doesn't mean they represent conservatives," said Graham. "I represent a conservative state with a conservative philosophy on judges. But I also believe added scrutiny is needed. And I am ready to vote on all nominees that I know about." Graham said Bush administration officials that worked with Haynes on the administration's policies involving torture of war prisoners have expressed to him their concerns with Haynes' role in the "formulation of the interrogation policy. I'm listening to those people." But Graham insisted he is not officially blocking the Judiciary Committee from voting on Haynes' nomination and predicted other senators would "call for more hearings" on controversial nominees, including Haynes. Graham declined to say how he would vote on the nominee if requests for additional hearings are not met. Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., also shares Graham's concerns with Haynes' nomination.
Despite their anger over Graham's participation in the Gang of 14 last year, the conservative coalition declined to mention Graham's role in today's letter. The bipartisan Gang of 14 prevented Majority Leader Frist from changing Senate rules to prohibit the minority from filibustering a president's judicial nomination. The Committee for Justice, which signed today's letter, said recently the conservative groups would launch a national campaign via e-mails and telephone calls to Graham in hope of persuading the senator to support Haynes' nomination. One conservative leader predicted recently that Graham's conservative base could lash out against the senator when he runs for re-election in 2008. Haynes, who was nominated three years ago, has twice received the American Bar Association's highest rating. The group today defended Haynes' involvement in the 2003 torture scandal when he served as the Pentagon's general counsel, arguing Haynes had an "obligation to defend the legal rights of his client, the Defense Department, and to follow the legal advice of the Justice Department." -- by Greta Wodele

According to the Washington Post, "some retired military officers have served notice" that they will oppose the nomination of Jim Haynes in the event of a confirmation battle. The two officers mentioned by the Post are both former military lawyers.
This is old news to anyone who has been reading Power Line. Indeed, as we have long noted, Sen. Lindsey Graham reportedly has been preventing a confirmation battle based partly on reports from military lawyers who are unhappy with Haynes about his role regarding the administration's policy towards war on terrorism detainees. One of the officers, retired Rear Admiral John Hutson, claims that Haynes' "unwillingness to listen to others caused him to preside over the DOD legal system during the time of its greatest debacle in memory, the abuse of detainees by military personnel around the world." This is the familiar argument of the bureaucrat on the losing side -- "they didn't listen to me," which almost always means "they didn't agree with me." In Haynes' case, moreover, it was his obligation to defer to the legal advice and policy preferences of the Justice Department and the White House, not those of career military lawyers.
As for the "great debacle" claim, Hutson's tortured formulation, ("caused [Haynes] to preside over the legal system in the time of its greatest debacle," not "caused a debacle"), betrays the weakness of his argument. And what precisely was the debacle? If Hutson is referring to Abu Ghraib, he's talking nonsense. Nothing Haynes (or Justice Department lawyers) did caused that debacle; otherwise, whatever they did to cause it would have caused other Abu Ghraibs. Indeed, the controversial memo that Haynes produced (which adhered to the legal position laid out by the Justice Department) did not include sexual humiliation as one of the permitted interrogation devices. If Hutson is referring to Guantanamo Bay, then there is no debacle. Evidence of mistreatment of prisoners there is scant. It can be argue that the decision to hold so many people at Gitmo indefinitely (regardless of how they are treated) has been a public relations set-back. But that decision was not made by Haynes.
Meanwhile, retired Rear Admiral Donald Guter, apparently in response to the argument that Haynes was following Justice Department policy as he was obliged to, doubts that as a judge Haynes would have the independence or judgment to oppose unwise policies being pushed by his superiors. Either Guter is being misquoted or he was absent the day they taught law in law school. As an appeals court judge, Haynes' "superiors" would be the Supreme Court, and it would be Haynes' obligation not to oppose their decisions. It would also be Haynes' obligation as a judge not to focus on whether policies being "pushed" by the executive or the legislature are "unwise," as opposed to unlawful.
Against the incoherent views of the retired admirals, we have the testimony of Bernard Meltzer, a distinguished law professor and former assistant trial counsel at Nuremberg, who worked with Haynes in formulating the procedure for trying detainees before military tribunals. Meltzer apparently had no difficulty in getting Haynes to "listen." He reports that Haynes showed "informed and sensitive concern for the rights and legitimate interests of those who might be tried before a military commission."
No wonder Lindsey Graham has been trying to prevent a debate on the merits of Haynes.

Opposition to Nominee
By Shailagh Murray and Charles Babington
Some retired military officers have served notice that if conservatives keep pressing for a Senate confirmation vote for judicial nominee William J. Haynes II, it won't come without a fight.
Haynes, the Defense Department's general counsel, is President Bush's choice for a seat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 4th Circuit. Democrats have opposed Haynes since 2003, and now some Republicans are joining them. They object to his role as the Pentagon's top lawyer when controversial policies were adopted regarding harsh treatment of detainees captured in Afghanistan, Iraq and elsewhere.

The conservative group Committee for Justice has launched a telephone and e-mail campaign against one of those Republicans, Sen. Lindsey O. Graham (S.C.). Last week, some retired military lawyers came to Graham's defense, sending letters to the Judiciary Committee that call Haynes unfit for a lifetime appointment to the appellate court.
Haynes's "unwillingness to listen to others caused him to preside over the DOD legal system during the time of its greatest debacle in memory, the abuse of detainees by military personnel around the world," wrote John D. Hutson, a retired rear admiral who was a senior Navy lawyer. Donald J. Guter, who held the same rank, wrote that he doubted Haynes would have the independence or judgment to oppose unwise policies being pushed by his superiors.
Among those praising Haynes in letters to the committee is Bernard D. Meltzer, a retired law professor and former assistant trial counsel in the trials before the International Military Tribunal in Nuremberg. Meltzer wrote that he got to know Haynes while consulting with the Pentagon and that "I was impressed by his informed and sensitive concern for the rights and legitimate interests of those who might be tried before a military commission."

WEEKLY STANDARD
Lowering the Bar
The corrupt ABA judicial evaluation process.
By Edward Whelan
IF THERE WERE A LIST of lawyers least suited to assess Brett Kavanaugh's fitness to serve as a judge on the D.C. Circuit, Marna Tucker would be very high on it. Tucker's narrow specialty, divorce law, is far removed, in both substance and sophistication, from the work of the federal appellate courts--especially from the complex cases of administrative law that are the staple of the D.C. Circuit. Even worse, Tucker could hardly pretend to be impartial towards Kavanaugh. A fervent gender activist and supporter of other left-wing causes, she is a longtime ally of those who have vituperated the conservative Kavanaugh on account of his work for Kenneth Starr's independent-counsel investigation and his service as White House lawyer and staff secretary under President George W. Bush.
After nearly three years of Democratic obstruction, Kavanaugh's nomination was recently confirmed by the Senate, and he has taken his seat on the D.C. Circuit. But the untold story of his recent treatment by the ABA's Committee on the Federal Judiciary, which rates all federal judicial nominees, deserves attention, for it illustrates a longstanding defect that periodically plagues the committee's evaluations of Republican nominees.
When President Bush first nominated Kavanaugh in July 2003, the ABA committee gave him its top overall rating of "well qualified" (with a "substantial majority"--10 to 13 of the 14 voting members--rating him "well qualified" and the remaining minority rating him "qualified"). When Kavanaugh was renominated in early 2005, the committee's supplemental evaluation yielded the same "well qualified" rating. Then, as the Senate's 2005 session was wrapping up, Democratic leadership in the Senate, in a curious move, insisted that Kavanaugh's nomination, alone among all the pending judicial nominations, be sent back to the White House. The Democrats' insistence seemed at the time peevish, requiring President Bush to go through the formality of renominating Kavanaugh in January 2006. Little noticed was the fact that, under the ABA committee's practices, the renomination would trigger yet another supplemental evaluation of Kavanaugh.
There was every reason to expect the ABA's 2006 supplemental evaluation to be routine, as its purpose was simply to cover the one-year period since the previous rating. But a key fact had changed over that year: Tucker had been assigned to the ABA committee as the member responsible for the D.C. Circuit. Instead of focusing on the previous year--the only period of time not covered in the earlier evaluations--Tucker launched a scorched-earth review of Kavanaugh's entire career. She conducted 91 witness interviews--far more than the 55 that underlay the original 2003 evaluation--but showed little interest in witnesses identified by Kavanaugh. When ABA judiciary committee chairman Stephen Tober discovered (in his words) that "this was a nominee that Ms. Tucker was spending a considerable amount of time on," he did not rein her in but instead enlisted a second committee member--liberal civil-rights activist John Payton--to assist her.
Kavanaugh's relations with the previous D.C. Circuit member--also a Democratic woman--had been cordial and professional. In sharp contrast--according to administration officials whom Kavanaugh spoke with at the time--Tucker and Payton were adversarial and partisan when they interviewed Kavanaugh. Tucker criticized the White House for ending the ABA committee's privileged role in reviewing judicial candidates before they were formally nominated. Tucker and Payton displayed a bizarre interest in an internal Senate dispute (not involving Kavanaugh) that arose in late 2003 after a Republican staffer discovered on a shared computer directory a Democratic strategy memo that urged that a Sixth Circuit nominee be stonewalled in order to affect the outcome of the University of Michigan racial-preferences cases pending in that court. And Payton, who had argued those same cases in the Supreme Court in 2003, tried to probe what part Kavanaugh had played in the White House's formulation of the administration's position in those cases.

Returning from the interview, Kavanaugh told his White House colleagues that Tucker's conduct of the interview deeply concerned him. Fortunately for Kavanaugh, his strong record and the previous ratings he had received from the ABA committee made it difficult for Tucker to do him serious damage. Her evaluation reduced his overall rating from "well qualified" to "qualified" (with a minority of the committee still finding him well qualified), but even that rating meant that he had met the committee's "very high standards with respect to integrity, professional competence and judicial temperament."

But the ABA committee and Tucker weren't through with Kavanaugh. Responding to hyperbolic Democratic rhetoric about Kavanaugh's downgrade, Tober took the extraordinary step of submitting to the Senate Judiciary Committee a statement that presented, in isolation and without attribution, the committee's supposed dirt on Kavanaugh. And Tober and Tucker supplemented this statement in a telephone conference with senators and staffers.

One witness, Tober explained, had charged that Kavanaugh had "dissembled" in an oral argument. And (among a few other criticisms) several witnesses, all supposedly using the same word, had characterized Kavanaugh's White House work as "insulated." Tober and Tucker asserted that, consistent with their committee's policies, Kavanaugh had been informed of all negative items and had been given a full opportunity to answer them.

The ABA's disclosures, and the manner in which they were presented, astounded Kavanaugh and his advisers. Tucker had never told him the incendiary charge about having "dissembled" in court, he explained to White House colleagues. Had he heard it, he pointed out compellingly, he certainly would have tried to learn more about it from Tucker in order to dispute it. And, indeed, it appears that in the original charge the term "dissembled" was misused. Questioned in the telephone conference about the charge, Tucker stated that the "quote was 'He did not handle the case well as an advocate; he was not forceful, and when he dissembled, he did not argue his case clearly.'" The quoted statement makes little sense: It would be peculiar to criticize dissembling (a form of lying) merely for its effect on clarity, rather than as an intrinsic evil. Tucker herself, according to an unpublished transcript of the telephone conference, interpreted the charge merely to mean that Kavanaugh "did not respond appropriately" to questions. But Kavanaugh was never given a chance to contest the charge. And Senate Democrats, handed the ammunition by Tober and Tucker, profligately highlighted the "dissembling" charge to impugn Kavanaugh's integrity.

As for the charge that Kavanaugh's White House experience was "insulated": It was clear to Kavanaugh that Tucker herself was committed to that view. She even ignorantly insisted that, as staff secretary overseeing the full range of executive-branch decisions, he was exposed only to a "very narrow band" of views.

With hindsight, only a naïf would believe that Tucker and Senate Democrats did not work together to engineer the return of Kavanaugh's nomination in December 2005. The most sensible hypothesis is that Tucker signaled that she was well positioned to inflict damage on Kavanaugh--and that sending the nomination back to the White House would enable her to do so through a supplemental evaluation. Why else would Senate Democrats have insisted on sending the nomination back?

The bigger question is why a highly partisan divorce lawyer was ever appointed to the committee in the first place. The sitting ABA president, during his one-year term, has plenary authority to fill the five or so vacancies that arise each year. (The committee chairman and the 14 other members serve staggered three-year terms.) With the ABA's transformation over the last few decades from an apolitical professional organization into a liberal interest group, ABA presidents and the bar activists who vie for influential ABA positions have trended leftwards. Current ABA president Michael S. Greco, a zealous liberal, presumably selected Tucker because of, not in spite of, her partisan credentials.

Tober's role in Tucker's excesses is also significant. Under the committee's procedures, the chairman and the circuit member who conducts the investigation have extraordinary practical clout in shaping the views of the other committee members, as they prepare the report that goes to the full committee. That Tober did not try to restrain Tucker, but instead teamed her up with another liberal activist, suggests a woeful inattention on his part to partisan conflicts of interest.

Not coincidentally, Tober recently oversaw the committee's remarkable "not qualified" rating of Fifth Circuit nominee Michael B. Wallace, a highly respected attorney and former Supreme Court law clerk for the late William Rehnquist. In 1987, when Wallace served on the board of the Legal Services Corporation, Tober presented strikingly intemperate testimony to an LSC committee that Wallace chaired. Opposing a proposed regulation to require that boards receiving LSC funds have bipartisan membership (as does the LSC itself), Tober flamboyantly accused Wallace of attempting to "fashion a political bias litmus test" and of having a "hidden agenda," and he vowed to disobey the regulation if it became law.

The transcript of Tober's testimony, which also includes a number of loopy constitutional arguments, makes one wonder why Tober has any role in evaluating judicial nominees. It's even more disturbing that he would not see fit to recuse himself from reviewing the nomination of Wallace, for whom he plainly bears a strong animus.

Perhaps Tober will provide a persuasive explanation for the committee's negative rating of Wallace. But one lesson from the Kavanaugh process is that Tober's explanations should not be accepted at face value. In any event, it's long past time for the ABA to take serious steps to ensure the selection of committee members who will not let political bias infect their evaluations of judicial nominees. Absent such steps, the Senate Judiciary Committee should deprive the ABA committee of the privileged status it has long been accorded.

Arlen Specter or Tom Daschle, take your pick
This lead in today's Post story by Chris Cillizza about Sen. Lindsey Graham is priceless:
No longer content with bashing Democrats for their obstruction of President Bush's judicial nominees, a coalition of conservative groups is now turning its attention to a prominent Republican -- Sen. Lindsey O. Graham (S.C.).
Give that liberal a blog!
The story is great news, though. I've referred to Senator Graham as "the Arlen Specter of the south." In same ways, though, the better comparison is to Tom Daschle. As with Daschle, the voters in Graham's conservative home state probably have little idea of Graham's true ideological stance. Sean Rushton makes this point when he says:
A key reason why Lindsey Graham is Senator Graham is because he ran as opposed to the obstruction of the president's judicial nominees. We hope he'll remember that.
Graham is widely thought (along with Senator McCain) to be obstructing the nomination of Jim Haynes, the general counsel of the defense department. Graham apparently has tight connections with military lawyers who disliked the Pentagon's legal position on detainee interrogations. The Post quotes a spokesman for Graham who expresses concern that Haynes may not have been receptive enough to "advice from the military." However, Haynes was obliged to take his legal advice (if that's what the spokesman is referring to) from the Justice Department and the Office of White House Counsel, and he did so.
If Senator Graham nonetheless feels that Haynes is unfit to serve on the Fourth Circuit by virtue of his legal memos (or for any other reason) that's fine. But let's have the debate and the vote.

Conservatives Backing Nominee Look at Graham
WASHINGTON POST
By Chris Cillizza
No longer content with bashing Democrats for their obstruction of President Bush's judicial nominees, a coalition of conservative groups is now turning its attention to a prominent Republican -- Sen. Lindsey O. Graham (S.C.).
The campaign, led by the Committee for Justice, is aimed at persuading Graham to allow a vote on William James Haynes II, the general counsel at the Department of Defense and a nominee for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 4th Circuit. Although the campaign is in its infancy, organizers expect it to develop into a national e-mail and telephone lobbying effort.
"A key reason why Lindsey Graham is Senator Graham is because he ran as opposed to the obstruction of the president's judicial nominees," said Sean Rushton, executive director of the Committee for Justice. "We hope he'll remember that."
Graham insists he has engaged in no formal obstruction of Haynes, nor has he enlisted other senators to do so. Along with colleague and political ally John McCain (R-Ariz.), Graham has expressed concern regarding the advice Haynes provided the Bush administration on the treatment of detainees captured in the war on terrorism.
"The role Mr. Haynes played as DOD general counsel formulating these policies and whether he was receptive to legal advice from the military will be a line of inquiry when his nomination is brought up," said Kevin D. Bishop, communications director for Graham.
Haynes was nominated in 2003.
Opposing conservatives on one of their pet issues carries political risks for both Graham and McCain. Since winning the seat vacated by the late Sen. Strom Thurmond (R) in 2002, Graham has faced occasional opposition from his party's base, a resistance that hardened when he joined a bipartisan group of senators -- the "Gang of 14" -- to defuse a showdown on judicial nominees.
Charleston developer Thomas Ravenel, who narrowly lost a bid for the GOP Senate nomination in 2004, has encouraged speculation that he might mount a primary challenge to Graham in 2008 but is seeking state office in 2006.
McCain, who has made clear his intentions to run for president in 2008, has openly courted conservatives over the past year in an attempt to heal rifts caused by his primary challenge to George W. Bush in 2000. That effort has met with considerable success to date, progress that could be jeopardized by another high-profile battle over judicial nominations.

REPORT TO THE CABINET

FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING WITH MAY 8, 2006

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)

Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Delivers Commencement Address at Oklahoma State University (May 6, 2006)

Thank you all very much. President Schmidly, thank you. Members of the Oklahoma State faculty and administration; Governor; people in the Statehouse; members of the United States Congress; distinguished guests; parents, friends, family, and most important, the Class of 2006, thanks for the warm welcome to this great state, and to this fine campus. I'm honored to be here. Click Here for Complete Text

President Nominates General Michael Hayden as Director of the Central Intelligence Agency (May 8, 2006)

Good morning. Today I'm pleased to nominate General Mike Hayden as the next Director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Mike Hayden is supremely qualified for this position. I've come to know him well as our nation's first Deputy Director of National Intelligence. In that position, he's worked closely with our Director of National Intelligence, John Negroponte, to reform America's intelligence capabilities to meet the threats of a new century. President Discusses Peace Agreement in Sudan (May 8, 2006)

I want to thank Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice for joining me, and I also want to thank Deputy Secretary of State Bob Zoellick. He has just briefed me on his trip to Abuja, where he has played a very important role in setting up a peace agreement between the government of Sudan and a major rebel group in the Darfur region. Congratulations on a job well done, Bob. Thank you. Last week we saw the beginnings of hope for the people of Darfur. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush and Governor Bush Visit Fire Station in Florida (May 9, 2006)

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush and Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt Make Remarks to the Travel Pool (May 9, 2006)
I want to thank you all for joining us. I'm proud to be here with Secretary Leavitt. We're traveling the country reminding people that there's a fantastic opportunity for our seniors, and that is Medicare now offers a prescription drug benefit that will save people a lot of money. We just visited with some of our citizens inside there, and they're talking about significant savings. And that's what we want, we want our seniors to be able to have modern medicine. So far a lot of seniors have signed up. It's coming down the stretch toward the May 15th deadline; we want everybody to sign up. We want people to understand that they're going to save a lot of money when it comes to prescription drugs. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Meets with Victims of Identity Theft (May 10, 2006)
Identity theft is a serious problem in America. I have just listened to the horror stories from fellow citizens who have had their identities stolen. I listened to their ideas about how the federal government can help in the response in not only dealing with those who commit the crime, but helping those who have been victimized. And I want to thank you all for joining us. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Participates in Conversation on Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit in Florida (May 10, 2006)
I'm here to talk about Medicare. We've got an exciting program and an exciting opportunity for people to improve their lives. So this is an educational forum. This is a chance not only to speak to the folks here, but to those who may be watching on TV about a really interesting opportunity for the seniors all around our country to really improve their lives by signing up for a new opportunity in Medicare. PRESIDENTIAL STATEMENTS

President Disappointed in Senate Failure to Pass Real Medical Liability Reform (May 8, 2006)
I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)
The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

OFFICE OF CABINET LIAISON

REPORT TO THE CABINET

FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING WITH MAY 8, 2006

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)

Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Discusses Peace Agreement in Sudan (May 8, 2006)

I want to thank Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice for joining me, and I also want to thank Deputy Secretary of State Bob Zoellick. He has just briefed me on his trip to Abuja, where he has played a very important role in setting up a peace agreement between the government of Sudan and a major rebel group in the Darfur region. Congratulations on a job well done, Bob. Thank you. Last week we saw the beginnings of hope for the people of Darfur. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush and Governor Bush Visit Fire Station in Florida (May 9, 2006)

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush and Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt Make Remarks to the Travel Pool (May 9, 2006)
I want to thank you all for joining us. I'm proud to be here with Secretary Leavitt. We're traveling the country reminding people that there's a fantastic opportunity for our seniors, and that is Medicare now offers a prescription drug benefit that will save people a lot of money. We just visited with some of our citizens inside there, and they're talking about significant savings. And that's what we want, we want our seniors to be able to have modern medicine. So far a lot of seniors have signed up. It's coming down the stretch toward the May 15th deadline; we want everybody to sign up. We want people to understand that they're going to save a lot of money when it comes to prescription drugs. Click Here for Complete Text

PRESIDENTIAL STATEMENTS

President Disappointed in Senate Failure to Pass Real Medical Liability Reform (May 8, 2006)

I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)

The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

Darfur Agreement: A Step Toward Peace (May 8, 2006)
Last Friday, The Government Of Sudan And The Largest Darfur Rebel Group Signed An Agreement And Took A Step Toward Peace. We are still far from our ultimate goal of returning millions of displaced people to their homes so they can have a life without fear, but we can now see a way forward. The President is particularly grateful for the leadership of President Obasanjo of Nigeria and President Sassou-Nguesso of the Republic of the Congo. Click Here for Complete Text

Medicare Prescription Drug Coverage (May 9, 2006)
Today, President Bush Discussed How Signing Up For The New Medicare Prescription Drug Coverage Program Can Help Beneficiaries Save Money And Get The Drugs They Need. When President Bush came into office, Medicare was outdated and not meeting the needs of America's seniors. The Congress passed, and the President signed into law, legislation to modernize Medicare by providing preventive care, offering seniors more choices, and giving seniors better access to the prescription drugs they need. SETTING THE RECORD STRAIGHT

The ABA Finds Brett Kavanaugh Is "Indeed Qualified to Serve on the Federal Bench" (May 8, 2006)
"In 42 votes cast in the three ABA reviews, all 42 found Mr. Kavanaugh to be well qualified or qualified to serve on the DC Circuit. The ABA itself says that even the lowest of the three ratings is, in its words, 'a very high standard." White House Deputy Press Secretary Dana Perino, May 8, 2006. Click Here for Complete Text

USA Today's Misleading Medicare Story (May 9, 2006)
Millions Of Minorities Are Enrolling In Medicare Drug Coverage. USA Today Claims "Poor, Often Minority" Medicare Beneficiaries Are Not Enrolling In Medicare Drug Coverage. "While millions of seniors and people with disabilities are signing up and saving money, the program is being used least by those who could benefit most: poor, often minority Medicare beneficiaries" (Richard Wolf, "Those Most In Need May Miss Drug Benefit Sign-up," USA Today, 5/9/06). But By April, More Than 70 Percent Of Eligible African Americans, More Than 70 Percent Of Eligible Hispanics, And More Than 75 Percent Of Eligible Asian Americans Are Enrolled Or Have Retiree Drug Coverage. CBS News' Misleading Medicare Report (May 10, 2006)
CBS News Misleadingly Reports That Only 8 Million Seniors Have Signed Up For Medicare Prescription Drug Coverage. Jim Axelrod: "Hoping to nail down at least one clear success story for Republicans to run on this fall, Mr. Bush wants to add another million seniors to the 8 million already signed up." (CBS' "Evening News," 5/9/06) But 37 Million Seniors Have Coverage. Of the more than 42 million people eligible for Medicare, more than 31 million people with Medicare now have Part D-related prescription drug coverage and hundreds of thousands more are enrolling now. Nearly 6 million more eligible beneficiaries have an alternative source of coverage (i.e., they are covered by VA, Indian Health, or they are still working). Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush's Tax Relief Benefits All Taxpayers (May 11, 2006)

OFFICE OF CABINET LIAISON

REPORT TO THE CABINET

FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING WITH MAY 8, 2006

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)

Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Delivers Commencement Address at Oklahoma State University (May 6, 2006)

Thank you all very much. President Schmidly, thank you. Members of the Oklahoma State faculty and administration; Governor; people in the Statehouse; members of the United States Congress; distinguished guests; parents, friends, family, and most important, the Class of 2006, thanks for the warm welcome to this great state, and to this fine campus. I'm honored to be here. Click Here for Complete Text

President Nominates General Michael Hayden as Director of the Central Intelligence Agency (May 8, 2006)

Good morning. Today I'm pleased to nominate General Mike Hayden as the next Director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Mike Hayden is supremely qualified for this position. I've come to know him well as our nation's first Deputy Director of National Intelligence. In that position, he's worked closely with our Director of National Intelligence, John Negroponte, to reform America's intelligence capabilities to meet the threats of a new century. President Discusses Peace Agreement in Sudan (May 8, 2006)

I want to thank Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice for joining me, and I also want to thank Deputy Secretary of State Bob Zoellick. He has just briefed me on his trip to Abuja, where he has played a very important role in setting up a peace agreement between the government of Sudan and a major rebel group in the Darfur region. Congratulations on a job well done, Bob. Thank you. Last week we saw the beginnings of hope for the people of Darfur. Click Here for Complete Text

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush and Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt Make Remarks to the Travel Pool (May 9, 2006)
I want to thank you all for joining us. I'm proud to be here with Secretary Leavitt. We're traveling the country reminding people that there's a fantastic opportunity for our seniors, and that is Medicare now offers a prescription drug benefit that will save people a lot of money. We just visited with some of our citizens inside there, and they're talking about significant savings. And that's what we want, we want our seniors to be able to have modern medicine. So far a lot of seniors have signed up. It's coming down the stretch toward the May 15th deadline; we want everybody to sign up. We want people to understand that they're going to save a lot of money when it comes to prescription drugs. Click Here for Complete Text

Identity theft is a serious problem in America. I have just listened to the horror stories from fellow citizens who have had their identities stolen. I listened to their ideas about how the federal government can help in the response in not only dealing with those who commit the crime, but helping those who have been victimized. And I want to thank you all for joining us. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Participates in Conversation on Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit in Florida (May 10, 2006)
I'm here to talk about Medicare. We've got an exciting program and an exciting opportunity for people to improve their lives. So this is an educational forum. This is a chance not only to speak to the folks here, but to those who may be watching on TV about a really interesting opportunity for the seniors all around our country to really improve their lives by signing up for a new opportunity in Medicare. President Bush Discusses NSA Surveillance Program (May 11, 2006)
After September the 11th, I vowed to the American people that our government would do everything within the law to protect them against another terrorist attack. As part of this effort, I authorized the National Security Agency to intercept the international communications of people with known links to al Qaeda and related terrorist organizations. In other words, if al Qaeda or their associates are making calls into the United States or out of the United States, we want to know what they're saying. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Delivers Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College Commencement Address (May 11, 2006)

President Bush Meets with Former Secretaries of State and Former Secretaries of Defense (May 12, 2006)
I've just completed a second meeting with former Secretaries of State and former Secretaries of Defense on Iraq. We also discussed the broader Middle East, as well. I want to thank you all very much for sharing your thoughts not only with me, but with the Vice President and Secretary Rice and Secretary Rumsfeld. It really means a lot to hear your thoughts and your concerns and your suggestions about the way forward in Iraq. We've had our disagreements in this country about whether or not we should be there in the first place. Click Here for Complete Text

Remarks by the President at Celebration of Asian Pacific American Heritage Month and Presentation of the President's Volunteer Service Awards (May 12, 2006)
Welcome to the White House. I like to call it the People's House. I'm glad you could join us today to celebrate Asian Pacific American Heritage Month. This is the month we recognize the many accomplishments of Americans who trace their origins to the Asian Pacific region, and we honor the contributions they make to our great land. Across our country, Asian Pacific Americans are making their mark in all walks of life, including business and law and politics and education, community service, the arts, and science. PRESIDENTIAL STATEMENTS

President Disappointed in Senate Failure to Pass Real Medical Liability Reform (May 8, 2006)
I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)
The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

OFFICE OF CABINET LIAISON

REGIONAL REPORT TO THE CABINET

FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING WITH MAY 8, 2006

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)

Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Delivers Commencement Address at Oklahoma State University (May 6, 2006)

Thank you all very much. President Schmidly, thank you. Members of the Oklahoma State faculty and administration; Governor; people in the Statehouse; members of the United States Congress; distinguished guests; parents, friends, family, and most important, the Class of 2006, thanks for the warm welcome to this great state, and to this fine campus. I'm honored to be here. Click Here for Complete Text

President Nominates General Michael Hayden as Director of the Central Intelligence Agency (May 8, 2006)

Good morning. Today I'm pleased to nominate General Mike Hayden as the next Director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Mike Hayden is supremely qualified for this position. I've come to know him well as our nation's first Deputy Director of National Intelligence. In that position, he's worked closely with our Director of National Intelligence, John Negroponte, to reform America's intelligence capabilities to meet the threats of a new century. President Discusses Peace Agreement in Sudan (May 8, 2006)

I want to thank Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice for joining me, and I also want to thank Deputy Secretary of State Bob Zoellick. He has just briefed me on his trip to Abuja, where he has played a very important role in setting up a peace agreement between the government of Sudan and a major rebel group in the Darfur region. Congratulations on a job well done, Bob. Thank you. Last week we saw the beginnings of hope for the people of Darfur. Click Here for Complete Text

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush and Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt Make Remarks to the Travel Pool (May 9, 2006)
I want to thank you all for joining us. I'm proud to be here with Secretary Leavitt. We're traveling the country reminding people that there's a fantastic opportunity for our seniors, and that is Medicare now offers a prescription drug benefit that will save people a lot of money. We just visited with some of our citizens inside there, and they're talking about significant savings. And that's what we want, we want our seniors to be able to have modern medicine. So far a lot of seniors have signed up. It's coming down the stretch toward the May 15th deadline; we want everybody to sign up. We want people to understand that they're going to save a lot of money when it comes to prescription drugs. Click Here for Complete Text

Identity theft is a serious problem in America. I have just listened to the horror stories from fellow citizens who have had their identities stolen. I listened to their ideas about how the federal government can help in the response in not only dealing with those who commit the crime, but helping those who have been victimized. And I want to thank you all for joining us. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Participates in Conversation on Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit in Florida (May 10, 2006)
I'm here to talk about Medicare. We've got an exciting program and an exciting opportunity for people to improve their lives. So this is an educational forum. President Bush Discusses NSA Surveillance Program (May 11, 2006)
After September the 11th, I vowed to the American people that our government would do everything within the law to protect them against another terrorist attack. As part of this effort, I authorized the National Security Agency to intercept the international communications of people with known links to al Qaeda and related terrorist organizations. In other words, if al Qaeda or their associates are making calls into the United States or out of the United States, we want to know what they're saying. Click Here for Complete Text

Thanks for the warm welcome. This afternoon, we celebrate commencement in a stadium that is still under repair, near streets lined with temporary housing, in a region where too many lives have been shattered, and there has never been a more hopeful day to graduate in the state of Mississippi. President Bush Meets with Former Secretaries of State and Former Secretaries of Defense (May 12, 2006)
I've just completed a second meeting with former Secretaries of State and former Secretaries of Defense on Iraq. We also discussed the broader Middle East, as well. I want to thank you all very much for sharing your thoughts not only with me, but with the Vice President and Secretary Rice and Secretary Rumsfeld. It really means a lot to hear your thoughts and your concerns and your suggestions about the way forward in Iraq. We've had our disagreements in this country about whether or not we should be there in the first place. Click Here for Complete Text

Remarks by the President at Celebration of Asian Pacific American Heritage Month and Presentation of the President's Volunteer Service Awards (May 12, 2006)
Welcome to the White House. I like to call it the People's House. I'm glad you could join us today to celebrate Asian Pacific American Heritage Month. This is the month we recognize the many accomplishments of Americans who trace their origins to the Asian Pacific region, and we honor the contributions they make to our great land. Across our country, Asian Pacific Americans are making their mark in all walks of life, including business and law and politics and education, community service, the arts, and science. PRESIDENTIAL STATEMENTS

President Disappointed in Senate Failure to Pass Real Medical Liability Reform (May 8, 2006)
I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)
The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

OFFICE OF CABINET LIAISON

REPORT TO THE CABINET

FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING WITH MAY 8, 2006

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)

Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush and Governor Bush Visit Fire Station in Florida (May 9, 2006)

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush Meets with Former Secretaries of State and Former Secretaries of Defense (May 12, 2006)

I've just completed a second meeting with former Secretaries of State and former Secretaries of Defense on Iraq. We also discussed the broader Middle East, as well. I want to thank you all very much for sharing your thoughts not only with me, but with the Vice President and Secretary Rice and Secretary Rumsfeld. It really means a lot to hear your thoughts and your concerns and your suggestions about the way forward in Iraq. We've had our disagreements in this country about whether or not we should be there in the first place. Click Here for Complete Text

Remarks by the President at Celebration of Asian Pacific American Heritage Month and Presentation of the President's Volunteer Service Awards (May 12, 2006)

Welcome to the White House. I like to call it the People's House. I'm glad you could join us today to celebrate Asian Pacific American Heritage Month. This is the month we recognize the many accomplishments of Americans who trace their origins to the Asian Pacific region, and we honor the contributions they make to our great land. Across our country, Asian Pacific Americans are making their mark in all walks of life, including business and law and politics and education, community service, the arts, and science. PRESIDENTIAL STATEMENTS

President Disappointed in Senate Failure to Pass Real Medical Liability Reform (May 8, 2006)

I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)

The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

Continuation of the National Emergency Blocking Property of Certain Persons and Prohibiting the Export of Certain Goods to Syria (May 8, 2006)
On May 11, 2004, pursuant to my authority under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701- 1706) and the Syria Accountability and Lebanese Sovereignty Restoration Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-175), I issued Executive Order 13338 in which I declared a national emergency authorizing the blocking of property of certain persons and prohibiting the exportation or reexportation of certain goods to Syria. On April 25, 2006, I issued Executive Order 13399 to expand the scope of this national emergency. Click Here for Complete Text

Message to the Congress of the United States (May 8, 2006)
Section 202(d) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1622(d)) provides for the automatic termination of a national emergency unless, prior to the anniversary date of its declaration, the President publishes in the Federal Register and transmits to the Congress a notice stating that the emergency is to continue in effect beyond the anniversary date. In accordance with this provision, I have sent to the Federal Register for publication the enclosed notice, stating that the national emergency declared in Executive Order 13338 of May 11, 2004, and expanded in scope in Executive Order 13399 of April 25, 2006, authorizing the blocking of property of certain persons and prohibiting the exportation and reexportation of certain goods to Syria, is to continue in effect beyond May 11, 2006. OFFICE OF CABINET LIAISON

FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING WITH MAY 8, 2006

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)

Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush and Governor Bush Visit Fire Station in Florida (May 9, 2006)

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush and Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt Make Remarks to the Travel Pool (May 9, 2006)
I want to thank you all for joining us. I'm proud to be here with Secretary Leavitt. We're traveling the country reminding people that there's a fantastic opportunity for our seniors, and that is Medicare now offers a prescription drug benefit that will save people a lot of money. We just visited with some of our citizens inside there, and they're talking about significant savings. And that's what we want, we want our seniors to be able to have modern medicine. So far a lot of seniors have signed up. It's coming down the stretch toward the May 15th deadline; we want everybody to sign up. We want people to understand that they're going to save a lot of money when it comes to prescription drugs. Click Here for Complete Text

I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)
The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

Continuation of the National Emergency Blocking Property of Certain Persons and Prohibiting the Export of Certain Goods to Syria (May 8, 2006)
On May 11, 2004, pursuant to my authority under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701- 1706) and the Syria Accountability and Lebanese Sovereignty Restoration Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-175), I issued Executive Order 13338 in which I declared a national emergency authorizing the blocking of property of certain persons and prohibiting the exportation or reexportation of certain goods to Syria. On April 25, 2006, I issued Executive Order 13399 to expand the scope of this national emergency. Click Here for Complete Text

Message to the Congress of the United States (May 8, 2006)
Section 202(d) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1622(d)) provides for the automatic termination of a national emergency unless, prior to the anniversary date of its declaration, the President publishes in the Federal Register and transmits to the Congress a notice stating that the emergency is to continue in effect beyond the anniversary date. In accordance with this provision, I have sent to the Federal Register for publication the enclosed notice, stating that the national emergency declared in Executive Order 13338 of May 11, 2004, and expanded in scope in Executive Order 13399 of April 25, 2006, authorizing the blocking of property of certain persons and prohibiting the exportation and reexportation of certain goods to Syria, is to continue in effect beyond May 11, 2006. OFFICE OF CABINET LIAISON

FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING WITH MAY 8, 2006

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)

Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Discusses Peace Agreement in Sudan (May 8, 2006)

I want to thank Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice for joining me, and I also want to thank Deputy Secretary of State Bob Zoellick. He has just briefed me on his trip to Abuja, where he has played a very important role in setting up a peace agreement between the government of Sudan and a major rebel group in the Darfur region. Congratulations on a job well done, Bob. Thank you. Last week we saw the beginnings of hope for the people of Darfur. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush and Governor Bush Visit Fire Station in Florida (May 9, 2006)

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush and Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt Make Remarks to the Travel Pool (May 9, 2006)
I want to thank you all for joining us. I'm proud to be here with Secretary Leavitt. We're traveling the country reminding people that there's a fantastic opportunity for our seniors, and that is Medicare now offers a prescription drug benefit that will save people a lot of money. We just visited with some of our citizens inside there, and they're talking about significant savings. And that's what we want, we want our seniors to be able to have modern medicine. So far a lot of seniors have signed up. It's coming down the stretch toward the May 15th deadline; we want everybody to sign up. We want people to understand that they're going to save a lot of money when it comes to prescription drugs. Click Here for Complete Text

Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

OFFICE OF CABINET LIAISON

REGIONAL REPORT TO THE CABINET

FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING WITH MAY 8, 2006

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)

Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Delivers Commencement Address at Oklahoma State University (May 6, 2006)

Thank you all very much. President Schmidly, thank you. Members of the Oklahoma State faculty and administration; Governor; people in the Statehouse; members of the United States Congress; distinguished guests; parents, friends, family, and most important, the Class of 2006, thanks for the warm welcome to this great state, and to this fine campus. I'm honored to be here. Click Here for Complete Text

President Nominates General Michael Hayden as Director of the Central Intelligence Agency (May 8, 2006)

Good morning. Today I'm pleased to nominate General Mike Hayden as the next Director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Mike Hayden is supremely qualified for this position. I've come to know him well as our nation's first Deputy Director of National Intelligence. In that position, he's worked closely with our Director of National Intelligence, John Negroponte, to reform America's intelligence capabilities to meet the threats of a new century. President Discusses Peace Agreement in Sudan (May 8, 2006)

I want to thank Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice for joining me, and I also want to thank Deputy Secretary of State Bob Zoellick. He has just briefed me on his trip to Abuja, where he has played a very important role in setting up a peace agreement between the government of Sudan and a major rebel group in the Darfur region. Congratulations on a job well done, Bob. Thank you. Last week we saw the beginnings of hope for the people of Darfur. Click Here for Complete Text

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush and Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt Make Remarks to the Travel Pool (May 9, 2006)
I want to thank you all for joining us. I'm proud to be here with Secretary Leavitt. We're traveling the country reminding people that there's a fantastic opportunity for our seniors, and that is Medicare now offers a prescription drug benefit that will save people a lot of money. We just visited with some of our citizens inside there, and they're talking about significant savings. And that's what we want, we want our seniors to be able to have modern medicine. President Bush Discusses NSA Surveillance Program (May 11, 2006)
After September the 11th, I vowed to the American people that our government would do everything within the law to protect them against another terrorist attack. As part of this effort, I authorized the National Security Agency to intercept the international communications of people with known links to al Qaeda and related terrorist organizations. In other words, if al Qaeda or their associates are making calls into the United States or out of the United States, we want to know what they're saying. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Meets with Former Secretaries of State and Former Secretaries of Defense (May 12, 2006)

I've just completed a second meeting with former Secretaries of State and former Secretaries of Defense on Iraq. We also discussed the broader Middle East, as well. I want to thank you all very much for sharing your thoughts not only with me, but with the Vice President and Secretary Rice and Secretary Rumsfeld. It really means a lot to hear your thoughts and your concerns and your suggestions about the way forward in Iraq. We've had our disagreements in this country about whether or not we should be there in the first place. Click Here for Complete Text

Remarks by the President at Celebration of Asian Pacific American Heritage Month and Presentation of the President's Volunteer Service Awards (May 12, 2006)

Welcome to the White House. I like to call it the People's House. I'm glad you could join us today to celebrate Asian Pacific American Heritage Month. This is the month we recognize the many accomplishments of Americans who trace their origins to the Asian Pacific region, and we honor the contributions they make to our great land. Across our country, Asian Pacific Americans are making their mark in all walks of life, including business and law and politics and education, community service, the arts, and science. PRESIDENTIAL STATEMENTS

President Disappointed in Senate Failure to Pass Real Medical Liability Reform (May 8, 2006)

I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)

The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

OFFICE OF CABINET LIAISON

REPORT TO THE CABINET

FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING WITH MAY 8, 2006

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)

Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush and Governor Bush Visit Fire Station in Florida (May 9, 2006)

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush Meets with Former Secretaries of State and Former Secretaries of Defense (May 12, 2006)
I've just completed a second meeting with former Secretaries of State and former Secretaries of Defense on Iraq. We also discussed the broader Middle East, as well. I want to thank you all very much for sharing your thoughts not only with me, but with the Vice President and Secretary Rice and Secretary Rumsfeld. It really means a lot to hear your thoughts and your concerns and your suggestions about the way forward in Iraq. We've had our disagreements in this country about whether or not we should be there in the first place. Click Here for Complete Text

President Disappointed in Senate Failure to Pass Real Medical Liability Reform (May 8, 2006)
I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)
The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

Continuation of the National Emergency Blocking Property of Certain Persons and Prohibiting the Export of Certain Goods to Syria (May 8, 2006)
On May 11, 2004, pursuant to my authority under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701- 1706) and the Syria Accountability and Lebanese Sovereignty Restoration Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-175), I issued Executive Order 13338 in which I declared a national emergency authorizing the blocking of property of certain persons and prohibiting the exportation or reexportation of certain goods to Syria. On April 25, 2006, I issued Executive Order 13399 to expand the scope of this national emergency. Click Here for Complete Text

Message to the Congress of the United States (May 8, 2006)
Section 202(d) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1622(d)) provides for the automatic termination of a national emergency unless, prior to the anniversary date of its declaration, the President publishes in the Federal Register and transmits to the Congress a notice stating that the emergency is to continue in effect beyond the anniversary date. In accordance with this provision, I have sent to the Federal Register for publication the enclosed notice, stating that the national emergency declared in Executive Order 13338 of May 11, 2004, and expanded in scope in Executive Order 13399 of April 25, 2006, authorizing the blocking of property of certain persons and prohibiting the exportation and reexportation of certain goods to Syria, is to continue in effect beyond May 11, 2006. OFFICE OF CABINET LIAISON

FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING WITH MAY 8, 2006

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)

Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush and Governor Bush Visit Fire Station in Florida (May 9, 2006)

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush and Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt Make Remarks to the Travel Pool (May 9, 2006)
I want to thank you all for joining us. I'm proud to be here with Secretary Leavitt. We're traveling the country reminding people that there's a fantastic opportunity for our seniors, and that is Medicare now offers a prescription drug benefit that will save people a lot of money. We just visited with some of our citizens inside there, and they're talking about significant savings. And that's what we want, we want our seniors to be able to have modern medicine. So far a lot of seniors have signed up. It's coming down the stretch toward the May 15th deadline; we want everybody to sign up. We want people to understand that they're going to save a lot of money when it comes to prescription drugs. Click Here for Complete Text

President Disappointed in Senate Failure to Pass Real Medical Liability Reform (May 8, 2006)
I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)
The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

OFFICE OF CABINET LIAISON

REPORT TO THE CABINET

FOR THE WEEK BEGINNING WITH MAY 8, 2006

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)

Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

Congratulations on a job well done, Bob. Thank you. Last week we saw the beginnings of hope for the people of Darfur. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush and Governor Bush Visit Fire Station in Florida (May 9, 2006)

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush and Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt Make Remarks to the Travel Pool (May 9, 2006)
I want to thank you all for joining us. I'm proud to be here with Secretary Leavitt. We're traveling the country reminding people that there's a fantastic opportunity for our seniors, and that is Medicare now offers a prescription drug benefit that will save people a lot of money. We just visited with some of our citizens inside there, and they're talking about significant savings. And that's what we want, we want our seniors to be able to have modern medicine. So far a lot of seniors have signed up. It's coming down the stretch toward the May 15th deadline; we want everybody to sign up. We want people to understand that they're going to save a lot of money when it comes to prescription drugs. Click Here for Complete Text

Identity theft is a serious problem in America. I have just listened to the horror stories from fellow citizens who have had their identities stolen. I listened to their ideas about how the federal government can help in the response in not only dealing with those who commit the crime, but helping those who have been victimized. And I want to thank you all for joining us. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Participates in Conversation on Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit in Florida (May 10, 2006)
I'm here to talk about Medicare. We've got an exciting program and an exciting opportunity for people to improve their lives. So this is an educational forum. This is a chance not only to speak to the folks here, but to those who may be watching on TV about a really interesting opportunity for the seniors all around our country to really improve their lives by signing up for a new opportunity in Medicare. President Bush Discusses NSA Surveillance Program (May 11, 2006)
After September the 11th, I vowed to the American people that our government would do everything within the law to protect them against another terrorist attack. As part of this effort, I authorized the National Security Agency to intercept the international communications of people with known links to al Qaeda and related terrorist organizations. In other words, if al Qaeda or their associates are making calls into the United States or out of the United States, we want to know what they're saying. Click Here for Complete Text

Thanks for the warm welcome. This afternoon, we celebrate commencement in a stadium that is still under repair, near streets lined with temporary housing, in a region where too many lives have been shattered, and there has never been a more hopeful day to graduate in the state of Mississippi. President Bush Meets with Former Secretaries of State and Former Secretaries of Defense (May 12, 2006)

I've just completed a second meeting with former Secretaries of State and former Secretaries of Defense on Iraq. We also discussed the broader Middle East, as well. I want to thank you all very much for sharing your thoughts not only with me, but with the Vice President and Secretary Rice and Secretary Rumsfeld. It really means a lot to hear your thoughts and your concerns and your suggestions about the way forward in Iraq. We've had our disagreements in this country about whether or not we should be there in the first place. Click Here for Complete Text

Remarks by the President at Celebration of Asian Pacific American Heritage Month and Presentation of the President's Volunteer Service Awards (May 12, 2006)

Welcome to the White House. I like to call it the People's House. I'm glad you could join us today to celebrate Asian Pacific American Heritage Month. This is the month we recognize the many accomplishments of Americans who trace their origins to the Asian Pacific region, and we honor the contributions they make to our great land. Across our country, Asian Pacific Americans are making their mark in all walks of life, including business and law and politics and education, community service, the arts, and science. PRESIDENTIAL STATEMENTS

President Disappointed in Senate Failure to Pass Real Medical Liability Reform (May 8, 2006)

I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)

The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

Neil Gorsuch told me that he had met with you and Jan Williams. In response to which I volunteered - rather firmly - that I wanted to e-mail you about him.

I met Neil when I was president of the Republican National Lawyers Association. I asked him to be co-chair of a committee to support the President's judicial nominations. We worked together with Barbara Ledeen, Senator Santorum's staff person on that issue. He and I - and Barbara - have become friends.

His resume of legal and scholarly accomplishments speaks for itself (although it may not reflect that Princeton - through Robert George - recently agreed to publish his doctoral thesis from Oxford). While I suspect you may have been able to detect all of this during his interview, I want to confirm for you that Neil is seasoned and mature. He has superb judgment always expressed in a calm and deliberate manner. He is also married to a charming English lady who has a marvelous sense of humor; they have two young daughters.

Neil will be an outstanding appointment for whatever position he is chosen.

Look forward to seeing you the 12th.

All the best,
Peter

Easy confirmation ahead for Gorsuch?
by Anne Mulkern

Washington - Denver native Neil Gorsuch seemed headed toward what looks like easy confirmation to the Denver-based 10th Circuit Court of Appeals after gliding through a 20-minute U.S. Senate committee hearing on his qualifications Wednesday.

Only one senator on the 18-member Judiciary Committee attended the hearing, a signal the nomination is not controversial.

"I have nothing but good things to say about Mr. Gorsuch," said Sen. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C., the sole senator at the hearing. Graham worked with the Columbia, Harvard and Oxford University-educated Gorsuch at the Department of Justice.

Gorsuch's nomination now moves to a vote of the full committee, which Graham said he hoped would happen before the August recess. If it's approved there, it goes to a vote of the full Senate.

"Baring something coming out of the blue, it sounds like it will go through very smoothly," said Carl Tobias, law professor at University of Richmond in Virginia.

If approved, Gorsuch, 38, would take the position vacated by Judge David Ebel, who is taking senior status. The appellate court sits between trial courts and the U.S. Supreme Court.

Colorado's U.S. Sens. Wayne Allard, a Republican, and Ken Salazar, a Democrat, introduced Gorsuch, both giving glowing reviews.

During the brief questioning, Graham asked Gorsuch to describe his judicial philosophy.

"I resist pigeonholes. They aren't terribly helpful," Gorsuch said. "People do unexpected things. Pigeonholes ignore gray areas in the law."

Gorsuch said his approach to deciding cases was to pay attention to arguments made by the lawyers presenting the case, try to reach unanimity with his colleagues on the bench, and to respect court precedent.

During the hearing Gorsuch's wife, Marie Louise, sat in the front row with his daughters, Emma, 6, and Belinda, 4, who wore matching pink dresses.

The 10th Circuit serves Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Wyoming and Utah. By tradition, the seats are filled by state and Gorsuch would fill the one allocated for Colorado.

Matt,

I spent some time in Ohio working on the election. What a magnificent result for the country. For me personally, the experience was invigorating and a great deal of fun. And the experience rekindled my interest in public service and a strong desire to work for this Administration. While I've spent considerable time trying to help the cause on a volunteer basis in various roles, I concluded that I'd really like to be a full-time member of the team. P6/(b)(6) P6/(b)(6) As a result, I've updated my resume to include my latest political (and other) activities and attached it below. I've also taken the liberty of listing below some of the positions I think I'd be competent to handle. Would you help me get my materials into the hands of the right people? I'm extremely grateful for your help and hope that I can be of use.

Best regards,

Neil Gorsuch

Resume1.pdf

Matt,

I spent some time in Ohio working on the election. What a magnificent result for the country. For me personally, the experience was invigorating and a great deal of fun. And the experience rekindled my interest in public service and a strong desire to work for this Administration. While I've spent considerable time trying to help the cause on a volunteer basis in various roles, I concluded that I'd really like to be a full-time member of the team. P6/(b)(6) P6/(b)(6) As a result, I've updated my resume to include my latest political (and other) activities and attached it below. I've also taken the liberty of listing below some of the positions I think I'd be competent to handle. Would you help me get my materials into the hands of the right people? I'm extremely grateful for your help and hope that I can be of use.

Best regards,

Neil Gorsuch

Ken - I interviewed last week at DOJ with Robert McCallum to serve as Principal Deputy Associate Attorney General, a spot helps oversee most of the Department's litigating divisions. We hit it off and I understand that the White House - perhaps Political Affairs - is reviewing the appointment now. If I could impose upon you to put in a good word, I would be immensely grateful. The position seems a perfect fit with my experience and, having just finished off a couple large matters, now is a great time for me to make the leap to public service. I'm seriously grateful for all your help and very much hope that I am not imposing too much. My cv is attached for reference. Many, many thanks, Neil

Ken - I interviewed last week at DOJ with Robert McCallum to serve as Principal Deputy Associate Attorney General, a spot helps oversee most of the Department's litigating divisions. We hit it off and I understand that the White House - perhaps Political Affairs - is reviewing the appointment now. If I could impose upon you to put in a good word, I would be immensely grateful. The position seems a perfect fit with my experience and, having just finished off a couple large matters, now is a great time for me to make the leap to public service. I'm seriously grateful for all your help and very much hope that I am not imposing too much. My cv is attached for reference. Many, many thanks, Neil

Reference Report
Neil Gorsuch

Jessica Bartlow
Administrative Assistant and Recruiting Coordinator to Gorsuch
P6/(b)(6) (cell)

Background

- Jessica has worked for Neil over the past six years.
- She came to him from a non-profit agency, with no legal experience.
- Neil trained her and took the time to teach her virtually all of the legal skills she knows today (she was attending law school at night while working for Neil).

Notes

- Neil is demanding and a perfectionist, but not anal or a micromanager.
- He gives Jessica freedom to get the job done.
- He has supported her taking classes, even with the demands of his job.
- The nature of the work is high paced and stressful, but Neil keeps the morale high.
    - When it's midnight and you're still at work, Neil will always make sure to rally the troops.
- Jessica is always comfortable telling Neil that she made a mistake – she knows that she can tell him the truth.
- If Neil is excited, he expects you to be excited too – his standards are high.
- He is demanding, but you learn from him.
- He has high expectations of your performance and attention to detail.
- It takes a lot to keep up with Neil.
- He doesn't hoard information – he wants you to know what he knows.
- "It hasn't been all wine and roses, but that is the nature of our job. Neil has high expectations, but sometimes that is the best type of person to learn from."

As some of you know, after many happy years at Kellogg, Huber, I've signed up for a stint in public service at the Justice Department, effective the middle of next month. I will be serving as the principal Deputy Associate Attorney General. The Associate Attorney General's office oversees the Department's civil litigating functions (including the civil, antitrust, tax, civil rights, and environment units). Some of you may know my recent predecessors, Brian Boyle, Peter Keisler, and Joe Onek. My immediate predecessor, Brian Boyle, oversaw and litigated a number of terrorism-related cases.

I very much hope to stay in touch and, toward that end, my new office contact information (effective as of mid-June) follows below, along with my home address and phone.

Subject: New Contact Information

As some of you know, after many happy years at Kellogg, Huber, I've signed up for a stint in public service at the Justice Department, effective the middle of next month. I will be serving as the principal Deputy Associate Attorney General. The Associate Attorney General's office oversees the Department's civil litigating functions (including the civil, antitrust, tax, civil rights, and environment units). Some of you may know my recent predecessors, Brian Boyle, Peter Keisler, and Joe Onek. My immediate predecessor, Brian Boyle, oversaw and litigated a number of terrorism-related cases.

I very much hope to stay in touch and, toward that end, my new office contact information (effective as of mid-June) follows below, along with my home address and phone.

As some of you know, after many happy years at Kellogg, Huber, I've signed up for a stint in public service at the Justice Department, effective the middle of next month. I will be serving as the principal Deputy Associate Attorney General. The Associate Attorney General's office oversees the Department's civil litigating functions (including the civil, antitrust, tax, civil rights, and environment units). Some of you may know my recent predecessors, Brian Boyle, Peter Keisler, and Joe Onek. My immediate predecessor, Brian Boyle, oversaw and litigated a number of terrorism-related cases.

I very much hope to stay in touch and, toward that end, my new office contact information (effective as of mid-June) follows below, along with my home address and phone.

Neil Gorsuch told me that he had met with you and Jan Williams. In response to which I volunteered - rather firmly - that I wanted to e-mail you about him.

I met Neil when I was president of the Republican National Lawyers Association. I asked him to be co-chair of a committee to support the President's judicial nominations. We worked together with Barbara Ledeen, Senator Santorum's staff person on that issue. He and I - and Barbara - have become friends.

His resume of legal and scholarly accomplishments speaks for itself (although it may not reflect that Princeton - through Robert George - recently agreed to publish his doctoral thesis from Oxford). While I suspect you may have been able to detect all of this during his interview, I want to confirm for you that Neil is seasoned and mature. He has superb judgment always expressed in a calm and deliberate manner. He is also married to a charming English lady who has a marvelous sense of humor; they have two young daughters.

Neil will be an outstanding appointment for whatever position he is chosen.

Look forward to seeing you the 12th.

All the best,
Peter

Subject: Tenth Circuit - Wyoming seats

Harriet:

There are twelve seats for active judges on the Tenth Circuit. Wyoming has one of the 12 seats (Judge O'Brien). The break-down by state is as follows:

Seat 1: Colorado - vacant (Neil Gorsuch candidate)
Seat 2: New Mexico - Hartz
Seat 3: Utah - Murphy
Seat 4: Colorado - Tymkovich
Seat 5: Wyoming - O'Brien
Seat 6: Kansas - Briscoe
Seat 7: Oklahoma - Henry
Seat 8: Oklahoma - vacant (Jerome Holmes candidate)
Seat 9: Utah - McConnell
Seat 10: Kansas - Tacha
Seat 11: New Mexico - Kelly
Seat 12: Colorado - Lucero

We can discuss further at your convenience.

Thanks -
Leslie

<<tmp.htm>> Brian,
As you'll recall, you helped me on Mar. 20 about Neil Gorsuch, principal deputy to the associate attorney general, when I wrote a story that he was a top candidate for the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver.
As you know, the President today nominated him for the court.
Can you or Mr. Gorsuch's staff please help me get an interview with him? Failing that, how about a statement from him? I'm on immediate deadline for tomorrow's papers.
Thanks. (This email duplicates a phone msg I left for u a few mins. ago.)

SENATOR ALLARD LAUDS
NOMINATION OF NEIL GORSUCH
TO 10TH CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS
WASHINGTON, D.C. â?? U.S. Senator Wayne Allard (R-Colorado) said President Bush informed him Tuesday that he intends to nominate Colorado native Neil Gorsuch to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals.
â??I am pleased the White House has nominated someone with strong Colorado roots and impeccable credentials,â?? Senator Allard said. â??He is extremely qualified for this position.â??
â??Neil Gorsuch is a top-flight nominee for the appellate bench,â?? Senator Allard said. â??He is a fourth-generation Coloradan with extensive court experience and the appropriate judicial temperament.â??
â??I look forward to working with the White House to ensure this nomination moves through the Senate quickly,â?? Senator Allard added.
Mr. Gorsuch, a native of Denver, is a graduate of Harvard Law School (cum laude) and holds a Doctorate in Legal Philosophy from Oxford University. After clerking for a U.S. Court of Appeals Judge, he was chosen to be a law clerk to U.S. Supreme Court Justices Byron White and Anthony Kennedy. After gaining extensive experience in litigating complex cases in federal court while in private practice, Mr. Gorsuch was named Principal Deputy to the Associate Attorney General of the United States. He is the son of former Environmental Protection Agency Director Ann Gorsuch.
â??It is critical that this position on the appeals court be filled as soon as possible. Mr. Gorsuch has demonstrated that he has the qualifications and experience required, and I will urge my Senate colleagues to confirm this nomination in a timely fashion,â?? Senator Allard said.

If confirmed by the U.S. Senate, Mr. Gorsuch will fill the vacancy left by Judge Dave Ebel.

NOMINATION OF NEIL GORSUCH
TO 10TH CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS

WASHINGTON, D.C. â?? U.S. Senator Wayne Allard (R-Colorado) said President Bush informed him Tuesday that he intends to nominate Colorado native Neil Gorsuch to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals.

â??I am pleased the White House has nominated someone with strong Colorado roots and impeccable credentials,â?? Senator Allard said. â??He is extremely qualified for this position.â??

â??Neil Gorsuch is a top-flight nominee for the appellate bench,â?? Senator Allard said. â??He is a fourth-generation Coloradan with extensive court experience and the appropriate judicial temperament.â??

â??I look forward to working with the White House to ensure this nomination moves through the Senate quickly,â?? Senator Allard added.

Mr. Gorsuch, a native of Denver, is a graduate of Harvard Law School (cum laude) and holds a Doctorate in Legal Philosophy from Oxford University. After clerking for a U.S. Court of Appeals Judge, he was chosen to be a law clerk to U.S. Supreme Court Justices Byron White and Anthony Kennedy. After gaining extensive experience in litigating complex cases in federal court while in private practice, Mr. Gorsuch was named Principal Deputy to the Associate Attorney General of the United States. He is the son of former Environmental Protection Agency Director Ann Gorsuch.

â??It is critical that this position on the appeals court be filled as soon as possible. Mr. Gorsuch has demonstrated that he has the qualifications and experience required, and I will urge my Senate colleagues to confirm this nomination in a timely fashion,â?? Senator Allard said.

If confirmed by the U.S. Senate, Mr. Gorsuch will fill the vacancy left by Judge Dave Ebel.

NOMINATION OF NEIL GORSUCH
TO 10TH CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS
WASHINGTON, D.C. â?? U.S. Senator Wayne Allard (R-Colorado) said President Bush informed him Tuesday that he intends to nominate Colorado native Neil Gorsuch to the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals.

â??I am pleased the White House has nominated someone with strong Colorado roots and impeccable credentials,â?? Senator Allard said. â??He is extremely qualified for this position.â??

â??Neil Gorsuch is a top-flight nominee for the appellate bench,â?? Senator Allard said. â??He is a fourth-generation Coloradan with extensive court experience and the appropriate judicial temperament.â??

â??I look forward to working with the White House to ensure this nomination moves through the Senate quickly,â?? Senator Allard added.

Mr. Gorsuch, a native of Denver, is a graduate of Harvard Law School (cum laude) and holds a Doctorate in Legal Philosophy from Oxford University. After clerking for a U.S. Court of Appeals Judge, he was chosen to be a law clerk to U.S. Supreme Court Justices Byron White and Anthony Kennedy. After gaining extensive experience in litigating complex cases in federal court while in private practice, Mr. Gorsuch was named Principal Deputy to the Associate Attorney General of the United States. He is the son of former Environmental Protection Agency Director Ann Gorsuch.

â??It is critical that this position on the appeals court be filled as soon as possible. Mr. Gorsuch has demonstrated that he has the qualifications and experience required, and I will urge my Senate colleagues to confirm this nomination in a timely fashion,â?? Senator Allard said.

If confirmed by the U.S. Senate, Mr. Gorsuch will fill the vacancy left by Judge Dave Ebel.

Following is the story about Neil. It's straight forward, but I am still not sure why Allard's chief of staff would put this out.

Two emerge as top candidates for U.S. Appeals Court By ROBERT BOCZKIEWICZ THE PUEBLO CHIEFTAIN DENVER - Leading candidates have emerged for two top-level spots in the federal court system in Colorado, according to Sean Conway, chief of staff for U.S. Sen. Wayne Allard.

Marcia Kreiger of Denver and Neil Gorsuch of Washington, D.C., have been interviewed by President Bush's subordinates for a vacancy on the federal appeals court in Denver, Conway told The Pueblo Chieftain on Thursday.

Krieger has been a judge of the U.S. District Court for Colorado for four years and was nominated by Bush. That court is one step below the appeals court.

Gorsuch is a U.S. Justice Department official and son of the late Anne McGill Gorsuch Buford. She was a Colorado state legislator in the 1970s and a director of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency under President Reagan Conway said he expects Bush to make a nomination for the spot on the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals "in the next couple of weeks."

Troy Eid, a Denver lawyer and former adviser to Gov. Bill Owens, is the President's only current candidate to become U.S. Attorney in Colorado, Conway said. He said Denver lawyer Sean Gallagher "has been mentioned" for the spot on the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The vacancy was created when Judge David Ebel of Denver gave up his seat so he could work only part time as a judge of the court.

Judge Carlos Lucero of Denver, who was nominated by President Clinton, and Judge Timothy Tymkovich of Denver, who was nominated by President Bush, are the only full-time judges from Colorado on the six-state court.

It is one step below the U.S. Supreme Court. Lucero is formerly of Alamosa.
The U.S. Attorney vacancy was created when John Suthers stepped down more than a year ago to become Colorado attorney general after Ken Salazar left that job to become a Democratic U.S. senator.

Allard, as the state's senior senator and a Republican, has a role in the selection of federal judges and of the U.S. attorney because the president is a Republican.

Krieger served eight years as a federal bankruptcy judge for Colorado before the president elevated her to the federal district court.

Gorsuch is a Harvard law school graduate and worked in a Washington, D.C., law firm until about a year ago. He is the principal deputy to the associate attorney general, the third-ranking official at the Justice Department.

The department has a key role in helping the president fill federal court vacancies.

Gorsuch was raised in Denver and is a fourth-generation Coloradan. He has written articles for the National Review, a conservative magazine founded by Bill Buckley, and for the Cato Institute, a libertarian think tank in the nation's capital.

Gallagher has worked at large law firms in Denver and now is at Hogan &

Hartson, a large national law firm, which one judicial insider said "is a very powerful firm in D.C." The firm's Denver office has former politicians of both parties, including Democratic former U.S. Attorney Tom Strickland and Republican former congressman Scott McInnis.

Gallagher has relatives in Pueblo where his father and mother, Robert and Shirley Gallagher, grew up. He said he is "interested in being considered" for the appeals court, but said he has not been interviewed.

Eid was the legal adviser to Republican governor Owens and was state personnel director under Owens.

Can you pls confirm the accuracy of the following on the FJC website?

- Following the enactment of the 1990 Act, two new Tenth Circuit seats were created:
    - In 1995, Judge Lucero of Colorado was appointed to serve on the Tenth Circuit. He continues to serve as an active judge.
    - In 1992, Judge Kelly of New Mexico was appointed to serve on the Tenth Circuit. He also continues to serve as an active judge.
- The seat vacated by Judge Ebel (to which Neil Gorsuch is anticipated to be nominated) was not created by the 1990 Act. The Ebel seat existed prior to the enactment of the 1990 Act and has a long history of being based in Colorado.
    - 1988-present - Judge Ebel (currently serving as a senior judge)
    - 1971-84 – Judge Doyle of Colorado
    - 1940-70 – Judge Murrah of Oklahoma
    - 1929 -40 – Judge Lewis of Colorado

Can you pls confirm the accuracy of the following on the FJC website?

- Following the enactment of the 1990 Act, two new Tenth Circuit seats were created:
    - In 1995, Judge Lucero of Colorado was appointed to serve on the Tenth Circuit. He continues to serve as an active judge.
    - In 1992, Judge Kelly of New Mexico was appointed to serve on the Tenth Circuit. He also continues to serve as an active judge.
- The seat vacated by Judge Ebel (to which Neil Gorsuch is anticipated to be nominated) was not created by the 1990 Act. The Ebel seat existed prior to the enactment of the 1990 Act and has a long history of being based in Colorado.
    - 1988-present - Judge Ebel (currently serving as a senior judge)
    - 1971-84 – Judge Doyle of Colorado
    - 1940-70 – Judge Murrah of Oklahoma
    - 1929 -40 – Judge Lewis of Colorado

I called Exec Clerk too--- they said his nomination said "of Colorado" but they keep no record of work address for past individuals.
He was still serving Senior Status at the time of his death--- and he died in Denver. Also, he spent his whole life in Colorado--- so we can be pretty confident that he was based in CO. Also see the attached website. http://www.answers.com/topic/united-states-court-of-appeals-for-the-tenth-circuit

<<Gorsuch bio TPs.doc>>

Neil M. Gorsuch
Nominee to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit

- Neil Gorsuch is a well-respected attorney and senior official in the Department of Justice who possesses extensive trial and appellate litigation experience in of a broad range of issues, including constitutional questions, commercial disputes, and criminal matters.
    - Mr. Gorsuch has been nominated to the Tenth Circuit, which hears appeals from the federal district courts of Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas and Oklahoma.
    - Mr. Gorsuch enjoys strong bipartisan support, particularly in Colorado.
- Mr. Gorsuch has a distinguished record as a practicing attorney, a public servant, and an intellectual.
    - In 2005, Mr. Gorsuch joined the Department of Justice as the Principal Deputy Associate Attorney General. In that capacity, Mr. Gorsuch assists in managing the Department's civil litigating components (antitrust, civil, civil rights, environment, and tax), as well as assisting in the development and implementation of a wide variety of civil justice initiatives and policies.
    - From 1995 to 2005, Mr. Gorsuch worked as an associate and partner at the law firm of Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd, Evans & Figel, PLLC, where he represented clients that included small corporations, Fortune 100 corporations, non-profit organizations, and individuals.
    - While in private practice, Mr. Gorsuch had a thriving litigation practice, and was involved in some very significant litigation, including what was believed to be the largest private antitrust damages award to stand on appeal—more than one billion dollars. He has tried several cases to verdict and briefed dozens of cases in the courts of appeals. The range of issues Mr. Gorsuch worked on included antitrust, breach of contract, securities litigation, breach of fiduciary duty and fraud, and shareholders rights.
    - Mr. Gorsuch is known for his outstanding intellect, keen analytical skills, writing skills, excellent courtroom skills, work ethic, and integrity. Clients, co-counsel, colleagues, judges, and opposing counsel all praised Mr. Gorsuch's nomination to the federal appellate bench.
    - Mr. Gorsuch has long been dedicated to pro bono service and improvement of the legal profession, most recently participating in the Department's pro bono legal clinic and representing the Department before various judicial and legal groups.
- Mr. Gorsuch has impeccable academic credentials and professional training.
    - He served as a law clerk for Justices Byron White and Anthony Kennedy and Judge David Sentelle of the United States Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit.

- He attended Harvard Law School as a Harry Truman Scholar and graduated with honors in 1991. He graduated with honors from Columbia University in 1988, where he was Phi Beta Kappa.

- Mr. Gorsuch attended Oxford University as a Marshall Scholar and received his Doctorate in Philosophy in 2004.

- Mr. Gorsuch has used his legal skills to assist clients on a pro bono and reduced fee basis.

  - Mr. Gorsuch represented Columbia Hospital for Women, the Council of Institutional Investors, and several individuals on issues ranging from breach of contract to shareholders rights to criminal investigations.

  - Mr. Gorsuch participated in the Harvard Prison Legal Assistance Project and the Harvard Defenders program while in law school and now participates in the Justice Department's legal aid clinic.

Neil M. Gorsuch
Nominee to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit

- Neil Gorsuch is a well-respected attorney and senior official in the Department of Justice who possesses extensive trial and appellate litigation experience in of a broad range of issues, including constitutional questions, commercial disputes, and criminal matters.
    - Mr. Gorsuch has been nominated to the Tenth Circuit, which hears appeals from the federal district courts of Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas and Oklahoma.
    - Mr. Gorsuch enjoys strong bipartisan support, particularly in Colorado.
- Mr. Gorsuch has a distinguished record as a practicing attorney, a public servant, and an intellectual.
    - In 2005, Mr. Gorsuch joined the Department of Justice as the Principal Deputy Associate Attorney General. In that capacity, Mr. Gorsuch assists in managing the Department's civil litigating components (antitrust, civil, civil rights, environment, and tax), as well as assisting in the development and implementation of a wide variety of civil justice initiatives and policies.
    - From 1995 to 2005, Mr. Gorsuch worked as an associate and partner at the law firm of Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd, Evans & Figel, PLLC, where he represented clients that included small corporations, Fortune 100 corporations, non-profit organizations, and individuals.
    - While in private practice, Mr. Gorsuch had a thriving litigation practice, and was involved in some very significant litigation, including what was believed to be the largest private antitrust damages award to stand on appeal—more than one billion dollars. He has tried several cases to verdict and briefed dozens of cases in the courts of appeals. The range of issues Mr. Gorsuch worked on included antitrust, breach of contract, securities litigation, breach of fiduciary duty and fraud, and shareholders rights.
    - Mr. Gorsuch is known for his outstanding intellect, keen analytical skills, writing skills, excellent courtroom skills, work ethic, and integrity. Clients, co-counsel, colleagues, judges, and opposing counsel all praised Mr. Gorsuch's nomination to the federal appellate bench.
    - Mr. Gorsuch has long been dedicated to pro bono service and improvement of the legal profession, most recently participating in the Department's pro bono legal clinic and representing the Department before various judicial and legal groups.
- Mr. Gorsuch has impeccable academic credentials and professional training.
    - He served as a law clerk for Justices Byron White and Anthony Kennedy and Judge David Sentelle of the United States Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit.

- He attended Harvard Law School as a Harry Truman Scholar and graduated with honors in 1991. He graduated with honors from Columbia University in 1988, where he was Phi Beta Kappa.

- Mr. Gorsuch attended Oxford University as a Marshall Scholar and received his Doctorate in Philosophy in 2004.

- Mr. Gorsuch has used his legal skills to assist clients on a pro bono and reduced fee basis.

  - Mr. Gorsuch represented Columbia Hospital for Women, the Council of Institutional Investors, and several individuals on issues ranging from breach of contract to shareholders rights to criminal investigations.

  - Mr. Gorsuch participated in the Harvard Prison Legal Assistance Project and the Harvard Defenders program while in law school and now participates in the Justice Department's legal aid clinic.

Can you make the calls that Dabney typically made for this nomination (to Mike and to Cohen)? First thing in the am is fine, as long as it is before the nomination goes.

Let me know if you are not going to be here and I will do it.

Thanks,
Grant

PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)
Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Delivers Commencement Address at Oklahoma State University (May 6, 2006)
Thank you all very much. President Schmidly, thank you. Members of the Oklahoma State faculty and administration; Governor; people in the Statehouse; members of the United States Congress; distinguished guests; parents, friends, family, and most important, the Class of 2006, thanks for the warm welcome to this great state, and to this fine campus. I'm honored to be here. Click Here for Complete Text

President Nominates General Michael Hayden as Director of the Central Intelligence Agency (May 8, 2006)
Good morning. Today I'm pleased to nominate General Mike Hayden as the next Director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Mike Hayden is supremely qualified for this position. I've come to know him well as our nation's first Deputy Director of National Intelligence. In that position, he's worked closely with our Director of National Intelligence, John Negroponte, to reform America's intelligence capabilities to meet the threats of a new century. President Discusses Peace Agreement in Sudan (May 8, 2006)
I want to thank Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice for joining me, and I also want to thank Deputy Secretary of State Bob Zoellick. He has just briefed me on his trip to Abuja, where he has played a very important role in setting up a peace agreement between the government of Sudan and a major rebel group in the Darfur region. Congratulations on a job well done, Bob. Thank you. Last week we saw the beginnings of hope for the people of Darfur. Click Here for Complete Text

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush and Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt Make Remarks to the Travel Pool (May 9, 2006)
I want to thank you all for joining us. I'm proud to be here with Secretary Leavitt. We're traveling the country reminding people that there's a fantastic opportunity for our seniors, and that is Medicare now offers a prescription drug benefit that will save people a lot of money. We just visited with some of our citizens inside there, and they're talking about significant savings. And that's what we want, we want our seniors to be able to have modern medicine. So far a lot of seniors have signed up. It's coming down the stretch toward the May 15th deadline; we want everybody to sign up. We want people to understand that they're going to save a lot of money when it comes to prescription drugs. Click Here for Complete Text

Identity theft is a serious problem in America. I have just listened to the horror stories from fellow citizens who have had their identities stolen. I listened to their ideas about how the federal government can help in the response in not only dealing with those who commit the crime, but helping those who have been victimized. And I want to thank you all for joining us. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Participates in Conversation on Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit in Florida (May 10, 2006)
I'm here to talk about Medicare. We've got an exciting program and an exciting opportunity for people to improve their lives. So this is an educational forum. This is a chance not only to speak to the folks here, but to those who may be watching on TV about a really interesting opportunity for the seniors all around our country to really improve their lives by signing up for a new opportunity in Medicare. President Bush Discusses NSA Surveillance Program (May 11, 2006)
After September the 11th, I vowed to the American people that our government would do everything within the law to protect them against another terrorist attack. As part of this effort, I authorized the National Security Agency to intercept the international communications of people with known links to al Qaeda and related terrorist organizations. In other words, if al Qaeda or their associates are making calls into the United States or out of the United States, we want to know what they're saying. Click Here for Complete Text

Thanks for the warm welcome. This afternoon, we celebrate commencement in a stadium that is still under repair, near streets lined with temporary housing, in a region where too many lives have been shattered, and there has never been a more hopeful day to graduate in the state of Mississippi. President Bush Meets with Former Secretaries of State and Former Secretaries of Defense (May 12, 2006)
I've just completed a second meeting with former Secretaries of State and former Secretaries of Defense on Iraq. We also discussed the broader Middle East, as well. I want to thank you all very much for sharing your thoughts not only with me, but with the Vice President and Secretary Rice and Secretary Rumsfeld. It really means a lot to hear your thoughts and your concerns and your suggestions about the way forward in Iraq. We've had our disagreements in this country about whether or not we should be there in the first place. Click Here for Complete Text

Remarks by the President at Celebration of Asian Pacific American Heritage Month and Presentation of the President's Volunteer Service Awards (May 12, 2006)
Welcome to the White House: I like to call it the People's House. I'm glad you could join us today to celebrate Asian Pacific American Heritage Month. This is the month we recognize the many accomplishments of Americans who trace their origins to the Asian Pacific region, and we honor the contributions they make to our great land. Across our country, Asian Pacific Americans are making their mark in all walks of life, including business and law and politics and education, community service, the arts, and science. PRESIDENTIAL STATEMENTS

President Disappointed in Senate Failure to Pass Real Medical Liability Reform (May 8, 2006)
I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)
The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

PRESIDENTIAL LETTERS

Continuation of the National Emergency Blocking Property of Certain Persons and Prohibiting the Export of Certain Goods to Syria (May 8, 2006)
On May 11, 2004, pursuant to my authority under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701- 1706) and the Syria Accountability and Lebanese Sovereignty Restoration Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-175), I issued Executive Order 13338 in which I declared a national emergency authorizing the blocking of property of certain persons and prohibiting the exportation or reexportation of certain goods to Syria. On April 25, 2006, I issued Executive Order 13399 to expand the scope of this national emergency. Click Here for Complete Text .

Message to the Congress of the United States (May 8, 2006)
Section 202(d) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1622(d)) provides for the automatic termination of a national emergency unless, prior to the anniversary date of its declaration, the President publishes in the Federal Register and transmits to the Congress a notice stating that the emergency is to continue in effect beyond the anniversary date. In accordance with this provision, I have sent to the Federal Register for publication the enclosed notice, stating that the national emergency declared in Executive Order 13338 of May 11, 2004, and expanded in scope in Executive Order 13399 of April 25, 2006, authorizing the blocking of property of certain persons and prohibiting the exportation and reexportation of certain goods to Syria, is to continue in effect beyond May 11, 2006. PRESIDENTIAL REMARKS

President's Radio Address (May 6, 2006)
Good morning. Today I want to talk with you about the new Medicare prescription drug coverage that went into effect at the start of this year. Everyone on Medicare is eligible for this new coverage, but the enrollment deadline of May 15th is just over a week away. For those of you with Medicare who have not yet signed up, it is important for you to review your options and choose a plan. By enrolling before the deadline, you can ensure the lowest possible premiums and start saving on your prescription drug bills. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Delivers Commencement Address at Oklahoma State University (May 6, 2006)
Thank you all very much. President Schmidly, thank you. Members of the Oklahoma State faculty and administration, Governor, people in the Statehouse, members of the United States Congress, distinguished guests, parents, friends, family, and most important, the Class of 2006, thanks for the warm welcome to this great state, and to this fine campus. I'm honored to be here. Click Here for Complete Text

President Nominates General Michael Hayden as Director of the Central Intelligence Agency (May 8, 2006)
Good morning. Today I'm pleased to nominate General Mike Hayden as the next Director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Mike Hayden is supremely qualified for this position. I've come to know him well as our nation's first Deputy Director of National Intelligence. In that position, he's worked closely with our Director of National Intelligence, John Negroponte, to reform America's intelligence capabilities to meet the threats of a new century. President Discusses Peace Agreement in Sudan (May 8, 2006)
I want to thank Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice for joining me, and I also want to thank Deputy Secretary of State Bob Zoellick. He has just briefed me on his trip to Abuja, where he has played a very important role in setting up a peace agreement between the government of Sudan and a major rebel group in the Darfur region. Congratulations on a job well done, Bob. Thank you. Last week we saw the beginnings of hope for the people of Darfur. Click Here for Complete Text

Jeb and I just were briefed by the firefighters here about the dry conditions that are creating hazards for the people, and Kelley, I appreciate your briefing. He was in charge of putting out that fire yesterday that consumed 450 acres. They think it was caused by a spark out of one of the utility lines. I've always been impressed by those who are willing to get out and fight the fires, and save lives and save property. I'm surrounded by people who made a career out of that. And I want to thank them for their dedication to service, I want to thank them for the briefing about the threat we find ourselves in, we've got dry and windy conditions. President Bush Discusses Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit (May 9, 2006)

What I thought I would do is spend a little time talking about the new Medicare program. The reason I'm doing this, because I want people to sign up. And then I'll answer some questions if you have some. And then I'm going to go to Orlando and do the same thing tomorrow morning -- just like I did earlier in South Florida. And the reason why I'm doing this is because we have changed Medicare for the better, but sometimes change creates anxieties. In other words, people say, well, maybe I don't want to change. I kind of like it the way things are, but we have a duty to educate people and give them a chance to see what's available. And that's what I'm doing. That's what you want your President to do. President Bush and Health and Human Services Secretary Leavitt Make Remarks to the Travel Pool (May 9, 2006)
I want to thank you all for joining us. I'm proud to be here with Secretary Leavitt. We're traveling the country reminding people that there's a fantastic opportunity for our seniors, and that is Medicare now offers a prescription drug benefit that will save people a lot of money. We just visited with some of our citizens inside there, and they're talking about significant savings. And that's what we want; we want our seniors to be able to have modern medicine. So far a lot of seniors have signed up. It's coming down the stretch toward the May 15th deadline; we want everybody to sign up. We want people to understand that they're going to save a lot of money when it comes to prescription drugs. Click Here for Complete Text

Identity theft is a serious problem in America. I have just listened to the horror stories from fellow citizens who have had their identities stolen. I listened to their ideas about how the federal government can help in the response in not only dealing with those who commit the crime, but helping those who have been victimized. And I want to thank you all for joining us. Click Here for Complete Text

President Bush Participates in Conversation on Medicare Prescription Drug Benefit in Florida (May 10, 2006)
I'm here to talk about Medicare. We've got an exciting program and an exciting opportunity for people to improve their lives. So this is an educational forum. This is a chance not only to speak to the folks here, but to those who may be watching on TV about a really interesting opportunity for the seniors all around our country to really improve their lives by signing up for a new opportunity in Medicare. President Bush Discusses NSA Surveillance Program (May 11, 2006)
After September the 11th, I vowed to the American people that our government would do everything within the law to protect them against another terrorist attack. As part of this effort, I authorized the National Security Agency to intercept the international communications of people with known links to al Qaeda and related terrorist organizations. In other words, if al Qaeda or their associates are making calls into the United States or out of the United States, we want to know what they're saying. Click Here for Complete Text

Thanks for the warm welcome. This afternoon, we celebrate commencement in a stadium that is still under repair, near streets lined with temporary housing, in a region where too many lives have been shattered, and there has never been a more hopeful day to graduate in the state of Mississippi. President Bush Meets with Former Secretaries of State and Former Secretaries of Defense (May 12, 2006)

I've just completed a second meeting with former Secretaries of State and former Secretaries of Defense on Iraq. We also discussed the broader Middle East, as well. I want to thank you all very much for sharing your thoughts not only with me, but with the Vice President and Secretary Rice and Secretary Rumsfeld. It really means a lot to hear your thoughts and your concerns and your suggestions about the way forward in Iraq. We've had our disagreements in this country about whether or not we should be there in the first place. Click Here for Complete Text

Remarks by the President at Celebration of Asian Pacific American Heritage Month and Presentation of the President's Volunteer Service Awards (May 12, 2006)

Welcome to the White House. I like to call it the People's House. I'm glad you could join us today to celebrate Asian Pacific American Heritage Month. This is the month we recognize the many accomplishments of Americans who trace their origins to the Asian Pacific region, and we honor the contributions they make to our great land. Across our country, Asian Pacific Americans are making their mark in all walks of life, including business and law and politics and education, community service, the arts, and science. PRESIDENTIAL STATEMENTS

President Disappointed in Senate Failure to Pass Real Medical Liability Reform (May 8, 2006)

I am disappointed that the Senate has yet again failed to pass real medical liability reform legislation. Unwilling to take on their trial lawyer supporters, the Democrats led this effort to block these much-needed reforms. Junk lawsuits are driving too many good doctors out of medicine. Women in nearly 1,500 counties are without a single OB-GYN, and frivolous and abusive lawsuits are encouraging the use of defensive medicine, which imposes substantial and unnecessary costs on all Americans. This is a national problem that deserves a national solution. I have called on Congress to pass responsible medical liability reforms, and the House of Representatives has acted. It is time for the Senate to put the needs of the American people ahead of the interests of trial lawyers and pass meaningful medical liability reform legislation.

President Urges Senate to Pass Tax Cut Legislation (May 10, 2006)

The tax cuts we passed in recent years are working to fuel America's economic expansion. Our pro-growth policies have helped the economy create more than 5.2 million jobs since August of 2003, and last year our economy grew faster than that of any other major industrialized nation. By extending key Capital Gains and Dividends tax relief, the House has taken an important step to continue to help hard-working Americans and to keep our economy strong and growing. I appreciate the House Leadership and Chairman Bill Thomas for their hard work. I urge the Senate to vote swiftly so that I can sign this bill into law and put a stop to a massive tax hike that would be disastrous for small businesses, our economy, and all working Americans.

President Applauds Senate for Passing Tax Relief Legislation (May 11, 2006)
I applaud the Senate for passing important tax relief that will help keep our economy strong and growing. This legislation prevents an enormous tax hike that the American people do not want and would not welcome. The bill will extend policies that have helped our economy flourish. We have had 18 straight quarters of growth, including 4.8 percent growth in the last quarter, and the unemployment rate is 4.7 percent. I appreciate the Senate Leadership and Chairman Grassley for their hard work on behalf of American taxpayers and small businesses, and I look forward to signing this important legislation into law.

President and Mrs. Bush Saddened by Death of Sonny Montgomery (May 12, 2006)
Laura and I and the entire Bush family are saddened by the death of a good friend and patriot, Sonny Montgomery. Sonny Montgomery served during World War II and the Korean War, and he was a tireless advocate for America's veterans throughout his three decades in the House of Representatives. He sponsored the Montgomery GI Bill, which has helped make higher education and professional training accessible to millions of our veterans. In 2005, he was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the Nation's highest civil award, in recognition of his lifetime of service to the United States. We send our condolences and prayers to the Montgomery family.

PRESIDENTIAL LETTERS

Continuation of the National Emergency Blocking Property of Certain Persons and Prohibiting the Export of Certain Goods to Syria (May 8, 2006)
On May 11, 2004, pursuant to my authority under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701- 1706) and the Syria Accountability and Lebanese Sovereignty Restoration Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-175), I issued Executive Order 13338 in which I declared a national emergency authorizing the blocking of property of certain persons and prohibiting the exportation or reexportation of certain goods to Syria. On April 25, 2006, I issued Executive Order 13399 to expand the scope of this national emergency. Click Here for Complete Text

Message to the Congress of the United States (May 8, 2006)
Section 202(d) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1622(d)) provides for the automatic termination of a national emergency unless, prior to the anniversary date of its declaration, the President publishes in the Federal Register and transmits to the Congress a notice stating that the emergency is to continue in effect beyond the anniversary date. In accordance with this provision, I have sent to the Federal Register for publication the enclosed notice, stating that the national emergency declared in Executive Order 13338 of May 11, 2004, and expanded in scope in Executive Order 13399 of April 25, 2006, authorizing the blocking of property of certain persons and prohibiting the exportation and reexportation of certain goods to Syria, is to continue in effect beyond May 11, 2006. I think this should do it.

Neil M. Gorsuch
Nominee to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit

- Neil Gorsuch is a well-respected attorney and senior official in the Department of Justice who possesses extensive trial and appellate litigation experience in of a broad range of issues, including constitutional questions, commercial disputes, and criminal matters.
    - Mr. Gorsuch has been nominated to the Tenth Circuit, which hears appeals from the federal district courts of Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, New Mexico, Kansas and Oklahoma.
    - Mr. Gorsuch enjoys strong bipartisan support, particularly in Colorado.
- Mr. Gorsuch has a distinguished record as a practicing attorney, a public servant, and an intellectual.
    - In 2005, Mr. Gorsuch joined the Department of Justice as the Principal Deputy Associate Attorney General. In that capacity, Mr. Gorsuch assists in managing the Department's civil litigating components (antitrust, civil, civil rights, environment, and tax), as well as assisting in the development and implementation of a wide variety of civil justice initiatives and policies.
    - From 1995 to 2005, Mr. Gorsuch worked as an associate and partner at the law firm of Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd, Evans & Figel, PLLC, where he represented clients that included small corporations, Fortune 100 corporations, non-profit organizations, and individuals.
    - While in private practice, Mr. Gorsuch had a thriving litigation practice, and was involved in some very significant litigation, including what was believed to be the largest private antitrust damages award to stand on appeal—more than one billion dollars. He has tried several cases to verdict and briefed dozens of cases in the courts of appeals. The range of issues Mr. Gorsuch worked on included antitrust, breach of contract, securities litigation, breach of fiduciary duty and fraud, and shareholders rights.
    - Mr. Gorsuch is known for his outstanding intellect, keen analytical skills, writing skills, excellent courtroom skills, work ethic, and integrity. Clients, co-counsel, colleagues, judges, and opposing counsel all praised Mr. Gorsuch's nomination to the federal appellate bench.
    - Mr. Gorsuch has long been dedicated to pro bono service and improvement of the legal profession, most recently participating in the Department's pro bono legal clinic and representing the Department before various judicial and legal groups.
- Mr. Gorsuch has impeccable academic credentials and professional training.
    - He served as a law clerk for Justice Byron White (also assisting Justice Kennedy) and Judge David Sentelle of the United States Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit.

- He attended Harvard Law School as a Harry Truman Scholar and graduated with honors in 1991. He graduated with honors from Columbia University in 1988, where he was Phi Beta Kappa.

- Mr. Gorsuch attended Oxford University as a Marshall Scholar and received his Doctorate in Philosophy in 2004.

- Mr. Gorsuch has used his legal skills to assist clients on a pro bono and reduced fee basis.

  - Mr. Gorsuch represented Columbia Hospital for Women, the Council of Institutional Investors, and several individuals on issues ranging from breach of contract to shareholders rights to criminal investigations.

  - Mr. Gorsuch participated in the Harvard Prison Legal Assistance Project and the Harvard Defenders program while in law school and now participates in the Justice Department's legal aid clinic.

Breaking the impasse

May 13, 2006

President Bush selected a Coloradan with a familiar name to fill a vacancy on the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals: Denver native, conservative legal scholar and U.S. Justice Department official Neil Gorsuch.

Gorsuch, the son of Reagan administration EPA Administrator Anne Gorsuch Burford, is one of a couple dozen fresh judicial nominees expected to be introduced between now and Memorial Day. From what we know, Gorsuch appears well- qualified for the position, and should be an asset to the court - although we look forward to learning more.

Unfortunately, throughout Bush's tenure as president, it's been a gamble to guess how long a judicial pick will have to wait before the Senate acts. With every grueling judicial skirmish, a proposal Bush offered in 2002 to place judicial selections on a strict timetable looks more and more tempting.

Currently, there are 51 vacancies on the federal bench, and five of those seats have been open since 2000. Eighteen more judges have said they will resign or retire by the end of the year.

We don't mean to single out the Democrats for stalling, because Republican foot-dragging also blocked some of President Clinton's nominees. But Democrats have employed unprecedented levels of obstructionism. They have filibustered not one but more than a dozen appellate candidates who have the support of a majority of senators.

That is unacceptable.

It's also a disservice to the courts, which must rely heavily on retired judges to hear cases. And it cheats the nominees, whose lives are placed on hold during interminable partisan delays.

The solution offered by Bush could minimize future stalemates. Under his plan, whenever possible every federal judge would notify the president a year before retiring or resigning. Within 180 days, the president would nominate a successor. The Senate Judiciary Committee would have 90 days to vet the candidate, and a floor vote would take place within 90 days after that.

The idea is to have vacancies filled the instant seats become open.

Bush's plan would require the goodwill of judges, presidents and senators - which can be hard to find these days. But the deal would undermine no one's authority. The Senate could still reject any candidate.

That said, any such agreement that brings predictability and (dare we say) civility to the process would be a welcome relief from the petty bickering that now prevails.

Nick,

The attached judicial stats have been double checked. I also added the nomination from today. It's not official yet (Greg Frizzell- ND OK), but should be official by the end of the day.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Regards,

Susan

Judicial Talking Points

- Over the past five years, President Bush has appointed judges who clearly understand the role of a judge is to interpret the law, not to legislate from the bench. The President's standard for nomination is informed by the oath that each judge takes: to administer justice without respect to persons, and to do equal right to all. His nominees have sterling credentials and have met high standards of legal training, temperament, and judgment.

- As of June 7, 2006, the President has appointed 242 individuals to Article III federal courts (Supreme Court, Circuit, District, and the Court of International Trade). This represents more than one-quarter (28%) of the entire federal judiciary.

- If the 26 (10 circuit; 16 district) nominees pending in the Senate are confirmed, President Bush's appointment rate will be almost identical to President Clinton's and President Reagan's. (At the same time in their administrations, Clinton had appointed approximately 260 and Reagan 271.)

    - Six circuit court nominees are pending in committee: Jim Haynes (Fourth Circuit); Michael Wallace (Fifth Circuit); Bobby Shepherd (Eighth Circuit); Jerome Holmes (Tenth Circuit); Neil Gorsuch (Tenth Circuit); Kimberly Moore (Federal Circuit).
    - Four circuit court nominees are pending on the floor: Terrance Boyle (Fourth Circuit); William Myers (Ninth Circuit); N. Randy Smith (Ninth Circuit); Sandra Ikuta (Ninth Circuit).
    - Twelve district court nominees are pending in committee: Vanessa Lynne Bryant (District of Connecticut); Andrew J. Guilford (Central District of California); Virginia Baker (Central District of California); Philip Gutierrez (Central District California); Marcia Morales Howard (Middle District of Florida); Frances Tydingco-Gatewood (District of Guam); Daniel Jordan (Southern District of Mississippi); Leslie Southwick (Southern District of Mississippi); Frank Whitney (Western District of North Carolina); Gregory Frizzell (Northern District of Oklahoma); Gustavo Gelpi (District of Puerto Rico); Francisco Augusto Besosa (District of Puerto Rico).
    - Four district court nominees are pending on the floor: Thomas Ludington (Eastern District Michigan); Sean Cox (Eastern District of Michigan); Noel Lawrence Hillman (District of New Jersey); Peter Sheridan (District of New Jersey).

- President Bush has seen 87% of his nominees confirmed. At the same point in their Presidencies, President Clinton had 80% and President Reagan had 96%. President Bush 41 had 78% confirmed during his term.

- The White House is working diligently to fill all existing and anticipated circuit and district court vacancies—
    - Of the 21 Circuit Court vacancies, the President has made a choice in 18 of them. Ten are in the Senate, 8 are in clearance.
    - Of the 45 District Court vacancies, the President has made a choice in 31 of them. Sixteen are in the Senate, 15 are in clearance. Of the remaining 14 vacancies, we are currently awaiting recommendations from home state senators in 9 of them.
